CHURCH OF CHRIST, 2 P. M.

Mrs. G.D. Foster Rites Tomorrow

Funeral service for Mrs. G. D. Foster, who died instantly in a highway crash Monday afternoon 20 miles from Lubbock, will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Final rites will be said in the Church of Christ, 22nd & Austin Sts., of which she was a long-active member. Roy L. Holland, minister, will officiate assisted by Charles Heron, former minister here now of Arlington.

Mrs. Foster would have celebrated her 63rd birthday Friday. She was born Geneva Holt, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Holt in Nashville, Ark., Sept. 13, 1900. She moved to Colorado City with her parents in 1907 and had lived here continuously since.

She is a graduate of Colorado High School and worked for 13 years as young business woman in the old Colorado National Bank before it was consolidated with City National.

Her marriage to Grady D. Foster took place here in Colorado City Dec. 21, 1921. Her husband is a prominent business man here, a former Mitchell County Superintendent, former teacher and principal of Colorado High School and for the past number of years owner of the G. D. Foster Insurance & Loans Co. in Colorado City.

The traffic tragedy which took the life of Mrs. Foster and the lives of two other women was a head-on collision which occurred 20 miles north-east of Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Foster and their daughter, Miss George Maedell Foster, were enroute to Canyon to charter member. She was a visit Mr. Foster's brothers and a sister.

Killed in the collision were Mrs. Foster, whose death was instantaneous with the impact, Mrs. W. T. Lamar and her daughter Miss Marie Lamar both of Crosbyton, riders in the other car who both died instantly in the two-car crash.

Critically injured was the Foster daughter, 25-year-old member of the faculty at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. who has been studying toward her doctorate in speech. Miss Foster is a graduate of CHS and of Abilene Christian College, where she also won her Master's degree in speech.

Reports Thursday morning (today) from Lubbock Methodist Hospital to the many anxious friends of the family here, said that Miss Foster is now "resting well" and is showing some improvement.

She suffered a concussion and a fractured leg and her condition has been extremely serious since the wreck which took her mother's life, Monday. Mr. Foster, who suffered a compound fracture of his arm, is reported by members of the Holt family to be improved. Doctors plan to dismiss him from hospital care, they said, in time for him to attend funeral services for his wife. He is elder in the Church of Christ and is an active Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce member here.

Mrs. Foster was active in the Colorado City Garden Club, of which she was a Bible School teacher in the 22nd & Austin St. Church of Christ.

She is survived by her husband and by her daughter George Maedell, who live at 805 Vine St.; her parents Mr. and Mrs. John B. Holt Sr. of 545 East 4th St.; two brothers, Ed Holt of Wichita, Kansas and J. B. Holt Jr. of Olney.

Burial will be in Colorado City cemetery under direction of Kiker & son Funeral Home. Pall bearers will be Jack Burkhalter of Midway, Allen V. Sheppard, J. B. Marshall, Stanley Hamner, Mayberry Wilbanks, J. Ralph Lee, Henry Lewis and Virgil Moser.

DEADLINE SEPT. 27

Football Seat Sale Gaining Speed Daily

Sale of season tickets for the Colorado City Wolves home football games is brisk and now gathering speed, reports Mrs. Ray Noble.

"The sales are better than in any recent football season," said Mrs. Noble who is in charge of the sale.

Added enthusiasm by Wolf Football fans has accounted for the sale of large sections in the upper portion of the center section, she said.

Terry Myers Out-Guesses Football Fans

A Colorado High Junior student — a girl twirler — led the field in football guessing this week in the Colorado City Record's contest for prizes.

Terry Myers of 1225 Cedar St. won first prize of $10 cash with her official entry blank. The CHS Junior girl student picked seven of the nine winners and guessed the C-City vs. Winters score at 27-7 in favor of the Blizzards to beat all 17 guessers vying for prizes.

