

Wilson Tries To Link Estes, Notables

Farm Bill Is Eyed As Issue By Both Sides

9 Witnesses Questioned

By JACK BELL.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spate of bitter, partisan debate in the Senate pointed up Saturday that both sides intend to make House rejection of the administration's farm bill an issue in the congressional campaign.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., started it off with the assertion that, instead of saving the taxpayers $1 billion as the Democrats claim, the bill would have cost $1 billion 4-year more.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., disputed this. He said he was surprised that an "economizer" like Williams would oppose the bill. Morse tied off on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who told a Republican rally here Friday night that the administration's bill was "based on the ruthless concept of ruling or ruining American agriculture."

"I'm ready to take on the great farmer from Gettysburg," Morse said. "We'll make it a partisan issue if that is what the Republicans want."

Williams and Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., clashed over the probable effectiveness of the administration's attempt in the defeated bill to link acreage reduction and marketing quotas to price supports for wheat, corn and feed grains.

As matters stood, both Republicans and Democrats appeared to feel that they can benefit politically from the House defeat of the administration measure, featuring tighter production controls. It could become a city-versus-rural fight.

Republicans are counting heavily on farmers' traditional aversion to government controls to sustain their almost solid opposition to the Kennedy measure.

Democrats are putting their chips on the belief that disgusted taxpayers in the cities and suburbs will accept their contention that the bill would have saved $1 billion a year in the costs of storing crop surpluses.

Republicans believe their opposition to the measure will be popular in the corn and wheat states of the Midwest where the farm vote still is to be reckoned with.

The GOP made most of its House gains in this area in 1960. Democrats, on the other hand, expect to appeal to urban consumers who think the farmers are getting subsidies at their expense.

Thus they hope to increase their House strength in the population centers where they already hold heavy margins over the Republicans.

Report Is Heard On JC Survey

Dr. C. C. Colvert, professor of education and junior college consultant at the University of Texas, presented survey materials to a local group here Friday in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Dr. Colvert had been requested by the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce to compile a survey on the potential for a junior college in Scurry County.

He distributed copies of materials he has compiled to the group here and briefly discussed procedures for establishing a public junior college.

Radger Robertson, who heads a junior college study panel of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Long Range Planning Committee, presided at the session. He reviewed work that had already been done here on studies of the proposed project.

There was no discussion of a proposed plan of action at the Friday session. However, Robert urged those present to study the material distributed by Dr. Colvert so that a decision could be made promptly on future activities.

Coalition Regime Installed In Laos

By ANTOINE YARED.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A 19-man coalition government pledged to put Laos on the road of neutrality took office in four hours of ceremonies Saturday.

Immediately after neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma pledged to restore peace in the war-ridden jungle kingdom, it was indicated his pro-Communist half-brother would be left in temporary charge of the government Sunday.

The 62-year-old Souvanna is taking off for Cambodia enroute to Paris to attend a wedding — his daughter's — and his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong of the Pathet Lao is one of two deputy premiers.

Souphanouvong has 10 years' seniority over the other deputy premier, anti-Communist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, and Information Minister Phoumi Vongvichit of the Pathet Lao said the "elder" would take over.

Under the coalition agreement, however, Gen. Phoumi will have a veto over all major decisions in the defense, interior and foreign affairs ministries. Phoumi is the holdover military strongman of the retiring government.

The triumvirate of factions — represented by four anti-Communists, 11 neutralists and four pro-Communists — embarked on the experiment of a united national government after 7½ years of off-and-on civil war, more than 15 months of off-broken cease-fire and 11 days of haggling over details of the installation.

He had a narrowing of the main artery which takes blood from the heart and distributes it to every part of the body except the lungs.

Doctors found the opening was so small the blood could not get out of the heart and backed up, causing congestion that over-worked the heart.

Surgeons corrected the condition by creating an artificial bypass for the blood. A piece of dacron tubing was inserted to take over the function of the clogged artery.

The blood pump, used in the operation, was one of the state-of-the-art devices.

Jet Fly-Over, Parade Set For '4th' Event

Plans for the giant Independence Day celebration are being rapidly completed by the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the event.

Confirmation was received yesterday from Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring that a Jet "fly-over" is scheduled for 1 p.m.

The parade also is scheduled for 1 p.m. and will attract a large number of youngsters. Each child participating in the parade will be given an Uncle Sam hat and a flag.

The observance of the holiday will get underway officially at 10 a.m. at Towle Park. At that time a flag will be officially presented to Harold Lack, Chamber president, by Dean Johnson who will represent Rep. Omar Burleson.

The flag is one which has flown over the United States Capitol. After the presentation an honor guard will raise the flag and the Declaration of Independence will be read.

The concession stands will then be opened for business. Already there are twice as many stands planned as there were last year. The Shrine Club will once again be offering boat rides on the Towle Park lake.

Other groups which have indicated that they will have concessions are the Altavista Daughters, Altavista Study Club, Art Guild, AAUW, American Business Women's Club, Athenaeum Study Club, American Legion Auxiliary, Beta Sigma Phi, Boys' Club, Business and Professional Women, Lions Club, Jaycees, Jaycees, Kiwanis, Fire Department Auxiliary, Optimists, Rotary, Sheriff's Post, Beautician's Association, Snyder Garden Club, Town and Country Garden Club, Twentieth Century Club, Twilight Garden Club, Women's Culture Club, and the Rebekah Lodge. The American Field Service will also have a display.

The American Association of University Women has launched its baby contest, being held in conjunction with the event. There are three divisions: under 1-year-old, from 1 to 2 and from 2 to 3. Three prizes will be awarded in each division. Parents who wish to enter their children may submit portraits to the AAUW at the classified corner in the Brownfield Building.

The swimming pool will be closed to the public at 3:30 p.m. so that it may be prepared for the swimming and diving meet, which

By FINIS MOTHERHEAD

PEECOS, Tex. (AP) — Texas' chief legal officer sought without apparent success Saturday to directly link other persons, possibly national figures, to the financial downfall of Billie Sol Estes.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson conducted his seventh court of inquiry into the affairs of the indicted West Texas agricultural finance giant by questioning 9 witnesses.

The attorney general dealt mainly with the capital structure of Estes Enterprises, Inc. The general manager, J. R. Foster Jr., answered repeatedly that Estes himself owned seven-eighths of the firm and a brother, Bobby Frank Estes, owned one-eighth. Foster said no others were involved in the operation which excludes Estes' grain storage and fertilizer operations.

The detailed inquiry into the possibility that others were involved financially with Estes followed hard on the heels of a maze of testimony relating to telephone calls made by Estes.

It also followed testimony by Harold Elder, a bank cashier, that the brother, Bobby Frank Estes, cashed three checks and walked out of a Pecos bank with $50,000 cash seven days before Billie Sol was arrested by the FBI.

An assistant Texas attorney general, William Poole, testified at length about Estes' telephone calls. They were, he said, to the office of the vice president, at least one senator, a congressman, the chief counsel and several other officials of the Agriculture Department. Some of the persons were not identified by title in early testimony but their connection with the Estes probe was established by officials attending the inquiry.

At the beginning of Saturday's session Wilson said he would not limit the scope of his questions to any witness. He said, "This is a bigger and better 4th!"

case is unique in that the Estes operations were capitalized in part by political influence.

A surprise addition to the press corps covering the hearing was Robert Mammel, Washington attorney. Mammel was fired from his job as counsel for Republican members of the House subcommittee looking into the Estes case for leaking a reportedly confidential Agriculture Department report to a Washington newspaper. He sat with the press group in Pecos Saturday, declining to say who he now represents, but occupied his time passing scribbled notes to Wilson or his aides.

Estes' dealings in housing affairs across the nation received passing attention. Foster told the court that the housing deals were before him and he would have to check records before approving accurately. But he mentioned projects in Blytheville, Ark., Denning, Tex., Albuquerque, N.M., Spokane, Wash., Moscow, La., Wash., Portland, Ore.; Blythe, Calif., Farmington, N.M.; Pecos, Tex.; and Lake Charles, La., among those in which Estes had an interest.

Phone testified that telephone calls listed for Estes went to Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., a man named Cliff Carter in Washington who is believed to be in the office of Vice President Lyndon Johnson, several Agriculture Department officials including the chief counsel for the department, John Bagwell, Dr. James Ralph, former assistant secretary of agriculture, and Emory Jacobs, another department official. Jacobs said that a number of the 37 calls to Yarborough's office between September 28, 1960, and March 25, 1962, were received by a Miss Miller.

Red China Charges Invasion Planned

TOKYO (AP) — Red China charged Saturday the Chinese Nationalists are preparing to invade the mainland "with the support and encouragement of U.S. imperialism."

Without mentioning Washington reports of a big Red Chinese military buildup on the coast opposite the Nationalist island of Formosa and possibly aimed at Quemoy and Matsu, radio Peking declared:

"Military men and civilians in the provinces along the southeast coast and in their rear areas especially must heighten their vigilance and be fully prepared in every way to smash an invasion of the Chiang Kai-Shek gang at any time."

The broadcast said a correspondent of the official New China News Agency "has learned from authoritative sources that the Chiang Kai-Shek Gang entrenched in Taiwan (Formosa) is preparing, with the support and encouragement of U.S. imperialism, for a large-scale military adventure, an invasion of the coastal areas of the mainland."

The correspondent quoted Mao Tse-tung, leader of Red China, as saying the Chinese Nationalists, for lack of soldiers, "wish to replenish their troops by rounding up able-bodied men in the mainland coastal areas," and add:

"In view of this, the people through the country must work hard in production, support the front, wipe out enemy agents and consolidate the rear."

The broadcast came as Nationalist Vice President Chen Cheng declared in Taipei, the Nationalist capital on Formosa, that prospects of a Nationalist return to the mainland were brightened because anti-Communist riots and uprisings may hit Red China.

Chen told a meeting of the Mainland Recovery Planning Board that the flight of refugees to Hong Kong and Portuguese Macao this spring showed the Chinese Communists have lost control over the people.

President Chiang has said repeatedly he would launch an attack on the mainland if wide uprisings should occur. But he would have to have U.S. logistic support, and Washington has shown no intention of changing its policy of denying support for such a venture.

GOLD CARPET SELECTED—Jack Craft, chairman of the Producers Club of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, and Woody Forrester, Chamber manager, select the gold carpet to be used by the club. Gold jackets with silver-colored oil derricks will be ordered by the members. The group will be the official greeters of dignitaries at Snyder, and Snyder's official representatives at out-of-town functions. Membership is on an invitation basis, and so far 15 members have agreed to serve and acceptance of six more is expected.

PITY THE POOR POSTMAN—Mrs. Ruby Anderson, 2305 Forty-second Street, received this outsize postcard recently from her son, Jimmy Moseley, who was attending the Seattle World's Fair. The 21" x 28" card depicts a bird's eye view of the fair grounds, prominently displaying the towering space needle, from the top of which Moseley mailed it. The postage? Just 28 cents, first class mail.

Miss Snyder Entries Looking To Pageant

It's only "days" instead of "weeks" now before the Snyder Jaycees will crown Miss Snyder of 1962.

Friday, June 29, is the date for the gala affair, which is to be staged at 8 p.m. that evening in the high school auditorium. In addition to its own list of beautiful and talented entrants, Miss Snyder Pageant-viewers are in for a special treat this year in the lovely form of Linda Jackson Lotis, the reigning Miss Texas.

Miss Lotis, of Fort Worth, will crown the brand new Miss Snyder, who will succeed Lady Falls to the coveted throne. Miss Falls is to be in Europe and will thus not be able to present for the local pageant. Sherron Gladson, who in 1960 was crowned Miss Snyder in the first annual contest held here, will appear as still another attraction, however, and will sing as part of the program of the evening.

