AJRA action...

Brewster in early lead

Snyder cowboy Adam Brewster scored a 68 to take an early lead in the bareback event of the AJRA National Finals Rodeo here Tuesday night.

Brewster's score was the highest of the night as the rough stock was brought out for the first time. Russell Alford of Burleson scored a 61 to hold down second.

The week-long rodeo continues with performances nightly at 8. Shows tonight and Thursday will be preceded by a Sesquicentenial opening, scheduled to begin about 7:45.

Tickets for the rodeo are $6 for box seats or $4 for adults and $2 for children, general admission.

The AJRA has announced that arena and television announcer Bob Tallman will join television commentators Bobby Del Vecchio and Pam Menick as grand marshalls for Saturday's 1 p.m. parade. The association also noted that rodeo celebrities will be at Bar H Bar Western Wear and at Koda Kountry immediately following the parade for autographs.

While the young cowboys managed to stay aboard in the bareback and steer riding, the bulls clearly won out in Tuesday's final event, witnessed by an estimated crowd of 1,500.

Of eight bull riders, only Dan Worden of Cooper managed to stay on until the buzzer. He received a 60 for his effort.

Curtis Spain of Terrell led the 12-and-under age steer riders with a score of 64.

Olney's Jeff Hilton, who flashed some top times in the slack earlier this week, continued to impress fans Tuesday night. The 10-year-old set a time to beat of 14.88 in the second go-round of the 12-under barrels. He won the first-go with a 15.11.

Also turning in a top effort was Jamie Pierce of Crane, who flashed a 15.01 in the girls age 16-18 barrels.

Tuesday's best calf roper was Sulphur, Okla., cowboy Marty Yates, who clocked a 10.66 in the age 13-15 division. The best breakaway roping time so far for the rodeo has been a 2.49, posted

Bullock urges tax overhaul

AUSTIN (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock, who has no power to implement his tax overhaul plan, is making it clear he would be happy to help any lawmaker who would like to carry the plan for him.

The last page of Bullock's report entitled "Time of Change-Time of Choice," says, "Drafts of legislation to implement this plan are available on request" from the comptroller's office.

Gov. Mark White's press aide Ann Arnold said Tuesday that White agrees the state tax system needs complete review. But she also said White believes it's a job for the 1987 regular session of the Legislature, not the current special session.

Bullock's plan is keyed on steering the tax structure away from its reliance on oil and gas, and toward taxes on services.

"Large segments of the energy industry and related businesses are gone, and will never come back. Meanwhile, Texas' biggest and fastest-growing industry — services — is barely taxed at all," Bullock said in the report issued Tuesday.

Under the plan, almost all goods and services would be subject to the sales tax. Exemptions would remain for food for home consumption, prescription medicine, doctor bills, agricultural items, child care and educational and religious items.

The sales tax now does not cover any services, such as professional fees, auto repairs and haircuts.

Bullock said the sales tax rate, now 5⅛ percent, could be lowered if the base is expanded.

The comptroller's plan is the fourth one offered to lawmakers looking to solve the budget crisis. Bullock has predicted the state deficit will grow to $3.5 billion by September 1987 if changes are not made.

Gov. Mark White is pushing a plan that includes budget cuts and temporarily raising the sales tax rate to 5¼ percent until Sept. 1, 1987.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's plan includes cuts and a permanent increase in the sales tax to 5 percent.

Speaker Gib Lewis has vowed to block any tax hike.

Roger Mize day...

State officials in Snyder next week

Despite demands of the special legislative session, state officials indicated this week that their plans are to be in Snyder next Thursday for Roger Mize Day.

Texas Electric Manager Jack Smartt was in Austin Monday making final arrangements with the governor's staff, as well as with State Sen. Ray Farabee.

Smartt said indications from top state officials is that the special session should be no obstacle in attending the event which will honor Mize, Snyder banker and civic leader since 1957.

Tickets for the Aug. 21 Roger Mize Day, which are $6 each, are on sale at various locations in the community. The ticket is good for a joint-civic club barbecue to be held at noon Thursday at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Following the barbecue, a reception will be held in the Student Center at Western Texas College. At the reception, local community leaders interested in telling about the assets of Snyder and Scurry County, will have an opportunity to visit with top governmental officials.

A delegation of state officials--including Gov. White and Sen. Farabee--have announced that they will be present at the event. In addition to White and Farabee, there has been tentative indications that U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen--a long-time friend of Mize--will also be on hand.

Following the luncheon, there will be a reception held on the campus of Western Texas College.

Tickets are on sale at the chamber of commerce, city hall, Line and Line Oil Co., The Shack, West Texas State Bank, American State Bank, K-Bob's and the Senior Citizens Center.

Jack Denman, a member of the steering committee, said the purpose of the occasion is to honor Mize for his many years of efforts in the betterment of Snyder and Polk suit...

Defendants argue change of venue

Attorneys representing Scurry County and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce filed their formal reply Tuesday to a change of venue motion filed by Glen Polk last month asking that the trial of the wrongful death suit against the chamber and county be moved to another location.

On July 21, the Polk family filed a motion in the 132nd District Court asking that the trial be moved outside Scurry County due to the fact that "(there) exists in the county so great a prejudice against them (the Polks) that they cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial."

In support of that contention, the Polks also presented five sworn affidavits from Scurry County residents attesting to the prejudice.

In reply, defense attorneys argue in their answer that the five individuals presenting affidavits for the Polks could not possibly know but a small fraction of the 9,000 qualified jurors residing in the county, and therefore could not evaluate if an impartial jury could be selected.

In addition, the county and chamber presented affidavits from 14 individuals swearing that they had seen or heard no evidence of prejudice against the plaintiffs.

The defense also argues that venue for lawsuits against the county is established by state law and that the case against Scurry County cannot be moved.

Polk is seeking $2 million in damages from the chamber and county alleging negligence in connection with the Oct. 8, 1984 death of his 12-year-old son, Jeffery.

The son died of injuries sustained when he fell from the ceiling of the Scurry County Coliseum while rehearshals were underway for Whilagig, presented annually during White Buffalo Days.

District Judge Gene Dulaney has set an Aug. 29 hearing on the change of venue motion.

Pre-trial hearing is postponed

A pre-trial hearing scheduled for Thursday in the capital murder cases of Dorsie Johnson and Amanda Miles has been postponed until Sept 10.

According to District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, that delay was sought by defense attorneys who said they needed more time to prepare for the hearing.

The "voluntariness" of statements given by the defendants was to be the subject of the hearing.

A second pre-trial hearing in the cases originally scheduled for Sept. 3 remains on the court docket.

Johnson and Miles were indicted for capital murder in connection with the shooting of a clerk, Jack Huddleston, at the Snyder Allsup's store during the course of a robbery on March 23.

They are defended by court-appointed attorneys Pete Sheridan and Frank Conard of Sweetwater. Conard and Sheridan were appointed in July.

City's sales tax check takes dip

Snyder sales tax figures reported on business during June and reported prior to July 20 showed a substantial decline, according to figures released by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The city of Snyder received a check this week totaling $80,897--representing the city's one percent share of the sales tax.

Compared to the same period in 1985, the amount is down $25,315. However, for the year, Snyder figures reflect a net increase of 2.33 percent.

To date, Snyder has received sales tax rebates of $575,451 compared to $562,368 at the same time last year.

Snyder was one of the few cities in West Texas that has a gain for the year. Bullock's office says the decline statewide reflects the dramatic drop in oil prices.

In all last week, the State Comptroller mailed checks totaling $107.7 million. The monthly allocations were down less than half a percent statewide. Houston received the largest check, $17.3 million, but the state's largest city still shows a four percent decrease for the year.

Area cities showing a gain for the year, in addition to Snyder, are Brownwood, 4.8 percent; Hereford 1.6 percent, Roby, 5.04 percent; Jayton, 20.8 percent; and Colorado City 1.1 percent.

Cities showing a minus figure year to date are Andrews, 7.22 percent; Lamesa, 6.08 percent; Odessa 11.7 percent; Rotan, 1.19 percent; Seminole, 8.15 percent; Monahans 9.8 percent; Post .49 percent; Levelland, 19.8 percent; Big Spring 3.52 percent; Lubbock, .93 percent; Sweetwater, 2.57 percent, Abilene 3.67 percent.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Too often a word to the wise is just enough to start an agrument."

We don't know that anyone has tried counting the number of pickups and horse trailers in town, but they certainly dominate the scene here in Snyder as the AJRA is in full swing.

The rodeo, in its 11th year here, seems to get bigger and better. There are a host of folks to thank, but the driving force each year is Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller.

The Millers introduced the AJRA to Snyder, and the Borden County family has done its share to keep it here. Snyder merchants, motel owners, and restaurant owners will all tell you the AJRA is good for the Snyder economy.

