AMERICANS ARE FEARED SLAIN IN NEW REVOLUTION

PROBE OPENED ALONG BORDER NEAR JALISCO

TWO FIERCE BATTLES REPORTED TODAY IN NORTHERN MEXICO

(By Associated Press)
NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 14.—A new outbreak of rebellion in Mexico prompted officials along the international border today to investigate whether there had been any American casualties in the fighting near Guadalajara, Jalisco.

Semi-official advices received here last night declared there had been fierce fighting between rebels under Generals Leon Sanchez and Antonio DeGollado and federal forces commanded by General Francisco Flores.

Apparently there were two engagements. In the first, the rebels, who were said to have outnumbered the federal troops, won at a cost of fifty dead while the loyal troops counted only 14 killed. The insurgents were reported to have been routed in the second and more decisive engagement.

Civilian Casualties
First dispatches mentioned an unknown number of civilian casualties. Whether those included any Americans was a matter of doubt, since the fighting took place outside the city. Guadalajara is the headquarters of the Southern Pacific of Mexico and more than 100 Americans are employed in its railroad offices there.

The rebel victory in yesterday's fighting occurred at Lake Hualahuila, a few miles from Guadalajara. From there the insurgents advanced upon the small farming town of San Nicolas and looted it.

Town Is Pillaged
Marching upon the nearby town of Soyotlan, the rebels not only pillaged it but were down and set fire to the buildings in retaliation for the resistance to the attack made by the townspeople.

The rebel victory was short-lived, however, for a short distance from Soyotlan the federal, reinforced by members of the Agrarian party, re-engaged them. The rebels fled to the Sierra Del Tigre. Many were said to have been killed, wounded or captured.

MYSTERY CALL IS CLEARED UP

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Mystery surrounding the recall of Major General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, to Washington abruptly ending his western inspection tour, has been clarified with an authorized statement from President Coolidge that he wished to confer with the army officer on the president's next year budget program.

War department officials including Secretary Davis, apparently remained without knowledge of the cause of his recall until it was disclosed at the White House that the president had summoned him to return here.

No Other Reason Given
The statement from the president which was issued after his speech at Pittsburgh disclosed no other reason for the recall, it was indicated by those about Mr. Coolidge. It has been made known too, that the president contemplates increased expenditures for national defense, but Mr. Coolidge is understood to be particularly interested in additional army housing facilities. Army housing constituted a chief subject of the army chief of staff in an address on the Pacific coast which was at first interpreted by officials to have caused the sudden recall order.

Meanwhile, on a train speeding east, General Summerall at Ogden, Utah, refused to throw further light on the matter, declaring that "a good soldier never talks but does what he is told."

Suit Would Settle Insurance Premium

The beneficiary of the policy was named as the Plains Motor company which is now insolvent. Mrs. Cassie Adair is executrix of the estate, and the insurance company is asking that the court give satisfaction of the claim to the estate of Mrs. Adair; Clarence Emms and A. Emma of the former South Plains Motor company; and Rollie H. Seales, who was named administrator of the bankrupt firm.

NEW RECORD ON OCEAN FLYING MADE BY RUTH

2,625 MILES DISTANCE BEATS FLIGHT MADE BY ARMY MEN

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A new over-water distance flying record was established by Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman before they were forced down in the Atlantic on the attempted flight to Paris. It was the longest flight ever made by a woman.

The previous record for over-ocean flying made by Lieutenants Mallard and Hegenberger on their journey from San Francisco to Honolulu was 2,494 miles. Computations of the flight of the American Girl made its distance about 2,625 miles.

Two Miles Difference
As figured by Lieutenant Earle H. Kinne of the navy hydrographic office for the New York Times, the American Girl flew 2,625 miles. Computations by H. Arnold de Masi, telegraph editor and aviation expert of the New York Daily News are that the distance was 2,623 miles.

Masi figures the plane landed 1,202 miles southeast of Paris, its objective. Winds apparently had driven the American Girl far off the course it charted over the New York to Paris steamship lane 245 miles to the northward. The computations are based on the position of the rescuing ship, the tanker Barendrecht 44.24 north, and 21.39 east, or 633 miles due west of the nearest mainland, Cape Finisterre, Spain.

Lindbergh Flight
Charles A. Lindbergh in his non-stop flight from New York to Paris covered 3,659 miles in 34 hours and 30 minutes.

Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine flew from New York to Eisleben, Germany, 3,905 miles, in 16 hours and 39 minutes.

Commander Byrd and his crew covered 3,477 miles in 41 hours and 27 minutes in their flight from New York to Var, Sicily, France.

Those three flights, however, were on a northern course involving land over which the American Girl did not pass.

Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd completed over water jumps of 1,900 miles from Newfoundland to Iceland, in their flights to Europe. Presumably the American Girl was in the air 41 hours and 26 minutes.

Wheat Pool Claims Success

The latest figures show that the Canadian wheat pool, the largest farmers' co-operative in the world, has been a pronounced success, its supporters assert. Formed in the fall of 1923, it now has a membership of 142,000 farmers, and handles about 20,000,000 bushels of wheat annually, as well as from 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels of other grains, with a money turnover of more than $40,000,000. Since 1923 members of the pool have received $500,000,000.

Youth Absolves Car Driver After Serious Accident

Sitting on an operating table at Lubbock sanitarium last night, his right leg severely lashed as the result of an accident, 12-year-old Weldon Hall sat without a whimper. "It was all my fault."

Despite the fact that the flesh was torn away for several inches below the knee when he was struck by a car driven by C. L. Dean at the corner of Nineteenth and Avenue X at about 7 o'clock, the lad, who is the son of Mrs. Fannie Hall, 224 Nineteenth street, was calm and did not flinch when the surgical instruments were applied.

The youngster absolved Dean from blame, stating that he had run out to the street corner to recover a tennis ball, and that the driver had no chance to stop. After the accident the leg was washed to the ambulance by Pat Hood of the local fire department.

To The Stylish, Sportswear Is No Longer Correct In Role Of General Use—'Daytime Clothes' Assume Popular Place

MRS. H. E. MANVILLE
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Enter it you please, "daytime clothes." Of course there are still sports clothes for daytime wear. But there's no better away from the fact that it is no longer stylish to wear the "look-like-everybody-else" two or three-piece jersey costume.

The women who value chic have left memory far behind them this fall. They won't be caught shopping, lunching, and tea-ing in an ordinary sports get-up this season.

One Stroll Enough

Just one stroll along Madison or just one lunch at the Ritz would prove it. Varied and elaborate are the individual looking costumes. Suits, dress-and-coat ensembles, dresses with short jackets—all are good. And each stands on its own merits.

I saw Mrs. Goadby Loew, for instance, wearing one of the smartest distinctive suits of the season—a gray and white fine checked suit with a chic little fillet of dark gray, embroidered in a dark gray figure, with smoked pearl buttons. Her better's plush hat had a smoked pearl ornament and all were matching earrings.

The fur that trims some garments preceding them, usque, fur, especially, seems to go in for enough for one garment to really make a fur coat, if prop-

Mrs. Bonaparte in Gray

In spite of the Vogue for browns, some exceeding smart women stick to gray. Witness Mrs. Jerome Bonaparte—gowned in a gray crepe Elizabeth frock—gray fox ears and gray soled chapeau—one of the large ones like those so much.

Another smart woman sponsoring gray is Mrs. H. E. Manville, wearing one of the season's smartest lightweight fall coats with a rich chin-chilla collar that pointed its way to a buck yoke effect and pointed cuffs that headed well up towards the elbows. Her dress was a two-piece kasha model, pleated skirt and blouse with a tiered effect in stitching for trimming.

The New Velvetton

The new velvetton is another smart material for interpreting the fall day-time dresses, apparently. Mrs. Monetta O'Brien recently looked jaunty as women like her are given to looking in a navy blue velvetton coat dress and a trim little velvet in white satin, with one of those follow-the-face outlines, with little feather gadgets on the ears.

