Bob Silver Is Given Liberty from Prison

Attends Lions Meet as Delegate

S. H. NANCE

NANCE OFF AS LION DELEGATE TO PROVIDENCE

President S. H. Nance and Mrs. Nance leave this morning for the Lions International convention at Providence, R. I., July 20-24, after which they will see the many scenic places in the famous New England states, returning along the Atlantic coast and through the Blue Ridge mountains, taking, as Steve says, the first real vacation he has had in years.

SAVED FIVE TIMES FROM DEATH CHAIR

HUNTSVILLE, July 11. (U.P.)—J. R. (Bob) Silver, 32, saved five times from the electric chair, walked from the state prison here today into the arms of a pretty young woman who has waited for him nine years. Silver had been in the state prison since his conviction for the murder of Roscoe Wilson, theatre employee, who was killed and robbed of $3,900 January 31, 1927. His sentence was commuted twice, and he was released today.

McCormicks Leaving For Beaumont Job

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCormick and children are leaving Cisco Tuesday for Beaumont, where Mr. McCormick will be associated with the Pittsburgh Water Heater company as Sales Supervisor. Mr. McCormick will have Houston, Galveston, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange territory, with eight employees under his supervision.

E. D. SPILLER OPPOSES ANY STOCK IMPORTS

MARFA, Tex., July 11. (U.P.)—Importation of foreign cattle was criticized today by E. D. Spiller, secretary and general manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in an address before the executive committee. "Present importation" he said, "are not serious in themselves, but they are a constant threat to our own markets. They come in heavy quantities at the same time, and are trying to dispose of our own surplus, and consequently weaken our market at the time we need a strong market."

State School Head Visits R. N. Cluck

L. A. Wood, state superintendent of public instructions, was in Cisco Saturday conferring with Supt. R. N. Cluck and Secretary W. Frank Walker. He incidentally complimented Cisco schools and especially her superintendent, Mr. Cluck, on the fine system of public education maintained here.

Austria and Germany Form Entente Italy May Be Possible Ally Later

VIENNA, July 11. (U.P.)—Austria and Germany, after years of strife over Nazi's attempts to master this country tonight agreed to take steps to form an Austro-German entente. An official report said Austria recognizes herself as a Germanic state, in return for which Germany will recognize complete Austrian provinces. Each nation agreed not to mix directly or indirectly in the internal affairs of the other, the report said, adding that Austria reserved the right to treat Nazism as an internal question. The two governments by a series of separate measures, will create conditions required for the possible Italo-Austro-German alliance.

How' Hoppers Blighted U. S. Corn

This small section of cornfield, with stalks stripped or entirely destroyed, reveals at a glance the story of the tragic ruin, costing millions, visited upon the cornfields of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma by the grasshopper scourge. In the picture above, one row had been almost entirely denuded of stalks and the row at the right also was ravaged by the pests. At a time when farmers already were facing poverty, with cattle starving and fields burned out in the drought, the grasshopper plague was an unusually bitter calamity.

Trade Census Moves Toward First Reports

By JOHN FRANKISH
United Press Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, July 11. (U.P.)—Publication of a preliminary report on the Federal Census of American Business late next month is expected to reveal the trend of recovery during the past two years.

CAMP GROUP TO ATTEND CHURCH IN CITY TODAY

The entire personnel of the Presbyterian encampment at Lake Cisco will come into the services at the First Presbyterian church today, it was announced, attending Sunday school and the morning preaching service. This includes all delegates and the visiting ministers and other officials of the camp. The pastor, Rev. M. H. Applewhite will preach. Communion services will be conducted tonight at the encampment with Rev. J. Stuart Pearce officiating.

Romney Man Dies Of Heart Attack

Funeral services will be held today at 3 o'clock at Romney for H. Y. Wilson, 64, who died Friday near Leuders. While fishing on the Clear Fork river, Mr. Wilson suffered a heart attack which he did not survive. He has been a resident of Romney for the past several years and will be remembered by many Cisco citizens. Survivors are a wife, and one daughter, Mrs. Role Cotton of Parks, Texas.