Jeff Lawrence of Sweetwater will act as master of ceremonies for the tele. A three-piece combo featuring Mrs. Bob Womack (organ), Jerry Rose (bass) and Doug Vibe (drums) will furnish pageant music.

At least six contestants will compete for the title. Included on the current list are the following girls:

2nd Summer Semester To Open Monday

The second summer school semester starts tomorrow, and also the cheerleader class for junior and senior high girls will get underway tomorrow.

Registration for the summer school courses will be at 7 a.m. at the high school. Classes will get underway immediately for the three-week courses which will last through July 12.

Being offered this final semester are the four sections of English and Algebra I and II.

Registration for the cheerleaders course will be at 9 a.m.

Instruction will be given by instructors from the National Cheerleaders Association with headquarters in Dallas at Southern Methodist University. These will be the same instructors who instruct at the college level.

There is no charge for girls of the Snyder school district. Junior and senior high girls from other districts may take the course by paying a fee of $25.

Think Krush Squeezing Europeans

By RICHARD GREEN

RICHMOND, Texas (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev may be putting pressure on East Europeans to lighten their belts and help the Soviets get more to eat and be better clothed.

There was speculation in this effect Saturday among Western diplomats here, as a consequence of Khrushchev's series of visits to the East European satellites.

Khrushchev is at present in Romania. Last week he was in Bulgaria. He is scheduled to visit Czechoslovakia and Hungary later this year. Officially his visits have been described as friendship trips.

As things are now, Czechoslovakians, Hungarians, Romanians, Poles and Bulgarians enjoy a higher standard of living than the average Soviet citizen.

While Khrushchev has had to raise prices of meat and dairy products and there are food queues in Moscow, food supplies are comparatively better in Hungary and Romania. While Soviet clothing is shoddy, monotonous and expensive, Czechs and Poles are dressing in Western style and are as well shod as the average Frenchman or German.

There have been no official discussions of the nature of Khrushchev's talks here.

Diplomats here said it may be that Khrushchev expects the East European satellites to spread around the wealth.

Romania, for example, may be asked to send more of its agricultural products and meat to the Soviet Union.

At the moment large quantities of Romanian food are being sold in Western Europe in exchange for modern machinery, with which Gheorghiu-Dea is trying to build up heavy industry and improve the living standards of his own people. If Romania continues selling to the West and also has to ship more to Russia, this means the Romanian people may have less to eat this year than in 1960 and 1961.

Khrushchev may be making similar demands on Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Bulgaria.

Service Pins Go To City Employees

Service pins were presented to City of Snyder employees by Mayor John Hamblen at a barbecue supper in Towle Park Friday night.

Mayor Hamblen, in making the presentations, said that the pins themselves were just a token of appreciation for the years of faithful work the employees had given the citizens of Snyder.

The event is planned to be an annual affair from now on.

Firemen receiving 10 year awards were Fire Chief Warren Royd and Assistant Chief G. L. Aulry. Five year pins went to firemen Newt Bonner, David McIntosh, E. E. Shuler, and H. A. Smith.

942 Persons Killed In Year's Mishaps

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Department of Public Safety said Saturday 942 persons have died this year in 778 fatal accidents on Texas highways.

The number of fatal accidents increased one per cent over the 1961 figure of 771 for the period, but deaths during the period decreased two per cent from the 688 figure of last year.

Drivers Cautioned On Holiday Trips

AUSTIN (AP)—Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, urged motorists to exercise caution during the July 4th holiday.

Garrison said that past statistics and experience indicate eight percent will die in highway accidents between 12:01 a.m. through 11:59 p.m. on the Fourth.

Service Pins Go To City Employees

Service pins were presented to City of Snyder employees by Mayor John Hamblen at a barbecue supper in Towle Park Friday night.

Mayor Hamblen, in making the presentations, said that the pins themselves were just a token of appreciation for the years of faithful work the employees had given the citizens of Snyder.

The event is planned to be an annual affair from now on.

Firemen receiving 10 year awards were Fire Chief Warren Royd and Assistant Chief G. L. Aulry. Five year pins went to firemen Newt Bonner, David McIntosh, E. E. Shuler, and H. A. Smith.

The only 15 year pin was awarded to Clyde Thomas, retired policeman. Thomas was unable to attend the dinner. Also in the police department, a 10 year pin was awarded to Jack Imman, and five year pins to P. W. Bailey, A. E. Crowley, A. A. Kohl, and C. E. Patton.

Every employee of the sanitation department received a five year award. They were Joe Barboza, Santos Contreras, H. L. Hatter, James Herrington, Albert Jones, Eugene Prestige, Robert Painter, Walter Rabb, Buford Thornton, E. J. York, and department supervisor, Earl Davis.

Retired sewer plant operator Lloyd Holley received a 10 year pin as did W. A. Wells of that department.

TOP TV TONIGHT

By RUD EVANS

8:00 NBC "TV Guide Awards Show"—produced by Roger Gimbel and written by Goodman Ace and his staff, will be a sixty-minute colorcast comprised chiefly of entertainment, with the award portion of the program taking up only a small segment of the hour. Dave Garroway will serve as host and narrator and Judy Holiday and Art Carney appear in comedy sketches, avoiding the ritual of television in American life.

8:30 CBS "Game of the Week"—The New York Yankees remain in Detroit for the game with the Tigers.

12:30 NBC "Major League Baseball"—The Kansas City Athletics meet the Chicago White Sox at Comiskey Park.

5:00 CBS "Twentieth Century"—reroadcasts the story of Joseph Goebbels, the propagandist who masterminded the Nazi myth of a master-race and sold the German people a commodity named Adolf Hitler.

6:30 NBC "Walt Disney"—repeats the story in which Professor Ludwig von Drake exchanges his lecture for a psychiatrist's couch to analyze his mixed-up nephew Donald Duck.

7:00 CBS "Ed Sullivan"—will sit in the audience to celebrate his 14th anniversary and will be saluted by a guest line-up that includes Steve Allen, Jack Benny, Red Buttons, Jerry Lewis, Phil Silvers, Kate Smith, Bing Crosby, Catherine and Arthur Murray and Jack Carter.

8:30 CBS "Face to Face"—a new weekly hour-long limited dramatic series about one of the great adventures in history, will replace the "adventuring" "Car 54" Terence Morgan stars in the title role and Jean Kent is seen as Queen Elizabeth I.

8:30 CBS "Face to Face"—a unique new human interest series, created and packaged by Ralph Edwards and described as "a five-page life" will replace the vacationing Jack Benny. Warren will serve as host.

9:30 NBC "The Dick Van Dyke Show"—presents Joe E. Ross and Frank Gwynne in the sixty-minute colorcast of "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Gwynne has the role of a mystery writer and Ross is seen as a corrupt police official.

OUR VIEW

Parks At All Levels Are Valuable American Asset

Texas has 58 state parks, and they attracted a total of more than 6 1/2 million visitors last year. A big majority of the "visitors" were Texans, of course, but there is seldom a day when there are no automobiles with out-of-state license plates in the parks. Thus, state parks compose a major tourist attraction, and increased tourism is a major ambition of Texas these days.

Park maintenance is a function of every level of government in America. This in itself is an indication of the importance that the American people have attached to parks. Cities and counties show interest in this field in varying degrees, depending upon the views of their respective citizens. On the state level, the provision and maintenance of parks have long been considered important functions of the government. National, or federal, parks and forests are among the most popular tourist attractions in the land.

For several years, concern has been voiced about the meager support of state parks in Texas. Last year, the state parks of Texas had a million-dollar maintenance budget. Split 58 ways the budget appears modest indeed. Moreover, the state itself provided less than one-third of this amount, depending upon the visitors themselves for the remainder.

Closer to home the parks picture is brighter. Scurry County maintains a park system that is unmatched in this area of the state, and possibly everywhere. The core of this system is Snyder Memorial Park here in Snyder, which is without a doubt the most "used" public recreation facility for miles around. It will earn its keep less than two weeks hence when the second annual July 4th celebration is held.

Backstage ...

The Chamber of Commerce received a letter last week which expressed better than we were able to a couple of weeks ago in this column, the value to the community of citizens who are friendly and are "boosters" of Snyder. The wife of the Rev. Herbert Els of Stephenville had a series of troubles with her car while driving through Scurry County. Finally the car broke down 10 miles north of town. Rev. Els expressed his appreciation to several of the Snyderites who made his wife's problem their own. He concluded by saying "As a result we will remember Snyder, not as the place where the car broke down, but as the little city where they were so kind." Now that's the sort of thing we were talking about when we suggested we make our town attractive to out-of-towners. It takes an industrial foundation to make our town grow, and it takes friendly people too.

Dr. C. C. Colver, the University of Texas Professor and Junior College Consultant who was here Friday, keeps abreast of the changes in higher education. One, which he said has resulted in a problem for many older colleges and universities, involves the automobile.

"Today a college campus is a group of buildings surrounded by lots of parking space," he said. "Students go to school in cars these days. Some of the faculty members even drive to school now."

Wagner Heads TVA's Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aubrey J. Wagner, who has been with the Tennessee Valley Authority from its earliest days, was named chairman of its board of directors today by President Kennedy.

Wagner was made a member of the board last year. He has been with TVA since 1934 and has held a number of positions, including general manager.

He succeeds Herbert D. Vogel, who has resigned as chairman effective June 30. The White House said the vacancy on the board would probably be filled next week.

There had been speculation in congressional circles earlier that Rep. Frank E. Smith, D-Miss., would get Vogel's job. Smith has lost his bid for a new term in the House.

Semi-Finalists For Awards Are Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Texas organizations and three individuals have been named semi-finalists in the 1961 Layne Bryant awards for volunteers in community welfare projects.

Two $1,000 awards are given by Layne Bryant Inc. to the individual and the group selected for such activities.

Cited as semi-finalists in the group competition were the Dallas Society for Crippled Children and the League of Women Voters of Galveston.

Individuals named to the semi-finals are Frank Perce of Harlingen, Mrs. Annie Belle Miller of Houston and Rosecoe Lanier Thomas of Dallas.

Capehart's Opponent Nominated

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Homer E. Capehart's opponent in his November bid for a fourth six-year term will be an Indiana legislator little more than half his age.

Indiana Democrats nominated State Rep. Birch E. Bayh Jr. of Terre Haute for U.S. senator on one ballot at their convention Friday. The margin was overwhelming, but the campaign often had been bitter.

Bayh, 34, was renominated with out opposition at the Republican State Convention Tuesday. Capehart is 63 years old and Bayh is 34.

Bayh, carrying the endorsement of Gov. Matthew E. Welsh and backed by the Democratic state organization, received 1,982 votes to 439 for Mayor Charles H. Boswell of Indianapolis and 106 for Mayor M. Jack Edwards of Marion. He needed only 1,200 votes for nomination.

Boswell left before the vote count was completed. Edwards congratulated Bayh for both himself and Boswell and said: "The mayors of Indiana will stand shoulder to shoulder and we'll win in the fall."

Boswell had been bitter after Welsh endorsed Bayh during the campaign. He charged the state house and the state organization with bossism, double-crossing and deck-stacking.

"The gracious rain has come. After long and anxious waiting with forebodings of failure and miserable visions of distress, the people of West Texas are jubilant over the magnificent downpour of rain on Monday evening."

"Great is Scurry County. Come to West Texas."

"The Snyder Development Company has taken on new energy and has taken on a new impetus with a full determination to test out the oil proposition to a finish."

"The company has been rechartered with a paid up capital of $30,000. The old charter was for $5,000."

On the board of directors were H. B. Patterson, G. B. Clark, R. S. Jackson, Geo. W. Brown, E. W. Clark, D. Nation, W. L. Gross, Rich Miller, and Neal Norwood.

