Kurds clash with Iraqis

■ At least 30 Kurds were killed in the first major fight since the withdrawal on Monday of allied troops.

Associated Press

SHAQLAWA, Iraq — Kurds protesting Iraqi rule fought government soldiers in the first major clashes since the withdrawal of allied forces sent in to protect the Kurds, witnesses said Friday.

The Kurdish sources said Iraqi secret police and soldiers had attacked first. Casualty figures varied, but at least 30 Kurds were killed in the Iraqi-controlled cities of Erbil and Suleimaniyeh, Kurdish officials said.

Neither city was in the security zone established by allied troops, but U.S. officials said Baghdad had been warned before the allied pullout of a possible military response if it did not "keep the peace" throughout Iraq.

The official Iraqi News Agency quoted Information Minister Hamid Yousef Hammadi as saying the situation in Suleimaniyeh and Erbil had normalized.

Hammadi blamed "Iranian infiltrators."

"Some of them were captured and they had lots of money to distribute to their agents," he said.

After a failed rebellion in March, more than 450,000 Kurds fled Saddam's advancing forces for Turkey, and thousands died of cold and starvation on the trek and in refugee camps. About 1.5 million others fled east to Iran.

The last allied troops left northern Iraq on Monday,

Rape suspect

Midland police are on the lookout for a suspect in an early Friday morning sexual assault. A 30-year-old woman awoke to find a man with a knife and a flashlight in the bedroom of her northwest Midland apartment about 3 a.m. Friday. He assaulted her and left. The suspect in the case is a white male, 5 feet 10 inches, 160 pounds with black hair, police reports said.

Proposal staged

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Mike Davis donned a doublet, cape, tights and plumed hat, enlisted a trumpet flourish and got down on his knees to propose marriage to a surprised Penny Utley. The proposal took place in front of the cast and crew of "Othello" during a rehearsal Wednesday night. Davis, 23, master carpenter and technician for Shakespeare in the Park, and Utley, an actress and a manager for Sacramento Service and Development Corp., met about two years ago.

Torme patriotic

SAN FRANCISCO — Jazz singer Mel Torme says he normally steers clear of patriotic songs but made an exception with "Freedom Is," a stirring new composition by Marvin Hamlisch and Marilyn and Alan Bergman. Torme, 66, introduced the song Thursday at the opening night of the San Francisco Pops. "It's not that I'm not patriotic, but when you start singing anything other than the ('Star-Spangled) Banner,' it can come off as a guy trying to capitalize on patriotism," Torme said. But "Freedom Is" really "knocked me out," Torme said.

Capacity crowd cheers Valenzeula

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

Fernandomania reached a fever pitch when the famed left-hander took the mound at Angels Stadium Friday night.

Introduced simply as "tonight's starting pitcher," Fernando Valenzuela jogged onto the field as a capacity crowd cheered.

"It's the largest crowd we've seen this decade," said Monty Hoppel, Midland Angel general manager. "The last time there was a record crowd was when the Brewers played the Cubs."

The stadium boasted a sold-out crowd with about 6,000 fans seated in the stands, additional bleachers, picnic area and even on the ground behind foul lines.

"We have additional security, restrooms and concession stands," Hoppel said. "We stepped up operations in every area for this."

Stadium workers bustled about everywhere. Parking attendants greeted baseball fans as early as 3:30 p.m.

Although gates didn't open until 5 p.m., die-hard Valenzuela fans began arriving at the gates 90 minutes earlier and hundreds of fans were crowded into several lines by the time the gates swung wide.

East Coast sizzles in heat wave

■ Temperatures in the eastern part of the nation reach the 100-degree mark.

Associated Press

Air conditioners strained and people sweated Friday as a heat wave sizzled from the Plains to the East Coast with steamy humidity and temperatures near 100.

"It's pretty rotten out there," said Walt Drag of the National Weather Service in Boston. "Everyone's going to be uncomfortable and it's not going to go away."

"It's unbearable and I'm moving to Alaska," said hot dog vendor Tracey Fehrenbach in downtown Hartford, Conn., where a 100-degree reading broke the old record for the date of 99, set in 1977.

Some states issued health alerts as the heat and humidity combined with high ozone levels.

Record highs Friday included 103.5 at Danbury, Conn.; 97 at Williamsport, Pa.; 96 at South Bend, Ind.; and 95 at Worcester, Mass.

Even Caribou, Maine, better known as a sub-zero cold spot in the winter, hit a record 91.

A cold front and thunderstorms brought a little relief to the Dakotas and parts of Nebraska; Yankton, S.D., had a high Thursday of 100 and Sioux Falls, S.D., topped out at 99 but their temperatures fell by 20 degrees in just two hours late Thursday.

Across New York state, air conditioners boosted demand for electricity Thursday to a record 26,051 megawatts. On Friday, at noon the record jumped to

Smith gives DOD 2nd wasteful spending award

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

The U.S. Department of Defense made quick work of the Iraqi military, but how it will fare against U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith's uncoveted "Spendthrift Award" will soon be seen.

Smith, R-San Antonio, held a news conference Friday at Midland International Airport to announce the second recipient of his award for wasteful spending.

He said the defense department has failed to collect reparations from moving companies that damage or lose household items of military and civilian personnel.

Midland County Commissioner Guy McCrary ponders Sheriff Gary Painter's 1991-92 budget requests.

Commissioners reject Painter's budget request

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

The sheriff fired away a $5.25 million "wish list" in the Midland County Commissioners' Court's budget study on Friday.

The sheriff and his forces were pushed back on their initial assault.

But, with the chivalry of an old soldier, he retreated. The commissioners had rejected his 1991-92 budget request.

"Your first one (budget request) is always your wish list," said Sheriff Gary Painter, who will return next week to the Commissioners' Courtroom with his staff of officers after he has done "some cutting on our own."

"I think that's very appropriate," agreed Commissioner Guy McCrary.

The sheriff, whose jail and law-enforcement requests are the largest budgets in county government, is responsible for about one-fifth of the county's proposed $21-million "study budget" for the 1992 fiscal year which begins on Oct. 1.

The county's 1990-91 budget of $18.7 million is funded by an 18-cent property tax rate, which brings in about a third of the county's revenue. Other sources — which county officials hope will increase — include fines, fees, sales tax and service charges.

MISD to get $77,000 in alleged milk price-fixing case

AUSTIN (AP) — Midland Independent School District Food Services are slated to receive $77,000 in damages as the district's share in a settlement in an alleged milk price-fixing scam.

The Texas Education Agency is expected to award the damages to MISD in August. Ector County Independent School District should receive $91,000 and Greenwood, $4,300.

Seven dairies have agreed to pay $14.9 million to settle a lawsuit charging them with illegally conspiring to fix the price of milk sold to Texas school children, Attorney General Dan Morales said Thursday.

The alleged bid-rigging has been going on across the state for at least 50 years, Morales said. But the damages paid to school districts only cover the last four years, which is as long as antitrust statutes allow, he said.

"We discovered that these artificially inflated prices have been a way of life dating back at least to 1940, and that certain companies were practicing what is known in antitrust law as territorial allocation: literally divvying up school milk contracts across the length and breadth of Texas," Morales said.

Some $12.9 million will be paid in damages to 1,026 independent school districts, Morales said. The rest of the money will be paid to the state in fines and investigative costs, he said.

Officials say the price of milk for the state's school children should drop as a result of the legal action.

The lawsuit was filed Wednesday in U.S. district court in Tyler, which Morales said had been a focal

DEATHS

Walter Beal

ODESSA — Services for Walter Beal, 64, are set for 10 a.m. today, July 27, at the Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home with the Rev. Henry O. Freund officiating.

Beal died Wednesday at a local hospital.

He was born March 18, 1927, in Sanford, Fla. He was a graduate of Fork Union Military Academy, Fork Union, Va.

He married Helen Boren Dec. 21, 1950, in Denton.

Beal moved to Odessa in 1947.

He started Beal Equipment in 1953 and also owned Crall Products in Pampa.

He was a longtime member of Odessa Country Club. He was a member of St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include: his wife, Helen Beal of Odessa; three sons, Dr. Sam W. Beal of Mountain View, Calif., and David P. Beal and Steven L. Beal, both of Denver, Colo.; his mother, Lourine Messenger of Sanford, Fla.; and one grandchild.

Memorials should be directed to Hospice of the Southwest, the Presbyterian Children's Home in Itasca or a charity of choice.

Sam Kalill

Funeral Mass for Sam Kalill, 50, will be celebrated at 11 a.m. today at St. Stephens Catholic Church with the Rev. Robert Kelly officiating. Services are under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Kalill was born Oct. 5, 1940, in Cambridge, Ohio, where he grew up and attended school. He served four years in the U.S. Marine Corps.

He received his bachelor's degree from Stephenville College, in Stephenville, Ohio and his master's from St. Edwards Univesity in Austin.

He moved to Midland in 1969 and worked at the Mental Health Center until 1973, when he opened a private counseling practice.

He was a member of St. Stephens Catholic Church.

Survivors include: his fiance, Ruth Sutton of Midland; one brother, Charles, Kalill of Manchester, Ga.; three sisters, Rosemary Christie of Cambridge, Ohio, Patricia Fedorke of Wheeling, W.Va., and Selma Durham of Columbus, Ind.; and several nieces and nephews.

BUDGET: Commissioners reject Painter's '91-92 request

(From 1A)

sents a half-million-dollar increase over last year's combined budget for the jail and sheriff's department.

That increase would "require an 8 percent tax increase," McCrary said. "And that's just one department."

Midland County revenue funds about 30 departments.

"I, for one, cannot support a tax increase for the county, much less for your department," McCrary told the sheriff.

"The entire picture looks pretty dismal now," mused Commissioner Durward Wright, who has been through more than 20 budget studies in his years on the court. "How are we going to make it work?"

"I don't know," reflected Painter, who said he would revise his requests.

But, since "the majority of costs on any budget is salary," the sheriff said that he, in trimming his budgetary requests, may have to cut down on patrol officers and divert other officers to the jail to maintain state-mandated jail standards.

"Instead of putting (more) people on patrol ... to protect" the 16,000 citizens who live outside the city of Midland, the sheriff said manpower may have to be diverted to the jail.

A recent analysis of jail operations "has shown that we need extra people," Painter said. "And I don't know how we can do that and cut costs on the law-enforcement side except by taking people off the street ... reducing the protection to the people in the county."

But the sheriff, like other department heads, will be trimming back from their initial budget requests, which are about $2.5 million above the current $18.7-million budget.

To accept the $21-million in budgetary requests without a cutback, "We would be looking at a 40 percent tax increase," McCrary said.

"We can't do that," he said. "This is the wrong time for a tax increase for the community."

The sheriff, assisted by Chief Deputy Jim Chancellor and division captains Richard Sexton, Clayton McKinney, and Tim Rogers, operates a 157-person department.

Of those employees, 98 are assigned to the county's two jails, and 59 are on the "law-enforcement side."

Salaries account for $1.62 million of the sheriff's $2.29-million budgetary requests for law-enforcement and $2.4 million of the $2.96-million requests for jail operations, is for salaries.

On Friday, the Commissioners' Court queried the sheriff and Capt. Richard Sexton, who heads the sheriff's Detention Division.

Budgetary proposals, and cuts, ranged from clothing allowances and jail-food services to personnel and automobiles.

The sheriff proposed an increase in clothing allowances for 28 plain-clothes officers from $50 per month per person to $100, an increase of $16,800 a year.

"I like to get that (clothing allowance)," quipped County Judge Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer.

"So would I," said the sheriff.

Uniforms are supplied to uniformed deputies.

The judge asked why plain-clothed officers get the $50 allowance but no other county employees are so paid.

How can the county justify the clothing allowance for 28 people "when other people in the courthouse have to wear clothing and don't get paid for doing that?" Seltzer asked.

County Auditor Floyd Jarnagin figured that the allowance was a "fringe benefit."

But the judge and the commissioners primarily seemed concerned with jail costs.

The county is required to house Texas Department of Corrections prisoners due to penitentiary overcrowding, but the county is not being compensated for the prisoners.

Also, the county's two jails must conform to the Texas Commission on Jail Standards, which is costly in manpower and equipment.

Being forced to house TDC inmates, the county is losing on much federal-government revenue for lodging federal prisoners.

Of the two jails' 307-inmate count on Friday, 105 were in the fifth-floor courthouse jail, and 202 were in the new jail facility.

TDC inmates totaled 86, and federal prisoners, 46.

That mix concerned Commission Durward Wright, who noted that the county gets paid $40 per day for each federal inmate jailed here.

The county is "losing $1 million a year on the jail," he said.

"If we had no backup from the TDC, we would have 100 prisoners from the federal government right now in our jail at $40 a day," Wright said.

Midland County may file a lawsuit against the TDC seeking reimbursement for housing prisoners. The commissioners will consider the legal action at Monday's regular meeting. Other counties already have filed similar suits.

Meanwhile, Wright said that the Commissioners' Court has "hard choices" but "many options" in cutting the proposed budget.

"Whatever has to be done will be done in order to make it work," Wright said.

"The people out there don't want any more taxes," said Commissioner Louisa Valencia.

Seltzer, the county's administrative budget officer, noted he has "the responsibility" of ensuring that the county has a balanced budget.

"It's a matter of how we can — not if," said Seltzer, who is doing his first Midland County budget study.

"We've got to balance available revenues against the need for services against requests," Seltzer said. "That's not a real easy balancing process."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Cloudy conditions forecast

Staff Report

Today's forecast is partly cloudy with a less than 20 percent chance of afternoon showers and thunderstorms, winds south 10-20 mph, and a high in the mid-90s, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is predicted to be partly cloudy with a less than 20 percent chance of thunderstorms.

Sunday's forecast is partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of afternoon showers and a high in the mid 90s, the NWS said.

After an overnight low of 70 Friday's high was 98 compared to the record high for July 19 of 105, set in 1981. The record low for today's date is 62, set in 1988.

STATE

Texas remained hot Friday with little relief in sight for the weekend. However, some heavy downpours and a few light showers dampened the lower coast. Some patchy high clouds and widely scattered showers and thunderstorms rolled across western portions of the South Plains through the Permian Basin and Trans Pecos.

North Texas was cloudy, while South and West Texas were mostly sunny.

Winds were from the south at 10 to 15 mph. Wichita Falls had moderate gusts of more than 20 mph throughout the afternoon.

Temperatures peaked in the 90s. Wichita Falls was again a hotspot at 103 degrees.

Forecasters said it would continue to remain partly cloudy today and Sunday, with high temperatures in the 90s and overnight lows in the mid 70s. Afternoon thunderstorms were expected across much of the state.

NATION

Sizzling heat stretched from the Plains to the East Coast on Friday, with thunderstorms crackling over parts of the Northeast and dumping heavy rain on West Virginia.

