Nixon Moves Toward Ending Dock Walkout

5-Man Board Named To Deal With Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Using emergency powers of the Taft-Hartley Law for the first time since taking office, President Nixon has moved toward halting strikes that have shut down most of the nation's deep-water ports.
vbr1

Saying continuation of the strikes would "imperil the national health and safety," the President signed an executive order naming a five-member inquiry board that could recommend seeking a back-to-work injunction.

The board, headed by J. Keith Mann, associate dean of Stanford Law School, is to report to Nixon by Wednesday on the issues in the stalemated labor disputes on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts.

Nixon signed the order Monday night as negotiations in the record 96-day West Coast dock strike, and the Atlantic and Gulf Coast strikes, broke down. The Atlantic and Gulf Coast strikes started last Friday.

The 1947 Taft-Hartley labor law has been used seven times in the past to deal with dock strikes.

Once the inquiry board makes its report, the White House said, the President will decide whether to direct the Justice Department to seek an injunction forcing strikers back to work for an 80-day cooling-off period while negotiations continued.

Nixon also will decide whether an injunction should apply only to the West Coast strike or to all 60000 striking longshoremen throughout the nation.

Nixon signed the executive order minutes after returning to Washington from a weekend vacation in Florida.

If the strikes continue, Nixon said, they would affect a "substantial part of the maritime industry" that ihvolves trade, commerce, transportation and communications between the states and foreign nations.

The President's order referred to strikes at Great Lakes ports, besides those on the West, East and Gulf ports. But Great Lakes shipping has not been affected since separate union agreements govern those ports.

At issue on the West Coast are demands by International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union members for higher wages and arrangements in handling cargo containers.

The AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association on the East Coast seeks to change a guaranteed-income formula and extend it from New York to other ports.

Stanford University law Prof. J. Keith Mann, named to head a board of inquiry into the 96-day West Coast dock strike, has broad experience in working to settle labor disputes in the railroad, airline and ship building industries.

The inquiry panel Mann heads will be charged with reporting by Wednesday evening on negotiations here between longshoremen and shippers.

President Nixon said he will use the report to get a court injunction invoking an 80-day cooling off period under the Taft-Hartley law.

Mann, associate dean of the Stanford Law School, is a veteran fact-finder and arbitrator.

During the Koeran war, he was chairman of reviews and appeals commission for the Wage Stabilization Board.

In 1963, he was an arbitrator in a dispute between Southern Pacific Railroad and railway clerks.

In 1967, Mann was appointed by President Lyndon Johnson to head an emergency board of inquiry into a strike by electrical workers against 13 West Coast ship yards.

A graduate of Indiana University, Mann has been on the Stanford faculty since 1952.

Two Dock Units Vote To Return To Work

BEAUMONT Tex. (AP) two longshoreman's locals have voted to return to work, one says it will stay out on strike and three others have indicated they will honor picket lines.

While each union met to decide its policy during the strike called by the Intnerational Longshoreman's Association two freighters remained tied up at Beaumont piers Monday and a third vessel lays at anchor in the Neches River.

"We voted not to strike but will honor picket lines, said business agent Elihah Dillard of ILA Local 325.

"We voted to remain on strike," said W. C. Young, business agent for ILA Local 1610.

FOR NEXT 3 YEARS

House To Vote On Bill Of $15.4 Billion Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to cut taxes $15.4 billion in three years, part of President Nixon's economic program, goes before the House today with good prospects despite opposition from labor and some liberal Democrats.

The vote is scheduled Wednesday.

A blast at the measure Monday from AFL-CIO President George Meany dispelled any idea that major changes in Nixon's proposals had made the bill acceptable to labor chiefs. However, a comfortable majority of the House apparently is behind the version produced by the Ways and Means Committee.

Within the framework of the tax reduction for the next three years, the committee trimmed the benefits Nixon proposed for business by roughly $5.5 billion and stepped up tax cuts for individuals by about $3.5 billion. In longer-range projections, business does somewhat better.

The committee bill contains some $5.71 billion tax relief in 1971-73 for individuals, mainly those at the low end of the income scale.

But Meany told the House Banking Committee: "We certainly don't like the committee bill.

"We are still opposed to the accelerated depreciation write-offs and also to the investment tax credit," Meany said. Despite changes made in these provisions by the committee, they still would be worth $3.7 billion to business in the three-year period.

Meany said the "tax bonanza to business" would amount to $70 billion in a decade.

Those who would pay, he continued, are "the poor, through delay of much needed welfare reform; the financially strapped cities and states, through postponement of promised federal help, and federal employees, who have been singled out for especially unfair treatment."

Wednesday's House vote on taxes will be the second major congressional test on portions of Nixon's program. The House refused Monday to veto Nixon's six-month delay of a federal pay raise.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee predicted the tax measure, which he called an improvement over Nixon's proposals, will pass th House by a wide margin.

Effort To Delay Federal Pay Hike Okayed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's move to save $1.3 billion by delaying federal pay raises for six months has survived a House fight only to face one in the Senate.

The House rejected a veto resolution 207 to 174 Monday, and Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, said he will take one to the Senate floor Wednesday or Thursday.

Either chamber can veto the delay.

House Republicans were joined by 59 Democrats, all but 13 from the South, in defeating the veto resolution, which Nixon said would torpedo his entire inflation-fighting economic program announced Aug. 15.

Moss' office said it had not had time to take soundings on whether a similar Republican-Southern Democratic coalition would support the delay in the Senate.

Aides said Moss hoped to get the veto resolution through the Senate Civil Service Committe Tuesday night or Wednesday and onto the Senate floor, possibly just before the 30-day deadline for vetoing the plan Thursday.

"If you break the dam today; if you open up the dike, then the inflationary field will be flooded," said Rep. William M. Colmer, D.Miss., during House debate.

Opposing Democratic leadership efforts to veto the pay delay, Colmer said the President held the advantage in a party-line fight "because the people of the country are behind him."

But Speaker Carl Albert said Democrats were only trying "to get the public and private employes in the same boat" by blocking the six-month pay delay before Nixon had set wage guidelines for everyone else for the period following the current 90-day wage freeze.

The President's plan to delay a January pay hike for 4.3 million federal employes is the biggest item in a $5-billion government-spending cut to offset $7.8 billion in tax cuts.

The House is to vote on its own version of the $7.8-billion tax-cut package Wenesday.

JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS TAKE A BREATHER — It is a survey of smoking habits of Pampa residents and it has official sanction as well as noble purpose. Mayor Milo Carlson proclaimed today, "Emphysema Day" and members of the junior division, Top of Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association are making the survey between 6 and 8 p.m. today. Mrs. D. A. Finkelstein, 1901 N. Russell is being interviewed by Randy Holmes (from the left), Pam Allen ,president of the junior division and Phyllis Hunter, vice president. Local residents will know the young people on the project by their "badge" — a plastic container with red and green lettering and a slot for ontributing the price of a pack of cigarettes to fight emphysema.

TO ARRANGE JOURNEY

Nixon's Aide To Visit Peking In Late Oct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler announced today that accord had been reached with the Red Chinese government for Presidential aide Henry Kissinger to visit the communist nation later this month.

Kissinger said he would be in Peking a maximum of four days and expected to spend all of his time in the Chinese capital. He said he did not want to preclude the possibility that members of the advance party might go to other points in China that could be considered for presidential stops.

Ziegler's announcement said the Kissinger trip would be held "in the latter part of October."

Kissinger said his itinerary has not been completed but that he would suspect it would come sooner rather than later during the period Ziegler cited.

He said no newsmen would be permitted to join his traveling party.

The two had also met during Kissinger's July trip.

Nation Has Many Blue-Collar Jobs For Persons With Technical Skills

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 6.1 per cent of the nation's work force is unemployed, but many blue-collar and other jobs requiring a broad range of technical skills are going begging.

Welders are in critical demand in Georgia while policemen, registered nurses and physical therapists are needed in California.

In Boston, Carl W. Nickerson says his placement office has 162 unfilled positions available with no one to take them.

"We've got some jobs we can't fill, especially for welders and machinists," says an employment official in Dallas.

Elsewhere, an Associated Press survey shows, the story's the same: Wanted—people with technical skills.

"There is a demand for people with more technical and less theoretical backgrounds," says Prof. Hollis Baird, director of Lincoln College in Boston. "The job situation is much better for those graduates with associate degrees than those with a B.S. (bachelor of science) or M.S. (master's)."

Associate degrees are awarded upon completion of programs taking less than four years to complete.

A number of programs, especially at technical and vocational schools, are designed to prepare students for immediate employment in specialized positions from just below the professional level to those requiring very limited specialized training beyond the high school leavel.

But during the past decade, America's high school graduates flocked in ever larger numbers to the nation's liberal arts colleges. Educators point to several reasons for the trend, including draft deferments and parental pressure.

In 1970, the last year for which figures are available, more than one million persons received bachelor's, master's or doctorate degrees. This factor, coupled with others such as cutbacks in the aerospace industry, has resulted in an oversupply in college-trained personnel in several fields.

"This year's seniors faced the toughest employment market in years," according to the College Placement Council. "Employers across the country are hiring 26 per cent fewer seniors and graduate students than last year, an off year in itself," the council says in a statement.

The American Association of State Colleges and Universities reports "significant decreases in the numbers of students with registered education majors" and attributes the drop largely to the job shortage. The association estimates 100,000 educators had to look outside the profession this past year for employment.

Herman Hahn, administrator of Career Academy, a private trade school in Los Angeles, says the under-and over-skilled workers are having a hard time finding a job. We're training the in-between.

For those in-between, these are often booming times.

"The employment of blue collar workers is probably higher than professionals or the lesser skilled," say Al Jone, who skilled," says Al Jones, who

Taxpayers' Group Names Directors

Six permanent board members were elected at last night's meeting of the Gray County Taxpayers Association in the Gray County Courtroom.

When ballots were counted and certified the following directors were shown to be elected: Mrs. Peggy Palmitier, C.C. Dodd, Jack Skelly, Ted Mastin, Dr. Floyd Weathersbee, Gene Lewis and Richard Swearengen.

First meeting of the newly-elected board will be next Monday night when by-laws will be drafted and formal application for a charter will be made.

The board also will name committees to carry out purposes of the organization, according to Swearengen, permanent chairman.

One Prisoner Dead, Several Hurt In Dallas County Jail Disturbance

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — More than 800 Dallas County jail inmates who had protested prison conditions and the treatment of Dallas poor people staged a destructive disturbance Monday night. One prisoner died and five prisoners and several guards suffered minor injuries.

Prison authorities said the only mark on the dead prisoner, Lawrence Edward Jackson, 36, was a cut finger. The county medical examiner ordered an autopsy.

Groups of prisoners clashed with law enforcement officers in a series of skirmishes over 3½ hours. About 300 inmates were involved altogether.

"The party's over," Sheriff Clarence Jones said after the disturbance had been quelled. "Now the honeymoon is over."

Jones had been negotiating with prisoners over grievances for two weeks.

Ten days ago, prisoners on the 12th floor set fire to mattresses and then surrendered hand-made weapons to Jones when he agreed to negotiations on prisoner demands for better medical care, food and prison mail policies.

Jones allowed six prisoners of the 11th floor to meet with newsmen Sunday night to air complaints about Dist. Atty. Henry Wade's treatment of poor people in Dallas.

Monday night's disturbance began when prisoners on the two floors started banging objects against the steel walls of their cells. They smashed windows and set fire to mattresses.

Guards and Dallas police armed with heavy clubs and leading police dogs stormed onto the two floors to find cell doors barred with strips of blanket and mattress ticking.

