Jayton Man Dies After Being Struck By Car On Highway

W. H. Balch Is Victim; Man Faces Charge

Balch Dies In Sanitarium Here Of Injuries At 10 P. M.; Was Near Home When Struck

(Special To The Avalanche)

JAYTON, Nov. 26.—W. H. Balch, 38, resident of Jayton 18 years, died tonight of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile near his home here shortly before 7 p. m.

After receiving emergency treatment here by Dr. R. L. Alexander, he was rushd to a sanitarium at Lubbock and died at 10:10 o'clock tonight. He had been admitted to the sanitarium about 20 minutes earlier. Death was attributed by attending physicians to head injuries, a crushed right shoulder, and a punctured lung. Attendants said the man evidently was run over, the wheel of the automobile having passed over the victim's right shoulder and chest.

TWO KILLED NEAR ROSWELL

ROSWELL, N. M., Nov. 26. (AP)—Two persons were killed and three others seriously injured late today in the crash of two automobiles and a heavy oil tank truck 15 miles south of here.

Dead were Ralph S. Aus, 21, Denver; and four-months-old Billy Dale, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Ehrhardt of Hagerman, N. M.

The seriously injured were Virginia Ehrhardt, 12, skull fracture; Mrs. Ehrhardt, internal injuries; and Lieutenant Wrestley, Lake Arthur CCC camp officer, injuries undetermined.

Got Out Of Truck

Balch, employe of an oil mill here, after having worked at the mill today had ridden to his home in northwest Jayton with a truck driver, Clifford Long. Investigators said he had got out of the truck on the right side of the road near his home and had gone behind the truck and started across the road when struck by the car.

Driver of the automobile which assertedly struck Balch was arrested and was released on bond of $1,000 after a charge had been filed, nature of which was not known here late tonight, said Deputy Smith. The man charged is a resident of Girard but is working

Move Made To Block Shacks

City commissioners threw governmental machinery into high gear Friday afternoon and at a suddenly called meeting moved swiftly to block threatened construction of ramshackle buildings on portions of South Texas Avenue soon to be opened. From its present dead end at Twenty-sixth street to a juncture with Avenue H at Thirtieth.

At the same meeting, the four members of the commission present voted to transfer G. W. Foster from the position of city recorder to the collections department with which he formerly was connected, and to appoint Lewis Kittrell, present police sergeant, as temporary recorder.

Kittrell's appointment was made with the understanding that if it should not be made permanent, he will return to his present police connection. The commissioners agreed that Kittrell's permanent appointment merely hinges upon the

Three-Cornered Fight Is On For Next Year's BTU Convention

BEAUMONT, Nov. 26. (AP) — A three-cornered fight over the location of next year's meeting was still going strong tonight as Baptist Training union delegates prepared to wind up their annual three-day state convention Saturday morning.

Houston, Wichita Falls and Amarillo all were in the running after the convention's "time and place" committee, headed by J. William Mason, Memphis, had met three times yesterday.

Election of an entire new slate of officers will share interest with the 1938 convention city selection at the session starting at 8:35 o'clock Saturday morning.

Communications System In Shanghai Seized By Japs

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 27. (Saturday)—Japan seized control today of all Chinese communications facilities in the Shanghai area, in which most of China's means of communicating with the outside world hitherto have been concentrated.

To do this Japanese representatives entered the International Settlement to assume charge of post-

AMBASSADORS EXPRESS INTEREST

TOKYO, Nov. 26. (AP)—American and other ambassadors today expressed their governments' interest in Japan's intentions in China while Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye declared Japan was ready to deal China "a fatal blow" if she did not yield.

But he rejected the possibility of outside intervention.

He hinted Japan might advance as far as Hankow if necessary to impose her will on China and strongly intimated an "independent" regime would appear in March, 1938, in North China.

offices, cable and radio administrations and broadcasting stations hitherto operated by the Chinese government.

May Mean Censorship

Whether this meant establishment of Japanese censorship was not immediately clear. It was feared serious international complications might arise if Japanese tried to control operations of foreign cable and radio companies.

(Such control, however, would be a logical result of Japan's contention she falls heir to all Chinese communications rights in the Shanghai area. The foreign companies, including the American Commercial Pacific Cable and Mackay Radio, British Eastern Extension and Danish Great Northern Cable companies, by contracts with the Chinese government, agreed to receive outgoing messages only from the Chinese cable and radio administrations and to submit to Chinese censorship.)

Seize Customs Properties

Japanese army units seized ferry properties on the Whanpoo river belonging to the extinguished Chinese city government and Japanese indicated they would appoint their own appraisers and examiners to extend Japanese influence in the customs service at Shanghai.

(Shanghai dispatches, however, did not indicate the Japanese had assumed any functions of the Shanghai municipal council, the body which administers the International Settlement.)

Armies Continue Advance

Japanese armies smashed their way nearer Nanking, nearly deserted Chinese capital, while Japan's commander-in-chief here gave a Japanese news agency a statement indicating Japan's intent to dominate any future Chinese regime.

The United News, Japanese organ, quoted General Iwane Matsui as saying unless China ceases re-

As Child Became Bride Here

Walter Davies, justice of the peace, right, offering congratulations Friday afternoon to N. R. Patterson, 21, of Frisco and his 13-year-old bride, who before the marriage ceremony was Virginia Winborne of Idalou. Davies read the ceremony. The child bride's mother, Mrs. Dora Harris of Idalou attended the ceremony.

Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Is Married Here Friday With Consent Of Her Mother

WHEN other little 13-year-old girls are making mud pies it will be real pies, cakes and biscuits for Mrs. N. R. Patterson who became a bride Friday afternoon in a ceremony performed by Walter Davies, justice of the peace, in his courtroom.

And even though she is only 13 she knows how to cook, according to her mother, Mrs. Dora Harris who seemed happy as she watched her daughter married to Patterson 21.

Wears Size 10 Clothes

The little girl (and she is little for she wears size 10 clothes) wore a neat orange and brown cotton print dress which she had planned and made herself for her wedding dress, brown suede oxfords, and bright anklets. She wore a "little girl" coat and bright scarf.

The couple will live near Frisco in Collin county, where Patterson has a job cooking at a sawmill. Her mother lives at Idalou but the 13-year-old Virginia Winborne will not be afraid of getting "homesick" because she has often stayed awa from home with her uncle, Pat Martin, and his family. And that is another story! Pat Martin not only is the uncle of Virginia but he married young Patterson's mother's sister (if you can figure that out). Martin was at the wedding with Virginia's mother, but his wife failed to arrive at

Sedillo said Cassidy had corroborated a signed confession and stated he wanted "the electric chair as soon as possible."

French Plot Is Laid To German Origin

PARIS, Nov. 26. (AP) — The Paris newspaper Ce Soir declared today investigation of a huge conspiracy against the republic have indicated headquarters of the revolutionary committee was in Germany.

Officials of the Surete Nationale, national police organization, declined either to conform or deny ce Soir's story, but the cordon of mobile guards around the ministry of interior was reinforced and all vehicles entering or leaving Paris stopped for investigation.

A military tribunal at Nancy convicted two naturalized French brothers, former residents of Germany, of espionage and sentenced them to prison terms. They were charged with selling information to a "foreign service." Two other former Germans were convicted of espionage last Monday at Metz.

Raids and searches for caches of arms continued. Hitherto enough arms to equip thousands of shock troops have been uncovered.

"We are merely taking precautions," said a government official.

Gin Fires In Area Reported Today

At 2 o'clock this morning Lubbock had received reports that at least five gins and an unknown quantity of cotton in this area were on fire. Gin fires at Enochs, Morton, Littlefield, Slide and Wolfforth were reported to the Lubbock fire department.

One truck was sent from the Lubbock fire department to the gin fire at Wolfforth. Unconfirmed reports at the City Hall fire station early today were that 700 bales of cotton were burning at one of the places.

The damage, it was believed here, would amount to many thousands of dollars.

Fires were caused, firemen said they believed, to the strong north wind, loaded heavily with sand and dust, which struck here shortly after midnight.

UAW Is Rallying Forces On Ford

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26.—Leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America, stirred by their second failure to halt operations of the Ford Motor company's St. Louis assembly plant, rallied CIO forces tonight in support of the union's strike.

Delmond Garst, UAWA regional director, declared the strike would be carried on and won, "if it takes six months." He was secretice, however, regarding his future plans.

Earlier, at a union "pep meeting," he shouted, "we're going to turn loose one of these days. We're going to go the limit in this strike. It makes no difference how far we have to go."

The assembly plant's production fell off, but operations were not stopped Wednesday, when the strike was called. The union claimed the

Five Convicts Must Die For Slaying Of Warden In Riot

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 26. (AP)— Five convicts accused of slaying Warden Clarence Larkin in the Folsom prison riot Sept. 19 were convicted late today of first degree murder. The verdict of the jury imposed the death penalty on all.

The verdict means that Edward Davis, 35, Robert Lee Cannon, 23, Wesley Eudy, 33, Albert Kessel, 28, and Fred Barnes, 39, face the lethal gas chamber.

Charges On New Farm Bill Are Made Friday

"Worse Than Anything In Russia" Is Charged; Said 'Accentuates Depression'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Bipartisan charges that the senate farm bill was "worse than anything in Russia" and that it threatened to "accentuate the depression" led sponsors to agree today to modify certain provisions.

It appeared likely the first move would be to revise the section imposing a $100 fine on farmers failing to make reports in connection with proposed marketing quotas.

Agrees To Change

Senator Pope (D-Idaho) co-author of the bill, agreed to a change after hearing criticism by Minority Leader McNary (R-Ore) and other members of both parties.

"I don't know whether you would find anything in Russia worse than this provision," declared Senator Burke (D-Neb).

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) contended it would not be fair to penalize a farmer who made incorrect or incomplete reports due to a misunderstanding of the bill's provisions.

"Don't Wink It's Fair"

"I don't think it's fair to ask the farmer to comprehend that which I doubt 90 out of 96 senators comprehend at the present moment," he said.

Pope declared the penalty section would be fairly easy for farmers to understand, but gave assurance if there were any real doubt about it he would join in urging safeguards for farmers "innocently" in error.

Connally makes Comparison

Senator Connally (D-Tex) likened the senate to a doctor trying to cure farm ills. This brought from McNary the retort:

"There is one big difference. When a patient doesn't behave you put him in a hospital. When it's a farmer, you put him in jail."

Senator Tydings (D-MD) de-

Waco Schools Head Reported Elected

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. (AP) — The Houston Post said tonight R. H. Brister, superintendent of schools at Waco, had been elected president of the Texas State Teachers association and charter amendments permitting the organization to form a federation of local and district units had been approved.

The Post said it had learned from informed sources that unofficial tabulations showed that Brister received 1632 votes while John P. Manning, Robstown school superintendent, polled 750 votes. The paper said further constitutional amendments that become the federation enabling acts passed by a vote of 1228 to 783.

Dallas, the paper said, has been chosen the 1938 convention city.

Miss Mamie Bastian of Houston, the paper said, received 1424 votes to 773 for David Lemon of Slaton, for the third vice president post.

Congress Huffs, Garner Puffs

Labor Advises Industry To Maintain Payrolls Or Face Another Business Decline

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The American Federation of Labor advised industry tonight to maintain payrolls at the highest possible level lest the business recession become another depression.

"The present decline appears to be a temporary check in our progress toward larger production volumes and higher standards of living while business waits for accumulated supplies to be bought off," the federation said in its monthly business survey.

Depends On Buying Power

"Whether it will be of long duration depends to a very important degree on our ability to maintain buying power close to its present levels, so that inventories of clothing and household supplies may be quickly consumed and a strong market provided for durable consumer goods such as homes and automobiles.

