SESSION ENDS — Texas Legislature closed out the first week of the 59th session today still weighing the consequences of a senate appropriations that would chop $106 million off Gov. John Connally's budget request.

Texas Lawmakers Close Out First Session Today

By WILLIAM HAMILTON

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas legislators, still weighing the consequences of a senate appropriations that would chop $106 million off Gov. John Connally's budget request, will close out the first week of the 59th session today.

House members were scheduled to draw lots to see who gets to introduce the first bill in the lower chamber. Each of the 148 members gets to introduce one priority bill, with numbers assigned according to the results of the drawing.

The House's brief session Wednesday was devoted to routine housekeeping measures.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith named Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Hardeman promptly offered as Senate bill 1 the appropriations bill proposed by the joint legislative budget board.

The influential board drastically cut Connally's proposed spending for higher education.

Seeks $115 Million

Connally seeks a $115 million increase in educational spending to keep pace with growing enrollment and start the state's system of colleges and universities on the road to excellence.

The legislative budget board recommended only a $57.3 million increase in educational spending. Connally's education specialists complained that this would merely keep pace with growth, allowing nothing for improvement in the quality of education.

There is nothing to prevent legislators from putting Connally's requests back in the appropriations bill, but the legislative budget board is composed of a powerful group of veteran legislators who control state spending.

Smith referred Hardeman's appropriations bill to the San Angelo Senator's finance committee as soon as it was introduced.

Hardeman named a five-man subcommittee to hold hearings on all appropriations matters. Members are Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin, William T. Moore of Bryan, J. P. Word of Meridian and Hardeman.

Choice Chairmanship

Those who drew choice committee chairmanships included Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba, Legislative Congressional and Judicial Districts Committee; Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, Water and Conservation Committee, and Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, State Affairs Committee.

Other committee chairmen include Sens. Andy Rogers of Childress, Agriculture and Livestock; Bruce A. Reagan of Corpus Christi, banking; Mrs. Neveille H. Colson of Navasota, claims; Abraham Kazen Jr. of Laredo, constitutional amendments; Aiken, contingent expense; David Ratliff of Stamford, counties, cities and towns;

Striking Dockers Asked to Accept Once Rejected Pact

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) President Thomas W. Gleason, campaigning by mail and radio, persisted today in efforts to sell a once-rejected contract to rebellious members of his striking waterfront union.

Opponents of the proposed contract appeared to be mounting a counter-offensive against the propaganda from union headquarters. Leaflets were distributed Wednesday to strikers in the port of New York urging them to hold fast to their rejection of the model pact which triggered the four-day strike on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Seeing no possibility of negotiating better terms, Gleason and his aides now hope to convince the strikers to reverse themselves and accept the agreement in a re-vote. Four-page home study guides were mailed to the 24,000 ILA members here Wednesday and Gleason went on radio for more than two hours Wednesday night and early today to ballyhoo its advantages.

The walkout of 60,000 longshoremen from Maine to the Texas-Mexico border has paralyzed the U.S. maritime industry, laying up more than 100 merchantmen and spreading to the American - flag passenger fleet. Two more passenger cruise cancellations were announced Wednesday, bringing to four the number of big liners stalled in port here because seamen's unions refused to cross ILA picket lines. Cost of the strike was estimated to have passed the $100 million mark today.

Grace Lines announced Wednesday that its ships Santa Rosa and Santa Mercedes will not sail as scheduled Friday and the next day. Voyages of United States Lines' superliner United States and Moore-McCormack's Argentina were cancelled previously.

President's Foreign Aid Budget Totals $3.4 Million

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today asked Congress for slightly less than $3.4 billion for foreign aid next year. It is the lowest request in the 18-year history of the aid program.

In a message to lawmakers Johnson called it the "lowest aid budget consistent with the national interest."

Johnson requested $1.17 billion for military aid — slightly more than last year's appropriation—and $2.2 billion for economic aid, almost the same as last year.

He said that if "situations should arise" requiring additional amounts, he would not hesitate to ask for more funds.

The request followed last year's pattern of presenting Congress with a tightly cut down aid program in hopes few cuts would be made.

Last year, this tactic resulted in the smallest cut ever made by Congress in a President's foreign aid request—only 7.6 per cent.

The new funds would be for fiscal year 1966 which starts next July 1.

The lowest previous final aid request for any one year was $3.47 asked by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1955. The smallest annual appropriation by Congress for the program was $2.7 billion in 1956.

The exact total of Johnson's new request, officials said, is $3,380,370,000. It falls between the $3,516,700,000 he requested last year for the current fiscal year and the $3,250,000,000 that was appropriated by congress.

The message continued stress on the administration policy of concentrating aid to nations which take steps to improve their own economies.

A new policy proviso was added, saying that developing nations should avoid spending their resources on "unnecessary armaments and foreign adventures." The latter phrase could apply to such countries as Indonesia.

In the message, Johnson commented that U.S. aid can be effective only in a framework of "constructive and sensible policies and programs." But beyond this, the message said nothing about future aid toward countries such as Egypt whose policies have been at odds with the United States.

About $500 million of total aid would be for Southeast Asia, mainly South Viet Nam and Laos.

Johnson asked for a "special standby authorization" for ure if necessary to boost help to embattled South Viet Nam. This would be tantamount to an unlimited aid authorization for Viet Nam.

However, officials said it would not be a "blank check." Aid funds must go through two congressional actions — authorization and appropriation.

The new measure would avoid having to seek additional authorization, but the extra funds still would have to be appropriated by Congress.

In his 4,500-word aid message, Johnson told Congress:

"We live in a turbulent world. But amid the conflict

Arends Re-Elected GOP Party Whip

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Republicans today rejected advice of their new leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford, and re-elected Rep. Leslie C. Arends as party whip.

Ford, who earlier ousted veteran Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana as GOP leader, had hand-picked Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, as replacement for Arends.

However, Arends refused to step aside and took his case to the party conference. At today's closed-door session, the GOP members picked Arends over Frelinghuysen by a vote of 70 to 59.

The action represented a sharp setback for Ford because it was his first test of strength in his new post.

The choice was not along philosophical lines. The whole House Republican leadership battle this year has been one of image and age. Ford is 51, Halleck is 64, Frelinghuysen will be 49 Sunday, Arends is 69.

Arends has been GOP whip in the house for more than 20 years. He served under two previous leaders, Reps. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts and Halleck. He said he could be just as loyal to Ford.

However, Ford preferred a whole new team.

Ford, of Michigan, said Frelinghuysen was the best available man to work with him and Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, the new chairman of the party conference and successor to Ford in that post. Laird is 42.

The Republican conference today approved a party rules change under which Illinois' Arens, as whip, will have to relinquish his post as senior GOP member of the Armed Services Committee.

Also affected by the new ban on holding more than one top party job was Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis. He is senior Republican on Ways & Means and has been chairman of the party's Police Committee.

Byrnes has indicated he will keep his Ways & Means post, and relinquish the Policy Committee position.

Britain Forces Test Air Power Against Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Britain massed its powerful Far Eastern strike force today for a maneuver designed to test Malaysia's air defenses against attack from Indonesia.

The exercise, dubbed "Iron Gate," will begin Saturday from headquarters at Singapore.

A spokesman for the British command said Royal Air Force and Royal Australian Air Force planes will impersonate attacking forces and try to penetrate Malaysia's system of radar-directed anti-aircraft guns and interceptor squadrons.

The maneuver will include both low-level and high-level attacks.

It follows the arrival of the HMS Eagle, a British aircraft carrier which steamed into Malaysian waters after Indonesia withdrew from the United Nations and fears were expressed that a full-scale attack on Malaysia might be in the works.

Indonesia has a sizeable Russian-armed air force.

The arrival of the British man-of-war and a buildup of commonwealth ground forces in Malaysia brought the United Kingdom's military strength in the Orient to its highest point since the Korean War. Britain now has 70 warships in its Far Eastern fleet, including three carriers. Commonwealth ground forces number about 50,000 troops.

Pampa Textbook Committee Launches New Book Study

Pampa's 15 - member Textbook Committee, school teachers and school board members will launch immediately into a study of 100 textbooks from which selections will be made for use in Pampa schools starting next year.

The books also will be made available at the school superintendent's office to anyone wishing to study the content.

Subjects covered range through the elementary, junior high and high school grades and include elementary grade reading and arithmetic, junior high science and civi government, and high school biology, civil government, general woodworking, junior business training, driver education and safety, related mathematics and Spanish III.

The Pampa schools have received from the state eight sets of the books for study. They will be given to teachers of the related subjects, members of the general committee of 15, and will be availabe to board members.

Book selections must be filed with the State Board by March 1. Following study by local teachers the 15 - member school textbook committee and school board members will meet, possibly by mid - February and the committee's recommendations will be given to the board. Final approval of the books selected must be made by the school board.

USW Facing Internal Fight

CHICAGO (UPI)—The United Steelworkers (USW), its contract talks with the steel industry recessed until a fight for control of the union is resolved, today faced another possible internal struggle.

The battle could develop over whether the union will extend its strike deadine against the nation's "big 11" basic steel producers.

Union President David J. McDonald, fighting for his $50,000-a-year job against Secretary Treasurer I. W. Abel, has put his prestige on the line in an effort to convince the powerful Wage Policy Committee not to extend the deadline.

The Wage Policy Committee and the union's executive board scheduled meetings today and McDonald and Abel were on hand.

The suggestion that the April 30 strike deadline be extended came from the steel industry, which also pressed for and won the recess in contract negotiations pending the outcome of the union's Feb. 9 elections.

The industry contended that the time lost in bargaining should be tacked onto the strike deadline.

McDonald, who opposed the recess, has expressed confidence in his campaign speeches that the Wage Policy Committee would go along with his refusal to extend the deadline.

Abel, who favored the recess, has made no public statement regarding extension of the strike deadline.

Fighters Hit Red Supplies

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers based in South Viet Nam have been attacking Communist targets and supply routes in Laos for the past seven months, it was learned here today.

The disclosure by well - qualified sources followed announcement by the Defense Department in Washington that two of the heavily armed supersonic planes were shot down Wednesday over Laotian territory.

The Washington announcement appeared to produce confirming evidence that the United States has begun bombing raids against Communist supply lines leading to guerrilla forces in South Viet Nam.

The Pentagon said both pilots were rescued. They were identified as Capt. Albert C. Vollmer, husband of Mrs. Gloria Ann Vollmer (c-o L.O. Hagen, Denton, Kan.), and Capt. Charles L. Ferguson of Clovis, N. M., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Ferguson of Parma, Idaho.

Deadly Plane

Vollmer was flying an F105 "Thunderchief" — a bullet-nosed jet that is one of the most deadly weapons in the U.S. arsenal of air power. It is designed to carry 12,000 pounds of bombs and rockets at high speeds and long ranges.

Ferguson was at the controls of an F100 "Super Sabre"—the first operational supersonic fighter - bomber to be produced by the Air Force. It can carry more than three tons of bombs or napalm jellied gasoline.

Both planes are designed to carry nuclear weapons.

Informants here said the American jets have been carrying out "suppressive" strikes against Communist ground positions, Red supply routes and anti - aircraft batteries believed to be manned by regular troops of the North Vietnamese army.

A U.S. military spokesman refused to comment officially on either the strikes or Wednesday's incident. The Washington anouncement failed to contain the usual disclaimer that the downed jets were not on a combat mission. Previous downed planes have always been described as reconnaissance aircraft.

In Vientiane, capital of Laos, informed sources said the planes crashed near Thathom, a

Communist Plan to Arm Indonesia Workers Rejected

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—President Sukarno said today he has rejected a Communist plan to arm 10 million Indonesian workers and peasants for possible action against British and Malysian forces.

Sukarno told foreign newsmen at the presidential palace that he told Communist boss D.N. Aidit that the regular armed forces (estimated at 400,000 men) "can handle this."

He also denied reports that he planned to reshuffle his cabinet or fire ministers who supported the now-banned Murba and Sukarnoist parties.

Aidit suggested today that peasants and workers be armed and trained in reply to the current British military buildup in neighboring Malaysia.

The official news agency Antara quoted Aidit as saying "President Sukarno had nodded his head" to Aidit's proposal.

Officials here charge that the movement of British reinforcements to Malaysia is a military threat to Indonesia.

An information ministry broadcast Wednesday night said the "activities of Britain in sending reinforcements and military equipment to Malaysia has become obvious proof that Malaysia is a British military base from which Britain intends to attack Indonesia."

The broadcast said "British imperialist" charges that Indonesia withdrew from the United Nations in preparation for large-scale aggressions aainst Malaysia were "meant to cover up their bad intentions to subdue Indonesia by force and maintain domination over Southeast Asia."

The broadcast and several newspapers today repeated Lt. Gen. Ahmad Yani's statement that "England is trying to provoke Indonesia to enter a war."

Schweitzer Celebrates 90th Birthday

By United Press International

Dr. Albert Schweitzer became 90 years old today deep in the remote west African jungles where he has devoted more than half a century to his beloved Lambarene hospital.

The Nobel Prize-winning humanitarian, philosopher and medical missionary is white-haired but still alert and energetic.

The Lambarene hospital is located in the Gabon Republic, 100 miles from the capital of Libreville. It has no telephone, and is reached by canoe and jungle trail. Because of its remoteness, some-day communications are virtually nonexistent.

But if tradition is followed, the dozen or so doctors and two dozen nuns working at the hospital and the leper colony Schweitzer started in 1913 will celebrate the birthday.

Sing Songs

The approximatey 450 native patients of the hospital and leper colony will assemble in front of the famed humanitarian's house to sing birthday songs.

There will probably be a birthday cake with nine candles to signify each decade of Schweitzer's arduous but rewarding life.

The "good old doctor" is almost sure to get some presents, including the few primitive but hand-made gifts fashioned by the jungle people he has served for so long.

Through the years, word of Schweitzer's dedication has spread throughout the world.

Earlier this month, United Press International sent Schweitzer a series of questions asking him to comment on current events as they relate to Africa.

A cable was received in Paris Wednesday night.

"I cannot reply because I'm just a good old doctor in equatorial Africa," Schweitzer said.

He sidestepped a query about recent events in the Congo and the U.S.-Belgian airlift to rescue white hostages. But he commented:

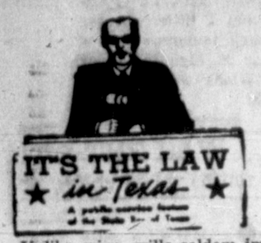

"I believe that (Premier) Moise Tshombe is pursuing a good policy in the Leopoldville Congo."

Asked about the general evolution of the African continent and its prospects for the future, Schweitzer answered:

"I cannot make any pronunciation on racial struggles, nor on political struggles."

The answer also applied to a question about the racial question in the United States, but the humanitarian added: "I believe that Pastor (Martin Luther) King deserved the Nobel Prize."

Schweitzer won the peace prize for the year 1952.

Unlike wine, wills seldom improve with age. Events that occur after your will is made may turn its wisdom into folly, its plans into pitfalls, its kindness into cruelty. Yet, when you die, the law will usually follow your instructions to a T, heedless of what has happened in the meantime.

In a few special situations—suppose you got married, or got divorced, or had a child, or lost a child — local statutes may make automatic changes in your will. But such changes are cut to a standard pattern, perhaps bringing results you may not have wanted at all. Worse, there are all sorts of possibilities that statutes simply cannot deal with in any orderly fashion.

