"Then I Put The Rifle Back In The Case"

Ralph L. Gilbert, 21, out of the state penitentiary just six weeks, tells J. B. Dooley, deputy sheriff of Tom Green County, how he shot his benefactor and employer, Clayton Stewart, to death. Gilbert led a posse to the isolated part of the Stewart ranch where Stewart's body was found in a car concealed in a cluster of cedars. (Other pictures and stories on Page 4-A).

Khrushchev Calls For Peace Talks At Once

Washington Wary Of Honest Intent

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Saturday night proposed a five-power summit conference by next Tuesday to head off war in the Middle East.

He suggested Geneva as the site but said he would go anywhere, even to Washington.

Washington promised to give the proposal prompt consideration. At the same time the United State called on the Soviet Union to "cooperate with other members of the U.N. security council to assure the independence and integrity of Lebanon."

The statement of U.S. reaction was issued by the State Department after Secretary of State Dulles had conferred by telephone with President Eisenhower, who is at Gettysburg, Pa.

The United States did not reject the idea of a summit meeting openly and officially although privately authorities considered that the wording and the instant publicity given it in Moscow left no doubt that it was another move in Russia's massive campaign to convince the world that the Western powers are risking an outbreak of war in the Middle East and doing so by illegal agressive action.

Khrushchev noted that both the United States and Russia have atomic, hydrogen and intercontinental weapons, and said:

"However, we consider that at this responsible hour it would be wiser not to bring the white hot atmosphere to a boiling point. . ."

Khrushchev sent separate invitation messages to the heads of government of the United States, Britain, France and India and and suggested U.N. Chief Dag Hammarskjold should attend.

Khrushchev's outlined plan apparently would have the chiefs of government call for an immediate standstill in the Mideast—where U.S. troops are in Lebanon and poised in forward staging areas of Turkey, and British forces are in Jordan and posed on Cyprus and elsewhere.

The letters were delivered to the ambassadors of the four countries. They were unceremoniously summoned to the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow at 10 p.m.

"The decision of peace or war," Khrushchev said in his letters to Eisenhower and Macmillan, "depends on you personally."

He charged that the Western Powers had brought the world to the brink of catastrophe in the Mideast.

"The aggressors," he said, apparently referring to the British and American forces landed in Lebanon and Jordan, "are playing with fire. Fire is always easier to start than to quench."

Khrushchev said he is ready to meet "any day and any time, the sooner the better."

MEET ANY PLACE

"The Soviet government is ready to meet at any place, including Washington if for any reason Geneva or the capital of some other neutral country should not suit the Western Powers," Khrushchev said.

"Most important is not to delay, not to waste precious time, for the guns have already started firing."

Khrushchev warned the Western Powers that the Soviet Union possesses "ballistics rockets of all varieties, including intercontinental."

"We know," he said, "that the United States has atomic and hydrogen bombs, that you have an air force and a navy.

"But you will know that the Soviet Union also has atomic and hydrogen bombs, an air force and a navy plus ballistics rockets of all varieties, including intercontinental."

Khrushchev's reference to ballistic rockets was the only direct threat in his letters.

He did not mention the ominous military maneuvers launched by the Soviet Union Friday in the Transcaucasus Military Command, an area bordering on Turkey and Iran.

Neither did he refer at all to President Nasser or the United Arab Republic with which the Soviet government officially ranged itself Friday in a blast against American and British moves in the Middle East.

The first impression of diplomatic observers in Moscow was that Khrushchev was not threatening Soviet intervention in the Middle East.

If anything, they said, Khrushchev's latest correspondence appeared to amount to an offer to bargain with the United States over the fate of the Middle East.

The letter to Eisenhower included a comradely reference to the United States and the Soviet Union as Allies in World War II. This was another indication, a Western diplomat said, that that Khrushchev was cajoling more than he was threatening.

Paratroopers Join Marines In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev called Saturday for the chiefs of the big world powers and India to meet by next Tuesday on the flaming Mideast crisis. He suggested U. N. chief Dag Hammarskjold should take part.

His call for an immediate summit meeting came as the United States flew 1,700 seasoned paratroopers from Turkey into Beirut to reinforce the 6,300 Marines on the Lebanese beachhead.

While they were landing, President Nasser of the United Arab Republic signed a treaty of mutual defense with the new revolutionary government of Iraq. The pact was signed in Damascus, capital of the Syrian province of the U.A.R.

INTO LIBYA

Britain's Ministry of Defense announced in London that a Royal Marine commando unit has been ordered to land at Tobruk, Libya, 100 miles west of Egypt. The British said the order was issued "in view of the disturbed situation in the Middle East. . ."

High tension still blanketed the Middle East as more U. S. troops moved into Lebanon.

A U.S. Navy fighter plane crashed in the mountains about 15 miles east of Beirut, killing the pilot. He was the only man aboard. Navy spokesmen said the plane's engine quit while the pilot, on a training flight, was too low to bail out.

A big transport plane flying in more Marines from the United States was hit twice by small arms fire outside Beirut, one shot narrowly missing the navigator.

PLANES HIT

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said two Navy planes flying over Lebanon Friday night returned to their carrier with bullet holes in them. The men aboard the planes were not injured.

In Beirut some Americans were caught up in the rebellion when rebels swarmed through the U.S. Mission School compound and attacked the main government building next door. Some windows were smashed in the mission, but no Americans were reported injured.

The main concern of the West was a possible Soviet move to counteract the arrival of U.S. forces in Lebanon and 2,000 British paratroopers in Jordan.

Some Western diplomats expressed the belief the Soviet Union might send "volunteers" to President Nasser's United Arab Republic as one result of the secret meeting between Nasser and Khrushchev in Moscow Thursday.

Ex-Convict Held Without Bail In Stewart Slaying

By SAM BLACKBURN

A young ranch hand Friday led officers to a lonely brush-covered spot and to the body of his murdered benefactor, Clayton Stewart, 87, prominent Howard County rancher.

Ralph Gilbert, 21, of San Angelo was held Saturday in the Howard County jail without bail on a charge of murder.

What had begun as a routine checkup by a Tom Green County sheriff into how an ex-convict, just six weeks out of the penitentiary, could be selling prime calves led to the disclosure of the brutal murder 20 hours earlier. Gilbert calmly told how he had ambushed Mr. Stewart at the headquarters of his eight-section ranch 14 miles south of Big Spring.

Gilbert's story led to solution of the crime before members of Mr. Stewart's family knew that he had been slain.

Absolved of complicity in the crime was John Perkins, 40, longtime employe of Mr. Stewart.

Within two hours after Gilbert had been picked up Friday at 3 p.m. for questioning in San Angelo relative to the sale of four calves, he had guided a cortege of Howard and Tom Green County officers to the remote spot where the body of the slain rancher was hidden.

HIDDEN IN BRUSH

The hiding place was deep in the heart of the Stewart ranch, reached over a dim and winding ranch road. The body in the De Soto sedan was well concealed in the midst of a dense cedar brake. Only a faint outline of the car's shape could be seen from the trail.

In this car, jammed between the front seat and the dashboard, with his bullet-shattered head on the floorboard under the steering column, was the body of Mr. Stewart—just as Gilbert had left it 20 hours earlier. It was covered with a blood-stained old blanket.

As Gilbert pointed out the death car and officers moved into the cedars for a closer look, John Perkins, 40-year-old Negro ranch hand—accused by Gilbert in his first story to officers as being an accomplice in the murder of their employer—sat in a police car 50 feet from the one in which Gilbert sat.

He stared at the scene before him with horror-filled eyes and declared to all passersby in a plaintive voice, "I didn't have nothing to do with this thing!"

NEGRO CLEARED

Several hours later, Gilbert revised his story and told Harris that he had lied—"John (Perkins) didn't have nothing to do with this.

"Me and him had a sort of run in earlier this week and I sort of planned to get him into this thing with me."

Perkins, four years an employe of Mr. Stewart on his ranch and well regarded by relatives of the rancher, had protested loudly from the outset of the investigation that he "had nothin' to do with this thing—I didn't even know it happened."

The officers released Perkins Friday night. Faithful to his employer, the Negro immediately returned to the ranch and took care of the chores and work which needed doing.

At the Howard County Courthouse, Gilbert was questioned by local officers, members of the Ranger force, and Tom Green County officials. There was no difficulty in getting the suspect to talk. He also talked freely to a Herald reporter.

"I've done a real bad thing," he said, "and I'll tell you all about it."

Told Saturday morning that he would be denied bond, the slayer said:

"I don't want out. I done a bad thing."

Gilbert's plan, as he outlined it, was to slay his benefactor, steal some of his cattle and sell them. He also took Stewart's gas credit card and planned to steal the ranch pickup truck. He likewise forged one check on his dead employer for $50 and cashed it in San Angelo. There were other checks in his billfold which bore what officers said was the forged signature of Stewart.

"I wanted to get out of the country," said the confessed slayer. "I had that girl in San Angelo—the one I had been living with before I was sent to the pen for forgery—and I wanted to get her and us to go someplace. I got a 4-year-old son, too, and she is his mother. I planned the thing Wednesday night.

Gilbert related that on Thursday morning, Mr. Stewart was up at 6 o'clock. He took Perkins in the pickup and drove him several miles from the ranch house to do some grubbing.

While Mr. Stewart was gone, Gilbert said he backed Mr. Stewart's car out of the garage. He took a blanket from Perkin's room and a .222 highpower rifle from the gun case in the main ranch house. He then went to the bunkhouse to wait the return of Mr. Stewart.

COULDN'T SHOOT

Sometime around 7 o'clock Mr. Stewart came back to the house. He walked past the open door of the bunkhouse. Inside, Gilbert stood with the rifle levelled at the rancher.

"I couldn't shoot," said the slayer. "I just couldn't pull the trigger."

Mr. Stewart walked on into the barn yard and later returned to the ranch house, again passing by the bunkhouse. While the rancher was in the house, Gilbert left the bunkhouse and ran around the corner, squatting behind a haymow—the blanket on the ground beside him and the rifle in his hands.

Mr. Stewart came out of the house and passed through the gate.

"I sighted at him down the rifle barrel," Gilbert said. "I still couldn't pull the trigger. Then I shut my eyes and squeezed. When I looked he was on the ground."

He left the rifle at the haymow and taking the blanket, covered the rancher.

He said he lugged the body to the car and sat his victim on the side opposite the steering wheel.

"I went back and got the gun," he related. "When I come back to the car, I saw Mr. Stewart move. I stuck the gun through the left hand window of the car and shot him in the head. He fell down between the seat and the dash board.

"I throwed the rifle in the back seat and got in the car. Mr. Stewart's head was pushing against my right leg so that I had trouble driving."

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

More activity calculated to put a still brighter sheen on our prospects was indicated in an announcement from the State Highway Commission Friday. Nearly $5 million were earmarked for construction and roadway of Interstate 20 (U. S. 80) in its swing around the north edge of town—east to west. This was set up for the 1959-60 program.

* * *

Seldom has the area sustained such punishing winds as those which seared crops from Monday through Friday. Sometimes they got up to 30 miles per hour or better, and one day brought 106 degrees.

* * *

All this had at least two effects. One was to put the crops at a critical stage. Feed was twisting badly and cotton was beginning to show signs of hurting. Showers Saturday were spotted and light, and heavier and more general coverage will be needed soon to keep prospects at their present level. The other effect was to boost water consumption — which averaged right at 9 million a day for the week. One day exceeded 9,400,000, only about 100,000 short of the record.

3-Powered Missile Explodes In Air

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An Atlas intercontinental missile fully powered for the first time with three mighty engines exploded high in the sky Saturday with a roar that shook the Florida coast.

The three engines, generating more than 350,000 pounds of thrust, propelled the mighty war weapon off its launching pad at 12:36 p.m. Forty-five seconds later, it blew apart with a brilliant flash of orange flame.

A malfunction in the control system was blamed by the Air Force for the spectacular mishap.

Driving the Atlas were two booster rockets and a main sustainer engine. The three units packed enough power to send the missile over the full 6,000-mile intercontinental range at speeds up to 15,000 miles an hour. Reportedly, however, the test was aimed only for a distance of about 2,500 miles.

Convair Astronautics, developer of the Atlas, said it also carried for the first time a wedge-shaped tactical nose cone designed to separate from the main rocket. In event of war, such a nose cone would house the missile's hydrogen warhead.

Had Saturday's test succeeded, Convair said this is what would have happened:

Two minutes after blastoff, the two booster rockets, their fuel exhausted, would have dropped away to lighten the missile. The sustainer engine would have propelled the warhead on up to the maximum speed of 15,000 miles an hour.

Eight hundred miles out in space, the warhead would have separated from the main body of the rocket and begun its plunge back to earth. After separation, the rocket body would have trailed the nose cone until, on re-entry into the earth's atmosphere, it would have been consumed by friction heat.

Tornadic Winds Rip Into Lubbock

By The Associated Press

Tornadic winds ripped through the southwest corner of Lubbock late Saturday, and a broken line of thunderstorms stretched from West Texas into Kansas.

At least 14 Lubbock residents said they spotted a funnel cloud. Weather Bureau men said they were convinced it was a small twister.

Damage, at first believed minor, was expected to run into thousands of dollars. The storm levelled a small building. Winds up to an estimated 80 m.p.h. raked a Lubbock area six to 10 blocks wide and 43 blocks long.

Absentee Vote Total Up To 155

One hundred and 55 absentee votes had been polled at the close of business by the office of the county clerk on Friday. Only two more days remain in which absentee votes can be cast. The deadline is Tuesday.

The law specifies that absentee voting must close three days prior to the election.

A step-up in interest has been manifest in the matter of absentee voting in the fading days of the period.

Army Men Released From East Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Nine U.S. Army men were freed after six weeks of captivity in Communist East Germany and returned here for a joyous reunion with their families.

The American Red Cross and the East German Red Cross completed the long negotiations for their release. The East German Communists claimed the release agreement amounted to recognition of their regime.

The men arrived in good health. They said they had been well treated and their spokesman told a news conference there had not been any forcible attempts at brainwashing them.

The men were seized after their helicopter strayed across the Iron Curtain in a thunderstorm June 7.

Maj. George E. Kemper, of Escondido, Calif., 43-year-old senior officer of the group, read a prepared statement to reporters. The men then answered questions.

Kemper reiterated statements that there was no intentional violation of Soviet zone territory, that the copter landed after its fuel dwindled, and that East German police first turned the men over to Soviet authorities.

The Russians questioned the pilots and several officers in the group, then turned them over to the East Germans, Kemper said.

Kemper and others in the group charged then they were being held as political hostages and disclosed they had been turned over to the Russians first.

Kemper's statement stressed that the group never had authentic information on negotiations for their release. The men said the news they were to be freed came as a surprise Saturday morning.

East Germany's Stalinist regime at once began trying to make political capital of their release. An official statement claimed the Red Cross agreement for the men's freedom "takes into account the reality, that is to say the existence of the German Democratic Republic as a sovereign state. No occupation rights can be claimed any longer."

U. S. government and Army authorities were deadlocked by Red demands which they believed might lead to American recognition of the East German government. The American Red Cross then began negotiations with the East German Red Cross for release of the nine men.

Final arrangements were made last week by Robert S. Wilson, American Red Cross director of operations in Europe, and Dr. Werner Ludwig, president of the East German Red Cross.

WEBB WILL FILE APPLICATION FOR 377 MORE HOUSING UNITS

An application for 377 additional Capehart housing units for Webb AFB will be filed Monday by air base officials.

This will be Webb's second effort to supplement the 460 houses now under construction near the base. A request for an additional 300 units was filed last year, but failed to clear all government channels.

The request is being filed on the basis of a survey of private housing available in Big Spring. The survey showed that 800 homes are needed to adequately serve present base personnel.

Federal Housing Administration officials have told Webb officials that the additional houses will receive favorable consideration "when the proper number, properly justified," is requested.

The application will be flown to Air Training Command headquarters at Randolph AFB Monday. If it is approved there, it will be submitted to Air Force headquarters and then to the Department of Defense.

The last Webb request for additional residential accommodations was filed approximately a year ago.

Money Allotted For Big Spring And C-City Freeway Loops

Nearly five million dollars of finances have been allocated to completion of Interstate 20 (U.S. 80) in Howard County.

While announcing allocation of funds for the 7.3 miles of road around Big Spring, together with right-of-way costs, the Texas Highway Commission announced Friday that another $2,345,000 had been earmarked for 7.2 miles around Colorado City.

The combined total of $6,743,000 absorbed all the construction funds allocated to the Abilene (No. 8) district for 1959-60.

However, the commission did authorize acquisition of right-of-way across Callahan County. This would leave only construction financing for that section of road to provide for completion of the expressway all the way across the district.

Jake Roberts, Abilene, district highway engineer, said that the highway commission had set aside $4,398,000 for construction of the 7.3 miles at Big Spring. The amount of right-of-way funds will depend upon final appraisals, but $459,000 was tagged for this purpose.

The route is basically the same as previously described, swinging from a point two miles east of town in a northwesterly direction to about NW 12th street. The route will go directly west to behind the oilmill area and then veer southwestward across the T&P tracks and come back into the present road near the airport three miles west of Big Spring.

There will be 17 grade separations. Frontage roads also will be included.

Construction funds authorized for Colorado City amounted to $2,345,000 to cover 7.2 miles beginning at a point three miles west of town and making a northerly arc to a point two miles east of Colorado City. There will be seven grade separations.

One immediate effect of Friday's order was to put all of the route in District No. 8 from the Martin-Howard County line to the Taylor-Callahan County line under authorization for construction or financing.

Another was to open the way for preparation of field notes on the route around Big Spring and the naming of appraisers as a means of starting to acquire the right-of-way, said Roberts.

Anticipating this project, the highway department has been utilizing waste dirt from a cut on Interstate 20 opposite Cosden to make a fill on the one of the overpasses to be built later east of Big Spring.

Friday the highway commission released $226,772,400 for 567 miles of interstate work. Commission Chairman Marshall Formby said this included $16,272,100 estimated right - of - way requirements and $210,495,300 for construction. In addition the commission tagged $33,322,500 for advance purchase of roadway on 659 miles of interstate highway at a later date.

In addition to the new work announced, Roberts said that field notes were being prepared for double laning of U. S. 87 north from Big Spring to the Martin County line. The state and Howard County will share evenly on expense of additional roadway for this project.

Fabulous Will Case To Trial Monday

CLEBURNE (AP)—The bell for the first round in the sensational J. E. Sexton will case is scheduled to ring out here Monday morning.

Sexton died in a Jacksonville, Tex., rest home Feb. 28 at the age of 80.

His estate has been estimated as high as 60 million dollars.

He left a will, witnessed by coffee drinkers in a Cleburne cafe, leaving his vast estate to Mrs. Agnes Kirk, operator of a Cleburne rest home where Sexton was a patient at times.

Petite, blue-eyed, shapely Mrs. Kirk, 40, said earlier she expected a bitter and lengthy fight over the will. She lives at Mansfield, 15 miles from here, is married and has 7 children.

A special judge, Atwood McDonald of Fort Worth, will hear the probate case. He was appointed by Gov. Price Daniel after County Judge Horatio Littlefair disqualified himself because of health.

Judge McDonald said the hearing will concern itself with which court shall have jurisdiction and whether the case should be heard elsewhere.

Any decision is expected to be appealed immediately to district court.

Sexton's kin filed suit in Henderson to validate a will made in 1948. The Henderson suit probably will be tried in August regardless of the outcome of the hearings here.

More than a dozen persons are claiming a part of the estate.

The principal claimants are:

Mrs. Kirk.

Sexton's sister, Mrs. R. E. Silbey of Overton, and four nieces—Mrs. Mozelle Silvey Pitner, Henderson; Mrs. O. L. Jacobs, Overton; Mrs. W. C. Beard, Raymondville; and Mrs. Q. C. Murphy, Longview. The kin were willed $100 each under the 1954 document.

Mrs. Windell Shipley, 32, and her daughter, Shirley Titus, 16, both of Cleburne. Mrs. Shipley claims she was the common-law wife of Sexton and that Shirley is his daughter.

Prisoner Files To Force Return To Local Court

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus has been lodged in the 118th District Court by David H. Roddy, now a prisoner in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. The mandamus is an effort to force federal authorities by orders of the court to bring the man to Big Spring where he can present his plea of a writ of habeas corpus before the 118th District Court.

Roddy alleges in his petition that he is facing a charge of forgery in this county. He alleges that he can establish his innocence to this charge if he is allowed to come to Big Spring and present his case.

Sheriff Miller Harris said that a charge of forgery is pending against the man but that he has not been indicted by the grand jury.

There was no indication on Saturday of the intention of the court in regard to the petition.

Taken To Prison

Sheriff Miller Harris left Saturday for Huntsville with two prisoners to begin serving terms in the state penitentiary. They are Pete Garza and Elias Narvias, who pleaded guilty a few days ago to possession of marijuana. Both were sentenced to four years in the state prison.

Water Carnival Scheduled At Park Pool Friday Eve

The eighth annual water carnival and swimming meet comes up Friday evening at the City Park Swimming pool.

Anticipating this event, YMCA officials announced that deadlines for swimming entries would fall Wednesday. There will be divisions for both junior and senior boys, but girls likely will compete in one division. There also will be contests in diving.

Also highlighting the annual event will be the crowning of the acquatic queen, chosen from among the instructors in the YMCA-city recreation swimming program. The instructors also will stage a water ballet.

Directing activities for the meet, for which there is no charge, will be Sue Gay.

Swimming contests include free style, breast stroke and back stroke over 40 yards distance for juniors (11-15 years of age), and in the same events over a 60-yard course for seniors (16 and above).

Unless there should be a sufficient number of entries, the girls will all compete in one division under 19 years of age and over a 40-yard course for free style, backstroke and breast stroke.

There will be junior and senior divisions in diving, and each contestants must do a front, back and front jackknife as well as four optional dives.

Polls To Be Open 9 Hours Saturday

Voters will have nine hours opportunity to cast their ballots in next Saturday's election—all voting places in the county will open their doors at 8 a.m. and remain open until 7 p.m. on that date.

Judges have selected their aides and made the physical arrangements necessary for the conduct of the election. Ballot boxes are being prepared by the county clerk's office—ample supplies of voting material being stuffed into each of the big metal containers to serve the voters in each precinct.

Voting places will be supervised by judges who are well informed on election procedures. At the close of voting on Saturday night, the judges and the clerks will tabulate the votes and bring their reports to the office of the county clerk.

The results will be totalled at this point.

Frank Hardesty, county Democratic chairman, said that only three changes in judges from the last election had been made.

The precincts, judges, and location of the voting boxes to serve the election are as follows:

Precinct 1, Big Spring, Truett Thomas, North Side High School.

Precinct 2, Big Spring Mrs. Buel G. Fox, Washington Place School.

Precinct 3, Big Spring, George Melear, Main Street Fire Station.

Precinct 4, Big Spring, S. P. Jones, City Hall fire station.

Precinct 5, Vincent, Willis Winters, Baptist Church Education Building.

Precinct 6, Gay Hill, O. R. Crow, Gay Hill School.

Precinct 10, Forsan, Mrs. John Kubecka, Forsan school.

Precinct 13, Knott, Cecil Allread, Knott school.

Precinct 15, Big Spring, Avery Deel, Runnels Street Junior High school.

Precinct 16, Big Spring, W. D. Berry, Park Hill school.

Special Canvassing board, Mrs. G. C. Broughton, Howard County Court House.

Monday Is Last Day For Clearing Up Voting Status

Qualified voters in Howard County who have removed from their old precincts and will vote in a different box have until four days before the election to officially request such changes be made in their voting status, Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax collector, said.

She explained that all a voter who needs a transfer is required to do is to come to her office and inform her of the change in his address. A transfer of his name from the old voting precinct list to the one in which he is now a resident will be made.

There is no charge for such transfers.

She said that the deadline is Monday since the law specifies that four full days before an election is the last date on which such applications for transfer can be accepted.

On Monday afternoon, she said, she will turn over the lists of voters compiled by her office to Mrs. Pauline Petty, county court clerk. The lists will be placed in the 16 ballot boxes for guidance ofthe election precinct officials in their work on July 26 at the democratic primary election.

Failure to make a transfer could prevent a voter from exercising his right of franchise. It is urged that all voters who are in need of such service make prompt application to Mrs. Robinson and make certain their election status is valid.

Absentee Polls Close Tuesday, Vote Is Light

Absentee voting closes for the Democratic primary at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Persons who need to cast their ballots in advance of next Saturday's voting must make their application and fill out their ballots by that time or forfeit their opportunity to express their wishes in the primary, Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said Saturday.

Not as many absentee votes have been requested for this primary election as has been the normal history of such voting in Howard County, Mrs. Petty reported.

The ballots, after they have been filled out, are deposited in a special locked box kept at the county clerk's office. On Saturday, this box will be turned over to the county special canvassing board at 1 p.m.

This board, headed by Mrs. G. C. Broughton, will take the box to the county law library on the third floor of the court house at that hour and begin official tabulation of the returns.

When the votes have been counted, the tabulations will be turned in to Mrs. Petty and added to the general totals for the county.

Stanton Needs Two Teachers

STANTON (SC)—With school here only six weeks away, the local school system lacks only two teachers having its faculty complete.

Supt. L. M. Hays announced that school would officially open on Sept. 2 with that week needed for registration, working out schedules and holding a workshop for faculty members.

The two vacancies in the system are for a combination math and science teacher for high school and an elementary school instructor.

New teachers recently hired include Corinne Cage of Presidio, a high school English teacher, and Mrs. Helen Irene Duke of Midland, elementary school.

Baptist Official Given New Post

The Rev. Taylor Pendley, associate superintendent of missions for the Dallas Baptist Assn., for the past six years, has been named superintendent of missions for the Permian Basin Assn., in the Midland-Odessa area.

He will begin work with the West Texas association Aug. 11 and will live in Midland.

A graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, the Rev. Pendley formerly pastored churches in Lubbock and Abernathy.

The Permian Basin Association includes 38 churches with 23,671 members. The churches last year recorded total gifts of $1,439,760 with $166,085 contributed to world missions through the cooperative program. Mr. and Mrs. Pendley have two daughters, Larue, 17, and Janice, 14.

Stallings Leading Insurance Writer

Louis E. Stallings, local representative of Great Southern Life Insurance Co., has qualified as a member of the company's Leaders Legion for 1958.

This group is limited to those Great Southerners who sell at least one-half million dollars of new life insurance in 12 months. Stallings earned his membership by placing $559,226 on 64 lives. He was one of 56 Great Southerners who qualified during the Club year ended June 30, 1958.

Political Interest Centers On Glasscock Judge's Race

GARDEN CITY — Politics in Glasscock County have not reached the peak of interest that some elections in the past have shown. This year the main interest seems to be in the County Judge's race where incumbent Dick Mitchell is opposed by Otto Dozier, present deputy sheriff.

The only other county-wide race is for the office of county and district clerk. Mrs. Vena Lawson, campaigning for another term, has Mrs. Martha Lowe as an opponent.

In the county commissioner's race, there will be a contest in only two boxes. In Precinct 2 incumbent Frank Ramsel faces W. J. Cox. The largest group of candidates are in Precinct 4 where Ted. W. Laughlin's decision not to seek re-election brought out four applicants for the job. They are Lois Blalock, Henry Hillger, H. W. Cross and Jack McNutt.

Glasscock County has about 455 eligible voters, according to the list kept at the county and district clerk's office. About 150 of these reside in or near Garden City. There are eight voting boxes in the county.

Tragic Finale Of A Long Colorful Life

Under these ragged, bloodstained blankets, officers found the bullet-shattered body of 87-year-old Clayton Stewart, widely known Howard County pioneer rancher. He had been shot two times in the head with a high-power rifle.

'I Done A Bad Thing,' Says Ex-Con; 'He Was A Fine Man'

By SAM BLACKBURN

"He was a fine man—the finest man I ever knew and the best boss I ever worked for."

The speaker was a stocky, blond-headed young man. He was sitting in a sheriff's car. He was handcuffed and he was watching with bloodshot eyes as officers were taking a body from another automobile just a few yards away.

The man who was being removed from the second car was George Clayton Stewart, 87, highly respected pioneer rancher of the Forsan community.

The speaker was an ex-convict from San Angelo and the admitted slayer of the man he eulogized as "the finest man" he ever knew. His name is Ralph Gilbert and he is 21 years old. He talked freely for officers and newspapermen.

"I done a bad thing," he said.

"I got out of the pen on June 3. I needed a job and I came to see Mr. Stewart. Mr. Stewart knowed I had been in the pen for forgery, but he gave me a job. He said I was a good worker.

"Ranch and farm work is all I ever done," he interpolated. "I ain't got no education—I just went one day in the seventh grade."

