The Ferguson Case—
A Primary Law Test—
Something About Beer—

By H. N. F.

FORMER GOVERNOR JAMES E. Ferguson is a candidate for United States senator and the democratic state committee has ordered his name placed on the official ballot.

Having done this, the state committee adopted a rule which will shut out of the July primary all voters who cast their ballots for American party candidates in the election of 1920. This is supposed to be a primary test.

Warren G. Harding and John Calvin Coolidge were elected by seven million majority two years ago. Millions of democrats must have voted for them. Thousands of Texas democrats cast their ballots for Harding and Coolidge. Thousands of Texas democrats cast their ballots for the American party candidates.

NOW THEY MUST WAIT FOR two years before they are privileged to cast democratic primary ballots. They may vote the regular democratic ticket this fall but they are barred from the July primary. And yet James E. Ferguson's name goes on the official ballot. These democratic committeemen are reminded that there can be no legal test when it comes to voting.

A man who casts a primary ballot assumed a moral obligation and that is all. If a crook or an unfit person wins a nomination why should he be elected to office? If a candidate who is ignorant of the fundamentals of government or democracy and is opposed to all the traditions handed down by the fathers of the party wins a nomination are democrats who are loyal to the faith and the principles of civil and religious liberty bound to vote for him on general election day?

HARRY T. WARNER'S NAME was ordered placed on the official ballot as a candidate for governor. This is as it should be. Of course the committee rejected the wine and beer proposition submitted by the former governor.

If it had been given a place on the ticket the proposition would have been defeated by 250,000 majority.

Woman has the ballot and 95% of the women of Texas are for absolute prohibition of the manufacture or importation or sale of intoxicating beverages. This is the law of the land. There is no getting around the eighteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States. This prohibits the manufacture, the sale as well as the importation of intoxicants. There are no blowholes in the amendment. It is as drastic as the authors of the amendment could make it. It would make no difference if a large majority of the voters of Texas declared for wine and beer.

THE NATION HAS SPOKEN and the Volstead act is the enforcement law of the land. There may be millions of men in the forty-eight states who do not take kindly to the eighteenth amendment. They have a remedy. Let them start a repeal movement and see just how far they will get. Prohibitionists worked three quarters of a century before victory came to them. Woman did not have the ballot in the campaigns and elections of bygone years.

They are armed with the ballot today and they know how to make use to fit. John Barleycorn has been banished. He may have many mourners but he can't come back. This is written in the book of destiny. Regardless of this, it is a catchy plank for Ferguson and will appeal to those who are afflicted with a thirst and long for the return of what the Alabama gentleman called "red licker." On with the battle.

FRANK S. HASTINGS IS DEAD. He was widely known throughout the west, a magnificient son of the west, a builder of the west and his death is a distinct loss to the west. A many sided man was Frank S. Hastings and his achievements won for him a place in the ranks of those who were empire builders and benefactors of their kind. He was a native of Kansas, he was 62 when the message came and his death caused sorrow wherever he was known.

He was the general manager of the Swenson ranch interests for years, he was a writer of note, he knew as much about the cattle industry as any man in the southwest, and had contributed largely to making that industry third under southwestern skies. After leaving college he was with the Armours for years at Kansas City and was largely instrumental in the creation of the great plant and business the big packers built up.

HE LOVED THE OPEN, HE loved the range, he loved the livestock industry. He loved cowmen and cowboys, he loved Texas best of all and the friends that he had made in Texas were legion.

Spur was his home and headquarters. He had the confidence of the Swensons and was ever given a free hand. He was one of the pillars of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, he had faith in the west and he often predicted that the day would come in the not distant future when the west would boast of a population of five millions and would be the wealthiest and most prosperous section of America.

He was an optimist.

HE ALWAYS LOOKED ON THE bright side. He had vision, he had pluck and best of all he had confidence in himself and faith

"They Sold Me a High Powered Auto And Then Took Away All the Gas; But She'll Run Anyhow," Says Ferguson

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 13.—"They sold me a high powered automobile but took away all the gasoline," former Governor James E. Ferguson said today in commenting on the action of the democratic executive committee yesterday in placing his name on the ticket and refusing to recognize his beer and light wine platform plank and barring all but straight democrats from the July primaries.

He declined, however, to make any extended comment on the subject, saying that he wanted to have time to think the matter over before making any formal statement as to the situation in which the committee left him.

"I am feeling a good deal like the little boy when the calf ran over him," the former governor said. "I am not saying anything just now but later I may have something to say when I have had time to size up the situation and find out just how it all happened."

He did say that his "high powered automobile" would be quite noticeable in the July primaries although as yet he has not decided on just what fuel he will use for the locomotive power.

PROPERTY LOAN TAX PROTESTED BY WICHITA MEN

Little Man to Suffer From County Action Say Realtors

Taxation of vendors lien notes and other property loans, as ordered by the county commissioners court Monday, will absolutely paralyze trading in both city and farm property, will raise interest to a prohibitive figure and will make impossible the acquisition of either homes or farms by people of small means, local business and real estate men declared Tuesday night.

The effect of the decision of the court, which they declared will fall heavily on the little man and will not touch the big operator at all, was discussed at a meeting of protest held in the office of N. O. Monroe Tuesday night.

The protest voiced at the meeting is to be laid before the commissioners court at their next meeting day—next Monday, a committee composed of W. S. Curlee, J. M. Baber, J. N. Prothro, P. S. Richardson, N. L. Inge and N. O. Monroe being named to present the protest.

In the discussion of the opposition to the form of taxation proposed it was pointed out that badly in need of money as the city is, that the city council has adopted the view that taxation of such notes is double taxation and inequitable, and that the city is not taxing such securities, believing such action would be detertimental to the best interests of the city.

No other county in the state is levying this tax, N. O. Monroe declared. Dallas, which is experiencing a great building boom, is a notable example of this, Mr. Monroe declared.

"For one thing—the proposed taxation is entirely inequitable, for it means double taxation," declared Walter Curlee, one of those present and discussing the matter.

"It means that a man who has bought a home and paid a part down, and is paying full taxes on that home, has to pay additional taxes on the note—for he is the fellow who pays it in the long run. And the taxes on this home will be double that paid by the man who has the money to pay cash for his home.

"Few have money to pay down for a home—the little man acquiring a home has to have credit for a part of the price, and the effect of this ruling is to make interest prohibitive and the credit for the buying of a home or farm impossible to get."

"This policy will have a paralyzing effect on the purchase of lands in the irrigation district," declared J. N. Prothro.

"The settlers we expect to come in and buy farms in these lands will have to have credit for part of the purchase price, and they will be unable to do so under the expense of double taxation. The effect of this taxation would be to drive interest on vendors lien notes to 15 per cent."

"It is particularly unfortunate that this action came on just at the time we were getting over the hump from a period of depression and property was beginning to move again," declared Pat L. Inge. "It will make trading of real estate impossible, for credit and loans, which enter into every purchase of a home, city or farm will be diven out except at prohibitive interest. It will make impossible the building up of a town or the increase in the farms."

Belief that the action would result in a flood of foreclosures and refusals of extensions at the expiration of present vendors lien notes was expressed by J. Wilkie Talbert and P. S. Richardson.

Labor Condemns Ship Subsidy As Harding Demands It Pass

Workers Declare Ship Bill Destructive To American Power At Sea and Openly Make Attack On It

By Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 13.—Unqualified condemnation of the ship subsidy bill was voted unanimously today by the delegates at the American Federation of Labor convention almost simultaneously with President Harding's dispatch of a letter asking congress to pass the measure under threat of an extra session.

The convention also voted to send a protest against passage of the bill to senate and house leaders.

The bill was termed by the resolution adopted, as a "cunningly devised scheme to enrich certain classes of so-called American ship owners at the expense of the truly American tax payer and also to provide patronage which is certain to be used for purely political purposes."

The resolution concluded with the statement that the bill was condemned as inimical to the public interest and particularly destructive to the nation's hope for sea power.

First Attack on Harding

The action by the delegates was their first attack on the Harding administration, which it was indicated by the federation's executive committee report would be the brunt of other attacks during the two weeks' convention.

While the action on the shipping bill was the outstanding development of the convention, interest among the delebates also was centered in the first movement for a contest of membership on the federation's executive council. Joseph A. Franklin, president of the boilermakers' union, announced his candidacy for treasurer, opposing Daniel Tobin, president of the teamsters' union, who is a candidate for re-election.

Aside from the action on the ship subsidy bill and the political maneuvering among the delegates little was done at the sessions today.

GARNER SLAMS REPUBLICANS

Massachusetts In Senate Saddle

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Massachusetts—not the west—is in the congressional saddle nowadays, Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, declared today in the house.

"You use to say the south was in the saddle," said Mr. Garner, "but I want some of you western republicans to say in the next campaign who is there now. Massachusetts is in the saddle; Massachusetts presides over this house; it presides over the senate and has a member of the steering committee in the house."

"But you are not satisfied with that. When the speaker has occasion to leave, he substitutes in his place, the gentleman from Massachusetts, (Mr. Walsh), a very good man."

Every republican arose and cheered.

"Why, one would conceive from this performance," said Mr. Garner, "that you would rather substitute 'the little giant' from Massachusetts, than take the one you put in the chair by your votes."

There was more applause, and Mr. Garner said he had mentioned it merely to "illustrate to you republicans that you haven't sufficient capacity on your side of the house outside of Massachusetts to preside over the house."

President Threatens To Call Special Meet Of Congress To Put Bill Over If Solons Do Not Vote Soon

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Warning by President Harding that he would feel obligated to call congress in special session if it failed to take up the ship subsidy bill prior to adjournment, was supplemented today by a White House announcement that the administration was determined to press unremittingly for action now.

The president's views on the question of an extraordinary session were set forth in a letter written May 26, to Chairman Campbell, of the house rules committee, expressing hope that the committee in charge of legislative machinery would open the way for speedy consideration of the measure. Copies were obtained meanwhile by the merchant marine committee.

Framing the bill—which was ready tonight to introduce it tomorrow—and the notice served by the president will rally many persons to its support, republican committeemen declared.

While the merchant marine committee was working rapidly to have the bill in shape for the house tomorrow, Representative Davis, Tennessee, a democratic member, launched the first minority attack on it, declaring it "vicious" in its provisions, and that it gave more to the shipping board than "good men ought to want, or bad men ought to have."

On the heels of this, Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts, attacked the board for permitting the sale of liquor on vessels flying the American flag, displaying a photostat copy of the wine list on the steamship President Pierce which, he charged, was printed out of money appropriated by the government.