"SPOOKS" SCARE FOWLS, TOO TOLEDO — (U.P.)—Even a turkey vulture is afraid of "spooks." At the Toledo Zoo, the strutting fowl fled, screaming fearfully, when he thought he saw one. But the "spook" was merely a white spotted barn owl, which hissed at the dozing turkey vulture from the darkness.

ROOSEVELT DEDICATES N. Y. BRIDGE

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 11. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt, participating in the dedication today of New York's new $60,300,000 Triborough bridge declared that federal and local governments to survive must provide "reasonable and constant help" to meet the problems arising from the increasing complexities of life.

MRS. FRED COX TO BE BURIED AT SAN ANGELO

Mrs. Fred Cox, 25, who suffered unknown pain with spinal meningitis the past several days in the Graham's Sanitarium, passed away Saturday at 12 o'clock. Mrs. Cox is the former Jimmie Yarbrough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Yarbrough of this city. She was born in Ranger, Texas, but lived most of her life in Cisco where she attended public schools. After graduating from Cisco high school, she worked at the Retail Merchants Association here, before going to McComme where she was general manager of an association. From McComme Miss Yarbrough went to San Angelo where she met and married Fred Cox in May 1935. To this couple was born a son, two months ago.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at the family residence, 1212 West Ninth Street. Burial will take place in San Angelo Green's Funeral Home had charge. Survivors are: Parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Yarbrough, her husband and infant son; three sisters, Mrs. Leonard Surles of McComme, Mrs. H. H. Qualls of Wink, Mrs. Westbrook Teer of Hobbs, N. M., Mrs. E. H. Marsh of Missouri, two brothers, Dan and L. M. Yarbrough of Cisco.

Briefs are Asked in Appeal Bond Cases

HOUSTON, July 11. (U.P.)—City Attorney R. R. Lewis asked the city council here today for instructions to file an amicus curiae brief in the state supreme court on an appealed court's decision at Eastland which would prevent political subdivisions from selling future bond issues in the open market. Lewis also asks that other Texas cities be requested to file briefs on the decision which was handed down in the case of Bankers Life Insurance company vs. The Breckenridge Independent School District. "The effect of this decision is that when a municipality issues its bonds," Lewis said, "the first bond issue has priority in payment over subsequent issues."

'No Beer' Despite Recent Rulings

AUSTIN, July 11. (U.P.)—Dry counties in Texas are still "beerless" despite a recent ruling by the Attorney General on malt beverage. D. B. Benson, chairman of liquor control board, said today.

Squirrels Infected With Bubonic Plague; Grazing Pastures Closed

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 11. (U.P.)—State health officials announced today they had closed down 6,000 acres of grazing land in central California, following discovery that ground squirrels in the region were suffering from bubonic plague. No cases of human infection have been discovered, officials said, and drastic measures were being taken to eradicate the infection. Some twenty families living in the district were ordered removed. Bubonic plague is extremely rare in the United States. It is carried by small fleas on rats, ground squirrels and other rodents.

Woman Sheriff To Be Hangman

Hanging criminals is part of her duty she declares, so Mrs. Florence Thompson, above, Daviess county, Ky., sheriff, will spring the trap for Rainey Bethea, 23, slayer of an aged woman. Bethea is sentenced to die July 31 at Owensboro. Mrs. Thompson, mother of four children, was named sheriff when her husband died in April.

HYMAN GORWIZ DENIED BAITED CHILD TRAPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 11. (U.P.)—Hyman Gorwitz, 56, today pleaded not guilty to a charge of "assault with intent to do great bodily harm" by baiting wolf traps with imitation dimes to catch children. Bail was fixed at $2,500. Municipal Judge Deaniel O'Brien examined the trap. "The most vicious thing I ever saw," he commented. Gorwitz told his side of the story before the court hearing began. "Those traps were not set," he added. They would not hurt anybody. I put up a big sign in red paint saying 'trespassers beware of danger'.

Milk Price to Rise With Cost of Feed

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 11. (U.P.)—The Fort Worth milk shed is out of the nation's drought area, but dairymen announced today that they will meet Monday to consider increasing wholesale milk prices to conform to rising feed costs. The meeting of producers was called after a committee had conferred with creamery operators with cut success.

