200 Join Search For Body Of Lake Victim

Approximately 200 men, many of whom were volunteers from other cities, were continuing at noon today the search for the body of Don Sumruld, 19, who drowned in Lake J. B. Thomas Sunday afternoon.

Two divers were standing by, ready to probe the bottom of the lake in the event a strong north wind slackened or died. Roughness of the water prevented diving this morning.

Those working at any one time are only a fraction of the number of persons helping in the rescue. Workers said this morning that during the day yesterday and today, from 150 to 200 persons were kept busy, being relieved sometimes by others. Fewer are working nights, but the search continued throughout both Sunday night and last night.

Nine boats were dragging lines at 9 o'clock this morning, and 15 boats were dragging by 10:30. Motors are changed on some of the boats frequently.

Workers included men preparing new drag lines and hooks to replace old ones being lost or damaged; men supplying gasoline and refueling motors; men changing motors and otherwise helping with the boat maintenance; men and women serving food and coffee to the rescue squads; police officers summoning supplies, maintaining contact with other points, and preventing unintentional hindrance by spectators.

INTEFERENCE

Some officers complained that considerable amounts of food sent to the rescue squads had been eaten by spectators. They asked that the public please cooperate in sending food and coffee and in discouraging spectators from eating food prepared for the workers.

A 10:30 o'clock this morning, more than 100 cars of spectators were at the scene, most of these remaining behind the ropes separating them from the workers, however.

At the lakeshore were two large trucks from Webb Air Force Base at Big Spring, and these were equipped with huge searchlights used at night. These lights and several searchlights placed on the shore between the trucks are operated from generators on the trucks.

A light airplane marked PATROL flew several times over the area this morning, scanning the waters. One of the divers, with eight years of experience in rescue work, said it was possible for persons in planes to see beneatht the surface of the water farther than those on the surface.

The divers are Dinger Spann and L. B. Freeman, both of Fort Worth. They arrived this morning with all necessary equipment except "blowers" which they said could probably be obtained from oil companies which used them to supply air to persons cleaning storage tanks.

Spann and Freeman made arrangements with the county, however, to use an air compressor for this purpose. The compressor is to be placed in a large boat if the divers are used.

WATER MUDDY

Spann said the water was too muddy this morning because of the wind but that he and Freeman would dive anyway if a close determination could be made as the whereabouts of the body. "We would have to feel our way in searching the lake bottom," he said.

The divers agreed that the wind would make it extremely difficult to search the bottom, since the currents near the bottom are also very strong. Another problem would be in handling the lines connecting them with a boat being tossed on the rough surface.

Spann served with the Navy's Underwater Demolition Team (UDT) three and a half years during the war and has dived frequently ever since. Freeman was a diver in an amphibious unit for the Navy during the war. Both have worked together as divers for the last four and a half years. Their diving is only as requested, both having other occupations.

Both divers have rescued many bodies from lakes throughout Texas.

The water is estimated to vary in depth from 50 to 75 feet in the area in which the body is believed to be.

While rescue efforts continued this morning, Garland Newman and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Newman, said some of the first reports on details of the mishap were confused.

FIVE IN BOAT

They said they and Barbara Parks were present with Sumruld when the drowning occured. All five left shore in a motorboat, but a propeller key on the motor was sheared just off shore. They drifted out into the lake.

Garland Newman said his own hat blew from his head as he worked on a new key for the boat. It struck the water near the boat, and Sumruld dived in the water with intention of getting the hat and returning immediately to the boat, Newman said.

The boat drifted rapidly, however, the Newman brothers said, and Sumruld informed the others that he planned to swim to shore. About 150 to 200 feet from shore, he appeared to have trouble swim-

Report Given To Governors On Road Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)— Administration leaders reported to a pretty well split group of the nation's governors today on what it plans to do about salvaging its big highway program.

The meeting was held behind closed doors.

A briefing was scheduled after the close of the session.

Meanwhile, Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, chairman of the governors' conference, said he and his supporters will campaign among members of the House of Representatives to revive the administration's controversial road financing program.

That plan has been scrapped by the Senate Public Roads subcommittee, which instead adopted a "pay-as-you-go" formula proposed by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn).

Some of the governors, notably Averell Harriman of New York and George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, endorsed the Gore formula.

Reporting to the governors were Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, head of President Eisenhower's highway committee; and Francis V. du Pont, special consultant on highways to the secretary of commerce. All three endorsed the Eisenhower road program in hearings before the Senate subcommittee.

The subcommittee last Friday approved a five-year, 22-billion-dollar new road program with the federal and state governments sharing in the cost. Eisenhower urged a 10-year program involving 54 billion dollars more than would be spent at the present rate.

Forty-five governors were on hand yesterday for a briefing on foreign and defense policy. Afterward there was some grumbling about what they heard.

Deny Chiang May Approve Cease-Fire

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese Foreign Office flatly denied today a local press report that Foreign Minister George Yeh had hinted Nationalist China might agree to a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

Yeh made a report today at a closed session of the Legislative Yuan (Parliament) on the recent talks here between President Chiang Kai-Shek and two special White House envoys.

The English - language China News said Yeh hinted that while Natjonalist China had not officially approved any cease-fire plan "there might be a certain area of understanding on the issue."

Official quarters not only said this was speculative, but that Yeh covered much the same ground as in the past when he has stressed these points:

1. A Nationalist withdrawal from Quemoy and Matsu is unthinkable.
1. Nationalist China opposes a cease-fire in Formosa Strait.
3. The Nationalists will never sit at the same table with the Reds.
4. The White house envoys, Adm. Arthur Radford and Asst. Secretary of State Walter Robertson, did not press for a Nationalist abandonment of the offshore islands.
5. The talks with Chiang covered the whole Far East situation.

Opening Of Street Segment Is Assured

Opening of Thirty - fifth Street west from Avenue S through to Avenue U was assured last night when the city council accepted an offer made by G. M. Heinzelmann and J. D. Scott for purchase of right-of-way for the street.

The city had previously negotiated with the land owners on purchase of the property. The land which is 181 feet long by 60 feet wide lies just east of Avenue U on Thirty-fifth Street. The council agreed to pay $800 each to Scott and Heinzelmann for the land, and the city agreed to pay for paving and curb and gutter on the street when Thirty-fifth Street has been opened from Avenue S to the city's newly acquired property.

"We believe that much of the traffic which now overloads Thirty-seventh Street will be diverted to Thirty-fifth Street" Malven K. Stevenson, mayor, said.

Fred Cullum, building developer, had requested the street be opened to provide access from the west to a shopping center he says he proposes to build at Thirty-fifth Street and Avenue S.

The city had earlier proposed to pay the land owners $1,600 for the property and not include paving and curb and gutter in the purchase agreement, but that offer was rejected by the land owners.

A citizens committee composed of Boss Baze, Tony Holcomb, and S. L. Terry, had appraised the value of the land to be $1,600. The first price asked by the land owners was $5,000 for the property.

Because an item was not included in an earlier street paving bid submitted by a paving contractor on paving city streets, the low bidder's bid was rejected last night by the city council, and the next low bid was accepted.

The bid in which the item was omitted was by W. O. Pelphrey Co. for a total of $39,480 on paving, caliche base, and curb work on approximately 25 blocks of city streets. The next low bid, which the council accepted, was by C & C Asphalt Paving Co. for a total of $41,300.

Bids from eight pipe manufacturers or agents were rejected by the council last night, and bids on several pipe laying projects which will include the pipe and laying it in the ground will be called for. The council instructed B. J. Shelley, city manager, to prepare plans and specifications for the pipe projects so that bids can be called for.

One of the projects to be included in the city water extension program is Boothland and Boothland West, two additions in north Snyder annexed last night by final reading of an annexation ordinance.

The council reported that there had been no comment on the annexation, either pro or con, since first reading of the ordinance.

The request of city tax assessor-collector Leighton (Doc) Griffin to correct an error in previous tax rolls was granted by the council.

The error concerned property on the north side of Twenty-seventh Street east of Avenue L where temporary classroom buildings owned by the Snyder Independent School District are located.

The land is owned by the M. E. Hall Estate represented by R. W. (Dick) Webb, attorney. In the request the tax assessor-collector said that through error the land had been assessed for taxes the past four years as including the temporary buildings. Webb pointed out at the meeting that the buildings are owned by the school system, and not the land owner, and that the owner receives no income from the property.

No action was taken on another tax reduction request made by Fred Cullum. Cullum requested the council to reduce taxes on some of his property in southeast Snyder because "another party has a fence around part of the land and I can't use it."

W. W. Parr, city attorney, said that it was his opinion that the council could not legally take any action on the request.

The attorney was instructed by the council to review a lease contract for oil lease on 11 city lots in northwest Snyder proposed by C. E. McGaw, attorney.

McGaw had requested the city to join with other property owners in the area in forming a lease pool of 40 acres so that an oil well can be drilled in the area.

"If we do get a well the income from it to the city would be about $1 per city lot per month," McGaw said.

McGaw said that no bonus for the lease can be obtained either by the city or other property owners involved.

Diem Seeking Political Win

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Gen. Trinh Minh The, top Cao Dai general and one of the chief supporters of the free Viet Nam Revolutionary Committee was killed in action tonight.

His death was disclosed a short time after hard-hitting troops of the Cao Dai religious sect joined the Nationalist army of Premier Ngo Dien Diem in an offensive against the Binh Xuyen rebels.

Gen. The's Cao Dai forces were once allied with the Biny Xuyen Society and the Hoa Hao Sect in a united front demanding Diem's resignation. But the general switched sides three months ago when Gen. Le Van Vien, the Binh Xuyen leader, rejected demands that armed struggle be avoided.

Gen. The had thrown four battalions of his troops, perhaps 2,400 men, to Diem's support in mopping up Vien's battered force of 2,000 men on Saigon outskirts.

He died while directing the battalions in this action.

The Cao Dai general was fired upon by Binh Xuyen commandos in an armored motorboat and died instantly.

This blow to the armed forces supporting Diem came as the premier was marshalling all his support for a political victory over Chief of State Bao Dai.

The Premier formally convoked a "states general"—an assembly of political party representatives and municipal and provincial officials—to pass judgment on the National Revolutionary Committee's weekend recommendation to depose Bao Dai. The assembly was called to meet in Saigon tomorrow.

ON RADIO

In a nationwide broadcast, Diem said the national army also would have voice in the final decision on the committee's recommendations. Both the states general and the army were expected to approve the ousting of the playboy ex-Emperor, who has been living on the French Riviera for the past 13 months.

The demands for Bao Dai's deposition followed his cabled order last week for Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, a supporter of his, to supplant Diem. The army refused to follow Vy, who scurried back to the hill resort of Dalat.

Reports of new French support and renewed U.S. backing bolstered the Premier. French officials in Paris said last night that their government and the United States are prepared to "sacrifice" Bao Dai if his removal would promote stability.

In Washington, Henry Suydam, chief State Department press officer, told newsmen the United States "continues to support the legal government of free Viet Nam" headed by Diem. He refused to say whether Washington still regards Bao Dai as chief of state.

Spasmodic fighting continued, meanwhile, between four nationalist army battalions and the broken Binh Xuyen forces outside the capital. Only an estimated two rebel battalions with supporting units remained of the 5,000-man private army which sought to topple Diem from power.

The insurgents, led by Gen. Le Van Vien, were fighting a desperate but losing rearguard action. Vien's headquarters were now reported to be between Can Gloc, 12 miles south of Saigon, and Go Cong, 30 miles to the south.

Diem's pursuing army was reported driving south along two parallel routes six miles apart, seeking to envelope the rebels.

Behind the advancing nationalist troops, huge fires blazed in suburban Cho Lon, the site of the old Binh Xuyen headquarters. The army launched its cleanup drive yesterday by assaulting the last rebel strongholds there.

TAKE HEADQUARTERS

Government forces poured over three bridges leading from Saigon proper into the suburb peopled largely by Chinese. In a few hours they had overrun Vien's headquarters and the flat marshy area which had been his private feudal domain for 10 years.

The troops also seized the Casino de Saigon, close to the heart of the city, in a brief but violent action. This once-popular gambling spot was one of Vien's most lucrative holdings in the days when the Binh Xuyen controlled both legalized vice and gambling in the city.

Diem disclosed that his troops also routed a battalion of Binh Xuyen commandos installed in four strongpoints around a bamboo bridge north of Saigon. A government source said this victory thwarted a rebel plan to storm the capital simultaneously from north and south.

In addition to acting on the question of Bao Dai's ouster, tomorrow's states general meeting will be asked to confirm or reject the revolutionary committee's proposed three-point program for the country.

This includes: calling a national assembly, eradication of French colonialism and repression of the Binh Xuyen rebellion.

The army yesterday advised Bao Dai in a telegram sent by Diem that it would not recognize any future government he might name. Army chief of staff Gen. Le Van Ty, in an order of the day praising his troops today, pointedly left off the usual preface that it was issued in the name of the chief of state.

Stassen Bars Bids To Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen said today a Senate investigation has disclosed an "effort to play favoritism" in awarding a foreign aid contract and he has barred those involved from another chance to bid for the work.

Stassen said the ban applies to Robert H. Pinner, the fired project engineer for the job; Pinner's friend, Alfred E. Poulsen of Los Angeles; the Agricultural Construction Co., of which Poulsen is vice president; and any firm with which either Poulsen or Pinner is connected.

Stassen, outgoing chief of the Foreign Operations Administration made his statements in testimony before the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Mercury Goes To 91

Strong winds failed to keep the temperature down yesterday. A maximum of 91 degrees was recorded during the afternoon. The overnight low was 68 degrees, David Strayhorn, weather observer, said, with 71 degrees recorded at 7:30 this morning.

Tax Bill Faces Delay In Panel

AUSTIN (AP)—Agreement to send the controversial House-approved omnibus tax bill to a Senate subcommittee dimmed prospects today for a quick final adjournment of the Legislature.

The subcommittee plan was disclosed at a public hearing begun yesterday before the Senate's State Affairs Committee. More witnesses were to be heard on resumption of the hearing this afternoon.

Chairman Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo said the agreement called for all proposed amendments, without either committee adoption or rejection, to be submitted along with the bill to a subcommittee. No objection to the procedure was voiced.

Such routing could take anywhere from several days to a week or more additional time for consideration before the bill would be submitted to the Senate floor.

Chances are final adjustment of differences between House and Senate would still have to be worked out by a joint House-Senate Conference Committee.

Heard yesterday were witnesses to the proposed levies on cigarettes, tobacco, cigars and snuff as well as one witness on the proposed one-cent-per-gallon tax on gasoline to build more highways.

Still to be heard are more witnesses on the gasoline levy and the other proposed tax items: Natural gas, premium stamps, wine and beer selling permits, and uranium production.

Battle Renewed On Farm Price Props

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposing House forces squared off today in a new battle over the old issue of farm price supports.