He went to work on the Stewart ranch on June 14.

Thursday morning he shot his employer to death.

"Why?" he was asked.

"Well," he said, "I just wanted to get me a little money together so me and my girl and my 4-year-old son could get out of the country."

He said he planned the crime Wednesday.

"I aimed to steal some of Mr. Stewart's cattle and sell them and then take the money and pull out," he said.

"I been in trouble with officers before," he admitted. "But never for nothing like this. I only done one term in the pen. That was two years for forgery—I was sent up from San Angelo. That was what I had just finished when I was turned out on June 3.

"I got a father in San Angelo. I got a four-year-old son there, too, and this here girl—she's the same girl I got in trouble about that other time."

"I don't want no bond set. I know I done a bad thing and I reckon it's better I stay in jail."

What made him try to involve John Perkins, his fellow ranch hand in the case.

"Well, I was a little mad at John and I thought it might help me to say he was in it but I decided later that wasn't right. So I told the officers, John didn't have nothing to do with it."

Unaware of the grim threat which hung over him, Stewart walked once past the muzzle of the high powered rifle unscathed, Gilbert said.

"The old man came out of the ranch house," he said. "I had the rifle and was standing in the bunk house. The door was open. I aimed the rifle at Mr. Stewart as he walked past the door. I tried to pull the trigger but I just couldn't. Mr. Stewart didn't know I was in the bunk house."

He related how Stewart again passed the door on his way back to the ranch house a few seconds later.

"When he went in the house," he said, "I ran out and around the corner of the bunk house and sort of hid back of a pile of hay.

"In a little while, Mr. Stewart came out of the house. He came through the gate toward where I was standing. He didn't see me. I aimed the rifle and tried to shoot. I finally just shut my eyes and pulled on the trigger. When I looked again he was lying on the ground."

He rubbed his red-rimmed eyes. "I didn't get no sleep last night," he said.

Had he forged any checks on Mr. Stewart?"

"Yes," he replied. "I forged one for $50 which I got cashed in San Angelo."

How did he get possession of the billfold and the gasoline credit card he had when arrested.

"After I took him down to the cedar brake, I took the billfold out of his pocket," he explained.

He sighed.

"I sure killed an innocent man," he muttered.

Ex-Convict Details Slaying Of Man Who Befriended Him and drove the car as deeply into the brush as he could. Then he took the rancher's billfold which contained the gas credit card. He pulled the blanket over the upper part of the body, closed up the windows in the car. He removed the rifle from the back seat and walked back to the ranch house across the hills.

At the ranch house he replaced the rifle in the case and changed clothes.

Getting into the pickup he drove to the place where Perkins was grubbing.

"I told John that Mr. Stewart had gone to town and had told me to get him and that we was to round up four of his best calves and take them to San Angelo and sell them. John didn't ask any questions."

The two men drove to a stock auction barn (Producers Livestock Auction Company) in San Angelo. Gilbert sold the four head of calves for $251.90. He used his own name.

The two men stayed in San Angelo until mid-afternoon and returned to the ranch. Perkins prepared a meal but Gilbert said "I couldn't eat nothing." Perkins remained at the ranch Thursday night and Gilbert returned to San Angelo where he said he stayed up all night. He was with his girl friend, he says, visiting beer taverns.

One of the odd things he accomplished, officers said, was a visit to a place where he once had passed a forged check. He paid off the bad check.

"I left San Angelo early Friday," he related, "and came back to the ranch. I told Perkins that Mr. Stewart had told us to round up and load seven of the very best calves and bring them to San Angelo to sell. We loaded the stock."

BUYS SON CLOTHES

At San Angelo, the stock was placed in an auction lot but Gilbert had to wait for the sale later in the day. He told Perkins to stay with the stock and "look for Mr. Stewart." He went back to see his girl friend. He also said he took his 4-year-old son and bought him a complete outfit of clothes. He cashed the forged check on Mr. Stewart for $50.

The auction barn operator became suspicious of the man, Perkins, too, was beginning to wonder about the odd developments. The auction barn official called Merle Stewart, son of the rancher, and the son also talked to Perkins.

Meantime word of the sale of four cattle by Ralph Gilbert had reached the ears of Chief Deputy J. B. Dooley, who had known the youth all of his life. He located Perkins who told him frantically that he was "sure something had happened to Mr. Stewart."

This was at 3 p.m. Friday. Some 15 minutes later, Gilbert was located in a San Angelo beer tavern and brought to jail.

Dooley said that no sooner had they reached the jail then Gilbert told him about the murder of Mr. Stewart and offered to take the officers to the place he had concealed the body.

Dooley called Sheriff Harris. Harris, Deputy E. W. York and Bobby West, investigator for office of the district attorney, accompanied by Walter Grice, justice of the peace, met Dooley, Gene Hill, Tom Green County jailer, and Ranger Ralph Rohatsch at the intersection of FM 821 and U. S. 87 shortly after 5 p.m. The two prisoners were with the San Angelo officers.

The official cars proceeded immediately to the ranch and on into the rough inner area and to the hidden car.

Other officers joined the group.

The body of the slain pioneer was removed from the car and taken to Nalley-Pickle Funeral home.

Officers searched the ranchhouse—taking custody of the rifle which Gilbert identified as the one he had used.

The complaint was drawn and signed by John Richard Coffee, county attorney, acting in the absence of Gil Jones, district attorney. Gilbert was charged with murder with malice aforethought. He waived examining trial and Grice denied bond.

Jury Commission To Select Panels

Jury commissioners for the new term of district court which opens on the last Monday in August will begin work selecting 240 petit jurors Monday morning. Judge Charlie Sullivan named the commissioners last week and instructed that they report to his court at 10 a.m. Monday.

It was being speculated that one of the members of the commission named by Judge Sullivan may be excused from duty, however. He is Merle Stewart, whose father Clayton Stewart, was shot to death Thursday.

The slayer is being held in the county jail and his fate will be considered by the next grand jury and possibly by members of the petit jury panel later on.

RANCHER FIRST AND LAST

Stewart Funeral At 3 P.M. Today

Funeral for Clayton Stewart, widely known West Texas rancher, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Nalley-Pickle Chapel.

Officiating will be Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor of the First Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. Luther Garner, pastor of the Forsan Baptist Church. Burial will be in the City Cemetery beside the grave of Mrs. Stewart, who died in April of 1946.

Few except his intimate friends realized that the erect, sunburned and handsome rancher had migrated to the Southwest to escape tuberculosis. Tough as a pine knot, he lived to be 87 years of age before an assassin's bullet cut him down Thursday morning.

Mr. Stewart was born Feb. 26, 1871 in Palmer, Ind., where he was married to Mary Belle Rigg on Oct. 13, 1897. Half a dozen years later they set out with three children for New Mexico. He traded for a ranch and later homesteaded one at Hagerman, N. M.

About the time the elder children were coming of school age, Mr. Stewart purchased a home here and acquired a seven and a half section ranch 14 miles south of Big Spring. The family, then numbering five children, arrived in January of 1913 in a covered wagon from New Mexico.

A rancher first and last, Mr. Stewart could bring himself to living in town only for short intervals. Except for a ranch hand or two, he had lived alone on his ranch for several years.

Seven years ago he submitted to serious surgery, from which some predicted he would never recover. But he did and was as active as a man 20 years his junior. Then on Nov. 29, 1955, he was in a car collision just south of Big Spring and sustained a broken neck, among other severe injuries. Once more he got up and in due time, and although trussed in a head brace, was driving his pickup. In deference to his children's protests, he hired a Negro man as his chauffeur. It wasn't until sometime later the family learned his driver couldn't drive.

Mr. Stewart at one time owned a ranch just over in Borden County, about 20 miles northeast of here. However, he never gave up his southern Howard County place.

Even at 87 he stood straight as a ramrod and was the person of dignity. In appearance, he matched the mental picture most people have of a rancher.

CLAYTON STEWART

Surviving are two sons, Merle J. Stewart, Big Spring, and Keith M. Stewart, Sweetwater; four daughters, Mrs. Johnny (Helen) Miller, Forsan, Mrs. Lucille Collins, Big Spring, Mrs. Lewis (Lola Belle) Rix, Lubbock, and Mrs. C. L. (LaVerne) Yeatmann, Coleman. He also leaves 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Other survivors are a brother, Ross Stewart, Valparaiso, Ind., and a sister, Mrs. Alice Vickers, Lincoln, Neb.

Pallbearers will be Bill Conger and Clay Bedell of Forsan, and Lorin McDowell, M. M. Edwards, T. S. Currie Jr., Walter Anderson.

For the past year I have been honored to serve as County Attorney of Howard County.

I have tried to discharge the duties faithfully and fairly. On this basis, I'm asking you to elect me to serve the remaining two years of this term.

Since my father was and is a practicing attorney here, I was reared in the legal tradition. When I completed high school here, I went on to earn my law degree and license to practice law.

We chose to return to Big Spring and Howard County because here is a good place to rear a family and make whatever contribution we can to our community. I sincerely hope that you will let me continue to do that as your County Attorney.

Work on the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College is moving along on schedule, and the project is approximately halfway toward completion. Located east of the Music Building on Adams Blvd., the big structure will contain approximately 20,000 square feet when complete. All the structural steel work is complete, and most of the outside masonry is in place. The recessed brick panels on the wall at left are done in glazed blue brick laid in a stack pattern. Duct work for air conditiong is being installed. As soon as the building is enclosed, interior floors will be poured. Included in the structure will be a large dining room and kitchen, snack bar and student lounge, small dining room, student publications and activities rooms and managers offices, together with lounges. There will be a large patio, set off by planters and glassed-in areas, in the center. A. P. Kasch & Sons are builders, Puckett & French the architect-engineer.

World Situation Fails To Halt Stock Advance

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market breasted the storm of hectic international news this week and advanced to another 1958 peak.

It was a bull market in steels, aircrafts and other stocks related to the nation's defense needs but foods, drugs, tobaccos, gold mining issues and the like fared indifferently.

Oils with big resources in the Middle East were buffeted by the crisis there and took sharp losses. Oils with main resources in the western hemisphere made big gains.

It was the market's fourth straight weekly rise. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $1.00 to $178.10, its highest level since last Aug. 16.

Trading was almost the heaviest of the year. The daily average of 3,083,028 shares was the highest since the week ended Jan. 4 when the average was 3,266,795 for the four days, including the two final sessions of 1957 and the first two of 1958 Tax-loss selling and reinvestment boosted totals then.

For a full, five-day trading this week's 15,415,140 shares was the largest total since 20,804,199 shares were traded in the week ended last Oct. 26. That was the week the market hit a two-year bottom.

News of the pro-Nasser coup in oil-rich Iraq sent the market on Monday to its worst decline of the year. Big international oils such as Texas Co. and Gulf Oil broke more than 4 points. Despite a higher steel industry operating rate, steel shares and other industrials joined in a general retreat. But the Monday volume of 2,540,000 shares was moderate compared with transactions on succeeding days. The decline was due not so much to a frantic rush of selling as to a drying-up of buying, based on extreme uncertainty.

Car Inventories Take Another Drop

DETROIT (AP) — Dealer new car inventories no longer are much of a problem for the auto industry.

The auto makers took another big bite oiut of the stock of unsold cars last month. In dealer hands on July 1 were 673,000 cars. A month earlier the retailers held 741,251 cars.

A modest firming of the sales rate figured to some extent in the inventory reduction. But curtailed factory output was the major reason. Car assemblies so far this year are about 1¼ million units below the total of comparable 1957.

Stanton To Vote Monday On Urban Renewal Proposition

STANTON — Property owners of Stanton will have a chance to vote Monday on an investigation of the Urban Renewal Plan at a special election July 21.

The election will not result in the adoption or rejection of the plan, but will decide if the people are willing for the city council to appoint an investigating committee which will study the plan further. Afterwards, if the plan seems feasible, another election would be called.

The water shortage is by far the most important issue, but there are others demanding attention. More paved streets, draining the wet weather lake south of the railroad and enlarging the sewage disposal system would all be included in the plan, according to G. B. Shelbourne, city judge and treasurer.

The lake has long been a problem, but will become more troublesome as it fills up and additional streets are paved. This will increase water run-off and raise the level of the lake, which could cause serious flooding. Several times the water has reached across the highway and creeped near the entrances of business buildings. If the town ever receives a hard six-inch rain, as other cities have, half the town would be flooded.

"Draining the lake will be an expensive undertaking," said Shelbourne. "We have only two ways to do it. We can dig a ditch eastward down the T&P until we get to the lower slopes, and then dump the water on private property. This, of course, would have to be settled with the property owner, and might cost us quite a lot."

There would be two methods of consideration in disposing of the water along the railroad. These would be by pumping it over the hill or by putting a pipe through the hill and using gravity flow.

"That would cost a tremendous amount of money," Shelbourne said, "because at its lowest place that hill is 38 feet above the surface of the lake."

The other solution in draining the water would be to dig recharge wells such as some irrigation farmers use. This would be much slower and possibly take several days to lower the level of the flood water.

"Still another problem in this plan would be the health hazard," Shelbourne said. "Dumping this contaminated water back down into the underground water sands might be a bad thing for the existing wells."

The sewage disposal plant was built for a total of 2,500 to 3,000 people. The estimated population of Stanton is now slightly over 3,000 and has doubled since 1950. During wet weather the system can hardly take care of the demand.

Another problem that persists but is not critical is that of paving. One business man said Stanton had fewer paved streets than any town its size in West Texas. Most of this paving was done in co-operation with the Highway Department and the county. Some of the best residential areas do not have paved streets.

Still another part of the Urban Renewal Plan is that of housing. This can be a touchy subject, some business men say. In some cities it could mean the obliteration of slum areas and the re-location of low income families.

"We don't know how much of this we would be compelled to use," Shelbourne said. "Certainly we are not interested in re-locating anybody. The most worthwhile part of this housing provision is that these families could possibly borrow money on long terms and low interest rates, and then build better homes of their own. In this way they could do much for themselves in cleaning up the area and making it more livable."

If the voters approve the ballot in Monday's election, the investigating committees appointed by the city council will start work. If the "nays" are in the majority, the Urban Renewal Plan will be shelved, and Stanton will try to solve its problems without outside help.

Evidences That Business Definitely Is On Uptrend

By WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Further evidence of improving business came to light this week. The trend now is as unmistakeably up as it was down at this time a year ago.

Whether the current move is merely a rally in a long term decline, or truly the beginning of another cyclical upturn, is still unknown. International developments strongly suggest heavy government defense expenditures and additional inflationary price rises.

The entry of American troops into Lebanon and British troops into Jordan quite naturally makes many Americans fearful of another Korea. Actually, no fighting has as yet occurred, but the international events helped produce dramatic activity in the market place.

STOCKS AT PEAK

Stocks rose to new highs for the year in active trading. A feature was the relative strength of securities in such cyclical industries as steel, copper and rails. Conversely, utilities and gold mining shares, usually regarded as "defensive" investment areas during recessionary periods, lagged.

Late Friday the Federal Reserve Board said it would buy government bonds to stabilize the market, which has been dropping sharply.

The volatile commodity markets boomed, a fact about which purchasing agents of corporations can hardly be unaware. Rises in these market prices can change a lot of thinking about inventories. Both domestic and international commodities advanced — soybeans as well as copper, corn as well as wool.

There were other indications of price firmness. Both wholesale and retail gasoline quotations went up in some areas. The largest producer of copper — Kennecott — hiked the price of the red metal. Steel scrap prices rose in Chicago, a good indication of quickening demand for steel.

More money is going into public hands. Personal income rose in June, largely because of an upturn in wage and salary payments. Manufacturing payrolls advanced for the second straight month after 10 months of decline. Industrial production also rose in June for the second straight month.

Major indices are, of course, well under a year ago. Steel production, electricity output, crude oil outturn, coal production, freight carloadings, bank clearings — all these are below the same date in 1958. Yet it is the trend which is important, not the absolute position.

And in the case of each of these significant weekly business barometers there had been an upturn from the year's lows.

Briefly over the business scene: More people want to get wet: Chemical Week, a trade magazine, says there are over 100,000 private pools in the U. S. now compared with 2,500 only 10 years ago. . . . Like to eat? . . . More beef is on the way as the number of cattle on feed July 1 was 16 per cent higher than a year ago.

Church Meet Closing Today

With the services at 7:30 p.m. today, the annual Texas State Camp Meeting closes out a six-day session held here at the First Church of God, which is affiliated with the Anderson Movement.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the State, under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd G. Butler, has met daily in the meeting.

Those attending the meeting have expressed themselves as well satisfied with the manner in which they have been entertained in the homes of the local congregation, motels and hotels of the city. The location of next year's meeting has not yet been decided.

The last service will feature gospel singing by the quartet from Gulf Coast Bible College of Houston, and the preaching of Dr. Boyce W. Blackwelder of Erie, Pa., who has been the evangelist for the series of meetings.

The program for today is as follows: Vacation Church School 9:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.; general service from 11 to 12:15, with V. Ward Jackson as chairman (public is invited); Texas for Christ Day service from 2:45 to 4 p.m. with Lloyd Butler as speaker; 7:30 to 9 p.m., closing service under Dr. Blackwelder, with Henry E. White of Hubbard as chairman.

Negro Youth Helps Little Girl's Brother Resuscitate Her After A Near-Drowning

HOUSTON (AP)—Ronnie Scott, 11, threw two cane poles over his shoulder yesterday and sauntered down to Sims Bayou with his 7-year-old sister.

Ronnie baited Barbara Ann's hook with a worm, and threw her line into the water. "Stay here," he told her, "I'm going around the bend to see if the catfish are biting."

Ronnie returned a few minutes later to find Barbara missing. Her cane pole lay on the bank, the cork bobbing.

The boy's heart jumped. Below the cork he could see strands of his sister's blonde hair floating to the surface. He pulled on the line. Barbara's face came to the surface, the fishhook in her ear.

Ronnie dove into the water, pulled his unconscious sister to shore by the hair of her head.

Ronnie attempted artificial respiration. He was too excited.

He rushed to a nearby road and began appealing to passing motorists for help. The drivers of six cars stared at the boy, and passed on.

Then a truck driver stopped. He followed Ronnie to where the girl lay. But it was no good. The man was too excited. "I'm afraid I'll hurt her," he said hoarsely.

Larry Edwards, 16-year-old Negro, heard the commotion from a bus stop. He rushed up. "I'll give her oxygen," Larry said.

Larry put his finger into Barbara's mouth, cleaning out gobs of mud. Then he worked over her for 45 minutes, pumping air into her lungs, until the girl could breathe without assistance.

Barbara was rushed to Methodist Hospital, where her stomach was pumped out.

She was home today, a bit water-logged, but well.

She couldn't keep hands off her big brother. "I love him," she said happily. Ronnie smiled broadly.

"I don't know how we can tell that Edwards boy how much we appreciate what he did for Barbara," Roy F. Scott, the father exclaimed. "And that truck driver too," he added.

The truck driver, whoever he was, disappeared without leaving his name.

Iraq Rebels Pledge Not To Stop Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iraq's revolutionary regime disclosed Saturday it has ended Baghdad's six-month old union with neighboring Jordan.

At the same time the Iraqi rebels who seized power last Monday pledged to keep oil flowing to Western customers and promised to cooperate in evacuating Americans who want to leave the revolt-scarred country.

These three developments, reported in rapid fire fashion, were aimed at improving tense relations with Western nations while undercuting the claim of young King Hussein of Jordan that he now is head of the Jordan-Iraq union.

The two Arab neighbors signed a federation agreement last Feb. 14 as a counter move to the United Arab Republic set up by Egypt and Syria. King Faisal of Iraq was proclaimed head of the Jordan-Iraq union May 19 with Hussein as his deputy.

The 23-year-old Faisal was reported slain in the violent coup which swept his pro-Western government out of office in a few hours Monday. Hussein then declared himself chief of the union and threatened to lead his army into Iraq to avenge his cousin's death.

NO RELATIONSHIP

"As far as we are concerned King Hussein has no relationship whatsoever with us now," the Iraq Embassy said Saturday.

Saleh Mahdi, ranking embassy diplomat who said he now represents the rebel regime, reported he informed the State Department of this in a note Friday.

The department confirmed receipt of the message but declined to comment on it. Mahdi has no formal diplomatic status it was pointed out, since the United States has not recognized the new regime.

The department revealed, however, that the U. S. ambassador in Baghdad had approached the rebel leaders and obtained promises that Americans will be allowed to leave the country without interference.

Four chartered Pan American Airways airliners, now in Ankara, Turkey, will begin the mass air evacuation within a few days.

Some 1,200 of the 1,964 Americans in Iraq are understood to be ready to leave, including many wives and children of diplomats and U. S. military personnel.

Oil from Iraq, the world's sixth biggest producer, apparently will continue to flow in accord with existing contracts.

The Iraq Embassy gave assurance to this effect because, it said, of the great importance of oil to the world economy.

All necessary steps, have been taken, it said, to protect oil wells pumping stations, pipelines and other equipment of the British-operated oil company in Iraq.

Congressmen See Some Hope Of Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conciliatory gestures by the revolutionary regime of Iraq fanned hope in Congress Saturday that a way may be opening for moves which could lead to some settlement of the Middle East crisis.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), a Foreign Relations Committee member, said a series of gestures by representatives of the Baghdad rebels indicates to him there is some possibility of dealing directly with the situation if the United Nations does not act.

Saleh Mahdi, ranking diplomat at the Iraqi Embassy, reported to the State Department Saturday the new regime is ready to cooperate with the United States for the evacuation of 1,964 Americans in Iraq if the department believes this necessary.

Mahdi said he sees no need for the Americans to leave, however. The State Department is sending in four chartered commercial planes for the removal of any Americans who may wish to leave Iraq.

Previously the Baghdad Radio had said the new regime would honor existing agreements with Western oil companies. The Iraqi Embassy reiterated this Saturday. Spokesman had announced also that the new regime would adhere to the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

"I don't think we ought to shunt these gestures aside," Mansfield said in an interview. "Perhaps some way can be found to reach a basis of understanding which could lead toward a settlement. Some of the leaders have said they have no use for communism and have denied their revolt was Communist-inspired.

Secretary of State Dulles was reported to have told members of the Senate Appropriations Committee in a closed session Friday that this country would never intervene in any revolution it was convinced was indigenous and not inspired by outside influences.

While there was no indication Dulles feels these conditions apply to the Iraqi revolt, committee members said this government still lacks detailed information on what is going on in that country.

50th Wedding Date Observed

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Merrick of Sand Springs marked their Golden Wedding anniversary Saturday. They were married in the Moore Community on July 19, 1908. She is the former Ima Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Walker. Her father was a minister of the Church of Christ.

The couple moved to Sand Springs in 1922 and farmed in the area where the town now stands. Merrick sold the land in small portions and has now retired from farming.

There are three sons, Walker and Bobby Merrick, both of whom live in Sand Springs, and Travis Merrick of Gridley, Calif., and two daughters, Mrs. Travis Crowder and Mrs. Nelta Smart, both of Sand Springs.

The couple has nine grandchildren and one great grandchild. Ramona Kaye Frazier.

News that the production pattern had been upped by two days to 11 was certainly welcome and if sustained will step up work-overs and drilling. Conservatively, the order will mean a gross of over $100,000 more per month to Howard County, and probably $250,000 for the immediate area.

GOP Scrap In Dallas County Could Decide Senate Contest

DALLAS (AP)—Will a Republican vote battle in Dallas decide who will be junior U.S. senator from Texas?

It just could be.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough and William Blakley of Dallas are fighting a torrid battle for the Democratic nomination ot the Senate, tantamount to electio.

One can get opinions either way as to who will win. Yarborough has been conceded an edge by some observers, but Blakley has been campaigning strongly.

Dallas County, with 223,500 paid poll taxes, is a key area. Normally it is strongly conservative, even to the extent of electing Texas' only Republican congressman, Rep. Bruce Alger.

And thereby hangs the difficulty.

Alger has a labor leader opposing him in the Republican primary and the Republicans are doing all they can to get Republicans and all conservatives possible to vote in the GOP primary for Alger. That, naturally, means they won't be able to vote for Blakley in the Democratic primary. Blakley is generally conceded the conservative vote and Yarborough the liberal.

It is only a two-man race and a mere handful of votes could swing it.

Gov. Price Daniel beat Yarborough in the runoff for the governorship in 1956 by some 3,000 votes. Dallas County gave Daniel a 20,000-vote margin. Thus Yarborough would be governor today had he swung Dallas County.

Conservatives therefore face a hard choice:

Should they enter the Republican primary to help keep Alger's job?

Or should they vote in the Democratic primary to enhance Blakley's chances?

But it works both ways, too.

Liberals favoring Yarborough over Blakley and out to stop Alger face a choice as hard.

Republicans have invited Democrats into the GOP primary. And Democrats have pleaded with Demo conservatives to stick with the party.

Alger's opponent is Grover Cantrell, a labor leader who says he's a Stevenson Republican. Cantrell had to go to court to get on the ballot.

Dallas County Republican Chairman Maurice Carlson told party officers recently Blakley cannot win against Yarborough and votes for him would be wasted.

Blakley took a different view. In a Dallas speech he urged hard work on his behalf and said later, "I know . . . this is a campaign we are going to win."

Yarborough was no less optimistic ."We are greatly encouraged . . . I have been told that we have more support than ever before."

But keep your eye on Dallas County the night of July 26.

Snorkel Sub Snags On Bar Pulled Off Without Loss

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) —The snorkel submarine Piper caught on a sand bar in clam seas off this fishing and resort town early Saturday, set into high gear Navy rescue operations that ultimately were not needed. The sub was pulled free 6½ hours later.

The Piper, out of New London, Conn., was riding the surface as dawn broke when it suddenly halted, held fast on Wood End Bar. It was making calibration tests along a measured mile course.

Word of its plight was flashed to New London and to Boston. The submarine rescue ship Sunbird sped from New London, and the Navy asked radio and TV stations in Boston to broadcast an appeal for the crew of another rescue craft, Skylark, to report to their ship immediately.

Before either vessel had reached this town, on the tip of Cape Cod, the Piper was pulled off its sandy perch by the Coast Guard Cutter Frederick Lee.

The Navy said it apparently had suffered no damage and proceeded under its own power to New London.

Three members of the fire department left here early today for College Station and the annual Fireman's Training School.

Capt. A. D. Meador, Edison Taylor, and Lloyd Claxton left here for the school to be held at Texas A&M. Meador will take the fire marshal's course, while the others will have the regular fire-fighting school which begins Monday.

Fire Chief H. V. Crocker is already in College Station, having gone the middle of last week. Crocker is an instructor this year, and all instructors arrived before start of the school for special training.

The school will continue through the end of this week.

Patton will spend his nights in the jailer's quarters on the fourth floor of the court house.

Troops Are Told They're On A Peace Mission

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower told U. S. forces in Lebanon Saturday that they are on a mission of peace and that the United States has no hostile intent toward any people anywhere.

"You are helping the Lebanese people to remain free," Eisenhower said in a four-minute recorded radio message to the American forces.

"You are there at their invitation—as friends—to preserve for them the same freedoms that we have here at home."

The President recorded the message at the White House shortly before flying by helicopter to his Gettysburg country estate for an overnight respite from Washington tensions of the Middle East crisis.

He made arrangements for a fast return to Washington if necessary. The two helicopters that flew him and Secret Service men to the farm were kept here for instant use.

REPRESENTING U.S.A.

In his message to the American forces, Eisenhower cautioned against attempts to involve them in incidents designed for propaganda purposes.

"While on this duty," he said, "you may be assailed by propaganda whipped up by skillful and ambitious men."

"Through it all," he said, "just remember you are representing the United States of America — that you are true to her ideals in helping a people to keep their freedom."

Eisenhower addressed his message to all U.S.forces "who are now in Lebanon, on the Mediterranean Sea, or in the skies over that area."

He reaffirmed his earlier pledge they will be withdrawn the moment "the independence and integrity of Lebanon are secure."

The United States, he added, will continue its efforts to get the United Nations to take over the job of keeping Lebanon free.

Flipped Hood Blocks Vision, Loses Control

Manuel Alderele, Dermott, had the hood of his car flip up in his face Saturday, and before it was over he had collected an iron sign and a telephone pole.

The state highway patrol reported that Alderele was driving on FM 2032 some eight miles west of Vincent when the errant hood on his 1950 Buick blocked his vision. He plowed into the posts near the Reef Fields plant and got a ticket for driving too fast to maintain control.

At 8 p.m. Elmer Lloyd Turnbow, Odessa, driving a 1955 Ford and Jim Bob Roberts, Big Spring, driving a 1958 Chevrolet, sideswiped a short distance southwest of Vincent on State 350. Turnbow was brought to a hospital here for treatment of a possible elbow fracture. Roberts was unhurt.

