Kissinger Meets With Sadat

The SDN Column

J. D. James has never met Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, who will speak at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Banquet on Feb. 2, but he knows something of the Senator's background especially his service during World War II.

James recalled that Sen. Inouye served in the 442nd Infantry Regimental Combat Team in Europe and that particular military unit made quite an impression on James.

"I was in the First Battalion of the 141st Infantry," said James, "And we were cut off in the Voges Mountains in France. Things were getting pretty tough after five days and on the sixth day this 442nd Infantry Regimental Combat Team broke through and got us out."

James said he did not meet Lt. Inouye (he won a battlefield commission that year) but knew about him and his military outfit.

The 442nd, which was composed of Japanese Americans, was one of the most highly decorated units in the European Theater of operations during World War II. Also, the 442nd had the most college graduates per capita of any military unit in the war.

James said the motion picture "Go For Broke" was based on the incident in which he and the 442nd were involved.

The 63rd Legislative District had two candidates, one representing each major party, by the end of the week, and strange as it may seem, both live in the smallest county, population-wise, in the district. Rich Anderson, the Borden County rancher who made the race two years ago, announced soon after Rep. Renal B. Rosson made public his plans to retire from the field. Anderson was the Republican standard-bearer in the general election in 1972 and hopes to be again.

Then, while in Austin the past week, Glenn Toombs, the county judge of Borden County, decided to pitch his hat in the ring on the Democratic Party slate.

There are six counties in the district, but no rumors of other candidates had surfaced by the end of the week. Toombs said he had talked to political observers in Howard County, Dawson County and other areas of the district, but had found no indication so far that other candidates might be interested. Toombs and Anderson both are well-known in Scurry, Howard and Dawson Counties, the three most populous counties in the district.—WACIL McNAIR

Today In History

Today is Sunday, January 13th, the 13th day of 1974. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 English colonists arrived at Charlestown, South Carolina, to settle in what is now the state of Georgia.

On this date: In 1419, the English captured the French city of Rouen.

In 1813, in the War of 1812, the British blockaded Chesapeak and Delaware bays.

In 1848, Vancouver Island in Canada was acquired by the Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 persons.

In 1935, the Saar voted to return to Germany after being administered by France under League of Nations supervision.

In 1962, nations of the European Common Market reached agreement on a new joint farm policy.

Ten years ago, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a Louisiana statute requiring that the race of all political candidates be printed on the ballot.

Five years ago, an airliner plunged into the Pacific as it approached the Los Angeles airport, and 15 persons were killed. There were 28 survivors.

One year ago, riot police in Paris dispersed students demonstrating against Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who was attending an international meeting of Socialists.

DFW Airport Opens Today

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (AP)—American Airlines Flight 341 from New York arrives at the world's biggest airport today—nearly three months late.

The Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, energy crisis bombshells falling all around it, bravely swings open its gates today for its first day of operation.

The original opening date last October was delayed because of unfinished facilities. There is still much work to be done.

Flight 341, arriving at 12:07 p.m., will be the first scheduled airliner to land here.

Airport officials say the energy crisis will not have any real effect on the sprawling 17,500-acre complex. But other "headaches" may. Many people have their fingers crossed.

"The energy crisis will have little impact on the airport, if any at all," says Airport Director Tom Sullivan. "The diminution of traffic is very small."

But, Sullivan says, the computerized, ultramodern AirTrans ground transportation system "may well be a problem. Well, not a problem, a headache."

Fourteen flights have been cut at the new airport because of the fuel crunch. Anticipating a lossin landing fee revenues, the airport board has hiked fees from a planned 55 cents per 1,000 pounds to 65.61 cents, among the nation's highest rates.

It will cost more than $357 to land a 747 at the airport.

But, in addition to cutting flights, most airlines are reverting to smaller, lighter aircraft. They burn less fuel and do better on landing fee rates.

"I'm optimistic," Sullivan said. "This airport is like the center of a pair of scissors. Flights have to go through here so passengers can make connections to both coasts."

The airport had anticipated about 390 daily flights but that estimated has been revised to 376. American Airlines has cut six flights, Delta five, Eastern two and Continental one.

Braniff International, however, has added six flights, including its continuing operations at Dallas Love Field.

A Braniff spokesman, however, had no comment when asked for reaction to the steeper landing fees.

Sullivan sees the malfunctioning AirTrans system as more of a bother than the energy crisis.

The current problem with the automated people-cargo mover "will be an inconvenience. It's a real disappointment to me. But machines have bugs in them and always will have. We'll just have to work them out." He said the "bugs" primarily are in the $34 million system's computer.

"... But it won't impair the efficiency of the airport," he said.

The AirTrans system, he said, is a critical key to the airport operation, and then again it is not. "We have a backup system of buses which will be adequate for a while. Later on, when the airport is in full swing, we'll be in a mess without AirTrans."

The system is composed of enclosed cars, operating on their own track, moving passengers and their luggage from remote parking areas to the airport's modular terminals.

In addition, the computerized system will haul garbage and mail.

"We'll have to handle the trash pickup differently until we get this thing ironed out," Sullivan said. The system will be operational on a limited basis but buses will be available for overflow passengers.

The $700 million airport is a city unto itself employing thousands

MARTIN BROOKS

H.W. CARGILE

Brooks Is Named Bank President; Cargile Chairman

H. W. Cargile, who has been associated with West Texas State Bank since it opened 24 years ago, was elected Chairman of the Board and Martin Brooks, executive vice president since 1960, was elected president of the bank at a meeting of the WTSB directors. Wayne Boren, chairman of the board since the bank was organized in 1949, was named honorary chairman.

Brooks joined West Texas State Bank in 1950. A native of Henderson, he is a graduate of the Louisiana State University School of Banking. He was associated with the Citizens National Bank of Henderson and the Citizens State Bank of Kilgore before coming to Snyder.

Cargile said Brooks would have full responsibility of the everyday operation of the bank. As chairman of the board, Cargile will continue to be active in the management of the bank, but details of running the bank will be left to Brooks.

Cargile helped open West Texas State Bank on Jan. 14, 1950, and has continued to hold an executive position with the bank since that time. He was associated with the First National Bank of Henderson for 18 years prior to coming to Snyder.

Dale Stuard was elevated to the post of senior vice president. A graduate of Hermleigh High School, he has been associated with West Texas State Bank since 1962.

John A. Greene, a graduate of Snyder High School who has been with the bank since 1962, was elected vice president and cashier.

Syble Bley was promoted from assistant cashier to assistant vice president. Miss Bley is a graduate of Fluvanna High School and has been associated with the bank since 1956.

Bobby Beard and Carroll Brush were re-elected cashiers.

In the stockholders meeting prior to the directors meeting, the annual report indicated "a very fine year" for the bank. Deposits increased by 22 per cent during 1973.

All directors of the bank were re-elected.

LLOYD H. MERRITT

Merritt In Race For JP

Lloyd H. Merritt has announced that he is a candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, in the Democractic Primary Election.

"I have given this decision much thought and having been encouraged by a good number of friends to ask for the office of Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, I am asking for the support for this place," said Merritt.

"I am almost a life-long resident and am known by all that have been here for several years. I believe I am qualified to hold the office, having served as your sheriff three consecutive terms. I have worked hand-in-hand with three good justices of the peace and am fairly familiar with the duties of that office, and if given the opportunity to serve in this capacity will serve to the best of my ability for the betterment of all concerned."

Tickets To Banquet In Demand

Ticket sales are underway for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet set for Feb. 2 at the Scurry County Coliseum.

The banquet will feature Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii as guest speaker.

Reservations are being accepted at the Chamber of Commerce Office in Cogdell Center and tickets may be ordered by calling 573-3558. The tickets are priced at $7.50 each.

Business firms and organizations may reserve their own tables for the banquet if they purchase 10 or more tickets.

A number of tables already had been reserved when the Chamber office closed for the weekend Friday afternoon and ticket sales had gone past the 300 mark.

A large crowd is expected to attend the banquet to hear the U. S. Senator from Hawaii. Citizens have been invited to submit questions they would be interested in hearing Sen. Inouye discuss. A special committee will select 10 questions from those submitted. The questions may be submitted at the Chamber office.

EVELYN SCHULZ

Mrs. Schulz In District Clerk's Race

Evelyn Schulz, a resident of Scurry County for 20 years and a former deputy district clerk of the 132nd Judicial District Court of Scurry County, has filed for the office of District Clerk of Scurry County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

Mrs. Schulz stated, "With the experience as deputy district clerk of this county 5½ years and other experience during the past years as a legal secretary, employment with major oil companies, banking institutions and retail merchandising, I can and will conduct the duties of this office efficiently, courteously and impartially, if elected. I sincerely solicit and will appreciate your support."

Russia Will Wait On Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to help try to ease the threat of rising bread prices in the United States, the Agriculture Department reports.

Officials said the Russians have agreed to delay taking 18.4 million bushels of American wheat until after this summer's harvest.

Bakers have claimed that unless the government imposes strict export controls the cost of a loaf of bread could soar to $1.

Says Talks Very Good

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Israel today on the second leg of a Middle East tour aimed at bringing Egypt and Israel together on a proposal for disengaging their forces on the explosive Suez Canal front.

The urgency of Kissinger's mission was underscored by reports of fresh clashes and artillery duels on the cease-fire line as the secretary was winding up his talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at the Nile River resort town of Aswan.

Kissinger and Sadat conferred on Israeli troop withdrawals, and the American secretary characterized their discussions as "very good," Egypt's Middle East News Agency said.

American sources said the two leaders concentrated on how to prevent any partial Israeli and Egyptian pullback from the Suez Canal front from turning into the status quo in the Sinai Peninsula.

The official Egyptian agency said Kissinger offered his brief assessment of their talks as he left Aswan after lunch with Sadat and headed for Jerusalem, where he meets Israeli leaders in an effort to reconcile the Israeli and Egyptian stands on disengagement of forces along the tense Suez lines.

If he is successful in Jerusalem, he is expected to return to Egypt on Sunday evening or Monday, meet Sadat again and go once more to Israel in hopes of tying up a disengagement package.

Egyptians have privately expressed concern that Israel might withdraw 18 miles or so from the Suez Canal front and then dig in west of the Sinai passes.

Reopening of the Suez Canal should come only in an over-all peace settlement including a phased withdrawal in the Sinai acceptable to Egypt, the government-controlled press has repeatedly observed.

Kissinger briefed Sadat for over an hour after his arrival Friday night and sources said they discussed four basic questions:

—How far should the initial separation of forces oblige Israelis and Egyptians to pull back.

—How to link separation of forces and Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal to an overall settlement.

—The size and type of buffer zone that a United Nations emergency force would be expected to occupy.

Libya, Tunisia Plan To Unite

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Presidents Moammar Khadafy of Libya and Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia decided today to unite their countries into one republic with a single president, it was officially announced here.

The announcement said the new republic will be called the Arab Islamic Republic and will have only one government and one constitution.

A referendum to approve the decision was set for Jan. 18, the announcement added.

Sun Links Kissinger In Wiretaps

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Sun-Times reported today that a wave of mutual spying and suspicion between the White House and Pentagon led in 1971 to a telephone tap being placed in the office of then Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

The Sun-Times said a former White House official claimed Henry A. Kissinger ordered the tap on Laird's office to determine whether secret diplomatic dealings were being leaked to the Pentagon. Kissinger, who was national security adviser then, was involved with negotiating the Vietnam settlement at the time.

The Sun-Times also said another White House aide revealed that a wireless microphone was found some time earlier in the base of a lamp in the White House office of Wayne Smith, a Kissinger staff assistant for program analysis.

Smith's office was supposedly the site for all of the technical planning for Kissinger's negotiations on the strategic arms limitation talks and on Vietnam, the newspaper said.

MELBA RINEHART

Mrs. Rinehart Seeks Borden Clerk's Post

Melba Rinehart has announced that she will be a candidate for the office of county and district clerk of Borden County, subject to action of the Democratic Primary.

She has lived in or near Borden County for about 30 years, attending Borden County Schools her sophomore and junior years. She attended Western Texas College, where she took a one-year business course. She is presently employed at General Aviation News as secretary and classified manager.

She is married to Edward Rinehart and they have three sons, Eurdist, Travis, and Jym who are students at Borden County Schools. She is a member of the First Baptist Church of Gail, where she serves as Sunday School Secretary.