Doubt Special Rule.

There was animated discussion among members as to the effect of the president's letter after publication of the text. Considering the democratic opposition, and republican "disaffection," one of the republican leaders asserted today that, as matters stood, it was extremely doubtful if a special rule giving the bill the right of way, could be passed in the house. The principal republican opposition was reported among members from Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin.

What It Means.

On the eve of the introduction of the revised bill, Representative Edmonds, republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the sub-committee on merchant marine, predicted that, if passed, it would mean "that fifty or sixty per cent of our foreign commerce will again be traveling the seas under the American flag."

HUERTA FEELS OPTIMISTIC ON DEBT AGREEMENT

Bankers Conference Now Getting Results

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Conferences over the Mexican debt situation today progressed to a point where Finance Minister De La Huerta and the international committee of bankers on Mexico decided to put into writing as the basis for further discussion, the matters dealt with up to now.

An optimistic statement who issued by the finance minister, saying that if no new difficulties come up the "agreements reached may be considered as definite subject to the ratification of President Obregon."

The bankers, in their statement, made no mention of any agreements having arrived at.

Examination of the points to be put in writing will be made in conferences between the committee and the finance minister tomorrow or Thursday.

It was understood that the plan now being worked on does not contemplate the issuance of any new securities by Mexico. It was stated that the bankers desire to avoid any swapping of securities for those on which the interest has been in default since 1914. Rather, their aim is to work out a plan for solving Mexico's debt problems on the basis of the present outstanding paper, it is understood.

Minister Makes Statement.

Mr. De La Huerta's statement said:

"The conferences between the international committee of bankers and the Mexican secretary of finance have practically reached their final stage. At the present moment there is being drawn up the draft of the agreement which covers all points discussed and settled up to the present. When this is completed the draft of the agreements reached with the representatives of the creditors of Mexico, presided over by Mr. Thomas W. Lamont, may be considered as definite. The agreements arrived at will naturally be subject to the ratification of President Obregon."

Bankers Statement

The statement issued by the international committee of bankers on Mexico follows:

"Conferences carried on for the past week between Finance Ministers De La Huerta and the international committee of bankers on Mexican affairs have now reached a point where the finance minister and the committee have decided to reduce to writing the points that have been discussed. There are, however, certain important matters to be arranged and examination of these will be made in conference between the minister and the committee tomorrow or Thursday.

"Those close in touch with the negotiations said that while prospects for a generally satisfactory outcome were brighter now than at any time since discussions began, there still was the possibility of a breakdown. As the matters reported, not one of the matters under consideration has reached a stage of either definite agreement or disagreement."

Jaffe Expected to Take Stand Today

When only four witnesses had been heard on the stand by the plaintiff in the suit of Katie Mae Deckard, negress, vs. Harry Jaffe, the plaintiff rested Tuesday morning. A large audience of spectators which overflowed the court room listened intently to the testimony that was presented, especially when the defendant began submitting its side of the question at issue.

A deposition from the superintendent of public schools, Waco, was the first bit of evidence submitted by the defense, the paper tending to show that the plaintiff in the case had registered in the schools there under several different ages.

Numerous character witnesses were introduced during the afternoon in behalf of Jaffe.

The principal witness in the afternoon's session was Dr. Walker, who testified as a defense witness that he had visited the home of the Deckard negress when her child was born and had examined it. It was Dr. Walker's statement that the child "has white blood in its veins."

The negress is suing Jaffe for $21,000 damages on the ground that the defendant assaulted her. The plaintiff alleges that the child to which Dr. Walker testified Tuesday was born as a result of the alleged assault.

Jaffe will probably go on the witness stand early this morning, and it is probable that the case will not be completed until sometime tomorrow.

Southern Senator Champions Cause Of Housewives and Launches More Criticism at Republican Tariff Bill

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The administration tariff bill was subjected to another general attack today in the senate by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, who declared the committee duty of 60 per cent ad valorem on reed and willow furniture—which subsequently was approved—was illustrative of the plan of the majority as outlined in the whole bill.

"You start in the kitchen, levying heavy duties on kitchen utensils and ware," said the senator. "Next you impose a heavy tax on table ware, and then you go after the furniture in the home, levying a duty of sixty per cent on furniture in common use throughout the country.

"If you can tell me anything of consequence entering into the household or the building of the home, or that goes on the backs of the people on which you have not increased the duties, I don't know what it is. If this tax is for revenue, then I say to you, do not go into the homes of the people to tax the necessities to raise a revenue."

Attacking what he described as the "furniture trust," Senator King, democrat, Utah, said this "trust" had charged enormous prices, especially during the war, and that if there was anything that could be done to force the lowering of prices it should be done.

RAIL MEN FOR FITTS—APPLEDY

Local Chief Denies Fight On Official

"Railroad men are not only not taking any part in the effort for the recall of Police Commissioner Fitts, but, so far as I can learn, they are strongly in favor of him and of his very efficient force," declared Arthur F. Appledy, chief of the local organization of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors.

Mr. Appledy made an urgent request that the Record News deny for his organization that the railroad men were back of this movement—an idea which seems to have gained some circulation here.

"It is true," he said, "that Mrs. Roy Taylor was present just before the last meeting of our local and presented this proposition to some of the members. They did not allow her to leave the petition at the hall, however, and so far as I have been able to learn none of them have visited her hotel to sign the petition, nor have I been able to find out that a single railroad man has signed the recall petition."

Governor Speaks

Governor Stephens spoke as a past potentate of Al Malaikah of Los Angeles and an honorary member of Islam Temple of San Francisco.

"We count this a great day in California," he said, "for we have assembled here in this city by the golden gate, a vast number of ancient Arabic nobility who are also numbered with the men foremost in every part of the Union." He told the visitors they would find hospitality in every part of the state and urged the council to give earnest consideration to Sacramento's plea for establishing a temple.

After the addresses of welcome, the council went into closed sessions, which will last until adjournment Thursday. The business it will transact will include the choosing of imperial officers for the coming year, the admission of new temples and the selection of the next meeting place.

Tonight several official banquets were held. The imperial divan members were the guests of honor at one, their wives at another, the association of records of Shrine Temples at a third, and Canadian Temples at a fourth.

Weather Off Trim.

California's climate at its best, was slightly off schedule today, but a heavy mist put no damper on the enthusiasm of the three miles of the resplendent shriners now on the crowds.

The weather bureau stood ready to swear to an affidavit that the weather was "unusual." The last real rain in June in San Francisco was in 1910, when .02 inches fell. In June 1919 and 1920, a trace was recorded. Caravans, headed by sheiks in red and yellow automobiles and patrolled by Arab Nobles riding in the side cars of sputtering motorcycles instead of on the traditional blooded stallions are all very modernized versions of early Levantine history, but so are brass bands, airplanes soaring overhead and the tunes "Hail, hail, the gangs all here," and "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," for that matter.

For numbers in the parade Medinah Temple of Chicago, which boasts 22,000 members, easily stood first. It had two bands as well as a patrol. Mostem's Temple of Detroit came next with many musicians and patrol members.

Paris, Texas, has applied for a charter for a temple.

Quanah showed the right spirit last week in going out of her way in welcoming the Wichita boosters. KEMP LIBRARY MORE POPULAR

Youths Borrow 750 Books

Auxiliary libraries, established in five ward schools of the city, resulted in a greatly increased usefulness of the Kemp library to the school children of Wichita Falls, according to the annual report of the work, made to the board of the Kemp library on Tuesday night, by Miss Vera Louise Dodge, the librarian.

Seven hundred and fifty books were borrowed by children for use in their homes, during each month, Miss Dodge's report shows. This number is probable all gain, since the auxiliary libraries are located in schools some distance from the library. A widened scope of usefulness was made for the library by this action, and the board was warm in it't approval.

An increase of 240 in the number of new borrowers during the year ending May 31, 1922, was shown, over the number for the previous year, another indication of the extension of influence of the library. The new borrowers registered up to May 31, 1922, were 1,890. For the previous year 1,652.

The number of books in circulation to the close of the year, May 31, 1922, was 56,760, an increase of 15,493 over the previous year, the report shows.

Important additions to the library were also mentioned in the report, which follows in detail.

"Books circulated:
June, 1921-May, 1922.....56,760
June, 1920-May, 1921.....41,267

Increase 15,493

"Books added:
No. in collection, May 31, 1922.8,634
No. in collection, May 21, 1921.7,350

Increase 1,284
No. in collection, May 21, 1920.4,090
Increase, previous year 3,260

"Pamphlets have been added by gift, purchase and mailing list of publishers of federal and state documents.

"Books were placed in the following grade schools: Fannin, Barwise, Sam Houston, San Jacinto and Travis in collections of 100, and renewed when desired by principals. The records show varying use of these books, but there was an average of 150, each month in each school, borrowed for home use. During the previous year only one school was provided with books, the increased activities made possible by a book fund for juvenile literature raised especially for that purpose through the personal efforts of the board members in November, 1921.

"The Young Women's Christian Association reading rooms is constantly equipped with a collection of 25 books, changed periodically at the discretion of the secretary.

"A story hour has been maintained in the library club room for little children, under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. during the winter and spring months, and largely attended—average, 50.

"There have been given to the library, unsolicited, 143 books, by various interested readers, but mostly very useful and popular fiction, a few technical books. The local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution presented an attractive framed picture "The birth of our nation's flag."

"New borrowers registered, year ending May 31, 1922, 1,890.

"New borrowers registered, year ending May 31, 1921, 1,652.

"The library is given publicity by the weekly list of "Books Added", in the newspapers, and by placards placed by the advisory board.

HARVEST HANDS FLOCKING IN

Hundreds Seeking Jobs In Field

With the reports of a large wheat crop emanating from this section, hundreds of harvest hands are pouring into Wichita Falls and are passing through the city almost daily.

For the past ten days, according to reports from the Travelers' Aid desk at the union station, boys and men, attracted to Wichita county through the reports of a big wheat crop, have been appearing in the station seeking routings to the wheat fields.

The harvest in the panhandle, it is understood, will begin within the next few days, the first run being made by threshing crews in this section.

Not only has the Travelers' Aid bureau been visited by large crowds of men seeking employment, but reports from the police employment bureau and the American Legion headquarters show that hundreds of laborers have applied to them in quest of harvest employment.

"I've Donated to This Court Before" Brings $10 Fine

In a rather sarcastic manner, the man before Judge W. B. Chauncey in corporate court Tuesday stated:

"I've donated to this court before."

"Well, you can donate again," was a reply made in a similar fashion. "Your fine will be $10."

