U. S. PEACE PARLEY PLANS AWAIT NEXT MOVE BY JAPAN

Tokio Has Been Sent Reassuring
Message on Far East Query.

Washington, July 16.—Japan, having been assured by the United States that she will not be compelled to play a "lone hand" at the forthcoming Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern problems, must make the next move in the negotiations preliminary to the international gathering soon to be officially called.

Until Japan has responded to the reassuring information conveyed by Secretary of State Hughes concerning her misgivings over the scope of the conference, there will be no major development in the matter and the diplomatic aspect of the conference negotiations remains in a state of suspended animation.

It is understood, however, that exchanges between the participating powers are taking place in the meantime regarding minor phrases of the conference, such as fixing the date of its convocation. While the British government, under the urging of the prime ministers of the British overseas dominions, now in session, is represented as having suggested that a preliminary conference should be held in London prior to the departure for home of these dominion statesmen, the Harding administration sees no prospect that the first meeting will not take place in Washington on a date to be determined by mutual consent. It is assumed here that with no preliminary meeting in London the premiers of the British overseas dominions will find it convenient to come to Washington. They will be cordially welcomed, for the friendship they exhibited for the United States during the imperial conference in London has created a pleasing impression here. Their presence at the conference in an advisory capacity, it is believed, will make for an understanding that will serve to insure peace throughout the world.

Japan's attitude, disclosed for the first time in a public way in the statement given out in New York Saturday by the Japanese consul general there, is causing no real concern to the United States, whatever worry it brought to the White House and the state department when it was officially communicated to this government on Thursday.

Victim in Jail; Surrendered by Bondsmen.

Center, Texas, July 17.—Mrs. Beulah Johnson, who was tarred and suffered the clipping of some of her locks at the hands of masked men at Teneha, Texas, this county, Saturday night, was brought to jail here Sunday and is being held to the grand jury on a charge of bigamy. Mrs. Johnson was out on bond and was surrendered by bondsmen following the tarring.

Sheriff J. N. Smith of Shelby county said the woman told him the masked men gave her no instructions when she was freed on the streets of Teneha, but asked her several questions about a man she knew.

According to information in the hands of Sheriff Smith, Mrs. Johnson has been married three times, the first husband being deceased, while the other two are still living. The third marriage, Sheriff Smith said, took place within the past eighteen months.

NEFF PLACES 5 SUBJECTS BEFORE SPECIAL SESSION

Appropriations and Repeal of Suspended Sentence Law
Come First.

Austin, Texas, July 18.—In his message to the members of the Thirty-seventh legislature in special session, which convened Monday, Governor Pat M. Neff discussed at some length five general propositions upon which he urged immediate and favorable action. The five questions which the governor held to be of unusual importance at this time are:

"To make appropriations within the available revenues for the support and maintenance of the State government and State institutions.

"To provide additional revenues and make appropriations out of the same for the better support of the public free schools of the State.

"To enact legislation providing for the repeal of the suspended sentence law and amending the State-prohibition law so as to make same more effective and easier of enforcement.

"To provide an effective law for the removal of officers who wilfully and corruptly refuse to perform their official duties in the enforcement of the law.

"To redistrict the State into senatorial and representative districts as provided by the constitution and as recommended by our party platform."

John W. Baker Resigns as State Treasurer.

Austin, Tex., July 16.—John W. Baker today tendered his resignation to Governor Neff as state treasurer to become effective immediately after appointment of his successor. The governor appointed G. N. Holton chief clerk of the treasury department to succeed Mr. Baker and he will qualify Monday.

Mr. Baker resigned to accept appointment as active vice president of the Breckenridge State Bank of Breckenridge, the largest state bank between Fort Worth and El Paso. Mr. Baker expects to assume his new duties next Tuesday. At the time of his resignation he was serving the second term as state treasurer.

GLARING LIGHTS CAUSE OF WRECK ON CYPRESS ROAD

Six Barely Miss Death or Injury; Motor Leaguers Offer Aid.

Houston, July 18.—Another accident resulting from glaring headlights occurred at the 21-mile post on the Cypress road about 9 o'clock Sunday night, in which six persons narrowly escaped serious injury or death, according to report of the occurrence brought to The Post by Lee Adams, member of the firm of Lee Adams & Sons.

Mr. Adams stated that the party consisted of S. Myers of Waco, owner and driver of the car; Bradley Phair, Mrs. Gertrude Chapman, Miss Katherine Chapman, Miss Dollie Foster and Miss Irma McConnell of Hempstead. They had spent the day in Galveston and were returning to Hempstead, Mr. Myers to proceed to Waco Monday.

The glare of the approaching headlights so blinded Mr. Myers, it was said, that he could not see the culvert in front of him, which he plunged off of into a ditch about five feet deep, in which there was a considerable amount of water. The car turned over on its side and the occupants, unhurt, climbed out. The car was badly wrecked and a wrecker was called to pick it up.

In the meantime about 30 automobiles returning from the "membership run" of the Motor League of Houston, made Sunday to Bellville, stopped at the scene of the wreck and offered assistance. Among the returning Houstonians was Mayor Holcombe, who voiced his opposition to the glaring headlights and offered to assist the victims of the accident.

The man whose lights caused the accident merely halted and proposed to bring the party in the wrecked car to Houston and upon being informed that they were not ready to come until some disposition was made of the car, he continued on his way, neither his name nor number being obtained, it was said.

