LBJ Presses Peace Efforts

The SDN Column

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, a regional organization which includes just about all of Texas from Fort Worth west, is observing its 50th anniversary, and it is hardly necessary to call attention to the fact that many changes have occurred in the region since the WTCC was organized.

The WTCC, of course, is identified with many advancements from 1918 to the present, and undoubtedly will be involved with much more progress in the future.

The operations of the WTCC itself, however, point up contrast of the "then and now" in transportation. Col. C. T. Herring of Amarillo was the first President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. To reach Mineral Wells, the site of a board meeting that year, Col. Herring boarded a train at Amarillo and rode to Fort Worth. There, he changed trains and rode another one to Millsap, where he caught a "jitney" to Mineral Wells.

Today, the same ground can be covered in less than two hours — that's without touching the ground itself.

This and many other recollections of days past in the life of the WTCC are included in the March-April issue of "This Is West Texas," the WTCC magazine.

Also recalled is a 27-year effort that finally came to a climax when Texas Technological College was established at Lubbock. And, did you know that it was first proposed in the legislature as West Texas A&M College?

The almanac lost face over the Easter weekend. Several weeks ago it was mentioned in this column that the almanac predicted a late winter storm for Easter, with snow extending well into Northwest Texas. It failed to move in as predicted many months ago, but the weather maps those TV people use looked surprisingly similar to the almanac's forecast as late as Friday night. A good portion of the nation did see some snow, but apparently the lower reaches of Colorado was as close as it came to West Texas. Of course the almanac had hedged some by predicting that the last killing frost of the season in this area would come around April 1. —WACIL McNAIR.

Rap Brown To Be Sent To Maryland

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Preparations were made today for transferring Rap Brown from Virginia to Maryland where the Negro is charged with inciting to riot and arson.

Brown's lawyer, Philip Hirschkop, asked the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday to drop appeals of extradition proceedings against Brown. Judge John Butzner granted the request, which marks an end to Brown's seven-month legal effort to avoid being sent to Maryland.

Hirschkop notified U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Merhige Jr. that the appeal to the Supreme Court of habeas corpus decisions by Merhige and upheld by the circuit court, was also being dropped. Merhige promptly instructed Virginia Asst. Atty. Gen. Reno Harp III to move ahead with the arrangements for sending Brown to Maryland.

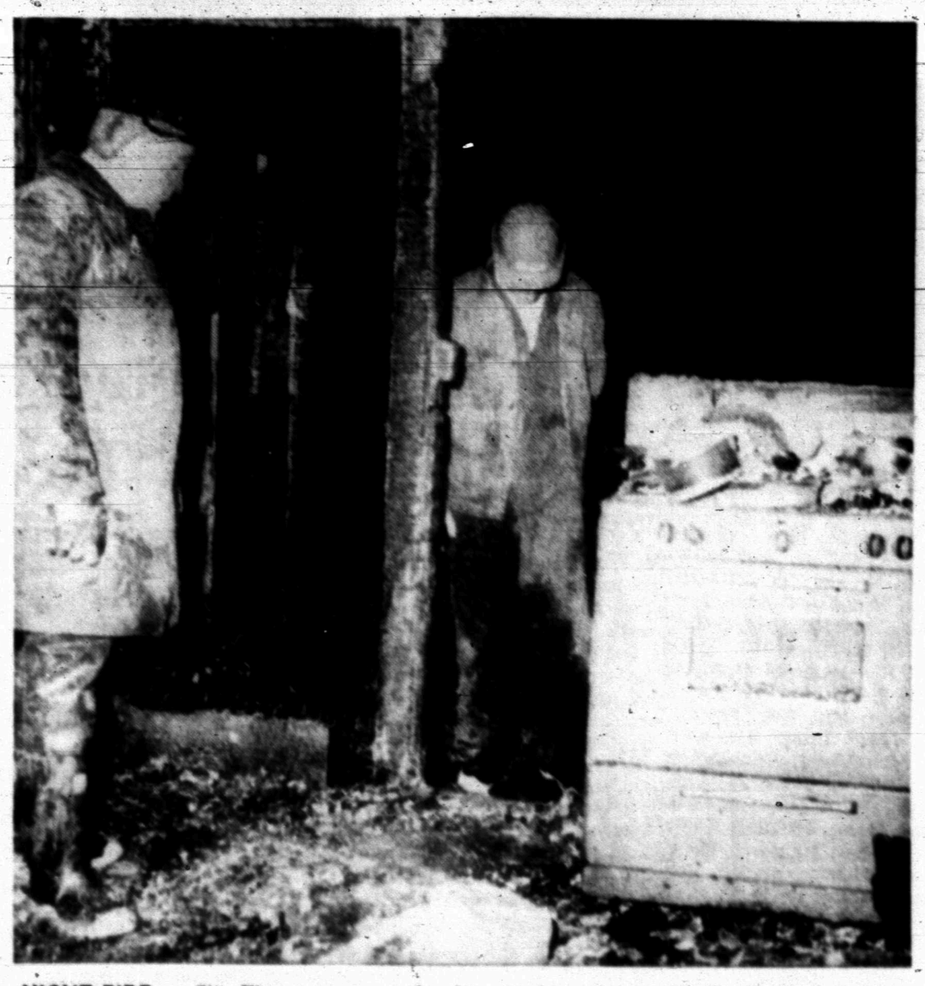

Harp said Monday night no specific date has been set for moving Brown but it will be "at the earliest possible time that it can be arranged."

Lawyer William Kunstler said that "We felt in view of Brown's health we'd be far better off to go back to Maryland and ask for bond." He said Brown had lost 45 pounds during a recent hunger strike.

Brown was originally arrested in Virginia on a fugitive warrant. He was freed on bond pending an appeal of a habeas corpus hearing on the condition he remain in the custody of his lawyer in New York's Southern District.

Merhige ordered the $10,000 personal recognizance bond forfeited when Brown traveled to California in February.

Last Thursday, the appellate court upheld Merhige's bond revocation and his refusal to grant Brown a full habeas corpus hearing.

NIGHT FIRE — City Firemen survey the damage in a house at 3009 Avenue Y that was destroyed by fire which was discovered about 1:40 a.m. today. The blaze destroyed all of Royce Clanton's furniture, which he had moved into the house the previous day. The Clanton family had planned to occupy the house today.

Shipp Rites Held Today

Funeral service for Joseph Espert Shipp was set for 3 p.m. today at the East Side Church of Christ.

Mr. Shipp, 79, died Sunday afternoon in a Lubbock hospital.

Don Browning was to officiate at the funeral service. He was to be assisted by Richard Williams. Burial was to be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell - Seale Funeral Home.

Fire Early Today Destroys Dwelling

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a house at 3009 Avenue Y early this morning, burning all of the furniture and household goods that Mr. and Mrs. Royce Clanton had moved into it Monday.

Lynn Henderson, the next door neighbor, said Clanton had recently purchased the house and had just completed moving furniture into it, although the Clanton family did not spend the night there.

Firemen received the call at 1:40 a.m. today, but flames were shooting high into the air by the time they arrived. The alarm was sounded by Police Patrolman Jim Eggleston, who spotted the fire as he patrolled the neighborhood.

Firemen said the blaze apparently began in the back part of the house. Flames burned the back wall, the roof at the rear of the house and spread throughout the interior, causing widespread damage in every room.

Although the blaze was not detected in time to save the house, firemen were able to prevent the flames from spreading to houses next door on both sides.

Confers With US Military

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson, pressing Hanoi for an early and serious response to Vietnam peace efforts, is also bearing down on military problems in conferences at the U.S. Pacific command post.

Johnson's schedule today centered on a visit to the hilltop headquarters of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, the Pacific commander in chief who will retire in July. The President said he wanted to talk about the military situation in Vietnam with Sharp and his designated successor, Adm. John S. McCain.

The President gave North Vietnam a new peace prod Monday, soon after arriving in Honolulu.

As friends and critics vied for attention with shouts, chants and placards—the friends clearly were more numerous—Johnson reviewed peace efforts in an address from the steps of Iolani Palace, seat of the Hawaiian government. These efforts focus at this stage on finding a mutually acceptable preliminary meeting site.

Declaring "precious time is being lost," Johnson said:

"For us, this is not a propaganda exercise. We have sent serious and considered messages aimed at bringing about the earliest posible contact.

"What is needed today is an equally serious reply, reacting to our proposals for neutral sites or offering additional suggestions of neutral capitals where both of us have representatives and communications."

Several hours after Johnson spoke the official North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan said the United States showed "lack of good will" in turning down two sites Hanoi has proposed, Warsaw and Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

A Nhan Dan article broadcast from Hanoi flung back in the President's face his offer in the past to send U.S. negotiators anywhere at any time for talks.

