The rotund former manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce who now works in a similar capacity at Childress was married the other day.

Jessie Scarbrough brought us a copy of The Childress Reporter which had a item about the marriage of H.E. (Gene) Merrifield and Mrs. John Glover of that city on Oct. 21. Each had a daughter and son-in-law in attendance at the ceremony, which took place in the Central Christian Church in Lampasas.

Several weeks ago we passed along some information about the United States Merchant Marine, Marine Registry, an organization that apparently had been collecting unnecessary fees from boat owners in Texas and other places.

A newer report discloses that five men connected with this "Merchant Marine" have been indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in Montgomery, Ala., for mail fraud and conspiracy. The indictments followed an extensive investigation by U.S. postal authorities, who said the organization had mailed over 109,000 letters, mostly to boat owners in Texas and Alabama.

The letters demanded registration fees of $6 each. No such fee was actually required, of course, but they apparently received a lot of $6 contributions anyway. However, the postal authorities said that many intended victims were tipped off by the widespread publicity given to the scheme and didn't pay off. The Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department were particularly active in getting the word out.

The recent special session of the legislature didn't get anything done about car insurance rates, but insurance issues are still alive and well in the state. And indications are that the state insurance board itself may make a move to do something about some rates, especially those for extended coverage in home owners policies.

A House Interim Study Committee, headed by Renal B. Rosson of Snyder and Rep. John Hanna of Breckenridge, still is very much in the picture. So, the pressure is still on and automobile insurance rates are certain to get some attention in the regular session beginning in January.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Oct. 29, the 303rd day of 1972. There are 63 days left in the year. Daylight Savings Time ends for most of the nation.

On this date in 1929, the New York stock market collapsed, setting off the worst financial catastrophe in the nation's history.

On this date:

In 1618, Sir Walter Raleigh was executed in London, charged with treason against King James.

In 1814, the first steam warship was launched. It was built by Robert Fulton for the U.S. Navy.

In 1923, the Republic of Turkey was proclaimed.

In 1940, numbers were drawn in the first peacetime draft in the history of the United States.

In 1957, several persons were injured when a hand grenade exploded in the Israeli Parliment in Jerusalem.

Ten Years ago: The United States lifted its naval quarantine on Cuba at the request of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, who flew to Havana for talks with Fidel Castro.

Five years ago: Vice President Hubert Humphrey arrived in Saigon for the inauguration of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu.

One year ago: China announced that a delegation from Peking would arrive at the U.N. "in the near future."

South Central and Southeast Texas: Mostly cloudy Monday and Tuesday with a chance of scattered showers. Partly cloudy Wednesday. Turning a little cooler Wednesday. Low from the mid 50s to the mid 60s. High from the mid 70s to the mid 80s.

MANY ON ENVIRONMENTAL MEASURES

Nixon Inks Forty-Four Bills

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, bound for campaign stops in Ohio and Michigan, announced Saturday the signing of a variety of bills, many of them environmental and consumer interests measures.

White House officials had indicated Nixon would disclose additional pocket vetoes following a Friday announcement that nine bills had been vetoed. However, a presidential statement dealt only with measures that have won his approval.

The signings announced Sat. total 44. The White House said Nixon still must act on 62 measures passed in the closing days of Congress.

One of the new laws would create an independent Consumer Product Safety Commission to develop and enforce safety standards for items ranging from lawn mowers to kitchen ranges.

While signing the measure, Nixon complained that it "contains certain language which will tend to weaken budget control—and a coordinated, unified budget is the consumers ally in keeping inflation and taxes down."

The President also signed measures aimed at controlling ocean dumping, protecting marine mammals and curbing noise.

Of the latter law, Nixon said, "It will enable the Environmental Protection Agency to set limits on the amount of noise permitted both from trucks, buses and railroad trains operating in interstate commerce and from a variety of newly manufactured products such as jackhammers and compressors, automobiles, motorcycles, snowmobiles, motors and engines."

The measure also permits the EPA to require labeling of noise emission levels on household appliances and other products.

Also signed were laws creating Gateway National Recreational Areas around New York City and in San Francisco's Golden Gate region.

The President signed the bills just before departing for a five hour motorcade taking him and wife Pat from Cleveland to Warren, Ohio. He also planned to stop on the way home at Sagniaw, Mich.

In vetoing nine bills Friday, Nixon argued the vetoes would curb federal spending by about $2.75 billion in the period ending June 30, 1974.

V-Cong Vows To Abide By Terms

SAIGON AP—The Viet Cong pledged today to "absolutely respect and carry out all provisions," of the Paris peace agreement worked out by the United States and North Vietnam, and declared there would be "no liquidation" of opposing forces in South Vietnam.

At the same time, President Nguyen Van Thieu placed South Vietnam's armed forces on a general alert as Communist troops launched a land-grab drive in anticipation of the cease-fire going into effect soon, allied officials said.

Reports circulated in Washington, meanwhile, that presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger's departure for Paris was imminent. There were indications that a new session between Kissinger and the North Vietnamese could come as early as this weekend. But White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said: "As in the past, we will announce further meetings" when they occur.

In its first official statement on the peace package, the Viet Cong's Liberation Radio said responsible Viet Cong representatives "will immediately conduct negotiations with the present Saigon administration to settle in concert together the internal problems of South Vietnam.

"These will be settled on the basis of equality, mutual respect, and nonliquidation of each other.

"We have every good will attitude necessary to end the war, restore peace, eradicate all hatred and anger, realize national concord, and together heal our war wounds, unite with each other, love and care for each other, and to live together in happiness and prosperity."

The pledge to abide by the terms of the Paris agreement came at the end of a long state-statement that started with a declaration that the United States must sign the pact if it wanted an end to the Vietnam war. The statement also accused both Saigon and Washington of "treacherous maneuvers threatening the entire question of peace in Vietnam," and said unless the agreement was signed by Tuesday, military attacks in South Vietnam would be intensified.

United Way Has Half Of Goal

The Scurry County United Way has reached 52 per cent of its objective, results of a report session Friday afternoon revealed.

Contributions and pledges totalling $19,635 have been reported so far in the drive to support 13 participating agencies who share in the United Way receipts. The goal is $38,000.

The reports Friday included all divisions except the professional division, which still has not reported during the campaign.

The commercial division, which launched its drive first continues to lead in contributions and pledges with $5,334.

Other divisions had reported as follows to date: Advance, $2,350; special $570; utilities $2,000; rural, $659; educational, $2,363; public employes, $804; oil and industry, $3,545; branch house, $1,345.

The next general report session has been set for 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 3, at the city hall. All workers have been asked to try to complete their assignments by that time.

59 Perish In French Air Crash

CLERMONT-FERRAND, FRANCE (AP) 59 persons were killed Friday night when a domestic French airliner with 68 aboard crashed into a wooded hill in Central France and burst into pieces, authorities said.

All five crew members perished. Everyone aboard was believed to be French.

There was no explosion or fire.

The nine survivors, who included a five-year-old boy, were carried by stretcher to tractors and taken to ambulances parked on a road.

Rescue efforts were blocked for two hours when a boulder rolled onto the forest trail and blocked movement of the tractors. The survivors were hospitalized but initial reports indicated none was in danger.

The four-engine turboprop, a British-made Vickers Viscount, was owned by Air-Inter. It was en route from Lyon to Clermont-Ferrand.

Ground stations lost radio contact with the plane about 10 minutes before it was due to land.

Airport authorities at Clermont said the Viscount flew over the airport and then, with radio contact cut, made a complete turnabout for unknown reasons.

Rescue teams, including the National Police, cut through dense forest to reach the wreckage.

One of the survivors, 55-year-old Marcel Delcroix, said he often flew from Lyon and "this time I had the impression that something was wrong. I told the young woman sitting alongside me. I felt the plane was going to crash. I undid my belt and was thrown out. I waited for help for about six hours."

Five-year-old Sylvain Montonnex fought back tears and repeatedly told rescuers that he wasn't hurt.

In another air disaster, five U.S. Air Force men from Ohio were killed Friday when an Air Force plane crashed in southern France en route to Athens, Greece.

The plane, a four-engine C119, war being delivered to Greece from Lockbourne Air Force Base in Ohio.

FBI Ends Program

WASHINGTON AP—The FBI, which never before had acknowledged that it maintained files on Congress members and candidates, now says that it had been doing so for 22 years but stopped the practice Friday.

"Such a program is not essential to FBI operations," said Acting Director L. Patrick Gray III as he ordered an end to it.

"I believe it is obvious that it can be misinterpreted easily as a program to investigate congressmen and congressional candidates," he added in the statement released to newsmen. "Therefore, I have decided to terminate this program as of today."

Gray said that, although the agency had maintained files of biographical data on congressional members and candidates, it had not conducted full-fledged investigations of them.

The FBI came under attack during the last years of J. Edgar Hoover's reign for allegedly tapping telephones of some congressmen or investigating them in other ways.

Mrs. Bell Dies Here Saturday

Mrs. Ruth Bell, 49, who lived at 3905 Muriel Drive, died at 8:15 a.m. Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

She is survived by her husband, Raymond Bell Sr.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Kennedy Subpoenas Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has been subpoenaing documents for two weeks for an investigation by his subcommittee into the Watergate break-in and other alleged incidents of political espionage, The Washington Post said Saturday.

But the newspaper reported Capitol Hill sources believe that the Massachusetts Democrat will wait until well beyond the Nov. 7 election before attempting to open public hearings.

The Post also said former White House aide E. Howard Hunt, indicted in the Watergate case, served as chairman of a network of "dummy committees" designed to hide campaign contributions from milk cooperatives to President Nixon's re-election efforts.

Details of the fund-raising plan were brought out in the documents and statements taken in a civil suit, the Post said.

In the suit, consumer advocate Ralph Nader contended the Nixon administration raised milk price supports as a payoff for more than $300,000 in campaign gifts from three large milk co-ops.

In a related development, U.S. District Court Chief Judge John J. Sirica postponed until Jan. 8 the criminal trial of seven men indicted in the break-in of the Democratic national headquarters.

Sirica said he suffers from a painful pinched nerve and his physician advised him not to hear the case until next year. The trial had been scheduled to start Nov. 15.

The Post said Kennedy's Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure has issued at least five subpoenas, including one to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

Fred Langbein, chief spokesman for the telephone company, told the Post that his firm was served with a subpoena last week and the records had already been sent to Capitol Hill.

STRANGE INTRUDER—Buck Logan holds a nutria, or coypu if you want to get technical, which was killed by dogs Friday night at his farm 2½ miles south of Snyder. The nutria, an imported animal from South America, has gained footholds in East and South Texas, but is seldom seen in this area. In fact, none of the onlookers who inspected this one had ever seen a nutria around here before. The animal has strong teeth and is noted for eating aquatic growth. It also has webbed hind feet to propel it through the water.

