

Skunk Works Is Defended

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — When the government is in a hurry, it often goes to the Skunk Works. It went there for its F80 jet fighter, the U2 and SR71 reconnaissance planes and other aircraft.

The Skunk Works? It's a section of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and is one of the nation's most unusual defense contracting operations.

'REAL MESS'
Last August, Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard cited Lockheed's C5A—the $50 million transport plane that exploded and burned Saturday in Georgia—as a typical example of the “real mess on our hands” created by defense contracting.

But he added: “I simply cannot understand why we are unable to change the system to avoid the C5A and get more Skunk Works...”

Lockheed created the Skunk Works here in World War II when the government decided it needed a jet plane in a hurry because Germany had built one.

An airplane designer named Clarence “Kelly” Johnson collected a few men under a circus tent and turned out a plane in 43 days.

LIL' ABNER IDEA
Elaborate security precautions gave the Skunk Works its name, borrowed from the factory in the Lil' Abner comic strip that nobody dared approach.

The Works, which handles speedup production and cuts down on red tape, became permanent, with a building of its own and even a skunk pictured on the door.

The policy remains the same: Refuse the usual defense contracting system of report upon report and detailed proposals to try out a new idea. Instead, insist on a flexible contract and work with 10 to 25 per cent of the normal defense contracting staff.

MONEY WOES
The C5A plunged the company into financial straits. Early this year, Lockheed appealed to the government for $600 million in financing to offset losses on the C5A and continue its present programs.

Lockheed is mired in disputes with the Defense Department over how many C5As the government will buy and with congressional critics over C5A cost overruns.

But the Defense Department is the staunchest defender of the Skunk Works, even though the division refuses to work under normal government rules.

Alleged My Lai Massacre Court-Martial Continues

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — The trial of S. Sgt. David Mitchell, facing court-martial in connection with the alleged massacre at My Lai, was resuming today after a last-minute realignment of witnesses during a three-day recess.

Prosecution sources indicated the government would be opening its case this afternoon with one of three platoon comrades of Mitchell—Charles Sledge of Sledge, Miss., Dennis Conti, of Providence, R.I., or Gregory Olsen, of Portland, Ore.

Mitchell, 30, is charged with 30 counts of assault with intent to murder during C Company's March 16, 1968, sweep of My Lai, a hamlet near the South China Sea.

He is the first member of the company tried after allegations that more than 100 Vietnamese civilians were massacred that day by American infantrymen.

Conti told the Army investigator: “We were psyched up and as a result, when we got there the shooting started, almost as a chain reaction. Everybody was just going. After they got into the village, I guess you could say that the men were out of control.”

Sledge was radioman for Lt. William Calley Jr., Mitchell's platoon leader, who is awaiting court-martial on charges of murdering 102 My Lai civilians.

Asked how many My Lai residents he saw alive after the sweep ended, Sledge told the CID: “Only two small children.”

Olsen, manning a machinegun position near a ditch filled with Vietnamese women and children, is quoted in Seymour Hersh's book on My Lai as saying: “The next thing I knew, Mitchell was just shooting into the ditch.”

Testimony from the three is expected to follow an opening statement by the prosecution.

The realignment of witnesses followed disqualification of Lt. Hugh Thompson Jr., originally scheduled to open the testimony. He was a helicopter pilot who landed his aircraft at My Lai to rescue a group of Vietnamese civilians.

The trial judge, Col. George Robinson, barred Thompson and three other witnesses because of the refusal of a congressional subcommittee to release testimony it took from the four earlier this year.

SECRET SESSION
Robinson ruled the defense was entitled to examine a transcript of the subcommittee testimony if they were to testify.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Edward Hebert, D-La., refused to turn the transcript over to the prosecution or defense, claiming it was classified because it was taken in secret session.

Last Thursday, Robinson adjourned the trial until Monday to afford the prosecution a final opportunity to try to change Hebert's mind. As late as Sunday, he was learned the government was still striving to persuade the subcommittee to surrender the transcript—but with no apparent success.

Ex-Kent State Student, Prof Caught In Round Up

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old former student and a 42-year-old faculty member were served with indictments today as deputies began rounding up 25 people indicted in connection with May violence at Kent State University.

Richard Felber, Akron, the former student, was charged with first-degree riot, attempting to burn property, striking a fireman at the scene of a fire. He was served with the indictment in his cell at the Portage County jail, where he was awaiting transfer to the Mansfield Reformatory on drug charges.

The school said Felber had been admitted on academic probation and attended classes last spring and fall quarters before being dismissed for academic reasons.

Felber had been sentenced to 20 to 40 years in jail Oct. 12 on three charges of sales of hallucinogens. The grand jury indictment involved his alleged role during the May burning of a ROTC building on the Kent campus.

Meanwhile, after refinement of preliminary plans and consultation with state agencies, final working drawings and specifications were completed and given approval by the Texas Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The structure will be a two-story brick and tile affair containing 32,000 square feet. Its outside dimensions will be 240x73, but one end will have a five-foot projection for the stairwell.

Part of the interior will be plastered, part finished with painted block. There will be a terrazzo floor and acoustical ceilings.

Location of the buildings will be immediately north of the present Practical Arts building and east of the parking lot opposite the Student Union Building.

FLOOR PLAN
The lower floor will contain a department for data processing, including classroom, key punch, and the processing room, plus offices. There also will be a reference library, vocational nursing department, mathematics classroom, mid-management classroom, and a general classroom as well as the elevator well, stairwells, restrooms, faculty service area for preparing teaching materials, nurses' work room, faculty lounge, offices.

The second floor will have the business education department with a room for business machine instruction, office procedures, typing, transcription advanced typing; also beams for beginner and advanced drafting, two classrooms for accounting, bookkeeping, etc.; plus restrooms, mechanical room, offices, supply rooms; and student lounge. The transcription room will be wireless, the instructor communicating electronically with students, and vice versa.

Entrance to the building will be both by steps and ramps, the latter to accommodate wheel chair students seeking vocational training. By the same token, the elevator will be reserved for these special students.

Dr. Hunt said that the building was designed to handle new programs or to expand existing ones. It will enable the college to pursue terminal courses in vocational education to a greater degree as well as to give its vocational-technical department a modern teaching tool in the specially designed building.

SUSPECTED KIDNAPERS — Paul Rose, left, 27, and Marc Carbonneau, 37, have been named by the Quebec Provincial Police as the suspected kidnapers of British Trade Commissioner James Richard Cross and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, who was found shot to death Sunday.

Hunt Terrorists' Kidnap Victim

MONTREAL (AP) — A massive hunt for the terrorists who killed Pierre Laporte gave Montreal today the appearance of a city at war. The search went on for the terrorists' other kidnap victim, James R. Cross.

Police and police helicopters flew constantly over the city. Local and Royal Canadian Mounted Police spot-checked cars on the busy streets. Roadblocks and checkpoints were set up on bridges and routes leading out of Montreal, which has 1.2 million people and is Canada's largest city.

'VICIOUS MEN'
Security checks were increased at the U.S. border, particularly in New York, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The Canadian army, the Mounted Police and Quebec's own provincial police expanded their operations under the War Measures Act imposed by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau last Friday.

Trudeau himself pledged that the law forces will find “these vicious men” and bring them to justice “in the calm and dispassionate atmosphere of Canadian courts.”

He predicted more terrorist violence but declared the government will not back down.

The prime minister, himself a Quebecer, flew to Montreal Sunday night to pay his respects to the family of Laporte. Quebec's labor minister, and to confer with officials. He then flew back to Ottawa, the federal capital.

WARRANTS OUT
Warrants were issued for the arrest of Marc Carbonneau, 37, a taxi driver, and Paul Rose, 27, a teacher, on charges of taking part in the kidnaping of Laporte Oct. 10 and Britain's trade commissioner, Cross two weeks ago today.

Laporte was shot in the head Saturday and his body found early Sunday. A letter in Cross' handwriting that reached authorities Sunday night said he was alive but in danger of execution at the hands of the Quebec Liberation Front—FLQ.

Police raided a frame bungalow in St. Hubert this morning a half mile from where Laporte's body was found and said it may have been used by Laporte's killers. There was blood on the floor.

326 ARRESTED
Detective Sgt. Albert Lisacek said it was believed Rose may have used the bungalow but he did not say what led police to this belief.

Police officials said security in Montreal and the surrounding areas is tighter than ever before in history.

Up to this morning, 326 persons have been arrested in sweeps against the FLQ, which seeks independence for French-speaking Quebec through revolution.

A Montreal police source said the measures being taken are merely to help with investigation of the kidnaping cases and prevent any incidents between the public and authorities.

Rose was involved in a 1968 controversy at Perce, on the Gaspé Peninsula, when 25 young people occupied a building. Abner Biard, Perce mayor, said the youths bothered tourists and when he and others protested, he was threatened by six or seven organizations, including the FLQ.

State Hospital Awarded Grant

The Federal Bureau of Education for the Handicapped has given the Big Spring State Hospital $20,518 to assist the 73 handicapped children in the hospital.

The grant is a part of $1.3 million awarded to the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, to be shared by 17 schools for the handicapped.

The state hospital will use the money to set up three classrooms for the children, so they can continue their education during their stay in the hospital, Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent, said.

TEA Approves $400,000 Grant For Vo-Tech Center

Approval of a grant in the amount of $400,000 toward the construction of a new vocational-technical education building at Howard County Junior College was announced today.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, announced that he had received word from the Texas Education Agency that this project had been funded in the amount of 52 per cent of the estimated total cost of building and equipping the facility.

