JAPS CLAIM CAPTURE OF BASE AT CHOCHOW

PEIPING, Sept. 17 (AP)—Japanese army headquarters tonight announced that Chochow, Chinese advance base 40 miles southwest of Peiping, had been captured in a steam-roller Japanese offensive along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

The Japanese announced their mechanized forces, estimated at 60,000 men, had gained 12 miles in the last 24 hours after spectacular crossings of the Yungting and Chuma rivers, south and southwest of this city.

Japanese officers said the capture of Chochow had cut off some 50,000 Chinese troops along the railway north of that walled city. These Chinese were said to be in danger of being crushed between Japanese columns moving pincer-wise from both sides of the railway.

The Japanese command claimed further advances for its highly mobile column which has penetrated Shansi province from the north.

LINDBERGH TO BECOME BRITON, FRIEND SAYS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—The third intimation of recent months that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh intended to renounce his American citizenship and become a British subject stirred new conjecture today on the flier's future plans.

The latest report came from a professional source associated with Lindbergh, and was neither confirmed nor denied elsewhere. The informant declined to permit use of his name.

I HEARD - - -

Roy McMullen reporting sale of season tickets to home football games on the wane and urging Pampans to buy now before all the good center-stand seats are gone.

Someone call the NEWS with the startling statement that mosquitoes were swarming over his lawn and eating the grass. (No wonder he wouldn't give his name).

May Not be All Smiles Tonight

President Roosevelt, shown above in his most recent picture, may not be all smiles tonight when he speaks to the nation at 8:30 p. m. (Pampa time). His subject will be the Constitution, and a hint of his future course on judiciary changes is expected. The grin colossal, even for a face noted for its grins, is due to be supplanted by a grim look of determination as he takes the offensive again. At the moment the above picture was taken the president was listening in on a meeting at Hyde Park, N. Y., of the Roosevelt Home club composed of his supporters.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—The nation celebrated today the 150th anniversary of the signing of the federal constitution amid controversy reminiscent of that which raged around the historic document at its birth.

President Roosevelt, whose proposal for reorganizing the Supreme Court instigated the present day constitutional dispute, will be the chief spokesman at the nation's official celebration tonight.

His speech, scheduled for 9:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, was awaited with widespread interest for a hint of his future course on judiciary changes.

Borah Praises Document.
Observance of the event was begun last night by Senator Borah (R., Idaho), who told a Masonic audience: "Constitutional government is the only government which, in restoring the economic welfare of the people, at the same time preserves their rights and their liberty."

He made no specific mention of the President's court program, but asserted: "Until the people speak, until the people make known their desire, the constitution is sacredly binding."

MARVIN JONES GIVES TEN-SPOT TO ARMY

Rep. Marvin Jones, Panhandle congressman, who spoke here yesterday at a luncheon honoring him for his services to the people of the 18th district, is a believer in the work done by the Salvation Army.

At the luncheon, Envoy Frederick M. Lange, of the Salvation Army was introduced. Envoy Lange thanked Pampans for their support of the local drive now under way.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, the congressman hunted up the Salvation Army official, told him of the esteem in which he held the organization, and then reached into his pocket and handed the envoy a $10-dollar bill to help the Pampa campaign along.

CORN SOARS 7 CENTS BUSHEL IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP)—September corn skyrocketed almost 7 cents a bushel today as the deadlock between opposing speculative interests in the grain market tightened.

While board of trade and commodity exchange officials probed recent dealings in the corn market for evidence of price manipulation, "shorts," or previous sellers of September contracts were "squeezed" again as the price vaulted to $1.16 a bushel.

BLOODY LANE AT ANTIETAM REMEMBERED

ANTIETAM BATTLEFIELD, Md., Sept. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today the nation during the past four years has been "not only acting but also thinking in national terms for the first time since the Civil War."

He spoke at exercises commemorating the 75th anniversary of the bloody conflict here in which union soldiers turned back the southern forces on the "bloodiest day of the Civil War."

Thousands of spectators, among them a handful of civil war veterans, converged upon Antietam battlefield to hear the President speak and to witness a re-enactment of the costly conflict which forces of the north and south waged near here September 17, 1862.

National guard troops moved into the area yesterday to take the part of Gen. George B. McClellan's 87,000 federalists and Gen. Robert E. Lee's 35,000 confederates.

The re-enactment centered on the "bloody lane" sector, where 5,000 men fell in a few minutes. The federalists finally took the sunken lane from the confederates at great cost to both sides.

Depicting the "sectionalism" and "misunderstanding" engendered by the era of reconstruction following the civil war and contrasting it with the national spirit of today, the President said:

"Deeply we appreciate that the distress or difficulty of any one part of the union adversely affects each and every other part. We stand ready in all parts to lend a helping hand to those Americans who need it most."

Decisive Engagement
He dismissed discussions of the "rights and the wrongs" of the civil war, telling the commemorative throng, "we can but wish that the war had never been."

The President's speech, in part: "We know that Antietam was one of the decisive engagements of the

Liberty Fetes Constitution

Have you ever seen the Statue of Liberty's torch ablaze before? Then just look how the smoke pours from it above. The occasion was the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution. Army and Navy color guards join to present the colors on the parapet of the statue's pedestal, Bedloe's Island, New York harbor.

Leads Ticket... Runs Second... Eliminated

Jeremiah T. Mahoney, left, scored a victory for the New Deal and a bitter defeat for Tammany yesterday, in defeating U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland, right, for the democratic nomination for the Mayor of New York. Fiorello LaGuardia, middle, also pro-New Deal, won the Republican nomiation over Copeland who was entered in both Republican and Democratic primaries. Mahoney and LaGuardia will fight it out in the general election.

FARLEY FRIEND LEADS TICKET OVER FOR FOE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—The New Deal won a smashing double victory over Tammany in New York City's mayoralty primaries. Tammany's candidate, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, New Deal foe, was defeated in both the Democratic and Republican primaries, today's count of yesterday's election showed.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, head of an anti-Tammany Fusion movement and also a friend of the new deal, wrested the Republican nomination from Tammany's candidate by more than 30,000 votes.

Jeremiah T. Mahoney, choice of James A. Farley as candidate of an anti-Tammany, New Deal coalition, defeated Copeland for the Democratic nomination by more than 100,000 votes.

Latest totals were:
Democratic—Mahoney 411,548, Copeland 240,140, LaGuardia (write ins) 55,837. (63 election districts missing.)
Republican—LaGuardia 79,862, Copeland 46,560. (46 districts missing.)

To add insult to injury, more than 50,000 registered Democrats, without any organized backing, wrote in the name of LaGuardia on Democratic ballots.

New Deal's triumph and Tammany's defeat may be even more marked than now appears, inasmuch as results in more than 10 percent of the election districts in Tammany's stronghold, were strangely withheld.

The defeat is considered by some Tammany leaders to be the most crushing their organization has ever received for Tammany leader Christopher D. Sullivan, Copeland, and their chief adviser in the campaign, former governor Alfred E. Smith, were determined to administer a lesson to both LaGuardia and President Roosevelt's New Deal administration.

Get No Patronage
Tammany's satchels have rankled because neither LaGuardia's local Fusion administration, nor the national Democratic administration, have seen fit to hand out patronage to Tammany's favorites.

More trouble is in store for Tammany, because Mahoney, with the skills coaching of Farley, who now sways the Democratic committees of the other four boroughs of the city, is expected to conduct a war of attrition against Sullivan, Smith, and their allies in the present Tammany leadership.

Tammany is threatened with still another beating in the general election November 2, when, on the face of the showing made in the primary election, she appears almost certain to surrender her last grip on her more than a century's rule of New York City politics, when an automatic reappointment takes place under proportional representation. Brooklyn, which has shown itself today anti-Tammany by a heavy margin, will thereafter control city legislation.

David B. Costuma, Republican member of the election commission, said the entire primary election might be invalidated. He said that in his opinion the closing of 114 polling booths in Harlem and the upper west side because of the exhaustion of the inspectors before the ballots all were counted constituted a violation of the election laws.

ITALIANS BETRAYED BY BRITISH, PAPER CLAIMS

ROME, Sept. 17 (AP)—The controlled Italian press charged today that Italy had been betrayed by British diplomatic maneuvering at Nyon, where nine powers drafted a war against piracy in the Mediterranean with British and French war fleets in charge.

Italy was offered only a secondary role in the anti-piracy patrol, and the press held today that dominance by Franco-British warships is a "fine and proper naval demonstration, perhaps a dress rehearsal of cooperation by the two fleets in future war."

I SAW - - -

Friends of Mrs. Frank Allison laughing as she told this one which she says is positively true: last night a man who may or may not have been slightly intoxicated telephoned for a taxi to come pick him up at the entrance of a local hotel. The taxi arrived soon, and the man said to the driver, "take me to the hotel," and he called the name of the hotel, "the entrance of which he was standing. The man got into the taxi. The driver drove around to the other entrance, opened the door, collected his fare, and the fellow went back into the hotel.

Three Bullets Kill 'Lightning,' Negro; Pampan Held in Jail

THREE UNHURT IN COLLISION

Although one automobile rolled over three times, and the other toppled end-on-end once, nobody was hurt when cars driven by Eli Cassidy, of Pampa, and R. N. Royse, of Jericho, collided last evening on the Clarendon-hy two miles from the Pampa city limits.

Cassidy was driving west and Royse was driving south, accompanied by his wife. The accident happened in front of the home of Charles Barrett on the Clarendon-hy.