Potato Salad Cause Illness of 75 People

FORT WORTH, July 11. (U.P.)—City health officials today investigated the illness of nearly 75 persons stricken Friday night after a picnic at Lake Worth for Dallas and Fort Worth employees of an insurance company. W. N. Dashiell, City Food Inspector, traced the malady to tainted "potato salad."

WHEAT CROPS AND GRAZING LANDS BARE

By HARRY FERGUSON
CHICAGO, Ill., July 11. (U.P.)—A great mass of cool air came ballooning across the Rockies from Oregon tonight bringing with it the promise of healing rains and relief from a thirty day drought. It may be too late, weather experts said, to save anything except the corn crops. Little can be salvaged from the wheat crops, and most pastures are burned bare, according to reports from an area stretching from Denver to the Appalachians.

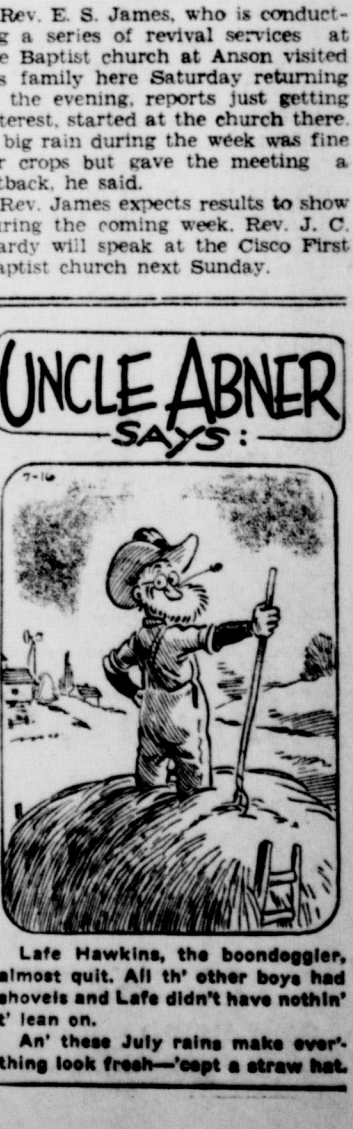

J. H. Lloyd, Chicago weather forecaster, said the cool air was moving moving so slowly eastward that it probably would not reach the great grain belt until late Sunday. Until then the discouraged people can only suffer and pray. According to the averages for the past week, about fifty of them will die between now and the scheduled arrival of rain. Such deaths already total 456 for the drought period, and experts put the drought to cattle and crops at $300,000,000. The promise of rain lifted the hearts of farmers and sweltering men and women in cities, but it was bad news for a small group of men gathered in the Chicago grain pit. Prices broke, finally wheat was 2 cents a bushel off the maximum decline permitted under exchange rules. It appeared to be the end of the sensational two weeks full market in which grain mounted up to the five cent maximum several times. Corn followed wheat and slumped 7 cents a bushel after a 3 cent gain. The Kansas City market fell also. J. B. Lloyd, the weather forecaster started it all with the report: "Showers will fall in the Dakotas northwestern Minnesota, Nebraska and extreme northwestern Kansas. They will be more than scattered rains, and undoubtedly will bring relief from the heat and aid what crops are not already destroyed."

Ethiopian Warriors Fighting Italians
ROME, Italy, July 11. (U.P.)—Ethiopian warriors waging implacable warfare against Italian forces of occupation, forced Marshall Rodolfo Graziani, vice-roy of Ethiopia, to put his armies back on a war basis today.

REV. E. S. JAMES VISITS FAMILY BACK TO ANSON

Rev. E. S. James, who is conducting a series of revival services at the Baptist church at Anson visited his family here Saturday returning in the evening, reports just getting interest, started at the church there. A big rain during the week was fine for crops but gave the meeting a setback, he said. Rev. James expects results to show during the coming week. Rev. J. C. Hardy will speak at the Cisco First Baptist church next Sunday.

UNCLE ABNER SAYS

Life Hawkins, the boondoggler, almost quit. All the other boys had shovels and Life didn't have nothin' to lean on. "An' these rains make over-thing look fresh—'cept a straw hat."

Just Let It Be a Duck

A woman passing a pet shop saw in the window some two-day old ducks. She went in, bought one, took it home, and that evening after dark slipped it under an unsuspecting hen which had just hatched off a brood of chicks.