The officers said they used streams of water from fire hoses to keep the prisoners in check.

There were cell-to-cell skirmishes as the prisoners threw bits of cast iron and metal bolts. As the prisoners surrendered, they were seaerched, stripped and sent to solitary confinement.

The scene was repeated through about 12 cellblocks on the 12th floor and about four on the 11th floor.

Prisoners in many cellblocks on the two floors offered no resistance, Jones said.

Jones blamed the outburst on what he called a nationwide trend of jail and prison unrest.

Evidence Shows Power Tussle Going On In Communist China

NEW YORK (AP) — Bits of evidence coming out of Peking suggest that something immensely important affecting Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung has taken place.

What it is no one outside of the communist Politburo can say. The Chinese have not chosen to disclose the secret.

Whether it will affect the planned visit, before next May, of Iresident Nixon to Peking is equally uncertain. Highly placed officials in Washington believe that an illness or even the death of one of the top Chinese leaders would not alter the situation. But a political connected with recen friendly Chinese overtures toward the United States would be another matter.

Predicting the course of affairs in mainland China is a hazardous occupation. But from what can be pieced together it would appear that the moderates, led by Premier Chou En-lai, continue to have a commanding voice in Chinese policy. Regardless of what has happened, Chou is publicly visible. He appeared at National Day celebrations Oct. 1, Chairman Mao and his designated successor, Defense Minister Lin Piao, did not.

Their absence, combined with the decision of the official Peking People's Daily not to carry their photographs, may indicate that Mao and perhaps Lin, are deeply involved in a sudden change in the political spectrum.

A series of events—or nonevents—has touched off worldwide speculation about what may be going on in this vast and populous country. In mid-September it was announced there would be no parade at the National Day celebrations. Then there were reports that civil and military aviation had been grounded for three days. It later developed this coincided with the crash of a Chinese plane in Mongolia under unexplained circumstances.

Oct. 1 produced more surprises. One was the failure of Mao or Lin to appear even briefly as they do on similar May Day programs. The second was the nonpublication of the usual National Day editorial written jointly by the Liberation Army Daily, the Peking People's Daily and Hungchi or Red Flag.

Chinese readers must have been shocked to note such de-

Saints Fly By Contestants As Rev. Herring Wins Poll

Three Pampans looked into the magic crystal ball of football knowledge and came up with midnight marks of one miss in the News' weekly football contest.

Rev. Mel Herring of the Zion Lutheran Church must of had devine guidance as his only miss in the contest came in the Dallas-Washington game. The good reverand was the only one of the top three to pick Pampa over Lawton.

More on the magical side of the mystic marvels were Vera McMinn of 332 N. Dwight. Seems though the eyes of a grandmother can still pick the best teams. Mrs. McMinn's downfall came from one of my cousins, the Washington Redskins.

Third place goes to Johnny Covalt, 1131 S. Finley, who picked the Redskins over the Cowboys but stumbled when Tech tripped Arizona 13-10. Covalt was third by virtue of picking Lawton by a wider margin than Mrs. McMinn.

Ahhhh! The sweet thoughts of victory were close for many as several contestants picked all but two in this week's contest. However, the News was able to stump all comers with the Oilers. Not one of our contestants picked a tie ball game.

This week's contest appears on page 8 of today's paper giving all our readers a chance to garner honors.

Theaters Searched After Bomb Threat

City police officers made a minute search of the Capri Theater Monday night following a telephone bomb threat and found nothing. A short time later the drill was repeated at Lavista with negative results.

According to the police report, Orville Hayes of the Capri notified police that he received a call at 7:20 p.m. and a female voice said there was a bomb in the theater. Minutes later a female voice warned him of a bomb in the Lavista.

When there was no bomb found (and no explosion) the official decision was that it was a prank of the same nature played regarding one of the local schools recently. Pampa police chief Jim Conner noted at that time that such jokesters may or may not be aware that the call is a federal offence even though there is no bomb and that even minors have been prosecuted successfully for the act.

In other activity, officers investigated a burglary at 901 S. Reid where Sandra Smith reported loss of a toaster, mixer, clothers and linens taken while she was in the process of moving into the house.

A similar incident was reported to officers by Debra Jones, 604 N. Wells who told officers she was absent form her house a short time in the afternoon and a record player, two speakers, records and a military .45 automatic pistol were taken. She estimated the total loss at $625.

House Probing Unit To Meet Tomorrow

AUSTIN (AP)—The House General Investigating Committee meets Thursday, minus the previously scheduled testimony of House Speaker Gus Mutscher concerning two banking bills that figure in his bribery indictment.

Chairman Menton Murray of Harlingen said the committee needed to "set some policies and determine the direction we will go" before having any more public hearings.

Mutscher had tentatively been scheduled to testify at the Thursday meeting, but those plans were dropped after his indictment.

Murray said the committee might hear Mutscher at some later date, but one matter for discussion Thursday would "be whether to have any more individuals from the legislature before the committee."

Return-To-School Night Scheduled By Local School

A "return to school" night for parents of students at St. Matthew's Episcopal School is slated for 7:30 p.m. today.

Purpose of the event is to bring to parents a greater knowledge of their child's learning environment, according to Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, headmaster.

Rev. Hulsey, church rector as well as school headmaster, will present the program on the principles, goals and aims of the school.

Mrs. Paul Hartin, principal, will be introduced, as well as the teachers and members of the school board.

Teachers at St. Matthew's are Mmes. C.D. Andersos, Billy Winningham, Doyle Doggett, J.W. Edminster, Lonnie Loter and Charles Zlomke.

Board members are Jim Raley, Joe Cree, Bill Cornman, Stan Burnham, Dr. Will Beck, Mrs. Lilly Davis, Mrs. Robert Cotter, Mrs. Bob Lincecum, Mrs. Joe Daniel, Mrs. A.D. Bonner and Mrs. Ernest Wilkinson.

Room visitation will follow the program.

oversees trade schools for the Georgia State Board of Education. "I think this is due to the fact we are moving into a service-oriented society."

Workers in construction trades are in big demand in Georgia urban areas now, Jones says, and health occupations are booming.

"We'll be five years making a dent in the demand in the health field," Jones said.

Wentworth Institute in Boston, one of the largest technical schools in New England, says all of its 1971 graduates who went through the school's placement office were placed with no trouble.

Allen Abbitt, placement officer at Chicago's Dunbar High School, says 90 per cent of the 1971 graduates applying for jobs "get something." Most unplaced Dunbar graduates were college-bound, Abbitt said.

In Jacksonville, Fla., "construction trades, welders and auto mechanics are in heavy demand," says Dr. Eric Mills, dean of career education at Florida Junior College. "So are skilled air conditioning and refrigeration technicians."

Draft Lottery Number Lowered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System today lowered the lottery number at which young men can be expected to be drafted this year to 125.

Previously, draft officials had said young men whose birthdays fell on the 140 lowest numbers for this year's draft probably would be called up.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr also said today that men will be given 30 days' notice to report for induction, insteaed of the previous 10 days' notice written into the law.

That means that no one will be drafted during October to fill the 10,000-man draft call for the remainder of this year announced last week by the Pentagon. They will be drafted instead between Nov. 1 and Dec. 9.

Agnew To Speak At Dinner Party For Sen. Tower

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — An estimated 500 persons are expected tonight for a dinner honoring U.S. Sen. John Tower of Texas at which Vice President Spiro Agnew will speak.

The Vice President, making his first visit to this border city, is expected to arrive from Washington about 4:00 p.m. MDT.

Tickets were sold at $100 each, except for persons in the 18-21 age group if they were accompanied by a parent. Their tickets were $25 each.

Because of security, Agnew was to be rushed from the El Paso International Airport to the banquet hotel. El Paso County Republican officials scheduled a 5:00 p.m. news conference for the Vice President and Tower.

Tower has been in the U. S. Senate since he won a special election in 1961. The former political science teacher at Midwestern University, at Wichita Falls, Tex., won election to a full term in 1966 and is expected to seek another six-year term in 1972.

World Traveler Will Address K & F Members

Dr. John Furbay, consultant on cultural affairs in 38 countries for TWA and General Motors—his job takes him flying over some quarter of a million miles annually, will be the guest of honor of members of the Top O' Texas Knife & Fork club when they assemble for dinner at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

Holder of a Doctor's degree in Philosophy from Yale, Furbay is one of the most articulate speakers of a current crop of very articulate people. He makes as many as 20 speeches a month — many months — and has addressed audiences in as many as 32 countries in one year. He is also the star of the popular radio show "The World of Travel".

In 1955 he was "Man of the Year in Aviation". That year and again the last 15 years he was guest lecturer at the International Seminar, Geneva, Switzerland.

Tickets for the Thursday night dinner may be obtained by club members at Malone's Pharmacy in Coronado Center up until 12 noon Wednesday.

Administration Still Wrestling With New Anti-Inflation Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several key elements of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic policy have jelled, but the White House still is wrestling with the thorny problem of how best to enforce new inflation-fighting measures.

Unlike the secrecy-cloaked formulation of Phase 1, which Nixon dropped like a bombshell on Aug. 15, the President himself has traced the broad outlines of Phase 2 policy in recent public utterances. Administration aides have contributed other disclosures.

While the framework of Phase 2 has become increasingly clear, what form the enforcement machinery for wage-price restraints will take remains unsettled.

Aides say this question was among chief matters Nixon pondered during a four-day stay at his Florida and Bahamian retreats over the weekend. The President returned to Washington Monday night and, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, will spend most of the next few days in "consideration and discussion of Phase 2," including meetings with Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally, Director George Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget, and members of his Council of Economic Advisers.

As Nixon's self-imposed deadline of a Phase 2 announcement before Oct. 15 drew nearer—and Ziegler set a time frame Monday of "within five to seven days"—these major points emerged from a review of what's been said or indicated by Nixon and his aides:

—Phase 2 will not carry a specific termination date, as does Phase 1's wage-price freeze which expires Nov. 13. "We are not going to set a limit on it," Nixon told the Detroit Economic Club last month, "because we believe that its duration should depend upon how effectively it deals with the problem."

—Profits probably won't be covered. Nixon has said such profit controls as an exces-profits tax would be counter-productive. "More profits mean more jobs, and at this particular time we need more jobs," he said in Detroit.

—Portions of Phase 2 will be aimed directly at such especially troublesome areas as medical costs. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson said during the weekend that, "because of ... the very rapid rate these medical) costs have been rising year after year, we do intend to include specific measures to deal with them."

—The administration appears to be shying away from a ceiling on interest rates. Although Nixon said last month "the matter is still open, particularly with regard to loans affect ing consumers," he also described some of the problems involved.

"You can limit the interest rates, but you can't make the banker loan money," he said. "It isn't just a question of limiting the interest; it is a question of providing some system under which the money that is needed for a growing economy is forthcoming."

—While Phase 2 will encompass the entire economy, its major focus probably will be on large industries and unions. Nixon put it this way: "It will have to concentrate primarily on those areas of the economy, major industries, for example, where there is the greatest possibility of inflationary tendencies having effect on the balance of the economy, but all the economy will be covered."

—Although the President used the words "voluntary cooperation" in his Detroit talk, he added: "It is also essential that there be government sanctions to back it up, and there will be." Later, in Portland, Ore., he elaborated:

"The wage and price restraints that follow the freeze across the board will depend primarily upon voluntary action on the part of both labor and management and depend also to a great extent on public support.

"But there must be, in addition to that—in order for it to be effective with recalcitrants—there must be the possibility of government action to back up what our private or public exhortations may be."

One government economist calls this the "big-stick approach." The "big stick," he says, would be the threat of quick, stern government action against unions and industries that try to skirt Phase 2's wage-price guideposts.

