DEATH IN THE DEVIL'S PUNCHBOWL — Rescue workers struggle to remove the body of one of nine persons feared dead after an overland vehicle plunged 200 feet into the raging Crystal River high on Schofield Pass. A wrecker attempts to pull the remains of the four-wheel-drive vehicle (upper right) from the Devil's Punchbowl, into which it plunged at the foot of a 40-foot waterfall. Four bodies were recovered before search efforts continued today. Three people survived the crash. Eight of the dead are believed to be residents of Urbana and Villa Park, Ill.

Rail Workers Ordered Back By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, acting after the industry threatened to stop the nation's trains if a union kept striking three key lines, has ordered railroad workers back to their jobs for 60 days while an emergency board seeks to settle a long-running dispute.

Just after the President moved to avert a national rail crisis Tuesday night by resorting to his final remedy under the Railway Labor Act, the Labor Department reported it was told the thousands of striking United Transportation Union members would go to work again as soon as possible.

The department said the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry group representing more than 125 railroads, rescinded its consideration of a lockout of employes and threat to shut down the system.

The UTU called the strike suddenly Tuesday after charging the lines with refusing to bargain in good faith over the use of firemen on diesel engines.

MOST COMPLY

Spot checks early today of areas served by the Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Pacific railroads showed most pickets down within hours of Nixon's order.

Nixon's decision came on the recommendation of the National Mediation Board and Secretary of Labor James W. Hodgson after a day in which passenger and freight trains were stopped or slowed in at least 16 states. Management spokesmen estimated 18,800 UTU members were idled with another 60,000 workers off the job as a result.

The President designated Fred M. Livingston, a federal mediator who had quit the case in June after several months of talks proved unsuccessful, to head the emergency board looking into the 12-year controversy over the need for firemen on diesel engines. The union maintains at least three men are needed in each locomotive for safety reasons. The railroads dispute this.

INJUNCTION

Moments before Nixon's action was announced, Federal Judge Barrington Parker granted the railroads' request for a temporary restraining order to stop the strike until action could be taken on the carriers' bid for a preliminary injunction.

The nationwide shutdown was threatened by the industry if what the carriers called a whipsaw strike against a selected few lines was not ended.

Involved in this issue is the legality of strikes against individual railroads that are part of a multiple negotiating unit.

Court Sustains Private Club Rule

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Supreme Court upheld today the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission's controversial private club guest rule.

The decision overruled an Austin Court of Civil Appeals decision holding the rule unconstitutional.

The rule says any private club guest must be personally introduced or physically accompanied by a member before he can be served. It also requires each club to have at least 25 members, a permanent membership committee and "regular food service adequate for its members and guests."

Effective last Sept. 1, the rule was aimed at so-called "threshold clubs," where customers can walk in off the street and buy liquor by the drink after becoming "guests" of the manager or a waitress.

The Black Garter Club and the Attic Club, both of Dallas, challenged the rule in court, claiming it would close 75 per cent of the private clubs in Texas.

The Austin appeals court said the rule was unconstitutionally vague and did not contain a formula finding of facts. Such a finding, the lower court said, was required by law.

Justice Zollie Steakley, writing for the unanimous Supreme Court, said the rule's terms were understandable and that no finding of facts had to be contained in the order.

Steakley said the law "says no more than that the board is empowered to act upon a finding of facts; special or written findings are not declared prerequisite to the validity of the order."

He also dealt with the lower court's contention that the words "guests" and "regular food service adequate for its members and their guests" are too vague to meet constitutional standards.

The terms, he said, "are words of general understanding."

"The rule requires no more than that private clubs determine the credentials of a guest and hence his right to enjoy club favors, by the simple test of whether he is personally known to and vouched for by a host-member," Steakley wrote.

"Likewise, the implementation of the statutory requirement that a private club 'shall provide regular food service adequate for its members and their guests,' in terms of 'complete meals available on the club premises,' is, in our opinion, sufficiently understandable to the operators of private clubs."

Force Reduction Decision Surprises South Koreans

SEOUL (AP) — The Nixon Administration's plans to cut the 60,000-man U.S. force in Korea caused a stir today in the South Korean government, which did not expect such a move until the late 1970s.

U.S. Ambassador William Porter called on Premier Chung Il-kwon Monday to tell him of his government's desire to reduce its forces in the penninsula announced today. American officials accompanying Secretary of State William P. Rogers on his current Asian tour said the two governments would begin consultations "rather soon" on the troop reduction.

Rogers and South Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah discussed the subject Sunday in Saigon, where they attended a conference of Vietnam war allies. Rogers told Choi the Nixon Administration is considering a troop cut for budgetary reasons. But informed sources said Rogers assured the foreign minister the United States would not renege on its commitment to defend South Korea against aggression from North Korea.

Foreign Ministry sources said Choi was returning to Seoul tonight a day ahead of schedule to report to President Chung Hee Park on his talk with Rogers.

Following press reports that Washington might call home one of its two infantry divisions in Korea, Park and other government leaders said recently that the present level of U.S. forces is still needed in Korea because of increased North Korean Threats and provocations. They said U.S. forces in South Korea will have to remain at their present strength until after 1975, at least because the nation still is not strong enough militarily and economically to cope with the Communist threat from the North.

In the 17 years since the Korean Armistice, the United States has helped train and equip South Korean armed forces that now total more than 600,000 men, and South Korea has been a showcase of U.S. economic assistance in Asia.

If the United States does cut its force in Korea, it is believed that the South Korean government will call home some or all of the 50,000-man combat force it sent to South Vietnam at U.S. urging.

NEW FIGHTING

Day-Long Battle Near Former Base

SAIGON (AP) — American helicopters and ground forces were reported to have killed at least 98 North Vietnamese in a day-long battle today a mile west of the abandoned U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

Initial reports said the enemy death toll was expected to rise beyond 100. It was not certain whether the fighting had broken off at nightfall.

U.S. officials said at least two Americans were killed and six wounded in the fight in the northwest corner of the country. Khe Sanh was the scene of a 77-day enemy siege in early 1968 and was abandoned in June of that year.

The battle began when crewmen of cruising 101st Airborne Division helicopter spotted 150-250 North Vietnamese troops in an open field and called in rocket-firing helicopter gunships.

A reaction force of paratroopers also was air lifted into the area by helicopter and clashed with the enemy.

SECOND CLASH

It was the second major battle in northernmost 1st Corps within the past week. The other was a two-day fight between South Vietnam's 1st Division and North Vietnamese troops on sand flats southeast of Quang Tri, some 40 miles to the east of Khe Sanh. In that battle, the government troops claimed 146 of the enemy killed.

Word of the new fighting came as government spokesmen in Saigon disclosed that three battalions of civilian irregulars had been withdrawn from Cambodia, and the rest of South Vietnam's Mekong Delta-based task force embarked on a new operation in Cambodia.

The pullout of three battalions of the ethnic Cambodians recruited in the Mekong Delta left a total of 18,000 South Vietnamese troops operating in Cambodia.

The 2,000 mercenaries were withdrawn after one of the biggest operations in Cambodia by Saigon's troops. It began May 25, and the South Vietnamese command claimed 1,119 enemy killed, 222 captured, and more than 8,400 rifles and 158 heavy weapons seized in the southeastern part of the country.

South Vietnamese casualties in the operation were reported as 102 killed, 475 wounded and six missing.

South Vietnamese troops fought northeast of Phnom Penh and reported killing 23 of the enemy and suffering three killed and 25 wounded.

Lo, Something For Red Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deploring the plight of the American Indian, President Nixon told Congress today it is time "for a new era in which the Indian future is determined by Indian acts and Indian decisions."

In a special message, Nixon said he was proposing legislation that would empower Indian tribes or tribal groups to take over control and operation of federally financed program for their benefit — programs now operated by government employes.

He also proposed that "every Indian community wishing to do so should be able to control its own Indian schools" by setting up school boards like those in other communities.

Acting on one question of long standing dispute, Nixon gave a firm endorsement to legislation that would restore 48,000 acres of land near Blue Lake, N.M., to the Taos-Pueblo Indians. He conferred with members of the tribal council of this group shortly before sending his message to Capitol Hill.

Declaring that the federal government took the land away from the Indians without compensation in 1906, Nixon said the 48,000 acres should be returned for traditional religious and tribal purposes with a proviso that "except for such uses the lands would remain forever wild."

National Accident Toll Slightly Down

CHICAGO (AP) — There are more cars and more drivers on U.S. highways than there were a year ago but the highway fatality rate for the first five months of 1970 decreased to 20,500 from 20,860 for the same period of last year.

Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council said if the rate of fatalities for the first five months continues, "we can hope to experience several hundred fewer traffic deaths than last year. This may happen in spite of the fact that there are at least two million more motor vehicles and about two million more licensed drivers on the roads today."

The 1969 highway toll was 56,400 lives.

HemisFair Grounds Courthouse Site

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The General Services Administration has decided to locate a $7 million federal courthouse at the U.S. Pavilion on the HemisFair '68 grounds, a newspaper said today.

The San Antonio Express said Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., has told local Republican sources of the plans.

Space Budget Unpared, But Cities Get Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — After sharp debate on how best to spend the nation's money, the Senate has resisted attempts to ground part of the space program while voting an extra $700 million for sewers, urban renewal and pure water.

The two-day debate on national priorities and fiscal responsibility ended Tuesday when an $18.6 billion catch-all money bill, $1.2 billion heavier than requested by President Nixon, was sent to conference with the House.

In close votes, the Senate refused to trim any funds from the budget for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a reluctance which Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said resulted in a "public works extravaganza," and "an out and out boondoggle for the aerospace industry."

"Calls for fiscal responsibility are regularly heard in the Senate," Proxmire said Tuesday after the 38-35 vote defeating his move to cut $122 million from the NASA budget and reduce it to the $3.197 billion spending level set earlier by the House. The final Senate figure for NASA was $3.319 billion.

"If we are going to make a start toward controlling these unneeded expenditures," he said, "this is the place to do it."

The Senate followed its rejection of the Proxmire vote by adding $400 million to funds for urban renewal grants and $300 million for sewerage and water treatment facilities.

The latter proposal, opposed by many of the senators who fought to maintain space spending levels, was followed by a surprise space cut proposal by Sen. William Fulbright who was stopped from a bid to strip $300 million from the space program only by last-minute vote switches.

F-111s Due Back Into Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says three of the more than 200 F111 fighter bombers grounded last December are expected to be back in service by the end of the month.

The Air Force said Monday three of the swing-wing planes have completed ground tests. The fleet was returned to the manufacturer, General Dynamics Corp., Fort Worth, Tex., after an F111 crashed in Nevada.

A scientific board said the crash pointed to a wing defect and recommended a new series of tests for the fleet.

Seniors Give Scholarships

As their senior gift to the school Big Spring High School's class of 1970 will be giving scholarships of $100 to a graduating senior in each of the next six classes, 1971-76.

Senior class president Gary Hinds said six full scholarships will be awarded and the remainder of funds will go the seventh year to a recipient of the Class of '77.

Money for the scholarship fund was raised in projects conducted throughout the year by the class. These included magazine sales, concessions at ball games, sales of class pins and selling corsages at football games.

Scholarships will go to students who have a basic need and have scholastic performance which shows a capability and desire to finish college. Members of a scholarship selection committee also will consider service and participation in the senior class.

Selections of recipients will be made by a committee made up of the high school principal, head senior sponsor, senior counselor and one senior boy and one senior girl selected by the three adult committee members.

March of each year will be the date for students to apply for the scholarship. Scholarships will be paid upon the recipient's enrollment in college.

Hinds said control and disposition of the funds will be under direction of the principal at Big Spring High, and funds are deposited in a local savings account listed as Scholarship Fund-Class of 1970.

