Reds Expand Reich Zones Of Occupation

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 6 — Moscow newspapers published maps today indicating that Russia would occupy approximately half of Germany on a line running well west of Berlin and including large areas now in American and British hands, the Soviet radio announced.

A British foreign office spokesman said the American, British and French occupation zones were "under discussion" by the European advisory council, but there was no indication when their boundaries would be decided upon.

Several Large Towns

The zone of Russian occupation, as outlined by the Moscow maps, would take in the cities of Leipzig, Gotha and Erfurt and all of Thuringia province in central Germany now held by American forces.

The Russian zone delineation, which was not authenticated by the Americans or British, came after the first meeting of the four-power Allied Control council in Berlin yesterday, which issued a declaration reducing Germany to the status of a beaten, prisoner nation.

There was some anxiety in London over the report by a correspondent of the combined American press that the session "ended abruptly" when the American, British and French representatives learned that the Russian delegate, Marshal Zhukov, was not empowered to do any more than sign the declaration of supreme Allied authority.

Allied Chiefs Leave

Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery, the British representative, flew back to their headquarters immediately after the meeting, and the London Star reported without confirmation that Montgomery was flying to London "for important consultations on the future of Germany."

At any rate, the first brief meeting in Berlin left unsettled many details concerning the organization of the Allied Control council and how it will govern the Germans.

It was announced in Commons that Allied military missions had taken up posts in Russian-held Vienna, and there were indications the Big Four was running into some snags on the question of administering Austria. A spokesman for the British foreign office admitted it would be "some time" before a control commission could be set up in Austria which the Allies stripped from Germany in yesterday's rigid declaration.

The Russian news agency Tass, reporting on the maps published in Moscow, said Greater Berlin was to be divided into four occupation zones. Yesterday's Allied declaration, on the other hand, spoke only of one "Greater Berlin area," which would be commanded

An Editorial, Straight From The Shoulder
Their Blood, Vs. Our Dollars!

WHILE our young men—together with their comrades-in-arms from over the nation—are blasting a blood-soaked trail to victory, the people of the U.S.A., and, specifically, we of Lubbock county, are showing a strange unwillingness to back their efforts with our dollars.

Not only are Americans in general, and Lubbock county people, in particular, failing to meet their obligations to the nation's fighting men in the matter of investing in Seventh War Loan bonds. In many instances, they are cashing bonds previously purchased. On one morning of this very week, one Lubbock bank exchanged more cash for bonds turned in than all three banks, combined, received in voluntary bond purchases. That is an ugly picture, but a true one.

At the close of tabulations on the night of June 4—Monday—Lubbock county people had invested, during the Seventh War Loan drive, a total of $2,388,178.75 in bonds of all sorts; had invested only $703,218.75 in Series E issues—the "anchor bonds" of the drive. The county's over-all quota is $4,540,000; its E bond quota is $1,700,000. It does not require the talents of an expert mathematician immediately to note that we are not measuring up to our responsibilities to either the men who are fighting the war; to the government of the United States, or to ourselves.

WHAT to do about it?

Well, there is only one thing that can be done. That is, we of Lubbock county—along with American home-fronters in every section of the land—must invest more in bonds; must put the Seventh War Loan drive over the top, just as its six predecessors have been put over.

We understand, of course, that 22 per cent of the worker's pay check is snipped off by taxes before he gets his weekly, semi-monthly, or monthly "take home" wage.

We understand, too, that June 15 will be another payment date for income taxes.

But all of us understand, too, that the great majority of us are making more money than we ever made before and that if we budget ourselves as we should we can pay our taxes, and can invest in our full share of war bonds, too.

From now until July 1, when the Seventh War Loan drive officially closes, it is strictly up to the individual as to whether or not he will do his part in helping win the Jap end of the war.

What we have said about Lubbock county's lagging in the current bond drive may likewise be said of every county in this area; of Texas as a state and of the nation, as a whole.

The fighting men are doing their part—and more.

If we here at home fail to match their lives and blood with our dollars, the result shall stand forever as a blot upon the nation's civilian war record.

Nip Remnants Are Cut Into Smaller Units

MANILA, Thursday, June 7.—Eighth Army troops, completely sealing off Davao gulf, onetime Japanese stronghold in the Philippines, landed with warship and air support Tuesday at Cape San Augustin, southeasternmost tip of Mindanao, and on Balut island.

Opposition was termed negligible.

Cape San Augustin is the tip of the Davao province peninsula. Balut island is at the entrance to Sarangani bay, immediately west of Davao gulf.

Air And Naval Support

The landings were supported by destroyer guns and aircraft of the 13th and Marine air forces.

At the top of Davao gulf, meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th division infantrymen fighting north and west of captured Davao city straightened its lines and started a crusher attack against stubborn resistance north of Ula on the key Talomo-Ribawe trail.

A headquarters spokesman said the 24th reached Wangan village, north of captured Tagakpan. In no sector was resistance heavy.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said the Yanks who landed on Balut island destroyed enemy radio stations and supply dumps with naval support.

Opposition Light

Associated Press correspondent Richard Bergholz said the landing was made against neligible opposition.

The landings, closely following one at Luayon, 75 miles south of Davao city, last Friday, served further to sever the remaining Nipponese in the southeastern corner of Mindanao, second largest island in the archipelago.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Infantry division, destroying a number of Japanese tanks, meanwhile smashed two and one-half miles beyond captured Aritao Tuesday in their drive toward northern Luzon's extensive Cagayan valley.

MacArthur's communique reported "decreasing resistance" on the mountainous No. 5 highway approach to the valley, last major enemy holding in the Philippines.

PTs Shell Beaches

In the air war, heavy bombers dropped 137 tons of explosives on Formosa, concentrating on railway yards at Takao. Fighters strafed Formosan coastal targets with destructive effect.

Patrol bombers ranging the China sea sank a large cargo ship at night at the mouth of the Yangtze river, China, bombed the Shanghai and Canton areas. An armament plant near Canton was pounded.

Bombers of all sizes dropped 180 tons on airdromes and coast-

JAPAN'S STRONGHOLD, IN TERMS OF THE USA—Map above depicts graphically the magnitude of the job Allies would have to tackle if Japan chooses, as some expect, to fight the final phases of the war in its "inner empire," which embraces Manchuria, Korea, Inner Mongolia and portions of China. This area, approximately 1,000,000 square miles, is larger than prewar Germany, plus Italy, France, the Low Countries and the Axis Balkans. In area and population it approximates the United States east of the Mississippi. Manchuria alone, with 503,013 square miles, is more than twice the area of Germany in September, 1939, which included Austria and Czechoslovakia's Sudenland. It is agriculturally and minerally rich and intensively industrialized for war.

Troops Push On To Last Jap Defenses

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Thursday, June 7—Advancing swiftly despite miserable weather, U. S. Tenth Army troops completed capture of Okinawa's excellent Naha airfield and Chinen peninsula, an arm of the island's best fleet anchorage, yesterday. Then the forces pressed toward the last Japanese defense positions along an east-west escarpment.

The Japanese, compressed in an area of about 25 square miles, in the south end of Okinawa, were offering stiffening resistance in the closing phase of the bitter 66-day campaign, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique, which broke a 48-hour silence on ground operations, said today that advances were scored in all sectors Tuesday and Wednesday.

Drive for Juncture

Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr's Sixth Marine division reduced Japanese caves and strongpoints around the Naha airfield Tuesday and won all of the base yesterday. The Leathernecks then started driving southeastward toward a juncture with Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First Marine division, moving down the center of the island.

The Japanese opposed the Sixth division Marines with spigot mortars and other guns from positions west of the airfield. The big field, in American hands a potent base for bomber operations against Japan, was doomed Monday when the Marines crossed Naha harbor onto the Oroku peninsula in an amphibious hop.

The Sixth division Marines also captured a small island off the coast due west of the Naha airstrip, field dispatches reported today.

First division Marines met considerable resistance in an advance to the outskirts of Yunagusuku town, in the exact center of the Yaeju-Dake escarpment.

Turn Southwestward

In the 24th Army corps sector, the Seventh and 96th divisions turned their main weight southwestward. The Seventh division's 32nd regiment, which cleared the Chinen peninsula on the southeast coast, reached the eastern end of the Yaeju-Dake escarpment, which arcs considerably north in a

Russian Delegates Call Big Five Session But Insist They Stand Firm On Veto Issue

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6. — The Big Five met on Russia's call today, but Soviet sources ruled out any break here, so far as they are concerned, on the veto power issue which has the United Nations conference tightly deadlocked.

Despite American hopefulness that Moscow would modify the stand which has sharply divided Russia on one side and the United States, Britain, France and China on the other, it was learned from officials in a position to know that:

Yalta And Veto Right

1. Russia considers that the Yalta agreement gives any of the Big Five the right to veto even discussion of an international dispute in a world security council. Despite urgings of the other Big Four, she is standing on her interpretation as the only correct one.

2. Consequently, Russia ruled out any talk of the veto issue at today's suddenly called meeting and brought up, instead, lesser matters.

3. The Soviet delegation expects no reply here to the request sent Moscow for reconsideration of the Russian interpretation of the Yalta formula.

4. This no-retreat attitude presents, in effect, a decision against any modification of the Russian stand which, by conflict with the view of her Big Five colleagues, has stalemated the conference. Unless the four give way, it apparently passes the issue to President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin for settlement.

Effect Not Clear

The immediate effect of this situation on the outcome of the United Nations conference was not clear. Mr. Truman's envoy, Harry Hopkins, still is in Moscow conferring with top flight Soviet officials. A Big Three meeting is scheduled. Some delegates have been talking of an incomplete charter, leaving unsettled points to be filled out by the Big Three chiefs.

The policy-making executive committee contributed to the thumb-twiddling. Russia wanted it to take a stand on another angle of the veto problem and overturn a technical committee's decision that the veto should not apply to selection of the top official of the United Nations league.

The executive committee talked for three and a half hours, then decided on a step which will take even more time. The whole problem will be turned over for debate to a committee considering functions of the security council.

Danish delegates formally entered conference deliberations today. On the sidelines, delegate Erik Husfeldt told a news conference that Sweden, by agreement with Britain and the United States, had ignored her wartime neutrality to make arms and ammunition and turn them over to the Danish underground.

