Jaycees Plan To Push For County Projects

NEEDS FOR A JUNIOR college, a coliseum and public auditorium, a new youth center building, a new court house, several new parks, and possibly other public improvements in Scurry County will be determined in a survey to be conducted between now and Aug. 15 by the Snyder Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the Jaycees voted unanimously Friday at noon to conduct the survey, and to adopt as the club's work program the things needed by the county as disclosed by the survey.

County Judge Edgar Taylor and three county commissioners present at the meeting agreed to a meeting with a Jaycee survey committee at 10 o'clock next Wednesday morning to help map the program of projects needed in Scurry County.

Charlie Blakey, president of the Jaycees, called for a report from the survey committee on Aug. 15. It was indicated in the meeting that the Junior Chamber of Commerce will adopt a definite work program from the results of the survey, with the aim of the Jaycees spearheading a drive to accomplish the projects for which a definite need is indicated by the survey.

The survey and possible work program of the club resulted from a talk by Ray Houpt concerning the comparative wealth of Scurry and several other Texas counties, and the things which Scurry County has accomplished as compared with the other counties.

Houpt prefaced his speech by declaring that Scurry County has already done many things with its wealth, but that there is a definite need for many more public projects.

"We have a good county road system, a fine hospital, a nice county park, and a good library which is to be opened in about two months, Houpt said, "but many persons have already expressed a need in Scurry County for many other improvements."

MANY COUNTIES which are poor by comparison to Scurry County have accomplished much more than Scurry County," he said.

He notes that Scurry County has a tax valuation of $118,000,000 based on a rendition of only 11.5 per cent of the true value of the county, and a tax rate of $1 per $100 valuation, which renders a county operating budget of $1,180,000.

Howard County, by comparison, has an appraised value of $48,000,000 on a rendered assessment of 20 per cent of the real value of the county, with a rate of $1.04 per $100 valuation, giving the county an operating budget of $478,000. Houpt pointed out that Howard County has a junior college.

Lubbock County has an appraised valuation of $136,000,000 based on 40 per cent of the real value of the county, a tax rate of 38 cents per $100 valuation, giving Lubbock County an operating budget of $1,133,000—almost $50,000 per year less than Scurry County's operating budget.

Dallas County has an appraised value of $1,035,000,000 with property assessed at 100 per cent of the real value, and a tax rate of 90

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

A short month ago, if clouds of the type and quantity we have witnessed during the past week had appeared, we could have counted on some rainfall. But it's a different story here in the dead of summer.

You might call this typical July weather. There have been showers in the area, but they don't cover as much ground as the spring rains did, and for the most part they are short lived. At this writing (Saturday morning) Snyder had received a bare sprinkle, but where there are clouds there is hope.

Launching of the high school at the Abraham Lincoln School here is going to require some versatile teachers. With only about 25 prospective high school students, classes will be small the first year and most faculty members will be required to teach a variety of subjects. However, the curriculum, as already mapped, appears broad enough, and the facilities which are nearing completion will compare favorably with any other school in the Southwest.

For a few moments Wednesday evening we thought we had finally seen some flying saucers.

"Look at the stars flying," some of the youngsters in our block exclaimed.

Sure enough, at first glance it appeared that five stars were floating in a westerly direction north of Snyder. Upon closer examination, however, it was fairly easy to detect that they were planes probably from some Air Force training base.

Events were moving swiftly at Winston Field, the Scurry County airport, last Monday. Within an eight-hour period a new airport manager took over his duties. Continental Air Lines officially announced that it was withdrawing its application to suspend service here, and county commissioners opened bids on construction of a new runway.

West Texas is supposed to get about 47 per cent of the state's Interstate Highway system under the proposed federal road program, according to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The WTCC quoted State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer as saying that 1,359 miles of Texas' part of the Interstate System will be in West Texas. West Texas portion of the allotment of funds is due to be about

[illegible] Funds

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Rep. Hebert (D-La) said today that more than 25 million dollars of Defense Department money was spent to "bail out" the Studebaker-Packard Automobile Co. when it was in a financial squeeze.

One Dead In Wreck Here

Van D. Sumruld, Jr., 35, who lived on the Big Spring highway, was killed instantly last night when his car left the road on Thirty-seventh Street and overturned.

Sumruld was lone occupant of the 1957 Pontiac station wagon. A longtime resident here, he was operator of the L. E. L. Sales Co. on the Big Spring highway.

He was traveling west on Thirty-seventh Street, and was between Avenue E and the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific Railway. A witness, who was driving the same direction and was in front of Sumruld, said he heard Sumruld's brakes squealing and that Sumruld, approaching the witness from the rear, apparently attempted to pass, but the station wagon got out of control.

The witness told investigating officers that Sumruld's car traveled sideways across the pasture south of Thirty-seventh Street.

Investigating were highway patrolmen Arthur Dyson and Jim Kinser, sheriff's deputies J. C. Massingill and Jesse Minton, and Colorado City highway patrolmen, who had been here helping with law enforcement in connection with the Scurry County Rodeo.

Sightseers hampered investigation. Dozens of specatators blocked traffic and caused some of the officers to have to clear traffic during the investigation.

After leaving the pavement, Sumruld's station wagon traveled about 300 feet across the pasture, down a six-foot embankment beside the railway, across the tracks, back up a four-foot embankment, and overturned, throwing Sumruld out and about eight feet away from the vehicle.

Sumruld had lost his left arm in an accident several years earlier and wore an artificial arm.

Funeral services were pending at Bell Funeral Home.

Sumruld was born Sept. 21, 1921. He was married to the former Veda White. Also surviving are two sons and a daughter.

State Hit By Light Rains

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and partly cloudy skies were reported over Texas Saturday.

The Weather Bureau predicted a chance of more showers during the weekend. The sizzling heat will continue.

Showers were reported in or around Dalhart, Lubbock, Midland Abilene, Wichita Falls, Lufkin and Galveston.

Barrington, Farris Tie For Saddle Bronc Riding Honors

Cotton Barrington of Lubbock and John Farris of Iowa Park finished in a draw for top honors in the saddle bronc riding event to climax the 1st Annual Scurry County Rodeo, which closed its four-day run Saturday night.

Barrington [illegible] finished with 267 points to lead the field in heated competition.

Meanwhile, Becky Jo Sumerlin of Roby was capturing second go-round honors in the sponsor contest with a time of 19.7 seconds. Mildred Farris of Iowa Park and Pat McDaniel of Abilene tied for second [illegible] seconds.

Barrington also was high man for the day in bareback bronc riding with 138 points. Delbert Hataway of Snyder and Ted Cave of Rotan were tied for second high for the day, each with 157 points.

Barrington was also high man in the saddle bronc riding with 137 points. Barrington and two others, Jay Hendricks of Logan, Okla., and Skip Wyatt of Spur, finished in a three-way tie for second with 135 points each.

J. D. Rogers of Anson had the best average in the wild cow milking contest, with 53.7 seconds. Buck Craft of Post was second with 54.2, and Royce Rodgers of Anson was third with 55.6.

In Saturday night's calf roping event, Fred Dalby of Aspermont [illegible] the field with a time of 12 seconds. Second for the evening show was Jimmy Bird of Post with 12.4, while Ed Sims of Post was third with 12.6.

A crowd of some 3,500 was on hand for the closing performance of the rodeo.

Ike Opposes Treaty Curb

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — President Eisenhower let Congress know today he looks with strong disfavor on legislation which would kill off or drastically curb this country's status-of-forces treaties with Allied nations. These treaties and agreements provide for foreign court trial of American servicemen charged with violation of civil laws.

In a letter reply to an inquiry from Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader in the House, Eisenhower said:

1. Passage of any such legislation would be "most hurtful," would "gravely threaten" national security, "alienate our friends" and "give comfort to those who want to destroy our way of life."

2. The United States should not demand special privileges — "extraterritoriality" — by which nations where U.S. forces are stationed would surrender their right of sovereignty over offense committed in their territory.

3. This question is "no partisan political matter."

Moves to strike out or change the status — of — forces agreements were accelerated by the Supreme Court decision in the Girard case. The court ruled that the Japanese government should be permitted to try GI William S. Girard on the charge that he shot and killed a Japanese woman who was picking up empty shells on an American firing range in Japan.

Eisenhower touched upon nonpartisan aspect of the controversy in two ways:

First he referred to the legislation by its official document number-House Joint Resolution 16—without mentioning the name of its author, Republican Rep. Bow of Ohio.

Second he recalled that the original status-of-forces agreement with the North Atlantic Treaty Nations was negotiated and signed in 1951 under the previous Democratic administration, was approved by the Senate under the present administration; and that similar legislation had been rejected previously "under the strongest sort of bipartisan leadership."

In addition to Bow's proposed resolution, Rep. Burleson (D-Tex) sought earlier this month to attach somewhat similar legislation to the foreign aid bill. This move failed.

Bow, out of the capital today, was not available immediately for comment on the President's letter to Martin.

Burleson told newsmen he thought Eisenhower was assuming the same premise that many members of the House had taken about the breaking of agreements.

"No one is trying to vitiate anything," Burleson said.

He said he thought means should be sought to review particular situations and also that no man on duty should be surrendered to a foreign government. Burleson also said: "I think many of our problems would be solved if we had fewer men overseas."

Rep. Forys (R-Ohio), member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said he was glad the President had made his public expression. Vorys said he opposed both the Bow and Burleson proposals because "I have been informed if we try to do that—revise the status-of-forces agreements — we'll wind up by losing our bases overseas because our troops would have to come back."

This has been the contention of the State Department and the Pentagon-that a renunciation of the agreements would jeopardize the continued availability of bases for U. S. forces in Allied nations.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

Father Of Miss Universe Finally Admits She's 17

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 20 (AP)—Vivacious Gladys Zender, Peru's winning entry in the Miss Universe of 1958 contest, will keep the highly coveted title even though it was established today that she is not yet 18 years old.

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 20 (AP) — The father of the brand new Miss Universe, beautiful dark-haired Gladys Zender of Peru, admitted today that his daughter is not yet 18 years of age as required by pageant rules.

The rules of the international beauty contest require that entrants be between the ages of 18 and 28.

Miss Peru's father, Lima industrialist Educardo Zender, said the date of birth for his daughter is Oct. 19, 1939.

During a tense interview in his hotel room on the age question, his youthful wife, Mrs. Annie Zender, was in tears.

"For all practical purposes when a girl reaches 7 years and 7 months in Peru they go as 18 years of age," said Zender through an interpreter.

The father told this reporter: "We were under the impression in Peru that the age limit was 17 to 28."

The father said this information was given to them by the man who conducts the preliminary contest in Peru.

The question of whether Miss Peru will lose her title because she is not yet 18 has not yet been decided. After the rumor started that the statuesque Miss Zender might be under age, Oscar Meinhardt, promotor of the event, and Lawrence Collins Jr., head of the pageant committee, hurried to the Zenders' hotel room for a conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Zender were taken to another room where they were closeted with the officials, Capt. Bill Thornberry of the Police department and an intepreter for several minutes.

Later, Collins said no statement would be made about the status of the Peruvian Miss Universe until after a meeting of committee officials.

This was the second infraction of contest rules in connection with a top contender. Mrs. Mary Leona Gage Ennis won the Miss United States title and was queen for a day, but was quickly stripped of the honor when it was found she had been married before-twice in fact-and has two children.

The second-place contestant in the Miss United States phase of the competition then stepped up to take the title. She is the lovely blande Charlotte Sheffield of Salt Lake City, Utah.

If the title is taken from Miss Peru, presumably it will stay in Latin America, because Miss Brazil, who is Terezinha Goncalves Morango, 20, was first runnerup in the contest last night.

State-Federal Panel Named

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — President Eisenhower appointed today the seven government members of a joint federal-state "action committee." The group will study the functions and responsiblilities of the two types of governments.

The President proposed the committee at the recent governors conference. The governors adopted a resolution accepting the idea.

Eisenhower named Robert Anderson, secretary-designate of the treasury, chairman.

Others named as federal members are: Secretary of Labor Mitchell; Secretary of Welfare Folsom; Budget Director Percival Brundage; Meyer Kestnbaum, John Bragdon and Howard Pyle, assistant to the president.

NOTED—STRIPPER IS STRIPPED OF HER MEMBERSHIP

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 20 (AP)—The Midwest Sunbathing Assn. today formally stripped Evelyn West, Denver nightclub stripper, of membership in its nudist group.

It branded as exhibitionism the activities of Miss West, who bills herself as "The Girl With the $50,000 Treasure Chest."

About 150 adult nudists from 15 states met at Sycamore Hollow, a nudist camp five miles west of Lawrence, and went ahead with social, athletic and business affairs despite a boycott by Colorado nudists.

John Garrison, president of the Colorado Sunshine Club, had said the Midwest group accepted Miss West's membership dues for several years without question.

"Now they think a girl who takes off her clothes for a living shouldn't be a nudist," Garrison said. "We think Evelyn should be treated as an equal."

County Equalization Board To Meet Here

The county commissioners court will sit as a county equalization board beginning at 9 a.m. Monday.

County Judge Edgar Taylor said the group would probably meet either in the county courtroom or district courtroom, since a number of persons are expected to meet with the board.

Electric Company Manager Is Named

John E. Blakey, manager of the Texas Electric Service Co. in Snyder for the past 30 years, announced Saturday that B. L. Brown, commercial manager, will become manager, effective Monday.

Blakey will become consultant to the company [illegible] years of experience will continue to be available in the operation of the company in Snyder.

Blakey, a veteran of 43 years in the electric utility business, came to Snyder from Sweetwater in May, 1927, as manager of the electric company. He previously had been electric company manager in Big Spring.

During his 30 years in Snyder he has been active in developing the company's system to serve the fast-growing needs of the area. He also has been active in furthering many civic projects for the growth and development of Snyder.

Brown, a native of Colorado City [illegible] Texas, is a graduate of Sunset High School, joined TESCO in 1947, soon after completing three years with the Navy during World War II. He is active in local civic organizations, including the Snyder Volunteer Fire Department, of which he is vice president.

Brown recently was elected president of the Mid-West Texas Firemen's Association, composed of 12 West Texas city fire departments.

100,000 Hear Billy Graham In Stadium

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, with Vice President Richard Nixon as his guest of honor, tonight drew the largest crowd to Yankee Stadium ever to attend any event there.

The crowd admitted inside the ball park was officially estimated at 100,000 persons. In addition, the police said that close to 20,000 persons were turned away after the 67,000 seats had been filled and 33,000 more packed into all available standing room, including the entire outfield.

Record temperatures in New York, although failing to deter the crowds, had their effect. Police said a number of persons fainted and had to be carried out of the meeting. The 93.9-degree high for the day was the hottest for the year so far here.

The meeting was the largest ever held by Graham in the United States. Because of limited space, however, it did not match the 120,000 [illegible] Wembley Stadium in London, May 22, 1954.

Because of the pressure of the crowd, the usual invitation to "come forward and accept Christ" was not made. Instead, Graham asked those who wished to "accept Christ" to stand. An estimated 2,500 did so.

Records show 88,150 persons attended the Joe Louis-Max Baer heavyweight championship fight at the stadium in 1935.

Senators Evenly Divided On 'Part 3' Of Rights Measure

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) expressed confidence today that supporters of the administration's civil rights bill can defeat efforts to provide for jury trials in the protection of voting rights.

But he conceded to newsmen that backers of the bill have a nip-and-tuck fight on their hands in trying to retain another section providing new powers for the attorney general to enforce other civil rights.

[illegible] section, Part 3 of the House-approved bill, has drawn the heaviest fire of Southern opponents. It covers civil rights in general, including racial desegregation of schools and other public places under decisions of the Supreme Court.

Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, said that the vote on an amendment of Sens. Anderson D-NM and Aiken R-Vt to strike out this part of the bill will be "very close."

He said senators who favor erasing Part 3 are about evenly balanced with those who don't. He added that a considerable number of senators would favor a substitute modifying this section of the bill, if one could be agreed on.

But Knowland said that many of these senators may vote to wipe out Part 3 if no substitute for it can be worked out.

Knowland announced late yesterday that he had dropped his efforts to work out a substitute after concluding that no agreement on language to soften the terms of Part 3 could be reached with Northern Democratic supporters of the bill and others.

Almost simultaneously, Sen. Humphrey D-Minn a spokesman for the Northern Democrats, announced that he would not offer a substitute that he and others had framed.

An Associated Press canvass found 64 senators willing to state their views on the question of confining the enforcement powers to voting rights. Of these 40 favored such a limitation and 24 opposed. There are 96 senators, and it all were present it would take 48 votes to pass any amendment.

Sen. Russell D-Ga, leader of the Dixie forces, said he was "very hopeful" that the Senate would adopt the Anderson-Aiken amendment to strike out Part 3.