The next morning when the little duck crawled out from under the old hen she gave him the once over for the first time. Evidently she was mentally disturbed over him; but being new at the chick business and having no preconceived notions as to what eggshells might properly unfold, she seemed to come to the conclusion that in some way or other she was responsible for that odd creature; so she dutifully accepted the obligation and gave the little duck first lessons in eating, and hovered him along with her chicks.

That hen mother did not try to make a little chicken out of that little duck. But there are some human mothers who would have attempted to do so had they been in the old hen's place. They would have begun to work on him immediately to make him orthodox in every respect; to conform him in every detail to their idea of the standard mold.

"You mustn't say 'keek, keek, keek,'" such a mother would order the little duck, "You must say 'peep, peep, peep,'" and if the little duck tried to do that he would fizzle his vocal cords.

"Don't gobble your food like that; pick it up dainty, so." "If you yank your head back and forth in that manner you may injure your mind." "Don't waddle when you walk—swing from the hip." "I wonder where that child got his awful mouth! What in the world makes him stick out so far in front and so far behind? He never got that figure from anybody on my side of the family."

And that mother would keep on with that little duck and pester him about his natural healthy characteristics until life wouldn't be worth living. Probably she would take him to a surgeon and have the webbing clipped between his toes.

Every now and then some little human duckling finds himself in some human hen's family; then his hell begins: "He gets off in the barn or in the attic and saws away on that old fiddle every chance he can get. I got half a mind to take a hatchet and break it up."

"She is always making pictures on something with chalk or some paint. If she don't stop it I'm going to give her something to think about."

"The boy worries me continually. He is always running away from the store down to that machine shop."

"Always she is making writings on a piece of paper what ain't got no sense to it when she ought to be doing her work."

How fortunate is that little duck that happens to get into a hen's family to find himself with a hen that hasn't sense enough to try to change him into a chick, or has too much sense to try it.

Big City Amendment

West Texas is now making a fight that has historic footings in the nation and in every state where big cities have begun to form.

The fight is for proportional representation, that is, to permit the sparsely-populated sections to have a voice in the legislature, rather than to give the large cities big delegations of members.

Underlying this year's fight for the legislative amendment is a sharply-poised question of outright majority control of the lawmaking machinery, as between rural and small-town membership, and the city membership.

Representative districts in some West Texas areas are as big as eastern states, while four counties have four or five members apiece. Foreseeing the tremendous growth of Houston in the next few years, and the growth of Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth, West Texas wants to limit any county to six house members, until the population gets very large, then increase the membership more slowly than in the small-town growing districts.

Van Zandt Jarvis, mayor of Fort Worth and new president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is supporting the amendment. Ray H. Nichols of Vernon, retiring president, strongly stressed the importance of this amendment at the recent WTTC state convention.

Support of this amendment, which gave its submission two-thirds majorities in both houses, is not sectional, but in general, includes all the small-population and small-town counties all over the state. Its diminishing-scale representation plan in effect.

FAKE TOTEM POLES SOLD

WASHINGTON.—(U.P.)—Dr. Ernest Gruening, director of territories for the government, estimates that "three-quarters of the Totem poles sold to tourists in Alaska are made in the Orient." Gruening is seeking a way to stimulate native manufacture of Alaskan souvenirs and curios to compete with the Japanese.

FELONS GIVE UP BONUS

JOLIET, Ill.—(U.P.)—Four hundred inmates of the Illinois State and Stateville prisons received bonus checks but were forced to turn them over to prison officials immediately. Convicts who keep their money on deposit rather than turn it over to their families are permitted to spend $3 a week in the commissary.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

by Ida R. Gleason
© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLAIRE FOSDICK sets out to drive to the lonely mountain home left her by her eccentric uncle, LYMAN FOSDICK. Claire is trying to decide whether to marry NICK BAUM, to whom she owes money. She also hopes to find a valuable and mysterious jewel owned by her uncle and believed to be hidden in the house.
Her car is wrecked by a log across the road. PAT MACAN, an old friend, and BOB STEELE, a young engineer, arrive on the scene and take Claire to the nearby hotel where FRANK SPRATT and his sister, SUSIE, are the caretakers.
Claire sees a curious arrow carved on the wall of an upstairs bedroom and, lamp in hand, follows the arrow to the cupola. A sudden noise makes her jump. Next morning Frank Spratt disappears. Both sisters are found seriously injured.
HANNAH, Claire's housekeeper, arrives on the trail to solve the mystery, wanders into a deserted mine. An unseen opponent attacks her and she is thrown to the ground. Susie's consciousness is restored by a tapping noise which he follows.
Nick Baum arrives at the old house.

old place—and no wonder," she said softly. "It's very beautiful, isn't it?"