The board of trustees acted immediately to call for bids on the $769,230 plant at a meeting set for Tuesday noon.

SUCCESSFUL CLIMAX
Funding of the project apparently climaxed over three years of planning with success.

The project was given its first real impetus in 1969 with a $200,000 allocation from the Dora Roberts Foundation and followed with $75,000 in each of two following years. The college also supplied funds to bring the amount set aside for the local share of project to $403,000.

Meanwhile, after refinement of preliminary plans and consultation with state agencies, final working drawings and specifications were completed and given approval by the Texas Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The structure will be a two-story brick and tile affair containing 32,000 square feet. Its outside dimensions will be 240x73, but one end will have a five-foot projection for the stairwell.

Syria's New Ruler Cracking Down On Marxist Rebels

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's new military ruler is cracking down on the Palestinian guerrillas the previous Marxist regime sponsored, Arab diplomatic sources reported today.

The diplomats said Gen. Hafez Al-Assad of the air force, Syria's defense minister, has closed down the Damascus headquarters of the Saika guerrillas and asked the Central Committee of the Palestine Resistance Movement to suspend its membership.

SKIPS COUNTRY
Saika guerrillas returning to Syria from Jordan are being disarmed at the border and shipped off to detention areas in northern Syria, the sources said. They reported Assad has put Syria under military control, paralyzing the Baath Socialist party government.

Assad forced Dr. Nouruddin Atassi to resign as president and premier of Syria on Saturday, and today Maj. Gen. Salah Jadid, Marxist leader of the Baath party, was reported to have fled the country, possibly to northern Lebanon.

Assad's coup is believed to have resulted from the Syrian invasion of Jordan during the civil war there last month. Assad opposed the intervention and refused to give it air cover; as a result, straining Jordanian planes did heavy damage to the Syrian invaders. Assad reportedly uncovered a plot by Jadid to oust him and moved first.

STANCH NATIONALIST
Assad is 40, a staunch Arab nationalist, and has worked for closer cooperation among the Arab countries in the fight against Israel. He has the backing of the Egyptians and has tried to bring about better relations with Iraq, which is ruled by a rival wing of the Baath party.

Although local Baathist leaders rushed to Damascus from throughout Syria, trying to work out a compromise between military and civilian wings of the party, the Syrian capital was reported calm. Army tanks and armored vehicles have remained on their bases.

Meanwhile, Jordanian tanks and Palestinian guerrillas in northern Jordan battled Sunday for control of villages on the guerrillas' supply route from Syria. The guerrillas said 60 tanks shelled four villages between Ramtha and Irbid, 50 miles from the Jordanian capital of Amman, and that they repelled with mortars, machine guns and rockets.

A LOVELIER YOU Spot Reduce Thighs To Fit Slim Slacks

By MARY SUE MILLER
Reducing a heavy thigh to "sit" smoothly under new-style straight pants involves the will-to-do. More than anything else.

If you are the determined type, these routines will act to reduce and firm:

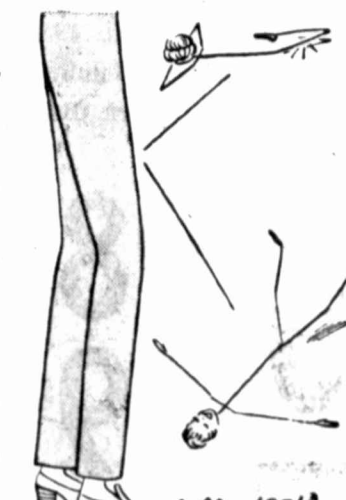

1. Lie face down on the floor, with backs of hands under your fore-head and with your legs stretched out straight. Bend your knees and try to touch the heels to hips. Holding the knees-bend, alternately bounce thighs against floor — 10 counts each side. Relax and repeat entire routine twice.

2. Back down on the floor, extend your arms at shoulder level. Bend your knees outward so that the soles of your feet can touch; press them together, hard. Now fling the legs apart as far as possible, raising them only enough to clear the floor; hold position for 5 counts and very slowly bring the soles together. Repeat 5 to 10 times, always working for increased tension along the inner thigh muscles.

The first routine distributes and the second tightens the offending flesh. The latter action must take place in any good routine. Otherwise you have a slimmer but flaccid thigh.

Not incidentally, while awaiting improvements, why not wear a long-long panty girdle? The kind that grips a stocking you might want to wear. Modern garments of this sort control without constricting. You hardly know you wear them. So why not?

SPOT REDUCING
Spot reduction — key to a proportioned figure. Exercise is the only way to trim those stubborn bulges . . . to lose inches exactly where you wish. My new leaflet, Spot Reducing Exercises, gives easy routines — 40 in all — for slimming the upper back, arms, midriff, hips, legs, ankles . . . Plus ideal measurements . . . other figure-trimming tips. 1970 Federal Voting Rights Law Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1970 federal voting rights law went before the Supreme Court today at a hearing pitting the powers of Congress against the prerogatives of the states.

In the balance are perhaps 17 million votes, enough to swing a presidential election or change the composition of Congress.

On one side was the U.S. government arguing the constitutionality of the law's principal provisions, on the other the states of Oregon, Texas, Arizona and Idaho arguing Congress had exceeded its authority.

18-YEAR-OLDS TEST

The law, signed June 22 by President Nixon, gives the vote to 18-year-olds, bans literacy tests in all states for five years, abolishes residence requirements of more than 30 days to vote for president and requires all states to provide absentee ballots.

Although Nixon and several Justice Department lawyers have expressed misgivings about the 18-year-old provision, the government decided to defend it against suits brought in the high court by Oregon and Texas.

The three other provisions were advocated by the administration before Congress.

The government is suing Arizona, which challenges the abolition of literacy tests, and Idaho, which requires 60 days of residence in the state to vote for president and which has no absentee ballot procedures for ex-residents.

FAST CONSIDERATION

The court is giving the law fast consideration, indicating a decision may be reached within a few months.

The law lowered the voting age from 21 to 18 in 46 states and the District of Columbia and from 20 to 18 in Hawaii, Georgia, Kentucky and Alaska already permitted 18-year-olds to vote.

The administration estimated about 10 million voters would be added to the electorate under the law.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do. (Luke 23:24)

PRAYER: Dear God, help us to forgive those who despoiled us. May we harbor no bitterness towards our fellowmen. We ask these things in the name of Jesus Christ, who died for us. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Banning Is Not The Only Answer

A simple answer to a complex problem is the "ban-the-auto" idea now being experimented with in a number of cities to relieve smog, congestion and create a more "human" atmosphere in downtown areas.

In one of the most spectacular examples, a length of New York's Fifth Avenue was temporarily blocked off.

The ban-the-auto movement could backfire, however, cautions a traffic engineer.

Closing selected streets or areas to traffic is not to be confused with the pedestrian malls pioneered in such cities as Fresno, Calif., or Kalamazoo, Mich., says Peter G. Koltow, urban transportation specialist with the Highway Users Federation.

These malls came only after the construction of facilities to permit automotive travel to gain easy proximity to the car-free areas. Their success lies in their accessibility.

Banning automobiles from downtown areas without careful consideration of how people get downtown might only accelerate the trend of businesses to move out to suburban areas where parking is abundant.

It probably would tend to reduce the competitive position of downtown, says Koltow, especially since the real advantage of downtown is that it is generally the point in a city most accessible to the most people. Reducing its accessibility would just tend to take away the one advantage it has.

Banning the automobile, except in unusual circumstances, flies in the face of the long history of man's increasing mobility, says Koltow.

Thanks To Special Board Members

Last week the city commission named three men to various boards where vacancies occurred, and at the same time reappointed 11 others to serve another term.

This brings to mind that there are numerous individuals who serve on these special regulatory or advisory boards, fulfilling a useful function in the orderly operation and growth of the community. Sometime they are called upon to settle sticky problems, and in so doing incur abuse. Their only pay is the satisfaction of having performed a useful service for their neighbors. To that, we want to add the thanks of the public.

Andrew Tully

Look Who's For Law And Order

WASHINGTON — Let's all us working stiff drain a pannikin of champagne, and for 24 hours stop kicking the neighbor's dog. For it can now be said without fear of successful contradiction that both national parties stand foursquare for law and order.

MIND YOU, this is an election year, and in any case the Democratic Party, except for its Southern segment, came late to the barricades. But at least its liberal candidates have stopped denying that a crime wave exists and implying that, anyway, a little crime is good for us. Only the public can gain from this switch, and it may be that some night in 1975 a citizen will be able to walk a downtown street without a body-guard of Pinkertons.

The evidence is everywhere for the electorate to savor. In the Senate in recent days we have had the spectacle of Teddy Kennedy pleading for more money for law enforcement. Hubert Humphrey is running for the Senate on a platform that might well have been written for him by J. Edgar Hoover. In Illinois, the same Adlai Stevenson who once called Chicago cops "storm troopers in blue," now wears an American flag in his lapel and reminds folks of the antibombing act he wrote in the state legislature.

WHAT has happened is that the Democrats finally have acknowledged a serious strategic error of the Sixties. In a flagrant example of lousy arithmetic, they concentrated on appealing to the drawing room liberals and so-called intellectuals by stressing the need to attack the root causes of crime.

