New Car Prices Set About Same As '42

Some Are Small Percentage Higher But Dealers Must Absorb Increase

By CHARLES B. DEGGES
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—The car-hungry public was told today that new 1946 model automobiles will sell for about the same average retail prices that prevailed in January of 1942.

The OPA, after a series of delays, finally announced its "anti-inflation" reconversion pricing formula but included specific dollars and cents ceilings for only two companies, Ford and Studebaker. On other makes, however, it gave the public definite information on what to expect.

Fords Slightly Higher

In general, Fords will sell at retail at two per cent higher than in 1942; Studebaker, nine per cent higher; General Motors products (Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac) 2.5 per cent lower; and Chrysler products (Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler) about one per cent higher.

Information still is being prepared on Packard, Nash and Hudson prices.

The OPA did not explain specifically why average General Motors prices would be lowered while others were increased. It said only that the move was indicated by information submitted by GM itself.

Buyers Not To Pay Increase

Price Chief Chester Bowles said that average factory prices, apart from extra costs for specification changes, would be 3.5 per cent higher than in 1942. But to the buying public he gave this assurance:

"This increase in factory prices

Union "Wants To Avert Strike"...

Arbitration Sought In GM Wage Contest

DETROIT, Nov. 19 (AP)—Arbitration of the bitter wage dispute between the CIO United Automobile Workers and General Motors Corp. was proposed today by the union.

Asserting that "we want to avert a strike," Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice-president, said the union proposes to the corporation that "we submit to immediate arbitration our controversy over 30 per cent increases in wage rates without price increases."

He added that the union has asked for a written reply to the proposal not later than 3 p. m. (CST) tomorrow.

Wilson Declines Comment

In Washington, C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors corporation, declined to comment on the CIO proposal.

Reuther's announcement was made at the close of the opening meeting of the UAW-CIO General Motors council, consisting of representatives of union locals in GM plants throughout the nation.

The proposal, Reuther told a news conference, contains three stipulations:

1. That the parties submit the dispute to a three-man board of arbitration composed of one representative of management, one of labor and a chairman selected by the other two members.

Full Access To Record

2. The board of arbitration shall have full access to the books and records and other documents of both parties which in the judgment of the board are essential to an intelligent and factual solution of this dispute.

3. The board of arbitration shall make a final and binding decision of this dispute; any wage increase ordered by the board shall not be used as a basis for a price increase for any GM product for the duration of such award.

Company spokesmen indicated there would be no statement on the union proposal pending further study.

Would Leave Only One

As the union council was in session, George Romney, general manager of the Automobile Manufacturers' association asserted at a news conference that a strike or close down of General Motors "would shut down all but one other passenger car producer in the country within a week."

That other one company, Romney said without naming it, "would attain only about 50 per cent production." He said that all but the one company, which he intimated was the Ford Motor Co., used equipment, such as spark plugs, ignition harnesses, thermostats and other articles manufactured by General Motors.

Prior to the council meeting, Reuther, in a statement, hailed the Office of Price administra-

Mexico Vacations Now Available To Aerial Tourists

ELSA, Tex., Nov. 19. (AP)—Flying tourists may cross the Rio Grande and vacation in Mexico, the CAA has notified the Valley Fliers association.

The CAA said tourists flying private planes will be permitted to cross the U. S.-Mexico border into Mexico, the association announced at a meeting yesterday attended by 225 persons who flew here in 65 planes. The sessions are held regularly, each one of a different town.

Strikes Delaying Troops' Return

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The War department said tonight that strikes and shorter working hours on both coasts had delayed shipping to bring soldiers home from overseas.

It also said that strikes had delayed production of railroad troop kitchen cars and "critically needed" troop sleeper cars. It added that some soldiers would have to be moved in day coaches on long trips, some times for trips across the continent.

Could Exceed Quotas

"Except for delays in turning around ships on both coasts because of strikes and shorter working hours, and the loss of some British transport, enough shipping would have been available by the end of this year to have exceeded the withdrawal quotas agreed upon by the War department and the theater commanders," the department said in a statement.

But it added that the target dates were still expected to be met. The targets, it said, are:

All troops in the European and Mediterranean theaters to be withdrawn by Jan. 31 except for 370,000 in the occupation Army and 300,000 in the property "clean-up" force.

From The Pacific

All troops in the Pacific and other areas to be withdrawn by June 31 except for 400,000 in the occupation forces and 100,000 in the garrison forces.

Troops now are returning at the rate of more than 600,000 monthly, the department reported. For November, 502,000 are expected at eastern ports and 195,000 at western ports. A peak will be reached in December with 423,000 in the east and 306,000 in the west. In January, total arrivals will decline to about 235,000 in the east and 223,000 in the west.

Nazi Trials Are Set To Start Today

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 19—The international war crimes tribunal failed to rule today on last minute motions which threatened to delay the trial of the Nazi hierarchy, and an American spokesman said tonight the tribunal's silence indicated the trial would open tomorrow morning as scheduled.

In this final flurry preceding the opening of a trial without parallel in world history, one of the chief defendants, the hulking six-foot, five inch Ernst Kaltenbrunner, former right hand man of Adolf Hitler, collapsed with a cranial hemorrhage.

HESS RULED "CRAZY"

NUERNBERG, Tuesday, Nov. 20 (AP)—A high Allied source said early today that a board of American psychiatrists had decided Rudolf Hess is incapable of conducting or assisting with his defense, and would so advise the war crimes tribunal later today. The board did not make any recommendation.

Hess is scheduled to go on trial before the tribunal today with other top-ranking Nazis.

Couldn't Stand Strain

The man who had terrorized thousands as chief of Germany's security department and criminal police, could not stand the strain of waiting for the trial. Doctors said he will not be able to quit his sick bed for the prisoners' dock for a considerable time.

One of the issues before the court was removed when the Russians named Col. Yuri Pokrovsky, deputy Soviet prosecutor, to act as chief prosecutor in the place of Gen. R. A. Rudenko, whose illness had led to a Russian request for a delay.

The tribunal strongly indicated it would open the trial without Alfried Krupp, whom the United States, Russian and French prosecutors wanted to substitute for his ailing munitions king father Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach.

Blanket Indictment

It was pointed out that the indictment provides for a blanket count against industrialists who helped foment the war, and if the court should hold the industrialists guilty as a group Alfried presumably would be tried later.

An American spokesman said the court probably would rule on pending motions tomorrow at the opening session, when it acts on a request by the attorney of Jew-baiter Julius Streicher that the mental state of his client be examined.

Psychiatrists of the four powers held consultations all day on the sanity of Rudolf Hess, former No. 2 Nazi, but were still writing their reports on him tonight.

Tension Mounts

As the time for the trial neared, tension mounted in the grim prison of this wrecked Nazi stronghold. The defendants were all under a severe strain.

Col. B. C. Andrus, commander of the security guard, reported all the rest were in good physical condition, particularly behemoth-like Herman Goering, who has been trained down under Ameri-

Man's Ribs Broken In Encounter With Fish

PORT ISABEL, Nov. 19 (AP)—William Bledsoe, 74, today nursed four broken ribs—result of an encounter with a six-foot tarpon.

Bledsoe was sitting in his skiff here yesterday, fishing, when something hit him so hard it knocked him out of the boat. He didn't know what had struck him until he climbed back in the skiff and found the tarpon, a 125-pounder, flopping around.

Coast guardsmen who saw the incident and went to Bledsoe's assistance verified the fact that the fish had not been hooked. It was believed that the silver king struck at the reflection in the water of the outboard motor.

Bledsoe was taken to a Harlingen, Tex., hospital for treatment.

Iran Trouble Flares Anew

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 19 (AP)—Iranian troops were rushed tonight to Soviet-garrisoned Azerbaijan province, scene of armed outbreaks, despite uncertainty as to whether the Russians would permit them to enter the trouble zone where seven persons were reported killed.

On previous occasions Iranian forces dispatched to the north had been turned back, and the Iranians reported Soviet forces have prohibited the government from sending gendarme reinforcements into the province.

Rebels Said Advancing

Parliament decided in a special session, however, to send two battalions to try to halt armed members of the Separatist Democratic party reported advancing down the 230-mile railway from Mianeh to Tehran.

Iranian concern tonight was increased by a government spokesman's assertion that rifles and machineguns were distributed to the Separationists from trucks bearing Russian Army insignia.

Tehran newspapers said editorially that the patriotism of Azerbaijan citizens was well known, and asserted the "rebels" were recently imigrated "strangers" wearing military boots and trousers, with civilian jackets and hats.

One editorial complained that "certain enemies of this war have been better treated than Persia (Iran), who has been a faithful ally" who made her roads and communications available "for the aid of Russia."

(In Washington the newly arrived Iranian ambassador, Hussein Ala, said the Azerbaijan uprising was engineered by "disreputable and discontented elements" who might have infiltrated into Iran from the Russian Caucasus. The Russian troops, Ala said, were continuing their occupation of Iranian territory "without any justification.")

Weapons Used By Reds

Iranians in Tehran said they understood that the weapons used by the insurgents were part of 100,000 rifles and machineguns handed over to the Russians when Red Army troops entered Iran in 1941.

All communication with Azerbaijan, northwesternmost province of Iran, has been severed and there has been no news of the uprising since last night's statement by a government spokesman that members of the separationist movement had occupied Mianeh and were marching toward Tehran.

Kimes Robs Theater, Believed 'Holed Up'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19. (AP)—Veteran police officers expressed belief tonight Matt Kimes was "holed up" in an Oklahoma hideout and they were trying to flush him out.

No definite trace has been found of the one-time "kid bandit" since he leaped into an automobile Sunday night outside Wewoka, Okla., theater where he robbed the manager of $1,200.

Bill Nicholson told highway patrol troopers Harry Davis and Charles Vandergriff a woman drove the car which quickly outdistanced one Nicholson commandeered to give chase. Nicholson had gone to the theater to meet his daughter, and saw Kimes coming out.

Kimes was being sought for the robbery of the First State bank of Morton, Texas, when the theater was robbed. He was on leave from the state penitentiary, seeking evidence to bolster his plea for executive clemency, when the Morton bank was robbed of $17,000 Sept. 5.

STRIKE VOTE BANNED

Elliott of the National Labor Relations board from taking a strike vote among employes of the North Texas Motor Lines, Paris. No date was set for the permanent injunction suit brought by the motor lines.

Yamashita's 'Not Guilty' Plea Denied

By DEAN SCHEDLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, Nov. 20.—The U. S. military commission trying Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita for his life as an accused war criminal today denied a defense motion to immediately return a "not guilty" verdict after the prosecution rested.

The prosecution rested after presenting more than 200 witnesses and more than 400 exhibits and scores of documents, pictures and translations.

All Called Hearsay

Col. Harry Clarke, chief of defense counsel, charged that all of the 18 days of testimony by prosecution witnesses was "hearsay and reports and opinions of various agencies, with no incident of direct evidence that the accused permitted such atrocities."

Yamashita is charged with responsibility for countless atrocities by reason of having failed to control the Japanese troops under his command in the Philippines.

Clark asked the commission to render a finding of "not guilty" as to the charges.

Brief rebuttal by the prosecution asserted that Yamashita "ordered these atrocities, rapings, looting and killings."

Yesterday, a short pugnacious Japanese colonel admitted bluntly that he had urged officers "to kill American troops cruelly . . . not with one stroke."

11 MORE BIGSHOT JAPS ARE ORDERED ARRESTED

TOKYO, Nov. 19. (AP)—Eleven one-time civilian and military bigshots, ranging fromthe man who took Japan into the Axis to the author of the Mukden incident, were ordered arrested today as possible war criminals, and 57 other lesser figures were calpped into jail by American occupation authorities.

While General MacArthur's orders did not specifically list the 11 as war criminals, the records of all linked them prominently with the war and pre-war periods of Japanese aggressions.

Matsuoka On List

One of those wanted was Yosuka Matsuoka, former foreign minister who made the Japanese-Russian non-aggression pact and who was instumental in forming the German-Italian-Japanese tripartite pact, was listed also.

Others included:

Gen. Baron, Shigeru Honjo, regarded as responsible for the Mukden incident of 1931 that led to the

Bond Campaign To Open Today

More than 250 workers will take the field this morning to give Lubbock citizens an opportunity to put a final gloss on their shining war record by helping subscribe the county's Victory loan quota of $2,950,000.

The campaigners will meet for last-minute instructions and a talk by J. E. Vickers, Lubbock attorney, at 9 o'clock this morning at the Hilton hotel, hence on their rounds.

Sponsored By Legion

The final bond drive is sponsored by the Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, working with the Lubbock County War Finance committee. Solicitation duties are divided between the big subscribers' group, which offers the large denomination bonds, and the general army which starts work today on the job of selling more than $800,000 in E, or the small, bonds.

The general army has six divisions, each headed by a major. Designated as majors are Dude Buster, Ralph Brock, K. D. Moore, John Spikes, Grady Harrist and J. A. Mowery as chairman, will work.

Hop Halsey and Charles Whitacre are generalissimos of the E bond campaign.

Big Bond Division

A report was not available on progress of the sale of big bonds, but officials hinted they were finding plenty of takers for these denominations.

In connection with the campaign, a bond booth will be coustructed today at Broadway and Texas Ave., near the Citizens National bank building.

Admiral Says British Expected U.S. Entry Into War In 1940

Another Says Roosevelt Feared War With Japs Long Before Sneak Blow

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—The British expected the United States to enter the war within a few days after the re-election of President Roosevelt in 1940, in the official opinion of Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley.

The one-time chief of the American naval mission in London so told Admiral Harold R. Stark, the Pearl Harbor investigating committee learned today.

Evidenced British View

But Ghromley also felt, Stark said in a letter to Admiral Thomas C. Hart, that the British attitude was merely another evidence of "their non-realistic views of international conditions and of our own political system."

And President Roosevelt was quoted as having expressed doubt that this nation would enter the war even if the Philippines were attacked by the Japanese.

The President also was quoted as having said that as the area of operations in the war expanded the Japanese sooner or later would make a "mistake and we would enter the war."