Drizzle fell from overcast skies in Los Angeles as July continued to produce sweater weather in Southern California. The mercury lounged in the 60s in Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and San Diego at noon.

Blisering hot, humid weather brought misery east of the Rockies. Temperatures soared into the upper 90s as far north as Maine. Danbury, Conn., reached a record high of 103.5 degrees.

A weak but nearly stationary "Bermuda high" off the Atlantic Coast was responsible for the hot weather as its clockwise rotation pumped hot air northward.

Thunderstorms over eastern West Virginia during the morning and early afternoon drenched Randolph County. During the six hours up to 2 p.m. EDT, Elkins got nearly 2½ inches.

Thunderstorms crossed parts of New York state, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Showers and thunderstorms were widely scattered across Florida, the central Gulf Coast, the western Plains, from eastern Alabama through eastern Tennessee to West Virginia, and over eastern sections of the Carolinas.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

MILK: Students overpay for pints, Morales says point of the investigation.

Companies that settled are Borden, Inc.; Dean Foods Co., including Gandy's Dairies Inc. and Bell Dairy Products Inc.; Southland Corp.; Preston Dairy Inc.; and Schepps-Foremost Inc.

The companies did not admit guilt in agreeing to the settlement, said Holly Wiseman, deputy chief of the attorney general's antitrust division.

Plains Creamery Inc. and the Kroger Co. also are named in the lawsuit, but did not agree to settle. Morales said if no settlement is reached, the case will be pursued in court.

Paul Bernish, spokesman for Cincinnati-based Kroger, said he could not comment on the company's intentions.

Representatives of the Amarillo-based Plains Creamery did not immediately return a telephone call from The Associated Press.

Ms. Wiseman said the state's 3 million public school children, who drink an estimated 412 million half-pint servings of milk each school year, have been overcharged by as much as a nickel per milk serving.

Prices for the half-pint containers range from 11 cents to 20 cents each statewide, officials said.

Morales said he would not be surprised if allegations of further school price-fixing surface. Wednesday, Sysco Foods Services Inc. of Houston admitted it conspired to rig food bids on contracts with more than 20 southeast Texas school districts.

Said Ms. Wiseman: "It is a problem, it is definitely a problem."

Morales said the milk investigation was prompted by charges of similar practices in the Southeast, primarily Florida. Other dairies could be named as defendants as the probe continues, he said.

The bid-fixing agreements usually occurred between branch managers who collaborated on prices — sometimes through clandestine code words, Ms. Wiseman said.

"We had one witness who told us his competitor would call him up and leave a message that he was going to buy a brown Chevrolet for $1,400. That meant that he would bid chocolate milk at 14 cents," she said.

The damages are being awarded at the rate of 3 cents per meal served, the TEA said. The money will go to school cafeterias.

Morales said that districts receiving some of the largest amounts include Houston ISD, $700,000; Dallas ISD, $500,000; Austin ISD, $200,000 and Brownsville, $150,000.

SMITH: Congressman pegs DOD for wasteful spending

(From 1A)

Spendthrift Award, which Smith created in April. The first was awarded to federal travel supervisors for failing to control government travel, which he estimated has cost taxpayers $2 billion in the last 20 years.

In other congressional news, Smith announced the results of his multi-issue survey of all the households in the 21st Congressional District, which reaches from San Antonio to Midland. There were about 7,500 respondents to the unscientific poll, Smith said.

Asked the best way to control federal spending, 77.5 percent of the respondents chose cutting government overhead costs such as travel, office equipment and supplies.

Some 17.7 percent said cutting spending from existing benefits and services, while 4.8 percent preferred a new tax to fund new programs.

The strongest response was given to a question on whether qualified women and minorities should receive preference over equally qualified whites or men competing for jobs or college entrance. Only 6.8 percent said "yes."

About 83 percent of respondents strongly opposed repealing fines levied against employers caught hiring illegal aliens.

When asked to rank the 13 most important issues, 62.7 percent listed controlling health care costs as their No. 1 choice. Improving the economy, with a 45.3 percent rating, ranked second, while education, with a 42.1 percent rating, ranked third.

Smith said he was pleased with the number of respondents.

"I think the response is not only indicative of the 21st District ... but of Texas as a whole," Smith said. "These poll results show how Texans really feel. I thought it was gratifying to have such a huge response."

Smith was on a three-city tour of Texas on Friday before returning to Washington, D.C. He also visited San Antonio and San Angelo.

ANGELS: Crowd begins arriving at 3:30 p.m.

(From 1A)

Jose Zapata, the first person in line at the center gate said he arrived at about 3:30 p.m. "I came to see Fernando," he said.

Tom Landry and Paul Gaymon, — the first two fans in line at the stadium's west gate, said they arrived about 4:25 p.m.

"I come to Angels' games a lot," Landry said. "But I don't usually come here this early," he said, laughing. Landry's 5-year-old son Tom waited patiently at his father's feet for the gate to open.

The first 2,000 fans received Midland Angels' fanny packs. "All 2,000 were handed out by about 5:30," said one gate attendant.

Game attendees milled about concession stands loading up on cotton candy, pizza, french fries, grilled-to-order hamburgers, barbeque chicken sandwiches, and — of course — peanuts, the baseball game staple.

Gabe Hensley, 13, a Trinity School student said he was "a loyal Angels fan."

Chris Menefee, 14, also a Trinity student said he was seeing the former rookie of the year and Cy Young award winner pitching "in the flesh" for the first time.

"The Midland Angels and Fernando Valenzuela. I never thought I would see this," said Mark Hall, who described himself as a Midlander and a "die-hard Angels' fan."

"It's a big crowd, but I got some pizza and a drink pretty quickly," Hall said. "It's cloudy, so it's not too bright out. I've got a good seat. We've got a world-class pitcher out there. It's a great night for baseball in Midland."

The Midland Angels will be signing autographs from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. today El Chico restaurant. The Angels' mascot Juice the Moose will also attend.

The Angels will sign autographs at the cost of $1 per child. Dinner passes, prizes, hats, 100 general admission tickets to Angels' games, caps and t-shirts will be given away. Proceeds from the event will benefit the American Cancer Society.

OC drops in-district students' tuition to $12

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

Odessa College has dropped its tuition for in-district students to $12 from the recently announced $13.50 per hour rate.

OC trustees raised tuition from $9.50 to $13.50 per semester hour July 2 with the provision that the rate would drop to $12 per semester hour if legislators did not adopt the higher amount.

Phil Speegle, OC president, announced Thursday that even if a state-mandated minimum tuition increase is passed, it will not take effect until the 1992-93 school year.

"It's apparent to me that the Legislature is not going to push this for this fall," Speegle said. "I have been in Austin several times in the last few weeks and I don't think the Legislature is going to mandate anything right now."

With the new rate, a student residing in Ector County will pay $156 to take 13 semester hours at OC. Speegle also said that in-district tuition is "capped" at 13 semester hours, meaning that a student taking more than 13 semester hours still pays $156.

For Texas residents residing outside of Ector County, the per-semester-hour tuition rate is $17 or $221 for 13 hours. Tuition for out-of-district students also is capped at 13 hours.

Students from outside of the state will pay a flat $240 in tuition, regardless of the number of hours taken.

Midland College raised its per hour tuition fee from $10 to $15 Thursday.

"Midland College may be doing the right thing," Speegle said. "They (MC trustees) are guessing that the state is going to mandate a $20 tuition fee. Nobody really knows what is going to happen at the state level."

Early registration for OC's fall semester begins 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday. Classes begin Aug. 28.

EAST: Air conditioners work overtime to battle heat wave

(From 1A)

26,254 megawatts; by 1 p.m. that record toppled as demand climbed to 26,708 megawatts.

"We're experiencing instantaneous, hour-to-hour records," said Brian Gosling, a spokesman for the New York Power Pool, a group of seven electric utilities and the New York Power Authority.

Even an ice cream salesman had trouble peddling his wares as heat and humidity drove Bostonians indoors Friday.

"When it's hot like this, people don't come outside, even to get ice cream," said Jeffrey Steinberg, standing beneath an umbrella in Boston's financial district.

But in Portland, Maine, workers for Deering Ice Cream Corp. had no problem finding takers for free samples of two of their new flavors — vanilla amaretto and chocolate binge. The company dished out 12 gallons in 45 minutes during a noon outdoor concert.

Understandably, business was less than brisk at the "Best of Scotland" cashmere sweater shop on Boston's fashionable Newbury Street.

"Who wants to think about buying a two-ply cashmere sweater when it's 100 degrees outside?" asked shop owner Corey Wielgus. But a few people did come in to enjoy the air conditioning, he said.

Steinberg wasn't the only one who had to be out in the heat. Niel Barkowski, a surveyor, was working on a bridge in Chicago. But he had a water bottle handy.

"As long as you've got some cold water handy, you can get by," he said.

Being in the water was even better.

The heat wave was expected to boost weekend tourist traffic to the New Jersey shore by a third, said Blaire Learn of the Greater Atlantic City Convention & Visitors Bureau.

"It's just what the doctor ordered," Learn said.

"We're very crowded and very hot here," said Tom O'Donnell, a receptionist at Scarborough Beach State Park in southern Maine. He estimated there were 1,000 people at the beach by 1 p.m. and said cars were still coming in.

But then there was a New York Department of Transportation asphalt crew assigned to a job in Brooklyn.

"If you think it's hot, try working with 270-degree asphalt. You can fry an egg on it," said DOT Commissioner Lucius Riccio.

That egg cliche has been around for years, so radio state KFOR in Lincoln, Neb., tried something different — announcer Scott Young tried to bake a meat loaf on a sidewalk Thursday. The temperature hit 100 and the pavement measured 124 degrees.

"Welcome to the great meat-loaf meltdown," Young told his audience. "We're baking and shaking here; this baby is starting to heat up real well."

The meat loaf did not cook.

Air conditioning companies appreciate the heat, but don't like working in it. "You need the hot weather for business and you dread it because you're worn out by evening," said Joe Cyhanick, president of CCA Heating and Air Conditioning Inc. of Martinsburg, W.Va.

For some, the heat was dangerous.

Officials in Maine, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts issued warnings advising the elderly and people with heart or lung disease to stay indoors because of high ozone levels associated with the heat.

New York's ozone alert was the third in a row and meteorologists there warned that the heat would be around at least for five more days.

Health officials said the elderly and children were especially susceptible, but preschool teacher Susan Rabinowitz in New York City disagreed.

"You find a few kids who are a little more cranky than the others, a few get sleepy, but most of the complaining comes from the teachers," she said.

Philadelphia had ambulances on hand in case of heat-related health problems at the funeral of former Mayor Frank Rizzo.

And the air-conditioned New England Shelter for Homeless Veterans in Boston strained to cope with people coming in from the heat.

"We generally see 150 to 200 people a day, and now we're getting up to 250," said Ken Smith, the shelter's executive director.

TROOPS: Kurds, Iraqis battle in 2 cities

(From 1A)

and fighting broke out two days later.

The fighting in Erbil, capital of the Kurdish region in northern Iraq, began Wednesday when secret police fired at 1,000 demonstrators, said Saad Abdullah, a senior member of the Kurdistan Front, a group of eight Kurdish parties.

The demonstrators were protesting the anniversary of the ruling Baath Party's 1968 coup and were demanding food and jobs. Kurdish guerrillas came to the demonstrators' aid, and the secret police fired tear gas and then bullets when they didn't disperse, Abdullah said. Iraqi security forces later shelled the city.

At least 15 Kurds were killed and 51 injured, Abdullah said in Shaqlawa, 37 miles south of Erbil and the site of rebel headquarters. Other witnesses said as many as 50 Kurds were killed.

Travelers from Erbil to Baghdad said the city now appeared calm and was under Iraqi control. They said the local governor's office was burned down.

Kurdish guerrillas and government forces fought Thursday in Suleimaniyeh, the largest city in Iraqi Kurdistan with a population of 750,000. Soldiers fired on a car of guerrillas, killing two, said Dr. Mohammed Sabir, a senior Kurdish official in radio contact with the area. Guerrillas then destroyed six government tanks and captured 10 others, Sabir said. The rebels took up to 2,500 Iraqi prisoners.

In all, 15 Kurds were killed and more than 60 injured in Suleimaniyeh, Abdullah said. U.N. observers reported about 500 casualties but did not specify dead and injured.

It was not clear who controlled Suleimaniyeh Friday but the city was reported calm.

According to Abdullah, Kurdish guerrillas captured the towns of Naser, Arbed, Zeraian, Takia and New Halabja near Suleimaniyeh.

Kurdish officials had no estimate of Iraqi casualties.

"During the night till Thursday morning the army shelled the city and more than 50 people were killed," said Sadi Pire, a witness who came to rebel headquarters in Shaqlawa.

Sculpture new tool to help solve murders

The State

■ Police hope someone will be able to identify the female victim on basis of a clay model.

Associated Press

AMARILLO — A forensic artist has sculpted the head of an unidentified murder victim with hopes that someone will come forth with clues to her death.

The victim, whose body was found behind a manufacturing plant near Amarillo last July, has been nicknamed "Jane Doe 1990" by police investigators.

Medical experts say she was probably a white female of Hispanic decent, between 21 and 29 years old with light brown hair.

Medical officials speculate the body had been behind the plant for nearly two months. Animals had dragged some of the bones several feet away from the building.

But a relatively new investigative procedure has given Jane Doe 1990 a face.

"This is the very first sculpture that we have ever had done here," said Lt. E.W. Smith, director of the Special Crimes Unit for the Amarillo Police Department.

"Normally we find our victims before the stage that only the skeleton remains. But departments who have used it have had some success, so we are hoping for the same."

The victim's body was examined by Dr. Harold Gill-King, a forensic anthropologist at the University of North Texas. Gill-King determined she was murdered.

But without a name or a face, investigators didn't know where to begin.

"The sculpture gives us a place to start," Smith said. "We know she didn't look exactly like the clay model, but maybe there is enough recognition there that someone may remember something."

Smith said the department has already received six calls from people who claimed to recognize the likeness.

"We are checking on those calls as we speak," Smith said Friday afternoon.

Police have not released the woman's cause of death.

"If someone calls saying 'I shot her,' or 'I stabbed her,' we can tell if this person is telling the truth," Smith said.

After Gill-King determined the cause of death and reconstructed the victim's body, Cheryl Palmer of the Dallas Police Department began the facial reconstruction, which was completed July 15.

Smith said the facial reconstruction is not widely used.

Texans help Soviet family obtain 'Kremlin meat'

■ When a Moscow girl wrote a letter to Texas Highways about being hungry, readers and the magazine's staff sent a meaty reply.

By Karen Potter
N.Y. Times News Service

AUSTIN — Katya Chirova, the 11-year-old Soviet girl who wrote to Texas Highways magazine about the hunger that kept her from dancing, is finally feasting.

