Survey Starts On South Plains Gas Line

CONTRACTS SOON TO BE AWARDED ON CONSTRUCTION

GAS TO BE AVAILABLE AT ALL POINTS BY DEC. 15, OFFICIAL SAYS

Lubbock and Slaton and all points north to Amarillo will have natural gas piped to their back doors available for use not later than December 15, it was announced here Tuesday by W. W. Graves, of Amarillo, one of the officials of what will be the Texas Gas Company when the new firm is incorporated under laws of the State of Texas.

The Texas Gas Company is a result of negotiations started here and at other interested points earlier in the year by A. J. McMahon and associates of Oklahoma City. The firm was granted franchises to operate in all cities and towns from Amarillo to Slaton, and officials promised at the time the franchise was granted here that gas would be available for commercial and industrial consumption not later than the first of the year.

Operations Under Way

Operations have been started on the survey for the mains from the Panhandle field, beginning at the north end, plans and specifications will be completed probably about September 1, and the construction contract will be awarded about September 6, Mr. Graves said. In addition to the plan to begin actual work on laying the mains not later than September 15, and the several contractors who plan to submit bids on the project have assured officials of the company that the line can be laid in sixty days, including all lateral lines into the several cities that will be served, according to Mr. Graves.

All necessary finances for the line is now at the disposal of officials, contracts have been placed for all the pipe subject to delivery in the amount of five miles per day when needed, and everything is working out in tip-top shape for early completion of the line, Mr. Graves said. In addition to original plans for the line, a lateral will branch out from Plainview to Lockney and Floydada.

Work Planned in Five Sections

Plans and specifications on the construction contract are being drawn up in five sections, and bids from each contractor will be received on either of all projects. The forty mile stretch from the field to Amarillo constitutes one section; from Amarillo to Tulsa another; from Tulsa to Plainview another; from Plainview to Lubbock, the fourth; and from Plainview to Floydada and Lubbock to Slaton the fifth. Webster L. Venham, of Kansas City, is Chief Engineer on the project. The

HOUSTON MAN SLUGGER VICTIM

Wanders Dazed for 2 Weeks Over Three States Before Regaining Memory

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 17. (AP)—L. B. Ogilvie, 25, engineer for the Pure Oil company of Mexico, victim of a slugger was resting at his home here today after two weeks of dazed wandering over three states.

Two men whom he picked up on the road two miles from Mexico August 3, struck him from behind in his automobile. Two days later, he said today, he found himself in a coal car in Kansas. He had no money, although at the moment he was attacked, he had $14 in his pockets. Ogilvie remembers making his way to a farm house where he was given food. The farmer, Ogilvie says, gave him $1 and he left. He wandered about on the highways and finally found himself in Wichita, Kansas. Drifting again to the highways he arrived in Enid, Oklahoma, but does not remember the date and a little later was in Tulsa. "I rode with everybody," he said, "in an effort to find somebody who knew me or whom I might know." At that time, he said, he knew nothing of his name, his past, his friends or his home.

Leaving Tulsa with no destination in mind, he wandered to Oklahoma City, came on to Texas and was wandering aimlessly near Sherman when Ross Clark, an acquaintance, recognized him. When Clark addressed him by his first name, Ogilvie said he could not remember his last name. "When Clark asked me if I knew my father was worried about me, I began to recall something of my life bit by bit," Ogilvie said.

Fans Urged To Attend Baseball Rally Wednesday

While the Hubbers are doing their best for Lubbock at Amarillo at the baseball tournament there, Lubbock citizens will meet at a mass meeting Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce offices where committees will be organized to go out to raise $500 that is needed to send the Hubbers to Denver, according to the call of a committee from the Board of City Development, and the Lubbock Baseball club, who met Monday afternoon.

The meeting Wednesday morning will be the biggest baseball rally ever held in Lubbock, according to estimates of those in attendance at the meeting Monday.

The time has come when Lubbock must put the money on the barrel head and assure Sled Allen and his winning Hubbers that the expenses of the trip to the Denver Post tournament will be ready for them when the time comes, L. F. Holland stated Monday.

The Board of City Development has supported the movement to send the Hubbers to Denver from the first and have subscribed $500 toward the expense fund in addition to money subscribed by the members of the board individually, Holland said.

The Hubbers have defeated Canyon and Lamesa already at the Amarillo meet and local fans are expecting them to come home with the Amarillo flag.

Everyone who is interested in seeing Lubbock get the publicity from entering the Denver tournament is urged by the committee to attend the meeting Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

Hubbers Will Play Next Game Thursday

Amarillo is slated to cross sticks with Big Lake this afternoon, and Thursday the Hubbers will take on the winner of this game, Wednesday Lamesa plays the refinery team from Wichita Falls, and one of them will go out of the tournament, each having lost a game. The protest lodged by Wichita Falls against a certain play registered Sunday in the game against Amarillo was ruled out, and the game stands, reports said. Big Lake and Amarillo as well as Lubbock are yet undefeated in the tournament.

NATION AT PLAY IS NATION AT PEACE

Behold the 15-page sports supplement! Is all America playing? It is! Playing hard because it is working hard. The harder it plays the harder it works, and vice versa. There is no better incentive for gaining a country's moral status than the manner and magnitude of its sports. Also there is no surer indicator of the health of its industries.

Sport knows no class—the grandstand of a baseball field is the greatest fraternity house in the world. The chief economic value of any sport is the leveling of class barriers; it is the common ground, the camp meeting of good fellowship.

The ancient Greeks believed that physical development was essential to mental perfection. The fact is obvious. As for the influence of out-door sports on the moral stamina of a people there can be no dispute. The poisons of passion disappear under the sky. Who can hate for long in the open? Jealousy loses its edge, disappointment turns to hope, we learn to endure our troubles.

Besides, there is the wholesomeness of fair competition. Sport develops our sense of fair play—justice reigns supreme on a ball field, at a tournament. It plays no politics. Brawn against brawn, brain against brain, skill against skill—the best man to win!

Olympic games, open golf tournaments, international tennis matches, boat races, swimming contests, are bridges that span the ocean and tie us to the rest of the world. They are the League of Nations of play. Who can measure the value of a common task in sports among the nations of the earth?

Summer sun, fresh air, crowds of happy people watching or taking part in a fair fight! The four horsemen of the apocalypse may tie up their steeds.

Miss Violet Grayum Is Married To Temple Man In Dallas

A marriage of interest to a large number of friends in Lubbock and other points in the state, is that of R. L. McKnight Jr., of this city, and Miss Violet Grayum of Dallas, formerly of Lubbock, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Grayum 7204 Gaston Avenue Tuesday afternoon August 16, at 4 o'clock.

Miss Grayum is prominent in church and social circles, having taught voice here the past year and appeared in public many times accompanied by Mrs. Frank Barclay.

Clippings from the Temple Daily Telegram and Dallas News are as follows:

"A marriage of interest to many people here is that of R. L. McKnight Jr., of this city, better known as Billy, and Miss Violet Grayum of Dallas, which took place in Dallas.

"The ceremony was beautiful and impressive in its simplicity, but without elaborate detail the vows being spoken with the ring service, before an altar of palms and ferns, with Dr. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the Baptist church of Waco, officiating. The wedding march was played by Miss Louise Garrett of Waco, and the nuptial song, 'At Dawning' was sung by her brother, Clyde Garrett, also of Waco. The bride and groom took their places before the altar together, and were attended by Miss Helen Brock, of Waco, as maid of honor; and the bride's brother, J. W. Grayum, of Dallas best man.

