Q—Who is the highest paid athete in pro team sports?

A—Wayne Gretzky, who plays for the LA Kings in the National Hockey League, is the highest paid player per year. He will be paid $25.8 million over the next three years, or an average of $8.6 million a year.

In Brief

U.S. blockade

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Hundreds of protesters have marched through the streets to denounce a U.S. Border Patrol crackdown on illegal immigration.

About 700 people, some chanting "Let us in! We want to work!," trekked peacefully for several blocks along the Mexican side of the Rio Grande on Wednesday.

The protest was prompted by the Border Patrol's ongoing blockade of a 20-mile stretch along the river.

Cooking beef

PLANO (AP) — Plano officials aren't asking, "Where's the Beef?" Instead they're wondering: Is it still mooing?

The Plano City Council has passed an ordinance requiring restaurants to cook ground beef to 155 degrees. That makes the patty nearly well-done and ensures that E. coli bacteria have been killed.

Two people died and hundreds of others got sick earlier this year in Washington and Oregon, and the blame was laid on hamburgers that weren't cooked long enough. Officials say E. Coli bacteria fester in the undercooked center of hamburgers.

Fair, White Buffalo Days open today

Scurry County Coliseum was bustling with activity this morning in preparation for the opening of the Scurry County Fair and White Buffalo Days.

The fair was to officially open at 1 o'clock. Entries for the various judging contests began coming in as early as Tuesday.

This afternoon's events were to include a flag raising ceremony at the Cornelius-Dodson House at 1:30 and the opening of the flower show at 3.

The annual domino tournament begins at 6 p.m.

Tonight's activities include the dedication of the Hermleigh jail on the coliseum grounds at 7 o'clock. Also at 7 will be the Ms. White Buffalo Contest on the coliseum stage.

The coliseum will be open from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday with continual entertainment, music, demonstrations and displays. A favorite "regular" is the Kiddie Barnyard, featuring small animals.

A variety of demonstrations will be held Friday in Room A of the coliseum. They include egg art at 10 a.m., cowboy poetry at 11, interior design at 1:30, water gardens at 3 and thumb print ornaments for children at 4:30 p.m.

The annual children's pedal tractor pull begins at 4:30 p.m. in the ag annex, followed by the mule show at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday's fair and White Buffalo Days events begin at Winston Field with the White Buffalo Days Fly-In, sponsored by the Scurry County Pilot's Asscociation. Local Kiwanians will be cooking up a pancake breakfast for $3 a plate. Visitors can look over the planes and a display of classic automobiles, and view a parachuting exhibition.

Registration for the chili cookoff begins at 8 a.m. Saturday in the coliseum. This year's cookoff includes chili, hot sauce, chicken, beans and brisket.

A fashion and quilt show begins at 10 a.m. in the coliseum, as does a game of "Giant Monopoly" in the ag annex. Also at 10 a.m., a Blackhawk helicopter is scheduled to land on the coliseum grounds for public viewing.

A children's talent show will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday on the coliseum stage. Also slated to begin that hour is the annual horse show in the ag annex.

The day continues with a re-

Homecoming parade scheduled at 5 today

Snyder High School begins its homecoming celebration today with a parade up College Avenue and a pep rally on the courthouse lawn.

The parade will begin forming at 4:30 p.m. in the Kmart parking lot and proceed north on College Avenue at 5 o'clock.

Friday's activities center around the 8 p.m. ballgame with long-time rival Big Spring at Tiger Stadium.

Halftime will feature the traditional crowning of a homecoming queen. Nominees this year are Cerise Covey, Stephanie Davis, Tammy Logston, Hayley Patterson and Annie Ragland.

The queen nominees will ride in convertibles, dating from 1929 to 1941, during the parade and halftime.

The theme for homecoming this year is "The Classic Year."

Karen Wadleigh will take homecoming photos in the foyer of the school auditorium prior to the game.

Following the game, a dance for students and exes will be held in the student center.

Ritz season tickets will be sold at fair

Season tickets for the Ritz Community Theatre's new season can be purchased at the Scurry County Fair and White Buffalo Days celebration, which opens today in the coliseum.

The Ritz's fall season will open with Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park" in October at Martha Ann Woman's Club. Evening performances are planned at 8 o'clock on Oct. 7, 11, 14 and 18. Matinees are set for 2:30 p.m. on Oct. 10 and 17. In addition, dinner theatres are scheduled Oct. 9 and 16 at 7 p.m.

Season tickets, available at a special fair booth in the coliseum, are $30 for six tickets, $60 for 12 tickets and $100 for 24 tickets.

Season tickets will also be available at the chamber of commerce through Oct. 6.

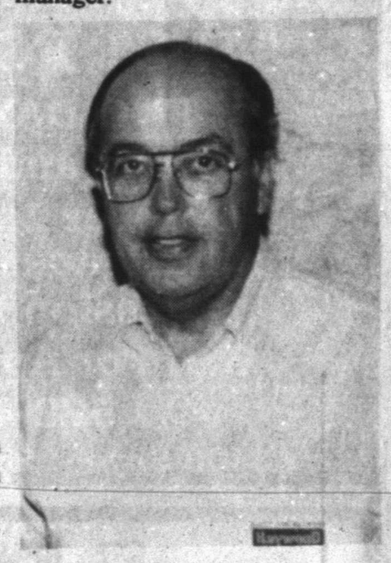

Reservations for those who do not hold season tickets will open Sept. 30.

Reservations can be made Monday through Friday from 2-5 p.m. by calling the Senior Center at 573-4035. Prices for single tickets will be $6 each.

Reservations for the dinner theatres can also be purchased at the fair booth. Dinner will be catered by Martha Ann Woman's Club. There will be an additional cost of $8 for adults and $4 for children under age 12 for the meal.

Ellie Dryden will direct "Barefoot in the Park." Appearing as newlyweds Paul and Corie Bratter will be David and Tara Trevey. Others in the cast are Rick Freeman as a telephone repairman, Lloyd Cummings as a delivery man, Mary Lou Crawford as Mrs. Banks, Corie's mother, and Mike Harrison as Victor Belasco.

Sammie Jarrell is assistant director and Cummings is stage manager.

TOM HAYWOOD

Haywood to run a 2nd time

Tom Haywood, the Wichita Falls Republican who narrowly failed last year in a bid to unseat Sen. Steve Carriker, has announced plans for another try for the 30th Senatorial District seat.

A former college professor at Midwestern State University, Haywood gave Carriker, a Democrat, his closest race since going to Austin 10 years ago, first as a state representative.