We're all glad you're here.

Mickey Nunley, now a co-owner of Line and Line, was chamber of commerce manager the first year that the AJRA came to Snyder.

Nunley was determined that the chamber would help make the rodeo a success. Today, the chamber staff and AJRA committee continues to play a major role.

Three chamber managers later, nobody has ever put their body and soul into the rodeo the same way Nunley did. That first year, in order to help draw a big crowd, Nunley said he would ride a buffalo.

Over a decade later, there is debate as to whether Nunley ever rode the beast. Nunley was atop, for just a split second, before suffering a broken arm as he fell to the coliseum floor.

Times have changed since Nunley's "hay" day.

For example somone said if the government were to ask to have the paper clip invented today, it would probably have seven moving parts, two batteries, three transistors, and require service at least twice a year.

Will appoint

Research of laws pertaining to board vacancies revealed Tuesday that the WTC board must appoint a successor to Bill Jones, a charter member of the board who resigned Monday.

Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president, said that vacancies on the board had been filled by appointment on four previous occasions. The board has set no time table, but in the past the procedure has taken from one to four months.

Boosters meet

The Hermleigh Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the high school.

Class reunion

The event kicks off at noon that day and reservations--which cost $9 per person--will be accepted until Friday.

Graduates are urged to bring pictures, etc.

Reservations should be sent to Leighton Griffin, 2006 37th St., Apt. 10; Snyder, Texas, 79045.

Homecoming

An all-day homecoming is set at the community center in Polar on Aug. 17. There will be a covered-dish meal.

The usual singing on the Saturday night before homecoming has been discontinued.

Price of oil continues to rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil futures prices rose again, bolstered by technical factors, a bullish attitude in the market and indications that some OPEC nations are working to make the cartel's recent production cut agreement hold, analysts said.

Also affecting Tuesday's activity were reports that Iraq had bombed Iranian oil installations on Sirri Island, 350 miles south of Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal in the Persian Gulf, they said.

Since supplies of some Iranian oil would be removed from the market by the attack, some traders could have viewed it as a factor indicating higher future prices. More important, however, was the psychological impact of the attack on the market, said Peter Beutel, an analyst with Elder Futures Inc.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for September delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, closed at $15.35 per 42-gallon barrel, up 44 cents from Monday's $14.91 last price. September contracts for refined products were sharply higher.

Unleaded gasoline closed at 43.40 cents a gallon, up from 41.46 cents Monday, while heating oil closed at 42.25 cents a gallon, up from 40.94 cents.

Some analysts said Tuesday's trading was dominated by technical factors.

They noted that prices had stayed well above $14 during recent spells of selling, apparently leading many traders to believe that the near-term direction was upward on Tuesday.

As a result, much buying took place, only to ease in the afternoon, as traders sold contracts to profit from having bought them earlier at lower prices, analysts said.

William Byers, an analyst at Bear, Stearns & Co. also said there was a lot of short-covering in both contracts for September and later months. In a short sale, a trader sells borrowed oil, hoping to buy it back later at a lower price.

He also cited other factors behind the market's behavior.

"No matter what you think about the viability about the OPEC meeting, the news continues to be positive," he said. "Yesterday we saw Kuwait and Saudi Arabia taking steps to come into line with the accord, and seeing this, some people, who were skeptical a while ago, began coming into line now."

Last week, all 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to cut their production by a total 3 million barrels, using the cartel's 1984 quotes as a guide.

Many industry observers have questioned whether the agreement will hold, given the OPEC's long record of failures in that respect.

On Monday, however, the Petroleum Intelligence Weekly, a respected industry newsletter, reported that Saudi Arabia was indicating that it would not extend existing discounts for large purchases from September 1, when the OPEC agreement takes effect.

Quoting industry officials, PIW said that if this approach did not work, the kingdom would consider imposing a flat percentage reduction on the volumes of contracts.

Saudi Arabia is estimated to be producing about 6 million barrels a day now, and faces a new quota of 4.4 million barrels daily.

The newsletter also said Kuwait plans to cancel about 100,000 barrels daily of previously planned sales, while Qatar was planning a new pricing formula that would also discourage sales.

Kuwait, which had been producing an estimated 1.7 million barrels daily, now has a 900,000-barrel quota, while Qatar, which had been producing about 450,000 barrels daily, is limited to 280,000 barrels under the new agreement.

Shopper Complains Corn on The Cob Suffers Indecent Exposure

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Can you please help an immigrant understand the Americans?

In South America, I was offended by the disdain of rich shoppers who picked through the baskets of produce offered by poor peasants.

In England, I saw a sign over a bin of fruit placed there by the greengrocer lady: "Please don't pinch me until I'm yours!" (That seemed fair enough.)

I am grossed out by people in the produce department pulling back the husks on corn, looking for I don't know what. Why can't Americans handle ears of corn without disfiguring them? Who wants to buy another person's rejects? It is easy to tell by just hefting it whether an ear is well-formed and substantial. If, after I buy it, I find a worm residing in the tip of the ear, I rejoice that the corn had not been sprayed with poison. I simply cut off the part with the worm, and eat the rest.

So what do they expect to find when ripping nature's package? It's the same as peeling a banana in the supermarket to see whether it's fit to buy.

I don't want to ascribe thoughtless manners to people who are otherwise polite and kindly. Tell me, Abby, why do they do it, and what are they looking for?

PUZZLED IN CARMICHAEL, CALIF.

DEAR PUZZLED: Next time you see "them," bend their ear and inquire. And please let me know how "they" respond, as I am not one of "them."

DEAR ABBY: I thought you should know what one of your columns inspired last Valentine's Day. On the morning of Feb. 14, my phone rang. It was a classmate named Bob. (Imagine, still going to school at 78!) He said, "Betty, I just read Dear Abby's column, and she said, 'Be a sweetheart and call someone you love and say, "I love you." Make two or three calls. Who says you can't love more than one person — in different ways, of course,' so I'm calling you to say I love you, and I'm glad you are my friend."

That really touched me. I thanked him and told him how much I loved both him and his lovely wife.

After hanging up, I called another classmate, and told her how much I valued her many years of friendship. She thanked me and said it made her feel so good she was going to call a friend or two. She even called the teacher.

At school the following morning, the teacher asked how many had received a Valentine's Day call. Thirty hands went up! And it all began with an idea Bob got from you.

BETTY BARNETT, PERENNIAL STUDENT

DEAR BETTY: An idea is only an idea until somebody puts it into action. Your classmates started the ball rolling.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter signed, "Thinking It Over," written by an American college girl who was offered a nice sum of money to marry a foreign man — in name only. It's people like her who make it difficult for people like me.

I am an American woman married to a Filipino man whom I am petitioning to have here in the United States on a permanent visa. My husband and I had to go through immigration interviews that sounded like the third degree.

We had to bring wedding photos and we had to answer questions separately such as, "What side of the bed do you sleep on?" "What distinctive birthmarks does your spouse have?" "And what color is the shower curtain in your bathroom?" It has been a very humiliating procedure.

Abby, please give us Americans who married immigrants out of love a break! I proudly use my husband's name. I am ...

LINDA TANESCO

DEAR LINDA: I was under the impression that people living in the land of the free and the home of the brave were presumed to be innocent until proved guilty. But as long as our immigration laws are being abused, it would seem necessary that such questions must be asked.

Tax fighter Howard Jarvis is dead at the age of 82

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Howard Jarvis, the acerbic conservative whose Proposition 13 slashed billions of dollars in California property taxes and sparked similar revolts around the country, has died at age 82.

Jarvis died Tuesday night at Midway Hospital, where he had been admitted Aug. 5 for a blood disorder, said Joel Fox, executive director of the California Tax Reduction Movement.

Born Sept. 22, 1903, the son of a Utah Supreme Court justice, Jarvis was an unsuccessful political candidate and tax-cut advocate until 1978, when Proposition 13 won by a landslide in California, cutting $7 billion in property taxes.

Although Proposition 13's success sparked revolts by middle-class taxpayers in many other states, the national tax rebellion he had envisioned never materialized.

"We had the entire bureaucracy to fight," Gann said from his Sacramento-area home. "In trying to pass Proposition 13, they turned all the big guns on us.

"When we were together in a debate, it was a thrill. The man was tremendous under pressure. I always felt comfortable debating any two people with him at my side."

Jarvis, a retired businessman, often shocked his critics with his acid tongue, often sprinkling his language with four-letter words and labeling politicians "popcorn-ball legislators" and "marinated bureaucrats."

After the 1978 landslide, Jarvis became a folk hero of sorts, even getting a bit part in the 1980 hit comedy movie "Airplane."

