Wayne Williams Upset Over Plans To Halt Investigation

ATLANTA (AP) — Wayne B. Williams' fears he could lose his chance to be cleared of his two murder convictions if the books are closed on most of the slayings of young blacks that horrified Atlanta for nearly two years, his lawyer says.

Alvin Binder, the Mississippi lawyer who headed Williams' defense during a sensational nine-week trial, said Sunday that Williams was upset over reports that authorities now plan to close the books on 27 slayings. Binder said Williams hoped the investigation would continue so he would be exonerated.

A Superior Court jury deliberated 12 hours Friday and Saturday before finding the 23-year-old free-lance photographer and aspiring talent scout guilty of murder in the deaths of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21.

Judge Clarence Cooper sentenced Williams to two consecutive life terms in prison. Under Georgia law, Williams would be eligible for a parole review in seven years.

Cater and Payne were among 28 young blacks whose deaths during a 22-month period were investigated by a special police task force.

A source close to that investigation said Sunday that authorities have evidence linking Williams to as many as 24 slayings on the task force list, in addition to the two he was convicted of committing.

And the Atlanta Journal reported Sunday police also intend to close the books on the slaying of John Howard Porter, whose death was investigated by the task force but was not added to its official list.

Prosecutors at Williams' trial introduced evidence in the slaying of Porter and nine youths on the task force list in an effort to show a pattern of killings that included Cater and Payne.

District Attorney Lewis Slaton denied Sunday police have linked Williams to 27 killings, saying that number is "too high." He refused to say how many cases would be closed due to the convictions.

Robbie Hamrick, who headed the Georgia Bureau of Investigation's role in the task force, said Sunday officials from seven police jurisdictions would meet this week to decide the status of the remaining cases on the task force list.

The Journal report said the task force likely will be disbanded, and Williams probably would not be charged in any other killings.

Binder, who met with Williams at the Fulton County Jail Sunday, said his client "is not disheartened unduly" over his conviction, but "he's very disappointed."

"All of a sudden we're hearing that all the cases are being closed and that's upsetting to Wayne," Binder said. "He had hoped that the investigation would continue..."

Binder said he understands that in one of the task force cases, authorities have eyewitnesses to the murder and "that would seem to me to warrant further investigation."

Williams, who "definitely wants the case appealed," is "holding up pretty well," Binder said. "He was very coherent."

UAW Rank And File Ok New Contract With Ford

DETROIT (AP) — It wasn't easy for United Auto Workers members to give an estimated $1 billion in wage concessions to Ford Motor Co., but when it came to voting they heeded their union leaders and remembered their laid-off colleagues, union officials said.

The UAW announced Sunday night that Ford workers ratified a proposed new contract by a vote of 43,683 to 15,933, or 73 percent in favor.

UAW President Douglas Fraser said Sunday the vote "unquestionably" was influenced by the number of Ford workers on indefinite layoff, "plus the fact that Ford has had some plant closings within the past year."

Union concessions will enable Ford to resume Supplemental Unemployment Benefits payments, which provide eligible laid-off Ford workers with up to 95 percent of their take-home pay.

The payments to workers with less seniority were cut off in February because the Ford SUB fund was depleted. Under the new pact, Ford must immediately deposit $70 million into the fund.

Ford workers agreed to accept a wage freeze for the duration of the 31-month pact, defer cost-of-living allowance payments for nine months and forfeit eight paid personal holidays and a December Sunday bonus day. New hires will start at lower wage and benefit scales.

In exchange, Ford agreed to a two-year moratorium on plant closings by curbing work contracted to overseas and non-union facilities, guaranteed income for higher seniority laid-off workers, profit sharing and preferential hiring of laid-off workers.

Ford, which reported 1981 losses of $1.06 billion, sought the concessions to become more competitive with foreign carmakers. Analysts estimate Ford will save about $1 billion over the life of the contract.

About 170,000 Ford autoworkers, including more than 54,000 on indefinite layoff, were eligible to vote. Many apparently did not vote because of early predictions of ratification.

Ford Chairman Philip Caldwell also lauded the Ford vote.

"Everybody is in this battle and it must now be clear beyond any doubt that the key to our continuing success will be the kind of cooperation and trust that has been so evident in these negotiations and in our day-to-day operations," he said.

The contract went into effect at 12:01 a.m. EST today, and Ford and union officials were scheduled to sign the pact at Ford headquarters in suburban Detroit later today. The pact replaces a contract that was to expire on Sept. 14.

Also today, the UAW's American Motors Corp. council was scheduled to meet in Chicago to decide whether to reopen contract talks Friday in Detroit.

AMC wants its 15,000 workers to forego 10 percent of their wage and benefit increases for 22 months to give the automaker $150 million for product improvement programs. AMC said the workers would be paid back with interest as early as 1984.

U.S., China Renew Pledge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang, in letters to each other marking the 10th anniversary of the historic Shanghai Communique, both pledged to work toward "overcoming" obstacles and differences between the United States and China.

The letters, dated Feb. 28 and released today by the State Department, said good relations between the two nations are essential for maintaining peace in the Pacific region.

Zhao and Reagan both noted the progress made since former President Nixon and the late Chou En-lai signed the Shanghai Communique on Feb. 27, 1972, establishing relations between the two nations.

Neither, however, noted specific difficulties that have developed in the last year over the question of continuing U.S. arms sales to Taiwan.

More Aliens Expected

RIO GRANDE CITY, Texas (AP) — The Mexican peso's recent crash in value could cause illegal immigration into Texas to skyrocket, according to a Rio Grande Valley newspaper.

The McAllen Monitor said in a copyright story Sunday that the U.S. dollar is likely to lure more and more Mexicans to the state.

Immigration and Naturalization Service officials expect increased traffic to the United States because of the devaluation, said Manuel Sloss, head of the INS' Hidalgo office.

"The tendency that people might come across is very great right now," he said.

He said he hoped the Mexican government will raise salaries, as it did after the 1976 devaluation. During the past week, the devaluation has almost halved Mexican paychecks, officials say.

Brezhnev, Polish Leader Embrace

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev of the Soviet Union welcomed Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski with comradely hugs and kisses today at the start of the Polish Communist ruler's first Kremlin visit since he decreed martial law in Poland Dec. 13.

Soviet television showed Brezhnev, 75, walking stiffly across the tarmac at Vnukovo Airport with other high-ranking officials, to greet Jaruzelski as he stepped off the plane from Warsaw.

The two men received red carnations and tulips, listened to their national anthems and inspected an honor guard.