Evening clothes grow more elaborate, apparently. And sports clothes still have their place—for sports and early morning. But the outstanding addition to the new fall outfit is the daytime costume—whether it be smart frock, ensemble, or three-piece suit.

RUMWARHORSE FACING COURT OVER SEIZURE

VETERAN'S CASE MAY CAUSE INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS

(By Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14.—C. H. (Pop) Neale, former prohibition agent and fugitive from justice, is the center of the newest drama of the Italian rum run, one which has threatened international complications.

Neale faces trial at Nassau, The Bahamas, on October 16, on charges of larceny from a ship and receiving stolen goods. Once a colorful figure in the forces of prohibition enforcement along the lower Atlantic seaboard, he has been living at Cat Key in the Bahamas since he escaped from a court room at Nassau, Fla., several months ago after conviction for impersonating a federal officer and accepting bribes.

Got Cargo, Charge
The charges now confronting him arise from the seizure of a rum running vessel by a United States coast guard cutter. The rum runner, Neale, got part of their confiscated cargo and took it to his home of Cat Key.

The seizure was made off Tuttle Rock, small Bahaman island near Bimini, the rum fleet's base. The rum runners contend that this site is within a mile of Bimini island and thus inside the three-mile territorial limit of British waters, which coast guard cutters have no right to invade.

Bimini constables went to Cat Key and found several cases of liquor. Coast guard officers at the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., base, deny that any of the captured liquor was among this, and declare that Neale was aboard the cutter only as pilot because of his knowledge of Bahaman waters.

May Ask Another
The colonial secretary's office at Nassau has announced that it may call on Washington to surrender Larry Christensen, chief boat-swain's mate who commanded the cutter making the capture if evidence brought out at Neale's trial is considered sufficient. They would charge Christensen with piracy.

Neale is 67 years old. He has cruised Bahaman waters for more than 30 years. Prior to the troublesome days of 1897 he was running arms to Cuba. After several years in the coastwise shipping business he located here, became active in republican politics and held several offices. He became Florida's prohibition agent, later was a federal court bailiff, and finally had charge of seized rum boats as custodian.

Spectacular Capture
While acting as a federal prohibition agent Neale effected a spectacular capture of Charles Vinich, Boston rum king, who fled to the Bahamas when sought for theft from government warehouses. "Pop" nabbed Vinich and escaped with him to the mainland after a running battle with liquor runners, who put it back in his boat.

Last December Neale was convicted of impersonating an officer and accepting bribes, but walked out of the courtroom on some pretext and fled to Cat Key, where his wife joined him. Mrs. Neale became ill and was forced to return to the mainland, where she died a few days ago in a Miami hospital.

About 500,000 which is one-fourth of the rums in England, are still unemployed.

New Device Helps Blind Read Music And Play Easily

(By Associated Press)
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Oct. 14.—The blind may now read music, written in the raised dots of Braille, by "sight." With one hand the sightless player reads the music on the piano rack and plays it with the other. It takes only a few minutes to memorize the notes sufficiently to play the selection with both hands.

A revolutionary step in teaching the blind, the method making possible "sight" reading of music, was perfected by L. W. Rosenburg, himself, sightless, who is in charge of printing at the Illinois School for the Blind at Jacksonville.

It will be demonstrated for the first time at the seventh annual Illinois conference on public welfare to be held in Joliet Oct. 18-20. Previously, in printing music in Braille, all the words of a song were followed by the notes of the music. In the new method, each word is followed by the accompanying notes, throughout the selection.

The Braille language is formed of combinations of dots, the system employing a group of six dots, three high and two wide. With the six, the literary and musical codes have been worked out, with 64 characters in use.

Early in the history of Braille music notation all the right hand notes were printed first, followed by the left hand notes. In England, the "bar by bar" method was perfected, in which a phrase of the right hand music was followed by the same phrase of the left hand. Rosenburg developed a "bar over bar" method.

Five years the Jacksonville school has blessed a gain in education of the blind. Frank Hall, a former superintendent, is credited with the invention of the Braille-Hall typewriter and he invented the Braille stereotyping machine, used to print music and books for the blind.

Sweeping Change In Gas Ordinance Is Approved Here

Replying to protests by householders here that plumbers were charging unreasonably high prices for piping houses for gas, an amendment to the city gas ordinance was passed by the city commission yesterday afternoon, by which "any owner of premises" may himself install gas plumbing, lines, or fittings on his own premises without first obtaining license or making bond, provided workmanship and materials meet the requirements and pass city inspection.

The amendment also gave the owner the right to employ some one under his direction to do the work of plumbing. Use of galvanized metal flues as vents for automatic heaters and other gas burning appliances will be permitted, according to action taken. Permission to use rubber tubing, provided, only one cut-off at the metal pipe is used, was granted.

A committee from the American Legion post here, headed by H. D. Woods, appeared before the body in the interest of a community auditorium. The committee was assured of the co-operation of the commission in bringing this to a reality.

Meeting Called For Organization Of U. C. T. Council

A meeting of all members of the United Commercial Travelers of Texas, at which plans will be laid for organization of a unit of the association has been called for tonight at the Lubbock Inn by O. V. McKaig, chairman of the railroad and highway commission of the U. C. T., who is here in the interest of the association. All members and prospective members are urged to attend the session tonight.

A general rally and banquet is being planned for Saturday night when it is probable that actual organization of the unit will be launched, Mr. McKaig said. It is known that there are about 25 members of the association here, who belong to other councils in the state, and these will transfer their membership to the local council, it is anticipated.

Applications for membership and other information regarding the organization may be secured from Mr. McKaig at the Lubbock Inn, he said, in explaining that all sales managers, city salesmen, and road men are eligible for membership. With a potential membership of at least several scores, it is anticipated that Lubbock will have one of the largest councils in the state.

100 Names Added To Matador Club Here

More than 100 new members were added to the Matador club, an organization of Lubbock business men, sponsoring an amateur boxing contest, as a result of the first day's drive for increased membership yesterday. The membership now stands at about 100.

Seven teams and their captains worked the business section yesterday, and turned in an excellent report to President J. A. Riley, Jr.

Princess Elopes With Lieutenant In Rumania Navy

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Princess Helena, slender blue eyed 18 year old daughter of Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, is reported to have thrown over prospects of marriage with the Prince of Wales, King Boris of Bulgaria or some other member of royalty to elope with an obscure naval lieutenant of her own country.

Papers Are Quiet
Dispatches to the Westminster Gazette of London and the New York Evening Post say the rumor has social and governmental circles in Bucharest by the ears and that the royal household has issued a decree forbidding the Rumanian newspapers from printing accounts of journeys of any member of the royal family.

Helena has been missing for some days from her usual haunts, the dispatch to the Post said, and was thought to be on a yacht in the Black Sea. She is said to have become acquainted with the naval lieutenant when he was aide-de-camp to her father, the late King Ferdinand.

Won Princess' Hand
The young officer, described as handsome and of courtly manner did not find his duties about the place exacting, the dispatch added, and improved his time by cultivating Helena, succeeding in the object of winning her hand. The government did its utmost to prevent their elopement from becoming known, but it finally leaked out.

Helena, youngest daughter of the queen's American tour last year before the fatal illness of Ferdinand. She created a favorable impression by her democratic bearing, and was popular with those of the younger set with whom she came in contact.

Reports Denied Semi-Officially

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 14. (AP)—Reports of the elopement of Princess Helena, daughter of Dowager Queen Marie, with a naval lieutenant, were semi-officially described today as "pure invention" devoid of all foundation in fact.

Coal And Courting Linked In Turkey

ZONGOULDAK, Turkey, Oct. 14. (AP)—A curious connection between coal and courting has been established by long tradition in this coal-mining district of Turkey on the Black Sea.