"Several people in Snyder were surrounded in their homes by water on Monday evening and a great many chickens were drowned."

"As the Times goes to press Thursday morning, Scurry County has shipped almost exactly 100 carloads of wheat averaging about 1,200 bushels to the car."

"Mrs. Maurice Brownfield was hostess to the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club last week, and Mrs. Max Brownfield took the high score prize."

"At the close of the games the hostess passed a salad plate to the following: Mrs. Bob Corley of Abilene, a guest, and Dorothy Stray."

Judge Sizes Up Oil-Tax Situation

EDITOR'S NOTE—Following are excerpts of remarks made by Judge J. Ray Martin at the Scurry County Board of Equalization hearing June 14. Following the talk by Judge Martin one of the oil company representatives said that in his 23 years of attending such meetings, he had never heard a clearer statement of the situation. The Snyder Daily News believes that Judge Martin's analysis of the current import problem facing the oil industry, and his remarks concerning the taxing methods of the county are of special interest to the citizens of Scurry County.

These begin to compare our nation with the rest of the world. It is very unfortunate that the State of Texas has to be denied its domestic production for such purposes. It is unfortunate that not all the oil-producing States participate in that national effort to the extent that the Railroad Commission of this State has seen fit to do so, by the reduction of the monthly number of the producing days to 3 or 2. Actually, Texas and this County, as the 3rd largest oil-producing county in the State, are making a very vast and large sacrifice in support of the international, diplomatic of the United States. I don't think this interpretation of the situation is very far-fetched; and, as long as the international situation remains as it is we have to be denied the production that we could maintain. In the national interest, we will always have the problem of reducing Scurry County's ad valorem tax valuation and thereby passing on, to some extent, the participation in the national effort, even down to Scurry County.

There is no question that the oil companies could afford, and would afford, if necessary, their past taxes to this County. The policy of the Court in the past three times and on this occasion when we have convened as a Board of Equalization has been to produce from the taxpayers the revenue that is necessary to maintain County functions; and, although the arguments made this morning are arguments of economic necessity or economic convenience for the companies, the County's interest in the matter is simply to raise the revenue necessary for its operations.

The problem of raising that revenue is disposed of in this manner: each year all of you gentlemen render your property at a relatively small figure; each year for these proceedings we have a hearing upon your renditions; and each year at this hearing, or subsequently when we render a final judgment of equalization, we raise your rendition of your property to such an extent and assess it for tax purposes at such a value as is required to produce the revenue required to continue the operations of the County.

We paid $2-1/2 million worth of Farm-to-Market Road Bonds; we Man Drowns In Mishap

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A Marshall, Tex., man drowned early Saturday in Cross Lake after two boats collided and he fell into the water, striking his head on a motor propeller.

The man was identified as Edgar Davis, 60. His body was recovered after a search of the lake. His wife, taken to a local hospital in a state of shock, was not thrown from the boat.

Davis suffered gashes on his forehead and chin, apparently caused by the propeller. Dr. N. L. Maudner, Calcasieu deputy coroner, ruled the death accidental drowning.

A. L. Sayes, 67, of Shreveport, occupant of the other boat, said both his boat and Davis' were moving at the time of the accident. Sayes said the front of his boat struck the side of Davis' vessel as both apparently spotted each other and attempted to turn away at the same time.

From the Snyder Daily News.

"The commission framing a city charter last night completed its second examining review of the proposed charter and started work on drafting it in tentative form for final editing and indexing."

I don't think this interpretation of the situation is very far-fetched; and, as long as the international situation remains as it is we have to be denied the production that we could maintain. In the national interest, we will always have the problem of reducing Scurry County's ad valorem tax valuation and thereby passing on, to some extent, the participation in the national effort, even down to Scurry County.

These begin to compare our nation with the rest of the world. It is very unfortunate that the State of Texas has to be denied its domestic production for such purposes. It is unfortunate that not all the oil-producing States participate in that national effort to the extent that the Railroad Commission of this State has seen fit to do so, by the reduction of the monthly number of the producing days to 3 or 2. Advice Offered On Stopping Runners

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — "You have to get Ferguson before he reaches the line of scrimmage. And Davis... you have to get him any way you can."

The football player offering the advice on how to halt the two top running backs was Martin Olsen of Utah State, winner of last year's Outland Trophy as college football's best lineman.

The 235-pound tackle and his Utah State teammate, tackle Clark Miller, will have their targets set on halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse and fullback Bob Ferguson of Ohio State. Davis is in the second annual All-America Football Bowl game here.

"When a good back like Davis takes the ball, you have to be moving and tackling as well as you can," Olsen continued. "You can get more defensive people at this point of the attack, you know. So if the defense is playing good football, it has the advantage in."

However, Olsen conceded that Davis has employed the over simplified formula for stopping runners.

Johnson Retains His Championship

BERLIN (AP) — Harold Johnson retained his world light heavyweight championship Saturday night by outpointing West German's Gustav Scholz in a 15-rounder in Berlin's Olympic Stadium.

Johnson dominated the German almost throughout the fight. There were no knockdowns. The official scorecard was not disclosed as is customary in European rings. An official AP count gave Johnson eight rounds, Scholz three and made four even.

Twins Blank Los Angeles

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins whipped the Los Angeles Angels 5-0 Saturday night with lefty Jim Kaat coasting to his seventh straight victory behind the home run muscle of Vic Power and Zoilo Versalles.

The victory, third straight over the Angels, was a choice anniversary gift for Twins' Manager Sam Mele, who took over the reins from Cooke Lavagetto one year ago.

Orioles Edge Bosox, 5-3

BALTIMORE (AP) — Shortstop Ron Hansen, banged a two-run homer and southpaw Billy Hoelt pitched 7 1/3 innings of scoreless relief as Baltimore bested Boston 5-3 Saturday.

Hansen, on weekend leave from nearby Ft. Meade, Md., hit his second homer of the season in the eighth inning with Barry Breding, pinch-running for Jim Gentile, who had singled on base.

It was Hoelt's third straight victory and evened his record at 5-3. It also improved considerably his earned run average, which was 6.04 before Saturday's game.

Hoelt yielded only four hits after taking over from starter Hal Brown in the second. Galen Cisco was the loser and now has a 4-5 record.

Senators Rise Up To Knock Off Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dave Stenhouse pitched last-place Washington to a 5-3 victory over league-leading Cleveland Saturday night, limiting the Indians to six hits, including a two-run homer by John Romano in the last inning.

The rookie right-hander had retired 16 men in order when Willie Kirkland singled with one out just before Romano charged his 12th home run. Stenhouse walked Woodie Held, and with the tying run at the plate, Tom Cheney relieved and got the next two men out.

Jim Grant (4-2) was the loser. Stenhouse (5-2) in what was a close hurling duel through seven innings. Grant doubled home the first run of the game after Bubba Phillips' single and a walk in the second inning.

Lowly Mets Spank .45s

NEW YORK (AP) — Helped by a six-run explosion in the third inning, during which Richie Ashburn hit the first of his two home runs Saturday, the New York Mets crushed the Houston Astros 13-4 to take a 2-1 edge in the six-game series.

The Mets amassed 16 hits off four Colt pitchers to make it easy for Jay Hook to register his fifth victory against right-handers. The New York right-hander permitted eight hits and walked three as he went the distance for the fifth time this season.

Giants Edge Braves, 4-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants backed Mike McCormick's 4-hit pitching with a seven-run attack and beat Milwaukee 4-2 Saturday.

The Braves went ahead 2-0 in the sixth on Lee Maye's two-run homer. McCormick had put Denis Menke, singled with two out. Maye followed with his first homer of the season on a 3-1 pitch.

AMARILLO (AP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall will dedicate the Canadian River dam under construction 35 miles northeast of here in ceremonies at the dam site June 30.

Approximately 12,000 persons are expected to attend the Saturday ceremony on a spot overlooking the river.

The event will mark another milestone in the long search for a surface water supply by 11 cities of the Texas Panhandle and South Plains.

Yogi Bashes His Ninth Grand Slam

DETROIT (AP) — The New York Yankees, ignited by Yogi Berra's grand slam homer in the first inning, bombed the Detroit Tigers with two four-run rallies Saturday in an 8-4 victory in the first half of a day-night doubleheader.

Ralph Terry was breezing with an 8-0 lead before the Tigers rallied on solo homers by Dick McAuliffe, Steve Bors, Rocky Colavito and Vic Wertz.

Redbirds Win; Number Nine For Gibson

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Gibson posted his ninth victory of the season Saturday as he pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-1 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ken Boyer eluded his ninth homer with a runner on base to help the Cardinals spoil the mound debut of Billy Smith, an understated 28-year-old scrapper. Smith, whose only other National League start was for the Cardinals in 1958, worked five innings and gave up five runs.

4 Lutheran Bodies Set For Merger

DETROIT (AP) — American Lutheran Church history will be made here next week.

Four bodies of the church, including the 214-million-member United Lutheran Church of America, will merge to form the new Lutheran Church in America.

The merger, to be carried out at a constituting convention, will create a single church of an estimated 3.3 million members, or about one-third of the nation's Lutherans.

Cicada Upset At Belmont

By JOHN CHANLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Darby Dan Farm's Bramble pulled a major upset Saturday when she beat the heavily favored Cicada by one-half length in the $120,125 Coach Club American Oaks at Belmont Park.

The surprising windup before 33,122 fans thwarted the triple crown bid of Cicada, the queen of the 3-year-old fillies, who had reigned supreme over horses of her own age for a year and a half.

Scurry Net Tournament Beginning July 2

The entry list door has been flung open for play in the annual Scurry County Tennis Tournament, the date of which has been set for July 24.

Preliminary matches in the yearly net carnival are to be staged on the Monday and Tuesday prior to the Fourth of July. The Fourth itself has been set aside for finals in all divisions, with the wind-up being a part of the mammoth Towle Park celebration of that date.

Two divisions of play are to be offered, one being the open- and adult- and the other being for the younger netters aged 16 and below at the time of the tournament's inception. An adult may enter any two of the three phases of play offered in men's and women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles.

Junior division competition will concern boys' and girls' singles and doubles, with no mixed doubles being offered in that bracket.

Trophies are to be awarded champions and runners-up in each phase of play.

Each contestant will be required to furnish his own racquet, but balls will be furnished from the entry fees collected. Those fees have been designated as one dollar for each doubles entrant and $1.50 for single aspirants.

All persons maintaining residence in Scurry County are invited to enter the meet, and all matches will be played on the Towle Park Courts in the evenings and nights unless otherwise agreed upon by the contestants concerned.

Everyone interested in taking part in the tournament is asked to contact tournament director Jerry Jackson (TH 3-5436 or TH 3-5018) at the earliest possible date in order that pairings may be drawn up and released for publication.

STRANGE PUTOUT—Minnesota Twins pitcher Al Strange (39) puts the tag on Chicago White Sox runner Al Smith who attempted to score when the ball got away from Twins catcher Earl Battey in the fifth inning of the game at Chicago. ASSORTED TIDBITS FROM FIELD AND STREAM

Dove Populace Lagging

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Preliminary State Game and Fish Commission reports show Texas' mourning dove population has dropped again this year.

E. A. Walker, director of program planning for the commission, will report the decrease Tuesday to the National Dove Conference in Washington. "Our reports indicate an appreciable decrease in calling birds from the 1961 population," Walker said.

The 1961 crop was below the 1960, he said. However, because Texas is only part of a large fish and wildlife service management area, the 1961 decrease did not affect the state's bag limit of 15 or the season lengths. The commission will set seasons and bag limits at a July 20 meeting based on results of the Washington meeting.

