Tiros Clicks Away On Orbit Photos

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Tiros 8, a mechanical meteorologist which snaps and transmits cloud and storm pattern photos almost in the twinkling of one of its camera eyes, went into orbit Saturday in a major step toward a global space weather forecasting network.

Dubbed "everyman's" satellite because of its potential usefulness to all nations, the new weather observatory is the first of the Tiros family equipped with an automatic picture transmission — APT — system. When perfected, APT will enable weather agencies or commercial interests around the world to tune in a Tiros satellite and receive "instant pictures" of local area weather for immediate analysis.

LAST OF YEAR

Tiros 8 vividly demonstrated its capability just five hours after its 4:30 a.m. take off aboard a three-stage Delta rocket in the last launching of the year from Cape Kennedy.

As the hatbox-shaped moonlet swung through its fourth orbit of the earth, ground stations at Wallops Island, Va., Greenbelt, Md., and Princeton, N.J., turned on receiving gear and officials at each post watched as pictures were beamed from more than 400 miles in space and reproduced on facsimile machines.

COLD FRONT

The photos showed cloud cover patterns, including a cold front moving in from the Atlantic Ocean, over a wide area of eastern Canada and the northeast United States. The ocean shoreline was clearly visible, as was the St. Lawrence River, and officials classed the pictures as sharper than anticipated.

About two hours later, during orbit No. 5, newsmen had a singside seat at another facsimile machine at Cape Kennedy as Tiros 8 relayed good quality pictures of the snow-covered Great Lakes area and a long stretch of East Coast from Delaware to southern Florida. In the latter, the launching center was shrouded by a heavy cloud formation.

The facsimile reproductions were on coarse paper and closely resembled the quality of an average newspaper photo. They were not as clear as the nearly 300,000 slick, glossy prints obtained by the seven earlier Tiros satellites.

Project officers Robert Rados and William Stroud of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Goddard Space Flight Center explained this was because of the difference in camera systems. They said improved APT cameras are being developed for later Tiros packages and the follow - on, Nimbus weather satellites.

Forty-five ground stations in 18 countries were equipped to receive from Tiros 8 after a handful of U.S. stations evaluated the system for a few days. Most of the facilities are on U.S. military installations around the globe, but five foreign weather agencies bought equipment to participate in the APT tests. Their stations are at Lanion, France; Melbourne, Australia; Malvern, England; Toronto, Canada, and the International Indian Ocean Expedition.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

We had our Christmas weather a week early. A stationary front flapped back and forth across the area, holding fog and freezing drizzle here most of the week. All things considered, this probably diminishes the odds for a white Christmas, which comes along here about once every quarter of a century.

* * *

Christmas shopping may not touch last year's peaks in several lines, but it picked up sharply for most stores last week. There is every prospect that Monday will be another stem-winder, and the runs may go down to the wire Tuesday. Postal volume was lagging somewhat, about five to eight per cent behind a year ago, but here again a big push was felt at the end of the week.

* * *

Tragedies are always painful, but particularly so near the holidays. It was especially sad to see Capt. Kenneth A. Cunningham fly to his death a week ago in a F-104 north of here. While it did not happen here, a crash near Llano reached out to touch Mrs. James W. Shaw. Her parents,

Don't Be A 52-Timer

A 52-timer is a Herald reader who has trouble every week digging up change for his newsboy.

On the other hand, a ONE-TIMER is a Herald reader who sends in his check to have the paper delivered to his door for all of 1964, and never worries about it again.

Thing about it, he not only is happier about saving time and making his newsboy happier, he makes a considerable saving.

The ONE-TIMER needs to send in his check though, because the reduced rate is good only this month. This comes to $18.85 (newsboy's share included). Smart people are ONE-TIMERS.

Shots, Flames Fatal For Six In Arkansas

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP)—Two children were the only survivors in a torch slaying Friday night in which six other members of their family died.

Police are holding Frank Harris, 56, a handyman of near Jonesboro, Ark., for questioning. He denied the killings.

Ronald Dever, 9, and his sister, Mary, 6, said they watched while a man shot their mother and father and then set their house on fire, killing four other sisters.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dever, both 30; Nelle, 8; Joann, 5; Sharon, 4; and Janet, 1, were recovered from the ruins of their farm home, seven miles north of Trumann on Saturday morning.

Ronald and Mary told Poinsett County Sheriff Ray Holmes that a man shot their father when Dever refused to turn over his billfold. They said their mother was shot when she screamed.

Ronald said he took Mary and fled out the back door of the house after the man drenched the house in fuel oil and set it on fire.

The children walked barefoot more than a mile to a neighbor's house where they told their bizarre story.

Officers arrested Harris at his home and took him to a Trumann clinic where the two children were being treated for exposure, frostbite, pneumonia and shock. A doctor said clothing of both children had been saturated with fuel oil.

Both children identified Harris as the man who shot their parents and set fire to the house, the sheriff said.

GREEKS, TURKS

Cyprus Fighting Kills 2, Hurts 9

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Blood flowed on Nicosia streets Saturday in the most serious display of animosity between Greek and Turkish Cypriots since Britain freed this Mediterranean island Aug. 16, 1960.

Two Turkish Cypriots were shot dead and nine persons—seven of Turkish and two of Greek blood—were wounded in two affrays that followed weeks of tension over proposed changes in the nation's constitution.

POLICE PATROL

First came an hour-long battle with machine guns, pistols and rifles that erupted shortly after midnight between a Turkish crowd and a police patrol on narrow streets dividing the Greek and Turkish sectors of the capital.

Among the Turkish Cypriots, a man and a woman were killed and five persons were wounded. Two Greeks were injured.

Police said the crowd started it, firing on the patrol. The Turkish leadership charged in a communique the incident was "a consequence of police methods used against the Turkish community."

MAIN SQUARE

Later, police and Turkish Cypriot students clashed in the main square of the Turkish sector. Seeking to quell a riotous demonstration, the police opened fire. Two Turkish youths were wounded.

Officers said the demonstrators had stoned or shot at Greek cars and buses, though none of the occupants was hit, and stormed the sector's police station in an attempt to raise the Turkish flag. Turkish Cypriot police chased them from the building.

A joint appeal for members of both communities to remain calm was broadcast by the Greek Cypriot President, Archbishop Makarios, and his Turkish vice president, Dr. Fazil Kutchuk.

ORTHODOX

About 80 per cent of Cyprus' 558,000 people are of Greek descent. They are adherents of the Greek Orthodox Church. Most of the rest are Moslems of Turkish extraction.

A constitution gives each community a chamber which exercises authority in religious, educational and cultural affairs and other matters of a purely communal nature.

President Makarios has asked for amendments, saying the provisions impede the functioning of the national government. The Turks have opposed this, objecting to any proposed revision that would weaken their rights.

MEMORIALS HELP FUND

Memorial gifts are among those giving the CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND a nice lift today.

Col. Charles Pierce, as he has in years past, remembered the Fund with a gift in memory of the Pierces' son, Bob, a former Big Spring High School student who met untimely death in a car accident. Employes of Wagon Wheel No. 3 sent a tribute to the memory of their late employer, H. M. Rainbolt.

This, the Sunday before Christmas, is a good day to remember those who are less fortunate than you. A gift to the Cheer Fund means holiday delight for poor children, will be a reserve fund to help families in dire distress. Make your check to CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND, and mail to The Herald.

Icy Weather Grips Texas

By The Associated Press

A wet blast of cold air engulfed North Texas Saturday. Predicting that winter would arrive in high fashion Sunday, the Weather Bureau issued heavy snow and hazardous driving warnings for some sections.

Forecasts called for up to five inches of snow in the Panhandle by Sunday. Motorists were warned that driving might be treacherous in North and Central Texas Saturday night.

Light snow was reported in numerous sections during the day, but little was measurable. Temperatures hovered near the freezing mark, but were expected to drop sharply after dark.

Snow was expected to fall in much of the northern third of the state during the night. But it was expected to end gradually from the west on Sunday.

A broken band of snow 25 miles wide fell about 5 p.m. along a line from Granbury to Fort Worth, Dallas and Bonham.

Freezing drizzle threatened to put a murderous cap on many highways in the great bulk of Central Texas. Light drizzle dotted South Texas.

House Aid Fight Flares Monday

A New Life Ahead

GOP Blocks Compromise Of $3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders Saturday gave up a two-day fight to pass a $3 billion foreign aid appropriations bill and called Congress back Monday to try again.

Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., told the House it would be held in session until it completed action on the bill, meeting on Christmas Day, if necessary.

Failure to get the bill to a vote over passive Republican resistance blocked plans to adjourn Congress and also canceled President Johnson's departure for Texas Sunday night.

IN WASHINGTON

A White House aide said Johnson would remain in Washington until the stalemate over the foreign aid bill is ended. He had been scheduled to leave at 7:30 p.m. Sunday to spend Christmas in Texas.

The aide blamed Republicans for the deadlock, calling it "a clear attempt by the Midwest isolationist wing of the Republican party headed by Mr. Halleck (Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana) to seize control of the Republican party and impose its will upon the foreign policy of the United States."

MAJORITY

The Republicans boycotted a meeting of the House Rules Committee, which was called to clear the foreign aid bill for a House vote and only six of 10 Democratic members appeared for the meeting, leaving the 15-member committee two short of a needed majority.

Two Republican members of the committee were seen in the capitol during the day but did not show up for the meeting.

The House and Senate sat idly by, subject to call, and after efforts to get a rules committee quorum were abandoned, they met in order to adjourn until next week.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger declined to speculate on when Johnson will re-schedule his trip. But it appeared he will not leave until Congress acts on the foreign aid bill or adjourns until Jan. 7 without doing so.

TO CONFERENCE

Shortly before dawn Saturday, the House Republicans caught the Democrats with nearly 100 members absent and sent the whole bill back to conference because it did not include a rigid ban against such credit guarantees. Although such a ban would apply to all goods it is aimed primarily at $250 million in wheat sales which President John F. Kennedy sanctioned in October.

President Johnson strongly opposes such a restriction and it has been rejected twice by the Senate.

Oil Plane Crashes, Burns At Midland; Four Escape

MIDLAND (AP)—An oil company plane crashed and burned during an instrument landing at the Midland airport Saturday but all four aboard escaped serious injury.

The two-engine Convair of the Union Oil Co. was making an instrument landing during a sleet storm which reduced visibility sharply.

The right wing hit the last tower of the instrument path and was torn off almost immediately. The plane skidded 400 yards and off the runway and burst into flames.

Ray Burke, 42, of Arcadia, Calif., Union Oil vice president, was the only passenger and he wasn't hurt.

"We were making what appeared to be a normal approach when the plane started to oscillate and we dropped in," Burke said.

"When the plane hit, we were lucky. It skidded off the runway and the cockpit section broke from the rest of the plane.

"I jumped from the rear exit and went around and opened a window and pulled out the co-pilot."

That was Jack Holder, 32, of Los Angeles, whose home town wasn't known. He was cut about the face.

Donald McKee, 42, of North Hollywood, Calif., the pilot, suffered burns on the back.

Arthur Urilta, 31, of Los Angeles, the first officer, suffered possible back injuries.

All were taken to Midland Memorial Hospital for treatment and observation.

Sgt. Billy Smith of the Highway Patrol reached the scene as the plane crashed and pulled McKee from the plane.

The plane started burning as it came to a stop.

The plane was en route from Houston to Los Angeles. It was a total loss.

Pieces of the plane were scattered over a 400 yard radius.

BAD WEATHER NO YULE SHOPPING DETERRENT
Teeming traffic jams downtown streets Saturday

Wintry Weather Fails To Halt Big Spring Christmas Flurry

It was not the kind of weather one might think would draw out the shopping public, but nevertheless Saturday was a wildly busy day for Big Spring stores.

Wintry temperatures, occasional fleeting falls of sleet, and a heavy overcast did not deter Christmas buyers. They were out en masse and streets teemed with pedestrian and motor traffic.

JAM OF CARS

By midafternoon the jam of cars on downtown streets had become so intense that policemen were stationed at strategic intersections to keep traffic moving. The lights were not working too well—there were too many cars to permit complete clearance between the signal changes.

Customers appeared to have realized suddenly there are just two more shopping days before Christmas, and that there were a lot of purchases they still needed to make.

Damp, chill weather had handicapped Christmas buying earlier in the week, but apparently the nearness of the day forced action, weather or not.

PEDESTRIANS

Pedestrians, with arms full of gaily wrapped packages, plodded purposefully along the streets. Gift wrappers in the stores were working at top speed.

Clerks said the buyers were not panicky — they knew what they wanted and most of them were shopping carefully.

Merchants generally estimated that the gross business for the Yule season this year might lag a little behind that of last December. The weather was one reason for this, merchants feel. Another was the Nov. 22 tragedy in Dallas when President Kennedy was assassinated. Somehow the impact of this incident has tended to dampen the holiday spirit.

COTTON SLOW

The weather also prevented the completion of the cotton harvest locally. This has had its effect on the cotton farmers. If the crop could have been ginned and out of the way, business men believe there might have been a reflected upturn in buying.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said there was little chance the 1963 Christmas mail would match the record breaking volume handled in 1962. The Post Office has been busy, he said, but not as busy as last year at this time. A week ago, the volume of mail was lagging nearly 300,000 pieces behind the figure for the same date a year ago.

"The bulk of the mail is already here," said Boatler. "We had a sizeable shipment Saturday and we'll have another big consignment today and again Monday and Tuesday. However, the big mail period is ended. We've just about had it, as far as the season's load is concerned."

POST OFFICE CLOSES

The Post Office, like all other state, federal and private establishments, will be shut down Christmas Day. The only mails handled will be the dispatching of letters dropped in the slot and the handling of incoming mailbags. Box mail will be put up but no windows in the office will be open and no route deliveries made.

Some stores are keeping late shopping hours for Yule buyers Monday and Tuesday.

Enter Stock In Odessa Show

Howard County 4-H Club members will enter 10 steers, five lambs and two quarterhorse fillies in the annual Sandhills Hereford and Quarterhorse show at Odessa Dec. 30 and ends Jan. 4.

This will be the initial stock show of the season for the county 4-H Club members and because the schools are shut down for the Christmas holiday season, most of the competitors will stay at the show for its duration. The club's newly renovated van, complete with kitchen and other facilities, will be on hand at Odessa and serve as a headquarters for the Howard County boys and girls.

Lovell Kuykendall, assistant county agent, said that the local delegation will leave for Odessa Dec. 29.

Mack Barr, Maxwell Barr, Linda Foster, Robert Haney, Dolores Lankford, Sharon Harrison, Mary Thornton and Gary McNew are to enter steers in the show. The two Barr boys will each have a steer on display and a third steer in which they are partners. Miss Lankford is to show two steers.

Steers will be judged Jan. 2. The five lambs to be shown will be entered by Mike Brady, David Brady, Diana Proctor, Dixie Coleman and Freddie Newman. Lamb judging is set for Jan. 1. The two quarterhorse fillies to be shown are entered by Robert Haney and Teresa Spears. The judging in this division will be Dec. 30.

More Endorsements For Insect Controls

Written endorsements, pledging cooperation and assistance in efforts to obtain more effective cotton insect control measures, continue to come in the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce office. Carlton Chapman, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said Friday that endorsements for insecticides for control of the tobacco bud worm and beet army worm now number close to 115,000.

Petitions were sent out from 126 West Texas Chambers of Commerce, to interested men and all were returned. Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. provided 25,000 endorsements; the Texas Farm Bureau 89,000, in addition to individuals.

Congressmen George Mahon, Graham Purcell, and W. R. Poage, endorsed the movement for more insecticides and for institution of a research center in the Plains area.

Other officials who have sent written endorsements are: Texas Gov. John Connally; Orville Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture; Dr. Shaw, Jack Futerbaugh and Wayne Bleas, aids to the secretary; L. J. Cappleman, Texas State Director, Farmers Home Administration, Lower Rio Grande Valley Chamber of Commerce, South Texas Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. E. F. Knipling, head of Entomology Research Division, Washington, D. C.

"Cotton farmers are taking heart in the firm belief that something will come out of the effort for stronger insecticides to curb the economic loss to areas infested by the tobacco bud worm and beet army worm," Chapman said.

Resident Of Stanton Dies

STANTON (SC) — Funeral will be held at 1:30 p.m. today for Richard Waymon Hardin, 44, who died about 7:30 a.m. Friday at Physicians Hospital after a brief illness.

Services will be at the First Baptist Church in Stanton, with the Rev. C. R. Mathis, pastor of the Lenorah Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Uhlman, pastor of the church here. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of Arrington-Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Mr. Hardin had lived about 10 miles northwest of Stanton. He had lived in Martin County since 1942, coming here from Howard County. He was born March 29, 1919 in Runnels County and was married to the former Lorena Graves, Stanton, on May 8, 1943. He had been a member of the Lenorah Baptist Church since 1948.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Betty Sue Hardin, and one son, Jerry Wayne Hardin, all of the home in Lenorah; two brothers, George Hardin, Corpus Christi, and Billy Hardin, Fort Worth; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hardin, Stanton.

Sewage Plant Still Incomplete

City Manager Larry Crow Friday said the city has received word from Forrest and Cotton, consulting engineers for the new sewage disposal plant, that several work items remain to be done. This statement was based on a report from J. D. Tullis, building inspector for the firm.

Forrest and Cotton officials, citing examples of work which has not been completed, listed: work on a control panel, electrical wiring, final check of blowers, completion of sludge collection equipment and installation of diffuser tubes.

Final inspection of the plant is not warranted at this time, according to a spokesman for the firm.

The Unwanted Christ

We interrupt the review of the letter to bring a week of lessons on "The Christ."

He was the unwanted Christ. This is the most pitiful fact of history. Christ is still unwanted; and this is the most pitiful fact of our times.

"He came unto his own, and his own received him not" (Jno. 1:11). The Jews judged Him to be unfit for their society. Pilate did not want Him in his court, so he sent Him to Herod; but Herod did not want Him either; he sent Him back. Finally they nailed Him to a cross and suspended Him between heaven and earth as though he were fit for neither place.

Today He is still unwanted as He stands at the door of the hearts of men and knocks. One witness of that fact will be the empty pew today.

Reader friend, we hope you will want to be in the services today. We shall look for you at 9:30, 10:30 and 7.

By T. H. Torbet, preacher, church of Christ, 3900 West Highway 80, where you are always welcome. —Adv.

JOHNSON'S FIRST MONTH

Kaleidoscope In White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A kaleidoscope in human form—Lyndon B. Johnson by name—finishes his first month in the presidency Sunday. And the variety of images he has projected is truly remarkable.

You remember the kaleidoscope, a gadget that produced an infinity of multicolored patterns, all of them fascinating. It was all done with mirrors and lights.

Space is too confined to describe all the images of Johnson that have emerged from his rapid-fire conferences, news releases, press conferences and what not, but here are few of the results:

SHOWS PROMISE

1. Captains of industry, who couldn't get over the idea that President John F. Kennedy was hostile to business, mutter in their clubs in Detroit, New York and elsewhere that "that man in the White House" shows promise.

2. Labor leaders, including AFL-CIO President George Meany, having been led in prayer by the President in the oval White House office, are swearing by him, at least for the time being.

3. Budget balancers note with satisfaction that, through Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, he is moving to close down unneeded military bases, maybe even some of those high-cost, government-operated Navy yards. And, glory be, he has even struck a stern blow at high-level bureaucracy, decreeing an austere, 75 per cent cut in the number of its limousines and other luxury cars.

WELFARE

4. But at the same time, those devoted to federal leadership in welfare areas can note that he says he's no tightwad; that he is prepared to spend to help wipe out poverty. "We are going to be enlightened. . . .We do expect never to be just content to sit in our rocking chair and enjoy the status quo."

TIME OUT FROM AFFAIRS OF STATE
President romps with daughter Lucy's beagles

5. Known as a grand-manner wheedler when he was Democratic leader of the Senate, he has been emphasizing thus far, in his dealings with Congress, the carrot phase of the carrot-and-stick approach. Thus his repeated trips to lunch with the brethren on Capitol Hill. His numberless phone calls to them, his care to use many pens in signing bills, so the legislators can pass them to favored constituents.

BILL A DAY

The other day, in signing a measure, Johnson glanced up at Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and expressed hope that more measures would be coming to his desk. "I believe," he said of the speaker, "he may think a bill a day will keep the President away."

6. But the stick end of the technique is not neglected, either. How this is being used behind the scenes may have to wait for the history books to divulge, but Johnson has already used pretty strong language toward Congress. For example, he said the House cut in foreign aid would force the country into "weakness and retreat." And he rebuked Congress for denying him authority to dicker with the Soviet Union for a joint landing on the moon.

IN OFFICE

No firm statistics are available, but a pretty good estimate is that in four weeks Johnson has: received in his office about 400 individuals or small groups; presided over 40 large meetings or ceremonies; issued 40 statements; and engaged in maybe 1,000 outside phone calls.

On Capitol Hill, the progress has been a bit snail-like, though Johnson professes to be encouraged. He hopes to get fairly early in the new year a vote on the Kennedy plan for an $11-billion tax cut. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Finance Committee, has been taking a dim view of this until he sees real economies.

About all Johnson can say is: "Sen. Byrd has given me assurance that he is willing to have the bill voted on as soon as it can properly be voted on."

CONCESSION

As for Rep. Howard W. Smith, another Virginia-style Democrat and chairman of the House Rules Committee, he has made what for him is a grand concession. He is going to start hearings on the Kennedy civil rights bill Jan. 9. He doesn't say how long these may last, though "I shall not encourage any dilatory tactics."

All in all, the verdict at this point can only be that Johnson —who arises at 6:20 and goes to bed late—is looking a little weary. A couple more lines are traceable in his face.

But just think what he's been through! Imagine the physical deftness and mental concentration required to set the following record: In signing just four bills, he used 169 pens.

Texas Democrats Point To Fresh New Unity For Party

By The Associated Press

The 30-day moratorium on politics ends Sunday and Democratic party leaders in Texas say a period of surprising unity in the party will follow.

"The party is more united now than ever," said W. A. Keils Jr., of Teague, State Democratic Executive Committee member. "I don't know when differing party elements have had such a honeymoon."

Keils and representatives of 25 other state districts were questioned in an Associated Press poll of the 31-district committee. They were asked about political repercussions of President Kennedy's assassination.

Of the committee members willing to speculate on how lasting the new party harmony will be, only a few said it will be temporary.

YARBOROUGH

Other findings:

Opinion is divided on whether the new unity will reduce party opposition to Sen. Ralph Yarborough's bid for re-election. Almost all agreed the campaign will be clean.

Conservative Democrats who once leaned toward Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for president are likely to stay in the Democratic party.

President Johnson and Gov. John Connally will have no serious opposition within the party next year.

And no clear choice is apparent for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

OPPORTUNITY

"I think this is the best opportunity we have ever had to show a united front," said John Gray of Dallas. Gray said Dallas Democrats, whose recent split resulted in the resignation of the county chairman, have held "productive and most assuring" private meetings in the last several weeks.

"The assassination was like illness in a family—it makes the family much closer. The party is stronger today," said Isaac Satterwhite of Marshall.

"The assassination made everybody a little more serious about their views and more willing to help," said George Nokes of Waco.

"I think the assassination brought the fighting to a halt—we are closer than we have been in a long time," said C. W. Brown of McCamey.

EYES OPENED

"The assassination has opened the eyes of both conservatives and liberals and they will work together as they should," said Mrs. B. A. Sanders of Orange.

Wyatt Heard of Houston said that as the shock from the assassination wears off, it will reveal that the fundamental cleavage is still there." Heard said the results likely will be that "we will get more mild now in how we scream at each other."

Garrett Morris of Fort Worth defined the phenomenon as "the spreading out of the middle—I don't think we will see a merger of the left and right."

"I believe we will get back to normal again," said Mrs. Joe McClure of San Antonio.

TIME TO JELL

"We've got a unity which we haven't seen before and it will take time to jell," said Travis Shelton of Lubbock. "Getting liberals and conservatives together on Ralph Yarborough would be another problem."

Shelton's apprehensions on the Senate race are shared by several others.

"Party unity will depend on what Yarborough does," said Secretary of State Crawford Martin, committeeman from Hillsboro. "And, unfortunately for the Democrats, Yarborough is up for re-election."

"I would be the most shocked man in Texas if Yarborough didn't have a hard fight in the primary," said Heard.

"I don't think the unity will affect the Senate race, it will be a wide-open campaign," said Satterwhite.

"We had better let well enough alone," said Brown. "I never was a Yarborough man, but this is not the time to stir up the issues."

COOPERATION

"Whether Yarborough has opposition depends solely on his cooperation with and support of the administration in the next few months. President Johnson must have a strong senator from his home state," said Nokes.

Mrs. J. P. Coleman of Wichita Falls said she found from sources where I least expected," a uniting of Johnson and Yarborough supporters who formerly were at odds.

"I don't think Yarborough will have any serious opposition," said Mrs. Sanders.

"Yarborough's opposition has been considerably reduced," said Warren Moore of Tyler.

"Yarborough is stronger now than ever," said Gene McCullough of Harlingen. "A conservative opponent might have been cut out of some backing."

FIRST-STRING

"Yarborough will have nothing but token opposition — I don't think there will be a first-string man against him," said Keils.

Ed Connally of Abilene was one of many predicting the Senate race will be fought more on principles than personalities. "I expect hard-fought primaries but I believe we will have less bitterness. People will resent dirty campaign tactics," he said.

"The assassination took a lot of sting out of people," said Weldon Mallette of Victoria.

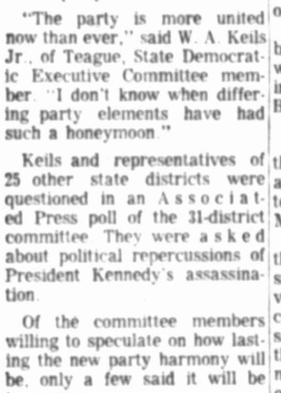

Connally also reflected in his remarks a widespread feeling that conservatives will stay in the party. "The Goldwater people have really disappeared — not only out of respect for President Kennedy, but because they feel President Johnson is starting a wonderful program," he said.

LOSE SUPPORT

"The real far-out right wingers lost a terrific amount of support in Amarillo they won't ever regain," said Hill.