Marriages here are still arranged by parents in the old-fashioned way, and the bride and groom do not see each other until the ceremony has been performed by proxy. When finally the groom is brought by his mother to see his bride for the first time, a blazing coal fire is heaped in the grate and no matter how hot the weather, the bride must sit close to the flames until the old tradition holds, she is informed with love for the husband whom she may then turn and behold.

Hence Turkey has its unmetaphorical version of "Gaming youth."

FIRE FOUGHT WITH SOAP
Soap-studs are used in a new German device for extinguishing fires. Especially useful in putting out gasoline or benzine fires, where streams of water are useless, the machine carries two large foam generators with powered soap. High-pressure jets of water race through the soap-chamber, operating water wheels that churn the soap into suds, to issue in a foaming blast from the nozzle of the hose.

COOKING ROASTS
Roasts from the so-called tender cuts of meat are better cooked without water. In case there is not very much fat, get an extra piece of suet and skewer it to the top. Place the meat in a very hot oven to sear on the outside. Then reduce the temperature and cook slowly until done.

WESTERNERS AND MATADORS PLAN HARD BATTLES SATURDAY

FIGHT SPIRIT IS AT HIGH PITCH IN FIRST GAME

HIGH SCHOOL TO ENTER FIRST CONFERENCE TILT SATURDAY

On the eve of the first conference game the Westerners will be in camp, running most of the afternoon in signal practice. As the game scene in this evening before the first game in the conference set the Westerners handlers, Frnka and Morgan, will give their final instructions before sending their men to the stage to combat the highly regarded Sandies, of Amarillo high school Saturday.

Good Spirit Shown
Fully realizing the Westerners' ability in the game the local high school coaches are placing their hopes and faith for the game Saturday on the hustling and fighting spirit that surrounds the Westerners' camp. Without the spirit that has been stirred up in the hearts of the local high school players the game might as well have been conceded—but with the spirit that is among the boys it looks like a battle is brewing.

The Westerners are certainly the underdogs of the occasion they have been chosen for a terrible drubbing at the hands of the Sandies. The Panhandle writers, one especially, picks the Westerners to be defeated by three touchdowns.

Leaves On Special
The club will leave on the high school special train that gets out of Lubbock at seven o'clock in the morning. From the train the club will go to a down-town hotel and remain there until the time for the game. The game will be played on the Texas Park grounds.

The probable line up for the start of the game with the Sandies will be: Allen or Penny, center; Parkerson and Dickinson, guards; Parkerson and Osborne, tackles; Campbell and Whitesides, ends; Williams quarter; Abney and Dollahite halves; Leslie Smith, full.

SEASON TOUGH ONE FOR BOSS OF WHITE SOX

SCHALK'S LADS SLUMP IN MID-SEASON AND NEVER RECOVER

"What a year this has been," remarked Manager Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox to me a few days prior to the close of the last season.

My troubles started in the early spring with the loss of Johnny Most. Then, after the race got under way, there was a short respite. Getting about pitching from Lyons, Thomas, Blankenship and Connally, the club was able to come through with enough timely hitting to give a winning margin. So good was the pitching, we didn't need many runs to win.

Around June first we were fighting for the lead with something like 30 victories against 15 defeats. Then came an important series with the Yankees and we went into a batting slump that started by our manager.

Before Schalk had a chance to make further comment, Coach Lena Blackburner cut in with the following:

"Yes, that New York series in June started us on a batting slump and we have never come out of it."

Through all the reverses the club has suffered, Manager Schalk still has the old determination. He has sought but praise for his pitchers, saying it takes real courage to keep out pitching one's best with little or no support at the bat.

The White Sox have lost plenty of ball games this year by the margin of a run or two. Equally a manager doesn't first very much when he is beaten by a lopsided score, but to lose a close battle, where a timely hit or two would have changed the entire complexion of the game, frays one's nerves.

On the White Sox club are a number of devout Catholics. The members of that faith got a real kick out of an unusual situation that developed on the bench as the White Sox for the third time in a game with Cleveland, filled the bases.

"On the first two occasions the side was retired without scoring. Trailing by a run late in the game, the Sox filled the bases for the third time. None were out at the time. In quick succession, the next two batters went out on pop flies.

Sitting on each side of Schalk on the bench were two players of Catholic faith. Glancing at both of them in despair, he said:

"Boys, I don't know the Rosary, but if either of you can teach it to me before the next batter is retired, I'll gladly say it."

Hardly had Schalk spoken when the latter sent up another lazy fly to the infield and the White Sox had lost another opportunity to win a ball game that was dropped by a one-run margin.

While all the White Sox pitching

Here's American League President And Man Who May Be His Successor

BYRON BANCROFT JOHNSON

When Big Ben Johnson lays down the reins of the American league next Monday one of baseball's greatest stars will set. His successor has not been chosen but the name of Billy Evans, veteran American league umpire, sports writer and expert, is being prominently mentioned in connection with the office. Evans' articles appear regularly in the Avalanche and Journal.

staff suffered because of an utter lack of timely hitting. I doubt if any of the hurlers have been harder hit than Tommy Thomas.

Away to a good start, Thomas won something like 12 out of the first 15 games he worked. Unless I am mistaken, nine of them were in a row.

When the season started Thomas set 20 games won as his goal. He just missed that mark. If fate had smiled instead of scowled at Thomas as most of the year he easily would have reached the mark.

As I glance over my records, I find that nine of the 16 defeats suffered by Thomas were by a one-run margin and in none of these games did the opposition make more than four runs. That will give you an excellent idea of how well he pitched, even in defeat.

A timely hit here and there in any of those nine games would have brought Thomas' record for the year well over the cherished goal of 20 victories.

AGGIES EXPECT TOUGH BATTLE WITH PORKERS

MEET RAZORBACKS IN FIRST OFFICIAL GAME ON KYLE FIELD

(Special To The Journal)
COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 14.—Fresh from their victory in the game with Sewanee at Dallas last week, the Texas Aggies this week will have down to hard work in anticipation of a real contest from the Arkansas Razorbacks on Kyle Field next Saturday. This will be the first "southwest" conference game for the Aggies this season.

No Plays Exposed
Although the Aggies exposed practically none of their plays and formations in the game with the Sewanee Tigers, some indications have been made because of weaknesses which showed in that contest. It is not likely, however, that Coach Billie will give his squad any new plays this week. But it is expected that they will continue drilling on the formations they now have until all weaknesses which can be detected have been removed.

Perfecting Defense
Most of the time this week has been spent in scrimmaging against the freshman team and in perfecting the defense to be used against the Porkers, for it has already been shown that Arkansas has some backs who will be hard to stop. The Porkers are now resting at the top of the Conference heap as a result of their victory over Baylor, and it will be a mighty blow that takes them.

Cancer deaths in England and Wales which broke all records in a first of 1927 last year will be even greater this year, according to British health authorities.

SIMMONS CREW WORKS OUT FOR TILT SATURDAY

AERIAL GAME EXPECTED TO BE MAIN OFFENSE OF ABILENE SQUAD

The Simmons University Cowboys arrived here on the morning train today from Abilene and will go to the Texas Tech football field for a short workout, preparatory for the game with the Tech Matadors Saturday. Included in the roster of range hands with Coaches Crandall and Anderson are: Moore, L. Jennings, and Boutis; Smith and Pearce, tackles; J. Jennings and H. Daniel at guards; Pittman at center; Lynch and Sanders, halves; Davenport at full, and Hyde and Walter at quarterback. Hyde and Walter are accompanying the club and possibly share in the work of the Cowboys in the game are: B. Bounds, center; C. Daniel, guard; Ribble and Cohn, tackles, and Greese, end.

Hard Game Expected.
Coaches of the flaming jerseys realize their position with the Cowboys since they possibly share in the work of the Cowboys in the game are: B. Bounds, center; C. Daniel, guard; Ribble and Cohn, tackles, and Greese, end.

