WEEK'S REVIEW IN IRON TRADE

An Improving Inquiry Can Be Reported for Manufactured Product Generally, Says the Iron Age

GOOD INCREASE IN VOLUME OF BUSINESS

Consumers Are Conservative in Anticipating Their Requirements and Will Be Until They Are Convinced the Bottom Has Been Reached

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—An improving inquiry can be reported for manufactured iron and steel generally, says the Iron Age. The conditions which have governed trade in finished products have been unsatisfactory during the summer months, but it is now quite confidently expected that a favorable change is due. Autumn requirements are usually sufficient to bring about a good increase in the volume of business. Seasonable products, such as wire nails and wire fencing, are even now beginning to feel a better demand. In the case of structural shapes, plates and some other products, a great deal of deferred business, held up on account of labor troubles and the unsatisfactory condition of the market, will soon come up for attention.

Pittsburg advices are pitched in a more cheerful tone than for some months, transactions being on a larger scale and showing more confidence among buyers. The influence of good crops in the west and south which will be marketed at high prices, is beginning to be felt. Reports from other iron markets are generally of an encouraging character. The east is at present the least favored in this respect.

Prices of finished products are well maintained, with the exception of light sheets, bar iron and some minor products.

Transactions in foundry pig are not on so large a scale as last week. A great deal of buying is in progress, but it consists of small lots, showing that consumers are conservative in anticipating their requirements and will be until they are convinced that bottom has been reached. During the prevalence of high prices costs were considerably increased, and with the exception of coke these costs still prevail. Quite a number of furnace owners find that with current prices the margin of profit has disappeared and preparations are under way for the blowing out of a considerable number of stacks.

An interesting contest is possible between the independent sheet mills and the Amalgamated Association. The mills have asked for changes in some of the union rules to enable them to compete on better terms with non-union mills, but their request has been refused.

HER RIGHTS ARE ACKNOWLEDGED

Bride Has a Document Setting Forth the Privileges Which Husband Is to Allow Her

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 3.—Something new in the wedding ceremony formula has been evolved at the marriage of Katherine Fisher of this city and E. S. Ross of Brooklyn. The word "obey" was omitted by the magistrate and after the certificate had been properly filled out and signed Mrs. Ross produced a document which proved to be a sort of bill of rights in which Ross clearly defined what he concedes to be the personal and inalienable rights of his wife and in which the latter sets forth the admitted prerogatives and privileges claimed by her husband. The couple, with four witnesses, signed the document.

CONCESSIONS IN PERU

NEW YORK, Septt. 3.—The government has granted to Alfred MacCune, an American, a concession to build a railroad from a port in the province of Chancay to join the line between Oroyo and Cerropasco, cables the Lima, Peru, correspondent of the Herald.

Herbert Seller, another American, has received a concession for a railway from Port Huacho to Picuncha coal fields.

MAY SPEND LIFE IN JAIL

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 3.—Unless some special action not covered by the statutes is taken John A. Bardon, committed to jail on June 5 because he did not pay his poll tax, will remain there for the rest of his natural life.

The city officials have urged Governor Garvin to come to Barden's assistance by asking the supreme court to make a ruling on the peculiar points of law involved. This the governor has agreed to do.

In Rhode Island the statutes provide that a delinquent taxpayer shall remain imprisoned until he has paid the tax and all costs, and officers are careful whom they send down for this offense, seldom arresting any but those whom they believe can raise the money if threatened with imprisonment. Sometimes delinquents spend a week or two at the jail, but the money for their release is usually forthcoming in that time.

Barden has been in jail twelve weeks and his friends say they cannot raise the $50 to pay his fine and board, which is necessary to get him released, as there is no provision in law for him to get out in any other way.

TWO SMALL HOUSES

SWEETWATER, Texas, Sept. 3.—Two small houses belonging to Joe Guiral, used as meat market and beer saloon, were burned last night about 12 o'clock. Loss about $300. No insurance. Cause unknown.

SULTAN SAYS HE WANTS PEACE

Pleasant Words to the Heads of Religious Orders, Who Were Received at the Palace Yesterday

INVOKES GOD TO WITNESS SINCERITY

Expresses Regret That His Soldiers Were Guilty of Acts Which Were Contrary to Orders—Subscribes to a Relief Fund

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 3.—At the anniversary of his accession to the throne Tuesday, the sultan received in audience at the palace the heads of religious communities and the ecumenical patriarch and made a speech of congratulations. In reply thereto, after thanking the patriarch and others present for good wishes, the sultan, contrary to precedent, spoke at some length as follows:

"All my desire is for the welfare of the population, without distinction of race or religion. As to the detestable and regrettable deeds to which the patriarch alluded, I am convinced the movement does not proceed spontaneously from the population, but is instigated from abroad. I hope the measures taken will insure tranquillity. I call God to witness the sincerity of my declaration and all my aspirations and work for the welfare and prosperity of all my subjects."

Turning then to the Bulgarian patriarch, the sultan bade him communicate his words to his flock.

Next addressing the Greek patriarch, the sultan said he regretted that the Greek population also suffered from the recent troubles and declared that he would be pleased to contribute to subscriptions which have been raised in the patriarchate in behalf of the sufferers. The sultan further remarked that he is very sorry some of the soldiers had been guilty of acts contrary to orders and his desires.

The sultan personally assured Monsignore Ormanian, the Armenian patriarch, that his words applied to the Armenians as well as to the people of other nationalities.

The porte's note of warning to the embassies and legations, informing them of the action of Bulgarian agitators in projecting the outrages against the embassies, legations and public buildings in Constantinople, saying the Ottoman government has taken precautions and requesting the heads of foreign missions to do likewise, was issued in consequence of the receipt at the Russian embassy of an anonymous letter threatening outrages at the winter residences of the Russian ambassador and consul general.

ADOPT KITCHENER'S TACTICS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 3.—It is said the Turkish commanders are adopting Lord Kitchener's tactics in the Transvaal by making drives in Kikilissi district and elsewhere with the idea of destroying or driving the insurgent bands over the Bulgarian frontier.

The authorities at Smyrna are refusing to call out more redifs, those last summoned to colors having deserted en masse because they received no pay.

PRIMARIES HELD IN MARYLAND

Both Parties Are Selecting Their Nominees for State Offices

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 3.—Both parties are holding their state primaries in Maryland today. The result is awaited with interest throughout the country as the campaign in Maryland this year is of national importance. It involves the election of a United States senator, the party standing of a doubtful state preceding a national campaign, and the chances of a national democratic leader as a presidential possibility. Although now controlled by the democrats, the independent vote in this state is the balance of power and can swing the state either way. It is the uncertainty surrounding the independent vote that puzzles the political managers. McKinley carried the state both times. Eight years ago the republicans swept it on the state ticket and elected a United States senator. Four years later the democrats recovered state control. The republicans are at a disadvantage this year because of factional differences, while the democrats are comparatively united.

For governor the republican candidate will in all probability be Stevenson Williams, of Hartford county, an eminent lawyer, who, as a member of the legislature, has made a splendid fight for anti-bribery and fair elections. The leading democratic candidate for governor is Edwin Warfield, president of the Fidelity and Deposit Company and a prominent financier. Mr. Warfield has had a wide experience in politics. For years before he became the head of a great financial institution he was prominent in politics as one of Gorman's lieutanants.

The tickets this year will be among the largest ever voted for, including governor, state controller, attorney general, members of the legislature, two judges of the supreme bench of Baltimore city, and a number of minor officers.

BLACK HILLS CONFERENCE

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sept. 3.—The annual Methodist Episcopal conference for the Black Hills mission began here yesterday, Bishop A. G. Andrews of New York presiding. The mission takes in the entire Black Hills, including all charges in the western part of South Dakota and as far west as Sundance, Wyo.

The present conference will continue four days. Appointments will be announced later in the week. Few changes in pastors are expected. Reports to be presented to the conference show that the mission district is now in the most prosperous condition in its history, many improvements in churches and parsonages having been completed during the last twelve months.

CHARGED WITH EXTORTION

BUCHAREST, Sept. 3.—M. Svetkoff, agent here of the Macedonian committee, has been arrested for extorting by menaces of death subscriptions to funds of the revolutionists. The police discovered the receipts signed by Boris Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader, for sums aggregating $5,000. Bulgarians residing in Roumania continue to receive orders to return home, with a view of possible mobilization of Bulgarian forces. The Roumanian government has ordered the frontier officials to register all Bulgarians leaving Roumania and prevent their return to the country.

STRANGLER TO BE EXECUTED

HAMILTON, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Alfred A. Knapp, known as the strangler, was taken to Columbus today by Sheriff Bisdorff, to await execution in the electric chair December 12. Knapp was unmoved at the change of location and expressed the hope that he would soon be back in Hamilton.

THE COMMITTEE HAS A PROBLEM

Failure of Some Concerns to Join the Manufacturers' Association Raises a Question

The committee appointed to prepare the advertising matter for the jobbers and wholesale association is confronted with a very intricate and delicate problem, one that is going to tax their ingenuity to the utmost.

The primary object of the association is to stimulate the trade of Fort Worth in general, and incidentally that of the members of the association. The desire is to let the commercial world know what there is produced and offered for sale in Fort Worth and to direct the business to the doors of the members of the association.

As all the dealers and manufacturers have not seen fit to join the movement the problem is how to let the world know what there is in the city and yet not use the members' money to advertise the business of a non-member.

For instance there are three concerns in the city engaged in producing and selling postholes. Smith, the manager of the Fort Worth Posthole Company, is a member of the association; Jones and Brown, the managers of the other two concerns, have not joined. It would be manifestly unfair to take Smith's money and use it in advertising the business of Brown and Jones, and yet it would be in contravention of one of the principal objects of the organization not to advertise the fact that there are three posthole factories in Fort Worth.

The committee is composed of men of versatile genius and they will find some way to solve the question with equal justice to all concerned. They expect to have their report ready by Friday evening.

S. W. T. LANHAM, GOVERNOR

The report from Dallas is that he has insulted Mayor Cabell by appointing J. E. Cockrell police commissioner and offered an affront to Senator Bailey by turning down his indorsement.

LIKE HUGE FAN CAMP IS FORMED

Plans for Maneuvers at Fort Riley Show It Will Be the Most Spectacular Ever Held

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., Sept. 3.—The plans for the big camp at Fort Riley during the maneuvers show that it will be one of the most spectacular ever planned. The 14,000 troops which are to participate will be encamped on the Republican River flats, just north of Junction City, in the form of a gigantic fan, which will have its apex near the bluffs, a half mile farther north of the town. At the apex of the camp will be the headquarters of the commanding general and his staff.

