Wanted: A Garbage Box That'll Stay; Two Ours Gone!

We had a good garbage trash box made out of an old sign, 1x12's.
Somebody needed it worse'n we did.

The "garbage men" want us to have another, so they brought us one Friday morning at 8:00 and by 9:00 it was not there.

We know, there's a lumber shortage, and all that, and we knew a lot of people have "taking ways", but we wish they'd leave our trash boxes alone—just back of the News office. No, we're not in the lumber business!!

Among the Baylor-Aggie fans
at the game in Waco Saturday, were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Arnold and sons, Bob and Gene.

Former NCH Officer Is Administrator of Services, Red Cross

The man behind the American Red Cross veteran's aid program is Co. Harry F. Thompson, formerly of North Camp Hood, and we believe, at one time he was Post Commander.

He has served 29 years in the regular army, including tours of duty in Panama, the Aleutians before retiring in March.

He was recently in Fort Worth, according to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, he was there and the program, he said, falls into three branches: Home service, which offers various aids to service men, veterans and their dependents;
claim service, which maintains representatives in Veterans Administration, regional and branch offices to assist in veterans' claims, and veterans' hospital service, which provides field directors to co-ordinate Red Cross activities in hospitals throughout the country.

The Fort Worth meeting is one of a series Thompson is attending in various states to consider existing conditions and determine if policy revisions are necessary.

Head of Spastic Circle Bosque County Looks At NCH Hospital

Mrs. August Krueger, president of the Bosque County Spastic Circle, Meridian, accompanied by Mr.
Krueger was here Thursday in the interest of the Spastics of the state.

The Kruegers, with Bill Thompson, Chamber of Commerce Manager, Gatesville, looked over the hospital at North Camp Hood with the view of using it as a spastic center if arrangements could be made. Mrs. Krueger said the layout was perfect.

USO Drive Flopping! Less Than $100 on Believe, $1200 Quota

"Not so hot", is the report from Mrs. Chester Wilson, who is the financial secretary of the USO drive, or some other title maybe.

But, the drive simply isn't going, and some say the committees ain't doin' right by the USO, but anyway, they've got around $60 on the $1200, and Gatesville hasn't done that way heretofore.

Former Employee of News, Owner of Walnut Springs Hustler

It's Editor & Publisher Wilson
Brazzil, now.

Wilson who came to us from near the Flat, has made a grand record in the newspaper business after he learned the fundamentals of news, sports, and mechanical work at the News office.

From here, he went to Littlefield,
The Lamb County Leader, from there Uncle Sam took over, and he was Editor of the Garden City, (Kans.) Army Air Corps publication. After service, he was employed by a Conroe newspaper as operator-printer.

His newspaper is a six-column four page newspaper and is a very credible publication, carrying sports, news features, advertising.
Wilson has with him, a younger brother Billy Brazzil who was with him in Conroe, and they certainly should make a go of this new enterprise.

CIVIC BANNER TO AMENTS

Mrs. Bill Ament and the Misses Jewel and Myrtle Windborn were in Hamilton on Tuesday afternoon visiting with friends. Mrs. Ament is the former Miss Dora Kingsbury of Evans and Hamilton. She is a member of one of the earliest of the pioneer families of Hamilton county. Her grandmother, Mrs. Emily Kingsbury was one of the first public school teachers on the then frontier of Texas, Hamilton, Mills and Coryell counties. E. G. Kingbury was the younger of the two children of Mrs. Emily Kingsbury, and Dora Ament is the youngest of the E. G. Kingsbury family. Mrs. Ament established "Bill's Cafe" while her husband was in the armed service, and this restaurant has become one of the most widely known and popular eating places in Central Texas. The Aments have a nice new home in the Highland Addition to the city of Gatesville, and have improved expansive surrounding grounds completing one of the show places in the city. They are equipped with chicken yards and raise the chickens served at their cafe, and also produce the eggs to supply their restaurant. Mr. Ament's latest enterprise is a bunch of pigs he is feeding out for slaughter to supply his customers with pork and his kitchen with fresh lard for cooking. The home place as well as the cafe add up into the "achievement" of this young couple.