Telescoping four into three

By James Jacoby

South had a tough decision after East had opened with four hearts. Anything could be right, but four spades seemed the best choice. With three hearts in his own hand, and at least seven hearts with East for his pre-empt, it was likely that North would hold spade support and be short in hearts.

When dummy came down, declarer felt comfortable until he won the club ace and played a high spade. When East showed out, declarer suddenly had four losers. Still, he had to play on. West's failure to make an opening lead of a heart suggested that he had none, so perhaps there could be an elimination play. South left West holding the Q-7 of spades and played the king of clubs and another. When East showed out on the third club, South let a diamond go as West won the trick. West played a diamond and declarer won the ace and king, and was now able to ruff the third diamond. Only now did South play the king and another spade, locking West in with the lead. Whatever minor suit card West led would enable declarer to discard a heart from dummy and ruff in his hand, making the contract.

Suppose South had doubled four hearts. North would probably have bid four spades but would have had no chance to make it, since East would start by taking two heart tricks.

Reagan warns: vote Republican

CHICAGO (AP) — President Reagan says Illinois voters should "vote Republican" instead of supporting a Democratic ticket that includes allies of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche.

Reagan, who saved half the questions at his national news conference for local reporters, was asked Tuesday night what he thought of LaRouche and his group's victories in the Illinois Democratic primary last March.

Substance less clear...

Federal farm help symbolic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twice in the past three weeks, President Reagan has taken trips designed to demonstrate his concern for farmers, a group largely missing out on economic recovery and viewed as pivotal in this fall's elections.

The trips have been heavy with symbolism: awarding ribbons to junior livestock award winners in Illinois on Tuesday while talking in glowing terms of the bright future ahead for agriculture, and watching bales of donated hay unloaded for farmers in parched South Carolina last month.

Along with the gestures have come kind words, praising farmers' contributions to the U.S. economy and promising "unshakable" government support to ease them through the hardest times since the Depression.

The most dramatic move, Reagan's approval on Aug. 1 of subsidized wheat sales to the Soviet Union, demonstrated if nothing else the depth of the president's concern about potential farm-state political problems.

It was extraordinary because Reagan had long resisted any gesture that could appear to be aiding an adversary he has long condemned. In Chicago on Tuesday, the president defended the move by saying, "We didn't do it for the Soviet Union. We did it for our farmers."

While it has provoked loud protests from grain-exporting U.S. allies, subsidizing the 4 million tons of grain will have little effect on American surpluses, however. That amount represents less than half the estimated production of Kansas this year. The subsidies needed to sell it have been estimated at $52 million.

The driving force behind the Soviet sale was Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., who sees a danger that the GOP could lose its slim 53-47 margin in the Senate this fall. Several of the most endangered Republicans up for re-election this year are from grain-belt states.

Reagan also has tried to appear generous to farmers in the drought-plagued Southeast. After a campaign foray into South Carolina on July 24, Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng announced the administration would set up a hot line to give farmers in the region information about available help.

Following criticism that the administration wasn't doing enough to help, another drought aid package was announced. But congressional Democrats complained that the biggest item in the package wasn't drought aid at all, and would go mostly to non-drought states.

Tuesday's announcement at the state fair in Springfield, Ill., was an attempt to demonstrate concern about a third problem facing farmers: the lack of storage space to house a bumper grain crop. The coming corn harvest was estimated Tuesday at 8.32 billion bushels, the second largest on record.

Reagan said farmers would be offered regular price-support loans for their crops to prevent them from selling at distress prices at harvest time. The White House, in an apparent effort to highlight the offer, said the gesture was being done "for the first time ever." But department officials said similar loans have been made in the past during times of bumper harvests and tight storage.

House considers nixing nerve gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is considering proposals opposing President Reagan's plans to build nerve gas bombs and test anti-satellite weapons after handing the president two other defeats on national security issues.

Fights over chemical weapons and the Air Force anti-satellite (ASAT) weapon topped the House agenda today as the Democratic-controlled chamber works it way through a bill authorizing the Pentagon budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

The bans on the "Bigeye" nerve gas bomb and ASAT tests are opposed by the White House but supported by House Democratic leaders.

In votes Tuesday night that were generally along party lines, the House:

—Voted 239-176 approval of a "Star Wars" budget of about $3.1 billion, essentially freezing it at the current level with only a small inflation increase. Reagan wanted $5.3 billion.

—Voted 225-186 to ban spending money on any nuclear weapons which would put U.S. arsenals above the limits in the SALT II pact, the treaty Reagan says he no longer will observe.

In addition, the House had decided last week to ban any tests of U.S. nuclear weapons in an effort to spur U.S.-Soviet attempts to negotiate a test ban treaty. The White House is against such a ban.

All three positions are different from those taken by the Republican-controlled Senate, which approved its own Pentagon budget bill last week. The two chambers will appoint a conference committee next month to work out the differences.

Overall, Reagan sought $320 billion compared with the current $286 billion defense budget, but the Senate cut that to $295 billion and the House bill proposes $292 billion.

The decision on Star Wars, known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative, came after the House rejected three other budgets proposed for the program in which Reagan wants to develop a high-tech shield against Soviet missile attack.

During the three hours of debate, supporters of the White House argued that the Star Wars plan simply lets the United States compete with Soviet anti-missile research. But opponents called it a waste of money and a useless search for an impossible dream.

First, the House rejected, 324-94, a proposed amendment to approve Reagan's full $5.3 billion Star Wars budget and then turned down, 302-114, an attempt to slash the figure to $1 billion. It also voted 218-196 against a $3.6 billion budget.

Soviet domestic problems bode well for summit talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says problems gripping the Soviet Union bolster chances that Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev will be interested in making progress at the next superpower summit.

Reagan, who flew home from Chicago late Tuesday after a rare, out-of-town news conference, also expressed interest in South Africa President's P.W. Botha's offer for limited talks with Western allies and neighboring countries.

He said such a meeting might determine "if we couldn't bring about some coming together of these responsible leaders of the black community" in South Africa.

Fielding a wide array of questions from White House and Chicago reporters, Reagan defended his call for voluntary drug tests as a step that poses no threat of punishment or job loss for drug users.

And, he said the United States has believed many times that the release of the American hostages in Lebanon was imminent, only to have hopes dashed. "We've had some broken hearts," the president added.

The news conference came as a top-level team of American negotiators flew home from two days of talks in the Soviet Union on key arms control issues.

While saying he had not received any report from his negotiators, Reagan said he was hopeful about a summit.

"Yes, I am optimistic," Reagan said. "And I'm optimistic that we're going to make more progress than probably has been made in a number of years because of some of the problems that are concerning the general secretary at this time."

He did not elaborate. Gorbachev has been struggling with a faltering economy and the political and environmental damage from the world's worst nuclear accident, at Chernobyl.

Discussing South Africa, Reagan said "some of the most prominent of the black leaders" are "all solidly opposed to sanctions" designed to punish the white-minority government for its system of racial segregation, known as apartheid.

He said the one group in South Africa that supports imposition of sanctions — the outlawed African National Congress — was "the most radical" and had been infiltrated by the Communist Party.

At the same time, Reagan said he did not mean to suggest that only radical groups want sanctions to be imposed. In particular, he exempted Bishop Desmond Tutu, the black South African cleric who won the Nobel Peace Prize and has been outspoken in his criticism of Reagan's policy toward South Africa.

On other subjects at his news conference, Reagan:

—Said Secretary of State George Shultz "has mellowed considerably" since being outspoken in his criticism of the president's decision on Aug. 1 to subsidize wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Senate GOP seeks to block filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Senate leaders are moving to choke off debate and force a final vote on President Reagan's proposed $100 million in aid for Nicaraguan Contra rebels after thwarting Democratic attempts to kill or limit the proposal.

Pressing to finish work on the aid package, the GOP leaders have scheduled a vote today to limit debate on Contra aid — a motion that requires the support of 60 out of the Senate's 100 members.

To improve chances for the cloture motion that would block a threatened Democratic filibuster, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., has linked the Contra vote to a similar motion to force action on sanctions against South Africa's white-minority government.

Under unusual rules, the Senate planned consecutive cloture votes on Contra aid and South African sanctions with the provision that debate will be cut off on South Africa only if it is also stopped on Nicaragua. If the dual cloture motions fail, debate on both issues could continue, possibly delaying the Senate's end-of-summer recess set to begin Friday.

In votes Tuesday night, the Senate defeated a string of Democratic attempts to delete or limit aid to the Contras fighting to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist government.

On the key test vote, the Senate defeated a proposal to kill Reagan's aid package, 54-46, and later rejected two amendments by 51-47 votes that would have barred funneling other secret CIA aid to the Contras or using the aid for attacks "directed against civilians."

Volunteers resigning in protest

STAMFORD, Texas (AP) — Ten Stamford volunteer firefighters, with uniforms and boots in hand, announced their resignation after City Council members stood firm on their decision to fire the town's paid firefighters.