The man had been brought into city court on charges of violating the traffic ordinance by speeding his vehicle. Speed officers testified that he was exceeding the speed limit, and the court found him guilty.

"A man's demeanor in this court has considerable to do with the amount of his fine," Prosecutor E. H. Gipson remarked following court.

HARDING WANTS TARIFF ACTION

Favors Sidetracking Bonus Bill

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Senate republican leaders who are opposed to the plan of Chairman McCumber of the finance committee to sidetrack the tariff bill for the soldiers' bonus have the support of President Harding. The executive, it was stated officially today at the White House, regards tariff legislation as most important and worthy of the undivided attention of the senate.

Plans for consideration of the bonus still are very indefinite. Some leaders desire that a party conference pass on the question of the right of way as between the two bills, but, should such a conference be called, Senator McCumber and other proponents of the bonus are expected to make a fight against delaying action on that measure until the tariff bill has been disposed of. Senator McCumber has given notice that he will call up the bill soon. He has not yet fixed a definite date, however.

Some leaders said today that there was a probability that the bill would be called up the latter part of next week, or early in the week following unless an agreement was reached in party conference to defer action.

Extension In New West Pool

SECOND 1500 FOOT PRODUCER

Harvey Cullum No. 5 Showing Nice Well

Extending the 1,500-foot sand three-quarters of a mile, north and west, the Harvey-Cullum No. 6 Rio Bravo Tuesday drilled into the sand at 1,525 feet, with the care showing a very promising sand. Casing will be set today, and the well will be completed as soon as possible.

This is the second 1,500-foot well of the Harvey-Cullum interests on the Rio Bravo, the first producer in Section 31 being at this depth. The new well is showing up for about the same production as in the No. 1, it is reported, the flush on the discovery well being 100 barrels.

SUSPEND WORK IN WEST VERNON

Agreement to Be Made With Owners

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 13.—Work on the West Vernon well, three miles west of the city, has been suspended until an arrangement can be made with fee owners of the land in regard to further leasing.

According to a previous agreement, leases were returned to fee owners June 10 in view of the fact that oil had not been encountered in the hole.

Much interest locally has centered in the West Vernon operations, and for some time there was every confidence of a producer. It is understood that the principal fee owners are in favor of the arrangement for a continuance of the work suggested by A. E. Dean of Philadelphia, the operator.

DOWN 200 FEET IN DUDLEY WELL

Special to the Record News.

ABILENE, June 13.—A depth of 200 feet has been attained in the well of the Dudley Oil, Gas & Development company on a 2640-acre lease one and one-half miles from the town of Dudley in the southwest corner of Gallahan county.

The formation is said to be unusually favorable for the discovery of shallow oil of the Pennsylvania grade. Three other wells are to be drilled on the tract. Henry Williard is field manager.

Women first appeared on the stage in the latter half of the seventeenth century.

Derrick Completed Near Ward Well

Special to the Record News.

MEXIA, June 13.—The derrick has just been completed for another well in the Honest Ridge district about half a mile due south of the Ward well. This well will be known as the "Big Williams," on the B. C. Lewis tract and will be spudded in just as soon as the rig can be moved on and set up. L. B. ("Big") Williams, who drilled 32 producing wells in the old Burk field, is the prime mover in this undertaking.

ON SAND IN DEEP TEST

Big Developments In Electra Pools

Interesting developments in the 1900 foot sand in the new west pool of South Electra were reported Tuesday, with several tests in this, and in the older pool as well reported on the deep sand, promising a nice completion list for the end of the week.

The Texas Company's No. 169, Waggoner, an old shallow producer, a couple of locations south of their No. 224, also completing in the 1900 foot sand, has drilled about ten feet of oil sand, with the hole 1954 feet deep, according to Tuesday reports from the field. The well will be completed in the next few days, it is reported.

The Texas Company's No. 224 Waggoner, offsetting the No. 5 of Harvey-Cullum completed last week, has started drilling into the 1900 foot sand, with a good showing of oil and gas reported. Casing was set here on the lime around 1890, and the well is being drilled in with a star.

Hereford Well Testing.

The old producer of the Hereford Oil and Gas company on the Allingham, about a thousand feet south of the new deep producers, is reported on a sand from 1918 to 1935 feet, and trying to test. There is some trouble reported with cavings, since the hole was deepened with five inch casing carried. It will be necessary to set a liner, it is understood.

Two of the Bridwell and Heydrick tests on the Waggoner in the original south pool, are preparing to drill into the 1900 foot sand the No. 13 being due to drill in Wednesday or Thursday. The No. 11 also has casing set No. 14 and No. 15 Waggoner, both to be 1900 foot wells, spudded in on Tuesday.

STANDARD HITS OIL ON LUZON ISLE

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—The Standard Oil company, which a year ago sent an expedition to the Philippines, has discovered gas on the island of Luzon, possibly indicating the presence of oil, according to a cable made today at the offices of the company.

EXPECT RISE IN CRUDE PRICE

Penn. to Hit New High Mark

(By International News Service)

OIL CITY, Pa., June 13. — Enormous demand for gasoline, stiffened demand for fuel oil and lubricants and nation-wide decrease in production of crude oil, curtailment of Mexican oil imports and failure of increased production in such fields as Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and California to counterbalance decreases elsewhere in the oil fields are the big contributing factors in the series of advances that have been occurring the past few weeks.

South Texas crude quotations were increased about two weeks ago. Premiums have been paid in a g. d many fields, including Texas, for several weeks.

The demand for gasoline and fuel oils, light lubricating oils and an improved market for heavier grades of lubricants probably are as great a factor as any in the rise of eastern crudes.

From well-authenticated sources it is learned that numerous eastern refiners have been unable to secure sufficient Pennsylvania crude to keep operations up to the point that the demand for refined products justifies.

Having this situation in mind, one refiner in this district is of the opinion that Pennsylvania crude will be forced up to $4 a barrel within a few months.

Should a large scale business resumption materialize it is this refiner's belief that a top market of $5 a barrel for Pennsylvania crude will be the result.

Producers in the eastern fields are not excited by the advance of 25 cents, and while oil sales will naturally be stimulated among those who are unable to carry their stocks most producers are planning to hold on for a still higher market.

"She's going to $4," is the attitude of the average producer in this field. Conditions seem to justify this attitude.

One of the big contributing factors in keeping eastern crude prices down so far has been the ability of refiners to get so large a percentage of gasoline out of western oils. With comparatively little demand for other refined products Pennsylvania and nearby grades of crude were compelled to compete with these.

With industry at a standstill lubricants simply represent "frozen" stocks that cannot be moved by refiners. With industry going on a reasonable basis these lubricants become a highly desirable asset to the refiner competing for business.

To the eastern oil fields a rise in crude is like a rise in the price of wheat or corn to the farmer in the grain belt. Business will undoubtedly be stimulated throughout the southern New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky fields as thousands of small and large oil producers come into the market for purchases they have been withholding until they could see which way oil would go.

PRODUCER NEAR IN JACKSBORO

Roxana Only Few Feet In Pay

Special to the Record News.

JACKSBORO, June 13.—Late reports from the Williams well of the Roxanna Petroleum Company, 10 miles south of here, are to the effect that arrangements have been made for pipe line connections with the Prairie's line, which runs five miles east of the new well and that 3,500 barrels of storage is being erected in addition to an earthen tank for emergency storage.

The fact that arrangements have been taken as an indication that the owners of the well, as well as the pipe line company, believe that a big producer is certain.

The well is still flowing by heads, though there is no regularity to these performances. During the first 24 hours after the sand was found the two big heads were lost by oil flowing into the slush pit and still about 428 barrels were saved and run into storage. The well is only a foot or two in the pay.

Just when the well will be drilled further into the pay is not known but it will probably be some time early this week.

CUMLEY ET AL GET NEW SAND

Report Well Making 50 Barrels At 1800

Cumley and others, drilling for the 1,900-foot sand on the Jennings, a mile south of the Gulf Production company's 1,900-foot discovery well on the Jennings, have struck on 1,800-foot sand, which is producing around 50 barrels, according to reports from the field. This new well opens up the 1,800-fot sand more than mile north of the original South Electra pool, where the 1,800-foot sand was first opened up some months ago. While it was understood the Cumley test was planned for a deep hole, it is probable that with such nice production in the 1,800-foot sand the No. 1 will be completed here.

OUSLEY AND STATE RIGHTS

CLARENCE Ousley is a candidate for the senate. This is an excerpt from one of his speeches: "I remind you that state sovergnity is positive as well as negative. It is an attribute to be used actively as a state responsibility, and if it is not used to suppress evil or to promote the general welfare it will pass to the nation.

"Many states neglected to employ their sovereign powers to prevent the sale of adulterated foods and drugs and the nation assumed the jurisdiction. Other states permitted child labor to be cruelly exploited for gain and the nation violated the constitution in protest. Other states permitted the liquor traffic to corrupt their politics and the nation took over the police power. These examples suffice to illustrate the point that states will continue to lose their sovereignty if they assert it only in resistance of federal power."

Clarence Ousley is a scholar and a thinker. He did not go wide of the mark in what he said. He told the truth. When a state refuses to correct evils within its border or to redress wrongs within its border, why shouldn't the nation act? State rights were shot to pices when the flag of Lee went down. State rights were given another jolt when congress created the interstate commerce commission and John H. Reagan was one of its creators.

State rights were jolted again when the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments o the constitution were submitted and senators from the old slave states voted for submission and legislatures of old slaves were the first to ratify the eighteenth amendment which destroyed the police power of the state. Ghost dancing is all right in its place, but the politicians who are clamoring for the restoration of state rights of the vintage of 1860 are chasing shadows.

OPPOSE SPECIAL SESSION

STATE Senator D. S. McMillin of Grason county is a hard headed banker and farmer. He is opposed to the governor calling a special session. Representative Lee Satterwhite of the one hundred twenty-fourth district is opposed to a special session. Senator McMillin is a holdover. He does not believe that it would be right to draw from the general funds for educational purposes.

Representative Satterwhite does not believe there is anything the lawmakers could do to relieve the immediate situation if they were called together. Satterwhite hails from Carson county. He is of and for west Texas. He publishes a lively weekly newspaper.

He has no opposition for re-election, and he hopes to be presiding officer of the house in the thirty-eighth legislature. Satterwhite is neither a ghost dancer, witch burner or a shadow chaser. He believe in fair assessment of property, a fair tax rate, equal representation, liberal support of all state schools, economical administration of government affairs and the rule of law and order. Satterwhite hails from the west and is typical of the west.