"The bride, a strikingly beautiful girl, wore a going away suit of navy blue charmeuse, with French beige blouse, hat and all accessories to harmonize, and carried a colonial bouquet of Sweetheart rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

"Immediately following the ceremony a wedding collation was served after which the bride and groom left for an automobile honeymoon trip to Houston, Galveston, San Antonio and Abilene, after which they will make their home in Lubbock.

"The bride was born and reared in Snyder, later attending Baylor university, Waco, from which she received a B. A. degree. She is a musician of unusual ability, and continued her musical studies for two years in the Chicago school of music. The past year she was a teacher of voice in the Texas Technological college at Lubbock and it was there she met the groom who has resided in the city for the past eighteen months.

"The bride, McKnight was born and reared in Temple and is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McKnight, pioneer and beloved citizens. He was graduated from the Temple high school and attended Southwestern university, Georgetown, for two years. During the world war he served with the marines.

"Since his residence in Lubbock, he has made scores of friends in the social and commercial life of the city. He is assistant manager of the Bell Ice Cream company."

Printed Frock Society's Uniform at Saratoga

Mrs. Ogden Mills in two-tiered skirt and low blouse.

Novel two-piece printed frock worn by Mrs. Raymond T. Baker.

BY BETSY SCHUYLER

NEA Service Writer.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 17.—This spring experts doubted whether the printed frock would live through another season. The consensus of opinion was that it would not.

But it has lived, thrived, and triumphed. Here at Saratoga, where the smart set of this country are assembled, it is as much the vogue as if it were the latest dictate of fashion. You might say that the printed frock and the large hat are the accepted summer uniform. And I understand that printed velvets and figured broadcloths will be just as smart for the winter.

Vague Still Lasts

So long as the vogue for color prevails, undoubtedly the printed frock will be with us. Patterns seem to be growing smaller colorings more subtle, and materials and colors are handled with much less conventional-ity than formerly.

Take, for instance, the two-piece costume worn by Mrs. Raymond T. Baker, formerly Mrs. Alfred Gyane Vanderbilt, shown in the photograph. This has a short, box coat and a very full skirt, and has a tucked blouse of white chiffon, with a row of white buttons down the front. This is one of the most original models I have seen here.

Mrs. Payne Whitney has appeared in a number of printed silks—one of white foulard with red figures printed on it, one in green on a white background, and a very attractive combination of blue and yellow on white. All of hers have shown finger-toushes about the neck and sleeves.

Mrs. Joseph E. Widener has sponsored the printed frock on several occasions, but I liked the green, black and white one best of any she has displayed so far. With her ivory complexion, and her beautifully coiffed dark hair, she is exquisite in green.

I saw Mrs. Ogden Mills in a rather conventional type of two tiered skirt and low blouse developed in printed chiffon, and she was very well.

It does not seem to me that there is no more universally becoming type of frock than this with the double flounced skirt. Strangely enough, it does not cut the height of a short woman, and it is possible to regulate the line of the waist so that it is absolutely right for any figure.

Menus For Today

Breakfast—Baked peaches, cereal, thin cream, French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Molded salmon salad, rye bread and butter sandwiches, stuffed baked apples, chocolate crisp, milk, tea.

Dinner—Broiled beefsteak, potatoes in parsley butter, corn on the cob, string bean salad, blackberry short-cake, graham bread, milk, coffee.

The cut of meat you choose for broiling depends on the size of your family. A sirloin steak 1 1/2 inches thick will serve a family of six, a porter-house cut the same thickness will serve four, while cut steak will serve two.

Chocolate Crisp.
One and one-half squares of bitter chocolate, 1-3 cup butter, 3 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, few grains salt, 1/2 cup chopped English walnuts, meats, 1/2 cup stoned and chopped dates, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Beat eggs until very light, beating in sugar. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and add to egg mixture with melted butter and chocolate. Mix well and add nuts, dates and vanilla. Spread on an oiled and floured dripping pan or cookie sheet and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Cut in squares or strips while hot.

These are equally good for a picnic or afternoon tea. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

Interest Grows In Revival Campaign

The revival campaign that has been under way at the Church of Christ here for the past ten days is growing in interest among the people of the church and city, with steadily increasing congregations at both the morning and evening services. A number of additions have been made to the church.

Rev. R. E. Brooks, Pastor of the church, is doing the preaching, and is delivering some timely discourses both on present day problems and old time gospel preaching. Exceptionally good congregational singing is characterizing the services. The meeting will continue all this week.

Mrs. C. E. Zeigler and daughter Miss Helen Renfro, of Shawnee, Okla., have returned to their homes after visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sims, 902 Avenue Q.

Polka dots are also having a good run here, particularly red dots on a white ground. Mrs. George Sloane wore a most attractive outfit with navy blue dots and a white ground, a pleated skirt and a very youthful bow tie in the front.

Wool is by no means neglected here, with a design of several shades of blue at the hemline and of the waist-line. With this she wore a smart sport hat of yellow felt, with a very much folded and creased crown and a brim turned down all the way around.

Typically Midsummer
The nude or beige colored stockings is worn with every kind of shoe, white, black, or colored, and the high heeled pump with one strap seems to be the favorite model in pumps.

There is no tendency here to rush the season or flaunt early fall models. Most of the hats are straw, or the light felts, and the typically mid-summer costume is featured.

YANKS MUST PUT UP FIGHT, BOSS OF OUTFIT SAYS

NEED AT LEAST HALF OF REMAINING GAMES, HE SAYS, TO WIN

(By The Associated Press.)
Miller Huggins, little manager of the New York Yankees, feels that he has a big job in front of him despite his team's long lead in the American league.

"We must win half of our remaining 36 games to be safe," he argues. "And the way we went last week even that is going to be hard. Cleveland can't take many beatings, that's true, but we'll have to fight every team all the way to be sure of the flag."

Chicago and Detroit set up somewhat of a record for the season yesterday when they went ten innings without a score and then had to run trains. On Sunday they played five scoreless frames. In the two days the Tigers made five hits off Lyons and Edwards while the White Sox registered four off Gibson and Collins. Yesterday's record was three each.

Triples by Haney and Gaston gave the Red Sox a 7 to 1 victory over St. Louis in the second game of a double header after the Bostonians had been out slugged for a six to one beating in the first. Both long blows came with the bases filled. Vangilder gave the Sox only four hits in the first game.

The St. Louis Cardinals gained a half game on Pittsburgh by beating Chicago, 5 to 4, in a ninth inning rally. Bottomley, signed with the bases full and two out in the final frame. The Cardinals are now only a game and a half behind the leaders.

RICKARD IS MADE "GOAT" IN BOUT

NEW YORK, August 17. (AP)—Deciding that it had taken all possible steps to clear the way for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight battle here September 16, the state athletic commission today shifted further responsibility to Tex Rickard, who plans court action to force the licensing of the champion.