"This statement is big-sounding and allows no misunderstanding," the article said. "Yet, after making many such statements the Johnson administration now changes tune."

While here, Johnson said, he would discuss what he termed the twins paths to peace with the top military command and, on Wednesday, with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea, a somewhat restive ally concerned about American steadfastness in the Pacific area.

Park was flying in from Seoul tonight.

Johnson is expected to remain in Hawaii until Thursday. He is living about 10 miles outside the city at the seaside estate of the widow of the late millionaire industrialist Henry J. Kaiser.

Hog Killing Continuing

CORNING, Iowa (AP) — Nearly 14,000 hogs weighing more than three million pounds have been killed in a campaign for higher prices, the National Farmers Organization says.

Oren Staley of Rea, Mo., said Monday the hog killing campaign will "go on as long as necessary" to induce meat packers to sign NFO contracts for guaranteed prices for livestock.

They will not be stopped, he said, because of protests from some humane society officials and church leaders.

Staley said hog kills have been carried out in 11 states and in general they have made the public more sympathetic to NFO goals. The public, at first antagonistic, now realizes the hog kills "are a symbol of the economic plight of the farmer," he said.

The farm group is seeking price increases of about three cents a pound for hogs and sheep and about seven cents a pound for cattle. Its members have been holding livestock off the market for about two months to try to induce processors to sign contracts for purchase of animals at no less than the prices set by NFO.

Staley said 13,973 hogs valued at about $630,000 have been shot and buried in protest demonstrations in Georgia, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Michigan.

New Residents To Cast Early Ballots

The Scurry County clerk's office will be open during the noon hour each day until after the May 4 primary election, according to Beverly Ainsworth, county clerk.

She pointed out some changes in the law which pertain to persons who moved into the county within the past six months.

She said that, according to the law passed last year, such persons now may vote for state and national candidates, although they still are barred from voting for local office seekers unless they have resided in the county for the required 6-month period prior to the election.

"New residents must cast their ballots at the county clerk's office during the period for absentee voting," said Mrs. Ainsworth.

She said this law pertains to persons who moved into the county on or after Nov. 4, 1967. They can vote anytime during office hours between now and April 30.

"New residents who wish to vote in the state race must meet the state residence law which requires one year's residence in Texas," the clerk added.

Under the new law, no one who has resided in the county less than six months may vote at a regular polling place, and all voting by such persons must be done through the county clerk's office. The voter must appear in person at the clerk's office to vote. Sick or disabled voters and those temporarily absent from the county may obtain a ballot by mail.

Persons living in Snyder who registered in the county of their former residence must have their registration transferred through the county tax assessor - collector's office before they vote. Persons who have moved to smaller towns or areas in the county are not required to transfer their registration, but they should have their voter registration certificate with them when they apply for a ballot in the county clerk's office. However, if a voter has lost his certificate, he will be permitted to vote after making an affidavit of that fact.

Mrs. Ainsworth also reminded local residents that persons who have moved from one voting precinct to another in the county since registering also must have their registration transferred through the tax assessor - collector's office by April 29 in order to vote in the May 4 primary. They will vote on election day at the regular polling place for the voting precinct of their present residence.

Voters registered in some other county who moved into Scurry County prior to Nov. 4 also will vote a full ballot at the regular polling place on election day, but they also must have their registration transferred by April 29 if they live in town.

Horse Is Standout

BLUFF, Utah (AP) — Burtin Pierce's horse is a standout at night. There's a red flasher on the tail and a light up front. The trading post operator and justice of the peace says the lights are good protection from cowboys driving back to the ranch after a Saturday night in this southeastern Utah cowtown of 70 residents. The lights operate from a battery on the saddle.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A housewife recently asked who should say the grace when a clergyman is a guest at the table. She wondered if a clergyman would feel "put to work" if he were asked, or would he feel slighted if he weren't. Count me as one Presbyterian minister who would prefer to pray along, while my host recites the blessing. I sometime suspect that the family is not accustomed to saying grace (some may not even know how) but they feel it should be said because I am present. In that case, if I am asked to "lead the prayer," I proceed without delay to save embarrassment.

CHICAGO MINISTER

DEAR ABBY: I certainly do not feel slighted if this honor does not come to me. A clergyman has no more influence with the Lord than the business manhost who sits across the table from him.

H. C. W., D. D. Associate Minister Emeritus) PARK AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH, N. Y. C.

DEAR ABBY: After 41 years as a pastor, I concede to the wishes of the host. If he asks me to give the thanks, I do. If he offers the thanks, I thank God that here is a man who is taking his rightful place as the head of his house, and I pray that more men would do likewise.

Sincerely, W. H. S. (PORTLAND, ORE.)

DEAR ABBY: According to the Orthodox Jewish Law the host offers the benediction (blessing before the meal) regardless of who else is present. However, the blessing at the end of the meal should preferably be led by a guest, since it gives him the opportunity to bless the host in his prayer.

L. M. K. (DOVER, N. J.)

DEAR ABBY: For a host to ask a clergyman to say grace at a meal when the host normally does not, is hypocrisy, not courtesy.

REV. D. N., FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF WESTERLO, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: I say the minister should always be asked to say the grace. As a minister, I have been humiliated on more than one occasion by being treated as an ordinary guest.

Very truly yours,

P. E. I. (MARTINSVILLE, VA.)

DEAR ABBY: I don't care WHO says "grace" before a meal, but whoever says it should say it with sincerity. I have heard people race thru the grace with such speed that it means nothing.

Both Wellington and Newberry were apprehended by Sheriff's Authorities and both posted bond.

The guilty plea was entered by Terry Davis of Lamesa. He tore a towel rack from a rest room wall in a cafe in the east part of town Feb. 22 and was charged with malicious mischief. Absentee Voting Is Underway Here

Absentee voting began yesterday on the third floor of the Scurry County Courthouse, with persons who will be out of town on the day of the May 4 primary casting their ballots.

Beverly Ainsworth, county clerk, said that absentee voting will continue through April 30.

She urged voters who plan to cast ballots in the election to check their box number on their registration certificate to see if it is in the right Justice Precinct. If there is an error, it should be brought to the attention of the tax office.

A list of boxes for the various Justice Precincts follows:

Precinct 1 — Box 1, Northeast Snyder; Box 2, Cottonwood Flat; Box 3, Ennis Creek; Box 6, Union; Box 8, China Grove; Box 10, Dunn; Box 14, Camp Springs; Box 16, Loyd Mountain; Box 17, Northwest Snyder; Box 18, Southwest Snyder; Box 19, Crowder; Box 20, Southeast Snyder; Box 15, South Snyder.

There are four candidates for constable in Precinct 1. They include Clyde Thomas, A. E. Crowley, Lloyd H. Merritt and Don Vineyard.

Candidates for constable in the other precincts are unopposed.

Mrs. Ainsworth emphasized the difference between Justice Precinct 1 and in Commissioner's Precinct 1.

There are four candidates for Commissioner of Precinct 1 — W. M. (Marion) Dabbs, Eldon Perry, G. B. Williams and William A. (Bill) Vaughan.

There are five boxes in Commissioner's Precinct 1 — Box 1, Northeast Snyder; Box 2, Cottonwood Flat; Box 3, Ennis Creek; Box 14, Camp Springs; and, Box 16, Loyd Mountain.

Qualified voters who live in Commissioners Precinct 1 may cast ballots in both the Commission and Justice (Constable) race. Persons who vote out of boxes 6, 8, 10, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 15 may cast ballots in the Justice (Constable) race, but are not eligible to vote in the commission race for Precinct 1, it was pointed out.

100 Lassies Would Marry John Andrews

DUNDEE, Scotland (AP) — A hundred Scots lassies want to marry John J. Andrews, a 21-year-old California advertising man who is looking for a Scottish bride.

And if they don't match up to his specifications, many of them will be glad to pair up with any other American he can recommend.

Andrews of Newport Beach, Calif., wrote Dundee's mayor last week that an aunt had left him $100,000 on condition he married a Scot.

He asked to be put in touch with blondes or redheads 18 to 27 years old.

Mayor Alex Mackenzie said he has received 100 replies for forwarding to Andrews, most of them from girls in Glasgow.

Suspected Sniper Seems To Vanish

By DON MCKEE
Associated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Deadend clues to a man who vanished without a trace apparently confronted FBI agents today in their investigation of the sniper slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

False leads multiplied in the hunt for Eric Starvo Galt, a mysterious quiet-talking man whose last known address was a Birmingham rooming house. His former landlord said Monday he had identified drawings shown by FBI agents as resembling Eric Galt.

"It's him," said Peter Cherpes, 72, who runs a two-story Southside boarding house where an Eric Galt lived for six weeks last fall.