Deputy Sheriff George Imman, who investigated the accident, reported that all three persons involved in the collision had a miraculous escape from death when the two cars met at the road intersection.

Wade Garrison was slightly injured when the car he was driving was in collision with a truck driven by Fred C. Fisher ten miles north of McLean on the Pampa-McLean highway about 5:30 o'clock yesterday evening.

The truck was headed west and Garrison was driving south when the two reached the highway intersection at the same time. Both cars were damaged. Garrison was brought to a doctor's office in Pampa where his wounds were dressed.

BRITISH, FRENCH AGAIN SLAP HITLER, IL DUCE

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Britain today ended the unsuccessful non-intervention patrol of Spain to make available her full quota of warships for the "more important task" of driving pirate attackers from the Mediterranean.

France joined in the decision. The foreign office announced the end of the patrol, formed by the 27-nation nonintervention committee in an effort to keep arms and men from either side in the Spanish civil war.

The decision to end the patrol, carried on by French and British warships after Germany and Italy withdrew in anger because of attacks against their ships last June, was considered a new rebuff to Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The withdrawal of warships now on duty to patrol Spain to strengthen the pirate control, foreign observers believed, merely would add to the Italian-German resentment.

The decision was called a major change in policy on the part of Britain, marking perhaps a stiffer attitude against piracy and dissent in the Mediterranean, and came as the Nyon powers met in Geneva to discuss warfare against surface ships and aircraft as well as pirate submarines.

Willie Allen, local negro, better known as "Lightning," died before reaching a local hospital last night about 7 o'clock following an altercation in front of the Schaefer hotel on West Foster avenue during which three shots were fired.

City police officers arrested J. C. "Curly" Lewis in connection with the shooting. No charges have been filed due to the absence from the city of County Attorney Joe Gordon. However, District Attorney Lewis Goodrich of Shamrock was to come to Pampa this afternoon to prepare charges according to Police Chief Art Hurst, who is holding Lewis in the city jail.

The three bullets, fired from a 38 caliber pistol, entered Allen's body, two through the left side about an inch apart and one through the right side.

Although no statements have been taken, it is believed self defense will be claimed. Police have in their possession a knife, allegedly belonging to the negro, who is porter at the hotel, and the gun.

Witnesses of the shooting included Wayne Nicholson, E. E. Durrow, D. L. Swan and Charles Anderson, 12-year-old boy.

Allen, who has resided here several years, is survived by his wife and a daughter, Effie. The body is at the G. C. Malone Funeral home.

Police were called to the "flats" later in the evening to investigate cutting in which Edwin M. Mcfield, negro, was badly cut about the hands, chest and one leg. They were unable to find the woman alleged to have wielded the knife but this morning she was picked up by officers of the sheriff's department. No charges have been filed.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR JAPS REACH YANGTZE

SHANGHAI, Sept. 17 (AP)—Additional Japanese reinforcements for the halted drive against the Chinese defense line were reported today to have been landed on the lower reaches of the Yangtze river. A Japanese spokesman declared the troops had already started advancing inland.

Foreign military observers believed this foreshadowed an imminent major campaign for the Shanghai area on the south side of the Whangpoo river.

The continued rainy weather, reducing visibility almost to zero, was holding up major operations in the sector. Sporadic air raids and artillery fire to the north where the new Chinese line has been established were the only operations in progress today.

A Japanese army spokesman insisted that Chinese reports of yesterday's capture of Lotien, 15 miles northwest of Shanghai, were false.

JAPS SQUEEZE AMERICA FROM ISLANDS MARKET

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 17 (AP)—America's declining cotton textile shipments to the Philippines dwindled to a mere 26 per cent of the total imported by the islands last year, the Philippine-nited States joint preparatory committee was told today.

The committee, investigating economic phases of forthcoming Philippine independence, was told Japanese manufacturers have steadily squeezed Americans from a virtual monopoly of the market in the last ten years.

DRIVE CLOSES TUESDAY NIGHT

Pampa's Salvation Army fund drive will close next Tuesday night, it was announced today by Arthur Teed, chairman of the Army advisory board.

Chairman Teed issued an appeal to all fund solicitors to contact their prospects tonight, tomorrow or Monday, so that every team worker can have his final report in by Monday at 5 p. m.

All workers, Mr. Teed said, are asked to turn in their final report not later than that hour. A complete financial check will be made at that time, and then a special follow-up committee will go out Tuesday to wind up the drive.

Envoy Frederick M. Lange, here to assist the advisory board members in the drive, stated last night that he was highly appreciative of the reception that has been given to the drive by Pampans.

Another $250 had been added to the fund today, making it still about $1,000 short of the $3,800 goal. Reports should be made before 5 p. m. each day at the city commissioners' room in city hall, Mr. Teed stated.

'HEN PARTY' PROMISED REFORM SCHOOL GIRLS

TECUMSEH, Okla., Sept. 17 (AP)—Promise of a "hen party" brought partial consolation today to Tecumseh's industrial school "honorary girls" saddened by a temporary ban on "date nights."

Mrs. Creighton Burnham, superintendent, who originated the "date night" plan on the theory male companions would help the girls develop poise, declared plans for tonight's third party would not go for naught.

Mrs. Mabel Bassett, Oklahoma's grandmother commissioner of charities and corrections, placed the ban on "date nights" yesterday but L. M. Nichols, state board of affairs chairman, said they would merely be postponed pending an investigation.

PRETTY BLONDE VALUED AT $5,000 PER BITE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17 (AP)—Pretty blondes are valued in superior court here at $5,000 a bite—in case you should want to eat one.

Elonore Lorraine Llewellyn thought she was worth $60,600 a bite. Attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. William F. Wilson, whose bulldog Miss Llewellyn said did the tasting, intimated blondes should be served free.

SILVERTON GIRL NOW IN SCHOOL FOR BLIND

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 17 (AP)—Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind today had the largest aggregation of doubly-handicapped children believed ever gathered in one place with the arrival of Dovie Mae Yocum, 15, of Silverton, Texas.

Dovie Mae lost her sight and hearing when she was 11 but retained her speech.

Special Interests Back of Propaganda, Says Jones

WOULD REPEAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM HERE

Charging that a recent article in a national magazine, apparently intended to depict horrors of the dust bowl area of America, is only a propaganda on the part of special interests, Congressman Marvin Jones addressed a Chamber of Commerce luncheon here yesterday and expressed an infinite faith in the future of the Panhandle of Texas as one of the greatest lands of opportunity in the nation.

"That article you may have read in the magazine recently," he said, "is a bit of sly propaganda to try to destroy the restoration program that has been mapped for this section of the country—a program over which these special interests will have no control."

"They are trying to make it appear that this country isn't worth reclaiming," Mr. Jones stated that the new pond and lakes program for the Southwest offers the people of the Panhandle the greatest opportunity ever given to any one section of the nation.

"If this program is worked out on a sound basis, not hurried, and receives the whole-hearted cooperation of your citizenry, your people will be able to make the most out of it," the congressman said.

Mr. Jones added: "This is a peculiar country we have here between the highlands of Colorado and the lowlands of Texas. For the Panhandle there has been an average rainfall of 20 inches for the past 20 years."

"Properly handled and properly utilized this rainfall is sufficient to make the most productive section to be found anywhere in the country."

"It is a fact, Mr. Jones stated, that approximately 80 per cent of the rainfall at present is running off and flowing away."

"The success of this great ponds and lakes program over here depends entirely upon the way you handle it. It will take a great deal of cooperation from all of you," Mr. Jones continued. "It takes time to build, I believe in this country and in its future."

"If this program is carried out properly we can make of this great southwest a country of which we can be so proud that we will want to build a fence around it and check up on everybody who wants to get in."

More than 200 Pampans and visitors from surrounding towns heard the congressman's remarks, broadcast over KPDN, and joined at 11 a. m. morning worship.

The golden text is: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God" (Leviticus 19:4).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "O Lord our God, other lords beside Thee have had dominion over us: but by Thee only will we make mention of Thy name" (Isaiah 23:19).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "That matter is substantial or has life and sensation, is one of the false beliefs of mortals, and exists only in a supposititious mortal consciousness. Hence, as we approach spirit and truth, we lose the consciousness of matter" (page 278).

Cigaret Company Accused by Texan

AUSTIN, Sept. 17 (AP)—State Rep. C. L. Harris of Spur contended today a cigarette manufacturing company was encouraging Texans through advertising to make their purchases in another state and escape Texas taxes.

Harris said if the practice was not stopped he would offer a legislative resolution requesting the company to discontinue it and if that had no effect, propose a one-cent tax increase.

Sani Kimberlin, head of the cigarette tax division, said he knew of one dealer soliciting mail orders but that it had had little effect on collections.

GRENEY DRUG STORE

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNE MADDOX

Years ago one of the best housewives of Okmulgee, Okla., sent a recipe for cantaloupe butter to the editor of the Okmulgee Daily Times. Like all shrewd editors, he knew that good food is spot news. So the recipe was published. That was years ago. Last month an old resident recalled that cantaloupe butter. But she had forgotten the recipe. She wrote to Joseph N. Croom, managing editor. Mr. Croom couldn't remember either, so he printed an SOS in his paper and pronto—rushing into his sanctum came over 60 recipes for cantaloupe butter, including the original one. Below is printed the historical recipe that first made Okmulgee cantaloupe butter famous.