WITH THE COLORS

Fred Dyer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dyer of Slater, is in Gatesville on 5-day terminal leave, and is expecting his discharge from the U. S. Army to reach him by mail within a few days. He is making his home with his sister, Mrs. Jack Wicker and husband. He was in Military service for 19 months, serving with the 53d Truck Battalion. He was a truck driver, and came to Gatesville from Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Young Dyer has not decided as yet just the line of business in which he will engage, but will establish his residence here and he thinks at present that he will engage in trucking.

F1-C Lehman L. Snyder of the U. S. Navy, son of Mrs. C. L. Snyder of Gatesville, is at home on 12-day leave from the South Seas. Young Snyder is popular in a large circle of friends in his home city, Mosheim and other place in this section of Texas.

S-Sgt. Joe B. Spence arrived in Gatesville on Saturday, October 12, and proceeded from this city to his home in McGregor to join his wife and young son, Charles. He has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Spence at Mound. Joe B. Spence had been in Japan for 19 months, and his last station was Osaka. He engaged in the battle of Luzon. He came by plane from Okinawa to California, the trip over requiring only 42 hours.

Gatesville Business Man Takes Miss Uneva Chafin For His Bride, Live Here

A marriage of wide interest was consummated in pedges exchanged by Miss Uneva Chafin and Tom V. Freeman on the morning of October 1 at 9:30 o'clock.

The ceremony was solemnized in the home of the Rev. Ollie Williams at Flat, who read the ritual, concluding with the impressive ring service.

The bride wore a becoming model in a grey wool gabardine suit with blue blouse and accessories in black. Her corsage was of white gladioli.

After the ceremony the couple left for Mineral Wells on a short honeymoon.

They will reside in their new rock home out on Hilltop west of Gatesville, as soon as the house is completed.

The bride, a daughter of Henry Chafin of Pearl and the late Mrs. Chafin, was reared in the present home community of the family and is a graduate of Pearl High school. For the past year she has been employed at the City Drug Store in Gatesville. Mr. Freeman, a graduate of Gatesville High School, is a son of W. T. Freeman of Pearl. He lost his mother in death some time ago.

Young Mr. Freeman is a successful real estate dealer in Gatesville.

The Evant Elks trampled the Pearl Dragons 31-13 on the Dragon's home field last Friday afternoon.

It was a hustling game from the start to finish. Each team scored early in the game. Soon after the first half the Elks really "locked horns" with the Dragons and stepped out for a good lead and kept it to the finish.

The Elks are working hard each afternoon getting in shape for their game with Fairy Friday afternoon here on the home field.—Four Co. Press.

North Junior High "Out Splashes Jr." Hi. Squad Hornets

North Junior High's Eagles looked more like ducks Thursday afternoon as they sloshed to a 26-0 victory over the Gatesville Jr. High eleven in a downpour of rain on the Eagle Field.

Joe Mack Gresham featured for the Eagles, scoring one touchdown in the first quarter by a 40-yard gallop and adding a pair of extra points.

The birds counted once in each period, William Hyde, Raymond Marlow and Robert Nixon joining Gresham with touchdowns. Hyde's came on a neat 30-yard splash in the second quarter.

Gatesville was unable to get going on the slippery field and never threatened the Eagle goal.

James Robinett, Charles Lane and Eugene McCutchen paced the north defense in bottling up the visitors.

Son Born Posthumously To George Edwards World War Veteran

Announcement is made of the birth of a son to Mrs. George Edwards and the late George Edwards. The child arrived in the King's Daughters Hospital in Temple, October 18, and is fine and healthy, weighing 7 pounds 6 ounces. He has been given the name George Lloyd. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williamson of Pearl, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Edwards of Troy.

The baby's father served for 32 months in the U. S. Navy, and was discharged from the Seabee organization as a chief petty officer. He spent 24 months on Iwo Jima. Following his discharge George Edwards had returned to his former employment in the oil fields at Odessa, where after only a few months he met a tragic death by the accidental discharge of a rifle he was taking from a car. He had purchased the gun and was leaving the auto to shoot prairie chickens.

Many friends of the war veteran and Mrs. Edwards express good wishes for the future of the little baby boy.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

The story of the aristocratic Rondell family is the story of 52nd Street on which they live. When Rufus married show girl Evelyn Macey, his horrified sisters cut off all relations with him. He and his wife lived across the street from them, raised a baby and when Evelyn died, she made him promise to make Margaret a lady. Meanwhile, Evelyn's old friends, Sid and Jack, have progressed in the cabaret business. As prohibition advances they become rich operating 52nd Street's most prominent speakeasy, with Ben Zamarelli, young pianist as their principal attraction. Ben's lovable old father, Fiorello, objects to his son's employment, gets drunk. As Ben leads him home, Fiorello stops before Rufus' home to sing to the accompaniment of Margaret's piano playing, precipitates a riot. Margaret, now a young lady, is attracted to Ben. Fiorello is saved from the police by Rufus, who knows him as a great chef.