In 1992, Carriker carried the 32-county district by 50.8 percent while Haywood received 49.1 percent of the general election ballots. The margin of victory was 3,165 votes.

Haywood carried his home county of Wichita and Carriker carried all but seven counties, including Scurry where local votes leaned toward Haywood by a 3,573 to 2,462 margin.

During the campaign, Haywood touted his business background and criticized Carriker as a liberal darling of the trial lawyers.

Carriker pointed to his record on rural issues, including economic development and health care.

Snyder students standout on ACT test comparisons

Students from Snyder High School who took the ACT test scored higher than the state and national average, according to information from the ACT Assessment Program.

"I'm very proud of the kids for the way they performed and proud of the teachers for the job they did in preparing the students," said SHS Principal Larry Scott.

In composite scores for all graduates taking the ACT, Snyder scored 21.3, compared to the state level of 20.1 and the national level of 20.7. The composite is total scores from all areas: English, mathematics, reading and science reasoning.

In English, Snyder students averaged 21.0, compared to 19.7 statewide and 20.3 nationwide. Math results indicated Snyder scoring 21.0, compared to 19.9 statewide and 20.1 nationwide. And in reading, Snyder students scored 21.9 compared to 20.3 for the state and 21.2 for the nation.

Only in science reasoning did Snyder students fall off. They scored 20.7, above the state level of 20.2, but slightly below the national level of 20.8.

The report further breaks down the scores to include students who had completed recommended core college preparatory curriculum and those who had not.

Overall (composite), Snyder students who had the core courses scored 22.3, compared to a score of 21.4 statewide and a score of 22.0 nationwide. SHS students who had not completed all their core courses scored 19.3, compared to 18.0 for the state and 19.1 for the nation.

Again, Snyder performed above state and nationa' levels in English, mathematics and reading, and was down slightly in science reasoning.

Core courses include four years or more of English and three years or more of mathematics, social studies and natural science. Many college-bound students also take a number of other prepatory

CMH board okays financial statement

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers today approved August's financial report and an amendment to the board by-laws.

Approval of minutes was the only other item of business on the brief agenda.

The August operating report indicates a net income for the month of $1,163 and a cash balance of $1,485,954.

Cogdell had an average daily census for the month of 13.5 and a long-term census of 35.4. There were 1,199 home health visits, 52 surgeries, 17 newborns and 668 emergency room visits.

Medicare and Medicaid utilization was at 88 percent for the month.

An amendment to the by-laws concerning the removal of a board member was approved during today's meeting. The amendment states that if the board feels the need to remove one of its members, it may make such a recommendation to the commissioner's court. The commissioners court will then review the recommendation and make a decision.

Present for the meeting were board members Ted Crenwelge, Jim Palmer, Sue Mize and G.A. Parks Jr. Bill Wilson III and Doug Foster were absent.

The next hospital board meeting will be Oct. 14.

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Kids are unpredictable. You never know what inconsistency they're going to catch you in next."

Let's see, according to my trusty $5 hand-held calculator, Emmitt Smith is gonna' do okay, at least financially.

The star running back of the Dallas Cowboys has ended his long holdout and has signed a four-year deal worth $13.6 million.

Cowboy owner Jerry Jones, who said he wouldn't make Smith the highest paid NFL player, simply said he had miscalculated. In order to beat the ceiling on salaries next year, Smith will get $7 million this season.

At $2.2 million for the next three years, Smith will get just over seven percent of the team's total salary cap of $30 million.

Smith has already missed two games. He played Sunday night, and if he plays in all 13 remaining games, his per-game earnings will be $500,000.

Sports Editor Phil Riddle says he carries the ball an average of 25 times per tilt, so that's $20,000 each time he touches the game ball.

And just this week, the AP reports that Dallas fans are learning the cost of victory. After winning the Super Bowl, Cowboy ticket prices were hiked 23 percent, raising the overall average cost of seeing a game at Texas Stadium to $195.42.

Average cost is based on four single-game tickets, two small beers, four small sodas, four hot dogs, parking for one car, two game programs and two baseball-style caps.

Response to Smith's signing has been varied, but we liked two photos that ran on the front page of the Sweetwater Reporter.

Two churches on Lamar Street used the marquee in front of their buildings to make a comment. One read:

"Emmitt Signs. Now life can go on."

The second proclaimed: "Hallelujah!"

Clinton's health plan draws support

LYNNWOOD, Wash. (AP) — Rick Perkins didn't need President Clinton to tell him America's health care system is broken. He suffered severe colitis for 10 years, unable to afford surgery because his employers offered no health benefits.

Perkins, 33, nodded enthusiastically Wednesday night as he listened to the president pitching health-care reform.

"Clinton has a lot of chutzpah to come up with something that's so misunderstood and unpopular," Perkins said. "I have a lot of respect for him for that. I'll be watching for what the details are."

He's not alone.

"I'm very supportive of a national health care plan, but it also sounds like a very costly program," said Hal Pos, 34, a lawyer in Salt Lake City.

Pos is among those for whom health-insurance premiums would probably rise under Clinton's plan — healthy, young professionals who already have insurance and would be pooled with older, less healthy people.

Pos snorted in disbelief when Clinton said his plan would not require any new broad-based tax increases.

"He has very lofty, very positive objectives," he said. "But it just seems with these types of plans that they just don't financially work out, and we end up with increased taxes."

In the Seattle suburb of Lynnwood, Perkins said he could have used Clinton's plan years ago. He was diagnosed in 1981 with colitis, a chronic intestinal disorder, but put off surgery because he had no health insurance.

In 1990, Perkins was hired at an electronics assembly plant, and the job had health benefits. He worked a year, then asked his boss how he could get a medical leave of absence for surgery. He was fired the next week. Under state law, he was allowed to remain in the company's health plan as long as he paid the full premium.

He had his surgery in 1991 but today is again without health insurance, working as a self-employed computer publisher.

Perkins hopes Clinton's plan will spare others his years of pain and uncertainty. But he said: "It could take him his entire time as president to get this through, and even then he might not make it. There is guaranteed to be something to upset everybody."

In a hotel at the edge of New Orleans' French Quarter, doctors in tuxedos watched Clinton's speech as they waited for their dinner-dance at a convention of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons.

They applauded when Clinton criticized malpractice lawsuits and the high cost of paperwork. But they expect battles ahead, as well.

"Of course, we're going to argue to have all reconstructive surgery included," said Dr. Dennis J. Lynch of Temple, Texas, the organization's assistant secretary.

