HUD Director Describes Celia Relief Work

W. W. Collins, director of the Celia Field Office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Corpus Christi, described the hurricane disaster relief work HUD is doing in a talk before the Rockport Lions Club on Sept. 3.

Explaining that under normal circumstances, HUD provides assistance under its regular program to cities such as Rockport is supplying grants to help with such projects as sewer systems.

"As you all know," he said, "we're here now with special responsibilities assigned by the Office of Emergency Preparedness to help people suffering from the results of the hurricane."

He divided HUD's present efforts into two main categories: 1) Assessment of damage to both residential and public buildings, and 2) Providing temporary housing for the homeless.

In connection with bringing in mobile homes for temporary housing, Collins praised Dean Peiper, HUD public information specialist and former Chicago newspaperman, and newspapers, TV and radio for getting accurate information to the homeless quickly as to who was eligible for HUD mobile homes, and how they should apply for these homes.

Collins said HUD is anxious for everyone eligible to apply. "Our agency contacted mobile home manufacturers to lease units for the homeless immediately after the hurricane and within three days orders were placed with 20 suppliers," he said. "Soon, 100 a day were coming in."

He also said HUD is setting up a housing advisory service to help families acquire permanent housing, mainly by repairing or rebuilding their old homes that were hit by the hurricane.

Red Cross Aid Presses $100,000

Red Cross assistance for Hurricane Celia victims in this area now totals $106,778.97, Milt Whitton, area disaster director for the international relief organization, announced Tuesday.

The allocations were made as follows: mass care, $4,266.75; food, clothing and maintenance, $64,154.34; building and repair, $19,338.98; household furnishings, $16,466.55; medical and nursing, $968.80; and occupational supplies, $1,583.55.

Whitton said 782 cases of need have been registered with the Red Cross here since the hurricane. Of these, 553 have been processed and closed. Of the 229 cases the Red Cross is still working on, 49 may get SBA loans.

Fla. Building Code Given to Library

A complete copy of the South Florida Building Code has been contributed to the Aransas County Library through the courtesy of John D. Pennekamp, associate editor of the Miami (Fla.) Herald.

This building code which has been developed as a result of hurricane experience in South Florida over the past 30 years, is said to be the most complete and most effective in use anywhere. The code includes specific and detailed information on both materials and construction methods.

Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, recently told an audience in Corpus Christi that, in his opinion, 90 percent of the property damage in Corpus Christi would have been avoided during Celia if the city's building standards were similar to those of South Florida.

In a recent editorial The Rockport Pilot stressed the need for a more stringent building code for Rockport and neighboring communities. It is believed that the copy of the South Florida Building Code now in the local library can be helpful in developing such an improved code here. Also, the Florida code can be used by local contractors and other home builders as a reference work on materials and construction methods.

Over $11 Million In Back Wages Found Due

DALLAS — Compliance officers for the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division here found more than $11 million due some 55,572 employees in the Southwest during the fiscal year just passed, according to the Dallas office.

Regional Director William J. Rogers reported that such officers visited 9,289 establishments in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. They found $5,748,596 due as a result of employers' failure to pay proper overtime, and $4,421,489 due under the minimum wage provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Lesser amounts were found due under the Equal Pay Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, and the Service Contract Act.

"We were able to obtain compliance with the law and payment of wages due in the great majority of cases by direct negotiations with employers," Rogers said.

Where that was unsuccessful, there was legal action in the Federal courts. During the year, 131 lawsuits were filed in three states to obtain compliance with the law or the payment of back wages found due.

He noted also that employees have the right to bring suit in such cases. Through their own attorney, they can file suit for back wages, and equal amount for damages, and reasonable fees.

Football Season Opens Friday

By Bob Crawford

The seconds are ticking away until the Pirates of Rockport - Fulton High School launch their 1970 football season against Aransas Pass at Pirate Stadium this Friday night at 8:00 p.m.

Aransas Pass came on strong last year after losing the opening game of the 1969 season to the Pirates 39-0. The Panthers will bring a team into Pirate Country that has much in common with the Pirates—graduation took a heavy toll. In the pre-season the Panthers have shown the ability to score as they punted Mathis in a scrimmage last Thursday night.

On the other side of the coin the Pirates were still unable to find the goal line against Bloomington last Friday night. The long play again hurt the Pirates as Bloomington scored on two runs of over 45 yards. The Pirate offense did show marks of being able to move the football on occasions on a series of runs by backs Richard Schendel, Robert Brooks, and Mike McLead, and on passes from Pete Perez to Oscar Pina and Schendel. The offensive line, still in the midst of becoming a unit, was led by Melvin Moore and Jerry Picton.

Defense seems to be the name of the game for the Pirates thus far. At times there were eleven men doing a job that put a stall in the Bloomington offense, but the men from Rockport-Fulton felt the results of let-downs as Bloomington scored twice, once with five Bloomington players outrunning the ball carrier for the goal.

New faces shone for the Pirates on defense as the unit struck hard to stop Bloomington. Clifford Mixon, Nelson Barre, Kevin Rouquette (before being injured) and Russell Johnson dealt misery to the Bloomington squad. In the defensive secondary Mark Wright stopped a drive with a pass interception and pulled down runners who might have broken away.

The Pirate JV scored twice to beat the Bloomington team in their part of the scrimmage last Friday night. John Vick moved the team down within scoring distance and carried in for the score on the option. Later Freeman Lamar set sail on a run of about 45 yards for the second winning score.

