Democracy Is in Peril All Over the World—George

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Five years after the world war, democracy which, in 1918, won a great victory over an autocracy, is in peril, David Lloyd George, the war-time premier of Great Britain, declared in a luncheon address here today. A wave of autocracy seems to be sweeping over the world, he declared, but against it the United States, Great Britain and France will stand together.

"Russia threw over democracy a few months after starting the experiment," the former premier asserted. "Italy, Spain, Bulgania and now Germany is talking about a dictatorship. Democracy is in peril, in peril five years after the greatest triumph democracy has ever had.

"Why is democracy more sure, safer? It is slower to begin, it does not bring its forces into action in the way perhaps an autocracy does, but in a struggle it is the heart that tells, and democracy sustains the heart, and what happens is that democratic institutions alone can produce and train men that are able to appeal to the nations, to rise those heights of sacrifice which are the last citadels of freedom in all lands.

"Now, when democracy is in danger, when I can see the throne of democracy tumbling in one land after another, here you have a land of democracy. Britain is the land of democracy, and France, I believe, will stand by democracy, and whatever happens these three great lands together will stand against this wave of autocracy which seems to be sweeping over the world."

AMERICANS ARE RUM DIRECTORS

Canadian Police Head Says They Are Directing Rum Runners

By The Associated Press.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—Americans are directing virtually the entire Canadian-American rum-running industry, according to a statement by General W. A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, appearing today in the Toronto Evening Telegram, in refuting the charge that Canadian bootleggers were keeping the United States moist.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The question of the bootlegging on the American coast will shortly come before a committee of the imperial conference on which Premier McKenzie King will represent Canada. The problem arises from the United States government's request that it be permitted to have the right to search British vessels within the 12 miles limit instead of the present three mile limit along the shores of the United States.

Great Britain thus far has declined to accede to the request but promised to submit the request to the imperial conference for consideration. The whole matter will be threshed out in committee before a final decision is reached.

Gulf Refining Co. Announces Retail Slash From Ohio to Texas

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 16.—Two cents a gallon was cut from the service price of some 400 gasoline stations in the territory east of Ohio and in an irregular line south of the Ohio river, extending to and including Texas, by the Gulf Refining company tonight. The Atlantic Refining company, at the same time, announced a similar price reduction effective through Pennsylvania.

The price in the Pittsburgh district will be 19 cents a gallon, which does not include the two cents Pennsylvania state tax, in other states, the Gulf announcement said, prices were far from uniform owing to local conditions, and it was impossible at this time to give the selling rate in each state.

It was explained that the general condition of the crude oil market was responsible for the reduction.

CONFESSION OF CLEM GRAY IS READ BY STATE

Statement Says Gray Spoke With Ballard Shortly Before Murder

WOMEN ALSO TESTIFY

Tells of Negro Disposing Of Body — "Borrowed" Death Roadster

By The Associated Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas, Oct. 16.—The state, in the trial of Clem Gray for the slaying of Otis Ballard, rested today after offering a part of the confession made by Gray to officers while in the Upshur county jail.

District Attorney Hutchings read extracts from the signed statement. Gray declared George McKinley, on the night of the slaying, came to Gray's house about 10 o'clock and told him that Ballard was over at the East Side school house; that Gray dressed, went over to the school house and met Ballard and McKinley on the steps where Gray engaged in conversation with Ballard.

Gray and Ballard walked down into the woods nearby, continuing their conversation, and, according to the statement, a negro named Kemp, carried the body of Ballard away. Kemp told Gray, the statement continued, if Gray would get a car, Kemp would put the body in a deep hole.

Gray stated he obtained an automobile out of a lady's garage without her knowledge, went back, loaded the body in the roadster and drove, after meandering about, out the Pittsburg road toward Cypress.

Kemp got a burlap sack that was in the car and wrapped Ballard's head up, according to the signed statement, and then took the body from the car and put it in the Cypress creek. Kemp had two pairs of shoes and threw one in the railroad pond and put on another pair. Gray had some blood on his sleeves, which he washed off with gasoline, the statement declared.

The statement concluded that Gray made it freely and voluntarily that no innocent person might suffer for the offense.

Others testifying today included Mrs. Sam Austin and Miss Ruth Mitchell who said they saw McKinley go to Gray's home; and Deputy Sheriff J. H. Leech, who said that after Gray's statement, made in the Gilmer jail, officers went to the pool and found Ballard's clothes and other clothes with two rocks in a tow sack. Sheriff Cato also was on the stand.

The survey will be made in the Brazos valley irrigation district No. 1 and will be undertaken as soon as the roads are dry enough.

Hollywood Dominated by Crippled Astrologer in Covell Murder Case

Special to The Record News.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 16.—Decipherings made today of horoscopes declared to have been sent to film stars by Arthur Covell, astrologist of Marshfield, Ore., who has been charged with murder in an indictment, disclosed none relating directly to William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, who was slain in his home in Hollywood, Los Angeles, said Lake S. May, detective.

"I have deciphered a horoscope sent by Covell to an actress mentioned very prominently in connection with the death of Taylor," said May, who announced last night that his studies of the death of Mrs. Ebba Covell of Brandon, Oregon, for which Covell was indicted, might give a strong clue to the Taylor mystery, "and I have found out that it makes no reference to Taylor.

"The studies I have made today of horoscopes sent out by Covell show that a number of leading Hollywood people were influenced by him in pretty nearly everything they did. They were guided by his horoscopes as to how scenarios should be written, whether contracts should be signed and on what days certain pieces should be acted."

May said that continued perusal of Covell's horoscopes indicated that a great many people were warned to leave Oregon, the alternative being the payment of sums of money, and that warnings signed "K. K. K." were to be sent these people.

May declared that one set of horoscopes showed that Alton Covell, who has confessed that he killed Mrs. Covell, "under orders" had been directed by the astrologist, his uncle, to kidnap a girl 15 years old and hold her for a ransom of $5,000 and that a note demanding the money was to be signed "K. K. K."

Berlin Police Fire Into Food Rioters

Mobs Estimated at 12,000 Besiege Town Hall in Greater Berlin — Bread 480,000 Mark a Loaf

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—The food riots which have been going on in Greater Berlin for the past ten days culminated today in serious outbreaks in the heart of the city. Mobs estimated to aggregate 12,000 unemployed, accompanied by women and youths, besieged the town hall in the center of the eastern section of the capital, and the rioting which followed continued intermittently for four hours and was quelled only after police reinforcements used their bayonets and fired volleys to awe the crowds.

The immediate provocation for today's outbreak was the abolition of the official bread card. This resulted in a sudden rise in the price of the four-and-a-half-pound loaf to 480,000 marks, which was effective while the bread cards still were valid.

The police report that five demonstrators were seriously wounded and a score slightly injured during the disorders. One of the wounded in the rioting near the town hall died this afternoon. Some reports estimate that 20 persons were wounded when the police fired into the crowds.

A bonus of 10,000,000 marks for each of the unemployed, free fuel and free food were among the demands made by the demonstrators.

TAKE EVIDENCE IN FRAUD CASE OF "DOC" COOK

First of More Than 100 Witnesses Take Stand Against Explorer

LETTERS ARE READ

Witnesses Testify They Were Advised to Transfer Stock

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 16.—Presentation of evidence by the government in the trial in federal court here of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arctic explorer, and his co-defendants, charged with using the United States mails to defraud, began this afternoon when C. B. Whitmer, real-estate dealer of Freemont, Iowa, took the witness stand as the first of more than one hundred witnesses expected to be called for the prosecution.

Mr. Whitmer's testimony was short, as most of the time was taken by the government reading letters to the jury He testified he received through the mails from the Burk-Hoyt Oil company, signed by J. S. Rooks, a co-defendant, and from the Petroleum Producers association, signed by Dr. Cook.

The letters urged that the stockholders in the Burk-Hoyt company transfer their stock into Dr. Cook's association, by paying 25 per cent of the stock value in cash. One of the letters written by Dr. Cook said: "Petroleum is the king of industry," "our success is as certain as human progress."

