Appreciation event...

Wall's open house slated by chamber 'til noon Tuesday

An open house "in appreciation" of Wall's Industries will be conducted from 10 a.m. until noon Tuesday, at the local manufacturing facility.

The event is sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Chamber officers and members of the Gold Coats will be on hand to welcome those attending.

Refreshments will be served beginning at 10 a.m. and tours of the facility will be offered by Wall's staff members during the morning.

Wall's has been operating in Snyder for some 11 years and currently employs 101 individuals.

The Cleburne-based operation for Wall's Industries has eight facilities in West Texas including Snyder. Others are located in Cleburne, Big Spring, Sweetwater, Merkel, Clifton, Hamilton and Gatesville.

At Tuesday's open house, three top level Wall's officials are expected to include Ron Istre, senior vice president for manufacturing and distribution. Others due include Pete Davaney, employee relations manager, and Garland Braune, production engineer manager.

The plant managers for the other Wall's facilities are special guests also.

Manager for the local plant and outlet store is Bob Hobgood.

The local plant exclusively manufactures Wall's brand of insulated coveralls.

Senator gives North 'patriotic' lecture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Col. Oliver North listened in somber silence today as a member of the Senate Iran-Contra committee lectured him that opponents of aid to the Nicaraguan rebels "still love God and still love this country just as much as you do."

"Although He is regularly asked to do so, God does not take sides in American politics," Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, a former federal judge, addressed North at the nationally televised hearing.

"And in America, disagreement with the policies of the government is not evidence of lack of patriotism," Mitchell said.

North sat virtually motionless at the witness table, his eyes glistening, as Mitchell spoke. Leaving the room during a recess immediately afterwards, North said, "I have no comment."

Mitchell's lecture represented the first attempt by a member of the committee to turn the tables on North, who has used his previous four days in the witness chair to rally support for the Nicaraguan Contras while stoutly insisting he broke no laws during his tenure at the National Security Council.

Mitchell, a second-term senator, cited North's plea at Friday's hearings, "when you asked that Congress not cut off aid to the Contras, for the love of God and for the love of country....

"I now address a plea to you," he said.

"Debate this issue forcefully and vigorously as you have and as you surely will. But please do it in a way that respects the patriotism and the motives of those who disagree with you, as you would have them respect you."

North's day in the witness chair was apt to be his last. Despite his riveting testimony last week, committee officials already were looking ahead to the expected appearance beginning on Tuesday of Adm. John Poindexter, the former national security adviser.

According to one memo that Poindexter initialed in 1986, President Reagan was briefed on the use of Iran arms sale profits for a series of far-flung covert operations to be kept secret from Congress.

Mitchell's lecture on civics came after North, who played a key role in several arms-for-hostages swaps, testified that he does not believe the Reagan administration had made "concessions to terrorists."

North, testifying for the fifth day at the nationally televised congressional Iran-Contra hearings, also said anew that he never violated the law in his tenure at the National Security Council.

"I do not believe that any of us are above the law," said the man

Rainfall likely to linger

From Local, Wire Reports

Most areas of Scurry County received some rain from showers Sunday night and showers and thunderstorms, including some that may reach severe levels, were forecast across most of Texas through Tuesday.

The heaviest rains locally appeared to be in the northern portion of the county, where the storm system dropped moisture shortly after midnight.

At Fluvanna, reports of .80 of-an-inch were noted. In addition, there was a report of .50 of-an-inch three miles out on the Roby Highway. Areas around Ira received .50 of-an-inch also.

In Snyder, the official total was .15 of-an-inch, bringing the year's total to 14.94 inches. The system, accompanied by lightning and thunder, moved through the city after 2 a.m.

Other rain totals included .25 of-an-inch at Hermleigh. At Lake J.B. Thomas, only a sprinkle was noted.

The Snyder area forecast for Monday night includes a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms, a few possibly severe.

Cooler temperatures than normal were forecast also with highs in the upper 80s.

Thunderstorms that may reach severe levels were forecast across portions of North Texas and West Texas this evening. The showers and thunderstorms will be spreading across the entire state Monday night and Tuesday.

A slow moving cold front was nearly stationary early Monday as it stretched across the western Red River Valley into the South Plains.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported over North Texas and the South Plains along and ahead of the front at dawn. A few other showers and thunderstorms were scattered across southeastern portions of the Panhandle and isolated thundershowers were located in the Gulf of Mexico off the coast near Galveston.

Court seeks input on lake speed limit

Speed control said needed at Lake Thomas

Scurry County commissioners will hear public comments for a week on posting a speed limit on the south side of Lake Thomas and then will make a decision regarding this limit next Monday.

The court Monday morning heard from a local landowner, the lake superintendent and a Department of Public Safety trooper, who said the DPS would make a special enforcement effort to curb speeds along the county road.

Unposted, the road has an implied speed limit of 55 mph, which the men said is too fast for the dirt surface.

"We have an element of people in our society who go to the lake, load up with hooch and let their hair down," said J. F. Sterling, a rancher who said his cattle are frequently run down on the road.

Sterling asked for the posting of a sign to make lake visitors liable for injured cattle, but County Judge Bobby Goodwin said only the posting of a speed limit will be considered because the road is a public road.

Speaking for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, Richard Halfmann, lake superintendent, asked for a speed limit of 30 or 35 mph. Halfmann was told that the CRMWD may not assume any speed limit enforcement authority over the traffic.

DPS trooper Larry Brown promised some enforcement on the road, which runs to the Borden County line, while Sheriff Keith Collier had told Goodwin that the sheriff's office also would help supervise the traffic flow. Collier was out of town and could not attend the 10 a.m. meeting.

In other business, the commissioners authorized Goodwin to sign the final contract for the extension, re-paving and lighting of the Scurry County Airport runway.

The judge said airport manager Darrell Mize was waiting to fly the contract to the Federal Aviation Administration in Dallas and that construction will begin July 21.

A $1-million federal grant has been approved for the project.

Public pool will offer swim lessons Tuesday

Beginning Tuesday from 10 until 11 a.m., public swimming lessons will be offered by the lifeguard staff at the Towle Park swimming pool.

The cost of lessons will be $1 per day and this will be taken up each morning before classes.

The lessons will continue through Saturday with a second series slated the week of Aug. 3-8.

There is no age limit for students and a toddlers class will be offered if there is enough interest.

Swimmers will be divided into beginner, intermediate and advanced.

Under personnel action, the board will officially consider the employment of the new men's basketball coach at WTC, Tony Mauldin.

They will also consider one resignation, Frank Williams, professor of math.

The board will also consider for renewal the college's liability umbrella policy and will discuss a backup system for college computer files.

The board has scheduled an executive session for the beginning of the meeting.

In Brief

Wants Ollie

HARKER HEIGHTS, Tex. (AP) — A grassroots effort is under way in Texas and two other states to draft Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North for president, a Central Texas woman says.

Jan Meidinger, assistant vice president and branch manager of a mortgage company in Killeen, said Sunday night that committees in Texas, Illinois and New Mexico are waiting for North's approval before they launch a full-scale campaign.