Obituaries

MRS. MAGGIE COOK

Funeral services are slated for 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the First Baptist Church of Canadian for Mrs. Maggie Lurlene Cook, 51, of Canadian, who died in her home Monday.

Rev. Troy Nolands, church pastor, will officiate, and burial will be in Canadian cemetery.

Born April 29, 1920, in Gordon she farried Charlie Cookk, Canadian city engineer, in 1966. She had lived in Canadian and the Canadian area most of her life.

She is survived by four sons, James M. Mahan and Ronald Mahan, both of New Mexico, Elmer Mahan of Raleigh, N.C., and William Mahan of Canadian; two daughters, Mrs Alvera Thomas of Iowa Park, and Mrs. Gladys Dunaway of Spearman; two sisters, Mrs. Della Banks and Mrs. Annie Shouse, both of Pampa; and 14 grandchildren.

MRS. EDNA O'ROURKE

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic Church for Mrs. Edna O'Rourke, who died Sunday.

Father Thomas Parrott, C.M. will officiate, assisted by Father Francis J. Hynes, C.M. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Rosary services will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in Carmichael-Whatley Colonial Chapel.

Survivors include three sisters; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Liguori O'Rourke of Pampa, with whom she lived; three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

OLIN D. COBB

Funeral services are pending with Duenkel Funeral Home for Olin D. Cobb, 509 N. Russell, who died at 1:35 a.m. today in Highland General Hospital after a three-month's illness.

Born July 8, 1891, in McNairy County, Tenn., he moved to St. Louis, Mo., in 1910, where he lived for three years before moving back to McNairy County. He came to Gray County in 1960.

A retired farmer, he was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel, of the home; three sons, Martin Cobb of Louisville, Tex., Wayne Cobb of Pampa, and Bill Cobb of Howe, Tex.; one daughter, Miss Wanda Cobb of Overland Park, Kans.; nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

China...

partures from almost sanctified custom. The display of Mao's photographs in all newspapers is a custom dating back to 1949. Lin's has appeared beside them since he became party vice chairman and heir-apparent in 1966.

The decision not to print them could have been Mao's. But what seems more likely is that the Chinese party and mass media are being fought over by rival factions as they were in the early days of the cultural purge.

At that time it was Mao, fighting an uphill battle against the dominant faction led by President Liu Shao-chi, who seized control of press, radio and television. That coup, carried out by Mao's one-time political secretary, Chen Po-ta, gave the Maoists the lone voice in China and effectively silenced his enemies.

Now Chen Po-ta himself and the party leftists are said to be the center of a new political storm, perhaps because they opposed the party policy of rapprochement with the United States.

When the cultural purge ended in the spring of 1969, Mao, Lin Piao and Chen Po-ta emerged the apparent winners. Chen became No. 4 in the hierarchy. But in fact the army gained the controlling voice. It is believed to have dictated the new "soft" line and to have named Chou En-lai to carry it out.

So if Chen resisted that line he also was fighting the army.

Both Chou and Yeh Chien-ying, the army leader who sat in on the July talks with Nixon's aide, Henry Kissinger, played public roles in the Oct. 1 celebrations. This gives weight to those who say that the army has been successful in its quarrel with Chen.

The army-leftist struggle may well have precipitated an emergency meeting of the party Central Committee to debate it. That would explain the halt in regular air schedules; the few Chinese planes available could have been used to bring members to Peking.

Area Humorous Speech Contest Set For Pampa

Wayne Hampton of the Pampa Toastmaster Club will represent the local group in the Panhandle area Humorous Speech contest scheduled for Jim's Steak House here at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 16.

Toastmaster clubs to compete will include Hereford, Tulia, Borger and three from Amarillo.

Hampton was accorded the honor of representing Pampa when he won the local humorous speech contest at Monday night's meeting of the local club in Furr's Cafeteria.

Topic of his speech was "My Family." Bill Watson was voted best table topic speaker.

'Tex' Watson's Defense Charges Kasabian Real Leader In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The real leader in the slayings of Sharon Tate and six others two years ago was a star prosecution witness, Linda Kasabian, a defense attorney says.

Sam Brubrick said that in contrast his client, Charles "Tex" Watson, the last to come to trial in the Tate case, was only a drugged "robot" who had accompanied the group.

"Charles Manson had a year to work on him (Watson to convert him to a robot under the influence of drugs," Brubrick said during Watson's trail Monday. Watson was a member of a nomadic band led by Manson, who with three followers was convicted of the 1969 murders and sentenced to death.

Brubrick asserted that Miss Kasabian, allowed to go free after her testimony in the Manson trial, had "proved herself that night of the Tate murders so well that the next night when Manson accompanied members of his company on a second murder mission, Charlie let Linda drive the car when he was in it."

The second murder case alluded to the slayings of supermarket owner Leno LaBianca and his wife.

"Linda got her stripes in a month" of living with the Manson family, he said. "When Tex Watson was in high school back in Texas playing football, what was Linda doing? She was going from commune to commune, traveling from man to man, living off boyfriends, shooting speed, selling drugs, living by her wits if you please."

Miss Kasabian had testified at the Manson trial that Watson was the leader on the murder nights.

Watson, whose case is expected to go to the jury in midweek, is being tried separately after being released from a mental institution.

CHICAGO (AP)—The clerk picked up the telephone in the American Airlines section of O'Hare International Airport and with a straight face paged a "Mr. Bunny Rabbit."

A six-foot-tall University of Chicago student dressed as a rabbit answered the page Friday.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We entertained a family of six at our summer place last weekend. The children ranged from 9 years old to 17.

The children invaded my kitchen, helping themselves at all hours to whatever they found in my refrigerator.

The first day they ate everything I had planned to serve for the entire weekend. The 18-year-old drank nine cans of pop in one afternoon.

I served a buffet supper. The children got into line first and loaded their plates, and came back for seconds before some of the adults could help themselves.

I was appalled. But worse than that, I was disappointed in myself for not having found some way to control the situation.

Needless to say, they will never be invited back. How would you have handled it?

APPALLED

DEAR APPALLED: Probably much the same way you handled (or didn't handle) it. The temptation to teach those ill-mannered children something about manners and consideration for elders must have been overwhelming. But because their parents were present and made no attempt to discipline them, it would have been extremely awkward for you to have done so. It's history now. Your decision never to invite them back is understandable.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I watch television from our bed at night and we aren't ashamed to admit it. We keep switching from Johnny Carson to Merv Griffin to Dick Cavett, and there's also David Frost and now Steve Allen. So what's our problem? Some of our intellectual friends who never watch "that garbage," and make us feel like morons because we do.

But what's really funny is when I mention something I saw on television these "intellectual" friends who never watch the boob tube just happen to have caught it, too. Ha!

JUST PLAIN FOLKS IN MPLS.

DEAR FOLKS: Move over. You have plenty of company.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a letter several years ago. I was another angry teen-ager, complaining because my parents didn't trust me, wouldn't let me grow up, bleach my hair, wear a lot of makeup and date older boys when I was young. They seemed to want to keep me a baby forever. I hated them for being so unreasonable. Since then I have seen manye Since then I have seen many letters in your column so much like my own.

Then I got into a serious automobile accident and suffered neck and back injuries that partially paralyzed me for many long months. At first they said I'd never walk again. My friends flocked to see me while I was in the hospital, but when I went home and was confined to a hospital bed, they forgot me. The painful process of learning how to sit up and walk again was so discouraging and agonizing.

The two friends who never let me down were my parents. During the time I was on my back, I had plenty of time to think, and it was then I realized I had been the unreasonable one, and my parents had kept a watchful eye on me because they loved me. I am glad I found out how wonderful parents can be before it was too late. We are closer than ever now.

Oh, by the way, I never mailed that letter to you. I've kept it all this time in my top drawer.

WISER NOW

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HOT TEMPER" IN ALBANY: Never answer an angry word with an angry word. It's the second one that makes the quarrel.

What's your problem? You'll felt better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Lady Of Spain

On Elvira Street, one of the historic Spanish streets in Hollywood, Anissa Jones, Buffy Davis of TV's "A Family Affair" fits in with the scenery in the newest gypsy print for Spring. The polyester/cotton is by Cinderella and—big news—it's part of the "Stop the Press" collection so no ironing needed here. Elasticized at the midriff and bowed at the neck with ribbon, it's a great Spring dress for any fiesta.

ESA Fetes Guests At Passport Dance

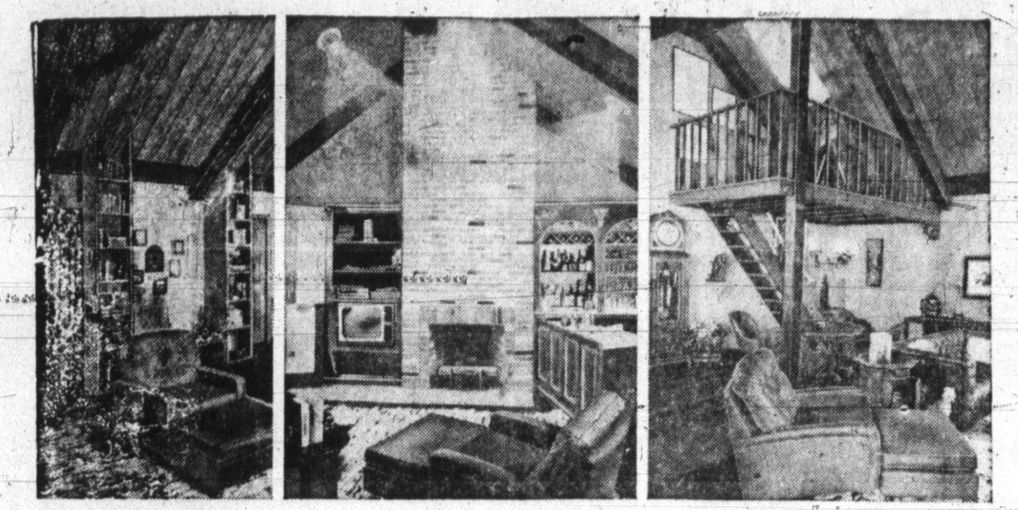

A rush "Passport Dance" was held Saturday in PamCell Hall by members of Kappa Alpha chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International sorority.

Members and guests wore costumes of their favorite foreign countries, such as Mexico, France, Spain, Hawaii, Switzerland, Scotland and Brazil.

Tables were decorated with Spanish candelabra and dolls dressed in native costumes.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Alvin Bickell, Ed Bailey, Ray Floyd, and F. G. Vaughn.

Members attending were Mmes. Fern Berry, Hunter Chisum, Horace Henley, Irvin Hungerford, Melton Jones, Glenn McConnell, Joe Miller, Joel Plunk, Robert Rose, Norman Sublett, Jerry Thompson, Ray Wooldridge and Bob Yost.

At first glance this family room with beamed ceiling, fireplace and functional balcony looks like an architect's expensive dream. It is used by three children, plus the parents, and provides an entertainment center, plus bar with swing-out unit—all are covered when not in use by louvered; fabric covered doors over TV and trompe l'oeil painted bookcase over bar which is a pull-down window shade. At left, draperies disguise sliding glass doors to patio and slim bookshelves make use of awkward area between doors. The balcony, right, was built by the breadwinner of the family who is an amateur painter and uses it as his studio. The cathedral ceiling is natural cedar, beams stained a dark color and walls papered in warm natural cork. Floors are wide-plank, hand-pegged oak and furniture, Portuguese sheepskin rug and draperies carry a blue-and-white theme. The room in a Woodbridge Conn., home was a S. M. Hexter Awards entry.

