CITY ORCHESTRA GET COMPLIMENTS

MANY TELEGRAMS AND LETTERS RECEIVED FROM STATES IN GREAT SOUTHWEST

The Perryton Municipal orchestra and its director, Geo. L. Hyde, have received many compliments by telegraph and letter on the programs broadcast last week from stations KJFF at Oklahoma City and KVOO at Bristow, Oklahoma.

That the broadcasting of the program was a good publicity stunt, has been proved by the attention that it created throughout the southwest, and that the program was equally as good is likewise proved by the messages of congratulation received by the orchestra from disinterested parties.

Messages have been received from the Talbot family, Silver City, Iowa; Roscoe Snyder, Lockney, Texas; L. F. Hobbs, Amarillo; Jack Kellam and family, Des Moines, Iowa; Marquis J. Green, McAlester, Okla.; Stevis and Olamay Buller, Turpin, Okla.; W. C. Quint and Fred Rieblin, Shattuck; J. W. Hawkins and Mamie Hyde, Monticello, Mo.; S. A. POISON GRAIN HERE

Owners Wishing to Rid Farms of Rats and Prairie Dogs May Get Poison

County Agent G. R. Sheets announces that he now has a supply of poison maize, barley and oats, and that land owners wishing to rid their farms of rats and prairie dogs may obtain the grain for that use.

According to Mr. Sheets, this is the logical time to use the poison grain and destroy the pests. Although they are not as yet prevalent in Ochiltree county as in other sections of the Panhandle, yet they should be removed in order to prevent a great loss to the farmers.

But a very little of the poison grain is required to kill out a colony of the prairie dogs.

OCHILTREE BOYS ON CANYON TEAM

CAPTAIN OF CAGE TEAM AT W. T. S. T. C. IS LIPS' COMB BOY MAKING FOUR FROM SECTION

Four of the squad of players comprising the winning Buffalo basketball team of the West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, which recently won the Texas state championship, are Ochiltree and Lipscomb county boys, making a splendid representation from this section of the Panhandle.

Three of the five players constituting the championship team are Ben Pearson, son of D. B. Pearson of this county, Guy Fuller, son of D. B. Fuller, county commissioner of Ochiltree, and Alex Hale, captain of the team, who lives at Lipscomb. Oscar Gamel, son of R. H. Gamel was also a member of the squad although he was not a regular player.

COCA-COLA PLANT TO HOLD OPENING

DATE FOR FORMAL OPENING IS SET FOR APRIL 16; PLANT OPERATING SOON

Final arrangements are being made by Jack Lusher, manager of the Coca-Cola company, for the holding of a formal opening of the new bottling plant for April 16, at which time all Perryton and surrounding communities will be invited to visit and inspect the new industry.

According to Mr. Lusher, representatives from the factories manufacturing the equipment used in the plant will be present, explaining the principles and conducting demonstrations.

Candy samples, novelties, and souvenirs will be given to all the visitors during the day, as well as Coca-Cola and soda waters, bottled in the new plant. Plans are being made to care for 4,000 guests.

Special attention will be directed to the extreme care and sanitary methods employed in the cleansing of the bottles and the bottling of the drinks. The Perryton Coca-Cola company is using only the very latest of equipment in the manufacturing process.

More complete announcements of the opening will be given through the Herald at a later date.

Operetta a Big Success

Inclement Weather Prevents Large Crowd From Attending—Repeated Saturday

The operetta, "Miss Cherry Blossom," presented by the High school Glee club, under the direction of Miss Eugenia Mitchell, was a success in every way. The threatening weather and the almost impassable condition of the highways prevented many from attending. It was repeated on Saturday evening to a small audience.

Every member of the cast deserves much credit for the success of the performance. The splendid entertainment showed that much time and effort had been put forth by the boys and girls and their director.

The action of the operetta was set in Japan and the costumes and scenery were in harmony. The story was built around an American girl who had been brought up in Japan as an Oriental. In course of time she fell in love with an American boy. After many difficulties, Miss Cherry Blossom, the American girl was married to her American lover.

PURCELL MOVES INTO NEW STORE

OLD FRAME STRUCTURE TO BE MOVED FROM MAIN STREET—HOLDS OPENING TUESDAY

To celebrate the moving into his new store, R. A. Purcell will hold a formal opening of his new place of business on Tuesday evening, March 22, at which time the public are invited to visit and inspect the new quarters.

The grocery and dry goods stock of the Purcell store was moved into the new brick and tile structure this week and although there is still some work to be done on the building, they will soon be settled nicely.

The old Purcell building is to be moved from main street now that the new fireproof building has taken its place and marks the gradual giving away of the frame structures for the new modern business houses.

COUNTY AGENT IS FORMING CLUBS

BOYS AND GIRLS' PIG AND POULTRY CLUBS WILL BE STARTED OVER COUNTY

Arrangements are being made by G. R. Sheets, county agent of Ochiltree county, to visit every community in the county and organize pig and poultry clubs, open for membership to all boys and girls between the ages of ten and eighteen.

To create more interest in the club work, the county commissioners court will award prizes in each community where at least five members of the club complete projects. These prizes will be $10.00 to the winner in the pig project and $10.00 to the winner in the poultry project, and like prizes will be given in every community where a club is formed.

The Perryton Chamber of Commerce has agreed to offer a grand prize to the winners in each project in a county wide contest, which will probably be a trip to the Texas state fair. These contests will close about the middle of September.

Mr. Sheets is going to visit every schoolhouse in the county and try to create enough interest in the club work to form a club in that community. The Perryton Chamber of Commerce has offered to help in securing purebred poultry and pigs for the club work and the Perryton banks have also offered to co-operate in helping the club members finance their projects.

ANOTHER BIG WHEAT CROP IS PREDICTED FOR PERRYTON DISTRICT

TOTAL MOISTURE FOR TWO WEEKS AMOUNTS TO 2.24 INCHES ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL REPORT; FIELDS LOOKING GOOD

The first of the spring rains fell last Thursday evening, lasting most of the night, delivering a total of 1.49 inches of moisture to the already well soaked wheat fields, assuring another good wheat crop in the Perryton district.

Following the snow which fell the early part of last week with a moisture content of .75 inches, the rain brought the total for the past two weeks up to 2.24 inches.

Wheat fields in this section are in excellent condition and have never suffered from lack of moisture. The fair weather following the rain has brought the growing grain out of the winter stage and all the fields are covered with a thick stand.

The soil is in such a condition at present to withstand a drought of many weeks it is said, should no more moisture be received and still make a fair crop. With a few more rains, a wheat crop will be harvested that will rival the record crop of 1926.

NAME COMMITTEE FOR BALL CLUB

VILL HANDLE FINANCES, SELECT GROUNDS, AND HELP IN FORMING BALL LEAGUE

Last Thursday's rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the ball players that met in M. R. Coffee's office to discuss the affairs of the Perryton club, and a good number of layers and fans were present. During the meeting a committee was appointed, consisting of Geo. M. Perry, R. Coffee, and Van W. Stewart, to handle the business matters of the club during the present season.