The decision, however it goes, is certain to echo noisily in next year's political campaigning.

Scheduled for two days of debate was a bill to junk the administration's fledging flexible support program and restore high rigid price props on basic commodities to the levels first fixed in World War II to spur production.

Both sides conceded the vote could go either way when the showdown comes tomorrow.

Democratic leaders, however predicted that if they capture 20 or more Republican votes they can pass the high support bill. Republicans were equally hopeful of holding city Democrats.

Last year, in a Republican-controlled House, 45 Democrats teamed up with the GOP majority to pass the present flexible law supporting basic farm crops at levels between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity. Voting with the Democrats were 23 Republicans.

Rep. Harrison (R-Neb) said the GOP expects to lose only about 18 votes this time, but might also lose some of last year's Democratic support.

Regardless of what the House does, no early change in the law is in prospect.

The Senate Agriculture Committee has indicated it will not even consider a price support bill before next year. And in the event Congress should pass such legislation, it would almost certainly be vetoed by President Eisenhower.

The new farm bill would restore price supports at 90 per cent of parity for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts. Under the present administration program, these crops can be supported at 82 to 90 per cent of parity this year. The support range will drop to 75 to 90 per cent next year and thereafter.

For dairy products, the measure proposes price supports at 80 to 90 per cent of parity in place of 75 to 90 per cent under present law.

Parity is a legal standard intended to assure farmers a fair return for their products in relation to the cost of things they buy.

Agreement Reported On Postal Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — One Senate-House conferee on the postal pay increase bill said today a tentative agreement had been reached on a salary boost averaging 8½ per cent.

This would be close to the 8.3 average increase voted by the House. The Senate passed a bill calling for a flat 10 per cent raise except that every postal employe would get at least $400 annually.

The pay raise would go to all the nation's one-half million postal workers.

Battered Body Of Woman Is Found

MARSHALL Tex. (AP)—The battered thinly clad body of a Houston housewife found near here yesterday in a makeshift grave was identified today as Mrs. Irene Pate Walker 32.

She was last seen alive by relatives Friday.

The body was discovered by a 17-year-old youth on a lonely lane.

Randy Rainwater of Radio Station KMHT said the woman's body was partially covered with dirt. He said the woman's face had been badly battered.

"Even her own mother wouldn't have known her," Rainwater said.

Marshall police were uncommunicative about details in the case.

Rainwater said police here had been notified yesterday by relatives of the woman at Linden that she was missing.

A driver's license bearing the name of the woman and her address, 9205 Avenue Q, Houston, was found near the body.

Police Chief C. M. Ezell and City Atty. Phillip Baldwin identified the woman as Mrs. Walker.

She wore a cotton dress, pulled up past her waist.

In Houston, Jodie Walker, 24, a stepson of Mrs. Irene Pat Walker, said she left Houston Friday for Linden, Tex., about 30 miles from Marshall to bring her father to Houston for an operation.

"She hasn't called here since she left Friday afternoon," young Walker said. He added that she was accompanied by her brother, Rufus Pate, a Pasadena, Tex., nightwatchman, and Mrs. Allen Pate, wife of another brother, Orville Pate.

Neither of Irene Pate Walker's companions have been heard from in Houston since Friday, young Walker said.

He said the trio was driving in a 1955 Chevrolet belonging to Mrs. Walker. They all had planned to return to Houston either Sunday or Monday, he said.

The Marshall police desk sergeant said Rufus Pate and Mrs. Allen Pate had been located and were in Marshall and that Jodie Walker and W. H. Walker, 50, Mrs. Irene Pate Walker's husband, were in Marshall but had not viewed the body.

Police would not say whether they planned to question the companions who were with Mrs. Walker when she left Houston.

Blood in the vicinity where the body was found indicated the woman had been killed at the spot.

Group Recommends Project At Airport

Recommendation that the county build an additional runway at Winston Field, the county airport, was made to the commissioners court yesterday by the county airport board with support of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee and several civic groups and individuals.

About 18 men appeared before the commissioners in support of a new runway, which has been under consideration by the court for several months. Those appearing before the court brought out at the opening of the meeting that it was not a pressure group, rather the men were appearing to let the court know their feeling and the feeling of other citizens and those who use the airport.

Dawson Moreland, head of the airport board, showed the court several letters which had been written to him concerning the need for an additional runway at the airport, which is used both by commercial planes and private craft. Most of the letters were from firms which use planes which land here. Other members of the board present were John Blum, who also heads the chamber aviation committee, and E. H. (Ab) Williamson.

Other attending the session were C. V. Thompson, Leroy Spires, Buster Pilcher, Ben Weathers, C. N. von Roeder, Claude McCormick Jay Rogers, Bob Wilson, John Boren, O. A. McAlister, Bob McAlister, Jim Babcock, Ford Kenner, Bill Ely, and Bob Crowell. Some of those were members of the chamber committee, some representatives of civic clubs, and some appearing as individuals.

It was brought out by those appearing that not only commercial but private planes need an east-west runway many times. They explained the difficulty in landing when crosswinds are blowing. An additional runway, the group said, would not only be a safety factor but would help to protect the $1 million investment the county already has. Average lay estimates are that the additional runway would cost in the neighborhood of $60,000. Many of tthose supporting the addition report that enough money is available in the county's general fund to provide the additional facilities and that building the east-west runway would not involve a bond issue or the raising of taxes.

Some of the men appearing before the commissioners expressed the feeling that provision of adequate air facilities is a necessary part of the normal growth of the city and county.

County Judge Edgar Taylor said that the court had received a letter from the Civil Aeronautics Administration asking whether the county would want federal participation in the cost of the additional runway. Most of those present, when asked by Taylor, expressed the feeling that if the runway is built it should be done only on the local level. Many of the men said federal participation would involve more expense than necessary and that if the building were done on the local level the runway could be in operation in about the same length of time the federal government would consume to get blueprints ready.

The court told the group it would take its recommendations under advisement in future meetings.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

Failures Are Quit In Three Counties

Wildcat failures have been abandoned in Coke, Fisher and Mitchell Counties.

Deepest of the four failures was Seaboard Oil No. 1 Effie Roe, five miles west of Robert Lee in central Coke County. It was quit at 7,314 feet in the Cambrian sand. A drillstem test of that zone from 7,275-314 feet recovered 6,924 feet of black salt water with a sulphur odor. None of the higher formations had logged shows for production.

The drillsite was in the J. Klier survey No. 490.

In northeast Coke County, Oceanic Oil Co. No. 1 Rawlings was abandoned on total depth of 6,805 feet. It was drilled nine miles northwest of Bronte in 352-1A-H&TC.

Continental Oil Co. No. 1 I. L. Ellwood Estate, wildcat in southwest Mitchell County, was quit at 6,749 feet in lime and shale. It was 18 miles south of Westbrook and in 33-17-H&TC.

Sun Oil Co. No. 1 D. D. Feldman, northwest Fisher County wildcat, was quit at 7,230 feet in Ellenburger. That formation had a slight show of oil but it was not considered sufficient for any sort of production.

This failure was nine miles west of Rotan and 1,980 feet from north and west lines of 207-2-H&TC.

SCURRY COUNTY

Two new locations have been staked in the Diamond M-Clear Fork field of southwest Scurry County.

Felmont Oil Co. of Midland is to drill the No. 2 C. T. McLaughlin on a drillsite 1,845.9 feet from south and 330 feet from east lines of 179-97-H&TC, nine miles southwest of Snyder. Combination tools are to drill to 2,400 feet.

C. T. McLaughlin will drill the No. 1 McLaughlin Fee. Location is 990 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of 179-97-H&TC, 10 miles southwest of Snyder. It is also projected to 3,400 feet.

French M. Robertson has filed application to drill the No. 7 Shell-Wellborn in the Sharon Ridge 1700 field four miles southeast of Ira. Location is 990 feet from south and east lines of 102-97-H&TC. Cable tools are to drill to 1,999 feet, with operations to begin by May 19.

LYNN OUTPOST

J. Paul Karcher and Manor Oil Co., both of Midland are to drill a three-quarter mile northwest outpost to production in the PHD field of northeast Lynn County.

It will be the No. 1 W. E. Edmunds, three miles west of Pleasant Valley and 330 feet from south and east lines of the north half of section 1,422, TT survey. Projected depth is 4,400 feet.

TO TRY COMPLETION

General Crude Oil Co. was running five and a half-inch casing for production tests at the No. 4 Aiken, southwest Fisher County wildcat, at last report.

Drilled to 7,577 feet, the well showed oil and gas on four consecutive drillstem tests between 6,770-839 feet. The completion try will be made through perforations.

Location is 12½ miles west of Longworth and three and a half miles west of the Claytonville field in 249-3-H&TC.

Beard Submits Case To Commissioner

AUSTIN (AP)—Dr. John L. Beard brought his grievances over being fired as Irving school superintendent to State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar today.

Beard charged he was illegally released as head man of the Irving schools last Feb. 16. He claimed the school board which fired him could not show a professional reason why he should have been released.

The board which dismissed Beard was later dissolved by a special election which wiped out the Irving School District. The district was then re-established by special election, and a pro-Beard majority was elected to the board.

The 53-year-old educator is appealing to the education commissioner on grounds the school broke his contract by "summary action" which was "without legal or justified cause."

He has also charged "politics" with causing him to be fired.

Charles E. Young, president of the board which fired Beard, has denied previously that Irving teacher support of Ralph Yarborough against Gov. Allan Shivers in the 1954 gubernatorial race had anything to do with the firing.

But he has declined to elaborate on the board's position. Attorneys advised the board not to give a specific reason for Beard's discharge "until both Beard and the board met before a competent body such as a court or education board," he said.

Beard claimed he was not legally fired because he was not, he said, given an opportunity to defend himself.

Minutes of a Jan. 31 board meeting contain a resolution by the board that because of "friction and lack of harmony" Beard was "no longer an effective superintendent."

Later the board asked Beard to resign. His dismissal followed by unanimous vote.

Following the Beard ouster an estimated 200 teachers and other employes refused to return to work March 1. They were later fired and replaced.

IRVING, Tex. (AP)—The new Irving school board in a closed executive session last night voted to rehire in September all the school principals, teachers and other employes who struck after Supt. John L. Beard's dismissal.

"We think it's a terrible decision," W. P. Gandy, spokesman for the three-man minority on Irving's seven-man school board, said.

"They elected without any consideration of them as individuals. We objected to this inasmuch as we didn't even have any files giving their qualifications, either morally or as teachers," Gandy added.

"We wanted to interview each principal individually," the infuriated board member said. "But no, we had to take it blind."

Russell Horn, speaking for the board majority, said the jobs will not start until September and that no changes were approved for the present.

"The only issue involved," said Horn, "was the teachers' walkout. To protect our schools accreditation rating, we felt we had to have a strong administrative group back next fall. And we thought, according to their past performances, the former principals were the best persons available for the job."

Morale Sinks At Test Site

SURVIVAL CITY Nev. (AP)—The problem of morale both civilian and military became a major factor in the much-delayed atomic test today.

With the big open shot slated only tentatively for tomorrow there was considerable grumbling and griping among civil defense workers and GIs scheduled to participate. The latter group, of course, had to take it, but many of the civilians were leaving.

Harold L. Goodwin, test director for the Federal Civil Defense Administration, had a long "heart-to-heart" talk with field workers yesterday and appearently dissuaded the majority from pulling out just yet.

But one faction from Ohio indicated it was fed up with sweating out the test originally scheduled for last Tuesday. Another spokesman from Ohio however said he and another group from his state would stick it out to the end.

Uncertain weather appeared to be moving in from the west coast, making "the end" a dubious prospect. Best estimates placed the number of field exercise workers remaining at about 200. Originally there were over 350.

ming, they said. Garland Newman then started swimming after Sumruld.

Meanwhile, Albert Martin, in another boat, went to Sumruld's aid but could not get a rope to him in time. Martin then picked up Garland Newman, who was nearing exhaustion as he reached the scene.

The Snyder National Guard has been working in the rescue effort since Sunday afternoon. A guard spokesman said this morning that 80 men were working at the lake in shifts which had continued since midafternoon Sunday. Equipment from the guard unit in use includes a power plant, boats, eight vehicles, and communications facilities.

An electric amplifying system was being used today to direct the boats from shore. This, however, was being hindered by the north wind.

A crew from Lubbock Fire Department joined the search this morning. Others working include a unit from the Salvation Army at Big Spring, five departments from Big Spring, Colorado City, Sweetwater, and Snyder; and officers from sheriff's and police departments of most neighboring cities.

The family of the victim and several other relatives have kept a constant vigil at the lakeshore.

Sumruld was born April 29, 1936, near Snyder. He had lived with his parents about 12 miles southwest of here. The home is five miles north and one and a half miles west of Ira. His survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sumruld, and two brothers, Gene, 13, and Connie Mack, nine or 10.

New York Has New Teen-Ager Trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — The teen-age hatreds that killed 15 - year - old William Blankenship Jr. flared anew last night.

There were angry voices of juvenile hoodlums outside a Bronx funeral chapel after religious services for the high school honor student, killed Saturday by a bullet of a youth gang member.

Police dispersed the crowd of some 100 persons outside the chapel after a group of teen - agers threatened to attack news photographers who tried to photograph them.

Police assumed the teen-agers, including several girls, were partisans of Frank (Tarzan) Santana, 17-year-old Bronx gang member, charged with homicide in Blankenship's slaying.

The new flareup came shortly after civic and religious leaders called on New Yorkers for effective measures to fight juvenile crime.

Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams said Sunday that the rate of juvenile crime is "alarming."

Young Blankenship, son of a civic leader and fighter against juvenile delinquency, was shot because the gang mistook him for a member of a rival group. The feud between the gangs was over the use of similar jackets, police said.

Bronx Dist. Atty. Daniel V. Sullivan said he will seek a first degree murder indictment against Santana.

At Santana's arraignment yesterday, Magistrate Hyman Korn denied bail. A companion of Santana, Ralph (Rocky) Falcon, 16, charged with rioting, was held in $50,000 bail.

As the mothers of both boys wept in court Magistrate Korn said:

"If you ask me who is to blame, I would say the people of the City of New York.'

"The press is awake, the police department is awake, public officials are awake. But the public is asleep and until it wakes up this situation will continue."

The grief-stricken father of the slain boy, William Blankenship Sr., said tersely:

"Teen-aged hoodlumism that can strike a blow like this right into my home in spite of everything I did to protect mine from harm, that kind of hoodlumism isn't the disease itself.

"It's the outward sign that everything here is rotten. . . It has finally got me licked..I'm getting out. . ."

Gail Judging Team In Meet

A livestock judging team from the Gail high school is now making preparation to go to College Station May 14 to compete in the state FFA judging contests.

The team, coached by Bobby Gray, agriculture instructor, last Saturday took first place in a two-area judging contest held at Lubbock in a field of 118 teams.