In Minnesota, Dr. Jeff Jaffe, an oncologist, stopped in a waiting room at St. Paul-Ramsey Medical Center to hear Clinton's plan. He was skeptical about its chances for survival. "When the lobbyists and Congress are finished with it, it will be just a shadow," he said.

Jaffe praised the goal of extending coverage to all Americans but thought it would entail rationing. "This may sound great," he said, "but when it's you with the bad disease being denied therapy, it changes your perspective."

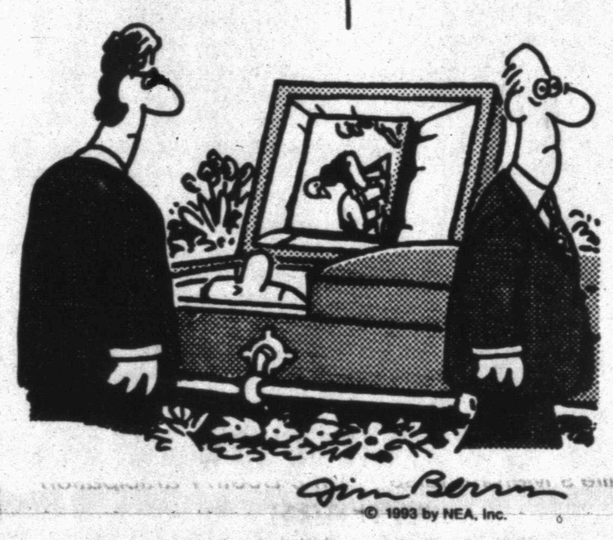

Clinton's plan got a vote of support from Charles Moore, 47, who watched from his bed in the cardiac critical care unit at Cook County Hospital in Chicago.

Moore, who is waiting for a heart transplant, lost his health insurance when he lost his job. His savings are nearly exhausted, and the county is paying the bulk of his hospital bill.

Moore likes Clinton's plan, especially for its coverage of those with pre-existing conditions.

"I was listening for the flaw, and quite frankly I didn't pick up on one," Moore said.

Blackhawk to be at fair

A UH 60 Blackhawk helicopter will be flying in Saturday to the coliseum grounds for the annual Scurry County Fair and White Buffalo Days.

The helicopter, from Dallas, is expected to arrive at about 10 a.m. on the north side of the coliseum grounds. Fair-goers are asked to stay back and use caution as the helicopter makes its landing, said Sgt. Jessie Pierson of the local National Guard.

The Blackhawk has two engines and holds 362 gallons of fuel, enabling a cruise range of three hours at 150 knots, or 172.5 miles an hour. It has a maximum speed of 221 miles per hour.

Its main rotor spans 53 feet, eight inches from tip to tip, and the height of the tail rotor is 16 feet, 10 inches.

The Blackhawk can carry 12 combat troops weighing 250 pounds each. It also has a cargo hook capable of lifting 8,000 pounds.

The helicopter's appearance is at the request of the local National Guard Armory, which will have equipment on exhibit throughout the fair. These include an armored personnel carrier; an M-817 dump truck; an M-998 Humvee all-terrain vehicle; a Himmet 10-ton cargo truck; a 5-ton dropside truck, which features a computer system by which its tires can be automatically inflated or deflated from inside the vehicle; and a newer model See, a small excavation loader manufactured by Mercedes-Benz.

Sgt. Pierson will be available throughout the fair to visit and hand out information. Also representing the National Guard will be Sgt. Bobby Hataway, Spec. Timmy Youngblood and Spec. Lionel Orosco.

Dear Abby

Married Man's Third Flame Flickers and Might Go Out

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice. I am going with a married man who is also going with another woman I'll call "Betty." This man has been going with Betty for eight years. He left his wife for her, but his wife refused to give him a divorce, so he moved back home, and promised his wife he would never sleep with Betty again.

I've been seeing him for a year, and he tells me that neither Betty nor his wife knows that I am in the picture. He swears he doesn't go to bed with anybody but me, but I find that hard to believe.

He does nothing for me except go to bed with me; meanwhile he does things for Betty, such as cutting her grass and helping her around the house. He has also given her money from time to time. I live alone and I have to cut my own grass, and I could also use a little help around the house.

Am I wasting my time with this man? I care for him, but I feel like I am sharing him with two other women.

A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL (your words, not mine): If you want a man to call your own, keep looking — this man is not available. Not only is he married, he has an eight-year commitment to another woman. Don't waste your time and affection on this man.

DEAR ABBY: I believe the English language needs three new words — compound pronouns to take care of the "he or she" mess: i.e., "He or she may take his or her deposit to the bank whenever it suits him or her."

In the past, when males dominated (at least they thought they did), it bothered no one to use the masculine pronoun indiscriminately; but no more. To use both genders to satisfy all is both annoying and awkward, so I suggest:

"Heesh" instead of he or she.

"Hirm" instead of her or him.

"Hizzer" instead of his or her.

How about it, Abby? Can we initiate these new words through your widely read column?

RUTH GURRY, PUNTA GORDA, FLA.

DEAR RUTH: "Heesh," "hirm" and "hizzer"? Better to bear the ills we have than to fly to others we know not of.

DEAR ABBY: I dialed my old friend long-distance to wish her a happy birthday. We always call each other on our birthdays. Well, the minute the phone was answered, I knew I had a stranger on the line.

The stranger was absolutely thrilled that someone had remembered her 95th birthday! She told me she lives alone in an apartment, and her only relative was a niece who lived in New York.

I didn't have the heart to tell this elderly "birthday girl" that I had made a mistake. I simply told her that "a little bird" had informed me of her special day. (Actually, I thought I had dialed a friend in Denton, Texas — not a stranger in Austin!)

I wanted to get the lady's name but she was so excited, all she could say was, "Thank you for calling — my phone never rings; I'm all alone, and I will never forget that you remembered my birthday!" Then she hung up.

Is parody sincere flattery?

By Phillip Alder

"Bridge Literature" by Dr. Nick Smith (Cadogan, $17.95, 800-274-2221) is an entertaining book. It parodies the writings of various well-known authors, pirouetting the plots into bridge settings.

I particularly enjoyed the satire of Sue Townsend's Adrian Mole diaries. In Smith's version, Dr. John Faustus, aged 43¾, sells his sole (sic!) to Mr. Mephistopheles so that he, Faustus, can see through the backs of the cards. But things don't work out as Faustus expects.

On this deal from the book, Faustus, thinking he could see five defensive tricks, doubled four spades and led the diamond queen. Declarer ducked, won the second diamond, played a club to dummy's ace and ruffed the club two in hand before leading the spade queen.