Charles Baugh led the offensive line against the tough Bloomington JV, and Drew Carlin led the Defense. The JV game has been cancelled for this week with Aransas Pass because the Panthers could not develop a JV or Freshman team.

At 8:00 Friday night the product of hot, long practices will be seen. The Fighting Pirates did not take a holiday on Labor Day, but practiced even harder with some bright spots emerging that have not been seen before. Friday will surely be payday.

Self-Evaluation For Local School

Only the better schools of the country qualify for membership in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, and Aransas county schools meet the requirements.

One of the requirements is self-evaluation at certain intervals. Local schools will have such self-evaluation this year with members of the faculty serving on the various programs which will include:

School and community. Philosophy and objectives. Curriculum. Student activities. Education media. Guidance services. School staff and administration and all of the subject matter fields which include 20 areas.

This will require a tremendous amount of work on the part of the teachers and administration. Much of this time will be after school hours. This evaluation is a difficult requirement to retain membership in the Southern Association. Next school term a visiting team will come in to evaluate the school system.

The self-evaluation program was approved Tuesday night by the School Board at a meeting attended by Dr. H. F. Elliott, president; Thomas M. Rogers, vice president; D. H. Roberts, and Otis Mundine. Also present were J. D. Gray, superintendent; E. J. Randow, assistant superintendent; and Jack McDavid, representing the insurance firm of Glass, Sorenson and McDavid.

McDavid was asked to present his proposal for renewal of building insurance program for the School District.

Upon motion by Mundine, seconded by Rogers, duly put and carried, was ordered to purchase a school building insurance program for one year at a cost of $11,732.00 with a schedule value of school buildings at $2,544,700.00.

Upon motion by Roberts, seconded by Mundine, duly put and carried, it was ordered that employment of Southern Appraisal Company for $2,000.00 annually be continued as planned originally.

Upon motion by Mundine, seconded by Rogers, duly put and carried, the Superintendent was authorized to negotiate sale of surplus school bus with Robert Eason.

54 HUD Homes On Location

Lt. Col. Walter S. Falk, Jr., who is assisting officials of the U. S. Housing and Urban Development Agency here on a voluntary basis to assist persons made homeless by Hurricane Celia, said Wednesday that 137 applications had been received for HUD mobile homes for temporary housing.

He said 54 units had been located and added that the "main holdup in meeting the needs has been the limited number of two-bedroom mobile homes, the size most urgently needed."

Falk said that in some cases of extreme hardship and when there is a possibility of a family's health being endangered, HUD has permitted the use of three-bedroom homes when no two bedroom units were available.

Red Cross Man Praises Residents

"The residents of Aransas County are probably the most self-reliant and resourceful I have encountered in many years of disaster relief work," Milt Whitton, American Red Cross disaster relief supervisor, said at a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club Wednesday at the Woman's Club building.

Whitton, who is in charge of 20 Red Cross workers in the county, said that in another three or four weeks their work will be virtually completed.

There have been 783 requests for aid in the county since the hurricane, and 531 of them have been met, he said.

In a number of instances individuals have met their own needs after requesting Red Cross assistance. He also cited the fact that while 100 persons used the emergency shelter the night after the storm, only two returned the next night and it was possible to close the shelter immediately.

Whitton said six Red Cross relief staging centers were set up in the coastal area before the hurricane struck so the Red Cross was able to move relief vehicles and personnel into the stricken area almost as soon as Celia passed inland. Red Cross workers were in Rockport and doing business the morning after the storm.

C of C Happenings

The Chamber of Commerce is taking the leadership in informing people up North that the Rockport area survived Hurricane Celia, that rebuilding is proceeding, that most motels and restaurants are open for business, that there's lots of fun to be had here fishing, boating, swimming, golfing or just taking it easy, and this not only is a good place for vacations but for permanent living.

At the suggestion of several members, the Chamber launched an Emergency Move Ahead Campaign (EMAC) to raise funds to place some advertisements in major northern newspapers.

The latest contributors, in addition to those whose names were previously published, are R. L. Eckman, James H. Sorenson, Jr., and First National Bank of Rockport.

Ads describing Rockport's attractions appeared Sunday, Aug. 30 in the Minneapolis Tribune and the Des Moines Register. The C of C already is receiving inquiries about motels, trailer parks and other facilities, and information is being sent to them.

Corpus Christi Datsun, Inc., sent a check for refreshments this week for the hospitality program for visitors stopping in at the Chamber Building for information, fruit juice, a cup of coffee and cookies.

RUMMAGE SALE

The Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church will hold a rummage sale in the Fellowship Hall at the church from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 12.

Perry R. Bass, chairman of the Sid W. Richardson Foundation, Ft. Worth, has presented to Aransas County, through attorney Emory M. Spencer, the foundation's check for $60,000 to help rebuild churches in Aransas County and to help individuals who suffered unusual losses due to Hurricane Celia.

"The governing board of the foundation was moved by the suffering and losses caused by the hurricane and desired to assist in the alleviation of the suffering need in Aransas County," Bass explained.

The funds have been allocated by County Judge John D. Wendell and Spencer, local advisors to the foundation on this project, to the various churches and to individuals in Aransas County, and none of the funds are available upon application or solicitation.