U. S. FINISHES PAYING BRITAIN FOR TRANSPORTATION

Washington, July 16.—Despite Great Britain's debt of $4,500,000,000 to this country, payment of $32,668,352 has been made by the American government to the British ministry of shipping on settlement of a claim against the war department, treasury officials said Saturday. The payment was made, officials added, pursuant to an opinion by Attorney General Daugherty.

The British claim was for transportation services during the war with Germany, and the payment, it was explained, constituted final settlement between the war department and the British minister of shipping of all claims of either party against the other for transportation services.

Secretary Mellon asked Mr.

Daugherty for a ruling as to whether the act of March 3, 1837, which requires the secretary to withhold payment of any judgment against the United States where the claimant is indebted to this country in any manner, applied to such a claim.

Mr. Daugherty held the act did not apply, as it was not the practice of sovereign nations to prosecute their claims against one another in the courts and obtain judgment, but to adjust such matters through diplomatic channels.

WOMAN TARRED AND FEATHERED IN EAST TEXAS

Taken from Porch of Hotel at Teneha by Masked White Robbed Men.

Shreveport, La., July 17.—Mrs. Beulah Johnson was taken from the porch of a hotel at Teneha, Texas, stripped, tarred and feathered, according to advices reaching here Sunday.

The attack on Mrs. Johnson, which occurred Saturday night, was said to have been made by masked men wearing white uniforms. They are said to have driven up to the hotel in three automobiles, filed out, displaying firearms, and to have taken the young woman into one of the cars. The automobiles proceeded to a point several miles into the country where Mrs. Johnson's clothing was removed and she was given a coat of tar and feathers. She was then placed in the automobile and returned to the town.

Mrs. Johnson claims to have been working at the hotel as a maid and cook. She says she did not know any of the men in the automobiles and that all were masked.

Late advices are that Mrs. Johnson has been arrested on a charge of bigamy in Shelby county, Texas, and taken to jail at Center, Texas.

Beating of a man named McKnight, of Nacogdoches, Texas, by masked men at Timpson, a nearby town, is reported here as another Saturday night development in border towns.

Omitted by Oversight.

Deputy Sheriff Jess English has said nothing about it, but Sheriff Hale tells the Courier editor that Deputy English was with him when he uncovered and captured a whisky distillery in the western part of Houston county last week and that the deputy's name should not have been omitted by the Courier. The sheriff is right. Deputy English's name should not have been omitted in that connection and it was by oversight that it was omitted by the Courier. It seems hard for the Courier to not omit something every week, but we believe our friends understand that these omissions are not purposely made nor made with any intention to slight anybody.

DAVIDSON PLEADS FOR ECONOMY AT SPECIAL SESSION

Pass Departmental Bills, Adjourn and Go Home,
He Advises.

Austin, Texas, July 17.—Lieutenant Governor Lynch Davidson Sunday expressed the opinion that the wisest course for the legislature, which convenes Monday, to pursue would be to pass "the departmental bills for appropriations for the various branches of government, then to adjourn and go home," in a statement issued here Sunday.

Mr. Davidson declared that "success in any undertaking" requires "harmony and co-operation among those engaged in the undertaking," pointing out that "the business of government is no exception to that rule, nor is government an exception to the principle that its expenditures must be less than its income." Mr. Davidson said that the tax burden is almost intolerable, and that the legislature should not undertake any program that contemplates raising revenue beyond those already provided, and thus prevent added tax burdens.

Can Save School Cut.

Asserting that such a program is possible without subjecting "our educational system" to any stingy or parsimonious policy, Mr. Davidson said that he opposed any policy whereby those engaged in the important work of education as teachers and professors in the schools would be inadequately paid or paid less than living wages.

The text of the lieutenant governor's statement follows:

"Prerequisite to success in any undertaking is harmony and co-operation among those engaged in the undertaking. The business of government is no exception to that rule, nor is government an exception to the principle that its expenditures must be less than its income. The tax burden is almost intolerable. It is my view that the called session of the legislature should not undertake any program that contemplates raising revenues beyond that already provided, and by that program adding further tax burdens.

"To cut our expenses to conform within the revenue should be the program and policy of the present legislature; and this program can be followed without subjecting our educational system to any stingy or parsimonious policy; and it should not be subjected to any policy whereby those engaged in the important work of education as teachers and professors in the schools would not be given adequate and living wages.

"When the departmental bills for appropriations for these branches of government have been passed, it seems to me no wiser thing could be done than to adjourn and go home."

TRIP THROUGH THE TRUCK BELT OF EAST TEXAS.

This trip was made June 27th and 28th, the closing days of the tomato season. We left Henderson early Monday morning, the first stop being Troup. From Troup we went to Whitehouse, thence to Tyler and Lindale, returning by the way of Tyler, thence down the Cotton Belt to Jacksonville, stopping at Gresham and Bullard; two important shipping points. Gresham is situated in Smith county, while Bullard is on the line of Smith and Cherokee. It was impossible in so short a time to make a thorough investigation of the truck industry in all of its details as it now exists along the route above mentioned.

Smith and Cherokee counties are the pioneer fruit and truck counties in Texas. Men of wisdom and keen foresight discovered many years ago the possibilities of this section as a fruit and truck country. It would be interesting to relate the history of their struggles, and the prejudices which met them at each step as they went in and out among the people, striving to enlist them in the cultivation of trees, vines and plants.

And still after fifty years or more since those far-seeing men began to teach and talk about growing trees and vines for a living, only a small per cent of the farmers have ever engaged in the business. Only about 10 percent of the farmers of those two counties have ever been induced to leave cotton for an experiment about which they knew nothing and did not, seemingly, care to know. The most remarkable fact that we learned is that ten per cent, which is the number engaged in the truck business in Smith and Cherokee, actually produce nearly half as much money as the other 90 per cent of farmers produce on their cotton, when the crop is normal and the price as much as $75 per bale.