Peel and dice cantaloupe. To one pound of cantaloupe add 2-3 pound sugar, 1-4 lemon sliced thin, including rind, and 1-4 teaspoon ground nutmeg tied in a bag. Cook over a very slow fire, stirring frequently, until the mixture is clear, very heavy and thick. Seal at once in hot sterilized jars.

The result, according to Mrs. J. A. Mosley, who rediscovered the recipe, is a golden yellow butter with a delicious cantaloupe taste.

Cantaloupe Conserve Ingredients 3 cantaloupes, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup water, 1 orange, 2 lemons.

Peel and cut the cantaloupe fine. Make a thick syrup of sugar and water. Dice lemons and orange fine. Cook orange, lemons and cantaloupe in syrup until clear. Then put in hot sterilized jars at once and seal. Okmulgee must have a hive of melon magicians. Among many others, there is Mrs. George W. Caperton who wrote to Mr. Croom the amazing news that she could not only make cantaloupe butter, but also pumpkin butter, watermelon preserves, cantaloupe preserves and such things. And she proves her claim to distinction by this recipe for muskmelon butter.

Muskmelon Butter Select ripe melons, cut in halves, remove rind, seeds and soft part. Place melons in preserving kettle with as little water as possible, just enough to cover melons. Boil until tender. Press through colander and measure pulp. To each quart of pulp, add 1-2 cup sugar, juice of half a lemon, and a little cinnamon, if desired. Boil until mixture is thick enough to spread (about 5 minutes), stirring constantly to prevent burning. Pack the hot butter into jars and seal immediately.

All the above will explain why your food editor is hoping to receive an invitation from Mr. Croom of the Okmulgee Daily Times to stop off sometime and sit in at a typical Okmulgee home dinner. People who know how to treat cantaloupe so handsomely must be nice folks.

JAPAN BREAKS SILENCE TOKYO, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Japanese government broke its long official silence today on the munitions embargo declared by the United States against both Japan and China. The foreign office spokesman declared: "The Roosevelt munitions embargo is interpreted here as an effort by the United States government to avoid entanglement in the far eastern situation and it is generally supposed here it will render invocation of the neutrality act unnecessary."

NEW SKULL DISEASE MYSTERY OF SCIENCE

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP)—A new skull disease which is a complete mystery to science was reported today to the fifth international congress of radiology.

Dr. Sherwood Moore of St. Louis, Mo., declared that he had found the bone disease in the X-ray pictures of 229 people out of 6,650 he had examined intensively, he could find no cause for its development and only partial treatment.

It is known as "hysterosis" of four kinds and its chief symptom is a tremendous thickening of the skull—sometimes five times the normal bony covering of the brain. Sometimes it also greatly enlarges the bones at the base of the skull and may create pressure on the brain.

This disease should always be suspected in any person who is abnormally fat, Dr. Moore told radiologists attending the closing meeting of the congress, but this does not indicate that more than a small percentage of fat people have it.

Other symptoms include headache, muscular weakness and fatigue, mental depression, nervousness, convulsive seizures, demented mentality, disturbances of gait and speech and oftentimes neuritis.

The only treatment now available, he added, is relief of the fat condition and the muscular weakness. Surgery has aided in some cases and in one case a patient was benefited by x-ray treatment of the pituitary gland located at the base of the skull.

QUESTIONNAIRES TO BE SENT IN JOB CENSUS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration is arranging a little piece of home work for the nation's unemployed this fall.

Officials said today the forthcoming unemployment census, first of its kind, probably will be handled by mailing simple understandable questionnaires to all the 30,000,000 American homes.

Only a few questions will be asked, authorities said. They will be designed to gather only such information as degree of unemployment, ability to work, skill, and former occupations of the registrants.

Advisers to John D. Biggers of Toledo, O., who accepted the directorship of the census yesterday, said the great majority of unemployed could fill in the questionnaires in their homes.

In some areas, where large numbers are illiterate or speak only foreign languages, special registration officials may be set up. Census workers, some of whom could act as interpreters, may aid the jobless in preparing their registrations.

STATE TRAINING SCHOOL DATE NIGHTS ABOLISHED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 17 (AP)—"Date nights" at the Oklahoma State Training School for Girls at Tecumseh were ordered abolished today by Mrs. Mabel Bassett, commissioner of charities and corrections.

"They were not considered conducive to the welfare of the girls," Mrs. Bassett said.

Two "date nights" have been held at the institution, administered by Mrs. Creighton Burnham, and another was scheduled for tomorrow night. One wedding has resulted.

Under Mrs. Burnham's plan, inmates with the best records are rated as "honor students" and live in an "honor cottage" where the date night parties have been held.

The parties have attracted national attention.

CONSTITUTION REFLECTS NATION'S FAITH, IDEALS

Perhaps the most encouraging thing about the Constitution of the United States is the fact that after living under it for 150 years we are still arguing about its precise meaning.

That means that the document is flexible. Being flexible, it is adaptable to changing times. Because this is true, it can obey that inexorable law of nature—"adapt or die."

That fact is a good one to keep in mind this fall, as we celebrate the Constitution's sesquicentennial.

We might save ourselves a good deal of argument about "horse and buggy days" and the fact that the founding fathers did not foresee this era of sea-to-sea highways, giant corporations, mass production and so on. For while it is quite true that the country for which the Constitution was devised contained none of those things, it is equally true that that does not necessarily make any difference. They gave us a Constitution which is not rigid and inanimate, but supple and alive.

It is easy to lose sight of the goal which the founding fathers sought to reach. Fundamentally, they were simply trying to make certain that their America would continue to be a democracy, a land of freedom and of equal opportunity, where men could live without butting their heads against the injustices and stupid cruelties inseparable from authoritarian regimes. They had a pretty clear idea about the things that had been fought for and won in the American revolution, and they wanted those things preserved.

During the century and a half since they finished their work, the Constitution has done its part nobly. Those goals of freedom, democracy and equality have in large measure been attained, not perfectly, perhaps—for perfection is rare in human undertakings—but very substantially. And the very fact that the country has existed for a century and a half under this Constitution is the best guarantee that it will continue under it in the future.

A charter of freedom like our Constitution does not go on living of itself. It lives because it expresses ideals which are dear to the people who live under it. Our Constitution is rounding out 150 years of service because the American people are and have been determined to remain free. The Constitution is merely the instrument through which they make their determination effective.

It is no blind subservience to the written word that makes us revere our Constitution, nor is it an unthinking obedience to the dead hand of the past. It is a reflection of the ideal that animates us, of the faith by which we order our society. As long as we are true to that ideal and that faith, we need not fear for the Constitution's continued good health.

Washington Letter

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON—These sob-stories of self-sacrificing federal officials who stay on the job while high-priced positions await them on the outside will bear looking into.

There is no doubt that some are offered better positions; and when they stay on to "work for the President" through the election period or a session of congress, they lose money. But the losses are well balanced by personal benefits gained from their service for the government.

James Landis, chairman of the securities exchange commission, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, are the latest pair to quit the government to contest for bacon and eggs in the outside world. The government will miss them, and it has been stated that the hole left by McGrady in the labor department will be particularly hard to fill.

It should be written at once that both Landis and McGrady are the grandest sort of individuals. They are the kind you would like to have for friends for life. But Landis and McGrady cannot write in the honest privacy of their diaries that they served the federal government at a tragic sacrifice to their welfare.

Tex's Topics

Congressman Marvin Jones is of the opinion that the best way to answer gross exaggerations, such as appeared in the recent dust bowl article in a national magazine, is to give them the life and air treatment. . . . The world is full of so much seriousness, he believes, that you just have to take somebody to town by the burlesque route once in a while. . . . And, don't ever fool yourself that the Panhandle representative in Congress isn't talking cold turkey when he tells you that he has faith that the Panhandle of Texas offers the greatest opportunities of any section of the nation. . . . He means it, and he has a plan to make it come to realization.

Agricultural department, thru tests completed to satisfaction of official testers, has decided hog's right ham is just as tender as left. . . . question was old one, growing out of theory that hog exercises right leg more, toughening it. . . . Clerical salaries paid in New York average $30.89 a week, it was shown in survey of 297 businesses of many types. . . . weekly salaries as low as $9.50 are paid for clerical help. . . . but one chief clerk gets $575 a week.

Another feather in woman's bonnet. . . . 11 of Connecticut's 19 lookout towers in forest areas are "manned" by women. . . . officials say feminine sex does better job of watching for blazes in the wilderness than men. . . . Tourist agencies in England report cross-Channel week-end traffic is more than double what it was in 1936. . . . on one Saturday between 25,000 and 30,000 people left England for France, Switzerland, Germany, and Belgium. . . . Swiss are drawing heavily.

German army is being put in degree on vegetable diet. . . . because there isn't enough meat in Germany. . . . at same time Nazi propaganda is getting Austrians on vegetable diet. . . . leaving more meat to export to Germany. . . . but ruining Austrian butchers. . . . Rookie state patrolman in Virginia—so secretary of police says—stopped tourist car which was several inches out of right highway lane, demanded, "Where are you from?" "Cincinnati," replied the tourist. Rookie: "Then why the Ohio tags on your car?"

Two little daughter of England's king, Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, will receive a letter soon, telling them that two trees have been named after them at Kuala Lumpur, in the Federated Malay States. . . . For the first time in 10 years, Mrs. C. F. Taylor is wearing her wedding ring. . . . 10 years ago she lost the ring in sand at beach at Port Huron, Mich. . . . this summer children playing in sand found it.

