FLOYDADA, FLOYD COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1942

NUMBER 15

Work Will Start Soon On North 207 in County

After all Highway 207 in Floyd county is to be completed this summer through the county to the Briscoe county line.

Orders came through the past week approving the construction of the last six miles of the hard-surfaced highway from a mile north of South Plains to the county boundary. Previously the prospect for the road had appeared dubious, following restrictions of the War board on release of materials for roads not considered necessary for the prosecution of the war. It was explained this week, however, that since little or no critical material is involved in this piece of construction, it had been given the green signal. Resident Engineer R. T. Roane said he did not know exactly when the contractor would get on the job here but it is not many days away. Plains Construction company of Pampa has the contract, which will be done on contract basis and will not involve WPA labor.

WPA Job Slowed Down
An insufficient number of WPA laborers to carry on efficiently on the six-mile stretch of road through South Plains from 12 miles north of Floydada was indicated this week. Laborers on this work, sponsored by the State Highway department, were reduced considerably when the grasshopper poison bait demand grew so big as to call for more mixers. Considering the labor available, however, the highway department is getting much work done on the road. Strenuous effort to complete the job by July 1 will be made. Hope now that approval can be obtained for a contract letting in Briscoe county on Route 207 from Floyd county line to Silverton was expressed this week by local officials, since the same type of materials as approved for construction in this county are needed. The distance from the county line to Silverton is approximately nine miles.

"It may be one day or several weeks," Britton said when asked when they would be ordered to report.

Fire At Lockney Takes Big Toll Of Lumber

Fire at Lockney Tuesday afternoon that destroyed the vacant lumber yard, covering a fourth of a block on North Main street, took a huge toll of good lumber material.

The property, formerly used as a lumber yard by the J. C. Woodridge Lumber company, was destroyed almost completely in spite of efforts of the fire department. The blaze was under big headway before discovered.

The nearly 48,000 feet of lumber represented in the sheds, office building, warehouse, et cetera, belonged to P. J. Woodridge of Amarillo. The money loss was around $2,000.

The reorganization provided for the elimination of three out of ten regional offices and the discontinuance of 79 area offices in the nation. Field offices cooperating with the Soil Conservation districts probably will not be affected, Edgar R. Kemp, local conservationist of the service, said.

"Net results of the reorganization will be to promote more efficient use of land resources in the Food for Freedom program," stated Mr. Kemp.

Senator Formby Now Private In U. S. Army

PLAINVIEW, May 15.—It's now Private Marshall Formby of the U. S. Army. In this district he's still Senator Formby, however.

Private Formby was inducted May 11 at Lubbock and went from there to Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He did not know Saturday (15th) where he would be stationed.

Private Formby, 31, single, did not apply for a commission, but waived the exemption allowed legislators and took the $21-a-month job.

Private Formby enlisted at Dickens where he registered in the draft. He is a graduate of Texas Technological college and has engaged in newspaper work at Aspermont, Lubbock, Miami, Fla., and at Plainview, coming here a year ago from Dickens county.

The senator-soldier said before leaving here that he had made arrangements for his constituents to contact his Austin office by communicating with Miss Fay Davis who will attend to duties concerning this senatorial district. Miss Davis who is employed in the lieutenant governor's office will be kept informed of Formby's address.

Private Formby's term in the legislature will not expire until January of 1945.

"As to my term with Uncle Sam," Formby said, "it will terminate when we have walloped a bunch of gangsters who are trying to strangle the world to death on a lot of 'new orders' we Americans can't stomach."

LOCKNEY YOUTH RECEIVING MEDICAL TREATMENT FOR FRACTURED LEG

Donald Pemberton, a member of the 1942 graduating class of Lockney High school, is receiving medical treatment in a Plainview hospital for a badly fractured leg suffered recently while in football scrimmage. Pemberton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Pemberton of Lockney.

Floyd county farm and ranch families are setting up a unit of a human chain of communications in the state of Texas, joining hands with other Texas counties.

By means of this chain of communications, when completed, every farm family in the state can be reached within a few hours should an emergency make it necessary.

The set-up in this county is a part of a state plan and will be tied up with a national organization. The Texas system will operate under direction of the Texas Extension service.

Several meetings have been held recently by farm people perfecting the organization. Sponsored here by the Land Use Planning committee the last meeting was called the Agricultural Victory council.

Community leaders and neighborhood leaders have been chosen for most of this county. These are developing means and methods of communication where telephone lines are not available. Besides routine information which may be passed along from time to time under this plan, it is intended that the human communications system will:

Transmit and receive messages of an emergency nature;

Do their part in war activities such as collecting scrap iron and junk, assist in air raid warning systems;

Assist in relieving farm labor shortages;

Help in passing along information on the "how and why" of adjustments required by war-time situations;

Check up on insect infestations and rodent damage, and handle other problems as they may arise.

At a recent meeting in Floydada practically every community group was represented when County Agent Jason O. Gordon presided and the county organization set in motion in its preliminary stage.

1,000 Lb. Limit Put On Hopper Poison Bait

Because the supply of poison for grasshopper bait making is limited and the demand for the mixture at the local station greater than its capacity, a limit of 1,000 pounds has been set for the amount of poison any producer can obtain at one time.