Coffee Features Speech On Education Programs

"Today's Woman Looks At Education" was the topic of a speech by Mrs. Perry O. Gaut, Pampa schools educational services director, at the guest day coffee of LaCultura Club recently, in Carver Center.

In 1969, a bond issue was voted for projects proposed by Dr. James Malone, school superintendent, to update the Pampa school systems, Mrs. Gaut told the women. All the proposed projects have been completed except for the vocational school, she added, for which the school system is waiting for matching funds from the state.

Mrs. Gaut pointed out that two new elementary school cafeterias have been built; and libraries have been set up for elementary schools, under the direction of a district librarian, who is assisted by high school VOE students.

At the high school, a new music and a new science wing have been completed, as well as a new girls' gymnasium and a library learning resource center, Mrs. Gaut explained. A new athletic building and new stadium seats have been completed, also, she said.

Mrs. Gaut told the women there are four kindergarten classrooms available for educationally handicapped and economically deprived children, with the goal of free kindergarten for all five-year-olds, on a voluntary basis, to be realized by 1978.

Under the special education department, the language learning disabilities department and the homebound program for students unable to attend classes have been set up, Mrs. Gaut said.

She concluded by explaining a guidance program is available to all school children through the junior high and senior high counselors, and the visiting counselor for elementary schools.

Following the program, a tour was taken of Carver Center.

Before going to Carver Center, the group met at the home of Mrs. Jim Johnston, 2007 Christine, where a short business session was held.

Guests attending were Mmes. Roger Dickson, Imre Nagy, Lloyd Martin, Lee Allison, Evelyn Brown and S.L. Tate Jr.

Members present were Mmes. David Damron, Charles Arledge, Ralph Dozier, Lee Foxworthy, Rouert Elliott, M.C. Meador, Jim Johnston, Walter Colwell, Don Huffaker, Don Wilson and Max Lovell.

Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 6

Your birthday today: Material concerns work out quite well this year with routine persistence in your established work habits, although you tend to seek more of a single-handed approach to vocation and social contacts. Today's natives generally favor progressive ideas, long-range goals beyond their own lifes, sometimes neglect current luxuries to build for the future.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Check financial deals with more experienced advisors, et technical advice where it's appropriate then give your own inner intuition overnight to digest all the angles.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may be slightly out of step with people. Stick to schedules if you must, but seek a more felicitous moment to announce your plans.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Another story surfaces to change some of yesterday's tale. There's more yet to come, so reserve most comment and action for a while longer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): People of the opposite sex seem to make special effort to be annoying or provocative. If you must argue, stay with the issues.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take care of yourself and your own. Beware the big deals and speculative scramble to the gullible and ambitious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A long moment permits you to see associates in different perspective, know qualities in them which previously escaped your view. But don't react suddenly to these fresh insights.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Any thoughtless remark expands into a good story. Let somebody else start the tale. Preserve your strength for your own endeavors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): People of like mind surround you. Waste no time or energy on opposing whatever minor nuisances exist.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Re-evaluation is more in order than ever — if you don't do it others will. You have much to do to establish the order you'd like to see.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Open your mind and heart to simple, true expressions. Intuition sorts them out, for you. It's good advice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take up all fluid resources not actually in use, settle them in safety and revenue-producing position. There's opportunity, leverage for future action.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Despite your own duties and minor puzzles, lend a hand where somebody's worse off. Do so cheerfully.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Remove White Table Spots By Rubbing In Linseed Oil

DEAR POLLY — Evalina may be able to remove the white spots caused by placing hot pies on her table by first rubbing the spot with linseed oil (do not wipe it off), then rub with spirits of camphor and then another application of linseed oil. After this the entire table may need a good cleaning as the spots may be a slightly different color. I have restored many old pieces of furniture using this method and have never had a failure.

POLLY D.

DEAR GIRLS — I am sure many of you remember the old standby treatment for this printed long ago in this column—one I have used so many, many times. Rub white spots with cold cigarette or cigar ashes with a cloth that has been well-moistened with shortening or oil. Rub with the grain of the wood and wipe off immediately. Rewax.

POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY— I have some woolen blankets, as well as some place mats made from a heavy materials, that all need laindering. Since they were made in Mexico, where they may not have been treated as they are in this country, I am afraid of shrinkage. Will someone come to my rescue with a suggestion?

MRS. L.J.L.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the faint pale printing on the tapes for supermarket cash registers. They make me want to explode as I cannot check my groceries.

JUNE

DEAR POLLY — With cut-off jeans and shorts so popular I found a way to reinforce the legs so they will not tear. I apply iron-on tapea ll the way around the legs just above the frayed part. Works great,

MRS. D. H.

DEAR GIRLS — Even though Mrs. D.H. did not say so, I feel sure she applies this tape on the inside.

POLLY

DEAR POLLY — One day as I came home from a wedding I noticed that the grass needed cutting so, in my haste to get it done, I forgot to take off my new white shoes. When I discovered this I removed them and left them on the steps. The next day when I went outside they were white as new after sitting in the sun.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Hobo should be an object lesson to millions of medical patients. For you suffer less pain if you extrovert your attention. But if you focus on your own "innards," then you can soon become a hypochondriac (Worry Wart) and a tranquilizer addict!

CASE R-530: Hobo, aged about 12, is a dog.

"Dad," my son David informed me, "he came up to our house last fall and adopted us."

He was a well trained dog but we could never find his owner.

Since he was a wanderer we named him 'Hobo.'

"He likes to ride in the automobile, so Joan takes him in the car whenever she goes shopping.

"He is meek and gentle with children, but a chronic fighter with any other dogs, regardless of size.

"About once per week he returns home with bloody gashes on his neck where he has been dueling with other canines.

"And when he is in a fight, he is oblivious of my commands, though he normally is very obedient.

"But this Spring he began to act arthritic and limps badly.

"It seems to be worse when people are around so maybe he is a hypochondriac."

HYPOCHONDRIA

Last week David and Joan deposited Hobo with us at our summer farm homt while they were heading for Denver.

Hobo limped so badly and had so much trouble getting up from the floor after being asleep, that we kept him in the house every night.

But when our son Daniel and his wife, Judy, dropped off their collie dog, Suzie, Hobo perked up and pranced around outdoors as if nothing whatever was wrong with his hips.

And if Suzie could score up a rabbit, Hobo joined the chase as if he were a young dog.

Which shows that when we extrovert our attention off our own "innards," we perk up physically.

Veterinary doctors report that dogs can feign invalidism to gain more favor with their owners.

Many human patients, likewise guzzle pills and swill down unnecessary liquid medicines, due to TV commercials that cause negative thinking!

But when they divert their attention from their own inner organs they act like healthy physical specimens.

Even if Hobo were afflicted with arthritis, when his attention was turned outward upon another dog or a rabbit, he forgot his aches and pains.

Same is often true of football players, who may fracture a small bone in the foot or wrist and never notice it during the excitement of the game.

Or a soldier may ven be shot through the arm or leg while in the middle of battle, and merly brush it off as if it were a mosquito bite.

Afterwards, When his attention btgins to turn inward, he begins to suffer pain.

Dental surgeons and physicians thus know that they can reduce pain by means of drugs.

But also by diverting the patient's attention to an outside object.

Let a child patient thus handle some of the instruments and he doesn't suffer as much pain.

Inform an expctant mother of the mechanics of childbirth and she, too, will require much less drugs or anesthesia.

Ignorance of what to expect produces fear; fear enlarges pain sensations, so doctors need to use more charts and verbal descriptions of what they plan to do to patients!

Next-Door Neighbors Urge U.S. To Lend Ear To Their Complaints

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Neighbors to the south and north are calling on the United States to heed their complaints or face a situation they say could bring political or economic chaos to the American doorstep—if not into the house.

Canadians urge an easing of President Nixon's trade brakes lest Canada be forced into more economic nationalism, more unemployment and lowered standards of living.

Some concerned Mepicans are saying that Washington's inattentiveness, as they describe it, could result in conditions bordering on anarchy south of the border, with possibly an eventual threat to U.S. infernal security.

In New York this week for the U.N. General Assembly session, Mexico's President Luis Echevarria will attempt to convince U.S. leaders that only through strong and growing economies can Mexico and other Latin American nations head off violent revolution, presidential soucres here say.

Echeverria hopes to meet privately awith as many top U.S. officials as possible with the idea of convencing them a stymied Mexican economy would thwart his plans for sweeping reforms of political and social institutions and thereby push extremist toward violence, the informants add.

Echeverria does not feel there is any imminent danger of such violence, the sources reported, but if it should occur the repercussions in Washington would be strong.

There is a small but apparently growing leftist guerrilla movement in Mexico. Strong discontent exists among arch-conservatives and old-line politicians who oppose change. Those close to Echeverria say he is certain that change is the only way to head off trouble.

But they indicate he worries he cannot pull it off if, as he sees it, Nixon overlooks Latin America, or if the United States—Mexico's most important trading partner—continues protectionist trading policies toward hemisphere neighbors.

Other Mexicans say they do not think the extremist situation in Mexico is all that serious but some blame Nixon and his foreign affairs adviser, Dr. Henry Kissinger, for policies that they feel may foster leftist growth while creating hostility in conservatives who previously favored the United States.

Many Latin American leaders tend to believe U.S. business is trying to get as much as possible out of hemisphere neighbors while putting almost nothing in.

One reason they have been critical of Nixon's 10 per cent surcharge on imports is that Secretary of State William P. Rogers promised in April, before the Organization of American States, that Nixon would ask Congress to remove all import duties on more than 500 Latin American products, including almost all manufactured goods except shoes and textiles.

Echeverria is reported to feel Mexico is in a unique role because of its border with the United States. He has repeatedly said he does not want to be the leader of Latin America. But he has, at the same time, offered his government as a buffer between the "colossus of the north," and the rest of latin America.

Meanwhile The Canadian Press, the national news co-operative there, says the feeling in Ottawa is that Canada and the United States appear headed toward a political collision of crisis proportions because of the restrictions imposed in August to Strength the U.S. dollar.

"Unless somebody swerves or steps on the brakes soon, the crash could drastically transforf Canada as nothing has since the North American War of 1812," an Ottawa dispatch says. It gives this as the Canadian viewpoint:

Unless Washington lifts the 10 per cent surtax on Canadian goods, Canada has the choice of either giving in or fighting back.

Yielding would mean dismantling policies developed in the last 20 years to make Canada a manufacturing nation, exporting processed goods rather than raw materials.

But fighting the United States could be as bleak, for it would likely mean more Canadian manufactured goods and possibly a falling back to raw materils for export income.

The United States has said it will lift its restrictions on Canadian goods if Canada will remove safeguards designed to assure Canadian factories a fair share of automobile production; schemes ensuring for Canada part of the production of aircraft and computers it buys in the United States; programs that attract foreign manufacturers to Canada, and laws that limit the export of raw materials such as timber for manufacture in the United States.

Canada insists its policies are not that harmful to the U.S. economy and that it has already taken economic steps demanded by the United States.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's government remains adamant.

RHA To Hold Annual Meet At Texas Tech University

LUBBOCK — The Ranch Headquarters Association, formed to lend citizen support to development of an outdoor living museum of ranching history at Texas Tech University, will hold its second annual meeting on the Ranch Headquarters site Oct. 9.

A one-day festivities are planned to commemorate the growth not only of the Ranch Headquarters project but also of the association itself during the past year.

"When we held our first meeting at the new Museum at Texas Tech University facility last year, we had only three historic buildings, none of which were restored, and a couple of windmills on the Ranch Headquarters site," said project director Jerry Rogers.