Clovis Boren, 644 East 16th St. won second prize — two reserved seat tickets to the Texas Tech vs. Washington State football game in Lubbock. See TERRY MYERS Pg. 5

Old Timer Reunion In Museum Oct. 10

Marine Sergeant from Loraine Honored With Mast Award

Contest of Anecdotes Added to Attractions

Old Timers Reunion plans like. Each must be written on a separate sheet of paper bearing name and address of the anecdote sender.

Registration will begin at 8:15 in the morning Reunion Day. The traditional Mitchell County event, planned to coincide with Mitchell County Fair dates, will again be held in the Historical Museum building (Legion Hut) corner of 3rd and Chestnut Sts.

A new feature this year will offer three prizes for the best anecdote or true incident which happened in Colorado City during its early days.

First prize will be $15, second prize $10 and third prize anecdote will win $5. All contestants may submit as many true incidents as they wish.

Entries become the property of the Historical Museum Association. Harry Ratliff, secretary of the Old Timers Reunion, hopes to put the collection of incidents into book form for publication with credit to each writer, should enough interest develop in the old tale-telling contest.

Decisions of judges will be final and all entries must be postmarked not later than Monday Oct. 7. Anecdotes of the true incident variety should be addressed "Old Timers Contest, Box 1025, Colorado City, Texas."

Formal program for the Reunion is scheduled to take place Oct. 12 at 10:30 a. m.

Annual awards will again be presented with plaques for the oldest Old Timer; the Old Timer who has lived longest in Mitchell County; the youngest Old Timer; the Old Timer coming the farthest distance to attend the Reunion; the couple married the longest.

Plaques will be awarded at 11:45 in the morning and winners will have to be present to win one.

Mrs. R. P. (Pete) Ainsworth will be official hostess for the day and will announce assistant hostesses and house party members later. Refreshments of coffee, cookies and punch will be served during the morning hours.

All citizens throughout the county and neighboring areas are invited. An "Old Timer," by definition, is any Mitchell County citizen, old or young, who has lived in the county for any period of time — from one week to 50 years or more.

ROOT VALLEY FAIR LODGE

Harold C. Watson New Administrator

Harold C. Watson took over his new duties as assistant administrator and business manager for Root Valley Fair Lodge here Monday.

Watson, an experienced administrator, has been administrator for the 128-bed Christian Rest Home owned and operated by the Church of Christ in Houston.

In accepting the newly created post at Root Valley Fair Watson finds himself returning to his "old hometown." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. (Jim) Watson, grew up in Colorado City, and is a graduate of Colorado High School with the class of 1933. He worked for five and a half years in City National Bank here, in the late 'thirties and early 'forties.

1944 he left the local bank to accept a position with Shell Pipeline in Denver City. From 1949 until 1961 he was in the insurance business for himself. In 1961 he moved to Houston to the administrative position with the Christian Rest Home there.

He is married to the former Miss Louise White, whose hometown is Brownfield. Mrs. Watson expects to move to Colorado City after Oct. 1.

The couple are parents of two grown daughters and one son, Sam Watson, who will be a senior in Abilene Christian College this year.

Their daughters are Mary (Stephens) of Roswell, N. M. and Betty (Casey) of Loop, each of whom mothers two of four Watson grandchildren. The Watsons are members of the Church of Christ.

Root Valley Fair, a $200,000 plus new resident home adjoined Root Memorial Hospital here, is a 40-bed nursing home. Mrs. Charles Root Jr. is administrator.

Fumble & Pass Try Cost Wolves Game

C-City Wolves, handicapped by a virus invasion which had 12 players out of some practice sessions, went down to Winters' Blizzards Saturday night 22-8.

Sam Christy, head coach of the Wolves, came home "well pleased" with the performance turned in by his boys, just the same, he said.

"They played a mighty good game," he said. This week the Wolves are working hard on "condition." Christy added, "so that they will be able to play a full game."

Colorado City has an open date this week with no game scheduled and coaches are taking advantage of the no-game week to polish, perfect and condition what looks like the best Wolf squad in the making for several seasons.