Borden Reeder, one of the Gail teamsters, was fifth high participant of the 344 boys entered in the contest. Other members of the Gail team were Lonnie Doyle and Glen Kingston. Teams placing behind Gail in the contest were Patton Springs, Odessa, Silverton, and Winters.

The Gail team was high-point group in sheep judging and fifth high in grading of beef cattle. Those two points were included in the four-point livestock contest, which also involved judging of cattle and hogs.

Winner of the state contest will represent Texas in the national contest, which will be held during the national FFA convention in October.

A Gail team of Jerry Reddell, Gene Adams, and Don Dodd placed third in a field of 20 teams in the area II crops judging contest. A Snyder team won that event.

About 1,500 boys participated in the 28th annual contest event.

Year-Around School Talked

AUSTIN (AP)—Year-around instruction may be the only answer to Texas' problem of how to make more efficient use of its school buildings, the state school board has been advised.

R. Clay Underwood of Wichita Falls, board member, said yesterday the state must find a better way to operate its schools to keep the federal government from taking control of the state school system.

"We can't build expensive plants and let them sit idle three months a year," Underwood said. "That's a luxury we can't afford."

Keeping the schools open 12 months a year may not be the only solution, he said, "but we have to find a better way to use our schools."

J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education, said no city was ready at present to accept year-around schools.

The board approved Underwood's proposal to form a committee to study the problem.

Mrs. George Swinney of Abilene was appointed to the board to succeed E. J. Woodward of Sweetwater who resigned two months ago.

Potter Says Proposal Gets Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said today he is sure the Eisenhower administration is considering his proposal to substitute long-term loans for much of the proposed direct foreign economic aid to U.S. allies.

Potter opposes continuing direct dollar aid. He said in an interview he had suggested loans on which the interest payments might be waived for as long as five years.

"I am sure this proposal is being given serious consideration by the administration," he said. "Under such a plan I think we could make contracts with recipient countries which would be mutually beneficial.

"If the plan were adopted, I would favor giving the administration latitude to extend direct aid where loans couldn't be arranged. But I am sure that in most cases it would be possible to get contracts."

Eisenhower said in an April 20 message to Congress that his new program for the fiscal year starting July 1 would emphasize loans rather than grants. But he gave no explanation of this statement.

The President asked for $1,717,000,000 in military aid funds. He proposed $712,500,000 in economic assistance, plus one billion dollars for "defense support" payments to other countries.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill raising drivers licenses fees from 1.50 to $2 a year.

Hilton Gets McCarthy Rights To Shamrock

HOUSTON (AP)—The Hilton Hotels Corp. acquired ollman Glenn McCarthy's redemptive right to the Shamrock Hotel for $625,000 yesterday.

Conrad N. Hilton said the McCarthy Center Inc., which owns the Shamrock and other properties, now is a wholly-owned subsidiary of his hotel chain.

McCarthy resigned as President of McCarthy Center Inc. He will remain as a director of the corporation, although he has no further financial interest in the concern.

Early Hearing Due On Vaccine Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — An early start appeared assured today for House hearings into the wisdom of federal controls over the distribution of Salk polio vaccine.

The Eisenhower administration has thus far recommended against such controls. Secretary of Welfare Hobby said last night she will recommend curbs to the White House "if it appears on the basis of our findings and discussions or developments that the fight against polio will best be advanced by such legislation."

A special government-sponsored advisory committee, comprised chiefly of private medical and health officials, yesterday recommended voluntary controls to deal with problems of supply, distribution and priorities.

Several members of Congress have called for federal controls to assure that the vaccine goes first to those who need it most—generally children from 5 to 9. Chairman Spence (D-Ky) said yesterday the House Banking Committee will hold hearings on the question "as soon as possible."

Rep. Celler (D-NY), sponsor of a bill calling for controls, wrote Spence that the situation has "the makings of a national tragedy." Sen. Morse (D-Ore) told the Senate there has been evidence that the vaccine "was being distributed with favoritism" in New York.

In New York, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said fewer children have been stricken with polio this year than in recent years, but a spokesman said, "You can't draw any conclusions at all at this point concerning the effect of the vaccination program—it's still too early."

The foundation said that of the nine million first and second-graders due to get free shots, about four million have received the first of two injections.

Government officials, meanwhile continued their silence over inquiries they are making into some 35 cases of polio which developed after children had received at least one shot.

Two Texans Are Winners Of Pulitzer Awards For 1955

NEW YORK (AP) — Novelist William Faulkner has been awarded the 1955 Pulitzer Prize for fiction for "A Fable," an allegorical novel of a World War I munity.

The year's drama award went to Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," a play dealing with the dissolution of a Mississippi Delta family. Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire" won him his first Pulitzer Prize in 1948.

Both, Faulkner, 57, a first-time winner, and Williams, 41, are Mississippi-born. Faulkner won the 1949 Nobel Prize for literature.

Gian-Carlo Menotti Italian-born composer and lyricist, received the music award for "The Saint of Bleecker Street," an opera based on religion and Greenwich Village life. Menotti was the winner of the 1950 music prize for another opera, "The Consul."

The awards, set up in the will of the late publisher Joseph Pulitzer, were announced yesterday by the Columbia University Board of Trustees. They were recommended by an advisory board of prominent members in the newspaper and publishing fields.

The Columbus (Ga.) Ledger and Sunday Ledger-Enquirer won the 1955 award for "disinterested and meritorious public service."

The newspaper was cited for its complete news coverage and "fearless editorial attack" on the wide spread corruption in nearby Phenix City, Ala.

Local reporting awards went, for the first time, to two small-town newspaper reporters, both of them from Texas.

They are Mrs. Caro Brown, of the Alice, (Tex.) Daily Echo, and Roland K. Towery, 31, managing editor of the Cuero (Tex.) Daily Record.

Mrs. Brown's expose of 40 years of corruption and terrorism in Duval County, Tex., was adjudged the best example of local reporting under the pressure of edition time. She also covered for The Associated Press.

Towery was cited for local reporting where edition time was not a factor. He is credited with exposing a Texas land scandal involving a 100-million-dollar fund set up by the state to help veterans buy land.

Except in music and drama, the awards cover work done in 1954. The prizes for literature and music are $500 each, prizes in the field of individual newspaper work carry awards of $1,000 each. The Columbus Ledger, where staff teamwork was involved, receives a gold medal.

Other 1955 awards:

History — Paul Horgan of Roswell, N.M., for "Great River, the Rio Grande in North American History," a book that took him 14 years to write.

Biography — William S. White, member of the Washington bureau of the New York Times, for a biography of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, "The Taft Story."

Poetry—Wallace Stevens, a Hartford, Conn., insurance company vice president, for his collected poems.

National reporting — Anthony Lewis, 28, staff member of the Washington Daily News, for a series of articles that brought about reinstallation of Abraham Chasanow, dismissed from the Navy Department as a security risk.

International reporting—Harrison E. Salisbury, 47, of the New York Times, for his articles on Russia summing up his six years as Moscow correspondent for the Times.

Editorial writing — The Detroit Free Press, for an editorial by the newspaper's associate editor Royce Howes, who analyzed responsibility of labor and management in an unauthorized strike at the Chrysler Corp.

Cartoons—Daniel R. Fitzpatrick, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, for a cartoon showing Uncle Sam holding a bayoneted rifle, pondering whether to descend into a black swamp labeled "French Mistakes in Indochina." Fitzpatrick won his first Pulitzer Prize in 1926.

News photography — John L. Gaud[illegible] of the Los Angeles Times, for a dramatic photograph of a young couple on a California beach, minutes after their 19-month-old son lost his life in the surf.

Jack W. Henderson, 25, of Kansas City, Mo., a student at the Art Students League of New York, was awarded a $1,500 traveling scholarship in art. Henderson submitted three oil paintings to the awards jury.

Dies During Call

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Herbert Smead, 23, on duty with the Air Force recruiting service, called his wife Norma, 22, to find out if his Army pay check had arrived in the mail. As they were talking, he heard the receiver fall at the other end. He quickly called a neighbor. Mrs. Smead was found dead of acute meningitis.

MRS. TEXAS—Mrs. James Gunn, El Paso, Tex., a pretty blue-eyed brunette won the "Mrs. Texas of 1956" title in a contest which judged ability as a homemaker in Austin, Texas. She will represent the Lone Star State in the "Mrs. America, 1956" contest which will be held in Florida.

Baltimore To Select Its Mayor Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—After a colorful campaign featuring a parody of the Davy Crockett ballad, references to baseball and charges of bossism, Baltimoreans choose their mayor today.

About half of the 400,000 eligible were expected to vote on whether Democrat Thomas D'Alesandro should get a third straight four-year term or be replaced by Republican Samuel Hopkins.

In the last 28 years, D'Alesandro has been elected to the State Legislature, City Council and Congress. He has never lost an election.

Hopkins, a 41-year-old widower and bank official, had the backing of the Baltimore Sunpapers. Four years ago he was the only Republican among 42 state legislators from Baltimore, where Democrats hold a 4-1 edge in registration. He lost a later run for Congress.

D'Alesandro pegged much of his campaign to improvements in the street and school systems, construction of Friendship International Airport and rebuilding of Memorial Stadium.

In connection with the stadium project he emphasized his efforts to get the Baltimore Orioles into the American League and to regain the city's franchise in the National Football League.

Hopkins charged that the mayor had let political bosses mismanage the city's 10-million-dollar program for off-street parking.

The Davy Crockett touch was added by [illegible] ing coonskin caps and singing "S-a-a-a-mm-y, S-a-a-a-mm-y Hopkins" to the tune of the ballad from the Walt Disney television program.

Besides mayor, the voters also elected 20 City Councilmen, a Council president and comptroller. All posts were held by Democrats during the last term.

Prisoner Puts In Overtime

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies weren't aware there was anything wrong until Eusebio Espana, nervously pacing his cell, suddenly called out to a jailer:

"Hey! When do I go to court?"

Somebody looked into the matter. And, it developed, Espana, 29, already had been to court. Furthermore, he had been ordered released.

Espana didn't know all this. And for very good reason:

Inquiry showed that Rudy Garcia Megiorino, 28, had helped himself to Espana's property slip, and had appeared in court as Espana. When the judge dismissed the charge against Espana, Megiorino was released.

Megiorino hasn't been seen since. He was supposed to go to prison on a robbery conviction.

To make matters worse, it seems nobody noticed that Megiorino's clothes didn't fit when he walked out. With his filfered property slip, the 130-pound Megiorino had been given the clothes of Espana, who weighs 189.

Crosley Field in Cincinnati has the smallest seating capacity in the National League 29,584.

Those Resort Hotels

The State Parks Board's embition to create at least three luxury hotels to attract tourists to Texas parks was engrossed by the House Thursday, 81-52. The bill, by Rep. Charles Murphy, would validate up to $25 million in bonds issued by the board for construction. The bonds to finance the lodges would be revenue-bearing, to be retired by profits from the hotels.

Rep. Ben Atwell, who fought the legislation up to the last minute, termed the park program "creeping socialism" before the committee which handled the measure. Although the bill provides that revenue from the hotels would retire the bonds, Atwell has charged that "every penny of revenue from forty-seven state parks . . . will be pledged" to that end. This, he said, would include all admission fees, all rentals for the use of buildings, all monies received for licenses and permits, concessions and the like.

"It has been said," wrote Atwell in a protest to the 54th Legislature, "that the plan of the State Parks Board to build million dollar resort hotels would not put the State of Texas in competition with private industry because the revenue bonds would be purchased by private industry and the improvements would be built by private industry and those improvements would be operated by private industry. If that argument is to be considered sufficient, then conceivably the State of Texas could build a first class motel on every highway leading into every city in Texas. Tax free, of course, as these park hotels will be."

But it seems to us the chief argument against this method of park development is that such operations are seasonal and of dubious financial return. If they constituted an attractive investment, private enterprise would jump at the chance of building them.

It seems to us the State Parks Board would do well to develop state parks along the lines intended for them—that is, as places of recreation and enjoyment for the masses of our citizens. Some of them are the bare bones of parks—dusty, weedy, unkept and uncared for.

At 70 Miles Per Hour

The House has approved a bill raising the speed limit for automobiles in Texas to 70 m.p.h., and if it finally becomes law several hundred thousand Texas motorists will be removed from the ranks of malefactors. The 70-mile limit, however, will apply only on divided highways; on other types the 60-mile limit will prevail.

Supporters of the measure argued that the old limit was seldom observed by anyone with a car capable of doing better, so why not be realistic about it and recognize a situation? If that was a valid argument, of course, somebody will be back at the next session arguing for 80 m.p.h., using the same logic. For in very truth there isn't a great deal of difference between 60 and 80 in the consequences when anything goes wrong. Two cars meeting head-on at 60 m.p.h. each can kill just as many people and build up just as high a pile of junk as two cars going 80 each. The only difference is in the reaction time of drivers; one poking along at 60 might have time to avert an accident that would find the 80-miles completely helpless to do so.

We doubt if selective speed limits will work out in practice; that is ,making 70 legal on divided highways will so accustom people to that speed that they will unconsciously practice it on all types of roads.

Excessive speed, drinking and general carelessness figure high in the mortality statistics of our highways. While it is true that a great many people habitually drive faster than 60, the knowledge that it is illegal has served as a deterrent to excessive speed to a great many.

So under the proposed new limit we will have more cars doing in excess of 60, and therefore an increase in the danger that is inherent in higher speeds thanks to the driver-reaction factor.

Communists Likely To Take Indochina Unless U. S. Can Bring End To Disasters

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bao Dai has become a symbol of the inability of the French to face reality in the 20th century: the determination of the people of Asia to shake off colonialism for independence.

The French seem incapable of ending the chaos in South Viet Nam in Indochina, where they have had a succession of disasters. Unless the United States can end it the Communists seem certain to take over.

The French had bought Indochina as a colony in the 19th century. They were driven out in World War II, which smashed West European colonialism in most of Asia. But they wouldn't look at the clock.

They moved back in after the war. They were too impoverished to defend it from outside attack. They thought they were strong enough to control the natives. They weren't. But they couldn't bring themselves to let go.

The Vietnamese, in the big eastern province of Indochina, demanded freedom. The French promised it, after negotiations. The negotiations collapsed in 1946.

Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-trained, began war on the French with the Vietminh, made up of Vietnamese Communists and nationalists.

The French were too weak to crush the rebels.

They did not train Vietnamese armies and officer corps capable of crushing Ho Chi Minh. Such an army, of course, one day might have turned on the French and driven them out.

Nor did they build up any Vietnamese leader who could have been a real head of state and rally point for his people against communism. Instead, they picked Bao Dai, former emperor of the province of Annam, as chief of state.

He was a French puppet. Since his appointment in 1949, he has lived most of the time in luxury in France while his people were going through the agony of war. He has served as a loud-speaker through which the French could give the Vietnamese orders.