Mr. Whitmer went on the stand this afternoon after Attorney H. S. Wade had completed a brief statement of facts to the jury for the defense and after Attorney Henry Kahn of Houston, representing S. E. J. Cox, addressed the jury denying that Cox had been involved in the affairs of the Petroleum Producers association.

Mr. Whitmer's testimony will be completed tomorrow morning and then H. J. Thompson of Storey City, Iowa; C. L. McCory, Edna, Kans; J. W. McCormick, Anthony, Kans.; Thomas Laity, Ada, Kans.; Oscar Cole, Nevada, Kans. who is said had stock in the companies will take the witness stand in the order named.

Postal Inspector John Swenson, who is one of the chief witnesses for the government, also is expected to take the stand tomorrow. Inspector Swenson led the investigation into the affairs of the Petroleum Producers association, which preceded the presentation of facts to the grand jury, resulting in the indictment being returned, naming Cook and twenty-one others, seven of whom pleaded guilty yesterday. The seven who entered their pleas will be used as witnesses by the government, it was announced by United States Attorney Henry Zweifel.

Three visitors from Australia attended the trial this afternoon. They were Donald McKinnon, former attorney general of Australia but now Australian commissioner to the United States, who is inspecting cotton and cattle in this country; L. S. Black, his secretary, and H. S. Armstrong. They will leave tonight for Dallas and will then go to St. Louis.

SUNDAY SHOWS FILED AGAINST

Charges of Violating Sunday Closing Law Filed On Six

Charges of violating the Sunday closing law were filed Tuesday by County Attorney E. L. Fulton against six motion picture operatives whose places of business were closed and who were arrested and placed in the county jail, and later released on $500 bonds each last Sunday afternoon.

In filing the six charges the county attorney made the notation in writing on the docket that by agreement with the showmen the cases were to be understood as being filed at 3:30 last Sunday afternoon. The fact that the office of the county court at law was closed Sunday afternoon made it improbable for the cases to have been filed at that time, the notation states.

The fact that the six men had been previously arrested and made bonds in the city court before their subsequent arrest by the state and county officers was believed by some to make a second trial for the same offense impossible. Whether the state cases and city cases will be regarded as two distinct offenses or the city court penalty disregarded altogether is not known.

COTTON FIGURES ARE UNDER FIRE

American Cotton Association Says U. S. Report Unreliable

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, S. C., Oct. 16.—Placing itself on record as disapproving the crop reports sent out by the United States department of agriculture, in which figures are given to the public purporting to show the estimated acreage to be planted to cotton as based on reports of "thousands" of farmers to plant, the American Cotton association, at its fifth annual convention today passed a resolution at its closing session urging the department of agriculture to stop its reports.

"We feel that the cotton acreage is a matter of too great importance to the farmers, the growers and the cotton trade generally, for the resolution stated, "for estimates on acreages planted to be hazarded to guess work."

The resolution further urged that congress pass such legislation and provide necessary funds to enable the United States department of commerce to take a correct and dependable census each year after the cotton crop has been planted to ascertain the approximate acreage planted on returns to be accurately filled out by each grower who plants cotton in the United States.

The official business of the convention was brought to a close late today with the selection of Atlanta as the next meeting place for the association. Three hundred and twenty-five delegates representing 20 cotton growing states attended the annual gathering. Arizona was the only cotton growing state not officially represented.

Ginning figures show that the average cost of ginning per bale for cotton for all of 1922 was $4.28 cents a pound of lint cotton, bale and including the Hearon conservation, under the most economical conditions, heavy crops and the use of the largest gins. The cost of ginning cotton under the most uneconomical conditions also figured, showing a variation favoring maximum average ginning of three cents a pound and the recommendation the cause for adoption by all cotton growers and all cotton traders of cotton throughout the south.

Tabulations of reports received direct from agents mailed out to 6,000 county correspondents of the association in twelve states the committee completed its resolution which was adopted recommending that the ginning prices for all grades in the twelve states be as follows:

North Carolina 32 cents, South Carolina 35, Georgia 41, Florida 41, Alabama 39, Mississippi 40, Louisiana 39, Texas 61, Arkansas and Tennessee 25, Oklahoma 32, and Missouri 28.

REFUGEE ARMY IS WAITING FOR RIVER TO FALL

More Than 2,000 Homeless Quartered in Churches And Halls

KNOWN DEATH LIST 2

Rescue Squads Still Work At Top Speed—River Is Falling

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 16.—Staggered by the greatest flood in the history of the state, and virtually isolated by rail and highway, Oklahoma City tonight sheltered her little army of refugees and waited for the muddy turbulant expanse of the North Canadian river to recede and reveal the damage it has wrought.

Although the river had fallen approximately two feet from the 25-foot crest that swept down on the city at 5 o'clock this morning, the swift rush of the waters was still swirling through streets heretofore considered immune from the ravages of the stream.

More than 2,000 of the 15,000 persons who fled before the onrush of the water still were homeless tonight. They were quartered in halls or churches throughout the city. The remainder of the host had returned to their homes by means of vehicles that passed, often hub-deep through streets still filled with back water.

The known death list stood at two, but city officials and members of rescue crews declared it probably would be greater when the receding waters make possible a thorough search of the flooded areas.

The dead thus far known are Mrs. R. B. Loose and her daughter, Clara, 8 years old, who were drowned when a boat in which they attempted to gain land, after tarrying in an effort to save their personal effects, was caught in the millrace at Wheeler Park, a municipal resort, and capsized. Loose and another daughter, Bessie, 10, were rescued from the top of a large tree into which they had climbed when the boat went over. They had been there 12 hours when a skiff, driven by two intrepid oarsmen, finally nosed its way among the trees in the park and brought them to safety. Loose was taken to a hospital, where his condition was pronounced serious as a result of exposure.

Rescue squads were still working at top speed tonight. A negro family brought to land over more than a mile of racing waters told their rescuers that at least 75 other negroes were marooned on the brow of a hill, the only unsubmerged spot on which the negroes could find refuge. They were reported without food or water, and efforts were being continued to bring them to safety.

At the city reservoir, where a break in retaining wall precipitated the unprecedented flood upon the city, the water still was falling tonight with the 2,000 acre reservoir nearly two-thirds drained.

Already plans are being made to rebuild the 350 feet of embankment that crumbled away from the end of a concrete dam under the merciless pounding of the torrent. A contract for reinforcement of the dyke had been let before the flood and Joe H. Patterson, city commissioner of public property, and Bert M. Hart, city engineer, are in New York, conferring with engineers drawing up plans for the work. Details of the break were telegraphed to them today and the plans will be altered to include its repair. No estimate of the damage can yet be made but city officials said that it will "run into the hundreds of thousands."

With the lake draining, pumps today were turned directly into the river and the city water supply was maintained.

The city garbage department today began the cremation of the bodies of hundreds of heads of livestock that were washed into the city. Fifteen hundred head of hogs were lost by one shipper at one place when they were caught in loading pens on the edge of the city, after a railroad train had been unable to move them because of washed out tracks nearby.

Many stories of heroism were recounted as the work of rescuing the marooned continued. One of the most vivid, perhaps, was that of Gordon Chapman, city fireman, who gave his place in a rescue boat to a negro woman, while he remained on the bank of the flood and took his chances of being picked up later. With two companions he had rowed far into the eddying sea that had engulfed Walnut Grove, one of the lowland districts. Discovering the woman in a house alone, he placed her in the boat and his companions returned with her to shore. Chapman swam to a two-story frame school house, the highest building in the district, and went to the second floor. The rising waters soon forced him into the attic, where he found an aged man.

The water continued to climb and with the waves running knee deep where he stood, Chapman hacked a hole in the roof with his pocket knife, assisted the aged man through the opening and together they straddled the ridge of the roof, until a rescue squad sighted them and brought them to land.

Late today all national guards with the exception of medical units, were released from duty here and patrolling of the areas bordering the flooded districts was turned over to the city police.