Upon winning with the king, East, a neckless person called Cuthbert, led a club. Declarer discarded his diamond loser and ruffed in the dummy. A diamond ruff followed by a trump end-played West: contract made.

Faustus was livid, thinking a heart return from East at trick six would have been fatal. (But declarer plays low from hand, picking up the whole suit. Then, on the fourth heart, dummy's diamond loser is discarded.) To defeat the contract, Faustus must win the first trump lead with the ace, killing his partner's king.

The piece ends: "On the spur of the moment I didn't think anyone would notice if I performed a quick aurectomy. I'm sure I'd have got away with it if Cuthbert hadn't screamed so loudly, the wretch. It's not the first time he's got me into trouble like that."

Lighthouse expert

ORANGE, Va. (AP) — American naval officer and navigation specialist Thornton A. Jenkins (1811-1893) joined the service in 1828, served on the coast survey and in 1845 made an investigation of European lighthouse systems.

Jenkins drafted the act of 1852 organizing the United States lighthouse system and was chief of the Bureau of Navigation in 1865-69.

From 1869 to 1871, he was naval secretary of the lighthouse board. Jenkins was appointed rear admiral in 1870 and retired in 1873.

Penwomen notes literature appreciation at meeting

The Scurry County Penwomen met Sept. 15 to hear local poet J.M. Kayser read his work and members reported on their activities and accomplishments.

In keeping with the club's theme, Appreciation of Literature," Kayser, former teacher who said he loved poetry, read several poems from his book "Mule Tales." He autographed books purchased by members.

Included in recognitions for writer's works were Janelle Burk's receiving honorable mention for two poems from the National Federation of State Poetry Societies, Inc. Also, she said her Christmas song, put to music by Barbara Perkins and sung in school programs, is being published.

Bertha Warren attended the South Texas Pen Pal Picnic held at Lady Bird Johnson Park, Fredericksburg. She said eight states were represented.

Burk passed out new yearbooks. Officers for 1993-94 are Janelle Burk, president; Sherry Bryant, vice president and program chairman; Betty Boyd, secretary; and Dorothy Cox, treasurer.

Appointed offices are held by Christine Killgo, chaplain and telephone chairman; Garnet Quiett, publicity; Janelle Burk, photographer; and Bertha Warren, assistant photographer.

Warren read her two articles, "Graduation" and "Mother's Flowers;" Cox read two poems, "This Barn," and "My Diet;" Quiett read two poems, "Old Man" and "Lonely Lover;" Bryant read two poems, "Keepsakes of My Soul" and "Flight;" Burk read her poems, "A Rattleshake Tail" and "Fellowship With Pain."

Bryant presented the word of encouragement from Helen Stiener Rice's "Seasons of My Soul."

The meeting was adjourned with a prayer by Killgo and refreshments followed.

Dorothy Cox will be hostess for the Oct. 20 meeting and writers and visitors are welcome to attend.

MAWC board sets events

Twenty-three Martha Ann Woman's Club members met for a regular session Sept. 12 in the clubhouse with president Christy Thompson presiding.

Appreciation was expressed to clubs and individuals who responded to the need of donations for the kitchen renovation. Funds are still needed for this project and the board asks each club to participate.

Upcoming activities at the clubhouse include the Ritz Theatre's production "Barefoot in the Park" set for Oct. 7, 9, 10, 11, 14, 16, 17, and 18 at the clubhouse south of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The Oct. 9 and 16 performances will include a dinner set for 7 p.m. and will cost $8 per plate.

The MAWC Game Day/Luncheon set for Oct. 28 will include a bake sale which is open to the public.

Ryan's career ends with elbow injury

SEATTLE (AP) — For baseball's career strikeout king and the pitcher of seven no-hitters, there were no regrets.

Nolan Ryan said after an elbow injury that almost certainly ended his career that he has never been sorry he came back for 1993, a frustration-filled season that saw him go on the disabled list for a total of 114 days.

NOLAN RYAN

After all, the 46-year-old right-hander with a 324-292 career record is headed for the Hall of Fame.

"I'm not a believer in regrets," Ryan said. "But certainly at times, you'd have liked things to turn out a little different."

Ryan's career was supposed to end the final day of the 1993 season — against Kansas City on Sunday, Oct. 3 — when the Rangers bid good-bye to old Arlington Stadium.

Instead, his career probably ended Wednesday night in the Kingdome in the first inning against the Seattle Mariners when Ryan faced six batters and was unable to get an out for only the third time in his 807-game career. The Mariners took a 5-0 lead against Ryan, including a grand slam by Dan Howitt, and won 7-4.

"Evidently I tore a ligament in my right elbow," Ryan said. "I did it on the next-to-last pitch I threw. After I warmed up, I came back out and my elbow was stiff.

"It never got any looser. I kept thinking that it might loosen up, but it just got worse. Then on that pitch to Dave Magadan, I felt it pop. I had a real bad burning sensation in my elbow. I threw one pitch after that, but I wasn't able to."

Dr. Larry Pedegana, a Mariners' team physician, confirmed Ryan's worst fears: a suspected torn ulnar collateral ligament in his right elbow.

So two scheduled starts short of his retirement, Ryan's great career finally is over. Ryan said he didn't expect to ever pitch again.

Ryan said he would ask for a second opinion from Dr. John Conway, an orthopedic consultant for the Rangers. He said he would be examined by Conway on Friday in Arlington.

"But I don't really expect his diagnosis to be any different," he said.

The Rangers gave Ryan $3.7 million to come back this year after he was 5-9 in 27 starts last season. He disappointed them, but he disappointed himself more. In 13 starts and 66 1-3 innings this year, he had a 5-5 record with a 4.88 earned run average.

The Mariners, fighting to finish in third place in the division ahead of Kansas City, took a 5-0 lead before Ryan was replaced by Steve Dreyer.

The stoic Ryan kept his emotions in check at the postgame news conference. There were no tears, no sobs. In fact, he was philosophical.

"Everyone has visions of things turning out different than they really do," he said. "But I can't really say I ever sat around and fantasized about how I would have liked to have ended my career. But I think if I had, it certainly would have been with a strong performance in a pennant race. I guess by striking out the last hitter."

Ryan finished his career holding or sharing 53 major league records. His record with the New York Mets, California Angels, Houston Astros and Rangers should get him in the Hall of Fame. He is tied for No. 11 with Don Sutton in career victories.

But if that doesn't get him a ticket to Cooperstown, N.Y., his seven no-hitters and 5,714 strikeouts — both major league records — will.

Dave Fleming (11-4) broke a personal two-game losing streak, giving up three runs and seven hits in 7-plus innings. Ted Power worked the final 1 2-3 innings to get his 12th save.