This year the project boasts five buildings, all of them almost completely restored, along with 40,000 cubic yards of earth mounded into "berms" which separate incompatible historic structures according to period and original geographic location. In addition, the berms are covered with native buffalo grass, and the entire site has been enclosed within a permanent security fence.

"We are proud of the progress we are making in developing the Ranch Headquarters project, and we remain right on schedule," said Rogers. "We are equally proud of the growth of the Ranch Headquarters Association which has increased in membership by more than a third since the last annual meeting."

In addition to showing the project's rapid growth, this year's meeting will also feature official dedication of three buildings which have been restored on the Ranch Headquarters site.

NEW YORK (AP) — Viewers who have looked in on "The Doctors" segment of NBC's "The Bold Ones" over the past couple of years may have noted the shift of emphasis in its plots. It has moved from an exploration of the new frontiers of medical science to treating human dilemmas.

This puts it in the category with CBS "Medical Center," and ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D." but sometimes there is a difference. Sunday night's drama was a sympathetic treatment of a hospital paramedic, a doctor's assistant—who was stealing hospital supplies to treat illegally sick people in a slum district. It was notable for the intense performance of Zooey Hall as a former Vietnam medic and even more for some of his explosive dialogue about inadequate medical care for the poor—lack of physicians in slum areas and long waits for short appointments in clinics. Most of television's doctor shows have scripts checked and approved by committees from physicians' organizations and treat the profession with velvet-glove reverence.

The story had, however, the balance of concerned, dedicated doctors in the series' regulars, David Hartman, E. G. Marshall and John Saxon.

It was an hour with something to say and it said it with bite—a rather rare program among television's deliberately bland dramatic efforts.

DISPLAYING UNIROYAL AND GOODYEAR TIRES — Jack Vaughn invites everyone to drop by to 1800 N. Hobart and look over his fine selection of guaranteed tires, and dependable facilities. (Staff Photo)

Vaughn Auto Provides Customer With Guaranteed Spare Parts

Tires, batteries, tuneups, and almost anything a car owner may need are available at Vaughn Auto Center, located at 1800 N. Hobart.

Vaughn's, opening from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., has all tune work guaranteed. Therefore, customer can have the tires balanced, front and signed brakes adjusted, or simply a major tuneup without worrying about it being a good job or it going to last.

Jack Vaughn has some of the best trained men in the area and he displays faith in them.

Employes are Danny Strawn, Dick Thompson, Johnny Cook, Dale Pinson, Terry Sincher, and Sally McKnight, secretary.

Other products are, of course, the fine Arco gasoline and oils accompanied by Delco shocks, Goodyear shocks, Uniroyal & Goodyear tires.

For the man who likes to dress up his car Jack Vaughn has in stock Spyder and Exiter sports wheels to go along with the extra wide Goodyear and Uniroyal tires.

The batteries sold at Vaughn Auto Center are guaranteed from 24 months up to 60 months, depending upon the battery bought. Tires carry a guarantee that allows Mr. Vaughn to replace any defect caused by bad factory workmanship or road hazards.

Vaughn Auto has in use two service trucks, which means that the fine Vaughn service is not restricted to the home location. These trucks are on call for automotive, truck, and farm tractor tire service.

Customers can't go wrong with a man like Jack Vaughn as he says "We offer quality products with friendly, concerned service."

Americans Urged To Boycott French Goods

DALLAS (AP) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount urged American citizens Monday to boycott all goods imported from France until that country halts the flow of illegal heroin to the United States.

Speaking at the dedication of a new stamp commemorating drug abuse prevention, Blount said, "There is no reason why the individual American citizen cannot have a role in the war against international drug traffic."

CIO President Asks Congress To 'Take Over'

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, saying President Nixon has proved unworthy of the trust reposed in him to stabilize prices and wages, urged Congress Monday to "reassert control over the economy."

"How in the name of equality of sacirfice can the President impose economic actions which are patently unfair?" Meany asked in testimony prepared for the House Banking Committee.

"The freeze on wages is across-the-board and absolute," Meany said. "It is enforced happily by the employer through control of the paycheck.

"In contrast, some prices were never frozen, someprices have been allowed to increase since Aug. 15 and there is no systematic, effective enforcement procedure for those prices that are still supposed to be frozen."

FDIC To Put Bank Building Up For Sale

HOUSTON (AP)—The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was authorized Monday to start negotiations for the sale of the Sharpstown State Bank Building and adjacent properties for $5,353,000.

The FDIC is liquidating the bank that closed its doors nine days after the bank and its founder, Frank W. Sharp, were named in a U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission civil injunction suit filed Jan. 18 in Dallas and alleging stock manipulations.

The FDIC advised state Dist. Judge John Snall Jr. at the Monday hearing that Guaranty National Bank of Houston was the apparent high bidder when bids were opened in August.

After entering the order in favor of Guaranty, Snell authorized a lawyer representing the Cooperative Church Finance Corp. to file his opposition to the order in writing and to file a written motion for a rehearing.

Donald B. Yarborough, lawyer for Joe H. West, president of Cooperative Church Finance, told Snell he was delayed in arriving at the hearing because he had to stop to render aid at an accident scene.

West was present at the hearing but said he did not object during the proceedings, because he did not think he could do so without a lawyer.

Doug Boyd Motors Offers Used Cars Of High Quality

Doug Boyd Motors has been the dependable dealer for pre-owned cars in Pampa for over 10 years, providing a center for shoppers that can be depended on for top quality vehicles.

He has backed selling with integrity and offered customers on-the-spot bank financing. His selection of cars is discriminate, eliminating the risky vehicles from the top condition autos. The car of choice on the part of the company is an advantage to the buyer desiring a second car on interested in trade for a servicable pre-owned auto.

The company is located at 821 W. Wilks in Pampa.

Regular hours are from 8 a.m. till dark, but interested buyers can contact the company at any time. Boyd says that persons wishing to inquire about a car on the lot are urged to call him. Tom Ammons may be reached by dialing 665-1280 or Randy Slavik can be called at 665-3445.

Boyd insists that a good selection of cars and station wagons is available at all times. He said that the selection at this time will answer the desire of model and design of any customer.

Hollywood Finally Gets Its Own Film Festival

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —After 60 years as center of movie-making, Hollywood is finally getting its own film festival.

Except that it isn't called a festival. And it's not named after Hollywood. It's called the First Los Angeles International Film Exposition.

Over the years many a public-spirited citizen, as well as some publicity-seekers, have proposed that Hollywood follow the lead of Cannes, Venice, San Sebastian and others, and have its own festival.

It made sense, since Hollywood is the reputed movie capital of the world.

The Los Angeles Festival, nicknamed FILMEX, had its origin in a tour by veteran director George Cukor. The Motion Picture Academy sent him to filming capitals of the world to investigate how countries submit their entries for the foreign-language film award. Cukor learned much about film festivals in his travels.

What good do festivals accomplish?

Their adherents argue that festivals reward film excellnce by honoring past accomplishments and recognizing present ones. Selection by festival boards brings prestige to a film and, sometimes, greater receipts in the world market.

"The founders realized from past experience that festival plans had failed because backing was not wide enough," says Gary Essert, FILMEX director. "So all of the major organizations in the film community were contacted—the academy, the American Film Institutt, the County Museum, the Harold Lloyd Foundation and the film schools of UCLA, USC and Cal-Arts.

"All were hesitant to make the first step. Finally the academy said 'Yes, we will participate if you can get four other organizations.' Then al the others fell in line."

It couldn't be called the Hollywood Film Festival because a loca promoter had been using that title. The board of trustees, who include Cukor, Norman Corwin, Walter Mirisch, Rosalind Russell, King Vidor and critic Arthur Knight, decided to broaden the geographical base and name it after Los Angeles.

But the Nov. 4-14 event will bear the unmistakable stamp of Hollywood. FILMEX showings will be at the Grauman's Chinese Theater.

"We'll show approximately 17 new films and 17 vintage films, some of which will be followed by symposiums featuring the film makers," said Essert. "We will also have a prigram of student films and another of animation, as well as two children's shows."

Unlike most other festivals, FILMEX will be noncompetitive—no prizes given. Budget is $150,000 and the sponsors believe the affair will be self-supporting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Washington attorney and former assistant general counsel to the Federal Reserve Board has offered his $300,000 home as a permanent residence for the U.S. chief justice.

G. Howland Chase said Wednesday his decision had nothing to do with any particular chief justice, but because, "It was a dream I had."

Nixon Administration Seeking End To West Coast Dock Strike

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House declared Monday "time is running out" on negotiations to end the West Coast dock strike and said President Nixon would decide soon whether to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act.

"The situation is getting somewhat serious," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

The West Coast dock workers, who walked off their jobs three months ago, were joined last week by longshoremen at East and Gulf Coast ports.

Nixon talked by telephone Monday with Labor Department officials seeking an end to the West Coast strike, Ziegler said.

He added: "Time is running out. We are going to have to reach a decision shortly on whether or not Taft-Hartley will have to be invoked."

Nine days ago Nixon met in Portland, Ore., with union and management negotiators. After that meeting, he expressed hope the walkout would end by the weekend.

That goal was not reached, although Ziegler said government mediators reported progress was being made on major issues.

Nixon had said in Portland that the Taft-Hartley Act, which provides an 80-day "cooling off period," would be invoked automatically if East Coast dockworkers struck at the ... Coast strike was underway.

Ziegler said last week, however, that, "You cannot equate automatically with immediately or instantly."

Besides receiving telephone reports on the dock talks, Ziegler said Nixon worked on Phase 2 of his economic policy.

Announcement of Phase 2 decisions can be expected within five to eight days, Ziegler said. Nixon, 2nd graf pvs

Business Mirror

BY JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —Among the business and economic trends about which you may not have been aware:

—The index of help-wanted advertisements, which some analysts claim foretells actual job conditions, failed to rise in August despite the nation's new economic plan that it is hoped will bring balanced prosperity.

The index, which stands at 85, compared with 100 in 1967, measures the volume of classified advertising in 52 major newspapers. The Conference Board, which maintains it, claims the index is "extremely sensitive."

In four of the nine regions—East North Central, West North Central, South Atlantic and Pacific—the index fell from its July level. It rose in New England, Middle Atlantic, East South Central and Mountain States, and stayed the same in the West South Cestral region.

—Another continuing survey—that of executive appointments—also failed to show any marked reaction to the nation's new economic plan. Third-quarter appointments fell 6 per cent from the second quarter, but this could be merely a seasonal factor.

—Remember when discount stores first appeared on the scene in great numbers during the 1950s? Now, it is claimed, there are as many of them as there are traditional department stores. Both now number more than 4,500, says Audits & Surveys, Inc.

A & S, a research firm, conducted what it termed a nationwide retail census this year and found that, despite rising population, the number of retail outlets actually shrank by 9,000 in the past year to a total of 1,698,300.

The store-to-people ratio was 1 to 112 persons in 1966, fell to 1 in 119 in 1970 and 1 in 121 in 1971, reflecting the disappearance of small units and the rise of chains and multiproduct stores.

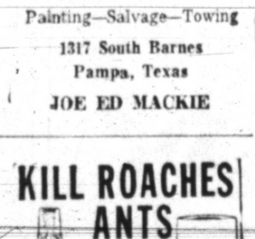

—The home office, it is claimed, is becoming a fixture in many homes, just as the family room established itself years earlier.

Priest's Idea, Artist's Talent All Go Into Making Of Passion Play

Associated Press Writer

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Gerald L. K. Smith had the idea and raised the money. Robert Hyde supplied talent and initiative.

Together Smith, the preacher turned political activist, and Hyde, the artist brought the Great Passion Play to this Ozark moutain village.

