Judgement Rendered Three Months After Youthful Dancer Accused Pantages Of Attack In Office

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 —Legal barriers intended to protect Alexander Pantages from punishment for a criminal assault on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, were struck down today in superior court, and the 54-year-old theatrical magnate was sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary for a term of one to fifty years.

Pantages appeared shocked at the judgment. His face whitened, his hands clutched his chair, his lips twitched. But he did not speak. It was just three months today since the girl ran from Pantages' offices in his theatre building here screaming "He's ruined me—ruined me!"

State-Wide Drive For Park Started

Chairman Of Texas Board To Ask Appropriations From Legislature To Buy Sites In Palo Duro

(By Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Nov. 9.—Plans for a state-wide campaign in behalf of an appropriation from the next legislature to purchase three state park sites were made public today by D. E. Colp.

Colp, appearing before a called meeting of the Panhandle Commercial Secretaries association outlined plans for acquiring large tracts for park purposes in Palo Duro canyon near Amarillo, in the Davis Mountains in Jeff Davis county and around Caddo Lake, Marion county near Marshall.

Ask For Funds.

He will ask the next session of the legislature to provide funds for the purchase of all three tracts. Support of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, and the East, West and South Texas chambers of commerce will be sought. He declared that the governor and other state officers favored the plan.

One hundred thousand acres of land would be obtained in and around Palo Duro canyon. Chamber of commerce officials plan to obtain options on the property as soon as possible.

His Vote Cost New York $240

Here is a picture of a minor Democrat landslide. In New York's mayoralty election, the 38th district in the heart of the uptown business section of Manhattan went unanimously for Mayor Jimmy Walker —and the total number of votes cast was 1. George Schrader, center, was the only registered voter in the district, and for his benefit the city was obliged to spend $240 in turning out an election board and patrolman to guard the polling place. Duly appointed Republican and Democratic watchers were on hand to see that everything was carried out properly.

Bank Official Is Found Dead After Heavy Stock Loss

Suicide Is Belief Given By Police In Shooting Of James Riordan; Was Friend Of Al Smith

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP)—With a bullet through his head, James J. Riordan, president of the County Trust company and close friend of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, was found dead yesterday in his home here, where he lived with his sister, Police said it was suicide.

News of the death was withheld until today to avoid a possible run on the bank and to permit a check of its books.

The reason for the act, police headquarters said, was heavy losses in the stock market. Other friends and the board of directors of the bank ascribed the act to ill health.

The bank is in "wholly sound condition" the board of directors said in a statement at conclusion of a meeting today which Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, attended. Broderick was quoted as having said that he had found the company in "wholly liquid and satisfactory condition."

Broderick would issue no statement personally, but said the directors' statement had his approval. He said his examiners were going over the bank's books and he probably would issue a statement later.

Bombing Story To Be Investigated

Claims That Innocent Man Is Serving Prison Term Of Admitted Slayer Is Cause Of Furore

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9. (AP)—Acting on behalf of the San Francisco police department Chief William J. Quinn said today he would investigate reports that Lewis Smith, who died in Cleveland, O., several years ago, had admitted that it was he, not Thomas J. Mooney, who threw the bomb that killed 10 and injured 40 persons here in the preparedness day parade in July, 1916.

Chief Quinn said he would ask Cleveland authorities for all available information that might throw new light on the crime, for which Mooney and Warren K. Billings are serving life sentences in San Quinten and Folsom prisons, respectively.

Reports that United States Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota would ask Gov. C. C. Young to act in the light of the purported Lewis statement were met by the comment of the governor that he had received no official information about the matter.

Superior Judge Franklin A. Griffin, who presided at the Mooney

Borger Officers Likely to Retire

BORGER, Nov. 9. (AP)—The city government of Borger, installed by Governor Moody's agents after the old administration had been forced to resign, was threatened with an early retirement today with a petition for an election to select a mayor and city commissioners.

The petition bore the names of more than the required ten percent of the city's voters. Attorneys for the petitioners assert that Mayor Glenn A. Pace and the other city officials resigned on such short notice that a new election was justified.

The city administration resigned during the reign of martial law when Governor Moody announced, through his agents, District Attorney Clem Calhoun and others, that martial law would not be lifted until the old administration had been replaced by one which met the approval of Calhoun. One of the promises required of those selected for the new administration was that they would not be candidates to succeed themselves.

PRINCE OF WALES

Britain's Heroes Are Banqueted By Prince Of Wales

Holders Of Decoration For Bravery Are Honored At Affair; Comrades Given Welcome By Prince

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Flanked by a viscount and a chauffeur, winners of the Victoria Cross, the Prince of Wales tonight entertained 320 holders of the most famous British decoration for bravery, at a banquet in the House of Lords.

With generals and privates, peers and workmen, sitting side by side, the prince welcomed his comrades in simple and moving terms.

"Gentlemen, you are recipients of an honor, which, it is true, can only be won in time of war, and there is no wise man today who, having learned what war means, doesn't pray that it may never come again in his lifetime.

"But that fact only enhances the value of the Cross; for it is a certificate, a symbol of possession of those qualities which, though war called them forth, are really foundations of peace—the qualities of a cool head and undaunted heart, and a fearless disregard of self."

The royal gallery in the House of Lords, where the banquet was held, offered a magnificent spectacle.

A great Union Jack was draped over the prince's chair and the flags of the Dominions hung from the walls. The tables were decorated with Victoria Crosses made of Flanders poppies and standing several feet high. The band of the Grenadier Guards played under gigantic cross of poppies at one end of the hall.

CHARGES FLY FAST

Textile Union Members Are Dismissed From Church

MARION, N. C., Nov. 9. (AP)—Charges and counter charges flew thick and fast today between 12 textile union members dismissed from the East Marion Missionary Baptist church and church officers who brought about their dismissal.

Officers of the local chapter of the United Textile Workers of America a textile union affiliated with the American federation, charged the letters of dismissal were given the union members solely because they joined the union. A. R. Black, clerk of the church, replied that union membership had nothing to do with the dismissals and that there were charges enough against those given the letters for more severe disciplinary measures.

Negro Woman Gets $40 From Pockets

Pickpocket Escapes After Stealing Pocketbook Of Throckmorton County Man At Shallowater

James Lacy Headrick, of Throckmorton county, last night about 9 o'clock was relieved of $40 in cash by a negro pickpocket while standing on the streets of Shallowater.

According to Headrick, he was talking with Kenneth Conley, of Hugo, Okla., when a negro woman approached the pair. She first talked with Conley but he quickly silenced her and she turned on Headrick, they said.

Runs Away

"I tried to argue with her and make her get away but she wouldn't go," said Headrick. "She reached out her hand and tried to pull me along. I finally succeeded in making her leave and when she got several yards away down the street she started running. When she did I felt in my shirt pocket to see if my money was there and it was gone."

The negress got in a Ford sedan with two negro men and another woman and started toward Lubbock. Headrick notified Lubbock officers and a search for the four was started but late last night no trace of them had been found.

Headrick stated that he had $40 in bills in his upper shirt pocket and that the woman evidently took it when she tried to pull him.

South Texas Hit By Severe Storm

Passenger Trains Marooned As Large Area Inundated By Cloudbursts; Floods Feared On Rivers

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 9.—Rain pounded a wide segment of southeast Texas today, marooning two passenger trains at Waller for a time, thoroughly drenching Hempstead, Waller, and other towns in that section and halting motor traffic out of Houston to Austin, San Antonio, Dallas, Victoria and Shreveport.

The Southern Pacific trains halted at Waller—one the Houston-Dallas local and the other a football special bound for College Station, were able to make the crossing where a small washout occurred and proceed this afternoon.

Hempstead reported a cloudburst and Waller a total precipitation of 14 inches. Hockley, nearby, received nine inches. Creek bottoms, it was said, were inundated but there was no known damage of major consequence. Bus schedules into Houston were interrupted. Here the rain, light most of the time, fell intermittently during the day to be followed this afternoon by a short fierce deluge. Water was standing in the low points about the city.

Floods on the Brazos and Colorado rivers were feared.

QUINCY, Fla., Nov. 9. —Will Larkins, negro indicted here today on a charge of assaulting a 12-year-old white girl, was lynched tonight.

Placed In Jail

Sheriff G. S. Gregory, who was in Jacksonville, had placed the negro in jail in the afternoon but it was not learned here what jail. Larkins was lodged in the jail at Tallahassee last night for safe keeping, but it was understood he was spirited away from there today when a mob was said to have formed and started to the capital for him.

The negro's body was found hanging beside a railroad grade crossing late tonight on the Midway road here.

Abusive Language Cited In Motion

Clyde Thompson, Sentenced To Die For Murdering Of Shook Brothers, Seeks New Hearing

(By Associated Press)

EASTLAND, Nov. 9.—The "highly abusive language" of the state's attorney toward Clyde Thompson, convicted of the murder of Lucian Shook and sentenced to be executed, was cited by Thompson's attorneys in a motion for new hearing filed here late today.

Among the terms applied to Thompson, the motion said, were "The darkest and blackest murderer of all ages, robber and red handed murderer." This was improper argument, it was contended.

Youth Pleaded.

Other grounds for the new hearing, the defense contended, were that Thompson was not more than 18 years old when the crime was committed, and that the evidence showed him to be weak minded.

Judge Elzo said he did not know when the motion would be heard.

Thompson was convicted of the Shooks' murder yesterday and given the death penalty. It was his second conviction and second death sentence for the crime. Lucian Shook, and his brother, Leon, were shot and then slugged near their cabin home more than a year ago.

Local Man Has Unique Job of Keeping Company for Alleged Slayer of Wife

FOLLOWING sleepless nights and nerve-wracking days in the Lubbock county jail since the tragic death of his wife, Clay Lester, under grand jury indictment for murder, Thursday asked that he be allowed to have a companion to break the loneliness.

Fred Hayworth, of this city, has the unique task of keeping him company. Going on the "job" at 4 o'clock each afternoon he stays until 7 o'clock the next morning. During that time he talks with the prisoner, does little odd favors and tries in every way to keep Lester's mind from dwelling on his pending trial, which has been set for December 2.

Hayworth is paid regularly for his services, receiving $5 for each night he spends voluntarily in jail.

Officers last night stated that Lester seems to have lost some of his nervousness and that his recent illness has practically vanished. During the first few days of the week, when his attorneys were fighting for a continuance, Lester was extremely nervous, smoking almost continuously and was unable to sleep at nigh

President Hoover Watches Football Game First Time Since Inauguration

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — President Hoover watched the first football game he has attended since he took office, at Annapolis today between the Navy and Georgetown university but he did not have the good fortune to experience many thrills.

The scoreless tie proved to be an exhibition of largely straight football and except for some excellent punting, there was little in the game to create the excitement.

The president, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and his immediate White House family, made the trip to Annapolis in a White House limousine. Although the highway was crowded with cars, the Maryland state police gave him a clear and uninterrupted passage to the game.

A special section of the stand on the Navy side at the 50-yard line was reserved for the president and his party and from here Mr. Hoover watched the game, in which he is keenly interested. Next to him were the midshipmen who led the cheers for their players.

New Building Record Practically Assured For City

Record Made Last Year Seems Bound To Fall 'Ere 1930

Many Here Believe Five To Six Million Total Would Have Been Reached, If '29 Conditions Better

IN SPITE of a slump in building activity, during the past several weeks, Lubbock will more than likely chalk up another record breaking year when 1929 comes to a close

This city is not the only one that has been suffering from a slump, due to weather and condition of money markets, as we rank in sixth place for this year among all cities of Texas. Some observers of local conditions opine that, had things been different throughout the nation's banking world, Lubbock building these twelve months would easily have reached between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

Near 1928 Total

As the record stands today, the first 10 months of 1929 are within only $118,276 of reaching 1928's total building permits, according to figures obtained from the office of City Building Inspector D. J. Schlag. With November and December adding as much as did the same two months of last year, the city will finish with a gain of $142,199. Indications are that this will be done as there is another subway to be constructed. This job will undoubtedly be for approximately $200,000 and other permits should easily equal the $60,475 necessary to obtain the gain above mentioned.

January, February, March and April of the current year, each exceeded in permits the totals for identical months of 1928. April tops both this year's and Lubbock's building history, with $935,675. For a comparison of the first 10 months of 1928 and 1929, the following is given:

Figures Listed

January 1928 $294,955; 1929, $261,728; February, $128,030 and $519,502. March, $232,835 and $344,238. April, $192,140 and $835,075. May, $402,158 and $272,897. June, $273,565 and $139,024. July, $280,375 and $162,470. August $380,125 and $201,595. September, $212,777 and $167,956. October, $174,650 and $66,020.

The grand total for last year was $3,197,978. Up to October 31, this year's total was $3,079,599. On top of the marvelous gain obtained in 1928 over 1927, which was $1,206,156, it is to be seen that a very healthy activity has prevailed throughout this year. To merely equal last year's achievement is remarkable, building men believe.

Heart Balm Suit Gets Dismissal

AMARILLO, Nov. 9 (AP)—The $50,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Imogene Smith, formerly of Oklahoma, a local stenographer against Habib Kahn, said to be a member of the Afghan royal family was dismissed on motion of her lawyers here today. A recent trial of the suit resulted in a deadlocked jury.

Kahn was said to have amassed a fortune, first as a silk importer in Alaska during the gold rush and later as a hot tamale vender here. He now is in his native country.

Dates Are Set For 1929 Poultry Show

The fourth annual Slaton Poultry show will be held December 5, 6 and 7, according to an announcement made by L. A. Wilson, secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

Officials of the Slaton poultry organization are expecting the largest display of fowls the show has ever had and have invited poultry breeders to enter their poultry and everyone to attend the show.

A list of entries of the Panhandle South Plains fair poultry show has been mailed to Mr. Wilson and personal invitations will be mailed to each of those exhibitors to have their poultry entered in the Slaton show.

DALLAS, Nov. 9 (AP).—Round trip rates of a fare and a half will be in effect from all points on the Texas and Pacific railway in Texas for the state convention of the Baptist Young People's Union in Longview, November 18-20, the T. and P. passenger department announced.

Realty Values on South Plains Are Near to Their Worth, Says Joe Hess, President of Lubbock Realty Board

Real estate values on the South Plains have never been nearer true worth than at present, expresses Joe Hess, president of the Lubbock Realty board.

"The business offers the best outlook that real estate dealers of the South Plains have confronted in years," he said, "due mainly to normal condition of growth and the substantial development of agricultural lands.

Contrast Cited

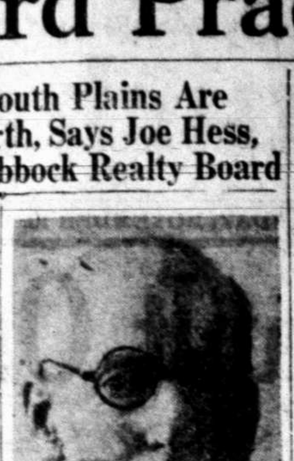

"Farm land can be purchased in this area at prices ranging from $45 to $75 per acre, which considering productivity, is a sharp economical contrast to the inflated eras of 1912 and 1920."

Speaking of real estate development in Lubbock, Mr. Hess mildly disapproved the present tendency of sub-division, outlining in his opinion that improvements should be concentrated in the original townsite." This city is now spread over a territory which accomodate a population of 30,000 to 100,000, while many vacant lots are evident on principal streets in the old town," he said. Such expansions necessitates additional and extensive improvements on the part of the city.

"One might view the present situation," he continued, "as encouraging. Property values are staple and one can invest with reasonable certainty."

Dreary Day For Two Dog Fliers

HOUSTON, Nov. 9.(AP)—It was a dreary day for Bluja, one of two little dogs which took off by plane yesterday from Mexico City to Houston for treatment by a skin expert here.

Fluffy, Bluja's companion, disliked a customs inspector at Brownsville and fled. Meanwhile, a search for Fluffy was started at the edge of two nations with Bluja here, safe but sad and all alone.

Mrs. Mary Weiger, dog fancier of Mexico City and Alabama, owner of the pair, is expected here within a few days.

Williams Returns From Conference

Rev. L. G. H. Williams, rector of the St. Paul's-On-The-Plains, local Episcopal church, returned Saturday morning from Topeka, Kans., where he attended the Protestant Episcopal College Conference and Synod of the Southwest Nov. 2 to 6.

A big assortment of pictures secured from Texas Technological college, the local studios and other sources were taken to Topeka and arranged into a neat display by Mr. Williams.

"Since there were about 1,000 in attendance at the conference and synod considerable publicity was give Lubbock among a select group of the Southwest," said Mr. Williams. "I found keen interest in Lubbock and the South Plains."

And This Time It's Not The Bugler!

Tech Students Moan and Groan When They Consider Eight O'clock Classes Which Make Breakfast Taboo

"Gee! I hate to get up!"

This agonizing cry of despair, dejection, or what have you, may be heard any morning among Tech students. The greatest howl of protest comes from those students unlucky enough to have signed themselves for 8 o'clock classes.

"Eat breakfast? Don't make me laugh," said Pauline Patterson, Rotan [illegible] when asked whether or not she ate that meal. "Not only would it ruin my collegiate figure but also I would have to wake up at least twenty minutes earlier. Heavens, no!"

One Eats Regularly

Another one responded that sure she ate breakfast. "I have an 8 o'clock every morning and I always eat brakfast. You know it doesn't take much time to eat a bar of candy and an apple. I can usually do that on the way over."

But to those students who work their way through school breakfast is usually a very serious matter. Some of them get up at 6 o'clock and eat a full course from cereals to ham and eggs. To students who have 12 o'clock classes it is also an important item in the days routine.

"I just couldn't make a class at noon if I didn't eat a late and heavy breakfast," said Seth Moore, Gatesville junior. "This idea of going without the first meal doesn't go over so hot with me."

When eating breakfast means getting up, dressing completely, and walking two blocks to a boarding house many students leave it out, reports show. Especially are students apt to oversleep when the days are dark or if there has been a very special social affair the night before.

Profs Are Quizzed

Several professors replied in answer to the question, "Do students sleep in class?" "Yes, but," said one "I would just as soon the students would sleep as for them to miss their breakfast and be so hungry that they can't wait for class to be dismissed."

There is probably only one class in school that the students enjoy going to without any breakfast. This is one in foods. As soon as the class is assembled a breakfast is cooked and the starving girls fed. Members of this class never have to worry about being late to class because of a lack of food.

Even among those who have 9 and 10 o'clock classes there is a tendency to oversleep for many students report: "Ho-hum. Gosh! Did I hate to get up this morning? And how! All the time I thought you knew that I don't like to get up early."

Bank Need Great In Bovina, Claim

The citizenship of Bovina, in the heart of Parmer county, is interested in securing a bank, states a letter from C. R. Elliott, with the Gaines and Elliott Hardware company of Bovina, to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Elliott writes that a good cotton crop and a new gin, with other good crops, have put Bovina and the trade territory in good financial condition. Elliott is of the opinion that Bovina offers the best prospects for the successful operation of a bank of any town on the Plains without such an institution.

New Band Will Be Aid To Armistice Day Parade, Game

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 9.—About two years ago the Brownfield band, became dis-organized and while the need of the organization was apparent to every citizen, no determined effort was made to cause a renewal of its activities until a few weeks ago. But at that time a few citizens induced a director to come here with the result that a band of about thirty-five pieces has been developed with about twenty of them seasoned players and they will make their first public appearance leading the American Legion parade Armistice day and will play for the football game that is to be staged between Brownfield and Lubbock, on the same date.

Members of the new band are intensely interested and it is expected that an organization will be developed within the next few months that will compare favorably with any other in this section of the state.

MULE WINS MATCH

Dulce, 16 Years Old, Makes Polo Ponies Hustle

AUSTIN, Nov. 9 (AP).—Dulce, a 16-year-old mule in the Cedar Valley community near here, has made most of the polo ponies in her neighborhood wish they had stayed on the farm.

In a polo game here recently, Dulce more than held her own with the other steeds. In fact she was the heroine of the match which her team won by a top-heavy score.

Dulce had not been just an ordinary mule even before she took up polo, the latest diversion of the ranchers and cowboys in her district. She and her owner, A. C. Pope, had won several goat roping championships.

THINKING AHEAD OF EMERGENCIES!

THE SATISFACTION OF HAVING MEASURED YOUR BRAKING ABILITY FOR ANY AND ALL CONDITIONS OF DRIVING

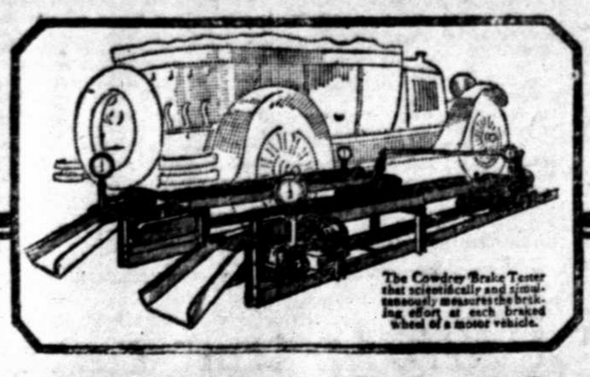

The demand of the motorist for safety, caused by the increasing number of cars, better roads and faster automobiles, have encouraged us to add to our tire service a Cowdrey Dynamic Brake Tester. In order to keep brakes up to their standards of safety, it is essential that they be checked regularly by a machine that measures brake resistance scientifically.

It will take but a few minutes of your time to put your brakes in readiness for that emergency just around the corner. Drive in today—tomorrow may be too late.

Fifty-Five Clubs At Texas Tech Are Distributed Over Varied Phases Of College Life; Only Few Are Social

A SURVEY of the clubs listed in the office of Mrs. Mary W. Doak, dean of women at Texas Tech, shows that they range from booster clubs to social ones and from honorary societies to singing groups.

Of the 55 listed, eleven belong to that group known as "town and county." As a purpose, these clubs have the fostering of school spirit in the various home towns and to provide a social medium for students from the same section of the country. Those places represented in Tech by organization listed in the dean's office are: Fort Worth, Tarlton, Callahan County, Dallas, Lamesa, Waco, Spur, Lubbock, Central Texas, Memphis and Amarillo.

Class organizations, senior, junior, sophomore and freshman, are organized at one of the early convocations of each year. Their purpose is to promote worthy class activities and to keep up traditions started by the members. Each group elects president, secretary and treasurer, business manager and representative to the student council.

Women Are Organized

A very recent organization among the women students is the "A. W. S", or Association of Women Students. It was organized this year. All women students are members of the club. It is governed by a council, compcsed of representatives from classes, and women's clubs. The presiding officers are elected from the student body during the spring term.

Members of the Women's Forum are elected twice a year. It is composed of 15 girls, only five of which can be below the rank of juniors. It is customary among the group to elect only one freshman and four sophomores. The purpose of the organiation is to promote all worthy undertakings, create an unselfish interest among the girls, furnish a means to the better understanding of human nature among women students, and to try to interest every woman student in some extra-curricula activity. The Forum is in charge of the "Little Sister Movement" sponsored among the freshman.