The council called Tuesday night's meeting to discuss dissolving the paid fire department and firing of its four employees due to the city's budget crunch.

During the meeting, the volunteers told the mayor and City Council that 14 of the 15 members of the department decided months ago they would resign if the council decided to make the fire department entirely volunteer.

But as of Tuesday night, the council said the four paid employees would be out of a job as of Jan. 1.

Man said guilty of bribery

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A former federal police commander was sentenced to four years in prison for taking a $300,000 bribe so a reputed drug kingpin accused in a U.S. drug agent's murder could flee aboard a private jet despite pleas from American officials to detain him.

First District Judge Oscar Vazquez Marin in Guadalajara found Armando Pavon Reyes guilty of bribery on Tuesday, the government news agency Notimex said. The judge also assessed Pavon Reyes a $475 fine and said an additional 10 months in prison would be added to his sentence if the fine is not paid.

Pavon Reyes was federal judicial police commander in Guadalajara, 322 miles west of Mexico City, when U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agent Enrique Camarena Salazar was abducted by gunmen within sight of the U.S. Consulate in Guadalajara on Feb. 7, 1985.

Camarena's badly beaten body was found March 5 buried in a plastic bag on a ranch 60 miles southeast of Guadalajara, along with the body of a Mexican pilot who worked with him and who had been kidnapped the same day elsewhere in Guadalajara.

According to Notimex, the judge said the sentence was warranted by the government's evidence. It also quoted Pavon Reyes as saying he is innocent and a victim of a political judgment. Defense attorney Maximino Cortez said he will appeal.

Pavon Reyes was accused of allowing reputed drug baron Rafael Caro Quintero to leave Guadalajara on Feb. 9, 1985, aboard a private jet apparently bound for Sonora state.

DEA agents at the airport said Caro Quintero gave Pavon Reyes a farewell embrace while surrounded by a score of bodyguards. The DEA agents said they pleaded unsuccessfully with Mexican authorities to detain the reputed drug trafficker.

Robertson will stress law degree, work as economist

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Pat Robertson says he thinks Americans have an antipathy to the involvement of the clergy in politics and he would campaign for president as a lawyer, economist and "Christian businessman."

At a dinner with reporters Tuesday, Robertson said that for any candidate "to stand up and say, quote, I am God's candidate, is inappropriate."

The television evangelist parried several questions about his views of the mixture of religion and politics and also made a straight political claim of victory in the recent election of precinct delegates in Michigan.

Speaking to a group of reporters, Robertson held up a pamphlet distributed in Michigan by supporters of Vice President George Bush that was headlined, "Help Keep Religion Out of Politics," and said such material "does create something of a negative."

Robertson has said he is waiting for God to tell him whether to run for president. Asked about people who say they are running because they were told by God to enter politics, Robertson said, "I don't think we should invest any candidate with the mantle of God."

He said, "There is an antipathy of the American people to the involvement of clergy in politics, especially for clergy to tell people how to vote.

"How will I address that?"

Robertson said he would point out that he has a law degree, is "a passable economist" and is the son of a former senator from Virginia, A. Willis Robertson.

"Yes, I have a degree in theology," he said.

It turns water into great-tasting coffee.

For less money.

Now great coffee flavor costs less. Thanks to "Custom Roasting," a new coffee roasting process, you can get terrific coffee flavor at a lower coffee price.

You see, Custom Roasting intensifies the flavor of coffee beans. It also expands the beans more than conventional roasting methods, so there is more coffee surface area to interact with the water in your coffee maker.

Since you get more flavor from each bean, you use less coffee to get the taste you love. And that saves you money.

To help you save even more, here's a special offer. Just redeem the coupon below and you'll get 40¢ off your next purchase of new Maryland Club Custom Roast Coffee.

The good news is you save money on coffee. The bad news is you still have to pay for the water.

$1 million a year...

Walker becomes highest paid Poke - ever

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Running back Herschel Walker became the highest-paid player in Dallas Cowboys' history today when he reached agreement on a multi-year contract that will pay him nearly $1 million annually.

Walker, 24, the 1982 Heisman Trophy winner who set a professional football rushing record for one season, signed a contract at dawn with the Cowboys after an all-night bargaining session between agent Peter Johnson and club President Tex Schramm.

Walker, who said he was eager to get his NFL career started, planned to fly to New Jersey to wrap up personal business before returning to training camp on Friday. Team officials said he would be in uniform for Saturday night's preseason game against the Los Angeles Raiders, but would not play.

Perhaps the best-known star of the struggling USFL, Walker earlier said he didn't feel he would have any problems playing in the same backfield with running back Tony Dorsett, the NFL's third all-time leading rusher.

"It would be an honor to play with him because Tony has a lot of class," Walker said earlier.

Dorsett returned the compliment, saying, "This is a dream come true. This could be the best backfield of all time."

However, Dorsett had said earlier that he expected his salary to increase from its $450,000 annual level if Walker joined the Cowboys. Quarterback Danny White is the Cowboys' best-paid player at $650,000 a season.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said, "Nobody has ever had two superstars like this in the same backfield. I'm real excited. The best way to extend my career is to get a great player like Herschel."

"I am very, very pleased. This is one of the biggest steps in the history of our franchise," Schramm said. "It will be a major step in insuring our future."

Walker recently was released from a personal services contract by Generals' owner Donald Trump, who took the action after the USFL decided to delay further play until at least the fall of 1987.

Cowboys sign three from USFL

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys of the NFL signed three USFL players, including two wide receivers, on Tuesday.

They are Jerry Parrish, a wide receiver and kick returner who played with Orlando; Perry Kemp, a wide receiver who played with Jacksonville; and Jeff Spek, a tight end who played with the New Jersey Generals.

Baker just ready to play for Tech

ODESSA, Texas (AP) - Defensive lineman. Linebacker. Center.

When Texas Tech University signed Troy Baker to a football scholarship in February, Red Raider coaches envisioned him helping their program in one of those three areas.

Two-a-day workouts get under way this week in Lubbock, and they soon will decide which of the positions suits him best. But the former Odessa Permian defensive end said he has no preference about the role he'll play for his new squad - even if it's on the offensive line, where he has seen nary a down of action.

"It wouldn't be bad," he said. "If I couldn't handle the position, I'm sure they'd switch me back to a position I could play ... wherever I can help the team most."

Nor does Baker care if he must bide his time before receiving a chance to contribute - which ordinarily is the case for most incoming freshmen and likely will be the same for Baker and several members of Tech's '86 recruiting class.

"I don't mind waiting my turn to play," said the 18-year-old Baker. "When it's my time to play, I want to make the best of it. A redshirt year would be fine with me. That extra year sure would help."

Baker, an All-District 4-5A selection last fall as the end opposite fellow senior and all-state choice Jerry LeClair, said the outing gave him an opportunity to prepare for the new surroundings he'll encounter at Tech.

"I'm going to go out there and play it just like any other game. I'm going to go out there and hit. I feel like these 10 days are going to benefit me in getting ahead when we start two-a-days," he said.

Williams optimistic about 1986 Raiders

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Victory has been eluding the Texas Tech football squad for years but now they've got a new coach who's experienced, has a good track record and is, well, cautiously optimistic about finally grabbing the golden ring.

David McWilliams, a 15-year coaching veteran at Texas, thinks his Red Raiders may even have a chance at the Cotton Bowl. Just maybe.

"Barring injuries and coaches, if I don't mess them up, if I don't get them confused," the Raiders may yet go to the Cotton Bowl, which Tech hasn't played since 1939. "I don't know. You say things and people think you're nutty. I want to face reality."

Former Raiders Coach Jerry Moore faced reality when he was fired before the season was over last December after accumulating a 16-32-2 record during his five years at Tech. The Raiders, who finished the season 4-7 overall and 1-7 in the Southwest Conference, dedicated their last game to their coach. They lost to Houston 17-16.

McWilliams, whose eight years as defense coordinator at Texas produced two All-America defensive players and six consensus All-SWC choices, is zeroing in on that one- and two-point, fourth-quarter losing theme.

The Raiders lost four SWC games last season by a total of six points. Most of the slips into defeat happened in the last 1½ minutes. McWilliams set up a period during spring training to look into that problem.

"We called it a turnover period. Kind of a fourth-quarter drill," to discover if there was a recurring problem, he said.

They looked at films, talked it over and came up with a few ideas.

"It wasn't the same thing every time. Maybe the only recurring thing is that it always seemed to be later in the game," he said. "It's concentration. You have to play every play in every game."

The game plan now is to be prepared for any fourth-quarter surprise plays and avoid demoralizing, last-minute losses, he said.

"We're not going to 'what-if' ourselves to death," he said. "But we can make sure that as a staff we don't leave any stone unturned.

