Syria, Other Arab States Condemn United States

By The Associated Press

Syria, joining other Arab states in condeming the United States for downing two Libyan warplanes, today said the incident was "American aggression against Libya and Syria alike."

It declared Syria was "ready to carry out its national obligations toward sister Libya." The obligations were not spelled out, however.

Syria's state radio, monitored in Beirut, said the vice premier and foreign minister, Abdul Halim Khaddam, made the Syrian position clear in a telephone talk with Libya's second in command, Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud.

Damascus Radio also criticized "those Arabs who still advocate attempts to neutralize the United States in the Mideast conflict. America is the No. 1 enemy of the Arabs and should be treated as such."

The jets were downed 60 miles off the Libyan coast Wednesday during 6th Fleet maneuvers. The Pentagon said one of the Libyan planes opened fire, and the Navy jets shot them down. Libya claims a 200-mile territorial zone, but the United States recognizes only a three-mile limit.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said today that no U.S. naval maneuvers were planned in the near future near Libya, and "we don't expect more trouble." He spoke to reporters in London where he arrived for four days of talks with British Defense Secretary John Nott.

America's 14 NATO allies thanked the Reagan administration for briefing them swiftly on the incident during a meeting Wednesday in Brussels and made little other comment. But Italy's Foreign Ministry hinted that Libya provoked the incident and assailed the Libyans' "expansionist aims."

The Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, one of the smaller guerrilla organizations, called for an "immediate oil and economic embargo against the United States." But none of the oil-producing nations including Libya gave any indication that they were considering a boycott.

Oil industry sources said since there is a sizable surplus of oil on the world market, the United States would have no difficulty replacing the 475,000 barrels a day Libya ships to the United States.

Some oil industry officials expressed fears that Libya might nationalize the holdings of American companies operating there. They include Occidental Petroleum, Exxon, Mobil, Conoco, Marathon Oil and Amerada Hess. But the companies reported their Libyan operations were still normal Wednesday.

There was also no report of any retaliation against the 2,000 American citizens living in Libya. Most of them are oil company employees and their families, and they have kept their distance from the Libyan population since the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli was sacked, burned and closed in December 1979.

In Beirut, Lebanon, the U.S. Embassy asked the Lebanese government for extra protection as newspapers and radio stations voiced fears today that pro-Libyan groups would mount bombing and rocketing attacks on American targets in Lebanon.

Another radical faction within Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, the Libyan-backed Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, accused the United States of air piracy and "deliberate provocations designed to set the stage for an attack on Libya."

Syria's government-controlled media accused the United States of aggression against Libya. Newspapers in Kuwait, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates, all of which generally reflect their government's opinions, charged in unison that Washington was "perpetrating aggression itself, rather than instigating Israel to do so." They urged the Arabs to patch up their differences and face the "American enemy" as one bloc.

Iran's Foreign Ministry called the downing of the Libyan planes an "expansion of American crimes and aggression throughout the world" and urged Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy not to "shy away from a confrontation" with America. Iran receives aid from Libyan for its war with Iraq.

Beam Flaw Blamed

HOUSTON (AP) — A flaw in a major concrete structural beam caused Tuesday's collapse of a section of the top floor of a parking garage, a Houston building official says.

"We don't feel it's an engineering defect at this time," said M.S. "Dude" Parmley, a deputy building official. He said an 8-inch-thick supporting lip gave way, causing the structure to fall in on itself.

Twenty cars were damaged when a 27-foot by 60-foot section of the top floor of the three-story building collapsed into the second floor, which in turn crashed to the ground floor. No one was injured.

Martin To Appear

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — State Rep. Mike Martin broke his silence late Wednesday, telling a Longview newspaper he will appear before a Travis County grand jury investigating an incident in which he was shot in the elbow by an unknown assailant.

In a copyright story today, The Longview News-Journal quoted Martin as saying he told Travis County Assistant District Attorney H. Allen Hill Wednesday he would appear before the grand jury with the stipulation that the date not be made public. Martin said Hill agreed to his request, the newspaper reported.

Martin said he had agreed to take a polygraph (lie detector) test if the grand jury requested one, if Martin is allowed to establish the ground rules for such a test.

Brady Undergoes Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House press secretary James S. Brady underwent a fourth major operation today in hopes of sealing a leak in his brain cavity that has slowed his recovery from the head wound suffered in the assassination attempt on President Reagan.

In a procedure described by a medical spokesman as major but not particularly delicate, surgeons said they would attempt to seal the leak, which has allowed the spinal fluid to enter Brady's sinuses.

The surgery began about 8 a.m., EDT, said George Washington University Hospital spokesman Rich Ellis.

CRMWD Hit By Power Bill Surge

The Colorado River Municipal Water District pumped 10 million gallons more water to its customers in July than it did in the same month a year ago, yet its power bill went up $120,000.

The $438,557 which the district paid out for electric energy in July was an all-time high for any one month. The jump reflects an increase in base rate over a year ago, plus rocketing fuel adjustments. Through June, the CRMWD was running $51,000 under its estimated power costs for the period. Now, through seven months the cumulative total is $1,936,094, or $129,000 over budget and $483,608 more than actual power expenditures for the first seven months of 1980. Based on these rates, if the district delivers the same volume of water in August-December as it did a year ago, the energy over-run of the budget will be $365,000.

In July the district delivered 2,273,015,000 gallons of water, a gain of 10,000,000 over July 1980. Of the total used, cities took 2,070,275,000 gallons and oil companies 202,740,000. For the first seven months, deliveries aggregated 10,179,181,000 gallons, compared to 9,961,809,000 for the same period last year, an increase of 217,372,000 gallons. More than this was in the increased amount of water delivered to oil companies, 337,713,000 gallons more than for the first seven months of 1980.

Revenues of $803,457 in July brought the seven months total to $5,154,565, which was $145,945 over the figure budgeted for the period. On the other hand, expenses for the seven months were $3,007,237, or $138,064 over budget.

One reason the CRMWD has been able to hold down its energy costs until now has been by altering its pumping patterns. For example, through July, it had pumped $4,476,878,000 gallons from Lake E. V. Spence, the furtherest and most expensive source, just about half a billion gallons less than for last year. On the other hand, the volume from the less costly Lake J. B. Thomas supply was 3,285,239,000 gallons, up 686,000 gallons. This not only saved money, but improved water quality.

Reagan One Of The Last To Know...

Dogfight Report Kept Quiet For Six Hours

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan was awake when the White House first learned of the dogfight between American and Libyan fighter planes but went to bed without being told.

By the time he was informed six hours later, word had gone out to the vice president and administration officials from Maine to California and at least one key member of Congress as well as the nation through the news media and world leaders through U.S. embassies.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said top Reagan aides decided not to disturb him because "there was no need for any presidential decisions."

Under sharp questioning from reporters, Speakes would not say who was in charge during the six hours.

The Pentagon said two American F-14s involved in a routine naval exercise shot down two Libyan fighters that had fired upon them 60 miles off the coast of Libya at 1:20 a.m. EDT Wednesday.

That was 10:20 p.m. EDT Tuesday in Los Angeles, where Speakes said Reagan was entertaining his son Michael and other guests in his $750-a-day suite at the Century Plaza Hotel.

"His family and his grandchild were still up there with him, so he was not asleep at 10:20 p.m.," Speakes said, adding later that he would refuse to ask Reagan what time he went to bed.

Reagan was called at 4:24 a.m. PDT Wednesday by presidential counselor Edwin Meese III, Speakes said.

By then, he said, many key officials of the National Security Council had been monitoring the situation through the night, along with Meese and national security adviser Richard V. Allen, who had been notified about 11 p.m. EDT.

Meese said it was his decision not to disturb the president earlier.

"There was no unusual incident that really went beyond the decision-making authority there at the exercise," Meese said. "If there had been the necessity of action by the president, obviously he would have been contacted immediately."

Polish Paper Is Canceled

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish capital's most popular newspaper did not publish today because of the printers' strike demanding increased access to the media for the independent labor movement, but government reaction to the two-day strike was muted.

Editors of Zycie Warszawy decided not to prepare an edition today after a blockade by the printers prevented distribution of 5,000 copies run off Wednesday despite the strike. Instead the editors went to work on the paper to be published Friday, after the strike ended.

Members of the Warsaw daily's staff said the editors offered to print a communique on the strike from Solidarity, the independent labor federation, if the printers would go back to work. But the negotiations broke off when Solidarity strike leader Sewweryn Jaworski from the Warsaw chapter demanded that the paper put out a special strike edition without items from the official news agency PAP.

Dr. Ben Brock, vice president of Western Texas College, is an avid "walker" and he likes to discuss it. He credits walking regularly with keeping his weight at the desired level and contributing to his good health.

He says he usually walks five miles per day, but likes to tell about a time when he walked 7½ miles simply because his wife, June, doubted his word one evening. It seems that Brock had gone on a walk with his pastor, Ken Branan. Mrs. Brock usually liked to join in at about the mid point of the five-mile hike, but she was not at home when Brock and Branan began their walk. So Brock left word with one of their offspring to advise June that he would circle back by home and she could join him for the last half of the journey.