"I have resigned my present employment, becoming effective January 31, at which time I will begin my active campaigning. I feel confident that I am qualified for the office of county and district clerk and would consider it an honor and privilege to serve the people of Borden County in this capacity. If elected, I will perform my duties effecientl and conscientiously," said Mrs. Rinehart.

Secretary wants work —and nothing more

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: After working only two weeks at a secretarial job that paid very well, I quit because my boss made a pass at me.

The second day on that job, my boss cornered me, but I tried to laugh it off and told him in a nice way that I wasn't interested.

I am a 29-year-old divorcee with two children to support. I'm a competent secretary who's not afraid of work, but I just couldn't take all that dodging and ducking required to keep this man away from me.

What do I tell prospective employers when I am asked about my last job? I don't want to lie, but in the last two job interviews when I said I quit "for personal reasons," they looked at me like I was a mental case. Please advise me. ALL BUSINESS

DEAR ALL: Be honest. It's no reflection on you, and it will discourage other bosses who want to mix pleasure with business.

DEAR ABBY: Lisa [21] and I [23] fell in love and decided to live together. We agreed there would be no mention of marriage. After a year she got pregnant. Then she broke her promise and started to hassle me about marriage.

I told her I loved her [I did, and still do] but marriage was out. She seemed to accept it, and promised not to bring it up again. After the baby came she seemed happy and we were more in love than ever.

Last Monday, I came home after work and discovered that Lisa had packed her things, taken the baby and left. She didn't even leave a note. I have searched everywhere for her and haven't a clue as to where she could be.

I would marry her tomorrow if she would come back, but I don't know where to look for her. Her family and friends insist they don't know where she is. Can you help me? M.

DEAR M.: Since Lisa didn't leave a note to let you know where she could be contacted, it's obvious she doesn't want to see you. All you can do is wait. She knows where you are if she changes her mind. If she does, then it's up to you to convince her that you want her back—on her terms.

DEAR ABBY: In your opinion, whose place is it to bake a birthday cake for a man? His wife's or his mother's?

I feel that when a boy becomes a man and takes a wife, that is where his mother's obligation should end and his wife should take over.

I have been trying to bake Steve's birthday cake for the last 10 years, but every year when I tell his mother I'd like to bake Steve's cake, she says: "After I'm gone you'll have the rest of your life to bake Steve his birthday cake, so while I'm here, please don't deprive me of that pleasure."

Now, what am I supposed to do? BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: Where is it written that a man shall have only one birthday cake? You don't need his mother's permission to bake him a cake. [Some men have a cake at the office and one at dinner. And those who burn the candle at both ends can always work in an extra piece.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. R. N. OF SAN DIEGO, CAL.: You are right. The quote I attributed to Socrates was not written by Socrates because Socrates actually wrote nothing. But his teachings were perpetuated thru the works of his disciples, Plato and Xenophon.

Mason Gets Certificate

AUSTIN—The Texas State Health Department has awarded its official certificate of competency for the oldest ecology oriented profession in Texas to Harold H. Mason of Box 122, Hermleigh.

Mason is employed by Hermleigh Water Dept. To practice water ecology in Texas, he has been taught effective ways for producing safe drinking water and treatments to make wastewater into clean streams for public use.

Because of this training, through the Texas Water Utilities Association, the largest water and wastewater training school in the U. S., there are cleaner streams and better operated facilities here than any other section of the country.

He received the certificate only after completing a formal and specialized education, accumulated a prescribed amount of actual work experience, and passed the examination given by the State Health Department's Sanitary Engineering Section.

Netherlands Rations Gasoline

By KENNETH JACOBSON
Associated Press Writer

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Netherlands, the only European country under an Arab oil embargo, began to ration gasoline Sat. in an attempt to conserve fuel.

Sweden initiated a mild form of rationing earlier in the week, and Norway is scheduled to begin a complicated four-tier rationing system on Jan. 25.

Most Western European countries continue to rely on reduced speed limits and Sunday driving bans to cut gas consumption, but Britain and Switzerland are known to have contingency rationing plans ready.

The Dutch, the only nation besides the United States facing a total Arab oil embargo, originally planned to start rationing on Monday but delayed it until today.

Gasoline stations were crowded throughout the Netherlands on Friday as motorists headed for the pumps for a final fill-up. During the evening rush hour, police in some areas had to direct traffic around long lines at service stations.

Dutch motorists will get 16 gallons of gasoline each month for private use, with business driving allotments based on 75 per cent of 1973 mileage totals. Motorcycles with engines bigger than 50cc can draw up to 8.4 gallons per month, while those under 50cc will be allowed unlimited gas.

Authorities are allowing the transfer of ration coupons but are discouraging the practice in an effort to head off a black market. But even without a black market, indications were that rationing may be short lived.

According to some press reports, the government is not convinced it is the best solution to the fuel shortage and officials continue to weigh alternatives such as a mandatory speed limit of 50 miles per hour combined with driving bans on two Sundays a month.

The Swedish rationing system is not expected to hinder seriously the average motorist since the allotment is not too much less than what was being used before rationing.

Under the system, Swedes will draw about 3.7 gallons of gasoline per week and be allowed to apply for extra gas for business purposes. About 1.5 million motorists, about half the country's drivers, already have applied for extra gas.

Under Norway's planned four-tier system, motorists will be placed in essential and non-essential groups. The basic ration will be 21.1 gallons during the initial six-week period. A Sunday driving ban that began three weeks ago will not continue.

THERE GOES GASOLINE—70,000 gallons of crude oil, from which gasoline is made, goes up in flames at the Mobil tank farm after lightning struck one storage tank and flames then spread to five other tanks, at right and left. Firemen are keeping a wary eye on the remnants of the fire. (AP Wirephoto)

Hynd is a pioneer oil field electrification specialist with over 40 years experience.

The meeting will be held at the Johnson House Restaurant, Lubbock. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Three Killed

COTULLA, Tex. (AP) — Three men died on Interstate 35 south of here Friday night when the car in which they were riding collided with a tractor-trailer truck.

Investigators said Frederick Julius Kruger, Jr., 20, of Cotulla and Robert Alan Howarth, 18, of Carrizo Springs died at the scene of the accident.

Jeffrey Ray English, 19, of Carrizo Springs, who was driving the car, died early this morning at a San Antonio hospital.

Ex-Snyderites Are Promoted

Mid-Continent Supply Co. has named Max L. Hancock, vice president-operations, and John W. Davis, Jr., vice president-sales according to W. C. Walker, president of the Fort Worth based firm.

Hancock will move to Fort Worth from Houston where he has served as southern area vice president. Davis will move from London where he has been vice president of Mid-Continent Supply Eastern Hemisphere Co.

As part of Mid-Continent's management realignment, Walker also announced the promotion of Curtis W. Crabtree to director of marketing and H. Royce Gamble to general credit manager. Both men will continue to have headquarters in Fort Worth.

Hancock joined the company as a storeman at Sundown in 1948. He later worked in Snyder, Midland, and Odessa, and Hobbs, N. M. before being named area manager in Tulsa in 1962. He was promoted to vice president and area manager in Houston in 1966.

Hancock is a native of Wichita County, and a graduate of North Texas State University with a degree in business administration.

Davis joined Mid-Continent as a storeman in Hobbs in 1947. He later worked in Odessa, Snyder, and Tulsa before transferring to New York as a sales engineer in 1953. He was promoted to assistant export manager in 1956 and transferred later that year to Caracas as Venezuelan manager. He returned to New York as export manager in 1959, and became vice president-international in 1964. He moved to Tobruk, Libya, in 1965, and to London as vice president of Mid-Continent Supply Eastern Hemisphere Co. in 1966.

A native of Waxahachie, Davis graduated from Texas A & M University with a degree in management engineering.

A 28-year veteran with Mid-Continent, Crabtree joined the company as a warehouseman in Odessa in 1946. He was promoted to positions of increasing responsibility in Kermit, Rankin, and Fullerton, Texas and Casper, Wyoming, before moving to Canada in 1953.

He served as store manager in Edmonton and was later promoted to district manager and assistant division manager there. He moved to Calgary as supervisor of stores in 1962. He moved to London in 1965 and later was promoted to Eastern Hemisphere manager.

He moved to Fort Worth in 1968 and was named procurement coordinator in 1971 and director of administrative services in 1973.

Crabtree is a native of Wirt, Oklahoma, and a veteran of service in U. S. Army ordnance in World War II.

Gamble joined Mid-Continent as a warehouseman at the Oklahoma City store in 1952. He later worked in Pauls Valley, Seminole, and Pawhuska, Oklahoma, and Harper, Kansas. Henley Trial Begins Monday

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Behind the tightest security ever for a criminal case here, Elmer Wayne Henley goes on trial Monday, accused in the largest mass murder case in modern U.S. history.

The slight 17-year-old Henley, who wore a wispy goatee at his arraignment, will be tried within a wall of deputy sheriffs and baliffs. In all, 32 guard posts will be set up around the fifth-floor Harris County courtroom.

Henley will be wisked to and from the courtroom through an interior system of halls and elevators so he will never be exposed to passersby.

The first days will be spent on pretrial motions. Then a jury will be picked. In all, lawyers estimate it will be between two and six weeks before testimony starts.

Henley is to be tried on state charges in the death of Charles Ray Cobble, 17, who disappeared last July from his apartment across the street from Henley's home in the Heights area of Houston.

Cobble's body was found just two weeks later—along with 16 others—buried in a boat stall rented in Houston by Dean Arnold Corll, 33. Officers eventually found the bodies of 27 youths at three different sites.

It was the death of Corll last Aug. 8 that broke open the case. Henley called police at Corll's home in suburban Pasadena and told them he had shot and killed Corll in self defense during a paint sniffing party and sex orgy at the residence.

Over the next two days, Henley and another youth, David Owen Brooks, 18, told of a three-year terror. In statements to police they told how they procured youths for Corll who homosexually raped, tortured and killed them.

Brooks goes on trial later in the year.

Defense lawyers probably will attempt Monday to get Henley's statements excluded from the evidence.

Trial judge is William M. Hatten, 60, who has been hearing criminal cases about two years. He also has been a municipal and domestic relations court judge.

Daniel Reports 'Great Week'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Price Daniel Jr. says he has not been able to detect any signs of "saboteurs" or "cockroaches" who might disrupt efforts to write Texas' first new constitution since 1876.

The legislator-delegates set out for home Friday at the end of the first week of the Constitutional Convention, and Daniel said it had been a "great week."

He told a news conference the convention had run an hour and 55 minutes ahead of schedule the first week, "and if it's any indication of things to come, we should complete our task within 90 days and have a successful convention."

The delegates met as a group during the week, electing Daniel as president and Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, as vice president and adopting rules to run the convention. Next week, the delegates will split into eight committees to draft constitutional proposals.

"The worst cynics and critics who predicted doom—those predictions just haven't panned out," said Daniel, adding that not only had groups of "saboteurs" or "cockroaches" failed to form, but "I can't place a single delegate in that category."

As an example of the smoother-than-expected opening week, Daniel mentioned no one had challenged him for president and a proposal to force Daniel's resignation if he should announce for statewide office was not offered.

Also, he said, Sen. H.J. Blanchard, D-Lubbock, had agreed to pull down 25 proposed amendments to the rules after being satisfied they were not needed.

Daniel also announced the appointment Friday of 13 committee chairmen, including Rep. Neil Caldwell, D-Alvin, a liberal lawyer, as head of the 25-member finance committee. The committee will consider such important proposals as a state income tax, property tax exemptions and public funds.

"We should be semi-scared just to think of the committee's responsibility," said the vice chairman, Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso.

Of the 26 chairmen and vice chairmen, 16 were from Texas' four largest cities—Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio. There was one black, one Mexican-American and one Republican chairman.

Two Hit-Run Mishaps Here

Two motor vehicle mishaps occurred in Snyder Friday and both of them involved hit-and-run drivers.

The first one occurred at Thirty-seventh Street and College Avenue at 2:18 p.m. An unidentified motorist fled the scene after his pickup was in collision with a late model Vega driven by Johnnie Evans, 1909 West Drive. There was considerable damage to the Vega.

The other one occurred at the Rainbow Market at 7:30 p.m. An unidentified motorist fled the scene after his car was in collision with the parked 1967 Model Ford pickup of Abram Jones, Jr., 3203 Avenue J. Damage was minor.