When we asked the farm demonstration agent of Smith county if it were possible to overdo the truck business, he remarked emphatically, "No!" He said the small area of land adapted to truck that is convenient to shipping points and the small number of farmers that will engage in truck will ever keep the supply below the demand.

Below are some facts that were taken on the spot, as related by the farmers who cheerfully gave us the information:

At Troup Mr. J. M. Washburn has this year 2½ acres of tomatoes that will net him $100 per acre.

Mr. F. Seals, manager of the packing shed, said that the association there had 60 acres in all and will average 200 crates per acre. His individual crop of one-half acre made 200 crates.

Mr. J. W. Malone has grown strawberries here for 10 years and says that they have been profitable every year. He shipped the fruit off three-quarters of an acre by express this year and received $600.

At Whitehouse, Mr. T. F. Morris, manager of the packing shed, said that the association there had 300 acres of tomatoes and had already shipped 60 cars and the returns thus far had averaged $700 per car. Mr. Morris thinks that one acre of tomatoes is worth as much as ten acres of cotton for a crop.

Mr. W. F. Messer says that he has grown strawberries for the market for 18 years and they have been profitable every year he cared for the plants properly. Three years of this time he allowed his plants to die during the summer and these are the only years that failed to pay. He also stated that he had no soil best suited to their growth. Mr. Messer said that a neighbor, Mr. T. A. Burns, sold this year off two acres of strawberries $2000 worth and that he himself received $500 per acre for his crop while last year he sold $1000 worth per acre. Another neighbor sold this year $1100 worth per acre.

At Tyler, Mr. E. Gentry, demonstration agent, knew one man that on 11 acres of tomatoes received the first week $1750, and the second week $1435. He estimates that he will get a total of $4500 for his crop.

Another man has sold $500 from 1¼ acres.

Mr. Gentry says that one man can handle from three to five acres of blackberries. That a poor crop of blackberries is from 60 to 80 crates to the acre, and the best yield is 200 crates per acre. He stated that strawberries had made this year from $500 to $1400 per acre.

In speaking of the blackberry industry, Mr. Gentry stated that he had been informed that Mr. John Ogburn made from his canning plant last year $25,000. Also that Mr. Ogburn paid $4000 for 80 acres of land ten years ago, set it to blackberries and had sold every year from the land $4000 worth of berries since it came into bearing and this year $4000 net.

Mr. Gentry estimates that the income from fruit and truck this year will be: Tomatoes, $650,000.00; blackberries, $150,000.00; peaches, $50,000.00, and other crops will make the total $1,000,000.00 with only ten per cent of farmers engaged in the business. If a normal crop of cotton is made, valuing cotton at $75 a bale, the total income to the county will not exceed $1,900,000.00 with 95 per cent of the farmers growing it if a normal crop is made.

At Bullard, Mr. H. W. Walker, manager of the packing shed, said that the local association had shipped 63 cars at the average price of $800 per car. That he considers the Tomato Exchange the best selling agency ever used. Without it there would have been no market this year.

There are two other independent selling agencies there and one of them told us that the Exchange had helped him sell tomatoes in that it brought buyers in the field.

Mr. Vandiver, a credit merchant, said that about ten per cent of the farmers tributary to Bullard was growing truck crops.

That the total income from cotton this year if they have a normal crop will not reach $100,000.00.

Mr. W. W. Hinds, cashier of First State Bank, said that he considered the tomato crop a dependable crop. That his bank had collected during June $40,000.00 and the deposits of his bank had increased $100,000.00 while the deposits declined during the entire fall last year and the bank's collections did not reach $15,000.00.

At Jacksonville the Tomato Exchange has handled 600 cars and an independent association has sold near 400 cars.

The Guaranty State Bank as a result of the tomato crop had collected $150,000.00 and the deposits increased $200,000.00 during June.

MORE THAN MERE BUSINESS

Modern Railroad Has Been Lifted to a Sphere Little Short of the Miraculous.

A cycle of railroad history has revolved before our very eyes. Three epochal golden spikes (at least) have been hammered in by (at least) three gilded sledges—and all within the span of a little more than half a century.

What is probably to be the last great "trunk railroad" in North America is being built by the United States in Alaska. This "government railway" had its first spike, a gold one, sledged on April 29, 1917, by Martha White.

Another gold spike was driven on that momentous day, May 10, 1869, near Ogden, Utah, when the transcontinental Union Pacific line was completed, uniting beyond question of chance the fortunes of the Atlantic and Pacific sides of the republic.

The gold spike custom (or habit as it came to be with the irrepressible builders of the continent) began in 1852 to assume significance. For upon Christmas eve, not only the nation's but the world's first "trunk line" was completed at a little forgotten hamlet near Wheeling, W. Va., Rosefy's Rock.

The romance of railroads! Who that lies him down to slumber in New York intending and expecting to arise refreshed in Chicago, can dare affirm that railroading is a business, a commercial enterprise! It is, rather, a miracle an Aladinic phantasy!—Christian Science Monitor.

Deeds of Modern Greeks Similar to Those of Their Ancestors of Many Centuries Ago.

Greeks are reported to be crossing over into Asia Minor to resist the forces of Mustapha Kemal's army and take possession of the territory given them by the treaty of Sevres, an expedition which recalls the memorable crossing of this people 3,000 years ago, the subsequent siege of Troy, and the story of the wanderings of Aeneas, the historic founder of the early Roman race.