Galt's abandoned white Mustang was impounded last Thursday by the FBI in Atlanta. It fit the description of a car seen leaving the scene after King was killed April 4 by a sniper firing from a rooming house in Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis witnesses described the suspected assassin, who registered as John Willard at a rooming house opposite King's motel, as about six feet and sandy-haired and "a clean, neat man."

No trace of Willard has apparently been found.

An FBI alert for Eric Starvo Galt in a white Mustang was issued in Florida last Thursday, but was canceled. However, the FBI has continued a search for Galt's whereabouts or clues to his past.

After Cherpes disclosed what his boarder said of his work and background, Associated Press inquiries turned up blanks.

Is there a real Eric Starvo Galt? The FBI was asked, but declined comment. Neither would the FBI say why Galt was wanted, though the Florida alert had sought only to spot the man, not arrest him. No warrant had been issued then.

The man known as Eric Galt had said he was employed at a Mississippi shipyard, but there was no record of him. He claimed he held Louisiana driver's license six years ago, but no record was found in the files.

There are mysteries within the mystery: Galt left the Birmingham boarding house last Oct. 7, saying he had a ship job in Mobile, Ala. but in December, he turned in the keys to his safety deposit box at the Birmingham Trust National Bank.

In addition, a duplicate driver's license for Eric Starvo Galt was mailed to the Birmingham address March 1, nearly seven months after he left, and it apparently vanished. The Birmingham post office indicated no forwarding address was left for Galt.

"The papers said he went down March 1 to ask for a duplicate license and he put the same address, which was wrong. He wasn't here," said Cherpes, who recalls Galt as "nice and friendly, quiet."

What Do You Want In A New Home?

Before building or buying a new house, it's a good idea for all members of the family to sit down together and decide what they want in a home.

Shelter, a place to eat, sleep, relax and entertain are broad, obvious needs that will vary greatly in the requirements of individual families. Beyond the necessities — the things you must have in a home — are dividends of good living in the things you want but could do without.

Separate checklists of the things the family needs and would like in a home can be extremely helpful in househunting or developing satisfactory plans. They make it easier to evaluate houses of different prices in terms of the life they would make possible for the family.

In today's servantless homes, easy upkeep is usually highly desirable, and extensive use of an easily cleaned surfacing material like ceramic tile will eliminate much household drudgery. However, while a home with a fully tiled playroom might be very attractive and worth a premium to a younger family, a playroom might have no priority at all with an older one.

Apart from the house itself, checklists should cover what the family needs and desires in neighborhood and community. What about schools? Recreational facilities? Roads? How near are shopping centers? Proximity to schools is vital to a family with young children while the school assessment may be the only "scholastic" concern of a family without them. One family may want to be close to shopping centers and recreational facilities; another as far as possible away from them.

Buying or building a house is an important family step. It calls for a careful decision based on thoughtful analysis of available possibilities, not only on the ability to arrange financing and meet a price.

Fall Fashions Moderate

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Most Italian designers settle for a moderate line in the ready-to-wear collections for fall and winter they began showing in Florence today.

Emilio Pucci was the starter with a parade of beach and patio wear all in terry cloth, given status with the beautiful prints for which he is famous.

Most designers played safe by producing winterweight, budget priced versions of the lines they successfully showed for spring and summer.

Just above the knee was the average length.

The '30s were evoked but not overplayed. Coats with contrasting or matching skirts and long suit dresses worn belted were about as far as most designers were prepared to go.

Lots of attention was directed to the waist area with seaming, cinching belts, pockets, buttons and buckles all contributing to give a more contoured and curvy look to the figure. Colors were quiet.

Travelin' Food For Teen Fare

Music that bends the mind (expands experiences) and food that is appealing and satisfying could keep teenage Americans blissful for eons.

We think we've hit on a superlative sandwich for teens on the go. It's filling, energy-giving, nutritious, and delicious. What's more, it's a move-with-you sandwich for out-of-hand eating. A perfect choice for post dance parties, informal get-togethers or lunches.

Stack it up, and you'll see four knids of beans in a tangy barbecue sauce, form the foundation for this tower of flavor. Stir in onion for tempo, celery crescents for crunch and pile the mixture high on hamburger bun halves rimmed with green pepper circles. Top the protein-packed melange off with a bacon slice, and this colorful combo is ready for the ever-moving life of teenage America. Frosty, short shakes in favorite flavors, and a basket of corn chips make quick work out of party refreshments.

VAGABOND BEANWICH

2 slices bacon, cut in half
½ cup sliced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 can (1 pound) barbecue beans
4 large green pepper rings
2 hamburger buns or English muffins, split and toasted

In saucepan, cook bacon until crisp. Remove; pour off all but 1 tablespoon drippings. Cook celery and onion in drippings until tender. Add beans. Heat; stir now and then. Place green pepper ring on each bun half; fill with bean mixture. Top with bacon. Makes 4 open-face sandwiches.

Alfalfa, an important livestock feed plant, can grow taller than a man and spread its roots as deep as 10 or 15 feet.

Has Bad News

BOSTON (AP) — Mayor Kevin H. White says it's time the white community listened "to the bad news" from Negro sections. "Many segments of the white community are being repelled" by the statements of Negro groups, he said. "But I don't think they have a right to be repelled. The white has no inherent right to hear only good news —it's time we heard the bad news."

Miss Tharp Hostess To Music Club

The Allegro Junior Music Club held their April meeting in the home of Janna Tharp. President Dee Peveler called the meeting to order with the junior pledge, collect and hymn.

A brief business meeting was held with Miss Peveler telling about the achievement record book. She presented a program by reviewing a very timely article taken from Junior Keynotes magazine, written by Lynn Freeman Olsen, which took a good look at preparing for a public performance. Many methods of memorizing were brought out along with the etiquette of performance.

HIGHLY UNUSUAL ROLE !

Political Realities Lend To Delay Of Spending Proposal

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's decision to delay indefinitely his address to Congress on a program dealing with the racial crisis is largely a reaction to political realities.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has made clear that Johnson would have trouble winning approval of massive new spending programs when budget cutbacks are being pushed in line with efforts to raise taxes.

But some Congress members, including Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Charles H. Percy of Illinois, as well as GOP Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, have criticized the "business as usual" attitude that sees Congress taking its regular Easter recess.

Actually, the House is taking much more of a holiday than the Senate, which returns to work Wednesday with major measures on the agenda such as the school breakfast program, military procurement and the anticrime bill.

While House leaders insist they can only schedule business as fast as committees approve bills, the fact is that three- and four-day-a-week sessions cut down the time committees can have enough members present to meet.

In this atmosphere, the major effect of a Johnson speech to Congress would probably have been a psychological one, to get action on parts of his program pending in committees.

But there are signs that Congress is becoming more receptive to the need for programs aimed at helping the poor in urban slums and rural areas.

One is the House vote on the open-housing bill, particularly the surprisingly large amount of support from younger Republican congressmen who represent predominantly white suburban districts.

It is this group which has frequently in the past year determined the outcome of fights over urban measures, helping for example to put over funds for the model-cities program while sharply cutting back on rent supplements.

In the Senate, meanwhile, a bipartisan coalition handed the "establishment" a rare setback in rejecting a compromise money bill that cut funds for the impacted areas school aid program, summer jobs and the preschool Head Start program.

While some rurally oriented members joined in providing the 54-24 majority because of opposition to the impacted areas cuts the vote is significant as the first one since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the resulting riots.

Even if the House wins the fight and the extra money is eventually eliminated, it will have been put on notice that the Senate is not going to follow demands for economy to the point of neglecting critical areas.

This week, a similar fight is expected when the Senate votes whether to approve its Agriculture Committee's proposed elimination of a proposed three-year, $96 million extension of the school lunch program to day-care and recreation centers throughout the summer months.

The House approved the new program with no effort to cut or eliminate it, and initial debate indicates it has strong Senate support.

Junior Editors Quiz on DIAMONDS

QUESTION: How is a diamond cut for jewelry?

ANSWER: A diamond in its raw state is a hard, rough-looking and clouded bit of stone, usually eight-sided. To turn this crude object into the most beautiful and exciting of jewels, highly trained experts must go to work. The dull surface must be polished and little flat facets or sides must be cut, which tend to split the light rays into the different rainbow colors, thus sending out those flashes of pure colored fire which make the diamond so unique and beautiful. A shape often given to a diamond is shown at top. The rough stone has had a piece sawed off. Facets are then ground below until the finished effect is as at right. To grind a diamond, the hardest of substances, one must use a revolving iron wheel coated with diamond dust. The tool in the small picture is holding a diamond against such a wheel. Exact adjustments make it possible to cut just the angle required. In the large picture, a carefully trained Dutch girl is using another kind of tool. She knows exactly what she's doing, for the Dutch city of Amsterdam is a world center for the industry of diamond cutting.