"There are lots of conservatives who can live with Lyndon a lot longer than they could have lived with Kennedy," said Heard.

"I find a number of people over the state who were leaning toward the Republican Party now saying they will get behind Johnson," said Brown.

Ex-Convict Becomes Manhattan Minister

NEW YORK (AP)—An ex-convict turned minister wants to help other ex-cons find their way back to normal society.

He's the Rev. William McAfee Sparks, 39, a former real estate salesman in Philadelphia who pleaded guilty four years ago to swindling his customers of $75,000.

Now he's pastor of Christ Presbyterian Church in Manhattan.

Until Friday he had been on probation, the rules of which forbid any association with known criminals, even to help them.

"Even in the course of normal pastoral duties," he said in an interview today, "some young people have come to me and because they have police records I couldn't help them. I had to send them to another minister."

PROBATION ENDS

But in Philadelphia Friday, Judge Leo Weinrott ended the Rev. Mr. Spark's probation, calling the story of the ex-con in the pulpit "one of the greatest of which I have personal knowledge."

A native of Philadelphia, the Rev. Mr. Sparks was graduated from Temple University Teachers College, married a fellow student and taught school for three years.

When he was 29 he was a licensed real estate salesman.

IN ESCROW

"I made a good living," he said, "but in 1957 I invested in apartment buildings some money I was holding in escrow, fully intending to return it. Poor judgment and bad business prevented me from doing so and I was arrested."

Later, he was able to return most of the swindled funds.

"I considered myself an atheist when I went to prison," he said, "but I became interested in religion, and largely through the help of the Rev. Richard Armstrong, I began reading and studying.

"If you want to make it that way, prison can be much like a monastery.

SMART GUY

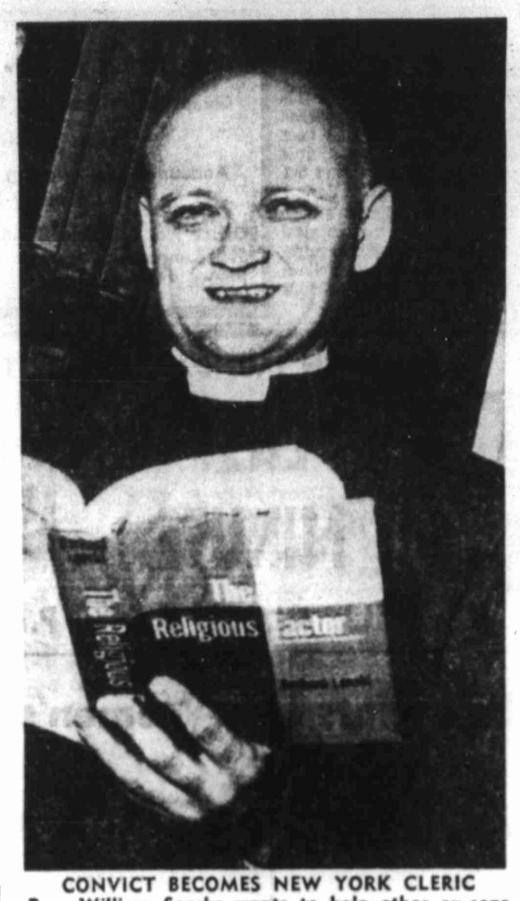

"For me prison was the best thing that ever happened. My own self-image was shattered, the image of a smart guy who knew his way around."

The Rev. Mr. Sparks served eight months of his 23-month sentence and then Judge Weinrott released him to go to Princeton (N. J.) Theological Seminary.

Three years later, just before graduating, he preached a "candidating sermon" at Christ Presbyterian here.

"I walked off the pulpit and into the midst of the congregation after the sermon and told them about myself," he said.

A few months ago the church invited him to be its pastor.

Congress Passes Compromise Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly before ending their all-night sessions early Saturday, both houses of Congress passed a compromise $6,224,370,215 agriculture appropriations bill and sent it to President Johnson.

Dixon studied journalism at Texas Tech from 1934-38, edited the school paper his last year in school, and was named one of 19 Tech students to "Who's Who" in American Colleges and Universities.

He saw service in the U.S. Army during World War II, served on a congressional staff and worked in the Library of Congress. Old Greeting Cards Prized By Asiatics

By The Associated Press

It seems a shame to throw away all those pretty Christmas cards when the holiday season ends. You don't have to.

Senior citizens club at Redondo Beach, Calif., doesn't. Members collect them for shipment to remote villages, mostly in Asia, where such colorful pictures are prized possessions.

17 TONS

One year 17 tons of discarded greeting cards were sent.

Besides sending abroad the Christmas cards, members help Dr. C. T. Walberg, Congregational Church of Christ pastor, ship other goods all over the world.

The gifts range from 30 pianos sent to Korea to 1,000 pounds of cancelled postage stamps and tons of soap scraps. Dr. Walberg says nothing is too large or too small to be of use.

"We never send anything unless it has been requested," he adds.

TO JAPAN

The stamps, for instance go to Japan where they are sold to stamp collectors to pay for printing and distribution of Christian literature. So far, 10 million pieces of literature have been distributed in Japan as a result of this system.

The program started with soap. When Dr. Walberg was visiting a Taegu children's hospital several years ago he discovered surgery being performed without using soap for bathing patients. The hospital had none.

SEND SOAP

"If we could get American people to send us soap they throw away, we'd have enough," declared a surgeon.

After Dr. Walberg returned and told his congregation of this, they collected soap scraps and made 3,000 pounds of lye soap in the church kitchen to send. That was in 1959. Since then the program has grown to its present size.

Until the U.S. Navy offered to transport the goods, the congregation was donating $22,000 a year for shipping costs.

Holidays Begin

KNOTT (SC)—The Knott Elementary School dismissed for the holidays Friday. Classes will resume Jan. 2.

Miami Finds Holiday Spirit In Shorts, Swimming Pools

MIAMI (AP) — Shoppers in shorts making the rounds of air-conditioned stores, displaced northerners dressing their lawns in white sand to remind them of snow, and palm trees which produce red berries only tell the tale of Christmas in Miami.

The holiday season is the time when the long-time "native" and the recent "native" go to war over merits of a semi-tropical Christmas.

"How can you get into the Christmas spirit when there's no snow on the ground, when stores feature swimming suits and sun tan lotions, and when iced tea sounds better than hot chocolate?" complains the more recent native.

BETHLEHEM

"This is the true Christmas," replies the native whose blood has thinned through the years. "There was no snow in Bethlehem or icicles hanging from the manger. And think of the money you're saving in heating bills and anti-freeze."

Nonetheless, many who long for a northern "white Christmas" find some consolation in making "frost" patterns on their windows with spray can decorating material.

Others smile smugly as they remember long - gone days of snow shovels, tire chains, dead batteries, galoshes, gloves and frost - bitten toes. They find Christmas in the many huge poinsettia bushes, the graceful Adonidia palm which produces a crop of acorn-sized, bright red berries just in time for Christmas, and the Florida holly tree, which is covered with thousands of small red berries each December.

RE-BIRTH

Opening of the Christmas season signals a re-birth of commerce along southeast Florida's Gold Coast. The winter racing season opens with the horses at Tropical Park, and there is also pari-mutuel betting at the dog tracks and jai-alai frontons.

Sumptuous mansions scattered along Miami Beach and on islands in Key Biscayne are given a little extra shine by maintenance staffs in preparation for the annual winter visits by their owners. High society springs to life, with black tie banquets, charity balls, country club golf tournaments and ocean yacht racing.

The Florida sun also attracts Hollywood and New York entertainers and soon the list of names featured by Miami Beach hotels compares with the line of billboards along the Las Vegas strip on a summer night.

SHOPPERS

Sidewalks fill with shoppers—the couple who arrived on one of today's jet flights, uncomfortably in their heavy wool suits, and the casual Miamian in capri pants or bermuda shorts, thong sandals and bright - colored shirts.

Mothers deposit their children at one of the many carnivals which take up winter residence in suburban shopping center parking lots. One carnival lights up the downtown sky with its sparkling ferris wheel and other rides are set up on the roof of a large department store.

Gift counters feature outdoor barbecue sets, golf clubs, swimming pool accessories, skin-diving equipment; and for the children, bicycles with trainer wheels, roller skates, swimsuits, croquet sets and tennis racquets. The Miami youngster doesn't seem to notice the absence of skiis, sleds, toboggans and ice skates.

LITTLE RAINFALL

Little rainfall occurs during the Christmas season, so homeowners decorate their yards with papier-mache Christmas figures with little fear of having them ruined. Some residents paint Christmas scenes on one side of their patios, where colored lights reflect in swimming pools.

One Miamian erects a Christmas tree on a raft floating in the lake bordering his home. He strings underwater power and sound cables for lights on the tree and speakers on the raft, then fills the area with recorded Christmas music.

Northern youngsters hold their Christmas caroling forays in horse-drawn sleighs, but what does the Miami youngster do? One group of Girl Scouts paddles through canals in the Coral Gables area in a flotilla of seven canoes, singing Yule songs.

Plans To Play Santa To Kids

Playing Santa Claus isn't altogether easy, Harvey Henderson discovered Friday, but he said he was going ahead with his plans to distribute toys to youngsters in the "flats" area of northwest Big Spring.

Harvey, former HCJC student, is employed at Carlos' Cafe and said he was worried about the kids in that area who might be remembered only in family baskets. So he started on his own collecting toys, candy, clothing. This met some resistance and even complaints, he said, but Friday noon he thought it was all smoothed out. So at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday he plans to dress up like Santa, and with his sack move through the flats area. A group of women from Mount Bethel Baptist Church will go along to sing carols while he plays Saint Nick.

MORE MILEAGE FROM 1908 CALENDAR
Exact duplication of the 1964 calendar

Time Repeats Old Pattern

If the calendar makers set the pace, the year 1964 will be a whacky one.

One company has put out a 1908 calendar, and believe it or not, it is as good as brand new. Every day in 1964 falls on the same day of the week as it did in 1908. The minor miracle however, occurred when another calendar maker did something for April no one else has been able to do—he gave it 31 days.

SECOND LOOK

John Davis was hanging a few calendars in the office of his feed store at Benton and E. 2nd when he noticed the illustration on one from Valley Lumber Co. of Artesia, N. M. was a quaintly dressed lass. Then he blinked at the year—1908—and figured someone had goofed but good.

Happily, there was an explanation attached which set the record straight.

Davis has had a lot of fun with the calendar. Several persons have done a double take when looking at it. One man wanted to know: "What are you doing with this old calendar up here?" Another, inspecting it closely, observed that "you have certainly kept this well preserved."

THIRTY-ONE DAYS
—hath April

REPEAT 1908

Farmers would be happy if the weather picture of 1908 repeats next year. The year started out as a dry one, only .91 of an inch for the first three months. Then it started to rain and before the year was over, 19.41 inches had been measured, nearly all of it in the growing season. The second quarter brought 10.35 inches, the third quarter 6.70 inches, and the final one, when crops were being gathered, had .165 inches. December of that year had absolutely no moisture, rare for even this month.

Perhaps it's just as well if 1908 doesn't repeat exactly, for this year was followed by four years of drouth.

The April boo-boo occurred on a big calendar circulated by Lone Star Steel. About the time O. H. Ivie hung it in the Colorado River Municipal Water District office, a letter arrived from the company proclaiming "our face is red."

Sure enough, there was April with a 31. The company sent along a piece of white adhesive paper to put over the 31. They might as well have saved themselves the trouble, for that calendar is too much of a curiosity.

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Z. E. (Barbara) Foster, Odessa, and Mrs. Frosty (Judy) Robison, Big Spring.

Mrs. O'Brien Is Injured In Fall At Houston Home

Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, wife of the former pastor of the First Baptist Church here, suffered a fractured pelvis in a fall at her home in Houston Saturday morning. She slipped on wet concrete at the rear of their house.

Mrs. O'Brien is in the Memorial Baptist Hospital Southwest (6440 High Star Street, Houston, 77036). She has been under care of specialists and they said recovery prospects are bright, but that she will be hospitalized for perhaps three weeks.

The Newspaper Fund (Wall Street Journal) will provide housing and food at the University, tuition and textbooks, and transportation to and from Austin for about 25 teachers.

Honor Society Has Party

WESTBROOK (SC) — The Westbrook Chapter of the National Honor Society met Dec. 17 in the school cafeteria for its regular meeting and the Christmas social. Janie Putman, president, presided. The invocation was given by Janella Williamson. Vickie Jarratt, secretary, read the minutes and Janella Williamson, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report. Carole Bell read the constitution and discussion of it was led by Preston C. Lightfoot, NHS sponsor.

Insignias were presented to Janie Putman, Vickie Jarratt, Sandra Bryant, Darlene Lankford, Maritha Oden and Carole Bell.

The president asked each member to submit a project for the group. It should be reported on by Jan. 15.

Refreshments of punch, cup cakes, candy, nuts and mints were served from a table decorated with a Christmas motif. The social committee composed of Louise Lewis, chairman, Lynda Sullivan and Darlene Lankford served.

Furr's Hearing Set For Jan. 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has set a second pre-hearing conference for Jan. 2 in a case involving Furr's Inc., a grocery chain which operates in Texas, New Mexico and Colorado.

The commission has charged the company with unfair trade practices.

FTC and chain lawyers met Friday and discussed evidence for the hearings.

The FTC accuses the chain of obtaining payments from supplying companies in return for special advertising which, the commission contends, puts competitors of the grocery chain to a disadvantage.

ADA Voices Support For Johnson's Programs, Policies In Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans for Democratic Action voiced support Saturday for what it called President Johnson's "broad attack on injustice, inhumanity and poverty" and his world peace policies.

But the liberal organization, which has been sharply critical of Johnson in the past, cautioned in a statement issued by Prof. John P. Roche, its national chairman, that there are formidable barriers to attaining these goals.

In effect, ADA put Johnson on notice it expects him to spell out in detail in 1964 messages to Congress how he intends to go about translating his objectives into realities.

REALITIES

The restrained endorsement the organization thus gave Johnson seemed to reflect recognition of the political realities that Democratic liberals have no alternative but to support the President in 1964. It also indicated cautious reassessment of Johnson's position since 1960, when the ADA bitterly attacked the then Texas senator who was seeking the presidential nomination.

ADA describes itself as an independent organization dedicated to the advancement of causes it regards as liberal. It finds few Republicans who measure up to its precepts.

BACKED KENNEDY

Although the late President John F. Kennedy was quoted as saying in 1953, shortly after he became a senator, that he was "not comfortable with those fellows," ADA backed his administration strongly.

ADA was less charitable to Johnson in 1960. It said in a June 30, 1960, statement that his selection to head the ticket "would make a mockery of the Democratic party's professions of liberalism."

At the Los Angeles convention, ADA described Johnson as "a conservative, anti-civil rights, gas-and-oil senator."

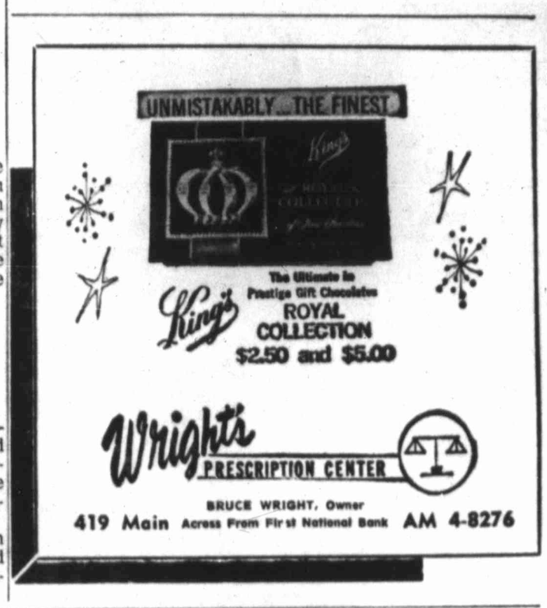

Roche said in his statement ADA has no illusion that it will be easy for Johnson to attain satisfactory action on civil rights, economic growth, education, health, public welfare and urban rehabilitation.

"We must face the harsh fact," Roche said, "that programs now before Congress are at best first steps, and even these have been pared down and slowed down, by minority rule in Congress to the point where the needs accumulate faster than the remedies have been applied."

Train Derails In East Texas

SULPHUR SPRINGS (AP)—Eleven cars of a Louisiana and Arkansas freight train were derailed early Saturday at a grade crossing on U.S. 67 on the eastern edge of nearby Campbell.

The wreck knocked down some utility poles and disrupted telephone service between Sulphur Springs and Greenville.

TB Poster Winners

Winners Named In Poster Contest

Several hundred entries were submitted in the Howard County Tuberculosis Association poster contest this year. Three divisions were included in the contest which was countywide in schools. Divisions included special education, junior high school, and elementary schools.

First, second, and third place winners in each division were awarded $7.50, $5, and $2.50. Posters were judged on originality, clarity and meaning, and each was done by the individual submitting the poster. They were to show the individual's ideas on the care and cure of tuberculosis.

Winners of first, second, and third places, in each division, were special education—Mike Kennedy, Vernon Heckler, and Eugene Easley; junior high—Kay Sevey, Martha Jordon, and David Holmes; elementary schools—Linda Cathey, Peggy Sue Grant, and Sue Stanaland.

Sweet Revenge Termed Murder

LISBON (AP)—Revenge may be sweet, but it has brought widow Almeida to trial on a murder charge.

Friday she sent poisoned cake to Fernando Quintaes, who is serving a five-year-prison sentence for killing her husband last July.

Quintaes ate the cakes and police report today he died of the poison.

Little Acitvity

There was little activity at Howard County Airport last week, due to the inclement weather. Even Trans - Texas Airways flights were cancelled more times than they came in.

Seal Sales Still Short

A steady increase in funds from the sale of Christmas Seals has been noted this week, Mrs. James L. Childs, executive secretary of the Howard County Tuberculosis Association, said Friday. The amount received toward the $6,000 goal stood at $4,539, with more in and being counted.

"It seems that the response picked up this week, and we are happy about the number of replies coming in," she said. "We only hope that the goal can be reached and that this campaign is a success."

Only 18 per cent of the funds received goes to the national foundation for materials and supplies. The remainder is used in testing for tuberculosis in the Howard County schools, and for employment of a nurse to follow up on sources causing positive showings in the patch tests given, Mrs. Childs said.

"It is often necessary to contact many families to get at the source of infections," she said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Farewell To Old Year; Opposes Foreign Aid Cut

To the Editor:

We're standing on the eve of the old year's departure, now fading into the unknown sphere of oblivion, leaving memories of its passing. Is the departing year associated with noble influences and surrounded with beautiful environments, etching upon the sacred pages of life the service of golden deeds? Or do ignoble deeds haunt the souls with a troubled mind associated with unpleasant and unhappy vicissitudes that carry the weight of a guilty conscience? We hold no destiny over life; its passing is inevitable. Sooner or later, we must pass as the dying years pass into the unknown. But whether brief or long, life can serve for the nobleness and grandeur of its course. We came into the mundane sphere to serve the purpose of its course. Then may we not hold sacred its noble gifts, and strive to ennoble and beautify it? Beautiful in thoughts, noble in principle, let love justice and respect for truth, serve as a dedication to life. As the old year closes its brief drama upon the folding curtains of life, and registers an affectionate farewell to us, all forever, may happy associations welcome the new year. May we not pause to thank God for the many blessings and sweet endearments of 1963 and strive to brighten the days of 1964 even more. So farewell Old Man '63, and hello Baby '64.

To the Editor:

I am disturbed in the cut of our foreign aid budget. As the late President Kennedy said, this is one of the President's best tools in dealing internationally. I think our "negative" Congress has done just the opposite from what they should.

Foreign aid can force Russia to disarm. This statement, at first glance, may seem preposterous, because many of us, deep within ourselves, have already given up.

There is such a strategy—a plan for "waging peace." It injects an entirely new and powerful factor into the contest—not a doubling but a twenty-fold increase in aid to the world's emergent nations. The strategy, as any sound strategy must, pits maximum strength against the adversary's greatest weakness.

America's great strength is its unused industrial capacity. There is tremendous potential in our factories, machine shops and assembly lines now running only part of the time. And there is enormous potential in the unused skills and productive capacity of the millions of unemployed American workers. Three recessions and rising plateaus of unemployment have cost us 25 million man-years of labor and $600 billion in lost wealth during the past 10 years.

Against this strength, what is the weakness of the Soviet Union? It is its struggling economy, already stretched taut, barely able to meet the requirements of the space and arms races and at the same time the needs of the Soviet people. Our strategy, then, should be to draw the Soviet Union into a contest in which we can take maximum advantage of our unused economic strength to impose further stress on the overstrained Soviet economy.

The first step in our peace strategy would be publicly and dramatically to commit the United States to a massive long-range program of economic aid large enough to move the countries of the underveloped world toward a break-through into self-sustaining growth. I propose that we commit an average of $20 billion a year to this purpose over the next 25 years. We may not be able to use that much effectively at the beginning, before the recipient countries are properly prepared for massive aid.

This commitment would be coupled with a challenge to the Soviet Union to conclude a disarmament agreement and to shift the men and materials freed by the military cutback to the work of world economic development. But we would not wait for Premier Khrushchev's agreement. We would proceed immediately with our own massive aid program.

This would be a declaration of peace—an aggressive peace, a peace offensive. The initiative would be in our hands, and Premier Khrushchev would have only three choices. Confronted with our challenge, he would ponder whether: (1) to default the contest between freedom and tyranny in the emerging countries, (2) to accept the challenge and obtain the resources to meet it by reducing the living standards of the Russian people, or (3) to accept the challenge but meet it through serious efforts to negotiate disarmament.

Sincerely yours,
FLOYD YOUNG

TWO PERSONS INJURED
Crash occurs on north edge of city, on Lamesa Highway

Two Injured Saturday In Crash On Lamesa Highway

A Lamesa woman was seriously injured and a Brownsville man received less extensive injuries during a two-car collision about 4:15 p.m. Saturday just north of the IS 20 overpass construction on the Lamesa Highway.

Mrs. Emma Garza and her child, Ector, were taken to Cowper Clinic by Nalley-Pickle ambulance. The child, however, was not injured. Mrs. Garza suffered a fractured ankle and a chest contusion, with possible internal injuries, the treating physician said. She was also suffering from shock.

Mrs. Garza was a passenger in a car driven by Jose Lupe Gomez, 33, a Lamesa truck driver.

Celso Espinoza Baez was taken to Howard County Hospital Foundation by River ambulance. He received a broken leg. Baez was a passenger in a car driven by Matias R. Saldana, 36, Brownsville.

The Gomez vehicle was traveling south at the time of the collision, police said. The Saldana vehicle was going north.

Numerous other accidents took a heavy toll on drivers who took to the ice-covered streets. There were no injuries in 16 other accidents investigated by police Saturday after 3 p.m.

Most of the minor collisions occurred before 9 p.m., by which time the streets had become virtually cleared of traffic as roads in the area became iced.

Ollie Bird, Westbrook Area Rancher, Succumbs

COLORADO CITY — Ollie B. Bird, 71, prominent rancher and farmer in the Westbrook area, died about noon Saturday in Root Memorial Hospital here following an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Bird was retired. He also had extensive oil holdings in Mitchell County.

Born Dec. 31, 1891, in Mitchell County, not far from where he lived, he married the former Birdie McNairy April 15, 1919, in Iatan. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Bird was also a member of the Suez Temple and Shrine in San Angelo, the Commandery in Snyder and the Scottish Rite in Dallas.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the First Methodist Church in Colorado City, with the pastor, Rev. Darris Egger, officiating. Burial will be in Westbrook Cemetery under the direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home. Masonic graveside rites will be held.

Survivors include the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Gwan Strange, Westbrook, and one grandson.

THROUGH WALL

More Berliners Flock To Visit With Relatives

BERLIN (AP)—Another 8,000 West Berliners streamed through five checkpoints in the Red wall Saturday for joyal reunions that end all too soon with sorrowful partings at midnight.

It was the second day in which West Berliners were being allowed by the Communist regime to pass into the Soviet zone for Yuletide visits with loved ones separated by the wall that went up August 13, 1961.

The 8,000 filed through the wall before 9 a.m. and had to be back in West Berlin—by order of the Communists — by midnight.

TEAR APART

Husbands and wives who had not seen each other for more than two years were forced by the regulation to tear themselves apart once again.

Gustav Bauer, for instance, went over Friday morning—one of the first to obtain a pass from the East Germans. Ironically, he lives only six miles from his wife but has not seen her since before the wall was put up.

He and his wife had so much to tell each other that time flew by.

Before midnight he had to go, leaving his wife Annemaria behind. As a resident of East Berlin she is not allowed to go to the West, even though her husband lives there. At the wall they parted.

But he will be back on another permit he has for next Saturday.

LOVED ONES

Some visitors went over to hear the sorrowful details of the death of a loved one.

But for others, marriages and births have brought new members to the family circle. They are getting together with their East Berlin relatives for the first time this Christmas season.

"It was wonderful but the farewell was terrible," said a young woman with a baby in her arms. She had shown her son to his grandparents for the first time.

The reunion operation lasts until Jan. 5, when the barriers will clang shut again, as far as West Berliners are concerned.

Tearful Husband Tells Of Brief Stay With Wife

EDITOR'S NOTE: Few of the separations caused by the Berlin wall are more tragic than that of husband and wife. In the following story, a West Berlin husband tells of his reunion with his wife after being separated by the Red wall for 2½ years. In order not to jeopardize return visits, he has used a pen name.

By GUSTAV BAUER
Written for The Associated Press

BERLIN (AP)—I wanted to go back, just for a last kiss. I can't quite grasp it. I should have expected it. The East Berlin police wouldn't let my wife and me stay together last night —after not being able to see each other for 2½ years.

The day went so quickly. We had so much to tell each other. But at the midnight deadline I had to go back to West Berlin. Anni stayed in East Berlin.

We wanted one more kiss goodby — just once again. That wasn't even allowed. It's hard to understand. The Vopos (peoples police) don't have to be that strict and bureaucratic.

I had showed the Vopos my pass. I was already beyond their barrier. "Gust!, Gust!" my wife called. I wanted to go back, just for a last kiss. But the Vopo said to Anne Maria: "Go away. You cannot pass through."

On Saturday I'll see Anni again. This time I'll take along a present for her. Yesterday everything was so unplanned. I didn't bring anything for her. I didn't even write that I was coming.