She and her family in Moscow have been deluged with letters, visitors and a shipment of what her mother called "Kremlin meat."

"It's a pity instead of thinking about beautiful things, books or traveling, we must speak about food," Katya's mother, Helen, wrote in a letter to Rosemary Williams, editor of the Texas travel and history magazine, which is published by the state highway department.

Katya's mother also telephoned Williams on Tuesday. Her words spilled out in halting English, and she sounded as if she she was reading from something she had written down, Williams said.

But the message was not difficult to understand, Williams said: "I haven't enough words to express my feelings for you and everybody who do care for Katya."

Kate, as her Texas friends know her, did not talk on the phone. She had gone to visit her grandmother when the transoceanic call was placed, days after the family first filed a formal application to phone Texas.

"Her mother said she was waiting by the phone for many days, waiting for the call to be placed," Williams said.

The phone call and the letter from the girl's mother served as confirmation that at least one shipment of scarce meat, one sent by the staff of Texas Highways, arrived at the Moscow apartment.

Kate wrote a letter this year to the magazine in which she said she had come upon a copy of Texas Highways in a package that originally probably also contained food but apparently had been stolen by postal officials, she wrote.

She said that she dreamed of being a dancer but that lack of nutrition was sapping her strength.

Her letter, published in Texas Highways, touched off a flurry of activity.

The meat shipment came from a supplier of the diplomatic community in Moscow. It was bought through a Soviet immigrant couple in New York state located by officials of the "Soviet Space" exhibit in Fort Worth who had been contacted by the magazine staff. The meat was of higher quality than what the family can buy — if they even find it — at markets on the street.

"I called it 'Kremlin meat,' " Helen Chirova wrote. "Katya and my elder son Alyosha called it white and red meat. We got three big pieces of Kremlin meat, two nice sausages and we had a whole feast."

More than that, Kate, her brother and her parents have made friends with lots of Texans who have written, friends who have restored their hope.

"You know," Kate wrote to one correspondent in June. "Earlier, I dreamt to be a dancer, to see the ocean, sea or big lake, to eat bananas all the year and now, don't laugh please, I want to be a Hospitable TEXAN."

An Austin youth group touring the Soviet Union paid a visit to the Chirovas in Moscow recently and found them even though they didn't have a phone number for the family at the time. Williams said the group reported that the family was very handsome and intellectual.

Letters from Kate and her mother reveal that despite hard work by both parents, life had become hard — even desperate — before the correspondence brightened their lives.

"You give us a hope of even a new life," Helen Chirova wrote. "We were a middle, not very well-to-do family. My husband worked (and works) hard, but we can't allow ourselves many necessary things and products. I really had to stay at my job to help my family with food. But I am proud of my family's honesty and industry."

The family has received many copies of the magazine, with its pictures of scenic Lone Star State locales. In return, Kate has written of the family's love of people and pets, including a spotted dog named Filia she drew on one letter.

Budget-writers back $394 million prison bill

AUSTIN (AP) — House budget-writers Friday rejected a $1.1 billion Senate plan to build prisons for 30,000 more inmates, instead backing a $394 million proposal for 11,300 new prison beds.

Both plans would be financed through sale of state bonds, and both are proposed constitutional amendments that would require voter approval if passed by the Legislature.

Current prison capacity, including lockups under construction, is about 65,000.

Besides prison construction, the House plan includes a proposal to make numerous nonviolent felonies punishable by community service rather than hard time.

As many as 3,000 to 4,000 state inmates now are imprisoned for crimes that instead would call for community service under the plan, said Rep. Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford.

An earlier version of his proposal would have applied the community service sentence to more felonies, but committee members removed burglary and certain drug offenses from being eligible for such service.

The House bond package would total $440 million, which includes money to build six regional detention facilities for offenders who refuse to perform the required community service.

Williamson said the plan also would provide money to counties that divert convicts from state prisons into other corrections programs.

"We want to put our money into counties taking care of those people, except for the bad, bad guys," said Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. "We're tired of the same old way of doing business."

Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, unsuccessfully pushed for 30,000 more prison beds, then 15,000 more. He said under the current system, long sentences have little meaning because criminals are released so quickly from the overcrowded prison system.

"That doesn't work. It doesn't deter crime. It doesn't keep dangerous people off the streets, and it doesn't give us an opportunity ... to salvage those people who are salvageable," Colbert said.

"I'm tired of having my constituents being the ones behind bars, not because they're in prison, but because the bars are on their own homes," he said.

But other House members said the state cannot afford to operate as many prisons as the Senate wants.

Rep. Robert Junell, D-San Angelo, said he feared the Senate proposal would guarantee "some extreme tax measure," such as a personal income tax.

The vote was 19-1 for the House plan. Only Rep. Paul Hilbert, R-Spring, voted against the measure. He said it's too little money for prison construction.

Hilbert also objected to a provision barring counties that don't settle lawsuits against the state from getting funds for diversion programs. "I just think that's patently unfair," he said.

But Rudd said, "If they can't work with us, then they'll have to work alone."

A number of counties sued the state because their jails are forced to hold inmates sentenced to overcrowded prisons. An effort to settle failed in the recent regular session when Harris County and the state could not reach accord, although 12 others had agreed.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said he was unsure whether the prison bond proposal would win the necessary two-thirds vote in the 150-member House.

One alternative that has been discussed if the bonds fail is a temporary sales tax dedicated to prison construction, he said.

Lawmaker: MIA records should be declassified

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas Congressman who spent seven years as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam said Friday that keeping files secret on soldiers missing in action does nothing more than torture their families.

"I just can't understand why the records are still classified after so many years," Sam Johnson said in a prepared statement. "The families of these men deserve to know the details about live sighting reports."

The Dallas Republican is urging the Senate to pass an amendment to the Intelligence Authorization bill, which would declassify MIA files without revealing information sources.

The amendment has already passed the House, said Johnson's press secretary, Ray Sullivan.

The call to open the files comes in the midst of a controversy over a photograph released this week showing three men holding a sign with numbers that could signify the date May 25, 1990.

"Frankly I'm a bit skeptical about the photo," Johnson said. "But the most atrocious part of these disclosures is that they keep bumping the hopes of the families up and down."

Johnson met Thursday with Defense Intelligence Agency officials for a classified briefing about MIAs. As a result of that meeting, Johnson is even more convinced that the existence today of POWs is "highly unlikely," Sullivan said.

However, the congressman cannot comment specifically about what was discussed at the briefing, Sullivan said.

Johnson, a former Air Force fighter pilot, was shot down over North Vietnam in 1966 and taken captive. He served nearly seven years in several North Vietnam prison camps.

"He was inclined to release the records before meeting with them (defense officials)," Sullivan said. "He became much more adamant after the meeting. He feels the information, if released, would not harm national security."

Senate approves bill to consolidate agencies

■ State's environmental agencies would merge and would be controlled by governor.

Associated Press

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate on Friday approved legislation to consolidate several environmental agencies and give Gov. Ann Richards direct control over the new department in the first test of a bid to form a cabinet-style government.

The Senate's 27-0 vote also represented adoption of the first major government reorganization proposal since lawmakers began a special legislative session to write a state budget.

"We have set on track an agency that will lead to more efficient and better protection of the environment," Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said of his bill.

But the plan was expected to get a rough welcome in the House, where a similar measure died during the regular session that ended May 27.

The Senate bill would create a Texas Department of the Environment in 1993. It would encompass all the functions currently performed by the Texas Water Commission, Texas Air Control Board and the Water Well Drillers Board, plus environmental regulation handled by other agencies.

And in a departure from the state's weak-governor form of government, the bill would give the governor power to appoint the executive director of the new agency. The Senate would reject or confirm the appointment.

Most major agencies now are supervised by independent boards that hire the executive director.

Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, opposed giving the governor that hiring duty. "I have concerns whether or not it will be healthy for the executive director to become a political post," he said.

But Parker said that the provision will make the governor more accountable to the voters when something goes wrong, or right.

"Right now, Harry Truman's old adage that 'the buck stops here' does not apply to anything in state government." Under the proposal, he said, "We will know where the buck stops."

Gov. Ann Richards, who has pushed for the hiring and firing power, was on the floor of the Senate during some of the debate but left before Brown's amendment was defeated, 24-4.

After the bill was approved, Richards hailed it as an "overwhelming vote of confidence in the structure and purpose of the agency" and called its passage "a good start on the package of bills that we are attempting to pass during this special session."

Another debate erupted when Sen. Peggy Rosson, D-El Paso, tried to amend the bill to add a surcharge to generators of nuclear waste to help pay for the site of a proposed low-level radioactive waste dump in Hudspeth County.

But Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said Rosson's proposal would jeopardize negotiations between Texas and other states that are trying to put together a pact to handle the waste.

"It is folly and fallacious to put this amendment on," he said.

Brooks' motion to kill Rosson's amendment failed, 14-13, but Rosson later withdrew the proposal after several senators convinced her to try to place the measure in the appropriations bill.

Despite unanimous Senate approval for the total bill, Parker predicted, "The fight isn't over."

A proposed House bill would give the new agency's board — not the governor — the power to appoint the executive director. Some House members also are intent on keeping pesticide regulation within the Texas Department of Agriculture.

But Parker said the current pesticide board should be moved over to the new department because Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry laid off a number of people who specialized in pesticide protection.

"I've lost confidence in the management of that agency," Parker said.

San Antonio businessman's generosity repaid in kind

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — For years, Mexican-food magnate Raul Jimenez Sr. sponsored free Thanksgiving meals for the elderly and homeless.

This time, it was his turn to get a helping hand.

About 120 friends of the bankrupt businessman gathered at a breakfast Thursday to raise money for his struggling new sausage business, Raul's Mexican Foods Inc.

Archbishop Patrick Flores and the Rev. Virgilio Elizondo, rector of San Fernando Cathedral, urged others to help Jimenez get his business going by donating money. Jimenez needs $30,000 and is unable to borrow it, they said.

"He has been a helping hand to many of us," Flores said. "That helping hand stands in need now ... He did not ask us to do this; he didn't want us to do it."

Those attending the breakfast left envelopes containing donations.

Jimenez, 59, was once a migrant worker. He began his first sausage operation more than 40 years ago and turned it into a $30 million-a-year Mexican food business before it went bankrupt during the economic downturn of the late 1980s.

In December 1990, Jimenez and his wife, Mary, declared personal bankruptcy.

Former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros, who attended the fundraiser, said Jimenez never lost his compassion for the needy while making himself known as San Antonio's king of Mexican food makers.

"When he was on top, he shared," Cisneros said.

Day in court

HOUSTON (AP) — George Foreman will get his day in court to prove his claim that he had a contract to fight heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield.

State District Judge Richard Millard set a July 29 trial date in the case, but he refused to grant a temporary restraining order that would have stopped the Nov. 8 bout between Holyfield and Mike Tyson.

Millard said Thursday he would prefer that a jury decide whether a contract existed between the two boxers.

Coltart slips

Staff Report

Former Midland College standout Andrew Coltart shot a round of 80 Friday in the second day of action at the British Open and missed the cut.

Coltart, a junior college All-America and the top-ranked JC player in the country, had a two-day total 153, 13-strokes over par. Players at 148 qualified for the final two days of the tourney.

Fernando trips Caps

Huge crowd treated to steady performance by famous lefty

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

As the California Angels are leaving few stones unturned in a desperate search for a fifth starter, Fernando Valenzuela began his quest to take that role with an effective Class AA start for Midland Friday night at Angels Stadium.

And while the Shreveport Captain hitters were not exactly awed by Valenzuela, they were sufficiently impressed as the former Los Angeles pitcher allowed one run and three hits in five innings, picking up the decision in a 12-4 Midland win over the Captains.

"I was throwing the first pitch over the plate, and that's good for me because I can use the screwball or curveball when I'm ahead of the hitters," said Valenzuela (3-0), whose presence attracted 5,788 fans, a stadium record crowd for a Texas League game.

"He really didn't give us too much to hit. He's a smart pitcher who has been in the big leagues for years. He got us to hit ground balls and into double plays," said Shreveport right fielder Steve Hosey, who scored the only run against Valenzuela with an "excuse me" solo home run in the second inning.

Hosey's shot, the first of two for him Friday, sailed high into left field, where the wind carried it out at about the 335-foot mark. Valenzuela, though, was philosophical about the homer.

"Everything hit in the air here goes outside the park. I've watched two games here and have seen it," he said.

After the homer, Valenzuela retired eight straight Captain batters before issuing his first walk of the game to Hosey, the first batter in the fifth inning. Valenzuela did finish the inning after surviving a pair of groundouts, a base hit by Adell Davenport and a flyout by Jamie Cooper.

He finished with the one walk and two strikeouts, but also threw a wild pitch with Dan Lewis at the plate in the first.

"It was a curveball that just didn't break, but he threw me a good one in my second time up. I felt like I missed three pitches I could have taken out of the yard, but he pitched a good game. He threw strikes when he had to," said Lewis.

While Valenzuela began his 30-day minor league assignment by holding the Texas League's hottest team in check, the Angel offense was ever-present after a scoreless first inning.

Midland shortstop Damion Easley was shy a triple of hitting for the cycle, going 3-for-4 with six RBI, one more than his previous single-game RBI high.

"It helps having the big crowd. It pumps you up," said Easley, who has seen his batting average drop to .238 in the past few weeks. "Let's call it a rut. I feel I have been hitting the ball hard the last month and a half, but some would fall and some would not."

The ball fell plenty of times for Easley and the Angels Friday, though, as Midland cranked out 11 hits to score its dozen runs.

It started with a four-run second inning, as Tim Salmon drew a lead-off walk from Shreveport starter Kevin Rogers, who took the loss to go 1-4 for the season.

Fernando Valenzuela, working under a strict 60-pitch limit, entertained a huge Angels Stadium crowd during his five-inning stint Friday.

TERRY WILLIAMSON

Valenzuela anything but Texas Leaguer

The verdict is still out on whether Fernando Valenzuela can pitch effectively in the major leagues, but the Texas League East would just as soon see him take his act to any other league.

Williamson

Of course, the 30-year old lefty, is trying to get back to the California Angels after getting roughed up in two starts earlier this month. The Angels gave him walking papers and then came back to sign him for a 30-day minor league contract to prove his "stuff" once again.

He had the "right stuff" at Angels Stadium Friday against the Shreveport Captains, giving up only one run, a homer to Steve Hosey. The Caps got only three hits off of him. He struckout two and walked one as he begins his 30-day charge back to the Bigs.

Anyone who regularly attends games at Angels Stadium, understands, by Texas League standards, that Fernando was super. He just might be capable of pitching in the Texas League — forever. He could be the Nolan Ryan of the Texas League.