Consider this case:

The father of two daughters, disappointed in the men they married, wrote a will cutting them off with almost nothing. But he lived on for seven years, during which time he had a complete change of heart. Unhappily, he neglected to bring his will up to date. The court had no choice but to enforce the will as written, with the old rancor left in and the new affection left out.

Here are some other circumstances that may justify a change in your will:

A son, who at the age of 14 seemed the quiet and sensible type, by 16 shows alarming signs of becoming a spendthrift . . . an ugly - duckling daughter, thought to be headed for spinsterhood, lands a good husband. . . you move to another state. . . you become much richer (or much poorer). . . a change in the tax laws gives you an opportunity to save on inheritance taxes. . . you gain new attachments (or lose old ones).

Of course, you shouldn't redraft your will every time you have a tiff with Aunt Kate. But reviewing it at regular intervals — perhaps every year or two — is plain common sense.

If your lawyer sees the need for a review, he may send you a reminder to that effect. Still, even though such a re minder is perfectly ethical, many lawyers are leery of anything that might be interpreted as soliciting legal business.

The best way is for you to authorize him in advance, preferably when you first make your will, to send you a regular reminder — just as your dentist does. Very often, no change will be necessary. But if a change is necessary, delay is dangerous. The change that is delayed may never be made at all.

Death Traffic Toll Lists 3 In Gray County

There are three tombstones in Gray County that were erected ahead of schedule in 1964. The stones mark the graves of persons who died in traffic accidents on rural highways in the county during the year.

But the suffering wasn't confined to those who were killed. The Department of Public Safety recorded 197 mishaps on rural highways in the county during 1964. Those accidents injured 144 persons and they spent countless days in the hospitals. Property damage from these accidents amounted to $119,477.00.

During December there were 22 accidents on rural highways in the county, according to Sergeant J. W. Wilson, highway patrol supervisor in this area.

These crashes resulted in 15 persons injured and an estimated loss in property damage of $8,205.00.

Texas drivers have killed more people during 1964 than any other year in the state's history. Unofficial figures indicate the Texas death toll may have reached 3,000 during 1964, but the final tabuation will not be completed until March 15.

Meanwhile, officials are hopeful that motorists will heed warnings and drive with greater care during 1965 and give special consideration to the hazards of driving during the winter months ahead.

and confusion the United States holds firm to its primary goal —a world of stability, freedom and peace where independent nations can enjoy the benefits of modern knowledge."

The message sidestepped a major Senate-House argument over whether economic and military aid should be split into separate legislative packages.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had proposed the split. His House counterpart, Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, opposed it.

For the time being at least, Johnson appeared content to let Congress thresh this out.

But the message clearly indicated administration opposition to another Fulbright proposal—to channel all development lending through international agencies such as the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank.

Warm Trend Fails to Show

While most of Texas enjoyed warm weather the Panhandle awoke to sub-freezing temperatures today.

However, the weatherman predicted warmer weather for Pampa and the Panhandle this afternoona s a warm front is expected to take much of the punch from a lingering Canadian cold front.

The high temperature in Pampa yesterday was 48 degrees, while the overnight low was 28. At dawn today the temperature stood at 29 degrees.

Temperatures ranged from 22 degrees at Amarillo to 64 at Brownsville with Dalhart recording 23 degrees, Wichita Falls 26, Lubbock and Midland 28 and Abilene and Fort Worth at 33.

Rainfall reports from the state include .17 inches at Brownsville, .01 at Houston and Corpus Christi and a trace at Laredo.

Cub Scouts To Be On Amarillo TV

Between eight and 10 Cub Scouts from Pack 27 of Pampa will journey to Amarillo tomorrow to appear on KFDA - TV's Chief Proud Eagle Show.

The trip is part of the weekly projects undertaken by each of the four dens in the pack.

Scout Master Jimmy Bowers said 30 boys in the Sam Houston School District make up Pack 27. The pack meets once each month, while the individual dens meet weekly. Bowers, who is also a Gray County deputy sheriff, said each den usually makes a weekly trip of some sort.

The trip tomorrow will entail the scouts leaving for Amarillo aboard a bus and returning by train.

Bowers also invited any boys living in the Sam Houston School district between the ages of 8 and 10 to join the cub scout pack.

Bowers also commended the den mothers for their outstanding work with the scouts.

Four Injured in Two-Car Accident

A two-car collision late yesterday afternoon slightly injured four persons, none seriously.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. in the 700 block of West Brown.

Taken to Highland General Hospital were the drivers, Charles Hearn, 17, of Lubbock and L. V. Hunt, 41, of Stinnett. Also injured was a passenger with Hearn, 16-year-old John Dawson of San Saba and a passenger in the vehicle with Hunt, R. C. Bates of Stinnett.

According to investigating officers, Hearn was driving his '55 model car east on Brown when he apparently hit a dip in the road and lost control. Officers said he careened into a utility pole and then slammed into the west bound vehicle driven by Hunt.

Damage to Hearn's vehicle was estimated at $350 and damage to the pick-up driven by Hunt was $850.

3 Plead Guilty In County Court

Three guilty pleas were heard yesterday during court session in Gray County Court.

Carter (Bobo) Hunnicutt, 519 Oklahoma, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of shoplifting and was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Bobbie Jo Holtman, 510 N. Dwight, changed from a not guilty plea to guilty on a charge of swindling with worthless check. She was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jai.

Lewis Clark, 418 N. West, was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to one day in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of swindling with worthless check.

Turkey Rejects Joining U.S. Proposed Multi-Lateral Force

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Turkey has decided against participating in the U.S.-proposed Multi - Lateral Force (MLF) for NATO, a reliable government source said today.

An official announcement is expected to be made in about 10 days, dealing what may be a fatal blow to the concept for defending the Western Alliance with a nuclear-armed surface fleet.

(In Washington, the State Department disclosed that Turkey has already notified the United States of the decision.)

Only West Germany among the NATO Allies supports the plan. France vigorously opposes it. Britain wants to modify it. Other NATO members have been lukewarm at best.

Turkey's decision against MLF is significant because it is the key member of NATO's southeastern flank, facing the Soviet Union on its Eastern borders.

The Turkish government source said the decision was "taken within the framework of Turkey's national interests" and has been conveyed to the United States and other NATO members. He described MLF as "stillborn" and "not necessary" to Western defenses.

The source added that the action has nothing to do with the current Turkish-Soviet attempt at improving relations. A visiting Russian parliamentary delegation left Turkey Wednesday.

(Officials in Washington said Turkey's reason for withdrawing from MLF was financial.)

Western observers here, however, expressed the opinion that there were political overtones to the decision.

They said the Ankara government is trying to develop a more "personal" foreign policy partly because of what is felt here to be a lack of support from the United States on Turkey's dispute with Greece over Cyprus.

Turkey has been accused by its Communist and Arab neighbors of blindly following U. S. foreign policy.

Theft of Hand Tools, Flashlight Reported

A flashlight and various hand tools valued at $10 were reported stolen last night from a pick-up owned by Melvin Beum, 915 Reid.

Beum reported to police this morning that someone stole the items from his truck sometime between 9 p.m. last night and early this morning. He said the truck was parked in front of his home and was left unlocked.

Anyone interested in taking the course may register at the door tonight.

Rotary Club Shown March of Dimes Film

Gray County March of Dimes drive chairmen Don Losher and Clyde Carruth presented a film on birth defects at the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

Entitled "Strangers to the World," the film, which was narrated by Barry Sullivan, pointed out that one of every sixteen babies born in the United States is born with some sort of birth defect.

The March of Dimes drive continues through Jnuary 31.

village 20 miles southeast of the Plain of Jars. Laotian troops and Communist Pathet Lao forces have been fighting for control of the village for two monlths. North Vietnamese troops are believed in the area.

The Laotian sources said the planes were hit by groundfire from heavy caliber Soviet-made machineguns.

Wednesday's planes were the fifth and sixth American craft shot down over Laos since last June.

The Communit supply routes through Laos into this country—known collectively as the "Ho Chi Minh Trail" — have hindered progress in the U.S. - supported war against Viet Cong guerrillas for months.

Chevelle Malibu Super Sport Coupe

(discover the difference)

Find out what 350 hp feels like

in America's favorite intermediate size car

Next time you're feeling low, come on in and plunk yourself down in the bucket seat of a Chevelle Malibu Super Sport. Flick the ignition—bring that special-order 350-hp power plant to life. Then go find a road and try not to smile.

We think it's the greatest pep pill since weekends—and that goes for the other Chevelle V8's too. The 195-hp. And the 250- and 300-hp jobs we can order for you.

And of course if power doesn't sell you right off, maybe Chevelle's short turning radius and overall handling ease will. Or its Full Coil suspension ride. Or its Super Sport all-vinyl interior with wall-to-wall carpeting. Or even its huge 27-cubic-foot trunk.

Whatever it is that you think might make a Chevelle loyalist out of you, you'll never really know until you get into one—and then try to get out again.

Nation's Lawmakers Busy; 3,000 Bills Introduced

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the main purposes of a congressional recess is to permit senators and representatives to get in tune with the thinking of the folks back home.

Then they return to the capital and undertake to carry out the desires and wishes of their constituents.

Apparently, the people of America had quite a lot on their minds during the recent adjournment period. The new session of Congress is only in its second week and already our lawgivers have introduced more than 3,000 bills and resolutions.

Examines Some Bills

I thought it might be illuminating to examine a few of these measures to see what sort of problems the various parts of the country are concerned about.

We may assume for example, that the citizens of Oregon have been concerned over the fixing of traffic tickets in the District of Columbia. At any rate, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has introduced a bill to prohibit ticket fixing here.

The Second District of Maryland appears to have a very active lacrosse lobby. Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., has introduced a bill to repeal the excise tax on lacrosse balls and sticks.

At first glance, I was puzzled by a bill introduced by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M. It would amend the "Indian Long-Term Leasing Act," and I was not aware that New Mexico had a rent-an-Indian service.

Closer examination, however, reaveled that the bill pertains to the leasing of Indian lands.

Many Controversial

Many of the new bills are, of course, controversial. One such is a proposal by Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., to make the Virgin Islands a part of Florida.

I imagine a lot of other states would like to have the Virgin Islands, too. Particularly in wintertime.

Less controversial is a bill by Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., to designate each second Sunday in October as "National Grandmothers' Day." It should find favor with everyone, give or take a few grandfathers.

New GOP Chairman Plans to Work Quietly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ray C. Bliss as Republican national chairman plans to work quietly in the background in his determined effort to rebuild the Republican party.

Describing himself as a realist, the man slated to become national chairman on April 1 said he was optimistic about his party's future. He is convinced it has a solid base upon which "qualified candidates, adequately financed, with proper organization support" can expect to make a winning race.

Bliss is not discussing the party's ideological disputes and any plans he may have except to say he expects to be a "desk chairman" working full time at his $30,000 a year job.

Pattern After Ohio

He has not sought a single vote for the chairmanship he told newsmen Wednesday when he made it plain he expects to pattern his national operation after that which has been successful in Ohio.

"I don't like to be vague," Bliss said when asked about his more specific plans as chairman. "I don't hold many news conferences and I like to be candid in my answers.

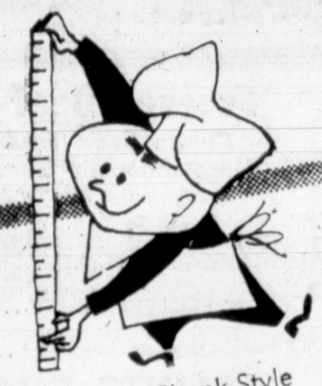

"But all this happened rather quickly and I have had no time to do any thinking about what I would do in an office to which I haven't yet been elected. You don't make plans and announcements until you have had time to study them and know what you are doing."

He said, however, in answer to a question, that he expects to have a "relatively free hand" in rebuilding the party and hopes to "conduct myself so as to invite the confidence and support of all."

In that connection, he said he had not made commitments to anyone in exchange for support to replace Dean Burch.

A thought for the day: Former President Eisenhower said: "Humility must always be the portion of any man who receives acclaim earned in the blood of his followers and the sacrifices of his frends."

Apple Strudel 'Melts in Your Mouth'

Ever wonder just what a strudel is? Well, Webster says, "strudel is a sheet of paper-thin dough rolled up with any of various fillings and baked." But for some reason, that definition just doesn't do justice to this scrumptious Apple Strudel.

The flaky thin dough is made extra elegant when you use the margarine with the sweet natural flavor. This margarine has built in spreadability, that's so important in making the rich pastry.

The filling is an all - American favorite! Apples, raisins, sugar and cinnamon combined with chopped pecans for a filling that will truly "melt in your mouth." After the dough has been rolled out, the filling is spread down the middle, lengthwise on the dough. Fold the ends of the dough up over the filling and fold the two sides over the filling overlapping in the center. Seal the overlapping edges with egg white and brush the top of the strudel with egg white. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes or until golden brown.

For a special afternoon party sprinkle with sugar and serve warm with iced coffee or tea. The Apple Strudel is sure to bring many requests for your secret recipe. If there's any leftover, the family will love it for dessert. But it's really so delicious that you'd better make two, and hide one, if you want any left.

APPLE STRUDEL
(Yield: 10 to 12 servings)

2 sticks (1 cup) margarine
2½ cups sifted flour
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1-3 cup milk
FILLING:
4 cups sliced apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Sift together flour and ½ cup sugar. Cut margarine into flour until the mixture is the consistency of corn meal and small peas. Beat egg yolks and blend with milk. Stir liquid into flour mixture and blend well. Place dough on waxed paper. Press gently with the paper into a ball. Chill dough at least 1 hour.

Combine all ingredients for filling. Roll the chilled dough on a well floured board into an oblong 12 by 20 inches. Work quickly, as dough is easier to handle at refrigerator temperature.

Place the filling down the middle, lengthwise, on the dough. Fold the ends of the dough up over the filling; fold the two sides over the filling to overlap in the center. Seal the overlapping edges with egg white. Transfer the strudel to a baking sheet. Brush the top of the strudel with egg white. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes or until golden brown. Sprinkle with sugar and serve warm.

Here's a Casserole Dish to Yodel Over

Ah, the tuna casserole, what could we ever do without it! A recent consumer study reveals that tuna users want more recipes for hot tuna dishes. Sixty - two percent of the women interviewed expressed this preference. Since the tuna casserole is a leader among hot tuna dishes, here's a Tuna Swiss Cheese Casserole that's different and delicious enough to satisfy the most exacting tuna fan.

The delicate flavor of canned tuna in vegetable oil combines with macaroni in an unusually piquant Swiss cheese sauce, subtly seasoned with mustard and sherry, if you like. Slivered almonds add the final gourmet touch.

TUNA SWISS CHEESE CASSEROLE

4 ounces macaroni
1 can condensed cream of celery soup
¼ cup milk
¼ cup cooking sherry, optional
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup (4 ounces) grated Swiss cheese, divided
¼ cup slivered almonds

Cook macaroni according to package directions. Drain and reserve. Combine celery soup, milk and sherry. Add macaroni, tuna, green pepper, onion, dry mustard and ½ cup of the grated cheese. Heat. Turn into 1½-quart casserole or individual casseroles; sprinkle with remaining cheese and almonds. Bake in a 350 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes.

YIELD: 4 to 5 servings.

If desired, milk may be substituted for sherry.