Letter Men Have Club

The "T" club is composed of all men who have lettered in major sports on the campus. Its purpose is to further athletics. Each year this oragnization gives a dance, at which time all ex-Tech men who lettered are invited to be present. There are 45 members now enrolled in Tech and 95 who have belonged in former years.

Dramatics, interest in debate and fine arts are taken care of by four organizations: Sock and Buskin, Thespian, Debate society and Alpha Psi Omega. The latter is a new one on the campus. It was established this year and affiliated with the national club. Thespian affords its members an opportunity for practice and experience in interpretative arts; Debate society permits those students not enrolled in that line of work to enter into the same activities; Sock and Buskin provides a medium for those interested in the direction and staging of plays to do so. Alpha Psi Omega is not only an organization which furthers dramatics, it is also an honorary society. It is for the purpose of providing honor for those doing a high standard of work in dramatics.

Departments Organized

Departmental clubs and school clubs number eleven. All of them have as their purpose the arousing of interest and good fellowship among the students interested in that line of work. They include: Architectural, Aggie, Pre-Law, Pre-Med, Geological Society, Engineering, Bobbins, Home Economics, Capa Y Espada, S. P. Q. R., and Math. All of these names are self explanatory with the exception of Capa Y Espada which is an organization of those interested in Saphish and of S. P. Q. R. which is a club that attempts to increase interest in the study of classics.

Las Peteneras is the new name for the Girls choral club. Music is sponsored on this campus through this and three other oragnizations. The band is composed of boys and girls and is directed by Prof. Harry LeMaire. The Boys Glee club and the mixed Choral club are directed by W. R. Waghorne, head of the department of music.

W. A. A. and the Rifle club sponsor sports. The Rifle club promotes rifle shooting as a sport and W. A. A. sponsors all sports among girls. At present they are engaged in a basketball tournament and in promoting skating.

The Chamber of Commerce and Student Council are for the promotion of the best interest of Tech. The former attempts to advertise the school in various ways.

Friendship Is Stressed

Las Leales is an organization of girls which attempts to further friendship among the members.

The social clubs that are strictly campus ones include: Sans Souci, Las Chaparritas and Centaurs. The first two are girls clubs and have been on the campus several years. The last is a newly oragnized one of this year. It is the only one for boys on the campus that has all-college members. Las Hermanas is a freshman girls organization among the inmates of College Inn and Annex A.

Other honorary societies include: Pi Gamma Mu, social science, which is a national society and of which the local chapter is the only one in the state, and Southern Scholarship society.

The Alumni association is a new thing on the campus and has not been sufficiently organized to have done very much work. Recently it held a home coming day for all ex-Tech students.

Pepsters Busy

Arena Ritas and Los Gouchas are the pep oragnizations of the campus. They drill between halves at all of the football games and at some of the other athletic contests. Their purpose is to follow the Matadors in anything that they should decide to do.

Christian associations number four. They include the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A. and the Boys and Girls freshman councils. Their work is largely with the interest of religious affairs and with promoting fellowship among the student body.

Laundry NEWS

"But Mrs. M.... we don't wring your clothes!"

"And where do you wring the clothes?" inquired Mrs. M——. Like so many women who visit our laundry she had a natural curiosity on that point. She knows that wringing takes the life out of clothes.

But we explained to her that in our laundry we do not wring clothes. They are removed from the washers and placed in large spinning baskets, where the water is taken out by a rapid whirling process, which makes it almost impossible to damage buttons or fabrics . . . And that is one more sound reason why clothes washed our way are cleaner and last longer.

Our finished family service costs but 25c per pound, and relieves you of all washday worries. Everything washed and ironed with thoughtful heed to the smallest detail.

Lubbock County Ponders Over Muddled Paving Plans

County Commissioners Will Session Wednesday On Petitions; Fireworks Are Expected Before Campaign's End

Idalou And Slaton Busily Engaged In Considering Plans; Committee Named To Aid In Campaign

BY AL HILL
(Avalanche-Journal Staff)

LUBBOCK county's road problems contain both the physical aspects of how to maneuver automobiles and other vehicles over, into, across, upon and through a county full of mud, and the mental aspects of when to vote on bonds, what kind, how much and where to pave.

In other words, to all appearances Lubbock county's road problems are in a muddle, more or less, with the accent on the "mud."

While time awaits action of the county commissioners' court on the petition filed with them almost two weeks ago, which requests an election in road district number two, two more petitions are being circulated, which seek an election throughout the entire county.

Hearing Is Set.

Next Wednesday, the thirteenth, a hearing will be held before the commissioners. The district election will be discussed at this hearing, it is known, and the understanding is that the two petitions seeking a county-wide election will also be presented and discussed.

What action to follow Wednesday's session is the big question.

For the district election, it is proposed to vote on $1,025,000 bonds to pave all of righways number 7, 9 and 53, in the district's portion Lubbock county, and the road from Lubbock to the Hockley county line, otherwise known as the Levelland highway.

Highways Defined.

Highway number 7 enters the county at its northwest corner, coming through Shallowater to Lubbock and continuing in southeasterly direction through Posey and Slaton to the southeast corner. The road district border ends, however, just beyond Posey. Number 9 runs through the county from the north to south borders, being the road from Plainview to Tahoka, through Lubbock. Number 53 enters from the east, comes through Idalou to Lubbock and continues in southwesterly direction. This is part of the Carlsbad Cavern highway route.

The county-wide election proposals have been circulated in Slaton and are said to be in circulation at Idalou and other portions of the county. A meeting is to be held at Idalou on Tuesday night for the purpose of discussing these petitions.

Petitions Differ.

One of these petitions asks for the voting of bonds in the extent of $796,500, to pay for paving highways number 9 and 7 through the county and number 53, from the east line to Lubbock, by way of Idalou, but leaves out that portion of the route southwest of this city.

The other petition asks for bonds to be voted in the amount of $621,500, for paving only highways 7 and 9, leaving 53 out of it entirely and giving the county only two paved highways.

Contention of proponents of the two later petitions are that, by voting on either of them, the county will be called upon to pay only $1.00 for every $2.00 spent in building these paved highways, as the routes have Federal designation, as well as State designation. The Federal government and the State government will, therefore, match Lubbock county's dollars, giving two for one on the projects.

Oil Prospects Stressed

Proponents of the district project contend that the paving of highway 53 towards Brownfield and of the road from here to the Hockley county line is of as great moment to Lubbock county as any other highway in the county. They claim that prospects for oil development to the west and southwest make a need for better roads imperative. They also claim that traffic along two routes are perhaps as heavy, at the present, as on any of the other highways.

It is further contended by the district proponents that efforts were made to arrive at a county-wide project that would meet favor of Slaton voters, before final decision to ask that an election be called in road district number two, leaves Slaton and the southeast portion of the county out, but that no agreement could be reached. Frankly speaking, it is the opinion of district proponents that the action of Slaton citizens in circulating the two petitions acts in manner of an effort to defeat, rather than to secure, paved highways.

Fireworks Expected

Because of existing feeling between the divided camps, Wednesday's session of the county commissioners' court is being looked forward to as one of fireworks, more or less.

Charles F. O'Neall, chairman of the Lubbock County Goods Roads association, announces that the intention of his organization is to request that the election in district two be called, in accordance with the petition on file.

At the time Idalou citizens will be meeting, as scheduled, next Tuesday night, for discussion of the two petitions from Slaton, O'Neall will preside at a meeting of a general campaign committee which he has selected. This gathering will be held in the courthouse.

Attendance Urged

"It is very important that every member of this committee be present," O'Neall states, "as the hearing before the commissioners' court is to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 13. Matters of great importance to Lubbock county will be discussed."

The personnel of this general committee, which includes residents of various parts of the county included in the road district, is given out by O'Neal as follows:

E. L. Klett, T. T. Garrard, France Baker, Walter Posey, J. H. Hankins, H. D. Woods, B. Sherrod, C. E. Maedgen, W. O. Stevens, W. D. Benson, John F. Bacon, W. R. Blake, J. L. Dow, Charles A. Fences In Texas Ousting Herders

SAN ANGELO, (AP)—The lonely shepherd, whose picturesque figure has been legendary since Bible days, has disappeared completely from the vast sheep belt of western Texas.

Wolf proof fences, from 36 to 52 inches high, have replaced sheep herders throughout the Texas ranch country. Many hills have been denuded of cedar trees to build posts for fences that cost $250 or $300 a mile.

Farmers Flock To Enroll In Bureau

Forty Additions Have Been Made To Organization In Lubbock And Hockley In Past Few Days

On the strength of the Federal Farm Board's announcement that it would loan money to cotton platers, 40 farmers and land owners of Lubbock and Hockley counties have been signed up recently to market through the Texas Farm Bureau association, R. E. Overstreet director of the organization announced Saturday.

Following Governor Moody's announced resentment to the loan made in Oklahoma while the board has not yet loaned to Texas planters, the Federal Farm Board has made public that loans will be Mr. Overstreet.

"Texas cotton planters will benefit from the board's cotton loan fund in exact ratio to the number of bales they market through recognized cooperative marketing enterprises," said Mr. Overstreet. "A loan of 16 cents will be made on 7-8 inch middling."

Plans Are Nearly Complete For New School Structure

Architects plans for Lubbock's new half million dollar high school will be finished about December 1, Peters, Strange and Bradshaw announced late Saturday.

Approval was given the new building in a $650,000 school bond issue voted here last June. The remaining amount of the issue is to be used for ward school building, as the need arises.

Of Spanish design, the new high school will be one of the most imposing in Texas. Agreement as to design was reached after architects, school officials and members of the board of education had made a tour of several Texas and Oklahoma cities.

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 9.—A full day of activity in the observance of Armistice day and in dedication of the new club home of the Ray Blakemore Post, American Legion, has been planned by members of the post and the auxiliary, according to E. M. Ballengee, chairman of the program committee. Plainview virtually will suspend business to join in the celebration since nearly all the stores will be closed for the day.

The new club house, which is practically completed is a two story brick located in the City Park. It represents a total investment of approximately ten thousands dollars, and the fullest co-operation of the legionaires. The finances have been raised from food sales sponsored by the auxiliary, to public subscription taken out by citizens and business men of Plainview. Members of the building committee are: Mead F. Griffin chairman, Pat Connelley, A. A. Beery, Roy Pierce, Mays Osborne, and John DuBose.

Legionaire E. A. Simpson, attorney of Amarillo, and a major of the American Army in the world war, will deliver the dedication address for the club house, and other local men who will speak are Capt. H. S. Hilburn, and A. E. Boyd. Open house and special entertainment will be from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Other members of the Program Committee besides Ballengee are Winfield Holbrook and Alex Nisbet.

Federal Approved Airport Is Essential, Mayor Says

Only First Class Port To Be Ok'ed, Is Woods' Report

Expert Advice Sought From Government Before More Work Is Done On Landing Field Near City

LUBBOCK will have nothing less than a federal approved airport, and one which meets all requirements of modern aeronautics.

Such was the statement Saturday of Mayor Harley D. Woods in explaining the city's deliberation over sale of the remaining $35,000 of the total $75,000 airport bonds and the careful consideration being given plans for a hangar.

Bonds Not Sold

"Due to fluctuations in the bond market we have been unable to sell our bonds at a price in keeping with the splendid credit of the city," said Mr. Woods. "The commission is not willing to sell below par, because we have too much pride in our credit rating.

"We at least expect to sell at par and accrued interest.

"Now that the stock market has slumped, we have reason to expect improvement in the bond market and should be able to execute a reasonably good sale within a short time.

Expert Advice Sought

When asked as to proposals for the hangar Mr. Woods explained that the city coommoission is awaiting expert advice with reference to the structure. "The United States Department of Aeronautics," he said, "has informed us that any engineer will be sent to this city to aid in shaping our plans for the new structure. We are going to exercise every measure possible to avoid the mistakes made by many cities. We want Lubbock's municipal airport to answer the government requirements in adequacy and efficiency of details.

"We have reason to believe that when our plans are realized that Lubbock will be proud of its municipal port.

Site Is Cleared

"The field site, four miles north of this city, has a natural drainage and has been cleared of all obstacles. The tract, covering one section, has already been approved by a federal representative."

The airport site was purchased from the Jones estate about two months ago when $40,000 of the bond issue was paid as cash for the tract.

The next meeting will be held in May, 1930 at Shreveport, La.

LICENSES DECREASING

Wichita County Clerk Says New Law Hurtful

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 9. —(AP)—With the Oklahoma line less than an hour's drive away, demand for marriage licenses at the office of Miss Elizabeth Hall, Wichita county clerk, continues dull.

Twenty-four licenses were issued during October, as compared with 91 during October, 1928. Since Texas' new marriage license law went into effect 95 licenses have been issued here as compared with 452 during the same period last year.

Miss Hall attributed the slack demand to dislike of the three-day notice and physicial examination clauses in the Texas law.

Miss Margaret Hix, Tech student, is spending today in Wellington.

Consternation Reigns As Texas Sheriff Invades New Zealand

TEMPLE, Tex., Nov. 9. (AP)—Consternation aroused in a small New Zealand town, thousand of miles from Temple, by the arrest of the town's leading citizens on charges of forgery in Temple, Texas, U. S. A., has been disclosed here with the arrival of month old papers from the country.

The man arrested was A. B. Crouch, living in Helensville, New Zealand, under the name of John Grey. His apprehension ended a 13 year search made by one of the whom Crouch is charged with defrauding by means of forging bills of lading for grain in 1916.

Resident 12 Years

Grey, or Crouch had lived in Helensville for 12 years. When he was arrested, a correspondent for an Auckland, New Zealand paper, sent an article to his paper which started as follows:

"Helensville, this day. The quiet little Riverside township of Helensville, was metaphorically shaken to its foundation last Tuesday when Auckland detectives in the company of a sheriff from far away Texas arrested John Grey, one of the most prominent citizens. News of the arrest came as a thunderbolt to the residents. Grey has associated himself with many local activities. He is known as honest John."

Mayoralty Candidate.

The correspondent interviewed a number of other leading citizens. One said that if Grey were to run for mayor, the citizens would "put him in." Another said "We have lost one of best citizens."

No less newspaper space was accorded Sheriff "Mr. J. Bingham," who went for Crouch. He was called "the Texas sheriff who got his man" and his picture adorned the front page of one of Auckland's leading journals.

Crouch's arrest was brought about through efforts of J. Goddard, a private detective of Auckland.

Sheriff Bingham told the Auckland newspapers that when Crouch was returned to Temple he would be charged with drawing $160,000 on two banks with forged bills of lading.

The extradition papers for Crouch were signed Oct. 30.

BIG GAME IS HERE

Hunters Need Not Go To Africa For Such

LAREDO, Nov. 9. (AP)—American hunters in quest of big game need no longer journey to faraway Africa to get their "quota" of lions, for the "king of the jungle" abounds on the Mexican orbder.

In addition to several mountain lions killed during the past few years on the Gates ranch of Webb county, now comes one killed on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande by two Mexican hunters.

Juan J. Uteaga and Adan Campos of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, recently decided to take their annual hunt in the mountainous country between Nuevo Laredo and Monterey. They had gone about 20 miles south of Nuevo Laredo when they left their car on the side of the highway and walked toward a dense chaparral. A short distance away a big Mexican mountain lion stalked out of the brush. Both fired bullets into the animal and killed him instantly. The lion was brought to Nuevo Laredo.

The society has been in existence since 1896.

Anonymous Writer Held For Murder

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—Orie Gatis, 32, who said that he wrote an anonymous letter mentioning himself in connection with a killing in order that whispered accusations might be disproved in court, was indicted for murder today by the Travis county grand jury.

The indictment was returned in the killing here April 18, 1928, of Jesse D. Canada, foreman of the Austin Sand and Gravel works.

Sixteen months later Constable Arthur Woody received an anonymous letter saying: "If you want to catch the fellow that killed Jesse Canada, arrest Orie Gatis." Gatis was arrested and later admitted that he wrote the letter.

Gatis said after he was arrested that he was tired of being watched by officers and that he had rather be in jail than to be outside with people talking about him behind his back.

Gatis was boarding at Canada's home at the time Canada was shot to death.

Senator LaFollette Seems To Have Ability To Follow Famous Dad, Is Opinion Of Correspondent Dutcher

Youngster Is Growing Fast In Strength And May One Day Be Influential, Is Reporter's Belief

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—People who used to admire Old Bob La Follette in the Senate often ask a Washington correspondent how much space Young Bob La Follette is taking up in his father's shoes as senator from Wisconsin. The time is about here when one can answer with some assurance that this youngest of the senators is showing up as well as anyone has a right to expect and considerably better than was ever predicted by his political enemies.

At any rate, there does not seem to be any parallel in current public life which equals the success of the present Robert M. La Follette in following the parental trail to fame and prestige. La Follette junior has a running start because he is only 34 years old, whereas La Follette senior was 50 when first elected to the Senate. The old man served an apprenticeship as a congressman and as Wisconsin's governor, but Young Bob was promptly elected to the vacancy on his father's death.

Making a Good Record

Last year he had to run for renomination and re-election and the Wisconsin conservatives tried to beat him on the plea that this senatorship was a man's job. Wisconsin appeared satisfied with the "boy" then and his record for the last year looks a lot better than it did before.

In the first place, La Follette inherited every bit of his father's insurgency. There are so few insurgents here that each one stands out rather conspicuously if he has any ability at all. La Follette is one of the three or four who do. It would be grossly unfair to compare him in his senatorial infancy with his father at the height of his powers and his fame, but he has managed to stay always on the Progressive track, entering into every Progressive fight; harpooning the administration and its forces at every opportunity and still keeping his feet on the ground without committing any faults or errors which might be attributed to his youth.

When the crash came in Wall Street the other day some here recalled that it was La Follette who nearly two years ago introduced and supported a resolution asking the Federal Reserve Board to curb speculative loans. It may also be remembered that La Follette introduced and forced through a resolution expressing opposition of the Senate to a third term. While passage of this resolution probably wasn't the chief influence behind Coolidge's reluctance to run again it was an effective move, for the Republican senators who voted for it would have had a hard time supporting Coolidge for election had he been renominated.

La Follette eventually refused to take any part in the presidential campaign. He had spoken for the platform of the Wisconsin Progressive Republicans at the Kansas City convention, displaying great oratorical ability and drawing cheers from hundreds of standpat throats.

But this year the La Follette voice has been heard more vigorously, more frequently and more effectively than ever. Norris and Borah, seasoned men in their sixties, have been leading the insurgent troops but La Follette has been one of the most valuable generals. From the outset he has put in a great amount of work on tariff legislation and the results have shown.

Last spring he was one of the leaders in the fight to abolish secret roll calls in the Senate.

When the tariff bill came from the House it was he who urged the Progressives to adopt the same methods the insurgents used against the Payne-Aldrich bill in 1909, when the elder La Follette and others divided up the schedules between them and each made an intensive study of his own subject. The present La Follette was named to lead the fight in the important chemical and sugar rates and when the rate schedules first came before the Senate opened the Progressive attack on them with an exhaustive array of facts and a slashing assault upon the merits of the chemical industry's claim for more tariff favors. He had spent most of the summer and weeks since studying his schedules.

Attacked Flexible Tariff

Having served on the select committee which investigated the Tariff Commission two years ago he was also able to make a devastating review of the abuse of presidential power through appointments and the flexible provision—an important part o fthe movement which led to the Senate's refusal to allow the president any more rate-fixing powers.

Illness hampered the young man from Wisconsin for a long time, but he is in better shape now, spends a great deal of time on the floor and is especially active in lining up the Progressives to function as a group. In a few years the older insurgent leaders will have passed on and one of the younger insurgents will lead them. It may not be La Follette, but he is getting a good early start in that direction.

Fourteen Held In Slaying Of Woman

GASTONIA, N. C., Fourteen of the 16 men charged with murder and conspiracy to murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, Bessemer City textile worker, were bound over to the January term of Gaston superior court at conclusion of the investigation Friday. The charges against two men were dismissed.

The hearing, begun Monday by Judge P. A. McElroy, came to an abrupt close when the defense, which Thursday anounced it would have perhaps 100 witnesses, decided not to offer any evidence and moved for dismissal of the charges. The state offered no new witnesses.

IN THE REALM OF SPORT
WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Avalanche Sports Editor

While the Southwestern conference and the major teams of the nation were in action yesterday, an even greater number of choice bits of gridiron morsels has been saved for Armistice day crowds tomorrow. For thousands of fans it will be their first opportunity to see a football game this season. In Lubbock and a majority of the South Plains cities will close the doors of their business houses to take part in the holiday programs and attend the grid attractions close at hand.

The outstanding football battle in West Texas Monday will be the Tech-A. C. C. engagement on the college gridiron here. Fans from all sections of Lubbock's trade territory are expected to come to this city to see the Matadors tangle with the Wildcats from Abilene. An added attraction will be offered at the game in the form of rabbit races between halves. The fastest dogs available have been obtained to pit their speed against the mechanical rabbit which is to be installed on the Tech track.

Slaton will draw its share of football enthusiasts in the crucial battle between the Tigers and Lamesa Tornadoes. This game on the Tiger field will throw considerable light on the class race in this district. Another important tilt will be played at Post between the Antelopes and the Spur Bulldogs. This will bring a pair of brothers together in the roles of rival coaches—Harry Taylor, Post mentor, and Gene Taylor, commander of the Spur aggregation. Over at Ralls the Crosby county grid fans are steamed up over the encounter between the Jackrabbits and Crosbyton Chiefs. Ralls has yet to lose a conference game this year, but is not conceded to a have a team on par with Slaton, Post and Lamesa.

Hot Stove leaguers are wondering just how far Donie Bush, the new manager of the Chicago White Sox, will go toward rebuilding the downtrodden pale hose. Dubbed the most colorless club in the majors, the Chicago American league entry must do a lot of ivory hunting before the club can be counted among the contenders, as Bush has intimated it will be. The former pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates has mapped out a winter buying and trading campaign which he figures should lift the once powerful baseball club to a first division berth in 1930.

Many rumors of trades and sales in the White Sox ranks have come out from the Windy City, one being an effort to obtain the services of Bubbles Hargrave, former Cincinnati backstop and at present manager of the St. Paul American association club. Bob Fothergill, slugging Detroit fly chaser, and Mark Koenig, Yankee shortstop, have also been mentioned as White Sox possibilities. Bush refuses to impart anything definite except that he is after two or three experienced hitters. At one time the Sox were known as the "hitless wonders," but apparently those days have passed. Ten minor league stars of note have been purchased since Bush was signed as manager of the White Sox.

One of the most interesting points around which speculation centers over the Chicago pilot is what will happen when Art Shires meets Donie Bush? Sporting three technical knockouts over Lena Blackburne, 1928 pale hose manager, Shires looms as a menace to the peace of any baseball camp. But Bush is somewhat different from the amicable Lena that furnished a punching bag for the pugnacious Shires last season. He owns a one sided decision over Kiki Cuyler and a four inning knockout over Vic Aldridge, the Hoosier school master. Little but loud, Bush has been able to hold his own with the toughest customers in the majors and is likely to give the Great Shires just about all the competition he is looking for.