Of the $60,000, one half or $30,000, has been allotted to churches, with every church receiving some money and the only limitation being that the funds be used for church purposes.

The remaining $30,000 has been allotted to individuals, based on need and hardship. Of the $30,000, a total of $10,000 was earmarked for citizens of Aransas Pass in Aransas County and residents of the area immediately north of Aransas Pass, where damage was great.

Before making the allocations to churches, Spencer contacted every church and asked for the figure on the amount of damage caused by Celia, plus information on the amount of insurance coverage. Spencer presented the $30,000 check to Judge Wendell at a special meeting of Aransas County Commissioners Court held in the judge's office. Present were the judge, Commissioners W. B. Allen, Raymond Owens and Mrs. Ludene Wofford and County Auditor Bob Mosier.

The Commissioners Court expressed appreciation for the generous gift and voted to communicate with Bass and express gratitude for all the individuals and churches aided by this generous action.

The Sid W. Richardson Foundation was created by Richardson who owned St. Joseph Island from 1936 until he died in his sleep at his ranch house on the island in 1961. During those 25 years the ranch house was his second home and he spent much time there, often as the host of world famous celebrities.

All his life he was a generous philanthropist, aiding people in Aransas County and throughout the world.

The Commissioners Court expressed appreciation for the generous gift and voted to communicate with Bass and express gratitude for all the individuals and churches aided by this generous action.

Debris Removed From Golf Course

Golfers who play at Live Oak Country Club this weekend will not have the excuse they have had since Hurricane Celia: that debris interfered with their game.

Under direction of the U. S. Corps of Engineers, McKenzie workmen removed limbs, branches, leaves and other debris and made the fairways and greens much more playable.

NATURE TRAILS

By
CONNIE HAGAR

"Only God can make a tree."
—Joyce Kilmer

Yes, friends, nature is progressing day by day and wasn't it lovely when we were without power to see "Sammy" (or your milkman) come in smiling with your cream and milk and orange juice?

The large companies carried on despite Hurricane Celia. Thank you for your service.

Haven't the trees put on green leaves, and I feel as though I should not complain. The lilies are so fragrant and add a delightful fragrance, and sunflowers out the Fulton Road are following the sun when it rises, as it was before Celia.

At the corner of Church and Hackberry Streets, hit so hard by Celia, the vacant lot has been covered with the early spring blossoms of white prickly poppy. Anacua trees (called knock-away trees by natives) are in full bloom; these are also called sandpaper trees as their foliage is very rough.

Early in the morning, beautiful blue widows tears cover the yard, while threading the grass at their base is indigo pea, a red or deep pink pea shaped blossom whose roots gave the Indians a blue dye.

The prickly ash is greener than ever and Chinese elm look so fresh and all have gotten back straight. Today the cardinals were enjoying the bird bath, Inca doves moved slowly around their feeding area and two mocking birds swung from the telephone line. Look quickly and enjoy them.

Not many shore or wading birds are back but what a joy it is to see them building back to normal. Just look and look and look. Nature will repay you.

Brazos Trail

AUSTIN—Stories about the famous Chisholm Trail have been told for generations. But many hardly realize that travelers riding their own vacation trails can now visit the same places where weary wranglers once bedded down.

The Chisholm Trail originated in 1867 as a means of driving Texas-raised cattle from San Antonio northward through Oklahoma to the railroad in Abilene, Kans.

One of the principal stops along the route was a spot midway between Austin and Waco near the present town of Salado. Here, at an old stagecoach inn, such famous travelers as Sam Houston, Generals Lee and Custer and the infamous James Brothers stayed the night.

The inn was restored in the 1940s and now boasts every luxury a modern traveler could want. Nearby, the Central Texas Area Museum houses a fine collection of antiques and early day firearms.

Stagecoach Inn is one of the attractions on the Texas Brazos Trail, one of 10 Travel Trails.

The Brazos Trail's 588 miles runs through 18 counties: Bastrop, Bell, Bosque, Brazos, Burleson, Burnet, Coryell, Falls, Freestone, Lee, Limestone, Grimes, Robertson, Travis, McLennan, Milam, Washington and Williamson.

Named for the scenic Brazos River bottomlands, the trail wanders through some of the state's richest farming country and takes the visitor through peaceful, serene communities where life has changed little over the years.

Largest city on the trail is Waco, heart of the Central Texas blackland cotton empire. This is the home of Baylor University and its Armstrong-Browning Library and Museum which houses original manuscripts of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning.

A 97-year old suspension bridge crossing the Brazos River in downtown Waco remains open to traffic. One of the first suspension-type structures ever built, it served as a model for the more famous Brooklyn Bridge. A tour of historic homes and a visit to Cameron Park and Lake Waco are added treats awaiting Waco visitors.

Mexia lies eastward on the trail after leaving Waco. The town was established in 1871 and is near Fort Parker State Park and old Fort Parker where nine-year old Cynthia Ann Parker was captured by Comanches and reared as an Indian. She became the mother of Quanah Parker, last of the great Comanche chiefs. A replica of the original fort stands today. Also nearby is Lake Mexia on the Navasota River, providing boating and fishing.

Groesbeck, Marlin, Calvert, Normangee and Navasota guide the trail southward and into College Station and Texas A&M University, a leading agricultural and engineering college for years and now one of the nation's leaders in nuclear research.