This graphically tells the story of the fight against grasshoppers in the county. As the pests grow they consume more alfalfa and wheat, and are now attacking young cotton as it comes up. In the southwest portion of the county appears to be the worst infestation but the demand is equally as imperative from all other sections.

Agreement of the Quanan, Acme & Pacific and the Santa Fe Railway companies to poison along their right-of-way has been received and also from the State Highway department, and the Fort Worth & Denver also is expected to join in the program. It was indicated as probable the county would also join in the poisoning program on the nearly 1,500 miles of right-of-way in the county.

W. H. Nelson, W. E. Miller, G. D. Allen and Orba Miller are members of a sub-committee of the Land Use Planning committee who are heading the fight for grasshopper control in the county.

Where hoppers are infesting alfalfa fields many growers are cutting their first crop, and poisoning behind the baler. Many communities are using mechanical spreaders.

Oden began distribution of the "licenses" soon after Pearl Harbor.

William Arnold Helms Believed Held Prisoner By Japs; Was At Manila Last Navy Record

Belief that William Arnold Helms son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer D. Helms, is held as a prisoner of war by the Japanese following the surrender at Manila, was expressed in a telegram last week-end to the parents by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the Bureau of Navigation at Washington, D. C.

Named 20 young Helms has been in the navy for two years and in the Philippines a little over a year. The family had had no word of their son since last November. The wire from the navy department at Washington said:

"The navy department exceedingly regrets to advise you that according to the records of this department your son, William Arnold Helms, mate third class United States navy, was performing his duty in the service of his country in the Manila Bay area when that station capitulated.

"He will be carried on the records of the navy department as missing pending further information. No report of his death or injury has been received and he may be a prisoner of war. It will probably be several months before

Training Plane Accident Fatal To Floyd Boy

Naval Flying Cadet Sidney Douglas Harper, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Harper of Baker, was killed Saturday morning at Naval Reserve Aviation Training base near Grand Prairie, Texas, in a fall from a training plane on a routine flight.

Second Floyd county victim of an air accident in 10 days, funeral rites for the young man were held at Covington, Texas, and interment was made there in the Harper family plot Monday afternoon, May 18 at 5 o'clock. A military escort accompanied the body from Grand Prairie.

Attending the funeral from here were the cadet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Harper, Joyce Ann and Miss Jennie Lou Harper, brother and sisters of the deceased. Also attending were Paul Ben Scoggins, Sunray son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scoggins, Mrs. J. M. Scoggins, Claude, aunt of the deceased, and Harper H. Scoggins, Monahan, cousin.

Cadet Harper had been a student at Texas Technological college before he became a cadet flier. The accident happened near the training field, Ensign L. C. Merchant, Amarillo, the instructor, who was flying with the cadet, landed the plane.

An Associated Press dispatch quoted officers at the naval air base as saying the student flier fell from the plane at such a low altitude that his parachute was rendered ineffective. "Apparently," said officers, "Cadet Harper had not buckled the safety belt or the belt had become loosened during the maneuver."

Cadet Harper was known locally as "Bud." He had been in training about two months.

Mrs. Belcher, for the past two years employed at the local Hosiery & Clinic, did her nurse's training at Shannon Memorial hospital at San Angelo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Henry of Roaring Springs.

MAIL ORDERS COMING IN NOW FOR ODEN'S JAP HUNTING LICENSE

Lake, Oden supposes, is one of the numerous traveling men who stopped in Floydada to get a "Jap Hunting license," although he does not recall Lake personally.

Ceiling Orders Make Dealer Headaches

In retail establishments throughout the length and breadth of the land this week price ceilings and how to meet the requirements of OPA orders in connection with commodities offered for sale to the public have been problems consuming much of the time of the dealers and their sales clerks.

Days after they are supposed to have posted prices many Floyd county merchants are still not sure they are complying with the law, and some even are not sure what portions of their stocks are affected.

That the price ceiling order will be genuinely helpful to retailers and the public however, in the long run is the expressed belief of most of the local retailers, who hope the ceiling will head off run-away prices and speculative ventures in the necessities of life.

Protects Consumer, Retailer

"One way the order will help in protection of the retailer against the necessity of buying more than his current needs to take care of his customers in an orderly manner," said T. P. Collins, one local retailer who pointed out that competition under the ceiling would take care of the consumer. "The order, if it is not found to evade it, takes fear of run-away markets out of the dealers' minds and makes it possible to operate within available capital. This will be reassuring news to the consumer, who also will know that corners on commodities they need are not going to spiral prices upward."

This week the ceiling order has been a headache to all dealers, not as to prices but as to methods of listing and posting prices for the public. Confusion in high circles of OPA naturally has resulted in confusion among dealers. Merchants, who spent much of last week listing and invoicing, this week found the interpretation of the law they had been given did not meet requirements. Some of these, somewhat nervously, have begun over again while others indicate they will wait for the last order and comply with it.