Commissioners Order El Paso Redistricting

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — El Paso County commissioners court Monday ordered redistricting of commissioner precincts by Aug. 12. The county's largest precinct in area has fewer than 9,000 voters. The most heavily populated precinct has more than 33,000. The action followed the U.S. Supreme Court's verdict extending the "one-man, one-vote" rule to the county level.

Torrid Twins Take Fifth Road Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Spring has been a little late this year in Minnesota, but a heat wave is on the way.

Big Bob Allison and the torrid Twins are coming home.

While temperatures hovered around the freezing mark in Minneapolis-St. Paul Monday night, Allison continued his early-season hitting binge with two doubles and a triple at Baltimore as the unbeaten Twins whipped the Orioles 6-3 for their fifth straight road victory.

Allison led American League hitters with a .550 average and the Twins topped the AL standings as they headed back to Minnesota for Wednesday's home opener against Washington.

The Senators blanked California 7-0 behind Camilo Pascual's six-hit, nine-strikeout pitching and the Oakland A's downed the New York Yankees 6-3 in American League day games. Detroit and Boston were rained out and Cleveland and Chicago were not scheduled.

Allison doubled in the second inning, tripled in the fourth and doubled again in the sixth—giving him eight hits in nine at-bats—before going out in his last two trips to the plate. The former Kansas fullback, who drove in one run and scored two, has gone 11-for-20 over-all, with four doubles, one triple and one homer.

Right-hander Dave Boswell overcame a shaky start and held the Orioles to four hits. Tony Oliva's seventh inning single broke a 3-3 tie and Harmon Killebrew singled home two insurance runs in the ninth.

At Washington, Pascual became the only active American League pitcher to reach the 2,000 strikeout mark when he fanned the Angels' Chuck Hinton in the fourth inning.

The 34-year-old right-hander, who missed the last three weeks of the 1967 season after breaking his left ankle in a game to California, finished the day with a total of 2,007 strikeouts and the 33rd shutout of his career.

Ken McMullen and Sam Bowens homered for the Senators who wrapped up the victory with a five-run burst in the fifth.

Ramon Webster drilled a triple and homer, driving in three runs, and rookie Reggie Jackson delivered two more with a double and homer as the A's pounded Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre.

John "Blue Moon" Odom checked New York on five hits until the ninth, when Tom Tresh clipped him for a two-run homer.

Sam Paces Celtic Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sam Jones isn't ready for a rocking chair just yet.

The 34-year-old sharpshooting guard of the Boston Celtics may need a breather now and then, but he's as tough as ever in the clutch. If you don't believe it, ask the Philadelphia 76ers.

Philadelphia was all set Monday night to finish off the Celtics in their best of 7 game Eastern final in the National Basketball Association. The 76ers led 3-1 and were at home before a sellout crowd of 15,202. Everything pointed to a Boston fade out.

Something went wrong with the script. Boston won 122-104. Old and tired Sam Jones fired in 37 points.

"When you're down 3-1," said Old Sam after he finished shooting up the 76ers, "You just pull up your socks and get the job done."

Jones connected on 15 of 27 from the field and threw a natural at the foul line—7 for 1. He broke the back of the team he describes as the strongest physically he's ever seen.

So, the series headed back to Boston for the sixth game Wednesday night. A seventh, if necessary is slated for Philadelphia Friday night.

Jones didn't put down the defending champions all by himself. John Havlicek poured in 29 points and handed out 10 assists.

Peugeot Grabs Third Victory

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Zbigniew Nowicki and Patrick Cliff of Kenya didn't finish first but they turned out to be the best of the seven teams that completed the gruelling 16th East African Safari Motor Rally.

Peter Huth and Ian Grant of Kenya finished first by 15 minutes Monday, but Nowicki and Cliff won on points.

The winners, both car sales managers, gave Peugeot its third straight victory. Nowicki, who has driven in all 16 safaris, also won in 1963.

Huth and Grant completed the 3,075-mile, four-day grind through the mountains of Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania in a Ford Lotus Cortina that no longer had a clutch and whose windshield was held fast by string.

Welter Title Bout Tonight

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Welterweight champion Curtis Cokes and challenger Willie Ludick of South Africa expect to weigh in at around 146 pounds each for their 15-round title fight tonight.

The fight starts at 9:08 p.m. (CST) at which time television over 28 stations in the nation will start.

There will be no radio coverage.

Most observers look for the bout to go the full 15 rounds, with Cokes favored about 9 to 5 to win and retain his title in his fourth defense of the crown since he won it in 1966.

The Snyder girls left this morning at 8:30.

Net Stars See Action

Coach Ken McAllister of the Snyder High School tennis team will take the boys who qualified for regional to Abilene today for a practice match with Brownwood, champions of District 4-AAA. The Tigers won District 3-AAA.

John Phillips, the singles champ, tangles with Logan McNatt, defending state champion in Class AAA. The Tiger doubles team of Wayne Anderson and Ronnie Maddux also will see action.

The match begins at 4 p.m. in Fair Park.

San Antonio Back In Texas League

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The eight-team Texas League, with three new cities and stretching from New Mexico to Tennessee, opens a new season tonight.

The league sees the return of 1888 charter member San Antonio after an absence of two years and of Shreveport, La., which joined the league in 1895 but has not been an affiliate for 11 seasons.

The other new city is Memphis, Tenn., long a member of the Southern Association which it quit in 1960.

All Texas League clubs are owned outright or have working agreements with major league teams. The Atlanta Braves moved its Austin, Tex., franchise to Shreveport.

The opening night schedule has El Paso at defending champion Albuquerque, Arkansas at Memphis, Shreveport at Dallas-Fort Worth and Amarillo at San Antonio. The 140-game schedule ends Sept. 2.

The league will be split into two divisions with Albuquerque, El Paso, Amarillo and San Antonio in the West and Memphis, Arkansas, Shreveport and Dallas-Fort Worth in the East.

All clubs will have new managers with the exception of Arkansas, which will be directed by Vern Rapp again. Hub Kittle, who managed at Austin last year, takes over at Dallas-Fort Worth, which has a working agreement with the Houston Astros.

Andy Gilbert, who at age 53 is the oldest manager in the league, takes over at Amarillo. Shreveport will be managed by the league's youngest manager, Charlie Lau, 35. It is his first managerial post after 17 years in the major leagues.

Chuck Tanner, who managed El Paso in 1965 and 1966, returns after spending last season at Seattle. Roger Craig will manage Albuquerque, Roy Sievers will be at Memphis and Harry Bright at San Antonio.

Astros Blank Mets In 24 Innings, 1-0

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rusty Staub said things started getting pretty funny around the 17th inning. Roy Hofheinz officially sanctioned the humor of the situation five innings later.

Two innings before the longest night game in major league history ended in the Astrodome Monday night with Houston a 1-0 victor over the New York Mets — who else? — the following legend appeared on Astros' owner Hofheinz' psychedelic scoreboard:

"The judge says he's ready to go to bed . . . let's score a run."

"After about the 17th inning, everything sort of got funny," said Staub, who batted nine times in the six-hour, six-minute contest. The game outlasted by two innings the longest night game played previously, a 6-5 American League victory for Washington over Chicago last year.

"That was a three-package-of-tobacco game, and I've just got one chew left," said catcher-coach Buody Hancken of the Astros.

The game mercifully came to an end in typical Metsian fashion, with an error letting in the run after eight pitchers had battled valiantly to preserve the scoreless deadlock.

In the only other National League games played, Los Angeles rallied heroically to beat Pittsburgh 3-2 and St. Louis topped Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings.

Shortstop Al Weis let a grounder off the bat of Bob Aspromonte go through his legs and that sent in Norm Miller, who led off with a single and advanced on a balk by Les Rohr and an infield out.

"No, it didn't take a bad hop," said Weis afterwards. "I just blew it. It went right through my legs."

Tom Seaver was the first of the Met hurlers, giving up just two hits in 10 innings and retiring 22 batters in a row after the third inning.

Don Wilson did almost as well in the first nine innings for Houston, but was long gone by the time Wade Blasingame, the fifth Houston pitcher, was officially declared the winner.

The Dodgers won in a finish that would have made a writer of juvenile sports fiction blush. Bob Beale was breezing along on a one-hitter into the ninth, but Jim Lefebvre's two-out, two-run homer beat him.

The first Los Angeles run of the inning, scoring on an infield out, was only the second scored in 44 innings this season. Until then, the Dodgers seemed likely to absorb their fourth shutout defeat in the five-game-old season.

Bill Singer, who gave up only six hits himself, and retired 19 batters in a row at one stretch, was the winner. Veale didn't allow a hit until the fifth when Rocky Colavito singled.

And in yet another last-inning finish, Johnny Edwards came up with a pinch single that drove in the winning run for the Cards. Pat Jarvis and Bog Gibson had duelled 1-1 into the seventh when Hank Aaron's homer gave Atlanta a one-run bulge.