OIL ROUNDUP

TIPRO Checking Gas Bill Opinions

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, July 20 (AP) —Texas independent oil operators are voting on their reaction to the Harris Natural Gas Bill.

Two months ago the 5,000-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Assn. (TIPRO) endorsed the bill provided certain "minimum improvements" amendments were adopted.

In approving the bill July 9 by a 15-13 vote the House Commerce committee accepted only one of nine amendments submitted by TIPRO.

The mail ballots will determine whether TIPRO will continue or withdraw its support of the bill, adopt a wait-and-see attitude, offer direct opposition, or switch to a "hands-off" policy.

The TIPRO executive committee will tabulate the ballots and state the association's position next Saturday at a meeting near San Antonio.

The Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn., whose membership includes all segments of the industry, endorsed the bill this week. "Despite the failure...to restore the natural gas producer to his historic status as a free participant in a competitive industry."

Our association policy committee is of the opinion the bill will bring worthwhile benefits to the producers, including relief from utility type regulation, said French Robertson, Mid-Continent president and an Abilene operator.

The Harris Bill President Eisenhower vetoed last year would have removed federal controls of wellhead prices of gas. This year's version would prohibit utility type regulation but authorize the federal power commission to determine "reasonable market prices."

Snyderite Is Officer

LUBBOCK, July 20 — Proceedings of the Fourth Annual West Texas Oil Lifting Short Course have just come off the press and are ready for distribution, according to W. L. Ducker, Texas Tech petroleum engineering department head and Short Course Board chairman.

The 230 page book contains more than 40 illustrated papers and a report of a panel discussion presented at the meeting, held on the Tech campus last April. Papers from outstanding authorities in all phases of artificial lift and suppliers are included in the book.

Inquiries concerning the book should be addressed to the West Texas Oil Lifting Short Course Assn. in care of the Department of Petroleum Engineering, Texas Tech, Lubbock.

Members of the Short Course Administrative Committee, headed by Chairman Ray Diekemper of Lubbock, approved final copies of the book in a meeting held this week (July 16) in Brownfield. In other business at the meeting, the Committee set April 17-18 as the date for the 1958 Short Course.

Also discussed was the first annual meeting of the Short Course Board of Directors and Administrative Committee to be held this year in Fort Worth sometime in September. No exact date has been set.

Committee Chairman Diekemper appointed John L. Sanders of the Magnolia Petroleum Co., Snyder, parliamentarian; and Bill Whitted of Tech as recording secretary.

Attending the Brownfield meeting were: Ducker; Diekemper; Gus Athanas, Pan American Petroleum Co., Lubbock; Dexter Kimball, The Texas Co., Wichita Falls; Neal McCaskill, Atlantic Refining Co., Midland; Sanders; A. A. Hardy, W. C. Norris, Mfgr., Tulsa Okla; W. B. Johnson, Atlantic Refining Co., Odessa; Rex Brown, Southwestern Public Service Co., Lubbock; T. Coleman Williams, Honolulu Oil Co., Brownfield; Jack Ward, Plastic Applicators Co., Odessa; Barney O. Carlson, Shell Oil Co., Midland; and Whitted.

Public Service, Lubbock, was a visitor at the meeting.

253 Texas Completions

AUSTIN, July 20 —The Railroad Commission said today 253 oil wells were completed during the week making the year total 8,701, compared to 9,316 last year.

There were 41 gas well and 165 dry holes. Wildcats drilled included 14 oil wells, 1 gas well and 103 dry holes. A total of 226.

Total average calendar day allowable as of today was 3,084,701 barrels, compared to 3,069,923 July 13.

Scurry Wildcat Staked

Scurry County has drawn a new wildcat location three miles northwest of Snyder.

It will be Richard B. Hamm of Midland No. 1 H. G. Towle, spotting 660 feet from the south and west lines of Section 102, Block 3, H&GN Survey. Proposed depth is 7900 feet with rotary.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 7-B Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital was spotted as a new Scurry County project.

The planned 3,000-foot rotary try is 14 miles northwest of Snyder in the Revilo (Glorieta) Field. Drillsite is 990 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the east lines of Section 401, Block 97, H&TC Survey.

Fisher Wildcat, Mitchell Final

Location of a proposed 6,500-foot rotary wildcat was staked 1¼ miles west of Claytonville in southwest Fisher County.

It is El Paso Natural Gas Products Co. No. 1 Aiken, located 1¼ miles west of production. Drillsite is 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of Section 214, Block 3, H&TC Survey.

Robert Preston, et al, No. 2-B C. C. Ferry was spotted 15 miles northwest of Colorado City in the Sharon Ridge (1,700) Field.

Drillsite is 330 feet from the north and 990 feet from the east lines of the south-half in the southeast quarter in Section 83, Block 97, H&TC Survey. Permit depth applied for is 1,800 feet with rotary.

His No. 1 Byrd was spotted as a 1,700-foot rotary try in the Sharon Ridge Field seven miles southeast of Ira.

Site is 330 feet from the north and west lines of the southeast quarter in Section 196, Block 3, H&GN Survey.

PLANE PASSENGERS WAIT OUT BOMB SEARCH—Air France passengers wait in the lobby of the Boston Airport after police hustled them off the trans-Atlantic plane when the craft was reported carrying a bomb. The plane carried about 70 passengers, bound for Europe from New York, landed in Boston for the search. No bomb was found.

No Appeal Is Set On NATO Atom Supply

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) —Administration leaders have virtually ruled out any appeal to this session of Congress for authority to supply America's European Allies with atomic weapons.

This was reported on excellent authority today as State and Defense Departments, the Atomic Energy Commission and other agencies studied the problem of arose in connection with East-NATO disarmament negotiations in London.

One reason given for not planning any quick action is that the problem is too complex and the congressional schedule too crowded for the remaining weeks of this session. Another is that such a move now might have a bad impact on world opinion.

The issue came to the fore publicly last Wednesday when Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference in response to questions that the government was studying ways of providing the North Atlantic Treaty Allies with atomic weapons if the London negotiations result in a disarmament treaty calling for a cut-off in weapons manufacture. One way he suggested, in fact the only one which he mentioned, was that the United States might create a NATO stockpile of weapons which would be available to allied forces if war came.

Dulles said he was not sure whether this could be done or in what way it could be done without changing the U. S. Atomic Energy Act which forbids giving weapons to any other nation. He said he thought it might be possible to stockpile nuclear bombs and warheads in Western Europe under American control with the understanding that the President could release them for Allied use once a war started.

Dulles, it is understood, would have preferred to keep the whole matter secret, especially since it raises the prospect of the United States possibly making atomic explosives available to other nations when one avowed object of American policy has been to limit the spread of such weapons to the smallest possible number of countries.

However, Dulles is said to have felt that his hand was forced by reports here and abroad that the United States had promised Britain and France that if they would agree to a weapons cut-off this country would make sure that they had atomic weapons. The first stage disarmament agreement now under negotiation would not provide for scrapping atomic weapons already in existence but would simply prohibit additions to the stockpiles.

Actually the problem arose primarily with the British and French governments. Britain has already manufactured atomic and hydrogen bombs and is well on the way to becoming a nuclear power. Officials say that France has had programs for the same purpose.

JAYCEES PLAN PROJECTS

cents per $100 valuation, giving them a $9,315,000 operating budget in the county.

Ector County, of which Odessa is county seat, has a valuation of $120,000,000, based on 10 per cent of the real value of the county, and a county tax rate of $1.56 per $100 valuation, giving it an operating budget of $1,680,000. Houpt said that 16 cents of each tax dollar in Ector County goes to operate the Ector County Junior College. Ector County also has a million dollars invested in parks, has four big swimming pools, 25 playgrounds in Odessa, a $600,000 county colliseum and an auditorium worth more than $500,000. The Ector County court house is worth more than $75,000, Houpt said.

He also pointed out that Odessa was a town of 9,000 persons in 1950, and is now a town of approximately 100,000 persons.

Houpt said that Scurry County could build a wing on Cogdell Memorial Hospital, build a new court house, an auditorium, a coliseum, a new park in north Snyder, new parks at Ira, Dunn, Fluvanna, Hermleigh, Camp Springs, and a new park and public fishing pier at Lake J. B. Thomas, and a new junior college with only a slight county tax increase now, and reduction to the present low taxes after the county's present bonded indebtedness is paid off in 1961.

Houpt had statistics on more than 80 Texas counties, which he had compiled in his groundwork leading to the Jaycee survey to be made here.

After comparing Scurry County's wealth and accomplishments with those of other counties, he went into the Scurry County budget and an anylisis of where Scurry County's tax revenue comes from.

Real Estate in Scurry County is valued at $5,580,551, personal property, at $20,450, and $112,566,855 from oil, utilities, and banks.

Of all the county taxes paid here, the individual property owner pays only 4.74 per cent, the oil companies, banks, and utilities pay 95.26 per cent, he said.

A tax increase of 20 cents per $100 valuation, which might be necessary until 1961, to accomplish all the things needed here, would yield $236,000 per year to pay for these improvements.

"AFTER ALL the county's present indebtness is paid off in 1961, the taxes could be cut back to their present low level and still have more than enough money to pay for the new things in just a few years," he said.

The county is presently paying off its indebtedness at the rate of $496,600 per year—or 42 per cent of each tax dollar in Scurry County now goes to pay off its debts, he said.

After Houpt's talk the club quickly voted unanimously to conduct the survey with the intent of sponsoring a drive to get the things the survey shows to be needed here.

Edgar Taylor, county judge, said that the county should start doing the things which need to be done now, and that probably all the things could be done without any increase in county taxes by deferring payment on any new bonds, except interest payments, until the present bonds are paid off in 1961.

Pat Moore, commissioner of precinct No. 3, said that there is no need to fear that the county's oil wealth is about to cease to exist. He told of attending a state railroad commission meeting in Austin to help secure the SACROC unit here, in which oil companies expressed a confidence that there are many more good producing years ahead for Scurry County oil wells.

Moore said that about 5.5 per cent of the oil recoverable in the reduction in Scurry County had been taken out of the ground in the first six years of production in the county.

That is less than one per cent per year—which would give us almost another 100 years of production here," he said.

Moore also said that the oil drilling activity in Scurry County is far from over, and he predicted that at least a 100 new wells will be drilled in southwest Scurry County in the near future.

Cullen Toombs and T. B. Knight, commissioners of precincts two and one respectively, both stated that survey and go along with the desire of the citizens of the county in developing the projects the survey shows to be needed here.

The survey committee appointed by Blakey, club president, consists of Houpt, chairman, Ken Sewell, Kenneth Baker, Steve Bidwell, Dr. Robert H. Hargrove, Mel Zane Gilbert, Bob Littlefield, Lee Watson, and Arthur Blanchard.

Defense Confident In Clinton Case

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 20 (AP) —Defense lawyers expressed confidence today but shied away from predictions of a "grand slam" acquittal in the Clinton segregation trial.

The history-making case is expected to go to the all-white U. S. District Court jury Tuesday after both sides conclude their final arguments which begin Monday.

G. W. Williams of Baltimore, Md., veteran advocate of states' rights, in discussing the case with newsmen sounded a note of caution as to what the jury may do.

"This is Bible-belt country down here," he said, "and it is hard to say whether the jurors will follow the dictates of their Bible-belt conscience or their personal convictions against court-ordered integration."

One of the big question marks is whether the jury will be swayed by the attack on the Rev. Paul Turner, Clinton Baptist minister, during the racial disorders which swept Clinton, Tenn., 20 miles northwest of Knoxville, last Dec. 4.

Clyde Cook, 36, one of the remaining 11 defendants, has already been fined $50 for breach of peace and assualt on Turner after the clergyman led six Negro pupils back to school through a jeering fist-waving mob. Cook has appealed.

The defense contends that Cook's offense properly lies within the realm of state or local courts and falls beyond the jurisdiction of the federal court.

Defense lawyers have further argued that Turner's role as a minister gave him no more excuse "than any other man" for getting into a fist fight with Cook.

Cook and nine other Clinton defendants are accused of conspiring with John Kasper, 27, Washington, D. C., White Citizens Council leader.

With Kasper, they are charged with criminal contempt for allegedly defying an injunction issued by U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor banning any act which might impede the court-ordered integration of Clinton's formerly all-white high school last fall.

Throughout the trial, defense attorneys from six Southern states have challenged the power of a federal court to issue antiviolence decrees in segregation disputes and have accused the federal government of infringing on states' rights.

Also at stake in the trial, which may affect the whole course of integration in the South, are constitutional questions involving the right of free speech and assembly.

Defense lawyers argued yesterday that the federal injunctive power has created widespread "fear" among Southerners as to restrictions on their right to speak out against mixing whites and Negroes in Dixie schools.

Registration For Pre-School Slated

PRE-SCHOOL registration will be held in the Snyder schools on Aug. 6 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Pat Falls, school director of curriculum and instruction, announced Saturday.

Eligible for pre-school are children who will be six years old on or before Sept. 1 and who have not been in school before this year. Pre-school will begin Aug. 13.

Experiences in pre-school are planned by the Snyder schools to help each child make the transition between home and school so he may develope a wholesome attitude toward school, to furnish satisfying experiences in school activities so he will develop a love for school, to acquaint him with school facilities and personnel, and to teach him many of the things which will help make his school life more enjoyable, Falls said.

An orientation meeting is set in each of the elementary schools here, and parents are urged to attend orientation in the schools their children will attend. The meetings will be from 9 to 10:30 a.m. on these days: Tuesday, Aug. 13, East Elementary; Wednesday, Aug. 14, Central Elementary; Thursday, Aug. 15, West Elementary; Tuesday, Aug. 20, Northeast Elementary; Wednesday, Aug. 21, North Elementary; Thursday, Aug. 22, Lincoln School.

During orientation meetings, parents will learn expectations of school personnel regarding their children. An outline of school procedure and special services available will be given parents and children.

Pre-school will last from Aug. 13 through Aug. 23. Half the children will attend from 8 to 9:30 a.m., daily, the other half from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Parents may indicate a preference of periods at the time of the Aug. 6 registration, and children will be divided as closely to those preferences as possible.

During pre-school, parents will have an opportunity to share with the teacher, the school nurse, and visiting teacher whatever information they believe will be helpful in planning the best possible experience for their children, Falls said.

Dallas Move Is Scheduled

The National Supply Co., which operates an outlet in Snyder, has announced intentions to move its Southwest Division offices to Dallas on July 29.

The company will occupy the entire fourth floor in the Dallas Federal Building, a new 17-story building at Elm and Akard Streets. The move will enable National to offer prompt and more efficient service to its many oilfield customers, company officials said.

At the same time it was announced that a sales office will be maintained in Fort Worth in the Fort Worth National Bank Building. The new Dallas offices will also become the division headquarters for the field engineering department of National Supply's Spang-Chalfant Division.

The Southwest Division is responsible for the company's operations in its Abilene, Hobbs, Odessa, Shreveport and Wichita Falls Districts, embracing much of Texas and aresa in Arkansas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Eisenhower Is Out Early For His Golf

IN EISENHOWER 2-14

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 20 (AP) —President Eisenhower was out early today for his fourth round of golf of the week and wound up with a disappointing bogey on the 18th hole.

During the afternoon he had a chance to survey drought damage on his 500-acre farm just outside town.

Like much of the East, this area is far behind on rain, and the pastures for Eisenhower's Angus cattle are hard and brown. Gettysburg has had less than an inch of rain this month, some three inches below normal.

Citrus Marketing Pact To Be Talked

WESLACO, July 20 (AP)—The Texas Citrus Advisory Council said today that the U.S. Department of Agriculture was planning to send a representative here to discuss a proposed citrus marketing agreement.

Chairman Stanley Crockett of Harlingen said USDA officials in Washington have inquired about the best time for the discussion.

The fruit and vegetable division of the USDA was studying a copy of the propsed market agreement which was approved by the council in May.

Plane Overturns

HINTON, Okla., July 20 (AP)—A plane piloted by a Nebraska doctor overturned after it was put down on U.S. 281 near here last night. Mrs. Sipple Massey, 72, a passenger, was injured slightly. Dr. Merrit Owen, 42, of Sargent, Neb., said he landed the plane after he realized he could not reach Anadarko by night.

PAUL D. MARABLE
...new WTCC post

Manager Of Chamber Post Is Announced

ABILENE, July 20—Paul D. Marable, Jr., has been named general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce according to an announcement by WTCC executive vice-president Freed H. Husbands carried in the current issue of the WTCC magazine, West Texas Today.

"In charge of the work of the WTCC in water resources and industrial development for the past five years, Marable is being given a considerable amount of administrative responsibility with respect to all the work of the organization,' Husbands stated."

The monthly magazine also quotes Husbands as saying that a re-assignment of staff member functions and responsibilities have been made in strengthening the West Texas Chamber to more efficently serve work needs which are now being expended.