The saving which consumers can see will not be a material one over prices which they have been paying. Retail price advances, especially in dry goods and hardware, are generally 60 to 90 days behind the wholesale market, and in numerous local stocks less than half a hundred items are marked higher than they were in March. OPA estimates the net price reduction, throughout the range of necessities, will probably be about 1 1/2 per cent. Dealers say that what was just ready to happen to the public when the order went into effect is the thing for which consumers can be thankful.

When the pioneers of Floyd county foregather for the annual reunion here on Thursday of next week, May 28, to observe the 52nd anniversary of their county, patriotic fervor will be much in evidence, it was indicated in the pre-reunion committee meeting Saturday afternoon.

Invitations going out this week indicate the pioneers believe that their annual gathering will contribute to rather than take from the war effort. "In times of war old friends need to get together more than ever, so we urge you to come and be with us," is urged in invitations being sent to some 200 out-of-county residents, who formerly resided in this county. Practically every pioneer family expected to be present at the re-union has one or more members representing them in the armed forces of the nation. To keep track of these boys, to know how their families are doing back home, and to learn of the scores of families whom the fortunes of war have scattered to the far ends of the continent, will be among the major thoughts in the minds of those who attend, it is believed.

Defense Guard Invited

All of the four companies of the 41st battalion, Texas Defense guard have been invited to be in the parade that will precede the formal sessions of the pioneers. Also the Defense Guard unit at Plainview will return a visit of the Floydada unit recently, if the plans of the old settlers are carried out. Food for the noon-day luncheon of the Defense units will be provided out of the contribution for the old settlers, it was indicated. The Defense guard, according to advance plans, will set up their own field kitchen and mess on grounds adjacent to the re-union. The invitation was extended to the Defense units through Capt. T. P. Collins of Company B, who said he hoped to have a good representation guard members present, probably between 100 and 150.

G. L. Snodgrass and Geo. L. Fawcett, of the finance committee, reported their work of providing funds for the association's gathering had been completed.

Probably that 200 or more of the real old-timers will be guests at the annual old settlers' dinner was indicated at the meeting Saturday afternoon. Mrs. W. H. Smith reported the home demonstration clubs have the menu already arranged. Eligibles for the free dinner must be 50 years of age and residents of the county at least 40 years ago. An eligible man brings his wife, an eligible woman her husband.

Ben B. Gulley will be general manager of the parade, it was announced, heading the committee on (See OLD SETTLERS back page)

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

This is the season of the year when farm nerves and tempers are strained almost to the breaking point. Cotton has to be gotten into the ground, but the nights and some days are so cold on the warmth-loving seed, some days are so windy the precious moisture dries out as the seed are sopped into the earth. A cog or a chain breaks and time is lost going to the shop. Will your cotton come up? Questions first on every farmer's lips? Has your moisture dried out? Have you planted too deep? Too shallow? Will it rain in time to replant? Will the grasshoppers hop on every stalk as it emerges from its prison? No question about the heavy cost of planting. No thought of the price in the spring. It is time to plant, and the farmer will and must.

The farm wife tries to do her part. Extra cows are milked, meals, good meals are hurried on time. She rushes to feed the chickens, hoes like fighting fire in the garden, having her own problems of getting up her crop of vegetables. Rushing madly here and there, sleeping hardly enough, feet aching and arms sore. But soon the heaviest rush of planting will be over, giving away to cultivating. From morn till night the farmer combats the weather, looking anxiously at the sky from the rosy sunrise till the purpling night, wondering what it will do, guessing how to proceed, often wrong sometimes right.

Well, folks, if I get on with this column, I must leave the farmer to do the best he can with the planting and the weather.

I came in from church yesterday expecting to rush up a little snack for my husband's and my dinner. What a surprise? Pleasant and sweet awaited me. Loved guests in my home, a feast spread on my best initialed tablecloth, my mother, my sister Lois and her good husband Henry, and dear Old Uncle Isom Tubbs, Henry's father and my husband's uncle, waited for my return. What a day, a red letter day, to be put away in memory with other

Dawn

The silent woodland life awakes. As on the hills the sunbeams break in colorful splendor that makes All hearts rejoice. A quick burst of melody shakes The wild bird's voice. Jessica Morehead Young.

This is a word picture of Nellie Witt Spikes written with all sincerity with the heart.

This Is You

Giving praise if it be due, With such a kindly grace. Helping friend and stranger, too, Upon life's earthly race.

The little things that you say Help us to smile again. And brighten mornings gray. As on our way we wend.

Like a ray of friendly light Upon the dew soaked earth. Defending the just and right For everything you're worth.

As you travel onward through life, May God watch over you; Guard you from trouble and strife, My neighbor, kind and true. Mary Dean Waters.

If I Were You

If I were you I'd read a book, And play a violin, I'd milk a cow and feed a pig And learn to weave and spin.

If I were you I'd mend and knit, And fly a plane and sew, I'd do the things you want me to, So all the world would know.

If I were you I'd row a boat, And learn to cook a pie, I'd learn to dance and sing a song, Before my time to die.

If I were you I wouldn't cry, Altho my heart were breaking; I'd smile through tears, calm all my fears, Though the very earth were quaking.

If I were you I'd sail away Upon a sea of blue, Nor languish here nor sigh for long If I were you.