He said he expected his wife to come out and fall into step as he passed home, but she did not appear. He assumed that she still had not returned home. So Brock kept walking for the remainder of his five miles. When he finally arrived home the second time, there was June, ready to walk 2½ miles. Brock said he was never able to convince her that she missed him on the first round and that he had already walked five miles. So to maintain harmony, he went 2½ more miles with her.

June smiles as Ben tells this story, giving one the idea that she still isn't convinced that he really had walked five miles that evening.

Brock also has been known to chide Branan when the minister misses a walking session. He tells of the time when Branan expressed a desire to lose 20 pounds.

"You've got to have discipline," Brock told the preacher.

So, Branan joined Brock faithfully for a five-mile walk for several days. The first time they checked weights, Brock had dropped 10 pounds, which he did not want to lose, but Branan had not lost an ounce.

Fredy Briggs tells the story about the man who faithfully guarded a street corner.

After observing him pacing to and fro for a while, another man asked what he was doing.

"I'm guarding this corner to keep the elephants away."

"I don't see any elephants around here," the observer commented.

"That's because I'm doing such a good job," the man bragged.

Researcher Says...

Ma Bell Should Get Less Increase

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. is a "low-risk" operation, and regulators should give it less profit than it wants, a Public Utility Commission researcher says.

Gail Odell of the economic research division turned in her findings this week, and they became part of a staff recommendation that new Bell rates should be far less than the company requested.

Bell wants increases totaling $469.8 million a year, with 87 percent of that amount coming from higher rates for basic residential telephone service.

The PUC staff said Bell needs additional revenue of $249.28 million a year. Staff members are expected to issue recommendations Monday on how Bell should obtain the extra money.

The commission begins its annual hearing on Bell rates Monday, with testimony expected to last several weeks.

If Bell gets its wish, it will cost $5.45 a month more to have a one-party telephone.

Ms. Odell recommended that the PUC issue rates giving Bell a 14.14 percent return on its equity, or an 11.91 percent rate of return on the original cost of its Texas investment.

Bell requested a 17.1 percent return on equity, or 12.72 percent on its investment. It said it is earning only 8.49 percent on investment now, even though the PUC had authorized 10.82 percent in previous rate orders.

Ms. Odell said in her report that Bell and its parent corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph, were characterized by "low risk and high liquidity."

She said on one investment service's risk scale of 1 to 5, Bell and AT&T rate a 1.

While the telephone industry is entering a new era of competition and technology, "AT&T has enormous financial and technological resources with which to manage change," Ms. Odell said.

The major part of the Bell system's business will remain safe from competition, she said, and "the continued natural monopoly status of local service affords considerable protection."

Southwestern Bell is even less risky than AT&T as a whole, she said, because Texas is less sensitive to business cycles than the rest of the nation and has greater "economic vitality."

Ms. Odell said AT&T's ability to finance future construction and equipment purchases without going to capital markets will be enhanced by new Federal Communication Commission depreciation rules. AT&T's internal cash flow generation is expected to increase from 64 percent in 1980 to 85 percent or 95 percent in 1985, she said.

Dale Schaefer, PUC staff accountant, said Bell had over-stated its expenses in its rate request.

He chopped the estimated operating and maintenance expenses by $46.6 million because of an advantage Bell will gain from new FCC accounting rules. Schaefer disallowed another $1.45 million Bell had claimed in wage costs resulting from a new "personal" holiday it had granted its employees. He said Bell could adjust work schedules to get its work done without incurring higher wage costs.

at wits end

All you fathers of brides out there...and you all know who you are...please rise to your feet and say goodbye to an old friend...barefoot-in-the-fields-weddings.

Boy, those were the days, weren't they, Dad? A little knoll under a tree somewhere, a minister from the Hey Man What's Happening center, a flute player in a $12 pair of jeans and $5,000 worth of amplifiers.

The bride and groom arrived in a van painted with serpents on the side and after a toast of organic juices, they crushed their Styrofoam cups on the rock and took off to Big Sur.

It's been fun and it's been cheap, but it's all over.

According to the current Bride's magazine, barefoot-in-the-park, weddings are out. After a decade of negative attitudes about marriage, today's couples are embracing the institution, flaws and all. A whopping 98 percent of brides queried in a survey said they want a formal wedding, with all the trimmings.

Sir, maybe you'd better sit down.

They're not talking just a long, white dress and an urn of seasonal flowers on either side of the altar. They're talking symbolism and romance. Have you any idea how much symbolism and romance cost these days?

One page is devoted to having symbolic candles to light the entire church. (A birthday candle that measures an inch and a half and burns three seconds costs 59 cents!)

Diamonds are coming back, combined with a stone from a family heirloom or fashioned into a special design of their own choosing and your own paying.

Transportation to the church will be romantic with perhaps a horse and carriage ride to and from the ceremony. If a horse and carriage can't be found, a limousine is suggested.

Big bands for receptions are returning, and my goodness, what kind of a father would not tape the wedding so he could enjoy it at his leisure again and again and again?

Tradition will demand the bride carry flowers that are symbolic...and out of season, like violets in December and sprigs of poinsettia in August.

Oh, and look for the return of another tradition...the one where the father of the bride is taking his future son-in-law aside and saying, "I'll give you $10,000 and a van with serpents painted on the side if you'll run away and get married on a surfboard at Big Sur."

A Sophisticated Look In Country Decorating

An interior decorating trend to watch is the evolution of the Country Look.

For the past several years, "country" has been growing in favor until today it is one of the most popular decors in American homes. At the same time, though, the style has begun to grow somewhat stale.

Now, as a reaction to the standard Country Look of wood, brick and floral prints -- and still more wood, brick and floral prints -- decorators are rethinking country along less traditional lines. The result is a new hybrid style that might be called Sophisticated Country. It's marked by the use of new materials and "smart" color schemes but the same homeyness and livability.

Consider the "great room" (kitchen and adjoining family room) done by the designers at one large home furnishings company. It's country all right, but there's a hint of city about it too.

The color scheme consists of neutrals and earthtones, as you might expect, but what neutrals and earthtones! Black, white, gray, smoky blue and midnight blue, pumpkin, and almond.

The sophistication starts with the no-wax flooring, which is from Armstrong's new Solarian Supreme collection and features an altogether uncountry black-and-white Maltese Cross pattern. Hard to imagine in a country setting, it nevertheless fits right in because of the skill with which the designers handled the other room elements.

For example, the flooring cues the walls which are painted a natural-linen hue. The curtains are real linen, a small-check pattern (the checks are black). The linen fabric shows up again surprisingly on the drawer faces of the kitchen cabinets, on the backs of the kitchen chairs and on the underside of the kitchen table.

There's still more gray on the kitchen cabinet doors which are painted a warm pewter color (pewter tinged with the faintest trace of red). The cabinets are framed with wood strips stained a soft cherry.

The color scheme is "punched up" with the cheery harvest glow of pumpkin which is the color of the countertops, the area rug in the family room and the occasional pillows on the sofas. The sofas themselves are upholstered in a butterfly print fabric of midnight blue with pumpkin and old ivory.

The two other major colors in the decor are almond (the refrigerator and the sink in the cabinet island dividing the two rooms) and smoky blue (the hollow-square check on the kitchen chairs).

The custom-made kitchen table and chairs are themselves a point of interest. The chairs tuck under the kitchen counter when not in use.

The table is a wood-and-glass affair that serves as a display case for a pewter and silver collection (tea service, casseroles and so on). Sliding glass doors at the base of the table provide easy access.

The accessories (along with the plank ceiling and mock beams) are what give the room much of its country flavor. The chandelier in the kitchen is a tin replica of a old-fashioned design. Wicker baskets hanging from the beams hold baby's breath and dried field flowers.

Other country accessories include a hand-woven coverlet on the family room wall, a wood-and-metal rooster on a pedestal and a fishcrate coffee table with circular glass top. An eclectric touch (which like the black-and-white Armstrong floor is really more city than country) is the contemporary wall storage unit of northern elm wood.

A room decorated in this fashion looks equally well in a rural dwelling or in an urban townhouse. If you're looking for a versatile decor, you don't have to look further than Sophisticated Country.

SOPHISTICATED COUNTRY—A little bit of city in the country -- or vice versa -- describes the versatile decor of this kitchen-family room. It's basically "country" but spiced up with such sophisticated touches as a Solarian Supreme no-wax floor in stylish black and white.

Noodles Tossed In Peanut Sauce

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

Somehow or other, during all my eating exploration in Chinatown restaurants in New York and other large cities, I had never happened on a dish that consisted of noodles tossed in a peanut sauce. But recently, when I finally tasted this delicious combination, I realized it would be easy to copycat and my readers might enjoy having this simple, thrifty recipe.

To bone up on this sort of noodle dish, I looked into "Florence Lin's Chinese Regional Cookbook" (Dutton). I also phoned Florence, a friend of long standing, to check up on a few details. To sum up:

The name of the dish I copycatted is lo mein with peanut sauce, "Lo" means "tossed" and "mein" means "noodles.' (Lo Mein is the Cantonese spelling; lao mien is the Mandarin.) Lo mein is simply a procedure in which cooked noodles are tossed with other ingredients. The other ingredients vary widely.