According to Manager Bert Metz, he duties of the commission will be to arrange for grounds, finances, and assist in the formation of a league composed of towns in the Panhandle. It was decided that approximately $350.00 was needed by the club to purchase new uniforms and ball equipment.

It was also decided at the meeting that no salaries would be paid to the players on the Perryton team but if a profit was shown during the season, the surplus would be prorated among the players.

Baseball practice was held Thursday afternoon, Sunday afternoon and again Tuesday afternoon of this week. About eighteen players are reporting out to practice and a good bunch of spectators have been present at each meeting.

With the proper support from the town, Manager Metz feels confident that Perryton can have a team that will make a creditable showing in any league that can be formed in the Panhandle. It is hoped that a practice game can be scheduled within the next few weeks.

C. OF C. HOLDS MEETING MONDAY

GENERAL MEETING HAS BEEN CALLED FOR MARCH 21; EVERYONE IS INVITED

A general meeting of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce has been called for Monday evening, March 21, to be held at the court house, and all members are urged to attend, with an invitation extended to everyone in this community.

A number of interesting matters will be taken up with special regard to farm problems which will be brought before the meeting by County Agent, G. R. Sheets.

This is the first of the regular monthly meetings which will be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce.

W. T. C. C. PRESIDENT HERE FRI.

PRESIDENT DUGGAN AND ASST. MGR. BENNETT BUCK MUD TO FILL PERRYTON DATE

The big one and one-half inch rain did not prevent Arthur P. Duggan, Littlefield, Texas, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Assistant Manager Bennett of Amarillo from filling their engagement in Perryton on Friday evening. Mr. Bennett said that they submitted it through from Canadian to Spearman where they had a noon engagement. They arrived in Perryton right on time, being met at Farnsworth by Attorney Jack Allen. The other members of the party turned back at Canadian, the muddy roads bluffing them out.

Mr. Duggan and Mr. Bennett were taken to the Hutchinson poultry ranch by Chamber of Commerce officials. They expressed themselves as amazed with the wonderful plant which Mr. Hutchinson has built up. The visitors were entertained at dinner at the Welcome Cafe. Those present besides the guests of honor were: Geo. M. Perry, B. B. Kent, R. C. Allen, Chas. W. Callaway, Van W. Stewart, Jack O. Lusher, Jack Allen, R. T. Shindler, E. A. Hilderbrand, F. P. Rogers, A. J. Kelly and W. B. LaMaster.

Short addresses were made at the school auditorium by both Mr. Duggan and Mr. Bennett, the talks preceding the glee club entertainment.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is the biggest organization of its kind in the world. The work that they have accomplished during the past year on freight rates alone has saved the people of West Texas enough money to support the body for years to come. Thousands of dollars has been saved the farmers of Ochiltree and every other county. They are now working hard to get a reduction in the freight rates on all kinds of building materials. This body is supported by individual memberships. If you are not a member, you should be!

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilbur and children, Canadian, visited in the J. O. Wooten home, last Sunday.

SCOUT NEWS

Troops Seventy and Seventy-two of Perryton met at the basement of the Methodist church last Thursday evening at 8:30. There were seventeen boy scouts present, three recruits and one visitor.

A survey was made on birds, each boy being given a slip of paper upon which he was to write the names of each bird that he had seen in this locality and describe plumage, call or song, nest, young and general habits. Of all the lists there were something over eighty birds that were named, that each boy naming could identify in the field. Only one boy had studied birds for the purpose of passing the merit badge test on bird study.

A definite meeting hour was set at 7:30 o'clock to 9:00 o'clock, except for special occasions. A rule was passed that no tenderfoot scout could go on an official overnight hike of which there will be at least one a month.

As the basketball tournament was in session at Liberal and some of the players and rooters were scouts, our number was cut short last meeting night, but we expect to have a full session Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

RABBIT SKINS

More than 100,000,000 rabbit skins are now utilized annually in this country, about 98 per cent of which are imported. Of this number about 55,000, dressed and dyed, are made into fur garments, and into trimmings for women's coats, suits, and dresses. The remainder, not suitable for garments, are used as linings for men's and boy's gloves and in the manufacture of felt, used chiefly for making hats. With the disappearance of many of the fine-pelted fur bearers from many parts of the United States, the use of rabbit skins is steadily increasing. Aided by modern processes, American fur dressers and dyers have become so expert in changing the colors and appearance of furs that in many instances the pelt of the rabbit, under a variety of trade names, is replacing other skins more costly and attractive, as ermine, seal, beaver, and leopard.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

On Tuesday, March 8, the monthly workers' meet of the Canadian Baptist association was held with the Follett Baptist church. The attendance locally and otherwise was exceptionally large. The spirit of the meeting was fine. The most of the program was devoted to evangelism. Dr. R. A. Scranton, stewardship secretary for Texas Baptists, was present and gave some fine addresses on the budget for the local church and the outside work. The pastor and family together with Mrs. Grigsby and Mrs. Keith attended the conference. The April conference will meet with the Perryton church. Let us be ready with a full house and plenty to eat.

We will have our services at the usual hours next Sunday. In the afternoon at 3:30 the women of the Canadian church will give a pageant at the church. Every member of the church is urgently requested to be present. Surely after the good women of Canadian make the long drive to put on a pageant we can afford to go and honor them with our presence. At the evening hour Pastor W. C. Harrison of the Canadian Baptist church will preach. Rev. Harrison is a new man to the majority of us so let's give him a large house.

In a short while we hope to have work going on the basement for the new church. It will be fine for those who have made pledges to this enterprise to pay up their pledges. This will greatly facilitate matters. Every member working on the job in every way possible will spell success.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING

The Parent-Teachers association will hold its regular meeting on Monday afternoon, March 14, at 3:30 o'clock, at which time the following program will be given. Opening. Business Meeting. Program by School. "School Needs"—W. B. Irvin.

Judge R. T. Correll was called to Beaver on Wednesday to look after legal business.

DR. CROFT RETURNS AFTER LONG ABSENCE

Dr. J. H. Croft, Memphis, Texas, eye specialist who has been making Perryton once a month for some time will again resume his monthly visits, after several months absence.

Dr. Croft was forced to abandon his visits during the winter months but starting with Monday, March 21 he will continue his regular visits.

HEAVES

Heaves of horses usually follows digestive troubles due to wrong or careless feeding, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Feeding damaged hay or straw, too bulky roughage and feed lacking in nutritive value, and keeping the horse in a dusty atmosphere, or a badly ventilated stable, either cause or tend to cause heaves. Horses brought from a high to a low level are also likely to get the disease. Heaves is incurable because it leads to the rupture of small air sacs in the lungs. Medicine can not, of course, restore these.