Last year Ho Chi Minh forced the French, in spite of the Americans and they too, to let him have the north, a third of Viet Nam. They moved closer then to giving the South Vietnamese independence. But not quite.

Bao Dai, in France, remained chief of state. The United States, now bearing most of the cost of trying to build up South Viet Nam to keep it from communism, pushed the French into naming Ngo Dinh Diem premier.

This man has been described as honest, a nationalist who balked at being led around by the nose by the French. The French began to cool off on him.

Last week an army of bandits, called the Binh Xuyen, who live off the proceeds from houses of prostitution in South Viet Nam, made civil war on Ngo Dinh Diem to throw him out.

Bao Dai, from his mansion on the far-off French Riveria, and with French blessing, told Ngo Dinh Diem to get out. The latter refused. The United States backed Diem, who now seems to be more firmly in control.

At this point the question seems to be: How much progress can the United States make in saving South Viet Nam if the French, refusing to learn any lesson, pull in the opposite direction?

Statements Of Chou, Dulles Are Similar; Both Concur With Proposals From Eden

By WALTER LIPPMANN

On April 24 at Bandung Premier Chou En-lai proposed that 'China and the United States should sit down and enter into negotiations to settle the question of relaxing and eliminating the tension in the Taiwan (Formosa) area. However, this should not in the slightest degree affect the just demand of the Chinese people to exercise their sovereign rights in liberating Taiwan." This statement may be read in the light of what Secretary Dulles said in his press conference on March 15: "If there were a renunciation of the use of force, that would meet the immediate requirements of the situation, and there would be no necessity that I can see for anybody, either on the Republic of China's side, or the Communist side, to renounce what they might call their legal pretentions, their legal claims."

These two statements of positions are so close together that there may be no difference between them.

Five weeks have elapsed between the Dulles statement and Chou's statement. It is reasonable to suppose that in that interval there was very considerable diplomatic activity in which, presumably, London and Moscow, New Delhi and Karachi, had a hand.

The renunciation of force without renouncing claims was first proposed publicly by Sir Anthony Eden on March 8 in a statement to the House of Commons. As a matter of fact, Secretary Dulles's statement was in reply to a question as to whether he agreed with Sir Anthony Eden. Presumably, Secretary Dulles made his statement in order to give Great Britain and the other governments, which have been playing a role of intermediary, a proposal to work with in Peiping.

And presumably also, the mediators had achieved their first success in Peiping some time before the Bandung conference met. For the Chinese Ambassador in Washington, Dr. Koo, spoke out the night before the Bandung conference met and made an elaborate rejection of any kind of modus vivendi. The government in Formosa must have known what was in the wind. And if we guess a little more, we may guess that Chou's acceptance of the formula, rather than the build-up of Red Chinese air power on the coast, was what took Secretary Dulles down to see the President in Augusta just as Admiral Radford was cancelling his trip to Europe in order to rush off to Formosa . . . Or is it sheer coincidence that these pieces in the jig-saw puzzle fit together?

As a matter of fact, the main novelty of Chou's statement at Bandung was that he made it publicly. For in spite of the Communist propaganda, diplomatic contact with Chou has not been broken since the Hammarskjold mission. And always in these exploratory discussions there had been only one conceivably line of immediate progress—to seek an arrangement, probably tacit rather than explicit, by which the two Chinese governments, while renouncing nothing, would not prosecute their claims by waging war.

The choice of the Bandung conference as the place to make public Chou's acceptance of the formula is a most favorable development. For it means that under Eden's leadership there has been found a formula which is acceptable to Peiping and to Washington, and has the approval of the uncommitted nations of Asia and of Africa. The Bandung conference was, of course, overwhelmingly opposed to a war by Chiang, backed by the United States, to overthrow the Red regime. But it was no less opposed to Red China's "liberation" of Formosa by force. What it wanted was what first Eden, then Dulles, and finally Chou were able to propose: an arrangement which would avoid a war that might engulf the greater part of Asia.

If the State Department knows what it is doing, and if the makers of our policy can manage to collect themselves in one place long enough to act with deliberation, Chou's acceptance of the Eden formula in the presence of the Bandung conference is, at a minimum, a public commitment not to use force in the Formosa Straits until the diplomatic exchanges which have already begun have been carried further.

Let us hope that the State Department will not go on fumbling, as it did on Saturday morning after Chou's first statement. Let us hope that the department will not turn what can be a diplomatic success into a diplomatic defeat.

Chou took five weeks to make his reply to the Dulles statement of March 15. There is no reason why with the President in Gettysburg and the Secretary of State on an island in upper New York, the State Department needed to form an opinion and to express it publicly a few hours after Chou's statement was received. What do these people think they are doing? Trying to make a deadline for the next edition of the newspapers or conducting the foreign policy of the United States?

Nor is it necessary, or desirable and wise to jump to the conclusion that the next steps should be concessions by Peiping in order that we may then agree to participate in a formal conference. The last thing we ought to want now is a formal conference. What we should want is to say just enough to encourage the mediators to continue the exchanges of views—and in the meantime without the beating of all the drums to bring about a dampening down of the sporadic hostilities which are now taking place in the Formosa area.

There is no hope in a formal conference. For at a formal conference there would arise, like a swarm of angry hornets, issues that are really serious only if the negotiations have to be done in public. Who, for example, shall attend the conference Chiang says he will not attend it, and we have said that we will not attend without him. Are there two Chinas or only one China? What is the juridical status of Formosa?

In a public meeting these are insoluble issues and yet that is no reason for having a war in order to pretend to solve them. The best way to deal with these issues is to live with them and in the course of time to outlive them.

That is what a modus viviendi, without a settlement, would permit us all to do.

Reports On First Quarter Show Corporations Healthy

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—There was gold in the corporate tills the first three months of the year.

The first 484 corporations to report their net profit after taxes in the first quarter of 1955 show today that their combined earnings topped their net income of a year ago by 27.2 per cent. Four out of five show an increase in profits over last year.

Stockholders are sharing part of the gain. Cash dividends paid during the period by all corporations issuing public reports approached 2½ billion dollars, 6 per cent more than in the first three months of 1954.

Not every shareholder gained. Some corporations skipped or lowered dividend payments.

The striking gain in profits over the 1954 first quarter would be misleading, however, if you didn't remember that a year ago many business firms and some industries were in the midst of a slump.

Railroads are an example. Of the 35 reporting so far, all but 6 are doing much better this year. And last year 6 of the 35 were using red ink. A big gain in freight volume, plus some paring of costs, pushes the combined earnings of the 35 77 per cent above a year ago.

Coal, which was even more depressed last year, is making a mile comeback. The total for 12 companies is 218 per cent higher than a year ago, when 6 were operating at a loss.

The 33 steel companies in the list show a 70 per cent profit gain over a year ago, reflecting the general industrial recovery. The 45 mining and metalworking companies show a combined gain of 54 per cent.

Of the 484 corporations 98 made less this year than last. There were 17 companies reporting a loss, against 33 a year ago.

Four industry groups show declines from a year ago: brewing, railway equipment, electrical equipment and containers. In the case of electrical equipment this was largely due to a big drop in earnings by one of the largest companies for reasons it calls special and temporary.

Today's Serious-Minded Parents Doing Good Job

By RUTH COWAN
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — When it comes to being responsible, serious-minded parents, today's young Mr. and Mrs. are doing better than their own ma and pa says the president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. Newton Leonard.

Mother of two and grandmother of five, she says this is especially true of GIs of World War II and recently married couples.

She sees today's post war youth in contrast to the "flaming youth" of the decade after World War I.

In the 1920s educators, preachers and parents moaned and worried about the ways of the younger generation — the hipflask, the cigarette-smoking girl who checked her girdle at a dance, the swaggering lad in his racoon coat, she recalls. Their children are now the young adults of another post world war period, and they are taking their responsibilities as parents very seriously, says Mrs. Leonard from the viewpoint of gray-haired years. This can be seen in their interest in the kind of education their children are getting — says Mrs. Leonard.

She is in her third year as head of the congress, which has about nine million members.

"Young parents are among our best members," she says. Those who are veterans have been sobered by their wartime experiences and others by the serious problems of the cold war.

Parent - teacher organizations once were mainly ma with very little pa, she says. She first joined 20 years ago when about the only men were school teachers and principals. In recent years, she reports, so many men have joined that the membership is a third male.

Some P-TA units have elected a husband-and-wife team as president. This sometimes complicates parlimentary procedure at meetings, but husband-and-wife teams as committee co-chairmen have worked out well.

New Ideas On Husband's Responsibility Shocking

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Who sews your buttons? Who darns your socks? Who sends your shirts to the laundry?

If a man does these things himself, presumably he is a real fine modern-minded husband and a great companion to his wife. But if he expects his wife to do them, he is presumably a brow-beating oaf who is secretly looking for a mother not a marital partner.

So some present-day sociologists and marriage counselors seem to hold. I say they're full of twaddle.

There has been a horrible spate of magazine articles lately on the "new freedom" of wives, the "new partnership" in marriage, the "new sharing of responsibility" between husbands and wives.

Much of this wide-eyed tripe is the sheerest drivel. It operates on the theory that (1) a home is hopelessly old-fashioned if the husband goes out and brings home the bacon, then rests contentedly in the living room while his wife cooks it—but (2) everything is palsy-walsy in a home in which papa opens a can of beans for dinner while mama cheerfully busies herself painting the kitchen ceiling.

Well, I just don't believe it. And I'll bet 10 million American husbands (and their wives') agree with me.

The latest of these little up-to-the-minute matrimonial essays really has me riled. I found in a survey that many young U.S. wives were neglecting their husbands, but held sociologists thought this just dandy as conditions have changed, and a man no longer has the right to expect from his wife the personal attentions and services his father received from his mother.

The article expressed surprise but no disapproval over the fact that a poll of college girls taking a course in marriage and family life showed only half expected to darn their future husband's socks, sew on his buttons, see that his shirts were laundered and his suits kept cleaned and pressed.

To me this is saddening. Do these girls really want to marry a husband—or merely marry a bachelor, who doesn't need them? I recall in a college course I attended the professor asked the girls the minimum income they would demand in a husband. One girl insisted it would have to be $100 a week. That was more than 20 years ago. She's unmarried.

The idea that marriage is a sharing isn't exactly new; it's as old as marriage itself. But you can't figure out the sharing as you'd plan a work sheet in a factory. The adventure lies in finding out what and how you'll share. You don't start with an ultimatum—or often end with one. Not in a real marriage.

But there is a real danger in the new idea that all household chores have to be decided exactly 50-50, so that nobody ever does more than his share; there is real danger in the new idea that any wife can improve her husband by neglecting him while she pursues her own interests outside the home.

Variety Of Personalities Involved In Viet Nam Fight

By The Associated Press

Protagonists in the military and political battle to control South Viet Nam range from a playboy ex-emperor to an American general turned diplomat. Here are thumbnail sketches of the principals:

Bao-Dai — The 42-year-old ex-Emperor of Annam is South Viet Nam's chief of state. His future is dim in view of demands in Saigon that he be ousted. At his French Riviera villa he has been trying to ride out the storm. He took off for France April 10, 1954, when the Dien Bien Phu crisis started, and hasn't been back since. A Buddhist married to a Catholic and father of six children. Loves yachting, fishing, gambling and French life in a sumptuous scale.

Ngo Dinh Diem—The embattled Premier of free South Viet Nam is 54, industrious, stubborn and determined to pull his country from the chaos in which the Indochina war left it. A Roman Catholic who refused to become premier under the Japanese or serve with Moscow-trained Vietminh leader Ho Chi Minh, he has traveled much abroad. Deferred politely to Bao Dai until chief of state tried to pull rug from under him in present fight to a finish with Binh Xuyen society's private racketeer army. A bachelor, Diem leans heavily on four brothers for assistance.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins—Former U.S. Army chief of staff, he has to make as fast decisions in the quicksand of Saigon politics as ever he did in fighting on Guadalcanal, where he won the nickname of "Lightning Joe." Sent by President Eisenhower as special envoy to Viet Nam last summer, after Indochina war ended. The general, just turned 59, is apparently sold on Diem as a leader and has been a big factor in keeping U.S. support squarely behind him.

Gen. Paul Ely—French high commissioner and commander in chief in Indochina. Born in Salonika, Greece, fought in French infantry in World War I and seriously wounded in World War II. Head of the French mission to NATO standing group in Washington 1949-51, succeeded U.S. Gen. Omar Bradley as group's chairman 1951-53. Ely, 58, was French chief of staff when Dien Bien Phu fell and was sent to Indochina to replace Gen. Henri E. Navarre there.

Gen. Le Van Vy—The 39-year-old parachute trooper was named inspector general of Vietnamese army by Diem last December in compromise decision on high command. He had been acting chief of staff and was the original U.S. and French choice for chief. But Diem argued that Vy, as a French citizen, was vulnerable to extreme nationalist and Communist propaganda. Split between him and and Diem has widened as crisis grew. Bao Dai relieved Diem of military powers last Thursday in midst of current shooting war with Binh Xuyen, conferring them on Vy. Vy proclaimed himself "supreme power" Sunday, but the army put up with him for only a few hours, then switched back to Diem. Vy fled to Dalat, the summer capital.

Gen. Le Van Ty—Older than Vy, named chief of staff when latter was made inspector general. Went along with Vy in opposing U.S.-backed slash of Vietnamese army from 220,000 to 100,000 in next year or two. But when Bao Dai tried to replace him with Vy as army commander, Ty played big part in keeping army behind Diem.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Casting of Nelson Eddy in the lead role of "Desert Song" for NBC's color spectacular next Saturday night sounds like a natural.

It would seem to be right down his alley, in view of his starring performances in nearly two score light opera movies and his long career in opera and concerts. But the tall singer and actor, still handsome at 53, is as nervous as a novice.

"I've never done a major show on stage or television, and motion pictures are entirely different in technique," he explains. "And on the concert stage I was out there for which my background hasn't prepared me."

"They tell me I'm trying too hard," he said during a break in rehearsals.

"I always wanted to start small in television, on some local station or with a 15-minute program, until I learned it," he said. "But my agents balked, with fees in mind no doubt. They said it had to be in an important spot. Now here I am in the biggest spot of all."

"I wish I had won my argument three years ago and started small, and worked my way up," he said.

"I have a feeling now that it might open up a whole new field for me. But first I have to see whether I can do it, what the producer thinks, and whether the TV public likes me."

Until now, Eddy's television has been confined to occasional guest appearances.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE SILENT CONTINENT. By William H. Kearns Jr. and Beverly Britton. Harper.

When the Navy expedition headed by Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd sails for the Antarctic next November it will be following a frozen grail that explorers have pursued for more than 200 years.

The Silent Continent is an engrossing collection of stories spun by past antarctic explorers; what they hoped to find, what they found and how they went about it.

Here is Nat Palmer, a fuzzy chinned whaling skipper out of Stonington, Conn., discovering the legendary seventh continent while looking for seals.