For example, in her "Chinese Regional Cookbook," Florence Lin gives a lo mein recipe that calls for noodles, roast pork, scallions, bean sprouts, soy sauce and oyster sauce. I found the noodles tossed with the peanut sauce a happy combination.

Florence told me that lo mein may be served hot or at room temperature as the main dish for a light meal. She says the lo mein with peanut sauce is delicious accompanied by a salad of crisp greens and cucumber with a Chinese-style dressing. Fresh fruit and sweet but light cookies make a fine dessert for this menu.

LO MEIN WITH PEANUT SAUCE

8 ounces fresh Chinese-style egg noodles, see Note
5 tablespoons peanut oil
1 teaspoon dried red pepper flakes
¼ cup finely chopped scallions
1 clove (any size you like) garlic, minced
½ cup chunky peanut butter
4 teaspoons soy sauce
1½ tablespoons red wine vinegar
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

Boil the noodles in 2 quarts boiling water until just soft — usually 3 to 4 minutes. Drain and rinse with cold water; drain well — there should be about 4 cups. Cool to room temperature. In a medium skillet in the hot oil, over moderately low heat, stir the red pepper flakes for a couple of minutes; add the scallion and garlic and cook until the scallion is wilted but not browned — several minutes; set aside off heat. In a small bowl stir together the peanut butter, soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and ginger until blended. Stir in the scallion mixture, including the oil in the skillet; toss with the noodles, coating evenly. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

Note: If you haven't a nearby store that stocks such Asian products as fresh Chinese-style egg noodles, you may be able to buy some from a nearby Chinese restaurant. As a substitute for the Chinese noodles, you may use packaged thin spaghetti cooked according to the manufacturer's directions.

North's vulnerable three diamond preempt with an eight-card suit and an outside king would not be made by most experts. The modern tendency among experts in making vulnerable three level preempts is to have a good seven card suit with little outside strength. North deviated by having too much side strength and that eight diamond.

South had no idea what to bid over North's preempt. Although North is cold for six diamonds from his position, it is hard to judge. Anyhow, South tried three no trump. If North had three small hearts and a black jack, three no trump could be the only makeable game.

North proudly displayed his dummy, commenting that this was the strongest three diamond bid he had ever made. Unfortunately, after a heart lead through his king, declarer could manage only eight tricks. Not one of those was taken by North's "magnificent" dummy. "Perhaps," lamented South, "Your hand wasn't so good."

Both North and South have asked us to assess the blame for this disaster. We charge South 25 percent. He should not try three no trump with that singleton ace of diamonds, but we give North the other 75 percent.

As North said, he had a super strength preempt. He should have passed or opened four diamonds, but over South's three no trump North should have gone back to diamonds. Had he jumped to five South might have bid the slam.

React Unfavorably To Drowning Indictments

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — A black leader contends misdemeanor charges will amount to no more than a slap on the hand for three law enforcement officers accused of criminally negligent homicide in the drownings of three black teen-agers in their custody.

The officers were suspended from duty Wednesday after State District Judge P.K. Reiter set bond at $1,000 on each count — or $3,000 for each officer — and ordered them to return to the courtroom Friday for arraignment.

Limestone County sheriff's deputy kenny Elliott, reserve deputy Kenneth Archie and county probation officer David Drummond were indicted on the misdemeanor charge Tuesday.

The offense carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Evelyn Baker, mother of one of the victims, said that she was disappointed that the officers wsere indicted only on a misdemeanor charge.

"I believe it was more severe than that, and there should be more than a fine," she said.

Richard Dockery, regional director of the NAACP in Dallas, contended the officers' trials "would result in what amounts to a slap on the hand for three families in the loss of these three men."

He said the NAACP still plans to press federal officials "for civil rights findings and imposing the penalties called for under the law."

The Justice Department said June 22 it was investigating the drownings at the request of the NAACP.

The officers were indicted in the June 19 deaths of Carl Baker, 19, and Anthony Freeman, 18, both of Mexia, and Steve Booker, 19, of Dallas.

The teen-agers, who had been arrested for alleged possession of marijuana, were being ferried across Lake Mexia to a command post when the 14-foot boat capsized about 80 feet from shore. Testimony at a court of inquiry indicated the boat was designed to carry 500 to 600 pounds and had no life jackets or running lights.

The grand jury accused the the three law officers of violating the Texas Water Safety Act.

The three youths were participating in an annual celebration of Juneteenth, a Texas holiday marking the day Texas slaves learned of the Emancipation Proclamation.

Eliott and Drummond, both white, and Archie, who is black, swam to safety when the boat flipped over just before midnight.

Drummond said he was not surprised by the indictment, adding: "The grand jury had an awful lot of pressure on them." The other two officers had no comment.

Sheriff Dennis Walker said he suspended Elliot and Archie, both 23, without pay pending the outcome of their trials. And chief probation officer Charles Wilson said Drummond, 32, "is not performing any responsibilities or duties for the probation office at this time."

But Wilson added the suspension "is temporary as far as I'm concerned."

Wilson said Drummond's suspension wouldn't hamper operations at his office, but Walker said the loss of the deputies would be a strain on his department.

"When your staff is that small and you lose two persons, it cripples the entire organization," he said. "...The rest of us will have to take up the slack."

Not Exposed To Radiation

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Authorities say none of 13 people who were near a stolen van containing radioactive material and hepatitis serum was exposed to radiation or the serum.

The people were taken to a hospital for tests and released Wednesday after the van was found in a residential neighborhood several hours after it was stolen from Metcor, a Newark courier company.

Minor Reports Occupy Police

Only two minor accidents and one theft were reported to police here Wednesday.

A minor wreck occurred at 2:07 p.m. at 1800 College Ave and involved a 1971 Pontiac Catalina driven by Louise Gill Stevens and a parked 1976 Ford Van owned by Joni Sue Stiff. The Pontiac had minor damage and the Ford had none.

The next mishap was at 7:18 p.m. at 37th and East Hwy. and involved a 1973 Ford driven by Gary W. Hulme of Colorado City and a 1979 Ford pickup driven by Leroy Spires III of Roscoe. Only the 1973 Ford sustained damage and it was minor.

A macrame pot hanger valued at $30 was reported stolen from 4508 Garwood at 10:48 p.m. Police reports indicate the theft occurred sometime since Sunday.

Black Legislator Says Further Indictments Should Be Sought

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A black legislator says further indictments should be sought against three Limestone County lawmen in the drowning of three young black men.

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, said at a news conference Wednesday he intends to ask both the U.S. Justice Department and Attorney General Mark White to push for civil rights indictments.

The three law enforcement officers were indicted Tuesday on misdemeanor charges of negligent homicide.

A Texas civil rights law provides up to life imprisonment for causing the death of prisoners by intentionally injuring them or depriving them of their rights.

White's press secretary, Mary Hardesty, said Assistant Attorney General Gerald Carruth already had brought the civil rights issue to the attention of Limestone County Attorney Patrick Simmons and the grand jury. Carruth helped Simmons present his case to the grand jurors.

"That (the civil rights angle) is what we helped Simmons with in his presentation to the grand jury. ... We have done all we can under the law in this case. I don't know what more we can do," Mrs. Hardesty said.

The grand jury at Groesbeck indicted Deputy Sheriff Kenny Elliot, reserve deputy Kenneth Archie and probation officer David Drummond in the June 19 drownings at Lake Mexia.

Carl Baker, 19, and Anthony Freeman, 18, both of Mexia, and Steve Booker, 19, of Dallas, drowned when the small boat in which the officers were transporting them capsized. They had been arrested on suspicion of possessing drugs.

All three victims were black, while two of the law enforcement officers are white.

Wilson said he believed racism was involved in the arrests "but after that, they (the lawmen) were just guilty of a bad case of being dumb."

He said if the victims had been white, stiffer indictments would have been returned. The indictments issued Tuesday carry a maximum sentence of a year in jail.

"Limestone County is not the seat of progressivism in this state. ... They are probably living in the 1940s as far as attitudes toward racial matters are concerned," Wilson said.

He said he intended to talk to White early next week and also travel to Washington, D.C., to confer with the Justice Department.

"It is my hope that the Justice Department will be able to shed some light on their investigation and also act promptly in bringing charges of the violation of civil rights on behalf of the drowned victims against the law enforcement officers," Wilson said.

He said he was concerned with the victims' families and felt "the judicial process has dampened their faith in due process."

Fish More

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Trout fishing in the Catskill Mountains is escalating and one of the big reasons is the New York State Fish Hatchery in DeBruce, N.Y.

The hatchery is responsible for stocking Catskill lakes and streams with more than a halfmillion trout each year. The hatchery also welcomes visitors, who are asked to make reservations for a tour of the plant.

Widow Wants Body Exhumed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The widow of Lee Harvey Oswald says she wants to exhume her husband's body because she "strongly believes the grave has been tampered with" and she is tired of "stupid speculation and theories."