Horatio Alger Awards To 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven men who made it up the fabled American stepladder from Humble beginnings to sucess have received 26th annual Horatio Alger awards.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, award committee chairman of the American Schools & Colleges Association, presented bronze plaques Friday to 10 of the winners in a ceremony at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The 11th winner, James Reston, columnist and vice president of the New York Times, was prevented from attending by the press of developments in Vietnam.

The other 10 winners were:

—William E. Bailey, 42, founder of Bestline Products.

—Lee S. Bickmore, 64, board chairman of the National Biscuit Co.

—Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, 75, who led a famous air raid on Tokyo during World War II.

—Floyd Odlum, 80, retired financier.

—Patrick L. O'Malley, 61, president and chief executive officer of Canteen Corp., a food and vending company.

—Ross Perot, 42, Texas millionaire who founded Electronic Data Systems.

—James R. Price, 61 board chairman and chief executive officer of National Homes Corp., a producer of prefabricated homes.

—Henry G. Walter, former president of the Gerrard Steel Strapping Co., who has devoted his time since retiring in 1957 to raising money for schools, hospitals, and charities.

LETTER TO EDITOR

To The Daily News:

Having lived in Dallas a while, I was accustomed to hearing and reading such derogatory remarks as "Will Rogers never met George McGovern." But, frankly, I was a little disappointed to see it in print on the front page of the Snyder paper.

To demean and abuse candidates personally who run for public office (rather than to present and vote on their records) seems to have become a way of life in this country. There is nothing too vicious or insulting to say about a candidate, his wife or his family—and the public accepts it, even to the point of thinking it witty and appropriate. This erosion of our manners and morals will have a telling effect at home as it already has abroad—another classic example of Khrushchev's remark!

Why should anyone sink to such tactics of campaigning? I can only think of two reasons, (neither of which is honorable) one would be to divert attention from other issues and the other would be to wilfully try to blacken a man's character by innuendo.

Politically yours,
Mrs. Willie Thompson

Basic Training Is Completed

FORT POLK, La.–Army Private Robert B. Sorrells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Sorrells, Star Route, Ira, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry, at Fort Polk.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and army history and traditions.

He received the training with Company B, 4th Battalion of the 1st Brigade. The 20-year-old soldier is a 1970 graduate of Borden County High School at Gail. His wife, Carol, lives at 603 Steakley, Big Spring.

Vandals Hit Cars Friday Night

Vandals threw a rock through the windshield of Jack McGlaun's car while he was driving at Fortieth Street and Irving at 10:18 p.m. Friday, according to a City Police report. McGlaun resides at 3207 Forty-second Street.

Officers said someone also threw a rock and hit the car of Ralph Eades, 3505 Houston, while he was driving on Fortieth Street about 9:30 p.m. Friday.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

Minor damage resulted from a two-vehicle collision in the 1300 block of the Old Lubbock Highway at 2:08 p.m. Friday.

Involved were the 1971 Model Ford pickup of Albert Malone, 610 Thirty-fourth Street, and a 1969 Model Ford operated by Janice Everett Hembree, 2101 West Drive.

Tape Is Stolen

Thieves stole an 8-track stereo tape from the car of Grant Knipe, 3205 Forty-second Street, while it was parked at the Steak House between 4 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Friday. The loss was placed at $6.

Freedom gives her a new 'high'

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I am so happy about a recent "victory," I have to share it with someone.

About two years ago I started taking "diet pills" to control my appetite. They made me feel so great. Too great. That was the trouble. Before I knew it I was taking so many I stopped counting. I was hooked and didn't know how to get off them and still function daily. [I am a registered nurse and should have known better.] I was averaging four to five hours of sleep at night and I was ruining my family life with my impatience, irritability and tenseness.

Finally one morning my head was reeling from exhaustion and too many pills and I couldn't remember whether I had bathed the kids before I put them to bed. I knew I had to have help, and then I did something I hadn't done in years. I prayed. And by God [literally] somehow I found the courage to take those pills and flush them all down the toilet.

I'd be lying if I said the next few weeks were easy. More than once I was tempted to get more pills, but I prayed for the strength to keep me from it.

It's been months since I've taken a pill and I feel like a new person. I am "high" on being free from artificial stimulation which has to end in a depression.

I know this is too long to print, but please try to find room in your column for some of it, Abby. I'm sure there are others who are hooked as badly as I was, and if I can kick the habit with prayer, so can they. Thank you.

BORN AGAIN IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR BORN: Your inspiring message is well worth fitting into my column. The power of prayer can move mountains.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl, but my mother calls me a "baby elephant." I don't know how much I weigh because I'm afraid to get on a scale. I've tried to stay away from sweets and fattening things, but I always fall back in my old ways.

I asked my mother to send me to a doctor who would put me on a diet and she said, "I am not laying out money for any doctor. You are not sick, you are just a big pig, and all you need is willpower.

Abby, I know my willpower is weak, but I just have to do something about my weight. All my girl friends have boys walk them home from school and call them up and I don't have anybody. And it looks like I'm never going to get anybody the way I am. Can you help me? FATSO

DEAR FATSO: For openers, I respectfully disagree with your mother. The only sensible and safe way to lose weight is to go to a doctor for a complete physical and a prescribed diet. My advice to you is to offer to pay for the doctor's visit. You can earn the money baby sitting or doing chores if you really want to. Good luck. And I want a progress report from you.

DEAR ABBY: Grandfather was worried because his 5-year-old grandson was flying alone by plane from one coast to the other. He said, "the boy needs more than a couple of stewardesses who do nothing but grin at him like a couple of Cheshire cats."

Has he ever seen Cheshire cats deal with skyjackers, bomb threats, or passengers who are sightless, hard-of-hearing, crippled or drunk? Has a Cheshire cat ever given oxygen or dealt with any number of medical emergencies such as heart attack, seizure, or the premature birth of a baby? Has he ever seen a Cheshire cat carry luggage, change diapers, warm bottles and play games with children, or relieve the anxiety of an elderly passenger on her first flight?

It's my opinion that the boy would be safer in the care of a stewardess than with his grandfather. Or hasn't grandpa got all his marbles? STEWARDESS

DEAR STEWARDESS: Grandpa probably has all his marbles, but he doesn't have all his facts. Thanks for filling him in.

Summer Date Set On Airport

AUSTIN (AP) — The gigantic Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, one of the largest construction projects in Texas history, is about two-thirds complete and should be finished by late next summer, a business researcher said Saturday.

Construction costs will total about $341.2 million and the total airport investment is expected to reach nearly $700 million, said Charles Zlatkovich of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

Land for the 17,000-acre airport between Dallas and Fort Worth cost the two cities $58 million.

Zlatkovich said the airport "will be one of the nation's busiest from the day it opens." Dallas-Fort Worth already ranks 10th among all urban areas in the country as an origin and destination point for domestic air passenger trips, totaling 2.43 million in 1971, he said, adding that it is expected to reach 8.3 million in 10 years.

"An interesting irony of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport is that while it is the first of the 'jumbo hub' airports in the United States, it may be also the last, at least for the foreseeable future," Zlatkovich said.

"Increased environmental awareness and high-density development around major airports have made them unwelcome neighbors in many cities. The classical solution to the problem has been to move the airport to another site, frequently out in the boondocks. Now, however, many regions have run out of boondocks, except in areas so remote that an airport would be of little benefit," he added.

The only two major airports under construction in the United States are at Kansas City and Dallas-Fort Worth.

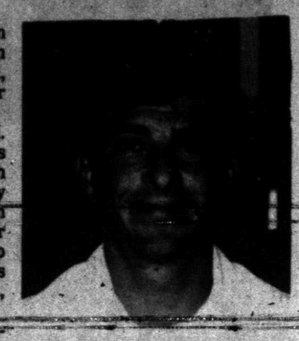

The "positive economic effect" on the Dallas-Fort Worth area is predicted at $202 million by 1975.

Snyderite Named 'Sailor Of Year'

YFC POWLEDGE

Yeoman First Class Martin Denny Powledge has been awarded the Columbia Council, Navy League Sailor of the Year for 1972.

The son of Mrs. and Mrs. E. M. Powledge, Route 1 Snyder, he is a 1964 graduate of Snyder High School. He enlisted in the Navy in August of 1964 and has been on continuous active duty ever since. He has been assigned to the Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Center in Columbia, S.C., since 1968.

"In his capacity as Administrative Coordinator of the Reserve Center, Petty Officer Powledge's personal and professional performance has been of the highest order," it was noted in the citation. "His reputation for outstanding performance is well-known throughout the Sixth Naval District. Petty Officer Powledge, by his superb professionalism, keen intellect and responsible position in the Columbia Community is a worthy recipient of the Columbia Council, Navy League recognition as Sailor of the Year 1972.

Powledge holds the Bronze Star and the Combat "V" for valor which he received for his actions in fighting a napalm fire aboard the USS Liberty in 1967 when it was attacked by Israeli planes and gunboats during the Arab-Israeli conflict. He has received numerous commendations from each command in which he has served.

Petty Officer Powledge is married to the former Judy Burditt and they are parents of 17 months old twin sons.

Fund Started For Youth

A special fund is being started in behalf of Charles (Ernie) Shifflett, who has been ill since last spring and now is hospitalized at Lubbock.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Shifflett, he was hospitalized for more than a month in late summer after receiving treatment for several weeks. He recently was returned to Lubbock for further treatment.

Friends have announced that a special fund is being established to assist the family with their financial burden. Contributions may be made by submitting them, either in person or by mail, to John Greene at West Texas State Bank, or Rex Robinson at Snyder National Bank.

Who will tell Rich Anderson how to vote?

Rich Anderson is the one man running for state representative in this district who knows the people in all the counties he's seeking to represent.
He's spent 20 years working with these folks in business, church and community activities. During this period of time people who've gotten to know Rich have learned that he's a very honest man—and that he's very much a man of his word.

Check with people who know Rich in the new district: Howard, Dawson, Scurry, Borden, Coke and Sterling counties. They'll tell you there's not a way in the world Rich would let the big lobbies or special interest groups influence his vote. Or push him around.
Rich Anderson is his own man. He's making just one campaign promise: to be a representative you'll be proud of.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I don't feel 90 in my head, but I feel 180 in my body." Dame Sybil Thorndike, first lady of the British stage on her 90th birthday.

"She has tried to maintain herself as a private person. If you go out campaigning, it puts a different light on the situation." Nancy Tuckerman, a spokesman for Jacqueline Onassis, explaining why the former first lady had canceled plans to campaign for Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

"It made tears come to my eyes." Pat Nixon as she presented the "blind worker of the year award" to Mazelle Sullivan of Talladega, Ala.

"They can send a man to the moon, so why can't they make a head of lettuce that tastes like lasagna?" Julie DeJohn, 300-pound entertainer.

"Christmas gift-giving has been tragically overemphasized. The desire to give things to each other is a good thing and of course it does have a valid beginning, going back to the gifts to the Christ child. But it has been exploited, and sometimes we lose sight of the basic event." Marjorie Holmes, author of "Two From Galilee."