Lack of Big Five agreement on the veto issue brought several conference committees to a dead stop.

One committee, however, talked over an Ecuadorean proposal for creation of regional conciliation agencies. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), the American representative, asked its withdrawal but predicted the idea would be a development of the future. It was

Recapture Of Strategic Liuchow, Former U. S. Air Base, Reported

CHUNGKING, June 6 (AP) — American and Chinese reports said tonight that veteran Chinese troops today recaptured the big former American bomber base city of Liuchow in south China. There was no confirmation from the Chinese high command.

The reports, if true, meant that one of the most important Japanese bases in China had been reoccupied after seven months of Japanese occupation.

Exact Position Uncertain

The Chinese high command reported that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies were advancing on Liuchow on a 180-mile arc from the north, west and south, but was silent on the exact position of Chinese troops moving toward the Kwangsi province rail hub.

Chinese forces Tuesday were reported within 21 miles southwest of the city, and the same day, low-flying P-51 Mustang fighter-bombers of the U. S. 14th Air force blasted enemy defense installations in the town for the third time in 72 hours. Chinese planes also hammered the city area.

American quarters reported the fall of the city after Gen. Yang Sen, governor of Kweiyang (Kweichow) told a Chinese engineers' conference that the town had been seized. Chinese Army headquarters said it had received no direct report from the front, and that the report should be accepted with reserve.

Jap Control Point

Junction of the highway from Indo-China and the escape railroad northeast to Kweilin and Hengyang, Liuchow is the control point for Japanese forces withdrawing from southeast China. The big air base was abandoned by the 14th Air force and Chinese troops to the Japanese last Nov. 11 in an enemy offensive which rolled up the central line of American airfields.

Forty miles south of Liuchow, a Chinese communique said that an enemy pocket at Laipin, by-passed in a swift Chinese surge toward Liuchow, had been cleared after a severe mopping-up.

Meanwhile, 150 miles southeast of Liuchow, Chinese reports alleged that the Japanese were preparing to abandon the important Si (west) River port of Tsangwu (Wuchow), 113 miles west of Canton.

Six Charged In Document Theft

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The FBI announced today the arrest of six persons, including a U. S. Navy reserve lieutenant, two State department employes and a New York editor on charges of conspiring to violate espionage statutes through the theft of highly confidential documents.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the investigation was undertaken at the request of departments of State and Navy and that the arrests were made in Washington and New York today.

The announcement said in custody in Washington are Lt. Andrew Roth of Arlington, Va., formerly assigned to the office of naval intelligence; Emmanuel Sigurd Larsen of Washington, a specialist in the China division of the State department office of Far Eastern affairs, and John Stewart Service of Washington, foreign service officer of the State department who until recently was stationed in China.

Under arrest in New York, the announcement said, are Phillip Jacob Jaffe and Kate Louise Mitchell, co-editors of Amerasia, which allegedly printed information from the documents, and Mark Julius Gayn, a writer who, the FBI said, used some of the material in articles written by him.

The three are residents of New York City.

The announcement said documents recovered by FBI agents include originals and copies of papers from the State, War and Navy departments, the Office of Strategic Services, the Office of War Information and the Federal Communications commission.

Humble Granted Injunction On Ingleside Plant Seizure

HOUSTON, June 6. (AP) — Three hours after receiving notice of an order by President Truman authorizing the seizure of the Ingleside refinery by the federal Petroleum Administration for War, the Humble Oil & Refining company was granted a temporary injunction by Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly in Galveston against putting the order into effect.

Humble company officials in Houston said that Judge Kennerly set a hearing on the case for Monday in Houston.

The company received notice of the order at 11 a. m. today, and took immediate steps to obtain the temporary injunction. So speedy was the action taken, that the injunction plea was prepared while the company attorneys were enroute to Galveston.

Hines H. Baker, executive vice president, had announced earlier in the day that the injunction would be sought.

PAW TAKES OVER ON ORDER OF PRESIDENT

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 6. (AP) —The Petroleum Administration for War took over the Humble Oil and Refining company plant at nearby Ingleside today after President Truman directed Secretary Ickes to seize and operate the company as a result of a labor disturbance.

S. E. Hill of the PAW served papers on Superintendent Frank Goss who said there had been no disturbances, no work stoppage and no reduction in production at the plant.

At Houston, officials of the Humble company asserted they were "unable to understand the seizure, declaring that there had been no work stoppage or interruption.

The President's order issued at Washington said the company's facilities were needed for the production of crude oil and other products vital to the war effort and that thei. operation is threatened with interruption by the labor dispute.

The plant makes butadiene and products for high octane gasoline, turning out about 6,500 barrels of 91-octane gas daily. It employs 460, of whom 330 are in the bargaining unit made up of processing and maintenance employes.

The President's order was recommended by William Davis, director of economic stabilization. In a report to Davis, the War

Fire Damages Several Buildings At Borger

BORGER, June 6. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin which started in the Rex theatre about noon today gutted the building housing it in the 500 block on Main street before it was brought under control two hours later.

The building also housed a beauty shop, baby clothing store and the D. M. Massie law offices.

The Diamond shop, a dress shop and a barber shop in the same block were damaged.

The loss was not determined immediately, although the building housing the theater was valued at $28,100 in an engineer survey on file with the city manager.

Fire Chief J. D. Miller said firewalls between the buildings saved the rest of the block from destruction.

Borger firemen were aided in their fight by high pressure equipment from the Phillips Petroleum Co. plants located near here. A truck from Amarillo carrying six firemen made a run to arrive here about 2:20 p. m.

B-29s Return For Great Osaka Blow

GUAM, Thursday, June 7 (AP)—Upwards of 450 Superfortresses attacked Osaka's concrete and steel arsenal with high explosives and spilled fire bombs on the eastern industrial areas of Japan's second largest city today.

The high explosives, which have not been carried on recent incendiary attacks, were aimed at a sector where the enemy's production of medium artillery and small arms is centered.

It was the third B-29 assault on Osaka, a city of more than 3,000,000, where previous strikes have burned out 11.5 square miles of its industrial area.

Contract Let On New City Plant

Contract for the construction of a new municipal power plant building on city property northeast of Lubbock, just across the Plainview highway from Mackenzie State Park, was let by the City commission Wednesday afternoon to John T. Glover, Lubbock contractor, on a low bid of $71,434.

Four other bids were opened in the building. They were: W. G. McMillan, $72,358; J. L. Hair Construction company, Witchita Falls, $74,334; B. M. F. Construction company, (W. S. Moss), $76,228; and Sampson Bros. Construction company, $89,937.

Alternate Roof Bids

Alternate bids were requested on the job, should a steel decking roof included in the specifications not be available. Glover allowed deduction of $768 and McMillan $698 for a substitute pre-fabricated concrete slab type roof. Other bidders did not submit alternate figures.

Construction on the building, which will house a new engine and generator for the city plan and eventually may be expanded to house nine such engines, is expected to be completed within 180 days under terms of the contract. Actual work is to start within ten days of written notification.

The building, of brick, concrete and tile construction, is to be 83 by 86 feet with the roof 43 feet and four inches above the ground level.

Other action by the commission in the abbreviated meeting included the appointment of a city

Sweden Secretly Armed Danes With Full Allied Approval

By JOHN A. PARRIS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6 — Sweden, with the approval of the Allies, secretly armed the Danish underground army in defiance of possible German aggression, a Danish delegate to the United Nations conference disclosed today.

The story of Sweden's contribution to the fight against the Nazis was told by 43-year-old Erik Husfeldt, one of Denmark's most prominent underground leaders.

The tall professor of surgery at Copenhagen university gave a detailed account of how Swedish ships met plucky little Danish fishing boats in the dark hours before dawn off the Swedish coast with cases of automatic pistols and ammunition.

He said Sweden manufactured the arms and ammunition under an agreement with the United States and Great Britain. Husfeldt personally made arrangements for the shipments during a 14-day visit to Stockholm last summer.

This was the first disclosure that Sweden, which kept an outward post of strict neutrality carefully turned to overwhelming German force, had secretly helped the Allies in the only way she could without declaring war on the Nazis and being invaded.

More than 3,000 automatic pistols and ammunition, and thousands of hand grenades, were shipped by the Swedes to help the Allies in arming Denmark's underground army of 43,000 patriots, said Husfeldt, professor of surgery at the University of Copenhagen.

It was all done under an agreement between Britain, America and Sweden, he explained.

Husfeldt explained that Sweden, being a neutral country, had to have permission from the Allies to manufacture arms and ammunition for export. An agreement was worked out between the Allies and Sweden for her to manufacture arms with the explicit understanding that they go to Denmark.

The Swedes explained to the Germans and anybody else who asked where the arms were being shipped that they were going to Switzerland, another neutral country.

"But the Allies and Sweden," Husfeldt said, "knew they were going straight to Denmark as fast as they could be turned out."

This disclosure wrote a new page in behind-the-scenes war on the continent. As Husfeldt told it, it made clear that Sweden, while proclaiming neutrality to both the Allies and Germany, was actually helping the United Nations to fight the Nazis.

The professor who barely escaped capture by the Germans, told his story at a news conference.

He made a trip to Sweden during the summer of 1944 to negotiate with the Swedish government for arms and ammunition. He spent 14 days in Stockholm working out an agreement and arrangements for getting the arms and ammunition to Denmark.

"Our fishing ships would put from one Danish port and would swing in close to the Swedish coast," he explained. "We had pre-arranged signals. So we would let the Swedish ships know where we would be at such and such a time. They would meet us and would transfer cases of pistols and ammunition.

"These cases were marked with such lettering as 'butter' and 'bacon'."

Long before dawn, he said, the case would be placed aboard the Danish ships which would move on to their destination.

"We would unload the cases right under the eyes of the German armed guards and inspectors," Husfeldt explained. "They never got wise. They never did know that we were bringing in guns and ammunition and dumping them right under their noses. Once they were on the docks they were carted off into the country where they were hidden until such time as we needed them.

"You see we had been informed by the Allies that they planned to invade Denmark. They had asked our army to prepare. We were given instructions as to our tasks.

"In addition to the armaments we received from Sweden, Allied planes dropped enough supplies of guns and ammunition for 30,000 men."