At 7 o'clock I was already at her house near the East Berlin city hall. But she was working —on the early shift. She works at the post office and they start at 5 a.m. there. I immediately called her boss and he gave her the day off.

At 10 o'clock, just as my feet were beginning to freeze from standing on the cold pavement, she came. She was all confused. She nearly got run over by a street car in her excitement. She ran to me and I can't describe how it felt to have her in my arms.

We were together again for the first time in 2½ years.

I am a pensioned army man and not so young—58 to be exact. Anni is my second wife and I've known her for 25 years. I knew her even before my first wife was killed by a wartime bomb attack.

COME LEGALLY

We were married in the summer of 1961. I wanted her to move to West Berlin with me. But she didn't want to flee. She wanted to come legally with clothing and furniture. Finally at the beginning of August we had everything perfectly arranged. But Anni didn't want to be hasty. And then a few days later the wall came and she was caught.

All my efforts to get her to West Berlin were rejected.

Only once have we seen each other since Aug. 13, 1961. Last summer on the sector border we waved at each other — over the wall. But that lasted only two or three minutes. Then the Vopos shoved Anni back. Poor Anni!

I could move to East Berlin to live with Anni. But I don't want that. Here I have a nice apartment and I have my pension.

MRS. OLA MAE MITCHELL, age 35. Passed away Friday evening. Services are pending.

THE ORDER OF THE GOLDEN RULE

Guardsman Blames U.S.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — One of five Alabama National Guardsmen charged in three explosions in this university town said Saturday the incidents would not have occurred if the guard had not been federalized.

Sgt. William E. Roughton said in an interview, "The boys resented federalizing the guard. If Gov. (George C.) Wallace had been our commander, this never would have happened."

The five men were among the last units on federal duty at the newly integrated University of Alabama. Wallace activated the National Guard, but it was federalized by President Kennedy after Wallace tried to block the enrollment of two Negro students last June.

Three blasts occurred last month, two Nov. 16 and one Nov. 19. The final explosion was one day before the last units were demobilized. There were no injuries and little damage.

The first blast occurred near the dormitory where Vivian Malone, the school's remaining Negro student, lives. The second was in a Negro section about two miles from the campus. The third went off about three blocks from Miss Malone's dormitory.

Besides Roughton, county authorities have charged Cpl. James T. Maxwell of Tuscaloosa, Sgt. Norman R. Daniel of Fairfield, Sgt. Charles Hollifield of Marion and Lt. James T. Perkins of Holt.

The men all are free on $5,000 bond.

Winter Begins —Officially

Winter officially moved in at 8:02 a.m. today but to all practical purposes Saturday was as near winter as the average person would care to have it.

The worst weather of the fall, combining the unhappy elements of freezing drizzle, subfreezing temperatures and a cutting wind, gave a convincing prevue of what winter in West Texas can be like.

Nor is there any relief in store.

The forecast last night warned that the hazardous driving conditions which were building up last night would hold all of today and on into tonight. In addition to these unhappy developments, the temperature was not expected to get above 28 today and will barely reach freezing on Monday. It is possible, the Weather Bureau said, that from one to two inches of snow may cover the ground before nightfall.

With the arrival of dusk Saturday the drizzle picked up in volume and the temperature dropped a degree or two to speed up freezing. Streets began to ice over and the slippery surface set the stage for a score or more automobile mishaps.

Only one of the wrecks was sufficiently serious to send its victims to the hospital. This was a two-car smash on the north edge of the city at the intersection of the Andrews Highway and US 87.

Roads in all directions were reported dangerously icy. Travelers from the west told of extremely slippery driving and of sighting numerous luckless motorists who had skidded off the road. East of here, particularly between Colorado City and Sweetwater, police radio reported numerous mishaps.

THE WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence K. West, en route to this area for the holidays, were killed.

• • •

Excellent Christmas music has abounded this season, and none better than the HCJC festival last Monday. It is a pity the auditorium was not jammed for it, for the choir soloists and instrumentalists performed delightfully. Some way ought to be found to promote attendance to these fine affairs.

• • •

The Salvation Army is still in need of gifts to underwrite its program of Christmas baskets and to several hundred needy families. Why not get in on the fun by mailing a check or dropping in some heavy silver or folding money into the kettles? The Cheer Fund has its good days and its bad days, but so far its poor days have outnumbered the good ones. Your help on this would be deeply appreciated, too.

• • •

Howard County is losing a fine member of the agent's staff. Lovell Kuykendall, who has been responsible largely for the boys' 4-H Club program including feeding projects, has been named county agent at Brady. None can begrudge him that deserved promotion.

• • •

Nor was this the only instance of our institutions being tapped for officials. Stanton came here to get Robert C. Smith, a member of the local police force for the past 4½ years, to serve as its chief. This has happened twice within the past year — Walter Eubanks having gone to Sweetwater to take the top spot in that police department.

• • •

This column was privileged to be on hand with brother Jake Pickle when he was elected U.S. representative from the 10th District last week. Many years ago when Jake did something not exactly on the smart side, Uncle Arthur would shake his head and say: "I don't believe you'll ever make it to Congress."

• • •

Howard County is running sadly off the pace in its purchase of United States Savings Bonds. If you have surplus funds for investment before the end of the year, you might consider this gilt-edged one.

• • •

Seems like everyone was a little slower getting going this year, but we finished up with a pretty fair crop of Christmas decorations around town. Friday's Herald carried a list of those entered in the judging, but there are many others besides these. A drive about town within the next two or three evenings will be a delightful experience.

• • •

The HCJC Hawks admittedly have a rebuilding job in basketball this year, but they are showing promise. Last week they opened conference play on a bright note, clipping Lubbock Christian College then got by South Plains next, for two loop victories. They have a good start toward a good season.

• • •

When the city trotted out its main outfall sewer line project last spring, the $452,000 low bid was much higher than anticipated. Last week commissioners decided to run this horse again; maybe this time the results will be more favorable.

Weather Forecast

Scattered snow flurries Sunday will cover area from northern Rockies eastward to northern Plains and southward through central Plains to part of middle Mississippi valley. There the snow will change to freezing drizzle and rain over portions of southern Plains with more general drizzle activity along the west Gulf coast. Elsewhere, scattered snow flurries will occur in parts of the Great Lakes region and the higher elevations of the northeast. Some drizzle will fall in the Pacific northwest. (AP WIREPHOTO MAP)

TOYS READY FOR CHRISTMAS
Capt. John S. Waddell gives bike an inspection

Firemen Nearing Finish Of Toy Repair Campaign

All but the closing touches were put on the Fire Department's 34th annual Christmas toy repair campaign Saturday when firemen delivered about 75 bicycles, some 300 dolls and hundreds of metal toys to a storage building at Second and Nolan.

Clyde Denton allowed firemen use of the building for storing toys which will be delivered to needy children for Christmas. The Salvation Army will begin distributing the toys Monday.

Firemen Saturday put the last coats of paint on repaired bicycles and other metal toys. The delivery of the toys concludes the annual campaign except for a few repairs which will be made Monday.

Response to the firemen's appeal for old toys has been good this year, Fire Chief H. V. Crocker said. "Christmas will be happier for many needy children because of the fine public response," he said.

Firemen repaired all of the bicycles and metal toys that were donated to the children. They painted the toys so they look almost new. Dolls repaired by firemen were turned over to the home economics class of the high school and other volunteers for dressing.

Crocker said toys turned in too late to be repaired will be held for distribution to needy children next year. "We've got a pretty good store of bicycle parts for next year," he said.

Eight Wrecks Recorded

Eight automobile accidents, none of them resulting in injuries, were recorded by police in Big Spring Friday and Saturday.

Friday's collisions were: at Sixth and Bell, Roger Lee Patterson, 1315 Princeton, and Floyd Wayne Dugan, 1311 Goliad; at the high school, Raymond P. Anderson Jr., 410 E. 18th, and Sheri Jon Andre, 101 E. 20th; at Tenth and Scurry, Susan Ann McGee, 1611 Osage, and Ruby H. Rowe, Box 407; at Eighteenth and Goliad, Wilber Dan Wilson, Abilene, and Mary H. Rogers, 300 Washington; and at Sam's Liquor Store, Lester McIntyre, 213 E. 24th, and William M. Engle, 1703 Main.

Saturday, drivers and accident locations were: on the old San Angelo Highway, Bret R. Collins, 209 W. 16th; at Third and Runnels, James W. Fields, Box 212, and Edna T. Smart, General Delivery; and at the Gibson parking lot, Hazel H. Smart, 1809 Settles, and a car which left the scene.

Two Fires Fought On Johnson

A fire, which broke out while a gas stove was being connected, caused heavy damage to one wall of the kitchen in the home of Ray Phillips, 1104 Johnson, about 2 p.m. Saturday. No one was injured, however.

Another fire causing lesser damage occurred Friday afternoon at 1106½ Johnson, at the home of Russell Headrick. Gas in the bathroom of the home was said to have been the cause of the blaze.

County Employes Get Two Days Off

Howard County courthouse employes will be on the job Monday but most of their thoughts will be about Tuesday.

Tuesday the courthouse will be closed and will not re-open until Thursday. The two-day Christmas holiday was authorized by the county commissioners. The holiday schedule applies to all county employes, with the exception of the sheriff's office. Miller Harris, sheriff, said he would arrange a schedule for his staff in some manner to afford all as much time off as possible.

Only one day holiday is in store for the county workers on New Year's Day.

Woman Jailed

Dorothy Clemons, 30, who was caught stealing a bottle of whisky, pleaded guilty to a charge of shoplifting Friday afternoon. Judge Lee Porter sentenced the woman to 20 days in the county jail.

Webb Civilian Workers Earn Special Awards

Two Webb AFB civilian personnel have been given cash awards for superior performance and two others received money awards for suggestions on improvements in methods.

Mrs. Bernadine Littlejohn, wife of M. Sgt. W. C. Littlejohn has been awarded the certificate for sustained superior performance with a cash award of $150. She has been with the finance and accounting section of the civilian office for the past five years.

Betty L. McCombs received $100 for sustained superior performance on the job. She works in the office of the dpeuty commander for materiel.

A cash award of $50 went to Jimmy R. Smith for improvements in physical training methods. He works with the 3561st Student Squadron. Billie L. Byerley won $15 for improvements in management procedures. She is with the 3560th Supply Squadron.

This is the second award for superior performance for Mrs. Littlejohn since she went to work in the accounting office. She and her husband arrived at Webb AFB in September of 1958 following the close of the Air Base at Bryan. They have three children, Bill, 15, Joan, 6, and Peter 4. They reside at 1007 E. 16th.

Rep. Green Dies At 53

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rep. William J. Green Jr., D-Pa., who rose from the rough and tumble of Philadelphia ward politics to become a close friend of presidents, died Saturday.

Green, 53, succumbed in Graduate Hospital where he underwent emergency surgery Dec. 8, after being stricken with peritonitis—an inflammation of his stomach wall. His condition worsened Thursday night, and doctors tried vainly to keep him alive.

Green was a congressman 16 years, and for 10 years chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic organization.

In the House of Representatives he was a member of the Ways and Means and Armed Services committees. He was a frequent visitor at the White House in the Kennedy administration, both politically and socially, and was on close terms with Presidents Truman and Johnson.

Ola Mitchell Dies Friday

Mrs. Ola Mae Mitchell, 35, of 809 N. Halford in Big Spring, died Friday evening after an illness of six weeks.

She was born in Big Spring on Dec. 24, 1927 and was a member of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Thomas Mitchell of Fresno, Calif.; a son, Tommie Lee Mitchell of Big Spring; her mother, Mrs. Sarah Nixon of Big Spring; and her step-father, George Nixon of Big Spring.

Services are pending, with River - Welch Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Kindergarten Dates Announced

Mrs. Lonnie Coker Thursday was selected as teacher for the new Berea Baptist Church Kindergarten and Nursery which goes into operation Jan. 6.

Mrs. Coker has done college work in elementary education to qualify her as a kindergarten teacher. She taught four years at the Big Spring Christian Day School.

Applications are now being taken for enrollment, the Rev. Darrell Robinson, pastor, said. They will be taken the rest of this week and will resume again the Monday after Christmas, until Jan. 6. Application can be made by calling AM 4-2351.

This is the first Baptist kindergarten and nursery in the city.

Mrs. Sawtelle Is Improving

Friends who have visited Mrs. Moree Sawtelle in El Paso report that she continues to make some improvement following major hip surgery.

Mrs. Sawtelle, on leave from her post as executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, may have some months of recuperation. She said she had been unable to acknowledge the many cards and expressions of good wishes, and asked that all those who have remembered her be thanked. She is in Room 414, Providence Memorial Hospital, El Paso.

DALE A. DOUGLASS, age 59, of Odessa, Texas. Passed away Friday morning at Big Spring. Services Sunday, 2 p.m., at the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with interment in Big Spring City Cemetery.

Life Harsh In Bolivia

CATAVIA, Bolivia (AP)—Those American hostages went free this week, but the hostages to fate remain. They are the Bolivian miners, tied to a bare existence on a bleak 14,000-foot plateau of the Andes.

The miner is restless. Revolt beats in his heart but his mind cannot see a way out of his misery.

He is paid 11 cents an hour to dig tin ore out of the pits with pneumatic drill and pick and shovel.

His back aches and he is often a victim of silicosis, tuberculosis and heart disease.

FIVE YEARS

His working life is about five years. His life span is 27 to 35 years.

There are an estimated 41,000 tin miners in this isolated landlocked area sometimes described as the Tibet of the Americas.

Twenty-six thousand work in nationalized mines, operated privately by the tin barons Patino, Hochschild and Aramayo until they were taken over by the government 11 years ago.

The other 15,000 work in mines privately operated by U.S., British, German, Italian, Dutch, Japanese and other foreign interests.

EVERYWHERE

The plight of the miner is much the same everywhere.

Some live in cave-like holes dug into the hillside. These are the self-employed who scrape ore out of tiny open pits and sell it.

If they have a good week, they make as much as $4.

The average wage of the organized miner is 85-90 cents a day. He works six or seven days a week. His regular work day is eight hours, but some work overtime for double pay.

They do get social security benefits, including hospitalization, maternity care and severance pay. At the end of the year they get a bonus amounting to one month's pay. The fringe benefits include free schooling.

ADOBE HOUSES

The fortunate miner lives free in company adobe houses.

Most are one-room huts. There is no heat. The floor is concrete or dirt. A single light bulb hangs from the ceiling. Cooking is done outside over fires kindled from twigs, shrubs or llama dung.

The miner's family is usually not big. Many babies die at birth, or fail to live long in the squalor and thin Andean air.

Sometimes an entire family sleeps in the same bed. Frequently living with them is a brother-in-law or an uncle or an aunt who has no other place to go.

They survive on rice, potatoes and bread as main staples. Dried milk is available in the company-operated commissaries. Those who can afford it buy tins of corned beef and sardines.

They drink coffee, even the youngest of the youngsters.

NARCOTIC

Many of the miners chew narcotic coca leaves to help them endure the hardships.

The organized miners are under the control of the leftist-dominated Bolivian Mining Federation, whose leader is Vice President Juan Lechin, himself a product of the mines.

Most miners seem to be nonpolitical, interested mainly in scraping out an existence.

A hard-core set of Communist miners, their influence far beyond their number, is at work. They number a few hundred, but they are Moscow-trained and can whip up the miners into rebellious action.

Public-owned mines are operated by a state mining corporation — COMIBOL — now in the process of directing a multimillion-dollar plan designed to streamline the mines and improve the lot of the miner.

THREE-YEAR

Already pouring $40 million into the three-year project are the United States, the Agency for International Development and West Germany.

The mines have lost millions of dollars since nationalization. The country is dependent upon the tin exports for economic survival.

The improvement plan is entering its third year. Progress is slow against reported inefficiency in COMIBOL and leftist resistance. But it is steadily making progress.

If it succeeds, it could possibly put the country back on its economic feet. In the meantime, U.S. aid is keeping the nation's economy from collapsing. More than once Uncle Sam has advanced money to COMIBOL to meet payrolls.

GET MOVING

President Victor Paz Estenssoro is greatly responsible for getting the plan moving. He issued a bold ultimatum to the miners several months ago to clean house.

As a result, he became locked in a power struggle with Lechin, but he seems to be winning out. Although it took time, Paz made Lechin and the miners free 19 hostages, including four Americans, seized by the miners for reprisal against the arrest of two Red leaders. The miners had said they would not release the hostages until the government released the two Communist leaders. But they gave in.

Outstanding 4-H Members

Larry Schaefer, right, and Danna Werst, were named outstanding 4-H Club Members of Glasscock County last week at the Gold Star Banquet in Fort Stockton. Dorsey B. Hardeman, San Angelo, state senator, made the presentation to the two chosen for exceptional project work and exemplary attitude. Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe B. Schaefer, and Danna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Werst. The banquet was sponsored by Texas Electric Service and other utility companies. More than 400 were at the affair.

Pope's Trip To Augment Church Surge Of Renewal

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The pilgrimage of Pope Paul VI to the Holy Land promises a momentous enactment of a powerful surge for renewal within the Roman Catholic Church.

Never before has a Pope gone from Rome to the birthland of Christ.

Never has a Pope traveled by airplane.

Never has a Pope voyaged so far from Italy.

Not since the early 19th century—when Pius VII went to France for the coronation of Napoleon—has a Pope been out of Italy.

SPIRITUAL

But Pope Paul's trip in early January, with all its color and pageantry, will be only trappings of a vastly more significant spiritual journey the Pope is embarking upon.

Many here are calling the trip a new "Pauline pilgrimage."

The reference is to the travels of St. Paul, who journeyed widely in the east—Palestine, Arabia, Syria, Armenia, Greece—in erecting the foundations of his religion at the dawn of Christianity.

Now, 20 centuries later, Pope Paul is seeking to lay lasting foundations in the cause of Christian unity — the immense task of bringing all Christians into one fold.

SERVE CAUSE

He has said he hopes his pilgrimage to the Holy Land will serve that cause. It takes him from Rome, the seat of his own church, to the shrines of Palestine that are venerated by all Christians — Catholics, Protestants and Orthodox. There are also holy places of Judaism and Islam with whose people Christians share the belief that there is but one God.

In one phase the trip of the Italian-born pontiff may serve to give impetus to the movement to internationalize the Vatican administration. By leaving Italy, on what may be the first of many and more distant travels, the Pope is showing that he is the spiritual ruler of the world's 550 million Catholics and not Italians alone.

DECENTRALIZE

Along with this, the trip also may have significance for the internal debate within the Church on the extent to which the Vatican should be decentralized. This has been an issue at the Ecumenical Council. By going far from the center of power represented by the Vatican the Pope may be intending to demonstrate another aspect of decentralization.

In carrying forward contacts with other Christians begun by his predecessor, Pope John XXIII, Pope Paul has shown a special interest in the Orthodox.

He issued a stirring plea last August for Roman Catholics and Eastern Orthodox to tear down the barriers of separation dating from the 11th century. The pontiff referred to the Orthodox as "these venerable and holy Oriental churches."

SUSPICIOUS

Despite enthusiasm shown by some Orthodox leaders there are others deeply suspicious of any serious theological contact with Rome, however.

Beyond the spiritual sphere, the visit also could have political consequences. Despite the Vatican's emphasis on the religious aspects of the pilgrimage the fact remains that the head of the Roman Catholic Church is going to a land riven by strife between the Arab nations and the Jewish-ruled state of Israel.

Israel and the countries around it are still technically in a state of war, with animosity and suspicion still so strong that border crossings are restricted.

The Pope has called his pilgrimage a mission of peace and some have expressed hope that the unprecedented 1,500-mile journey may help to allay anger and suspicion in the turbulent Middle East.

State Shivers But Farms Welcome Recent Moisture

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas weather for two weeks hasn't been preferred but the moisture, though light in many areas, was welcomed.

The cold increased livestock feeding, slowed growth of vegetation and stopped harvesting, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The overall moisture situation showed considerable improvement, the director added, but more is needed.

IN PANHANDLE

Moisture still is short over the entire Panhandle where snow and cold have stopped the cotton harvest and growth of wheat. Feeding increased. The cotton harvest is 40 to 70 per cent complete.

Cotton harvesting on the South Plains has stood still since Dec. 10 with 70 to 80 per cent of the crop ginned.

Rain, sleet and snow left moisture adequate in 14 Rolling Plains counties but was too light to erase the need for moisture in eight other counties. Wheat growth has been slowed, livestock feeding increased. The cotton harvest will be completed quickly when weather permits.

North Central Texas rain raised the top soil moisture to fair over most of the area. Subsoil moisture is still short. Heavy feeding is general.

Rains up to three inches in Northeast Texas have left the area with ample top soil moisture but more is needed to replenish the subsoil and fill stock tanks. Grains and vetch are up to good stands but pastures are below average. Cattle feeding is heavy and the market is weak.

The cotton harvest in far West Texas is in the mopup stage. Irrigated grains are making good growth. Feeding increased.

Surface moisture is generally adequate but subsoil moisture is short in West Central Texas. Livestock are beginning to draw from short grazing and the icy weather. Feeding is general. The pecan harvest is 75 per cent complete with quality below normal. Grain is making little growth. Early calving and lambing is on.

Light rain and sleet left moisture in Central Texas short to adequate. Grains are making little progress. The peanut harvest is near completion and 70 per cent of the pecans have been harvested. Grazing is very limited.

Moisture in East Texas ranges from short to adequate but ranges are below average and little grazing is left.

Rains improved the southeast and the upper Gulf Coast area and surface moisture is now adequate. A good general rain is needed to restore subsoil moisture.

Pack Holds Yule Meet

Cub Pack 48 observed an old-fashioned Christmas theme in its meeting Friday, even if a south-of-the-border flavor did creep into one of the skits.

Den 2 was in charge of the opening at the First Presbyterian Church. Den 5 had a pinata, which finally was shattered by the 12th lad to take a swing, and candy showered to the floor. Den 4 had the closing by asking each rank for a New Year's resolution for doing better in Cubbing. The Cubby award went to Den 3 for having most boys and parents present.

Boys brought food for the needy, and this was turned over to the Salvation Army Saturday. In addition, they gave to the fund for repairing toys. A scheduled caroling was canceled because of bad weather.

Individual awards included Jackie Dolan, Bear; Jarral Hedrick, Wolf; Rodger Plew, Daryl Brunson, Sammy Robertson, Gage Hopkins, James Hogg, arrow points; Jesse Armistead, denner's badge; Jerome Williams, one-year service; Preston Harris and David Roberson, roundup patches.

Early Hearing Asked For Beef

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will ask the Tariff Commission for an early hearing on beef imports.

The commission has set a hearing for April to determine whether action should be taken to limit imports.

Cattlemen have been blaming imports for the sharp drop in cattle prices.

Shuman said here that the Tariff Commission hearings should be started soon. He said that if restrictions on beef imports are found to be needed, he would prefer that efforts be made to get the major foreign suppliers—Australia and New Zealand—to make voluntary reductions in exports to this country in times when cattle prices were depressed.

P. Hurley.

Police Turn Over Funds To Five Welfare Agencies

Checks totaling $1,188.12 were distributed to five agencies in the Big Spring Police Department classroom Friday afternoon. One check for $100 went to Troop 301, sponsored by the police department, from funds available after the policemen's ball.

Five other checks, totaling $1,088.12, were from proceeds of the football game between the police department team and the 331st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, Webb AFB.

Chief Jay Banks, representing the police department, and Maj. Thomas Parnet-Lew, representing the 331st, presented the checks to representatives of the five agencies.

Bennett Brooke, representing the Halfway House, received $435.25, or 40 per cent of the proceeds.

George Thorburn received, for the Howard County Rehabilitation (Crippled Children's) Center, a check for $272.03, or 25 per cent; Capt. William Thomas received 10 per cent, or $108.81, for the Salvation Army's Christmas fund for needy children; Harvey Hooser Jr., $136.01, or 12½ per cent, for Boy Scout Troop 301; and Maj. Thomas Parnet-Lew $136.02, or 12½ per cent, for Webb AFB youth activities fund.

Hooser also received the $100 check from A. P. Hurley for the Scouts from the police fund.

DEAR ABBY

Just Keep Fighting It

DEAR ABBY: You have no idea how much courage it takes to write this, but I have to tell somebody. I have, probably, one of the best husbands on earth. We've been married 23 years and have three children of whom we are very proud. We have a home in the suburbs. My husband is an average wage-earner. We have two cars. We neither smoke nor drink nor spend foolishly. I've always let my husband be the head of the family. He is loving and good, but a strict disciplinarian with the children. He has always been a little on the jealous side, so not wishing to provoke him, I have never gone in for any outside activities. No volunteer work. Not even a P-TA meeting without him. I once read that a cake decorating class was starting and I said I'd like to go. He was so violently opposed that I never mentioned it again. The only people we see are his business friends and their wives. I am a friendly person and not unattractive. Now the problem: Last year, while grocery shopping, I became f r i e n d l y with a widower (neighbor) and I soon looked forward to "running into him" at the store. He asked to buy me coffee, once, then again, and before long it was a standing date. I hate to admit it, but this was the high point of my day. We did nothing wrong, even though I know how much I could care for this charming man if I let myself. I know he feels the same for me. I would never do anything to hurt my family. But I can see how a respectable married woman can "fall in love" with another man. If this could happen to me, it could happen to anyone. I keep asking myself, why?

FIGHTING IT

DEAR "FIGHTING IT": Keep fighting it. Couples don't "fall" in love. They walk into it with their eyes wide open. Mutual interest must be cultivated to become love. Then finally all reason is drained away and the rationalizations take over. When a husband first shows signs of unreasonable possessiveness, he should be straightened out—not yielded to. What does it profit a woman to preserve peace if she loses the marriage?

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1963 SEC. B

Steers Favored By .5 Pt.

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas has the college football lineman of the year. Navy has the back.

In a way, that sums up the nation's 1-2 teams, and the fellows who fix the favorites have gone for the lineman—but by the narrowest possible margin, one-half point.

National champion Texas drew the slight favorite role for its New Year's Day meeting with No. 2 Navy in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. It is the outstanding match-up in the Bowl business this season, and makes it two straight years that the two top teams have met.

National champion Southern California outlasted No. 2 Wisconsin 42-37 in the last Rose Bowl game.