In the announcement, Husbands pointed out that two new staff members have been added during the past 12 months. Jim Roberson relieved Marable of work in publications and informational activity in Aug. 1956 which Marable had been handling for four years, Husbands said.

Cold Accounting: Audrey Takes 500

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 20 (AP) — In the still lingering horror of Hurricane Audrey the cold accounting takes place. The dead and missing: over 500. The dollar loss: over 40 million.

Sheriff Henry Reid, in his latest report on the ravaged Cameron area, said 328 bodies had been recovered and 190 persons reported missing. The missing total probably is larger. Whole families may have drowned. Transient workers may have drowned. Unless their bodies turn up, they will not be reported.

There were other deaths outside of Cameron Parish. At least five died elsewhere in Louisiana, Texas reported 11 deaths, including nine who drowned when a boat sank offshore.

The biggest money loss involved Louisiana crops. Sidney J. McCrory, Louisiana agriculture commissioner, estimated the state crop loss at 26 million dollars.

The General Adjustment Bureau, Inc., which handles insurance claims, said the June 27 hurricane brought 50,000 claims. This meant a total loss of 11 million dollars in insured property.

In the Cameron area, 600 buildings were destroyed. Also heavily damaged were the oil well rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. Some estimates place these damages between three and five million dollars.

McCrory also placed the state livestock loss at 35,000, valued at more than two million dollars.

In Texas, hurricane Audrey did little farm and range damage. There was little harm to livestock and crops. The rice crop was not far enough advanced to be hurt.

But the Texas Department of Public Safety estimated property damage at six million dollars with Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange receiving about one million dollars damage each. The General Adjustment Bureau said the insured property that was lost totalled $1,500,000.

Six TAC Fighters Leave For Cruise

LANGLEY AFB, Va., July 20 (AP) —Six Tactical Air Command fighter jets left Myrtle Beach AFB, S. C., today on a long range cruise control flight across the Atlantic to North Africa.

The jets are from the 450th fighter day wing at Foster AFB at Victoria, Tex.

The fighters will make their flight nonstop from the South Carolina base to Sidi Slimane with the aid of KB50 tankers.

Valley Area To Get Additional Funds

WESLACO, July 20 (AP)—The Lower Rio Grande Valley is expected to get an additional $400,000 allocation from Congress for soil and water conservation research, the Valley Chamber of Commerce said today.

The chamber received the information in a letter from U.S. Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen.

Texas Crops Begin To Wilt

COLLEGE STATION, July 20 Texas farmers and ranchers hoped today for much needed rain to replace moisture by heat, wind and heavy plant growth, the Agricultural Extension Service said today.

"Late crops, delayed by wet fields during spring planting season, now are wilting in many areas," Director G. G. Gibson said. "Pastures and ranges also are becoming brown."

Water pumps moved into high gear in irrigated sections. Irrigated crops are reported in good condition and making excellent growth. Livestock remains good.

Crops range from peak harvest of cotton in the Rio Grande Valley and vegetables and fruit in East Texas, to completion of planting and good early growth of cotton and sorghum in the South Plains. A big hay crop was baled before meadows began to melt.

Central Texas is hot and dry and surface moisture is depleted. Crops are showing effect of drouth. Early corn and sorghums are maturing fast. Cotton is in many stages and looks good. Peanuts are slow and other late crops need moisture too. Livestock still is in good condition, but pastures are drying fast.

North Texas cotton, sorghum and corn made favorable growth, but needs a good rain for a good yield. Ranges are suffering. Fleahoppers and bollworms are attacking cotton.

In generally moist deep East Texas, hot, dry weather is hurting pastures and all late crops. Some late corn is being salvaged for silage. Hay baling is about complete with an above normal amount stored. Cattle remain in good condition. The peach, pea, and watermelon harvest is at a peak with only fair yields, but of good quality.

Conditions are much the same in northeast Texas. Moisture is needed badly. Early corn is burning. Fruit and vegetables are moving to market. Farm labor is short.

The best wheat harvest since 1949 has been completed in the Panhandle, but yields were disappointing in the Ochiltree-Lipscomb counties area due to rust and hot winds. The entire Panhandle needs rain. The vegetable harvest, primarily potatoes and onions in the Hereford area, is underway with yields and market prices fair. Sorghum and cotton is all right.

Far West Texas is dry. All dryland crops and ranges are stricken, but irrigated crops are excellent. Cotton is blooming. Lamb marketing continues.

In the Edwards Plateau feed crops are suffering, some counties report ranges drying up and cotton is making slow growth with little insect damage. The pecan outlook is very spotty due to casebearers. Some lambs are being marketed.

The South Texas grain harvest is about complete with good yields in some areas. The Valley cotton harvest is at peak level. Pastures are drying out. Livestock is in good condition.

Dry conditions are showing up all over South Central Texas and a rain would help. Early corn and sorghum prospects look good. Late crops need rain. Ranges need rain, but livestock is in good condition.

A big grasshopper outbreak was reported in the Rolling Plains counties of Foard and Throckmorton. There's light cotton insect damage, but a rain is needed for cotton and pastures. Irrigation has begun.

Prospects of late crops in the Gulf Coast area are at a standstill as a general rain is badly needed. Early corn and sorghum are maturing rapidly. Rice is looking good. Pastures are dry and weedy. hay is being baled and livestock is in good condition.

INCREASES OFFSETTING DECREASES

Farmers Replacing Bank Land With New Cropland

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The controversial soil bank subsidy program shows an efficiency rate of about 46 per cent in the matter of reducing the nation's overproducing crop acreage.

The soil bank program was authorized by Congress last year with major provisions set to expire with 1959 crops. It directed the Agriculture Department to offer payments to farmers who planted less than their assigned allotments of cotton, wheat, corn, rice, and tobacco.

With cropland producing more than could be sold at government-supported prices, surpluses were piling up in the hands of the department. The objective of the soil bank was to help bring about a cut in farm production to a point where supplies balanced output.

Taking the crop average in 1955 as the base—that being the last year prior to inauguration of the soil retirement program, the new measure will get a net reduction of about 13 million acres this year.

Year before last farmers harvested about 333 million acres of various crops. The government's recent crop report estimated that about 320 million acres will be harvested this year.

But farmers had signed agreements to retire 28 million ... from production. For doing this they were offered payments ranging from an average of $18 an acre for wheat, $37 for corn, $50 for cotton, $64 for rice and $220 for tobacco to much smaller amounts for retiring lands from other crop uses.

The government's total obligation for this year is about 700 million dollars, or an average of about $25 an acre for the idled land.

But for every acre farmers took out of production under the soil bank, they added slightly more than half an acre of other lands to the production of crops. This added land — much of it having been pastures, meadows and the like—was not put to the big surplus crops but to others.

However, from the standpoint of reducing the size of the farm plant the government is paying an average of about $53 an acre.

Farmers cut this year's corn average about 7,241,000 acres or 9 per cent from 1955; wheat about 4,124,000 acres or 8.7 per cent; cotton about 2,124,000 acres or 16 per cent; rice about 478,000 acres or 26 per cent; and tobacco about 366,000 acres or 24 per cent.

But these decreases have been offset in part by increases in a number of other crops not covered by the soil bank or by the production controls that govern wheat, corn, cotton, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

These increases include 3,030,000 acres or 16 per cent for soybeans; grain sorghums, 4,805,000 acres or nearly 25 per cent; barley, 400,000 acres or nearly 3 per cent; flaxseed, 454,000 acres or about 9 per cent; and lesser amounts of acreages for a lagre number of minor crops.

Production estimates for these various crops indicate there is a possibility that some headway may be made this year in reducing surpluses of cotton and wheat. But the corn oversupply situation may not be improved because of the prospective increase in production of competitive livestock feed grains, such as sorghum grains oats and barley.

There also is a possibility that an increase in soybean plantings may toss this crop into the surplus troubled group.

The future of the soil bank will be determined by its accomplishments this year. On this both the administration and Congress are agreed.

But how will its failure or success be judged. If it is judged on this bases of the net over-all reduction in acreage, it faces trouble.

If it is judged on the basis of production volume, the result might be a little different.

The department's latest production report forecast over-all crop production this year at about 6.7 per cent below the record high volume produced in 1955, the last year prior to the soil bank.

Thus, this report indicated that with a 4 per cent drop in total harvested acreage, the production would be down 6.7 per cent.

But whether this production forecast will be borne out at harvest time is a question. The department attributed much of the prospective decline in volume to adverse weather this spring and early summer. In many important producing areas, excessive rains and floods hampered planting and progress of crops.

It is quite possible — as the department crop report pointed out — for many of the crops to recover from the early setbacks.

Should final figures of production show recovery and a volume close to the record output of 1955 and 1956, the soil bank's future might be dark indeed.

AGRICULTURE

Many Farm Mishaps Involve Machinery

Farm Safety Week is scheduled this week, and it is a good time for farmers to be reminded that it is the things which appear safe which many times result in injuries.

Farm accidents much of the time are caused by carelessness, but whatever the reason there were 12,600 fatal farm accidents from 1949 through 1953 on the land and in and around service buildings on the farm.

Farm machinery was involved in 31.3 per cent of those accidents to lead the field, while accidents and firearms were next in running with almost 13 per cent each. Falls accounted for 11 per cent. Animals, burns, and blows had about six per cent each, electric-current and lightning about three per cent each, and miscellaneous causes about 7.5 per cent.

For children from 5-14 drownings were the major cause, while for those 15 to 19 it was firearms, those 20-49 electric current, those 50-54 falls, those 55-59 blows, and for those older, falling was the major cause.

Position Of Investigator To Be Filled

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced examinations for criminal investigator positions paying from $6,390 to $11,610 a year in the Dept. of the Air Force, located throughout the United States and in foreign countries.

Civil service examinations also are scheduled for Exhibits Technician and Exhibits Specialist positions paying from $2,960 to $8,990 a year in various Federal agencies in Washington, D.C. and vicinity.

Criminal investigator applicants must have appropriate experience and be at least 21 years old. Only men applicants are desired. Applications must be filed with the Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, Bolling AFB, Dept. of the Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

Age minimum for Exhibits Technician and Exhibits Specialist is 18 year, and either appropriate experience or pertinent education is require for lower grade positions, while pertinent education may be substituted for part of the experience requirements for higher grades.

A written test is required. Further information and application forms may be obtained from Marvin Hanback at the money order window in the Snyder post office.

Wage Hike Okayed

CANTON, Ohio, July 20 (AP)—The Timken Roller Bearing Co. said today that it would raise wages 4 percent to 3,500 employes Aug. 25.

Broiler Industry Troubled

AUSTIN, July 20 (AP)—Texas broiler production, second highest in the nation, may have reached "A near-saturation point" in 1956, the Bureau of Business Research said today.

The agency of the University of Texas predicted marginal producers will be forced out of business ... ll be stabilized. The bureau ex... Texas produce about 100 million broiler chicks in 1956, almost 4 times the total 26 million production in 1949. The gross income was $62,969,000 although finished broilers fell to a low of 16.6 cents a pound in the last quarter of 1956.

"This price appears to be near the minimum that poultry producers will take and should such a low price continue for any length of time, broiler producers are in for hard times," the bureau said.

Broiler markets closed throughout Texas mostly at 22 cents a pound last week.

"The price of broilers fell steadily since 1952 except for a slight rally in 1955," the report said. "The steady decline in price was in direct relation to the increase in production of broilers during the same period. It appears that the industry may have reached the point of near-saturation in 1956. Any further increase in production would mean additional declines in prices; this is unlikely because broiler producers would not be able to stand lower prices without suffering losses.

"When prices were high and profits good, many new producers entered the broiler business. Now with low prices, it is probably that the marginal producers will be forced out of business. The effect will be to stabilize prices."

About half the broiler production last year came from East Texas, most of it from Shelby and Nacogdoches counties. ... County is the largest broiler producing area. A third production area is around Waco.

Farmer Hits At Charges

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 20 (AP)—Jack Harris, a cotton farmer cited as a prime example of "boondoggling" under the soil bank, wrote Rep. Udall (D-Ariz) today that the government is making money on his operations.

He added that he had "fully advised the proper government agencies of my exact operations. I don't write the laws; I simply try to abide by them."

The veteran farmer said he received $209,000 or $127 per acre for putting his Pima Tucson County farm under the soil bank, while at the same time paying the government $170 per acre, or more than $700,000 in penalties on 4,000 acres of new cotton grown outside the soil bank program.

Dr Sadler's Work Is Helping Liberia

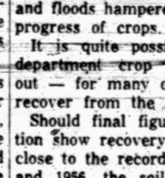

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of Loma people in Liberia who were not only illiterate but whose language had no written form have learned to read, and now have some 16 "books" available.

This is the result of work by the Rev. Sadler of the United Lutheran Church Mission staff. In 1940 Dr. Sadler and his wife started the project of reducing the Loma language to writing. The second step was to teach the Liberians to read.

The available literary output, according to mission sources, includes the Gospel of Mark, a hymnal, pamphlets of child care and hygiene, all compiled by the Sadlers in the isolated jungle village of Wozi.

Have you ever had that helpless feeling of seeing a fire fan out with incredible speed racing forward and destroying valuable property? It's a feeling we hope you will never experience if you follow these few simple precautions.

Never burn on a dry, windy day. Always burn against any wind for it acts as a natural brake.

Always get a fire permit from ... fire department or ... warden. Let your neighbors know when you're ... burning off a field, plow or clear a fire lane around the field.

If you are just going to burn a little rubbish use a good stout incinerator. Don't be afraid to call the fire department if the fire is in any danger of getting out of control.

Buying at Home

is much like The Golden Rule

COPYRIGHT 1956 D. F. SCOTT

Everybody Recommends It for Everybody Else

But . . . the sad fact that some folks who preach buying at home don't practice it much, doesn't keep it from being a wise habit. There always will be people who regularly stand in their own light, even when they know better.

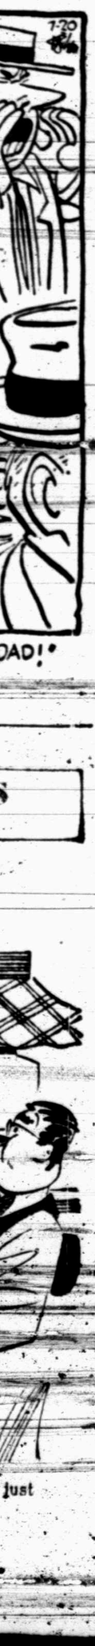

Unlike The Golden Rule, the principle of buying at home has few moral aspects. It's just a matter of good hard dollars and cents, and fuller living.

Because somebody else does . . . or doesn't . . . is no good reason to give away what is ours.

Yet that is just what we're doing when we spend our money off somewhere else, with the excuse that our neighbors are doing it.

Let's quit watching them, and examine our own habits, reminding ourselves selfishly that of each dollar we spend, nearly one-third goes to pay for community progress and upkeep.

But it's no soup in our pot, no schools for our kids, no churches for our souls, nor increment for our property, if it is some other community.

It Pays to Buy where You Live

CHECKERS were included in events of the minor sports carnival at the Boys Club here, which ended yesterday. Here, players are Nahum Tate, left, and Robert Meyer. Tate took the junior title in checkers.

SHOOTING in the midget division marble tourney at the minor sports carnival is Larry Guinn, while Drake Snyder looks on. Guinn won.

Donovan Pitches Second 1-Hitter

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP) — Dick Donovan pitched his second one-hitter of the year today and was kept from a no-hitter by Ted Williams' line single in the fourth inning as the White Sox defeated the Boston Red Sox, 4-0.

Donovan, thriving on the 95-degree heat, faced only 29 men while recording his ninth victory against three defeats and moving the White Sox to within five games of the Yankees, who lost to Cleveland. He was helped along by three snappy infield double plays.

In his other one-hitter Donovan won 4-0 over Cleveland May 25. Milwaukee's Lew Burdette has hurled the majors only other one-hitter this year.

The Braves of the National League lost 1-0 to the Philadelphia Phillies June 16.

Donovan walked two men, hit one with a pitched ball, and another batter, pitcher Bob Porterfield, was safe at first when Sammy Esposito tumbled his easy roller. Jackie Jensen, who was hit by a pitch and stole second in the inning, was the only man to pass first.

Williams' single, a sharp liner which landed some six feet in front of right fielder Jim Landis, ran his hitting streak to 11 consecutive games.

Braves Hold On To Lead; Edge Giants

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Wes Covington slammed a two - run homer in the ninth inning, his second of the game, as Milwaukee's patchwork Braves protected their National League lead today, with a 7-6 victory over the New York Giants.

Covington's shot off the tip of the right field roof snapped a 5-5 tie created when the Giants, shut out on three hits for seven innings, scored five unearned runs in the eighth set up by an error by Del Crandall.

Crandall, veteran catcher, was pressed into service as the starting rightfielder when handyman Andy Pafko turned up unable to play because of a bad back.