All Wolves are back at scrimmage this week except two — Bill Boren, who has a pulled muscle and Stanley Hardecastle who recently underwent minor surgery on his nose.

Friday night the Wolf coaching staff, Christy, Jeff Walker and Howell Vineyard, will be scouting Monahans, next foe to be pitted against the Wolf squad. The C-City Monahans game will be Friday night of next week in Monahans at 7:30 p. m.

After the game played at Winters Saturday night area sports writers called the Wolf squad "speedy" with an outstanding array of backfield talent... and a team which should be dangerous by the time District 3-A-A-A begins."

Two of the Blizzards' three touchdowns resulted from Wolf mishaps — an intercepted pass on the Wolf 32-yard line and a Wolf fumble on the Winters 34.

Winters packed the power coupled with passing accuracy. The Blizzard boys scored on third play of the second quarter after first quarter wound up scoreless.

Wolf quarterback David McKay's fumble, recovered by Blizzard center Chester Puckett moved Winters toward the first touchdown of the game.

After eight short gains on eight plays called by Blizzard quarterback Denny Alrdge, Arledge himself swooped a round left end for the last four.

City May Remove Some Parking Meters Here

Low revenue from meters on those two streets of the downtown area was reported by the city manager. Councilman, after discussion, postponed final decision about meter removal until their next meeting, Oct. 14.

New Position in Old Hometown

Harold C. Watson, new to his position as assistant administrator and business manager for Root Valley Fair Lodge, is not new to Colorado City. He grew up here and is a graduate of Colorado High School. Pictured with Watson in Valley Fair office is Mrs. Gladys Hardee, supervisor of Nurses for Root Valley Fair, 40-bed nursing home.

yards and the touchdown. A running play by Arledge added the two points to bring the score to 8-0.

In six minutes flat, the Wolves pranced across with a tying score. Fullback Roger Procter went over right guard after the Wolves ran back the kickoff for a gain of 67 yards. Dale Walker, 158 tall back, dashed over for the added two points to bring the score to 8-8. Running by Walker accounted for 86 yards gained by the Wolves.

The score stayed even until late in the third stanza when Jimmy Adams, Winters quarterback, covered a Wolf fumble on the Winters 34, hitting Parker for a gain down to the Wolf 21. Arledge then marched over for a second TD. Arledge made the two-point run and conversion to make the score read 16-8.

With less than five minutes left to play in the final quarter, Arledge tossed a neat 10-yard pass to Larry Awaft for the third and last Winters touchdown. Try for extra points was stopped to make the final score 22-8.

CONVERSATION CORNER

SOME smart-aleck, some mental giant of the masculine sex, naturally, has come up with some figures to further befuddle, belittle and bedevil the female of the species in America.

As if just being plain meddlesome were not enough for the man, he winds up quoting shockingly inaccurate statistics.

"The average woman in America spends an average of two-and-one-half years of her average life span talking on the telephone," he sez.

WELL, NOW! The very idea! That statistician is one of two things: he's a bachelor or he's married to a woman with a speech impediment.

Way this average woman with a more or less average life has got it figured, after due deliberation and some study, the average true-blue American woman spends at least seven-and-one-half years talking on the telephone.

And if she's the average career-woman type she may spend as much as nine-and-three-quarters years dialing and/or answering her own and/or some man's phone.

AVERAGE woman spends a minimum of two-and-one-half years talking on the telephone about her own business, personal and private.

That estimate includes calls to the family doctor to say the baby refuses her bottle, Junior has temperature, or the man of the house has taken to his bed with what he says for sure, is double pneumonia.

Personal and private department would also include calls to husbands asking that they pick up fresh bread, more milk and four slices of baked ham for supper.

ANOTHER two-and-one-half years is willingly, unselfishly and altruistically contributed by the average woman talking on the telephone about public business—which just means women have to take care of all the dirty work to keep a community going.

Women call to get out the vote. To remind other women about the Parent-Teacher program, (Parent, in this case, usually means Mama. It should be called the M. T. A.)