"Serious danger lies in the possibility that workers' buying power may be reduced while industrial production is checked during the waiting period. Measures to prevent this can be taken both by government and private industry.

Should Avoid Wage Cuts

Building Boom, Taxes Revision Are Suggested

Curtailment Of Expenditures, Purchase Of Supplies And Utility Pact Also Planned

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — President Roosevelt announced today a five-point program for ending the business slump, including — to the gratification of a tremendous bloc in congress — tax revision as soon as a bill can be prepared.

In addition, he listed at his press conference:

Stimulation of a boom in large-scale house building, on which he said he would send a message to congress Monday.

Curtailment Of Expenses

Curtailment of government expenditures for road building, on which he promised a message Tuesday—obviously part of the general campaign for a balanced budget.

The immediate purchase of some $245,000,000 worth of government supplies, which ordinarily would be acquired gradually over the next six months.

Continuation of his series of conferences with public utility executives, in the hope of promoting a utility construction program, which is lagging far below normal.

Statement Encourages Move

While the president's statement on taxes encouraged the congressional movement for tax revision at the special session, there obviously remained many doubts it could be accomplished.

Special situations in both the house and senate increased the obvious doubt a tax bill could be passed before the end of the year.

In the house, a large group of members making a determined effort for passage of the wage and hour bill, now stalled in the rules committee. This group was prepared to protest the idea of taking special action to relieve the tax burden of the corporations and neglecting the measure providing a minimum wage for employes. It was evident the wage-hour group was big enough to make its presence felt.

Agreement Is Suggested

One suggestion "out" was an agreement under which it would be assured of a house vote on the wage-hour bill.

In the senate, two items, both highly controversial, had to receive action before tax legislation could be taken up, under an order of business agreed upon last summer. They were crop control legislation, now pending, and the anti-lynching bill

Canyon College Plans Change

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 26—Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, said tonight the board of regents action in permitting teachers colleges to drop the requirement of teacher training before awarding degrees to students not wishing to teach school would open the educational door to many new students.

"Beginning next September," he said, "students will be able to get bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees in the state teachers colleges without being forced to take training to become a teacher.

"That does not mean," the college president said, "that we will do any less teacher training. It means simply that youths of the state will now have an opportunity to get senior college advantage at the teachers colleges. The policy will be uniform in all Texas teachers colleges."

The college president said the board of regents did not change the name of the Canyon school but did authorize permission to use the name West Texas State college, dropping the word "teacher" if school administrative officials desired to drop it.

Vinson Is Appointed To Federal Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP) — Representative Fred M. Vinson, 47, Kentucky Democrat now leading a congressional study of tax revision, was nominated by President Roosevelt today for associate justice of the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

Associates said they expected the Kentuckian to retain the chairmanship of a house tax sub-committee until new tax legislation was completed.

The salary of the judicial post is $10,000 a year—the same amount house members receive. The appointment is for life, however, and carries retirement privileges.

Mr. Roosevelt also nominated D. Lawrence Groner of Virginia, now an associate justice, for chief justice of the same court. Henry White Edgerton, professor of law at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., was nominated an associate justice to fill the vacancy which would be created by Groner's promotion.

Two Burned To Death Here

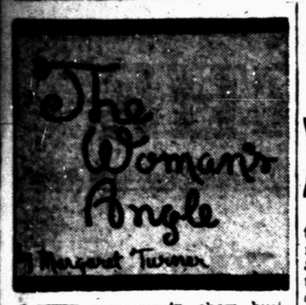

Two negro children, about 4 and 2, were burned to death about Friday midnight at a small residence in the Flats, negro section, near the intersection of Twenty-third street and East Avenue D.

A third negro, a boy about 12, was taken to a sanitarium for treatment of third degree burns. His condition was described as critical and authorities expressed doubt of his living until morning.

The shack, described by firemen as having "one large room or two small ones" was enveloped in flame after a 16-year-old negro girl assertedly threw gerosene in a heater. The house was destroyed. "Two or three" other occupants of the house were uninjured.

Negroes burned had not been identified shortly after 1 o'clock.

P.-T. A. BENEFIT PLAY

THE road show offering of "Daddy Long-Legs" will give you an opportunity to see a play of unusual scope and to support the Junior High school Parent-Teacher association in its effort to furnish band uniforms for the musicians in that school. The curtain will rise promptly at 7:45 o'clock Monday night at the Senior High school auditorium.

The play, as made familiar in the popular book by Jean Webster, tells the story of the life of a clever child whose misfortune it was to be brought up in an orphanage in the days when such places were little better than prisons. It offers a striking comparison with present day humane methods of child care.

Tickets are 50 cents for children and 75 cents for adults. Those who purchased tickets in the playgoers league will be eligible to attend, also. The league and the parent-teacher association are co-sponsors of the production.

THE SOFT GENERATION

THE modern generation is made up of "softies," in the opinion of Mrs. Ida M. Tarbell, that great historian who recently celebrated her eightieth birthday. Our so-called standard of living is purely a comfort standard, she believes. "You can't get anything out of life unless you work for it," she says.

We wonder how near right she is in those observations. We remember during recent months hearing several employers complain that youth doesn't want to start at a small beginning and work up. He wants to start his life's work in the executive's chair.

We wouldn't like them with our ice cream, which seems to be the only dish on which they are omitted in the restaurants.

MATURE BEAUTY

IF one were to paint a composite portrait of American beauty Winter 1937 style, it undoubtedly would turn out to be a picture of sophisticated maturity. The woman in the painting would appear to be 30 or thereabouts, with a slim, graceful figure, perfect posture, clear skin and a brushed-upward coiffure to reveal ears, brow, nape of the neck.

It's a season of smartness, well seasoned with femininity. Little girl effects are out, but so are masculine ones. You stick to dark colors, enlivened by subtle touches of bright. You may wear a man-tailored suit, but you add a hat with an alluring veil and a piece or two of utterly feminine jewelry. You may even pick a bouffant evening gown of frothy tulle, but you do your hair and wear your flowers in such a way as to make yourself look like a lovely painting rather than an ingenue.

If your figure doesn't measure up, by all means get busy with exercises. Don't face the holidays with bulging hips, a protruding stomach or a thick waistline. If your hips are not trim, waistline tiny, diaphragm and stomach flat, map out a new diet and an exercise schedule weeks before you intend to buy the important evening gown for important holiday parties.

If you have worn your hair the same way for ten years, by all means put yourself in the hands of the best hairdresser you can afford. Get a permanent, get a new cut, get a new kind of wave—but get something and stop thinking that it isn't important to change hairstyles fairly frequently.

Weddings Included Among Activities

Enjoying a gradual denouement is the Thanksgiving holiday which for many persons will not end until Sunday night. The harvest season this year has been occasion for weddings, family reunions and other especial social events.

Bright-Skipper

Miss Geraldine Skipper, daughter of Mrs. T. S. McCurdy of this city, was married to Gordon Bright, also of Lubbock, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning at the home of the Rev. Roy R. Baese, Grace Gospel pastor who performed a single ring ceremony.

The bride wore red chiffon velvet with black accessories and a corsage of American beauty roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bright left immediately on a short wedding trip to Amarillo. After a brief visit at the home of the bridegroom's family in Justiceburg, they will be at home here at 2315 Twenty-seventh street.

Mrs. Bright was an employe of Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

Welches Return

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff D. Welch have returned rom a Thanksgiving Day family reunion at the home of Mr. Welch's sister, Mrs. V. Q. Mills, near Hollis, Okla. His mother, Mrs. G. W. Welch of Anadarko, Okla., and eight of her nine living children were present.

They were Rev. Mr. Welch and his twin brother, the Rev. J. A. Welch of Shawnee, Okla.; Mrs. Mills; Mrs. J. S. Reynolds of Wellman; T. J. Welch of Bellview, N. M.; G. I. Welch of Hagerman, N. M.; S. A. Welch of Wellington, and Mrs. A. V. Havins of Chickasha, Okla.

Dinner was served to 38 relatives at noon. That afternoon, friends called.

Some of the Welch family has lived in Collingsworth county, where the reunion was staged, more than 30 years. The gathering was the first of its kind held in the family in 25 years.

In Allcorn Home

Thanksgiving dinner was the occasion for a reunion of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Allcorn of near Lubbock and their five daughters and other relatives Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Wright of 1624 Nineteenth street.

Their daughters are Mrs. Cleo Harrison, Roswell, N. M.; Mrs. Gem Bohannan, Clovis, N. M.; Mrs. Jacqueline Sinard, Mrs. Una Capps, Lubbock; and Mrs. Wright.

Miss Billie Deane Bohannan of Clovis, a granddaughter, Mrs. A. Gafford and daughter, Helen, of Clovis, and Mrs. Grace Estes and daughter, Pamelia, of Lubbock also attended.

Members of the Sew-A-While club

Members of the Sew-Awhile club entertained their husbands recently by giving a turkey dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rogers. Games were played after dinner. Members drew names for a Christmas party.

Special guests were Misses Elsie and Hazel Shore. Members who attended with their husbands were Mesdames Homer Moss, Vernon McCullough, Raymond Land, George Long, Craig Bond and Cliff Elliott.

Officers Busy With Complaints Friday

After an unusually quiet holiday Thursday, officers Friday had a busier day with several minor investigations, filing of minor charges in justice courts and entrance of four criminal infractions in county court.

H. S Jones entered a plea of not guilty of a charge of liquor law violation upon arraignment before Judge J. J. Dillard of county court. Jones posted bond of $250 set by Dillard.

Chas. C. Cox, member of the Texas Liquor Control Board, swore to the complaint before Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney.

Youth Paroled To Mother

A 15-year-old Slaton youth was paroled to his mother after he had been taken into juvenile court on a charge of drunkenness. Anderson prepared the complaint and it had been sworn to by Ragan Reed, Slaton constable.

A Slaton man who late Friday had not been reported arrested was charged in county court with carrying a pistol. Joe D. Burleson swore to the complaint prepared by the county attorney's office.

County Attorney Robert J. Allen prepared a complaint charging a man who late last night had not been arrested with swindling with $10.50 worthless check. The check was written on an Amarillo bank. R. E. Rushing, Jr., employe of a department store here, swore to the charge.

Legion Opens Annual Christmas Tree Sale

Annual sale of Christmas trees on behalf of Allen Bros. Post of the American Legion was started Friday by newly organized sons of the post, according to Kelley Nail, sponsor of the junior organization for the Legion.

The boys, who wore newly purchased trench helmets for the first time, will continue their activities today.

At the same time, announcement was made at the city hall that city workers are ready to begin drilling holes at the sidewalk edges in the business district for the placement of trees there. All profits from the sales go into the Legion's relief fund.

Trees Are Ordered

Nail added that 750 trees have been ordered from Washington near the Canadian border and that delivery is expected early in December. Included in the order is an item for a 30-foot giant which will be erected on the courthouse lawn.

Prices of the trees are graduated according to height, ranging from 35 cents for a small one to $1.50 for a tree of seven feet. Others up to 14 feet, price of which has been set at $4.75 also are available, Nail added.

Those placed in front of business houses will be spaced at comparatively regular intervals in line with parking meters, and for the most part will be five and seven feet in height.

Downtown Bible Class To Make Annual Collection On Sunday

Downtown Bible class will make its annual collection Sunday for Buckner's Orphan home of Dallas, according to Dan Powers, president. Beginning at 9:20 a. m., a special program will be presented at the Palace Theater. An organ recital and selections by Rix Puner-al home quartet will be included.

The annual offering for the class in the past nine years has exceeded $100. The objective of the Downtown Bible class is to help the poor and needy.