This was okay so far as it went. But in ignoring the parallel need to catch and convict murderers, rapists and arsonists, they left themselves open to the charge of being soft on criminals. Indeed, they have been indicted in recent days by Joe Califano, one of President Johnson's key aides. "In the 1960s," Califano said in a little-noted speech, "liberals were so uneasy with crime that they were at first reluctant to recognize it as a national problem. They turned the crime issue over to the Goldwaters, Agnew and Nixons."

WELL, THE Goldwaters, Agnew and Nixons carried the ball. In their nose-count they perceived that the natives were restless in the less fashionable precincts. Goldwater didn't make it because he arrived before his time, and besides people were still voting for John Kennedy's memory. But Nixon and Agnew made it because Humphrey still clung to the obsolete theory that lower-income voters sympathized with "deprived" thugs who clubbed them into consciousness. At least, that's what Hubert was told by the Park Avenue and Georgetown crowd, secure in their chic and well-guarded townhouses.

HUMPHREY, A realist at last, admitted his mistake in a speech to the American Bar Association in St. Louis Aug. 11.

Humphrey knows what the law-and-order phrase means. In the same speech he declared that liberals must "let the hard-hats, Mr. and Mrs. America, know that the liberals, too, condemn crime and riots and violence."

Well, lots of luck, Hubie. You need it, and so do we the people before we're all murdered in our beds. But while eschewing endorsement of the Republican ticket nationally (some of those characters should be arrested for loitering) I suggest that a recent utterance by Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton makes a point.

MORTON PUT his finger thusly on the Democratic dilemma: "How can the voters trust a party which spends 11 months of the year apologizing for violence and then pins on the sheriff's badge one month before election?" (Distributed by McNaughton Syndicate, Inc.)

What Others Say

Down the years the flame of freedom has sputtered fitfully in Russia. Alexander Kerensky headed a government which carried the promise of social democracy and individual freedom. (He was premier for three months in 1917.) The better-organized Bolsheviks overthrew this effort to bring Russia full-scale into Western democratic practice.

To the Soviet hierarchy he was an unperson. But to many around the world he was a reminder of a democratic revolution that almost succeeded — a triumph which might have avoided decades of grief and suffering. He was outmaneuvered by Lenin.

In 1967 Kerensky declared "The future of Russia and the happiness of her people are impossible without accepting the principle of human freedoms." Interviewed last year he foresaw mankind, beset by worldwide unrest, embracing the teachings of Christianity in the dawn of a new age. Here was a thoughtful spokesman for forces moving deep within the Russian people.

The Business Image Badly Tarnished

NEW YORK (AP) The past few years have been very hard on the images of many businesses.

The public lost faith in Wall Street, not only because of a bad market and bad advice, but because many brokers continued to demonstrate an inability to handle their affairs constructively.

An era has ended there. Front offices had created the illusion of prosperity and stability, but the back offices were realities of horrors. Some of the biggest names of the 1960s are financially dead and buried.

The utilities, meanwhile, have kept the electric power grid from collapse only by lowering and sometimes cutting off service to certain areas, moves that avert disaster but destroy confidence.

Americans learned by these experiences that their existence in an electrified society was not the easy life of gadgets and mechanical servants, but a precarious one over which they had little control.

In its advertisements, the automotive industry vainly attempted to revive its mirrorlike gloss, but under a barrage of criticism on safety, they now find the public more interested in mechanics, less in enamel.

Auto companies sold the world on the notion that cars lead to a better life. But buyers aren't so sure anymore since the image of cars has become associated with death, dirt and congestion.

The public also has become somewhat skeptical of what air travel might be doing to our environment. The airlines had promoted an image that suggested sleekness and trouble-free comfort. But that image is passe.

A more realistic appraisal shows it to be one beset by faltering profits, charges of environmental contamination, bizarre hijackings and an organized campaign to deprive it of its long-range future—the super-sonic transport.

Cigarettes? The image of that industry was tarnished years ago, of course, but now it has been decided to deprive it of television advertising outlets, a major blow to an industry that depends so much on favorable exposure.

Look at what has happened to our impression of conglomerate corporations. A few years ago they were acclaimed as the business of the future, and dozens of them began acquiring dozens of smaller—sometimes larger—companies.

The concept was beautiful. If you have various companies under one umbrella nobody will get wet. If the market for animal crackers falls, the market for baseball gloves might rise and offset the loss.

A good many of the conglomerates found, however, that in very rainy weather, such as in a recession, the umbrella might collapse and spill water on everything underneath. A lot of conglomerators are soaking wet today.

A Dog Grows Old Fast

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If life begins at 40 for people, it begins at 5 for a dog. That's when a dog is reckoned as middle-aged.

A survey of young drug addicts—15 to 30—found a link exists between a feeling of basic insecurity and drug addiction.

Men's wigs and beards in the past have rarely been fashionable simultaneously. Beards usually vanished when wigs were in style; whenever wigs went out and men wore their own locks, beards and mustaches became popular.

The bootlegging of cigarettes to avoid tax payments has become one of organized crime's greatest sources of profit. One tobacco official estimates that since 1965 illegal sales of smuggled cigarettes have cost individual states a total of $441 million in lost tax revenues.

What is the most versatile letter in the alphabet? Probably the letter "X." It is the Roman symbol for 10. It is used by illiterates as their signature. It means a railroad crossing. It is employed in circles or squares on ballots to indicate a choice. It stands for an unknown quantity. It stands for a kiss. And on maps it shows where the money was buried, the accident happened, or the body found.

Dude: Florenz Ziegfeld, the colorful musical comedy producer, was one of the best-dressed men of his day. He often bought several dozen neckties at a time. At death in 1932 his wardrobe was found to contain more than a thousand ties that had never been worn.

Worth remembering: "Flattery is the art of telling another person exactly what he thinks of himself."

History lesson: Can you name the first U.S. president who was a West Point graduate? He was Ulysses Simpson Grant. Grant was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1843. He resigned from the Army in 1854, but returned to it during the Civil War.

Folklore: Looking at marigolds in March too long will make you a drunkard. If a guest refolds his napkin after a meal, he won't be invited back by his host. If the bubbles in a cup of coffee float away from you, that's a sign you'll lose money; if they float toward you, money will come your way. Wearing a red string around your neck will ward off rheumatism.

He started chewing heavily. He believes he is minding his doctor. Is he? Mrs. E.E. Use of tobacco in any form should be discontinued with Buerger's disease.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read literature from a clinic in — that claims they can cure hemorrhoids without operating. Do you know anything about it and does it prove successful?

In Los Angeles, a fellow named Merrill Womach doesn't cause girls to shriek in sheer ecstasy, but his voice is heard by 100,000 people every day of the week. His auditoriums are funeral parlors and his audiences are the bereaved. His gross income is estimated at $1 million a year.

Morticians lease his taped songs — and his stereo units and amplifiers — for all-day performances in some 2,000 funeral parlors from Cape Cod to Hawaii.

You'd have to call Womach a one-man operation. If asked for a choir, he has been known to provide all 42 voices on a tape himself through patient dubbing and redubbing.

When the bench asked her what she meant, she explained:

"I was a widow."

North Vietnamese Reading It Wrong

WASHINGTON — If the North Vietnamese think that they are gaining an advantage by rejecting outright President Nixon's peace offer and that he will be compelled, between now and the congressional elections, to modify his proposals to satisfy his adversaries, they are making a big mistake. Doubtless Hanoi feels that Mr. Nixon cannot do anything but accept unconditionally the various ideas — which amount virtually to complete surrender — heretofore advanced by the Communists at the Paris negotiations.

IT IS, HOWEVER, significant that the White House on Thursday not only declined to accept North Vietnam's rejection as final but expressed a belief that Hanoi "should and will continue to examine them." Newsmen were further informed that the United States would keep the President's proposals on the bargaining table in Paris and try to use them as a basis for getting discussions moving. A White House spokesman said the other side is engaged in "the traditional bargaining technique of rejecting our proposals immediately" but that "we feel they will continue to look at it."

THIS MEANS that between now and Nov. 3 the United States will be talking about the "expectation" of further discussions, while the North Vietnamese will continue balking because of the mistaken theory that a change in the proposals is logical for the administration to make in order to win favor before the elections. What isn't perhaps recognized in Hanoi is that the American people are far more united today behind the President's plan for peace in Vietnam than they have been for other proposals in the last several years.

AMERICAN TROOPS continue to be gradually withdrawn, but the South

Vietnamese still will be assisted to some extent so that they can maintain a defense of their country. Meantime, prosecution of the war will be an expensive operation for North Vietnam and its allies. In another year or two South Vietnam will have strengthened its position militarily so that it can withstand incursions from the north even without a substantial number of American troops within its borders.

It could happen, therefore, that immediately after the congressional elections here the North Vietnamese will wake up to find that the United States hasn't budged in its position. They then might come to understand why, if they continue to reject the peace proposals, they will be merely committing themselves to a lengthy war with the South Vietnamese in which the United States will be furnishing support for some time to come.

THE UNITED STATES isn't going to change its stand between now and the elections and certainly there will be no political reason for doing so after Nov. 3.

Since the United Nations is meeting and a number of conferences between major powers will be going on for the next few weeks, the chances are there will be no change in the American plan for peace.

THE NORTH Vietnamese will find out after election day—Nov. 3—that they gained nothing by rejecting the American plan and by refusing to initiate further negotiations. It may well be said that for all practical purposes any important action will be postponed until after the election. The American government might then consider concessions of some kind if it becomes apparent that the North Vietnamese are genuinely interested in doing the same thing.