The Soviet Union is Poland's main military ally and chief trading partner. The Soviet government welcomed Jaruzelski's Dec. 13 martial law decree that crushed 16 months of labor trouble and challenges to Communist rule by the now-suspended independent union Solidarity.

Jaruzelski and high-level Polish Communist Party and government officials were expected in Moscow for two days to report on the crackdown and seek more economic help for his near-bankrupt country.

There were no welcoming remarks. However, the Soviet news agency Tass said "top-level talks" would begin later in the day.

"Jaruzelski will ask for aid to help keep the place under control," a Western diplomat in Moscow predicted. But he said his official and unofficial Soviet contacts already were complaining about the strain of supporting their East European neighbor.

Troubled by poor harvests and falling production, the Soviet Union reportedly has sold large amounts of gold and sought additional Western loans to ease its own foreign currency shortage. The drain of having to help support Poland, which owes an estimated $26.5 billion to Western governments and banks, has the Soviet public grumbling.

Radio Warsaw said Sunday Polish miners produced 15 million tons of hard coal last month, nearly a million more than February 1981, and 3 million tons of soft coal, "considerably above their targets." Coal is Poland's chief export and main source of foreign currency.

Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak, chief law enforcement officer, announced the lifting of almost all travel restrictions within Poland, beginning today. He said only some border areas were still off limits.

Thomas Irons, his wife Donna and their two year old son Thomas Ashley were taken to Cogdell Memorial hospital in Snyder by a private vehicle and units of the Scurry County Sheriff's office. They were treated for minor injuries suffered in the mishap and released. (SDN Staff Photo)

City System Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tackling a voting rights issue akin to that being studied by Congress, the Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether Lockhart, Texas, must change the way its city government is elected.

The justices said they will study a three-judge court ruling that an election system adopted by the city in 1973 illegally dilutes the voting power of Mexican-Americans.

Lockhart, a Caldwell County city of some 7,500 residents that is located about 30 miles south of Austin, was governed until 1973 by a city council comprised of a mayor and two commissioners.

The system then was changed in a citywide referendum to provide for a city council comprised of a mayor and four commissioners.

The mayor and commissioners are elected in staggered at-large elections to numbered posts.

In 1977, four Mexican-Americans challenged the constitutionality of the system installed in 1973. They charged that it adversely affected the Mexican-American voting power.

As of the 1970 census, Lockhart's population was 45 percent Anglo, 41 percent Mexican-American and 14 percent black. According to the Justice Department, Mexican-Americans represented about 30 percent of the city's registered voters in 1977.

Politicians...

Disagree Over New Boundary Lines

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Democrats basically are pleased and Republicans unhappy with a court-ordered remap of the state's congressional districts. But the whole process probably will begin anew during the next legislative session.

The long-awaited plan, which redrew six districts in Dallas, Fort Worth and South Texas, was handed down here early Saturday, leaving reporters and politicians alike scrambling to decipher it.

The federal court's remap covers only the 1982 primary and general elections, so the Legislature must enact a plan that is agreeable to the court before the next round of congressional elections.

The Legislature passed a reapportionment plan last August, but the U.S. Justice Department rejected the plan Jan. 29 after minority groups charged it diluted their voting strength.

The Justice Department wanted two South Texas districts redrawn, saying Hispanics had been packed into the district represented by Kika de la Garza, D-Mission. They wanted at least one heavily Hispanic county put into a new district adjacent to de la Garza's.

Based on 1980 census figures, Texas gained three congressional seats, raising its delegation from 24 to 27.

U.S. District Judges Sam Johnson of Austin, William Wayne Justice of Tyler and Robert Parker of Beaumont redrew the two South Texas districts to satisfy Justice Department objections, but also changed districts currently represented by Reps. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas; Martin Frost, D-Dallas; Jim Collins, R-Dallas and a new "mid-cities" district between Dallas and Fort Worth.

A new Harris County district was left unchanged.

"We've got a court decision from three fair judges and I think we should make every effort to live with it," said Texas Attorney General Mark White at a campaign appearance in Dallas Saturday.

White is running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Mattox, who had opted to run for attorney general after the Legislature's plan loaded his district with Republicans, said Saturday he wouldn't change his mind and run for reelection, even though the judges redrew his district to the Democrats' advantage.

Frost's congressional career is in better shape under the new plan. His became the "minority" district under the Legislature's plan, putting him in the position of running against a minority candidate in a heavily minority district.

But the judges said minority voters had been packed into Frost's district, leaving them with "swing" power in only one district, instead of two — the other being Mattox's.

They removed some minority areas while adding about 50,000 voters in Arlington to Frost's constituency.

Lucy Patterson, a Dallas community activist, had filed to run for Frost's seat.

"What this does is totally destroy a district from which the probability of electing a minority exists," she said.

But Frost insisted said the plan "maintains very substantial minority input" in the district.

"This district is fine with me," Frost said. "I hope this is the end of it."

But de la Garza was unhappy about losing Cameron County to the newly created 27th district.

"It's like they're taking a little bit of my life away from me by separating good people and good constituents from me," he said. "It's like taking away part of my family."

Although the plan leaves Collins' district heavily Republican and changes the new mid-cities district from a toss-up to a likely GOP win, Republicans were not happy with the remap.

"It appears they have done a partisan gerrymander in Dalla's County," said Wayne Thorburn, executive director of the state Republican Party.

State Rep. Dee Travis, who had planned to run for Mattox' seat — but found himself living outside the district under the new plan — called it "political" and said it put "all of the announced Republican candidates in the same (Dallas) district."

Steve Bartlett, a former Dallas city councilman who also had filed for Mattox' seat, called the plan "illegal on its face."

"I can't see that the court-ordered gerrymandered plan will hold up in the Supreme Court," he said Sunday.

Each of the three judges wrote separate opinions, with Justice wanting the entire plan redrawn, especially Harris County, where he said minority voters were packed into one district.

Johnson said the judges found themselves in the undesired position of entering a "political thicket," but criticized Gov. Clements for not calling a special legislative session to amend the plan after the Justice Department rejected it.

Pickers Demand Higher Wages; Threaten Strike

SAN JUAN, Texas (AP) — Delegates to the Texas Farmworkers Union convention here cried "Strike!" Sunday, and also called for the state's minimum wage to be raised.

Cries of "Huelga!," or Spanish for strike, echoed through the hall after Cesar Chavez, president of the National United Farmworkers Union, called for a protest march on the U.S. courthouse in Brownsville.

Chavez urged the action after reviewing a survey of nearly 400 Lower Rio Grande Valley citrus and vegetable pickers attending the meeting.

Wages in Texas averaged 90 cents below the federal minimum wage of $3.50 an hour, Chavez was told after the questionnaires were tabulated.