Before the age of 12, says correspondent from Shanghai, both Chinese and Japanese have fixed in their consciousness conviction of the other's inferiority. . . . there is Japanese tradition (disproved) that Chinese will always run. . . . For every Japanese there are five Chinese. . . . China having 400,000,000 people. . . . and although Japan rules province of Manchukuo, 30,000,000 Chinese make up nine-tenths of its population.

The "long cabin" of Italy's Ethiopian pioneering is a metal house, which can be set up, knocked down little later, moved somewhere else. . . . 600,000 Italian volunteers for labor are working, at $3 a day. . . . $2 they can send home. . . . Remember the Ethiopian belles you used to see pictured before Italian conquest? . . . they now wear Japanese silk pajamas instead of native robes, brilliantine on hair instead of rancid butter. . . . Makale has whole section of them.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO
After starting uncertainly in the first quarter, the Pampa Harvesters hit their stride in the second half to score the only touchdown of the game and thereafter they out-played the heavy class A Quanah eleven.

The Thut-Saunders Motor company was the reorganized firm handling a full line of Studebaker automobiles in Pampa. The company was composed of Henry Thut and Horace Saunders, members of pioneer Gray county families.

FIVE YEARS AGO
Plans were made for Pampa's hundreds of school children to participate in a city-wide safety program sponsored by the Kiwanis club through the Junior police movement.

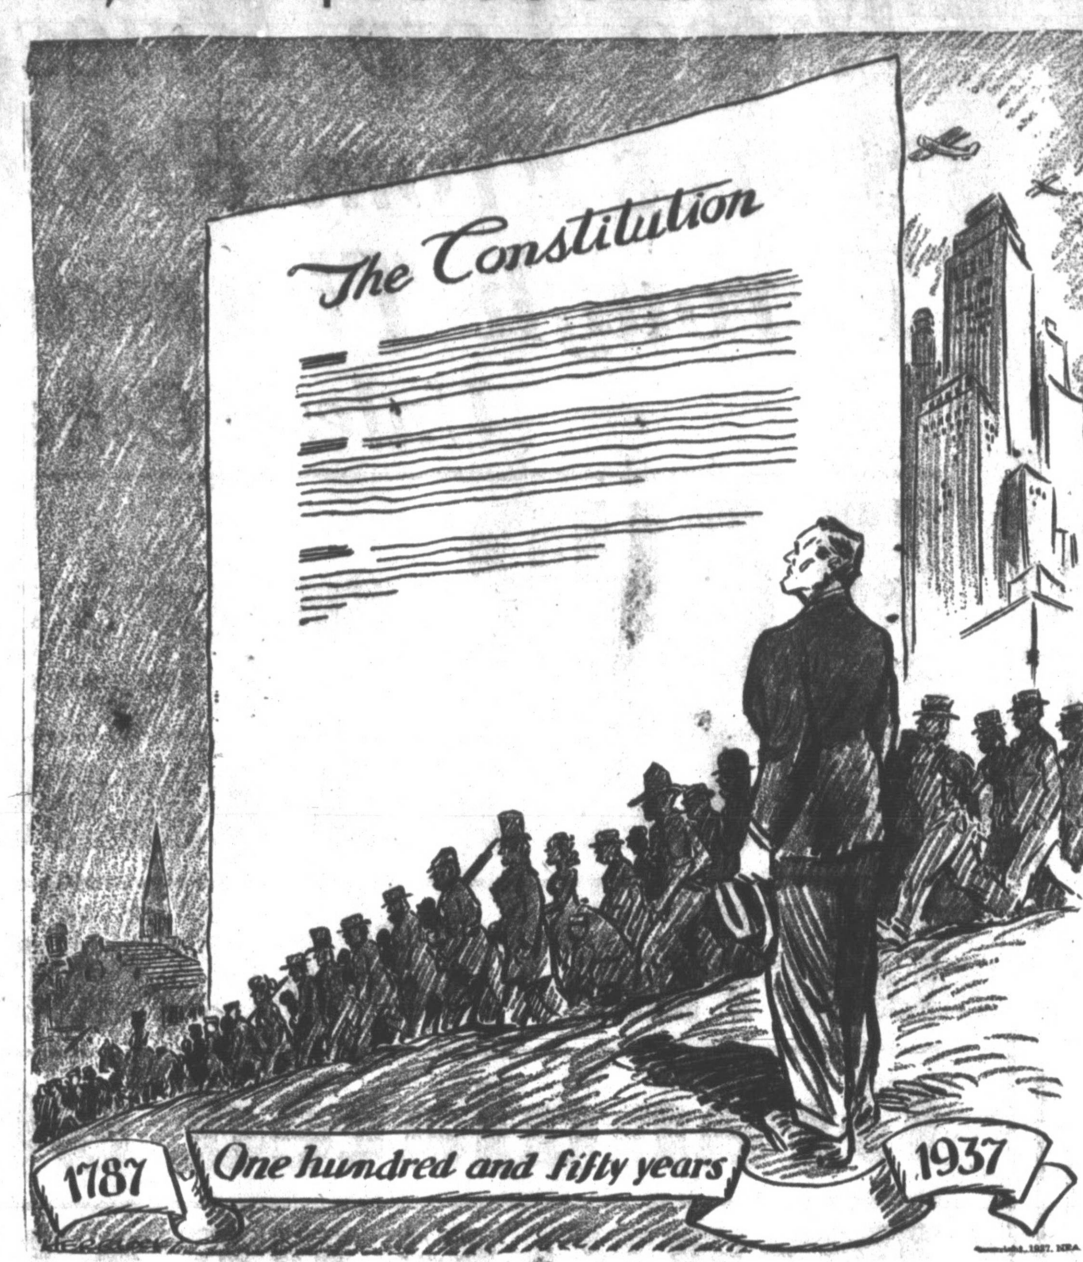

ation of America had to pay to get him as its labor relations man. But the offer came after his government service, not before.

Much the same can be said of Landis. He never had an extensive private practice; so he didn't give up a $100,000 a year law business to help the government out of a hole. He was so bright as a Harvard law student that Justice Brandeis chose him as his law clerk, a distinction that means something even in these court-baiting days. But justices are allowed only $5,600 for office assistance, and that sum usually must include pay for a stenographer.

From that job Landis went back to Harvard as assistant professor of law. He made a rapid climb and was professor of legislation when, in 1933, the government invited him to help write the securities act. The government paid him $10,000 a year. That is more than teaching usually pays.

Landis and McGrady are not the only ones who often have been pictured as sacrificing time and lucra for dear old government. But with few suggestions, the government got them because it paid more than they were getting before.

'We, the People of the United States--'

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Joan Bennett is a fragile young woman with innocent eyes and a school-girl complexion, yet she doesn't hesitate to lash out at her tormentors if she feels the occasion demands it.

I have in mind a recent party which Walter Wanger gave in the studio apartment atop Radio City. So many celebrities attended that fashion editors had their photographers on hand to get some pictures of the stars in their new fall creations.

The studio is sumptuously appointed, with an extraordinarily appealing bar for the convenience of thirsty guests. As a gay throng crowded about this bar, a news photographer asked Miss Bennett if she would pose.

"Don't take my picture with a glass in my hand," she instructed him, hurriedly setting down a glass of champagne.

However, later the photographer caught her in a convivial pose and, being under orders from a hard-boiled city editor, shot the scene without giving it a thought. In this scene Miss Bennett had a glass of water or something.

She set the glass down. She advanced upon her now slightly alarmed lensman. "Give me that plate," she cried.

Hearing this, host Walker Wanger interceded for his guest. "This is an outrage—give me that plate at once," he demanded.

To the surprise of onlookers, the photographer drew out the plate and handed it to Wanger.

"You are getting soft," a colleague jeered later. "I would never have given him the plate."

"I didn't," he explained, "but why create a stir and ruin the party when everybody should be having fun? All I did was hand him an empty plate."

Broadway's currently successful producers have not inspired such fanciful legends and tag-lines as the late Ziegfeld and Belasco commanded, yet the theater is rocking along in accepted fashion.

In the old days no one mentioned Flo without calling him the "Great Glorifier" or the "Czar of Show Girls" . . . and sentimental, white-haired Belasco was always "the high priest of the theater."

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

It was just before the Pre-Centennial parade of 1934 started on South Cuyler. The manager of the parade had a Confederate uniform and a flag flaunting the Stars and Bars, but he had no one to wear the uniform.

no one to carry the flag. It looked as if the parade would start without a memory of the Confederacy in its ranks. But at that moment there came a little old man with a gray beard and merry blue eyes, riding up on a pony equally as spry and merry.

The bands were playing and the old man couldn't hear a word when he was asked if he would wear the uniform, but he nodded his head anyway, and they went to a nearby supply house and changed clothes.

And that old man with the merry blue eyes was the hit of the parade as he carried the flag of the Lost Cause. He was too young to fight in "that war" of the 1860's, but he might as well have been in it because he helped haul supplies to the soldiers.

Today that man, W. S. Wilson of 1315 Duncan street, is celebrating his 90th birthday. He is the father of Miriam Wilson, Gray county district clerk. He was born in Texas in 1847 and is the oldest Gray county resident born in Texas.

Two or three years ago he suffered a stroke but up to that time he was the leading horseback rider in the county. A center from his home at LeFlore, Ala., because he helped haul supplies to the soldiers.

His health now is fairly good but the stroke left him a "little off-balance on his feet," he says. So here are most honorable congratulations of the first water, and here is sincere admiration, and here is a friendly hand to Mr. Wilson on his 90th birthday. May he have at least ten more.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M.D.