However, Donie has never had dealing with a man of exactly Shires' type. Shires will have considerable weight advantage over his foes when they square off, but the strict training rules of Bush will be in his favor. He drinks plenty of fresh milk and eats all kinds of raw vegetables. Shires on the other hand, drinks nothing but ginger-ale (extra strong) and lives chiefly on a diet of scrap tobacco.

Mustangs Prove Better Mud Horses Than Farmers As New $300,000 Stadium Is Dedicated

BY C. M. WRIGHT
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 9. (AP)—The Southern Methodist University Mustangs proved the better mud horses today, taking a 12 to 7 decision from Texas A. & M. in the dedicatory exercises for the Aggies' new $300,000 stadium.

The Ponies got their victory in a driving drizzle without the use of their star backfield man except for a few moments. Weldon Mason went into the lineup for less than 10 minutes in the second quarter, and slipped 30 yards through Aggie tacklers for a touchdown. Two plays later he went out after he had missed a try for the extra point from placement.

Ponies Score Early

Late in the first period the Mustangs got their first counter. A good Pony punt, a break and a recovery by Hammon, Mustang tackle, were responsible. Conover stepped back for a punt, fumbled and Hammon recovered. Ira Hopper, Pony fullback, went across easily.

The Aggies' lone touchdown likewise came on a break. Gilbert stood back of the line to punt for the Ponies but Richter, alert Farmer guard, broke through to block it. The break came when the ball rolled to Rube Tracey, Aggie wing, who raced 30 yards for the score. Tracey had to cut across the field to elude Gilbert, who tackled the Aggie just as he slid across the line. Zarafonitis kicked goal.

Passing Plays Part

The passing game played a good part in midfield advances although few contributed to touchdowns. The ball, slippery from mud, continually slipped from the hands of receivers when their interference was perfectly set or they had clear fields ahead of them. The ponies completed 11 heaves and the Aggies six.

Less than 6,000 persons saw the game. It was raining when the game started, stopped for a few minutes and the wind driven drizzle began again as the game ended.

The Farmers, who usually wear red jerseys, shucked them for gray today since the Mustangs' uniforms are maroon. The players were not to be distinguished after they rolled on the muddy field a few times.

Tracey, Richter Star

Outstanding was the work of Tracey and Richter for the losers. Tracey made the lone Aggie touchdown and was down under punts in time to drop receivers in their tracks on several occasions. Richter smeared many would be Pony dashes through guard. Hammon, Sanders and Skeeters were the best linemen for the Ponies who had no unusual backfield man man after Mason's short stay in the lineup. Gilbert made some successful runs but was not sure footed on the oozy field while Mills, Aggie quarter, alternately got off to good broken field gains and was thrown for losses.

Score by periods:

S. M. U.	6 6 0 0
A. & M.	0 0 7 0

Scoring, S. M. U., Hopper and Mason, substitute for Gilbert. A. and M. Tracy. Zarafonetis, point after touchdown from placement.

Holiday Parade At Canyon Tomorrow

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CANYON, Nov. 9.—The West Texas State Teachers college will co-operate with the Hanson Post American Legion in its Armistice day parade by sending a number of students to participate in it. The college band, the Randall Hall Pep Squad, the Red Men, the Pi Omegas and the Tumbling Team will form the college delegation.

Crosbyton Meets Rabbits Monday

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, Nov. 9.—Interest in the annual football clash between two natural rivals, the Crosbyton Chiefs and the Ralls Jackrabbits, is at fever heat. The game will be played in Ralls on Armistice day.

Consensus of opinion is that this will be a hard fought battle with Ralls having a slight advantage due to her impressive record to date. Comparative scores mean little, however, when these two teams clash on the gridiron.

Ralls has gone through the season thus far with an undefeated record, save an early season loss to the powerful Lubbock Westerners while Crosbyton has had an indifferent season. Ralls must win this game in order to remain in the race for first honors in this Class B District.

Matadors Out To Halt Winning Streak Of Wildcats Here Monday

Attend the Tech-ACC Game Monday!

(AN EDITORIAL URGING FANS TO ACTION)

Financial straits are facing the Athletic council at Texas Technological college. Prof. W. L. Stangel, chairman, reports that the organization is facing a deficit of $13,000 and unless that sum is made up in the next three home games serious difficulties will be encountered.

Attendance at home games this year has not been good. Regardless of the reason, fans have not been on the sidelines in numbers sufficient to carry the financial burden. The Athletic council is worried. It has appealed to the Avalanche-Journal to broadcast the urge that Lubbock people come to the rescue and save the situation.

Perhaps you, as a fan, have been disappointed in the showing made by the Matadors thus far this season. But regardless of that it is a civic duty that you attend the remainder of the games—especially that of tomorrow.

The Athletic council promises a fighting team tomorrow—a team striving for victory through 60 minutes of play. Let's let bygones be bygones and support the Matadors tomorrow!

Tech Eleven Is Ready For Battle With Christians

Crimson Crew To Have Full Strength In Clash Here Tomorrow; Club Seeks To Regain Lost Laurels

Boasting victories over the Texas Tech gridiron eleven for the past two season, the Wildcats of Abilene Christian College will invade Tech field Monday afternoon in quest of a third successive triumph over the cohorts of Grady Higginbotham and Victor Payne. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

A final three-hour workout Saturday afternoon put the Matadors on edge for the Armistice Day battle and the college mentors pronounced the squad in first-class condition and ready for the opening whistle. With all injured squadmembers back in playing condition, the Bull Fighters will have their full strength to throw against the invading Cats here tomorrow in the feature attraction of the holiday program in the city.

Cats Loom Powerful

Strong contenders for the T. I. A. A. title, the Christians boast one of the strongest teams in the history of the school. A fast backfield threat, built around Keyes and Cheeves, form a formidable scoring combination that the Crimson crew must stop before they can halt the winning streak of the Morris-coached aggregation.

Given a dry field the Matadors' offense is due to be uncorked with all its fury, as the locals make a desperate attempt to stage a comeback before the home fans. The probable starting backfield combination of Green at quarterback, Hodges and Hill at halves and Wooldridge at fullback gives the Scarlet-clad machine a decided edge over the Christians' ball-totin' quartet.

Other Attractions

Extra attractions are promised the spectators at the game here tomorrow in the form of rabbit-greyhound races between halves and an Armistice Day gun salute on the field north of the playing field. The entire program can be witnessed from the stands and bleachers.

Visitors from all sections of the South Plains are expected here for the game. The Wildcats are due to arrive here late today and will likely take a light workout on the college gridiron Monday morning. Twenty-five members of the Christian squad are making the trip.

Abilene Eagles Dethroned By Breckenridge, 26 To 0

Powerful Buckaroo Eleven Masters Ex-champions

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 9. —(AP)—Abilene high school, 1928 state high school football champion, was dethroned today when Breckenridge High school won 26 to 0 in the most crushing defeat Abilene has suffered in eight years.

Breckenridge whipped the Abilene team on the first play of the game after Abilene kicked off, Boyce Magness tossing a short pass across the line of scrimmage to Pruitt, Breckenridge fullback who ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Magness made all of the other touchdowns, one of them in the first quarter and two more in the final period.

One of the touchdowns followed a long march down the field and the others were made after Abilene had fumbled. Abilene, outplayed in every department, fumbled badly, losing the ball six times in that manner. The Eagles threatened three times, but never penetrated the 10-yard line. The field was muddy an slippery but about 6,000 spectators were present.

Wichita Eleven Here On Friday

Powerful Coyote Machine Gunning For District Title; Holton Uses Shift Of Notre Dame

Three hours of intensive signal drill Saturday morning wound up the week's training for the Lubbock Westerners and tomorrow the high school squad will begin to bear down hard in preparation for their clash here Friday with the Wichita Falls high school Coyotes.

Still gunning for the District One title, which the majority of experts have already ceded to Amarillo, the Pack will invade Lubbock, backed by a train load of Wichita boosters, to hand the Westerners their second straight setback. Fresh from their 14-0 triumph over the powerful Vernon Lions, the Coyotes represent one of the dangerous foes the locals will meet all season and Coaches Frnka and Morgan are taking no chances in allowing the Holton-coached crew to slip up on their blind side.

Study Effect

The Westerners have started work to familiarize themselves with the Wichita style of attack and will continue this week to perfect a defense for the Notre Dame shift employed by the Coyotes.

Indications are that Moody Smith and W. D. Lawson, Westerner backs, will be on the sidelines when the Coyotes kick off here Friday, but Coach Morgan expects Yancey Price to step into one of the backfield positions and deal the visitors with plenty of misery. Shifted to end at the beginning of this season to utilize his speed, Price has recently been moved to a halfback berth where he will be given an opportunity to "carry the mail" consistently.

Work Saturday

Saturday morning's workout found the Westerners going through their plays with marked precision. Practically the same lineup that gave the Amarillo Sandies the well-known fits for 60 minutes on Nov. 2, will see action against the Coyotes. With Price in the backfield, Hardberger, Blagg or Watson will take the other wing post with Rich.

Last year the Coyotes were smothered under a 21-0 score when the Westerners invaded Wichita Falls. The 1928 Lubbock eleven had just reached the peak of its season performance on that date. This year the teams are more closely matched and the locals must put up another such exhibition as in the Amarillo game to send the Pack home with the small end of the final count.

Protest Is Filed On Class B Clubs

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, Nov. 9.—Protests filed against Post and Levelland high school football players has resulted in a meeting being called for executive committee of District Two in Lubbock on Nov. 16, it was learned here today from V. Z. Rogers, chairman of the body.

Charges against the Post eleven were filed through the alleged ineligibility of Pud Luman and Bryan Moore. Moore is questioned under the transfer rule and Luman under the age limit ruling.

Levelland will also be requested to answer charges brought up by Ralls officials.

These questions will be considered by the committee next Saturday in Lubbock.

DETROIT 26; W. V. O.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 9. (AP)—The Titas of the University of Detroit smote West Virginia University's Mountaineers the hardest blow they have suffered on the gridiron this season by overwhelming them, 26-0, here today.

Miss Grace Brown, 2415 13th street, is spending the week-end in Cisco.

Tech Basketball Training Starts

Tech's basketball prospects for the coming cage season assumed definite proportions during the last week as Coach Victor Payne began preliminary training with his prospective candidates at the college gymnasium.

While eight letter men will be available for the Matador cage mentor, much will depend upon the showing of the newcomers and the development of last year's squadmembers. The lettermen who are expected back are: Hodges, Coppage, Reeves, Dalton, Tadlock, Vinzant and Kerr.

Daily practice, consisting for the most part of passing, dribbing and goal shooting, will continue through the remainder of the football season. The official training season will start immediately after the close of the current grid campaign.

Sooners Bow To Jayhawk Machine

Oklahoma Takes First Setback Of Season In Big Six Race; Nebraska Is Favored For Title

NORMAN, Okla., (Owen Field), Nov. 9. (AP)—The Doughty Kansas Jayhawk had its tail feathers intact here tonight and the University of Oklahoma had a one time perfect Big Six Conference football record soiled.

On a water soaked gridiron this afternoon the powerful Jayhawk machine, minus the services of the Bausch brothers, Frank and Jim, defeated the Sooners by a score of 7 to 0. The Kansas victory not only relegated the Red and White clad sons of Sooner to the defeated class in Big Six but placed Nebraska in a strategic place to win another league championship. The Huskers have to play Oklahoma at Lincoln next week and end the season against the Kansas Aggies.

FORDHAM 7; BOSTON C. 6

BOSTON, Nov. 9. (AP) — Major Frank Cavanagh's Fordham Rams visited the scene of their mentor's past conquests here today and remained long enough to ruin Boston college's record of no defeats since 1927, by taking a last-period, 7 to 6 victory.

DUKE 25; LOUISIANA 6

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 9. (AP)—The Duke University Blue Devils made a very successful debut into Southern conference ranks at the new Duke Stadium this afternoon, walloping the highly touted Louisiana State university aggregation, 32 to 6.

Lamesa to Send 700 to Slaton

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SLATON, Nov. 9.—A ten car special train will roll into this city tomorrow, bearing approximately 700 enthusiastic football fans from Lamesa, who are coming to boost the Tornadoes in their Armistice Day battle with the Slaton high school Tigers.

Business concerns in both cities have agreed to close for the game here and the season's largest crowd is anticipated. The Lamesa high school band and pep squad will be included in the large delegation expected here from Lamesa.

Both teams are undefeated in the race for the Class B title in this district and both have pointed to tomorrow's battle from the first of the season.

COLGATE 33; COLUMBIA 0

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP) — Colgate's huskies crushed the Columbia Lions, 33 to 0, today at Baker Field.

Wasting no time when opportunity offered, the Maroon Giants shot Tommy Dowler Les Hart, the 200-pound Len Macalyso and a half dozen others ahead as good into the dismayed ranks of Columbia and never failed to —re until substitutes manned the forward walls.

Colorless Conflict Is Waged Over Muddy Gridiron With Brisk Punting Duel Enlivening Conference Battle

Soggy Field And Slippery Ball Prevent Teams From Showing To Advantage; Bruins Attempt Three Field Goals From Placement

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.,
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—Texas University and Baylor University tugged and hauled across a muddy gridiron for 60 minutes here today without reaching a decision in their Southwest Conference encounter. At the end of an hour's strife neither had a definite advantage and neither had come within yards of scoring.

It was a colorless conflict, enlivened only by a brisk punting duel between Jake Wilson, Baylor's welterweight marvel and Dexter Shelley, Texas ace. A soggy field and slippery ball prevented either team showing to great advantage. Texas made seven first downs to Baylor's five but the offensive efforts were well strung out.

The Golden Bears attempted three goals from placement. Texas could not come even that close. Lewter, Baylor end, booted the soggy ball once from the 18-yard line, again from the 34-yard mark and made a desperate attempt from the 42-yard stripe in the closing period. The second attempt passed through the posts but under the bar. That was about the only opportunity the crowd had to get excited.

Second Tie For Texas

Today's bout marked the second scoreless affair for the Longhorns within a week and helped their chances at a conference title not at all. Last Saturday the sturdy Steers deadlocked with Southern Methodist at Dallas. Texas Christian University, by virtue of its victory over Rice, went into the conference lead, the only undefeated, untied unit.

Jake Wilson emerged the outstanding figure of the game with Nona Rees, Texas quarterback, a close second. With the exception of one 15 yard run, Shelley was never able to break through the staunch Baylor line. Bochey Koch, Baylor guard, played a brilliant defensive game.

Steers Held Even

Where the Longhorns clearly outplayed Southern Methodist last week, they had no such consolation today. Baylor's mud bespattered eleven gave the Steers as good as they received. The Steers' overhead attack with the gigantic Rose on the receiving end, shaded the Bruins in that department but Baylor gained more yards on running plays.

The closest approach to a score, discounting Lewter's earnest efforts at a placement, came in the opening quarter. Shelley, kicking from behind his own goal, sent a spiral out on the Longhorns' 40 yard stripe, from whence Wilson and McElreath promptly plunged a first down on the Steers' 28 yard mark. Wilson shot a pass far down the right side of the field that hit Lucas' outstretched hands almost on the goal line. It slithered off.

This Lucas, captain of the Baylor team, played a whale of a game at end, incidently. He was prominent in smearing the Longhorns' running attack and was in almost every play. His defensive efforts were eclipsed only by those of Koch, stocky Bruin guard, whose blackened figure turned up under innumerable plays.

Wilson Kicks Well

Shelley's inability to match Wilson's great punting kept the Longhorns in hot water. In the first two minutes of play the Steer star kicked a pour one from his own goal line that Lucas of Baylor picked up and carried to the Texas four yard marker. In three tries to brush the tackles, Baylor lost as many yards, and it was then Lewter tried his first kick from the 16 yard line. What the Southwest conference needs, apparently, is more and better field goal kickers.

McElreath, shifty Balyor half, brought the stands up with a spectacular 24 yard sprint just before the game ended. Beular, Texas safety, dropped him after it seemed he was away for a touchdown.

The lineups:

Baylor	Pos.	Texas
Paradeaux	Center	Burnett
Witcher	Right Guard	Baumgarten
Morris	Right Tackle	Emerson
Lucas (c)	Right End	Vinlng
Wilson	Quarterback	Rees
McElreath	Left Half	Beard
Katheart	Fullback	Beular
Gilliland	Right Half	Shelley

Frogs Romp Away With A 24-0 Win Over Rice Owls

Purple Team Remains Only Undefeated Team In Southwest Conference After Day's Games

BY FRED DYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT WORTH, Nov. 9. —(AP)—Texas Christian University easily downed Rice Institute on a field of mud, 24 to 0, here today and remained the only undefeated, untied team in the race for Southwest conference championship.

T. C. U. punters always kept the ball deep in Rice territory in spite of the soggy ball and the Horned Frog line outcharged the lighter Rice line throughout the game while the Christians' backfield excelled at lugging the ball forward.

Even in the fourth period, when the game was safely tucked away in the win column and T. C. U. had second and third string men on the field Rice could not get past the midfield stripe.

As against the Christians' four touchdowns Rice could show but three first downs throughout the game, two of them by line bucks and one by a forward pass.

Splashing water and smearing themselves with mud the players of both teams battled up and down the field in the first quarter with T. C. U. displaying superiority, despite lack of a score.

Most of the scoring was packed into the second and third periods, the Christians putting over two in each. Three placements after touchdowns failed as did one to add digit by a line play.

The first touchdown was rammed across by Green, who later made two more.

Starting from Rice's 33-yard line Green, Grubbs and Hinton alternated in line plunges until the oval was on Rice's three-yard stripe. From there Green bucked it over.

That also was the story of the third score, with some nice playing by Kenneth (Football) Moore responsible for the second touchdown. After Rice had fumbled on its own goal line and had been forced to kick Leland ran the ball back 23 yards to the 15-yard line. In three tries Moore took it over.

The final touchdown came when Handler recovered a fumble for T. C. U. on Rice's 16-yard line. Green made five yards, then three and lunged across for the final points.

The lineups:

Rice	Pos	T. C. U.
B. Jones (c)	Left guard	Butler
Thomas	Center	Atkins
Morgan	Right guard	Brumbelow (c)
Mimms	Right tackle	R. Moore
Sawyer	Right end	Robertson
Russell	Quarterback	Grubbs
R. Jones	Right half	Leland
Kennedy	Fullback	Green

Officials: Referee, Holton, Notre Dame; umpire, Boynton, Williams; head linesman, Boggess, Waco high; field judge, Utay, Texas A. and M.

Score by periods:

T. C. U.	0	12	12	0	24

Scoring: For T. C. U. — Touchdowns, Green (3), Moore (substitute for Leland.)

Holm Stars In Alabama Victory

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 9. (AP) A lame and ailing fullback — old Tony Holm the Alabama plunger—tossed away his crutches today and literally ran Kentucky out of the Southern conference championship race.

Banded from his belt up, taped from his waist down and reeking with linaments and lotions, Holm scored three of the four touchdowns Alabama collected to decisively trim the Wildcats from the Northwestern tip of the conference 24 to 13.

Big Spring Will Close For Game

BIG SPRING, Nov. 9.—A special train is being arranged to carry the Big Spring delegation to Sweetwater for the football game between Big Spring and Sweetwater to be played in that city. All business houses in the city will be closed in honor of Armistic day. The various service clubs of the city are purchasing a number of tickets and distributing them among deserving high school students.

Illinois Stages Comeback To Trample Army, 17 To 7

Western Eleven Gets Early Lead To Clinch Game

Series Of Spectacular "Breaks" Favor Zuppke's Crew And Cadet Invasion Is Turned Back

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

MEMORIAL STADIUM, CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 9. (AP)—The Army's invasion of the Western Conference today crumbled on the plains of Illinois as a throng of 68,000 saw the Big Ten champions gallop to victory by the decisive margin of 17 to 7 in a series of spectacular "breaks."

The swift and stunning turns of the wheels of football fortune saw Bob Zuppke's alert, hard charging eleven stage a great comeback, get the jump on the Soldiers and run up a first half lead that clinched the game.

These two astonishing "breaks," each resulting in a touchdown, came in the second quarter and left the Army forces dazed, bewildered and shell-shocked.

Freak Punt Hurts

The first bombshell to strike the Cadet ranks was a freak punt by Herts Murrell from behind his own goal line, a twisting, lofty spiral that traveled less than 20 yards and was converted into a touchdown by Ed Kawal, big Illinois center, after picking up the bounding ball only 8 yards from the Army goal. The second "break" came after Red Cagle had led a forward passing counter charge deep into Illinois territory. It struck as Arnold Wolgast, an alert end and youthful opportunist from Aurora, Ill., broke in to intercept a short lateral pass from Cagle to Murrell, and race 80 yards to another touchdown.

Scores Come Fast

In little more time than it takes to tell, Illinois, with the aid of a first period goal by Douglas Mills from the 20-yard line, had run up its entire total of 17 points. The Army led by Captain Cagle, came back gamely in the second half but its most gallant efforts produced only one touchdown and never seriously threatened the lead of the Big Ten champions.

The famous Cadet Redhead personally took the ball across for West Point's only touchdown, on a three yard dash through the line, but the best he could do otherwise was to harrass the Illini with a long range passing attack that repeatedly produced big gains.

The Army gained 115 yards through the air, averaging 23 yards for five passes completed out of 12 attempts. Illinois gained only 38 yards on two passes completed out of seven thrown.

The Cadets registered 12 first downs to only five for Illinois and just about held their own at rushing, with 122 yards to show for the attack from scrimmage to 123 for Illinois.

The lineup:

ARMY	Position	ILLINOIS
Carlmark	L E	Wolgast
Price	L T	Gordon
Humbert	L G	Weitz
Miller	C	Kawal
Tillsinger	R G	Crane (C)
Perry	R T	Burdick
Hesinger	R E	Steinman
Carver	Q B	Peters
O'Keefe	L H B	Walker
Cagle (C)	R H B	Timm
Murrell	F B	Humbert

Score by periods:

Illinois	3	14	0	0—17
Army	0	0	7	0— 7

Scoring summary: Illino's touchdowns, Wolgast, Kawal; place kick, Mills; points after touchdown, Peters (sub for Mills), (drop kick 2).

Army: Cagle (sub for Suart); point after touchdown, O'Keefe (place kick).

MANHATTAN, Kas., Nov. 9. (AP)—Battling in a rain before less than 4,000 fans, the Kansas Aggies defeated Iowa State in football today, 3 to 2. Orin Tackwell's field goal late in the second period offset the intentional safety K. S. A. C. gave the Iowans just before the game ended.

Tackwell, a senior tackle who kicked the point after touchdown which gave the Aggies a 7 to 6 victory over Missouri last week, stood 25 yards from the goal line as he prepared to try for a field goal with a wet, slippery oval. A place kick was faked, with Weller on one knee to receive the ball, but it came straight back from center to Tackwell who drop-kicked it squarely over the bars.