A bird house should be durable, rain-proof, cool and easy to clean. Easily workable wood such as cypress, pine or yellow poplar, is desirable. Metal is too great a conductor of heat. Make roofs with sufficient pitch to shed water readily; or if level or nearly so, cut a groove across the under face of the overhanging part to prevent water from draining back. For the average house it is well to make this overhang from two to three inches, so as to protect the entrance hole from driving rain. Bore one or two small auger holes near the top of the walls for ventilation.

Troops 70 and 72 of Perryton met at their respective meeting places Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Troop 70 having 12 present not including their Scoutmaster and assistant. A hike was planned for the next evening, an overnight hike, on which only second class scouts were permitted to go. Nine boys participated in the hike which was taken during disagreeable weather, and all returned home none the worse for the experience which shows that scouting does teach the boy how to care for himself properly during unusual conditions. The boys' Scoutmaster and Assistant were with them.

Troop 72 seemed to be rained out but we look for them to come back strong next week. They had only a few present and one new recruit. Ted Hethcock was sent out by his Scoutmaster to rouse some of the others but must have gotten his spirits dampened in the rain for he never showed up again before the meeting was over. As soon as Troop 72 acquires a few more second class scouts they will take some regular overnight hikes. John Black certainly is passing some good work along to his boys.

YOUR MONEY GOES FARTHER THIS WAY

People maintain checking accounts in this bank because they want to get the greatest value for their money.

Their money goes farther that way. They get more benefit from it when they maintain a reasonably large average balance. Such a balance provides them with sufficient funds for emergencies, entitles them to greater service from this bank and builds up credit so that, if necessary, they can secure loans in proportion to their needs.

Maintain a checking account here with a reasonably large balance. It will help you get the most from your money. And you'll be entitled to the maximum of mighty valuable service from this bank.

MORE POWER--- Under One Man's Control!

Oil-Pull Tractors

More than 60 per cent of the cost of running your farm is for power and labor. One way to increase your profits is to reduce these costs. More power, under the control of one man, is the answer.

Owners of Oil-Pulls report that, due to its increased power and speed, they plow, disc and harrow in the same time, twice as much as the average tractors do. This means labor and power savings to the Oil-Pull owner.

Emerson Tractors

The first opportunity you have, get into the seat of the Emerson-Brantingham tractor and see how convenient all of the controls are—how easy it is to drive.

There is little difference between the actual operation of the tractor and the driving of an automobile. It is guided by the same type of steering wheel, gears are shifted with the same kind of lever and the spark and fuel controls are the same.

Nothing is sounder, more enduring, or as safe from fire, as ROCK. Portland cement, for heavy loads, heavy wear, or out-of-doors—pure gypsum rock for inside walls and ceilings.

THIS WEEK

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

HORSES WILL GO.
BABE RUTH AND MILTON.
FAT GIRLS NOT WANTED.
A KILLER AT ELEVEN.

William Durland, president of a great riding school, retiring, says the automobile will never replace the saddle horse. Nevertheless, the saddle horse will vanish, and be only a memory to children of today's children.

When the musket came in, men thought it couldn't take the place of bow and arrow. And, of course, it couldn't replace the hawk that rode out on its owner's wrist and flew up to bring down the game bird.

The horse will linger on farms for a while and then disappear, as farming becomes really scientific. The work that requires three hundred days of the farmer's time now, will be done in about forty days or less. And the "horse" will be a machine, run by gas, electricity or wireless power.

Many good investments in this world for those that hang on. When Edward Fitzgerald published his translation of the Rubaiyat, that first edition sold for one penny in England. Last week J. F. Drake paid $3,200 for a copy.

When John Bunyon's "Pilgrim's Progress" was first published, wise book people said, "Only servants will buy a book of that kind." One of the copies, originally sold for two pence, is worth thousands of dollars now.

Of 118,000,000 Americans, only 3,000,000 own stocks or bonds. This small number of stockholders, estimated by the American Bankers' Association, is encouraging to brokers and those that have good stocks and bonds for sale.

Wages are high, money is piling up in the savings banks, millions that own no stocks COULD own them, if proper inducements as to returns and safety were offered.

If you like miracles, consider this. Peter Kraus, sailor on a freight ship in mid-ocean, drove particles of iron into his right eye while using a drill, and suffered agonies. Far away, Dr. Francis, ship's surgeon, picked up by radio, details of the sailor's trouble. He sent wireless directions, ordering them to stop using cocaine, telling them how to make a magnet. The magnet extracted the iron particles instantly, pain stopped, the man went back to work.

Mr. Burgert, bachelor member of a very "old family" in Ohio, leaves money to build a home for girls "between the ages of sixteen and twenty-eight, of small stature, bright, ambitious and good to look at." Fat girls are not to be admitted.

That will was made by a foolish bachelor. Young girls ought to be reasonably fat, with tissue and energy stored up for their duties as mothers. Girls of the skeleton type have barely energy enough for themselves, to say nothing of a family.

What counts is not how you start, but how you finish. Years ago, a boy named Bamburger took a job at $4 a week to run errands; glad to get the job, glad to run. It was a start. Now, to his $22,000,000, dry goods plant in Newark he builds on a $10,000,000 addition. And men from bigger cities go to Newark to study his way of running a business.

The thoughtless may point out that Babe Ruth gets, in one year, or hitting that ball about a thousand times as much as Milton got for writing "Paradise Lost." That is no argument. For one American that wants to read "Paradise Lost" at least a million want to see Babe Ruth play baseball.

An eleven-year-old boy, Michael Ponkraskow, ran away from home after a beating, killed a shopkeeper in an attempted holdup, and is wondering what will be done with him. It is said that he cannot be treated as a youthful delinquent, because he refuses to say that he is sorry he committed the murder. A childish reason, for lack of repentance is only one more proof of youthful delinquency.

In any case, the boy will not be executed, even if put on trial for murder. Capital punishment survives, but killing children is no longer part of "civilization."

PREVENTION OF CHILDREN'S DISEASES

The mortality and morbidity rate of children can be materially reduced by the use of such preventive measures as immunization, vaccination and isolation of the sick, and as urged by Dr. H. N. Barlow, director of the bureau of child hygiene of the state board of health, to use these measures to safeguard their children's health.

"Education of parents is very much needed as to the seriousness of diseases of childhood," he stated. "Children should be shielded from exposure to diseases common to children, and under no conditions be intentionally exposed to them. There is absolutely no truth in the once popular belief that children should have such diseases as early as possible in order to be through with them, as it is not a necessary condition of childhood to have any of these maladies."

"A child who is suffering with any of the infectious diseases common to childhood should be put in a room apart from other children and kept isolated until danger of infection is over. Children who have suspicious sores or who are running temperatures should be kept out of school for a sufficient length of time to determine if they have any infectious disease. By this means, many epidemics of children's diseases may be prevented."

"Diphtheria may be prevented by the use of toxin-anti-toxin. Have your children given this immunization by your family physician. Whooping cough is one of the most serious diseases of children, being especially fatal to the young. Seek to protect your children from this and all other infectious diseases."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walter of the Perryton Mercantile market visited relatives at Borger Sunday.