"At least if you have a plan and are prepared, you've got something your team can sink their teeth into. It gives them encouragement in that they see we were ready and were prepared and we gave them a chance."

The Raiders' first chance to show changes under their new coach will come Sept. 6, when

Roster limit may be boosted

NEW YORK (AP) - NFL owners, who limited their rosters to 45 players last season in an economy move, may be ready to expand them to 49 again to accomodate the influx of players from the dormant USFL.

"It would be a good public relations move, it will create 112 more jobs," says Cleveland Browns owner Art Modell, who will push for the expansion when NFL owners meet today.

The meeting this afternoon at the Marriott Marquis Hotel is the regular spring meeting that was postponed while the United States Football League's antitrust suit against the National Football League was taking place.

Now that the USFL has been awarded just $3 in penalties and decided to hold off playing this year in hopes of a legal decision in its favor, the main order of business may be how to provide jobs for some of the younger league's refugees.

Randy Allen...

Wood successor under gun

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) - Brownwood football coach Randy Allen asked superintendent James Lancaster how he'd feel if the Lions didn't win in 1986.

"He told me, 'Sure I'll love you, and I'll miss you, too,'" Allen said.

Lancaster was kidding, of course, but there will be few football coaches in Texas feeling the pressure as much as Allen.

He's succeeding the legendary Gordon Wood.

At Brownwoood, Wood won seven state championships and retired with 405 victories - the most of any football coach in America.

Allen coached at Ballinger, where he won four district championships in five years and had a record of 44-15-2.

"The pressure following Coach Wood is there," said Allen, whose team began fall workouts Monday. "There's no doubt about it, everybody is talking about it. Brownwood supports and understands the value of football, but they do have high standards.

"My main concern is what God wanted from me. I don't think I'd be here if God didn't want me here. If I was looking at the circumstances and not the Lord, then I would be scared," he told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Allen, a Southern Methodist graduate, played at Abilene Cooper under Merill Green. When Green moved to Bryan, Allen was as an assistant there.

Green said he has no doubts Allen will be able to handle any pressure he feels at Brownwood.

"I felt Randy had a tougher job at Ballinger," Green said. "That was once one of the top programs in the state, but it had been down for a while, and the people there were living in the past."

Allen's first priority is the players.

They grew up dreaming about playing for Wood, anxiously awaiting the day they could put on the maroon jersey. Now Wood is retired and those players are coached by a man they probably had never heard of before Christmas.

"The players are the ones it was important that I develop a real solid relationship with, and they've been very receptive," Allen said. "Our primary concern is getting the players to play up to their potential and have fun. As long as you can keep your players' confidence and keep them playing hard, that's what counts."

When Allen applied for the job at Brownwood, one of the things that impressed him was the players.

"Our players are high-achievers; they're very confident in their ability," Allen said. "The youngsters in this town are excited to be Brownwood Lions. Anywhere football is important, that's where a coach likes to be."

Off the field, Allen is quiet and low key, hardly ever raising his voice. On the practice field, he becomes active and intense, constantly shouting encouragement to his players, jumping in where needed, even going so far as to play defensive back covering his receivers.

"I like the tempo of our practices to be pretty high-pitched," Allen said. "I like to be organized, and I like to get a lot done in a short period of time."

Ends offer mixture of experience, youth

Snyder's defensive ends offer a mixture of tested veteranship and rookie youth, but defensive coordinator Kevin Wiseman feels the area will be stronger than in the past.

Wiseman talked about the players working out for the position this morning.

"Right now we're doing a lot of repetition, a lot of teaching, letting the kids know where to go and how to do it," he said.

Lending strength to the group is returning all-district player Trey Tippens, a 6-5, 205-pounder. Tippens is working at the left end spot, along with Steven Mack and Benny Miller. At the right end are Cotton Merritt, Alan Holt and Darren Clawson.

"All of these guys are working hard," said Wiseman. "Of course Trey is kind of like our anchor. He was all-district. We lost a little experience when we decided to move Chris (Chris Garrett) to linebacker, but we have a little more quickness with these players."

Mack played a backup role for the varsity last year while Merritt and Holt were relief players in the defensive secondary. Clawson comes from the junior varsity, where he also played in the secondary.

"We're young and not real big but they are good kids. I look for our ends to be the best they've been since we've been here," said the coach.

Cincinnati Reds plan tribute but Perez may not retire

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Reds have designated a special day to honor Tony Perez on his retirement - a decision the 44-year-old veteran says he hasn't made.

Perez said a newspaper report Tuesday that he has decided to quit was premature.

"It's a little early to think about retiring, when we've got 50-some games left," Perez said. "It might happen. I'm thinking about it."

However, the Reds' front office was anticipating a retirement announcement from Perez before the end of the season, and his statements in a Cincinnati Post story earlier Tuesday set in motion plans for a tribute for Perez on Oct. 4, when the Reds play San Diego at home.

The salute to Perez was announced in a news release distributed during the Reds' 2-1 loss Tuesday night to San Francisco. The release said Perez had announced his retirement. Perez, playing first base, was stunned to see it on the scoreboard.

"I didn't announce anything. It was a complete surprise to me," Perez said.

General Manager Bill Bergesch met with Perez after the game and apologized for any embarrassment the team's announcement caused. Bergesch said he'd read the story in the Post, assumed it was Perez's retirement announcement, and set in motion plans for the Oct. 4 tribute without talking to Perez.

Varsity girls named; group is determined

Coach Vicki Nelms has chosen this season's varsity Snyder Tiger volleyball team and it will be a senior-oriented group.

Heading the list will be seven returning varsity players - Allison Adams, Shondra Robinson, Leslie Ward, Sharnette Thompson, Donna Clay, Stacy Dunk and Tammy Williamson. All seven are seniors.

Joining them will be seniors Carrie Fortune, Monica Hinojos and Julie Williams, juniors Becky Becerra, Paula Caldwell and Denise Overton, and sophomore Melody Pickering.

"We're lacking experience, for sure," said Coach Nelms of the team, which graduated four of six starters. "But the determination of these kids will make up for a lot of our inexperience. We're going to make mistakes but I think these girls will jell pretty quickly as a unit."

Coach Patty Grimmett works with the junior varsity team.

"I think we'll have a pretty good junior varsity team," said Grimmett. "We'll be fairly tall (several girls are 5-7, 5-8) and we've got some good hitters and several good setters."

Carlton back already but Tigers don't care

by The Associated Press

It will be one more try - at least - for Steve Carlton, who cares too much for the sport he has often held at arm's length.

"I love the game, it's a simple as that," said Carlton, now of the Chicago White Sox, after suffering a three-inning, six-run beating from the Detroit Tigers, who won Tuesday's game 7-3.

"The two times I was out, I learned I missed the beauty of this game," he said. "You don't realize how much I miss it. It would be difficult to walk away from the game."

Carlton was signed Tuesday afternoon, and a few hours later - wearing No. 37 - he was on the mound at Tiger Stadium, after a one-week retirement.

It wasn't pretty. Mike Heath and Chet Lemon homered, Detroit had seven hits and Carlton left after three innings trailing 6-0.

He took the loss in his American League debut.

"I would like to continue to pitch to a high degree and continue winning," Carlton said. "I'll stay in as long as I can pitch. There's a lot of ways to get guys out."

Carlton has now pitched for three teams in six weeks. He said he will play for all 26 teams if it comes to that, as long he feels he can still pitch.

Detroit gained a game and a half on the Boston Red Sox, who lost a doubleheader to the Kansas City Royals, 5-1 and 6-5. New York beat Cleveland 6-4, Toronto blanked Baltimore 3-0, Milwaukee beat Texas 7-2, Oakland beat Seattle 3-2 in 10 innings, and California beat Minnesota 5-4 in 12 innings.

Royals 5, Red Sox 1
Royals 6, Red Sox 5

Kansas City's Frank White's three-run double and Darryl Motley's two-run double won the opener, then Jorge Orta hit a two-run homer in a three-run sixth inning that won the nightcap and completed a sweep of Boston.

Kansas City has put together a three-game winning streak for the first time since mid-June.

Yankees 6, Indians 4

Solo homers by Rickey Henderson, Don Mattingly and Mike Easler powered the Yankees to within 3½ games of first with a win over Cleveland. Hendersonnled off the Yankees' first inning with his 21st homer of the season, the sixth time he has started a game with a home run. One out later, Mattingly homered, also his 21st.

Blue Jays 3, Orioles 0

Jesse Barfield hit his AL-leading 29th homer and drove in all three of Toronto's runs. Jim Clancy, 13-6, pitched a four-hitter and did not walk a Baltimore batter.

The Orioles lost for the sixth time in seven games.