North, a former National Security Council aide, has become a national hero in the eyes of many because of his nationally televised testimony before a congressional committee investigating the shipment of U.S. arms to Iran and the diversion of profits to Contra rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government.

Miss Texas

FORT WORTH (AP) — Two previous attempts at the Miss Texas titles were just warm-ups for Rita Jo Thompson, who succeeded over the weekend in her third try for the crown.

As Miss Lake O' The Pines in 1986, Miss Thompson was one of 10 finalists and a preliminary swimsuit winner. As Miss Lufkin in 1985, she earned a special judges award.

"I wasn't disappointed" after losing, said Miss Thompson who competed as Miss Greenville in the 26th annual Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant held Satruday at the Tarrant County Convention Center.

Court nomination caught in political battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan insists that "all this lame-duck talk is for the birds," but without the persistent Democratic chirping, Robert Bork would be wearing the robes of a Supreme Court justice by Labor Day.

That isn't going to happen. Senate Democrats, deaf to a presidential plea for midsummer speed, have set hearings on Bork's nomination for Sept. 15.

The delay pushes the matter towards the heat of the upcoming presidential campaign. Senate Judiciary Chairman Joseph Biden is staking his Democratic aspirations on leading the opposition, and Senate Republican leader Bob Dole can earn grateful primary votes with a successful defense.

Given that Bork sailed through his 1982 confirmation to the appellate bench, you wouldn't expect many fireworks. Antonin Scalia, with a background as conservative as Bork's, and enjoying the same reputation for intellectual wherewithal, won unanimous Senate approval.

So, assuming he is clean of personal peccadillos and financial conficts, Bork could hope to practically waltz onto the high court.

He may win, but he won't waltz.

Democrats are loath to give Reagan a plum appointment in the troubled twilight of his presidency, especially one that could tip the balance to a more conservative Supreme Court.

Piqued by Reagan's decision to bypass moderate candidates to replace Lewis Powell, Democrats were bound to put up a vigorous challenge. Moreover, after six years of Republican rule, Democrats now control the Senate.

The stage is thus set: Liberals will argue that Reagan chose Bork because of his conservative philosophy, and the Senate can reject him for the same reason. Republicans will say the Senate's role is to evaluate qualifications, not philosophy.

Bork's philosophy is well known. For years he delivered conservative reviews of Supreme Court decisions, criticizing decisions on abortion rights and affirmative action and expressing skepticism on the scope of the First Amendment.

Democratic presidential candidate Richard Gephardt takes strong stand against Bork, saying:

"Just as we were ready to put Ronald Reagan behind us, his power of judicial appointment has, like a hand from the grave, reached far into the next century to threaten all the progress of the last 50 years."

Bork seems unperturbed by the political tumult.

"I may have given the impression in the past that I was pretty confident of my views, and (yet I) still changed them," he told the New York Times. "Your intellectual evolution, one hopes, will last as long as you do."

The key actors among the Democratic candidates are Biden and fellow judiciary committee member Paul Simon of Illinois.

Simon reflects the sentiment of the Democratic field when he describes Bork as academically qualified, but adds, "I do not want someone who is a rigid ideologue, and this man appears to fit that mold."

Congress to debate airline smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is thrusting itself into the middle of the emotional debate on passive smoking with a vote today on whether to ban smoking on shorter airline flights.

With the potent tobacco and airline lobbies lined up against him, the sponsor of the proposal, Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., concedes that it will be difficult for him to prevail.

The ban would apply on flights of two hours or less. A proposal to ban all smoking on U.S. airliners was defeated twice in the House Appropriations Committee. But Durbin is saying little to appease his opponents.

"I think the rights of smokers to smoke ends where their smoke affects the health and well-being of others," he said recently.

Durbin's proposal will take the form of an amendment to the $26.8 billion transportation appropriations bill for the 1988 fiscal year, which the House considers today. The representatives are also expected to work on spending bills for military construction and for Treasury and the Postal Service later in the week.

The Senate, meanwhile, returns to work Tuesday and plans to consider the trade bill that it has labored over for three weeks. It then plans to move on to a measure that would raise the national debt and is also likely to contain measures to strengthen the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law.

The transportation spending bill contains money for air traffic controllers, airport modernization and expansion, road and bridge projects, and mass transit systems. It has bipartisan support and is expected to be approved by the House, but the Reagan administration has threatened a veto on the grounds that the legislation is too expensive.

Durbin's proposal would affect about 80 percent of the nation's domestic flights, according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

Opposing the bill are the Tobacco Institute, the Air Line Pilots Association, and the Air Transport Association, which represents the nation's major airlines.

John Mazor, an Air Line Pilots Association spokesman, says pilots fear that inevitably, some smokers would light up in bathrooms.

The Netherlands proclaimed its independence from Spain in 1581.

Parachute death

SEAGOVILLE (AP) — A Dallas man who was videotaping the jump of a partner plunged to his death when his parachute failed to open near this Dallas suburb, Dallas County officials said.

Scott A. Fitzgerald, 40, a self-employed subcontractor and part-time musician, died when he hit the ground, Sgt. Neiman Allen, a spokesman for the Dallas County sheriff's office, said. The accident occurred about 2 p.m. in southeast Dallas County near the Seagoville airport, officials said.

The victim and three other recreational jumpers left the plane in pairs, Allen said.

"One was videotaping the other. He was with the pair that was doing the videotaping," Allen said.

Three drown

AUSTIN (AP) — Four separate water-related accidents in Central Texas have claimed the lives of Two men and a boy, authorities say.

A native of Ireland visiting Austin drowned after diving into Lake Travis at Mansfield Dam Park Sunday evening.

Gary McMahon, 19, dove into the lake and never came back up, Curtis Weeks of the Travis County Sheriff's Department said.

McMahon's body was pulled from the water about half an hour later by an emergency rescue team from Dallas that happened to be practicing in the area.

Joe Degollado, 29, of Temple, drowned at about Sunday evening at Granger Lake, authorities said.

Degollado was chasing his boat, which had drifted about 50 yards away from the shore, when he drowned, a Williamson County deputy said.

"He was out with his wife and two kids, and they stopped and got out to swim," said Deputy Shawn Newsom. "They looked back, and the boat had floated farther out into the water, so he swam out after it and went under."

The body was recovered by a Texas Parks and Wildlife unit.

An 8-year-old boy was pronounced dead Sunday night after he drowned at Nameless Valley Ranch in southwest Travis County. Authorities did not have any other information about the drowning.

Officer bitten

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas police officer was bitten by a man who then told the officer he was suffering from Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, police said.

Officer R.A. Wright said he was attempting to arrest a man on a public intoxication charge when the man bit him on the hand.

Wright said the man then said, "I hope you get AIDS. I've got it."

AIDS is a fatal affliction caused by HIV -- or human immunodeficiency virus -- that attacks the body's immune system, making the body vulnerable to a host of diseases. HIV is passed from one person to the next through the exchange of bodily fluids.