Two cars collided at Coahoma Saturday noon as one turned off the highway toward a cafe, but only minor damage occurred.

The child died on Friday afternoon at a Big Spring hospital. She was born on July 15.

survivors include the parents, one brother, Jessie Amaro Jr., the grandfathers Pete Amaro and Manuel Pineda, both of Big Spring, and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Suelema Hernandez, Odessa.

Big Cotton, Sorghum Yield In Prospect For The State

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas farmers and ranchers are cutting a swath northward through cotton and grain sorghum fields which promise to yield the best crops in about a decade, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said Saturday.

Ranges, except west of the Pecos, still are in good condition and much hay is still being baled and generally in good condition. Rice and peanuts are off to a good start and truck crops in central and northeast Texas are moving to market in much quantity.

Grain sorghum harvest ranges from its peak in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and well underway in the coastal bend to maturing in central Texas and planted and growing well in the Panhandle. Cotton harvest was reported as far north as Bee County where the first bale was ginned recently.

In the Panhandle enough moisture has fallen for volunteer wheat to germinate and for pastures and ranges to improve, said Knox Parr at Amarillo. Wheat farmers are plowing their stubble land in preparation for another crop, and cotton and grain sorghum acreage is planted and growing.

The Edwards Plateau needs rain. However, there still is adequate sub - moisture for cotton and grain sorghum except in the Sweetwater-Colorado City section, Roy L. Huckabee reported from San Angelo. Livestock remains in fair to good condition and pastures are fair.

Cotton and grain sorghum in the South Plains continue to make good growth except in the Gaines-Terry - Dawson counties section where the surface is getting very dry, said W. H. Jones at Lubbock. The whole area can use a good general rain.

Crop prospects in the rolling plains still are very good, added James G. Simmons at Vernon.

Strong winds are fast depleting much of the surface moisture in vast Central Texas where corn and grain sorghum are maturing and cotton is fruiting, R. G. Burwell said at Stephenville. Range and pasture grass is drying out, but livestock still are in good condition.

Goldfine's Son In Suicide Attempt

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — H. Maxwell Goldfine, son of industrialist Bernard Goldfine, slashed himself witha razor blade in a suicide attempt Saturday while his beautiful blonde wife begged him not to kill himself.

Police rushed the 36-year-old Goldfine to Sarasota Memorial Hospital in a squad car. Doctors reported most of the "80 to 100" razor cuts were superficial and said he would recover.

It was 4:06 a.m. when Manager Stanley Harwood of the Sun Tide Motel called police to report a disturbance in the Goldfines' room.

When patrolman Donald G. Elie arrived, Goldfine's estranged wife, Claire, said her husband was locked in the bathroom and "I think he is committing suicide."

Elie, a friend of Goldfine, called to him through the door but Goldfine refused to come out. When Elie threatened to break down the door, Goldfine stumbled out, dressed only in shorts and spattered with blood.

"He told me the wounds were self-inflicted," Elie reported.

Goldfine refused to be taken to the hospital in an ambulance and said he would go only in a police car. The bathroom floor and fixtures were covered with blood.

Mrs, Goldfine, a Sarasota girl and former night club singer who used the name Laurie Dale, and Goldfine were married 18 months ago while she was appearing at a Boston night spot. She is the daughter of Mrs, Martha Ferren of Tampa. Goldfine has two children by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Goldfine arrived in Sarasota two weeks ago to establish residence prior to filing suit for divorce. Her husband arrived Friday to seek a reconciliation.

Rocks, Bricks Used To Enter Business Firms

Rocks and bricks were used by burglars to break and enter four businesses on the North Side Friday night, with the loot hauled away including meat, clothing, and pistol.

Alexander's Grocery, the North Side Drug, Bolinger Variety Store, and Jabor's Dry Goods on the North Side were burglarized sometime Friday night, and rocks or bricks were used in each case to break out windows for entrances.

At Alexander's Grocer, 300 N. Gregg, burglars took a rock and broke out a window on the south side, police officers reported. Taken were 25 pounds of steak, some sausage, and a box of .410 gauge shotgun shells.

A .22 caliber six-shot pistol, a silver dollar, six religious necklaces, a few sport shirts, and some inexpensive rings were stolen from the Bolinger Variety, 301 N. Gregg. And here, police officers reported that a brick was employed to knock the glass from the front door.

At the North Side Drug, 303 N. Gregg, a plate glass was broken out, and some cigarettes and possibly a necklace were taken.

About 20 girl's dresses were taken when burglars hit Jabor's Dry Goods, 308 N. Gregg. And a plate glass was broken out to gain entry here, the police said.

Showers Dampen Big Spring Area

Light and widely scattered thundershowers tantalized this area Saturday.

Reports, although scant, indicated no substantial moisture except in the central and northeast part of Big Spring.

The Herald measured .21 of an inch at 8th and Scurry while Texas Electric Service Company had .30 at the plant at NE 2nd and N. Goliad. A couple of miles to the east of that point, the switching station gauged .4 of an inch.

Only sprinkles were reported at Morgan Creek plant (four miles southwest of Colorado City) and the same was true of Luther and Fairview in north central Howard. The Big Spring pumping station at Lake J. B. Thomas likewise had sprinkles.

Lightning struck a post in the W. E. Knight yard at 1205 Marijo. Mrs. Knight said the house was filled with a sudden bright light and the TV and radio smoked. No one was hurt.

This is the first of a series of sessions of the commissioners as a board of equalization.

The police department continued its fight against speeders in Big Spring last week, and the speeders continued to be fined for their sins.

During the past week, fines of $817 were assessed in coporation court for speeding. This total represents the fines from 68 speeding tickets.

The charges ranged from $30 to $5, with the usual fine being $1 per mile over the 30 m.p.h. limit. Most of the fines were for $10, however.

Races In Only Four Districts For Texas Congressional Seats

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
AP Staff Writer

Texas Democrats nominate 22 men for the U. S. House of Representatives next Saturday and the Republicans three. But most of the candidates can relax—they have no opposition.

Contests for Democratic nomination developed in only four districts. The Republicans have one contest, but it is the wildest political situation of this year's campaigning.

The Republican contest is in Dallas County, where labor leader Grover Cantrell announced as a GOP hopeful. This put him in opposition to Bruce Alger, only Republican in the Texas congressional delegation.

This could force Republicans to remain in their own primary in an attempt to save Alger's job, since a possibility exists that union members will vote GOP to support Cantrell.

Democrats frequently complain that Republicans vote in Democratic primaries to support Democrats with conservative leanings.

The complications are many. Should liberal-labor voters swing to the GOP primary to support Cantrell, it could weaken liberal-labor candidates in other statewide races. If conservative Democrats vote for Alger in great numbers, their absence in the Democratic primary could have great influence on state races.

Three Democrats vie for the Dallas County nomination and the right to face the Alger-Cantrell winner.

NEW DISTRICT

Only State Rep. Joe Pool and State Rep. Barefoot Sanders, both attorneys, have been active. The third candidate is James M Shepard, an appliance salesman. Pool is campaigning on a platform of rock-hard conservatism. Sanders is stressing his party loyalty.

The state will have a 22nd Congressional District this year for the first time. It replaces the former Congressman-at-large designation now held by Martin Dies, who is not a candidate. The new district is composed of Harris County, which will have two congressmen.

Four Democrats are seeking nomination in Dist. 22. They are:

Bob Casey, county judge for seven years and a former legislator. He favors strong local self-government, an end to what he calls foreign "giveaways," and advocates a strong national defense program.

Roy B. Oakes, city controller for 31 years. He advocates a decentralized government, less taxes as soon as the federal deficit is reduced, and foreign aid only for military purposes.

Rolland Bradley, attorney and former legislator. He favors a strong NATO, local self-government, and recapture by Congress of powers now held by the executive and judiciary.

George W. Eddy, attorney and former assistant city attorney. He opposes right-to-work laws when they regulate internal affairs of a union, regulation of oil imports by tariffs, support of the Supreme Court, and more social security.

The winner will face T. Everton Kennerly, an attorney who has no opposition in the GOP primary.

IN EAST TEXAS

Rep. John Dowdy of Athens faces E. A. Stanfield of Lufkin in the 7th District Democratic primary. Stanfield was an FBI agent for nine years and now is personnel director of the Lufkin Foundry and Machine Co. Both are campaigning actively.

The winner of this contest will face Republican Joseph E. A. Rose of Rusk in the general election, who has no opponent in the GOP primary. Rusk is the only Republican congressional candidate outside Harris and Dallas counties.

Rep. Lindley Beckworth, a strong campaigner, faces Fred Hudson for the Democratic nomination in the 3rd District in East Texas. Hudson is district attorney for Panola and Shelby counties and has been campaigning actively. So has Beckworth.

Wins WTCC District Award

Barbara Jane Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith of Stanton, not only won her home town essay contest of "what my community can do to encourage industry" but did much better. Her essay was picked as the best in district No. 6 which encompasses territory from Big Spring to Odessa and Lamesa to Big Lake. Finley Rodes, president of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, made the presentation of a certificate to Miss Smith. A May graduate in Stanton, she plans to enter Texas Tech, either as an education or business major.

VETERINARIAN WRITES

Intestinal Diseases Are Pig Problem

By Dr. AKIN M. SIMPSON

One of the most costly animal disease problems which may appear on farms during the summer is swine enteritis. The term enteritis is actually applied to several similar diseases which result from several different causes. Proper control measures are extremely important in fighting the group of diseases.

One disease seems to be most common during the period from early summer to fall. That type is called necrotic enteritis, a chronic inflammation of the intestine.

There are other types which are not necessarily so prevalent during the summer. The chief one is hemmorhagic dysentery, a type of bowel infection which may occur at any time in the year. This infection usually takes the acute form and usually results in a high rate of mortality.

Necrotic enteritis affects pigs from weaning age until they weigh about 100 pounds. Hemmorhagic dysentery, on the other hand, may affect hogs of any age and size.

Enteritis simply means inflammation of the intestine. And one of the outstanding symptons of any enteritis disease is scours. For that reason the farmer should always get a veterinary diagnosis of any sickness among his hogs whenever he notices such symptoms.

Symptoms of necrotic enteritis are dark scours and loss of weight. Although the pigs are sick, they usually retain a good appetite.

One symptom of hemmorhagic dysentery is bloody scours. However, this sign may not come until the latter stages of the disease, and it is possible for the victims to die without showing any symptoms.

In the case of necrotic enteritis there seems to be a nutritional problem along with the infection, and poor nutrition may be a predisposing factor. But once the disease is established in a pig, it can be spread to other pigs regardless of their nutritional state. As for hemmorhagic dysentery, it is caused by an organism that affects only the large intestine.

Necrotic enteritis is a summer problem because pastures tend to dry up and there may be an abrupt change in the ration for pigs.

Hot weather may be another factor. Hogs do not perspire very much in order to get cool; therefore, they may root deeply and dig up germs of necrotic enteritis which may be in the soil.

Sanitation is one of the best preventive measures for swine enteritis. Good rations with plenty of protein is another. And sanitation is also important in preventing the spread of the enteritis diseases once they get a start in a herd. The first thing to do is to separate the healthy pigs from the sick ones and put the healthy ones in clean quarters. Then the quarters containing the sick ones should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected regularly.

Some of the healthy appearing animals may have been infected and may develop the disease several days later. If any do show signs of sickness they should be moved back with the sick pigs and if possible the remaining healthy pigs should be moved to another clean area. It may be necessary to move the healthy pigs several times before swine dysentery is brought under control.

The veterinarian probably will suggest that the sick pigs be fed lightly on an easily digested feed. Milk seems to help recovery. The veterinarian may also suggest this ration for the healthy pigs for a while and he will prescribe medical treatment.

Use Of Water Continues High

Using over nine million gallons of water during a 24-hour period became almost a common occurrence here last week.

Three times during the past five days, consumption topped the nine million mark, on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. Thursday's total was the highest of the year and second highest in history, 9,442,000 gallons. It was 9,191,000 on Tuesday and 9,311,000 gallons on Friday.

The Friday total raised the month's consumption to 136,297,000 gallons, or an average of over 7.5 million per day.

The all-time record was set July 2, 1957, with 9,449,000 gallons.

TOKYO (AP)—Red North Korea's food processing industry is looking ahead. It reported that in 1961 North Koreans will drink nearly 4 million gallons of beer and 10½ million gallons of soft drinks.

Surname Is No Handicap, Says Henry Gonzales

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—"I have campaigned through 35,000 miles of Texas, and I am now convinced that my surname is not a handicap in this race," Senator Henry Gonzalez said Saturday in a statement.

"I firmly believe that the overwhelming majority of Texans are going to vote in the governor's race on the basis of qualifications, not surnames," Gonzalez said.

"It is true there is some feeling against me because I am 'a Mexican.' I remember I drove my station wagon into a filling station at Abilene and the attendant asked me, 'Gee, you think that Meskin can win?' I told him I thought so! Then there was a little lady in Dallas who dislikes Latin - Americans so much she thinks that even manual labor is a Mexican."

City Annexation Ordinance To Get Its Final Reading

More land—about 72 acres—will come into the city limits next Tuesday night should the City Commission put its approval on the fourth reading of the annexation ordinances.

The commission will be meeting for its regular bi-weekly session with the two ordinances among items on the agenda. The commission has approved the three previous readings of the two annexation ordinances, and no trouble is expected on passage of the fourth and final reading.

The property is in two tracts, one south of Alabama St. to the proposed route of FM 700 and north of Cornell in College Park Estates.

In other matters, Lloyd Curley is expected to contact the commission about rerouting the sewer line in the Douglas Subdivision area so as to serve some property that he proposes to develop.

Two requests for commercial franchises at Moss Creek Lake will be considered, and settlements on delinquent tax suits will be discussed.

Do It Yourself

KARACHI (AP)—Do-it-yourself apparently has reached the U. S. foreign aid program. Pakistan asked for 500 American buses. The U. S. International Cooperation Administration sent instead 3½ million dollars worth of bus parts so the Pakistanis can assemble their own.

Arrested In Hoax

Robert W. Keith, 19, of Tulsa, Okla., enters a car after Dallas, Tex., police picked him up in connection with an airliner bomb scare. Officers said they located Keith when a telephone operator traced a call which told of a bomb being aboard an American Airline plane en route to Los Angeles. The plane turned back to Fort Worth where it landed and was searched, but no bomb was found. Charges have been filed against Keith, who admitted the hoax. (AP Wirephoto).

Busy Week Ahead For All Candidates

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AP Staff Writer

Political professionals wondered Saturday what effect the Mideast crisis would have on next Saturday's voter turnout as candidates in all races planned heavy campaign schedules for the last week.

Voter interest as shown by absentee balloting has shown no consistent statewide pattern, campaign managers reported, leaving them all guessing and taking no chances.

Most of the candidates planned whirlwind windups requiring considerable airplane travel. They were booking all the radio and TV time they could find and pay for.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough said he was keeping in "hourly touch" with his Washington office and was ready to return to his Senate post when vital foreign relations decisions must be made.

William A. Blakley of Dallas, seeking to defeat Yarborough, announced this schedule for next week: Monday, Bryan with night telecast; Tuesday, Cameron, Temple, Belton and Killeen with night statewide telecast from Waco; Wednesday, Port Arthur and Houston; Thursday Corpus Christi and Rio Grande Valley; Friday, Fort Worth for statewide telecast.

In the governor's race, Price Daniel begins the last week of his re-election drive in Dallas Monday, with a telecast at night. Tuesday, Fort Worth; fly to Shiner for Czech convention; fly to Lufkin and speak at 8 p.m. rally at Zavala. Wednesday and Thursday, continue campaign in East Texas with scheduled visits to Jasper, Silsbee, Beaumont, Orange, Port Arthur and Port Neches. Daniel will be at his home in Liberty on election day, voting in his home precinct.

SCHEDULES

Also in the governor's race, Sen. Henry B. Gonzalez announced this schedule: Sunday, Alice; Corpus Christi for telecast; Robstown; and fly to McAllen, Tuesday, Dallas for rally and television show. Wednesday, San Antonio for Woodmen of World political rally at Pablo's Grove; telecast, Thursday, Beaumont, Galveston, Houston. Friday, San Antonio to close out campaign with telecast through stations in San Antonio, Houston, Austin and Fort Worth. Gonzalez will vote in his home precinct in San Antonio Saturday.

Former Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel helicopter schedule: Monday, Houston area: Tuesday, Pasadena, Baytown, La Porte, Texas City, Galveston, Alvin. Sugar Land, Fairbanks. Wednesday Richmond, Rosenberg, Wharton, El Campo, Palacios, Edna, Cuero, Victoria. Thursday, Goliad, Beeville, Corpus Christi, Robstown, Falfurrias, Alice. Friday, San Antonio, Seguin, San Marcos, Austin.

NOKES, RAMSEY

In the lieutenant governor's race, George Nokes will start the last week of his challenge to Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey's re-election at Fort Worth and nearby towns.

Ramsey, who campaigned this week in the Gulf Coast area, will begin his final week of campaigning with a trip through West Texas. His office did not announce a detailed schedule.

Next week's precinct conventions came in for more attention Saturday.

Daniel, in a television speech prepared for delivery over KCEN-TV (Temple-Waco) disclaimed any ambition to control the Democratic party.

"I want you, the majority of the Democrats of this state, to have control of your party. I do not want to see it run by the DOT minority faction or any other minority group," Daniel said, urging attendance at the precinct meetings.

In Houston, State Republican Chairman Thad Hutcheson urged Republicans to stay in their own party, attend their own precinct conventions and vote in their own primary—not the Democratic. He said reports that he would urge the 220,000 Texans who voted for him in the special Senate race in 1957 to vote Democratic this year are incorrect.

Home Building In Texas Sets Record In June

AUSTIN (AP) — Residential building permits in Texas cities set a new monthly record in June, the Bureau of Business Research reported Saturday.

The University of Texas research agency estimated the June total at $108,109,000. This was 18 per cent greater than the previous monthly high, set in June 1957.

This was the third consecutive month that year-to-year monthly permit totals have reached a new high, the bureau said.

Also, the value of building authorized during the first six months of 1958 was two per cent greater than thre previous January-June record, set in 1955.

After adjustment for price increases, the bureau explained, the total in the first half of 1958 was slightly below that in the record 1955 period. But Texas building, it said, is nevertheless at a level approaching the "boom" stage and appears to be gathering strength as the year progresses.

Allowing for the normal lag between permits issued and work put in place, May and June authorizations are good evidence that the current rate of building activity is one of the most promising features of the general business situation in Texas, the business analysts said.

4 Entrants In Beauty Contest

The beauty contest scheduled for August 19 by the Howard County Farm Bureau has attracted four entrants thus far. The girls are Penny Butchee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Butchee, Route 1, Ackerly; Gordine Froman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Froman, also of Route 1, Ackerly; Zena Kay Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woner Robinson, Route 2, Big Spring; and Lorita Overton, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Overton live in the Lee's Store community.

Several other girls have planned to enter the beauty contest according to the Farm Bureau office. The winner in the local show will be eligible to compete in the area and then the state contest.

The local contest will be held in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Americans In Moscow Find Disturbing Chill In The Air

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow residents are looking on Americans in a new way since the Middle East crisis developed.

It is not quite correct to say the new look is hostile, but it certainly has changed from the usual friendly appraisal which formerly greeted Americans who drive around Moscow or walk its wide avenues in obviously American clothes.

Widespread criticism of the U.S. intervention in Lebanon — sharp criticism amplified hourly by the Soviet press and radio — is evidently responsible for the change.

In the two years this correspondent has been in Moscow there was seldom a time when The Associated Press automobile, a late model American machine, evoked more than discussion of its power and make. Now when the car moves down a street there are stares and nudges. What these Soviet onlookers are thinking is hard to judge.

But this feeling, whatever it is, is disturbing to those in charge of American relations here. It is possibly even more disturbing than the 100,000 demonstrators who jammed the street before the U.S. Embassy Friday.

American and other diplomats express the fear that constant attacks on Americans and America from the Kremlin, the Soviet radio, and the Soviet press may destroy much of the basic friendship between the Russian and American peoples.

"If that happens and there are one or two ugly incidents, we may as well forget trying to live normally in this country," one veteran observer said Saturday.

"What's done officially against us is one thing, but the development of a 'hate Americans' psychology among the people may be really dangerous."

From 700 to 1,000 Americans are touring the Soviet Union. Many of them, like Adlai Stevenson, are traveling as individuals, while others are in official or unofficial delegations. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Jr. said he is issuing no special warnings or safety precautions.

DEAR ABBY

THOSE 'PICK-UPS'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You recently had a letter from a woman who complained that her husband picked up a strange woman on the street because she was carrying a lot of bundles. He gave her a ride home and this started an affair between her husband and the lady with the bundles. You said, "A gentleman does not pick up a lady, bundles or no bundles" and, furthermore, "A lady does not accept a ride with a stranger." I disagree with you. A true gentleman would not pass a woman on the street and allow her to carry a load of bundles when he could assist her. Just because the woman accepted the ride does not mean she was no lady. A GENTLEMAN

DEAR GENTLEMAN: Obviously you are mistaken. The bundles were incidental. Every day men pass women who are carrying bundles and it never occurs to them to pick them up. This woman evidently had more than just bundles, or else they were pretty neatly stacked. "Gentlemen" don't offer rides to strange women and "ladies" don't accept, if approached.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My best girlfriend likes to break people up for the thrill of it. She never wants the guys after she gets them. She started to chase my boyfriend to make her own boyfriend jealous, and without even half-trying, she got my boyfriend interested in her. He calls her up first and if she's busy he calls me. She is only playing him for a sucker but I love him very much. How can I get her to lay off? HURT

DEAR HURT: Your problem is your BOYFRIEND not your GIRLFRIEND (this is a friend0) If he is using you as a second fiddle—better find yourself another string section.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: About 22 years ago there was a man who used to go around giving piano lessons. As far as anybody knew he was not married but he was quite a Romeo. He fathered four illegitimate children within a radius of twenty miles for certain, and Heaven only knows how many more, elsewhere. My sister was one of the girls he got into trouble so I know what I am talking about. My niece (the illegitimate one but she doesn't know it) is going with a boy, who I am sure, is her half-brother, and they are getting serious. Don't you think they should be told before it gets more serious? And who is to tell them? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: The facts should be carefully checked, and if what you say is true, the MOTHERS of the children should break the news.

Sam Snead Grabs Lead In PGA, Casper Stroke Back

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Sports Writer

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Sam Snead, at his glorious best, charged in with a three-under-par 67 Saturday and seized the third round lead in the Professional Golfers Assn. Championship with a score of 207.

The man in the traditional straw hat, winner of 100 tournaments but never the National Open, took a one-stroke edge over Bill Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., who missed a tying 10-foot putt on the final green. Casper shot 68 for 208.

Snead tore the Llanerch Country Club course apart for 16 holes and then reverted to character. He three - putted the 17th and missed a birdie four-foot putt on the 18th which would have shoved him farther to the front.

Dow Finsterwald, who shared the halfway lead with Jay Hebert at 139, had to sink a difficult 10-foot putt on the final green for a 70 which gave him third spot in the packaged finish at 209.

Jay Hebert, elder brother of defending champion Lionel Hebert, scrambled to a 73 which left him five strokes off the pace going into Sunday's showdown round.

Jack Burke Jr., winner of both the Masters and the PGA in 1956, was at 211 after a third round 69. He was followed by Jay Hebert and Doug Ford, tied at 212.

In the 213 bracket were big Mike Souchak, who got a favorable officials' ruling for a 69, and Julius Boros, who lost his groove and took a 73.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., the 1957 National Open champion, was tied at 214 with Buster Cupit, a club professional from Fort Smith, Ark. Both had 69's.

Golf's reconstructed rebel, Tommy Bolt, lost his form after a brilliant start and finished with a 73, tying Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., at 215. Burkemo shot the day's hottest round—a 66 — coming from far back in the pack to strong contention.

Snead, at 46, is shooting to become the oldest man ever to win this professional event. The oldest man ever to take the title was Chick Harbert, who did it at the age of 39 in 1954.

Chicago Halted By Braves, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) —Righthander Joey Jay, gradually turning into the ace of Milwaukee's pitching staff, cooled the upstart Chicago Cubs, 3-2, Saturday with a snappy five-hitter.

A roaring crowd of 37,918 saw the Braves take a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Although clipped for homers by Ernie Banks in the second inning and Dale Long in the seventh, Jay turned in his fifth triumph against three losses.

Cub starter Moe Drabowsky, testing out a strained elbow, didn't last very long. After getting the first man out, Drabowsky gave up a double to Mel Roach, a single to Frank Torre and a two-run homer to Hank Aaron before departing. Excellent relief work by Glen Hobbie and Don Elston was wasted.

Cage Tournament To Be Scheduled

The YMCA boys' senior basketball league will be reorganized at a meeting Tuesday night.

Four teams will be formed out of boys interested in continuing play in the circuit, and schedule for a tournament will be set up.

All boys 15 years of age and above who are interested in playing in the league are invited to the meeting which starts at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA. The tourney has been scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

Rain Forces Cancellation Of Legion Playoff Game

LUBBOCK (SC) — Rain washed out the third game of the bi-district playoff here Saturday night between American Legion teams from Lubbock and Amarillo, and the game has been rescheduled for today at 3 p.m.—if the grounds permit.

The game was to decide which team, the Lubbock Bell Milk Red Cheks or the Amarillo Hanson Post Chiefs, would meet Big Spring's district winner for the Area championship next week.

A hard rain in the area around the baseball park here Saturday night completely washed out the game and some doubt was expressed that the grounds would be dry enough today for the contest.

Lubbock opened the best-of-three series with a 10-3 verdict over the Chiefs while playing in Amarillo Wednesday night. The Chiefs evened the count, however, 4-3, Friday night and sent the playoff into the final game Saturday.

The defeat Friday night was the first of the season for the Red Cheks, who had then won 18 contests.

Big Spring sacked up its four-team district with a 5-1 record, losing only to Odessa. Coaching the locals are D. R. Gartman and Jack Pearson.

The Big Springers had an easier time winning their divisional crown than did their coming opponents. Big Spring was to have played El Paso last week for the divisional crown, but the El Paso nine forfeited the series, thus giving Big Spring a free ride into the Region finals.

Aussies Crack Swimming Mark

CARDIFF, Wales (AP)—Australia's fabulous swimmers smashed a world record and broke an Empire Games' mark Saturday night to top off a record-breaking day in the British Empire and Commonwealth Games. Seven empire track and field records were broken earlier.

A quartet of Aussie females shattered their own standard of 4:19.3 for the 440-yard freestyle relay with a time of 4:17.4 in winning the championship.

Right after the girls got through, four Australian men captured the 880-yard relay in 8:33.4. This bettered the Empire Games' record of 8:47.6 set by another Australian quartet at Vancouver, B. C., four years ago.

Orioles Slap Cleveland, 3-2

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dick Williams' bloop double to centerfield scoring two runs in the eighth inning gave Baltimore the margin of a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday night and undisputed possession of third place in the American League.

Williams delivered the clutch blow with two out and the bases full.

Hal Brown got credit for his fourth victory without a defeat although he gave way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Billy Loes finished up.

Gary Bell went al the way for the Indians, dropping his fourth game. He has won three.

Bell had trouble finding the plate in the eighth, giving up walks to Gus Triandos and Bob Boyd, who singled and doubled earlier. With Bob Nieman's single sandwiched between the walks, the Orioles had the sacks loaded when Williams lifted a double to short center.

Strong Bay In First Victory

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Strong Bay, a California colt seeking his first stakes triumph this year, got it in a rousing battle Saturday as he won the $116,900 Westerner at Hollywood Park.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza and the bay gelding fought off a stirring challenge in the run to the wire from the favorite, C. W. Smith's Indiana colt, Hillsdale, to win the $70,800 pot by a nose or so.

The inquiry sign flashed on as soon as the race ended and the stewards disqualified the second place finisher, Hillsdale, moving him to third, and elevating The Shoe, who ran third, to second.

The time for the mile and one-quarter was 2:02 3-5.

Strong Bay, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Camp, paid $8.60, $4.20 and $2.80; The Shoe $4.60 and $3, and Hillsdale $2.60.

Giants Hold To Half-Game Lead In Torrid Race

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two home runs parlayed with Ramon Monzant's effective relief pitching Saturday sent San Francisco to a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh, maintaining the Giants' one-half game hold on first place in the National League.

The power-hitting home club collected four of its runs on homers—a solo blast by rookie Willie Kirkland in the second and a three-run shot by Ray Jablonski in a fourth-inning pinch hit role.