He has now pitched 18 innings in the Texas League this year with an 0.50 ERA against Jackson, Tulsa and Shreveport, all TL East teams. Hosey's second inning 335-yard, lollipop fly that just cleared the left field wall is the only strike against Valenzuela.

Valenzuela knew the ball was out when Hosey hit it. But, then again, he wasn't upset by the homer.

"I've watched two games in Midland and pitched here when I was with San Antonio in 1980, and I know when the ball gets in the air, it's out," Valenzuela said. "But I don't worry about that because he (Hosey) hit a good pitch.

"It was a screwball down and I think he hits it on the end of the bat, but got it up in the air. It was a good pitch."

No one seems to know just where Valenzuela belongs in baseball's mega-bucks scheme of things. But Friday's outings was once again proof that he doesn't belong in the Texas League. And that's exactly his feelings.

"That's the reason I'm here. I have a lot of confidence that I can still pitch in the big leagues," he said. "This game is fun for me at any level and I just try to do the best I can."

Fernando also understands that the Texas League isn't the big leagues.

"There is a lot of difference in hitters. Big leaguers are more smart. They're always looking for certain pitches that I have, but they have a lot of experience. I still think the Texas League is a strong league. The hitters are very aggressive and some of them are going to be in the big leagues someday."

Everywhere Fernando pitches in the Texas League, he is drawing record crowds. That didn't escape him.

"That's nice for people to come to the park and see a game like this and I want to do the best I can every time out."

When Fernando was on his climb to the Los Angeles Dodgers — the days before rookie of the year and Cy Young award honors — a crowd of less than 500 showed up to see him pitch when the stadium was then called Cubs Stadium.

Sometimes we forget what is really taking place at Angels Stadium. Tomorrow's stars are here today. We were reminded in vivid fashion of that Friday night.

SOUTHPORT, England — The wind off the Irish Sea has not been excessively punishing; the rough is thin, and the greens have a manageable speed. But Royal Birkdale asserted its subtle strength anyway Friday in the second round of the British Open.

Although the course allowed almost everyone in the field a survivable trip between its sand dune-bordered green corridors, no player has been able to dominate the 6,940-yard links over the first 36 holes.

Mid-City captures District 3 crown

By Bill Grimes
MRT Correspondent

Midland Mid-City completed a sweep of its third straight District 3 Little League championship with a 15-2 rout of Midland North Central Friday at Bluebird Park.

Mid-City advances to the sectional series next week against the San Angelo Southern-Pecos winner.

Mid-City all but assured its three-peat with four first-inning runs. Coach Joe Nobles' team added two runs in the second, seven in the third and two in the fourth to secure the rout.

The veteran quartet of Eric Eschberger, Kory Doan, Russell Dunlavy and Jason Rogers again led Mid-City. All four have played for coaches Nobles and Gaylon Doan in league competition since they were nine-year-olds, and each is in his second season of all-star competition. The four have helped their team to a 108-4 mark in league and tourney competition.

Experience showed Friday. Eschberger got ahead of nearly all the North Central hitters en route to a complete game five-hitter, while catcher Doan, third baseman Dunlavy and shortstop Rogers all contributed mightily at bat.

Doan's three-run homer over the center-field fence in the third inning all but sealed the win, Dunlavy was three-for-four with three runs scored and Rogers added a two-run shot in the fourth.

But Mid-City's success goes beyond statistics, say the players.

"We believe in each other," Dunlavy said.

Eschberger said Nobles and the elder Doan are the real keys.

"It's really the coaching, not us," the pitcher said. "If you don't have good coaching, you don't get anywhere.

"Instead of the coaches getting mad at us, they just tell us what we did."

Catcher Doan said the Mid-City stars get a boost from Nobles' disciplined style.

"Before games and practices, we don't mess around — at all," the catcher said.

Of course, Nobles and the elder Doan give the players — and their parents — the lion's share of the credit.

"These kids have made a real big commitment to play the game hard," Nobles said.

"We have the type of kid who plays his heart out and gives 100 percent," the elder Doan said.

FRIDAY'S GAME was over almost as soon as it began. Kory Doan and Dunlavy led off the bottom of the first with singles. Doan scored on a throwing error after Dunlavy's hit. Rogers then plated Dunlavy with a ground rule double and later scored on a passed ball.

Meanwhile, Eschberger was nearly unhittable in the early going, retiring nine of the first 10 batters he faced.

"Eric mixed his off-speed pitches and his fastball really well," Nobles said. "He was really bringing it in-and-out well."

North Central touched Eschberger for single runs in the fourth and sixth innings, but by then, it didn't matter.

Despite Friday's loss, North Central coach Chuck Cowell praised his club.

"I'm extremely proud of my team," Cowell said. "It shows extremely well for youth baseball in Midland to have two of its teams play for the district championship the last two years."

North Central earned its second straight district championship berth with a nine-inning win over Odessa Jim Parker on Thursday, after losing to Mid-City earlier this week to drop into losers' bracket.

"Any time you get into the losers' bracket, you're at a disadvantage," Cowell said. "But you can't take anything away from the Mid-City kids."

singled on a looper to right field, and Larry Gonzales laid down a sacrifice, then reached safely when Rogers mishandled the ball, allowing Salmon to score and Lawton to take third.

Easley then walked to load the bases for Bobby Jones, who also drew a base on balls to earn an RBI as Lawton scored. After Reggie Williams hit into a 1-2-3 double play that eliminated Gonzales, Kevin Flora brough Easley and Jones home on a base hit to left.

Midland earned solo runs in the third and fifth, as Easley batted in his first run on a fielder's choice and hit a run-scoring single to left field.

He then mashed Kevin Meier's first offering in the seventh for a two-run homer, and lined a double to the left-center gap that scored two more runs in the eighth.

ANGEL NOTES — Midland infielder Mark Howie saw his 15-game hitting streak come to a halt Friday, as he was 0-for-3 with two walks ... the win gave the Angels sole possession of first place in the Western Divison with a 14-13 record. San Antonio is ½-game off the pace at 13-13 after it's home game against Jackson was rained out and Tulsa took El Paso 7-2. In the other Texas League game, Wichita downed Arkansas 3-1.

Campell high on golf

HOUSTON (AP) — Since being hired by the University of Texas in 1987, former Longhorn football great Earl Campbell has made 10 minority recruitment trips but played in at least 30 golf outings with wealthy and influential alumni, a published report said Friday.

The golf trips cost the school's athletics department $9,131, the Houston Chronicle said. The university hired Campbell to help recruit and retain students, especially minority students and athletes.

Campbell, listed as a 30-hour-a-week employee, does not keep time slips or record how he spends his work hours. He doesn't have an office at the university or keep regular hours on campus but attends university-related events as requested by school officials.

"If you're a state auditor looking at it, you'd think, 'Gawd dog, that's not the way you want to do business,'" men's athletic director Deloss Dodds said. "But it's the way that really helps us do our business."

James Vick, Texas vice-president for student affairs, said Campbell's job has changed since he began working at the school.

"His job has evolved into a development type of position," said Vick, one of Campbell's bosses. "It seems to be the area that Earl enjoys most."

Campbell, the 1977 Heisman Trophy winner and an All-Pro running back with the Houston Oilers, will be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame July 27.

He splits his work as a special assistant between the school's Austin student affairs office and the Texas athletics department. His total student affairs time has been paid with at least $104,173 in taxpayer money. His athletics work has been paid with at least $59,233 from private donors, who also pick up his golf tab.

"It doesn't matter who pays me," Campbell said. "Take a poll (of the taxpayers) and ask them if they want to take their money back. If they don't think I deserve it, take it back. I'll give it back to them."

Shirley Bird Perry, the university's vice-president for development, said the school does not keep records on how much money an employee raises, so there is no way to determine how successful Campbell is at fund-raising.

Campbell's student affairs job will be transferred to the university's administration office in September, when the school begins its 1992 fiscal year. In the new position, Campbell's duties will involve mostly public relations and alumni work, plus youth outreach programs.

His athletics duties will continue to include sports counseling, but his new administrative position will more closely mirror that of former Longhorn football coach Darrell Royal, who now is a part-time special assistant to Texas president William Cunningham.

Lawrence smashes own 10-K walk mark at Olympic Festival

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Debbi Lawrence of Kenosha, Wis., smashed her American record in the 10-kilometer walk Friday to highlight a slow day of competition at the U.S. Olympic Festival.

Lawrence, 29, finished in 45 minutes, 28.4 seconds, breaking the record of 46:06.36 she set June 13 at The Athletics Congress meet. The victory marked her third straight festival gold medal in the event.

The seventh day of the nine-day festival was cool and overcast day in the Los Angeles area. Track and field, diving and women's gymnastics were the main events on the schedule.

Meanwhile, race walker Allen James of Mission Viejo, Calif., set a festival record and recorded the fastest time by an American this year in winning the 20-kilometer race.

James finished in 1:26.23.7, breaking the festival record of 1:28.19 set by Jim Heiring of Kenosha, Wis., and Ray Sharp of Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1982.

"I've been training at altitude in Colorado for a while and that's really helped," said James, runner-up in last year's festival.

"My main goal is to qualify for the next year's Olympics, which means I have to go 1:24 or better."

Killer Bs hand Reds 10th straight loss, 7-2

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates extended the Cincinnati Reds' losing streak to 10 games, getting a pair of homers and a run-scoring triple from Bobby Bonilla in a 7-2 victory on Friday night.

The Pirates, winning for the eighth time in nine games, rocked Reds starter Tom Browning for four runs in the first inning, including Barry Bonds' two-run homer and Bonilla's run-scoring triple. Bonilla later hit a solo homer in the fifth and a two-run shot in the seventh for the eighth two-homer game of his career.

Pittsburgh has turned the rematch of last year's NL playoffs against the defending world champion Reds into a romp, winning nine in a row over Cincinnati — their longest streak since they won 17 straight over the Reds in 1937.

Cincinnati hasn't won since the All-Star break — the Reds' last victory was July 5 in Houston — and their slide is their longest since a pair of 10-game streaks in 1989. Their last losing streak of more than 10 was an 11-game slide in 1966.

Astros 5, Cubs 2

HOUSTON — Ken Caminiti hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning to give Houston a victory over Chicago.

Pete Harnisch (6-7) pitched eight innings, allowing two runs and five hits while striking out eight for the victory. Jim Clancy got two outs in the ninth and Al Osuna finished for his seventh save.

Bob Scanlan (3-5) walked Craig Biggio and Jeff Bagwell to lead off the eighth before Chuck McElroy relieved. One out later, Caminiti hit his ninth home run.

Harnisch took a 2-0 lead into the eighth when Chicago tied the score.

Mets 6, Dodgers 2

NEW YORK — Kevin McReynolds' three-run homer off reliever Tim Crews highlighted a five-run eighth inning as New York rallied to beat Los Angeles.

Darryl Strawberry haunted his former teammates again when he hit his 10th homer of the season in the second inning off Sid Fernandez, who was making his first start of the season for the Mets. Fernandez broke his left arm in spring training when hit by a hard grounder.

Expos 6, Giants 0

MONTREAL — Oil Can Boyd pitched a five-hitter for his first complete game of the season as Montreal beat San Francisco.

The Expos have won seven of eight games against the Giants this year, including all four at Olympic Stadium.

Boyd (6-8) retired the first 14 batters en route to his first shutout since last Sept. 1 against Los Angeles. He struck out eight and walked one.

Ivan Calderon hit a run-scoring triple and scored on Tim Wallach's single as Montreal took a 2-0 lead in the first inning off Don Robinson (5-7).

Braves 8, Cardinals 3

ST. LOUIS — Charlie Leibrandt beat St. Louis for the second time in six days, and Lonnie Smith drove in two runs and scored twice.

Smith had a two-run double and Brian Hunter, Jeff Blauser Terry Pendleton and Ron Gant added run-scoring doubles as the Braves beat the Cardinals for the eighth straight time, including a four-game sweep last weekend in Atlanta.

The Braves, winning for the seventh time in eight games, pulled within three games of first-place Los Angeles in the National League West and ended St. Louis' three-game winning streak.

Phillies 4, Padres 1

SAN DIEGO — Dave Hollins hit his first career grand slam as Philadelphia beat San Diego.

Hollins, recalled on July 11, hit a 2-0 pitch over the center-field fence with two outs in the sixth inning after starter Dennis Rasmussen (3-6) walked two straight batters to load the bases. Hollins has three homers and nine RBIs since rejoining the Phillies.

Jose DeJesus (6-4) limited the Padres to a lead-off homer by Jerald Clark in the second in allowing four hits in 8 1-3 innings. DeJesus put runners on first and second with one out in the ninth, and was relieved by Mitch Williams.

Commissioner eyes shortage on the mound

Associated Press

MIAMI — When the National League expands in 1993, there won't be enough good pitchers for 28 teams, Commissioner Fay Vincent says.

The problem will be nothing new. There aren't enough good pitchers for 26 teams now, and there weren't enough for 16 teams in the 1940s, Vincent said.

"Do you remember the pitching staff of the St. Louis Browns?" Vincent said. "I can remember some pitchers in those days that people said really didn't belong in the big leagues."

Vincent made his comments during a visit to Miami, where he formally presented owner H. Wayne Huizenga with an expansion franchise.

The addition of Huizenga's Florida Marlins and Denver's Colorado Rockies in 1993 will dilute the baseball talent pool, which some contend is already too thin — especially in pitching. Some 29 pitchers with at least 30 innings this season have an ERA of more than 5.00; 12 of those pitchers have thrown more than 60 innings.

"We're never going to have enough pitching," Vincent said. "It's like having enough money; you never have enough. There will never be enough pitching for big league teams."

Vincent has heard critics who say many players on major league teams belong in the minors.

"I go around to minor league players, and a lot of those guys think they should be in the big leagues," Vincent said.

Fans concerned about there being enough good players to go around can take consolation that baseball's first expansion in 14 years likely will be the last one in this century.

"We are not, I think, likely to expand the rest of this decade," Vincent said. "There is not much interest in expanding after these two teams."

Regardless of whether the overall caliber of play is diminished by the addition of the Marlins and Rockies, the two teams likely will be baseball's worst. Eight expansion clubs since 1962 have compiled an average first-year record of 57-104.

"To build a winner in a franchise like this is going to take some time, no matter how intense the effort," Vincent said. But he predicted the Marlins and Rockies will be "pretty competitive" from the start.

The expansion teams should benefit from provisions for next year's expansion draft.

Stottlemyre fans eight as Rangers fall to Toronto

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Todd Stottlemyre pitched seven shutout innings and newcomer Cory Snyder drove in three runs as the red-hot Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Texas Rangers 7-2 Friday night.

Stottlemyre (10-3) allowed five hits, tied career-high with eight strikeouts and walked three to win for the first time since June 30 as the Blue Jays, who have won 14 of 17, maintained a seven-game lead over Detroit in the American League East.