Disagreed Over Fleet

There was some indication that Mr. Roosevelt had disagreed with the views of Admiral James O. Richardson, special assistant to the secretary of the Navy, on the disposition of the Pacific Fleet.

Richardson told the Senate-House committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster that the late President made the remark about the Japanese "mistake" over the luncheon table at the White House on Oct. 8, 1940. At the time Richardson was commander-in-chief of the fleet.

Advised Moving Fleet

The admiral also informed the committee that he had strongly advised the late President to remove the fleet from Pearl Harbor and bring it to the west coast of the United States but that the President took the position the presence of the fleet at the Hawaiian base served as a curb on the Japanese.

Entered in evidence when Richardson took the stand was an exchange of correspondence between him and Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, during 1940.

Their general tenor was that Richardson did not like keeping the fleet based at Pearl Harbor. It had gone there in April during annual maneuvers with the expectation of returning to the Pacific coast early in May. Instead it was ordered to remain there. When Richardson asked an explanation, he was informed by Stark that the purpose was to exercise a "deterrent" influence on Japanese actions.

Written Account

William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, asked Richardson about the White House visit after the admiral had given some preliminary testimony about his objections to keeping the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

Richardson pulled out a written account, explaining that he had prepared it in the quiet of his home because of the matter's importance.

Richardson was on the stand less than an hour and had not gotten well into the story when the committee recessed until tomorrow.

He is reported to have had a disagreement with the President also over proposed transfer of some warships from the Pacific to the Atlantic to aid in getting shipments to Britain. Such a transfer was made after Richardson was relieved Feb. 1, 1941, as fleet commander. He was succeeded by Admiral Husband E. Kimmell who held the Pacific command when the Japanese attacked.

Reds Promise Bitter Battle

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 19.—Chinese Nationalist troops thrust 12 miles north and 30 miles west into Manchuria today against sporadic Communist opposition, but the Communists threatened a step-by-step battle for possession of that rich legacy of Japan's surrender.

Private conferences and a rash of opposing statements characterized the race for Manchuria, but the Nationalist military advance imparted a sharpening urgency to the contest.

The Communist avowed aims to seize Changchun, the state capital, about Dec. 1, when they expect the Russians to evacuate it.

Crack Main Defense

Olen Clements Associated Press correspondent at Tientsin, reported that green-clad Nationalist soldiers, shivering in the autumn cold, cracked the main Communist defense line along the Great Wall and fanned out in three directions from Shanhaikwan.

The Communist spokesman in Chungkin conceded that government forces had gone 12 miles north of Shanhaikwan and had speared 30 miles westward, capturing the town of Funing.

The Nationalists still were only on the southern fringe of the vast disputed territory, however, and were 440 miles from Changchun

The Communist spokesman, threatening dire opposition, predicted that "the first big battle" would occur around Chinhsien, 100 miles northeast of Shanhaikwan on the railroad to Mukden and Changchun.

Ready To Grab City

He said Communist "sympathizers" were prepared to grab control of Changchun the moment the Russian occupation forces should leave, an event he predicted for Dec. 1.

Shooting Victim Is Identified As Soldier

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 19 (AP)—A man found dead from gunshot wounds near New Braunfels Saturday was identified today as Sgt. John W. Murphy, a member of the military police of Dodd field, who disappeared Nov. 5.

Bexar county Deputy Sheriff Bill Hauck traced laundry marks on the soldier's clothing to the Dodd field laundry, which said they represented Sgt. Murphy's initial and the last numerals of his serial number.

Pvt. Maurice Hyland, also from Dodd field, who said Murphy had borrowed an automobile from him no Nov. 5, accompanied Hauck to the cornfield where the body was found.

Disappearance of Hyland's car and three bullet wounds in the dead man's back led officers to speculate that Murphy may have picked up a passenger who shot him and dumped his body in the field.

DeGaulle Rule Gains Backing

PARIS, Nov. 19. (AP)—France's constituent assembly, in an atmosphere bristling with guns and taut with excitement, asked Gen. de Gaulle today to continue as interim president, but under conditions which seemed to have left the government crisis no nearer a solution.

With armored cars standing guard outside the chamber and pro-de Daulle demonstrators surging through the streets, the assembly rejected the general's resignation by a vote of 400 to 163 and asked him to continue his efforts to form a coalition cabinet.

De Gaulle Accepts

De Gaulle, who was not present in the packed chamber during the proceedings, accepted the new mandate when a delegation, headed by Assembly President Felix Gouin, informed him officially of the action.

Gouin's office announced that the general would confer tomorrow morning with representatives of the three major parties—Communist, Socialist and Popular Republican Movement.

The Communists, whose demands for specific cabinet posts precipitated the crisis, voted solidly against the renewal of de Gaulle's mandate.

Reactionary Charge

Communist Jacques Dulcos accused de Gaulle of trying to form a government of "reactionaries" and declared the price of Communist participation in the government was one of three cabinet posts — interior, war or foreign affairs.

De Gaulle, for his part, has told the world he could not accede to these demands because of France's interest in maintaining the equilibrium" between the world's "two very great powers"—described by his associates as Russia and the United States.

New Outbreak In Java Is Feared

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 19. (AP)—British military officials today expressed fears that a new wave of fighting might break out in central Java, where thousands of armed Indonesian Nationalists were massing as Indonesian radio stations called for "war on the British."

An official British statement said the situation in central Java "gives cause for anxiety in view of the extremely aggressive attitude of local extremists both in Semarang and Jogjakarta."

Youth Called To Arms

A short time earlier an Indonesian broadcast, declaring "war" on the British, asked Indonesian youth to reinforce the ranks of the Nationalists at Semarang, where a British brigade was clamping on a tight control after the slaying of three British officers.

Another Indonesian broadcast Saturday night declared:

"This is the last night of peace. Tomorrow we shall start and either kill the British or drive them from Java."

"Army" Drills Openly

This broadcast came from the headquarters for the Nationalist movement at Jogjokarta, now swarming with armed youth. The Indonesian "army" is drilling openly in a number of nearby camps. The Indonesians themselves say a munitions plant in Jogjakarta already is supplying a steady output of ammunition for their forces fighting in Soerabaja and elsewhere.

CASABLANCA CONFERENCE

IN January 1943, the President and the Prime Minister, with the Combined Chiefs of Staff, met at Casablanca. It was then apparent that our North African operation was to be successful, even beyond original calculations.

MARSHALL

The problem before the Chiefs of Staff at Casablanca was the next movement to be made following the completion of the Tunisian campaign. It still would have been preferable to close immediately with the German enemy in Western Europe or even in Southern France had that been possible of achievement with the resources then available to General Eisenhower. It was not.

Axis control of the Mediterranean islands and the entire reach of the southern coast of Europe from Franco's Spain to Turkey denied our communications also across the Mediterranean and forced our shipping into a 12,000-mile detour around the Cape of Good Hope. The United States was still involved in the process of a vast mobilization. The Chiefs of Staff therefore considered whether we had the strength to move directly to Italy or what might be the best intermediary step. It was decided to assault Sicily (operation HUSKY) and, with the approval of the Heads of State, General Eisenhower was advised on 23 January:

"The Combined Chiefs of Staff have resolved that an attack against Sicily will be launched in 1943 with the target date as the period of the favorable July moon."

Even though a full-scale Mediterranean campaign now was imminent, it was resolved at Casa-

Baylor Head Bluntly Cuts Back At Baptist Action

Honorary Degree Awaits Truman

WACO, Nov. 19. (AP)—Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor university, bluntly put the Baptist General convention on notice today that it did not select the persons Baylor gave honorary degrees, and said the school would grant one to President Truman.

The Baptists at a convention in Fort Worth last week instructed Texas Baptist schools not to offer President Truman a degree because of his "reported attitude toward gambling and drinking."

"The trustees of Baylor university have reaffirmed the granting of an honorary degree of doctor of laws to President Truman," Neff said today.

"Mr. Truman has been advised by letter by me that his degree is waiting for him whenever it is convenient for him to come and receive it."

At Fort Worth, E. D. Head, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary who served as president of the Baptist General convention, had no comment to make on either the granting of a degree to Truman or the statement that the convention had no authority to grant such degrees.

The Rev. L. L. Roloff, Baptist pastor at Corpus Christi who offered the resolution involving Mr. Truman, commented that "it is my conviction that Baylor and the trustees are directly responsible to the people who compose the Baptist General convention of Texas."

"It is the convention that elects the trustees who in turn elect the president and faculty members of Baylor university. I am just one of the thousands of Baptists that gave their unanimous approval of the motion.

"There's a lot that could be said in answer to President Neff's statement and there's a lot that's certainly going to be said. However, I believe this time, as far as I am concerned, it is up to the people of the Baptist General convention to do with Baylor as they see fit."

Chinese Face Bitter Experiment On Already-Jumbled Road System

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19—An American correspondent in Chungking has cabled back the dread with which jeep-jittery westerners await the dawn of Jan. 1, 1946, in China's capital.

On that day Chinese traffic is scheduled to switch from the left side of the road, where it theoretically has been flowing, to the right side.

WHITE

The Chinese have their rules of the road, but they have also a proverb which says that a road is good for ten years and bad for ten thousand.

A road in China, often in bad repair, is like life itself—something to be traveled as best one can. Observing rules is all very well, but one has to get there.

Game Of Avoiding Holes

China hasn't been able to afford many good roads, so that driving becomes a matter of avoiding murderous chuckholes, puddles and ruts, rather than staying on your side. So much so that some Chinese chauffeurs, who are prone to succumb to accelerator—ankle and the intodication which comes with herding a hurtling ton of metal down the fairway, often forget which side they are supposed to be on. The ideal, of course, is to drive in the middle. I have seen head-on collisions in the middle of a wide street, where both drivers waited too long to turn aside.

Traffic is a seething mass in which the automobile is but a minor part. The giddy Ricksha puller darts from side to side looking for passengers. He is by profession a free-thinker, and in big cities (where the rules are enforced to make him stay on one side) he wears a depressed, regimented look.

Then There's Pedestrians

There are pedestrians, milling and pushing and sometimes just wandering. The window-shoppers gawking from the middle of the street, the old men taking their pet birds for a walk,the loafers moving from one curbstone to another—these contrast with the purposeful guy who knows where he is going and is not to be deterred by mere rules.

The bicycle becomes a sinister thing when ridden by the young apprentice, who pedals with his heels, rides swiftly in a weaving motion, and loses himself in snatches of opera where the proper falsetto tone is achieved only by closing the eyes.

To this scene now add the slow-moving ox or pony cart, the wheelbarrow laden with an unspeakable cargo of night-soil, the scampering child, the old lady with bound feet staggering across the street with her eyes glued to a bowl of hot noddles.

Relies Largely On Horn

The Chinese chauffeur, bent on inching his car or bus through such an indifferent world, is inclined to forget he has brakes (which never work too well anyway) and rely increasingly on his horn. On one 8-mile bus-ride I once counted more than 400 horn-tootings, each made up of one or more blasts.

Pedestrians usually ignore this completely, and there are many near accidents. After grazing a potential damage suit, the chauffeur sometimes sticks his head out the window and inquires insultingly: "Do you want to die?"

The pedestrian has a standard answer: "If I die," he glares back, "who will keep your mother?"

Such banter livens up a dull day, and after January 1 will take place on the right side of the street instead of the left.

Lindbergh Says Atom Bomb Makes World Control A Necessity

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh asserted today that development of the atomic bomb had made "imperative" a world organization for control of destructive forces.

The noted flier also said "I have not changed my belief that World War two could have been avoided."

Lindbergh made the comments in a statement concerning what he described as "an inaccurate account" of remarks he made at a private meeting of midwestern congressmen in Washington Nov. 8.

Urges Continued Unity

The text of his statement follows:

"An inaccurate account has been at a private meeting in Washington. (He was not referring to the Associated Press). These times are too critical and too dangerous to justify unnecessary division of opinion among Americans on vital international policies. I have not changed my belief that World war two could have been avoided, but the issue between so-called interventionists and isolationists is past except from an academic standpoint. We fought the war together and we face the future together as Americans—a future that is more fraught with danger than the war itself.

"In an era which has developed the atomic bomb, and which will develop trans-oceanic rockets capable of carrying atomic bombs, the necessity for world organization for the control of destructive forces is imperative. The only alternative is constant fear and eventual chaos. I believe that President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, have, in principle, taken a wise and courageous stand —a stand based on the preservation of our civilization, offering justice to all nations and asking only justice in return. So long as I believe that the policy of the administration is to the best interest of my country, I shall give it my utmost support."

Didn't Score AP

The Associated Press story from Washington on Nov. 14 quoted two Congressmen as saying Lindbergh had been invited to the meeting to express his views on atomic energy and other scientific matters. They said the flier asked that his remarks not be given out for publication.

Lindbergh, today, did not elaborate on his reference to the "inaccurate" reports, other than to say he did not mean the Associated Press.

The famous flier telephoned his statement to the Associated Press. It was one of the few he has made on public issues since before the war.

"If Liberty Is Destroyed, Women Will Do It," Warns Colorful Alfalfa Bill Murray

By JASMINE HATCHETT
United Press Staff Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19—Grizzled old William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, who started his political career in the Chickasaw Indian nation more than 50 years ago, neared his 76th birthday today with warnings against "silky voices" and "slick appearances" and a roaring dictum to the voters of America: "If liberty is destroyed, the women will do it."

MURRAY

Women, opined the man who wrote Oklahoma's constitution, voted against World War I and the League of Nations while a congressman, and served four turbulent years as governor, are on the verge of taking over the country.

They'll do it in 1948, he believes, and that's when the rest of America—meaning the menfolks —will have to start looking out for scheming males with sugared tones and smooth looks.

Try To Influence Ladies

They, he implied ominously, will try to influence the ladies to a disastrous degree.

Sitting in a hotel lobby, still sporting the handlebar moustache and battered old brown hat which have become familiar landmarks in political campaigns, and surrounded by a crowd of admirers Murray spent more than an hour discussing his political views with a United Press reporter after arriving here from his Tishomingo, Okla., home.