Firemen Called

City Firemen answered a call to a tank battery fire 1½ miles west of the Sun Oil Company at 12:45 p.m. Friday.

Stations Are Low On Gas

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association says a survey shows that 42 per cent of Texas' service stations are running low on gasoline and that 13 per cent are limiting sales to five or 10 gallons.

The association reported Friday that a similar survey a month ago indicated 25 per cent of the stations were low on supplies but only four per cent were limiting sales.

The association's 45-city survey also showed 10 per cent of the stations in the state reported opening on Sundays, up from eight per cent a month ago.

Gasoline prices in the state ranged from 33.2 to 48.9 cents per gallon for regular grade and from 34.2 to 52.9 for premium. This compares with 32.9 to 43.9 cents for regular and 34.9 to 47.9 for premium a month ago.

The association said many "independents and cut-rates" stations were charging more for gasoline than major oil company stations.

Nuptial Vows Repeated In Alaska

Elizabeth Larue Hayhurst became the bride of Johonnas Justus Eicke on January 3 at 6:45 p.m. in a double ring ceremony at the Church of Christ in Ketchikan, Alaska.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Hayhurst Sr. of Ketchikan and Mr. and Mrs. J. Seabourn Eicke of Rt. 1, Snyder.

The father of the groom presided at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, passed under an arch of Jack Pine boughs as the groom sang a song he wrote especially for the bride. The arch was accented in the center with a lavender satin bow and streamers. Preceding the arch were four candle trees holding three white lights and adorned with white satin bows.

The altar was centered with a unity candle in front of a floor basket filled with purple carnations and white gladiolas. On either side were Jack Pine boughs entwined candelabra holding 64 white lights and accented with white satin bows. Pews were marked with lavender and pruple satin bows for mothers and white satin bows for guests.

The bride wore a floor length gown, fashioned by her mother, of bridal satin. The empire waist, A-line skirt was topped with a lace ruffled scoop neck. The wrist length puffed sleeves, over-laid with lace, were attached to French cuffs containing a solitaire pearl button. Her chapel length train of imported illusion, with appliqued lace flowers, was attached to a headpiece of white carnations and purple ribbon. Around the bride's neck was a mother of pearl necklace given to the bride's mother by the bride's father on their wedding day. In her shoes were pennies minted in the year of the couple's birthdays. For something blue was her garter. The groom, also wore a garter on his arm with a ball and chain attached.

As the attendants approached the altar, the groom sang, "We've Only Just Begun." They each carried a long stemmed white carnation adorned with a deep purple velvet bow.

Nora Stidd, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of deep purple velvet. The bridesmaid, Connie McKay, and the junior bridesmaid, Rita Eicke, sister of the groom, wore identical medium purple gowns. All three had identical sheer lavender wrist-length puff sleeves.

Teka Eicke, sister of the groom was flower girl. She wore a bridal white maxi accented with white lace and lavender velvet sash. Her basket was filled with lavender heart "petals."

As the bride and groom kissed, identical heart "petals" showered them from a white basket hanging above their heads.

Arlie Eicke, brother of the groom, served as best man. He also led the prayer. Groomsmen were A. R. Knight of Breckenridge, uncle of the groom and Scott Dawkins of Ketchikan. They served as ushers.

Ring bearer was Paul Ridgeway.

Jana Bassard, wearing a purple maxi and her brother, Larry Bassard, were candle lighters.

The bride's mother chose an ensemble of beige lace over satin. The groom's mother wore an iridescent purple crushed velvet skirt with a deep pruple overblouse. Their corsages were identical white carnations.

A reception was held in the home of the bride. The bride's table was laid with a white cuswork cloth. The decor consisted of the bridal cake topped with white doves and lavender roses, the unity candle, the bride's bouquet of purple and white carnations and a statue saying "Together we can solve anything."

Presiding at the reception table were Cathy Dawkins, Lea McKay and Dorothy Elliott. Dovie Tucker sat at the registering table.

Among the out of town guests were the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Liddie Justus of Crosbyton and Mrs. A. R. Knight and Kirk of Breckenridge and Mrs. Arlie Eicke of Snyder.

The couple planned a wedding trip to Seattle, Washington. For her going away dress she chose a blue dotted Swiss over taffeta maxi fashioned similar to the wedding gown.

The bride is a graduate of Ketchikan High School. The groom is a graduate of Snyder High School. He made the All-State Choir his senior year. They both are are students at Lubbock Christian College where he is vice-president of the Spanish club.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Island King Restaurant.

Meals With Less Fuel

NEW YORK (AP) — How can the American woman help conserve fuel energy these days when preparing a meal?

Experts say the amount of time spent at the range can be reduced, fuel bills lowered and energy saved at the same time.

Chefs at Ogden Foods, a division of the Ogden Corporation, who prepare meals for visitors to stadiums, arenas, race tracks and airports, have developed short cuts that can enhance meals while reducing waste.

There are four factors to consider — utensils, menus, ingredients and motivation. The family budget and advance planning are other factors.

The chefs said proper utensils are essential, such as pans that can be put to multiple uses.

Combine vegetables in a larger pan, rather than having three separate pots boiling away on the stove. Many people overcook food, particularly vegetables, the experts said. Vegetables taste better when firm and are better for us.

Boiled one-container dishes are often less expensive and more healthful, the chefs added. A butt of ham with potatoes, string beans and onions puts all points together.

A cold buffet once a week, or a salad made of leftovers such as cubed meat and cold vegetables can also save time and energy.

Make larger quantities at one time and freeze the remainder for another meal, the experts added.

Cancer Society To Meet

The Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Socity will meet at 12 noon at the cafeteria of the Western Texas College for their regular board meeting. Plans for the spring cancer crusade will be implemented. All board members and committee chairmen are urged to attend.

Double Ring Vows Said In Lubbock

Miss Rebecca Faye Hutchison of Snyder and Robert David Duncan of Roscoe repeated double ring vows on December 22 at 2 p. m. in the Second Baptist Church of Lubbock. Dr. Hardy Clemmons of the church, officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight E. Hutchison of Spearman. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Duncan of Roscoe.

To be given in marriage by her father, Rebecca Hutchison wore a Victorian styled gown of Ivory Sata-peau accented in Irish crochet lace. The moulded bodice featured vertical rows of lace striped in Venise lace flowers forming a yoked effect extending to pinafore ruffles over the shoulders. The high duchess neckline was edged in lace standup collarlet. Long bishop sleeves repeated the lace striping and shirred to lace cuffs with ruffles falling over the hands. The softly gathered bell skirt was centered in a deep vertical panel of lace ruffling extended around the entire hemline which extended to a mini train. A matching mantilla veil complimented the entire silhouette and was edged in the crochet lace and reached to a chapel length. She carried a nosegay ot red roses and baby's breath.

Gina Hutchison of Spearman, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Connie Dittmar of San Antonio and Julia Garrett of San Antonio were bridesmaids. They wore long red velvet gowns with empire waistlines, high stand up collars with leg-of-mutton sleeves and carried white fur muffs with corsages of holly and red roses.

Best man was John Drake of Canyon. Groomsmen were Kenneth Sjogren of Olton and Teddy Freyer of Oklahoma City, Okla. Ushers were Lonnie Orman of Roscoe and John Hutchison of Spearman.

The church was decorated with evergreen boughs and red votive candles, two, three foot high candedabra with large red candles. One large evergreen Christmas tree adorned the altar and the communion table was covered with a white cloth and laid with a large silver cross annd three white candles.

The musical program was provided by Larry Douglas of Lubbock.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlor. A red, white and green motif was followed on both the bride and groom's table. Tove Duncan, Sharon Pietzch, Betty Moldenhauer, Joyce Woods and Cindy Sullivan presided.

For a week long wedding trip the bride wore an orange, navy and white jacket dress. Following the trip the couple will reside seven miles west of Roscoe.

The bride has a BS degree in home economics from Texas Tech University and is presently teaching in Travis Junior High.

The groom has a BS degree in agronomy from Texas Tech University. He will farm in Roscoe.

Marriage Announced

Housewife Shuts Mouth

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. John Horn says she has been fighting fat all her life but nothing really worked until she told her dentist: "Shut my mouth."

Mrs. Horn says she's already lost 17 pounds since she had her jaws wired shut two weeks ago.

She weighed just over 200 pounds when she began her diet.

But the suburban Gibraltar housewife admits that, even with her jaws wired, she manages to cheat on her diet.

Along with diet soft drinks, tomato juice and other low-calorie liquids, Mrs. Horn says she has also downed three beers.

Mrs. Horn says she got the idea from reading news accounts about an overweight woman in England who had her teeth cemented together to stop her from overeating.

She and her husband have one daughter, Emily, 2. Mrs. Horn says she wants another baby, but she has had two miscarriages.

"I think it was being overweight, although my doctor never said so," she said. "That's really why I went for this: I want to have another baby."

Miss Felan Becomes Bride Of Mr. Rivera

Before an arch entwined with white and red roses and greenery, Dora Felan became the bride of Robert Rivera in a double ring ceremony on December 29, at 4 p.m. officiated by Father Tony Moran. The ceremony was held in Our Lady of Guadalupe Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Felan, 1401 Ave. M. and Mr. and Mrs. Andres Rivera of Colorado City.

Mr. Felan escorted and gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white peau de soi with chiffon overlay with long puff sleeves and a high neckline trimmed in lace and pearls. Her shoulder length veil was trimmed in wide lace and pearls with a chapel length train attached. Roses of embroidered lace and pearls mingled down the back of the train and the bottom of the train was also trimmed in wide lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with tiny red rosebuds and pearl trimmed leaves.

Elia Ramirez of Snyder was maid of honor. She wore a gown identical to the bride's costume. Mrs. Terry Romo of Snyder was matron of honor. She wore a red double knit A-line dress with gold trimmed neckline.

Flower girls were Pat and Mary Luera, Cynthia Felan and Barbara Romo. They wore gold double knit princess dresses with red and gold trimming.

Liza Montez and Richard Chaidez of Snyder were also attendants.

Mr. Terry Romo of Snyder served as best man.

On each side of the altar were 25 lighted tapers entwinned with greenery and tall baskets of red and white roses and red ribbons. Miss Lola Ayala provided wedding music. She played "Ave Maria" and "Oh Promise Me."

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Latin American Center. Mrs. Terry Romo and Mrs. Gilbert Ramos presided at the cake and Mrs. Louis Martinez, sister of the bride presided at the book.

For a week long wedding trip to Austin, the bride chose to wear a blue double knit pantsuit with red and white accessories. They will live in Odessa where the groom is employed by the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and has received her Associate of Arts Degree from Western College and is a junior majoring in elementary education at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa. The bridegroom is a graduate of Colorado City High School. He is a graduate of W. T. C. with a degree in Associate of Applied Science. He is a junior majoring in law enforcement at the U. T. P. B.

Out of town guests for the wedding were from Austin, Odessa, Fort Worth, Abilene, Ozona and Colorado City.

PHYLL'S PORK AND CABBAGE

A Chinese-style dish.

1 tablespoon oil
2 cups knife-shredded (¼-inch wide strands) green cabbage, packed
1 cup thin strips sweet Spanish onion, packed
2 ribs celery, thinly sliced (¾ cup)
1 clove garlic, minced
2 slices fresh ginger, minced if available
1 cup cooked pork strips, thinly sliced and ¼-inch wide
1 tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in ¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in ¾ cup boiling water

In a large skillet heat oil and, over moderate heat, stir-fry cabbage, onion, celery, garlic and ginger for 3 to 5 minutes. Add pork and stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes longer. Stir together the remaining ingredients and add; stir constantly until sauce thickens and clears. Makes 2 large servings.

MRS. CHARLES MICHAEL RATLIFF

Couple United In Candlelight Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony at the First Christian Church in Sweetwater, Miss Patricia Ann McDonald of San Marcos became the bride of Charles Michael Ratliff of Austin.

The pastor, the Rev. Charles Reece, led the couple in repeating double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie McDonald of Roscoe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ratliff also of Roscoe.

The altar was set with 133 white tapered candles in cathedral candelabra encircled with fresh pine cones and white gardenias. Completing the decorations were bird baths holding silver and white flowers flanked by arrangements of gladiolus and mums.