Women per se are so organized—what with study groups, church groups, school-backing groups, charity groups and game groups—that some of us wind up completely disorganized in our prime.

THE FINAL two-and-one-years, to bring the logical estimate of telephone-time to the more nearly correct figure of seven-and-one-half years, the average woman spends talking about other people's business.

But goodnight, Miss Agnes! Women who spend so much time wrestling with home problems, home work, home maintenance, meals and menagerie, plus having to be the power-motor for all projects designed for public good, are entitled to a little wholesome entertainment.

IT ALL boils down to another one of those inevitable differences between the sexes—and "Vive le difference!"

Men, bless their practical hearts, distrust telephones. Just consider what happened to Wally Butts and Bear Bryant when they (allegedly) broke over and conversed in friendly-fashion by phone, and you can readily see why.

Most men hire secretaries and marry wives to do their telephoning. Men are the real efficiency experts. The true conformists of this world. They stay so darn busy trying to keep all the women in sight busy that they miss an awful lot.

LOOK WHO'S TALKIN'

Men never stop hanging wash in the shine To listen in on the party line.

They don't find out much—and you know why? They just know two words: HELLO? and G'BYE! They never call to say "Have you heard?" Or "Guess what they're saying? Don't breathe a word!" Men are absurd.

After all is said and done Phoning females have more fun.

A Modern Medicine Man...

Like just about everything there is, the title 'Medicine Man' has changed some since it was first applied to a tribal chief with feathers in his hair.

These days, when a fellow needs a friend and goes looking for a 'Medicine Man' he could be hunting for a good mixer-of-medicine — more politely referred to as a pharmacist.

It takes a lot of schooling to be a modern 'Medicine Man' with a pharmacist's degree and skill in this modern age.

When the Corner Drug got Glenn Nolte for the prescription department, we felt kinda like patting him—and ourselves—right on the back.

He's a very modern-day 'Medicine Man.' That is to say, he's a real educated gent.

Henry Bilberry, CORNER DRUG

Teenagers, Parents And Curfew Laws

Another West Texas town is turning to a curfew law to help corral youth under 17 years of age.

This time it is Brownfield, a community which is in close contact with Colorado City High School youth as co-member of District 3-AAA. And the time for kids to be off the streets is from 11 p. m. until 6 p. m. for nights which do not precede school holidays. Midnight is the curfew for all other nights.

Maybe we don't know enough of the facts for this particular town and its problem with teens. But the idea of curfew doesn't strike our fancy.

Somehow, with a curfew we get the idea of a community, its leaders and its adults—especially, the parents—abdicating a big chunk of their own responsibility to a public law.

It is a popular refrain now for persons to criticize national government interference with local government. The chorus of this song usually is that the people are giving up rights and responsibilities to big government. And Brownfield, among many, is a community that sings this song quite loudly in politics.

But, now, with some kind of teenage behavior problem—and we bet it is a problem with a minority number—Brownfield is cutting away one of the most basic, individual responsibilities in citizenship and looking to a police force and public law to accomplish what parents and home apparently have not always done.

We don't intend to be facetious. We don't intend to make a curfew a political quirk, even in a round-about manner.

However, it is our thinking that good kids, bless 'em, are in the great preponderance these days—more intellectually advanced and morally concerned than most of us adults were at the same stage in our lives.

And it is our thinking, too, that good kids are made good, in most instances, by parental and community example. And, except for certain exceptions, the guide lines, discipline, responsibility and good manners taught in the home are the major factors in rearing boys and girls for good citizenship.

What we are trying to say is simply this: Before a community adopts a curfew for its teenagers, it might be best for that community—the adults, in particular—to look themselves in the mirror. Look really good.

If the parent and the home in America is not good enough, strong enough and responsible enough to rear the great majority of our children within the bounds of reasonable discipline and good manners—then, no doubt, a curfew is needed. But, then isn't it just about too late—with the backbone of our democratic morals broken to bits.