ATHLETICS AND HEART STRAIN
Can the heart be strained by violent exercise?

Most authorities say no.

The idea that following strenuous efforts the heart may become permanently enlarged—that is, dilated or "stretched"—is not upheld by careful functional and X-ray studies of athletes' hearts. On the contrary, it has been found that following strenuous efforts, the hearts of well trained athletes are actually a little smaller than they were previously.

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Love, which in Hollywood is news when it isn't all a movie is about, is becoming anathema in movie titles. A year ago a title like "Love Without Reason" would have been a humdinger. Today Hal Roach is offering a prize to a studio worker who thinks up a substitute without "love" in it.

Love alone—just "Love" has been a title only twice. That's what they called "Anna Karenina" the first time they made it. But "love" in combination with other tricks has been a title 155 times—not counting the "Lovers" and "Loving" and "Loves." And that is up to the last official count, not including this year's releases, wherein titulary speaking love has been:

News, on Toast, under Fire, in a Basement, in a Bungalow, from a Stranger, Like That, etc., etc., to say nothing of Love in such combinations as "Danger—Love at Work," "Ladies in Love" and the forthcoming "Live, Love and Learn" and "Love and Hisses."

It's a case of Too Much Love, which incidentally hasn't been used for a title—yet. But there's a very good opening for a few Hates. Hollywood hasn't had a mean title since 1922, when Metro made a picture called just "Hate."

The movie's opera stars (speaking of love) seem to be having a love feast these days. The Misses Pons, Moore, McDonald, and Swarthout were photographed together at the recent Basil Rathbone party, and it was supposed to be the first time in their mutual histories.

As if that weren't enough, Miss Lily Pons, her slim figure clad only in a handful of ostrich feathers and trinkets for her role of pseudo-jungle girl in her new film, was rehearsing bird trills from a prop-tree on her studio set when a huge package arrived. After the scene, a very funny business in which Jack Oakie, Lily's press agent, convinces Edward Everett Horton, a trophyless big game hunter, that Lily is a wild bird-girl or girl-bird worthy of capture.

Lily climbed down from her perch and went to her dressing room. Thence soon issued exclamations of delight, followed by Lily in person, towing a box taller than herself.

"Grace sent them—Grace Moore!" she beamed. "How sweet of her—we should take a picture. Lilies—how sweet!"

Miss Pons' picture, whether appropriately to the incident or not, is called "It Never Happened Before." At least it never happened before had the same press agent, which is the case now.

on the premise that the heart is normal, the rest of the constitution good, and the person is trained for hard effort. If and when these conditions do not prevail, strenuous exercise may indeed injure not only the heart, but numerous other parts and organs.

Possibly the reason why the belief prevails that hard physical effort "injuries the heart" is because many persons witness the untoward effects of strenuous exercise in those not physically fit and not well trained.

Brain Truster L. Douglas Advised Economy and Lost

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—The early New Dealers were a diverse lot of liberals, conservatives and radicals.

When Ray Moley finally went out of the government service, conservatives whooped loudly that this meant the President had turned to the "right." Today, big business men and millions of others consider the Roosevelt policies more radical than ever before.

By far the most significant early New Deal resignation was that of Budget Director Lew Douglas, an Arizona congressman whose personality and grasp of fiscal affairs had made him a Roosevelt favorite by the summer of 1932.

Douglas made a hard fight against the New Deal spending policy and lost. He believed the situation would correct itself if there were genuine successful efforts toward budget-balancing. He held to the old theory that the capitalist system had certain self-corrective forces which would work if much of the existing debt were wiped out. Policies, however, said more debt wouldn't be wiped out.

The spenders won and what the interesting results of the Douglas theory under 1933-34 conditions would have been, no one knows. But it was the habit of Douglas in the months before he quit to keep saying, "One day more to national bankruptcy, Mr. President."

Howe Was Always There

Lew's two chief accomplishments were the Economy act, hitting most at veterans and federal employees, and an inside campaign which monkey-wrenches the intended fast pump-priming wheel-turning, $3,300,000,000 public works drive.

Meanwhile, Louis Howe was living in the White House, a factor of great weight with Roosevelt. Gnomelike, he had been constantly at Roosevelt's side through the latter's long siege of paralysis. He was terribly jealous of all other presidential intimates. But he was expert at seeming to promise without actually doing so and he kept the brakes on Roosevelt, who is often impulsive.

He was chief of the White House secretariat. All politicians and lobbyists had to go through Louis and usually they didn't get through—certainly not unless they had something to offer.

The death of Howe may or may not have been harmful to Roosevelt. Howe was always cautious, bent only on promoting Roosevelt and keeping his place as the intimate companion. It is doubtful whether F. D. R. would ever have launched his court plan if Louis had been at his side.

Helped Moley Down

Howe presumably helped accomplish Moley's loss of power, which waned very slowly after the latter's change from the State to the Justice department, but the actual Moley-Roosevelt break didn't come until early in the 1936 campaign year. Always before, Moley had been the "first draft man," who under presidential directions had constructed the first model of each Roosevelt speech.

Suddenly he discovered that Dr. Stanley High, brought into White House counsels by White House Publicity Secretary Steve Early, had been given that job. Moley then withdrew from the New Deal entirely.

His last appearance in Washington was in a bitter attack on Roosevelt's pet court plan, before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Frankfurter's "Boys"

There were other early New Deal advisers. Prof. George Warren, ex-teacher of Henry Morgenthau, heavily influenced the administration's early gold policies after gentleman-farmer Morgenthau became secretary of the treasury, and for a time Roosevelt was sold on Warren's commodity dollar.

Felix Frankfurter, who had furnished legal brain trusters to the Hoover administration big business men and to Justices Holmes and Brandeis, was another important early influence. His "boys" from Harvard law school were and still are numerous within the New Deal, most important among them Tom Corcoran and Ben Cohen.

Frankfurter worked out many early New Deal policies and still keeps in touch with New Deal proteges. He was offered the solicitor-generalship. But for two years he has been almost entirely out of the Washington picture, consciously withdrawing lest he embarrass Roosevelt, with whom he occasionally speaks by telephone.

Book A Day

—By BRUCE CATTON

While the air is heavy with news of Chinese bombs, it is refreshing to read Carl Crow's account of some lighter and brighter sides of Chinese life—"400 Million Customers" (Harper's: $3).

Mr. Crow has managed an American advertising agency in Shanghai for 25 years. His great good humor and tolerance make him an excellent person to describe the enigmatic, seemingly ingenious yet often ingenious Chinese. He knows Chinese business men best—from office boy up—but as advertising touches upon many phases of living, a pretty well-rounded picture of life in Shanghai comes out in this series of entertaining experiences.

Ever since the days of Marco Polo those millions of potential customers have lured merchants. But many things make selling anything to the Chinese difficult. In the first place, they are unbelievably poor. Only about 10 per cent can read. Billboards convey picture messages, but one at least was suspected as a refuge for evil spirits and Mr. Crow had to set off $20 worth of fireworks on a lucky day to scare the devils away.

If you give free samples, the chances are you'll ruin the actual sale of your product for either the newboys clip the coupons and sell or the clerks themselves sell them. If you change the label on an established brand, the Chinese will no longer buy it. Even the literate can count the number of letters and he is sure to think you are cheating him into buying a substitute.

He suspects any effort at salesmanship. A salesman usually makes just one call at a tea house frequented by dealers in his line. Here he shows his samples under the table where he sits to drink tea, nibble watermelon seeds, and gossip about the market with his cronies. The volume of his business depends on the number of friends he has.

Even if you are not interested in advertising, even if things Oriental have no charm for you, you can get a lot of good hearty laughs out of Carl Crow's delightful book—D. S. E.

So They Say

All the protection we had was an American flag stretched in front of a smokestack.

—MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, speaking of American protection on the Whangpoo river.

I'll toss it away, if Jackie wants me to.

—FILM ACTRESS BETTY ORABLE, referring to her film career in connection with her engagement to Jackie Coogan.

I'll be awfully glad to see father, I'm nearly broke.

—JOHN ROOSEVELT, youngest son of the President, returning from Europe.

I would like to dedicate the last 10 years of my life to writing an autobiography, but I will never know where the period begins.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
FRISCILLA PIERCE—heroine, young woman attorney.
AMY KERR—Cilly's roommate and murderer's victim.
JIM KERRIGAN—Cilly's fiancé.
HARRY HUTCHINS—Amy's strange visitor.
SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Yesterday, alone in her apartment, after midnight, Cilly became increasingly alarmed when Amy fails to return from the rooftop. She recalls it would be terrifying up there in the darkness!

CHAPTER II

Cilly'd been up there once herself—to get a coat she had hanging out all day to air. You ran up the five flights of stairs—that was all right, for there were lights on every landing. But from there on it was No-Man's-land. You went up the other half-flight to the roof, and pushed the heavy iron door out. As you stepped out onto the roof, that door swung shut behind you with a bang—a loud, terrifying bang against the lonely silence on the roof.

Cilly was a courageous soul, but she had shuddered that first black moment after the door slammed behind her. There was nothing ahead but dark emptiness. The clothesline was just a few steps beyond the doorway, but in the darkness it seemed a mile away.

You picked your steps carefully, expecting any moment to trip over the raised platform under the lines; you held your hand out in front so that you wouldn't walk blindly into radio aerials. At every step you stumbled over a clothespin or a piece of rope.