The slender, 39-year-old former wife of the alleged killer of President John F. Kennedy filed suit in state district court Wednesday, asking that her husband's grave at Rose Hill Burial Park be opened and the body examined.

"My life is unbearable because every time a new theory came along, I suffered," she said. "I hope this (suit) will be for everybody's benefit."

Mrs. Porter's attorney, Jerry Pittman, said the suit was filed because of confidential conversations between members of the Warren Commission obtained in the past year showed some of the members felt Oswald's body had been moved and was either cremated or hidden.

The Warren Commission investigated the Nov. 22, 1963, shooting death of Kennedy and the slaying of Oswald by Dallas night club owner Jack Ruby two days later.

The Dallas attorney declined to reveal more information about the alleged converstations, saying the material would come out in the trial.

The case was assigned to State District Judge James Wright, who last September refused to grant British author Michael Eddowes' request to unearth the body.

Eddowes claims that a Soviet agent, not Oswald is buried in the grave and that the agent took Oswald's place when the ex-Marine defected to the Soviet Union in 1959, where he met Mrs. Porter.

Attorneys for Eddowes appealed Wright's ruling. The appeal is scheduled to be heard in Fort Worth Sept. 10.

The suit Wednesday was filed against Lee Harvey Oswald's older brother Robert, a Wichita Falls businessman who last year opposed Eddowes' efforts to open the grave.

Robert Oswald declined comment on the suit, but his attorney, Craig Fowler of Dallas, called the move a "publicity stunt" and said the suit was based on "speculation, conjecture and hearsay."

Mrs. Porter testified in behalf of Eddowes, but said Wednesday she does not believe his theory and she received no money from him for testifying.

The suit filed on behalf of Mrs. Porter claims "probative evidence exists that the body allegedly buried in the grave marked Lee Harvey Oswald had been illegally moved and secretly hidden," without Mrs. Porter's approval.

The suit also alleges there is evidence the body in the grave is "an individual other than Lee Harvey Oswald."

Fowler said Mrs. Porter had no legal basis to ask that the grave be opened because while Texas law gives a widow the right to determine what is to be done with her husband's body, only a judge can order the grave reopened after burial is completed.

Mrs. Porter said she couldn't say why she believed the grave was empty, adding "that will be presented at the court trial."

No date has been set for a hearing on the suit.

Woman Steals To Set Up Church Fund

HOUSTON (AP) — Jurors have handed down a 20-year prison sentence in the case of an accountant who used a portion of the $810,000 she stole from her employer to set up a church trust fund.

Laurita L. Graber, 33, charged with theft, was assessed the prison term and a $10,000 fine Wednesday.

Prosecutors said Graber, an accountant for Petro-Search Inc., a subsidiary of Howell Petroleum Corp., funneled oil and gas payment checks into an account she set up for herself. They said she then used the money to buy luxuries and set up a $100,000 Catholic church trust fund.

Among other items, prosecutors said, Graber used the money to buy a $125,000 house, a four-wheel drive vehicle, jewelry and furs.

Graber's attorney maintained his client could not have set up the theft scheme on her own and said others must have been involved.

But prosecutors told jurors Graber had prior probations for credit card abuse and forgery and asked for the maximum penalty.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just read your new booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," and I think it's probably the best $2 investment a teen-ager can make. Although I'm no longer a teen-ager, I think it's wonderful the way you explain the facts of life to young people.

I was especially glad that you told girls it was possible to get pregnant without going all the way. I had never seen it in print, but I know it's true because it happened to me. (My mother didn't believe me at the time, and even after the doctor who delivered my baby told her that I was still a virgin, she refused to believe it.)

I will never forget going to a birthday party when I was 16. A bunch of us kids had drunk a lot of beer, and on the way home, a 17-year-old boy I hardly knew drove me home. He stopped at a secluded area for a little innocent making out. One thing led to another, and before I knew it, I was in a situation I couldn't handle. When he couldn't talk me into going all the way, he tried to force me, but I fought and clawed and kicked. He didn't succeed, but he came close.

The following month I thought I had some kind of infection because I missed my period. After three months, I went to a doctor, and when my tests came back from the lab I thought there had been a mix-up. I knew I couldn't be pregnant because I was still a virgin.

Well, the doctor said it's possible to become pregnant without actual penetration if the male releases the sperm close enough to the female's vaginal opening for the sperm to "swim up" and meet the ovum. Then the egg is fertilized and pregnancy occurs.

When I told the boy I was expecting his baby, he laughed, his mother laughed, and his whole family thought I was trying to pin something on him that was not his doing. (I never did convince him that the baby was his.)

Today, that "baby" is the prettiest 17-year-old girl you could ever want to see. She never had a father to enjoy her, but she has a mother who loves her very much.

So, Abby, please keep telling teen-agers that they don't have to go all the way to get pregnant. I know.

I WAS A PREGNANT VIRGIN

DEAR ABBY: H. IN BLUFFTON, OHIO, was irritated by people who had a habit of touching or patting him while conversing.

For a number of years, therapists have been actively promoting touching through what they have termed "sensitivity training." They maintain that a friendly hand placed on another's arm or shoulder has great therapeutic value and promotes a closeness not possible to attain by mere words.

Although I am not naturally inclined toward such "familiarity," I have been trying to develop a natural ease in applying that technique. But according to you, touching may be resented rather than appreciated. Please explain.

PUZZLED IN SAYRE, PA.

DEAR PUZZLED: H. IN BLUFFTON complained about people who not only patted and touched, but grabbed him as well — a far cry from a "friendly hand placed on another's arm or shoulder."

Agreed, touching does promote a closeness not possible by mere words, but if one prefers distance rather than closeness, it is his right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: My husband deserted me in Oklahoma 20 years ago. He went to Detroit and married another woman without even divorcing me. Twelve years later I was granted a divorce on the grounds of desertion.

Well, Abby, in my religion I believe that we are still married in the eyes of God until death do us part, and I will not be free to marry again until he dies.

I don't even know whether he is living or dead, and I wonder if there is a way I can find out when he dies. We are both 43 years old.

MARRIED FOR LIFE

DEAR MARRIED: Get in touch with his nearest kin or a close relative. Even a close friend will do. Ask to be notified in the event of your ex-husband's death. And it wouldn't hurt to keep checking back with them at least once a year in case they forget.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Best-Laid Plan Has Backfired

El Paso (AP)-- Even the best laid plans of mayors and men sometimes result in red faces.

El Paso Mayor Jonathan Rogers decided three weeks ago to get tough with companies that had delinquent city taxes. He began releasing lists of people owing delinquent taxes to the local media in hope of embarrassing them into paying up.

Wednesday, Rogers disclosed that he had found himself on the list.

The mayor said he owns 16 percent in Co-op Disposal Inc., a garbage collection company shown on the list to owe $4,553.45 in taxes for the past three years.

"The sword cuts two ways, doesn't it?" Rogers said. "I found out that the sword cuts deep."

Rogers said he told the company's managers they had better pay the tax immediately. He said later the check would be delivered Thursday.

"It looks like I got caught in the cookie jar myself," said the millionaire mortgage banker. "It's a little embarrassing, isn't it?"

Scrimmage Vernon At 7...

Tigers To Check Progress Friday

STAMFORD -- Coach George Byerly's 28 invade Bulldog Stadium here Friday night for a cat-fight with Vernon as the first of two scheduled scrimmages rolls around for the Tigers.

The teams are scheduled to begin testing their skills at 7 o'clock. Fans are urged to make the trip.

It will be the first inter-squad action with Byerly and the new coaching staff at the controls. The first-year mentor will use the scrimmage as a yardstick to check the Tigers' progress.

"We'll see what we've learned while we're there, then we'll come back and view the films and try to learn a little more," Byerly said. "Right now we're not excuting offensively or defensively very well - which I didn't expect we would this early."

Plans call for the team to simplify its offense for the first scrimmage of the season, concentrating on the fumdamentals and getting the best look possible at the players.

"I think it will be a real good scrimmage for us," noted the coach. "Traditionally Vernon always has some real good players. They'll use the veer on offense and go with a 5-2 defense," he added.

Several Tiger players will be unable to participate in the scrimmage, including Glen Parham (knee surgery), Keith Wallace (knee) and Barry Davis (recurring headaches). Ronnie Lindsey suffered a broken finger and may not see duty Friday, while Ross Bawcum (ankle sprain) is doubtful. Byerly also noted that Bryan Limmer had missed Wednesday's workouts with an illness, and it was unknown whether he would be recuperated by Friday evening.

"We're not worring about the injury situation," he said. "That's something you have to deal with the whole year. You can't let it affect you."

Starters for the coming season have yet to be determined, but Byerly did supply a list of players working at specific positions. They include:

Sponsored by the Snyder Women's Golf Association, the tournament will have shotgun starts Saturday and Sunday with tee times at 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. The format will be team play for target points.

The $75 entry fee includes Friday's practice round and play in the tournament with a social Friday night, dinner and dancing Saturday, and presentation of awards with stew and salad buffets at 2 and 6 p.m. Sunday.

Will Probation Turn Ponies Into Stampede?

DALLAS (AP) - The thunderbolt of NCAA probation left the Southern Methodist Mustangs with only their pride and an 11-game schedule this year.