During the ceremony the couple lighted a memory candle.

Joy Jones of San Antonio, organist, rendered nuptial selections. Leslie Huff sang "The Wedding Song" accompanying himself on the guitar.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a carpet length gown of nylon organza accented with chantilly lace. Appliques of lace dotted with seed pearls accented the moulded bodice. A ruffle or organza outlined the neckline. The long tapered sleeves of lace were made with organza and lace ruffles over the wrist. A wide organza ruffle touched with lace encircled the hemline of the softly gathered skirt.

Chantilly lace edged her chapel length train and veil of silk illusion. She carried a colonial arrangement of orchids, and baby's breath showered with white and silver ribbons.

The bride's maid of honor was the sister of the groom, Connie Ratliff and bridesmaids were Alice Blocker, and Gail Mazzantini of La Marque.

The attendants wore empired styled floor length gowns of green velvet accented with silver trim encrusted with sequins.

Ian Brown was flower girl. She carried a basket filled with rose petals. Ringbearer was Bryer Ratliff.

Candles were lighted by Marty Foust and Monty Walton and seating guests were Gary Brown of Sweetwater, Ronald Watzel of Fort Worth, Gary Poston of Austinand Tommy Townsend of Lubbock.

Best man to the groom was his brother, Larry Ratliff and groomsmen were David McDonald, brother of the bride and Doug Payne of Arlington.

Guests were registered by Debbie Althof and Bobby Dyer.

The mother of the bride wore a beige gown fashioned with a jeweled neckline. The groom's mother wore a turquoise gown with black accessories.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the Holiday Inn.

The bride's table was laid in white and centered with a five branched candlelabrum. The three-tiered wedding cake was served with lime punch, nuts and mints. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

From the groom's table a single ring fudge cake was served with coffee and champagne.

The entertaining room was decorated with hurricane lamps and bird bathe.

When the couple departed on a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the bride was wearing a navy and white pantsuit. Her accessories were white and she wore an orchid corsage.

The couple will be at home in Austin after the trip.

The bride will continue her studies at the University of Texas.

The groom, a pre-law graduate from the University of Texas is presently employed at Appliance Associates in Austin. He will be a law student in the fall of 1974.

Parents of the bridegroom hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at Jordan's.

Dr. Kim To Speak To Scouts

Dr. Thomas Kim will be the guest speaker at the Girl Scout annual meeting, 7 p.m., January 17, at Wyatt's Cafeteria in Abilene. He will speak on the importance of the volunteer's role in helping young girls attain meaningful womanhood.

Dr. Kim, who became the eighth president of McMurry College on June 1, 1970, is the second layman in McMurry's history to be president of the College.

Dr. Kim came to McMurry from Texas Tech University, where he served as professor of Economics and as an advisor to the president of the University.

Dr. Kim, who was born in Shanghai, China, of South Korean parents, came to the United States in 1948 to attend Berea College in Kentucky and later became an American citizen.

After receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics from Berea, Dr. Kim received his master of Business Administration degree in general business at Indiana University and his Ph. D. in Economics at Tulane University.

While teaching at Berea, Dr. Kim met a young lady student who soon became his wife. He and Martha now have two children, Larry and Cathy.

Dr. Kim is an active United Methodist layman, holds many memberships in professional organizations, is active in Abilene civic affairs, and is author of several works. His new book, "Introductory Mathematics for Economic Analysis", has been published by Scott, Foresman Company.

The Girl Scouts will also hear committee reports, elect a new board of directors, and present volunteer awards. Delegates will vote on proposed by-law changes for our council.

Delegates from Snyder are Mrs. Bobbie Donelson, Mrs. Frieda Cook, and Mrs. Pauline Wimmer.

Nominees for board positions from Snyder are Larry Anderson and Mrs. Carl Voss, Jr.

Anyone wishing to attend may call the Girl Scout Service Center in Abilene, 698-1738; in Big Spring, 263-1364. Cost will be $3.00 per person.

Drugists Donate

WICHITA (AP) — Twelve national voluntary health agencies in 1974 will receive research funds made available by Associated Druggists, an organization of more than 1,200 independent retail pharmacies operating in 30 states, with its headquarters here.

Associated Druggists will donate $1,000 in research funds each month, each time to a different health organization. United Cerebral Palsy is the recipient for January.

Doctors To Probe Bing's Lung

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Doctors will probe singer Bing Crosby's left lung today to try to find what caused a lesion that isn't responding to treatment.

The 69-year-old entertainer, whose condition continues to be satisfactory, has been walking around the hospital talking to other patients, his intravenous tubes trailing from a rolling pole.

Whole Families Study Together

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — A Nassau Community College survey indicates that the family which studies together gets good grades together. Dr. Robert Gwydir, vice president for academic affairs, observes that "academic families usually have good academic averages."

He considers that family enrollments at the Garden City campus are "getting down to the bedrock of community service." About 1,725 students are involved in these family enrollments.

PAT DENNIS...
..Former Weight Watcher lecturer

Pat Dennis Tells Of Her Fight To Be Thin

Pat Dennis is a former lecturer for the Weight Watchers organization in Snyder, Lamesa and Colorado City. Upon resigning, she had been a lecturer for the past 2½ years and to be eligible she first lost 53 pounds on the Weight Watcher program and has kept it off. The following is her own story of how she believes she was led to the program and her feelings about it.

"Happiness is helping people lose weight for 2½ years. It was fun and it was rewarding. Seeing people come alive and start living the life God intended them to live. Jesus said, 'I came that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly.' I don't think being abundantly fat is what He meant. I know, because at the age of 14 I weighed 191½. No one can understand the feelings of a fat person unless they have been there. My prayers for help were answered through the Weight Watchers program. I lost 53 pounds. It is my belief that God had a hand in the creating of the organization because it teaches one discipline in what foods to eat and how much. Every food our bodies need, we learn to eat. We have meat, fish and poultry, eggs, milk, fruit, bread and cereal. There are delicious recipes to make our food very inviting. When God led me to this program I did not break my discipline one time until I reached my goal. That is when I started lecturing. I knew this program was wonderful but I would go on the biggest binges imaginable.

I said 'God, why did you bring me here and abandon me?' It didn't seem to help much to say 'God help me.' I would ask friends to pray for me and I just managed to hang on. I knew Christ was the answer to every problem so I asked for help and started searching. You wouldn't believe some of the things I tried. But finally I found through the book 'Prison to Praise' to praise God in all things. He loves me just as I am. Each day I give my life to Jesus Christ and ask him to sit on the throne of my life. I do the best I can and I can praise him for all things. Yes, it is wonderful to be a Weight Watcher and a Christian and not be fat anymore."

"I enjoyed serving and helping each Weight Watcher member. I feel God never helps us just to help ourselves. It is my sincere wish that any person with a weight problem will give this program a try. Even if you say you do not like some of the foods you will learn to like them. When Jesus appeared to the Diciples after His resurrection and asked for something to eat, they gave Him a piece of broiled fish. He is our example. That is what I think of when I eat my five fish meals each week. Yes, it was wonderful and I enjoyed it."

Weight Watchers still meet at the Martha Ann Woman's Club on Mondays at 1:30 and 7 p.m. This is a wonderful time of year to start improving oneself. Beauty comes from the inside out. What we eat does so much more for us than any cream we can rub on ourselves, and if we feel good, we look good.

Pat is now offering piano lessons in her home.

University To Measure Quakes

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Far from the regions most frequently jolted by earthquakes, the University of Nebraska is setting up a seismograph. The University expects to become a part of a worldwide network of seismograph stations that locates and measures the intensity of earthquakes around the globe. Nebraska has actually had several slight earthquakes in this century, triggered largely by a Nemaha County fault.

Carpeting can partially deaden the sound of a squeaky staircase, but not eliminate it.

The application of a dry lubricant, such as powdered graphite, may eliminate the noise, but it will be just a question of time before it returns.

The only permanent solution to most squeaky stair problems is to bring the riser and the tread close together, since it is the separation of the joint between these two parts that is causing the noise. The riser is the vertical portion of the step, the tread the horizontal part that is stepped on.

On stairways where the underside is open, you need only have someone walk up and down the steps and you will be able to hear the noise and see where it is coming from. The repair is then relatively easy and just a matter of common sense, as you can see what is loose and how it can be tightened.

Most troubles occur on stairs that are not open, such as those going from the first to the second floor. It is those with which we are concerned here.

The initial move in the repair job is to determine whether the riser and tread are joined simply by having the tread rest on the riser or are held together in a rabbeted joint. Look under the stair nosing, the outside edge of the tread that extends past the riser. If the joint is exposed, you sometimes can see immediately how the riser and tread are joined. If it is not exposed, remove the piece of cove moulding that is covering it. Should you find it impossible to determine the type of joint, see whether you can push a knife blade upward along the riser a little way into the tread. If you can, it's a rabbeted joint. If you can't, it's a butt joint.

The purpose of finding out the type of joint is that each requires a different method of repair. If it is a butt joint, you will have to drive finishing nails through the tread and into the riser. Have someone stand on the tread to push it close to the riser. Drive two finishing nails through the tread at angles so that the points of the nails come together or nearly together when they enter the riser.

When driven all the way, the nails thus would form a V inside the wood. Whether you need one pair of nails or more depends on whether the first set corrects the problem. This will have to be done on each tread where there is a squeak.

If the joint is rabbeted, the solution is to drive small wood wedges upward into the joint after first coating them with wood glue. It may be necessary, especially if carpeting won't cover the repair, to use a sharp knife to slice off any part of each wedge that is still visible.

(Squeaky floors, sweating walls and windows, plaster patching and balky doors are among the 35 subjects in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

MARKS 33RD BIRTHDAY

Ft. Polk Remembered By Top Brass, Rookie GIs

FT. POLK, La. (AP) — The roll call is in impressive one: Dwight David Eisenhower, Omar Bradley, George Patton, Walter Krueger. And their names still echo through the pine forests around Ft. Polk.

And it is not only the Army's top brass who remember Fort Polk.

Millions of armored infantrymen and tankers drilled, fought mosquitoes, went through maneuvers, fought mosquitoes, drilled, learned, then drilled some more, fought mosquitoes some more. And finally became the best fighting men in the world. The sprawling base, carved out of what is now a national forest, celebrated its 33rd birthday this week. It is still "the" infantry training center of the Army.

Eisenhower was a colonel went he ramrodded a unit through maneuvers one summer, long before he rose to command all Allied Forces in Europe in Wrold War II on his road to becoming President of the United States. Patton earned some of his spurs here and went on to come a military immortal. Kreuger, who commanded the Sixth Corps in World War II, and Bradley, the nation's only surviving five-star general and the only man who wears the title of General of the Army, also were here.

Fort Polk wasn't much when it opened on January 10, 1941. Little did anyone think that 10 million men would eventually train here and go into battle against the Germans, Japanese, North Koreans and the North Vietnamese.

As a matter of fact, Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., used a large shipping crate for a desk and a box for a chair when he became Fort Polk's first commander. He later became head of the nation's armored forces at Fort Knox, Ky., and retired after World War II with the rank of lieutenant general.

But it is not all history at Fort Polk. It is the home of the new infantryman and recruits make $325 a month, a long way from the $28 inductees earned when war clouds gathered in skies around the world 33 years ago.

In 1941, the rookie GI wore a helmet that no self-respecting turtle would have claimed and still laced on World War I leggings.

And in 1941, rookie soldiers walked everywhere. Yes, they were listed as armored soldiers but they walked to gun ranges, to briefing areas, to the base theater and to chow.

Today's "new" soldier at Ft. Polk is driven to the firing ranges and listens to lectures on subjects from sex to battle tactics in air conditioned buildings.

And the wooden barracks where so many soldiers scrubbed the floors are on the way out. They will be replaced by air conditioned complexes.

A leathery West Pointer, John Gray Wheelock III, started Polk's transition from the old to the "new" Army before his retirement last year. He served as Patton's reconnaissance officer in the Third Army in World War II and helped develop America's answer to the German blitzkrieg.