Texas has tackle Scott Appleton, the nation's top lineman, plus the No. 11 defensive team. Navy has Roger Staubach, the all-everything quarterback, and the No. 6 offense in the nation. The Middies also ranked No. 2 in scoring with an average of 31.4 points a game. Texas gave up only 6.5 points, third lowest.

In the other big Jan. 1 Bowls, Illinois was established the favorite over Washington in the Rose Bowl, Auburn over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and Mississippi over Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

The Bowl season actually got underway a week ago and will run through Jan. 4. The pros will go until Jan. 19.

Next Saturday has the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., and the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., plus three all-star games.

Western Kentucky, 9-0-1, meets Coast Guard Academy, 8-0, at Orlando. The Coast Guard, coached by former pro great Otto Graham, is the third of the four service academies to draw a bowl bid. Only Army was left out.

Air Force, 7-3, meets North Carolina, 8-2, at Jacksonville. North Carolina is a slight favorite.

The Blue-Gray at Montgomery and the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco compete the Dec. 28 slate.

Oregon, 7-3, has been established the favorite over SMU, 4-6, in the Sun Bowl game at El Paso, Dec. 31.

After the big Jan. 1 card, the colleges finally finish with the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., and the Hula Bowl at Honolulu, both on Jan. 4.

The lineup:

Dec. 28

Blue Gray at Montgomery, Ala.

East-West Shrine game at San Francisco.

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., —North Carolina, 8-2, vs. Air Force, 7-3.

Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.,—Western Kentucky 9-0-1, vs. Coast Guard Academy, 8-0.

Dec. 31

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.—SMU, 4-6, vs. Oregon, 7-3.

Jan. 1

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.—Illinois 7-1-1, vs. Washington, 6-4.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas, — Texas, 10-0, vs. Navy, 9-1.

Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., —Nebraska, 9-1, vs. Auburn, 9-1.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Mississippi, 7-0-2, vs. Alabama, 8-2.

Jan. 4

Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala.

Hula Bowl at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Baylor Surges Back To Topple Tigers

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Don Trull, Baylor's record smashing passer, was plagued by a magnificient Louisiana State defense the first three quarters Saturday but struck back brilliantly with two long final period scoring drives to lead Baylor to a 14-7 victory in the Bluebonnet Bowl football classic.

LSU, limiting its offense to four first downs—all in the first period—struck quickly behind the passing and running of Billy Ezell and Buddy Soefker for a 7-0 lead and then halted Baylor surges to the Tiger 19, 26, 7 and 10-yard lines before being overcome by Trull passes.

The Baylor scoring drives finally covered 68 and 70 yards and Trull ended them with touchdown passes of seven and 13 yards to James Ingram.

Trull, who set three national records while leading Baylor to a 7-3 record as runner-up in the Southwest to national champion Texas, completed 26 of 37 passes for 255 yards and was promptly voted the game's outstanding player. Ingram was named the outstanding lineman.

Soefker climaxed the 43-yard LSU scoring drive by carrying over from the eight. LSU then called on such defensive stars as Remi Prudhomme, Ernest Maggiore, Milton Trosclair and Ralph Pere to hold off the repeated Baylor threats until Ingram tied the score with his seven-yard catch three minutes gone in the fourth quarter.

Soefker also added his bit to defense by intercepting a Trull pass that halted the 74-yard Baylor surge to the 10. Two plays earlier, Henry Pickett had raced 10 yards around his left end to tie the score at 7-7 but a holding penalty against Baylor erased the touchdown and shoved the Bears back to the 23-yard line.

The 26 completions gave Trull, a senior, a new career record for a single college game. His previous high was 21.

Only 5 minutes, 20 seconds remained in the game when Trull again found Ingram in the end zone for the go-ahead touchdown.

Seconds later, however, Joe Labruzzo, a sophomore speedster, almost put LSU back into a tie by returning the kickoff 72 yards to the Baylor 24 before being knocked out of bounds by Lawrence Elkins, the man who had kicked off.

It was the first time since the LSU touchdown for the Tigers to cross midfield, but they threatened no closer than the 23. Danny Leblanc got one yard on first down and three passes by Ezell were incomplete. Ezell overshot on the first pass and the next two were broken up by Eddie Whiddom, Robert Christian and Bobby Maples.

Ingram, in taking outstanding lineman honors, received 11 of Trull's passes for 163 yards and the two Baylor touchdowns.

Garland Flattens Miller, 17 To 0

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Garland sprung loose a trio of hard-hitting backs Saturday to defeat Corpus Christi Miller 17-0 and wins its first Class AAAA high school football championship.

Garland was the AAA king in 1956.

Fullback Ralph Weaver, voted the game's outstanding player, and swift halfbacks Bill Crump and Gary Bridges found huge holes in Miller's defense time after time.

Miller was after its second AAAA crown in four years, having upset Wichita Falls 13-6 in 1960 for the title.

For Garland Coach Chuck Curtis, it was the second year in succession for a championship team. Last year he coached Jacksboro which won the AA title.

Miller, boasting Inez Perez, a quarterback who had thrown for more than 1,400 yards this year and two halfbacks, James and Lee Spears, who had rushed for more than 2,000 yards, could hardly move against the quick, agile Garland line. Miller never penetrated the Garland 25-yard line.

Meanwhile, the Owls fired up scoring drives in the first, third and fourth quarters.

A short push in the opening quarter put Garland in field goal range and kicking specialist Randy Sims booted it from the Miller 21-yard line.

Then in the third quarter, Weaver picked off a fumble in mid-air and returned it 5 yards to the 21. Crump and Weaver took the ball to the 12, and on third and one, Weaver dashed through a huge hole at left tackle and raced for the score.

Sims kicked his 35th conversion of the year in 38 tries and the Owls led 10-0.

Moments later Miller missed a fine chance to score when end Charles Moore stepped out of bounds at the Garland 35 as he shook loose from a tackler and went on into the end zone.

Garland's fourth period score came on a 9-yard dash by Bridges with 5:47 left in the quarter. Sims missed his first attempt at the extra point, but Miller was penalized. Then Sims kicked his 36th conversion.

Miller went into a spread formation after receiving the kickoff, but an interception by Crump stalled a short Miller drive.

Corsicana Is AAA Titlist

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP)—Corsicana scored a second quarter touchdown on a faked field goal, then hung on to the thin margin to beat Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, 7-0 Saturday in a rough and rugged battle for the Class AAA state football championship.

Rankin Koch passed 18 yards to Jim Hagle for the Tigers' touchdown with 0:15 to play in the first half as Corsicana won the title in its last year in the AAA class. Ricky Libal kicked the extra point.

The Bears could never get into good field position and crossed the midfield strip only once in the second half. The clock ran out on the valley team just as quarterback Johnny Warden ran to the Corsicana 40.

Hagle, Corsicana's workhorse, almost scored a second tally in the fourth period after he intercepted a Warden pass on the Bears' 37 and returned it to the one. Four plays later Hagle, back at the one again after a penalty, hit the middle of the line but was stopped inches away.

Sam Cooper proved to be important to Corsicana's victory when he blocked Jeff Champion's quick kick on the Pharr-San Juan-Alamo 30. Don Ivie recovered for the Tigers at the 26 and from there Hagle moved the ball to the 18.

Libal and Koch went into the game on fourth down, needing a yard for a first down. Koch got into the holding position then jumped up and hit Hagle as the halfback romped all alone in the left flat. No one touched him before he scored.

The Bears dominated the statistics but just never could get into scoring position. They gained 159 yards on the ground and 44 in the air. Corsicana gained only 84 yards both ways —26 on the ground and 58 by air.

Hagle carried 20 times for 47 yards. Champion carried the load for Pharr gaining 67 yards on 21 trips. Warden gained 47 yards on 10 carries.

Mira Is Star In 23-14 Win

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rifle-armed George Mira of the Miami Hurricanes hurled the South to a 23-14 come-from-behind victory over the North Saturday with an expected record-shattering aerial performance in the 16th of the Shrine's college all-star football games.

Bringing the Rebels to life after Jack Concanno, of Boston College had passed and run the Yankees into a 14-0 first-quarter lead, Mira passed for two touchdowns and set up a third as the South scored in each of the last three quarters.

The game was a stirring duel between two great pro-bound quarterbacks — Concannon, choice of the Philadelphia Eagles, and Mira, the top selection of the San Francisco 49ers. Each was voted the outstanding player of his team.

A surprisingly small crowd of only 19,120 turned out in clear cool weather to watch another in this typically exciting series. The victory was the 10th for the South, against 5 for the North and 1 tie.

Mira completed 27 of 42 passes for 366 yards, breaking both the individual and team records for all three departments in this series.

Jayhawks Hang On To Topple Texans

By PAT WASHBURN

LEVELLAND — "HCJC may not be the best team in the country but they scramble a heck of a lot!"

That's the way an excited spectator saw it Friday night in Levelland immediately after the favored South Plains Texans had been downed by the Howard County Jayhawks, 71-66.

For the Hawks, it was an uphill fight most of the way. Amassing a nine-point halftime lead, they saw it whisk away as if carried by the West Texas wind as the Texans got hot and took a three point edge with nine minutes left in the contest. It wasn't until that point that the Jayhawks took command and swept to victory.

But that wasn't their biggest obstacle. The officiating of the game was terrible — and that's putting it mildly. The teams drew 31 fouls apiece as the referees made questionable call after questionable call as the game wore on. And then suddenly with two minutes left in the contest, they almost refused to blow their whistles and the game turned into wild melee of players strewn up and down the court on charging fouls.

What's important is the fact that the Jayhawks managed to get a win. And Eddy Nelson, a 6'2½" forward of whom many people have said, "He jumps like a kangaroo," had a big chunk of that victory.

The Texans never found the combination to stop him. It isn't that they didn't try—the Texan coach, Bill Powell, emptied his bench as he sent man after man in with instructions simply to stop Nelson—but it didn't work. And South Plains chances went down the hole.

Nelson, a former all-district performer for the Big Spring Steers, was magnificent. In popping in 22 points he shook himself loose time after time for deadly jump shots from 10 and 12 feet.

It wasn't all Nelson, of course. He had help in this game—and he needed it desperately. Terry Williams hit 11 from his guard position, Jim Oldham came up with 11 from his forward slot, and big Charles Cumber sank 14 from the post.

But the high - point performance of the contest didn't come from the Jayhawks — it came from the Texans. In defeat, Tommy Patton was outstanding as he riddled the Hawks defense for 24 points. Particularly at the free throw line, he was accurate. Only one other Texan was in the double figure. That was Charles Turnbough, who swished in 13. That was one thing that hurt them—they didn't have enough consistent scorers.

If the game had gone for another quarter, it is doubtful if the Hawks could have won. By the time the final orange lights had flashed on the scoreboard, four of Howard County's top boys had been banished to the bench with five fouls each to their name. That came as a surprise to no one—even the South Plains' coach admitted after the game that it was some of the worse officiating he had ever seen.

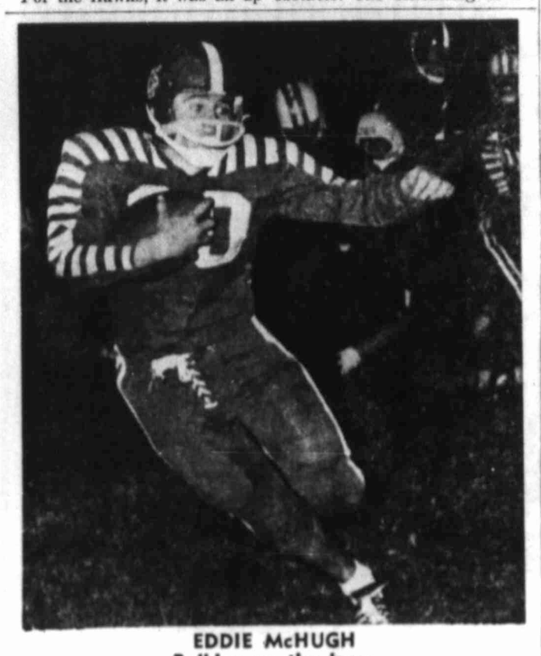

HCJC had to scramble to get this one. South Plains was in there all the way fighting until the end and the final result was indeed in doubt until the clock showed less than 30 seconds left to play.

It was a fine game. It was an even finer victory.

Bulldog on the loose

Two Coahoma Boys Named

Eddie McHugh, junior halfback, and junior tackle Larry Pherigo were the only Coahoma players named to the All-District 6-A football team selected recently by the coaches.

Numerous ties developed in the balloting, with the result that 22 boys were named on the first unit.

Champion Merkel placed seven boys on the contingent while runnerup Roscoe and third-place Aspermont wound up with four boys each on the squad. Rotan and Wylie each had two boys named, as did Coahoma.

Only one Jim Ned athlete was chosen. He was Michael Smith, 185-pound senior guard.

In all, five tackles and five guards were selected, along with five halfbacks. Oddly enough, no center was selected.

Marshall Williams, Coahoma quarterback, was given honorable mention on the squad.

Heaviest boy on the first unit was Ronnie Grunn of Wylie, a tackle, who tips in at 200 pounds. Lightest was Tommy Edison, a 135-pound guard who wore Aspermont's colors.

In the junior division, Mike Clark had a 597 which was good enough to get past the field while Ann Johnson's 508 took first place among the girls.

John Paris got the trophy for the boys in the bantam class with a 469 while Wyvonne Holcombe was crowned among the girls with a 436.

The senior division is grades 10-12, the juniors includes the seventh through ninth grades, while the bantam class goes from the fourth through the sixth.

Candy Machine Is Helpful To Fish

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Austin police have come up with perhaps the top fish story of the year.

Here's their story:

A candy distributor stopped by police headquarters recently to claim a stolen vending machine which police had pulled from Lake Austin the previous day.

A live, 12-inch catfish flopped out. Water inside the candy machine had kept the fish alive more than 24 hours.

• • •

From Denison comes this word: Horse racing may be called the sport of kings, but duck hunting must be considered—dollar-wise. One hunter in that area reportedly paid $2,496.50 recently to kill one duck. That amount included everything from a shot gun to decoys and binoculars.

• • •

Squirrel hunting, says Parks and Wildlife officials, has been "far above average" during the October-December open season in Texas. "The 1963 season has been the victim of drought in most areas, yet squirrels have prospered due to a heavy mast crop," the department said. "Hunters using squirrel dogs seem to report a higher average kill..."

• • •

A University of Texas student went out for some early morning pistol practice recently, but police decided he had not gone far enough. They fined him $17 for shooting at ducks in the city limits. The sharpshooter was firing from a road with a pistol at ducks in Lake Austin.

• • •

Hurricane Audrey and man's canals and levees stripped Southeast Texas of cane, so duck hunters have changed their tactics. Now they're using pits built of barrels or steel. One disadvantage is that the pits are not easily moved.

• • •

Texas sportsmen are expressing concern over anti-gun bills before Congress. Most hunters and writers favor laws tightening the selling of firearms, but caution against passing hurriedly constructed legislation. "This is no time to rush in and put a lot of junk legislation on the books," one outdoors writer states.

• • •

These facts come from the Parks and Wildlife department: In Texas' 254 counties there are more than 168 million acres of land, and every county in the state has a game species that may be hunted the year around.

Carter Advises Welters To Steer Clear Of Him

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "No welterweight has any business in the ring with me," Rubin (Hurricane) Carter said before his scheduled 10-round fight with welterweight champion Emile Griffith Friday night.

A crowd of 5,436 and a nationwide television audience found out it was no idle boast when they saw the No. 2 ranked middleweight stop Griffith in the first round in what could rank as the upset of the year.

The quick ending and the fact that the favored Griffith had never been knocked out before gave added weight to the upset.

The 155 - pound Carter, packing dynamite in both hands, dropped the man who was named Fighter of the Year by the Boxing Writers Association twice before the bout was stopped at 2:13. Griffith weighed 151½.

Griffith was dropped first by a vicious left hook and went down the second time under a rain of head blows. Griffith was on his feet again when referee Buck McTiernan ended it.

The outcome might have surprised many, but Carter made it clear that he wasn't surprised.

Carter said in the dressing room after the fight:

"Like I told you before, they have no business putting a welterweight in with me."

The victory brought the 26-year-old Paterson, N. J., slugger's career record to 18-4, with 12 knockouts, and put him in the spotlight for a crack at Joey Giardello's middleweight crown.

If and when Carter does get a bout with Giardello, he says he will knock him out, but "I don't know if it will be too fast because he'll run."

Griffith went to Carter at the opening bell. Carter said, "I expected him to come in because he got pride."

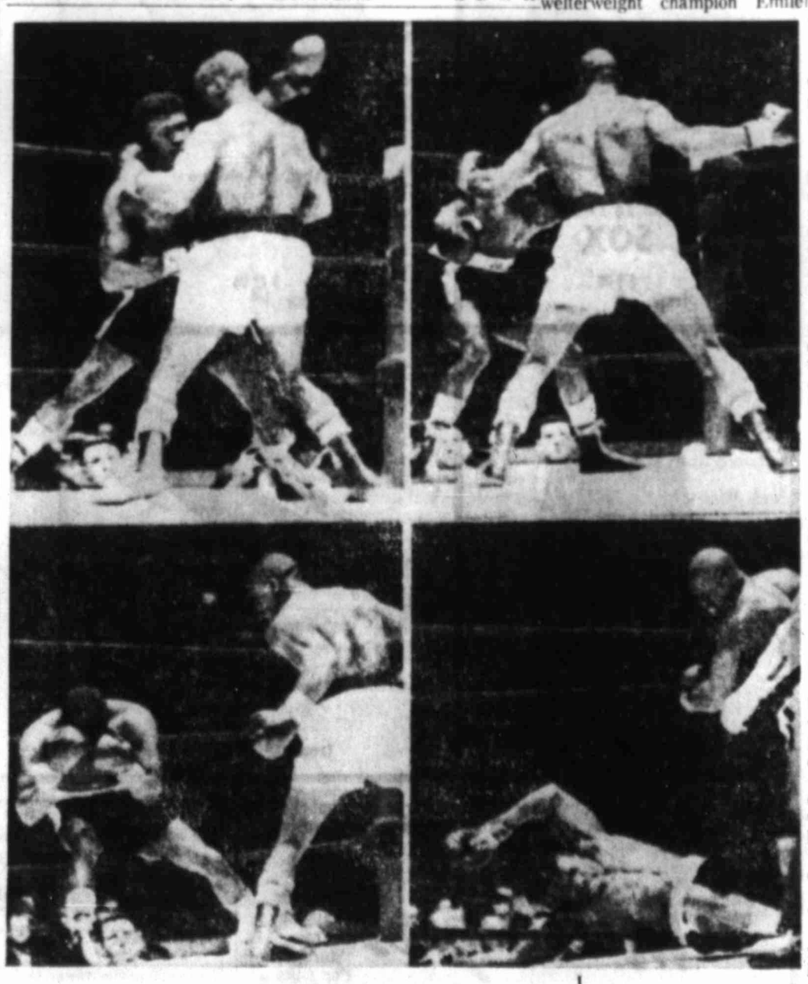

Griffith said he thought he could have continued.

"I was wobbly but I knew what was going on," he said.

He quickly added, "But the ref knew what he was doing—I have no excuses."

The crowd agreed.

The loss gave the 24-year-old Virgin Islands native, who resides in New York, a 35-5 record. He has defeated middleweights seven times and has lost to them three times.

The End For Griffith

VMI Bobble Voted As Oddity Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Unheralded Virginia Military Academy was holding the great Roger Staubach in check and mighty Navy scoreless until the fading seconds of the first half.

Then the Middies tried a field goal from VMI's 31 yard line. Mark Mulrooney, playing safety in the end zone, reached up and deflected the short kick by Fred Martin.

Mulrooney, after knocking the ball down, absentmindedly walked away thinking the ball was dead. Marlin, the kicker, rushed into the end zone to recover the ball for a touchdown, then kicked the extra point.

This weird play, occurring at Norfolk, Oct. 19, was voted the oddity of the college football season in a poll conducted by the Associated Press.

A panel of sports writers and broadcasters apparently didn't find the football season very funny. They selected only a handful of zany or unusual plays.

One that wasn't very funny, at least to the followers of Willamette University's football team, took place in a game between that school and Puget Sound.

The score was deadlocked at 20-20 late in the game. Willamette quarterback Jim Dambroski faked a handoff into the line, hid the ball on his hip and rolled out. He spotted end Stan Trexer in the end zone and hit him with a 47-yard touchdown pass.

Referee Tom Cross, fooled by Dambroski's deception, whistled the play dead at the original line of scrimmage. Puget Sound then scored and went on to win 27-20.

Others nominated among the top oddities of the year were:

Auburn accepting a penalty on a Georgia offside after kicking a 29-yard field goal, then going on to score a touchdown that beat the Bulldogs 7-0.

Washington getting only three first downs in a 21-21 tie with Iowa.

Wagner sophomore Mike Kelly dropping the ball in the middle of a 64-yard run, grabbing it again on the first bounce without breaking stride, and going in for the touchdown.

A punt by Drake's Manley Sarnowsky that was blown backwards over the kicker's head for a Southern Missouri safety by a strong wind.

Tulane's 19-game non-winning streak and Wake Forest's 18-game losing streak both ending against the same team — South Carolina.

A pass thrown by Louisiana State quarterback Billy Erzell that was batted back by a Tulane lineman and caught by the passer.

Austin College of Sherman, Tex., completing 30 of 46 passes for 507 yards, and setting five NAIA records but losing to East Central Oklahoma 54-37.

Sul Ross Grid Letters To 34

ALPINE — A total of 34 lettermen for the recently completed 1963 football season have been named at Sul Ross State College, according to David Slaughter, head coach and athletic director.

Heading the list is the squad's only senior, Marvin Agnew, a 200-pound guard from Eastland. Agnew, who earned his third Lobo letter, last week was named to both offensive and defensive first teams on the mythical All Lone Star Conference football teams.

A breakdown of lettermen shows that eight juniors, 13 sophomores and an even dozen freshmen were issued monograms for 1963 grid work.

The Lobos, 2-7-1 for the season and 0-5-1 in rugged Lone Star Conference play, took part of the bitter edge off the 1963 season Thanksgiving Day in Las Cruces, N.M., when they upended heavily favored New Mexico State University Aggies, 42-15.

Joining Agnew for post-season honors are Pedraza and Pasqua, who were named second team, All LSC, and Warren Sheelar, an honorable mention candidate.

Big Spring Meets Belton Thursday

BROWNWOOD—The Howard Payne College Tournament opens Thursday in Brownwood with the Big Spring Steers, showing an improving 6-3 record, among the cage hopefuls trying to take this year's crown in the Class AAA-AAAA division.

But the Steers will definitely be underdogs. The South San Antonio Bobcats, who opened their season this year by besting the defending Class AAAA titlist, San Angelo, will be given the favored role along with the Belton Tigers, a central Texas powerhouse, and the host Brownwood Lions.

Others in the field will be the Stephenville Yellow Jackets, the Lampasas Badgers, the Midland Lee Rebels, and the Sweetwater Mustangs.

In the other division of the tourney, Class AA schools and down, the Brady Bulldogs will be the favorites. Other schools which will be going for the crown are the Comanche Indians, the Coleman Blue Cats, the Jacksboro Tigers, the Llano Yellowjackets, the Iowa Park Hawks, the Tulia Hornets, and the Goldthwaite Eagles.

The Brownwood Coliseum on the Howard Payne campus will see the opening game in the top division begin at 2:30 p.m. Thursday as South San Antonio goes against Stephenville. Three other games will follow—Lampasas and Midland Lee, 4 p.m.; Big Spring and Belton, 6 p.m.; and Sweetwater and Brownwood, 9 p.m.

The winners in the South San Antonio-Stephenville and Lampasas-Midland Lee contest will go against each other at 7:30 p.m. Friday while the losers will play in the consolation round at 1 p.m. Friday. The winners of the other two games will meet at 9 p.m. Friday while the losers will go against each other at 2:30 p.m.

The finals in the championship round will be played at 7:30 p.m. Saturday while the consolation finals will be at 10:30 p.m.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Cletus Fisher, the former Midland mentor who is now a coaching aide at the University of Nebraska, visited Big Spring the other day to look at some Steer football films and confer with local coaches . . . Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska, says Fisher is very interested in both Albert Fierro and Dick Irons of the Big Spring club . . . The school offers are beginning to come in for the local boys. Mike Campbell of the University of Texas coaching staff called coach Don Robbins of Big Spring the other day and, in the course of the conversation asked Don to visit them during the Christmas holidays as the Longhorns prepared for their Cotton Bowl date with Navy . . . Campbell also asked how Big Spring defensed against the pass . . . The aerial arm of Navy's Roger Staubach, of course, has the Texas staff worried . . . The two teams clash a week from Wednesday . . . Fullback Steve Lane, star of the George West team that stopped here the other night en route to the Class A championship game at Lubbock against Petersburg, is a stellar high hurdler . . . He's a likely all-state selection at his position . . . Garland, a State football champ in football, likely will have two high schools before very long . . . The area has undergone tremendous growth in recent years . . . Royce Berry, a stellar end, recently was named the most valuable player on the Odessa Permian football team . . . Berry was also singled out as the best defensive lineman on his club . . . The best defensive back award went to Harmon Smith . . . Randy Matson, the track star at Texas A&M from Pampa, is on a weight-lifting program and has added several inches to his chest and shoulder measurements . . . He says, "I feel stronger than at any time in my life" . . . James Adams, the former Midland cager, has been red-shirted by the Texas Tech coaching staff this year . . . ABC's Wide World of Sports has obtained the TV rights to the 1963 Davis Cup Challenge Round and has made arrangements to televise the first three matches of the best-of-five tennis series, which will start shortly after Christmas . . . Coverage will be put on tape, placed on a plane in Sydney, Australia, then flown to New York . . . The film is scheduled to arrive a few hours before the air time of the sports show, scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 28.