About an hour from the sea, near the Dardanelles, the ruins of the ancient city of Troy stand upon an eminence looking out over the plains where her immortal sons fell in her defense. At its foot the Scamander winds to the sea, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

Excavations on the site have revealed nine cities, built one upon the top of the other in times past. The sixth from the bottom of these is the Troy of which Homer and Virgil sang. Today there stands little to tell of the might of the former Priam and Paris and the splendor which the beautiful Helen caused to be tumbled into dust.

Saccharin Discovered by Accident.

Saccharin, 500 times as sweet as sugar, and much in demand during the war, was discovered, according to the Basler Nachrichten, by an instructor in Johns Hopkins university. The story runs as follows:

In the summer of 1878 the discoverer, O. Fahlberg by name, was trying to restore certain organic bodies. At the dinner table at the close of a busy day he noticed that a piece of bread tasted uncommonly sweet. It occurred to him at once that the sweetness came from his hands, though he had carefully washed them before sitting down to eat. He hurried back to his laboratory and tasted all the glasses he had used in his experiments. One of them he found exceptionally sweet. He analyzed the remaining drops and found that they were a derivative of benzol. In 1884 he set up an experimental factory for the manufacturing of saccharin in New York.

Kidnapers are going to have a hard time if they bother Paul Everitt Collins, three years old, of Denver.

He climbed upon the stool in front of the camera at the central police station the other day and was photographed. Then he thrust his fingers into the recording ink and impressed his finger prints for the Bertillon records.

But he is not a criminal. Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Collins, who recently adopted him, were with him, and they asked that these records be made to insure him against kidnaping. Both said they feared some one might attempt at some time to take him away from them. The records will be filed with the police at the county recorder's office, they said.—Rocky Mountain News.

Increase in Elk Herd.

A good increase from the survivors of the southern Yellowstone or Jackson Hole elk herd is looked for this year by officials of the bureau of biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, in view of the unusually favorable winter just past. Last year's rains, it is said, produced a plentiful growth of feed on the ranges, and as a result the elk are reported to be in excellent condition, with the prospect of only a normal death rate instead of a repetition of the mortality of the winter of 1919-20, due to lack of forage and a severe winter.

LATIN IS FOUNDATION OF ALL

Although a Dead Language, Oregon Professor Asserts You Find It Wherever You Turn.

"Latin is a living force in daily life and all other studies are in overwhelming debt to it," says Prof. F. S. Dunn, dead of the department of Latin in the University of Oregon, in a bulletin which he has written for the Latin teachers in the high schools and colleges of Oregon.

"The teacher," he says, "must read English from out the Latin and Latin from out the English; must see geometry, biology and physics in Caesar; must conjure legal phrases and doctor's prescriptions from Cicero's orations; must flash the 'Idyls of the King' and 'Paradise Lost' and 'The Faery Queen' across the pages of Virgil; must brand every paragraph with the Romance languages and Latin America and the Philippines; must see Rome in the clock dial, in the 10-cent piece, in a decimal fraction, in the almanac, in the days of the week, in the Sunday liturgy, in Oregon's seal, in the omnibus bill, in the ultimatum to Turkey, in an aeronaut or a submarine; in Montana or in Arizona; in Cincinnati or in Olympia; in Lucy or in Gus; in patrimony or matrimony or alimony, it matters not which, for it is all Latin, anyway, and everywhere you turn."

Canada to Develop Mussel.

Canada is about to make capital out of a substitute for the oyster which is found along the Atlantic coast, chiefly in New Brunswick. It is a mussel which is by no means a new article of diet to the people of Canada. Its delicacy of flavor and high food value have been much advertised since the establishment of government investigation and experiment. A survey of the mussel beds of the St. Croix river, which constitutes the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine, has occupied the attention of a scientist of the council for three years, and it is expected that this year will see the satisfactory conclusion of the research. The sea mussel cannot be produced in fresh water, so that there is no possibility of developing an industry in the Great Lakes. It is believed that there are possibilities, however, of the development of fresh-water clams there in the near future.

Inner Tubes as Ice-Bags.

Ice-bags relieve the feverish patient, but they are not large enough to cool his entire body. An old inner tube will do a much better job, says the Popular Science Monthly.

You cut the tube at the place where the valve is, remove the valve, tie one end of the tube tightly and fill the tube with ice. Then tie the other end and you will have a long narrow ice-bag that may be placed at the side of the patient or even wrapped around him.

Before the World war the tide of immigration in the Dominion had risen to 400,000 annually, so that it would not appear that Canada is in immediate danger of being flooded, says Providence Journal. Analysis of the figures for 1920 indicates, too, a decided tendency to settle in the empty spaces and a very large proportion of the immigration was in family groups. The problem of congestion is apparently not nearly so serious on the other side of the border as it is with us.

An optimist is one who is confident that in time a native American citizen may audibly express his opinion upon the nation's foreign policy without getting a rise out of some blab-mouthed hyphenate who has deserted his own country to make a nuisance of himself here.

Another reason for unemployment is the presence of a few hundred thousand men in this country who won't work unless they can get a national bank vice presidency or the assistant general managership of a large railroad system.

A Scottsburg woman, age seventy-nine, never rode on a train or in an automobile. A few years from now it may be a distinction to say that one is seventy-nine and has not been struck by a train while riding in an automobile.

Her Paper.