An admission that the boxing game in New York now is "lottering" was contained in a statement issued by commissioner George Broover, after the meeting in which he also declared that since he and Commissioner Muldoon had "fully discharged the official duties" entrusted to them, responsibility now rests upon the shoulders of others who have before them for their guidance the opinions of Attorney General Ottinger that license commission, in refusing Dempsey a permit, has exceeded its powers.

Miss Cannon Fails In Channel Swim

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 17. (AP)—Miss Lillian Cannon of Baltimore failed this morning in her first effort to swim the English Channel. A sudden storm, accompanied by tender and lightning, with the prospect of still worse weather to come, forced her to quit the water after having been swimming for two hours and 35 minutes.

Things Worth Knowing In Sport

TOD MORGAN IN BOXING RACKET FOR FIVE YEARS

Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, has been in the ring racket since 1921. During that time he has engaged in close to 100 battles.

Morgan has won most of his victories on points, his boxing ability causing decisions where his punch wasn't stout enough to put an opponent out. Morgan, in fact, has put but few men to sleep, one of the few being Mike Ballerino, from whom he took the title last year. He's never been knocked out.

Tod comes from the far west. He's 25 and quite popular with the fight fraternity. He recently made his debut before critical eastern fans and got away nicely.

"This Dempsey—where is he?" asks Franz Diener (right), claimant to Germany's heavyweight championship, as Judge Oberwager of New York City greets him in the name of the United German Societies.

Billy Evans Says

COBB BEING REPAID FOR FAITH HE HAS HAD IN "LEFTY" WELLS

Ty Cobb is being repaid this year for the confidence that he has always had in Southpaw Ed Wells.

The tall left-hander of the Detroit staff is the first Tyger pitcher to turn in 19 victories. He recently accomplished it by outpitching "Lefty" Grove.

Wells came to the Tygers direct from Bethany College. After a brief trial he was sent to the minors for a year, then brought back to Detroit.

Last season Wells won only six games while losing nine and the opposition earned better than six runs a game off his delivery. Not a very impressive record.

Yet when I looked the Tygers over at Augusta, Ga., this spring, Cobb stressed the point that Wells should be a consistent winner. When I pressed him for the reason he laughingly replied:

"He has the old determination."

Will to Win
The expression, "the old determination," is much used in baseball. It may mean any number of things.

In the first place, it means the player takes his work seriously, has the proper courage, also the will-to-win spirit.

One need watch Wells work only a few innings to realize just what the old determination means as expressed by Cobb. His jaw is set on every ball pitched and his deliberate windup makes it apparent that he feels he holds the mastery over the batter.

The Detroit players, half in earnest and half in jest, refer to Wells as the "psychology southpaw."

A college athlete, Wells entertains the belief that if you think a thing hard and long enough it will come true.

When Wells pitches the thought of winning is uppermost. In addition he holds to the opinion that he has something on each and every batter that faces him.

So far the 1926 averages bear out that contention.

Speaker and Roush
A Pittsburgh fan writes, asking my opinion as to who is generally considered as being, or having been, the best fielding outfielder, Tris Speaker or Eddie Roush.

Comparing two outstanding stars like Roush and Speaker is merely a matter of individual judgment. No doubt a vote on such a question, confined to the major league experts, would bring out a wide difference of opinion.

Roush is unquestionably one of the greatest outfielders in the history of the game, but it is my opinion that Speaker is the greatest of all, fielding alone considered. I have never seen quite his equal although I must admit Roush is a close runnerup.

A marvelous judge of fly balls, possessing the ability to come in or go out with equal ease, having the knack of handling ground balls like an infielder and, boasting an arm that throws strikes from the outfield, it would be difficult to mold a more perfect outfielder than Tris Speaker.

Manager George Sisler of the Browns must take considerable joy out of his David Harum trades since taking over the St. Louis club. Dame Fortune has certainly smiled on him.

Last winter Sisler parted with Joe Bush and Johnny Tobin for Southpaw Tom Zachary and Win Ballou, a sturdy right hander. At the time there was much argument as to which team got the better of the trade. St. Louis was given the edge.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

LITTLE BETWEEN YANKS-INDIANS BUT—THE FLAG!

Another argument against college education is to be found in the fact that four of the current wrestling stars are graduates with degrees.

The race between the Indians and the Yankees in the American League has narrowed down to a point where anybody equipped with a fairly strong pair of binoculars can see the second placers.

The wrong kind of people fall for money... Now if that Ed in the upper flat that starts barking every morning about two bells would only listen to reason!

Girl channel swimmers complain jelly fish bother them... Wonder if these are the same kind of jelly fish that used to infest street corners when we were a kid?

Having seen Mr. Jeffries in his vaudeville act we can testify that while he may have lost his punch he certainly has not lost his humor.

Naturally no one thinks for a moment Suzanne turned professional because she did not want to play Miss Willis again... This is almost as silly as arguing that Dempsey, in avoiding Willis for seven years, fears him.

Somehow or other newspaper headlines that call attention to the fact that "A New Tank Record Is Set," don't have the kick for us they used to.

Bill Tilden has decided to forget about tennis and concentrate on acting... This is a tough break for the stage or the game but we don't know which.

The Jack Dempsey-Estelle Taylor romance has now reached the successful point where the business of denying a divorce has become a stock routine.

A New York newspaper may hit Dempsey on his new nose to see if it was all right... This is all very interesting but the ship Dempsey is to fight in September happens to be Gene Tunney.

The history of printing is to be made into a film... The obvious comment on this is that it should not be hard for the director to find the proper types.

DIAMOND DISPUTES DECIDED

By BILLY EVANS

Is it permissible for the pitcher to get on the rubber without having the ball in his possession?

Until 1926 it was permissible for the pitcher to get on the rubber without having the ball in his possession, provided he made no motion to deliver it to the batsman.

This was a bad rule, since it paved the way for deception and gave the runner no standard to judge as to who had the ball.

That is the thought now in force. It was taken for granted that the moment the pitcher got on the rubber he had the ball and was ready to pitch.

That is the thought now in force. It is a guide to the baserunner. It is a balk now, if the pitcher gets on the rubber without the ball.

PULL up a chair and puff out the papers. Borrow a thimbleful of Prince Albert and roll one of the grandest cigarettes you ever smoked. Better still, buy yourself a tidy red tin of good old Prince Albert, because you're going to need a supply of it. Yes, Sir!

The first thing you notice is how easily this tobacco rolls. No fuss or muss. No fluttering to the floor in a waste of time, temper and tobacco. That's because Prince Albert is crimp-cut and stays put in the papers while you're rolling it. Ideal makin's, Men!

These cigarettes are cool-smoking... refreshingly cool. They are sweet and fragrant as dew-kissed blossoms. If you have never rolled a cigarette with P. A., you have no notion of how good a home-rolled cigarette can be. Try this better cigarette tobacco today.

For variety, try a load of this same wonderful tobacco in your pipe. Prince Albert gets you more pleasure out of a pipe than any other fuel you could feed. Pipe-smokers say P. A. is so genuinely friendly to tongue, throat and general disposition. Try P. A. this way too.

GRANDJURIES

In his charge to the newly empaneled Lubbock county grand jury yesterday, when the regular August term of court swung into action, Judge Clark M. Mullican, on the bench again after missing the last term of court here, scored, in no uncertain terms, the "grinding of personal or political axes" in the confines of the grand jury room.