San Angelo Expects Faster Team

Lefty Stackhouse, the golf veteran who lives in Seguin, is recovering from a lung operation . . . The AMF-Ben Hogan company will shortly hit the market with the 1964 "Power Thrust III" irons, advertised as the most powerful ever built. . . . . They are billed as a "blade on ice" principal, with the face offering an enlarged sweep spot, and a recessed back blade engineered for optimum weight distribution to transfer the full motive force on a golfer's swing directly to the ball . . . The Hogan irons were very much in demand when Gil Barnett, employed by the concern, came out here to start the 1963 Big Spring Invitational . . . Drew Darby, who rated the All-District 2-AAAA offensive and defensive platoons the past season, will probably be moved from guard to center next fall by coach Emory Bellard . . . Incidentally, the San Angelo club may be the fastest Bellard has fielded in his four years there but will, in all likelihood, have problems in the line . . . CBS-TV plans to begin Dec. 23 a 15-week run of a golf series called the Match Play Classic, in which the prize money will total $150,000 . . . Tommy Armour and Chris Schenkel will handle the commentary. Golfers competing in teams include Bob Charles and Bruce Crampton, Jack Nicklaus and Phil Rodgers, Bobby Nichols and Jacky Cupit, Sam Snead and Tony Lema, Julius Boros and George Bayer, Dave Reagan and Billy Casper . . . Films on many of "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf" are now available on a free loan basis to golf clubs, service clubs and similar groups . . . Those interested can write the Shell Oil Company, 50 W. 50th St., New York 20, N. Y. . . . When Lubbock High met Amarillo High in football the past season, Lubbock's share of the gate amounted to only $245 . . . Jim Prince, former batting king of the old Longhorn league, is now operating a filling station in Midland. . . . If you watched Alabama play football on TV recently, you may have noticed the care with which Crimson Tide players picked up Miami ball carriers after tackling and blocking them . . . Alabama has gotten some bad publicity on its rough football against Georgia Tech and other clubs in other years and is seeking a better press.

Miners Will Be Rugged Next Season

Big Spring has proved to be the most popular football draw for a Midland football team the past two seasons . . . Midland Lee and the Steers played to 7,756 paying customers in Midland last fall and no other crowd the Rebels performed before at home approached 7,000 . . . Midland High played to no turnout at home bigger than 6,748 last fall while the Steers and the Bulldogs attracted 6,567 there in 1962 . . . The two Midland schools played to a total of 64,860 customers in 11 home games in 1963, compared to the 53,679 they lured through the turnstiles last year . . . Max Bumgardner, the San Angelo College mentor, visited here last week and offered athletic scholarships to five Steers: Albert Fierro, Charley West, Dick Irons, Tim Smith and Kenny Chrane . . . John Conley of Texas Tech and Allie White, TCU, are other scouts who have dropped in here and the Steer coaching staff has been visited by representatives from Oklahoma University, Kansas, SMU and Texas A&M, as well as the aforementioned Nebraska . . . Warren Woodson, the New Mexico State mentor, is interested in Fierro and several other local players . . . Woodson is the fellow who coached Charley Johnson to greatness . . . In event you've been wondering, Texas Western dropped its final football game to Wyoming, 7-6, and the Miners ended up with a 3-7 won-lost record . . . The Miners, incidentally, lose only five gridders via graduation and only two on the starting offensive platoons . . . One of those is Big Spring's Jimmy Evans . . . Kenny Paxton, who performed in the line when Lamesa played here last September, will probably be in the Tornado secondary when the Steers go to Lamesa to return the contest next fall . . . Jay White, the Lamesa back who was hamstrung by injuries much of last season, hopes to play college football . . . His father, Gus White Jr., was a stellar player for the San Diego Naval Center during World War II.

Death Made The Next Play

Seconds after this picture was made during a San Francisco high school basketball game between St. Ignatius and Bishop O'Dowd Friday night, Dennis Carter (No. 4), S. I. guard, suddenly sat down on the court, held his head and then fell over backwards — dead. An autopsy will determine the cause of death. The game was called off. John Hopkins, St. Ignatius school photographer, took the picture. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Bobcats Scramble Past Kangaroos

SAN ANGELO — The Killeen Kangaroos learned Friday night the same thing that the rest of District 2-AAAA is slowly learning—that the San Angelo Bobcats are going to be tough in defense of their loop and Class AAAA basketball crown.

The Bobcats swept past Killeen, 68-57, for their fifth straight victory after losing their first six games.

Ronnie Henson led the Bobcats in scoring with 20 points but wasn't the high point man in the game as the Kangaroo's Stanley Schlueter got 23.

Amonti Will Meet Former Champion

Four boys hit in double figures for the Shorthorns. Paul Solden led the way with 14 while Joe Jaure had 13, Bobby Griffin 12 and Van Tom Whatley 11.

Michael Hoch paced the Bearcats with seven points while Vernon Newsom and Earl Plagens had six each.

Judy Hirt and Brenda Jacob each scored 17 points for Garden City. The win proved costly to the Kittens, however, because guard Sharon Cypert sprained an ankle and will be lost to the club for about three weeks.

Blocked Punt Helps Maroons Score Win

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mississippi State, its offensive power thwarted time and again by major penalties, needed a touchdown on a blocked punt and a 43-yard field goal to turn back a determined North Carolina State team 16-12 Saturday in the fifth annual and probably last Liberty Bowl football game.

A frozen turnout of 8,309 spectators watched the two Southern teams perform on a bitter 22-degree day made even colder by a biting 15 miles per hour wind whipping through the 102,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium.

The Bulldogs of Mississippi State, a late season blossoming national power, suffered 122 yards in penalties, most of them 15-yard assessments that stymied scoring bids. A penalty for a foul on a free ball after a punt helped North Carolina State maintain a drive that resulted in its first touchdown.

The Mississippians ripped to a 13-0 lead in the first period when Bill McGuire, junior end, blocked Dave Houtz' punt, and end Tommy Inman picked up the loose ball and raced 11 yards into the end zone.

Later in the quarter, the Bulldogs drove 47 yards on seven plays with quarterback Sonny Fisher running the final three.

In the second period, Mississippi State, which finished fourth in its conference although defeating several of the nation's ranking teams, drove to the Wolfpack 25, but had to settle for a 43-yard field goal by Justin Canale, a 214-pound junior guard.

Trailing 16-0, North Carolina State, co-champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference, got a big break when it punted and Mississippi State was penalized 15 yards for clipping while the ball was in the air. The penalty enabled the Wolfpack to maintain possession and continue a drive that led to their first TD, a one-yard quarterback sneak by Jim Rossi, who was voted the outstanding back in the game.

Chicago Stars Lead Rookies

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Baseball Writers' Rookie of the Year Award had twin winners for 1963, pitcher Gary Peters and third baseman Pete Ward, both of the Chicago White Sox.

They will be honored at the Chicago Writers' annual Diamond Dinner, Jan. 12.

Peters, who had a 19-8 won-loss record and a 2.33 ERA average, season's best among American League starters, and Ward, who batted .295, are the first White Sox players to get this award.

Players Will Get Awards

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's most valuable players of 1963, Sandy Moufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Elston Howard of the New York Yankees, will receive plaques for achievement in sports at the Bill Corum Memorial Dinner Jan. 25.

Their acceptances were announced Saturday. The 13th annual Award Dinner is sponsored by Sports Lodge B'nai B'rith and will be held at the Hotel Roosevelt. Paavo Nurmi, Finland's famed Olympic champion runner, also will be honored at the affair.

Mustangs Vault By Lamesa, 60-50

LAMESA — The Sands Mustangs, riding the 19-point scoring of Maxwell, cruised past the Lamesa B team Friday night, 60-50.

Maxwell was joined in the double figures by teammates Eddie Herm and Fryar Brown. Lamesa, led all scorers with 21 points while Wiggins had 17.

McKinley, Ralston Are Cup Favorites

ADELAIDE, Australia, (AP)—Two young refugees from a doghouse, Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston, are favored to return world tennis supremacy and the Davis Cup to the United States next weekend with a Challenge Round victory over Australia.

They are a firm 5-3 pick over an Australian team which has fallen on hard times but which still is led by that wily tactician Harry Hopman, who as captain has pulled out victories in 11 of the last 13 years.

"Hoppy will do it again," many loyal supporters here maintain, although cold analyses point the pendulum in the direction of McKinley, the bashing Wimbledon titleholder, and Ralston, outstanding individual performer of the Australian grass court campaign.

McKinley, 22, of St. Ann, Mo., a senior at Trinity University in Texas and Ralston, 21, a junior at the University of Southern California from Bakersfield, Calif., are slated to play both singles and doubles in the best of five match competition Thursday, Friday and Saturday on the Memorial Drive Courts in this sweltering capital of South Australia.

The Australians will strive to keep the big silver trophy with Roy Emerson, a wiry 27-year-old who failed to take over his appointed role as No. 1 amateur in the world after his teammate, Rod Laver, turned pro, Neale Fraser, 30, former U.S. and Wimbledon champion, who is making a comeback after a year in retirement, Fred Stolle, 24, and John Newcombe, 19.

Hopman is reported undecided on his lineup, but it appears almost certain he will play Emerson and Stolle in the singles and Emerson and Fraser in the doubles.

The draw is scheduled for Christmas Day, and the first matches start Thursday at 1:15 p.m., Adelaide time which is 11:45 p.m., EST Wednesday. The doubles is scheduled for Friday and the final two singles, reversing the opening day's line-up, Saturday.

"Chuck and Dennis are playing so well it scares me," Pancho Gonzales, former pro king, who is serving as U.S. coach, said last weekend. "If they can hold this form the match could be a rout."

Ralston was the scourge of the Australian season, winning championships at Sydney and Melbourne and losing only a match in the final of the South Australian tournament here to Newcombe a few hours after learning of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Ralston took the court only after being persuaded to do so by William Battle, U.S. ambassador to Australia and longtime personal friend of the slain president.

Playing superbly and keeping complete control of his trigger temper which brought him a six-month suspension by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association in 1961, Ralston scored two victories over Emerson and also beat Stolle twice.

McKinley, who assumed No. 1 world ranking after his impressive Wimbledon victory, hurt his back in the early rounds of the U.S. championships and suffered a recurrence soon after reaching Australia.

However, he has reacted well to rest and recently has shown no ill effects of the mishap.

His only competition since the opening tournament in Sydney a month ago was doubles play with Ralston in Melbourne.

McKinley and Ralston, holders of the American crown, should be favored over any pair the Australians can muster.

McKinley, like Ralston, fell into the bad graces of the USLTA after an incident-packed Australian campaign in 1960 and was placed on a year's probation.

Ralston, often surly and frequently explosive, drew suspension after a flareup in the American Zone Davis Cup matches at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1961.

GEORGE RANCICH

Rancich Is Named Prexy Of Fortuna Corporation

EL PASO — George Rancich, well known El Paso lower valley rancher and prominent Southwestern horse breeder, has been elected president of the Fortuna Corporation and vice president Byran G. Johnson has been elevated to the post of chairman of the board.

The Fortuna Corporation is the owner and operator of Sunland Park.

Rancich succeeds the late L. R. (Riley) Allison, who died suddenly November 12. Judge Johnson has been acting president since the passing of Mr. Allison and has served as vice president since Sunland Park opened its inaugural season in 1959.

In other action by the board, Peter J. Vidal of Gallup was named vice president. Vidal has been a member of the board since formation of the Fortuna Corporation. All other incumbent officers and directors were returned to office.

Sunland Park's new prexy is a ruggedly handsome 46-year-old Texan. A son-in-law of the late president L. R. Allison, Rancich stated that he is dedicated to carrying out the policies and principles of the track's former president. He added that there will be no personnel changes.

Rancich is married to the former Frances Allison of El Paso. The popular couple have five children. He has managed the 1,700 acre L. R. Allison Farm at Tornillo, Texas, the past 14 years.

Vice president of the El Paso Valley Cotton Association, and vice president of the Lower Valley Cotton Gin, he is also a director of the Tornillo Cotton Oil Company and the Tornillo Cotton Gin Company. He serves as a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank of Fabens and is manager of the L. R. Allison Company.

A native of Globe, Ariz., Rancich moved to nearby Fabens, Texas, at an early age. He was a star football player at Texas Western College and Los Angeles City College and served in the Air Force in World War II.

He worked closely with the late Mr. Allison in all phases of track administration and has been active in management since his appointment to the board in 1961.

The new chairman of the Board is one of the founders of Sunland Park and one of New Mexico's most noted barristers.

A former District Judge of the State of New Mexico, Judge Johnson is a member of the Board of Regents of the University of New Mexico and was honored by appointment to the American College of Trial Lawyers. He holds a highly respected position in legal circles throughout the Southwest, and his firm of Iden and Johnson of Albuquerque is among the most prominent in New Mexico.

Adelphi Exploded Myth Of Francis

By MURRAY JANOFF
Of Long Island (N. Y.) Press

In thumbing through some files it was discovered that this is the 10th anniversary of Bevo Francis' invasion of New York's Madison Square Garden for a college basketball game.

A call to George Faherty, coach and athletic director at Adelphi College, brought laughter. It was 10 years ago that he laughed like that, when he exploded the biggest myth ever to come down the basketball pike.

Faherty's supposed-to-be-patsy Adelphi team chopped down the mighty Bevo.

"I've got a newspaper article from Dayton, Ohio right in front of me," Faherty said, still laughing. "It says Bevo is now a truck driver in East Liverpool, Ohio. It says also that Newt Oliver, who was Bevo's coach at Rio Grande College (Ohio), has gone back to teaching high school and runs a restaurant on the side.

"I'll never forget both of them. Bevo was one of the nicest young fellows I ever met, but he got mixed up with the wrong crowd and was exploited. Newt Oliver was the only coach I ever saw pull a strip tease on the bench. The night we beat them, he peeled off his coat, then his tie, and then his shirt."

Francis lived in his glory a decade ago and the hoopla that propelled this lonely country boy into national prominence is still one of the wonders of our time. It began as a big, scary rumor and ended in a burst of the bubble in Madison Square Garden.

BEVO FRANCIS

Clarence (Bevo) Francis first began to get mention when he was called a basketball monster, a magician and the scourge who couldn't be halted.

He was 21, married and the father of a one-year-old son.

Reports said he was scoring 50 to 70 points a game, then came the momentous blast that he scored 116 points in a 40-minute game. When the season ended he had 1,954 points.

Disputes began. The NCAA refused to recognize his performances. Rio Grande didn't play anybody important. So Newt Oliver started a campaign to move Bevo into New York. The question in the big city simply was "Is he that great?"

Bevo was advertised as being 6-feet-9, but I recall the night he was "measured." He was standing with Joe Lapchick, former Celtic star who coaches St. John's, and Sweetwater Clifton and Connie Simmons, who played for the pro Knickerbockers. Bevo was a hair taller than Lapchick, who is 6-5. He was shorter than Simmons, who is 6-8. He was the same height as Clifton, who is 6-6.

Bevo, slow of foot, was awed by 13,832 who came to watch, yet got five points in the first two minutes.

Rio Grande led 60-50, going into the last quarter. Bevo had 29 points, much less than everybody expected. He still was better than most, but certainly no miracle man.

Then the real shocker occurred. Bevo was held to three foul shots in the final period and Adelphi zoomed ahead to an 83-76 victory.

Later Bevo and Newt tried to make it to the pros. Then Bevo became a sheriff back home, sought a comeback in pro ball two years ago at 29, and now has officially retired.

But Faherty still has his memories.

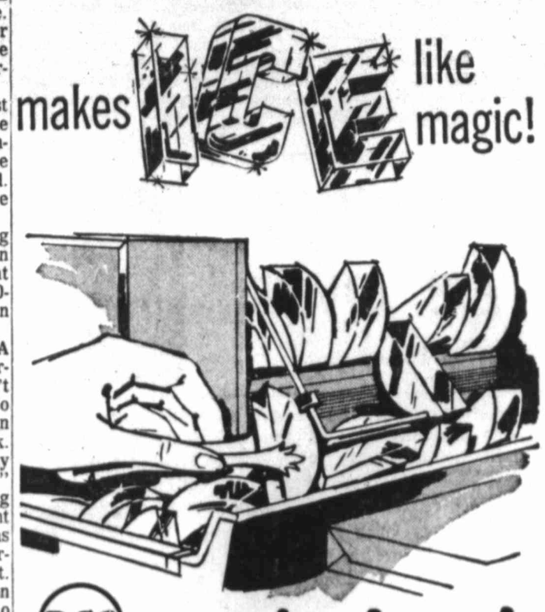

"It's funny we should talk about Bevo now," says Faherty. "Somebody mentions him once in a while and the whole thing comes back to me. I guess we messed up a lot of things for a lot of people when poor little Adelphi beat him that night."

ABILENE—Thomas Jefferson of Dallas outlasted the Abilene Eagles, 83-76, in a basketball game that was decided in an overtime period here Friday night.

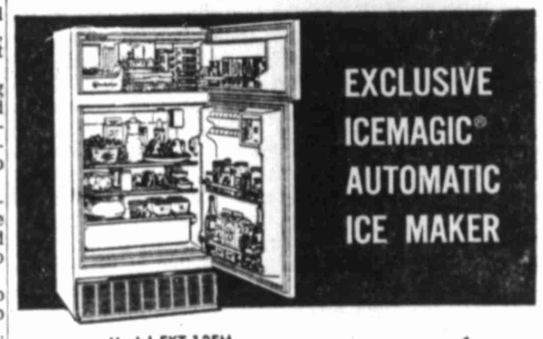

In another contest, Abilene Cooper edged Dallas Samuels, 61-60.

Harvest Slowed By Wet Weather

Instead of buzzing around the clock as everyone had hopefully expected them to be doing at this season, the cotton gins in this part of West Texas are idle these days.

Not even enough cotton is being ginned to make it worth while for the Texas Employment Commission to make a close check. The wet, cold weather, which has prevailed for 10 dreary days has played havoc with the hopes of cotton farmers to see the 1963 crop finished by Jan. 1.

In Dawson County, for example, where the gins processed 13,000 bales the week ending Dec 13, this week only 620 bales have been handled. In Howard County, Glasscock County and Martin County where there had been a good chance two weeks ago that the entire crop would have been out of the fields by Christmas Day, less than 500 bales have been ginned in the past six days. And these, the reports say, are bales which were already on the yards awaiting processing when the bad weather moved in.

At Sweetwater, the TEC said the same story prevailed. Fisher County for example, ginned only 19 bales this past week. Mitchell County, where the crop estimate has been cut back from 28,000 to 27,000, ginned only 77 bales. Scurry County ginnings were 70 bales for the week, and Nolan 40 bales.

The prolonged damp weather is damaging the crop still in the field. Farmers say spotting is certain to follow the long lack of dry weather and sunshine. Spots mean less money to the grower for his cotton.

Cotton ginned through Friday: Howard County 27,983; Glasscock County 10,659; Martin County 39,094; Dawson County 132,325; Scurry County 32,759; Mitchell County 25,097; Nolan County 16,850; Fisher County 39,750.

Weather Slows Classing, But Samples Still Ahead

Precipitation in the form of rain, sleet, and snow stopped cotton harvesting operations by mid - week. Many gins had enough cotton in the gin yards to continue operating until the latter part of the week. Classing activity, at the U.S.D.A.'s Cotton Classing Office in Abilene, picked up slightly as compared to the previous week.

According to B. B. Manly Jr., officer in charge of the classing office, a total of 18,998 samples were classed during the week ending Dec. 13. That brought the season's classing total to 337,736 samples as compared to 210,861 at the same time one year ago.

District 1, which is composed of Howard, Glasscock, Martin and Midland counties, accounted for about 5,200 of the samples classed last week.

Grades in District 1 continued to decline. Twenty-six per cent of the cotton was white, 66 per cent was light spotted, and eight per cent was spotted. The predominant grade was middling light spotted, with 32 per cent of the cotton being this grade. Thirty-one per cent of the cotton was called strict low middling light spotted.

Two per cent of the cotton was called 7-8, 39 per cent was 29-32, 45 per cent was 15-16, nine per cent was 31-32, two per cent was one-inch, one per cent was 1-1-32, one per cent was 1-1-16, and one per cent was 1-3-32.

Micronaire readings were as follows: One per cent was 2.6 and below, five per cent was 2.7 through 2.9, 22 per cent was 3.0 through 3.4, 32 per cent was 3.5 through 3.9, 25 per cent was 4.0 through 4.4, 13 per cent was 4.5 through 4.9, and two per cent was 5.0 through 5.4.

Motion Filed In Appeals Court

Fox Henry Miller, Big Spring youth whose driver's license was ordered revoked by County Judge Lee Porter earlier in December, has filed a motion for a writ of mandamus against the judge.

The motion was accepted for hearing by the Easland Court of Criminal Appeals and hearing has been set for Jan. 17.

Miller had appealed a conviction in corporation court on several moving traffic violations and the jury returned a verdict on which Judge Porter issued a judgment holding Miller to be a repeated offender and canceling his license.

Miller contends that the judgment was not in accord with the verdict of the jury and the mandamus is an effort to force Porter to issue a new judgment in accordance with the contentions of the appellant.

Choir Sings For ABClub

The Big Spring High School Choir sang several numbers for members of the American Business Club at the organization's Friday luncheon in the Settles Hotel.

Among the songs the Ambucs heard were "Shout and Be Joyful," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Joy To The World," "Oklahoma" and "Poor Man's Lazareth."

Mel Ivey, director of the group, commented on the fact that the singers were making their sixth public appearance of the week with the short concert.

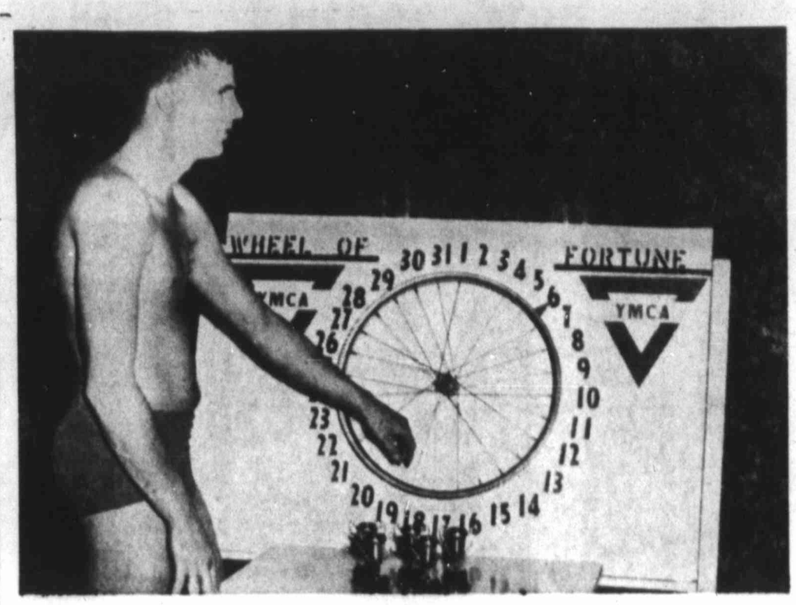

Ivey also had kind words for the progress the group had shown since it was organized and introduced to the listeners the students who had recently been awarded all-regional honors.

Richard Hughes, a member of the ABClub, reported on the Christmas party the club had sponsored for patients of the Big Spring State Hospital Thursday night, remarking that it was a resounding success.

Bob Hickson, president of the service club, revealed he had been informed that the local affiliate of the ABC National organization had led the country in obtaining new members during the months of October and November.

During that 60-day period, a total of 14 new members were added to the rolls here, compared to 13 for runnerup Peoria, Ill., and seven for third-place Ardmore, Okla.

Before the meeting was concluded, assignments were made to the various teams which will work the concessions booths during home games of the HCJC basketball team.

YMCA SWIMMERS' WHEEL OF FORTUNE
Lifeguard Chuck Chapman spins for luck

Special Swim Program Set For Holidays

Young swimmers will have an equal chance, with experienced ones, when they spin the "Wheel of Fortune" at the YMCA during a three-day period next week.

"The wheel has 31 numbers around the rim," Ernie Hobbs, swimming instructor, said Friday. "A swimmer spins the wheel and then tries whatever swim, dive, or stunt falls under the number on which the pointer stops. He doesn't know whether he will make a dive, swim under water across the length of the pool, or swim on his back. Each one of the activities will have a given number of points and the two highest - point swimmers will be given trophies."

Hobbs said the new stunt would be used to generate more interest in trying out as many activities as possible during the holiday week. It will start Monday.

Fresh Water Must Be Preserved

DALLAS — Industry responsibilities in protecting Texas fresh water supplies against pollution from oil operations were spelled out for petroleum engineers here Friday by James L. Sewell, president, Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

At a luncheon address to the Petroleum Engineers Club of Dallas Sewell said, "This industry must get on the ball like it never has before to protect our water supplies."

Sewell described the growth of regulatory efforts in recent months to deal with pollution problems in Texas and outlined efforts of the association to reassure official agencies and water organizations that the industry will meet its responsibilities.

He invited all petroleum engineers to offer constructive ideas to the association's Technical and Engineering subcommittee which is working on problems involving salt water disposal.

Sewell told the engineers the recent Attorney General's opinion which said the Railroad Commission had jurisdiction over drilling of disposal wells cleared the air, but salt water disposal projects would receive closer scrutiny than they have had before.

Alaska Oil Increasing

The discovery of Alaska's second major oilfield and recent completion of its first modern refinery emphasize the growing importance of petroleum in the young state's economy.

The newest discovery was made late this summer in the Cook Inlet, 60 miles southeast of Anchorage and 22 miles west of the first field on the Kenai Peninsula which, in 1957, made Alaska a significant oil producing state.

The Cook Inlet discovery is said to be the state's first well drilled and completed from a floating vessel. Tides of 30 feet and currents of six to eight knots made the drilling — conducted in 125 feet of water — extremely difficult.

After determining that a major field had been found, the operators suspended further drilling operations at the site until next spring.

About the same time the Cook Inlet discovery was announced, the $10 million refinery near Kenai went on stream with a capacity of 20,000 barrels a day.

Most of the components for the refinery were prefabricated in California and shipped to Alaska by barge. Some of the units weighed as much as 250 tons.

In all, the petroleum industry has invested more than $300 million looking for and producing oil and gas in Alaska since the 1957 discovery.

In 1962, the state had its greatest production: more than 10 million barrels, with a value of some $31 million.

Since becoming a state, Alaska's treasury has relied heavily on income from the sale of oil leases. During fiscal 1962, oil operators paid the state more than $20 million in lease bonuses. At the beginning of fiscal 1963 leases brought in another $15 million to the Alaskan treasury.