Through out the week of practice the Matador trio has dwelt on the offense work of the Matadors as they clearly conceived the showing of the bull fighters against Matty Bell's Frogs in the game in Fort Worth last week-end. Higginbotham and Payne have spent sometime this week with the sizzlers and backs of the scarlet and black machine stressing the need of better interference and blocking in the offense plays of the Matador machine. Ewing Y. Freeland, head coach of the Matadors, has not been idle by any means with his line but has had them working constantly on defense and offense tactics.

For the first time this season, fans who attend the game tomorrow afternoon will have the opportunity of witnessing the game from the new steel and concrete stands which have just recently been completed. The stands will seat 4,000 fans and every seat is so placed that the game can be witnessed with every degree of satisfaction.

FANS TURN TO DUNDEE FIGHT WITH HUDKINS

CHAMPION NOT CERTAIN OF VICTORY OVER 'WILDCAT'

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—How will a slow-starting welter champion, whose crown is at stake, fare with a two-listed challenger whose driving tactics have earned him the nickname of "Wildcat" and who is on his man before the opening bell stops tinkling?

October 23 will tell the story. On that day, in an outdoor ring here, Joe Dundee, welter-puncher extraordinaire, and by virtue of that, welterweight champion, will meet the on-rushing swings of Ace Hudkins, "cocky" ring man and crowd pleaser de luxe.

Joe is from Baltimore and Ace is from the corn country of Nebraska. The champion took the crown from Pete Latzo nearly a year ago and took it decisively.

But if local fans, who watched Ace start from the ground up two years ago and develop into one of the most aggressive fighters of the present day, are anywhere near right, that crown is in danger of passing to another brow.

Hudkins, with his brothers Clyde and Art, rambled into Los Angeles in a battered flivver about two years ago. Ace grew up with a reputation for licking all his school box-rivals from the time he was 2

NEW STANDS AT TECH READY TO RECEIVE CROWD

MATADORS CLASH WITH SIMMONS COWBOYS HERE SATURDAY

Tech's new steel stands will groan under the weight of thousands for the first time Saturday when the Matadors meet the Simmons Cowboys at Tech field. Besides this big section of stands, football fans of the plains country will find another evidence of Tech's progress and growth in the splendid ornamental cyclone fence which now encloses the entire athletic field, stands, track and straightaway.

The Matadors will certainly stick their chests out when they go prancing on the field surrounded by such lasting and permanent improvements as these which their former records have made it possible to place there for them, and if possible they will no doubt try all the harder to maintain their "Only one defeat a year" tradition.

Not An Easy Task
Giving the Cowboys a trimming, however, even a little trimming, is not going to be an easy task Saturday, for they had rather defeat Coach Payne's team than any other non-conference team on their schedule, as Payne was just a year ago the coach of those boys who will be offering the Matadors competition Saturday afternoon. This little element of personal interest on the part of the contestants may go far to make up for the slight advantage dogs give the scarlet and black.

"Simmons vs. Tech" is enough to insure a real battle any year, but with a keen personal fighting spirit on the part of the Matadors and Cowboys on the gridiron added to the usual clash of college spirit between these two West Texas schools there is likely to be a battle royal on Tech field Saturday.

BUS QUESTION IS A BIG ISSUE AT CONVENTION

STATE AND FEDERAL CONFLICT IS SEEN FOR STATE MEET

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Oct. 14.—A possible conflict between federal and state authorities over regulations of motor buses, involving the question of whether the motor bus is to be considered an interstate common carrier, is to be the principal question for deliberation before the 29th annual convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners here, October 18-21.

It is probable the commissioners will seek legislation which will assign control of interstate operation to the states. The call for the meeting, as received by the Texas Public Service Information Bureau, states: "It behooves every commission to be thoroughly informed as to what it can advise congress of its views and do whatever is possible to promote the passage of a bill which will assure to the states control within their boundaries of interstate operators."

Most Pressing Question

The convention announcement says this question of motor bus regulation, especially of the line changed in interstate operation, is one of the most pressing questions of the day and one of interest to every state in the Union.

The problem, declares the announcement, is so grave that an entire session of the meeting will be devoted to this subject.

There will be reports from the committee on motor vehicle transportation.

There also will be an address of Henry Swift Ives, vice-president of the Casualty Information Clearing House of Chicago, on the question of providing proper insurance for this class of carriers. The question will be thrown open for discussion.

Leading Utility Men

The convention will draw some of the leading state commissioners and public utility men of the country. John J. Each, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has promised to address the meeting, if he can get away from Washington.

United States Senators Pittman of Nevada, and Mayfield of Texas, have accepted invitations to speak. F. A. Barrar, president of the Investment Bankers' association, will be heard. Chief Justice Curran of the Texas Supreme Court will be a principal speaker at the convention banquet.

Senators Alejandro P. Carrillo, Mexican consul general at San Antonio, will speak, and a high official of the National Highways of Mexico also will make an address.

William A. Vandegrast, chairman of the Public Service Commission of New York and one of the foremost operators of the Empire state, will speak on "Valuation." H. G. Taylor,

Search And Seizure Law Repeal Is Urged

Prince Terms West As Fairy Country

DALLAS, Oct. 14 (AP)—Declaring the Texas search and seizure act has practically nullified the Dean law and it constitutes "nothing more than a bulwark for the professional bootlegger," John E. Taylor, county attorney of Harrison county, today urged its repeal.

The Marshall attorney was the principal speaker at the meeting of the newly organized district and county attorneys association which is in session here.

"I have read much about that land of Goshen in the western part of America," he says, "of its beauty, its wealth, its vastness and its—I am sure from what I know—dominating future in the life and history of man."

The prince will talk about his adventures in Africa and his experiences in big game shooting. Starting from Monbasa, he went with his party to the Victoria Nyassa, visited the Moon mountains and the Birunga volcanoes, touched the eastern Congo, and emerged from inner Africa up the Nile to Cairo.

Greece Decides On Security Measures

NEW ORLEANS TRADING
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14 (AP)—The cotton market eased off here today following announcement of the increased September consumption total of 427,221 bales made public by the census bureau.

December dropped to 26.95 or 20 points under the opening and March declined to 21.22.

Near the end of the first half hour, however, there was a rally of 5 to 10 points on prospects for light frost in the eastern belt tonight.

Later in the morning shorts recovered rather freely and there was more or less trade buying. December sold up from 20.91 to 21.50, or within five points of the early high.

Later positions made new highs at 21.20 for January and 21.46 for March, six to eleven points above the previous close.

NEW YORK TRADING
NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of two points, to a decline of 4 points.

Buying developed on the report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 427,221 bales for September, compared with 574,579 last year, but demand was promptly supplied by local southern selling on more favorable weather prospects, and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

After advancing to 21.02 at the opening December eased off to 20.95 under continued selling while March declined to 21.13, but declined to 21 to 20 points. Trade buying was reported on this not back, but the market was within 3 or 5 points of the lowest at the end of the first hour.

The early decline extended to 20.76 for December, or about 29 to 25 points below yesterday's closing quotations and southern, local and Liverpool selling. The more favorable view of the weather and the continuance of southern selling here evidently offset any bullish interpretation of the consumption report, but offerings tapered off somewhat after the close of the English market and prices here stabilized. Demand advanced to 21.02 on buying, and the market was steady at midday within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing figures.

BROMFIELD, Eng., Oct. 14.—Neglected and forgotten in the lake cemetery of Halton, the grave of Henry Hill Hickman, one of the pioneers of medical anaesthetics, was discovered by a student, 22 years of age, while a student, 22 years of age.

The busts of his method was induced unconsciously by inhalation of a denaturing gas. The gas he used was probably pure oxygen held gas, unadulterated. It is how thought crude and dangerous, but it was his pioneer work which developed anaesthetics.

Road Matters Up Before Meeting Of County Court

Road matters consumed the greater part of the time of the county commissioners who met in court session yesterday in Judge Noyde's office.