Biologists will tag 500 crabs in the Galveston Bay area this summer in a study of crab populations. Tags and information on shell width and location and time of the take should be sent to the commission at Seabrook.

Game wardens nabbed 200 unlicensed fishermen during May. The $2.15 licenses are required of all persons aged 17-65 who fish with rods and reels unless they are fishing on their own property and of all persons who pole fish outside their home counties.

The annual tackle tie fishing tournament opened Saturday at Texas City with anglers trying to land something similar to last year's winner, a 350-pound shark, to win a complete boat rig as top prize. Prizes will be given in 10 other classes ranging from tarpon to crabs. The event, which ends July 4, is sponsored by the Texas City Jaycees.

State Game Commission public hearings will continue the coming weeks in the Possum Kingdom, Edwards Plateau, Southeast, Trans-Pecos and northeast areas. The commission will consider results of the hearing when it sets up regulations and seasons at next month's meeting.

Kingfishing topped Gulf Coast fishing activity with a Freeport party boat returning with 180 and a catch of 35 in clear waters on the banks at Galveston. The sailfish were showing up better at Port Aransas, and the best weekend of the year was forecast.

Other fishing reports: Bit catches of yellow cats up to 15 pounds and channels and white and black bass up to three pounds were taken at Lake Nasworthy.

Eight and 10-pound yellow cats and an 8-pound black bass were hooked at Granite Shoals.

White bass were schooling early and late and furnishing half of the catches at Lake Whitney. A sandle haul of 70 was taken on spoons, and 50 channel cats were taken.

Fifteen black bass to five pounds were taken at the Garza-Little Elm Lake. The lake was muddied but good catches were reported in the lower lake.

Bass limits to four pounds were taken in the shallows and coves of Possum Kingdom.

Big white bass and catfish catches were taken at Lake Texoma. Largest haul was 140 sandies taken on silver flash fanails. A take of 100 cats to 17 pounds was made on shad.

BEHIND KIZER, WEAVER

Bufs, Red Sox In League Wins

Snyder Savings and Loan's Bufs pushed over seven runs in the first two innings here Friday, then coasted home to a 9-3 PONY League triumph over the Optimist Club Braves. It was the fifth victory in a row for the rejuvenated Bufs after two opening losses, and increased their league lead by a half game over the Rotan Cats (3-2), who were idle.

Ray Kizer chunked the win, a six-hitter. Starter Larry Anderson absorbed the loss, and was followed on the hill by a trio composed of Bobby Clardy, Sam Elledge and Tony McGray. Behind them, they gave up nine hits.

Kizer had the lone extra-base single for the Bufs. He doubled to spark a five-run second inning uprising. Roy Taylor and Clardy each collected two-basers for the Braves, also.

Kizer struck out 11 and walked two during his victorious tour of duty.

Jimmy Weaver tended to pitching duties for the Red Sox in their 5-0 blanking of the Phillies.

He allowed three singles, struck out 13, and walked two. A pair of those singles were consecutive hits in the fourth off the bats of loser Blake Roberts and centerfielder Rob Hall, but they were left stranded on third and second, respectively.

Roberts gave up two hits, with Sox first sacker Tom Kincaid ringing the bell on both. He doubled home Harley Bynum in the fourth after Bynum had gotten on base by being hit by a pitched ball, then followed up that performance in the sixth with a single. He himself scored on errors following both his hits.

Roberts set 11 Sox batsmen down on strikes and walked not a man, but fielding bobbles served to keep him in hot water much of the time.

Swim Contest Set For 4th

Towle Park Pool manager Joe Chapman has announced that swimming competition will play a big part in the July Fourth activities, when both a swimming and diving meet will be held beginning at 5 p.m.

As still another highlight of the evening, the Miss Towle Pool Contest will be staged, and the public has been extended a cordial invitation to attend the festivities.

In making the announcement, Chapman also relayed information concerning swimming lessons at the pool.

All of the sessions up through July 30 have been filled, but several more are on tap for later in the summer. From July 23-August 3 he states that there is room for several more school-age students.

Also, pre-school classes will be underway July 23, with 18-year schoolers being accepted for that particular session. Time for that session has been set at 11 a.m.

In session five, set for August 6-17, 10 school-agers and pre-schoolers will be accepted at 10 a.m. Also, at 11 a.m. there is still room for 20 pre-school children in full.

Sunray Slips Past Taylor

One game was reeled off in City Softball League play Friday, when Sunray slipped Ray Taylor Well Service 11-7.

Both opposing hurlers went the distance for their nines. Dub Holt was the winner and Zelmer Glover the loser.

Farm League Cards, White Sox Victors

A grand total of 64 runs crossed the well-worn Farm League plat Friday evening, as the league-leading Cardinals outdistanced the Cubs by 15-15 and the White Sox followed up with a 16-15 nudging of the Athletics.

Bases on balls played the biggest part in the Redbird decision, as the winners were granted 18 and the losers 16.

Terry Clemmer was the victor-ous hurler. Charged with the loss was Mike Flynn.

Orville Schwartz posted the win for the White Sox in their narrow 16-15 victory, while Rocky Land worked for the Athletics.

Athletic third baseman Larry Beggs uncorked the big blow of the game, a leadoff homer in the third. Sox shortstop Pat Smith singled twice for his mates.

Bucs Sneak By Chicubs

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Don Hoak of Pittsburgh hit a two-run home run in the ninth inning Saturday as the Pirates edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

With one out Snooky Burgess was walked by relief pitcher Don Elston and then Hoak slammed his fourth homer of the season over the left field wall.

The Cubs had taken the lead in their half of the ninth when starter Bob Fienor walked Don Landrum, batting for pitcher Don Cardwell, with the bases loaded.

Diomedes Olivo then relieved Fienor and struck out Lou Brock to end the inning.

Chicago tied the game with two runs in the seventh on doubles by George Altman and Andre Rodgers and a pinch-hit single by Bob Will.

The Pirates grabbed the lead with a run in the first on Bill Virdon's leadoff triple and Dick Groat's infield hit.

The light standard in left field in the sixth inning, his 10th of the season, provided the Pirates with their second run.

A's Nip Sox For Lead; Cards Win

A pair of whitehorses were registered in Friday Little League play, as the Athletics squeezed out the White Sox 1-0 and the Cardinals enjoyed a little more breathing room in romping past the Cubs 8-3.

The Athletic victory was particularly decisive, since they and their White Sox foes of the evening have been carrying on a musical chairs arrangement the season long for American League supremacy. The A's pulled a full game in front on the strength of the win, in that the two teams entered the contest with look-alike records of 3-3.

Brilliant pitching on the parts of both dueling hurlers earmarked the game. Both winning moundmen Terry Holt and loser Johnny Gaona went the distance for their respective clubs, and each was touched for only one single over the span.

Holt struck out 15 and walked seven, while Gaona whiffed 12 and passed out free tickets to three.

The Sox placed at least one runner on base in every inning except the second, but were unable to reach the platter. Only in the initial frame were the A's put down in order.

In the Card-Cub contest, Steve Holtner got the nod in the 8-0 win, stifling the Cubs on three singles—two of which were landed by third baseman Ronnie Lewis. He sent six down on strikes and walked two while going the route.

Lower Sam Head also went the way, giving up five safeties—a pair of which were singles collected by centerfielder Jodi Williamson—while striking out eight.

Nine bases on balls hampered his effort, however.

Card shortstop Mickey Altman connected for the only extra-base hit of the game, a third-inning run-producing double.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

COYOTEPEC, Mexico — Here, in the heart of the Valley of Oaxaca, an Indian lady named Dona Rosa turns out curious items of black pottery. Everything from miniature pigs and fearful looking masks to glazed fish and bells that ring like metal.

Coming in to this village of sapling huts about 15 minutes down the road from Oaxaca City, you notice a large sign with this modest announcement: Dona Rosa's 500 yards. And an arrow showing you which way.

The street waves and dips along the road. Dona Rosa's pottery is a fine example of the art of the region. She has done it all her life and the work isn't too complicated. Learned it from her mama, who was taught by granny. An art that has come down from generation to generation. For how many, she doesn't know.

The clay comes from a pit over under the foot of the hill. Good stuff and easy to work. At this point, the cone was formed and she began giving the flat bottom the fist until it was fisted into a rough shell.

Next step consisted of setting the crude form open side up on a round bottom plate while she stuck one hand inside and patted the outside with the other. Turning the thing steadily while she slapped it into shape. It began to bulge and in a matter of minutes there was a neat clay pot.

The finishing touches were applied expertly, with Dona Rosa pausing at the right split second for the camera to flash. Profile, full face, and a collection of superb expression.

There is was, she said. Had to dry for 15 days before it could be rubbed smooth and put in the oven. Then she showed us the haking gimmick. A rock lined pit with holes in the bottom and a fire box beneath.

After she gets an assortment of objects to fill the oven, in they go and somebody puts a match to the wood. Corrugated iron strips are laid across the top and things cook furiously for 10 hours. What makes it come out black? The cooking, says Dona Rosa. It is a combination of heat smoke. Some of the pots and figures are rubbed and glazed. Others are left with the rough finish.

Like bells. A glazed bell doesn't ring like the rough ones. She picked up one of each and demonstrated. Glazed ones are for ornaments. The unglazed tinklers ring like fine bronze.

Her items are the elite of Oaxaca's famed black pottery. And that's all there is to it, she said with a pleasantly wrinkled grin. The grin and the floor show being an big a tourist attraction as the pottery itself.

Revenues Of CRMWD Still Ahead Of '61

Revenues for the Colorado River Municipal Water District continue to run slightly ahead of a year ago, the May revenue statement shows.

The margin is principally in sales to repurposing units. Sales to cities (Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder) grossed $562,594 for the first five months of the year, about $7,000 less than a year ago. The May total was $121,402 (Odessa $79,181, Big Spring $1,583, Snyder $7,254, rural users $3,383).

Oil companies using water for repurposing paid $231,596 for the 5-month period, nearly $47,000 more than for the same period a year ago. Recreational revenues of $33,790 were almost identical with those of last year. May sales to oil companies amounted to $46,315 and recreational revenues amounted to $4,797.

Expenditures amounted to $53,479 for May, making a 5-month total of $265,236, leaving a balance of $46,948 to be transferred to debt service and other indebted funds.

Operation expenses for May included $41,579 about three-fourths of it for power; $5,563 general and administrative; $3,861 recreational services.

Sales were predicated on production of 756,338,000 gallons. Of this amount $4,901,000 gallons came from the district well field in Martin County, 25,781,000 from city lakes, 3,492,000 from city wells and 672,134,000 from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Nehru Raps Britain, U. S.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru asserted Saturday the United States and Britain "have always adopted an anti-Indian attitude on almost all matters that have been of passionate interest to us."

Winding up debate on foreign affairs in Parliament, Nehru bitterly assailed U.S. stands on Goa, India's dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir, and the U.S. position on the purchase of GIG jet fighters from Moscow. He drew vigorous applause and a unanimous vote of confidence.

Good will for the United States, built up over the years, is in danger of being "washed away" by such actions as U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's speech on Goa last December, Nehru said. Stevenson criticized India for using force in seizing Goa from Portugal.

The speech "hurt our, annoyed us, irritated us and angered us," Nehru heatedly declared. "It had nothing to do with the facts," he added.

Now, some members of the U.N. Security Council, Nehru continued — obviously meaning the United States among others — "want to tell us what to do about Kashmir, not realizing that Kashmir is not their business and none of our bone."

The United States supported a Security Council resolution giving India and Pakistan to negotiate their differences over the princely state. A Soviet veto killed the proposal. Friday, and Stevenson assailed the Russian "screaming use of the veto."

He asserted the Western powers failed to recognize the fact of what he called Pakistan's aggression and Kashmir's accession to India.