In making his speech to the jurymen assembled Judge Mullican presaged his statements by saying that his remarks were based upon rumor and rumor alone. It is to be hoped that the rumor is unfounded and that the official acts of the inquisitorial body will prove it so.

Judge Mullican, even though, as he has no proof for the fears, is to be commended for the stand he took. If the contention is based on rumor members of the jury itself will be pleased that anyone else that it was disclosed—they will more than welcome an opportunity to prove that the rumor was entirely unfounded and wholly false.

The mother had determined to give her daughter every advantage. She would have seen an education as other girls had; her ambitions would not be suppressed.

She saved and stunted and sent Marian, such was the daughter's name, to the State university. She could dance. Somebody told her she could get on the stage. Marian believed it. The status of the family purse wasn't to be considered. She would get to Broadway.

And she did. The mother came with her. It took just about the last penny of her savings. They arrived as thousands arrive daily, unnoticed in the great depot throng.

Marian took up dancing in one of the many training schools. Also she catapaulted into one of the many groups of fast youngsters. This was, indeed, the life.

Her mother lived in the humblest of quarters—a dingy cheap hall bed room. The daughter moved in with a group of girls who were aspiring to the stage. She "just had to dress well" and she "just had to live in good quarters" as she intended "getting anywhere."

Mother and daughter would meet occasionally, but the meetings would be quiet and in out-of-the-way places, because the mother was shabby and must not be seen. The daughter, so the records indicate, learned quickly the ways of the young "gold-diggers" and managed to eat for a time. But one must dress well—one just "must."

Where was the money coming from? Detectives of a big store caught a shabby old woman and a flashy young daughter shoplifting bits of finery.

And that, for the present is the end of the story. Of course it really isn't the end. It may go on for worse or better, according to the lesson Marian has learned.

Nothing succeeds like success in New York. If you have your doubts, consider the situation in which Colonel Reppert, owner of the New York American league franchise, finds himself.

The colonel was named enough to pay "heavy dough"—as they express it in sporting circles—for a half interest in the only mildly profitable New York club. He was game enough to pay Babe Ruth a fabulous salary, and later, when his team started winning pennants, to invest millions in a gigantic stadium and buy out his partner.

Last year the New York Yankees finished in the rut, and the wise boys were predicting that the colonel would have a hard time keeping a paying number of his stadium seats filled this season.

Hal Cochran's Daily Poem

FAGGED OUT

Well, the ol' vacation's over, and I'm on the job again. I've been a happy rover, like a million other men. With mind perhaps as free as any mind of any child, I've just been skirkin' work and, all in all, just runnin' wild.

Why, say, I planned this rest-up since about a year ago. There is no time like waiting time, that passes half as slow. You know just when you're leavin' and at last, when rest's begun, it's taken you just fifty weeks to earn two weeks of fun.

But, anyway, you get it and you give your desk a slam. You walk out into nature and ya say, "Well, here I am." Ya turn yourself to swimmin' and to fishin' and the like. Your system takes a trimmin' as you take your daily hike.

Yes, two weeks sounded like a lot of time to spend at play, but suddenly you realize you're due at work today. Well, I have had my rest-up, and there isn't any doubt, it's too blamed bad it's over for I'm, frankly, all fagged out.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The ingredients of Broadway's minor tragedies are generally equal parts of stupid vanity, unheeding selfishness and blatant egoism.

The annual turn-over of "spoiled darlings," both male and female, is astounding, large. They come from the small towns with money supplied by hard earnings from the old home. The young males won to "play the game" and thus increase the considerable army of fops, tin horn fops and parasites.

When the income stops for one reason or another the "spoiled darling" resorts to bad checks, petty larceny and jumping bills. The results, if not particularly distressing to the thick-skinned principal, are heart-breaking to the "old folks" who invariably come to the rescue.

Similar is the experience of the female "spoiled darling." She feels she can "knock the town over," easily slip into the fast set, seldom achieving success and, tired and fed up, is found in her room, victim of an over dose of veronal or slips away and is heard of no more.

The other day a mother and daughter stood before a judge in the Women's court.

Both were charged with shoplifting. The mother was tired, crushed. Her clothes were shabby, worn. The daughter, who seemed not a day more than 20, was defiant, blase. Her clothes were flashy, Broadway-wise, modern.

The heartless mother told the story. They had come from a little town in Wisconsin. There the family had lived for many years—humble working folk.

The mother had determined to give her daughter every advantage. She would have seen an education as other girls had; her ambitions would not be suppressed.

She saved and stunted and sent Marian, such was the daughter's name, to the State university. She could dance. Somebody told her she could get on the stage. Marian believed it. The status of the family purse wasn't to be considered. She would get to Broadway.

And she did. The mother came with her. It took just about the last penny of her savings. They arrived as thousands arrive daily, unnoticed in the great depot throng.

OUT OUR WAY BY WILLIAMS

HITTIN ON ALL FOUR

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A cockpit for a swivel chair, a joy-stick for a pen!

When Commander John Rodgers, U. S. N. hero of the Hawaiian flight, was forced to make that trade, it nearly killed him. An inside job for John Rodgers? An office aviator!

No doubt but that Secretary of the navy Wilbur thought he was giving a fitting reward when he made the flier assistant chief of naval aeronautics. But he actually made him the most unhappy man in Washington.

Since January 1, Rodgers has fidgeted and fumed—fumed silently, though. When it comes to maintaining silence, John Rodgers makes Calvin Coolidge sound inquisitorial. As a conversationalist, he is an excellent aviator.

To Active Duty A recent order from Wilbur has brought a swift transition in Rodgers' state of mind. He is going back to active duty, where he belongs and where he asked to be sent. Captain Emory S. Land will succeed him in the bureau of aeronautics.

The man who flew from San Francisco nearly to Hawaii, was forced down because his fuel gave out, drifted for nine days in the Pacific, was given up for lost and finally made the islands by a near miracle, is going to take the navy's newest seaplane squadron and see what he can do with it.

The government is just finishing two new super-seaplanes at the Philadelphia navy yard. There's considerable secrecy about them. They're the PN-10 and the PN-12, which doesn't mean much, but, at any rate, they're improvements and enlargements on the PN-9, in which Rodgers almost, but not quite, flew from San Francisco to Hawaii.

He wanted to command those planes and the job was turned over to him. He'll see what he can do at long distance scouting from a fleet.

He'll see what he can do, operating with his squadron as an independent unit, from a shore base.

He'll test the possibility of trans-ocean hops.

No Predictions Rodgers doesn't know what he will be able to accomplish. He doesn't like to make promises—which is a considerable different attitude from that of a good many aviators. The typical aviator is an enthusiast—imaginative.

Rodgers is hard-boiled and practical. He performs, if performance is possible. He'll try anything, even though he doesn't know what the result will be until he has tried it.

His face is grim. When he does feel moved to speak, you'll hear him. He's a sea dog, accustomed to making himself heard from the quarter deck to the crew's nest.

"No, I'll make no predictions. This is experimental."

Chuckle Awhile

"Sunk" Everybody's: An irascible old mar came home to find that his wife had cooked some all-fired dumplings for dinner. She was a poor cook and she had done her worst. The dumplings were unseatable. They were as heavy as the burden of guilt on a murderer's conscience.