Cooper-Church Proposal Due First Test In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The initial House test of the Senate-passed Cooper-Church amendment to curb future U.S. operations in Cambodia may come Thursday, but even its supporters expect to lose.

The main hope of the proposal's backers evidently is to run up a big, even if losing, vote for the plan passed two weeks ago by the Senate after nearly two months of debate.

No concrete plan for action has been set, but indications are that Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, may try Thursday to send the foreign military sales bill—which includes the Cooper-Church amendment—to conference with the Senate.

If he does, House backers of the amendment say they plan to try and bind the House conferees in advance to the Cooper-Church language, which cuts off U.S. spending for Cambodia.

At that point a motion to table and thus kill the instructions could be expected. The test vote would follow.

Morgan, who has made clear his opposition to Cooper-Church in its present form, said he wants to go to conference with the Senate without any instructions.

President Nixon, in a radio-television interview last week, indicated he hopes a modified version of the amendment would come out of the House-Senate conference.

The President emphasized two points: recognition of what he says is his constitutional power to protect U.S. troops; and authority to pay the bill for Asian nations sending troops and advisers to Cambodia.

'IT WAS BEDLAM'

First Batch Of Stranded Students Return To U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The first batch of 3,500 American students has returned from Europe after being temporarily stranded by the financial collapse of the travel agency that arranged their study tours.

"It was bedlam" when the students heard their trips had been cut short, said Debbie Monk, 16, of Newport News, Va.

She was among 183 persons emergency airlifted from Switzerland Tuesday to Kennedy Airport.

"Most of the students raised the money for the trip themselves," said Sister Celeste Marie Reichert of St. Edmund's High School, Brooklyn, chaperone to 13 girls from that school

The cost for the four weeks abroad was $1,200 up.

On Monday, World Academy, Inc., which arranged the trips, filed bankruptcy petitions in Cincinnati's U.S. District Court Four of its subsidiaries also filed petitions.

The firm's financial collapse left no funds for further feeding or accommodations for the students, but their flights home had been paid for in advance with a charter airline company.

"We were supposed to tour seven countries, but we only saw Italy and Switzerland," said Miss Monk. "We left on June 25 and were supposed to return Aug. 2."

Earlier in the day, as another group boarded buses for Le Bourget Airport in Paris and the trip home, blonde Candy Meek, 18, of Firebaugh, Calif., had tears in her eyes.

"I've worked practically all my life in my parents' shoe store to save for this trip," she said. "I wonder if I'll be able to come again."

"I never broke a thing," she added. "I wonder if I'll ever even get my five dollars back."

Valarie Rich, 18, of Mount Clemens, Mich., also looked distraught.

"I saw only England of the six countries I hoped to see," she said.

U.S. Concerned Over SAM Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recent downing of three Israeli jets by Egyptian-based antiaircraft missiles marks the first effective combat use of improved SAM-2 batteries, U.S. military sources say, and carries ominous implications for American planes flying over North Vietnam.

The trouble could come, these sources said, if the Soviet Union makes the same improvements in North Vietnam's SAM-2s sometimes used against U.S. reconaissance planes and their escorts.

Changes in the SAM-2s reportedly involve much better electronics mechanism for guiding the missiles to their targets.

U.S. pilots have had great success evading older SAM-2s, mostly by flying tight turns in the air. The SAM-2s accounted for only about 10 per cent of the 926 U.S. warplanes lost over North Vietnam since 1965.

Only nine U.S. aircraft have been lost, none to SAM-2s, since American planes were limited to reconaissance flights Nov. 1, 1968.

Some U.S. sources indicate the installation of improved SAM-2 batteries near the Suez Canal may be at least as significant militarily as the appearance of the newer SAM-3, another Russian-built antiaircraft weapon designed to be fired against low-flying planes.

First Farm Checks Being Distributed

Howard County farmers will receive a total of $2¾ million this year for participating in the 1970 cotton, wheat and feed grain programs, according to Gabe Hammack, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"We have approximately 750 farms in the county," Hammack said. "Almost everyone is participating in the cotton program, about 300 in the feed grain, and about 10 in the wheat."

Designed to equalize the farm economy with that of other industries the program requires farmers to sign statements in March indicating the programs in which they will participate. Payments begin July 1, and this year ASCS officers hope to complete payments by mid-August, the earliest ever.

Hammack said this morning his office has forwarded about 100 checks to local farmers, and he anticipates 300-400 more this month. Hammack said he had no subtotal available and did not know how much money has been received in the county. He said the only figure available will be the total which will be released this fall.

Government Pumps $2.1 Billion Into Agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government check writers pumped $2.1 billion into the nation's farm economy during the first five days of July as partial payment for farmers cooperating in 1970 crop programs, says the Agriculture Department.

The checks, representing about two-thirds of the total $3.3 billion due farmers, were mailed to county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

An ASCS official said the payments included about $500 million each for cotton and wheat programs and $1.1 billion for livestock feed grains. Individual farmers now are receiving payments from county offices, the spokesman said.

Nearly all payments are expected to be completed by mid-August, about two months earlier than usual, as part of the administration's program to speed up checks to farmers this year.

The payments made through July 5 involved checks representing acreage-production programs on an estimated 1.7 million farms.

Board Okays Four Requests

The planning and zoning board Tuesday night approved two zoning changes and two special use permit requests.

The site of Gandy's Creamery on FM 700 was changed from light commercial to heavy commercial to correct an earlier zoning error.

The site had been designated light commercial when the site was being changed from residential at the time the plant was built. From that time, the nature of the business has not been in conformity with the zoning.

A change of zone from single-family-2 to single family-3 was approved for the homesite of Ben Stuteville, 800 E. 14th, with a specific use permit allowing the installation of a trailer home on the lot. If finalized by the city commission, the permit will enable Stuteville's son to live in the trailer, but would become null and void if that son ever moved out.

The board also approved a request by Reymundo Canales for a specific use permit to allow the sale of beer at the Diamond Lounge, 700 Lamesa Hwy. The lounge is in a building formerly used as a cafe.

Martin Gets Initial Batch

STANTON — Martin County farmers who have contributed to stabilizing markets for food and fiber and to the conservation of soil and water resources by taking part in the 1970 wheat, feed grain and cotton programs are receiving their program payments earlier this year than ever before, according to Bob Hill, chairman of the Martin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The first batch of payments were made beginning July 7, and additional payments will continue as rapidly as farmers certify compliance with requirements. Hill said 70 per cent of Martin County farmers will receive payments this month.

YOUTHS WITH ROCKS — Negro youths hold rocks Tuesday afternoon in Asbury Park during a battle with police. New Jersey state police used tear gas to rout the youths who invaded the town's main business district, throwing rocks and firebombs when police tried to push them back into the Negro district.

Four Injured Critically In Asbury Park Rioting

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — Shotgun pellets wounded 46 persons—four Negroes critically—late Tuesday after State Police turned to gunfire to break up a Negro attack and to enforce a curfew.

Fourteen wounded were hospitalized and hospital authorities listed 92 gunshot wounds treated during three days of racial trouble in this seashore resort community.

State Police said their detectives were investigating whether trooper shots caused the wounds. State Police said they fired only warning shots.

City officials, meanwhile, scheduled a meeting with Negro leaders to discuss demands for improvements in housing, law enforcement and employment. The city's Negro police chief, Thomas Smith, said if calm prevailed he might recommend withdrawal of some outside policemen, one of the demands made by Negro leaders Tuesday.

Mayor Joseph Mattice said: "The beach front, thank goodness, hasn't been affected."

But the boardwalk was empty of its usual throng of summer visitors and Springwood Avenue, main street of the Negro district, was a shambles. There were no big fires Tuesday. Most stores were burned and looted Monday.

Police estimated damage at well over $1 million.

Two other communities also had trouble Tuesday. Red Bank, five miles north, imposed a curfew after some firebombings. Freehold, 13 miles west, had five firebomb blazes.

Bill Henry, Howard County Junior College sophomore, is assistant guide for a Canadian Wilderness Canoe trip Aug. 8-18 sponsored by the camp branch of the YMCA of Fort Worth and Tarrant County.

Henry said there are still openings for the trip if any Big Spring youngsters want to go. Youths 13 and older are eligible.

Cost for the ten day trip is $170 per child and deadline for applications is July 24.

Included in the adventure will be canoeing in Canada's Quetico Provincial Park, fishing and exploring wilderness canoe trails.

Twenty-six boys will take the trip. The group leaves by chartered bus Saturday, Aug. 8 at 7 a.m. from Fort Worth arriving in Ely, Minn., Sunday afternoon. Monday morning youths begin the trip into Canada and for seven days will canoe and fish in Quetico Park.

Base camp will be four days long and side trips will be made from there. Departure from Ely will be July 16 and the group heads home July 17.

Only equipment needed by the boy will be clothes, fishing gear and camera. Canoe outfitters will furnish canoes, tents, sleeping bags, packs, cooking gear, ponchos, food and life belts.

The $170 fee includes all expenses except food to and from Ely. A non-refundable $25 deposit must accompany each application.

A special training session is necessary in advance of the trip for getting acquainted, practicing canoeing skills and safety procedures and receiving instructions.

Youths interested in the trip should contact Bill Henry before July 24 at Camp Carter YMCA, 6200 Sand Springs Road, Fort Worth. Henry is assistant to Richard Richeson, a teacher in the Haltom City School District, who will lead the group.

Ambassador Beam To Meet With Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Ambassador to Moscow Jacob Beam plans to see Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko soon in an American effort to boost the use of high-level talks with the Russians on important issues.

Beam returned to the Soviet capital from Washington about a fortnight ago after consultations with senior U.S. officials, including President Nixon.

Gromyko has agreed to meet with Beam late this week, informants said. He has seen Beam only infrequently since the American's assignment to Moscow early in the Nixon administration.

At present Anatoly F. Dobrynin, the veteran Soviet ambassador to Washington, has frequent access to Secretary of State William P. Rogers and other high U.S. officials. He has spent many hours with Assistant Secretary Joseph J. Sisco on the Middle East issue.

The Soviet ambassador is rated high here as an able professional diplomat. But, as with other Moscow envoys, he appears to be kept under close rein by the Kremlin—and thus functions more as a communications relay man than as a discusser of issues.

If Beam can establish more frequent contact with Gromyko, the reasoning here goes, the results could be well worth while because the foreign minister can speak more freely than underlings and carries more weight in Soviet decision-making.

Other U.S.-Soviet exchanges are continually under way on special subjects—at the United Nations, the Geneva disarmament conference and at the Vienna strategic arms limitation talks—SALT.

But particularly when the specialists hit snags, Washington and Moscow find it useful to deal with problems at the political level.

No word was given as to just what Beam intends to take up with Gromyko. Among outstanding questions are the U.S. bid for a Mideast settlement and concern over Soviet actions there; possibilities for an Indochina solution; and the scope of an arms curb accord to be sought at Vienna.

Eastland Plans Managers' Talk

Chamber of Commerce manager Tom Eastland is scheduled to address the Permian Basin Chamber of Commerce Managers at 10 a.m. Thursday during their monthly meeting in Odessa.

Eastland's topic will be "Membership Development," a subject correlated with that of the other speaker, Harold Meyer, manager of the Pecos Chamber of Commerce. Meyer will talk about "Leadership Development."

TOPICS Program Focal Point Of Luncheon Today

City planning consultant Marvin Springer was to meet with city commissioners over lunch today to discuss progress on preliminary studies made for the TOPICS program.

The Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety (TOPICS) comes under the $44 million in state and federal funds set aside for improvement of street and highway systems in Texas.

Springer is working with the Texas Highway Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in the planning of greater and more efficient traffic flow for Big Spring.