The play, in turn, brought a rebirth of tourisf to a locality once nationally acclaimed as a mineral springs resort.

One of three major productions based on the last week in the life of Jesus Christ, the Eureka Springs play is performed five nights a week (Mondays Thursdays excepted) on the western slope of Mt. Oberammergau. This year almost 100,000 will see it.

"We've had people come through here who've also seen the original passion play in Oberammergau, Germany, and they think this one is better," said Gordon Kennett, a motel operator and president of the chamber of commerce.

The play is one of four "religious projects" established in Eureka Springs by the nonprofit Lina M. Smith Foundation, named after Smith's wife.

Smith, who calls himself "a right wing, no make that conservative" propagandist, lives in Eureka Springs in a restored 19th Century house called Penn Castle. The rest of the year he spends in California where he publishes the Cross and the Flag, a monthly magazine criticized for anti-Semitism and other forms of racisf.

The first Smith project was a gigantic statue of Christ erected on Magnetic Mountain, overlooking Eureka Springs. The statue, 70 feet tall and measuring 65 feet from fingertip to fingertip of outstretched arms, is visible from the passion play amphitheater.

Smith said the idea of a passion play was born as the statue was nearing completion in 1966.

"I was talking with Adrian Fourette, one of the artists, and I told him, 'I'd like to see a passion play performed on the slopes of one of these mountains,'" Smith said.

He said Fourette replied, "My best friend, Robert Hyde, is one of the greatest directors of outdoor dramas."

Smith contacted Hyde, and Hyde came to Eureka Springs and surveyed the natural amphitheater in which the passion play's 500-foot set eventually was built.

Hyde was interested in the project, Smith said, but there were questions about financing, and no decision was reached.

"Three months later, Mr. Hyde came to me with a scenario, a complete design for the amphitheater and a breakdown of projected costs," Smith said. Still no deal was made.

In another three months, Smith said, Hyde was back again, this time with the scenario recorded on tape by friends who were professional actors.

"We were overwhelmed," Smith said. "We told him that we didn't know how it was going to be paid for but that we would commission him to do it."

The play opened on a rainy July night in 1968. During the first two years, Smith, his family and friends, continued to subsidize the operation. This year it got into the black and the foundation immediately announced a new project, construction of a "Holy Land," with full scale reproductions of sites and buildings which figured in Christ's life.

Hyde, who also is designing this project, said it could take 10 to 20 years to complete and could cost more than $100 million.

Hyde directs the passion play, trains the amateurs, mostly local residents, who act in it and plays the role of Christ.

The acting, for practical purposes, is pantomine. Although actors actually speak their parts, they cannot be heard. Voices, like background music and sound effects, are on tape which is played through a $50,000 stereo system which takes the sound wherever the action may be on the gigantic set.

Hyde said he helped pioneer this "lip synch" technique which is now widely used in television and on the Broadway stage, as well as in outdoor drama.

"If we used microphones on stage, we'd lose the ability to project," Hyde said. "The mikes would pick up the wind and shuffling of feet. Whispers would have to be shouted. Voices could never be reproduced at the same quality they are on the tape."

The voice of Jesus on the sound track is Hyde's, but most of the other voices are those of professional actors, many of whom have never seen the play. Actors share 20 per cent of the gate money. Hyde gets a percentage, but neither he nor Smith would say how much it is.

"We didn't have a contract originally," SLmith said. "He me that he'd accept whatever figure I found to be correct."

The main set of the pass on play is a street in "New Jerusalem" with Pilate's porch, Herod's Court, the Upper Room, the Court of the Sanhedrin, the Temple and the House of the Ascension. Sliding fronts open when the action moves inside. The Garden of Gethsemane, Simon's House, Golgotha and Jesus tomb are on a hill to the left and above the main set.

Camels, flocks of sheep, donkeys and doves add to realism of street scenes. Bright, colorful costumes, designed by Hyde and sewn by ara women, make such scenes a great spectacle with 100 to 125 actors taking part.

Hyde, who worked on a Cray Horse show in South Dakota, was living in Tuscon, Ariz., where he had staged "Hawks of the Desert," and "Ghosts of Ft. Lowell," when Smlith contacted him.

He said he never doubted that he wanted to make the passion play his life's work. "There is no story that can equal this one in importance," he said. "After you've produced the life of Christ, you can't go back and produce the life of Chief Sitting Bull."

The oldest passion play is at Oberammergau, Germany. It has been performed once each 10 years for centuries. The other major production is the Black Hills Passion Play, which is performed at Spearfish, S.D., in summer, and at Lake Wales, Fla., in winter. The Eureka play runs from the last Friday in May through the fourth Saturday in October.

Smith said that the play, as presented here, varies "only eight or nine lines" from Hyde's original scenario.

Hyde said no major change is planned in the script.

"But we'll probably be making small changes," he said. "There can never be a point when we can say that we're producing it perfectly."

Common Market Entry Disputes Ii Trouble UK Labor Party Meeting

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Britain's opposition Labor party Monday began its 70 annual convention, torn and troubled by disputes over the nation's projected entry into the European Common Market.

The official leadership under former Prime Minister Harold Wilson is seeking conference endorsement of its decision to oppose British entry on grounds that Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government has negotiated a bad bargain.

Labor leaders argue that joining Europe will undermine British living standards. They want the party's six million members to back a demand for submitting the issue to the test of a special national election.

But the party's deputy leader, Roy Jenkins, with a group of former Cabinet ministers, has mounted a direct challenge to this policy.

vention eve rally Sunday night that British hopes of an effective world role rest on joining an enlarged Common Market. He called for a Labor party liance with Socialist parties on the continent to give West Europe left-wing leadership.

The convention seems certain to support Wilson and those opposing market entry. But up to 40 of Labor's 289 members of Parliament are expected to rebel against the party and vote to join the market. Heath's Conservative party, with 323 seats, is also divided over joining Europe, but the government is expected to win by a margin of from 20 to 40 when the Common Market vote is taken Oct. 28.

Under British party practice, a lawmaker risks his political future if he votes against his own colleagues on a vital issue.

FOR CONSUMER PROTECTION

Nader Wants More Teeth Than Heart In Legislation

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the average person, Section 204 would be just 97 lines of complicated lingo loaded with unfamiliar legal references.

But to Ralph Nader it is the heart of the proposed consumer protection act of 1971. And his complaint to Congress is that a House committee has given the bill heart trouble.

Nader and Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., are unhappy because, they say, Section 204 — on "representation of consumers" — would not give the proposed new consumer protection agency the right to intervene in enforcement proceedings during priminary, informal stages.

That is important, they say, because most cases involving alleged violations of consumer protection regulations are settled without formal proceedings.

For example, they say:

—The Federal Trade Commission resorted to formal adjudication only 25 times in 1970 to enforce flammability standards while disposing of more than 250 cases through informal proceedings.

—Agriculture Departfent disciplinary actions under meat and poultry inspection laws against adulterated food and unsanitary processing plants are done informally before a department attorney.

—The Civil Aeronautics Board instituted or concluded more than 1,800 informal complaints against air carriers for violations of law, while settling only 231 cases through formal proceedings during fiscal 1971.

In addition, Nader and Rosenthal say the bill would not give the proposed agency the right to intervene or participate in "all formal adjudications 'seeking primarily to impose a fine, penalty or forfeiture,' all agency investigations and internal procedures."

This means, they said, that the propised agency could not investigate vehicle defects, food contamination, dangerous toys, possible violations of the Flammable Fabrics Act, or industry compliance with Interstate Commerce Commission rules governing household movers.

They also said the bill would keep the new agency from participating in agency supervisory practices—such as Federal Communications Commission supervision of radio and television licenses.

Nader and Rosenthal also lost a battle to give the agency what would have amounted to subpoena powers.

But Chairman Chet Hilifield of the House Government Operations Committee which wrote the bill takes a different view.

"The allegation has been made," Holifield said, "that 80 to 90 per cent of federal agency actions would be outside the purview of the consumer agency because they involve 'informal' rather than 'formal' proceedings.

"The Administrative Procedures Act makes no distinction of that kind. There is no valid basis for that allegation."

Holifield said the bill "does not give this new agency the right to dominate its sister agencies of government, nor to stand as a super agency above them, but it does direct the others to cooperate with the consumer agency in furnishing information.

"And it gives the consumer agency's administrator the right to request an agency to initiate a proceeding or publicly explain its failure to do so."

Chairman Roger C. Cramton of the Administrative Conference of the United States, who helped draft the current version of the bill, said it would be extraordinarily difficult to write legislation dealing with nformal agency considerations.

Similar legislation passed the Senate and the House Government Operations Committee by wide margins last year but died on a tie vote in the House Rules Committee, which clears legislation for floor action.

The current bill was rushed to the Rules Committee Friday, the deadline for filing legislation to be considered for clearance to the House floor this year.

No date has been set for Rules Committee action.

Nader complains that last year's bill was stronger. He says that the White House took a strong role behind the scenes by "disciplining Republican members and holding out carrots to some Democratic members." Holifield and Republican congressmen deny the charge.

Old Pipelines May Be Hazardous To Suburbs Growing Around The

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pipelines installed in rural areas years ago may be hidden hazards to the suburbs that have sprung up around them, the National Transportation Safety Board said Monday.

The agency made the finding while reporting on its investigation into a gas pipeline accident two years ago at a Houston suburb that destroyed 13 homes and damaged another 106. The board said the operator of the pipeline did not follow all code provisions.

"Because of the change in character of the use of property adjacent to existing pipelines throughout the country, a major safety problem has resulted," the board said.

"Many people are now living, working and traveling in proximity to pipelines which were originally installed under less stringent standards then were required for lines in populated areas, because they were constructed in open country," the agency said.

Such were the circumstances when a 14-inch Mobil Oil Corp. high-pressure gas pipeline ruptured at Greenridge North Sept. 9, 1969, the Safety Board said in the report.

Gas spewed from a pipe seam rupture almost 50 feet long, sprayed the area for eight to 10 minutes, and then exploded in flames and blasts that injured nine persons, two seriously.

The board noted that the 194-mile pipeline from Vanderbilt, Tex., to a Beaumont refinery had been built about 30 years earlier to industry safety standards for open country. Since the line's completion, the Greenridge North subdivision had sprouted up with some substantial brick houses erected within 24 feet of the welded steel pipeline.

The board said that when the housing area was developed, most people were unaware of the pipeline's existence or of its portential hazard.

"The probable cause of the accident was the rupturing of a length of pipe along a weak zone in the electric resistance weld, made when the pipe was manufactured in 1941, due to the subjecting of the pipeline to pressures higher than ever before experienced," the board said.

Braniff Flying Friendly Skies With Profits

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It's CAVU-ceiling and visibility unlimited-for Braniff International while many of today's major airlines are finding economic thunderheads in their once friendly skies, an official says.

Harding Lawrence, chief executive officer and chairman of the Braniff board, says Braniff is doing well, mainly because "we read the economic indicators better than most back in early 1969."

Lawrence cites enlarged service, more equipment and plans for merger as a barometer of the bright days ahead. These factors represent exceptional progress during a period when many carriers are fighting higher costs, fewer passengers and tougher competition both in fares and service.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Washington State University professor said Wednesday that cows on a farm near an eastern Washington high voltage line gave less milk than normal until their water trough was grounded.

Lloyd Craine, a professor of electrical engineering, told a Bonneville Power Administration hearing that the corus refused to drink from the trough because they were being shocked by electricity induced into the trough by the high voltage line.

The hearing was called on the administration environmental impact statement for the next fiscal year.

Awards for the two day tourney will be presented Sunday, Oct. 10 following completion of play.