Crime Control Bill May Be Good Tool

WASHINGTON — The Organized Crime Control Bill cleared the House of Representatives last week and it is hoped that it will shortly become law. This measure has been tied up in the Judiciary Committee for months where it was opposed by the chairman and other members of the more liberal persuasion.

OPPOSITION of the measure have complained long and loud that it restricts personal liberty. As a matter of fact, it does give law enforcement powers never before provided, but this is not proof that it is repressive. Such measures were never before as necessary as they are today. Law enforcement continues to be essentially a local matter but local officers cannot cope with nationwide organized crime as is the case today and which is steadily increasing. The lawless are organized and criminals have invaded legitimate businesses to prey on the public.

WITH NEW TOOLS in their hands, federal law enforcement may be able to deal with this serious and never before experienced situation in our country — guerrilla warfare, bombings, arson and wanton attacks on police officers.

In addition to wider jurisdiction, which this measure provides for federal law enforcement, there is now before the Congress a bill authorizing the expenditure of over $3 billion dollars during the next three years for law enforcement grants to the states and localities. Further efforts are being made by a Senate investigating committee to identify and expose the organizations and influences which are waging guerrilla warfare in this country against law and order.

TESTIMONY BEFORE the Senate Committee strongly indicates that not only is there propaganda designed to portray local policemen, state troopers and national guardsmen as brutal and dangerous but at the same time many vicious attacks have been made on the police for no cause at all.

Evidence has been developed from law officers across the country that organized efforts have distributed manuals in the cities and on campuses with instructions on how to wage guerrilla warfare. Information is furnished on how to manufacture bombs and use explosives.

THE U.S. ATTORNEY General is convinced that unless some pretty drastic action is taken to discover and punish the bombers, the arsonists and the murderers, the fabric of the nation's order will be seriously imperiled.

Policemen are not only being hamstrung by permissiveness, they are being murdered by militant terrorists who are striking at the mainstay of lawful authority.

CONNECTED WITH the over-all challenge to law and order is the need for better legal machinery to bring violators to justice in the courts. Delays and technicalities are hindering the courts, and generally the courts themselves have seemingly had a greater concern for justice for the criminal than justice for society.

One of the concerns of the Senate investigation is whether the conspiracies believed to have been established are financed by foreign sources. This is a dimension which will require intensive and wide inquiry.

Booby Traps, Bombs Trial Slated To End Wednesday

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — The trial of two Longview men charged in the bombing of Longview's school bus fleet last July 4, entered its second week today with the prospect the case may go to the jury by Wednesday.

The government was expected to rest its case today. Defense attorneys Joe Tunnell of Tyler and Merritt Gibson of Longview have indicated they probably will be finished with their defense by Wednesday.

On trial in the U.S. District Court of Judge William Wayne Justice, are Fred Loyd Hayes, 43, and Kenneth R. McMaster, 42, both of Longview.

They are charged under a two-count indictment with conspiracy to deny Negro pupils of the Longview Independent School District their civil rights and attempting to obstruct a federal court order under which Longview's schools were to be integrated.

BOOBY TRAPS

Glenn Parker and Robert Sparks Jr., whose testimony has been a major part of the government's case, were expected to also be called by the defense.

It was also learned that Hayes has indicated a desire to testify in his own defense, but may not. Testimony to date has implicated Hayes and McMaster in other bombing incidents in East Texas.

Parker and Sparks, named as co-conspirators but not indicted yet, have testified about planting booby traps in a Negro residential area in Nacogdoches. Both witnesses said Hayes and Sparks made the bombs and drove them to Nacogdoches.

The bombs—made of lantern-type flashlight cases with dynamite inside, were wired to explode when they were turned on. But the bombs did not explode and were turned over to Nacogdoches police.

NO INTENTION

Testimony also has linked Hayes and McMaster with the successful dynamiting of a vacant Longview dwelling the night after it was bought by a Negro woman. Hayes had been told that the woman's family was moving into the house, witnesses said, but testimony by the owner indicated she had no intention to move into the white residential area.

Hayes has been connected with the bombing of Denver, Colo., school buses last spring, but not in the presence of the jury. Judge Justice warned witnesses they must not refer to a statement attributed to Hayes that he was in Colorado when the buses were blasted.

The Longview buses were damaged, many of them heavily, on the night of July 4, when two intruders broke into the school district's bus parking area and set off about 26 charges of dynamite.

Plan To Mull Insurance Premiums

AUSTIN (AP)—Would it lower car insurance rates—or at least slow down the rise—if the State Insurance Board counted investment income of insurance companies in setting the rates?

That's the issue before the board today in its long awaited hearing on insurance company profits.

The board now allows 5 percent of premiums for profits and contingencies, before taxes. Some argue this figure—and rates as a whole—would drop if the board would consider the income insurance companies earn from investing policyholders' premiums.

Companies have staunchly opposed this over the years. A special insurance study committee appointed last year by Gov. Preston Smith recommended the board at least consider investment income.

While the board has amassed data on the investment subject, it has put off its annual hearing on auto insurance rates. The rate hearing is expected to be held in about a month.

One study the board has used was made by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

That report said investment income should average between $4.22 and $5.43 per car, depending on how it is calculated.

Counting such income in setting auto rates would have "some effect," the report said, but not a "major effect."

Daylight Saving Time Plot To Burn Texas To A Crisp?

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Texas will get back to normal in a few days and the great Eastern Plot will have been fought to a standstill for a few months.

This column considers Daylight Saving Time nothing but a conspiracy to burn Texas to a crisp so that the Big Money Interests can move in and take over.

Why else would anyone try to give Texas another hour of summer heat? If there is anything this state doesn't need in mid-summer it is another 60 minutes of 110-degree temperatures each day.

'HOT' COTTON

The only thing that makes sense is to have Daylight Saving Time in the winter when an hour of sunlight warmth would be welcome.

But the Eastern Interests who started the whole thing over the screams of Texans aren't so dad-blamed smart.

They begin Daylight Saving too late to damage the wheat crop. And if there is anything the Texas cotton crop likes it is plenty of heat.

The extra heat does the grass no good. But that only hikes the price of beef and the plotters have to pay through the nose or eat sardines.

So Texans may have fooled the conspiracy after all.

Daylight Saving doesn't do much for people types, however.

GETS UP GRUMPY

It may be all right for bankers who can stay up and watch the late-late show or whatever bankers do and appear at the office in mid-morning.

But for the Common Man who has to be in bed at a respectable hour, trying to get to sleep with the sunshine still lingering outside is almost impossible.

Therefore he gets up grumpy in the morning, still needing sleep, and stays upset all day and snarls at the family cat and beeps his horn angrily at other motorists, and it just isn't as beautiful a world.

Daylight Saving is not as bad in East Texas as in West Texas. Texas is so large that it takes the sun about an hour to move from the Louisiana line to El Paso.

In El Paso, it would be so bright at the bedtime hour under Central Daylight Time that it hardly would be worth going to bed at all.

GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

So El Paso County and Hudspeth County used their political pull and got themselves restored to Mountain Daylight Time. That makes the sun set one hour earlier and of great assistance in getting a good night's sleep.

There was a period when everyone could have his own personal time and usually did. Cities and counties had any time they wanted to, railroads decided what hours they wanted. And no one had to conform to any rules.

It had its conveniences. A wife could stand in the doorway and say in a very bitter, accusing voice that her husband was late and "where have you been?"

NO PROOF

He simply needed to pull out his watch and point to it and assert he was on time. If his wife didn't like it, she could reset the wall clock. The little woman couldn't prove a thing.

An orderly fellow named Bill Allen worked out the current system of uniform time in 1883.

No one was interested except the railroads. But pretty soon everyone started using it. The whole system had no legal standing until 1918 when Congress made it legitimate.

There was one Pacific battle fought on the wrong day. The target island was just over the international dateline. It was a big combined operation—Marines, Army, Navy, Air Corps and the like. And as any sergeant knows, the officers would foul up a complex thing like that unless it was simplified.

RULES ARE WRONG?

So all the orders regarding the dateline and everyone fought it in the time zone just east of the island, one day wrong.

So before you go to bed Saturday night or early Sunday, what are you going to do about the clocks?

We know a mathematics major who still argues that all the rules are wrong.

He says you should put the hands up an hour and is very angry at the whole world because no one will believe him. That's the trouble with daylight time—it upsets people.

For all we know, this mathematician secretly keeps his watch set two hours wrong just to be stubborn.

So for people who can't work it out mentally, the thinkers have worked out a formula based on the seasons.

Just "spring forward and fall back."

Key U.S. Senators Named In Fund-Raising Loophole

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of dollars in campaign money have been given to U.S. senators through hidden fund-raising groups set up in Washington, where a loophole lets the lawmakers keep the contributions secret.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and his GOP counterpart, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, head the list of candidates using the hidden committees to help bankroll their re-election races this year.

Labor groups are making large donations to another Washington committee set up for Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., who is in line to become chairman of the Senate Labor Committee if he wins. In political circles, the hidden campaign groups are known as "D.C. committees."

The District of Columbia—in contrast to the home states of most senators—has no laws requiring public disclosure of money raised and spent for candidates.

As a result, dozens of senators and congressmen have "D.C.

committees" set up here to raise campaign funds, particularly from lobbyists.

Names of the hidden committees came to light in a study of the detailed list of donations that other political groups, such as those for labor organizations or industry lobbies, must file with Congress.