With the crest of the flood past Oklahoma City residents of the low lands in Shawnee and other cities south of here were preparing tonight to leave their homes.

BASEBALL STILL KING OF GAMES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Baseball has emerged from the 1923 world's series which the New York American league champions won yesterday, stronger in its hold on popular interest than ever before and unweakened by unfortunate incidents of the last few years, John A. Heydler, president of the National league, asserted in a statement tonight.

Frank Frisch, the New York Nationals' second baseman, by his consistent hitting, daring base running and sensational fielding, "came out of the series one of the greatest, if not the greatest, present day all-round player of the game," Mr. Heydler added, and John J. McGraw, he added, though manager of the defeated team, "came out of the series a bigger man than ever before in his career," and "his sportsmanship was

The records of this remarkable golfer are too numerous to mention, but among his feats are, winning the western championship eight times, the French championship once, and being the only amateur ever to win the western open (which he did in 1910). Chick finished 3rd highest of the amateurs in this year's open. He was put out in the first round of the amateur championship at Flossmoor. Later he lost to Bobbie Jones, when the two played off a tie for low qualifying scores.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

What is the proper way for a runner to shift the ball from one arm to the other, and when should it be done?

Answered by

GLEN "POP" WARNER.

Football Coach, University of Pittsburgh for past 8 years. Teams undefeated 5 of 8 years. Former Athletic Director Carlisle Indians. Successful coach for 28 years.

The proper way to shift the ball is to push the ball across the body while grasping one end of it with the hand which originally held the ball and grasp it with the free arm as the shift is being made. The shift should never be made when in a mass of players because one arm is likely to be jerked away during the shift and result in a fumble. When the runnner is in the open field, shifting the ball quickly is advantageous in order to use the occupied arm to ward off a tackler, because a tackler will usually dart from the side on which the back carries the ball in order to avoid the stiff-arm.

SERIES PLAYERS ANSWER "CALL"

Ruth Is Off For New Brunswick—Others On Hunting Trips

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The call of the wild has reached the ears of Babe Ruth, many of his Yankee team mates, and an equal number of his erstwhile Giant rivals, now that the greatest world's series has become a chapter in baseball history.

Miramichi, New Brunswick, where the big game differs considerably from the big game of a world series, is to become Babe's stamping grounds within the next week, according to his present plans. There, armed with a rifle instead of his trusty bat, and accompanied by Hughie Jennings, the Giants' field manager, who, for the time, will change his famous "EEEEE-YAH" into a moose call, the Bambina will endeavor to collect trophies for the already well filled den of his New England country home.

Texas is the goal of Ross Young and Frank Snyder, Giant outfielder, and catcher. They leave tomorrow morning for the southwest and a big game hunting trip that will continue for a month or more. The Maine woods, the Canadian northwest and other famous hunting grounds of the North American continent, each will draw its share of ball players.

Virgil Barnes, Giant pitcher, was so anxious to forget baseball that he left for the middle-west early today without collecting the $4,112.88 check made out in his name as a regular member of the losing team, and Hank Gowdy was on the point of deserting New York for Ohio but decided to wait until tomorrow, when the checks will be issued.

There was a difference of $2,047.58 between the individual shares of the winners and the losers.

The Yankee players voted to divide their melon into 26 full shares and one half share, the full shares amounting to $6,160.46, the biggest figure in the game's history. The half share was split among several players late on the team who did not get into the series—to secretaries and ground keepers.

The losers' total for the series was $110,634.91, and of this amount each of the 26 regular players, manager and coach, received $4,112.88.

BAPTIST REVIVAL CROWD GROWING

Since the arrival of Dr. James B. Leavell of Houston, last Monday afternoon, the revival services at the First Baptist church have been continuously growing in interest and attendance. Dr. Leavell's messages are practical and convincing. Last night's theme, "Working Faith," was directed toward those who profess Christianity. "Faith without works is dead," said the evangelist, "is just as true today as when the inspired writer penned the scriptural verse. A soul saved by the grace of God should be supported by a fruitful life. The strongest testimony of any life is given by deed rather than word. A faith without works will receive an empty reward; a life without fruit can never prove its relation to God."

A special feature of the services is the music rendered by a male quartet and a mixed quartet.

K. C. BLUES ARE HALTED BY RAIN

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16.—Lowering clouds and a forecast of rain made it seem extremely unlikely tonight that the fourth game of the junior world's series between the Kansas City Blues of the American association and the Baltimore Orioles of the International league would be played tomorrow afternoon. Officials of the clubs asserted tonight that the game would be played if no more rain should fall here before tomorrow afternoon.

Music to Feature Legion's Fight Card; Also "Pin-Weight" Barrage

A machine gun barrage of pin-weights and a special musical program by a five-piece orchestra will precede the opening of the big guns Thursday night at the Legion boxing exhibition at the opera house, it was announced last night by legion officials.

The orchestra will play before and during the bouts, and it is promised legionnaires say, that the music will not be of the "wedding march" variety, not casting any reflection on the famous processionals and recessionals and their accompaniments. But the melodies appearing will be just that of the zippy kind, hearty and wholesome—you know.

In the way of the paper-weight attractions, says the legion, "there will be for your edification, ladees and gentle-men, the first and as hitherto only introduction of W. C. Midget Curley's brother, and Tiny, Spider's brother, who will step it off for the championship of Wichita Falls, in their weight."

These pugs are about six years old or younger and will weigh in at 46 1-2 barefooted. One of the gladiators will wear a purple, gold trimmed boxing costume which he has gone to some trouble and expense in getting fitted. The other man will wear something, not yet announced.

Among those punies entering the free-for-all at eight years will be Spider, Curley, and Sonny Jackson of Bridgetown. This will be a feature in itself.

Dave Paul, local jeweler, has agreed to officiate at all the bouts as time keeper, it being said that he runs a mean timepiece, and there'll be no slow ones there.

"The French Doll" Opens

"The French Doll" opened at the Strand Theatre last night with Mae Murray as the star. In excellence and story as well as in Miss Murray's individual characterization it follows close upon Miss Murray's recent photoplays, which were the highest examples of screen art.

"The French Doll' is the story of a little, joyous French maiden who is brought to this county by her unscrupulous parents to aid them in disposing of false antique furniture. Her exquisite charm is to be the chief aide. Miss Murray, quite unconscious of what the real business of her parents may be, really helps to dispose of many dollars' worth of "antiques"—until one day, walking in the park, her dog runs after a squirrel, dragging her violently after, so that she is almost seriously injured, when in the nick of time there appears—Wellington Wick, a wealthy fish packer.

From this point on, "The French Doll," already vivid and alive with Miss Murray's exquisite charm takes on a swiftness of action and a delicious humor. The various adventures that befall Georgine, that is, Miss Murray, and her various admirers, all of whom become lovers of antique furniture, form an evening of enchanting entertainment.

The sets of the "French Doll" are built on plans similar to those which caused so much comment in one of Miss Murray's recent successes, namely, "Broadway Rose." They are distinctly foreign in appearance, being tinged here and there with a dash of Oriental color which gives a delightful sensation to the audience.

Gloria's New Play

Gloria Swanson has chosen one of the most delightful plays written, for her next picture. Maude Fulton's "The Humming Bird" is being prepared by a splendid cast with Sidney Olcott directing.

Forrest Halsey wrote the scenario for Miss Swanson, and the picture is built around her personality even more artistically than "Zaza", if that is possible.

Filming of the picture will begin in a very few weeks.

Ford Joins Pickford Forces

Another new member has been added to the Mary Pickford organization in the persons of Starrett Ford, who will act as production manager for Miss Pickford's forthcoming screen version of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall."

Mr. Ford goes to Miss Pickford's organization from the Metro company, where he was in charge of the production activities on "The Four Horsemen," "Conquering Power," "Turn to the Right," "Prisoner of Zenda," "Trifling Women," and other feature films. He is a veteran of the business, having started his motion picture work with Cecil de Mille in 1913.