Angels 5, Twins 4

California's Doug DeCinces singled over a five-man infield with the bases loaded in the 12th inning to lift the Angels over Minnesota. An outfielder moved in as an extra infielder, but DeCinces lined a single into short center field.

Reliever Ron Davis, 2-6, loaded the bases before Roy Lee Jackson gave up the winning single.

Wally Joyner, who had one of the 12th-inning singles, also had three errors - two in the ninth, when the Twins tied the score. He was not initially charged with one of them, but requested it be switched from Dick Schofield to him after the game.

California gained a game on the Rangers and now lead the AL West by three games.

A's 3, Mariners 2

Mike Davis, who was almost taken out of the game after he hurt his ankle in the eighth inning, led off the bottom of the 10th with a game-winning homer.

Davis hurt himself running out a grounder to first. "When I went out there, I thought he was gone," said Oakland Manager Tony LaRussa. But Davis stayed in and eventually made a winner of Jay Howell, 2-4.

Thompson transfers to play for Dusters

Lisa Lynn Thompson, a transfer from Tyler Junior College, will lend experience and 6-foot size to the Western Texas College Dusters this season.

Thompson averaged 19 points, 10 rebounds and three assists while playing for Hudson High School where she earned Most Valuable Player honors her senior year.

LISA LYNN THOMPSON

"Lisa is a post player who wanted to come into a program that was disciplined and one that was strong. She has high aspirations to play Division I ball," said Duster coach Kelly Chadwick. "She started the last seven games for Tyler last year and they had a good team. I expect big contributions from Lisa. She can play either post or the perimeter."

Thompson, an all-around athlete, has been to four national tournaments in summer softball. She was a four-year letterman in basketball at Hudson under Coach Ronnie Lusk and was a three-time all-district choice. A member of the National Honor Society, she graduated with a 93 average. She was president of the local Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the student council.

She plans to major in physical education and to one day coach basketball.

Ryan celebrates his return by shutting out Los Angeles

by The Associated Press

While there were no visions of a no-hitter dancing in Nolan Ryan's head, the celebration of his return from the disabled list had the Los Angeles Dodgers shaking theirs.

Ryan, the all-time major league leader with five no-hitters, pitched 5 1-3 innings of hitless ball Tuesday night as the Astros blanked the Dodgers 3-0. But the 39-year-old Ryan, who left after six innings with a two-hitter, wouldn't have had the opportunity to add to his no-hitter list regardless.

It was predetermined that Ryan would throw no more than 100 pitches in his first start since since July 27.

"He was coming out regardless, I need him in September," said Manager Hal Lanier, who permitted Ryan to throw 99 pitches.

Ryan's feat, which included six strikeouts to bring his all-time major- league-leading total to 4,215, was amazing in the eyes of Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda.

"Go ask him what his secret is and come back and tell me," Lasorda said when asked how a pitcher Ryan's age nursing a sore elbow can continue to throw extremely hard.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Philadelphia 3, New York 1; San Francisco 2, Cincinnati 1; San Diego 4, Atlanta 3; Montreal 10, St. Louis 3, and Chicago 3, Pittsburgh 1.

Phillies 3, Mets 1

Philadelphia's Kevin Gross got himself into some trouble, but found a unique way of escaping - retiring New York's clutch-hitting Keith Hernandez three times to end an inning.

Hernandez, 3-for-5 against Gross this season, went 0-for-4 and left six runners stranded.

"I just gave him good stuff," Gross said. "I think I outguessed him."

Giants 2, Reds 1

San Francisco third baseman Bob Brenly felt empathy for Cincinnati's rookie shortstop Kurt Stillwell, who booted Dan Gladden's bases-loaded grounder to allow the winning run to score in the sixth inning.

Brenly, who made two errors in the second to give the Reds their lone run, said balls can take bad hops when they hit the cutouts of the artificial turf.

"I'm sure that's what happened to Stillwell," Brenly said. "The ball looked like it was bouncing true, then the last hop came up."

Vida Blue, 9-6, got the victory for the Giants, allowing four hits over the first five innings.

Padres 4, Braves 3

Bruce Bochy's two-run double in the seventh inning broke open what had been a tight pitching duel between San Diego's LaMarr Hoyt and Atlanta's Zane Smith. Hoyt, 6-8, who had lost four straight decisions, allowed five hits in six innings. Rich Gossage got his 20th save.

Expos 10, Cardinals 3

Montreal's Bob Sebra is hoping the first complete game of his major league career will convince Manager Buck Rodgers to keep him in the starting rotation.

"It was certainly my biggest highlight so far," said Sebra, who allowed eight hits and got two himself to even his record at 2-2. "I just hope this will give Buck some more confidence in the future."

Cubs 3, Pirates 1

Another $750 went to a Chicago high school when Leon Durham hit his 12th homer of the year to lead the Cubs past Pittsburgh.

Sports in summary

BASEBALL

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - The Seattle Mariners pulled off their second triple play of the season, turning one in the bottom of the ninth inning against the Oakland A's.

The A's prevailed, however, when Mike Davis homered on the first pitch of the bottom of the 10th to give Oakland a 3-2 victory.

HOCKEY

TORONTO (AP) - Members of the National Hockey League overwhelmingly accepted a new collective bargaining agreement, even though it falls well short of their union's original goal of total free agency.

The contract greatly improves pension benefits for players and gives more freedom to veterans looking to sign with the team of their choice, but the association was unable to negotiate a free-agent deal like the one that exists in baseball.

NEW YORK (AP) - Veteran New York Ranger defenseman Barry Beck said he will sit out the 1986-87 NHL season because of "philosophical differences" with head Coach Ted Sator.

Beck, who saw limited action last season because of injuries, also said he would not consider playing for any other team if traded and wanted only to stay with the Rangers. He insisted that neither money nor his shoulder injury had any bearing on his decision.

GOLF

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - PGA Championship winner Bob Tway left Toledo with the silver trophy, but without about $10,000 worth of cash and jewelry that was stolen from his golf bag during the championship round.

Tway, 27, said he left a $9,000 Rolex watch, a PGA money clip with about $300 in cash, a ring worth $400, his driver's license and credit cards in a cloth bag zipped into a pocket of his golf bag Monday during the final round at the Inverness Club.

TECH

Kansas State travels to Lubbock for a season opener.

McWilliams kept five of Moore's old staff whom he'd known for decades. He also brought in four others, including three assistant coaches who'd been with him at Texas. Those Texas colleagues were John Mize, with whom McWilliams worked for the last eight years; Jack Kiser, a volunteer coach last year; and Spike Dykes, assistant defensive coordinator. He also signed on Steve Brickey, an offensive coordinator at Indiana State.

"We've worked with each other. We've worked against each other. I've seen them recruiting. That made it an easier transition," he said.

Soccer registration slated at Snyder Athletic Center

Berlin Wall is 25 years old

BERLIN (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl strongly criticized East Germany's rally and parade marking today's 25th anniversary of the Berlin Wall as pomp and military pageantry "filled with cynicism."

"We will never and can never get used to this monument of inhumanity," Kohl told several hundred people gathered today at the Reichstag, Germany's former Parliament building.

In East Germany, the official news media praised the 14-foot-high, gray concrete barrier as a preserver of peace and an "anti-fascist protection wall."

A quarter-century ago, East German soldiers started erecting the 29-mile-long wall to divide the former German capital 110 miles inside East German territory into eastern and western sectors and staunch the flow of East Germans westward.

Since then 74 people have been killed trying to escape over the wall to the West, while more than 4,900 people have succeeded, say West German police.

There are some openings in the Wall, known as checkpoints, where Westerners can cross into East Berlin. East Germans ordinarily are not allowed to travel the other way.

Former chancellor and former West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt also addressed the Reichstag audience.

"I know what it means to pour out the bitterness of powerless anger," said Brandt.

Brandt served as mayor at the time of the wall's construction, and became a kind of folk hero for his feisty resistance to the Soviets backing the wall's construction.

"It doesn't take much for the frustrating anger to come back again," said Brandt, now head of the opposition Social Democratic Party.

The western sector held a wreath-laying ceremony near the spot where Peter Fechter, an 18-year-old East German, was shot to death by East German border guards during an escape attempt on Aug. 17, 1962.

Fechter lay bleeding on the ground for nearly an hour before he was carried back by the East Germans.

Conrad Schumann, a former East German soldier who escaped into the West two days after the wall's construction began, took part in the wreath-laying ceremony about 200 yards from the Checkpoint Charlie boundary crossing.

"You must always remember that the wall is there," said Schumann, whose leap to freedom over barbed wire was captured in a famous photograph. "I hope there are still people in the GDR (East Germany) who also hope the wall comes down."

The Berliner Morgenpost newspaper featured a photograph of the wall with a headline reading "Reagan: One Day the Wall Will Collapse."