Here is this same Admiral Byrd, spending 70 days alone at his frozen camp often near death of monoxide poisoning.

In between are 30-odd other explorers: Robert F. Scott, failing by days to be first to reach the pole and then perishing with his entire party on the way back; Ernest Shackleton, cast adrift on floes when his ship is locked in and broken up by ice; harsh, proud Adm. Charles Wilkes, scouting hundreds of miles of unknown coasts and then returning to face a court martial.

This book was written by two naval officers, one of whom was himself lost for several days in the Antarctic in 1946.

By combining intimate knowledge with painstaking research, they make the emergency of Antarctica an adventure that will keep parlor explorers on the edge of their armchairs.

Village Can't Find Owner Of Bridge

LYONS, Mich. (AP) — This village wants to repair a 74-year-old bridge but can't find out who owns it. To determine ownership, Village President James Kistler filed friendly lawsuits against the village, county and state.

School buses have been ordered to stop on one side of the weakened structure let the children walk across the bridge and pick them up on the other side.

The bridge was built in 1881, repaired in 1901 and again in 1930. But a search of records has failed to show who built the bridge and who's going to pay for repairs.

FAMILY CIRCLE—Viveca Lindfors, star of the Broadway dramatic hit, "Anastasia," sits down on stairs of her Manhattan home holding son Christopher while daughter Lena holds her cocker spaniel and cat and husband George Tabori peers over Banister. Son David wouldn't pose.

Family, Pets Are Credited With Making Actress Better

By JOY MILLER
AP Newsfeature Writer

Every night after her last bows as star of the Broadway hit play, "Anastasia," Viveca Lindfors goes home to:

A husband, three children, one dog, seven puppies, one cat and two kittens.

They make her a better actress, she says.

"Whatever full experience you have—love for humanity, children—is to your advantage as an actress. The more fully we live, the more we have to play upon."

It is late morning and she sits serene and unruffled in her second floor living room cheerfully lined with books, Swedish paintings and Swedish copper molds on the white brick fireplace.

She wears a sleeveless cotton duster and no makeup and holds her youngest child in her lap. Christopher, chubby and 2½, protests his hunger and she interrups her conversation now and then to call downstairs to his nurse about his lunch.

Upstairs in the narrow, four-story Manhattan house her 11-year-old daughter Lena is playing with two girl friends. And sharing a huge pen in Lena's room are the puppies and kittens who take turns cleaning each other up with friendly tongues.

In another upstairs room David, 12, is holed up, refusing to pose for magazine photographers who are coming later to take color pictures of the family.

A plumber is banging away somewhere, and once her husband, the writer George Tabori, slips down the stairs, moving quietly to avoid running into anyone in his bathrobe.

In and out of the various rooms wander Pretty Penny, the mother cocker, and Beauty, the mother cat.

"Yes, it's possible to combine three careers—wife, mother actress," she says. "It's just a question of adjusting. At times you're home a great deal, then you get a job and you're hardly home at all. Of course, then you can hire help which you can't afford when you don't have a job."

Christopher screams for food. She hugs him, her reddish brown hair falling over his face.

"You know, it's easier to raise the third child. By that time you're not filled with ambition about what you want them to be; you just accept them for what they are."

She points through a back window to a vacant lot between her house and big apartment buildings on the street behind.

"Look out there. All that space could be converted into a playground and one person could supervise lots of children. It's ridiculous the way we all hire one person to watch one child. Maybe in 20 years it will be different—we'll wake up. In the good old days there were always lots of aunts and uncles to watch children. Now we are all alone, except for the schools, of course."

A top screen star in Sweden, Miss Lindfors came to this country in 1946 for a series of films. She has two movies coming out now, and "Anastasia" seems destined for a long run.

Any problems then?

"Right now I've just got to find out about Christopher's lunch."

O'Connor Is Still Amazed By Success

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last week Paramount saluted the reunion of Donald O'Connor and Bing Crosby after 18 years of going their separate ways.

The studio ran off the "Small Fry" number from their 1938 musical, "Sing You Sinners," plus "You Gotta Give the People Hoke" from the 1955 "Anything Goes."

In the earlier film, Donald was 12, with an Irish face and a soprano singing voice. In "Anything Goes," he is nearing 30, handsomer and a baritone. In both numbers, he seems to be an accomplished, highly talented performer with complete sureness.

Donald doesn't give that impression in person. His conversation is tentative, his manner offhanded. He hasn't adopted the false modesty of some stars. Although he has been a performer for most of his years, he is still amazed and modest about the honors that fall his way.

Seeing the old movie caused him to reminisce about his days as a child actor. He recalled playing with his family at the Irish Village of the Chicago World's Fair in 1933. He was 8.

"I can remember there was a midget show next door," he said. "I used to go over and play with the midgets between shows."

He remembers "Sing You Sinners" vividly. He also remembers his salary: $350 a week. He's now earning $200,000 for "Anything Goes."

"I did a lot of pictures at Paramount," he said. "I was Gary Cooper as a boy in 'Beau Geste' and Fred MacMurray as a boy in 'Men With Wings.' But 'Sing You Sinners' was the only musical I ever did in those days.

"I think that was probably good for my career. People don't remember me as a child star. That's pretty hard for some kids to overcome when they grow up."

Pledges Given Sorority Pins

Ten pledges of the Iota Psi chapter of ESA received jeweled sorority pins in ceremonies held Sunday morning following a breakfast.

Following the presentation ceremonies and installation of officers a charter for a new ESA chapter here was signed. The new chapter will be the Gamma Upsilon chapter.

Jane Joyce was presented as the Iota Psi candidate for rodeo queen. Her duchess will be Rebecca Crawford. Miss Joyce and her mother Mrs. Amos Joyce and Rebecca and her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Crawford, were special guests for the breakfast and ceremonies which followed.

Receiving sorority pins were Mrs. Margie Davis, Mrs. Betty Cox, Mrs. Jo Ann Baker, Mrs. Jackie Dibble, Mrs. Mitchie Williams, Mrs. Shirley McDaniel, Mrs. Mary Pitner, Mrs. Norma McArthur, Mrs. Loverta Lovall and Mrs. Margaret Wood.

Demonstration Is Presented At Meet

The Pyron Home Demonstration met last week in the home of Mrs. Fred E. Bowen for a program on making belts and buttons.

Mrs. Darwin Bowlinger presented the demonstration. The recreation period was led by Mrs. Frank Nachlinger. The hostess gift was won by Mrs. B. J. Clifton. Ten club members and a visitor attended the meeting. Mrs. Jack Huggins was introduced as a new member.

Juniors Set Annual Fete For Seniors

About 124 Snyder High School senior students will be feted by about 152 juniors at 8 o'clock tonight at the annual junior-senior banquet and prom.

The banquet will be held in the high school cafeteria, immediately followed by the dance in the high school gymnasium.

The event will have an oriental theme. Chinese lanterns and figurines will decorate the banquet hall. The entrance will be decorated by a simulated bridge, covered with flowers. A large trellis in the hall will also be covered with flowers. The gymnasium will be decorated with streamers and lanterns in varied colors and will have a wishing well in the center of the floor. Sophomore girls will serve the dinner, which will be baked chicken and trimmings.

Gordon Bennett, vice-president of McMurry College, will be main speaker for the evening. He will be introduced by Ollie Peek, one of several teacher sponsors of the junior class. Jack Spikes, president of the junior class, will be master of ceremonies. The welcome address will be given by Alan Snead, and response will be by Junior McCormick, senior class president.

Music entertainment will be presented by the high school boys quartet, which includes Bryan Boss, Kent Fields, Doug Smith, and Herb Portis. Music for the dance will be by the Steve Birdwell orchestra.

Miss Geneva Marshall is general banquet chairman. Other class sponsors working with her are Peek, Mrs. N. O. Starr, Mrs. Wendell Shiflett, Frank Miller, Franklin Pruitt, Glenn Richardson, and Mrs. Paul Machel.

One of the best dishes for a buffet is Jo Mazzotti, at its best if the sauce is made the day before and left to season. Use other meats in place of pork if you prefer—ground beef or pork sausage perhaps. If you use sausage you will not need the extra fat.

JO MAZZOTTI

¼ cup butter or other cooking fat
1½ pounds lean pork, ground
8 large onions, sliced
3 cans concentrated tomato soup or 1 can tomato paste and 2 cups water
1 pound mushrooms, sliced
1 bunch celery, diced
2 green peppers, cut fine
Juice of ½ lemon
Salt and pepper
1 pound sharp cheese, cut small
1 large package broad noodles

Melt the fat, add pork and onions and cook until well browned. Add remaining ingredients except noodles. Simmer 15 minutes to make a rich sauce.

While the sauce is cooking, cook the noodles until just tender in a deep kettle of boiling, salted water (1 teaspoon to each quart of water). Drain and mix with the sauce. Cover closely and cook slowly one hour on top of the stove or in a 350-degree oven. Serves 12 to 16.

Girl Scouts Are Back From Trip

Girl Scout Troop 11 returned Sunday night from a weekend trip to San Antonio.

Accompanying the troop members were Mrs. Felix Glisson, troop leader, and Mrs. C. M. Fowler, co-leader. Mrs. H. E. Aylor, a committee member, and three mothers, Mrs. O. C. Stanley, Mrs. R. L. Shield and Mrs. W. N. Peebles, also made the trip. Funds from the troop treasury financed the trip.

Scouts making the trip were Polly Thomas, Judith Cooper, Patsy Jetton, Gloria Green, Karen Aylor, Claudia Fowler, Mary Beth Capps, Connie Stanley, Betty Joe Floyd, Lynda Bradley, Linda Brown and Mary Clair Peebles.

The group left at noon Friday. Included on their sightseeing tours of San Antonio were the Alamo, San Jose Mission, Brackenridge Park and Zoo, the sunken garden, the Japanese tea garden, Whittier Museum and other points of historic interest. A boat trip was also included in activities. A stop was made at Kerrville on the way home for swimming in the Llano River.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams of Abilene, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mixon, Lamesa highway, during the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug McGlaun, 2341 Sunset, have returned home from a short trip to Dallas.

Mrs. James Bowers Is Shower Honoree

Mrs. James Bowers was honored at a pink-and-blue shower held recently at the Hilander Club room.

Hostesses at the shower were Cleone Brunson, Wanda Brunson, and Billie Alford. About 10 guests attended, including Mrs. George Bowers, mother-in-law of the honoree.

A stork theme was carried out in decorations and favors. The table centerpiece was a pink and blue paper mache stork, surrounded by pink grass and colored eggs. Cookies in the shape of animals and colored punch were served.

Pleasant Hill HD Club Has Meeting

Mrs. Floyd Thomas was hostess to the Pleasant Hill Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon at her home.

Twelve members attended, with one new member, Mrs. Douglas Vineyard. Mrs. J. W. Bills directed the program on safety in the home and on the farm. Refreshments were served following the recreation period.

Mrs. Paul Moore is to be hostess for the next meeting on May 12.

Hermleigh P-TA Hears Summary Of Year's Work

A summary of the past year's work of the Hermleigh Parent-Teacher Association was given by O. B. Paty, superintendent of schools, at the unit's final meeting of this school year Monday night.

The program was given by students in the first grades. Mrs. K. B. Rector gave the devotional. Homemaking students displayed their work following the program.

New officers installed were Mrs. Winnie Richburg, president; Mrs. Byron Taylor, vice president; Mrs. Irene Hudgins, secretary, and Mrs. E. L. Chitsey, treasurer. Mrs. W. T. Etheredge is the outgoing president.

Service pins for loyal service to the schools were also presented during the evening. Receiving pins for 15 or more years of service were Orval Hess, a board member for 16 years; Mildred Simmons, a teacher for 18 years, and Roxie Soules, a teacher for 19 years.

Ten to 15-year pins went to Ruth Boattenhamer, a teacher for 11 years; Grady Williams, board member for 11 years; Donnie Anderson and Mary Layman, lunch room workers for 11 years.

Receiving five to 10-year pins were Clovis Robinson, lunch room worker for five years; Harold Mason and Ivey Herrley, bus drivers for five years; Albert Kuss, board member for five years; O. B. Paty, superintendent for five years; Jake Greene, teacher for six years; James Davidson and E. L. Vandiver, board members for seven years; Mattie Ammons, lunch room worker for seven years; Kate Voss, lunch room worker for eight years, and A. L. Kerby and Edna Clift, teachers for eight years. Some of the teachers taught in the Pyron schools before they were consolidated with the Hermleigh schools, and those years were counted in the award years.