Police said they do not believe the man was telling the truth, but Wright was taken to Presbyterian Hospital, where he was told there was a danger of infection.

The man was released on $1,500 bond Sunday.

Jury may probe minister

DALLAS (AP) — A prosecutor says he will meet Tuesday with Dallas Police to consider the possibility of asking a grand jury to investigate the April attack on the wife of a prominent minister.

Margaret "Peggy" Railey, wife of the Rev. Walker Railey, former senior pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Dallas, was attacked in the couple's home April 22. She has been in a coma since the attack and was transferred last week from Presbyterian Hospital to a Tyler area nursing home.

"We plan to meet with the police just to determine if we should subpoena any witnesses," Norman Kinne, Dallas County's chief criminal prosecutor, said Sunday.

The prosecutor said police asked last week about the possibility of calling the victim's husband before a grand jury to resolve what they say are inconsistencies between statements he made shortly after the attack and evidence obtained by investigators.

Police say Railey is not a suspect in the case, but they say his failure to meet with investigators to answer questions about the case has brought their investigation to a stand-still.

Kidnapped women found

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The body of a woman abducted at gunpoint from a shopping mall at Huntsville has been found near Lake Conroe, Montgomery County authorities say.

The body of Debra Ewing, 27, of Conroe, was found at 2:30 p.m. Sunday by a real estate salesman and a client who had gone to Paradise Point, an undeveloped subdivision near the lake, sheriff's spokesman Bob Morrison said.

Huntsville is about 60 miles north of Houston. Lake Conroe is just south of Huntsville on Interstate 45.

No arrests have been made and officers were searching Sunday for a white 1966 Chevrolet, the Houston Post reported. Officials had not determined whether the woman was killed where her body was found or elsewhere.

Jalapeno-eating contests fizzles

STANTON (AP) — The jalapeno-eating contest fizzled but the sun provided enough heat for hundreds of Texans who celebrated their common heritage at the Martin County Old Settlers Day Reunion.

"That jalapeno-eating is great watching, but the people that eat them usually get sick," said Shelby Barley, a Martin County Jaycee. "We heard that a lot of people wanted different games. We thought we'd try something different."

Barley said the cow chip-throwing and tobacco-spitting contests were also cancelled Saturday, but not missed.

The Martin County Old Settlers Reunion began on a family's lawn here in 1930.

Resignations of officials accepted

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chun Doo-hwan accepted the resignations of his prime minister and seven ministers today in a shakeup aimed at installing a broader-based government before presidential elections.

In another development, opposition leader Kim Young-sam accused the government today of not carrying out promised reforms. He demanded freedom for all political prisoners by Friday and an amnesty for all political offenders.

Officials said Chun had named Kim Chung-yul, a former air force commander and defense minister, to replace outgoing premier Lee Han-key.

Chun has promised to maintain a neutral position in the upcoming presidential elections, and said he will not favor his own Democratic Justice Party. He stepped down from the party presidency last week.

A presidential spokesman said the Cabinet changes reflected "President Chun's intention to give the Cabinet a new appearance . .. in carrying out national tasks such as fair management of the political timetable needed to fulfill a genuine democratic development."

But the new ministers also included two former army generals, including a noted hardliner and close Chun ally who took over the key defense post in the 23-member Cabinet.

The prime minister and Cabinet ministers have limited authority under the country's strong presidential system.

The main opposition Reunification Democratic Party immediately rejected the Cabinet shuffle, charging the new ministers would favor the government.

Opposition leaders have called for a neutral government while negotiations are under way on revising the constitution to allow direct presidential elections.

Chun agreed to accept opposition demands for direct elections and other democratic reforms on July 1. The president acted after 18 days of nationwide anti-government demonstrations.

The new prime minister was defense minister in the late 1950s after serving as chief of staff of the Korean air force, and was a former Korean ambassador to the United States.

Chun also replaced the ministers of home affairs, education, defense, sports, communications, science and technology, government administration and a minister without portfolio. Chung Kwan-yong was moved to home minister from the government administration portfolio.

Lee, the outgoing prime minister, cited poor health in asking to be relieved of his post. An obscure law professor, Lee was appointed in May.

In one surprise move, Chun appointed Chung Ho-yong as defense minister. Chung, a close friend of the president, was removed as home minister when the Cabinet was last reshuffled in May to atone for the police torture killing of a dissident student.

Dear Abby

Sound of Children Crying Is Music to This Man's Ears

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You will surely have the wrath of God come down on you for telling a woman: "To marry because you want to be a mother is a poor reason for marriage."

Dear God, lady, that is the principal reason for a woman to marry! If you don't believe me, read your Bible. You obviously hate children, and never had any of your own because when another reader complained about young children making a noise in church, you said, "Any good shepherd would take out the bleating lamb after the first bleat."

Not at my wedding you wouldn't, you lousy shepherd! If you were as young as your picture in the paper falsely implies, you would know what I am talking about.

I am a 63-year-old man who would rather hear children crying (or laughing) in church than listen to the sermon.

TEXAS JIM

DEAR JIM: In biblical times, we were enjoined to "go forth and multiply" because the earth needed to be inhabited. Today, with 5 billion people on this planet, overpopulation has become a major threat. And as for children who disrupt church services: One cannot blame small children for becoming bored and restless. But most churches have playrooms where children can be left with competent "sitters."

So if you prefer the sound of children's cries and laughter, I suggest you skip church and go to a playground where you won't be bothered with a sermon you didn't want to hear in the first place.

P.S. I'm the mother of two, twice a grandmother, and the picture is relatively recent.

DEAR ABBY: Upon reading your column about a mother who gave away a gift her daughter had given her, let me tell you how I feel about it: Many times I have given costly gifts to family — sons, daughters and parents. I've often bought them things that I would love to have had myself, but felt I couldn't afford. I would be much less hurt if they would tell me honestly that they had no use for my gift and would I mind if they gave it to so-and-so, or would I like to have it back?

I once gave my daughter a very nice gift, and the next time I saw it, it was at her sister-in-law's. I was very hurt as I would rather have had it myself.

Would it be wrong when giving a gift to say, "If you don't want this, will you please return it to me?"

HURT IN FLORIDA

DEAR HURT: Once a gift is given, it belongs to the recipient to do with what he or she chooses.

DEAR ABBY: Why do churches, temples and synagogues keep their doors locked when a service is not being held? Why must prayer in a house of God be confined to an hour or two on certain days of the week?

So many times I have awakened in the early hours of the morning trembling from a nightmare, wanting desperately to comfort myself in the shelter of a house of God, but I knew the doors would be locked to me.

Yes, I know that God is everywhere, but there are times when one feels the need to sit and be calm and comforted in a place devoted to his love. Thanks, and love.

MARIA

DEAR MARIA: I believe there are still some churches and temples whose doors are open for those who want to come at odd hours. However, in recent years, due to increased theft and vandalism, many churches have had to lock their doors because they can't afford guards around the clock.

Murder, suicide is ruled in 8 deaths

FEDERAL WAY, Wash. (AP) — A man described as a loner by neighbors methodically shot to death his parents, his parents-in-law, his wife and their two small children before killing himself, police said.