But Roger Maris drove in two runs in the eighth for the Cards with a double and not till Dal Maxvill singled in the 10th and rode home on Edwards' single was the game decided.

Tigers Take On Lobos At Levelland

Snyder's Tigers tangle with Levelland at 4 p.m. today in Lobo Park in the second District 3-AAA diamond encounter for both teams.

The Tigers tamed Lubbock Dunbar 10-2 in their initial contest after the Panthers had put down Levelland 6-3. Thus the Bengals will be favored today on the basis of the comparative scores.

Coach Speedy Moffett said he will start sophomore right-hander Merce Hernandez. He listed a probable starting lineup, according to batting order, as follows:

Richie Thompson 3b, Ronnie Lewis rf, Merce Hernandez p, Jim Patrick 1b, David McGinnis cf, Mickey Almond ss, Steve Moffett 2b, Jodi Williamson lf, and Max Moreland c.

Ags Rap Bears 4-2

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M golfers improved their chances of repeating as Southwest Conference champions Monday by defeating first-place Baylor 4-2.

It was Baylor's first loss on its home course in four years.

The setback did not drop the Bears from first place but it did move the Aggies closer to them. Baylor has a 16-8 won-lost record and Texas A&M is 19½-10½.

Panel Backs 'Columbus Day Caper'

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around the House Judiciary Committee they call it the Columbus Day caper and if its succeeds, four national holidays will provide three-day weekends each year.

A bill calling for the observance of Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Veterans Day and Columbus Day on Mondays has been approved by the committee. But don't pack that weekend bag yet.

A favorite of the business community, which thinks it would make for more efficient work and production schedules and less absenteeism—and strongly backed by the travel agencies and airlines—the bill hasn't stirred much enthusiasm among the general public.

And it has aroused surprisingly strong opposition from patriotic societies and veterans organizations with an interest in a specific holiday, and church groups with an interest in Sunday church attendance.

They've expressed fears that regular three-day holidays would lure people into unpatriotic and impious endeavors on those occasions.

Such opposition pretty well scuttled the original Monday holiday bill before the committee last year. When the first session of Congress ended, only Memorial Day remained in a bill that would have also moved Washington's Birthday, Independence Day, Veterans Day and Thanksgiving to Monday.

It was then that Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., chief sponsor of the bill, discovered Christopher Columbus.

For years Americans of Italian descent have cherished the idea of a national holiday commemorating Columbus. And for years Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., a senior judiciary Committee member, has introduced bills establishing such a holiday.

Many states observe Oct. 12 as Columbus Day but the bills for a national holiday never got anywhere. They served mainly to stir counter campaigns by Americans of Scandinavian stock for a Leif Ericson Day in honor of the man they are convinced discovered America.

Rather than try to legislate history and reluctant to impose two new holidays on the nation, Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., kept the Columbus Day bills well bottled up.

They one day McClory looked at Rodino. Rodino looked at McClory. And a new bill was born.

With Rodino delivering the Democrats who have large Italian blocs in their districts and McClory lining up the Republicans, Celler was outmaneuvered and the bill was approved last month.

It would fix Washington's Birthday on the third Monday in February, Memorial Day on the last Monday in May, Columbus Day on the second Monday in October and Veterans Day on the fourth Monday in October. It would apply only to federal employes unless states enacted similar legislation.

But chances are that without strenuous lobbying by its backers, the bill man not get much further. And if it should get to the floor, Leif Ericson's friends are sure to be waiting.

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I owe about $50 on my 1967 taxes. Should I add that amount to my 1968 estimated tax check?

A — It is advisable to write separate checks or money orders for the two different tax liabilities to make sure your payments are properly credited. Identify each check with your name and social security number and indicate what tax the payment covers.

The reason for writing separate checks for your 1968 tax balance and your 1968 estimated tax payment is that separate processing operations are involved for the tax return and the estimated tax declaration. When one check is written to cover two tax payments, the entire amount may be credited to just one tax. This could result in a refund for overpayment on one return and a bill for additional tax on the other return.

It will also be helpful to mail each tax return with the check attached in a separate envelope. This will help assure that the return is properly processed.

Q — I'm 59 and retired last year because of illness. Is my company pension taxable?

A — A pension received for retirement before normal retirement age because of sickness or injury may qualify as sick pay. In that case up to $100 a week may be excluded from income until you reach normal retirement age.

For details, send a post card to your district director and ask for Document No. 5016, Sick Pay.

Q — I filed my tax return over ten weeks ago. Shouldn't I have my refund by now?

A — Yes, if the return was complete and accurate. A return claiming a refund filed early in the year takes from 5 to 6 weeks to process. In most cases, when refunds are delayed, a letter explaining the delay is sent to the taxpayer.

If you have not heard from IRS, check the address you used on your tax return to see if it is the same as your current address. If not, send your new address to the Service Center where you filed. Give your name, Social Security number, address, date of filing, type of return filed and ask them for advice about your refund.

Q — I pay medical insurance for my mother. If she qualifies as my dependent, can I use the new rules on medical care insurance deductions?

A — Yes, premiums paid for medical care insurance for yourself, your spouse and your dependents are covered by the new rules. Total all of these premiums you paid last year and deduct one - half of them up to $150 without regard to the three percent rule. The balance of the premiums should be included with your other medical expenses which are subject to the three percent limitation.

You must itemize your deductions to use this new rule.

Q — My refund came last week and it is about $40 less than what I claimed. Why?

A — It could be that you made a mistake in arithmetic or used the wrong tax table. An explanation of why the change was necessary should be mailed to you shortly.

To avoid such mistakes in the future, double check your return before you file. If you are married and filing a joint return use the table for married couples filing jointly, not the one for married couples filing separately. Single taxpayers should not use the table for heads of household unless they meet the requirements described on page 3 of th 1040 instructions.

Q — My wife and I own stock which is registered in both our names. Are the first $200 in dividends we receive tax free?

A — Yes, if you file a joint return. If you file separately each may exclude up to $100 in dividends.

Q — We adopted a child last year although the final papers didn't go through until this year. Can we claim her as a dependent on our 1967 return?

A — Yes, if the child was placed in your home for adoption in 1967, was a member of your household and the support tests described on page 4 of the 1040 instructions are met.

Q — How do I get the taxes back that were withheld from my wages last summer? This was my only income and I earned less than $600 for the year.

A — To obtain a refund of withheld income taxes an income tax return must be filed. You may use the short Form 1040A available at banks, post offices and local IRS offices. Be sure to include a copy of your withholding statement showing the wages paid and taxes withheld.

Q — I am employed as a painter and occasionally do some work on my own weekends. Do I have to pay self-employment tax?

A — If the net income from your part - time work is $400 or more you may be liable for self-employment tax. For an explanation of this tax send a post card to your district director and ask for a copy of Document No. 5047, Self - Employment Tax.

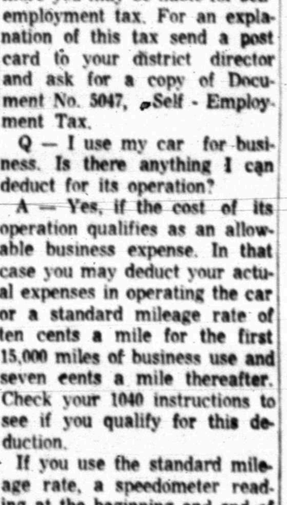

Q — I use my car for business. Is there anything I can deduct for its operation?

A — Yes, if the cost of its operation qualifies as an allowable business expense. In that case you may deduct your actual expenses in operating the car or a standard mileage rate of ten cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and seven cents a mile thereafter. Check your 1040 instructions to see if you qualify for this deduction.

If you use the standard mileage rate, a speedometer reading at the beginning and end of each business trip will establish the amount you can deduct. Tolls and parking fees are deductible in addition to the standard rate.

If you are reimbursed by your company for the use of the car, your deduction must be reduced by the amount of your reimbursement. Any excess of your reimbursement over the expenses should be declared as income.

Santa Fe Plea Heard

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Santa Fe Railroad officials pleaded heavy losses Monday in efforts to back up their application for discontinuance of passenger service between Houston and Clovis, N.M.

Texas Railroad Commission examiner James Cowden recessed the hearing after several hours of testimony. He said it would resume Wednesday in Houston.

As in previous sessions of the hearing, area residents appeared against discontinuance of the trains.

But railroad officials said mail revenue on the two trains involved amounted to $310,508 in the first 10 months of 1967 before it was discontinued later in the same year.

R. D. Shelton, Santa Fe's vice president of operations from Chicago, said the public has shifted to other transportation and that operations of passenger trains created an annual loss of $7 million throughout the system.

Elimination of the trains will end the last passenger train service to the West Coast for the Temple area, Frank Tucker, Temple city attorney testified.