Nick gathered her, book and all, into his arms, and kissed her. "Not half so beautiful as you are, Claire," he whispered. "Say you're glad I came, for I've got to go now."

She smiled up at him. "I think I'm always glad to see you, Nick."

AFTER she had waved goodbye to him from the doorway and watched him start off down the winding road Claire started upstairs to find Hannah.

As she passed a small window half-way up the stairway, she glanced out, then stopped abruptly and looked again. Down the sloping hillside behind a big bush she could see Nick Baum talking to Susie. Claire was not aware that Nick knew the housekeeper.

Susie's hand rested familiarly on Nick's arm and he was looking down at her, apparently absorbed in what she was saying. Then, to Claire's untold amazement, he took the woman into his arms and kissed her.

Evidently Susie and Nick Baum did know each other—very well indeed.

Susie again. At every turn of the way the baby-faced housekeeper seemed to appear. Claire decided it was time to discuss matters openly with Susie and find out what she knew about several things—Eb, Dan Dallas, her unexplained appearance from the apparently empty root cellar, and now Nick Baum. Where could the woman possibly have known him? Nick had said he had been at the House of Long Shadows only once before. Claire had never had occasion to doubt his word on anything.

AS though Claire's need of him penetrated even to the dark tunnel where he lay sleeping, Pat roused up. If he ever expected to dig his way out of this infernal place, he'd better be at it—though, for all he knew, he might be excavating into the side of a mountain.

Yet there had been that tapping noise which had led him in this direction. He hadn't heard the sound for some time now. Experimentally he tapped the wall at regular intervals, as nearly as possible like the noise he had heard. At first he could hear nothing. Then, to his joy, an answer came back.

Speculations raced through Pat's mind as he put every ounce of his strength into the task before him. Again and again, mechanically, his arms swung the pick, though each time it was with lessening effort. He took to counting the strokes aloud, the very sound of his own voice helping a little.

Claire's image swam from the blackness of the yawning hole.

How utterly lonely she was. "Fifty, fifty-one, fifty-two. Claire, I'm coming to you, dear! I'm coming—to tell you—why I—"

AT that very moment Claire was standing outside the root cellar, wondering what she should do next. Susie had not reappeared after her interview with Nick Baum, although it was now near supper time.

Claire's report about Nick Baum and Susie had enlisted Hannah's liveliest interest.

"So," Hannah snorted. "Maybe you'll see now what kind of a rattlesnake that woman is. I always said she'd do anything. But where in time could she have met up with Nick Baum?"

"I can't imagine," Claire answered. "He told me he'd only been here once before."

"You don't think for one minute that Susie is stationary, do you? That gal's a roamer, and don't you ever forget it! It Eb didn't hold her down, no tellin' where she'd end up. She—" Hannah's harangue was interrupted by a moan from Bob Steele.

Both women rushed to his side. For an instant his eyelids fluttered open and his lips moved. Claire leaned nearer, then after a minute looked up. "Hannah, do believe he's sleeping more naturally. He seemed quite rational when he opened his eyes. I think he wanted to speak to me."

But after waiting for some time, there seemed no further change in the patient, so Claire went to the kitchen to search for Susie. Unable to find her, she had gone on to the cellar. Now she made her way slowly down the stone steps into the darkness below. She would light the lamp and try again to solve the mystery of the place.

Holding the glowing lamp, she looked around the cellar room. Claire moved toward the shadowy end of the room and suddenly stopped. Regularly, evenly, came sounds of something beating against that side of the wall.

There could be no doubt about it now. Someone or something was digging back of that wall. Was that the tapping she had heard in Lyman Fosdick's library and in the bedroom directly above? This part of the cellar was almost underneath the roots of the pine tree outside the library window.