Frenship, Plainview still unbeaten...

Top loop squads keep rolling

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Last week the rich got richer and the poor got poorer in District 2-4A with undefeated Frenship and Plainview claiming wins, and winless Levelland and Lamesa losing for the third straight week.

Snyder and Estacado, both 2-1, added to the loop's 4-2 week with wins, as well.

This week's matchups begin with today's battle between Class 5A Palo Duro and Estacado, a 21-7 winner over Clovis, N.M. a week ago.

Friday's games feature Snyder, a 24-20 victor against Abilene Wylie a week past, hosting Big Spring in the Tigers' homecoming tilt, Plainview, which edged Pampa last Friday, 14-8, visits Amarillo Tascosa, Frenship, with a 28-7 win over Canyon Randall under its belt from last week, hosts Hereford, Lamesa, a 27-3 loser to Reagan County a week past, tries to get a win over Randall, and Levelland, which fell to Lubbock Coronado, 35-17, in its last outing has the unenviable task of taking on powerful Andrews.

Palo Duro (2-1) at Lubbock Estacado (2-1)

The Dons are trying to forget a 56-12 whipping at the hands of Midland Lee last week.

Palo Duro boasts an offense potent enough to gain over 350 yards a game, but their defense is giving away over 340 an outing.

Estacado has won its last two games since losing its opener to Lubbock Coronado.

The Mats top offensive threat is senior running back Talion Scott, who has averaged seven yards a carry this season to lead the district with 545 yards rushing.

Big Spring (2-1) at Snyder (2-1)

The Tigers had to hold on for a 24-20 win after staking themselves to a 24-0 fourth-quarter lead a week ago against Wylie.

Still, the SHS offense, under the direction of senior QB Matt Cave, rolled for 270 yards, including 139 passing.

The Steers had trouble with 5A patsy Lubbock High last week, getting a 14-6 win behind speedy Lonnie Jackson's 97 yards rushing.

Big Spring's defense gave up 219 yards to a Westerner team that had been averaging only 114 per game.

Plainview (3-0) at Amarillo Tascosa (2-1)

Wichita Falls Rider scored a 21-7 win over Tascosa in Week 3 to spoil the Rebels' bid for a 3-0 start.

Tascosa counts heavily on quarterback B.D. Ware, a 6-2, 180-pounder with 4.8 speed, who passed for almost 1,000 yards in 1992.

Plainview, as usual, counts on a dominating ground game, led by senior tailback Damian Nails.

Nails has gained almost 300 yards in his three non-district starts.

Hereford (0-3) at Frenship (3-0)

Frenship has proven that it's for real with three straight lop-sided wins.

The Tigers' offense gaining almost 400 yards a game, has racked up 118 points in just three weeks. The QB-SE combination of Shane Stewart and Kendrick Hollie is producing almost 100 yards an outing for the Tigers, while running back Chris Quigley provides the ground punch with an average gain per game of 113 yards.

Hereford is stalling out early, slipping to 0-3 after last week's 27-13 loss to Lubbock Monterey. The Herd is giving up about 325 yards a game, while moving the ball for only 225.

Lamesa (0-3) at Canyon Randall (2-1)

Both teams are fresh from losses a week ago.

The Tornadoes are still looking for win No. 1 of the season after their homecoming loss to Class 3A Reagan County last week, and the Raiders will try to get back on the winning track after running into Frenship.

Lamesa has lost all three games this season, scoring a combined 29 points while allowing 82.

Randall is picked to contend for a playoff spot in District 1-4A.

Levelland (0-3) at Andrews (3-0)

This game should be rated PG-13 due to the graphic nature of the beating Levelland is liable to take.

Andrews has scored three shutout wins thus far, two against Class 5A competition, while racking up 100 points on offense.

The Mustangs are led by quarterback Bryan Lepard, who has guided the Ponies to 381 yards a game, while the defense, paced by all-district DB Eric Langhenning, has allowed only 137 per game, including a total of just 53 rushing yards in the first two games of the season.

Levelland, while possessing a lot of team speed, has had trouble scoring points.

The Loboes have been downed by Big Spring, 21-6, and Randall, 22-6, before scoring a season-best 17 in last week's loss to Coronado.

Cowboys make defensive changes

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Playing for the NFL's No. 1 defense last season earned Super Bowl rings for several key members of the Dallas Cowboys, but not necessarily job security.

Head coach Jimmy Johnson has made wholesale changes and says he will continue to do so.

"What we did a year ago is history," Johnson said Wednesday. "You're evaluated weekly and even daily. How an individual performed in the past is in the past. You have to produce. If you don't produce, we'll make a change."

Rookie linebacker Darrin Smith was elevated to the first team on Wednesday because of a demotion for middle linebacker Robert Jones. Ken Norton has shifted to the middle to replace Jones.

In other moves, James Washington has been replaced by Darren Woodson at safety and Vinson Smith was traded to Chicago and replaced by Dixon Edwards. And the season's just three weeks old.

Jimmie Jones and Leon Lett were moved ahead of Russell Maryland and Tony Casillas at tackle. Since, Maryland has come back in for Jones, and Casillas has replaced an injured Lett.

It was the inconsistent play of Jones that triggered his drop from the first team. Smith, the rookie second-round pick, said he has two weeks to show he deserves to be a starter. Godfrey Myles is expected to return from off-season knee surgery in three weeks.

"You have to constantly look for improvement. Things don't stay the same," Johnson said. "Players get older and players get injured. The other thing is that with free agency, change is going to be even more constant in the future."

Johnson and first-year defensive coordinator Butch Davis continue to search for the right combination. After three games, the Cowboys rank 10th on defense. The unit that last season ranked No. 1 in stopping opponents on third down, now ranks 18th. The Cowboys are averaging only one takeaway per game, ahead of only the Bears.

"So much is being made of who the starters are. I don't think enough is being made of when they're on the field, how do they perform," said Davis, who took over as defensive coordinator when Dave Wannstedt moved to become head coach of the Chicago Bears.

"Whether a guy is getting 25 plays as a starter or 25 as a role-player, the bottom line is what they are doing with those 25 plays," Davis said.

Men's championship set at SCC

Clinton's proposed health plan...

How it would work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whoever you are — single parent, blue collar worker, the self-employed — you're likely to be affected by President Clinton's proposed health care plan. Some people stand to gain, some will lose.

Here are some examples:

Suzanne, a $17,000-a-year checkout clerk at a supermarket in Jackson, Miss., is a mother of three, but her family's only breadwinner. A total of $1,530 a year is deducted from her paycheck for health insurance. Her employer pays $3,570, or 70 percent of the premium. She has to pay the first $400 of annual medical expenses.