Murray, who wa sborn Nov. 21, 1869, near Collinsville, Tex., also took time to provide a dim view of this country's immediate economic future and world peace.

He predicted a panic would begin in 1946 and become general in 1947 with the farmers first to feel the effects. The government can forestal the crisis with large expenditures of money, he said, "but if it does the depression will come as late as 1952 and will be much worse than one earlier—as much worse as World War II was compared wit hWorld War I."

As for world peace, "there isn't any," asserted Murray, with an exclamation of annoyance and a wave of his hand.

He also had some advice for women. The ladies, said Murray, were prone to vote "for love or hate" and they must learn to assume the responsibilities of political power.

"They must take their majority seriously and inform themselves of the background of the candidates, analyze their platforms and vote honestly," he said.

Murray estimated that 60 of every 100 votes cast in the 1944 election were cast by women.

After deducting the men killed in the war, those who will remain residents of foreign countries and "the million men who will bring foreign wives" to America, said Murray, "give consideration to the fact that metropolitan areas vote heavier and there is always a 15 to 20 per cent female surplus there, and you have approximately 33 per cent more women voters than men."

Murray said he did not fear the votes of "wives and mothers" but expressed concern over the political attitudes of "career" girls who, he said, might become misled by politically scheming men.

Marshall Says Most Americans In Favor Of Military Training

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19 (U.P.) — Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, believes the majority of Americans favor universal military training but that the minority opposing it has been getting the most publicity.

Marshall, speaking before a Salvation Army 80th anniversary celebration last night, said that he felt that the deciding vote on the compulsory training issue would be cast by the women of America.

Speaking extemporaneously, Marshall said:

"This is a great decision to be made by our country and the future of all countries is at stake.

"I personally believe the deciding vote will be cast by the women of America, the mothers and grandmothers, on what is to be done, one way or the other.

Marshall assailed opponents of the one-year training plan, who "feel that it cuts across democracy."

Rather, he said, "it is the very essence of Democracy."

Independent U. S. retailers reported a four per cent decrease in the value of inventories accompanied by an eight per cent rise in sales during 1944.

Iran Latest To Grab Spotlight In Turbulent Political Setup

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

Iran, the ancient kingdom of the Persians, is the latest nation to occupy the spotlight as an international football.

The Iran affairs has been brewing for many months. It apparently has come to a head with a revolutionary movement in the northwestern province of Azerbaijan, bordering Soviet Russia between the Caspian and Black seas.

Oil Resources Valuable

The outside powers chiefly concerned are Russia, Great Britain and the United States. Whatever happens, it is almost certain to affect the interests of one or all of the Big Three. Consequently, there is little chance that Iran will be allowed to settle her affairs witout outside guidance or strong pressure.

What makes Iran important to the world powers is her geographic position and oil resources. Points to be considered are these:

In Strategic Position

1. Iran, officially Moslem, is an independent buffer state between Turkey and the Arab league on the west and Afghanistan and India on the east.

2. It is a land barrier between Soviet Russia and the warm waters of the Persian gulf, long a desired Russian outlet to the south from the Caspian sea.

3. It has oil resources which attract all of the Big Three. It borders on Iraq, where both Britain and the United States have vital oil interests ,and dominates the Persian gulf, one of the chief outlets for the oil of the Middle-East.

Taken Over During War

Unrest in Iran is a natural outgrowth of the nationalist movement which is sweeping the colonial world from the western Mediterranean to the Netherlands East Indies. That is so even though Iran is not a colony or dependency, but a sovereign state and a member of the United Nations. The Iranians evidently feel the danger of being engulfed in "power politics" before the UNO gets functioning fully.

Iran was in the peculiar position during the war of being occupied by Soviet and British troops and overrun by American service forces, all for the essential purpose of maintaining a land supply route to Russia for the war against the Axis.

In forming an alliance with Iran for war purposes, Russia and Britain guaranteed to respect her territorial integrity, sovereignty and political independence. All foreign troops were to be withdrawn by next March.

The Russian withdrawal has been only partly accomplished and in its course, disturbances have arisen in the northern provinces bordering the Soviet union.

Only two naval officers have ever held seats in the U. S. Senate: Commo. Robert F. Stockton of New Jersey and Adm. Thomas C. Hart of Connecticut.

Official Helper Of Santa Claus Flays Professor's Views

OKLAHOMA, CITY Nov. 19 (AP) Santa's official secretary by legislative act sniffed today at the idea of a Baltimore professor thinking her "boss" is outmoded.

"If you don't have a Santa Claus, who is going to fill the stockings of the homeless?" observed Mrs. Warren Fountain, whose legal title is secretary of the Oklahoma Santa Claus commission.

She was taking issue, in an interview, with sociology professor Ivan E. McDougle of Goucher college, who told the Baltimore News-Post:

"The Santa Claus myth has lived too long in terms of child psychology. Children have to learn to get along."

Mrs. Fountain, whose job is finding presents each year for the 3,000 Oklahoma children in state and privately owned institutions said Santa was especially needed by her charges.

"Take Santa Claus away from them and who would they have to write to for presents?" she quired.

"We ask for letters from all of them every year and we see to it that they get what they want or, if it just can't be had, we try to find something a little better to help ease the disappointment.

"It's inconceivable for those children—or any other youngsters—to spend Christmas without a Santa Claus."

The Oklahoma Santa Claus commission was created in 1937 by the state legislature which appropriated $1,500 a year from state funds. Voluntary contributions average $5,000 annually.

Prosperity Is Seen For Next 10 Years

DALLAS, Nov. 19. (U.P.)—A good national prosperity for the next 10 to 15 years was predicted by George L. Noble, Jr., regional director of the War Production board, today. Speaking before the closing session of the North Texas County Judges and Commissioners association, Noble declared, "the resources of this nation are such that there is no acceptable reason for every citizen not having a good education, good living conditions and a chance for good jobs."

John M. Fouts, general manager of the Trinity river improvement association, announced the starting next year of the $32,000,000 flood control and soil conservation program along the Trinity river watershed.

Gen. Eisenhower Is Just Regular Fellow

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19. (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower chatted with soldiers and sailors bound for a separation center last night and told them to "come back and enlist with me" if they don't get good jobs.

He laughed heartily when the troops countered with "what's the pay?"

Enroute from Washington to Chicago the general's train stopped at the Pennsylvania station here and he was mobbed when his car was switched alongside a troop train.

Disheveled and tired GI's crowded around the rear platform of the Allied commander's car, shook hands with him and had him sign about a hundred autographs.

He inquired solicitously of one GI who came out in shorts, only, "aren't you cold?"

When one quipped to the general that he was "all right — a regular Joe," General Eisenhower seriously told them:

"You fellows are all right, too. You are the kind who made me."

Polish War Orphan Arrives In U. S. To Make Home With Vet

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 19. (AP)—Bobby Sokolowski, 10, a Polish war orphan who was wounded five times in service with American troops in Europe, and T-4 Edward Klonowski were Chicago-bound today for a meeting with the soldier's parents, who henceforth will be Bobby's, too.

Klonowski said his folks would adopt the boy who arrived from England yesterday to succeed in his second attempt to enter the United States.

Has Several Awards

Bobby hadn't known his special "Buddy" would meet the Liberty ship Jamee Swan and was nearly overcome.

"Ed! I so happy," was all he could say at first. And that was a surprise to Ed.

"So, you can talk English now," he laughed.

Bobby was wearing a cut-down uniform of Ed's, the European theater ribbon with three battle stars, the Presidential Unit Citation and the Purple Heart with cluster.

"He earned all those ribbons," Klonowski said, "and he's also entitled to wear the Bronze star and the Silver star for gallantry in action.

In 1944 Bobby fled from a camp in Luxembourg where the Germans had killed his parents, and dodged German machine-gun bullets to land beside Klonowski in a trench.

The two were together in France, Germany, Austria and Italy, where, last July, Klonowski was sent home. Bobby made his way to England, "bummed" a plane ride to New York, but was returned to England because he had no relatives in this country.

Japan Banned From Air In New Order

TOKYO, Nov. 19 (U.P.) — Japan was barred from the air today—even down to working model airplanes — under an Allied Headquarters directive outlawing possession of aircraft, aeronautical training and research by private or commercial firms.

The order was to make certain the wiping out of all possibility for a revived Japanese air force.

The directive ordered abolition of all Japanese "pilot or other training related to aircraft design, construction, maintenance or operation."

The Japanese government was ordered to submit to Allied Headquarters by Dec. 31, a register of officers, operations officials, professional engineering and research personnel and pilots and instructors of organizations to be dissolved.

Texas Oil Industry Said Back On Feet

AUSTIN, Nov. 19 (U.P.) — Col. Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad commission, said here today that the Texas oil industry is again on a solid post-war basis, after having reached a wartime peak production of 5,200,000 barrels a day in production.

Thompson said that a balance between supply and demand has been effected and that the oil industry is the first major one to achieve reconversion.

CHINESE CHEWS

MRS. EARL THOMPSON, 2321 Eighth, is receiving congratulations for submitting a prize-winning recipe to December Better Homes and Gardens Round table of Endorsed recipes. The recipe for Chinese chews is given in this column.

As Barbra Young of the Better Homes And Gardens news bureau explained in a letter to us, "Of the hundreds of recipes submitted each month only ten are chosen by the Tasting Test kitchen, so it is apparent that the recipe must really have something."

As Mrs. Thompson explained, "Folks go for their nutty flavor and chewiness." Here is it:

Three - fourth cup enriched flour.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One cup sugar.
One cup chopped dates.
One cup chopped California walnut meats.
Three well-beaten eggs.

Sift dry ingredients. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour into greased 10-by 14-inch pan. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees, F) for 30 minutes.

SONG OF THANKSGIVING

CLARENCE HAWKES, "The blind poet of Hadley, Mass., who has been sightless for 62 of his 78 years, has written the following Thanksgiving Day poem for the United Press. He calls it "A Song of Thanksgiving."

Rejoice, be glad, Thanksgiving
Day is here,
The fairest festival of all the year.
In gratitude the Pilgrims spread their board,
And we give thanks this day
unto the Lord
For five hard years in which
He kept us strong,
Upholding right and banishing
the wrong.
Reunion, too, gives gladness to our cheer,
In many a home the long missed boy is here,
By other hearths there is a vacant chair,
God comforts them, we breathe
to Him a prayer;
May we keep faith with those who gave their all,
And answer quickly to our country's call.

God help us along our rugged course,
To build for peace within a world of force.
Let us be quick to hear the suppliant call,
Dealing alike with nations great and small,
Building a world of peace forever more,
That none may be afraid of future war.

Bringing God's law again down
Sinai's hill,
Saying to men, thou surely shall not kill.
For in God's love there is a better plan,
For man to live and love his fellow man.
No race, no creed, no nation great or small,
But each important in a perfect
whole.

Whittling down the telephone waiting list

By putting in telephones as fast as possible, we're slowly but surely whittling down the list of 246,000 people waiting for telephones in the Southwest at war's end.

But installing a telephone is just the last step in furnishing telephone service. Wires and cables must connect each telephone to a central office, and complex equipment in the central office must be ready.

Telephone factories are turning such equipment out in a swelling stream. Even after we get it, a big job remains. That's the job of installing it—making sure that each of thousands and thousands of connections is made right.

But we've made a start; we're on our way. During the months ahead, more and more cable and switchboards and dial equipment will make room on our lines for more and more people, until the day comes when we can again serve anyone who wants a telephone, when he wants it.

Government Heeds Warning, Moves To Safeguard Against Air Attack

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. (U.P.)—The government, heeding warnings from its top air generals, is taking steps to safeguard the nation against air attacks through the unguarded Arctic approaches, it was learned today.

Major attention is now being given to a proposed long range agreement with Iceland under American-built Meeks field, one of the world's most strategically located bases, would be used in peacetime by the U. S. Army Air forces.

Vulnerable To Attack

High ranking military men have warned repeatedly that this country is vulnerable to attack through the polar regions. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, who commanded the strategic air forces in Europe and the Pacific, told a congressional committee that trans-polar flying leaves America "wide open" at the top.

Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle told the same group that "anyone who is thinking of the defense of this country or its vulnerability to attack has got to start with a polar projection."

Steps also are being taken to get a series of hemispheric bases. Negotiations are underway with Brazil for use of American-built bases there and with Ecuador for use of bases on the Galapagos islands which help guard the Pacific ocean approaches to the Panama canal.

DARK PICTURE PAINTED IF NEXT WAR OCCURS

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (AP)—"Dec. 7, 1941, will seem like a quiet day in the country in comparison with the first day of the next war," Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay of B-29 Superfortress fame asserted today.

Ohio-born LeMay, in an address prepared for a meeting of the Ohio Society of New York here, called for American preparedness based on a unified command with air power given co-equal status with land and sea forces.

Distance Purely Academic

"In the next war—and who can say there will never be another war?—distance will be academic and there will be no time to prepare.

"The essence of our preparedness mut be a strong defense establishment. To be efficient this defense establishment must consist of a unified command with one man at the head.

"In this unified command, air power must be given co-equal status with the land and sea forces.

"No air attack, once it is launched, can be completely stopped.

Declaring that his words were not spoken lightly, LeMay added:

"Those who would impede air power fail their country. Upon the encouragement given air power in the next few years depends the destiny of the nation."

Spencer Wells Back After Army Service

Spencer A. Wells, president of Hemphill-Wells Co., a long-time Lubbock civic leader now on terminal leave from the Army after service in two wars in little more than a quarter-century, is looking forward to "getting back into civies today."

"It's sure going to be good to be 'Mister' Wells again," he said Monday morning. "I've had enough of being 'Major' Wells."

An overseas veteran in World War 1, Wells has spent three years of service since late 1942 as inspector general at Camp Polk, La., and Camp Crowder, Mo. He expects to remain in Lubbock for a week or 10 days before going to San Angelo, where he and associates also operate a department store, for a brief visit.

Wells has resumed residence at Hotel Hilton.

Large Crowd Attends Second Youth Rally

About 600 Lubbock youth — more than twice the number present at a similar meeting last Sunday—attended the second of four youth rallies held Sunday afternoon in the First Methodist church with musical entertainment and religious messages being presented to the gathering.