Monzant came on in the fifth to blank the Pirates for four innings. The Giants broke a 4-4 deadlock in the last of the fifth on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Kirkland plus a sacrifice fly by Daryl Spencer.

With Monzant removed for a pinch hitter, ace left-hander Johnny Antonelli finished up for the Giants.

Monzant, third San Francisco pitcher, won his sixth. He has lost seven.

Bob Porterfield, third of four Pittsburgh hurlers, drew the loss, his fourth against a single victory.

Boyer Homers To Produce Cardinal Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ken Boyer picked out the first pitch in the top of the 10th inning for his 19th home run of the season Saturday and it produced a 1-0 victory for the St. Louis Cardinals over the Cincinnati Redlegs. It ended a seven-game Cardinal losing streak.

Boyer's blow over the left field wall broke up a brilliant pitching duel between Larry Jackson of the Cards and Alex Kellner, an American League castoff who was making his first appearance for the Redlegs as starting pitcher.

Through the first nine innings only two base runners got as far as third base.

Kellner allowed only eight hits, and Jackson gave up but six singles.

But in the top of the 10th Kellner elected to feed Boyer a slider as the first pitch and it went out of the park.

Girls Net Champs To Be Decided

Rain called a halt to the YMCA girls singles tennis tournament during the championship match on the City Park courts Saturday afternoon.

Betty Ellison held a one-set lead over Nita Farquhar at the time. The two were tied in the second set of the match at two games each, and will attempt to finish the match this afternoon at 1 p.m., resuming at the point where the game was halted.

The doubles tournament also will be played today, with first matches set for 2:30 p.m. on the City Park courts.

Betty Ellison reached the finals of the singles tourney by defeating Layla Glaser, 6-0, 6-2, and Shirley Killough, 6-1, 6-2, in that order.

Nita Farquhar advanced by spilling Lynn Wood, 6-0, 6-0, and then defeating her sister, Eileen Farquhar, 6-2, 6-2.

In consolation play, Lynn Wood defeated Maxine Roberts, 6-1 and forfeit; and Layla Glaser won over Netta Kay Laws, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Wood then won the consolation trophy by forfeit.

Miss Roberts had lost to Eileen Farquhar, 6-1, 6-1, in the first round of the tourney. Miss Laws had been defeated in her opening match by Shirley Killough.

In the doubles tourney this afternoon, Lynn Wood and Netta Kay Laws will play Nita Farquhar and Betty Ellison in one opening match, and Eileen Farquhar will team with Maxine Roberts to play Shirley Killough and Layla Glaser.

Winners of the two matches will play for the championship at 5 p.m., while the first round losers will play for consolation at the same time. Both matches will take place on the City Park courts.

Tracksters Ready For Moscow Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Unless something unforeseen happens, the U.S. team will take off Sunday for the biggest track and field meet outside the Olympics in Moscow next week—and furthermore will ask no special precautions against demonstrations—it was indicated Saturday.

Dan Ferris, honorary secretary treasurer of the AAU who is in charge of the party, said he had not heard a word from the State Department and that all other obstacles to the trip had been smoothed out.

He added that he wasn't concerned over the anti - American demonstrations that have been going on in Russia since the development of the Mideast crisis and would ask for no special police protection.

U.S. Oarsmen In Comeback, Edge Russians In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—The University of Washington's rangy crew avenged its defeat at Henley Saturday by sweeping to a length and three-quarters victory over Leningrad's Trud eight on the waters of Moscow's Khimi Reservoir.

Despite the tension caused by the Lebanon crisis, the Americans' front-running triumph in the 2,000 meter (mile, 427 yards) race was cheered heartily by a crowd of more than 4,000 fans. The spectators were mainly Russians but the onlookers included U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, his wife and most of the American Embassy staff.

Foreigners rarely are permitted in the reservoir area, the center of a military installation. But the ambassador and his party as well as many American tourists were allowed to watch the regatta. It is one of many events in the U.S.-Russian sports and cultural exchange.

An American men and women's track team is scheduled to leave New York by plane Sunday night for a dual meet with the Russians in Moscow, July 27-28.

The Russians were extremely cordial and the program went off without a hitch. A public address system played American jazz throughout most of the regatta and the man at the controls said the music was tape recorded from Voice of America broadcasts.

The Huskies, who were unbeaten until they lost to the Trud crew at the Royal Henley Regatta on July 3, were to be guests of honor at an official sports reception Saturday night.

Russians, as expected, beat the Americans in the two other events on the program.

Vyacheslav Ivanov, Russia's 20-year-old Olympic sculling champion, won his specialty in 7:57 for the 2,000 meters as Tom McDonough finished fourth in 8:25. McDonough is a military policeman from Philadelphia. Jurig Tjukalov, Russia's 1952 single sculls champion, was second and Alexander Berkoutov, another Olympian, was third.

In the three-shell pair-oars race, John Fish and Gene Phillips, a couple of Washington spares, finished third behind the Central Army Club of Moscow and Moscow Dynano. The winners were timed in 7:43.8 and Washington's twosome in 8:10.6.

12th Inning Homer Beats Yanks, 6-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Tuttle's three-run homer in the 12th inning off ace Yankee relief pitcher Ryne Duren brought the Kansas City Athletics a 6-4 victory over the league - leading New Yorkers Saturday.

With one out in the 12th, Bud Daley, Kansas City's third pitcher, slashed a double to left. Mike Baxes followed with a walk and then Tuttle smashed one into the lower right field seats for his fifth homer of the season.

After getting Jerry Lumpe on a liner to short in the bottom of the 12th, Daley wound up in trouble when Bill Skowron, Country Slaughter and Norm Siebern singled in succession for one run and men on first and second. It was Siebern's fifth single in six trips.

When pitcher Don Larsen was sent up to bat for Bobby Richardson, ex-Yankee Ralph Terry replaced Daley. Terry came through by fanning Larsen and getting Elston Howard to hit into a force play.

Mantle Sidelined

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle will be out of the New York Yankee lineup four or five days because of a bruised left forearm. It was injured in a collision with shortstop Tony Kubek during Friday night's game against Kansas City.

X-rays taken Saturday were negative but Dr. Sidney Gaynor, the club physician, said there is a severe contusion of the forearm muscle.

Sophomore 'Star' Squad Is Representative Group

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Every club is represented by at least four players in the Sophomore League's All-Star Game to be played here July 24.

Sports writers in the six member cities picked the 16-man squads.

The rival managers are Ernie White of Midland for the East, still pacing that division of the loop, and Jodie Phipps of Artesia for the West, where his club now is runnerup to Hobbs. Their clubs' July 4 leads in the two divisions landed them the jobs.

For the East there are six players each from Midland and Plainview and four from San Angelo. There's a like showing for the West team, with six all-stars apiece from Carlsbad and Hobbs and four from Artesia.

The squds:

East—Roger Morgan, Midland, first base; Ty Clayton, Midland, second base; Ted Lahner, Plainview, shortstop; Boliver Hinojosa, Plainview, third base; Jim Tanner, Plainview, and Jack Van Natta, San Angelo, catchers; outfielders—Paul Snyder of Midland, Kerry Buckner of Midland and Duncan Campbell of San Angelo; Joe Naunchik, San Angelo, utility outfielder; Joe Clare, Plainview utility infielder; pitchers—Les Bass of Midland, Vince Giguilio of Plainview, Erwin Moore of Plainview and Bill Ralston of San Angelo.

West—Muarry Hall, Carlsbad, first base; Ken Bryant, Hobbs, second base; Jik Smith, Hobbs, third base; De Moss, Carlsbad, shortstop; Roberto Herrera, Hobbs and Dick Morgan, Carlsbad, catchers; outfielders—Graing Sorensen of Carlsbad, Jim McClain of Artesia and Gary Krupsky of Artesia; utility infielder, Fred Hernandez, Artesia; utility outfielder, Al Herring, Hobbs; pitchers—John Ahrens of Hobbs, Eddie Rodriguez of Hobbs, George Hickman of Carlsbad, Danilo Rivas of Artesia and George Goich of Carlsbad.

Hartack Sees Little Hope For 4th Title

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Bill Hartack, who had hoped to lead the nation's jockeys for the fourth straight year until he broke his left leg one week before the Kentucky Derby, now feels he has little chance to retain his riding championship. He believes Willie Shoemaker, the star he replaced, will be back at the top at the end of the year.

"I've got 100 winners and I'm about 50 behind the leader," said the 25-year-old Hartack after he won with the great filly Idun in the Mother Goose Stakes at Belmont Park. "Fifty winners is a big lead and that would mean picking up 10 winners each month on the leader. It's too tough."

Hartack broke his leg April 26 at Churchill Downs and missed 27 riding days, plus a chance to pilot Calumet Farm's Tim Tam in the Derby Trial, Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont. He had won seven out of seven with Tim Tam this year. The great 3-year-old, with Milo Valenzuela aboard, won the first three stakes mentioned but broke a sesamoid bone in his right foot in running second to Cavan in the Belmont.

Hartack plans to ride out the summer in the East and will pass up Chicago except to ride in stakes. He has the mount on Idun for this great filly's stakes races and undoubtedly will go anywhere to ride her—even Saratoga, a track he has never seen.

His score in the Mother Goose gave him a perfect record with Idun—five for five. All she did as a 2-year-old last year was win 8 for 8 to beat Top Flight's money mark. She earned $220,955.

Hartack led the riders for the first half of the 50-day Monmouth meeting with 26 winners, despite six days off for three trips to Belmont and a one-day stand in Chicago to ride Nadir in the Stars and Stripes. Nadir finished seventh over a rough Washington Park strip. Nadir couldn't get to the "path," a term riders use for the good part of the racing strip.

After scoring with Idun, a visitor to the Belmont jockey's room remarked:

"Idun certainly is a lot of horse."

"She has to be," chimed in P. J. Bailey, one of the popular riders who dares jest with the serious-minded Hartack.

"I'd rather have them that way," Hartack smiled back.

"The left leg feels fine but I thought I broke the toe when I got caught in the gate in Chicago," said the blue-eyed rider from Colver, Pa. "And the little toe hurts, too. One of the boys hit me with his whip coming out of the gate."

"That's nothing," said Bailey. "It's a long way from your heart."

It was Paul Bailey's way of saying:

"Look, you have Idun and you just made $1,842 without reaching for your whip."

"Oh, I'm happy the way things are," said Hartack, "as long as I can ride Idun."

Net Finals Set Monday

Championship game of the YMCA men's doubles tennis tournament will be played at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

The game had been scheduled for Friday afternoon, but was postponed when one of the finalists was unable to play at that time. Bob Petty, Webb AFB flier, was out of town on a cross-country flight.

Petty and Richard Dye will play Harry Jordan and Jimmy Jones for the doubles title. Jordan won the singles championship Monday.

The group is to present three shows this season — one at the opening of a new swimming pool in Lamesa Aug. 16, one in Amarillo Aug. 2, and another in Lubbock Aug. 23.

Bold Ruler Is Monmouth Park Handicap Victor

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP)—Bold Ruler carried 134 pounds to victory Saturday in the $110,650 Monmouth Park Handicap, beating Sharpsburg in a drive through the stretch. Bill's Sky Boy was third.

With Eddie Arcaro up, the Wheatley Stable star went off as the odds on favorite and stepped the mile and one quarter in 2:01 3-5. The official victory margin for Bold Ruler was three-quarters of a length.

Bold Ruler, 1957 Horse of the Year, paid $2.60 and $2.20, with no show betting due to the fice horse field. Sharpsburg returned $3.40 to place.

Bold Ruler earned $70,772, and upped his total winnings to $764,204.

Williams Homer Ends Deadlock With Tigers

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams answered mingled catcalls with a two-run homer in the 12th inning Saturday for a 7-6 Boston triumph over Detroit that extended the Red Sox victory streak to six.

Jeered by some of the crowd for misplaying a double and grounding out with the winning run on third in the ninth inning, Williams belted a high drive off loser Hank Aguirre with pinchhitter Jimmy Piersall aboard.

Lefty Leo Kiely posted his fourth victory of the season. He was making his fifth relief appearance in seven days.

Billy Martin of the Tigers had put his club ahead 6-5 in the top of the 12th with a double which chased home Harvey Kuenn.

Three times Boston had taken a one run lead and each time the Tigers knotted the count.

Williams let Al Kaline's smash get past him for a two bagger in the eighth inning. Kaline took third on a long out and scored on Gus Zernial's sacrifice fly to left. Williams' throw was short and wide.

The Tigers went ahead 5-3 in the top of the ninth when Jim Hegan hit the third Detroit solo homer of the contest off Dave Sisler who has surrendered 14 gopher balls in 107 innings. Ossie Virgil and Harvey Kuenn had homered earlier.

With one out in the bottom of the ninth, Sammy White belted his third homer of the season into the bullpen in right center. Pinchhitter Billy Klaus flied out but pinchhitter Lou Berberet was hit by a pitch.

Gene Stephens and Runnels then singled and it was 5-5. Williams grounded to first to end the inning.

White Sox Nudge Washington, 7-6

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chicago White Sox held out for a 7-6 victory over the Washington Senators Saturday after they jumped Pedro Ramos for four runs in the first two innings and their relievers fought off the Senators the rest of the way.

Billy Goodman, Chicago third baseman, hit four singles in five trips. He boosted his average from .322 to .333.

The Senators made a move to erase a 6-2 White Sox lead by scoring three runs off reliever Bob Shaw in the sixth when Jim Lemon doubled home one run and Eddie Yost hit a two-run homer.

Gerry Staley took over at that point and went into the ninth with a 7-5 lead. Lemon led off the ninth with his 17th homer to make it 7-6. After Staley got the next two batters, the Senators threatened again. Pinch-hitter Clint Courtney singled and Roy Sievers walked.

Turk Lown was summoned from the bullpen and got into a three-balls, one-strike hole against Ed Fitzgerald. Then Lown burned two strikes past the swinging Fitzgerald to end the game.

Aysha led from the start with Clem in close second and Round Table cruising along in fourth for most of the time. Entering the stretch, Clem took the lead. Round Table moved up and they battled head to head from the eighth pole on.

Round Table, the 7-10 favorite, paid $3.40, $2.60 and $2.20. Clem returned $4.40 and $3.50 and Hoop Band $3.20.

LL Playoffs Open Monday

Two Big Spring teams see action Monday night in the opening games of the district Little League playoff to be held in Andrews.

The Big Spring Texas Little Leaguers square off against the Andrews American Leaguers in the opening game at 6:30 p.m. with the National League teams from Big Spring and Andrews locking horns in the 8:30 nightcap.

The American League team from Big Spring drew a first-round bye as did the Goldsmith LL team, and these two clubs will face off at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in a semi-final match, with the winners of Monday's games meeting in the second contest to decide the other finalist.

Finals in the six-team tournament will be held in Andrews Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

Texas League Star

Ray Navarette, pitched and infielder for the Texas Minor Little League All-Star squad, was one of the standouts in the team's march to the city championship Thursday and Friday nights. Navarette was winning pitcher in the Texas victory over the National Minor League entry Thursday night, and played first base and pitched in relief in the win over the American minor team Friday night. With Ray is one of the managers of the Texas League team, M. G. Fierro.

Texas Minors Win City Title

The Texas League All-Stars are the city champions of the Minor Little League program for 1958.

The Texans defeated the American League All-Stars, 14-12, Friday night.

The championship was in doubt until the final inning. The Americans had the tieing runs on base in the sixth frame when Ray Brafford lined into a double play at second base, ending the game.

The Texas Leaguers moved into a 9-2 lead at the end of the second inning, but the Americans went ahead, 11-9, with a nine-run fourth inning.

Undaunted, the Texans came back to score five runs in the fifth, and that was the ball game, although the Americans managed to push across one other run before disaster struck in the sixth.

Leading batsman in the Texas League attack was Eddie Torres with two singles and a double. James Bailey, Tony Saracho and Paul Paradez each got two hits for the winners.

Johnny Lawson hit a single and a double to pace the American batters. Wayne Griffith and Warren Kelley each hit two singles.

Saracho, who came on in the fourth inning, was the winning pitcher. Larry Helton was the loser.

Tigers Play Van Horn 9

The Big Spring Tigers take on the Van Horn Stars in a baseball game to be played this afternoon in Steer Park.

The Van Horn team is rated as one of the best in West Texas, according to Tom Arista, Tiger captain. In the regular lineup, the Stars have seven left-hand hitters, and over the season they have won 11 games while losing only one. Star manager is David Rayes.

This will be the first time in recent history that Big Spring and Van Horn teams have clashed. Game time is 3 o'clock.

The Tiger lineup probably will include N. Paderez in left field, C. Fierro at second, J. Nunez in right field, G. Lara at third base, A. Gamboa at short, P. Martinez at first, Tito Arencibia in center, Sonny Dutchover as catcher and Danny Valdez on the mound.

Brown Risks Title In Bout With Ken Lane Wednesday

HOUSTON (AP)—Kenny Lane, a crewcut 26-year-old who insists he is not a left-hander, ends his two-year search for a lightweight title fight Wednesday night by challenging champion Joe Brown, who has had a steady training diet of southpaw sparring mates.

Brown, a 32-year-old Negro from New Orleans and Houston, is confident he can defend his title a fifth time with a fifth knockout. Lane, the No. 1 challenger from Muskegon, Mich., believes the age difference gives him an edge and predicts a knockout in the late rounds.

Lane has never been knocked off his feet in 57 fights. Brown has never lost to a left-hander.

The scheduled 15-round match, the second world's title bout here in less than three months, is expected to draw a crowd of 10,000 to the 11,200-seat Sam Houston Coliseum. The fight will be televised nationally at 9 p. m. EST with the Houston area blacked out.

Neither fighter is expected to have difficulty making the 135-pound weight limit.

On May 8 Brown picked up $40,000 as his share of a Texas record gate of $68,740 as he scored an eighth round technical knockout over Ralph Dupas of New Orleans.

The Brown and Lane camps have exchanged rather sharp verbal blasts during the long maneuverings that did not end with a contract until June 25.

Lane has charged that it practically took an act of Congress before Brown agreed to a title fight. Brown's backers also have resented support received by Lane from Michigan Governor Soapy Williams and Sen. Charles Potter.

"We'll have a chance now to see how good these politicians are as matchmakers," said Lou Viscusi, Brown's manager.

Viscusi also resents Lane's training camp remarks about Brown being an "old man."

"Lane's been bad-mouthed about Joe," Viscusi said.

Brown, training the past two weeks at Camp Holden, 20 miles northwest of Houston, has laughed off the "old man" tag by renewing his predictions of another knockout.

"It'll be too late for him to catch me in the stretch," the champion said. "He'll be down by the tenth and it'll be another first for me."

Brown's career of 95 fights include 70 victories, 14 losses, 9 draws, 32 knockouts and 2 no contests. Lane's 57-match record includes 52 victories, 5 losses, no draws, and 15 knockouts.

HARRIS, HOUNDS, WILD PIGS

'Big Thicket' Leaves Fight Experts In Shock

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Can Roy Harris really fight? Does this Lil Abner character belong in the ring with Floyd Patterson? What will happen when the pride of Cut and Shoot fights outside of Texas?

A posse of boxing writers and photographers who recently visited Roy's home in the "Big Thicket" of southeastern Texas still is in a state of shock.

They saw the log cabin home, the hound dogs on the stoop, the wild pigs in the pines and the makeshift training camp. Still they don't know how to answer your questions about the man who boxes Patterson for the world heavyweight title, Aug. 18 at Los Angeles.

All the visitors saw of Harris in action was a two-round workout against an obliging sparring partner. The rounds seemed short and there was little action.

Long ago most of the writers learned to pay little attention to the things they see in a training camp, other than a man's condition. But it was tempting to try to reach some conclusions about this man whom none of the visitors ever had seen before.

BIGGER IN RING

Harris is a handsome young man with a sturdy pair of legs. He looks bigger when he shucks off his clothes and climbs into the ring than when he stands beside his daddy, Henry, and talks to you.

In the ring he shows good reflexes and hands that are faster than most. You can't help remembering, however, the quick flurries that Patterson can stage and his unbelievable speed.

If Harris' record showed more knockouts against known opponents, there would be a tendency to give him something better than a longshot chance of winning. But he has a reputation as a counterpuncher and a man who doesn't like to hurt anybody.

It has been the impression here for some time that the man who will beat Patterson must be a bold fighter with a heavy punch. He must be able to walk past Floyd's blinding flurries and drive home the big punch.

Maybe Harris can do that. Then again, maybe he can't. We'll know for sure four weeks from Monday night.

If Roy does upset Patterson, be ready for a flood of homespun Texas yarns. Cousin Armadillo, who isn't really a cousin but just a Cut and Shoot character, probably will have his own TV serial. Roy probably will ride the range in a Western movie and the folks back home in the "thicket" can get a paint job on the outside of the old log cabin.

HENRY IS BOSS

Roy is his own manager although his father is the boss. As they say in Texas he's the "king pin" of that particular corner of the thicket. Lou Viscusi, the man who managed Willie Pep to the featherweight crown, is the managerial adviser. They say nobody actually has Roy's name on a contract. No fight manager, that is.

Cut and Shoot is alive with memorable characters. There is "Wildman" who used to box but now plays the guitar in the country band. And "Windy" who will give you a tug on a gallon jug. And "Cousin Coon," "Uncle Jack" and "Uncle Bob" to say nothing of "Sister Frances" who plays a tune on a punching bag and hits a golf ball half way to Mexico.

They say Roy was named for one Roy Tipton a member of Machine Gun Kelly's gang. And they tell you Cut and Shoot got its name because if you stand around long enough you'll get cut and if you run you'll get shot.

In fact, they tell you a lot of things down in Montgomery County. Most of all they tell you that Roy Harris is going to "whup" that other fellow whoever he might be.

Cosden Gross At New Peak But Net Income Is Down

Record sales and decreased earnings are reflected in the annual report to stockholders of Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

While net income before taxes sagged by about two million dollars in amounting to $8,601,272, only slightly more than half this decline could be attributed to higher operating costs. More than anything else a tight marketing situation contributed to lower earnings. At that, the net was second highest on record for Cosden.

R. L. Tollett, president, made no effort to conceal disappointment in the 14 per cent decline in profits. The percentage drop (in view of general conditions) was mild enough, but it represented a decline where management had hoped for a gain, he said.

ENCOURAGED

However, Tollett took an encouraging view.

"These are trying times," he said, "but an occasional recession in business is provided for in our program of growth. . .We are observing improvements in even short-term prospects."

In the fiscal year ended April 30, 1958, Cosden had gross operating income of $91,634,165 as compared with $71,921,997 the previous year. Much of this increase was due to acquisition of Col-Tex, Onyx and Grisham-Hunter Oil Company properties.

Operating expenses amounted to $81,645,368 for the past year against $60,240,079 the previous year. After taxes, net income was $5,193,272, down less than a million dollars from $6,046,190 in 1957.

Cosden maintained its 25 cents per share cash quarterly dividend in the amount of $2,583,995, applying half of its net earnings after taxes to dividends. In addition, a 3 per cent stock dividend was declared right after the year-end.

EQUITY GAINS

Investment in properties amounted to $64,420,000 at the year's end as compared with $51,766,000 the year before. The shareholder's equity was $35,161,000 as against $32,552,000 a year previously.

Capital expenditures reached $13,313,713, which was under the all-time record of $16,764,698 in 1957. Last year's outlay was mostly for increasing production reserves (including $6,473,000 for purchase of the Grisham-Hunter production), but $2,803,959 was for refinery developments. Approximately two million of that was in the construction of a polystyrene facility.

Cosden's tax bill was estimated at $4,233,526, including $3,408,000 set up to meet federal income taxes. The company contributed $370,254 to the employees' pension trusts. Funded debt at the end of the fiscal year was $14,591,823, up from the $8,084,000 the year before.

RECORD PRODUCTION

Some other highlights from the report include:

Production of crude oil reached 1,869,630 barrels, a gain of 396,899 barrels. Average daily production was 5,122 barrels as against 4,091. Gas sold was 3,346,791 MCF, a gain of 50 per cent. Value of oil and gas produced was $5,655,937. Cosden had seven discovery wells, four of them quite significant. Crude reserves were estimated at 28,437,641 barrels and gas at 25,306,919 MCF.

In the refining operations, Cosden required 14,029,115 barrels of crude oil, and increase of 15.5 per cent. For two months Cosden and its affiliates at Colorado City and Hawley charged 46,000 barrels per day to stills, but after the market pinch came, this was cut to 38,000 barrels. The Hawley plant had to be closed. In December the 6-inch pipeline was extended 134 miles from Abilene to Wichita Falls, and in January the terminal at Wichita Falls began distribution of products. Col-Tex product pipeline capacity was increased 30 per cent with installation of a booster pump. In March, Cosden purchased a 42-mile pipeline in the ground from Gulf Oil Corporation, affording greater flexibility. Four miles of 8-inch line were laid from Col-Tex to Lake Colorado City to solve a critical water problem for that installation.

PETROCHEMICALS

The paraxylene unit was revamped to increase capacity by 70 per cent. A new 10 year contract for its operation was signed with Phillips Chemical Company. Operational improvements increased ethylbenzene and styrene yields. Facilities for manufacture of 99.6 per cent orthoxylene and 85 per cent metaxylene went on stream in April.

In February the polystyrene pilot plant was completed and by June the polystyrene production plant was in operation at the rated capacity of 22,000,000 pounds of pelletized products per year. Production of polybutene (largely a lubricant additive) continued steady to strong.

Soon after beginning of the fiscal year the market broke, and there were a series of severe gasoline price wars which cost Cosden $900,000 (or 35 cents per share of stock) in competitive allowances. Other product prices also sagged. Sale of fuels to the U. S. government reached $16,759,828, but government orders for aviation gasoline was slashed summarily by 50 per cent.

COMPANY HONORED

Per cent of sales to income was 5.7, the lowest in years and down from 8.4 the year before. There were 2,583,995 shares of common stock outstanding, whereas the total a year ago was 2,251,012. The number of stockholders was 8,100, up from 6,785.

Although it was not shown in the report, it is of interest that Fortune Magazine included Cosden among the top 10 most productive firms in the nation, a really significant rating inasmuch as Cosden ranks 454th in gross sales.

TOLLETT SPOTLIGHTED IN PETROLEUM FEATURE

R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, has been spotlighted in The Petroleum Engineer's "Petroleum profile" for August.

In selecting him as the petroleum personality of the month, the magazine focused attention on Tollett's industry views.

"We'd be in the same economic situation if we weren't importing a drop of oil," he told the magazine. "Producers would be selling more oil but at lower price." He explained that posted prices would probably be down 25 to 50 cents a barrel if major buyers were not saving on raw materials through importing their own or purchased foreign crude. The article crisply touches on Tollett's career, and particularly on Cosden's rise under his management.

Outlook Good For Dawson Discovery

Prospects were good for completion of a wildcat in the southeastern part of Dawson County this weekend as operator started to swab in the Canyon Reef.

Operator perforated the Camp Oil Co. No. 1 George Oldham from 9,158-61 feet in the Reef and made plans to swab this weekend. Unofficial sources reported the well has produced quantities of oil on tests before the casing was run and the well perforated.

The site is about five miles northeast of Ackerly, C NE SE, 26-34-4n, T&P Survey.

A test from 9,171-200 feet last week produced 8,000 feet of fluid cut 30-50 per cent oil but some salt water.

In the Triple D (Pennsylvanian) field about 10 miles northwest of Lamesa, the Texas National No. 1 J. R. Richardson drilled Saturday at 8,030 feet in lime and shale. The site is 2,310 feet from south and east lines, 77-M, EL&RR Survey.

It is a west offset to the discovery well, the Midwest No. 1 Davis.

In the Welch field in northwest Dawson County, the Davison & Pembrook No. 4 Meeks yielded 21.67 barrels of 34-degree oil and 29 per cent water on 24-hour test after being acidized with 3,500 gallons and fractured with 10,000 gallons.

The project is 880 feet from south and 1,760 from west lines, 15-C39, PSL Survey, and about 1½ miles northwest of the Welch Community.

Total depth is 4,972 feet, and top of the pay section is 4,866 feet. Perforations are from 4,866-908 feet.

Deep Wildcat Scheduled For Southeastern Borden County

A deep wildcat was staked about eight miles southeast of Gail in Borden County this weekend, while the TXL No. 1 Miller in the northeastern part of the county has been abandoned.

The new exploration is Pierce, Davis & George Stillwagon No. 1 L. S. McDowell and it is located 660 feet from north and east lines, 135-25, H&TC Survey. Drilling depth is 8,900 feet.

There is no production of any kind within a six-mile radius of the project.