If the parent and the home is strong enough for this task, then there is severe doubt for the need of a universal type curfew. Instead, the parent and home should demand of its community the type of responsibility in citizenship that does not penalize all those who are good.

IT'S AMAZING!

New Compulsory School Law Aims for Latins

BY VEIN SANFORD

Texas Press Association
Now in effect is a new compulsory school attendance law which requires school children, ages seven to 16, to go to school 165 days out of each 175-day school year.

Before the 58th Legislature passed this law, the minimum attendance requirement was 120 days. This left a wide margin for truancy—especially by children of migrant farm workers who are on the move two to four months out of the year.

Laxity of compulsory attendance laws has been cited as one reason for the high rate of illiteracy among Latin Americans. Texas rate of illiteracy is high for all races. It has been estimated that almost 10 per cent of the state's population is functionally illiterate.

A recent U. S. census survey showed that the average school child in Texas, with a Spanish surname, did not go past the fourth grade. Average Anglo finished the 10th grade and the average Negro completed the eighth.

It will be up to individual school districts to see that children attend school 165 days a year, according to Leon Graham, deputy commissioner of the Texas Education Agency. However, the main responsibility lies with the parents. If a school of fewer than 100 pupils, they are subject to a fine of $5 for the first day he fails to attend school; 10 for the second offense, after a warning, and $25 for each subsequent offense.

Graham said it is no problem for a migrant parent to enroll his child in any school. No formal transfer is required.

"Our schools are here to serve the children of Texas," he said. "All they have to do is say, 'Here I am.'"
PROGRAM PRAISED—Dr. E. F. Knipping—known as the "father of the screw-worm eradication program"—addressed Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation trustees at their annual meeting in Austin, and praised the progress of their eradication campaign. But he cautioned them against complacency.

Knipping reported that in August, only 81 screw-worm cases were reported in Texas, compared to 5,088 in August, 1962. But a large percentage of the 81 were in the Trans-Pecos area.

Animal health officials feel the Trans-Pecos problem is a direct result of screw-worm flies migrating from Mexico. Mexico's northern border has been the target of sterile fly drops for several months now. But newly-gained knowledge that the fly can travel about 150 miles on its own volition is worrying the officials.

Knipping said, "We must intensify our survey efforts to find where fly drops will be most effective; then widen the barrier to prevent infestation."

FALL RAIN PROBLEM—Charlie Scruggs of Dallas, president of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, said his group is beginning to worry about a growing rate of screw-worm infestation when fall rains come.

Cool weather and dampness, usually associated with early fall, may couple with shivering and calving wounds to foster screw-worms if livestock producers don't take precautions. Scruggs said an "information campaign" will be launched soon.

NEW OFFICERS—Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde is the new president of SWAHRF. The young rancher just completed a term as president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, before he took the animal health post.

New vice-president is Joe

Lane of Alpine. T. J. Richards of Paducah is secretary-treasurer.

EDUCATORS MEETING—Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards will hold a joint meeting in Austin on September 22 and 23 to hear talks on education in the Space Age. They will hold seminars on: School dropouts, the migrant pupil, religion and the schools, teaching Americanism versus communism, and textbook selection in Texas.

POLL TAX REPEAL—Campaign for repeal of the poll tax as a requirement for voting was launched by the Texas League of Women Voters, with Gov. John Connally and Vice President Lyndon Johnson giving their support to the movement.

On November 9 Texans will vote on a constitutional amendment to remove the 60-year-old requirement that you pay poll tax to vote. Texas voting will be under the shadow of a proposed U. S. constitutional amendment outlawing taxes on the right to vote in elections of Federal officials. Legislatures of 36 states already have ratified this amendment, and when two more approve, it will go into effect.

Texas Legislature provided Texans a "do it yourself" route by submitting the proposed amendment to the Texas constitution at the November 9 election. There is no chance for the U. S. amendment to go into effect until after that date.

Wes-Tex Talk

A Look At West Texas Through Editorial Page Excerpts From Its Leading Weekly & Semi-Weekly Newspapers.