Then Nehru turned to what he said were pressure tactics obviously from the United States and Britain — to keep India from buying Soviet MIG fighters.

He said there had been no decision and no negotiations with the Soviets on the MIG's but India will decide the question regardless of "threats that aid will be withdrawn if it will not come."

Guilty Plea Entered

J. R. Rockwell Snyder, entered a plea of guilty Friday afternoon in County Court. He had been charged with swindling by worthless check.

His fine was set at $25 plus court costs of $28.33. The check in question had been given to Safety Stores Inc.

CRMWD Board Sets Thursday Meeting

A meeting of the board of directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District has been called for 10 a.m. on June 28 at the district's office at 1318 E. 3rd Street in Big Spring.

In addition with handling routine matter of the district, the board may take up additional items of importance, said E. V. Spence, general manager, including discussion of possible future expansion of the district.

Charles Perry, Odessa, president expressed the hope that there would be a maximum attendance of directors to participate in the discussion.

A man of words and not of deeds, is like a garden full of weeds.

IF HEAT AND SUN take your lawn a full, dark brown, and you have the heat, energy and patience to try an experiment, set out some zoysia grass, which is a sun-worshiper.

Zoysia does very well in the sun, not as well in the shade.

Zoysia is available in plugs, which are easily set into the ground with a special gouging tool. They take hold and spread in bare, loosened earth. Because zoysia is a hybrid, it cannot be saved successfully as seed.

Once established, the distribution of zoysia is rapid, growing because it doesn't grow as rapidly.

There are many varieties of zoysia grass. The Meyer strain does better than most in the North. Some others are preferable in the South.

The plugs are planted a foot apart, closer if you are in a hurry, and can afford more plugs. At the start, your lawn will resemble a checkerboard. About two years are required for the grass to fill in the blank spaces, at least in the North. The better watering and feeding care you give zoysia, the faster it will develop into a tight sod.

Once the initial expense and effort are past, you will have an excellent, thick carpet that does not require a great deal of attention and seems not to be bothered by many pests or diseases.

Zoysia tends to thatch, but a thinning operation at intervals can cure that quite readily.

The biggest disadvantage in the South, in comparison with the more conventional bermuda grass, is the slowness to respond with new green growth. But the slowness also is an advantage, when it comes to mowing and invasion of flower beds.

In the North, "cool season" grasses such as Kentucky blue and fine fescue combinations are preferred. Zoysia is due back in San Diego on July 25, completing seven months of sea duty. He will be assigned to shipplitters school in San Diego Aug. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson and their daughter, Karen, plan to be in San Diego to welcome Robertson on his return from the far east.

Robertson has written his family that while on liberty in Yokosuka, Japan on June 16 he met Tommy Ryan on the street. Ryan is the son of Ruel Ryan, a Snyder.

Glenn's letter said it was wonderful to talk to someone from home. His next stop is Iwakuna, Japan. While there he plans to visit Steve Barrett, also from Snyder, who is stationed there.

In his letter Glenn said "This world isn't so big after all."

LIGHT SWITCH HINT
A few inches of ceramic tile installed around the bathroom light switch will preserve the wall and cut down on cleaning chores in an area that invariably becomes dirty. The tile color can match or contrast with that around the tub and shower. An occasional wipe with a damp cloth is all that is needed to keep tile around the switch clean.

CHEDDAR HAMBURGERS
2 pounds ground chuck beef
2 tablespoons sweet-tart prepared mustard
4 cup-finely grated cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper
Make the beef into 12 flat patties. Spread a teaspoon of mustard over 6 of the patties; spread the cheese over the mustard but not to edges. Cover with remaining patties, mold the edges together well with your fingers so they won't separate during frying. Brown stuffed patties rapidly on both sides in a tablespoon or two of hot butter in a skillet; reduce heat and cook until meat is done as much as you like. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper. Serve at once.

SPICY REFRIGERATOR COOKIES
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup (1 stick) butter-margarine
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup dark molasses
1/2 cup blanched almonds (sliced)
Sift together the flour, soda, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cream butter and sugar; add molasses, sifted flour mixture and almonds, mix well, kneading with hands. Shape into a 16-inch long roll. Wrap tightly; chill overnight. Cut roll into four 4-inch long lengths; cut each length with a serrated or other long sharp knife, using a sawing motion, into about 26 medium-thin slices. Place about an inch apart on a greased cookie sheet; bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven about 10 minutes. Cool on wire rack; store in tightly covered container. Makes about 80 cookies.

When you are planning to beat evaporated milk to use as a topping, chill the beater and bowl while the milk is to be whipped. Have the undiluted evaporated milk icy cold.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon B. Cox of 850 Leggett Drive, Abilene, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann Steel, to T. R. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Green of 3003 Forty-first Street.

The couple will be married August 31 in the Elmwood West Methodist Church of Abilene.

Both are students at McMurry College in Abilene.

Roth Couldn't Let Go

LETTING GO. By Philip Roth. Random House, $3.95.

Sometimes in a long, sprawling novel you get a huge sociological slice of life that is graphically real, like a documentary movie that goes on for reel after reel. As in this book.

Roth, who won some awards in 1960 for his "Goodbye, Columbus," has produced his first full-length novel.

The central figure you can't call him a "hero" in the usual sense; it is Gabe Wallach, a college teacher who is slow in maturing.

Gabe is a fumbler who lets himself get involved with practically everyone who comes along. He is a fall guy without much sense of direction.

He is tied to a widowed father, and feels uncomfortable about it. He is attracted to Libby, a mercurial Catholic girl who has married a Jewish teacher named Paul Herz, and there are complications in this situation because the parents on both sides of this union have disowned their offspring.

And Gabe gets involved further with a hardboiled divorcee named Martha Reaganhart. He finally escapes all the messy complications by getting a teaching job overseas, which probably is a good thing for everybody concerned.

Roth has a remarkable talent for dialogue and description. He is especially good at the multiplicity of ways in which ordinary human beings wrangle and torment each other, on the level of dirty-dishes-in-the-sink and horrible misunderstandings.

The only trouble is that he has lavished his talents on scenes that are far too long, and far too mundane, to the point of tiresomeness. Some readers will give up.

When he is at his best, he is powerful - as in a late chapter about Martha's small daughter and smaller son, and their tragic episode.

It is a wordy book, and would have been better if shorter than 630 pages.

Summer refresher - fold finely diced cucumber and celery into tomato aspic and serve on salad greens as a first course. Pass a topping of sour cream mixed with chopped chives.

Ever add a dash of cinnamon or nutmeg to rhubarb sauce?

DUPLICATE BRIDGE LESSONS OFFERED

Open duplicate bridge lessons are being offered by Juanita Oden of 2800 Thirty-second St.

Anyone interested in learning the principles and conventions of duplicate bridge are asked to call the Oden residence at HI 3-4313.

No charge will be made for the lessons.

Plans are to begin the bridge lessons this Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

If you want meaty pastry for a chicken or meat pie, be sure to blend together thoroughly the flour and shortening.

High-Priced Prescriptions

Some prescriptions are high-priced. Necessarily so. Because many specialties prescribed by your Doctor are costly to produce. But prompt, powerful action often makes these medicines cost less in the long run. The new ones are in our stock.

Miss Juanez Teaff Marries In Fort Worth Ceremony

Miss Bonita Juanez Teaff of Snyder became the bride Friday of Carroll Roscelle Carver of Houston in the Ridgeles Baptist Church of Fort Worth at six o'clock in the evening.

Miss Teaff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. (Bill) Teaff of 2013 Ave. Z in Snyder.

Mr. Carver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Carver of 5802 Ridgeway in Houston.

Rev. G. M. Cole, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by candelabra holding lighted candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length gown of traditional elegance fashioned in the classic lines of silk tulle. Her gown was designed with a closely rounded neckline that dipped to a V in the back. The fitted sleeves extended to the fingertips. The gown was fashioned with a dome silhouette skirt which featured small diagonal pleats at each side and intricately draped, unfolding into a wattle design. The bride's bouffant veil of pure silk French illusion was attached to a small pointed crown accented with pearls. She carried a crescent shape white orchid surrounded by nine white roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Tim Dobbins of 4627 Gaston in Dallas. She wore a street length dress of pure silk turquoise chiffon. The neckline was high in front and came to a low square design in the back. The bodice was fashioned with long fitted sleeves and the skirt fell in soft gathers from the waistline. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Best man was John Mann of Galveston. Ushers were John Fite of Mesquite, Sam Fason of Waco and David, Reynard of Beaumont.

Reception immediately following the ceremony was at the church. In the houseparty were Miss Jetty Looney of New Boston, Mrs. John Mann of Galveston and Mrs. Bill Gaylord of Dallas.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a beige suit with beige accessories. The couple will live at 2472 Highland Rd. in Dallas. The bride was graduated from Snyder High School and North Texas State University where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha. The bridegroom was graduated from French High School, Lamar State College of Technology and is a student at Baylor University College of Dentistry. While attending Lamar State he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

RICH COCONUT TOPPING
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
5 tablespoons butter (soft)
5 tablespoons heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 can (3 1/2 ounces) flaked coconut
Mix together until the sugar and butter mix in cream and vanilla, then coconut. Spread over a white or yellow cake baked in an 8 or 9 inch square pan and partly cooled. Heat topping covered cake slowly for about 5 minutes. Serve warm.

For Sunday morning brunch, serve delicate thin pancakes with thawed - sweetened - frozen - sliced strawberries. You can thicken the berry juice, if you like, with a little cornstarch.

Know Your Menu Terms?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

WHEN YOU see the word "Florentine" tagging a dish of eggs or fish on a menu, spinach should be one of the ingredients. This combination - hails from the city of Florence in Tuscany, Italy. It was adapted by French cuisine to describe a dish of eggs or fish arranged on a bed of cooked spinach topped with a Mornay Sauce - a cream sauce coupled with grated Gruyere or Parmesan cheese.

American cooks use the Italian-French idea in their own recipes, and here's one of them. We find this dish makes an excellent main offering for lunch, or a substantial extra for a party buffet supper. The stuffed eggs with their flavorings of mustard, Parmesan and chives are especially savory. If you do not have fresh chives at hand in your garden you can have them in your freezer, for American ingenuity has packed them conveniently chopped and frozen for year-round use.

Crusty rolls or bread, or rice make a fine accompaniment for this Florentine dish. Stuffed eggs Florentine
3 tablespoons flour
1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) solid-pack tomatoes
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach (thawed and drained)
Salt and pepper

2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped chives
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
In a medium saucepan over low heat, melt the butter; stir in flour. Add tomatoes (including liquid) and cook and stir constantly until thickened, leaving tomatoes as whole as possible. Add spinach and salt and pepper (10 by 6 by 1 1/2 inches) or a deep 10-inch pie plate. Cut eggs in half lengthwise; remove yolks and mash with mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt, mayonnaise and chives. Refill whites with mixture and arrange over sauce; sprinkle with Parmesan. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven until hot and bubbly - about 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Love Poem Has Grown Old

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

Overseas in the final months of World War II, I photographed copies of Walter Benton's erotic poem, "This Is My Beloved," were passed from hand to eager hand among the troops.

It's impossible to say how many copies of the poem were run off in orderly rooms late at night and bootlegged for a carton of cigarettes, sometimes more, among men previously unsuspected of having any instinct for poetry.

The reasons for the poem's wartime popularity are not hard to fathom. In those days, this was pretty strong stuff: biologically frank, romantically idealistic, passionate to the deepest shade of purple. It was just the thing to appeal to lonely, homesick, war-weary men, constantly tantalized by the idealized memory of their loved ones.