How well SMU Coach Ron Meyer can boost the morale of his team which can't appear on television or go to a bowl could mean more than how good the Mustangs' block and tackle in 1981.

"I believe there will be a favorable reaction by our squad...I believe we'll pull together," said Meyer.

In fact, there's the theory in some quarters that the talented Mustangs could now even be more determined to capture the Southwest Conference title.

And they don't really have any pressure on them.

"There's always pressure to perform well," said Meyer. "This should make the team even more determined."

SMU was 8-3 last year after losing a 46-45 heartbreaker to Brigham Young University in the Holiday Bowl at San Diego.

The Mustangs return two of the most talented running backs in the country, juniors Craig James and Eric Dickerson.

Sophomore quarterback Lance McIlhenny proved to be a canny operator as a freshman and stands to be even better with a year's experience.

Michael Charles, Lott McIlhenny and Jerry Kovar will battle for the fullback position which is mostly a blocking back slot in the Mustangs' I-Formation.

SMU has a relatively inexperienced offensive line although Meyer feels they will be ready by the time the SWC campaign begins.

"I feel good about the group we have," he said. "We're not all that worried."

The Mustangs may have the best kicking game in the country with placekicker Eddie Garcia and punter Eric Kaifes.

Garcia kicked three field goals in the Holiday Bowl and had 11 during the regular season.

Kaifes averaged 44.6 yards per punt last year which placed him fourth in the nation. His average was the second best in school history.

Defensively, the Mustangs are led by tackle Harvey Armstrong and noseguard Michael Carter.

SMU lost All-American cornerback John Simmons to graduation along with Charles Bruton and Dick Blaylock.

James Mobley will fill Simmons' cornerback spot.

SMU has a relatively easy non-conference schedule against Texas-Arlington, North Texas State and Grambling.

Player Reps Voting On Revised System

NEW YORK (AP) - Major league baseball's top officials, after at least two days of trying to rework their much-criticized plan for a strike-conceived split season, finally came up with a revision.

Though, still not officially announced, the modification, several player representatives confirmed Wednesday night, changes the arrangement for determining division playoff matchups should the same team win division titles in both halves of the season.

It provides, in that case, that the division runnerup in the poststrike half of the season would play the club that finished atop the division in both halves. The plan originally announced, following the 50-day players' strike, set up a format in which a team winning both division titles would play the club in its division with the second-best record for the entire season.

In both cases, the series to determine teams for the league championships was designed as a best-of-five competition.

The originally announced format was roundly criticized because it opened the possibility that a team could get into the division playoffs via the wild card route by losing certain games.

The player reps, as members of the Major League Player Association's executive board, were asked to vote on the revision by the union's leadership because the association's approval was needed for any change in the format since it is regarded as a contractual term.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said Wednesday night he hoped to have all the results by today. He said about half of the player reps had been heard from, but the needed majority still had not be obtained because "there were some dissenters."

The Yankees already were assured of berth in the division playoffs as one of the four teams atop the divisions when the strike began June 12. The others were the Oakland A's in the American League and the Los Angeles Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies in the National.

The revision, apparently drafted by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the two league presidents, Lee MacPhail of the AL and Chub Feeney of the NL, did find favor with some, though in some cases, reluctantly.

Rangers Wrap Up Milwaukee

ARLINGTON (AP) - Buddy Bell broke out of a post-strike slump with two hits and two runs batted in while Doc Medich tossed a three-hitter for eight innings as the Texas Rangers defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1 Wednesday night.

Bell, leading the American league in RBI before the players strike started on June 12, had driven in only three runs in eight second season games played until Wednesday.

Medich, 6-3, had a three-hit shutout entering the ninth inning, but an error, a single by Cecil Cooper and Ben Oglivie's double scored a run and Medich was replaced by Jim Kern with two outs. Kern struck out Gorman Thomas for the final out for his third save.

Milwaukee starter Jim Slaton, 4-5, surrendered the first three Texas runs.

Britain's Coe Regains World Record In Mile

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - Britain's Sebastian Coe, who clocked the best-ever mile, and American Renaldo Nehemiah, pulverizing his own 110-meter hurdles world mark highlighted an international track and field meet Wednesday night before 25,000 wildly cheering fans at Letzi Grund Stadium.

Coe surged ahead in the mile at the completion of two laps after being paced by American Tom Byers, then took firm command, finishing in 3 minutes, 48.53 seconds as he recaptured the world mark from fellow Briton and archrival Steve Ovett.

Nehemiah, who skipped the U.S. championships at Sacramento, Calif., last May due to and who thus can't compete in next month's World Cup in Rome, was timed in 12.93 seconds, clipping .07 second off his world record, established in 1979. Nehemiah was the first man ever to run the 110-meter hurdles in under 13 seconds.

Coe expressed disappointment that he did not break the 1,500 meter mark as well. The last one to better both records in one race was Australia's John Landy in 1954.

Coe, who also holds the world records in the 800 and 1,000 meters, said, "At first, I thought I would miss both marks. That was after about 1,000 meters. But then I gave it all I had and it paid off."

Greg Foster, Nehemiah's archrival, was runnerup in the hurdles in a personal best 13.03.

Carl Lewis also turned in an outstanding performance by taking the third best leap ever, 27 feet, 11½ inches (8.52 meters).

Lewis, from Willingboro, N.J., who has run the fastest 100 meters in the world this year - 10 seconds flat - did not enter the sprint event to concentrate on the jump.

Lewis' teammate, Larry Myricks, improved his personal best to 27-8 to finish second in the long jump.

Excitement also was high during the women's 100-meter dash, won by Evelyn Ashford in 11.00, just one-tenth of a second slower than her world's best time this year and .12 off the world record held by East Germany's Marlies Gohr.

LAMESA -- Snyder, Denver City and Lamesa were to be among the schools participating in a volleyball scrimmage which began at 1 p.m. here today.

Snyder, winner of five consecutive district titles, and Lamesa, are expected to be among the top three teams in the District 2-4A this year.

Scrimmaging on the varsity team for Snyder will be seniors Toni Elrod, Shana Koonsman, Kathy Northcott and Sherri Rich, and juniors Becky Harrell, Susi Lee, Sabrina Robinson, Becky Pylant and Lisa Waller.

Managers-statisticians for the Tigers are senior Lynne Robertson and sophomores Shahala Blair, Dana Hines and Tonya Neblett.

EDITORS NOTE: An article and accompaning photo in Wednesday's edition of The Snyder Daily News incorrectly referred to the senior manager of the volleyball team as Lynne Maxwell. Lynne Robertson is correct.

Ryan, Puhl Pace Astros Past Expos

HOUSTON (AP) - Nolan Ryan pitched five hitless innings, and Terry Puhl's two-run double fueled a four-run third inning Wednesday night to lead the Houston Astros to a 9-1 victory over Montreal.

Ryan, flirting with his fifth career no-hitter, retired the first 14 Expos before Tim Wallach reached in the fifth inning on third baseman Art Howe's fielding error.

Ryan, 7-3, lowered his earned run average to 1.29 before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning.

Catcher Bobby Ramos broke up Ryan's no-hit bid with a leadoff single in the sixth inning and Tim Raines got the second hit off Ryan.

The Astros got to Expos starter Scott Sanderson, 6-4, in the third inning with five hits that produced four runs. The runs scored on a triple by Joe Pittman, a single by Tony Scott and Puhl's two-run double to right field.

Black Legislator Says Further Indictments Should Be Sought

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A black legislator says further indictments should be sought against three Limestone County lawmen in the drowning of three young black men.

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, said at a news conference Wednesday he intends to ask both the U.S. Justice Department and Attorney General Mark White to push for civil rights indictments.

The three law enforcement officers were indicted Tuesday on misdemeanor charges of negligent homicide.

A Texas civil rights law provides up to life imprisonment for causing the death of prisoners by intentionally injuring them or depriving them of their rights.

White's press secretary, Mary Hardesty, said Assistant Attorney General Gerald Carruth already had brought the civil rights issue to the attention of Limestone County Attorney Patrick Simmons and the grand jury. Carruth helped Simmons present his case to the grand jurors.

"That (the civil rights angle) is what we helped Simmons with in his presentation to the grand jury. ... We have done all we can under the law in this case. I don't know what more we can do," Mrs. Hardesty said.

The grand jury at Groesbeck indicted Deputy Sheriff Kenny Elliot, reserve deputy Kenneth Archie and probation officer David Drummond in the June 19 drownings at Lake Mexia.

Carl Baker, 19, and Anthony Freeman, 18, both of Mexia, and Steve Booker, 19, of Dallas, drowned when the small boat in which the officers were transporting them capsized. They had been arrested on suspicion of possessing drugs.

All three victims were black, while two of the law enforcement officers are white.

Wilson said he believed racism was involved in the arrests "but after that, they (the lawmen) were just guilty of a bad case of being dumb."

He said if the victims had been white, stiffer indictments would have been returned. The indictments issued Tuesday carry a maximum sentence of a year in jail.