On the ribs of the fan will be encamped in regimental formation the various regiments and battalions of cavlary, infantry, engineers and signal corps and the batteries of artillery composing the division. Streets will divide the camps and form when the tents are pitched, the ribs of the fan. This form of encampment will enable the commanding general to be at all times within easy communication with all parts of the camp. An extensive line of water pipes will be laid at the camp site before the arrival of the troops. The space between the headquarters of the commanding general and the camp of the various organizations will be large enough for a review of all the troops that will be assembled on the reservation for the maneuvers.

THE STRIKE IS OFF

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A threatened strike of glass workers throughout the country for a uniform rate of wages decided on by the Glass Workers' International Union, to go into effect Sept. 10, has been called off for the present. At a conference of union officers it was decided that a general strike could not benefit the 1,400 workers in this city who are on strike against the Metropolitan District Mirror Manufacturers' Association. Progress is being made toward a settlement of the local difficulty.

SOME CHANGES PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The Washington Post says the general staff of the army is considering the advisability of realigning the departments to conform to changes in the transportation situation.

"It is possible," says he Post, "that one or more departments will be created. The Department of the East, for example, may be divided into two—one to be designated either as the Department of the South or Gulf. Kansas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory may be taken from the Department of Missouri and combined into one department."

NORWEGIAN-DANISH PRESS

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 3.—Prominent Scandinavians of Illionis, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas are gathered in the Twin Cities to a total of several thousand to attend a series of meetings which began today with the annual convention of the Norwegian-Danish Press Association at the Windsor hotel in this city. Tomorrow there will be a meeting of Det Norsge Selskab (the Norweigian society), a national organization designed to unite all the Norwegians in the country. Saturday the Valdris Sambrund, an organization of natives and descendants of the province of Valders, will hold its annual reunion.

DIES FROM INJURIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—William H. Clark of New York, representative of a New York collecting agency, is dead here from injuries sustained in falling from his cot in a jail cell.

Clark was arrested on complaint of Rome merchants, from whom he tried to collect for advertisements. He declared his innocence vehemently and was seized with a fit. In falling on the stone floor one of his legs was broken. He died soon afterward.

COTTON SEED CRUSHERS

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 3.—A call session of the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers' Association is being held today. The attendance is large. The association will name an official chemist, report on insurance matters and transact other business. It may also take action on the boll worm matters.

J. H. Meyers, the nephew of Rev. James S. Myers, sends the Board of Trade a list of names of persons east of the Alleghenies to whom literature may be sent advertising Fort Worth.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY TREATY

Commission Appointed to Settle the Dispute Meets in London to Organize

LONDON, Sept. 3. — The commission appointed under the treaty concluded last January between Great Britain and the United States to settle if possible the long-standing dispute over the Alaskan boundary met this morning at the British foreign office and formally organized. Those present included the three British commissioners — Lord Alverstone, Sir Louis Jette, lieutenant governor of Quebec, and A. B. Aylesworth, K. C.—and the three American commissioners—Secretary Root, Senator Lodge and Senator Turner. In addition there was present a great array of counsel to present the two sides of the case. The question at issue was not entered into today, the initial session being devoted to the work of organization and the exchange of courtesies.

The Alaskan boundary dispute is one of long standing. Since 1872 Canada has been calling attention to the question year after year. In 1898 a joint high commission of English and American representatives tried to settle the quarrel, but failed.

The territory in dispute covers an area of upward of 20,000 square miles. For the most part it is mountainous, but it includes valuable gold mines. The quarrel centers around the question of the whereabouts of the boundary between Alaska and Canada. Originally Alaska was Russian territory. In 1825 the boundary line was defined on paper by a treaty between Russia and Great Britain. In 1867 the United States bought Alaska from the czar, and then the Canadian-Alaskan frontier began to be peopled. As the boundary line fixed by the 1825 treaty had never been properly surveyed, disputes arose between Canada and the new owners of Alaska.

Throughout almost its entire length the disputed territory adjoins British Columbia on its westward side. The remaining portion in dispute adjoins the famous Yukon territory, and includes the eastern boundary of the coast strip from the vicinity of Yakutat bay to the one hundred and forty-first meridian.

So far as the latter is concerned the ownership of towns like Skaguay and Dyea—famous in the great Klondike gold rush—is in question. The Klondike, indeed, is directly affected by the quarrel which it is now hoped will be settled. The ingress and egress to this area are by way of the Lynn canal. The Americans claim that this canal, plus a belt of territory thirty miles east of it, belongs to the United States, while Canada demands that a great portion of the upper part of the canal, together with a slice of territory to the east, be recognized as part of the dominion.

Prior to the formal assembling the commissioners met in their private conference room, and selected Reginald T. Tower of the British diplomatic service, formerly attached to the legation at Washington and recently minister to Siam, to be secretary of the commission. J. E. Carter, second secretary of the United States embassy, and Mr. Pope, representative of the Canadian government, were appointed assistant secretaries. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone was subsequently chosen chairman of the commission.

It was announced that oral arguments would commence September 15, and Lord Alverstone expressed the hope that they would be finished by October 9.

The conference room at the foreign office, where the commissioners met, is the choicest apartment of the British public buildings.

A FOG COVERS THE RACE COURSE

Very Little Breeze, and Heavy Haze Are Conditions Which Interfere With Cup Contest

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—With a fog heavier than any previous morning and but five or six mile of wind from the northward, the conditions early this morning for the fourth attempt this week to sail the third series of the international yacht races were far from ideal. Withal, however, there were more wind than on three previous days, when all attempts to race were futile and there were hopes the fog would lift and the wind would increase in velocity, as it blew from favorable quarters.

At 7 o'clock the fog could not be penetrated beyond one hundred feet, but in less than two hours there were indications of it lifting. The wind still held true and at 8:35 it was reported officially at Sandy Hook at five miles. The sun, too, began to break through the mist and then began to clear rapidly, so that soon you could possibly see a half mile or more, the blue skies were in evidence and the prospects for a race were more encouraging than on any previous day this week.

At 9:30 the Reliance started for the lightship. At that time a wind, according to the official observer, dropped to three miles an hour from the northeast. Eight minutes later the Shamrock left, also, in tow.

When the yachts reached the lightship the wind had hauled around to the southeast and was blowing five miles an hour. It was clearing gradually, but the fog was still so heavy that at 10:30 the committee boatt navigator signalled a postponement of the start until later in the day.

FASHIONABLE NEWPORT WEDDING

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 3.—The world of fashion turned out in full force at noon today for the wedding of Miss Gladys Brooks to Eugene V. R. Thayer, which took place at Trinity church. The sanctuary was elaborately decorated, and the altar filled with white roses, over which a number of lighted tapers cast their soft light. Rev. Ernest J. Danne, assistant rector, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Mr. Ball of Groton School, Mass. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion Fish, Miss Constance Livermore, Miss Anna Thayer, Miss Adelaide Randolph and Miss Fannie Iselin. Mr. Thayer was attended by James Jackson of Boston, and the ushers were Reginald Brooks, Delancey Jay, Philip Livermore, Theodore Douglas Robinson, Charles E. Perkins, Gordon Fairchild, Hugh Minturn, George Snow and Reginald Boardman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks, and belongs to one of New York's best known families. The bridegroom is the son of Eugene Van R. Thayer of Boston. The honeymoon will be spent on the yacht Varuna, belonging to Eugene Higgins, the bride's uncle.

COMMITS SUICIDE IN JAIL

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Preferring death to facing a serious charge, Andrew W. Gorsline, a Long Island city manufacturer has committed suicide in his cell in the Queens County jail by inhaling illuminating gas.

n a wil found in his cell Gorsline bequeathed all his property to his nephew, who made the complaint on which Andrew was arrested.

AN ELOPEMENT ON TROLLEY CAR

Interurban Conductor Jack Moore and Miss Lucy Cockrell Elude Stern Father

An interurban car romance, followed by an elopement on the same line in which the daughter of a well-to-do farmer, whose acres stretch their way along that road, and a conductor on the line, figure, is the latest thing in weddings in this vicinity, although it took place as long ago as night before last.

The irate father followed the elopers on the next interurban car after the one on which they ran away, but he was an even hour behind them and in that hour the license was obtained and the wedding ceremony performed.

Miss Lucy Cockrell is the bride. Her father's big farm is seven miles this side of Dallas. Jack Moore, an interurban conductor, is the trolley Lochinvar. Many times every day as he went sailing past the Cockrell homestead the flutter of a handkerchief from a window might have been seen by the passengers—it surely was seen by the ardent conductor—and it frequently became necessary for Miss Cockrell to make trips into Dallas and these trips were always made on a certain car, the one on which Conductor Moore presided.

On Tuesday evening Conductor Moore's car passed the Cockrell homestead on time, heading west. At the stop near this farm Miss Cockrell hailed the speeding trolley. But this was unnecessary, because the motorman was in on the plan and even before he saw her he knew that his part was to stop for her.

Another conductor took the car as soon as the city was reached and Mr. Moore and his bride-to-be hastened to the residence of County Clerk R. L. Rogers, where a license was issued to them. They next visited the residence of Justice of the Peace John L. Terrell, who sealed the nuptial knot securely and wished the young couple much happiness in life.

Meanwhile the stern parent, in a high state of indignation, was marking time while he awaited the arrival of the next interurban car at ...s home in order that he might board it and follow his daughter to Fort Worth. When he arrived here he could find no trace of the young people and, not knowing what else to do, he went to police headquarters and took Assistant Chief Jim Allen into his confidence. Allen investigated the case and found that the Miss Cockrell that was, had become Mrs. Moore.

It is understood that the parental blessing since has been given and today Conductor Moore is again on his car.

MRS MOLINEUX IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Roland B. Molineux, who went to Sioux Falls, S. D., nine months ago, shortly after the acquittal of her husband on the charge of causing the death by poison of Mrs. Adams, has returned to this city. It was said when she went to South Dakota that it was her intention to sue for divorce. It is rumored that the case was heard before a referee in Hamlin county and that the evidence was submitted to a judge sitting at Desmet, S. D., but those interested in the matter absolutely refuse to make any statement or even admit that testimony has been submitted in the South Dakota courts.

IN DETENTION HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A despatch from Scranton, Pa., to the World says that former Mayor James G. Bailey has been committed to a detention hospital. Bailey testified in the boodle trials recently that he was paid for signing an asphalt ordinance. He is said to be afflicted with the belief that he is being persecuted.

FRANK J. HEARNE IS IN CONTROL

He Will Have Full Charge of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company's Affairs Under the Reorganization

JOINT CHOICE OF GOULD-ROCKEFELLER

None of the Details of the Plan Which Is Being Worked Out to Provide Fresh Funds of Thirteen Millions Were Taken Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Frank J. Hearne, formerly president of the National Tube Company, has been placed in full control of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Mr. Hearne, who is said to be the joint choice of the Gould-Rockefeller interest in the company, was elected president of the company and chairman of the board of directors at a meeting held in this city.

No action upon the dividend on the preferred stock of the company was taken.