Mrs. Beulah Yoakley looked after business interests at Woodward and Shattuck last Saturday and Sunday.

PAPER MAKING

The paper mills hire large numbers of men to go out into the forests to cut down trees for making paper, cardboard, pasteboard, and the like. Paper making is the principal industry in Maine since this state is noted for its forests.

First the wood is cut in the forest and sent down the river to the sawmills in the form of big logs. At the sawmills it is cut into four foot lengths and loaded into cars. These cars carry the logs to the paper mills where they are stored outdoors in piles of millions of cords.

When it is ready for the mill, it is carried on carrier into the grinding room where it is ground into a soft pulp. Part of the pulp goes into the slipper room where it is clipped to sawdust so that it can be mixed with acid. The mush from the grinder room goes to the beater room where it is mixed with old paper, rosin, acid, and clay which gives the white color to the paper. This pulp is then taken to the paper making room. The machinery cannot work fast enough to take care of all the pulp that is manufactured so that large quantities must be stored in large piles nearby, to be used when a wood shortage occurs. After the pulp has gone into the paper making machine it goes through several baths and is passed on to the hot rollers which roll it out into a flat sheet such as this is. This sheet is continuous, and is rolled into immense rolls. Some times a break occurs in the paper. It is very difficult to mend this as it is impossible to stop the machines except on Sundays. The paper that is wasted goes back to the beater. The finished rolls are wrapped and placed in cars for shipment, probably in the same cars in which the raw material has been brought to the mill.

In addition to the paper mill there are various other mills attached; such as a sulphite mill where they burn sulphur to obtain the acid; the clay mill where they mix the clay for bleaching purposes.

Robert Barlow, Canyon, spent the fore part of last week with home folks. While here he purchased a quarter of land four miles east of town which he expects to improve in the near future. We are glad to see Mr. Barlow locate with us once more.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Black will soon move into their beautiful new home near the school. The Black residence is one of the best homes in Perryton. It is strictly modern in every respect.

E. H. Wanner will leave the latter part of this week for Stony Mills, Pa., where he will visit with his parents and other relatives for about three months.

Frank Beeson, from Albany, N. Y., reaches Benton, Wyoming, then—1868—western terminus of the Pacific Railroad. He had been ordered by his physicians to seek a climate "high and dry." He is robbed of most of his money in his hotel and loses his last twenty dollars at Monte in "The Big Tent," a dance hall and gambling resort in the "roaring" town of Benton.

Edna Montovo, companion of a gambler, is believed by Frank to have cajoled him purposely into the game. Broke, disconsolate over his discovery that "the lady of the blue eyes," as he calls her, is what she is, and finally humiliated over his glaring "greenness," Frank repulses Edna when she begs him to go away with her, sobbingly telling him that she had made a mistake in letting him lose his money. CHAPTER VII

WESTWARD HO!

My new boots were burning, my thigh was chafed raw from the swaying Colt, and my face and throat were parched with the dust, when I arrived at the encampment of Jenks' train.

Some dozen white-topped wagons were standing grouped in a circle and figures were busily moving among them and the thin blue smoke of their fires was a welcoming signal.

I marked women and children. The whole prospect—their, the breakfast smoke, the grazing animals, the stout vehicles, a line of washed clothing—was homey. Jenks himself came out to meet me.

"Hooray! Here you are," he said. "You fetched all your outfit?"

"What you see," I confessed. "They stripped me clean."

"Wall, all you need is a blanket. You can pay for it out of your wages or turn it in at the end of the trip."

He conducted me on, along the groups and fires and bedding outside the wagon circle, and halted where a heavy man, of face smooth shaven, except chin, sat upon a wagon tongue whittling a stick.

"Shake hands with Cap'n Hyrum Adams, Frank. He's the boss of the train."

Captain Adams offered a thick hand which proved singularly soft and flatulent under the callouses.

"Glad to meet you, stranger," he acknowledged. "Breakfasted?"

"Not yet, sir. I was anxious to reach the train."

"Nobody goes hungry from the Adams' wagon, stranger," Captain Adams observed. He slightly raised his voice, peremptory. "Rachael! Fetch our guest some breakfast."

There were two women in view, busied with domestic cares. One was elderly, as far as might be judged by her somewhat slatternly figure.

The other promptly ladled food from a kettle to a platter, poured a tin cupful of coffee from the pot, and bore them to me; her eyes down, shyly handed them.

I thanked her but was not presented. To the Captain's "That will do, Rachael," she turned dutifully away; not so soon, however, but that I had seen a fresh young face with in the bonnet confines—a round rosy face according well with the buxom curves of her as she again bent over her wash-board.

"Our fare is that of the tents of Abraham, stranger," spoke the Captain. "Such as it is, you are welcome to. We are a plain people who walk in the way of the Lord, for that is commanded."

"I ask nothing better, sir," I answered.

The pork and beans and the black, unsweetened coffee evidently were what I needed, for I began to mend wonderfully ere I was half through the course.

"You are from the East, stranger?" he inquired.

"Yes, sir. I arrived in Benton only yesterday."

"A Sodom," he growled harshly. "A tented sepulcher. And it will perish. I tell you, you do well to leave it, you do well to yoke yourself with the appointed of this earth, rather than stay in that sin-pit of the eternally damned."

"I agree with you, sir," said I. "I did not find Benton to be a pleasant place. But I had not known, when I started from Omaha."

"Possibly not," Adams assented. "The devil is attentive; he is present in the stations, and he will ride in those gilded palaces even to the Jordan, but he shall not cross. In the name of the Lord we shall face him. What good there shall come, shall abide; but the evil shall wither. Not," he added, "that we stand against the railroad. It is needed, and we have petitioned without being heard. We are strong but isolated. We have goods to sell, and the word of Brigham Young has gone forth that a railroad we must have. Against the harpies, the gamblers and all the Gentile vanities we will stand upon our own feet by the help of Almighty God."

At this juncture, a tall double-jointed youth of about my age, carrying an ox goad in his hand, strolled to us as if attracted by the harangue.

"My son, Daniel," the captain introduced. "This stranger travels to Zion with us, Daniel."

The youth had the grip of a vise, and seemed to enjoy emphasizing it while cunningly watching my face.

"Howdy," he drawled.

I left soon to join Jenks' wagon and as I passed Rachael, she glanced quickly up. I caught her eyes with a blush. She was indeed wholesome if not absolutely pretty.

"Wall, those Mormons are good providers," Jenks commented. "They'll share with you whatever they have, for no pay, but if you rub 'em the wrong way or go to dickerin' with 'em they're closer'n the hide on a cold mule. You didn't make sheep's eyes at any of the women?"

"However I could not help but see that the Captain's daughter is pleasing to look upon."

"How? His daughter?"

"Miss Rachael."

"Whoa, man! She's his wife, and not for Gentiles. They're both his wives; whether he has more in Utah I don't know. But you'd best let her alone. She's been j'ined to him."

This took me all aback. He was twice her age, apparently.

"And Daniel, his son—is he married?"