In the northeast part of the county, TXL Oil Corp. has plugged the No. 1 Miller at a depth of 8,548 feet. The project was a north offset to the Harper & Huffman No. 1 Miller discovery. Drillsite was 660 feet from south and west lines, 48-30-6n, T&P Survey, and eight miles northeast of Gail.

Another offset to the same discovery, the Hiawatha No. 1 C. C. Miller, was cutting a core from 8,132-56 feet Saturday. The site is C SE SE, 47-30-6n, T&P Survey. The core was probably in the Strawn.

The Lone Star Producing No. 1 Clarence Porter about 12 miles southwest of Gail, reamed at 4,150 feet. It is a 10,500-foot wildcat C NE SE, 9-32-4n, T&P Survey.

Location of the William and Edward Hudson No. 1 Clayton & Johnson wildcat site 10 miles north of Gail has been amended slightly. Drillsite is 919 feet from north and 330 from east lines, 30-30-6n, T&P Survey. The wildcat is slated for a 8,900-foot bottom.

Cosden set surface casing at 300 feet at the end of the week at the No. 1-A C. C. Canon about 12 miles west of Gail. The project is in the Jo-Mill (Spraberry) field 660 from north and west lines, 38-33-5n, T&P Survey.

Dual Completion In East Howard Filed By Magnolia

Magnolia Oil Co. has announced data on a dual completion in the Howard-Glasscock field of Howard County.

The oiler is Magnolia No. 3 Scott, 2,308 feet from north and 330 from west lines, 87-29, W&NW Survey.

From the upper zone, it made 62.04 barrels of 29-degree oil and 15 per cent water. Top of the pay zone is 2,096 feet, and perforation-interval is 2,098-176 feet.

The hole bottoms at 2,853 feet, and 5½-inch string is set at 2,786 feet. The lower section produced 42.78 barrels of 34-degree oil and 50 per cent water on final test. Perforations in this zone are from 2,300-572 feet.

In the same field, Cosden No. 1-D Clay cored in the San Andres at 2,250 feet Saturday. The site is 330 from north and east lines, 154-29, W&NW Survey, and about four miles southeast of Forsan.

Pair Scheduled In Sharon Ridge

Odessa operators have announced sites for two new projects in the Sharon Ridge 1700 field of Mitchell County.

The sites are Krug & Arnold of Odessa No. 1 Carroll and No. 1 Mildred.

The Krug & Arnold No. 1 Carrol is about eight miles southeast of Ira, 330 from south and east lines of Subdivision 10, Block I, Smith Survey. Drilling depth is 1,725 feet.

In the same vicinity is the Krug & Arnold No. 1 Mildred, which is also contracted to 1,725 feet. It is 330 from south and west lines, 195-3, H&GN Survey, on a 70-acre lease.

Perkins Is Phillips Area Supervisor

J. N. Perkins will become superintendent of Phillips Petroleum Company's western production division, Aug. 1, with offices in Midland. He will fill the vacancy caused by the recent transfer of M. R. Hayes to the company's international department as Canadian manager.

Basin Drilling Activity Up Only Slightly During Week

Drilling activity picked up ever so slightly during the past week in the Permian Basin, with a total of 326 rotary rigs in operation on Friday.

The total as compiled by Reed Roller Bit Co. is four rigs more than were turning on the previous count on July 11. At this time last year, 520 rigs were turning in the Basin.

Lea County, N. M., was still the individual leader in the Basin with 36 rigs. This is nine less than the county could boast the previous week. Second was Andrews with 33, while Winkler has 32 rigs in action.

Howard County lost one rig from the five recorded on July 11. Borden was up two for a total of eight at the end of the week, but Dawson could count only two after having six in action July 11.

The entire county-by-county report (with July 11 totals in parenthesis) include Andrews 33 (31), Borden 8 (6), Cochran 6 (6), Coke 5 (6), Chaves 2 (3), Concho 2 (1), Crane 13 (11), Crockett 2 (0), and Culberson 8 (7).

Also Dawson 2 (6), Dickens 2 (2), Ector 27 (26), Eddy 10 (10), Fisher 5 (5), Gaines 10 (12), Garza 5 (7), Glasscock 1 (1), Hockley 4 (4), HOWARD 4 (5), Irion 1 (1), Kent 3 (3), Lamb 1 (0), Lea 36 (45), and Loving 1 (3).

Others covered by the survey include Lynn 3 (2), Martin 1 (0), Midland 5 (4), Menard 1 (1), Nolan 8 (5), Pecos 17 (16), Reagan 3 (3), Roosevelt 3 (3), Reeves 4 (4), Scurry 3 (7), Schleiher 3 (3), Sterling 1 (1), and Stonewall 0 (2).

Also Sutton 2 (2), Tom Green 2 (2), Terry 5 (4), Terrell 4 (4), Upton 8 (6), Ward 7 (6), Winkler 32 (31), Yoakum 6 (5), and Permian Basin totals 326 (322).

U.S. And Canada Activity Down

Drilling in the United States and Canada dipped to a low of 1,946 rigs on July 14.

This was decline of 56 for the week, Hughes Tool Company reported to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors. A month ago 2,001 rigs were turning, and a year ago 2,759.

There were no drastic changes, although the United States lost a net of 63 operations. Canada gained 7. Texas declined 21 with 634, and practically all the loss was in North Texas. New Mexico with 110 dropped 12 and Oklahoma with 187 dropped 17. Illinois picked up 10 and had 56, and Louisiana gained 2 to reach 304.

INDUSTRY READY

Output Could Be Jumped To Meet Mid-East Crisis

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP)—The domestic oil industry is prepared to boost production sharply if necessary to meet any emergency arising from the Middle East situation, industry and government sources report.

Some of them say the increase could be as much as three million barrels a day.

Re-establishment of the Middle East Emergency Committee is under consideration. This committee was created by the government in 1956 to meet the oil emergency resulting from closing of the Suez Canal.

During the Suez shutdown, which cut off much of Western Europe's oil supply, the government set up the committee to develop measures for offsetting the shortage in Europe. The committee was made up of American oil companies which have extensive operations in foreign areas.

Russell B. Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, figures production can be increased by three million barrels a day without endangering the oil conservation program.

Such an increase would boost domestic production to nearly 10 million barrels daily. U. S. production during the first six months of this year averaged about 6,460,000 barrels.

While any sizeable increase in the movement of oil might create some transportation problems, a government source said the oil transportation system has been improved since 1956 when this country was called upon to help make up the deficit in Western Europe. There are more tankers and more pipeline capacity, he said.

Shell Extending Gathering Lines

The Shell Pipe Line Corporation yesterday announced plans for construction of a crude oil pipe line extending its facilities from Colorado City, Texas, to fields in the Borden-Garza county area of West Texas.

The project will consist of approximately 43 miles of 8-inch diameter trunk line and about 20 miles of 4- and 6-inch gathering lines. A pump station and tankage will be located at the northwestern terminus of the trunk line, in Garza County.

Construction will start in about six weeks, with completion scheduled for December 1, 1958.

Oilwell Servicers Appoint Danheim

James E. Danheim, Austin attorney has been named the new executive-secretary of the Association of Oilwell Servicing Contractors, J. F. McAdams, Hobbs, N. M., president of the association, has announced.

Gas Hearing Is Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arguments will be heard Aug. 1 by the Federal Power Commission on two proceedings involving expansion of natural gas transportation and sales capacity of Trans-Continental Gas Pipe Line Corp. of Houston.

The arguments, to be heard here, will be in connection with two decisions by FPC Presiding Examiner William J. Castello.

One, filed June 17, would authorize natural gas sales to Transco by 26 independent producers from fields in southern and offshore Louisiana.

The other, which was filed July 9, authorized expansion of the company's pipeline system, including use of storage pools in northern Pennsylvanian.

Candidates Generally Agree When It Comes To Texas Oil

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Many of the problems of the ailing Texas oil industry have been injected into campaigns leading to the state's selection next Saturday of Democratic nominees for the U.S. Senate and governor.

U.S. Senator Ralph Yarborough and his opponent, former Senator William A. Blakley, are sharply divided on party issues but, in general, are in agreement on solutions for oil problems. Each favors mandatory controls over oil imports, continuation of the 27½ per cent depletion allowance, and release of wellhead natural gas prices from federal controls.

Gov. Price Daniel and one of his three opponents, former Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, have debated the disputed boundary provisions of the Submerged Lands Act recognizing state ownership of the tidelands. Quit-claim bills were under consideration while both were members of the U.S. Senate, O'Daniel in 1948 and Daniel in 1953.

George Nokes, a former state senator who is running for lieutenant governor, believes most of the oil problems can be traced to Washington, but he thinks Texas should seek its own solutions at home before asking Washington for help.

The state treasury has been a heavy loser as Texas crude production dropped from a record 3,333,000 barrels a day during the Suez crisis early last year to a current 2,407,000 barrels.

"The Texas situation in reference to oil has changed more the last three years than all the 30 years before that but the laws themselves have not been changed," Nokes said.

Yarborough believes any workable plan to control oil imports must include products as well as crude oil.

Blakley also favors inclusion of products. He describes the voluntary program as unsuccessful.

Yarborough says the 27½ per cent depletion allowance is necessary if oilmen are to continue to risk great capital expenditures while searching for new reserves. Blakley says the allowance is essential if the oil and gas industry is to survive.

Yarborough wants the "true independent" gas producer freed from federal control of prices at the wellhead. He defines such an independent as any producer who is not affiliated with pipeline transmission or distribution of gas.

Blakley says there are influences in the federal government who advocate complete regulation of the oil industry.

O'Daniel has charged that Daniel, while assisting in writing the 1953 Submerged Lands Act, forgot to include definite boundary lines.

Daniel has replied that O'Daniel in 1948 signed and voted for a tidelands bill with the same boundary provisions as the 1953 act.

The Federal Government has asked the Supreme Court to interpret the 1953 act.

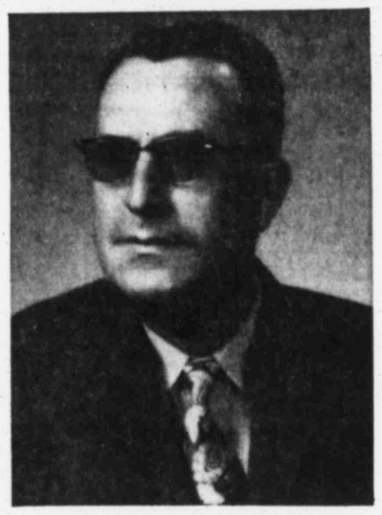
GEORGE F. KING

MEET THE 'seniors' OF THE COSDEN FAMILY . . .



This is the 7th in a series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employes who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

15

He won't last more than a week, his friends said when George F. King went to work for Cosden.

But now, 15 years later, Mr. King's only regret is that he didn't go to work for the company sooner.

George Floyd King was born June 26, 1900, on a farm in Madison County. After attending school at Red Mud, he moved with his family to Dickens County where he completed his education at Spur.

On a Saturday evening stroll in Spur, he met his future wife, Pearl Smith. The couple was married March 14, 1924. They are the praents of six children, Colleen, Mrs. Jacqueline Cox and George, all of Big Spring; Jerry F., Dallas; Mrs. Luann Woolart, Oakwood, Calif., and Norman of Big Spring. There are also three grandchildren.

Mr. King, a gasoline tester, began his employment with Cosden Feb. 1, 1943. Prior to that he had been engaged in farming and ranching. He served in the U.S. Cavalry from 1916-21. "I've hated horses ever since," he laughed.

A former baseball player, Mr. King now enjoys watching the sport from the sidelines. He also enjoys hunting and fishing and working in his garden.

The Kings own their own home north of Sand Springs. They are members of the Christian Church.

Chief Engineer Says State Water Program Is Advancing

Something is being done about the state's water program. Both the people and the Legislature will be happily surprised with the progress, McDonald D. Weinert, chief engineer for the State Water Board predicted here Friday.

Weinert, who has the big task of shaping up the planning as well as the regular activities of the water board (exclusive of legal and policy functions), said that the first phase of complete reorganization had been largely completed.

Already the board has issued a monumental report on water development and potentialities of the state.

By the time the Legislature convenes, Col. Weinert hopes to have an inventory of all the state's water resources ready for presentation.

At the same time, Dr. J. R. Stockton, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, has been commissioned to survey every city of 5,000 or more population in the state to establish need and potential demand for water.

"We hope to get a complete picture of what we have in the way of resources," said Col. Weinert. "Against this we will have a picture of the need. Then we can begin to put the pieces together in a logical, systematic manner."

The inventory of water resources will be undertaken on a river basin basis, and in some instances outside professional help has been employed. This is because of the inability so far to fill all necessary engineering posts in the water board organization, according to Col. Weinert.

Under the reorganization, he will direct the activities of the ground and surface water divisions as well as administration. The secretary of the board will work with the board members in their quasi-judicial and policy making functions. The third prong of the set-up is the legal phase, which is handled under a separate division.

"My prime purpose is to assure the people of Texas that we are doing something," said Col. Weinert, "and that we are getting set to do a lot more.

So many people cannot envision the complexity and divergent problem of an area as vast as Texas, he explained. Hence, one of the first things to be done will be the construction of a big relief map of Texas.

Col. Weinert was interested in the problems of this area. E. V. Spence, manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, reminded him that only 25 per cent of the state's runoof occurs in West Texas, which has 75 per cent of the land.

He was not unfamiliar with this area. While district engineer for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers at Albuquerque, he was assigned to "grow grass on either side of the runway at the air base." He did his best on this miracle and made some headway before drought took over.

People will be the prime concern in shaping of the state's water plans, said Col. Weinert. In West Texas as in other areas, they will come first.

Drought, Soil Bank Put Sterling Out Of Farming

By JESS BLAIR

STERLING CITY — Sterling County's future in farming has dimmed considerably the last few years.

From a total of several thousand cultivated acres at one time, this year's harvest has been greatly reduced. One man threshed 13 acres of wheat. Another farmer will have 15 acres of cotton to pick. These two fields comprise the total amount of crops to be harvested in 1958.

Two factors contributed to the county getting out of the farming businrss—the long drought and the soil bank.

"Farming has always been marginal in this area," said Johnny M. Hailey, county office manager of the ASC. "Oldtimers here say that only about two years out of 10 will a farmer make a profit. So when the soil bank came along, almost everyone signed up for the acreage reserve plan."

The biggest farming section was on the East Divide, a high tabletop plain that covers several thousand acres in the northeastern part of the county.

This was once an area of large farms. Now the land has been sowed to small grain, which may be grazed but cannot be harvested. These combination ranchers-farmers now use the fields for pasture but make no attempt to raise crops for harvest.

There are several other fields scattered over the county. Some were farmed during good years, then laid out when the weather turned dry. A few ranchers have irrigation wells which are used to grow pasture and feed crops for cattle and sheep.

Cotton Men For Parity Formula In Farm Bill

LAMESA — Directors of the Plains Cotton Growers, meeting at the Green Hut Cafe here Thursday night, voted to make a last ditch fight to retain the principle of parity in any farm legislation passed in Congress this year. With a few changes, one of which would include the addition of parity, the directors appeared to like the so called "Senate Farm Bill" which would allow the cotton farmer a choice of plans.

Option 1 would bring about a 10 per cent reduction in acreage with the support price being 30 cents, or about 75 per cent of parity.

Option 2 would grant the producer a 40 per cent acreage increase with the support price being 15 points lower.

If no legislation is passed an estimated 14 to 15 million acres of cotton will be alloted in 1959, according to George Pfieffenberger, executive vice president of the PCG. He said the farmers could expect about 89 per cent parity if no legislation is passed during this session of Congress.

Joe Sooter, president of the Hockley County Farm Bureau and a PCG director, reported on the bracero situation. Sooter said that of the 445,000 braceros imported annually, Texas employs 190,000 and California 150,000.

He said that it appears to be the idea of the Labor Department to raise farm wages. "Every formula they came up with for the establishment of a prevailng wage appeared to be designed to be a wage escalator."

Representatives from the Lubbock Experiment Station and the High Plains Experiment Station at Half Way gave reports on their combined efforts with the PCG to produce a better quality cotton on the South Plains. They explained fertilizer, irrigation and variety tests which are being conducted.

This is a dull season for the farm implement dealers. In calling on three or four yesterday, I can't find anyone very busy. Mostly they're waiting for a rain the same as farmers are.

"We're not doing any repair work," said one shop foreman, "and won't until it rains."

Another dealer said farmers would probably start fixing up their spray rigs and buy poison when a rain comes. "Until they get some moisture, though, they'll just let the bugs stay on the crops," the man said.

* * *

Fields are getting dry in the St. Lawrence community south of Garden City. Cotton is mostly irrigated, but farmers don't have enough water to irrigate feed crops, and they are burning down.

The community has several dozen wells, but they are scattered far apart and the water table has dropped very little. However, the water is deep and there's not much of it. So each well can cover a rather small acreage. Since last fall only a very few new wells have been drilled.

* * *

Bill Bigby, Glasscock County rancher, says his home place west of Garden City is just as dry as it was during the long drought. Much of the turf has died, whereas the ranch land in the southwest part of the county still has grass.

"They've both had the same amount of rain and grazing," he said. "The home pastures are more rolling, though, and these hillsides seem to be in the worst condition."

Bigby has some good farmland west of Bigby Corner, but is not too interested in it.

"I've got a water well on every 320 acres down there," he said, "and could be irrigating a lot more. But I'm a rancher and I hate to see good grassland plowed up."

On 87 acres of cultivated land, he has an irrigation well that pumps 372 gallons per minute. This last year his renter made two bales of cotton per acre on 20 allotted acres. He also made enough feed to last the cattle all winter.

Bigby got the other wells by allowing the oil companies to drill wells for their use. After the oil companies finished drilling, the wells were turned over to Bigby. The only use he makes of them is for stock water.

* * *

Eventually land clearing operations in West Texas will cover tens of thousands of acres, says Marcus Loader, Soil Conservation Service leader at Sterling City. He said several hundred acres had been root-plowed on the Steve Currie ranch west of Garden City. Curry re-seeded at the same time the land brush was being cut.

Some of the grasses have made a good start, but the operation is not perfect yet.

"One handicap has been in not having a good supply of native grass seed," Loader said. "They have been in short supply. This year, though, there are a lot of seed plantings in West Texas, so maybe there will be plenty by next year."

* * *

A. A. McKinney, farming a few miles northeast of Big Spring, says his cotton is still holding up well. The ground seems dry, but underneath the crust a few inches there is still good moisture.

McKinney says the insects are in all the cotton fields, but he doesn't know how much damage is being done. He likely will poison when a rain falls.

Insects of some kind may be working on field peas, too. He planted eight acres and says some of them seem to be dying.

* * *

All my life I've been a worrier, especially about my physical condition. Whenever I read of some serious ailment, I start developing all the symptoms. Once I was reading about elephantiasis among the South Sea Islanders; my right foot started tingling and I almost caught the disease right there in the library.

One time I read about a man contracting leprosy, or Hansen's Disease, in the tropics. I was never in the tropics but I spent a lot of hot days in the cotton patch, and thought there might be a connection. Another time I visited a sick friends in the hospital who had a heart attack. In less than five minutes I felt the same way he did and was about ready to reserve the adjoining room.

Recently to find out how many days on earth I had left, I went to the hospital for a complete check-up. Two doctors spent more than an hour going over me from head to foot, probing and punching and looking through those little peep-hole flash lights.

It was almost disappointing when one doctor said I was as sound as a man my age can expect. All they found wrong was a minor throat irritation caused by an allergy, and maybe an excess of bone in the cranial regions. So unless I get in a car smash-up or die of starvaton, I could be around several more years.

He said my iron content was exceptionally high, which is supposed to be good. But maybe it's too high. I got to thinking that iron rusts, and if it gets too wet there all mixed-up in the blood, I might wake up some morning [illegible] as a rusty hinge.

These doctors don't know it all, even if they have spent their lives diagnosing ailments. I've also spent a lot of time studying the human body—my own.

They never examined my eyes, and just a few moments ago my left eye-lid twitched three times. It's certainly not something that should go unnoticed. So after work, I'll look through my books until I come to the home medical volume and—. . .

Both Factions Claim Victory In Precinct Convention Scrap

AUSTIN (AP) — The biennial battle for control of the Texas Democratic party begins next Saturday but probably won't end until the Sept. 9 state convention in San Antonio.

Overtones of the factional feud will carry into the 1960 presidential campaign.

"The governor's program will carry 10-to-1 in the precinct conventions," predicted J. E. (Ed) Connally of Abilene, who heads Gov. Price Daniel's campaign for continued control of the state party. Daniel, as governor, is titular head of the party machinery. He also is leader of the so-called conservative-moderate faction of the party which backed his election.

"We are optimistic in all major areas if honest county conventions are held," said Creekmore Fath, secretary of the Democrats of Texas (DOT) organization which claims leadership of the liberal-loyalist element.

CHICANERY

"Our greatest danger is political chicanery," Fath told The Associated Press in an interview. "The conservatives will attempt their shenanigans at the county level this year instead of at the state convention as in the past because we have put the spotlight on their state convention activity this year."

"The DOT as an organization is deader than a dodo bird as a political force," Jake Pickle, organization director of the State Democratic Executive Committee, told The AP in another interview.

The DOT was organized shortly after Daniel took control of the state party in the 1956 Fort Worth convention with the support of U.S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. Earlier in the year Johnson, enthusiastically aided by liberal-loyalists, had taken the spring state convention in Dallas away from former Gov. Allan Shivers.

"BIG STEAL"

Neither Johnson nor Rayburn has taken any apparent role so far in this year's party skirmishes.

For two years the DOT has claimed that Daniel and his supporters made a "big steal" at the Fort Worth convention by throwing liberal-loyalists off the State Executive Committee and replacing them with Danielites.

"The basic issue in precinct and county conventions this year will be acceptance of senatorial district nominees for the state committee," Fath said. "The committee should run the party and not be a part of the governor's political machine. The committee should not take sides in a primary. It should worry about such things as the Republicans." "The senatorial district nominees issue is a faked up phony issue, and so is the party registration issue," said Pickle. "The DOT has no issues, just imagination."

Connally said a recent meeting of the state committee reaffirmed the policy of following state law in selecting members of the state committee. The group also recommended legislation to keep members of one party from taking part in any other party's primaries.

The spokesmen for conservative moderates and liberal-loyalists agreed that next Saturday's precinct conventions may be just the beginning of this year's fight for party power. Statewide effect of the precinct gatherings, most of them scheduled for 7 p.m., probably will not be known for several days and possibly not until precinct delegates declare themselves at the county conventions Aug. 2.

LARGEST COUNTIES

However, by some time early Sunday morning both sides expect to have generalized reports from the 14 largest counties of the state. These counties, where both factions have concentrated their organizing efforts, have a potential vote of 1,117,361—based on poll tax receipts and exemption estimates.

In addition to holding 54.6 per cent of the entire state's potential voting power, the 14 have been allotted 2,323 of the state convention's 4,788 delegates.

Here is how the key spokesmen for both sides figure their prospects in the vital 14 counties:

Harris—"Very optimistic," said Fath. "It's the best DOT organization in the state." "We feel very confident for the conservative-moderates," said Connally.

Dallas—"It's been conservative all along," said Connally, "and is even more so now. "It all depends on the Republican situation there," said Fath.

Bexar—"We are very confident there," said Connally. "We have had good reports from conservatives in all of the county." "It's impossible to tell," said Fath, "Bexar County is just like France with so many groups trying to get power. We won't know who is in control there until precinct delegates caucus for the county convention."

Tarrant—"It's always very similar to Dallas County," said Connally. "We have a very fine moderate - conservative organization there." "Both sides are working hard," said Fath, "it depends on voter participation."

Jefferson—"I think it will remain in liberal Democrat hands," Fath said. "Jefferson and Orange together are highly industrial and have large union memberships and activity," Connally said. "It will be a very close call to carry but the conservative-moderates have a good chance if they keep working."

Travis—"I think we will win," Pickle said, "although the liberals have taken it the last time or two." "It depends on voter participation," Fath said. "everything here has been quiet politically. TV has killed attendance at all the political rallies."

Nueces—"Both sides are hard at work but the liberals have a good chance if we get an honest county convention," said Fath. "We are really working and we feel confident," said Connally.

Galveston—"The edge is for labor forces," Connally said, "however our group will have a good chance if they keep working." "Our prospects are good," said Fath, "it's the same situation at Houston and our liberals are working hard."

EL PASO COUNTY

El Paso—"Our chances are fairly good," Fath said, "El Paso people have not forgotten the 1956 convention (when the El Paso liberal delegation was not seated)." "Looks good, period," said Pickle.

McLennan—"DOT won't even have a smell," said Pickle. "The only fight is between personalities on a local level. Either or both will support the state committee." "Our Democrats will win without any question," Fath said.

Lubbock — "Lubbock and Abilene are question marks," Fath said, "but sides are very active." counties ofthe 11 in the Lubbock district," Pickle said. "It's all a part of a real switch in the South Plains. That is true of the Abilene district also."

Hidalgo and Cameron —"The Valley is in a real political ferment," Fath said. "there is no way of telling how it will come out." "We are in excellent shape in the Valley," Pickle said. "A lot of precinct chairmen favorable to the state committee are not even opposed in Cameron County."

Wichita—"That district is overwhelmingly against the DOT," said Pickle. "I think the liberal Democrats will come through," Fath said.

Webb Airman Due 'Well Done' Award

CHARLES COOGAN

First Lt. Charles O. Coogan of Webb AFB, who brought a disabled jet plane down through a heavy overcast and safely to a strange field has been named as one of three Air Force officers to receive the "Well Done" award.

This award is given for outstanding airmanship by the inspector general's office at command headquarters. Those who avert or minimize seriousness of an accident are eligible for consideration.

It was on April 27 that Lt. Coogan, with a student pilot, took off from Blytheville, Ark., AFB on a leg of an over-night cross-country training flight.

When they were within about two miles east of Vance AFB at Enid, Okla., flying at 32,000 feet and above a heavy overcast, an explosion occurred in the aft section of the plane. Lt. Coogan instantly cut throttle and did not attempt an air start because he did not know what damage might have occurred from the explosion.

A partial electric failure to the plane's system also had occurred. Relying mostly on radio contact because part of his instruments were inoperative, he began a penetration of the heavy overcast. At 12,000 feet he broke through and began instrument landing procedures. Enid had no ground approach communication system (radar), so he came into the field by radio direction finding.

The approach was perfect and Lt. Coogan sat the T-33 trainer down dead stick to a perfect landing.

Lt. Coogan is an instructor pilot of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron at Webb AFB. The lieutenant resides at the O.K. Trailer Court in Big Spring with his wife Lillian and young daughter Lillian Mary.

Other officers receiving the "Well Done Award" from command headquarters were Maj. Leo A. Higgins, Nellis AFB, Nev., and 1st Lt. David L. Elliott, Williams AFB, Ariz. Maj. Higgins safely landed a F-100F after it became steadily more uncontrollable to the point that it required the combined strength of two men to maintain level flight. Lt. Elliot brought his F-86F to a successful landing with a dead engine on an unfamiliar air field.

Pilots who receive this Air Training Command award will have their names forwarded to Headquarters U. S. Air Force for possible publication in "Flying Safety" magazine and consideration for award of the Korean Kolligan Trophy, a reward given annually to some pilot who has distinguished himself in the field of military aviation.

SUMMER READING is a good way to entertain youngsters, Jenna McCarty (pictured at left) has found from her experience in taking care of her eight-year-old brother, Kent, and Lila Phillips, who is four years old. Jenna has often cared for the two children, along with Nathan Phillips, 2, who was unavailable for the picture. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McCarty, 435 Dallas, are the parents of Jenna and Kent. Lila and Nathan are children of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Phillips, 1702 Harvard.

★

SPECIAL CARE OF THE YARD was the work selected by Wanda Boatler, (right) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Boatler, 1308 East 17th in the junior high summer project for the Future Homemakers of America. Wanda was one of the delegates to the FHA convention held this spring in San Antonio. For the second year, she has been an instructor of YMCA classes in swimming.

BIG SISTER Norma Mesker adjusts the neckline of the cotton frock which she has made for her eight-year-old sister, Barbara. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Mesker, Gail Road; Barbara has been quite lucky this summer since her sister has adopted clothing in the summer project and has used the youngster as a model for shorts and a top, a dress with tiers of ruffles, and two skirts. Norma has also redecorated her bedroom.

A NEW RECIPE for cake was tried by Shirley McCrary and resulted in the delicious appearing confection which she is frosting. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady McCrary, 211 Edwards, Shirley has been a member of the FHA summer project in Runnels Junior High, besides working faithfully as instructor for the swim classes of the YMCA. She has combined sewing with cooking, too, and the young seamstress has made Bermuda shorts, a skirt and a blouse.