There was no explanation for the shootings at three homes, which may have begun as early as Friday, said police in Kings County and Tacoma.

The gunman was identified Sunday as 36-year-old Daniel Patrick Lynam by King County medical examiners office.

An unidentified man who said he was Lynam's brother alerted police on Saturday that Lynam had killed people, and said Lynam had a history of mental illness, said King County police spokesman Dick Larson.

When police arrived at their home here, Lynam warned them to stay back, saying "I don't want to hurt you," Larson said.

About 10 minutes later, they heard a noise. They entered the red, ranch-style home to find Lynam, his wife, 2-year-old daughter and 5-week-old son dead of gunshot wounds, Larson said. He said Lynam apparently killed himself.

There was no sign of a struggle, Larson said.

Police found the bodies of Lynam's parents and in-laws Saturday night at their separate residences in north Tacoma, about 10 miles south of here.

A .38-caliber handgun was believed to be the murder weapon, police said.

Lynam's parents and in-laws were shot in the head while sitting, said Pierce County Medical Examiner Emmanuel Lacsina. The Halls were in their 60s or early 70s, he said.

Lacsina identified the parents as 74-year-old Thomas Lynam and 66-year-old Francis Lynam and the in-laws as Jack and Willie Mae Hall, in their 60s or early 70s.

Vaughn Van Zandt, an investigator with the medical examiner's office, identified Lynam's wife as Linda Jean Lynam, 34, and their children as Jason, 5 weeks, and Shaina, 2.

Authorities were called to the Halls' apartment by a neighbor who was suspicious because rock music had been playing there through Saturday night and Sunday, said Fire Lt. Clyde Nihipali.

About two hours later, Tacoma police received a call from a woman in Olympia who said she was related to the elder Lynams, and asked police to check on them, said Tacoma Police Sgt. Steve Smith.

The parents lived in a home on a bluff overlooking Tacoma's Commencement Bay, while the Halls lived in a condominium about three miles away.

Daniel Lynam had been treated for mental illness, but his mother never expressed fears she might be in danger, said Lorraine Reha, who had known the family for nearly 40 years.

An owner of the Halls' condominium described Daniel and Linda Lynam as born-again Christians.

In search of entries

When South won the first trick with his heart queen, he suspected that he needed to grab nine tricks right away. So he played to dummy's queen of spades and took a diamond finesse. When West showed out, declarer needed an extra entry to dummy to pick up the diamond suit without a loser. He played another spade and put in the 10. When that held, he was home free. He played a diamond to his nine and a spade back to dummy's ace. A third diamond lead from dummy enabled declarer to make five diamond tricks and his contract.

As the hand was played, West could have thwarted South's plans by putting up the jack of spades on the second lead of that suit. The ace wins the trick, but the extra entry to dummy disappears.

Of course any declarer wishing to be enshrined in the bridge columnists' hall of fame will simply play the spade king at trick two and overtake with dummy's ace. Now, when a diamond to the jack discloses the bad split, declarer is able to finesse the spade 10 in dummy to gain an extra entry, and West is helpless to prevent it. That might not even be the right play, since it gives up an overtrick when the diamonds split normally (4-0 splits are fairly rare), but it makes for an interesting bridge story.

Mom crusades for adult punishment

CANTON, Mass. (AP) — The shock Jeanne Quinn felt last year when her 14-year-old son was found bludgeoned to death has turned into an angry crusade against young people who kill.

After police arrested a teenager in the slaying and charged him with juvenile delinquency, Quinn, 35, fought successfully to have him tried for murder as an adult.

"Someone who has committed the most serious of crimes needs to have the punishment fit the crime," she said.

The woman's son, Shaun Ouillette, disappeared Nov. 20. His body was found three weeks later, clubbed with a baseball bat in the woods near his home in this small town south of Boston.

Fifteen-year-old Ronald Matthews is being held at an undisclosed location pending a trial for which no date has been set, said Norfolk County District Attorney William Delahunt.

"I want the key to his cell," Quinn said. "I want to know he can't harm anyone else's children. It's the ultimate crime — the stealing of another person's life."

Since Matthew's arrest, Quinn has testified before the state legislature in favor of a bill that would permit sentences in adult prisons for teen-agers convicted of murder, vehicular homicide or manslaughter. The bill, which is pending, also would open such trials to the public.

Quinn, who has a 13-year-old daughter, Yvonne, says learning the details of her son's death fueled her rage against the juvenile justice system.

Grief over the killing has kept Quinn from returning to her job as an emergency medical technician, and she often cannot eat or sleep.

"You wake up and it's nice out and you feel good and then it hits you — wait a minute — Shaun was murdered," she said. "You feel bad again."

Through a support group, Parents of Murdered Children, Quinn has contacted other parents whose children have been slain.

Marilyn Abramofsky of Boston, whose 5-year-old nephew was killed by a 14-year-old neighbor four years ago, helped Quinn in her fight to have Matthews tried as an adult.

Quinn plans to fly to Cincinnati soon for the trial of a 14-year-old boy accused of beating a boy the same age to death with a log. She hopes to give the victim's mother support.

Officer shoots robbery suspect

DALLAS (AP) — An off-duty Dallas officer confronted an armed robber and shot and wounded the would-be robber, police say.

Officers said Curtis Ray Nolen, 26, of Dallas, was listed in serious condition early today at Parkland Memorial Hospital where he was being treated for gunshot wounds in the arm and chest.

Nolen has been charged with aggravated robbery and attempted capital murder, police said.

Officer Antonio H. Medrano was having dinner with his wife early Sunday at Garmo's Restaurant when the man walked in and ordered a beer.

The man then forced the waiter to a cash register at the rear of the store and demanded money, police said.

Two women injured in shark attack

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — Authorities in this Texas coastal town planned to meet today to discuss what they should do in the wake of a possible shark attack on two women in separate incidents off Mustang Island.

Officials said the apparent shark attacks took place in two incidents south of Horace Caldwell Pier Sunday afternoon and then later in the evening near Mustang Island access road 1A.

Nueces County Constable Dee Wayne Matthews of Port Aransas said Sunday he would meet today with the mayor and police chief of Port Aransas, but said no alert had been issued.

"One victim said she was in the water when she felt something knock her down," said Matthews. "It swam underneath her and the next thing, she said, it attacked her foot."

Barbara Kemp, 16, of Rockport, was treated at AMI-Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass for puncture and bite wounds. She was treated and released a spokeswoman said.

The second victim, a 34-year-old Port Aransas resident whose name was not released immediately, was bitten about 7:30 p.m. Sunday and received more extensive wounds, Matthews said.

The attacks were were within one-half mile of each other, he said.

On April 18, a girl's arm was bitten off by a shark off Mustang Island State Park.

"There were definite pronounced teeth marks on the second victim," Matthews said a spokeswoman at the Aransas Pass hospital told him.

"I think there is a strong possibility of the bites being caused by a shark," Matthews said.