Missouri Tigers Beat Washington

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9. (AP)—Fought to a standstill for the first three periods by a stubborn aggregation of Washington University Bears who fought as though they had their backs to the wall, the University of Missouri Tigers finally charged through in the last quarter to a touchdown and a 6 to 0 victory over the Bruins at Francis Field this afternoon.

As is usual in their traditional game with Missouri, the Bears rose to high fighting pitch, and while they yielded fourteen first downs to the Tigers, they presented a stone wall when their goal was threatened and checked every Tiger rush for three quarters.

Captains 1929

One of the east's sturdiest linemen is John Dreshar, guard and captain of the Carnegie Tech Skibos at Pittsburgh. Dreshar leads a veteran team this fall, one that lost to Notre Dame only by the narrowest of margins. The Plaid leader occasionally performs at center. He is a talented booter, performing in the kick-off role and kicking points after touchdown. Carnegie Tech will meet the University of Southern California eleven at Los Angeles Dec. 14 in one of the season's outstanding intersectional contests.

Sankari Winner Of Feature Race

Burst Of Speed Carries Veteran Of R. C. Stable To Victory At Arlington Downs Saturday

FORT WORTH, Nov. 9. (AP)—Sankari, veteran campaigner of the R. C. Stable, moved along in the also ran class for most of the Dallas handicap, the $2,500 feature at Arlington Downs Saturday, but wound up with a burst of speed that carried him past Trieze and Panchio, the latter the Three D hope.

Panchio, away with a burst of speed over the sloppy track, led the field of six until the stretch. Then Trieze made a bid and the crowd, watching the two fight it out down the stretch, overlooked Sankari, coming fast as Jockey Ayraud made him move. The brown son of the Finn, came home a length ahead of Trieze. The latter took the place position with Panchio in the third spot.

Mix-Up, the other Three D entry, ran well and was close on the leaders, until Trieze challenged Panchio for their stretch duel, with Ayraud piloting Sankari through after the two former apparently had won and place honors cinched.

It was the second victory of the day for Ayraud. He was up on Opengo Shut, Arsonia stable gelding that captured the second race. Ayraud took home two mounts in first position Friday also.

The 2,000 fans who braved intermittent rain and a slick pike to see the Saturday program, groaned when they saw the track, mushy and with puddles of water here and there. They didn't think the day's program would be much but stayed to see some of the best races of the meet.

St. Mary's Wins Over Kangaroos

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 9. (AP)—Led by "Unk" Young, who scored three touchdowns in ten minutes in the third period, St. Mary's University had little trouble in subduing the Austin college Kangaroos of Sherman here today 27 to 0, on a wet and sloppy gridiron.

Frank "Dutchy" Daehne opened the Rattler scoring in the second period when he stepped around end with Johnny Blackburn's pass for a touchdown, and Johnny kicked goal.

Young returned a Kangaroo punt 30 yards to touchdown, and again scored when he intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards to touchdown and finally returned a second punt for sixty yards to touchdown, with Blackburn kicking the point.

Hoover Sees Navy Tie Georgetown

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 9. (AP)—Two great lines and two great kickers bore the brunt of a 0-0 battle today, when Georgetown and Navy renewed their football feud with President Hoover among the 25,000 fans who saw the game.

The game was played for the most part between the 25 yard lines, the range of the two wicking tackles' booting. Honors were about evenly distributed between Bowstrom, the Navy tackle, pulled back for kicking, and Mooney, likewise drawn from the Georgetown tackle position to kick, although the former contributed one of the thrills of the game by picking up a bad pass from center and getting off a beautiful 55 yard punt.

Michigan Wolverines Turn Back Harvard, 14 To 12

Grim And Alert Michigan Array Defeats Crimson

Thrilling Duel Is Played Before 87,000 Delirious Spectators; "Breaks" Win For Victors

By PAUL R. MICKELSON,
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9. (AP)—Harvard's gridiron stalwarts, in their first invasion of the midwest, played and fought their fighting hearts out today but fell before a grim and alert Michigan eleven by the slender margin of 14 to 12.

Resuming their intersectional warfare which halted just 15 years ago, the two teams engaged in one of the most thrilling and brilliant duels in pigskin history—a game that had an immense throng of 87,000 spectators virtually delirious from the starting whistle to the final second.

"Breaks" Win

The breaks won today for the Wolverines. Outcharged, outgained and bewildered by a great rain of Crimson passes, they followed the ball for those breaks and were rewarded with the score, 6 to 0. Against them at the end of the first period, Alan Bovard, Michigan center, recovered a Harvard fumble on the enemy 27-yard line. A few minutes later and on three smashes at the line, Roy Hudson converted it into a touchdown. "Dynamite Joe" Gembis, whose toe gave Michigan the winning edge, then booted the oval from placement for the extra point and a lead that Harvard never overcame.

More "Breaks"

In the fourth period, the Wolverine benefitted by two more "breaks of the game," with the ball in Michigan's possession on Harvard's 49-yard line. Bernard White was sent into Harvard's backfield as a sub. Forgetting his coach's warning, he talked before the ball was snapped into play and a 15-yard penalty resulted, giving Michigan a first down on the crimson 34-yard stripe. The loss put Harvard in a hole it was unable to climb out of. Failing to gain, Simrall booted out of bounds on Harvard's 13-yard line, Harvard fought back too daringly and tried a pass. Jim Simrall alert Michigan quarterback, intercepted the heave on his 25-yard line and carried it back eight yards from where the Wolverine backs, led by Alvin Dahlem, slashed their way to the one foot line from which point Maynard Morrison hurled his 210-pound bulk through the crimson forward wall for a touchdown. Gembis again obliged with a perfect placement boot for extra point.

Harvard Scores First

Harvard scored its first touchdown when the game was only a few minutes old. Taking the ball on his 41-yard line, on a lateral pass from Barry Wood, Putnam circled to his right, half reversed his field and dashed through the entire Michigan team for a touchdown. He was aided by beautiful blocking. Wood was rushed by a swarming Michigan line for his attempt at extra point and it was low.

After Michigan's comeback with two touchdowns the issue appeared hopeless for the Crimson. But they fought back and pushed over another touchdown, and then threatened to win by the most deceptive forward passing attack ever seen in the Michigan stadium. The invaders scored their second touchdown on a march of 66-yards, most of which was made by passing, Wood to Edmund Mays, a sophomore sub. The passing attack took the ball to the one yard line, where White plunged through his left left tackle for the counter. Bovard, one of the outstanding heroes of the day for Michigan, crushed through the Harvard line and blocked Wood's attempted drop kick.

Harvard made one more serious threat after that, passing for yardage to the Michigan 20-yard line.

Pittsburgh's Backfield Terrors

Toby Uansa, left, brilliant half, and Tom Parkinson, right, stellar fullback, are University of Pittsburgh's two great scoring threats. Panthers are rated as one of best teams in country.

Porkers Wallop Teachers, 52-7

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 9 (AP)—Led by Dardy Dick Miller, the Arkansas Razorbacks ran hog wild today to cross the Ada, Okla., Teachers' goal line eight times for a 52 to 7 victory here today.

Miller scored when the game was less than sixty seconds old, racing behind interference eighty yards for a touchdown. He chalked up another counter in the same period, and two more in the third quarter, running his scoring for the season to 66 points.

Cowboy Kyle, reserve back, scored a third marker in the first period.

The dazed and battered Teachers made their lonely touchdown when Larue, taking a twenty yard pass from M. Daughter, raced fifty yards in a clear field.

N. Y. U. Defeats Georgia U. 27-19

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP)—New York university defeated the University of Georgia today before a crowd of 12,000 by a score of 27 to 19, the Southerners doing all their scoring in the second half. N. Y. U. piled up a lead of 20 to 0 in the first half but could score in the second only once through the medium of an intercepted forward pass.

NORTHWESTERN 18, IOWA S. 6

OHIO STADIUM, Columbus, O., Nov. 9. (AP)—Ohio State's scarlet and gray grid squad tasted the defeat in the Western Conference today that it managed to stave off by narrow margins with Indiana and Iowa when Northwestern crashed over the touted defense for an 18 to 6 victory.

Misses Alicia Richards and Jeffie Iles, of College Inn, will spend the week-end in Fort Worth.

Ramblers Crush Drake Bulldogs By 19-7 Count

Notre Dame Punishes Courageous Canines And Push Over Pair Of Counters Late

By WILLIAM WEEKS

SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, Nov. 9. (AP)—Methodically pounding its smaller opponent's defense to shreds during the first three periods today, Notre Dame's big mob scored two touchdowns in the final session to defeat the courageous Drake Bulldogs, 19 to 7, before 55,000 spectators at Soldier Field Stadium.

Sheer numerical superiority played a big part in the victory of the Ramblers, who, after trailing by one point for three periods, found it easy to rush over two touchdowns in the closing minutes of play. After the shock troops had softened up the Bulldogs, and incidentally had been scored upon in so doing, Coach Tom Lieb acting for his injured chief, Knute K. Rockne, sent in the regulars and made it the same old story.

The Army's share of boxes also has been oversubscribed more than three times, it was announced.

Kansas University authorities say their fullback gets $75 a month from an alumnus. But he has to sell insurance, too.

O'Goofty wonders if the word "insurance" isn't meant to be "assurance." That the team won't lose a game.

Anyway fullbacking ought to be splendid training for an insurance man.

The Kansas fullback, besides knowing how to tackle a customer, ought to be pretty good at hitting the door for 10 yards.

Of course, after he's through at Kansas, the fullback always can play a few more years of football at Davis and Elkins.

At that rate, a man ought to be ready to enter professional football by the time he's 50.

Scrappy Maryland Crew Gains Tie With Yale Eleven

Invaders Stage Comeback After Albie Booth Is Taken From Yale Lineup; Star In 15 Minutes

BY TED VOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer.

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN Conn., Nov. 9. (AP)—Brilliant little Albie Booth put a football game apparently on ice for old Eli this afternoon but he was taken out too soon and the University of Maryland's scrappy eleven pulled out a 13 to 13 tie.

In the 15 minutes Booth was in the game Yale rolled up all of its 13 points but when he was taken out what had seemed a safe lead melted away before the impetuous plunging and passing of such gallant Maryland backs as William (Moon) Evans, of Washington, Louis (Bozy) Berger of Clarendon, Va., and George (Shorty) Chalmers of Delaware.

The team that little Albie led to a glorious victory over Dartmouth here a week ago was a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the football field today—a fast, aggressive dangerous foe when "The Big Little back in blue" was in the lineup, but a weak indecisive outfit when he was not.

It was Berger, a third sub, who tallied both touchdowns for Maryland, gathering in a pass over the goal line from Chalmers in the third quarter for the first score and racing around his right end on an intricate triple pass from Evans to Chalmers to Berger in the closing minutes of the game, for the last three yards and a second tally.

Cotton Farm Problems Hardest, Says Carl Williams

Over Half Of America's Production Must Be Exported, Thus Competing With Cheap Labor And Low Standard

Climatic And Other Conditions Make Obstacles Of Cotton Growers Different Throughout South

The Federal Farm Board is an industry board. It was formed to serve agriculture. Except this one, no law was ever passed definitely instructing a government to use the money of all the people to help one industry only. It was done in this case because the people of America believe that farmers should have an equal chance with city people for prosperity, and that it is the duty of the government to give all of its people that equal chance.

The Federal Farm Board is directed to help farmers, no matter where they live in the nation nor what crops they grow.

Farmer's Problems Are Many

It is plain that this help cannot be all of one kind for all farmers. The apple grower in Oregon and the rice grower in Arkansas do not have the same problem. The problems of wheat are different from those of cotton.

Cotton is perhaps the hardest of all. This crop is grown in many countries. More than half of America's production must be exported and comes directly or indirectly, according to quality and price, into competition with all of the other producing countries where labor is cheap and plentiful, and where the standard of living among farmers is much lower than it is anywhere in the United States.

Cotton Problems Differ Also

Even the problems of cotton growers are not all alike. The cotton belt extends from North Carolina to California. Cotton is grown under as many different conditions as there are climates, soils, kinds of people and methods of farming.

Conditions are different in the western belt from those in the eastern, and the westerner has the better of it.

Between the years of 1920 and 1926, the acreage of cotton in the United States increased from 30 million to 47 million. This increase was mainly in Oklahoma and Texas. These two states today have half of the acreage planted to cotton in the South. Forty years ago they had none.

Prairie Sections Favored

The farmers planted cotton in the western belt because on level prairies, with large teams and tools, on fertile soils, and under climatic conditions which reduce the work of cotton culture and produce a high grade and high quality product, they can grow cotton for less and sell it for more than their brothers in the Southeast.

In the southeastern belt the average acreage of cotton per family is about 20. In the western belt it is about 50. Instances are common in the western belt whereby with the use of modern machinery, one man unaided by hired or family labor tends 100 acres of cotton up to picking time. This means greater production per man at a cheaper cost per pound. These cheaper western costs have lowered the average production cost in the United States.

It is a matter of record that the average cost per pound in the Southeast, where small farms are the rule, is 5 cents more than the average for the United States. Perhaps it is even 10 cents more than the cost to the best farmers in the western belt except in years like the present when drought in the western belt reduced the yield per acre. Thus the southeastern cotton problem becomes complicated as compared with the earlier years in which nearly all of the American crop was grown east of the Mississippi River.

Southwest Profit Greater

Farmers plant of the various crops suitable to the climate, their equipment, and their knowledge, according to relative profit. If cotton brings a fair price to the Southeast, at the same time it brings a huge profit to the Southwest. What then happens to acreage in the Southwest?

But there are still more complications so far as the Southeast is concerned. Most cotton farmers everywhere borrow money on which to make the crop. In the Southeast, much of that money is borrowed from credit merchants. The average credit merchant interest rate in South Carolina is 31 per cent. Here is a production cost. Can it be reduced? So far as the pocketbook is concerned, there is no difference between a profit gained by cutting the cost of production, and the profit gained by selling at a higher rate.

Cotton sells on grade and staple. The shortest length of fiber brings the least money, other things being equal. The average in the United States of cotton of 7-8-inch staple or less is 56 per cent of the total production. In South Carolina the percentage is 62, in Georgia 72, and in Alabama 98. What can be done to raise the quality of the southeastern cotton and thereby raise the price?

Many Questions Raised

What can be done to increase the percentage of their own home living which is produced by farmers as compared to that which they buy in paper sacks and tin cans at the store? What can be done by way of growing crops other than cotton, particularly those that are consumed in the South?

Less than 50 per cent of the butter and 25 per cent of the pork eaten in the South are produced there. There are one-half as many hogs on southeastern farms this year as there were in 1920. There are only about four-fifths as many cattle as there were in 1925. The acreage of corn has dropped about 30 per cent.

In spite of the fact that cotton is planted on the best land and is given the best and most fertilizer, the boll weevil and other agencies have taken their toll, so that for the last four years the yield of cotton in South Carolina has been below the national average. For the last ten years the yield in Georgia has been below the national average, and in five of the last ten years the yield in Alabama has been below the national average.

Price Per Pound No Solution

All of these things express an agricultural problem which will never be solved solely in terms of a price received per pound of cotton. They demand the most sympathetic, intelligent, and unremitting efforts of the Federal Farm Board. They require the cooperation to a common end of the agricultural colleges, the extension divisions, teachers of vocational agriculture, general farm organizations, cooperatives, and every other interested agricultural agency in the South, including the farmer himself. Then, too, they demand the sympathetic attention and cooperation of the bankers, merchants, and business men, for prosperity in cities is wrapped up with conditions in the country. When the farmer is broke, the business man is bent.

The Federal Farm Board believes that whatever it does of a lasting nature to help remedy the complicated troubles of cotton must be based on a thorough organization of the farmers themselves. To get a fair price for cotton to flow of cotton to the markets must be controlled and the seller must be as strong as the buyer.

The principle of collective bargaining applies to every industry but agriculture. In industry and in labor both production and marketing are governed by the group mind. That is only beginning to be true in agriculture. Because production is a matter for a single farmer and his family, farmers have thought that marketing must also be. They have suffered in consequence.

Farmers Versus Buyers

What chance have 2,500,000 individual cotton farmers against 10,000 buyers of cotton? The buyers are governed by the opinion of their group, but each farmer makes up his own mind, either on the basis of his own necessities or on the basis of the gambling instinct.

The Federal Farm Board wants to see the farmers of the South combined in strong, efficient, well-manage cooperatives. Not in one state only, but in all states. Organizations may be as local as the farmers want them in all matters of membership and other local dealings, but all organizations will combine to sell the cotton in such a way that all the cotton of all the members will be fed out to te world in a single stream under central control. When that happens the seller will be bigger than the buyer and the cotton will be put where it is needed, when it is needed and in only the quantities which people will buy at a fair price.

There will be an ajustment of that price between buyer and seller, of course. The world will not take all that farmers may grow at the farmers' own price. People must have food, but if the price of clothing is too high they will wear less or wear it longer.

A good start has been made by cotton farmers in organizing for their marketing. There is a cotton cooperative today in every cotton state. Most of them are too small and do not control enough of the cotton. Most of them are selling in competition with one another, instead of all together.

Only Few Will Cooperate

For various reasons, only a small part of the farmers have been willing to cooperate in this way. The time has now come when they should all come in, and the Federal Farm board is ready to help.

The Board proposes to help the associations to serve their members better. It will help with money, as well as with influence, advice and supervision. The cooperative which borrows money from the board will naturally expect the board to follow its money, even to the extent of seeing that the business methods of the cooperative are sound and that neither extravagance, inefficiency nor waste are allowed to creep in. No cooperative marketing association can demand the loyalty of farmers unless it can do the job of selling the cotton better and more profitably than the private dealer does it. The aim of the Board with respect to cooperative marketing associations is that through them the cotton growers of the South can get for themselves a larger share of the consumer's dollar than they now get and that for the efficient farmers there shall be a fair profit in farming. That aim cannot be reached by the Board without the aid of the farmers themselves. The two must combine for the benefit of agriculture.

Looking toward the accomplishment of this job, the Board asks the aid of the cotton South.

Japs Turn Eyes To Brazil For Cotton

DIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Japanese enterprise is entering the cotton manufacturing industry in the Amazon valley, according to Irige Guchino, official of one of the largest Japanese cotton manufacturers.

The cotton of Ceara is used extensively by European mills. The Japanese plan instead to both raise cotton and manufacture it into cloth in Brazil, Guchino said.

His company also will raise and manufacture silk. The industry started several years ago in Sao Paulo with worms and mulberry shoots from Japan, and has prospered.

Can The Farm Board Do Anything For A Business That It Does Not Do For Itself, Is Question Asked

Contention Made That Our Poor Cotton Is Due Simply To Bad Farming With Deterioration Supreme

(EDITORSS NOTE: From the following article reprinted from the current issue of "The Business Week" one may gain the knowledge that business men throughout the nation have been studying the country's cotton problem.)

The cotton situation this season again puts a stiff question to those who believe that government, through Farm Boards or tariffs or otherwise, can do anything for a business that it does not do for itself.

The growing of cotton is one of the world's largest businesses. It means a billion and a half dollars to this country alone, and in it, by virtue of a longstart, we still dominate the world, although cotton can be and is grown in almost every part of the world. Yet year after year one of the world's basic industries, the making of cotton textiles, is kept in a state of uncertainty and suspense regarding like all other things in which nature runs the factory, depends upon the weather and is so far beyond control. Fluctuations in the price due to this factor might be smoothed out by controlled marketing through cooperative or government action, but these changes in the total supply are not the only factor in the price and profitableness of cotton.

This year cotton is bringing less than 18c a pound. Farmers feel it ought to be higher, above 20c at least. The American crop is only slightly larger than last year's, the carryover smaller, and consumption promises to be larger than last year. The total available world's supply this season is less than in the past two years and the balance left for distribution throughout the world is over 2 per cent below last year at this time. Yet the price for American cotton remains persistently below that of the last two seasons.

Crop Size Not Criterion

This season's crop has come to market more rapidly than last year's but there is something more than the larger, immediately visible supply behind the price weakness. That is the uncertain quality of the crop. Cotton is not just cotton.

The total size of a crop is not the most important factor in the price, because the competition of other fibers is putting greater emphasis upon the quality of cotton textile fabrics in the world markets.

Indications are that the quality of American cotton has gradually deteriorated and its position in world markets is becomnig weaker on that account. In the 1928 crop more than 2 1-2 million bales were "untenderable," which means that they could be spun by somebody and were worth something, but were below the quality fixed by Congress as required for cotton submitted in fulfillment of contracts. Because of weather conditions the proportion of below standard cotton in this season's crop will probably be larger still.

Fine Staples Have Gone

Most of the long staple finer cottons in the American supply have disappeared—the old Mississipi "peelers" and "benders" as long as 20 years ago, the Sea Island crop 10 years ago and the Arizona Pima cotton since 1920. Within the past few years the Texas one and one-eighth inch cotton so much in demand in Lancashire has also practically vanished, and the bulk of the American crop today is of less than fifteen-sixteenths inch staple.

This puts our cotton increasingly in competition with the growing output of other countries, like India, who by careful cultivation have improved the quality of their product until it has become practically as good as the American and can be produced almost as cheaply.

Weevil Partly To Blame

The weevil is partly to blame, but even this factor we have not really tried to control as it must be controlled if it is to be eliminated. Not more than fie per cent of the whole cotton belt has been systematically poisoned as yet. The south still sees too much of a Providence in the weevil to be willing to tackle it seriously by universal and compulsory measures.

More serious is the fact that our poor cotton is increasingly due simply to bad farming. Much of our cotton is grown on the wrong land by the wrong people in the wrong way. Because of the so-called "half-and-half" cotton of short fiber produces more pounds to the acre than other varieties, farmers grow it as the easiest way to quick returns. Our ginning methods also result in a constant degeneration of seed through faifure to segregate and select.

Average Price Affects

The producer justifies his failure to produce better cotton by saying that present marketing methods give him no incentive. The inspirational literature of federal and state agencies urging him to improve quality has little effect because an average price is paid for cotton regardless of grade and length of staple.

It is obvious that most of these factors are problems for the cotton growing business, not accidents or injustices to be remedied only by a beneficent government or Providence. They must be met by intelligent, concerted action by those in the business if we are to meet increasing competition of other countries and retain our leadership on a basis profitable to the producer. Other countries will buy their cotton where they can get what they want most cheaply.

Cotton, like anything else, will never bring more than it is worth to those who use it. The cotton cooperatives have been and are now interested chiefly in getting a better price for cotton, regardless of its quality, but regulating the volume marketed. It remains to be seen whether they will be as much interested in producing a better product and grading and marketing it so that it commands a better price because it is a better product.

Spur Creamery Is Making A Record

SPUR, Nov. 9.—The Spur Creamery has scored another high record for sweet cream butter, scoring third in Texas with a grade of 92. This sweet cream butter plant, with its high quality product, has meant much to the dairy industry and is shaping a balanced farm program for the farmers of the Spur country.

Through the co-operation of the business men of Spur this trade territory is gradually changing from a one-crop farming district to one of strict diversification.