If I were you I'd change indeed, For all the world to see, But did you ever think, my dear, That you might then be me?

And I might never change at all, Nor learn the things you do, For you might be the one that's me And I might then be you. Gertrude Friend Scoggins.

days of the past, a whole string of jeweled days, to shine and blaze among the somber dreary days.

Ninety years has Uncle Iz gladdened the land in which he has lived. Upright and honorable, one of the charter members of the Lubbock Methodist church. His memory is as clear as the spring on the hill where he lay and drank as a boy his heart as true as the stars that twinkled over him as he lay sleeping in his trundle bed. "Yes, Nellie," he laughed and said, "We came out west in ninety-one. Four of us folks chartered a whole train to bring us from Kaufman county to the city of Colorado, where we booked up our teams and drove our herds to the grass covered land of the Llano Estacado."

Drove their herds and brought their faith and endurance to a new untried land, establishing churches and schools for their growing children. Putting dollars together to bring steel rails to glitter across the grassy prairies that the newly turned sod crops of maize and cotton and the herds of cattle could find a fast way to the needful cities. Braving the sleety northerners in creaking slickers hunting freezing cattle, cutting mesquite trees for firewood for long snowy winters. No, I say, America will not cannot fail, for the same brave endurance the early American settlers had, is only lying dormant in young America today and will be brought out as necessity arises. And America will go on stronger and better, honoring men like Uncle Is Tubbs in memory and in deeds.

Some terms and expressions, talked and sung last war. Doughboys. Over There. Barbed wire entanglements. No man's land. I do not mind to go to France to fight but I am afraid to cross the Big Pond. Liberty Bonds. Pershing. Foch. Trenches. mud, cooties and more cooties. The Hoover dresses, slackers. Kaiser Bill, war bread, meatless days, corn sugar, oatmeal bread, sugar and flour rationing, flappers, Floyd Parsons prints an almost unbelievable piece in the Saturday Evening Post about the wonders of the coming radio. In Flanders Field the Poppies Grow, and so on.

The road to Cone has been a much travelled one, from the day that the lumber loaded wagons pulled by an eight horse team brought a young girl and her tall husband to a lone windmill on the prairie. As I went to church only yesterday the road seemed to be in a talking mood, asking me if I remembered this and that. Why of course I remember Callie and Fidy, the runaway mules we drove to Sunday school and church and the mean old gate we had to open. Sometimes the road blossomed with roses at the English place, times when the yellow leaves on the cottonwoods at Uncle John's and Lishes fell fluttering into the dirt tank. There was the awful day the horse fell with my brother Guy at the cattle dipping, the agonizing hours while we listened to his raving, the sweet face of Aunt Lucy as she cheered us. Sorely we have gone down the road to Cone to sit up with a sick friend or to accompany their bodies to the little cemetery of Cone. Wedding bells have rung at the end of the road, baskets of dinner carried to conventions and birthdays.

Back and forth, year after year, going for groceries and supplies, sitting in an old topless buggy behind a slow trotting horse, going in a car, knowing each house and each occupant we passed, sometimes singing and laughing, sometimes uselessly trying to hold back the tears, going when a young woman, as middle-aged and perhaps going the last ride. We have seen many friends leave their seats on the plows or under shady trees, leave the cookstove and the growing garden. Now we see the gleam of white tombstones with their names on them. Have gone through deep snow and on slippery muddy roads in sandstorms and sultry heat. Have seen the tender green of spring blossom into growing crops and have seen fall in all her bountiful glory. Seen dry years when even the weeds withered and died under the brassy glare of an unclouded sun. Once we got our mail at the other end of the road a weeks mail at a time. Magazines and papers and letters from home wrapped in a big bundle, stopping our farm work for almost a day. Funny things have happened on this road. The time the children and I

Graduating exercises tonight at Andrews Ward auditorium for the seventh grade pupils of the Grammar school and commencement proper Friday night at the high school auditorium will bring the school year of 1927-28 for Floydada Public schools to the close of a successful term. At the Andrews Ward exercises tonight a class of seventy-five seventh graders will be given their diplomas and will thus automatically become eligible to membership in the high school body next year. Tomorrow night when Superintendent W. E. Patty hands out diplomas to high school graduates, there will be a class of forty to receive the evidences of their completion of high school work.

Mrs. Cella Ross left Tuesday for Waco where she will spend her summer vacation with her son, N. L. Ross and other relatives.

Albert R. Clubb, for the past three years an assistant cashier at the Floyd County National bank, whose resignation to go into business for himself was announced recently, will have charge of a new elevator being built by himself and O. H. Heard at Petersburg.

stopped for Mr. and Mrs. White to go with us to Cone. The deep lake we had to go through. The hamed-string breaking in the middle of the lake letting the hames and tugs, the only harness, fall into the muddy water. How Mrs. White and I sat in the buggy seat, our feet propped on a syrup bucket of hot water our gloved hands and bodies covered with an old wool suggan, tried to keep from laughing out loud as Mr. White waded in the freezing water, hunting with cold hands for the buried harness, getting it in place again, only to fall back in to the mud; listening at him tell what he thought of Jeff Spikes letting his wife go with such harness. Friends have come over this road to sit by our fireside and visit with us. Yes, road, I remember and I love to talk with you as I go to and from church.