The meetings are under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the direction of Rev. Jimmy Bell, youth evangelist from Clovis, N. M.

A 60-piece Texas Tech band and an 80-voice choir featured the religious musical presentations. Solos were also rendered during the program, and the assembled youth joined in group singing.

About 400 of the youth attending the rally later were served refreshments at the Corral youth recreation center at Sixteenth and Ave. J, by the Jaycees.

Copies of the New Testament that were to be presented by the Gideons to the youth were not available at the church Sunday. Rev. Bell has said that the Bibles will be issued to the youth at next Sunday's rally.

Rev. J. M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, made a short talk Sunday and Rev. Bell delivered the principal talk.

The next meeting will be held Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the First Christian church. A program similar to those in the past will be presented with new features added, Bell said.

Production of baby carriages, strollers, and walkers in 1944 totaled 1,630,000 units, an increase of 32 per cent over that of 1943.

Aid For Tuberculosis Association Is Asked

George J. Young, local insurance man, made an appeal for all-out aid by Lubbock citizens for the county tuberculosis association in his talk Monday at the luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Hilton hotel.

Young pointed out the work done by the association during the year on the very limited funds supplied them by the county's donations through Christmas seal sales last year. With $7,700 received from the seals the organization has held a weekly clinic, given over 3,000 patch tests, sent 33 active cases to the sanitorium and employed a full-time clerk.

These were only a few of many activities of the group pointed out by the speaker. He said the association was asking $9,0000 this year and he felt it the "duty of the citizens of Lubbock county to raise their donations and oversubscribe this request."

An all - girl glee club of 40 voices, directed by Mrs. Elois Elliot, presented five musical selections. They appeared on behalf of National Education week, just ended. The Jaycees did not meet last Monday, postponing this program.

Glenn Woody, president, presided and introduced Young as speaker.

Railroad Unions To Count Strike Votes

HOUSTON, Nov. 19. (U.P.)—Officials of 13 railroad brotherhoods will count their strike ballots tomorrow to see if 18,000 employes of the Southern Pacific company in Texas and Louisiana will strike.

The vote was called after the union and company were unable to agree on control of the Southern Pacific hospital and old part-time grievances.

Both sides have announced they believe the vote will be overwhelmingly in favor of the strike and both sides have pointed out they expect the federal government to step in and keep the trains rolling. Results of the election will be announced at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

If the strike is called, one union official pointed out, it might come as soon as a week after the votes are tabulated.

Marshall Tells Of Casablanca

blanca to resume amassing in the United Kingdom as quickly as possible the forces necessary to invade Western Europe. This build-up was to be one of the most tremendous logistical undertakings in military history.

Enormous Preparations Necessary

It required provision for the transportation, shelter, hospitalization, supply, training, and general welfare of 1,200,000 men who had to be embarked in the United States and transported across the submarine infested Atlantic to the United Kingdom. The hospital plan alone, for example, called for 94,000 beds in existing installations, conversions, and new construction. The program was later increased by tent accommodations for 30,000 more beds. Living quarters had to be furnished for the assault forces and their supply troops. There had to be provision for 20,000,000 square feet of covering, storage, and shop space, and 44,000,000 square feet of open storage and hard standings. Parks for 50,000 military vehicles were planned; 270 miles of railroad had to be constructed. More than 20,000 railroad cars and 1,000 locomotives were to be shipped to the United Kingdom. The Air Forces required 163 fields, seven centers for combat crews and replacements, accommodations for 450,000 men, and 8,500,000 square feet of storage and shop space.

Two-thirds of the vast program of air installation required new construction by British and United States engineers. At the same time the invasion operations required detailed planning for the installations we would have to build once ashore in France—hospitals, depots, shops, railroads, pipelines, and bridging materials.

Not unmindful that an invasoin across the English Channel against an entrenched Germany Army was an operation unequaled in possibility for a major disaster, the Allied commanders decided to undertake the great strategic bombardment that was to weaken Germany militarily, industrially, and economically.

Before the assault of Sicily was actually undertaken, the President, the Prime Minister, and the Combined Chiefs of Staff met again in Washington in May. This meeting, designated the TRIDENT Conference, may prove to be one of the most historic military conclaves of this war, for here the specific strategy to which the movements of the land, sea, and air forces of the American and British Allies conformed was translated into firm commitments.

It was at this Conference that the Combined Chiefs of Staff decided to extend Allied influence in the Mediterranean to the point where Italy would be forced to withdraw from the war. They also approved the plan of the United States Army Air Forces to strike Germany a serious blow by reducing her great oil resources at Ploesti.

Spring '44 Set for Invasion

At the TRIDENT Conference plans for a direct assault from the United Kingdom into Europe's classic battlegrounds were reaffirmed. Even though we were now firmly entrenched in North Africa, to have attempted to force Germany from the south across the Alpine barrier was on the face of it impracticable. In Europe's innumerable wars no vigorously opposed crossing of the Alps had ever been successfully executed. Operation OVERLORD, the new code name for the assault of France, which replaced ROUND-UP, was formally accepted and, for the purposes of planning, the spring of 1944 was designated as the target date. General Eisenhower was directed to send to the United Kingdom beginning 1 November seven seasoned divisions which were fighting in North Africa, and which would fight in Sicily, even though this meant that at the very moment he would be committing his forces in a full-scale campaign in Italy, he would be obliged to release two Army Corps of seasoned troops.

Nor was Japan neglected at the TRIDENT Conference. It was decided to maintain an unremitting offensive pressure on the Japanese even while our forces closed in to deliver the knock-out blow to Italy and we were gathering the tremendous resources in the United Kingdom that would be necessary to force the continent. Japan would be approached both from the west and from the east. On the Asiatic mainland it was determined to build up the flow of materiel to China via the air route over the "hump" and to initiate aggressive land and air operations to reestablish surface communications with beleaguered China. In the Pacific, General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz were directed to move against the Japanese outer defenses, ejecting the enemy from the Aleutians and seizing the Marshalls, some of the Carolines, the remainder of the Solomons, the Bismarck Archipelago, and the remainder of New Guinea.

From the TRIDENT Conference, the Prime Minister, Field Marshal Sir Alan Brooke and I proceeded to General Eisenhower's headquarters at Algiers for a series of conferences lasting from 29 May to 3 June. At TRIDENT final conclusions had not been reached as to the event to which the Mediterranean advance should continue so that General Eisenhower might be left in a position to exploit every favorable opportunity. In his villa at Algiers we discussed the future in detail, and he was authorized to proceed from operation HUSKY in Sicily as he saw fit with the intent of eliminating Italy from the war.

Courthouse Bonds Voted In Motley

MATADOR, Nov. 19. (Special)—By a comfortable majority, Motley county residents Saturday voted for issuance of $175,000 in bonds for building a new courthouse to replace one 40 years old which burned to the ground about a year and a half ago.

Construction on the new building is expected to start soon after the first of the year.

Legionnaires Urged To Take Stand On Defense Questions

CHICAGO, Nov. 19. (AP)—Brig. Gen. Kenneth C. Royall, under secretary of war, today urged American Legionnaires to make their influence felt on national defense measures.

He said it would take a "strong and concerted effort" to prevent "the pendulum of American thought" from swinging "into the dangerous rozy zone of ostrict-thinking."

Royall, in an address prepared for the Legion's 27th annual convention, said publicity given organizations opposed to universal military training would indicate such groups "include a majority of our people." He contended, however, that public opinion polls show an "overwhelming majority" favor universal training.

"It is your duty to study all problems of adequate national defense, reach your conclusions and thoroughly make your influence and the influence of all other exservicemen felt to the point where sound legislation will be adopted."

New Car Prices

will not be passed through to the car buyer.

"Dealers' normal pre-war initial margins will be uniformly reduced by 2.5 percentage points, which will assure the 1942 retail prices on the average for all cars. Because of the elimination or reduction in the losses which they formerly were forced to take on used cars, dealers are, however, assured margins considerably above those actually realized before the war."

Some Slight Adjustment

Bowles did not close the door entirely on General Motors price increases. He ruled that in the case of GMC and other companies whose specific prices have not been fixed, slight increases will be allowed to cover the cost of improvements in structure and design.

Following are the specific f. o. b. Detroit prices already fixed. They do not include added cost of taxes, handling and preparation, transportation to showroom or special accessories, etc. The figures in parenthesis are comparable costs in 1942.

Ford De Luxe models — three passenger coupe, $834 ($815); Tudor sedan, $882 ($850); Fordor sedan, $931 ($885); Super De Luxe models: Three passenger coupe, $891 ($860); Tudor sedan $940 ($895); Fordor Sedan, $989 ($930); sedan coupe, $977 ($920).

Studebaker—Four door cruising sedan, $967 ($839); two door club sedan, $918 ($809); five passenger, double dater coupe, $916 ($804); and three passenger business coupe, $977 ($779).

Costs To Be Added

When taxes, transportation costs, etc. are added, the $931 Ford DeLuxe Fordor sedan would cost a buyer in Washington, D. C., $1056 to drive away from a local showroom. That amount would be greater or smaller in other cities, depending on the distance from Detroit.

The price and policy announcement was certain to bring a new storm of protest from retail auto dealers who must absorb most of the increased manufacturing rises. They already have appealed to Congress against what they term a move to drive them out of business.

Bowles declared that even with the reduction in their margins, dealers would fare considerably better than before the war. In prewar days, he said, dealers worked on a "theoretical" margin of 24 per cent, but this actually was reduced to about 12 per cent because of cash discounts and liberal trade-in allowances.

Margin To Be Higher

In the present "tight" market, he said, dealers will take no significant losses on tradeins or in discounts, and their margin, with the 2.5 per cent reduction, will be around 21.5 per cent as against about 12 per cent before the war.

Bowles accused all companies except Ford and Studebaker of delaying the announcement of new prices by refusing to submit their cost data earlier. Only three days ago, he said, did Chrysler make any information available.

While waiting for other specific ceilings to be announced, potential buyers can get a general idea by referring to the following 1942 list prices, f. o. b. Detroit, and bearing in mind OPA's plan that GM products will be about 2.5 per cent lower and Chrysler products about one per cent higher:

Chevrolet—$920 for the Fleetline Sportsmaster four-door sedan, $790 for the five-passenger Stylemaster coupe, $815 for the Fleetmaster business coupe, and $1,080 for the Fleetmaster Cabriolet or convertible coupe.

Oldsmobile — $915 for the six cylinder business coupe, $1,005 for the four-door, six cylinder town sedan; $1,045 for the eight-cylinder, four-door sedan.

Plymouth—$935 for the deluxe four-door sedan, $850 for the standard two-door sedan, and $1,078 for the deluxe convertible coupe.

Buick—$1,260 for the special 40 convertible coupe, $1,465 for the four-door Roadmaster touring sedan; and $2,545 for the 90 limited four-door limousine.

De Soto—$1,103 for the four-door sedan, $1,092 for the club coupe (all prices for smaller De Soto models.)

Chrysler—$1,177 for the four-door sedan, $1,154 for the two-door sedan, $1,168 for the club coupe (all prices for the smaller Chrysler models).

MOTORS LEAD DECLINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Motors, depressed by the new OPA automobile ceilings and an imminent strike threat, led a general decline in today's stock market although early casualties of three or more points were reduced at the close and assorted favorites finished with comfortable advances.

Late openers were General Motors and Chrysler, the former off a point on a 1,500-share block and the latter down two on 600 shares. They extended their retreat, recovered after midday, slipped again and ended off ¾ and 1⅝, respectively. Transfers totalled 2,020,000 shares compared with 2,340,000 Friday.

Coppers improved as domestic demand increased with shortages and revived talk of the government resuming foreign purchases of the metal. Scattered issues were spurred by dividends and earnings prospects. Idle cash and inflation thinking persisted as bullish factors. The fact that the list had touched a peak since 1931, however, inspired profit cashing on the theory a good-sized technical correction could eventuate.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .2 of a point at 73.3, first stumble since last Wednesday. The market was relatively broad, 1,008 issues registering. Of these, 429 fell and 378 advanced.

Prominent on the offside were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Goodyear, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Johns-Manville, Montgomery Ward, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Santa Fe, Dow Chemical, Du Pont and Schenley.

In the "new high" division were International Nickel, Roan Antelope, St. Paul, Railway preferred, Ohio Oil, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron, Standard Gas $4 preferred and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt. Ahead were United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Anaconda, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber, St. Paul common and General Electric.

Bonds were mixed.

Sailors Said Being Loaded Like Sardines

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 19 (AP)—Sailors who asserted they were being loaded "like sardines" into a troopshop for movement to San Francisco protested here today.

The Navy men said they were being shoved into refrigerator holds and other unsatisfactory accommodations aboard the U.S.S. Procyon. Scheduled to carry 800 passengers, the vessel is equipped for only 200, they insisted.

Lt. Comdr. Shields, assistant port director, reported he was investigating.

"These sailors object strenuously around here, but when thay're coming back from overseas they would ride on deck in a snowstorm," he declared. "They're not being loaded until it's unsafe from a health standpoint and I don't think they're being loaded in refrigerator cars."

The two senators indicated they were interested in whether the file disclosed any prewar agreements between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

2. Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif), a committee member, refused to give Democratic members the name of a naval officer he said had advised him that the U. S. Cruiser Boise sighted a Japanese naval force at sea in the week before Pearl Harbor but did not report it because of orders for radio silence. Rep. Murphy (D-Pa) asked for the officer's name and was backed up by Senator Lucas (D-Ill). Gearhart has asked that the Boise's log be produced for the committee.

Spy Signals Charged

3. Ferguson told the committee he will prove later that the Navy knew the day before Pearl Harbor that a spy had arranged for visual signals from Hawaii to Japanese vessels lurking off the coast.

Richardson related that Admiral William D. Leahy, then governor of Puerto Rico, was also at the White House luncheon. After the war, Leahy became the President's personal chief of staff.

The question whether the Asiatic fleet should be strengthened was raised, Richardson said. This was a small fleet under Admiral Thomas Hart (now Republican senator from Connecticut) and based in the Philippines.