Treatment Plant On Way

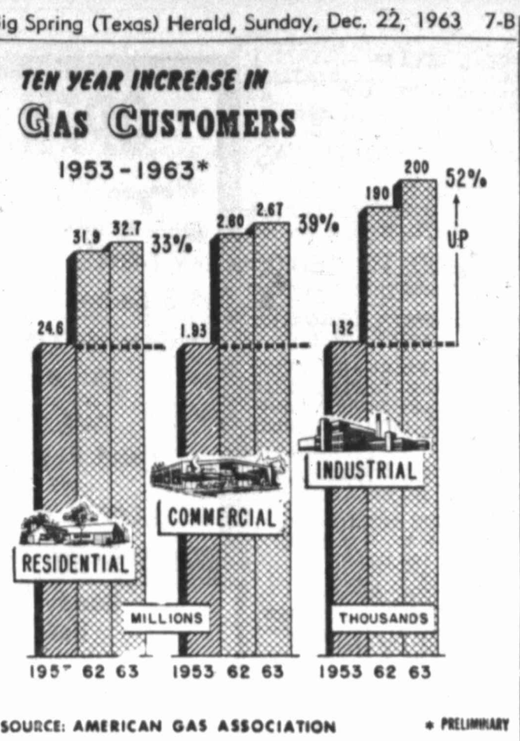

Phillips Petroleum Company is now entering the final stages of an extensive water pollution abatement program at its facilities in the Borger area.

Phillips, which operates one of the world's largest concentrations of diversified petroleum processing facilities near Borger, started the series of projects several years ago to prevent contamination of the nearby Canadian River.

The final stages of the current program consist of gathering of waste water from the various Phillips plants northeast of Borger into a water-treating plant. This plant will remove contaminants before the water is discharged. The company conducted pilot plant studies of such a system for many months prior to the start of construction.

Earlier projects completed included installation of air flotation oil separators, sulfide strippers, pits, skimmers and retention ponds, lining of salt water ponds, and numerous other smaller projects.

From the inception of this program, Phillips has worked in close communication with the Texas Water Pollution Control Board.

More Gas Customers

There were 35.6 million U. S. gas utility customers in 1963, compared with 26.7 million in 1953. The greatest percentage of gain was in the industrial area, where consumers jumped 52 per cent.

El Paso To Move Office

EL PASO (AP)—El Paso Natural Gas Products Co. will be moved to Odessa, its parent company announced Friday.

Paul Kayser, president of El Paso Natural Gas Co., said both headquarters and engineering departments will be included in the move of the wholly owned subsidiary products company.

Odessa is the home of W. D. Noel, recently named president of El Paso Natural Gas Products.

The move will begin next month. Kayser indicated it will take most of next year to complete.

Some products company officials will remain in El Paso, including C. L. Perkins, chairman of the board of the products company and vice president of the parent company.

Kayser said he is confident that in 1955 or 1956 the Federal Power Commission will approve an application to supply additional gas to California. He said he expected the additional sales would make it possible to reduce natural gas rates in the company's area.

Eventually, he said, there will be a public offering of stock in the subsidiary products company, but the present goal is to get the firm on a solid, profitable basis.

He said this was the purpose of recent discharges of some employes. Kayser declined to say how many employes would be transferred to Odessa.

Last year the products company moved into four of five floors leased in the new El Paso National Bank Bldg. under a long-term lease. Kayser said that when the products company moves out the parent company will occupy the space or sub-let it.

Conservation Has Tripled Recovery

NEW YORK — Revolutionary developments in petroleum conservation over the past three decades have turned production efficiency figures upside down.

Thirty years ago, about 75 per cent of the oil in an underground reservoir might have been wasted through inefficient production techniques.

Today, in the era of conservation, it is not unusual for an oilfield to yield up to 75 per cent of its potential, according to the current issue of Petroleum Today.

"Modern conservation techniques and attitudes have virtually eliminated gushers, and wild boomtowns are a thing of the past. Scientists working with state conservation commissions are helping to assure the nation of a continuing supply of essential fuel."

One key step in this progress, the article states, was the formation in 1935 of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, a fact-finding and technical agency composed of governors and other representatives of 30 oil and gas producing states.

Oil conservation regulations, as they have been evolved by state agencies, have two main objectives: (1) to prevent waste, both immediate and ultimate, in the production of petroleum and (2) to safeguard the rights of individuals under whose land an oil reservoir lies.

The key to efficient oil production is maintenance of pressure in the underground pools, to drive the oil toward the surface or to where it can be pumped to the surface. Pressure can be maintained either through careful control of natural underground pressures, or by injecting gas or fluid into reservoirs to create pressure.

Since the U.S. depends on oil and natural gas for 74 per cent of its energy needs, the success of petroleum conservation has been of great importance to the economic development of the nation, as well as to its military defense.

Already, it is estimated, the conservation effort has saved billions of barrels of oil and trillions of cubic feet of natural gas which might otherwise have been wasted.

Ashmun Tries Dual Prospect

Ashmun and Hillard Oil Co. of Midland and Pan American Petroleum Corp. will try for a dual Strawn and Devonian gas-distillate discovery at No. 1 Roy D. Jones, Midland County wildcat.

Located 1½ miles east of the northeast edge of Midland the prospect will test both indicated pay sections through perforations. It is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 32, block 38, T-1-S, T&P survey.

No. 1 Jones drilled to 11,868 feet in the Devonian, topped at 11,640 feet, on a minus datum of 8,834 feet. It found no signs of water in that formation.

The project logged 39 feet of good porosity in the Strawn between 10,448 and 10,500 feet. That section blew heavy mud which was heavily cut with gas and distillate. Strong pressures were recorded from the Strawn.

No. 1 Jones is ¾ mile northwest of E. P. Campbell and Leland Fikes No. 1 Elkin, a depleted Strawn discovery, which also indicated possible commercial production from the Devonian. The top of the Devonian is 54 feet low to that marker in No. 1 Elkin.

King Ranch Gas Goes To Markets

HOUSTON (AP)—More of the vast natural gas reserves of the King Ranch area of South Texas is being made available for market.

The new sales will go to Texas industrial customers instead of to gas distributors on the West Coast and in the East and Midwest.

A new intrastate pipeline project was disclosed last week by the Humble Oil & Refining Co. after two major interstate deals involving King Ranch gas fell through.

Humble holds South Texas gas reserves estimated at more than 25 trillion cubic feet. This is about twice the total amount of gas produced in the United States last year.

Objections by a Federal Power Commission examiner prompted the withdrawal in April of a plan to make 700 million cubic feet a day of South Texas gas available to the Columbia Gas System companies in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, New York and Maryland. Humble now is arranging to make south Louisiana gas available to Columbia.

Objections also caused abandonment of a proposal to make 380 million cubic feet a day of gas from the King Ranch area available for movement to Southern California. A modified proposal now calls for the gas supply to come from Humble's huge Katy Field west of Houston.

Humble plans to build a 290-mile line of 36 and 30-inch pipe from its King Ranch gas plant to Houston.

The project will make it possible for Humble eventually to pipe about two billion cubic feet of gas daily from South Texas to the Houston area's sprawling industrial complex.

The new line will have an initial capacity of 615 million cubic feet a day and an ultimate capacity of 1.2 billion. It will supplement and, for the most part, will parallel a 238-mile line of 30-inch pipe Humble's Gulf Coast industrial gas system began using four years ago.

Culberson County Gets Prospector

Wildcats have been staked in Culberson and Winkler counties.

Johnson Drilling Company of Pecos will drill No. 1 W. H. Cowden, to 4,000 feet with cable tools, five miles northeast of Kent in Culberson.

It is 660 feet from north and 700 feet from west lines of section 16, block 59, T-8, T&P survey and there is no nearby production from any formation.

McGrath and Smith of Midland plans No. 1-88 Sealy-Smith Estate as a 3,400-foot Queen searcher in Winkler County, 12½ miles southeast of Kermit.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 88, block A, G&MMB&A survey.

Fina Gets Aviation Gasoline Contract

The Defense Petroleum Supply Center, Washington, D. C., has announced that the American Petrofina Co. of Texas has been awarded a contract for $240,000 to provide 2,000,000 gallons of aviation gasoline for the Armed Forces.

The contract was awarded after competitive, formal advertising. Eighty-three companies were furnished invitations to bid. Twenty-eight responded.

The Defense Petroleum Supply Center is the oil industry's biggest customer. It procures more than $1 billion worth of fuel and chemical products annually for the world-wide requirements of the Armed Forces.

Luther, Southeast Field Picks Up Good Oil Well

Texas Pacific has completed No. 3 Hyden in the Luther, Southeast field of Howard County for 507 barrels of 45-gravity oil flowing on initial potential through 20-64-inch choke.

This Siluro-Devonian oiler also made four per cent water and had a gas-oil ratio of 757-1. Tubing pressure was 500 pounds and operator used a packer. The formation was acidized with 1,500 gallons.

Elevation is 2,709 feet, total depth is 9,960 feet, it was plugged back to 9,945 feet, 5½-inch casing is at 9,948 feet and perforations are between 9,920-26 feet.

This well spots 2,038 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of section 47-32, T&P survey, about 17 miles north of Big Spring.

Another area oiler, this one in the Westbrook field of Mitchell County, is Coastal States No. 2 L., E. A. Smartt, spotting 330 feet from the north and 1,650 feet from the east lines of section 16-28, T&P survey.

This oiler pumped 65 barrels of 24-gravity oil, with no gas and 24 per cent water, on initial potential after being acidized with 3,500 gallons through perforations between 2,819-3,112 feet.

Ground elevation is 2,130 feet, total depth is 3,119 feet and operator set 5½-inch casing at 3,119 feet.

Howard County also gained a new location seeking the Glorieta in the Iatan-East Howard field. It is Sawnie Robertson No. 27 Percy Jones, spotting 990 feet from the south and east lines of the north half of section 13-30-1s, T&P survey. Location is on a 320-acre lease about five miles southeast of Coahoma and contracted bottom is at 3,000 feet.

In Glasscock County, the latest Fool's Creek (Queen) project staked by Earl Wells Jr. has been amended in location. No. 7-A Reynolds is amended to 330 feet from the south and 1,175 feet from the east lines of section 47-32-4s, T&P survey.

Hugh Boren Jr., Snyder, has re-completed No. 1 Carl Gray 1½ miles southeast of the Earnest (6,500-foot sand) pool of Scurry County, eight miles southeast of Snyder.

It pumped 21 barrels of 42-gravity oil per day with a gas-oil ratio of 732-1 through perforations at 6,898-918 feet. No stimulant was reported.

It originally was completed in June, 1957 from perforations at 6,896-916 feet for 120 barrels of 39-gravity oil per day by W. M. and A. P. Fuller.

It is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 19, block 3, H&GN survey.

Socony Mobil Files Rough Draw Test

Socony Mobil Oil, Inc., No. 25 Jackson and Jackson is to be drilled as a southwest stepout to the Rough Draw, North (Noodle Creek) pool in Southeast Kent County.

Contracted to 4,300 feet, it is 12 miles northwest of Rotan and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 42, block V, T&P survey.

Greathouse, Pierce and Davis of Midland has completed as a one-half-mile west extension to Strawn lime gas-distillate production in the Camar multipay field, No. 1 Martin Estate, 25 miles east of Eldorado in Schleicher County.

It rated a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 15,500,000 cubic feet of gas daily through perforations at 4,403-07 feet. Gas-petroleum liquid ratio was 126,000-1 and gravity of the distillate was 60.6 degrees. No stimulation was reported.

The project was a re-entry of a former Strawn oil producer which was completed in July, 1960 for 242 barrels of 40-gravity oil daily from perforations at 4,418-21 feet.

It is 660 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 28, block 8, TW&NG survey.

Texaco Inc. has completed No. 1-AE Reeves Fee as a southeast extension to the Worsham, Southwest (Delaware sand) pool in Reeves County, 14 miles southeast of Pecos.

On the 24-hour potential, it pumped nine barrels of 38.2-gravity oil plus 80 barrels of water through perforations at 5,110-113 feet after treatment with 500 gallons of mud acid and 1,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

It is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 1, block 50, T-7, T&P survey.

John J. Eisner of Abilene has staked No. 1 Samedan-McGuire as a 12,800-foot Devonian wildcat in Gaines County, 20 miles southeast of Seminole.

It is 660 feet from north and east lines of labot 24, league 295, Reagan County School Land survey.

There were 225 rotary units in operation in the Permian Basin Empire on Friday, according to Reed Roller Bit Company's weekly tabulation.

This is an increase of one over the week before, but fewer by 10 than the 235 on the comparable survey for 1962.

Lea County, N.M., with an increase of two from 35 a week ago to 37 Friday, was in first place.

The local eight-county area dipped by two, falling to 22 at week's end. Dawson and Martin counties maintained the lead with five each, although both fell by a rig.

COSDEN
meet the 'SENIORS' of the Cosden family...

BENNIE F. McCHRISTIAN

Last March was a gratifying month for Bennie F. McChristian. That was when he moved his family into the attractive pink brick home which he built south of town on the Sterling City Route, overlooking Cosden Country Club and the City Park. The project required six months of steady work during his spare hours. It was not without precedent, however; he has built other houses.

His wife, the former Betty Myers, keeps busy at homemaking. They have three children, the youngest being 5-year-old Sandra. Wayne, 15 and a sophomore, helped his father build their house. Carolyn, 13, is an eighth grader at Goliad Junior High and a clarinetist in the school band. They worship at 14th and Main Church of Christ.

Although a native of Fort Worth, McChristian has lived in Glasscock and Howard counties for 22 years and graduated from Forsan High School. He was employed by Cosden on Oct. 14, 1948, as a yardman, becoming a pipefitter helper. More than a decade ago he went into chemical specialties — first in mercaptans, then at the polybutene unit which he helped bring on stream. Currently he is at the paraxylene facility as a stillman.

Fishing at Lake Colorado City and deer hunting are his favored sports. For an indefeinite period, however, McChristian is well occupied in his off-duty hours developing and grooming his three-quarter acre home site. Already it boasts a vegetable garden plus dozens of shrubs and fruit trees.

Oakland Needs Help From Denver Club

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The Oakland Raiders will be cast in the role of the doubtful child Sunday when they close the American Football League regular season against Houston.

They're hoping Santa Claus will bring a present—a Denver victory over San Diego. But they're not sure there's a Santa Claus.

Oakland trails San Diego's 10-3 record by one game and must win while the Chargers lost in order to force a playoff for the AFL's Western Division championship.

The division titlist will face the winner of a Boston-Buffalo Eastern Division playoff for the league championship.

The Raiders are trying to extend a seven-game winning streak while Houston wants to finish the season with a break-even 7-7 mark. Even that will be quite a comedown for the Oilers, who had won three consecutive Eastern Division titles.

Oakland won their season-opening meeting 24-13. Since then the Oilers have been plagued by injuries.

Oakland has minor injury problems with All-AFLers end Art Powell and linebacker Arch Matsos. But both are expected to play.

Clem Daniels, another of the Raiders' six All-AFL stars, is shooting for the league rushing title. He needs 40 yards to pass Cookie Gilchrist of Buffalo and 20 after that to hit 1,000 yards for the season.

Gilchrist closed his regular season last week at 979 yards.

Even a second-place finish will give the Raiders by far their best season in the AFL's four years. A 10th victory for this season would be one more than their three previous seasons' total.

A year ago, for example, the Raiders ended in a driving rainstorm before a crowd of 6,000 and won their only game of the season.

A full house of 20,000 is expected Sunday, with kickoff moved up an hour to 12:30 p.m. since the field has no football lights.

Youthful Keglers

Cup Captain Tries To Play Down Spat

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Explosive Dennis Ralston got mad at himself, Pancho Gonzalez got mad at Dennis and the Australians gleefully started predicting Saturday that short tempers may cost the favored Americans the Davis Cup here next weekend.

While some 300 spectators watched in stunned amazement Ralston and long-time tutor Gonzalez engaged in a heated word exchange during practice, Gonzalez quit in the middle of the match, striding angrily to the dressing room.

Ralston, his lips drawn tight, continued practice with Chuck McKinley, with whom he is teaming in the challenge round against the Australians starting Thursday.

It was the first marked flare-up by the young Yanks who are notorious for temperament and raised the question of whether the American Cup bid may be blunted by dissension.

Bob Kelleher, soft-spoken Los Angeles attorney who serves as Davis Cup captain, insisted the incident was minor and simply proof that tension was rising as the important Cup matches near.

"Denny and Pancho, who are the best of friends, have been fighting like cats and dogs for years," Kelleher said. "This means nothing. It is foolish to even suggest that our Davis Cup effort will be hurt by this matter."

Ralston himself cooled off later and said "Heck," I don't see anything to get excited about. It was a tough match and we just got edgy. This happens between us all the time."

Australian newspapers meanwhile gave heavy play to what they called the Yankee blowup and started speculation on the effect it might have on the Davis Cup bid.

Here's how the incident happened:

Ralston and Gonzalez squared off in the match and it was evident from the very beginning both were out for blood. Both played with grim seriousness and with sporadic blazing brilliance.

Gonzalez, demonstrating the overpowering form which once made him king of the professional world, won the fast, well played first set 6-4. Then Ralston dropped service on the first game of the second set. That's when the temper fuse blew.

The young American ace from Bakersfield, Calif., became surly and started upbraiding himself for errors. Gonzalez promptly dressed him down. Ralston barked back. Play continued at a heated pace.

Ralston, suddenly hitting fantastic form, reeled off the next four games, breaking Gonzalez service twice. That's when Gonzalez picked up his rackets and gear at the courtside, chided Ralston about his failure to keep his temper, and then walked to the American dressing room.

"Thanks a lot," Ralston said bitterly to his longtime friend.

Later, Gonzales elaborated on the incident.

"I went out to play my hardest, figuring as usual that if I could give Denny a stiff workout it may be easier for him in the Davis Cup," the former pro king said. "So it was an all-out match for both of us.

"But when Denny started losing, he began to whine and blow his stack. This is when I got sore at him. I can't understand these kids and I told him so. When they're winning everything is great, but when they start losing they can't take it.

"I told Denny that if he were to lose his temper in the Davis Cup matches, these people here would run him right out of Adelaide — him especially because of his reputation."

The red-haired Ralston was suspended for six months in 1961 for unsportsmanlike conduct. Lately however, he has been a model of good behavior in winning two Australian state championships and going to the finals in the third.

Gonzalez said he was particularly severe with Ralston because he wanted to impress on him the importance of keeping his temper in check in important Cup matches.

"If either Denny or Chuck happens to blow his stack next weekend then our Cup chances are blown," Pancho said. "But if they can keep a level head, we'll win in a rout."

Championship Drag Races Set Feb. 14-15-16

Fourth annual Winternationals Championship Drag Races will be held at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, Pomona, Calif., Feb. 14, 15 and 16, according to an announcement by Wally Parks, president of the sponsoring National Hot Rod Association.

It ranks as one of the most important and competitive events of its kind in the nation, second only to the annual NHRA National Championship Drag Races held at Indianapolis each Labor Day weekend, Parks said.

At last year's Winternationals, the races were viewed by a turnaway crowd of 63,000 persons who watched the vaunted dragsters, hot rods, sports cars and stock model cars participate.

A drag race is a test of acceleration from a standing start for one-quarter mile on a straight asphalt track. Cars are timed electronically for both elapsed time and top speed. Contestants are usually paired off according to class, engine size and weight. The loser is eliminated.

Entries are now being accepted at NHRA headquarters, 1171 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles.

Johnson Could Go To Game

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Saturday that President Johnson will go to the Cotton Bowl football game in Dallas, Tex., New Year's Day "if I can talk him into it."

Salinger told reporters he had not taken it up with Johnson, however.

It was in Dallas that Johnson became President when John F. Kennedy was assassinated there on Nov. 22.

The University of Texas and Navy meet in the Cotton Bowl.

Tourney Set For Today

A city-wide partnership handicap golf tournament will be held at the Big Spring Country Club today if the weather permits.

It had originally been scheduled for Dec. 15 but bad weather forced its delay until today. In the event that the course is unplayable, the tournament will be postponed indefinitely, according to Jerry Green, club pro.

Anyone seeking further information on the tourney should contact Harold Hall, chairman of the tournament, at AM 3-2376.

Giles Awarded Crosley Prize

CINCINNATI (AP) —National League President Warren C. Giles was named winner Saturday of this year's Powell Crosley Memorial Award for outstanding contribution to baseball in the Cincinnati area.

The award is presented by the Cincinnati chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America, and Giles will receive a trophy at a dinner meeting Jan. 25.

Lubbock Meet Opens Thurs.

LUBBOCK—Sixteen top area basketball teams will compete in the fifth annual Caprock Holiday Basketball Tournament at Lubbock Municipal Coliseum, Dec. 26, 27 and 28.

Proceeds from the tournament are used for the charitable and civic activities of the Caprock Chapter of the American Business Club.

Teams classified AAAA and AAA compete in one bracket, and AA, A and B teams form the other division. Trophies are awarded the winners in each division, the runners-up, the consolation winners, and individual trophies are given to the members of the All Tournament Team. The outstanding player of the tournament will receive an additional award.

Lubbock High and McAdoo are the defending champions in their respective divisions, and will be challenged this year by teams from Monterey, Midland, Seminole, Lamesa, Levelland, Snyder and Andrews in the AAAA-AAA divisions, Denver City, Petersburg, Shallowater, Slaton, Dimmitt, Floydada, and Plains in the AA, A and B divisions.

The tournament has traditionally given area fans some of the most exciting high school basketball of the year.

Connally Hopes To Attend Game

DALLAS (AP) — The first home of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame at the State Fair will be dedicated prior to the Cotton Bowl game Jan. 1.

Officials in Austin said that Gov. John Connally has expressed a desire to be in Dallas to speak at the dedication and to attend the Cotton Bowl game. Doctors have not yet indicated whether the wounded governor will be allowed to make the trip.

If Connally doesn't attend, the address likely will be made by Secretary of State Crawford Martin.

The Hall is located in the varied industries building at the northeast corner of the Cotton Bowl.

Included in the exhibit is a collection of various mementos from the careers of the present 37 members of the Hall.

The membership will be increased to 41 on Dec. 31 with the installation of Ray Morrison, Dr. Wilson Elkins, Earl Meadows and Jake Atz.

DON'T MEET '64

HEAD ON!

DON'T have a smashing New Year! And DO meet '64 safely . . . by driving through the holidays, a time of greater traffic hazards and highway congestion, with caution, care and courtesy.

As you take the wheel, don't take chances. Watch the other driver . . . and yourself. Most important of all, remember . . . when it comes to driving, alcohol and gasoline do clash . . . head on!

MRS. FRANK VANCE JONES

Vows Solemnized In First Baptist Church

The marriage of Miss Suzanne Compton and Lt. Frank Vance Jones was solemnized Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the First Baptist Church. The double ring service was read by the Rev. Robert F. Polk, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Compton, 1804 Laurie, and Lt. Jones' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Jones, Rockford, Ill.

A banked arrangement of white mums, gladioli and greenery was placed with a 15-branched candelabrum and lighted tapers to center the altar. Fern and matching greenery with seven-branched candelabra were the flanking arrangements. Pews were marked with white satin.

A program of nuptial music was provided by Jack Hendrix at the organ. He also accompanied Lester Morton when he sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt on a white satin prie dieu.

BRIDE'S GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a scalloped sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The fitted bodice was enhanced by a bouffant, floor-length skirt which swept into a chapel train. The fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls and iridescent crystals. She had traditional items which included the pennies in her shoes and a blue garter which was made by her grandmother, Mrs. M. Huffstutler. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of stephanotis and pearl leaves centered with a white orchid and showered with white satin picot.

Miss Dorinda Medford was maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Valerie Marie Jones, Rockford, was the bridesmaid. Both wore identical dresses of emerald green velveteen, fashioned with straight skirts. They had matching coif hats with circular veils and carried nosegays of large white mums tinted with emerald green.

Thomas J. Jones, Rockford, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride's brother, Robert M. Compton, Lt. Williams Green, Lt. Ted Schroeder, Lt. William Keenan, Lt. Stuart Fenske and Jimmy Mayes were the ushers.

Tapers were lighted by David Compton, the bride's brother, and Scott Medford, brother of the maid of honor.

RECEPTION

Guests were received by the honored couple, the parents and the bride's attendants in Fellowship Hall. They were registered by Miss Peggy Lewis.

The bride's table was centered with a five-branched candelabrum holding votive candles. Entwined with smilax and leather fern, the candelabrum was based in white carnations and mums. Appointments of silver enhanced the floor length embroidered silk organza cloth over white satin. Placed on a ruffled net base, the three-tiered bride's cake, all white, was crowned with weddings bells and swirls of white satin ribbon.

Members of the house party were Mrs. A. D. Harmon, Mrs. Wade Choate, Mrs. Edward L. White, Mrs. David Read, Miss Peggy Lewis, Mrs. Hilon Fields, Mrs. Leland Graves, Mrs. Alvah Minnick, Mrs. Billy Whittington, Mrs. Milton Barnett and Mrs. Jay Tayrien.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goettler, Phoenix, Ariz.; George Kalbfleish, Stratford, Ontario, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. Juane W. Bobo and children, Danny, Bonnie and Mark, Houston; Mrs. Ruth Beeson, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. M. Huffstutler, Lipan, grandparents of the bride; Carl White, Lipan; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beck, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Zumwalt, Shreveport, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Benyon Parker, San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Verlander, Burnet.

WEDDING TRIP

Departing on their wedding trip, Lt. and Mrs. Jones traveled to Colorado. They will be in Denver, Colorado Springs and at the Air Force Academy.

For travel the bride chose an emerald green, wool knit suit, white cloche hat, white lizard shoes, matching bag and a white wool coat with white fur collar. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Returning to Big Spring the couple will reside at Park Hill Terrace.

A graduate of Big Spring High School, the bride attended Howard County Junior College and is presently employed with the First National Bank. Lt. Jones is a graduate of West Rockford High School and the U. S. Air Force Academy with a bachelor of science degree and commission of second lieutenant. Presently he is a student pilot at Webb AFB in Class 65-B. He will graduate in September of next year.