"David Copperfield" Released

Following in this train of costume plays comes "David Copperfield" which is a release by Associated Exhibitors for September 23rd. The spirit of Victorian England is said to be produced to the letter, as are the costumes and the countryside. "Baddy" Martin, the child star, plays the part of the young Copperfield.

"David Copperfield" in the screen version is said to follow the lines of the book with scrupulous exactitude.

New Discovery in "Souvenir"

Victor Hugo Halperin has started work in his California studies on "Souvenir," an original story which will be his second production for Associated Exhibitors. Advance information reaching New York says this picture will bring a new scientific discovery to the screen for the first time, and hints are given that because of this the offering is expected to prove of sensational news value.

PICTURES AND PEOPLE

Bert Lytell is going to take a flier in vaudeville. The actor who left the legitimate stage to become a screen star will return to a speaking role for a six week's engagement over the keith circuit. The one-act sketch is called "Valiant," which was originally produced in a Lamb's Gambol.

Rex Ingram sailed Saturday for Europe. His picture, "Scaramouche" opened Sunday at three different points, New York—the 44th street theatre; Chicago—Woods theatre; and Cincinnati—Cox's Theatre. Marcus Loew attended the mid-west premiere in Chicago.

Our European spy informs us that Fanie Ward has become a grandmother. Which is interesting news in view of the fact that the actress has retained the charm and bloom of youth which makes her look scarcely old enough to be the mother of a child much less its grandmother. Fannie Ward's daughter, Dorothy, is the wife of Lord Plunkett.

Jane and Eva Novak will make their first appearance together on the screen in "The Man Whom Life Passed By," the production of which was started recently.

Some time ago Valentino changed his given name from Rudolph to Rodolph, the latter monicker being the correct one. Now Ramon Novarro has changed his surname from Navarro to Novarro, the last mentioned according to the Metro star being correct but which had been changed without his consent. It is to be hoped that not an adult of all the Japanese and American millions fails to think of the difference between food ships and war ships, plying between the two lands.

Why does it take a catastrophe—or a Christmas—to release good feeling as it might be released?

When will two nations—many nations—be sending gifts to one another without a calamity preceding the bestowal?

Just the volume of good feeling in America which is now flowing toward Japan; just the kindleness and appreciation which is now flowing from Japan to us, could at any time silence all talk or thought of war between any two nations.

Does it take an earthquake and a fire to deliver humanity over to its own decent impulses? Or a holiday on which custom has set the stamp of habit of being decent?

Fleets of war ships launched at enormous expense, manned by men carrying other men, all skilled in useful pursuits, and leaving behind families and occupations, to go to kill and be killed?

Or fleets of food ships, launched by generous hands, carrying supplies to a people, to minister to them?

Either is possible, but only one is reasonable.

So when Riverside, California, chamber of commerce telegraphed to the president asking that the first relief ship to Japan be sent from southern California, there was voted something tremendous, which every nation should listen to. For the Japanese "problem," whatever it is, is California's problem; and it was a fine gesture that came from California in this offer.

"We suggest," the telegram continues, "that there be more than beneficence. That there be also the offer by the United States of a loan to Japan for rehabilitation."

It is true. Not only should this occasion be made a means of showing generosity and beneficence. It should be used to cement the little country to the big country in such a way that talk of war will thin away to a cloud and end in the signing of a paper.

The Riverside people go still farther, and they say: "We have now the opportunity to enter into a compact with the people of Japan, not one of perishable parchment in the form of a treaty but a moral compact which will prove to the Japanese people that we wish them only well."

This present occasion is one of the great picturesque spectacles such as history is always staging, and never was it staged more eloquently than by substitution of food ships for war ships, culture for dreadnaughts, friendship for fear.

IT JUST IS

In suburban life or in the small towns, where the men and women are thrown a great deal together, you will most always find among the young married set, little "pop gun" affairs I cal them because they are so perfectly harmless.

A married man will like a certain married woman better than any other of the married women in his crowd. He says openly to his wife and every one else "that girl's a peach."

And if his wife mentions that the girl is going to run in after supper, no matter how tired he is, he will go upstairs and shave. And perhaps don his white flannels or put on a pretty tie.

Absolutely no harm in it, he just wants to look nice in front of her.

And the women, they have their little "pop guns" too. Most of them have a favorite among the married men, and they will put on their prettiest frock if they know they will see him.

All of this is simply true to life, no harm in saying it exists when we all know it does. And the person who hasn't a "pop gun" misses a lot of fun and feels sort of "out of it."

ANOTHER REASON TO BE THANKFUL.

Wichita Falls, aside from having a bountiful water supply because of the completion of the Kemp storage dam, already is enjoying another great benefit from the impounding of billions of gallons of water. While other towns are suffering from floods, Wichita Falls is as dry as any town could be that has been visited by six inches of rain fall in four days time.

And Wichita Falls, in the opinion of competent engineers, would have been visited by as great a flood as that of 1915 if it had not been for the Kemp storage dam. The water in that vast reservoir rose 12 feet in 72 hours. If all that water hadn't gone into the storage dam it would have had to come down the river, swelling the streams and flooding the lowlands.

But it didn't come—it went into Lake Kemp instead. So, while the good people of Wichita Falls hurried out to get their morning paper to see what had happened to Oklahoma City and flooded sections of Texas, there was nothing for them to worry about. That is, with the exception of the few who were wondering if there was any probability of the Lake Kemp dam breaking. And that too, is nothing to worry about. As was explained in an article in yesterday's Record News, there isn't the remotest chance of anything like that happening.

When the Lake Kemp dam was constructed, the danger of such an occurrence was fully taken into consideration, and it was built to stand the flush waters of a flood many times greater than has ever been recorded in the history of Northwest Texas. Wichita Falls, with all of the water a town many times its size could want—water enough to supply the city and irrigate the fertile lands of the Wichita Valley, at the same time insuring them against disastrous floods—well, Wichita Falls has just one more reason to rise up and throw kisses to an envious citizenship, scattered thither and yon throughout these United States of Amrica.

What's a few inches of rain when we have Lake Kemp?

THREE CHEERS FOR DR. MAX THOREX.

Let us all gather 'round and give three cheers for Doctor Max Thorex.

Dr. Max Thorex, a famous surgeon and chief surgeon at the American hospital of Chicago, has offered something new and different and shown himself to be a brave man. It did so by making the following statement:

"Rejuvenation of old, decrepit individuals is not possible. A great deal of harm has been produced by giving the impression that such rejuvenations were possible." He condemned attempts being made to implant the glands of goats and rams and other lower animals as criminal and productive of no good.

Dr. Max said all this in a lecture delivered before the international congress of pathology in Rome.

We regret to say that we never heard of the famous surgeon before. But that doesn't matter. We are quite sure that we are for him—stronger than horseradish. Probably there is no profession in the world that has to put up with so much fraud and quackery as the medical profession. About the time everything is moving along on even keel, and the profession is making its share of discoveries, some bird who has a doctor's degree, and who appreciates the advantages of publicity, gives out a statement to the effect that men can be made young by planting sunflower seed in their stomachs.

And for a time they get away with it. There are a lot of gullible people in the world, and a certain definite per cent of them fall for this sort of rot. Dr. Max Thorex is a surgeon of enough reputation so that his words should carry weight. There is nothing remarkable in his statement. It is merely a statement of fact.

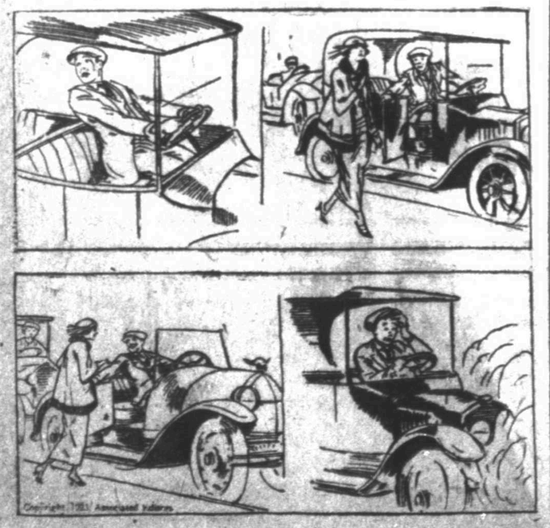

He knows that an old man is an old man; that you can't built up broken down tissues or put life in a dead skin. But he deserves credit for saying so.