Petition of V. E. Hainback and six others for a public road of second class, 40 feet wide, known as the J. H. Harrison road, was granted, and a jury of view composed of Douglas Pounds, Les Emmett, Earl Davis, H. C. Grimes, and Ed Griffin, was named to lay out the road, and assess damages and return a report to the court.

Three Allowed Damages The court ordered that $75 be paid L. Hardy, J. P. Vance and Emmett Wright for land taken and damages to the remainder of three lots in Shallowater, for right-of-way purposes of highway No. 7. When the road is widened the three named must remove all obstructions. This will give a width of 50 feet to the road.

Check for Damages to the Panhandle and Santa Fe railroad, allowing $55 for crossing of the W. E. Spencer road, was ordered cashed in satisfaction of the claim; and F. E. Knox was appointed overseer of the road, which will be opened and put in condition.

Errors in Assessment The court ordered that assessed valuation of lots 1 and 2 of block 6 of the Sanders addition to Lubbock be reduced from $1200 to $200 because of error in assessment. Transfer by the county treasurer of $500 from the road and bridge fund number 4 to the road and bridge fund number 2 was ordered. The following quarterly reports were read and approved: J. H. Phillips, justice of peace of precinct 2; W. R. Buchanan, justice of peace of precinct 3; W. R. Clark, justice of peace of precinct 1, place 2; and I. P. Holland, tax collector.

Marryin' Parson Found Guilty Of Improper Service

ELKTON, Maryland, Oct. 14 (AP)—Richard T. Westren, dethroned 'marryin' parson' here, today was found guilty by the Cecil county circuit court of performing a marriage ceremony without authority and fined $500 and costs. Joshua Clayton, his attorney, intimated he would place the case before the Maryland court of appeals.

The verdict of the court was announced by Associate Judge Lewis W. Wickes, who declared Mr. Westren was under the jurisdiction of the Methodist Episcopal church which cancelled his orders as a minister in 1921. With his orders cancelled, Judge Wickes explained, Mr. Westren had no authority to perform marriages.

Through the legality of the thousands and some marriage ceremonies Mr. Westren performed from January 1 to June last, when church authorities preferred charges against him was not discussed in the trial. Judge Wickes said the marriages were legal. He cited a previous case which showed that under the Maryland law a marriage ceremony was legal if the contracting parties were of the opinion the man officiating was a minister.

Mr. Westren was convicted on a charge of performing one specific marriage—that of Allen Dickerson and Claire McCall, of this county—without legal authority.

Bookmaker Serves As English Mayor

STAFFORD, Eng., Oct. 14 (AP)—Alfred Tom Richardson, head of the municipal government of Stafford is the only bookmaker-mayor in England.

For 20 years he has been a familiar figure at Ascot and all Midland and Northern race meetings, talking bets.

In the first eight months of his mayoralty he fulfilled 225 engagements. Yet he does it all for the honor of it, since there is no salary attached to the position, and he says he has spent $10,000 during his first term in office.

MINISTRY THEFTS MYSTIFY Mysterious thefts which have been occurring for several years in the official residence of the finance minister at Nagasaki, Japan, have baffled the Japanese police. One janitor, who was suspected, went insane and was forced to retire, but the mystery continued.

German Producer Offers Program In America Soon

(By Associated Press) PETERLIN, Oct. 14.—American theater-goers will be afforded an insight into the life work of Professor Max Reinhardt as a theatrical producer when early in November an ensemble personally directed by the German master opens a two months engagement in New York.

Reinhardt feels that he has never had an opportunity to show American his ideas regarding stagecraft. While he has set in scene 'The Miracle' this is a pantomime and affords an estimate of but one side of Reinhardt's art. The language barrier, due to the fact that he is a German and all his actors are trained in German acting, has militated against his producing drama in the United States thus far.

Through Otto H. Kahn, Reinhardt has been placed in a position financially to take to America a troupe of his best actors—men and women who have worked with him for years.

Half a shipment of stage properties will be freighted on the same ocean liner with the troupe. Reinhardt is quite as famous for the stage settings created by painters and technicians trained in his ideas as he is for his interpretation of roles and characters. He will

Wouldn't you like to lift the veil of confusion on gas stoves? How can you tell anything about them, when claims of this, and that, and counter-claims are a daily occurrence?

What Will It All Cost?

Here's Our Fairest—Squarest offer: It obligates NO ONE to BUY or DO ANYTHING! Its as free from strings as a chicken is of teeth. A phone call is all that you are asked to do. Just phone us and say:

"I'd like to see if I want to use gas for cooking; I'd like to know if gas heaters will heat our home properly. I'd like to know how much gas we would use for ten days."

THAT'S ALL THAT YOU DO!— THIS IS WHAT WE DO—

— and we want it strictly understood that you are, in NO MANNER, obligated to us: We will send up a Gas Range to your home, set it up ready for use and if you desire we will inspect your rooms and place in them the size and type of heater we think is best suited. That's what we do—without obligating you. Without even making a sale's talk to you!

THEN YOU DO THIS: See if you want to cook and heat with gas, see if it costs you less or more than you may expect. Try the whole thing, range and heaters for TEN DAYS, test—in your own kitchen, if for any reason you do not want it, don't want the heaters—just phone us and say: "Come and get your stoves."—that's all there is to it! We won't argue with you one second!

WHAT'S THE BIG IDEA YOU ASK?

We want to first render to our friends and patrons a real worth-while service. Under present circumstances in Lubbock we believe it best that you SEE FOR YOURSELF—with your own eyes—uninfluenced by sales talk! That's all there is to the proposition. That's the only reason we are making it.

CAN YOU THINK OF ANYTHING FAIRER?

German Army Man Comes To America For His Vacation

BERLIN, Oct. 14—General Wilhelm Heye, commander in chief of the German military forces, is coming to the United States for a tour of recreation.

Like the majority of German officers in the days before the war, General Heye hails from a military family, the male members of which automatically became officers of the army or navy.

His advance was rapid to the rank of captain and he was assigned to the general staff in 1901. At the outbreak of the world war he was made chief of staff of the second army of reserves, in which position he proved himself, by his brilliant crossing of the Vistula in July, 1915, and by his magnificent repulses of murderous Russian attacks such as dashing and resourceful military leader that he was decorated with the order of "Pour le Merit," created by Frederick the Great, the highest decoration conferred in the German army for personal valor.

In November, 1918, the thankless task developed upon him of collecting the opinions of 33 generals and colonels still at the fighting front and submitting by order of General Groener the following report to the Kaiser:

"The troops are still loyal to your majesty, but they are very fatigued and disinterested and desire nothing but rest and peace. They will not march against the Fatherland now, not even with your majesty at their head, nor will they march against Bolshevism. Their sole longing is a truce and every hour, is of the utmost importance."

Use of Natural Gas Growing in Popularity. The real test of merit may be found in the test which time applies, to any commodity or character. Applying this test to Natural Gas, will be interesting for you to know, that in the decade from 1916-1926, the sales of this commodity increased from 100 billion cubic feet to 1,200 billion cubic feet annually. A wide field for Natural Gas has developed in Industrial heating; there is a very good reason for this. Natural Gas is subject to perfect control and simplifies heating operations. In homes, gas-fired heating units are being installed at the rate of 100,000 annually. It's adaptability is being daily proved in numberless communities. THIS HAS HAPPENED
 A woman's gloves and handbag are found at the scene of Benson's murder, and a large gray automobile is reported to have been standing outside at midnight. Markham tells Vance he is going to arrest Miss St. Clair, the owner of the handbag. Vance insists that the evidence is worthless and that she is innocent.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XII
 Markham turned on him with considerable warmth.

"Does it mean nothing in the way of evidence, even to your layman's mind, that a woman's intimate and necessary articles, which she has carried throughout the evening, are found in her escort's quarters the following morning?"

"In admitting that it does not," Vance acknowledged quietly, "I no doubt expose a legal perception lamentably inefficient."