The information prompted a resolution calling for the Texas minimum wage of $1.40 an hour to be raised to the national level, and stirred Chavez to call for a more dramatic demonstration.

"They are robbing, cheating you from what is yours according to law," he said, leading a march around the floor of the high school gymnasium where the meeting was held.

"We have to get in a big fight with growers and win," he added.

No date for the protest march was set, although Texas Farmworkers Union Director Rebecca Flores Harrington told the delegation if would be "soon."

The survey that triggered the displeasure included questions about farmworkers' jobs, workload and pay.

According to the results, the average pay for citrus pickers was $2.45 an hour, compared to the federal standard of $3.50 an hour.

Cats Vie For Feline Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Morris and Garfield couldn't make it, but Heathcliff, Sweetie Pie, Harry and Wake Up Doc were there, vying for top cat at the 65th annual Empire Cat Club Show here.

The 520 cats and kittens representing 23 breeds from all across the country, Canada and Scotland primped, preened and purred for a plethora of prestigious prizes in Madison Square Garden on Sunday.

"It's definitely grown since I've been here," said Richard Gebhardt, who has been associated with the cat club since 1945. "Cats are no longer associated with elderly lonely ladies. Cats are sort of 'in.' Both men and women have discovered that cats are highly compatible, convenient pets."

The Cat Club sponsors up to 200 shows a year throughout the country, Gebhardt said, but the New York event is considered tops, attracting the most exotic and expensive cats, including Japanese Bobtails, Cornish and Devon Rex, as well as the more common Persians, Manx and Siamese.

Multi-colored ribbons adorned most of the cages, but Boza Joe Rascal, a brown 9-month-old Abyssinian, was in an unadorned cage.

"He's been disqualified," said his co-owner Pat Singletary, who works with breeder Pat Dutch in New York. "He has a tiny white spot on his throat and because of the club's rules, he's been disqualified. But he has a nice body and nice eyes."

Show manager Tom Torio said the club has a written set of rules by which the cats are judged.

Coppinger estimated it costs several thousand dollars a year to show cats.

Dear Abby

Wife's Brief Encounter Becomes Endless Nightmare

By Abigail Van Buren

1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged, married professional woman with a problem that is beginning to affect my sanity. Three years ago I foolishly started an affair with a man of a different race. He's attractive, intelligent and very talented, but he can't hold a job because he's an alcoholic.

When he's sober, he's a decent, gentle man who wouldn't harm a fly, but when he's drunk he is unpredictable! He gets mean and violent, and he's even threatened to kill me if I stop seeing him. I've paid his rent, bought him clothes, given him money and begged him to leave me alone, but I can't get rid of him.

I've been wanting to drop him for two years, but I'm terrified that he may expose me, or maybe kill me!

Lately when he gets drunk he's started calling me at home. Every time my phone rings, I tremble. I am a total wreck. I can't go on giving him money to keep him quiet. I have a fine husband and nearly grown children who would die if they knew about this.

Please help me. I am desperate. I trust you to . . .

KEEP ME ANONYMOUS

DEAR KEEP: You must tell your husband that three years ago you foolishly became involved with another man (his race is irrelevant), and you are now being blackmailed. Then tell your former friend that if he ever comes near you, or phones you, drunk or sober, you will have the police pick him up and he will be charged with harassment, blackmail and threat of bodily harm.

As difficult as this may seem, it is the only way to free yourself from this terrible nightmare.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I don't care for dirty jokes, especially in mixed company, but I never know how to act when I hear one. (I'm a young married woman.)

Should I keep my face straight and pretend I don't understand? (That would seem rather foolish.) Or should I politely laugh along with everyone else?

I'm afraid if I make an issue of it and bluntly say I don't care for dirty jokes, people will think I'm a poor sport or a prude.

SUZIE

DEAR SUZIE: Don't allow anything that offends you to be said in your presence without challenging it. (Silence implies approval.) Respectable people will respect you, and you needn't worry about the others.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts: A friend of mine plans to marry a Korean woman with the understanding that they will not live together — it will just be a marriage of convenience. The Korean woman wants to come to this country and set up a business, and for the opportunity to do this, she is willing to pay my friend (an American citizen) $2,500 to marry her.

The woman has agreed to divorce my friend after she accomplishes her objective. What is your opinion of such a marriage?

WONDERING IN ARIZONA

DEAR WONDERING: Never mind my opinion, your friend should consult a lawyer. I am advised that the law frowns on such marriages.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I want to ask "Unenlightened Uncle," who didn't know whether his nephew had received his gift of a $100 check until he asked the boy's father six months later, a question:

Was the check ever cashed? Did you look at the endorsement?

I, too, sent a check to my nephew as a gift, and on the back it was endorsed: "Dear Uncle, thank you, with love" . . . then the boy's signature.

DEAR ABBY: "Sleeping with Sidney" wrote to ask if there was anything wrong with a grown woman sleeping with a baby blanket she had had since day one.

That letter reminded me of my own situation. I'm nearly 30, have been married for 10 years, and I still sleep with my tattered little baby blanket.

A few years ago I asked a therapist if there was anything wrong with this habit, and she asked me a few simple questions: Is it hurting anyone? Is it harming you? Do you enjoy it?

The conclusion: If it isn't hurting anyone, isn't harming you and you enjoy it, it's OK.

NUFF SAID IN BREMERTON, WASH.

DEAR NUFF: And well said. Those three questions could be applied to any activity about which one has doubts. And one more should be added: Is it legal?

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Hunt Delayed

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — The controversial annual St. Lawrence Gulf seal hunt was supposed to start today, but even the seals weren't showing up in the bitterly cold, windy weather that was expected to keep hunters at home too.

Federal Fisheries spokesman Frank Ring said Sunday he doubted the hunt would begin because no seals were sighted during the bitter-cold weekend.

WADE GENTHNER, F.A.I.H.
Director of Techniques For Living

Are you overweight or a cigarette smoker? Have you tried to lose weight or stop smoking, only to fail time and time again? If you find yourself answering "yes" to either of these questions then the Techniques For Living Seminar, under the direction of Wade M. Genthner F.A.I.H. at the Smorgasbord Restaruant, 102 East Highway, will be the place for you to be on Saturday, March 6. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight — Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Genthner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of cinical hypnosis. Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Genthner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes," who referred to him in a nationally televised report as a well-trained and highly experienced hypnotist.

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems," Genthner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Genthner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of overeating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Genthner. Further information can be obtained by calling, toll free, 1-800-645-5454.