There were the tall stacks, too: two from the furnace, and one from the incinerator which belched fire bristling into the black air above. At every step, you wondered just who or what lurked behind the next step. Not anything human, of course. You knew that.

If you met anyone on the roof, it would be poor old Mr. Johnson, the superintendent, dragged from his bed to check up on someone's aerial. And Mr. Johnson was a harmless soul.

But you didn't think of Mr. Johnson as you stepped out toward the clothesline. You thought of Dracula, and at every step you expected to see him before you, his black cape spread out, his like, ready to engulf you. You thought of Dracula, and quickened your steps so that you stumbled, and as you stumbled you felt the monster upon you.

You remembered all the stories you ever heard about ghosts that rise in graveyards at midnight. You remembered them all in the 10 or 20 seconds it took to cross from the heavy iron door to the clothesline. And because those 10 seconds seemed like 10 long, dreary years, you hurried as fast as you could; you grabbed that dress or coat down from the line with small regard for flying clothesline; and you fairly flew black to the big heavy door, lest Mr. Johnson come up and lock it for the night, and leave you out in that intense blackness until morning.

Thirty seconds it took, at the most, to rush over to that clothesline and back. You didn't linger. Cilly hadn't lingered, and Cilly was as brave as the average. Even a little more brave than Amy. Amy would not come home alone even when Cilly had to work late. She didn't like to be alone in the apartment. She said so.

No, Amy wasn't the sort to linger in the terrifying blackness of the roof at midnight—not if she were alone.

Then Amy wasn't alone. It was all poppycock about wanting to air her blue dress. Amy was going up on the roof to meet someone. Who?

Harry Hutchins had left 10 minutes earlier than Jim. Amy could have walked down to the vestibule if she wanted to be alone with him. And given Jim a few minutes to say goodnight to her, Cilly.

But Amy had waved Harry out with a nonchalant air, and she had waited around with Jim and Cilly. She didn't even excuse herself and pretend that she was going to bed. She just waited around until Jim left, and then she immediately got the bright idea of taking her blue dress up on the roof.

If she had wanted to go up there so badly, she'd have said to Harry: "Come up on the roof for a minute with me, will you? I want to air a dress." That would be the natural thing to do, instead of waiting around for Jim to leave, and following him out.

So Cilly was annoyed at Amy. Annoyed and not a little hurt. They had gotten along so happily together. Up until tonight, Amy had never shown any trace of selfishness or pettiness. Cilly had really loved her. Was Amy at last showing her true colors?

Cilly walked wearily over to the bed and removed the spread. There was no sense sitting up all night to worry about it. If Jim really

"Amy!" she cried. "Amy!" But Amy Kerr was beyond all hearing.

"Amy!" she cried. "Amy!" But Amy Kerr was beyond all hearing. Cared for her, he'd be back. And if he didn't, well, it was certainly much better to find him out before she married him. Much better. She wasn't a foolish schoolgirl. She could face a disappointment sensibly. Quite sensibly. Was ever a woman in love sensible, she wondered.

She brushed aside a tear savagely, and jumped into her twin bed.

Twelve-twenty, the tiny clock on the vanity said.

Let Amy stay up there all night if she wanted to. Let Amy take Jim Kerrigan if she wanted to. . . . Cilly was going to sleep.

But of course she didn't. As soon as her head touched the pillow, she knew that she wouldn't get to sleep for hours. When you're unhappy, sleep doesn't come immediately to slip you quietly into oblivion. You have to smooth out your thoughts first. You have to banish, ugly suspicions, and bitterness, and jealousy.

Cilly tried to do that. She honestly did try to realize that Amy was a dear, that she was honest and fair and altogether too kind-hearted to hurt anyone. Besides, Cilly told herself sternly: "You're a pretty poor sort to build up such a case against Jim the very first time another girl looks at him. What a jealous, nagging wife you'll be!"

Then, quite unexpectedly, she realized what had happened. She realized how utterly silly she had been. It was all so very simple. The big black door had slammed shut while Amy was hanging up her dress. Sunday was Mr. Johnson's day off, but he always returned about midnight and made the regular rounds of the house. He had locked Amy out!

All this time that she had been painting a devil in her imagination, Amy had been up on that terrifying roof alone—locked out!

Cilly jumped out of bed, slipped on her shoes without her stockings, and took her coat out of the closet. She'd go right up and unlatch the door. Poor Amy. . . .

Cilly stopped, clutching the coat in her hands. Her heart turned to ice in her breast. For the still night air was suddenly shattered by a wild, terrifying cry—the deathly, agonized cry of a human being.

Shrill and high-pitched, it pierced the midnight quiet for an eternal second, then died down to a rasping, choking murmur. A moment of silence followed—a silence so intense that it could be felt in every nerve.

Then there was a dull thud outside Cilly's bedroom window—a heavy, swift thud, as if something had fallen a long way. . . .

In an instant, Cilly was at the window, and as she looked out, she forgot the six-foot drop to the ground, she forgot that she was clad only in pajamas and shoes. She jumped quickly; she knelt beside that crushed, broken figure that had come hurtling from the roof.

"Amy!" she cried. "Amy!" But Amy Kerr was beyond all hearing.

Vaguely, Cilly was conscious of windows being raised along the street, of heads craning out, inquiring the trouble. She looked down at this twisted, broken body that had only a few minutes ago been a lovely, lively girl. Amy still clutched the blue dress in one hand. The other hand, clenched in the terror of death, slowly re-

Embargo Not Ordered On Cotton, Shipments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—High government officials passed along the word today that there is no present prospect of an embargo on cotton shipments to Japan and China.

The question of whether cotton should be adjudged an implement of war—and automatically banned as cargo for government-owned vessels—is up to the munitions control board, they said.

That board, it was specifically added, has undertaken no study which could lead to such a decision. Secretary Roper had spoken yesterday of a commerce department survey to determine what part the staple is playing in the Sino-Japanese conflict. Cotton can be used in the manufacture of munitions.

Roper's remarks brought immediate reaction among exporters, who sold $54,826,000 worth of cotton to Japan and $570,000 worth to China in the first seven months of this year.

Exporters have been perturbed by the problem of how to dispose profitably of this year's bumper cotton crop, much of which must be sold in foreign markets.

Raw Commodities Omitted
 President Roosevelt's decree that government-owned vessels can no longer carry implements of war to the two countries named no raw commodity.

The Presidential edict applies to a comparatively small group of vessels. Should Mr. Roosevelt extend the arms embargo to privately-owned ships by invoking the entire neutrality act, authorities said today, American trade would begin to feel the "pinch" immediately.

Under the broad powers given Mr. Roosevelt by the act, they said, he could declare any commodity as munitions of war, as well as prohibit the extension of loans, or credits to either side in the conflict.

List of Exports
 Exports of wheat flour to China for the first six months of 1937 were valued at $179,000. (The same exports to Japan were so small the department did not list them.)

Shipments of oil and oil products to Japan for the first six months of 1937 totaled $19,016,000 and to China, $3,040,000; of copper to Japan, $9,470,000 and to China, $1,020,000.

Exports of scrap iron and steel to Japan during the six-month period were valued at $26,831,000.

Total exports to Japan in the seven months of this year amounted to $192,050,000 and to China, $36,955,000—an appreciable increase over the same period of 1936, said the department.

Government experts pointed out today that while invoking the neutrality act would prohibit American vessels transporting to China or Japan any commodities the President might designate, there is nothing to prevent either belligerent from paying cash for such goods in American markets and using their own ships to get them to their home ports.

ferred them the opportunity of a land flowing with milk and honey; it was a land of hills and valleys, with fruitful fields watered by the rain of heaven.

But the children of Israel were facing this land with its opportunity with two clear choices before them, and with the alternative plainly stated of blessing or of curse. If they gave themselves to the commandments of God and the other observance of right principles, there was before them the prospect of blessing; if they turned from these commandments to selfish and evil ways, if they established corrupt worship in place of truth and right, there was for them only a curse, rather than a blessing.

It turned out in the history of Israel exactly as these prophetic words foretold. Ruin and destruction came upon the people when they forgot God, and turned to their own selfish and evil ways. Yet in exile and in adversity, when the people really turned to God, a glory shone upon the nation even in its seeming defeat.

These things have not changed. Nations and peoples today are confronted with exactly the same choice and with exactly the same consequences. Wrong and evil courses in modern America are just as sure to curse American society as they were in the life of an ancient people, while the tuning of our hearts and minds to right principles and sound conduct will bring us blessing just as truly as the blessing that ever fell upon any people devoting themselves heart and soul to truth and right.

Sound laws and obedience to them, the setting of the welfare of all against the welfare of the few, regard for justice that may be done to the lowliest person in society, consideration for the weakest and most in need, the use of God's bounty to supply the widest and deepest human needs—these are the things that bring blessing in the life of a people. These are the things that are associated with a proper recognition of God and a manifestation of his goodness.

How can one teach and proclaim these things so that they will take deeper hold of our life today and turn the hearts of our people from selfishness and inconsiderateness to devote themselves more truly to the seeking of God's blessing on our national life?

A nation's choice has its roots in the choices of individuals, yet individuals, are influenced by the whole attitude of the society in which they live. Sound choices are inextricably associated with right ideas and ideals. Here is where education and religion have a profound part to play—in so teaching and inspiring men that they may value things rightly and choose the things that bring blessing.

CRIMINALS SELDOM FIRE AGAINST 'DEAD SHOTS'
 COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—If you are a "dead shot," rarely will you have to shoot it out with a desperate criminal.