Leahy was asked for advice.

Would Lose All Sent

"Leahy said whatever was sent would be lost and that he would send only old battleships," Richardson testified.

He said he advised against sending additional ships and that none was sent.

The Asiatic fleet eventually was destroyed in fighting to hold back the Japanese from the Dutch Indies.

The carriers, he explained, could put their planes into the air only when underway themselves and fields were needed for naval pilots to get in their flying time.

"I believed the fleet could be better prepared for war on the west coast," he added.

Exhibit Challenged

Ferguson challenged the correctness of one exhibit given the committee. This is a message purportedly send by the spy, a man named Kita, from Honolulu to Tokyo on Dec. 3 arranging about the signals.

As given to the committee, it bears a notation that it was decoded on Dec. 11, 1941, four days after the Pearl Harbor attack. Ferguson declared he had information that a translation "in the rough" was made at noon Dec. 6 and was in the Navy's hands "by 1:30, not later than 2 o'clock."

The Michigan senator also challenged a Navy report that a coded message, "Climb Mt. Niitaka," broadcast from Toyko on Dec. 5, gave the Japanese task force the final signal for its attack on the Hawaiian naval base.

AUSTIN, Nov. 19. (AP)—Members of the Texas State Guard are not exempt from payment of the $1 poll tax for support of public schools but may vote without payment of the additional 75 cents tax by meeting certain requirements, the Attorney General's department said in an opinion today.

Hoodlums Leave Trail Of Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Police dispatched 19 "rolling arsenals" to patrol city streets today as one killing, one holdup and another attempted holdup underscored a mounting eruption of crime.

The wave of violence has cost the lives of 62 persons in 70 days.

The "traveling arsenals," equipped with tear gas grenades, rifles, machine guns and powerful search lights, were assigned to 24-hour-a-day patrol duty. They were manned by three detectives and a driver.

Other Violence Flares

But even as an under-manned police force put the new measure into effect a man died of bullet wounds in Harlem hospital, four bandits armed with a machine gun attempted an $18,000 holdup and four others escaped with $1,250 from a Bronx tavern.

Police Commissioner Arthur Wallander ordered the extra patrol yesterday after the city taxpayers union demanded 5,000 war veterans be appointed special deputy sheriffs to quell what it termed "the present crime wave prevalent in our city."

The police department has 4,017 unfilled vacancies—in addition to men still in the armed forces and on leave.

Two Policemen Killed

Since last Jan. 1, five policemen have met violent death. The last was Patrolman Francis G. McKeon, killed Saturday. He was walking two beats, police reported, because his station was short 19 men.

The first nine days of this month brought violent death to 11 persons.

This was nearly three times higher than the number of violent deaths in the same period last year.

Aviation Clinic Told U. S. Must Remain First In Air To Aid World

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19 (AP)—America must remain first in the air as a foremost safeguard for world peace in the Buck Rogers era the world is now entering, the national aviation clinic was told today.

John F. Victory, executive secretary of the national advisory committee for aeronautics in Washington, warned that the "next great war will be sudden and total" with the decision "likely going to the nation that strikes the first hard blow."

He told the opening session of the third annual clinic conference that America no longer can count on oceans or allies to keep war from its shores for many months after hostilities start while it develops its military power.

Military Science

"The charter of the United Nations gives hope that American military science may never again be put to the acid test of a great war," he said, "but the only realistic guarantee of security is the maintenance of military strength sufficient to discourage attack."

He pointed out that the Allies dropped 2,300,000 tons of bombs on the Germans to "accomplish the destructive effect of 124 atomic bombs." He said that even the best of American wartime aircraft was already obsolescent.

Aeronautics, even without atomic energy," he said, "is on the threshold of a new era that will further revolutionize warfare, shrink time and distance, and bring the peoples of the earth closer together in forced recognition of the fact that we all live in one world and must find a way to get along with one another, or risk our vaunted civilization being returned to the ages in the dust of atomic bombs."

Must Remain Strong

Victory said a strong America, armed with the almost unbelievable aeronautical weapons being perfected by our scientists, would be the best guarantee that the objectives of the United Nations organization could be achieved.

He foresaw pilotless aircraft and rocket-type missles with almost unlimited speeds.

"We feel a great sense of urgency about our mission to keep America first in the air," Victory said.

"Were it not for the wisdom of Congress in establishing and supporting this basic research organization (national advisory committee for aeronautics) and were it not for the faith of the military services and of America's great aviation industry in its research findings, we might now be studying German and Japanese and learning to obey Hitler or Tojo."

The scientific group, he said, would concentrate henceforth on the fundamentals of new aircraft, especially for transoceanic and supersonic flight.

Extremely high speeds are not now feasible for commercial aircraft, the scientist pointed out, because of greatly increased fuel consumption.

"High speed may be too costly if more power is the only way to achieve it," he said, "for the power required at 1,500 miles per hour may be 40 times that required at 500 miles per hour.

He thought, however, that an application of gas turbine engines and jet propulsion would increase the speed of commercial transports to 500 miles per hour.

A number of out-of-town relatives had arrived here Sunday to be with Mrs. Enochs and more were expected today.

Contract Is Awarded For Sewer Line Work

Contract for construction of an interceptor line for the downtown sanitary sewer line was let Monday afternoon by City commissioners to the R. H. Fulton company of Lubbock. The bid was accepted on an alternate basis for $55,936.

Fulton's bid was one of two offered for the work, the other coming from the Sherman Machine & Iron Works of Oklahoma City. Its total bid was $80,540.98 and alternate bid of $79,119.02. Fulton's total bid was $56,646.

The line will relieve the central section of the old sanitary sewer line put down for the main business section in 1911. It will start in the eastern part of Lubbock in the vicinity of the Lubbock Compress and run to Fourteenth and Avenue A, running up Fourteenth to the alley west of Ave. M and north on Ave. M to the alley between Main and Broadway, intercepting the main line there and relieving the old line of much of the flow west of Ave. M.

Work is expected to be started within a few days.

Production of dairy farm machinery and equipment in 1944 had a value of $36,000,000 compared with $23,000,000 in 1943, and $22,000,000 in 1941.

U.S., Soviet Rule Over Korea Causing Concern For Natives

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Foreign News Editor

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 19—The 38th parallel promises to become one of history's famous boundaries.

It divides Korea roughly in half. There the postwar world's two mightiest political and economic systems, the American and Russian, both claiming they are bringing freedom and democracy to the Koreans, meet but don't mingle or cooperate.

The 38th is virtually an impossible barrier. It is the main reason why the Koreans are far from happy over the current phase of their liberation. The question they most often ask Americans is when the barrier will be razed. Americans here are unable to answer.

No Liaison On Military

"There's no liaison on the military level," is the way the highest United States officers phrase it. They mean that any effective dicussion of Korea's future must occur in Washington and Moscow.

It is felt here that the 38th's barrier is likely to persist until the United States and the Soviet agree on many other questions, such as how Japan shall be ruled and the future of eastern and central Europe and the Turkish straits.

Meanwhile, although Koreans south of the border are agitating for power in the projected Korean state through 50-odd political parties, they feel that this ferment is of lesser importance while the fate of the country depends on two distant capitals.

Moscow Silent On Issue

Partition of Korea is not of Americans' seeking. They made numerous attempts to establish cooperation so as to permit Korea to resume a normal economic existence, but without avail. The Russians are not unfriendly. They merely say all questions must go to higher levels. When they are submitted to Moscow there simply is no reply.

American officers say there is no friction along the 38th parallel, that immediate contact of frontier units is even cordial, with local visits back and forth.

U. S. Plans Pushed

But all normal railway and raid travel, all mails and the telegraph are cut at the 38th. What news comes from the north is mostly brought by Koreans slipping through the Russian lines and whose accounts are not all taken at face value. Some of these Koreans say the Russians are removing quantities of machinery and other industrial equipment to Siberia, but the Americans say such reports have not been authenticated.

Despite the degree of economic and political paralysis imposed by the 38th barrier, the American military government pushes ahead on its program of economic and educational rehabilitation. Under Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding American forces in Korea, Maj. Gen. Arch V. Arnold as governor general directs the lives of 17,000,000 from a massive white stone structure in the heart of Seoul from which the Mikado's proconsuls ruled the country nearly four decades ago.

The AMG, employing some 600 officers and thousands of enlisted men established at all the main centers, has taken over the great economic combines through which the Japanese exploited Korea and is now seeking to make them work to the Koreans' benefit.

Through these organs the AMG is trying to revive the economy which the Japanese, sensing disaster, managed to sabotage seriously through inflation and otherwise in the war's last months.

Match And Gas Tank Meet; Result—No Car

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 19. (U.P.)—No matter how you figure it, a full gasoline tank and a match always come out the same.

Early yesterday morning Ernest Benjamin of Albuquerque ran his car into a ditch, according to Assistant Fire Chief Milton Grande.

Benjamin's passenger crawled from the car and because it was so dark, helpfully lit a match and—you guessed it.

Firemen did all they could to rescue the blazing automobile, but to no avail. It is still in the ditch, ripe for collection by the junk man.

Ezra Pound Doubtful Anyone In U. S. Has Heard His Talks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. (U.P.)—Ezra Pound, expatriate American poet who was brought to this country from Italy to face treason charges, doubted today whether "anyone has the faintest idea" what he said in his broadcasts from Rome during the war.

Pound arrive last night aboard an Army plane in the custody of U. S. Army officers. They turned him over to U. S. deputy marshals who lodged him in the district jail.

To Handle Defense

Federal Judge Bolitha Laws fixed Nov. 27 for Pound's formal arraignment. Pound inisisted that he wanted to handle his own defense, but after some discussion Judge Laws announced he would appoint counsel for him later.

"All I want is to tell the truth," Pound said. "I came here in 1939 to do what I could to keep this hell from breaking loose.

Challenges Charges

"Does anyone have the faintest idea what I actually said in Rome?" Pounds asked newsmen upon his arrival. "Get over the idea that I bertayed anybody. Wipe that idea out."

He disclosed that he had written "quite a bit" of poetry while held incommunicado by the Allies in Italy and "the few people who have seen it think it is good." He said he also had translated two books of Confucius.

A group of Italian radio workers, including announcers from radio Rome, recently were brought to this country to testify against Pound when he is brought to trial on charges of having made treasonable broadcasts.

The first flight of the Wright brothers caused no excitement either in the daily press or in scientific publications. "Gleanings in Bee Culture," a magazine devoted to the production of honey, was the first to carry an article about their achievement.

Truman Proposes Broad Five-Point Compulsory National Health Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—President Truman today proposed a broad five-point national health program, recommending that Congress adopt a compulsory national health insurance system for the prepayment of medical costs.

Stressing that what he was recommending was "not socialized medicine," the President set forth his program in a lengthy message to the House and Senate.

Aid To Build Hospitals

Mr. Truman's basic recommendations for legislative action were:

1. Federal aid for construction of hospitals, health centers and other facilities where they are needed.

2. Increased use of federal funds to expand cooperative state-federal public health, maternal and child health services.

3. Federal aid to support more adequate professional education and the advancement of research on the cause, prevention and cure of cancer and mental illnesses.

4. A compulsory national health insurance system to assure prepayment of medical costs under a plan which would leave patients free to choose their own doctors and hospitals.

5. Disability insurance for protection against loss of wages because of sickness and disability.

Careful Attention Urged

The President urged Congress to give careful consideration to his program now. The nation's economic productivity, he said, will increase in direct ration to improvement in the national health.

The President, saying that all American citizens should have ready access to all necessary medical and hospital services, recommended that the basic problem involved be solved by distributing the costs through expansion of the existing compulsory Social Security insurance system.

Mr. Truman proposed compulsory health insurance which would cover medical, hospital, nursing and laboratory services, and dental care.

His plan would call for establishment of a national health fund which he said would assure adequate support for doctors and hospitals everywhere.

Decentralized System

He proposed that the nationwide system be highly decentralized in its administration with local administrative units adapting local services to local needs and conditions.

Subject to national standards, methods and rates of paying doctors and hospitals would be adjusted locally, and these rates would be adjusted upward for qualified specialists.

Repeatedly emphasizing that his plan would not amount to socialized medicine, the President said the people should remain free to choose their own doctors and hospitals. Removal of financial barriers between the patient and the doctor, he asserted, "would enlarge the present freedom of choice."

Decision On Services

The legal requirement that the people would have to contribute to the program would not, the President emphasized, affect the doctors' freedom to decide what services their patients needed.

At the same time, he added, the people would remain free to obtain and pay for medical services outside the health insurance system just as they are now free to send their children to private instead of tax-supported schools.

The President pointed out that present Social Security taxes and benefits are calculated on the first $3,000 earnings in a year. He suggested that it might be well to have all such premiums, including those for health, calculated on a somewhat higher amount, such as $3,600.

Four Per Cent Involved

Mr. Truman estimated that his program of prepayment for medical care would require approximately four per cent of these earnings. This would mean, roughly speaking, that the President's plan would involve a four per cent deduction from the first $3,600 of earnings in a year.

He said the American people have been spending, on the average, nearly four per cent of their incomes for sickless care.

"How much of the total fund should come from the insurance premiums and how much from general revenues is a matter for the Congress to decide," the President said.

He proposed that insurance against loss of wages from sickness and disability be provided through expansion of the present social insurance system through adjustment of premiums.

Westerners, Red Raiders To End Grid Season This Week

The Lubbock Westerners and Texas Tech Red Raiders opened the season's last week of football practice Monday, with the two teams rolling toward the final game on each schedule, with the picture in both games exactly the same.

Both teams are going against traditional foes, the Westerners playing the Amarillo Golden Sandies and the Red Raiders playing the New Mexico Lobos, traditional Border Conference foe.

Less than 150 tickets remained on hand for the Thanksgiving day grid classic at Amarillo, pairing the Lubbock Westerners and the Amarillo Golden Sandies, E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director at Lubbock schools, said last night. Fans who have made reservations are urged to pick them up today, and if not picked up by Wednesday will be replaced on sale. Ticket sales are being conducted at the athletic office at the Senior high school.