Three cheers for Doctor Max.

Black Money

BY J. S. FLETCHER

AUTHOR OF "SCARBOROUGH KEEP," "THE BOROUGH TREASURER," ETC.

"What is it?" asked Hetherwick.

"This!" answered Hudson with a knowing look. "There was a thing I always noticed about Mrs. Whittingham. Wherever she was, and no matter how she was dressed, she always wore a band of black velvet round her right forearm, just above the wrist, where women wear bracelets. In fact, it was a sort of bracelet, a strip, as I say, of black velvet, about two inches wide, and on the front a cameo ornament. But once when I went up to her room with a telegram I caught her without it. She opened her door and held out her right hand for what I'd brought her. The black velvet band wasn't on it, and for just a second, like, I saw what was on her arm."

"Yes?" said Hollis. "Something—remarkable?"

"For a lady—aye!" replied Hudson with a grim laugh. "Her arm was tattooed! Right round the place where she always wore this black velvet band, there was a snake, red and green, and yellow, and blue, with its tail in its mouth!"

Just then, other customers came in, and Hudson turned away to attend to their wants.

"Whoever she may be," remarked Hollis, "she ought not to be difficult to find. A woman who carries an indefaceable mark like that on her arm and whose picture has recently appeared in a newspaper, should easily be traced."

"I think I shall get at her through the picture," agreed Hetherwick. "But there's another matter; I told you that when Hannaford came to town, he had on him a sealed packet containing the secret of some invention or discovery, and that it's strangely and unaccountably missing? His granddaughter says that he worked this thing out, whatever it was, in a laboratory that he had in his garden. Now, then before I go, I want to see that laboratory."

Hollis seemed to reflect for a minute or two.

"I've an idea!" he said suddenly. "There's a man who lunches at the White Bear every day—a man named Collison; he's analytical chemist to a big firm of dyers in the town. I've seen him in conversation with Hannaford now and then. Come on—this is just about his time for lunch."

A few minutes later, in the hotel, Hollis led Hetherwick up to a bearded and spectacled man, and having introduced him, briefly detailed the object of his visit to Sellithwaite. Collison nodded and smiled.

"I understand," he said. "Hannaford did dabble a bit in chemistry—in quite an amateur way. But as to inventing anything that was worth all that—come! Still, he was an ingenious man, for an amateur, and he may have hit on something fairly valuable."

"You've no idea what he was after?" suggested Hetherwick.

"Of late, no! But some time ago he was immensely interested in aniline dyes," replied Collison. "He used to worry himself as to why we couldn't make aniline dyes as well as Germans and I believe he experimented. But with his resources, as an amateur, of course, that was hopeless."

An hour later the three men drove up to Hannaford's abandoned laboratory, which had never been opened, said the caretaker, since Hannaford locked it up and left it. But the key was speedily forthcoming, and the three visitors entered.

The whole place was a wilderness of untidiness; what ever appliances Hannaford possessed had been removed, and now there was little but odds and ends of wreckage—to look at. But the analytical chemist before long turned to his companions with a laugh, pointing at the same time to a table in a corner which was covered with jars and pots.

"It's very easy to see what Hannaford was after!" he said. "He's been trying to evolve a new ink!"

"Ink!" exclaimed Hollis. "Aren't there plenty of inks on the market?"

"No end!" agreed Collison. "These are specimens of all the better known ones. Hannaford perhaps thought being an amateur that he could make a better than the known best. A superior, perfectly, noncorrosive writing-ink?—that's been his notion, a thousand to one! If Hannaford thought he could make one, and succeeded—well, I'd be glad to have his formula! Money in it!"

"To the extent of a hundred thousand pounds?" asked Hetherwick, remembering what Rhoda had told him.

"Oh, well!" laughed Collison. "Inventors are always very sanguine. But if Hannaford really hit on a first class formula for making a writing-ink superior in all the necessary qualities to its rivals—yes, there'd be a pot of money in it, no doubt!"

Hetherwick on his return journeyed to London summed up the results of his visit to Sellithwaite. There were two.

First: he had discovered that the woman of whom Hannaford had spoken in the train was a person who ten years before had been known as Mrs. Whittingham, appeared to be some sort of an adventuress, and in spite of her restitution to the jeweler whom she had defrauded, was still liable to arrest, conviction, and punishment—if she could be found.

Second, he had found out that the precious invention which Hannaford had spoken so confidently and the particulars of which had mysteriously disappeared, related to the manufacture of a new writing-ink, which might, in truth, prove a very valuable commercial asset.

Next morning Hetherwick set out on a tour of the fashionable photographers in the West End of London. His first few coverts were drawn blank, but just before noon, in a palatial establishment in Bond Street, the person to whom he applied, showing the picture, gave an immediate smile of recognition.

"You want to know who is the original of this?" he said. "Certainly! Lady Riversreade of Riversreade Court, near Dorking."

Years after the jeweler had received an amount covering the loss and interest from an anonymous hand. Mrs. Whittingham of course was still liable to penalty for the fraud. Further investigation at Sellithwaite convinces Hetherwick that Hannaford believed he had discovered a valuable formula for an ink. Back in London, the barrister is told by a photographer that the portrait is that of Lady Riversreade!

Mr. James Granett.

Hetherwick had no deep acquaintance with the list of peers, baronets and knights and to him the name of Lady Riversreade was absolutely unknown.

It appeared in several papers," said the protographer. "It was about the time, recently that Lady Riversreade opened some home or institute—I forget what."

Hetherwick made a plausible, excuse for his curiosity and went away.

Lady Riversreade! Evidently some woman of rank, or means, or position. But was she identical with the Mrs. Whittingham of ten years ago—the Mrs. Whittingham who did the Sellithwaite jeweler out of a necklace worth nearly four thousand pounds and cleverly escaped arrest at the hands of Hannaford?

He knew a man, one Boxley, who was always fully posted up in all the doings of the fashionable world and could tell him everything about Lady Riversreade.

He found Boxley in his club.

"One of the richest women in England!" the latter promptly told him. "Worth a couple of millions or so. That's who she is—who she was. I don't know. I can tell you all that is known about her. She's the widow of old Sir John Riversreade, the famous contractor—the man who made a lot of money building railways and dams and got a knighthood for it. He also built himself a magnificent place near Dorking, and called it Riversreade Court—just the type of place a modern millionaire would build. Now, old Sir John had been a bachelor all his life, but when he was about sixty-five, which would be some six or seven years ago, he went over to the United States and made a rather lengthy stay there. And when he returned, he brought a wife with him—the lady you're inquiring about."

"American, then?" asked Hetherwick.

"No, I don't think she's American. If I wanted to label her, I should say she was cosmopolitan."

"Woman of the world, eh?"

"Decidedly so! Handsome woman—self-possessed, self assured, smart, clever."

"She's started a home for wounded officers near Riversreade Court. Jolly nice place, I believe and she pays the piper."

Hetherwick now infinitely inquisitive about the identity of Lady Riversreade with Mrs. Whittingham, picked up a copy of the Times. Almost the first thing on which his glance lighted was the name that was just then in his thoughts—there it was, in capitals, at the head of an advertisement:

So Goes It

By H. H.

A man of forty who wants to know how funny he looks to the younger generation, is advised to dig up a photograph of himself taken fifteen years ago. If he looked funny then, why not now?

And if a woman wants to know how much the styles change, she is advised to do the same. Particularly with reference to hats and ways of "doing the hair."

Don't you recall the good old days when the most popular girl in town was the one who had the highest pompadour. We recall three sisters—triplets they were—who rolled 'em high (their pompadours.) The pomps were a thing of beauty, and the girls weren't bad to look at. That is, they weren't exactly injurious to the eyes.