Cheryl June Rutledge Honored On Birthday

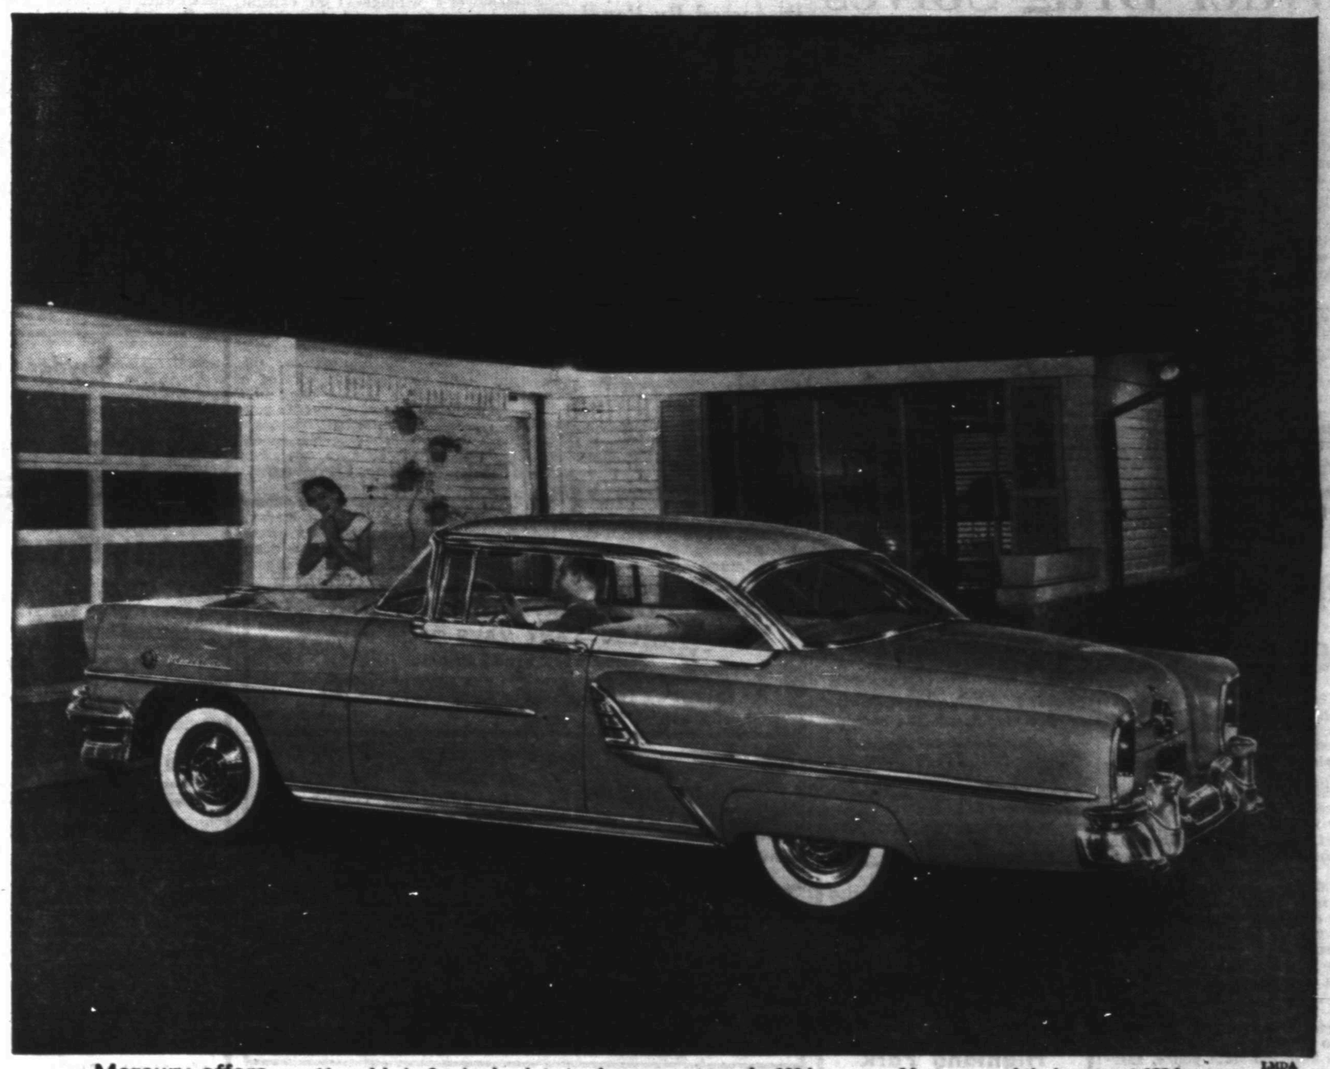

Cheryl June Rutledge was honored on her fifth birthday Saturday with a party in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rutledge, Jr., 3202 Avenue V.

A May theme was carried out at the party, with a cake in the shape of a Mayflower basket as a centerpiece for the outdoor refreshment table. Toy watches were given as favors.

Refreshments were served to Gena Richardson, Jan Williamson, Randy Feagan, Sharon Rutledge, David and Judy Goforth, Richard and Teresa Campbell, Patricia and [illegible] of Snyder, and Peggy Appling and Betty Shelton of Rotan.

GIFT SHOPPING HEADQUARTERS — Snyder Drug, above, located on the center of the west side of the square, is an ideal gift shopping headquarters for Mother's Day gifts. The drug store specializes in everything needed by mothers—and all women—for their beauty, and "Beauty gifts are always appreciated more than anything else by women," R. E. Patterson, owner, said. (Lee Watson photograph).

Flowers Always Top Mother's Day Gift

Mother's Day is the one day set aside each year to show our appreciation to the greatest women in the world, our mothers, Roland Bell, Jr., owner of Bell's Flower Shop, 804 Twenty-fifth Street, said.

"It has long been a custom of giving or sending flowers, to our mothers on Mother's Day even more so than on most other occasions when mothers are included on gift lists with all women," Bell said.

"Probably the reason flowers have become the leading Mother's Day gift is because the springtime is the time when the widest selection of all types of flowers are in natural bloom and at their most beautiful," he added.

Bell's Flower Shop has an infinite variety of flowers ready to be made into bouquets, corsages, center pieces, and other arrangements for Mother's Day.

Special attention to delivering the flowers at the time they are most beautiful, and at the same time at the time most appropriate for the receiver of the flowers is given by all the staff of Bell's Flower Shop.

Orders for flowers are made up and placed in refrigerated storage vaults to keep them at their most beautiful until the purchaser calls for them or until time to deliver them, Bell said.

Twelve delivery boys will be added to the staff of the flower shop Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning to make deliveries of flowers to any part of town, Bell said.

Dangers Of Guaranteed Wage Cited

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank B. Cliffe, vice president of the H. J. Heinz Co. of Pittsburgh, said today the guaranteed annual wage being demanded by some unions may endanger expansion of programs of some businesses and bankrupt others.

Cliffe said in a speech prepared for the 43rd annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce that many firms have found it possible to regularize production and pay checks "with varying degrees of success."

But the risks are great, he said, for companies subject to seasonal fluctuations in sales or sensitive to the ups and downs of the business cycle.

"While I am in strong sympathy with the desire for steady work and correspondingly steady pay, the demand for a guaranteed annual wage seems to be using the wrong tool for the job," he said.

"Certainly the destruction of an employer's willingness to expand and experiment and the bankruptcy of other employers who could not survive the additional load of payments demanded would harm employes far beyond the benefits they would have received."

Harry A. Bullis, board chairman of General Mills, Inc., Minneaplis, told the Chamber delegates American business must voluntarily assume greater social responsibility if it hopes to head off a trend toward government controls.

Bullis said in his prepared remarks that companies should now be concerning themselves with such problems as plans to absorb future job hunters in the rapidly increasing population; giving equal opportunity for employment, regardless of color or religion; providing job opportunities for the physically handicapped; turning a proper share of profits back into research; and planning for its role in possible mobilization.

Damage Is Light In Truck-Car Collision

Damage was estimated at slightly more than $200 in a truck-car collision which occurred at about 3 p.m. yesterday about one-half mile south of the Lion Oil Camp on the Lake Thomas road.

Involved were a 1953 Chevrolet truck owned by Universal Construction Co. and driven by James Nelson, 46, 3212 Avenue K, and a 1953 Chrysler sedan driven by Raymond D. Powell, 46, route 3.

The truck suffered little damage, while damage was about $200 to the car, according to reports of sheriff's deputies Howard Gibbons and Bill Love, who investigated.

Mrs. Greenberg Files Suit For Divorce

CLEVELAND (AP)—Caral Gimbel Greenberg, heiress to a department store fortune, has asked an end to her nine-year marriage to Hank Greenberg, home run hitter who became general manager of the Cleveland Indians baseball team.

Mrs. Greenberg, 40, a noted horsewoman, yesterday claimed "gross neglect and extreme cruelty" and asked custody of their three children, Glenn, 8, Stephen, 6, Alva, 2. She also demanded alimony.

Greenberg, 41, said he was "terribly distressed."

"I hoped and tried to avoid it," he said. "My primary and only concern now is what's best for the children. I'm not thinking about myself."

Mrs. Greenberg is the daughter of Bernard F. Gimbel, board chairman of the Gimbel Brothers, Inc., and of Saks & Co. Both firms operate retail stores.

Snyder Drug Solves Many Gift Problems

An easy solution to one of modern day man's biggest problems is offered in Snyder by Snyder Drug on the west side of the square.

The big problem is what to get for mother on Mother's day, R. E. Patterson, owner of Snyder Drug, said.

"Shopping for Mother's Day gifts has become a big problem because there are so many other gift-giving days which include all women, as well as mothers, located near Mother's Day on the calendar," he said.

"The most ideal solution to the problem of giving an appropriate gift to a wife or mother is something for her beauty — because the gift expresses the sentiment that she is beautiful to you," Patterson said.

"With that thought in mind we have in stock all the cosmetics, beauty aids, perfumes, and make-ups necessary for any woman's complete beauty care," he added.

"And because so many other gift giving days have just past, beauty aids and cosmetics make even more ideal gifts because they are inexpensive gifts and do not disturb an already gift-drained pocketbook," the druggiest said.

For gift shoppers who wish to choose ideal Mother's Day gifts in other lines, Snyder Drug is also an ideal shopping center. Hundreds of gift items are included in the sundries department of the store, and courteous sales girls make the selection of the perfect gift easy at the store.

Another advantage to shopping at Snyder Drug for men is that the store remains open until 10 o'clock each night and is open after most men get off work, rather than closing at about the same time they finish their work day, Patterson said.

Eight Projects Are Discussed By Panel

Eight projects were discussed yesterday afternoon by the Chamber of Commerce merchants activities committee in its first meeting of the year.

The committee, headed by Bob Taylor, will continue its work in another meeting next Tuesday afternoon.

Preliminary discussion was on trade tours, employer - employe sales courses, the chamber's mid-year membership barbecue, rodeo promotion, the annual business-teacher banquet, recommended holidays and promotional activities with the holidays, and possible buying needs surveys.

Dust Proves Costly

DENVER (AP)—Colorado's Highway Department will spend $50,000 to $70,000 to clear wind blown dust from roads and ditches in southeastern counties. Chief Highway Engineer Mark U. Watrous said it will cost that much in the Pueblo division, which encompasses the Las Animas Valley, Walsenburg and Trinidad areas.

Cattle Trader Drowns

HOUSTON (AP)—Oscar Theodore Garvin, 43-year-old cattle trader, drowned in Lake Houston yesterday when he stepped into a deep hole while fishing.

Last Prisoner Is Returned To Jail

CANTON, N.Y. (AP)—A manhunt through northern New York wilderness has ended where it began —in St. Lawrence County Jail from which four men fled Wednesday.

Freshly shaven and clothed Patrick Brooks 26, of Gabriels, walked quietly into the main jail office at 9:06 last night. A friend drove him from the swampy woodland where he had been hunted since Friday. Two children rode with them.

The final score stood: one desperado dead, one wounded and two in custody. A state trooper was recovering from his wounds.

Leon Caskinette, 24, was taken after a gun battle Friday. Frank Ialarico, 44, Utica, and Ralph La Shomb, 29, were shot when troopers found them yesterday morning. Ialarico was killed.

More than 200 state police, sheriff's deputies and volunteers took part in the manhunt in rough county near the Canadian border.

Louis Greenwood, 38, said Brooks appeared at his house 13 miles north of Potsdam about 8 p.m. and asked for food. Greenwood's sister is married to Brooks' brother.

Greenwood said his wife gave Brooks a meal. Then the couple urged him to surrender.

In discussing the wounding of the trooper, Greenwood said Brooks raised his right hand and declared, "I swear to God I never used a gun."

Brooks agreed to surrender, Greenwood said, on condition that Greenwood's car be used for the trip and "don't let the police get me."

Patricia Greenwood, the couple's 12-year-old neighbor, rode with them to Canton.

Earlier in the day, Talarico, a three-time felony lower known as The Hook, kept his vow that he would never be taken alive. Nine troopers found him and La Shomb in a clearing on a farm near Hopkinton and shot them.

La Shomb was taken to Potsdam General Hospital, where his right leg was amputated. His condition was reported fair today.

Trooper Austin J. McDonagh, 34, of Malone, was recovering today at a Malone hospital from shoulder and leg wounds suffered in the gun battle Friday in which Caskinette was captured.

Tigers Finish With 2 Wins

The Snyder Tigers completed their high school baseball season yesterday afternoon with two big wins over Vernon, 12-5 and 7-3.

The two victories gave the Tigers a 3-3 district record. They are still in third place in the district. Their season record at the finish was 10-11.

The team, which was to come back from Vernon today, will now play as an independent team through the summer as a City Baseball League squad to gain more practice. The baseball program was resumed in the school last season after a two-year layout.

Vernon led off with three runs in the first inning when Richard Christopher made first on an error, Curtis Graf sacrificed him to second, Charles Spears walked, Robert Pigg got on base by fielder's choice while Christopher was going home, and Lefty Thompson got on base by error while two more got runs. The Lions made it 5-0 in the second when Jim Lindsey singled and went home on Jerry Phillips' triple. Phillips later getting home, beating out a play.

The Tigers scored their first run in the third. In that frame, Joe Reaves walked, advanced on an error, and was brought home by Don McNew's single. Two more runs came for the Tigers in the fourth when Jack Spikes and Alan Snead walked, both of them getting home while Bernie Hagins went around to second on an error. In the fifth, McNew tripled and later got home on an error. Five more Tiger runs came in during the sixth, when Snead singled, Hagins walked, Prichard singled, Reaves got on base by fielder's choice, and McNew walked, all of them getting home either by error or being walked in. The bases were loaded in the seventh when Reaves sacrificed one in. One more run was stolen, another gained by error.

Snead, who pitched throughout that game, was winning pitcher. Giving up three hits, he allowed only one walk and struck out five. Phillips, the loser, went four innings to allow three hits, walk four, and fan four. Ray Smith, his replacement, gave up five hits while walking none and striking out one.

In the second game, the Tigers opened with four runs, gained by the first four to the plate. Hagins was hit by a pitched ball, Prichard made a base on an error, and Reaves was hit by the pitcher. McNew then singled in two runners, while Reaves stole home and McNew got home by error. Vernon came back with two runs in the fourth, gained when Thompson doubled to bring in two runners. In the bottom of that inning, however, the Tigers got three more runs. Pat Fowler walked, Hagins got a base on an error, Prichard walked, and Reaves was hit by the pitcher to walk in Fowler. McNew singled in two more. Vernon's other run was gained in the sixth, when Pigg got first on an error and stole the rest of the way around.

Dwayne Prince started on the mound in that game and was already winner when, in the fourth inning, the pitched ball hit his thumb against the bat and injured it. He had pitched four innings to allow two hits, walk none, and strike out six. Snead, who replaced him, gave up one hit, walked none, and fanned four during the remainder of the game. The loser, Bobby Bryant, allowed three hits and walked four while fanning five.

Dicesare Stops San Angelo Domination

By The Associated Press

San Angelo ran into young Art Dicesare of Big Spring last night, and as a result, the Longhorn League standings are a little crowded at the top Tuesday.

The Colts went into last night's action in sole possession of the top spot. But Dicesare, a rookie from New York and probably the hottest thing in the league, set them back with an 8-3 defeat.

Roswell and Midland, which were tied for second place, won games and advanced into a three-way jam at the top of the loop. Midland blasted Odessa 14-2, while Roswell had to work hard for a 16-15 decision over last place Hobbs.

In the only other game, Artesia got past Carlsbad 5-1.

The teams all stay in the same locations tonight.

Registration Opens For Tennis Tourney

Registration was set to begin today for the second annual city tennis tournament, which will be held May 28-June 4 under sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

G. C. Robinson, who announced the opening of registration, said those who wish to register should contact him at 3-3987 or fill out a registration blank at the Towle Memorial Park tennis courts. Information needed upon registration is the person's name, age, and division he is entering. Robinson said doubles partners should fill out separate blanks and designate on the blanks who their partners are.