Editor Crockett Courier:

I have just received in a round about way the news of the death of one of my old friends. I copy from the Athens Banner of Athens, Ga., the following editorial:

"Passing of Mrs. Moffat—Mrs. Moffat of Marshall, Texas, died two weeks ago. Perhaps you never heard of her, perhaps you may never hear of her again; yet in her passing came a revelation that may mean all the world to you, be you a publisher.

"Marshall, Texas, boasts a newspaper known as the Marshall Messenger. It is a good newspaper, edited by a clean-minded publisher, W. A. Adair, a man of honor and human understanding. When Mrs. Moffat died Mr. Adair printed a brief notice of her life's end, one of those simple announcements so often seen in county newspapers. And then, when the hour of immediate grief had passed for those in the simple Moffat household, Mr. Adair received this letter from Mrs. Moffat's son:

"Hon. W. A. Adair: Friend Billie—When my mother's subscription is up, I will thank you to kindly discontinue your dear old Messenger to her now lonely door. Your paper was her life—the event of the day, when she could drop work and read the Messenger—'her paper,' as she termed it—'Billie Adair's paper.' You may kindly let the boy collect from me. Yours truly,

"Hugh Moffat."

The Bible says that "a woman that feareth the Lord she shall be praised." So it came to pass that the fame of this good woman was mysteriously wafted from Texas to Georgia. And if the Georgia editor had known as much of Mrs. Moffat as I knew, he might have written much more in her praise. Mr. and Mrs. Moffat came to Marshall in the early days of my ministry when I preached at Marshall. They were a young married couple, about the age of my wife and self. He was originally from Canada, and she from Louisville, Ky., a graduate of one of the best colleges in that state. They became not only useful members of the Presbyterian church, but also warm and lasting friends of my wife and self. One of my pleasant recollections is of baptizing Hugh Moffat, in his infancy, their first-born child.

The point the Georgia editor was impressed with was Mrs. Moffat's appreciation of her local newspaper and the suggestion that perhaps there are hundreds of good people who do appreciate their home newspapers, though they may not publish the fact. The Marshall editor would not have known how much his paper was appreciated if she had not died, giving occasion to her son to write that note to the editor. So, Mr. Editor, the moral to this story is that editors may cheer up by the suggestion given in this instance that they have many appreciative readers among good people. Our town papers are read by many people who have not the opportunity to read the big city newspapers. So there are many boys and girls and young people who are partly educated and much benefitted by reading our town papers. If the writer may be permitted modestly to say so, the other day I met a lady, a stranger to me, who kindly told me for my encouragement that she had read many things with interest that I had written for our Crockett papers. I have had similar statements from others. And this, together

OWE MUCH TO EARLY SETTLERS VIRGINIA

In looking over the early history of Virginia, I found some items that may interest your readers. The colonists had begun to prosper and had a number of settlements from Jamestown to Richmond. The Indians professed to be very friendly, but were secretly plotting the destruction of the colonists.

The colonists had been warned, but the Indians appeared so friendly that the colonists were slow to believe there was any real danger. The historian says, "As though a mine had been planted, the explosion came on March 22, 1622, at the same hour of the day, all the way from Berkley's plantation to Southampton's Hundred on the Chesapeake Bay. They fell upon the English and murdered them, not sparing age or sex, man, woman or child. When the night of that dreadful day fell three hundred and forty-seven persons had been slain. Of the twenty-four people at Falling Creek, only a single boy and girl escaped. Around Henric Settlement more than eighty met their death."

One converted Indian gave the warning and was the means of saving many. The record says, "God put it into the heart of the converted Indian to reveal the conspiracy by which means Jamestown and many colonists were preserved from their treacheries. More than three hundred of ours died by these pagan infidels, yet thousands of ours were saved by means of one of them that was a Christian."

Later our early Virginia settlers had to make war on the western frontier against the Indians and French—some of our brave soldiers wading through swollen streams in the winter, almost up to their necks. Thus by great hardships and bravery they succeeded in saving the United States, that western country now comprising the states of Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and other states. We of this day little know how much we owe to the early settlers of our country.

It is interesting to see how the early colonists brought their religion with them, as did the Puritans in New England. Indeed the providence of God is very noticeable in the character of the early settlers of the United States.

The Puritans of New England, the Dutch of New York, the Episcopalians of the Church of England among the early settlers of Virginia, the Scotch Irish who settled in Pennsylvania and the Valley of Virginia and the Huguenots who settled in the Carolinas—convert Christians bringing the seeds of Christianity and planting them in the new country. We are told that in the charter granted to the London Company, it was said, "So noble a work might, by the providence of Almighty God, hereafter tend to the glory of His divine majesty by propagating the Christian religion to such people as yet live in darkness," and it was said that "the word and the service of God should be preached, planted and used not only in said colonies, but as much as might be among the savages bordering among them, according to the rites and doctrines of the Church of England."

Ministers were sent out with the colonists and houses of worship built in the early settlements of Virginia. A Mr. Bolton is spoken of as the first minister on the eastern shore of Virginia, and it was ordered that he should receive for his salary, ten pounds of tobacco and one bushel of corn for every planted and tradesman above sixteen years old.