Chapter Three

Inside the house, Rufus bandaged Fiorello's wounds while the latter smacked his lips over a rare vintage from the famed Rondell cellar.

"Tell me about your son," Rufus urged him. "Didn't you say once that he was going to be a great musician?"

"Bah! a easy speaker, that's what he is. He make-a me sick in the head. You know, Mr. Rufus, if I have the money I put those Jacks and Sids out of business, then my son he's gotta be a musician. I make him out of a job."

Fiorello's indignation amused Rondell. Then he became reflective. "Your cooking, my wine," he mused. "Fiorello!" his mind was made up. "Suppose we call that a bargain. Zamarelli and Rondell. What do you say?"

"What do I say," shouted the amazed Fiorello. "I'm so happy, I got beats in the belfry. Zamarelli and Rondell, such a PRETTY name!"

But if Fiorello and Rufus had hoped to put the others out of business, they had not counted on entertainment hungry New York. 52nd Street was an established trend, it was the alley of flourishing casinos.

All around the town the good word was spread. If you liked superb food, good wines and fun, 52nd Street was the place. There was more business than any of them could take care of. And, as fast as the startled residents discovered what had happened to their prized street and moved out, their premises were snatched up at unheard of prices by new restaurateurs who wanted to cash in on the harvest.

As a matter of fact, the impulse that drove Rondell into this new business was his salvation. Stocks and financial investments dwindled to the vanishing point, as the cafe business soared. He had money aplenty with which to continue the education of his daughter, with which he could keep her fluttering through European capitals. But his associates and friends were sworn to silence as to the source of his wealth.

Fiorello became the patron saint of their place. The patrons loved to chatter at the highly flavored character of his speech. His waltzes and help were fanatically devoted to him. Fiorello was happy because Margaret was coming home. A few doors away, Benny was also happy over her homecoming. But for different reasons. There was a budding romance between the children of the two partners.

Rufus was perturbed. His lawyer was pleading with him.

"Rufus, don't be an idiot, you can't go on letting your sisters believe they still have money. You must let me tell them the truth, that they are wiped out, that you are supporting them."

"But I won't let you," Rufus was obstinate. "They're my sisters, James, even though they won't have anything to do with me. I love them. All they have left is their pride, and if you kill that you kill them."

"Of course, you haven't any pride," the lawyer persisted. "Your daughter is coming home from Europe. Look at all these letters." He waved his hand over a heap that littered Rufus' desk. Rufus winced perceptibly.

"All the rejections to the party you had wanted to give her. Rejections from people who were once proud to be known as your friends. Your pride is hurt, Rufus, and you know who influenced those rejections."

Rufus spoke quietly. "My sister Adela. Her's isn't my only problem, James. My real problem is ahead of me. I don't want Margaret to know what kind of business I am in. I can't tell her I'm giving money to my sisters."

"You're right, James, I'm hurt. But not for myself. Once upon a time I promised the sweetest girl in the world that I'd make a lady out of our daughter. The kind of lady that would make Adela ask forgiveness..."

Outside of Rufus' door Fiorello stood with jaws clamped tight in determination and anger. He had started to enter the office, withdrawn and stood spellbound as he heard his dearest friend pour out his grief. Fiorello was determined to do something about it.

He settled firmly on his head, he crossed the street to the sisters' residence. In a few minutes he was admitted to their presence, had stated the purpose of his visit.

If Adela was affected, she did not betray her emotions. Finally she interrupted his rambling pleas. "I won't listen to any more of your nonsense. Good afternoon, sir!"

"Okay, okay," retorted Fiorello, swinging his hat in embarrassment. "Maybe when I go back and he is crying like a little baby, I won't be so nice like I just been. Believe me, if I gotta brother what loves you like-a he does..."

"You mean he loves us," breathed Letitia. "Did he say so?"

"You betcha my boots, he say it all the time —"

"If he loved us he would come to use," Adela insisted flintily.