The guys from Jersey, or Michigan, or Colorado who trained here to face the enemy over the last three decades would hardly recognize the place now. It's still hot but that will always be true in Louisiana, where one wit once observed that the weather is so hot it takes two alligators to live through the same summer.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

The quantity of the medicine your doctor prescribes for you is as important as the drug itself. We are tempted to discontinue the medicine as soon as the symptoms disappear. However, medication should be taken as prescribed until finished, unless your doctor indicates otherwise. Usually the complete medication is necessary to prevent a resurgence of the virus and the illness.

Shell Has More Crude Oil

HOUSTON (AP) — Shell Oil Co. says its Jan. 1 crude oil inventory was approximately 20.2 million barrels.

The company said Friday this was an increase of 700,000 barrels from a year ago and the increase amounts to less than one day's supply for the firm's refineries.

In a report to the Federal Energy Office, Shell stated that the crude oil available for processing in January represents about 93 per cent of the capacity of its refineries.

The report also estimated that crude

Energy Woes Take Shine Off Auto Sales Record

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Car buyers' energy worries took some of the shine off a record sales year for American automakers, figures from Detroit showed this past week.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors said they sold a total of 9.7 million new cars in 1973, 4.3 per cent higher than 1972. Including imports, the gain was 4.6 per cent with a total of 11.4 million units sold.

Strong spring and summer sales figures had once prompted predictions of a 12-million-car year. But sales began trailing off later in the year and in December, with many buyers looking for smaller and more economic cars, domestic sales were off more than 20 per cent.

December's sales total for American cars, 573,730, was the lowest in three years and well below the record 718,843 of December 1972.

All four manufacturers except American Motors showed declines in December. General Motors and Chrysler were both down about 20 per cent. Ford, whose year-earlier figures were boosted by a sales contest, was down 26 per cent.

American Motors, whose autos are generally smaller than its three bigger competitors, had a sales increase of 28 per cent for December.

Ford later announced it was temporarily closing plants in St. Louis and Wixom, Mich. It said the plants would be back in production next month, but at lower production rates.

All four American auto producers have announced closings or cutbacks to trim their production of larger cars. Ford's announcement was seen as part of an effort to trim its production target even further, perhaps 26 per cent below production in the first quarter of last year.

The head of the Justice Department's antitrust division said this past week that his office plans regular searches for possible violations by major industries.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper said turning away from a scattergun approach could lead to more government lawsuits challenging the structure of entire industries.

The idea, he said, is "every two or three years examine pricing behavior over the preceding three years, the profit picture, evidence of other kinds of agreements that may have been entered into in that period of time."

Kauper said this regular system would cut down the number of investigations in response to complaints, imminent mergers and accusations of conspiracy.

Eight major tire companies were given permission by the Cost of Living Council to boost prices an average of 3.28 per cent effective Tuesday, the second such hike in three months.

Council Director John T. Dunlop said the increases were to cover higher costs since last October, when the council allowed the companies to raise prices only about half as far as they had asked.

All eight companies have filed requests for further increases ranging from 4.87 at Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. to .93 per cent at Dunlop Tire & Rubber Corp.

Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s request to borrow another $20 million under government guarantee was approved Friday by the government's Emergency Loan Guarantee Board.

The government approved the guaranteed loan program in 1971 to help keep the giant aerospace company out of bankruptcy, but Lockheed has indicated recently it is in danger of running out of cash this year.

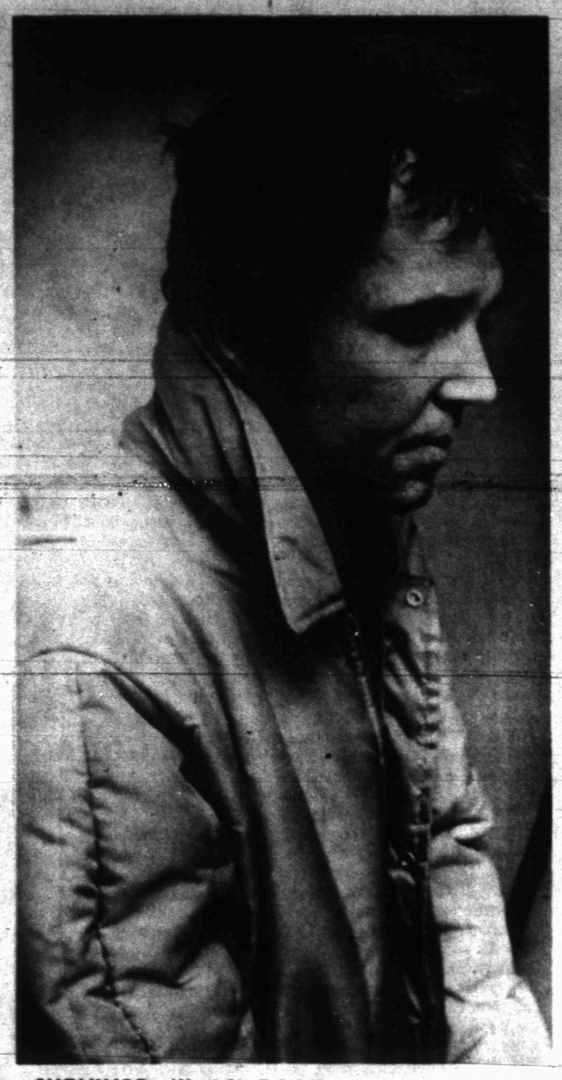
The new $20 million will bring Lockheed's total borrowings to $220 million of a maximum $250 million.

Company officials contend Lockheed is basically sound, but has been hurt by the fuel shortage and a drop in air travel.

Engineers To Hear Short

Charles G. Short, Supervisor of the Odessa Regional office of the Texas Air Quality Control Board, will address the January meeting of the Permian Basin Section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers on the topic, "Clean Air and the Energy Crisis in West Texas." Short is a native of Monahans. He holds an Electrical Engineering degree from the University of Texas at Austin, and has been employed previously as a Design Engineer for Texas Instruments.

The meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Coors Hospitality Room off Highway 80 west of the Midland-Odessa Air Terminal. For reservations call Phil Collier at Perry Gas in Odessa, Ron Tonne at Ortloff in Midland, or Curtis Strong at Cosden Oil in Big Spring.



SURVIVOR—West St. Paul fireman Keith Johnson, 31, takes a quiet break from his firefighting duties after he survived a propane gas explosion as he was 20 feet above the explosion in a snorkel basket. Sextuplets Have Good Chance

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Doctors have predicted a good chance of survival for three boys and three girls born Friday to a 25-year-old woman who had taken a fertility drug before conception.

"All six babies are doing well," said a hospital statement 24 hours after the birth in the Mowbray Maternity Hosital.

The mother, Susan Rosenkowitz, was reported by hospital authorities as making satisfactory progress after the delivery by Caesarian section. Doctors said she may be allowed to leave her bed later today and see her babies.

The hospital report said the infants, who are spending the critical first 40 hours of life in an incubator, show no complications. They continue to be fed intravenously.

Mrs. Rosenkowtiz and her 39-year-old husband, Colin, a businessman, also have a 7-year-old daughter and a 5-year-old son.

The multiple deliveries were made within 10 minutes. Doctors said the babies were well formed but one was much smaller than the others. They range in weight from 2½ to 4½ pounds.

Sextuplets often are born after only 32 weeks gestation, but Mrs. Rosenkowitz had a full nine-month pregnancy. After four months of pregnancy she had taken the drug orciprinaline, a muscle relaxer aimed at preventing a premature delivery, doctors said.

The father reportedly has sold all story and picture rights of the births to a Durban magazine for about $90,000 and has declined all other interviews. Newsmen were not allowed into the hospital wing where the babies were born.

Recall Suspended

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors has won a temporary restraining order suspending a National Highway Traffic Safety Administration order that owners of 60,000 old Cadillacs be notified of an alleged steering defect.

The NHTSA ordered GM on Friday to notify the owners of 1959 and 1960 Cadillacs that a serious defect had been detected in the steering mechanism of the cars.

The agency urged GM to recall the autos, but GM said it was convinced no such defect exists.

GM immediately went into U.S. District Court here, contending the NHTSA's 18-month study of the alleged defect included no verified deaths or injuries resulting from the defect in the more than 20 billion miles the autos have been driven.

The NHTSA said a small device called a "Pitman arm" could separate under stress in low-speed turns and parking maneuvers, causing complete loss of control.

GM contended that any loss of control at low speeds would not be dangerous to drivers and passengers. The company also complained that it was not given a full opportunity to examine the agency's reasons for ordering the notification and repair of the vehicles.

U.S. District Court Judge Charles W. Joiner granted a temporary restraining order pending a hearing Jan. 15. GM had asked that the order be set aside entirely and that the agency be permanently prevented from enforcing it.

Meanwhile, Ford recalled 133,000 of its 1974-model cars to fix an automatic speed control device cited by nine Ford owners. Ford said the unit may not shut off properly on as many as 400 cars but that no accidents have been reported in connection with the problem.

All of the Fords affected by the recall campaign are large or intermediate models.

Youth Admits Killing Pair

DALLAS (AP) — A West Dallas youth reportedly admitted to police he killed a Cuban couple here last Monday.

Police officers said Friday at a news conference that Cal Ray Biggins, 18, arrested on a police informant's tip, made a statement admitting the shooting of Gustavo and Maria Cuello at their grocery store during a robbery attempt.

The bodies of the two victims were found inside a walk-in cooler.

Lt. A.M. Eberhardt said that Biggins had informed detectives where they could find the murder weapon, described as a .38 caliber revolver.

Biggins was arrested after police received a tip by an informant seeking reward money offered for clues in the case.

He was held on bonds totaling $300,000 on two counts of capital murder and one count of aggravated robbery.

The capital murder complaints enable the Dallas County district attorney's office to seek the death penalty.

Futurists Are Warning Of Dark Years Ahead

EDITOR'S NOTE — Happy New Year. It is now 1974. In 10 years it will be 1984. Remember that? That's the year George Orwell picked for his book that forecast an ugly new world. The book was fiction. But some real-life theoreticians and planners are predicting a world of tomorrow grim and tortured beyond Orwell's wildest dreams — or nightmares.

By JOHN T. WHEELER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

As troublesome and dangerous as it is, today's energy crunch may be only a comparatively mild introduction to crises only a handful of years ahead.

Growing numbers of economists, sociologists, scientists, and others among professional futurists are warning of unpleasant, perhaps shattering change ahead for the world.

"What we are seeing now with energy is not a bad winter cold, it is the forerunner of pneumonia," one specialist said after a luncheon brain-storming session at Brookings Institute in Washington, D.C.

The warnings, some direr than others, are pouring into government, industry and other clients of think tanks such as Stanford Research Institute, Rand Corporation, Brookings, Institute for the Future and the like.

Since similar warnings more than a decade ago of the energy crisis came from some of these same institutions and individual experts, their latest misgivings cannot be rejected out of hand as alarmist, an executive at Stanford Research Institute said.

Over the past dozen years the major argument among the futurists has not been so much what would happen in our world, but when and what specific weak point in our highly — some say overly — complex industrial society would give way first.

As it turned out, the energy crisis was what one called, "the trigger of change," a change some futurists believe ultimately will be so thoroughgoing and profound that it will be looked back upon as one of history's greatest watersheds.

When George Orwell wrote "1984," a sort of political science-fiction novel that appeared after World War II, it was accepted widely as frighteningly plausible but avoidable. In just 10 years what the futurists and ecologists like to call Spaceship Earth reaches that milestone.

A majority of present predictions are that while Orwell may have missed the mark on some points and his worst fears may not be realized, the industrial nations in 1984 will be vastly different places to live. Change and crises will leapfrog each other in the next decade, these men believe, in nerve wracking, wrenching, too-fast-to-be-contemplated order, leaving us emotionally exhausted and confused. Many of today's certainties seem doomed to the same fate as the truism turned anachronism "Sound as a dollar."

When queried, expert after expert said society may owe a debt of gratitude to the Arabs for their oil production slashbacks that seriously threatened the economies of Europe and Japan. Although energy shortages were with us before the latest Middle East War, today's crisis may help prepare public opinion and governments for the shocks to come during the decade, these men say. Their argument is we can study our failures and perhaps cushion ourselves when future crises appear.

Many talk of a post industrial society, so certain are they that our mass production, mass consumption system will find itself increasingly strangled on its own garbage, strapped by shortages and unable to design its way around the mess by means of technology, the god of the '50s and '60s.