RECORDS SHOW

The records show groups representing restaurants, coal, cable TV, steelworkers, Teamsters, shipping and savings associations are among the contributors to "D.C. committees." Even the Republican and Democratic national campaign chests have funneled large chunks of money to their candidates through these groups.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., locked in a tough battle this fall, has at least four "D.C. committees" set up to get money from the GOP. His Democratic foe, former Gov. Philip H. Hoff, has at least two committees here, also.

Among others using the device are: Sens. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.; Frank E. Moss, D-Utah; William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Ralph T. Smith, R-Ill.; Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, and former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, running for the Senate from Minnesota.

$50,000 OR MORE

Many of the D.C. committees have raised as much as $50,000 or more. But few are willing to tell.

However, interviews and reports of various political groups traced at least $386,761 as being channeled into various Senate candidates' D.C. committees.

The true total may be many times that amount. Because of the lack of reporting requirements, some D.C. committees could stay hidden forever. And, as one Senate aide said, "I gather that every senator here has a committee like these."

Interim Chief Of Academics Is Announced

Capt. Robert L. Vining has become the new chief of academics at Webb AFB following the departure of Maj. William D. R. Lund.

The captain is scheduled to hold the interim position until Maj. L. D. Eggen's return from a temporary duty assignment at the University of Nebraska, Omaha.

Capt. Vining received his bachelor of science degree in education and his commission from the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in 1961. A few months later he enrolled in the undergraduate pilot training program at Reese AFB, Tex., with class 63-C.

After receiving his wings, Captain Vining was transferred to Biggs AFB, Tex., and later to Dyess AFB, Tex., when Biggs was deactivated. He flew KC-135 Stratotankers out of the two bases.

En route to Southeast Asia in July, 1965, Captain Vining underwent F-100 training at Cannon AFB, N. M. From there he went to Bien Hoa AFB, and later to Tan Son Nhut AFB. While in the war zone, he completed 115 combat missions.

He came to Webb in December, 1967, as a T-38 instructor pilot and later transferred to the academics branch to teach T-38 systems, aerodynamics, airmanship and electronic warfare.

As chief of academics, the captain will continue to be instructor and teach applied aerodynamics and airmanship and electronic warfare.

Capt. Vining presently holds the Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters, Bronze Star and the Distinguished Flying Cross. He and his wife, the former Miss Shirley A. Rushing, are from Pioneer, La., and they have one son, Robbie, 2.

Charges Today In Death Of Big Springer

LUBBOCK — Sheriff's deputies here are expected to file a case this afternoon with Justice of the Peace F. H. Bolen in the Sept. 29 death of George A. McGann, Big Springer.

Deputies refused to discuss the case until it was filed, but did say that the results of laboratory tests at the Department of Public Safety labs in Austin were returned early this morning.

McGann, 34, owner of the Holiday Motor Co. in Big Spring, and another man were found shot to death in a south-side Lubbock home, in what appeared to be a shoot-out.

Dallas authorities linked McGann with "The Dixie Mafia," a group they hold responsible for 19 deaths. McGann was convicted in 1968 of conspiring to steal $65,000 worth of television sets, and was in the process of appealing his conviction when he was shot.

However, interviews and reports of various political groups traced at least $386,761 as being channeled into various Senate candidates' D.C. committees.

The true total may be many times that amount. Because of the lack of reporting requirements, some D.C. committees could stay hidden forever. And, as one Senate aide said, "I gather that every senator here has a committee like these."

Chilly Commission Faces Job Lack

County Commissioners met in a chilly courtroom this morning to consider routine action items. Temperatures inside the County Courthouse were a match for those outside because of faulty heating. County Judge Lee Porter called a refrigeration firm to check the system.

Unemployment has caused an unusually high number of otherwise employable men between the ages of 28 and 35 to seek aid through the county commodity food program. Mrs. Ruby Phillips, welfare officer, presented the problem to commissioners this morning.

Applications for commodities have been received from 10 individuals within the last week, said Mrs. Phillips. Despite their employability, they are eligible for assistance because they are unable to find employment.

Mrs. Phillips reported that she had been unsuccessful in finding employment for the men. Commissioners instructed her to place them on the commodity rolls.

More problems concerning the new library were heard this morning. Commissioners are not pleased with the varicolored effect of the unmatched carpet tiles. The carpet ordered was turquoise, but the color is not true in all the squares, according to the commissioners.

Olen Puckett, architect, and a representative from the company holding the contract for the carpet were present in court today.

Commissioners decided that information on removing the carpet and setting matching carpet tiles be obtained and presented Monday. Kasch Brothers, Inc., contractors, sublet the contract for carpeting to a smaller firm. The carpets were obtained from the Ozie Co.

Commissioners instructed Puckett to find out how contracted.

GLASSY COLLECTION — The choir of Detroit's Central Methodist Church sings amid the clutter of Sunday's unusual anti-pollution collection, nearly a ton of glass bottles. "We live in a moment of history when people choose death, poisoning the air and water with chemicals and destroying the earth with sewage, pesticides and trash," said the Rev. Dr. Dwight S. Large to his congregation.

Nixon's Search For Votes Sends Him To 'Heartland'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's hunt for votes sent him today to the region he calls the heartland, wooing the silent majority and offering a lower-key version of the law-and-order campaign theme hammered by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Urging Americans to "speak up with your votes" against obscenity, disruptive dissent and violence, Nixon's set an opening day itinerary of Columbus, Ohio, Grand Forks, N.D., and Kansas City, Mo.

All three are Senate campaign states.

SOFTER TONES

The President campaigns in Johnson City, Tenn., Asheville, N.C., and Ft. Wayne, Ind., Tuesday before returning to the White House.

It is the second installment of a Nixon campaign expected to cover 18 to 20 states before election day.

Agnew has been on the campaign circuit for five weeks, drumming at the assertion that Republican victories will help counter lawlessness and turmoil, on the campus and on the streets.

Nixon, speaking in generally softer tones than the explicit and hard-line approach of his vice president, keynoted his own campaign Saturday, speaking in four states electing senators this year, declaring in Teterboro, N.J.:

OBSCENE SLOGANS

"One vote is worth 100 obscene slogans."

In Lancaster, Pa., he accused Democrats of "permissiveness in high places" during their eight years in the White House.

In Burlington, Vt., he spoke of those who shout obscenities about America, engage in violence, kill and injure policemen.

"Let the majority of Americans speak up, speak up on Nov. 3, speak up with your votes," Nixon said. "That is the way to answer."

Nixon's first Midwestern stop in Ohio is designed to boost Rep. Robert Taft Jr., who seeks a Senate seat now Democratic.

Taft wasn't interested in having Agnew appear in Ohio, saying while it would help in some areas it would hurt in others. Instead, he wanted the man he is getting, the President.

In Grand Forks, Nixon's prestige is being injected into what is considered a closely contested Senate race between Republican Rep. Thomas Kleppe and Sen. Quentin N. Burdick, the Democratic incumbent.

Farm legislation is the issue here. But, in general Kleppe's well-financed and intensive campaign has stressed all around support for the President.

ECONOMIC ISSUE

John C. Danforth, Missouri's attorney general, and an underdog campaigner for the Senate, is the principal beneficiary of Nixon's Kansas City campaign appearance. Danforth is challenging Sen. Stuart Symington, rated the favorite as he seeks a fourth term at 69.

Campaigner Nixon also is underscoring his policy in Southeast Asia, and he sought also to counter opposition criticism of administration economic policies, blaming inflation on what he called reckless spending by Democrats.

The economic issue came up at the White House Sunday when Nixon met for nearly two hours with six representatives of the Business Council, an organization of top executives.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, said, "The impression I got was that they urged the administration to continue with the policies we have been following."

Bentsen To Appear On TV

Democratic U. S. Senate candidate Lloyd Bentsen was to campaign today in Brownwood, San Angelo and Lubbock.

The Democratic nominee was to address the Howard Payne College student body Monday at 10 a.m. in Mims Auditorium and then fly to San Angelo in time for a noon luncheon at the Bentsen Headquarters.

Bentsen is then scheduled for a 3:30 p.m. appearance at a reception honoring him at the Villa Inn in Lubbock. The Democratic Women of Lubbock are hosting the event.

His Guilty Conscience

LONDON (AP) — A long, thin parcel which arrived at the Cafe Royal in London was received and opened with all the caution and distrust currently shown by the wary to packages bearing Irish postage stamps.

Mr. Vincenzo Franzini, general manager of the Cafe Royal, unwrapped the package to find a knife, fork and spoon from the Cafe Royal, vintage 1940.

An accompanying letter explained: "The enclosed were found by me in Onslow Square during the war, on top of a wardrobe in a Ministry of Works hostel. I thought I would keep them as a souvenir, but my conscience tells me now that I must return them to the rightful owner. Sorry for the delay."

It was signed by "An Irish Worker."

Fate Of Skyjackers In Hands Of Turks

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The fate of the Lithuanian and his son who hijacked a Soviet airliner last week and killed the stewardess was in the hands of the Turkish cabinet today following a provincial court's refusal to indict them. It appeared likely that the government would send the case back to the courts.

All three judges of the court in Trabzon, where the airliner landed Thursday, agreed that the actions of Pranas Stasio Brazinskas and his son, Algiedas, constituted a political crime. The Turkish criminal code says that a foreigner accused of foreign crimes with a political motive will not be brought to trial or extradited.

The court's action sent the case to the justice minister, who must decide whether to drop it as a political crime or instruct the public prosecutor to charge the pair with felonies. The latter course would return the case to the courts for the final decision.