Delta Kappa Gamma Has February Meeting

"Women Educators: The Working Woman Guilt Syndrome" was the program topic for Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society. A panel composed of Marge Mathis, chairman of personal growth and services committee; Empress Terrell, Carolyn Hamby and Dorothy Rosson explored the guilt syndrome by analyzing guilt, looking at the kinds of guilt and guilt as an excuse.

The panel stated that 38 percent of the labor force today is made up of women. This makes a total of 38.5 million women in the United States working. Nine out of ten women today have worked at some time, most of them working for economic reasons.

The guilt feelings among working women usually arise from personal feelings of concern for husband or children in the family and from lack of social involvements such as church or volunteer work which is not possible for many working women.

The panel summed up their program by saying the individual woman and her attitude allows a woman to cope with the so called "guilt feelings" and also when society accepts women in whatever role she cares to assume in the world, the guilt syndrome will be dispelled.

Meditation was led by Donna Stehley entitled "A Beautiful Garden." President El Wanda Nall conducted the business session following the program. Committee reports were heard from the necrology committee chairman, Emily Kincaid, who reported the death of Agnes Kunkel in 1981.

Gerri Parker, research committee chairman, reported five Zeta Lambda members have served Delta Kappa Kamma for 25 years or more. They are Virginia Grove, Evelyn Boone, Delia McPherson, Lida Rhoades, and Mary Devenport. These women will be honored at the State Convention this summer along with other members throughout Texas who have been members for 25 years or longer.

Hostesses for the meeting were Billie Hartsfield, Betty Richardson, Delia McPherson, and Virginia Grove, in whose home the meeting was held.

Leader Training Held By EH

The County Extension Homemakers Leader Training Meeting was held Feb. 24 in the extension office with Kathryn Roberts, home extension agent, conducting the training. "Medicine Mix Up" was the topic studied. This awareness helps consumers identify examples of drug-drug and drug-food interactions. Self awareness helps the consumer to follow safe practices when taking and administering medicines to avoid harmful drug interactions.

Extension homemakers and clubs represented for the training were Hermleigh, Ann Jenkins; Stargazers, Kaye Clawson; Patchwork Squares, Vivian Cochran; and Plainview, Pearl Wheeler.

Try Dried Beans For A Thrifty Main Dish

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

Dried beans of various sorts — home-cooked or canned — have been coming into prominence. Not only because in these inflationary times they make thrifty main dishes, but they also offer good flavor, texture and needed nutrients.

One way to use the beans is to enclose them in tortillas and add embellishments. When the nutrients in the embellishments complement the nutrients in the beans and tortillas, the dish is worthwhile fare. Such dishes are old-hat to many Tex-Mex cooks and we thank them for spreading their good recipes around the country. These offerings can make robust main courses for family suppers and brunches.

A few notes on the corn tortillas called for. Here in New York City we buy the frozen ones whenever we can because, in our opinion, they taste better than the canned ones. Some lucky cooks in other parts of the country are able to buy corn tortillas from market refrigerator cases; friends tell us these are excellent. In time, perhaps they will be nationally available.

Now a confession. A friend gave us a utensil for making tortillas but as yet we haven't tried it out. One of these days ...

BEAN ENCHILADAS

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped (medium-fine) onion
1⅓ cups drained, home-cooked or canned pinto beans
2 tablespoons diced canned green chilies
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground cumin
Oil
Six 6- to 7-inch corn tortillas
1 to 1¼ cups enchilada sauce (homemade, canned or made from a mix)
1-3rd cup sour cream
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese

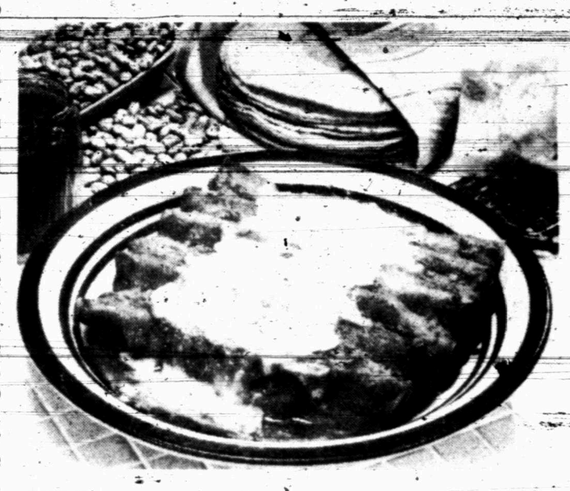

In a 9-or 10-inch skillet melt the butter; add the onion and cook gently until golden. Add the beans, chilies, salt and cumin; heat thoroughly, mashing beans slightly; reserve.

In an 8-inch or larger skillet, heat about ½ inch of oil until very hot. Using tongs, add tortillas, one at a time, and cook a few seconds to soften, turning once; drain on paper toweling.

Pour enchilada sauce into a shallow dish or bowl, 8 inches or larger in diameter; dip tortilla in sauce. Place the coated tortilla on a plate; spoon about ¼ cup of the reserved bean mixture down the center of the tortilla; top with about 1 tablespoon of the sour cream. Fold the tortilla in half; place in a lightly oiled 9-inch pie plate or baking dish. Repeat with remaining tortillas, overlapping them in the plate. Pour the remaining enchilada sauce over the tortillas. Sprinkle with the cheese. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until enchiladas are hot and bubbly — about 20 minutes.

Makes 2 or 3 servings.

Note: Recipe may be doubled. Bake in a lightly oiled 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking dish in a preheated 375-degree oven for about 20 minutes.

THRIFTY AND GOOD—Corn tortillas are filled with pinto beans and other good things to make an enticing main dish.

Alan: "I see Theodore Lightner, inventor of the Lightner slam double, just died at the age of 88. How good a player was he and did you ever play with him?"

Oswald: "I played in and won the first contract tournament with the late George Reith in February 1929. That summer I played with Lightner in the auction championships of the American Whist league. We won the pairs and the team. Our team partners were the late E.L. Downs and Dorothy (Mrs. P. Hal) Sims. In 1932, playing with Louis Watson as my partner and Mike Gottlieb as Lightner's, we won what is now the Spingold Cup. The hand in the box shows Ted and Mike bidding a grand slam. It was a rare feat in those early days."

Alan: "I assume that Blackwood had not invented his convention that early. The grand slam would be easy to bid with modern methods. Was Lightner North or South?"

Oswald: "He was North and read Mike's five heart bid as a demand that he bid six if he could take the first or second club trick. Since he held the club ace and was not ashamed of his hand, Ted cue bid clubs to show first-round control. Then Mike decided to bid the grand slam, which was not reached at the other table."