WHERE FACTS THRIVE

NEW Jersey republican progressives are on the firing line. They are led by George L. Record who was an able lieutenant when Theodore Roosevelt was the master campaigner of America. Record is their candidate for senator against Senator Frelinghuysen who voted for the vindication of Newberry of Michigan. Record is one of the most militant of all the eastern progressives.

He is for the excess profits tax on trusts; for increases in the surtax upon excessive incomes; for an increase in the inheritance tax on enormous fortunes; for the taking over and operating the railroads as the only methods for destroying trusts like the beef and coal trusts. He has the hardihood to say that the beef trust and the coal trust depend upon railroad favors for control of the markets and that t' coal trust has acquired all of the anthracite coal lands of the United States. New Jersey is the mother of trusts.

All the trusts go to New Jersey for their charters. Now an eminent lawyer of New Jersey is a republican candidate for the United States senate on a platform which demands not the curbing of trusts but their effacement. "De sun do move," Brother Jasper.

DR. CRANE'S EDITORIAL

BLACK BEAUTY VERSUS WHITE

MISS May Craemer, the sculptress, recently exhibited at the International Society of Sculptors, Painters & Gravers a female figure symbolizing the new world.

And it was the figure of a young negress. Some critics said that it was the first time in history that the supremacy of the white woman over the negress for beauty of form has been called seriously in question. This is hardly true, as Michelet in his work on women declared the ideal female beauty was more nearly approached by the African than by the Caucasian.

Many will be inclined to scout this opinion, but in the realm of art there is no race prejudice and the artistic mind refuses to take social considerations or popular tastes into its estimates.

Miss Craemer's views were expressed as follows:

"I believe that the most beautiful women in the world, spiritually and physically, are to be found among the colored women in the southern states of America. That is why I chose the figure of a negress to symbolize the new world.

"It was the deep mystic beauty in the eyes of the southern 'mammies' that first attracted me in Virginia. There is more spirituality shining out of the eyes of these colored women than can be found in any race of white women on the earth.

"The marvel to me is how the beauty of the negress has for centuries escaped artists and sculptors. She is more beautiful in face and form than the white woman."

If the southern gentlemen will kindly refrain for a few moments from shooting the performer, we should like to add that in this, as in all other things, it is every man to his taste, as the old woman said when she kissed the cow.

The black race has been the tragedy of history. It has always been contemned and exploited. For it has lacked the combative spirit of the other races.

It is a question, however, whether in the final outcome of civilization the gentler traits of humanity, as exhibited by the African, will not be found as important as the more robustious qualities of the warlike peoples.

It is also a question of what is beauty. And in answering that question, not only traditional and popular feeling must be consulted but also those recognized standards of form, of harmony and of color, concerning which the artist alone is qualified to judge.

HUDPETH'S LUCK

CONGRESSMAN Claude Hudspeth is a lucky chap. He will not be compelled to face democratic opposition on primary election day, Saturday, July 21. Former District Judge Dan M. Jackson was slated to oppose the cowboy congressman but he withdrew from the race. Judge Jackson gave as his reason for not running that he had too much private practice to look after to give the proper time to his candidacy.

This caused William J. Moran to make merry. William J. is editor and publisher of the El Paso Labor Advocate and a close, personal friend and political adviser of the cowboy congressman. Editor Moran is a great booster for the cowboy congressman and a great admirer of Henry Ford. This from the pen of Moran may interest the reader: "During these days of coal strikes we just want to draw attention to the fact that Henry Ford owns some coal mines at Valley Fork Kentucky, that when readjustment came for wage paid in the coal mines, Henry Ford, after a person al examination of the work revised his wage scale upward and is now paying three dollars per day more than any coal mine owner in Kentucky."

This Ford-for-president movement may cause the politicians of the republican and democratic parties serious trouble in the year 1924. There are millions of emotional people in the United States who are drawn to this man, who pays a six dollar a day minimum wage to unskilled labor and carries the highest wage scales in America. Frederick is nearby Oklahoma City. Frederick has a Ford-for-President club and according to the leader of that city hundreds have signed petitions asking him to become a candidate for the presidency two years hence. There seems to be something doing every day under the protecting folds of Old Glory. Think of a president who says that history is bunk and that the God on high isn't a denominational God.

Some homes have a restful air, and some are decorated by a daughter who is "artistic."

Sunday still is observed and respected, however, by those to whom Saturday night is bath night.

There are good citizens, and then there are citizens who speak of government as "they."

About the easiest way to keep a man from growing great is to deny him all opposition.

When a city takes measures to entertain a convention now, they are not liquid measures.

THE BULWARKS

The bulwarks of our liberty are threatened every day; some crisis rises, fierce to see, and all alarmists bray. They tremble for the future course of this, our native land; and they orate until they're hoarse, an eagle in each hand. It was the same when I was young, a hundred years ago; the orator unwound his tongue and waved it to and fro. But little comfort could I find in all the wordy din; our sacred bulwarks, undermined, were swiftly caving in. And even now I can't forget the long nights in my room, where I would lie awake and fret about our country's doom. I used to sit around and brood, and rend my costly duds; I lost my appetite for food, and couldn't drink my suds. But as the weary years rolled by our country thrived and bloomed, and our palladiums stacked high, nor knew that they were doomed. Our government grew great and strong, our banner pawed the air, our bulwarks, that were doomed so long, were right side up with care. And so I banished from my soul the fears I long had nursed, I ceased to let the brine roll, and cheer-up smiles dissembled. And now when some sad candidate expands his silver throat, expounding threats of doom and fate, he fails to get my vote.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

It was the first time that the man ever had opened his heart in any such whole-souled way to her, and it touched the girl more than she would have cared to admit.

"It would be silly to tell you that I ever can forget that terrible affair," she said; "but somehow I feel that the man who did that was an entirely different man from the man who has been so brave and chivalrous in his treatment of me during the past few weeks."

"It was me that did it, though," he said; "you can't get away from that. It'll always stick in your memory, so that you can never think of Mr. Mallory without thinking of the damned beast that murdered him—God! and I thought it smart!

"But you have no idea how I was raised, Miss Harding," he went on. "Not that that's any excuse for the thing I did; but it does make it seem a wonder that I ever could have made a start even at being decent. I never was well acquainted with any human being that wasn't a thief, or a pickpocket, or a murderer—and they were all beasts, each in his own particular way, only they weren't as decent as dumb beasts.

"I wasn't as crafty as most of them, so I had to hold But now the parents are i the my own by brute force, and I did it; but, god, how I accomplished it. The idea of fighting fair," he laughed at the thought, "was utterly unknown t me. If I'd ever have tried it I'd have seen my finish in a hurry. No one fought fair in my gang, or in any other gang that I ever ran up against. It was an honor to kill a man, and if you accomplished it by kicking him to death when he was unconscious it detracted nothing from the glory of your exploit—it was what you did, not how you did it, that counted.

"I could have been decent, though, if I'd wanted to. Other fellows who were born and raised near me were decent enough. They got good jobs and stuck to them, and lived straight; but they made me sick—I looked down on them, and spent my time hanging around saloon corners rushing the cops and insulting women—I didn't want to be decent— not until I met you, and learned to—to," he hesitated, stammering, and the red blood crept up his neck and across his face, "and learned to want your respect."

It wasn't what he had intended saying and the girl knew it. There sprang into her mind a sudden wish to hear Billy Byrne say the words that he had dared not say; but she promptly checked the desire, and a moment later a qualm of self-disgust came over her because of the weakness that had prompted her to entertain such a wish in connection with a person of this man's station in life.

Days ran into weeks, and still the two remained upon their little island refuge. Byrne found first one excuse and then another to delay the march to the sea. He knew that it must be made sooner or later, and he knew, too, that its commencement would mark the beginning of the end of his association with Miss Harding, and that after that was ended life would be a dreary waste.

Either they would be picked up by a passing vessel or murdered by the natives, but in the latter event his separation from the woman he loved would be no more certain or absolute than in her return to her own people, for Billy Byrne knew that he "didn't belong" in any society that knew Miss Barbara Harding, and he feared that once they had regained civilization that there would be a return on the girl's part to the old haughty aloofness, and that again he would be to her only a creature of a lower order, such as she and her kind addressed with a patronizing air, as "my man."

He intended, of course, to make every possible attempt to restore her to her home; but, he argued, was it wrong to snatch a few golden hours of happiness in return for his service, and as partial recompense for the lifetime of lonely misery that must be his when the woman he loved had passed out of his life forever Billy thought not, and so he tarried on upon "Manhattan Island," as Barbara had christened it, and he lived in the second finest residence in town upon the opposite side of "Riverside Drive" from the palatial home of Miss Harding.

Nearly two months had passed before Billy's stock of excuses and delay ran out, and a definite date was set for the commencement of the journey.

"I believe," Miss Harding had said, "that you do not wish to be rescued at all. Most of your reasons for postponing the trip have been trivial and ridiculous—possibly you are afraid of the dangers that may lie before us," she added, banteringly.

"I'm afraid you've hit it off about right," he replied with a grin. "I don't want to be rescued, and I am very much afraid of what lies before—me."

"Before you?"

"I'm going to lose you, any way you look at it, and—and—oh, can't you see that I love you?" he blurted out, despite all his good intentions.

Barbara Harding looked at him for a moment, and then she did the one thing that could have hurt him most—she laughed.

The color mounted to Billy Byrne's face, and then he went very white.

The girl started to say something, and at the same instant there came faintly to them from the mainland the sound of hoarse shouting, and of shots.

Byrne turned and started on a run in the direction of the firing, the girl following closely behind. At the island's edge he motioned her to stop.

"Wait here, it will be safer," he said. "There may be white men there—those shots sound like it, but again there may not. I want to find out before they see you, whoever they are."

The sound of firing had ceased now, but loud yelling was distinctly audible from down the river. Byrne took a step down the bank toward the water.

"Wait!" whispered the girl. "Here they come now, we can see them from here in a moment," and she dragged the mucker down behind a bush.

In silence the two watched the approaching party.

"They're the Chinks," announced Byrne, who insisted on using this word to describe the proud and haughty samurai.

"Yes, and there are two white men with them," whispered Barbara Harding, a note of suppressed excitement in her voice.

"Prisoners," said Byrne. 'Some of the precious bunch from the Half-moon doubtless.

The samurai were moving straight up the edge of the river. In a few minutes they would pass within a hundred feet of the island. Billy and the girl crouched low behind their shelter.

"I don't recognize them," said the man.