The Soviet government has demanded the return of the pair, and a high-level official indicated the government would like to comply. But he said the government could not interfere with the workings of the court. Relations have been improving between the Turkish and Soviet governments in recent years, and Moscow recently agreed to a $300 million credit for industrial projects.

Daily World Gains Lottery Donation

NEW YORK (AP) — Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, says he will donate $500 he won in a New York state lottery to the Daily World, the party newspaper.

Dorothy Robinson, administrative director of the paper, said when informed of the gift Thursday:

"He certainly gave it to a good cause. Too bad Gus didn't win the million-dollar drawing." A million dollars was the lottery's first prize.

Look! Gems Long Gone

DALLAS (AP) — Police said they had no new clues Monday into the theft of $50,000 in diamonds, stolen from the room of Mrs. Gardner Cowles at the Fairmont Hotel Sunday.

Mrs. Cowles, wife of the editor-in-chief of Cowles Commu-cations Inc., publishers of Look Magazine, checked out of the Fairmont shortly after reporting the incident and moved into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Marcus, president of Neiman-Marcus.

Police said the theft occurred Sunday afternoon while Mrs. Cowles was out of the hotel. Officers said there were no visible signs of forced entry into the sixth floor room.

Mrs. Cowles had been in Dallas to attend a Saturday night party given by Marcus.

If you don't do it, it won't get done.

Do you know what you can do to help solve the problems that are undermining our community? Problems like the rebellion of the young, the isolation of the old, the frustration, fear, and misery that shout out at you from the front page of the paper every day?

You can revive the good old American tradition which says that when you're not satisfied with what's going on, you go and do something about it yourself.

Get involved. Pick one of the United Way agencies. Dig into what it's doing, learn about the new problem-preventing methods being used.

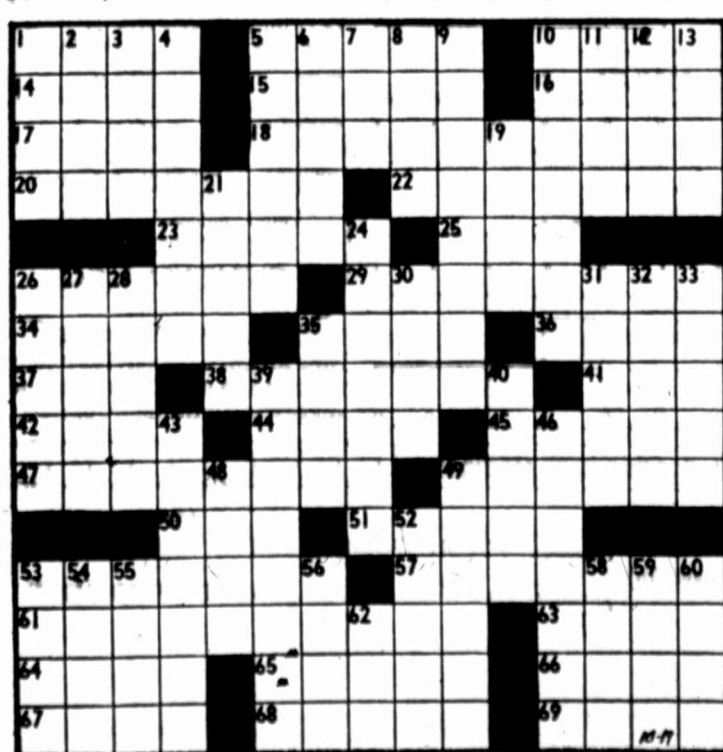

Then do more. Pledge more than you've ever pledged before as your Fair Share. And, you can give more than money. You can give you. You can volunteer to work in the United Way Drive.

Either way, if you don't do it, it won't get done.

Bad Day At Black Rock For Cowboys And Oilers

By The Associated Press

They all came to see Joe Kapp's highly-touted arm and went home talking about Fran Tarkenton's highly talented feet.

Kapp's debut as starting quarterback for Boston turned into a bust Sunday as the scrambling Tarkenton ruined the Patriots' 1-Party by directing a 16-0 New York Giant victory.

"We had the opportunities but I didn't take advantage of them," said a disappointed Kapp, who last started with Minnesota in the 1970 Super Bowl.

Tarkenton's foot-loose antics scrambled the Boston defense, offsetting the hard-charging Patriots' line while he riddled them with short, screen passes. He passed only 14 times, completing eight, for 102 yards in wind-harassed Harvard Stadium at Cambridge, Mass.

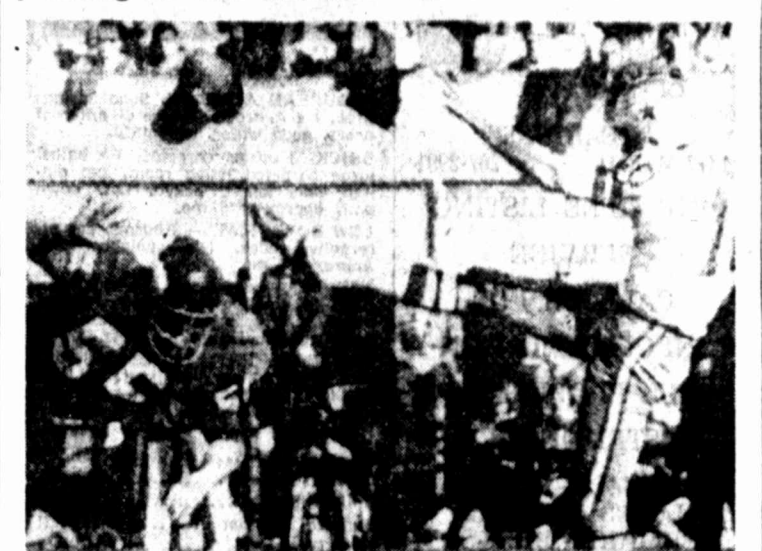

VIKINGS HAYMAKER

The Minnesota Vikings kay-oed Dallas with a ferocious attack that left the Cowboys reeling on the end of a 54-13 score—their worst defeat ever—in another National Football League game.

Detroit and Denver, who lost for the first time this season last week, got back on the winning road with victories Sunday. Detroit blasted Cleveland 41-24 and Denver turned back Atlanta 24-16.

Pittsburgh beat Houston 7-3 in a defensive war; New Orleans tied San Francisco 20-20; Los Angeles whipped Green Bay 31-29-22 and Kansas City defeated 21-17; San Diego downed Chicago 20-7; Miami belted Buffalo 33-14; St. Louis cut down the Philadelphia Eagles 35-20; Baltimore avenged its Super Bowl defeat for 41 yards, tops among Boston by beating the New York Jets.

Charley Johnson Benched With Broken Collarbone

HOUSTON (AP) — Rookie Terry Bradshaw ignited a 67-yard bomb for his first touchdown pass in five games as a pro Sunday as his Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the Houston Oilers, 7-3.

It was Pittsburgh's second victory in a row after 16 consecutive league losses, and seven pass interceptions, three of them off Bradshaw, were a major factor for both sides in the raggedly played AstroDome game.

The defeat was particularly tough for the Oilers, who saw their top quarterback, 10-year veteran Charley Johnson, fracture his left collarbone when blocked after seeing one of his passes, the final Oiler play of the first half, intercepted by Ocie Austin.

Johnson will be out six to eight weeks, Hoyle Granger, Houston's top ground gainer, will miss the rest of the season after receiving major ligament damage to the left knee midway in the second period.

Coach Wally Lemm said he probably will call up Bob Napp, a second year man from Illinois, from the taxi squad to work behind Jerry Rhyme, Johnson's backup.

Bradshaw, the No. 1 college draft selection, said his touchdown bomb on the first play of the second quarter called for a sprint out with three possible receivers. He threw to the 3 man, Ron Shanklin, and said he never did see Shanklin's defender, Leroy Mitchell.

The touchdown overcame a 3-0 Houston lead built with a 34-yard field goal by Roy Gerela after the Oilers took the opening kickoff and drove 39 yards.

Lemm blamed the defeat on fumbles and penalties. The Oilers lost only one of two fumbles but were penalized eight times for 113 yards.

Rhyme took over for Johnson in the second half and engineered a 68-yard drive to the Steelers 10 only to fumble and see Chuck Allen cover for Pittsburgh at the 14.

held fullback Jim Nance to a mere 14 yards.

Bobby Howfield kicked a 51-yard field goal and Pete Liske pitched a six-yard scoring pass in the final period to break open a close game and help the Broncos beat the Falcons.

Bill Munson fired two touchdown passes and Mike Weger scored another on an interception in a 2½-minute period that shot Detroit into a runaway 38-14 halftime lead.

Clarence Williams swiped a Bart Starr pass in the closing minutes and shot 65 yards for a touchdown that nailed down Los Angeles' victory over the Packers.

John Hadl's two touchdown passes to Gary Garrison within a minute of the third quarter pulled out the San Diego triumph over the reeling Bears, who lost their third straight.

Two pass interceptions led to a pair of Miami touchdowns and a fumble recovery set up one of Gary Yepremian's four field goals.

MacArthur Lane hit paydirt four times—three times rushing and the other on a reception—in the St. Louis victory.

Johnny Unitas whipped Baltimore into a 17-0 lead within 5½ minutes of the first period and the Colts hung on to beat the Jets, their conquerors in the 1968 Super Bowl.

Injured quarterback Len Dawson came off the bench to spark Kansas City to a comeback victory over the fired-up Bengals.