The quickly converted catcher had only two chances but muffed a fly ball in the eighth with two out and none on. The Giants, chasing starter Bob Trowbridge and Don McMahon, battered five hits to score five runs before Ernie Johnson could retire the side.

Milwaukee came back, also after two were out, to bag it in the ninth off Marv Grissom, fourth New York pitcher. Ed Mathews singled before Covington, who had hit a solo homer in the seventh, hit his second of the game and eighth of the season.

Zernial Blow Beats Orioles

KANSAS CITY, July 20—Gus Zernial's dramatic ninth inning home run off George Zuverink, Baltimore's ace relief pitcher, drove in three runs and gave the Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 victory today.

The Athletics scored four times in the last inning off Connie Johnson, who apparently had his eighth pitching victory within his grasp. The tall right hander pitched no-hit ball through five innings and was sailing along on a 3-hitter and a 5-2 score going into the ninth.

Lowly Senators Edge By Bengals

DETROIT, July 20 (AP)—The last-place Washington Senators used home run power and Frank Lary's wildness to grab a 4-3 decision over the Detroit Tigers today. Reliever Bud Byerly blanked the Bengals over the last three innings.

Jim Lemon cracked his 13th home run with the bases empty in the [illegible] and Roy Sievers clouted his 22nd with a mate aboard in the sixth inning.

It was a sacrifice fly by pinch hitter Herb Plews that drove across the winning tally after Lary put a runner in scoring position with a pair of walks in the seventh inning.

Pancho Wins Tournament

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 20 (AP)—Swarthy Pancho Gonzales won Jack Kramer's Tournament of Champions today when he crushed Pancho Segura, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, while blister-fingered Tony Trabert was trouncing Lew Hoad, 6-4, 10-12, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Gonzales now is undefeated in four matches, while Hoad, the $125,000 bonus baby of the pro troupe, has a 2-2 mark, so Pancho collects the $2,500 top prize money. This situation also posed a kingsized headache for promoter Kramer, who had hoped to have the two go through undefeated and meet for the title tomorrow.

In order to break even in the venture, Kramer will need an almost-full house tomorrow. A crowd of about 5,000 sat in the plus-90 degree heat of the West Side Tennis Club today. That made the total attendance about 18,000 to date.

Thus the Gonzales-Hoad match will amount to nothing more than an exhibition.

In another singles match, muscular Frank Sedgman cut down little Ken Rosewall, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

Fernandez' Jaw Not Broken, X-Rays Show

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)—X-rays of shortstop Chico Fernandez' jaw disclosed no fracture but the Philadelphia infielder will be hospitalized at least until Monday, the club announced today.

Fernandez was hurt in last night game against Cincinnati when he collided with teammate Church Harmon as both tried for a fly ball in the fifth inning of the game won by the Redlegs 7-2.

French-Bred Montaval Beats Aly Khan Horse

ASCOT, England, July 20 (AP)—French-bred Montaval, owned by Pennsylvania publisher Ralph Strassburger, battled the Aly Khan's Sayajirao to a thrilling stretch run today to win the King George IV and Queen Elizabeth Stakes.

Ridden by Fred Palmer, Montaval won England's richest horse race by a head in a photo finish over Al Mahrooh. Tribord was third, two lengths behind.

Champs Named Here In Minor Sports Events

The Scurry County Boys Club rounded up two divisions of a minor sports carnival yesterday after a week of play in the tourney.

Between 50 and 60 boys participated in the various events, which included everything from marbles to ping pong.

Michie Brous, Boys Club executive director, and Bill McLaughlin, summer sorts director for the club, headed the tournament, and yesterday they declared champions in the midget and junior divisions of the tourney. Midgets are those 6 to 10 years old, while juniors are boys 11 and 12.

Mike Stephens took the sportsmanship award in the midget division, and Garry Slankard was sportsmanship winner in the junior division.

The midget division had one five-time winner, Pooder Mayfield, who took the championship of he eight ball, ping pong, croquet, and washers tourneys and was a member of the doubles team winning in horseshoes.

The junior division had two three-time winners, with Ronnie Chauncey taking eight ball, marbles, and croquet and Nahum Tate winning in checkers, horseshoes, and was a team member in horseshoe doubles.

Indians Beat Yanks, 4-2

CLEVELAND, July 20 (AP)—Bob by Avila singled after Tommy Byrne had loaded the bases with walks in the eighth inning today, and two runs scored to give the Cleveland Indians a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

There were two out, and Chico Carrasquel was on second when Byrne gave an intentional pass to Jim Hegan, then walked Early Wynn to fill the bases and set the stage for Avila's game-winning blow.

The victory was the 13th for Wynn against 10 losses and ties him with Chicago's Billy Pierce for the most games won in the American League. Wynn allowed the world champions only six hits today and finished strong, retiring the New Yorkers in order in the last two innings.

Van Fleet Named FW Sports Editor

FORT WORTH, July 20 (AP)—Bill Van Fleet has been named sports editor of the Star-Telegram. The announcement was made Saturday by Tom Hall, recently promoted from sports editor to director of the sports staff.

Van Fleet, 30, is a member of the Star-Telegram sports staff with the Galveston News for six years. He attended Hondo High School and the University of Texas.

Together, Hall and Van Fleet will continue to run the Star-Telegram's Golden Gloves Program.

Snider Blast Helps Bums Beat Chicago

BROOKLYN, July 20 (AP)—Duke Snider's 300th major league home run was the clincher today as the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs, 7-5, to stay one game off Milwaukee's front-running pace in the National League.

Snider's blast, his 24th of the season and eighth in 10 games since the All-Star break, touched off a two-run outburst in the eighth inning that shoved the Brooks into a 7-4 lead.

Ernie Banks' 20th homer and second of the game accounted for Chicago's final run in the ninth.

Relief ace Clem Labine closed out the game for winner Don Drysdale after Banks' first homer with two on, had cut Brooklyn's lead to 5-4 in the seventh. The runs were unearned, set up by Junior Gilliam's fumble of Bob Speake's grounder with two out.

Randy Jackson also homered, his eight of the season, for the Dodgers who packed four of their runs into a big first inning after Cubs starter Dave Hillman had been forced out by an injury.

Hillman left with two on and two out when he was hit on the pitching hand by Gil Hodges' smash back to the box.

Finsteswald Faces Herbert In Finals

By BILL GRIMSLEY

DAYTON, Ohio, July 20 (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, hailed by some fellow pros as the "new Ben Hogan," and longshot Lionel Hebert, who never has won a big tournament, overcame searing heat and gripping pressure today to gain the final round of the PGA Championship.

Finsterwald, 27, of Athens, Ohio, one of the leading money winners for the past two years, refused to be shaken by a phenomenal come back on the part of young Don Whitt and defeated the little known Alameda, Calif., pro 2 up. He clinched with a great iron shot four feet from the pin on the final hole for a birdie three.

Whitt, five holes down at the end of 12 holes, knocked in a hole-in-one and three birdies on the finishing holes of the morning round to square the match. But Finsterwald, one of the most poised of golf's new breed, held firm to win the bitterly-contested afternoon struggle, three times tied, on the 36th.

Hebert, 29, the younger of a brother combination from Louisiana's bayous, scored an upset 3 and 1 victory over former champion Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., clinching the match with a birdie deuce on the 35th hole.

There the paunchy Hebert (pronounced a-bear) lofted his tee shot on the 170-yard hole two feet past the pin. Burkemo, his bulldog face showing signs of weariness, drove to the green 25 feet away, missed the putt and conceded.

A fierce match play competitor whose winning percentage in the tournament is the all-time best, excelling even the great Walter Hagen, Burkemo wavered under the strain of 107 holes in three days.

A strong, bold player in the morning, when he led 1-up after 18, the round-faced Michigan pro, missed two easy five-foot putts on the 33rd and 34th holes before Hebert closed the door.

The two finalists clash for the $8,000 first prize at 10 a.m. Sunday over the Miami Valley Golf Course, which was burned to concrete hardness by today's steaming sun.

Ray Robinson beat Willie Pep in 1937 at Norwich, Conn., when both were amateur boxers. They never met as professionals.

Snyder, Hermleigh Place High In Jr. Olympics

AMONG SNYDER youths who took first places at the State Junior Olympics meet in Odessa Friday was hurdler Bud Morgan. Morgan took first in the 180-yard low hurdles and second in the 120-high hurdles, which was won by Morris Light of Hermleigh. (Lee Watson photograph)

Four first places were taken by Snyder youths and two by Hermleigh in the State AAU Junior Olympics, held in Odessa Friday.

Snyder was third high in team points at the meet with 179, while Abilene was first with 445 and Odessa second with 254½.

Hermleigh's Morris Light set a new national record in the senior division 220-yard dash with a time of 21.1 seconds, breaking the old record of 21.7 set by Leamon King of California in 1953.

In addition to taking the first place in the 220, Light won the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 14.9.

Snyder's Bud Morgan took the 180-yard low hurdles with a time of 20.3, and he ran second behind Light in the high hurdles. Morgan was also fourth in the running broad jump. Rex Wilson of Snyder was third in the high hurdles, while Hollis Cox was fourth in the 880-yard run. Light ran fourth in the high jump.

In the junior division, a Snyder girl, Janice Rinehart, won the 50-yard dash. A girls 220-yard relay team composed of Janice Rinehart, Sandra Autry, Etta Bourgoyne, and Kathy Howard ran second. Other girls placing included Betty Boren, sixth in the standing broad jump; Kathy Howard, fifth in the 75-yard dash; Sandra Autry, second in the 75-yard dash and third in the standing broad jump; and Jo Eetta Bourgoyne, fifth in the standing broad jump.

Boys from Snyder in the junior division included Jimmy Taylor, Wayne Key, Steve Perine, and Stuart Long, who made up a relay team running third in the 220. Long also was third in the 50-yard dash. William Robinson of Snyder entered softball throw competition.

Snyder had firsts in the midget division, with a 200-yard shuttle relay team, made up of Drew Beard, and Jerry Wyatt running first. Sandra Brinner was leading girl with a first in the softball throw with a distance of 91 feet, 8 inches. Jerry Beard was first in the standing broad jump with six feet, four inches.

Other places taken by Snyder in the midget division: Benny Mahon, second in 50-yard dash and a second place by a 200-yard shuttle relay team made up of Joyce Yoast, Jane Boren, Carol Ann Young, and Sandra Brinner. Also on the midget team for Snyder was Jay Williamson.

Taking the youths to Odessa for the meet were coaches Guy Sullivan and Jim Stehley.

Phillies Rap Redlegs, 7-5

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)—Stan Lopata, bench-ridden with a crippled right leg, batted for Solly Hemus in the ninth inning today and hit a three-run homer to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Lopata's powerful blast off loser Don Gross climaxed a game in which 11,574 fans at Connie Mack Stadium were prepared for the fifth loss in a row by the vacillating Phillies.

Philadelphia traded places with Cincinnati in the hot National League race, moving up from fifth to fourth, 2½ games behind topping Milwaukee. Three days ago Philadlephia was in first place. Cincinnati is now three games behind.

Lopata was sidelined with a twisted knee throughout the game. But Manager Mayo Smith called on him anyway in the ninth with Chuck Harmon and Richie Ashburn on base and the Phillies behind, 5-4.

All-Stars Are Named In Pony League Here

The Pony League here Friday night announced the 15-member team of all-stars who will represent the league in tournament play.

The group, coming from various teams in the league, will be working out together during the next four days, preparing for their first tournament play, which will be in the area tourney in Snyder.

That tournament, set for July 29-31, will match Snyder and Colorado City in a two-out-of-three series.

The winner of that series will go to the district tournament in Abilene, which will have a field of six teams. Other teams in the district tourney will be winner of a tourney between Abilene's two teams, Borger's two teams, Hamlin and Childress, Stephenville and Hereford.

The Abilene tourney will be held Aug. 5-10.

Winner of that meet will be sent to the regional tournament in Lubbock, where teams will represent six states and 81 leagues. After that tourney, which will be Aug. 12-17, the winner will be sent to the Pony League World Series at Washington, Pa.

Members of the Snyder all-star team:

John Weaver, Dodgers; Larry Patterson, Dodgers; Tommy Minton, Phillies; Jimmy Don Robinson, Tigers; Ronnie Wylie Red, Sox; Butch Niedecken, Tigers; Bob Pena, Phillies; Charles Gladson, Red Sox; Franklin Moore, Red Sox; Weldon Ware, Phillies; Bubba Fleming, Tigers; Steve Free, Tigers; Spencer Dyer, Red Sox; Ben Greenfield, Tigers; and Jessie Crawford, Red Sox.

Two Upsets Round Up PL's Last Half

The top teams in the Pony League fell to the underdogs in Friday night play, but the upsets didn't change the playoff teams.

The Von Roeder Red Sox, which were leading the second half of League play undefeated, fell at the hands of the Scurry Butane Dodgers 12-1. The Lions Club Phillies were dropped in a 11-0 shutout by the Courthouse Tigers, putting the Tigers in second place.

The Red Sox and Dodgers, as champions of the two halves of league play, will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in a playoff to decide league championship. In a second game, fathers of the league are to play a game.

John Weaver threw a one-hit game against the Red Sox Friday nigh and struck out 12 while walking only one. Loser was Jerry Guthrie, who in one and one-third innings allowed three hits, three walks, and fanned one. Skipper Moore, who pitched the remainder of the game, gave up four hits and two walks.

insert

With one run already home, Mike Moffett hit a homerun in the first inning with one on base, making the Dodgers leaders by 3-0. There were three on base in the second when Larry Patterson tripled to score all three. From there on it was easy sailing for the Dodgers. The Red Sox got their one run on an error in the fourth.

Ben Greenfield was winning hurler in the Tiger shutout over the Phillies. He gave up only three hits and walked only two while striking out five in the game. Loser was David Kee, who went one and one-third innings for three hits, three walks, and one strikeout.

The only extra base hit in the game was by Galen Prather of the Phillies with none on base.

Six errors by the Phils contributed to their loss. Tiger runs were scored on such occasions as Bubba Fleming's single, Mike Morris' single, and assortment of errors; two wild pitches, and a passed ball.

Game Wardens In Petticoats

AUSTIN (AP) — Petticoat game wardens?

Sportsmens' Clubs of Texas are studying the idea for possible submission to game and fish commission authorities.

"Strictly a public-relations approach," said Scot executive Secretary Cecil Reid. "No pistol-packin' Calamity Janes — just girls to give out information on season dates, creel and bag limits."

If the idea should catch on, Reid said, Texas would be the only state in the nation with game wardenettes.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

(Ed. note—Taking over for Buck Francis today is Ruth Conley, wife of Snyder's athletic director and head football coach, John Conley. Buck, who has been vacationing for the past two weeks, will be back in harness Monday).

When Buck Francis asked me to do his column, I said, "What should I write about?"

"The horrors of being a coach's wife," he suggested.

I thought with glee, now my revenge. But after thinking it over I was reminded of the Golden Rule. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Football season is a nerve-wracking time of the year at our house. It's impossible to plan meals on time, or even get together for family talks. If we're fortunate enough to have Coach at home, he's busy drawing and planning plays to beat (we hope) the other team. The telephone never stops ringing. It's as though people have radar and know when he has arrived home.

Even the long distance calls come at dinner time, and he talks and talks (you guessed it—football).

Most Fans Are Pretty Fair, But—

I think most fans are pretty fair. The "pet peeve" I have is the fan who tells the coaches how to run the team, or how he used to play football. I've always thought I'd like to stand up and tell him to go on down and suit up, or start coaching the team. I'd like to see how well he does.

As for my husband—up all all hours running over film and going over the plays—all the previous games—he goes over the opponents, their weight, speed, etc., almost what they eat for breakfast. So, I feel he's better qualified. But I'll never say anything, and as long as we have football, we'll have that type of fan.

But when you win, you feel that it has all been worth it. I've been very fortunate in my eight years as a coach's wife. We've won most of our games—never had a bad season. However, I'm told that when you lose, it's pretty bad for both the coach and his family.

We have some wonderful memories—like the time we moved from Ellinwood (Kan.) and the fans turned out to bid us goodbye and wish us well. I'll never be as proud of Coach as I was that night. It was a thrilling moment and one I'll never forget.

The Players Get Excellent Care

Of the memories of all the different boys we have known—the way the football dummies would be found on our yard at Halloween, or the various things around town left there, from lanterns to watermelons—these same boys coming by for talks and having leg rub-downs, even sitting in the middle of the kitchen soaking their feet in my dishpan (ugh.) But that's part of it.

And the early morning calls for Coach to come over to the fieldhouse and put them in the whirlpool, because they are sore from the game the night before.

I know one thing. The boys have the finest care available. The smallest injury isn't overlooked. If son John has a cold, Coach is unconcerned. He'll be O.K. But one of the boys? Well, he is sent to his doctor immediately.

So many of the boys have gone on to college and have won scholastic honors in various fields. Many have good jobs, and some are family men with little ball players of their own. We're so proud of them.