As on the Forest Trail, part of the Brazos Trail runs along State Highway 21, El Camino Real, taking the trail rider through such picturesque communities as Old Dime Box, Deleville, Paige and Elgin.

Then, the route veers northward through Taylor, Bartlett, Holland, Salado and into Belton, home of Mary Hardin-Baylor College and historic Sommers Mill. Used for grinding corn, the mill is located on Farm Road 1123 in Bell County. Built in 1866, it remains in good condition. Trail riders will pass Barton Reservoir on their continued journey northward and drive into Gatesville, northern entrance to Fort Hood and headquarters of the largest concentration of armor in the free world. A giant mesquite tree believed to be the world's largest is located in Gatesville and is listed by the American Forestry Service as one of the world's most unusual trees.

Traveling farther north and then east through Turnersville and Valley Mills, the Brazos Trail returns to Waco.

Well, What Do You Know?

fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor The New Book of Knowledge

What do you know about the Mason and Dixon's Line?

Mason and Dixon's Line is considered a boundary separating the northern states from the southern states. It separates Pennsylvania from Maryland and a section of West Virginia.

It originated in 1763, when two English astronomers, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, were hired to survey the property belonging to the Penns. proprietors of Pennsylvania, and the Calverts, proprietors of Maryland. They decided that the boundary fell at 39° 43' 26.3" north latitude. Though the land was re-surveyed at least twice, the Mason and Dixon's line remains as it was when first surveyed.

Slavery in all lands under the French flag was abolished in 1794 by the revolutionary government of France. It was re-established in the French colonies by Napoleon in 1802 but finally abolished in 1848. In 1804 Haiti became the first country in the Western Hemisphere to do away with slavery. Its example was followed by most of Spain's colonies in the New World as a result of their wars for independence between 1810 and 1825. Great Britain's famous Act of 1833 ended slavery in British overseas possessions by setting up an apprentice system. By 1838 this system had disappeared in most British colonies in the New World.

Do you know why spiders don't get caught in their own webs?

A spider doesn't get caught in its own web for two reasons. The chief one is that a spider runs along its web on the dry silk threads. It avoids the sticky, insect-catching ones. Also, a spider's body is oily, and the oil helps to keep the spider from sticking.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Before 1921, the person with diabetes didn't worry about leading a normal life. He worried about death. But then insulin was discovered and a daily shot helped keep the diabetic alive. Although the discovery of insulin was a major scientific discovery, the search continued for an orally active anti-diabetes drug. The first oral drugs have been developed. Now the diabetic is no longer a slave to the needle.

Diabetes is a condition in which the body is unable to use food properly, especially the carbohydrates in the body. Diabetics have difficulty turning these sugars and starches into energy. An individual's body normally produces a substance called insulin, which enables the body to burn up sugar for energy or store it for later use.

Diabetes is an inherited trait, as far as we know. The cause is not enough insulin or an interference with the action of insulin in the body. Diabetes is a disorder which may have existed from birth. In some cases, many years may pass before diabetes is detected. Any one of a number of factors can trigger this revelation — such as being overweight, having an infection, stress, or the aging body's lessened ability to handle carbohydrates.

Diabetes tends to run in families. About one out of 60 Americans has this disorder, or over four million people. Two million or more of these people are unaware that they have the disease. Twenty-two percent of our population carry the genes for diabetes.

Anyone at any age can develop the disease. Approximately one out of every 2,500 children is diabetic. However, diabetes is essentially a disease of middle age; 4 out of 5 people with diabetes are 45 years old or over. Other groups particularly susceptible are women, especially those who have large bodies, the overweight, and relatives of other diabetics.

JOHNNY JACKSON GETS ALL A's

Some of the common symptoms of diabetes are excessive thirst, frequent urination, excessive hunger, weight loss, failing eyesight, intense itching, pain or numbness in fingers and toes, weakness, tiredness, and drowsiness. Not all these symptoms are present in every diabetic. Some have only one or two symptoms. Others do not have any apparent symptoms and are called hidden diabetics. A regular check-up is the best possible way to detect the disease early enough to control it properly.

KINGSVILLE—Last season Johnny Jackson received a lot of notice as a member of the Texas A&I football team despite the fact he was a redshirt and didn't suit up for a game.

Jackson's publicity came as a result of his performances in the A&I classrooms. The 6-2, 195-pound business law major made all A's during his first year in college. He was on the Dean's List and the highest ranking Javelina player scholastically.

This year, Jackson joins the Javelina varsity unit and A&I head coach Gil Steinke says Jackson has shown signs of becoming just as impressive on the gridiron as he has been in the classroom.

Jackson is a tight end for the Javelinas and has been one of the top prospects at the position in the early drills.

"He has fair ability and excellent effort, and we were pleased with his performance in last weekend's scrimmage," Steinke said. "He's got all the qualifications to make us a good player."

Jackson played high school football and basketball at Rockport-Fulton. He was captain of the school's football and basketball teams, and received all-district mention.

He has received a Central Power and Light scholarship at A&I.

Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Jackson of Rockport.

"Did I, old man?" asked the other hunter. "Awfully sorry. Do have a shot at mine over there."—Grit.

DISABLED WORKERS SHOULD NOT DELAY IN APPLYING FOR S. S.

Workers who become disabled before they are 65 should not delay in applying for disability benefits according to H. M. Cleveland, district manager, of the Corpus Christi social security office.