While still Secretary of Commerce, Maurice H. Stans, who is not generally considered an alarmist, told a White House conference: "...the American society has been woefully weak in anticipating its troubles, and sorrowfully lacking in common sense in coping with them."

John Markley of the Stanford Research Institute, says: "Preventing future crises by forecasting them? It is almost impossible today to even follow events, let alone get ahead of them. There is so much now we can't handle. It's a decision overload, crisis shock, the inability of managers to manage, leaders to lead."

Specifically, futurists forecast one or more economic recessions and possibly a hard depression in the decade ahead. These will be related to the energy crisis but due to other trends as well. Many economists are already forecasting a recession this year in America and worse abroad, with U.S. unemployment running 8 per cent or more and inflation roaring ahead unabated.

By 1984, real disposable income may fall significantly because of higher taxes and higher prices for food — especially convenience foods — housing, anything using energy, and consumer products in general. Unemployment is expected to remain high by present standards and be coupled with high underemployment both in terms of hours and training background. Many of those with college degrees may find themselves clerks and secretaries.

Many who fled to the suburbs may be driven by economic factors back into central cities where no solutions for high crime, urban blight and other problems seem at hand.

Second and third cars, as well as second homes to drive them to, may be out for all but the well-to-do. Economy and compact cars of today may be the standard models of 1984 and a luxury for lower income families. Air conditioning may be outlawed to conserve energy.

Government will be bigger, more powerful and probably more unwieldy. Personal freedoms may be curbed to ward off continuing crises in a near wartime atmosphere. The talk among many futurists is of the possibility of "friendly fascism," a term coined by Bertram M. Gross.

Even the optimists foresee a decline in the quality of life as we think of it now. New attitudes and priorities will govern not only individuals but a good many of the major institutions of society, these men say. Business, industry, labor, education and others already are under intense pressure to change and these pressures are forecast to mount almost geometrically.

Free enterprise appears to be in for heavier assaults. Most futurists interviewed believe today's energy czar will give way to tomorrow's federal economic czar, a man with vast powers to expand or to curtail whole segments of the economy and allocate increasingly scarce raw materials.

Discussing the need for a czar, one energy expert said oil companies today are hampered in exploring for new fields by a lack of steel drilling pipe. That quality steel is locked up by the auto industry producing cars that will not have the gasoline they need because of oil scarcities.

Junior Editors' Quiz on COTTAGE CHEESE

QUESTION: How is cottage cheese made?

* * *

ANSWER: Cottage cheese, a simple, fresh, soft unripened cheese, is a solid form of pure milk. It probably originated with the cottager or small farmer who thriftily used excess milk as a tasty dish for his table.

Cottage cheese is usually made of pasteurized skim milk and set with the addition of lactic acid bacteria. The mixture stands until a curd forms. The curd is cut into small pieces and heated to a temperature of about 100 degrees and held there until the whey or liquid is separated. The curd is then stirred and seasoned with salt, cream, and in some locations, molasses or sugar. Cottage cheese is highly perishable and subject to mold spoilage, and therefore should be stored in the coolest place in the refrigerator. Originally made in the home, it is now produced commercially and is sometimes called pot cheese, baker's cheese, Dutch cheese or Smearcase when produced in other lands.

Tigers Put Down Morton 70 To 59

MORTON—Snyder's Tigers boosted their record to 7-13 here Friday night with a 70-59 victory over Morton. It was a rough and tumble game all the way.

The lead changed several times in the first half. Morton held a 16-15 lead after one quarter and a 34-32 margin at halftime. The Tigers put on a great rally in the third quarter and went ahead, 51-42. Morton tied the game up in the fourth quarter, but Snyder pulled away after the hosts got in foul trouble.

Coach Bob Moore of the Tigers said his team used a man-to-man defense all the way, but they didn't press any.

Three Morton lads—Silham, Thompson and Joyce—fouled out, and two more players—Standmire and Williams—had four fouls each. Roy Lee Carter had four fouls for Snyder, but he was the only Tiger in foul trouble.

Snyder led in field goals by only one, 29-28, but they held a 12-3 margin at the line. Three Tigers hit in double figures. Welton Cobb and Chester Cobb each scored 20 points, and Larry Johns tallied 18. Silhan and Thompson each roped 16 points for Morton.

Snyder also won the junior varsity game, 75-71. The Snyder JV led 22-10 after one period, 39-25 at halftime, and 59-34 after three frames. Then Morton put on a great rally in the fourth quarter, outscoring Snyder 37-16, but the deficit was just too much to overcome.

Greg Gafford led Snyder JV scorers with 20 points. Robert Alderete contributed 18, and Randy Gressett posted 13. Thompson pitched in 23 points for the Morton JV while Grisby and Johnson each put in 12.

Snyder will be at Andrews Tuesday, then open District 4-AAAA action next Friday at Lubbock High.

Dolphins Favored Over Vikes By 6

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

HOUSTON (AP) — Miami's mechanical Dolphins, hoping for strong legs for receiver Paul Warfield, are six-point favorites to defeat the Minnesota Vikings in the eighth Super Bowl game Sunday.

Kickoff time is 3:30 p.m. EDT at Rice Stadium, where the Astroturf surface may be damp from week-long rain. The U.S. Weather Service, which hasn't been right one day this week, predicted a cloudy afternoon with temperatures in the 50s but no rain.

The Dolphins, who depend on Warfield's long-range catching ability to open the opposing defense for runners Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris, expected to see their flashy receiver in action despite what was called a hamstring pull suffered in practice Wednesday.

The injury was kept secret for a day before Coach Don Shula revealed it. The Dolphins' stock dived until team trainer Larry Gardner noted there was no swelling and said Warfield would be ready for action Sunday.

The Vikings, more of a passing team, sailed into the Super Bowl on the throwing of Fran Tarkenton. They must stop the violent running game of the Dolphins and shake receivers free to get Tarkenton a target.

Their chore borders on the impossible—Miami has won 21 of 23 games in the last two seasons with a professional, cool, calculating approach to Shula's demands.

"We expected to win," Csonka said after the Dolphins' 27-10 playoff victory over Oakland in which quarterback Bob Griese threw only six passes.

It could be a dull game as most Super Bowls have been because no one likes to take a chance in the big one.

The defenses could make it a virtual draw were it not for the unstoppable Csonka who has run for more than 1,000 yards for three straight seasons. He ground out 117 steps against Oakland in the American Football Conference championship game and scored three touchdowns on 29 carries.

Miami defensive tackle Manny Fernandez, one of the stars of the Dolphins' 14-7 Super Bowl victory over Washington last year, had what was termed a high fever Friday and did not practice.

But flu bugs have flirted with several players this week, including Csonka, and there was little doubt in the Dolphin camp that Fernandez would perform.

The game will be telecast over CBS-TV to an audience of possibly 75 million in the United States, Mexico, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Puero Rico, Germany, Australia, England and American servicemen around the world via the Armed Forces TV Network.

For the broadcast rights, CBS paid $2.75 million. The network is charging up to $210,000 a minute for commercials. Some 1,500 writers and radio and television reporters are covering the game. NFL statisticians figure that the newspaper writers alone would send more than 3.5 million words about it this week.

Super Bowl week in Houston has turned out to be Mardi Gras and New Year's Eve rolled into one. The total dollar flow was expected to exceed the $16 million Los Angeles realized in Super Bowl VII.

The game is being held in somewhat antiquated Rice Stadium instead of the Astrodome because it seats 20,000 more people.

The stadium was a sellout at 72,000 seats. There were reports of scalpers asking $150 for a $15 ticket.

Writers conducted a straw poll and the tally was running was 2-to-1 for the Dolphins.

Oddsmaker Jimmy The Greek Snyder favored the Dolphins by six points. He was putting his money on Dolphin kicker Garo Yepremian who has booted all 38 extra-points and 25 of 37 field goals for 113 points for the season.

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant said his kicker, Fred Cox, should get 10 more yards distance because of the sure artificial turf in Rice Stadium. He said Cox's distance had suffered in the latter part of the season because of the unpredictable, frozen surfaces in Bloomington, Minn. Cox kicked a 44-yarder in the NFC title game off the artifical turf and has 96 points on 33 extra-points and 21 of 35 field goals.

Ticket Scalper Is Filed On

HOUSTON (AP) — A ticket agency owner has been charged with deceptive advertising in connection with alleged ticket scalping for Sunday's Super Bowl game between Minnesota and Miami.

Richard McDowell, owner of Mr. Tickets, was charged Friday with advertising the sale of tickets to an agency subscriber for $25 each and then informed the subscriber that the lowest price available was $75.

McDowell was arrested by city vice officers after a complaint was made against him by Mrs. R.D. Spratlen of Houston.

Mike Schneider, consumer fraud chief, said ticket scalping in itself is not against the law in Texas as long as the scalper is registered as such with the state comptroller.

Booster Club Meets Monday

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at West Elementary Cafeteria, according to an announcement by Dr. W. N. Jones, club president.

He said the Boosters would hear a report on the basketball team and see a film. He urged everyone to attend since plans for the all-sports banquet will be discussed.

Campbell Leads 4-A All-State

HOUSTON (AP) — Earl Campbell, Tyler John Tyler's great running back, was the leader in balloting for the Texas Sports Writers Association's 1973 Class 4A High School All-State team.

The 6-1, 214-pound Campbell, undefeated march to the Class 4A state championship, accumulated almost 20 more points than his nearest rival and missed by only two votes of being a rare unanimous choice first teamer.

Campbell was one of four John Tyler players named to either the first offensive team or the first defensive unit.

Junior tight end Ronnie Lee joined him on the first offensive team and a younger brother, Steve Campbell, made it as a linebacker and nose guard Gary Johnson was selected on the No. 1 defensive team.

In addition to Campbell and Lee, the first offensive team included wide receiver John Washington of Dallas Roosevelt; tackles Kenny Kirk of Austin Reagan and Alfred Sanders of Temple; guards Mark Krug of Arlington Sam Houston and Jackie James of Longview; center Jim Wyman of Spring Branch; quarterback Kenny Washington of Port Arthur Lincoln; and running backs Mike Mock of Longview and Sammy Singleton of Baytown Sterling.

Other than Steve Campbell and Johnson, the defensive unit included interior linemen Jon Kramer of Clear Lake, Jimmy Green of Waco Richfield and Allen Rickman of San Antonio Churchill; linebackers Kelvin Monk of Seguin, Jim Yarbrough of Galveston Ball and Joel Estes of Sherman; backs Ronald Burns of Arlington Sam Houston, Howard Sampson of Baytown Sterling and Landy Minor of Austin Reagan.

Yarbrough was the only repeater on either team.

Grant Stopped By Gag Rule

HOUSTON (AP) — The National Football League invoked its so-called gag rule in threatening to fine Minnesota Coach Bud Grant for his criticism of training facilities for Sunday's Super Bowl, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle explained Friday.

The fine could be as high as $5,000.

But Rozelle, at his annual pre-Super Bowl news conference Friday, indicated he thought the hullabaloo made earlier in the week may have gotten out of hand.

"It just wasn't that important to me," said Rozelle.

Grant griped because his team had been assigned training facilities at a Houston high school. There were no lockers in the facility and sparrows were flitting about the shower room.

The league made the selection of the site and Rozelle, who said he wouldn't inspect it, called the Viking training camp the "second best one available here when you consider security and everything else."

The gag rule is a provision in the NFL constitution which bars coaches, players and all others connected with the sport from making public criticism of the league. Violators can be fined at the discretion of the commissioner.

"I'm not going to take any action or give any thought to it until after the game. I just intend to explore all facets of it."

Westerners Beat Temple JC 74-73

TEMPLE—The Western Texas College Westerners nipped Temple Junior College 74-73 in a non-conference basketball clash here Friday night in a tilt that was close all the way.

Temple actually had a last minute chance to win the game. With nine seconds remaining in the game, Temple's Pat Wheelus was at the line with a 1 and-1 situation. He missed, and WTC's Eugene Harris got the rebound and the Westerners ran out the clock.

The Westerners fell behind by as much as nine points at the midway point of the first half, but they rallied and took a 35-34 lead at halftime. In the second half, the Westerners built an eight point lead with 10 minutes to play. Temple pulled within one point with four minutes left and WTC could not get more than three points ahead during the remainder of the game. Neither team scored in the last two minutes.