Husfeldt said that despite the country being occupied by the Germans in great force, only 20 per cent of armaments dropped by Allied planes was lost.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

MEMORIES—Do you recall your feelings June 6, 1944, that day that came to be known as D-day? Do you recall you were a bit sleepy because a thoughtful friend had called early that morning to tell you the "time had come" and to tune in your radio?

Do you remember that the day was hazy? That your morning coffee did not taste as good as usual because of that sinking feeling in your stomach?

That you had a prayer in your heart all day for the sons and husbands who were on those ships that stormed the Normandy beaches? That you wondered if your son or husband might not be among those who were to lose their lives in the initial invasion?

Do you remember you vowed you would do all you could to help to end the war in Europe as soon as possible?

Do you remember you made a pledge with yourself that you would not fuss because of shortages? That you would work harder than ever to make the home front stand up along the battle front?

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner:

For the last few days a lot has been said about the use, or should I say the misuse, of canning sugar. Everytime I read any of it, I think about what happened to me last year.

There are four in my family and we work hard and eat plenty. Since we prefer fruit and fresh fruit whenever possible we always have plenty of sugar. We didn't use a lot of sugar before rationing and we've continued to use the same amount since rationing. To keep from losing the use of a stamp I buy sugar sometimes when I don't need it and save it until canning time.

I canned four bushels of peaches and wanted a little extra sugar for jellies, conserves and juices. I hadn't registered for any sugar so applied for what I thought I'd need which was only about one-fourth of what I was allowed.

When I turned in my application, the girl reminded me that I could have more. I told her that was all I thought I'd need. She looked at me as if I were only half there. She either was surprised that I didn't register for all I could get or she didn't want me running back in a few days taking up her time with another application. I prefer to think it was the first reason.

Of course there was the temptation to get more sugar, since the girl was making it easy. My senses brought me to with a big "why?" The moral is don't take rationed goods you don't need and there will always be plenty for your needs.

There is one thing about rationing I do not understand. Why is the government putting prohibitive high points on canned fruit and yet there are ample preserves, jellies, jam, etc., point free and requiring much more sugar than plain canned fruits.

Since I'd like this to be a general story of a lot of us I'll not sign my name.

A Reader.

DEAR Reader: Of course you did right in not signing for more sugar than you thought you'd need but if you had signed for more and not used all of the coupons you would have the privilege of turning them in next fall when the season is over.

Rationing was instituted in the first place because it seemed the only fair way to provide enough for all. Of course there were cheaters here, as in many phases of life, who by one scheme or another managed to hoard. You knew, we suppose, that so many chiselers last year stooped to falsifying their applications in an effort to get sugar they knew they wouldn't need in canning, the supply is limited this year. Price Administrator Chester Bowles is doing all he can to do away with the sugar racket this season.

As for your last question, aren't most of the jellies and jams you see on the market made from apricots, berries, grapes or apples? You don't see peach preserves or pear preserves do you? Either the crops were limited last year or a large percentage of the fruits went to the services are reasons the fruits are so limited on the grocery shelves. Because of these commitments overseas, we are urged to can all we can, as of course you know.

Back to your question on the jellies, don't you believe some of them are rather synthetic? And can you imagine trying to palm off a pineapple, plum or peach on anyone that wasn't the real thing?

Thanks for writing us.

Accounts Given Of Beheading Of Americans At 'Valley Of Hope'

By RICHARD BERGHOLZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

ILOILO, Panay, June 5. (Delayed)—Mrs. Charma Covell, her hands tied behind her, pleaded with the Japanese captain, Kunoyi Watanabe, as he prepared to wield his Samurai sword.

"Why will you kill us all?" she asked.

"We are Christian missionaries."

The imperturable officer, surrounded by Japanese soldiers, said nothing.

Three Boys Bayoneted

Eleven times that day at that spot Watanable's sword fell. Eleven Americans were beheaded. In another house, the same fate befell five others. Three small American boys were killed by Japanese bayonets.

Then fires were set in an effort to blot out the crime.

Six of the victims were women. Eleven of those killed were Baptist missionaries.

The story of the tragedy, which occurred at Hopevale—"The Valley of Hope"—Dec. 20, 1943, just has been released. It was pieced together from accounts including that of Paterno H. Enano, 23, who witnessed the executions and later became a Filipino guerilla.

Enano, a former student of the Central Philippine college, heard Mrs. Covell make her fruitless plea. Then he turned his head as Watanabe's sword fell.

A Japanese force of 500 left the township of Libacao in Capiz province Dec. 18, 1943. On the way to Iloilo, Lt. Robert King of the U. S. Army and two unidentified engineers, later to be numbered among those beheaded, were seized.

Location Disclosed

A Filipino, threatened with death, disclosed the location of an American mission hideout in the "Valley of Hope."

During Sunday services, 250 Japanese soldiers surrounded the camp. Watanabe and a picked group of his men seized the 16 Americans.

They were: Dr. Francis H. Rose, field representative of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary society and professor of zoology at Central Philippine college; his wife, a professor of mathematics and foreign languages; James H. Covell, English professor; his wife; Miss Dorothy Dowell, principal of the Baptist Missionary Training school at the college.

Miss Signe Erickson, professor of religious education at the missionary training school; Dr. Frederick Meyers, director of Immanuel hospital at Capiz; Mrs. Meyers; Jane Addams, head nurse; the Rev. Erle Rounds, director of rural education for the convention of Baptist churches on Panay; his wife and eight year old son, Douglas; Mark W. Clardy, U. S. Army engineer of Arizona; his wife and their two sons, Johnny and Terry.

The following afternoon, the 16 were led forth to die. Mrs. Covell was first.

The heads of the three children still were attached to the bodies when Enano probed the ruins after the Japanese departed.

Engracio C. Alora, general secretary of the convention of Philippine Baptist churches, buried the bones in a common grave at the foot of the pulpit in the mission but fortunately did not mark the grave. Later the Japanese came back to the mission, chopped the communion table into fire wood and cooked a meal over the grave, unaware of it.

Alora and a Mr. and Mrs. Urbano Nequin, who lived near the scene, verified Enano's story.

Vegetable Growers To Meet June 13

Lubbock county vegetable growers will meet Wednesday, June 13, at 3 o'clock p. m. in the agriculture building, 14th and Ave. Q, Jason Gordon, county agent, said Wednesday.

Purpose of the meeting will be to obtain information from truck crops in regard to time of harvest, expected yield, and other features. This will facilitate an early start in arranging a consumer program.

Gordon said that several crops suffered in the local market last year due to its limits, along with a late program. Many products were left to rot on the shelves and in storage due to an oversupply.

The program will be set up through the Surplus Market association to move out of the area all truck crops not needed and leave enough for a plentiful supply in local stores.

Means Suggested To Combat Cabbage Bug

Warning has come to vegetable and flower growers in the section from Jason Gordon, county agent, that the Harlequin cabbage bug is busy destroying plants in Lubbock.

Gordon said calls had been coming in during the earlier part of the week and that the damage by the pest seemed to be growing. Both gardens and flowers seemed to be feeling the effects, he said.

Using the slogan, "Get them before they get your garden," the county agent said that just as the bugs are hatching is the best time to strike. After they reach the adult stage it is practically impossible to be rid of the insects, he said.

Using rotenone-sulphur mixture, applications should be made every five to seven days to give maximum results. If the bugs are not killed Gordan said, the constant application of the poison may drive them to other plants where they will do less damage.

Several insect sprays have been tried but none seem to harm the adult bug.

Gordon suggested, but did not guarantee, that one part rotenone to eight parts dusting sulphur be used on plants. This will help control other insects. It should be used on tomatoes, Irish potatoes, beans, etc., (excepting cucumbers, watermelons and canteloupes), to cut down insect trouble.

Occupation Called Common Sense Beginning On Long Road To Peace

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The four-power occupation of Germany is the first step on the long road back to peace in Europe and the world.

It is a common sense beginning, which starts things off on a note of encouragement. The explosion which tore the world apart was set of by Germany. Logically, the occupying powers have put the German boundaries for the time being back where they were in 1937, before Adolf Hitler began grabbing territory of his neighbors.

Starts From Scratch

It was done without argument and starts the reconstruction work from scratch. Slight delay in setting up the machinery, caused by points raised by Russia, does not indicate friction. The Russians wanted to avoid involving their neutrality in the Japanese war by interfering with Japanese property or subjects in Germany. The point was granted. Russia also wants Allied troops withdrawn from the zone she is to occupy. That is based on the principle of occupation by mutual agreement, not on the "what we have, we hold principle." Britain and the United States have raised no objection.

Announcement that the four powers also are moving in jointly on Austria may be taken as a further encouraging sign of basic agreement.

From this start, the tedious process of undoing the political and economic chaos which Hitler has caused in Europe and the Mediterranean basin must go forward. It will take years and many headaches lie ahead. The big powers are showing a disposition to proceed without undue haste, and in a spirit of give and take.

Knottiest Problems

The knottiest problems to be tackled immediately fall into two classifications. The first is boundary adjustment and the second the form of government to be restored in the dismembered and strife-torn countries.

The troublesome Polish question, Yugoslavia's claims and the Syria-Lebanon dispute are among many knotty problems to be solved. They stand out because they have arisen early and taken the spotlight. Others just as difficult exist, and it is going to take great statesmanship, wisdom and patience to solve them.

There are territorial issues involving almost every country on the continent, from the North sea to the Adriatic, Aegean and Black sea. Most of them touch on the interests of the big powers in one way or another.

Eastern And Western

Broadly, questions respecting the line between "eastern" and "western" Europe may be lumped. Russia wants a corridor or tier of states which are not hostile to the Soviet Union.

Physically, Russia intends to absorb Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, part of East Russia and eastern Poland up to the Curzon line. The Allies have yet to approve these steps, but serious difficulty is not expected. The question of governments in Poland, Austria and Hungary, satisfactory to both Russia and the Western Allies is more difficult and has yet to be ironed out. Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia are already linked to Russia by treaty.

Territorial Issues

Territorial issues which may cause trouble or at least long argument include the following:

France—The return of Alsace-Lorraine is not in question, but the French would like at least temporary possession of the Ruhr and Saar for their coal and industrial facilities. There is a question here of how much can be taken from Germany without making her incapable of supporting herself. France also claims a piece of the Italian Riviera.