But that was 17 years ago. How does the poem stand up now that the special circumstances which contributed to its popularity have been removed?

Atlantic Records provides something of an answer with a reading of "This Is My Beloved" by British actor Laurence Harvey of "Room at the Top" fame against a background of jazz composed and performed by Herbie Mann.

Some of Benton's lines are still breathtakingly beautiful: "the train drives a shrieking wedge between the hills." Some of them - most of them, alas - are painfully pretentious: "night was a jeweled tent around us and we were wonderfully alone and sleepy." What had once seemed shocking is now plainly soppy, and what had once seemed poignant and tenderly passionate now seems only tedious and tortured.

The poet's hymn to love is not helped by Harvey's soap operatic delivery and is frequently drowned out by Mann's jangle beatings. Still, for those who once carried the mimeographed copy about in their wallets, next to the family pictures, the album has a nostalgic appeal and a certain wistful charm. It's like meeting an old girl friend again. The years may not have been kind, but the memories are as sweet.

If wartime love poems don't stand the test of time, other things happily do. Like the "Overtures of Gilbert and Sullivan," for instance, Sir Malcolm Sargent and the Pro Arte orchestra perform them magnificently on a finely engineered Angel album.

And no one these days is as agile as Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra. The durability of their appeal shines through "Pops Roundup," their latest RCA Victor album, featuring a rollicking, rollicking tour of the Old West by way of "Red River Valley," "The Lone Prairie" and similar familiar milestones west of the Pecos.

AP Newsfeatures

One of the most common problems of home owners is that of a squeaky floor. While this condition is most prevalent in older houses, it is surprising how many times it occurs in homes which have been lived in a short time.

Squeaks result from the failure of the nails to remain tightly in position as a result of moisture or temperature changes. Loose flooring then rubs against the nails or against itself. The solution, then, is to anchor the flooring more tightly to the subfloor and joists.

For do-it-yourselfers, the usually advocated way to accomplish this is to drive more nails through the flooring into the joists in the areas where the squeaks are occurring. It is recommended that the nails be driven in pairs, each nail slanted towards the other, so that, together, they form a V.

If this is done properly, elimination of the squeaks is likely. But there is always the possibility that further changes in the moisture content of the wood will bring a return of the original troublesome condition.

One way to insure increased holding power and thus prevent future trouble is by using threaded nails. The Wood Research Laboratory at Virginia Polytechnic Institute conducted a series of tests and found that threaded nails not only gave more initial holding power, but had increased withdrawal resistance as the wood became more seasoned. A technical expert on the subject, Arthur Fisch, pointed out that threaded nails can be driven home easier and with less chance of splitting the wood.

There are many different types of threaded nails, although they fall into three basic categories. One is especially effective in hardwood flooring, another works well with softwoods. And a third is well suited for nailing such things as asphalt roof shingles and siding nailed over plywood sheathing.

In some cases, the trouble with squeaky floors would not have occurred if enough nails had been used in the first place. As one flooring manufacturers' association puts it: "The answer to floor squeaks is nails. Take the trouble to get the right kind of nails and use plenty of them."

QUESTION: About three years ago, a friend of mine who was moving to an apartment gave me an electric floor sander. I have never used it, but intend to refinish a wooden floor soon. In testing the machine, I notice that it doesn't sand right up to the baseboards. Does that part of the floor have to be sanded by hand?

ANSWER: No. You should rent a small electric floor sander usually called an edger. The base of it is designed so that it can be used close up to the walls in areas where the large sander does not reach.

QUESTION: Because of its modern effect, I like vertical lines in exterior house siding. How can I achieve these lines so that the appearance is architecturally correct?

ANSWER: There are several methods. You can have wood battens at intervals of eight or 16 inches against a panel siding. You can also use hardboard panels with pre-molded, rounded ribs spaced at eight-inch intervals. This produces a wall with a refined appearance which provides interesting highlights and shadows. You can also get a V-grooved siding that gives strong vertical lines at intervals of five and one-third inches. Both types are four feet wide and have shiplap edges to provide a continuous pattern and tight joints. Another popular style is a hardboard siding with half-inch-wide grooves at four-inch intervals.

Meet The Men Behind Our Presidents

EDITORS NOTE: Many a father dreams of his son becoming President. But how important a role have the fathers of our Chief Executives played in preparing their boys for the nation's top job?

By VIRGINIA E. PALMER

Written for The Associated Press
When Joseph P. Kennedy announced he would not live near Washington after the inauguration of his son as President, he said: "If Jack ever feels he has anything to ask me—I've had lots of different experiences in life—he knows where he can find me and I'll tell him what I think. But I feel very strongly about older people keeping their noses out of the business of their children."

That was typical of the elder Kennedy, who believes in bringing up children to stand on their own feet.

But ever since the name John F. Kennedy was introduced as a possible candidate for the Presidency his famous father has found it impossible to remain completely out of the news. People wanted to know about the closeness of their relationship about what effect the former ambassador to the court of St. James would have on his son.

Now Fighting Tough Battle
He is currently fighting the toughest fight of his 73 years: a paralyzing stroke he suffered last December.

Back in 1937, the elder Kennedy told reporters he had talked his son into running for Congress, assuring him it was his responsibility to serve.

A month before the 1960 Inauguration, Kennedy acknowledged ed the massive task facing his son, the youngest man elected to the Presidency. "If difficulties lurk ahead," he said, "they also provide an opportunity for greatness."

Grant's Father Attended

Until Joseph Kennedy and his wife Rose witnessed their son's inauguration, only U. S. Grant's parents lived to see him so honored. A strange cold individual, Grant's mother refused to attend any White House function. Her loquacious husband, however, was so delighted that his son had finally made something of himself he not only attended the inauguration but by falling and seriously injuring himself, drew considerable attention away from the President.

Jesse Grant was a strong opinionated man who fought a constant battle with Mrs. Grant's father, a Southern colored man who afforded the role of Honored Guest at the executive mansion.

Possibly the finest tribute to a father came from the lips of Theodore Roosevelt.

"He was everything to me: father, companion, friend. He shared all my joys, and in sharing doubtless and soothed all the sorrows I ever had."

The elder Theodore was a wealthy glass merchant, a sixth generation New Yorker, and a founder of the American Museum of Natural History. Cancer claimed him while his son was a student at Harvard.

Roosevelt knew the love and friendship of his father for 19 years, but President Garfield was only a year old when his father was killed in a raging fire that threatened his crops.

Many men were similarly robbed early in life.

George Washington was only 11 when his father Augustine, owner of the equivalent of six good-sized plantations, died. The father, who also maintained an interest in a foundry, was a widower with four children when he married Mary Ball, a 20-year-old wealthy orphaned girl. Together they produced six more children, the oldest of whom became our first President. Typhoid fever caused the death of Herbert Hoover's father when the boy was 6. Mrs. Hoover took in sewing rather than touch her husband's $1,000 insurance money which she put aside for the child's education. Two years later, at also age 34, she passed away. In his memoirs, former President Hoover says he remembers playing barefoot in his father's blacksmith shop where he once stepped on a chip of hot iron. To this day he carries the brand of Iowa on his foot.

Two Born Posthumously

Two Presidents were born after their fathers had died: Andrew Jackson, and Rutherford B. Hayes. On the other hand, President Millard Fillmore, born of impoverished parents in a log cabin, had the companionship of his Dad until the chief executive was 63 years old. Nathaniel Fillmore, who had nine children in all, once refused to stay at the White House for any length of time. "No, I will not go. I don't like it there; it isn't a good place for Millard, either. I wish he were home in Buffalo."

Three Presidents' father were governors of their respective states: William Henry Harrison and John Tyler's fathers in Virginia, Franklin Pierce's in New Hampshire.

The father of President Taft and grandfathers of the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio was once a U. S. Secretary of War.

Three ministers gave us leaders: Richard Falley Cleveland, Joseph Ruggles Wilson and William Arthur. None lived to see his son reach the pinnacle of his career.

Nineteen Were Farmers

Nineteen farmers produced sons who held the nation's top office. Coolidge's father was a farmer and a notary public. He is remembered by some as the man who swore his son in office by dim light at 3 a.m. on Aug. 3, 1923. Coolidge then vice president, was vacationing at his father's Plymouth Notch, Vt. home when word reached them of Harding's death.

Three fathers of Presidents were foreign born—and strangely enough they all migrated here from northern Ireland: Jackson, Buchanan, and Arthur.

One man was the father of one President and the son of another. He was John Scott Harrison, son of William Henry who served one month between Cleveland's two terms. Like his father, John Harrison studied medicine briefly, became a farm owner and eventually ended up in Congress.

In 1925 when John Quincy Adams was inaugurated as our sixth President, all of his predecessors except Washington were alive. The list included his 89-year-old father, the ardent patriot described by Alexander Hamilton as: "Always honest, sometimes able, but always mad."

Married More Than Once

The fathers of several Presidents married more than once. As a result, Fillmore, Lincoln, Harding and Coolidge had stepmothers. Lincoln, who always clashed with his restless, ne'er-do-well father, expressed more affection for his stepmother than for Thomas Lincoln. They went separate ways when Abe was about 20.

When the elder Lincoln died at 73, his prominent son was not among the mourners who watched him buried in an unmarked grave beside his tiny cabin.

Products of their father's second marriages were Washington, Pierce, Benjamin Harrison, Taft and F. D. Roosevelt.

No President was an only child, although many think Franklin Roosevelt was. Actually his father, "The Squire of Hyde Park," was 52-year-old widower when he met popular Sara Delano, socialite daughter of a successful banker and Far East trader. She was 26, the same age as his married son. With muttonchop whiskers and a delightful sense of humor, Roosevelt was a favorite of many companions. Franklin was 18 when death claimed his elderly father.

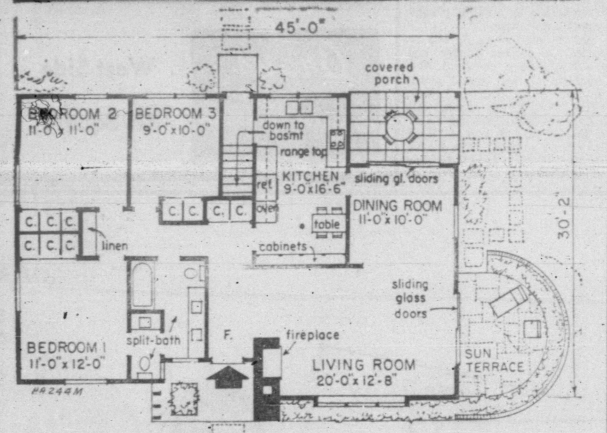

Ohio newspaperman Warren G. Harding, before President Kennedy the first man to jump from the Senate directly to the White House, was the son of a doctor. Dr. George T. Harding was a retired apoplexy in a San Francisco hotel in 1923, on a return trip from Alaska. The elder Harding, only father to survive his President son, lived to be 94.

Truman's Horse Trader

Harry Truman once described his Confederate Dad as "the best horse trader in the country." A small man with a keen humorous streak, he died at 64 in 1915. Eisenhower was 51 and an Army career man when he lost his father.

President Kennedy may come from a large family of nine brothers and sisters—an impressive number these days—but it's no record. Madison and Benjamin Harrison were each one of 12 children. Buchanan one of 11, and Washington, Jefferson, Polk, and Taft

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

ECONOMY-SIZE HOUSE contains three bedrooms and maximum livability in 1215-square-foot area. Modified rectangular shape minimizes building costs and a semicircular pierced masonry wall extends the apparent length of the house and provides an outdoor living area beyond the sliding glass doors of the living room. Interior projection of the chimney and fireplace creates a foyer; the kitchen offers an eating space as well as abundant storage and counter tops. The bedrooms are sound separated from the rest of the house by the stairway, the split baths and the closets. Plan HA244M was designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 23, N. She Knows How To Boss

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the several things that makes a male executive respect a woman is the well-founded suspicion that by nature, how impossible he gets, his secretary would still probably rather work for him than for a woman.