November Building Permits Go Above $90,000 Mark Friday

A half dozen building permits, issued by City Building Inspector Jim Reid Friday, boosted the totals for the month and year by $5,850. Largest of the permits was for $2,000.

With Friday's permits the 1937 total climbed to $1,491,753.10 and the November aggregate to $90,059.10.

Permits which pushed the year's total to within $10,000 of the million and a half mark were: Shamburger Lumber company, owner, and Jess Williams, contractor, to construct a one-story frame and sheet-iron warehouse at 1416 Avenue F, $2,000; Shamburger Lumber company to repair and build addition to residence at 511 Avenue C, $150; C. E. Howard, owner, and Chas. Burns, contractor, to construct a one-story circle top warehouse at 2207 Avenue H, $1,200; Geo. E. Benson, owner, and T. W. Stephens, contractor, to construct a one-story frame servant house at rear of 1310 Thirty-second street, $600; Clydell Willburn to erect a one-story frame residence at 206 Seventeenth street, $700; and Marvin Collier to repair and alter residence moved into the city limits at 2308 Fourteenth street, $1,200.

Sixth Ross Ransom Bill Is Discovered

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Discovery that a $10 bill passed recently in northern Illinois was part of the $50,000 ransom paid in vain for the return of Charles S. Ross gave fresh impetus today to the search for the abductors of the 72-year-old retired Chicago manufacturer.

It was the sixth ransom bill to make its appearance since the kidnaping two months ago.

WATERWAYS SEEK RAISE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The Inland Waterways corporation filed with the Interstate Commerce commission today a request for permission to join rail and water carriers in their effort to obtain a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Tickets Sales For Play Are Begun

Tickets to "Daddy Long Legs," Clare Tree Major production to be presented at 7:45 p. m. Monday at the Senior high school auditorium, are being sold by members of the Junior High Parent-Teacher association. The Lubbock Playgoers league is sponsoring the play.

Tickets, which are 50 cents for children and 75 cents for adults will be available at a downtown booth. Proceeds will go toward purchasing band uniforms for Junior high musicians.

Season tickets purchased by Playgoers league members will be accepted, H. C. Pender, president, has announced. If the tickets have been lost, the owners may redeem them in the foyer of the school building Monday night.

Rice, Baylor Battle At Houston Today; TCU And SMU Renew Feud At Cowtown

Feathered Crew Needs Victory To Hold Edge

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. — Only a few percentage points ahead of the pack in the mad Southwest Conference scramble, Rice Institute's Owls go out tomorrow before a capacity crowd to meet the challenge of the early pace-setter, Baylor.

Two of the sector's finest passers, Ernie Lain, the Rice sophomore, and Bullet Bill Patterson, the junior who pitched Baylor into a spot as the nation's fourth ranking team before their bubble burst, will have a clear day and dry footing for their heaving act.

A Rice victory tomorrow would put them in a commanding spot to take their second crown in four years. A defeat would make them just another one of the four teams clinging to various hopes.

Lain, 218-pounder who bucked and pitched the Owls to three straight victories after a listless start and then pulled last minute magic to gain a tie with Texas A. & M., was pitted against Patterson in a duel that promised to bring in more than 20,000 customers.

Not an injury harassed either team. Both went through final light workouts here today and reported ready. Baylor's new surprise halfback, Elwin Williams who did considerable offensive damage in the Loyola of Los Angeles game last week, was picked as a starter at left half for the Bruins.

Probable lineup:

Rice	Pos.	Baylor
Nance	LE	Boyd
Hines	LT	Blue
Moore	LG	Kiel
Arthur	C	H. Williams
Landry	RG	Coleman
Stanzel	RT	Marx
Steen	RE	Huessner
Hancock	QB	Patterson
Sullivan	LH	E. Williams
Cordill	RH	Gernand
Scheuhle	FB	Brazell

Last District Title To Be Decided In Session At Waco

DALLAS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Only one district champion remained to be crowned tonight as the Texas Interscholastic league football race moved into the first round play-off.

The District 3 executive committee, meeting at Houston, awarded the Oil Belt title to Abilene which had finished in a tie with Stephenville, and when the District 11 heads assemble at Waco tomorrow morning to pick a winner from the Temple-Waco-Cleburne deadlock the field will be completed.

The District 14 committee at Houston today voted not to name a representative this season. Port Arthur and Beaumont finished in a tie for the championship but did not play each other. Port Arthur had instituted court proceedings to have its twelfth graders declared eligible.

As a result of this action Conroe, champion of District 13, will draw a bye in the opening round next week, meeting the winner of the Bobstown-Mission game for the titles of Districts 15 and 16, the following week.

Amarillo in District 1, Vernon in District 2, Austin (El Paso) in District 4, Sherman in District 5, Highland Park (Dallas) in District 6, North Side (Fort Worth) in district 7, Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) in District 8, Longview in District 9, Lufkin in Distrct 10 and Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) in District 12 were the other champions.

Vernon plays at Amarillo Saturday of next week. Austin goes to Abilene Friday. Sherman will meet Highland Park at Sherman Friday and Lufkin entertains Longview Friday in bi-district games already arranged. The North Side-Woodrow Wilson site will be set tomorrow and Robstown and Mission make their arrangements in a meeting at Palfurrias Sunday.

Frenship Cagers Win 2 And Lose 1 With Shallowater

WOLFFORTH, Nov. 26. (Special)—Basketball teams of Frenship High school came away with a 2-1 advantage in a three-game struggle with Shallowater athletes here tonight.

Shallowater won the senior boys game, 35 to 22, scoring 13 points in the final quarter. Hansell Haynes, with 18 points, led the winners, while Robert Lofland was high for Frenship with 8. It was the opener for Frenship.

The Frenship senior girls won, 46 to 35, with Leah McWhorter scoring 21 points. Tommy Woodson 15 for the winners. Cauley of Shallowater made 13. Junior boys honors went to Frenship, 38 to 2, with Parris making 20 points. The Shallowater juniors failed to register a single field goal, making two free tosses count.

SHREVEPORTERS REACH FINAL

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 26. (AP)—By defeating Fair Park High school 13 to 0 yesterday the Byrd High school of Shreveport won the North Louisiana Double A football championship and the right to play the South Louisiana champions for statewide honors.

Pitt-Duke, Fordham-N.Y.U. Games Capture Limelight Despite Service Battle

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The Army and Navy football teams, having found the path to gridiron glory a rocky one, can't even be sure of their usual share of rapt attention tomorrow when they help stage the final act in the 1937 national football drama.

No matter what their records have been in past seasons, the country's fans have observed the tradition of turning over the stage front and center to the admirals and generals-to-be. But that tradition takes a rude kick in the pants this year.

The applecart upsetters are those gridiron observers who will be interested in reports from Durham, N. C., and New York's Yankee stadium than in developments at Philadelphia, where 105,000 customers will witness the service classic renewal.

At Durham Duke university's football team furnishes the final obstacle in the Pittsburgh Panthers march to a season unmarred by defeat. Yankee stadium will see undefeated, Pitt-tied Fordham clash with the wily but underdog forces of New York university.

These three games the Army-Navy duel because of color, tradition and the mere presence of the year's biggest crowd, the other two because of their direct bearing on various bowl situations completely overshadow scheduled activities on other gridirons.

Pitt is going down to Duke's home ground, where a crowd of 45,000 is expected for the first time since 1929 when the Panthers romped to victory against a team that had not yet become a leading football power. Since that time, under Wallace Wade, the Blue Devils have played five games with Eastern elevens and won them all.

Rams Challenge Pitt

Pitt's principal rival for Eastern championship honors is Fordham, and both still are considered in the running for invitation to either the Rose or Sugar bowl. They will remain that way, of course, only if Pittsburgh conquers Duke and Fordham gains ample revenge for last season's 7-6 setback by N.Y.U. The experts' odds say both will come through.

There'll be less than usual to choose between Army and Navy. The Midshipmen won last year, 7-0. This year, if the soothsayers are correct, there should be a victory by a mediocre Army squad that suffered no defeat as one-sided as Navy's 26-6 rout by Princeton last Saturday.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers will wind up their campaign by seeking to nail the Big Six title—and Kansas State—to the wall. At South Bend Notre Dame's back-breaking schedule will bring in Southern California as the final opponent. Holy Cross will try to finish undefeated by whipping Boston college, and Stanford will be favored to gain its first victory over Columbia at New York.

Conference conflicts will pair Tulane with Louisiana State, Georgia Tech and Florida with Auburn in the Southeastern, and Rice with Baylor and Texas Christian with Southern Methodist in the Southwest.

Three intersectional contests will be played on the Pacific coast, U.C.L.A. tackling Missouri and San Francisco meeting Michigan State tomorrow and unbeaten Villanova engaging Loyola on Sunday. On the same day, Santa Clara, last all-winning eleven still active, will wind up its regular-season activities against Gonzaga.

Only District 4 Title Not Yet Dcided

DALLAS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Champions of all but one of the 48 Class B districts in the Texas Interscholastic league football program had been named tonight and were preparing for bi-district games that will be semi-finals to regional titles.

There are twelve regions with four districts to the region.

Champions and the way they pair in bi-district play-offs starting next week follow (districts in parenthis):

Region 1—Tulia (1) vs. Panhandle (2), Wellington (3) vs. Spur-Flomot winner (R); Region 2 — Brownfield (5) vs. Roscoe (6), Wink (7) vs. Iraan (8). Region 3—Stamford (9) vs. Burkburnett (10), Putnam (1) vs. Nocona (12). Region 4—Diamond Hill, Fort Worth (13) vs. Buckner's Home, Dallas, (14), Van (15) vs. Ennis (16).

Region 5—Rockwall (17) vs. Ladonia (18), Mineola (19) vs. Big Sandy (20). Region 6—Overton (21) vs. Alto (22), Groveton (23) vs. Silsbee (24). Region 7—Brady (25) vs. Hamilton (26), San Saba (27) vs. Belton (28). Region 8—Itasca (29) vs. Milford (30), Hearne (31) vs. Elkhart (32).

Region 9—New Braunfels (33) vs. Smithville (34), Bellville (35) vs. Bay City (36). Region 10—East Bernard (37) vs. Pasadena (38), Hull-Daisetta (39) vs. Nederland (40). Region 11—Eldorado (41) vs. Sidney Lanier, San Antonio, (42), Hondo (43) vs. Victoria (44). Region 12 — Port Lavaca (45) vs. Aransas Pass (46), Freer (47) vs. La Feria (48).

The District 4 title will be decided by the toss of a coin, it was determined at a meeting of the executive committee today.

Bears' Bowl Foe Not Yet Named

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 26. (AP)—California's board of athletic strategy fiddled today while the country yearned to find out who will be selected to play the Golden Bears in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Ken Priestley, California's graduate manager and chairman of the board, got off a train from Berkeley and handed early rising interviewers a smile and a pleasant "good morning."

That was all.

He sidestepped all queries regarding the main issue, and failed to react at the mention of such leading bowl possibilities as Alabama, Pittsburgh and Fordham, or Dartmouth, Minnesota and Lafayette.

It Was A Good Game

Priestley did comment that the Alabama-Vanderbilt clash yesterday "must have been a whale of a battle," but no particular importance could be attached to the observation.

The lanky, affable manager indicated no decision has been made regarding a foe, and probably no invitation has as yet been extended to any school. Supporting this view was his remark that he would announce the selection without delay when negotiations had been completed.

"I don't care if it comes at 3 o'clock in the morning or high noon, I'll let it go. I'd like to get this 'potato' off my hands as quick as I can," he confessed.