Simplicity Stressed In An Artist's Christmas At Home

By KATHLEEN DOZIER

Marked by grace as well as skill, Japanese art is dramatic and distinct in its simplicity. The Japanese love sobriety and simplicity. Coloring is for the most part sober and plain, and genial ease is preferred to excessive grandeur; chastity to profundity, intensity and vulgarity.

These characteristics rarely are matched; yet in our midst an artist has come close—close enough, in fact, that few Occidentals would recognize flaws in his execution of Oriental techniques.

PRISMED TREE

GARDEN SCENE

Hearing of this man's remarkable talent, curiosity got the best of me, particularly so when word came of his magnificent Christmas tree.

DECORATOR'S DREAM

Roy Peep's compact dwelling, 104 W. 17th St., is a decorator's dream. Exquisite taste is exemplified in a coordinated theme, both indoors and out. Small walled gardens, one centered by the Goddess Quin, are brought into the living area by means of a large picture window. Superlatives are inadequate to express the simple elegance created within the three-room house.

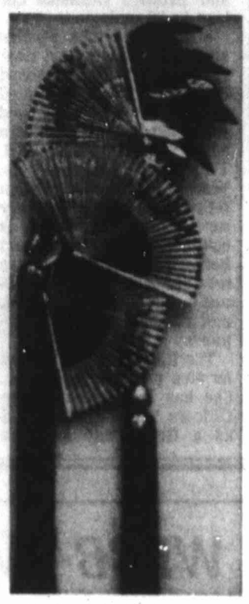

Gold and black, used with subtle colors, are dramatic; just-right objets d'art, of interest; and the owner's ideas expressed to draw breath-taking admiration. Although the space is small, it is perfectly utilized, and with closer examination the full value of the surrounding beauty is absorbed. Then you realize what is truly priceless—tranquility—the secret and key to Japanese culture.

Peep is not an interior decorator by profession; he is a florist's designer. However, while living in Hawaii for two years, he was exposed to the artistic influence of the Japanese. He had a course in Japanese art and worked with his instructor for practical experience. This acquired knowledge, with his own ability and ideas, has worked miracles in his own home.

CHRISTMAS ART

The Christmas tree? Well, it is probably the most unusual and perhaps the most exquisite tree ever to enter the Big Spring Christmastime-scene. It is ceiling high, mellow-gold in color, and it is constructed of Japanese parasols. Beginning with the giant - size, parasols pyramid to form the branches, becoming smaller until at the top, a very small one forms the peak. Not too many, but just enough brilliant stones adorn the golden tree. Suspended from the edge of each parasol, there are large shimmering prisms. What could be used at the base but a swag of gold fabric, a gold rope and a gold tassel?

Golden prisms on a barren branch stress continuity, even into the garden beyond the dividing glass window. Here on the garden wall lights repeat the prism motif.

DOOR DECOR

Majestically small and serene, the home expresses with spiritual humility "Peace on earth, good will toward man" in the esteemed manner of the Japanese as Roy Peep would have it.

Yule Party Given For McClurgs

A Wing party was held Friday evening at the home of Maj. and Mrs. Eugene Schuster, 80 Ent, with Maj. and Mrs. Richard McClurg the honored guests.

A lighted Christmas tree and the hors d'oeuvres table were focal points in the holiday decorations. The polished table featured an arrangement of poinsettias flanked by ivory candelabra holding red candles. Sixty-five guests were served including out-of-town friends from Midland.

Maj. and Mrs. McClurg will be leaving Jan. 31 when he retires. They plan a world trip before taking up residence in California.

Party And Shower Honors President

A Christmas party and shower was held for the Howard County Legal Secretaries Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. B. R. Stewart.

Members brought items for Christmas cheer baskets. Also they brought gifts for a surprise baby shower honoring the president, Mrs. Don Sawyer.

The refreshment table was trimmed in red and green. The centerpiece was formed of clustered candles around a Santa Claus. Members brought the party food.

Younger Family Is Reunited

All the W. B. Younger family will be here for Christmas. Mrs. Billie McClure arrived Saturday from Albuquerque, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Scott and their sons, Wesley and Bradley came from Bishop Friday night. Jerry Younger also came in Friday from Austin where he is attending the University of Texas.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Now that the tree is up and decorated, the packages nearly all wrapped and most of the cards sent out perhaps all of us can find time to sit down and have a visit with members of our family. Take time to visit the family . . .we always find time to visit our friends and find later that all the family is gone and we didn't spend nearly enough time finding out what their end of the clan has been doing.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Facing, Glue Renew Venetian Blind Tape

Dear Heloise:

When the tapes on your venetian blinds start ripping and falling apart, instead of having them re-taped, which is quite expensive, I buy hem facing at my dime store (this is ordinarily used when we let down a hem and must have a facing) and glue it to the old tape.

HELOISE

In our living room, I bought 1½ inch wide velvet ribbon in pale pink . . . which is the color of our living room decor. I glued this on and it worked even better and was far prettier.

In the bedrooms, I used grosgrain ribbon 1½ inches wide to match the color of the blinds.

All of this hem facing may be glued on or it could be hand sewn. I find it far better to tackle this job before the original blind tape tears in two or rots.

All so easy to keep clean too . . . just take a damp sponge and dust! — Pauline Putnan

• • •

Dear Heloise:

I have found that when making a meat sauce the meat browns more evenly and mixes easily with my green pepper and onions, which I am cooking in the skillet, if I use my potato masher to break up the meat. This is especially effective when one must get supper in a hurry and it is necessary to thaw the meat first.

Meat thawed to the stage where you can easily break it apart with your hands will thaw quickly and mix evenly if the potato masher is used with gentle but firm pressure. — Mrs. C.L.M.

• • •

Dear Heloise:

If you will keep post cards and a pencil or fountain pen next to the radio and TV . . . when a free offer is made, or a contest announced that you think you can win, you can jot down the address immediately on the card.

How many times have I thought of the perfect answer—later—only not to have the address.—Mrs. M. H. C.

Dear Heloise:

If you keep bar soap in your chest of drawers to get that clean smell on your husband's clothes and use your husband's sandpaper to sand the little knots off your sweaters, would you please tell us what you do for your husband? — Nosey

I love him! (It took two decades to train this one . . . I haven't got enough time left in my busy life to train another.) Besides, he's the sweetest there is . . . And he puts up with me! Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When making hot cocoa for the kiddies' breakfast, I put a spoon of sugar in with a spoon of powdered cocoa and stir it first before pouring in a dash of hot water. This makes a paste and prevents lumps when pouring into the milk.

And for those who tenderize round steak by pounding it . . . I put flour on top of the meat before pounding it and find that the flour absorbs the valuable juices that otherwise would be lost by tenderizing without it. Besides it makes the steak better.—Martha

Dear Heloise:

For your readers with little children who hate to take a bath and get tired of doing so, try adding a little food coloring to their bath water and see the renewed interest when you add "do you want a pink or a blue bath tonight?" — Mrs. A. N. Whitney

• • •

This is just about the cutest idea I have ever heard! I tried it on a niece and it works!

One word of caution. It takes only a few drops of food coloring so, ladies, do not pour a whole bottle in and dye your child. However would you get it off? Love, Heloise

TETE-a-TETE

by kathleen dozier

Today I've reached another milestone—a birthday. Wasn't it stupid of me to choose such a date? However, it isn't so bad now that the years have steadily added themselves so that the time has come to ignore the date if possible. Of course it isn't easy when children wish to remember you and friends send wonderful congratulatory messages along with their Christmas greetings and gifts . . .

Speaking of the posted Merry Christmas wishes, do you glance at them, note the sender, look at the pretty picture and then put them aside or on display? If so, give those cards another whirl. If you're too busy now, do so before you file them away. It's surprising what the second time around reveals. One of mine appears to be a Peruvian jungle with children and their lighted candle. This is a United Nations card, made in Denmark and contributed by Lena Stockli, a Swiss resident of Peru. Another card is an Oriental, blue and gold design with an under - water motif. From Japan, the loveliest landscape executed only as the Japanese can in subtle design and color. But, I suppose the most interesting, artistic study is that which I found in my mail box from my neighbor, Mary Lois Blackbird. The madonna and child was done by Jack Coolidge, Milton, Mass., as his expression of interest in service to mankind. It was marketed to extend non-sectarian world-wide activities on behalf of human needs and to further understanding, fellowship and peace. The card was published by the Unitarian Universalist Service, Boston . . .

Among this year's greeting cards are those from Air Force families, many of whom you know. Maj. Ross Simpson and his wife, Patt, stationed in Alaska, are expecting to be in Big Spring for Christmas so that he can have an introduction to his beautiful grandson and they can both visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Don and Judy Powell. . . . Remember Lt. Col. Beverly Pearson and wife, Hester? Well they have their Christmas newsletters out from Germany giving an account of their 1963 year . . . Greetings and a letter from Lt. Col. Jack Holt and wife, Billie, in the Alaskan zone stationed at Anchorage. Daughter Lynn's skiing and their bowling are chief interests now that winter weather and snow prohibits fishing, hunting and golf. Billie, by the way, won a nine-hole golf tournament in what she calls ". . . a short game and a short summer." They're looking forward to their return to the south country when he retires in '65 . . . Col. Don Pendergrast and wife, Sue, with their children are having Christmas in Japan and at the same time wishing they could be with their states-side friends . . . Millianne Younkin writes from Los Angeles that husband, Lt. Col. Leland Younkin, is home from Korea and will be going to Dyess AFB. Meanwhile the Younkin family is having a California Christmas . . . From Ankara, Turkey, where M. Sgt. H. N. Clemow and family are stationed, they write of a Turkish wedding ceremony performed for their daughter, Alice, and Wesley M. Jester, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jester, Baltimore, Md. Another ceremony is planned in February when the family returns to the states . . .

Maj. Veryl Hewitt and family, today attending the wedding of daughter, Veryla, to Lt. William H. Walker Jr., write of their Christmas at home in Thailand. It is a most happy occasion for the Hewitts and the newlyweds who are to make their home in Bangkok. . .

And at last, arriving almost too late to be included, a letter from Georgine (Mrs. Jim) Gehrig and family. You do recall Georgine as a very competent president of the Officers Wives Club. She says the Gehrigs are at Mather AFB, where Jim finished his B-52 flight training Dec 19 and is now at home for awhile . . .

Non - military former residents, Dixie and Ralph Quinn, San Antonio, tell of their recent East Coast travels. While Ralph was in Georgia, Dixie paid a long-delayed visit to her father and family in the East. They were gone a big part of November and are back home now for the holidays . . .

Since I didn't quite finish my Christmas card list before departing for an Ozark holiday, may I wish all my Big Spring friends the very best this Dec. 25.

Miss Hayes Married To Joe Lee Barber

STANTON (SC) — Given in marriage by her grandfather, R. S. Ray, Miss Cleta Hayes and Joe Lee Barger of Midland exchanged vows Friday evening at 6 o'clock in the First Baptist Church. The double ring service was read by the Rev. W. C. Wright, Lamesa, a former pastor of the church. Baskets of white gladioli, flanked by spiraled candelabra and cathedral tapers, marked the altar setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. F. Hayes and the late Mr. Hayes of Stanton. Barber is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barber, Midland.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Earnest Hock at the organ. She also accompanied Mrs. Glenn L. Brown who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride chose for her wedding a chapel-length dress fashioned of white satin and Alencon lace. The fitted bodice was styled with a scooped neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her flowers were white carnations.

Miss Glynda Davenport was maid of honor and Miss Margaret Barber, Midland, was bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of red cotton satin styled with belled-skirts and scooped necklines. Their flowers also were white carnations.

Walter Reaves, Midland, was best man, with the bridegroom's brother, Robert, serving as groomsman. Tapers were lighted by Jerald Dean and Nadine Barber, the bridegroom's brother and sister who are twins.

RECEPTION

The wedding reception was held in the church hall where guests were registered by Mrs. Earl Henson, sister of the bride.

The refreshment table carried out a red and white motif using a white lace cloth over red. The white wedding cake was three tiered.

Mrs. Norman Ray of Eunice, N.M., grandmother of the bride, was an out of town guest. Others attended from Lamesa and Midland.

HOME IN STANTON

Following their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the Barbers will reside at 505 Burleson St., Stanton. For travel the bride chose a blue wool jersey sheath and black accessories. She wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a junior at Stanton High School. Barber attended Midland High School and is now employed by International Terrazzo, Midland.

Begin With Baubles

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Arnhart and Larry, 14, aren't completely unpacked after moving here from Wills Point, but they trimmed a tree this week. It will be their first Christmas in West Texas. Arnhart is employed with Western Union Telegraph Co. and has purchased a home in the southwest area of the city.

Busy Student Attends Two Schools Daily

By JO BRIGHT

Larry Arnhart, son of newcomers Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Arnhart, 3619 Dixon, may be the only student in town who has his first morning class at the senior high school and spends the rest of the day at Goliad Junior High.

The unusual schedule was arranged so that Larry could continue studying Latin rather than lose credit for the course. He was taking the language course in Wills Point, the family's former home, but found it was not available to ninth graders here. Mrs. Arnhart remains in the vicinity of the high school while her son is in class so that she can drive him immediately to the other school.

MOVED OFTEN

Larry started out in life having unusual—but adequate—arrangements made for him, Mrs. Arnhart explained.

"When my husband and I were married, he was working as a lineman in the Lake Division of Western Union," she said. "Sometimes we moved every month, so we made our home in hotels. Larry actually slept in dresser drawers since they were convenient and safe, too. We couldn't carry much with us, so we improvised and used what was available."

Both the Arnharts call Ullin, Ill. their home town. She was born at Anna, a community where her parents farmed, and his birthplace is Makanda, Ill. They met while high school students and were married in Cairo in 1948.

The hectic traveling life continued for three years before they were able to settle down in DeSoto, Mo.; living there for 10 years before being transferred to Wills Point. Their dreams of putting down roots and retiring there were shattered when he was bumped by a senior employe. Two job openings came up and Arnhart bid for the one here, because it was closer and would cost less to move.

CAMPING

"Wills Point is one of the best places in the world to fish," said Arnhart, who has a 17-foot cruiser under the carport. Mrs. Arnhart corroborated the statement saying that they only had to drop lines in the water to catch the limit every time. They'll be trying their luck soon on the area lakes. All three like to camp and spend their vacations living in tents.

Mrs. Arnhart has worked as a secretary and said she may return to work next year when she does not have to spend her mornings chauffeuring. Until then, she's making a home out of their new house and will be ready with shovel and seed at the first sign of spring.

Snowmen Set Theme At Party

"Tom" and "Jerry", snowmen made of popcorn, set the pace for a tom and jerry party Friday. The Christmas event was held preceding the regular afternoon session of duplicate at the Big Spring Country Club.

About 75 duplicate players and their guests were served from a round table spread with red linen. The snowmen, based in evergreen, were placed in an off-center arrangement on the table. Stovepipe hats, plaid wool mufflers and red mittens were their attire.

They held small green brooms with red handles, and in their mouths were the traditional pipes. The snowmen's interiors were filled with cheese straws.

The Big Spring Duplicate director, Mrs. Elmo Wasson, was assisted in serving by Mrs. Adolph Swartz, Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow.

Agencies Join In Alcoholism Fight

By BUCK SITTON

Alcoholism ranks among the four major health threats, along with cancer, mental illness and heart disease, although it is a disease which can be treated.

The combat against alcoholism in Big Spring is led by the Council on Alcoholism, Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), Al-Anon and the Big Spring State Hospital. Individuals connected with these organizations work together in the fight against the disease.

FIRST STEP

There are facilities at the state hospital for treatment of about 50 alcoholics. The first step on the road to recovery is recognition of the problem. "When an alcoholic admits he can no longer handle his drinking, his treatment already has begun," said Dr. Charles Abney, director of the alcoholic ward.

The hospital works with AA and Al-Anon groups, where the patient sometimes finds the understanding and incentive to give up drinking. The best treatment is provided by recovered alcoholics, who convince the patient there is hope.

The recovery from alcoholism usually is accompanied by a gradual personality change. Recovered alcoholics sometimes experience a spiritual reawakening, Dr. Abney said.

Al-Anon is a group comprised of families of alcoholics, who meet regularly to discuss common problems. Its members remain anonymous as do the members of AA.

MEETINGS

Meetings are held in Big Spring each night of the week except Sunday for AA and Al-Anon groups. The schedule: Monday at 7 p.m., Veterans Administration Hospital; Tuesday and Saturday at 8 p.m., 615 Settles; Thursday at 8 p.m., 304 W. 11th; and Friday at 8 p.m., Big Spring State Hospital. An Al-Anon group also meets Wednesday nights.

The Big Spring Council on Alcoholism recently donated nine volumes to the Howard County Library, each concerning some phase of alcoholism.

Titles are: "Understanding and Counseling the Alcoholic" by Howard J. Clinebell, "Helping the Alcoholic and His Family" by Thomas J. Shipp, "Living With the Alcoholic" by Al-Anon Family Group Headquarters; "Alcoholics Anonymous Comes of Age" by AA World Service, Inc.; "Alcoholics Anonymous" by AA World Service, Inc.; "The Road Back" by Joseph Kessel, "The Wife of the Alcoholic" by Lewis F. Presnall, "Manual on Alcoholism" by American Medical Association, and "Alcohol and Christian Responsibility" by Clifford Earle.

OFFICERS

Mrs. A. O. Vanderford is president of the Big Spring Council on Alcoholism. Other officers are Mrs. T. O. Whatley, secretary, and Leo Hull, treasurer.

The council has a charter from the Texas Commission on Alcoholism and is supported by local contributions. It provides a 24-hour answering service just as AA groups do.

"If we can prevent one broken home, we will have accomplished our purpose," said Mrs. Vanderford.

The council distributes literature to students and to relatives of alcoholics. Mrs. Vanderford also has shown films at the YMCA, the high school, and churches.

Dr. Abney said a drunkard and an alcoholic are not the same. "An alcoholic drinks from compulsion whereas a drunkard drinks because he wants to," he explained.

An alcoholic is a person whose metabolic processes change so that his body cannot handle alcohol. The doctor compared a diabetic's allergy to sugar with the metabolic change in an alcoholic.

MISCONCEPTIONS

There are many misconceptions concerning alcoholism and alcoholics are not necessarily persons with personality defects. "They come from all walks of life," he said.

Industrial wage losses through alcoholism have been estimated at $432 million a year, while the total loss to business is gauged at $2 billion.

Central Storage Tank Makes Irrigation Efficient

The use of a central storage tank into which water from several wells may be pumped at low pressure makes sprinkler irrigation systems in West Texas work more efficiently. Area Irrigation Specialist Dave Sherrill, with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District, said the storage tank method is called the "collecting irrigation system," and that it is gaining acceptance in this district.

"A central water storage is installed into which two or more irrigation wells are pumped. When designed correctly," he said, "the collecting system is simple to install and operates efficiently with few adjustments.

USED OIL TANKS

"The water storage equipthe form of used oil storage tanks of 500- to 2,000-barrel capacity, or can be constructed of re-enforced concrete. It should be located at a convenient spot to the wells and the land to be irrigated. Water is delivered from the wells to the storage," he continued, "using low pressure pipe with an open discharge into the tank. A centrifugal pump takes water from the tank and delivers it to a high pressure pipeline. The storage must be large enough to allow the opeator to start all wells pumping, and then water is used by the sprinkler system at the same rate as produced to prevent overflowing."

Melvin Graves, Stanton farmer, was among the first to use this system, Sherrill said.

"He has four wells, each producing about 100 to 150 gallons per minute and pumping into a central storage located at the edge of the field he is irrigating. He uses a 10-horse-power booster pump to his main irrigation line. A by-pass on the booster balances the amount of water going to the main line with the total amount received from the wells," Sherrill said.

GIVE UP

"I was about ready to give up on irrigating with my small wells before I installed this collection system," Graves said. "I am sure at least one well was producing nothing when I had all wells pumping into a high pressure pipeline."

Farmers, who have installed systems similar to Graves', say low operating cost, ability to irrigate with a constant amount of water, and the ease of adding other wells to the system, are the main advantages. It is adaptable to most operations where an attempt is being made to sprinkle-irrigate with more than two wells. Sherrill says one system has been installed with 11 wells pumping into a central storage.

Some Terry County farmers, with small wells, pump water from several wells into one central well. From this collecting well, sufficient size pump and engine are installed to distribute all water into a sprinkler system.

"If several wells are tied together, pumping into the main sprinkler line, careful check should be made to see that pressures are equalized and each well is pumping its required amount of water," the irrigation specialist said. "A central storage tank or collecting well will simplify the problem.

COST-SHARE

"Cost-share can be had on underground low pressure collection and high pressure main lines under the Great Plains Conservation Program administered by the Soil Conservation Service in the Plains area," he continued. "Cost-share is limited to $2,500 per operational unit, and it must be a reorganization of an existing system that has been in operation two out of the last five years."

Water Declines

AUSTIN (AP)—Water storage in a selected group of Texas reservoirs during November was 61 per cent of potential capacity says the Texas Water Commission. The commission said this week water conservation storage dropped 26,100 acre-feet from October.

Legend Of Bells

From the familiar Christmas tradition stories by William Auld comes the legend of the Christmas bells. When Christ was born and Satan died, the bells of the church were rung. At exactly midnight, the tolling changed to a joyful peal, announcing the birth of the Savior.

A Devotional For The Day

She brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. (Luke 2:7.)

PRAYER: O Lord, deliver us from self-satisfaction which results when we compare our successes with the failures of others. Help us to examine our lives for areas in which we have not yet permitted Thy will to control. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

A Christmas Spirit

The spirit of giving is universally extolled at the Christmastide, and properly so. In the birth of Christ, we have what Paul described as God's "unspeakable gift." John said that "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son . . ." Over and over, the Scriptures impress us with the example of giving. This is the basis of our outgoing spirit in giving to others.

This, however, is one of the products of God's gift. We need occasionally to look at the purpose, and again Paul tells us that this was a means of reconciling man to God, that through Christ man could find a means of restoring fellowship with the Father.

If, in the scheme of things, God thought it necessary to make such a sacrifice to effect reconciliation, then ought not this to indicate to us that this same spirit should at least plead for reconciliation among men. Next to restoring fellowship with God, could there be any more appropriate way of observing the Christmas season than to reconciling ourselves with our fellow man?

Almost all of us have in one way or another, let friendships slip over the years. Once close associations have been turned into cool or bitter separations, or cordial connections have turned to suspicions, respect has degenerated into dislike if not enmity. Sometimes our hurt may be real and our sense of wounded pride justified; most often our disagreements and aversions stem from trivial things which are forgotten in the wake of the consuming passion to hate or feel hurt. But whether real or imagined, none of these reasons are sufficient for throwing up and maintaining barriers. How can we emulate the spirit of God's reconciliation if we are not reconciled with our brothers? We are told that one of the most certain fruits of God in our hearts is that we love the brethren.

Thus, let us not confine our love at this sacred season merely to those whom we already love and who love us. Let us search our souls and see if we cannot find it in our hearts to seek reconciliation, to at least pray for those whom we might imagine despitefully use us, or those who differ with us. In so doing, we would be heeding the words of Him whose birth we commemorate.

GOING SOME PLACE, MISTER?

Around The Rim

The Girl Was Never Alone

This girl, this maiden of utter faith, was alone in a stall in a cave, when the history of the world changed nearly 2,000 years ago?

The secular historians might have you believe so. Considered in the light of human experience, she was alone, and suffered her travail in lowly circumstances.

You have pictured the night!

THERE HAD been a bone-weary travel of some five days, the girl heavy with child easing herself as best she could on the back of a little burro as it stepped mincingly up and down the rocky road, now by the stream, now on the hillside, always a rough journey. The animal led by a sturdy young man who, despite mysteries whirling in his mind, and despite the family crisis, was obedient enough to answer the emperor's decree to report for a census.

IT WAS to the native heath that people had to return, and it was all the way from Nazereth to the City of David—his linage—that the journey had to be made.

And the arrival in Bethlehem! Crowds and confusion, excitement and some restiveness, questions and babbling, struggles for food and lodging, a push to get on with the required registration.

A LONG JOURNEY was climaxed late, for it had been a tortuous one. No room in the inn, and yet a place of refuge in the nearby stable. And night had come on.

And the time had come, and the girl wished to be alone. A tender mate was there, who did what a fumbling fearful young husband and father - to - be could do. Nervous, of course, and anxious, in a strange place where not even a mid-wife could immediately be located. But he did what he could.

AND PERHAPS a few sheep were across the way, or beasts of burden, munching their food and in their own instinctive way quiet for the night.

At this moment of history, when the story of mankind is coming completely into new book, when eternity itself is on a single thread, the girl might be said to be alone.

BUT OUTSIDE, in the chill, the canopy of stars is lit up by one great brilliance that hovers overhead.

And a Babe is born, and soon thereafter many, many persons knew that the Miracle had come.

The Mother herself knew the Miracle had occurred.

For she was never really alone. The Glory of the Lord had been here all the time, enshrouding her, protecting her, bringing forth a Messiah, who would always be with her, and with all the peoples of history who hallow His name.

Driving For Your Life

One wonders if pleas for careful driving fall on receptive ears. It is easy to get the feeling that tragedy on the highways is about as bad as it can be, and then it suddenly seems to get worse.

All we can do is to urge you—you personally—to be twice as careful as you have been if you must be on the highways during the holiday season. No matter how necessary it seems that you get to your destination quickly, it can't be important enough to take those chances which could take a life. Even though your patience may be taxed by traffic snarls or slow and unthoughtful drivers up ahead, fight back that impulse to cross over the yellow stripe or pass going up a hill. Remember, you are driving for your life and those you love.

Protecting The President

There isn't a man, woman or child with an ounce of pride who wants his peers to write him off as a coward. Pride is probably the biggest facet of heroism, and accounts for a mountain of medals.

Certainly, the President of the United States doesn't want his countrymen to think of him as a coward. So only in the most inclement weather, and often not even then, is he willing to ride in a bullet-proof limousine with a bubbletop.

SINCE THE assassination of President Kennedy the most frequent question is: "Why wasn't the bubbletop in use?" But no President is ever going to use the bubbletop, especially on a sunny day such as that in Dallas on Nov. 22, unless it is mandatory.

And it won't be mandatory until Congress passes a law making it obligatory for the Chief Executive to ride in public only in a car with such protection.