"Limestone County is not the seat of progressivism in this state. ... They are probably living in the 1940s as far as attitudes toward racial matters are concerned," Wilson said.

He said he intended to talk to White early next week and also travel to Washington, D.C., to confer with the Justice Department.

"It is my hope that the Justice Department will be able to shed some light on their investigation and also act promptly in bringing charges of the violation of civil rights on behalf of the drowned victims against the law enforcement officers," Wilson said.

He said he was concerned with the victims' families and felt "the judicial process has dampened their faith in due process."

Fish More

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Trout fishing in the Catskill Mountains is escalating and one of the big reasons is the New York State Fish Hatchery in DeBruce, N.Y.

The hatchery is responsible for stocking Catskill lakes and streams with more than a halfmillion trout each year. The hatchery also welcomes visitors, who are asked to make reservations for a tour of the plant.

Widow Wants Body Exhumed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The widow of Lee Harvey Oswald says she wants to exhume her husband's body because she "strongly believes the grave has been tampered with" and she is tired of "stupid speculation and theories."

The slender, 39-year-old former wife of the alleged killer of President John F. Kennedy filed suit in state district court Wednesday, asking that her husband's grave at Rose Hill Burial Park be opened and the body examined.

"My life is unbearable because every time a new theory came along, I suffered," she said. "I hope this (suit) will be for everybody's benefit."

Mrs. Porter's attorney, Jerry Pittman, said the suit was filed because of confidential conversations between members of the Warren Commission obtained in the past year showed some of the members felt Oswald's body had been moved and was either cremated or hidden.

The Warren Commission investigated the Nov. 22, 1963, shooting death of Kennedy and the slaying of Oswald by Dallas night club owner Jack Ruby two days later.

The Dallas attorney declined to reveal more information about the alleged converstations, saying the material would come out in the trial.

The case was assigned to State District Judge James Wright, who last September refused to grant British author Michael Eddowes' request to unearth the body.

Eddowes claims that a Soviet agent, not Oswald is buried in the grave and that the agent took Oswald's place when the ex-Marine defected to the Soviet Union in 1959, where he met Mrs. Porter.

Attorneys for Eddowes appealed Wright's ruling. The appeal is scheduled to be heard in Fort Worth Sept. 10.

The suit Wednesday was filed against Lee Harvey Oswald's older brother Robert, a Wichita Falls businessman who last year opposed Eddowes' efforts to open the grave.

Robert Oswald declined comment on the suit, but his attorney, Craig Fowler of Dallas, called the move a "publicity stunt" and said the suit was based on "speculation, conjecture and hearsay."

Mrs. Porter testified in behalf of Eddowes, but said Wednesday she does not believe his theory and she received no money from him for testifying.

The suit filed on behalf of Mrs. Porter claims "probative evidence exists that the body allegedly buried in the grave marked Lee Harvey Oswald had been illegally moved and secretly hidden," without Mrs. Porter's approval.

The suit also alleges there is evidence the body in the grave is "an individual other than Lee Harvey Oswald."

Fowler said Mrs. Porter had no legal basis to ask that the grave be opened because while Texas law gives a widow the right to determine what is to be done with her husband's body, only a judge can order the grave reopened after burial is completed.

Mrs. Porter said she couldn't say why she believed the grave was empty, adding "that will be presented at the court trial."

No date has been set for a hearing on the suit.

Woman Steals To Set Up Church Fund

HOUSTON (AP) — Jurors have handed down a 20-year prison sentence in the case of an accountant who used a portion of the $810,000 she stole from her employer to set up a church trust fund.

Laurita L. Graber, 33, charged with theft, was assessed the prison term and a $10,000 fine Wednesday.

Prosecutors said Graber, an accountant for Petro-Search Inc., a subsidiary of Howell Petroleum Corp., funneled oil and gas payment checks into an account she set up for herself. They said she then used the money to buy luxuries and set up a $100,000 Catholic church trust fund.

Among other items, prosecutors said, Graber used the money to buy a $125,000 house, a four-wheel drive vehicle, jewelry and furs.

Graber's attorney maintained his client could not have set up the theft scheme on her own and said others must have been involved.

But prosecutors told jurors Graber had prior probations for credit card abuse and forgery and asked for the maximum penalty.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just read your new booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," and I think it's probably the best $2 investment a teen-ager can make. Although I'm no longer a teen-ager, I think it's wonderful the way you explain the facts of life to young people.

I was especially glad that you told girls it was possible to get pregnant without going all the way. I had never seen it in print, but I know it's true because it happened to me. (My mother didn't believe me at the time, and even after the doctor who delivered my baby told her that I was still a virgin, she refused to believe it.)

I will never forget going to a birthday party when I was 16. A bunch of us kids had drunk a lot of beer, and on the way home, a 17-year-old boy I hardly knew drove me home. He stopped at a secluded area for a little innocent making out. One thing led to another, and before I knew it, I was in a situation I couldn't handle. When he couldn't talk me into going all the way, he tried to force me, but I fought and clawed and kicked. He didn't succeed, but he came close.

The following month I thought I had some kind of infection because I missed my period. After three months, I went to a doctor, and when my tests came back from the lab I thought there had been a mix-up. I knew I couldn't be pregnant because I was still a virgin.

Well, the doctor said it's possible to become pregnant without actual penetration if the male releases the sperm close enough to the female's vaginal opening for the sperm to "swim up" and meet the ovum. Then the egg is fertilized and pregnancy occurs.

When I told the boy I was expecting his baby, he laughed, his mother laughed, and his whole family thought I was trying to pin something on him that was not his doing. (I never did convince him that the baby was his.)

Today, that "baby" is the prettiest 17-year-old girl you could ever want to see. She never had a father to enjoy her, but she has a mother who loves her very much.

So, Abby, please keep telling teen-agers that they don't have to go all the way to get pregnant. I know.

I WAS A PREGNANT VIRGIN

DEAR ABBY: H. IN BLUFFTON, OHIO, was irritated by people who had a habit of touching or patting him while conversing.

For a number of years, therapists have been actively promoting touching through what they have termed "sensitivity training." They maintain that a friendly hand placed on another's arm or shoulder has great therapeutic value and promotes a closeness not possible to attain by mere words.

Although I am not naturally inclined toward such "familiarity," I have been trying to develop a natural ease in applying that technique. But according to you, touching may be resented rather than appreciated. Please explain.

PUZZLED IN SAYRE, PA.

DEAR PUZZLED: H. IN BLUFFTON complained about people who not only patted and touched, but grabbed him as well — a far cry from a "friendly hand placed on another's arm or shoulder."

Agreed, touching does promote a closeness not possible by mere words, but if one prefers distance rather than closeness, it is his right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: My husband deserted me in Oklahoma 20 years ago. He went to Detroit and married another woman without even divorcing me. Twelve years later I was granted a divorce on the grounds of desertion.

Well, Abby, in my religion I believe that we are still married in the eyes of God until death do us part, and I will not be free to marry again until he dies.

I don't even know whether he is living or dead, and I wonder if there is a way I can find out when he dies. We are both 43 years old.

MARRIED FOR LIFE

DEAR MARRIED: Get in touch with his nearest kin or a close relative. Even a close friend will do. Ask to be notified in the event of your ex-husband's death. And it wouldn't hurt to keep checking back with them at least once a year in case they forget.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Best-Laid Plan Has Backfired

El Paso (AP)-- Even the best laid plans of mayors and men sometimes result in red faces.

El Paso Mayor Jonathan Rogers decided three weeks ago to get tough with companies that had delinquent city taxes. He began releasing lists of people owing delinquent taxes to the local media in hope of embarrassing them into paying up.

Wednesday, Rogers disclosed that he had found himself on the list.

The mayor said he owns 16 percent in Co-op Disposal Inc., a garbage collection company shown on the list to owe $4,553.45 in taxes for the past three years.

"The sword cuts two ways, doesn't it?" Rogers said. "I found out that the sword cuts deep."

Rogers said he told the company's managers they had better pay the tax immediately. He said later the check would be delivered Thursday.

"It looks like I got caught in the cookie jar myself," said the millionaire mortgage banker. "It's a little embarrassing, isn't it?"

Scrimmage Vernon At 7...

Tigers To Check Progress Friday

STAMFORD -- Coach George Byerly's 28 invade Bulldog Stadium here Friday night for a cat-fight with Vernon as the first of two scheduled scrimmages rolls around for the Tigers.

The teams are scheduled to begin testing their skills at 7 o'clock. Fans are urged to make the trip.

It will be the first inter-squad action with Byerly and the new coaching staff at the controls. The first-year mentor will use the scrimmage as a yardstick to check the Tigers' progress.

"We'll see what we've learned while we're there, then we'll come back and view the films and try to learn a little more," Byerly said. "Right now we're not excuting offensively or defensively very well - which I didn't expect we would this early."

Plans call for the team to simplify its offense for the first scrimmage of the season, concentrating on the fumdamentals and getting the best look possible at the players.

"I think it will be a real good scrimmage for us," noted the coach. "Traditionally Vernon always has some real good players. They'll use the veer on offense and go with a 5-2 defense," he added.