So, if in a small way I've played a part in helping these boys to become mature men and fine citizens, then it's been worthwhile just being a coach's wife.

McCarthy, 'Wahoo Sam' To Enter Baseball Hall Of Fame

By JACK HAND

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 20 (AP)—Joe McCarthy and Samuel "Wahoo Sam" Crawford will be welcomed to baseball's Hall of Fame tomorrow at colorful ceremonies preceding the annual exhibition game between two big league ball clubs.

McCarthy, 70, won his greatest fame as manager of the New York Yankees with whom he won eight pennants although he never played a game of major league ball. Old Marse Joe will be present to accept the plaque and express his appreciation at being named by the special 11-man veteran's committee last February.

Crawford, 77, was a member of the Detroit outfield during the days of Ty Cobb and finished his 19-year career in the majors with a total of 2,964 base hits and an average of .309. He too will be present for his greatest day.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick will make the presentations to the two new members in front of the Hall of Fame buildings on the main street of this historic community. The Hall of Fame ceremonies are scheduled for 9:30 a.m., EST.

Later in the day the visiting celebrities will watch the surprising St. Louis Cardinals play the hustling Chicago White Sox in the annual game at Doubleday Field, starting at 1 p.m., EST.

New members to the Hall of Fame are voted on alternate years by the special veterans' committee and the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Assn. It will be the writers' turn to vote in 1958 for men who played during the past 30 years but have been retired for at least five years.

Among the members who are expected to be present are Carl Hubbell, Frank "Home Run" Baker, Ty Cobb, Frankie Frisch and the widows of Lou Gehrig and Roger Bresnahan. Distinctive lapel buttons will be presented to the living members and to the widows of the deceased.

Dan Daniel of the New York World Telegram and Sun, president of the Baseball Wirters Assn., will act as master of ceremonies.

Cards Whip Pirates 9-4

PITTSBURG, July 20 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, a flop on the current Eastern Swing, exploded for 18 hits today in 9-4 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates at Forbes Field.

Del Ennis' 3-run homer in the third was the payoff blow, breaking a 2-2 tie. His squeeze bunt accounted for another run after Stan Musical's triple scored Al Dark in the first.

Bob Friend, the Pirates starter, was whacked for five runs and seven hits-one of them Ennis' 14th homer.

One Runaway, One Close Farm Game

There was one close game and one runaway in play of the Little Eagle Farm League here Friday.

Taking wins were the Tigers over the Cardinals 4-3 in the National League and Eagles over Sports 19-6 in the American.

The Cardinals scored first in their game, capturing two runs in the top of the fourth inning, but in the botom of the fourth, there were three on base for the Tigers when Chip Yarbrough doubled to bring in three runs. He later got home too.

In the sixth David Payne's single brought in Darrel Hafley for the Cards, but that's all the runs the Cards could manage.

Jerry Owens hurled the two-hitter at the Cards to win for the Tigers. He walked four and fanned four. Loser was Randall Hayes, who also kept things tight by allowing only three hits while walking four and striking out six.

The Eagles scored four runs in the first inning of their game and were never behind. They gathered 10 hits off Skipper Tipping and his relief Alex Rios, five off the latter. Tipping went two innings and struck out five while walking three. Rios, in the other two, walked five and fanned one.

Winner Robert Thomas allowed and walked four. Thomas also led his team at the batting team, with four for four, one of them a double which scored two runners. The only other extra base hit was a triple by Jerry Cabiness, which scored Thomas right after his double.

The Farm leagues were to end play for the season last night.

Ag Picnic To Be Held In Midland

Snyder area alumni and ex-students of Texas A&M College are expected to attend a "family picnic" of A&M alumni July 27 in Midland.

Chancellor M. T. Harrington and Acting President D. W. Williams, both will be present for the event. The two top college administrators will address a gathering of students and former students of A&M in Cole Park in Midland.

Harrington has been chancellor of the Texas A&M College system since Sept. 1, 1953. He served as president of the college for three years prior to becoming chancellor. The A&M system consists of 12 separate divisions, including Arlington State College, Tarleton State College, Prairie View A&M College, the Texas Engineering Extension Service, the Texas Forest Service and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Harrington taught in the A&M chemistry department for 25 years.

Like Harrington, President Williams has spent a large part of his career teaching at Texas A&M. He has worked extensively with the college's animal husbandry department and the Texas Agricultural Extension service since 1917. He has served the school as head of the animal husbandry department, vice president for agriculture, and vice chancellor for agriculture.

GO-GETTERS

Issa Family Is Jamaica Legend

By INEZ ROBB

The United States, which invented the go-getter and holds the copyright, probably ought to be collecting royalties on Abraham (Abe) Elias Issa of Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies. And since we also have a patent on immigrant success stories, we should probably be collecting also on Issa's father, Elias Abraham Issa.

These long thoughts have been induced by another of the whirlwind visits that the youngers Issa pays regularly to New York, Montreal and any outlying districts where he scents a potential tourist for the Caribbean paradise that is Jamaica, his own, his native land.

Not to beat around the bush further, Abe is the director of the Jamaica Tourist Board as well as director of 19 other large island enterprises, 10 of which belong to the Issa family. No, Virginia, it is not true that the Issa family, in less than two generations, has acquired half the island of Jamaica. A goodly fraction, yes, but not quite half—just hotels, banks, stores, factories and real estate.

Probably every thoughtful visitor to Jamaica has been impressed, as I was, with the feeling that the two most important events in Jamaican history are the arrival of Christopher Columbus, the first tourist, in 1494 and the subsequent debarkation there exactly 400 years later of Elias Abraham Issa, patriarch of the present Issa clan.

The senior Issa came from Syria with a pack of merchandise valued at $2,500 and a poke of $2,500 in American gold coins, always handy in an emergency. Issa is now the first legend of Jamaica, and it is a little hard to untangle fact from fancy.

But the patriarch did found the family fortune by peddling his merchandise from door to door until he had the money to open his first store in Kingston. Today the Issa clan is to Jamaica what the Astors or Vanderbilts were to the U. S. A. a hundred years ago.

Dynamism and go-getterism come naturally to the Issa son, Abe. But both qualities were further polished by four years at Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., from which Abe was graduated with a degree cum laude, an American bride and an ability to speak the American vernacular in clipped British accents.

Dapper and full of charm, as well as a shrewd business man, Abe is Jamaica's official greeter, or Grover Whalen.

Repairmen Will Hear McLendon

B. L. McLendon, president of the Independent Gargagemen's Association of Texas, will address a group of automotive repairmen of Snyder in the community room of the Snyder National Bank at 7:30 o'clock the night of July 24.

Appearing before a combined meeting of Snyder and Big Spring garage owners, McLendon will outline the history and development of the state group which has local affiliates or chapters in 32 Texas cities, including Snyder and Big Spring.

McLendon will explain the Association's state and local program and point out how it is trying to establish higher standards among its members and improve the quality of automotive service to the motoring public. Currently one of its main objectives is to provide training facilities to properly instruct the thousands of automobile mechanics needed in Texas.

A resident of Beaumont, McLendon is a graduate of the University of Houston where he received both bachelor and master degrees in mechanical engineering. Besides operating an automotive repair shop in Beaumont, he is an instructor at Lamar Technical College.

A. E. Ivison, 2013 Avenue S, is president of the Snyder chapter of the Independent Garagemen's Association of Texas.

Accompanying McLendon during his visit to Snyder and Big Spring will be Allen Richey, publicity director and trade publication editor for the state group.

A watermelon party will be held for the group following the meeting. It will be in Towle Memorial Park.

Suspended Lawyers Must 'Show Cause'

HOUSTON, July 20 (AP)—Three Houston lawyers who are under 90 day suspension by the State Bar were ordered yesterday by a federal judge to "show cause" why further disciplinary action should not be taken.

The bar's grievance committee filed a judgement July 1 asserting Arthur Mandell, Herman Wright and Ben Ramey employed agents to solicit clients for damage lawsuits.

The lawyers signed a consent to judgment.

AAUP Checks Tech Ousters

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The American Assn. of University Professors is checking into the ouster of three professors at Texas Technological College in Lubbock, a spokesman said today.

The three are Dr. Byron Abernethy, Dr. Herbert Greenburg and Dr. Per Stensland.

Dr. Ralph F. Fuchs, the AAUP general secretary, said the inquiry follows receipt of letters of complaints from a labor union and two or three individuals.

"We're making only a preliminary inquiry into the matter at this point," Dr. Fuchs told a reporter.

"We're not investigating it in a formal sense, at the least not now. Apparently they are hoping for some sort of an adjustment down there."

Dr. Fuchs said that no communication has been received from any of the professors involved, not that AAUP has written to one of the trio, who is a member of the organization, asking for details of the controversy. He declined to identify this individual professor.

According to reports reaching Washington the college's board of directors recently abolished the position held by Dr. Stnesland and failed to renew contracts of the other two professors.

The Texas Tech board failed to renew the contracts of Abernethy and Greenburg July 13. The board abolished the adult education program, sponsored by the Ford Foundation. This in effect discharged the program director, Stensland.

The action was taken in secret after the board asked reporters and the college president to leave the meeting room.

The Avalanche-Journal at Lubbock said Abernethy and Greenberg were discharged for their political and social views. Abernethy is a leader in the liberal wing of the state Democratic party. Greenberg is an outspoken opponent of racial segregation.

The Avalanche-Journal also said it believed Tech board member J. Evetts Haley was the guiding hand behind the board action. Haley is an outspoken political conservative and pro-segregationist. He was defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor last summer.

Board member Tom Lineberry said the action was unanimous.

Haley called the adult education program boondogling and a frill which the college could do without. He said Abernethy and Greenberg did not meet the college's intellectual and academic standards.

Dr. E. N. Jones, Tech president, asserted Haley's statement concerning the professors' ability was not correct.

The board action brought a protest from the Tech faculty, some other college faculties and political leaders.

A great part of the protest was aimed at the secrecy of the session at which the board took action and to the fact that the faculty members were not brought before the board to state their case and that the administration had no opportunity to speak in favor of the adult education program.

Damage In Fire High

HOUSTON, July 20 (AP)—A stubborn, wind-whipped fire ate through four stores of University Village here early today causing damage estimated at over $100,000.

The Singer Sewing Machine Co.; Flair Clothing Store; Lechenger's jewelry, and Poll Parrot Shoe Store was involved.

Injured fighting the fire were firemen E. Topeski and J. W. Gates. Several other firemen were overcome by smoke and fumes.

The fire resisted the efforts of 75 firemen from Houston and West University Place for over 90 minutes, but was brought under control at 7:40 a.m.

Compressed Air May Blow The Waves Down

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Juqly 20 (AP)—Oil for troubled waters? The Japan Steel Tube Co., says use compressed air and blow the waves down.

MONAHANS, Tex., July 20 (AP)—Police Chief John Ashcraft resigned today to become chief deputy for the Ward County sheriff.

Order Given For Hearing

MARSHALL, July 20 (AP)—Federal Judge Lamar Cecil issued an order yesterday for a hearing July 31 in Jefferson to consider a temporary injunction requested against the City of Marshall and city officials over segregation at the city pool.

The suit was filed in the name of Titus Edwards, a Marshall Negro. He requested that the city be enjoined from operating the pool in a segregated basis.

Edwards alleged he was not allowed to enter the pool June 4.

Cecil is the judge who ruled for a group of Negroes to open the Beaumont municipal golf course to Negroes in one of the first suits of its kind filed in the South.

Former Miss U.S.A. Returns To Husbands Arms Saturday

BALTIMORE, July 20 (AP)—The deposed Miss United States came home today to the arms of the husband she had denied with regret in her voice and fire in her eye.

Mrs. Mary Leona Gage Ennis, who got bounced out of the Miss Universe contest when she finally admitted her marriage to an Air Force sergeant, arrived by plane today from Long Beach, Calif.

The tall, striking brunette appeared startled when she came to the door of the airliner. Halfway down the ramp she was met and embraced by her husband, Sgt. Gene Norris Ennis, and their 2-year-old son, Nathan David.

Police hustled the family into an operations office where she smoked a cigarette.

Then she told newsmen, "I am sorry. I didn't expect to win and if I had thought I had a chance I wouldn't have gone out there."

But when officials of the beauty school which sponsored the Miss Maryland pageant asked to see her, she replied, "I'll talk to the press, but not to those two."

Mrs. Lorne Walters, director of the modeling agency, and William J. Adams, the manager, were visibly shocked.

Mrs. Ennis said when she admitted her ruse to Miss Universe officials in California that she told Adams after winning the Miss Maryland title she was married and he told her to forget it.

While awaiting Mrs. Ennis' arrival, Mrs. Walters insisted, "We didn't know she was married."

Mrs. Walters called Leona a "startling beauty with a burning desire to be a top model and a star."

"I've arranged a screen test for her in New York next week," she said. "When they see her on film they'll love her. She photographs wonderfully from any and every angle."

The tall, blonde school director said, "She is the most beautiful girl I've ever seen and when I first saw her last April I realized she was a gold mine."

But Mrs. Walters said these things before Mrs. Ennis landed and refused to talk with her.

Waiting with Sgt. Ennis and his son were 50 neighbors from Manhattan Beach who carried a glaring red sign. "Welcome Home to Manhattan Beach," and a large bouquet of flowers.

The 18-year-old beauty — who confirmed she was born April 8, 1939, in Longview, Tex. — was clad in a vivid cotton print dress, white windbreaker jacket and tan sandals.

She carried her frightened and crying son from the plane ramp into the operations office where she comforted him, talked with her husband and smoked. Her other son, Gene Jr., was left in the care of his grandmother.

Then she left the office, talked briefly with newsmen while posing for pictures and was sped away in an automobile.

An official of a local television station relayed to her an offer from Ed Sullivan of $1,000 to appear on his show tomorrow night.

Mrs. Barbara Mewshaw, the friend who admitted being the brains behind Mrs. Ennis' deception and who made the trip with her, said the offer would be accepted.

Offers have snowballed for Mrs. Ennis since she was dethroned.

The first rumors that she was married began circulating Thursday night after she had won her place among the 15 semifinalists in the Miss Universe competition. She denied them that night and again yesterday.

Finally, however, her marriage to Sgt. Ennis in Vernon, Tex., in February 1954, was confirmed by the records. She admitted her deception in a dramatic press conference and was promptly disqualified as Miss USA.

MISS U. S. A. IN TEARS—Leona Gage, who won the Miss U. S. A. title at the Miss Universe contest at Long Beach, Calif., is in tears as newsmen question her about rumors she admitted she had been married and had two children. The beauty contest rules require that entries be single. The Texas-reared Miss Gage, who won the title of Miss Maryland to enter the national contest, is being comforted here by her chaperone, Mrs. F. S. Crum. Officials said that a new Miss U. S. A. would be named.

Some of the spectators who have more than a passing fancy in results of events in the Scurry County Rodeo are pictured atop the arena fence above. From left they are Nelda Smith, Wanda Brunson, Hattie Townsend and Bessie Burke Harrell. Miss Townsend had a brother in many of the riding events.

Davis-Culvahouse Doublering Vows Exchanged Saturday

Miss El Wanda Pearl Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Davies of Post, became the bride of James Wayne Culvahouse of Snyder in a doublering ceremony Saturday night in the First Baptist Church in Post.

Mr. Culvahouse is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Culvahouse of McCamey.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roy Shaham.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a traditional floor length gown of white rose design French lace and tulle, fashioned with a portrait neckline and brief sleeves outlined with sequins and pearls. Long tapering mitts ended in points over the hands, and from her fitted lace bodice, her triple tulle skirt with an overlay of lace fell into a full sweep over taffeta.

Her tiered veil of French imported illusion fell from a regal crown of matching lace dotted with sequins and pearls. The bride wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a lace handkerchief borrowed from Mrs. LaRue Gay. For something old she wore a ring belonging to her mother.

She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses showered with stephanotis and satin streamers tied with love knots on a pearl-backed Bible which was a gift of the bride's parents.

Mrs. LaRue Gay of Post, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was of pink embroidered organdy over matching taffeta styled with a sabrina neckline and scalloped waltz-length skirt. It was complimented by a bandea of pearls which held a matching circular veil. She carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses with satin streamers.

The bride's mother selected a dress of pure silk linen in beige with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Culvahouse, mother of the groom, wore an orchid dress with white accessories, and her corsage was of white carnations.

Jodi Cash of Post was flower girl.

Best man was Eugene Culvahouse of McCamey, brother of the groom, while ushers were N. J. Harrison of Snyder, Pete Peterson of Snyder and Calvin Hancock of Midland, cousin of the bride.

Traditional wedding music and vocal accompaniments were played by Mrs. Ray N. Smith, organist, after chimes struck the hour of 8 o'clock. Joyce Short sang "Because," and, following the ceremony, "Wedding Prayer."