Western hit 35 of 81 from the field for 43 per cent. Each team had four men in double figures. Harris led WTC with 20 points, Norman Barnes tallied 17, Danny McDaniel posted 16, and Harold Ward put in 13. For Temple, Melvin Freeman was high point man with 20. James Smith meshed 17, Victor Taylor roped 14, and Pat Wheelus put in 10. WTC hit only four of seven at the line.

"Our offense wasn't very impressive, but we did a pretty good job defensively all night," declared WTC Coach Mike Mitchell.

The Westerners collected 46 rebounds with Eugene Harris leading with 13. Norman Barnes grabbed 10.

Mitchell said the Westerners used a full court press throughout the first half and up until five minutes remained in the second half. At that point, they switched to a 2-1-2 zone.

Harold Ward, a forward, and Danny McDaniel, a guard, were named to the All-Tournament team.

WTC meets South Plains in Levelland in a conference match at 7:30 p.m. Monday. They return home next Thursday to host New Mexico Military Institute in another conference match. The Westerners' record now is 11-4.

Travis 8th, 9th Lose At Lamesa

LAMESA—Levelland nipped Travis 9th grade 56-52 in the first round of the Lamesa Basketball Tournament here Friday night.

Levelland led all the way, but Travis was down only four points with 30 seconds remaining. Levelland led 15-6 after one period, 34-19 at halftime, and 44-31 after three frames. Travis held a 21-12 edge in the final period, but the deficit was just too much to overcome.

Three Travis lads hit in double figures. Bryan Walton was the leader with 17 points, Doug Morrell sunk 16, and Phil Banks put in 10. For Levelland, Archer, Lisson and Paxton scored 20, 16 and 10 points respectively.

Travis 8th grade also lost to Levelland, 41-36, after blowing a 28-8 lead in the first half.

Travis led 10-1 after one quarter and 28-8 at halftime, but Levelland pulled within four points at 25-21 in the third quarter, and outscored Travis 20-13 in the fourth quarter.

Charles Cobb and Lucious Jeffery each roped 12 points for Travis 8th while Sam Golightly led Levelland with 16 points.

Both Travis 8th and 9th were in the Consolation finals Saturday morning.

Stars Acquire Rick Mount

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association have acquired Rick Mount of the Kentucky Colonels, and traded guard Bob Warren to San Antonio.

Arnie Ferrin, general manager, said Friday that Mount comes to the Stars for a high draft choice and cash. Warren left for a high draft pick and money.

"We consider Rick a high-quality player who should be a great asset to our team," Ferrin told a news conference. "We have won the American Basketball Association's Western Division championship several times now, but can't win the ABA title. We've felt a need to strengthen our team.

More Mushrooms Being Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has announced the recall of 27 more brands of canned mushrooms which officials say pose a potential health hazard.

The recall involves four-ounce cans packed at the Mount Laurel Packing Corp. in Temple, Pa., before Oct. 1, 1973.

The FDA said tests indicated the presence of spores which could develop botulinum toxin. Poisoning by the toxin can be fatal unless treated promptly.

Consumers were advised to contact a doctor if they should experience food poisoning after eating any of the mushrooms. The FDA said consumers should not throw the mushrooms away, but return them to the store where purchased.

The recalled cans can be identified by a one-line code of numbers and letters on the lid. Mount Laurel changed its processing methods after Oct. 1 and subsequent production, identified by the letters MTL, is not being recalled.

Start Your Clipping Service

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Where can I get information on starting a clipping service in my home? – S.S., Hattiesburg, Miss.

Many of the ads appearing to offer employment as a publication clipper, or help in setting up your own clipping bureau, are similar to most of the home-envelope-addressing ads – fraudulent pitches to sell worthless literature at inflated prices.

A newly revised papercover 56-page book, "How To Start A Profitable Retirement Business" by Arthur Liebers, discusses the home clipping business.

Liebers says that a successful operation requires much more than the ability to read and clip newspapers and magazines: "You must be able to sell your service and establish a profitable clientele. Potential customers would include politicians, authors, publishers, sports celebrities, entertainers, organizations, etc., basically any individual or group whose activities would be reported in print."

Forget starting a national clipping service unless you're Onassis. Their subscriptions to various publications alone come to over $100,000 a year, and their capital investments exceed over one million dollars. However, you might be able to start a state or regional service.

Liebers advises that you prepare a printed brochure describing the services you offer. Work out a mailing list of prospective customers from items you find in publications you propose to clip. An idea of the charges in this field are: regional, state and local service charges vary but range from about $5 to $20 per month, plus about 12 cents per clipping.

The big national bureaus used to let out subcontracts for local clipping, but generally this has been discontinued. The pay was low anyway – 2 cents to 3 cents per clipping.

The book recommends that you first carefully survey the area in which you plan to operate before starting. Your success is dependent on the number of clients and the source material that is available. For instance, in a small town, you may find that your operation would be limited to a prospective clientele of 30 at most, and your source of supply limited to 3 or 4 daily, and a half dozen weekly newspapers.

Instead of servicing "contract" clients, some small clipping services clip items and then send postcards to persons named in these items offering to provide an "item of interest from a newspaper in which you are mentioned" for a small fee. Often these are offered in a laminated cover for permanent record.

A number of other small business ideas are discussed, along with a checklist to be completed before going into business to keep your thinking on solid ground. The book is available for $2, only through the publisher, Pilot Books, 347 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016.

* * *

Dear Joyce: My husband is interested in taking a locksmithing course by mail. He may be retiring soon and is thinking this could be one way to make some additional income. We know nothing of this correspondence school. What, in your opinion, are his chances of making this course pay off? – E.L., San Bernardino, Calif.

Check with a local locksmith about the merits of correspondence study for this trade. I think your husband will be disappointed if he expects to earn $50 a day (like the ads say) soon after finishing a correspondence course. He may even find a locksmith who'll take him on as an apprentice.

New Astronomy Course Slated

A new course in astronomy scheduled to begin Jan. 18 will open the spring semester offering of Community Service courses at Western Texas College.

Presently in the planning stage are a course titled Wild Flowers of West Texas scheduled to begin in April and a furniture upholstery course.

Classes in Food Handling and Sanitation will begin between Jan. 14-18. Classes will be scheduled in the afternoon and evening to enable employes of food handling establishments to attend.

Aviation ground school will be offered if there is sufficient demand.

Advanced Conversational Spanish is also to be offered.

Community Service courses are non-credit courses offered by the college when there is indication of interest, J.M. Kayser, Dean of Evening School and Continuing Education, says.

Area residents interested in taking courses already announced or in setting up other courses are asked to call his office at extension 237 at WTC. The furniture upholstery course is one of the new courses being planned upon the request of local residents. It will be designed for people interested in upholstery as a vocation, but would also be of interest to persons who want to restore their own furniture.

The astronomy course will be taught by Mickey Schmidt, director of the WTC planetarium. Schmidt will be using the planetarium to illustrate many of the major astronomical concepts, and students will have the opportunity to observe the heavens through a telescope and learn of the telescope's use.

Lectures in the astronomy course will be supplemented by slides prepared by professional observatories and the WTC staff. Class members will learn about the tools astronomers use and will trace the development of modern astronomy from ancient times. A study of the Milky Way and other galaxies and the future of the sun, stars and universe will be presented at the conclusion of the course.

The astronomy course is scheduled to run through April 29. Cost will be $12.50 per person.

Students Draft State Laws

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Twenty University of Nebraska students are not only earning while they learn, but are getting their feet wet in government affairs. The 20 are participating in a state government internship program that pays them $600 and three credit hours for a semester on such jobs as helping draft proposed legislation and collecting data for reports.

East Texas Land Use To Change

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A new kind of industry soon will compete with if not surpass the livestock and timber industry in East Texas, says William Douglas Moore of the Texas Real Estate Research Center Education Division.

"Investors are bringing in money from the Fort Worth-Dallas area, Houston, other parts of the country, and, in some cases, other parts of the world," said Moore.

Moore was talking about huge recreational or resort development.

He said the recreational concept in East Texas has long centered around the weekend camper and fisherman.

That probably will never change, said Moore. But it is the big development "is the one drawing in the money," he added.

The research center, an arm of Texas A&M University, will hold a series of seminars in Tyler starting Jan. 22 to help inform land owners, investors, potential investors and real estate professionals about the development growth.

The sessions will be held each Tuesday through Feb. 19 at the Rose Garden Center.

Subjects will include land opportunities, agriculture and industry, recreation and resort developments' economic impact, land use control and real estate economics.

'Texas' Drama Auditions Set

CANYON—The musical drama "Texas" is built on talent, and the directors are seeking a cast for the 9th season 1974. Auditions will take place on the campus of West Texas State University on Saturday, Jan. 19, in the Fine Arts Building, and in the Women's Gym at Texas Tech University on Jan. 20. Actors, singers, dancers, players on banjo, accordian, violin, double bass and guitar, and technicians, will have an opportunity to try-out to be a part of the company which produces this world renowned musical drama each summer.

Applicants are invited to appear in Canyon between 10 a.m. and 12a.m., 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (dancers only from 5), and in Lubbock from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. (dancers only from 3).

There are a hundred salaried positions ranging from $500 to $1500 for a summer on the stage and anyone who is interested is urged to appear.

William A. Moore, the director of "Texas" since its beginning, will be looking for command of the stage, for a voice that can be heard outdoors, for actors who understand character motivation who can convey a variety of emotion. He asks that the try-out selection be a memorized scene from a play. (3 minutes)

The musical director, Royal Brantley, is looking for voices of quality and precision, and urges applicants to choose audition material which will show the range of their voices and their artistry. Some musical comedy songs, most arias and art songs will do this.

Neil Hess, the choreographer, requests dance applicants to appear in rehearsal dress, and be prepared to follow him in a set of dance routines.

The season will open with a first rehearsal on May 26. Performances will be nightly except Sundays from June 19 through Aug. 24.

For more information or for an audition brochure, write "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2182.

New TV Sign Off Message

LONDON (AP) — Britain's television viewers will soon be getting a new message before they switch off their sets at night: "Make sure your baby is a wanted one."

The government's campaign, which is expected to cost $32,000, follows warnings by family planners that a baby boom may develop because Britain's energy shortage is leaving couples little to do at night except go to bed early.

The government has ordered television off by 10:30 p.m. to conserve electricity and thermostats turned down to save oil.

The 15-second spots will be shown for two weeks starting Jan. 28. They will give a phone number over which viewers will be told where they can get free contraceptives.

Brando's Ex To Be Wed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Marlon Brando's first wife is going to marry a Los Angeles businessman today, and a son from her marriage to the movie star will give the bride away.

Anna Kashfi, 39, and James Hannaford, a 45-year-old vice president of an electronics firm, will wed in a civil ceremony, a spokesman for the Dunes Hotel says.

Christian Devi Brando, the actress's 15-year-old son, will give her away at the ceremony in a suite at the hotel. Also there will be Hannaford's two sons by a previous marriage, Kyle, 17, and Cary, 14.

Miss Kashfi's marriage to Brando ended in divorce in 1959.

OUR MAN ON BROADWAY

Dick Maurice

Jimmy Caan is a mass of scars, none immediately visible. Schoolboy brawls, subway fights and gridiron collisions have left so many marks on his muscular body that he had to laugh at Helen Gurley Brown's proposal to pose in the nude. He's a tough-talking tough guy whose main goal in life is to grow old peacefully and die rich. Jim's work in the film, "The Rain People" won him a part in the "Godfather". He also has shown a gift for absurd comedy in his latest flick, "Slither". "I love the ladies," he says. "I like being a star, a personality, a sex symbol. But they're only branches to the tree." In this interview we will explore the other branches of James Caan's life.

MAURICE: What's your reaction to the Supreme Court's ruling on pornography?

CAAN: As far as pornography's concerned, I'm personally opposed to clinical sex films, and nobody will ever make me do them. When I go to a movie, I like to see fantasy and entertainment. I think that's the trouble with films today and why people aren't going to them.

MAURICE: What are your feelings regarding religion?

CAAN: I believe in God, but I live by my own conscience and the Golden Rule. happen to be Jewish, but am not religious. I have strong standards and don't hurt anyone. I treat people the way I want to be treated.

MAURICE: There is an expression; Like father like son. Do you think you take after your dad?