The constable said nobody actually saw a fin. The girl who was bitten said she saw something long, but can't prove it was a shark, he said.

Redeems earlier outing...

Schmidt pitches two-hitter

by The Associated Press

It didn't take Baltimore pitcher Dave Schmidt long to redeem himself after one of the worst performances of his career. Only 42 hours, in fact.

"I wanted to erase Friday from my mind," said Schmidt, who bounced back from a nightmare outing to pitch a brilliant two-hit, 5-0 victory over the same Minnesota Twins Sunday.

Schmidt had started Friday night's game against the Twins, but was only able to get one out and gave up four runs in a game that ended in a 13-12 Orioles' victory. But Sunday, Schmidt had a perfect game for 5 2-3 innings en route to his third career shutout and second this season.

Schmidt, 9-2, pitched to just one batter over the minimum in setting his career high for victories. He struck out seven, and was perfect until Greg Gagne lofted a soft single to left.

Mike Young, who entered the game in a 1-for-20 slump, hit two two-run homers.

In other American League action Sunday, it was New York 6, Chicago 2; Toronto 3, Kansas City 2; California 5, Detroit 4; Seattle 6, Boston 1; Milwaukee 4, Oakland 3, and Texas 7, Cleveland 6.

Rangers 7, Indians 6

Texas beat Cleveland for the third straight time as Steve Buechele singled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and Jose Guzman pitched three scoreless innings in his third relief appearance in two years.

Guzman, 7-8, allowed two hits in three innings.

Doug Jones, 3-2, took the loss.

Yankees 6, White Sox 2

Henry Cotto and Don Mattingly homered and Tommy John pitched a six-hitter over seven innings to lead New York over Chicago.

Homer-prone Floyd Bannister, 4-8, took the loss.

John, 8-3, gave up a homer to Jerry Royster in the first inning.

Blue Jays 3, Royals 2

Jesse Barfield snapped a 2-2 tie with a run-scoring single in the seventh inning and Jim Clancy notched a career-high 11 strikeouts as Toronto beat Kansas City.

Clancy, 10-6, walked just one batter as he checked the Royals on six hits in 7 2-3 innings. Jeff Musselman and Tom Henke finished up, the latter gaining his 17th save. Reliever Bud Black, 4-4, took the loss.

Angels 5, Tigers 4

Mike Witt pitched a four-hitter over seven innings and Bob Boone had three hits as California defeated Detroit.

Witt, 11-5, struck out nine and walked five. Greg Minton stepped in in the eighth for his sixth save.

Detroit's Frank Tanana, 8-6, allowed 10 hits, walked three and struck out five in 6 1-3 innings.

Mariners 6, Red Sox 1

Gary Matthews went 2-for-4 and drove in three runs in his American League debut to lead Seattle over Boston.

The 15-year National League veteran hit a home run in his first AL at-bat. Matthews, acquired Friday from the Chicago Cubs, took Al Nipper's third pitch in the second inning at the Kingdome to give Seattle a 1-0 lead.

Nipper, 7-9, lasted just 2 1-3 innings.

Lee Guetterman raised his record to 8-1.

Milwaukee 4, Oakland 3

Greg Brock homered in the second inning and singled in the winning run in a three-run, eighth-inning rally, and Juan Nieves and two relievers combined on a four-hitter to pace Milwaukee over Oakland.

Ailing Cards get help from Horton to top SF

by The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staff has withstood a broken leg, a fractured foot, and a sore elbow this season with a lot of heart.

Last Friday, the Cardinals found out Danny Cox, 8-3, suffered a broken foot when he was hit by a line drive. That development brought Ricky Horton out of the Cardinal bullpen and into the starting rotation.

Horton responded with his ninth consecutive victory Sunday as St. Louis beat visiting San Francisco 3-2 for its 10th win in 11 games. The Cardinals enter the All-Star break with a 56-30 record and a nine-game lead over second-place Montreal in the National League East.

Horton, 5-0, allowed four hits in 6 1-3 innings in only his third start of the season.

The left-hander, who has seven saves this season, struck out three and walked one before leaving when his pitching arm was struck by Joel Youngblood's line drive in the seventh. Preliminary X-rays were negative, a team spokesman said.

Horton was replaced by Pat Perry, and Todd Worrell and Ken Dayley finished the game.

The Cardinals lost ace lefthander John Tudor on April 19 with a broken leg suffered in a freak dugout collision with New York catcher Barry Lyons. St. Louis called up rookie left-hander Joe Magrane who won five straight games before landing on the disabled list with a sore elbow.

Without Cox and Tudor, the Cards No. 1 pitcher is 37-year-old Bob Forsch, 8-3.

Elsewhere in the NL, the New York Mets beat Houston 5-2; Montreal defeated Cincinnati 4-2; Los Angeles routed the Chicago Cubs 12-0; Atlanta beat Philadelphia 9-3; and Pittsburgh edged San Diego 4-2.

Mets 5, Astros 2

Howard Johnson hit his 20th homer to snap a sixth-inning tie and Ron Darling pitched six-hit ball for 7 2-3 innings as New York defeated Houston at the Astrodome.

Johnson's home run tied Charlie Smith's club record for homers in a season by a third baseman. Smith hit 20 in 1964.

Darling, 4-6, struck out seven. Jesse Orosco finished for his 13th save.

The Mets stood 47-40 at the All-Star break compared to 59-25 last year.

Braves 9, Phillies 3

Gary Roenicke drove in three runs with a home run and a double to help Atlanta beat visiting Philadelphia.

Expos 4, Reds 2

Bob Sebra and Andy McGaffigan combined on a three-hitter and Hubie Brooks doubled home the go-ahead run as Montreal defeated host Cincinnati.

Montreal scored twice in the sixth off starter Guy Hoffman, 7-4.

Coody, Morris win tourney; hole in one highlights event

Don Morris and Kyle Coody whipped the field at the annual Golfers Memorial Partnership Tournament, formerly the Earl Fish Memorial, played at Snyder Country Club over the weekend.

Excitement was added to this year's newly named tournament when San Angelo's Chuck Courtion shot a hole-in-one Sunday. His ace of the 165-yard ninth hole helped he and partner Randy Waterhouse rally for third place in the tournament.

Gusting winds - in excess of 30 miles per hour - played havoc at times Saturday but weather for the tournament was generally good. The winds kept Saturday's temperatures in the low 80s and Sunday's heat was around 90.

Morris and Coody, from Abilene, shot a 125 to win the Championship Flight by three strokes over perennial contenders Larry Anderson and Don Copeland. Waterhouse and Courtion were one stroke behind, in third place, with a 129.

Coody is the son of golfing professional Charles Coody.

Snyder's Cloyce Talbott and Ron DeBruin won the President's Flight with a solid 132. John Medlicott and Dave Sharrock were second with a 135. Ricky Hall and Alton Patterson also shot a 135.

John Lacik and Ricky Billingsley took top honors in the hotly-contested First Flight. They shot a 139 to edge the teams of John Pickering and Lou Brice and Pete Greene and Lanny Wadleigh, who turned in 140s.