One writer tells of the following order of the day among the first settlers: "The men were divided into groups who worked on

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

alternate days. The gang for the day was thus delivered to the masters and overseers of the work, who kept them at their labor until nine or ten o'clock and then at the beat of the drum they were marched to the church where they would hear some discourse or some service. After dinner they rested until two or three o'clock, and at the beat of the drum the captain drew them forth to their work until five or six o'clock, when at the beat of the drum, they were again marched to the church." One of the prayers they were accustomed to offer is quoted as follows: "And here, O Lord, we do upon the knees of our hearts offer thee the sacrifice and praise and thanksgiving for that thou hast moved our hearts to undertake the performance of your blessed work with the haphazard and of our person, and hath moved the hearts of so many hundreds of our natives to assist with means and provisions and with their holy prayers. Lord, look mercifully upon them all. Lord, bless England, our sweet native country. Save it from popery; this land from heathenism, and both from Atheism. And Lord, hear their prayers for us, us for them, and Christ Jesus, our glorious Master, for us all. Amen."

The above statements show that our early forefathers who settled Virginia brought the Christian religion with them.

Bill Hohenzollern on Doorn Delinquent Tax List.

London, July 9.—Former Emperor William is in conflict with the municipal council at Doorn over the question of paying local taxes, and the pressure of the law is threatened to enforce payment, according to a Doorn dispatch to the Daily Mail. William is said to contend that the municipality is not entitled to demand the tax levied against him because he came to Holland "unwittingly," and is practically held a prisoner; therefore he is not liable to taxation like a free citizen. It is maintained by a majority of the council that he came voluntarily and chose to reside in Doorn voluntarily and that consequently, if he does not pay measures must be taken.

William, it is added, has also protested against the income tax, which it was decided last October he must pay the Dutch government.

RULED BY THINGS MATERIAL

Writer Asserts That Americans Are Behind Rest of World in Intellectual Progress.

It is, I think, true to say that the material progress of America has enormously surpassed the intellectual progress, writes St. John Ervine in the Century magazine. That is why a European, visiting the United States, is disconcerted to find men of immense power in business talking like children in an elementary school about literature and art.

It was this absorption in material things which, though it has made American domestic life easily the most comfortable in the world, left America a good deal at the mercy of the old and ravenous diplomats of Europe in the peace conference. Culture, given by contemplation of art and literature, is the power to know and understand human nature and motives. Centuries of familiarity with the garnered beauty and learning of the world have gone to the making of the European statesman, but only a generation or two of intimate knowledge of great businesses and the machinery had gone to the making of the American delegation.

The great expanse of America, the fact that its resources are still undeveloped, and that fortunes seem very easily to be made by men whose wits are both agile and accommodating, make the reappearance of its high general culture difficult. The standards of America are constantly being displaced by the irruption of newly enriched men, who pass from poverty to affluence so rapidly that while they have the means for a life of culture, they have not the mentality for it.

SWAMP LAND MADE VALUABLE

How Mosquito-Breeding Plague Spot Was Turned Into Twenty Acres of Good Ground.

A mosquito-breeding swamp is not only a source of neighborhood discomfort and danger but also an economic liability. Often it may be converted into a valuable asset by inexpensive draining.

The United States public health service notes an illustrative case in Georgia, where, near the town of Millen, an experimental operation was recently performed upon a 20-acre swamp. It was a mucky place, nearly all of it under water, with tree-stumps plentifully scattered.

The operation consisted of ditching with dynamite; a trench 1,500 feet long being blown with sticks of the explosive placed in holes two feet deep at intervals averaging one foot. Extra charges were used for stumps.

The resulting ditch averaged a width of 7½ feet at the top and a depth of 3½ feet. Total cost, including labor and 1,000 pounds of dynamite, was $270. When the job was finished there was a freely running stream through the ditch.

By this simple and rapid means the swamp was transformed into 20 acres of good land.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

WIND SCATTERED HIS WARES

Toy-Balloon Merchant Might Have Been Excused If He Made a Few Warm Remarks.

A toy-balloon merchant, all but hidden under a fantastic, dancing cluster of brilliant wares, was making his way northward in Meridian street, when he met a foe in the form of an April wind. The man emerged from the protection of the Board of Trade building and started on the run across Ohio street, when the coy spring zephyr reached forth and plucked a handful of the varicolored merchandise.

Strange red, green, yellow and blue bubbles, like bits of whimsical clouds, went bounding and sailing eastward along Ohio street, much to the amazement of distressed patients sitting in dentists' chairs before windows in the Hume-Mansur building. Pedestrians gazed aloft and gasped. Then came a scramble, in which for the most part little boys and girls were victorious. Soon the stray balloons were led captive away, while the balloon merchant continued onward along Meridian street, holding converse with himself. It is not recorded what he said.—Indianapolis News.

"Golf Spine" the Latest.

The "golf spine" is the latest of income producers for the doctors, according to Dr. Homer E. Bailey, who was the principal speaker at a meeting of the St. Louis Osteopathic association. It is a result, he said, of getting too much "pep" into the game.

There are two forms of the trouble, the doctor said. One results from being too hard at the ball while the other is standing in an upright position. The other results from a swing player leaning forward. THE first instance there is a dislocation of the vertebrae at the base and in the other at the small of the back. In the first instance, the player suffers from pains similar to rheumatic pains in the right shoulder and in the second instance the pains are in the back.—Kansas City Star.

MUSIC NOW DEAD IN RUSSIA

Under Bolshevism There is Little Possibility of "Concourse of Sweet Sounds."

In Russia, when revolutionary holidays are celebrated, government autos carry concert and opera singers to the halls or other buildings where they are to be heard. But despite all efforts of the Red government, music's outlook is not rosy, and music publishing, a state monopoly, has been almost entirely suspended. Scriabin's works are practically the only ones still printed.