Alan: "Did honors count in total point matches back then, so that hearts counted more than no-trump?"

Oswald: "Yes!"

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

Do you know the facts about "cholesterol"?

Cholesterol is a waxy, fat-like substance that is essential to your body and good health. Although cholesterol is largely manufactured by the body, additional amounts are also absorbed through diet.

Too much cholesterol eventually causes build-up on the inside of blood vessel walls, thereby increasing the risk of coronary heart disease and atherosclerosis. Americans with high blood cholesterol levels TRIPLE their risk of a heart attack.

Diet Center believes that the food you eat has a major effect on cholesterol levels. By eating fresh fruits and vegetables, lean red meats, fish and poultry, you can reduce the cholesterol in your system.

Watch both the amount and type of fats in your diet. Substitute polyunsaturated oils in place of cream, butter and lard.

Apples are an excellent cholesterol regulator because of their high levels of vitamin C and pectin. The fiber, especially pectin, found in fruits and vegetables, such as apples, can also help reduce cholesterol.

For other ideas on reducing cholesterol intake, see your local Diet Center Counselor!

There is buried treasure in the United States. You may be able to find it with nothing more than the maps they used to give away at filling stations.

Or get yourself a Mississippi River map from the Army Corps of Engineers for $15 and you'll note that the winding Mississippi River is constantly trying to straighten itself.

What happens is that any bend in the river erodes the down-river bank deeper and deeper...

Until the river shortcuts across the neck of any horseshoe bend leaving an area of a few acres to a few square miles drained and dry.

Searching for sunken treasure in the active riverbed would be difficult because of the fast current and shifting silt.

Searching for buried treasure in the now-dry riverbeds is comparatively simple.

Porter Young of Helena, Ark., is a river historian, chairman of the Great River Road Commission.

He has told AP that "the Mississippi River is paved with wrecks."

Prominent shipwrecks include the Sultana steamboat which sank April 26, 1865, above Memphis, Tenn., when its boiler exploded. Most of the 2,000 people aboard were killed. None of the $150,000 in gold and greenbacks which had been aboard was ever recovered.

The river tends to bury its dead.

The current might carry a sinking boat for many miles before depositing it in a deposited area of the river bottom. There the wreck would soon be covered by sand and gravel.

But where the winding river cuts off some of its own horseshoe bends, of where Army engineers have engineered some 20 man-made cutoffs, parts of wrecks have been found 10 to 12 miles away from the present channel.

The Mississippi, prior to flood-control stabilization of the channel, was such a meanderer that -- where it used to divide Arkansas and Mississippi -- today part of Arkansas is east of the river.

So where should you start digging?

When the Pennsylvania sank in the late 1800's Henry Clemens, brother of Mark Twain, was killed. And $50,000 in gold went to the bottom. That was above Helena, Ark.

During the Uncivil War a Confederate vessel sank with $75,000 in its strongbox "near Memphis."

The Rhoda steamboat was wrenched from its mooring in the Helena harbor in 1876 and its strongbox was never recovered.

A towboat pulling barges containing lead ingots hit a bridge near Greenville in the early 1940's and went down. A few lead ingots were recovered. Those not yet recovered would be worth millions.

For generatons during which the river was a sewer for mid-America it was littered with much trash; sorting that from anything salvagable is difficult even with modern sounding equipment.

Also, recovery with heavy machinery would be prohibitively expensive.

But a man with a shovel might make it pay if he knew precisely where to dig.

Then why not?

Mr. Porter suspects "There are a lot more people digging than talking about it."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Uncommon spine condition

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor is an internal medicine specialist and he said I have rheumatoid arthritis. He just gave me pills for it and that was it. It is mainly settled in my back, hips and neck. My muscles do tie in a knot so I can't lift anything and I get sharp burning pains in my spine.

I had him prescribe some pain pills for me as my back hurts all the time. I can't lie on my stomach or flat on my back.

Is all this caused by rheumatoid arthritis? If so is there any specialist in my area? Our phone book doesn't list any. I am a female and just turned 25.

DEAR READER — It is important that you have an accurate diagnosis. Rheumatoid arthritis usually does not involve the spine, except the neck. You are too young to have osteoarthritis of the spine so the story suggests a more uncommon condition.

You may have ankylosing spondylitis which does involve other parts of the spine and hips. You are in the right age group for it. In the past it was believed this disease was almost exclusively in young males. It is now known that it is almost as common in young women. If your X-rays show involvement of the sacroiliac joints you probably do have ankylosing spondylitis even if you are a woman. Your doctor can do or have certain blood tests done that help in establishing this.

Talk to your doctor about it and perhaps he will be willing to refer you to a specialist in rheumatology to clarify your diagnosis and recommend future management.

Either rheumatoid arthritis or ankylosing spondylitis usually require more than therapy to control pain. The medical treatment is also usually different. More patients get benefits from Indocin if they have ankylosing spondylitis.

With either problem you should have an exercise and stretching program. If you have ankylosing spondylitis and don't have such an active program you may develop a poker stiff spine that won't bend. Maintaining chest expansion is also important.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-11, Rheumatoid Arthritis, which discusses management. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband, who is 74 and an angina pectoris patient, drinks a glass of prune juice every morning.

Can this be detrimental to his health? Our two physicians disagree. One holds it is a no no, the other thinks it's all right as long as it doesn't cause diarrhea. We would appreciate your opinion.

DEAR READER — Prune juice does contain a chemical (oxyphenisatin, an anthraquinone) which was once used as a chemical laxative. It is not used anymore because patients using it developed chronic liver disease. Whether the amount in a small amount of prune juice is enough to be harmful has not been well studied.

The other point is that anyone with heart disease such as angina pectoris should not need to strain for a bowel movement. The respiratory effort and straining can trigger serious, even fatal, heart irregularities. Of course this can be prevented with other means of bowel management. But many people use prune juice all their lives with no ill effects.

Government Warns Hijackers...

'Don't Come To Britain'

STANSTED, England (AP) — "Don't come to Britain," the British government warned hijackers today after the takeover of a Tanzanian airliner ended peacefully with the surrender of the four hijackers and the release of their 82 remaining hostages.

"The message is that hijackers coming to this country will not be permitted to leave," said Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher as her government prepared hijacking charges against the four Tanzanians who seized the Air Tanzania jetliner during a domestic flight over their East African homeland Friday.

They could get life imprisonment but probably won't. The only reported casualty was the Tanzanian co-pilot, who was shot in the lower back Saturday. A Greek doctor who treated him in Athens said the wound was not serious.

The 76 freed passengers and five other crew members were "safe and well," police said, although four passengers were treated for shock. All were reported to be Tanzanians.