"Although benefits are not paid until the seventh month of disability, applying early will allow the worker plenty of time to submit the necessary documents," said Cleveland. The worker should be prepared to furnish the names and addresses of the hospitals and doctors who have treated him for his impairment. He should also have available his income tax return or his Withholding Tax Statement for the year just ended. If he has children under 18, or 18 to 22 attending school, their birth certificates will also be needed.

Get in touch with your social security office soon if you wish to file for disability benefits or for any other type of benefit. The office is located at 1802 South Staples St., Corpus Christi, Texas. You may call them at 883-5511.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yoles, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

MARIHUANA RESEARCH

One point often overlooked in the rising controversies over mind-affecting drugs and their abuse and misuse is the need for research to know for sure what these compounds are and what they do.

Nothing better illustrates this than the case of marihuana.

We have far from enough research evidence to enable sound judgments of its effects particularly over a long term.

The lack of a uniform compound or standardized product has been a primary reason for our relative lack of real knowledge about the long-term physical and psychological effects of marihuana use.

Marihuana heretofore used in research has come largely from materials confiscated by the government. Because methods of harvesting and storage, climatic conditions during growth, and the place of origin chiefly determine the potency of the natural product, the seized material is usually of uncertain quality and potency. Thus, researchers have had to work with uncertain, highly variable materials.

This is why the National Institute of Mental Health has gone to the very beginning to produce uniform synthetic and natural marihuana compounds for research study.

Contracts have been awarded to make purified extracts suitable for research; to develop methods of artificially producing tetrahydrocannabinol (THC)—the substance believed to be the active compound of marihuana; to find methods of analyzing and more precisely identifying the chemicals in marihuana that are active during use; and to produce sufficient quantities of THC for research needs.

Research organizations in North Carolina, Massachusetts and Mississippi, among others, are producing synthetic and natural marihuana for research.

The road to full knowledge of marihuana which we still have to travel is alone one, but we are beginning to march down it.

The gray whale has been protected by international treaty since 1937.

IT'S IN THE CARDS. Using a magnifying glass, an inspector checks the accuracy of face register and printing quality of playing cards at an Ohio plant. Inspection frequently requires as much as 15 minutes a sheet on random samples.

The Kinsey Report

When I was a reporter in Chicago, I always got a kick out of interviewing movie stars, world renowned scientists, authors and artists, high ranking government officials and statesmen and other persons whose names were known throughout the world.

Some of my newspaper colleagues acted bored when assigned to such interviews but I always enjoyed meeting famous people and having the opportunity to visit with them and get to know them — at least slightly.

During the past few years I have had few opportunities to meet famous persons, but last weekend I at least got to see a couple of well known men in the lobby of a Houston motel. Mrs. K and I had gone there to make it our headquarters while seeing the Houston Astros play the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

On Saturday afternoon I noticed a lot of "theatrical-looking" people in the lobby, including two shaggy-haired photographers shooting pictures all over the place. I looked around but didn't see any movie star or famous person whose face was familiar to me.

Finally, I walked into the gift shop to browse around and asked a girl clerk what the excitement was all about. "Oh, didn't you know, they're having a reception for TV singer Jack Jones and the Houston airline stewardess he's going to marry," she explained. "In fact, you walked right past him."

"My heavens," I said facetiously, "just think, I could have touched him."

"I'd have done more than touch him if I'd gotten that close," the girl replied. "I would at least have gotten his autograph and I might have kissed him on the cheek."

The second well known person I saw was Walter Alston, manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Early Sunday morning, while I was sitting in the lobby reading a paper, Alston accompanied a young man (probably one of the Los Angeles players) to the lobby to await arrival of the airport bus.

I have no idea what the situation was but it was obvious that Alston and the young man were not on friendly terms. They sat side by side for awhile waiting for the bus, neither saying a word. Shortly before the bus arrived, Alston reached into his billfold, extracted several bills and handed them to the young man who said nothing.

Naturally, I imagined all sorts of things: if the youth was a baseball player, maybe he had violated the curfew rule since a game was coming up Sunday afternoon. Maybe he played poorly in the Saturday night game, or loafed, or ignored some signal.

At any rate, the tall, quiet, gray haired Alston was seeing to it that the young man boarded the bus to the airport, presumably to get on a plane and head back to Los Angeles. I'll probably never know.

NEWS for OUTDOORSMEN

by VERN SANFORD

Despite some thoughts to the contrary, the hunter is directly responsible for today's extensive wildlife conservation program. Without him many species now plentiful would be extinct.

Hunters rate the mourning dove as the number one game in the United States. Regardless of whether it is hunted or not, the annual mortality of the mourning dove is between 70 and 80 percent.

This you may not believe, but there are more rifle and pistol ranges in the United States than there are golf courses. Furthermore, shooters outnumber golfers three to one.

Hunters have spent more than $100 million for duck stamps since the passage of the migratory bird-hunting stamp act of 1934. This revenue is used to preserve wetlands for waterfowl habitat.

America's wildlife program has been financed at the rate of $22 per minute for more than 30 years through the Pittman-Robertson Act — a sportsman-supported excise tax.

Hunters spend nearly $300 million a year on automobile travel for gas, oil, tires and maintenance.

A porcupine can destroy two trees in a single night and is known to cause damages ranging from $10 to $100 per acre. He's a busy little fellow!