Felix Franklin the first sheriff of Crosby county liked his fun and many things he said and did have made part of our history. Once at Estacado the proprietor of the hotel did not have much fire, scarcely any on a cold day, but he did not like it when he found Felix had wrapped the stove up in a blanket to the amusement of the crowd. There was the time he put some frogs in the bed of some Northern men and hollered rattlesnakes, then next morning putting on a small pair of socks belonging to one of the men leaving his huge ones for the sleeping man. How he struggled to get part of the small sock onto his big feet! When he moved to Amarillo and joined the Methodist church he remarked to a Crosby county visitor that, when you come to Amarillo now you will find me every Sunday morning sitting on top of the church steeple ringing the bell." He was the father of two girls and he said if he had had the Methodist preacher's children he would have made good children of them. It was just a question of getting the wrong children. Once when I was in his home his wife was gone, there was another girl there. We girls fixed supper for Uncle Felix and his man visitor. There were not many green beans. We made it up not to take any. The four girls in a row refused the beans, it got funnier and funnier. Uncle Felix scowled and looked over his glasses and we burst out in a laugh. Bless his dear god heart of pure gold. How all the children loved him!

What Price Victory!

"Blood and Sweat and Tears" . . . and money! . . . Such huge sums of money as to beggar the imagination of a Croesus. That is the price of victory in this war.

Blood is the greater price to pay. No one will dispute that. Those who remain in civilian life have only remote chances of sacrificing it. The boys in uniforms are the Americans who will bear the real scars of this conflict. They are the fighters, who with lead and Yankee courage, will keep Old Glory waving . . . will repulse the unprovoked attack of the Japs and the Nazis.

Then, to these fighting men we owe a solemn pledge . . . a pledge to use every ounce of our might to supply a super abundance of the implements of war and food and clothing to guarantee that they will not be fighting half armed . . . ill clad . . . empty stomachs.

That takes money, lots of money . . . Effort, lots of effort. Let's all, all who remain behind the battle lines, resolve to buy Defense Stamps and Bonds with abandon . . . to use every ounce of our energy to produce everything needed to whip the daylight out of those who attacked us.

Granted, that it will require sacrifice, but sacrifice that falls into insignificance when we compare it to the hardships and suffering of the boys in uniform. Isn't it a small price to pay for victory? . . . Yes . . . when we contemplate what would happen if our enemies won.

One has only to follow his newspaper, or tune in his radio, to know what has happened to the Poles, the Czechs, the Belgians, the Dutch, the French, the Norwegians, the Serbs, the Greeks, and whomever the Axis has struck successfully, to know the fate of our nation if we lost this war.

Free religious worship, free speech, free thought, free action would be denied us, if our enemies were victorious. Our homes, churches, factories, farms, and the fruits of our toil would be lost. Even life, itself, would be in the hands of those who regard human life as the cheapest thing on earth. Our dreadful plight would be that of the peoples already brought under the heel of the dictators.

Isn't it about time that we put our collective, shoulders to the wheel worked harder . . . using every dollar and every dime that we can spare to buy Defense Bonds and Stmps to assure defeat of the ruthless dictators and to remove the possibility of the consequences of defeat? We all know the answer. Let's get busy.

No More FSA Loans Until After July 1

The heaviest demands in the history of the Farm Security Administration by low-income farm families for loans with and small to produce increased war which has exhausted this agency's current loan funds, according to word received here this week by Arvid D. Hays, rehabilitation supervisor with office in the court house.

"Although all-out Food for Victory cooperation of Floyd and Motley counties' farm families unable to secure production credit has been extensive, the need for assistance was far greater than Farm Security's loan budget," said Mr. Hays. "As a result," he continued, "new Farm Security loans cannot be made until congressional action has been completed on appropriation for the new fiscal year, beginning July 1."

To assist the nation's war effort, the FSA had introduced a new loan program known as the Food for Victory loan program. This was handled in addition to the regular rehabilitation program. Food for Victory loans were available to extremely low-income and part-time farmers who were not immediately eligible for the agency's regular loans. Approximately 1500 of the special Food for Victory loans have been made in the West Texas and New Mexico area served by the Amarillo FSA office. The regular FSA rehabilitation loans are serving thousands of other low-income farmers in this same area.

Indicative of the all-out Food for Victory efforts of local farmers is the fact that rehabilitation loans totaling $91,000.00 have been made this year to approximately 220 farm families in Floyd and Motley counties. In addition to these rehabilitation loans, many small and part-time farm families have received loans for the production of food for home use and market.

"Although additional FSA funds are not expected to be available prior to July 1, loan applications can still be accepted for immediate action when appropriations are completed," said Mr. Hays. "In the meantime, every effort will be made to aid FSA borrowers in their Food for Victory plans in actual production in cooperation with the County War Board 'Moverover' he concluded, "we will do all we can to assist needy farm families in obtaining credit from other federal or private lending agencies in order that these people may produce a maximum amount of food this season."