Suzanne's a winner under the plan Clinton laid before the nation Wednesday.

If it's enacted as he proposes, her wages — less than 11/2 times the poverty level — would qualify Suzanne for a subsidy, and her paycheck withholding shrinks to $323 a year.

And if she chose the low-cost policy offered to her — meaning she'd go into a health maintenance organization, or HMO — she no longer has to pay that $400 deductible. She'd still have to pay $10 per visit to the doctor.

Henry is a $50,000 self-employed electrician in Albany, N.Y. He doesn't have health insurance, can't afford the $6,450 annual premium.

Under Clinton's plan, if he opts for an average policy, he pays $3,950, which is fully tax deductible. The value he receives — the difference between what insurance would cost him today and what it would cost him under the Clinton plan — is $2,500, plus the tax savings. Henry wins.

Kim, a San Francisco lawyer, earns $80,000 a year. Under the plan offered by her firm, she has a gold-plated policy. The firm pays $2,200, she pays $240, which, after taxes, amounts to $166.

Under Clinton's plan, she chooses an $1,800 single person's policy, of which she pays $360, the firm the rest. The benefits under the new policy are not as generous as those she enjoys today, and her out-of-paycheck contribution is higher. She's a loser.

Tony earns $15,000 a year in a non-union Evansville, Ind., print shop which offers no health benefits. His son, Randy, has severe asthma. Even if Tony bought a policy on the open market, Randy's "pre-existing" condition would not be covered.

Under the Clinton plan, the company is required to cover its workers through a policy secured through a regional health alliance — essentially a big insurance buying organization that negotiates with doctors and hospitals to provide a choice of several health care policies. The standard policy would cost $4,200, the administration estimates, and the company would pay 80 percent, with the worker paying the rest.

But because Tony is a low-wage worker, he gets a subsidy that limits his contribution to 1.9 percent of wages, or $285. So Tony and family get coverage for $6,165 less than he would have to pay on the market, and Randy is assured treatment for his asthma. Insurance companies would be prohibited from denying coverage for "pre-existing" conditions.

Suzanne, Henry, Kim and Tony are fictional, of course, but the situations are real and so are the figures. They were developed by Towers Perrin, an international benefits consulting firm, based on White House-provided details of the Clinton plan.

Lotto Texas

by The Associated Press

No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The ticket is worth $10 million.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 1, 2, 25, 38, 39, 49.

There were 127 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $2,177. There were 7,218 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $138. And there were 150,424 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Saturday night's game will be $18 million.

Survivors recount Amtrak crash terror

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — In the deepest hour of the dreamy night, 3-year-old Carol Ann Newton slept protected in her grandfather's arms. Dennis Stevens and his mother, returning from an Arizona vacation, dozed in their reclined seats. Australian Bob Bell peered out at the blackness of the Alabama bayou.

Then screeching wheels, mangled metal and desperate cries for help punctured the serenity aboard the Sunset Limited, an Amtrak train that became a death trap on its coast-to-coast run.

"There was a horrible noise and things started flying through the car. All the luggage was on the floor," said Dirk Capel, 60, a Dutch tourist making the trip from Los Angeles to Miami.

"I looked out the window and all I could see was water. I thought we were sinking. People were screaming, 'Oh, my God! Help us! Help us!'" Capel said hours after he was rescued from a passenger car stranded on a bridge to nowhere.

Capel, who had slipped off his shoes to get comfortable for the overnight leg, lost his luggage, money, passport and tickets in the wreckage. By day's end, he was wearing Red Cross-donated sneakers.

The nightmarish wreck occurred about 3 a.m. Wednesday, just minutes after the train's three diesel engines and eight cars had groaned out of the Mobile station.

About 10 miles north of Mobile, at a desolate stretch of backwater named Bayou Canot that is home to water moccasins and alligators, the train started across a 500-foot-long bridge built in 1909 of steel and timbers. Just an hour earlier, a 132-car CSX freight train with three locomotives had negotiated the span without incident.

But the passenger train's locomotives plunged off the bridge and exploded, sending flaming diesel fuel across the already horrific scene. Half the bridge was gone, and 16 feet of murky water had quickly swallowed a luggage car, a crew dormitory car and a passenger coach. A second passenger car also tumbled in and was half-submerged, its back end high in the air.

A third coach teetered on the ragged edge of the collapsed bridge but held. Behind it were a lounge car, a dining car and, at the end and still on land, a sleeper.

When the search was suspended because of darkness Wednesday night, 41 bodies had been pulled from the water and three crewmen who had been in the lead locomotive were counted among the dead. Three passengers were missing.

Dennis Stevens, 33, and his mother, Elvi, 69, were flipped from their seats and her leg was broken when their coach landed on its nose in the water. They had expected to be home in Orange City, Fla., by evening.

"We were asleep, and the next thing I knew we were in the water. It sounded like a big blast," Stevens said. "I pushed out a window and got us out. Fuel was burning on top of the water. Smoke was everywhere. Then a tugboat came and threw some ropes to fish us out. You could hear screams."

In the same car were young Carol Ann Newton of Osyka, Miss., and her grandfather, James Augustus Jones. He smashed a window and pushed the tot to safety. Freeing others from the wreckage, Jones, 39, injured his neck and was hospitalized.

At the University of South Alabama Hospital in Mobile, nurses gave the child a Little Mermaid dress, pink slippers and a baby

"Her first train trip and her last train trip," said her mother, Heather Newton. "No more trips away from Momma."

Bell, the 52-year-old Australian, chose Amtrak to see the United States for the first time. He boarded in Los Angeles on Sunday night for the 3,000-mile, eight-state trip.

Late Wednesday, the exhausted Bell could barely react to a reporter's questions. "There was just lots of noise — banging, crashing," he said.

Simon Grant of Reading, England, was also touring the United States, with a small group of countrymen. He had just nodded off to sleep.

"I heard this tremendous screech," Grant said. "The train stopped like a car hitting a brick wall. There was a lot of screaming and panic."

In the sleeping car at the rear of the train, Mary O'Donovan of Pensacola, Fla., was too far from the wreckage to realize at first what had happened.

"I thought we had hit another train. There was all this crunching, crunching, crunching noise," said Mrs. O'Donovan, whose knee was bruised when the wreck tossed her out of her berth.

South African blacks get role in governing

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Despite cries of "traitor" from right-wing whites, Parliament voted today to give blacks a role in governing the country for the first time.