According to Springer, traffic counts have been taken on a cordon surrounding the city as well as interior points to map the preferred street use and circulation among the various traffic zones.

In addition population and employment data has been taken for the zones as an indicator of future changes in the traffic pattern needed to move closer to an ideal home-to-job traffic flow.

Land use data and statistics on population and employment will be compiled and analyzed by computer. Springer will then be able to work the results into a master plan for consideration by highway department officials.

Smith Cited For Parole Contempt

The Howard County Sheriff's office has been notified that a warrant has been issued on Richard Monroe Smith in Pecos. Smith is being held in Howard County jail in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Smith was indicted recently by the Grand Jury on a charge of theft over $50, a felony, in connection with an allegedly fraudulent real estate deal.

According to Sheriff A. N. Standard, if Smith posts bond on the Big Spring charge, he will then be turned over to Federal authorities. Smith is reportedly a parolee and has been cited as in contempt of parole by the federal marshall in Pecos, said Standard.

Second Calf Shot

Frank Lovelace, three and one-half miles east of Coahoma on Old Colorado City Road, reported the shooting of the second calf in three weeks to the Sheriff's Office. The shootings are being investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

O'Brien Hits GOP Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was the premiere of the Lawrence F. O'Brien show, the latest episode in a burgeoning movement to make more use of television as the playing field of political football.

And, in prime time, the Democratic National Chairman looked the camera straight in its red eye Tuesday night and accused President Nixon of broken promises, of "ringing calls for action, but few results."

"Con job," responded Republicans, suggesting they would need their own show to rebut.

Not that the growing tendency among political circles to speak softly and carry a big makeup kit is limited to party warfare.

Vietnam doves are filing a complaint against the networks in hopes of gaining more air time to lobby for an antiwar measure. War supporters are demanding time to answer the doves.

Fact is, television is finding itself as much a government battleground as the halls of Congress and the hometown rally.

O'Brien's 25-minute broadcast for CBS radio-TV was the first of several shows the network allotted the Democratic National Committee to answer Nixon's broadcast speeches and news conferences.

SAYS AGNEW WEDGE

O'Brien said Nixon had "promised to bring us together again. But that is the opposite of what is occurring, polarization encouraged by Vice President Agnew in speech after speech across the country."

Even before the program was aired, Deputy Republican National Chairman James N. Allison Jr. called a news conference and declared, "The Democratic National Committee is attempting one of the greatest con jobs in the history of American politics."

That brought a return cry of "shabby as the broken promises of the Nixon administration" from the Democratic committee.

Republican Allison indicated the GOP probably would ask the networks for equal time.

Meanwhile, sponsors of the so-called Amendment to End the War were mapping a complaint to the Federal Communications Commission, asking that the networks be ordered to give or sell them time to promote the measure.

Detachment Shuts Down

Tuesday marked the end of operations for the 420th Field Training Detachment at Webb. The detachment was assigned to Headquarters 3750th Sheppard AFB, Tex., with duty at Webb as a training satellite.

According to M. Sgt. Harlon H. Bristol, detachment commander, the reason for the shutdown is "economical." "The instructors are required to have at least four students per class to warrant the school. As it is, there have been times when we only have one student," he said.

The school which began in January, 1960, dealt with the instruction of aircraft familiarization and engine maintenance. The instructors are to be moved to the shops that can best use their specialty.

A LOT OF HEART — Dr. Jim Naviaux, Pleasant Hill veterinarian holds an injured duck he is treating because he has boundless compassion for all animals and says man owes something to the injured creatures who roam free. The good doctor has spent $3,000 of his income to treat the hurts of wild creatures people have brought to him in the past two years.

From Snakes To Foxes, Vet Patches Up Ailing Wildlife

PLEASANT HILL, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Jim Naviaux is a veterinarian who specializes in horses but once fixed up a snake which had a broken back. Didn't charge him a dime, either.

He also has succored wounded possums, foxes, raccoons, owls, seabirds and other free-roaming creatures which lacked the wherewithal to meet a doctor's bill.

He figures mankind owes something to the living nonhuman things injured by today's technology.

Dr. Naviaux, who is 38, is the founder and sole staff of the National Wildlife Health Foundation.

The foundation is two years old and so far, the doctor says, running it has cost him about $3,000. He says he hasn't had any help from the other animal lovers of the world, and he has a wife and four sons to support.

"The trouble is," said Dr. Jim in an interview Tuesday, "I'm just not an organizer. This sort of thing takes promotional ability."

The 38-year-old Nebraska-born horse specialist said somebody anonymous once deposited a large king snake on his doorstep. He found it had some broken vertebrae.

He and his pretty wife, Mary, performed an operation on the serpent "and four days later he was well again," the husky good samaritan said.

"It all started about two years ago when a friend found a little fawn on the side of a road," he said. "It had been knocked unconscious by a car and had a broken leg and brain concussion."

For months he and his wife and sons nursed the deer back to health. Last year, they released it to the wild again.

Naviaux, a graduate zoologist from the University of California, is particularly proud of his role during the Santa Barbara, Calif., oil leak disaster last year.

He took in some 90 seabirds which had been disabled by gooey sludge, and gave over his own home as a hospital aviary to aid in their recovery.

Veteran Pilot Assumes New Duties At Webb

A command pilot with 3,600 hours of flying time has arrived at Webb to become the acting deputy commander for Materiel and the new chief of maintenance.

Lt. Col. Harold G. Hartley, who came here from Craig AFB, Ala., where he was chief of quality control, replaces, as chief of maintenance, Lt. Col. Thomas Difloure, and, as DCM, Col. Donald A. Jones. Col. Jones is being assigned to Thailand; Col. Difloure retired June 30.

As chief of maintenance, Col. Hartley will be responsible for approximately 700 men, who perform duties of quality control, maintenance analysis, administration and maintenance control.

Col. Hartley began his military career in 1951 as an aviation cadet at Marana, Ariz., where he received his wings and commission in October, 1952. The colonel was then sent to Williams AFB, Ariz., for advanced pilot training and later to Nellis AFB, Nev., for gunnery training.

He then went to Osan AB, Korea, in April, 1953, where he flew the F-86 Sabre. Col. Hartley returned to Texas at Laredo AFB, where he worked in aircraft maintenance for the next eight years. As the colonel said, "I worked in practically every phase of aircraft maintenance while stationed at Laredo."

In 1961 he attended the Air Command and Staff College, Maxwell AFB, Ala. Following that school, the colonel was sent to two tours in Japan; one at Itazuke AB, the other at Yokota AB.

After his four-year stay in Japan, Col. Hartley attended the Air Force Institute of Technology, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, where he received his master of science degree in management.

Col. Hartley next saw action in Vietnam, where he was assigned as the strike plans officer, Headquarters, 7th Air Force.

The colonel arrived in Craig in August, 1968, where he assumed duties as chief of quality control before coming to Webb.

Among Col. Hartley's medals are the Bronze Star, Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters and the Air Force Commendation medal.

Opening lead: King of ♡

A forcing game, devised by West in defending against South's four spade contract, fell short of its goal when East failed to extend a full measure of cooperation.

West opened the king of hearts, and the ace was played from dummy. The ten of diamonds was led at trick two, East followed with the deuce, and West won the trick with the king. The latter played the queen of hearts and South ruffed.

The king of spades was led and West put up the ace and returned the jack of hearts, forcing South to ruff again. Declarer proceeded to draw the remaining trump, tho it took all of his hearts to do so. A diamond was led to the nine to dislodge East's ace; however, the latter had no hearts left and he was obliged to put South in on the return. Declarer claimed the remaining tricks with high diamonds and clubs.

East could have assured declarer's downfall by putting up the ace of diamonds at trick two, thereby conserving one of his partner's entries. A heart is returned and South ruffs. West gets in with the king of diamonds to reduce declarer down to his size in trumps.

South will presumably cash the queen of diamonds and discard North's remaining heart to prevent another force. When West gets in with the ace of spades, however, a heart return gives his partner an opportunity to uppercut declarer by ruffing with the ten of spades. South overruffs with the jack, but West's nine of trumps becomes established for the setting trick.

Sales Exceed Repossessions

Veterans Administration sale of acquired houses in May followed a six-year trend, as more homes were sold than acquired. This shrunk the agency's home inventory to the lowest level in nine years.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said 1,106 homes were acquired and 1,204 sold, leaving only 10,557 on hand.

Johnson said houses owned by the VA were financed originally with GI loans or direct loans, but the owners failed to keep up the mortgage payments. Of the 7.5 million VA loans, only three per cent have resulted in foreclosure, he said.

Most of the homes sold in May were concentrated in 10 areas, including Los Angeles with 233, St. Petersburg, Fla., with 135, Waco with 87, and Houston with 57.

Johnson also explained that one reason home-buying continued brisk this year is that the VA finances homes it sells, something it has done since shortly after World War II.

Missile Delay Could Harm Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Sen. John Tower said Tuesday that proposals to postpone work on the Safeguard antiballistic missile could doom the strategic arms limitation talks being held in Vienna.

"I cannot believe anybody really wants to deny the President the important SALT bargaining chip of Safeguard," he said.

Tower criticized those who would put American national security in escrow while the Soviet Union continues building its missile stockpile.

Siboney, Colorado Agree To Merge

Siboney Corporation and The Colorado Corporation today announced that a definitive agreement for the merger of The Colorado Corporation into Siboney Corporation has been signed. The agreement is subject to approval of the stockholders of both corporations.

As a result of the merger, stockholders of Siboney will own approximately 15 per cent of the shares of the surviving corporation, and stockholders of The Colorado Corporation will own approximately 85 per cent of the shares of the surviving corporation.

The Colorado Corporation reported gross revenues of $53,800,000 and net earnings after taxes of $16,000,000 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1969. Siboney Corporation had gross revenues of $11,300,000, and after special charges of $213,000, reported a loss for the year ended Dec. 31, 1969, of $410,000.

The Colorado Corporation, a closely-held Denver-based company, whose business activities commenced in 1965, is engaged in investment underwriting, equipment and municipal leasing, recreational land development, environmental control service functions, public oil and gas exploration and development programs and natural resource exploration and development service and sales functions to institutional customers.

Siboney is engaged in the sale and leasing of air and gas compressors to the petroleum industry, and marketing of educational aids and visual learning devices, lighting products, plastic sheet and molds, asphalt products, and small commercial and instructional computers. Siboney has oil and gas properties in Texas and holds exploratory permits on approximately 1,000,000 acres in the Canadian Arctic Islands and the Hudson Bay area of Canada. Gamco and Datamate of Big Spring are members of the Siboney family.

Siboney Corporation also announced that a proposal for a one-for-five reverse split of the company's common stock, which was presented to the shareholders at the annual meeting on June 26, failed to carry. The meeting, which had been adjourned for the purpose of counting the vote, was reconvened on July 6, and the results of the vote were as follows: 1,884,615 shares voted for the proposal; 1,783,432 shares voted against the proposal; and 5,965,432 shares not voting on the proposal.

Jury Selection Continues In Trial

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) —Jury selection in the trial of Charles Dennis Easley, 18, continues today after three more persons qualified Tuesday, bringing to seven the number of jurors.

Easley is charged in the April 1 slaying of Francis Laurese Stevens, 11, of Denison.

The trial was moved to Wichita Falls on a change of venue after defense attorneys argued that Easley could not get a fair trial in Denison or Grayson County.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Thy word is true from the beginning: and everyone of Thy righteous judgments endureth forever. (Psalm 119:160)

PRAYER: Dear God, we are grateful for the Bible to which we can turn for guidance in living. Help us to be more willing to accept and apply the great lessons of the Bible to our living day by day. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

New Peace Efforts In Paris

President Nixon's full, well reasoned defense of the Cambodian foray will not, of course, silence his critics. But it did give considerable insight into his thinking and his justification for the move, just ended, of U.S. troops into Cambodia.