Training In Homemaking

Mothers and daughters have both benefitted from the summer program in homemaking, which has just been completed at Runnels Junior High School. The women were relieved of a bit of responsibility and work around the home as their daughters took over various phases of homemaking.

About 40 girls were enrolled in the summer project, conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Florence Lenox and Mrs. Grover Wiley. Included in their study and work were such activities as planning and preparing meals for the family; selecting patterns and making clothing either for themselves or younger sisters and brothers. Caring for children and managing a home were taught as the girls received practical experience, and they learned interior decoration by planning and making improvements in their homes.

As soon as the classroom doors closed on the regular term, the group began work and plans for the beautification of the homemaking department, and as a result of their efforts, the center is dressed up for the coming year with touches of paint and new chair backs and cushions; the FHA yearbook is complete and ready for the printer.

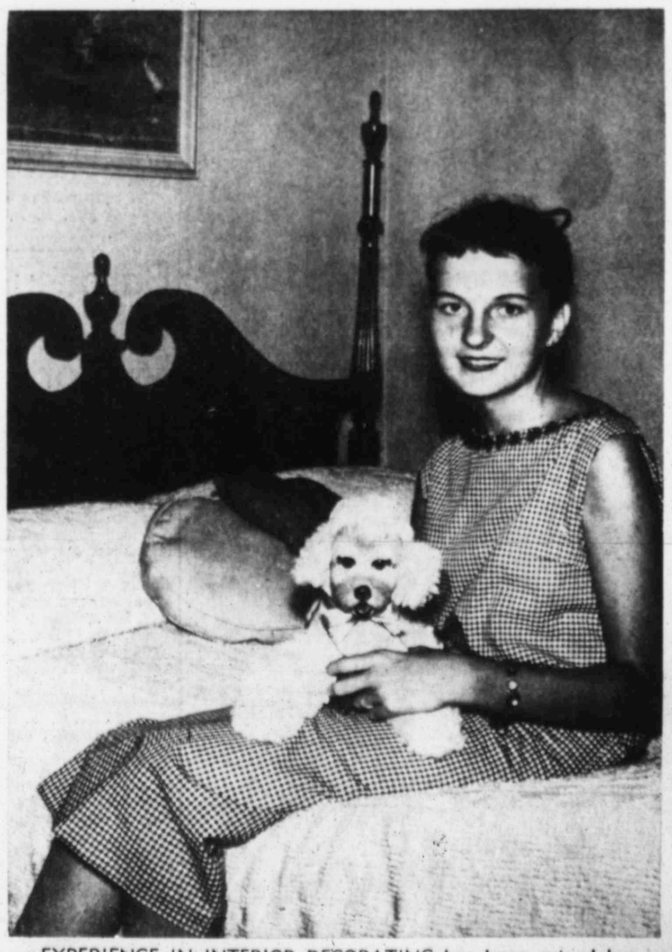
Always service conscious, the girls collected magazines and quilt scraps, and made small pillows for the patients at the state hospital. They also donated supplies to the Salvation Army, helped with vacation Bible schools in their churches; served as score keepers for the Little League baseball games and taught swimming as a part of the YMCA recreation program.

The majority of the girls did the work for credit, earning one-half credit toward high school graduation; some participated in only part of the program for the experience rather than working for the credit.

In addition to the work done by the girls, the summer program was also extended to adults in the community. A sewing course of six lessons was taught for local homemakers. Garments completed during the course consisted of little girls' dresses, sack dresses, tailored cottons, and cool summer house dresses.

Beverly Smith, a homemaking student in Texas Tech, assisted the instructors as an apprentice teacher.

GENERAL HOUSEWORK is the major part of Sue Carpenter's summer project in the homemaking program which has been carried on this year in Runnels Junior High School. This has included cleaning the home at 1421 Stadium and planning and preparing meals for the family. Sewing has come in for its share of attention, too, and Sue has some skirts and blouses as well as Bermuda shorts as a result of it. Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Carpenter, will enter high school in the fall. (Photos by Keith McMillin).



EXPERIENCE IN INTERIOR DECORATING has been gained by Mickey Kinney, 801 West 16th, from her work in the FHA summer project. She removed the paper from the walls of her bedroom and prepared them for textoning in a sandy beige shade. Paint in the closet and varnish on the floor was applied by this young worker, who chose this phase of endeavor because "my room was a mess". She also painted hanging shelves and a bookcase to match the walls. They hold a doll and a dog collection. Mickey, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. Leon Kinney, made the black and white checked sack dress which she wears in the picture.

"Aggie Or Bust"

Well, it's not quite that bad. But if Jon William selects another college besides Texas A & M, 20 years hence, it might be a disappointment to his Aggie father. Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Jones moved here this month from Dallas. Besides son Jon there is also Rusty, the two-year-old cocker.

That Old Aggie Spirit Prevails At The John W. Jones Home

There is definitely an Aggie spirit at 404 Westover Rd. And rightly so. Two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Jones moved in from Dallas, with their year-old son Jon William.

Jones is a 1956 graduate of Texas A&M College; it will be his son's alma mater, too, if he has his way. A pint-sized Aggie cap and sweater have been bought for the youngster, who has already been exposed to the college's famous gridiron tactics. Football is a family enthusiasm.

Himself a certified public accountant, Jones is associated with Neil G. Hilliard. He had been with Arthur Andersen Co., a national auditing firm, in Dallas where he was a member of the Big D chapter of CPA's. He also holds membership in the National Machine Accountants Assn. and the Masonic Lodge.

A native of Dallas, Mrs. Jones is an alumna of Decatur Junior College. She has an unusual insight into her husband's line of work, having been employed by a CPA in her hometown. Like Jones, she is intrigued by bridge and she also enjoys sewing, making most of her own clothes. She is a member of the OES.

The newcomers, enthusiastic about Big Spring, are particularly delighted with the ease of getting around town. Having become subjected to, but never complacent about city traffic, they are exultant that a trip downtown here consumes only five minutes of their time.

As his name might imply, Jones is a Methodist and so is his wife. They have already joined the First Church. The couple comes from the University Park Methodist Church in Dallas whose pastor, the Rev. Alsie Carlton, at one time was minister of the local congregation.

Much to Mrs. Jones' pleasure, her husband indulges in outdoor cookery. Specialties are charcoaled hamburgers and steaks. When cold weather comes, he switches to chili.

Rusty is a faithful member of the household. The 2-year-old cocker spaniel has been having a bout with his ego, however. Seems he feels that little Jon's presence has relegated him to the back seat. Oh my, it's a dog's life!

Engagement Told

The engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ann, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Green of Seminole. They are former residents of Forsan, and Miss Green attended Howard County Junior College before transferring to Texas Tech. The prospective bridegroom is Robert Lee Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jones Jr. of Seminole. The couple will be married on Aug. 30 in the First Presbyterian Church, Seminole.

Betrothal Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Hodnett of Vincent have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Sue, to C. P. Ward Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Ward, 707 East 12th. The couple will be married Saturday at 8 p. m. in the bridal chapel of First Methodist Church.

Miss Montgomery Wed To Roy Edward Hughes

In a home ceremony Friday evening, Karen Montgomery became the bride of Roy Edward Hughes, as the Rev. Ed Welsh of Odessa read the double ring vows. He is minister of the Bethel Baptist Church, Odessa, and is a former resident of Big Spring.

The bridal party stood before a picture window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Metcalf, 611 Tulane, uncle and aunt of the bride. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ira Rice, 1406 East 14th, and Gordon Montgomery, 2003 Johnson. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hughes, 1801 Mittel.

Jimmy Montgomery gave his sister in marriage. She chose a white frock of polished cotton, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and full skirt. Her white half-hat was trimmed with tiny rosebuds.

On a white Bible, the bride carried a bouquet of white rosebuds; something old was a handkerchief, which had been given to her by her grandmother; something new was the bridal attire, and she had borrowed pearl earrings from Kathleen Thomas. She wore a blue garter and carried a penny in her slipper.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Don Hughes, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

A reception followed the ceremony, with a cake trimmed in blue served with punch. Guests were registered by Rene Beth Metcalf, cousin of the bride.

For a trip to San Antonio, the new Mrs. Hughes wore a light blue dress with white accessories and white corsage. When they return, they will make a home at 1507½ Scurry until this fall, when they will live in College Station.

The bridegroom will be a junior student at Texas A&M College and the bride will pursue her studies as a high school senior.

Rook Club Has Two High Score Winners

There were two high score winners at the Rook Club party Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Eva Pike.

Mrs. J. D. Purser won high score for guests; Mrs. W. A. Underwood was winner among the members. Other guests were Mrs. J. S. Kirby of Troy, Ala.; Mrs. Ida Kelly and Mrs. J. S. Bishop.

Mrs. Arthur Pickle, 1801 Lancaster, will be the next hostess, it was announced.

B&PW Picnic Set

Incoming officers of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be hostesses for the picnic slated for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, at the city park. A catering service will have charge of the meal.

Ice Cream Supper Is Club Fete

Members of the Eager Beaver Sewing Club, meeting Friday afternoon as is their custom, received a dividend in the form of an ice cream supper later in the evening.

The J. E. Freeman home was the scene of the social. Eight members and their families attended, as did several guests, among them Mrs. Bill Swindell and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Vieregge. Games of "42" were the diversion at the al fresco affair.

Friday afternoon, the club meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. O. Washington. The group voted to give miscellaneous hostess gifts for the next three months.

Assistance was given Mrs. J. D. Kendrick in making miniature white canes for the blind.

Mrs. E. C. Miller Jr. was introduced to the eight members as a guest.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. D. Bruton, 610 Douglas.

Retired Furniture May Be Still Good For Summer Living

Take a second look at some of those old furniture pieces you have "retired" to the basement or attic. They may still be usable for summertime living if you take a little time to renovate them, using the colorful new decorative materials now available.

Some of these materials have an adhesive backing which enables even the novice do-it-yourselfer to do a good "cover-up" job. No glue, tacks or nails are needed. Just cut the material to size, remove the paper backing to expose the adhesive, and then press the covering into place. It's that easy.

One of the most attractive of the new coverings is a plastic-coated water-proof fabric, making it an ideal covering for outdoor furniture. Neither rain nor sun wil harm it.

MRS. ARTHUR DEWEY DODDS III

Nuptial Vows Of Nita Jones And Arthur Dodds III Are Solemnized

Kneeling on a white prie - dieu in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church, Nita Jean Jones and Arthur Dewey Dodds III pledged their nuptial vows before Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Friday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Relerce G. Jones, 1404 East 14th. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Mamie Lee Dodds, Lubbock, and Arthur Dewey Dodds Jr., Cheyenne, Wyo.

Altar setting for the double ring service was a sunburst of snowmass gladioli and white Fuji mums framed with an arch of huckleberry. Fern trees flanked the floral background and cathedral tapers towered over the archway. The family pews were marked with white satin.

Traditional wedding music was played by Betty Guthrie, organist, who accompanied Richard Watkins as he sang Whither Thou Goest and The Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a floor-length model of white tulle and Chantilly lace over taffeta. A low rounded neckline enhanced the moulded bodice of Chantilly lace over taffeta which was fashioned with long sleeves and a slightly elongated waistline. Billowing over an underskirt of taffeta, the skirt of multiple white net ruffles was topped with a layer of white tulle.

Her veil extended to her shoulders from a handmade hat of white lace and seed pearls. Gardenias and frenched white carnations with natural and handmade English ivy leaves formed her styled crescent bouquet, which was showered with white satin ribbons entwined with tiny pearl rings.

BRIDAL TRADITION

In fulfilling tradition, the bride wore the wedding ring borrowed from her grandmother, Mrs. Walter Davis, who has worn it since her own wedding day fifty-one years ago. The something blue was a garter made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. O. B. Warren, and in her shoe was a penny given her by the bridegroom two years ago.

Opal Hancock, maid of honor, was attired in identical fashion as the bridesmaids; they were Betty Lou Jones, sister of the bride, Brenda Gordon and Wilma Cole. Their streetlength dresses of blue crystalline were cut with scoop neckline, short sleeves, and waistline that eased into a point at center front. Each wore a matching blue half-hat with chapel veil and carried a crescent bouquet of white Fuji mums accented with powder blue satin leaves.

Don White of Coahoma attended the bridegroom as best man. Jerry Bartley, Wilson, served as groomsman. The altar tapers were lighted by Tommy Mayfield of Post and Norman Gound, who seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jones wore a streetlength dress of Chantilly lace in ice blue. It featured a rounded neckline, flared skirt, and a bustle effect in blue satin. Her accessories were of matching blue, and white gardenias shaped her corsage.

Mrs. Dodds was dressed in a streetlength gown of pink lace, styled with short sleeves, full skirt and fitted bodice. Her accessories were also pink, and she wore a corsage of white gardenias.

GARDEN RECEPTION

Only relatives and intimate friends attended the reception in the garden of the bride's parents. There, guests were greeted by the bridal couple, assisted by their mothers and the feminine attendants.

At the refreshment table, a cloth of white net over ivory satin extended to the floor in tiers of ruffles. Focal point was a cupid epergne laden with white Fuji mums and blue gypsophila; pale blue twisted candles, which were entwined with lilies of the valley, centered the arrangement.

At one end stood the wedding cake, its three tiers tinted blue and separated by columns. A diminutive archway of blue roses and forget-me-nots sheltered the bridal pair that adorned the confection. Serving was done with crystal appointments.

Gloria Coker presided at the bride's book. Beside it was a miniature arrangement of blue and white carnations in a crystal vase of the bride's pattern. Mrs. J. P. Gordon, Mrs. J. C. Pickle, Mrs. Joe Masters, Mrs. Ross Bartlett and Mrs. H. B. Perry joined Mrs. Thomas L. Bennett, Mrs. Marshall Cauley, Mrs. Lee Porter, Mrs. Theo Isbell, Mrs. Homer Ward, Mrs. J. O. Hagood and Mrs. Olton Jamison as the houseparty.

Guests from out of town were Mrs. Jim Jones, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hampton, all of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Watson, Seminole; Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Odis Gilbert, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Troy Wood and Peggy, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Wimberley and family, also of Abilene.

WEDDING TRIP

For the wedding trip to points in Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee, the bride selected a blue and white cotton sheath with matching hat and white accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of the gardenias from her bouquet. When the couple returns, they will reside at 2316 Eighth St. in Lubbock, where she will enter Texas Tech in the fall, and he will resume his studies as a junior at the college.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, where she was valedictorian of her class this year. She was named to Who's Who and as Outstanding Student. She held membership in the Future Homemakers of America, the Debate Club, Vocational Industrial Club, and was a member of the Corral staff. Until her marriage she was employed by Quigley's Floral Shop.

Dodds, a graduate of Coahoma High School, is a member of the Texas Tech band and of Kappa Kappa Psi. He is director of music activities at Tabernacle Baptist Church.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Relerce Jones, with Mrs. Mamie Lee Dodds, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner in their garden. About 20 were seated at quartet tables decorated with white linen cloths and blue place cards.

Dinner was served from a buffet table laid with a white cutwork cloth and adorned with a basket of multi-colored daisies.

Carolyn Dietz, William Davey Are United In Garden Ceremony

The garden of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Means, Rt. 1, was the setting for the wedding of their granddaughter, Carolyn E. Dietz, to William A. Davey, Saturday night.

Thomas Cudd, minister of Main St. Church of Christ, heard the exchange of double ring vows.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Dietz, 1217 Lloyd Ave., are the parents of the bride. A graduate of Big Spring High School, she is employed as a secretary at Webb AFB.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William A. Davey Sr. whose home was in Ashtabula, Ohio. Presently he is assigned by the U. S. Air Force to Webb AFB.

Hurricane lamps lighted the path of the bridal couple, and baskets of white gladioli and palm leaves further decorated the nuptial setting.

Dietz gave his daughter in marriage. Her streetlength dress of cotton satin in a heavenly blue tone was fashioned with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. The square neckline was outlined with white lace that extended to the waist, and horizontal bands of the lace accented the skirt.

The veil cascaded to shoulder level from a small white hat of velveteen accented with rhinestones. She wore a strand of pearls. White feathered carnations and pink sweetheart roses were caught into a cascade bouquet and showered with white picoted ribbon.

Blue crystallette over taffeta was the dress worn by Gladys Oliver, maid of honor. Tiny tucks shaped the bodice, and the belt and buttons were of satin. White gloves trimmed with pearls, pearl earrings, and a corsage of pale pink sweetheart roses completed her attire.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Richard J. McCarthy, Los Angeles, Calif.

Wedding guests lingered in the garden to be greeted by the bridal couple, her parents and grandparents. The three-tiered cake topped with a figurine dominated the lace-laid refreshment table. Mrs. Kenneth Bryant, sister of the bride, was at the bride's book.

MRS. WILLIAM A. DAVEY

Coming from out of town for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Yandrich and sons, Odessa, and Mrs. J. A. Cowan, Wichita Falls.

When the couple returns from a trip to Ruidoso, N. M., they will reside at 1200 Nolan. For the journey, the new Mrs. Davey traveled in a green linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage featured the flowers from her bouquet.

MRS. HENDERSON TO MARK 97TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Tuesday will be the 97th birthday anniversary for Mrs. J. L. Henderson, who lives about 4½ miles out on the Snyder Highway on "the old home place." There will not be a big celebration, since she has been confined to her bed since November, but some of the children and grandchildren will gather for a visit with her.

Ted Henderson, with whom she makes her home, will be host to Mrs. A. J. Franklin of Lamesa, Mrs. Henry Smith of Menard, Nathan and Wess Henderson of Big Spring, and Lee Henderson of Santa Anna if things work out for them to be here.

Mrs. Henderson, who has 27 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren, has at least six great-great-grandchildren.

She was born July 2nd, 1861, in Comanche County and married the late Mr. Henderson when she was 22. The couple moved first to Mitchell County and then to Howard County. The community's first school, which was located where the present-day Center Point School now stands, was named Henderson School in honor of the family.

Placemats Can Have A Unique Use

A bright idea for the girl who sews is to make a summer briefcase from straw placemats.

Local sewing center experts suggest you buy three inexpensive straw mats and some grosgrain ribbon or French belting in two-inch width. The ribbon is used for a boxing strip around two of the place mats. The third mat forms the cover flap for the big envelopes, and is joined to it by another strip of ribbon, which can be given a decorative treatment with embroidery done on the slant-needle sewing machine, or with an automatic zigzagger attachment.

Cut ribbon in two pieces—one as long as the mats, plus one inch hem allowance, and the other as long as the distance around three sides of the mat, plus one inch seam allowance. Topstitch ribbon along one long edge of mat. Stitch other edge of same piece of ribbon to long side of second mat. Back section and flap section are now stitched together.

Now pin second piece of ribbon in place around three sides of back mat. Stitch in place. Pin and stitch ribbon to edges of third placemat. Leave top edge of third mat free.

Italy Shows New Velvet For Sports

COMO, Italy (AP)—An Italian fashion house has transformed velvet from a dainty, feminine, eveningwear fabric into a rugged tomboy, at home on the grouse moors or on the 18th tee.

The "relax" velvet introduced by the house of Legler is crease-resistant, stain and water-repellent, doesn't absorb dust and you can wash it yourself.

Woven in jewel tones, some plain, others patterned with roses, tulips, candy drops and numerous other designs, the fabric was displayed to fashion writers and buyers from all parts of the world at an open-air fashion show on the banks of Lake Como in this northern Italian town.

The show featured top Italian designers including Fabiani, Enzo, Capucci, Carosa, and Livoli. They concentrated on next year's clothes using dash and originality.

All favor the sack line. Occasionally a waisted number slipped in, but it was cunningly designed to look like a sack above and below the middle. But there are sacks and sacks, and with their versatility, the Italians showed how fetching they could look.

Even sports outfits have a semi-sack look. For the golf course, there's a sack suit of mustard-yellow velvet. Designer Enzo has produced a two-piece outfit comprising a comfortable gathered skirt topped by a loose back-buttoning jacket.

There are two dramatic cocktail numbers in printed velvet. One by Fabiani, of black and yellow sunflowers on a white background, features the semi-trapeze line falling from a wide neckline.

The other by Antonelli, in white velvet dotted with colored candy drops, has a chemise top caught in a wide band under the bust. Soft folds follow through the band rounding off the dress with a harem skirt caught tightly at the knees.

Hard-Boiled Eggs

To help keep the yolks of hard-cooked eggs a good color, peel off the shells as soon as the eggs have finished cooking.

Pot Roast Hint

Tip for brides: That post roast will be most likely to taste tender and flavorful if you simmer, rather than boil the meat.

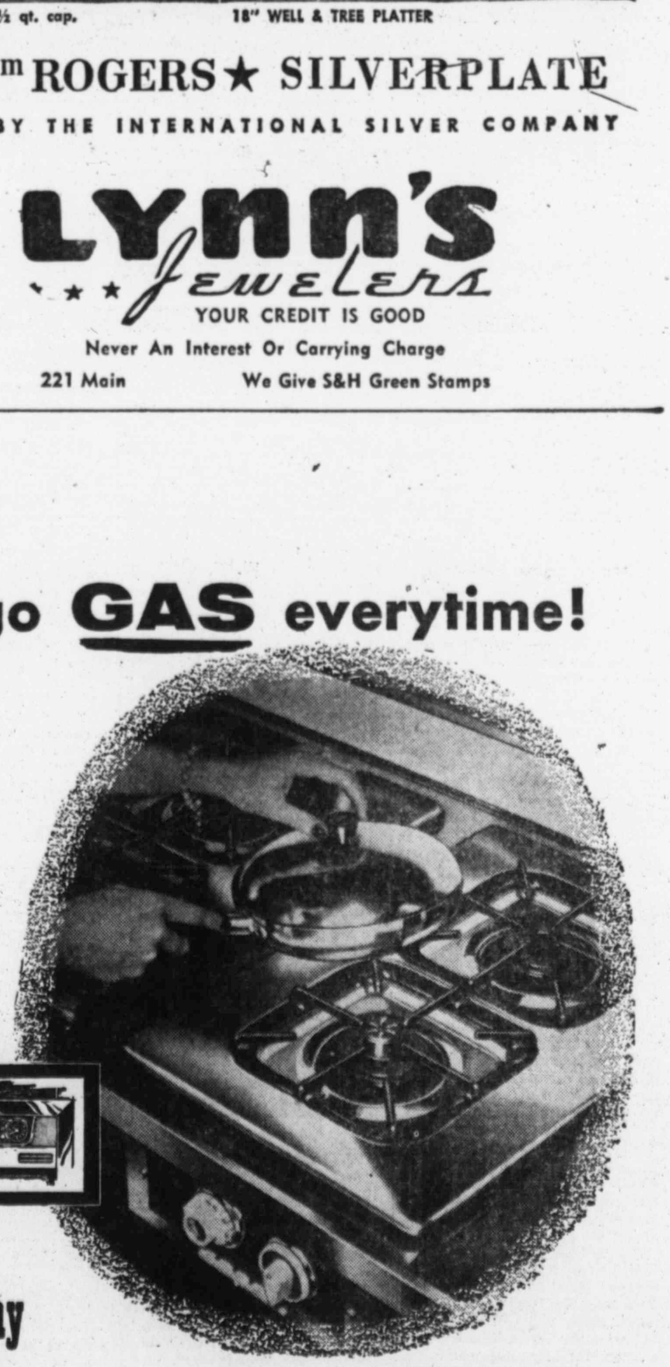
The Best Cooks Choose Gas for Top-Burner Cooking
Because It Assures Precision Control for Perfect Results

The added ingredient that puts magic into every recipe in your cookbook is the perfectly regulated Gas flame. Say you have a favorite recipe that requires an instant temperature change —from a quick, intense boil to a slow, gentle simmer. Only a Gas range can give you such drastic changes because only Gas permits such an infinite variety of heats. And only with Gas do you get such instant response when you turn it on...no Heat Hang-over when you turn it off! Not only that, your completely automatic Burner-with-a-Brain — the top burner that actually turns every pot and pan into an automatic utensil — puts an end forever to scorching, burning, and boil-overs. Let us give you all the facts to compare...then visit your gas appliance dealer, soon.



BEST FOR BROILING and BAKING, too!

Closed-door broiling is advisable only in a Gas Range where the clean gas flame actually consumes cooking vapors that otherwise would escape into the kitchen causing unpleasant heat and odor.

Perfect baking results are assured in a Gas Oven where the heat source is not subject to variation . . . and where the thermostatic control is the most accurate yet devised by mechanical science.

STANDOUT

Eyecatching Style Brings Out Lines Of The Figure

Ceil Chapman makes it a point to design dresses that men like to see on their women and that give women a definite feeling of absolute femininity.

In an era of the chemise, this party model stands out for its terrific body lines, its attitude of knowing sophistication.

The front of the bodice is cut on the bias and is lined to hold it to the figure; the neckline, daringly draped in front, takes a pretty plunge in back. The skirt, slim and molding, is caught up on the side with your own jeweled pin.

An assured success in black rayon or silk crepe, heavy sheers or thin, pliable party fabrics, it is equally good in certain of the new novelty cottons or rayon mixtures.

Select your correct size from this size chart:

Size	Bust	Waist	Hips	Nape of Neck to Waist

16	38	28	39	" 17¼ "

Size 12 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch material for dress and ¾ yards of 39-inch material for lining.

Here's Easy Way For Dressing Up Summer Cottage

In "dressing up" your summer cottage don't overlook the new easy-to-apply decorative materials now available for bringing new life to worn-out surfaces.

Splash areas, counters, table tops, old desks and children's furniture lend themselves nicely to this type of refurbishing.

Among the best of the new covering materials are those with a plastic finish. They offer the twin advantages of longer wear and easier cleaning. For the handyman with a flare for color, one material offers a wide choice of patterns and colors. This covering, too, comes with an adhesive backing which makes it easy to apply to any smooth surface.

Available are 10 solid colors, a wide variety of checks and patterns, and even some new high-fashion patterns that have silver and gold foil threads running throughout the designs.

Kitchen Need Paint? Then Do It Up Bright

If you are planning to repaint the kitchen as a summertime refresher, go all the way and reline the shelves and drawers in the kitchen cabinets as well.

The new plastic-coated materials can be a welcome change if you haven't tried them. One, typical of recent advancements, comes in a generous selection of colors and patterns for matching your new kitchen color or for introducing interesting color accents.

At Friday Tea

Mrs. Raymond J. Downey was honored with a tea Friday afternoon. Receiving guests with her were, left to right, Mrs. M. A. January, Mrs. Wm. W. Lee, Mrs. Downey, and Mrs. David R. M. Lovelace.

Farewell Parties Are Honor For Webb Folk

Petal pink and all its sister hues were used Friday afternoon at the tea complimenting Mrs. Raymond J. Downey. The affair was hosted by the M&S and Installations Groups Wives, with Mrs. Wm. W. Lee as chairman, at the Officers Club.

With her husband, Col. Downey, who has been wing executive officer at Webb AFB, the honoree plans to leave in August for his assignment as commander of the 7100th Support Group at Wiesbaden, Germany. Prior to their August 20th port call, the Downeys will visit his mother in Massachusetts and friends in Washington and New York.

Guests, calling between two and four o'clock, were greeted by Mrs. M. A. January, of the M&S Wives, and Mrs. David R. M. Lovelace, representing Installations Wives, who presented Mrs. Downey. An orchid was pinned to the honoree's frock; the house party wore corsages of pink carnations.

Over the pink background of the refreshment table, a pink net cloth extended to the floor in a flounce. Cued to the featured color was the centerpiece in a footed silver bowl; the pink of the towering arrangement of carnations graduated downward into deeper tones. The petal pink was carried out in twisted candles set in a pair of three-pronged silver holders. Elaborate tea dainties were served in silver appointments.

Mrs. Downey was presented a set of sterling silver flatware from the hostess group. The gift was arranged in sunburst fashion on a small pink-covered table centered with bouffant satin bows.

* * *

Several hundred friends from town and base gathered at the Webb Officers' Club Saturday night for a going-away party for Col. and Mrs. Raymond J. Downey and Lt. Col. and Mrs. David R. M. Lovelace. The party was sponsored by officers of Webb AFB.

The cocktail-buffet began at 7:30 p.m. and lasted until 9:30. Music by "The Starlighters," for listening and dancing, began on the poolside terrace at 9 o'clock.

A buffet was served on a table centered with white daisies and yellow zinnias, lighted by yellow candles in silver candelabra. As guests of honor, Mrs. Downey and Mrs. Lovelace were presented corsages of white gardenias.

The Lovelaces will leave soon for Enid, Okla., where the colonel will command the Installations Group at Vance AFB.

Make Wastebasket Of Popcorn Can

If you're short on wastebaskets around the house, here's a quick decorative trick.