A cold sweat broke out on the girl's forehead. Could it be Eb, alive or dead? Or the white miner, delving at his ghostly diggings? The lamp in her hand suddenly dimmed. She looked down at it in terror, and saw that it was empty. She simply could not stay there, listening to those horrible sounds in the dark. In panic she rushed up the cellar steps.

"We're Home Folks"

MYRA NORTH, Special Nurse — By Thompson and Coll

JUNGLE PATROLS URGED — (U.P.) — "Flying the activities of elephants tigers and other big game in British Malaya, are among the suggestions being considered by Sir Thomas Comyn-Platt, after a tour of Ceylon and Malaya on behalf of the Society for the Preservation of Empire Fauna.

POTATO HI-JACKERS APPEAR — (U.P.) — With the potato shortage boosting prices as high as $2.50 a hundredweight, the hi-jacking of potatoes has become a new field for gangsters. Truckmen, hauling a heavy crop here, report as unusually large disappearance of 100-pound sacks of spuds from their trucks.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquiries must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What are the maximum distances across Texas? M. B. Temple. A. From north to south, 801 miles, from east to west 773 miles.

Q. What Texas Ranger, who went alone to quell a riot, on being asked if only one Ranger had come, is credited with replying, "There ain't but one riot, is there?" T. O. D. Paint Rock. A. Captain Bill McDonald, who later served as body guard for President Woodrow Wilson.

Q. Are mushrooms grown extensively in Texas? G. F. Bay City. A. A $100,000 annual crop is grown at Alameda, near Houston, as a hobby of a Houston oil man.

Q. What was the first novel on Texas? L. L. Dallas. A. It is said to have been anonymous publication printed in Paris in 1819 and entitled "Heroine du Texas."

Q. Will you give a list of the South Carolinians prominent in early Texas history? B. A. Charleston, S. C. A. A complete list would be too long for this space, but among them were W. B. Travis, Thomas J. Rusk, David Rusk, Samuel A. Maverick, Bernard E. Bee, Henry P. Brewster, John Hemphill and Frank R. Lubbock.

Q. Is George L. Dahl, the Texas Centennial architect, a native Texan? E. T. Fort Worth. A. He came to Texas from Minnesota.

TOURING TEXAS OVER OLD ROADS A sketchy booklet of information about Texas past and present. Sixty pages of description of Texas heroes, historic places and points of interest, written to give much about Texas in small space and to encourage readers to desire to know more.

It has the endorsement of the Texas Centennial Commission and Daughters of the Republic of Texas as to accuracy and interest. Foreword by Prof. H. P. Gambrell, of Southern Methodist University and Wylie A. Parker, of Forest Avenue High School, Dallas.

This booklet mailed postpaid for 25 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

A WHISPERING CAMPAIGN TO MISLEAD CHARGED BY ALLRED

CROCKETT, July 11. (SPL)—A "whispering campaign" instigated by his opponents is being used in attempts to mislead and needlessly alarm the old people of Texas. Gov. James V. Allred charged here Friday night.

"For months, if you remember, these gentlemen went about the state saying that no old age assistance payments would be made because we didn't have the money to make them," the governor said.

"When the checks were mailed out on schedule July 1, just as I had pledged all along, to more than 40,000 of our needy citizens my opponents had to change their tune.

"Now they are having their friends whisper to the old people that the lists are closed on old age assistance payments—that no more names will be added to the rolls.

"Emphatically, that is not so! Investigations are still being carried on and new names are being certified and added to the rolls daily.

"Shame to these men, who are playing politics with the panic of our unfortunate a needy old people!"

The present old age assistance act is only a part of his program for social security in Texas, Governor Allred said. He reminded his Houston county audience that he is the first candidate for governor who has publicly proposed passage of a law to authorize Texas to participate in the benefits of the National government's program for unemployment insurance, aid for dependent children, maternal and child welfare and aid for the blind.

"This program can be carried out, I am sure, at small cost to the state," he said. "The economic security of every citizen of Texas is still of supreme importance."

Although other candidates for governor, "and some of their lawyer friends," have told the old people that the present old age assistance act is unconstitutional, none of them have dared to attack it in the courts, Governor Allred pointed out.