President F.W. de Klerk's National Party used its overwhelming majority in the dominant white chamber of Parliament to ratify the power-sharing agreement reached with the African National Congress and other groups at democracy talks.

The vote was 107 to 36.

Immediately after the vote, Conservative Party leader Ferdi Hartzenberg stood up and said, "The government has finally put its foot on the path of abdication." He then led the pro-apartheid party's 36 grim-faced members out of the chamber.

"It is the beginning of the final abdication by the government to the South African Communist Party and the ANC, and we are going to do our utmost to prevent that," Hartzenberg said.

Under the agreement, all the 26 black and white groups that participated in the talks can appoint a representative to the Transitional Executive Council. But several parties, including the Conservative Party and the black Inkatha Freedom Party, the ANC's rival, said they would boycott the new council.

The panel, essentially a shadow government, could begin functioning as early as next month, Constitutional Development Minister Roelf Meyer said.

While it will not have absolute power, the panel will have veto power over some government decisions — most importantly those involving increased use of the security forces to quell political unrest in black townships. It also will help oversee foreign, economic and national security policy and the holding of the country's first multiracial election on April 27.

The composite for all students, those who had completed core course and those who had not, indicates a steady improvement over the past five years. Snyder's composite score was 20.3 in 1988-89, 20.4 in 1989-90, 20.5 in 1990-91, 21.0 in 1091-92 and 21.3 in 1992-93.

"This just doesn't happen overnight," said SISD Supt. Dalton Moseley. "This starts in lower grades and builds up. We're very pleased with what we are seeing, and we plan to continue the hard work."

Redistricting has changed the geography of the senatorial district. Nine Abilene voting precincts, considered to be predominantly Republican, have been added. Other counties added to the 30th District are Castro, Swisher, Armstrong, Carson, Floyd and parts of Taylor.

Lost in redistricting are Young, Jack and Stephens Counties.

Snake slithers out of dashboard

STEPHENVILLE (AP) — After her "squeals on wheels" experience, Dana Allgood isn't eager to drive again.

For sure, not until someone captures the snake that slithered out of her 1988 Thunderbird's dashboard and into her lap while she was driving.

"I am only 27, but I almost had a heart attack," she said Wednesday, one week after the startling meeting.

"I felt something on my leg and thought it was a fly. I reached down to swat it. I saw something that looked like a rope. When I realized it was a snake, I realized I would have to get that car stopped," the nutrition teacher at Stephenville High School said.

That wasn't easy, because her 4-year-old daughter, Alexa, was with her and when they saw the snake, both went ballistic.

It's not easy to stop a vehicle when you've climbed into the seat and neither leg is any longer anywhere near the brake pedal, she said.

"My daughter was screaming, I was screaming, and I finally got the car stopped by putting it into a lower gear and letting it coast to a stop," she said.

Allgood said she never got a close look at the snake, but her daughter said it was white, yellow, green and brown.

Once her car stopped, two men came by and offered assistance. One drove her and her daughter home, and the other drove her car.

As far as she knows, the snake is still in her car somewhere.

She had a friend take the car to the school's mechanic shop, and the students and a teacher partially disassembled the dashboard, but failed to find the serpent.

Phone lines in Area Code 214 fail

DALLAS (AP) — Several telephone lines were knocked out in the Dallas area early this morning when computer software at a call-relay station was damaged, a Southwestern Bell spokesman said.

Residents throughout the 214 area code, which is made up of Dallas and much of the surrounding area, had trouble placing calls starting at about 3 a.m., said Bell spokesman Stephen Seewoester.

The cause of the software problem was still under investigation. He predicted all telephone service would be restored by about 10 a.m.

Eighty percent of area calls were able to get through because they were rerouted to other relay or hub stations, Seewoester said. There is no way to accurately estimate how many people were affected, he said.

Workers spent much of Thursday morning repairing trunk lines that connect the hubs to Southwestern Bell's 30 central offices in the Dallas area, Seewoester said.

The Dallas area has four hub stations, two in Dallas, one in Fort Worth and one in Grand Prairie. Local and long distance calls are relayed through the hub stations.

Seewoester said the software controls everything at the Dallas hub stations. He said the software problem is something that rarely occurs.

"It's not particularly common," he said. "Sometimes glitches like this happen, but most of the time the public isn't aware of them."

The problem was detected by equipment shortly after it occurred, and no damage was done to the company's main computer, he said.

Because the hub station handles incoming calls from local or long-distance areas, Seewoester said both types of calls may have been affected.

"It's hard to tell. Anything that comes through the Dallas switch could be affected," he said.

TelePrompTer gives wrong Clinton speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe it's the price you pay, President Clinton, for tinkering with your speech till the last minute.

When Clinton began to deliver his nationally broadcast speech on health care Wednesday night, the wrong speech began to scroll before his eyes on the screens of his TelePrompTer.

Instead of health care, it was the Feb. 17 address that Clinton delivered the last time he went before a joint session of Congress.

The president made a quick comment to Vice President Al Gore, seated behind him, and Gore immediately left to alert aides.

"It took five to seven minutes to fix while he was speaking," said David Dreyer, a communications staffer who helped write the speech.

Clinton went on talking, nevertheless. "It's the mark of a good speaker," presidential counselor David Gergen boasted of his boss. He described the mistake as "a technical glitch."

Stress often prompts irregular pulse

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a problem with an irregular pulse. Sometimes it skips often and then is normal for several days. It's often severe enough to wake me up during the night. My blood pressure is normal, and I wonder if the medication I use, specifically Norpace and Inderal, might be causing the problem.

DEAR READER: Everybody, at one time or another, experiences short periods of irregular pulse. This is normal and may be caused by tension, stress, caffeine and nicotine, which cause the heart muscle to become especially sensitive. Under these circumstances, it may contract irregularly.

Of course, some types of irregular pulse — such as ventricular tachycardia — are more serious, reflect possible heart disease and must be treated with prescription medicine.

These two conditions can be differentiated by a cardiogram and other medical tests.

You are taking two drugs that your doctor may have prescribed to regulate your heart. Therefore, I doubt that the drugs are the cause of your palpitations; rather, you may need higher doses — or a change in medication, depending on the type of irregular pulse.

Ask your doctor about this. He may wish to order a Holter monitor to determine exactly what is going on and to adjust your drugs.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my new Health Report "Heart Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 65 and obese. A gallbladder ultrasound revealed an enlarged liver. My doctor doesn't seem concerned, yet I am.

DEAR READER: An enlarged liver in obese people is not rare. However, I share your concern that your problem may be more than just a normal variation.

You should ask your doctor about this. He may choose to order some blood tests to make sure that your liver is functioning normally.