"Why—why—O Mr. Byrne, it can't be possible!" cried the girl with suppressed excitement. "Those two men are Captain Norris and Mr. Foster, mate of the Lotus!"

Byrne half rose to his feet. The party was opposite their hiding place now.

"'Sit tight," he whispered. "I'm goin' to get 'em," and then, fiercely "for your sake, because I love you—now laugh," and he was gone.

He ran lightly down the river bank unnoticed by the samurai who had already passed the island. In one hand he bore the long war spear of the head-hunter he had slain. At his belt hung the long sword of Oda Yorimoto, and in its holster reposed the revolver of the Count de Cadenet.

Barbara Harding watched him as he forded the river, and clambered up the opposite bank. She saw him spring rapidly after the samurai and their prisoners. She saw his spear hand go up, and then from the deep lungs of the man rose a savage yell that would have done credit to a whole tribe of Apaches.

The warriors turned in time to see the heavy spear flying toward them and then, as he dashed into their midst, Billy Byrne drew his revolver and fired to right and left. The two prisoners took advantage of the consternation of their guards to grapple with them and possess themselves of weapons.

There had been but six samurai in the party, two had fallen before Byrne's initial onslaught, but the other four, recovered from their first surprise, turned now to battle with all the terrific ferocity of their kind.

Again, at a crucial moment had Theriere's revolver missed fire, and in disgust Byrne discarded it, falling back upon the long sword with which he was no match for the samurai. Norris snatched Byrne's spear from the ground, and ran it through the body of one of Japs who was pressing Byrne too closely. Odds were even now—they fought three against three. Norris still clung to the spear—it was by far the most effective weapon against the long swords of the samurai. With it he killed his antagonist and then rushed to the assistance of Foster.

Barbara Harding from the island saw that Byrne's foe was pressing him closely. The white man had no chance against the superior swordsmanship of the samurai. She saw that the mucker was trying to get past the Jap's guard and get his hands upon him, but it was evident that the man was too crafty and skilled a fighter to permit of that. There could be but one outcome to that duel unless Byrne had assistance, and that mighty quickly. The girl grasped the short sword that she constantly wore now, and rushed into the river. She had never before crossed it except in Byrne's arms. She found the current swift and strong. It almost swept her off her feet before she was halfway across, but she never for an instant thought of abandoning her effort.

After what seemed an eternity she floundered out upon the mainland and when she reached the top of the bank she saw to her delight that Byrne was still on his feet, fighting. Foster and Norris were pushing their man back—they were in no danger.

Quickly she ran toward Byrne and the samurai. She saw a wicked smile upon the brown face of the little warrior, and then she saw his gleaming sword swist in a sudden feint, and as Byrne lunged out awkwardly to parry the expected blow the keen edge swerved and came down upon his head.

She was an instant too late to save, but just in time to avenge—scarcely had the samurai's sword touched the mucker than the point of Oda Yorimoto's short sword, wielded by the fair hand of Barbara Harding, plunged into his heart. With a shriek he collapsed beside the body of his victim.

Barbara Harding threw herself beside Byrne. Apparently life was extinct. With a little cry of horror the girl took her ear close to the man's lips. She could hear nothing.

"Come back! Come back!" she wailed. "Forgive me that cruel laugh O Billy! Billy! I love you!" and the daughter of old Anthony Harding, multimillionaire and scion of the oldest aristocracy that American boasts took the head of the Grand Avenue mucker in her arms and covered the white, bloody face with kisses—and in the midst of it Billy Byrne opened his eyes.

She was caught in the act. There was no escape, and as a crimson flush suffused her face Billy Byrne put his arms about her and drew her down until their lips met, and this time she did not put her hands upon his shoulders and push him away.

"I love you, Billy," she said simply.

"Remember who and what I am,' he cautioned, fearful lest this great happiness should be stolen away from him because she had forgotten for the moment.

"I love you, Billy," she answered, "for what you are."

"Forever?"

"Until death do us part!"

And then Norris and Foster, having dispatched their man, came running up.

"Is he badly hurt, madam?" cried Captain Norris.

"I don't know," replied Miss Harding; 'I'm just trying to help him up, Captain Norris," she laboriously explained in an effort to account for her arms about Billy's neck.

Norris gave a start of surprise at hearing his name.

"Who are you?" he cried. 'How do you know me?" and as the girl turned her face toward him, "Miss Harding! Thank God, Miss Harding, you are safe."

"But where on earth did you come from?" asked Barbara.

"It's a long story, Miss Harding," replied the officer, "and the ending of it is going to be pretty hard on you—you must try to bear up though."

"You don't mean that father is dead?" she asked, a look of terror coming to her eyes.

"Not that—we hope," replied Norris. "He has been taken prisoner by these half-breed devils on the island. I doubt if they have killed him—we were going to his rescue when we ourselves were captured. He and Mr. Mallory were taken three days ago."

"Mallory!" shouted Billy Byrne, who had entirely recovered from the blow that had merely served to stun him for a moment. "Is Mallory alive?"

"He was yesterday," replied Norris; "these fellows from whom you so bravely rescued us told us that much."

"Thank God!" whispered Billy Byrne.

"What made you think he was dead?" inquired the officer, looking closely at Byrne as though trying to place him.

Beauty Spots

Being One of a Series of Articles Appearing Daily on This Page Which Picture Some of Wichita's Attractive Gardens.

By MABEL CARTER

No. 19 OF SERIES.

The yard of the L. P. Hammond home corner of Tenth and Brook streets, is one of the Wichita Falls' beauty spots which is admired by the many who pass during the day. The lot is one of the many triangle shaped plots which are noticeable throughout the select residence section of the city, and in the center of the projecting part, a large bed of cannas in the deep shades of yellow and red, with their rich green foliage furnish the feature flower bed of the entire yard. A lawn swing and other out-of-door furniture is arranged in an inviting manner on the lawn surrounding the bed where many pleasant evenings are spent by the family and their guests.

Around the front porch, 4 o'clocks, shasta daisies, and many other colorful and fragrant blossoms are an added adornments.

The back fence of lattice, is completely concealed with large, healthy shrubbery of the hedge variety. A two-story home built of red brick occupies the center of this attractive place.

"If I Could Only Get Up That Gas I Know I Would Feel Better."

How often have you felt that way? How often have you wished for something to give you genuine and lasting relief from gas?

Don't buy any ordinary dyspepsia tablets for temporary results. Go to a first-class drug store and ask for a bottle of genuine Baalmann's Gas Tablets. Take three tablets an hour before meals and again three after eating—then watch. Now comes a surprise. No more gas, no more smothered feeling, no difficult breathing, no bloating.

Remember, Baalmann's Gas Tablets are not only for the relief, but also for the prevention of gas. Most people with gas suffer from nervous dyspepsia—not common indigestion.

Baalmann's Gas Tablets in the famous yellow package, price one dollar, are sold by Palace Drug Store, Central Drug Store, and other reliable druggists. J. Baalmann, Chemist, San Francisco.—Adv.

FASHIONS

White Silk Crepe and Bright Flowered Self Fabric Fashion This Dress.

White silk crepe and a gorgeously colored figured crepe were combined in the frock shown in the sketch, but the style design might be employed for fashioning a simple morning frock combining linen or cotton fabrics in white or plain color and a bright figured cretonne or chintz. It is not possible to have too many of these little inexpensive morning or porch frocks, and now that home sewing has become a fashionable occupation, great variety is easily obtainable at comparatively small cost. The vogue for home sewing really came into existence during the war, but it has held up to the present time, as the activity in dress goods departments of practically all stores proves.

A charming frock cut on lines quite similar to the one sketched, was made of a rose pink and white linen. The frock proper was of the pink fabric, and the little yoke, a trifle deeper than the one sketched, combined bias bands of the pink and white, upper half of sleeves being of white and lower half of pink. The dress buttoned in the back, and instead of a sash belt a plain fabric belt held it in at the waist line, being caught at one side with a white pearl buckle. A big white leghorn hat, flower trimmed, was worn with the frock, and low white-strap shoes and white silk stockings completed the costume.

Inasmuch as there is always a possibility of bright colored cretonne or chintz fading when washed, many women who make their own summer frocks use plain color or white material to fashion the entire dress, and have detachable collar, cuffs, vestee, belt., etc., of cretonne or other colored fabric, more than one set of accessories being made for each dress. Such an outfit recently seen also featured a cretonne parasol and generous sized sewing bag.

Business Women's Summer Clothes

"Just the minute the warm weather starts, every year, it suggests the annual perplexing question 'How can I find a garb in which I can stay all day down town and yet be comfortable?'"

It was a business woman talking. The question is one which propounds itself annually to every woman who has gone through summer after summer in the business districts—most of them uncomfortably.

There is no question about what is the smart or the correct thing for the down town district. There isn't any question about that, though women who know better take a great many liberties. They are independent enough to wear what is becoming or comfortable whether it meets the requirements of custom or not.

But after all custom is a rather satisfactory guide, it beats style as a mentor in the fact that it is the outcome of reasoning, whereas style is the outcome of a whim. And custom is a sort of consensus of opinion, well weighed.

The differences of feeling are many, with some it is a matter of health. Those who can wear dark shades are fortunate, since these look much better, are better form and more practical. The material which suits one in these dresses are quite different. But they have really in the last few years, resolved themselves into three or four definitely.

Some women will swear that the hottest kind, if in style, of material is really cool. A good many have stood for taffeta, becuse it was so light and also because it stood away from the body. But everyone knows that any material that is closely woven is really warm. Linen and taffeta have lost their vogue for summer because they are closely woven as much as because they do not happen to be in style. Taffeta appears now almost exclusively for evening dress made up in the bouffant styles. But, of course, they are shown some, for there will always be devotees of taffeta. It is a pleasant material to wear excepting in the very warm weather.

For hot weather georgette and crepe de chine have vied in the affections of women. The georgette is thinner, but some say that in the making of georgette some threads of wool are used. One woman goes so far as to say that she knows nothing warmer than georgette, saying, perhaps, sealskin.

Certainly it clings closely, and that is an objectionable feature in summer wearing apparel.

Women sometimes object to the use of georgette because one must wear very particular and rather numerous underthings, whereas with other materials, such as crepe de chine or dark swiss, the underthings do not show so plainly.

But there are many women, especially this summer, that are wedded to georgette, either in the perennial blue or the black. Those who look smart in black are fortunate. There is nothing more stylish. And the way in which the black but is lightened up this year with the white flowers makes it possible, with perhaps a string of white beads, for nearly anyone to wear it. Those who object to thinness of the chiffon or georgette over the shoulders and arms nearly always use two thicknesses or else the frock is made with plaits let in.