The four foes of Tanzanian President President Julius Nyerere gave themselves up Sunday afternoon after freeing most of their prisoners in groups and then sending two small children out to the police with their weapons — a loaded 38-caliber revolver, a fake pistol, a wooden grenade and an empty package labeled "explosives."

Security men found small amounts of explosives placed at two emergency exits and at the lavatory doors in the rear of the plane, the police reported.

Police said another foe of Nyererе, exiled former Foyeign Minister Oscar Kambona, helped convince the men British justice would deal fairly with them and they should surrender.

"We decided it had gone on long enough, and it was up to us to end it," said Chief Constable Robert Bunyard of Essex County. "We had no intention of making any concessions to encourage people to hijack aircraft."

"We made it perfectly clear from the outset that they were not going to be allowed to go off in the aircraft, and they realized the game was up," said Home Secretary William Whitelaw.

Air Tanzania sent a relief crew to Britain to return the blue-and-gold Boeing 737 and the freed passengers and crew to Africa. But the hijackers reportedly had their families aboard, and Whitelaw said any who shared the hijackers' opposition to Nyerere might be allowed to stay, at least temporarily.

The plane, named Kilimanjaro after the East African nation's famed mountain, was flown to Kenya, Saudi Arabia and Greece before it landed Saturday at Stansted's little-used airport in the English countryside 30 miles northeast of London.

Eight other hostages were released in Nairobi, Kenya, and Athens, Greece.

The hijackers claimed to be members of the Tanzanian "Revolutionary Youth Movement" and demanded the ouster of Nyerere, their country's president for the past 20 years. They threatened to blow up the plane Saturday night, but police negotiators succeeded in calming them down.

Warning Is Not Ominous

PUTNEY, Vt. (AP) — It is called a "Warning" but it is not as ominous as all that.

"Warning for annual meeting," it says. "All persons legal voters of the town of Putney and town of Putney School District are hereby notified and warned to meet in the town hall ..."

It is just a notice to the townspeople of their annual exercise in direct democracy and a warning to taxpayers of where their money might be spent.

New Englanders have been conducting public business this way since the 1600s. Thomas Jefferson called the town meeting "the wisest invention ever devised by the wit of man for the perfect exercise of self-government, and for its preservation."

In the Putney "Warning," Article X proposes the purchase of a 30-inch lawn mower for a sum not to exceed $1,400."

Light Turnout Expected In March El Salvador Election

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — With both campaign violence and the fighting between leftist guerrillas and government forces increasing, politicians predict a light vote for the March 28 election of a constituent assembly in El Salvador.

Retired Maj. Roberto D'Abuisson, the ultra-rightist party leader wounded in a guerrilla ambush Saturday, said in an interview last week he expected 700,000 voters, or 35 percent of the estimated 2 million people of voting age.

David Trejos of President Jose Napoleon Duarte's centrist Christian Democrat Party said 500,000 would be a big turnout.

D'Abuisson, who leads the four-month-old National Republican Alliance (ARENA), was attacked near San Salvador's Ilopango Airport. Doctors said he was shot through the upper right chest, but aides took him away from the hospital after he was treated, and one close associate said the wound was not serious.

Two other incidents of campaign violence were reported during the weekend. Two truckloads of men attacked the ARENA headquarters in San Salvador with grenades and automatic weapons Friday, wounding four people. Guerrillas attacked a Christian Democratic motorcade in Usulutan province Saturday, but nobody was hurt.

Space Probe Reaches Venus

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet space probe made a soft landing on the planet Venus today and was sending back photographs and information from soil samples, the official news agency Tass reported.

The Soviets and the United States have previously landed unmanned space probes on Venus, the nearest planet to Earth. Tass said a second module is due to land on Venus Friday.

Tass said a module descended from the unmanned Venus 13 spacecraft early this morning after a four-month flight.

"The results of the new cosmic experiment will significantly widen the information about the planet nearest to the Earth," Tass said. The news agency said the probe had already sent back photographs and scooped up a soil sample.

The descent vehicle transmitted information from the surface of the planet for 127 minutes today, according to Tass.

Venus 13 was launched Oct. 30, 1981. Tass said Venus 14, launched on Nov. 4, will reach the planet on Friday. Both craft were launched from a satellite in earth orbit, Tass said.

The Soviet Union started its Venus research program in 1961

Dusters Open Regional Play Today At 4

BIG SPRING – Western Texas' Dusters start this week's Region V Tournament the same way they opened the last one, meeting Cisco Junior College first, with the possibility of running into Howard County second.

Game time will be 4 o'clock at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Tournament passes are $8 for adults and $5 for students. Session tickets are $3 and $2.

WTC defeated the Lady Wranglers in that 1980-81 tournament, but lost in the semi-finals to Howard. Needless to say, Coach Joe Cushing has no intentions of letting history repeat itself.

"Right now we've got to get by that first game. I don't mind saying that we're looking forward to playing Howard again though. We've got something to prove," he said. "We didn't play that well in our last game with them and I know our kids are anxious to play them again. Right now we're going against Cisco and we're going to be ready to play them. They've got a good outfit and it's a good tournament, but we know we've got a good outfit too."

Western has faced Cisco twice this season and won both games, but they took place in November, far too along ago to be considered a measuring stick for this afternoon's game.

"You can't go by past records or anything. All of that means nothing in the regional tournament," noted Cushing. "Any team that feels that way will be going home tomorrow."

WTC defeated the Lady Wranglers 67-61 in the season opener back on Nov. 2, and again 13 days later, 78-67.

Cisco comes into the tournament boasting a 14-2 conference record, good enough to tie with Cooke County for first place in the Northern JC Athletic Conference. The Wranglers are 22-9 for the season.

Peggy Taylor, a 5-11 sophomore is a key figure for the team, averaging 14 points a game. She is aided by Carolyn Cheeks, another 5-11 sophomore, and by Sherri Hill and Candy Lott, among others. Cisco is coached by David Land.

Western is 23-7 for the season and finished tied for second in the WJCAC with an 8-4 record.

In games played here Sunday, the WJCAC had the best of things as Amarillo slammed Ranger 87-58 and Odessa topped Weatherford 82-79.

Today's WTC-CJC contest will follow a game beginning at 2, which pits McLennan and Clarendon. At 6 tonight, Cooke County will take on Amarillo, and at 8, Howard faces Odessa.

Tracksters Place Sixth In First Meet Of 1982

FORT STOCKTON -- Snyder High School's young track team made a good first showing over the weekend here, taking sixth place in Division II of the Comanche Relays.