Second Flight honors went to Brett Cresser and David Sisson for their 140. Tommy Lay and B. Birdwell finished two strokes behind with a 142 and Tommy Kloza and Chris Harris of San Antonio were a couple more back at 144.

Russ Francis and Mike Wasson of Matador took a one-stroke victory in the third flight, edging Mike Taylor and Pinky Ferguson 143 to 144. Rex Robinson and Don Sealy were third with a 151.

The Fourth Flight went to Ronnie Fowler and Don Brock with their 149. In another close finish, Harold Ellis and Jimmy Hogan shot a 150 for second place and Bob Jones and Cary Coffee were third with a 151.

Player cops Sr. Open; heads for Britian now

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) - With the U.S. Senior Open title in hand, 51-year-old Gary Player heads across the ocean in quest of two British Opens.

After winning the U.S. Senior Open by a record six strokes over Doug Sanders Sunday at the Brooklawn Country Club course, the South African rushed off to catch a plane for London for the British Open, which is being played this week at Muirfield, Scotland. That's the British Open for the regular tour.

"I'm playing the British Senior Open in two weeks time and I only wish I had a few more days at the British Open itself," he said. "I feel I'm playing good enough to win it. But now I'll only have two days there before it starts and with that time change, it will be difficult."

All told, Player has now won three major championships on the Senior Tour. He won nine on the regular tour.

Player smashed the 72-hole U.S. Senior Open record of 279, set last year by Dale Douglass, finishing at 270, 14 under par.

He is the third player, along with Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, to win the U.S. Open and the Senior U.S. Open.

Sanders shot an aggressive final-round 65 to place second but started too far back to catch Player on the fourth straight sweltering day at the 6,599-yard course.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, down by just two strokes at the start of the final round, was the only golfer with a good chance to catch Player. But he couldn't find a rythym and shot a 71.

30-footer helps McCumber claim Busch Classic crown

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) - Even though Mark McCumber expected to win again on the PGA Tour, he didn't expect the manner in which it finally came.

"Golf's funny," McCumber said Sunday after his one-shot victory over Bobby Clampett in the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

"Sometimes you miss a four-footer and the next time you make a 30-footer. I do believe in the course of a year and a career, it evens out. Mine happened to even out on No. 15 real quick."

When McCumber and Clampett walked to the green of the par-5, 506-yard hole during Sunday's final round, McCumber led Clampett by one stroke. Both faced long eagle putts.

"I wanted to two-putt. I expected to two-putt," McCumber said of his 30-foot effort.

"When I hit it, I said, 'Well, I've at least got the two-putt,'" McCumber said. "And then the ball was just dead right in the center of the hole."

Clampett missed his eagle putt, and although he made the birdie, McCumber's two-stroke advantage was too great to overcome.

Clampett sank a four-foot birdie putt on the par-4 16th hole, but McCumber parred the last three holes to secure the victory.

"I feel very fortunate just to be here," McCumber, 35, said. "Bobby played absolutely beautifully coming down the stretch. He played with a lot of heart."

McCumber shot a 5-under-par 66 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 267, 17 under par on the 6,776-yard Kingsmill Golf Club layout.

The victory, the fifth of McCumber's career but his first since the 1985 Doral-Eastern Open, was worth $110,160 from the $612,000 purse. It pushed McCumber's season earnings to $217,415 and his career winnings to $1,099,215, making him the 78th millionaire on the tour.

Clampett, who missed a 35-foot birdie putt on the par-4 18th that would have forced a playoff, finished the round at 68 and the tournament at 268.

Clampett, whose only victory came at the 1982 Southern Open, won $66,096, the largest paycheck of his career.

Scott Hoch, with a final-round 69, was two strokes behind Clampett.

John Cook was fourth at 271 after a 72 Sunday. Cook had started the day with the lead at 14 under, one stroke ahead of Clampett and two in front of McCumber.

BORDEAUX, France (AP) - American Davis Phinney of the 7-Eleven team won the sprint finish Sunday in the 12th stage of the 74th Tour de France cycling race. His time was five hours, 46 minutes and 21 seconds.

Frenchman Martial Gayant retained the leader's yellow jersey after the 141-mile leg from Brive-la-Gaillarde to Bordeaux.

FOOTBALL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Pro quarterback Dieter Brock, who played in both the NFL and the Canadian Football League, said a chronic back injury will force him to retire.

Brock, 36, has two years remaining on a $2.1 million, four-year contract with the Los Angeles Rams, a team he quarterbacked to the NFC Championship Game in 1985.

Salesman is victim of IRS computer error

DALLAS (AP) — A light bulb vendor who earned $12,000 in 1984 was told by the Internal Revenue Service he was an officer in a California corporation and was responsible for more than $6,000 of the company's back taxes.

The mistake was made during a conversion of records at the Austin, Texas IRS service center and, while it has been corrected, IRS officials warn that other taxpayers in Texas and four other states could be mistakenly held responsible for delinquent taxes.

Tom Martin says he knew the IRS had the wrong man when he was notified in February that he owed $6,409.12 in back taxes. The 41-year-old light bulb sales supervisor fought the bureaucracy for five months before being cleared of the debt.

"I never even visited California, but they told me to prove it and wouldn't even entertain the idea they had made a mistake," Martin said. "Their attitude was like that of an unbridled pit bull dog, and they meant to collect."

The mistake happened when the Austin center began entering the tax records of 26,000 scofflaw corporations into its master file of taxpayers in Texas, Kansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico last September.

The problems that conversion caused are just beginning to surface, says Marlene Gaysek, an IRS spokeswoman in Dallas.

Some of the corporations whose records have been entered owe millions of dollars each in taxes, and any taxpayer erroneously matched to such a corporation would be billed for the entire amount, Ms. Gaysek said.

Martin went to the Dallas IRS office the day after he received the delinquent tax notice and spent two hours trying to clear up the matter, he said.

He went home hoping the error would be found and corrected, but in May received notice that his 1986 tax refund of $800 would be applied toward the California corporation's debt.

Notices he received days later saying the IRS would take his bank account, furniture and car spurred Martin into action.

"It turns you into a babbling idiot, and I spent the next four hours telephoning the IRS in Dallas," he said. "One man told me, 'Tell your banker we're coming after your money.'"

Ms. Gaysek said what happened to Martin is "intolerable and we regret that he had to be so tenacious."

Errors from the conversion follow no pattern or trend and are being discovered only after taxpayers notify the IRS, she said.

Ms. Gaysek said anyone who believes he or she is a victim of the conversion process should not ignore the tax bill.

"It won't go away and things will only get worse," she said. "Let us know how it is wrong by calling the telephone number listed on the notice."

Clown target of sex abuse investigation

HARVEY, La. (AP) — Six or seven people have called since the disclosure that Melvin F. Carcamo, known to little boys and girls as "Mantequilla the Clown," had sexually abused 31 children in several southern states and Mexico, said a Jefferson Parish sheriff's investigator.