Queen's Favorite, Yam and Ham Balls

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Ever meet a Yam Queen? Every year in Opelousas, La., during the annual October Yambilee, a charming young lady is selected to travel nationwide extolling Louisiana's rich golden yams.

Last year's queen told us about her favorite ways to cook yams. Here is one of them.

LOUISIANA YAM AND HAM BALLS
(Makes 6 servings)

1½ pounds ground ham
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 medium onion, finely chopped
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup butter
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 cup water
6 medium yams, cooked, peeled and halved, or 2 cans (1 pound each) Louisiana yams, drained
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Combine ham, crumbs, egg, onion and pepper; mix well. Shape into 18 balls. In large skillet melt butter; add ham balls and cook over low heat until browned on all sides. Set aside from balls; discard drippings. Combine mustard, sugar, vinegar and ¾ cup water in skillet. Add yams and meat and cook, covered, over low heat 15 minutes. Remove yams and meat to serving dish. Blend cornstarch with remaining water; add to sauce. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Pour over yams and meat.

Spice of Meals

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — I don't know much about nutrition; but I am eager to feed my family well. Can you give me some advice that I can understand?

A — The best simple rule to follow is VARIETY. The wider your choices of foods for your family meals, the more likely you are to be feeding them most of the foods they need. Follow the basic four group pattern, approved by nutritionists. Serve some food each day from each of these four groups:

1. Milk Group: Including what is used in cooking; for children, 3 to 4 cups; for teen-agers, 4 or more cups; for adults, 2 or more cups. Cheese and ice cream can replace part of the milk. For weight control, skim milk may be substituted for whole.

2. Meat Group: Two or more servings of such foods as beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish, liver or eggs.

3. Vegetable - Fruit Group: Four or more servings, including at least one citrus or other fruit or tomato juice (rich in vitamin C) every day, and one dark green or deep yellow vegetable (important for vitamin A) at least every other day.

4. Bread - Cereals Group: Several servings of foods made with whole, enriched, or restored grains.

HOT SAUCE

Use canned pitted dark sweet cherries to make a hot sauce for pound cake and ice cream.

Combine ½ cup of sugar, 4 teaspoons of cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon of salt and ¼ teaspoon of cloves. Gradually mix in the syrup from 2 cans (1 pound each) pitted dark sweet cherries. Cook over low heat stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils for 1 minute. Remove from heat, blend in 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and 1 teaspoon of brandy flavoring. Stir in cherries and heat. Serve over ice cream and pound cake. Makes 8 servings.

Add a little milk or cream to enrich scrambled eggs.

Eggs Benedict Start Breakfast On a High Note

Margaret Ruskin in her "Pepperidge Farm Cookbook," suggests Eggs Benedict in patty shells to start breakfasts on a high note. Versatile patty shells which come frozen and ready to bake make this delightful breakfast an easy one to prepare.

EGGS BENEDICT
(Serves 6)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.
6 baked patty shells
1 cup chopped cooked ham
6 fresh eggs
Hollandaise Sauce (recipe below)
Parsley clusters

Fill the baked shells loosely with the ham and heat in a 350 degree F. oven for 10 minutes.

Poach the eggs in a frying pan in enough salted water to cover. When done cut out the eggs with a 2-inch cookie cutter.

Place an egg on top of the ham inside each shell and cover with hollandaise sauce.

Replace the cap and garnish with parsey.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

¼ pound butter (1 stick)
2 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Divide the stick of butter into three pieces.

In the top of a double boiler, put the egg yolks, salt, lemon juice and 1 piece butter.

Stir together with a wooden spoon or spatula.

Place top over the boiling water in the bottom of the boiler, but do not let it touch the water.

Stir constantly until the butter melts; then add the second piece of butter; stir until melted. Add the third piece of butter and continue stirring until thick, about 2 minutes. Remove the top from the bottom of the boiler.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's best food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Eggs, winter vegetables, and a fine variety of fresh pork cuts top the list of best buys for the weekend.

Large supplies of eggs await the shopper, along with canned pink salmon, canned chum salmon, and fish sticks and portions.

Beef roasts and steaks are in good supply. Bacon, pork chops, loin roasts, and spareribs are the week's finest buys in pork.

Market reports from USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service show that celery, fresh greens, lettuce, onions, spinich, sweet potatoes, and tomates are in good supply at vegetable bins across the nation. Tangerines, too, are abundant.

Especially plentiful this week are cabbage, carrots, apples, grapefruit, and oranges.

Views Vary On What Should Be Done in Viet

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The capital was resounded recently to debate over U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Little has been heard, however, from an influential group of Congressmen who will have a major voice in any final decision — the members of the House and Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees. A special UPI team has polled these congressmen and prepared a series of two dispatches reporting their views. The first dispatch follows.)

By DANIEL RAPOPORT
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Members of the two House committees most immediately concerned with the problem are almost unanimously opposed to taking extreme steps in Viet Nam, whether it be pulling out entirely or sending in regular U.S. fighting units.

A survey of the House Foreign Affairs and Armed Serv-

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee's Far East subcommittee, suggested U.N. participation without "taking over."

He proposed a U.N. token force on the Laotian-Cambodian border and along parts of the Ho-Chi-Minh Trail as a possible means of curtailing red infiltration.

Several members responded "yes" to the currently controversial question of whether red supply lines leading to South Viet Nam should be bombed.

Military Decision

Others said this was a decision that should be left to the military. Still others were reluctant to do so or, like Rep. Harris B. McDowell, D-Del., were opposed to "any major escalation in the war."

Zablocki said he would endorse bombing if it was of the "pinpoint" technique and said it might be the only way to discourage infiltration from the North.

Because of his position, Zablocki is probably the House's most well informed member on the subject of Viet Nam. He keeps in constant touch with the situation through frequent State Department briefings.

Zablocki's chief recommendation when asked what should be done to win the war, was to draw other nations into it, particularly Asian nations.

"This cannot be purely an American effort," he said.

Zablocki does not favor using American troops "at this point or in the foreseeable future." He said such a move would seem too much like imperialism and he would back it only if the Chinese Communists threw regular troops into the war.

Seek Asian Help

A number of other members also called for more participation in the war by other Asian countries.

Rep. William S. Broomfield, one of the ranking GOP members of the Foreign Affairs Committee, was critical of the administration.

"I think the administration has been dragging its feet in this regard, in encouraging other nations to participate in Viet Nam," he said. "I don't believe the United States should be called on as the sole one to stop Communist aggression... it is the responsibility of all the free nations."

The second senior Republican on the committee, Rep. E. Ross Adair, Ind., was another who called on other Asian nations to help.

"We've got to more actively enlist the support of the Allies, particularly Asian Allies," he said. "This can't be made a war of the United States against the Viet Cong but of Asians trying to rid Asia of communism."

Rep. Frances Bolton, Ohio, the senior Republican on the committee, touched on the point when asked if regular American troops should be used in South Viet Nam.

"Disastrous" Idea

"That, I think, would be disastrous," she said firmly. "White skins are not popular in Asia."

The question most frequently unanswered was whether it was possible to eventually achieve a truly unified government in South Viet Nam that would have the support of the people.

While almost all recognized the absolute necessity of unity, only a handful thought it was definitely possible. O'Konski, the one congressman who feels the United States should pull out of Viet Nam, was also the sole member who was completely pessimistic on this score.

"It's hopeless to look for a unified government in Viet Nam," he said.

But most of those contacted simply did not have the answer.

"I just don't know," confessed Rep. Oar Burleson, D-Tex. "I'd just be talking through my hat to answer."

Another Texan, Democratic Rep. O.C. Fisher, put it this way:

"I would hope so. But there is certainly nothing in the way they have acted in the past to offer encouragement. But we can only strive and hope that it can be brought about."

There was a difference of opinion on what comes first—a unified government or victory on the battlefield.

Aims Are Equal

Rep. Otis Pike, a New York Democrat on the Armed Services Committee, said political aims are as important as military aims.

"If we can't establish a stable political government then all military efforts will have been in vain," he said.

Battin saw it the other way around.

"I think it is only possible to unify a government in Viet Nam when they start winning a war instead of losing it," he commented.

How long should the United States remain in South Viet Nam?

A frequent answer was "as long as necessary." Other members said a time limit could and should not be set.

Zablocki thinks it will take at least five years, probably closer to 10.

By far the frankest answer to what should be done in Viet Nam was supplied by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee.

"Nobody knows the answer," said the South Carolina Democrat.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current expression of "concern" over price rises in the monthly review by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York again brings up the disagreement among economic reviewers over the extent and effects of price increases in various basic fields.

The bank's review said that price developments "continue to be a cause for some concern." It reported that both consumer and industrial wholesale prices went up in November and that preliminary indications were that the industrial section of the wholesale price index also went up in December.

It noted that there were steel price increases announced in late December, centering attention on a basic material area which has been attracting attention from others who have been watching price levels in general.

More Boosts Expected

But while many market analysts and economists look for some price increases in basic fields during the coming year, not all agree on their extent and ultimate effect.

A. W. Zelomek, head of the International Statistical Bureau, Inc., writes that despite projection of a higher general business trend "and despite the current emphasis on higher wages and increased steel prics, there is no evidence of a sharp advance in wholesale prices, or of marked inflation."

Zelomek has consistently expressed the view that there was little danger of any runaway inflation in the United States. He has disagreed with those who argued that a rise in industrial raw material quotations were a harbinger of the wholesale price trend.

Steel Is Key

Allan B. Shaw, of the Harris, Upham & Co. research staff, in a 1965 preview also noted that the steel situation was a key factor in price levels for the coming year.

The steel workers will be "making ambitious demands" in their forthcoming contract negotiations, he noted, and said that the "price increases that have taken place so far strengthen both labor's attack and the possibilities of government intervention on any future price increase attempts."

"Therefore," he continued, "price inflation may not be too great a threat this year, but labor costs may advance, with resultant pressure on profit margins."

Business Highlights

By United Press International

WASHINGTON: The Federal Trade Commission opened two days of hearings Wednesday into how automobile tires are sold and what, if anything, the government should do about it.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., the leadoff witness at the hearings, called for action by the government "to protect the life and the pocketbook of the consumer."

WASHINGTON: Business inventories showed the largest rise in November since the same month in 1963, Commerce Department figures showed. the value of inventories increased by $680 million to a total of $108 billion. Government analysts said the sharp rise appeared only partly the result of steel inventory building against a possible strike.

WASHINGTON: The Treasury said its giant advance refunding operation last week was a marked success as private holders of $9 billion of short-term securities agreed to swap them for longer-term issues. The 40.7 per cent response from the public was the second highest on record in an advance refunding to stretch out the maturity of the national debt.

New Hope Given Mentally Retarted

EDITOR'S NOTE: Medical science is directing more attention to mental retardation, once regarded as a hopeless condition. The following is the first of two dispatches on the work being done to help the mentally retarded by the Institutes for the Achievement of Human Potential through a controversial technique of "patterning" exercises.

By JOHN A. GAUDIOSI

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The auto struck 5-year-old Tommy Linton on Sept. 22, 1962, crushing the left side of his skull.

The life of the Swarthmore, Pa., boy was saved by the skill of a surgeon. But bone fragments had sliced brain tissue in the accident. Tommy's right side was paralyzed and he could see only outlines.

"He made sounds like a tormented animal," his father, Thomas Sr., said.

"Wait and pray," Linton said the doctors advised him. "If there is no improvement in two months the best thing for you and your family is to put him in an institution."

The time passed and Linton, member of a Philadelphia restaurant family, shuddered at the hopeless, desolate future in store for his son.

A pediatrician recommended the Institutes for the Achievement of Human Potential.

Now Almost Normal

Today, little more than two years after he was taken there, Tommy walks four blocks to his first-grade class every day. He is considered average in his studies and above-average in mathematics and reading.

"He runs and plays. His speech is a little slow, at times, and slurred," Tommy's father said.

Linton's son is among hundreds of brain-damaged children aided by the non-conventional, controversial methods of treatments prescribed by the Institutes and based on medically supervised home treatment.

On a child's first visit to the Institute for Neurological Organization, he is examined to determine the degree of his disabilities, Dr. Robert Doman, a specialist in physical medicine, said.

Orient Parents

The next day, the parents are given a full orientation which includes the nature of the program chosen for their child, why it was prescribed and what it hopes to accomplish.

On the third day, therapists instruct parents in how to perform the patterning exercises on the child at home.

In most cases, relatives and neighbors are needed to assist with the exercises. The parents return with the child every two months so progress can be checked on a unique developmental profile and the exercises revised or advanced.

The treatment of brain-damaged children at the Institutes concentrates on the brain, since that is the seat of the injury, rather than from the "neck down," Dr. Doman said.

His brother, Glenn, a physical therapist and director of the Institutes, contends a large percentage of brain - injured children are being treated as though their deficiencies were in their legs, arms, eyes, nose, ears or mouth.

Depart From Conventional

Methods of the Institutes depart from the conventional in all respects — "diagnosis, objestives, treatment, terminology, definitions, everything," Glenn Doman said.

The new treatment was developed after the Domans and Dr. Carl Delacato, in 1956, analyzed records of 100 cases they had treated with traditional methods of physical therapy.

Barely one-third had made moderate advances, they found. Another third remained stationary, while a large number of children lost ground.

The three men made another discovery: many brain injured children achieved gains although they had been left to creep or crawl to the best of their ability on the floor, with virtually no rehabilitation training. Some of the crawlers began to creep and some of those able to creep, learned to stand.

CARGO PILES UP — Cargo piles up at Pier 3 in Brooklyn, N.Y., as the dock strike entered it second day. Leaders of the International Longshoremen's Association plan to take a new vote on the four-year contract which was rejected by the rank and file. It is hoped that an "education campaign" by the union's leaders will influence the membership to accept the contract. (NEA Telephoto)

Fate of Immigration Bill Rests With Six Lawmakers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The fate of President Johnson's immigration bill in the House rests on the views of six congressmen to be assigned to the judiciary committee.

Johnson's proposal, sent to Congress Wednesday, calls for gradual elimination of the 40-year-old system of national origins quotas without major increases in total immigration.

The bill, similar to legislation sought by the late President John F. Kennedy, must clear the House Judiciary Committee.

Up to now there has not been a majority of the 35-member panel in favor of repeal of the quota system.

CHAPLIN JR. TO WED

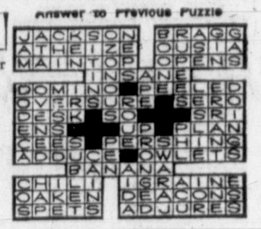

GERONA, Spain (UPI) — Michael J. Chaplin, 21-year-old son of comedian Charlie Chaplin, will marry British actress Patricia Johns, 25, in Barcelona on Jan. 22.

TAKES A WALK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson took another of his celebrated walks on the White House grounds with his beagle "Him" and newsmen. He went two laps around the oval driveway — roughly about a mile — on the late afternoon stroll in 39-degree weather.

Electoral College System Change Due

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson seems to be sticking to the Democratic party line in preparations to request reforms in the electoral college system.

In his State of the Union message, he said he would propose reforms "leaving undisturbed the vote by states but making sure that no elector can substitute his will for that of the people."

Thus the President apparently wants to stay with the system under which each state casts its entire bloc of electoral votes for the presidential candidate polling a plurality of the popular vote in the state.

This system gives the populous states magnified political power. A candidate with a small plurality in New York state would receive all of its 43 electoral votes.