Class Does Well With Money

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — It wouldn't be too bad a bet to let Prof. John Grencer's Moravian College economics class play with your money.

His students have run up a 94 per cent gain over the past 28 months in their investments on the New York stock market. This compares to a 51 per cent gain during that time for the Dow-Jones average.

The fund for the class comes from $74,000 donated over the past decade by Moravian trustee Irving S. Armhein and his wife. Students' investments have boosted the value to $127,000.

WEDDING PLANS ANNOUNCED--Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Rhodes, 2207 Forty-third Street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kathy Jo, to Craig B. Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Franklin of 2701 Ave. E. The wedding will be Jan. 12 at the First Assembly of God Church.

Every person who uses shellac has his own method of handling it, whether it be in the application or in the proportion that is mixed with denatured alcohol.

One of the most remarkable features of shellac is that it has retained its popularity since the earliest days of civilization despite the introduction of many other finishing materials. Also, it is very versatile, being used sometimes as a sealer, sometimes as an undercoat and sometimes as a final finish.

For virtually all work that the home handyman is likely to do, shellac must be thinned with denatured alcohol in a 50-50 mixture. Later, as he becomes accustomed to using shellac, he can experiment with different proportions and join the ranks of those who tell of their preference for a particular mixture.

While shellac dries dust-free in a few minutes, it is not wise to apply a second coat for at least three hours and even longer than that before a third coat. Like all finishing materials, shellac is best applied in a series of thin coats rather than one thick coat. Sanding between coats should be done lightly with a fine grade of paper. Waxing the final coat gives a good sheen as well as extra protection.

The most common forms of shellac are white and orange. The white is actually clear. The orange imparts color without obscuring the grain of the wood. Purchase only as much shellac as will be required in less than six months. It has a tendency to deteriorate after that period.

Occasionally, someone will apply shellac only to discover that the finish has clouded or whitened. Known to professional wood finishers as "blooming," this results from applying the shellac to a damp surface or in a moisture-laden atmosphere. Shellac should be used in a room which is comfortable to human beings; that is, with a temperature of between 70 and 72 degrees. However, if there is too much moisture in the air, it is better to postpone the task to another day.

If water is left on a shellacked surface a long time, it may cause a white stain in that area. This can be eliminated by flowing on a coat of denatured alcohol with a brush. If any rubbing with an alcohol-dampened cloth is necessary, it should be done lightly so as to remove the stain without disturbing the original finish.

A brush used for shellac should be cleaned with denatured alcohol as quickly after usage as possible. Keep one or more brushes specifically for shellac, never using them for paint or varnish. Don't rely on your memory. After a brush has been used for shellac, write the initial "S" on the handle with a permanent marking pencil.

(The techniques of using shellac, varnish, lacquer, stains, bleaches and varnish removers are detailed in Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

The display, sponsored by the Asia Association of America, started in New York Oct. 5, moves to Cleveland, Jan. 9; Indiana, March 21; Montreal, July 1; Seattle, Sept. 17, and then Dallas, Nov. 1.

Couple Weds At Amarillo

Carla Lynn Glass became the bride of Ronald Ray Baldwin in a candle lit ceremony held at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Amarillo. The Rev. R.H. MacLelan officiated.

The bride was attended by Pam Boswell, LaQuita Madden and Sherrie Baldwin, sister of the groom. Wendi Baldwin served a flower girl and Todd Baldwin was the ring bearer. Cynthia and Debbie Baldwin lit candles.

Attending the groom were Micky Brown, Allen Pippin and Mark Glass, brother of the bride. Ushers were Dennis Widner, Mike O'Brien, Mark Glass and Allen Pippin.

Following a wedding trip to Denver, Colo., the couple will be at home in Pueblo, Colo.

Wide Pants Are Standouts

NEW YORK (AP) — Wide pants, inspired by 1920s men's trousers, were standouts at Geoffrey Beene's spring showing.

The wide pants were very good in soft, mushroom-colored jersey, topped with navy linen blazers.

Among the best were combinations of lush linens and jerseys — or chiffons and suedes — with Beene's well-known tailoring and clean lines.

A pale pink suede baseball jacket contrast with a blue pants ensemble, for instance.

Other news from Beene for spring is: the baby dolman sleeve, halters and the swallow-tail lapel.

This lapel is rounded and sticks out. It makes you want to smooth it down. Beene liked it on several evening halter dresses, as well as full-skirted day styles.

Coty Award-winning designer John Anthony kept pants mostly for day. He's continued the straight cut, but has added pockets and belts.

"I want the collection to contrast innocence with great daring. That's how it is with any attractive woman," said Anthony following his spring show Thursday.

He's discarded most of his 1930s-inspired wide-lapeled jackets and has taken up the innocent cardigan. It was worn with wicked little georgette blouses, cut down in front.

"The whole collection is navy, red, green and-or white. For no reason except they are beautiful together," said Anthony.

For day, these colors were used for a series of precisely-cut, solid colored suits, with pants or skirts.

He did a series of striped sequin ensembles, in navy and white.

CHOCOLATE PUFF

2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup fine soft bread crumbs
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated

In a 1½-quart heavy saucepan over low heat, heat the chocolate and milk until chocolate melts, remove from heat and whip or blend any chocolate flocks. Add butter, crumbs, sugar and salt and stir to blend. In a small mixing bowl, beat egg yolks slightly; stir in a little of the hot chocolate mixture, then stir back into pan. Cool. In the clean small mixing bowl beat the egg whites until stiff; fold into chocolate mixture. Turn into a buttered 1-quart round glass casserole (6½ by 2¼ inches) or similar utensil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until cracked and slightly crusty on top—40 minutes. Serve at once (before puff sinks) with whipped cream. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Here's the Answer

Q.—One of the rooms in my house has been turned into an office. There are three filing cabinets in it, all made of metal. The green color of them has faded some and there are several places where the paint is chipped slightly. Do I have to remove the old paint if I decide to repaint them?

A.—No. Steel wool the chipped areas until they are smooth. Wipe off any wool particles, then go ahead with the painting. This is on the assumption that the cabinets do not have glossy finishes. If they do, then the entire cabinets should be steel wooled to dull the gloss. In repainting, be sure to use a paint designed for metal.

Q.—Can a china cup, broken into three pieces, be repaired with cement and, if so, with what kind? After such a repair, if it is possible, can hot coffee or tea be used in the cup? Can it be cleaned in a dishwasher?

A.—Use what is called a clear cement for repairing the cup. Be sure to read the label on the tube. It will tell you whether you have the right kind of cement. If the label doesn't say that the cement is waterproof and heatproof, better ask the dealer to select the proper type.

When you use it, wait about 48 hours (or whatever the directions specify) for the cement to harden thoroughly. It then will withstand both hot beverages and the hot water in the dishwasher.

Q.—I am confused as to whether I should get a chalking paint or a nonchalking paint for the outside of my house. I am going to use an oil paint.

A.—So-called chalking paints are those designed to wash away the dirt during a rainfall or when hosed down. However, I would not advise you to use one of these self-cleaning paints if the lower part of your house has either brick or stone on it, as either would be stained by the chalk as it rolls down the side of the exterior.

Q.—I have some instructions about using boiled linseed oil for a wood finishing job. How long should the oil be boiled and how is it done?

Novel Describes Big Bend Country

CHARGE OF THE MODEL T'S. By Lee Somerville, Naylor, San Antonio. $7.95.

A novel about the Big Bend Country of Texas in the fall of 1971 when a German agent arrives to start trouble between the United States and Mexico to upset the U.S. war effort.

The novel has some basis in fact, centered on Lt. Matt Jones' new concept of the cavalry—motorized troops instead of horsemen.

The lieutenant's efforts to repel a Mexican raid into the United States are high humor, with the officer leading troops in a Model T, followed by a barmaid in a Hupmobile, the druggist in a Dodge, an Indian's Packard and two rented Fords.

Henry Lee Somerville, the author, is a Texas-Born retired lieutenant colonel and professional fiction writer.—The AP (REF).

COOKING IS FUN

ORAN SPANISH CREAM

A delectable but inexpensive dessert

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup orange juice
2 eggs, separated
1-3rd cup sugar
1 cup scalded milk
½ teaspoon lemon rind
½ teaspoon orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In a cup sprinkle the gelatin over the orange juice and set aside to soften. In the top of a double-boiler beat the egg yolks slightly; beat in sugar; gradually beat in milk; cook over hot, not boiling, water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats a silver spoon—about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add softened gelatin; stir until dissolved. Stir in rinds and lemon juice; chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into gelatin mixture. Turn into 6-ounce custard cups. Chill until set; cover with plastic film. Unmold at serving time. Garnish with membrane-free orange sections. Makes 6 servings.

Coed Trying To Break Rank

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A coed with a nearly straight-A academic record at the University of Minnesota is trying to break into the all-male ranks of the Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford.

Eileen Lach, 22, Minneapolis, has the support of E. W. McDiarmid, director of the graduate fellowship office at the university. He said the all-male requirement is a violation of the university's antidiscrimination policies.

McDiarmid said it may take an act of the British Parliament to change requirements of the scholarship, established in 1902 when Oxford was only for men. Oxford accepted women beginning in 1920.

Mrs. Secretary-General Offered Companionship

EDITOR'S NOTE—Since her husband became secretary-general of the United Nations, Elisabeth Waldheim has had offers from women around the world who want to be her "companion." She not only doesn't need someone to help her spend her time, the applicants probably couldn't have kept up with her anyway.

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Elisabeth Waldheim—world traveler, household manager and reluctant star of the diplomatic social circuit—wonders why women keep writing with offers to help fill her spare time.

"I don't know what they think I do—lie around with my feet up all day?" she asked.

Women in the United States, Austria and Germany wrote the wife of the world's top diplomat in a recent week offering their services as her companion. They said they were accomplished conversationalists and good at such things as walking in the park.

Even with Kurt Waldheim working around the clock as U.N. secretary-general, Mrs. Waldheim says her time is more than taken up by the some 20 requests she receives each day for appearances—most of which she rejects—and by managing homes in two countries, caring for the youngest of their three children and traveling to such places as Peking and Moscow.

"What I need is a good cook and an efficient maid," she said in an interview.

Mrs. Waldheim, a lively and handsome 50-year-old, has carefully styled brown hair with auburn highlights, and big brown eyes. She is nearly 5-feet-10 and with the addition of high heels stands almost as tall as her 6-feet-2 husband.

She met Kurt Waldheim when both were students at the University of Vienna during World War II, and they married in 1944. She studied law, then worked for two years before and after their marriage—until she climbed up to a farmhouse in the mountains outside Vienna as the war closed in on the city and, with only her mother and a midwife to help, gave birth to Liselotte, their first child.

The day was May 7, 1945, the day Germany signed an unconditional surrender. Or as Mrs. Waldheim puts it: "The end of war and the beginning of peace."

"With the career of my husband there was no question of my working after that," she said. "Friends sometimes ask if I regret that I gave up working, but I never have time to think about it."