The preferred stock, of which $2,000,000 is outstanding, bears interest at the rate of 8 per cent. This dividend is cumulative. It is payable semi-annually in September and April, and the August directors' meeting is the one at which the declaration is usually made.

None of the details of the plan which is being worked out to provide fresh funds to the amount of $13,000,000 was taken up at the meeting. It is understood that the plant will be worked out in full detail by the executive committee before being submitted to the directors for their approval.

The executive committee elected consists of F. J. Hearne, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; George J. Gould, F. T. Gates and John C. Osgood.

Officers elected were: F. J. Hearne, chairman of the board and president; J. F. Welborn, vice president; D. C. Beaman, secretary.

Mr. Hearne succeeds J. A. Kebler as president. Mr. Welborn succeeds A. C. Cass. The offices of second and third vice president are left vacant.

ART WORK RECOVERED

ROME, Sept. 3.—The police at Florence have succeeded in finding the valuable De La Robbia bas-relief representing "The Descent from the Cross," which was stolen last January from the oratory of the Brotherhood of the Annunciation at Lepi. Several persons have been arrested. They are said to have formed an association of thieves to send antique works of art abroad. It is expected other precious objects which recently disappeared will be recovered.

COUNTRY CLUB AFFAIR TONIGHT

Excellent Musical Program Is to Be Rendered This Evening—Place Is Popular

The regular weekly meeting of the Country Club will take place tonight. An excellent musical program has been arranged for the meeting tonight and those woh have been entertained heretofore in a similar manner will listen to a fine program.

General Manager Cowart says that interest in the club meetings is increasing, but he would like to see a larger attendance than has been the case at previous mid-week functions.

The musical program for tonight will be under the direction of the well-known Davenport orchestra, which is a guarantee that the patrons of the club will be royally entertained.

The nights at Arlington Heights are cool and delightful and afford a pleasant evening for those who attend these sessions of the club.

Mr. Cowart said to The Telegram today that he had been in many countries, but in none of them is the summer months any more delightful than they are at Arlington Heights. On this account he believes that a greater interest should be shown in the work of the Country Club. The fact that the place furnishes such pleasant recreation and rest assures a large attendance at each meeting night.

The most convenient method of reaching the Country Club is in a comfortable rig, which can be secured from Purvis & Colp, phone 86.

FORCE WITH FORCE; TERROR WITH TERROR

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The new revolutionary party formed in Russia entitled the Russian socialist revolutionary party, which differs from the Russian social democratic party in being less doctrinaire and more violent in tactics, is described by the London correspondent of the Times in a dispatch which declares that the new organization has revived something of the terrorism which shocking to thing of the terrorism which shocked Russian society twenty years ago. There is a third party, the Russian revolutionary. All three agree as to the necessity of abolishing the existing autocracy.

The new party aims at arousing the heart of Russia, reaching the peasants not affected by previous efforts. The dispatch asserts that since April, 1902, a "fighting organization" has been created as a wing of the revolutionary party in order to meet force with force and terror with terror.

Stock Yards, North Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 3, 1903.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS:

Receipts of cattle for this week have been comparatively heavy, in fact, quite a number of common quality cattle have been offered on this market, the entire week. Still we believe prices on good quality steers and cows are about steady with last week's prices, yet on the common kind, it is anywhere from 10c to 15c lower. We attribute this to the heavy receipts both here and on the Northern market.

Top steers, weighing 1050 to 1200 lbs., $3.50 to $3.75, with but few good steers offered.

Top cows and heifers, $2.25 to $2.50; medium cows, from $2.00 to $2.15; others from $1.85 to $2.00; canners, from $1.50 to $1.75. Veal calves from $2.75 to $3.25; heavy calves from $2.00 to $2.75.

HOGS—Receipts of hogs very light, and prices have ranged from $6.10 to $6.55. A load of extra good hogs sold for that price to the Houston Packing Co. yesterday. They are very anxious for hogs here, as evidence of this fact, Armour & Co. shipped four loads today from Kansas City.

We quote best hogs today, Thursday, from $6.10 to $6.25, against $5.75 to $5.95 at Kansas City. Ship us your hogs, as they will net you more money here than elsewhere.

SHEEP—We could sell a few loads of good fat sheep to good advantage, as the receipts are light and the demand extra good.

We can assure our customers that your market will net you more money for your cattle, hogs and sheep, than any other. Trouble us with your business. We will appreciate it, and will look out for and protect your interest.

Yours very truly,

CASSIDY-SOUTHWESTERN COMMISSION CO.

HOGS DECLINE FIFTEEN CENTS

Absence of Outsiders Causes Prices to Drop—Cattle Market Steady With Yesterday

NORTH FORT WORTH, Sept 3.—The price of hogs declined fully 15c this morning. The inflated values of the beginning of the week, caused by the presence of outside buyers, had to come down sooner or later. Today there was only one outside firm represented on the market and it got two loads of hogs at much lower prices than yesterday.

The packers are willing to pay higher prices than Kansas City tops, but will not maintain unnatural conditions caused by outside buyers when they can purchase hogs on northern markets and ship them down here cheaper than they can buy in the yards here.

It is not likely that there will be any more $6.50 hogs this week, but the prices will stick more closely to the figures set by the northern market.

The cattle market this morning was active and buying was steady, the basis being about 15c lower than the first of the week. Some cows sold strong and the remainder went at steady prices with yesterday's sales. As was generally expected, the recent rains west along the line of the Texas and Pacific had the effect of causing a considerable falling off in shipments from that region, the cattlemen preferring to take advantage of the additional lease of life to the grass and feedstuff, in order to get their cows in better condition before marketing. There appear to be still plenty of cattle along the Fort Worth and Rio Grande, the only difficulty in marketing the supply being a shortage of cars. C. A. Mayfield of Brady had in 105 head today and Tom Ratliff and J. B. Wallace of Brownwood shipped in 38 and 65 head respectively. There has been a noticeable increase in the number of shipments from the territories during the past two weeks. Today Lawton, Waurika, Lambert, Custer City were the Oklahoma towns represented. A carload of cattle was also received from Addington, I. T.

COTTON QUOTATIONS

Furnished by F. G. McPeak & Co.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Not since the exciting day early in the bull campaign has there been anything to equal the confusion which attended the publication of the government September condition report on today's cotton market. The figures of 81.2 reflect an improvement in condition for the month of 2.4 per cent and are 18.1 per cent above last year. The statement proved better than generally expected and was followed with a rush of liquidation that carried prices off sharply. Earlier in the day the market had shown a declining tendency and prices at noon were about 6 to 15 points lower. In less than ten minutes after the report was read September sold at 11.13, October at 10.20, December at 9.95 and January at 9.92, there being a loss from 12 to 26 points. Realizing by early sellers relieved the strain and led to slight recoveries with the market very irregular and unsettled.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 point on January, while other months were unchanged to 3 points higher, on higher Liverpool cables. The weather, however, is generally favorable and after the opening here, there was a resumption of recent selling, which weakened prices to a level slightly under last night's finals. Trading is very quiet.

THE LATEST IN RAILROAD NEWS

The constantly growing shortage of cars is causing much uneasiness among the railroads, and it is believed by local railroad people that the situation will become more serious than is now anticipated. Everything that can possibly be done by the general managers of Texas lines to relieve the situation is being resorted to, but without any available means of relief.

One railroad man said that this condition of affairs among the railroads regarding the short supply of rolling stock, particularly freight cars, has never been as serious as now, and he had no idea when the end would be reached.

The trouble is charged to an abnormal movement of general merchandise all over the south from northern concerns, in addition to a heavy demand for equipage for moving live stock, lumber and other freight of a similar character.

"We need more cars, and we need them badly," said a representative of the Texas and Pacific today. This road is short 400 cars at this time on the west end of the line with which to move cattle from that section, and also the Pecos country, where ranges are not in the best of condition on account of the lack of rain. These cattle are to be taken to pastures in the Indian country or to other sections that are available. It is stated today that there has been very little rain in that part of Texas since June. However, there was a small rainfall in West Texas in the neighborhood of Big Springs a few days ago, but the fall was not sufficient to do very much good for the stockmen whose ranges are running short of stock water.

Not only is there a shortage of cattle and general merchandise cars, but cars to move grain are also few and far between.

The congestion of freight at St. Louis is possibly the worst in many seasons, and this affects the situation in Texas more than any other cause, according to reports of railroad people.

Eastern roads refuse to permit their cars to be carried through St. Louis to Texas points and force the transfer at that point of all consignments intended for the south.

Speaking of the situation today, another railroad man said that the present unsatisfactory condition would be made worse when the movement of cotton commenced and cars were demanded to move the staple to the east and also to export ports, as it will require flat cars, which are now used for hauling lumber.

A Frisco freight man said today that the movement of freight was the greatest in the history of the road since its advent into Texas. He said he knew of one shipment of twelve carloads of buggies, twelve cars of furniture and twenty cars of wagons. He said it was the same situation all over the state with all classes of merchandise.

RATES MAY REMAIN THE SAME

There is some doubt among railroad people here whether the 15 per cent raise in freight and passenger rates proposed by the Mexican government on all roads in the republic will ever materialize. The promised increase was conditioned upon the rate of exchange being above 2.20. The last monthly decree fixes the exchange rate at 2.20 silver, having steadily advanced since the promise was made, three months ago, and the government is expected to announce within a few days that conditions have altered for the better so greatly that there is no necessity for the advance at this time.

MONTEREY TRAFFIC SUSPENDED

On account of the yellow fever scare in Mexico the Mexican government has ordered a temporary suspension on the Gulf division of the Mexican Central road between Monterey and the Port of Tampico, a distance of several hundred miles.

Many refugees from the infected districts of the republic have been turned back at the border by United States troops. It is reported that there is a general cleaning up in all Texas border towns, which is being done to afford protection to the people of this part of the state.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—At 12:30 p. m. the conditions of the weather are improving. The wind was blowing seven miles an hour and the fog had almost dropped.

At 12:56 p. m. both yachts, after standing for the line on the starboard tack, headed back for the lightship. They were close together. The course was fifteen miles to the windward and return. The starting gun was fired at 1 o'clock.

Both yachts headed for the line, the Reliance slightly in the lead.

A Marconigram bulletin from off Long Branch says the Reliance is leading by one mile.

Many a child has been fooled by the story of the pot of gold which is to be found just at the foot of the rainbow, and has started out to gather riches full of happy dreams.

Many a man and woman have been deceived by the tale that there was health to be found out beyond the sunset, and they have started out dreaming of a healthful future, never to be realized.

People who have tried change of climate in vain for the cure of weak lungs have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other conditions which, if neglected or unskilfully treated, find a fatal end in consumption.

"Last spring I had a severe attack of pneumonia which left me with a very bad cough, and also left my lungs in a very bad condition," writes John M. Russell, Esq., of Brent, Cherokee Nat., Ind. Ty. "I had no appetite and was so weak I could scarcely walk. My breast was all sore with running sores. I got two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I believe saved my life. I cannot express my gratitude to you. I am able now to do very good work."

Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which no "just as good" medicine can show.

THE PARK OPENS NEXT TUESDAY

Program for the Confederate Reunion at Time of the Dedication Has Been Arranged

JUDGE J. H. REAGAN CANNOT BE PRESENT

Governor Lanham Will Be the Orator of the Day—He Is Expected to Arrive Here Sunday Accompanied by Judge Bell

The management of the Confederate Park Association is pushing matters preparatory to the opening of the first reunion September 8, and Vice President Duke Goodman said today that if the number of earnest inquiries being received by the directory was any indication, the attendance would be very great, as Confederates from all the adjoining counties have already notified those in charge of the affair that they were coming in force.

Many letters from even counties in the southern and eastern parts of the state have been received in which the statement is made that large crowds of people would be here to attend the four days' reunion.

Letters were yesterday received from Confederates at Albany, Bowie and Paris stating that many people are planning to attend the ceremonies.

One regret is expressed by the management of the association that Hon. John H. Reagan, who has always taken a deep interest in similar meetings over the state in the past, will not be able to be here on account of his enfeebled condition, much to the regret of his many friends, who had hoped to be able to again meet him at the reunion and to hear him probably for the last time.

Governor Lanham, accompanied by Attorney General C. K. Bell, is expected to arrive in Fort Worth next Sunday. The governor is billed to be the orator of the first day and will deliver the opening address.

Mrs. W. P. Lane, secretary of the state division, Daughters of the Confederacy, has information that many members throughout the state are coming to the reunion, among them many of the more prominent members who will also take part in the program from day to day.

Late Wednesday evening the official program was issued as follows:

Music and Drama

"A Woman's Enemy" is rather a strong piece, and its presentation last night by the Hoyt comedy company was well received by the audience. The attendance is increasing each night and the reception of the company is very gratifying to both the management of the opera-house and the manager of the organization. The leading people in the cast show ability, and the presentation of each part pleases. The specialties are changed every night and the singing and dancing are much enjoyed. The specialty people are clever. The illustrated songs are an attraction.

It is expected the house will be crowded tonight from pit to dome. The play will be the "James Boys" and a fine performance is promised. The version is a new one, written for this company, and the presentation will include all of the exciting details incident to a performance of this character.

Tomorrow night there is to be a contest between local amateurs for cash prizes, and this promises to be a feature which will please all who attend.

HOLDEN COMEDY COMPANY

The Holden brothers, pioneers in popular price amusements, present the Holden comedy company at Greenwall's opera-house the week of Sept. 7, commencing Monday (Labor day) matinee, in "Forgiven." It is the first time this attraction has been seen here, though this is the seventeenth season of success in the large eastern cities. "Nobody's Claim," that ever-popular and interesting drama, will be the opening piece Monday night, and the management has furnished the play with an entire new scenic investiture, and it will be presented on a scale of magnificence never before attempted. The exciting duel and the blinding blizzard and the flight of the Frisco Express in the snow are some of the prominent scenes depicted by this clever company, headed by John A. Preston and Katherine Field. There will be a special Monday matinee (Labor day), on which occasion the beautiful comedy drama "Forgiven" will be presented. Change of bill at each performance. Matinees daily at 2:30. Popular prices will prevail all through the engagement.

OLD CONFEDERATE ILLAND PENNILESS

Captain Cumbie of the Salvation Army Continues to Find Those in Need of Succor

Captain Cumbie of the Salvation Army is a firm advocate of the individual charity plan. He believes that he can do more good for humanity by seeking those in trouble and giving them personal aid than he can by simply preaching to the general public. Therefore when he is not preaching on the street he devotes his time to searching for those in destitute circumstances, and upon finding them he learns their needs and sets about supplying the same. Nearly every day he calls at The Telegram office with reports of some new cases of destitution. His appeals for aid for the suffering in the columns of The Telegram have met with prompt responses from the charitable people of the city.

Captain Cumbie today reports several cases in which there is need of charity. Joe Johnson, an old Confederate veteran who resides on Stedman street, is ill and without funds. He needs help. Articles of food and cash for him may be left at the Salvation Army headquarters, 303 Rusk street, or may be taken directly to him.

L. J. Green moved to Fort Worth with his family, consisting of wife and three children, about a month ago. A week ago while at work he became overheated, and since then a fever has kept him in bed. His wife managed to earn 50 cents yesterday by doing some washing; otherwise the family would have been without food last night. The family is living in two tents across the river, just west of the bridge and near Hermann Park. Captain Cumbie will deliver any articles left at his headquarters for this family.

The captain reports that Walter Palmer, the boy whom he found on the North Side down with fever is now able to be up and will be able to work in about a week. Walter is 16 years old and without a relative in the world so far as he knows.

A young woman 24 years old in search of work applied to Captain Cumbie today for help. The captain is anxious to open an emergency home in Fort Worth for cases such as this, but thus far has been unable to do so owing to lack of financial support. He will hold a meting in Marine this evening.

It is also expected that he will lecture on the principles and problems of municipal art. THE UNSPEAKABLE TURK

The Turk ought to be driven from the face of the earth, for there is no spot on it that is bad enough to deserve to be governed by him. Still, the Turkish government for the Turks is not so bad. It is when the monster in the fez sets himself up to govern somebody else that he becomes absolutely unspeakable.—Milwaukee Free Press.

BOERS MIGHT TAME THE TURKS

After Macedonia and Bulgaria have been completely depopulated by the Turkish reforms how would it do to establish a few Boer colonies there? SHOOTS WOMAN WHO WOULD NOT ELOPE

NEW YORK, Sep. 3.—Henry F. Edson, 30 years of age, shot and killed Mrs. Fannie Pulsent, 33 years of age, yesterday and then shot and killed himself. The double tragedy occurred at Edson's residence.

The murderer and suicide was Henry Townsend Edson, aged 39 years, son of former Mayor Franklin Edson. Edson is said to have been insanely jealous of the woman and wanted her to go away with him.

The shooting occurred in the presence of Dr. David O. Edson, the suicide's brother, his wife, Mrs. Henry Townsend Edson, and a baggage mover named Thomas Woods.

The families of Henry T. Edson and Dr. Edson have lived together for a number of months. Today Henry T. Edson was to vacate and leave the city for a short time. According to the police and Woods, Edson begged Mrs. Pullen to elope with him. Dr. Edson told his brother that he should be ashamed to make such a proposal in the presence of his wife. Townsend Edson became wildly excited and kept entreating Mrs. Pullen to go to another state with him. When Woods entered the house he says that he saw Townsend point the revolver towards Mrs. Pullen and heard him say to her:

"You must go with me. If you don't elope with me I'll see that you'll go with me any way."

Then Edson fired two shots in quick succession. The first struck Mrs. Pullen on the right side of the forehead and the second bullet ploughed through the left cheek, tearing the flesh. Mrs. Pullen then ran a few steps when she fell. Edson then turned the revolver on himself, firing two shots. The first shot went through his head, aand the second entered the left breast near the heart. He dropped to the floor, his head falling across the woman's feet. Both died almost instantly.

DISTILLERY FED COWS CAUSE LIQUOR APPETITE

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 3.—The theory that germs of an appetite for liquor are imparted to Chicago babies through the medium of milk from cows that eat the refuse from Peoria distilleries has suggested itself to Assistant State Food Inspector R. M. Patterson. Mr. Patterson has just returned from Peoria, where he found 150 distillery fed cows whose milk had been regularly shipped to Chicago. He enjoined the dairymen to sell no more milk from these cattle.

"I can't say that I saw any of the cattle under the influence of liquor," said Mr. Patterson, "but I know that the corn mash has a peculiar effect on them and it is against the law to sell their milk."

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL FORT WORTH, TEXAS

THAT INSULT TO CABELL

The report from Dallas is to the effect that in naming Joseph E. Cockrell to be police commissioner of that city Governor Lanham has offered an insult to Mayor Cabell. This is silly. Had it been the intention to allow the mayor of Dallas to select whom he would for the position, the law would have so provided. As the appointive power was given into the hands of the governor, the executive had the right to exercise it without regard to the feelings of the mayor. There is no reason to select a commissioner who would be in exact harmony with the mayor—possibly it will be better for the police department to have some little change in affairs, some influence which will change the administration. Simply because the mayor objected to the selection of Mr. Cockrell is no reason the governor should not have named him. The report from Dallas also says that the appointment is offensive to Senator Bailey. Senator Bailey has his home in Gainesville and spends his time in other states than Texas. That he lends his influence in a local scramble of this character is surprising, and the governor has very properly rebuked him by ignoring his recommendation. Senator Bailey has no interest in the city of Dallas.

Mr. Cockrell is of fine old democratic stock, related to the senator from Missouri of the same name, and a son of one of the most prominent men in Texas. That he is opposed by the present mayor of Dallas and the junior senator of Texas indicates that he is feared by politicians who have controlled Dallas so long, and radical changes in affairs are expected.

HUMAN CIPHERS

A sermon delivered in Chicago a few days ago by Rev. William B. Teach, had reference to idlers, and in his discussion he asserted that those who do no work are a bar to progress. "Human Ciphers" was the subject of his discourse. He said in part:

"Christ thundered down the ages the great question, 'Why stand ye here idle all the day?' Nothing to do? Are we so blind as that?

"The ciphers of humanity are the cloggers of everything good. In church they block the way. So it is in civil and business life. In politics the cipher is a damage.

"Loss of individuality soon makes the individual a zero. The great combinations of capital and labor all tend to the demeaning of the human race, to make man a thing, a machine, a cipher. Independence of thought, of action, becomes a thing of the past.

"We are dying for a positiveness in church and state. People will not realize or give heed to the soul's danger or the country's need. 'Drifting, drifting with the tide,' might be said of the majority of the human race.

"Jesus Christ, the one positive factor in the world's history and theology, came to make men gods and if we are not as gods it is our fault. The heirship promised makes men positive, self-reliant factors in all that tends to the uplifting of the world."

What the Chicago divine says applies readily to the idlers in Fort Worth as well as elsewhere. The loafing negroes and the idling whites are species of the "human ciphers," which are a detriment to every community. They breed disease, they conspire for crime, they menace life and make unsafe property interests. They should be taken in by the police and made to earn their bread by breaking rock for the city or seeking employment at those places where men are wanted. Idlers are a detriment.

HOW PIUS X. WAS ELECTED

Details of the papal election at hand through Italian papers and private advices from Rome are interesting. The selection of Pius X. was due to the veto of the Austrian government against Cardinal Rampolla and to the personal activity of Cardinal Satolli for the patriarch of Venice. The Giornale d'Italian prints a diary of the conclave, which began on Saturday, August 1. The first ballot taken on that day resulted as follows: Rampolla 24, Gotti 17, Sarto 5, S. Vannutelli, 4, Oreglia 2, Capecelatro 2, Di Pietro 2, Agliardi 1, Ferrata 1, Richelmy 1, Portanova 1, Casseta 1, Segna 1.