Both will be playing away from home. The only difference in the picture will be that Lubbock High will play Thursday and Texas Tech on Saturday.

Both Lose Once

The only defeat charged against Amarillo is a 20 to 13 scoring duel with the powerful Odessa Bronchos. The only defeat suffered by the Lobos was a 21-20 scoring spree with Utah.

Both Lubbock teams lost their last time out, the Westerners losing to Pampa, a team generally rated in the top ten schoolboy clubs in Texas, a 0-0 tie that went to Pampa by penetrations. The Red Raiders were beaten 46 to 6 by the Oklahoma Aggies, rated sixth in the nation in the poll of the Associated Press.

To add to the picture, both Lubbock teams will enter the final games as the underdogs, with nothing to gain but prestige. Amarillo will be playing to keep its perfect conference record intact, and drive another nail into the flag pole on which they hope to fly the District 1-AA banner. New Mexico will be seeking to get by this last hurdle, with hopes that the victory over the Red Raiders will land the boys from the "Land of Enchantment" into the bowl picture on New Year's.

Seldom if ever, did the two top grid teams from Lubbock ever go into the season's finale with the picture so much alike, except the 1939 season, when the Westerners won the state title and the Red Raiders played St. Mary's in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. Both were underdogs then.

Westerners Scrimmage

The Westerners were idle last week, and Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick gave their lads an early holiday, but when work resumed at Chapman field, it has been driven hard, and Monday the Westerners were scrimmaging hard.

The team should be in top condition for the game Thursday afternoon on Butler field, and a real offensive duel between George Brewer of the Westerners, rated as the No. 1 back of the district, and Harland Collins, the powerful running speedster of the Sandies.

Several of the Westerners have been showing rapid improvement over the recent games on the schedule, but perhaps the one showing the greatest improvement is O. C. Foster, big tackle who spent the summer pushing over trees in New Mexico, and has been showing great form at workouts during the past week.

The Red Raiders returned from Stillwater, and their runin with Bob Fenimore, the Blonde Bullet, with no serious injuries showing up from the game, and started right in Monday afternoon with the important business of shaping up an offense to be hurled at the Lobos.

"There was no rough work Monday, but plenty of it, and Coach Dell Morgan indicated that the team would see plenty of rough work before the week was over.

The forest area of Canada is 1,220,405 square miles.

Sam Byrd Takes Mobile Tourney

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 19. (AP)—Sam Byrd of Detroit blazed in with a three-under-par 69 to win the $10,000 Azalea Open golf tournament today by one stroke in a playoff with Dutch Harrison of Little Rock.

The win gave the stocky former New York Yankee outfielder first prize money of $2,000 in victory bonds. Harrison, who wound up with a 70, took second prize money of $1,333 in victory bonds.

The two professionals were forced into an extra round when they ended up regular play yesterday with duplicate scores of 283.

Matching shot for shot, the two were stroke for stroke and birdie for birdie the same through the first nine holes coming in with two under-par 34's.

Harrison broke the ice on the 436-yard 10th hole by ramming down in a 12-foot putt for a birdie three while Byrd was down in a regulation four.

Harrison held his one-stroke lead until the decisive 15th.

Byrd almost lost his advantage on the difficult par-four 17th hole when his second shot missed the green, but he putted up within 18 inches of the cup and made his par. Harrison missed a birdie three here by inches and his lost change was gone.

Army Paper Raps At Athlete's Discharge

HONOLULU, Nov. 19. (AP)—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes asserted editorially today that demobilization of big-name athletes with low point scores is undermining morale of service men in the Pacific.

"It now seems," said the editorial, "that the function of some big-name baseball, football and other athletic stars is—perhaps unwittingly—to help lower the morale of overseas service men . . . Frankly, we don't want the demobilization program degenerating into a wild scramble for discharges based upon whom you know, how much dough you've got, how much seniority your senator has on a certain committee, or whether you're the star quarterback for deplorable state.

"We think this type of 'angling' should be thoroughly investigated to prevent any recurrences."

The paper said that early in November, 37 Army Air Force baseball players were flown home after playing exhibitions in the Central Pacific. It named Enos Slaughter, Dario Lodigiani, Joe Marty, Walt Judnich, George Tebbetts, Joe Gordon, Max West, Cecil Hudson, Howie Pollett and Al Dean, among others.

Oklahoma Aggies Jump To Sixth

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Army grabbed all but two of the first place votes today, in the Associated Press' weekly poll to determine the country's ten top ranking college football teams in the second greatest display of voters'unanimity in the 10 years of balloting.

Only Notre Dame's clean sweep of all the first place votes in a tabulation two years ago exceeded the popularity of the Cadets, who placed second on two ballots and first on the remaining 81.

Granting 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc., Army piled up 828 tallies with the same ease with which the West Pointers spilled Pennsylvania last Saturday, 61 to 0.

Navy Holds Second

Navy, Army's foe in Philadelphia's huge municipal stadium on Dec. 1, held on to second place in the tabulation with 700 points although the two dissenting sports writers cast one first place vote for Alabama and the other for the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Crimson Tide players, who accentuated their willingness to appear in a Jan. 1 bowl by drubbing Vanderbilt last week by a 71 to 0 score, are third and are followed in order by Indiana, Notre Dame, Oklahoma A. & M., Ohio State, Michigan, St. Mary's of California and Texas.

Aggies Jump High

With the four leaders of a week ago retaining their same positions, Notre Dame moved from seventh to fifth. The double-barreled jump of the Irish was duplicated by both Oklahoma A. & M. and Ohio State with St. Mary's, its unblemished record ruined by USCA, slipping from fifth to ninth.

Michigan, fourteenth in the previous ratings, bounded back into the elite group after its victory over Purdue and now rests in eighth place. Texas advanced from 17th to tenth. Pennsylvania, Army's most recent victim, skidded from sixth to eleventh and Holy Cross, an unbeaten bowl candidate before it encountered Temple, slumped from tenth to 23rd place.

Leaders Are Idle

Both Army and Navy are idle this week preparing for their service clash and the only game Saturday, the final big week-end of the season, that involves two of the top ten teams pits Ohio State against Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The leading teams: (first place votes in parenthesis):

Army (81)	828
Navy	700
Alabama (1)	611
Indiana	539
Notre Dame	496
Oklahoma A. & M.	336
Ohio State	239
Michigan	204
St. Mary's	133
Texas	101

Second ten:

11, Penn 84; 12, UCLA (1) 74; 13, Virginia 60; 14, Tennessee 36; 15, Duke 35; 16, Missouri 32; 17, Tulsa 21; 18, Purdue 20; 19, Louisiana State 16; 20, Mississippi State 12.

Honorable mention: Columbia 10, Georgia 9, Holy Cross 8, Temple and Rice 5 each, Southern California 2, Washington 2.

Wilson Touchers Get Rematch With Dupre

It won't mean a thing, but it might soothe a lot of feelings. That is the background of the "Championship" touch football game scheduled at 4 o'clock at Dupre field between the undefeated, untied Dupre Dogies and the once beaten, once tied Wilson Wranglers.

Coach Frank Ford of the Wranglers pointed out that his team, with only one workout, was beaten only 6-0 by the powerful Dogies. The Wranglers have been so sure they have the best team, they have begged for another chance to play, with nothing at stake but prestige. The result was today's "Dupre Bowl" game.

Ike Williams Matched With Chalky Wright

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (AP)—Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., holder of the NBA lightweight boxing championship, and Chalky Wright of Los Angeles will meet in a ten-round fight at Madison Square Garden, Monday night, Dec. 10, Promoter Mike Jacobs' office said today.

Williams' title will not be at stake, since he is not recognized as the champion in New York.

TYSON NAMED COACH

BEAUMONT, Tex., Nov. 19. (AP) Paul Tyson, veteran coach at South Park High school, has been named head coach of the Texas squad for the fourth annual bi-state all-star charity football with the Louisiana All-Stars.

The game will be played at Orange the night of Dec. 21.

Three Games Needed To Name 1-AA Champ

Two down and fourteen to go.

That is the Texas schoolboy grid picture as the teams swing toward the traditional battles of Turkey Day this week, and with three more ball games on the District 1-AA slate that will either make or break the three teams battling for a place in the limelight.

There can emerge an undisputed winner, or the race could be tied almost any way one could ask for, between Amarillo, Pampa and Plainview. Three more games remain, matching these three teams, with two of them games between the three leaders.

Plainview In Spotlight

The spotlight this week will be on the Plainview stadium, where unbeaten Pampa plays once beaten Plainview. On the same day, Amarillo will be host to the oft beaten Lubbock Westerners, a team that isn't being figured in the championship picture.

Then comes the Dec. 1 game between the unbeaten leaders of the race, Amarillo Sandies playing at the lair of the Pampa Harvesters, and the race won't be settled until those two teams play each other on Saturday week.

Paris, Milby "In"

There have been two district winners named, and they await the naming of their bi-district foes. Paris has tucked away the banner in District 5, and Milby was crowned in District 13 two weeks ago. The other fourteen districts in the state are still waiting to name the team that will move into the bi-district play in early December.

All districts, except 1-AA, will likely name the winners this week, however there are strong chances that some others will have to wait for later games.

All of the interest in District 1-AA is centered on the three big games remaining, but there is one other on the schedule that a couple of towns in the area are thinking a lot about. Borger plays at Brownfield Thursday, closing the schedule for both schools. The game will make no difference in the naming of the district flag winner, but should provide some gridiron fireworks.

Sandies, Pampa Favored

The chances are very good that Amarillo and Pampa will go into the Dec. 1 battle undefeated in conference play, although Amarillo has been beaten by Odessa and Pampa tied by Lubbock.

Pampa is expected to have the toughest sledding of the week, playing the potent Bulldogs at Plainview. The Bulldogs had a letdown, and lost to Amarillo, but should come back strong this week, with a chance for a tie at the flag in the making. A Pampa victory at Plainview would erase the pass minded Bulldogs completely from the picture.

Amarillo is not due to have any pushover with the Westerners, but with the game on the sacred turf of Butler field, the Sandies will be a favorite that is backed by tradition and over the state is not rated to be pressed too hard.

Girls Cage Entries Run High This year

HILLSBORO, Tex., Nov. 19. (AP)—Entries in the state high school girls basketball league already exceed the total membership of last year, Director General, L. C. McKamie, Hillsboro, reported.

Deadline for entering teams is Dec. 15. Aquilla, Hill county, has copped the championship tournament the last two years.

Jaycees To Sponsor Dunbar-Abilene Tilt

Dunbar High school's rough and tumble football eleven coming fresh from a 20-0 victory over previously undefeated San Angelo Negro high school will close out Lubbock's home grid season here Thursday afternoon in Tech stadium when they are hosts to the Abilene negro eleven.

The local colored team whipped the Abilene squad 55-0 in a previous encounted. The game Turkeyday will be under Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsorship with profits going to the Jaycees, to finance the youth rallies now in progress here, and the negro high school fund.

The approximate 900 local fans who witnessed last Friday night's Dunbar victory will vouch for the local team's potency. They showed onlookers that they had a fine all-round club that could be potent in any department.

Their running game is headed by O. T. Love, Buster Deo and Leandree Johnson. Deo furnishes all the needed power while Love and Johnson ran the San Angelo team dizzy last week with their lightning-like end sweeps and off-tackle quick-opening dashes. It was Johnson who whipped 50 yards for a score after a pass interception and Love set up one touchdown with a 40 yard dash deep into San Angelo territory.

If Abilene can stymie this trio of versatile colored lads then Gene Lawson can come to the rescue with a little aid from his ends. Lawson showed a lot of talent last week with his running passes. On several occasions he ran wide toward the sidelines, leaped into the air and heaved perfect aerials deep downfield to receivers. Poor receiving cost the locals at least two scores.

Kickoff is slated for 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Tickets are on sale at the Woody Tire company and the Dunbar high school. Jaycees are canvassing the city with tickets, also. The west stands at the stadium will be reserved for colored fans.

Limes that are green in color and heavy for their size are the most desirable.

Sudan Prepares For Littlefield

SUDAN, Nov. 19 (Special)—From the by-ways and the highways will come the crowd Thursday afternoon, and 2,000 fans are expected to jam into the grid home of the Sudan Hornets when Coach Francis Smith sends his undefeated, untied charges against the point a minute Littlefield Wildcats at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Littlefield proclaimed that all opposition had been removed when they scored an "impressive victory" over the Levelland Lobos several weeks ago. But Sudan's Hornets kept plodding along, and go into the game this week contesting the right of the Wildcats to be called the favorite of the game.

With Smith using his second team almost half of the ball game, the Hornets took the last hurdle before the Littlefield game last week, scoring at 32 to 6 victory over the Olton Mustangs. At the same time, Littlefield was winning 38-0 over the Cowhands Black from Lubbock.

Coach Smith came to Sudan this year from Kansas, and started right in making himself a reputation in the coaching fields of West Texas. He brought the Hornets along slowly, gaining speed with each passing game, and thunders into the big battle this week with the team undefeated and untied.

The Wildcats, many of the returning veterans of last year's regional finalist club, has been stopped but once this year, this a narrow battle with the vaunted Ballinger Bearcats of Region Three, and the Wildcats have been rolling up impressive scores against all comers.

It is the final conference game on the District 5-A schedule and on its outcome will rest the naming of the foe for the bi-district tilt with the District 6-A winner.

Armour's Cuts Lead Of. West Texas Club

Armour's trimmed the lead of the West Texas Gassers to one game in the City League bowling race Monday night at the Plamor alleys, sweeping three straight over S. & Q. Clothiers by a forfeit, while West Texas was winning two over Meads Bakery.

The Lions club also turned in a clean sweep, taking three in a row from Hub Laundry, while the Jaycees won a pair from Birdseye Food.

Giles of Birdeye set the scoring pace for the night, toppling 224 pins for the best single game, and a series high of 594 pins.

About New Car Prices

Local Dealers Take Good Stand

IN THE furore and welter of statements from Washington and the motor capitals of the nation, various impressions have been received by individuals as regards the price schedule for 1946 model automobiles.