Waldheim's first foreign post was with the legation in Paris in 1948. Since then, he has had three stints at the United Nations, been ambassador to Canada and served two years as foreign minister. Last year, he ran unsuccessfully for president of Austria.

Liselotte, now 27, earned a master's degree in international affairs at Columbia University and began her own U.N. career 5½ years ago. She works in the U.N. narcotic and drug division in Geneva.

Son Gerhard, born in Paris 24 years ago, finished law studies at the University of Vienna and now studies at Harvard Business School. Canadian-born Christa, 13, is a student at the Lycee Francais in New York.

The family has an apartment in Vienna, a house near Vienna and the place they call home—a summer house on a lake near Salzburg. They like to spend summers in Austria so the children will not forget the German language. The entire family also speaks French and English.

The elder Waldheim and Christa make their New York home in a Carlyle Hotel suite while waiting to move into the four-story mansion on Manhattan's Sutton Place which will become the first official residence of U.N. secretaries-general.

J. Pierpont Morgan, the financier, had the Georgian-style townhouse built for his daughter Anne more than 50 years ago. Miss Morgan died in 1952, and the house was acquired by Arthur A. Houghton Jr., president of Steuben Glass. Houghton made a gift of the house this year for use as a residence for the secretary-general. Real estate brokers recently valued it at more than $1 million. Mrs. Waldheim is busy selecting furnishings. Most things are being bought here or in Austria, but some are coming from other countries.

"This is the first time I am decorating a house that is not an Austrian embassy," she said. "Generally, I did things Austrian. This time I thought I should do it more international."

Crews from the big U.N. maintenance and building section are also at work on the house. They are putting on a new roof, renewing much of the plumbing, painting the interior and converting eight tiny servants' rooms into larger rooms.

Tentative plans are to move in next month, but furniture deliveries and construction work could delay that.

One of the biggest changes in the family's life since Waldheim succeeded U Thant on Jan. 1 is that they go out less in the evening.

"As ambassador we had guests in or went out every evening. Now we go out only to certain things. From diplomatic missions we accept only luncheons because if we accept one cocktail invitation from a delegation we have to accept them all—and there are 132 countries. Also, the evenings are needed by my husband for his work."

For the same reasons, she is not certain how much entertaining they will do once they move into the house.

Waldheim has traveled to five continents as secretary-general, and Mrs. Waldheim has accompanied him on several trips. She had seen Moscow before, but Peking was new and impressive to her, "the cleanest city I've seen in my life."

When Chinese officials asked what she wanted to do while her husband had talks she produced a long list and her hosts set up the visits.

"They didn't refuse one single thing I asked," she said.

She saw cotton mills, schools, a kindergarten—"the children were pink and rosy and well-nourished"—a workman's living quarters and the gleaming, marble-lined subway. Mrs. Waldheim worries about gaining weight and says everyone in the family normally eats light meals. In China she faced lunches and dinners which seemed to run to 15 courses, but it was light food.

"It must take hours to prepare the dishes," she said. "I don't think we had anything twice except for Peking duck."

They even had aged eggs, the dish the Chinese prepare by wrapping raw eggs in a mixture of limestone and mud and placing them in the ground for about a month.

"Everybody wanted to see if I would eat them," she said. "I did. My husband said it was too bad Liselotte missed them because she always wants to try new things. So they packed a box full of eggs and we took it to her when we stopped in Europe."

Mrs. Waldheim doesn't say whether she really likes her nonsalaried job as international first lady but says she can last as long as her husband wants to be secretary-general.

"If a man likes something very much, it is all you can ask for," she said. "When he comes home so late and so tired sometimes I wonder. But I'm not complaining. He knew it was a difficult job. Maybe he didn't know how difficult. But he gets great satisfaction from it."

Women To Be Honored In New Hall Of Fame

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — This Finger Lakes village, site of the first Women's Rights Convention in 1848, will soon be home to a national women's hall of fame.

A National Honors Committee of 25 women and men has been mulling over a list of 30 prominent American women of the past and present who have been nominated for enshrinement.

Mrs. George M. Bantuvanis, president of the Hall of Fame corporation, said plans are to keep the identities of the honored women a secret until the Hall of Fame is opened officially.

Initially, the hall will be housed in a campus building at Eisenhower College, a liberal arts school in Seneca Falls.

The corporation hopes eventually to construct its own building on land the college already has agreed to donate, Mrs. Bantuvanis said, and aid from foundations and individuals is being sought.

Seneca Falls gained prominence 124 years ago when pioneer suffragettes Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott convened the Women's Rights Convention here. Mrs. Stanton and Amelia Bloomer, another early activist, resided in the village.

The idea of the Hall of Fame was given birth more than three years ago by a group of local women, who held an organizational tea to interest others. The corporation now has about 115 members, mainly in eastern states, who pay annual dues of $5.

Pat Nixon, wife of the President, is an honorable member of the board.

"We went into it full force, securing legal counsel to set up a constitution and handle incorporation and soliciting suggestions for women to be honored from members of the public, national organizations and newspaper editors," Mrs. Bantuvanis said.

Official documents of the hall state that women to be enshrined must be or have been United States citizens "whose contributions to the arts, athletics, business, education, government, humanities, philanthropy and science have been of the greatest value for the development of their country."

After the initial election, at least five women will be elected to the hall at five-year intervals by the honors committee.

Lucy Returning To The Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedienne Lucille Ball, after a four-year absence from movies, is returning as the star of the musical "Mame."

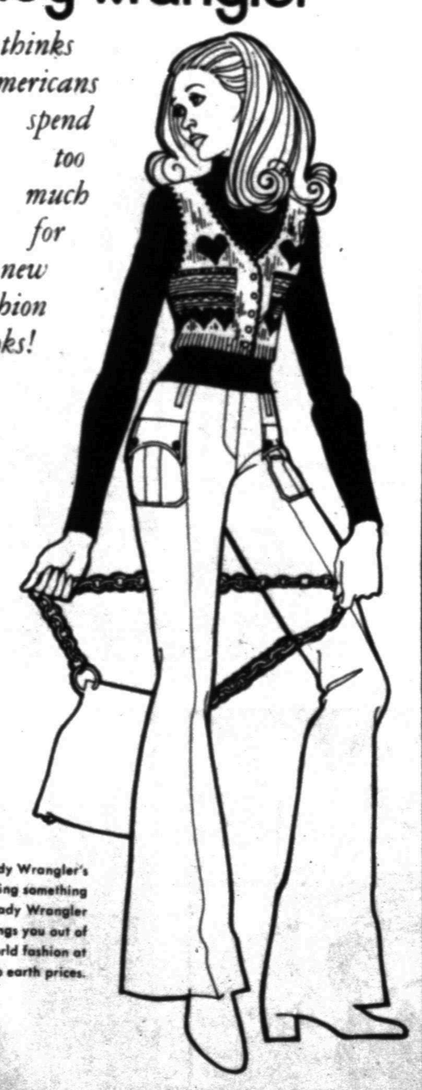

Warner Bros. Studios said Thursday it will start shooting the movie in January with Miss Ball portraying the flamboyant "Auntie Mame," a role created in the nonmusical version by Rosalind Russell in the 1960s.

The film will be produced by Robert Fryer and James Cresson and directed by Gene Saks from a screenplay by Paul Zindel.

Miss Ball's last movie was "Yours, Mine and Ours" in 1968.

—NOTICE TO PUBLIC—
We wish to extend to our friends and customers a heartfelt thanks for their patronage...also the help extended us during the recent flood. As many know we received a great deal of damage to our building, as well as our huge stock of merchandise. During our after flood sale we moved a great deal of our water damaged stock but still have a sizeable amount to dispose of.
We have decided to clear out entire stock including out two huge warehouses (that were not involved in the flood). Upon completion of this tremendous auction we will completely repair, remodel and redecorate our entire building. Please be assured that about half of the merchandise included in this stock close-out will be stock not involved in the flood in any way.
We invite you to attend the open house this Sunday afternoon and inspect our huge stock. This is truly the greatest sale of its kind ever held in this area.
The auction is so tremendous in scope it has been placed in the hands of the National Auction Co. Tommy Goodwin, America's leading merchandise auctioneer, will conduct.
See you at the Sunday Open House,
Hoyt

U. S. Juvenile Court System Under Assault

EDITOR'S NOTE—The juvenile court system in America is under heavy criticism. Some fight a system that judges and jails children without offering them the constitutional rights accorded adults. Others lament the court's awesome power to touch the lives of noncriminal children in ways adults would never tolerate.

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Manacled like desperadoes, the children troop through the dreary corridors of juvenile court.

"This way, sonny," a white-haired sheriff's deputy says, jerking a 10-year-old boy handcuffed to him. The boy stares at his mother, his saucer eyes wetting. But he blinks back the tears, and moves on.

Twelve boys being shepherded to court.

Not one has committed an offense against any criminal code. These are truants, runaways, children whose parents can't control them.

Along with boys and girls who have committed serious offenses—from mayhem to murder—they are ensnared in a process that in the name of humanity has denied them certain constitutional rights and almost ritualistically consigned them to the jail-prison treadmill.

For some of those who rebel at incarceration and become known as incorrigible or troublemakers, there will be days passed in the twilight of heavy sedation because of drug injections to control them.

And so today, the juvenile court system in the United States—a system which was pioneered in Cook County at the end of the 19th century—is under bitter assault.

Its critics say it needs overhauling. They say the major failings are:

—Nearly half its annual national caseload, about 450,000 cases, involves noncriminal minors such as truants and runaways.

—While its founders promised nonprison, being protective custody, on any given day at least 13,000 boys and girls are detained in institutions which are, in fact, prisons. Another 100,000 are in county jails and police lockups.

—Children forfeit vital constitutional rights, such as bail, jury trial and determinate sentencing, in order to have the protection of the Juvenile Court, and in the process sometimes risk greater penalties than would be possible in a Criminal Court.

—The Juvenile Court, under the parens patrias doctrine which makes the state a father, has awesome power to touch the lives of noncriminal children in ways adults would never tolerate.

"There is no state in the union which does an adequate job of serving youngsters in trouble with the law," says Milton G. Rector, director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, (NCCD), which had conducted a survey of the nation's juvenile courts and detention facilities. "The juvenile court, tragically, may indeed be the quickest route to a criminal career."

The Cook County Chicago Juvenile Court—though the nation's first such constituted court—is confronted with the same problems which beset many others across the country."

The handcuffing of children being brought to court or taken to detention facilities is the sight which makes the presiding judge, William Sylvester White, wince.

"Well, it's necessary," explains a sheriff's deputy. "These little ones run, ya know, and they could just scoot out into traffic there on Roosevelt Road and get killed."

That, and much of the depressing quality of the courthouse, is expected to change when a new modern wing is opened. But the physical change still does not address itself to grievances against the system.