"Attorney General McCraw held it constitutional," he said, "and when I took the bill to Washington it was immediately approved by the National Social Security Board, from whom we must secure Federal funds to carry on the program in Texas.

"I think I can safely claim that I have been a better friend to the old folks than any of the candidates for governor. I believe they prefer a candidate with a record of performance to one who offers no more than wild promises.

"I am asking the people of Texas for a second term in order that I may be able to carry this program on to completion."

Absentee Voters' List Goes to 25

Twenty-five names were listed Friday on the county clerk's list of citizens who have received absentee ballots for the July 23 primary.

Additions to the list, their vocations and voting precinct residence are as follows:

C. H. Davis, jeweler, 3; Mrs. C. H. Davis, housewife, 3; G. O. Cate, geologist, 6; Mrs. D. C. Wilcox, housewife, 7; Mrs. W. E. Calvert, housewife, 10; Mrs. F. Chastain, housewife, 1; Mrs. Bess Terrell, court reporter, 1; Mrs. Elbert Ez-zell, housewife, 6; C. R. West, insurance agent, 6; Mrs. C. R. West, housewife, 6; Jules F. Karkalits, credit manager, 1; J. W. Neil, railroad conductor, 6; Dallas F. Wales, hotel manager, 6; M. C. Myers, highway patrolman, 2; D. E. Waters, rancher, 5; Mrs. D. E. Waters, rancher, 5; Neil Waters, educator, 5; Archie Wende, photo clerk, 6; Lillian B. Strain, teacher, 3; and Wilbur M. Gray, oilfield worker, 7.

Now you can do away with the hot job of summer cooking—and never give up a meal. Incredible? It's true. Science now gives you a new miracle of electricity—"Absent Cookery."

You place your entire meal, from meat to dessert, in a cold oven—set the "Chef's Brain," and leave the house if you wish. Return just before dinner and your meal is ready. Another astonishing fact is that kitchen temperature is raised only about 1° during the cooking of an entire meal. Electric Cookery is Cool Cookery.

Come in now and learn the whole amazing truth about electric cookery. See the wonderful new Hotpoint Electric Ranges on display. Get the facts about the economy of electric cookery.

HOTPOINT CALROD What Mazda means to light, Calrod means to cookery. Calrod is the name given to Hotpoint's hi-speed sealed-in-metal cooking coil which has revolutionized electric cookery. It brings new speed, new cleanliness and new economy to the kitchen.

THRIFT COOKER Economical. Uses only about as much current as the kitchen light. Cooks an entire meal of meat, vegetables, dessert—or bakes small quantities, like a few potatoes, without need for heating up the oven.

'Bill' McDonald Questions Opponent

EDINBURG, July 11 (U.P.)—My opponent, in his speeches, glories in a situation that is costing the school children of Texas $250,000 a year when a few scratches of a pen would save that great sum," declares William H. McDonald, of Eastland county, candidate for State Land Commissioner, in a speech here Saturday.

"He is boasting that the new Sabine River bed lease gives the State public school fund more money than the old lease gave—43 per cent more money and the oil companies are taking 300 per cent more of the school children's oil."

McDonald then produced the following questions for his opponent to answer:

"Doesn't the new lease give the Land Commissioner the power on 10 day's notice to increase the school's share of the oil by $700 a day?"

"Haven't you been acting Land Commissioner?"

"Why didn't you give the $250,000 a year to the schools?"

McDonald said that, if elected, his first official act would be to add that amount to the school fund.

Kresge Princess' Divorce Bared

The divorce in May, 1935, of Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, above, and her royal Persian husband, Prince Farid Khan Sadry, has been revealed in Paris. Mrs. Kresge, who was divorced in 1928 from Sebastian S. Kresge, U. S. 5-and-10-cent store magnate, wed Prince Farid Jan. 30, 1933.

Gay Gown for Gay Goings-on

Typical of the charm prevalent in Paris' midseason collections is this lovely evening gown of natural colored lace, designed by Barton. It has long, flattering sleeves with wing effects between cuffs and elbows. The double flounce trimming is edged with satin to match the shade of the lace. A vivid red, green and yellow plaid belt supplies the color contrast.