"That whelp? No, he ain't married, yet. But he will be, soon as he takes his pick, 'cordin' to law and gospel among them people. You bet you; he'll be married plenty."

Later in the day as I sat resting upon a convenient wagon tongue Daniel hulked to me.

"You know me?" he asked.

"Your name is Daniel, isn't it?"

"No, 'tain't. It's Bonnie Bravo on the trail."

"All right, sir," said I. "Whichever you prefer."

"I laow you aim to go through with this train to Salt Lake, do you?"

"That's the engagement I've made with Mr. Jenks."

"It's four hundred mile, an' twenty at a stretch, without water. Most the water's pizen, too, from hyar to the mountings."

"I'll have to drink what the rest drink, I suppose."

"I laow the Injuns are like to get us. They's powerful bad in that thar desert. Ain't feareded o' Injuns, be you?"

"I'll have to take my chances on that, too!"

"We don't think much o' Gentiles, yonder. We don't want 'em, no-haw. They'd all better git out. The Saints settled that country 'an it's ours."

"If you're a sample, you're welcome to live there," I retorted. "I think I'd prefer some place else."

"Haow?" he bleated. "Thar ain't no place as good. All the rest the world has sold itself to the devil."

We remained in silence for a moment while he waited, provocative.

"Say, Mister," he blurted suddenly. "Kin you shoot?"

"I presume I could if I had to. Why?"

"'Becuz I'm the dangest best shot with a Colt's in this hyar train. Any time you want to try a little poppin' you let me know." And with this, he left me, with the uneasy impression that he and I were due to measure strength in one way or another.

About three o'clock with whips cracking, the Captain Adams wagon in the lead (two pink sunbonnets upon the seat), the valorous Daniel's next, we toiled creaking and swaying up the Benton road, amidst the eddies of hot, scalding dust.

It was a mixed train, of Gentile mules and the more numerous Mormon oxen; therefore not strictly a "bull" train, but by pace designated as such.

Trudging manfully at the left fore wheel behind Mr. Jenks' four span of mules I played the teamster—although sooth to say there was little of play in the job, on that road, at that time of day.

At sundown, having eaten our supper, we were sitting by our fires, smoking and talking, when as a construction train and box cars clanked by on the railroad I chanced to note a figure spring out asprawl, alight with a whistle of sand, and staggering up hasten for us.

First it accosted the hulk Daniel. I saw him lean from his saddle; then he rode in, bawling like a calf:

"Paw! Paw! Hey, you-all! Thar's a woman yonder in britches an' she laows to come on. She's lookin' for Mister Jenks."

In a storm of rude raillery—"That's a hoss on you, George!" "Didn't know you owned one o' them critters, George?" "Does she wear the britches, George?" and so forth—my friend Jenks arose, peering, while the solitary figure, braving our stares, came on to the fires.

"Gawd almighty!" Mr. Jenks delivered.

It was My Lady—formerly My Lady—clad in embroidered short Spanish jacket, tightish velvet pantaloons, booted to the knees, pulled down upon her hair a black soft hat, and hanging from the just-revealed belt around her slender waist, a revolver trifle.

She paused, small and alone, viewing us, her eyes very blue, her face very white.

"Is Mr. Jenks there?" she hailed clearly.

"Damn' if I ain't," he mumbled, glowering at me.

"I wish to engage passage to Salt Lake," she said.

"We have no place for a woman, ma'am," Jenks demurred.

"There are other women in the train," Edna insisted.

"Where's Pedro? Where's Montoyo?" asked Jenks.

Her eyes blazed.

"H-t? That snake? I shot him!" "What! You! Killed him?" Exclamations broke from the bystanders.

"No, I didn't have to! But when he tried to abuse me, I defended myself. Wasn't that right, Gentlemen?"

"Right or wrong, he'll be after you, won't he?"

The question held a note of alarm.

"I am only an employee, here, madam," I faltered. "If I had an outfit of my own I certainly would help you."

She flushed painfully; she glanced at me direct again, but her unspoken thanks enfolded me.

The large form of Captain Adams came striding.

"What's this?" he demanded harshly. "An ungodly woman?"

"You gone, Delilah!"

"I am going, sir," she replied, ask nothing from you or these gentlemen."

"Them's the two she's after, he Jenks an' that greenie," Daniel blurted. "Ain't she purty, though! She dressed in britches."

"Get you gone," Captain Adams thundered. "And these your men's garments shall travel with this train to Zion—no, not a of the way"

PERRYTON MERCHANTS MAKE DOLLAR DAY BIG EVENT NATION WIDE STRAW VOTE FOR PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEES BEING HELD

DO YOU WANT AS PRESIDENT NOMINEE OF YOUR PARTY IN 1928?

NATION WIDE STRAW VOTE IS NATION-WIDE—EVERY VOTER INVITED TO CAST BALLOT. LET'S LEARN WHICH CANDIDATES PUBLIC REALLY WANTS NEXT YEAR.

Politics are now with us. The 69th Congress has decided and unless something terrifically important happens, we will have no special session. Now and until lawmakers assemble in Washington again on the Monday of next December, there is going to be a national maneuvering campaign. Both by obvious and by hidden candidates for the nomination in both parties, as well as the ever hopeful dark horse of the same.

Line with this national activity, the Herald is going to participate in a national poll of public opinion on the choices for presidential nominees in both parties.

The Herald together with some of the other newspapers throughout the country, is served by the Publisher's Autocaster Service, of New York, which has agreed to establish a central office in conducting this nationwide poll.

The balloting is open to all readers of this newspaper, of a voting age, as well as your party, by the advantage of the opportunity of expressing your preference for a presidential nominee. Simply fill out the ballot, printed hereon, and bring it to the Herald office. We will do the rest.

The local vote will be announced next week, as well as the national vote which will be sent exclusively to the Herald from Autocaster Service in New York.

President Coolidge is naturally the favorite of the interest in the Republican party, as to whether or not he will be a candidate for another term. His refusal to commit himself before the late session of Congress may not now hold good. This is the period known as the "Presidential Race" season. One factor makes it so. The South Atlantic convention will be held in December and most of the hatting is done before that state officially on record. The President may speak before then. Again, it is not a certainty that the Republicans and large will be very much in the run-off. He will be officially announced as not being a candidate. There are other Republicans in various parts of the country who have been buzzing. Lowden, of Illinois; Vice-President Dawes, of Illinois; Herbert Hoover, of California; and Idaho, and possibly Andrew Mellon, of Pennsylvania.

Outstanding candidates for the presidential nomination are Governor William McAdoo, of New York; Senator Jim Reed of Missouri; Governor Ritchie, of Maryland; Governor Donahay, of Ohio. They are all being widely discussed throughout the country. Even if they will no doubt be determined the choice at this time, the contest is the aim of the vote. It will furnish some interesting topics for discussion and serve you by giving you a survey of the political situation and which way public sentiment is leaning.

Indication of sentiment in two matters can result in this. For that reason the ballot is here in two sections. One the avowed and prospective candidates in both parties. The second whether he will vote for a candidate in the party he indicates.