For as long as we can remember there has been a segment of American taxpayers who have opposed athletics in high school and, finally, it looks as if they may have their way in the matter—but for reasons highly different from those which they have always advanced.

High school athletics, according to Hereford Coach Jack Meredith, has already undergone considerable surgery, at the hands of Interscholastic League officials, and indications point to still further amputations. Coach Meredith, in fact, went so far as to predict high school athletics may well become intramural, rather than interscholastic.

As an example, schools are not allowed to provide vitamins and pre-game meals for high school players, while training periods have been shortened to two weeks before opening games. Coaches and other administrators protest this situation on grounds that players should be healthy and in the best of physical condition in order to best avoid injury. Both factors, of course, would place the athlete in a position to turn in a better played game. Another proposal considered by the League is elimination of play-offs. When a school completes its schedule, the boys would hang up their suits and forget the sport, regardless of what sort of record they made for the season. Elimination of district, regional and state games would, no doubt, do more to de-emphasize high school sports than any other step we can imagine.

This sort of thinking will no doubt come as a shock to thousands of Texas sports enthusiasts and Booster club members across the state. Without doubt, it is a question which presents more than one side.

While football, for instance, has been glamorized and perhaps frequently over-emphasized, it also trains hundreds of young men to face life and everyday problems more efficiently. The only trouble—and we presume this is basic thinking of the League officials—is that the sport is conducted on a tax substandard basis, but fails to include more 40 or 50 of the 800 to 900 students enrolled in high school. And while we have never observed the practice in this area, there is little doubt but that some schools have been over zealous in recruiting and rewarding players.

Still other schools may have been prone to over-emphasize athletics in the use of large staffs of coaches, occasionally perhaps at the expense of other class progress. Because many coaches double in the role of physical education directors, some may have also been known down through the years to have favored and spent more time with favorite and potential athletes than the average youngster who showed no possibility of making the football or basketball squad. Such things, to say the least, are bound to have entered into formation of some alternations and changes coming out through Interscholastic League.

SHINERY PHILOSOPHER

Roots Grow Deep For World Debts

Editor's note: The Shinery Plots Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek tries to shed some light on international finance this week. His letter indicates.

Dear editor:
Sometimes the difference between a big man and a little man is that the big man just owes more money.

I don't know why I mention this, unless it was because of an article I read last night while I was going over some bills I was supposed to pay before the 10th of the month.

According to it, the United Nations is 100 millions of dollars in debt and its financial situation is getting worse instead of better. This has shocked a lot of people.

Now I'm not going into the philosophical purposes of the United Nations, that's out of my field, although if the world ever eliminates war it'll probably be through a single police force but don't ask me how we can swing it.

What I was interested in is the financial aspects of the organization. I mean, what's so surprising about the fact the UN is heels in debt, and let them form a super-organization like the UN, and what can you expect?

If 75 or 100 farmers who can't quite make ends meet organized a bank, how long you reckon it'd be before that bank was out of money?

Idealists who are shocked that the United Nations is financially embarrassed just don't understand how the world operates. I'll explain it to them. It goes this way:

The first unit of government a man comes in contact with is the precinct or town or city governments, 90 per cent of which are in debt. The next is the county, 90 per cent of which are in debt. The next is the state, 90 per cent of which are in debt. The next is Washington, 100 per cent of which is in debt, the same as London, Paris, Moscow, etc. Under this system, where else would the United Nations be except in debt?

The only debt free place I know of is the moon, and we're fixing to remedy that just as soon as we can get there.

You know where I can borrow some money on a second lien on a 1946 tractor?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

OPTIMISM IS HEALING - WORRY DESTROYS

"When I'm really worried, I break out into a rash," a young lady said recently, "and my sister gets the hiccups or a headache. Since these reactions are actually caused by emotional problems, does it do any good to treat them as if they were real?"

The answer is a definite yes. My studies of x-ray films almost daily confirm that emotions can produce annoying physical effects. There is no reason for not relieving a temporary "emotional" headache the same way you would relieve one which came from a bump, for instance.