Texas starter John Barfield (4-4) was rocked for nine hits and five runs in four innings as the Rangers lost their fifth straight game and eighth in nine contests since the All-Star break.

Manuel Lee doubled in the second to score Ed Sprague and Pat Borders, who had singled.

Devon White led off the fifth with a single and went to third on left fielder Kevin Reimer's two-base fielding error. Roberto Alomar singled him in, and Joe Carter's single finished Barfield.

Snyder, batting .177 for the season and 0-for-7 since becoming a Blue Jay on Monday, singled off reliever Gerald Alexander to score Alomar and Carter for a 5-0 lead.

Twins 3, Red Sox 2

BOSTON — Chuck Knoblauch scored from first base when Boston failed to catch Mike Pagliarulo easy fly with two outs in the 11th inning and Minnesota beat Boston.

Minnesota rallied as Randy Bush tied the score with a ninth-inning homer off Jeff Reardon, Bush's fourth home run this season.

Knoblauch singled with two outs in the 11th off Greg Harris (6-9). Pagliarulo then lifted a fly near the left-field foul line.

Steve Lyons, who went to left in the 10th, came in and third baseman Mike Brumley went back for what appeared an easy catch. But Lyons dropped to his knees and missed a sliding catch as the ball fell behind him.

White Sox 14, Brewers 3

CHICAGO — Robin Ventura drove in a career-high six runs, homering twice and doubling twice as Chicago beat Milwaukee.

Ventura hit a solo home run in the first off Don August (7-5) and a two-run homer in the second. He added an RBI double in the fourth off Julio Machado and a two-run double in the sixth off Darren Holmes.

Milwaukee pitcher Chuck Crim and catcher B.J. Surhoff were ejected by home plate umpire Tim Welke during Chicago's six-run sixth inning after Crim hit Tim Raines with a pitch and Surhoff argued Crim's ejection. Earlier in the inning, Holmes had hit Joey Cora with a pitch.

Tigers 17, Royals 0

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Kansas City suffered its worst loss ever as Tony Phillips drove in a career-high five runs.

It was a reversal of five days ago in Detroit, when the Royals routed the Tigers 18-4. Even the pitchers were the same, Bill Gullickson of the Tigers and Tom Gordon of the Royals. But this time, the Tigers scored four runs in the second, added four more in the third and then scored seven more in the seventh.

The largest previous defeat for Kansas City was an 18-3 loss at California on Sept. 18, 1986.

Gullickson (12-5), who lasted just 2 2-3 innings on Sunday, allowed five hits in seven innings and John Cerutti completed the six-hitter.

American

Orioles 4, M's 1

BALTIMORE — Cal Ripken marked his 1,500th consecutive game with a home run as Baltimore beat Seattle.

Ripken hit his 20th homer in the third inning, making him only the eighth player to hit 20 home runs in his first 10 seasons. The drive gave Baltimore a 3-0 lead and the Orioles held on to break a three-game losing streak.

Ripken's consecutive games streak is the second longest in history behind Lou Gehrig's 2,130. The 30-year-old shortstop hasn't missed a start since May 30, 1982.

Roy Smith (5-2) allowed six hits and one run in 7 1-3 innings and won for the first time since June 29.

Bob Uecker rests comfortably after surgery for aneurysm

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE — Bob Uecker, whose self-depreciating humor about his unsuccessful years in major league baseball vaulted his radio and television career, was resting comfortably after surgery for an aneurysm Friday.

Uecker, 56, went into surgery at Sinai Samaritan Medical Center at 1 p.m. CDT for an aneurysm of the abdominal aorta, said Laurel Prieb, director of communications for the Milwaukee Brewers.

Brewers spokesman Tom Skibosh said doctors informed him the surgery took three hours, everything went well and doctors found "nothing there that was unexpected."

At a news conference, Dr. William Deshur, a surgeon on staff at Sinai Samaritan who did the operation, said Uecker would be in the hospital about 10 days and should be able to resume normal activities in six to eight weeks.

He declined to predict when Uecker might be able to return to the broadcast booth or to some of his strenuous activities, such as pitching batting practice for the Brewers. Deshur said he would have a better idea about those activities in two or three weeks.

"Mr. Uecker appears to be recovering very well," said Susan Lebergen, Sinai Samaritan public relations coordinator. "He's in the intensive care unit where he will be closely monoitored."

As of 7:30 p.m., he was still coming out of the anesthetic, she said.

"He's still quite sleepy."

Uecker, a Brewers broadcaster for the last 20 years, often jokes about his .200 career batting average as a major league catcher. That humor helped Uecker become a pitchman for Miller Brewing Co.'s popular "Less Filling-Tastes Great" television commercials.

It also led to appearances on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show" and roles in the television sitcom "Mr. Belvedere" and the motion picture "Major League."

Uecker had a heart attack in February 1989. He recently had been complaining of lower back pains. A magnetic resonance imaging test revealed the aneurysm on Tuesday.

An aneurysm is a thinning of the wall of an artery that causes the wall to balloon outward under the pressure of blood. The aorta comes out of the top of the heart and carries oxygen-rich blood to the body.

If the aneurysm causes the aorta to widen to a diameter of about 2½ inches or wider, surgery is usually necessary. During surgery, the diseased portion of the aorta is removed and a synthetic one is sewn in.

Deshur said Uecker's operation involved use of a plastic tube to repair the aorta. The aorta was clamped off above and below the aneurysm, the aneurysm was opened and a plastic tube was stitched to the top and bottom, establishing a new route for the blood to flow, he said.

After his heart attack in 1989, he began an intense exercise program and often threw batting practice before Brewer games.

King fires a 66 on favorite tour course

LPGA

Associated Press

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. — It wasn't quite as scorching as the 63 that left the field in her wake a year ago. Still, Betsy King's 66 Friday was good enough for the second-round lead at the LPGA Big Apple Classic.

King, whose course-record 63 in the third round was the catalyst for her 1990 Classic victory, continued her mastery of the Wykagyl Country Club course with seven birdies and one bogey. Combined with her opening 2-over-par 73, King held a one-stroke lead over Heather Drew and Cindy Figg-Currier.

"The course probably is my favorite on the tour and it suits my game best," said King, coming off a rough week at the U.S. Open, where she was the two-time defending champion. She did not play well in the Open and made headlines by criticizing the U.S. Golf Association for how it runs the national championship. "Obviously, this is an easier week. ..."

King didn't take much time to mount a charge in the blistering heat of nearly 100 degrees. Starting on the back nine, she birded 11 and 12, both from 15 feet. She reached a greenside bunker in two at the par-5 15th and got down in two for another birdie before her lone bogey on 17, when she drove behind a tree.

A string of five pars followed, then King birdied No. 5 from 15 feet and the sixth from 30 feet. She finished her sizzling round with a 15-footer for birdie on No. 9.

"I never worry about golf," she said of trailing first-round leader Colleen Walker by six shots. "I was 2-over and six back, but there were not too many in front of me.

"Now, I'm sitting at 3-under. If I can shoot three under or four under over the weekend, I'll be in pretty good shape."

Walker was in decent shape Friday until she bogeyed four straight holes on the back nine. She finished with a 77 for 144.

King leads the tour with 19 rounds in the 60s and has one win this year. Her closest challengers, Drew and Figg-Currier, are seeking their first tour victories.

Chi Chi Rodriquez begins his title defense at the Ameritech Senior Open with a one-under par 71.

Bogey-free round gives Geiberger narrow lead

Associated Press

AURORA, Ill. — Al Geiberger is always reminded of the uncanny round of 59 he once shot and Friday was no exception, for two reasons.

First, he was told somebody else had shot a 59. Then he made a 20-foot birdie putt from the apron on the 18th hole to take the first-round lead in the $500,000 Ameritech Senior Open.

"I thought someone was kidding early today when they told me somebody else had shot a 59," said Geiberger, who shot his 59 at Memphis in 1977.

Actually, Sean Pappas shot a 12-under-par 59 Thursday in the Hartland Classic in Bowling Green, Ky. But Pappas' score will not make the record books since the event is not sanctioned by the PGA and is part of a mini-tour.

"It's still a tough thing to do," Geiberger said. "I remembered the 59 when I made that putt on No. 18. On that day everything went in."

Geiberger's bogey-free 7-under 65 over the course at the Stonebridge Country Club gave him a one-shot advantage over Bruce Crampton who had a 66.

George Archer, Mike Hill and Orville Moody were two shots back with 67s and Jim Ferree shot a 68.

Geiberger has been hot of late. It marked the eighth time in his last 10 rounds that he has broken 70, including his last four. He won at Kings Island, Ohio, two weeks ago, breaking 70 in each round.

"I've been playing better and it obviously shows," Geiberger said.

Oilers feel playoff pressure as they prepare for season

NFL Camps

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — The Houston Oilers could be breaking up if they don't advance farther than the first round of the NFL playoffs this season, quarterback Warren Moon said Friday.

"That's on the minds of some of the players," Moon said after veterans joined rookies for their first workout on the Trinity University campus.

"An organization will only go so long and if they don't make any progress they'll start making some changes."

The Oilers have been to the playoffs four straight years, but they have only one victory during that span, leaving veterans with a nagging feeling they may soon be relegated to over-the-hill status.

"You only get so many chances to do it and if we don't do it this year I think this team is going to be broken up and they'll start rebuilding," wide receiver Drew Hill said.

"We've been there but we haven't done anything. How long can you keep going there without getting over the hump and going farther?"

The Oilers limped into the playoffs last season with Moon on the sidelines with a broken thumb. They were eliminated in the first round by the Cincinnati Bengals.

The Oilers are again being touted as title contenders in the AFC Central Division in many preseason polls. Moon is coming off his best year and the Oilers' run-and-shoot offense topped the NFL charts in many areas.

Steelers

Quarterback Bubby Brister is tired of the football team taking the heat for not being as good as the city's baseball and hockey teams.

He says the Steelers will win their division this year. That's a bold prediction, since the Steelers haven't had a winning record in the AFC Central since 1983 and haven't even been .500 in the division since 1986.

Last year, despite winning eight of their last 12 games for a 9-7 overall record, they were 2-4 in the division and lost their chance to win the division title with a 34-14 loss at Houston in the season finale.

Michael Andretti gets provisional pole at Molson-Indy

Associated Press

TORONTO — Michael Andretti, trying to regain some momentum, fought off a handful of challengers Friday to take the provisional pole for Sunday's Toronto Molson-Indy.

Andretti had won two straight races and three of the last four before an engine problem knocked him out of last Sunday's race at the New Jersey Meadowlands.

Andretti and defending race and series champion Al Unser Jr. both trail hal 125-94 in the standings.

Andretti was at or near the front throughout Friday's 30-minute qualifying session, finally winding up on top with a lap of 106.788 mph on the 1.78-mile, 11-turn temporary road circuit.

Emerson Fittipaldi, who has taken a couple of road course poles away from Andretti this season, was a solid second at 106.515, followed by Rahal at 106.245.

Andretti's fast lap was clocked at 60.007 seconds. The track record of 59.499 seconds at 107.699 mph was set in 1989 by Fittipaldi.

Mario Andretti, his father and teammate, was fourth Friday at 105.911, followed by Scott Pruett, the only driver to break into the top nine without a Chevrolet engine, at 105.612. Pruett drives a Judd-powered car.

Rick Mears, Fittipaldi's teammate and the leader this season with four poles — Michael Andretti has three and Fittipaldi two — was sixth with the same speed as Pruett.

Unser, Rahal's teammate, was next at 105.212, followed by Arie Luyendyk at 104.160, John Andretti in Midland's Hall-VDS car at 103.977 and Canadian driver Scott Goodyear at 103.716, rounding out the top 10.

Qualifying on road circuits are generally divided into two 30-minute sessions on each of two days, with the faster drivers in one session and the slower cars in the other.

During the slower session on Friday, there were five red flags brought out by crashes.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AMEX, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numberical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key(*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key(*). Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

Panel recommends approval of new AIDS drug

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — An advisory committee hesitantly approved a recommendation to the Food and Drug Administration on Friday that a second drug, didanosine or ddI, be approved for the treatment of AIDS.

Only one drug, AZT, has been fully approved so far for therapy against AIDS.

The committee voted 5-2 to recommend use of the drug for adults and by the same margin for use in children. Asked by the agency whether approval should be limited to those who cannot tolerate AZT, six voted yes for adults and five voted yes for children.

Representatives of the Bristol-Myers Squibb Co., maker of ddI, told the panel that clinical tests and the experience of limited numbers of AIDS sufferers who received the drug show it to be safe and effective.

FDA Commissioner Dr. David A. Kessler said the meeting was a milestone in the drug approval process, since it has been less than 3½ months since the company submitted its application for approval. Most drugs take much longer to win a decision.

Members of the committee were clearly uncomfortable with the recommendation. Paul Meier, a professor of statistics at the University of Chicago said, "It seems to me the committee wanted conditional approval . . . I don't think we have what the committee really wants."

Dr. Deborah Cotton, an assistant professor of medicine at the Harvard Medical School said the vote was "in a sense, a rush to judgment."

Dr. Kessler said he would not favor a recommendation with conditions. If the drug does not do what is expected, approval can be withdrawn, the commissioner said.

The FDA has been under heavy pressure in recent years from patient advocacy groups to speed up its often cumbersome process of approving drugs.

"Our goal is to measure time in months for AIDS drugs." Kessler said at the start of the two-day ddI hearing. "We will continue to focus, and focus extensively on AIDS until this dread disease is brought under control."

As of May 31, the Centers for Disease Control said 179,136 Americans had been diagnosed with AIDS, or Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

AIDS is a viral disease that attacks the body's immune system, leaving victims susceptible to a wide variety of infections and cancers. So far it has always proved fatal.

The drug AZT attacks the virus directly, slowing progress of the disease. It has been approved for use by people who have AIDS or who are infected with the human immunodeficiency virus that causes it.

The manufacturer says ddI appears to increase the body's infection-fighting ability.

AZT is marketed by the Burroughs Wellcome Co. Barr Laboratories Inc., of Pomona, N.Y, is seeking a license to market it also and was granted one by the National Institutes of Health, for use if it wins its patent lawsuit against Burroughs Wellcome. Burroughs Wellcome has challenged that action.

AIDS activists have sought approval for use of ddI, saying it would benefit sufferers from the disease who fail to respond to AZT or could not tolerate its side effects.

Powell praises spying efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff praised the nation's intelligence community Friday for its "absolutely superb" work during the Persian Gulf war and presented awards to 70 of its officers.

The awards ceremony at CIA headquarters in suburban Washington where the chairman, Gen. Colin Powell, spoke came three days after the Pentagon sent a report to Congress citing serious intelligence shortcomings during the 43-day war.