Sportsmen are said to be the cleanest when it comes to littering, with the least number of offenders. They are responsible for only 6 percent of the litter. Picnickers are blamed for 25 percent and passing motorists for 70 percent.

The National Park idea began with Yellowstone in 1872, but the National Park Service was not created until 1916.

Camping is here to stay. In the national park system alone there are approximately 30,000 camps. During the summer months most of them are filled every night.

When you refer to something big as a "whale" there is good reason. An average adult gray whale weighs about 13 tons and is approximately 35 feet long.

No wonder you see so few porcupines. A female produces only one offspring a year.

While the lobster is no speed demon, he has been known to travel 97 miles in 27 days.

Texas cottontail rabbits weigh only about two pounds each, while the European hare will average nine pounds.

Unlike other birds, the woodcock lays a single clutch of four eggs per season.

Birds which feed on insects have a special membrane on the retina which enables them to see the smallest flying bug.

Pelicans nesting on Great Salt Lake in Utah must fly up to 100 miles a day for fresh water and food.

Fastest of all fish is the sailfish. It has been known to tear off 100 yards of line in three seconds, which indicates a speed of about 70 miles an hour.

Under normal conditions, when a cricket chirps it can be heard for more than a mile.

Camels can go for eight days between drinks.

If you can identify a queen bee, you can safely hold her in your hand for she has no stinger.

That tall giraffe has only seven vertebrae in its neck. A sparrow has 14.

if we ever run out of gas, we've got plenty of sea water.

A new kind of atomic energy may be working for you sooner than you think. Your electricity may come from plants like this, and all they will need for fuel will be a little sea water.

Through the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, Central Power and Light Company and other electric companies have been working for years to harness the energy of nuclear fusion. Science students from all over South Texas, attending a symposium at the University of Texas as guests of CPL, recently heard a progress report. It promises exciting new ways to keep your electric service plentiful and low in price.

As you keep on doubling your use of electricity every ten years or less, you don't have to worry about where your next kilowatt hour is coming from. Today's power plants are fueled with natural gas, and the supply is adequate for the foreseeable future. But the atom will be there when you need it — and in safe, capable hands.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Crickenberger announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rose, to Roy Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. N. Johnson, Jr.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

"Students who receive social security benefits need to notify the Social Security Administration when they have changes in their school attendance," states Edward C. Chamberlain, field representative.

Students must notify the Social Security Administration if they stop attending school, reduce school attendance below full-time or change schools. Failure to report these events cause students to have their benefits stopped or to receive benefits that they are not entitled to, causing hardship on the student and his or her family.

Students also need to get in touch with the social security office if they marry or are legally adopted, if paid by their employer to attend school, or if they earn more than $1080 in a calendar year.

If you have any questions, please get in touch with the social security office located at 1802 Staples Street, Corpus Christi, Texas, telephone number 833-5511.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bully On a Bus

Bus driver Hawkins noticed that one of his passengers, obviously drunk, was getting belligerent toward a young woman. Hoping things would calm down, Hawkins did not interfere.

But things did not calm down. On the contrary, the man climaxed his outburst by giving the woman a vicious kick in the shins.

In due course, she filed a damage suit against the bus company. And a court ruled that the company was indeed liable. The judge said Hawkins had failed to live up to his legal responsibilities as the "man in charge" of the bus.

As a rule, a bus driver has the duty to do some basic policing of his vehicle. When one passenger menaces another, the driver cannot just take refuge in the role of a neutral bystander.

In fact, he may have to take affirmative action not only against grown-up bullies but also against youthful rascals. In another case several teenagers, armed with rubber bands, began firing paper clips around the interior of their school bus.

Again, the driver followed a hands-off policy. But when a girl was struck in the eye and injured, the bus company was held liable in court. The judge said the driver had an affirmative duty to halt this dangerous game.

Nevertheless, since he is not really a policeman, he does not have to go out of his way to search for trouble. Thus:

An intoxicated passenger jabbed a large pin into another man's hip. The indignant victim later demanded damages from the bus company, pointing out that his attacker had been quarrelsome and profane even before thrusting the pin.

But it also appeared that the fellow had been sitting far back in the bus, and that the driver had simply not been aware of his misbehavior. Accordingly, the court found no grounds for placing blame upon the driver.

"His primary duty," said the judge, "is to give his full attention to the operation of the bus. If he concentrates upon this all-important duty, he cannot give attention to the actions of the passengers unless so unusual as to demand it."

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I'm separated from my husband and have gone back to work. What do I do about my tax return this year?

A) If you are not legally separated, you have a choice of filing a joint return with your husband or filing a separate return for yourself. If you are separated under an interlocutory decree of divorce you may also file a joint return.

On a joint return, your income and expenses are combined with your husband's and the tax is figured on these totals. Although you and your husband may reach agreement for each of you to pay a part of the tax, legally you and your husband are each responsible for the whole amount. Should either of you not pay the share agreed upon, the other is liable for the full amount.

On a separate return report just your income and compute the tax on that. However, you must both handle your deductions the same way. If either itemizes, so must the other.

Details on preparing returns for 1970 will be available early in January. If you have any questions after reading the tax instructions contact your local IRS office. They will be glad to help you.

Q) My refund hasn't come and I never heard what happened to it. What should I do?