During the interval between this ballot and dinner time the cardinals were free and visited one another in their rooms or walked up and down the halls interchanging views, impressions and preferences. It was during these hours that the work of the different factions developed and candidacies were discussed. The second ballot resulted: Rampolla 29, Gotti 16, Sarto 10, Richelmy 3, Capecelatro 2, Vannutelli 1, Segna 1.

Sunday, August 2, was a memorable day in the conclave and is thus chronicled:

"Intense agitation among the cardinals. Satolli was indefatigable. He passed from room to room, begging the cardinals to vote for the patriarch of Venice. He disappointed a great many by doing this, all expecting that he, being a great friend of Rampolla, would work for him. The supporters of Rampolla began to feel the ground sinking under their feet. Cardinal Rampolla remained cold and indifferent, moving through the corridors in silence, occasionally transmitting an order in a low voice to some cardinal or his assistant. The cardinals in charge of dioceses gave full expression to their desire of having a pope elected who would be more approachable, and would look after the needs of the people committed to his care. Satolli used this for all it was worth."

The vote on Sunday morning stood: Rampolla 29, Sarto 21, Gotti 9, Oreglia 1, Di Pietro 1, Capecelatro 1. The afternoon ballot was: Rampolla 30, Sarto 24, Gotti 3, Oreglia 2, Di Pietro 2, Capecelatro 1.

It was on Sunday that the veto of the Emperor Francis Joseph was presented by one of the Austro-Hungarian cardinals.

On Monday an informal discussion was held by the cardinals in reference to Cardinal Sarto, who was unknown to most of them. Cardinal Sarto declared that he was not a willing candidate. Several cardinals, including Ferrari, Satolli and Agliardi, urged him to accept the decision of the conclave. The Monday morning ballot stood: Sarto 27, Rampolla 24, Gotti 6, Oreglia 1, Capecelatro 1, Prisco 1, Di Pietro 1, blank 1.

The blank ballot is stated to have been cast by Cardinal Sarto. The Monday afternoon vote stood: Sarto 35, Rampolla 16, Gotti 7, Oreglia 2, Capecelatro 1, blank 1.

The scene when the last vote was taken is vividly described:

"Cardinals assembled for the last time. Cardinal Sarto appeared pale and apparently unhappy. He had passed a sleepless night. Cardinal Rampolla was severe of aspect, but he had an impenetrable calmness. His friends were discouraged, but they did not abandon him. In the last ballot only ten stood by him, so it was certain that the election of Sarto was assured. As the votes were being counted many of those cardinals finally went to Satolli and expressed great satisfaction."

The last vote taken on Tuesday, August 4, resulted: Sarto 50, Rampolla 10, Gotti 2.

The papal election was thus not free from exciting incidents nor from methods prevailing in other electoral contests. The conclave of August, 1903, will rank in history with the most interesting in the history of the papal office.

In deciding that the man who made the effort to enter the president's home at Oyster Bay with a loaded revolver is insane the ablest experts should be consulted. It is very easy for those who wish to attack the president to feign insanity after they are caught, and if this man is not insane, the confinement in a mad house is no punishment for his attempt to do harm to the chief magistrate. If this man is the member of some anarchistic organization he has agreed to take a chance for his own life to carry out the purpose for which he went to the president's home. That he was unsuccessful is due to the efforts of the secret service men. Now that he is captured it is very easy for him to do the Hoskins act and pretend to be a lunatic. His wild tale of wireless conversation with the president, an engagement with Miss Roosevelt, etc., is easily assumed, in the hope of preventing the punishment richly deserved. Therefore it behooves the authorities to make a thorough investigation at the asylum to ascertain if the lunacy is assumed or is real.

The inquiry by Mr. Wesson regarding the cash accruing to the city by the fines imposed on the gamblers a few days ago shows a proper interest in the affairs of Fort Worth, and The Telegram in this issue publishes the information desired. It is such interest that shows good citizenship, and it should be more general. The city belongs to the people and the people should closely watch their own.

The Tyler Courier has had a birthday, and is now six years old. It is a pretty paper typographically, prints the news and has an aggressive editorial column. Now that it has reached that age of newspapers when discretion is supposed to be an element, the Courier might produce the evidence to prove the recent charges made against the Sayers administration

Why should Senator Bailey of Texas interfere with the internal affairs of the city of Dallas by taking a hand in the fight over the commissionership? Governor Lanham handled his recommendation in the matter like Russia did the United States petition on the Jewish affair.

SYNOPSIS

Chapter I.—Amy Rivers, the ward of Theodore Shelf, a hypocrite, is engaged to Hamilton Fairfax. II.—Shelf proposes a piratical scheme to Patrick Cambel, Shelf being under the influence of Mrs. Shelf. III., IV., V. and VI.—The scheme is to ship gold to New Orleans, over-insuring it and wrecking it. Shelf and Cambel employ Captain Owen Kettle to command the steamer, the Port Edes, and to carry out the plan, Cambel sails in the steamer. As the Port Edes, laden with the boxes, leaves the dock a man on shore declares she is doomed. The crew attempt to seize the vessel in order to secure the gold. IX—But Captain Kettle subdues the mutiny. X and XI—Cambel, who has attached wires from his stateroom, makes the electric connection and causes an explosion. The ship appears to be sinking. Kettle sends Cambel below with the ostensible purpose of seeing what is the trouble. Cambel returns and by his appearance the men judge that the ship is sinking and take to the boats. This leaves only Kettle, Cambel and one man on board, which has all been planned. They steer for Florida. Cambel, coming up from below, sees a small pleasure schooner approaching with a girl at the tiller—Elsie Kildare, a sister of the girl who had refused him and made him what he was. They are on the Florida coast. They take the Port Edes into a bayou and are followed by a sloop whose crew are engaged in the illicit work of hunting plumes from the tropical birds of the Everglades. The plume hunters see the Port Edes' name and from newspapers know that she has gold on board.

And with that the donkeyman staggered away to his room beneath the poop, sat over the edge of his bunk and was snoring melodiously before his head and his heels were on the blanket.

Meanwhile a mile lower down a small centerboard sloop was turning to windward up the river, but making little headway against the current. A negro stood in her forescuttle, with his elbows on the deck. Two others sprawled on either side of him. A white man lay spread eagled on the top of the coach roof of the cabin, and another stood in the cockpit steering.

Of all the quintet the man at the tiller was the only one who showed signs of energy, and his energy had sulphurous anger mixed with it. He was a bowed, shambling creature, with one eye red and the other missing, with long, hairy, ape-like arms, with a dumb impediment of speech which threw him into paroxysms of temper every second time he opened his lips. Once or twice when his malady stuck him voiceless in the middle of a sentence the other white man laughed, and then when his tongue served him again he would break off from the text and rap out a stream of poisonous cursings.

At last he climaxed these by the only vituperation which no American can listen to unmoved, and the man on the coach roof dropped his indolence like a flash and was on him before he could resist. The aggressor was lusty, and he shook the steersman as a big dog shakes a rat, with ponderous wrenches, and because the sloop carried a strong weather helm when the tiller was let go she ran up into the wind, with her canvas slatting wildly.

"You snake mouthed little skunk, you'd say that to me, would you? I thought I learned you once how far you might go. You've had one eye gouged for this game less'n a month back, and if you fling your twisted stuttering tongue at me any more, by gum, I'll pocket the other."

The blacks on the foredeck chuckled and spluttered, but the big man hove an iron bucket at them, with the curt command, "Quit that yehawin!" which they did with a yell and a sudden veiling of ivory. Then with an indolent sprawling of arms and legs he gained his basking place again on the top of the cabin roof, and once more the steersman got the sloop under command.

The next three boards were made in silence, save for the creaking of the gear when she went about, and then the one eyed man broke out again.

"You're sure it wasn't a government bo-o-o-at, Hank?"

"Government be sugared! She wasn't the right build to start with. Besides, if government knew this channel at all, you bet it'd be said so in all the papers. And she did know it, or she wouldn't have gone buzzing past at six knots without a leadsman. Seems to me some one's split, and she's some darned Britisher come to cut out our game for themselves."

"You tire me. Plume hunting's illegal by these bub-bub-blessed bird laws, and so's selling whisky to Injuns. As it is, we've trouble enough to sneak in and out of the 'Glades in this sus-sus-sus-s-s-lip of a sloop, so how in hades d'you expect they'd do it in a 1,000 ton"— Here the man's infirmity blocked his speech for a full minute. He snarled out, "Oh, I've no use for a blank putty head like you."

Hank laughed and put tobacco into his mouth. "Go it," he said. "Go it, right close to the end if you like, but bring up short of that, or I'll gouge you, sure's death."

The steersman grinned a spasm of fury. He longed much to use again the unpardonable phrase, but he forebore. He felt that his friend would be as good as his word. So he ceased from speech altogether, and a negro on the foredeck enlivened the silence with the Jordan hymn, giving full value to every possible shake and turn.

A porpoise surged past them making for the open after a day's fresh water fishing, and once or twice an alligator's eyebrows and snout showed like knots of blackwood floating up against the current, for this was territory where the skin hunter's rifle had not scared them altogether into night work. The sloop's pace up stream was small, and it was not till just before nightfall that she rounded a cape where high black pines stood up like soldiers on parade around the water's edge and saw the steamer. She was grounded on a sandbank athwart the stream and lay with a two foot list away from the current. Not until they were close aboard of her could those on the sloop see the gold lettering on her counter.

"B-b-both lifeboats gone. Say, that's rum!"

"Port Edes of London," Hank read. "Port Edes? I seem to know that name. Hullo, Nutt! What's wrong now? You look as though I'd said your rich uncle had gone dead."

The one eyed man's face was lit up with an unholy joy. "Don't you know?" he stuttered out. "The biz was in all the papers. That steamboat was bringing out £500,000 in sovereigns. Her port was New Orleans, and she's got here. By gum, I suppose they think they're going to steal it all by themselves."

"Who's they?" inquired the other.

"I guess we shall know that soon," returned the one eyed man grimly. "Hi, you niggers there forward! I s'pose you got razors hid somewhere in yer pants?"

"Say," drawled his friend, "you'd mebbe better go slow, Billy Nutt. That steamer does look asleep, but if you start making yourself ugly too soon somebody may wake up and pull off guns at us."

"Shoot or no shoot," retorted the man at the tiller, "I'm going to have some of their plunder before a dozen hours are over, or else be a deader. I've never had a chance like this in all my life before, and I'll never geg-geg-get another."

"You bet not," agreed the other. "Nor'll I. That's why I'll stand in with you over this deal down to the last chip. I reckon," he added in a lower voice, "we can count well on the niggers too. They're not exactly a camp meeting crowd. They're toughs that a racket like this'll suit as nat'ral as chicken stealing."

CHAPTER XIV.