Yugoslavia—Marshal Tito claims Fiume, Trieste, part of Giulio Venetzia province in Italy and the Carinthia-Klagenfurt area of Austria. Tito appears inclined to let his claims on Italy go to the peace conference. After declaring he would fight for Corinthia, he was quoted by Moscow today as saying it also would be a matter for the peace table.

Greece And Poland

Greece—Part of southern Albania is claimed by Greece, who also may ask for part of Macedonia from Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. The Greeks likewise claim the Dodecanese islands from Italy.

Poland—The western boundary of Poland must be adjusted. Russia desires to give Poland the territory up to the Neisse and Oder rivers, to be taken from Germany, in compensation for the area to be taken by Russia in the east. That would involve the loss to Germany of Silesia and its coal mines, which is not to Britain's liking. One form of reparations Germany can be made to pay is coal.

Talk Given On Urschel Case

Lubbock Rotarians heard an informal talk by E. E. Kirkpatrick of Brownwood, intermediary in the $200,000 Chas F. Urschel kidnaping case in Oklahoma in the summer of 1933, relating some of the experiences of that case at the weekly club luncheon Wednesday at the Hilton hotel.

Kirkpatrick, who was a partner with Urschel in the oil business, told of negotiations with the kidnaping gang; how he was instructed to get $200,000 in twenty-dollar used bills, board a train for Kansas City and drop a handbag loaded with the bills when he saw two flares along the right-of-way. He related how he stood on the rear platform of the train all night long and how an automobile accident by the kidnaping gang prevented their lighting the flares. He told of receiving a telegram at Kansas City instructing him to go to another hotel and walk west where he met one of the kidnaping gang who relieved him of the money.

After Urschel was released, Kirkpatrick told how the oil man recalled the sound of an airplane overhead twice daily, 9:15 a. m. and 4:15 p. m., except one day. FBI agents checked airlines and found that the only spot where Urschel could have been held was on a route of the American Air Lines from Amarillo to Fort Worth and by checking the time "we could almost drop a hat on the house."

He told of the roundup of the gang consisting of Machinegun Kelly, his wife Katherine Kelly; George Albert Bates, Harvey Bailey and the 18 others, who were convicted of sentences ranging from ten years to life. A total of $128,000 of the ransom money was recovered. Kirkpatrick was introduced by Carden Green, who with Sam Camp, had charge of the program. Green and Kirkpatrick are now partners in the oil supply business.

During the luncheon, R. L. Dunlap, Wilson club boy, was presented a $25 War bond, for having won in a division in the Slaton Fat Stock show. Earl Collins made the presentation.

H. E. Eagland, C. F. Browder, C. A. Casler, Tom Cartwright and F. E. Edwards of Amarillo, Frank L. Adams of Levelland, Ewell Lawrence of Ralls, Oscar McGinty of Spur, and Frank Pickell of Tulsa, were out-of-town visitors at the luncheon. Capt. J. K. Richardson, former Lubbock physician now in the Navy, was also a visitor.

Stores Beginning To Open, Life Returning To Shattered Berlin

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, JR.
United Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, June 5 (Delayed) — Life is returning slowly to Berlin, the shattered, devastated, half-dead capital which fell to the Russians little over a month ago.

When this correspondent visited Berlin May 8, the day on which the total capitulation of Germany was formally ratified, the city was knocked out completely. Life hardly exisited. It was one vast unbelievable shambles — all the destroyed and ruined cities of Europe heaped together in one nightmare desert of desolation and death.

Center of City Dead

Today the whole center of the city still is completely dead. The entire government and business area has been wiped from the map. Probably it will never rise again unless a new city is built some day.

But in the city's outer areas and suburbs life is slowly returning with assistance from the Russian occupation forces. In one southeastern area between Treptow and Leopenick a few street cars are running again. A number of bus lines have been put back into operation after the streets were cleared of the mountains of rubble and debris that turned them into an impassable chaos after the siege of Berlin.

All through the district which suffered less severely from the world's greatest ordeal by air-bombing, houses are being patched up as far as possible to make them habitable again. With something like 2,500,000 civilians still living in the greater Berlin area, the city is faced with a critical housing shortage this winter.

Food stores are beginning to open again. A month ago you saw long lines of women in front of emergency pumps in the streets to fetch pails of water. The water supply has been restored again in many parts of the city, and the lines of women now have transferred to the food stores, waiting for the small weekly ration of black bread, potatoes or vegetables.

Riding On Bicycles

Even now, virtually the only traffic seen on the streets is that of Russian army vehicles, but everywhere the Berliners are riding to and from work on bicycles again. A month ago there were no bicycles to be seen on the streets. Perhaps the Berliners were still suffering too much from battle shock. Perhaps they feared their bicycles would be requisitioned by the Russians. Today, however, you see bicycles everywhere, ridden mostly by girls and elderly men. Berlin, in common with most other German cities, is a city without young men.

The Russians have started publication of a daily newspaper in German, called the "Berliner Zeitung." It is posted in windows and large crowds stand reading it. The Russian-controlled Berlin radio also has resumed programs of straight entertainment — light music, operattas, and so forth—to boost the morale of Berliners.

Throughout the city the Russians set up large painted signs along the main streets with quotations in Russian and German from speeches by Stalin. One quotation says it never was Russia's intention to wipe out the German people. Another says the Russians came as a people who have never known hatred based on race and creed such as preached by the Nazis. Here and there in Berlin you see huge signs with Stalin's portrait or posters lauding the Red army.

Filled With Flags

Berlin today was filled with red flags and flags of the chief Allied nations in celebration of the signature of the four-power declaration at Marshall Gregory Zhukov's headquarters. The flags presumably had been handed out to the Germans by the Russian authorities. The Germans displayed them with no more apparent concern than they used to show when hanging out Nazi flags only a few months ago. Ever since Hitler and the Nazis came to power in 1933 the Germans have been used to hanging out flags when they are told.

At every street corner the traffic in Berlin still is controlled by a smart Russian WAC in a blue beret, grey tunic and blue skirt. They direct the traffic with a small red and yellow flag, pirouetting and saluting with the precision of roxyettes. Even today the Germans stand and stare open-mouthed at these exhibitions of virtuosity.

APPROVES APPROPRIATION

WASHINGTON, June 6, (U.P.)— The House today approved and sent to the Senate a $2,200,000 supplemental appropriation for emergency material and infant care for families of servicemen during the current fiscal year.

Residents Cautioned Against Grass Fires

A warning against increasing danger of grass fires was sounded Wednesday by firemen, "because of persistent drouth conditions."

"Grass is drying out more each day, and is like tinder," said Fire Chief W E. Twitty and Assistant Chief Glenn Smith. "The utmost precaution should be taken when trash is burned, to prevent spread of fire to grass. Numerous fires recently have shown how easily fire spreads along grass to fences and garages and houses. Keep a garden hose handy when burning trash—if you must burn trash—and water down ashes when you've finished. It is an added precaution to cover the wet ashes with soil, even then."

The precaution should be observed until "after a good rain, at least," it was suggested.

The process for making kerosene was invented and developed by a Canadian geologist, Abraham Gesner, who made the discovery in 1852.

Ferriss Wins Again, Bosox Nears First Division Berth

BOSTON, June 6 (AP)—After Dave (Boo) Ferriss wobbled along to his eighth successive pitching victory, by a 5-2 margin, the Boston Red Sox zoomed into hairline range of the first division today by sweeping a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics with a 3-2 nightcap win.

The two-play triumph, the 12th scored in their last 17 Fenway Park starts, put the Red Sox only two points behind the third-place St. Louis Browns and one back of the Chicago White Sox. Ferriss, who started his sensational rookie winning streak by whitewashing the Athletics, 2-0, found himself in trouble almost every inning. He gave a total of 14 hits, three passes and hit a batter but the Athletics obliged by leaving 14 runners on base. It took four hits to manufacture the Philadelphia runs in the third and seventh innings.

The A's built up a 2-0 lead against the erratic Pinky Woods, who was replaced by fireman Red Barrett in the sixth inning of the second game.

But in the fifth, George Metkovich's single and Jack Tobin's triple gave the Bosox a run. In the seventh Tobin connected again for a two-bagger and scored the tying run after pinch-hitter Johnny Lazor singled.

Ben Steiner lashed a three-bagger to right-center and scored the winning run in the eighth after Tommy McBride flied out.

Bucky Walters Blanks Pirates

PITTSBURGH, June 6. (AP) — Hurler Bucky Walters pitched shutout ball and clouted a homer in the eighth inning to help the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 0 tonight before 13,277 fans.

Walters limited the Pirates to six hits, keeping them well scattered, and drove in two of the three Cincinnati runs. Walters bested Elwin "Preacher" Roe in the hurling duel, which sent the two teams into the eighth inning without a run being scored.

Roe gave up six hits in eight innings, struck out seven and walked none, but suffered his third defeat of the season, as compared to four wins. The victory was the year's fourth for Walters, who has dropped five early contests.

The victory moved the Reds within one precentage point of the fifth place Chicago Cubs, and moved the Reds above the .500 mark for the first time since starting beating the comeback trail. The loss dropped the Pirates into a tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals for second place.

Hoop, Jr., Joins Derby Favorites

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 6. (AP)—Hoop, jr.'s hopes of winning the 71st Kentucky Derby Saturday boomed to a new high today when the son of Sir Gallahad 3rd fairly burned up Churchill Downs' racing strip and Eddie Arcaro was assigned to ride the Florida-owned three - year - old from F. W. Hooper's barn.

Hours before Col. C. V. Whitney's highly regarded Jeep, who with Hoop, jr. won the two divisions of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, and Andrew Wright's Jacobe arrived from New York, the Hooper colt stepped a mile and one-eighth in 1:51 3/5.

With his full derby weight of 126 pounds in the saddle and working over a track that had been scraped and rolled during the night, Hoop jr. whirled the first six furlongs in 1:12 3/5. When he hit the mile post in 1:38 1/5 clockers checked their watches for accuracy. And they looked twice again as he finished out the nine furlongs, handily, in race running time.