"Call them dumplings!" roared the irate husband. "Want to choke me with metal doorknobs?" And he hurled the weighty missiles through the window. The couple kept ducks on the back premises, and the fall of the dumplings on the hard ground shattered them, the ducks gobbling up the fragments.

Five minutes later, a timid knock was heard at the door, and a pale-faced urchin, awed by the strange tale of disaster he had to tell, thrust in his head and inquired, "Missus yer ducks has sunk."

Got a Free Clutch. From the Toronto Globe: Salesman (demonstrating to farmer)—Now I'll throw in the clutch. Farmer—All right, I'll take it. I knew I would get something for nothing if I waited long enough.

Film Magnate—Would you consider an offer of $1,000 a week? Movie Queen—As a joke, yes, but if you want to talk real business, you'll have to jazz it up some. They don't allow tipping in our studio.—Laughter.

Not "Among Those Present." Lewis Hind has published in England a book of memoirs. He tells a story of George Bellows, the artist, and the late Joseph Pennell. Pennell was teasing Bellows about doing his war pictures in New York and not on the battle-fields of France. "I never heard," answered Bellows promptly, "that Leonardo da Vinci had a private ticket for 'The Last Supper!'"—Living Church.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

The largest old bull of the Yellowstone herd.

GOVERNMENT IS CONSERVING THE ELK

By ARTHUR N. PACK President, American Nature Association.

In the early days of settlement, the elk was a common animal over most of the woodland and prairie regions of the United States. Never as wary as the deer or moose, it fell an easy victim to the rifle of the frontiersman, and was soon exterminated from all but the wilder parts of our country.

It seems to have been particularly numerous in the Middle Rock Mountain state. There ideal conditions existed in the combination of high mountains with their half-open parks and glades affording rich summer pasturage, and the low and comparatively warm plains and valleys, where a light snowfall permitted winter grazing.

Prospered There. So it came about that in these states elk persisted in numbers after most parts of the country knew them no more, and of all sections the region south of Yellowstone Park seems to have been most favored. Here they became accustomed to winter in the valley just east of the mighty Tetons called Jackson Hole.

STOMACH ACHES CLAIMS DOCTOR ARE MOSTLY IN OUR HEADS

BY DAVID DIETZ NEA Service Writer. Forget about your digestive apparatus! That is the advice of Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, the man who discovered vitamins and is the nation's chief authority on dietary matters.

"Too many Americans are the victims of introspection," Dr. McCollum says. "They continuously focus their attention upon what they are eating and what their digestive apparatus is doing. This is bad. They actually imagine themselves into feeling sick."

Dr. McCollum does not hesitate to consume fish and milk at the same meal or even lobster and ice cream.

All Harmless. "Being of a naturally investigative turn of mind, I have collected all the advice I could find about alleged unhealthy combination of foods and tried them all out," he said. "I have found all of them harmless."

"However, there are people who have convinced themselves that such combinations are unhealthful and their imaginations are so strong that they would imagine themselves into a state of sickness if they ate the combinations."

"If a man really became sick after eating lobster and ice cream, it would be due to the fact that the lobster was spoiled and not due to the combination."

But while Dr. McCollum advises people to forget their digestive apparatus, he doesn't mean that they should be careless about what they eat. Americans have fallen into bad dietary habits, he says.

Dr. McCollum urges a well-balanced diet containing plenty of variety as the ideal diet. He also urges the consumption of milk and such raw green leafy vegetables as are pleasant to the taste. Milk and these vegetables, he calls "protective foods."

"They enhance the food value of whatever else is eaten," he says. "They are rich in calcium, and in vitamins. I would advise a quart of milk daily for every child and a pint of milk daily for every adult."

Minds Don't Rest. Dr. McCollum says that too many people in America are suffering from nervous fatigue. "This differs from physical fatigue," he says, "in that the sufferer does not realize it is fatigue. He doesn't want to sleep. When he goes to bed he mentally reacts all the scenes of the day and then plans out all the activities of the next day."

"These people are quite likely able to be introspective, continuously worrying about their digestive apparatus. "Nature was wise. She put the digestive apparatus in charge of certain nerves and muscles which do their work automatically. They require no conscious interference from a person. Worrying about them constitutes such an interference. It works harm instead of good."

Dr. McCollum, who discovered the first vitamin, is at work hunting for more. He believes the many vitamins not yet found must exist.

Sources of Energy. He says that he believes that vitamins are chemical substances which have been made highly unstable by the absorption of more energy than the substance normally would possess. "That accounts for the reason that vitamins are so necessary to the digestive process," he says. "Undoubtedly the vitamins are sources of energy. During the digestive process, they break down and give up the excess energy which they possess. In this way, the energy which is needed for the breaking down of proteins and other highly organized substances during the digestive process is supplied."

THE VANITY CASE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear next door in the HEATH household one night, and the next morning Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN and BUNNY MOORE. Inman is heir to Myra's considerable fortune, she having cut Perry off. Suspicion also points to goldenhaired, vivacious Bunny, because of her refusal to answer questions at the inquest. Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whiskey bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning her hair and feet, and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily made up and dressed with gay colors.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is the fact that all windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way by the butler in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle and physicians establish that the rouge was applied to Myra Heath after death.

At the County Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Others, including Anderson, disagree. Cunningham learns from Mrs. Prentiss of the mysterious lights. TODD HUNTER BUCK, her nephew, suggests that Heath also may have been murdered.

EMMA, a waitress in the Heath home, tells of seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath advising her to keep silent.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

Mrs. Prentiss did not inquire and Bunny did not vouchsafe any information as to the identity of her telephone caller.

The girl went back to bed, and the older woman went to her room, but neither of them slept much. Toddy Buck too, was wakeful, and when the three met at breakfast though outwardly cheerful, there was an undercurrent of restraint and all were a little ill at ease.

The meal was nearly over, when Bunny was called to the telephone.

"I won't go," she cried, petulantly. "You go for me won't you, Mr. Buck?"

"No, Miss Moore," the waitress intervened, "the gentleman on the wire says he must speak to you personally."

With a sigh, Bunny rose and went to the small booth in the hall, where the instrument was.

As she had fully expected, the voice she heard was Perry Heath's.

"Don't speak," he said, "don't say a word. But listen. You must be careful what you say or do. Emma has told a lot of stuff about you—probably lies—but she will make trouble for you if she can. I don't think she has it in for you exactly, but she loves to talk, and the detectives are getting a lot out of her."

"You'd better see her yourself, if you can, and manage to shut her mouth some way. Offer her money, if you can do it secretly. But be careful that no one knows it. And remember this, child, Inman did the deed. Inman is the criminal. If they come at you, and they will, you tell them he is the murderer of Myra. Now, remember all I've said, and don't go to pieces when they question you. You've nothing to fear—if you keep your secrets to yourself. But, confide in anybody and you're lost."

"But—"

"Hush, don't talk. The very walls have ears. No one can hear what I say to you, but they can hear what you say to me. So, don't say a word. Don't tell anyone I have talked to you, don't tell anyone the whole truth. Let them hunt for me as much as they like—they'll never find me. Good-by, little one, and try to forget me yourself."

"She is," Toddy spoke out bluntly. He had concluded that he could best help Bunny by telling her all he knew and letting her profit by it.

"They are not true," Bunny said, calmly. "Emma is making up stories."