Powell thanked the award recipients for the "absolutely superb effort you put in to make sure our commanders in the field ... had the very best information and intelligence possible so they would have a decisive edge when they put their lives on the line."

His comments and details about the event were provided in a press release by the CIA.

Powell praised outgoing CIA director William Webster as "a great champion of the intelligence community," saying "we will miss him very much."

"Cooperation, flexibility and the ability to focus vast quantities of information enabled the intelligence community to help shorten the war and minimize casualties," Webster told the gathering.

Alfred Stephens, left, and Janet Paddock stand with attorney, Nicholas Matassini, while he discusses the case with the media Friday in Tampa. the couple was arrested Tuesday.

Lawyer: Pair didn't see watchers

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A couple videotaped having sex by a neighbor shooting through the blinds shouldn't face criminal charges because they didn't know anyone was watching, their attorney said Friday.

"It's absolutely an invasion of their privacy," said attorney Nicholas Matassini. "They were doing things normal consenting adults do in the privacy of their own home. To think someone was going to videotape them from outside they never could have imagined."

Car salesman Alfred Stephens, 36, and Janet Paddock, 32, were arrested Tuesday night after police saw the video made through the blinds of Stephens' ground-floor condominium. Neighbors said children in a pool about 10 feet away could see them having sex in the bathroom through open blinds.

The two were charged with lewd and lascivious conduct in front of a child under 12, a second-degree felony carrying maximum penalties of up to 15 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. They were released from jail Wednesday on $15,000 bail each.

Matassini doesn't think they committed a crime.

"Doing something in the presence of another is a requirement, and as far as I know these two had no knowledge anyone was out there looking at them," he said.

Thomas nomination frets black activists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly three weeks after Clarence Thomas became the second black ever nominated to the Supreme Court, many black activists remain unsettled over whether to support or oppose a man whose record leaves almost all of them cold.

President Bush's nomination of Thomas, a conservative Republican and former chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, has "traumatized" the black leadership family, said Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"I have real mixed emotions because if his views are as they appeared to be when he was head of EEOC, I would have to oppose him," Lowery said. "But if he can clarify that ... I can support him."

Lowery's ambivalence is not unique among black civil rights leaders, who seem to fall into three distinct groups when debating the nomination of Thomas to replace Thurgood Marshall, the only black ever to serve on the court.

One faction insists that Thomas' record demands black opposition, regardless of his race; another disagrees with his record but is reluctant to oppose him because of his race; and the third argues that his record simply isn't that bad.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson and the Congressional Black Caucus, which, with the dissent of its sole Republican member, voted last week to oppose the nomination, reflect the thinking of the first group.

Jackson said blacks would be rejecting the legacy of such civil rights leaders like the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. if they support Thomas, who has opposed traditional approaches to civil rights such as affirmative action.

"Without some expression of contrition or change and the will to be fair and just, it would be a betrayal of the heritage of our struggle to support anyone who threatens to undermine it," Jackson said.

Rep. Edolphus Towns, D-N.Y., chairman of the black caucus, said the group opposes Thomas because of his "blind commitment to an ideology" adopted by conservative Republicans. And he predicted that polls indicating most of the black rank-and-file support the nomination soon will be reversed.

But Lowery, whose organization helped spearhead the defeat of Robert Bork's nomination four years ago, accused the black caucus of acting hastily on Thomas, particularly since it did not take a similar position on the four white conservatives placed on the court in the Reagan and Bush administrations.

"They have been very precipitous with Thomas and that gives me some concern," he said. "I guess it always has been easier to beat up on African Americans than it has other people, even by African Americans."

Other black leaders who normally would be expected to fight a nominee with a record such as Thomas compiled at EEOC readily acknowledge that Thomas' race has been a major factor in their evaluation.

Bush to ask Soviets for help with POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush will ask Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev for help in accounting for American soldiers held in the Soviet Union after World War II, Rep. John Miller said Friday.

Miller, R-Wash., said he was assured by Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger that Bush has placed the question on his agenda for his meeting with Gorbachev in Moscow.

The State Department asked the Soviet Foreign Ministry for help in the matter earlier this year.

State Department spokesman Dave Denny said Friday night the department instructed the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to repeat a request for access to the Interior Ministry Central State Archives for POWs and Stateless Persons.

Miller wrote to Bush on Wednesday asking that the president take advantage of Soviet requests for economic assistance by asking in return for information regarding the status of American POWs who never came home from World War II. Some 20,000 were classified as missing in action from that conflict.

Friday, Miller said he had not expected such a quick response from the administration.

"I was surprised, considering how the last year or two everything has moved so slowly," he said in reference to ongoing attempts to gather such information.

Miller said the Soviets after World War II held thousands of American soldiers, many of them former prisoners of war in German camps overrun by the Red Army. There have been several reports of American POWs being shipped to the Soviet Union after the Korean and Vietnam wars.

"I've been very careful to never say that I believe people are still alive today. I have no evidence of that," he said.

"What I do believe, because there is substantial convincing evidence, is that literally thousands of Americans were alive after World War II in Soviet hands and were not returned and that a lesser number were probably in Soviet hands after the Korean War and were not returned," Miller said.

"I think the relatives of these people want to find out what happened. Of course they hope some are alive, but even if they are not alive they would still like to know how they died, where they died. It would remove some of the anxiety and frustration," he said.

Bush intends to ask for access to the Soviet Central State Archives containing names of POWs and stateless persons, Miller said.

In April, President Gorbachev hand-delivered to the Japanese government Soviet records revealing the names of nearly 60,000 Japanese POWs who died while in Soviet captivity, Miller said.

Police capture suspect after chase through zoo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police captured a man sought for questioning in a homicide Friday after a two-hour chase through woods and animal cages on the grounds of the National Zoo.

The man, whose identity was not released, was captured near the animal hospital on the grounds of the zoo, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution.

He had "some blood on his shoes," said Dennis David, of Alexandria, Va., a keeper.

Davis said the object of the police chase "put up very little resistance" when he was finally cornered by officers.

Secret Service spokesman Mark Rupert said a jogger flagged down a uniformed Secret Service officer on a road through Rock Creek Park in Northwest Washington and pointed out a trail of blood leading into the park.

Police said a body was found in the park. They did not give details.

Later, a bloodstained man was seen near the zoo, about two miles away, police chased him onto the grounds, said Rupert.

The zoo remained open throughout the manhunt.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ ADEPT training registration slated

Staff Report

LUBBOCK — Registration deadline is today for the Project ADEPT Congregational Team Training Friday and July 27 at First United Methodist Church here.

The training is sponosred by the Texas Conference of Churches, in conjunction with member denominations in the Northwest Texas area.

ADEPT stands for "alcohol and drug education in the parishes of Texas." Leader for the event will be Trish Merrill of Austin, director of Project ADEPT. Ms. Merrill is a registered nurse.

The goal of this program is to establish congregational support teams within churches to reduce the devastation of addiction through awareness and education. The program also hopes to identify and establish relationships with community resources and offer support for persons affected by either their own or someone else's addiction.

The training will include information and guidance on such topics as "The Team Concept and How It works," "The Disease of Alcoholism and Drug Dependency," "Effects of Addicition on the Family," "Codependency," "Introduction to Intervention" and "Prevention Strategies."

The training also will prepare participants to initiate an ongoing ministry in their church, including skills to start a Scripture/12 Step "Bridge" Class.

Cost of the team training is $100 per tean and $10 per person for meals and snacks during the training session.

The event begins at 1 p.m. Friday and concludes at 4 p.m. July 27 at First UMC, 1411 Broadway, downtown Lubbock.

For more information or to register call Ms. Merrill, 1-512-478-7491. Scholarship assistance is available.

■ Harris to give concert

ODESSA — Granny winner Larnelle Harris performs in concert July 28 at First Baptist Church, 709 N. Lee St.

Harris

Harris has recorded numerous hits which have spent weeks at the top of the charts. He has garnered a host of industry awards, including eight Gospel Music Association Dove awards and a Steller award for excellence in the black gospel field. His collection of five Grammy Awards is a feat equalled by only two other gospel performers, Amy Grant and Sandi Patti.

Harris' first Grammy Award was shared with Miss Patti in 1984 for their duet "More Than Wonderful." In 1986, the pair won a second Grammy for their collaboration on "I've Just Seen Jesus," the title cut from Harris' album. His performance of "How Excellent Is Thy Name," from that same album, garnered another 1986 Grammy in the category of Best Solo Gospel Performance, Male. In addition Harris won two consecutive Grammy awards for Best Gospel Performance, Male, in 1988 for "The Father Hath Provided" and in 1989 for "Larnelle...Christmas."

He is currently tour to promote his newest album, "Larnelle Live...Psalms, Hymns and Spiritual Songs."

Tickets, priced at $6, may be purchased at First Baptist, Odessa. Concert time is 8 p.m. For more information call 1-337-1941.

■ Baptists to convene

The 71st consecutive session of the historic Paisano Baptist Encampment is set for July 28 through Aug. 2 at the encampment grounds located midway between Alpine and Marfa on Highway 90.

Started in 1916 by a group of cowboys and their families and led by pioneer circuit riding Baptist missionary L.R. Millican, the encampment met first in 1916. Meetings were interrupted by World War I, but resumedin 1921. The encampment has met every year since that time on the 1,000 acre, oak clustered campgrounds, in the Davis Mountains.

Paisano Encampment is one of the few remaining camps for the entire family. The program is designed for everyone, with music, preaching and Bible study as its mainstays. Unique in Baptist life, the encampment elects a 50 person board of directors from across Texas.

This year's day camp for first through sixth graders is under the direction of Charlie Elliott, minister of activities, First Baptist Church in Midland.

The first meal will be July 28. No pre-registration is required, but each family will need to make arrangements for housing with Kay Mitchell Estes, Box 92, Junction, 1-446-2775 or by arranging to stay with friends or in area towns. Beds for women are available in the Woman's Missionary Union Dormitory through Nita Dempsey in Marfa, 1-729-4292.

■ Music director resigns

John Conlon, interim music director at Fannin Terrace Baptist Church, presented his resignation to the church July 14.

He will present a mini concert at 6 p.m. Sunday during the worship service. In addition, a farewell reception is planned for the Conlon family following the evening worship service July 28.

He and his family will be moving to Lufkin.

■ Bible schools set

■ Vacation Bible School is planned for 6 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at 401 S. Adams.

The VBS is sponsored by Greater St. Luke A.M.E. Church, where the school will be held, and Hollowell United Methodist Church.

Themes is "Jesus Christ at Camp Can-Do." Classes are planned for children and adults. The VBS will include videos, arts and crafts and food.

For more information or transportation call 684-6785.

■ Alamo Heights Baptist Church will be holding Vacation Bible School Sunday through Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The commencement and carnival are set for Friday. Children 4 years old as of Sept. 1, 1990, through adult are welcome. For more information call the church office, 697-3101.

■ Pledge series ongoing

Ranchland Heights Baptist Church will hear the final message in a series on pledges of allegiance.

The church's pastor, Lucian Rudd, will speak on pledging allegiance to the Bible Sunday. Previous sermons have covered the Pledge of Allegiance to the United States flag and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Christian flag. The morning worship services leading up to Vacation Bible School July 29 are being opened with the salutes to the flags and the Bible.

The public is invited to these and all services of the church. For more information call 683-1947 or 684-7233.

■ New organ installed

Hope Lutheran Church, A Street at Scharbauer Drive, is celebrating the installation of a new Rodgers model 735 organ Sunday.

The installation is the first phase of the new building program recently undertaken. The organ will be played by Charlene Moore, interim organist and choir director at Hope.

"A considerable search for the appropriate organ was made and culminated with the help fo Bruce Nehring of El Paso," said church member Diane Strotheide.

Sunday's worship theme is "Christmas in July." Special music selections and Martin Luther's sermon, "The Nativity," will convey the theme.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Church to show film

The Unitarian-Universalist Church of Midland, Midkiff Street at Neely Avenue, will present a program on "The Alaskan North Slope" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

This travelogue will be presented by Frank Wood.

Child care will be provided. The public is invited to attend.

■ Bible seminar planned

A seminar entitled "Walk Thru The Old Testament" will be presented Sunday at Kelview Heights Baptist Church, North Big Spring Street at Scharbaurer Drive.

The seminar begins at 10 a.m. and continues from 2 to 7 p.m. A nursery will be provided.

"There is a progressive revelation in the Scriptures, and what is anticipated in the Old Testament is unfolded in the New. The Old points ahead and the New points back to the central event in all history — the substitutionary death of the Messiah."

More than a decade of research and testing precedes this newly refined and improved seventh edition of the "Walk Thru The Old Testament" seminar and its accompanying notebook, the release said. "Laughter will spark the learning as you gain an overview of the complete Old Testament in one fun-filled day."

Notebooks, priced at $5, are required for the afternoon session for fifth graders to adult. An offering will be received.

■ Pageant to be staged

CISCO — Summer productions of the Kendrick Religious Pageant "The Life of Christ" may be seen Thursday and Friday nights at 9 p.m. through Aug. 9.

The outdoor production lasts two hours.

Now in its 27th year, this production presents the complete life of Christ from birth through resurrection. The production is nondenominational.

Admission is $5. Also located on the pageant grounds is Texas' only all religious diorama and museum which is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. On production days the diorama closes at 3 p.m.

For more information contact the Life of Christ Pageant, Route No. 2, Box 46, Cisco, Texas 76437, or call 1-817-629-8672.

Minister candidate for bishop

Staff Report

The Rev. Luther Wade Henry Sr. was endorsed by the Central Texas Conference delegates to the South Central Jurisdiction as their candidate for episcopal office.

Henry

The son of Midlander Cordelia Adams, Henry is a 1958 graduate of Carver High School. He was a member of the Hollowell United Methodist Church.

The vote, which was taken on June 30, was unanimous. Bishop Horam A. Boaz is the only member of the Central Texas Conference to be elected to the office of bishop. He was elected in 1922 while serving as president of Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

Henry is the leader of the Central Texas Conference delegation to the 1992 general and jurisdictional conferences and is the first black person to be elected to that position. He will be the first black candidate for the office of bishop from the Central Texas Conference.

He was the first black clergy person to serve as district superintendent in the Central Texas Conference and is currently serving as superintendent of the Fort Worth East District. He formerly served as superintendent of the Forth Worth West District and has also served for two terms as director of the conference Council on Ministries.

Henry has served as a delegate to the 1976, 1980, 1984 and 1988 general and jurisdictional conferences. He chaired the Jurisdictional Committee on Nominations in 1988 and has served as secretary and on the executive committee of the Jurisdictional Council on Ministries.

He was a member of the search committee for the current executive director of the South Central Jurisdiction and has been a member of the Mount Sequoyah board of trustees, the jurisdiction's conference assembly grounds in Fayetteville, Ark.