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

A three-tiered cake and an arrangement of pink sweetheart roses were the focal point of the service table. Appointments of silver were used.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Ray Don Johnson of Abilene, Mrs. John Gary of Abilene, Mrs. Garland DePrang of Odessa, Mrs. Guy Keeter of Dallas, Miss Marcia Holcomb of Denton and Mrs. J. A. Stallings of Post.

For the wedding trip to Lake Murray, Okla., the bride chose a navy faille sheath suit with satin midriff, scooped neckline and brief sleeves worn with a sheer navy wool coat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses.

The bride is a graduate of Post High School and attended Texas Tech and graduated from Hardin-Simmons University where she was a member of Phi Gamma Mu, a cappella choir, and the Cowgirl organization. She is now employed as a teacher in the Snyder Public Schools.

Mr. Culvahouse is a graduate of Kermit High School and of Baylor University where he was a football letterman in 1952-53-54. He is now employed by the Magnolia Petroleum Co. in Snyder.

Following the wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 132 Milburn Ave. in Snyder.

SEPTEMBER WEDDING — J. B. Crook, 2000 Thirty-seventh street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Louise, to Joe Devenport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Devenport, 2407 Twenty-seventh Street. The wedding is set for 8 p.m. Sept. 7 in the Colonial Hill Baptist Church with the Rev. Jimmie Nelson, pastor, officiating. (Wolfe Studio photograph)

It's A Good Thing To Know Something About Electricity Around Your House

By ANDREW C. LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Unless you check with your local authorities, you never can be quite sure how much electrical work you can do around your home. The regulations are made, of course, for your own safety. But regulations or not, it's a good idea to know something about the electricity in your house, even if you never expect to do anything more useful in that line than changing a fuse.

Speaking of changing a fuse, the important point in that simple operation is to use a replacement of the same amperage. A fuse protects an electrical circuit. It's a sort of emergency alarm. When it blows out, it means that the circuit is overloaded or there is a break in the line. If the fuse did not blow out, over heated wires would result in a fire. When a fuse is rated at 15 amperes, it means, generally speaking, that it will carry a certain load of electricity before it gies way. If you put in a new fuse that is rated higher, it will carry a heavier load all right—but the protection will disappear.

Same Amerpage

The lesson: when a fuse blows out, always replace it with a fuse of the same amperage. And since you know it blew out for a reason, find out what the reason is. Did you have too many appliances connected to one circuit? Or is there a break in one of the extension or appliance cords?

It used to be considered a smart idea to use a penny as a substitute for a fuse when a new one was not immediately available. Since a penny gives no protection to the circuit at all, lots of fires started that way. Although fire authorities have warned of this danger for years, investigations have shown that some householders still use pennies in place of blown fuses. By keeping a few extra fuses on hand at all times, there never will be any temptation to use a penny or any other substitute.

Many newer houses use circuit breakers instead of fuses, in which case a switch or lever is thrown to restore the flow of electricity. Also, there are several new types of fuses on the market, one of which calls for pushing a button, another for making a little adjustment which enables the fuse to be used several times before it becomes useless.

Same Purpose

Don't use wiring for purposes for which it is not intended. A lamp cord is perfectly safe when used as an appliance cord. Extension cords are useful, but are not to be used as permanent replacements for additional receptable outlets. In doing any outdoor wiring, be sure to use weatherproof wiring and outlets. Don't immerse electric toasters or other appliances with heating elements in water. Power tools, washing machines and similar heavy-duty apparatus must be grounded. Prompt attention to frayed electrical cords will avoid short circuits. When there is a possibility of a small child pulling out a plug and poking something into the outlet, use the type of safety plug that cannot be removed by a child.

The average house circuit, which carries a 15-amp fuse, has a maximum capacity of 1,650 watts. All the fixtures and appliances attached to that particular circuit should not total more than 1,650 watts. Any appliance with an Underwriters Laboratory label on it has the wattage stamped on the name plate, so you can figure out yourself whether the line is overloaded.

Keeping electricity under control may be a little trouble, but it's a small price to pay for safety.

PLUM TURNOVERS

Ingredients: 2 cups flour, ½ powder, ¾ teaspoons salt, ¾ cup (1½ sticks) butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 5 tablespoons milk (about), 1 can (1 pound and 14 ounces) purple plums, extra butter or margarine, sugar, 1 pint vanilla ice cream.

Method: Stir flour before measuring; sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in butter with pastry blender until particles are fine; sprinkle with grated orange rind. Stir in milk gradually with a fork, tossing mixture together lightly. Use only enough milk to hold ingredients together. Roll out on prepared pastry cloth into a rectangle 18 by 12 inches; cut into six 6-inch squares. Drain plums and pit; put 2 or 3 plums in center of each pastry square; dot each portion of plums with a sliver of butter and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon sugar. Pinch edges together firmly so corners meet in center making a square. Brush tops with milk but do not prick. Place on grased baking sheet and bake in hot (425 degrees) oven abut 25 minutes or until browned. Serve hot with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Recipe For Success: Mix Cereal With Novelty Toys

TOLEDO Ohio (AP — "Waaah!" I want the cereal with the magic whatzis in the box."

Ever hear a tot roar out that demand in the supermarket?

It may be murder for mother, but the younger generation's weakness for breakfast food premiums is the lifeblood of two scholarly brothers named Benjamin and Henry Hirsch.

The Hirsches, who specialize in the manufacture of cereal toys, literally sit up nights dreaming up new ones to make junior hunger for scraunchie raunchies instead of pippie wippies.

"We have to," said 52-year-old Ben, elder of the brothers by three years. "The novelty in novelty toys wears off quickly, and if you're not ready with a new one, you're dead."

No Shortage

So far, the Hirsches show no signs of running out of ideas.

Their inventions include a "Nautilus" submarine which dives and surfaces under the power of a mysterious "atomic fuel" baking power and a sailboat which glides along in a wildless bathtube after "nuclear propelant" a camphor-like substance) is dabbed on its stern.

Since all Hirsch toys currently go to a breakfast food manufacturer, buying cereal is the only way to get one.

Even with orders for toys running into the 10 millions the three-story brick building housing Hirsch Laboratories, Inc., operates as a factory for only about five months out of a year.

Then the 150 production workers go home and the Hirsches settle down with a skeleton staff to plan next season's toys.

"That," said Ben, "is when our work really gets tough. We start from scratch again and hope we can come up with something in time."

Ideal Combination

By nature, the Hirsches are ideally fitted for a team job.

Ben, a chemist, can produce an "idea a minute" and enthusiastically defends every one to the last ditch.

Henry, who as an engineer must apply the ideas to a production line, has developed a defense mechanism that prompts him to mutter "I doubt it," whenever Ben has a fresh brainstorm.

The brothers have worked together since their high school days when Ben invented a cream to slick down stubborn hair. That enterprise started in their mother's kitchen, graduated to the garage, and eventualy took them into a profitable cosmetics business.

A fire in 1944 ruined their business. The plant rebuilt, the Hirsches spent two years in vain effort to get back into cosmetics. Finally acknowledging failure and almost broke, they decided to take a chance on toys.

"We didn't know much about toys, but we thought they held some possibilities for a chemist and an engineer," Ben explained.

The brothers devised tiny plastic skaters which, scooted around on water on camphor tablets and willing customers in the five-and-dime stores. Within two months after the skaters went on sale the brothers had sold more than a million and paid off all their debts.

In 1955, several toys later, the Hirsches approached a breakfast food company with a crude model of a toy submarine and made a bid for the cereal box business.

At first, the breakfast food people were dubious. But the Hirsches managed to come away with an initial order for 250,000 units of the toy, later patterned and named after the real atomic submarine "Nautilus."

They delivered the order, and in a couple of weeks the breakfast food company was screaming for more.

New Gimmick

The exact figures on sales of the sub and similar toys are a secret of the cereal firms. Breakfast food moguls also display all the caution of automobile tycoons in guarding the designs of new premiums and model changes.

Right now, the Hirshces are trying to develop a cheap battery whose components can be run off on a printing press. If they succeed, the battery will be used to run their next toy, which

Oops. Uh-uh. That'll cost you a boxtop, and your kids will be sure to tell you when it's available.

It's His Turn To Watch Television

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) —After granting a woman a divorce recently, Superior Judge Ralph K. Pierson asked her informally why she was willing to let her husband have their TV set. Her answer:

"Well, I've been sitting watching it for four years now while he's been out playing around. So I guess it's his turn."

Linoleum Rug

When laying a new linoleum rug always mop it with very warm water as soon as you have it on the floor. The warm water causes it to expand and lie flat and there will be no wrinkles in it after furniture is placed in the room.

Whisk Broom Tip

You can make your whisk broom last longer by dipping the tips of the broom in shellac. It will also keep the broom cleaner.

Garnish that fish bisque with a sprinkling of grated lemon rind.

Girls At Camp

More than 100 girls participated in the annual Girl Scout day camp, which was held last week and ended yesterday morning.

The camp was at Camp Ila Rue, Girl Scout grounds five miles north of Snyder on the J. M. Newton farm.

About 60 of the 103 girls spent the night at the camp Friday night. On all other days, the girls were at the camp from 3 to 8 p.m.

A number of parents and others visited the camp during open house Friday afternoon and night.

After spending Friday night at the camp, the girls cooked breakfast and then broke camp, restoring it to its appearance before the camp started.

Throughout the camp, the girls did knot typing, lashing, fire building, outdoor cooking, and other activities.

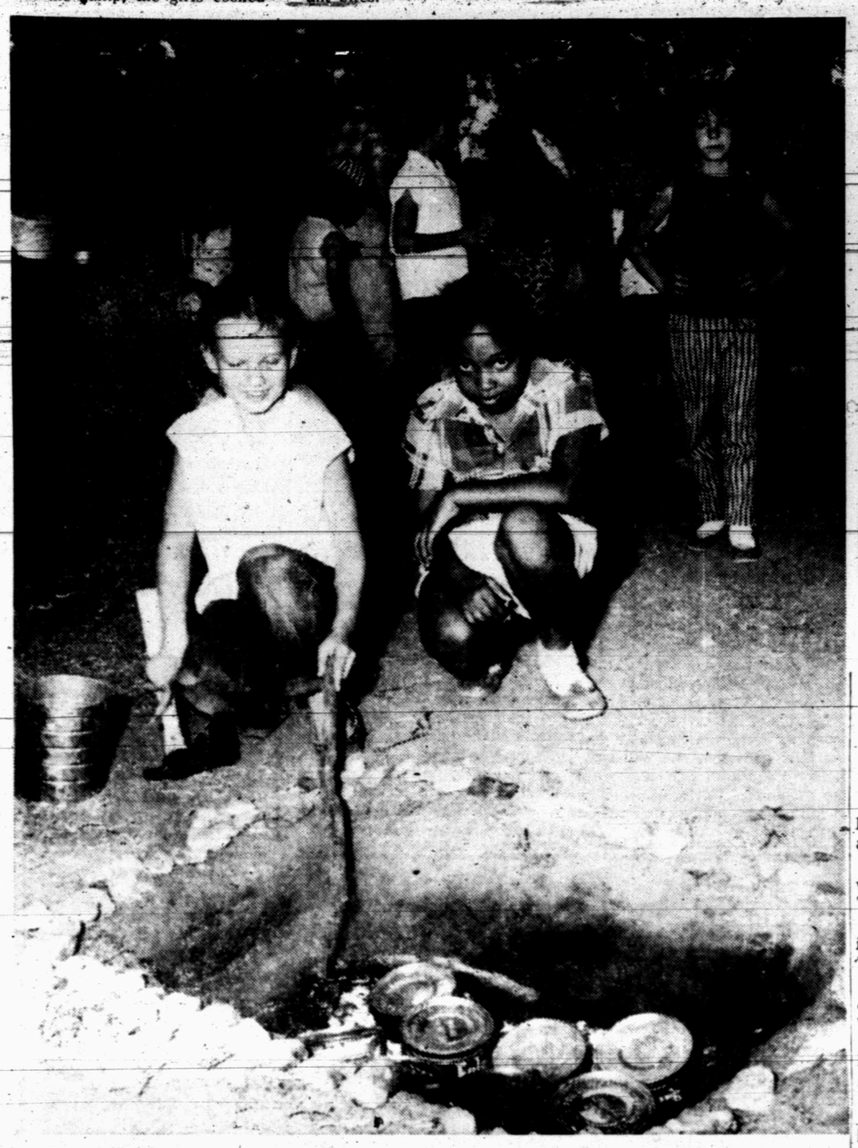

Going to the camp each afternoon by school bus, the girls cooked out and then returned home by bus to spend the nights.

A first aid station was maintained at the camp, and a doctor was on call. There was no sickness or serious injury during the camp. First aid workers did have something to do, taking care of minor cuts and ant bites.

Six units were represented at the camp. The units are divided according to age and grade of the girls.

There were some 18 workers with the girls at the camp. Mrs. O. C. Stanley was camp director, Mrs. Ned White assistant director. Nurse was Rosa Davis. Some members of the junior high troop served as junior aides.

This rounds up the majority of Girl Scout activities for the summer. Units do not hold regular meeting ordinarily during summer. They will be active again when school reopens.

Miss Shirley Teague Is Wed In Double Ring Rites

The Ford Memorial Chapel of the First Baptist Church, Lubbock, was the setting, Saturday evening for the exchange of vows between Miss Shirley Ann Teague and 1st Lt. Alexander Mason Low, Jr. The doublering ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. F. Ferguson.

The birde is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Seaborn Teague, 3111 37th Street, Lubbock. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Low, Sr. of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Preceding the ceremony a program of pre-nuptial music was furnished by Mr. Bernie Howell, organist, who accompanied the bridal soloist, Mr. Wayland Stephens, as he sang "Walk Hand in Hand," and "Through the Years." As the benediction prayer, Mrs. R. C. Preuitt, sister of the bride, sang "Wedding Prayer."

The ceremony was performed before the altar framed by baskets of white gladiolus with white candles above the altar; white satin bows with fern marked the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an orginal gown of traditional elegance of star white peau d' nage lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice, long sleeves, tapered to form petal points over her hands, and a Decollette neckline of escalloped alencon lace accented with seed pearls. Her tiered veil of imported illusion extended to her finger tips from a dainty crown of seed pearls, accented by rhinestones.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white orchids feathered with white carnations on a keepsake Bible. In carrying out the wedding tradition, the bride wore a lavalier belonging to her sister for something old; for something borrowed and blue, a garter belonging to Mrs. Robert J. Allen of Lubbock (number 232 to wear the traditional garter); and from the bridegroom a string of cultured pearls.

The matron of honor, Mrs. R. C. Preuitt, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid, Miss Sandra Cooper of Snyder wore identical waltz length dresses in nylon organdy over net and taffeta in a soft tone of pink with a contrasting darker pink sash. The skirt was full waltz-length and was made of fan-pleated organdy. A portrait neckline and tiny sleeves marked the fitted bodice. The pink sash ended with large bows at the back. Identical French-type hats were worn of pink, studded with small rhinestones, and they carried colonial bouquets of feathered pink carnations.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was 1st Lt. Arthur V. Wynne, Jr. of Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock. Assuming groomsman duties was 1st Lt. Edward Cogswell also of Reese Air Force Base. The ushers included 1st Lt. Maynard Dunn and David D. Taylor both of James Connally Air Force Base, Waco. Trey Cooper of Snyder was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony, the reception was in the Ford Memorial Chapel parlor. The brides table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink majestic daisies. The wedding cake of white tiers was decorated with tiny pink rosebuds topped with a miniature bride and groom. Cake was served by Mrs. John E. Gullion, Tulsa, Okla., aunt of the bride and presiding at the crystal punch service was aunt of the bride, Mrs. Arno Boyd of Lubbock. Guests were registered in the guest book by Miss Barbara Jochetz of Slaton. Others assisting in the house party were Mesdames Fred Stephens, R. E. McReynolds, Fred Schmidt, Bruce Pember, Jack Shepard, John L. Jones III, W. T. Eaton, T. E. McClanahan, T. S. McClanahan, J. J. Maxey, L. R. Gregory, R. L. Smith, Bob Kerp, Jr., all of Slaton; Arno Boyd, Douglas Chambers, Marvin Drake, W. F. Ferguson, Garlin Murphy, R. R. Richards, D. C. Stotts, Douglas Pounds, Paul Dane, and Misses Karen and Patsy Boyd, Maire Hodges, Lilac Yeats, and Elizabeth Bostick, Fannie Pillow, all of Lubbock.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Waco at the Lockwood Apartments. For traveling the bride wore a beige silk linen sheath with a king-size cape-collared matching jacket trimmed with huge polka dots on [illegible] white orchids completed her ensemble.

The bride attended Slaton High School and graduated from Snyder High School; she attended Baylor University, Texas Tech, and graduated from The University of Texas where she was a member of Delta Gamma sorority. She has been employed as third grade teacher at Chris Harwell School, [illegible] for the past two years.