Some persons have gotten the impression that Lubbock automobile dealers, as well as their counterparts in every town and city in the nation, have been "pressuring" the Office of Price administration for an increase in price of 1946 models as compared with similar 1942 models, last available to the public since the demands of war curtailed new car production. That impression is false—and unfair to the individual automobile dealer.

Members of the Lubbock New Car Dealers association—16 in number and each likewise a member of the National Automobile Dealers association—do not like to be blamed for something they didn't do. Like the rest of us, they don't mind justifying any stand they may see fit to take. But they don't want to be put in position of having to defend themselves against something with which they have had no connection.

Lubbock New Car Dealers association members want the public here to know two things. First, they unanimously testify, no local new car dealer in any way attempted to influence OPA to grant an increased retail price of 1946 model cars. Secondly, neither their local association, nor the National Automobile Dealers association, made any such effort. Says a Lubbock New Car Dealers association statement:

"The National Automobile Dealers association (NADA) did campaign against OPA's sharply paring dealers' discounts, but asked no increase of 1946 discounts as compared with those of 1942. All NADA did was urge OPA to maintain the 1942 discounts. Such maintenance, we think, can be justified by dealers and will be satisfactory to the automobile-buying public. Our local association did not ask an increase in delivery price. Neither did the NADA."

Despite all the hew and cry regarding motor car prices, and dealer discounts, as well, members of the Lubbock New Car Dealers association have gone on record as favoring "holding the line" against inflation in their own field, as well as in all other fields. Furthermore, in being willing to operate now on the identical discounts as were in effect on 1942 models, they prove their good faith, for in the automobile business, as in all others, today's operation costs are far ahead of those of pre-war days.

The Morning Avalanche believes Lubbock's new car dealers deserve credit for their stand in favor of "holding the line" against inflation. They should be commended, too, for endorsing another principle, that of opposing government by "pressure groups" and the theory, so popular in the land today, that Congressional actions and official discisions should be made in accordance with the amount of applied "pressure," rather than in line with the best interests of the majority of the people of the nation.

If all of us, everywhere in the U. S., will adopt stands similar to those announced by the Lubbock New Car Dealers association, the nation's return to normalcy will be accelerated and made easier, as well.

Stricter Courts Needed

WHEN considering counter-measures for the nation's spreading crime wave, greater attention should be given to more vigorous prosecution, a stricter judicial attitude on suspended sentences and less emphasis on the youthfulness of defendants.

There is too much bickering and dealing with robbers and burglars in order to get them to plead guilty. Prosecuting attorneys in too many cases are recommending light sentences as "trades" for pleas of guilty.

Underworld grapevine keeps criminals informed of the localities where courtroom leniency prevails, and the lawbreakers play their operations accordingly. When they think they will not have to face a jury, they figure they can afford to take a chance of getting caught, as they can then "make a deal" with a lazy prosecutor and thus avoid a trial.

It is common practice to give an offender a suspended sentence if he has not previously been charged with a crime. The practice, in effect, gives everyone a license to commit at lease one crime. The records show that a far greater number of first offenders go on to participate in other crimes than take the law-abiding path.

Many defendants are allowed to go scot-free for the sole reason that they are youthful, other considerations being put aside. The law says that when a person reaches the age of 16, he knows the difference between right and wrong. It is reasonable that a citizen will be just as dead when shot by a 17-year-old as by a man 40 years old.

Under our present system, one of the few ways we can arrest crime is to give good, stiff sentences—and see that they are served out—and thus serve as a warning to criminals.

I FALL IN LOVE
XXXI

Among the friends that were so kind to me was George Frame Brown. When I was able to walk again, I gratefully accepted his kind invitation to convalesce at his country home in Saugerties, New York.

While talking over the visit, he suggested I bring my rigging with me, also Bill, and try to practice a little again, with a view to building up my morale. The doctors had been dubious about whether or not I could ever work again, on account of the back injury, but that very doubt made me more determined to have a try at it anyway. Other aerial artists who visited me were dead set against my ever attempting to use Bill in my work again and offered to find a more responsible person—a younger one—who could be depended on to hang my apparatus safely.

They brought a young man to see me one evening, when I was still far from well enough to talk intelligently or pay very much attention to his personality, but I did notice that in neither appearance nor manner of speaking was he the usual type of rough-and-ready rigger from the circus. He was working with the Ringling show, somewhere near New York, and when he left, I forgot all about my promise to let him know when I needed someone for my act, nor did I remember it when setting out in the car with old Bill and my dog for George Brown's place in the country.

Gradually I became strong enough to swing again and soon realized I would be able to prove to the doctors that they had been overcautious.

Before leaving for New York, George, who had watched me practice every day, said very seriously that I should get another rigger. His imitations of Bill swinging me, and the fact that he was so jittery that an audience was bound to notice it, convinced me he not only was a drawback to the act but also could mean another disaster before long. Upon my return to town, I reluctantly let the old man go, feeling sorry about it but realizing George was right.

I was still in no condition to take any dates as yet but was contemplating employing someone to practice with a few hours every day, when I received a letter signed Robert F. Matz, Jr. This was the young man from Ringling's whom my friends had recommended. He asked me to reply if I was ready to use him, and suggested leaving his present occupation immediately and coming to New York. I hesistated engaging a full-time assistant when I was not able to work, but before I had time to answer his letter, the young gentleman in question arrived at my hotel, announcing his readiness to begin work at once.

The more I talked to him, the more I realized that a rigger with his build and appearance was too rare an asset to my act for me to let go. He was tall and very fair, in his lean thirties, with Nordic blue eyes and a smile that had sunshine in it. When I discovered he had an unusual love for all animals, which gave us much in common, I started practicing with him, hiding my aches and pains as best I could.

From New York I transferred my rigging to a lot in Long Island, where they was plenty of room and height, and all through the beautiful summer days as we drove to and from New York, I found out he especially liked dogs, and that I liked him. To make a long story short, I accepted a date at Playland, Rye Beach, without the slightest idea as to how I would get the strength to work but feeling that I had to get started for pressing financial reasons. While struggling through my act and suffering the tortues of hell, our romance grew, and through that, I somehow got the necessary will to keep going—though several times I nearly fell from weakness.

On my way out from Europe some months before I had disambarked in Montevideo, where, through the services of Dr. Fitzsimon, I obtained my liberty from Captain Strudwick. This was sometimes I had long hesitated to do, for religious reasons, but father wanted me to be free, and after mother's death, we had decided upon this course.

Now, after finishing a wonderful mad fortnight at Rye Playland, Bobbie and I drove down to Baltimore and, with my dog as best man, were married. We spent the rest of the summer in a cottage on Long Island, where Bobbie prepared his own trapeze act and I endeavored to get my health back and practice with him. We played the usual tour of vaudeville houses all over the states and my act, which now included some double tricks with him, began to get good press notices.

The following summer of 1939 brought better salaries and reputation than ever.

We played the Erie Fair when the declaration of war came over the air one quiet Sunday afternoon while we were in our hotel. As we listened, a chill crept over me, and an icy hand seemed to be crushing my heart.

When we arrived at the fairground that afternoon, a strange thing happened. I was in my dressing tent, waiting for my act to go on, when suddenly instead of the familiar music of the "Beer Barrell Polka," which the band played for one of the acts, I heard the stirring strains of the Marseillaise." My hands grew cold while listening, and I questioned a passing performer about the reason for it. He answered that nobody could understand why the band played it, unless by mistake, having got the score mixed in their music in some unusual way.

Scientific Treasures Recovered In Japan

TOKYO, Nov. 19. (AP)—In the plunder sent to Japan by her Army and recovered by occupation authorities are priceless scientific treasures that came from the cave of the Peking man—one of man's earliest known ancestors.

The recovered loot, it was learned today, included crude tools, carved teeth jewelry and charts showing where the articles were discovered originally in a limestone cave at Choukoutien near Peking in 1929.

But the bones of the Peking man (Sianthropus Pekinesis) were well hidden by the Chinese and escaped a three-year search by Japanese scientists, seized letters revealed.

The articles were found at the Tokyo Imperial university after Japanese authorities informed Allied headquarters of their presence.

The Pekin man and the Java ape man (Pithecanthropus Erectus) both about a million years old are rivals for the title of man's earliest ancestor.

HARLINGEN MAN KILLED

McALLEN, Nov. 19. (AP)—A. E. Campbell, 58, Harlingen, was killed yesterday two miles north of Combes, near Harlingen, when he was mistaken for a deer by another hunter, Harlingen city police said today. Funeral services will be held in Harlingen today.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

A friend from California whom I had not seen for more than twenty years visited us yesterday and brought back many old memories to me.

I was very young in those days —just out of college—and, like so many cub reporters, made a little side money by being a press agent, or "public relations consultant," as they are called nowadays.

During one season I acted as press agent for the Yosemite National Park company and I'll never forget one stunt I staged—a wedding under Bridal Veil Falls.

BRANDEIS

Like most press agents I wasn't particularly daunted by the fact that there wasn't any couple that really wanted to get married, available at the moment. So I persuaded a college professor— whom I'll never forget because of his lovely beard—and a young school teacher to be the "bride" and "groom."

It was a beautiful wedding, indeed, with gorgeous bouquets of wild flowers and a band and a swell wedding dinner with hundreds of guests, and we even got a fellow to represent a minister and pronounce them man and wife. The next day pictures of the most unusual wedding appeared in several important California newspapers and I had written a swell story about this romantic affair in one of the world's most romantic and beautiful spots.

But two days later something happened that wasn't quite so romantic. The biggest one of the papers that ran the pictures and the story was served with a suit for $100,000 by the "bridegroom's" wife, and he himself was served with a divorce suit.

Well, I had a heck of a time straightening out the mess. But, being young and rather persuasive in those days, I finally did succeed in straitening it out—a sadder but much wiser young man.

As we sat talking, this California friend and I, we sorrowed over the death of another mutual friend who was a successful real estate operator. Many years ago he opened a new development in Alameda county, just across the bay from San Francisco. It was a beautiful spot and this fellow's advertisements brought many prospects. There was one thing lacking, however—there didn't seem to be any birds in that particular spot and several home-seekers told him so.

ON Sunday morning he asked me to come out with him, and when the first prospective buyers arrived, I noticed the most beautiful singing of birds I had ever heard. Several sales were made that day, and when my friend was ready to go home I saw him go to one of the trees and turn a switch. Immediately the singing of the birds stopped.

"I guess we can put the birdies sleep," he said, and we went home.

And then he told me that during the week he had had a lot of bird whistlers installed throughout the development, and all he had to do was to turn the switch and all the birdies would sing their sweet song.

But to his credit let me add that later on he really had a lot of real birds brought to the place so that none of the buyers were disappointed.

There isn't really any point to this story—but that is the way things happened many years ago —and maybe that is the way they still happen today.

I wouldn't know. I am very dignified in my middle age.

Lewis Speaks His Mind

UMW-AFL Challenges CIO Power

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE KEY controversy backstage at the Labor-Management conference revolves around the deliberate attempt of the Lewis-Green cohorts to liquidate federal control of their unions. The individualistic head of the United Mine Workers has finally persuaded "Brother Green" that they had put their heads in a noose when, beginning back in NRA days, they accepted favors from the government.

Now that the system and theory of collectíve bargaining have been established, they prefer to deal directly with employers when disputes arise over wages and hours. They are willing to take advantage of machinery which has been set up under specific statutes to aid in these negotiations. But they do not want to be strait-jacketed in the postwar period by Washington's decrees.

TUCKER

Lewis delivered a sharp lecture on the contrast between the status of the coal industry in the United States and that in Britain. Flinging facts and figures in the face of Philip Murray, who represents the Congress of Industrial Organizations at the powwow, he declared that capital, labor and consumers in this country posses advantages undreamed-of across the water.

He attributed our superior situation to American mines being operated in an open and free enterprise market, whereas he declared that the British coal industry has been strangled by bureaucratic regimentation.

A student of working conditions here and abroad, Lewis gave the CIO chieftain a lesson in elementary economics. The representatives of management left the classroom in high spirits at the theatrical performance staged by the Welshman who was born in Iowa.

GROWTH: Lewis climbed slowly out of his chair after the Wallace-Murray plea that the conference endorse the Truman program for linking the questions of wages, prices and profits under government's continuing control. Then he snarled these facts at his erstwhile friend and current opponent:

American miners produce six tons of coal for every ton their British co-workers dig. Wages in this country are three times those paid to Englishmen, and the price on this side of the water is less than one-third the charge to consumers in England. Progressing from his discussion of this single industry, he attributed this nation's industrial might and economic status to its growth within the framework of private enterprise.

FREE: He also twitted Henry Wallace and Murray with the fact that, largely because of the medieval conditions prevailing in the British industry, the Attlee government has been forced to sponsor a movement for nationalization of the mines. The CIO program, he concluded, would "perpetuate government control of prices and profits and fixation of wage scales," and he hinted that it might wind up with complete federalization of the coal and other major industries.

"That part of labor which I represent," he concluded, "does not want to become the shackled servant of the government! They believe it is a poor way to live! They want to be free men!"

OBLIGATION: The CIO conferees made no open or immediate reply to John L. But Co-chairmen Wallace and Murray have persistently put forward their aim at committee sessions and in conversations after hours with sympathetic representatives on their side.

The CIO-ers prefer a close tie-up with the government because they believe that they can eventually influence in Washington. Realizing that their progress in unionizing the mass industries and seizing ballot-box power has derived from their past alliance with the White House, they want to preserve that relationship.

The Wallace-Murray-Hillman faction realizes clearly that National Chairman "Bob" Hannegan relies on it for the renomination and election of the President in 1948. They figure that they have already put the administration under obligation by the votes they delivered in the recent municipal elections, and by the support they have given to Mr. Truman's legislative program on Capitol Hill.

HERO: Naturally, these leaders figure that they can make still greater gains in future wage disputes if they can call on the government for reinforcement. Therefore, they are furious at the Lewis-Green demand for a return to direct face-to-face and uncontrolled bargaining.

Those are the high stakes for which the hostile labor groups are warring. And because of his stand the bituminous boss, once regarded as the Robespierre of the unions by conservatives among management and members of Congress, has become their hero.