But if there were a few more Margery Hurst in the world he might feel less sure.

Margery Hurst is a blonde British beauty who has more than 7,000 women in her organization, the world's largest secretarial agency.

Her success with keeping her own sex working happily for her is based on several well-established principles.

She likes and respects women, she doesn't ask anything of an employee she can't do herself (she can still type 80 words a minute, take 120 words shorthand), she believes in paying well, she takes an interest in the girls' personal lives.

"You must remember," she says, "that women are just coming out of the kitchen into the wide, wide world. They'll learn fast, but right now they mostly have a narrower view than men. They're emotional—very, very emotional—but so sharp and loyal. They want you to take a personal interest in them; if their child has measles, you should ask everyday how he is. If they've had a fight with a boy friend, inquire daily if they've made up."

handling women as a commissioned welfare officer in Britain's women's army corps in World War II. Before then she had had a brief fling at a stage career in the country, and "what happened would bring tears to your eyes," she says with mock dramatics.

When she opened her typing bureau in a tiny room on borrowed money, she had just lost her husband and had a small baby to support.

That was 16 years ago. Now she has 48 branches in England, is opening one in New York, and is considered the top self-made lady millionaire in England.

"I'm just a simple Portsmouth girl," she says modestly, "and after the first $100,000 money really doesn't matter. You can live in only one home, drive only one car at a time."

Mother of two daughters, aged 11 and 17, she's now happily married to Eddie Hurst, a handsome harrister, inventor, playwright—"a fantastic man," she says. "We're equally rich, and we only live together because we love each other."

Mrs. Hurst advocates bright, modern decor for offices and loathes seeing secretaries wear stodgy, dingy black dresses. Just think it's terribly important girls find romance in their work. "It's wonderful for them to be friendly with the people they're working with."

But when that romance is a dim view.

RED BEANS AND RICE

- 1 pound dried red beans
- 1 hamhock (with some meat on it)
- 3 cups water
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 medium onions
- 1 green pepper
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup (undiluted)
- Garlic salt
- Chili powder

Soak the beans overnight well covered with water; drain. Bring beans with hamhock, 5 cups water, bay leaf and 1 onion to a boil; simmer until beans are tender—about 2½ hours. Remove hamhock and bay leaf; dice ham on bone and reserve. Chill beans and remove layer of fat from top. Chop remaining 2 onions and green pepper; cook until lightly browned in a skillet with the fat; add to beans (and their liquid) with diced ham, tomato soup, garlic salt, chili powder and salt (if needed) to taste. Reheat slowly over hot water. Serve with hot rice using wide shallow soup plates if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Times Just Keep Changing In E. Caldwell's South

CLOSE TO HOME. By Erskine Caldwell. Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, $3.95.

"It's embarrassing enough for a white woman to have a mulatto maid who looks like—somebody you know, but it's even worse when the colored maid has a small child who looks exactly like somebody too close to home for comfort."

One of the housewives in this story of the Deep South makes that speech, which gives Caldwell's novel its title. It is the crux of the book's whole situation, for it describes one of the "customs of the country" that no one wants to link with.

The scene is the half white half Negro town of Palmyra, population 3,000. The central figure is a simple-minded radio repairman with the odd name of Native Hummick.

Native has an octomom mistress named Josene. She works for Maebelle Bowers, who has come into some property from her late husband. Caldwell makes what is for him a marriage of convenience with Maebelle for a very simple reason—Maebelle sets a mighty good table.

The trouble begins when Maebelle discovers Native and Josene together. In her rage and humiliation she demands that both her new husband and the wench be punished by the law—an unheard of demand, for the penalties never are looked against a white man.

In the aftermath of this commotion, a young Negro is murdered brutally by a sadistic deputy sheriff, and the whole town is stirred up. Part of the author's message is that the times are changing, and that officers can't kill Negroes as casually as they once did.

Caldwell is a veteran chronicler of the grossly earthy characters of this milieu and has a sure touch with narrative and local color. This seems to be one of his more telling productions.

Small Lace Bug May Mar Foliage

Lace bugs may call to mind a ladies' sewing circle, but actually they're another pest to watch for on your trees and shrubs in early summer. This leaf sucker is one thing of beauty which—with apologies to the poet—is not a joy forever.

It especially likes to show off its handiwork on prized sycamores. The adult has whitish transparent wings netted like lace. Only an eight-inch long, it makes up in numbers what it lacks in size, and heavy infestations can create considerable unsightliness of the foliage.

This quaint villain also feeds on basswood, hawthorn, white oak and cherry, and on such evergreens as andromeda, azalea, rhododendron and laurel.

Sickly specks on the upper leaf surfaces are your clue to this nuisance, which works from the underside and away from the light. Under surfaces will look dirty and feel sticky. The lace bug seldom does major harm but it lowers a plant's vigor and vitality.

To control, spray leaf undersides with lindane, malathion or DDT. Frequently there is more than one generation a season, so it may be necessary to spray two or more times during the summer to be safe.

Lace bugs winter on their deciduous tree-host plants as adults and on evergreens as eggs, he adults hibernate under the flakes of tree bark; at other times in nooks and crannies near the tree.

Male Is Top Flower Arranger

NEWARK, N.Y. (AP)—The ladies were slightly aghast. A man won the national flower arranging competition.

He is John C. Dowling Jr., 48, of Gaffney, S.C., who, with his wife, operates a women's ready-to-wear clothing store.

"I really invaded a women's field, didn't I?" he said today. Dowling was declared the winner of the seventh annual Sterling Bowl Tournament at the annual Newark Rose Festival Wednesday for his arrangement of a combination of Pink Sensation and Velvet Times roses mingled with rose foliage.

"The entire arrangement cost me less than $5. I used some scrap aluminum spirals from a factory that makes molds for recapping tires," he said.

Dowling said he went to hear a lecture on floral arranging in Spartanburg, S.C., about eight years ago. The lecturer was J. Gregory Conway, one of the country's leading experts in the field. "I paid $18 to hear him, but I really got the bug."

Dowling, the only man in the field of 14 national finalists in the festival competition, was nominated by the State Garden Club Council of South Carolina as its lone representative. The original entry list included 110 persons from 41 states.

"I qualified because of my work in arranging roses two years ago at the University of South Carolina and last year at Clemson," he looks on the $5,000 perpetual challenge trophy as "the most renowned award I ever have received."

Only one other man ever has qualified for the tournament since it began in 1958.

Mrs. Raymond P. Wismer of Cranford, N.J., placed second and Mrs. Roderick Black of North Hollywood, Calif., was third.

Dowling not only is a top arranger, he is a top grower of just about everything from prize roses to prize gladioli.

THE NEW LOOK IN THE WHITE HOUSE

Young Auto Salesman Turns To Politics With Success

By MAX HARRELSON
OTTAWA (AP)—Four years ago a dynamic young automobile salesman named René Caouette, with a brief taste of politics, took to television to sell French-speaking Quebecers on the merits of the sagging Social Credit Party.

He began on a small private station. Two years later he had a regular program telecast throughout the province.

By the time of Canada's national election last Monday, Caouette's face had become as familiar in many parts of Quebec as the hero of a soap opera.

These telecasts, some political observers say, may have been the deciding factor in the election that left Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative Party without a clear majority in Parliament and gave the Social Credit Party the balance of power.

When the ballots were counted, Caouette (pronounced ka-wet) found he had won a resounding personal victory over his big party opponents. He swept into the House of Commons with him 25 other Social Credit candidates in Quebec. In the country as a whole, the party won 30 seats, its all-time high.

Twenty-two of these seats are in districts formerly held by the Conservatives.

The Socialists, as they are called, probably relished the election more than any of the other three parties. They will be in an enviable position in the coming months. But for the long pull their future doesn't seem to hold much promise.

Political experts believe the party will not find any sizeable national following for its easy money policy. Turn on the printing presses, put out enough money to buy everything the country produces, and all will be fine. They believe rather that the Quebec vote was mainly a protest against the two big parties and a general expression of discontent.

Caouette mentioned the party's monetary policies only briefly during the campaign. He doesn't expect people to understand them.

"When you buy a car," he explained, "you don't want to know how many jets there are in the carburetor. You want to know if it's going to work. Social credit will work."

About the only things the Conservatives have to be thankful for are that they won the biggest bloc of seats in the 265-member House of Commons and, as a result, the 67-year-old Diefenbaker still is prime minister.

The Conservatives lost 85 seats, dropping from 203 seats to 118—or 15 short of an absolute majority. Four of their cabinet ministers were defeated.

Although Diefenbaker has indicated he will try to carry on indefinitely as a minority government, this arrangement at best cannot be expected to produce any bold or comprehensive program for dealing with critical financial, economic and defense problems.

The prime minister will always be aware that the opposition parties can topple the government and force a new election at any time. All they have to do is join and defeat any important piece of government legislation.

Liberal leader Lester Pearson, the Nobel peace prize winner and diplomat, undoubtedly found some encouragement in gains of his party. It suffered a stinging defeat four years ago.

The Liberals now have 96 seats, compared with 51 in the last Parliament. They did especially well in populous Ontario province and made substantial gains in Quebec despite the inroads of the Socialists.

Liberal strategists feel that if a new election comes in the near future, this showing in the two big provinces might cause a substantial shift of voters to their cause both in the Atlantic provinces and on the prairies, where the Conservatives hold most of the seats.

Most frustrating of all was the experience of the New Democratic Party, making its first appearance in a national election. It is a farmer-labor organization, made up of the old Cooperative Commonwealth Federation and organized labor.

The NDP wound up with 19 seats, considerably less than the CFC won in several elections. The CFC, for example, had 29 seats in 1945 and 25 even as recently as 1957. An additional blow was the defeat of T. C. Tommy Douglas, leader of the party and

Secondary Recovery Ups Reserves

By MAX H. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—Oil reserves in the United States are much more impressive if secondary recovery wells are added to primary reserves.

Wells which require help for commercial production have reserve estimates far more than half the reserves which produce through conventional methods.

An Interstate Oil Compact Commission study committee this week estimated primary reserves at 31.3 billion barrels and secondary reserves at 16.3 billion barrels.

The combined total is equivalent to 47.6 billion barrels of oil.

The compact's oil resources subcommittee believes the United States actually has another 40.1 billion barrels of recoverable reserves.

Secondary methods for recovery of a another 40.1 billion barrels from old or sluggish wells are known but technical, legal and economic problems must be overcome before such oil can be produced commercially.

The significance of secondary recovery wells is indicated by 1960 output in Texas. The state produced 892 million barrels of crude and 25.1 per cent of it came from wells which needed scientific assistance for commercial production.

Many old wells and wells with weak reservoir pressures frequently can be turned into producers through injection of water, gas, or chemicals into the underground reservoirs.

More than 29 per cent of the crude produced in the United States in 1960 required some type of fluid injection.

The compact report said more than half the oil produced in New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and California that year came from such operations.

Secondary reserves through gas and water injection in New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Nebraska, Colorado and Utah are greater than existing primary reserves. Similar reserves in Oklahoma and New Mexico are nearly equivalent to primary reserves.

one-time premier of Saskatchewan, long-time stronghold of the CFC.

Many political observers feel a new election within the next year is almost inevitable, although at the moment none of the opposition parties appears to be eager to rush into a new campaign.

Treasuries must be replenished and strategy planned.

Diefenbaker doesn't seem as inclined to call a new election as he did in 1958 after carrying on for nine months as a minority government—although he may eventually find the going too difficult.