Wall Street loses the investor fifty million per minute, your loss is Wall's Street's gain. Think it over, dear reader. Real estate is the foundation and basis of all wealth. The home owner is the backbone of America when you invest your money in a home you are not taking a shot at the moon with a small chance at fabulous returns. The equity in a Brick Home represents a real sound value that you can see and enjoy.
While the margin in a Blarish Stock Market represents only a paper profit that can be wiped out in a minute. A Home is a Joy forever. We have a new model brick veneer home for sale on a corner lot 105 feet wide. Priced for less than you can build it and we are giving you the lot.

Self-Financing Boys Dormitories Are Proposed

AUSTIN, Nov. 9 (AP)—Regents of the University of Texas today considered offers of three firms to build seven self-financing boys dormitories. They planned to renew consideration of the proposals tomorrow.

The board received an offer of a loan of $500,000 from the state public school fund, available in January, to speed construction of new university buildings.

On sugestion of th trustees of the George W. Littlefield $400,000 memorial foundation the regents voted to change the proposed location of the monument so as to allow adequate room for it. The foundation will be located on the extreme east edge of the campus.

The board approved the allotment of the university's share of funds for construction of the women's activities building and the student union building.

Cotton Market Is Quiet But Erratic

Prices Ease Off On Liquidations, Southern Selling

Market Opening Is Steady At Decline Of From Two To Seven Points Due To Liverpool Influence

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today with prices easing off under week-end liquidation and some further selling by the South. No fresh news factor of importance was mentioned in explanation of the decline which carried the price of January contracts off to 17.38, or 11 points net lower, but except for trade buying and covering very little demand was evidence. January closed at 17.40 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 9 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 7 points under selling which was probably influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables. The initial offerings were quite readily absorbed by trade buying and covering and prices worked up a few points.

Prices soon turned easier again with December selling off to 17.25 and March to 17.67 in the later trading, or about 11 to 13 points net lwoer. The Southern selling was not heavy but there was some liquidation or reselling by local buyers. Closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest.

Intention to marry has been filed in the county clerk's office by Hilton Cross, of this city, and Miss Annie Heleman, of Rotan.

Cattle Trade Marked By Considerable Uneveness Around Livestock Circuits

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was marked by considerable uneveness. Prices on Monday were firm to higher but later trade was dull with yearlings the only class to find a dependable outlet. Light yearlings and the better long yearlings closed this week steady to slightly higher. Most of the matured steers showed losses of 25 a 50c. Low grade slaughter cows at several markets sagged to the lowest level of the season. A lower undertone also on replacement stock, with some points reporting losses of 25 a 50c. Kansas City had a liberal run of stock valves and prices tumbled 50c a $1.00. Aggregate receipts 273,000 as compared with 315,631 last week and 206,821 the corresponding period a year ago.

Hog Prices Lower

Hog prices mid-week were materially lower, but gains on late sessions left current rates generally steady to 15c under a week ago. Weighty butchers were comparatively scarce and moved to the best advantage. St. Louis had a closing of $8.80. Total offerings 454,000 an increase of 29,000 over last week and 21,000 more than a year ago.

The sheep supply fas 307,600 against 421,003 last week and 291,260 a year ago. A few markets closed the week lower on fat lambs, but most centers were on a steady to strong basis, aged stock ruled unevenly steady to 25c higher, the movement of fat range lambs has been almost completed.

Prices Fluctuate In Narrow Range After Early Rise

Market Eases Off In Sympathy With New York And Lack Of Support; Rally Seen In Finals

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9. (AP) — Cotton was quiet but erratic in today's short session and prices fluctuated within a comparatively narrow range. Following an opening advance, the market eased off in sympathy with New York and lack of support here and, although there was a moderate rally in final trading at 17.45, eased off to 17.32 and closed at 17.37, or 5 points net down. The general market closed steady at net losses of 5 to 8 points.

Although Liverpool cables were easier the market here opened steady. First trades showed gains of 1 to 5 points with December selling for 17.35 but as the New York market opened lower, sympathetic selling was encountered here. The offerings developed a lack of sustaining support and by the end of the first hour prices receded to 17.27 fro December, 17.29 for January and 17.67 for March, 93 to 6 points down.

Increase Sought By Wheat Traders

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. (AP) — Wheat traders strivitg for higher prices had a Robinson Crusoe time of it today. Hopes that export business would develop were dashed again, notwithstanding that Liverpool and Chicago markets today were at more than an export difference for standard grades both of United States and Canadian wheat. Meanwhile, predictions were current that Chicago deliveries on December wheat in elevators here being upward of 29,000,000 bushels and No. 2 hard wheat now waiting on railroad tracks in Chicago freight yards selling at a decided discount under December.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 5-8 to 1 1-8c a bushel below yesterday's finish. Corn closed 7-8 to 1 5-8c down oats 1-2 to 5-8c off and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7c.

Bombing Story

trial, said today that he believed absolutely in Mooney's and Billings' innocence and knew, now, that conviction was based on perjured testimony. As to the proability of Lewis being here and throwing the bomb officials declined to speculate, pending investigation.

BELLAIRE, O., Nov. 9.(AP)—With three persons corroborating the alleged six-year-old death bed confession of Lewis Smith that he was responsible for the San Francisco preparedness day bomb cutrage of 1916, when 10 persons met death, interest tonight centered in the whereabouts of Frank O. Stevens, an inmate of the National Military Home at Dayton, O., and one of those who claim to have heard the death bed statement.

Stevens left Bellaire today accompanied by a man who identified himself as a "Cincinnati newspaper reporter." They were said to be enroute to that city by automobile, but efforts to trace them failed.

A dramatic scene occured during the day in a cabin in the hills of Belmont county when Stevens faced Mrs. Dora Monroe Wegee, sister of Smith, who first announced that her brother had confessed to the bomb killings for which Thomas Mooney is serving a life term in California. As Stevens entered the door Mrs. Wegee denounced him, shouting "I have violated my dead brother's confidence." She claimed that she had been led to believe Stevens was dead, and that she would not have announced the confession had she known he was alive. The woman fainted and when revived, she forcibly ejected the newspaper men from her cabin.

Stevens, Mrs. Wegee and the latter's son, Ott, all told the same story, about the death bed confession—that Smith told them he and not Mooney planted the bomb which resulted in half score deaths and two score maimed.

ce. He rejected a motion for a new trial. He dismissed a motion for probation. Then he pronounced sentence, taking no regard of the recommendation of clemency made by the jury as it convicted the vaudeville king.

The defense gave oral notice of appeal—the last impediment available in this court to aid Pantages' fight for freedom. Today's appearance ended for a time the courtroom scene of the Pantages family. Mrs. Pantages yesterday was granted probation for ten years from the conviction of manslaughter for the death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener, in an automobile collision last June. Mrs. Pantages paid $78,500 to Rukumoto's family and several friends riding in the gardener's car.

Mrs. Pantages is ill, and before her husband left the courtroom today he was granted a final request—that he be permitted to see her.

Texas Women Aid State Wage Fight

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 9. (AP)—The cooperation of the Texas League of Women voters in a statewide campaign for the equalization of women's wages may be asked by Mrs. J. M. Griswold of San Antonio, republican national committeewoman of Texas.

Mrs. Griswold, here recently to address the League, said if the fight for better feminine wages in San Antonio is won she will try to get the league generally to take it up.

She felt optimism, too, in the prospects of the Pan American Round Table, which she founded. "The organization," Mrs. Griswold declared, "will expand to include the whole of the Western hemisphere because when the women of different countries understand each other, the men can't misunderstand.

Discussing women in politics, she declared she knew of few who had succeeded, adding "I think the cause of this is that men patronize rather than recognize women in politics. Women must be well informed on local, state, national and international affairs before they can hope to be a success in politics.

ARMISTICE DAY

The activity of our nation is suspended for a moment today in remembrance of the lull that suddenly fell over the crimson chaos of France eleven years ago. Surrounded by the sweet joys of peace, we meditate on the devotion to duty that swept away youth's right to live and broke the hearts of old age. May we humbly justify that devotion by a reverence for the ideals in which it originated.

Artists Like New Silhouette; Feminists Deplore It

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Paris exclaims admiringly over the graceful curves of the new long-skirted silhouette. But America has discovered that the new styles have more angles than curves.

It took Americans some time to realize that a radical change in woman's dress had taken place and that new models, arriving from the other side, might have more than a style effect on this country.

Opinions fill the air. There is no apathetic middle ground. Long skirts, some notables declare, are likely to affect everything in America—from morals to the English language. Artists, doctors, preachers, movie queens, musicians, couturiers, labor experts and college deans all join the verbal fray. Each views the change in styles, naturally, from his particular angle of life. Women's clubs are discussing a possible stand. Long skirts may be that "cause" for which blase America has been waiting!

Slow Up Progress

The first concerted action against the new long skirts comes from the New York Y. W. C. A. This organization terms them "unsuited to the busy life of today, incompatible with the pursuits of the American woman."

Mary Garden is militant. "Let others drag their skirts on the ground if they will. But not I."

Lady Mendl (Elsie de Wolfe) famous of the best-dressed woman of two continents, put her veto on trailing draperies after experimenting with them.

"A few inches below the knee is a lovely, graceful length," is her opinion. "Long daytime things are bad taste, out of place for street wear. Longer skirts for evening are charming provided they are short in front."

Curb to Freedom

Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard College is more emphatic.

"They are unhygienic. They get soiled, splattered and bedraggled," she declared. "They mean restraint, less freedom of physical action, less freedom of physical action, less exercise and consequently poorer health in an era when women are becoming as athletic and healthy as men."

Charles Dana Gibson, creator of the "Gibson Girl" lines up on the other side, approving long skirts as "artistic, feminine, a return to the womanly woman." He feels it is a natural cycle that gives women back the grace of yesteryear, that they are an aesthetic triumph.

Neysa McMein, highest paid woman artist in the United States, thinks long skirts "grand." They make a woman look entirely different from last year, give her a 'variety' appeal, endow her with a changed character," Miss McMein stated.

But she is not so enthusiastic about the new off-the-face hats.

"No one can wear them but Greta Garbo," Miss McMein said. "In themselves, they are beautiful and artistic. But almost no woman can wear them."

Dr. John B. Watson, behaviorist psychologist, has two objections to short skirts. First, they have less sex appeal. Second, they may increase accidents.

"While there is considerable to be said for the appeal of half-concealing, half-revealing styles, the lack of sex appeal in longer skirts comes from the fact that they reveal the ugliness, by ruining the contour of the leg.

"I do not think the number of marriages will be lessened. It will merely bring uphappiness to men, who got pleasure from the sight of beautiful legs."

Changes Dancing Habits

Nell Swartz, labor expert in the Woman's Department of the N. Y. State Department of Labor, characterizes her objection to longer skirts by saying "They are an industrial hazard."

Leo Reisman, conductor of the orchestra at the smart Central Park Casino, welcomes long skirts because of their effect on music.

"The short skirt encouraged the effect of noise, of furious, wild exhilaration. Dance music reacted noisy traps and effects rather than with true music. The trailing gowns this autumn introduce romance and glamor—and music responds. Orchestras play more dreamy, wooing, sentimental waltzes."

Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, editor of the Junior League Magazine, likes long skirts for evenings, thinks no well-bred girl would wear them for work or sports, but fears the effect the new style might have on today's young women.

"I think the youth of America has made a distinct contribution. I have an idea the new modes may repress her a little, make her lose some of her spontaneous originality. I wonder if styles may not even affect the language she uses. She has enriched the language. I hope they do not standardize her too much."

Rudy Likes 'Em Tight

Gloria Swanson, who wore long skirts when all the world wore short feels a personal triumph in the new modes.

"They are enchanting. They endow women with glamor and romance. They make individuality possible."

Rudy Vallee, crooning idol of ladies old and young likes skirts long and what is more, he likes them tight:

"I like form-fitting gowns, those that seem to be all of one piece and sort of wind around.

"If a woman has a beautiful figure she should show it. The new clothes make women look dignified and graceful. Perhaps they do make them look older. But I like that. I never was interested in flappers."

Home Demonstration Agent Gives Report Of Canning In Lubbock County

After scanning the returns of 50 questionnaires recently mailed to Lubbock county home demonstration women, Miss Louise Baird, home demonstration agent, has prepared a summary report of information received and a brief dicussion on the subject, "Canning in Relation to Nutrition Problems."

"Although the canning report is better than the report of last year," she states, "it shows that more work will have to be done in making budgets and canning according to a plan. This work will be continued in the 1930 program."

The statistics show that 22 have made a canning budget and that 10 have partially or fully completed this budget since the beginning of a health campaign in June. They show, further, that 3,438 quarts of fruit, 2,925 containers of vegetables, 339 containers of meat, 934 quarts of pickles and 934 quarts of preserves have been canned.

Twenty-eight women out of the 50 who received questionnaires can in both glass and tin. According to the report, the 50 women planned to can at least 2,204 more containers before the first of the year.

Some of the best work along this line in the county was done by Mrs. E. R. Slater of the McClung club. She has canned 300 quarts of fruit, 200 cans of vegetables, 45 quarts of pickles and relishes, 84 containers of preserves and jellies, and 50 cans of greens.

Mrs. C. F. Hodges of the Hardy club has canned 70 quarts of fruit, 204 cans of vegetables, 74 quarts of pickles, preserves and jellies, and plans to can at least 100 cans of meat. Mrs. Hodges canned these vegetables from a good production garden, which included 28 different vegetables. "I intend to plant some winter spinach as soon as I can get the seed," she stated. "I want some green vegetables to supplement those I have canned."

Miss Zelda Parkhill of the New Hope club reports that her family has canned 475 quarts of fruit, 100 quarts of vegetables, and 19 cans of other foods. She also plans to can meat.

Aside from this canning to insure vegetables for winter use, the clubs have made a special effort to get their members to plant spinach and other green vegetables.

The Acuff club has ordered a large supply of health literature and posters and presented them to the school teachers for class use.

The Becton club has a community health program arranged and will present it at their community auditorium November 21. Similar programs will be presented by other clubs in the near future.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

A poet once called the eyes that, and it is very true that they, more than any other feature of the face, reveal a woman's real self. There is nothing more charming than a pair of clear feminine eyes, which look straight out into the world—happy and unafraid. Unfortunately, however, inner happiness is not the only factor responsible for the beauty of the eyes.

A summer in the glaring rays of the sun will inevitably leave a trail of tiny crowsfeet around them, and give to the pupils a strained, unnatural expression. When the skin has taken on the deep rue of sun tan, the eyes usually lose some of their appearance of brilliancy by contrast. There is, of course, special eye care which can eliminate all these problems.

First, there is the eye bath, a delightful and refreshing routine which will remove even the tiniest particle of dust and leave the eyes clear and bright. Nourishing cream, patted around the eyes where the crowsfeet are wont to form, will keep the skin soft, smooth and free from lines. Before going out into the sun you would do well to pat some protective foundation cream around your eyes before applying your powder. This is the ounce of prevention that is worth a pound of cure.

Of course, the correct make-up touches can enhance the charm of the eyes unbelievably. An important thing to remember is to brush away any particles of powder which may cling to your lashes and brows. Then apply a little eyelash and eyebrow grower. This not only stimulates growth, but gives the eyes a distinctive, well-groomed appearance.

Most of you will find that the correct make-up, discreetly applied, will help the eyes compete with the exotic coloring of the skin which you have brought back from your favorite resort.

Club Socials Are Features In South Plains Activities

Dallas Visitors Honored In Snyder; Plainview Couple Married Friday In Clovis, New Mexico

No unusual events took place in cities over the South Plains during the past week. It was a time of little social activity other than regular clubs meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Surginer and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Welborn were joint hosts and hostesses to the Sans Souci bridge club and other guests at a lovely party given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Surginer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carr Surginer.

Nine tables of bridge were in play. Tables were arranged for the games with orange and black covers and refreshments were in keeping with the color scheme.

Complimenting Col. and Mrs. W. E. Easterwood, jr., of Dallas, who have been visitors in Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Anderson delightfully entertained Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock with a buffet supper. Guests were Judge and Mrs. Fritz R. Smith, Judge and Mrs. J. M. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Thrane, and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Smith.

Twenty-eight members were in attendance at a meeting of the Business and Professional women's club of Snyder which met at the Chamber of Commerce office.

A patriotic program in observance of Armistice day was carried out.

PLAINVIEW COUPLE WED

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary B. Ripley and J. E. Watson of Plainview, which took place Friday at Clovis, New Mexico, with the Rev. Joshue Jones officiating.

P.-T. A. CONVENTION

'Worthy Home Membership' To Be Studied

Plans are well under way for the twenty-first annual convention of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations which will be held in Waco November 18-21.

The theme of the conference is to be "Worthy Home Membership" and indications are that there will be a large attendance, according to Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, president of the Congress.

Speakers for the general convention include Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, National president; Ex-governor Pat M. Neff, Governor Dan Moody; Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, University of Cincinnati; Wiley Swift, New York City; L. H. Hubbard, president of C. I. A.; Dean L. L. Leftwich, T. C. U.; Eswald Pettet, district representative playground recreation association of America; T. H. Shelby, University of Texas; C. M. Rosenquist, University of Texas; S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, and others.

Mrs. W. W. Royalty has been named as delegate from the City council of P.-T. associations of this city.

The WOMAN'S DAY

There are the days when everyone brings forth a theory to keep the institution of marriage from going on the rocks. The latest to come to my attention is the idea of "family marriages," as opposed to "companionate marriages."

The companionate marriage, as I understand it, agrees to be childless for a certain period, until there is reason to believe that the marriage will "take."

The "family marriage," which is advocated by Margaret Sperry, author of "The Golden Wind," is entered into with the idea that there will be children, and that the children will be taken care of no matter how badly the marriage fares.

Thus Mrs. Sperry would have couples take out an insurance policy for possible children, simultaneously with the obtaining of the marriage license.

"The premium," she explained, "would be computed on the basis of the man's earning capacity, and that of the woman, if she is to work after her marriage.

"If both parties work, and in many cases women have the same earning capacity as men, there is no reason why the man should be taxed to insure the child's future while women go financially free of this responsibility.

"But the woman's greater responsibility in bearing and caring for the child in its infancy should be taken into consideration. She often has to give up her job to be a mother—men do not to become fathers. Or a woman is often obliged to be non-supporting for a year or more in becoming a mother or often she must give up her job altogether.

"In such an event, the child's future economically passes into the hands of the father, to do with as he wills.

"If he dies, runs away or loses interest, the child suffers, and the mother often has more of a burden than she can bear. The child should not be at the mercy of chance, whim or sexual maladjustment on the part of the parents."

* * *

EMOTIONS NOT INSURED

Naturally, such an arrangement can only guarantee a child's material future. There is no way of safeguarding the child of a "split" family from the emotional suffering and the spiritual needs that arise, but it is possible to insure food, shelter and some sort of education.

ARMISTICE DAY

Are You Doing Your Share?

In Flanders Field The Poppies Grow

In Flanders Field
The Poppies grow
Between the crosses
That mark our place;
And in the sky
The larks still bravely
Singing fly,
Scarce heard amidst
The guns below.

We are the dead
Short days ago we lived,
Felt the dawn,
Saw the sunset glow,
Loved and were loved,
And now we lie
In Flanders Field.

Take up our quarrel
With the foe,
To you from falling hands
We throw the Torch,
Be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith
With us who die
We shall not sleep,
Though Poppies grow
In Flanders Field.
—By Lt. Col. John McCrea.

A million hopes, a million fears, a million souls struggling in the darkness against despair. Then suddenly—the light. Such was Armistice Day; a never to be forgotten memory to the throngs who fought and to the throngs who waited news of the fight.

For us who commemorate the day there is joy in the realization that the struggle was not in vain. The great side of Right triumphed and the peace established was a lasting peace. When we stand with bared heads facing the direction of the rising sun, let us give thanks for victory.

Let us silently bless the unknown legions who have passed in last review; the gold star mothers who live on in glorified loveliness; the wounded veteran who present the most valiant picture of self sacrifice the world has ever known.

There are living heroes, too. Let us not forget them in the affairs of the day. As they walk with us in the busy enterprises of our own community. Let us pause to remember them as the protectors of our homes and fortunes. And so let us make Armistice Day a meaningful day indeed.

STATE SEAL STORY

Button On Army Coat Made Lone Star Insignia

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—A recent article in the Daily Texan, student newspaper of the University of Texas, related that the famous Lone Star insignia of the state, had its origin in a button of an army coat worn by J. P. Henderson, the state's first governor.

Soon after Texas had been admitted to the Union and while official headquarters were located at Houston in a small, bare cabin Governor Henderson, occupied with an official document, appended his signature and cast about for an appropriate seal, the story said. Nothing better offering itself, he cut a button from his army coat, stamped it on the paper, and left the imprint of a five pointed star, the article continued.

METHODIST STUDENTS

Canyon Church Reports 200 From College

CANYON, Nov. 9. (AP)—The Canyon Methodist church has in it about 200 college student members who are taking active part in one or more of the organizations of the church.

When students from away take up work in the church here, Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, the student secretary, notifies the pastor of the home church from which the student comes, thereby letting both parents and pastors know that their young people are carrying their religious education along with other phases of college life. This service is much appreciated by both parents and churches, according to letters received here.

"NO LIKE GERMAN"

Mexican Students Say It's Distasteful

GUADALAJARA, Mex., Nov. 9. (AP)—Students of the University preparatory school here have gone on strike in protest against obligatory study of German.

The big man chuckled gaily and when about a mile had gone, the Tinies felt the dinner pail quickly, with a jerk. "I hope it doesn't let us drop. I wonder what made him stop," said a "May be he has reached his place of daily work.

"Now, all be quiet and I'll peek. He'll leave us at the earth to speak. I'm going to [illegible] lid up enough so I can see. Be danger-ous of course but I have really brave enough to try. If I go sailing from sure glad you'll know we spotted me."

The others then kept very still. While Scotty's actions brought a thrill. He very slowly lifted up the little bucket lid. The big man stood there looking 'round, and as he sat down on the ground, brave Scotty pulled his head back and said, "I'm a lucky kid.

"He didn't look my way at all. Gee, he is big and fat and tall. He just sat down to rest, I guess. Perhaps he'll snooze a bit. I'll upon peek out again to see. The rest of you just wait for me to tell you when to jump out. I will know when time is fit."

Again brave Scotty took a peek. He was so scared he couldn't speak. He saw the big man move slowly toward the bucket lid. He ducked back quick and told the bunch, "Be quiet now. I have a hunch he's going to take this lid off." And that's what the big man did.

Real suddenly a flash of light streaked in upon each Tiny mite. "Now, jump, and run," cried Scotty. "Do not stop to look around." It didn't take them long to scale the sides and jump out of the pail. The big man was so startled that he raced across the ground.

(The Tinies have another feed in the next story.)

ARMISTICE DAY

Hallowed fields, imperishable of memory, have been rich with wheat these eleven years. Red poppies carpet hillsides beneath which old passions sleep forever. A new generation is growing up, schooled in the arts of Peace. The world forgets and it is well that it is so.