Next time you empty the contents of a jumbo-sized potato chip or popcorn can, save the container. Wash it thoroughly, then cover it with one of the new decorative covering materials now featured in stores.

One has a plastic coating and adhesive backing. It's easy to apply because the only "tool" that's needed is a pair of scissors. Just cut the material to size, remove the paper backing and press the covering into place. It will adhere firmly and smoothly.

Here's New Recipe For Spinach Appeal

Does your family instantly recoil at the sight of spinach? Maybe with a new approach to the vegetable you can persuade them that spinach is delicious after all. It is taken from Italian cuisine.

Try this recipe:

TUSCANY SPINACH

Ingredients:

One package (10 ounces) frozen leaf spinach, boiling water, salt, 1 egg, 3 to 4 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan or Romano cheese, pepper.

Method:

Cook spinach according to package directions but use a large amount of lightly salted boiling water. Drain, pressing down in strainer with a wooden spoon to get rid of most of water, but do not have completely dry. Return to saucepan.

Beat egg, until thick and pale yellow; stir in grated cheese. Reheat spinach, turning with a fork; remove from heat. Stir in vigorously the egg-cheese mixture. Return to very low heat, tossing with a fork, until just heated through again.

Do not use high heat or boil, or mixture will curdle. Add more salt if necessary and pepper to taste. Serve at once. Makes 4

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Kathy McRee

The second session of summer school officially began Tuesday morning. Among the new instructors added to the staff for this semester are Mrs. Nunley, who is teaching freshman composition in night school, Mr. John Gentili, American history instructor, and Mr. B. M. Keese, who is the instructor for state government.

Several members of the teaching staff are enjoying their summer by taking vacations. Miss Ina Mae McCollom, history and government instructor, left Friday from Lubbock for a two weeks' trip to Yellowstone and to Lake Louise in Canada. The group she will be traveling with includes her sister and several others.

Miss Blanche Yarbrough, English instructor, entered St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock Friday morning to undergo a minor operation on her feet. Her stay in the hospital will be about 10 days.

Mrs. Elouise Ward, secretary to the dean, is also out of town on vacation. She went to Dallas with her husband to attend the state inspector's convention.

Mrs. Louise Brown took leave from the business office for two weeks. She left Saturday morning for her parents' home in Cleburne.

Another addition to our campus is now in progress. The old storage building, across the road from the new SUB, is being remodeled into an apartment for Mr. H. H. Murphy and his family. Mr. Murphy is on the maintenance staff.

At the present time, there are 108 students registered in summer school. Seventy of these are part-time students; 38 are full-time. Men who are stationed at Webb are taking advantage of the local college; there are 14 from WAFB enrolled. Of the total number of students attending HCJC, nearly half of these are in night school. Mr. Keese, registrar, said that required courses such as English, history, and government are by far the most popular. However, a good number of students are taking advantage of the chemistry, biology, and education courses which are being offered.

The editor of the Jayhawker, Cookie Sneed, has begun work on the 1959 yearbook. She started selling ads and working on a possible theme. Sammie Sue McComb and Anita Gardner have been named club editor and assistant editor for the coming year.

The YMCA is sponsoring the Senior League basketball team Thursday night at the junior high gym. Included on the team are Don Anderson, Joe Hill, Ricky Phinney, Jesse McElreath, Bobby McAdams, Charles Johnson, Jan Loudermilk, Mike Musgrove, Eston and Preston Hollis, Al Kloven, and Ray Crooks.

Randy Scarber is in Junction at the present time working on an oil rig for his father. He left last Monday and will stay until the work is completed.

Helen Gray spent the greater part of last week in Dallas. She and her mother left Wednesday morning to take her aunt back and to do some shopping. Plans included seeing some friends from Tech and attending the production, "Guys and Dolls."

It seems that summer is the time for weddings and engagements. Jacqueline Smith received an engagement ring over the Fourth of July weekend from Lewis McKnight. Lewis is a '57 graduate of Texas A&M and is now stationed at Laughlin Air Force Base in Del Rio. The date of the wedding is indefinite, but has been tentatively set for next summer.

Frances Reagan was the honored guest at a recipe shower in the home of Darlene Agee Saturday morning. Each guest brought her favorite recipe and the corresponding utensil. The girls enjoyed seeing Frances, who has been at Baylor at summer school, and visiting with one another.

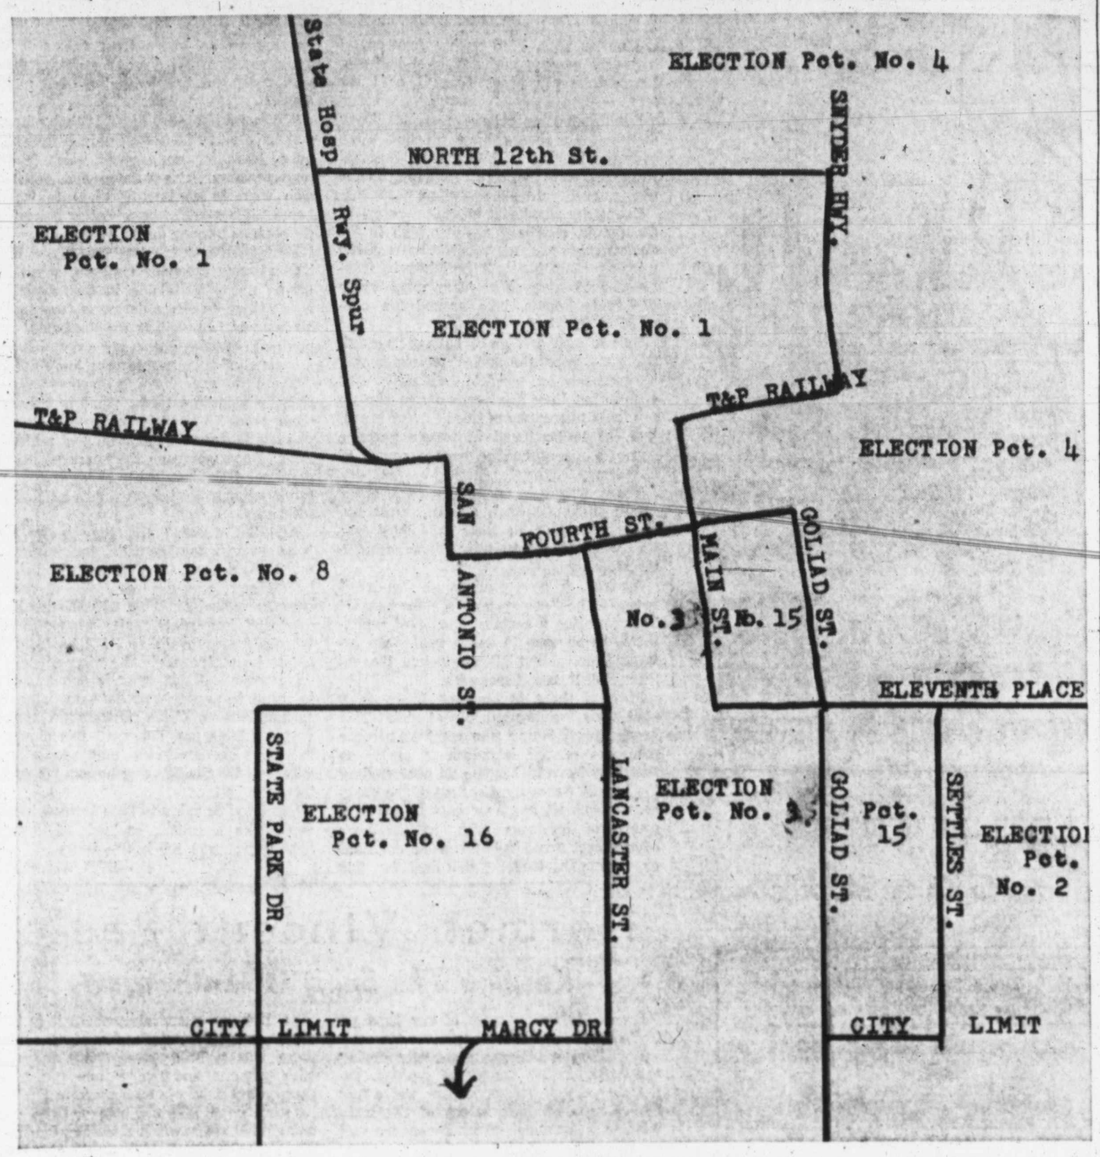
BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION D — BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 20, 1958 — SECTION D



Big Spring's Voting Precincts

Streets and other boundaries between Big Spring's seven voting precincts are shown on this skeleton map of the city and its environs. Box numbers and the locations of voting places are No. 1, Bauer (North Ward) School; No. 2, Washington School; No. 3, Main St. Fire Station; No. 4, City Hall Fire Station; No. 8, Cedar Crest (West Ward) School; No. 15, Runnels Junior High School; and No. 16, Park Hill School.

Times, Places Are Fixed For Party Meetings

Citizens attending Democratic precinct conventions next Saturday will meet at different times for city and rural boxes.

Frank Hardesty, county Democratic chairman, pegged the times for the conventions at 2 p.m. for rural and 7:30 for Big Spring precincts. Hardesty said this schedule was worked out so as not to interfere with voting.

Precinct conventions will be held at some voting boxes, and in some instances, the space for voting in city boxes is hardly adequate for that even without the conventions, he added.

At the precinct meeting, election of permanent officers will be the first order of business. The meetings will be opened by the election judge for that box acting as temporary chairman.

Hardesty added that any citizen could call the meeting to order and lead in election of a permanent chairman should the election judge not be present at the starting time.

Citizens going to conventions for precincts 2 and 15 in Big Spring will find they are attending the same convention, said Hardesty, but this is according to state laws. The number of delegates from any precinct convention to the county convention is determined by the number of votes cast in that box in the previous gubernatorial election.

And since Precinct 15 has been established since the 1956 election, it will not have any delegates, but citizens from it will be counted in Precinct 2. It will hold its own convention then two years hence.

After election of the permanent officers, any resolutions which may be submitted will be considered, other party business conducted, and delegates to the county convention elected.

The folowing meeting places are to serve for the conventions:

Big Spring boxes:

Precinct 1, North Ward school; Precinct 2, Washington Place school; Precinct 3, Main Street Fire Station; Precinct 4, City Hall; Precinct 8, West Ward school; Precinct 15, Washington Place school; Precinct 16, Park Hill school. All of these meetings are set for 7:30 p.m.

Rural boxes:

Precinct 5, Vincent, Baptist Church Educational Building; Precinct 6, Gay Hill, Gay Hill school; Precinct 7, R-Bar, Salem Church educational board; Precinct 9, Coahoma, American Legion Hall; Precinct 10, Forsan, Forsan school; Precinct 11, Center Point, Center Point school; Precinct 12, Moore, Prairie View church; Precinct 13, Knott, Knott school building. Meetings in these precincts will be at 2 p.m.

ALL WON'T VOTE, THOUGH

8,923 Voters Listed, But Total Probably Much Higher

Officially there are 8,923 persons in Howard County who are qualified to vote in next Saturday's election. Just how many of these will avail themselves of the opportunity is an issue causing political leaders and candidates considerable worry.

Mrs. Viola Robinson, Howard County tax collector, said that her records for the period when poll taxes could be paid and exemption certificates claimed show 7,542 poll tax receipts issued and 1,431 exemption certificates issued. This does not truly represent the total possible vote, however. In the rural areas—in fact, in all boxes in the county with the exception of those in Big Spring, persons who are 65 years of age and older can and do vote without necessity of obtaining an exemption certificate.

No one, it seems, has had time to make a careful count of all of the names listed as qualified voters in each of the 16 boxes. The lists are duly printed and will be relinquished to the county clerk on Monday afternoon. The lists accompany each voting box and are for guidance of voting officials in conducting the election.

A quick check of the books by the procedure of counting the names on a representative page and multiplying this by the number of pages was made last week. The totals achieved do not match the official number of poll tax receipts and exemption certificates issued by the assessor but they do afford a fair indication of the potential number of voters in each precinct.

Figures obtained by this method show the following votes for the 16 voting places in the county:

Precinct 1, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 752; exemption certificates 200.

Precinct 2, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 900; exemption certificates 135.

Precinct 3, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 996; exemption certificates 282.

Precinct 4, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 1,615; exemption certificates 224.

Precinct 5, Vincent, poll tax recepts 64, exemption certificates 1.

Precinct 6, Gay Hill, poll tax receipts 132, exemption certificates 2.

Precinct 7, R-Bar, poll tax receipts 41, exemption certificates 0.

Precinct 8, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 898; exemption certificates 242.

Precinct 9, Coahoma poll tax receipts 462; exemption certificates 12.

Precinct 10, Forsan, poll tax receipts 168, exemption certificates 0.

Precinct 11, Centerpoint, poll tax receipts 124; exemption certificates 1.

Precinct 12, Moore, poll tax receipts 69, exemption certificates 4.

Precinct 13, Knott, poll tax receipts 144; exemption certificates 5.

Precinct 15, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 612; exemption certificates 244.

Precinct 16, Big Spring, poll tax receipts 777; exemption certificates 104.

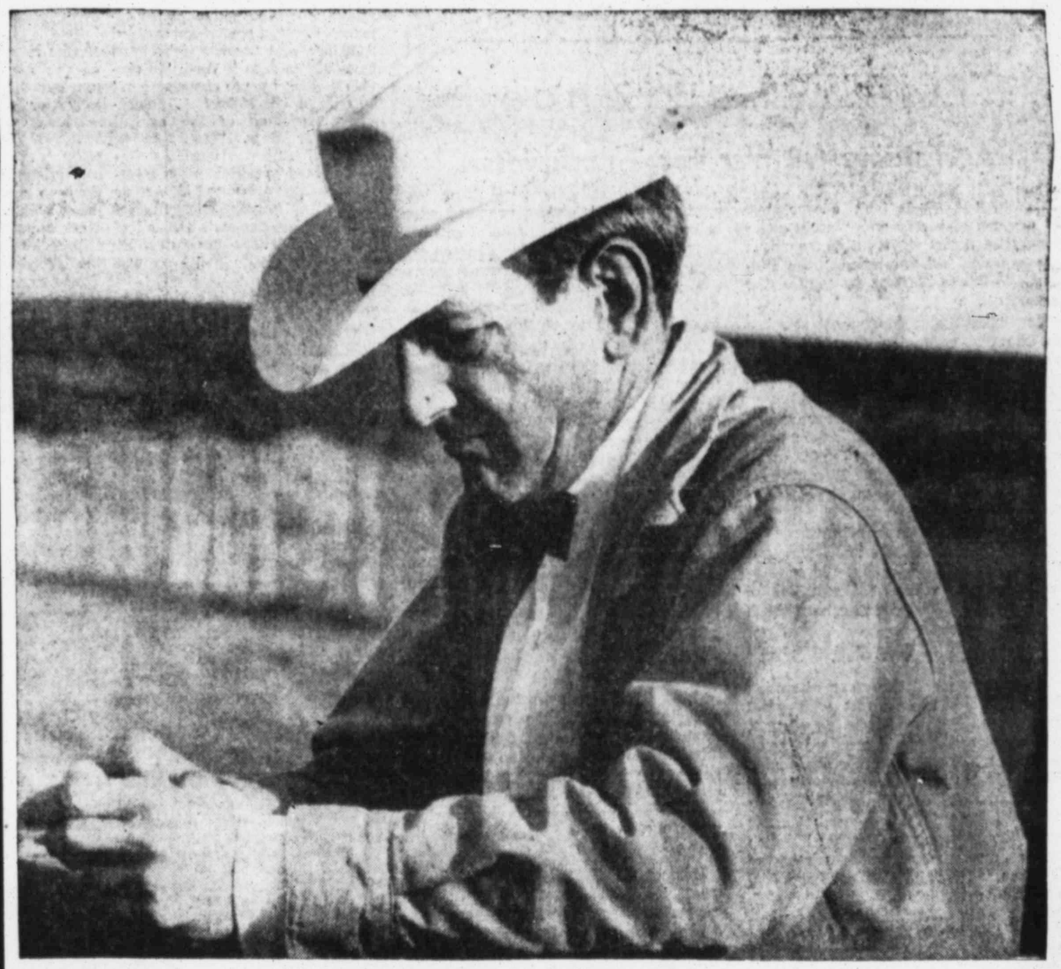
BILL BLAKLEY

CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE



Bill Blakley is a plain man. There's no fuss or vanity about him. He's as Texan as a cowboy's saddle. His career is of the stuff that made Texas great.

When he was 14 he was earning a cowhand's wages. He taught himself accounting and became an accountant. He taught himself law and became a lawyer. Long years of hard work and sacrifice made him a successful businessman, rancher, lawyer, but he never once forgot his humble beginnings . . . from the time he was born when his family was on the way to the Oklahoma Territory in a covered wagon . . . to this very hour when he gives the people of Texas the most solemn choice for a United States Senator they will ever have.

Bill Blakley, a self-taught, self-made Texan earnestly believes that EVERY man and woman in Texas deserves a voice in their government. Bill Blakley believes in government close to the people. Bill Blakley believes that the U. S. Constitution is the greatest guarantee of liberty ever struck off by the hand and brain of man. He'll work to preserve it, for you and your family and their families.

Vote for Bill Blakley for United States Senator and you'll be proud of this vote the longest day you live.

BILL BLAKLEY FOR U. S. SENATOR

WORK FOR BILL BLAKLEY; HE NEEDS YOUR HELP

A Bible Thought For Today

"Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God." (James 4:4)

The Fundamentals And Bill Blakley

As the primary election date draws nearer, the spirit of campaigning for the major offices steps up. Declarations are made under stress, charges and countercharges fly. It becomes increasingly more difficult for voters to separate facts from fancy, politics from statesmanship.

They will do well to study very carefully the basic things that candidates stand for. The Herald endorses the election of William A. Blakley to the U. S. Senator's post from Texas because he is standing on a return to—and a clinging to—government under the terms of the U. S. Constitution. He is advocating the full doctrine of states rights (applying this to education, and the Courts, among other things) and recognizing that with state rights go state responsibility.

Bill Blakley hasn't advocated a reduction in taxes in one breath and an increase in various government benefits in another. This sort of thing sounds very attractive, but it is not within the realm of sound economy. The services, the security, the benefits that people get from their government have to be paid for, and everybody shares in the paying.

Bill Blakley hasn't said that the jam ought to be on the lower shelf "so the little man can reach it." This, too, has a fine ring to it, but we wonder if better statesmanship shouldn't call for taking the jam out of the pantry so nobody can reach it. Bill Blakley doesn't go along with raiding the jam-pot, and basically neither do the great majority of Texans, who are proud of their individualism.

Bill Blakley hasn't played the "little man" against the others. This is a false phrase defying definition, and Blakley feels that all Texans can stand together and benefit together from adherence to constitutional government.

The point is that the sound concepts of government ought to be advocated by any man seeking public office, and the people are entitled to have in office men like Blakley who are thoroughly grounded in the basic fundamentals, rather than men who utter phrases that are nice to hear, but which won't stand the practical tests.

Trespassers Should Be Prosecuted

Look Who's Backing Whom

The inability of the United Nations, trammeled as it is by internal jealousy and distrust, by the necessity of carrying water on both shoulders, by trying to keep the free West and the slave Communist world from coming to blows—the inability of U.N. to prevent or discourage aggressions has long since become manifest.

In the Suez affair the U.N. set up a small international armed force—to patrol the canal, nothing more. It had no machinery, no authority, no effective remedy to prevent aggressors from infiltrating, subverting or overthrowing existing governments in that area. Whether this infiltrating and subverting came from Nasser's Egypt or directly from the Kremlin the results were the same.

For all anything U.N. did or could do, the absorption of small countries by larger countries in the Middle East proceeded unabated, with accelerated success.

The object was to destroy Western prestige and influence in that area, and to reorient the Middle East toward Moscow.

This remorseless design was momentarily reversed when Britain and France went into the Suez Canal to keep that vital lifeline of the West open. Sure, they bypassed the U.N., knowing there was no relief or hope of relief there.

That time, the U. S. led the U.N. against its old allies.

Few weeks ago the buzzards settled on Lebanon, marked as the next victim of absorption by infiltration. The U.N. sent in "observers" to see what was happening. Secretary General Dag Hammerskjold went in himself, talked with both sides, reported there was no "indication" that Syrian or Egyptian forces were meddling. Yet, it was obvious Lebanon had been marked for slaughter, and in a few more days or weeks its constitutional government would be overthrown with the blessing of Nasser and the Kremlin.

Then Iraq went under, overnight, to loud cheers and applause from Cairo and Moscow.

It was the last straw. This time it was the U. S. that went in, bypassing the U.N.—though U.N.'s own Article 51 clearly provides for such an operation.

So, rather than see an area vital to the West go by default while U.N. itself stood helpless on the sidelines, our government did what it had condemned Britain and France for doing less than two years ago, and went into Lebanon at the request of Lebanon's government.

Who's backing us up now? Why, Britain and France.

A Warning Of War For The Soviets

WASHINGTON—It isn't a war, but the warning of a war which could come unless the Soviet government abandons its aggression and subversion in the Middle East—this is the true meaning of the present crisis.

The United States government now has put the blame for the downfall of the government of Iraq and for the rebellion in Lebanon squarely on the Soviet government.

There are two basic points upon which the United States feels justified in using military force. Both were stated in a single paragraph by President Eisenhower in his message to Congress on Tuesday, as follows:

"United States forces are being sent to Lebanon to protect American lives and by their presence to assist the government of Lebanon in the preservation of Lebanon's territorial integrity and independence, which have been deemed vital to United States national interests and world peace."

The language and the order of stating the two issues are fraught with great significance. For it will be noted that, first, American Marines are in Lebanon to protect 2,500 American citizens and, second, it is "by their presence" that help will be given to preserve Lebanon's territorial integrity. The second point is really the "Eisenhower Doctrine," which was approved by a joint resolution of Congress. As for the first point, no congressional action at this time is needed, because a President is always empowered to take the initial steps to protect American lives and property.

It was on the issue of seeking further military authority to protect American lives that President Wilson asked Congress in 1917 to recognize the existence of a "state of war" because the submarines of the Kaiser's government were killing American citizens who were traveling in unarmed passenger ships on the high seas. Only secondarily was the issue of "making the world safe for democracy" introduced in that presidential message to Congress.

Today the United States government stands primarily on its right, under international law, to send in military forces to protect American lives and incidentally to comply with the request of the existing government in Lebanon for military help in preserving its territorial integrity and independence.

The Soviet government, of course, is blasting forth its denunciation of the American intervention. But this is being done to hide the true guilt of the Communists. President Eisenhower is outspoken in his charge of Soviet complicity. In his message to Congress he described the start of the revolt in Lebanon along the Syrian border two months ago, and said:

This revolt was encouraged and strongly backed by the official Cairo, Damascus and Soviet radios, which broadcast to Lebanon in the Arabic language. The insurrection was further supported by sizable amounts of arms, ammunition and money and by personnel infiltrated from Syria to fight against the lawful authorities."

This is the President's public indictment of both the Moscow and Cairo governments. It forms the basis for future action by the West. The President summarized it succinctly as follows:

"Indirect aggression and violence are being promoted in the Near East in clear violation of the provisions of the United Nations Charter."

This puts up to the U. N. the issue of whether it will again denounce, as it did in its Korean resolution in 1950, the crime of "fomenting of civil strife in the interest of a foreign power." So, while the United States is asking the U.N. to intervene and take over the problem, the government here is prepared nevertheless to form a "collective security" group under Article 51 of the U.N. Charter and take the action that such a group is permitted, under the charter—irrespective of Security Council vetoes — to carry on until peace is restored. The policy of the United States is enunciated as followed by the President: "We must be prepared to meet the situation, whatever be the consequences."

This is a solemn warning to the Soviets that America means business. It is a warning also that the United States will not let the Middle East fall into Soviet hands through the plotting of Nasser or any other puppet regime in Syria, Iraq, or anywhere else.

It looks like the beginning of a long struggle. There will be no big war, however, unless the Soviets precipitate it. There will be no local war either if the U. N. has the courage to squelch the intrusions of Soviet agents in the Middle East.

Business Picture Has Changed In Three Months

Exactly three months ago, as duly reported here, a story was going around the country: First business man: "Have you had an Eisenhower cocktail?" Second business man: "No, what is it?" First business man: "Business on the rocks."

Today that's far away and long ago. American Marines are in Lebanon. The Federal Reserve Board has jumped four points from its recession low of 126 in April. Washington headlines center on foreign affairs and Bernard Goldfine rather than on remedies to stop the economic recession.

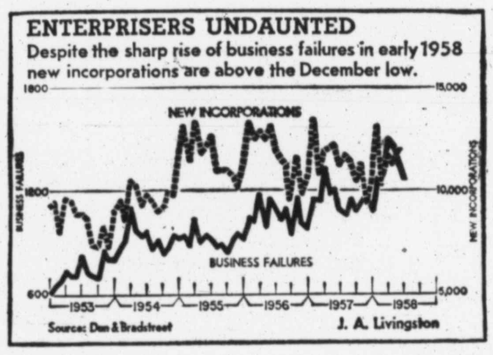
Which suggests how mercurial are economics and men. Late in March, the Committee for Economic Development recommended a 20 per cent tax cut if business continued to drop in April "to provide a quick spur to consumption." Late in April, Nelson A. Rockefeller, chairman of the overall Rockefeller Bros. "Challenge to America" studies, urged an immediate tax cut in a radio interview. He was supported by Arthur F. Burns, former chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers and a member of the Rockefeller panel on economics.

During April and into May, Sen. Paul Douglas, as chairman of a joint Senate-House subcommittee, held hearings on the recession and what ought to be done about it. Numerous economists insisted the decline was worse than either 1949-50 or 1953-54, that drastic action, such as a tax cut, should be taken. Sen. Douglas, as recently as mid-June, appealed for a tax reduction in a full-dress talk from the Senate floor.

Editorialists often criticized Eisenhower for letting the recession get ahead of him. On June 10, the New York Times discounted the April-to-May drop in unemployment, thus: "It would be easy for the over-optimistically minded to conclude that the business recession had now 'touched bottom' . . . Unhappily, such a conclusion would almost certainly prove to have been based on false hopes." That same week, Business Week magazine talked about the "immediate necessity of fighting the recession." The New York Times reiterated its concern about the recession on June 21 and June 26.

All through this, Secretary of the Treasury Anderson advised President Eisenhower against precipitate action, against a tax cut. He contended that rising government expenditures would reverse the trend. Defense orders would create employment; unemployment benefits would support consumer purchasing. He now seems to have been proved right.

Looking back, it seems as if the bad news came to a head in April. Yet, surprisingly, the stock market was strong and business men showed confidence. New incorporations have risen since January, notwithstanding a 12 per cent increase in business failures—over a year ago (see chart).



From August 1957 through April this year, production took a 13 per cent skid from 145 to 126 in the Federal Reserve Board index. Hours of work per week also declined. During the winter, heavy snows and rains cut into retail sales and delayed revival in construction. And Easter was early.

In January, unemployment reached 4,500,000, up a million from December. Rises in February and again in March—to 5,200,000—brought dire prophecies. Perhaps 6,000,000 or more would be clamoring for jobs when high schools and colleges set their graduates loose.

But the worst was over when the fears were greatest. Unemployment dropped in both April and May, and the 530,000 rise in June to 5,437,000 was less than a year ago. Moreover, the revival in production, largely confined to steel and autos in May, broadened to machinery and nondurables.

That two-point rise in production in June on top of the two-point rise in May suggests a new Eisenhower cocktail: Business Off the Rocks. The only time in the history of the index reaching back to 1919, that recovery failed after a strong rebound was in 1932. And that was during the Great Depression.

In 1949, production rose three points from 94 in July to 97 in September, then slipped three points to 94 in October and proceeded thence right on up—helped by the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950. In 1954, the index advanced from 123 in April to 125, slipped back to 123 in August, then pushed briskly ahead. Production, of course, could falter this month or next. Summer antics are not too reliable. But the pattern is set—for a rise. The index is unlikely to drop back to 126.

After all, personal income rose again in June. Housing starts were also up. And it's likely that business men will now become more optimistic about expansion. Wall Street's bullishness suggests as much. Investors and speculators are more excited by improvement in business than the continuing deterioration of America's status in the Middle East.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF
DEATH ON THE VIADUCT
Twelfth of a series

by Donald J. Sobol

Dr. Haledjian was driving toward the Metropolitan Golf Club and an early round of golf. He had reached the Tamis viaduct when he spied an empty patrol car parked to one side.