Most of the criticism directs itself to those children who are swept into the court's machinery even though they've committed no crimes. These are youngsters who, by definition of the Juvenile Court Act, are:

—Minor otherwise in Need of Supervision: minors under 18 years of age who are beyond the control of parents, guardians or custodians or who are habitually truant from school.

—Neglected Minor: minors under 18 who are neglected as to property or necessary support, education... or who are abandoned by parents, guardians or custodians.

—Dependent Minor: minors under 18 who are without parents, guardians or legal custodians.

In 1971, these three classifications accounted for 9,422 of the 28,740 boys and girls who were named in petitions filed before the Cook County Juvenile Court.

The others—1,318—involved delinquents. Among them were 190 accused of homicide, 3,222 charged with assault, 3,324 charged with burglary, 1,812 with robbery, and 199 with rape.

The label of juvenile delinquent was invented along with the development of a new tribunal which would concentrate on dealing with children who break the law. The creation of the juvenile court system came during the era in which the public school system was being widely expanded and child labor laws were being enacted to end sweatshop evils.

It followed logically that, if in this new court there was a civil rather than a criminal proceeding, those minors who broke the law could not be considered criminals. Thus, juvenile delinquent.

The revised Illinois Juvenile Court Act defines this as "Any boy who prior to his 17th or girl who prior to her 18th birthday, has violated or attempted to violate, regardless of where the act occurred, any federal or state law,or mincipal ordinance; or any minor who has violated a lawful Court order made under the Juvenile Court Act."

For example, consider one of the 12 boys brought into the court in handcuffs. He was a truant and a runaway and seemed beyond control of his mother. Father? No one knew where he was.

Standing before the judge in flapped-tongue sneakers and dressed in light trousers and only an undershirt, he came close to the rail, looking bewildered. The public defender was whispering to the mother, who also seemed bewildered. The assistant state's attorney was going through some papers, counting up the times the boy may have been brought into the precinct police station and released there in a process known as "station adjustment."

The boy was brought in under a petition describing him as a Minor in Need of Supervision. He came via the law enforcement route, which is the way the majority of children get to court. Within less than four minutes, the boy was placed under court supervision for six months, which meant that he was turned over to a probation officer.

This is called a dispositional hearing at which a decision is made regarding the petition. Having decided on probation, the judge tells the boy:

"You go to school, you get home when your mother says, and you do what she tells you. Do you understand?"

The boy nods. But in the corridor it becomes clear that he didn't really understand that if he skipped school, or stayed out late at night, or gave his mother a lot of lip, he could be brought back to court—this time as a delinquent minor.

"It's incredible, isn't it, that nowhere along the line did anyone discover whether the parent or the school may have been at fault," says Patrick Murphy, a lawyer for the Legal Aid Society. "That is one of the inherent weaknesses of the court—its lack of power, authority or will to determine who is at fault. Almost automatically, it is always the child."

The dispositional hearing is preceded by a custody hearing and then an adjudicatory hearing.

Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates won his first National League batting title in 1961, hitting .351. He won three more after that. He was the World Series star last year.

Junior Editors' Quiz on D-DAY

QUESTION: What did the "D" in D-Day mean?

* * *

ANSWER: D-Day was a military expression or code for the date of the invasion of France in World War II. D-Day and H-Hour are standard military terms used in planning and discussing a military operation, before the date and time has been decided.

The retreat of the British through Dunkirk and across the English Channel to England was a remarkable military feat. The British refused to admit defeat in 1940, and conceived the idea of invading Europe as the only way to win the war. The idea of D-Day began in Britain in 1940 and grew when the United States entered the war in 1941.

Everyone, including the Germans, expected the invasion, but no one knew the place or the time. After four years of preparation, D-Day finally occurred on June 6, 1944. British, American and Canadian troops stormed the Normandy beaches. The Allies injected an element of surprise. They had carried on a deception using dummy fleets and aircraft to make it appear that the landing would be at Calais.

Unknown Amendments Important To Texans

By CHRIS HARTE
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Most Texas voters probably have never heard of three of the constitutional amendments on the Nov. 7 ballot, but each is important to some group or section of the state.

The last proposition on the ballot would allow county commissioners to distribute money in county permanent school funds to local school districts to reduce bonded indebtedness or construct buildings.

If Amendment 14 is passed, commissioners could take part of their county's permanent school fund and divide it among the school districts in the county, giving each district an amount proportional to its share of the county student population. The commissioners would be required to leave enough money in the fund "to pay ad valorem taxes on school lands or royalty interests owned at the time of the distribution."

During the 1800s, all but the last few counties to be organized were granted several thousand acres of land to provide funds for public education. Counties were permitted to sell the land, but had to reinvest the proceeds and continue to use the income for the school system.

Amentment 14, if passed, would mark the first time counties have been allowed to spend any part of the princial of the county permanent school funds.

The amendment passed the legislature with only one dissenting vote in each house. Sponsors say the change is necessary to ease the financial strain on school districts, many of which have already sold all the bonds they are legally permitted to issue.

While the distribution would decrease the annual income available to reach county from its permanent fund, supporters of the amendment say the loss would be offset by increased funds from the state, which are allocated in part on the basis of income available from the county fund.

But opponents of the measure use the same fact in arguing against the amendment, saying it would raise considerably the amount of state tax money needed to support the public schools.

They also argue that siphoning off principal from the permanent funds for the first time would set a precedent that might be followed every time the schools face a short-term crisis, a precedent that would deny future generations the funds needed for education.

The next to last amendment on the ballot would permit most state agencies that issue bonds to raise the interest rates they pay to a maximum of 6 per cent.

The Constitution currently contains numerous provisions setting different maximum rates for the bonds of cities, counties, political subdivisions and various state agencies.

Almost all of the rates are set below 5 per cent, a figure well under the rates on most bonds being sold today on the open market.

This makes Texas' bonds hard to sell, supporters of the amendment say. They warn that if it does not pass, many programs—like the Parks and Wildlife Department's parks program or the loans made to veterans for the purchase of land—would have to be cut back or dropped.

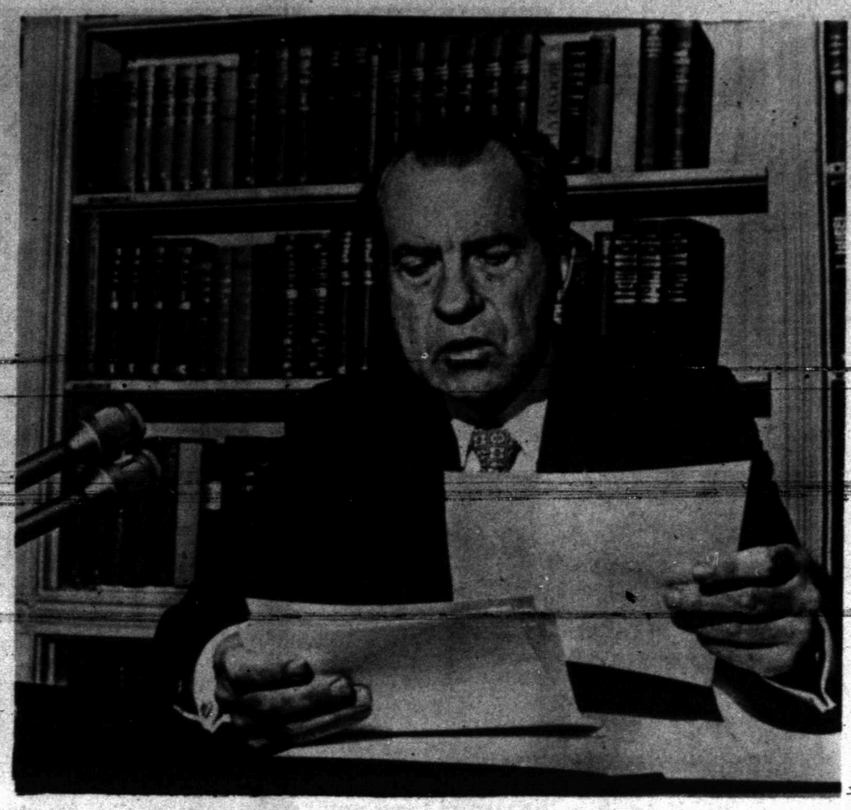

But opponents, of whom there were only a handful when both houses of the legislature voted overwhelmingly to put the amendment on the November ballot, say the higher interest rates would inevitably result in higher taxes to retire the bonds.

Higher rates would also encourage agencies and local government units to rely more heavily on bonded indebtedness to finance programs, critics contend.

Amendment 2 affects only the one-third of 1 per cent of Texans who live in Lamar County. It would dissolve that county's hospital district and permit county commissioners to dispose of the district's assets.

A constitutional amendment is required because the district was established by a constitutional amendment 12 years ago. The district has since ceased to operate, and the county wants to sell its assets.

There is no known opposition to the amendment.

ANNOUNCES GRAIN SALE TO CHINA—President Nixon sits at the mircophone in the White House Friday after telling a nation-wide radio audience of the first sale of U.S. livestock feed grain to the People's Republic of China. The sale involves 300,000 tons of corn. The broadcast was paid for by the President's re-election committee. (AP Wirephoto)

Long Lost Class Ring Is Found

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A high school class ring, lost 14 years ago, was found Friday near here in Lake Lanier.

The ring, lost by Hall County Deputy Sheriff John Cronic while water skiing in the lake in 1958, was found by fishermen in a portion of the lake which became visible with a near record low water level.

The ring was traced to Cronic through one of the fishermen's relatives.

Mexico Has Dog Problem

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The number of stray dogs in Mexico City has risen from 300,000 to 800,000 in the past 10 years, according to a official of the Health Ministry.

The official said that if appropriate steps are not taken, soon there will be as many dogs as people in the Mexican capital.

Building Slumps 9%

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas construction slumped 9 per cent from August to September, a business researcher reported Saturday.

Charles Zlatkovich of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas said the total estimated value of buildings authorized in Texas through September was $2.67 billion, an increase of 17 per cent over the same period in 1971.

Dallas continues to lead the metropolitan areas in total construction authorized this year with $600.4 million, followed by Houston $580.4 million, Austin $193.3 million, Fort Worth $192.9 million, San Antonio $187.9 million and El Paso $129.6 million.

Nineteen metropolitan areas posted increases in construction this year and six showed declines.

Austin once again led in building dollars per capita with $763.62, followed by El Paso $402.24, Houston $393.46, Dallas $351.24, San Antonio $275.40 and Fort Worth $171.79.

YOU CAN CHART THE FUTURE OF SCURRY COUNTY

BY VOTING FOR BOARD OF COUNTY DEVELOPMENT

Authorize the Commissioners Court to appropriate from the county general fund a BCD budget which could be derived from 0 to 5 cents tax per $100 valuation to be used in helping attract new industry to Scurry County.

The Commissioners Court will appoint five people from Scurry County to serve as the governing board of the BCD. This board would submit a proposed budget of expenditures annually to the Commissioners Court. The board and the Commissioners Court will have full control over the BCD and its operations. Use of the money appropriated to the BCD is pre-determined by the laws of The State of Texas (Art. 2352D).