The President re-emphasized the willingness of the United States to negotiate in good faith with North Vietnam, saying, "To the leaders of Honoi, I say the time has come to negotiate." He stressed again the conviction that there can be no military solution to the war in Vietnam. Only a political solution will be possible, he said.

The President followed up his written report by a televised interview in which, as evidence of good faith, he announced the appointment of veteran diplomat David K. E. Bruce as chief U.S. negotiator in Paris. The post has been vacant since last December when Henry Cabot Lodge was recalled. The President also promised "concessions" to Hanoi, but did not elaborate.

Will Hanoi be moved by this fresh approach? We cannot say. At the very least it will be interested in exploring the possibility of concessions suggested by the President.

The problem at Paris has been that each side has demanded virtually an unconditional surrender. Hanoi has insisted on the unconditional withdrawal of U.S. troops and a coalition government for Saigon. Our position has been that South Vietnam, and the Saigon government we support, be free to choose its own destiny, free of "outside" (i.e., North Vietnamese) interference — Hanoi has always contended that North and South Vietnam are one and indivisible.

Reasonable and imaginative men within our government should be able to formulate new approaches to the subject of negotiation. We, as the much more powerful country, can afford to make some concessions that could lead to serious negotiation. For there can be no end to the war in Southeast Asia without a political agreement.

In this perspective, and in view of the ever-growing opposition of the American people to the war in Vietnam, there is no alternative to negotiation. Our very best efforts should be directed toward a negotiated solution, not to the prolongation of a war that cannot be won militarily.

The Business Outlook

Statements issued as of June 30 by Howard County banks show increased activity in loans, but deposits were off appreciably from a year ago.

This is not entirely unexpected, in view of the fact that a very high mark was set in 1969, when the deposit total was more that $51 million, and when uncertainties of the national economic picture are taken into consideration. Businesses are being confronted with profit squeezes, and rising prices have made it more difficult for the individual to keep his funds up. However, it is promising to note that savings accounts generally remain strong.

Howard County still depends to strong degree on its agriculture, and the outlook for a major profit year from the farm is questionable. The weather factor right now is of prime concern. And this is the season when farmers generally are borrowing money to see them through a crop year, not yet earning returns to put into deposits.

The outlook for Howard County is by no means gloomy. The new Intech operation is moving along, and in some weeks will have people on the payrolls. The Industrial Foundation continues to contact other manufacturing prospects, with some hope of obtaining other payrolls.

Business may not be spectacular, but it is not all bad. The community can keep forging ahead, given a break in improvement in the national economy.

De-Frosting

The British TV Image

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This may turn out to be the year that was for 31-year-old David Frost, the English minister's son who seems to have captivated a large segment of the American television set watchers.

From a fairly quiet start last July, when he replaced Merv Griffin as host of a syndicated talk series, Frost's audience has expanded from less than 40 to more than 70 stations, including outlets in most of the population centers.

HIS INTERVIEW program has been one of the most discussed and written about programs of the year. Frost won an Emmy for the season's best musical or variety program, although his series is neither. He received an honorary degree from Emerson College. And he makes around $10,000 a week.

Frost was first introduced to American audiences in 1962 when he was imported to give some authentic flavor to the American version of "That Was the Week That Was." Like a delicate white wine, the English idea for a spicy, brash and topical revue did not travel well. Nothing much happened until two years ago when Westinghouse brought him over to conduct a series of interviews with the American presidential candidates.

David, as is his wont, did his homework, concentrated furiously upon his subjects and turned out, among other things, one of the most perceptive interviews Sen. Robert Kennedy ever gave. Thus, when Griffin was lured by a big salary and instant network exposure to CBS, Frost was the choice as replacement.

NOT SINCE the bygone days of Jack Paar have so many people been interested in finding out what a television performer is really like. There is a difference. Paar revealed so much of himself that nobody could quite believe it; Frost, hearty and appreciative, seems to have built a wall of good manners and frantic activity between himself and his admirers. On occasion, when a program guest has attempted to turn the tables and has asked questions, Frost has been likely to freeze and remind him, "I'm the interviewer."

During most of the past season Frost was commuting on a weekly basis between his television — three shows a week — and business interests in London and his series — five a week — in New York. When the former ended, Frost had time to make the journey to Hollywood.

He handled it in typical Frost style — on a run. He taped 10 90-minute programs, in six days, including one with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who made a long detour to Los Angeles en route to Boise, Idaho, in order to sit for his verbal portrait. In the course of the remaining nine programs, he interviewed more than 30 people, ranging in scope from Gene Autry to Jack Benny and Groucho Marx.

MEANWHILE, Frost is operating on what, for him, is a relaxed pace. Although he seems to be forever flying off in all directions — his habit of ramming around with coattails flying furthers this impression — he really is a highly disciplined, almost regimented, young man.

In New York, he lives in a midtown apartment hotel, usually gets up at 8 or 8:30 and often has a "business breakfast" at the hotel. From 10:15 until 1:15 he works on the upcoming show — reading books if a guest is an author, or looking over research material prepared by the staff.

It is probably an oblique commentary on the state and quality of TV talk programs in general that the accolades bestowed most often on Frost are that he prepares himself to interview his guests and that he really listens to what they say.

"I REALLY LOVE it when something sets off a guest," he reflected. "Then you can just let them go."

But his program, he insists, is not a "personal platform" from which to express his own opinions.

"Although occasionally I will play devil's advocate or, occasionally, I'll put in a word here or there if I think some truth or viewpoint is being overlooked."

The future?

"Well, I'm looking forward to the development of the 48-hour day," he said with a grin.

Billy Graham

I am guilty of gossiping about relatives and friends. Do I have to confess to them? A.C.

Yes! And the sooner the better.

We have drifted away from the Scriptural doctrine of 'restitution.' This I believe, is one of the reasons for the lack of spiritual power among Christians today.

The sins of the 'tongue' are clearly denounced in the Scriptures, and unconfessed sin can short-circuit our spiritual power and influence.

In the Sermon on the Mount Jesus said: "If thou bring thy gift to the altar and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee; leave there thy gift before the altar . . . first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

But 'gossip' doesn't hurt others as much as it does you. It is like a lashed whip that curls back to cut the one who wields it. The only way to release from feelings of guilt is through confession — confession to the one you have wronged, and confession to God.

Peak Time For Your Brain

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Your brain is one body organ that doesn't have an obesity problem. Reaching a peak size of 3-4 pounds, it lowly begins to lose weight after 20. Maybe that's why today's college students are so much smarter than their parents.

Old Glory puts in a 24-hour day when Congress is in session. The U.S. flag then flies by night as well as by day over the Senate or House wings of the Capitol.

Trust it to the ladies to have the last word. More than 400 women now work for Uncle Sam as letter carriers in rural areas.

The United States is the safest country in the Western Hemisphere to have a baby, but—at least six European countries have lower maternal death rates. They are Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway, Belgium and Ireland.

Quotable notables: "No woman ever plays fair in any kind of competition against another woman if she can help it, and usually she cannot." — Paul Gallico.

Household hint: A lump of sugar added to a pint of olive oil will help keep it from getting rancid.

Traffic danger: Collisions between bicycles and motor vehicles now take about 800 lives yearly. More boys than girls are killed, and the accidents are 50 per cent more prevalent among children from 10 to 14 than among those under 10. Three out of four of the collisions occur during the period from April through September.

Ever wonder why steak is priced so high? One reason is that the 590-pound carcass weight of a live 1,000-pound steer yields only about 140 pounds of steak. The rest consists of roasts, 170 pounds; ground beef and stew meat, 155 pounds; bones, fat and water, 125 pounds.

Nature note: Termites, a major pest to householders in America, live up to 30 years, or about the life of a long mortgage. But in parts of Africa, where termites build mounts 12 feet high, the insects are regarded as highly nutritious. They are used to flavor many native dishes.

Advertising Always Successful?

NEW YORK (AP) — Are advertising campaigns successful? Ad agencies will waste no words in telling you they are. They won't be defensive about it either; they'll consider your question absurd.

But one astute researcher, a professor of advertising no less, undertook extensive research in seeking an answer to this question:

"To what extent do advertising agencies know whether or not their campaigns are successful?" To reach a conclusion he analyzed "proofs of success" listed by 40 ad agencies for 135 campaigns. And he decided:

"The answer is that most of the advertising agencies do not know whether their campaigns are successful or not."

An even more provocative implication was suggested—that most agencies which claimed proof of success did not even state, and probably didn't know what the objectives were for determining success.

These are among the conclusions reached by Steuart Henderson Britt, a psychologist at Northwestern University as well as a graduate school professor of marketing and advertising, in an article for the Journal of Advertising Research.

Britt is also a former agency executive, and for many years has been an advertising consultant. And so his curiosity was aroused when he came upon a compendium of "successful advertising campaigns."

To measure effectiveness, Britt decided, the programs would have to declare their objectives and then prove they met them. But, he found:

—In 133 of the 135 cases, the agencies failed to state their objectives in quantifiable, or feasurable, terms.

—Many of the agencies took credit for increased sales without proving that the sales resulted from advertising and not from factors, such as price, competition, newness of product and so on.

—In 21 instances, the advertising audience wasn't even identified.

—In 93 of the 135 cases the so-called proofs weren't directly related to the stated objectives. Britt gives this example:

'Warranty' Woes

CHICAGO (AP) — Home builders and contractors, confronted already with rising costs and tight markets, now are finding they've got another problem — they may be held liable for damages for improperly built homes.

Recently the Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the allowance of recovery for breach of warranty because of the improper installation of the heating and air conditioning ductwork by the home builder. A virtual litany of litigation has been raised against home builders and contractors for faulty workmanship, and the trend is toward more cases being brought against the builders of improperly constructed homes.

To Your Good Health

Mouth-Breathing — Children And Adults

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My little girl breathes through her mouth instead of her nose, and there is no reason for this except a habit. This causes her to have a bad breath all the time. Please tell me how to stop this habit.—Mrs. B.E.S.

I grant that the "habit" should be stopped, but before jumping to the conclusion that it is "just a habit," have your pediatrician or a nose-throat specialist examine her, because there could be a cause—enlarged adenoids and tonsils, for one. These, if infected, could also cause the bad breath.

Or is there any other obstruction interfering with easy passage of air through the nose?

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 42 and a mouth-breather at night. Could it be possible that my adenoids, at this age, would still be the cause? I've had this problem since an early age. I have tried to correct it but am unable to. I'm very self-conscious about it. — Mrs. M.B.

It's possible, although perhaps not overly likely, that some adenoidal enlargement persists. However, as I point out in the answer to the letter preceding yours, other nasal obstructions may be involved. The obstruction may not (probably does not) shut off the nasal passages completely. But if the obstruction is only partial, it still can make enough difference to cause mouth breathing.

I strongly suggest examination by a nose and throat specialist to look for polyps in the nose, bent septum between the nostrils, chronic infection or other interference.

There's not much point in trying to cure a habit if some underlying condition is causing the habit. As I've said before (maybe a thousand times?) there's no substitute for finding the cause if you expect to find the right answer.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been having pains in my ribs, and the doctor said I have a floating rib and am also seven pound overweight. Could you explain a floating rib and what causes it?—M.B.

We all have floating ribs—there are 12 ribs on each side of the chest, the first 10 attached to the breast bone with cartilage. The lower two on each side are not attached and are called floating ribs. If you are thin enough, you can feel the tips.

Floating ribs do not cause pain; there must be something more involved in your case.