It referred to President Reagan's comment Tuesday that someday the Berlin Wall "and all those like it — will come down."

"After 25 years, the Berlin Wall remains as terrible as ever: watched night and day by armed guards in towers, the ground between barriers floodlit and patrolled by dogs," Reagan said in remarks sent to news organizations in West Germany by the United States Information Agency.

"The Berlin Wall is tragic testimony to the failure of totalitarian governments," Reagan said.

Berlin is divided into the Eastern sector under Soviet control and the Western sector, controlled by the United States, France and Britain.

The four nations, allies in defeating Nazi Germany in World War II, occupied the former Nazi capital under a four-party agreement, and the city was the scene of some of the tensest East-West confrontations of the Cold War.

Officials expected for R. Mize Day

Scurry County.

Snyder Mayor Rod Waller has declared Aug. 21 Roger Mize Day. In addition, Company E of the Texas Rangers will present Mize with an honorary Texas Ranger designation. Mize has long been a supporter of law enforcement in general and the Texas Rangers in particular.

Mize has also been an active board member and investment advisor of the Teachers Retirement System of Texas, and many of their officials are expected to be on hand.

Mize has been president of Snyder National Bank since 1957. He also serves as chairman of the board of Snyder Savings and Loan.

Others are Jeff Lowrance, Ray Summers, Bob Hawes, Harry Krenek, Bill Stone, Keith Collier, David Byrnes, Preston Wilson, Renal Rosson, Tom Holcomb and Ralph Williamson.

Assisting with planning for the event is Randy Perkins, owner of The Shack, who is coordinating both the meal preparation and decoration.

Study suggests no smoking ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by the National Academy of Sciences concludes that cigarette smoking aboard airliners is harmful to passengers and crew members and should be banned on all domestic flights, according to informed sources.

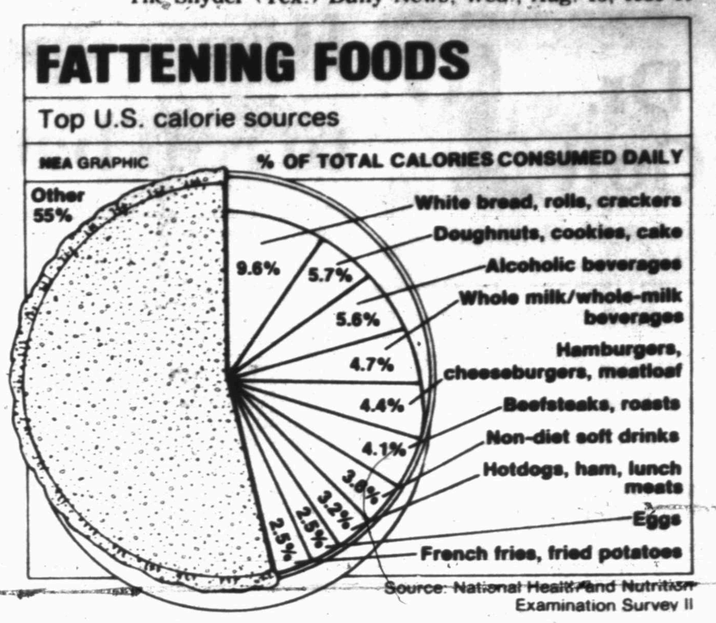
The report, which is expected to reignite the long-standing debate over whether travelers should be allowed to smoke aboard large jetliners, was scheduled to be released today by the Academy's National Research Council.

Much of the findings on the volatile smoking issue were leaked Tuesday, including what was described by the tobacco industry's trade group, the Tobacco Institute, as a copy of the report's executive summary.

The tobacco group immediately denounced the findings as unscientific and said further restrictions on in-flight smoking are unjustified.

Research Council spokesmen declined to comment on the contents of the report before its release.

A ban on all domestic flights could affect more than 16,000 flights a day including some trips to Hawaii and Alasks.



Americans don't live it up on bread alone — cakes, cookies and liquor are also top calorie sources. With bread, they usually provide about one-fifth of a person's daily caloric intake.

Yacht raid finds four scared kids, but no drugs aboard

BOSTON (AP) — A search of a Dallas insurance company owner's yacht that netted no drugs is one of thousands Coast Guard officers say they do each year and are needed even if no contraband is found.

"If we weren't doing those boardings we wouldn't be providing a deterrent to people who might want to smuggle drugs into New England," said Chief Petty Officer Richard Griggs, a Coast Guard spokesman in Boston.

He said the surprise boardings and searches in recent years have hindered drug smugglers, who have been caught with less contraband on board and more of it more carefully concealed.

"The indication is there are some people who are upset by the boardings but only a few," said Griggs. "Most people, although they are inconvenienced, accept it and understand what the Coast Guard is doing and realize it's important."

But James Roberts of Corpus Christi, Texas, said he had difficulty understanding why eight armed Coast Guard officers and a dog took apart panels and pulled speaker wires Saturday in a 2½-hour search of the 54-foot Renegade docked in Nantucket.

Roberts said he had just picked up four nephews of yacht owner Thomas O'Connell from Cape Cod and was preparing a smaller boat to take the boys, aged 10 through 16, out fishing when the patrol arrived.

O'Connell owns American Excel Insurance Co. in Dallas.

"They told me they were looking for drugs," he said in a telephone interview from the yacht. "They found four frightened children, that's what they found."

Griggs defended the search, saying the Coast Guard had received "intelligence information" that the yacht might be carrying drugs.

"There is an awful lot of information that is exchanged between (law enforcement) agencies," he said.

Infant Early

Graveside services for Tyler Randal Early, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Early of Snyder, will be at 10 a.m. Friday at Hillside Memorial Gardens with the Rev. Ken Branam, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating.

The infant died shortly after birth Tuesday at Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

He is survived by a brother, Tucker Early of the home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Early of Snyder; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ratheal of Crosbyton; his paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Lucille Early of Snyder; his paternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Upshaw of Roby; his maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Ratheal of Crosbyton; and his maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Donnie Weldon of Crosbyton.

Beatrice Latham

LEVELLAND--Services for Beatrice Estell Latham, 71, are pending at George Price Funeral Directors. Mrs. Latham, the mother of Bobbie Doris Murray of Snyder, died Tuesday at her home here following a long illness.

She was born in Paris and had been a resident of Levelland since 1946. She was a dormitory supervisor at South Plains College and a member of the Fifth Street Baptist Church.

Survivors include three sons, James Latham and Ted Latham, both of Levelland, and Tommy Latham of Fort Worth; another daughter, Jo Ann Ward of Levelland; five brothers, Marvin Awbrey of Levelland, E. H. Awbrey of Muleshoe, Kenneth Awbrey of Phoenix, Calvin Awbrey of Odessa and Bob Awbrey of Sundown; three sisters, Ernie Lee Gibson of Meadow, Dixie Chamness of Paris, Sue Barnett of Buffalo Gap; seven grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

Gun theft reported

Snyder police are investigating the theft of a shotgun from Snyder Pawn Shop reported Tuesday morning.

Connie Stom, owner of the store, called police at 10:33 a.m. and told officers that a Winchester 12-guage shotgun had apparently been taken between 4 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Investigators said the gun was probably taken by a shoplifter. Value of the missing weapon was listed at $205.

In other action Tuesday, officers were called to investigate three disturbances.

Two of those resulted in the filing of misdemeanor assault charges in domestic cases and one in the arrest of a man on a charge of reckless conduct for allegedly pointing a shotgun at a neighbor.

One man was jailed late Tuesday night for driving while intoxicated.

Treated for stab wound

A 27-year-old Snyder man was treated and released from Cogdell Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning after treatment for a stab wound sustained in an incident on a job site in Kent County.

Scurry County sheriff's deputies were called into the case by hospital employees at 2:16 a.m. when James Frakes of 113 Browning St. showed up there seeking treatment.

He told investigators that he had been wounded in an altercation on an oil field job site in the Salt Creek Field.

Local authorities have turned the case over to the Kent County sheriff's office for further investigation and no charges have been filed.

One city wreck is called minor

One minor traffic accident was reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Involved in the 9:29 p.m. collision at the intersection of 25th St. and Ave. U were a 1968 Dodge driven by Armando Emelia Perez of Rt. 3, Snyder and a 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Rafael Garcia Vera of 2005 Ave. T.

No injuries resulted from the mishap.

Surgery shouldn't cause weakness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Two years ago I had carpal tunnel surgery of the right wrist, and I developed a staph infection before the stitches were removed. Since then I've had progressive motor neuron disease involving the entire right side. There's increasing weakness, and I can't do anything that requires dexterity. A neurologist suggests it might be muscular dystrophy. Could the surgery have triggered this? Do you have any other suggestions?