Lt. Low is a graduate of College High School in Cape Girardeau, Missouri; received his B.S. degree from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1955, where he was a member of Sigma Pi Fraternity. He graduated from Reese [illegible] and is now stationed at James Connally Air Force Base, Waco.

New High In Luxury For Fall

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

AMERICAN WOMEN will shine this winter in clothes that reach a new high in luxury of fabric, richness of color and lavish use of fur trimmings.

New York designers previewing fall fashions show a variety of costumes for all occasions, running the gamut from understated simplicity for daytime to breath-taking elegance for evening.

Most of the news of the fall collections lies in their varied and handsome fabrics, their bold use of color and luxury furs that trim everything from suits to evening gowns.

The daytime silhouette is almost uniformly slender, but with more ease of fit, more walking room in skirts, a general feeling of relaxation. Suit jackets are casually unfitted, sometimes barely hipbone length, sometimes coming well below the hips, but never nipped at the waist or tightly fitted at any point.

The dress-and-jacket costume again is the top favorite for dawn-to-dark wear, jackets this year often being fur trimmed, furlined or all fur. When the suit or coat is untrimmed, it is likely to be shown with fur accessories such as hat, bag, belt or small scarf. Fur trimming also shows up on cocktail and dinner gowns, a favorite device being a fur border at the hemline.

Color is more important that in many years, with red in all tones the top choice, followed by soft greens, bright electric blues, purples and a wide range of beige and gold tones. Soft brown fur tones also are high in favor—and naturally the little black dress and suit are always with us.

When you choose your color this fall, however, the dress is not enough. Hat, gloves and shoes should match exactly, to carry out the important one-color look.

Mother Cleared In Baby-Sitting Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 23-year-old mother who left her baby with a sitter five or six nights a week while she attended the movies was cleared of neglect here because baby sitting is "an American institution."

Juvenile Judge Albert W. Wold man in dismissing the charge said: "Baby sitting is now an American institution. To find this mother guilty of neglect would mean that millions of American mothers are guilty of neglect."

Woman Finds Way To Lure Children Back

STANTON Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Callie Bowen, 69, found a way to lure her children home for more frequent visits.

She built a 5-acre lake on her farm, stocking it with bass. Then she built a cabin on the shore.

Now so many of her flock are returning home at vacation time she is planning to build another cabin.

Long Stay In Hospital Can Affect The Moral Of Child

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE
AP Newsfeatures

JEAN WAS 2 when she became very sick and had to be rushed to the hospital. Both her parents took her to the hospital, but Jean was unconscious when they had to leave her. She didn't know anything about that frantic drive and she couldn't say goodbye when her parents left. Jean had meningitis, a serious and very communicable disease. She was put in strict isolation in the hospital and her parents were not allowed to visit her.

In the hospital a staff of doctors and nurses worked over the limp little body. They stuck needles into her, poked a tube down her throat, did all sorts of most umpleasant things. At first Jean didn't know what was happening but after a while she began to get a little better and regained consciousness. Then she found herself in a completely strange place, with strange white-coated creatures hurting her.

There wasn't a soul around whom she had ever seen before. The nurses were kind, they tried to talk to the little girl, they picked her up and loved and cuddled her, but no one was Mommy. She was utterly lost and lonely. In her baby mind she had been abandoned by everyone and everything that had meant life and comfort and securjty in the world.

Loney Baby

Poor little Jean, had she only been aware of the many, many phone calls that kept her desperately worried parents posted on every change in her condition, she would have known that she hadn't been abandoned. But Jean was too young to know about this. All she knew was she had been left, that she hurt, that all the joy was gone from life.

Her body got better. Through the miracle of modern medicine, the battle with the germs was won.

But Jean was a different child. Before the sudden illness Jean had been a lively talkative happy child, full of cute remarks and adorable tricks. Now, not only was she thin, and wan, she was completely withdrawn. She didn't talk she wouldn't even walk (though at all, she wouldn't even walk (though she was physically able) she didn't play, she didn't laugh, she wouldn't even smile.

Jean had regressed to the level of a small infant in her behavior. No one know exactly what goes on in the mind of such a little child, but it seemed as though she was trying to get back and act as she did in early infancy, hoping perhaps that at some place she could make life be what it once had been. If she acted as she used to act maybe the world would be as it used to be too.

Long Road Back

We had cured Jean's body, could we now cure her mind? There were long talks with Jean's parents. Jean had to be reassured that life could be good again, that she would not be again abandoned.

Jean's mother did a wonderful job. No words could really prepare her for that pale weak sad-faced little girl she took home from the hospital. For weeks Jean's mother never left the child, night and day, mother was there, warm, tender and loving, and it wasn't easy because as Jean did begin to respond she was very demanding and irritable. As time went on Jean again smiled, laughed and ran about. Eventually she could stand short separations from fear that she'd never come back.

Jean ultimately made a complete recovery, not only physically but mentally and emotionally as well.

The story of Jean makes one wonder if the hospital regulation of complete isolation even for dangerously communicable disease is worth the risk of such dangerous hospitalitis as Jean contracted.

For Outdoor Cooking, Try Making Popcorn

Why not show off your outdoor cooking to its best advantage this summer—by using crunchy popcorn for texture contrast?

Millions of Americans known the old-fashioned fun of popping corn in an open wire popper over live charcoals. A few easy to carry ounces of kernels pop like magic into quarts of good eating!

If you have no wire popper, just toss the kernels into hot oil in your largest covered frying pan and pop the usual way.

Comedian Today Has To Be Good

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Danny Kaye remarks sadly that aspiring comedians today have "no place to be lousy."

In the old days there were burlesque, small-time vaudeville and big-time vaudeville. Now a newcomer goes on television—and has to be good.

"Or he's told, 'You'll never have it,'" the comic continued.

"There's less opportunity than ever to develop a number of sides of your talent.

"Suppose you wanted to be a doctor. You wouldn't wake up some morning, go to a hospital and say, "I've decided I want to be a doctor. Give me a scalpel.'"

Comedy also requires a lot of training, but, said Danny: "A lot of newcomers don't realize it's an art, a profession, and you have to study hard."

Kaye has "done everything in show business you could do"—except TV. That included summer-resort entertaining, traveling shows, night clubs, vaudeville, broadway, radio.

"Everybody has to go through a painful learning process," he advised. "There are a lot of talented comedians around. But if they don't develop, they'll find they're not going ahead."

Even for veteran, however, he is against "overexposure." If he ever goes on television, it won't be oftener than once a month.

"Only a few can go on week after week and not have their work deteriorate. Mr. (Jack) Benny is a prime example of one who can. He'll go on for a hundred years. All of his experience has accumulated into a rounded character."

To avoid overexposure on the screen, Kaye never has made more than one picture a year. His current "Merry Andrew" is his 12th in 14 years.

Terry Says No Private Life Story

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Terry Moore says there'll never be a publicity picture on her peeling potatoes, sweeping the floor or cuddling kiddies by the fireplace.

"I feel that the less people know about your private life, the more glamorous you are," she feels.

Domestic-type publicity may be good for June Allyson or Debbie Reynolds because it goes with their screen roles, Terry continued.

"The boys who go to movies look at me romantically. That's why they don't want to see me sitting around the hearth with kids."

As for posing in an apron like an ever-faithful-wife—

"I don't play that kind of part. I play sirens. I'm a natural blonde . . . blue eyes, fresh scrubbed look. Don't drink or smoke — in private life or pictures.

"A sexy tomboy, an outdoor girl. The kind of girl a guy dares to take home to mother. Yes, I'm a wholesome sexpot—you can say that. I think that's my main appeal.

"I don't think domesticity can be glamorous for Terry Moore, though it can be for others."

Miss Moore, glamorous as could be for her role as a girl-about-town in "Peyton Place," wouldn't talk much about her shaky marriage.

She has dropped her divorce suit against Panama businessman Eugene McGrath pending a talk with him after she finishes the picture. She said, "I think we'll work things out."

Terry recalled that the marriages of Frank Sinatra and Van Johnson cut their fan mail. "But they built it back up as fine actors."

The best publicity, she opined, is "good parts. I don't think scandal is good publicity for me, because I play wholesome parts. Nor is domesticity good either."

Gypsy Rose, Sans Gypsy

NEW YORK (AP) — Gypsy Rose Lee's personal memoirs are coming to the Broadway stage—but without any performance by the famous stripper.

Her recent book, "Gypsy, A Memoir," has been obtained for production—probably as a musical—and may be ready for presentation late next season.

Miss Lee feels the assignment requires an actress with a few more dramatic tricks than she possesses. Both Shirley Booth and Ethel Merman reportedly have indicated some interest in the enterprise.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris is 985 feet high, third in the world behind the highest two buildings in New York City. The latter two are the Empire State at 1,250 feet and the Chrysler at 1,046 feet.

MAKING her second Hollywood screen appearance in "Interlude" is Marianne Cook, German actress, who stars with Rossano Brazzi and June Allyson in the picture, filmed in Munich. In addition to being an actress, Miss Cook lacks only a year and a half having her medical degree.

HIGHLIGHT SCENE in "Joe Dakota" has Luana Patten and Jock Mahoney on the spraying end of an oil gusher. Luana, now 18, played her first screen role 10 years ago for Walt Disney. Mahoney was Hollywood's top stunt man before turning leading man. Universal-International produces the new picture starring the two.

IN 1958 LINES

Battle Shaping Up In Color Teevee

By WARREN BENNETT

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—The lines are drawn for what appears to be a major battle in the television industry over the future of color TV.

As leading companies unveiled their 1958 line the last few weeks, one after another stood firmly for black and white television against color.

Most quoted television pioneer Dr. Allen B. Du Mont that until a better quality, lower cost color set is developed, it would be wise to stick to black and white.

Opposed to them — virtually alone — is David Sarnoff, board chairman of the Radio Corp. of America.

If you had to pick a lone man against the field, you probably couldn't do better than the man who at 15 started as office boy for the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. at $5.50 a week 51 years ago.

Sarnoff is a practical, 5-foot-8 bundle of energy who has sparked ideas more colorful than any of his famed spectaculars. And RCA, in which he played a master hand, has become a 1½-billion-dollar company—the General Motors of the electronics field.

"We have more than 100 million dollars invested in color TV," Sarnoff said. "I'm confident this 100 million is the best investment we ever made."

"Nothing on God's green earth can stop the advance of color TV," he said. "My faith hasn't been shaken by anything that happened recently."

"The only disappointment, if you want to call it that, is a disappointment in time. It is true our prediction that color would get off the ground, made in 1956 and repeated again early this year, has not turned out. The timing has been delayed a year or two. The reason we are so slow with color is that we are alone.

"I don't like that. But at 66, I've learned a little philosophy—what is one year or two in the march of civilization?"

"Any new product that is significant faces many obstacles—some natural, others man-made," he said.

"What is so different now about the opposition of black-and-white TV manufactures to color? It is simply the classic pattern of the vested interests being against something new."

Sarnoff swept a hand impatiently over his big mahogany desk, as if to brush aside the old arguments.

Play Producing Is Tough With Green

NEW YORK (AP)—Play producing is normally a tough business, but it was even tougher when the Boston Arts Festival put on Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple."

Starring in the comedy was Martyn Green, who is also the understudy for Cyril Ritchard in the Broadway hit, "A Visit to A Small Planet."

To facilitate Green being in two cities 250 miles apart, a hotel made facilities available for rehearsal of the Boston cast in New York, two airlines kept standing daily reservations for him and Lloyd's of London guaranteed the price of a performance should Green be summoned for a performance of "Small Planet" and miss connections.

The careful planning had a happy ending. Neither Ritchard nor Green missed a performance of their respective shows.

Sgt. David Hofstein, 46, of the New York City police, has three college degrees. And now he is studying in his spare time for his fourth degree—a Master of Arts in economics.

Broadway Show Set Up In West Berlin

NEW YORK (AP) — The newest overseas branch of Broadway theatrical production is to be set up in West Berlin under the direction of the American National Theatre & Academy.

A series of dramas, starting in September, are to be presented in Congress Hall, a vast auditorium being erected in the former German capital jointly by the United States and West Germany. The five million dollar hall is primarily designed for science, cultural and educational conclaves.

The theater project is part of the president's international cultural exchange program.

The premiere stage offering may be a trio of one-act plays by Thornton Wilder.

Loesser And Kanin Working On Project

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Loesser, famous song writer, and Garson Kanin, prominent playwright, are coordinating but not collaborating on a project that they started together.

Kanin has done the basic script. Loesser has completed most of the musical score. Now they have amicably agreed to have the tunesmith handle all the rest of the adaptation. Kanin will probably still be involved with the eventual production of the untitled work—as the director.

BenJack Is Not Eager To Return

By JULIUS GOLDEN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 20 (AP)—BenJack Cage says he isn't flying to Texas tomorrow like he said he would.

WILL RETURN TO TEXAS—BenJack Cage, under indictment on embezzlement charges in Texas, is shown in Rio de Janerio where he said he will return to Dallas by August 7 or 8. Cage, promoter and first head of the bankrupt ICT Insurance Co., said he orginally planned to return July 21, but "the pressure of business is holding me here, but is almost completed."

Here's what he promised last June 21:

"I'll be in Texas within one month."

This week he set the date back to Aug. 7-8.

And this weekend, lolling around this Paris of the Americas, Texas' one-time boy wonder insurance executive showed no particular eagerness to head back to his home state.

He has it pretty good here.

Texas would very much like to get BenJack within its borders.

He once was a leading citizen, a playboy, lionized by businessmen and labor. Now the picture has turned from rosy to dark for Cage.

He is under two indictments in Dallas, one charging embezzlement of $500,000 from ICT to buy insurance stock and another charging he took $100,000 from one of the subsidiary companies under the ICT Corp., a BenJack investment company project which was not caught in the casualty and fire company collapse.

Legislative investigating commitees wanted badly to talk to him this spring and probably still do.

The federal government has a $123,045.10 income tax lien against BenJack and his wife.

An Austin grand jury would like a tete-a-tete.

He has been accused, in addition to the grand jury indictments, of bad business management, tossing the firm's money around freely and living high on the hog on company funds.

Does BenJack agree to any of this?

Just Tall Tales, He Says

Bah, he says.

"Those charges grew out of the continual smearing of my name after I left ICT," he told this reporter.

"Tall tales," he called the claims against him.

"Relaxing in this sundrenched seaside metropolis, he declared: "I completely deny these charges."

Then he added, "Those who have made them know they're untrue. Because I'm indicted on a charge, regardless of the final outcome of the indictments, everyone else appears as a knight in shining armor."

He repeated his previous arguments that (1) the company failed a year after he left it, (2) an audit of the books immediately after he left showed no discrepancies, he claims, and (3) the State Insurance Commission relicensed the company after he left, indicating, he says, he left it in sound condition.

The 6 foot 4 Cage, only 39, still has a quick, personable smile and the gift of gab.

It was the smile and fast talk, claim some of the state's biggest labor leaders, that fooled them. They let Cage get away with what auditors call some fast deals, and later admitted they didn't know what he was doing.

One such deal erased almost a million dollars owed by one Cage company to the insurance company.

He Got Help From Labor

It was laboring men who helped Cage found the company. They invested heavily in it. They did it individually from their savings; and union leaders invested union funds in the enterprise."

Then, said a State Senate Investigating Committee, BenJack began fooling around with the money. The committee still finds mysterious such bookkeeping entries as "Ann of Los Angeles" and "Sue of Austin" as having received payments of $200 and up.

Listed to some other comments from the investigating committee report made May 1:

"The glib newspaper statements of BenJack Cage from far off Rio de Janeiro to the effect that the collapse is due to the mismanagement of company officials subsequent to his departure are not substantiated by the facts."

And [illegible] appears that Mr. Cage has managed to protect himself financially when thousands of laboring stockholders are burdened with the losses incurred as a result of the mismanagement on the part of himself and associates."

It also said Cage watered over-hauled the company stock by a half million dollars when he offered his stock purchase plan to labor, and that the settlement by which ICT Insurance Co. "forgave Jack Cage and Co. of an indebtedness exceeding $900,000 was drawn in a manner calculated to mislead and deceive ICT Insurance Co. officials."

So the furor mounted. While Cage and his pretty blonde wife, Dorcas, enjoyed Rio's scenery, the Senate committee offered him a free trip home to testify. It sent an airplane ticket to Rio, but BenJack never picked it up at the airline office.

He told this reporter, "I'll be glad to discuss this with any official body upon my return."

Work Not Finished

But he added, "Obviously I have a job and I have to make a living. I'll go to Texas when my work here is finished."

This week he said, "The pressure of business is holding me here, but it is almost complete. I may leave for Texas sooner but I'll return Aug. 7 or 8 at the latest."