City Vote Favored

Many Republicans object to the procedure because it enables Democratic majorities in big city strongholds to outweigh Republican majorities outside the cities. Hence there has been substantial GOP support for choosing most presidential electors by districts which would correspond, at least roughly, to congressional districts. In this plan, each state would pick only two electors on a statewide basis instead of all of them, as done under the present winner - take all system.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee four years ago, Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey advocated keeping the present system of counting electoral votes. William E. Miller, then Republican national chairman, endorsed the district system.

At the same time, Bailey favored action to deny presidential electors their "nominal freedom of choice." He was referring to unpledged electors and "runaway electors" who refuse to vote for the presidential nominee of their party.

Vote For Senator

In 1960, six of Alabama's 11 electors and all of Mississippi's eight were unpledged. These uncommitted electors and one Republican elector from Oklahoma voted for Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., instead of the national party nominees.

Alabama's entire slate of Democratic electors was unpledged in the 1964 election. Their status became academic when Sen. Barry M. Goldwater carried the state.

The President's still undisclosed plan also is expected to be aimed at unpledged and runaway elector.

One approach calls simply for abolishing the electoral college and assigning each state the same number of votes it would have under that system — one electoral vote for each senator and House member. The voters then would ballot directly for presidential nominees instead of for party slates of presidential electors.

Almost a million persons in the nation suffer from epilepsy.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES

Save by Learning Medical Tax Rules

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The payment of unusually high medical expenses admittedly is a hard way to get a tax deduction. But don't overlook this possibility if your medical bills ran high in 1964.

Many taxpayers overlook this opportunity for a reduction, fearing the rules are too complex. You shouldn't. The extra effort required to learn the rules and furnish the information can be rewarding.

We discussed the special rules applicable to medical expenses for those over 65. For all others, medical expenses are not deductible until after they have exceeded 3 per cent of adjusted gross income. For example, if adjusted gross income is $10,000 the excess of medical expenses beyond $300 is deductible.

In totaling your medical expenses separate the cost of medicines and drugs from other items. Drugs may be included after their cost exceeds one per cent of income. In the $10,000 example, all drug costs beyond $100 are deductible.

Your medical expenses may be considered only in the year paid. You may take into account payments made in 1964 on the previous year's doctor's fee, but you may not consider the cost of 1964's operation if no payment has yet been made to the surgeon.

Include in your personal medical expense calculation the cost of any hospital or health insurance premiums, fees paid a doctor, dentist, optometrist, chiropractor, psychiatrist, Christian Science practitioner, hospital, mental institution, private duty nurse, and all expenses for laboratory fees, X rays, false teeth, eyeglasses, hearing aids and their maintenance, including batteries. List also the purchase price or rental of wheel chairs or crutches and the cost of an ambulance ride.

If you have a sufficiently high amount to call for a duduction don't forget to include your transportation expenses in obdon't forget to include your transportation expenses in obtaining medical care. This will include roundtrip bus, train or taxi fares to a doctor or dentist's office, hospital, clinic, etc. A recent IRS ruling permits a flat deduction of five cents per mile for use of your own car for such purposes.

You may include medical expenses paid for yourself, your spouse, dependent children, your parents if you are furnishing chief support or for any other person who would have qualified as a dependent had not he or she earned $600 last year.

Any reimbursement received from a hospital, health or accident insurance policy must be deducted from the cost of your medical expenses. If Blue Shield paid $300 of your $500 surgical fee last year only the $200 actually paid by you may be shown in your computation.

Here is a typical medical expense deduction for a family with income of $10,000:

Prescribed Drugs (Doctors' Pharmacy)	$125.32
Less 1 per cent of Adjusted Gross Income	$100.00
Excess	$25.32
Hospital & Surgical Insurance	$216.84
Dr. W. D. Walker, M. D.	$115.00
Dr. S. M. Sprague, D.D.S.	$62.00
Transportation Expense (Taxi and bus)	$10.85
Eyeglasses (Smith Optical Co.)	$35.00
Total Medical Expense	$465.01
Less 3 percent of Adjusted Gross Income	$300.00
Deductible	$165.01

Here are some often - asked questions in this area—and the answers to them:

Q—May I include funeral expenses with my medical deduction?

A — Medical expenses cease at the moment of death. No burial expenses may be considered.

Q—I have a heart condition and my doctor prescribed three one-ounce drinks of whisky daily. May I count this as a medical expenses?

A — Lucky you. It counts as a medical expense.

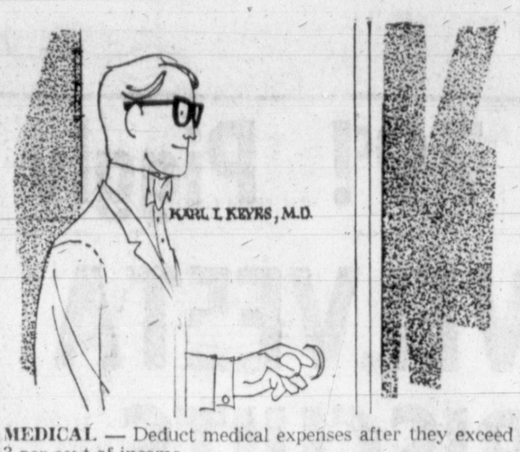

Q — My daughter who married in November was a dependent until the day of her marriage. She is filing a joint return with her husband. May I deduct a $300 orthodontist bill I paid for her early in 1964?

A — This is one of those exceptional cases where she otherwise would have qualified as your dependent had she not filed a joint return with her husband. You may claim her medical expenses.

Q—I a ma diabetic and my doctor requires that I eat special foods. Is the cost of these foods a medical deduction?

A — If these foods merely replace other foods in your diet they are not deductible. If they supplement regular food they are deductible.

(NEXT: A Plus and a Minus

MEDICAL — Deduct medical expenses after they exceed 3 per cent of income.

Three Courteous Prison Escapees Back Behind Bars After Capture

MOBERLY, Mo. (UPI)—Three courteous prison escapees who abducted a woman and her two daughters were back in the medium security prison at Moberly today following their capture in a Louisiana, Mo., tavern.

Cliff Garner, 31, Charles Arthur Reeder, 31, and Robert Allen Kelley, 28, were drinking beer when law enforcement officers walked into the tavern. They offered no resistence.

Mrs. Carl Swanson of Moberly said three men forced her to drive them across the Mississippi River into Illinois. The men then left the car, leaving Mrs. Swanson and her two daughters unharmed.

Mrs. Swanson said she and her daughters were treated courteously.

Judge Hands Defense Second Setback in Billie Sol's Trial

PECOS, Tex. (UPI)—Dist. Judge R. L. Starley Wednesday denied a defense request for a continuance in a $4 million damage suit against the bankrupt estate of Texas swindler Billie Sol Estes so a handwriting expert could check signatures in some documents introduced as evidence.

It was the second time Starley had handed the defense a setback. He turned down a motion for a mistrial the day before.

Court was recessed Wednesday night after the written testimony of J. C. Barnes Sr., a Midland, Tex., oilman and one of those who brought the suit, was read into the record. Barnes is ill in Florida.

Barnes told of going to a Midland country club with the Pecos fertilizer king in 1961, and said J. C. Williamson, another Midland oilman, had recommended Estes for fertilizer dealings.

Barnes, Russell Ramsland, J. C. Barnes Jr. and W. F. Winn, all of Midland, are plaintiffs in the case.

Ramsland was on the witness stand for five days and underwent stiff cross examination from the defense, which asked him if he had tried to hide any "papers or documents or anything in regard to this case."

"No, I have not," Ransland replied.

E. L. (Curly) Hartman of Grand Falls, Tex., formerly Estes' personal pilot, also testified Wednesday about his relationship with the 39-year-old Estes who is free in $10,000 bond while appealing state and federal sentences totaling 23 years.

Estes' $150 million farm empire collapsed March 29, 1962 and the plaintiffs, who said they signed $2.4 million worth to fertilizer tank mortgages at Estes' request, filed the suit a few days afterward. After Estes' collapse, it was discovered that there were no fertilizer tanks.

The plaintiffs said Estes sold $1.3 million worth of the mortgages to Walter Heller Co. of Chicago, a finance firm.

First Inmate Wants to Return

GRANITE, Okla. (UPI)—A 77-year-old man wants to return to the Oklahoma State reformatory where he was the first inmate when the institution aopened in 1909.

However, the former Duncan Okla., resident wants to be a visitor, not an inmate, when he makes a sentimental journay to the reformatory from Louisiana where he now lives.

The man asked that his name not be used. He said he would visit the granite institution in May, accompanied by Dennis D. Bzaier, who was a guard at the time he was confned.

Facing Up To The Population Boom

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (NEA) — Barring general nuclear war, invasion by microbes from outer space, a new ice age or some such world calamity, there will be twice as many human beings striving for the good life on this planet in A.D. 2000 as there are today.

At the present growth rate of 2 per cent a year, population could rocket to 50 billion by A.D. 3000, which would be just about the maximum that earth could theoretically sustain.

How to reduce this rate of growth and then to stabilize it has become a top priority task for public health scientists in all countries, for the combination of high birth rates and falling death rates is not only impeding the progress of developing countries but putting strains on the health and welfare facilities of advanced nations.

About 70 concerned scholars from around the world met some months ago at the Graduate School of Public Health of the University of Pittsburgh to discuss the population problem in all its aspects. The 24 scientific papers presented at the meeting have just been released.

As could be expected, many dealt with the biological and physiological factors in conception and birth, and with birth control techniques ranging from sterilization to pills

Apparently the most popular and most effective methods of birth limitation are the newly developed pills and an intrauterine device using a coil or spiral of plastic.

Dr. A. S. Parkes, physiologist at the University of Cambridge, England, praised the pill and deplored the taboos and prudery which hampered research until mankind's eleventh hour.

"Until the advent of the Pincus pill," he said, "methods of controlling human fertility were archaic in principle and a disgrace to science."

He noted one possible drawback to the "fantastically effective" pill: It might increase a woman's fertility and extend childbearing ability beyond age 50.

Dr. John Rock, controversial Catholic gynecologist, formerly of Harvard, disputed this. Extensive clinical trials had turned up no evidence of such a possibility, he said. Others at the symposium offered evidence the side effects of the pills are more annoying than dangerous.

As for the "rhythm method," currently the only method acceptable to the Roman Catholic Church, Dr. Parkes termed it "a sound principle which is more useful in securing pregnancy than preventing it."

Another English phyisician, Dr. Thomas McKeown, professor of social medicine at the University of Birmingham, maintained that it is not improved techniques which will lower the birth rate but recognition of the need for reduction in family size.

"The problem must be solved, not in the laboratory, but in the native village. . . If illiterate women are to control their reproduction by counting beads, they must first learn to count."

The experts were in general agreement that the birth rate will not be significantly lowered until there is a social climate which encourages the small-family ideal.

One means of achieving this ideal was suggested by Dr. Judith Blake Davis, associate professor of demography (population study) at the University of California School of Public Health.

She advised taking the wife and mother out of the home, literally and figuratively, by fashioning a society which is not primarily family centered — a society in which women are offered other meaningful goals beside the traditional one of motherhood.

One major suggestion coming from the conference was that governments will have to adopt an official public policy favoring small families. In turn, this policy will have to be made possible by scientists, approved by religious leaders and, in the end, accepted and practiced by individual people.

The scientists were agreed that the only possible solution in a civilized and democratic society is for the people themselves to decide to have small families.

But they also agreed that how to convince the people of the desirability and necessity of this is probably the most difficult and complex challenge human society has ever faced.

Hullabaloo Okay for Kids But Too Strong for Adults

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Hullabaloo, "a weekly one - hour NBC-TV series that had its premiere Tuesday night, is a vile and coldblooded attempt to cash in on the worst of the popular music now aimed at youngsters.

By the sheerest coincidence, an opposition network, ABC-TV, has a similar show, "Shindig," which is an apparent hit of sorts.

"Hullabaloo" tried to camouflage itself a bit on its debut by having a good singer, Jack Jones, as the first host, and a guest spot featuring the very funny Woody Allen. But after viewing what surrounded them, one could only feel sorry and embarrassed for them. The essence of the program, with its ugly dancing, its long-haired gee-tar playing singers and its offensive audience of screamer, was wholly tasteless. There was an almost shiftyeyed flavor to the proceedings from the very opening, which consisted of a rear-view shot of a young lady wiggling her derriere.
here were more, and lengthy

There were more, and lengthy derriere shots later on of a brassy young girl named Joey Heatherton, who apparently was told by someone that she was sexy, and whose attempts to be so were, unintentionally, comically juvenile.

In sum, despite the camouflage, the show's crass intentions were all too obvious. A foul program, except perhaps for Woody Allen's notation that he was born in Arizona but had to move to Brooklyn because of his lungs.

The hard-boiled commercialism of "Hullabaloo" may be all right for kids, but it's too strong for grownups.

A little later on, Tuesday night, NBC-TV's news department nearly bailed out the evening for the network with a one-hour special about the nation's Capitol as a treasury of art works and a symbol of democracy. Lou Hazam was the producer and writer, Tom Priestley the director and Raymond Massey the off-camera narrator.

Coming at the midway point between last week's State of the Union address by President Johnson and next week's inauguration day ceremonies, the show was of course, timely. Beyond that, however, the Hazam touch for blending fact and beauty into a core of substance was on hand again. Historic moments of the Capitol, works of art and shots of the Senate, the House of Representatives and other inner chambers were combined into an hour well worth viewing.

The Channel Swim: A one-hour prime-time series based on the work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is planned for ABC-TV in the fall . . . The network says the programs will rely on FBI investigations of crime and subversion . . . The series will be turned out by Warner Bros. and producer Quinn Martin, who has guided such shows as "The Untouchables," "The Fugitive" and "12 O'Clock High" . . . ABC-TV says the FBI is cooperating fully in the venture.

Police Believe Youth Kidnaped

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Police feared today a missing 11-year-old boy may have been kidnaped by a red-haired man who bought him a banana split.

The youth, Billy Dean Nixon, was last seen early Tuesday.

Police said a drug store clerk recalled seeing the red - haired man buying the boy a banana split then take him for a ride.

"I'm reluctant to call it a kidnaping but it appears to be a very serious situation at this time," said Capt. H. F. Hopkins of the police juvenile division. "If the boy is not found pretty soon every man in the youth division (10 in all) will be assigned to the case."

Hopkins said the police department was checking all descriptions of known sex offenders.

The boy is the son of Mrs. Billy W. Seay, who had the child by a previous marriage. He is five-feet tall and has brown hair and eyes. He was wearing a striped knit shirt, blue jeans and black cowboy boots and was carrying a lunch sack when last seen at 8:30 a.m. CST Tuesday.

A thorough search of Fort Worth's North Side was being made by police. Hopkins said officers were discounting any possibility the child might have been taken for ransom.

Mrs. Seay said Billy is a good student who would never have run away from home.

Hopkins said if the juvenile department fails to turn up any clues he would not hesitate to call in off-duty police to help in the case.

Part of Arkansas Opens for Traffic

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)— Sections of the Arkansas River will be opened to navigation as completed and without waiting for the entire $1.2 billion project to be finished, Brig. Gen. Richard H. Free said Wednesday.

Free, of Dallas, is the army engineer in charge of work on the project which is designed to bring barge traffic from the Mississippi river to the Tulsa area.

Free said he considered 1970 a realistic date to expect completion of the navigation project "as far as our programming, engineering and construction are concerned."