* * *

Colitis can include a variety of intestinal ailments from serious to merely uncomfortable. For a better understanding of its causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Exit A Real Person

Ol' Yater would squirm if he knew someone was writing about him, and especially to say nice things. But you just can't let a great personality like Wayland Yates slip over into heaven without some remembrance.

JUST AS IT appeared that Wayland had turned the corner toward recovery, his condition took a sudden, inexplicable dive as did the airplane which sent him to the hospital. Exhausted from a week's fight for his life, he just didn't have any reserve.

Wayland came first to us in 1949 fresh out of Hardin-Simmons magna cum laude, although we never knew it until it cropped up in his obituary. His commanding officer during World War II, when he was in a glider wing, told his wife, Dorothy, that Wayland had the highest IQ in the outfit. Although he was so inately modest you would have thought he couldn't come in out of the rain, we soon found he was brilliant. On stories involving sciences and mechanics he had immediate grasp and made it simple for the reader. He was equally at home on government, agriculture, history or what have you, only you never heard him expounding.

WAYLAND WAS A real craftsman, something he must have got from his father's carpentry. It pained him to see things put together shoddily, whether a building which covered botches with moulding and paint, or a news story carelessly and lazily done. He was an implacable foe of plastic, being against anything that could break.

Integrity was the warp and woof of his nature. He could be stubborn without being offensive when it came to the principle of the thing. He was conscientious about the accuracy and fairness of his reports, and he had a deep feeling for people — little, unsung people. He was intensely loyal and devoted, and the only thing he ever hated was goathead weeds.

AROUND HERE we found him to be humble to the point of being self-deprecatory. Sometime we scolded him about it. He was smart enough to know his own potential, but he studiously avoided being anything akin to a show-off.

He warmed instinctively to people, and they to him. One of the most delightful things about his personality was his great sense of humor. Wayland could get almost hysterical with laughter in recalling off-beat incidents such as the time the color guard (overly fortified by spirits) stuck the flag spear in a ceiling radiator and jammed the pole into the floor on the way to the rostrum in the presence of a national dignitary; or a photographer's proclivity for getting broad-beamed ladies from the rear; or a reporter's padding on a business page story to say 10 different ways that you could get ice for your Thermos jug; or a report facetiously but solemnly identifying a picture (which also contained a painting of the Lord: "So-and-So, left, Jesus Christ, right.

ALL IN ALL, we probably never had a colleague who was more universally respected and admired. His ability, his willingness to work hard without complaining, his quiet personality, his sincerity and unwillingness to talk about anybody — these earned him this standing.

In appearance he was tall, almost gangly, with angular features that sort of reminded me of Lincoln, whom he was like in many more ways than appearance. His light was snuffed out prematurely, but its warmth will radiate a long time among those who served here with him.

Nixon Puts Fighting Men First

WASHINGTON—Although many millions of people watched and listened as President Nixon was interviewed last week by the representatives of the three major television networks, it may be doubted whether any substantial number caught the real significance of several of the points he made. For the expedition into Cambodia and the policies of the United States in Southeast Asia and the Middle East are so related to diplomatic intricacies that a considerable background of knowledge is needed to understand what is going on.

FOR INSTANCE, when the President explained why he did not ask the consent of Congress before sending troops into Cambodia and said that it would have defeated the whole maneuver to have had the evemy know in advance, military men everywhere understood. So did governments. But, unfortunately, the critics here in Congress have ignored this point during many weeks of debate on Capitol Hill. Meanwhile, lots of people have been led to believe the criticism was valid. Mr. Nixon declared:

"I can assure the American people that this President is going to bend over backwards to consult the Senate and consult the House whenever he feels it can be done without jeopardizing the lives of American men. But when it's a question of the lives of American men or the attitudes of the people in the Senate, I'm coming down hard on the side of defending the lives of American men."

THE PRESIDENT asserted that he would have gone to the Senate if an expanded war in Southeast Asia had been contemplated. He added that "we are not going to get involved in any more Vietnams where we do not get the approval of the Congress."

Yet the critics have charged this was what was happening, and the contention has been widely publicized. Indeed, many of the campus demonstrations have been based on that assumption.

THE PRESIDENT'S explanation of the situation in Cambodia and Vietnam and his reiteration that the United States stands firmly behind the members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization come as no surprise. Every time he states explicitly that America will adhere to its pledges, this helps to bolster the morale of Asian countries.

What the President said about the Middle East probably was his most sensational statement. For he portrayed developments there as far more serious than they have seemed to the public. He indicated that the United States will not be indifferent to what is happening and hopes to play an active role in trying to preserve peace in the Middle East.

THE PRESIDENT made clear something that has been vague for some time — namely, that the United States is not going to dictate to the South Vietnamese people that they must have a coalition government with the Communists. Mr. Nixon does not intend to insist on any such compromise from the existing regime in Saigon. He is merely urging that the people of South Vietnam must be given a chance to approve or disapprove in an election whatever government is to be established in their country.

ALTOGETHER, the President's exposition will certainly be understood and accepted by foreign governments allied with the United States. The North Vietnamese may even conclude that they are not going to gain anything by dillydallying at the peace negotiations in Paris.

The Trouble With Women—

WASHINGTON — Times keep changing while we right-minded, 110 per cent red-blooded American males struggle to keep the Republic from sinking into perdition. Times keep changing because women, confound them, keep trying to be men.

To wit, a wonderful New York saloon yclept McSorley's has been ordered by an obviously hen-pecked judge to stop barring females from its sawdust-strewn premises. And the lords of the National Press Club have voted to hold a referendum on the issue of admitting women to membership. Truly, Armageddon is upon us.

I SWEAR, I don't know what has happened to the nation's girls. They were always troublesome, of course, but in a rather sweet, feminine way. Males have been tolerant of their culinary accidents and the fact they could never find their corset, or something, when dressing for dinner with the boss. In short, we have always treated them as females — pretty little things who had to be protected from life.

SOME OF MY best friends are dames. I like the idea of there being two sexes. I join the French in raising a lusty "Vive!" to the difference. Broads are prettier than guys, and their architecture is more artfully constructed. They are more fun to eat dinner with, and their hands are just right for holding. All my kisses, save an errant smack or two for a male infant, have been aimed at females. Nobody has better babies than women. I know several girls I would be glad to make honorary men.

BUT THE TROUBLE is that ever since that incident in the Garden of Eden, women have been discontented with their lot. They do their best to look like men. They wear pants and smoke and drink and cuss. They open their own doors and bark orders at waiters. I would not be surprised to discover that some dames are secretly trying to grow mustaches.

Men, who enjoy being men, don't have a chance against women, who apparently don't like being women. The situation is unfair, because male-type men never try to be mistaken for women. They eschew lipstick. Never have I seen a man in a Dior creation. Few males appear in public in skirts that keep reaching for their navels.

LIKEWISE, men are not all the time trying to worm their way into women's private company. Dames constantly invade men's bars and pool halls and pretty soon they have the proprietor redecorating the joint in apple green with plum-colored draperies. Show me a man who ever tried to smuggle himself into a women's tea party or a fashion show and I will show you a man who is a touch uncomfortable in britches.

FEMALES ARE living dangerously when they set out to turn male. Their femininity is the one thing that sets them apart from adults with five o'clock shadow, fur-covered chests and a penchant for crap games. Comes the revolution, and they'll get all the rights they deserve. Including cleaning out the garage and paying the bills.

Dallas Man, 89, Gets Citizenship

(Editor's Note: Charley Tubb was born in Victorian Yorkshire, and Godfrey Anderson was born about 30 years later in then staid, old London. They got together this week in Dallas right after Tubb waited 89 years in the United States before getting his U.S. citizenship.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Charles Tubb stood in front of the Stars and Stripes and a Dallas judge as old as himself, and solemnly swore allegiance to the United States after 93 years as an Englishman.

Then, with a shiny new green passport in his pocket, he went on his way chuckling: "Now, I can go anywhere in the world any time I want. Now I'm going to make the most of my life."

Queen Victoria was still on the English throne when Charlie Tubb was born in Yorkshire April 23, 1877. Rutherford H. Hayes had just succeeded Gen. Ulysses S. Grant as President of the United States. Tubb's parents decided to emigrate.

They got here in 1881 when their boy was four.

THOUGHT HE WAS

When the old man died, young Charlie assumed he was an American citizen. He didn't discover that he wasn't until 1967 when he sought a visa for Australia. They refused him an American passport.

"Kinda knocked my hat off," he recalled.

He tried to prove his father had been naturalized. He couldn't. The relative documents had been destroyed in a courthouse fire.

That got Charlie's dander up.

"I thought I was a U.S. citizen and I'm sorry I wasn't," he said. "I wanted to be very badly."

His three-year fight for citizenship ended in Dallas Monday before Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, "just seven months my senior."

HURRY UP

"Mr. Tubb is in an age of vulnerability," explained naturalization examiner Leroy Combs, requesting waiver of the usual 30-day waiting period.

Charles Tubb didn't look it. Erect, white-haired, alert as ever, he corrected the examiner's statement that he first came to American when five years old. "Four," he snapped.

"I hope you live to be 100," said Judge Davidson, "and I'm going to live to see you do it."

Tubb had no doubt about it.

"I come from a line of dogs that live a long time," he cracked.

Propane Gas Use Cuts Air Pollution

TORONTO (AP) — Use of propane gas to fuel motor vehicles reduces air pollution and improves performance, according to a government study.

The preliminary study showed that hydrocarbons in the exhaust were reduced 46 per cent and that concentrations of carbon monoxide dropped 66 per cent.

A department spokesman said the vehicles encountered no mechanical problems, and drivers said they were "a lot peppier and started faster" than when they burned gasoline.

Officers Assume New Assignments At Air Base

Maj. Robert Padden and Captain Dan P. Miller have recently assumed new duties within the 2050th Communication Squadron.

Maj. Padden acquired the reins of command from Lt. Col. Robert E. Gagnon, who recently retired. Maj. Padden's previous duties as flight facilities officer have been taken over by Capt. Miller.

A native of East Los Angeles, Maj. Padden enlisted in the service in 1951 and served as an aerial gunner in B-26 Invaders and B-45 Tornados. He received his commission and aeronautical rating in 1953 through the aviation cadet program at Vance AFB, Okla. In 1960, Major Padden attended the school for air traffic control officers at Keesler AFB, Miss.

During his 19 years of active duty, the senior pilot has flown the KB-29, KB-50, C-46 and C-130. He has seen duty as instructor pilot, flight examiner, command post controller and flight facilities officer. Assignments have taken him to Florida, Mississippi, Japan, the Canal Zone and the Philippines as well as Texas.

He has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and the Air Force Commendation Medal. He married the former Betty Abbe of Waco, Tex., they have three children.

Capt. Miller, a native of Bethesda, Md., received his commission through officer training school at Lackland AFB, Tex. He attended air traffic control officer school at Keesler AFB, Miss., in 1967.

The captain has been assigned as flight facilities officer at Columbus AFB, Miss., and as chief controller of the mobile radar approach control at Korat Air Base, Thailand, prior to his duty at Webb. Captain Miller married the former Vicki Fairchild of Normal, Ill.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks before our first baby was due, my parents drove 1,800 miles to spend three months with Gilbert and me.

I love my parents, Abby, but they are not the easiest people in the world to get along with. The entire time they were here, they fought bitterly between themselves, quarreled constantly about money, and my mother criticized the way I did everything.

Gilbert is naturally a very quiet man, but my parents insisted he didn't like them, and he was "arrogant" to boot.

The day after I had my baby (which we named after my mother) Gilbert came to the hospital and told me that my parents had packed up and gone home that morning without even saying good-by. Knowing they were on the road, I couldn't get in touch with them, but three days later my mother called and told me that Gilbert never talked to them and they were tired of being treated like two pieces of furniture, so they went home.