Monahans took the overall team title, edging Odessa Ector by a narrow three-point margin, 119-116. Ector came away with seven firsts to dominate the sprints, 800 and 1600, but the Loboes had more depth, polling three firsts and five seconds, as well as numerous third places.

The Tigers totalled 46 points, aided by two first place finishes from Glenn Parham and James Caldwell. Parham also added two second place ribbons and Caldwell had a sixth, while Ross Bawcum came up with a third and D.W. Lofton brought home two sixths. Tracy Neves also had a sixth place.

"I was real encouraged," said first-year coach Robert Crawford. "We went down and competed, we didn't just show up. I think now some of our kids will have confidence in themselves. We went down there with a good attitude and we've still got a good attitude."

Snyder biggest disappointment was its relay teams, which were both disqualified. The sprint relay team jumped the starting gun and the mile team ran out of its lane.

Snyder travels to Lubbock this weekend for its second meet of the season.

Parham took up where he left off last year, searing through the 300 meter intermediate hurdles in 39.93 to establish a new Comanche Relays divisional record. The former mark was 40.53.

Parham had won both the 300 hurdles and the high jump in the district meet last year, but it's clear he'll get some tougher competition in the jumps this time out.

Teammate James Caldwell, who didn't compete in track last season, won the high jump with a leap of 6-4. Parham nabbed second in the event with a 6-0 effort.

Both placed in one other event. Parham took second in the long jump at 19-10¾, and Caldwell placed sixth with a jump of 19-2.

Ross Bawcum hurled the shot 46-11¾ for third place in that event. Snyder also came up with three sixth places. D.W. Lofton placed sixth in the high jump with a leap of 5-10½ and sixth in the 1600 run with a time of 5:06.82. Neves was sixth in the pole vault with an 10-0 effort.

WTC Captures Second In Judo Championships

Western Texas College came away with the men's title here Saturday but didn't have enough numbers to pull off the overall team championship, ending its four-year domination of the Texas Collegiate Judo Championships.

Next action for WTC will be the nationals, to be held March 26-27-28 at the University of California at Berkley.

Western polled 25 points to outscore the Universty of Texas by 21 points in the men's division, but the Longhorns garnered 35 points from its women to win the team title, 56 to 43. Texas A&M placed third with 17 points, followed by Texas Christian and Texas Tech with 9 each.

Western took several first place trophies. Mark Thomas won both the men's 189-pound division and the open division. Charles Wood won the 168-pound division. Second places were won by Carlos Martinez in the 139-pound division, by Darrell Green in the 149-division and by Jerol Morrow in the 209-division. Russell Johnson placed third in the 156-division.

WTC also got two first places from its women's team. Tania Macky placed first in the 106-division and third in open; Dru Ellen Thompson placed first in the 158-division. Second places went to Suzanne Hale in the 150-division and Marjann Morrow in the 141-division. Shonna Lawhorn placed third in the 132-division.

WTC was without two of its players, Blake Riggs and Eric Johnson. Both were out with knee injuries. Riggs is expected to be in form for the nationals, but Johnson is doubtful.

Wood also placed first in the young men's heavyweight division of the WTC Junior Open, held in conjunction with the Championships. Morrow placed second and Robby Trevey third.

Other WTC Judo Club competitors in the meet included: Age 7-8 lightweight, Bryant Thomas, second place; Age 11-12 lightweight, Richard Williams, second place; Age 13-14 heavyweight, Kevin Burns, first place.

LEVELLAND WINS – Brenda Kemp rejects a shot put up by an unidentified Stephenville player during Class 4A regional playoff basketball action held here Saturday night. The No. 2 ranked Levelland Loboes won the game, 49-36 and will advance to state. Tonight, Robert Lee and Greenwood boys vie at 7:30 in the coliseum. (SDN Staff Photo)

Another Playoff Tonight...

Levelland Tops Bees

Levelland's Loboettes raced past the Honey Bees of Stephenville in the first two quarters here Saturday to post a 49-36 win in Class 4A girls regional basketball action.

With the win, Coach Dean Weese's 30-3 Loboettes advance to the state tournament in Austin. Stephenville, under Ron Berry, concludes its season at 23-10.

The playoff game, held before an estimated crowd of over 2,000, was the second held at Scurry County Coliseum this season. Three other playoffs have been slated this week. They are: Tonight, March 1, at 7:30, a boy's bi-district game between Robert Lee (13-A) and Greenwood (14-A); and Tuesday, March 2, a doubleheader beginning at 6, a boys bi-district game between Reagan County (Big Lake 9AA) and Eastland, and at 7:30, a boy's bi-district game between Roscoe (12-A) and Jayton (11-A).

Stephenville's B'Linda Pindlton scored the first bucket of the game here Saturday, but Levelland came up with the next eight to gain a six-point advantage at the end of the first quarter. Both teams appeared tight coming into the game, but Levelland was able to lossen up. Stephenville never did.

It took Loboette Lisa Logsdon several attempts to get her outside accuracy down, but when she did, it was a primary weapon for Levelland, which came into the game ranked No. 2 in the state. The 5-8 junior eventually swamped the Honey Bees for 21 points. Stephenville inside strength Kasi Clak, a 5-11 senior, was never able to get on track.

Levelland used its perimeter game of Logsdon and 5-6 senior Darla Bryant to open its lead, while 5-11 senior Annie Davis and 5-11 sophomore Darla Isaacks battled the boards.

Levelland out-pointed the Bees 14-8 in the second quarter for a 22-10 advantage at intermission. The margin ran up as high as 19 in the third, before ending 38-22.

Debbie Sims, a 5-4 senior, tried to lead Stephenville back in the fourth quarter with a bucket and two freethrows. Though her efforts helped whittle Levelland's lead to 11 on one occasion, the Bees were never to get any closer. A slight height advantage helped the Loboettes break Stephenville's press, and Levelland's superior shooting made the game a runaway.

Logsdon's 21 point led all scorers. Teammate Bryant had 10, while Isaacks had 9 and Davis added 8. Davis also had 14 rebounds. Leading scorer for Stephenville was 5-4 Pindlton with 13. Clark notched 11 and Sims had 8.

Valenzuela Still Talking

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Pitcher Fernando Valenzuela and the Los Angeles Dodgers are in the midst of salary negotiations a club spokesman says have produced "some progress."

Valenzuela, the rookie sensation of 1981, and his representatives were scheduled to meet with officials of the Dodgers again today.

Steve Brener, the National League team's publicity director, said the Dodgers and Valenzuela and his representatives met for more than three hours Sunday. Brener issued a short statement saying that although a contract agreement wasn't reached, "both sides reported some progress."