Priestley said California has not ruled any of the teams considered possibilities.

Doesn't Want To Play

"I don't know when we'll have the announcement," he said, adding that he planned to return to Berkeley tomorrow night.

It seemed plausible to believe that the invitation might be divulged late tomorrow after the returns are in on the Pitt-Duke and Fordham-New York university games.

Usually the announcement of the pick is made here as a courtesy to Tournament of Roses people, but Priestley grinned and said: "It might not be ready until next week." He does not plan to come back here until next Thursday.

"Will you give us an idea what part of the country the bid may go, such as the East or South?" he was asked.

"You mean let's play 'cold, cool warm, warmer and hot'? Oh, no not me," he laughed.

Fans To Follow Austin High Team To Abilene For Game

EL PASO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Immediately after word was received Abilene's Eagles had been chosen to represent district three in the bi-district championship at Abilene next Friday, Austin High school officials prepared for a special train to the Oil Belt city.

Austin's golden-clad Panthers wrested the District four title from El Paso's Tigers in a hard-fought game before 12,000 shrinkng fans Thursday and announced today they would take their 50-piece band, girls' pep and drill squads to Abilene for the bi-district game.

Former Major Leaguer Is Killed In Auto Mishap

GRAHAM, Nov. 26. (AP) — Andrew Bednar, former major league pitcher, was killed when his auto overturned 20 miles from here last night.

The body will be sent to Nokomis, Ill., for burial.

Bednar formerly pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Fort Worth.

Capacity Crowd Is Expected To View Conflict

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Nov. 26.—Twenty thousand football fans are expected to gather in the Texas Christian stadium tomorrow to watch the Frogs wind up their 1937 season against an Southern Methodist team which started slowly but has been a great club since then.

Kick-off time for the battle is 2 o'clock.

Little Davey O'Brien, the Frogs' sensational quarterback from Dallas who has been a standout in every T.C.U. game this season, will be the lightest man on the field at the kickoff. Because of the fact that Davey only weighs 153 the Mustangs will hold a decided weight advantage in the backfield with the lines due to be almost evenly-matched in poundage.

The Methodist are sure to bump up against a tough line. In winning by 7-2 over Rice last week the Frogs only allowed three first downs and one of those was because of a penalty.

Ex-students from both schools and many other fans from all over the nation will be in the stands at the kickoff.

Probable starting lineups:

Oklahoma Aggies And Gents Battle Today

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 26. (AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies collide with the Centenary college Gentlemen from Shreveport, La., here tomorrow in an intersectional grid battle which brings to a close the Cowboys' second season under the guiding hand of big Ted Cox.

The game is scheduled to begin on Lewis field at 2:30 p. m. will be dedicated to the eight Cowboy seniors who will don their orange-and-black uniforms for the last time.

A victory for the Aggies would give them an average of .500 per cent for their ten-game season, the best record for a Cowboy club since Lynn Waldorf's last year as head coach in 1933.

The gents who whipped the Aggies, 7 to 0 last year, are favored by virtue of their season's record of five victories, including wins over Southern Methodist university and Texas Christian university, two ties and three defeats.

Committee To Decide District 11 Champion At Waco Today

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The District 11 committee will meet in Waco at 5 p. m. Saturday to settle the three-way tie for the district football championship which now exists between Waco, Cleburne and Temple.

Several members of the district committee attending the state teachers convention here, set the time and place for the Saturday conference.

ST. MARY'S TRIUMPH

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., Nov. 26 (AP) Doug Locke, an eel-hipped 147-pound fullback from Crossett, Ark., led the St. Mary's Rattlers of San Antonio, Tex., to a 33 to 14 victory over Ouachita's Tigers today.

Duck Hunting Season Opens This Morning

By RAY NEUMANN
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUSTIN, Nov. 26.—Blasts of shotgun fire on the gulf coast, lakes, streams and marsh lands of Texas tomorrow will inaugurate what state game authorities hail the "best duck and geese season in years."

Thousands of waterfowl will be found by armies of nimrods already encamped near blinds and other hiding places from which they will crack down on teal, sprig, mallard, black duck and other species after 7 a. m.

Authorities expect a last-year high of 25,000 federal duck stamps sold in Texas to be exceeded this year.

Conservation Aids Crop

"The plentiful supply of ducks and geese," said H. D. Dodgen, chief clerk of the state game department, "is due largely to conservation methods promulgated by the federal government in recent years.

"Drainage of marsh lands—natural breeding grounds—for agricultural and other purposes had greatly reduced the numbers of migratory fowl. Rehabilitation of these areas by the United States and Canadian governments have aided propagation. We have no way of estimating the increase in flocks wintering in Texas but our wardens have reported great numbers of them.

"J. N. (Ding) Darling, chief of the biological survey in 1934, pushed through federal regulations requiring the duck stamp (proceeds of which are allocated to the rehabilitation work), shortening the seasons and limiting shotguns to a three-shell capacity."

No Reports Of Kills

Lucas Johnson, game department secretary, said there was no accurate method of determining the number killed.

"A large portion of ducks and geese are taken on public waters and, unlike deer preserves, federal laws will not permit landowners to charge for hunting," he said. "Thus, no reports of the kill are possible."

The long Texas coast, with its hundreds of bays, coves and places of shelter, is by far the most densely populated region of duck and goose areas in the state. Favored localities are Matagorda and Aransas bays but the range extends from Orange east and south through Jefferson, Chambers, Galveston, Brazoria, Jackson, Calhoun, Refugio, San Patricio and Nueces counties.

Innumerable lakes, ponds and streams scattered throughout the state also afford ideal hunting spots. Most of them are in "lanes of flight" for migratory fowl seeking tidewater.

Deadline Is 4 O'Clock

The Panhandle wheatfields, however, often provide temporary resting and feeding places as do grain fields miles inward from the coast.

Most ducks and geese are shot on the fly, sportsmen disdaining to "level" on them on the water. There are sharpshooters among the hunters who will not fire until two birds cross in flight, bringing down both with one shot.

Ducks, geese, coot and jacksnipe may be shot until Dec. 26 with a 4 o'clock afternoon deadline. The bag limit is 10 ducks in the aggregate and five on geese and brandt. In addition to the duck stamp, the hunter must carry a state license.

It is unlawful to take wood ducks, canvassbacks, ruddy ducks, redheads, buffleheads, swans and Ross' geese.

BOB PASTOR DISCISIONED

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Young Bob Pastor's championship aspirations went right out the window tonight when Nathan Mann, rugged New Haven heavyweight, gave him a fancy trimming before 6,600 exulting customers at Madison Square garden. Mann weighed 185 3-4; Pastor 183.

Red Ramsey Is Selected For Second Time On "Little All-America" Grid Eleven

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the following story, Frank Koch, football editor of Collyer's News bureau, selects the fifth official 1937 "Little All-America" team. Herchel "Red" Ramsey, Texas Tech's captain and end, attains the honor for the second time. He was selected in 1935 while a sophomore.

From out of the remote obscurity that once enveloped such gridiron greats as Bill Shepherd, Joe Stydahar and Tuffy Leemans, your writer today is privileged to unveil the 1937 "Little All-America" team —a mythical aggregation of football stalwarts representing not the lads from the outstanding schools who boast the longest string of clippings, or the best press agents, but the unheralded aces of the little known teams — youngsters who can —and must—do everything who can play the foll 60 minutes who ask no quarter—and give none.

Make Good As Pros

The fifth annual Collyer Little all-America," we are certain tops all of our previous honors teams. That of course is taking in quite a lot of territory, for to date NOT ONE of our "little giants" has failed to make the grade in pro ball, the only possible test.

We gave you in previous years besides Shepherd, Stydahar and Leemans, the following: Nolting and Hammond — Chicago Bears; Blazine, Nolan — Chicago Cardinals; Paul Miller, Lettlow—Green Bay Packers; Kobrosky, Neil — New York Giants, and Drobnitch and Hal Carlson of American Professional loop.

This year's squad boasts several of the finest players developed in college football during the past few seasons. Two undefeated outfits teams are represented. Here is how they line up:

Lists 1937 Selections

GILBERT — Andy Kerr ad him one of the greatest players of the season. Colgate encountered plenty of trouble defeating St. Bonaventure — and the big reason was Gilbert. An excellent pass catcher, and a fine defensive end, he doesn't take a back seat to any of them.

GILES — The top tackle in the state of Oklahoma is the one received on this bulwark of the Edmond Teachers' forward wall.

OLDERSHAW — Jimmy Phelan calls this Santa Barbara star the perfect guard. Bill Henry A. Times" says Oldershaw is one of the most outstanding linemen ever to perform in the Far West.

NEBEL — Clem Crowe one of Rockne's immortal "Seven Mules" sings his praises. Xavier is a small time school, but veteran coaches say Nebel is the best center in the middle west.

BECKEN — This Williamette guard, says Coach R. S. Keene is good enough to play on any team in the country.

RAGAZZO—Western Reserve was unbeaten for nearly three seasons. Give Ragazzo much of the credit for that record.

RAMSEY — The greatest end in all of Texas. We are taking the word of not only Coach Pete Cawthon on Ramsey, but Duquesne's Clipper Smith and other competent authorities. This boy rates right up there with the Daddios, Souchaks, Kings and Sweeneys.

RYAN — Harry Gamage, former Kentucky coach, who saw Beattie Feathers, McEver, Shipwreck Kelly and Bobby Dodd, feels that Ryan is a real all-American.

BUTCHER — Gustavus Adolphus finished unbeaten. Coach Myrun gives Butcher the credit for that. This Minnesota bone crusher played four seasons of college ball without a substitution, and has been on a losing team only once—high school and college.

SHELEY — They call this Augustana halfback the most accomplished passer and running back ever seen in the Dakotas.

KARAMATIC — Gonzaga's iron man must be classed with Clint Frank and Whizzer White. Let Tiny Thornhill do the talking: "What Karamatic can't do with a football isn't worth doing. He is one of the greatest players the Pacific Coast has ever seen." If Karamatic isn't an all-American—there never was one.

Little All-America

GILBERT, Steve — St. Bonaventure, L. E.
GILES, Bill—Edmund Teachers, L. T.
OLDERSHAW, Doug—Santa Barbara State, L. .
NEBEL, Fred—Havier U., C.
BECKEN, Elliott — Williamette, R. G.
RAGAZZO, Phil — Western Reserve, R. T.
RAMSEY, Hershel—Texas Tech, R. E.
RYAN, Billy — South Dakota U., Q. B.
SHELBY, Wayne—Augustana (S. Dak.), L. H.
BUTCHER, Wendell — Gustavus Adolphus, R. H.
KARAMATIC, George — Gonzaga, F. B.

SECOND TEAM

ENDS — Kline (Emporia Teachers), Smith (Marshall). TACKLES—Crowell (Hardin Simmons), Naney (Oklahoma Baptists). GUARDS — Weger (Butler), Gross (Bradley). CENTER—Moore (Colorado). Q. B. —Eurnett (Conway Teachers). HALFBACKS—Yeager (Santa Barbara State), Riffle (Albright). FULLBACK—Weisgerber (Williamette).

Abilene Chosen To Represent District 3 In Grid Playoff

HOUSTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Abilene was named the Oil Belt's representative in the race for state schoolboy championship tonight by the Inter-scholastic League District 3 committee in executive session.

Abilene had tied Stephenville for the district title.

J. F. Dudley, chairman of the committee, did not disclose the discussion by representatives of all but one school in the district. He cautioned newsmen not to refer to Abilene as "champion," suggesting they use the term "representative."

The decision apparently was reached because Abilene defeated Stephenville 7-6 earlier in the season when the two teams met at Abilene.