Abby, I had to stick up for my husband, which I did. Now I'm getting nasty letters from my mother (signed by my father, too) and I'm so upset I can't sleep nights. Should I apologize to them and insist that Gilbert apologize, too? I still think my parents were out of line.

UPSET AND HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: If you are telling it "like it was" if there is any apologizing to be done, I think your parents ought to do it. (They sound "sick" to me.) You must protect your own mental health, so write your parents and tell them that until they behave in a civilized manner, you would rather not hear from them. And if they write one more "nasty" letter, you will return all subsequent letters — unopened.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: May I add a few words of advice to the mother whose daughter is such a poor housekeeper? SAVE YOUR BREATH!

I know whereof I speak. For 15 years I have had a married daughter who answers the description of yours.

I tried. I scolded, bribed, wept, shamed, worked with her, for her, against her. I stayed away, I tried again. I gave her suggestions, a dishwasher, a sweeper, money, my cleaning woman, and the benefit of the doubt. I gave up.

It must be a disease. A kind of "blindness" — a complete lack of something in one's character that permits a person to live with clutter and disorder and remain unconcerned. (And she's usually the type who leaves her own home a mess, and goes out to help others.)

If by chance, Abby, you should hear of anyone having "cured" such a person, please let me know how it was done.

ANOTHER MOTHER

P.S. Abby, if you should print my letter, please don't use my name or city. I love my daughter, and she has many fine qualities, but she's a lousy housekeeper.

* * *

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Friends Of The Library Schedule Book Fair Project

Friends of Howard County Library plan to discuss a used book sale Thursday at their organizational meeting at 2 p.m. in the Community Room of the First Federal Building.

"The book fair is our initial project," said Mrs. Calvin Daniels, president. The group was formed several weeks ago and will work closely with librarian Mrs. Edna Nichols and her staff in future weeks as plans are made to move into new library facilities in the remodeled post office building at Fourth and Scurry.

A number of discarded and out of date books from the library will be sold. Persons who have books they wish to donate for the sale are asked to take them to 217 Main between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. July 20-24.

The sale runs July 24-25 at the same address in what used to be Silent Woman Inn.

Proceeds go into a fund to buy needed items for the new library.

Equipment being considered include a microfilm reader, a film splicer for upkeep of loaned films, and instructional records in shorthand and foreign languages.

Goals of the library organization include creating public support, encouraging gifts, endowments and memorials, providing direct financial assistance by purchasing special items, intensifying community awareness and library use, sponsoring cultural programs, and serving as public relations liaison between the library and community.

Officers include Mrs. Daniels, president; Mrs. Ken Taylor, vice president; Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, secretary; Mrs. Granville Hahn, treasurer; Mrs. Don Wiley, art; Mrs. Larson Lloyd, speakers bureau; Mrs. Wade Choate, ways and means; Mrs. Ken Perry, furniture coordinator; and Mrs. Jack Little, story hour.

Says Wage Hike To Hurt Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A farm spokesman told Congress today that increasing federal minimum wage rates or extending them to more farm workers would drive up production costs and force many smaller operators out of business.

Bruce N. Lynn, president of the National Cotton Council, told a House labor subcommittee that proposals now before Congress for raising wage standards also would "weaken the competitive position of our entire industry" in its struggle against manmade fibers and foreign cotton.

"When the farm wages are forced upward by legislative action," Lynn said in prepared testimony, "the farm labor force itself shares the resulting hardship."

Congress in 1966 applied federal minimum wage standards to farm labor on a limited front. Proposals now before Congress would include an expansion of these requirements to more workers in addition to raising the wage minimum.

The minimum farm wage rate is $1.30 per hour but applies only to larger operations hiring five or six full-time hired workers on a year-round basis.

This compares with $1.60 per hour for industrial workers. The farm minimum wage law exempts farmer-employers who have fewer than 500 man-days of hired labor during their peak three-month quarter.

Lynn said a result of the 1966 law was to force many cotton producers, for example, into more mechanization and use of chemicals to replace 178,000 hired workers in the major cotton states.

A bill introduced by Rep. John H. Dent, D-Penn., would hike the nation's basic minimum wage to $2.50 per hour, including a minimum of $1.75 for hired farm workers. It also would eliminate all present exemptions and apply the minimum to all hired workers.

MARJORIE RAMBEAU

Death Takes Vet Actress

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Character actress Marjorie Rambeau, whose lusty, grande dame roles won her two Oscar nominations, died Tuesday after a long illness. She was 80.

A veteran of more than 60 years on stage and screen, she was featured in movies and television even after a car accident left her crippled 25 years ago.

Miss Rambeau became the youngest leading lady in the history of the American professional theatre in 1902 when she played the title role in "Camille" in Portland, Ore., at the age of 13.

After success on Broadway, Miss Rambeau was one of the first stage actresses brought to Hollywood to star in early talkie films. Her first movie was "Her Man" in 1930.

She drew Oscar nominations for best supporting actress in 1940 for "Primrose Path" and in 1953 for "Torch Song."

Her movies included, "Tobacco Road," "Tugboat Annie Sails Again," "Man of a Thousand Faces" and "A Man Called Peter."

Alamo Mayor's Talk Draws Fire

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Mayor W. W. McAllister's remarks on Mexican - Americans in a network television interview have spurred demands for his resignation.

The mayor, 81, who was accused of making racist statements, said his comments were taken out of context.

"I'm never going to say 'boo turkey' to any of them again," he said of television networks.

He came under fire most for his views on the ambitions of Mexican-Americans.

"They interviewed me for a whole hour," McAllister said Tuesday, "and they took my remarks and ran them out of context so that they sounded entirely different than they had when I made them."

The interview appeared in a series on Mexican-Americans on NBC's "Huntley - Brinkley Report" Monday night.

Tuesday afternoon, an outspoken Mexican-American leader, a city councilman and an official of the local American Civil Liberties Union had demanded McAllister's resignation.

"You have to bear in mind," he said in the NBC interview, "that there is a ... difference of temperament between the Anglos and our Americans of Mexican descent."

Scenes of San Antonio's poor Mexican-American section flashed on the screen.

He said Mexican - Americans "are very fine people ... they are home loving, they love beauty, they love flowers, they love music, they love dancing."

"Perhaps they're not quite as ambitiously motivated as the Anglos are to get ahead financially, but they manage to get a lot out of life."

Bexar County Commissioner Albert Pena, longtime Mexican-American leader in Texas, said McAllister should either apologize of resign. He labeled the mayor's comment "obviously a racist statement."

Pete Torres, an independent city councilman and often a severe critic of McAllister, said the mayor had "shown that he is incompetent. If he is not going to be a mayor for all the people of San Antonio, he ought to resign."

Snakey Steaks Not Like What Mom Used To Cook

How does fried rattlesnake taste? "A lot like fried rattlesnake," according to Bob Perkins, Olney.

Perkins was the reluctant sampler of rattlesnake prepared National Jaycees Convention at the St. Louis Arena in June. The sinuous menu was furnished by the Big Spring Jaybys by the Texas delegation to the cees. The snakes were part of over 800 snared in a hunt prior to the convention.

The snakes were beheaded, skinned and de-rattled before shipment to the convention. Charles Thornbill, Haskell, and John Wolf, Burkburnett, gourmet chefs Texas style, prepared the snakey cuisine.

The ribbon-like meat was cut into two-inch slices, dipped into a seasoned batter and flour, then deep-fried. "It tastes just like fried chicken," Thornbill informed a skeptical reporter from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The white part of the snake is recommended as the best-tasting by expert Thornbill. Asked whether it should be eaten with red or white wine, Thornbill replied: "Just beer, beer and rattlesnake. Best thing in the world."

Maj. Glenn E. Jones Speaks On Conflict

Maj. Glenn E. Jones, a 16-year Air Force veteran and holder of numerous service medals, discussed "The Challenge of Preserving Freedom" when he was guest speaker Monday evening for the Desk and Derrick Club.

Maj. Jones has completed two tours of duty in Southeast Asia where he lived and worked directly with its people. He pointed out that after World War II one out of 17 people lived under communism, and 20 years later, the ratio had changed to one out of three.

Noting that it is hard for many Americans to generally understand the participation of the United States in the war in Vietnam as a means of fighting communism on a global basis, he said, in fact, the war has actually been going on a long time. It began, he said, prior to World War II and was quickened as France lost control in French Indochina and withdrew in the 1950's.

In discussing unrest in the United States, he said, "A lot of it is Communist-financed and Communist-inspired." He suggested several books which he thought Americans should read. They included "Masters of Deceit" by J. Edgar Hoover, "You Can Trust the Communists" by Fred Swartz and "The Enemy Has Done This" by Ezra Taft Benson.

In conclusion, the speaker said a "God-fearing society" that adheres to the principals of the 10 commandments is the hope of the future.

The club agreed to finance a trip to the state convention for one delegate and an alternate. The meeting is slated Sept. 10-12 in Atlanta, Ga.

The next meeting will be Aug. 3 when a dinner party will be held in observance of the club's anniversary.

Willie Davis Feasts On Houston Hurling

By The Associated Press

Artificial turf might not be everybody's ideal playground, but the ersatz greenery has been a magic carpet for Los Angeles' Willie Davis and Cincinnati's unsung pitching staff.

Davis cracked four hits and drove in four runs on the synthetic turf of the Houston Astrodome Tuesday night, leading the Dodgers past the Astros 7-2 for their sixth consecutive victory.

The swift center fielder, batting .306 over-all, has hit at a .517 clip (30 for 58) on artificial playing surfaces in Houston, San Francisco and St. Louis.

Davis hasn't had a shot yet at the Astroturf of Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium, where the runaway Reds blanked San Diego 3-0 behind right-handers Gary Nolan and Clay Carroll.

The power-packed National League West leaders have hit just four home runs in nine games at their new park, but their pitchers have hurled four shutouts in the last six.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets nipped St. Louis 4-3 and clung to one-half game East Division lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who beat Philadelphia 4-2; San Francisco downed Atlanta 8-5 and the Chicago Cubs slugged Montreal 10-7.

The Dodgers snapped a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning on Len Gabrielsen's run-scoring pinch single and then wrapped it up with four runs in the eighth . . . the first three on Davis' bases-loaded triple. Davis also knocked in the tying run in the fifth with one of his three singles.

Despite their streak, the second place Dodgers remained 9½ games behind the Reds, who reeled off their fourth straight victory as Nolan, 10-4, and reliever Carroll combined to scatter seven hits.

Ron Swoboda drew a bases-loaded walk on a 3-and-2 pitch with two out in the ninth, giving the Mets their fifth straight victory. Jerry Grote's third hit, a single by Tommie Agee that extended his hitting streak to 18 games and an intentional walk set the stage for the deciding walk issued by reliever Sal Campisi.

Dick Dietz delivered five runs with a single and his 18th homer, a three-run blast in the seventh that severed a 5-5 knot, as the Giants came from behind to beat Atlanta and ended a four-game losing string.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The night last week that Denny McLain charged the hill against New York at home, a total of 235,444 paying customers watched baseball in 12 big league parks — and that was on a Wednesday.

The grave diggers for the grand old game may have to wait awhile.

There are lots of us who look back on World War II as something that occurred in the recent past.

John Todd, who joins the Goliad Junior High School coaching staff here this fall as a seventh grade mentor, was born two years after the great conflict ended, however.

The Denver City native once attended Howard County JC.

Alex Johnson, one of the power hitters for the California Angels, isn't making many friends around the American League.