The completion depends on allocation of funds by congress, but with all the money in the world "we couldn't do it tomorrow," he said.

Foreign News Commentary

By K.C. THALER

LONDON (UPI)—Red China, which last fall achieved her first nuclear explosion, is believed to have made unexpected progress in other fields of modern weaponry.

Latest indications to reach the West suggest that Peking is building modern type fighter plane and, even more surprising surface-to-air rockets.

Red Chinese Deputy Premier Marshal Ho Lung boasted in Peking that Red China has "greatly strengthened the weaponry and equipment" of her army. He claimed that Peking above all has "a comparatively powerful air force."

Something Afoot

Whatever the justification of these claims, intelligence reports seeping through the Bamboo Curtain suggest that something is afoot in the modern weapons sector of Communist China.

Experts concede they have been surprised by the technical advance displayed by Peking's first nuclear explosion. Since then some Western experts have predicted that Peking may have nuclear weapons operational within two to five years, instead of the previous estimate of five to then years. A14 1st add xxx ten years.

Speculation about Red China's rocket development has been set off by a number of rockets displayed by Albania, Peking's closest Communist ally in Europe, during a military parade in the Albanian capital of Tirana last month.

These rockets apaprently have been supplied by China, since Russia stopped supplying Albania years ago because of the sharp attacks on former Premier Nikita Khrushchev's policies.

Red China was believed to have copied the rockets from samples she received from Russia at a time when the two Communist giants were still on close terms of friendship.

Produced In Quantity?

Some experts believed Red China is in fact now producing these short range and relatively sophisticated surface-to-air rockets in quantity.

It was furthermore been reported that Red China has started producing a delta-wing supersonic fighter plane, resembling the supersonic Soviet MIG-21 jets.

Peking also appears to have overcome, at least partly, the acute high-grade fuel shortage which at one time virtually grounded Peking's air force after Russia halted supplies in the wake of the intensified Sino-Soviet ideological conflict.

Much of these claims remain in doubt so long as verification is impossible because of the secrecy which surrounds China's military and technological development.
velopments.

But, say the experts something is afoot and there is reason to believe that Red China is making noteworthy strides.

Imported Hand Knits From the Emerald Isle

EMERALD ISLE HAND KNITS — Go Gaelic for a fashionable sweater warm-up. Fisherman's knit it-yourself sweater (left) in genuine Irish Blarneyspun yarn imported for fashion-conscious knitters is rugged and water repellent. Pattern is colorful turquoise and natural check. Cable pattern with V-neck in the same imported yarn (center) is worn over a turtle neck. Authentic Aran-inspired imported wool and mohair (right) has big diamond design, ideal for skiing.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Sure, it's the look of the Irish. The latest fashion rage comes straight from a fleet of Irish fishermen. And that's no blarney!

If you know how to knit, you have a whole new world of fashion right at your fingertips. The grand old tradition of Irish fishermen's knits has swept overseas. The same warm and winsome sweaters knitted for the sea-going Irish by their womenfolk can now be made right here at home.

A large hand-knit yarn producer (Bernat) has imported the original Irish Bainin yarn — that's Gaelic for white. Over here it is called Blarneyspun and we have more to choose from than the colleens ever had. The familiar natural shade of the Irish yarn has been teamed up with a wide range of bright, new fashion colors.

The fibers are rugged and the yarn has been specially treated for water repellency.

Fisherman's knit sweaters traditionally are richly patterned and cabled. The bold Irish designs have been translated into styles that suit fashionable knitters on this side of the Atlantic. Bulky, V-neck pullover and turtle neck sweaters in both solids and patterns are this year's favorites.

Irishmen have been wrapping up in these handknit sweaters for more than two centuries. Originally, the yarn was spun and carded along the shores of Shandon, and the sweaters were worn by the fishermen as they cruised the northern seas aboard their schooners.

Now special patterns for the genuine Irish sweaters are available in a booklet at yarn shops or art needlework departments.

Whether you're the outdoor type or just like to look it, Irish knits will be a great addition to your winter wardrobe.

Clothes Poll

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise
Women's Editor

After Christmas comes the "big exchange," — slippers that are too small, perfume you can't abide or the scarf that would have been great if it was not purple and orange.

Now chances are your praise for this gift was glowing at the time you received it. So, beset by guilt, you don a furtive expression and glance over your shoulder a few times as you go about the business of exchanging it — lest you run into the donor.

One way to avoid this kind of embarrasment is to get someone else to make the exchange for you. But if this isn't possible, here's what to do. This may be a little troublesome, but worth the effort:

Wear a wig or dye your hair before you set out. Pad out your cheeks with a little cotton to slightly change the shape of your face. Wear dark glasses borrow a neighbor's coat for the expedition. And if you meet the donor of the gift item, look straight through her. She won't know you.

Should you be recognized and caught red - handed turning the gift item over to a saleslerk, you can still save face.

Pretend you liked it so much you are now buying one just like it for a friend's birthday. You brought yours along to assure a perfect duplication was possible.

As you walk away, the depressed owner of two purple and orange scarves, the friend you hoped to avoid may well whip out the glass bowl you gave her and exchange it for a coffee pot.

This is all nonsense, of course. But the need for exchanging gifts could be avoided if we all were a bit more thoughtful.

Next year, don't guess sizes, check to be sure. Don't assume that everyone loves wild colors, even if you do. And since perfume is a personal thing, it's a nice gesture to find out the scent preferred.

Tihs small effort before the holiday can save a lot of time and annoyance later.

Chic Chat

Q: "I would like to buy a mink hat, but I don't have a cloth coat. My only winter coat is muskrat. Can I wear a hat made of a different kind of fur with this coat?"

—Elen T.

Dear Elen T.: Everyone is mixing furs this year. Just be careful not to mix sport furs such as lynx or snow leopard with a dressy fur such as mink. With muskrat you can certainly wear a mink hat.

DON'T HOARD PERFUMES

Perfume is your greatest fashion accessory. Don't save your Christmas perfume gifts for special occasions. Use them constantly. They'll only evaporate or change scent. So you may as well have the pleasure of wearing them and feeing luxurious.

DEAR TECHNICAL: Technically, your sister's husband is your brother - in - law, not your husband's. And neither are your husband's brothers - in - law yours. Your aunts, uncles and cousins are not your husband's, technically. Nor are his yours. But (and this is a very big "but") in most healthy marriages, both husband and wife "take on" the relative of their spouses as their own. And don't get too "technical" or you might give the impression that you are trying to disclaim relationship to your husband's relatives.

DEAR ABBY: I was unemployed when I met my wife, but she said she'd marry me anyway and she would work until I found a job I could handle with my bum back. We've been married 11 years, and I'll admit I haven't worked much, but it's because of my back. I've been to all kinds of doctors and not one of them has been able to help me, so they say it is all in my head and I am just lazy. I am not lazy and it is not all in my head. When I wake up in the morning my back feels like a locomotive ran over it. Now my wife refuses to give me any money. Can I sue for non - support

BAD BACK

DEAR BAD BACK: A lawyer can tell you whether you can sue or not. It sounds to me like a case of not enough backbone and too much wishbone.

DEAR ABBY: You told the girl whose "wonderful" fiance insisted on driving 90 and 100 miles an hour that you hoped she looked good in black. I liked your answer. I also had a "wonderful" fiance who loved to speed. I knew it when I became engaged to him, but loved him too much to break off with him.

One night he was doing 85 on wet pavement and we skidded into a pole. My right leg was so badly mangled it had to be amputated near the hip. I was later fitted with an artificial limb, but I must use crutches, too.

After I lost my leg, my fiance lost interest in me. He broke our engagement and married a girl with two legs. I have a good job, live in a nice apartment, but I don't have much fun. If it's true that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," it is truer that men rarley make clutches for girls who use crutches. While girls in love seldom listen to advice, my experience might help some girl break with a speed demon before she spends the rest of her life regretting it.

Tracy Cary Gives Program for Music Teachers Meeting

Pampa Music Teachers Association met for the regular January meeting Tuesday at Richon Cafe.

Mrs. W. H. Fuller, president, presided at the meeting. After the usual business routine, Tracy D. Cary and Mrs. Carl Shafer presented the program.

Cary gave a talk on "The Composer and the Craft of Musical Composition," pointing out how the experiences surrounding the lives of a composer furnish the material out of which he creates his musical compositions. The speaker gave as examples illustrations from the lives of Mendelssohn and Liszt.

Cary closed his talk with illustrations of personal experiences in the Texas Panhandle, and Mrs. Shafer sang two of Cary's recently composed songs: "The Pledge of Allegiance" and "The Song of the Pampas."

Hostesses in charge of table decorations were Mrs. W. M. Cooper and Mrs. Lois Fagan. An artificial flower arrangement and matching candles were used as table decorations.

Members present were Mmes. John Price, Charles Parr, Carl Shafer, Calvin Whatley, Ramon Wilson, Fidelia Yoder, Lois Fagan, W. M. Cooper, W. H. Fuller, and Royce Rasco and Tracy D. Cary.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Canopy Bed Created By Youngster's Ingenuity

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — I am only 12 years old and have always wanted a canopy bed for my room. I dreamed up one that works just fine. I took four poles, the same size, and that were really mop and broom handles and had my father fasten them to the four corners of my bed to make tall posts. They were painted just like the bed. Then he stretched wire from the top of one post to another. I then laid a dust ruffle I had over the top so the ruffles hang down on the sides over the wire.

—DEBORAH

GIRLS — Just imagine a 12-year-old with such ingenuity. I am sure our young reader would be a likely prospect for a future interior decorator.

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have just discoveed a use for old crew socks. Cut the long tops off the feet, cut these tops open lenghtwise and sew a pair together, also lengthwise and have good absorbent dish cloths. They bleach beautifully and do not ravel. I find them useful for many cleaning purposes.

—MRS. A. G.

DEAR POLLY — I usually need salt for the lunch I carry each day. My mother cuts a paper straw into about five pieces and tapes shut one end in each piece. She pours a little salt into each straw, tapes the other end shut and tosses it into my lunch box. Salt never gets spilled this way and she keeps these salt straws made up ahead.

—PHILIP

DEAR POLLY — The rubber protectors that we put on the bottoms of chrome chair legs are wonderful to put on broom or mop handles that might hit and mar the walls.

We save nagging at our house by having a "fix it" drawer for the youngsters. If a toy is broen it is put in the box. At his convenience their dad checks over these things, repairs those that can be fixed and discards the others.

"Never go up or down stairs empty-handed" is a family rule at our house. When time and energy are at a premium, one appreciates the courtesy extended by other members of the family. There is a basket at the top of the stairs and one at the bottom to catch the little things to go up or down. Even the clean clothes to go to the upstairs bedrooms are left there so mom does not have to make so many trips.

VFW Auxiliary, WWI, Officers Installed Recently

Mrs. Jess Beard, VFW junior vice president of the Department of Texas, installed new officers of Ladies Auxiliary to Pampa Barracks No. 1952, Veterans of World War One, when the group met at 7:30 p.m. Friday in American Legion Hall.

Officers installed were Mrs. George Benham, president; Mrs. W. W. Windsor, senior vice president; Mrs. E. H. Johnson, junior vice president; Mrs. Clyde Batson, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. L. V. Hollar, chaplain; Mrs. J. E. Beard, conductress; Mrs. L. C. Hollis, guard; Mrs. Frank Yates, one year trustee; Mrs. Bessie Dezern, 2-year trustee; Mrs. W. B. Nellis, 3-year trustee. Mrs. Tom Owen, flag bearer; Mrs. L. F. Karlin, banner bearer, and color bearers, Mmes. Gladys Cullison, Bessie Dezern, Lona Dittmeyer and Cressie Farrar.

During the business session Mrs. Beard reported on the Christmas party held at Amarillo VA Hospital for patients on Christmas Eve. The local auxiliary contributed money to help pay for the refreshments and presented a personal gift to each of the 120 patients.

Members voted to change the meeting time of the Auxiliary from the first Thursday of each month to the second Friday of each month with the next meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 12 in American Legion Hall.

AT-HOME HEELS

It isn't considered chic, and it's certainly not practical, to wear high heels with long at-home costumes. If your skirt goes to your ankles, wear flat sandals. If it stops just below the calf, wear one - inch heels.

Baby Shower Fetes Mrs. Billy McMinn

LEFORS (Spl) — Mrs. Billy McMinn was honored with a pink and blue shower recently in the home of Mrs. Alvin Cates.

Mrs. McMinn was presented with a baby book of pink net and a pink corsage featuring yellow baby ratdlers proclaiming "Baby."

The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a fruit arrangement. Coffee, cokes and spudnuts were served to Mmes. Adell Walker and Mary Groves of McLean, Garrel Roberson and Harvey Graham of Pampa, Doug. Reeves, W. B. Earles, Raymond Barnes, Troy Shipman, James Coleman, Wayne Coleman, Tom Florence, Iva Alexander, Roberson and the hostess.

Couple to Mark 25th Anniversary

GROOM (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sanning will observe their 25th wedding anniversary at St. Francis, Saturday.

Monsignor Bottoms, pastor of the Catholic Church at St. Francis will say a mass at 7 p.m. at the church.

Following the mass a reception and dance will be sponsored by the couple at the Parish Hall with friends invited.

Mrs. Sanning is the former Anna Marie Kuehler, daughter of Will Kuehler, and was born and raised in Groom. The couple were united in marriage Jan. 16, 1940 in St. Mary's Catholic Church in Groom. Sanning is a brother to Mrs. Leo Looten of Lark.

SLENDERIZING NECKLACES

If you want to make your face look slimmer, choose a necklace that comes below the base of your throat. Long ropes also create a slenderizing illusion.

SKI SLOPE LUXURY — Skiing has become one of the most popular American sports. For the lap of luxury Robert Lewis designs a handsome blanket in a soft, warm pile fabric, called Verel. The blanket matches his sportive "His" and "Hers" lift coats (left). Jackets have black fox collars and skua button closings. Handsome Scandinavian print parka against a backgorund of dazzling white (right) is a Mr. Dino design. Polyester fiberfill quilting is used for lightweight warmth and shape retention.

Harvesters Tie For 3-4A First-Half Title

'Harns' Sparks Big Green Win

By JEFF COHANE

AMARILLO — Carl Harnsberger came off the bench in the fourth quarter to lead a come-from-far-behind 58-56 victory over the Tascosa Rebels and a share of the District 3-AAAA first-half title.

The win ties the Big Green with Lubbock for the first half championship of the split loop season, each with 7-1 records. The second half of district play starts Friday, with the Harvesters having an open date, playing at Phillips in a non-loop game Saturday.

Harnsberger came in when Lanny Lewis fouled out with 5:30 to go in a rough and rugged game and scored the last three points of the tilt, clinching it by snaring the final rebound. Tascosa, led by 6'9" center John Burkhalter and 6'4" guard Bill Bogan, had led by as much as eight points in the first quarter, seven in the second quarter, eight in the third quarter and five in the final frame, only to have Ropes Roper and Mac McWilliams spark the Big Green back to striking distance, setting the stage for Harnsberger's heroics.

The reportedly clumsy Burkhalter was astonishingly graceful for such a giant. Although the huge junior is far from polished, he committed no fouls, grabbed off huge chunks of the backboards, and scored 14 points on rebounds and close-in shots, playing about half the game. Bogan, the loop's leading scorer, hit from outside for 21 points and broke up the Harvester press with his long passing until the final frame.