THREE MILLION DOLLARS A LETTER

ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS TRADE MARK VALUE TO BE OVER TWENTY MILLION DOLLARS

There are twenty-six letters in the alphabet, from whence, higher mathematicians tell us, there can be formed billions of combinations and yet the eight letters which form the name Coca-Cola were shown in the annual report for 1926 to be carried on the books of the Coca-Cola Company at a valuation of over $20,000,000—approximately three million dollars a letter.

This is simply an arbitrary figure and it is beyond the power of accountants and mathematicians to find out what the trademark is really worth. However, the opinion of the investing public expresses itself in the valuation of total shares of the about $85,000,000. As the total physical assets of the company today are approximately $15,000,000 the investing public values the trade-mark at $60,000,000—seven million dollars a letter. It is evident, therefore, that the three million figure carried by the company is more than conservative.

According to Jack Lusher of the Perryton Coca-Cola Bottling company "This immense valuation is, of course, due to the good will established by $50,000,000 spent in advertising, the huge expenditures to safeguard the purity of the product and the natural quality of the drink itself. Coca-Cola is made wholly of products from nature giving it its characteristic and delicate bouquet. These products pass through twenty-three tests in the process of manufacture that the finished drink might be placed before the consumer in its purest and most delicious form. Advertising 'tells the world' and the result of these factors is a trade-mark worth $3,000,000 a letter."

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Barnett, Shattuck, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dodson, last Sunday.

Whether or not it is the candidate he voted for.

In other words, if you should now vote for Lowden and President Coolidge should be the nominee, would you vote for him?

Or, for Democrats, would you vote for Al Smith if he were nominated even though he is not now your choice?

Here is your ballot. Study it and then let us have your vote. You are an average American citizen and voter. Wouldn't you like to know how the other average American voters feel in this matter? If you vote and they vote now, then this paper with 2,000 others throughout the country will print the results—and it will be mighty interesting reading. Send in your ballot today.

MANY BARGAINS AWAIT PERRYTON VISITORS ON SATURDAY, MARCH 19

PERRYTON'S SECOND DOLLAR DAY IS TO BE BIGGER THAN FIRST EVENT HELD LAST FALL: EXPECT LARGE CROWD

The announcement of Perryton's second Dollar Day has brought with it the offering of many bargains on the part of the Perryton merchants who are co-operating in making Saturday, March 19, a big day.

Practically every business house in Perryton is offering bargains for the day which will mean a real saving to the purchaser. The goods being offered for sale is not old shop-worn goods but much of it is new spring merchandise, not usually placed on bargain counters until much later in the year.

The success of Dollar Day was assured last fall by the enormous crowd that braved the bad weather to take advantage of the specials offered at that time. The policy to hold Dollar Day as a semi-annual affair was decided upon at that time.

This entire section of the Herald has been devoted to advertisements of Dollar Day specials and your close inspection will mean a very material saving. Coming as it does at a very timely season of the year, before the spring work on the farm and before the harvest rush, it offers the buying public an opportunity to lay in supplies and clothing in many cases below cost.

The West Texas Teachers' College band will arrive in Perryton at 5:00 p. m. on next Monday, March 21st. Immediately after their arrival they will give a short concert on the streets of Perryton. At eight o'clock they will appear in concert at the high school auditorium. A small admission of 15 and 35c will be charged, two thirds of this charge going to the Perryton schools, while the remaining one-third goes toward defraying the expenses of the trip.

Student J. A. Hill is expected to accompany the band. The twenty-nine members of the band and the remainder of the party will be served dinner in the Home Ec. cottage by the girls of the same Economics class. The party will remain in Perryton Monday night going from here to Huntton. Miss Graceva Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Myers, and a graduate of Perryton high school, is a member of the band.

Notice to School Patrons
If you have a child who will become seven years of age by September 1st of this year, and who is not now in school, please call me over the phone or send into me the child's name and birthday. We need this information for our scholastic census and also for making our estimates of enrollment of new pupils for the fall. Do this now!

Language of Initials

I presume from what experience I have had and the conversations I have heard, that the language of initials is of great usage. In present times one will find himself amid a whirling, bewildering conversation of initial language.

On a journey from California to Texas, I heard the conversation between a boy and an educated doctor. The boy was a real green-horn.
"Intend to go to T. C. U. and get my M. D., then I will get my Ph. D.," said the doctor.
"You mean physical doctor?" asked the boy.
"Oh, indeed not, I have my A. B. and B. S. and surely I want the others."
I was obliged to escape such ignorant talk, so I changed trains. While the crowd was waiting for the train, the conductor yelled to a man behind him:
"Hey, bring on those C. D. D.'s and P. D. Q."
A little later he inquired if there was an M. D. who would come and care for a T. B. patient. One man said, "I guess he could not use me for I am a D. D."
On the train I heard a conversation of some young college students. One boy said, "I belong to the Y. M. C. A. and I am very interested in my work. Father belonged to the

C. S. and mother belongs to the W. C. T. U."
Thurman goes to the C. I. A. and he told me he joined the B. Y. P. U. He said he had his L. L. D. already. Bill is a member of the K. K. K. and Robert said he joined the I. W. W. a few months ago.
"Well, he did, but he later joined the Y. P. S. C. E., so he must be reforming, but the S. O. C. beats them all."
"Yes, he belongs to the R. W. for I saw those initials on his ring."
I saw more initials as A. T. & S. F. being painted on box cars.
By hearing all these conversations I realized that the initials were used all the time were of great importance.

—Bess Crum

Low cotton prices this season have stimulated in Texas and Oklahoma a great increase in a low-cost method of harvesting cotton, which consists in using sleds or strippers for pulling or snapping cotton from the stalks. Although this method of harvesting cotton often leaves fifteen per cent or more of the crop in the field, it is immensely cheaper than picking.

Cows watered once a day drink less and produce less than those watered twice a day or at will. In experiments by the United States Department of Agriculture, those watered twice a day drank as much but produced less than those watered at will. The maximum difference in production, between watering once a day and at will was about five per cent. The higher the production the greater or the benefit to be derived from frequent watering.

STARTING THE CALF

A 50-pound calf at birth should have about 8 pounds of a gallon of milk a day, and one weighing 80 to 90 pounds about a gallon and a half. It is better to give too little at the start than too much. Feed the milk at the same temperature—about 90 degrees—all the time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Travis and children, Follett, visited in the home of Mr. Travis' sister, Mrs. W. B. McLarty, last Sunday.

STARTING A FLOCK BY BUYING AND INCUBATING

There are three ways by which a flock may be established: first, by buying baby chicks; and third, by buying mature fowls.

One will consider the buying and raising of eggs, by means of artificial incubation. The time to hatch pullets is a very important factor.

Pullets hatched too early may be a neck molt in the fall and out of laying in three or more months when fresh eggs are scarce.

It is recommended a high price. The eggs of the smaller breeds, such as Leghorns, reach full development in a month earlier than the heavier breeds, such as the Island Reds or Wyandottes.