Abilene's lone defeat was inflicted Thursday by San Angelo which downed the West Texans 12-7.

The West Texans will meet Austin High school of El Paso in a bi-district game.

Army-Navy Tilt To Be Unreeled On Muddy Turf

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—It'll likely be gobs against land-lubbers in a marine engagement for tomorrow's annual military service football classic, so Navy gets the call over Army.

A wet weather forecast shifted the odds Navy's way because of the Midshipmen's weight advantage and their customary reliance this season in power rather than intricate trickery.

Navy Favored In Mud

But only the indicated approach of rain gave the edge to the Tars. On a dry field—and the storm may swerve away—the choice would be Army. Navy has appeared a trifle stronger than the Cadets against the rivals both have tackled, but Navy's surprising downfall a week ago before Princeton more than evens that up.

The Cadets arrived from West Point last night and romped through a last drill in Municipal stadium this afternoon.

The Sailors took their last practice on the Annapolis home grounds and were to reach Philadelphia just before game time.

All 102,000 Seats Sold

The Midshipmen and Cadets, whose parades before the kickoff are as much anticipated as the game itself, will move in tomorrow morning.

There'll be a sell-out crowd of more than 102,000 in the big bowl. Those who didn't get tickets early are paying dearly, for speculators are asking up to $30 each.

Army holds the edge in the series, 20 to 14, with three ties. Navy won a year ago, 7-0.

Sam Baugh And Arnie Herber Pitted For Hurling Duel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP) — Slingin' Sammy Baugh and Arnie Herber will match pitching skill at Griffith stadium Sunday when the Green Bay Packers and the Washington Redskins meet in a professional football game.

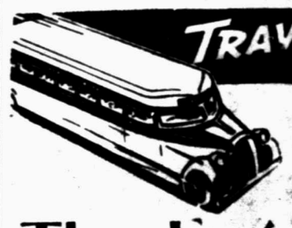

A big crowd, studded with dignitaries, was expected to watch the passing battle between Baugh and Herber, the ace hurlers, respectively, of the Redskins and Packers.

IRAAN TO PLAY WINK

IRAAN, Nov. 26. (AP)—Championship of District 8-B tucked away, the Iraan Braves are due to meet the Wink Wildcats in a bi-district battle at some date next week. The Iraan team defeated Marfa Thanksgiving to annex the title of 8-B.

LOTS OF GOOD PLANE FOOD in the form of an unfortunate man is apparently being devoured by a hungry monster. Make War Up To The People!

DIVIDED on almost everything else, members of the present Congress seem to be agreed on one thing: that above everything else the American people want to stay out of any and all wars that may come over the horizon.

In this the Congressmen undoubtedly reflect the wishes of their constituents. No one can doubt that the people of this country want peace. War may start overnight in almost any part of the world; if public sentiment means anything, this country will stay out if it be humanly possible.

But the peace-loving people of the United States might as well understand one thing. Under existing laws, they can be taken into war against their own will, and they can do nothing about it but take it and like it.

IN the first place, any President can, if he wishes, maneuver the country into a spot where war becomes practically inevitable. Wilson did it, unintentionally, in the World war; any succeeding President could do the same.

In the second place, it is Congress that declares war. Susceptible to pressures of all kinds, Congress might conceivably declare war when a majority of the people did not want war. It is still an open question, for instance, whether a majority of Americans wanted to go to war with Germany in the spring of 1917.

There are now pending in the Senate two bills which aim to remedy this situation. Introduced by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Capper of Kansas, these bills call for a constitutional amendment which would put any declaration of war up to a nationwide referendum for ratification. Unless a majority of the people voted for war, war could not be declared.

The only exception would be in case of invasion by a foreign power of the United States or any other North American nation.

"EVERY man in the nation will jump to arms in case the United States is invaded or threatened with invasions," says Senator Capper. "But when it comes to war overseas, the American people believe they have the right to pass on their participation in such wars, and I agree."

And says Senator LaFollette:

"I believe that if the American people are competent to elect Congressmen and senators to make such a tremendous decision, they are equally competent to arrive at the decsion themselves."

It is pretty hard to find any flaws in that sort of logic.

Early action on one or the other of these two bills would be advisable. The danger of a new world war seems to be getting greater all the time. Here is one safeguard to which the American people are entitled—the right to say for themselves whether they shall send armies to fight overseas. The machinery to give them that right might as well be put in motion at once.

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also.

And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.—St. Matthew, 5, 38 through 42.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

NAVY SPARROWS

Here's a letter that just came to me from China:

"Chefoo, China, Aboard U. S. S. "Black Hawk"

Dear Mr. Ripley:

Even at this time when shot and shell between the Japanese and Chinese are rending this part of the country asunder, I still can write you of something that I think is more of a wonder.

Would you believe that three little English Sparrows have followed Lieut. Commander C. M. Holton from America to China aboard this ship. I have seen them every day for a year, and they have followed the ship every place, even to Singapore. Needless to say, they are great pets with the crew, and we call them "Papa—Mamma—and Junior Beep." The enclosed photos of the "Beeps" were taken in Chunking, China.

Yesterday: Broken in spirit, Alan returns to his studio. A few minutes later Ardath appears. In desparation Alan, at Ardath's suggestion, begins a portrait of her.

CHAPTER XVIII

The shining scarf had given Ardath a subtle allure. But something was wrong. Those flat little curls which had been painstakingly pressed down over her forehead, held in place by thick blond braides.

Alan frowned and crossed the room to his dresser. He came back with a comb.

"Mind?" he queried. Without waiting for her reply, he combed out the curls, releasing Ardath's young brow from the curly screen.

"Oh, not at all?" Ardath answered sarcastically. "It doesn't matter that I spent a dollar this afternoon to have my hair set like that. Just to impress you."

"I'm much more impressed this way." Alan's voice was grim. "You have a classic brow. You might be some young Greek goddess, who has forgotten she is carved of stone, and has come to life. Ready to enthrall a mere earthly man with her beauty."

"Are you enthralled?" Ardath asked boldly.

"I'm no man. I'm an artist. That is just now." A tide of color had washed over Alan's face.

"And afterward?" Ardath persisted, softly.

Alan was bending over his paints. He spoke slowly: "Afterward—after this sitting, I'll still be an artist. A very tired artist feeling that what he has done is foolish and futile. And you'll be a very weary girl, ready to call it a day. As for that dollar. What a price for fame. Maybe you'll hang in the Metropolitan gallery."

"And maybe I won't." Ardath thought with the cynicism learned in the hard school of experience. "Maybe I'll gather dust in this dump with a lot of other painted ladies. I wonder if he looked at that Russian girl as though he really didn't see her. And if she felt as I'm feeling now."

Ardath couldn't have analyzed her own feelings. A chaotic combination of anger, helplessness, vanity, and what Ardath was accustomed to calling "love." She was being swept along by a swift emotional current past the boundaries of restraint and dignity.

"Take your handkerchief and rub off some of that rouge on your mouth." Alan commanded. He watched her lightly touch her lips with a handkerchief, and then he crossed over to her.

"Here, let me show you." He took the handkerchief and rubbed vigorously. "There, that's better. A goddess who's getting a soul doesn't have lips like a scarlet poppy. Her lips are awakening . . . like a rosy dawn. You're trembling. Cold? Wait, I'll build up the fire. And maybe a cup of coffee would help both of us. It's going to be a long sitting."

Ardath's lips curled contemptuously as she watched him stir the fire. Was there another man in the world who would have turned down the invitation of her lips while removing lipstick from them? He had a heart of stone. He had no heart at all. This was going to be an entertaining evening.

It was a long sitting. Alan worked intensely, without words. Twice he stopped to bring coffee and heap more coal on the open fire.

Ardath found herself strangely fascinated and excited. He really was a grand painter, wasn't he? He would go places. And any girl who got with him would go places, too.

Ardath was of that type who knew only one way to get a man. Entrap him with physical weapons. Her lips curved into warm invitation again.

But her most alluring expressions were evidently being lost upon Alan. She began to droop in weary defeat.

"Wake up." Alan cried out with professional ruthlessness.

"Let's quit." Ardath suggested, suddenly. "I'm—I guess I'm too tired to sit still any longer. It's late, and there's tomorrow. You don't have to punch a clock at 8 a. m. do you?"

"I'm afraid I've been selfish," Alan said, compassionately. "I'm fearfully sorry. I'll make this up to you. Models are well paid, you know."

"Oh, skip it." Ardath said. "I don't want any money. It wasn't so bad, really. Let's see what you've done."

Alan threw a cover over the canvas. "Wait until it's finished. I'm afraid you wouldn't understand now what I'm trying to do. I'll call a taxi for you now."

"A taxi!" Ardath breathed. "I couldn't be walking in on my landlady at an hour like this. She's awfully strict, you see."

Alan did see. She had believed this was one of those cheap adventures. Only it wouldn't be.

He tried to keep the contempt out of his voice, to make it sound casual. "You want to stay here, then?"

"If you don't mind. I could just curl up in a big chair somewhere."

"I wouldn't be comfortable at all sleeping in my bed. I've a better idea. I'm going to let you sleep there, while I go out for a walk. I frequently walk for hours when I'm restless."

"And you're restless now?" Ardath asked, her eyes on his.

"Yes." Alan replied.

"I'll come back in time to take you out to breakfast," Alen said.

Ardath didn't speak for a moment. "Put me out on the doorstep if you like." Her voice was choked. "I don't want to run you out."

"You're not running me out. I like nothing better than a tramp in a snow. You've been a good sport about the picture. Now try to get some sleep."

Ardath persisted. "It seems silly for you to leave. If you're thinking about my reputation—you needn't. I'm not a conventional person."

"No," Alan said, his eyes meeting her's steadily. "I wasn't thinking of that. Besides the night is already over. It's close to 5 o'clock."

He went out, closing the door behind him.

Ardath went back into the bedroom slowly. The covered canvas met her eyes, and angrily she turned back the cover.

For a moment she stood regarding it blankly. Her own face, her own features. And yet it wasn't her. The soft, shining radiance on the face of the woman on the canvas bewildered her. Her lips had never curved in the sweet and gentle way this woman's did. Getting a soul, he had said!

The arrogant fool! He had used her to paint this silly picture. He had been making fun of her all the time.

In a blind fury, Ardath strick the canvas violently.

All he had wanted was to paint like this. Well, he wouldn't have the picture.

She would leave before he came back. Just as soon as it was light. But she would leave a little reminder of her visit.

With quick, savage fingers, she tore the picture from the easel, rolled it tightly and went over to the fire.

For a moment, smoke curled about the canvas. Then, greedy flames leaped up.

"He'll be wild," Ardath thought. "But I guess he'll know then, he didn't make a fool outa me."

A tawny glow was streaking the early morning sky when Jill drove away from the big, shadow-wrapped mansion.

In her gray Persian coat and matching peaked cap, Jill was very lovely. Her white face was turning rosy under the whip of cold, clean air.

Some of her dark mood began to drop from her like a too-heavy load. She was going to the man she loved. That was all that mattered for the moment. He would forgive her and understand. When big hurts came, petty considerations were washed away, like small ripples lost in the heavy roll of the sea.

There she was turning into 67th street, with its sleepy morning face powdered heavily with snow. And—Jill had stopped her car at the curb with a funny little quiver of nervousness—this was the address Patty had given her.

Behind that closed door was Alan. It was natural to feel this frightened clutch at her heart. She couldn't remember calling on a man she loved at this hour before! And she never could again!

Inside, Ardath was aroused by the jangle of the doorbell. She came out of sleep slowly, with last night's anger and irritation creeping back with consciousness.