He stopped his station wagon immediately and descended 200 feet to the bottom of the gorge. There an officer stood beside the broken body of a young woman.

The policeman, recognizing the criminologist, accepted his offer of help, but added, "Not much mystery to this. She must have jumped, hit those boulders first, and bounced off. I found her left shoe six feet away, the contents of her pocketbook strewn around for yards."

Two sticks of lipstick, a black address book, a small amount of money, a handkerchief, and a packet of hair pins were collected neatly on top of the empty bag.

Examination of the body disclosed the spine broken and the skull smashed fearfully.

"She was a pretty girl," muttered the officer.

"You knew her?"

"Name's Alice Divine. I passed her regularly. She walked across the viaduct every morning on the way to the factory. She always had a smile. I can't understand why, but it's suicide plain enough."

Before you commit yourself in a report, would you hunt something for me?" inquired Haledjian.

The officer listened, and then climbed back to the viaduct. In a few minutes he returned.

"I guess you were right. It looks like murder now," he said, opening his palm to show the object for which Haledjian had asked him to search.

WHAT HAD THE OFFICER FOUND ON THE VIADUCT THAT POINTED TO MURDER?

An officer stood by the broken body of a young woman.

A compact. It was not in the gorge with her other articles." Haledjian deduced she had removed it from her pocketbook on the viaduct. It seemed a safe conclusion that she had been pushed while powdering her nose, since a girl bent on suicide would not bother about her appearance.

Around The Rim

If You Want To See Bears, Keep Quiet

You know anything about bears?

I guess the only bears I ever saw were behind bars of cages, or in the pits of the newer zoos. With such safeguards, I had only passing curiosity, and in truth, I can take my bears (caged) or leave 'em.

But things may get more serious. They say that the bears have all but taken over the tourists in Yellowstone National Park, and now they are beginning to edge closer, even into New Mexico.

Up at the wonderful mountain resort of Cloudcroft, a village nestling high in the Sacramento peaks, people have been minding their business in leisurely fashion for many years. They play some golf, ride horses, hike around the canyons, or just loaf.

This is well and good, but sure enough the past year the bears are beginning to encroach on people's bailiwicks. Not openly, but they are beginning to slip up at nights to partake of goodies (for bears, that is) to be found in town's garbage dump, a disposal place over a couple of hills from Cloudcroft village.

There would be nothing wrong about people sticking to their own pleasures and bears attending to their own business; it's when the two mix that trouble threatens.

Anyway, a new pastime at Cloudcroft seems to be "going up to see the bears." This connotes a certain amount of excitement, to be able to see a real, live, at-large bear, poling his snout into the refuse. But it has drawbacks.

First of these is that the bears don't start their forage until late at night. This keeps up all hands who want to become members of the bear-looking party, so that they have to become as nocturnal as the beasts. Secondly, because of the darkness, about all one ever gets to see is a couple of luminous orbs, as the bear eyes reflect a suddenly-turned-on car light or flashlight. Rudely distrubed by this illumination during supper, the bears supposedly turn and lumber back up into the mountains whence they came. Or at least the human onlookers trust this will be their reaction. Wise ones stay in their cars until the bear's motive are made clear.

The worst handicap of all is that a bear-watchnig party has to remain completely quiet. Now, for some queer quirk in human makeup, it is women and children who want to go late at night to watch bears. Men usually have better things to do, such as playing cards, or sleeping.

Have you ever tried to envision a carload of women and-or children, stealthily driven up to a hillside in the dark of night, there to sit in darkness for maybe an hour or two waiting for the bears' appetites to develop—have you ever pictured a carload of such people remaining quiet?

The little ones have a thousand questions to ask, like Papa, what is a bear; papa, what do bears eat; Papa, how can you tell between a Papa Bear and a Mama Bear; Papa where do the bears go in the daytime. You just can't shush the little tykes enough to let 'em get a look at bear-eyes.

And the women? Oh, they go to the bear grounds for the ride, but if there's much of a wait, the afternoon's bridge hands have to be discussed; the way that chemise looked on What's-Her-Name is a vital and immediate topic; what another What's-Her-Name did to HER husband is not to be postponed in the discussions.

No self-respecting bear is going to try to come to supper and have to listen to such goings-on. If he wanders up to the garbage table and hears all this chatter, naturally he concludes that people are silly, and the farther way he can get from them the better.

So, if you're going to be a bear-watcher, don't take a crowd. Instead of seeing bear's eyes, you see bear's rears.

Keeping The Spirit Of Enthusiasm

I seem to spend most of my time on trains and airplanes.

I was on a train trip recently during one of the many periods of gloomy, depressing, foggy, rainy weather we've had this year. Just looking out of the train window was enough to make anyone feel depressed and, when I went into the diner for breakfast and the waiter came for my order, I said to him, "This isn't much of a morning, is it?"

"It sure ain't," he told me in glum agreement.

Just then the dining car steward led a man to my table and seated him across from me. He shook out his napkin vigorously, put it on his lap, leaned across the table and smiled at me, "It's a great morning, isn't it?"

"Well, it's raining." I answered.

"What's wrong with rain?" he asked and gave me quite a dissertation on the benefits of rain. Then he said, "What's your line, friend?"

"I'm in kind of a religious line."

He assured me it was a fine line to be in and then I had to ask him what his line was, "You really want to know?" he said.

I told him I did, so he reached down into a briefcase he had carried in with him and pulled out, of all things, a fly swatter and put it on the table. "Know what that is," he asked.

I replied that it was a fly swatter.

"Ah, but this isn't an ordinary fly swatter," he pointed out. "You've never seen one like this before. See that swatting end. It's smooth; it won't tear the curtains or the furniture fabric. It's bigger than most and so makes it easier to kill flies. But the great thing about it is this . . ." and he pointed to a place where there was a little tank. "This is filled with perfume and every time you swat flies, you fill the air with perfume." Then he went on to tell me how well he was doing making the world a sweeter-smelling place with fewer flies.

By the time he got through with me, I was all set to buy one myself. When he left, I thought to myself that here we had talked, a minister and a fly swatter salesman, and our subject had not been the greatness of God but the greatness of a new kind of fly swatter. And I asked myself what was wrong with me that rainy day that I hadn't been able to bear glorious witness to the power of God.

The answer was a simple one. The fly swatter salesman had practiced the art of enthusiasm—which I am always preaching and writing about—and I had failed to do so. The result was that he had sold me on his fly swatter and I had failed even to approach him on my much more important mission. But then I realized that he probably hadn't really needed me at all.

For this man had been able to take a simple, humble household object and, by his wholehearted approach to the problem of selling it, been able to fill it with glory. He had done this only by means of his enthusiasm.

As I have written many times before, the ancient derivation of the word "enthusiasm" is, quite literally, "filled with God." And there is no better way than the art of enthusiasm to fill your work with glory and to crown it with success.

Western Alliance Under New Strain

PARIS—The disaster in Iraq, coming as the latest and perhaps decisive blow to the position of the Western powers in the Middle East, is certain to put a new strain on the Western alliance.

In the De Gaulle government here and in the MacMillan government in London are the principal architects of the policy of October, 1956, which led to the Britpsh-French-Israeli attack on Egypt. These men have convinced themselves that it was American intervention on the side of Egypt — combined with threats from Moscow to send rockets against West European capitals—that frustrated the attack on Egypt and thereby saved President Nasser whom they had hoped to overthrow. While they are publicly discreet, in private they trace the subsequent disasters to failure to topple Nasser as subservient to Moscow and the objectives of Moscow is, as this reporter can assert on the basis of information from Western observers in Moscow, not shared by the masters of the Kremlin. They went all out to give him the full treatment in the course of a state visit to the U.S.S.R., yet in response he showed considerable restraint and reserve. More important, shortly after he had returned to Cairo, he went to Yugoslavia to visit Marshal Tito who had just come under violent renewed attack from the Kremlin and of the satellites and Red China.

Nasser joined with Tito in appealing to the two big power blocs to compose their differences. Western diplomats believe this infuriated the Kremlin.

What this signifies, in the view of one observer, is that "communism" and Soviet influence are too simple an explanation for Nasser and what is happening in the Mideast. The Communists are fishing in these troubled waters, conspicuously in Yemen, and it is hardly necessary to add that they are overjoyed at the explosion of the Baghdad Pact. But the force of fanatic Arab nationalism, a force consistently underestimated by American policymakers, must be given a high place in any reckoning of the tragedy that now seems to be approaching a terrifying culmination.

In Moscow this reporter was told by a Western diplomat with close Mideastern connections that shortly before Nasser left on his Russian visit he received the American Ambassador to Cairo, Raymond Hare, who is reported to have given him broad assurances, including the suggestion of a greatly expanded aid program. This diplomat explained Nasser's restraint while in the Soviet Union in large part by the promises that had, in effect, been given to him.

It is pertinent perhaps to ask how much credence was put in any assurances that Nasser may have given in return. But if there is to be a really thoroughgoing investigation of American foreign policy, as is suggested in Washington dispatches, cause and effect in relation to the current disaster must be traced back much further.

While again it is concealed by the polite surface, many knowledgeable Europeans blame the United States for Nasser. They believe it was American policy and to some extent American intrigue that helped to overthrow Mohammed Naguib and install Nasser in his place. American diplomats were apparently convinced that "they could work with" Nasser more closely than with Naguib who is still under house arrest in Egypt. Naguib's overthrow took place in April, 1954, and disillusion came almost at once as Nasser launched his campaign of militant nationalism with virulent attacks on the "imperialist" powers.

Little more than a year after he came to power, and this in any realistic inquiry into American foreign policy is the central development, Nasser made his arms deal with Moscow. At the time of the summit conference at Geneva three years ago Secretary of State Dulles had information about that deal. But in the atmosphere of goodwill generated there President Eisenhower failed to confront Khrushchev and Bulganin, who was then premier, with a request for information on what this signified and what Russian intentions in the Mideast were.

Since Geneva the story has been one of almost continuous drift, with each new calamity bringing closer the threat of unmitigated disaster. For America's European allies, dependent on the oil of the Mideast to exist, the showdown is close.

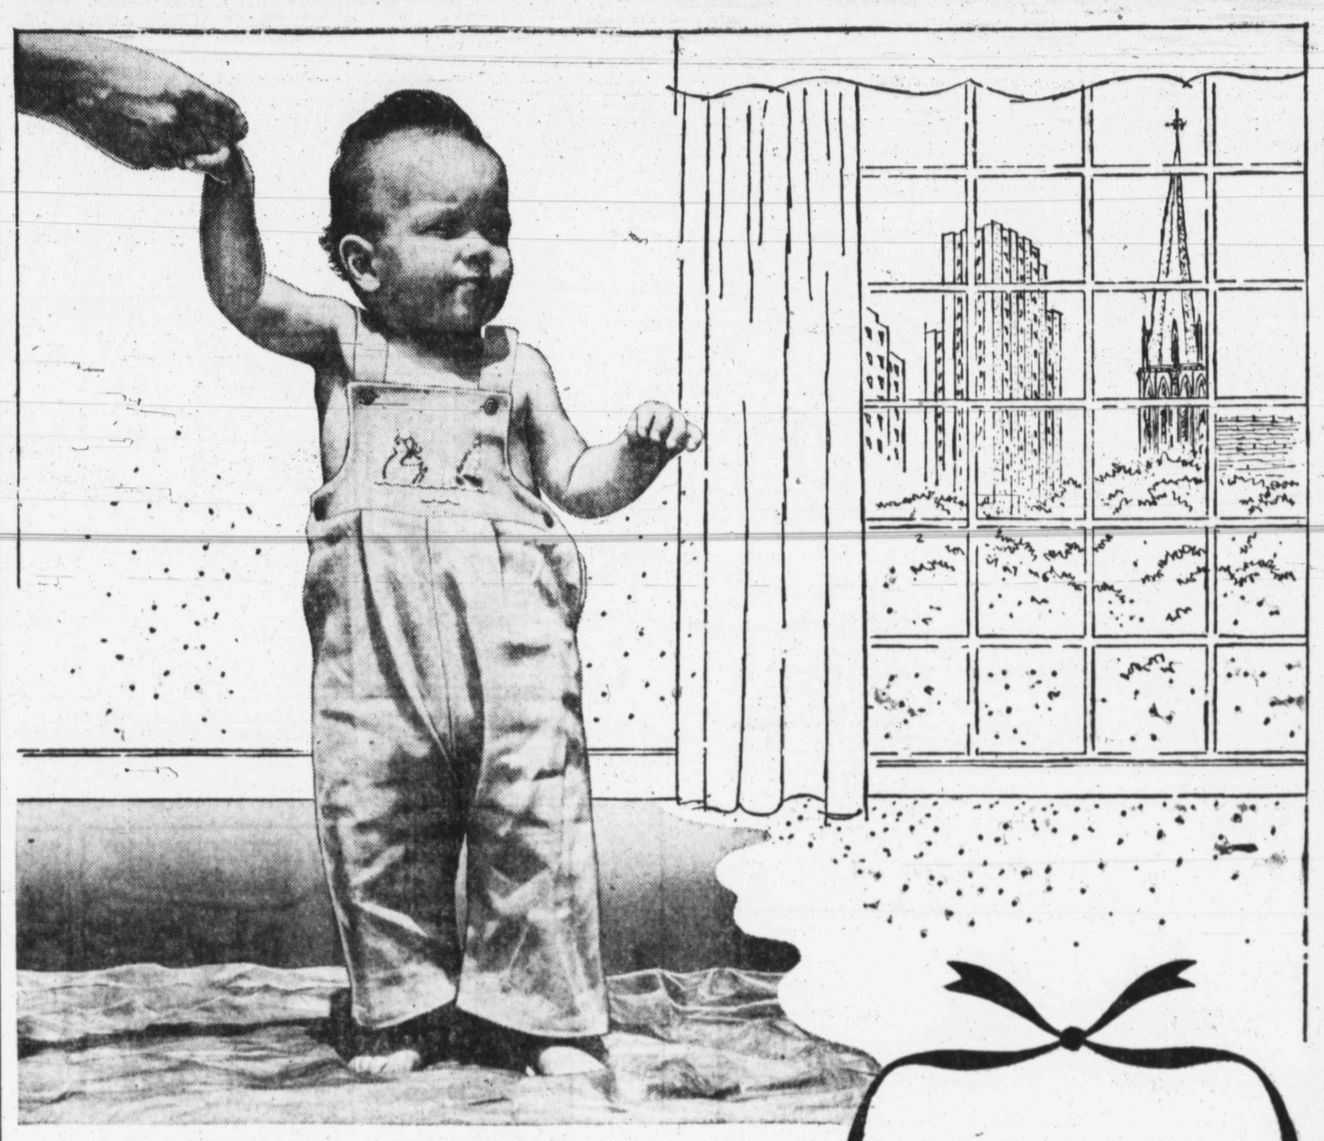
Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!



His First Steps...

He stands with his legs quivering ever so slightly, ready to put forth first one foot . . . and then the other.

This is a great moment, and it might be frightening if it were not for the strong, steady clasp of his mother's hand. She is there to guide him . . . to catch him if he falls.

But the time will come when he'll have to let go of his mother's hand, and go forth on his own. Even then, he will need guidance. His mother is taking care of that, too. Already, he attends church with his parents on Sundays and slowly but surely he will begin to learn the meaning of faith. Children must be taught to take spiritual as well as physical steps. The Church stands ready to teach them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Americans Let Hair Down In Famed British Drama School

Exit Cue

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON, (AP)—The Royal Academy of Dramatic Art is no place for a crew-cut or short bob. Acting in Britain needs hair.

A pair of Americans stydying drama at the academy were a bit startled at first when an instructor told them: Grow more hair.

But they soon learned it's the old - fashioned, long - haired approach of the Shakespearean stage—not the crew - cut vigor of the American stage—that is being taught in Britain.

Now 26-year - old Thomas Paige Sawyer of Topeka, Kan., is encouraging a beard, and 18-year-old Ellen Sheean of New York is letting her bob lengthen.

Tom is being prepared to play Macbeth in an academy presentation of the Shakespearean tragedy. Ellen merely knows that she is in for "something longhaired."

The two are among eight Americans studying at Britain's most famous dramatic school. The academy is patronized by royalty and supported by the nation's theatrical profession. A bust of playwright George Bernard Shaw, who remembered the academy in his controversial will, surveys traffic at the entrance.

The academy, which has a capacity enrollment of 260, usually makes room for about 10 Americans. They are chosen at yearly auditions in New York and then come here for two of the toughest years in their young lives.

In a building near the University of London, the academy hammers drama into them, and teaches them fencing, phinetics, deportment and the histories of drama, costume and decor.

If they can't absorb it all fast enough, they are sent home.

The British, said Mimi Shelton of Asheville, N. C., have a different approach to drama. "Some of us who have had some theatrical experience in the United States have a chance to get impressions of some quite different techniques here," she said.

"In America, theater has guts and vigor. Here it has polished style."

"After American realism it is pleasant to come into an atmosphere in which there is more appreciation of beauty," Sawyer said. "It is agreeable to inject a bit of poetry into acting, and while I'm here and have the chance I'm bearing down hard on Shakespearean roles."

Foreign students pay their own travel costs, tuition and living expenses. But after their first term, they can compete for 15 scholarships and 28 cash awards.

"I spend more money for cigarettes (about 50 cents a package in London) than for rent," Sawyer said.

LOOKS at BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

WESTERING By Irwin R. Blacker. World Publishing Co.

Here's a very different sort of western. In fact it is a little erroneous to classify it as a western—yet there seems no other workable way to place it.

Irwin R. Blacker has written the story of a wagon train moving across the plains to Oregon back in 1845. Outwardly this sounds like the cut-and-dried recital of the adventures and sufferings of pioneers.

In this tale, though, you find no fights with bloodthirsty Indians. The immigrants never suffer from hunger.

They have plenty of tough times, however. The cholera strikes down several of their members. There are difficulties crossing rivers and climbing mountain ranges.

The story is about one third excerpts from the factual and rather colorless trail journal of one of the party—a man educated in a theological school but interested to a much greater degree in becoming a farmer. The balance of the book is a series of narratives about individuals making the trip. There is a lot of psychology incorporated but the finished product is a most interesting and exciting story.

The rigors of the trail transform some of the weaker members of the party into strong individuals. There are deeds of violence within the ranks of the train party itself. Sex plays an almost exaggerated role in the recital.

All in all, here's a book that should find many fanciers.

Irwin R. Blacker, the author of "Westering" was born in Cleveland, Ohio. He served in World War II with the engineers in Italy and in North Africa. He taught English at Western Reserve and Purdue Universities. He has worked in public relations and served as researcher and writer for many television shows. He is the editor of "Irregulars, Partisans and Guerrillas" published in 1954.

"Westering" goes on sale Monday. —S.W.B.

LLANO ESTACADO by J. R. Simpson. Naylor Publishing Co.

S. R. Simpson, pioneer West Texan and a familiar figure in the Lamesa area for half a century, has put down his early day reminiscences in a little booklet, "Llano Estacado."

This volume, illustrated with a number of photographs taken on the frontier range, is available at the Book Stall.

Mr. Simpson writes in the simple narrative style of an old time cowboy putting down his remembrances of early day conditions and personalities. A lot of the names (for instance the Wassons) will be familiar to those in this area.

He mentions some pioneer outlaws, one of whom was Tom Ross, although Mr. Simpson never quite relegates him to that class. He does mention Blackjack Ketchum, who had a reputation in these parts.

While his experiences as a cowboy and pioneer motorcar dealer are interesting, his most delightful reminiscences have to do with the recollections of those who had contact with the Indians and the buffaloes.

The account of the migrations of the Comanches under Baha El Sol (Afraid of Nothing Under the Sun) in September when the Comanche Moon sent chills into Mexicans in Durango and Chihuahua make prime reading.

Mr. Simpson does Llano Estacado up without fuss or feathers or attempt to color frontier life. It makes for further documentation of pioneer days by those who knew it as it really was. —J.P.

EVER WATCHED A SMILE GROW?

To know what a miracle it is, you must first see the terror-stricken face of a child who has grown up overseas, knowing only violence and privation . . . a child like a certain orphaned four-year-old boy. His parents had lost their lives struggling for freedom. When the boy was brought to an orphanage operated by one of America's religious faiths, his eyes were filled with terror. For weeks he failed to respond to kindness—only stared with wide, wary eyes. But one day he forgot. He accepted a toy. Slowly his eyes softened—and a smile began to grow at the corners of his mouth till he was grinning happily.

You can make other smiles grow—by contributing to your religious faith's OVERSEAS AID PROGRAM.

BUTTONS, ELG & FORD
A mixture of heroism and humor

ROWLANDS & FERRER
A comedy of errors

CINEMA COMMENT

Comedies Take Film Spotlight

IMITATION GENERAL, co-starring Glenn Ford and Red Buttons. Produced by William Hawks. Directed by George Marshall. Screenplay by William Bowers, based on the story by William Chamberlain. Sunday through Tuesday at the Ritz.

It is rare, indeed, that drama and comedy may be mixed in any manner short of ridiculous. Yet, that mixture is achieved by two of the screen's leading actors; perhaps the only two who could have done it. "Imitation General" unites Glenn Ford, the accomplished comedian of "Don't Go Near the Water," and Red Buttons, the former comedian who earned an Academy Award for his dramatic performance in "Sayonara."

The story itself is just improbable enough to be humorous. It puts Ford, a sergeant, in the shoes of a slain general, proving that all is not brass that glitters. His impersonation, strictly not by the book, saves an Army unit from complete demoralization and rout, and Ford's quick moves bring defeat to the Germans.

The comic situations stem mostly from the characters involved, such as Ford's unscheduled entry into the bathroom of a young French farm girl. He had thought to find some Germans hidden in the bathtub, but finds Taina Elg instead.

"Imitation General" is not the funniest comedy ever filmed, but it's a combination of heroism and humor it would be a pity to miss.

THE HIGH COST OF LOVING, starring Jose Ferrer and Gena Rowlands. Produced by Milo O. Frank Jr. Directed by Jose Ferrer. Screenplay by Rip Van Ronkel and Milo O. Frank Jr. Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz.

Gena Rowlands, the patrician beauty from Wisconsin, had never stepped before a movie camera when she started filming "The High Cost of Loving," although she had faced many a TV camera and had made a hit on Broadway. Judging from the reaction to her first film, Miss Rowlands might well become another Grace Kelly.

Jose Ferrer has already proved with a long line of successes that any film he both directs and acts in is going to be good, at the very least. His latest is no exception. He lends his master touch to a comedy of human errors from the penetrating pen of Rip Van Ronkel. Ferrer and Miss Rowlands, after a happy marriage of nine years, suddenly come up against a double worry: Ferrer gets the idea he is about to be fired, and his wife thinks the stork may be on its way.

Between the two of them, a molehill of worry soon becomes a mountain of anxiety. The comedy of errors ends only when the worried pair discover the whole mess was an error from the start, and everything ends happily.

Other viewing:

"Witness for the Prosecution." Charles Laughton, Tyrone Power and Marlene Dietrich in a fast-breaking suspense yarn that ran a hard race for last year's Academy Awards.

"Escapade in Japan." A pleasing little tale of two runaway youngsters — an American and a Japanese—who high-tail it through the byways of a very colorful Japan.

"King Solomon's Mines." One of the best white-hunter stories ever put on film.

"Slaughter on 10th Avenue." "Nothing to compare with "On the Waterfront," but nonetheless a suspenseful tale on the same subject.

"The Lady Takes a Flyer." A routine comedy which was released, apparently, to take advantage of Lana Turner's recent notoriety.

CRITIQUE

'Old Museum Building' No More; Now It's 'Playhouse'

It's now official — the Civic Theatre's building is no longer known as "the old museum building."

Last month, the theatre group voted to christen the building, and called for suggestions for names. Only a few were received in the interrim, but at last week's membership meeting, several more names cropped up. The board of governors got heads together after the meeting and selected a name.

The old museum building thus becomes "Prairie Playhouse," and it will be thus referred to from now on.

The building, located on the west side of the City Park just across from the tennis courts, was handed over to the Civic Theatre by the City Commission. It formerly housed a museum collected by the Historical Society, but at the time of the transfer, had not been open to the public for a period of two years. During that time, weather and a leaky roof played havoc with the artifacts inside.

After the Civic Theatre gained control of the building, there remained the job of knocking out interior walls to make room for an auditorium, the insertion of a beam to keep the roof from falling in, the patching and weatherproofing of the roof, and a cleaning up of the debris and conversion of the structure into a theatre in the round.

Much of this work remains to be done.

Capt. Allen R. Robertson, president of the Civic Theatre, termed the selection of the name "Prairie Playhouse" as being in keeping with the frontier motif of the building. Dewey Magee suggested the name.

* * *

Other goings-on at last week's Civic Theatre meeting:

Work parties will be held weekdays, a couple hours in the evening . . . projects include a general cleanup and conversion of the Prairie Playhouse into an auditorium .. . starting time is 6 p.m., Monday and Thursday . . .

Mary Archer reported asphalt for roof repairs probably will be available . . . she also reported next year's schedule . . . three 3-act plays and the Easter Pageant . . . tentative dates in September, November, February and April . . . the first production will be in the Playhouse, if it's converted by that time . . .

Hi-Fi Goes To Dogs (And Cats)

It was bound to happen.

They've recorded just about everything else from the birth of a baby (Westminster) to a Dixie funeral procession (Audio Fidelity), so it was only a matter of time before someone got around to capturing the hi-fi highlights of a cat and dog fight.

Cook, a Stamford, Conn., firm, makes this singular contribution to the science of sound in an album called "Cook's Tour of High Fidelity" and subtitled "A handy do-it-yourself kit of horrendous soap opera sound effects."

How a cat and dog fight fits into the soap opera theme isn't made exactly clear but the combatants go about their business in a most realistic manner, so realistic that my cat, a normally docile animal given to uninterrupted 12-hour snoozes, was moved to join the battle.

She circled the set twice in search of a tactical pouncing position and was poised to lunge at the cloth webbing on one of the speakers, when I pushed the reject button.

Later, with my cat securely locked in the kitchen, I returned to ringside and was relieved to learn that it was a no contest affair. Just as matters started to get serious, a slamming door dispersed both participants and they were never heard from again, at least not on this record, which went on to explore such non-belligerent sounds as thunder and rain, fire engines, an automobile taking off, footsteps and the clacking of a typewriter.

Spurred by this excursion into previously unrecorded events of great moment, Cook will no doubt fill out its catalogue with a wife beating, a plane crash, a barn burning and an old-fashioned tar and feathering festival. I can hardly wait.

8-Hour Test For Would-Be Actors

NEW YORK (AP)—Now comes an eight-hour test to help the stage-struck find out if they are really fitted for a theatrical career.

The Bureau of Artistic Aptitude Testing has developed the examination for guidance of children and adults. The private service was set up by Ted Adair, a choreographer.

Jazz Pianist Erroll Garner has ridden the Manhattan phone book to concert hall fame, and is the first jazz artist ever signed by Impresario Sol Hurok.

Garner will continue a fall concert tour accompanied by bassist, drummer—and the phone book.

The massive tome is used, in case you're wondering, as a lift for the pint-sized ivory plunker. A pillow just doesn't do the job, he says.

Garner is a jazz pianist of tremendous originality, an impromptu composer and arranger who never knows one minute what he will play the next, and tomorrow can scarcely remember what he played yesterday.

His records still sell like the fabled hot cakes . . .

Johnny Mathis' album, "Good Night, Dear Lord," rides the top 10. It is a collection of religious hymns and spirituals . . .

THE Shape OF Fall

- THE TRAPEZE
- THE CHEMISE
- THE SPOON-BACK
- THE EMPIRE—these are names of fashion for fall '58...whatever the shape, it has a look of youthfulness!
- the emphasis in the new fashion will be away from the normal waistline and will concentrate either at the bustline or hipline
- the ever-shortening hemline is the star of the show with hemlines 18-18½ inches, a minimum of 16!
- colors run rampant this fall, though they can be classified in two groups— the harvest tones, especially browns to the citrus shades and the cathedral colors, deep reds and blues . . .
- coats will be hemline length —which will be short with the trapeze silhouette prevailing
- suits have longer jackets— lots of low-slung belts or bolero-type jackets with the trapeze look . . .
- this is the season for knits, bulky sweaters, box-pleated skirts!
- accessories include large wafer-thin bags; hip belts; head-ache bands; earrings, long and big; lots of bracelets; long chain necklaces; colored hose,
- millinery shapes center on crowns—balloon and dome contours; decors; coiffettes and wigs carry on
- masquerading fabrics (cottons that look like worsteds, etc.) are prevalent—lots of fluffy woolens; jerseys very important . . . big plaids, wonderful winter prints and luxurious textures with many, long hair fabrics.