DEAR READER — Carpal tunnel syndrome is a form of nerve entrapment. The nerves to the hand become pinched by an overlying fibrous band that encircles the wrist. Surgery releases the band. Neither the surgery nor the carpal tunnel syndrome is, in my opinion, the cause of your present right-sided weakness. There are many possible causes for your problem. Seek a second opinion from another neurologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had epilepsy for 22 years, but feel as if I'm getting out of it. Can an EEG test really tell if this is so?

DEAR READER — Often an encephalogram (EEG), which measures electrical activity in the brain, can be abnormal without the person having seizures or epilepsy. Conversely, in a small percentage of epileptics, the EEG may be normal. Therefore, the brain-wave test is not always a reliable indicator as to whether a person has outgrown the condition. Obviously, it can help. In a situation where the epileptic has a distinctly abnormal EEG, discontinuation of therapy is probably ill-advised. Your neurologist is the best judge of the state of your epilepsy.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report on EPILEPSY. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 27-year-old woman, and I recently started to jump rope for exercise. I'm baffled by the fact that even though I urinate beforehand, I inevitably wet myself shortly after starting to jump. I also have to get up as often as three times a night to urinate. This is a new problem. What could be causing it?

DEAR READER — You may be showing signs of a condition called stress incontinence, in which exertion causes small amounts of urinary leakage. Diabetes can cause increased urine flow, and urinary infection can often produce leakage without discomfort, so check with your doctor to determine the exact source of your problem. If you have stress incontinence, you may need referral to a gynecologist for possible surgery to regain urinary control.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 30 and have been overweight since I was 8. I now weigh 320 pounds. If I lose weight, will all my skin shrink to fit or will it be loose and saggy?

DEAR READER — Depending on the amount of weight you might lose, your skin probably would not shrink back completely. There is no hard-and-fast rule for this. Some overweight people lose pounds and the skin manages to adapt. In other instances, weight loss can produce a great deal of sagging excess skin. If you shed many pounds, I predict that you will have excessive skinfolds to deal with. Fortunately, plastic surgeons are quite adroit at removing extra skin, so if you trim down, you might wish to see a plastic surgeon.

French company to buy big 3

HOUSTON (AP) — The French company L'Air Liquide S.A. will acquire Big Three Industries Inc. for $1.05 billion, company officials say.

L'Air Liquide agreed to pay $29 for each of Big Three's 36.3 million common shares outstanding, and Big Three's directors approved the offer, the companies announced.

Both companies are major suppliers of industrial gases.

The announcement Tuesday sent Big Three's stock up $4.50 a share to $28.62½ on the New York Stock Exchange. The stock also led the NYSE's active list, with more than 5 million shares changing hands.

House speaker says 'okay' to roll back no pass-no play

AUSTIN (AP) — Saying the controversial no pass, no play rule is too tough, House Speaker Gib Lewis is calling on lawmakers to shorten the suspension period for first-time offenders.

Lewis said he asked Gov. Mark White on Tuesday to open the special legislative session to consider such a change.

If White won't, and the governor's spokeswoman said that looks doubtful, Lewis said the plan would be introduced when lawmakers convene in January for their regular session.

"I'll be honest with you. I've even flaked off and I'm supporting some revisions in no pass, no play," Lewis told a meeting of teachers and school administrators. "Nothing's perfect. And we will be making some changes."

The no pass, no play rule prohibits a student from participating in any extracurricular activities for six weeks if he's failing any course.

As House leader, Lewis was instrumental in steering the school reform bill that included the no pass rule through the 1984 special session. But Tuesday, he said he never strongly favored the six-week suspension.

"I have never been real hard on the six weeks' suspension. I've always felt that was a little severe," Lewis said.

He said students should be suspended for only three weeks the first time they receive a failing grade. If they fail a second time, the suspension then should be for six weeks, Lewis said.

"I talked to the governor this morning about the possibility of looking at that a little bit. We'll possibly be making some changes. Maybe not now, but possibly when the Legislature convenes in January," he said.

In an interview, Lewis said White didn't rule out such a change. In public, the governor has said he would consider a no pass, no play rollback a retreat from education reforms.

"He was very open to it," Lewis said of his meeting with White.

"He said, 'I don't want the perception to be that we're going to back off the seriousness we have committed to education.' I assured him I didn't think this would back off," Lewis said.

White's press secretary, Ann Arnold, said the governor had no intention of opening the special session to the no pass, no play revisions.

"It would be counterproductive to submit such a divisive issue," Ms. Arnold said.

Saralee Tiede, press secretary to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, said Hobby wasn't opposed to the change. "He'd like to have a look at it or hear more about it," she said.

White opposes school fund raid

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White is warning lawmakers to keep hands off the public school trust fund, but his chief spokeswoman says White stopped short of threatening to veto such a raid.

"The governor's not talking about vetos at this point," said press secretary Ann Arnold.

On Tuesday, White told a group of teachers and school administrators it would be wrong to dip into the Permanent School Fund to help balance the state budget.

"It would break our commitment to education if we now take money from the Permanent School Fund to solve the current budget problem. That's not right," White said.

"I will oppose any measure that will damage that Permanent School Fund," he said.

Struggling to make up a projected $3.5 billion deficit, the House Appropriations Committee has voted to take $1.1 billion from two education funds long viewed as untouchable — the school fund and the Permanent University Fund.

The House plan, proposed by Speaker Gib Lewis, would withdraw capital gains earned on the two funds' principal and use it to free up money for other state operations.

The two funds are the backbone of the state's higher education and public education systems. The principal, which is income from state lands, cannot be spent. But interest income is put into funds that are spent.

The university fund money, now totaling about $2.4 billion, is divided between the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems. The school fund, now greater than $5 billion, is divided among all local school districts statewide.

Budget shortfall hits hard at the Dallas residents

DALLAS (AP) — A projected budget shortfall of more than $60 million could cost hundreds of municipal employees their jobs and sharply cut services, a bitter setback for a city used to being a glittering notch in the prosperous Sun Belt.

Dallas is studying a budget plan that would eliminate 600 jobs and raise most fees by 20 percent in an effort to meet a state law that requires cities to operate with a balanced budget.

If the plan were adopted by the City Council, all city swimming pools would be closed next summer, the summer playground program would be eliminated, and the central library would be closed evenings.

Dallas' woes come at a time when state lawmakers are fighting a fiscal crisis caused by the collapse of oil and gas prices. The Legislature is considering various plans to attack a deficit that Comptroller Bob Bullock said will grow to $3.5 billion by Aug. 31, 1987, unless taxes are raised or spending is cut.

Dallas City Manager Charles Anderson unveiled his $1 billion budget Monday, recommending nearly $20 million be cut from services such as park programs, health and human services and city building security operations.

The shortfall, estimated at $60.3 million, is due to planned spending increases in the police and fire departments and in street repair, coupled with flagging sales and property tax revenues, Anderson said.

"With regard to sales tax, three years ago it was growing at an annual rate of about 18 percent. We're projecting no growth next year," Anderson said.

The sales tax problems can be traced to the downturn in the Texas economy that has made consumers wary of spending money. But officials say the problems also stem from a softening in the real estate market, brought on by overexpansion, and a large number of bankruptcies.

"We are not that dependent on oil. We have some (business) headquarters here but we don't have any oil under our soul."

CRMWD to post $550 per acre

The Colorado River Municipal Water District (CRMWD) likely will post $550 an acre for land required out of the Miller Ranch in Coleman County to be used for the Stacy Dam.

This is the level of the award from a jury of view commission last week in Coleman for 4,308.5 acres of Miller land being condemned for the Stacy reservoir.

The district will take possession of the tract upon posting the money, but in all probability will appeal the award to district court, said W. H. Ivie, general manager.

Acquisition of the land out of the Miller Ranch, together with acreage previously purchased by the district, accounts for virtually all the land needed for construction of the dam.

This will enable CRMWD to meet projected award of construction contract next spring and thus give it up to three years to acquire the balance of land in the reservoir basin.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby publishes NOTICE that, pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Public Utility Commission's Substantive Rule 23.23(b)(2), it filed an application on August 8, 1986 with the Public Utility Commission of Texas seeking authority to refund to its customers an overrecovery of fuel cost revenues in the amount of $64,779,640 as of June 30, 1986, which includes applicable interest.

Texas Utilities Electric Company has proposed that the refund be made with customer billings in October 1986, or as soon thereafter as the Commission orders. All customers and classes of customers whose electric service rates include charges for fuel cost pursuant to Texas Utilities Electric Company's Rider FC, entitled "Base Rate Fuel Component", and all territories in which Texas Utilities Electric Company provides electric service through its Dallas Power & Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company and Texas Power & Light Company divisions will be affected if the application is granted.

A complete copy of said application is on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Public Utility Commission of Texas as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.