It must be Alan coming back to make peace, changing his mind about being so high and upstage. He would be angry about that picture. There was only one thing to do. Brazen it out. She might get farther with crying.

She had slipped into her dress, tugged on her slippers and started to the door.

The bell rang again and Ardath muttered: "Coming, coming!" Her eyes were a little scared. He really

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE sly sabotaging which F.D.R.'s own official family have perpetrated on the so-called seven-T.V.A. measure has been so pernicious that it isn't mentioned in polite presidential circles.

Henry Wallace, in a report which got no publicity, noted that establishment of seven "conservation" regions would duplicate and overlap his department's wild life, anti-erosion and soil preservation work. Former Treasury Assistant Josephine Roche took exception to provisions which would shift public health authority from her hands to whatever new authority was created. As written, the bill would make Uncle Sam the keeper of every city, county and state garbage can in that it empowers Washington to patrol river pollution everywhere. War department engineers socked the measure so viciously that thir report was pigeonholed.

His cabineteers unwittingly doublecrossed the President in another respect. They analyzed and portrayed the measure as a "power" program. Now Mr. Roosevelt, who is again flirting with the private utilities, wants to softpedal that phase and represent it as a simple planning proposition.

WEAPON: Private utility moguls aren't tossing their hydroelectric hats in the air over the peace conference which President Roosevelt has called. They have been tipped off to a projected flank attack on them that will offset olive branch overtures.

Several large cities, New York in particular, will dramatize the rate-and-valuation issue (Mr. Roosevelt's pet peeve) by threatening to build their own power plants. They will headline the news that the federal government, through the R. F. C. or a revived P.W.A., will furnish the funds. As at Bonneville, the interest and amortization terms will be so generous that the cities will be able to furnish electricity at a much lower price than the private companies.

If the Roosevelt strategy works as privately planned, the utilities will meet the threat of a dozen municipal T.V.A.'s by recasting their valuations or lowering rates. The President and his mayors will not spring the scheme, however, until after the White House has gone through the motions of offering to cooperate with the big-time electricians.

IMPERATOR: Ten Downing Street's decision to ally with Hitler rather than Mussolini represents a complete reorientation of British foreign policy. It also dovetails with confidential reports that Il Duce now regards himself as the Napoleon of international politics, eating, dressing and posing like the little corporal."

Normally London would prefer an alliance with Mussolini, who represents a more serious threat to Britain's overseas empire than does Der Fuehrer. Until a few months ago Rome's principal aim was a tieup with the Eden-Chamberlain government and the Italian dictator would have scrapped the Berlin-Rome axis at the slightest sign of British interest and Central Europe to frighten Britain into friendship.

Lately, however, Mussolini has come under a Napoleonic complex, probably because of his several successful snubs of the democratic powers—England, France, Russia. He sees himself as head man of a fascist hegemony which must eventually war on Great Britain. So the hard-headed Tories at London have dropped this diplomatic dreamer while they fool around with the Berlin boss. They'll even throw Der Fuehrer a colony or two if he'll doublecross his Roman friend.

STRATEGY: Hugo L. Black played an invisible part in the trial and acquittal of a Senate contempt victim in a District of Columbia court. The ex-Senator's role had an ironic touch because holding a witness in contempt was a favorite weapon in his shorting season.

Defendant was W. Boone Groves of Pittsburgh, vice-president of the Railway Audit & Inspection company. He was indicted for refusing to turn over documents to the LaFollette Civil Liberties committee during its investigation of labor disturbances. Special prosecutor was Crampton Harris, a former law partner of Justice Black.

Defense counsel first insured the presence of several Klan-proscribed people on the jury, including a negro employed by the War department. Then the Groves lawyers seized every chance to publicize Mr. Harris' intimate association with Mr. Black—so much so that the justice uttered a mild rebuke. Other lawyers in the courtroom noted this bit of strategy in their black books.

USURPED?: A church where Mr. Roosevelt frequently worships recently erected the following sign: "The President's church."

Underneath the pronouncement an irreverent wag wrote: "Formerly God's."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

IF the motor industry continues to be harassed by wildcat strikes and other labor disturbances, there is a serious possibility that General Motors and Chrysler may join Ford in a complete shut-down.

There are two sides to this story. The suspension of operations would be explained to the financial world as a move to chasten the C.I.O. It would be explained to the workers as necessitated by the glut in the motor market. Both explanations would be correct. Sales are slow and the trade-in problem is driving dealers to distraction. Therefore there would be little or no loss in stopping production for a while in the hope that market conditions will improve. This situation has developed at a time when it can be used to bring pressure on fractious abor elements. It would be a perfect case of bagging two birds with one brick.

No definite decision as to a general shut-down has been reached. The big companies realize that such a move, coming just when Washington is trying desperately to turn the business curve up again, would lay them open to political castigation. Therefore, if they do suspend, they won't advertise it. The shut-down will be handled plant by plant, rather than by the corporation as such. That way the desired results could be obtained with a minimum of publicity. Much depends on whether responsible officials of the United Automobile Workers can check the outlaw activities of unruly members. The prospects for that aren't so good.

OVERLOAD: The piling up of used cars is the motor industry's worst headache at the moment. While the manufacturers suffer no direct loss from this development, it hurts them indirectly by crippling their dealers financially.

The condition was foreseeable, but no one did anything to forestall it. Easy payments and generous trade-in terms have stimulated new car sales at the expense of a vast accumulation of second-hand vehicles. The export market can only absorb a small proportion of them. Winter sales are always slow and winter costs of carrying unsold cars are high.

Shrewd observers doubt that the industry can get back in stride unless and until dealers can find a way to get out from under the overload.

MISTAKE: Japanese hopes for American financial participation in the development of Manchukuo come under the heading of pipe dreams. No doubt the Japs would be delighted if they came true. Japanese corporations have been assessed to their toenails to pay for military ventures that have yielded no return. Japan has no cash to spare for exploitation and cannot borrow any. It is natural that she should turn to wealthy Uncle Samuel.

The Japanese miscalculation lies in the common foreign assumption that the United States is money-mad—that we are sure to come across if the inducement is large enough. Over and over Japanese spokesmen harp on the idea that she is too good a customer to offend—that sentimental sympathy for China is all very well, but what we really want is business.

Anyone who thinks the United States is interested only in money is making a big mistake. That may be true of a minority of Americans, but as a nation we are uncommonly idealistic. Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to this idealism is one of his greatest political assets.

Residents Of Lubbock Hurt In Plane Crash

(Special To The Avalanche)

AMARILLO, Nov. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Armstrong, Jr., of Lubbock escaped with minor injuries when their private airplane cracked up a mile north of Municipal airport after the engine quit early today.

The plane's nose was crushed and the propellor smashed.

Former Amarillo Residents

The Armstrongs, who until three weeks ago lived in Amarillo, where he was associated with Nunn Electric company, which company at Lubbock employs him now, were en route to Lubbock after flying to Amarillo Thursday for the annual grid clash of the Sandies and the Westerners.

The Mohawk Pinto full-cantilever low-wing, two-place monoplane was unlicensed because, as a brother of Armstrong at Lubbock said, "it carried too much motor weight for its wingspread." The brother, E. H. Armstrong of 1721 Twenty-fourth street, said the injured flier did not have a license, but that he was "eligible for it." He had been flying "only a few months" and had about 50 hours flying time.

Another Brother Here

Another brother, Dell Armstrong, lives at 909 Avenue L, Lubbock. The injured couple, in St. Anthony's hospital at Amarillo, has no children.

E. H. Armstrong said the wings of the Pinto had been "trimmed". The power plant is a 100 hp Cirrus aircooled "in-line" engine, whereas normal power for a ship of the Pinto's weight and spread would be 65 hp.

The flier and his wife live at 1906 Main street.

Idalou Future Homemakers Meet At School Building

IDALOU, Nov. 26. (Special) — Installation and initiation were conducted by the Future Homemakers club at a recent meeting in the Idalou High school building. A committee of Estelle Gordon, Edna Killebrew and Pauline Browning was appointed to care for home economics room projects.

Zelma Eubank and Nadene Gregory directed games and music was furnished by Bonnie and Dorothy Jay.

Refreshments were served to these and to Wanda Kimbrell, Geneva Eubank, Virginia Dycas, Mattie Joe Morris, Ruby Gordon, Cleo Bales, Tommie Jo and Eloise Sparks, Mary Evelyn McMillian, Gertrude Wall, Nadene Hamilton, Lucille Fulfer, Asaline Wall and the sponsors, Misses Blanche Zeman and Mary Katherine Couch.

REDUCTION IS APPROVED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 26. (AP) — Recommendation for a further slash of 10,000 barrels daily to bring allowable production of crude oil in Oklahoma in December to 550,000 barrels daily was approved today at a meeting of producers and purchasers.

The reduction would be made in the Oklahoma City Wilcox pool.

had an awful temper. You could see it.

She opened the door a little, and then wider, as she recognized the early morning caller.

"Oh, it's you!" Ardath said, smiling defiantly at Jill.

TARZAN'S QUEST. No. 110 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Finally, the two girls were led into the temple grounds, and the strong gates closed behind them. Between the wall and the buildings was an open space, overgrown with large trees, a few clumps of bamboo, and unsightly patches of brush and weeds.

As they crossed toward the main building, an ugly leopard rose up suddenly from a patch of weeds, bared its fangs at them, and slunk away. Then another and another of the treacherous beasts, disturbed by their passage, moved sinuously out of their path.

Annette, her eyes wide with fright, pressed close to Jane. "I am afraid!" she quavered. "I don't feel so comfortable myself," Jane admitted. She turned to Ogd'l. "Why are these leopards allowed to run at large? Aren't they dangerous to your people?"

"They do not bother us much in daylight," the Kavuru shrugged. "They have learned to respect armed men. And after all, they are cowardly beasts that prefer to sneak up on their prey in the dark. You may be sure that no one escapes the temple by night!"

BUYING POWER RALLIES STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Sustained buying power rallied the stock market sharply today, with leading issues finishing near their highs for the day, up 1 to 4 points and more.

Utility and Building material shares gave the session's improved tone from the opening gong, and the recovery from Wednesday's decline spread quickly to every group in the list. Steels, rails, motors, coppers and oils especially benefitted.

Brokers asserted news from Washington was "more hopeful."

The rally, from the turnover point of view, was moderate. Transactions totaled 1,187,520 shares against 987,240 Wednesday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.9 points to 43.6.

Wall Street had apparently changed its appraisal of the utility position over the holiday, for stocks of this group, neglected Wednesday, were in strong demand. It was noted President Roosevelt said he would continue his talks with power company executives.

A more than seasonal decline in railroad freight carloadings and a similar reduction in automobile output were reported too late in the day to affect the market.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Shooting upward 3⅜ cents a bushel from early bottom levels today, the Chicago wheat market not only overcame losses but scored substantial net gains.

Aiding wheat values to rally with vigor from downturns attributed to bearish Southern hemisphere crop advices was late announcement of North American wheat export business totaling upwards of 1,100,000 bushels, including about 500,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat. The wheat market also was stimulated by encouraging action of securities at New York.

Season new low price records for wheat in Liverpool, 5 cents a bushel down in some cases, had much to do with temporary tumbles of Chicago quotations. On the other hand, the Buenos Aires wheat market emulated Chicago in recovering.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were at the day's apex, ⅞ to 1⅛ cents above Wednesday's finish, Dec. 90½@90⅝, May 90⅛@90¼, July 85¾@85⅞, corn ⅛ off to ⅛ up, Dec. 53¾@53⅞, May 56½@56⅞, oats varying from ⅛ decline to ⅜ advance, rye ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, and provisions showing 5 to 35 cents bulge.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26. (AP)—A good buying movement after mid-session lifted cotton prices nearly $1 a bale here today but advance was shaded in late trading by realizing. The close was steady at net advances of 9 to 15 points.