I assume that you had a gallbladder ultrasound to check for stones, which often cause abdominal pain. If this is the case — and no stones were visible on the ultrasound — your physician will surely want to investigate further. And the liver is certainly an area to be investigated. Return to your doctor.

Horse Show set Saturday

The annual Scurry County Fair Horse Show will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday in the coliseum ag annex with Mary Jean Quimby as judge.

Events include halter, showmanship, Western Pleasure, horsemanship, straight-away barrels, flag race and stake race.

Tack will be awarded to grand champions. Reserve champions will receive halter ribbons and plaques.

Belt buckles will be awarded to all-around. Second and third place all-around will receive tack.

Age groups are eight and under, 9-12, and 13 and over, including adults.

Woman, dog slain

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An elderly woman and her pet poodle were found shot to death in the woman's home, police say.

Officers said the body of Dorothy Kimbriel, 75, and an 8-year-old chocolate-colored poodle named "Scooter" were found Wednesday. The woman had been shot several times in the upper torso and head.

"Scooter was everything to her. She would worry about him constantly and his arthritis. She had him groomed every week," said Irmgard Howell, 63, a friend of Ms. Kimbriel's. "Scooter would yak a lot when someone showed up at the house. He meant a lot to her.

Convicted killer seeks new trial

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A man who received a 10-year probated sentence for murder has distributed leaflets downtown demanding a new trial in the bludgeoning death of a former girlfriend.

"I want the case reopened," Rolf Huseboe said. "I want, if not an appeal, a pardon, and I want the truth pursued."

Huseboe has been serving his sentence in Texas while officials argue whether he should be returned to his native Wisconsin or neighboring Minnesota.

His presence in Kingsville has touched off demonstrations and demands that he serve his sentence elsewhere.

Jurors convicted Huseboe in February of murdering Shelley Lynn Webster, 23, who was killed on Padre Island in 1986. They assessed punishment at 10 years' probation, a decision that left many residents outraged.

"I am not a transient, psychotic killer," Huseboe told the San Antonio Express-News.

The fliers offer a lengthy explanation of Huseboe's version of the events leading to his arrest five years after Webster was killed. He was charged while he was being held in Vermont on an unrelated assault charge.

Susan Snyder, an assistant Kleberg County district attorney, was unmoved by Huseboe's fliers.

"This state has no intention in any way, shape or form of affecting his murder conviction," she said. "Now if he wants another punishment trial, I'll be there. Just call me."

Huseboe's one-man efforts to reopen the case are clouded by the death of his court-appointed attorney, Dick Hitchens, a former member of the City Commission. Hitchens died last month in a plane crash in Alaska, and no new attorney has been named to represent Huseboe.

Meanwhile, Huseboe is performing community-service work and seeing a psychologist, who is "trying to get me to accept the guilty verdict."

Huseboe said he would like to return to his family in La Crosse, Wis., but probation officials in Wisconsin and Minnesota have refused to accept him, prompting Texas officials to eye a lawsuit to force the move.

"I'm not just sitting up here in this white cloud thinking I'm a lily white soul, because I'm not," Huseboe said.

"But on the other hand, I know that the verdict is not true and that I am free and that I can work on it," he said. "And I will."

Your Birthday

Friday, Sept. 24, 1993

Conditions in several areas of your life could take a turn for the better in the year ahead. Your biggest improvements might be with your personal relationships that'll offer all types of new opportunities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Guard against inclinations today to be bossy or demanding. If you insist upon everyone doing things your way, you're not apt to have too large a following. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N. Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Bottled up emotions could explode today if you don't have some form of outlet. Kick a can or pound some nails in a board instead of sounding off on innocent onlookers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Doing what you want to do today without regard for the financial consequences might turn out to be much more expensive than you can handle. Be careful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) From your vantage point you might think your dominating, aggressive behavior impresses the viewer. Others, however, who see things from a different aspect aren't apt to agree.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might not be a keen judge of character today. Those in whom you choose to confide could be very poor choices for custodians of your secrets.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Turn about is fair play today. If you don't want a friend to abuse your generosity, make sure the same standards you set apply to you as well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might learn a bitter lesson today if you fail to cooperate with persons who are making every effort to cooperate with you. You'll personally discover the limits of their patience.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you might feel your ideas and suggestions are superior to those of your peers. You could be right, but if you handle things poorly, you won't look as smart as you think you are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Upon occasion you sometimes tend to be a bit of a risk taker and today might be one of those days. Be careful not to gamble on things about which you know little or nothing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A very important partnership arrangement could be more testy than usual today. If things start going down hill, try to correct them, not compound them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might be too irritable and impatient today to tackle a major project that requires a cool head and mental focus. Shelve it until you're in a better frame of mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If someone else has acquired something you lack, try not to be angry or jealous. You can have what he/she has if you're prepared to work as hard as this person did to get it.

Notice

of Vote on Tax Rate

The Snyder Independent School District conducted a public hearing on a proposal to increase your property taxes by 177.46 percent on September 21, 1993 at 6:00 p.m.

The Snyder Independent School District is scheduled to vote on the tax rate at a public meeting to be held on September 28, 1993, 6:00 p.m. at the Administration Building Board Room, 2901 37th Street, Snyder, Texas.

SNYDER INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT TRUE TAX RATE

The Snyder Independent School District is required by state law to publish the accompanying tax notice in this form, even though the notice is deceptive.

Because of an omission in the recently-enacted state law, Snyder I.S.D. may not include revenue collected by the county education district in the calculation of taxes for the 1992-93 school year. The effect of this is to understate last year's actual school tax rate and produce an inaccurate comparison of last year's tax rate to this year's tax rate.

The correct comparison of tax rates is as follows:

Last year's (1992-93) total school tax rate (including county education district taxes):	1.3593
This year's (1993-94) proposed school tax rate:	1.3593
Percentage change:	0.0%

EAT HEALTHY...

BE HEALTHY!

According to th eAmerican Cancer Society, there is evidence that diet and cancer are related. The foods you choose to eat may help reduce your risk of cancer.

Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A which can be found in apricots, cantaloupe, carrots, dark green leafy vegetables, spinach, winter squash, and sweet potatoes.

Foods high in vitamin C are related to lowering the risk of cancers of the somach and esophagus. Good sources of vitamin C include broccoli, cabbage, cantaloupe, cauliflower, grapefruit, kiwi fruit, papaya, bell peppers, potatoes, oranges, and strawberries.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussel sprouts, kohirabi, cauliflower.

Fruits, vegetables, and whole grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer, So eat healthy and be healthy.