That is the theory of Major W. H. Drane Lester, assistant director of the federal bureau of investigation under J. Edgar Hoover.

"We have had to kill only nine criminals out of 12,000 captured in the last three years," he says. "The criminal, knowing we are capable of protecting our own lives, rarely chooses to shoot it out with us."

In the lighthouse district which covers the Mississippi river and its tributaries above New Orleans there are 4,500 miles of river marked by aids to navigation. Lights, buoys and beacons in these channels number 6,925.

PANHANDLE LOAN COLLECTIONS SURPRISE OFFICIALS OF FCA

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 17 (AP)—Officials of the Farms Security Administration office serving the dust and drought areas of Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, and Kansas report "surprising" collections of rehabilitation loans made farmers and ranchers.

The report said drought and the grasshopper plague caused short crops in some of the area and that dust injured crops in 13 of the 120 counties in the district.

Collectings as of July on all loans made since the resettlement administration started its program in the area stood at 15.5 per cent of the principal advanced.

In the five-state area the government made loans totaling 7,741,638.05. Payments to July 1 amounted to $1,198,691.59, exclusive of interest, which amounted to $4,145. The interest was considered significant by officials, since none is collected on any loan until the loan is paid in full.

The report said only 45 per cent of the amount loaned was delinquent.

The counties reported injured by dust, which was aggravated by drought were:

In Colorado—The eastern part of Las Animas county, Baca county and the southern part of Prowers county.

In Kansas—Stanton, Morton and Stevens counties.

In Oklahoma—Texas, Cimarron and Beaver counties.

In Texas—Dallam, Hartley and Sherman counties.

In New Mexico—Union county.

A summary of loans and payments by states:

Colorado—Loans, $1,435,560.58; payments applied to principal, $213,605.29.

Kansas—Loans, $1,714,549.15; payments, $129,618.43.

New Mexico—Loans, 2,210,979.97; payments, $360,868.05.

Oklahoma—Loans, $420,458.02; payments, $124,632.16.

Texas—Loans, $1,958,880.36; payments, $460,967.66.

Mexican Issued 2-Week Reprieve

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 17 (AP)—Pio Quesada, who had been condemned to die in the electric chair at state prison here early today, had the prospect of two weeks more of life.

Acting Governor Walter Woodul, attending a convention at Waxahatchie, issued a reprieve until October 1 on recommendation of the state board of pardons and paroles. It was Quesada's third reprieve.

Quesada, a Mexican national, was convicted of the slaying of Fernanda Ramirez, in Willacy county last November.

Mexican officials pleaded that under the law of his own country he would not have been given the death penalty. At Austin, Chairman Bruce W. Bryant of the board of Mexican officials had asked the postponement of the execution mainly because of the current three-day celebration of Mexican independence day.

In fact, she wasn't invited. With a parting promise of $200,000 from Tommy, she was on her way by plane to Reno for a divorce.

"Oh, boy," am I relieved," whooped Tommy, who changes wives with the seasons—or so it seems. "I feel about 20 years younger, no kidding."

New Machine Peels Shrimp

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—A mechanical shrimp peeler, fisheries bureau officials said today, is the newest wrinkle in the seafood business.

Charles E. Jackson, deputy fisheries commissioner, said he saw the device operated in the Petersburg, Alaska, plant of its inventor, Early Ohmer. He said Ohmer did not plan to market the device, but would keep it for his own use.

The shrimp enter the machine head first on a conveyor belt. Jackson explained, and the mechanism cuts the shrimp from end to end, turns it over, lifts off the shell, cuts off the head and tail, and drops the meat into a container. Shrimp peeling employs many persons in Gulf and Pacific coast areas.

Tehir "Murder" Was Exaggerated

The confession of Philip Krah, 27, that he had murdered Helen Whibley, 6, and her brother, Frank, 3, in an attempted attack, proved to be a happy exaggeration when they were found near their home in Philadelphia. Above the father, Frank Whibley, clutches his children lovingly in happy conclusion to the tragedy.

Flashes of LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

TRAGIC BATH

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP)—A woman nursed five bullet wounds today as a result of an argument over when her 7-year-old daughter should take a bath. Detective Sergeant Jess McCarty said George Graef, 41, shot his wife, Ruth, twice through the left thigh, once through the right forearm and once through a finger of her left hand in the argument. Graef was held on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

GOOD FISHING

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP)—The fish failed to bite, but Charles Hough, 47, came home with a heavy "catch." He said he dropped his line into White river and pulled out a blue flag, two hydraulic jacks, a box of bolts and screws, four sticks of tin grease and a brass railroad bushing.

SUPERNATURAL

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. (AP)—Louis Miller, 73, told police two gypsy women promised to increase his savings from $500 to $800. They did. Then they said if he left $550 with them it would grow to $5,000. He complied. After waiting in vain for the fortune tellers to return from a three day trip, Miller opened his money box and found it empty. The state highway patrol joined police in search for the gypsy pair.

RING OUT THE OLD

KIAMATH FALLS, ORE. (AP)—A policeman, fumbling in the basement of the city hall in the dark, accidentally pulled a dust covered bell rope. The city council, in session upstairs, investigated the bell tolling. It developed the bell was used under an old curfew ordinance barring children under 18 from the streets after 10 p. m. in summer and 9 p. m. in winter.

SOMETHING IN COMMON

SPOKANE, Wash.—Cousins, a boy and a girl, were born in the same room less than an hour apart—but on different days. They were born to sisters, Mrs. James McDaniel and Mrs. Edgar Holcomb at the home of the children's grandmother. The McDaniel girl was born just before midnight Sept. 9, the Holcomb boy, 45 minutes later, Sept. 10.

LOCAL PRIDE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. Sept. 17 (AP)—Little Rock likes police clubs of the home grown variety. The announcement that Police Chief J. A. Pitcock was shopping for a new supply from another state sent the chamber of commerce into action. A lumber firm contributed native ash, a high school instructor fashioned the clubs on a lathe and the chamber sent 100 choice specimens to Chief Pitcock as a gift. 'Twas just a gesture of good will, said C. C. Secretary D. Hudson Lewis.

MYSTERY.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Detective George Shedd, on a midnight investigation, flashed a light on a figure sprawled on a basement floor. "It's a dead man," he whispered to Detective J. Glenn, "call the homicide squad." "He's awfully dead," Glenn whispered back, "look at his glassy eyes." They edged closer. The figure was a ventriloquist's dummy.

BAREFOOT BALL.

GOODING, Idaho—Six-foot-three George Blankley of Cromwell, Pa., a grid candidate at Gooding college, is scrimmaging barefoot these days. Coach Glen Parberry has searched sports supply houses from Chicago to the Pacific Coast in a vain effort to fit Blankley's feet. Blankley wears size 14.

CRUDE OIL PIPELINES TOTAL 200,000 MILES

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 17 (AP)—Trunk and gathering pipelines which transport crude oil, natural gas and gas line throughout the United States have increased until they total 200,000 miles, or a distance of about eight times around the world, the oil and gas journal estimated today.

The publication compiled figures in its annual pipelines edition to show that in the past year there has been an increase of 400,000 to 500,000 barrels daily in the transportation of crude oil alone. No attempt was made to estimate the additional thousands of miles of pipelines in distributing systems in cities and towns.

A picture of the transportation of crude oil was drawn to show that steadily night and day petroleum flows through 62,000 miles of trunk lines to 475 refineries operating in 32 states and to marine terminals. Besides that, 50,000 miles of lines are required to gather the day's supply of crude oil from 345,000 active wells in 20 producing states.

Natural gas flows through 75,000 miles of great trunk line systems which transport an average of 6,000,000,000 cubic feet daily, in the winter peak loads are much greater. An additional 12,000 to 15,000 miles of pipelines are in use to gather and carry 2,000,000,000 cubic feet of casinghead gas a year for delivery to 710 natural gasoline plants located in 18 states.

DEATH 'ACCIDENTAL'

TERRELL, Sept. 17 (AP)—An inquest verdict of accidental death had been returned today by Justice of the Peace Frank King in the death of J. L. "Weetah" Eason, 20, whose body was found yesterday near a shotgun. He had gone hunting Tuesday in a pasture of the state hospital. King said the charge of bird-shot that struck Eason in the heart apparently was fired as he crawled through a fence.

'JUNKING' OF MEN OVER 40 OPPOSED BY LEGION

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—American Legion headquarters today announced a concerted campaign against "junking" of men over 40 in the nation's employment scheme. The plans were disclosed by Forrest G. Cooper, of Indianapolis, Miss., chairman of the National Veterans' Employment committee, and will be laid before the annual legion convention here next week.

The Legion will furnish "every employer in the United States" a booklet showing "the economic value in terms of maturity of judgment, ability, and dependability of World War veterans," Cooper said. Pointing out that most of the nation's 4,000,000 World War veterans are in the age groups above 40, Cooper said the Legion "believes it is unfair to junk a man, to call him obsolete, to say he is not needed, when he passes the age of 40."

"This battle," said Cooper, "will be waged unceasingly until industry recognizes the fallacy of discarding a worker in the very prime of his usefulness."

The business sessions of the American Legion convention opening here Sunday night will be comparatively peaceful, with a minimum of controversial issues to be debated. Inspection of more than 600 resolutions received at national headquarters indicated today.

Not one of the 600-odd resolutions from state departments concerned a proposal for a general pension for World War veterans. Demands will be made, however, for extension of "government protection" for widows and orphans of these veterans.