Divisions for boys, girls, men, and women are planned for the tournament. Junior boys will be those 15 and under. If they were 15 before last Jan. 1, they will go into the senior division. Senior boys will be those up to 18. If they were 18 before last Jan. 1, however, they will go into the adult division. Girls and women's divisions will be registered in the same manner. The girls and women will be divided in the same way if there are enough competitors. If not, some of the divisions will be combined.

Both singles and doubles are planned in each division. Registration will close on May 25.

The Jaycees last Saturday sponsored a tennis clinic here, and the clinic will continue this Saturday. Robinson, Bill Ballard, M. R. Estes, Royce Burrows, and Ronnie Smith are conducting the clinic, in which basic strokes were taught last week. About 25 participated in the clinic, all of them teen-agers. About 15 of those were boys, 10 were girls.

Any person can still enter the clinic this Saturday if he wishes, Robinson said, adding that review and on-court practice will make up most of the day's work this time. Robinson said it is impossible now to determine results of the clinic. Results can be seen, he said, only if those who worked in the clinic continue to practice.

NCAA Committee Exaggerates Issue

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

While it was a little on the humerous side for President George Cross of the University of Oklahoma to say that being placed on probation by the NCAA for its athletic practices "vindicated" the University's athletic program, it did appear that intercollegiate athletics was making a mountain out of a molehill.

Dr. Cross' statement further expounded the startling fact that the NCAA found Oklahoma "guilty of the NCAA interpretation of the NCAA rules."

Sort of like a fellow, upon being fined for speeding, telling the judge: "Well, that vindicates me. You are only convicting me on your interpretation of the law."

Oklahoma as a member of the NCAA subscribed to its rules and no interpretation was necessary. The rules said what was supposed to be done and prescribed penalties for not doing it.

But that's neither here nor there.

The NCAA placed Oklahoma on two years probation because it provided cost-free education to athletes who had served out their eligibility but hadn't graduated and because it provided emergency medical assistance to some of the wives and children of married athletes.

In the first place, it would appear that the university should be obligated to carry an athlete through college if it gave him a scholarship to come there and compete in athletics. There have been instances in the Southwest Conference of an athlete being injured in football but being continued on his athletic scholarship through school. Therefore if the athlete didn't graduate in the required time he should be given that opportunity under his scholarship. It was presumed that he made his courses sufficiently while competing to be eligible.

There doesn't appear anything wrong in the university helping an athlete's family.

But since those things are against the NCAA rules, then it was proper that Oklahoma be cited for violations of the code. It just seems here the rules ought to be changed to eliminate such trivial offenses. It wouldn't appear that either of those rules could do anything toward contributing to proselyting and illegal recruiting.

Dizzy Dean is about the most refreshing personality you'll come across these days. Dizzy is the well-known mangler of the English language who tells you about a ball game on television in the words the athletes and fans are accustomed to and like.

The other day Dizzy was broadcasting the Boston Red Sox-Chicago White Sox game. He had trouble pronouncing the name of Sandy Consuegra, pitcher for the White Sox, but he said that after all he couldn't speak English much better than Consuegra anyway. Consuegra needs an interpreter.

Bosox Are Just Getting Worse Now

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

If Ted Williams was casting base hits around the American League instead of reeling in the big ones off the Florida keys these days, Boston's Red Sox might be a lot better off. He's having a good time but they're in sixth place in the American League.

After a fast start when they were 6-1 and in first place by April 20 the Red Sox now have trailed off to lose 10 of their last 12 including five in a row.

They've been batting a puny .180 through the slump getting shut out four times en route.

Jackie Jensen provided what little power the Red Sox mustered yesterday while losing their fifth straight. He homered with none on while the Red Sox ran afoul of Cleveland's Early Wynn. The Indians won 4-2 retaining first place.

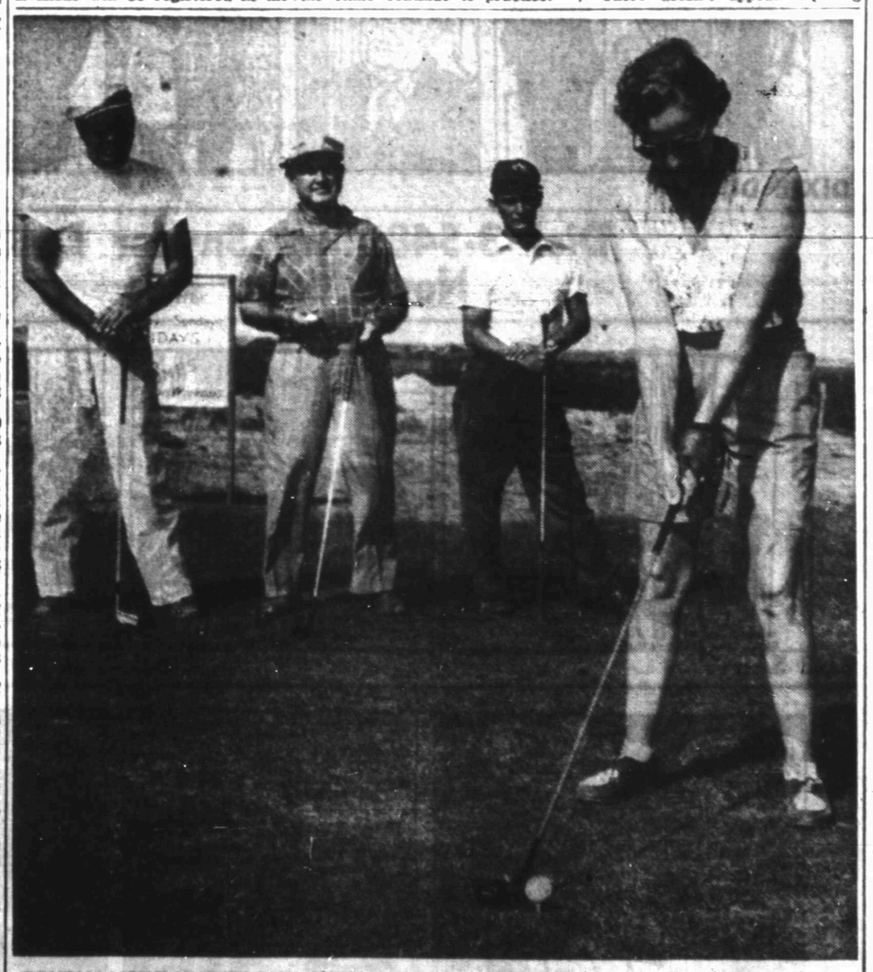

Wynn a 23-game winner last season grabbed his first victory of the season. Recovered from an attack of bronchial pneumonia he scattered six hits. Dave Pope hit a three-run homer in the first.

Detroit kept the pace, a half game back of the Indians, by whipping the New York Yankees 7-1. The Yanks, who were tied for second with the Tigers and Chicago White Sox at the day's start, fell off to fourth. The White Sox, idle, leveled off at third.

Washington blasted Kansas City 12-1 in the only other AL game.

In the National, Brooklyn kept up its fantastic pace, widening its lead to six games as Carl Furillo rammed his eighth home run into the left field stands to beat Milwaukee's Braves 2-0 in 12 innings. That pushed the Braves into fourth with Chicago's Cubs leaping into second on a 2-1 victory at Philadelphia after wrapping up a 4-2 decision by completing a suspended Sunday game.

Pittsburgh's Bob Purkey had no trouble with St. Louis, beating the Cardinals 5-1.

TOURNAMENT UNDERWAY—The annual pro-amateur tournament of the Snyder Country Club got underway at 9 o'clock this morning, and the group above teed off at 9:15 o'clock. A line of entries were still registering for the tournament at that time. Mary Dyer is shown preparing for her first stroke while the rest of the foursome watch. They are from left: O. K. Fletcher, Wayne Boren, and Nick Galendo. (Lee Watson photograph).

Sun Over Hermleigh 2-1 In Loop Opener

Sun Oil Co.'s baseball team took the first win of the City Baseball League last night when it edged Hermleigh 2-1.

It was a tight game all the way through, even though Sun had its lead from the first inning. Of the eight runners Hermleigh got on base during the game, one got a run. Two more, however, got as far as third base and two got to second.

Don Ballard pitched Sun to the win. Going through all seven innings, he allowed only three hits. He struck out seven and walked only one. The loser, Ray Isaacs, put up a rugged fight by fanning 11 batters. He gave up five hits and walked two.

With two outs in the first inning, Sun began to work toward scoring when Jimmie Smith doubled. Victor Dieke walked, and Jack Tanner singled to bring in both runners.

Hermleigh's one run came in the third, when Clarence Minton got on base by error and later came in on an error.

Play will continue in the league Thursday night when Sun takes on Tri-Service, defending champion. On Friday night it will be High School vs. Hermleigh, and Saturday's game will be Tri-Service vs. High School.

Akins Wants High-Rankers

NEW YORK (AP) — Virgil Akins was hoping today that his surprising eight-round knockout of hitherto iron-chinned Ronnie DeLaney wouldn't scare off any other high-ranking opponents.

The 25-year-old St. Louis veteran a 4-1 underdog, flattened the sixth-ranking middleweight contender from Akron with a picture left hook and right to the jaw in 2:41 of the eighth round of their television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Akins, a onetime lightweight contender now fighting in the welterweight class, has had plenty of trouble in the past getting leading fighters to meet him. Knocking out the formidable DeLaney isn't going to make it any easier. It was Akins' fourth straight victory and his third kayo in a row.

Requirement Boost Helps Get Teachers

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — School administrators are finding that one way to get and keep teachers—a sore problem for 15 years now—is to make it harder to be a teacher.

The number of states requiring a college degree in education to teach in elementary schools now is nearing 35, and others are planning to put degree requirements into effect.

A group of school superintendents attending a conference of presidents of state associations of administrators here discussed this development in a panel interview today.

"We put in a requirement for a degree about three years ago," said Dale Whitenack, of Vancouver, Wash., "and, as many states have found, we discovered that the higher the requirements, the better are the chances of getting teachers.

"The first question prospective teachers usually ask our recruiters is 'What are your requirement?' Money is important too, but most of all they seem to want to work where their associates are well trained."

"It's only the same thing that the bar and medical profession did 40 or 50 years ago," commented William H. Buker, Holden, Mass. "They raised their standards, and you can see the results."

Massachusetts has required a degree for some years. Several states — Kansas and Louisiana, for example—have required them for junior and senior high schools and are beginning to put a degree requirement into effect for elementary schools.

The Kansas plan, as explained by Supt. Hugh C. Bryan, of Leavenworth, will be in full operation by the fall of 1959.

"Next year," Bryan said, "a person may get a 'provisional certificate' with as few as 60 credit hours. But this will be good for only one year. For each renewal he must take eight additional hours and keep on doing that until he gets his degree."

Many communities in states which still recognize teaching certificates based on experience or deignoring this and are upgrading their facilities on their own.

'Whiskey Bottom Road' Battle Flares Again

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The battle of Whiskey Bottom Road is on again.

Albert L. Dalton, owner of a motel at the nearby intersection of U.S. 1 and the disputed thoroughfare, reported someone had sawed down the large sign on his property which reads "Historical Whiskey Bottom Road—Circa 1732 A.D."

He and a number of long-time residents contend the name is a historical symbol, but newcomers say it is only a sordid reminder of a prohibition past. They have sought to have the name changed to Patuxent Drive.

Dalton said he put the sign right back up and if any anti-Whiskey Bottomers return "I'll be watching for them from now on."

Hotel Sticks To Its Bargain Rates

SAGINAW, Mich (AP)—The policy of the Bancroft Hotel still is children free—the "Younk invasion" notwithstanding.

Mr. and Mrs. James Younk, of Rochester, Mich., in town to attend a wedding, called to ask:

"Do those road signs adversiting your hotel really mean that children are admitted free"

"You bet your boots," said the clerk. "How many are there"

"Nine," snickered Younk.

Gasping, the clerk called Manager James Ruttman. Ruttman gulped, but stuck to his rule.

The family—all 11 of them — occupied four rooms for the price of one.

No Discrimination

NEW DELHI (AP) — The upper House of Parliament has approved a bill providing penalties of up to three months imprisonment for discriminating against untouchables, who for centuries have been forced to live apart from other people in many sections of India. The bill, already passed by the lower house, will become law after the President's formal assent later this week.

Tot Fails On His First Driving Test

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Three-year-old Chuck Taylor has taken his first driving lesson. He flunked.

Chuck, bubbling with confidence, climbed into a car owned by James Palmore. He began playing with the levers.

"Look, it goes by itself," he shouted. It did too—50 feet backward into a parked car.

Unhurt, but the cause of a $75 wreck, Chuck was retired to his tricycle.

Two-Speed Doors Are Latest Thing In Style

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Tenants today were getting used to what the Pioneer Building management termed the world's first two-speed, powered revolving doors, installed as part of a remodeling job.

The motors move the doors at a steady three revolutions per minute. Those in a hurry merely push down a crossbar on each panel and the thing speeds up to nine turns every 60 seconds, or normal walking speed, say the sponsors.

ANNOUNCES EXPANSION PROGRAM — Henry Ford II, right, talks to Richard W. Slocum, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn, at New York at which Ford announced a 625 million dollar, three-year expansion program for the Ford Motor Co., which he heads. Ford told the Bureau of Advertising of the ANPA he favors a new kind of prosperity insurance for workers but cautioned against any rigid freezing of the labor pattern.

Sirens Shriek During Speech

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Reports of murder and violence sent shrieking sirens last night to compete with editor Hodding Carter's criticism of white supremacy citizens councils in Mississippi.

The noisy arrival of a fire engine, squad cars, a Navy shore patrol wagon and two ambulances —summoned by false alarms—interrupted Carter's talk before the Memphis Public Affairs Forum.

The forum was held at the YWCA. "It's clear that some people had it in for Mr. Carter and just wanted to make trouble," a YWCA official said.

The series of telephone calls falsely reported a fire, an accident, a shooting, a murder and a riot.

Carter, editor of the Greenville (Miss.) Delta Democrat-Times, said the recent growth of citizens councils in his state is "dangerous and unholy" and threatens to create a "shadow legislature."

The councils were formed to fight, with economic pressure, any move to back up the Supreme Court's ruling that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

Carter said he opposes any sharp change in Mississippi's school system, but feels the councils' use of "economic terrorism" to maintain segregation "is not worthy to be called American."

Cadillac

Class of 1985!

It would take a long time to determine who won the bet—but we'd be willing to wager that the lad in the picture winds up owning a Cadillac!

We feel so confident because he is starting out like a typical Cadillac owner.

Preponderately, Cadillac owners are self-made men. They just emerge—from everywhere.

But they are usually marked, quite early in life, by industry and thrift and the will to succeed.

That's why we say that this wonderful lad—out earning money to make himself self-sufficient—is very likely to wind up owning a Cadillac. Looking at him, as he labors, we estimate the class of 1985!