A very smart dress of this material had a very clever arrangement of moire ribbon used on the waist to keep it from looking too thin on the arms and shoulders. The neck was picot edged in boat shape and the wide sleeves were also given the picot edge at the hand. The inch and a half black moire ribbon picot edge started at the shoulder and went down the seam on top of the arm. On the front two rows, spaced a little wider than the ribbon, started at the shoulder. The inside one ran down the bodice, forming a square corner; it was just turned over to make the point. It extended across, turned again and ran to the shoulder. The outside line of ribbon finished on each side at the low belt line with a flat bow and two long ends of the ribbon. The back of the blouse had one row running straight across at the waist line. The skirt was plaited on to the waist at the hip line. The style of the dress and the simplicity of it would make it appropriate at almost any hour of the day and quite suitable for a woman who had to be downtown most of her day.

TODAY'S POEM

MOTHER LOVE

The flowers that I have tended life their faces to the sun.
How I watched and wished their coming—but I lost the fairest one!

And his little feet a-dancing, sure
I hear their music now.
And I bend my head to listen,
but it seems I can't, somehow.

For my heart and soul remember all the little baby charms.
And my dreams are filled with longing for the clinging of his arms.

Mary, mother, I am praying,
with my face all dewed with tears,
But no little lad comes to me,
with the passing of the years!

But the mother love is faithful, and the mother love is strong.
When I hear his voice come drifting,
like the echo of a song.

Little Stories for Bedtime

PETER RABBIT HAS SOME STARTLING NEWS

Little Mrs. Peter Rabbit, who used to be little Miss Fuzzytail, sat on the edge of the dear Old Brier Patch anxiously looking over toward the Green Forest. She was worried. Here was no doubt about it, little Mrs. Peter was very much worried. Why didn't Peter come home? She did wish that he would be content to stay close by the dear Old Brier Patch. For her part she couldn't see why under the sun he wanted to go way over to the Green Forest. He was always having dreadful adventures and narrow escapes over there, yet in spite of all she could say he would persist in going there. She didn't feel easy in her mind one minute while he was out of her sight. To be sure, he always turned up all right, but she couldn't help feeling that some time his dreadful curiosity would get him into trouble that he couldn't get out of, and so every time he went to the Green Forest she was sure, absolutely sure, that she would never see him again.

Peter used to laugh at her and tell her that she was a foolish little dear, and that he was perfectly able to take care of himself. Then when he saw how worried she was he would promise to be very, very careful and never do anything rash or foolish. But he wouldn't promise not to go to the Green Forest. No, sir, Peter wouldn't promise that. You see, he has so many friends over there and there is always so much news to be gathered over there that he just couldn't keep away. Once or twice he has induced Mrs. Peter to go with him, but she had been frightened almost out of her skin every minute, for it seemed to her that there was danger lurkin behind every tree and under every brush. It was all very well for Chatterer the red squirrel, and Happy Jack the gray squirrel, who could jump from tree to tree, but she didn't think it a safe and proper place for a sensible rabbit, and she said so.

This particular morning she was unusually anxious. Peter had been gone all night. Usually he was home by the time Old Mother West Wind came down from the Purple Hills and emptied her children, the Merry Little Breezes, out of her big bag to play all day on the Green Meadows. But this morning Old Mother West Wind had been a long time gone about her business and still no sign of Peter.

"Something has happened, I just know something has happened!" she wailed.

Oh, Peter, Peter, Peter Rabbit,
Why will you be so heedless?
Why will you take such dreadful risks,
So foolish and so needless?
"Don't worry. Peter is smart enough to take care of himself," cried one of the Merry Little Breezes, who happened along just in time to overhear her. "He'll be home pretty soon. In fact, I think I see him coming now."

Mrs. Peter looked in the direction that the Merry Little Breeze was looking, and sure enough there was Peter. He was heading straight for the dear Old Brier Patch, and he was running as if he were trying to show how fast he could run. Mrs. Peter's heart gave a frightened thump. "It must be that Reddy or Granny Fox or Old Man Coyote is right at his heels," thought she, but look as hard as she would she could see nothing to make Peter run so.

In a few minutes he reached her side. His eyes were very wide, and it was plain to see that he was bursting with important news.

"What is it, Peter? Do tell me quick! Have you had another narrow escape?" gasped little Mrs. Peter.

Peter nodded while he panted for breath. "There's another stranger in the Green Forest—a terrible looking fellow without legs or head or tail, and he almost caught me!" panted Peter.

NEXT STORY: PETER RABBIT TELLS HIS STORY.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Watchful Care of Health Necessary

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Marvelous Help

West Orange, N. J.—"I was very nervous and upset for six months before my baby was born. One of my friends told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it for five months now. I have a big boy who weighed almost nine pounds at birth and I do all my housework and don't feel a bit nervous or upset any more. I still take your medicine and have told all my friends what good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET GREGORY, 440 Valley Road, West Orange, N. J.

West New York, N. J.—"The first two months I carried my baby I was in bed almost every day with sick headaches. I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me. I took seven more and I know I couldn't feel better than I did. The headaches stopped and I was able to do my own work. I have a baby girl six months old who weighs twenty pounds and is the picture of health."—Mrs. J. McCOY, 207 20th St., West New York, N. J.

Nervous and Run-Down

Biloxi, Miss.—"Just a word of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it with wonderful results before my baby was born. I was so nervous and run-down that I was a wreck of misery. I had pains in my sides and back so bad that I could not stay still or sleep nights. My husband was reading your 'ad.' in the paper and I decided to try your Vegetable Compound. After I had taken half a bottle I felt a change and was soon as well as ever. I took it the whole time and recommend it to every woman who is suffering as I was. People said that because I was so young I would never pull through and I praise your Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. ENOCH J. STEVENS, 889 Fayard St., Biloxi, Miss.

Chicago, Ill.—"I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all prospective mothers. I suffered from weakness and faint spells and had to lie down twice a day for an hour or so before I could go on with my work. My cousin, who lives in Wisconsin, has used your Vegetable Compound for over five years and she came to us for a visit and she recommended it to me, saying she would pay for the bottle if it did not help me. I took that bottle and got more, as I found it gave me great relief. I recommend it to my friends and sisters and am willing for you to use these facts to help others."—Mrs. I. J. KUBINSKI, 1813 W. 17th St., Chicago, Illinois.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken by expectant mothers. It will assist them in keeping well and strong. This is necessary not only for their own comfort but for the future as well.

It helped these women. It has helped many others.

First of Galveston Series Won in Late Innings by Spuds

CRABS CRASH IN LEFT FOR SPUDDER WIN

Fincher Turns In Great Game Until Relieved

Because neither Distel nor Munson used their mouths at the right time the two players violently collided in the sixth round of Tuesday's game. Adams easy fly went for a two-ply pinch blow, three runs counted, and the Spuds stole the opening game in broad daylight from Griffiths' Island City crew. Nor was this all. Tanner, immediately following Adams at bat dropped another easy fly into the Sand Crab outfield this time between Munson and Brown. This time both runners stopped and the ball dropped between them untouched, and Adams roumped home from second with the fourth counter as a result of the collision, and the winning run of a fracas which was finally played out 7 to 3.

Until that sixth the Crabs had everything their way. The Spudder singgers were eating turkey at the hands of the lanky Perryman while the Crabs with the aid of a hit or two off Bill Fincher in the opening rounds and a couple of fickey breaks were sitting on the world. Accorded perfect support by his club mates, and working in perfect form himself, Perryman for five long rounds hadn't even allowed the Spuds a distant look at the home station.

In the sixth, however things grew tense for the Spudder fans. Summa singled to center and Beck walked after Miller had skied to Brown. White doubled to left, shoving Summa across for the first Spud run and perching Beck and himself on second and third respectively. Bischoff popped out and McDonald who went in to bit for Fincher, was walked to get at Adams, who is supposed to be in a slump.

Adams, plainly overanxious at the plate, finally worried the count down to a three to two affair—when he hit a weak fly to short left, to the dismay of the stands—turned a moment later into jubilation when the two Sand Crabs collided and the three Spudder runners, who had started with the pitch, crossed the plate in mass formation. Tex McDonald, who is said to be out of the game with a sore foot, and who was perched on first, found it almost necessary to put on the breaks at third to keep from passing White at about the time that Perryman collected the ball.

Bill Fincher, who started the game for the Spuds, got three down to his former team mates largely through luck breaking for the visitors and only partially on his own account. In the first inning the opposition hung an ace when Connolly slapped a short single to center and Miller overran the ball which went on through to the fence while Connolly circled the cushions. In the second, with two out and Munson on second, Witry doubled sharply to center, scoring Munson and scored himself a moment later on Perryman's fluke hit—one of the latter's three-a season hits.

Bowman, who went to the slab when Fincher gave way to McDonald in his time at bat in the sixth, allowed only one hit in the three remaining frames and was never seriously in trouble.

The Spuds' two final markers came in the eighth when Bischoff beat out a bunt and took second when Perryman threw the ball into the stands in a vain attempt to catch him. Bowman singled to left, scoring Bischoff, and Adams crossed the Crab infield with a perfect bunt on the third strike. Tanner beat out a lucky bounder, which went through the infield for a hit and the bases were loaded. Bescher grounded to Moore, forcing Bowman at the plate. Adams scored from second on the effort of Witry to double Bescher at first, but Tanner was caught going to third. The score:

OIL BELT TO LEASE TRACT

Field Trials Ass'n. Is Expanding

The Oil Belt Field Trials association have secured the field privileges on more than 13,000 acres of excellent bird territory in and around Bowie for the purpose of their annual meets.

This announcement was made yesterday by L. O. Landon, member of the board of directors who returned from that section Monday night.

Arrangements have been completed with the state department whereby a deputy warden will be stationed on the quail reserves. He will be paid by the association for the duties. He will be responsible for the preserve and will not permit any shooting over the large course.

A three year contract will be drawn up by the association which gives them full privileges on the entire preserve.

This assures the association of the largest field in the United States with the exception of that at Grand Junction.

The recent move assures the trials for next season and arrangements will be made to promote one of the largest events of its kind in the country.

CRABS LOOK BETTER THAN GAMES SHOW

Promise Spuds Real Battles During Series

Spudder fans failed Tuesday to see why the Sand Crabs of Galveston are so well down in the race—they looked like a million dollars and the Spuds looked like rank outsiders until the sixth when the Spuds, aided with a world of luck, showed five counters across in a single inning.