He's curt to writers and well wishers and downright hostile to a team of umpires captained by Ed Runge. Runge threw him out of the opening game against Milwaukee April 7 and Johnson doesn't forgive easily.

Several times Johnson has charged at Runge or members of his crew while running out ground balls, as if to bowl them over.

Some writers are urging that "Bad Alex," as he is called by a few critics, by dry docked for a couple of weeks or until he has learned to be civil to people.

Alex is a native of Helena, Ark.

He reasons he has the best two assistants in the county in offensive line coach Bill Willingham and defensive mentor Melvin Robertson.

Leonard Koppett, a writer for the New York Times, says that organized baseball can adjust and survive, no matter what the court ruling is in Curt Flood's suit attacking the game's reserve clause.

If the clause is declared illegal, Koppett contends, it will mean a lot of work and inconvenience for lawyers, general managers' club owners and representatives of players — and it will certainly mean that more money will be paid to some players in some situations.

The baseball establishment is howling needlessly, however, according to the writer (whose reasoning is sometimes suspect.)

The effect on the finished product, according to Koppett, will not be great, no matter what Judge Irving Ben Cooper's ruling is.

The word "slavery," as employed by Flood in his case against baseball, was strictly an emotional word, an unnecessary exaggeration probably deliberately inflammatory.

Denny Lemaster is the Houston Astros' players' representative and as such signed the letter which asked that writers be barred from team buses returning to hotels from ball parks. (The order was invoked, then rescinded).

The action caused one Houston writer to remark:

"The way Lemaster is going, he may be driving the bus next year."

The order was ill-advised, from the start. There are baseball parks around the country located in decaying sections where persons who leave press boxes late cannot flag down taxicabs back to their hotels. The cabbies want no part of those areas late at night.

Promoters Bid To Ban Decree On Clay Bout

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Charleston County Council said Tuesday that it won't permit former world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay—now Muhammad Ali—to fight in its 4,000-seat County Hall.

Promoter Reggie Barrett said his attorneys would seek an injunction to prevent the council from stopping the exhibition.

Clay is scheduled to spar in two three-round matches Thursday night.

Barrett said the fight might take place at a local speedway that seats about 2,000 in bleachers. The promoter added that in any case the fight definitely will be held.

That's a long way from the last time Muhammad fought—November, 1967, before a packed house in New York's Madison Square Garden, where he knocked out Zoara Folley of Phoenix in the seventh round.

And it seemed like a far different fighter Tuesday night as the 28-year-old former champ fielded questions in a telephone interview—no longer full of limericks, innuendos and spirited predictions about the outcome of matches and future prospects.

After 2½ years of court battles on his draft status, a marriage gone sour, and no action in the ring, he said he was "just doing what the promoters tell me to do,"

He is to receive expenses only for the exhbition, with proceeds benefitting under priviledged boys.

Clay's promoter said the County Council's action to block the appearance was "typical bigotry that exists in the South and in Charleston."

Meanwhile, Clay is just biding his time until Thursday night. He said he might "run about three miles" this afternoon and that he had "brought a little exercise equipment along with me."

British Open Site May Play Easier

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, (AP) — A field of 134 of the world's greatest golfers teed off today in pursuit of the 1970 British Open Golf Championships and for the first time there was a chorus of voices claiming that somebody is taking the fire out of the Old Course.

To hear golfers beefing that the 6,951-yard par-72 links has been softened is rather like listening to mountain climbers who say Mt. Everest is a piece of cake.

Yet, this is happening as the most dramatic British Championship in a very long time pitted defender Tony Jacklin against Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Roberto de Vicenzo and innumerable other kings of the dollar-mad golf world for the next four days of 72 holes.

LED AMATEURS

"They've taken the fire out of it," said Guy Wolstenholme, an Englishman who led the amateur field here with 283 in 1960 when Kel Nagel of Australia just beat Palmer by one stroke. Wolstenholme turned professional and now makes a good living out of Australia.

"They sprinkle the greens, they sprinkle the fairways and they've taken the sting out of the tail of the Old Course," the tall Briton observed.

"Once you could see your face on the shining greens," Wolstenholme mused.

"This was the magic of the Old Course. Now they are turning into just another target Golf American course and something is lost."

Others who either hated or loved this seaside links where the game was born echoed the same kind of resentment over the modern American idea of taking all the chance out of golf shots and substituting mechanical skill.

MORE

Lee Trevino, disagreed with all this.

"All they are doing now, and for the first time, is making it fair," he said. "If you hit a fairway the ball should bounce straight and if you hit a green it should act that way.

WENT ASTRAY

"At Lytham last year (when Jacklin won the British Open) I hit one tremendous shot which bounced right off the golf course. Who wants it?"

This was the view Bobby Jones once held about St. Andrews and changed his mind. It also was what Sam Snead said, as well, but he never recanted.

Rabbits Seeking Milwaukee Loot

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Open golf tournament, a $110,000 affair that could be dubbed "The Rabbit Run Open," begins Thursday with only a handful of name players on hand to chase the $22,000 first prize.

Bruce Crampton, an Australian who has missed the last couple of tournaments, defending champion Ken Still and burly Bob Lunn are among the top players competing.

Most of the glamor names of the game—almost all the leading money winners, along with Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Gary Player, Tony Jacklin—are in Scotland for the British Open.

That left Milwaukee officials with one of the thinnest fields of the year. There were 57 spots open for the qualifiers, the so-called rabbits, as opposed to a norm of about 20.

Most of the younger players on the tour hastened to fill them, taking advantage of the absence of the game's giants to make some money and possibly gain a one-week exemption for the rich summer swing that begins next week in Philadelphia.

"If any of these young kids miss this one, they're out of their minds," one PGA official said.

Only six 1970 tournament winners are entered and one of those—Ron Cerrudo—is very doubtful. Cerrudo, winner of the San Antonio-Texas Open—has missed the last five tournaments with chronic back trouble.

The other winners this year on hand are Kermit Zarley, winner of last week's Canadian Open, Lunn, Mike Hill, Pete Brown and Gibby Gilbert, who may be the favorite.

Gilbert, the surprise winner of the Houston-Champions International, finished second last week and pushed his money earnings for the year to over $52,000.

Lunn, the powerful young Californian who took the Citrus Invitational, has been off for a week or so and could be another top choice.

Some other leading contenders include Dave Stockton, veteran Howie Johnson, R.H. Sikes and Bob Goalby. Chi Chi Rodriguez, a non-winner for two years but with his game back in gear last week, could be another top candidate.

The site for the 72-hole test is the 7,135-yard, par-72 North Shore country club course, a relatively flat, wide-open expanse.

Colts Shade Yanks, 7-4

The American League's Colts moved into the second round of the Little League City playoffs by defeating the National's Yankees, 7-4, on the National diamond Tuesday night.

The red-hot Colts scored all their runs before the Yankees could count.

Ken McMurtrey achieved the mound win. He was tagged for six hits but spaced them effectively.

The Colts qualified to meet the International champions, the Rockets, at 8 o'clock this evening on the International diamond. The Rockets drew a first round bye.

IRATE FAN GOES AFTER UMP — An unidentified fan is held by California Angels' catcher Tom Egan after he ran unto the field between the 8th and 9th innings and attacked umpire Red Flaherty. Slumping Yanks Face Decline In Station

By The Associated Press

It was only three weeks ago that New York's resurrected Yankees were eyeing first place in the American League's East Division. Now they're peeking over their shoulders instead.

Nine losses in the last 11 games—the latest a 6-2 whipping in Baltimore Tuesday night—have dropped the Yanks a fat 5* games off the Orioles' pace and closer to fourth place then they are to first.

Detroit is hot on theYankees' trail and a twi-night doubleheader split with Boston left the Tigers just one-half game back of New York. Boston is running fourth in the American League East.

Boston won the first game 8-4 but the Tigers bounced back with a 4-3 decision in the 10-inning nightcap. Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Washington 7-3 and 7-5, Milwaukee took two from Chicago 4-3 i 12 innings and 1-0, Minnesota topped Oakland 4-2 and Kansas City edged California 4-3.

TIMES CHANGE

Three weeks ago, New York's mini-Bombers had crept to within 1* games of the first place Orioles and were anxiously looking forward to the three-game series that started in Baltimore Tuesday night.

But the bottom has been falling out since then and their slide has made the series crucial only to the Yankees, trying to hang on to second place, but not the Birds.

New York rallied for a run in the ninth inning Tuesday to tie the score at 2-2 but it was a momentary thing. A walk, Frank Robinson's single and an error by Gene Michael loaded the bases in the bottom of the 10th and then Brooks Robinson crashed a grand slam homer to win it for Baltimore.

Mike Cuellar won his 10th, retiring 14 straight batters over one stretch after allowing an ealy homer to Yankee pitcher Mel Stottlemyre.

Rookie Elliot Maddox, whose eighth inning double had tied the score, gave Detroit its second game victory over Boston when he opened the 10th with a home run. Reggie Smith and Mike Andrews hit consecutive homers for the Sox.

Smith, who had five hits and four RBIs in the doubleheader, started a three-run Boston rally in the first inning of the opener with a homer and Rico Petrocelli later added a two-run clout. Jim Northrup hit a pair for the Tigers.

Milwaukee moved past Chicago into fifth place in the West by sweeping the White Sox.

HOMER DOES IT

Ted Savage's pinch homer in the 12th inning broke up the opener for the Brewers and rewarded Marty Pattin, who went all the way, with the victory. In the nightcap, Lew Krausse pitched a four-hitter and turned in Milwaukee's first shutout of the season. Mike Hegan scored the game's only run when he doubled, moved up on a sacrifice and came in on a throwing error.

The sweep gave Milwaukee four straight victories. Chicago has dropped eight of the last nine.

CORNERBACK AILING
Lemm Worries As Work Nears

HOUSTON (AP) — It's still eight days before the Houston Oilers report to training camp at Schreiner Institute in Kerrville, but already Head Coach Wally Lemm is worried.

One of his worries is the threatened player strike in the National Football League, which could upset everyone's training camps.

Olen Underwood, the Oilers' player representative, said the players do not want to strike.

"The question is, do the owners want a strike?" Underwood said.

Lemm is also worried about cornerback John Douglas, who is in the hospital with a bad back. It has been bothering him since his college days at Texas Southern University and surgery has been mentioned.

The off-and-on injury was on again while Douglas was covering Jerry Levias as the players worked out on their own last week.

"We both went for the ball and it felt like I had a flat tire in my hip," Douglas said.

Douglas originally signed with the New Orleans Saints but was picked up by the Oilers last year as a free agent.

Should the left cornerback have to undergo the knife, the Oilers have Bob Adkins who can play the position.

Adkins was acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals along with quarterback Charlie Johnson last year in a trade which sent Miller Farr and Pete Beathard to St. Louis.

Lemm had hoped to use Adkins as a wide receiver.

A third worry of Lemm's is the possible replacement of tight end Ed Carrington. The former Virginia starter, who played behind Alvin Reed, recently took his bar exam and is considering retiring from the game.

Should Carrington become a full time barrister, Donnie Davis and Rich Dawkins will back up Reed.

Fifty players, including rookies and some veterans, will be on hand at camp July 14 with the remainder of the vets reporting July 19.

Missing will be 1970 draft choices Doug Wilkerson and Spike Jones, both of whom will be in the college All-Star game.

Wilkerson, the Oilers' No. 1 draft choice, is a 255-pound guard from North Carolina Central and Jones, a fourth round pick, is a punter from Georgia.

Stars Move Up In City Play

Blanked for five innings, the Stars of the American League rallied to tie the count in the sixth and pushed across a run in the first extra inning to topple the Texas League's Tigers, 2-1, in the American park Tuesday night.

Three American teams are still eligible for the title scrap in the Little League City playoffs.