We hope we are around to deliver his car when the great day arrives—for it's a great thrill to hand out the keys when an owner comes in for his first Cadillac.

It's worth a lot to see the smile on his face and the gleam in his eye as he settles himself behind the wheel —studies the instrument panel to make sure of the controls—and floats away in the direction of home and a family celebration.

• • •

Of course, for the lad in the picture, the thrill of that first Cadillac is still a great many years away.

But how about you? Is the time coming close for your dream of a Cadillac to come to a happy ending? If so, we'd be happy—indeed—to see you.

This is a wonderful year for owning a new Cadillac —whether it's your first or your fifth or your tenth. Never before has Cadillac performance been so marvelous—its beauty so arresting—its comfort and handling ease so delightful. It is more decisively than ever—the Standard of the World!

Why not come in today—and check this for yourself? We'll give you the keys and a car—for the most revealing hour you ever spent in a motor car.

RESERVE CHAMPION—Bobby Gardner, Bowie, Tex., FFA member, received 41 cents per pound, the highest price paid, for his reserve champion Hereford steer at the auction sale that followed the annual 4-H and FFA Project Show in Bowie. Gardner has won four times with his steers in the last three years. He won the grand championship in 1953, and this year won reserve championship, first place in class and third place in class. He also won second place showmanship trophy at the 1955 show.

Organized Labor Planning To Increase Political Activity

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor is planning today to move into politics in the 1956 elections on a scale never before attempted in the history of the American trade union movement.

This move will begin after the AFL and CIO merge their 140 unions into one 15-million-man organization this fall—perhaps in December.

AFL President George Meany, who will head the new federation, said in an interview:

"We're going as far down that (political) road as it is necessary to go to achieve our objectvie—and that objective is the raising of the living standards of the working man."

This plunge into politics will be a historic turning point for labor as far as the 10-million-member AFL is concerned. In the past, the AFL has remained pretty much on the political sidelines except to endorse this or that candidate for public office, although the CIO has been active politically for years.

Meany believes now labor must move onto the political front in force for self-protection. This is his reasoning:

"We are being compelled by the force of events to take defensive action to make sure that we are not hampered and restricted at the bargaining table. We are being compelled to enter the political field in order to change the political picture that is developing against labor. And the job must be done not only on the national level—but on the state level.

"The Taft-Hartley law and restrictive state laws are putting all the weapons in the hands of employers. So there is no other way left open to us but to take political action."

Meany referred to the spread of so-called "right to work" laws and laws which curb the use of union funds for political purposes.

The Taft-Hartley law forbids the use of union funds for political purposes and it also bans the closed shop, in which only union members may be hired. The law permits, under certain conditions, the union, shop, in which a worker must become a union member within a certain period after he is hired. Now 18 states have the right-to-work laws, which for the most part ban the union shop. Some states are moving, too, to curb union political activity.

In referring to these laws, Meany said: "We are seeing right now a new move under way to strike at labor from a new direction. There is a new effort to block us on the political front and to prevent our members from taking action on a political level.

"But I say we are going to be political to the extent that we are forced to be in the protection of our own rights at the bargaining table. What the hell is the use of going to the bargaining table if you are going to have your hands tied behind your back?"

Meany has had political experience in helping push prolabor laws through the New York Legislature.

As he and his colleagues see it the Taft-Hartley law in combination with the growing state restrictions merely are moves by labor's enemies to throttle the labor movement, which has boomed to new power and influence in the past 20 years.

The states with right-to-work laws are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, and Virginia.

While none of the bigger industrial states have such laws, labor is fearful of their spread.

Labor's political strategy will be to concentrate the main effort in areas where there is a good chance to elect candidates friendly to labor.

Can the labor vote be delivered as a bloc for any one party or candidate

Labor leaders believe that with intense political education, workers will better understand how to vote in their own interests—and in the interests of the labor movement—thus becoming a far stronger political force.

Where could organized labor make its weight felt most heavily by a vigorous campaign in support of its candidates?

The answer would seem to be in those states where there is the heaviest concentration of union members. And these states are New York Pennsylvania California, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan, Texas, Missouri, and Massachusetts. But many other states have important numbers of labor votes. The question is whether labor's leaders can hold them in line at the polls.

In any event, labor is getting ready for a political push. And just how potent it will be may be reflected in the 1956 elections.

Students Hear About Military

High school students appeared to show much interest yesterday in discussions on the various military services held during a high school "Armed Force Day" program, in which representatives of all the services spoke.

The program was held as a continuation of the career day program held several days ago. Showing special interest in the program were boys of the senior class, who must, if the present selective service law continues, serve at least two years on active duty in some branch of service.

The program, which was directed by J. Carter Parkes, high school counsellor, and Frank Wilson, school director of curriculum, started with a general session, in which students were given a summary of points which applied to all services. Later, the group broke down into several group sessions to hear representatives of branches in which they were most interested.

Included among service men and women participating in the program were Capt. Don Stewart of Abilene, Sgt. John Freeman of Abilene, and WAC M-Sgt. Mescal Roland of Sweetwater, all representing the Army; Petty Officer M. O. Hindal of Sweetwater and a WAVE recruiter, representing the Navy; T-Sgt. G. D. Phillips of Sweetwater, representing the Marine Corps; T-Sgt. Cecil Deakins of Snyder, and a WAF recruiter, representing the Air Force.

Trial Is Postponed

GALVESTON (AP)—C. C. Rickert's trial on charges of misappropriating city funds was postponed yesterday in district court. The trial will come up in the June-July term. Ricket is on leave of absence as City Water Department office manager.

HOME ON LEAVE is Pvt. Jerry D. Permenter, who is visiting his wife, the former Winnie Samples, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Permenter, 1904 Seventeenth Street. He has been in the Army since February and is now taking advanced infantry training at Fort Carson, Colo.

Man's Body Is Found

VERNON, Tex. (AP)—The body of W. W. Pybus, 72, missing since Sunday, was recovered from Lake Kemp yesterday. The retired Vernon carpenter was reported missing while on a fishing trip with two companions.

Bill Murray, football coach at Duke, is chairman of the NCAA Coaches' Assn. Committee on Ethics.

A Quick Quiz ON Social Security

How much do you pay into Social Security each year?

What monthly benefits will you receive when you reach age 65?

Can you keep working and still collect Social Security benefits?

Can you receive income from investments and still collect?

You'll find the answers to these and many other questions about Social Security in the article, "Can You Retire on Social Security?" in the next issue of Family Weekly. It's an authoritative article that will help you plan and prepare for those after-65 years.

Electric Cooking Saves You Time

..... "Let's go...dinner's in the oven and it'll be ready when I get home"

You'll have more time for shopping, visiting or relaxing when you use an automatic electric range that frees you from oven-tending and pot-watching. Reddy Kilowatt and your electric range make oven-cooking so simple...all you do is put food into the oven, set the automatic controls and you're free to go, without a worry. Reddy starts the oven at the pre-set time and turns it off when cooking is done.

Check the other advantages, too, of electric cooking...cleanliness, accuracy and economy. They're all yours with modern electric cooking.

See the new electric ranges at your favorite appliance store. Start enjoying the time-saving convenience of clean, modern electric cooking.

Burglars Get Big Surprise

CHICAGO (AP)—The burglars who broke into the Michigan Electronics, Inc., plant were greeted by a pleasant male voice: "Good evening, gentlemen. We remind you that this place is electronically guarded. We suggest that you turn around and disappear."

There was a brief pause and the male voice, not pleasant, shouted: "Help, police, police! Thieves, burglars! Help, police!" Next came a woman's shrieks: "Call the police, help, help! Call the police."

Then a siren wailed and alarm bells set up a loud racket.

Nearby residents summoned police but the burglars had fled.

Paul Grossi, engineer for the company which manufactures pocket-size tape recorders, said yesterday he and another engineer rigged up the device "largely as a gag." The burglary attempt was its first test.

Postman Likes Dogs

CHICAGO (AP) — Postman Raymond Collins received a certificate for heroism from the Anti-Cruelty Society for entering a burning house and rescuing a dog. Collins, who has been bitten three times by dogs, commented: "All dogs do not hate postmen and all postmen do not hate dogs."

Dentist Faces Arraignment

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Dr. A. Arnold Axilrod, Minneapolis dentist, faces arraignment today on a first-degree murder charge in the strangling death of Mrs. Mary Moonen, 21, one of his patients.

Dr. Axilrod was indicted late Monday by the Hennepin County grand jury. The true bill came just 10 days after Mrs. Moonen's body was found in a Minneapolis Lake District alley.

In statements to police, Dr. Axilrod admitted having taken the woman for a ride the night of April 22, only hours before her body was discovered.

Charles Wetherille, inspector of detectives, said Axilrod claimed to have blacked out after Mrs. Moonen accused him of fathering her unborn child. In his statement, the dentist said Mrs. Moonen alleged she had been assaulted while under sedatives in the dentist's office. He denied the charge.

Conviction upon first-degree murder charges carries a mandatory life prison term.

Division Returning

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The U.S. 1st Infantry Division, which went into action in North Africa in 1942, has started back home after 13 years overseas. An advance party left by plane for New York last night.

BRIGANTINE "YANKEE" RETURNS—The 96-foot brigantine "Yankee" arrived at Gloucester, Mass., right on schedule after an 18-month, 40,000 mile around the world cruise. Thousands of persons lined the harbor to welcome the 21 persons aboard, including the captain, Irving M. Johnson, 49, and his wife, Electa, 49, of South Hadley, Mass., and Rochester, N. Y.

Pair Accused In Slaying Shot Down

By CLAYTON HICKERSON

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Two men accused of slaying wealthy oilman William P. Clark were shot down on the Jacksboro Highway northwest of here last night.

Cecil Green, ex - convict and Texas underworld figure, was reported in critical condition. His companion, Leroy (Tincy) Eggleston, suffered a gunshot wound in the arm.

The pair and Harry Huggins are charged in the slaying of Clark May 19, 1953. All are free on bond. Clark's widow, Mrs. Mary Clark, 43, is charged as an accomplice in the death of her husband.

Huggins was believed the object of a widespread hunt by Fort Worth police and sheriff's deputies today.

It was Huggins' statement to police that broke the Clark case recently, officers said.

Huggins told police in the statement that the three men went to Clark's 23-room mansion and that Eggleston took Clark into a room and shut the door, leaving Green and Huggins outside. The two heard a shot, Huggins said, and Eggleston walked out alone.

Eggleston, Green, and Mrs. Clark all have denied any connection with the shooting. Huggins said Mrs. Clark offered $10,000 for Clark's death in a fake robbery but only paid $6,000 after the killing.

A few days before he was killed the 63-year-old Clark filed suit for annulment of his marriage and said in the petition that Mrs. Clark "lured him into marriage" for his money.

Eggleston told police his assailants last night were in three cars parked across the highway from a drive-in cafe and that he knew none of them. He said he and Green had "just pulled up" at the drive-in when the shooting occurred.

The drive-in, closed at the time of the shooting, was the same place which Fort Worth gambler Edell Evans recently named as his destination before disappearing.

Evans' blood-soaked Cadillac was found in northwest Dallas County. Officers still are investigating that case.

Price Of Tulips Is High In Holland

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—The fine for picking tulips along Holland's famous Tulip Lane is $5 per flower.

At that rate Charles D. Bedringer, 20, and Dean Soyring, 20, both of Gary, Ind., would have owed the city something like $3,000.

State police found more than 600 tulips stuffed into their car when they were stopped near New Buffalo for speeding.

Municipal Judge Cornelius Vander Muelen fined them $104 each plus costs yesterday and sentenced the mto 30 days in jail on a charge of malicious destruction of flowers.

City Tax Figures Above Estimates

A report of the revenues of the city through the first six months of this fiscal year was presented last night to the city council by B. J. Shelley, city manager.

Tax collections through the period were reported to have exceeded the budget estimates for the period. Total tax collections since Oct. 1, beginning date of the fiscal year, have been $166,560.48, compared to budgeted estimates of $159,600. A breakdown shows that $156,571.69 was collected from current taxes, $9,204.84 from delinquent taxes, $754.41 from penalty and interest on delinquent taxes, and $29.54 from tax certificates.

Other revenues to the city's general fund have been: $13,342.65 in franchise and gross receipts tax on Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., $749.50 from licenses and permits, $7,468.84 from parking meter receipts, $6,759.50 from fines in corporation court, and $696.58 from miscellaneous incomes.

Budget estimates from those revenues for the entire fiscal year are: franchise and gross receipts, $15,000; Licenses and permits, $975; parking Meters, $14,600; fines, $15,500, and miscellaneous incomes, $500.

Of the total estimated receipts of this fiscal year to the general fund of $206,175, the city has already collected $195,577.55, leaving a balance of $10,597.45 to collect to meet the budget estimates.

The water and sewer department has not collected half of this year's budgeted estimate in the first six months of the year, however. Collections of the water and sewer department for the first six months have totaled $124,592.52, compared to budgeted estimate for the year of $272,400, leaving a total of $147,804.48 to be collected in the next six months.

The sanitation department has shown revenues of $21,730.40 during the first half of the year, and the budgeted estimate for the year is $42,000.

Shelley pointed out that the big water use period has not been reached yet, and revenues of the water department are expected to show increases in the hotter months of the summer just ahead.

"We will probably sell more water this summer than at any other peak sales period in the history of Snyder if it doesn't rain often during the summer months," Shelley said.

San Antonio Woman Is Killed In Crash

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Edward I. Vrazel of San Antonio was killed and her husband injured seriously in a private plane crash on St. Joseph Island, 28 miles north of here, yesterday.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the crash occurred during a takeoff when a wheel apparently hit a soft spot in the sand.

A Port Aransas fisherman, Cecil Butchard, found the couple in the wreckage of the Piper Cub plane two hours after the crash. Mrs. Vrazel died while Butchard was summoning help from the Sid Richardson ranch on the island.

Two Student Pilots Killed In Crashes

BRYAN, Tex. (AP)—Two Bryan Air Force Base student pilots were killed yesterday in two separate crashes involving three planes.

Killed when his propeller driven trainer crashed as it approached the field for a landing was Aviation Cadet Linus E. Amberg, 20, Waseca, Minn.

A foreign student was killed when two jet trainers crashed together at 20,000 feet near Iola, Grimes County. Three others parachuted to safety. Name of the foreign cadet was withheld.

Gets Second Award

OMAHA (AP) — Mrs. James T. Pruett appeared in court for her husband, arrested on charges of driving 54 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone. She said, "He was on his way home after receiving a safe driving award." Judge James O'Brien said, "I now give him the dubious award of being the fastest speeder to appear in court today. Fifteen dollars and costs.

Inoculations Start

MONTREAL, Que. (AP) — Only about 550 youngsters were brought to city clinics yesterday on the first day of free Salk vaccine inoculations. Officials had hoped to process 5,000 a day. They described the turnout as disappointing and speculated that polio cases in the United States following inoculations had frightened parents.