However a doctor's advice should certainly be sought if the condition is severe, or of long standing.

There are few people who are not affected physically by anxieties and fears, as a matter of fact. A study by scientists at Yale University of hundreds of people in various walks of life, found that most people react to fear with a pounding heart and rapid pulse.

The next most common reactions are a "sinking feeling" in the stomach; dryness in mouth and throat; trembling; sweating of palms; cold sweat all over the body; prickling sensation of scalp and back; faintness or a weak feeling.

Emotions can cause blood pressure to rise dangerously and your muscles to become tense. There is little doubt that a state of anxiety actually makes any type of ache hurt more, and tests show that up to 75 per cent of the pain which is felt when a person is jittery and tense vanishes entirely when he relaxes.

Interestingly enough, I frequently find that after an examination which reveals no observable cause for distress, a patient will be reassured and experience no further pain or reaction.

Large exports of purebred Herefords and pineapples are the economic mainstays of the island of Molo Kai — the Friendly Island. This island is probably better known as the home of the leper colony, which has almost 300 patients. In the history of the islands, of which there are eight of major size that stretch a distance of 250 miles across the Pacific Ocean, it is believed that the early Polynesians came as early as the year, 1000 A. D. They reached their new homeland from Central Asia in double canoes, in which they paddled their way across the vast reaches of the Pacific Ocean.

Mrs. Erwin concluded her speech by telling of the arrival of Capt. James Cook in 1778, landing of missionaries on the islands, and the coming of people of other races, Chinese, Portuguese, Japanese and Spaniards to the islands. People of many races were lured to Hawaii to work in the sugar cane and pineapple industries. Some of these returned to their homes, but a great number remained to start businesses and become important men in the islands.

Mrs. Erwin closed her program with a poem, "Aloha Oe," giving the meaning of the greeting and the farewell to the Hawaiian Islands.

arrangements of coral gladioli stood on either side of the center arch.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a street-length gown of white cotton satin. Bodice was overlaid with Chantilly lace, outlined in seed pearls, and featured a scoop neckline and abbreviated sleeves.

Her veil of silk illusion came to her shoulders and was fastened to a Juliet cap of Chantilly lace. Bridal bouquet was white camellias centered with a white orchid, and carried a top a white Bible.

Carrying out tradition, something borrowed and old worn by the bride was a ring belonging to the groom's great-grandmother, Mrs. Hayley, and dating back to Civil War days. Her wedding ensemble was something new.

Maid of honor was Sylvia Minatra, sister of the bride. Her gown was fashioned of coral cotton satin and featured a street-length skirt. Coral velvet bows accented the back neckline, which was cut to a low vee, and the center back of the belt. A headpiece of coral velvet bows completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of coral gladioli.

John Theis served as the bridegroom's best man. Ushers were Royce Minatra, brother of the bride, and Gene Sorrells, brother of the groom.

Following reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Cauthen. An original three-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by the mother of the groom, featured coral and white flowers and hearts and was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Serving table was covered with a white linen cloth featuring touches of coral. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. M. W. Palmer Mrs. Bill Taylor, Mrs. Hubert Harris and Mrs. Cauthen. Miss Martha Sheppard registered guests.

Mrs. Sorrells chose a two-piece suit of turquoise for traveling. She accented her suit with black accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

After a wedding trip to Sonora Caverns, the couple are making their home at 17th and Lexington in Big Spring.

The bride, a 1963 graduate of Colorado City High School, was employed, until her marriage, by Max Berman Dept. Store.

Sorrells is a graduate of Colorado City schools, and will begin his second year of study at Howard County Junior College Sept. 13. He is employed by Big Spring Aircraft Corp.

Out of town guests attended from Denton, Big Spring, Abilene, Comanche, Andrews, Silver, Ira and Aubrey.

Rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sorrells at the Villa Inn on Thursday night. Members of the wedding party attended.