Simple Rules Substituting For Sugar

COLLEGE STATION, May 20.—By observing several simple rules, homemakers successfully can substitute honey or molasses for part or all of the sugar required in their favorite recipes.

Hazel Phipps, Extension Service specialist in food preparation, says the characteristic flavors of molasses and sorghum make many foods more delicious. Both vary in moisture and acidity, she says, so the amounts she recommends for sugar substitution are "approximate."

It takes about 1 1/2 cups of molasses or sorghum to equal one cup of sugar in sweetness. Each cup contains approximately one-fourth cup of water so the liquid in a recipe should be reduced in proportion. In products which are leavened, about one-fourth teaspoon of soda should be used for each cup of molasses or sorghum.

Miss Phipps gives this caution: Molasses and sorghum burn easily so the temperature for baking should be lower than the temperature for baking mixtures made with sugar.

Rules for substituting honey for sugar are quite similar. Mixtures with honey brown easily and high heat changes the flavor of honey, so cooking temperatures should be lowered. A cup of honey gives approximately the same amount of sweetness as one cup of sugar, so the exact amount may be substituted. However, each cup of honey, like molasses, contains about one-fourth cup of liquid, so the liquid, requirements of the recipe should be reduced one-fourth cup for every cup of honey used.

The specialist's final advice is: Use approximately one-eighth to one-fourth teaspoon of soda per cup of honey in baked products such as cakes or quick breads.

SOME BOAT

There were two men named Brown in a certain village. One had lost his wife and the other a boat at the same time. The vicar's wife called, as she supposed on the bereaved Mr. Brown.

"I'm sorry to hear of your great loss," she said, sympathetically. "Oh, it ain't much matter," was the reply, "she wasn't up to much."

"Indeed," said the surprised woman. "Yes," continued Brown, "she was a rickety old thing. I offered her to my brother, but he wouldn't have her. I've had my eye on another for some time."

A TWO BILLION TOLL

Damage caused by insects may be conservatively reckoned at two billion dollars annually in the United States, says R. C. Roark of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Injurious fungi causes a loss of about one billion dollars a year. Both of these losses would be much greater, says Roark, if growers did not use liberal quantities of insecticides and fungicides.

"Now, Pat," said the magistrate sympathetically to an old offender, "what brought you here again?"

"Two policemen, sorr," was the laconic reply. "Drunk, I suppose?" queried the magistrate.

"Yes, sorr," said Pat, without relaxing a muscle, "both ay them."

Astonished man, to elevator operator: "Did you hear that man who just got off the elevator cooing as he went down the hall?"

Elevator operator: "He wasn't cooing. The Finance Company took his house last month, and he has to carry his homing pigeons in his pockets."

The census taker was inquiring of the mountaineer how many children he had: "Four," was the answer, "an by Gosh that's all I'm going to have."

"Why?" asked the census taker. "I just read in this here almanac that every fifth child born in the world is a Chinaman."

DOGS I HAVE KNOWN

It is a truth in human psychology that if you want a person to hate you, catch him doing wrong. But did you know that the same thing is true of many dogs? It was true of one of my old deerhounds.

Late one night, hearing a great commotion in an outbuilding where I had a dressed deer hanging, I caught old Ringwood, a master of the chase, stealthily helping himself to venison. He had managed to clamber through a window, and had pulled the deer down, and was having a really splendid quiet dinner. When I appeared with a light, a combination of emotions overcame him. Always proud and sensitive, ordinarily gentle, even dolefully bashful, Ringwood attacked me savagely—not because I was interrupting his repast, but because I had caught him sinning.

And what were Ringwood's emotions? Certainly shame, a sense of guilt, indignity, terror at being apprehended, dread of punishment. But I think his loss of prestige with me was what hurt him most. His savagery was as unnatural as it was momentary. I spoke to him gently. This really got him. "Then burst his mighty heart," as Anthony said of Caesar. He would not have cared nearly so much if I had belabored him. He was that kind of dog.

Ringwood's behavior did not surprise me. A noble, fastidious personality, he had been caught doing wrong, and what made it tragic was the fact that he and I had always loved and trusted each other. Nor was I surprised at this fine hound's attitude toward me during the three years that he lived after this incident. In the first place, he never forgot it. Then he could not like me as he had. I had wounded his pride. Milton in describing the changed relationship of God and Lucifer after the latter's revolt in heaven, speaks of the "disgrace and distaste" between them. Such isolation came between my old hound and myself.

The Bible which covers every-thing, gives a peculiar side light on this subject of catching people who are, let us say, acting irregularly. It declares that God "winked at" certain failings of His human children—suggesting that designed oversight may sometimes be a virtue; blindness may be discreet; and all kinds of prying, vicious and dangerous.—The Progressive Farmer.

RIDDLE ANSWERS—1. She starts looking around for hymns (hims). 2. Each is farthest from the bark 3. Because of the sandwiches (sand-which-is) there. 4. Because, if they didn't they would "fall out." 5. Neither. The yolk of an egg is yellow.—The Progressive Farmer.

Public Invited To Attend Sunday Church Services

(Rev. R. T. Breedlove, pastor) "The Duty and Privilege of Prayer," will be the subject for the sermon at the Methodist church Sunday morning. We appreciate the good attendance at the 11 o'clock hour and the evening hour last Sunday. Sunday school attendance could have been much better.