In Moore at third the Crabs seem to have a rare good man, while on the opposite corner is Hack Eibel, a fair first sacker and an awful walloper. Connolly at second, while something of a nut, looks good in the field and able with the stick.

In the outfield Munson, Brown and Hendricks cover a world of ground, throw well and give an excellent account of themselves with the stick. The Crab pitching staff stacks up well with any in the league, and behind the bat in Witry and Griffiths they have a pair of smart, hardhitting receivers.

Two sources of weakness showed in the play of the Crabs the first day, however. Whether they explain their standing, or whether they just showed for the day is not known. Lack of team work cost them four runs—lack of team work caused Distel and Munson to collide, injuring the latter sufficiently that he was forced from the game an inning or two later. Lack of team work caused Munson and Brown to both stop on the succeeding chance and allow Tanner's fly to fall between them.

Weakness on bunts appeared largely responsible for the remaining Spudder runs. Bischoff and Adams both bunted safely in the eighth inning, and the demoralization of the Crab infield through apparent expectation of the same medicine from Abe Bowman was largely responsible for his drive in the same inning.

And the Crab infield was still up in the air when Tanner was safe on his freaky bounder a moment later.

The Crabs are the only team in the league to win a series from the Spudders on their last road trip—the Crabs have always been a stumbling block for Spudder nines. And Spudders will easily concede that they have a good bunch of hard ball players and look due to win a number of more games than is credited to them to date. They promise royal entertainment for the homlings for three more days this week.

CITY LEAGUERS MEET TONIGHT

Fast Games On The Board

By "HANK" HAYES.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pond Laundry	7	2	.778
Legion	6	2	.750
University Club	5	2	.714
Methodists	5	3	.625
Baptists	3	4	.429
Shriners	3	6	.333
Mill and Elev.	2	6	.250
Christians	1	8	.111

A gentle rain ruined the schedule of the Sundown loop for their last week games. Monday the Shriners forfeited their game to the Methodists as they could not locate nine of their nobles when Ump Shay called play ball. Thus far in the season the Cleaners, Soldiers and Varsity have a lead that will be hard to overcome by the more lowly clubs.

Ponds will meet the Shriners today and from all indications a pitchers' battle will be the result. Anderson showed a powerful arm against the Christians last week and is set to do the hill work for them today. Len Smith will no doubt be the Maskat choice for the mound. With proper support, Len will doubtless set the Washers down a peg. Capilcoth has a hard time keeping his Crescents together, and has had to forfeit a pair of games in the league, much to his disgust. When the Shriners do hit the diamond they form as formidable an aggregation as any in the loop.

Stiff Battle Ahead.

The Legionnaires and Collegians are due for a stiff battle for the second knot of the column. The Legion shock troops have hit their regular stride and will fight the full allotment of innings for the follow-up position. Sanderford and Peary will be the opposing hurlers for the Varsity and Legion.

If "Red" Lewis displays the same class of twirling that he showed last week in a tight game with the Legion, the Flourmakers may emerge with the large end of tallies from the Baptist Churchmen. The Baptists have had a streak of hard luck in the lost a pair of games, when Maj. McClure had to leave the lineup.

The Christian Deacons and Methodist Elders will have their argument as to whether the Deacons will have to run another week with only one game to their credit or if they can have the privilege of setting the Elders back. The Deacons have had hard luck from the start by being weak at bat and the inner works going to pieces at critical stages of the game. The Elders have a nine that will stay in there and pitch till the last man is out, and only a better team can make them bite the dust.

The rulers for the games today will be Shay at the Miller game; Shamberger with the Legion and Varsity; MacClain at the Pond and Maskat and Stanfield with the Christians and Methodists.

Shrine Seeking Popular Girl

Maskat Shrine circus committee wants to know who is the most popular girl in Wichita Falls and surrounding territory and the one who is voted the most popular, will be crowned Queen Wichita at the great Shrine circus.

All who enter this competition will occupy some court office at the great coronation ceremony.

The circus committe is going to give away a Chevrolet five passenger touring car to the most popular lady, married or single.

After this grand prize has been awarded, the one receiving the next highest number of votes, both in the city proper and the outside territory will each receive a $300 diamond ring.

Method of voting is as follows: To the lady who is successful in having her friends help her sell the most tickets entitling them to enter the circus will receive this car and the other prizes to be awarded in the same way. There will be ten votes given for each admission sold. The price of these tickets are 10 cents each and when a ticket is sold, it entitles the holder of said ticket to a chance on an automobile, or rather an automobile will be awarded each night of the circus and whenever the tickets are used, they will then register their chance.

The ladies in Wichita Falls who enter this competition must realize that they will have the help of all the members of Maskat temple in disposing of these tickets and will be of any assistance possible to them. The ladies entering do not have to be relatives of Shriners or Marons, but all ladies are eligible to enter. It is the duty of the nobles to get a lady to enter the contest or help some of the ladies in.

PLUMBING WAR TO BE STARTED

All Must Take Out License

Following the steps taken by the city council Monday night to put more teeth in the ordinance regulating plumbing, Commissioner J. B. Fitts ordered the police department Tuesday to institute a war on plumbers and other trades which violate the law.

It was brought out at the meeting Monday night that there are a number of plumbers in Wichita Falls who have refused to take out the proper license or stand the examination required by the city before they can conduct a business here. Commissioner Fitts plans to stop this practice.

Not only will plumbers who violate the city laws be caught in the net, but other craftsmen will be handled accordingly.

Dumas Must Share Royalties

By Associated Press.

PARIS, June 13.—She heirs of Auguste Maquet are entitled to half the royalties that have accumulated since 1906 in "The Three Musketeers" and other works written in collaboration with Alexander Dumas. This was decided today by the court which has been hearing the suit brought by Madame Roiffe, widow of the nephew of Maquet.

Maquet had by contract also shared his profits up to 1906, the court found, and since during his lifetime Maquet waived the right to sign works written with Dumas, their publication may continue over Dumas's sole signature, it was ruled. Experts are to be appointed to calculate the amount due the heirs.

STOCKS MAKE SMALL GAINS

Advances General But Slight

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The stock market today made general but only moderate recoveries from the preceding day's severe depression. In a few noteworthy instances, chiefly rails, the rebound carried prices close to last week's final quotations.

Prices were extremely unsettled in the first hour, that period witnessing a further extensive weeding out of margined or speculative holdings at additional declines of 1 to 3 points.

Thereafter the tone was more stable on a marked reaction of operations. Altogether the course of the market seemed to justify the opinion prevalent in many quarters that the recent liquidation had created stronger technical conditions.

Stock exchange officials refused to discuss reports dealing with that institution's latest policy of conservatism. It is understood however, that the exchange has the co-operation of the banks in its efforts to gradually eliminate reckless speculation.

Oils, steels, motors and the better grade of rails reflected substantial support in the last half of the session, some of the equipments, shippings, textiles and chemicals also sharing in the stronger tone.

Net gains of 1 to 4 points were scored by Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Sinclair, United States Crucible and Republic steels, Studebaker and Maxwell "A" and "B" issues, Baldwin Locomotive, American Sugar, Corn Products, Davision Chemical, Reading, Southern Pacific, and New York Central. Sales amounted to 1,300,000 shares.

Yesterday's low rate of 2¾ per cent for call loans was not repeated, the quotation opening and holding at 3 per cent until the final half hour when 3½ per cent was demanded. This slight stiffening was regarded as natural in view of tomorrow's heavy withdrawals of government deposits to meet interest payments maturing the middle of the month.

Sharp reactions occurred throughout the foreign exchange list. Sterling again reacted 2⅛c to 4.46⅜c for demand bills, with declines of 6 to 12 points in allied rates and 3 to almost 10 points in neutrals. Evidence of the more serious economic strain in Central Europe was found in the acute weakness of the Austrian remittances that department following the suspension of operations on the Vienna stock exchange.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Following the trend of the stock list dealings in the bond market today were smaller in volume, but steadier of tone. Among the few features of more than ordinary interest was the new high record of 100.18 made by liberty 3 1-2s, others of that group closing at nominal changes.

Mexican governments again gave way, regardless of statements that a satisfactory settlement was hoped for in the pending conferences respecting that country's external debt. French governments and municipals also eased with Tokio 5s.

Gains exceeded declines among domestic rails and industrials, the stronger features including Southern Pacific collateral 4s, Minneapolis and St. Louis 4s, Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 4 1-2s and 5s, Erie general 4s, Missouri Pacific 4s and International and Great Northern adjustments.

Losses of fractions to one point were sustained by Chicago and Alton 3 1-2s, St. Louis and San Francisco incomes, New Haven 4s of 1956 and the debenture 6s, Peoria and Eastern Incomes, Chile copper 6s and 7s and Cuba Cane sugar 7s and 8s.

Several new underwritings, all for moderate amounts, including a city of Syracuse $925,000 loan, were readily marketed. Total sales, par value, aggregated $15,739,000.

MARKET SHOWS WHEAT RALLY

Courage Reviving In Buyers

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 13—Power to rally from a price break of more than 7 cents compared with last week's high points showed itself in the wheat market today. The close was steady, 1-8c to 5-8c net higher, with July 1.10 1-4 to 1.10 3-8, and September 1.10 5-8 to 1.10 34. Corn finished unchanged to 14 at 3-8c off, oats down 1-2c to 1 18c and provisions varying from 5s decline to 7c advance.

Falling off in country offerings of wheat helped to revive courage of buyers and there were advices that Italy was continuing to purchase.

On the other hand, British dealers again were reported as cancelling purchases and there were favorable conditions everywhere for the ripening and harvesting of the domestic winter crop. Profittaking on the part of pit trading was more than an offset at the last.

Corn sagged in sympathy with the oat market, which was notably devoid of support and was carried down to the lowest prices yet this season. Big stocks of oats were a depressing factor. Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The New York clearing house association today took cognizance of the lower rates prevailing at this center by adopting a sliding scale of interest rates on all credit balances.

The change involves reductions of quarter to 3-4 per cent in maximum rates of interest, according to the classifications of depositors and applies to all balances or accounts as well as to time deposits.