He has served as a member of the General Commission on Religion and Race and is a former president of the United Methodist National Association of Council Directors.

Henry, who was born in Paris, is a graduate of Huston-Tillotson College, Austin, and of Gammon Theological School, Atlanta, Ga. He was awarded an honorary doctor of divinity degree by Huston-Tillotson in 1977.

He and his wife, Mable, have two children, Luther Wade Jr. and Michelle.

■ Healing workshop set

The Permian Church of Religious Science, 2311 Elizabeth, is sponsoring Lenny and Ivy Blank in a "Healing Workshop" Friday and July 27.

L. Blank

The Blanks are the directors of the Ayurveda Center, Santa Fe, N.M.

I. Blank

"Ayurveda is the oldest wholistic healing system in the world, originating in India over 5,000 years ago," said a release from the center.

Basic to the system of Ayurveda is bodily detoxification and rejuvenation therapy.

"Ayurveda is not only a physical science, but it also deals with the emotional and spiritual aspects of life. Ayurveda is known as 'the mother of all healing' since all healing systems have their roots in Ayurveda."

The Blanks have been involved in Ayurveda for more than 12 years.

Friday's seminar is an introductory one which nbegins at 7 p.m. A love offering will be taken. Then, the seminar on July 27 will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. cost for July 27 will be $25 or a love offering. For more information and to register call 684-4230.

■ New church organized

Special get-acquainted worship services at 10:15 a.m. and 6 p.m. July 28 at 2703 S. County Road 1207 will mark the official opening of the newest Midland church, the Harvest Time Church of The Assemblies of God.

Plans are underway to purchase property for a permanent location.

The church is a cooperative effort between local residents and the West Texas District of the Assemblies of God, headquartered in Lubbock. The Rev. Robert G. Slaton, district superintendent, will take part in the get-acquainted services. There are around 115 Assemblies of God churches in the district.

Benson comes to Midland from Elk City, Okla., where he was senior pastor at the First Assembly of God. He and his wife, Dawn, have two children, Chad, 15, and Krista, 11.

Harvest Time Assembly is one of 5,000 churches being established by the Assemblies of God across the country during this decade.

■ Golf tournament set

FRISCO — The 10th annual Texas Clergy Invitational Golf Gournament is set for Aug. 5 and 6 at Plantation Resort Fountry Club, Frisco, 10 miles north of Dallas.

A new Oldsmobile will be awarded for a hole in one. There will be three trophies per flight. Prizes will be awarded for close to pins and long drives.

Shotgun start 36 holes Aug. 5. The final round,a shotgun start, will be Aug. 6. A new senior division has been added this year.

Cost is $65. For more information call Don Dendy of Park Cities Baptist Church, Dallas, who is the Texas Clergy Golf Association president, 1-214-369-8211 or 1-214-241-8351.

The event is limited to 140 players.

■ Church wins battle

DETROIT (AP) — Mariners' Church, established by the will of a ship captain's widow to minister to sailors and sea folk, has won a court battle to remain independent of the Episcopal Diocese.

The 143-year-old, stone church on Detroit's riverfront has battled with the diocese for years about the title to the valuable church property and its operations.

"Through all of this, we have continued to be what Mariners' Church is, a house of prayer for all people, a free and independent church," the Rev. Richard Ingalls said.

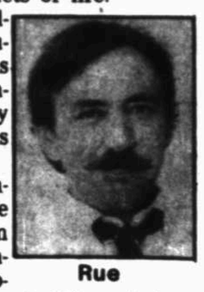
Philosopher: 'Noble lie' needed

■ Religion professor Loyal Rue says myth links religious teachings with scientific facts.

By George W. Cornell
Associated Press writer

Religious philosopher Loyal D. Rue says modern culture urgently needs a "noble lie" — a myth that links the moral teachings of religion with the scientific facts of life.



Rue

He said science "has eroded the plausibility of the Judeo-Christian myths. It has got into our heads and consciousness in such a way that the traditional myths can't be swallowed."

The myths, he said, include archaic views of the universe; a presumption that humans are at the center of existence; and the stories of Jesus' resurrection and of Moses bringing God's Ten Commandments down from a mountain.

Dispel the myths of religion, he said, and all that is left is nihilism, which considers life and the universe meaningless.

"Nihilism is not something that can be argued away. ...," he said. "I assume it's true. But it is ultimately destructive," a "monstrous truth."

The myths served as a framework for religious teachings that brought about man's betterment, Rue says. Without their "integration of cosmology and morality" — of cosmic facts with idealism — people will deny fixed standards and do whatever they choose, splintering society.

Or, they might embrace the "totalitarian option," which relies on government to force humans to behave, he said.

Rue, 46, a professor of religion and philosophy at Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, presented his thesis at a recent symposium of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Washington.

A church-going but skeptical Lutheran, Rue suggests that we start all over, and create a new myth — a "noble lie" that squares with what is known scientifically, something that is convincing though it may not be factual.

What would that lie be? He doesn't specify. "It remains for the artists, the poets, the novelists, the musicians, the filmmakers, the tricksters and the masters of illusion to winch us toward our salvation by seducing us into an embrace with a noble lie," he told the scientific meeting.

Perhaps, he said in an interview, it is possible to rework, transpose and rephrase the Judeo-Christian tradition to make it plausible again.

In any case, the illusion must be "so imaginative and so compelling that it can't be resisted," so "beautiful and satisfying" that all would feel they have to accept it, he told the meeting.

"What I mean by the noble lie is one that deceives us, tricks us, compels us beyond self-interest, beyond ego, beyond family, nation, race ... that will deceive us into the view that our moral discourse must serve the interests not only of ourselves and each other, but those of the earth as well."

He said this lie would present a "universe that is infused with value. And such a universe is ultimately, I think, a great fiction. The universe just is. But a noble lie attributes objective value to it."

He said "the great irony of our moment in history" is that what "we have most deeply feared" — being deceived — "is the ultimate source of our salvation from psychological and social chaos."

He said "a good lie, a noble lie, is one that can't be shown to be a lie by exposing it to a known truth or to science."

"We need a kind of myth, a story, a vision of universality, that will get us pulling together, not just as Americans, but that will make us one, and give us solidarity of purpose," he said.

"It must be a lie that inspires us to give up selfish interests in the service of noble ideals. ..." he said. "Without some kind of shared orientation, we can't cooperate and can't have a coherent society."

"Without such lies we cannot live," he said.

Believers come to revival to find miracles

By Anna Borgman

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — "Creo. Creo en milagros."

"I believe. I believe in miracles," said Guadalupe Vasque Rosales, a small bright woman whose face bespeaks a lifetime of experience.

And, Vasque said, she has found where they happen.

Underneath a large red, white and blue tent at the edge of the expressway, Vasque and hundreds of others have come for miracles.

Outside the tent, cars, trucks and vans are parked haphazardly; a concession stand offers soft drinks; children play.

Inside, floodlights illuminate another scene — where hundreds of faithful sit each night on folding chairs to listen to the word of the Lord, raise their voices in song and, at a final climactic point in the evening, come forward to support one another and call for healing.

Revival has come to Brownsville.

"We believe that the problems in Brownsville, Matamoros and all over the world are spiritual," said Paulino Bernal, pastor of the McAllen-based Valley Worship Center and owner of Christian radio stations KJAV-FM and KUBR-AM.

Bernal and an entourage have taken their message from Los Angeles to Florida and into many parts of Mexico.

Now they are bringing the power of prayer to Brownsville during the month of July, hoping to drive out the scourges of lawlessness, drunkenness and sickness, Bernal said.

People come seeking answers. "They have problems in their marriages, with their children, with sickness," Bernal said. "They've heard testimonies of healing. They want that."

And, he added, the answers are readily available.

"It's in the word of God," he said. "The word of God has an answer for everything."

Vasque, who lives in Matamoros and came to the service with her grandson's girlfriend, Ninfa Vega of Brownsville, agrees.

"I have testimony of many problems that have left me," she said in Spanish. "I feel good. The pain in my heart and arm has left. I feel healed."

Vega, 22, said she does not regularly attend church, but that she likes the non-denominational revival services "because they say what God says in the Bible."

"Just because you know God exists, you are going to heaven," she said. "But you still need to hear the word of God."

The sermons, peppered with hallelujahs and frequent applause, focus on the love of God, the need for faith and the power of his word to overcome worldly afflictions.

The faithful are intent, their arms at times raised high to the heavens, their eyes closed in prayerful concentration.

The music alternates between traditional hymns, Christian rock and background polka.

People are asked to give what they can to support the ministry; $1 is the suggested donation.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Weigh your options carefully and you can make spectacular progress in your chosen field. Enlist the aid of experts in November. A platonic relationship could turn romantic before the Christmas holidays. The important decisions you make in January and February of 1992 will be based on pure intuition. Go all-out to win a promotion next May. A strong show of initiative will bring long-term financial security.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: coach Chuck Daly, actresses Diana Rigg and Donna Dixon, guitarist Carlos Santana.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Preening your feathers could ruffle those of your associates now. Join in sports or upbeat group activities. You will feel free as a bird once you sever your ties to a losing proposition.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Many opportunities for socializing arise now. Avoid loafing at home. Sports events, parties and romance are featured. A loved one sends you a special message!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Trust your intuition when it comes to romance and socializing. Large crowds may not appeal to you or your mate. Helping a needy friend will show this person how much you care.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Whoever picks up the tab or doles out favors today is bound to look great. Could it be you? Or will someone else do the honors? Either way, you will benefit handsomely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The mail brings good news. Financial worries fade away. Find time to have a quiet word alone with someone who has often come to your aid. Repay favors as soon as possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Home life should be more harmonious now. Family members are eager to patch up their differences. A young person's fear of change deserves compassion, not censure. Offer to act as a sounding board.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can restore a loved one's faith and confidence now. Give romance a chance to blossom. A negative first impression could be quite misleading. Valuable assistance is available from an unexpected quarter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): See what you can do to help an older person who lives alone. Romantic partner could change his mind about a purchase. Resist the temptation to say "I told you so."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Things should be lively at home this weekend. Love will find a way if you will let your best instincts guide you in affairs of the heart. Resist an urge to quibble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Travel may be part of your weekend's plans. Be certain to take along extra cash if going shopping. A bookkeeping mistake could be a source of embarrassment. Romance begins to heat up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You could be having second thoughts about marriage. A frank discussion clears the air. Encourage someone who complains of boredom to get out and about more. Group gatherings prove especially enjoyable now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good day for dealing with people and problems at a distance. Self-improvement projects bring new rewards and compliments. Steer clear of unusual food and strange remedies.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are outgoing, generous and loyal. School will be an ordeal for these youngsters unless they have close friends to pal around with. Despite their natural shyness, these Cancerians can really open up with people they trust. Holiday celebrations and family traditions are very important to them. Their facility with language makes them excellent communicators and interpreters.

Madonna says parents should talk to their children about sex

LONDON — Madonna says parents who don't talk to their children about sex are partly to blame for teen-age pregnancies and the spread of AIDS.

Madonna

"It should not be something we sweep under the rug and put in the closet. We should all just admit that our children are having sex at very young ages," she told BBC Radio 1 in an interview to be aired Monday. A transcript was released Friday.

"You have to talk to your children about those things because they exist, so what is the point in pretending that they don't?" she said.

"Children are very aware of sex — it's not a secret and I think what is wrong is people say they don't want children to know about sex.

"It's a mistake. That's why AIDS is spreading in the heterosexual community very swiftly right now, because straight people think they can't get it."

NEW YORK — Former first lady Pat Nixon is being treated for a back condition at New York Hospital, her husband's office said Friday.

Mrs. Nixon, 79, entered the hospital Thursday for treatment of spinal stenosis, a condition afflicting her lower back, according to Kathy O'Connor, a spokeswoman at Nixon's office in Park Ridge, N.J.

Former President Nixon and his wife live in nearby Woodcliff Lake, N.J., northwest of New York City.

Mrs. Nixon was expected to underdo intensive physical therapy for several days, O'Connor said.

LONDON (AP) — Raisa Gorbachev spent an hour at the home of violinist Sir Yehudi Menuhin, who has staged several performances for Soviet charities and a cultural foundation established by the Soviet president's wife.

Gorbachev

Menuhin, 75, interrupted a conducting tour in Vienna to fly home for Thursday's meeting, which was requested by Mrs. Gorbachev while her husband was attending the economic summit.

The musician, born in New York of Russian-Jewish parents, said he had never met Mrs. Gorbachev before.

Menuhin said they had a "pleasant chat" via an interpreter and he found her "very humane, very motherly and very devoted."

"She expressed great confidence in the ultimate ability of the Russians to solve their problems," he said. "My toast was that everything Gorbachev carries in his heart may be realized as I am convinced he is a good man."

He said that while visiting London's Great Ormond Street Hospital, built in the days of Charles Dickens, Mrs. Gorbachev told him she found that hardly any of the staff or the children had read Dickens' novels. "In Russia we continually read Shakespeare, Byron, Keats and we know all those authors," Menuhin quoted her as saying.

Menuhin was last in the Soviet Union in March when he performed a new work called "Prayer," composed for him by Rodion Shchedrin for his 75th birthday. The work is based on the violinist's hope for a new spirit for a new world.

NEW YORK (AP) — Musician Gloria Parker's $15 million libel lawsuit against writer Oscar Hijuelos for his racy depiction of her in his Pulitzer Prize-winning novel has been dismissed by a federal judge.

The case was regarded as an important test of whether people whose names are used in fictional works can successfully sue for libel. The lawsuit, filed last year, was dismissed Thursday.

Parker claimed her reputation had been destroyed because of Hijuelos' portrayal of her in "The Mambo Kings Play Songs of Love" as the ribald leader of a 1950s band called "Glorious Gloria Parker and Her All-Girl Rumba Orchestra."

Parker, who plays the marimba, once headed a band with that name and still plays under the name of Glorious Gloria Parker.

She contended that two passages in the novel, one describing a sexual liaison and the other describing a conversation in a bar, were false and defamatory.

But Judge Thomas C. Platt ruled that "it is difficult to believe that an average reader would consider either of the passages defamatory."

Parker's lawyer, David Gaffner, said he would not appeal.

NEW YORK — The national release of a film about street life in the Bronx was postponed Friday because of fears it would be confused with "Boyz N the Hood," whose opening last weekend was marred by gang-related violence.

"Hangin' With the Homeboys," a lighthearted movie about four young people, two black and two Hispanic, has been showing without incident in New York since May 24. It was supposed to open nationally in August.

The distributor, Fine Line Features, pushed back the release date to Oct. 3.

Gorbachev: Summit fell short of hopes

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev said Friday he accomplished all he could at the London economic summit, but predicted criticism at home for returning "with empty hands and empty pockets."