CAAN: I think so. My father was rough bastard in his time, a real animal. I remember losing a fight when I was just a kid. My father took one look at me, then kicked me in the can and told me not to come back until I had clobbered the other kid. And just before the war, I remember that he used to beat up those guys that attended German-American Bund rallies. He'd come walking in the door with their boots as souvenirs.

MAURICE: Do you enjoy being around children?

CAAN: Yeh, and one of the reasons I love being around kids is that they're so straight. They let it all hang out—no phony bull with them,. and they can spot a phony a mile away.

MAURICE: You have a daughter by your first marriage that ended in divorce. Would you like to have a son someday?

CAAN: One of my biggest dreams is that someday I'll raise a son of my own, a real jock. I've sure had lots of practice on kids of friends of mine—especially girls I've met over the years who were divorced so there was no father living in the home. When I think about the number of boys growing up in this country without fathers around to guide them, it scares the hell outta me. God knows what would have become of me and my brother if we hadn't had our old man around to keep us in line. As it was we got into plenty of trouble. A week didn't go by that we didn't come home bloody from some neighborhood brawl, with an ear or a nose half off. My mom had to put up with a lot, but we always knew if we went too far our dad would beat the crap out of us, and he did.

MAURICE: You've been divorcednow for seven years. Why is it that you haven't remarried?

CAAN: The main reason I don't marry is because I'm still afraid of it. I don't know if I'm ready to make that commitment again. It didn't work the first time and I still haven't gotten over the failure of it. I don't like to fail—at anything. I sure as hell don't want a second divorce on my record. I'm getting less frightened of it all the time, but right now, today, I'm still not ready.

MAURICE: I understand you enjoy competing in rodeos. Besides competing in rodeos, what other physical activities do you take part in?

CAAN: Well, you might call me a sports freak. I love them all. Right now, I'm heavily into tennis. But if I don't win all the time, I want to beat myself to death. That's just the way I AM. Golf doesn't interest me. I tried it for awhile and did pretty good. In fact three weeks after I picked up a golf club for the first time in my life I led the pro-amateur division of Bob Hope Golf Classic. Two months later, I finished third in the Howard Hughes Invitational. But the game turns me off. What's the sense of playing a sport for five hours without even breaking a sweat?

MAURICE: Did you ever play baseball or football while going to shcool?

CAAN: Sure. In fact, sports occupied my entire life when I was a kid. While I was growing up I did nothing but play football, baseball and basketball. At night, I shot pool and hustled. My neighborhood was renowned for its toughness, but I never got hurt because I was one of the tougher guys around.

MAURICE: Paul Newman was one of many actors listed on the White House "Enemies List". What's your reaction to Newman being on the list and to the whole Watergate mess?

CAAN: Well, since Paul is an "enemy" I guess I should arm myself and shoot him on sight. I've had dinner with Paul two or three times so I guess maybe I'll be blacklisted, too. Actually, the whole thing is ridiculous. Politics is supposed to be dirty, but the Nixon administration used Nazi tactics.

MAURICE: We better change the topic of discussion before I end up on the "Enemies List". Are you a one-woman at a time man?

CAAN: I didn't like dating around even when I was in high school because you can't establish a relationship that way. I know a lot of actors who have to make out with every chick they meet in order to feed their ego, but I'm not that way. I'd rather have one girl because making out is no challenge, but getting inside someone's head, finding out where they're at and building an honest relationship that can last between two different personalities—that's a challenge. But then, life's always been a challenge for me.

Texas Economy Softening

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' economy is softening in some sectors but it is too early to tell if it is from the energy crisis or from the slowdown of the national economy, the Texas Bureau of Business Research says.

A special report on the state's business situation by Robert Lockwood, a research assoccate of the bureau, shows that general business activity in November was down slightly from October. However, there is an 8 per cent increase for the first 11 months of 1973 over the previous year.

Lockwood noted that personal income is still rising in Texas, up .8 per cent for November, and 10.3 per cent ahead of the first 11 months of 1972, slightly above the national average.

"Any good news about rising income, however, is dampened by the worsening news of inflation, now at its worst level in the nation in 22 years," Lockwood said.

He said the national figures show an 8.4 per cent gain in consumer prices for the 12 months ending in November of this year. He said there is no reliable index of consumer prices in Texas to compare with the national figure.

Trends that force local prices to higher levels more consistent with national averages or with prices in other regions are apt to outstrip increases in wages and salaries and to fall heaviest on low-income and fixed-income persons and families.

Junior, a king cobra hatched at the Bronx Zoo, has died after a long illness, establishing a longevity record for the species of 15 years and 7 months.

Tarzan To Be Released Soon

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Johnny Weissmuller, former world swimming champion and moviedom's best-known Tarzan, could be released from the hospital soon, a hospital official says.

Weissmuller, 69, had been in critical condition with a heart ailment after being admitted to Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital Dec. 19 for a fractured hip. The heart ailment was discovered after he entered the hospital. The official said Weissmuller has been recovering well.

Weissmuller set 67 world swimming records during the 1920s and won five Olympic gold medals. His first Tarzan movie in 1931 was followed by 17 more.

Jaycees Name Top Ten Men

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Ten leaders from a wide variety of careers, all of which involve public service, Sunday were named America's outstanding young men.

The men, between 18 and 35 years of age, were selected by the United States Jaycees from nominations made by Jaycee chapters throughout the country. They will be honored at the group's national convention Jan. 16-19 at Mobile, Ala.

The winners:

Wyatt Thomas Johnson Jr., executive editor of the Dallas Times-Herald, Dallas, Tex.

Johnson had an early career in journalism followed by an assignment on the White House staff as special assistant to President Lyndon Johnson.

He was named executive editor of the Times-Herald after having been executive vice president of the Texas Broadcasting Corp. in Austin, Tex.

Gary Lamar Smith, 34, administrator of the Lawrence County Volunteers in Probation, Inc., Lawrenceville, Ill.

Smith was an offender for 17 years during which he spent time in two reform schools and three prisons. He is now the backbone of a community program to keep young offenders out of penal institutions and change their life styles.

He is a Bronze Star winner from Vietnam and earned his law degree while serving time at the Nevada State Prison. He is a former president of the Jaycee chapter in that institution.

Morgan Maxfield, 32, president of the Great Midwest Corp., Kansas City, Mo.

Maxfield, who worked from practically a shoestring to become a millionaire, is a success in three fields: science, industry and land development.

James David Webb, 35, corporate counsel and assistant secretary of the Trust Co. of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga.

Webb is a quadriplegic as the result of a diving accident in a swimming pool while he was a high school student. Webb has been successful in influencing public opinion for improvements needed by handicapped persons.

Thomas R. Miller, 35, attorney and a fellow of the Council On Municipal Performance, Berkeley, Calif.

Miller established the center for plastic and reconstructive surgery in Saigon, South Vietnam. More than 6,000 young casualties of the war have gone through the center. He is presently organizing a research project for a comparative study of health care in American cities.

Earl W. Brian, 31, secretary of the California Health and Welfare Agency, Sacramento, Calif. His work was considered especially significant in testing new methods of delivering health care more efficiently and less costly through the California Department of Health Care Services. He also has written a book on his stock market investment technique.

Sen. R. Biden Jr., 31, of Delaware.

Besides his political career, Biden has worked for the Leukemia Society of America and similar agencies.

Gov. Christopher Samuel Bond, 34, of Missouri.

Bond is the youngest governor in the country and has established a reputation in reorganization of many state agencies. He started his public career as a small town attorney.

Sheffield Nelson, 32, president of Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co., Little Rock, Ark.

As president of one of the nation's largest gas utilities, he has participated in exploration and development of new sources of natural gas in Texas and Oklahoma.

Nolen Myers Ellison, 32, president of the Seattle Wash. Community College.

Ellison was a basketball player at the University of Kansas and passed up an opportunity to play professionally to become chief planner for his home town of Kansas City, Kan.

Geography Course Is Like Cruise

"It's the next best thing to a world cruise," says Jim Palmer in describing the World Geography course he will be teaching for evening students at Western Texas College during the spring semester.

World Geography is a general introduction to the peoples and cultures of the world, Palmer said, along with basic geographic concepts. The material is presented in an informal manner, allowing time for discussion on subjects of special interest to class members.

The course places emphasis on the why rather than the what in geography. Students are not required to memorize the names of capitals, rivers, and mountains, but instead take a look at the effects of geography on people in different parts of the world. Slides, films, maps and other visual aids are used liberally to illustrate the material being studied.

World Geography is a three-hour college credit course and will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays. Persons interested in the course may contact Palmer at extension 238 at WTC for further information. Evening students will register from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Claim Oil Production Held Back

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Seven giants of the oil industry deliberately held back oil production and otherwise engineered the energy crisis, says the national president of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (MEBA), AFL-CIO.

Jesse M. Calhoon of New York City said Friday a study commissioned by MEBA identifies the seven as leaders of a conspiracy to control the supply of petroleum and natural gas.

The so-called "seven sisters of the oil industry," Calhoon said, are Exxon, Texaco, Standard Oil of California, Gulf, Mobil, Shell and British Petroleum.

The MEBA study claims a host of connections among the oil companies through interlocking directorates, joint ventures, producing and marketing agreements, and common ties with a small number of major financial institutions and accounting firms, Calhoon said.

Calhoon said, "I find it shocking that U.S. officialdom has permitted the high officials of the oil companiess to skirt the legality of the anti-trust laws."

The MEBA study was conducted, written and published last month by the Washington, D.C., economic research firm of Stanley H. Ruttenberg and Associates, Calhoon said.

NEW BRUCELLOSIS LAW

As of January 15, 1974, the new law governing brucellosis goes into effect. When it does, several changes in the movement, testing and sale of cattle will become effective.

Brucellosis, sometimes called "Bangs disease" is a disease of livestock, which can be transmitted to humans. In humans it is referred to as "undulant fever."

For the past several years Texas has been in the process of a testing vaccination program. This has done a great deal toward lowering the infestation. With tighter federal regulations governing movement of cattle between states it has apparently become necessary to add to brucellosis control. It is felt this program will aid in freer movement of Texas cattle to other states.

You may wish to consult with your local veterinarian for details on movement of your cattle after January 15.

GARBAGE FEEDING TO SWINE

Also, as of December 15, 1973, the new law affecting the feeding of raw garbage has been in effect. All persons feeding raw garbage must obtain a permit from the Texas Animal Health Commission. Before this permit is issued an on-premise inspection of the garbage cooking facilities must be made.

ANIMAL AGRICULTURE CONFERENCE

Earlier in this column we mentioned the Animal Conferences to be held at Texas A&M University. There are five different conferences scheduled January 22-24. They are: Dairy Production, Forage and Pasture, Beef Cattle, Horse Production and Swine Production.

Originally the conferences had been slated to start on January 21, but this would necessitate Sunday driving, so it has been changed to begin on Tuesday January 22.

These conferences are open to anyone interested. If you can attend, I'm sure you will receive excellent information.

SWEETWATER LIVESTOCK SHOW

Next Friday and Saturday will be the Sweetwater Area Livestock Show. This has been a popular show with the 4-H club members in Scurry County. This year is no exception as the Scurry County 4-H club members have entered 25 steers, 15 lambs and 2 barrows. This show is open to 4-H and FFA exhibitors in Nolan, Mitchell, Kent, Stonewall, Fisher and Scurry Counties.

COTTON HARVEST

A check of the gins in Scurry County on Jan. 10 showed that the eight gins had received 59,019 bales to this date. In addition the Inadale gin reported approximately 400 bales in ricks and the Fluvanna area had approximately 750 in ricks. Individually it looks like like this:

Paymaster	10,800
Dunn	1,700
Layfield (Ira)	850
Snyder Co-op	12,350
Hermleigh	4,100
China Grove	12,100
Fluvanna	6,000
Inadale Co-op	10,900

Can you believe two years in a row of bale per acre plus production in Scurry County? Our blessings never cease.

Man Killed In Plant Fire

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP) — One research technician was killed and another seriously injured when a flash fire swept through a laboratory at the Monsanto plant here.

Chalmer B. Holder, 41, of Dickinson, died Friday in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston at 9:30 a.m., about eight hours after the blaze. In critical condition was Homer L. Hadley, also of Dickinson.

Company officials said the cause of the blaze was undetermined but that the fire was confined to the lab area of the plant.