All that is keeping our country from the greatest victory of all time is the fact that church people are not living up to the doctrines of The New Testament. Go to church Sunday for your own sake. The evening service is held at 8:30. Bring your friends and live your religion.

Mrs. Nolan Huskey came last week for an indefinite visit with her parents in Lockney and with Mr. Huskey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Huskey.

Do not let anything hinder you from hearing him these next two nights. We need your presence and prayers and you need the inspiration and help you will receive from coming.

Our Sunday morning worship service will again be held at the Presbyterian church, also the night services.

Diet Conscious America Gets Fresh Foods

Today, as never before, America is diet conscious—not in the sense of diets for certain special conditions. Today they have a very definite reason for insisting on a well-balanced diet, fostered by the national nutrition program.

"Whether it be children, workers, or soldiers, the first step toward a happy, confident attitude is an abundant supply of the right kind of food. On a foundation of good food, we can build almost anything. Without it we build nothing."

Wholesalers and retailers are co-operating with the Department of Agriculture and the national nutrition program in obtaining the widest possible distribution of fresh fruits and fresh vegetables, "protective" foods so essential to good health. Nutrition-wise consumers appreciate the importance of more fresh fruits and vegetables in the daily diet.

Fresh fruits and vegetables offer most economical nutrition. Current best buys are those fresh fruits and fresh vegetables at peak production, such as Texas tomatoes, new crop pre-cooled, fresh green corn and Salinas Valley iceberg lettuce.

An unusually large crop of lettuce is being produced in the Salinas Valley of California. Lettuce is being featured nationally as a "Victory Food Special" because it belongs to the family of green, leafy vegetables. Nutritionists think so highly of lettuce that they recommend a serving of one kind a day, more if possible.

According to the Bureau of Home Economics, green lettuce is a good source of carotene, which the body can change into vitamin A. It contains some vitamin B1, riboflavin and vitamin C. It is also a good source of iron and calcium.

Fine Texas Tomatoes
Texas Tomatoes provide one of the most economical sources of good nutrition. The tomato enjoys prestige for several good reasons. One is that it passes all taste tests with its matchless flavor. It scores again on food value, because it's an inexpensive source of the necessary vitamin C. And it has eye-appeal with the bright red of its coloring. In fact, the tomato is so colorful that seventeenth century Englishmen grew it purely for its ornamental value.

Tomatoes march hand in hand with the citrus fruits through every diet plan worked out by nutritionists. These two foods are the good old vitamin C standbys—almost the indispensable, so far this vitamin is concerned. They are commonly termed Vitamin C insurance. Although the tomato built up its reputation with the dietitians on the basis of its vitamin C content, that's not all his vegetable has to effect it almost runs the gamut of the vitamin alphabet. Besides vitamin C, it supplies A, B1 and the pelagra-preventive factor.

INSECT EXTINGUISHER PATENTED

"By using a liquefied gas as a 'carrier' of poison spray material, U. S. Department of Agriculture entomologists find that it is possible to divide the poison into so much smaller particles that it does not settle so quickly as it does when it goes into the air riding even the fine droplets of a liquid that forms a misty spray.

Because some of the best insect poisons are deadly to insects even in inconceivably small doses, there is a gain in effectiveness against such flying pests as mosquitoes, flies, and gnats, from use of these gas-borne doses of poison. The poison particles stay longer in the air where the insects are flying and do not settle on the floor and walls as sprays of liquid do.

This is the secret of the "aerosol" method of poisoning insect pests on which the Department's entomologists have just devised (and patented for public use) a new improvement. The first aerosol experiments involved spraying a volatile liquid (alcohol, for example) on a hot plate. The poison was dissolved in the liquid and was carried into the air on the gas that formed when the liquid was heated.

The improvement comes from making use of one of several chemicals that have such a low "boiling point" that they are gases at ordinary temperatures and are liquids only when under pressure. Several of these are in common use as refrigerants.

By first loading a cylinder with a minute dose of such a poison as nicotine, pyrethrum extract, or rotenone, and then filling the cylinder with the liquefied gas under pressure, the scientists have devised equipment resembling a common type of fire extinguisher that will spray out the liquefied gas under its own pressure.

This gas will carry the poison with it in a form highly effective against insects. A suitable nozzle and a gas cut off device make it possible to use the filled cylinder repeatedly until the liquid is exhausted.

By using a gas that is not poisonous to humans there is the prospect that it will be practical to fumigate while a room is occupied. Also the gas carriers have the advantage over the liquid sprays that they do not stain papers and fabrics in the room.

LONGER LIFE FOR THINGS OF RUBBER

The great destroyer of rubber is oxygen, which breaks down rubber much as it crumbles iron to rust or powdered paint to dust. Also says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, continued exposure to high temperature shortens the life of rubber articles since heat stimulates chemical change. Moisture also is bad, for most chemical reactions are speeded up in the presence of water. Sunlight, too, steps up oxidation.