"I heard her last night," Buck said, not looking at her but gazing intently at the cigaret he was lighting. "I have to admit, her statements had the ring of truth."

"Bah!" said his aunt, "you don't know truth when you hear it. Toddyhunter! You have about as much insight or intuition as a lightning bolt! Also, you're a glib little sort. If anybody told you the earth was flat, you'd begin to think that very likely it is."

Bunny smiled a little, but she looked at Buck, seriously.

"Did you really hear Emma talk?" she asked. "What did she say?"

Toddy hesitated, and then said: "I believe I'll tell you for I think you ought to know. She declares she saw you going upstairs at half past one o'clock, the night of the murder. She says you were walking slowly, and you were carrying your vanity case—the one you have lost."

"How did Emma come to disclose this fact?" Bunny spoke coldly, her eyes almost glittering, and her whole expression was unlike her usual sunny smile.

"She said Carter told her to do it," Toddy went on looking at her now, and trying to gather an inkling of her real thoughts.

"Carter?" Bunny gave a sudden start, and a frightened look appeared in her eyes.

In some ways, Toddy Buck had a single track mind. Just now, he was determined to find out something about Bunny's doings on the fatal night, and he took deliberate advantage of her present distraction to quiz her.

"You were downstairs, you know," he said, not accusingly, but as one stating a fact. "You saw the candles burning—"

"I saw those in the morning—" Bunny began, but Toddy said, inexorably:

"No; they had burned out when you entered that room in the morning. You went in with Doctor Conklin, and the candles had then gone out."

Bunny stared at him. But instead of losing her grip on herself, she seemed to be steadier, and she said, quietly:

"What are you trying to do? Trick me into some incriminating statement?"

"No," Buck looked at her kindly but very seriously. "I am trying to prepare you for others who will try to trick you into such admissions. For it is better you should know that there are such—that there are people who are beginning to think you have some knowledge of Mrs. Heath's death beyond what you have told."

"Oh, there are!" and now, Bunny's lovely mouth took on a scornful curve, her blue eyes stared haughtily and her cold, curly bob tossed with an air of utter contempt for the people of whom she had just been told.

"Will you be good enough," she said stonily, "to go to them and tell them to mind their own personal affairs?"

"But they consider this matter their own affair," Buck said, watching her. "You see, they are the detectives. That man, Mott, is just waiting a little longer for Perry Heath's return—"

"Perry Heath will never return," Bunny said, with a note of solemnity in her voice.

Mrs. Prentiss' intuition lifted its head.

"Was that Perry Heath talking to you on the telephone last night and this morning?" she demanded.

Bunny returned her gaze. "No," she said, simply, and shook her head.

The girl's mind worked like lightning. She wanted to confide in these kind friends, and ask their advice, but Perry Heath had forbidden her to say he had spoken to her, and his word was law.

Yet she must not antagonize these people with whom she was staying. She must make them believe in her truth and innocence. She must wheedle Mrs. Prentiss into a real friendship, and she must charm young Buck, until he was blind to her tricks.

Family of Man Dr. Norris Killed

Here is the family of D. E. Chiles, Fort Worth (Tex.) lumberman who was shot to death by Rev. J. Frank Norris, evangelist, in the study of Dr. Norris' church. The son's name is Elliott.

TERRY WILL HAVE WOULD MAKE PARK IN PALO DURO

All South Plains counties are awake to the advantage of exhibiting at the Panhandle South Plains Fair, according to W. A. Myrick, Jr., president of the board of directors. Most every county in this district have committees working on exhibits and with the crops over the country in excellent condition, all are optimistic over winning a good prize.

A clipping from the Meadow Review recent date reads: "At a recent meeting of the Brown-Field Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to send an exhibit to both Lubbock and Dallas this fall, and every member of the Chamber is a committee of one to select stuff to be exhibited."

"Secretary Shelton announces that this is one time Terry county will and enter the exhibits with a full score and a big effort will be made to bring down some prizes or make the other fellows jump."

"The Chamber of Commerce asks the cooperation of every farmer and business man of the county, to the end that old Terry can make the best showing of our history. We all love our country, and by working together we can show the world why we love it."

A movement is on foot in New York to clean up the stage, upon the theory that the box-office has been cleaning up too much with things that shouldn't be on the stage—Wilmington Every Evening.

YANITY CASE

Well, these things ought to be easy for her—for Baby Moore, who had always, so far in her short life, charmed anybody she wished to.

But these folks were so—no, not suspicious—but so curious, yes, that was it, they were curious to know about her doing that night.

Well, they must not know, that was a sure thing! Why, her fingerprints and Larry's, too, were on that bottle, that awful bottle that had brought about the death of Myra!

And her vanity case—oh, why did they harp on that so? Did they know—oh, what did they know?

And just here, Mrs. Prentiss broke in on her thoughts again.

"What were you crying about so bitterly when Carter came to your room to tell you the sad news? Please tell me—it will be so much better for you to confide in friends. Now, if you tell us the whole story, we can understand the case better and we can be of real help to you."

"Oh, I can't—I can't—" and Bunny was crying now. Not sobbing, but just silently weeping, and the tears ran unheeded down her pink cheeks.

Kellogg Denies He Intends To Resign

PAUL SMITH'S N. Y., Aug. 17. (AP)—Secretary of State Kellogg today flatly denied a newspaper report that he contemplated resigning. The dispatch, emanating from Washington, said the purpose of the secretary's visit to President Coolidge at White Pine camp was to clear up pending departmental business prior to his retirement.

First Oil Derrick Arrives In Canyon

CANYON, Texas, Aug. 17.—Canyon's first oil derrick appeared in the city Saturday and work will start upon the first oil derrick at once. When the materials for the derrick arrived today, the exact location of Vera Dumas' latest wild cat had not been determined. The fact will be south of the city a short distance. Randall county has been looking forward to a thorough test for several years, and the work which is being today comes as a culmination of the efforts of several months. Land was leased by a committee from the Canyon Chamber of Commerce with T. V. Slack, O. W. H. Cook and Grady Qitham, as trustees.

Escaped Man Jailed At San Angelo Again

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Aug. 17. (AP)—One Barton, who was one of six to escape from the Tom Green county jail Friday night was retaken Sunday morning on the road near Sterling City and returned to a cell here. He was being held here on a statutory charge from Coke county. Chester Moffett, his companion in a small car they stole and which they were forced to desert by the roadside when Sheriff Vera Davis, closed in on them, escaped in a pasture and later secured a ride to Big Spring, officers determined. Two others are still at liberty also.

What's worse than getting home from church and finding the cook has ruined the home brew?

New Voting Boxes Created In Randall

CANYON, Aug. 17.—Two new voting boxes have been created in Randall county by the county commissioners court this week. These boxes will be numbered ten and eleven. Number ten will relieve the congestion in the Canyon box while number eleven will take a portion of the county close to Amarillo and within what is known as the Amarillo Independent School District. The new boxes will be used during the coming general election for the first time.

LEGION LEADS IN EFFORTS TO BRING OUT VOTE

WILL AROUSE A KEENER SENSE OF VOTING RESPONSIBILITY

(Special to the Journal) INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—The American Legion, through its more than 11,000 individual posts, has taken the active leadership in the national campaign initiated by the National Civic Federation to awaken a keener sense of responsibility amongst the millions of eligible voters who failed to exercise the right of franchise at the last two national elections.