Fizzled Fourth Kills The Cleveland Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fourth-quarter fizzle, a disease which killed the Cleveland Browns in many games last season, cropped up again Monday night when the Oakland Raiders scored 24 points for a going-away 34-20 victory.

"We couldn't stop them and then the game got out of hand," said Browns' Coach Nick Skorich, who installed a tough conditioning program when he took over as coach this year to prevent such letdowns.

"We didn't capitalize on our opportunities when we had them while Oakland capitalized on breaks they got," Skorich said in explaining another reason that leads of 14-0 and 20-10 failed to hold up.

The game, before a national television audience and a stadium crowd of 84,285, left the Raiders and Browns with identical 2-1 records. The Raiders share the American Football Conference's West Division lead with Kansas City and the Browns are tied with Pittsburgh in the Central Division.

Two interceptions played a big part in Oakland's victory.

Rookie safety Jack Tatum intercepted a pass on Oakland's 16-yard line just before the half ended and romped 67 yards to the Browns' 18. George Blanda score than we might have," then kicked a 20-yard field goal to make it 14-10 at half.

"We felt a lot better at that said Raiders' Coach John Madden. "We figured the score just before halftime would get our momentum going for the second half."

The Browns had dominated play until the final three minutes of the half and had scored on Bo Scott's three-yard run and a 2-yard screen pass from quarterback Bill Nelsen to Leroy Kelly.

Daryle Lamonica then completed five passes for 82 yards, the final one for 20 yards and the score to Raymond Chester, to get Oakland on the scoreboard with just 1:54 left in the half.

Cleveland drove to the Raiders' 27, 20, and six yard lines in the second half as they continued to dominate play, but had only field goals of 27 and 14 yards by Don Cockroft to show for it.

The Raiders then took over in the fourth quarter, with Marv Hubbard, who gained 103 yards in the game.

Bengals Are Plagued With Many Injuries To Starting Players

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Bengals coach Paul Brown said Monday the team has no plans "to make any trades for a quarterback."

"Ken Anderson will be our quarterback now, and Dave Lewis will back him up," Brown said.

Anderson was forced into the starting quarterback spot since regular starting quarterback Virgil Carter dislocated his shoulder in the Bengals' 20-17 loss to the Green Bay Packers Sunday at Green Bay.

Brown said the Bengals two straight losses since winning their opener didn't please him.

"I don't like it," he said. "But there isn't anything I can do about it. We're catching everyone's best Sunday effort. We have met two steamedup football teams the last two weekends."

Meanwhile, Bengals' defensive back Ken Dyer continued in serious condition in a Green Bay Hospital, suffering from what Dr. George Ballou, team physician, called a "severe contusion of the spinal cord."

year was injured when tackling Pakcers' running back John Brockington Sunday. Mr. Ballou said X-rays Sunday showed no evidence of a fracture and that diagnostic X-rays showed "no outside pressure on the spinal cord."

He said Dyer was able to move his lower extremities and "is in good spirits."

Mr. Wally Timperman, another Bengals team physician, said surgery on Dyer "does not now appear to be necessary."

Hockey Owners Are Willing To Stick It Out For Party

CALGARY (AP) — The World Hockey Association wants owners who are "willing to stick with it" for three or four years until parity is reached with the National Hockey League, one of the proposed league's organizers said Monday night.

Dennis Murphy, an advertising executive from Santa Ana, Calif., told a news conference that anybody who says parity can be reached sooner "would be completely out of context."

The association hopes to compete with the NHL and plans to open Oct. 14, 1972, with "no less than eight teams and no more than 12," says President Gary Davidson of Los Angeles, another association organizer.

Among areas considered are Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg along with 13 U.S. locals.

"No franchises have been officially awarded," said Davidson, a corporation lawyer who will be president for three years.

Eleven of the areas have option clauses, and must declare their intentions Nov. 1—the date the association meets in New York or Chicago to select the franchises and name the owners.

Other areas considered are Miami, Atlanta, New York, Ohio, the Carolinas, Chicago, geles, San Francisco, Kentucky, Indiana and Albuquerque, N.M.

Notre Dame Slipping Away In College Football Poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nebraska, Michigan and Texas continued to run 1-2-3 today in The Associated Press college football rankings while Notre Dame, though still unbeaten, continued to slip.

Nebraska's defending national champions received 43 first-place votes and 1,058 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The total was down slightly from a week ago when the Cornhuskers piled up 44 first-place votes and 1,064 points.

In running their record to 4-0, the Cornhuskers whipped previously unbeaten Utah State 42-6.

Michigan blitzed Navy 46-0, the third straight shutout for the Wolverines' brilliant defense, and picked up five first-place votes and 886 points. Last week Michigan had three top votes and 840 points.

Texas trounecd Oregon 35-7 and earned three first-place votes and 818 points.

The other four ballots were split between Auburn and Colorado, which climbed one spot each into the Nos. 4-5 positions. Auburn trimmed Kentucky 38-6 and Colorado downed Kansas State 31-21.

Pittsburgh Has Pitching Problems

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If pitching is indeed the name of the game, then the Pittsburgh Pirates could be in deep trouble as they go against the San Francisco Giants today in the third gafe of the deadolcked best-of-five National League playoffs.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh disclosed Monday that his No. 1 winner, right-hander Dock Ellis, may be through for the playoffs because of an aching elbow.

Ellis, who won 19 games during the regular season and went five innings as the Pirates evened the series at 1-1 with a 9-4 victory in the second game Sunday at San Francisco, is going to be examined by a doctor.

Royal Fears Oklahoma Has Best In 15 Years

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Oklahoma scored a solid 21-7 victory over coach Darrell Royal's first Texas Longhorn football team and beat Texas again in 1966, but Royal says this year's Sooner squad is the best he has seen in 15 years.

Darrell Royal

The 1971 Sooners also are "the equal of anybody in the nation," Royal told a news conference Monday.

Asked to compare the 1957 and 1971 Oklahoma teams, Royal said, "They couldn't move it like this crowd."

To make matters worse for Texas, first-team quarterback Eddie Phillips and split receiver Jim Moore definitely will miss the Oklahoma game with injuries, Royal said.

That makes five Texas starters who will be sidelined when the two teams meet in the Cotton Bowl Saturday, reminding Longhorn fans of 1966 when nine starters were crippled as Oklahoma won, 18-9.

Phillips, ailing with a pulled leg muscle for over a month, hurt it again in Texas' 35-7 victory over Oregon last Saturday, and Moore injured his knee. Royal said Phillips' leg was "more sore and more painful," than at any time this season.

He said he would be "tickled to death" if Phillips or Moore are in good enough shape to play against Arkansas Oct. 16. He said he did not know if Phillips' pulled muscle would keep him a week or six weeks.

Senior Donnie Wigginton will replace Phillips again at quarterback, and Pat Kelly, a sophomore, will fill in for Moore, the fastest player on the squad with 4.4-second speed for 40 yards.

On defense, safety Tommy Landry has a sore shoulder and linebacker Glenn Gaspard has a stiff wrist, Royal said.

Defense ends Stan Mauldin and David Arledge will not play against Oklahoma either because of injuries.

Royal mentioned the 516 yards Oklahoma gained rushing againts tough Southern California last Saturday and said, "I hope we cn keep them under 500."

Texas and Oklahoma have 3-0 records.

"They have an excellent operator in (quarterback Jack) Mildren and unbelievable speed in their two halfbacks"—Joe Wylie and Greg Pruitt, Royal said.

Where are they getting their yardage, Royal was asked.

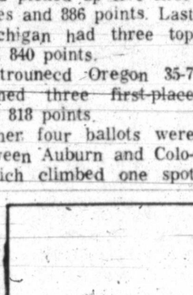

"Wide," he replied. "They turn 5 into 25 (yards) just like that," and he snapped his fingers.

Royal described Oklahoma's defense as "quick, aggressive, strong." Defensive end Raymond Hamilton, 6 feet 1 inch and 237 pounds, "is phenomenal," Royal said.

"There is not a phase of the game Oklahoma has not played well," Royal said. "They've got talent, they are confident, they've got it going for them... like high water over level ground ... or maybe downhill ground."

Youth Can Find Itself By Means Of Hard Work

Youth today are bent upon a great quest: to find out who they are. The quest is not new, but it has led many of them down strange paths and in too many instances resulted in moving farther from rather than closer to the person they want to find out about.

Thomas Carlyle, who was a deep student of mankind wrote. "The great law of culture is: Let each become all that he was created capable of being; expand, if possible to this full growth; resisting all impediments, casting off all foreign, especially noxious adhesions; and show himself at length in his own shape and stature be these what they may."

Finding one's own shape and stature is not easy. As a matter of fact, it is work. And work is what turns nearly everyone off. That is because most people take it for granted that work and drudgery are synonymous. They are not.

A sister paper's reader had been having some communication problems with her young teenager and wrote to her father for advice. He is retired as a farmer in Arkansas and a former lawyer, whose words impressed the young man.

The counselor wrote: "many of them (young people) have had every material thing they could think of showered upon them without any effort or labor of their part, with the result that they have lost the value of the good things of life and seem to feel that society should furnish all their wants and demands without any effort, obligation, respect or consideration for anyone or anything.

I grew up under different conditions . . . I was taught that the way to get a thing was to work for it that a person was entitled to that which he himself earned. That included the food you ate and the clothes you wore. That each person had an obligation to society, that society was not obligated to the person.

"My father died when I was quite young. There was no such thing as relief or charity, and the way to live was to work. From the time I was 12 years old I always had some kind of job such as paper routes. I rode many miles over the streets on a bicycle delivering papers doing yard work, odd jobs, or any type of work that I could find. Instead of looking for mischief, I was out looking for a job.

"I feel that the most that anyone can ask of another person is for an opportunity to work and so something for yourself. And when that opportunity is given it is then one's obligation to have some respect and loyalty to that person, to do one's best to fulfill his job and improve himself, that he may become more valuable as he goes along."

The lad's grandfather talked a lot about work, and he said nothing about missing fun. Looking back, apparently he honestly does not have such regrets. He claims the greatest thing is the opportunity to work. It is a better kind of fun.

As Calvin Coolidge observed, "Work is not a curse, it is the prerogative of intelligence, the only means to manhood, and the measure of civilization. Savages do not work." Work makes it possible for a youth to find his own shape and stature.

First 'Flower People'?

Neanderthal men were not the loutish, brutish, apelike creatures we have long thought them to be. They may actually have been the first "flower people."

Recent archeological discoveries in a cave in a remote area of Iraqi Kurdistan indicate that Neanderthals were communal beings and were the first to experience the stirrings of a social and religious sense. They took care of the crippled and helpless among them and buried their dead with flowers.

This much-maligned group possessed very "human feelings, to a very much greater extent than we have ever known," says Ralph S. Solecki, professor of anthropology at Columbia University, reporting his findings in "Intellectual Digest," a new national magazine devoted to culture and ideas.

So next time you see a shaggy, scraggly flower person shuffling down the street, think before you yell "Neanderthal!" Unless you want to compliment him.

Thoughts on Public Piety

By virtue of a discharge petition signed by 218 members of the House of Representatives, a proposed constitutional amendment to permit voluntary, nondenominational prayers in the public schools and in public buildings has been pried out of the House Judiciary Committee, where it has languished for the past eight years.

It now goes before the House for a vote, probably sometime in early November. The congressmen have from now until then to think seriously about the matter—even, if they are so inclined, to pray over it.

They might reflect that it is almost a law of history that a nation's outward piety increases in inverse proportion to its inward convictions.

It was true of Rome, where public ceremonies in honor of the gods nobody believed in any longer were kept up until the last. It may be true of the United States, where once men were confident enough of their faith to feel no need to proclaim it on the coinage or in the pledge to the flag.