Most of the suspected abuses occurred in New Orleans' West Bank suburbs, Toca said. But Carcamo also has been booked with charges involving two children in Montgomery, Ala., two others in Beaumont, Texas, and three more in Monterey, Mexico, he said.

The investigator, Glenn Toca, now believes more than 100 victims may be identified. He said Carcamo kept a portfolio of almost 200 children's pictures that dates back several years.

Carcamo, 30, from Harvey in suburban New Orleans, has been booked so far with 52 counts of sexual abuse, Toca said. The offenses range from purchasing alcohol for minors to aggravated rape, and involve mostly Hispanic children ranging in age from 5 to 15, he said.

Carcamo, a native of Honduras, lived briefly in each of those areas, he said.

Toca said detectives expect to find an additional 10 victims in Miami.

Carcamo gained the trust of children he barely knew, then took advantage of them and threatened to kill them if they reported the abuse, Toca said.

Carcamo's most successful approach was to put on his striped suit, big nose and face paint, Toca said. As "Mantequilla," which means "butter" in Spanish, he would entertain at birthday parties or babysit for small groups of children.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL NEWS

Iglehart staff strives to hold down costs

Iglehart Insurance Agency, located at 2310 25th Street, is owned and operated by Carol Iglehart.

Carol has worked for other insurance agents in Snyder since 1980 and on May 1, 1985, she received her recording agents license and opened her own agency. She has attended spring and fall seminars keeping on top of the many changes in the insurance industry.

Hochheim Prairie Farm Mutual Insurance Company is her main company and offers low rates on homes, mobile homes, builder's risk, farm and livestock mortality for 4-H and FFA animals. She has one of the lowest rates available for mobile homes and rural property.

In addition to house insurance, Carol offers excellent low rates on autos and high performance vehicles for safe drivers as well as those with tickets, DWIs and those needing to file SR-22's with the state. Your premium can be financed for five, seven, eight or nine months depending on your needs.

"Coming into an insurance office that has a warm and friendly atmosphere is important to people", Carol stated. A lot of people do not understand insurance coverages and Carol explains the coverages, as everyone's needs are different. She has several companies to choose from to get the lowest rate possible.

On January 1, 1986, Carol became the branch manager of Hochheim Prairie Farm Mutual Branch 104 and in September of 1986 she welcomed Betty Kincheloe as her sales representative for Hochheim. Betty has seven years insurance experience and also represents the Horace Mann Companies. She or Carol can help you with all your insurance needs. They are happy to report that they have for their customers one of the best retirement plans available at this time along with other life, annuity, health and IRA plans. They would be glad to compare your coverage at your convenience. You can call them at 573-1923 or 573-6588 during office hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dieters may dine in restaurants provided only foods listed are chosen and prepared according to the diet program guidelines. No shots or drugs are involved, instead a protein and vitamin supplement is taken daily. This aids in keeping blood sugar levels stable to help prevent uncomfortable hunger while dieting. Diet Center offers a safe nutritional weight reduction plan that works quickly and easily. Vitamins and other diet related products are available at Diet Center.

Mary enjoys helping anyone with a weight problem. If you have a problem and need help losing weight, call Mary or stop by Diet Center for a free consultation. Reagan says federalism must be taken seriously

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — President Reagan, telling county officials that his economic program would force Congress to "take federalism seriously," challenged his critics today to confront him on the issues instead of trying to "distract attention from the real business of government."

The president made no direct reference to the congressional Iran-Contra hearings in remarks prepared for the annual convention of the National Association of Counties.

But he said, "I have been accused in recent days of campaigning for our Economic Bill of Rights in order to distract attention from other events in Washington."

"It so happens that I have been campaigning for economic rights for more than three decades — and I intend to go on doing so for years to come," added the 76-year-old president, whose final term will end in 18 months.

"But, more important, the truth is just the other way around," he said. "There are those who would like to distract attention from the real business of government — putting an end to unrestrained spending."

Dallas destination of smuggled aliens

DALLAS (AP) — The smuggler pipeline that carries illegal aliens from Mexico into Texas most often ends in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the destination of 18 men who died in a sealed boxcar, officials say.

"In my estimation, this is the busiest area in the state in terms of organized smuggling operations," said Ron Chandler, district director for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Smugglers who charge undocumented workers for passage to the promised land of economic opportunity often prey on their clients — holding them hostage when they arrive and forcing them to make monthly payments as the price for the often dangerous journey, said a Fort Worth attorney who has represented suspected smugglers while also assisting their victims.

"A lot of the coyotes are from here," Jo Ann Reyes told the Fort-Worth Star Telegram. "They are legal residents and are out to make a fast buck."

Ms. Reyes said the Dallas-Fort Worth alien-smuggling network is well-organized and that many of her smuggler clients are "very, very rough, almost Mafia-type" people who keep track of the aliens they bring in.

"I don't want to say it's slavery, but it's definitely a master-servant type of situation," she said. "Their concern is money, not lives. ... They are very dangerous people when they don't get their money."

Chandler said economically depressed Houston and San Antonio, where there is a decline in construction, have faded as favored destinations for illegal workers.

"Most come in trucks, vans and automobiles," he said. "Ringleaders hire drivers who bring them on in."

INS agents last week arrested Arturo Hernandez Garcia, 31, of the Mexican state of Zacatecas, in Fort Worth. He is being held for questioning in the deaths of 18 aliens in a locked, overheated boxcar in West Texas July 2.

Hernandez — a brother of Erinque Hernandez Garcia, the smuggler sought in the boxcar deaths — was apprehended with 12 undocumented workers at what authorities say is one of 40-50 "safe houses" in the Dallas-Fort Worth area where aliens are held until they pay their fees or are transported to their jobs.

Fort Worth resident Francisco Alvarado, who is seeking amnesty after entering the United States illegally in 1978, said he never thought of using a smuggler. "The first thing they want is the money, and most of them can't be trusted," he said.

Ramiro Pacheo, also of Fort Worth, said North Texas draws people like himself because "it's a place with a lot of work."

Using smugglers is dangerous, but it doesn't make any difference, he said, noting that he entered the country twice by walking across the border.

They and others say undocumented workers who use smugglers most often come from the interior of Mexico. Aliens who live along and near the border know how and when to cross and where to go, they say.

Jimmy Swaggart drops lawsuit against lawyer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Jimmy Swaggart Ministries won't press its defamation suit against a Texas lawyer who later maintained reporters took his statements out of context, according to the Baton Rouge Sunday Advocate.

Austin attorney Russell R. Graham wrote a letter to Frances and Jimmy Swaggart on July 2, saying his statements in a Feb. 2 letter to Judge John C. Martin of Conroe, Texas, were misconstrued to imply that Swaggart was using funds from the Baton Rouge-based ministry for personal purposes.

The Conroe Independent School District, the city of Shenandoah and Montgomery County contend that Swaggart-owned radio station KJOJ owes $157,000 in county property taxes. Graham represents the Montgomery County Appraisal District and Review Board.

"I know of no evidence that Jimmy Swaggart is siphoning or skimming funds for his personal gain or personal use," Graham wrote to the Swaggarts.