It means that our lighter breeds should be hatched the latter part of the year or first of April. This will allow the pullets to lay early in the fall about the time eggs reach high price.

Successful hatching of eggs in incubators depends fully as much on the vigor and vitality of the parent birds and the care of eggs before they are put into the incubator as the incubator itself.

Hatching eggs should be kept in a clean incubator, and in a cool place. The temperature for keeping hatchlings is between 40 and 50 degrees.

Eggs should not be over 14 days old before going into the incubator. The incubator should be kept in a cool space, bedroom or cellar, where the temperature will remain fairly even throughout the twenty-four hours. The correct temperature is 103 degrees at the top level of the eggs.

The eggs must lie on their sides or the large end may be slightly elevated, so as to give the developing chick ample room. The eggs should be candled on the seventh and fourteenth days. Eggs must be turned once a day and a better hatch will be secured if they are turned several times a day. Commence turning the eggs on the third day. On the 18th day stop turning the eggs and close the machine and do not open it again until the hatch is over.

If the chicks begin to hatch Monday take the chicks off Wednesday. Be sure that the chicks do not get chilled in moving from the incubator to the brooder. Have the brooder running at proper temperature and the surroundings warm. The temperature should be 95 degrees and the warmth of the chicks will bring it up to about 100 degrees.—Leon Myers, Vocational Agriculture.

It is expected, however, that the sedan will prove the sales leader of the line throughout the year. It is the lowest priced car in the line, yet has an extremely long and roomy body. It is finished in Beverly blue Duco, striped with Ivory white.

Like all new cars in the Pontiac line, it has the recessed window ledges in contrasting colors, narrow windshield pillars to provide a wider arc of visibility, deeper radiator, larger, heavier and more-sweeping crown fenders and more massive wheel-lamps.

The tilting beam headlights, which are directed straight ahead or down by a foot control, is proving one of the most unique features on the car and a constant source of interest to the thousands who are thronging the Oakland showrooms.

Besides the three cars mentioned, a coupe, landau sedan and De Luxe sedan complete the Pontiac line.

The sale of both Oakland and Pontiac sixes so far this year indicates that the Oakland company will break its phenomenal record of 1926 when it registered a gain of 91,071 units over the previous year.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?
By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT it pays to have Trade Days. THAT Trade Days benefit the merchants, and what benefits the merchants benefits the whole city.

THAT they bring to a city not only the people from the home trade territory, but people from beyond its recognized trade territory.

THAT visitors not only spend money, but on their return home they tell their neighbors of the cordial welcome they received, which does much to build a friendly feeling toward a city.

THAT cities that do not have Trade Days should think it over. They are missing an opportunity.

THAT Trade Days always pay if carefully carried out.

THAT co-operative advertising in newspapers and co-operation among the merchants make them pay.

THAT Trade Days not only bring business today, but build business for the future.

THE ONLY WAY BUSINESS CAN BE SECURED IS TO KEEP EVERLASTINGLY AT IT!

ESSAY CONTEST PRIZE WINNERS

MANY TRY OUT FOR PRIZES IN
WILSON FUNERAL HOME
CONTEST—THREE PRIZES

The three judges in the essay contest conducted by the Wilson Funeral Home announced the three prize winning essays this week and as soon as the authors are known the prizes will be awarded, the first of $10.00 in gold, the second of $5.00 in gold, and the third of $2.50 in gold.

The essays were written on the subject, "Lincoln—the People's Advocate," the subject of the 1927 calendars put out by the Wilson Funeral home.

The contest closed on February 28, but the award was made only this week because of the large number competing for the three prizes. The writers are still unknown, for according to the conditions of the contest, no names were to be signed on the manuscripts, only numbers were given.

The three prize winning essays are reproduced here with the numbers assigned to them. The authors of these essays can obtain their prizes by calling at the Wilson Funeral home.

"THE PEOPLE'S ADVOCATE" Prize Winning Essay Essay No. 366

"Your Honor, gentlemen of the jury," the plain, homely face of the young lawyer seemed inspired by the sympathy which shone from the patient gray eyes.

The judge leaned forward attentively, the jurors settled themselves comfortably to listen to the final plea of this young son of Illinois.

Although a young man, he had already won the name of "The People's Advocate" because he had the reputation of always helping those of the common people who were fundamentally in the right; and those who might be cheated of justice by some technicality of the law.

A feeling of curiosity was going round the little court room. Just how would this young lawyer be able to decide in justice, in all fairness, as to who was in the right?

How to prevent sectionalism or prejudice of mind from swaying the decisions of right or wrong between old George Whitman, who had put all his small savings into three negro slaves; and of young John and Mary Nelson, charged with breaking the fugitive slave law, and aiding the three slaves in making their escape by the underground railway?

Now the low hum of voices died, the smallest noises ceased, as the young man went on:

"The grounds, on which I ask the release of my clients are very simple.

"Gentlemen, you see before you a young woman, a loving wife, a tender mother, with her child in her arms, you Honor, do you suppose that Christian wife and mother would refuse help to another mother, even though that mother was black?

"There is nothing a true mother can refuse, when asked in the name of her child. Look at that young father. Much has been said of mother's love, but what of father's love?

"Gentlemen, not long since I had to give up a dear little son, I need not tell one of you what it meant to me; but what I say to you is, that no father, regardless of color, could stand to give up a child except to One, who is wiser and stronger than all others.

"But, Your Honor, although I advocate the case of these young people, I do not mean that I am in favor of robbing this aged man of his life's savings which are represented by his slaves, I believe in compensated emancipation.

"There is no room for two distinct races of men in America. We can have no inferior class, peasant, or slave. The American is a citizen, or nothing; and these tragedies will not be ended until the black man is restored to his own land.

"I ask, your Honor, that these young people be dismissed, but that they first restore to the plaintiff the cost of these three slaves, whom they helped to escape.

"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with fairness in the right, as God gives me to see the right, I commend this case to your decision."

THE PEOPLE'S ADVOCATE Second Prize Winning Essay Essay No. 244

"Good morning, Mr. Lincoln," said a man, whose dark eyes and hair were made still darker by the gloom on his face.

"Good morning, sir," replied the grave man behind the desk. "What can I do for you?"

"Much," simply answered the man sitting down. "Brown is my name; I'm out on bond. My honor and that of my family is at stake. I'm innocent, and I'll prove it. I'll—I'll I can't do anything unless you help me, sir." His eyes were sparkling and his head was erect as he passionately uttered the first words, but as he spoke the last, his face showed his utter helplessness; and he looked at Lincoln beseechingly.

The kindly light in Lincoln's eyes deepened into a look of sincerest sympathy as he said, "Tell me all about it."

"I came to town late Friday evening last week to get the doctor for my little daughter who became suddenly ill. I rode swiftly and as I turned into the main road, I rode abreast of another horseman who was pursued by a coach some two hundred yards distant. As we neared town, he turned off into a lane hid by trees, and the coach followed me to town. I was arrested, and the doctor's return, after finding my daughter well and sleeping soundly, gave added proof that I had robbed the mail coach. All my protestations were in vain."