The game was tied five times in the first quarter until Burkhalter hit on a three - point play and Bogan followed him with a long shot for a five-point lead. McWilliams cut it back to one, but Bogan then led the Rebels to eight straight points and a 22-15 quarter edge.

Roper, McWilliams and Davy McDaniel started getting a piece of the boards and McWilliams' all-around play and Lewis' deadliness on free throws brought Pampa back into a 24-23 lead midway in the second quarter. The lead changed hands three times until the Rebs hit three straight buckets, two by Bogan, to push the margin to seven. Pampa put on the press and Roper started dominating the boards, faking out Burkhalter to chop the lead to 34-30.

Pampa trailed by 4-6 points through the third quarter as McWilliams sparked play, but the giant Burkhalter got hot again after Pampa free throws had cut the edge to three, and the big boy moved it to eight points before McWilliams hit in the final seconds to trail, 49-43.

Tascosa could not buy a bucket in the last period, with all their points coming on free throws, and the Harvesters slowly but surely closed the gap. With 4:50 to go, Roper tied it at 51-51.

Three times the Rebs went ahead and twice Pampa matched them, going ahead the third time, 57-56, as Harnsberger hit his second bucket from the corner with 1:48 left. With 1:15 left in the game, Ron Curlee, who had paired with Lewis to hawk the ball throughout the game, stole it once more and Pampa went into a stall. With 10 seconds left, Bogan fouled Harnsberger, and the 6-1½ blond made the first charity. He missed the second and Tascosa streaked down the court. Larry Willoughby shot and missed and Harns grabbed the rebound and held on until time ran out.

West Texas On Probation

CHICAGO (UPI) — A system of fines applied against grants in aid of football players had West Texas State University of Canyon under NCAA probation today.

The NCAA council approved a recommendation by the infractions committee Wednesday for a one-year probation, with the committee to review the school's athletic practices before its restoration to good standing.

The infractions committee reported the school imposed fines up to $5 for training violations and other misconduct and deducted the penalty from the monthly payment of $15 allowed to players on scholarships for laundry and other incidental expenses.

Such fines were a violation of the NCAA rule on financial assistances to athletes.

AFL Studies College Draft

HOUSTON (UPI) — American Football League (AFL) owners turned to the more serious problem of college talent drafts today as they headed for their second business session behind closed doors.

Owners shuffled this problem aside Tuesday in their opening meeting, taking time only for routine reports and discussion of less important business matters.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said after the meeting that he expected the problem of college player drafts to be considered today after owners finished reviewing severa reports.

Foss indicated he had several things to say about the drafts, but would not comment until after talking to members of the group's executive committee.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) voted Tuesday in Chicago to ask pro football owners not to sign college talent until players' college eligibility expired.

The commissioner indicated little would be done about the 20 Negro players' charges of discrimination last week at New Orleans, and no action is expected. Owners should decide, however, on a permanent home for the annual All - Star game, which has been moved from New Orleans to Houston because of the Negro players' boycott of the Louisiana site.

Foss, who switched the game to Houston after conferring with AFL owners, said Tuesday he believes the racial incident could have happened in any city.

As the owners met Wednesday, full squads held workouts for the Saturday All-Star game.

The West has won all three previous All-Star games of the AFL, all played in San Diego.

Garland Coach To SMU?

GARLAND, Tex. (UPI)— Charles W. (Chuck) Curtis, who has always wanted to be a collegiate coach, will quit his job as football coach of the Garland Owls to become an assistant at Southern Methodist University, the Garland Daily news said today.

Curtis is one of the winningest high school football coaches in Texas. His team beat Galena Park last season for a second consecutive state Class AAAA football title. Curtis' team also won an AA title when he coached at Jacksboro.

Curtis returned to Dallas Wednesday night after attending the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) convention.

The Dallas Morning News said that Curtis' only obstacle to landing a job on the Mustang staff is approval from the eight-man SMU faculty committee.

Curtis said official announcement of his signing would come Saturday, although he would not reveal the school.

"I have talked to several schools, including SMU, Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Indiana and I expect to sign the contract Saturday," Curtiss said. "The announcement will be made at that time."

SMU coach Hayden Fry said "as of right now Chuck Curtis has not been hired by SMU. I have been given no authority by our athletic committee to make any additions to our staff and I know of no one presently on the staff who is leaving. I'm sure he would make a fine member of our staff."

Fry admitted he had talked to Curtis about the possibility of becoming an SMU assistant.

The Garland News said that it was assumed Curtis would get a salary raise over the $10,000 a year he gets at Garland. His job at SMU would be that of chief assistant to Coach Hayde Fry, in charge of offense, the News said.

There had been reports Curtis, 29, had been offered a job as athletic director of either Odessa Permian High School or Odessa High School with a salary of $13,000, a new home, a new automobile and a business on the side.

Chamberlain Sold To Philadelphia

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — All-time scoring king Wilt Chamberlain was acquired by the Philadelphia 76ers today in a $375,000 deal which jubilant 76er owner Irv Kosloff said may mean Philadelphia will end the Boston Celtics' six-year reign as National Basketball Association champions.

The 76ers obtained the 7-foot, 1-inch, 275-pound Chamberlain from the San Francisco Warriors in exchange for Paul Neumann, Connie Dierking and Lee Shaffer Wednesday night, ending a month of dickering during which they outbid the Los Angeles Lakers, New York Knicks and St. Louis Hawks. Neither club revealed the amount of money that also changed hands but it was understood to be $300,000—making it the biggest deal in basketball history and one of the biggest in sports history.

The NBA's five-time scoring champion, Chamberlain shut himself up in his hotel room after the deal was announced and refused to answer callers. But Kosloff and his 76er partner, Isaac Richman, said they were confident the high-scoring giant "is happy to be returning to Philadelphia."

"I feel great about it all," said Kosloff. "We know Wilt and we know he is a Philadelphean first. We'll be getting him when he's still good. With Chamberlain, we now feel we have personnel equal to that of the Celtics and we are hoping that we can go all the way with Wilt in the playoffs."

Kosloff said the three other clubs bidding for Chamberlain offered the Warriors the same amount of money as the 76ers but added, "we were able to offer personnel which they couldn't." He said the deal was closed when he shook hands with San Francisco Chairman of the Board Frank Mieuli Wednesday night about an hour after the East defeated the West, 124-123, in the NBA's 19th All-Star game.

"Wilt will now be surrounded by the best personnel with which he ever has played," said Kosloff. "We have the best back-court men in the league in Larry Costello and Hal Greer. We're not sure whether we can catch the Celtics during the regular season but we're hoping we can beat them in the playoffs now that we have Wilt."

Chamberlain will be in the 76ers' lineup for the first time tonight when they play the Baltimore Bullets at home and he will face the Celtics in Boston on Friday night. The three players acquired by the Warriors are expected to join them in San Francisco Friday night.

The only pro ever to score 100 points in one game—against the Knicks on March 2, 1962 — Chamberlain is en route to his sixth straight NBA scoring title with 1480 points and a 38.9 average. In successive years in the NBA he has averaged 37.6, 38.4, 50.4, 44.8 and 36.9 points per game. He also is one of the league's leading rebounders and usually plays the full 48 minutes of every game.

Sul Ross Raps Western NM

By United Press International

The Sul Ross Lobos have a poor season record. But don't anybody tell shell - shocked Western New Mexico after the thrashing it took Wednesday night from the Alpine, Tex., team.

Sul Ross connected on 58.5 per cent of its field shots and Jack Fryman popped in 37 points to pace the Lobos past the New Mexicans 117-100 at Alpine.

In other games involving Texas college basketball teams, Tulsa tripped North Texas State 63 - 57, the University Houston trampled Southwestern University of Georgetown 89-64, and St. Edwards beat Tarleton State 68-60.

Sul Ross, only 4-10 for the season, held a 47-43 halftime lead over WNMU, then poured it on the final half. Cigaree Dunn led the losers with 27 points.

North Texas blew a four point halftime lead to lose its fourth consecutive Missouri Valley Conference game. Carlos Gripado was high scorer for Tulsa with 18 points. David Burns was top man for the Eagles with 13.

Houston piled on more woes for Southwestern which has yet to win a game in 10 outings. The Cougars, spearheaded by Richard Apolskis with 16 points, stand 10-6 for the season. Houston led all the way.

Harlem Stars Here Next Monday Night

Pampa basketball fans will be in for a cage delight once again when Boyd Buie's Harlem Stars make their annual visit to Harvester Fieldhouse next Monday night.

Buie's aggregation of Globetrotter - style basketball players combine fine shooting and smooth play with hilarious interminglings of comedy, as can be testified to by the packed houses that have seen them perform here before.

The Harlem Stars will take on the Pampa All-Stars at 8 p.m. Pampa High basketball coach Terry Culley's aggregation will feature the best cagers to be found in Pampa, including a number of former college greats and all-state high school players including Culley and assistant Gary Griffin.

Adding to the delight of the crowd will be a preliminary game between the Pampa Newsboys and the Borger Misprints. The two teams are made up of employees of the two local newspapers and will be playing a return match, Borger having taken a narrow victory on their home court earlier this month. The first game will start at 6:45.

Big man for the Harlem Stars is Curtis "Youngblood" Williams, a 6'5" star who combines speed, drives and accurate shooting and hoggish rebounding with crack comedy. Youngblood never played college basketball, the 22-year-old is in his third season with the Stars, but owner - manager Boyd Buie, the one-armed ex-Globetrotter, calls him the top player on the team.

Tickets are currently on sale at Richard Drug. Advance tickets sell for a lower price than those bought at the gate. All proceeds will go to the Pampa Boys Club.

SINCERE CONGRATULATIONS to the Pampa Harvesters, co-champs of the first half of district play. Even the district champs of 1962 never put on as tremendous comebacks as this crew of "little men" did in the last two games. The second half of the season starts things all over again. If either Pampa or Lubbock wins the second half, they would automatically win the crown.

However, if a third team wins, the Big Green and the Westerners would have a playoff and the winner would meet the second-half champ for the right to represent the loop. What happens if there is another tie for the second half we haven't quite figured out yet.

The Tascosa game being postponed because of a missing referee is the first time I have ever seen this happen, or even heard of it happening, in my 11 years as a sportswriter. Coach Terry Culley says it is the first time it has happened to him in his 15 years here. Incidentally, the missing ref was reported to have been officiating a game in Arkansas that night!

ONLY GOOD thing about the postponement is that we were able to go over and see Howard County JC play the Amarillo College Badgers. Visited with Charlie Price and Jimmy Flowers. Jimmy, a starter this year, is getting married today to a lovely young lass from up thataway. Charlie was doing very well until he turned his ankle a few games ago. Coach Buddy Travis, an old and valued friend, is very happy with Charlie and expects to move him to guard next season. Buddy has his eye on several Pampa and area players, notably Ropes Roper, whom he has been wishing for since last year. With Jimmy and his other ballhandler graduating, Buddy is seeking a ballhandler and playmaker who shoots well from outside, and thinks Lanny Lewis might fill the bill. Buddy is also interested in Ray Guerrero of Miami, Hulon Kirkland and Dennis Cothren of Dumas, Larry Duckett and Leon Choate of Panhandle, among others in the area.

ANOTHER SCHOOL which seems to be latching on to Top O' Texas boys is coach Pete Irwin's alma mater, New Mexico Western. Western football coach Al Johnson has definitely given the nod to Jim Arthur of Pampa, and Jim is just about sold on Western, although Houston still would like the Pampa center to join teammate Kenny Hebert.

Jim, Jerry Garrison, Myron Scribner and Phil Smith went down to visit the school during the semester break. Ronnie Oler and Jerry Goodwin are two more Pampans the school is interested in, as well as Edgar Brown of Lefors, Bill Hughes of Booker and Billy Overcast, Gene Watson and Richard Wallace of Wheeler.

SPEAKING OF Wheeler, we hope all you cage fans won't forget the big fracas there tonight when the Pampa News boys meet Sweet William Harle's "Faulty Faculty Plus Four" in a charity cage tilt. If the Newsboys survive last night's scrimmage with St. Vincent's Church team, and tonight's brawl, they will host the Borger Misprints in a return match Monday evening, preceding the Pampa All-Stars vs. Boyd Buie Stars clash. Coach Terry Culley of the All-Stars has said that this year he will not use comedy relief (mainly me) as the first game should have plenty of that.

Terry is having lineup problems. . seems that the Pampa C team plays at Stinnett that same night. Culley and assistant Gary Griffin were the standouts for the Pampans the last two years, and one of them will obviously have to go with the Jolly Green Giants, leaving the Stars shorthanded. Culley has not worked out his lineup to date, although it will again contain some of Pampa's former greats and All-Staters.

While Terry worries about his game, the Ol' Swami's only worry is whether Goose Shields and his Borger crew will chicken out. The Misprints slithered to a close win at Borger, but it might be different in our stomping grounds. Since we knew Shields would find fault with the officiating, we got two veteran officials of undisputed veracity, athletic director Birddog Trice and football coach Eural Ramsey. We will try to brainwash the Goose and Grandpa Fred Wortham, with our favorite gals, the Lee Junior High cheerleaders, out to root us on and a hometown crowd. Now it's our turn.

THE WIRE services keep reiterating that Randy Matson will play basketball or football this year. Randy reported on his return from the Olympics that his decision to skip basketball for indoor track was unchanged, and as for football, it is definitely not the sport that James Randall will forego a world's championship for.

HEARD A remark the other day that "Pampa High will improve athletically when they de-emphasize band." Don't know whether I'd go quite that far, but I do believe people should refer to Pampa athletes and teams as the "Pride of Pampa" rather than a musical organization.

DID YOU know that Pampa High holds one distinction among 4-A high schools? It is just about the only one in the state without a cinder track.

BOARD FIGHT — Davy McDaniel of Pampa (51) and Bennie Evans of Tascosa (42) fight for a rebound as Lanny Lewis (11) and Bill Bogan (40) jockey for position. The Harvesters came from behind last night for a 58-56 win and a piece of the district title.

St. Joseph's Continues to Win

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

St. Joseph's of Philadelphia rates the unusual distinction among college basketball experts as the team that has nothing except a 13-1 record.

The Hawks do not rank among the nation's top 20 teams in either offense or defense. They don't have a single player among the top 20 in scoring. Nor do they have anyone among the nation's best rebounders.

All they have is that 13-1 record—good enough to be ranked as the No. 5 team in the country.

The explanation is a blazing fast break and balanced scoring which the Hawks displayed again Wednesday night when they set two Philadelphia Palestra scoring records in crushing Seton Hall 115-81. The Hawks set one mark by scoring 63 points in the first half and the second with their 115-point game total.

Sophs Lead Attack

Sophomores Cliff Anderson and Marty Guokas led St. Joseph's to its latest triumph — Anderson scoring 21 points in the first half and Guokas triggering the fast break with his sharp passing.

Georgetown, an opponent with which St. Joseph's will have to reckon on Feb. 3, scored its sixth straight win and ninth in 12 games with an 81-73 decision over George Washington. Jim Barry, a cousin of national scoring leader Rick Barry, scored 18 points, including four free throws that gave him a string of 28 consecutive successful foul tries.

Marquette downed Wisconsin 59-58, Drake turned back Creighton 76-67, Loyola defeated Marshall 98-90, and Tulsa beat North Texas 63-57 in other top games.