Most great men of Russian music are living under a cloud of despair. Glazounoff can no longer compose because his stock of music paper is exhausted and there is no more to be had. Nicolas Medtner, the composer and pianist, is the head of a small village music school near Moscow; Jules Engel, the famous critic, has a similar position at a more distant music school for peasant children.

Yet at Petrograd there are three performances of opera with Chaliapin and Naschadanowa singing in the "Barber of Seville" and "Khovantchitsa," though the state has not as yet been able to stage the Stravinsky and Ravel ballets it had intended to produce. But hunger paralyzes all artistic endeavor in the end, and as H. G. Wells says: "The great Russian musicians, artists, and scientists who have died as a result of existing conditions could no more live in the Russia of today than in a Kafir kraal."

KINDNESS CARRIED TOO FAR

Affection Unwisely Bestowed Has Given Birth to a Saying That Has Become Famous.

Kindness brought to the point of embarrassment or even harm leads us to say that the recipient has been "killed by kindness."

This phrase has been variously explained. One authority brings its origin back to the days before Christ.

Ancient history tells us of the death of Draco, the great Grecian legislator, and his ancient "code of laws." He died in 500 B. C. in this extraordinary manner:

Draco made an address in one of the great theaters in his native city. He was so beloved by his people and they were so eager to give him a demonstration of their affection that they took their cloaks and other ornaments from their own shoulders and threw them on him as gifts.

The trouble was that in their wild enthusiasm they aimed so well that poor Draco finally succumbed under the weight and when the mountain of clothing was removed from him it was found that the old gentleman had breathed his last.

According to one authority, however, "killed by kindness" is a phrase used because of the fact that certain mother apes are so fond of their young that they clutch them so tightly as to smother them to death against their bodies.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Farmeritis.
The thing of living in the country is great.

First, all you need is a place to live in; and then a horse and a cow and some pigs and chickens.

Then, all you need is some feed for horse and cow and pigs and chickens, and a strong man—

But that's next; a strong man to feed them.

Then you need to read all the farmer books and government bulletins, and learn just how things should be done.

Then you need the nerve to go and tell your man how to do everything, and the courage to watch him do it another way and ignore your instructions.

After that all you need is the gall to pretend that you did it, when a bean comes up the way it was intended.

But, with all that, it's the life; and a fellow could stand it if it wasn't for the mortgage and paying the man and buying the feed.—Richmond Times.

New One to Her.

He dropped into a downtown candy store to make an inevitable purchase.

"What will you have?" asked the young lady behind the counter, smiling at her various chocolates, creams, caramels and others too numerous to mention even in the advertisements.

The purchaser happened to be especially fond of a certain sort of chocolate-coated cream. Pointing at a pan of these, he said: "Put emphasis on this."

The girl looked blank for a moment, then replied, gravely:

"I'm sorry, we are all out of that."—Washington Star.

TAR AND FEATHERS

ARE SMEARED ON DEWEYVILLE MAN

Victim Tells Police He Was Nabbed by Band of Masked Men.

Beaumont, Texas, July 16.—R. F. Scott of Deweyville, Texas, covered with tar and feathers, was dumped out of an automobile in the heart of the business district of this city Saturday night about 10 o'clock. He was kept in the woods since 9 o'clock Saturday morning, he said, and frequently beaten until blood oozed from his back and breast. Just at nightfall, when the fifteen uniformed men were about to enter Beaumont, they covered his body with a coat of tar and rolled him in feathers.

Scott was remarkably cool when taken to police station. "Here I am," he shouted to the desk sergeant. "They got me!" Scott stood there plucking feathers by the handful from his arms and breast.

"For four years," said Scott, "I was with the marines in France. You may tell everybody I am not half dead yet."

He said that he would return to Deweyville Sunday and face the men who did the work, a half dozen of whom he recognized.

Scott was driving along a country road about 20 miles from here, with two ladies, when he found a number of automobiles drawn across the road to stop him. The masked men then came forth from the bushes and seized him, returning the two women to their homes.

Scott is 27 years of age and is engaged in the logging business at Deweyville. He enlisted with the marines when the first call of war came and was engaged at Chateau Thierry and helped stop the German thrust at Paris. He was mustered out of service more than a year ago.

Scott denied receiving warnings.

He said the men wore conical shaped headpieces, completely obscuring their faces and eyes, but that they were not robed. They wore overalls.

He was seized at 9 o'clock in the morning, and, despite his ordeal, he said, "with an half hour I will be my old self again."

Mexican Rebel Leader Surrenders Via Telephone.

Tampico, Mexico, July 16.—General Daniel Martinez Herrera, who recently started an uprising in the state of Tamaulipas, surrendered Saturday after a conversation over the telephone with General Gomez, military commander here.

General Herrera was ordered to concentrate his forces, numbering about 200, and take them to Ozuluama in the northern part of the state of Vera Cruz, where it is expected they will arrive Sunday.

Surrender was unconditional and General Herrera is to retire from the service after disarmament.

General Gomez is expecting General Pelaez, commander in chief of the federal forces in the Tampico district, to arrive here from Mexico City and go with him to disarm the rebels.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

CLASS TO MODERN KILLERS.

Has killing passed into the hands of "superior people?" We are led to this question by reading the current stories of tragedies in this territory.

Down in Mississippi two men get into a shooting affray and one or two is killed. One of them is always a member of an "old and respected family." Usually both are "leading citizens."

In West Tennessee when two men get into a shooting affray invariably they hail from a prosperous section of the county and they are "leading physicians," "prominent lawyers," "well known magistrates" or "substantial farmers."