NEW YORK, June 13.—One of the features of the fall lines of women's ready-to-wear garments this year, especially suits and dresses, is that leading concerns in the market will offer them to buyers much earlier than usual. While in most instances it was the rule to offer the new goods in the local show rooms for the first time about July 1, this year several lines will be ready for inspection this week.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The New York stock exchange seat of W. W. Cohen has been posted for transfer to C. Hyland Jones for $96,000. The seat of Max Siegel has been posted for transfer to Oren P. Browning for $99,000, and the seat of George A. Hurty posted for transfer to R. W. Williams, $96,000. Messrs. Cohen, Siegel and Hurty were the board members of the firm of W. W. Cohen & Co. COTTON DEMAND ON INCREASE

Aggressive Buying Evident

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 13.—Reactions in the early trading in cotton today were not prolonged, aggressive buying appearing as the market fell, and during the greater part of the session, prices were higher than yesterday's close. Highest prices came late in the day, when July stood at 22.05, and the list was at net advances of 45 to 47 points. The close was at net gains of the day of 33 to 39 points, July closed at 21.93.

The early reaction amounted to 16 to 18 points, compared with yesterday's final prices, July sinking to 21.44, and was the result of reports of hot and dry weather over the greater part of the cotton region. For a while selling was rather general but the refusal of the Liverpool market to meet the decline, cables from Liverpool saying that spinners were calling cotton, c bles from Manchester reporting a better demand for goods, and a bullish midmonth report on condition from a private bureau, changed the whole complexion of the market.

According to reports received by local brokers, a private bureau in the eastern belt placed the condition of the crop at 69.2 per cent of normal against 67.9 at the end of May and indicating a yield of but 10,330,000 bales. Some of the buying in the last half of the session appeared to be due to expectations of unfavorable weekly crop reports from the government tomorrow morning.

Natural Gas History

Of all the blessings conferred on this part of the country, probably natural gas is the most desirable. Its high heating value, its wonderful convenience, its cleanliness and its economy make it worth saving.

History of natural gas shows that in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana and West Virginia, apparently inexhaustible supplies have been wasted so that these states now see the end of their service.

Question for You

Shall this community go the same way and deprive itself of this remarkable natural advantage?

Reflection shows that these wastes touch the consumers' pocketbooks. Somebody must pay for each ounce. If A permits waste, B must help pay for it. If C steals gas, A and B pay for it. Eventually waste and theft must result in higher prices for all.

Save Its Advantages

Natural gas was put here for your use. You are entitled to every advantage that may be derived from this fuel, but you are not entitled to take advantage of your neighbors or of the gas companies by methods that call for a larger supply to you than you need, or that compel the production of more gas than is burned.

The Lone Star Gas Com pany has no desire to see an advance in rates, therefore it asks your vigorous co-operation in preventing waste and in right use, so that the supply may be sufficient for all at present prices.

NEGROES HERE TO ENTERTAIN

Orphans Send Their Choral Club

The jubilee singers from the Dickson colored orphanage, at Gilmer, Texas, supported from contributions by many prominent Wichitans, reached the city yesterday morning, according to an announcement last night by Rev. J. E. Toliver, field agent.

There are ten singers here under the direction of G. G. Beatty. They compose what is known as choral club number one and include Birdola Thomas, Elizabeth Williams, Sadie Lee Hailey, Elzera White, Anna Bell Nelson, Iva Mae Murray, Beaver Brown, Leslie Jackson, Willie Earl Brown and Odessa Stewart.

In a communication to the Record News Toliver and W. L. Dickson, president and general manager, thanks the T. & P. and the M. K. & T. roads for granting passes over their lines.

The purpose of bringing the jubilee singers to the city is to "show our appreciation to our white friends for their kindness," says Dickson, "and to let them know how the children are being trained along all lines of industry.

"While we are cultivating 400 acres of land with our children they have not lost any time from their school work. We are growing this year 200 acres in cotton, 100 acres in corn, 25 acres in seedless ribbon cane, 25 acres in peas, eight acres in tomatoes, five acres in cucumbers, three acres in watermelons, 10 acres in Irish potatoes, three acres in snap beans, three in cabbage, one in collards and 25 in potatoes.

"These are just some of the things we are raising through our children and our managers. Our program tonight will be rendered at the St. Mathis Baptist church and every night this week we will have a service that will be announced later by the director of our singing. Mr. R. E. Shephard, cashier of the National bank."

WICHITA AUDITOR BUSY AT QUANAH

QUANAH, Texas June 13—Auditor Crouch of Wichita Falls was going over the city's accounts last week and pronouncing them in first class condition. While here he was invited by Secretary Sullivan to go over the books of the chamber of commerce, and found them also in good order. Mr. Sullivan took charge when the assets of the chamber of commerce were composed of 58 cents, and it will be satisfying to our people to know that this amount is still in the treasury, and the chamber of commerce practically out of debt, though recently a deficit of $300 was encountered when after taking up the building of the tourists' camp grounds, they turned out to cost over $800, while only $300 had been collected.

Kiwanis to Tie Up With Rotary For Baseball Title

Old bones are in for any number of painful creaks and strains—for the Kiwanis club, winner of last year's championship in the "Knife and Fork" league are getting ready to beat the Wichita and Rotary clubs to it this year and issue a defi for the annual games at once.

In fact the Kiwanians are doing better than that—they are getting their ball nine organized even in advance of the acceptance by the other clubs, and at the suggestion of Al Booth, the organization of a Kiwanis nine is proceeding under direction of Homer Sanderford, the club's flinging ace.

Acceptance of the challenge is a foregone conclusion so the local market for liniment and nostrums is due for a boom.

DISTRICT BILL TO HIGH COURT

Civil Appeals Acts Today

Another stage in the restricting litigation brought on behalf of the chamber of commerce of Wichita Falls and of West Texas brought to determine whether West Texas was to have an equitable representation in the Texas senate this year, or will have to wait two years longer, will be passed today.

The matter will be submitted to the court of civil appeals sitting at Fort Worth today, and it is confidently expected that it will be certified without decision and delay to the state supreme court and be before the court of last resort for a decision by the end of the week.

The litigation is styled J. D. Parnell vs. P. B. Cox. Parnell who has allowed his name to be used as an accommodation to the two organizations, is seeking mandamus against Cox, as county chairman, to have his name certified on the ticket as a candidate for the state senatorial race of the new districts. The legislature, in adopting the red stricting act, provided that the new senatorial districts should not be effective until 1924. This provision is attacked as unconstitutional.

Confidence that the case would be immediately certified was expressed by Judge R. E. Huff, representative of the two chambers of commerce, Tuesday afternoon. Judge Huff, who with Judge John C. Kay prepared the petition in the litigation, expects to go to Austin in the interest of the matter if the case is certified promptly.

In certifying the case to the supreme court without decision, the court of civil appeals would in effect be doing the same as did Judge P. A. Marion, the trial judge, who overruled the action declaring that it was the province of the higher courts to pass on constitutional questions.

ELECTRA WILL SUPPORT FAIR

County Lines Up Strong For Show

Active support from Electra can be looked for to the two-state fair being organized there, members of the Electra chamber of commerce told Wichita Falls representatives of the fair organization committee who attended a meeting there Tuesday noon.

E. M. Friend, president of the Electra chamber of commerce, and B. B. Johnson, secretary, have undertaken the formation of a fair commitee which will begin work there right away. E. S. Goodner, Hubert Harrison and Bert Bean explained the fair proposition at Electra, and were much gratified at the hearty response.

With the visit to Electra, and their promise of support, and similar responses on the part of Burkburnett and Iowa Park, Wichita county communities are lined up 100 per cent for the building of the interstate fair here.

Other communities in this section are to be visited at once. George Keith and Hubert Harrison will explain the fair move in Archer City today. Workers continued the local campaign Tuesday, and considerable progress is reported toward the last $35,000 of the capital stock. At the last report $85,000 had been obtained, and $120,000 was estimated as requisite for organization.

Organization is scheduled for Friday night of this week.

STOREY WELL KNOWN THRU WILBARGER

Cecil Storey, candidate for flotorial representative from the 111th district, from Wilbarger county, has been a lawyer in the county for 13 years.

Mr. Storey, who is said to be a popular candidate, is the only man in the race from Wilbarger county.

It was recently inadvertantly reported that Mr. Storey was editor of the Vernon Times. Mr. Storey has had no newspaper experience, it is said.

250 WITNESSES ARE CALLED IN CASE

By the time the grand jury of the 30th district court is empaneled and sworn in Monday morning, 250 witnesses who are to appear before it will have been subpoenaed to the Wichita county courthouse.

Sam Holliday, assistant district attorney, busied himself practically all of Tuesday issuing subpoenas for the 250 witnesses.

The number of witnesses to be summoned, according to the assistant district attorney, is large because of the state court of criminal appeals recent ruling throwing out 97 indictments of the December grand jury.

Five women are included in the membership of the municipal council of Amsterdam.

SMART LEADS STILL CHASE

75 Gallon Affair Captured

To the work of Bob Smart, officer on the city police force, goes the credit of having captured a 75-gallon whisky still Tuesday afternoon, as a result of which two men were arrested.

The whisky still, 360 gallons of mash that the officers found in seven barrels, several quarts of whisky and an automobile buss that contained empty barrels and tools were captured in the raid on a farm six miles from Wichita Falls, near Dean.

Officers Bob Smart, W. P. Belcher, Tom Shook and United States Marshal Charles Dodgen participated in the raid, arresting two men who gave the names of W. L. Taylor and J. J. Davis, who are being held by the federal authorities in connection with the finding of the still.

FATHER HAS RIGHT TO CORRECT CHILD

The right of a father to correct his child was upheld by Judge Guy Rogers in the county court at law Tuesday.

The father had been haled into court on charges of aggravated assault in connection with having whipped his daughter. On the witness stand he testified that he had whipped the child because she had disobeyed her parent's wishes.

Judge Rogers dismissed the case.

Seymour Road Raided of Still

Following a raid on a residence on the Seymour road Monday night, Officers Charlie Bebout and Tom Shook, headed by Federal Officer Archie Tyler returned to Wichita Falls at 11 o'clock with R. M. Peacock and Joe Yowell under arrest.

Peacock was charged Tuesday afternoon with operating a whisky still, while Yowell was released and ordered to appear as a witness in the case.

The officers said they found the still in operation in Peacock's residence. It was destroyed together with 200 gallons of mash. A small quantity of whisky was brought back to the city.

The still, the officers said, was of 50-gallons capacity.

SINGING AND DANCING AT UNIVERSITY CLUB

Vocal solos rendered by Mrs. John King, toe dancing by Miss Leslie Davis and readings by Master Robert Collier featured the entertainment of the University club Tuesday.

The club assembled in the parish house of the Episcopal church, and were served by the ladies' guild of the church.

President Norris Ewing stated that the nomination of officers for the ensuing term will be made at the next regular meeting, which will be held in the Y. W. C. A. club rooms.