But always at the Eleventh Hour on the Eleventh Day of the Eleventh Month .... like the mists of the dawn .... the shadowy legions march. They are the Hosts of Memory. Out of the East they come in unnumbered thousands. For one moment they pass in review. And in that moment, in their honor, the nation stands at salute.

Floydada Legion Plans Armistice Day Celebration

Observance Of Peace Is To Open Sunday And Keep Through Monday In Floyd County Capital

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, Nov. 9.—Armistice programs will be held in Floydada on Sunday evening as well as through the day and evening on Monday, it was announced by the McDermitt Post, American legion, following a regular meeting last week. Featuring the memorial program on Monday will be a parade in the forenoon followed by a mass meeting in the Palace theatre. Special services will be conducted for the legion boys at the Methodist church on Sunday evening with all of the churches participating.

The parade on Monday will be formed by Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the Floydada Municipal band and other civic organizations. A mass meeting immediately following the parade will be held in the theatre and the crowd will be dismissed for the Floydada-Lockney football game, played in the afternoon.

More than 100 plates are being prepared for the banquet in the basement of the Methodist church Monday evening. Members of the American legion and their friends will have charge of the program, which will be in the form of a get-together meeting and general frolic. Business firms will close either a part or all of the day for the activities.

FEW LIQUOR PEDDLERS

Hays County, Texas, Boasts Fine Record

SAN MARCOS, Nov. 9. (AP)—Hays county's liquor law violators are few, according to Sheriff George M. Allen. Only one case charging manufacturing of intoxicating liquor has come up here in district court in six years.

"Hays county's liquor law violators are few and the county will take its place with any county in the state boasting few liquor law violations," Sheriff Allen and County Attorney B. G. Neighbors said recently.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it.—I Peter 3:11.

I am a man of peace. God knows how I love peace: but I hope I shall never be such a coward as to mistake oppression for peace.—Kossuth.

"WHAT PROFITETH A MAN—?"

ANOTHER son of Billy Sunday, the well known and widely advertised evangelist, has run afoul of public morals. For the second time an offspring of the famous advocate of the sawdust trail has bounded into the limelight—this time alleged by his wife to have been occupying an apartment with another woman.

Likely a goodly portion of the world yawned when Mrs. George Sunday aired her sensational charges. A lot of people have the idea that the Rev. Mr. Sunday has been paying more attention to other people's business than he has his own—and for a good many years.

Of course the evangelist is not to blame for what his sons do—at least not directly. But in the Book upon which Mr. Sunday is supposed to base his sermons, there is a passage which he might do well to ponder over. It goes something like this: "What profiteth a man if he gain the whole world, yet loses his own soul?" And it might be twisted a little to fit the occasion, as "What does a man get out of life, though he save a hundred thousand sinners, yet at the same time sees his own son go by the boards?"

We have often noticed that the man who goes out of his way to accomplish a purpose when he might have accomplished the same thing closer to home often loses out in the end. Perhaps the case of Billy Sunday and his son might be taken as examples.

DICTATORS ON DECLINE

Still to be heard on occasion is the taunt about the war that was to make the world safe for democracy. Three years ago people who once cherished great hopes for democracy could only listen and hang their heads. Today they are in much better position. They may now quietly observe that, as a matter of fact, the war did make the world safer for democracy.

Three years ago there were not only Russia, Italy and Spain lined up against popular government, but elsewhere in Europe timid folk saw democracy on the decline. The future of the German republic was regarded as precarious. In France financial chaos and party deadlock were supposed to be wedging the way for the Man on Horseback. Not even England was secure. The general strike, it was held, could be countered only by the fascist method.

Today the novelty of the dictatorship fad has worn off. The truth has won recognition that democratic nations have made easily as good a record in the reestablishment of economic and political order as have the dictated nations. The number of people living under republican institutions has enormously increased since the war.

There is today much less confident assertion than three years ago that Mussolini, Stalin and Primo De Rivera are offering something rich in promise for the future of nations. For that matter, the assertion was often more than a bit forced.

WAR AND HISTORY

Dr. Edward P. Cheney, professor of history in the University of Pennsylvania, remarked the other day in the course of an address to women that the time had come when teachers should tell the truth about war. He said that the feeling most frequently aroused in the mind of the modern historian as he reads state papers of the past is one of surprise and shock at the inadequate and often unworthy causes of most wars.

Wars have not been started by the people, said he, but by a small group of leaders, and the war spirit had to be aroused after war is declared. How that was aroused during the last war by all sorts of propaganda is well known to those who have read the confessions of those engaged in the work. One of the most devastating arraignments of the propagandists was made by the late F. C. Montague, of the Manchester Guardian, in "Disenchantment," in the course of which he charged his British fellow citizens with deliberate lying and misrepresentation about the enemy in order to keep alive the fighting spirit. His charges are admitted.

The writers of textbooks are already beginning to do what Dr. Cheny thinks they should do, for it is noteworthy that men on horseback are seldom used as the frontispieces of histories, and less space is devoted to wars than formerly. As history used to be devoted to wars to the exclusion of almost everything else, some one said that the nation with no history—that is no wars—was blessed. But we are getting a new kind of history.

MORE LEISURE FOR ALL

Aristotle said that the right use of leisure should be the chief end of education. He was, however, thinking only of the leisure class in ancient Greece—workingmen being virtually slaves without leisure and without education.

In America today there is no leisure class of any appreciable size or influence. Everyone has some leisure, voluntary or enforced, with a prospect of even greater leisure as man's command over the forces of nature and his skill in making them minister to him results in increased productivity.

Labor, individually and collectively, is more concerned today than ever with what it shall do with the increasing residue of time that is left every day and week after hours of labor have been subtracted.

Whether the increased wealth of spare time is to be a blessing or a bane obviously depends upon the use to which it is put. Labor and leisure should not be competitive but complementary.

Ovid believed that "leisure nourishes the body and the mind also is fed thereby; on the other hand immoderate labor exhausts both." But he knew how to use leisure profitably.

It is to be hoped that when the six or four-hour working day and the five-day working week are universal society will not have cause to remember the words of Seneca, "nothing is so certain as that the vices of leisure are dispersed by occupation." There was King Shalmaneser, IV of Nineveh, who found leisure the cause of so much mischief among his fellow subjects that between quitting time and starting time at the quarries, mines, fields and public improvement operations they were locked within their own homes.

NEBRASKA'S 1930 SENATORIAL FIGHT PROMISES SIGNIFICANCE NATIONALLY

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Nebraska's next year's senatorial fight is likely to be nationally important.

For that matter, of course all fights for United States senate seats are nationally important, considering that the senate makes laws for the whole country. The Pembina North Dakotan makes a big mistake, who fancies that it is no skin off his nose how Brownsville, Tex., votes for either house of congress.

However, Nebraska promises to be pivotal (as politicians express it) in 1930.

* * *

Senator George W. Norris undoubtedly will be a candidate, first for a renomination, and then for re-election, next year; and every stand pat individual, and every stand pat interest in America, will be out to beat him, if it can possibly be done.

Nebraskans will do the voting—at the primary, in the spring; subsequently, if Uncle George is renominated, at the election, in the fall.

But they will do it under a barrage from every Tory battery in the land, so directed as to keep a regular hail-storm of conservative scrap iron descending—hard, fast and incessantly—on the Cornhusker state throughout the campaign.

* * *

Uncle George Norris did not want to run for senator again in 1924. Officeholders often say that, without meaning it, but Uncle George was in earnest. He wanted to run for governor instead.

He was drafted for another term in the senate against his will, as truly as any reluctant young conscript ever was dragged away to the war.

He made no canvass. He did no spellbinding. He issued no statements. He appealed to no one. He promised nothing. He spent (if I remember rightly) 25 cents. And he was re-elected hands down.

* * *

My impression is that the old warhorse still wants to be governor. He probably never will get to be, if he serves six more years in the senate, because then he will be 74—pretty well along in life to remodel the state government, as he is ambitious to do.

Just the same, I do not see how he can avoid doing his utmost to stay where he is.

It will be put up to him as his duty—and the faintest echo of a call to duty falls on Senator George W. Norris ear with all the loud, compelling insistence of a clanging gong.

Furthermore, this time I think Uncle George will hump himself, for 1930 may not be a walkover like 1924.

The stand patters did not approve of Uncle George even in 1924, but the few things he had done to their plans, up to and including that year, were as a mote in comparison with a steel girder, alongside what he has done to them since.

I doubt whether Uncle George greatly cares about his scalp for itself alone, but in this instance (if he runs in 1930) it will be involved with his "cause"—and for that Uncle George will fight to the last drop of his blood.

Consider—

Stand patism believed itself in complete control of the machinery of government when last November's electoral victors came into office in March of this year.

The White House!

The Senate!—by what appeared to be a clear majority of at least a dozen; ample, in a body of only 96 members.

The house of representatives!—by a margin of more than 100.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Medical Adviser for Central Press and The Avalanche-Journal.

SIZE OF HEAD IS ALSO DECREASED AS OVERWEIGHTER REMOVES POUNDS

Petersizing

"Dear Dr. Peters: I can't tell you how well I think of you and your method of dieting—so sane and so effective. Actually I sing your praise to everybody who is kind enough to notice that my size has diminished. When I began to Petersize, I weighed 230 (shameful!) and now I am down to 210; or was two weeks ago, the last time I weighed. I feel fine. Never had a bit of headache or constipation (Wish I had done this six years ago.) Am going down over my whole body, and, believe it or not, my head size is smaller! My afm is 165—my height is five feet eight and one-half inches. MRS. F."

Twenty pounds, as compared to the 50 and 100 pounds that are lost by so many of the followers, doesn't seem so much, does it? But in reality, it is a good deal. Think of the size of a 20-pound baby, and it will make you realize how much it is.

Yes, your head size will go down; so will your foot size at at least the foot width will go down.

Write us again when you have lost 25 pounds more, will you, Mrs. F?

The pamphlet on Reducing and Gaining which Mrs. F. used can be obtained by following the column rules.

Dear Mrs. S.—There is no home medication that I know of that offers any hope in breaking up the drinking habit. The only think you can do is to see that your husband's home surroundings are happy and healthful. Be especially sure that his diet is right for a craving for alcohol is a depraved appetite and not infrequently depraved appetites are due to prolonged wrong diets, especially those that are deficient in vitamins.

Not long ago I ran a letter from a young man who signed himself "Ex-Tank," who said he found that tomato juice taken whenever he felt the longing for alcohol seemed to allay the desire. This may be due to the fact that tomatoes are high in vitamins and perhaps supplied a deficiency he had.

Of course, there are other factors besides deficient diets in alcoholism and drug addiction. There is certainly a weakness of the moral fibre which requires a firm guidance and perhaps supervision, as well as gentleness and tact. There may be a psychological factor involved—some psychic injury of childhood days, perhaps that helps cause this weakening, so the guidance of an expert psychiatrist would be helpful.

The best thing I can suggest for you, Mrs. S., is to see if you can't get your husband into a modern institute devoted to the cure of alcoholism and drug addiction, for in these places they take all these factors into account and treat the patient from all angles.

If you don't know of any such institutions, ring up your county medical society.

* * *

Mrs. S.—See a physician about your breasts. That discharge is not normal. From your description, it may be a simple abscess which will clear up when it is drained. But you should see your physician! A woman should never allow any abnormal condition of the breasts to go on, because the breast is so frequently the seat of cancerous changes, especially after 40 years of age.

If you are interested in literature on cancer write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43d street, New York City.

The Great Tornado of 1929

On the Fence with The Seer

The Seer has a strong regard for the law and its usefulness to society but he believes that criminals should be punished in accordance with the seriousness of their crime—the greater per cent of the offenders are punished by these standards of justice, only occasionally is there an exception. The Seer sometimes wonders if the Tulsa judge who sentenced a man to the penitentiary for life for the theft of $1.15 worth of gasoline can sleep at night, or can one who seems to be void of the facilities of kindness, sympathy and justice register such a peaceful attitude? Such measures should not be meted out from our benches of justice. It is not Justice!

Did you know that radium was discovered by Professor and Madame Curie in 1898—that this simple substance or element has undetermined possibilities in the medical field for battling cancer, goiter, and other serious diseases — that it is valued at $3,407,000 an ounce—that it is 100 times more precious than diamonds—that the United States now furnishes practically all the world's supply of radium from ores mined in Colorado and Utah—that a laboratory at Denver furnishes this supply—that the greatest output of this magic substance is one ounce a year?

The soil of Spitzbergen has been found to be frozen to a depth of 1000 feet. In summer the surface thaws to a depth of about two feet.

Today's Poem

LOVE IN THE WINDS

When I am standing on a mountain crest,
Or hold the tiller in the dashing spray,
My love of you leaps foaming in my breast,
My heart bounds with the horses of the sea,
Flaunts in the teeth of tempest the large glee
Ho, love, I laugh aloud for love of you,
—Richard Hovey (1864-1900)

Houston Policemen To Pack Peculiar Arsenals

HOUSTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—If a storm of shotgun slugs comes out of the mouth of a "fountain pen" in the hands of a Houston policeman some day soon, it won't be so strange.

Chief of Police C. W. McPhail has revealed his intention of buying some such lethal pens, along with hand grenades, gas bombs and billies convertible, in a split second, to gas guns. The police arsenal, he believes, needs strengthening. Only the approval of the city business manager is needed to complete the transaction.

The chief proposes also to equip his men with satchels equipped to release tear gas when dropped and with other "billies" firing a 12-gauge shotgun shell.

EXAMS FOR MARRIAGE

Free Physical Examinations Are Planned

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9. (AP)—A public office for free physical examination of persons contemplating matrimony would be established here if the health department adopted a suggestion by Dr. Ramon Carranca y Trujillo, of Merida.

The suggestion, embodied in a report to the convention of medical societies held recently in Puebla, has been presented to the department for study. It provides that after successful pre-nuptial examination the matrimonial prospects be given certificates qualifying them for marriage.

TO FEED BABY BEEF

Vocational Aggie Students Are Doing This

COLORADO, Nov. 9. (AP)—More than 30 baby beef calves will be fed here this winter by members of the Colorado high school vocational agriculture class under the direction of Doyle Williams, instructor.

All the boys are required to take some kind of a project in connection with their class work and a large number of them will feed calves while others will take poultry, dairy or crop projects.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BONNIE DUNDEE is a young detective under LIEUTENANT STRAWN of the homicide squad of Hamilton. He takes a room incognito at MRS. RHODES' boarding house to be near a MRS. EMMA HOGARTH, who writes the police for protection of her life and money, throwing suspicion on EMIL SEVIER, a former boarder. Dundee meets MR. and MRS. SHARP, DAISY SHEPHERD, saleswoman; WALTER STYLES, proprietor for a small haberdashery; NORA PAIGE, his fiancee; BERT MAGNUS, an amateur scenario writer; CORA BARKER, theater pianist; HENRY DOWD, a newcomer out of work; TILDA BROWN, new housemaid; and DUSTY RHODES, worthless husband of Mrs. Rhodes. He hears of Mrs. Hogarth's miserliness, that she is room-bound, and that she changes her will constantly to name a new favorite, Norma introduces Dundee to Mrs. Hogarth. He chats with her only a few moments, being interrupted by a stream of callers. He leaves at 11. Norma and Styles go into her room. When Dundee returns at 12.30 he finds Mrs. Hogarth choked to death, the room in disorder, with robbery the obvious motive of the crime. Police, coroner and fingerprint expert arrive. Strawn sends plainsclothesmen out to find Sevier and Dusty. He stations Dundee behind a screen in the murder room and announces he is ready to begin quizzing the boarders, all of whom may be suspects.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

"Mr. Dowd, sir," a uniformed policeman announced to Lieutenant Strawn.

"Just a minute, Boyle. Is Payne around?"

"I'm going to be questioning the boarders, Payne, and I want you to search each room while its occupant is in here with me. I've got a blanket search warrant that will cover the case technically. Do a thorough job — waste-baskets, trunks, desks, closets, everything. Use my bunch of skeleton keys. If you find anything you can't open, let me know and we'll ask the owner to produce the key. The murdered woman was robbed, apparently, if the murderer found what he was looking for. She was supposed to have a pretty big wad of cash hidden in this room, and if she did have, it's gone. Look for it. . . . Did she say anything to you about Liberty bonds, stocks or any other kind of negotiable paper, Dundee?" he called to the young detective stationed behind the wash basin screen.

"No, chief. She used the word 'money' several times, but didn't mention any stocks or bonds," Dundee answered.

With Mrs. Hogarth's tablet of cheap, lined writing paper on his knee and a pencil poised, Bonnie Dundee watched through one of the joinings of the three-panel screen as Henry Dowd was ushered into the room.

To the diffidence which had characterized this very commonplace-looking man of near middle-age when Dundee had observed him at the dinner table that evening, was now added a mild, almost apologetic mixture of apprehension and excitement. He came in dabbing at his forehead with a fresh white handkerchief, and, as Strawn addressed his first question took off his pince nez and began to polish the lenses nervously.

"Well, Dowd, you know what's happened here tonight. That's your room next door, isn't it? Did you hear or see anything tonight that might thrown light on the tragedy?" Strawn asked briskly.

The pale gray eyes blinked later, before Henry Dowd, carefully adjusted the glasses upon his nose. "No sir," he answered. "That is, nothing to speak of—"

"Well, sir, I was asleep."

"When did you go to bed?"

"About 10 o'clock, as usual. I'm not much on the social life, not a very good mixer." Henry Dowd explained carefully, and Dundee jotted his words down in a hasty shorthand of his own. 'I came up to my room about 9, after sitting on the front porch after supper—dinner, they call it here. I puttered around the room for awhile, then took a bath and went to bed. About 10, that was. I read a magazine till I fell asleep with my light burning and didn't wake up till some time later—"

"It was that bird, squawking, or at least, that's what it sounded

"No, just squawking, as if it was sore about something," Dowd answered. "I've heard it a good many times, though this is the first time I've ever laid eyes on it. I didn't hear anything else, and didn't think anything of it anyway, so I turned out my light and went right back to sleep. I was hardly what you'd call real awake — just roused up enough to realize I'd left my light on. It hangs over the head of my bed and I just reached up and turned it off. That's all I heard, sir, and I didn't see anything."

"Didn't you hear anything before you went to sleep?" Strawn probed remembering Dundee's account of Mrs. Hogarth's several visitors that evening.

"In here, you mean?" Dowd asked meticulously. "Well, I heard people laughing and talking, and I heard the parrot talking, too, but I didn't pay any attention. I was reading, and I wasn't interested anyway—"

"How well did you know Mrs. Hogarth?" Strawn demanded suddenly.

"Why, I didn't know her at all," Dowd answered. "I'd never met Mrs. Hogarth, and I only happened to see her once, going down the hall toward the bathroom. I didn't see her face then — just her back but I knew who it was, because I'd heard the folks downstairs describe her as—well, pretty fat sir."

"You also heard the folks downstairs say that Mrs. Hogarth had a lot of money hidden in her room, didn't you, Dowd?" Strawn asked levelly.

Dowd flushed, took off his glasses again and wiped them nervously before replying: "Yes, I heard something to that effect, though I wasn't interested—"

"So money doesn't interest you Dowd?" Strawn asked urbanely. "You must be quite flush yourself, then. By the way, what do you do?"

Dundee, watching intently from his hiding place, saw Henry Dowd's thin, commonplace face go suddenly very pale. The hand which dabbed the handkerchief upon his forehead, higher than nature had intended it to be, because baldness had begun to attack the limp, straight hair, shook, visibly. Dundee dropped his eyes to his notes. He had no relish for the third degree, no matter how mildly it was administered.

"What line?" Strawn snapped.

"And yet you weren't at all interested in the story of Mrs. Hogarth's hoard, hidden in the very room next to yours?" Strawn interrupted.

"No sir, I wasn't, I had my own troubles to think about—"

"Troubles?" Strawn pounced.

The harassed man went even paler. "Being out of a job in the middle of the summer, and a stranger in town," he explained with a little flash of spirit.

"By the way, Dowd, where did you come from?"

Again the handkerchief dabbed at a moist brow. There was an appreciable pause before Henry Dowd answered: "Des Moines, Iowa I — represented a small manufacturing concern, known as The Housewife's Friend Corporation. They made up a little kit of kitchen tools, including an implement that could pare potatoes and apples and cut them in fancy shapes—"

"Nowhere, now." Dowd answered wearily. "The company failed, and I was out of work for several weeks. Then I came to Hamilton, because I'd heard times were good here."

"Where did you live in Des Moines?" Strawn interrupted impatiently.

"At—at No. — Mondamin Ave," Dowd replied, with obvious reluctance.

Strawn regarded the badgered man for a long minute through narrowed eyes. Then, abruptly "You're sure you heard nothing but the squawking of the parrot, Dowd? No footsteps, no voices, no sounds of objects being thrown about?"

"Sure it was the parrot?"

"What time was this?"

"I don't know. I didn't look at my watch. As I said, I was just roused up enough to realize I'd left my light burning, and to reach up and turn it off. I was asleep again almost instantly, I guess, and didn't know anything else till a man knocked on my door ad told me to get up, that Mrs. Hogarth had been murdered."

"All right, Dowd. You'll be wanted for the inquest, of course, so don't leave Hamiltou to look elsewhere for work. Do you plan to stay on here in this house?"

"Why, yes, my board is paid up for this coming week," Dowd answered unhesitatingly. "I can't afford to lose the money, and since I didn't personally know Mrs. Hogarth—"

As Dowd left the room, Detective Payne entered. "Nothing in that bird's room, chief, that looks like a miser's hoard, and judging from his belongings — what there is of them—he's purty hard up."

"O. K., Payne. Tell Boyle to bring in the Barker woman. And be sure you make a good job of searching her room while she's in here—"

There was a knock on the door. "Come in!"

Radio Invention To Assure Greater Safety Flying

Instrument Will Guide Airplanes Through Courses

Pilots Shown Distance Of Plane From Ground By Utilizing The Echo From Motor Against Earth

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Radio is beginning to guide airplanes in their selected courses through the air as certainly and as safely as the electric signals guide and control the railway trains on their steel tracks.

Day or night, through fog or clear, pilots fly the large passenger transport planes of at least three transcontinental air lines with the assurance of security that the railway engineers have speeding along on firm ground. Whatever their height, whatever the weather or the formations of earth beneath them the pilots of the air are constantly guided by radio on a true course to their destination.

The systems of radio control today co-operate toward this assurance of air safety—radio weather reports and radio range systems. The one keeps the pilot in the air constantly informed on conditions of the atmosphere, through which he is traveling and of that into which he is heading. The other, however, is more important. It is similar to the railroad track, for along the range system does the pilot find his way.

Air Tracks Over Country

This radio range system at present is still in construction. It is complete from New York to Chicago, built up by the airways division of the United States Department of Commerce, but is fast being spread out to cover the entire transcontinental line from New York to San Francisco and then branch out along the main airmail and passenger routes to cover the entire country.