Several Tiger players will be unable to participate in the scrimmage, including Glen Parham (knee surgery), Keith Wallace (knee) and Barry Davis (recurring headaches). Ronnie Lindsey suffered a broken finger and may not see duty Friday, while Ross Bawcum (ankle sprain) is doubtful. Byerly also noted that Bryan Limmer had missed Wednesday's workouts with an illness, and it was unknown whether he would be recuperated by Friday evening.

"We're not worring about the injury situation," he said. "That's something you have to deal with the whole year. You can't let it affect you."

Starters for the coming season have yet to be determined, but Byerly did supply a list of players working at specific positions. They include:

In addition to tournament winners, awards will also be presented for longest drive, closest to the pin and the first hole in one, if any.

Will Probation Turn Ponies Into Stampede?

DALLAS (AP) - The thunderbolt of NCAA probation left the Southern Methodist Mustangs with only their pride and an 11-game schedule this year.

How well SMU Coach Ron Meyer can boost the morale of his team which can't appear on television or go to a bowl could mean more than how good the Mustangs' block and tackle in 1981.

"I believe there will be a favorable reaction by our squad...I believe we'll pull together," said Meyer.

In fact, there's the theory in some quarters that the talented Mustangs could now even be more determined to capture the Southwest Conference title.

And they don't really have any pressure on them.

"There's always pressure to perform well," said Meyer. "This should make the team even more determined."

SMU was 8-3 last year after losing a 46-45 heartbreaker to Brigham Young University in the Holiday Bowl at San Diego.

The Mustangs return two of the most talented running backs in the country, juniors Craig James and Eric Dickerson.

Sophomore quarterback Lance McIlhenny proved to be a canny operator as a freshman and stands to be even better with a year's experience.

Michael Charles, Lott McIlhenny and Jerry Kovar will battle for the fullback position which is mostly a blocking back slot in the Mustangs' I-Formation.

SMU has a relatively inexperienced offensive line although Meyer feels they will be ready by the time the SWC campaign begins.

"I feel good about the group we have," he said. "We're not all that worried."

The Mustangs may have the best kicking game in the country with placekicker Eddie Garcia and punter Eric Kaifes.

Garcia kicked three field goals in the Holiday Bowl and had 11 during the regular season.

Kaifes averaged 44.6 yards per punt last year which placed him fourth in the nation. His average was the second best in school history.

Defensively, the Mustangs are led by tackle Harvey Armstrong and noseguard Michael Carter.

SMU lost All-American cornerback John Simmons to graduation along with Charles Bruton and Dick Blaylock.

James Mobley will fill Simmons' cornerback spot.

SMU has a relatively easy non-conference schedule against Texas-Arlington, North Texas State and Grambling.

Player Reps Voting On Revised System

NEW YORK (AP) - Major league baseball's top officials, after at least two days of trying to rework their much-criticized plan for a strike-conceived split season, finally came up with a revision.

Though, still not officially announced, the modification, several player representatives confirmed Wednesday night, changes the arrangement for determining division playoff matchups should the same team win division titles in both halves of the season.

It provides, in that case, that the division runnerup in the poststrike half of the season would play the club that finished atop the division in both halves. The plan originally announced, following the 50-day players' strike, set up a format in which a team winning both division titles would play the club in its division with the second-best record for the entire season.

In both cases, the series to determine teams for the league championships was designed as a best-of-five competition.

The originally announced format was roundly criticized because it opened the possibility that a team could get into the division playoffs via the wild card route by losing certain games.

The player reps, as members of the Major League Player Association's executive board, were asked to vote on the revision by the union's leadership because the association's approval was needed for any change in the format since it is regarded as a contractual term.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said Wednesday night he hoped to have all the results by today. He said about half of the player reps had been heard from, but the needed majority still had not be obtained because "there were some dissenters."

The Yankees already were assured of berth in the division playoffs as one of the four teams atop the divisions when the strike began June 12. The others were the Oakland A's in the American League and the Los Angeles Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies in the National.

The revision, apparently drafted by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the two league presidents, Lee MacPhail of the AL and Chub Feeney of the NL, did find favor with some, though in some cases, reluctantly.

Rangers Wrap Up Milwaukee

ARLINGTON (AP) - Buddy Bell broke out of a post-strike slump with two hits and two runs batted in while Doc Medich tossed a three-hitter for eight innings as the Texas Rangers defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1 Wednesday night.

Bell, leading the American league in RBI before the players strike started on June 12, had driven in only three runs in eight second season games played until Wednesday.

Medich, 6-3, had a three-hit shutout entering the ninth inning, but an error, a single by Cecil Cooper and Ben Oglivie's double scored a run and Medich was replaced by Jim Kern with two outs. Kern struck out Gorman Thomas for the final out for his third save.

Milwaukee starter Jim Slaton, 4-5, surrendered the first three Texas runs.

Britain's Coe Regains World Record In Mile

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - Britain's Sebastian Coe, who clocked the best-ever mile, and American Renaldo Nehemiah, pulverizing his own 110-meter hurdles world mark highlighted an international track and field meet Wednesday night before 25,000 wildly cheering fans at Letzi Grund Stadium.

Coe surged ahead in the mile at the completion of two laps after being paced by American Tom Byers, then took firm command, finishing in 3 minutes, 48.53 seconds as he recaptured the world mark from fellow Briton and archrival Steve Ovett.

Nehemiah, who skipped the U.S. championships at Sacramento, Calif., last May due to and who thus can't compete in next month's World Cup in Rome, was timed in 12.93 seconds, clipping .07 second off his world record, established in 1979. Nehemiah was the first man ever to run the 110-meter hurdles in under 13 seconds.

Coe expressed disappointment that he did not break the 1,500 meter mark as well. The last one to better both records in one race was Australia's John Landy in 1954.

Coe, who also holds the world records in the 800 and 1,000 meters, said, "At first, I thought I would miss both marks. That was after about 1,000 meters. But then I gave it all I had and it paid off."

Greg Foster, Nehemiah's archrival, was runnerup in the hurdles in a personal best 13.03.

Carl Lewis also turned in an outstanding performance by taking the long jump with the third best leap ever, 27 feet, 11½ inches (8.52 meters).

Lewis, from Willingboro, N.J., who has run the fastest 100 meters in the world this year - 10 seconds flat - did not enter the sprint event to concentrate on the jump.

Lewis' teammate, Larry Myricks, improved his personal best to 27-8 to finish second in the long jump.

Excitement also was high during the women's 100-meter dash, won by Evelyn Ashford in 11.00, just one-tenth of a second slower than her world's best time this year and .12 off the world record held by East Germany's Marlies Gohr.

V-Ball Scrimmage In Lamesa Today

LAMESA -- Snyder, Denver City and Lamesa were to be among the schools participating in a volleyball scrimmage which began at 1 p.m. here today.

Snyder, winner of five consecutive district titles, and Lamesa, are expected to be among the top three teams in the District 2-4A this year.

Scrimmaging on the varsity team for Snyder will be seniors Toni Elrod, Shana Koonsman, Kathy Northcott and Sherri Rich, and juniors Becky Harrell, Susi Lee, Sabrina Robinson, Becky Pylant and Lisa Waller.

Managers-statisticians for the Tigers are senior Lynne Robertson and sophomores Shahala Blair, Dana Hines and Tonya Neblett.

EDITORS NOTE: An article and accompaning photo in Wednesday's edition of The Snyder Daily News incorrectly referred to the senior manager of the volleyball team as Lynne Maxwell. Lynne Robertson is correct.

Ryan, Puhl Pace Astros Past Expos

HOUSTON (AP) - Nolan Ryan pitched five hitless innings, and Terry Puhl's two-run double fueled a four-run third inning Wednesday night to lead the Houston Astros to a 9-1 victory over Montreal.

Ryan, flirting with his fifth career no-hitter, retired the first 14 Expos before Tim Wallach reached in the fifth inning on third baseman Art Howe's fielding error.

Ryan, 7-3, lowered his earned run average to 1.29 before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning.

Catcher Bobby Ramos broke up Ryan's no-hit bid with a leadoff single in the sixth inning and Tim Raines got the second hit off Ryan.

The Astros got to Expos starter Scott Sanderson, 6-4, in the third inning with five hits that produced four runs. The runs scored on a triple by Joe Pittman, a single by Tony Scott and Puhl's two-run double to right field.

Fitzgerald To Practice Again

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif (AP) - Veteran center John Fitzgerald, who suffered a twisted knee against the Los Angeles Rams Saturday night in a National Football League preseason game, has been cleared to practice next week with the Dallas Cowboys.

Dr. Marvin Knight said Fitzgerald will stay in Dallas a week to undergo treatments and can work next week.

The Cowboys break training camp Friday and return to Dallas to meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night in a nationally televised exhibition.

The Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of a pickup today after Ricky Mason reported a company vehicle missing from in front of his residence at East 23rd and Ennis Creek Road. The theft was reported at 12:34 a.m.

Taken was a 1977 white Ford pickup with the Johnston-Slumberger emblem on both doors.

Woman's Aches Predict Quakes

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) — When Charlotte King gets a headache, don't run for aspirin; run for cover.