Scurry County needs a good industrial development program to bring in new, high tax base industry. Through new industry, new job opportunities for our graduates can diversify our economy and build for a strong future.

At present over 85 per cent of our graduates in the past 12 years have had to go find work and live in bigger cities, because lack of funds has prohibited a continuous industrial effort. BY VOTING FOR THE BCD YOU ARE VOTING FOR MORE LOCAL JOBS THROUGH INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT.

WHAT WILL THE BCD COST?

3c will be the largest figure anticipated by the people who have been working on this project. But in order not to misrepresent this issue in any way the comparision table below shows the maximum tax charge that could be assessed the property owners, in this BCD program. The average cost to taxpayers will be 55c annually.

WHAT WILL THE BCD COST YOU?

Duck Season Is Open

There is open season now on ducks and coots, according to an announcement by David Palmer, game warden. He said the season began Oct. 15 and will continue through Nov. 26. It will open again Dec. 9 and go through Jan. 24.

Hunting will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset west of a line from Del Rio to Vernon.

There also will be open season on geese and brant from Nov. 4 through Nov. 28 and from Dec. 9 through Jan. 24. Again, hunting will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The daily bag limit on ducks is 10 in the aggregate, based on a point system. Mallard hens, wood ducks, hooded mergansers and New Mexican ducks count 90 points each. Black ducks, mallard drakes, pin-tailed hens and ring-necked ducks count 20 points each. All other species count 10 points each. The season is closed on red heads and canvas backs.

Lions Hope To Beat Jinx

DALLAS (AP) — The Detroit Lions hope to break the jinx of Texas Stadium when they meet Dallas Monday night while the Cowboys try to play like World Champions for a change.

Both teams own 4-2 records going into the nationally televised National Football League game.

Dallas, the Super Bowl titlists who are in Washington's shadow in the National Conference East, have yet to lose a game in Texas Stadium—a span of eight regular season and three exhibition games.

"This is another very big one for us," says Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We can't afford many slipups between now and the time we play Washington again."

The Cowboys fell a game behind the Redskins with a 24-20 loss to Washington last week. The two teams meet again Dec. 9 in Dallas.

Detroit was tied with Green Bay before Sunday's games for the lead in the NFC Central division. The Lions thumped San Diego 34-20 last week with Mel Farr rushing for 96 yards and tight end Charlie Sanders returning to action after missing five games with a shoulder injury. Sanders caught three passes for 50 yards.

Celtics Clip Cavaliers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A basketball philosopher once decided that you can't win at this game if you don't put the ball in the basket.

The Cleveland Cavaliers learned first-hand Friday night that the man was right.

The Cavaliers were limited to just four field goals and 10 points in the second period of their game against Boston. That was the best reason for the unbeaten Celtics' 123-97 romp over Cleveland.

The victory was the ninth straight for the Celtics and kept them 1½games ahead of New York in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division. The Knicks, who have lost only one game this season, hung on for a 92-98 victory over Baltimore.

Westerners Win Golf Tournament

Roswell, N.M.—Western Texas College golfers topped eight other college teams here Friday to take home the Fourth Western Junior College Tournament first place trophy.

Scoring for the event, hosted by New Mexico Military Institute went like this: WTC 289, Odessa College 291, South Plains College 296, New Mexico JC 302, Howard County 306, Amarillo College 307, Frank Phillips College 310, NMMI 313, and Clarendon College 314.

Steve Rutherford led the way for WTC and the Tournament, sharing that honor with Larry Degenhart of South Plains College. Both shot a 70.

Rutherford eagled on a 435 yard hole. He made his second shot with a seven iron from 165 yards out and the ball rolled home on the green.

Other WTC individual scores were : Mark McCraney 72, Danny Walters 73, Barry Hays 74, and Max Tenorio 74.

This brings the points standings for the Western Junior College Athletic Conference to 34 for Odessa College, 33 for WTC and 29 for South Plains College. Odessa has taken two tourneys, the Borger and Clarendon matches, while WTC has taken the Snyder and NMMI matches in fall semester.

There are two contests left in this fall semester. Nov. 3 WTC will travel to Abilene for a Hardin-Simmons Dual Match and on Nov. 10 the fianl season round will be at Odessa College.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees really took advantage of Baltimore Oriole pitchers. With 13 hits in 36 trips to the plate, Munson hit .361 against the Birds.

Bulldogs Bite S'land, 42-13

SOUTHLAND—Ira flogged Southland's Eagles Friday night, 42-13, in a tough physical game that almost erupted into fights on the field.

"We almost had several fights on our hands," said Bulldog coach Patrick Sadler.

The Ira Bulldogs dominated play in the first half of the game. Dale Wiggins, a great broken field runner, dashed 40 yards for the first score. QB Donald Sellars passed to Steve Sallee covering another 40 yards and a TD. That put Ira out front 16-0 at the end of the 1st quarter.

In the 2nd period, Ira's offense got even hotter and their defense held their ground. Kirby Sterling and Donald Sellars teamed up for a surprise that thrilled football fans. Sterling had taken a handoff from Sellars and then run into trouble behind the line of scrimmage. Meanwhile, Sellars had gone downfield. Sterling looked down field, spotted Sellars and launched a bomb for the talley.

Later in the quarter, Sterling traveled 25 yards for another score, followed by the fleet footed Wiggins, who covered 40 yards for a TD. The Eagles, who had been in trouble offensively did manage to get six points on the board before the halftime.

Both teams scored once in the 3rd quarter. Richard Dave covered 20 yards for the Bulldogs. The Eagles scored about halfway through the period, to mark the end of any scoring in the ball game.

"The key to offense was the blocking of Steve Sallee and on defense Tom Dave led in stopping the Eagles," said Sadler.

Ira is now tied with Bula in 6 man 4-B football standings. The Bulldogs play Hermleigh Friday, Nov. 3. The only team that Hermleigh has lost to is Bula. Ira plays Bula the following week, Nov. 10.

Hermleigh Beats Buffs

Fluvanna—Two Scurry County 6-man, 4-B teams tangled Friday night, with the Hermleigh Cardinals steamrolling the Fluvanna Buffaloes 54-12.

HB Dale Peterson led the ground attack for Hermleigh putting three tallies on the scoreboard in the first half. He scored from 35, one and six yards out.

Fluvanna was first on the board with a 40 yard run by Larry White. However, Hermleigh's Charles Kuss took a kickoff and returned it for 70 yards and a score.

Buffalo QB Richard Gill passed 17 yards to end Chuck Jones for another Fluvanna score in the first quarter. After that the Card's defense held the Buff's for no more scoring.

The half ended with Hermleigh in command with 32 to 12.

In the second half, Hermleigh QB Tommy Vinyard passed twice for scores. One went to Charles Kuss and the other to Ronnie Roemisch.

Tough Coronado Rips Tigers 10-0

Displaying a tenacious defense and a grinding offense, Lubbock Coronado's Mustangs kicked Snyder's Tigers 10-0 here Friday night in a District 4-AAAA battle for survival. The loss leaves the Tigers 2-5 for the season and 0-2 in district play and virtually eliminates them from the title race.

Coronado also is 2-5, but they are 1-1 in district play.

The Mustangs capitalized on two Snyder fumbles to put their 10 points on the score board in the first half. The Tigers never seriously threatened to score.

Kicking specialist Kevin Farrar booted a 27 yard field goal with 4:30 remaining in the first period. Coronado had driven from its 25 yard line to the 40 and apprently was stopped at that point. But on a fourth down punt play, the ball hit one of the Tigers in the back and Coronado re-gained possession at the Tiger 35 on a recovery by Kevin Batten. Then the visitors drove down to the nine where the Tiger defense stiffened. Coronado was forced to go for the field goal, and Farrar kicked accurately from the 17 yard line. Tailback Mike Bewley carried the ball nine times during the two first period drives by the Mustangs, getting all of the yardage in the 6-play, 26-yard second drive. He finished the night as the leading ball carrier, getting 128 yards on 33 carries.

Snyder had the ball for only one possession during the initial period, and the Tigers never got past their 41 yard line.

Coronado launched a drive at its 27 late in the first quarter, and it apparently fizzled out at the Tiger 29 early in the second quarter. Bewley again handled the offensive load, contributing a 25-yard run in the drive.

Facing fourth and seven at the Tiger 29 Coronado's quarterback, Bill Ledbetter, tried a pass. It was intercepted by Tim Holder at the 15, but the Mustangs hit Holder hard, forcing him to fumble. Bewley recovered at the Snyder 15. It took the visitors three plays to span the 14 yards to the goal.

Bewley was stopped for no gain. Halfback Dale Blevins gained three to the 11. Then split end Keary Bailey took the ball on a double reverse and raced unmolested into the end zone. Farrar's kick made it 10-0.

Snyder had the ball for only two possessions in the second period. The first time, the Tigers reached the Coronado 48, but a 15-yard penalty on the first play pushed the ball back to the 35. Thus, the locals never had possession past the 50. The second time they only reached their 41.

The second half was a tight defensive battle. Bewley, who gained 97 yards on 20 carries in the first half was limited to 31 yards on 13 carries in the second half.

Snyder had only two possessions in the third quarter and they didn't get past their 22 yard line.

Coronado launched a drive at its 34 in the third quarter that ended early in the fourth quarter at the Snyder 24. Big play in the march was a 24 yard pass, Ledbetter to tight end Gary Ray.