The rubber chemists of the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, now making efforts to produce rubber substitutes, or elastomers, from plentiful farm commodities, say that substances similar in composition are quite likely to be soluble one in the other. As an illustration of this principle, they call attention to the softening of tires and rubber tubing by lubricating oil or gasoline or kerosene. There is a relationship between the chemical consumption of petroleum and of natural rubber, and petroleum is the source of a rubber substitute.

Vegetable oils are somewhat similar to rubber in composition and so they also may be bad for rubber. Strong alkalis, such as lye and the bleaching compounds having an odor suggestive of chlorine, damage rubber articles and utensils; also iodine, and cleaning fluids such as carbon tetrachloride.

Persons who use rubber articles should know which of them are likely to be damaged by the various destructive substances. Tires, rubber overshoes, and hose used in shops and garages usually get most chemical damage from oil, grease and gasoline, and from sunlight. On the other hand, rubber used in the household usually suffers more from cleaning materials, too much heat, or exposure to sunlight as a hot water bottle hung in a sunny place on a bathroom wall.

Tires are injured by standing for long periods with weight on them or by standing on cinders which contain sulfur.

Texas women are taking in their stride the transition from feminine tasks to places in the assembly line of war production plants. Through its training and reemployment program, WPA in Texas is sending increasing numbers of women from projects to national defense schools and helping them to obtain jobs in airplane plants and other war industries. Symbolic of the new era are men and women standing shoulder-to-shoulder in the big warschool at Dallas. Inset is Mrs. Opal Stone, typical of WPA women trainees for employment in aircraft factories. Wife of a World War I veteran, she is the mother of three children.

PRICE REGULATION FITS RIGHT INTO OUR POLICY!

As always, in our store, the customer gets the break.

The law says we may not charge more for most of the merchandise we sell than the highest prices we charged in the month of March. This is to help make certain that the cost of living does not get out of hand.

We say we will do our best to sell below the top prices of March—and not only help to keep the cost of living from rising but go out of our way to make it go down.

Weather and Crops

Cotton showers punctuate the weather report for the week, with portions of two widely separated communities, Blanco and Cedar, getting the heaviest rainfall, according to the best information obtained by The Hesperian.

In both Blanco and Cedar the rainfall on some farms was in excess of an inch of rain. Showers fell in practically all of the county but in insufficient quantities to be of great value in some sections. At Floydada 8-tenths of an inch of rain fell, principally on Monday afternoon.

Generally the week has been one of low temperatures. Last Friday morning the drop was very close to freezing. Overcast skies for the most part, with some sunshine since Monday.

Continued hopper damage is reported, but ranges so far have been the best of any recent spring and cattle are already fattening.

An occasional field of cotton is through to a good stand, but mostly a re-planting job will be done as soon as weather conditions are considered right. A large per cent of the cotton growers have not put their seed into the ground.

The week has been one of good progress for the wheat. However, it is becoming apparent some late fields will not do so well. Beginning of the harvest is likely to be several days later than usual, some farmers say.

Old Settlers—

In addition the largest pioneer family present will be given a prize of $2. Prizes will be paid in cash.

Cycle Race Planned
A bicycle race for those over 40 is being arranged. Kids and youngsters better hide their two-wheel contraptions if they don't want them borrowed for this event. Whether the committee will "tooth" the entrants or check the records to determine ages was not indicated. However, it was positively said that anyone under age 40 would not be eligible.

Senator John Lee Smith, of Throckmorton, will be among the outstanding visitors present at the re-union. He will address the old settlers.

Gertrude Braidfoot on Program
Mrs. Gertrude Braidfoot Arnold of Silverton, daughter of one of the founders of Della Plain, will be among the pioneers who will appear on the program on the anniversary of the founding of the county May 28. "The Happy By and By," a song which she has arranged will be dedicated to Rev. and Mrs. R. E. L. Muncy. Her poem for the year is "The Pioneer," and following its presentation she will sing a duet with Earl Rainer. "Two Queens and a King," which she will dedicate to Mrs. Arthur B. Duncan and her daughter, Mrs. Maud Hollums in memory of the late Judge Arthur B. Duncan.

POTATOES BY TELEVISION TEACH MODERN MARKETING

Television brought an estimated 5,000 housewives literally eye-to-eye with potatoes in a recent program sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture over Station WNBTV, New York. This marked the Department's entry into this newest field of information and entertainment.

With the potato as an example the television audience was shown how Federal grades and standards can help the homemaker in selecting foods for quality and economy.

Seen as well as heard, the program was a roundtable discussion. Participating were two housewives, a Department of Agriculture expert, and the announcer. The screens of New York's television sets alternately depicted the faces of the speakers and the potatoes they talked about. When illustration was advantageous, the television camera focused on the potato.

This was the first of a series of television programs planned by the Agricultural Marketing Service. Others will demonstrate the value of Federal grading of fruits and vegetables, dairy and poultry products.

Illustrating the difference between the various grades of foodstuffs, these programs will show New York City homemakers the use for which the various grades are best suited. They will explain when it is desirable to purchase top quality foods and when less expensive grades will serve as well, will show the importance of grade labeling, and reveal what the various grades mean to the consumer's dinette table and pocketbook.