RESULTS IN LONDON.

"How awfully ghastly!" said Amy Rivers. "Yes," said Fairfax. "Those anarchist people ought to be shot down like dangerous wild beasts whenever they open their mouths. Think of it! Not only a fine ship but £500,000 in specie blotted out of existence by this murderous bomb. It will come fearfully heavy on some of the underwriters. There will be a black pay day at Lloyds' when they settle up over this. You never saw such excitement as there is in the city. Papers were selling at half a crown apiece."

"And is it certain that poor Mr. Cambel is drowned?"

"I'm afraid practically so. The two lifeboats were picked up next morning and their crews taken into Mobile. When they came to count heads, it was found that the captain, Cambel and one of the engine room hands were missing. In the hurry of the escape they seem to have got into neither lifeboat. The telegram says that no other boat would have lived a minute in the sea that was running at the time, even if one had been lowered, and the mate, who writes, does not think that this was even attempted, because the Port Edes sank before they had driven out of sight. We had a private cablegram at the office before I left, and that told how other steamers crossing that part of the gulf had been on the lookout, but up to then not even so much as a scrap of wreckage had been sighted. So I fear it is past a doubt that she sank like a stone in deep water and took those poor fellows down with her."

"It is horribly sad, especially when one remembers what I heard this morning. Hamilton, the girl Mr. Cambel went wild about six years ago, is out in Florida this minute and free. Duvernay, the man she married, died six months ago of malarial fever. You know, Mr. Cambel was engaged to her just after he left Cambridge and went as an attache and was desperately fond of her, as I imagined he could be, and when her people forced her into marrying the other fellow he threw up his post and wandered into all the most out of the way corners of the earth to try to forget things. What makes me so interested is this: I've just found out that she was a Miss Mabel Kildare before she was married, and when I was a child I used to know her sister Elsie very well indeed. In fact, I believe we were some sort of cousins, and for half a year we had the same governess together and were as intimate as two children could be. Then her sister married Mr. Duvernay, who had a colonial appointment, and Elsie went with them abroad, and we dropped completely out of touch with one another. Strange, isn't it, that I should hear of her again the same day that brings news of poor Mr. Cambel's death?"

"It's a small world this," said Fairfax sententiously, "and coincidences are the commonest things in it. I suppose in a novel the pair of them ought to have come together and forgiven the past and married and settled down in a villa residence, with ivy and clematis attachment, and lived happily ever afterward. Unfortunately real life is balder and far less romantic."

"You seem out of spirits," said his fiancee, linking her fingers over his arm.

"I suppose I am. To begin with, this Port Edes business isn't calculated to enliven one, and then on the top of that I've had another taste of your blessed guardian's business methods which have nearly sickened me out of the office altogether. You know about this Brothers Steamship company which he is trying to float? Well, we had a preliminary meeting today—quite 1,000 people, and all, comparatively speaking, poor. They were for the most part the gang he preaches to on Sunday, with a sprinkling of skippers out of work and other seafaring folk who had saved a trifle of money.

"Shelf commenced the business with prayer, which is right enough at its proper time, but struck me as being particularly out of place there. The audience, however, groaned approval, and their confidence in the man seemed to be strengthened. He followed this up with a clever speech about the profits to be made out of the modern sea carrying trade and enlarged upon the notorious fact that the losses of the business largely arose from the lack of interest on the part of shipmasters and other officers. This last, he said, would be entirely removed in the Brothers Steamship company, because by the articles of association no man would hold a responsible position on any one of their vessels who was not an actual shareholder of the company. And then he pointed out that there was an 8 per cent dividend guaranteed on preference stock and a certain 15 per cent or 18 per cent on the ordinary and wound up with another dose of cant. The company, he said, would not be alone content with earning income for its [illegible] have as its equal object the spreading of the gospel and the civilization of England to the uttermost parts of the globe.

"Then the meeting cheered and amended and wrote out an application for 10,000 £5 shares then and there in the room on forms which were handed round, and when it dispersed Mr. Theodore Shelf and I drove back to the offices.

"'Look here,' I said to him, 'you've put me down on the directorate of this thing, with a salary of £1,000 a year. I want to resign.'

"'What on earth for?'

"'Oh, shall we say I haven't sufficient money loose to take up enough shares?'

"'But,' he said quickly, 'you needn't take up any. You can draw your first quarter's salary and pay that back to the company's bankers on your first call. That will qualify you.'

"'No,' I said, 'I'm not going to do that. I'm going to be mixed up with this new company in no degree whatever. Flatly, I don't believe in the thing one bit. It's a notorious fact that freights are so low just now that thousands of tons of shipping are laid up because it can't be run at a profit, and if you put more in commission freights will tumble down still lower.'

"'You speak from your ignorance,' he said. 'I should remind you that I am by far an older man and have a much deeper experience. The business of Marmaduke Rivers & Shelf is a lasting monument of what my humble talents can accomplish and you will some day see for yourself the newer company on an equal footing. Did you not notice what enthusiastic confidence in its prosperity those humble friends of mine showed this afternoon?'

"'A fat lot they know about the shipping business,' said I. 'In the mood you worked them up to they'd have believed in an advertising stockbroker's circular if only there were a text at the head of the page.'

"Shelf pulled the check string, and his brougham stopped against the curb. 'Mr. Fairfax,' said he, 'your attitude pains me. Let us part here for the time, and let us both pray that when next we meet you may be in a more Christian mind,' whereupon out I stepped and came along here to Park lane. Amy, dear, I don't like the look of things at all. The other business—the Oceanic Steam Transport company, as it is called officially—is by no means in a healthy condition, and remembering that it seems to me that starting this new company is something very nearly approaching a swindle I believe that Theodore Shelf, knowing that he is in low water, is getting desperate."

"I don't know about the last," replied the girl thoughtfully; "but, as for being in low water, there I think you are wrong. Every week here they seem to spend more money than they did the week before.

"And is it certain that poor Mr. Cambel is drowned?"

Mrs. Shelf was at a picture sale yesterday and bought two old masters at 4,000 guineas apiece, and it isn't likely she'd throw away that sum on what is absolutely and entirely a luxury unless money were pretty plentiful with her."

"It can't go on at this pace," said Fairfax. "I know what the limits of the business are, and I am certain it can't stand the drain which all this gorgeousness must entail. Last year the profits were almost nil, and yet did Mrs. Shelf retrench at all? Not a bit. She goes in for more and more display every week she lives. This pace must bring about a wreck, and if the Oceanic Steam Transport company goes down it is an absolute certainty that this new Brothers company willl be swamped with it."

"And then?"

"More than 5,000 poor people, for the most part old, will find that the savings of a lifetime have vanished into nothingness before their eyes. It is an awful thing even to think such a suspicion against a man, but the idea is growing upon me, and Theodore Shelf saw what I thought when he showed me out of his brougham this afternoon."

"Then what," asked the girl in a horrified whisper, "will you do?"

"Nothing. What can I do? To breathe a word of it aloud would be a libel, and if I did not get sent to jail they would pack me off to Hanwell as a malicious madman. Shelf's name is as good as a banknote in the city this day, and for everybody's sake I trust I have wronged him foully, and that it may always continue so. But, Amy, dear, I have a heavy foreboding on me that in less than half a year's time there will be a mob of wretched people shooting themselves or going to the workhouse because he has ruined them, and they haven't the pluck or the thews left to commence life afresh."

CASH FINES ALL PAID INTO CITY TREASURY

The Telegram is in receipt of the following communication, dated yesterday:
To the Editor:

I notice in this evening's paper the following statement under the caption of "Gamblers Enter Pleas of Guilty:"

"The total fines imposed was a record-breaker so far as Judge Prewett's regime is concerned, being $341.50. A few weeks of this sort of business and the city would be able to meet its bond interest without difficulty."

Will you please state for the information of your readers just how much cash will go into the city's cash box out of this $341.50, provided it is all paid in cash? I have always been opposed to the fee system for paying for public services, realizing just as good service can be had by paying liberal salaries, and the city's cash box kept better filled. The old saying that the man who tries to get something for nothing usually pays two prices will hold good with cities and counties as well. M. B. WESSON.

In answer to the foregoing The Telegram wishes to say that the corporation court is not conducted on the fee system. Prosecutor Roy is paid a fixed salary—$100 per month. It is only a few months since this system was inaugurated, however. Of the $341.50 in fines imposed yesterday $253 was paid in cash, all of which goes directly to the city. When fines are worked out on the streets no cash accrues to the city.

GALVESTON HAS A BOOM

Hugh Jamieson Returns From Pleasant Visit to His Old Home

Hugh Jamieson, window dresser for Washer Bros., returned from a week's visit to his old home in Galveston yesterday. Mr. Jamieson reports that Galveston is enjoying a boom. The city has made remarkable improvement in street paving and the merchants report that their business has been better this year than ever before. Real estate is changing hands rapidly and many people are buying with the expectation of increased value in the future. The foundation for a new hotel on the beach, which will surpass the former one, destroyed by fire several years ago, is in course of construction.

Mr. Jamieson says that everybody is asking about Fort Worth and its wonderful packing house industries. The fall carnival advertising has reached there, and Fort Worth can rely on having a good delegation from Galveston.

"But for good, pure breezes and fine nights, Fort Worth is good enough for me," concludes Mr. Jamieson.

CARROLL INSTITUTE ANNIVERSARY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Carroll Institute, one of the best known Catholic institutions in America, celebrated its thirtieth anniversary today with a public meeting and banquet attended by diplomats, public officials and scores of other eminent members of the Roman Catholic church.

The institute, which was founded in 1873 and named in honor of Archbishop Carroll of Maryland, has for a quarter of a century been the center of Roman Catholic social and literary life in the national capital. Brilliant receptions to high dignitaries of the church, conventions of natonal interest to Catholics and mass meetings of more than local importance have been held within its walls on various occasions, all of which has caused the institute to become a familiar name among the Catholic people of the entire country. The institute occupies a handsome building of its own in Tenth street, formally opened in 1893 with a brilliant reception in honor of Cardinal Satolli.

THE ORPHANS ARE AGAIN VICTORIOUS

In a Battle Between McKay and Reagan Waco's Twirler Gets the Decision, 8 to 5

Waco won the fifth game of the Dallas-Waco championship series yesterday by a score of 8 to 5.

McKay for the Orphans pitched a fine game, allowing the local team only five hits, while Reagan was touched up for eight hard drives and at critical times during the game was badly in the air.

Bateman, who was injured by a pitched ball in the second game of the series, was again in the game yesterday and besides his home run is credited with a single. McKay presented to the 'scientific base runners" five free passes to first, but this little encouragement was hardly enough for them to win the game. The error column was divided equally between both teams, each side being credited with four.

DEVOURED BY WORMS

Children often cry, not from pain, but from hunger, although fed abundantly. The entire trouble arises from inanition, their food is not assimilated, but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once, very much to the surprise and joy of the mother. 25c at H. T. Pangburn & Co.'s.