We are very generous in these parts towards our living and dead shooters. Following these affrays the town is usually "wrapped in gloom." The correspondent generally adds a line, which we usually omit, "that the unfortunate affair is very much regretted by our best people."

If our "best people" do not look out, our worst people are going to take their horns away from them. So far as the newspapers and correspondents establish the record, killing is done only by "leading," "prominent," "well known" and "best people."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

PASSING THE BONUS BUCK.

The respective attitudes of the senate and the president toward the soldier bonus bill well illustrate the difference between the senate and the president in their concern for the welfare of the country as a whole. If the president be accused of interfering with congress, this case would seem to be one in which the ends justified the means. For once, at least, the presidential curb was needed.

In going before the senate with the information that the country was not financially able to bear the expense of the bonus at this time the president was not telling the members of that body anything they did not already know. Mr. Harding had no superior knowledge of conditions. Senators have had as good opportunity to observe the economic and financial conditions of the country as he. They heard what Mr. Mellon, and Mr. Houston before him, had to say with reference to the country's inability to stand the expense the bonus would create.

Yet with the same information before them that the president possessed, they were preparing to pass the measure, apparently irrespective of the chances of raising the money, and wholly indifferent to the interest of the people at large. And only the positive, personal opposition of the president to the measure, with the implied threat of a veto, was sufficient to head off its passage.

In his own heart, we may be sure the president was as eager to do justice to the former service men as was any member of congress. But when the question narrowed down to one of whether the whole people were to be inconvenienced and perhaps seriously injured for the benefit of one group, admittedly deserving of a material expression of gratitude, the president chose to protect the interest of the people, and in doing so displayed the courage that the senate so conspicuously lacked.

Senators may publicly protest against this alleged interference with a senate program by the executive, but secretly, many of them doubtless are rejoicing that the president restrained them from making a grievous mistake.—Houston Post.

Commercial Club Notes.

In the death of our beloved and esteemed secretary, Mr. H. A. Fisher, our club has suffered a loss impossible to be measured at this time. What greater tribute can we pay him than to arise even in our grief with determination that his work be carried on to the fulfillment of his highest ambition? That his heart was in his work, we all know. Coming to this section several years ago, he clearly saw that the conditions of rural life could be greatly improved, and it was due in a large measure to his own efforts that the commercial club was organized in June, 1915. I will not at this time undertake to point out all the good that has been accomplished, but thanks to his untiring efforts, great progress was being made. Let us see to it that his plans be carried out, so that it can never be said that his efforts were wasted. Let us be fully united in our endeavors to make this community more prosperous, and a better place to live. We are dependent practically altogether on agricultural pursuits, hence the improvement of farming conditions must remain one of our principal objects. I would make an especial appeal to those who are interested in this work, but have not taken an active part, that they take steps to join the club, and a greater measure of success can thus be assured.

Charley Martin Released on Burglary Charge.

In our issue of last week we referred to Charley Martin of Crockett as being under arrest in the jail at Palestine on a charge of burglary. From later information it appears that he was released immediately after his arrest for want of evidence and because he and his attorney from Crockett were able to show the Palestine officers that Martin had a perfect defense in the way of an alibi in that he was in Crockett in company with his family and a number of friends sitting up with his sick father at the time the alleged burglaries were committed in Palestine, and that but a short time before he had been in freindly conversation with the district attorney and other well known citizens of Crockett on the streets here. We are glad to know that he was able to establish his innocence when taken to Palestine.

KU KLUX KLAN PARADE HERE

About 250 men, white-robed and masked with the uniforms of the Ku Klux Klan, paraded the principal streets of Crockett last night at 9:45 o'clock. Headed by two horsemen and a flaming cross, with United States flags waving along the line, they came in from the southwest corner of the Court House square. Encircling the court house, they proceeded up Public avenue several blocks, crossed to Main street and returned to the square, which they encircled again, then went out on South Houston street and disappeared as mysteriously as they came.

Circulars bearing the heading, "What We Stand For," were handed out by the marchers and placards containing a warning to evil-doers were tacked up in conspicuous places.

Hand bills announcing a free acrobatic performance on the Court House square at 9 o'clock had been distributed over the city, and the probability of a parade having leaked out during the day, an immense throng of people had assembled on the square to witness the affair, and the streets were literally jammed and packed with onlookers, both white and black.

Some of the things announced in the circular, "What We Stand For," were as follows:

- "White supremacy.
- "This organization is one hundred per cent American.
- "We protect the good negro; law-abiding negroes need not fear.
- "For the sanctity of our homes, now and forever.
- "The purity of our women is the boast of American manhood.
- "A true American is for his country first, last and always.
- "We right the wrongs the law cannot reach.
- "Co-habitation between whites

"Lewd women must go.

"God pity the man who commits a crime in the name of the Ku Klux Klan.

"Loafers must go to work, or leave the city."

The first paragraph of the "Proclamation" issued by the Klan read as follows:

"That this organization, composed of native-born Americans who accept the tenets of the Christian religion, proposes to uphold the dignity and authority of the law. That no innocent person of any color, creed or lineage has any just cause to fear or condemn this body of men. We propose to protect the innocent under all circumstances. Our creed is opposed to violence, lynchings, etc., but we are even more strongly opposed to the things that cause lynchings and mob rule."

Governor Neff Grants 9 Pardons to Convicts.

Austin, Texas, July 16.—Governor Neff granted nine pardons Saturday to convicts now in penitentiary. Five were given to white convicts and four to negroes.

The governor said that these are the first pardons he has granted and that they were given after he had personally investigated each case. This he did on his recent trip to the penitentiary.