"But since the lady certainly wouldn't have carried these particular objects during the afternoon, and since she couldn't have called at the house that evening during Benson's absence without the housekeeper knowing it, how, may one ask, did these articles happen to be there the next morning if she herself did not take them there late that night?"

"Pon my word, I haven't the slightest notion," Vance rejoined. "The lady herself could doubtless appraise your curiosity. But there are any number of possible explanations you know. Our departed 'cheaterfield' might have brought them home in his coat pocket—women are eternally handling men all manner of gewgaws and bundles to carry for 'em, with the cooling request: 'Can you put this in your pocket for me?' ... Then again, there is the possibility that the real murderer secured them in some way, and placed them on the mantel deliberately to mislead the police."

"Women don't 'know' never put their belongings in such neat, out-of-the-way places as mantels and hat racks. They invariably throw them down on your favorite chair or your center table."

"And, I suppose," Markham interjected, "Benson also brought the lady's cigarette butts home in his pocket?"

"Stranger things have happened," returned Vance equably, "though I shan't accuse him of it in this instance. ... The cigarette butts, you know, be evidence of a previous conversation."

"Even your despised Heath," Markham informed him, "had sufficient intelligence to ascertain from the housekeeper that she sweeps out the grate every morning."

Vance sighed admiringly. "You're so thorough aren't you? ... But, I say, that can't be, by any chance, your only evidence against the lady?"

"By no means," Markham assured him. "But, despite your superior distrust, it's good corroboratory evidence nevertheless."

"I dare say," Vance agreed, "seeing with what frequency innocent persons are condemned in our courts. ... But tell me more."

In the grate correspond to the one you found in her case?"

"Just as I was leaving the office this noon the men 'phoned in their reports. They had learned that the woman has a fiance, a chap named Leacock, who was a captain in the army, and who would be likely to own just such a gun as Benson was killed with. Furthermore, this Captain Leacock lunched with the woman the day of the murder and also called on her at her apartment the morning after."

Markham leaned slightly forward and his next words were emphasized by the tapping of his fingers on the arm of the chair.

"As you see, we have the motive, the opportunity, and the means. ... Perhaps you will tell me now that I possess no devastating evidence."

"My dear Markham," Vance affirmed calmly, "you haven't brought out a single point which could not easily be explained away—by any bright school boy." He shook his head lugubriously. "And on such evidence people are deprived of their liberty! ... Pon my word, you had no me. I tremble for my personal safety."

Markham was nettled.

"Would you be so good as to point out, from your dizzy pinnacle of sapience, the errors in my reasoning?"

"As far as I can see," returned Vance evenly, "your particularization concerning the lady is innocent of reasoning. You've simply taken several unproved facts, and jumped to a false conclusion."

"I happen to know the conclusion is false because all the psychological indications of the crime contradict it—that is to say the only real evidence in the case points unmistakably in another direction."

He made a gesture of emphasis, and his tone assumed an unwonted gravity.

"And if you arrest any woman for killing Alvin Benson, you will simply be adding another crime—a crime of deliberate and unpardonable stupidity—to the one already committed. And between shooting a bomber like Benson and ruining an innocent woman's reputation, I'm inclined to regard the latter as the more reprehensible."

I could see a flash of resentment leap into Markham's eyes; but he did not take offense. Remember, these two men were close friends, and, for all their divergence of nature, they understood and respected each other. Their frankness—severe and even mordant at times—was, indeed, a result of that respect.

There was a moment's silence; then Markham forced a smile.

"You fill me with misgivings," he accused mockingly; but, despite the lightness of his tone, I felt that he was half in earnest. "However, I hadn't exactly planned to arrest the lady just yet."

"You reveal commendable restraint," Vance complimented him. "But I'm sure you've already arranged to haul her into court, and perhaps trick her into one or two of those contradictions so dear to every lawyer's heart—just as if any nervous high strung person could help indulging in apparent contradictions while being cross-questioned as a suspect in a crime they had nothing to do with. ... To put 'em on the grill—most accurate designation. So reminiscent of burning people at the stake, what?"

"Well, I'm most certainly going to question her," replied Markham firmly, glancing at his watch. "And one of men is escorting her to the office in half an hour; so I must break up this most delightful and edifying chat."

"You really expect to learn something incriminating by interrogating her?" asked Vance. "I know, I'd jolly well like to witness your humiliation. But I presume your heckling of suspects is a part of the legal artana."

Markham had risen and turned toward the door, but at Vance's words he paused and appeared to deliberate.

"I can't see any particular objection to your being present," he said. "If you really care to come."

I think he had an idea that the humiliation of which the other had spoken would prove to be Vance's own, and soon we were in a taxicab headed for the criminal courts building.

 got up the ten commandments for wives—and for all other gentlemen who persist in criticizing the ladies—Lord, dress 'em, I mean bless 'em. Anyway here's the first answer received to the commandments. It was written by Margaret McBride Hoss but The Plainsman doesn't know whether or not the writer lives in this section of the state. The lady who sent it in, with a brief note concerning it, didn't say. At any rate—here's the pence:
WOMAN'S ANSWER
 I wish you'd quit raggin' us wimmin
 'bout everything under the sun.
 The clothes we don't wear,
 And our fuzzy bobbed hair,
 Ain't none of your business—jest
 none.
 You don't never hear us berrin'
 'bout waistlines, and morals and socks;
 They're honest, Lord know,
 But don't ever suppose,
 That we let them give us any shocks.
 You're always so hot up and peevish
 'bout everything the atmosphere blue;
 But we don't get riled,
 When you act kinda wild,
 And sling all that language at you;
 Can't nothin' we do ever please you.
 Why blame all the mischief on us?
 Since Adam ragged Eve,
 I surely believe,
 You men ain't done nothin' but fuss!

 Come on now ladies, hand in your slaps. The men folks have had their round and now it's your time. Address them to The Plainsman and if they're not too long we'll print 'em.

 Last fall Lubbock high school played a football game with the Electro team for Saturday, October 22, this year. Tech was matched to meet Sul Ross college in Amarillo on the same date so high school officials looked forward to a nice crowd. The Tech game at Amarillo, however, was shifted to Lubbock this week, due to the fact that Amarillo was staging a country fair. The Lubbock Hi-School came as well as the Tech-Sul Ross
 't. Considerable expense is involved in bringing the Electro team here and naturally the local boys want to clear a little on the side.
 So help them out.

 Texas Tech and the Mastadors haven't a stronger booster than The Plainsman. The readers of this column need no testimony to support that statement. Yet while he is in favor of backing the Tech and Tech students to the limit he has often felt since the advent of the college that the citizens as a whole have forgotten the high school in many of its activities and endeavors. Lubbock high school, as The Plainsman sees it, has just as much right to liberal support as the Tech—and he'd like to see both institutions get everything that
 Lubbock can possibly do for them.