The combination of the workout, Arcaro and the colt's victory in the Wood, is expected to send Hoop jr. to the post the third choice with Jeep and Warren Wright's Pot O'Luck the co-favorites.

If Jeep wins it will be the first time the Whitney's famous eton and brown capped silks have been in front since Whiskery won in 1927. Pot O'Luck is sure to carry plenty of Kentucky money for they like Ben Jones-trained horses in these parts since he has saddled three derby winners, two of them for Wright.

Garage Ten Extends New Winning Streak

The O. K. Garage softball team extended its winning streak Wednesday afternoon, winning an 8 to 3 verdict over the Junior Chamber of Commerce club as Henderson turned in his second win of as many nights.

On Tuesday night, the Garagemen played under the lights at Post, slugging out a 19-12 victory. Henderson again was the winning pitcher.

In the game at Post, the French brothers, Wayne and Cecil, paced the hitting. Wayne French hit two homers and Cecil French poled one round tripper.

The Garagemen will take a fling at baseball Sunday afternoon at Mackenzie park, playing a double header. The O. K. nine will tangle with Edwards Grocery in the first game, and play Dickens in the second.

Former Illinois Grid Great Is Named Coach

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., June 6. (AP)—Lt. (jg) C. G. Purvis, University of Illinois halfback for three years under Bob Zuppke, announced here he has been appointed assistant football coach at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Purvis, recreation officer at the Harvey Point naval auxiliary air station near here, says he will report to Annapolis July 21.

Neil Sikes' Triple Wins For Rotarians

Neil Sikes' triple with the bases full in the top half of the seventh inning brought Manager Stoney Wall's Rotary club nine from behind and gained an 11 to 9 victory over the Lions club in the third opening game of the American League junior baseball program Wednesday afternoon at the Boys club diamond.

The Rotary nine came from behind two times, once to tie and again to win, and bunched their hits in these two big innings to score all their runs of the ball game.

Well Played Duel

The game was a well played pitching duel with Lefty Jack McCabe hurling for the winners and John Potts for the losers. Both pitchers went the entire route.

McCabe made a rocky start, and had one really bad inning, the second, when the Lions roared to a six run spluge that sent them into a 7-0 lead. Potts blanked the Rotary for three innings, but hit a snag in the top half of the fourth inning, when the Rotary pushed over seven runs and tied the ball game.

The Lions scored a run in the fourth and fifth, then McCabe settled down and finished the game in grand style. Potts recovered from the hectic fourth, and blanked the Rotary until the seventh when Sikes exploded a triple with the bases choked, and scored himself a few minutes later.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis club nines, a pair of first round losers will seek to break into the win column this afternoon as teams start the second round of play at the Boys club diamond at 6:30 o'clock.

Three Yankees Get Call For Physicals

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP) — Three New York Yankee baseball players received instructions today to report for physical examinations in New York early tomorrow. They are John Lindell, center fielder, Bill Zuber, scheduled to pitch tonight's game against the Washington Senators, and Second Baseman George Stirnweiss.

Cuccinello May Be First Third Sacker To Lead AL Hitters

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP) — Anthony Francis Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox, who gave the best years of his career to the National League, can make American League history this season by becoming the first junior circuit third baseman to win a batting title.

If Tony can keep up his amazing pace at the plate — he has led his league since the start of the season — he will accomplish what couldn't be done in 44 years by such stellar third sackers as Frank (Home-Run) Baker, Buck Weaver, Sammy Hale, Marty Mcmanus, Pinky Higgins and Red Rolfe.

Cuccinello still has a long road to the swat crown. The junior circuit requires a minimum of 400 times at bat for title contention.

Tony has yet to reach the 150 mark and Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox shudders to think what real hot weather will do to his 36-year-old third baseman. "Cooch probably will have to sit out the second game of a lot of double-headers and give those pins a rest," commented Dykes.

Be that as it may, Cuccinello is determined to play at least 100 games which would give him a good shot at the title won last year by Manager-Shortstop Lou Boudreau of Cleveland with a modest .327.

Figures from the league service bureau show that Home-Run Baker of Connie Mack's $100,000 Philadelphia infield was the junior circuit's hardest hitting thirdbaseman. But despite a .347 average in 1912, Baker finished sixth in the race won that season by Ty Cobb with .410. The next two seasons, Baker finished fifth but had marks of only .336 and .319.

This escarpment, which rises more than 300 feet, provides the last rough terrain for a defensive stand by the estimated 15,000 to 20,000 Japanese left on a garrison which once numbered 85,000.

The mud and rain were such a handicap that planes had to parachute supplies to the sloshing ground forces. Guns of the United States Pacific fleet poured shells in support.

Fields Already In Use

Today's communique disclosed that airfields built on Okinawa and adjacent Ie Shima already are sending ground-based planes against other enemy islands in the Ryukyus and the Japanese homeland. Previously the Japanese homeland had been under attacks of B-29s in the Marianas, ground-based fighters on Iwo, carrier-based planes and search planes of an air wing at Okinawa.

The latest gains as viewed from west to east across the southern tip of the island were:

On the west coast, the 6th Marine division captured the Naha airfield, spread out on Oroku peninsula and drove southeast toward a juncture with the First Marine division.

The First Marine division, meeting considerable Japanese resistance, bypassed Tomusu town which is three miles south of fallen Shuri. The town is being reduced. Other Devildogs of the division drove even deeper southward to Shinkawaku more than a mile southwest of Tomusu.

96th Pushes On

Elements of the 96th Infantry division captured hills south of Iwa which is more than a mile almost due south of Tomusu and parallel with Shinkawaku Tuesday. Wednesday, Yanks of the 96th pushed a mile below Iwa to the edge of Tomui town. Tomui is a mile and a quarter from Okinawa's south coast.

Nearer that coast to the southeast of Fomui, troops of the Seventh Infantry division battled hard Wednesday in the area of Gushichan town. The Seventh had seized Aragusuku, northeast of Tomui, Tuesday. Other Seventh elements completed occupation of Chinen peninsula Tuesday.

A few Japanese planes raided the Okinawa area Tuesday night and succeeded in damaging two American surface units at a cost of five planes.

Limited American air attacks were made on bypassed Truk in the Caroline Tuesday and against a naval base and installations in the Kuriles the day before.

Refinery Seizure

Labor board said the company had refused to allow its relations with employes to be governed by the terms and conditions of a WLB directive. The WLB added that this action "is viewed as a threat to continued production at the company's plant."

285 Employes Involved

The board asserted approximately 285 employes were involved in the dispute at the company's Ingleside refinery.

A strike vote conducted November 16, 1944, by the NLRB was announced as having resulted in 187 votes for a work stoppage and 119 against.

Secretary of Labor Perkins certified the dispute to the WLB May 28, 1943. The workers are represented by the Oil Workers International union, Local 316, CIO.

Some months later the Dallas regional WLB held that the sole issue in dispute was the union's demand for maintenance of membership. Subsequently the national board reversed the regional board's denial of the union's request for maintenance of membership. After hearings in Washington the national board decided unanimously to require the company to comply with the maintenance of membership order.

Injunction Fight Lost

The company refused, and on appeal to the federal district court at Dallas was granted an injunction against the government agencies. This injunction subsequently was set aside by a circuit court of appeals.

Frank Potter, acting U. S. district attorney for the North Texas district, said Humble had taken the case to the U. S. Supreme court with an application of certiorari which he said asked the court to take cognizance of the case and permit the company to appeal.

On Dec. 21, 1944, the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans dissolved the injunction granted by Judge W. H Atwell in the North Texas district court and remanded the case "for further proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion."

New Orleans court records showed that on Jan. 9, 1945, Humble asked for a rehearing before the circuit court and that it was denied March 1.

Potter said he believed the company would be powerless to stop the plant seizure through injunction.

"The seizure order was by the President. To stop the order, the President would have to be enjoined, and I do not believe that this can be done," Potter said.

LEADERS TURN DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — The stock market made a stab at advancing today in selected aircrafts, rails and specialties but demand turned sour and leaders generally declined fractions to almost 2 points.

Lone strong area appeared in the recently-rising motors, which responded to a rally in the last 10 minutes of the proceedings. Hudson jumped 3 points while Studebaker and Willys-Overland tacked on plus signs.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite fell .3 of a point to 65.9. Transfers aggregated 1,520,000 shares against 1,510,000 Tuesday.

Losers included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Ahead were Engineers Public Service, Warner Bros., Pepsi-Cola, Baldwin and Eastman Kodak.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP) — Overcoming early hesitancy the cotton futures market closed firm today at gains of 5 to 15 cents a bale. More aggressive mill buying alone with short covering towards the close encountered only limited offerings. The market eased off slightly in early dealings influenced by a favorable weekly weather report.

Most traders were inclined to await Senate action on the price control bill which restricted the volume of trading. Switching from July into the deferred deliveries increased as traders anticipated first notice day in that position on June 28. Favorable weather has enabled the new crop to make generally good progress except in portions of Texas.

Reduction In 26-29 Deferments Forecast

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP) — Government officials today predicted a 17 per cent reduction by fall in the number of key industrial workers, 26 through 29, holding draft deferments.

Anonymous at their request, these officials said that 60,000 of 350,000 men of that age now classified as "irreplaceable" will be shorn of deferments over the next few months.

This will result, they said, from cutbacks in war production and a general easing of the industrial manpower situation.

In line with this and the demand of the military for men under 30, the government's inter-agency deferment committee is tightening the criteria for deferring younger men.

Body Identified As Hitler's Is Located

LONDON, June 6 (AP) — The Russians have found a charred and twisted body that they believe to be the mortal remains of Adolf Hitler, it was reported from Berlin today.

The body was one of four found by Soviet troops in an underground fortress of the flame-swept ruins of the Reichs-chancellery and it "almost certainly" was that of Hitler, said a dispatch filed by Joseph Grigg for the combined American press.

A Reuters account filed to British papers said "the element of doubt in identification of the corpse was very small."

Grigg, who obtained his information while attending Tuesday's meeting in Berlin of the Allied Control commission, said Russian Army physicians had singled out the body believed to be Hitler's "after careful examination of the teeth and other characteristics" and added that the man "almost certainly had died of poisoning."

Griggs said the Russians also found in another room of the same fortress the body of Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, his wife and children and that they apparently also had died of poisoning.