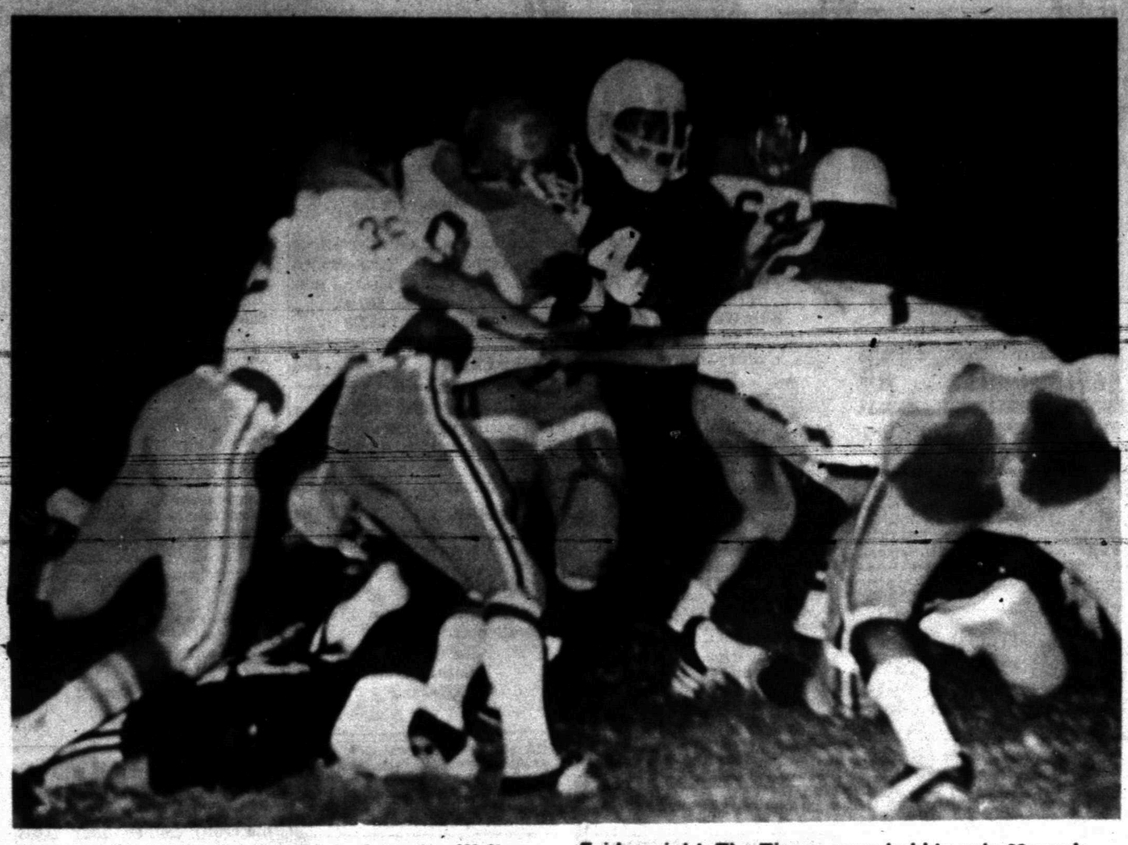

Snyder never got past its 46 in the fourth quarter.

Hubert Crayton was the leading ball carrier for the Tigers, and he had only 18 yards on six carries.

With the three toughest teams in the district--Monterey, Hereford and Plainview--still on the schedule, the Tigers have their work cut out for them.

Permian Pops Cooper, 26-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Odessa Permian continued to put heavy pressure on San Antonio Lee Friday night in the struggle for Class 4A supremacy in Texas high school football by claiming a convincing 26-0 victory over Abilene Cooper, the sixth ranked team in the state.

Permian, ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press poll, registered its fifth shutout in six games.

Top-ranked San Antonio Lee was idle Friday, but played crosstwon rival San Antonio Jefferson Saturday. Another top 4A clash Saturday matched eight ranked Conroe against Houston Westchester.

In other 4A tussles Friday, No. 4 Port Neches-Groves shut out Vidor 42-0, fifth-ranked Wichita Falls was held to a 15-15 tie by Mineral Wells, seventh-ranked Killeen nudged Cleburne 14-6, No. 9 Port Arthur Lincoln blasted Nederland 41-0 and 10th-ranked Longview slugged Nacogdoches 35-6. Third-ranked Austin Reagan has an open weekend.

Uvalde and Brenham continued to dominate Class 3A action, which saw one ranked team lose its game. Ninth-ranked Kilgore was shocked 14-0 by Longview Pine Tree, but No. 1 Uvalde, 35-0 victors against Fredricksburg, and second-dranked Brenham, 40-0 winners over A&M Consolidated, showed no sign of letting up. Also in 3A, No. 3 Ennis nipped Athens 10-6, fourth-ranked and once-tied Silsbee beat Little Cypress 23-7, No. 5 Cuero crumbled San Antonio Judson 41-2, No. 6 Mount Pleasant knifed past Daingerfield 35-7, No. 7 Monahans shoved Fort Stockton 28-7, eighth ranked West Orange nudged Port Arthur Austin 14-8 and 10-th ranked Iowa Park stifled Graham 41-6.

Class 2A action was highlighted by the district clash between eighth ranked Devine and No. 9 Hondo, with the closeness of the rankings indicated in Devine's 21-20 victory. Tenth-ranked Clifton was beaten 21-8 by McGregor, but all other rated teams in the division earned triumphs. Second-ranked Jacksboro outscored Bowie 21-9, No. 3 Friendswood blanked Alief 28-0, No. 4 Rockwall shut out Wylie 18-0, fifthranked Mathis chopped Woodsboro 69-6, and No. 6 Tomball whitewashed Huffman 35-0. Class 2A kingpin Childress and No. 7 Needville were idle.

All seven ranked teams in Class A that saw action took victories. Topranked Sonora stoned Wall 29-6, No. 3 Mason toppled Menard 41-6, No. 4 Fallas City slashed Nixon 21-0, fifth-ranked Wallis starved Hungerford 27-0, No. 8 Agua Dulce slipped by Orange Grove 8-7, No. 9 Comfort bounced back after falling from the top spot with a 46-0 whipping of Marion and 10th-ranked Waskom shafted Ore City 33-0. No. 2 Schulenburg, sixth-ranked Rankin and No. 7 Franklin have the weekend off.

In Class B, two highly rated teams had games Saturday, but will be hard pressed to improve their positions. Second ranked Big Sandy met Leverett's Chapel and No. 5 Celina played Collinsville. Friday night, however, the eight other ranked teams smothered their opposition. First ranked Rule stormed Newcastle 57-0, No. 3 New Waverly clubbed Leon 55-0, No. 4 Happy saddened Lazbuddie 41-6, sixth ranked, Danbury drowned Sabine Pass 62-0, No. 7 Winthorst blanked Chicago 27-0, No. 8 Riesel mashed Coolidge 25-0, ninth ranked Runge stampeded Navarro 20-0 and Prosper chopped Little Elm 72-0.

In 1973 Penn State's football team will play home against Iowa, Army, West Virginia, North Carolina State, Ohio University and Pitt.

Borden County Clips Threeway

THREEWAY--The Borden County Coyotes socked Threeway 38-6 here Friday night, led by quarterback Randy Crittenden.

Crittenden completed a 35 yard touchdown pass to Steve Lockhart in the first quarter, then sneaked across for the two bonus points.

Late in the initial period, Randy Hensley plunged across from the five to cap a 60 yard drive. Crittenden raced around end for the two extra points.

In the second period, Garland Williams cut loose on a five yard touchdown run to climax a 50 yard drive. Late in the stanza, Crittenden scored on a five yard run to cap a 30 yard drive. Crittenden passed to Roy Hendley for the two extra points as the score soared to 30-0 at halftime.

Threeway's James Partlow returned the kickoff opening the second half 98 yards for a touchdown.

Crittenden connected with Lockhart on a 50 yard touchdown pass in the third quarter. The quarterback plowed across for the two extra points.

Pirates Like Heat

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — July could go down as the month the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates sewed up another National League East flag. When July began the Pirates led the New York Mets by only three percentage points, but when the month ended they were seven full games ahead of the Mets, who suffered injuries to their top batter, Rusty Staub, and other outfielders and infielders.

Counts OnSherwin

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Army's basketball team opens its season earlier than ever, playing LaSalle in the Philadelphia Palestra Dec. 1. The Cadets close the season March 3 by visiting Colgate at Hamilton, N.Y.

Coach Dan Dougherty, in his second year, is counting on senior guard Bob Sherwin who averaged 22.6 points a game last season.

Stanford opens the next two football seasons with games against Penn State's Nittany Lions. The game next year is at University Park, Pa.

Horsey Education

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Douglas and Gerald Delp are 11 and 10 years old, respectively, but their college education is assured. And all because of a successful horse named Pro-Bidder.

Their father, Grover (Buddy) Delp purchased the 4-year-old son of Semi-Pro—Biddy Sue for $4,000 at the 1969 Keeneland fall sales. That son was Pro-Bidder who races in the name of the Dee and Gee Stable. The horse has won 11 races in 31 starts and his earnings of $126,377 will help Delp put his two sons through college.

CARD OF THANKS A-3

THE FAMILY of J.L. Roddy wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all friends and neighbors for the many kindness shown to us in our time of bereavement.

We are grateful to Johnny and Mable Covey and sons for hosting a reunion of the J.G. Patterson family in summer of 1971. For us it was the first such reunion. The lovely surprise was enjoyed by 36 relatives including five from South Carolina.
We gathered again Oct. 16, 1972 to say our last goodbyes to our dear brother, Horace Patterson of Seminole, Texas. We are so thankful to the Coveys for having had the family celebration before Horace passed on.
So many friends have remembered us with words of sympathy through cards and visits that we wish to take this means of thanking each and everyone for their love and expressions of care for us.
Nell P. Covey
Nancy P. Caton

Thank you for the visits, cards, food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort extended to us during the recent illness and passing of our mother. We especially wish to thank Dr. Pierce and the staff at Cogell Hospital.

Candy Expert Has The Sweetest Job In Town

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Henry's got the sweetest job in New York City. He's The Candy Man and The Candy Man Can:

Eat a quarter pound of candy a day;

Give away 100 pounds a week;

Breakfast on coffee and chocolate.

And tell you everything you always wanted to know about candy.

For example let's look into chocolate-covered cherries. Holding the candy firmly in the left hand, one pulls out a sharp knife and cuts a small triangle in it. Look at the watch. In precisely one minute, the goo should have covered the piece of cut chocolate and proceeded another half inch. Too short or too far would be deficient. Then there's the cherry itself. Hold under hot water until everything but the cherry melts. The trusty ruler should still be handy. At a quarter of an inch in diameter, Henry would call it commercial. That means cheap to you. Add another eighth of an inch and it has moved up into good quality. That shows its price just went up. At three-fourths of an inch in diameter, he calls it top quality. That's what you buy for the boss' wife.

And now for a word about peanut clusters...

Joe Henry can tell you about them all. He's been in the candy business virtually all of his 50 years. His father, a Lebanese, told him he was going to learn two things in life: how to read and write Arabic and how to make candy.

By 15, he was a qualified candymaker, a designation the industry understands and respects.

He's also the most popular man in the entire J. C. Penney skyscraper in midtown Manhattan where he works as a candy buyer.

Henry says he doesn't ever recall throwing any candy away. And for more good news, he claims candy isn't fattening, although he downs about 1,000 calories worth daily.

"It curbs your appetite and takes away the desire to eat the big fattening desserts," he maintains. Henry is 5-foot-9 and weights 190.

Henry's detective work can tell him the size of the candy plant, the type of equipment, whether it's new, generally the number of people who work there and a very close idea of the formula that's being used.

He is one of the few all around qualified candy makers in the business today. Specialization, it seems, has crept into the world of Easter bunnies and Halloween corn. Now, they're either into chocolate, or creme, or hard candy or chewies or the grained. Grained is fudge.

"There are only seven basic types of candy, but with all the combinations, there are about 6,000 different pieces," Henry says. "The seventh was invented 75 years ago."

It was fudge and its creation came about this way. The candy man made a batch of caramel and forgot to put it away and it grained off and that's how fudge was invented. The man's name was not Mr. Fudge and nobody knows where he got the name.