Summing up a view widely held by the public, the influential Toronto Star offered this editorial comment:

"Few Canadians can take any real satisfaction in the result of Monday's general election. It has produced a situation little short of political chaos."

The paper added that a minority government of the kind envisaged by the Conservatives "is an infallible recipe for bad government—weak, timid and indecisive."

Junior Editors Quiz on FISH

QUESTION: Does a sawfish really saw wood?

ANSWER: Wouldn't it be nice if it did? Our artist was so fascinated by the idea that he drew the upper picture just for fun. Of course, no fish could live out of water and fish can't be trained to work in farmers' back yards. The real way a sawfish uses his saw is shown in the picture below. He comes surging up underneath a school of small fish and starts thrashing around in all directions. A number of the small fish will be killed or stunned by the saw, and these the sawfish eats at leisure after the rest of the school has swum away. Notice the side fins in our pictures; they show that the sawfish is related to the large flat fishes called rays. A sawfish is also something like a shark. They are large, powerful fish, weighing up to 800 pounds, aggressive and savage by nature. Sawfish are found in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans and are caught along the Atlantic coast in mid-summer, sometimes ranging as far north as New England.

FOR YOU TO DO: It is good to know that the sawfish is a version of the idea of the sawfish-sawing wood.

MODERN MEXICAN HOUSING—The Mexican government is attempting to solve its housing problem with low cost apartments such as these in Mexico City. The Mexican capital will be visited by President Kennedy June 29. He will have private talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos during his 48 hour visit. (AP Wirephoto)

Mexicans To Display Their Independence

By MORRIS ROSENBERG
MEXICO CITY (AP)—When President Kennedy arrives here next Friday for a 48-hour visit, Mexicans hope he will get the message: Mexicans are definitely friendly but definitely independent neighbors.

They plan to give the President the greatest welcome ever received by any foreign dignitary. But with all the cheers, flowers, confetti and music, Mexicans want Kennedy to understand that Mexico cannot be counted on anybody's pocket; that Mexico is fiercely jealous of its right to manage its own affairs as it sees best—even if this occasionally ruffles feelings in Washington.

Mexicans see no reason why this attitude of strict independence should prevent friendly relations with their big northern neighbor.

Kennedy will have two to three hours of private talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. Officials are hopeful they will help clarify differing views between the two neighbors.

One difference caused a delay in the Kennedy visit originally planned for early this year.

Last December Mexico was the only Latin American nation to vote with Communist-ruled Cuba against a meeting of the Organization of American States—OAS—to deal with the problem of Castro.

The meeting created an atmosphere in some U.S. quarters in which it was felt best to delay the presidential visit.

At the OAS meeting in Punta del Este, Mexico and Brazil led opposition to proposals to break off relations with the Fidel Castro regime and throw it out of the OAS.

Mexico finally came up with the solution of maintaining relations but declaring the Cuban regime incompatible with the American system of representative democracy. Both the United States and Mexico maintain diplomatic relations with nations that can hardly be classified as representative democracies.

The fact that Kennedy now will visit both Mexico and Brazil, however, has had repercussions in some other Latin American countries.

Some of those who strongly supported the U.S. anti-Castro position and broke relations with Cuba—despite internal threats from pro-Castro forces—now ask: What do you have to do to make Uncle Sam appreciate you? Kick him in the pants?

Some Latin American diplomats here see Mexico and Brazil as attempting to lead a new independent force in Latin America—free of political commitments with either Western or Eastern blocs and pushing trade with both.

The pillars of Mexican foreign policy are the principles of self-determination and non-intervention—which means the right of each nation to have its own system of government without anyone else butting in.

President Lopez Mateos has declared that Mexico maintains a strictly independent position in foreign policy—that Mexico does not belong to any political or military bloc and seeks friendly relations with all nations.

In their talks, the two presidents are likely to range over world problems in general, including disarmament, since Mexico is a member of the 18-nation

Petition Is Dissolved

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A petition requesting a 17-year-old Mexican girl who was illegally confined in a San Antonio convent dissolved in a flood of tears here Thursday.

Wearing the robes of a novice nun, Maria Espinola wept into the arms of her mother in 31th District Court.

The widowed mother, Mrs. Clara Espinola, had filed the petition for a writ of habeas corpus asking release of her daughter from the Blessed Sacrament convent.

The daughter was brought to the center a year ago to study English.

A 10-minute talk between mother and daughter resulted in dismissal of the petition.

Mrs. Espinola told the court her daughter told her she had not been "confinement" but agreed to return to Mexico City, with her mother provided stipulations were met.

The stipulations are, Mrs. Espinola said, that the daughter will be allowed to return to the convent in three months if she wishes, and that Mrs. Espinola will "subject myself to Catholicism as my daughter wants me to."

10 Texans Oppose Regime Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ten Texas congressmen voted Thursday to kill the administration farm bill and 12 voted no.

Voting to kill were Reps. Beckworth, Burleson, Cases, Dowdy, Eisher, Kilgore, Mahon, Rutherford and Young. Democrats, and Alger, Republican.

Votes against sending the measure back to committee were cast by Reps. Brooks, Gonzalez, Patsch, Poague, Purcell, Roberts, Rogers, Tamm, Thayer, Thompson, Thornberry and Wright.

Sad Group Takes Leave Of Algeria

MARSEILLE (AP)—By air and sea, the once defiant Europeans of Algeria are fleeing the land they had vowed to keep French forever.

About 6,500 sad, bewildered, bitter and disillusioned French people from Algeria arrive every day in the homeland that many have never before seen.

The number seems to be limited only by the availability of transportation.

"If there were ships to take them out, the Europeans would still be in Oran," a man said as he stepped onto the dock.

The old, the young and the women make up the biggest share of the arrivals. They come with their dogs, cats and canaries. Some come with their cars.

Many have come seeking new homes, but some are looking only for a haven. Almost all fear that Algeria's Muslims may run wild during the next month in celebration of independence.

France today represents security that they could not be sure of in independent Algeria.

"The number of men coming in by ship is relatively small," said Albert Payan, police commissioner for the Marseille port. "One day this week we had 4,500 arrivals by sea, and only 530 of them were men between the ages of 17 and 60."

"My husband stayed behind to guard the apartment and the furniture," said a woman with three small children. "He may come later or we may go back to Algeria. We'll have to see how things go."

An 80-year-old retired farmer had tears in his eyes. "I've lived there for 40 years. I wanted to die there. I didn't want to leave but my children wouldn't let me stay."

About 3,500 repatriates — they are never called refugees — come to Marseille by ship on an average day, and another 3,000 arrive by air. Other planes go to Paris, Lyon or Toulouse. A few ships make the longer trip to Bordeaux. Marseille, the traditional gateway to France from Algeria is about 36 hours from Algiers by ship and two hours by propeller plane.

Soldiers help unload luggage. Customs regulations have been eased.

Red Cross volunteers carry the sick and wounded on stretchers. A nursery on the dock takes care of children while parents go through formalities.

The Ministry for Repatriates has a large office to aid anyone in trouble.

About 50 per cent of the repatriates move out of Marseille the same day they arrive. They go by train or in friends' cars. Most of the rest stay only a day or two.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The University of Tennessee is considering a plan which would allow bright high school juniors to advance straight to college.

Under the proposal, the student would skip his senior year in high school and possibly receive a high school diploma at the end of his freshman year in college.

The idea is to encourage gifted students to advance rapidly.

Moisture In Texas Improves, But Some Areas Remain Dry

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Moisture has improved in Texas but some critically dry counties got no rain.

Inspector John Hutchinson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said moisture over the Plains area generally would be sufficient to permit planting of dryland crops in counties where extensive damage was done by drought, blizzards and washing rains, much replanting will be done in fields dry.

The new moisture will improve grazing but has stopped the small grain harvest, delayed cultivation and kept cotton farmers away from fighting insects, Hutchinson said.

No rain fell by Wednesday in far South Texas, where dryland crops needed moisture. Cotton looks good. The cotton harvest in the Winter Garden area is at the peak of good prices and yields.

The Valley spring vegetable deal is about over. Some tomatoes, melons and carrots are still moving.

Cotton, corn, grain sorghum and hay crops in South Central Texas counties are making satisfactory growth. The hay harvest is in full swing with quality good. Blackeye peas, tomatoes, watermelons, carrots, cucumbers, potatoes, sweet corn and squash are being harvested.

Moisture in the upper Gulf Coast area has exceptionally good crop prospects. Moisture is adequate. Corn is in the roasting ear stage. Sorghums are heading. Rains hampered the hay harvest.

The vegetable crops look good and early rice is budding.

Moisture in East Texas ranged from adequate to short. Pastures and livestock were rated average. Vegetables are being harvested. Twenty-three scabworm cases were reported during the week.

Moisture is adequate in Central Texas and the showery weather is slowing farm work. A fair oat crop has been harvested and prospects look good for corn.

The peach crop will be light but a good peanut crop has been set. Most peanuts are planted. Pastures are good and livestock normal.

Moisture is critically short in Tom Green and counties near San Angelo, but other Central West Texas counties are in better shape. The grain harvest is over with very light crops. Ranges in the Big Bend area have only dry forage but livestock generally are in fair to good condition.

Showers helped in parts of far

West Texas but a general rain is needed for dryland crops and ranges. Irrigated crops are making good growth. Hay damaged some crops. Livestock conditions were fair with some feeding and parasites reported.

Moisture is adequate in Northeast Texas. Early cotton is squaring but fleahoppers and boll weevils are active. Pastures are average.

Surplus moisture is preventing the completion of rain harvest, cultivation and poisoning of cotton for insects in North Central Texas. Pastures were excellent with livestock looking good. Cotton planting was still not complete.

Moisture was adequate in the Rolling Plains (Vernon) where the wheat harvest is being completed. Farmers are reporting thousands of acres of cotton lost to turbulent weather. The total is as high as 65-80 per cent in some counties. Early sorghum is heading.

All except four counties in the South Plains district now have adequate moisture. Dryland cotton and sorghum are being planted.

One Person Killed By Run-Away Truck

DICKSON CITY, Pa. (AP)—A runaway tractor-trailer truck struck several buildings Thursday night. One person was killed and several others injured.

Police said the driver of the truck, Edward Goodman, 24, of Palmyra, N.Y., sounded his horn as the truck ran wild down the Dundas street hill in this eastern Pennsylvania community. Goodman was seriously injured. His brakes apparently failed, police said.

The truck, loaded with frozen foods, hit two parked cars, sheared off a pole, sliced off a two-story porch which several persons had been sitting on, and ripped across a shoe repair shop before coming to a stop inside the recreation room of a cafe.

Leonard Buzza, 15, was killed. His mother, Mrs. Charles Buzza, witnessed the accident.

Like all meat frankfurters? Then read the label when you buy the franks to make sure of what you are getting.

ed. Crops in Hale, Floyd, Swisher and Briscoe counties were damaged considerably by hail. The winter harvest is 75 per cent complete.

Rains ranging from showers to downpours greatly improved moisture in the Panhandle. Hail damage was heavy in some areas. The range and cattle situation generally was good.

From me to you. A DAILY VIEW

Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"Go therefore and make disciples of all nations..."

Matthew 28:19 (read verses 16-20)

There are very few specific commands of Jesus. Most of the biography of His life consists of his teachings and healings which of course give direction to life and leave one with the impression that he should by all means do this or that. But the command, "Go" or "Do" is not often used. When it is, you can be sure that Jesus meant for us to do or go, and not dally about it.

"Go into all the world," that means here in this community; it means over in the state next to us; it means across the seas in those countries; and it might mean across the space to new planets. Wherever there is life, there is a need for Jesus Christ, and the Gospel. We must not fail to respond to Christ's command and their need.