RING CONTRACTS APPROVED.
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 17 (AP)—The National Boxing Association frowned today upon the long-time contracts Mike Jacobs holds with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and Jimmy Braddock, former titleholder. Although attacking the five-year contracts as an "evil to boxing," the association left to the New York Boxing Commission the task of attempting to limit the New York promoter's agreements to one fight.

KICK BACK.
BUFFALO, N. Y.—An automobile hit a horse and the horse retaliated with a kick. Joseph Marshall, the motorist, displayed the evidence: Hoofprints indented on the headlight. Neither Marshall nor the horse was injured.

WHEELER ASKS PROBE OF KLAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont.) joined today the critics of Justice Hugo L. Black's alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan, declaring President Roosevelt should appoint an impartial investigating board.

"If the charges are true, the President should ask for Black's resignation," said Wheeler, field marshal of the Senate opponents of the Roosevelt court bill.

"This is a good illustration of what happens when an administration acts hastily and what happens when Senators vote blindly for every suggestion that is made by the White House."

Shortly before Wheeler issued his statement at Fargo, N. D., Senator Reynolds (D-NC) declared that opposition to Black was "a lot of spite and political propaganda."

The furor created by published reports alleging Black was a life member of the Klan became so broad that Speaker Bankhead denied that he himself had ever been a klanman.

Rep. Fish (R-NY) had hinted an inquiry might find several southern congressmen "of the Klan payroll or affiliated with the organization."

The efforts to force Black off the bench were not limited to congressional critics.

The Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked Mr. Roosevelt to request Black's resignation. The Washington Evening Star said there was a growing impression the President might do so unless Black denies he has been a klanman.

ORDINANCE NO. 182

An ordinance making it unlawful to park or leave standing any motor or other vehicle upon premises of another without consent of the owner or occupant of such premises; prescribing the penalty for violation of this ordinance, and declaring an emergency.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS:

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to park or leave standing any motor or other vehicle upon premises of another without consent of the owner or occupant of such premises; or to park or leave standing any motor or other vehicle upon premises of another without consent of the owner or occupant of such premises.

Section 2. Any person who shall violate this ordinance shall be punished upon conviction thereof by fine of not less than Five nor more than Two Hundred dollars.

Emergency: The fact that the City of Pampa now has no ordinance regulating or prohibiting the parking of vehicles upon premises of another, and the fact that in the business district of the city and especially adjoining the alleyways of said city vacant lots and premises owned and occupied by the merchants of the city are now being used by other persons for the purpose of parking and leaving standing automobiles and other vehicles and such practice prevents such merchants and other property owners and occupants from having free access and use of their said premises at all times; and the further fact that such practice and condition creates an unsafe and hazardous condition for the people lawfully using such premises, alleys and streets, especially in the event of fire, creates an emergency, and the law requiring ordinances to be read upon three several days before final passage is hereby suspended, and this ordinance shall become effective and in full force immediately after its passage and publication.

W. A. BRATTON, Mayor.

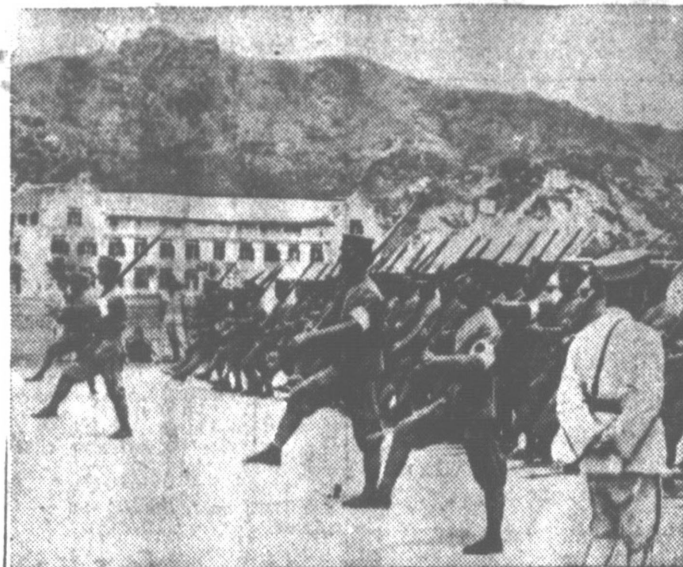

ATTEST: W. M. CRAVEN, City Secretary.

Germany Trained Chiang's Army And Now May Betray It to Japs

Gen. Hans von Seeckt.

Above, German-trained Chinese troops march the German goose-step. Below, Chinese officers play at a field game under the supervision of the German officer in the background.

By NEA Service.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 16.—In a very real sense, Adolf Hitler's government may be a deciding factor in the bitter Sino-Japanese conflict, not through actual intervention but by espionage and possible supply of munitions to one side or the other.

Both Japan and China are playing desperately for German friendship. Most important is the fact that "Chiang Kai-shek's Own Army"—the first fighting unit in the Orient—is trained and directed by Germans.

Ten years ago a mission of officers from the former German Imperial army was employed by the generalissimo to build a model army of 300,000 men.

Then in 1933, Gen. Hans von Seeckt, founder of the famous Reichswehr, came to China to make further improvements in the divisions of goose-stepping Orientals.

Like a Steel Whip.

He cut down the force to 250,000 men, making of them a highly mechanized, highly mobile and highly disciplined force.

Like the Reichswehr before Gen. von Seeckt insisted on padding it out to 450,000 men, Chiang's army is operated on the principle of a steel whip, striking swiftly and springing back ready for another attack.

There are now nearly 100 German advisers to Chiang Kai-shek's men. Teutonic advice is evident wherever these forces take the field. They build zigzag trenches, machine-gun nests, and are able to deliver a killing attack and retreat with but few casualties.

Safely in the Rear.

Where great armies of men are massed, Chiang's troops are safely in the rear, their guns trained on the poorly trained and equipped provincial troops who might try to retreat.

It is an open secret that the Germans have told Chiang he can depend on the Yangtze valley successfully. The blockade of the river, preventing Japanese light cruisers and destroyers from taking Nanking, Quian, and Honkew by naval attack, was the first step.

None but the Chinese high command and their German advisers know what else is contemplated. The Japanese would give almost any thought to know and they are making every effort to find out.

Nothing He Can Do.

That is what worries Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. Germany and Japan have an "anti-communist" agreement, agreement, which probably includes military clauses.

It would be comparatively simple for Hitler to bring pressure on Chiang's advisers to turn over China's plans for defense. And there is really nothing Chiang can do to guard against this grim eventuality.

The munitions problem is much the same story. China has in recent years bought great quantities of German rifles, machine-guns, whippet tanks, and torpedo launches. Will she continue to supply these necessities of war? Will she stop the trade to China, or will she divert the traffic to Japan?

China Has Money.

There is this to be considered. Germany is desperate for money. Her trade with China is large, but her business with Japan—especially under the Manchoukuo-German trade agreement—has been disappointing.

China has the money, millions of dollars in cash in England and America, and it looks good to Germany. China needs munitions badly, but Japan makes most of her own.

And so in the final analysis, money will probably dictate the German policy. If Hitler accepts Chinese millions for munitions, it is extremely unlikely that he will try to upset Chiang's military plans.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Wallace Beery won't get hurt again if his friends can help it.

The film actor is in a hospital with wounds suffered when he shot himself with a blank cartridge during a cowboy movie scene. His fellow actors sent him a huge box containing a toy lariat, a box of jacks, a red bandana and a cap pistol.

"Sure it ain't loaded?" Beery asked, inspecting the pistol in mock alarm.

FIELD OFFICE OF SCT TO BE IN AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Sept. 17.—A list of counties in the area which hereafter will be serviced by the Amarillo field office of the Social Security Board was announced today by Malcolm George, acting manager of the Amarillo office.

It was explained by George that heretofore the typing of social security account numbers for the Amarillo field office area has been done by the Dallas office of the board. Henceforth, George said, assignment and typing of all social security account numbers will be handled by the Amarillo office for the forty-six counties of Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, pany, SW 1/4 of survey 87, block 3, I&GN.

Release: W. H. Palmer et ux to E. C. Van Bibber et ux, lot 16, block 47, Talley addition.

Deed: Lina Schneider to Mrs. Annie Moore, lot 5, block 1, Buckler-Wilks addition.

Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher, Wheeler, Bailey, Cochran, Cottle, Crosby, Dickens, Fisher, Floyd Garza, Hale, Hockley, King, Kent, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Scurry, Stonewall, Terry and Yoakum.

In making this announcement, George said in all probability there are many individuals in the counties named who are now entitled to lump-sum benefits under the old-age provisions of the Social Security Act. Lump-sum payments are being made to workers in covered employments who have reached the age of 65 since January 1, 1937, and to the estates of deceased workers who have died since January 1, 1937, and before reaching the age of 65. These lump-sum payments, George explained, amount to 3 1-2 per cent of the total wages received by the worker in covered employments since December 31, 1936, and up to the attainment of age 65 or at the time of death.

"We are anxious to be of assistance to industrial organizations which desire to help their employees in the filing of claims," George said, "employers or employees who desire information regarding the filing of claims or social security account numbers may obtain same by calling at the Amarillo office of the Social Security Board in the Oliver-Eagle building, or by addressing a letter to the manager, George said."

A musical pipe, made of a lion's tooth, was found recently in a cave in Czechoslovakia. The pipe, which still gives forth its two notes, D and G, was played by cavemen who lived in that region 30,000 years ago.