The same committee was reported to have determined that the general assembly of the league should be able to ask an international court for advisory opinions and to authorize other international organizations to do likewise.

On the question of the veto's applying to nomination of a secretary general for the league, the rest of the Big Five were backing Russia.

The big powers also objected to a committee-approved provision that the assembly should have the right to approve or disapprove reports from the council on steps it had taken to maintain peace.

In addition, Russia continued in the executive committee a campaign for a charter provision for expulsion of league members who do not live up to charter obligations. A committee had voted only for suspension of transgressor nations.

Eight Issues Unsettled

Eight other issues, involving such things as trusteeships, regional security arrangements, jurisdiction of an international court, and amending the charter in the future, also have to be threshed out.

Those committees handling sections of the charter dealing with voting in the security council, and with its methods for attempting to end international controversies peacefully, were unable to go ahead until the Big Five compose their veto differences.

Some Big Five delegates still saw a possibility that a factual explanation of these differences might be incorporated in a statement that Russia could sign; a statement which would be presented to the conference as the nearest the Big Five can approach to an understanding.

House Nips Move To Kill Currency Fund

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The House today rejected a move to eliminate an $8,800,000,000 world currency stabilization fund from the Bretton Woods agreements.

The vote was 120 to 18.

Chairman Spence (D., Ky.) of the banking committee said approval of the proposed amendment, by Rep. Sumner (R., Ill.), would kill the whole plan for international monetary cooperation

In the Bretton Woods agreements, representatives of 44 nations drew up plans for the stabilization fund and also for a $9,100,000,000 world bank for reconstruction and development loans. The United States is first to act on ratification.

U. S. Casualties In 1,527 Daily In Europe

LONDON, June 6. American casualties for the 337 days of fighting totaled 514,534, of whom 89,477 were killed, 367,180 wounded and 57,877 missing.

Combined British and Canadian casualties in the same period were 184,512, including 39,599 killed, 126,545 wounded, and 18,368 missing.

French casualties were 11,080 killed, 45,966 wounded, and 4,201 missing, a total of 61,247.

The Poles had 1,189 killed, 4,029 wounded, and 375 missing, amounting to 5,593.

The Czech figures were 170 killed, 406 wounded and 14 missing. Belgium's were 55 killed, 274 wounded and 35 missing. Holland's were 20 killed, 104 wounded and three missing.

Parallel Park Spacing

The commission also heard City Manager Marlin R. Smith and City Engineer Arch King submit plans for the spacing of meters in parallel parking zones on Aves. J and K and Thirteenth street in the downtown area. Parking spaces will be 18 feet at each end of block with 22 feet space in intervening areas. Between four and five feet will be allowed between cars and cars must be parked with the front axle even with the meters.

The commission also discussed briefly the question of creation of a charter commission for the purpose of studying the rewriting of Lubbock's city charter, written in 1916 and considered badly out-of-date in certain provisions.

Mayor O. W. Ribble presided and Commissioners Hub Jones, Fred H. Childress and W. B. Price attended.

Neither of the purported stabbings resulted in serious wounds, police said.

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 6. (AP) — A wizened barefoot little swampland farmer who, FBI Agent D. K. Brown said, harbored resentment against the government because bears on a federal game refuge destroyed his cattle, was charged today with slaying two U. S. Rangers assigned to protect the wild animals.

The 64-year-old farmer, Oliver Thrift, confessed the shotgun slayings of Andrew Bryant Crews, 36, and Joe Daniel Martin, 40, and said "I was sore at the government because the government protected the bears and the bears killed my cattle," Agent Brown said.

Supervised Recreation

An Investment In Our Children

PROJECTS in Lubbock parks to provide wholesome recreation during the summer well might receive attention of parents faced with problem of providing activities for boys and girls during their summer vacations.

The need for filling time of children whose energies are released from school studies and programs is one that the city recreation department has recognized in planning a variety of events in parks.

Several parks, which were established and are maintained by the city, were scenes of contests, shows, games and programs Monday, on opening day of the summer parks program. During the vacation period, other events will be planned, some solely for recreation and others to provide training which will benefit children when they return to classrooms.

Some of the activities to be included on programs are box hockey, horseshoe throwing, pet shows, community singing, tether ball, amateur contests, nature study, arts and crafts instruction, checker tournaments, volleyball, crocquet, poster contests, aerial tennis, story telling, ping-pong and hikes.

Directors have been selected for Pioneer, Carlisle, Rollie Burns, Mexican and Booker T. Washington parks and the wading pool in Mackenzie park and will be on duty certain hours each week day.

Many parents prefer to personally supervise work or play of their children part of the time—but undoubtedly many will welcome the chance to have their children play and study with other children under supervision of directors during some of the hours of the parks undertaking.

A Promise For The Future

LUBBOCK'S active support of the U. S. 87 Highway association may some day be a factor for even greater satisfaction than at present.

Annual report of the association issued by Col. James A. Mars of San Antonio, president, praised activities of A. B. Davis, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce manager, as general manager of the association, saying, "His advice has been most valuable and his past activities are largely responsible for the efficiency of the association."

U. S. Highway 87, extending from the Canadian border through parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas, links with highways leading to Alaska from the Canadian border, and through Mexico from Laredo. Lubbock is on the route going from Raton, N. M., to Amarillo, to Big Spring and to San Antonio.

The route may some day be designated under one name—an international one designating its importance as a route linking the top of the North American continent with the furthermost botton tip—and when that day comes Lubbock may rest assured it has done its part in promoting the interests of the route, largely through efforts of Mr. Davis.

In the meantime, it may be gratified in its situation on a route which already is international in nature.

It's A Two-Way Investment

LUBBOCK county has made an encouraging start toward reaching its goal of $4,540,000 in Seventh War Loan drive and its residents have received praise of campaign officials.

Slaton set an example of what towns may accomplish by concerted action when it raised $94,743.50 on Special Emphasis day May 30, increasing its bond sales since the drive was opened to $178,743.50.

The city of Lubbock received praise of E. K. Hufstedler, jr., city drive chairman, for the way it responded on opening day of the city drive, when applications for $117,385.95 in bonds were taken by salesmen canvassing the business districts.

Other areas of the county are working to do their part in the drive for funds which will help in the fight against Japan.

Reminders have been given, however, that the drive will continue throughout June and that many more bonds must be purchased by residents of the county before the quota may be reached.

As has been reminded frequently in this and past drives, citizens are being asked to give nothing, but merely to make an investment which will be returned to them later with interest. As Attorney Durwood Bradley reminded at the kick-off meeting, bond-buyers are making two kinds of investment—financial investment and an investment in liberty.

On either basis, it is an investment which every citizen should make to the fullest of his ability—as a means of helping put Lubbock county over its largest quota in a war loan drive, as a means of helping wage the fighting against Japan, and as a means of bringing American boys back home as soon as possible.

"Remains of a prehistoric man with arms outstretched have been dug up in Indo-China." It seems that fishermen have been lying for countless centuries.

SHOES BY BLAKELY AND HOGDON

XXV

Charley left about noon and I sat in the library smoking myself dizzy. Simms materialized at my elbow with a tray. On it was an egg-cup with a raw egg in it.

"It will do you good, sir."

"Simms," I said, "I have small interest in eggs, raw or cooked. Is there coffee?"

"Yes, sir."

I followed him into the kitchen, found some cold ham and bread, and made myself a sandwich while Simms brewed the coffee.

"Simms," I said, "you're going to miss Mr. Hudson."

He looked at me.

"I wonder if you know how much, Mr. Trent," he said.

"There was really no need of his going." I bit into the sandwich trying to appear preoccupied. "He was well and happy."

Simms's eyebrows raised imperceptibly. I thought he might pick up the word happy. But he merely said:

"I never quarrel with fate, Mr. Trent."

"But, Simms, Mr. Hudson was murdered."

"I know that, sir." The old man's voice was quite steady.

"You were very close to Mr Hudson. Have you any idea who might have done it?"

"Yes, sir." Promptly and firmly.

"Who?"

"I'd rather not say, sir, until I know for sure."

"That," I said, "might be too late."

"Too late for what, Mr. Trent?"

"Never mind, Simms. What was the relationship between Mr. Hudson and Mr. Woolf?"

Simms considered this for a moment. Then he said:

"I could never quite fathom it, Mr. Trent, but it seemed to me to be that of employer and employe."

"You mean Mr. Hudson had hired Mr. Woolf for some purpose?"

"Oh, no, sir. It was the other way 'round."

"What leads you to think that, Simms?"

"It was merely an observation, Mr. Trent." Simms peered at me soberly. "It was not my affair to investigate."

"Naturely not," I said. "It is regrettable that the majority of us don't mind our own business so well. What are you going to do now that Mr. Hudson's gone?"

I did not realize the callousness of the question until it was out. The old gentleman seemed to wilt.

"I had hoped that Miss Pat might keep me on," he said.

"I'm afraid," I said gently, "that that is not possible. You see, Mr. Hudson's affairs, well—"

"I quite understand, sir" Simms would never let you down. "But you see I had been with Mr. Hudson for almost a year now without pay. I shouldn't want anything from Miss Pat, but the privilege of carrying on as usual."

I looked at Simms. He was a good servant and proud of his ability to serve loyalty and well. He had integrity. And I had a lump in my throat.

"We'll see Miss Pat," I said.

* * *

That little talk with Simms was not good for me. It reminded me that wholeness of soul still lingered in the world, and it put me off my guard, Simms' words lived with me throughout the remainder of the day. And that night I was still warmed by their fire as I sat in the library and watched the fire shadows play on the ceiling.

I began to think about Calavestri and Booker and the Ostermann diamonds and the fire at The Ledges, but my emotions got in the way. And I thought instead of Pat upstairs—asleep, harried by dreams—or staring awake with her memories of horror. And Phineas Hudson — dead in the green parlor—sealed in his coffin. Pat would not consent to his resting at the undertaking rooms.

Some inner compulsion sent me across the hall to the green parlor.

As I opened the door, the ripe sweet musk of too many flowers rolled out, and I looked through the dimness at the coffin banked with floral sprays. I couldn't think that Phineas Hudson was inside that somber box with half of his face shot away. I shut the door and stood there a moment before turning. An icy drop trickled down my spine and I felt my stomach grow taunt. Someone was in the hall behind me. In the shadows. At first I heard nothing, merely sensed a presence at my back. Now it moved and I heard the stirring of its body in the stillness. I turned.