BUT THE NATION has just passed through a tragedy that might have been prevented if the bubbletop had been used in Dallas. Beyond that, the restriction of his personal freedoms to come and go as he chooses is one of the conditions or penalties the President accepts with his high office.

Granted also that there is no protection against the sly madman or the neurotic who takes on the protective coloration of the crowd, nonetheless the open car offers an invitation and presents an easy target.

FROM THE POLICE protection offered President Lyndon B. Johnson on his two recent trips to New York, one to attend the funeral of former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and the second earlier this week to address the United Nations, I gather that those charged with the President's safety regard everyone as a potential assassin.

I have never seen such a concentration of police and security forces both inside and outside the U.N. buildings.

When President Kennedy last spoke at the United Nations on Sept. 19 the security was properly rigid. But it was nothing like the steely security that surrounded President Johnson.

THE APPEARANCE of the President of the United States at the U.N. is always an immensely dignified occasion. The last appearance there of President Kennedy was in this tradition.

But on Tuesday a somber President gave a somber speech to a somber U.N. Assembly. The same Assembly that had listened so intently to President Kennedy in September now studied his successor even more intently. Instead of the boyish man with the unruly mop of hair and his Irish-Back Bay accent, the Assembly now saw an older man with dark hair groomed into sleek perfection above his well-barbered, triangular face.

WHERE PRESIDENT KENNEDY always seemed slightly wind-blown, President Johnson looked as if he had just stepped from a band box. And the accent now was not cold-roast Massachusetts but Texas sirloin.

When the President had concluded his brief speech I walked out behind a mixed group of delegates. One seemed to sum up the general sentiment when he said, "Two very different men; same United States."

Billy Graham

What is conscience? Isn't it really social custom? I have heard you say that God speaks through the conscience, but isn't it really the voice of social convention which speaks out against bad manners, and bad actions? W. H.

I have seen thousands of people for conscience' sake defy social custom, and go against public opinion. In our Crusades I have seen people break away from their friends, away from their tradition, and away from their habits, to come forward to receive Christ. Their conscience told them it was right thing to do, and they did it regardless of the social pressures exerted against them.

Right is right if no one is doing it, and wrong is wrong if everyone is doing it. I would hate to think that we were mechanical automatons—acting in accordance with psychological law, rather than the dictates of our conscience.

I would hate to think that society dictated our every action. The Bible says: "Be not conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your minds, that you may prove what is that perfect and acceptable will of God."

God give us men who will listen to the inner voice regardless of public opinion.

Anti-Spanish Armada

LEXINGTON, Ky (AP) — James Wilkinson, who came here in 1784, was credited with inventing a way to get tobacco to the world from this then-improving tobacco growing area.

He helped form a river armada that broke Spain's hold on the mouth of the Mississippi, allowing boats loaded with tobacco to sail anywhere in the world.

Franks Was Killed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A battle between Indians and pioneers in 1780 gave this city its name.

Stephen Franks was killed by the Indians as he and other settlers crossed the Kentucky River here.

His friends named the river crossing Franks' Ford—and 12 years later it was selected as the state capital site.

New Monetary Riddle: Euro-Dollars

At the Investment Bankers Association convention in Hollywood, Fla., I tried an experiment. At cocktail parties, at the swimming pool, and in chance conversations, I asked this question:

"What is the Euro-dollar?"

And when I got a blank look, I'd add, "I mean, can you define it, can you say what it is or what it does?"

This was not doen in the spirit of irony, but as a research project. The term creeps into conversations of bankers, brokers, economists, business men and financial commentators with glib abandon. It stamps the user as a knowledgeable gent, an expert. But how many persons who say Euro-dollar can define it—even at a convention of money-men?

The question brought consternation. An instrument which has become part of the financial machinery of the world is a mystery to most persons. And it has been misnamed.

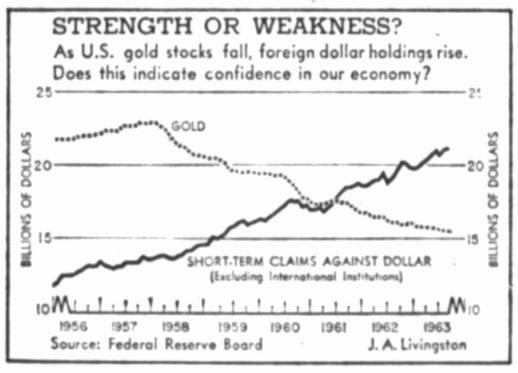

IT'S A "FORO-DOLLAR"

It really should be called "foro-dollar," not Euro-dollar. Why? Because it's a deposit in some foreign bank denominated in dollars. It could be in a Japanese bank, a German bank, or a Canadian bank. It does not have to be a European bank.

And the deposit could be to the credit of an American, a German, a Briton, a Japanese, or an Indian, or a Canadian. Again, not necessarily a European.

Indeed, Canadian banks are loaded with U. S. dollar deposits. And Canadians own U. S. dollar deposits both in Canada and in Europe. Yet Canadians would resent being considered Europeans. Incidentally, you can understand a foro-dollar by knowing why, in the U. S., we don't have foro-franks or foro-pounds.

If you as an American brought back some French francs or British pounds to the U. S. and wanted to deposit them here, you would have to convert them first into dollars. You'd get a dollar deposit, not a deposit in francs or pounds. In most of the world, however, banks will take deposits of their own nationals or foreigners in foreign currencies.

A foro-dollar is created when a foreign bank sets up an account in dollars for a customer. There are also foro-pound accounts abroad, but the dollar account is far more important.

Oscar Altman, economist at the International Monetary Fund, estimates that foro-dollars amount to more than $4,000,000,000 and less than $5,000,000,000.

STRENGTH TESTED

What is the rationale, the function of the foro-dollar? Why would a West German businessman, for instance, want to have a deposit in dollars in the Deutsche Bank, rather than in marks? Or why would he keep a foro-dollar deposit in Barclay's Bank in London, instead of in pounds?

This is why. The dollar which you and I use to buy groceries and automobiles will also buy cotton, wheat, steel, machinery, and other products which enter international trade. The dollar is the dominant medium of exchange in world trade. Thus, virtually all central banks keep dollars on deposit in the U. S. as trading reserves.

And the dollar has been strong enough to weather the assassination of a President. It has survived the proposed exchange equalization tax, which, in effect, is a tariff against the sale of foreign stocks and bonds in this market.

And it continues to be accepted even though our gold stock has fallen to $15,600,000,000 while our balance-of-payments deficit has created claims against the dollar of more than $21,000,000,000 (see chart).

IT STARTS HERE

Bear this in mind. Foro-dollars originate in the U. S. An individual American or an American firm, or a foreign firm earns dollars somehow, and transfers a dollar deposit in an American bank to a European bank.

Suppose a German firm sells cameras in the U. S. and receives payment in a dollar draft on an American bank. The camera manufacturer then deposits the draft in a German bank either as a dollar deposit or in exchange for a mark deposit.

If the manufacturer keeps the deposit in the German bank in dollars, foro-dollars have been created. But if he takes the deposit in marks, then foro-dollars have not been created. Not yet.

In either case, the German bank has a deposit, in dollars, with the American bank. If the German bank lends those dollars, as dollars, then foro-dollars are created. But if the German bank demands marks from the U. S. bank as a swap for its dollars, then no foro-dollar deposit arises. And its dollar deposit is wiped out.

Foro-dollar deposits can be multiplex. One dollar of deposits in the U. S. might be used by the lending process to back three or four foro-dollar deposits in the rest of the world.

Emphysema Can Be A Deadly Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Your column answered one question for me: Will smoking cause emphysema? I agree; it is one of many causes.

However, could a wife or other person have emphysema (or edema, or something that sounds like that in the bronchial tubes) from being in constant association with cigaret smokers? A friend's husband recently died of emphysema. —MRS. A. J. W.

Emphysema can occur in people who have never smoked, but it is dangerously aggravated by smoking, and there is little if any question but that smoking can be one of the causes.

As you know, and the public in general is beginning to realize, emphysema can be deadly. In fact, it is coming to be one of the major causes of death from lung disease. I'm not one to try to scare people, but I do think everybody should have fair warning.

As to being harmed by association with cigaret smokers, I would say there isn't much chance of that. Smoke drawn into the lungs from a cigaret is perhaps a thousand or more times the density of whatever concentration may be breathed by someone else in the room. The nose and throat surfaces will trap many of the invisible particles. They can't trap much of the smoke when it is being inhaled directly from the cigaret.

Your mention of "edema, or something" is a bit cryptic. It is true that a patient with emphysema may have edema, too, but edema doesn't indicate emphysema.

Emphysema means that the tiny, sometimes almost microscopic air sacs in the lungs, where the transfer of oxygen to the blood takes place, have broken down, leaving less "breathing surface" and also limiting one's ability to breathe in and out at full volume.

Edema, on the other hand, means an abnormal accumulation of fluid in tissues.

Either is harmful, but they are totally different.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it dangerous to eat raw hamburger? Will it increase the bust?—M.T.

It will NOT increase the bust, except that taking on some extra weight has an effect. In any event I would not eat raw hamburger. No doubt you can get away with it unharmed most times, but raw beef can harbor tapeworm eggs. Cooking destroys them.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: What medication is best for nasal polyps? —N.C.A.

These polyps (which are growths which emerge from a mucous membrane) are found more often in people with some sort of allergic problem—hay fever, asthma, "allergic rhinitis."

The result, as the polyps develop, can be obstruction of the airways, causing discharge in the back of the throat, nasal twang to the voice, possibly nosebleeds.

Nose drops may shrink the membranes, but eventually the polyps must be removed. It is a fairly simple procedure and I suggest having it done sooner rather than later. Remember, however, that polyps can recur.

Educational Aid Will Face Tests

WASHINGTON—The facts of life are beginning to catch up with Congress amid pressures for legislation in controversial fields. As usual, questions of constitutionality are being brushed aside as the senators and representatives pass the buck to the Supreme Court.

Thus, Congress has passed and President Johnson has just signed into law a bill that provides more than a billion dollars for federal aid to education, and a good deal of it goes directly to aid church-related educational institutions.

GRANTS AND LOANS have been authorized over a three-year period to 2,100 public and private institutions, of which 842 are supported or directly controlled as to their educational programs by various churches. The funds must be used to build classrooms or laboratories or libraries for the purpose of teaching mathematics, science, engineering or modern foreign languages. No money can be used to build chapels or sports arenas.

Now, the institutions receiving the funds are at the college or university level. No aid is being furnished to elementary schools. This procedure follows the line laid down by the Kennedy administration which opposed subsidies to private schools at the elementary level. It was argued that "across the board" subsidies to all educational institutions were unconstitutional.

THIS ATTEMPT to draw a line between the elementary and the higher schools of learning has admittedly been vulnerable. It has been argued, for instance, that, if it is constitutional to furnish any money to a church-related college, it is just as permissible to do so at any level of schooling.

Critics of the latest legislation insist that no government money at all can be furnished to any church-related institution. But it so happens that for several years now Congress has been helping to pay expenses for construction of certain facilities at the college level, and there has been no test of constitutionality.

THE NEW LAW unquestionably opens the door to more federal aid to church-related colleges and schools of all kinds, provided some arrangement can be made to separate the teaching of religion from the teaching of non-religious subjects. The facts of life, however, are plain to see. Members of the Catholic faith are contributing about $1.5 billion annually to support parochial schools and are being taxed as well to pay for the cost of public schools. Recently a movement has arisen in Congress to permit tax deductions for tuition paid by parents or relatives for children in private schools.

CONGRESS HAS furnished tuition money to veterans of World War II and the Korean War, and the funds have been paid to colleges of all kinds, private or public, whether or not they teach religion or are controlled by churches.

Inevitably, the controversy over federal aid to church-supported schools will get into the coming campaign. Many Catholics were not happy over the legalistic argument made by the Kennedy administration about furnishing funds to church-supported schools at the college level, while denying them to elementary schools operated by churches.

IT HAS BEEN SAID in political circles that a Catholic in the presidency couldn't sponsor such a comprehensive approach, but that a Protestant President may sooner or later find that the Catholic vote or resentment against unequal treatment will cause Congress to go further than it has thus far and place funds also at the disposal of church-related elementary schools.

It would cost the federal government and the states several billion dollars if the Catholic citizenry suddenly decided to send all their children to public schools. So it becomes a practical problem in finance, and that's the way Congress has been looking at it, as the new law proclaimed last week moves in the direction of more and more federal and state aid to all kinds of educational institutions.

Let The Succession Line Alone

WASHINGTON — Much nonsense is written, and hysteria invited, about the presidential succession, and about Speaker John McCormack, the next-in-line.

Some of the commentary is phony-baloney hand-wringing because the tall, silver - crowned, keen-minded Speaker happened to be born 72 years ago tomorrow. Much more of it is compounded of the familiar distrust of Early American fundamentalism, notably the Constitution, and of a notion that there is some merit in disturbing the existing order.

NOT MR. SPEAKER'S age, but his old-fashioned attitudes and ideas, and the fact that the House of Representatives has a bias toward internal rather than international matters, seems to be at the bottom of the rage for change.

We have all lived in an era which has proved the wisdom of elder statesmen—Churchill, Adenauer, De Gaulle, Ben-Gurion, and Chiang Kai-shek abroad; Herbert Hoover, Dwight Eisenhower, Bernard Baruch, Douglas MacArthur and many others at home.

BUT MR. McCORMACK is so courtly an Irish-American gentleman that he refers to the President by the old-country title of "Himself." He does not seem to have the "world" image of statesmanship because his chief political concern in the House has been with domestic affairs. Yet, since the House handles the purse strings on all government activities, it would be foolish to suppose that its Speaker, a member for 35 years, would not have the broadest possible base for knowledge, as Mr. McCormack definitely has.

SHOULD MR. McCORMACK move to the presidency and die there, the House would already have selected another Speaker in line for the White House under the Act of Succession of 1947.

The law in effect at President Roosevelt's death, and revised under President Truman, made the Secretary of State the third officer in line for the presidency. But this arrangement did not imply in older days, as it would now, that being conversant with foreign affairs made a man the logical heir to the White House. The Secretary of State, before we entangled ourselves in the snarls of international responsibilities, was not solely a foreign minister; he was titular head of the presidential household — he was the nation's prime minister.

SEVERAL OF the early Secretaries later became President: Jefferson, J. Q. Adams, Madison, Monroe, Van Buren and Buchanan — not because they were pre-eminent in internationalism but because they were national leaders. Many others were big enough party men to become presidential candidates — Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Blaine and Hughes—for the same reason.

Today a Speaker is much closer to the country's heart of government than the Secretary of State can possibly be—and we'd better not finagle with this logical and democratic line of succession.

'Wheeler' Spoofs Wall Street Image

What is a Wheeler Dealer? He's a man who knows you don't go wheeling and dealing for money—you do it for fun. Money is just the way to keep score.

And fun is what you'll get in "The Wheeler Dealers," Metro Goldwyn-Mayer's spoof of a wheeler - dealing Texan who takes over Wall Street and a career girl who takes over the Texan.

It opens Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

LEE REMICK

Lee Remick in her first comedy, following on her Academy nomination portrayal in "Days of Wine and Roses," plays Molly Thatcher, the girl who is interested in figures. James Garner is Henry Tyroon, who is interested in hers. Co-starred are Phil Harris, Chill Wills, Jim Backus, Louis Nye, John Astin, Elliott Reid and Patricia Crowley as Eloise, Molly's roommate who has her own smiling way of getting a raise.

The fun begins when Henry hits three dry wells in Texas and goes to New York to raise some funds—like a million, two hundred thousand. New York has never seen anybody like this wheeler dealer. When he gets impatient with waiting for a taxi he buys one, amd makes money on the deal. When he is patronized at an ultra exclusive restaurant he becomes its owner. He even makes a deal with Louis Nye at an abstract art exhibit with the result that he converts Nye into his head wrangler to corner the European Expressionist field.

The Warner Bros. motion picture, "Palm Springs Weekend," covers the annual Easter trek of thousands of American youngsters to the fabled California resort for a few days of fun and games and whatever other excitement is handy. It opens Saturday night at the Ritz Theatre.

Enacting the story of romance and youthful adventures is a roster headed by Troy Donahue, Connie Stevens, Ty Hardin, Stefanie Powers and Robert Conrad. Also featured in the Technicolor film are Jerry Van Dyke, Andrew Duggan, Zeme North and the new comedy team of Jack Weston and Carole Cook.

HERO TYPE

"Palm Springs Weekend" is the fifth Warner Bros. picture for Donahue. He plays the All-American captain of a college basketball team who tries not to allow the innumerable attractions of the desert retreat to divert him from his pre-medical studies.

Connie Stevens, Troy's co-star in "Parrish" and "Susan Slade," joins him again in "Palm Springs Weekend."

Ty Hardin, the former Texas football star who has made his mark in Hollywood, appears in "Palm Springs Weekend" as a happy-go-lucky Hollywood stunt man from Texas.

Another of the young stars of "Palm Springs Weekend" is pretty Stefanie Powers, as the daughter of the Palm Springs chief of police. Stefanie lands her most important role in "Palm Springs Weekend," following appearances in "Experiment in Terror" and "The Interns."

Robert Conrad, who first gained fame as a private investigator in the TV series, "Hawaiian Eye," makes his motion picture debut as a rich man's pampered son.

PRESERVED IN COLD
... in tomb of a young girl

Inca Statue On Display

By MILES A. SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — The leading lady of the current exhibition at the Museum of Primitive Art is nameless, but probably of royal or noble descent.

She wears two woolen mantles, held by a large pin, and a headdress of vivid red feathers.

She is a silver figure just seven inches high, the main attraction in "Art of Empire: The Inca of Peru," which will be on display until Feb. 2.

Many other silver and gold figures created by the Inca have survived the more than 400 years since the great Andean empire was toppled by the plunderers from Spain, led by Pizzaro.

But their mantles and headdresses have disappeared or disintegrated.

This aristocratic lady's finery was preserved in perfect freshness by the perpetual cold, at an altitude of 20,000 feet. She was found, 10 years ago, in the tomb of a young girl at Cerro el Plomo, not far from Santiago, Chile. The National Museum of Natural History in Santiago lent the figure to this exhibit.

The image's adornments indicate she must have been an important person. Presumably the young girl also was from an important family, to have had such a figure in her tomb.

KEY TO PAST

From a scholarly viewpoint, this little silver object is a key to the past.

"It is, perhaps, when compared with the many gold and silver figures, one of the most tangible examples of the difference between what was and what remains," said Miss Julie Jones, research assistant, writing in the exhibit's checklist.

"If in the mind's eye all the similar figures were clothed as it is, muffled high under the chin in vari - colored mantles held together with a large silver pin, and on their heads were put headdresses of neon - bright feathers, would it then be possible to begin to comprehend the nature of what has been lost?" she asked.

This is the first comprehensive exhibit of Incan art in the Western Hemisphere. South American countries have strict laws about taking art objects over the borders, even temporarily. So the one figure from Chile is the only one from South America in the current show.

But the other 149 items have been gathered from many sources—a dozen United States museums, others in Paris, Munich, Berlin, Madrid and Copenhagen and nearly a score of U.S. collectors.

EXHIBIT

The exhibit includes many containers of silver, gold and clay, some of a ceremonial nature. There are ceremonial objects that are striking representations of the llama. They have a clean, sharp grace that we often associate with "modern" design.

There are ornaments, bracelets, beakers, effigy vessels and a number of utilitarian instruments — such as maces and knives — that have been decorated with carving.

Textiles, too, for the south coast of Peru has a climate which permitted these perishable items to survive. A number of shirts are in the show—long strips of cloth with an opening at mid-point for the head.

The show also contains a selection of tomb posts, described by Miss Smith as "large carved and painted posts of wood, used in burial as symbols of rank, which are thought to be elaborations of agricultural implements."

The posts, painted with resin paint in bright colors, and often trimmed with gold and silver, reached heights well over six feet.

In the figurines, the carvings and stone sculptures, there is a stylization affecting the representations of the body or face. For example, the faces are marked by large noses and hard, double lines around the eyes. Sometimes the stylization is so harsh it approaches caricature.

Christmas Stamps Are Favorites

By HAROLD C. PERDUE

The United States has discovered the popularity of Christmas Stamps issued by other nations and is now issuing its own.

The 1963 Christmas stamp from the U.S. has been released since early November and is currently seen on most Christmas mail. The design shows the White House Christmas tree from 1962 being lighted.

The 1962 U. S. Christmas stamp was a wreath of holly with a candle in it. Both designs have created a furor among many who wish the Christmas stamps to bear a religious message of the birth of Christ. But reason calms all when they realize the difficulty of pleasing all the various religious groups of America.

Many suggestions have been made, however, to follow the practice of some European nations in reproducing great works of religious art, but even this has not met with much favor.

The U.S. Post Office was surprised at the response to the new Christmas stamp last year. A normal supply of them were printed, but sales were so brisk that normal printing was delayed many weeks while extra stocks of the 1962 issue were prepared. This year, the department announced early that it would not be caught short-handed. A normal run of stamps is 180 million; the 1963 Christmas stamp was produced in an issue of about one billion, or five times normal amounts.

CANADA

Canada has announced that it will begin releasing a Christmas stamp in 1964. Now most of the nations of the Western Hemisphere issues such stamps. Cuba, in its pre-Castro days had a Christmas issue. However, it was seldom religious, featuring such symbols of Christmas as a stuffed turkey.

Many of the countries of Europe have issued Christmas stamps for years. Spain has some of the most beautiful and most sought after. Included in them are reproductions of the greatest works of art depicting the Christmas story.

Australia is another of the nations of the world well known for its Christmas stamps. This year's offering features a bright star over the earth and is inscribed with the words "Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men." Past years included other symbolic representations of Christmas, as well as famous art reproductions.

New Zealand has joined Australia in issuing outstanding Christmas designs.

One of the fastest areas of topical collecting is that of religion on stamps. The American Topical Association has recently published a booklet on "Putting Christmas in your Album." The Collectors of Religion on Stamps have also done much to make this phase of the hobby known. One interesting sidelight is that there are many stamps issued not specifically for Christmas, which can be used to illustrate the Christmas story.

'Cleopatra' Rides Again In Carnival

Evidence of the grandeur of this year's Southwestern Sun Carnival parade in El Paso will be a $26,506 gold bullion costume from actress Elizabeth Taylor's "Cleopatra" wardrobe. It will be worn by Mrs. Wesa McHalek, Standard Oil Co. of Texas employe, on the company's float, one of 31 major entries in the annual New Year's Day parade.

Standard arranged with Adrian Awan, exploitation manager for 20th Century-Fox, to have the gown returned from Japan for the Sun Carnival. The "Cleopatra" wardrobe required two years of research and designing and was produced at a cost of more than one-half million dollars.

County Death Toll Mounts

Traffic accidents on rural roads in the first 11 months of 1963 have cost Howard County citizens $118,228, taken the lives of four persons and brought painful injuries to 63 others, a report released by the Texas Department of Public Safety reveals.

The rural accident score sheet for November shows there were 26 county accidents investigated by the State Highway Patrol. Four persons were suifficiently hurt to require hospitalization. The cost in property damage was $15,861.

The DPS in a statement released with the statistics for the month and the year urged all drivers to make new resolves to drive with particular care the remainder of December and avoid adding to the bloodstained record of traffic tragedies during the Christmas season.

The number of deaths the DPS says, is two ahead of the total for the same period in 1962 in the 24 counties in the district served by the Midland office.

Total deaths scored through November stood at 93 this year, as compared with 91 a year ago.

More rural accidents are occurring this year than last and the property damage total is nearly $300,000 greater than it was for the end of November, 1962. Total this year is $1,865,585.

There have been 1,707 accidents so far in 1963 and 1,034 persons have been injured in these mishaps.

Other counties in the Big Spring area and their accident report for the rural roads:

Andrews, two deaths, 58 injuries, 68 accidents, $59,790 damages; Borden, no deaths, 18 persons injured, 17 accidents, $9,905 damages; Dawson, five deaths, 38 injuries, 63 accidents, $40,158 damages; Glasscock, one death, 10 injuries, 16 accidents, $21,040 damages; Martin, two deaths, 26 injuries, 42 accidents, $103,270 damages; Midland, six deaths, 78 injuries, 152 accidents, $112,920 damages; Ector, four deaths, 142 injuries, 247 accidents, $190,756 damages.

Capt. Seebo In Select Group

Capt. Thomas C. Seebo, Detachment 32 commander of Central Air Rescue Center at Webb AFB, joined a select group recently. He has flown more than 3,000 hours in helicopters—all accident-free.

Capt. Seebo has a total of 3,575 air hours in rotary wing aircraft and fixed wing aircraft. His activities in helicopter flying also show he has logged more than 8,900 landings. This figure represents 6,600 landings more than the highest total reached by any of the Webb AFB jet pilots.

In his eight years of helicopter flying, Capt. Seebo has participated in rescues of more than 100 persons. He has, on three different occasions, been in a unit that has been awarded the Air Force Outstanding Unit Citation.

His more than 3,000 hours were flown in H-13, H-21, and HH-43 helicopters. He has more than 875 flying hours in the detachment's HH-43B Huskies.

In Asia First

St. Nicholas Day was first celebrated in Asia Minor in the 4th Century. The white-haired bishop appeared on Dec. 6, his saint's day, riding a white horse laden with gifts for children.

New Committee

All personnel of the Big Spring Police Department will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 24 to elect a new Police Fund Committee. Chairman of the present committee is A. P. Hurley, detective. Other members are Mrs. Jean Brown, secretary; patrolmen John Wolf, Sherrill Farmer, James Baker and Capt. Stanley Bogard.

Patients Need Hides Of Deer

Patients at the Big Spring State Hospital need all the buckskin they can get, Jack Y. Smith, head of Texas State Hospital Volunteers, said this week.

"A lot of men will get new rifles for Christmas. Many of them will try their luck at deer hunting, for a head of antlers," he said. "The patients need those hides.

"Just throw a handful of salt on the hide, roll it up, and send it to Austin Taxidermist Studio, 2708 South Lamar, Austin, and we will do the rest," he continued. "If the shipping tag is marked 'charity' many motor freight lines will haul the hides without charge. Most locker plant operators will also send the hides in when requested by the hunter."

Ancient Practice

The practice of kissing under the mistletoe is believed to have its origin in ancient times when enemies met under the mistletoe and dropped their weapons and embraced.