"Statements in court papers have been taken out of context by certain members of the press and have been misused to suggest incorrectly that there is evidence that Jimmy Swaggart is diverting funds and realizing improper private gain from Jimmy Swaggart Ministries," he wrote.

"Certain members of the press and certain publications have attempted to create a story or scandal out of this purely legal dispute," Graham wrote. "I am disturbed that this lawsuit was used for the purpose of sensationalism, and sincerely hope that this letter will help put this matter at peace."

Graham also wrote that he will suggest sealing the court records "to prevent any further distortions of fact."

Jimmy Swaggart Ministries' general counsel Jerald Ogg Jr. said last week that Graham's letter stopped the ministry's plans to seek damages for defamation of character.

"Jimmy felt it had crossed the line," Ogg said of the remarks. "We're used to potshots, and you pretty much expect that in the public arena. This went to his personal integrity.

"It's not Jimmy's style to sue, and he won't unless he's tried every other avenue of resolving the thing," Ogg said.

Conferees reach tax accord

AUSTIN (AP) — Having reached an apparent accord with House leaders on an appropriations bottom line, senators today heard testimony about tax increases needed to balance the budget.

The Senate's tax policy committee went back to work today while House-Senate conferees continued working toward the agreed goal of holding spending from general revenue funds to $27.5 billion for 1988-89.

"That seems to be the target," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, one of five senators on the conference committee.

House Appropriations Chairman Jim Rudd said the House and Senate could approve budget and tax measures by the end of next week.

The Legislature's No. 1 priorities have been spending and taxing since it was called into special session June 22 after the 140-day regular session failed for the first time since 1961 to adopt a budget.

Rudd, chief House negotiator, said he thought Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis had agreed to $27.5 billion as "common ground they felt comfortable with" but added that he did not think Gov. Bill Clements would accept it.

The overall budget, from all funds, at that level would be $38.6 billion, compared with the original House proposal of $38.4 billion and the Senate proposal of $39.6 billion.

"I think the Senate is getting some of the things they want. I think the House is getting the bottom line they want, but I feel like the governor is probably going to veto the thing ... simply because there are two or three things that he knows the House has tried to do that we haven't done," said Rudd, D-Brownfield.

Rudd refused to specify what Clements' objections were except to say they had to do with highway funding.

A lobbyist for the highway industry said one proposal would transfer $280 million for highways to public education in 1988-89. An additional $120 million in highway money would be used to buy land for mental health facilities and prisons. The money for education would be repaid in two years, the lobbyist said.

The tentative budget goal would require approximately $6 billion in new revenue, double what Clements has said he would accept, although he has hinted he might go higher. He said recently he would sign a bill for $26.95 billion.

"We will have a spending bill and tax bill — probably, I hope, by the end of next week," Rudd said.

The major differences in the House and Senate spending proposals had to do with health-welfare-rehabilitation and higher education, and the committee wrapped up its work on the human service agencies Sunday.

The Department of Human Services would get approximately $3 billion a year, and the average monthly grant for Aid to Families with Dependent Children was maintained at $57, which would cost $790 million.

"With the economy in the state it's in, I was pleased we were able to do that," said Brian Packard, DHS associate commissioner.

Packard said although his department's budget would go up 11-12 percent, the AFDC caseload is projected to increase 15 percent over the biennium.

The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation would receive $1.364 billion, or an increase of over $100 million.

Rudd said he thought the committee also had a tentative agreement on higher education to spend $400 million-plus over current levels. The Senate had proposed spending $880 million in new revenue, the House $317 million.

"It's not all right, but it's necessary under these circumstances. We have to get on with the business," Farabee said of the proposed compromise. "We will move ourselves in 1989 to be in a more competitive position with the 10 largest states."

The committee quit after 6 p.m. Sunday, before taking up higher education.

"I think it'll be difficult. There will be a certain amount of dissatisfaction any way you go. It will not be as controversial as the insurance premiums (tax)," he said.

The House had adopted a proposal to tax insurance premiums at a 6 percent rate but that seems to have few supporters in the Senate.

Other revenue possibilities that have been mentioned include a state hotel-motel tax; broadening the sales tax to cover certain services; altering the franchise tax; raising the cigarette tax; increasing the auto sales tax; and an increase in professional licensing fees.

North renews his testimony who last week admitted shredding documents, lying to Congress in early investigations and misleading high administration officials about his role in the affair.

Mitchell had the rights to question North for the first hour of the morning session, and he did so in calm, measured tones. North, for his part, refrained from the type of patriotic appeal that marked his testimony last week.

At one point, when Mitchell asked him whether the administration had complied with the law on covert action before aiding the Contras secretly, North objected, saying "I'm not sure that it pays to have a professional lawyer and an experienced jurist debating with lieutenant colonel infantry officers on this issue."

But moments later, North cited a case known as Curtiss-Wright, a Supreme Court ruling in the 1930s, to justify a president's prerogative to conduct secret foreign policy negotations.

That produced a rejoiner from Mitchell, who said the case "said no such thing. It involved public matters. ... (It) was on a completely different factual situation and there is no such statement in the Curtiss Wright case."

That provoked the only interruption of the morning from Brendan Sullivan, North's attorney.

Missing auto said abandoned

A 1984 Ford Thunderbird, reported as stolen Friday, was found abandoned in a rural field Saturday.

It was reported missing from Dupree Motors and was thought taken between June 25 and July 8.

Obituaries

Robert Reneau

Services were set for 2 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist Church Chapel for Robert Roy Reneau, 60, who died Friday night of an apparent heart attack.

Masonic graveside services were to follow in the Hillside Memorial Gardens under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

Officiating at the services were the Rev. James Green, assisted by the Rev. Ken Branam.

Reneau, a resident of Snyder since 1948, was pronounced dead at Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 10:38 p.m. He was taken to the hospital following a one-vehicle accident at the intersection of 26th Street and Ave. Z.

Investigators believe that Reneau had died from a massive heart attack rather than from injuries in the wreck in which the vehicle he was driving hit a street sign and a mobile home at that intersection.

Born Jan. 13, 1927, he was a retired oilfield contractor and was a member of the Baptist faith. He was a member of the Snyder Masonic Lodge No. 706 and was a 32nd Degree Mason.

He married Nelda York in Snyder in 1950. She survives.

Other survivors include two daughters, Chere Myers of San Antonio and Vonee Reneau of New York City; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Joe York of Snyder; one brother, E. C. Reneau Jr. of San Angelo; a half brother, Hubert Cox of Cleburne; a half sister, Mildred Morrison of Powell, Wyoming; and a nephew, Walter Reneau of Snyder.

U.S. rig count shows increase

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of working oil and gas rigs in the United States this week totaled 891, an increase of more 200 from this time last year when the count dropped to a record low, Baker Hughes announced.

This week's nationwide count increased by 19 from last week, when the total was 872, the Houston-based oil toolmaker announced Monday.

A year ago, the rig count fell to 663 — the lowest since Hughes began compiling figures — as oil prices plunged to less than $10 per 42-gallon barrel.