The statement also said that the time and site of today's meeting was still undetermined, and "both parties agreed there would be no further comment at this time."

Valenzuela was 13-7 with a 2.48 earned run average during the strike-shortened 1981 season.

Tigers Unveil Season Today

SAN ANGELO – Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers aren't starting off with a pushover here today as they take on San Angelo Central at 4 o'clock to open the 1982 baseball season.

"San Angelo has a veteran team. They have all their players back," said Lewis. "So we'll find something out about ourselves real quick."

Snyder played well in scrimmage action Saturday, defeating Big Spring 8-6 at Moffett Field. The score was 6-6 going into the eighth inning. SHS first baseman Barry Davis knocked a two-run homer to put the Tigers over the top.

"In spots I was impressed with what I saw, but in other spots I was disappointed," said Lewis of the scrimmage. "We're really not hitting the ball like I thought we would and we're going to have to do something about that. We weren't able to hit either of Big Spring's first two pitchers."

Lewis praised the pitching efforts of Monte Gambol and John Wilson for Snyder.

Left-hander Gerald Don Hicks will start for the Tigers today, with relief coming from Wilson or Charles Bollinger if necessary.

Lewis' batting order for the season opener is: 1. Brent Roemisch, shortstop; 2. Casey Peterson, centerfield; 3. Jesse Hernandez, catcher; 4. Barry Davis, firstbase; 5. Trey Harlin, dh for Hicks; 6. Curtis Gafford, second base; 7. Britt Vincent, left field; 8. Gary Don Edmiaston, right field; and John Wilson, third base.

Perry Echols, one of Snyder's top hitters and the regular left fielder, is suffering from the flu and will miss the trip.

Mo-Valley Tournament

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - In case anyone failed to catch a favorite Missouri Valley Conference basketball team in action during the regular season - stay tuned.

With Valley champion Bradley leading the way, eight of the 10 league teams are paired for the opening round of the conference post-season tournament starting Tuesday night.

The winner of the tourney finals Saturday gets an automatic invitation to play in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship tournament beginning next week.

Coach Dick Versace's Bradley Braves, after winning their second Valley basketball title in three years with a victory over Tulsa Saturday, have the inside track in the league tournament.

Kerry Cook, who attempted only nine free throws all season, hit two with eight seconds left in overtime to help Bradley outlast Tulsa, 82-79, in the league championship game at Peoria, Ill.

Saturday action involving all 10 Valley teams settled the pairings for the Valley post-season basketball tournament.

The Braves will host Indiana State in Peoria, Ill., and Drake travels to Illinois State in the upper bracket. In the lower bracket, Tulsa hosts Creighton and Southern Illinois is at New Mexico State.

The tourney's second round is Thursday night, with winners in each bracket traveling to the home court of the higher seeded team. The finals are Saturday on the home court of the highest seeded survivor.

EMT Class To Begin Tuesday

An Emergency Medical Technician class is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. Tuesday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The course may be taken for college credit.

Emergency medicine is the fastest growing speciality in the medical field and qualified EMTs are in demand not only to work on ambulances but also to work on emergency room staffs in hospitals.

The course being taught here through Texas State Technical Institute is a state certification course, which upon completion, fully qualifies person as an EMT.

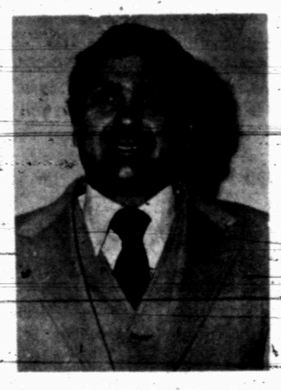

Skills taught in the class will range from the basics of bandaging and splinting to the highly technical care of the multi-trauma victm, and many other aspects of emergency care.

"What we are offering is an opportunity for people for a full-time job, for a career," Joy Barnett, Scurry County EMS Captain, said. "EMTS are needed on the ambulance, but Emergency Medical Service is a far reaching field. Housewives should take it, businessmen need to know it, because you never know when you might need to know it to help somebody.

The EMT course will include 140 classroom hours and 40 hours of clinical training. Cost of the class is $50 plus a minimal charge for books. For more information call 573-0841.

Instructors will be Barnett and Jerry Huffman, Sweetwater Paramedic of TSTI.

Tom Latos Is Kmart Head

TOM LATOS

Tom Latos, 31, is the new manager of Kmart in Snyder.

Latos replaces Charles King who has been manager of the local Kmart store for the past 18 months. King will become manager of a larger Kmart store in Austin.

The new manager has been with Kmart since 1973 when he graduated from the University of Wyoming at Laramie.

Latos comes to Snyder from Dallas where he was a Kmart merchandising manager. He has also had company assignments in Fort Worth, Denver, Cheyenne, and Sterling, Colorado.

He received his degree in distributive education in 1973 from the University of Wyoming. He and his wife, Betty, have two children. Tom is age six and Mindy is age four. They are Methodists.

Latos said he is looking forward to living in Snyder and having his family as part of a smaller community. His Kmart assignment in Sterling was similar to Snyder, and said he had many good memories of living in a town the size of Snyder.

Latos added that he was grateful for the opportunity given him by Kmart. "I can't say enough good about Kmart. I've had many opportunities and experiences because of my association with the company," Latos said.

ASTRO·GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

March 2, 1982

This coming year you should be quite fortunate in ventures or enterprises you initiate which are both imaginative and creative. Ways will be found to utilize your bright ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is not the right time to start complicated ventures you may not be able to follow through to completion. Be sure you finish what you start. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The temptation to talk about things told to you in confidence may be a force you'll have to reckon with today. It's best you keep silent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take a hard look at your budget today. If expenses are getting out of hand, seek ways to eliminate nonessential expenditures. They can be found.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not the day to take positions opposing persons who could cause problems for you in your career. If angered, they might do just that.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Much of your effectiveness will be lost today if you worry about things which may never happen. Live in the "now." Let tomorrow care for itself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make it a point today not to pry too deeply into the affairs of a friend who doesn't want to make public his or her present happenings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't rely too heavily on others today to help you realize your goals. What is important to you may be of small significance to them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Serious problems could develop today if you treat coworkers haughtily, or fail to do that which is expected of you. Hold up your end.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Steer clear of involvements today where you know you would be out of your element. Don't become immersed in situations with too many unkowns.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Things may not run too smoothly on the home front today. You and your mate must be careful not to blame each other for the foul ups.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Count to 10 today before criticizing others, even when their faults are blatantly apparent and in need of correction. Cutting comments could fuel a fight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against tendencies today to be extravagant or wasteful. You're likely to be less disciplined than usual in management of your resources.