What work he has to do here is done in his hotel room and on Rio's beautiful beaches.

Even when he's on the beach in shorts, soaking up a bit of sun, he has some earmarks of a working man.

For with him every second is a large briefcase. He says it contains charts and papers which "are all part of my work here."

This work, says BenJack, is in establishing fiberglass plants in Brazil and Argentina.

In March, he went to Buenos Aires. He turned up in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in May.

In June, after his indictment in Dallas, [illegible] his efforts [illegible] with his mother [illegible] Jack's view about collapse."

Nevertheless, many shareholders—most my friends and acquaintances — invested in the company because of confidence in me.

"I have a moral responsibility. So I'm laying it on the line.

"The others (former company officers) have the same moral responsibility and I should expect no less from them."

By no less from them, Cage refers to his plan whereby 75 per cent of his earnings for the rest of his life, would go to stockholders of ICT at the time he left the company. He said he has had his Buenos Aires attorney, Raul Meana, draw up papers to channel the income to stockholders.

How much money stockholders would get is guesswork. The Texas Insurance Commission said the company was $4,460,243 in the red and owed policyholders $2,960,243 when it collapsed.

Cage returned to Rio late in June. If Texas gets its hands on him, it probably will be because he returns to the state voluntarily. Brazil has no extradition treaty with the United States, and he can't be forced to return.

"When that mess up there is [illegible] Texas is cleaned up," he told this reporter, "I'll return. There are great opportunities here."

UNDER AMENDMENT

Welfare Help To Be Offered

COMPLETE AND PERMANENT invalids or persons in the community so mentally deranged that they require continuous overseeing to prevent their harming themselves or others may soon be able to receive small monthly checks from the state.

These would come from the State Department of Public Welfare through the new state-federal program of aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

The Constitutional amendment which was adopted by the voters in November, 1957, limits the amount of money which can be appropriated for this program to $1½ million per year. It makes aid possible only to those who are helpless and have no relatives able to support them.

• • •

T. J. Compton, welfare supervisor for this area, pointed out this is the only welfare program which requires consideration of the ability of relatives to support.

• • •

This law defines "responsible relatives" as children, parents, stepchildren, step-parents, brothers and sisters.

Compton said that for the first time in nearly 20 years the Department's Field Workers will be required by law to determine the resources of relatives of persons who apply for aid.

The "permanency" and "totality" of the disability will be determined by a state reviewing physician after study of a complete physical or mental examination by the persons own private physician. Complete helplessness from a medical standpoint, rather than inability to work, is the criteria. The state will pay the private physician for his examination.

Funds for assistance payments will not be available until Sept. 1, but applications are being taken now. While the helpless individual will not be able to leave home, the persons responsible for his care may come to the local welfare office and acquaint the department with his situation. A field worker will then call, as soon as possible, at the home to take the application.

Offices in this area are located at: Snyder Courthouse; Courthouse Basement, Big Spring; Courthouse, Lamesa; Civic House, 117 Elm Street, Colorado City; County Judge's Office, Roby; City Hall, Rotan; County Judge's Office, Stanton; County Juqdge's Office, Sterling City; County Judge's Office, Garden City; County Judge's Office, Gail.

Needs Cited For TEC Office Here

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce is still plugging away in efforts to get Texas Employment Commission office in Snyder.

It is generally felt that a TEC office would solve many problems which the Snyder area now has concerning business and industrial expansion, according to Grady Elder, chamber manager.

For example, a TEC office here would establish specific figure on the Snyder and Scurry County labor market, something that is lacking at present.

In cities where the TEC has offices it maintains files on both prospective applicants for employment and prospective employers. Such records often would simplify problems of local business executives.

They could list their needs with the TEC, including qualifications desired. Then, if the TEC had names of applicants on file, which met the qualifications the office could offer a source for filling vacancies immediately. When no suitable applicants were available the TEC still would have a record of the personnel needed and could make referrals whenever qualified applicants were available.

Much of the TEC work is closely related to the field of agriculture and the state agency negotiates contracts for Mexican National laborers when there are demands for this service, particularly during the harvest season.

At present, there is no agency, either state or privately operated, which functions here full-time in that capactiy.

However, interests here believe that a TEC would contribute a valuable service to many fields.

At present, Snyder and Scurry County are served (technically) by the TEC office in Sweetwater. However, the apparent disadvantages of that arrangement are such that the actual service to the immediate Snyder area are virtually nil.

Bond Of $100 Set In Snyderite's Case

Bond of $100 was set yesterday morning in County court for Ernest James, south Avenue M.

James pleaded not guilty to a charge of swindle by worthless check.

Nasser's Bombshell

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, July 20 (AP)—An officer in the Egyptian army's general headquarters held a sealed envelope in his hand as he listened to the speech being broadcast by his President, Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Written on the envelope was the code word "DeLesseps."

". . . and then we thought of DeLesseps and the Suez Canal. . . ."

At the mention of "DeLesseps," the officer followed his instructions, ripped open the envelope to read the orders it contained. They said:

Occupy headquarters and installations of the Suez Canal Co. immediately.

By the time Nasser ended his long speech with the announcement that "we have nationalized the Suez Canal Co." the army was in firm control at all points.

Nasser knew he was throwing a bombshell in that famous speech in Alexandria July 26, 1956. But he never expected quite so violent an explosion.

Nasser's bomb touched off a chain reaction of political explosions. British and French ships refused to pay tolls to the Egyptians. Foreign pilots and employes walked off the job in a body.

Finally Britain and France unleashed an air, sea and land attack on Egypt which blocked the canal for four months. Eden and Mollet vowed to "get Nasser."

As the first anniversary of Egypt's nationalization of the canal nears, Nasser's men have moved out of the shadow of disaster into what is beginning to look like a successful undertaking. Egyptian pilots are getting the ships through the canal, the vessels are paying tolls in hard currency to Egyptian authorities, and the damage done by the Anglo-French attack has been repaired.

Eden and Mollet are out of office, and Gamal Abdel Nasser still is president of Egypt.

A combination of luck and United Nations support has helped the Egyptians weather the storm of that first year. But an equally big factor has been Col. Mahmoud Yunes, the tough, puritanical soldier named by Nasser as managing director of the nationalized Suez Canal Authority.

His greatest challenge came last September, when the British and French called their pilots off the job. At the time, there were 205 trained pilots with the company. After the walkout, Yunes was left with 26 trained pilots and 30 trainees.

The last of the foreign pilots left their ships at midnight Sept. 15. Yunes didn't sleep that night. Neither did his pilots. He put his 26 trained men on double work shifts. Instead of the usual six-hour run halfway through the canal, the trained men took the full 12-hour run through the entire 103 miles off the canal from Port Said to Suez. There were no days off, and sometimes no nights off.

The semitrained pilots took the short hauls. And they learned fast.

Meanwhile, the Egyptians beat the international bushes to find more replacements. Fifteen Soviet pilots volunteered for service. In a few days, the first Americans arrived. More poured into Egypt from around the world, from Greece and South Africa, from Poland and Iran.

Canal authorities now claim the situation is better than before nationalization. The Egyptian company has 212 trained pilots as against 205 at the time of nationalization.

As the first anniversary of his nationalization bombshell approaches, Nasser can chalk up impressive victories over the Western powers in the canal conflict over the past year.

Instead of negotiating a settlement with the user nations, Nasser issued his plan for canal operation unilaterally, on a "take it or leave it" basis. All the big powers had to take it.

Britain and France had to forget a proposed boycott.

Last month, Britain returned to its former place as chief user of the canal.

Of 1,269 ships transiting the canal in June, British ships led the list with 266, followed by Norwegians with 192. The French were still far down with only 21 ships, but they only did not lift their boycott until early une.

Toward the end of the month, canal authorities announced a new all-time record when they took 62 ships through in a single day.

In the next 12 months Egypt should take in substantially more than the record year of 1955, when the old company's toll receipts amounted to nearly 100 million dollars.

Egypt's nationalization of the canal no longer is challenged seriously by any government. There remains only the question of negotiating satisfactorily compensation to the old company.

Weekend Camping Growing Popular

By DON HENDERSON
The Associated Press

You can let this leak out if you want to: practically any outdoor canvass reveals that the American interest in living the rugged life for fun is growing, you might say, intense in tents.

This is no secret to state and national park managers, to conservation officials, highway police or the in-laws who used to drop in casually every Sunday for a free meal.

American families clearly are going back to the woods, a week or a weekend at a time.

Just how many have taken up camping, either as a hobby in itself or as an adjunct to fishing, boating and other outdoor activities is open to educated guesses. And the best educated in the matter decline to guess openly, because the number would sound outlandish. The public park and forests, for instance, record more visitors in a year than there are people in these United States.

The reasons for the camping boom are no easier to pin down than the reasons for the rest of the postwar surge in outdoor activity.

Economics might have something to do with it—money saved from plush lodgings can be spent for boats, cameras, and such. But you'll find the big businessman bragging about the vacation on which he camped with the wife and kids for five bucks a day. Also you'll see camp outfits that cost as much as a suburban sized Taj Mahal.

Comfort isn't the key, either, for you'll see city slickers—who at home would break their lease if the temperature reached beyond the 72-74 bracket—soaking their shirts with honest sweat at midday as they chop wood to keep from freezing at nightfall.

And the solution isn't wholly in the rediscovered feeling that a normal bright human being can, with a little forethought, provide for kith and kin—and vice versa—without a full complement of 20th Century, neon-lighted, electronically guided gadgets.

Because gadgetry is not absent from the campsite, either.

However, several of these factors contribute to the decision. It's fun for the members of a modern family — and perhaps the more coddled they are at home, the more fun it is — to do things for themselves. Basic things, like cutting wood, building fires, cooking three course meals in the same frying pan.

Equalization Board Meets Last Week

Between 30 and 40 persons met last week with the equalization board of the Snyder school district during its sessions.

Few changes in the tax valuation structure were recommended. Included in those meeting with the board were tax representatives of several oil companies.

Members of the board were C. [illegible], Joe York and S. L. Terry. Hardy Scarborough, school tax assessor-collector, sat with the board.

The Irish do get around. There are 24 Dublins in the U.S.

LESTER T. POTTER

D. A. HULCY

Potter Is Named Lone Star Head

Lester T. Potter has been elected president of the Lone Star Gas Co., which furnishes Snyder's natural gas.

A native of Dallas, he succeeds D. A. Hulcy, who served as Lone Star president more than 17 years.

At the request of directors in the board meeting in Dallas, Hulcy will continue with the company as chairman of the board "even beyond his normal retirement date of Dec. 1, 1957," under the company's retirement program. He was elected board chariman in 1952.

Potter, fourth president of the 48-year-old company, began his new duties immediately. At 51, he is one of the youngest of Lone Star's official group. He has served the company more than 29 years coming to Lone Star in 1928 the day after receiving a degree in mechanical engineering from Texas A&M College. He had been executive vice president of the company since 1954.

Hulcy, a native Texan, began his career with Lone Star in 1920 as a clerk in the accounting department. Twenty years later he was elected president to succeed the late L. B. Denning.

Under Hulcy's leadership, Lone Star has experienced its greatest growth. When he became president, company assets amounted to approximately $100-million. On May 31 this year they exceeded $411-million. Capitalization has grown from some $65-million in 1940 to more than $295 in 1957. Lone Star's property account on Dec. 31, 1956, amounted to some $340-million, a gain of approximately $234-million in 12 years.

Lone Star now serves more than 785,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers through company-owned and operated distribution systems in Snyder and 454 other cities and towns in Texas and Oklahoma.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

(Letters from the readers of the Daily News are always welcome, provided they are signed by the writer and give his correct address. They will be printed subject to the publisher's discretion, based on whether the material contained is libelous or the language offensive. Letters should not exceed 300 words.)

To The Daily News:

While reading the July 16 edition of The Snyder Daily News, I ran across these items (clipping enclosed) in the sports section. If you will examine them you will find that the title headings are a little mixed up. I am pretty certain that you know about it already, but I wanted you to know that there is at least one native of Snyder in the service that does take The Daily News with him to any and every change of station.

I am A-2c Marvin J. Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Franklin, Arah Route, Snyder. My wife and I really appreciate your paper while we are away. It keeps us informed of the happenings in and around Snyder, as well as the national events. Keep up the good work. I'm sure there must be other servicemen from Snyder that read The Daily News as we do.

Marvin J. Franklin
Gulfport, Miss.

The Note—Yes, we noticed the mix-up. For the benefit of other readers, Airman Franklin referred to some short sports stories which [illegible] switched. Such things make our face red, but perhaps it is worth it if the ultimate result is a letter like this one).

Bootlegging Fines Are Not Deductible

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., July 20 (AP)—Alvin Steneberg told a police inquiry he paid taxes on his [illegible] bootlegging, but income tax collectors had rejected his attempts to deduct his fines as "expenses."

He said he had been arrested eight times in his 14 years as a bootlegger.

A $5 U.S. gold coin of 1822, now worth $15,000, is among the rarities in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

Unique Brain Research Going On

NEW ORLEANS, July 20 (AP)—The man was restless. He wouldn't sit still. He would sit down, jump up again and pace around. He moved too much and too fast.

The doctors, charged with his care, noted the similarities between his behavior and the restlessness of a Rhesus monkey named Alex. Alex paced back and forth in his cage at a rapid rate. Often, he would stop, leap at the bars and then return to his pacing.

Both the man and the ape, seemingly caught on a mental treadmill, were the victims of brain damage. What can be done for them is the subject of some unique experiments at the Louisiana State University Medical School, where doctors are probing the mysteries of the brain.

Dr. George D. Davis, piercing the brains of monkeys with surgical needles, is finding clues to one of the great unknowns of the human body — the three-pound, grapefruit-sized, 10-billion-celled brain.

Dr. Davis' first task was to discover exactly what part of the brain controls restlessness or too much body activity.

Scientists have believed that the cortex or outer layer of the brain took care of most of our conscious work. The back of the cortex controlled vision; the left side made us talk; the top helped us feel things. The front was the center of body motion.

But the experiments of Dr. Davis casts doubt on the function of the front cortex.

Relief from restlessness today is limited to chemical tools. Part of Dr. Davis' experiment utilizes one of the current popular aids, the tranquilizing drugs.

His monkey cages are ideal to measure one effect of the drugs. Psychiatrists in mental hospitals discover that their patients, in a general way, feel easier after taking drugs. But, with monkeys, Dr. Davis has found exactly how much pacing and leaping an hour the drug can cut.

His tests show the famous drugs reserpine and chlorpromazine reduce restlessness almost to normal.

More surprising were the results from injections of amphetamine or benzedrine and phenidylate. Although classed as exciting drugs, these also reduced restlessness. And the animal remained alert, not in a dull stupor.

When both tranquilizing and exciting drugs were injected together, Dr. Davis, watching the animals by a special television camera, found that the monkeys, while no longer restless, would be more alert than if they had been injected only with a tranquilizer.

The relief from use of drugs is, of course, only temporary. At the same time, it is apparently safe relief. Dr. Davis found in autopsies of his monkeys that there was no damage from use of the drugs.

Although he has found one element of mental trouble and where it is located, a permanent cure if still beyond science.

Bids On Alaskan Highway Studied

OTTAWA, Ont., July 20 (AP)—Officials of Defense Construction, Ltd., a government corporation, are studying bids for paving the first 50-mile stretch of the Alaskan highway which runs from Dawson Creek, B. C., to Fairbanks, Alaska. If the first paved stretch, between Dawson Creek and Fort St. George, reduces maintenance costs the entire 1,150-mile highway within Canadian territory may be paved.

Valley Farm Labor Supply Catching Up

HIDALGO, Tex., July 20 (AP) — A spokesman for the Lower Rio Grande Valley bracero processing center said yesterday the supply of farm labor has about caught up with the demand.

E. E. Scannel, manager of the center, said 52,000 Mexican farm workers have been processed this month. The figure is about 17,000 lower than last year.

Scannel said 3,000 cotton pickers were needed in the valley next week but that the rush peak was over. The top day saw a total of 4,627 braceros processed, he added.

Rail Link Proposed

MEXICO CITY, July 20 (AP)—A railway linking Canada and Argentina may be proposed at the Pan American Railway Congress opening in Buenos Aires Aug. 30. Mexican delegates say about 1,250 miles of railway need to be built, all in South America, to complete the line.

Three Persons Killed Near Seguin Saturday

SEGUIN, Tex., July 20 (AP)—Three persons were killed and two were injured when an auto carrying a Houston family smashed into a bridge on Highway 90 about 9 miles west of here today.

Mrs. Winnie Morgan, and two of her sons, Allen and Gary, about 9 and 15, were killed.

Her husband, Madison Morgan Jr., 39, and another son, Mike, were injured.

Police said the father was driving. They said a witness reported the car passed him at a high rate of speed, sideswiped the railing approaching the bridge and then bounced into the concrete posts of the bridge.