But the thing that created the most talk in the saintly little town in which we lived in those days of our youth, was the fact that these girls painted. Yes sir, painted their cheeks. Shades of the past! Look at 'em now.

Any person who will look back over his or her past life, as the case may be, and who has anything approaching a sense of humor, will find quite a lot to laugh about.

This isn't such a funny world. It is just the people in it, that makes it funny.

But so long as a man or a woman has reached the sublime and altogether delightful age of forty, and who doesn't try to kid himself or herself into thinking they are yet young, can get by with the crowd and have a perfectly good time doing it.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Common Error.

One Mother Says:

Every one seems to assume that a little girl's room should be papered and draped in very pale dainty colors. If, however, the child is inclined to be too quiet and unresponsive, it is better to decorate the room in bright, gay colors, and hang pictures of action on the walls. It is incorrect to subject all little girls to exactly the same scheme of decoration.

More Truth Than Poetry

MY NEIGHBORS

My neighbors all are leaving me;
Each day I hear them plan together
For journeys toward some summer sea,
An ideal place in winter weather.
They'll stop in Florida a while,
And travel on, a little later,
To an entrancing verdant isle
That lies just north of the equator.

I know that they will leave as soon
As early frosts the buds have blighted,
For each succeeding afternoon
They grow more eager and excited.
Such journeys are beyond my purse—
I've had to learn to do without them;
But somehow it seems always worse
To hear them talk so much about them.

I know that they'll come back next spring,
And try to be as nice as ever,
And yet they'll think: "Poor plodding thing
He is not travelled, smart or clever!
Homecoming always we have found
A source of pleasant satisfaction,
But staying home the whole year 'round
Must drive a body to distraction."

I often wish with all my heart,
When winter winds blow down the hollow
And these, my kindly friends, depart,
That I might pack my trunk and follow.
Where I like them I too would go,
To view the land of milk and honey,
And leave behind the cold and snow,
For bird can travel without money.

Providing Funds For a Local Selling Company.

If it is decided by the land owners that they are going to market their own lands through some local selling organization to be formed here, it is likely that it will be necessary to finance it here.

It takes money to get ready to sell land. Thousands will have to be expended before any land to amount to anything is sold. Agencies will have to be established in various parts of the country. Literature will have to be written, illustrated and printed. Advertising of various kinds will have to be paid for and many other expenses will have to be met.

Adequate funds will have to be provided to start with otherwise money spent will just be wasted as results will not be obtained.

The question of financing is apt to be a vital one at some point in the proceedings and it may be that the land owners will be called upon to dig up their hard earned dollars.

It will be of interest to know what their present attitude is toward putting up money for a local selling company. They were asked "Would you be willing to put up money to finance a local selling company?"

Three said "Yes."

Sixteen said "No."

A few others answered indefinitely.

If this can be taken as a true cross section of the land owners attitude toward putting up money for a local selling company, somebody, sometime, is going to have a merry time trying to form such a company with the land owners as financial backers. However it is entirely possible that their attitude may change as time goes on.

I was the fashionable pet
Doctor of the elite and my clientele
Was composed of the community's
Feminity of night blooming Cereus.
Parasitic, neurotic women
With no aim in life beyond
The immediate satisfaction of
Their own pleasure and desires.
And I built my practice
Not on the teachings or ethics
Of my profession but
On an animal magnetism.
I gave sensations
Instead of curing them.
I took a cynical pleasure
In the workings of the thing
Just as I might have

Until one day I met my
Spirit girl and her simple
Intelligence couldn't grasp
My touch system at all.
Her attraction to me
She mistook for an attraction
To a beautiful soul.
And wherever I went the beauty
Of her belief and faith haunted me.
So long as she held her ideal of me
I could not get away from it.
And no one could quiver the
Colossal faith of her belief.
That is why in a final desperation
I married the girl
And rebuilt my practice
On an honest basis.
And now that I am what she believed
Of me I often wonder if
Her intelligence wasn't
The greater one, after all.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

LIBRA

Be of good cheer today as this is one of the time when every effort should be made to make the other fellow happy. Then you will unconsciously overcome the spell of depression that the aspects have created for this day. Be particularly responsive to the opposite sex and the long-awaited proposal will probably be launched.

A child born today will have great respect for its elders and any form of law, order or discipline. He will be unquestionably successful.

You are generous and sympathetic if today is your birthday, and no matter how wrong you may be in the applications of your sympathy, you will stick to the cause or the person you have chosen to defend through thick and thin.

Your mind while active and energetic is usually more powerful than it is just, though in problems which do not involve your own prejudices you are capable of giving surprisingly judicious decisions.

You are restless, romantic and imaginative, and have a faculty of picturing things to yourself as they may or may not be. You have a natural taste for drama and oratory and you are not apt to let slip any opportunity of using your powers in these arts. Perhaps if you did not dramatize yourself as the hero of the enterprise you are interested in, you would have more chance of actually leading it.

You have excellent taste in art, literature and music and no mean talent for expressing your ideas in words of vivid effectiveness, but it is a taste that is more emotional than critical and more sentimental than logical. You have also a talent for drawing since your imagination as well as your memory is the graphic type rather than the literal.

You re rather fond of the good things of the earth and you are gay and hilarious when the company warrants. But you are also moody and inclined to sulk if all is not to your liking.

Your aversions to people who displease you are often quite unreasonable and costly. You should learn to let your head rule your heart in these matters, for your heart is neither controllable nor responsible. You are affectionate and demonstrative, but much more the latter than the former. You probably have the reputation of being fickle and the chances are that you deserve it.

Successful people born on this date are: Robert Lansing, secretary of state; Bruce Crane, artist; F. Childe Hassam, artist.

Errand Boys Do Grow Up

Lnodon errand-boys have been the subject of an inquiry which shows that 33 per cent enter low-skilled trades, 10 per cent become shopmen, 13 per cent enter the skilled trades, 4 per cent join the army, and 2 per cent the navy. The proportion in the United States is believed to be about the same.

Boy Spanker Is Suggested

Use of a spanking machine equipped with broad paddles so arranged and geared as to administer varying degrees of punishment, according to the needs of the offender was advocated at the conference of the Canadian Association of Child Protection Officers. The "spanker" is to be used in place of jail sentences for first offenders.

Great Lakes' Shrinking

Limits of lake Erie and Lake Michigan were once more extended than now. It is reasonably probable, say students of the subject, that some of the territory now drained by the Wabash and Illinois rivers was once covered by the waters of Lake Michigan.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Heavy selling of the western railway shares on publication of Washington dispatches stating that President Coolidge favored a reduction in freight rates on grain and coal brought about another sharp reaction in today's market, the losses in active shares running from 1 to nearly four points. The average of 20 leading industrial stocks dropped 1.07 points, or within 4 points of the 1923 low record.

New low prices for the year were established by Northern Pacific at 50 3-4, Chicago and Northwestern at 60 1-4 and the preferred at 105 and Colorado and Southern at 20. In addition, Great Northern preferred duplicated its previous low of 51 1-2. A few issues made partial recovery before the close.

Resumption of yesterday's short covering operations gave the market a firm tone at the opening, with special attention being paid by buyers to the steel, motor and tobacco shares. Wall street began to hear unfavorable reports about the western carriers before noon, however, and the pressing for sale of these issues brought about a reduction or cancellation of the early gains, which ran from 1 to 3 points in many issues, and eventually turned the entire market downward.

Nearly a score of industrials also fell to new lows for the year, including Ajax, Goodrich and Kelly Springfield Rubbers, which weakened in reflection of lower tire and crude rubber and prices, and Butte Copper and Zinc, which was adversely affected by the lower prices for the red metal.

Sugar shares developed fresh weakness on the failure of directors of Punta Alegre to make an extra disbursement in addition to the resumption of the regular $5 annual rate. Scattered gasoline price cuts and the reported increase in production in the Powell field in Texas, accelerated the liquidation of oil stocks.