Cowden said after the hearing was recessed that a decision might be expected in several months.

Killed In Crash

MOUNT PLEASANT, Tex. (AP) — A. J. Gautney of Mount Pleasant was killed Monday in a car-truck collision on U.S. 67 near this Northeast Texas town. Two persons were reported critically injured in the crash.

Tarrant Co. Redistricts

FORT WORTH (AP) — County commissioners, responding to a federal mandate, have ordered a redistriting of all precincts in Tarrant County.

They authorized creation Monday of a six-member committee to draw the lines for the new voting precincts, which should be completed "before August."

The committee includes the chairmen of both major political parties, the district attorney, county clerk, county public works director and the county tax assessor - collector.

The decision came in the wake of a Supreme Court ruling which held that commissioners' precincts must be nearly equal in size.

People living withing commissioners' court precincts are entitled to equal representation, the high court ruled.

Prison Accelerates Vocational Training

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections Monday began a new accelerated vocational rehabilitation program for inmates.

W. Dee Kutach, a department spokesman, said the program was under joint sponsorship of the prison and the Texas Education Agency.

Kutach said the aim of the program is to train and educate each inmate in a trade that he will be able to successfully follow after his release.

Kissing Disease Linked To Tumor

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — There may be a positive link between infectious mononucleosis, widely known as the kissing disease, and a malignant tumor which is quite common in Africa but rare in the United States.

That was the report today by Dr. Julius S. Horoszewicz of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y.

If the link, a virus, is established definitely, it will be the first time that a virus has been indicted as a cause of cancer-type disease in humans.

The virus has already been shown by other researchers to be associated with infectious mononucleosis, usually not a severe disease that causes fever, chills, general bad feeling, fatigue and sometimes headache and chest pain.

Researchers have shown that the virus reacts with protective antibodies from humans who have already had the kissing disease, the Roswell Park report said. The reaction is the same as an infecting virus would produce in a vaccinated person, indirect evidence that the virus causes infectious mononucleosis.

The New York researcher, associated with Dr. James T. Grace Jr., and Dr. Virginia C. Dunkel, gave his report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, meeting here.

They found that the same virus associated with infectious mononucleosis is the one often seen under the electron microscope in tissue samples of Burkitt lymphoma, the malignant tumor frequently seer in Africa.

The Roswell Park studies indicate that in the test tube the virus can affect certain cells in a variety of ways—ranging from a mild chronic infection to a less than infection.

"A PLEA FOR A NATION"

When the powerful forces that were to guide man were set upon the primitive earth, one of the most powerful was poverty. Contrary to the belief of our blundering political leaders this force was essential in producing workers and still is.

This was and still is the force that men as individuals, left to their own initiative, try to escape from. The escape from povery was the motivating force that produced our magnificent Democracy. This same motivating force has produced more of the worlds greatest thinkers, bankers, doctors, industrialists, financers, and Abraham Lincolns than all the politicians combined.

Poverty denotes a condition below that of an easy, comfortable living and is a condition of a painful lack of what is useful or desirable. It acts as a springboard and is a causative factor and furnishes the incentive drive for man to better himself. Yet in the past few years our leaders in their insane march of madness to obliterate poverty and do away with the powerful force that furnished man with this incentive drive to better himself, have plunged this great nation into bankruptcy and to the brink of a dreaded welfare state. The net results of their efforts are rebellion, lawlessness, murder, looting, stealing, rioting, marching, demands, handouts and a nation ravished by the Fires of Hate and Dissention.

We have 20 voting precincts in Scurry County and we need one person in each precinct to become a precinct chairman for George Wallace of Alabama for the purpose of electing him president of the United States and for order to be restored to a once proud nation where 90% of the people desire to live in peace and earn a decent living without being taxed to death to feed the other 10% who have no intention of feeding themselves.

Soviets Believed Preparing Man-To-The-Moon Mission

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western space experts believe the latest linkup of two Russian satellites has provided the Soviets with technical knowledge to move forward with two programs: to send men to the moon and to build a manned space station for military purposes.

The next step, expected soon, should be space dockings involving manned ships—a feat accomplished by America's Gemini astronauts as early as March 1966.

It is believed the Soyuz 1 flight last April was to have been the first Soviet space linkup. But the plans were upset when the spacecraft developed control and parachute problems that killed the cosmonaut pilot, Vladmimir M. Komarov.

While the Soyuz ship was being redesigned, the Soviets used the unmanned Cosmos 186 and 188 flights last October to gain their initial docking experience. They duplicated the exercise Monday with Cosmos 212 and 213.

The repeat may have been necessary because of problems which cropped up on the October test. American specialists said the Russian radar on the main satellite (186) lacked the long-range precision of that on the Gemini craft.

They noted that Cosmos 187, originally intended for the docking, was too far off course, necessitating the launching of 188. The latter achieved an orbit just 15 miles behind its space partner.

The Russians said Monday's flight involved "refinement of new systems," which could indicate improved radar.

Gemini pilots, who achieved more than a dozen dockings on four flights, often started out several hundred miles behind their Agena target satellites and in different orbits, using sophisticated radar systems to pursue their prey.

Edward Welch, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said after the first Soviet linkup that the United States long has had the capability of docking unmanned satellites, but that this was not necessary because the technique was proved in the Gemini program.

The paths of the Russian satellites involved in the linkups indicate they are preparatory flights for a man-to-the-moon mission. All were on courses ranging between 51.7 degrees north and 51.7 degrees south of the equator—which for Russia's launching purposes is an ideal course for starting for the moon.

The Soviets have said their man-to-the-moon plan involves first assembling a large space station in earth orbit, using it as a launch pad for lunar journeys. This would involve five or six launchings and hookups. If most of these could be achieved with unmanned launchings, the price tag would be considerably cheaper and the risk of life reduced.

Once the base is assembled, a cosmonaut crew would rocket up to it, check it out, refuel, and head for the moon. It could also be a stopover on the way home.

The multilaunch technique is necessary because the Soviets do not have a rocket with the strength of America's Saturn 5 super rocket.

The United States plans to use the brute force of the Saturn 5—at least twice as powerful as anything yet flown by the Russians—to send three men to the moon with a single launch.

Present U.S. plans call for the first astronauts to hopefully be on the moon late next year. The general feeling in the West is that the Soviets can't do it before 1970.

However, there are indications the Russians may attempt a circumlunar flight late this year or early next—sending a manned craft once around the moon's backside and returning it to earth.

The linkups also are steps toward a long-stated Soviet goal of building a large space station in orbit. Its main goal would be military surveillance.

Budget cuts have delayed the launching of the first U.S. manned space station from an original 1968 launching until at least 1970. It will be a three-man workshop for scientific purposes.

The Defense Department, meanwhile, is planning a separate military space called the Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL). Problems in defining program objectives and developing the hardware have put off the first two-man launch until 1971—nearly four years behind the original schedule. The cost also has escalated from the originally estimated $1.5 billion to nearly $2.5 billion.

The space agency and Defense Department are considering merging the two programs after early flights.

O'Brien Asset To RFK's Campaign

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Buiness Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One political asset that Lawrence F. O'Brien can offer Sen. Robert F. Kennedy that he couldn't offer John F. Kennedy eight years earlier is a long and generally warm relationship with the national business community.

There is little question that business trust and support is desired and needed by presidential candidates. On this basis alone O'Brien is a valuable man to a political candidate, especially to one whose rapport with business could be improved.

As postmaster general, O'Brien impressed many businessmen with his quick grasp of the department's problems and his approach to them. A year or so after taking the job, Fortune magazine reported:

"As the postmaster general, he is demonstrating not only unusual energy but also a flair for modern management practices."

He instituted a crash automation program, created an Office of Planning and elevated the Office of Research and Engineering into a prestigious role that attracted highly qualified engineers from private enterprise.

There is little question that the postmaster general genuinely sought businesslike methods. Seventeen months after his appointment, which must have been a personal triumph, he advocated doing away with his own job as outmoded.

"If we ran our telephone system in this way, the carrier pigeon business would still have a great future, and I would sell my shares of AT&T—if I had any."

Statements such as these brought warmth to the hearts of businessmen who had felt Washington, by its nature, was incapable of understanding businessmen or appreciating their thoughts and aspirations.

O'Brien concluded that in the Post Office "there are so many existing and formidable barriers to efficient management that the ultimate solution to the problems of the postal service lies in taking the department out of its present context entirely."

He suggested that the Post Office be partially set free from congressional and executive interference by turning it into a nonprofit corporation operated by a board of directors and headed by a professional executive.

Under this system the department would determine its costs and raise or lower rates according to a formula rather than congressional whim.

It would pay its employes competitive wages. It would develop work incentives. It would seek college graduates and it would set up a postal academy to train executives in modern methods.