The lawmakers might also recall a certain Biblical admonition, and consider whether it could apply as well to an entire people as to an individual person.

"And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily, I say unto you, they have their reward."

Quick Quiz

Q — Does the moon have a day and night?

A — Yes. It rotates upon its axis in 29.53 earth days. That is the length of its day, so that it has about 15 earthdays of light and 15 earthdays of darkness alternately at any one place upon its surface.

Q — Who holds the record for the Senate's longest filibuster?

A — Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina — 24 hours, 18 minutes.

Q — What country claims the world's first double-deck tunnel?

A — Japan. The tunnel connects Honshu and Kyusha, with one level for vehicles and one for pedestrians.

HANDOUT 'HUMANITARIANISM'

In accepting the "Great American Humanitarian Award" given by the American-Nigerian Committee, U.S. Sen. Ernest F. Hollings (D-S.C.) repeated the familiar liberal theme that the nation needs "a national commitment to end hunger." It is a theme that is irriating to working citizens who must pick up the tab for the free-loaders on relief.

Sen. Hollings would have better served the country had he stressed the need for a national commitment to end parasitism and welfare-chiseling. Only two days before Sen. Hollings spoke in New York City, "The New York Times" said the state controller reported fraudlent cashing last year of about $4 million in dole relief checks. Ironically, New York officials apparently aren't planning a crackdown on offenders. Instead welfare recipients will be able to draw money as well as food stamps from accounts established in their names at neighborhood banks. Certainly, that's something new in government giveaways--individual, taxpayer-supplied bank accounts for non-workers.

In his speech, the "Great American Humanitarian" from South Carolina complained that millions of families "are getting no help whatsoever" from the taxpayers, adding that they are denied the right to participate in the food stamp program solely because our government has decided that to feed hungry Americans would be fiscally irresponsible."

No doubt food stamp recipients--many of whom are well-dressed and who enjoy purchasing choice cuts of meat and other goodies with taxpayers' funds--will be gratified at Sen. Hollings' solicitude for the non-working population. The citizens who have to pay the bill for the parasites may not be pleased, however. They may wonder whether the senator read the federal government's statistics on welfare, published the day before Sen. Hollings received the "Great American Humanitarian Award."

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare disclosed Sept. 23 that total welfare spending for the last fiscal year was $16.3 billion, an increase of 27 per cent over the previous year and almost twice the $8.9 billion figure of four years ago. The number of persons on the welfare rolls increased by 17 per cent during the last fiscal year.

These statistics tell a story of growing indolence and dependency in our society. Relief began in the 1930s as a temporary measure. Today, welfare is a way of life. Food stamp programs, which Sen. Hollings had a major role in pushing through the Senate, have created a new privileged class of hand-out recipients.

The ordinary working man is understandably resentful of the food stamp programs. He buys hamburger in the supermarket while the food stamp recipient buys items the working man can't afford. Proponents of food stamps deny this.

Russia, Red China And Sam

By PAUL HARVEY

Suddenly Russia and Red China are more afraid of one another than either is of us. What's that all about?

Russia's Red Army newspaper, Red Star says Red China "is preparing for war with the Soviet Union."

At the same time, Red China's leading theoretical journal, Red Flag, fingers Russia as "The now enemy."

For two decades those governments have held their people together in fear of us--the United States.

Now each identifies the other as its enemy number one.

If President Nixon meant this overture to Red China to fuel this fire, it has.

Since Peking agreed to a summit meeting with President Nixon, every issue of Red Flag has turned its wrath, fear and suspicion toward Moscow. Similarly, almost every day since the July 17 announcement, Red Star has attacked Mao Tse-tung and his "ruthless military rule."

"Ruthless military rule"--genocidal slaughter-characterized the establishment of communism in Russia under Stalin. So Russia knows what Red China is going through. The story of Peking's 22 years of iron rule has blood on every page.

And where Red China has enough real estate, Mao would like to surround himself with nations "friendly to Maoist communism" even as Russia has sought to surround herself with Hungary, Poland, East Germany.

Both have sought through indigenous organizations to subvert or "convert," as they see it, as many other nations as possible, including ours. And by whatever means.

Communism has not captured a following in the United States, and supporting worldwide espionage and sabotage is astronomically expensive.

Recently, instead, Russia has been tending to smile our way. Russia has sought to establish a dialogue with the United States on such vital subjects as nuclear arms limitation, easing Berlin tension, so forth.

While Moscow moves more and more Russian troops to her long, long border with Red China.

Similarly, Red China has parted the bamboo curtain enough to allow American visitors, is increasing trade with us, has agreed to a summit meeting with our President.

But Red China is no less red, the Peking regime no less militaristic. Of the 25 members and candidate members of the ruling Politburo, 15 are military officers. Of the 279-member Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party, 145 are military men.

Of the 29 provincial revolutionary committees 24 are headed by military men.

President Nixon is not deluded about the nature of either of these world powers. He does not imagine that either the paranoid bear or the fire-breathing dragon is suddenly broken to harness.

But each needs an external enemy for its own internal cohesiveness; they need one another right now.

Today's diplomats cannot think in terms of victory or defeat. Each year that the world does not make an ash of itself is a victory of sorts for us all.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Mark my words, Charlie—Put one woman on the Supreme Court, and the floodgates will be open. They'll turn EVERYTHING into a hen party!"

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Dear Dr. Lamb—Two years ago I had a stroke, not severe, thank goodness, and I recovered the use of my hand and could walk with a walker in a short while. But my leg is heavy and I drag my foot when I walk. Can you help me? Would circulation pills help? I've heard of some people taking them and I would appreciate any other help you can give to us folks.

Dear Reader—A stroke commonly means that an area of the brain has been damaged. Usually this is from a clot or related mechanism that plugs an artery to part of the brain. So the real disease that causes the problem is in the blood vessel.

The brain and spinal cord cells that are destroyed cannot be regenerated like a broken bone or many other parts of the body. Since almost all of our functions can be pinpointed to a specific part of the brain the area damaged determines if a stroke victim is paralyzed, can't speak or has other problems. To illustrate, there is a small spot on the surface of the left side of the brain that is the central point for controlling the right leg. When you want to move the right leg impulses pass from this point, cross over to the left side of the spinal cord and eventually stimulate the right leg muscles to control movement. This sounds simple but it involves the integration of many complex signals to relax some muscles and contract others in a smooth fashion. If these cells in the brain are damaged you may not be able to move the leg at all.

Sometimes other cells in the brain that escape injury take over the function of the damaged ones or can be trained to replace them. A good example is speech. You can develop another area for speech in some cases, but it takes a long period of training. I suspect there is much yet to be learned in training the brain to take over functions of areas that have been damaged.

A stroke patient needs to have particular attention to the development of his muscles by special exercises so he can make the most of his ability and prevent, in so far as possible, crippling or loss of function.

Regarding circulation pills, if a person has high blood pressure it is sometimes advisable to treat this to prevent further changes is the blood vessels and possible further damage to the brain. There are other medicines that are given to help the brain function when the circulation is poor. No generalization can be made. The things that prevent heart damage from blood vessel disease apply equally well to strokes, preferably before they occur. This means, no cigarettes, prevention of obesity, a proper diet, limited in any kind of fat, or saturated fat, avoiding too much cholesterol and getting proper exercise.

GOP Whip Rebuffed in Naming of Black to Military Court-

ROBERT ALLE

WASHINGTON — For the White House to flatly rebuff a top Republican Conpressional leader on a highly personal patronage issue is most astonishing, but that's exactly what happened to House GOP Whip Leslie Arends of Illinois.

Compounding this extraordinary backstage affair are two unusual factors:

(1) Arends wasn't trying to pluck this patronage plum for himself, but was opposing the appointee who finally got it. (2) Arends, a steadfast Admisistration supporter, was licked by a rookie Republican Senator of uncertain loyalty.

As might be expected, Arends is deeply offended and his many House friends are furiously outraged.

For the White House and the appointee, it is very fortunate he does not have to be confirmed by the House. If he did, it's very doubtful he would make it — regardless of merit or anything else. That's how strong the resentment is over the inconsiderate treatment of Arends.

The acrid inner-party wrangle centered around the generally little-noticed selection of Ohio Supreme Court Justice Robert Duncan as a member of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals — for a 15-year term at $42,500.

Named to succeed Homer Ferguson, 82, who retired last May, Duncan will be the first black on this tribunal — which has the last word on military law.

Vigorously sponsoring Duncan was Sen. William Saxbe (R-Ohio), who has been advancing Duncan's career for a long time. As state attorney general, Saxbe made Duncan his chief counsel, and had a big hand in his elevation to the state supreme court in 1968 — as the first black in the history of that bench.

That appointment was made by then-Gov. James Rhodes on Saxbe's strong recommendation. That same year, Saxbe ran and was elected to the Senate.

Two years later, Rhodes ran for the Senate but narrowly lost the Republican nomination to then-Rep. Robert Taft. Subsequently, as a Senator, Taft backed Saxbe in putting over Duncan for the Military Court seat.

Strange Interlude

In some fespects, the most curious aspect of the long and tense backstage tug-of-war over this patronage prize is that Saxbe, a more or less inconsequential rookie of wavering Administration loyalty, won out over the No. 2 GOP leader of the House.

A 37-year Congressional veteran, Arends has been Republican Whip for 28 years and is unmatched for personal popularity and influence. Taft, dapper and courtly, the Illinoisan is widely liked and respected. Further, he is not only GOP Whip, but also ranking Republican member of the powerful Armed Services Committee — where he carries great weight.

As Whip and as top GOP member of the Arfed Services Committee, the White House depends heavily on Arends to round up the votes for the Administration's stand for or against legislation. In effect, he is th eWhite House's front-line commander in the House.

That's the reason for the sputtering backstage bafflement over the Arends slapdown.

Republican legislators are expressing bewilderment over the line of reasoning that led the White House to snub Arends, with a near perfect record of Administration support, while favoring Saxbe, who has repeatedly voted against the President on foreign and domestic issues.

Pinpointed as the most likely explanation for this seeming paradox is the same reason that prompted Saxbe and Rhodes to put Duncan on the Ohio Supreme Court and then to push him for the Court of Military Appeals — politics.

Duncan is a black and not many of them have attained high office under the GOP.

And 1972 is a national election year—with President Nixon running for a second term, to say nothing about 19 GOP Senate and several hundred House seats on the block, and thousands of other Republicans seeking state and local offices.

Politics is politics — and no one knows that better than Les Arends, who has been in politics since shortly after World War I in which he served with distinction in the Navy, even if he is sore and has angrily told White House liaison aide, former Rep. Clark MacGregor:

"Duncan is personally obnoxious to me, and that's why I am against him. If he is appointed, I am serving notice right now that the White House need not come to me for favors. My answer will be the same as the one I'm getting — 'nuts'!"

Ordinarily, the denunciation "personally obnoxious" is fatal for an appointee. But not this time.

Rage and sputter as Arends and his many indignant House friends may, they are in no position to directly block Duncan. Only the Senate has confirming power. The House has no say in the matter — for the time being.

The future may be something else.

Black is Beautiful

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, a Federally-charted institution, is breaking racial ground. For the first time in the nearly 40-tyear history of the New Deal-created outfit, it made a $1.5 million direct loan to a black-owned and operated Boston bank that was on the verge of bankruptcy. Never before had the FDIC made such a loan. Says Rep. H.R. Gross (R.-Iowa), "I view with utmost concern the FDIC's embarking in the field of direct loans and thus the field of banking. Such a policy is highly questionable."