Favorable reports from Washington and advancing outside markets were stimulating factors.

Trdmg was moderate during the early part of the session but gained momentum later, and was very active in the final hour.

The best prices of the day were reached in late trading but the close was several points off from the top. Dec. finished at 8.15, Jan. at 8.14, March at 8.18@8.22, May at 8.22, July at 8.22, Oct. at 8.22-bid and Dec. (new) at 8.25-bid.

Spots followed futures on the upgrade and middling closed 13 points higher at 8.19.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Cotton rallied today on trade and commission house buying stimulated partly by strength of the stock market. March sold up from 7.95@8.10 and closed at 8.04, with final prices 4 to 12 points net higher.

The market opened unchanged to 3 points higher. Trade and spot houses bought December in the absence of additional notices while offerings were light. The market sold up to the best levels for the day during the final hour.

The advance attracted a little realizing and hedging toward the close.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.01 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 7.94 cents a pound.

Five-Point Plan To Aid Business

passed last session by the house.

The special session has three more weeks to run. Leaders expectd at least half that time would be devoted to the farm bill. The disposition of Southern senators to filibuster anti-lynching legislation made it highly doubtful that bill could be passed in the remaining days of the session.

The only solution would be to lay aside the anti-lynching bill providing a tax measure were ready for consideration. Leading proponents of the anti-lynching measure expressed their opposition to such a course only today.

City Commission

question of whether he is more valuable on the recorder's desk or as traffic sergeant. They agreed that his service as recorder under a previous temporary department was highly satisfactory.

The changes were voted after members of the commission had agreed also that the intense strain and the long hours of the recorder's job require the energies of a man not past middle years. Kittrel is 34. Foster is more than 60.

Duties To Be Assigned

Foster was credited with having given excellent service in the city paving department prior to his appointment as recorder last Aug. 12. Just what his duties are to be under the re-arrangement will be left with City Manager W. H. Rodgers.

Discussion of the recorder's job came up after the commission had disposed of the Texas Avenue matter which had caused Mayor Ross Edwards at mid-afternoon to issue the sudden call for the meeting. Attending the session with the mayor were Commissioners W. B. Price, J. A. Fortenberry and A. J. Richardson.

Commissioner W. G. McMillan was out of the city.

Had Adopted Ordinance

The commission, at its regular meeting two days before, had adopted on first reading an ordinance which included southern portions of Texas Avenue and Avenue H within a fire zone. Such an ordinance, made final, has the effect of fixing minimum requirements for building to be constructed within the specified area. In the particular case, commissioners explained, it was their intent to require that buildings on the two avenues within the zone be of stucco construction or better and that roofs be of lumber shingles or better.

If the usual routine had been followed, the ordinance would have been called up for second and final reading at the regular commission meeting Dec. 9.

Mayor Receives "Tip"

Friday afternoon, however, Mayor Edwards received a "tip" that unnamed individuals planned to appear before the city building inspector with their applications in proper order and to demand that they be granted permits to construct business buildings definitely of the "shack" or unsightly sheet metal type on Texas Avenue. Had such applications been made, City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley explained, City Building Inspector Jim Reid would have had no choice except to issue the permit.

Acting on the confidential information received, the mayor directed Miss Lavenia Williams, city secretary, to call commissioners to the meeting and the session was held. Adoption of the ordinance on second and final reading followed brief discussion. Result is that Building Inspector Reid, who sat with commissioners at the session, will refuse permits for structures on Texas and H between Nineteenth and Thirtieth which do not conform to the requirements of "stucco or better" and "shingle roofs or better."

No Objection To Yards

The mayor and members of the commission made clear they have no objections to junk and automobile wrecking yards as such.

"They are necessary part of any city's business and they are a fine thing, especially for farmers," said the mayor. "In Lubbock they do a tremendous business which we do not want to hurt."

He added, however, that another pending ordinance will remove the unsightly feature objection to such yards. The new ordinance, to be considered at a recessed meeting the night of Dec. 6, proposes to require that they be enclosed by a fence "of substantial construction" probably six feet in height. The fence may be of lumber under the proposal, in the belief of the commission that such businesses as enclosed can add to rather than detract from the attractiveness of the thoroughfare on which they are located.

wage cuts.

"(2) In any industry where sustained demand and profitable operations make it possible, raise wages.

"(3) Stimulate production and employment in heavy industries by taking measures to prevent postponement of justifiable plans for plant expansion and purchase of new equipment, and to encourage building of all types. Special measures are needed to make credit available to business, for many programs which would provide employment are being postponed because credit cannot be secured.

Prepare To Pay Compensation

"(4) Prepare for prompt payment of unemployment compensation which begins in 22 states in January and will be an important addition to workers' buying power.

"(5) Take measures to promote business confidence.

"(6) Improve relations between employers and employes, (a) employers by recognizing unions and negotiating with them; (b) union members wherever a satisfactory collective bargaining relationship exists, by cooperating to cut costs by improving efficiency."

The federation attributed the present slump to an oversupply of consumers' goods such as clothing, radios, furniture and automobiles.

Farm Bill Charges

clared the bill would accentuate the depression if more than $500,000,000 were spent on the proposed ever-normal granary program.

Tydings suggested Secretary Wallace and other administration leaders be asked whether they intended to hold costs within that figure.

Cost Is Unknown

Pope said he did not know how much the program would cost, although he was sure if farmers received parity prices for their crops the amount would be very little.

The house agriculture committee voted 16 to 7 to recommend the house pass the farm bill the committee completed early this week.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) said the most significant part of the bill was a provision that more than $100,000,000 of customs receipts earmarked annually for removal of crop surpluses be used to develop new foreign and domestic markets.

Man Found Dead At Shallowater Friday

SHALLOWATER, Nov. 26. (Special)—D. C. Downey, about 34, was found dead in a bathroom at a hotel here about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Downey, an employe of the Jackson gin here, had gone to his room early today after having worked last night. Apparently he had gone to the bathroom to take a bath and died, probably from an attack of paralysis or a heart attack physicians said. He had not taken a bath and it was believed he had been dead several hours when the body was found by persons at the hotel.

Came From Bell County

Downey had come here from Irene in Bell county slightly more than a week ago to work at the gin. He had no relatives here.

An attending physician signed a statement that death probably was due to natural causes although possibility of death from gas was seen. Physicians said there were no symptones of death from gas.

After he had quit work at 7 o'clock this morning, he had eaten breakfast and gone to his room about 8:30 o'clock, it was reported.

To Render Verdict

Walter Davies, justice of peace, said he probably would render a verdict of death from natural causes. Deputy Sheriff Cap Moore investigated the death.

Downey is survived by his wife and five children. His body was transferred to Lubbock from Shallowater by Sanders Funeral home at Lubbock.

Funeral arrangements late tonight had not been announced, pending communication with relatives. It was reported his body, probably would be taken to Irene for services and burial.

Seventy Present At Tech Alumni Event

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—Seventy graduates of Texas Technological college of Lubbock held a reunion banquet here tonight.

Headed by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the college, the Tech alumni are in Houston for the convention of the Texas State Teachers association.

B. C. Shulkey, assistant superintendent of schools in Fort Worth presided at the banquet. Attorney General William McCraw was the speaker.

Attorney General McCraw praised the academic standards and educational facilities of the Lubbock school.

Jack Hardy, president of the Houston chapter of the Texas Tech alumni association, delivered an address of welcome. The response was made by T. L. Leach.

Dr. Knapp also spoke briefly. Dr. J. M. Gordon, dean of the college, was in charge of the arrangements for the dinner.

Home Is Dedicated

dist church, Lubbock, delivered the opening prayer.

Visiting Salvation Army workers and speakers were introduced by Major George Gilks, Texas divisional commander. Among those presented was Captain Leon J. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Thomas, 612 Avenue O. Captain Thomas, now connected with the Salvation Army at Ardmore, Okla., told of his conversion August 1, 1924, on the spot where the Lubbock National bank now stands. A bass drum, used by Captain Thomas as an altar at the time, is still used by the local post and was exhibited at the dedication services.

Bradley Speaks Briefly

Durwood Bradley, Lubbock city attorney and chairman of the Army property committee, told briefly how the building site had been acquired.

The band, acting as a male chorus, sang one of its own compositions, after which Mrs. E. I. Pugmire read dedication verses from the Psalms.

Senator Lauds Work

Senator G. H. Nelson, one of the main speakers of the evening lauded the Salvation Army on its work throughout the world and complimented the Lubbock post on its new citadel.

Mrs. Ernest Pickering, wife of the state young people's secretary, sang a solo, and immediately afterward Commissioner Pugmire delivered the dedicatory address. In his address, the territorial commander related sketchily the history of the Salvation Army. He also outlined the purpose of the organization which he termed a "social movement with a spiritual aim."

The prayer of dedication was offered by Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Lubbock. R. F. Bayless, president of the advisory board here, gave a brief response to speakers that preceded him.

Culminated 15 Year's Work

Dedication of the citadel culminated 15 years of Salvation Army work in Lubbock and this vicinity. The building was erected at a cost of $5,200 and is now valued at more than $7,500. Besides the main auditorium with its stage and rostrum, the building contains class rooms and rooms and showers for transients. Adjoining the citadel is a five-room house which serves as officer's quarters.

Those present for the dedication included Commissioner and Mrs. Pugmire; Major and Mrs. W. G. Gilks, Texas divisional commander; Major John A. Morrison, Texas divisional secretary; Adjutant and Mrs. Ernest Pickering, Texas divisional young people's secretary; Envoy Fred Lange, public relations secretary; and the Texas staff band.

'Child Bride' Here

the justice of peace court in time for the ceremony.

Mother Married At 16

Mrs. Harris, the bride's mother, who married her first time at 16, is highly in favor of youthful marriages. She is even fearful that a second daughter, now 15, will be an "old maid."

The 15-year-old daughter, with Mrs. Martin, their arms piled high with bundles, presents for the bride, rushed into the courtroom a few minutes after the couple had been pronounced "man and wife." The little bride jumped and clapped her hands in glee because her sister "didn't get there in time to see it."

To the question, "Do you promise etc., etc." the bridegroom's answer was a steady "I do." Virginia answered a happy "Yes, sir" to Davies.

A point in his favor, said Patterson, was that he could "raise her up like he wanted her" and when asked how long the couple had known each other the answer was "all of Virginia's life."

News Briefs

Mid-term grades revealed seven persons from Lubbock county were on the honor roll at Abilene Christian college.

The students were: Sara Beth Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Fox, Lubbock; Winifred Sherrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sherrod, Lubbock; Weldon Bennett, son of Mrs. and Mrs. C. A. Bennett, Acuff; Mildred Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davis, Lubbock; Inez Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis, Slaton; Raymond Kelcy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kelcy, Idalou; and Kleta Bell Holt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Holt, Idalou.

A quarter-section of Lubbock county land was involved in two oil and gas leases and assignments filed Friday at the office of Ed D. Allen, county clerk. G. T. Adams leased from A. R. Ellis and wife the southeast quarter of section 16, block S, certifcate 3,507, GC & SF RR company survey. He assigned rights on the south half to Minnie Lasater.

Dr. H. H. Donaldson of Paris, Texas, father of H. Edwin Donaldson, Texas Technological college student, died there, according to information received here Friday.

C. A. Roberson, publicity representative of Associated Democracy, Austin, Texas, will speak to old age pensioners and young persons at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Lubbock county court house. Methods of obtaining "the full pension of $30 and how we can get the army of pension investigators off our backs" will be discussed.