By means of the radio range system, a pilot seated in a plane equipped with the proper receiving apparatus merely traces his path along the line that is constantly being flashed in dots and dashes in the direction of his intended flight.

Let him swerve off that line of flight and he sees before him the evidence of his error in the form of a moving white band. All he has to do is turn back so as to keep that band in true center of the radio receiving apparatus, and he knows he is on the line of flight.

In Touch With Ground

Until this radio track system is completed throughout the United States, the larger transportation companies are equipping their planes and their stations along the lines with radio transmitting and receiving sets by which pilots may keep in constant touch with land. Through these instruments they hear reports of weather and landing conditions at the fields they are approaching, while they in turn report the state of their flying at regular intervals.

Except in two instances — and these are soon to be vanquished by man's ingenuity. These are flying and landing in fog, and flying over varying heights of land.

In the former instance, Major James Doolittle of the U. S. army recently demonstrated the possibilities of a practiced pilot flying and landing blind, which is similar to flying and landing in a fog. He had the latest types of radio and other instruments before him to guide him—instruments that told him almost to the foot how high he was above ground, others that guided him by radio above the landing field and still others that assured him his proper direction.

These instruments, or improvements of them, may soon be expected to appear on all transport and airmail planes—another victory for radio.

True Height Indicators

Height above ground is an important feature in flying. Heretofore, the altimeter in use has been calibrated or set to give a pilot his height not above the ground over which he happens to be flying, but above the ground where he started his flight or where the instrument originally had been fixed.

Now two types of radio height indicators which will tell the pilot his actual height above the ground directly beneath him are being developed by scientists. Dr. A. E. F. Alexanderson, chief consultant engineer for General Electric, has developed a radio altimeter which uses the echo principle of determining the height of a plane. That is, the instrument hurls out a signal toward the ground and on receiving the same signal tells, by the time intervening, just how high the airplane is.

The other instrument, instead of using its own echo, utilizes that of the motor's noise. It is the invention of Leo P. Delsasso, Los Angeles scientist, who is being supported by the Guggenheim foundation. Delsasso is seeking to combine all motor noises into one, then build a compact radio receiver to catch the echo of the one noise and determine the plane's height from the ground.

Thus, if a pilot happens to be flying toward a mountain his radio echo apparatus will immediately tell him of the receding height of the plane and he will in turn nose his plane upward and out of danger. Many fatalities have occurred from planes crashing into mountainsides, but with this apparatus such accidents will be almost entirely avoided.

Radio Artist Takes Up Jazz After His $25 Paper Accordion Is Ripped

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—An accordion, bought for $25, started Paul Specht toward musical fame until he is now one of America's leading radio entertainers, conducting a band that has played for some of Europe's rulers and more recently appeared at the inaugural ball at Washington.

This young leader—he's only 34—is at present playing in the grill of the Governor Clinton hotel here. WABC picks up his music three times a week and sends it out over the Columbia network.

But there was a time, not so very long ago, when Specht was "just another musician." It was while he was doing Chautauqua circuit work, playing classical music that he learned when a boy in Sinking Springs, Pa. One stop on the circuit happened to be Keytsville, Mo., and when the performers arrived it was raining the proverbial "pitchforks."

Plays Through Storm.

Specht was doubling on the violin and the piano accordion. The latter instrument he had picked up from a street organ grinder for $25. The outfit proceeded in the drenching rain to the tent which housed the performance.

Specht started his part of the program with a few classical selections. The accordion was something new in Keytsville and the townfolk liked it. Meanwhile the storm grew in intensity. The wind howled and shook the tent.

"There was a shriek of wind," says Specht. "The canvas around the top of the pole holding up the tent ripped off. In came the rain. I was getting wet, but kept on. The paper ends of the accordion — remember, it cost only $25—got wet and soggy. I gave a flourishing pull and there I stood, one-half of an accordion in each hand."

After that Specht got together an orchestra. His first job was at a hotel in Lafayette, Ind., near Purdue university. Students there demanded ragtime, so Specht had to play it in addition to classical music.

There were a few, however, who preferred a modified rhythm. Senator Watson, George Ade, James Whitcomb Riley and Harry Houdini had a special taste for music. The foursome took Specht under their guidance and the resulting music was what Specht claims to be the forerunner of classical jazz.

After that Specht's band became popular. It went to New York, where immediate success was scored. The leader has made several successful tours of Europe.

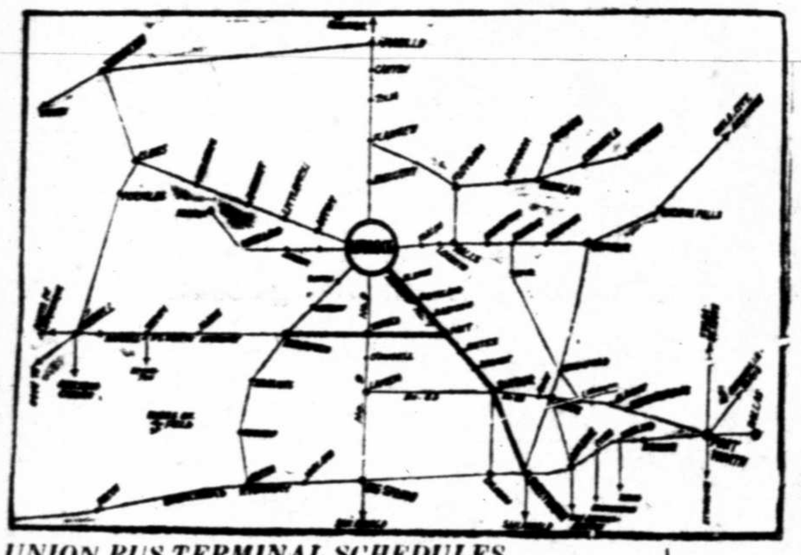

CALLS ARE NUMEROUS

College Switchboard Busy Mostly With Dates

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—More than 1,300 telephone calls are made daily over the University of Texas private branch exchange, Mrs. Edna Calhoun, University PBX operator, estimates. There are nine lines out and 121 in on the University switchboard.

Mrs. Calhoun said that dates provided the subject for most of the evening conversations and that lessons were most often discussed during the day. "Some of my most consistent patrons, however, are a number of the faculty members who always call home at noon to find out what to bring home for lunch," she added.

"Cheerio" reminds one too much of old England, but it's only a refreshing morning program that has won such recognition among shutins as to be extended to a half hour on the WEAF NBC network. The anonymous "Cheerio" reads short excerpts from great literature, pieces from old scrap books and other tidbits that bring back the glow of happiness to those who hear him.

From the cinder track to a tenor for NBC is the road Lannie Ross took to fame. He used to show his spiked shoes to many runners when he ran for the glory of Yale. But from this strenuous sport he jumped to radio and he's now starred in the NBC feature, "Tea Time Tunes." Ross sports one of the widest smiles in the NBC studios and probably the most freckles.

Comedy And Mystery Feature Week's Theater Offerings

"The Idle Rich" Starts Today At Lindsey Theatre

Conrad Nagel And Bessie Love Are Stars of Film

What might be considered one of the most experienced casts in dialogue films ever assembled was called together by William de Mille to make "The Idle Rich," his all-talking picture for Metro-Goldwin-Mayer, which opens at the Lindsey today.

Conrad Nagel, a veteran in the "talkies," plays the leading male role. Bessie Love, of "Broadway Melody" fame, and Lella Hymans, who scored in the all-talking version of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," have the leading feminine parts. The supporting players, Robert Ober James Neill, Edythe Chapman, Paul Kruger and Kenneth Gibson, are all troupers of both stage and screen.

Action In Flat

The entire action in the novel comedy, which is based on the famous stage hit, "White Collars," is laid inside a middle-class New York flat, a parlor, living room, bed room, bath and kitchen suite. The whole set occupied less than 725 square feet on one of the sound stages, where the average production demands settings that cover 125,000 square feet.

Not a single outside shot is in the entire picture, and every bit of action is carried on within the crowded walls of the little flat. Only two persons, other than principles of the cast, are to be seen.

Although jammed together in regular flat style, the rooms were "practical" in every detail. For instance, there was a kitchen range that actually cooked, a sink with running hot and cold water, a "whoosit" speaking tube and all.

William de Mille, in directing the picturization of the famous stage comedy, utilized the unique setting for the recording of novel sounds, such as slamming doors, coffee boiling over, rattle of dish washing and other sounds so familiar to the domestic ear.

Detective Story Comes This Week To Local Theatre

The Canary Murder Case Will Be At Lindsey

Mystery is stalking in "Who Killed the Canary?" is the cry of the hour. "The Canary Murder Case," one of the most baffling detective stories ever written, now made into an exciting moving picture by Paramount, will open at the Lindsey theatre Thursday for three days.

Six men are suspected of the murder of the flashing Broadway chorus queen, "The Canary." One person killed her but circumstances and motives are established during the investigation of the crime which point to each of the six men as the murderer. Then the mystery seems to clear when "The Canary's" chorus girl friend is accused of the murder, the motive established and clues uncovered to prove her connection with the murder.

Police Baffled

"Who Killed the Canary?" Police are baffled at the daring crime. Detectives scurry hither and yon, questioning, accusing, arresting. Then Philco Vance enters upon the case. Here is the amateur sleuth created by S. S. Van Dine, the famous author hiding behind a pen name, for his series of popular detective stories. Audiences at the Palace theater will have the opportunity this half of week to learn whether preview critics were correct when they said that "The Virginian" is "The Covered Wagon" of all-talking pictures. The Owen Wister classic of pioneer days on the western cattle ranges has all the ear-marks of an epic film. The manner in which it was acclaimed by previewers indicates that it will go high on the list of really greats.

The film, based on the novel by the same name which brought Owen Wister quick fame in the 80's, and which has since been termed the greatest American romance, enjoys the distinction of being the first all outdoors play to be recorded on the audible films.

But its greatest claim to all-time honors lies in its general perfection in every department. There is a great cast—Gary Cooper, Walter Huston, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Eugene Pallette, Chester Conklin, E. H. Calvert, Helen Ware—a superb group of artists who have proved their worth on the stage and the talking screen. There is masterful direction, by Victor Fleming, a genius in his art. There are gorgeous settings — the real out-of-doors of the pine-dotted cattle ranges of the Old West. There is tense drama, rich romance, rollicking humor—and the theme is one which deals with an exact chapter in American pioneer days.

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell will do "The Man Who Came Back."

Thrilling Tale Of Spies In World War Gives Fine Background To Conflict

Life Story Of Fine Woman Also Good Reading

NOT all of the world war was fought on the battlefront or on the high seas. The soldiers and sailors were not the only heroes the conflict produced; and not all the thrilling tales have to do with the combatant forces of the various warring nations.

This is made clear in one of the most interesting books of the fall—"Our Secret War," by Thomas M. Johnson, former war correspondent with the A. E. F.

In this book, published by Dobbs-Merrill and retailing at $2.50, Mr. Johnson tells of the work done by that mysterious, unpublicized branch of the American army known as G-2; the intelligence section, which had to do with spies and counter-spies, secret service, all the fascinating ways of finding out what the wily German was up to at no matter what risk of life and limb.

The bulk of this book has been given publication in the NEA Magazine, Every Week, and much interest was displayed in it at that time by newspaper readers.

Johnson says, frankly, that he doesn't tell the whole story. Much of it, probably, never will be told. Many of the men who worked for G-2 would still be in grave danger if their names were made public. Besides, as Mr. Johnson grimly adds, "some day it may have to be done again." So many of the heroes of "Our Secret War" nameless. But for all that the book is as exciting, and illuminating, as any of you are aut to pick up in the next few months.

The work performed by G-2 was nothing less than amazing. The American intelligence service did its job efficiently. It got news out of Germany in surprising style. It found out about German troop movements, German strategical plans, German political conditions very quickly. A large part of the credit for utimate victory belongs to G-2, and Mr. Johnson is out to see that G-2 gets it.

Most prize winning biographies revolve about famous names. The ordinary biography has to: Napoleon, Grant, Beethoven, Disraeli, Leonardo—these names familiar to the reader before he even opens the book, assure his earnest attention in advance.

The judges in the recent Atlantic Monthly $5,000 prize biography contest, however, had the daring to give their prize to the author of a biography about a woman who was utterly obscure; a woman whose sole claim to fame—on the surface of things, at any rate—lay in the fact that she had manged to live 100 years.

Thus we have "Grandmother Brown's Hundred Years," by Harriet Connor Brown, as the Atlantic prize biography; and if ever a biography was deserving of a wide reading this one is it.

"Grandmother Brown's Hundred Years" is the simple, unadorned tale of a woman who was born on the Ohio frontier in 1827, moved to Iowa as a young housewife before the civil war and lived in that state through the year 1927. It has no literary embellishments. Its central character was an utterly "ordinary" woman. Yet the book, to my notion, is one of the finest to be published in this country in recent years.

For Grandmother's Brown's story is more than the story of a kindly centenarian; it is the story of all humanity. The sufferings, the aspirations, the sorrows and the defeats of this pioneer's daughter were the sufferings, aspirations, sorrows and defeats of all of us. To read Grandmother Brown's story is to review the whole tragic, courageous magnificent story of human endeavor.

By all means read this book.

"The Lady Lies" Has Palace Run

Charles Ruggles In His Second All-Talkie

Upright and law-abiding persons who see and hear Charles Ruggles in his second all-talking picture, "The Lady Lies," which comes to the Palace theater for a four days run beginning on Wednesday next, and other presons who have seen him act previously may well shake their heads dolefully over Charley's career in the talkies.

First it was in Paramount's "Gentlemen of the Press" that Charley was fired from his job because he was an inveterate drunkard. Even after he lost his job Charley kept right on ploughing into the "laughing soup."

Drunk Again.

Now what about his real life record? Is he besotted and debauched?

"Never arrested yet, never picked out of the gutter, always able at least to take off my clothes and climb into 'beddy-hour' under my own power," says the virtuous Ruggles, "In fact," he adds, "if it is a press agent story, say I never drink at all."

But on the legitimate stage he is equally incorrigible. He probably got his first talking picture assignment because he earned the reputation of an old soak in the recent musical show, "Rainbow." Long before that he was coming home drunk in Al Woods' farce, "The Girl in the Limousine."

"It's no fun, this stage drunkenness," says Ruggles. "I'm afraid I'll never get a chance to do a straight part again as long as I live. I'm tagged as an alcoholic. The only way to rise, apparently, is to put on a swell case of delirum tremens."

Strange as it may seem, 'tis said here that during filming of Will Rogers' last pic he never chewed gum.

Ruth Chatterton and Fay Bainter plan to fly to New York from Hollywood together.

Conrad Nagel and Louis Wolheim will appear in "The Ship from Shanghai."

Russian Actress In Lyric Picture

"Moulin Rouge" To Start For Run Here Today

Quite appropriately does Olga Chekova take the star part in "Moulin Rouge," the long heralded E. A. Dupont production which is coming to the Palace Theatre today For no actress better typifies the merry spirit which is the night life of Paris. As the star and most beautiful of all the rare beauties that fill the famous Moulin Rouge Revue, Chekova, a headliner in Europe has a part that will instantly win American audiences.

Strong in Drama.

Critics have acclaimed the fine dramatic quality of her acting, but this is not unexpected tribute as Chekova is a graduate of that most wonderful institution of the drama the Moscow Art Theater. One can not pass lightly over the experiences she gained in the company of the peer of his craft, Moissi, and his fellow players.

With the Moscow Art Theater Chekova appeared in most of the leading cities of the continent and after leaving this organization she joined the ranks of motion picture artists. Her success in pictures has been meteoric. F. W. Murnau was quick to recognize and appreciate her diversified talents and starred her in a number of pictures. American audiences now have the privilege of seeing her in "Moulin Rouge" under the direction of Dupont, whose direction of "Variety" won much critical praise.

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

"A Good Deed"

"A GOOD DEED in a naughty world." Thus Otis Skinner, famous American interpreter of Shaksperian roles, characterizes Norman Hapgood's new book, "Why Janet Should Read Shakspere," which presents the hallowed Bard of Avon as a modern. "How could Janet help reading Shakspere and loving him, after his beauties are pointed out so vividly and strikingly," Mr. Skinner asks in a letter to the author. "You start an impulse in me to read Shakspere's plays all over again, even though I have gone through some of them many times. Your book is a good deed in a naughty world—a world that would do well to pause a while to read it."

World Citizen

Thurston McCauley, having completed his biography of a "poor Irish harper" which Century has just published under the title "Donn Byrne: Bard of Armagh," has settled down to newspaper work in London. The Macauleys (his wife is Marion Berry, actress and magazine writer) are frankly citizens of the world. They divide their time between this country and Europe, "staying in one country until overcome by postalgia for the other." Mr. Macauley is a familiar figure in the newspaper offices of Paris, London and New York. Until last spring he was a member of the staff of the New York Times.

Quite Celebrated

The world-wide experience of a fifteen-year old American adventuress has been celebrated between the covers of a new book for boys and girls published recently by The Century Co. Its title is "Sally in South Africa" and the authors are Gulielma Day Orr and Henriette Schiele. The Sally of this book is in reality Miss Marjorie Schiele, a Cincinnati school girl, who has crowded into her brief career three trips to the West Indies, seven trips to Europe including a visit to the northermost cities of the world, tours of Canada, South America, and two trips to Africa, one to the north and one to the south. The South African journey was made with her mother and grandmother, and furnished the material which was incorporated into "Sally in South Africa." Young Miss Schiele possesses a unique collection of dolls big and little, which she dresses in the native costumes which she has seen in all parts of the world.

News Events And Personal Mention About People In Neighboring South Plains Cities

BY MRS. FRANK HILL

WIDELY KNOWN SPEAKERS HERE

The most largely attended worker's conference in the history of the Brownfield Baptist association was held here Tuesday. The church building was well filled with home people and with visitors from all parts of the association and Lubbock, Slaton, Post and other places outside the association. The Brownfield Baptist association embraces Lynn, Terry, Yoakum and a part of Gaines county. There are about fifty churches within its bounds. It is believed that there were fully two hundred visitors here Tuesday.

The program was generally proclaimed to have been the best ever given at such a conference. The general theme of all the addresses and of the sermon was "Christian Citizenship."

Another distinguished feature of the conference was the fact that two Methodists had places on the program, Rev. R. T. Breedlove, pastor of the First Methodist church here, and Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college. Dr. Horn delivered one of he major addresses of the day. He discussed the duties and rights of the Christian as a citizen. He pictured two conceptions of God and brought a wonderful message.

Dr. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lubbock, brought a great sermon on Christian Citizenship.

Others on program were: Miss West of Tahoka, Mrs. A. Z. Jackson, Tahoka; M. H. Duncan, superintendent of the public schools of Lubbock. Mrs. McGahey, wife of the pastor at Wilson, brought a beautiful message in song. Mrs. Wilson of O'Donnell, wife of the O'Donnell pastor, R. E. Key of Tahoka and Rev. B. N. Shepherd, the local pastor.

JORDON-EDWARDS

A. P. Edwards, who has been a student in the University of Texas, for the past three or four years, returned to Tahoka with a bride Wednesday evening. He and Miss Nathan Jordon, of Fort Worth, also a student in the university, were married on October 18.

A. P. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Edwards and is one of Tahoka's most promising young men. The bride is unknown here but comes from one of Fort Worth's fine families.

CEMETERY ASSOCIATION IS RE-ORGANIZED

There was a meeting of the cemetery association in the county court room Wednesday afternoon, when a re-organization was effected, Judge J. W. Elliott presiding. A new constitution and by-laws was adopted these having been drafted by a committee consisting of Truett Smith and Mrs. Gladys M. Stokes.

The new constitution provides for a board of directors consisting of five members, and the share-holders present Wednesday afternoon proceeded to elect the directors, as follows: J. K. Applewhite, J. D. Donaldson, A. L. Lockwood, W. D. Nevels and Coleman Wells.

Following adjournment of the shareholders meeting the board of directors met, and W. D. Nevels was elected permanent chairman and J. D. Donaldson, secretary. Mrs. Eva Small was elected president of the Tahoka Cemetery association; Mrs. Gladys Stokes, vice-president, and S. F. (Uncle Ben) Rogers, secretary-treasurer. All of these officers are to hold their offices until November, 1930.

The directors decided to put on a membership campaign, the membership fee being $3. The money raised by this means will be used to pay off existing indebtedness and to make improvements.

YEAR CLOSED BY BREEDLOVE

Today is the last Sunday before the meeting of the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church to be held in Pampa next week, and Rev. R. T. Breedlove, the pastor, preached at the morning service, his subject being "Why I Am a Christian." Miss Lucille sang at the morning service and Miss Bessie Mae Binnion at the evening service.

Brother Breedlove states that he expects to be able to report that the church has met all financial obligations in full by the end of the conference year.

The Women's Missionary society has made $1,000 clear the two years in addition to funds they have raised and expended for local and other purposes, and they have that sum in the bank. The ladies have done a wonderful work.

It is generally expected that Rev. Breedlove will be sent back to Tahoka for another year. His work has been so satisfactory here and the church has prospered to such an extent that the membership feels that a change in the pastorage at this time would not be considered for a moment. All Tahoka will be glad to welcome him back.

RETURNED MISSIONARY SPEAKS

Dr. B. L. Lockett of Abilene, physician and surgeon, who has spent several years of his life in Liberia on the west coast of Africa as a medical missionary, spoke at the Baptist church Sunday morning concerning his work.

Dr. Lockett has been operating a hospital in connection with his religious work in the chief town of the little negro republic, Liberia, he stated, is about as large as Texas, geographically, with four times as much population. The hospital and missionary headquarters are in a town of about 85,000 population. He related some true stories concerning the people and his experiences with them which were most interesting and touching. The mission work has been prospering greatly. Dr. Lockett and Mrs. Lockett are preparing to return to Africa at an early date to resume their work among this benighted but most tractable negro population.

A collection was taken for him and the work Sunday morning.

Frank Hamer Looks For A New Field

Veteran Ranger Will Lay Aside His Guns And Take A Post Which Is Not Quite So Precarious, Rumors Say

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—"Well, I won't be happy, but there are other things——," Capt. Frank Hamer of the Texas rangers mused.

He was talking about taking one of the many "comfortable" situations that have been offered him in the 26 years he has given to his state in working up evidence in running down criminals.

He has under serious consideration acceptance of a place that will pay him much more money and afford him a less hazardous occupation.

He Is Still Young

But, Frank Hamer does not like to think about not being a Texas ranger. He is still young despite of his more than a quarter of a century service in the saddle, out of the saddle—shooting and being shot at. He has never been known to shoot except when shot at first.

This big man who has worn a six-shooter almost since he discarded his swaddling clothes and who can puncture a bull's eye without half trying is tender-hearted in spite of the many frigid hearts he has dealt with.

As a rule he runs down criminals and after he gets the goods on them he becomes an "influence." They generally trust him above everybody else and give into his keeping confidences that they know he will regard as sacred.