Morrow Hasn't An Iron Hand—Which Fact Pains State Department Heads Who Saw Their Model In Predecessor

A New Yorker in Paris
 PARIS, Oct. 14.—"Gay Paris" is not particularly gay. At least, not as Broadway defines the word.
 At 11 o'clock one can shoot up the Rue de la Paix and hit only a vagrant taxi. At 11 o'clock the number of persons on the sidewalk cafes that front the Avenue de l'Opera could be counted in French even by me—and I can barely reach 10.
 Only the Montmartre and the dance rooms of the fashionable hotels supply the brand of "naughty" most people associate with Paris.
 The fact is that few Americans appreciate or comprehend the sort of gaiety that is Parisian.
 Folk who have dwelt in American suburbs where simple, thrifty pleasures were once engaged in are best capable of catching the casual gaiety that lies in nothing more exciting than strolling up and down the boulevards and avenues with your arm around your best gal.
 The chief difference between the Parisian girl and her swain is that the Parisian makes no effort to hide from the world that he is in love with her and, as likely as not, he will stop at every half block to embrace his companion whereas his American country cousin will wait until he reaches the dark poplar line that rims the town.
 But the Parisian will sit down with his "gal friend" at a sidewalk cafe and spend an hour or slipping at a half-litre of "vin rouge," whereas the boys in Main Street rush their girls to the corner soda fountain or dash in the car to some nearby roadhouse there to tip up four rate gis until dizzy.
 The gay Parisian, on the other hand, will sit for hours over his glass, chatting now and then with the pretty maid at his table while she sips of coffee and cognac. And their gaiety will be entirely conversational; it will be a quiet, civilized gaiety which has learned to find amusement in watching the world pass by on the sidewalk.
 For the Parisian man and his maid have little, if any, money to spend. A few francs in the pocket is the entire supply for an entire evening's entertainment. The maids and their boy friends have had to learn how to be gay, though thrifty in fact the entire city of Paris is thrifty. Yet it seems to go dancing down the streets, and there is a gaiety about the buildings about the boulevards and about those lighted, festooned and gaily pointed sidewalk cafes that can be found anywhere and everywhere.
 It is the city, then, that is gay rather than the average Parisian. In two visits to the "gay life" of Montmartre, I have seen but a couple of people who might be Parisians, and these were accompanying American friends. Otherwise the "big spending belt" of Paris is made for, by and of the tourists and few indeed are the residents of Paris to be found there.
 In fact, it has seemed to me that if any of the old boys of New Centers care to revive the lost art of whittling, this is the place to do part why some of its bureaucrats look lunkane at Morrow.

 They would be much happier if they could have put a career man in the job. The selection came not long after Vice President Dawes had sneered at the career system in a public address, recommending that able men of affairs be put in the important posts of the foreign service. Although the reactionary Dawes may have had in mind the good old days when the foreign service was packed with political angels and lame ducks, one might almost have thought that President Coolidge had chosen Morrow after reading the Dawes speech.
 Secretary Kellogg's feelings must be somewhat mixed. If, as appears, the Morrow appointment is a repudiation of his methods, he might be expected to hand in his resignation. But the belief is that Mr. Kellogg will serve out his term, but his quitting provides ammunition for the anti-administration forces which will be on the warpath in the next Congress.
 THE appointment is supposed to be popular among other cabinet members. Secretary Hoover, for instance, is understood to have opposed Kellogg's stiff policy in favor of one which would allow Mexico to develop into a better market for American goods. Although Mr. Coolidge is said to have based his so-called public rebuke of Hoover on the latter's disagreement with Kellogg, it would seem that he had swung over to the Hoover idea.
 In fact, if Mexico can keep peace, pay interest on her bonds and refrain from confiscating American property, she would seem to be free of the spectre of American intervention for an indefinite period.

With Our West
 BY JAMES L. DOW
 Contemporaries
 A magazine recently reprinted an editorial published in a Boston newspaper sixty-one years ago which commended the authorities for arresting one Joshua Comp- smith because he attempted to "ex- fert funds from ignorant and super- stitious people by exhibiting a device which he says will convey the human voice any distance over metallic wires so that it will be heard by the listener at the other end."
 The Boston editor went on to say that this get-rich-quick scheme called the instrument a "telephone" which was obviously intended to imitate the word telegraph, and win the confidence of those who know of the success of the latter instrument without understanding the principles on which it is based.
 The very old far-seeing editor pointed out that well-informed people know that it was impossible to transmit the human voice over wires as may be done with dots and dashes and signals of the Morse code and concluded by ex- pressing the hope that the fate of this man might be an example to other senseless schemers who enrich themselves at the expense of their fellow creatures.
 Within a decade after that incident Alexander Graham Bell proved to the world that what the Boston editor and everyone else thought couldn't be done, belonged in the realm of actuality, and today the telephone is only one of many in- ventions that have been devised for the use of man.
 The moral is obvious. The person who closes his mind to new ideas has lost his usefulness. Of course, there are limits beyond which one can not safely go in ac- cepting things of recent origin at their face value, but to condemn them without a fair hearing is grossly unjust.
 The Boston editor was writing his honest views, which were limited by the thought of the time. He was influenced by the same skep- ticism that prevailed when far-seeing men talked of flying like birds and of hearing sounds thousands of miles distant without the use of wires to transmit the sound.
 We may smile in a supercilious way today when we read the editorial written more than a half century ago, but we must remember that though marvelous ad- vancement has been made, all of us are hedged about by the same limitations that hampered the Boston writer. None of us dare for- get that the next half century has in store for mankind—Exchange.
 There are still plenty of people who are doubtful of every new undertaking, and predict all sorts of dire calamities. It was said of the wireless telegraphy that it would never work successfully. It was also thought wireless tele- phony would never be a success. It was predicted that radio would never work, and it was said away back several years ago that auto- mobiles could never be put into practical use, and it was also said that airplanes would never fly, and that submarines would never be successful, and that there could not be a flight made by a plane across the Atlantic, still all of these things have come to pass, and there is really nothing to be surprised at that the people in the days when the above occurrence was noted that there should be doubt in the minds of the people in that country, when that fellow put out his voice roaring across the wires to reach one in a nearby communi- ty.
 In this day and time there is nothing that seems impossible in the inventive mind of people, and we would not say it out loud that anything on earth cannot be done. This is an age of rapid develop- ment. People with inventive minds are pushing forward, and while the real inventions of steam and elec- tricity were the basis of most of the inventions of today, the men who are thinking of new things are inspired these to such extent that the men who first thought the ideas through would stand in amazement to see some of the achievements and the additions that have been made to their original thoughts.

Thought For Today

EDM—A Thought
 Beware not thyself of tomorrow,
 For thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.—Prov. 27:1.

Has Mercy

Grandma and Grandpa Hancy came to court in Cleveland the other day, praying a divorce. After forty-four years of married life years in which they had seen their own offspring bring into the world a third generation, things had gone fearfully wrong with Grandma and Grandpa Hancy and they wanted to walk the rest of the trail apart.
 Grandfather Hancy had not provided for her adequately, and he used rough language and nagged her Grandma complained. Grandpa countered with the charge that Grandma refused to get his meals that she went out nights without saying where she was going and that she once threatened him with a butcher knife.
 We know judges who would have heard the evidence, pondered it and perhaps granted the old couple a divorce. We know judges whose balance between tragedy and humor fact is one but better than that. But this judge happened to have what many lack—a sense of kindly humor and a quick feeling of sympathy. He called an extra session of court and called in the Hancys—all of them—Grandma and Grandpa and the nine children they reared on Grandpa's meager wage.
 They're both put up with a lot—Grandma and Grandpa. There have been days, we'll bet, when that old man was so crotchety that a den of tigers would have fled from him. We don't doubt a bit, either, that Grandma had her little moments of fire. Maybe she did tell the old fellow that she'd slap him with a butcher knife if he didn't mind his business and quit shouting at her.
 There are times when pride wells right up and won't let us go on. That's all it is after all—pride, our refusal to bend a little, our unwillingness to let anyone else "bet the better of us."
 Probably both Grandma and Grandpa swallowed their pride so often that they finally rebelled at the diet. It got too steady. Way put up with it any longer, especially when it's so easy to get a divorce? So off to court.
 With all the children there in that quiet little room, and the judge, however, their pride didn't seem so much after all. The little troubles that brought them there seemed much less, even more humorous as the telling of them continued. Finally, we'll venture, a little flush of shame came over both Grandma and Grandpa Hancy, and we'll bet they wished they were out of there and at home on the front porch, watching the world pass.
 The judge who refused their di- vorce and arranged a little family conference to iron out the troubles was a wise judge. More than that, he was merciful.
 Let Grandma and Grandpa Hancy walk the rest of the way together. We wish them a happy golden wed- ding day.