Satisfactory improvement of Jumbo Webster, high school football player injured in the Lubbock-Amarillo game Thursday at Amarillo, was reported Friday. X-ray examination showed no fractures.

Funeral services for W. E. Patty, 61, of Lorenzo, who died at his home Thursday morning, were conducted at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at First Baptist church here. The Rev. Pat Horton, pastor of Plainview First Baptist church officiated and interment was in Memorial Park cemetery under direction of Sanders funeral home.

Sophomore home economics girls of Texas Technological college were hostesses to their dates and members of the Brussels Sprout club, campus Aggie organization, for a hayride and picnic supper at Mackenzie State park Friday evening. Miss Troy Allen is sponsor of the girls. Informal musical entertainment was offered by students following the supper. Two-wagon loads of students were in the party.

R. L. McDougal, about 33, of 1610 Avenue E suffered a fractured left arm and a lacerated finger in an accident at the West Texas gin about 10 o'clock Friday night. He was admitted to West Texas hospital for treatment. The accident was believed to have happened when McDougal was oiling the burr conveyor and fell "10 or 12" feet, attaches of the gin said. His condition was not considered serious.

A daughter weighing 9 pounds 12 ounces was born to Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Watson of Ropesville at 9:47 o'clock Friday night at West Texas hospital. Watson is a farmer of the Ropesville community.

John Lloyd, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lloyd of Route 2, Floydada, suffered compound comminuted fractures of the right humerus and the left femur and third degree lacerations of the left hand and right heel when he was riding a tractor with his father and fell beneath a disc plow. The boy was admitted to the West Texas hospital for treatment. The accident happened shortly after noon.

To Continue Investigation

Members of the Lubbock headquarters of the Texas Highway patrol probably will continue investigations here tomorrow.

Body of Balch was taken from the sanitarium to Rix Funeral home at Lubbock and probably will be transferred here tomorrow for burial Saturday or Sunday. Other funeral arrangements late tonight had not been announced.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Billy, about 9; a daughter, Jimmie Lee, about 14; four brothers, J. H. Balch of Jayton, U. V. Balch and C. L. Balch of O'Donnell, and T. W. Balch of Greenville; and three sisters, Mrs. Lydia Cheyney, Mrs. Rose Reid, and Mrs. Bell McTollison.

Charles E. Pickle, 'Dean' Of Texas Court Reporters, Dies

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (AP)—Charles E. Pickle, 65, "dean" of Texas court reporters, died today at his home in nearby Govalle.

Active until he became ill about a year ago, Pickle, who inscribed testimony in the trial years ago of William Sydney Porter (O. Henry), was one of the oldest reporters in the state.

Porter was indicted and convicted in federal court here in connection with a shortage in an Austin bank by which he was employed.

Friends said Pickle probably failed to acquire a small fortune because he lost his shorthand notes on the O. Henry trial, an item long sought by collectors.

November Edition Of Magazine Out

With a red and black cover and a picture of the new library at Texas Technological college now under construction, the Thanksgiving edition of the Texas Tech magazine is being mailed at the college. Copies were distributed last night in Houston by Dean James M. Gordon at an alumni banquet held in connection with the Texas State Teachers association.

The issue contains a short story by W. A. McCarty, a sonnet by Mildred Crabtree Speer, an article on the West Texas Museum by Ronald Ware, and a duck hunting article by Buddy Wilson. Mary Howell writes of the bonfire before the Tech-Duquesne game, Eleanor Jungman of progress of the Council of Graduate Women, and Ivan Little of Dr. W. I. Robinson's experiments with cacti.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, has written an article the title of which is "What Constitutes A College?", there are accounts of the Red Raiders and their victories, a story on Clifford B. Jones, a resume of campus news, and accounts of activities of graduates.

Calvin Hazelwood, assistant to the dean of men, is editor of the magazine. Others on the staff are Louise C. Allen, Margaret Turner, Wilmot Eaton, Wayne C. Sellers, W. F. Tanner, and Willis Bledsoe.

Texas Prison Guards Seek Five Escapees

HUNTSILLE, Nov. 26. (AP)—Texas prison system guards tonight hunted five prisoners who have escaped in the past two days.

Two fled today in a stolen truck from the Harlem prison farm and three escaped the Central State farm yesterday.

Anthony Morten, 23, of New York, and Clarence Leonard Garvin, 18, of Dallas, convicted thieves, were today's fugitives. Morten was serving 10 years from Milam county, and Garvin was serving two years from Dallas county.

The other prisoners hunted were Ocie Nix, 29, of New Boston, under a 99-year sentence for murder; Bill Easter, 31, of Waco, serving 10 years for robbery, burglary, and auto theft, and Marchell Bates, 34, of Denison, serving two years for cattle theft.

Withdrawal Of Federal Relief Is Creating Critical Problem For Charity Organizations, Salvation Army Officials Point Out Here

The New Deal and federal relief which is now being gradually withdrawn has created a problem potentially critical for the nation and, mort specifically for the South and for Texas.

The situation definitely will be critical and may lead to such things as rioting and communism unless cities, counties and private relief agencies shoulder relief the burden being shifted to them by the federal government.

Burden Has Increased

The burden upon relief agencies already has resulted in more crime, more juvenile delinquency, greater suffering and the aimless migration once more of the penniless itinerant driven either to the desperation of not caring or to resignation to utter hopelessness.

These were the statements Friday afternoon of Commissioner Ernest I. Pugmire of Atlanta, Ga., and Major W. G. Gilks of Dallas, highest officers in the South and Texas, respectively, of the Salvation Army. They and others of the army were guests of the joint Lions-American Business Clubs' luncheon at Hilton Hotel at noon, preliminary to the dedication Friday night of the new Salvation Army citadel here.

Directed Relief In Tokyo

Pugmire won distinctions and decorations for having directed Salvation Army relief in Tokyo, Japan, following the earthquake of 1923 in which 130,000 persons were killed and from which he emerged uncrathed after hair-raising escapes and experiences.

When the disaster shocks began, he was in the Salvation Army building in which six workers were killed and several others were injured. As a commissioner, he is one of the 60 individuals and among the youngest who comprise the governing body directing the activities of 40,000 officers and "soldiers" in 90 countries in which the Salvation Army is active.

While not decrying attempts at federal relief during the depression, Commissioner Pugmire explained that it has had two primary effects which have created the present problem.

Look To Government

One effect was, he continued, that it caused the individuals, taxpayers and others who previously had contributed to reliefs of various kinds to look to the government to handle that problem. They ceased their contributions and it is extremely difficult to get them back into their giving habits of the pre-depression and early depression periods, he said.

The second immediate problem, he continued, results from curtailment or cessation of government relief agencies, of which the WPA is typical. That has resulted, he said, in shifting the burden to other agencies. He and Gilks joined in the statement that the new burden for the most part must be carried by cities and counties and both expressed the opinion that they will meet the responsibility.

"If they do not," said Pugmire, "it is difficult to imagine what might not happen."

Majority Itinerants

The commissioner added that most of the more than 200,000 individuals in the South whom the army has helped in less than the last year are itinerants, floating from place to place. For a time during the period of government relief, he said, there was comparatively little movement of the itinerants. Now that they are traveling again, he warned, they may be expected to carry crime, disease and discontent with them.

Major Gilks said his position as chairman of Dallas parole board and vice chairman of the state board has enabled him to observe increase in crime, and particularly, juvenile delinquency.

Describes Tokyo Earthquake

Commissioner Purmire's description of the Tokyo earthquake was graphic and, he added, it is a disaster which might be repeated at any time in the island empire.

"The Japanese islands," he related, "are sitting not merely on one volcano but literally upon hundreds or perhaps islands of them. It is not unusual in the surrounding seas for an island to appear, disappear and then reappear within the space of perhaps a few weeks. Supposition is that the islands of the empire were created in just that way. It is conceivable that they might disappear.

Receive 20 Shocks a Day

"Earthquakes in that part of Japan are the usual thing, not the unusual. The Tokyo region, for example, has experienced an average of about 20 shocks a day for years. Of course, most have been too slight to cause damage, but none can tell when another disaster may occur."

Relief work he directed following the quake involved some 300,000 to 400,000 people daily. He told of such things as the earth opening to such depths that the bottom could not be seen; of 30,000 natives who rushed into a large open park from which not one emerged alive. They carried their sleeping mats. Falling sparks ignited them. Panic insued. Those not trampled or burned to death, he continued, were asphyxiated. The flames which surrounded them and burned among them, he explained, literally burned the oxygen out of the air.

Also Stationed in China

Pugmire also was stationed in China and he mentioned briefly the situation in the Orient as he spoke before the luncheon.

"Japan has no oil, no coal, no iron and few raw materials," he said. "From that you may draw your own conclusion as to the motive behind the invasion of China. Other than to say I do not approve of the Japanese methods, I do not discuss the situation."

His talk was devoted largely to the Salvation Army itself, founded in London in 1875 by William Booth, then the pastor of a prosperous Methodist church. The commissioner said that Booth's passionate desire to reach the poor people and his realization that people with empty stomachs would not listen to preaching led to founding the army movement described by the speaker as being "spiritual with a social aim."

Other Salvation Army guests at the luncheon were Major John Morrison, division secretary, of Dallas; Adjutant Ernest Pickering, division young people's secretary, of Dallas; Mrs. Adjutant Evelyn Pickering; Adj. Hall Ingoe of Wichita Falls, director of Texas division band; 11 other members of the band; and Mrs. John G. Churchill and Lieutenant Zada Koehler of Lubbock citadel. Captain Churchill, in charge of the Salvation Army here, was program chairman.

The band played several numbers and Mrs. Pickering sang a solo.

President M. M. Ewing of the ABC presided. Also at the head table was President William H. (Bill) Evans of the Lions club.

Pioneer Of West Texas Is Dead

(By The Associated Press)

BIG SPRING, Nov. 26. — J. T. Vanlandinghim, 79, long-time resident of West Texas, died today at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Jim Pardue, on a ranch 12 miles west of here. He had been residing with Mrs. Pardue since the death of his wife last August. He moved to the ranch from Abilene, his home since 1892.

The body was taken to Abilene for funeral services at 2 p. m. Saturday. Another daughter, Mrs. C. Thornton of Big Spring, is a survivor.

Georgia Girl, Who Has Been In Pictures, Marries Texan

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 26. (AP) — Myrtle Outlaw, Columbus, Ga., girl who spent a year in Hollywood and worked in several pictures, was married here today to Crawford Tabor, Granger, Tex., district manager for a firm of magazine circulators.

Tabor said he and his bride, who is 26, would take a honeymoon trip to New York, Florida and Havana.

Carl J. Walker, Indianapolis, Ind., wrestling promoter who acted as best man, said the bride had a six-month contract, with options, from Twentieth Century pictures.

Tabor, who said he opposed his wife continuing in pictures, said his bride had until Jan. 1 to make up her mind whether she wanted to be an actress or plain Mrs. Tabor.

Inquiries Still Being Received From Farmers On Labor Needs

Inquiries still are being received from individuals, families and groups who apparently contemplate coming to South Plains seeking jobs as cotton pickers, according to information given at the chamber of commerce Friday.

While no attempt is made in replies to advise them, it was added, the information given them does not encourage them to come here now. They are told that the picking season is passing its peak and that the pickers available seem ample to move the crop.

Police and welfare officials, it was added, are fearful that any additions to the numbers of pickers may mean that many will be stranded and penniless by the end of the season.

The inquiries, in the opinion of officials, probably have resulted from the spread of information that the West Texas Plains region is producing perhaps the largest crop in proportion to area of any section of the south's cotton belt.