"My wife said that it was probably a slight disorder of the stomach that made our child suddenly so ill."

"I am to be tried before the circuit court next week. Now with all this evidence against me, do you believe you could win my case?"

For a while Lincoln was silent; then looking him squarely in the eyes said, "Yes, if you are innocent. Can you swear before God that you are entirely guiltless?"

"I can and I do," he replied meeting Lincoln's eyes as he laid his hand reverently on an opened bible on the desk.

Then they entered into a detailed discussion of the case, and all the next week they were together much as they prepared for the trial.

The day of the trial arrived. At Lincoln's advice, Mr. Brown brought his pretty young wife and their three-year-old daughter with him. Much evidence was brought against him, and it seemed that all was lost until Lincoln arose to speak. His ready wit, inspired wisdom, and the conviction that he was right gave him such a force that everyone was convinced that he spoke the truth.

"Honest Abe" had won. As he and Mr. Brown shook hands in speechless joy, a tottering old man, Mr. Brown's father, raised a trembling hand toward heaven and said in a broken but prophetic voice, "Thou art the chosen one of God, and thy greatness shall soon be revealed, for thou art the People's Advocate."

Third-Prize Winning Essay "A PLEA FOR UNITY" Essay No. 83

'Twas early one morning in the year eighteen-forty. Court was in session at the court house.

Abraham Lincoln, our noted statesman and lecturer, being interested in a particular case was present. As they didn't have enough evidence to prove anything this case was dismissed.

The next case that arose was a couple suing for divorce. When they were seated and their business made known, "Honest Abe" asked permission to speak, on gaining consent, he arose and addressed the couple.

"My friends, I didn't come prepared to deliver a lecture, but I have heard you state you have decided to separate and of course that is your affair, but let me ask you, what do you suppose the Bible says about divorce?"

"I am not a preacher but I believe in God and my honest desire is to do my duty toward my fellow men. I can see you have a very intelligent child there and sincerely believe you desire to do your duty by that child, do you not?"

The couple nodded mutely.

"Then just one word. Do you think that bright little fellow will have the advantage he rightly deserves if he is deprived of his father or mother?"

"I do not. How old is your boy?" he asked.

"Three years old," answered the mother, as she gently drew the child to her bosom.

"All right do you wish to part with your son and never see him again? I'll answer for you. Of course you don't, that isn't nature."

"Now young couple, I don't pretend to know your trouble but I am sure it isn't of enough importance to justify you in separating this little boy from those he loves."

"One of the greatest, as well as most holy advantage given to we mortals is motherhood. For the Bible says a mother and child are joined to Christ and His church."

"What do you suppose would do without his church, or could the church prosper without Christ? Therefore, how can a mother prosper, being deprived of mother's love or father's care?"

"I thank you for your advice, given me. I trust you will be of value to you."

Hardly had he finished before and wife arose, clasped him by hand and told him they would treasure his speech because it proved they were wrong while would forever be indebted to him for the good advice given.

Abe told them it was a pleasure to talk to one who would listen to their very best to accomplish what they knew was right.

Then man and wife took child and departed. "Honest Abe" watched them with a smile on his lips and a prayer in his heart, prayer of thankfulness to God for this act for which in later years they would have bitterly regretted.

TO ADVERTISE U. S. HIGHWAY

SECRETARY W. T. FLEESON RETURNS FROM SWING OVER EASTERN PART OF ROUTE

The officials of the Uncle Sam Highway Association have started an extensive advertising campaign to attract tourists going to the mountains to travel over the Uncle Sam Highway, the shortest route from Oklahoma City to the mountains.

At the last annual meeting, which was held in this city, W. B. LaMaster was elected president and W. T. Fleeson was made secretary-treasurer. At this meeting it was decided to advertise the route by the use of maps distributed through tourist bureaus of the larger cities of the United States. Another feature of the meeting was the creating of the office of a field secretary to put in his time seeing that the road is kept in the best of shape and to keep the route before the traveling public.

Mr. Fleeson has just returned from an extended trip to Enid, and Oklahoma City. While in Enid, he met with Burt Parker, a member of the Oklahoma Highway Commission and C. A. Rightmire, state highway engineer. The object of this meeting was to acquaint these men with that portion of the Uncle Sam Highway which traverses the western part of Beaver county, and to request that this piece of road be included in the Oklahoma State Highway system. The Beaver County road is also on the Great Plains highway which runs through Perryton from Regina, Canada, to Laredo, Texas. It is the only stretch on the Great Plains which is not a state highway. These two officials have promised to visit Perryton soon and inspect the route between here and Liberal before they take any action on designation.

On the return trip, Mr. Fleeson met with the officials of the different Chambers of Commerce between Perryton and Oklahoma City. He explained to them what the association planned to do in putting the highway before the public. Much interest was shown and a full co-operation promised.

The log of the Uncle Sam is as follows: follow OK 3 from Oklahoma City to Geary; follow OK 8 from Geary to Watonga; follow OK 23 from Watonga to Selling; follow OK 13 from Selling to Higgins, Texas; follow Uncle Sam Markers from Higgins through Lipscomb to Perryton; follow Texas 4 north from Perryton to Oklahoma-Texas state line; follow Uncle Sam Markers north to Liberal, Kansas; follow Uncle Sam markers west from Liberal to Elkhart, Kansas and on to Trinidad, Colorado; from Trinidad follow Federal Highway 55 north into Denver, going through Walsenburg, Pueblo and Colorado Springs. On the return trip, the tourist has the option of coming back over another branch of the Uncle Sam as follows: Leave Denver and follow Colorado 8 to Kit Carson; follow Colorado 59 through Lamar to Verdun; follow Uncle Sam markers through Buckeye, Johnson City, Ulysses and Hugoton into Liberal.

The present plans call for the logging of the Uncle Sam, next fall, on east from Oklahoma City to Hot Springs, Arkansas. The Uncle Sam will then be the shortest practical route from the Arkansas national resort to the Rockies. Abstracts by those who know the public records. Ochiltree County Abstract Co. 3-17

Such a Difference

"Ain't life wonderful?" smilingly opined Babe Ruth (above) as he signed the $210,000 contract for three years of baseball. "Not good," mumbled the same Mr. Ruth (below) as he scribbled his "G. Herzman" income tax before starting south for the coming season.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Edward I. Bacon, business manager of The Philadelphia Inquirer, says:

THAT classified advertising today is a very important factor in the home life of a community. Its listings are such that many daily needs may be quickly satisfied.

The public expects almost immediate returns through classified advertising and the paper that carries a volume and variety of constantly changing want-ads is rendering a great service to its community.

But to develop a circulation of buyers requires constant watchfulness on the part of the publisher. The classified columns must be free from anything that smacks of insincerity or schemes. Readers' responsiveness can only be obtained through reader-confidence.