The Stars swing back into action at 8 o'clock this evening against the National's Cardinals in the National park.

Burks Faces AL's Hawks

The Texas League Lions, 3-2 winner over the International Sabres in the first round of the Little League City playoffs Tuesday, will come back with Craig Burks this evening in their game with the American's Hawks.

The contest, which pits the top-rated team in the American League against the No. 2 club in the Texas circuit, will start at 8 p.m. in the American Park.

The Lions managed only two hits off Sabre pitching and Burks got one of those. The other was by the winning pitcher, Roy Recio.

Recio shut out the Sabres until the sixth and by that time had a 3-0 edge.

Merchants Win 2 At Vincent

VINCENT — The Big Spring Merchants, the community's busiest softball team this season, swept a doubleheader from Vincent here Tuesday night, 9-0 and 7-6.

The first contest was never close but the Merchants had to rally for four runs in the sixth inning to salvage the afterpiece.

Jim Ward hurled a two-hitter for the Big Spring team in the opener, surrendering blows only to Max Barr and Shaw. Both of those came in the sixth inning.

Gene Tyra had three of the Merchants' seven hits in the second contest. His sixth inning blow kept the Merchant rally alive.

The Vincent team could manage only three hits off two Big Spring pitchers in the second game but scored twice in the second and three times in the third to take a substantial lead.

A run by Charles Lendermon actually swung the issue for the Merchants. Lendermon had walked to reach base.

Bishop Supports Orderly 'Raza'

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Auxiliary Bishop Patrick Flores, the nation's first Mexican-American Roman Catholic bishop, has given a qualified endorsement to militant activity in causes of the Spanish surnamed.

Discussing the Mexican-American drive for unity, known as "La Raza Unida," the bishop stated, "We're going to have to be militant without being unreasonable or unlawful."

He also reiterated endorsement of the "La Raza Unida" movement at a meeting of about 150 persons sponsored by the Federation for the Advancement of Mexican-Americans.

The meeting was called to promote interest in a "La Raza Unida" conference scheduled in Austin Saturday.

"I want to encourage those behind the movement," Bishop Flores said, "because I stand for the philosophy and theology of la raza unida," a united race.

He advised the Spanish surnamed to unite and work toward a better life and warned against rivalry between the many Mexican-American organizations in Texas.

"People call me and ask what is the purpose of la raza unida, and ask, 'are they militant?'" the San Antonio bishop said. "I answer, 'I hope they are.'"

He cited the church as an example of militancy, having preached for the betterment of mankind throughout its history.

"As long as we seek justice, militancy is the word of the day" he said.

"A while back I was afraid of a group like MAYO (Mexican-American Youth Organization)" Bishop Flores said. "But these young people have a tremendous message for us."

He said he hoped nuns and priests will be willing to join the raza unida effort.

Girls Getting Bit Bustier

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Girls are getting bustier but slimmer, judging from measurements of international beauties gathered here for the 1970 Miss Universe Pageant.

"Girls are fuller busted than they used to be, and we are adjusting swimsuits of the contestants accordingly," said June Wylie, who saw to it that queens from 44 nations were fitted.

For the first time in the 19-year history of the Miss Universe Pageant, Miss Wylie reported, a special swimsuit was made to fit a contestant.

Miss Wylie sent a rush order to her firm, Catalina, Inc., in Los Angeles for a suit to fit bosomy Miss Czechoslovakia.

"She has a 39-inch bust and a slender back," Miss Wylie explained.

Miss U.S.A. shapely, brown haired Debbie Shelton of Norfolk, Va., matched Miss Hanazalova's bust size. Her 39-24-36 figure blended neatly into a regular swimsuit.

"Girls are built differently than they used to be," Miss Wylie noted. "They are slimmer in the hips and fuller in the bosom.

"The size has progressively gotten smaller. There used to be maybe a half-dozen size 16's at the Miss Universe Pageant. This year there are none, and only three 14's."

Billy Smiles, But Red Cries

CATHEDRAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — Billy Long's face shone with a big grin as he reached out to shake hands with Red Skelton.

Billy, 7, and his family drove from Des Moines, Iowa, to Southern California last week to give Billy a chance to see Disneyland and one of his idols, comedian Skelton. Doctors said the boy suffers from a terminal brain tumor that will blind him in several weeks.

Gov. Ronald Reagan read a news story about Billy. The governor arranged for tickets at Disneyland and sent his limousine Monday to take Billy, his parents and three brothers and sisters to Skelton's Riverside County home.

Skelton, whose son died of leukemia several years ago, presented Billy with a greeting card. The illustration of Skelton dressed as a clown was inscribed, "Hello, Billy. Your friend, Red Skelton."

Skelton gave the family a tour of his cottage and his wife, Georgia, served sandwiches and cold drinks.

There were tears in the comedian's eyes as he waved goodbye.

WHAT HAPPENED TO BACON RINDS?
New riot gun fires pieces of wood

Riot Gun Uses Wood 'Bullets'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Police in this University of California city with a history of campus-related disorders are now using anti-riot weapons firing wooden pellets "which sting like the dickens but don't penetrate the skin."

"The rioters have started getting cute on us," Lt. Michael Healy told a newsman Monday. "They don't get close to you. They hold back to the distance they can throw rocks from. But this pellet-thrower, which we found in Hong Kong, gives us access to them."

The blunt wooden pellets have caused no serious injuries thus far, Healy said.

Healy said the weapon — described as new to the United States — helped stop a disturbance last Saturday when some 500 demonstrators rampaged through streets after an "Anti-Honor America" rally, breaking windows and throwing rocks at police.

The pellets, like slices of a one-inch-diameter broomstick, are stacked five deep in a metal cartridge like a shotgun shell. The pellets "are circular, insuring against skin penetration," Healy said.

The shells are loaded into a gun similar to a tear gas launcher with a 1½-inch-diameter barrel and fired with compressed gas, not gunpowder.

Asks Resumption Of Gulf Drilling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Edwin W. Edwards, D-La., urged today that the Interior Department allow a resumption of offshore oil and gas explorations in the Gulf of Mexico.

The department suspended all oil-gas lease sales in the area last February after a fire and leak at a Chevron Oil Co. platform.

Subsequently, the department proposed that 137 tracts in the gulf offshore of western Louisiana be opened for leasing. It has scheduled a public hearing in New Orleans July 14 to receive public comments.

Edwards said he will ask the department at the hearing to clear the way for resumption of offshore explorations.

4-H Horse Show Decides Eligibles For District

The Howard County 4-H Elimination Horse Show was held Monday night in the Knott riding arena to determine those who will compete in the district show.

Winners to go on to district include Carolyn Roane, showmanship, Cheryl Roane, grand champion mare, and Jeff Mitchell, grand champion gelding.

Others who will compete at district level are Larry Don Shaw, Brenda Jackson, Johnny Peugh, Dale Mitchell, Sid Westbrook, Linda Nanny, and Glenda Addy. According to assistant county agent Jim Allison, the District 2 horse show will be held at Post on Wednesday, July 15, just north of the city on US 84. Ten 4-H-ers from each of the 20 South Plains counties in the district may enter the competition. Registration will begin at 8 a.m., with judging under way at 9 a.m.

Judy Hayes, Snyder, and Jay Kearney, Hobbs, N.M., will judge halter classes while C. W. Green and Dub Sims, Midland, will judge showmanship.

Halter classes will be judged first and will be followed by showmanship, western pleasure, reining, pole bending and barrel racing, says Allison.

Winners in district competition will then compete on the statewide level.

Promotions Go To 32 At Webb AFB

The promotion of Maj. Robert P. Ness of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron to the rank of lieutenent colonel led the promotion list at Webb for eight officers and 24 in-and-to the noncommissioned officers ranks.

Three first lieutenants will be pinning on their double silver bars as they reach the rank of captain during the month. They are: 1st Lts. Roger J. Thomas, 3560th Pilot Training Squadron, and Phillip C. Clark and William F. B. Morris, 3561st Student Squadron.

Four second lieutenants will also be moving up the ranks and be eligible to don the silver bar this month, they are: 2nd Lts. Agatha M. Gallo and Janet M. Walsh, 3560th USAF Hospital, and William A. Higgin Jr., 3560th Pilot Training Squadron.

The 2050th Communications Squadron led in the promotion parade for the noncommissioned officers. Out of the total 24 promoted, the squadron netted eight. One of them is SSgt. Charles W. Holcombe who is the only one eligible to sew on his fifth stripe.

Unusually, the promotions to staff sergeant outnumbered those being promoted to "buck". Of the 13 three stripers being promoted to staff, two were from the 3560th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, two from Air Base Group, two from Field Maintenance Squadron and two from communications.

They are: Robert J. Houser and Charles L. Phillips, OMS: Buck J. Bryant and Richard A. Natelborg, ABGp; Dennis M. Hebert and Darrel L. King, FMS; Robert E. Luebben, Walter Muszkinsky, Orris Q. Scott, Anthony Stretman and Donald B. Wareham, student squadron; and Russell A. Combs and Theodore P. Henderson, communications.

Ten airmen first class were picked from their respective squadrons to join the NCO ranks. They are: James H. Price, AMS, Jons G. Steffey, ABGp, Samuel Jennins Jr., supply, and Benjamin Lara and Chester Rowland Jr., field maintenance.

The communications squadron took the most number of promotions by having five of the 10 members being promoted to sergeant. They are: Carl W. Hill, Dannie L. McBride, Gary R. McCrummen, Neil D. Raymond and Ray M. Reiss Jr.

Also on the work schedule for the week were the sheeting of the main building and pouring of 7,500 square feet of concrete slab. The sheeting and pouring activity was to take most of the week, as preparations are under way for the next pour of another 7,500 square feet.

A number of Big Spring sub contractors have been on the job, along with labor employed locally. Subs include W. D. Tests State's Abortion Law

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A petition designed to test the constitutionality of the Texas abortion laws was filed today in 142nd District Court by Dr. W. B.D. Cooper, now serving five years in the state penitentiary.

Dr. Cooper, a longtime Midland physician, was convicted in 1967 of driving while intoxicated. He was given a five-year probated sentence.

Then in 1968 the probation was revoked on the basis of allegations of an attempted abortion. He was not charged.

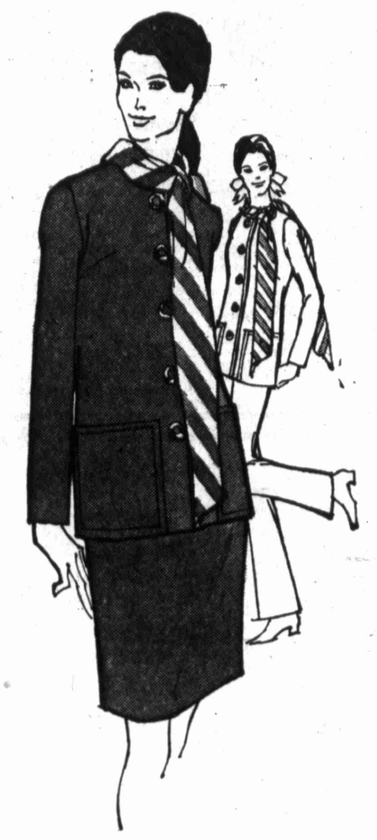

A writ of habeas corpus filed Tuesday alleged that the Texas abortion laws violate the U.S. Constitution.

The laws are unconstitutional, it was argued, because of their vagueness, because they are "unconstitutionally archaic, and under contemporary social conditions and in the light of modern scientific and medical advances, they are no longer operable and effective in practical application as a valid and constitutional exercise of the police power."

A three-judge federal panel in Dallas recently declared the state abortion laws unconstitutional.