The Smith Baby

Three babies were born to three Smith families in a Cleveland hospital. Mrs. Sam Smith entertains the doubt that the baby given her was her own; it was a girl, and she believed she had given birth to a boy.
 The father declared that while doubt remained as to the parentage the baby should be left at the hospital. However, great the doubt someone we don't believe that Sam Smith could do just that. There should always be the fear that it was his own baby that he was leav- ing there, and that fear would overcome eventually any doubt as to the baby's identity.
 It is better to rear a child that might not be your own than to dis- card a baby that might be yours.

BARBS

Senator Shipstead, attached by bears in the mountains, turned a camera on them. The bears fled probably fearing their pictures would appear in the Congressional Record.
 Glemoucau ate cold ham and pickles on his 56th birthday. We'll probably be seeing a half-page about that one of these days.
 Science has shown the brain of woman to be equal to man's. The men probably will be willing to accept that, if the ladies are.
 Underwood being out of the presidential race this year, the 24 gentlemen from Alabama will have to learn a new song.
 A European physician announces he has found a way to create super- men. Ha! New York's welcoming committee shall not go unannounced.
 Social Note: The fall house- cleaning season is on in full swing in Indiana. Several prominent citi- zens are reported to be moving.

COST OF WEED SEED HEAVY IN GRAIN SECTION

$2,500,000 LOSS FOUND INCURRED IN FREIGHT CHARGES ALONE

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Spring wheat growers in Minnesota, Montana and the Dakotas are estimated by the department of agriculture to have suffered an avoidable market loss of $2,500,000 in the last four years, and to have paid an additional $2,500,000 for the privilege.

The $2,500,000 represents freight charges they paid railroads for hauling weed seeds, with their grain, and the $2,500,000 is the estimated loss forced on them because their wheat is not clean.

Reduction in Sale
For the four year period the reduction in sale price averaged 1.5 cents per bushel on wheat that contained weed seeds and stems, chaff, straw, foreign material and various other materials known to federal grain standards as "dockage."

In round figures the market loss added to the cost of weed seed transportation and the value dockage would have had as a farm feed, amounts to $25,000,000. It would have cost approximately $12,500,000 to clean the wheat on the farms, but by so doing the growers would Save 100,000 bushels of 25-cent dockage. Of the 1926 crop delivered to country elevators in the spring wheat areas of the four states, the dockage contained an average of 1.5 per cent dockage. Placed from the same states contained an average of 1.5 per cent dockage from 1922 to 1926 the dockage delivered by farmers to country elevators in the spring wheat section amounted to approximately 250,000 tons annually.

Weed Seed in Soil
Increases are attributed principally to the fact that weed seeds will remain in the soil in a viable condition for several years and will germinate and grow into plants whenever they are brought near the surface through plowing or other cultivation.

One square foot of North Dakota soil, five inches deep, taken from a field that had been chipped in wheat continuously for 15 years, was found by actual count to contain 4.211 weed seeds, equivalent to 187,000,000 weed seeds per acre. Wheat is sown at the rate of slightly less than 1,000,000 kernels per acre.

Annual Production
During the five years from 1922 to 1926, the average annual production of dockage in North Dakota has been nearly as much as the production of corn, and about two-thirds as much as the production of barley; whereas the farm value of the dockage crop, known as "screenings" when fed to livestock, amounted to slightly more than $5,000,000—less than half the value of the barley crop.

Eggs sent from China 50 years ago were served at a recent banquet of the Zoological Society of London, and the members pronounced to clean the wheat on the farms, but by so doing the growers would

Is This the World's Smallest Bible?

This tiny Bible, the property of M. H. Livingston of Covington, Ky., is said to be the world's smallest copy. A human hand is shown in the picture, depositing the Bible on a rostrum in a model church built by Livingston.

Holmes Letters Go To Congress Library

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—A packet of letters by Oliver Wendell Holmes, full of the genial sympathy and spirit which characterized the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," has been added to the collection of American historical and literary papers in the manuscript division of the Library of Congress. Holmes' son is the Associate Justice Holmes of the Supreme Court. The letters were written between 1869 and 1891 to Esther Berner Carpenter of Wakefield, R. I., author of "South County Neighbors," and contained much kindly comment and advice on her efforts in verse and prose. They dwindle in frequency with the passage of time, and toward the end he tells of his falling chion. They were preserved for many

U. S. PRESIDENT HARD TO PAINT ARTIST CLAIMS

PORTRAIT SKETCHER OF PUBLIC MEN FINDS COOLIDGE HARD

VIENNA, Oct. 14.—President Coolidge was the most difficult model for Dario Rappaport, young Viennese painter whose recent portraits of the American chief executive, the pope, Mussolini and Clemenceau have brought him wide renown.

The incident was a hard subject, Rappaport told the Associated Press, not because he was impatient or restive during his two one-hour sittings, but because of his extreme reserve. The executive failed, the painter found, to evince the personality, temperament and animation which are vital to the artist if he is to impart life, realism and tone to the portrait.

Addressed Congress
To overcome the difficulty Rappaport painted the president as he addressed congress, and thus, he thinks he caught more of the Coolidge personality and character than he could have obtained in several special sittings.

The Viennese artist has returned to the United States this month to be greeted by Miss Carpenter's relatives, and are considered an important addition to the library's collection of manuscripts which are valuable to the student of American literature.

"NICEST DOCTOR" EXPOSED

KRYNICA, Poland (By) — Dr. Janusz Chmorski was so nice to the women of his fashionable health resort, and he was so young and handsome, and he was such a marvelous dancer that soon all the ladies wanted to be treated by him.

Great was their consternation when the police searched the doctor's house and exposed him as only a "masseur." The famous doctor's papers, police said, were all forgotten.

Gold wire drawn so fine that 2,500 yards weigh only one ounce, was recently exhibited in England.

"I agree with George White that Luckies are the Best"

Said Flo Brooks to Lou Holtz while waiting for their cue to appear in "Manhattan Mary."

"In the theatre world, Luckies have become almost universal. Stage folks are very critical—voices must be kept in condition, throat irritation is a handicap. In 'George White's Scandals', most actors and actresses whose voices are important smoke Luckies both for voice protection and finer flavor. For these reasons I prefer them, too."

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Lubbock Housewives Are Courteous

Each student who has entered this Gas Stove profit-sharing sales contest, has been wonderfully impressed with the courteous treatment at the hands of Lubbock housewives, that they have received. Many of those participating are from other localities, and it has left a never-to-be-erased impression of Lubbock hospitality and thoughtfulness.

Contesting Students and the Myrick Hardware, Thank Them!

We want to thank the public for their enthusiastic response and co-operation, to this unique event.

Every Card Brought In-Every Sale Made To A Student's Prospect Means Money to The Student

Every card brought in by the head of a family (husband or wife) means that the student whose name it bears receives a credit of 10c. If that prospect makes a purchase of gas appliance, the student also receives a percentage of the profit we would make on the sale. It is a plan devised to help students of Texas Tech to earn a portion of their expenses while endeavoring to better fit themselves through education for their chosen vocation.

Commissions Are Paid Out of Our Profit!

In buying under this plan THE PURCHASER IS NOT PAYING THE COMMISSION IN THE FORM OF PAYING MORE FOR THE GAS APPLIANCE HE HAS PURCHASED. IT IS PAID OUT OF OUR REGULAR PROFIT, and we repeat, we will meet competition in the matter of PRICE, QUALITY, TERMS AND SERVICE. You benefit by purchasing gas appliances that bear the closest inspection as to quality, performance and economy,—the student benefits by sharing in our profit—and we benefit through the increased volume we will receive through this sales plan.

50-YEAR SILENCE ENDED

James Mason of Great Britain, England, made a vow to isolate himself for the rest of his life in such a way that he would never look upon the face of a woman again and never speak to any man except his brother, Thomas. The brother, who is now 85, two years younger than James, vowed that he would devote his life to the "vow" and guard him from intrusions. On two occasions recently Thomas renewed his vow in order to permit James to be seen by a pension officer and a clergyman he sent for when James suffered a stroke.