In commenting on the failure of a large part of the population to take an interest in the selection of candidates for public offices, General John H. McQuinn, National commander, stated that the initial consideration would be given the Legion membership, itself.

By this the Commander explained was intended that the Legion as a nation's national life should abide by the laws governing the organization and keep clear of official political leaning. As individuals, however, the ex-service men, comprising the nearly three quarters of a million membership will be urged to contribute to the political activity of the community, state and nation. In addition, the Legionnaires will assist in stimulating an interest in the citizenry as a whole with especial stress being laid on the campaign to create an interest in practical politics in the 1,000,000 high school boys and girls, ineligible to vote because of age, and amongst the million university and college students graduated yearly.

"Public indifference toward the responsibility which every voter should assume in, in my opinion, greatly to blame for the present wave of crime and hypocrisy which has engulfed a large portion of the nation," Commander McQuinn does not rest, in the last analysis, with the federal or state authorities, but with the communities. It is in the local corporations of government where public opinion must be aroused to such an extent that deplorable conditions of any character will not be tolerated.

GOLD DIGGER HELD FOR MURDER

MERCED, CALIF., Aug. 17. (AP)—Paul Barran, 51, a veteran of the gold camps of the old West, matched marksmanship with three men yesterday during a quarrel over a mining claim, and was today held in custody of deputy sheriffs for Mariposa to face charges of murder and possibly three.

Matron Named For Canyon Normal Hall

CANYON, Aug. 17.—Mrs. C. E. Smith of Amarillo has been selected by President J. A. Hill of the West Texas State Teachers college to be matron of Randall Hall, one of the state owned and controlled dormitories of the Teachers college which takes care of more than one hundred young women who are attending school.

Mrs. Smith is a woman of unusual culture and experience. When a young woman she lived for several years in a dormitory which was in charge of her mother. Since that time she has traveled much, having lived for several years in Mexico. She has recently served the city of Amarillo most efficiently as principal of one of the wards schools.

TEXTILE EXHIBITS AT FAIR HOLD ATTENTION

In addition to the large number of textile exhibits from Lubbock and the South Plains, a large number of entries come in each year from distant cities to the Textile division of the Panhandle South Plains Fair, according to Mrs. Geo. C. Wolfarth, superintendent of the division.

Entries are limited only to the United States. Mrs. Wolfarth stated recently. Foreign textile work will be exhibited and the officials of the fair will be glad to receive them but no premiums will be awarded to this class of work.

Mrs. Wolfarth is expecting the division to be crowded with exhibits of embroidery, knitting, crocheted, quilts, plain and fancy sewing, old ladies work, lace work and other textile work.

"One of the remarkable things about the division is that it is for both young and old," Mrs. Wolfarth said. "No one under sixty years of age will be qualified to enter textile specimens in the Old Ladies Work division at the fair. The articles exhibited must have been made after the person was over 60 years of age. The specimens to be exhibited in this class includes almost every class of textile work, hand sewing, machine sewing, hem-stitching, tatting, lace, crocheted, knit sweater, knit socks, embroidery, quilting, rugs, kitchen aprons, and other work."

Autos Purchased For Fair From Local Auto Firm

Four Ford automobiles were purchased by the board of directors of the Panhandle South Plains Fair Association from the Lubbock Auto Company Monday afternoon when the directors met at the Chamber of Commerce to work out many detail matters regarding the 1926 "Show Window of the Plains."

A Ford day will be given away to fair visitors, as prizes, according to Walter A. Myrick, Jr., president of the fair association.

The board discussed the probability of staging a "South Plains" Mardi Gras which may be made an annual affair at the fair. On the night of the celebration is staged, South Plains people will gather here to parade over the business district from which they will move to the fair park where games, carnival attractions, and other entertainment will be enjoyed as a part of the celebration.

Everything indicates the biggest fair in the history of the exposition, according to Myrick. The best exhibits in each department are expected and the biggest crowds that have ever passed thru the gates are expected here September 29, 30, October 1 and 2.

Everyone in Lubbock and the South Plains territory who have articles, products, live stock or other specimens that can be exhibited at the fair arranged by the board to prepare same for the fair and bring them and help officials make the 1926 "Show Window of the Plains" a complete representation of conditions in this section, Myrick said.

ICE PURIFIES —Not Merely Preserves

YOUR BEST FRIENDS— THE ICE BOX AND THE ICE

SERVING 31 SOUTH PLAINS TOWNS WITH ICE, LIGHT AND POWER

ICE HINTS

Never put soiled receptacles in the Ice Box. Don't place milk bottles, vegetables, ect., in proximity to the ice. Keep the refrigerator dry. If you spill milk in the box remove the spilled materials and dry it out at once. Wash the refrigerator once a week with a cloth wrung out of cold water, in which sal soda (one table spoon full of four quarts of water) has been dissolved. Wipe with a clean cloth. It is not economy to let your refrigerator run too low, keep it properly filled.

Have you ever realized that ice refrigeration is more than merely keeping food cool? Do you know that the degree of moisture is as important as the temperature? Do you know that ice refrigeration does more than preserve foods? That ice actually sterilizes and purifies?

Here are some good reasons today why your old friend, the Ice Box, is endorsed as the most healthful method of keeping foods by scientists and medical authorities.

Water is one of the greatest absorbents of odors known to mankind and Ice is water. Particularly at the temperature of the average refrigerator is water a purifier of air.

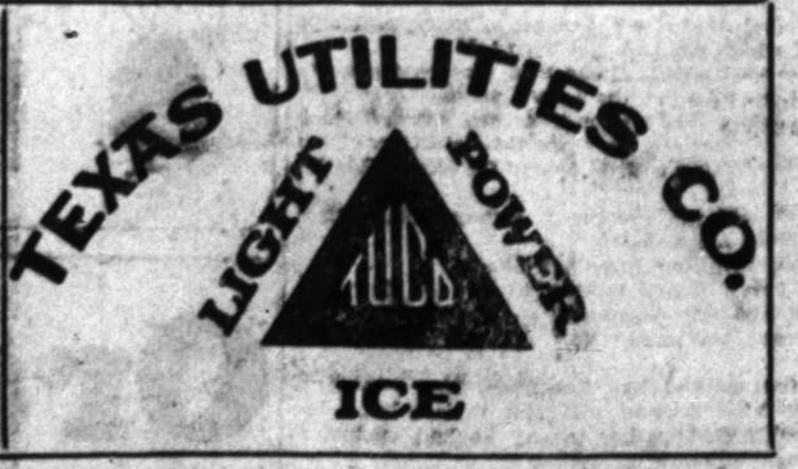

Now follow the chart and see just how Ice purifies and cleanses the air while it cools your Ice Box. Melting Ice generates a moist cool current of air. This passes out of the Ice chamber into the food compartments. It absorbs the odors which all food constantly emit. The current rises as it becomes warmer, again absorbing all odors, actually purifying the air in the refrigerator.

Now it rises again enters the Ice chamber, the warm, moist air comes into contact with the ice, the warm air and odors are carried off through the drain, and again the cool, fresh air starts its round through the Ice Box.

All this goes on without your attention. It requires no thought. There is nothing to get out of order; no repairs; no fuss.