Wisconsin wheeled away to a 17-1 lead at Madison, Wis., and led 38-25 at halftime. Tom Flynn and Roger Buxton led a second-half rally by Marquette that tied the score at 44-44 with 10 minutes to play. Rocke Calvelli, whose field goal produced that tie, put the game on ice with eight seconds left when his two free throws gave the Warriors a 59-56 lead.

West Scores 18

Gene West scored 18 points to lead Drake to its victory at Omaha, Neb., after Creighton had jumped to an early eight-point lead. Tim Powers was high scorer for Creighton with 15 points.

Tom Markey, a 6-foot, 5-inch substitute, tallied five straight field goals at the start of the second half to lift Loyola into a 54-46 lead which Marshall never overcame. Les Scott had 27 points and Jim Coleman 24 for Loyola while Tom Langfitt scored 23 for Marshall.

Rick Park had 18 points and Carlos Gripado had 17 as Tulsa scored its second Missouri Valley triumph in four games. Dave Burns was high for North Texas with 13 points.

Other results included Harvard 96 Dartmouth 80, LaSalle 83 Duquesne 69 and Syracuse 91 Colgate 52 in the East; Maryland 77 Navy 58, North Carolina State 65 North Carolina 62 and Louisiana State 79 Tulane 67 in the South; Xavier (Ohio) 99 St. Francis (Pa.) 87 and North Michigan 98 Michigan Tech 71 in the Midwest.

East Again Tops West In NBA All-Star Game

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Fiery Coach Red Auerbach, boasting a third NBA All-Star win in a row, moaned, "the way the calls went against us, you'd have thought we were playing on the road."

Auerbach's East team with Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas, the game's most valuable player, delivering a 1-2 punch at Coach Alex Hannum's West team, pocketed a 124-123 victory Wednesday night before a record crowd of 16,713.

Auerbach, now winner of six All-Star games against three defeats, was especially bitter about the sixth foul that knocked big Bill Russell out of the game, after the bearded giant had brought down the important rebound of the game while the West closed the gap in the remaining minutes.

Couldn't Buy Foul

"That sixth foul was ridiculous," Auerbach said. "It seemed our side couldn't buy a foul in the last quarter. That was the reason the West almost caught us, because I couldn't use Russell because of his foul trouble."

Auerbach's dressing room talk hit on the anticipated duel between his Russell of the Boston Celtics and bi gWilt Chamberlain, who plays for Hannum's San Francisco Warriors.

"You saw what he (Russell) did for us in the first half — the way he played, you didn't even know there was a guy named Chamberlain on the floor."

The East team bottled up the veteran Bob Pettit and zoomed to a 20-point lead at times during the third period, which ended 107-91.

Johnson Sparks Rally

The West's Gus Johnson, shooting one point a minute for 25 points, sparked a late-period rally, to cut the East's lead.

With the seconds ticking away and Auerbach's lead dwindling, Jerry West added a basket, Don Ohl put in two free throws, and with three seconds left, Pettit added the final shot of the game.

The game's high scorer was Robertson with 28 for 40 minutes of play while Jerry Lucas in 35 minutes accounted for 12 of 19 field goal tries and one free throw for a total 25.

Green Bay Aide Quits

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)— The coaching brain trust gathered by head Coach Vince Lombardi when he came to the Green Bay Packers in 1959 lost its first member Wednesday when line coach Bill Austin resigned.

Austin, who molded what many thought was the best offensive line in National Football League history, cited family health problems. He said his wife has been advised by physicians to move to a warmer climate.

"I've had a happy association at Green Bay," said Austin, 36, who said his plans were indefinite.

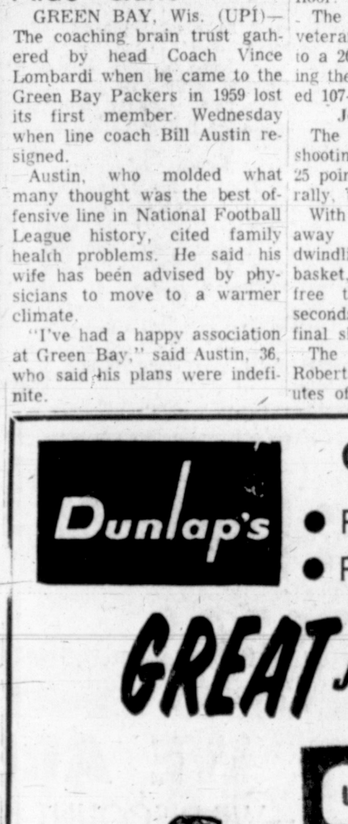

Pressure on To Oust Pete

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Top officials of the National Football League Players Association agree that NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle must be replaced . . . and the name of Paul Brown keeps popping up as the ideal man to step into his shoes

Bernie Parrish, six-year veteran with the Cleveland Browns and vice president of the players association, started it off Wednesday by saying there has been "a steady, growing dissatisfaction" among players with Rozelle "at least for the past four years."

He maintains that deposed Browns head coach Paul Brown would be the man to "restore the firm image to the league and would represent players and owners alike" instead of just the team owners, as he indicated Rozelle does.

Then Ordell Braase, president of the association, chimed in with Parrish and said "I spoke with Bernie today about this and am going along with him on it. We spoke about Paul Brown as a replacement but I don't know anything about him. But I do know there is a great deal of dissatisfaction with Rozelle."

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Who Says Parents Can't Teach?

It sounds ridiculous unless you have read the book. The title is "How To Teach Your Baby To Read." But the facts presented are both fascinating and convincing.

Glenn Doman, Director of The Institutes For the Advancement of Human Potential, is the author. He records four definite conclusions based on 20 years of research by the Institutes:

1. Tiny children WANT to learn to read.
2. Tiny children CAN learn to read.
3. Tiny children ARE learning to read.
4. Tiny children SHOULD learn to read.

Not only are normal 2, 3, and 4-year old children learning to read and loving it, but badly brain - damaged children are learning to read, along with learning to talk and walk. The Institutes seem to have made a major break-through in finding out how children learn.

Meanwhile, teachers' colleges, under the guidance and direction of the educational associations, have failed miserably to develop successful methods for teaching children to read. Selective Service reports that 25 per cent of the draftees are unable to pass the simplest reading test. While the Institute's methods are showing parents how to teach their 2 and 3-year olds to read, the educational association method is to wait for "reading readiness" in 6 and 7-year old youngsters.

Moreover, teachers colleges, education of their children, encouraged by the educational associations, are indoctrinating teachers to forbid parents to teach their children. The argument is that parents don't know how to teach because they "haven't had any courses in education." Nevertheless, the Institutes records show that parents who want to teach their tiny children to read can do so. Some of the best results have come from parents with only a grade school education.

Parents are well aware of their tiny tots' inordinate thirst for knowledge. It is impressed upon them hourly by a constant barrage of what? where? how? and why? - particularly why? Importance of the early months and years is emphasized by the research findings that the growth of the brain is 80 per cent complete when the child is five. When he is eight, the whole process of brain growth is essentially complete.

The established facts cry out for investigation by Parent-Teacher and other parent groups. They completely refute the theory current in "courses in education" that the parents should be excluded from the

Post-Election Elation

The Communist Party (of the US) was not only happy over the November Presidential election, but is still patting itself furiously on the back in a pean of self-praise entitled "Passage to Progress" and appearing in a recent issue of The Worker.

The CP, it says, "can be rightfully proud of its correct basic analysis, its line of policy and the way it worked during the campaign. Never before were the ranks of the Party so united behind Party policy as in the election struggle."

More specifically, the manifesto declared: "November 3 represented an important people's (i.e. Communist) victory. It has made possible a massive legislative offensive.

"Without the independent activities of the labor movement (unions, that is), the Negro people, Jewish, Mexican and Puerto Rican Americans and other nationality groups this great victory would not have been possible . . .

"The Negro people's movement is the most determined and militant force in America today . . . basis for a natural alliance between the labor and Negro people's movement. This is already in formation. It is toward this alliance that all class - conscious and militant trade unionists should work.

"A central task in helping to weld a coalition that can block the path to Goldwaterism is the building of an ever more united and ever stronger Left force in American life of Communists and non-Communists." (If they are not anti-Communists, they ought to be convertible.)

As for the busy-work ahead, here are the chores in their numerical order:

"1.) End the Cold War, Win the Fight for Peaceful Coexistence and End Colonialism. 2.) End Jimcrow. 3.) End Poverty. 4.) Extend Labor's Rights. 5.) Extend Democracy Throughout the Land."

Our guide in these endeavors is, no doubt, the Soviet "people's paradise." Or, it might be if it weren't for the colonialism of the Iron Curtain, the abuse reported by African "guests", the universal poverty, the vesting of all rights in the State, which gives the voter one name to write on his ballot!

And another thing. We thought it was the Democratic Party that elected President Johnson last November 3.

The Aid Wrangle

Those whose interest in anti-American activities in Egypt is mild might consider that aid for that surly land costs the average American family something more than $2 a year.

The present quarrel has a long history, dating from Mr. Nasser's understandable indign-

Adv for Wednesday pms, Jan 13

Nasser's understandable indignation that we refused to pay for the Aswan Dam at a time when the world had been given to understand that the American taxpayer would pay for any old thing.

Currently, the library-burning, riots and verbal abuse seem to stem from the fact that we've made it known we disapprove of the Egyptian government's material support of a communist-backed bloody revolt against the government of the Congo — as legitimate a government as one is likely to find in Africa these days.

There is now some hope for the taxpayer. Sen. Fulbright and some of the others to whom foreign aid always seemed unchallengeable regardless of the amount or the purpose, now have shown a surprising willingness to take a hard look at these programs on which we already have spent more than a hundred billion dollars.

This unimaginable sum, it should be added, has been spent without ending poverty anywhere or improving our relations with the rest of the world to any visible extent anywhere but in Europe.

Economy in our government, a watchword with the Administration, can well start here.

CAPITOL EYE:

Difficult To Appraise Presidents

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Presidents, having no higher station to reach for, work for the history books.

Though history is the final arbiter of presidential success or failure, one historian — Samuel P. Hays of the University of Pittsburgh — argues that history's verdicts too often are founded on narrow and shallow ground.

In a paper presented here to a panel of the American Historical Association, Hays says our presidents need to be viewed in a far larger context of time and social depth than is now generally the case.

As have other historians, Hays finds something markedly artificial in cutting political history up into the four - year segments representing presidential terms.

Many attitudes, trends and developments overlap two or more such terms. The truth is not served when credit or blame is assigned to a particular president on the basis of events in his term wich actually have a prior history.

For instance, some appraisers gave lavish acclaim to the late President Kennedy for the important achievements in manned space flight which occurred in his brief tenure. Yet the foundation for these advances was laid under President Eisenhower.

By the same token, Kennedy was upbraided for deteriorating conditions in Laos in 1961, when in fact the pro - Western government there had been giving way before the Asian Communists long before Kennedy reached the White House.

Hays likewise is disturbed that his colleagues, when putting presidents under the magnifying glass, dwell so heavily on their personal manuscripts and on the events they are personally caught up in. Says he:

"This has focused political history on the ideas, actions and interrelationships of a few prominent leaders, and has diverted attention from the broader composition of political parties and the environment within which both party and leader exist."

As far as a reader of his paper can grasp it, Hays is not arguing that President Johnson, or Kennedy, or Eisenhower, is just the product of compelling social, economic and political forces which "determine" what they may have done.

He is saying that their impact cannot be properly weighed unless they are seen as moving on the wide river of national life. The "stream of history" is this whole river, rather than the directed flow from a garden hose held by a succession of presidents.

Hays also faults fellow historians for giving presidents credit at time for election results which had their real beginnings earlier.

Example: The famous Franklin D. Rossevelt voter coalition of urban minorities and others did not spring from nowhere with his triumph in 1932. It began to form in the 1920s.

As Republican Herbert Hoover was winning big in 1928 almost undetected was an important Democratic breakthrough. For the first time, the 12 largest U.S. cities voted — in the aggregate — for the Democratic nominee. It was a key signal of events to come.

With deeper opinion poll studies and "voter profiles" today, the historian perhaps has better materials for a more exhaustive analysis of voter performance in presidential and other tests.

We could do with a fairly quick effort in this field right now, before too many myths get firmly planted as to the make-up of Johnson's winning 43 million votes and Barry Goldwater's 27 million.

If our presidents labor for history, historian Hays seems to be saying, with some justice, that it is time for history to do a little better by our presidents.

The Constitution May Be Amended—

Question Box

Question: "The politicians and their agents tell us before elections that we are the government. Is that true? If not, who is the government?"

Answer: That is what we hear from politicians and people who have not given much thought as to what the government really is.

It is true that the majority of voters select those who are to be the governing body, provided there are no pressure groups, with votes enough to force enactment of special laws. In the latter event these pressure groups become the government. The pressure groups, like labor unions, get laws passed to free them to do things which would be a crime if done by other citizens. In other words, they have specal privileges.

Also the employees of the government bring a lot of pressure to bear and they have a great influence on the elected officials.

Certainly it is not true that "we" are the government. The government is really those who have the power to force the individual to pay for something that he does not want. To force him to go to war, to force him by use of a gun to do what the state orders.

The crowd and the pressure groups largely control the politicians, and instead of colleges and schools trying to get people to understand who the government really is, they are opiating the people to believe that "we are the government."

Albert J. Nock had a book, "Our Enemy The State." Sir Ernest Benn had a book, "The State Our Enemy" and Herbert Spencer wrote one on a similar subject. Certainly "we" are not the government. We are much less the government than we were 100 years ago.

The Best Gift

A few days after Christmas, I received the following from a reader. It cost him only a nickel, but it was the best gift I got:

A friend of mine named Paul received a new automobile from his brother as a pre-Christmas present. On Christmas Eve, when Paul came out of his office, a street urchin was walking around the shiny new car, admiring it. "Is this your car, mister?" he asked.

Paul nodded, "My brother gave it to me for Christmas."

A Wish

The boy looked astounded. "You mean your brother gave it to you, and it didn't cost you nothing? Gosh, I wish. . . ."

He hesitated, and Paul knew what he was going to wish. He was going to wish he had a brother like that. But what the lad said jarred Paul all the way down to his heels. "I wish," the boy went on, "that I could be a brother like that."

Paul looked at the boy in astonishment, then impulsively he added, "Would you like to ride in my automobile?"

"Oh, yes, I'd love that!"

After a short ride the urchin turned, and with his eyes aglow said, "Mister would you mind driving in front of my house?"

Paul smiled a little. He thought he knew what the lad wanted. He wanted to show his neighbors that he could ride home in a big automobile. But Paul was wrong again.

"Will you stop right where those two steps are?" the boy asked.

He ran up the steps. Then in a little while Paul heard him coming back, but he was not coming fast. He was carrying his little polio-crippled brother. He sat him down on the bottom step, then sort of squeezed up against him, and pointed to the car.

"There she is, Buddy, just like I told you upstairs. His brother gave it to him for Christmas, and it didn't cost him a cent, and someday I'm gonna give you one just like it; then you can see for yourself all the pretty things in the Christmas windows that I've been trying to tell you about."

Bright Holiday

Paul got out and lifted the little lad to the front seat of his car. The shining - eyed older brother climbed in beside him and the three of them began a memorable holiday ride.

That Christmas Eve Paul learned what Jesus meant when He said: It is more blessed to give. . . .

Today is Thursday; Jan. 14, follow.

The moon is approaching the full stage.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer was born on this day in 1875.