Money rates were somewhat easier. Funds on call opened at 4 3-4 and eased to 4 1-2 while more time money was available at 5 1-4 for the shorter maturities.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly heavy. French francs dropping 9 points to 6.05 cents. Signs of weakness again developed in the Scandinavian remittances, Norwegian and Swiss kronen again established new low record for the year.

Fort Worth Livestock

FORT WORTH, Oct. 16.—Cattle and calf receipts fell off to extremely moderate proportions today, and the market displayed much more activity with a general upward tendency, although no pronounced advances were recorded. The estimate called for 1800 head of cattle and 1,000 calves. Mixed shipments were largely in evidence and the only toppy cattle or calves available came in small drafts sorted from mixed loads. Feeders were strong, cows were steady for the most part, with spots 10 to 15 cents higher; bulls, heifers and yearlings remained steady and on calves the deal was strong. Several cars of plain cattle sold around 4.50@4.75.

Canner sows sold at a general range of 1.50@1.75, cutters brought 2.00@2.75, common to good cows sold at 2.85@3.75, and the best were purchased at 4.00@4.25; bulls were sold for 2.50 to 3.75; heifers and yearlings cleared at 4.50@6.00. A small lot of choice veal calves, averaging around 190 pounds, went at 8.00.

Exclusive of a few wagon lots, receipts of hogs on the early market were limited to one carload and a mixed shipment or two. Receipts for the day were estimated at 500 head, a few loads being reported back. The single sold to an outside buyers at 8.25, a price that looked 10 to 15 cents higher. Wagon hogs sold at 8.30.

Trading in the sheep house displayed plenty of activity, the market being fully steady on all fat classes. A string of wethers sold at 7.15 and some stockers yearlings notched 8.00. Receipts were close to 1,200 head.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—Liquidation of long contracts was against values in the cotton market today and prices were lower from the opening. The storm which entered the belt during the night was probably responsible for this, for it interfered with communication with the interior. Inability to call and transmit margins forced the liquidation of considerable cotton, to all appearances. A poor Liverpool and the desire for profits on the part of longs, precipitated the seling movement.

The first decline amounted to 10 to 15 points after which there was a rally back to within one to two points of yesterday's close but the market soon broke again and the decline was not checked until it amounted to 42 to 47 points with December off to 28.40 cents a pound. In the early afternoon, the market was at its lowest. The tone was steadier in the late trading because of reports that the spot houses were, in some case trying to cancel contracts and were offering all manner of inducements to owners of contracts to switch from the high to lower grades. The close was at net losses of 27 to 39 points with December at 28.57 to 28.60.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Business never stands still. It is either getting better or worse at all times. There is no "normal" business, in the sense that normal means traveling in a straight line.

Often people sigh for the good old times of "normal" business. What they really want is relatively stable business with small and infrequent price changes. Business can be prosperious on either a gently rising or gently falling market.

Business men dislike an abrupt drop in prices because such bring losses. And, contrary to the usual impression, wise business men do not want rapidly rising prices either, because they are sure to drop again almost as quickly.

What is most desirable is a gentle rise and fall, the happy medium between two extremes. This is the type of "normal" business that really is to be desired.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Yesterday's big advance was followed by sharp reactions in today's cotton market, owing to the failure of weather conditions to develop quite as unfavorably as expected and heavy realizing. December contracts sold off to 28.88, or 44 points from yesterday's closing quotations, but recovered about 20 points of the loss, closing at 29.08. The general market closed steady at net declines of 7 to 13 points because of relatively easy cables and scattering liquidation.

There were a good many overnight orders around the ring which caused rallies of several points from the early low level, but the advances met increased realizing and local selling. The latter was promoted by a belief that the gulf storm had lost force after passing inland over Louisiana and would cause nothing more than showers in eastern and central sections of the belts. Further rains were reported in the west but precipitation was lighter than during the two previous days.

There was enough covering and fresh commission house or trade buying to cause frequent rallies during the early afternoon, but in a general way the decline continued until October sold at 29.50 and January at 28.32, or 45 to 48 points net lower and about 48 to 60 points below the high records of the previous day. Closing prices showed rallies of 20 to 25 points from the lowest on covering.

Exports today 66,852, making 1,253,281 so far this season. Port receipts 100,864 bales. U. S. port stocks 652,245.

WHEAT SCORES GOOD ADVANCE

Rumor of Freight Rate Reduction Said to Be Responsible

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Wheat scored a material advance in price today on receipt of news that President Coolidge had suggested a reduction on railroad freight charges on export shipments of wheat. The upturn of the market, however, brought about heavy selling, and the gains were nearly wiped out. Closing quotations were unsettled, a shade to 3-8 cents net higher, with December at 1.08 1-8 to 1.08 1-4 and May 1.12 3-4 to 1.12 7-8. Corn finished 3-8 to 2 1-4 cents up, oats varying from 1-8 cents decline to a like advance, and provisions 2 cents up to 15 cents down.

Wet weather and floods delaying field work and threatening to curtail yields led to general buying of corn, and lifted December delivery to a new high price record for the season. Oats were upheld by corn.

Provisions declined with hogs.

Plans for New Railroad

A meeting of the Texas-Oklahoma Development association, which was organized at Waurika last week, and which is composed of one member from each town interested in the building of the Waurika-Ringling railroad, met at Ardmore last Friday, in the chamber of commerce rooms, the meeting beginning at 6 p. m. Dinner was provided by the Ardmore club.

The committee has taken up the work of promoting the new road in earnest and an effort is being made to interest some other road or some private individual in the building.

Inspector Causes Stir

Jack A. York of the state health department was in Waurika on last Monday and Tuesday and inspected grocery stores, drug stores, restaurants and meat markets as to the sanitation, and will return in one week to see if his orders for cleaning up have been obeyed. His arrival in the city created quite a stir, in various quarters.

New Brick Dwelling

Fred Boszhard has commenced work on a new brick building on South Main, situated between the other two buildings he owns in that part of town. The building will be 25x60 and one story only. Mr. Boszhart has a tenant for the new building when it is completed.

Fire Drill Success

All city schools had fire drill last week. Each building of the school system was emptied in less than one minute. Irving school made the best record of 40 seconds, the Hi was cleared in 52 seconds, and Central in 54 seconds. A stop watch was used to time the clearance. The drills were snappy and carried out with complete order.

City Case Advanced

The case of the city of Waurika vs. Kingfisher Improvement company, in regard to the construction of a sidewalk along the east side of the triangular lot lying on the east side of the railroad and to the north of D avenue, was argued in the supreme court Wednesday with Green and Pruet of Waurika representing Waurika, and E. K. Bicke the Kingfisher company. The case was advanced on the motion of Green and Pruet and an early decision is expected.

Ready for Investigation

A. C. Burger, Jefferson county's representative in the state legislature, left Tuesday afternoon for Oklahoma City to answer to roll call, at the preliminary organization. Mr. Burger has stayed with Walton in his fight, but he is ready to join in an investigation which will bring out the truth.

Million for Roads

Road work in Stephens county which was held up by an order from the governor will now proceed as his order has been lifted banning the procedure with the work. It is a $1,000,000 project and no irregularities having been found in the proceedings the work will be begun at once. Material has already arrived and the work will be rushed.

Highway Men to Meet

The Oklahoma division of the D. C. D. highway will meet in Waurika Thursday night and Friday, November 14 and 15. The committee appointed by the Business Men's club consists of Donald Stuart, A. E. Landon, W. H. Gresham, J. C. Cole and Fred Pittman, and they will have charge of the entertainment for the guests and also for a banquet to be given to the visitors.

Seay Well Deeper

The cementing of the casing in the Seay well in the southwest part of the county was successful in shutting off the water but also seemed to shut off the oil supply. The drillers decided to go deeper, hoping to pick up the Empire sand at about 1,500 feet. The first sand was at 1,370 and this was proven to be a paying one so another well will be drilled to the first sand as soon as the present well is completed.