BUCHANAN IS HIT HARD

Jim Buchanan, the popular Fort Worth pitcher and one of the best twirlers in Texas, has signed with the Colorado Springs team. He pitched his first game last Monday against Omaha and was knocked out of the box in the third inning. His team won the game, though, 15 to 11.

"Buck" probably is a victim of the high altitude. He wasn't in the habit of going "up in the air" down here.

BACHELORS PLAY CLERKS

The McCord-Collins Bachelors will play the Retail Clerks Sunday afternoon at Haines Park. These two teams have played two of the best amateur games seen here this season—the first, a one to nothing, ten-inning game, the second a three to four, eleven-inning game. Sorrels, who is in the South Texas League, may be back in time to twirl for the Bachelors; if not, Murrey will pitch for them. Hawn will work for the Clerks. Play will be called promptly at 4 o'clock. No charge for ladies.

COTTON SEED CRUSHERS WILL MEET TODAY

AN EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO REDUCE THE PRICES OF OIL MILL PRODUCTS TO EXPORT PRICES. MILL MEN AND CATTLE FEEDERS WILL GET TOGETHER ON PRICES

Fort Worth will be well represented at the meeting of the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers' Association, which will be in session in Dallas today and tomorrow. On account of very important matters to not only the members of the association, but to the cattlemen of Texas, the attendance will be the largest in many years.

The meeting was called to order in the rooms of the Commercial Club this morning at 10 o'clock by the president, Frank W. Maddin of Tyler.

David Boaz, one of the members of the association, of Fort Worth, said to The Telegram this morning that he would attend the convention and that he was very much interested in many of the matters to come before the meeting, one in particular, the fixing of prices for seed this year for the use of Texas stockmen.

TO REDUCE PRICES

Mr. Boaz said that seed was so high last season that cattlemen found much complaint because of the fact that they were unable to feed seed with profit to themselves, the prices ranging from $18 to $24 per ton. He believes that at the Dallas meeting seed will be greatly reduced in price, which will permit stockmen to use it with profit this year.

Mr. Boaz further said that the mill men were inclined to meet the cattlemen half way this year. They show, he says, a disposition to put the prices at a reasonable figure this season, which will allow a profit to the feeder as well as to the mills.

However, the cotton seed crusher men say that they will not be able to put the price of seed below that of export figures, which are at the present time $18 per ton. Mr. Boaz says that the intention is to have the seed reduced to $17, and if this is done the cattlemen will be heavy users of the product of the Texas mills. This price, he believes, will prevail at the mills during the present season.

TEXAS "OLIVE OIL"

It is claimed by the mill men that they can realize better prices by exporting their product, which goes to the old country, where it is converted into the finest quality of "olive oil."

Mr. Boaz will be accompanied by Frank Weaver, who has always been a great feeder of the cotton oil mill products. Others of this city will also attend the Dalias meeting.

Mr. Boaz says that on account of the importance of the matter of prices of mill products to the cattle feeders, he looks for one of the largest meetings of the kind ever held in Texas.

CONDITION OF COTTON IN TEXAS AND OUT

A GENERAL SUMMING UP OF THE CROP SHOWS THE PLANT TO BE IN GOOD CONDITION IN NORTH AND CENTRAL TEXAS WITH THE EXCEPTION OF A FEW ISOLATED POINTS

Reports being received from different sections of the cotton districts of north Texas, and also from some parts of central Texas, by Huffman & Weaver, cotton brokers, give a very satisfactory status of the plant. The statements received from reliable parties, such as bankers and prominent business firms by this company, indicate that cotton crop conditions, with the exception of a few isolated places, were never better. It is stated that some complaint is made of premature opening, while boll weevil is doing some damage. A summing up of general conclusions of these parties show that the crop is going to be the largest in what is known as the Fort Worth cotton district in many years.

One banker from Granbury writes that the crop is as good as it could well be in both Johnson and Hood counties.

CONDITIONS IN OKLAHOMA

From Oklahoma comes similar reports. One correspondent stated that more cotton was going to be raised there than could be well cared for, as there is likely to be a scarcity of labor. It is believed that there will not be enough help to clear the fields on account of the overabundance of the crop. The crop in Oklahoma, like in Texas, is from two to four weeks late. This fact alone will make the picking of all cotton a laborious matter as it will necessitate the gathering of cotton, when it is fully matured, within a period four weeks shorter time than usual.

One gentleman, referring to the undoubted shortage of labor in the territory, said that it would be necessary to import men to facilitate cotton picking.

Thus far there has been no complaint of this kind heard in Texas, but there may be later on when the cotton picking season is inaugurated.

Huffman & Weaver have just built a new line from Fort Worth to Brownwood, Stephenville, Dublin, Granbury and Comanche and are opening branch houses in each of these towns. The telegraph line cost $3,500.

OUT OF THE STATE

The Huffman company today received reports from several other states, one from Georgia that the cotton crop of that state will be 20 per cent short of last year's crop, according to all reports.

Another report states that the improvement that has taken place in cotton since August 1 is proof that corn has improved also. Hence, there is a better feeling in the earning power of the corn carrying states.

Messrs. Huffman & Co., when asked for an estimate of the Texas cotton crop, stated that it was entirely too early to venture a statement as to what the crop would be, but said that it would be very much larger than last season.

TWO LEGAL HOLIDAYS

Next Monday being a legal holiday (Labor day) there will be no market. There will also be no market on the preceding Saturday. Consequently, there will be no reports received in Fort Worth on these days from the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade and the New York Cotton and Stock Exchanges.

THROUGH LINE INTO KLONDIKE

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 3.—It is learned on excellent authority that the promotors of the new Valdez, Copper River and Tanana railroad have for their primary object the construction of an all-American through line into the Klondike. The intention is to build a railroad from Valdez, on Prince William sound, to Eagle City, on the Yukon river, a distance of 430 miles, in addition to a spur of fifty-five miles down the Tanana river to reach the placer gold diggings in that section, and to handle both passengers and freight. Construction has been in progress now for some time and it is hoped to finish the work during the coming summer.

With the advent of the railroad and the knowledge that it will be speedily built into the copper district, and the fact that the route is 500 miles shorter than any other in the Tanana diggings, it is believed that intending copper operators will send in men and supplies to begin development preliminary to extensive operations on the completion of the road.

THE GENUINE VS. COUNTERFEITS

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine De Witt's Witch Hazel Salves with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by druggists.

THE BUSBY SHORTAGE

John L. Wortham, financial agent of the penitentiaries, and J. H. Walker, assistant, came to Austin yesterday for a consultation with the attorney general. They had nothing to give out with reference to the object of this consultation, but it was reported around the capitol that they furnished that department with a complete statement of the alleged shortage of Mr. Busby, former financial agent of the penitentiary at Rusk, and were advising with that department as to what legal steps would now be taken.

INCREASE IN TAX VALUES

Of the 244 counties in the state, complete tax rolls of 191 have been received by the comptroller for 1903. A majority of the counties from which rolls have been received show an increase in taxable values over 1902.

While this estimate is not intended to be exact, but merely an approximation, if the 193 counties to hear from show an increase in assessment in the same proportion as those whose rolls are already in the total taxable wealth of Texas for 1903 will be close to $1,250,000,000, as against $1,017,571,752 for 1902, an increase of $232,428,268.

Following are the counties from which rolls were received yesterday:

Galveston county—Assessment for 1903, $21,895,950; 1902, $21,958,340; decrease, $62,390.

Anderson county—Assessment for 1903, $7,634,172; 1902, $7,015,273; increase, $618,899.

Eastland county—Assessment for 1903, $4,575,065; 1902, $4,317,982; increase, $257,083.

Johnson county—Assessment for 1903, $9,096,510; 1902, $8,735,890; increase, $360,470.

Leon county—Assessment for 1903, $3,069,380; 1902, $2,999,303; increase, $70,077.

SAN MARCOS NORMAL

Great preparations are being made for the opening exercises of the first session of the Southwest Texas Normal school at San Marcos on Sept. 9. This is the institution over which there was such a sharp contest during the last legislature regarding the election of a superintendent, there being so much strenuous opposition to Professor T. G. Harris, who had been elected by the state board of education. Professor Harris will assume charge of the institution. It will start off with a large attendance of students from different portions of the state.

A CONTRACT AGREED ON

At a meeting of the state water and light board, composed of the governor, attorney general and secretary of state, this evening, with the Austin water and light commission, the terms for a six years' contract were practically agreed upon by which the City Water and Light Company will furnish water, lights and power to the state institutions at Austin.

THE WESLEY CELEBRATION

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Sept. 3.—The celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, which began here last night, is attended by about 2,000 Methodists from all sections of the Waxahachie district. An excellent program of vocal and instrumental music was rendered last night as a preliminary to the opening address of Congressman J. A. Beall.

The devotional exercises this morning at 8:30 were conducted by Rev. Jerome Duncan of Hillsboro.

This morning a missionary conference was held at the auditorium, which was led by Dr. Horace Bishop of Dallas. After the reports of officers were received, Rev. George C. Rankin of Dallas delivered an address on the subject, "Historic Conditions Which Made the Methodist Revival a Necessity."

In the afternoon a Sunday school conference was held. There were reports from officers and a general discussion by Sunday school workers. The following addresses were delivered:

"The Big Boy Problem," Professor J. D. Coghlan of Midlothian.

"The Art of Teaching," Professor G. B. Winn of Waxahachie.

"Evangelization of Our German Neighbors," Rev. A. E. Rector.

At 8:30 this evening E. W. Alderson of Sulphur Springs will deliver an address on "The Methodist View of the Church."

FALLS FROM TRAIN

Boy From Chicago Injured at Weatherford—An Entertainment

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Sept. 3.—Last night as the Texas and Pacific passenger train, No. 5, slowed up Archie Burnett, who claims to be from Chicago, while trying to alight from the blind baggage of the train, lost his grip and fell to the ground, receiving several bruises on the body and striking against a stone was internally injured.

He claimed that he was on his way to El Paso and since being short on money he was making his way by riding the blind baggage. Dr. Heartsill, the Texas and Pacific local physician, took the boy in charge and today says he thinks he will be all right in a few days.

Last night Miss Francis Lysart entertained. The following were present: Misses Grace Holland, Fanny Miller, Mary Stephens, Kate Burthard, Jessie Maddox and Nellie White, and Luke Maddox, Roy Shumate, Eugene Ferrell, Ben Fain, Charles Milliken and Harry Baker.

Thura Bloom left for Columbus, Ohio, this morning to enter a dental college there.

ELLIS COUNTY VITAL STATISTICS

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Sept. 3.—The report of County Clerk Hendricks on vital statistics for the month of August shows that during the month there were 173 births and thirty-two deaths in the county, or a fraction over five births to one death. Of the number of births there were but fifteen colored. The report for August is not absolutely correct as several were reported by physicians too late to be included.