Top Schoolboy Teams Win

By The Associated Press

Don't look for any massive reshuffling of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week, because it's not likely to happen.

Most of the teams ranked in last week's poll came through with flying colors but all four top ranked teams winning in a big way.

Class AAAA Wichita Falls, the reigning champion, humbled Haltom City 62-19; Class AAA kingpin Ennis belted Mexia 33-7; Iowa Park, the Class AA front-runner, pounded Bowie 70-0; and Poth, leader in Class A, blanked Pettus 55-0.

But there were four exceptions. Fort Worth Brewer, which has been in the Class AAA rankings since pre-season, suffered a 15-0 loss to Azle. In Class AA, ninth ranked Giddings fell to unheralded Bastrop 8-0. In Class A, sixth ranked Three Rivers was upset by Agua Dulce 21-16 and second ranked White Deer was fought to a scoreless tie by Sunray.

All teams in Class AAAA followed their leader by winning easily except sixth ranked Clear Creek 19-13. In Class AAA, seventh ranked Lamesa won a 7-6 squeaker from Sweetwater.

Yet, it was one of the best days of the season for the motorcycle riders, who found the track at the old Sahara Drive-in site in perfect condition. Even after the races were over, the riders continued unofficial contests.

Track officials said it is too early to consider what plans will be for next season. The raceways proved extremely popular for Big Spring, Midland and Odessa riders.

It's Shakeout Week For SWC

By The Associated Press

The Texas Tech Red Raiders kept one jinx alive last week-end at Mississippi State and they'll get the same opportunity this week when they host Southern Methodist.

Trouble is, if the Raiders keep alive their string of losing to the Mustangs in Lubbock, they'll also eliminate themselves from the Southwest Conference race.

Not since 1964 have the Raiders beaten SMU in Jones Stadium. In turn, the Mustangs haven't beaten Tech in Dallas over the same period.

The Raiders ran into old nemesis Mississippi State last Saturday, losing 20-16, to give the Bulldogs a 4-2-1 series edge.

But this week's battle with SMU has more far-reaching overtones. Tech is 1-1 in SWC games and another loss would virtually eliminate them from SWC hopes. No SWC ever has won the crown with two losses.

Texas Christian, Baylor and Rice are in the same position, each with one loss. And Baylor hosts the Texas Aggies and Rice hosts second ranked Texas. TCU has an open date and Wichita State is at Arkansas in the other league action.

SMU won its conference opener by blanking Rice 10-0 and TCU startled the tail-spinning Aggies 31-15 in other games last Saturday. Texas, Arkansas and Baylor had open dates.

A transplanted Texan helped defeat the Red Raiders. He's quarterback Joe Reed, from Lorenzo near Lubbock. He threw two touchdown passes in the second half to Dave Smith to kill Tech.

Tech head coach Jim Carlen was so impressed he said Reed was "the best all-round quarterback I've seen this year." Texas' Eddie Phillips is a better runner but Reed does it all.

Irish, Buckeyes Maintain Impressive National Spots

By The Associated Press

Last week it was Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty who la-beled Ohio State No. 1 and Notre Dame No. 1-A. Now it's Minnesota's Murray Warmath and Missouri's Dave Devine who rate them as close.

"You sort of wonder if they are No. 1 when you come in here, but they are," said Warmath after dropping a 28-8 decision to top-rated Ohio State Saturday.

"We couldn't get the ball away from them in the first quarter."

"I don't want to get into a No. 1 hassle, but if there's anybody better than Notre Dame I haven't seen them yet," said Devine, whose team actually led the Irish 7-3 in the third period before bowing 24-7.

For the time being, though, Ohio State and Notre Dame will have to settle for being No. 1 and No. 3, respectively, in The Associated Press College football poll. Second-ranked Texas, also one of 11 unbeaten and untied major teams, didn't play Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Mississippi did, however, and the Rebels dropped a shocking 30-14 decision to revenge-bent Southern Mississippi, seething from a 69-7 slaughter a year ago.

The four other Top Ten Teams with unbeaten records came through with victories. Fifth-ranked and once-tied Nebraska upended Kansas 41-20 and took over the Big Eight lead. No. 6 Michigan outlasted Michigan State 34-20, seventh-rated Air Force whipped Navy 26-3 and Auburn, No. 8, trounced 16th-ranked Georgia Tech 31-7.

Stanford, ranked ninth, wall-popped Washington State 63-16 as Jim Plunkett set a major college career total offense mark. Tenth-rated Arkansas was idle.

Other teams with perfect records are Arizona State, Dartmouth, San Diego State, Toledo and Yale.

John Brockington, who rambled for 187 yards, and Rex Kern each scored twice in the first 21 minutes as Ohio State shot ahead of Minnesota.

"That first quarter (21-0) was as fine as we've looked," said Coach Woody Hayes. "It was our best running game. I hate to admit it, but I think we got tired after that."

Joe Theismann, bothered by Missouri's defensive line, speeded up his delivery and rallied Notre Dame over the Tigers with touchdown passes to Tom Gatewood and Ed Gulyas.

Southern Mississippi kept Archie Manning—30 of 56 for 341 yards—and company off the scoreboard after the first period and posted a memorable upset as Rick Donegan directed a fired-up offense and Willie Heidelberg galloped for a pair of 11-yard touchdowns.

FOOTBALL FASHIONS — Earsell Mackbee, injured Minnesota Vikings corner back, strolls off field Sunday after Vikings beat Dallas 54-13 in the NFL in high fashion. Mackbee's midi furs were the latest of his mod outfits he wears to cheer on the Vikings.

Despite Score, Steers Maintain Over-All Gap

Despite a heavy scoreboard loss, the Big Spring Steers played a fairly even game with Permian Odessa statistically last Friday, this maintaining an advantage of opposition through six games.

The margin of first downs was cut to a pair, yards rushing reduced to 189, yards passing to 172. Passing percentage slipped, however, and Big Spring fell behind here 35.6 per cent to 30.3 per cent. The Steers hold a two-yard average punting advantage, and they have recovered one more fumble than they have lost.

Dave Duncan, running the option, maintained a blistering running pace with a 7.3 average and 460 yards, including five TDs to lead the team. Roddy Caffey has a 5.5 average and David Stanley 4.5. Carrying less but with a 8.4 average is Arthur Trevino.

Duncan has a 47 per cent completion average, including four TDs. John Weeks remains the leading catcher with 10 receptions for 201 yards.

Landry Wants To Forget

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — If Tom Landry plans to throw away the films from the Minnesota Vikings-Dallas Cowboys National Football League game, Ed Sharockman would like a personal copy for his showcase.

"We can't accomplish anything by dwelling on these films," said Coach Landry, whose Cowboys fell to their worst numerical defeat in their history, 54-13 Sunday.

Sharockman was the principal Viking triggerman. The 30-year-old corner back returned a deflected punt 23 yards and an interception 34 yards for touchdowns. Sharockman's 43-yard interception return set up another touchdown.

"Sometimes these games are easy to get over,"

U.N. Foreign Ministers To Discuss War-And-Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Foreign ministers' meetings on war-and-peace issues are being arranged for Wednesday and Friday at the United Nations.

The U.N. Security Council is expected to meet Wednesday afternoon with perhaps 14 of the 15 members represented by foreign ministers.

The Big Four foreign ministers, after joining in the council session, will get together again Friday night at a working dinner given by Secretary-General U Thant in his 38th-floor office suite.

Both gatherings are taking place this week because the ministers are attending the General Assembly's 11-day 25th anniversary session, now moving toward a ceremonial close Saturday.

The U.N. charter, which took effect 25 years ago next Saturday, provides that the Security Council "shall hold periodic meetings" to which each country on the council may send a member of its government if it wants.

Diplomatic sources said the council, at Finland's urging, had agreed to hold the first such session in its history on Wednesday. Nepal is the only council member whose foreign minister may not be present.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will be following an annual custom when they have dinner with Thant Friday.

They are expected to discuss the questions of security for Europe, peace for Indochina and a settlement for the Middle East.

Vote To Give Women Limited Church Role

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Episcopal Church has dropped a requirement that its national policy-making executive council must include representatives of youth, women and racial minorities.

But they are expected to be included anyhow, at least to some extent.

That was the estimate of numerous church representatives today as the governing convention of the 3.4 million member denomination went into its second week.

MONEY CRISIS

After a day off for rest and worship Sunday, the delegates faced a number of issues on organizational structure, marriage canons and a severe financial squeeze.

A special joint session of the church's bi-cameral legislature — its lay-clergy House of Deputies and its House of Bishops — was set for this afternoon to tackle the budgetary crisis which has forced slashes of national programs and manpower.

The church this year was running more than $2.5 million short of anticipated revenues.

Meanwhile the concurrent triennial meeting of church women adjourned after voting to continue meeting with the governing convention, even though it now has opened its doors to women deputies.

"BY ORDERS"
In a close decision late Saturday the 722 delegates, half clergy and half laymen, rejected a proposal for the church to declare women eligible to be priests or bishops.

A majority of laymen favored the change, which would have broken with the church's centuries old tradition of ordaining only males, but the clergy opposition defeated the proposal.

A majority of both orders — clergy and laity — must support a measure to enact it when a "by orders" is demanded as happened in this case.

But while the clergy opposition killed the bid for ordination of women, it was the negative votes of the laity that scuttled the requirement for women, youth and racial minorities on the national executive council.