It would gear its construction program to needs; financing would be via private capital. More emphasis would be placed on research and development. Modern machinery would relieve workers of the most tedious jobs.

O'Brien's statements and plans really were testimonials to the business way of doing things, and critical businessmen couldn't help but be impressed.

No wonder then that the business community responded to President Johnson's appeal for a commission to study the proposals, to make "the most searching and exhaustive review ever undertaken of the structure and organization of the Post Office Department."

Frederick R. Kappel, former chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., was named chairman, and among others were these prominent business figures:

George Baker, Harvard Business School dean; Fred Borch, General Electric president; Ralph Lazerus, Federated Department Stores president; J. Irwin Miller, Cummins Engine Co. chairman; W. Beverly Murphy, Campbell Soup Co. president, and Rudolph Peterson, president of the Bank of America.

This commission is expected to make its report soon. Although there is no evidence it will simply blueprint O'Brien's proposals, the recommendations very likely will be an endorsement of the broad outlines.

Black Militants Losing Followers

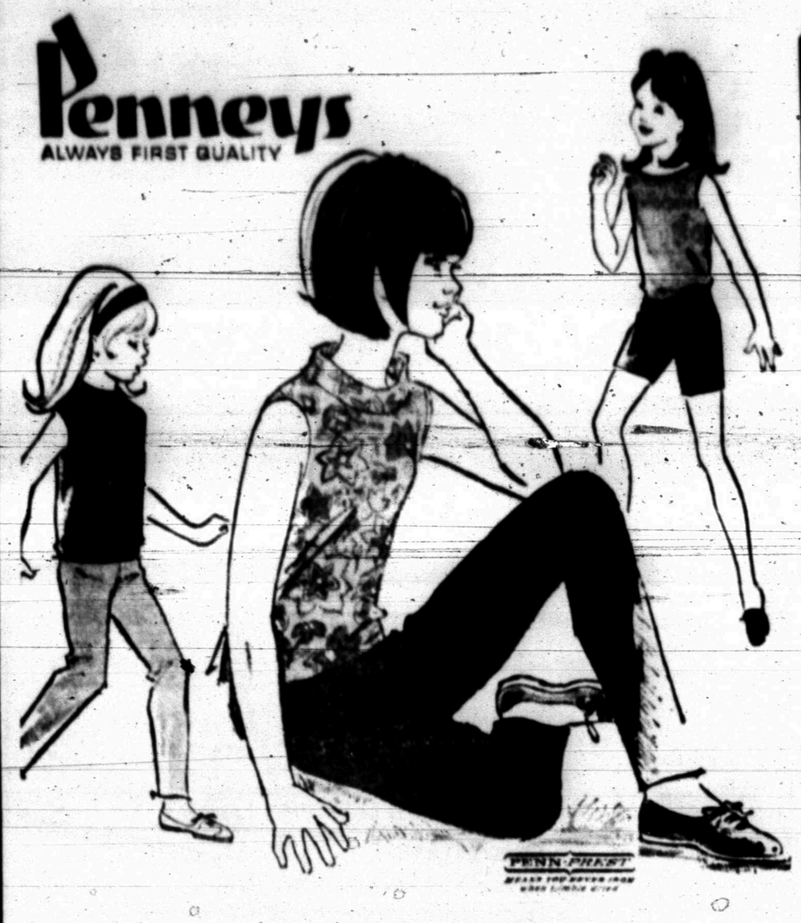

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Black Militants are losing their already small following because of pressure being placed on them by other Negroes, the founder of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said Monday.

James Farmer, a civil rights leader and a candidate for the U.S. Congress from a New York district, spoke to about 1,000 students at Oklahoma State University.

"It isn't in the headlines yet," he said, "but the Negroes who say 'Get Whitey' are being told by other Negroes they re spending time and energies on the wrong goals."

Phone Workers Strike Seen

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a miracle can avert a nationwide strike of some 200,000 telephone workers next Thursday, says President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers.

After a seven-hour meeting with the union's executive board Monday, Beirne said:

"The board is in full agreement that the strike appears inevitable at this point and that our position must be to press hard and unceasingly for the substantial general (wage) increase that our members both need and deserve."

Some 8,000 members of another union, the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are already on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and 14,000 members of Beirne's union are respecting the picket lines and refusing to work.

The New Jersey telephone company said supervisory personnel stayed on the job and there was no interruption of service to its 2.2 million customers when the strike began Monday.

Beirne conceded that a strike by his members would also have little immediate impact on most customers, except for long distance calls and other service requiring an operator, because of the highly automated nature of the nation's telephone system.

A 3 p.m. Thursday deadline for the strike would involve 23,000 telephone installers, whom the union is using to try to set a new wage pattern. They are the highest paid, averaging $2.27 an hour compared with an average of $2.79 for all telephone workers.

A strike by the installers would halt work on putting in new telephone equipment around the nation. They are employes of the Western Electric Co., the manufacturing subsidiary of Bell.

Also involved would be Bell System workers in Ohio, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Michigan, Idaho, Indiana, Northern California, Nevada, Washington State and Washington, D.C.

Other Bell System contracts around the nation expire later in April and May, and the strike eventually could embrace all states except Hawaii and Alaska. The executive board of the Communications Workers has already authorized approval of any later strike votes by Bell System units of the union.

At West Point, the plebe thrives, resigns, fails of is fired; he never "fades away." Poet Edgar Allan Poe and artist James Abbott McNaill Whistler are two who didn't make it.

HUGE FOOTPRINTS OF USAF

Vietnam Shows Bomb Scars

By BILL BAGGS
Editor of The Miami News
Copyright 1968, The Miami News

NAM HA PROVINCE, North Vietnam (AP) — Delayed The children of My Trung play with unusual toys.

Here in the back country of North Vietnam, 90 miles south of Hanoi, the young ones amuse themselves in a makeshift game of rolling back and forth on the edge of a rice paddy a shiny American rocket which proved to be a dud.

The rocket was fired into one of the farmhouses here. It did not explode, and now it is a kind of useful, if grotesque, plaything for the children of the village.

However, on the journey from Hanoi down into the provinces there is much evidence that these rockets, and bombs, fired more often than they did not, in the absorbing country of rice fields around the village of My Trung. The reporter had traveled this route 14 months ago, and the damage today was immensely greater.

In Hanoi, the bombing has been a kind of nicky. You find one block of homes and stores pretty well bombed out in Hanoi, and perhaps the next street reveals scars of the same raid, but then you travel a considerable distance before you see another entire block reduced to rubble by the American planes.

The story is different out in the provinces. Here you find the huge footprints of the United States Air Force. On the road south, for instance, you see 15 rail cars in one stretch, bunched up together, skeletons of steel, bombed into a funereal estate. For miles, on either side of the narrow road, the buildings are gutted. These were homes and shops and some, doubtless, were military targets. There is, for example, a school spreading on more than seven acres, and now the structures are demolished, the walls and the roofs gone, and your North Vietnamese escort expresses his indignation. Upon examination, you find out that this was a school where bamboo handicraft was taught, but in these days many of the bridges to transport military and other vehicles across streams are made principally by bamboo. You try to make the point, but the Vietnamese escort is amazed that American planes have bombed a school.

The fields along the road, and off it, are tableau of green prosperity. These industrious farmers, since 1954, when the French were defeated, have more than doubled the production of rice, which is the basic food supplement in this country. The farmers have accomplished this by intricate system of canals and dikes which provide a dependable irrigation, and by a selective method of seeding the rice, and by intensive farming. On the edges of the endless rice paddies, you see patches where vegetables grow. The farmers use these precious small pieces of ground to grow food for their own families, and they sell the surplus production in a most energetic capitalistic way at the roadside markets you find in all of the villages of the province.

(Despite the enterprise of the farmers, smaller rice crops are expected this year. Fewer acres were planted. But no one explains why.)

Nam Dinh is the third largest city of North Vietnam and the American bombers have visited it often. The funny little electric power plant in Nam Dinh has been bombed and bombed, repaired and repaired, and its limited capacity continues to supply the city with a modicum of electric power. There is no electricity in the villages.

Highway No. One, which rambles south from Hanoi, is really overnamed. It is an asphalt road, so frequently patched, bombed numberless times, and hardly two lanes in width. North of Phuly, again you see those enormous footprints of the American bombers. The road has been bombed into the earth, and the North Vietnamese have built stretches of new road, laid new runs of rail lines, and rebuilt their bridges by inserting large stones with planks and bamboo.

It is along this road, meager as it is, that the North Vietnamese send help to their philosophical cousins in combat down south. Yet detection of the wave of help moving south is almost impossible. The traffic moves only at night, or it did until President Johnson announced a restricted bombing of the north, and the large trucks rumble along the road with dimmed lights, or no lights at all.