The aches and pains of the Salem, Ore., housewife show a "tantalizing coincidence" with seismic and volcanic activity along the West Coast, a federal researcher says.

The mother of three says an earthquake at Washington's Mount St. Helens, about 100 miles north of her home, is preceded by pain in the center of her forehead.

Northern California seismic activity, on the other hand, "is a series of four tones that cut off sharply. Southern California is a series of tones that fade out slowly. A vibrational effect means the quake will be in the water," she said.

"There's been a lot of activity," Mrs. King said Wednesday, her 35th birthday. "It's picking up considerably to what I would call an active area of Southern California around El Centro and south toward Mexico."

Tired of iron woes

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 28-year-old woman, 5 feet 7 and weigh 125 pounds. In general I am in pretty good health except for iron problems. Every time I see the doctor and have a blood check, I am low on iron and anemic. He tells me to take more iron but I do take a vitamin pill that contains iron every day.

I do get tired and wonder if it is the anemia that causes that. I thought one vitamin pill with iron along with what you get in your diet should be enough iron. Why do I need so much iron to keep from getting anemic?

DEAR READER — An iron deficiency anemia is only one part of the total picture of lack of iron. You need iron for some of the vital enzyme systems that enable your food to be broken down to release energy. The use of oxygen to break down food inside the cells depends upon iron. It is in a substance biochemists call cytochrome and cytochrome oxidase. Iron is a unique element that can change its electrical characteristics as indicated by calling its compounds ferrous or ferric. This is essential to its interaction with oxygen to release energy for your cells.

Iron deficiencies were known long before doctors could examine the blood for anemias. Liver and other foods rich in iron are listed in The Health Letter number 4-4, Iron and Anemia, that I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Most women can get all the iron they need by adding a vitamin pill supplemented with iron to their daily routine during the child-bearing years. But the increased need in women is totally dependent upon menstruation. The amount of blood women lose varies greatly from a small amount to a large amount. The more menstrual flow a woman has the more iron replacement she will need.

Blood loss is the main reason people become deficient in iron. Anyone who has unexplained iron deficiency anemia should be studied for possible unrecognized loss of blood as from an ulcer or from the intestines. Regular loss of reasonable amounts of blood from bleeding hemorrhoids can also be a contributing factor.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am in the state prison. There is a theory here that it is impossible for some of us to get paroled unless we take Antabuse for alcohol. Some people say that Antabuse is harmful. Is it? I have heart trouble, liver problems, ulcers, allergies and asthma. Would it be harmful to me?

DEAR READER — It could be. By itself Antabuse (disulfiram) is not harmful to most people. There is a list of things that can happen, just as there is for almost every medicine that anyone takes. You can even have an allergic reaction to tomatoes.

When a person has taken Antabuse and then takes even a very small amount of alcohol, it can produce a profound reaction, including shock, nausea, vomiting. Severe reactions can be quite dangerous. Of course, the point is that anyone who takes Antabuse should never, never take any alcohol in any form. They may not be able to avoid this entirely since it may be in sauces, or absorbed from aftershave lotions or from an alcoholic back rub.

Incidentally, similar reactions to alcohol can occur from the use of Flagyl used to treat trichamonis vaginal infections.

Judge Says California Party In Texas Case

HOUSTON (AP) — In a surprise move a Texas probate judge drew the state of California into a courtroom fight here over the fortune of billionaire Howard Hughes. But California attorneys have refused to recognize his jurisdiction.

Probate Judge Pat Gregory ruled Wednesday that California, locked in a battle for the right to tax the estate valued at between $180 million and $2 billion, voluntarily became a participant in the Texas case and now must abide by his decisions.

Rick Harrison, a lawyer for the Texas attorney general's office, expressed confidence the ruling would speed final resolution of all Hughes' estate questions.

However, Steve Mayer, a San Francisco lawyer representing California, said that state would not be bound by the ruling and the matter ultimately will be decided by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Gregory based his ruling on the appearance in his court last month of an attorney representing California.

"The state of California's appearance here has made them a party for all purposes to the Hughes' estate proceedings here. Absent overtuning of that order ... they are bound to all decisions of this court," Gregory said.

The lawyer appeared in court to ask Gregory to release several pictures taken after Hughes' around-the-world flight, that were submitted at the 1978 trial that declared the eccentric recluse a Texas resident.

The judge agreed to the temporary release of the pictures for use in a related California case. But the request prompted attorney George Parnham, who represents about 500 distant Hughes' relatives, to ask Gregory to declare California a participant in the Texas case.

"I think the ruling is in error. California never appeared in Texas state courts and still believes that this lawsuit should and will be determined by the U.S. Supreme Court," said Mayer. "Someone went down to get some documents for use in a deposition, but that doesn't make them a party to the lawsuit."

Gregory would not comment on how the ruling would affect the struggle between Texas and California over which state could claim Hughes as a resident and tax his fortune.

Mayer predicted the ruling would have no impact.

"We've taken the domicile issue to the Supreme Court. ... I don't think the ruling will affect what the Supreme Court does," said Mayer.

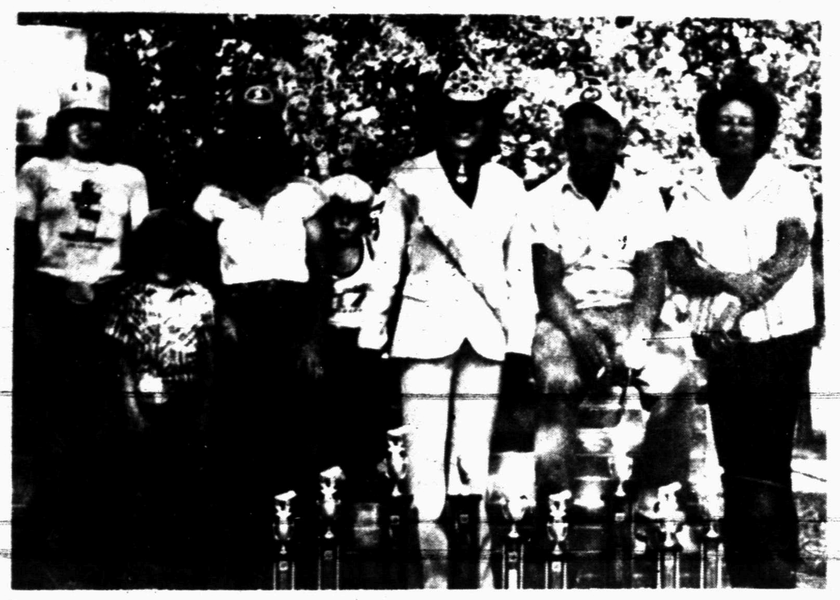

California appealed to the high court in 1978 when jurors in Gregory's court ruled Hughes was a Texan.

Heirs have millions of dollars at stake because California taxes would amount to 24 percent of the estate and Texas taxes 16 percent.

Gregory, who earlier determined Hughes left no will or immediate family when he died in 1976, ruled this month that 16 maternal cousins would split half the estate. The trial to determine who gets the other half begins Monday.

"No money will change hands until the various appeals are resolved in the case which already has dragged on for more than five years.

In 1938 Howard Hughes completed a round-the-world flight in three days and 19 hours.

Degree Awarded Posthumously

COLLEGE STATION — A bachelors degree was awarded posthumously by Texas A&M University last Saturday to William Wayne Overman, who killed June 12 in an oilfield accident at Caldwell.

Overman, a native of Snyder, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Overman of Andrews, formerly of Snyder, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Overman of Snyder.

Receving the diploma from the College of Engineering at TAMU was Overman's widow, Pita. The awarding of degrees posthumously under such circumstances is a long-standing custom at TAMU.

Woman Guilty Of One Murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A state district court jury took less than an hour Wednesday to find Linda Long guilty of plotting the murder of her sixth husband.

Mrs. Long, 31, was convicted in the Feb. 16 death of David Eugene Dixon after a week of testimony before visiting State District Judge Van Stovall.

Keith Pharoah Johnson, 24, testified he shot Dixon, then choked him and finally beat him with an ax. Johnson already has pleaded guilty to murder in the killing.

Johnson said Mrs. Long wanted Dixon dead because he refused to give her a divorce. Mrs. Long lured Dixon to her house to be killed, Johnson testified. He said Mrs. Long then used sex to manipulate him into killing Dixon.

But Mrs. Long testified she unwittingly led Dixon into Johnson's trap when she invited him to her house to discuss a divorce. She denied involvement in the slaying.

"I don't think even grade-F soap operas come up with that kind of stuff," said prosecutor Tommy Royce. He said he was especially astounded at Mrs. Long's testimony that she heard no commotion while the killing was going on.

Royce used the time for his closing argument to play a tape of a telephone conversation which Johnson made at the request of police. On it, Mrs. Long talked about her efforts to lie to police about the murder.

Defense attorney Mary Ann George argued that Mrs. Long's involvement in the slaying had not been proved.

"Maybe you want to convict her of being an alcoholic," she told the jury. "And maybe you think she's an unfit mother, a drug abuser, a junkie, but that's not what we're here for," Mrs. George said.