Henry says the only new gimmicks are in packaging, the big thing for the trick or treat market this year being monster packages. One must determine what one is paying for these packages. So Henry counts jellybeans per pound, carefully scans the bags of red and white cartwheel mints to see if the red comes into the middle, and checks the chocolate content in chocolate products. Nineteen per cent chocolate is, alas, merely commercial, 36 per cent is very good and 40 to 45 per cent again is made to order for the boss' wife.

With an abundance that the nearly $2 billion a year industry can offer, Henry himself prefers the 39-cent orange slices, those tangerine looking things with the white sugar.

But when would a man with Henry's job ever buy a piece of candy?

"Last night. I bought a Hershey bar on the train."

How sweet the candy business is.

Long-Hair Cop Is Suspended

MIAMI (AP) — Patrolman Daniel Zell, voted Miami's outstanding officer of the year in 1969, has been suspended from duty because his mustache is a quarter of an inch too long, police officials say.

"A lieutenant told me I look so bad that he's ashamed to see me in public because I embarrass him," the blond, curly-haired Zell said Friday. "I don't know what public he means."

Zell, 26, said he was ordered to trim his mustache, hair and sideburns at roll call Wednesday. When he returned Thursday without stopping at the barber shop, he was sent home by his sergeant.

Police spokesman Sgt. Kenneth Harrison said Zell's official status is "absent without permission and without pay."

In addition to his drooping mustache, police officials charge Zellos entire head is too hairy and in violation of the department's grooming code.

Zell contends that his superiors are out of step with the times and he was singled out because he led a fight which resulted in a relaxation of the department grooming code six months ago.

The code specifies hair shall be collar-length and "the ear shall be left well defined at all times." Sideburns are not to extend below the ear lobe and mustaches must not extend more than one-half inch beyond nor more than one-quarter inch below the corners of the mouth.

Zell won the Miami Rotary Club's $1,000 award as top policeman in 1969 and two officer-of the month awards.

Start Low In Broadcasting

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: I will be getting out of the Army next year. I plan to finish college in Dallas, taking my degree in communications with the goal of pursuing a career in broadcasting. Are my plans good, or is the broadcasting jobmarket glutted? -- T W., Port Arthur, Tex

Never has it been easy to beat out the competition in a broadcasting career, whether you want the management side, production or air work. There have always been more hopefuls than jobs. But my broadcasting sources say that colleges all over the country have expanded their communications curricula and are churning out more grads than the industry can absorb. Even as a qualified grad, you can't count on getting a station break. (So what's new?)

LAUNCHING A CAREER in broadcasting requires a broad educational base (to qualify for jobs), but not necessarily 4 years of college stamina (to meet the competition) and a large measure of humility (to be willing to begin "at the bottom" in a 2-man station atop Mt. Hood, if necessary).

Getting past the front desk at a tv or radio station is like getting into the Pentagon wearing a Viet Cong uniform. There's usually a potful of applicants ahead of you, nearly all of whom are armed with degrees in communication arts, or similar majors -- or that magic word, "experience."

STAMINA STARS HERE, because for every available job there may be hundreds of available applicants. You can't give up. The rounds must be made. Dedication and a willful spirit must outweigh discouragement. With talent, self-confidence, and persistence, you may get a job sweeping out the place.

People who study for years, then sweat for jobs in tv and radio, have to be more motivated by love than money. Because starting salaries are notoriously low. Young men and women with a master's degree in communication arts are working as pages and guides for network talk shows at $2.50/hour! The saving grace is the fact that they have hurdled the biggest barrier -- landing that all-important first job. Once on the "inside," the rest depends on meeting people, learning the ropes, working hard and seizing opportunities.

"THERE IS ALWAYS room for talent in this crazy business," says one broadcasting pro -- John Doremus, WGN Chicago radio personality and president of his own communications firm. "As for me, I started at a small station in Tulsa where I worked as a news announcer, engineer, salesman, and host of my own show. There was no 'conflict of interests,' just plenty of work to be done by those who were willing to do it," says Doremus. Doremus added that the typical weekly pay at a small town station is about $95/week.

The Chicago broadcaster also notes that because jobs in broadcasting are at a premium, even stations in large markets (big cities) now hire experienced people for low pay in nonunion jobs. "It's a simple case of supply and demand. What career-minded, would-be broadcasters want and need most is experience. Once they are hired by a station, industrious beginners can send out beams of their own and move ahead," claims Doremus.

TO WRAP IT UP, it seems that the tv and radio job hunter faces the greatest obstacle at the outset, namely, finding employment. He or she is advised to glom on to any promising offer, be the station commercial, educational, religious or underground. Once inside the station walls, the challenge is clear -- to direct one's own course up the proverbial ladder.

READER SERVICE: The National Association of Broadcasters will send you one or both booklets (specify in your request): "Careers in Television," and "Careers in Radio." Send your request on a postcard to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Allow several weeks for reply.

Texas Baptists Meet Tuesday

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A record $15.77 million budget will be considered at the 87th annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas that begins here Tuesday.

Texas Baptist Men and Woman's Missionary Union, two statewide convention auxiliaries, are conducting their annual meetings prior to the main convention.

Rock Music groups and Barry Wood, a young evangelist from Van Nuys, California, will be featured Monday at a Christian Rock Festival sponsored by Texas Baptist Men at Hardin-Simmons University.

Projected attendance for the three-day main session of the 1.9-million member convention is 6,000. About 3,000 messengers are expected to register to vote on convention business.

Headliners at the annual session will include Art Linkletter, television personality; Wallace Johnson of Memphis, Tenn., national Holiday Inns executive; Owen Cooper of Yazoo City, Miss., president of the Southern Baptist Convention, and J. D. Grey, pastor from New Orleans, La., and former president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Landrum Leavell, pastor of First Baptist Church, Wichita Falls, will deliver the annual president's address at the convention's opening session Tuesday night at Taylor County Coliseum.

Leavell, who will preside over sessions at both the coliseum and Abilene's Civic Center, is expected to br re-elected to a second one-year term as convention president.

Other features include the convention sermon by James Flamming, pastor of First Baptist Church, Abilene, and a presentation by T. A. Patterson, Texas Baptist executive secretary.

Business sessions will deal with budget and matters concerning the convention's 11 colleges and schools, eight hospitals, network of institutions for the aging and children and statewide program of spiritual and physical ministries.

Among others on the program will be Cynthia Clawson of Dallas, singer and television performer; J. Sidlow Baxter of Scotland, author and lecturer; Travis Berry, pastor from Plano and chairman of the convention's executive board, and B. J. Martin, Pasadena pastor and chairman of the convention program coordinating committee.

Murray Neal, managing editor of the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald, will receive the annual communications award from the Texas Baptist Public Relations Advisory Committee at a luncheon Tuesday.

The Baptist General Convention of Texas is comprised of some 4,400 churches.

Vetoes Become Campaign Issue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon has promised more pre-election vetoes of proposed laws while Democratic challenger George McGovern has called on the President to give Congress the chance to override the vetoes.

McGovern, while calling Nixon's veto Friday of nine measures "outrageous," asked that the President call a special session of Congress so lawmakers will have a chance to enact the bills.

He criticized Nixon for vetoing the measures while Congress was out of session.

The President said that the nine vetoes of legislation passed by a Democratic-controlled Congress would curb federal spending by about $2.75 billion in the period ending June 30, 1974.

The White House had said Friday that Nixon would announce more vetoes today but the President instead told of signing 44 bills, including legislation dealing with the environment and consumer safety.

Nixon still has 62 measures on his desk. The signings today came just before he and Mrs. Nixon were scheduled to depart on a campaign trip to Ohio and Michigan.

McGovern, in particular, termed the President's veto of a veterans' cemetery measure "almost impossible to believe." And the Democrat said Nixon's veto of a bill for the handicapped was "a moral outrage."

The President also disclosed in a political broadcast a multi-million-dollar corn deal with China. Nixon told a radio audience that 300,000 tons of corn, worth about $18 million, had been contracted this week for sale to China.

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Sargent Shriver, also criticized Nixon for vetoing the nine measures, which included a $30.5 billion health, education and welfare bill.

Shriver, campaigning in New York, said the vetoes give a preview of what a second Nixon administration would be like and marked the beginning of "a generation of injustice in America."

On the Republican side, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew started a three-day rest from campaigning after addressing a rally in his home state of Maryland.

Agnew told supporters in a national guard armory in Annapolis that the American people "are going to see that Richard Nixon has four more years of accomplishment."

In another development, a U.S. District Court judge in Washington said he has changed the starting date for the criminal trial in the Watergate break-in case from Nov. 15 to Jan. 8, 1973.

Chief Judge John J. Sirica said he has a pinched nerve and his physician told him he could not begin a long trial like the Watergate case on Nov. 15 and expect to finish it without interruption.

Seven men were indicted in connection with the break-in and alleged bugging of the Democratic national headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex.

Stream Beds Interests Man

CHICAGO (AP) — Reading ancient stream beds and uncorking their history is the work of Dr. John Clark, associate curator of sedimentary petrololy, department of geology, Field Museum here.

A northeastern Colorado ledge of standstone particularly interests him. He says the 35-million-year-old stream bed—as barren as a moon plain—reveals its wanderings like a roadmap.

Clark said the stream at one time was as wide as the broken ribbon of rock, about 1,000 feet, and as deep as the thickest crossbeds, about four feet.

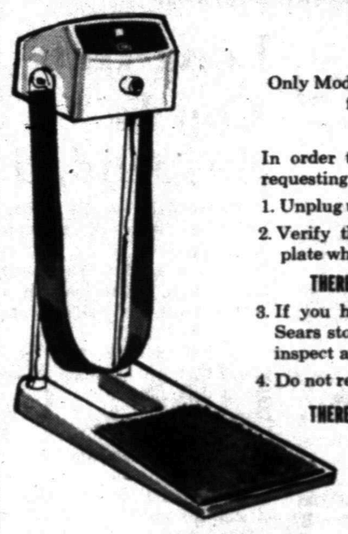

Judging from the size of the pebbles that the stream carried he said its speed of flow was about 5 miles an hour.

Clark said that he would study stream beds even if the studies had no practical value, but the information fits into the whole body of earth history like the missing pieces of a puzzle.

Freeze Experiment Described

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say their successful freezing and thawing of live mouse embryos could lead to deep-freeze storage of human organs for transplants.

The scientists said Friday the embryos frozen and preserved at temperatures as low as 452 degrees below zero Farenheit survived and developed normally after being implanted in the wombs of other mice.

The experiments were described in the technical journal Science by biologist D.G. Whittingham and two colleagues at the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge (Tenn.) National Laboratory.

The scientists said more than 2,500 embryos, each consisting of only a few cells, were slowly frozen with liquid nitrogen, stored for up to eight days and then slowly thawed out. They said the slowness in freezing and thawing was the key to their success.

Between 50 and 70 per cent of them developed, within their test tubes, into blastocytes—a spherical mass of cells considered the starting point of a fetus.

About 1,000 blastocytes were transferred into the wombs of other mice, and 65 per cent of the latter became pregnant, the scientists said.