Fiorello was beaten. With a nod to the sisters, he turned and proceeded to leave. Letitia fluttered after him, calling his name. "Please tell Rufus it wasn't my fault," she begged. "Tell him I have everything he ever wrote. And everything about Margaret. She's beautiful, Mr. Zamarelli — Why, Mr. Zamarelli, you're crying."

"Not a cry," Fiorello asserted. "Your sister — she galls in my eye."

In Europe

Leaving New York at eleven o'clock A. M., I flew to London in just 20 hours. A flight to London shows how the world is growing smaller. Our relations with other countries are becoming much more intricate as the globe shrinks, and our great need is better understanding which will beget wisdom.

For 20 years I have had a great personal interest in studying the secret of national prosperity, which of course is the sum of each individual's prosperity within the nation. This interest was first awakened when in 1925 I observed the poverty of China for the first time.

More Than Resources

Countries having equal resources are not always equally prosperous. That is an axiom most of our people accept readily. They have come to know, sometimes subconsciously, that our democracy is mixed of more, and perhaps finer, ingredients than statistical reports of national resources will show.

Surely, what makes one nation happy, peaceful, wealthy, need not make another nation troublesome and ripe for revolution from within. Truly, there are many ingredients in the recipe for national well-being.

Like Good Deeds

Today, when the popular catchword, even internationally, is "security," we know that one of the most valued ingredients is prosperity. If people everywhere could understand and achieve the conditions necessary for prosperity, every home-neighbor and every world-neighbor would benefit. This is like a good deed that pays off for everybody.

Currently, the writer is concluding a stay of eight weeks in Europe, the full benefit of which the readers of this column will have opportunity to share. On the itinerary are England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland, and France.

What is the Secret?

The objective is to study political, economic, social, and religious conditions in each country, with a hope of arriving at definite and significant conclusions regarding the secret of individual and national prosperity.

If we can be sure why it is that American wage earners and farmers can purchase with their earnings two times as much food, clothing, shelter, and transportation as the workers on any other continent can purchase with their wages, we shall then understand the factors we must preserve as vital to all of us in our period of reconstruction.

For awhile, I would like to be your European observer, for it is my conviction that some important lessons can be pointed up by studying our continental neighbors. Ours is a great economy. If we in America can have enough foresight to cooperate for the sake of production, our land can long remain the land of freedom and plenty.

Beginning next week, this column will survey postwar England, and will then proceed with some significant observations of continental nations.

Mrs. Tip Nabors and mail niece made a trip by plane to Houston this week end to be with her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Montgomery have bought a farm in the Plainview community, and expect to move in the near future. The Arnett community regrets to lose these nice people.

Mr. and Mrs. King are going to move to their place vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery.

Takes First Airplane Ride

The home in this city of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Cooper was a scene of gaiety through the past week end when they had with them their two sons and their daughter. At home were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cooper of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Singleton and family of Ft. Worth, and Roy Cooper of Arlington. Roy has recently received his license as an airplane pilot, and came to Gatesville in his plane. He prevailed upon his mother to make an over-city flight. After the take-off they "scouted" Camp Hood, the State School and other points, but Mrs. Cooper had become kind of airsick, and refused to try to take a bird's eye view of her home town from the air.

News of interest in a wide circle of Gatesville friends was learned in a conversation the first of this week with Mrs. Minnie Johnson of this city, who stated that her daughter, Miss Helen Johnson, an employe of the DuPont Company in Port Arthur Texas, had attended the A & M-TCU football game Saturday. She was the guest of George Halfin for the great gridiron tussle.

Little Bees Drop Game to 'Home Hornets 18-6 Fri. Nite

It was a scrap from whistle to whistle, and the locals only lacked the scoring punch to put over a sterling win. We can't discount the play of the visitors, because it was everything desired. Folks, it was just a bang-up game, sans bleacher support, which was only a fraction.

Daniels really punted, to Adams on 18, and he runs the entire way for touchdown, 82 yards behind good blocking. Hornets off side, and Home will try extra again, and the ball setter couldn't put ball up, and it's 6 all.

Melton takes on 7, returns on 26 on kickoff. Melton passes, intercepted by State home on the 32. Perry at end goes to 26 as quarter ends. Perry to Hensley pass incomplete. Adams, passes to Smith who takes on 8, and runs for touch down, pass over tackle. Kick no good. Home 12, Gatesville 6.