A) Write your regional IRS service center and ask them to check your refund. Be sure to give your name, address, social security number and date the return was filed. If you have moved since you filed, also give your former address.

If it is more convenient, call your local IRS office about the refund.

Q) What expenses do you count to see if you made a profit on the sale of a home?

A) Typical expenses that can be deducted from the sales price or broker's fees and commissions, advertising costs and legal fees.

Loan charges, such as placement fees or points, may also be added to your other selling costs.

Q) I've been given a fellowship so I can complete work on my graduate degree. Do I have to pay tax on it?

A) Income from a fellowship is usually tax exempt. If you are a candidate for a degree there is no limit on the amount of income you can receive tax-free from a fellowship or scholarship grant.

However, if you teach or perform other services in connection with the award, the portion of the award that represents payment for this work is generally taxable. This rule does not apply if all candidates for the degree, whether they have a fellowship or not, are also required to perform these services.

For additional information send a postcard to your IRS District Director for a free copy of Publication 507, "Tax Information On Scholarships and Fellowships."

Q) I attended the annual meeting of my church group and was paid for part of my travel expenses. Do I have to pay tax on this? Also, am I allowed any charitable deduction for my other expenses?

A) If you are attending the meeting as an official delegate of your church, and not solely as a member, the expenses paid for you will usually not be taxable. If any portion of the expenses paid cover the expenses of a family member that portion is taxable income.

A delegate may deduct as a charitable contribution his unreimbursed expenses. Include travel costs, meals and lodging during the meeting but not personal expenses such as sightseeing or side trips.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I just sold my house and had to pay points to get financing for the buyer. How do I handle this cost for tax purposes?

A) Add what you paid in points to your other selling costs. This is a factor in determining gain or loss on the sale.

Points paid by the seller to get financing for the buyer may not be deducted as interest.

For more details on the sale of a home, send a post card to your IRS district office and ask for Publication 523, Tax Information on Selling Your Home. This booklet is free.

Q) Instead of shutting down business for not paying taxes why don't you let them stay open so they can earn the money to pay what they owe?

A) Before enforcement action is taken the taxpayer is given ample opportunity to meet his tax obligations. Only when all attempts to gain the taxpayer's cooperation fail, does IRS take enforcement action to meet its responsibilities under the law.

Many times IRS is forced to close a business for not paying taxes when the owners use the taxes withheld from employee wages for their own purposes and do not deposit them with the government as required. Unless the business cooperates in such a situation, the longer it is allowed to continue operation, the larger the tax liability will become.

Q) I want to buy a foreign car while I'm vacationing in Europe this summer. Do I have to pay an excise tax on it when I bring it home with me?

A) Yes, the manufacturer's excise tax of 7 percent applies to imported cars, new or used, that are purchased while on vacation abroad and brought back to the U.S. before Jan. 1, 1971. For details see Publication 707, "Excise Tax Information on Imported Foreign-Made Automobiles," available free by sending a post card to your IRS district office.

Q—When I filed my tax return earlier this year I forgot to deduct some expenses I had in operating my farm. Is it too late to do it?

A—Records that support items on an income tax return should be kept at least until the statute of limitations expires. Ordinarily this is three years from the date the return was due.

Other records as those on property acquisitions, capital improvements and the like should be kept much longer. For example, if you sell a house you bought in 1940, you should have the records to establish what it cost when you acquired it, and the cost of any improvements you made.

A—No, changes in a tax return can generally be made within three years from the filing deadline. To make the change, obtain a copy of Form 1040X and Schedule "F" (Form 1040) from your IRS District Office.

Q) Our first baby is due next month. When can we start taking an extra exemption?

A) When the child is born you may make a change in your withholding. To do this, another withholding certificate, Form W-4, must be filed with your employer.

Keep good records of your medical expenses this year as well as reimbursements you receive from medical insurance. This information will be helpful if you decide it's to your advantage to itemize deductions on your 1970 income tax return.

Q—What records do I need to support a deduction for a theft loss?

A—Your records should show the date the theft was discovered, the cost basis and fair market value of the stolen property, the amount of the insurance or any compensation received or recoverable, and proof of your ownership. You must be able to establish that the property was actually stolen and not lost or mislaid.

The amount of each theft loss of non-business property is deductible to the extent it exceeds $100. The loss must be reduced by insurance or other compensation received.

Q—I want to get rid of some old checks and bills. What ones should I keep for tax purposes?

A—Records that support items on an income tax return should be kept at least until the statute of limitations expires. Ordinarily this is three years from the date the return was due.

Other records as those on property acquisitions, capital improvements and the like should be kept much longer. For example, if you sell a house you bought in 1940, you should have the records to establish what it cost when you acquired it, and the cost of any improvements you made.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. Ninth Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—Under the guidelines of the Director of Selective Service regarding the classification of conscientious objectors, do political, sociological, or philosophical views, or a personal moral code now make one eligible for classification as a conscientious objector?

A—No. Such persons are ineligible.

Q—Is this the advice the Director gives local boards?

A—It is. His criterion says such persons consist of two groups: (1) those with beliefs of religious, moral, or ethical nature, but whose beliefs are not deeply held, and (2) those whose objections to war does not rest at all upon moral, ethical, or religious principles, but instead rests solely upon consideration of policy, pragmatism or expediency.

Q—I understand there are two classifications for conscientious objectors. What's the difference?