FIRST TIME

A majority of clergy had favored retaining the provisions. "The executive council represents the whole church and there shouldn't have to be special representatives on it," said Judge Herbert Walker of Los Angeles. A youth representative, David C. Toomey of Beverly, Mass., said the provision, enacted a year ago, meant that "for the first time in history black people felt themselves to be part of the policy-making in this church."

However, the provision, enacted at a special convention a year ago in South Bend, Ind., and subject to ratification at this regular convention, was eliminated.

It had provided that of the council members elected by the convention, at least six must be women, two would have to be between the ages of 18 and 25 and four be members of a racial minority.

With the requirement gone, several deputies voiced assurances that the convention would elect representatives of various groups without fixing mandatory categories for them.

ELECT NEGRO

Shortly after the special requirement was eliminated the delegates elected a Negro sociology professor, Dr. Charles Willie of Syracuse, N.Y., as vice president of the house. He won over two white nominees, Charles Crump of Memphis, Tenn., and Oscar Carr of Clarksdale, Miss.

Under the new provisions for the executive council, its present membership of 51 will be reduced to 41. Thirty are elected by the convention, with no categories specified, and one is elected by each of the church's nine regional provinces.

The other two members are the presiding bishop, John E. Hines, and the House of Deputies president, the Rev. Dr. John Cobb of New York.

The drop in size tended to reduce the influence of the presiding bishop and the president of the House of Deputies on the council. Their vice presidents and secretaries, formerly included, will no longer be members.

SEAT IS HOT
The outcome seemed in line with efforts in some quarters to decentralize church policy making.

However, the convention repeatedly showed its affection for Bishop Hines. The deputies Saturday adopted a resolution praising him for courage and prophetic leadership, in marking his 25th anniversary as a bishop and his sixth year as head of the church.

At one point, the bishops joined in singing some specially-composed verses to him, written by Bishop Richard Enrich of Detroit and sung to the tune of "The Old Chisholm Trail."

Some sample lines: "The PB's chair is an honored spot, but oh my friends that seat is hot. When Johnny rides in a new direction, we gripe like heck but with affection."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ 3 ♥ A ♠ 4 ♠ 632 ♠ AK 1075

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

1 NT Pass 3 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A — Four clubs. Partner obviously has only three hearts, else he would have given an immediate raise. No trump is out because of the singleton spade, so the only course open is a return to clubs.

Q. 2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ 632 ♥ KQJ8 ♥ KQ93 ♠ 62

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♥ 2 ♠

1 ♠ 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A — Four hearts. This does not do full justice to your holding and such mild action might result in missing a slam, yet no other step seems entirely satisfactory. We prefer to make a little allowance for the possibility that partner may have been acting under some degree of pressure.

Q. 3 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ A4 ♥ A10862 ♥ Q3 ♠ AK7

The bidding has proceeded:

1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A — Inasmuch as your hand can take seven tricks, a jump is indicated and the obvious jump to three hearts is the approved procedure.

Q. 4 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ KJ54 ♥ A96 ♥ 972 ♠ 663

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A — Four hearts. Up until this point you have done nothing. Actually your hand is worth eight points and, in view of partner's vigorous bidding and your assertion on the second round that you had a minimum, you should take one aggressive step by way of advising partner that you have the ace of hearts. The rest should be up to him.

Q. 5 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ KJ964 ♥ A ♠ J62 ♥ Q105 ♠ 46

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♥ 2 ♠

1 ♠ 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A — Three hearts. With a singleton club you are not disposed to support the no trump immediately. If possible you would like to elicit a spade preference from partner. The bid of three hearts will serve the purpose. If partner is well protected in the minor suits, he is given the opportunity to proceed to game in no trump.

Q. 6 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ K10963 ♥ Q52 ♥ A7542

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♥ 1 ♠

Pass 1 NT 4 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?

A — You have a strong hand opposite partner's double. Including distribution it is worth 11 points and you are odds-on favorite to make a game. Bid four diamonds.

Q. 7 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ A ♠ 65 ♥ J873 ♠ KQJ987

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠

2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A — Three clubs. With a spade opening virtually assured, you must step with caution in case partner does not have the ace of clubs. The rebid of the minor suit will serve as a warning to him.

Q. 8 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ Q65 ♥ 952 ♥ K543 ♥ K75

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A — Our inclination is for a bid of four spades. It does not appear that sufficient defensive values are held to defeat the vulnerable game contract. We prefer, therefore, to make the sacrifice bid which should not prove too expensive.

Picket Lines At Newspapers

CHICAGO (AP) — Truck mechanics serving Chicago's four major newspapers went on strike early today, but spokesmen for the papers said publication will not be hindered.

The strike was called by the Automobile Mechanics Union Local 701, which represents 116 circulation truck mechanics, after negotiations broke off at 4:30 a.m.

Pickets were set up at Field Enterprises Inc., publishers of the Sun-Times and The Daily News, and at The Tribune Co., publishers of The Chicago Tribune and Chicago Today.

The mechanics had postponed their strike deadline for 4½ hours as negotiations continued through the night. The union rejected an offer Sunday night calling for a $1.95 an hour pay boost over three years. The mechanics now make $4.31 an hour.

It was not immediately clear whether members of other unions will cross the picket line, although an official of The Tribune Co. said, "So far they (employees) have reported to work and we expect they will honor their contracts."

They asked him what he was doing with a toothy grin the man replied, "Oh, I'm just stocking me up on some old burglary tools."

The next day the man was in custody... for the burglary of a business firm... in which the crowbar was used.

Zachariah On State Board

George J. Zachariah, mayor pro tem of Big Spring, and an executive with Cosden Oil Company, was elected to serve on the board of directors of the Eastern Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas for a three-year term at the society's annual convention in San Antonio Friday and Saturday.

Zachariah has a long history of service with the Eastern Seal Society of Texas, and has served as state president of the Eastern Seal Society of Howard County.

P. O. Settle Jr., Fort Worth, was re-elected president of the State Eastern Seal Society, and Harry Martin, Ph. D., San Antonio; Jack B. Dale, Houston; and Mrs. Reagan Jones, Tyler, were named vice presidents. Robert E. Kennedy, Abilene, was elected treasurer.

C5A Probe Is Under Way

DOBBINS AFB, Ga. (AP) — An investigation is under way to determine the cause of a flight line explosion and fire that destroyed the first C5A supersonic jet ever built.

The holocaust Saturday in which the $50 million craft was demolished and flight mechanic Phillip L. Smith, 31, was killed renewed the controversy surrounding the plane and its maker, Lockheed-Georgia Co.

A long-time critic of the C5A, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., demanded that the Air Force, for whom the jets were constructed, ground all C5A planes until the cause of the explosion is determined.

Proxmire is chairman of the Senate subcommittee on economy in government.

R. D. Roche, vice president of Lockheed-Georgia and C5A program manager, said Sunday the blasts occurred while maintenance work was being performed, and that the engines were not running and no systems were in operation.

Dig This Character At Midland

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — There is supposed to be honor among thieves and at least one of them proved recently that he doesn't lie.

The man visited a Midland discount store and purchased some tools including a crowbar.

Pete Montemayor of the district attorney's office and Vince Conklin of the Midland Police were in the store at the time and recognized the man as "a police" character.

They asked him what he was doing with a toothy grin the man replied, "Oh, I'm just stocking me up on some old burglary tools."

The next day the man was in custody... for the burglary of a business firm... in which the crowbar was used.

A defendant charged with worthless checks is currently making restitution. Eysen said prosecution of the case has not been determined.

Two driving while intoxicated cases and one worthless check case are scheduled for Tuesday. One defendant is expected to enter a plea of guilty.

Bentsen Attacks Hickel's Oil Bit

HOUSTON (AP) — Lloyd Bentsen said Sunday he is shocked and deeply disappointed that a member of the President's Cabinet announced a government decision at a fund-raising political dinner.

Bentsen is the Democratic candidate for the senatorial seat being vacated by U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

Bentsen referred to a Friday night announcement by Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel who said at Houston that 127 tracts of oil and gas lease lands will be sold Dec. 15. Hickel made the announcement at a $50-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner for Bentsen's opponent, George Bush.

Bentsen called Hickel's announcement a "rather crass demonstration of the Republican establishment's political power play—its attempt to coerce and bribe Texas voters into giving the Republicans both of our votes in the Senate."

Bentsen conceded that it is "often difficult" for incumbents to separate politics from government duties but he added it does not require "much discretion to realize that an official government decision, such as the sale of oil leases, should not be announced at a political fund-raising dinner."

Bentsen said Hickel had tried earlier to "trick the state government into having Texas taxpayers furnish part of the transportation for this political foray into the state."

"Fortunately," he said, "Governor Smith's staff discovered that Mr. Hickel was here to beat the political bushes and denied him the use of state aircraft."

Meanwhile, at Dallas, Bush was telling a Zionist banquet that the "continuing crisis in the Middle East is one of the greatest threats to world peace."

Bush said he supported the principle of self-determination for all peoples of the Middle East.

Arthur Howard, 35, and James Johnson, 38, drowned when their fishing boat capsized near the Galveston causeway Sunday.

Two other occupants of the boat were rescued and hospitalized in what was termed fair condition.

U.S. 77 and struck a culvert. Arthur Johnson, 64, was shot to death when he argued over a parking space in Houston, police said. Richard M. Johnson, 55, was charged with murder.

A man tentatively identified as Willie Turner, 56, was found shot to death early Sunday on a Dallas street, police said.