Your ice man will keep your chamber filled, constantly without trouble or inconvenience. Ice refrigeration is economical, safe, tried and tested. It is the approved method of the day.

Since Ice purifies, it is up to you to see that it has an opportunity to do its work properly.

The line will be laid due south out of Amarillo to Tulla, and laterals will run from the main into Canyon and Happy.

The full line, including laterals into the various towns, will be approximately 220 miles in length, and will cost about $1,900,000. A booster station will be located at Plainview, and will guarantee 150 pounds pressure is necessary. Mr. Graves said. Without the aid of this booster plant, however, the pressure would be 63 pounds, sufficient under ordinary circumstances.

It is the plan of officials to have all distribution plants completed at the various places by the time the main line is laid but these will be erected under separate contract from the main. Construction work will start on these about the same time work starts on the main. The main line will taper from 12 inch leading from the field to Amarillo, ten inch from Amarillo to Lubbock, and eight inch laterals into Amarillo, Slaton, and other points not on the main line, guaranteeing sufficient pressure. Mr. Graves said, and will be reiterated the statement that gas will probably be available at all points by December 1 if no difficulty is encountered.

TWO STATES VOTE FOR OFFICIALS

CHEYENNE, Aug. 17. (AP)—The electorate of Wyoming went to the polls today to cast ballots in one of the quietest primary elections in the history of the state.

With but few contests for nomination and unmeted weather predicted, the light vote, probably not to exceed 30,000 was forecast.

Governor Nellie Taylor Ross is opposed for the democratic nomination to succeed herself. Frank E. Lucas, secretary of state, and Frank G. Emerson, state engineer, seek the republican designation for the right to oppose America's first woman governor in November. Emerson has the endorsement of the republican state convention while Lucas went on the ballot by petition.

FIRE PLUGS BEING PAINTED YELLOW

Not at all that any of the firemen of the Lubbock Fire Department have yellow streak in them, but because of the higher degree of visibility, the fire plugs over the city are being painted, as fast as they can be completed, a bright canary yellow. The firemen themselves, during the slack of summer business, are keeping busy in getting ready for the rush of winter fires; and upon recommendation of the National Fire Board, this color has been chosen for all plugs. Caps and tops of the plugs will be painted black. With this color scheme the plugs can be seen at least two blocks further at night than with any other color of paint used. Chief Twitty said.

A further note of improvement was struck when it was recommended from the fire hall that flowers or other shrubbery around fire plugs, even on residential lots, would not be tolerated—this also because of the decreased efficiency in the fire department when plugs are not easily discernible.

B. C. D. TAKES UP MANY MATTERS IN SESSION TODAY

APPROVES REPORT OF THE AUDITORS AND TALKS GAS PROBLEMS

Various and sundry matters of importance to the continued development of the city of Lubbock came before the directors' meeting of the Board of City Development at the regular session Tuesday morning here, including approval and acceptance of the auditors' report of the past year and discussion of the contract held by the city with Oklahoma City and Amarillo interest in pipe natural gas from the Panhandle oil fields to the South Plains.

The auditors' report, filed by West and West following completion of the audit, showed that the balances on hand of the three organizations operating under one management as of June 30, are as follows: Senior Chamber of Commerce, $1,154.50; Board of City Development, $2,525.69; and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, $298.55. The report was approved and accepted favoring any assistance that can be given by the personnel of the organizations in completing arrangements for bringing to this city of natural gas through what is to be known as the Texas Gas Company, recently granted a franchise to operate here. W. W. Graves, an official of the company, is in the city today, and announced that his firm is beginning operations from the north end of the line, and hopes to have actual construction under way on the line by September 15.

The assistance of the organization, as pledged to the gas firm when it agreed to come here, will be confined mainly to inducing industrial users of gas to make connections with the lines of the firm. It was explained that a deposit for connection to the lines, either industrial or for domestic use, will not be required.

A letter from E. R. Brown, President of the Dallas chamber of commerce, regarding the efforts of Hon. Clarence Gilmore to bring the 1927 convention of the National Association of Railroad and Public Utility Commissioners to Dallas, was read and explanation given. It is the plan to have these Commissioners make a tour of the state following the convention, with chambers of commerce at interested places paying a part of the expense of the tour in order to acquaint the visitors with the resources of the state.

Other business included discussion of the proposed new railroad construction from Ardmore, Oklahoma to Lubbock through Vernon, but action was deferred upon recommendation of the railroad committee pending outcome of the applications now before the I. C. C.

The organization wishes to call attention to the detour on the highway from Lubbock to Slaton due to the construction program now under way, and asks that all garage and filling station owners aid in informing the traveling public of such detours.

(AP)—The San Antonio Light today says that Mexico will ask the United States for the extradition of Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, and Enrique Estrada, now in jail at San Diego, Calif., as alleged leader of a revolt against Lower California as well as all leaders who participated in the de la Huerta revolution in 1923.

The paper gives as authority for the statement Amilcar Zentella Sanchez Marmol, comptroller general of Mexico under de la Huerta and now a member of the chamber of deputies. He is here gathering information on the de la Huerta movement to present to the chamber.

Charge Maladministration Deputy Zentella said the specific charges will be maladministration of funds. The Mexican Government, he said, has sent agents throughout Mexico and the United States to give concession and contracts made during the de la Huerta administration and to draw a bill showing just where the money went.

The Mexican congress has gathered information which it has embodied in a measure to be deliberated on when that body meets September 21. Then the measure asking for the extradition now on political ground but as law violators of de la Huerta men, will be laid before president Calles, who will make formal request to the United States.

GOTHAM STORM TOLL IS HEAVY

Two Killed and Two Injured in Waterspout Which Swept Wealthy Suburb

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. (AP)—The metropolitan area today was counting the cost in lives and property of a freakish storm that caused damage on both sides of Manhattan Island.

Two men were killed and two injured by a waterspout that swept in from Long Island Sound last night over the wealthy suburb of Glen Cove, Long Island. Another man was reported unharmed. Cottages were wrecked, trees uprooted, wire communications broken, and the road along the sound choked with debris. A stone wall was blown over and chimneys toppled.

Two racing sloops of the New York Yacht club caught by the spout in Glen Cove harbor and one capsized. One of the houses demolished was that of Lynn Hammond, the actor. Amid the whistling of the wind and the swirl of water, could be heard fire and burglar alarms set off by the crossing of electric wires.

More than $500,000 damage was done two hours earlier in Bergen county, New Jersey. A church, four houses and a garage were wrecked in Ridgefield Park. # "Some Poor Blind Folks Have Never Seen a Miracle"

Bruce Barton, New York Advertising Man, Once Wrote an Editorial on Miracles, in Which He Said-----

"Don't let your life become a prosaic affair; don't let familiarity with the marvels about you breed thoughtlessness and contempt.

"The sun, the center of our universe, goes down behind the western horizon. I touch a button, and presto; I have called it back again — the room is flooded anew with light.

"The thunder that men once called the voice of God rolls out its mighty waves of sound, and the sound carries only a few score miles. But I—puny speck upon the face of the earth—I lift a little instrument; and, behold, my whisper is heard a thousand miles away.

"Every night when the sun goes down, a man stands in a power-house and throws a switch, and instantly the city and the country for miles around are flooded with sunshine.

"And you say to yourself casually: 'Oh, I see the lights are on.'"