DIFFICULTIES: High officials in the State department blame current disturbances in South America on the free-and-easy spending and radical policies pursued by Nelson Rockefeller and Henry Wallace during the war. Now that the flow of funds has been curtailed, unrest and resentment are sweeping through the ranks of powerful political cliques and the mass of workers.

In negotiating contracts for the purchase of minerals, food and other products, Wallace and Rockefeller stipulated that the workers should be given large increases in pay. There was some grumbling that the higher wages would precipitate future difficulties, but inasmuch as the money came out of Uncle Sam's pocket, the owners complied. With the cancellation of orders at the end of the war, their worst fears were realized. There, as here labor wants more money to meet higher living costs.

ROCKS: To make matters worse our diplomats point out that the Truman administration quickly supplanted the Wallace-Rockefeller generosity with a "get tough" policy. Spruille Braden, former ambassador to Argentina but now head of the South American division in State, helped to oust the Rio de Janeiro dictators with a headmaster's lecture, although his triumph was only temporary. Other American representatives, notably A. A. Berle, jr., have presumed to tell the natives in somewhat harsh language how to behave themselves.

As a consequence of the quick change, our diplomats concede that Cordell Hull's "Good Neighbor" program has run on the rocks.

BROWNELL: Tom Dewey's foes in the national Republican organization — and he has more now than he had before the recent municipal elections in New York — would like to deliver a final "crusher" to his Presidential ambitions by deposing Herbert E. Brownell, jr. as national chairman. They may make the attempt when the big boys meet in a back room early in December to discuss the party's policies and prospects for 1946 and 1948.

The politicos have nothing against Brownell, personally. He is friendly and affable. But he is tagged as a Dewey man, and they think it is time to end the New York governor's nominal sway.

Moreover, national headquarters has shown hardly any activity on any front for many months. In a recent survey of numerous organizations' public relations success, the national GOP ranked last along with Montgomery Ward.

AGGRESSIVE: Tentative successor is Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, now chairman of the Republican Congressional committee. He favors a last-ditch, aggressive fight against the Truman administration on the theory that it out-New Deals the Rooseveltian regime. He could have the post if he would take it.

But the 44-year-old legislator does not think it wise for a member of Congress to hold the national chairmanship. If he advances a certain viewpoint in the heat of floor debate, it is often interpreted as the settled policy of the national party. And frequently a congressman says things that make him bite his lips when he reads them in the Congressional record.

Auto Leader Cites Management's Rights

Ford Steps Into Labor Issue

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Young Henry Ford II has stepped forward to assume the leadership of industry in a basic labor issue which has considerable significance. It is involved in the current automobile controversy seething in Detroit as well as in the labor - management conference here.

STOKES

"Management's right to manage" is the way it is put. Management raised it.

It is an effort to check the attempt by some labor organizations, notably the United Automobile Workers, to get a larger voice in management. The technique is illustrated by the insistence of Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president, in his negotiations with General Motors, that profits and prices must be considered in connection with wages.

This would require that labor share, through its representatives, in information as to profits and price relationships—in effect, opening the company's books. This would tend to make labor more a partner in industry, with its own economy considered a regular part of the whole economy of production. General Motors says profits and prices are none of the union's business.

But it went no further to defend its position.

Ford Makes Demands

Now Mr. Ford comes out as the champion of industry in an adroit counterattack. In reply to the union's request for negotiations with his company on the demand for a 30 per cent wage increase, he responded with a list of demands for 31 changes in the existing contract touching on union prerogatives of various sorts, some of them long-established and recognized rights. He held that union has misused some, violated others, in a way that creates work stoppages and loss in productivity.

The burden of his argument is that these matters affecting production should be adjust first before wage increases are considered as wages depend on the level of production. He says that the union must give the company "the same degree of security as we have given the union itself."

THIS all goes, on the company side, to the issue of "management's right to manage," as does the economic issue raised by Mr. Reuther with General Motors. The questions raised by Mr. Ford are the subject, too, of study by a labor-management conference committee here.

In stepping out as spokesman for the automobile industry, the young industrialist, who has taken over from his grandfather, thus gives notice of a common front by the industry. This is full of meaning. It becomes a major fight on a broad front. For steel and other big industries likewise seem to be a part of it.

Mr. Ford's action obviously came as quite a surprise to UAW. It had been thought that he would hold aloof, as his grandfather usually did, and in that way would be a help to the union. In its fight on the other two of automobile's big three. Now he has joined common cause. Labor does not look kindly on him for it.

Union Hurls Charges

The surprise was indicated in the bitter statement issued by Richard T. Leonard, director of UAW's Ford department, who said the Ford company's statement embracing its demands was "a union - busting, irresponsible and strike-provoking document."

It might, as a matter of fact, be so exploited.

Young Mr. Ford did take in a lot of territory in his demand for changes and modifications in existing union practices. Some involved seniority, while others would prohibit union representation in the first step in handling of grievances and require reimbursement by the union for damages due to violation of provisions prohibiting strikes and other interferences with production. The young man almost literally threw the whole book.

Mr. Leonard analyzed some of the important proposed changes to try to show that they would affect basic union rights.

HENRY FORD was capitalizing upon the general demand for more union responsibility and, in some issues, will get public support undoubtedly. The fact that labor organizations are vulnerable on some points he raised is no help to labor as a whole and is evidence of the need of discipline within labor's ranks, a need revealed also by some of the restrictive legislative proposals in Congress.

Nurse Kenney Unable To Come To Texas

AUSTIN, Nov. 19. (U.P.) — Nurse Elizabeth Kenney today telegraphed Gov. Coke R. Stevenson from Minneapolis that she will be unable to accept his invitation to come to Texas.

She had been invited to participate in the state's drive for funds to aid treatment of child victims of polio.

Nurse Kenney said that she must decline because of a medical conference she previously had arranged to attend, but that a talking film would be sent to Texas for the drive.

Use a dust cloth or dusting mit in each hand to get the dusting chore done in half the time.

Slaton Man, Sister Die Within Hour

SLATON, Nov. 19. (Special) — George Edward Marriott, 85, who was a conductor on the first Santa Fe train to come through Slaton, died at noon today in his home here, and within the hour his only sister, Mrs. Carolyn Summers, 91, uninformed of his death, died at Matland, Mo.

Funeral services for Marriott will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Slaton First Methodist church, with Rev. Luther Kirk, pastor, and Rev. W. F. Fergeson, pastor of the Slaton Baptist church, officiating.

He had been a resident of Slaton 32 years and was the dean of railroad men living in the city.

He is survived by his wife and a son, Charles, of Slaton.

Williams Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

No announcement on plans for services for Mrs. Summers had been made here at a late hour tonight.

Hijacking Suspects Taken To Tahoka

Two men, 35 and 38 years old, arrested here in connection with statements of S. A. Hartman and Carlos Wright that they had been hijacked about midnight Saturday, were released late Monday by the sheriff's department to Sheriff Sam Floyd of Lynn county, who took them to Tahoka.

Two others, a man, 21, and a girl, 17, held in the case, probably will be released to Floyd this morning, officers here said last night.

Hartman and Wright told police and the sheriff's department that approximately $70 was taken from them near the Lubbock-Lynn county line in vicinity of the Slide community. Later investigation showed the incident occurred in Lynn county. Three of the suspects were arrested in 1800-block South Ave. H by police, and Flod arrested the other in Lynn county.

Robbed And Beaten

They said, according to the police, that they had been to a dine and dance place here and that they got into a car with two girls and three other men; that they planned to take the men and girls home; that one of the men presented a gun and forced the driver to go three miles south and five or six miles west of Slide, where Hartman and Wright said they were robbed and Hartman beaten with a wrench; that the three other men then took charge of the car, which they continued to drive even after a tire blew out.

Police Investigating Six More Burglaries Reported Over City

Lubbock's list of more than 30 business and residential burglaries perpetrated recently was increased by six over the week-end.

Loot in the most recent burglaries totaled $333.48 in money and other properties, but police stressed that investigation was incomplete and there might be a heavier loss.

Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, broke down the most recent list thus:

R. B. George Co., at 602 Texas Ave., where a rear window was broken and a crowbar was used to pry open a cash register. Taken were $53.48 in money and 100 10-cent stamps. A punch bar and a tool chest were left by the burglar.

L. V. Risinger residence at 2433 Twentieth, where a screen was torn off a window. Silverware valued at $100 and a piece of luggage valued at $20 were taken.

R. W. Workman residence at 2505 Twenty-fourth, where a screen was cut over a window. Two suits, a pair of trousers, two shirts, a pen and pencil set and a sports coat—the total valued at $150—were taken.

No Loss Discovered

DeWitt Electric Co., at 2219 Nineteenth, reported no loss discovered. Someone broke in a back door by taking glass from it.

Terry & Childress Hardware Co., at Main and Ave. H, nothing reported missed. Entrance was at a rear window.

Mac's Hobby shop, in 2200-block Nineteenth, where entrance was made in a devious manner—through the skylight of George's Linen supply and thence into the hobby shop through a door, hinges of which were removed, and thence out a bock door of the hobby shop. Nothing was believed missing, but police emphasized that the manager was out of town and checking would be continued.

Police asked again that persons who observe suspicious activities "day or night" telephone them. A youth who was allowed here last week to go free after being discovered in a man's residence and giving explanation that a "man had been after me and I ran in here to get away from him" probably is guilty of some of the burglaries, police said they believed. After he had been allowed to go it was discovered he had removed a screen over a window to get into the place.

Atomic Bomb Doesn't Eliminate Need For Army, Navy Is Claim

CHICAGO, Nov. 19. (U.P.)—Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, chief of the Manhattan project which produced the atomic bomb, said today that the weapon does not eliminate the necessity for a strong Army and Navy.

"A push-button may start a war," Groves told the 27th annual convention of the American Legion, "but men will finish it, and may we pray to God that if we are never against forced to fight we will have men as well as push-buttons.

"We still need soldiers and sailors on the ground, on the sea and in the air. We still need a sufficient, highly trained, well-balanced force, one ready for immediate action, one with the will to win that is always essential to victory.

Meanwhile, the resolutions committee of the legion was reported to be considering a recommendation that an investigating committee report on the proposed Army-Navy merger before the next session of Congress.

Patman Charges "Big Interests" Opposing Small Business Setup

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP) — Chairman Patman (D-Tex) contended today that "big interests" are trying to scuttle the Small Business committee he heads in the House.

Patman made the assertion to a reporter after the House accounts committee voted to give him only $20,000 of the $134,000 he had asked to finance his group until January 1.

"That's just scuttling my committee," the Texan asserted. "I'm going to take it to the House floor and will ask for the full $134,000."

To Protect Small Firms

Patman said that amount is needed "to protect small business in this country." Amplifying his reference to "big interests," he said he blamed chain stores and automobile manufacturers, in particular for the move.

He said "the chains have always fought me" and added that the car manufacturers "resented" the committee's recent recommendations that their profit margins be reduced in sale of new autos.

Rep. Max. Schwabe (R-Mo), a member of the accounts committee, took issue with Patman. Commenting in an interview on Patman's reference to big interests, Schwabe told a reporter:

"I think that's a lot of grandstanding. There's been no big business interests approaching our committee. We wanted to give him (Patman) just as little as he could get by on."

Schwabe also said he opposed "spending so much money just to have the committee keep tab on the OPA merry-go-round." He said Patman reported that the chief job of his group was to check OPA's activities with reference to small business.

Patman continued that the committee was active throughout federal agencies and had "saved small business interests from being crushed in the wheels of a rapidly changing economy."

Lt. Col. Weiler Dies During Hunting Trip

AUSTIN, Nov. 19. (AP)—On the eve of retirement to which he looked forward as a time for hunting and fishing, Lt. Col Harold J. Weiler of Austin was killed in a hunting accident yesterday. Funeral services are pending.

Early yesterday he went duck hunting with his son, Lt. Col. John Weiler, recently back from duty in Germany.

Was Hit By Car

Col. Weiler and his son, Lt. Col. John Weiler, were in a duck blind ina field near Refugio. Col. Weiler had fallen asleep when a motorist driving through the field, crashed through the blind.

He died within a few minutes in the arms of his son who was unharmed.

Col. Weiler, procurement officer for the State Selective service department, is survived by his widow, a younger son, Harold, Jr., a lieutenant commander on duty in the Pacific; and a daughter, Mrs. William Lightsey, Washington, D. C.

One of the best known military officers in Texas, Col. Weiler was due to go on terminal leave Dec. 29, with full retirement on his 60th birthday, April 30.

Was With 131st

He enlisted in the cavalry in 1907, and was commissioned Feb. 22, 1912. He had border service as first lieutenant of cavalry, beginning May 17, 1916. He advanced until he became captain of a company in the 131st Field Artillery, in overseas service in the 36th division.

He became commander of the 131st field artillery, with the rank of colonel. In 1935 he was appointed U. S. property and disbursing officer of Texas with the rank of lieutenant colonel, QMC, for this service.

In 1940, when this service was federalized he became the procurement officer for State Selective service, an office he held until the time of his death.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but it is expected a brief service will be held tomorrow, with burial following in Corsicana, Texas.

It is estimated that bees collecting nectar for one pound of honey will travel a distance equivalent to almost three times around the earth.

Tech Gets Volumes On Newspaper Work

Two editions of the recently published book, "The Newspaper—Its Making and Its Meaning," have been set aside by the New York Times newspaper to send Texas Tech.

The book is an interpretation of a series of eight lectures, conducted last year by the Times under the auspices of the Board of Education of New York City. All who spoke at the lectures, for teachers in New York schools, were members of the Times staff.

The use of the newspaper in the schoolroom, in the study of journalism, current events, civics and allied subjects were subsequently developed in a series of workshop sessions by teachers.

Review Of Negro's Sentence Is Refused

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review the trial of L. C. Newman, negro, under death sentence in the killing of an elderly white woman near Camden, Tex., Aug. 27, 1944.

Newman's counsel, in petitioning for a review, contended that his trial in Polk county, Texas, was not conducted before a "legal" jury and said an involuntary confession was used against him.