Hutton Well Spudded

The oil test well on the John Embrey farm located near the center of section 5-5-7, was spudded in last Wednesday afternoon. The well is promoted by Hutton Brothers of Wichita, Kan., and will be in charge of Hugh Hutton. A double tower will be used and the well pushed rapidly to completion. The plans are for a 3,000 foot test unless oil or gas is found at a lesser depth.

Business Men Wanted

The Waurika Business Men's club is putting on a campaign for more members. Those who have been members since the organization have worked hard and faithfully and to them belongs the credit for the good things that have come to Waurika within the past two years. They need more men to help carry out the plans already before them and to that end are asking new members to join the club.

Large Pecan Crop

The Waurika newspaper carried many notices this past week of various farms being posted and for people to keep out. There will be a very large crop of pecans and the landowners very properly figure that the pecans belong to them that are grown on their land. Besides the loss of the pecans much damage is done yearly by boys beating the green pecans off the trees.

OIL PRODUCTION COST DISCUSSED

Producing End of the Game "In the Red" Declares Hamilton

"The producing end of the oil game is 'in the red' and will be until producers and refiners get on a different standing," declared W. B. Hamilton, vice-president of the Continental Oil and Refining association, at the Technical club last night. To get the oil industry upon a more equitable basis, both ends of the business must try all means to get more gasoline out of a gallon of oil, which will means more careful study, and to co-operate with the public in rendering it the service due.

The cost of producing a barrel of oil is not known by those most closely connected with the game, continued Mr. Hamilton in taking up the phases connected with production. Conditions are varied, he pointed out, making results totally different. In a proven field, including the lifting, overhead, depreciation in equipment, lease, and rentals, total cost of a barrel of oil will approximate $1.60. In the north Texas and Gulf Coast fields, not including Stevens county, the cost is about $1.37. But, if all wildcatting, bonuses, depletions, etc. are taken into consideration the average cost per barrel would be about $4.50. As example, the speaker used Osage county, Oklahoma, where the average is the best in the United States. The deficit there, dry holes and all, would amount to millions.

Mr. Hamilton scored the railroads when he said that a great feature against an equitable basis is the unjust and unequitable freight rates on oil. The coal rates, for example, are much lower, he pointed out.

The independent companies are very important in keeping the price of crude down. Whereas 70 to 80 per cent of the acreage was once owned by independents and small companies, a much smaller figure is now out of the hands of the big companies.

In giving figures on the average costs in the oil business, the speaker said that 50.2 per cent of Wichita county wells are dry holes, 70.1 per cent dry in Archer county. The average of the two is 35.7 per cent dry holes, and the figure is much higher in Oklahoma and Kansas, all in proven fields.

Another big cost is in storage. Two per cent of the wells in the country are producing half the oil. The way to give the small wells a chance would be the proper storage of oil over an estimated length of time, which would also save much and cut down the great difference between that used and that consumed. Fictitious grading is now used in some states, according to Mr. Hamilton, to enable the small producers to operate and sell their oil. Refiner and producer should fight to keep down over production, he said.

The continued larger use and demand of college men in the fields and elsewhere on the grounds is quite a contrast to the former idea entertained of college men. The speaker was formerly a lecturer to college men in Texas on the oil business, and told of the efforts of schools to put in more classes along this line.

Concluding the banquet was a talk by J. M. Isbill, county engineer, on his study of roads and particularly the tests in Illinois. Stereoptician slides were shown of the Bates experiment road near Springfield, Illinois, making plain the real values of the different methods for road building. Strips were laid, 63 in all, aggregating two miles in length, each of a different mixture, from brick and bithulithic to straight concrete. Millions were claimed to have been saved the state of Illinois by these experiments, said Mr. Isbill. The simple concrete mixture proved to be of the best, after a test by a string of army trucks with loads ranging up to 18,000 pounds to the rear wheels.

The Wichita county roads are of the old style concrete, explained the thinner at the edges, with lateral re-speaker, heavy in the center and inforcement joints near the edge. The future roads here will probably be of the kind tested in the Illinois trial, and found the best, said Mr. Isbill.

Parachutes for Mountaineers

Development of the parachute by the U. S. Army Air Service until one that will lopen in a descent of 60 feet has brought about plans for using the parachute on dangerous mountain climbing. The breaking of a life line or a fall over a precipice, would, if a parachute were used, minimize fatalities, it is held.

COTTON HERE IS RAIN DAMAGED

Cotton in the Wichita section has been greatly damaged by the recent rains according to County Agent Guy Jones.

The county agent said many of the farmers were hard hit because so much cotton was on the stalk when the rain came due to the scarcity of cotton pickers. The cotton opened was beat to the ground and part totally ruined while that which can be gathered will grade low because of stain.

The season in the ground for wheat sowing is the best in several years and small grain growers will benefit by the rain, Jones said.

Skin Malady on Decline

Ever since the perfection and introduction in this country of the wonderful Black and White Ointment, skin specialists say that such troubles as pimples, blotches, bumps, rash, tetter, eczema, "breaking out," etc., are becoming fewer every year.

Wide distribution of Black and White Ointment has made it possible for millions of people to get the benefit of its wonderfully quick effect in clearing disfigured skin, and making it smooth and good to look at. Dealers says it is selling faster than anything of a similar nature they have ever handled, and they attribute this popularity to the low prices at which it is sold, as well as its dependability. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size.—Adv.

HIS DADDY'S FAVORITE MODEL

"BUDDY" STRIEBEL

Here is one good, four-year-old reason why John H. Striebel, of "Pantomime" fame, can draw such life-like pictures of small boys. His name is "Buddy" Striebel. His pranks are a great inspiration to his father whose sketches are appearing daily in The Record News.

This sketch was made by the elder Striebel when Buddy was convalescing from a severe case of mumps, and was therefore willing to sit still a few moments longer than usual.

SAYS U. S. MUST CONVERT WORLD

Dr. Leavell Tells U. Club We must Conquer By Gospel or Gun

"Make America Christian by making individuals christian. If America does not convert the nations of the world with the gospel, she must conquer the world with the bayonet or gun," said Dr. James B. Leavell of Houston, in an address to the University club Tuesday noon at the Kemp.

Dr. Leavell said that the greatness of America was realized by the countries of the world. England has acknowledged America as the greatest of nations.

"America is in a wonderful position She has a position of honor and therefore one of responsibility," the speaker continued. "America cannot stay out of world conditions; she must have her relationships with the world. The Ruhr means breeding of war germs, the Germans hate the French with fierce intensity, and they show that they will retaliate against France.

"War means war," said Dr. Leavell "Unless some new principle is added, the nations will continue to talk of 1870 and of 1914. But what is that new principle? The vital principle is Christianity, and America is custodian of that principle."

Dr. Leavell said the spirit of forgiveness would make a change in the affairs of nations, and that every principle except the principle of love had been tried. He said statistics show that of the $11,000,000,000 war debt of the first year of the conflict 80 per cent was paid by church people. The annual wealth of the church is $40,000,000,000 and people should pay one tenth of their income to the church organization.

In the absence of the president of the University club, Judge F. G. Swanson presided.

TRAVIU AND BAND HERE OCTOBER 29

A. F. Thaviu, the premier band concert master of America, will be in Wichita Falls October 29. Thaviu began his musical career when he was a boy. His early training was received in Europe, but he returned to America to keep up his work here.

The manner of conducting bands in America was for a time gymnastic and spectacular, but when Thaviu came back to this country he used the quieter and more forceful style of conducting bandmen. Being a true product of the old style, the renowned band master has left his influence in all parts of the country by his quiet but none the less vigorous manner of conducting.

Thaviu is a cornet virtuosoist and his rank is among the best in the country.

He conducts his band, directs the grand opera singers and acts as his own business manager. He does all of his own booking, and looks after every detail in selecting players and singers.

The band which Thaviu directs is not limited to band music alone. A grand opera is carried with the organization, including soloists who have won fame in the United States.