On this day in history:

In 1878, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a state law outlawing racial segregation in railroad travel was unconstitutional.

In 1914, Henry Ford began making automobiles by the assembly line method.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a 10-day meeting in Morocco to plan Allied offensives aimed at the "unconditional surrender" of the Axis.

In 1959, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's firing squads executed an estimated 220 persons in two weeks.

A thought for the day: Winton Churchill said: "The only guide to a man is his conscience . . .the only shield to his memory is the rectitude and sincerity of his actions."

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS

SOLUTION IN ASIA

Last week, prominent Americans called for American withdrawal from war - torn South Viet Nam. Victory without an all - out drive by the United States was held to be remote. Of course, too, the mere mention of a withdrawal creates a defeat fort he Vietnamese. Fear and terror are the only inducements that the Viet Cong have to influence recruits. The prospect of Viet Cong victory particularly by default, results in successful recruiting by the Communists.

In the summer of 1963, I spent some time in the Far East. I visited Formosa and some of the off - shore islands. I had an opportunity to learn, firsthand, the natural assets and allies that we have available to us there.

Red China is weak. And it is army of about 600,000 men. These men yearn to return to their homeland across the Formosa Straits. Almost 100,000 of them are now on mainland China itself, occupying the heavily fortified islands in the Quemoy chain in Amoy harbor, and Matsu, farther to the north.

Red Cina is weak. And it is weakest among the people who know firsthand the cruelties, bestiality and emptiness of Communism. Chiang Kai - shek believes that his return to the mainland would lead to more than ninety per cent of the people coming over to his side. I spoke to many defectors from Red China, and without exception they told the same story. The military defectors said that the ninety per cent figure would hold even for the Red Chinese army. They remember that even when Red China was strong, after their diplomatic success against the United Nations in the Korean War, more than eighty per cent of the Red Chinese prisoners elected to go to Formosa rather than return to their homes on the mainland.

If Chiang can regain China, not only will the Viet Cong disintegrate, but virtually all our Far Eastern problems will be diminished. Laos, North Korea and India would no longer be focal points of conquest with the Red Cinese threat erased. And, of course, the prospect of Red China becoming a nuclear power would vanish with the other problems.

We would not even have to worry about Red China getting one of the Big Five permanent seats in the Security Council at the UN.

Those who do not contemplate a basic solution to the Red Chinese menace now overlook the fact that time is on the side of the Red Chinese. If they acquire a nuclear bomb delivery capability, then they will become a threat not only to Asia but to the United States and the whole world.

I take no doctrinaire position on this thorny problem. Syllogisms do not apply to solutions that involve the reactions of hundreds of millions of people. But those people in the Far East who contend that loyal Chinese and other willing and dedicated Asiatics can bring freedom to their world more expeditiously than the sons of reluctant American parents should be listened to. Other solutions, like stalemate and the overthrow of the loyal Diem do not seem to be working out, while Americans die and the situation becomes more grave.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Are Rights and Powers One and the Same Thing?

By SAM CAMPBELL
News Business Editor

Give a two-year-old child a silver dollar and he very likely will mispace it because he doesn't understand its value. Adults likewise lose valuable properties for lack of understanding.

The other evening I was a guest of the Lumbleau Real Estate School. As I stepped into the room the instructor, Mr. Vincent Mahoney was lecturing in a vivid and lucid style on what he described as the government's "rights over private property."

He spoke of the "right of eminent domain," the "right of taxation," etc.

Does Might Make Right?

I telephoned Mr. Mahoney the next day and asked whether by "right of eminent domain" he did not mean rather "power" of eminent domain. His answer was, "Right, power — they are the same thing."

The assertion is important. For its 'right," even in a legal sense, means the same thing as power, then Lincoln was wrong when he said that "might does not make right." And the Rumford Housing Act — which so many real estate men deplore as a denial of the human right to property — was a rightful exercise of authority. Furthermore, by that theory, now that the odious act stands negated, the state no longer has had.

Cannibals Right?

To make the point a little more emphatically, the Congo cannibals who ate up the missionaries, acted rightfully — if right is the same as power—because they were physically able to kill, broil and chew.

The point is, to contend that right and power are one and the same leads to laughable conclusions. Worse, just as a child might lose a silver dollar because he doesn't understand it values, to the enjoyment of valuable rights may be lost when business people including real estate men, confuse them with powers.

An important distinction between the two is this, that the Creator endows only individuals with rights. When individuals combine to form a government, they may consent to delegate certain powers to the government so formed. This is a dangerous transaction at best for the personnel of government inevitably will change. But to imply that the sharing of power involves also an alienation of unalienable rights is to obscure the terms of the contract.

Schooling Valuable

By no means, do I mean to dispute the usefulness of Mr. Mahoney's instruction. Quite to the contrary, he is unusually gifted as a lecturer. The private real estate schools are doing a tremendous job not only in preparing men and women for their license examination, but also in schooling them in the legal aspects of property management. I believe any person who owns or expects to own real estate other than his own residence would find it profitable to enroll in one of the several excellent private real estate schools.

The only reason that I, having been a guest of this particular school, should comment here is that the whole idea of private ownership is under attack. Under that circumstance, it behooves us all to offer a clarification when we have reason to believe that a better understanding of these subtle matters is needed.

WASHINGTON:

Foreign Aid Setup Held Impractical

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

MONTREAL (NEA) — American research scientists are coming up privately with highly critical personal evaluations of how the U. S. foreign aid program is being run.

These technical men, talking more frankly and bluntly at a meeting away from home, say:

"After 15 years and the expenditure of $100 billion in foreign aid, we have learned little and have little to teach."

We're experts in the agriculture of temperate climates, as in the United States, these men agree. But, they add, we're not experts in the agriculture of the wet tropics and arid regions where much of the underdeveloped world lives. We therefore don't know how to teach these people the agriculture they need.

Instead we tend to export our methods, which often are not appropriate to the climate, technology or political - social organization of the underdeveloped countries.

We make the same mistakes in exporting our system of medicine and public health. In the United Sates, public health is dependent on a great body of highly trained, skilled men and women. But most of the countries we're helping don't have more than a dribble of that kind of manpower.

We need to develop a kind of public health - medical system for export that could utilize the type of manpower now available in underdeveloped countries. That is, we need to develop medical and public health techniques which could be used by uneducated men with little training.

We tend to export our sophisticated technologies and science, often not suitable for practical application in the underdeveloped countries. The quick insertion of this very advanced technology in such nations often creates uneconomical types of agriculture, industry and communications.

Meanwhile, we lead them into a far - out science "from which they can never get back to reality."

We fall into the same error in our export of education. We tend to export pale "cookie cutter" imitations of U.S. schools and colleges. They're not geared to local conditions.

Some of the scientists interviewed seem to be advocating that Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's system of cost effectiveness be applied to U. S. foreign aid.

They say the obvious common sense technique would be to first find out all the ways foreign aid could be designed to accomplish the ends we have in mind. Then we should pick the most effective - for - the - dollar systems out of that basket of possibilities.

The systems should, of course, be those most likely to be effective in the countries in which they are to be used.

PERRY'S WORLD

"No dessert for him—he's got to fix a 'spare tire'!"

matter of Fact

The opossums of America are called marsupials because their young for some time after birth are carried in a pouch, or bag of skin, on the under side of the body of the female. Captain John Smith described them in 1612 as having " a head like a Swine, and a taile like a Rat, and is of the gibnesse of a Cat."

Surrealist Of The Custom Car World

CASPER WITH CREATION: Carl Casper stands beside "The Undertaker" dragster.

By JERRY SHEEHAN

NEW YORK (NEA)—At first, Carl Casper's father wished he had the kind of son who hung around street corners and worried about girls.

At 14 years of age young Casper had a stronger obsession. After dinner he would leave the family table, retreat to the adjoining garage and go to work on a 1951 Chevrolet, bought for $300 earned from newspaper routes.

At this point Carl Casper, too young for a driver's license, had less than a decade of work ahead of him until he was to become the No. 1 custom car designer in the United Sates.

"Of course, dad thought I was nuts. He worked in an auto plant near our home in Flint, Mich., and a car was just something you drive to work and back. Period.

"The arguments got so bad I didn't enjoy dinner. I couldn't wait to get into the garage and work on the Exotic Empress—that's the name I gave her."

In this manner did Carl Casper spend his adolescence and early manhood — chroming a water pump assembly, fitting a stainless steel tailpipe, burnishing an instrument panel with exquisite care, searching across town for just the right interior dome light.

Before he was finished months later his '51 Chev had acquired Buick tail lights, Mercury headlights, a Corvette grille, mink upholstery and 30 coats of paint.

In 1957, at the age of 16—with thousands of man - hours of sweaty labor behind him — Casper was ready to put his obsession on the line.

His target was the General Moors custom car competition in Flint. Casper trundled his creation into place, but he didn't even get a nod from the judges. Back went the Empress to the familiar garage workshop for more years of work.

"I wanted to make the Empress the best car that anyone ever saw. I cut out dates. I didn't have any entertainment. I wouldn't even have a radio playing in the garage because it distracted me."

Somewhere along the line Casper dropped from college. Nearly every cent he could earn wnet into the car. In 1960 he was ready for a try at the Governor's Trophy custom competition in Lansing. By now, the auto was the merest image of a 1951 Chevrolet sedan.

Among other goodies, the Empress acquired at the hand of her devoted consort no less than 40 coats of rubbed lacquer with fish scales and diamond dust added for brilliance, swivel bucket seats, television set, tape recorder, telephone, cocktail bar (Casper does not drink) and that indefinable something which marks a lady as the possessor of class.

"There were plenty of other cars at that Lansing show," said Casper, "But the Empress won; she walked away with the Governor's Trophy. I was on top of the world."

Success hastened into Carl Casper's world from that point onward. His next big win was at the Detroit Autorama against a field of 200. Then, as Casper put it, he began to have "delusions of grandeur." He entered the 1961 National Sweepstakes of the National Hot Rod Association in Indianapolis.

"This is the biggest customizing show anyone could enter," said Casper, "I didn't think I had a prayer, but I won."

With the Indianapolis victory behind him, Casper turned from the romantic to the bizarre. His next creation was a gleaming, roaring, get - up - and - go dragster which he called The Undertaker.

With awards, appearance money from auto shows and a retainer from Aurora Plastic Corp., New York manufacturer f hobby kits, Casper's old problem of money was solved. His imagination was liberated to roam freely. The hobby kit manufacturer clamored for more ideas. Casper had them in abundance.

He devised the Dracula Dragster and a creation labeled the Frankenstein Flivver, sporting a tombstone for a radiator, candles for headlights and coffin handles on the doors.

A Detroit second - hand store yielded an ornate, antique wheelchair. To this he plans to bolt a rear - mounted Chevrolet V-8 engine. He hopes to have his own grandmother test drive he weird thing which he believes can top 175 miles per hour. It will be named, appropriately, Granny's Gasser.

Casper at 23 stands as a phenomenon in the world of art and craftsmanship. While other men at that age are beginning to set their course in life, Casper has his success behind him. The elation of victory is a memory, and the bizarre now seems to offer the only real thrill.

He has become the champion of Dadaism in the custom car world. Aman once convinced it was on the level now makes little jokes upon himself and his craft — like the sculptor who, tired of marble creations, builds self - destroying machines that light up at night.

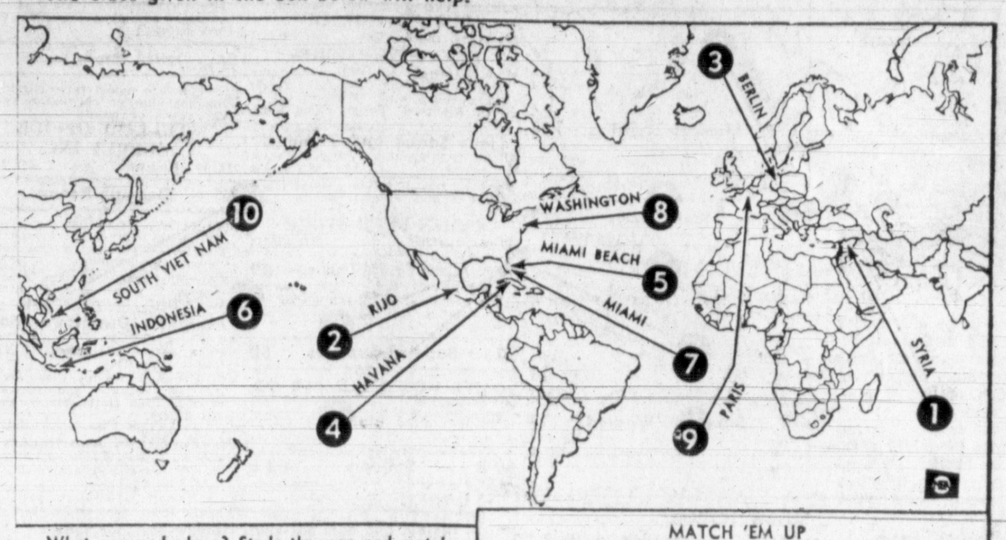

Casper's "ultimate" creation: a space car now on the designing board which will utilize a surplus rocket engine. It will be suitable, says he, for overland travel on, say, Mars.

A long way, indeed, from that garage in Flint, Mich.

Several Persons Killed in Ocean Falls, B.C. Landslide

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — An undetermined number of persons have been killed in a major landslide at Ocean Falls, B.C., 300 miles north of Vancouver.

The slide struck the paper mill town during the night and demolished a number of duplex homes in its path.

All direct reports have been received here via ham radio as telephone and telecommunications are non-operational.

The digger wasp lays its eggs on tarantulas, which serve as food for the young wasp.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hayden, Stone, Inc. comments that the general business picture remains bright, corporate reports for 1964 will be very good in most instances and "January is generally a bullish month for stocks."

The brokerage firm says stocks favored at this time are drugs, aluminums, cosmetics, vending machines, aerospace, oils, utilities and electronics.

Philips, Appel & Walden writes that, based on technical indications, the "magic" 900 area of the Dow Jones industrial average will soon be reached and surpassed. The advisory letter says that President Johnson's pledge to take effective measures to maintain our high rate of prosperity, should continue to be reflected in stock prices.

Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says there appears to be a generally bullish environment in the stock market with support developing even on slight price declines. The brokerage firm forecast "a powerful and prolonged" assault on all-time high in the Dow-Jones average in the near future.

CARVER APPROVED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Interior Committee unanimously approved the nomination of John A. Carver Jr., as under secretary of commerce. Carver, 46, hs been assistant secretary since 1961.

Leads 'Dimes'

A SYMBOL of the 250,000 American infants born yearly with serious birth defects, part Mickey Heinicke, 4, Denver, Colo., is the 1965 National March of Dimes Girl. Thousands of children with even more serious defects than Mickey are helped through expert medical care at 50 March of Dimes-financed treatment centers and by March of Dimes research grants.

DOAR APPOINTED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John Doar, a Justice Department official, was nominated by President Johnson to succeed Burke Marshall as assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division. Marshall resigned recently.

BONDS PLAY PART

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson says he might never have come to Washington if his wife had not bought government bonds during the depression.

The President told a group of business executives that Mrs. Johnson made it a rule for them to buy an $18.75 bond each month and when he ran for Congress, he cashed them in for nearly $3,000 to help finance his campaign.

The business executives are helping promote purchases of U.S. savings bonds under the payroll deduction plan.