He Is Good Fellow

Then, after the ball is wound up and they are about to walk across the divide—into the electric chair—they send for Capt. Hamer for a last chat. Then, as a rule he obeys their last injunction of friendship:

"Frank, don't look on while they give me the juice."

Hamer has never been known to "look on," when he has been asked not to. He usually stands out in the window of the little room whence no convicted criminal returneth.

Now Captain Hamer is thinking of "other things."—Mrs. Hamer and their interesting children. He has about made up his mind to take one of these numerous "positions" offered him from many sources.

Perhaps he is thinking of that little boy of his—just now starting to school—who had his long golden curls that reached almost to his shoulders recently cut.

Needs Of Women Drivers Are Met

Engineers Being Guided By Taste And Sense Of Style Of Woman Motorists, Official Of Chrysler Says

Just as artists, designers and decorators have, for a number of years been guided by the taste and sense of style of the woman motorist, so is her influence on the mechanical details of the car being felt today in the engineering laboratories of the manufacturers.

In the evolution of the automobile, the woman was given first consideration in the choice of body lines, color treatments and inner refinements. No important step was take, in the art studios of the builder before her reaction to new styles had been determined. While this is equally true today, she, as a driver and owner, is now exerting an even greater influence on mechanical developments. Due to the ever-increasing number who drive their own cars, this influence is being felt to an extent never before thought possible and the modern car is being as much for the woman as for the man driver.

Plays Big Part.

"Women have played a big part in establishing the standards of Chrysler engineers," said J. W. Frazier, general sales manager of the Chrysler Sales corporation at Detroit, in a recent interview. "The women who drive are looked upon as important members of the advisory staff in our laboratories. Their demands for comfort and ease of handling largely influenced the mechanical design of the new "77" and "70" models, in which performance and safety are brought to new high levels.

Studebaker Company Makes Record Of Spectacle As Films Are Taken During Pike's Peak Climb

The thrilling spectacle of an automobile race high above the clouds has been recorded for the first time by Movietone cameramen in the filming of the annual Pike's Peak hill climb.

To bring the sights and sounds of America's hill climbing classic to motorists all over the country, the Studebaker corporation made a complete record of the race in which a stock President Eight set a new record of 21 minutes 43 2-5 seconds for the Labor Day climb.

Cameras Click Race

From vantage points along the 12.6 mile course, clicking cameras and their sound recording instruments caught the flying President as it roared its way to a new record up the steep grades and around the 154 turns which make the course one of the most difficult tests for car and driver in the world. There are many turns where a miscalculation in speed and handling would send car and driver hurtling down the mountain side. Often, in the film it seems as though Glen Shultz and his champion car could never negotiate the curves they faced at such speed.

High-Speed Brakes Required On Autos

Stopping a car at high speed is a different proposition from stopping quickly at moderate speeds. A brake that will do the latter may not be effective at high speeds.

Tests made on brakes at various speeds by our experimental department recently have brought to light interesting facts. Many of these are of great use in design work, but of little direct interest to the public. One fact, however, has been brought out which every motorist should know for his own safety and protection.

This point may be made clear by a concrete example: A certain car may be driven at 25 miles per hour and the brakes jammed on hard. The car may be virtually stood on end by its brakes. A fine, quick, short stop may be made with this car at that speed.

Take the same car and drive it at 65 miles per hours and the same brakes that brought it to a quick, smooth stop at 25 miles per hour may act entirely different.

Small Factories Recondition Cars

Miniature factories incorporated in the service departments of hundreds of Dodge Brothers dealers are reconditioning used cars according to standards never dreamed a few years ago. It has become a business within a business in which used cars accepted by the dealer leave his salesroom with every possible improvement in appearance and performance, and with workmanship guaranteed.

Factory processes are duplicated in reconditioning these cars so that buyers are assured of quality, fairly priced. Special paint and lacquer departments refinish the body and fenders when necessary. Separate shop divisions overhaul the mechanical equipment of the cars to insure the best possible performance.

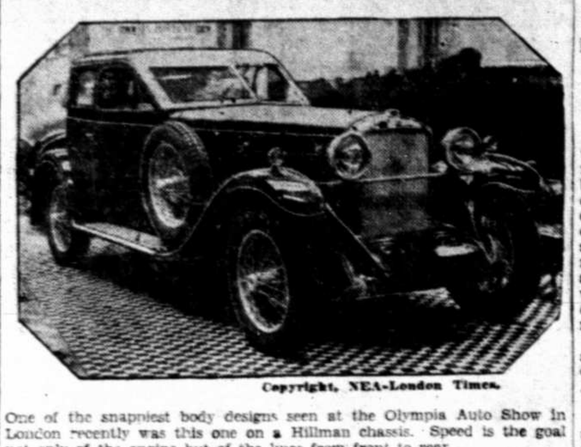

Buy Dodges Again

Because a high per centage of Dodge owners buy Dodge cars again, all employes are schooled in just what work is necessary to attain that dependable performance in used cars, and no unit is placed on the sales floor until it is carefully checked and inspected.

GRUESOME WARNING

How Is She Hittin'?

Pertinent Facts About Automobiles By Israel Klein, Science Editor For NEA Service

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Many of us so-called good drivers have come to take motoring in such a matter of course that we have innocently and unconsciously fallen into many bad and dcostly habits. These habits are usually difficult to abandon, after havnig been cultivated for bring great relief to both motorists and motors.

Taken each by itself, such a habit is nothing to speak of. It may be a constant jerking of the throttle foot, or the leaning of the left foot against the clutch pedal, or a poor driving position that makes an emergency stop or turn difficult, or one of many similar faults. But if we watched ourselves just once, we might catch our faults unsware and discover ways to correct them.

* * *

For instance there is the treacherous habit of jerking the throttle foot at intervals and thus accelerating the car in spurts. Many good drivers do this quite unconsciously. They have acquired it when inexperienced, upon seeing an opening in traffic and immediately taking advantage of it by forging ahead, and find themselves now doing it whether they need to or not.

Such drivers, while out on the open road with no traffic interfering, will force their foot down on the throttle for a short spurt, then release it, then repeat the same practice.

This is hard on the spines of the passengers, tring to the driver and especially hard on the motor. Sudden spurts of power on the part of the motor also demand extra sturdiness of the rear end to resist the forces exerted against it. Continued short spurts might eventually wear down the rear transmission or the axle at the cost of a new unit.

* * *

The proper way to drive, and the most economical, is to keep the ball of the right foot on the throttle at constant pressure, gauged by the speed at which the driver wants to keep his car. Then to accelerate or decelerate, all he need do is depress or lift his foot gradually so that this change in speed might not be too sudden. This gradual change in pressure on the throttle can be accomplished almost as quick and effectively as the sudden change and there is no resultant jerking for car or passengers.

Such smooth driving is easy on the passengers and particularly easy on the motor. It makes for greater economy and longer life for the car.

* * *

Riding the clutch is another bad habit for many good drivers who, charged with this fault, will deny it. On close inspection, however, they will find themselves falling into the practice.

Result of riding the clutch is too well known to be repeated. The clutch soon begins to slip, a great deal of power is lost in the act and the motorist is at a loss to know why he can't get the mileage out of his motor that he used to. The cure lies not only in fixing the clutch but in training oneself out of the clutch riding habit.

* * *

Many good drivers have a habit of leaning out of the window of the left door and riding with the left side foremost. It's a comfortable position to fall into, but it catches the driver unawares in an emergency. Such a position is hard to get out of when quick action is needed with both hands and feet. Therefore it should not be resorted to.

The most comfortable position to take in driving, though apparently perhaps the most stilted in appearance, is that in which the driver sits well back against the rear cushion and directly in front of the wheel. The movable seats of today permit the driver to sit in such position and yet reach the controls comfortably.

Whether on long country drives, or in ever-changing traffic, a motorist seated well back, both hands on the steering wheel, the ball of his right foot on the throttle and operating this pedal with even pressure, will find his driving both restful and economical.

To accomplish these results, this new parts and service building houses a large machine shop, a box factory, pyroxlyn painting booths, thousands of steel bins, a technical investigation laboratory and a service promotion school, in addition to offices, receiving and shipping rooms and similar business departments.

Praise Chevrolet For Performance

Economy Of Low-Priced Car For Long Distance Trips Paid Tribute Following Journey By Minister

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—Paying high tribute to the economy and performance of the low-priced automobile, especially as a means of long distance travel, the Rev. G. W. Gasque, Rector of the Episcopal church of the Incarnation, today recited some of the accomplishments of his new six cylinder Chevrolet coach on a recent 10,618 mile loop tour of the western half of the United States, during which he averaged 22.3 miles to the gallon of gas.

Accompanying Dr. Gasque on the seven weeks adventure were Mrs. Gasque and their young daughter, Anna Lee.

Made On Schedule

The long trip was made on schedule time so that the minister could fill speaking engagements in prominent Episcopal churches along the way. The route led from Atlanta to Chicago, by way of Nashville, Evansville, and Indianapolis, thence across the northwestern states to Seattle, down the Pacific Coast through Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles and back home across the desert country of Arizona and New Mexico.

A highlight was the climb of Pike's Peak over a tortuous roadway that stretched 13 miles along the mountain side. Dr. Gasque reports that the car carried its party to the summit without faltering and without heating the motor. Many other cars attempting the climb were forced to halt along the roadway to cool off before continuing he said.

Dr. Gasque kept an expense book of the trip, which discloses interesting facts about the performance of the car. Having been newly purchased when the trip began, the car was not extended during the first 500 miles of driving. During this period it averaged 18 miles to the gallon, the book showed.

Willys-Knight Is Popular To Buyer

Coupled with the popular Willys-Knight "70-B," the new Willys-Knight Great Six line has struck the most popular public accord in Willys-Knight history. This is indicated by the continued wide acceptance of the "70-B" line which was introduced earlier in the year and the high sales volume for the new Great Six which made its debut but a few weeks ago.

The introduction of the new Great Six line, which is entirely different in appearance from any model heretofore presented by Willys-Overland, places the Toledo company in a strategic position in the field of cars that range from $1,000 to $2,000. With the Willys-Knight "70-B" ranging upwards from $1045 and the new Great Six listed at $1895, the advantages of the Knight sleeve valve type of engine are now available, not alone in the lower price brackets but in the quality car field as well.

interest was displayed in American cars, many firms for the first time. The States exhibits numbered 31 second only to France with 56. Other nations represented were Germany with nine, Italy seven, England six, Belgium three, Austria one, and Czechoslavakia one. This shows the remarkable progress made by American firms, for previous to the war American cars were hardly sold in France

The complete list of American exhibits in the Grand Palais in- Chevrolet, Chrysler, Cord, Dodge, Durant, Duesenberg, Ford, Essex, Franklin, Graham-Paige, Gardner, Hudson, Hupmobile, Jordan, Lincoln, Marmon, Moon, Nash, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Packard, Pierce Arrow, Reo, Studebaker, Stutz, Whippet, Willys-Knight and Willys-Overland.

An interesting aspect of the American cars was the tendency to change to four speeds, the third one being silent. European makers never have dropped to three gears to any great extent, for with their smaller motors they needed the extra gear to get good road performance. They have, however now taken up the silent third idea, among those adopting this device for the first time being De lage, Mathis, Panhard and Levassor, Talbot and George Irat.

The Voisin company has a device known as a compound relay, whereby it can get two different combinations out of the three-speed transmission, this giving six speeds ahead and two reverse. The change from the high to the low set, and vice versa, was originally made by a vacuum mechanism but is now operated by an electro-magnetic device.

Front Drive Makes Hit

One of the latest ideas of the show was the front-wheel drive and the Cord front-wheel drive, built by Auburn, proved to be one of the most attractive exhibits in the salon. The only European front-wheel drive cars were the Tracta and a Chaigneau-Brasier.

The centalized chassis lubrication system, of which the best examples in the show were Bijur and Tecalemit, is certainly coming into more extensive use. An increased number of cars are being fitted with silentbloc bushings, requiring no oil and another interesting ddevelopment is the use of an oil radiater to maintain the engine lubricatig oil at a reasonably low temperature.

Body styles always have been an outstanding feature of the Paris show and keen interest was taken in the ravalry between American and European designers. In this line are the new Sylentlyte bodies built by Hibbard and Darrin of Paris. This American firm in France has practically abandoned the use of wood and is making use of a built-up frame composed of aluminum, duralumin and cast Alpax metal with sheet aluminum paneling.

The saving of weight compared with a standard body of equal quality is 300 pounds but an even greater advantage is the endurance of the body under hard service and various climatic conditions.

More Eights Introduced

Prominent along the developments noticed here was the greater number of eight-cylinder engines. The great majority have the cylinders in line, but a few, including Cadillac, Lincoln, and now the Italian maker Lancia, have the V type. The Lancia is an original design which at first sight might be mistaken for a four-cylinder with spark plugs on opposite sides.

Although the first straight eight engines were built on this side of the Atlantic, Bugatti and Ballot being responsible for them the United States was the first to put them into big production. Only recently have European makers taken them up seriously. About half the European makers now have straight eight engines, but they agree that this does not mean the eight will supplant the six here, as the latter has supplanted the four, except on small or cheaper types of cars.

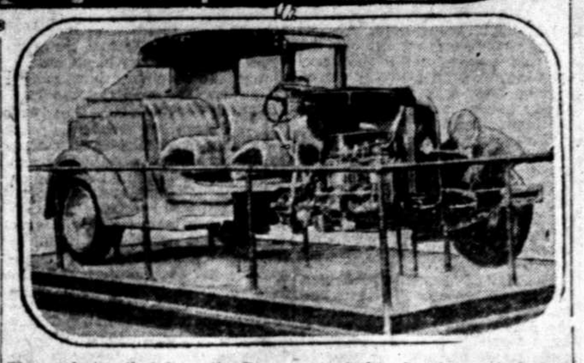

The most noticeable engine with more than eight cylinders was the 12-cylinder Voisin sleeve valve model. One of the outstanding features of this was the use of a single eccentric shaft operating all 24 sleeves. Despite the increased number of parts, the makers claim it is easier to service.

Eight-cylinder cars remain luxury models. This is largely due to European standards of taxation and the high cost of gasoline, making the six the more popular class. More than 1200 exhibitors, including accessory manufacturers, were listed.

RAIL TOLL HIGH

Since there are few automobiles to take a heavy toll of human life in Japan, railways are the main cause of accidents. More than 200,000 accidents happen on railways there every year.

Fall Good Buying Season Says Peed

"The motor-wise buyer is beginning to look at the purchase of an automobile from the business-like standpoint that the fall season is the time to purchase his new car," Mr. Peed said. "He realizes that the car he now possesses will be considered as one year older after the first of the year and consequently he wishes to take advantage of the higher trade-in value of his old car due to the fact that there not as many used cars on the market in the fall.

Other Factors

"There are other factors, too that should be taken into consideration when purchasing a new car," Mr. Peed continued. "These factors all point to the fall season as being the logical season to purchase."

Earle Mayfield To Be Candidate For Texas Governor

Ex-Senator Gets Support But Has Not Entered Mix

Placards Boost Him, Friends Say He'll Run But There Is No Official Statement Out As Yet

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—Former United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield has not entered the governor's race formally, but his friends evidently have literally shoved him in, if one is to take the general distribution of cards advocating his nomination and election as indicative.

"We ask you to vote for Earle B. Mayfield for governor, in the democratic primaries, 1930," reads the card which has been pretty generally disseminated.

"He knows more about economics and transportation and their relation to the farmer, labor and public.

"He never advocated or voted for anything that was not for the public welfare.

He's Confidential.

So many people have Senator Mayfield informed in "confidence" that he intends running for governor that his intentions are not a secret any longer. It is taken for granted here that his formal announcement will be made in the course of a few weeks.

It is even widely talked that he is at work on his platform and that when he turns loose his announcement he will release the planks on which he will base his candidacy.

There are many in political circles, who recalling former Governor Ferguson's advocacy of the re-election of Senator Mayfield in the run off last year believe that Ferguson is planning to espouse Mayfield's candidacy.

They believe that Ferguson's statement of recent release in which he gave out a tentative platform for use in the event he should become a candidate, strongly hinting that he might make the race, was for the purpose of working up interest among his followers so he could more easily deliver them to someone of his choosing.

Ferguson has repeatedly said that the "next governor of Texas" has not yet announced. That means that he does not choose any of eight who are avowed candidates: Oscar F. Holcombe, Houston; E. G. Senter, Dallas; Thomas B. Love, Dallas; Miss Katie Daffan, Ennis; Barry Miller, Dallas; T. N. Mauritz, Ganado; W. Gregory Hatcher, Dallas, and Charlton Brown, Mineral Wells.

In the event Governor Moody does not definitely decide to become a candidate for a third term, either R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the State Highway commission, or Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt, is certain to get into the field.

Ferguson may not be planning on indorsing Mayfield, but many believe he does not intend running himself, but throwing his support to someone else.

Former Lubbock Woman, Now Living In Rio De Janeiro, Describes New Home

Mrs. Virgil Kershner In City Visiting Relatives

BY MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

RIO DE JANERIO, Brazil is one of the most colorful cities in the world, according to Mrs. Virgil Kershner, who is visiting in Lubbock at this time. A harbor city with mountains silheuetted in the background and coming down to the water's edge, it is a sight of grandeur and beauty the whole year round.

Especially appealing to one coming from a northern country where there is not much greenery is the tropical foilage while the entrance to the city itself is one that is breath-taking in its sublimity. Guarding the entrance to the harbor is the gigantic Sugar Loaf mountain, ships passing between this mountain and the mainland in going into harbor. Rio de Janerio is built along the valleys and lower hills.

Expenses Are Heavy

"One of the first conditions one notes upon first living in this city," said Mrs. Kershner, "is the high prices. Expenses are great. A salaried man must make between $500 and $600 a month to meet bills if he has a family and at that there are no more comforts than a man making $150 a month in America."

Materials are high in the department stores and one could buy a readymade dress in America for what she would pay for the goods in Rio de Janeiro.

One of the Portuguese customs which always seems humorous to American youth is that of "courting." If a man wants to call on a young lady he first asks her father's consent and then visits with her in the presence of the entire family usually consisting of father and mother, grandparents, and numerous children. If he wants to have a date with her, well and good, but the entire family goes along. In fact it is not considered good taste for a senorita to be alone with a young man, and great amazement is felt by the South Americans when they view American life in shows or read of it in our popular novels.

Shows Are Modern

The picture shows, or "cinemas," as they are called in Rio, are elegantly furnished and equipped to show "talkies" which are given in English. Modern shows are given and when a character speaks, a Portugese translation is given for those who cannot understand English. The Brazilians are fast coming to speak and read English through radios, phonographs and the picture shows.

The Brazilian women wear very beautiful clothes which are imported direct from Paris and as keeping in fashion as any models seen in America's leading cities. Costumes match perfectly with accessories. If a woman sees a Paris model in a shop window and either cannot afford to pay the price or does not choose to do so she will copy it to perfection. A high class Brazilian never leaves her home without a hat or covering of some kind on her head. They keep their hats on in spite of the intense heat and Mrs. Kershner said when she felt uncomfortable and removed her hat she was eyed in amazement.

Men Wear Hats In Show

The working class wears lose blue smocks and trousers patched with every conceivable color and the cast-offs of their masters. Their shoes have wooden soles and Cuban heels being kept on the feet by the use of straps or a bit of cloth. They wear no hose and the women wear skirts with many lengths in them.

There is no servant problem in this city because menial labor is quite cheap. The poorer classes are satisfied with the station of life in which they are born and rarely ever make an attempt to rise above it.

One Man Per Job

One man for each job is the rule and a chauffeur would not think of washing the car while to change a tire would be unheard of since that is a task for a menial. To prove that they are not servants of low rank chauffeurs grow a long finger nail.

This is also true of accountants or bookkeepers. The index finger is sometimes allowed to grow a half inch beyond the end of the finger serving the purpose of tracing figures and also denoting what the man's profession is and that he does not work with his hands.

Girls Go To Convents

Girls are placed in convents early and taught to "sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam" and the graces of a society belle. They are usually taken from the convents after their fifteenth year and are ready for marriage. Brazilians are invariably fat after they marry and the majority of them are quite short in stature. When they reach the age of 40 many of them begin taking care of themselves once more and grow into graceful old age. Very few women are unable to sew and make beautiful embroideries.

The boys are sent to military schools and later sent to professional schools. Medical students go to Europe after their preliminary work in Rio colleges.

Is Cosmopolitan City

Every nationality in the world may be found within the border of the city of Rio de Janerio including the English, French and American colonies. The Portugese emigrate to the city with the father usually starting the procession. After he has worked and saved enough money to send for his wife he does so and then the two of them work to send for a child who comes steerage. This rotation is kept up until the entire family arrives although sometimes it takes 15 years to get it accomplished. An immigrant's income is derived largely from his large number of children, nine considered a lucky number while if only two or three children are in the family the father feels that the world has treated him badly.

Brazilians love their parents very devotedly and always when greeting them kiss their hands. They show them a great deal of respect in their old age and a rich native usually has half a dozen families living with him and cheerfully supports them feeling it is his duty to God.

American Idolized

Americans are idolized, and as in other foreign countries, are considered to be wealthy. Boys ape the college students of this country in their dress and after dressing immaculately and pouring oil on their hair they spray perfume on themselves and go out to promenade.

They like the American jazz and dance the national dance to the syncopated ryhthm of an American waltz.

Filtration Good In New Hupp Car

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 9.—The flying racing car driver signalled the pit men a stop for fuel the next time around. With a lead of eleven laps he tore into the pits while steady hands poured gasoline into the fuming tank.

The fear of burned out bearings, due to "washed out" lubricants and friction is not alone a problem of the paved ovals where speed demons hurtle their mounts through space up to 140 miles an hour or more. The same problem faces the private automobile owner.

Troops To Guard Against Violence In Mexico Voting

Indications Are That Ortiz Rubio Will Be Elected November 17, To Succeed Emilio Portes Gil

(By Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—Troops will guard the election booths November 17 to see that there is no violence in connection with the voting for president.

The government has taken this precaution in answer to complaints by one of the contending parties that attempts were planned to prevent its members from casting their ballots.

President Portes Gil and Secretary of War Amaro have expressed determination to see that the elections are carried out in an orderly manner and military commanders throughout the country have been instructed accordingly.

Women Are Feature.

Petitions by various women's clubs for authorization to station women at the booths have been rejected on the grounds that their presence merely will cause trouble. The government has taken the stand that women have no political rights in Mexico, while one of the main planks in the anti-reelectionist party program, judging by speeches of the candidate, Jose Vasconcelos, is that Mexican women should have the right to vote.

The general opinion here is that Pascual Ortiz Rubio, National Revolutionary party candidate, will be declared winner of the elections. Ortiz Pubio has cancelled plans for a tour of northwest Mexico and is resting at Chapala, Jalisco, from a slight illness. He is expected back in that capital in a few days and probably will remain here until after the voting.

The votes will be counted by committees will send their computations, with the votes in sealed packages, to the Chamber of Deputies. The chamber will take charge of the final tabulation and announce the winner.