Speaking with reporters moments after landing at Moscow's Vnukovo Airport, Gorbachev acknowledged that the London trip fell short of expectations.

"I don't think that everyone can always be pleased with everything," he said after descending a red-carpeted stairway from his presidential jet. "But generally, a beginning has been made of a long, huge, very promising process. That's the main thing."

Gorbachev received no promises of direct aid from the leaders of the Group of Seven industrialized nations — the United States, Britain, Italy, Canada, Germany, Japan and France. They offered only limited assistance, with promises of more if the country shifts to a market economy.

He did not win full membership for the Soviet Union in the International Monetary Fund, gaining instead a "special association." Gorbachev was invited, however, to attend next year's G-7 summit in Munich.

Asked if he could have achieved more in London, Gorbachev said: "I don't think so, not at this time."

"I think the maximum that we had to achieve at this meeting was a coordinated political decision," he said. "And now I think that as far as the financial world is concerned ... everything will start moving now."

"A good mood was born at G-7 — a movement toward each other, of cooperation," he added.

Gorbachev also seemed to fire a pre-emptive strike at his political opponents who might try to point up his failure to win more foreign aid.

When asked how opponents of his policies would react to his trip, Gorbachev replied: "As usual it will be the same. 'Gorbachev has come back, he has been given no credits, he has come with empty hands and empty pockets.'

"This is the usual logic of those who refuse to accept the course of reforms, especially now ... at this stage of critical, decisive changes. They poke sticks into our spokes," he said.

Communist Party hard-liners oppose Gorbachev's appeals for Western help, while some radical reformers would have liked to see him return with the promise of financial aid.

"Some feel sorry, and some are maliciously rejoicing at the Soviet leader who did not get cash and credits and is leaving London with an empty purse," Pravda said Friday in a front-page article.

But it said far-sighted observers would see that a process of cooperation has been started, "a synchronization of the Soviet economy that will make history flow along a new, constructive path."

Pravda said the G-7 decision not to offer huge amounts of cash and credits was sensible. "It is well known how easily we waste hard currency. It would be much better if they teach us how to use investments effectively," the newspaper said.

The radical daily Moskovsky Komsomolets said Gorbachev had been ill-prepared for the summit.

"All our preparations for the London meeting looked very much like a negligent student preparing for exams who decided to cram the whole textbook for one last night," the newspaper said.

Mubarak offers end to boycott of Israel

CAIRO (NYT) — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak suggested Friday that Arabs should end their economic and political boycott of Israel if the Jewish state pledges to stop building settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Mubarak's proposal came after a two hour meeting with Secretary of State James A. Baker III, who is touring five Middle East nations in hopes of winning support for President Bush's formula for peace talks.

"What worries me is the building of new settlements in the occupied territories," Mubarak told reporters after meeting with Baker in his summer palace in the coastal city of Alexandria. "If Israel would suspend building settlements in the occupied territories, I believe the Arab states should take reciprocal steps by suspending the boycotting."

The United Nations, including the United States, has demanded that Israel give up territories — the West Bank, Gaza Strip and Golan Heights — it has occupied since the aftermath of the 1967 Middle East war.

Officials admit helping Mandela foes

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government on Friday acknowledged for the first time that it has given money to the Inkatha Freedom Party, the main rival of the African National Congress.

Responding to a published report, Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok confirmed the government helped pay for two Inkatha rallies, in November 1989 and March 1990.

The admission was a blow to the credibility of the government, which for months had denied ANC claims that it favored Inkatha. ANC President Nelson Mandela said the disclosure could lead to a "complete breakdown" in relations with the white government.

The ANC, the nation's main black opposition group, already has suspended talks on a new constitution because of what it calls the government's deliberate failure to halt chronic black faction fighting. The ANC accuses the government of aiding Inkatha to foster divisions among South Africa's black majority.

Mandela reiterated his demands for the resignation of Vlok and Gen. Magnus Malan, the defense minister. He said de Klerk must take steps to halt violence and assure the security forces are not biased against the ANC.

Also Friday, the pro-ANC New Nation newspaper reported that special forces of the South African military had carried out a wave of violence intended to destabilize the black opposition movement.

Gunman shoots Belgian politician

LIEGE, Belgium (AP) — Police on Friday searched for a motive and the killer of a well-known Belgian politician shot dead on the street after leaving the apartment of a friend.

Andre Cools, a 63-year-old francophone Socialist, was a key figure during the 1960s and 1970s in setting up a new state structure that gave Dutch-speaking Flanders and francophone Wallonia more regional autonomy.

With then-prime minister Gaston Eyskens, he formed two center-left governments, extending from 1968 to 1973.

Palestinian youths turn away from PLO

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — A couple of years ago, Palestinian youngsters like Fadi Ojeir and his school chums probably would have had one ambition — to join the guerrillas fighting Israel.

These days, the teenagers in the sprawling Ein el-Hilweh refugee camp on Sidon's outskirts see little point in taking up the struggle of their fathers and older brothers.

"I don't believe in armed resistance. What has it achieved? Nothing. That's why I don't want to become a guerrilla," said Fadi, 15, as he sat in his shanty home with his friends.

"We must find other ways. For myself, I want an education so I can build a life for myself."

Khalil Khartabi, a 21-year-old civil engineering student at the American University of Beirut, said: "We're not guerrillas and we don't wish to be. The PLO leadership is going the wrong way and we suffer because of it."

Their attitude reflects the feelings of many Palestinians in Lebanon's squalid refugee camps, where not long ago angry young men in droves eagerly took up Kalashnikov rifles.

Now there's widespread dismay over the decline of the Palestine Liberation Organization and its virtual demise as a paramilitary force.

For the 60,000 or more people crammed into Ein el-Hilweh, a hillside camp with twisting alleys and open drains, the final straw came earlier this month.

The Lebanese Army defeated the guerrillas in a four-day battle to disarm them, reimposing government authority over the southern Sidon region for the first time in 16 years of civil war.

Many young Palestinians are openly critical of Yasser Arafat and the PLO leadership, saying it has steered their cause into the sand, isolated it in the Arab world, and — many fear — seriously risked any prospect of securing an independent Palestinian homeland.

Many feel that only a change in leadership will let the PLO salvage enough credibility to have any influence in peace negotiations.

Even some of the several thousand PLO fighters in Ein el-Hilweh see little point in continuing the armed struggle to regain a Palestinian homeland.

Iraq admits building 'superguns'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iraq admits that it was building superguns capable of firing chemical, biological or nuclear weapons hundreds of miles, Western officials said Friday.

The disclosure, which came in a document delivered to U.N. officials on Thursday, was the latest admission by Baghdad of weapons that it earlier had denied having, and was certain to further damage the country's credibility.

The 14-inch and 39-inch guns fit the specifications of those from "Project Babylon," a supergun project that Western intelligence officials say was begun in 1988 and masterminded by the Canadian-born scientist Gerald Bull.

Iraq was ordered to disclose and destroy its weapons of mass destruction under terms of the April 3 U.N. cease-fire that ended the Gulf War. But it has failed to cooperate, particularly in connection with its nuclear program.

The five permanent members of the Security Council — the United States, China, Britain, France and the Soviet Union — have given Iraq until July 25 to completely disclose its weapons or face serious consequences, including the possibility of military attack.

Friday the permanent five council members met to receive an update from the U.N. Special Commission charged with carrying out the task of dismantling the weapons.

A Western diplomat provided the document Iraq had filed with the commmission regarding the superguns.

In it, Iraq said it had a 14-inch supergun with a 170-foot-long barrel at a site 110 miles north of Baghdad. The document said that the gun had been "tested."

Iraq also admitted having other steel tubes, including one intended to be used as part of a separate 39-inch supergun. If complete, that gun would be the largest artillery piece in the world.

It did not appear that any other than the 14-inch gun were close to completion. None of the superguns were listed in earlier Iraqi arms lists.

The Western diplomat quoted the Special Commission as saying that the 14-inch gun would have been too inaccurate to be used for conventional armaments.

"The conclusion we drew from seeing the document was that it could only had been used for one of three purposes: chemical, biological or nuclear," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Western intelligence officials have been reported as saying that the smaller gun was to have a range of hundreds of miles, while the larger could fire weapons 1,000 miles away — to Tel Aviv, Tehran or Cairo.

Superguns achieve their tremendous range because they set off a series of explosive charges up the barrel as a projectile rises.

Western countries alleged last year that Iraq had been trying to build a supergun. Parts for the alleged weapon were captured by authorities in Greece, Turkey and Britain, but Iraq said they were part of an oil project.

Until now, Iraq had always denied plans to build such a weapon.

Bull, one of the world's leading designers of long-range guns, also worked on advanced howitzer systems for the U.S. Army, and his technology was used by Israel, South Africa and both sides in the Iran-Iraq war.

He was found murdered outside his apartment in a Brussels, Belgium, suburb on March 22, 1990, with $25,000 in cash in his pocket. The case has not been solved.

This week, U.N. inspectors in Baghdad said they began getting full cooperation on Iraq's known nuclear sites, although they didn't go so far as to say that Iraq has declared all its nuclear materials, facilities and equipment.

Latin American summit ends with understanding

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The leaders of 19 Latin American nations, Spain and Portugal searched for ways to forge a common future Friday as their first-ever summit drew to a close.

Although largely ceremonial, the Ibero-American summit gave new life to the old dream of a strong and prosperous Latin America united by shared language and culture.

"The inheritors of Columbus' exploits are meeting for the first time to exalt what unites them and forge a common future," said Colombian President Cesar Gaviria.

Even Cuban President Fidel Castro seemed swept up in the mood. Cuba "wants to belong to this integrated and united Latin America," he said.

There were signs Communist Cuba would return to the fold. Both Chile and Colombia said they would establish consular ties with Havana, the first step toward full diplomatic recognition.

Except for mostly the private chiding of Castro about democratic and economic reform, the only fireworks at the summit were part of the entertainment staged for the visiting dignitaries.

As the leaders were being bused back to their hotel after a concert Thursday night, a cheerful and expansive Castro proposed forgetting the agenda completely and just chatting, said another passenger on the bus.

Castro was seconded by Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez — the Cuban's boldest critic at the summit.

Sources privy to some of the private meetings said it appeared Castro had found a measure of acceptance, despite his old-fashioned ways and his refusal to consider internal reforms.

The next Ibero-American summit will be in Spain next year, the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' arrival in the new world. Brazil will host the 1993 summit.

Racial rioting strikes Halifax

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — About 150 rioters rampaged through the downtown bar district of Halifax early Friday, attacking people and smashing windows. Police said 15 people were injured and more violence was feared.

Most of the rioters were blacks, some of whom reportedly were angry at having been turned away from a bar. Some whites also reportedly smashed windows during the episode.

President Bush plays tourist at famous Greek ruins

ATHENS, Greece (NYT) — With concern heightened over security for President Bush and his entourage as they travel through Greece and Turkey, Bush toured the Acropolis Friday and announced some initiatives to strengthen the Greek military.

"Basic Parthenon shot?" the president asked the photographers who wanted to capture him standing in front of the ruins.

After he and Barbara Bush finished learning about Ionic, Doric and Corinthian columns, the president was asked by reporters if he had talked to Secretary of State James A. Baker 3rd about his mission to Syria.

"I must say, it's very encouraging," he said. "What I've heard from the secretary is all positive so far. So we'll see where we go. Secretary Baker is really working hard on this. He's over there plowing away."

The president, who promised on Thursday to be a "catalyst" to settle the long feud between Greeks and Turks over Cyprus, was asked at the Acropolis whether he would carry any specific proposals from Prime Minister Constantine Mitsotakis of Greece to President Turgut Ozal of Turkey.

His advisers say he has no new concrete proprosals, and Bush said it was more a matter of bringing the sides closer together.

"We'll see what happens when I go and talk to my friend Mr. Ozal," he said. "We've got two strong leaders in Greece and in Turkey. And they feel it, and I feel there's an opportunity."

In the afternoon, Bush flew to the island of Crete to speak to American and Greek armed forces at Suda Bay Naval Facility. The president wanted to thank the forces at Suda Bay, which was used as a supply base during the Persian Gulf war.

He announced his intention to lease to Greece two Knox-class frigates for the Greek navy and to speed up the delivery of 10 F4-E aircraft to Greece this summer, with an additional 18 to follow in the fall.

Bush said the United States would also transfer to Greece from existing NATO stocks a large number of tanks and artillery that "will measurably increase Greece's defensive capabilities."

"Each of these steps reaffirms our close and critical defense relationship with our valued NATO ally, Greece," Bush said, clearly trying to reassure this nation on the eve of his trip to Turkey to see Ozal, with whom he forged close ties during the gulf war.

Bush was asked at the Acropolis if he had seen any of the fiery anti-American protests in downtown Athens on Thursday night, which occurred as he was attending a state dinner in his honor at the presidential palace.

"No, didn't see a thing," he replied. "It was a tranquil and very, very pleasant evening.

"Let me say this: Any place that an American president goes, whether it's in Chicago, Dallas, San Francisco, New York or Athens, we're bound to stir up a little interest. But that's some of what democracy is about. It doesn't concern me one bit. I mean this goes with the territory, as we say."

Police officers in riot gear used tear gas to quell about 2,000 demonstrating university students and self-styled "anarchists".

SLOAN BROTHERS BUICK MAZDA

Announces the Re-Association of

SAM FOWLER

I'm proud to announce that I am back at Sloan Brothers Buick Mazda. You are about to see some exciting new developments around here. Sloan Brothers has an exciting line of automobiles to offer. Everything form the magnificent 1992 Buick Roadmaster, with it's traditional full size elegance, at an affordable price, to the new Mazda Navajo MPV's and pickups, and the exciting Miata convertible.

"Many of you have been my customers since 1976, and I value each and every one of you. Let me hear from you and bring me up to date on your lives and your cars. And by all means if you or anyone you know is in the market for a new or used car or truck please send them my way. I'll make sure they get treated right.

MOTOR ROUTES

Distributors are needed to deliver the Midland Reporter-Telegram in rural areas around Midland. Work 3 to 4 hours daily in the wee hours of the morning for an average net income of $125 weekly. As an independent contractor you work for yourself. Be your own boss.

Call Marvin Wooten TODAY
688-2700 or 687-8810
or come by the office at 201 E. Illinois and ask for a Route Application and an interview

WEEKLY & MONTHLY INCOME

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has an opening on one of its few "special allowance" routes. This larger route receives a $50 check each Friday, in additionto the regular monthly route proftis. The route is in the Washington Park area.

As with all newspaper distributorships, this opportunity requires a 7 day a week commitment (when you go out of town, you must arrange a substitute for your self) and it is early morning work.

Newspaper distributorships provide great supplemental income for housewives/ mothers, senior citizens, college students, or any other adult wanting to "moonlight".