"Something you wanted in there?" a voice asked.

I stared through the darkness, made out the shine of buttons. It was a policeman.

"No," I said. "Nothing. Where on earth did you come from?"

"Right here," he said. "In this hall. I've been here all afternoon."

"Inspector Marks's orders?"

He nodded and gave me a queer look. I wanted to say something about looking in on the casket, but there was really nothing to say. So I mumbled:

"You must be hungry."

"I could do with a cup of coffee."

"You'll find Simms in the kitchen, I think. He'll take care of you."

I went across the hall, bewildered, but faintly relieved. I opened the door to the library and stepped in. Somebody put something hard and cold to my temple and hissed in my ear:

"No noise, please!"

I was a statue. Moving only my eyes downward I saw his feet. Big! A perfect match for those Blakely and Hogdon's in the cellar at The Ledges. And even against the deadly pressure of that pistol on my head, I turned.

"Surprised?" Booker asked with the thinnest of smiles.

Little Change Due In Meat Allotment

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP) — Civilians wil be allotted about the same amount of meat for the July-September period as for the current quarter although total supplies are expected to be nine per cent smaller.

This was announced today by the War Food administration in a statement showing how next quarter's supply will be divided.

Carrying out earlier official forecasts, the statement said that, due to the prospective reduced level of summer slaughter and to a lack of reserves, no meat will be allotted for lend-lease or foreign relief during the coming quarter.

Annual Rate Given

If actually met, the civilian allocation would be equivalent, officials said, to an annual per capita rate of about 115 pounds, dressed weight basis (including bones, etc.). The civilian allocation for the current quarter was designed to provide this same rate of supply, but the amount moving into civilian channels has not been meeting the allocation. The second quarter deficit may reduce the per capita supply to a rate of between 110 and 112 pounds.

The slack resulting from the prospective reduction in the third quarter supply will be taken up by reducing allotments for the military and war services as well as by suspending lend-lease and foreign relief shipments.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

LAST night I paid one of my occasional visits to the Stork Club and one of my friends asked me to sit at his table.

With him was one of the most beautiful girls I had ever seen in my life, one of New York's best known models.

BRANDEIS

She had everything, as far as looks are concerned, but she had not much of anything else.

And, her most noticeable characteristic was her enormous conceit. She behaved like she imagined a queen should act.

She was haughty and matter-of-fact and accepted the admiring stares of the females as well as the males as a god-given right, and she acted toward my friend as if her company were a luscious privilege, indeed.

* * *

I was, well not exactly in love with, but terribly "stuck" on her.

She treated me as if I were dirt, but I was so proud of being seen with her that I put up with it.

The affair broke up—for a fellow who had more money than I—and I carried the torch for her for several months.

Then I forgot her.

About two years ago a woman stopped me in the street and greeted me effusively. She was shabby, her hair was gray and she had an ugly scar clear across her left cheek.

I didn't recognize her.

"For heaven's sake" she said, "where is your memory? I am—"

And when she gave me her name, it all came back to me—the glamour girl whose willing slave I had been.

Then she told me her story. The fellow for whom she had thrown me over took her out on an automobile ride. He had had too much to drink and smashed the car into a tree. He was killed and she was badly injured.

Several months in a hospital—and no more glamour.

Now she was working as a seamstress in a dressmaker's shop.

Conceit? Over what?

Have you worked for your looks? Or for your family background? Or for your father's or your husband's money?

Conceit over something that may be taken away from you in a flash?

The only people who have a right to be conceited are those who have achieved something outstanding by their own effort.

And those people are much too busy holding on to their achievement to give a thought to conceit.

I have never yet met a conceited person who wasn't either stupid or who tried to hide an inferiority complex.

The National Whirligig

Hoax Played On South

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE Interstate Commerce Commission, aided and abetted by certain politicians and editorial pundits, have played a great hoax on the American people, the South and West in particular. It is doubtful whether the innocent deception could have been practiced had it not been for the war's distractions.

The ICC and its friends have greeted its recent decision equalizing freight rates throughout the nation as the millennium in transportation. They have characterized it as an economic charter to the newly industrialized South and West.

TUCKER

They have read into it lower costs for manufacturers, wholesalers and the ultimate consumers. They have declared that it would remake the railroad structure of the United States. They have said that it would encourage industrial decentralization.

The ICC apparently sought to create this impression, although it is supposed to be a quasi-judicial body of the Goverment. It released its 324-page document of a late Saturday afternoon (after the market had closed), with only a brief summary describing it as a "Railroad Magna Charta." Radio and newspaper commentators, without glancing at the inside pages, immediately hailed it as a "revolutionary" declaration.

They pointed out that "the South has won its long fight for rail freight rate equality with East and North and, in so doing, has given a boost to the West, which likewise benefits by the Interstate Commerce Commission decision calling for parity in class rates."

The facts are—and members of the ICC, when they take their hair down, admit it—that all these claims and conclusions are based on misunderstanding or a misreading of Decisions No. 28300 and 28310 handed down on May 15, 1945.

* * *

PYRRHIC: The financial gains which the South will reap under the new ruling will amount to only "chicken feed." That statement applies to such supposed beneficiaries as the railroads, manufacturers, shipping interests, workers and consumers. Here is why:

There are three kinds of railroad traffic and tolls. The first consists of "class rates," and they apply to manufactured or non-bulk goods which may be shipped by the carload or in less than carload lots. The ICC's new schedules are devoted chiefly to scaling down transportation charges for this category of goods. But "class rates" affect only five per cent of the nation's total railroad tonnage, and only a small portion of the South's exports.

The second classification consists of "exceptions." This comprises rates fixed because of peculiar local or general marketing conditions. Articles transported under this category amount to only 10.7 per cent of the nation's total tonnage. This sort of freight will be almost exempt from the ICC's new schedules of tariffs.

The third and most important freight consignment is the heavy stuff which travels under the heading of "commodity ratings." The ICC decree barely touches this, although it amounts to 85.2 per cent of the national tonnage.

Moreover, the South of late years has become the source of this kind of shipment—cotton, tobacco, coal, pulpwood, steel, furniture, oil, aluminum etc. The equalization order gives the South no advantage in transporting these bulk products to the North, Middle West and Far West.

Thus it becomes obvious that, in the long run, the South's suppcsed victory may prove to be a Pyrrhic triumph. The industrialists, businessmen and shippers below Mason and Dixon's line realize it. It was the politicians, in the main, who forced and engineered the ICC's decision.

* * *

MINOR: The basic consideration in the nation-wide controversy is that freight charges constitute only a minor factor in the ultimate cost of the producer, the wholesaler, the retail distributor and the ultimate consumer. The excitement which has been roused over this question, especially by Tennessee Valley Authority propagandists, is out of all proportion to its national economic importance.

According to an ICC report in 1941, the wholesale value of all goods shipped by rail was $63,725,000,000. The freight revenue from that shipment amounted to $4,625,000,000, or 7.26 per cent. The retail value of that total of tonnage came to about $88,000,000,000, and the freight toll was only about six per cent.

Therefore, even if the ICC's ruling cuts the transportation charges by one or two per cent (and the saving will probably be far less), it will not mean much to the national economy.

* * *

DEMANDS: There is another consideration which Southern advocates of rate changes seem to forget. The manufacturing states of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois, which have far more electoral votes than Dixie, may wake up and demand a lowering of rates on shipment of the South's raw materials for processing in their factories.

The West, which seeks to retain its war-built industrial centers, may make the same request.

Last, impartial transportation experts believe that this is the worst of all possible times for any novel revision of rate structures. The postwar era will bring new competition from planes, pipe lines, trucks, coastwise vessels etc., and the freight map will need a complete overhauling for many years to come. The problem should not be attacked piecemeal or by the politicians, in the opinion of the industry's experts.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

MILITARY realists anticipate one savagely contested Okinawa after another until we reach Japan's northernmost frontier in Sakhalin.

The diplomatic set at cocktail parties may give the impression that they have the inside dope on enemy peace feelers but when you tell it to the Marines, they reply with a grim description of the task ahead.

LEMAN

This week, for instance, General Alexander A. Vandegrift, Commandant of the Marine Corps, told a group of New Yorkers, "The biggest amphibious operations of the war are yet to come. Whenever we undertake them, we expect the bitterest of opposition."

One reason for the improved resistance of the Nips is that they have learned a trick or two from the Germans, especially in burrowing like moles and in employing mines.

* * *

SWASTIKAS: Large-scale reciprocal aid of the two Axis partners was never possible. But in rounding up the U-boats we discovered that shuttle service between the Reich and Nippon was more extensive than we knew. Blueprints, small bulk strategic materials and specialist personnel were swapped.

Leathernecks on Okinawa uncovered a huge cache of books printed in Japanese explaining to the civilian population how to take air raid precautions and the latest sabotage methods to use against an invader. They bore the imprint of a German publishing house. Quite a number of swastikas have been picked up. Messerschmitt planes have been shot down.

The most valuable instructions from the Germans came from engineers about mine laying, in which the Nazis were supreme. The Japs scattered hidden explosives in the Marianas without much skill. They improved their technique on Los Negros, Saipan and Tinian. General Kruger's men had their hands full in clearing recaptured Clark Field in the Philippines of both the antitank and the antipersonnel kinds.

Our slow-moving advance in stoutly defended narrow terrain from Okinawa to Nippon itself gives the Japs time to lay mines.

Some one asks if the poem on "Fleas," as follows, "Adam had 'em," isn't the world's shortest poem. Oh, no.

"It's Too High A Stake For A Steak!"

Stokes Goes To Defense Of OPA

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Everybody has a complaint about OPA. Some of them are justified. It's not perfect. It could never be perfect. Its job is an almost impossible one in a complex economy in the midst of war.

Right now it's the scarcity of meat—good red meat— that we complain about most. There are folks in the big cities in the East, including this one, who have not seen the likes of a steak for weeks. And there are children, including my own five-year-old son, who probably would not know what a steak was if it was brought, hot and sizzling and dripping with butter, to the table. (Where did you get that butter?)