FACULTY ADDED TO RANDOLPH OPENS SEPT. 8th

President J. T. McKissick of Randolph College returned the latter part of the week from a business and promotional tour to San Antonio, Temple, Coleman, Wichita Falls and other points.

He announced that plans are practically complete for the opening of school on September 8. The staff of instructors as thus far selected, include, in addition to President McKissick, Professors Lee Clark, Ralph W. Garrett, Miss Effie King, David F. Tyndall and W. F. Bruce. Additional members will be announced within a few weeks.

Dr. McKissick is conducting an intensive campaign for students among the churches and high school groups of the surrounding territory. A list of more than a hundred prospective students is already in hand, and the outlook is most encouraging for the best year of the college history. It is expected that at the opening of the college year there will be a body of students assembled on the campus of Randolph who will be a distinct asset to the community life of Cisco.

The people of the city are showing renewed interest in the welfare and development of the college, and are responding in a most gratifying manner to the efforts to put the building and grounds in shape for the opening of school.

There is to be a young people's conference held at the college Aug. 3 to 9. This will be for young people of approximately 15 to 20 years of age. Prof. H. E. Steele, Minister of the Church of Christ of Storm Lake, Iowa, will be the director of the conference. Mr. Steele has had several years' experience in conducting conferences, Scout camps, and leadership training schools. The program of the Randolph conference will consist of Standard Leadership Training courses, directed recreational activities, and inspirational periods. Much interest is already manifested among the young people for the conference.

'Iron Man' Displays Test of Strength

A large crowd witnessed the Iron Man's feats of strength Saturday when he pulled a Texaco truck fully loaded weighing approximately 10,000 pounds, by his neck by the use of a rope attached to a 1936 Master Chevrolet.

He then used a Kelly-Springfield inner tube around his waist pulling a truck of lumber and building material furnished by the Cisco Lumber and Supply company weighing over 13,000 pounds.

An interesting attraction was a contest between boys and girls under the age of 14 years in a Coca-Cola drinking contest to see which could drink the beverage quickest.

Winners in the event were: Betty Sue Bryant, Esta Louise Ry-lee, Betty Richardson, Billy Montgomery, Glenn Boyd and James Gordon.

Sponsors for this free entertainment were: William Reagan, agent for Texaco products, Cisco Lumber and Supply, Ed. Huettis Service Station, A. G. Motor company, Texas Coca Cola Bottling company, E. C. Herron Chiropractor, Myricks Dairy, Nervell-Miller Grocery, Duncan Coffee company, J. C. Penney company, Leach Stores and Savoy Cafe.

RETURNED TO CAMP

THE use of dogs in warfare is not a modern idea. During the Middle Ages, dogs even went into battle clothed in armor, and today a suit of dog-armor may be seen in the Tower of London. In the World War they were taught to search for wounded on the battlefields, to carry water, bandages, and other first-aid equipment.

Shirley Temple's British Rival

Already a star in her own right, 7-year-old Deidre Gale Broughton is nearing Hollywood to vie with Shirley Temple, Jane Withers and other cinema prodigies for American fame. Deidre is seen emulating grown-up stars on arrival at New York for her native England.

SALT LAKE NAVY GROWS
SALT LAKE CITY —(AP)— A building race between the Salt Lake county sheriff's office and the city police craft for rescue work on Great Salt Lake started recently when the county appropriated $500 for improving Sheriff S. Grant Young's "one boat navy."

WOOD TICK AIDS SCHOLAR
HAMILTON, Mont. —(AP)— For once the lovelly wood tick has brought honor instead of condemnation. Dr. R. A. Cooley was awarded an honorary degree by the Montana College for his entomological investigations of the pest.

SANTA ROSA, Cal. —(AP)— Police are looking for possible and hoboes who look as though they did not need a wash. They would give a clue to the makers of 1,900 bars of soap stolen the Valley Wholesale Grocery house.

A Good Drug Store

Since 1882

In this month of Centennial celebrations it is well to consider that long dependability makes one worthy of patronage—even a drug store. While this is the oldest drug store in Cisco, our fountain drinks are fresh and sparkling.

Our fountain attendants are experienced and know to put the utmost quality in every drink.