In a journey through the country provinces, you see why this is such a difficult war for the strategy of the U.S. Air Force. North Vietnam is an agricultural country. In the entire province of Nam Ha, with a population of 1,720,000, there is no industry worthy of the name. A few small factories exist. One produces textiles, another is engaged in canning fruit, another manufactures glassware and still another puts out the needed farm implements. And that's all.

The goods needed to carry on the war are very largely imported. They come from the Soviet Union, from China, from eastern European countries, from neutral countries. Thus, North Vietnam is a way-station, it receives from other countries the war materiel and the American planes have few factories to bomb. And this fact, out in the agricultural provinces of North Vietnam, obviously makes it very difficult for the U.S. to use its great technological superiority in the air. In other words, the legitimate targets of war out in this country are scarce.

Tipsters Still Help Catch Tax Cheats

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite its complex tax computers, the Internal Revenue Service still relies on tipsters to catch some of America's tax cheats.

But the number of rewards for supplying usable information is on the wane.

Now that Monday's income tax deadline is past, IRS can expect a flood of mail claiming that one person or another cheated on his tax return.

Officials said they receive about 100,000 tips each year from persons looking for rewards, seeking vengence, disgruntled with their employer—or simply patriotic.

The number who actually collect a reward is relatively small —624 for the last complete fiscal year—and is expected to get smaller. Two years before, 792 persons got rewards.

Officials said the computer system now in complete operation can uncover errors and omissions on tax returns before the informer can act.

IRS doesn't broadcast the fact it sometimes uses information supplied by tipsters to catch tax cheats but officials said it's a small part of the law enforcement program.

Total tax collections last year came to $148 billion, one source said, and only $11 million stemmed from information supplied by informants.

During the fiscal year which ended last June 30, the service received 4,019 claims for rewards from tipsters, rejected 3,395 of them and allowed the 624.

The reward can go as high as 10 per cent of the amount collected by IRS but it usually averages between 4 and 6 per cent. And rewards are passed out only after IRS determines the information helped materially to recover additional taxes.

Honored Posthumously

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Pfc. Douglas E. Dickey of Rossburg, Ohio, and five other men were pinned down by enemy gunfire in Vietnam when someone yelled, "Grenade!"

Dickey, 21, dived on it. He died but the others survived.

"He must have realized it was too late for us to take cover," recalled one of the others, Hospitalman 3.C. Gregory R. Long. "He gave me one short glance and lunged forward, deliberately covering the grenade with his body."

Today, Dickey will be posthumously honored with his nation's highest decoration, the Medal of Honor. Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius will present it to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickey.

Dickey was killed March 26, 1967, in Quang Tri Province, South Vietnam.

County Buys Equipment

County Commissioners Monday approved the purchase of a tractor and mower from Patton Equipment Co. The firm's bid of $5,250 was the only one submitted. The equipment will be used in Precinct 4.

Commissioners will open bids April 29 for a tractor and mower to be used in Precinct 2.

In other business, they authorized Tommy Gutherrez to do concrete walk work at the Scurry County Coliseum. Concrete will be poured to prevent erosion around the coliseum where rain has been dripping from the roof to the ground.

$1,000 Bond Set

Kenneth Hancock of Snyder was arrested Sunday by Sheriff's Authorities on the Lamesa Highway and charged with driving while intoxicated, second offense.

Bond was set at $1,000.

Florida Slighting Ready-Rolls

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Florida smokers, gasping over new prices of up to 50 cents for a pack of cigarettes, are on a roll-your-own kick.

Thrifty smokers have besieged tobacco shops by the thousands in search of roll-your-own gadgets ranging in price from 75 cents to $6.95. With the machine, and a little skill, a 10-cent pack of tobacco and papers produces 50 cigarettes or more.

Many storeowners reported almost immediate sellouts of the machines shortly after April 1, when the state cigarette tax was boosted from eight to 15 cents a pack.

At the state Capitol, officials don't seem worried that the gadgets will thwart the legislature's plans to raise $50.5 million for education with the new tax on cigarettes.

"It might take six months or so for things to get back to normal," says John H. Kirgan, fiscal officer of the State Beverage Department. He says the roll-your-own fad will subside in time.

Mrs. Landon Service Set

Mrs. Rosa Lee Landon, 83, a former resident of Snyder, died at 6:45 a.m. Monday in Fort Worth Osteopathic Hospital after an illness of one year.

Funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Bell - Seale Chapel with Dr. John English, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will follow in Snyder Cemetery under direction of Bell - Seale Funeral Home.

Born Dec. 13, 1884 in Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. Landon made her home at 3462 Lovell in Fort Worth. She moved there 26 years ago after having resided in Snyder for 27 years. She was married to Fred Landon in 1912 at Kennedale. He preceded her in death in 1937 and was buried in Snyder. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving are one son, Sam Landon of Fort Worth, and one brother, Eugene Bentley of Waxahachie.

Fence Is Stolen

Thieves stole a chain link fence and posts from a well near Knapp. It was found Saturday on the Ennis Creek Road, according to Sheriff's Authorities, who said they have a suspect.

DETROIT ANTIPOVERTY

Audit Uncovers Inaccuracies

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Accounting Office report says the Detroit antipoverty administration has given the government an inaccurate and misleading information on participants and tried to get financial credit for facilities that weren't used.

The report to Congress on a GAO audit also found "duplication of administrative effort and cost" in the Detroit program which it said the U.S. office of Economic Opportunity has been unable to correct. In this connection, the GAO, which is an arm of Congress criticized use of a Catholic church agency.

The 86-page report was released shortly after The Associated Press reported that the GAO, the Detroit city auditor's office and a state legislative committee all were looking into operations of the antipoverty agency—the Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development, headed by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The GAO already is at work on a new audit of the Detroit program. Its published report covered the 1965 and 1966 fiscal years.

Detroit has received about $50 million in federal antipoverty funds. Only New York and Chicago have gotten more. Detroit also is one of only two cities whose major antipoverty agency is an arm of city government rather than an independent nonprofit corporation. The other is Chicago.

The GAO said some participation figures provided by the Detroit agency—and on which the Office of Economic Opportunity had to rely for future planning—were inflated.

One report for a particular school program listed 7,539 participants. But in checking school-by-school enrollment figures, the GAO said it found 4,000 fewer participants.

The GAO said the Detroit Board of Education—to whom the mayor's committee contracted some antipoverty education programs—tried to get too much financial credit for classroom space it provided.

The city was required to contribute 10 per cent of the cost of antipoverty programs. Value of the space provided was allowed to count toward this contribution. The GAO said it checked $342,160 in claims and found only $71,855 was justified.

It said at one school the city claimed rent on a basis of 2,184 room-days of use, but that the rooms were reserved for antipoverty programs only 319 of those days—and may have been used even less than that.

The report said rent was charged to the antipoverty program even for some days on which other organizations used the rooms.

The GAO said it rechecked the rental situation after bringing the matter to OEO's attention and found it still was unsatisfactory. It recommended that "all past and present claims of the Board of Education be revalued.

Tiomkin In Moscow For Filming

By MICHAEL JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian-born Dmitri Tiomkin, a leading composer of Hollywood movie scores, foresees a big future for Soviet-American film productions "if we don't ruin it."

Many U.S. film distributors are "too nearsighted" to see that Soviet movie makers are "taking giant steps," he said in an interview.

Looking spry and prosperous, Tiomkin took an afternoon off from his work on a film biography of Russian coimposer Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky, the first joint Soviet-American production for the screen.

"These young directors here have the same desire to make good pictures that we have," Tiomkin said. "They're trying to attract people—and make money.

"They have to sell tickets in Russia, you know. They don't drive people to the theaters with guns."

Tiomkin said American movie producers have passed up a bonanza by failing to take Soviet cinema seriously.

"You can't ignore these 260 million wonderful motion picture goers," he said.

The composer, whose score for "High Noon" made him famous, spoke in a thick Russian accent, and seemed pleased to be back in Moscow—temporarily.

"Destiny made me come back to the place where I was born," he said.

Tiomkin's visit to Moscow four years ago was his first since he left the country in 1925. He says he left mostly for health reasons.

The Tchiakovsky biography is being produced jointly by Mosfilm and Warner Brothers-Seven Arts. Tiomkin is co-producer on the American side.

Student Pilot In Suicide Attempt

SURREY, B.C. (AP) — A 38-year-old student pilot made a score of passes in a light plane Monday between the center span of a busy four-lane bridge and the Fraser River 148 feet below.

After buzzing the Port Mann Bridge, part of the Trans-Canada Highway 18 miles east of Vancouver, he landed the rented plane safely on a nearby field.

The man held off police for an hour with what police thought was a pistol but turned out to be a gold-colored cigarette case before he was captured. Police said his wrists were slashed and bleeding.

Police identified him as John Hogan of Surrey. He was charged with attempted suicide.