STOKES

This is annoying. Something's wrong and something ought to be done about it.

A steak sure would taste good. We know it and lots of other folks know it. Some of them are ready to use our longing for a steak and other things, our little grievances about OPA, to try to break down the price control machinery which, despite its faults, has kept living costs down and warded off inflation like that of the last war and afterward.

* * *

Human Factor Involved

After all, it is human nature for businessmen and farmers to want to let off the brakes and have a killing, even though they've done very nicely. Corporation profits, even after taxes, were double last year what they were before the war. Small businessmen, too, have done well. So have farmers, with a net income 165 per cent above 1939.

A steak would taste mighty good, but is this the time to sell ourselves out for one?

The war on OPA, which is just beginning in Congress, first in the Senate, is employing an insidious strategy. The slogan of OPA's enemies is "OPA is all right, but—" there are some who would vote an extension for only three or six months longer, when, they say, Congress could take another look.

* * *

THAT may sound persuasive, but don't be fooled.

OPA expires June 30, unless Congress extends it. The administration bill would continue it another year. This is regarded as essential to carry through the Japanese war and the period of readjustment.

Others in Congress would amend the law in divers ways. Senator Thomas (D., Okla.), would establish a price structure to guarantee a profit on single items, instead of on the over-all operation. Senator Taft (R., O.) is proposing one of similar import.

Amendments of this character, according to OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, would start a vicious circle of price increases, which then would call for wage increases and lead, in the end, to inflation.

* * *

Dangers Outlined

Congress already has gone over the Price Control act, provision by provision, three times. It has made many changes. The OPA is trying to meet problems administratively, without further changes in law. Many leaders in Congress think this is the proper procedure.

Mr. Bowles and administration leaders envisage confusion, should the law be extended for only three to six months. That would mean, they say, that businessmen would hold back goods for expected higher prices, that consumers would begin to hoard, too, while prices still were low. This would be unfair to law-abiding distributors and consumers. Black markets would multiply. Higher prices with an end to price ceilings, would reduce the value of war bonds.

* * *

THE inflation danger is greater right now than ever. The people have the biggest backlog of savings in history. If price controls were let off suddenly, this would start a spending spree that would lead to inflation. OPA is gradually letting off price controls, as supply is built to demand, and intends to continue as conditions justify, but in an orderly way.

The inflation pressure now is far heavier than during and just after the last war. The worst of that inflation came after the war. Anybody who lived through that era of high prices should not have to be warned, nor should he have to be reminded that it was followed by a collapse, the depression of 1920-21, with unemployment, foreclosures and bankruptcy.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

Thomas Case In Appeals Court

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP) — The Court of Criminal Appeals today heard argument in the case of Jim Thomas, twice convicted of the murder of Dr. Roy E. Hunt of Littlefield, and twice sentenced to death.

John B. McNamara and C. S. Farmer, both of Waco, argued for Thomas, declaring that the circumstantial evidence was "too uncertain to convict Thomas."

State's Contention

W. C. Huffaker, district attorney from Tahoka, and Harold La Font, district attorney from Plainview, arguing for the state, said there was "sufficient strength in the whole chain of circumstantial evidence" to certify the guilt of Thomas.

The 50-year old convict, on parole from the Texas state prison where he had been serving a five-year sentence from Lubbock county (following conviction on a charge of assault to murder), was arrested in Galveston Oct. 27, 1943, the day after the bodies of Dr. Hunt and his wife were found in their Littlefield home.

Dr. Hunt had been shot between the eyes, Mrs. Hunt had been hit on the head but not shot, and apparently died shortly after the blow was struck. The bodies had been mutilated and bound together.

Thomas was tried and convicted in Plainview. He won a re-trial because of a jury irregularity and was retried in Lamesa where he was again found guilty and sentenced to death.

Some Of Evidence

Evidence submitted in the case included a pair of black rubber-soled basketball shoes, pair of trousers and a shirt purported to have been worn by Thomas; pieces of string with which the bodies were tied together, and tread on an automobile which the state alleged had been driven by Thomas the night of the crime.

McNamara said it had not been proved that Thomas wore the shoes, trousers and shirt, possessed the string, or was in the automobile.

He contended juries had twice been moved to assess the death penalty against Thomas because "the newspapers were filled with sensational pictures and stories which aroused the people."

Shoes Identified

Arguing for the state, Huffaker said department of public safety experts identified the shoes found in the S. L. Veazey home at Amarillo (where Thomas frequently stayed) as the same which made the tracks around the Hunt home, and that a fourfoot length of string found on the bed of the dead couple and a two inch section in the garage at the Veazey home could be "put together with the naked eye."

Judge Lloyd W. Davidson asked Farmer whether or not any motive had been established in the case. Farmer said no, but that inasmuch as the Hunts had not been robbed it was considered likely that "whoever killed Dr. Hunt had been paid to do it."

Legislative Error To Cause Two Elections On Amendments In 1946

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—An error by the legislature apparently will cause submission of constitutional amendments at three instead of two elections in 1945 and 1946.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson discovered today the submission date was Nov. 7, 1946, on an amendment authorizing creation of a state sponsored land sale plan for war veterans.

Secretary of State Claude Isbell estimated, on the basis of past records and the present number of voting precincts in Texas, a special statewide election will cost $200,000.

Intended On Nov. 5

Discussion on the floor indicated the lawmakers intended to submit the amendment in the general election of Nov. 5, 1946, at which three other amendments were ordered submitted. Four others, approved early in the session, are slated for submission at a special election Aug. 25 of this year.

There is no way to correct the error in the land plan amendment since the legislature has adjourned its general session. Constitutional amendments cannot be submitted at a special session and presumably a special session could not correct an error in submission charged against the general session.

Although the governor has no veto power on joint resolutions submitting constitutional amendments the resolutions are sent to his desk as are bills.

Governor Disappointed

Commenting at a press conference on the 148-day general session which ended yesterday the governor reiterated his disappointment at failure to redistrict Texas for legislative and judicial purposes.

He has indicated he will not call a special session for either purpose, however.

Unless a means is found for correcting the error in the land plan submission date Texans will vote on these amendments on these dates:

August 25, 1945:

Continuous pay of $10 a day for members of the legislature.

Exempting service men and women from payment of the poll tax as a voting pre-requisite, in time of war and for one year thereafter.

Providing a nine-judge state supreme court.

Establishing a ceiling of $35,000,000 a year on the amount of state money for old age assistance, aid to the needy blind and dependent children.

For November, 1946

Nov. 5, 1946:

General election day in November, 1946 (the first Tuesday after the first Monday)—

Authorizing the legislature to pay an old debt of $75,000 for construction of a building at John Tarleton Agricultural college.

Amazing Pep For Men 40, 60 or More

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is an inexpensive method that may change your whole outlook on life. Just ask your druggist for Casella stimulating tablets (either 48 or 200, the 200 size costs much less per dose). Take as directed on label and feel the thrill of living again. Don't feel old and worn out at 40, 60 or more. Take these tablets regularly until you feel that you have regained the pleasure of living you once enjoyed. Why be discouraged? Why not try Casella tablets and regain the verve and zest of a much younger man? Women too, will find Casella tablets beneficial.

Rites Set Thursday For Mrs. Graham

Last rites for Mrs. W. E. Graham, 71-year-old mother of Mrs. W. G. McMillan of Lubbock, who died early Tuesday at San Saba, will be held at 4 p. m. Thursday in Bryan.

Mrs. Graham had been in declining health since last December.

Two daughters, two sons and five grandchildren survive Mrs. Graham, who had many friends here. She alternately made her home with Mr. and Mrs. McMillan in Lubbock, and with another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ford, of San Saba, in whose home she died. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. O. A. Buchanan. The sons are W. P. and Cal M. Graham, of Gatesville and College Station respectively.

Two of Mrs. Graham's grandchildren are known here. They are William G. McMillan, jr., of Lubbock, now in the U. S. Navy, and Frances Ford, of the Waves, who attended Tech and later was a staff member there.

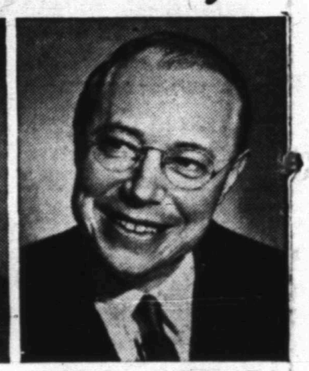

Mr. McMillan left Lubbock early this morning for San Saba, where he will join Mrs. McMillan and other members of the family for the journey to Bryan. He will return here the latter part of the week but Mrs. McMillan probably will stay with Bryan relatives for several days longer.

Moses has been called the first sanitarian, because he promulgated a cleanliness code for his people which is still observed today.

Should We Keep the Lid on Prices After Victory?

"Yes!"—Leon Henderson
(Former OPA Director)

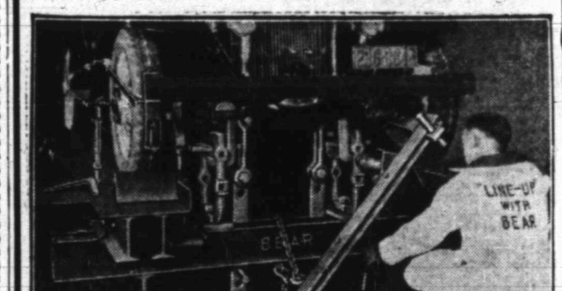

"No!"—Senator Robert Taft
(Republican, Ohio)

If controls were ended with peace, would the scramble for goods bring on a disastrous inflation? Yes—say government spokesmen—it happened after the last war...this time, let's keep prices under control until the shortages are over. But others disagree. Let prices seek their own level—they say—under the natural laws of supply and demand. Controls only handicap the country's efforts to reconvert war industries and will cause vast unemployment. Your pocketbook...your job...your security are at stake. Don't fail to listen tonight, as America's Town Meeting tackles this question. Leon Henderson and Murray D. Lincoln (of Ohio Farm Bureau Federation) will speak in favor of keeping the lid on. Senator Robert Taft and Congressman A. L. Miller (Rep., Nebraska) will oppose it. Exciting...informative...tune in tonight to America's Town Meeting, sponsored by The Reader's Digest. KFYO, 7:30.