A—Class I-A-O covers the man who objects to combatant training and service in the armed forces; I-O covers the man who is conscientiously opposed to both combatant and noncombatant service in the armed forces.

Q—If a man claims I-O, but the board doesn't think he's provided sufficient evidence to warrant the I-O, can it compromise and give him the I-A-O?

A—No. He should be placed in I-A-O only when his objections encompass only the combatant training and service.

Q—I understand that after a recent Supreme Court decision the Director of Selective Service stated that he was going to issue some guidelines to draft boards for the classification of conscientious objectors. Has this been done?

A—Yes.

Q—Is there anything in these guidelines about objection to a particular war?

A—Yes.

Q—Is conscientious objection going to be allowed on this ground?

A—No. A man who desires to choose the war in which he will participate is not a conscientious objector under the law. That is the Director's advice to draft boards. A man's objection must be to all wars rather than to a specific war.

Q—I understand some conscientious objectors believe in a theocratic or spiritual war between the powers of good and evil. Do the criteria issued by the Director say anything about this?

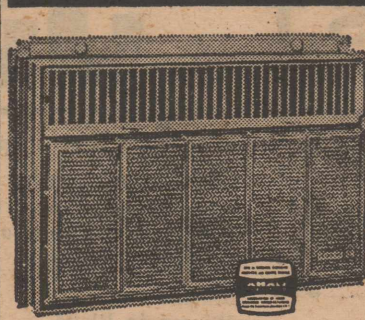

A—Yes. This belief, advises the Director, does not constitute a willingness on the part of such a conscientious objector claimant to participate in "war" within the meaning of the selective service law. Therefore, such a belief would not bar the claimant from classification as a conscientious objector.

CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

We call it Vega.
We also call it "the little car that does everything well."
Because it does.

Everything? Everything.

Vega moves well, stops well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, passes well, travels well, parks well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a talented little car.

In our highway tests, Vega has been getting gas mileage in the neighborhood of the little imports, which isn't a bad neighborhood.

Yet unlike your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The engine is a specially designed overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. It turns slowly and quietly at turnpike speeds, with power to spare.

Disc brakes are standard in the front. So are bucket seats, except on the truck.

How we doing so far?

Numbers speak louder than words. The wheelbase is 97 inches. Total length is just under 170 inches, or nearly four feet shorter than a full-size Chevrolet.

Height of the coupe is just 50 inches, nine inches lower than the leading import.

Width: a nice stable 5 1/2 feet. Weight: 2,190 lbs. for the sedan. Engine displacement: 140 cubic inches.

Fuel economy: about 25 mpg, with the standard engine and transmission, in our highway tests.

Horsepower: 90. You can order 110. (80 and 93 hp, SAE Net.)

Seating capacity: 4 adults. What it all adds up to is a lot of little car.

Three cars and a truck. Vega turned out so well that we couldn't turn out just one.

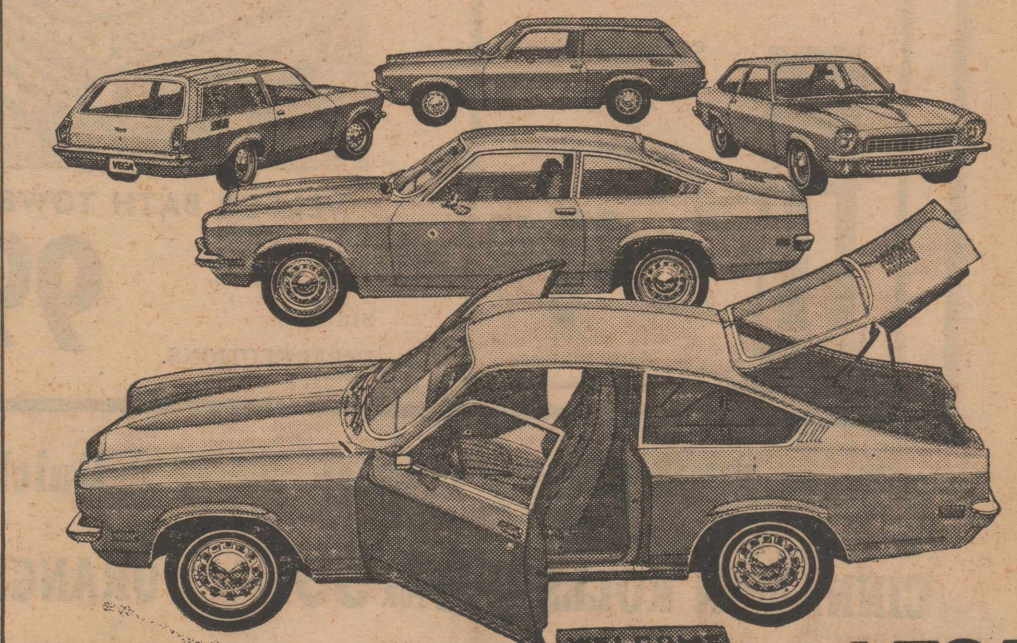

So we're turning out four: the sporty little hatchback coupe shown open and closed in the foreground below; the sedan, on the right; the Kamback wagon, on the left; and the little panel truck, in the rear.

Oh, and a special GT version of the coupe and wagon which we'll show you later on.

September 10th is Opening Day.

All 6,300 Chevrolet dealers are handling Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to see and drive one.

Chevy's new little car is open for business. Look into it.