TESTIMONY GIVEN IN EXPRESS HEARING

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 3.—The express hearing was continued before the railroad commission yesterday.

A letter was introduced in evidence from M. Weiss of Beaumont, complaining that a claim he presented to the Wells Fargo & Co.'s Express was sent to San Francisco for settlement, which resulted in both delay and inconvenience.

Superintendent Taft explained that this may have occurred, the reason for which was that the transaction occurred during the tremendous rush of business at Sour Lake, when it was almost if not impossible for the Texas force to exercise their usual promptness in the dispatch of business.

F. D. Adams of the American Express Company was put on the stand. He testified at length in regard to the transportation of money, the charges for the same and the risks incurred. Mr. Adams said that the losses of the company by train robberies was very large, at least 75 per cent of the company's loss was sustained in this way. Railroad terminals, he said, were the points where such robberies were perpetrated. The risks incurred in handling money made this class of business unprofitable. Last year his company received only $4,124.24 for transporting money. Any reduction in the present rate received for carrying freight would injure the express companies, for the reason that since the present classification was made the expenses had increased along all lines.

Attorney Lovett brought from the witness that the elaborate system of maintaining general offices in the state provided by law for railroads, was not intended and did not apply to express companies.

Commissioner Colquitt wanted to know why the American charged more in proportion for the transportation of money between Houston and points in Texas than between St. Louis and points south, and asked if the risks from robberies were greater in Texas than other states.

Witness answered that St. Louis being a large financial center, the business was larger. No greater risks were incurred in handling money in Texas than other states, and the charges fixed for handling Texas money were the basis of what the company thought it was worth.

Superintendents G. A. Taft of the Wells Fargo and J. A. Russ of the Pacific were called to the stand. These officials testified in detail as to the methods of transacting their business, particularly as to the manner of arriving at their figures and making their annual reports.

J. M. Crawford of Houston, chief clerk in the general office of the company, was placed on the stand and questioned by Commissioner Mayfield as to the company's intra and interstate business, showing that the general office in Houston had no more connection with the general offices in Kansas City than was necessary.

The testimony closed both for the commission and the companies and the argument was commenced. Judge R. S. Lovett for the companies argued that the reports of the express companies showed that they paid to the railroads some 50 per cent of their earnings, and seemed to be doing business at a loss. During the past year they have declared some dividends. I dare say if they had transacted all business in Texas free of charge that they could still declare some dividends to their stockholders.

This being true, he said, no one will seriously contend that the state has a right to require them to do so, or to reduce the rate for transporting freight below a point where the business ceases to be profitable.

Mr. Lovett said that in determining the question this commission must first establish the fact that the present rate is too high, and that this, to mind the testimony taken during this investigation, does not show.

It does not concern this commission, he said, nor the people of Texas what rate they may charge within reason; they are entitled to make a fair profit on the business they do.

Mr. Lovett contended that this commission proposes a general blanket reduction of 10 per cent on present classifications. There is no evidence before the commission, nor has any argument been adduced to justify this reduction.

All we have learned during this investigation, he said, is that the rates in Texas are already as low as any southern state. The express business need not be transacted by a corporation; it can be transacted by an individual; but whether by a corporation or an individual, each is entitled to fair compensation.

As to the general offices of the companies in the state, he said that they may not have kept all in their offices that the law requires, but they have kept all the commission requires, and where all the information can be obtained the commission has asked for. But whether they have or have not is no reason why the rate should be reduced, he contended. Let each question stand separately on its merit. If the general offices are not sufficient, let the commission take up the matter of requiring them to keep more of their general business in this state.

Judge E. B. Perkins said, discussing the subject of the alleged failure of the express companies to keep their general offices in Texas: "They keep all the law requires them to keep, and this commission has no right to require more than the law authorizes. Now as to the rates, we will take a little package that the express companies contracts to deliver for 10 cents. The railroads get one-half of this and from the remaining half the other costs of delivery must be deducted, which you can see at once leaves very little for the company. As with little packages, so with large ones.

If the commission wants to get after these express fellows for a failure to make prompt delivery or for not attending to business, all right, but do not reduce the rate below a point where it ceases to be remunerative."

Judge Spoonts, attorney for the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad, addressed the commission. He said: "If a reduction in the rate would result in such an increase in business as some contend, the railroads would be forced to greatly increase their rolling stock, and perhaps put on regular express trains. Any reduction the commission sees proper to make will effect also the interest of the railroads, and interfere with the efficiency of the passenger service furnished the public by the railroads."

Judge Spoonts closed the argument, and the commission took the subject under advisement.

Saved

From Death After Four Years

Of Nervous Prostration and Debility.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Me Permanently.

Nervous prostration is the most serious of nervous disorders. It arises from some extra strain, which robs the nerves of strength, vitality and life. The patient speedily loses self control, is subject to frightful headaches, faint spells, melancholia and morbid tendencies. Too weak to drag the thin, wasted body around; unable to get sleep or rest, life seems scarcely worth the living; the mind frequently broods until it becomes unbalanced and insanity often results. Read what Dr. Miles' Nervine did for Mrs. Grabill:

"I was terribly afflicted with nervous trouble for nearly four years. I was so bad at times that I could not help myself, nor carry a chair across the room without giving out. One physician attended me for a year and a half without giving me any help whatever and I also doctored with two others without any good results. My father and others wished me to try Dr. Miles' Nervine which, after lots of coaxing I did. I took six bottles of the Nervine and some of the Nerve and Liver Pills. I was completely cured of my trouble and I heartily recommend it to any woman who is suffering from a nervous disorder. I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for headache and neuralgia with best results. I believe firmly in the efficacy of the Nerve and Liver Pills and am fully convinced that Dr. Miles' Remedies saved my life."—MRS. HATTIE GRABILL, Roanoke, Va.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup

An Ideal Family Medicine

When any member of the family begins to droop, loses appetite and shows signs of failing strength, you know that it means some disorder of the liver, kidneys, stomach, bowels or blood, and that a long, serious illness, much suffering and big doctors' bills are sure to follow unless some preventive is used at once.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup—"The Road to Good Health"—is the greatest safeguard you can provide for the health of your family. It combines those qualities sought in an ideal family medicine—a pure liver regulator, the best kidney medicine, a perfect blood purifier and a powerful tonic. It does not help one organ at the expense of another, but regulates and strengthens all and causes them to act in perfect harmony. Physicians recommend and prescribe it for disorders of the liver, constipation, biliousness, indigestion, kidney trouble, dropsy, catarrh, rheumatism, blood and skin diseases; while thousands of families have no other doctor.

MR. LEE DEAN, Antioch, I. T., says in a recent letter:
"This is to let you know that we have used your Liver and Blood Syrup in our family for the past two years and it is our only medicine and doctor."

W. S. GRAY, an aged citizen of Grayson, Ala., writes:
"I find that your medicine is pure, gentle, efficacious and inexpensive. It is good for the children, excellent for ladies, convenient for business men. It stands ahead of all the medicine made and is the cheapest that one can buy."

MRS. M. V. TUCKER, McKinney, Texas, says:
"I have been using Dr. Thacher's Remedies in my family for twelve years and think I cannot get a medicine that will be as satisfactory as your Liver and Blood Syrup (Dry)."

MRS. F. A. SPELLMAN, Anderson, S. C., says:
"I have successfully used Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup and do not hesitate to recommend it as a valuable family medicine. I would not like to be without it in the house."

Gentle and thorough in its actions, it is as good for the children as it is for grown folks. Just a small dose each day when you don't feel well will cleanse your system of all impurities, fortify it against disease and fill you with a vim and vigor before unknown.

Ask your dealer for it today. Dry form 25 cents. Liquid form 50 cents and $1.00. Send us two-cent stamp for sample bottle and write our Consultation Department for free, confidential advice.

THE WALKING CONTEST

The walking contest at Lake Erie park pavilion tomorrow night at 9 o'clock, in which the pedestrian, Baker, undertakes to defeat any five walkers who may appear, is arousing great interest among the sporting fraternity. Two pedestrians who have appeared in professional company will be on hand to contest Baker's supremacy, and quite a number of bets have been made that Baker will not make good. As his opponents walk in relays of one mile each, it is designed to put the best man in on the last mile, when presumably, Baker will be wearied from his efforts in the previous four miles. The prize will be the gate money, which, from present indications will amount to a neat sum.

HIS THROAT CUT

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 3.—Louis Boyd, a stranger in Dallas, about 40 years old, was found dead at North Lamar street and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas tracks, with his throat cut. A razor and a bottle of poison were found, which convinces Coronor Edwards it was a case of suicide.

The deceased had a certificate on his person showing he had been a section foreman for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway. He has recently been out west.

A DESERTED CHILD

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 3.—A white boy baby, a month old, was found this morning in a vacant house at 131 Alamo street, where it was deserted last night. The neighbors have agreed to take good care of the foundling.

HOMEMADE STEAM PLOW IS A WINNER

Burgess Brothers Breaking Over Fifty Acres a Day for Their Winter Wheat Crop With One

ARE USING THEIR THRESHER ENGINE

Have Six Double Disc Plows Hitched to Engine by Means of a Bois d'Arc Beam and Break Thirteen-foot Strip Each Trip

Farmers by the score today and yesterday have been visiting the 10,000-acre farm of J. W. Burgess & Co., a few miles north of the city. The Burgess brothers themselves are proud of the homemade steam plow that is drawing the crowds, and are willing at all time to show it to visitors. One young Tarrant county farmer went out to see the new-fangled device yesterday morning and he became so fascinated by it that he remained all day. Of course, steam plows have been in use in various localities for some years, but this is the first one to invade Tarrant county and, besides, it is different from the ordinary steam plow.

It is a case of necessity being the mother of invention. Burgess brothers desired to put 2,500 acres in winter wheat and they did not have time enough nor men and mules enough to accomplish the job in season—in fact, this is the problem that Texas farmers are up against every year.

THRASHER ENGINE

On the Burgess plantation there was a sixteen-horse power traction engine which was used to run the thrasher. A few days ago it occurred to the brothers that they might hitch up this engine to a number of disc plows and break ground a good deal faster than would be possible if they depended only on man and mule power. Their case was desperate. They were offering $1.25 per acre for men to break the ground for the wheat and still could not get enough men and mules.

Therefore, with a fine show of mechanical ability they hitched six double-disc plows to a long bois d'arc beam and attaching this to their engine fired up and started out to see how the "blamed thing would work." After the start a good deal of adjusting was necessary, but finally they got the plows to working properly and in the last few days have been breaking the ground at an amazing rate. They had trouble with the fence corners, but solved this by cutting away from the corners and leaving them to a man and mule.

The Santa Fe runs by the farm, and the passengers on incoming and outgoing trains after dark last night beheld strange things from the car windows. A big traction engine was grunting across the land, puffing and snorting and drawing after it the six double-disc plows. The plows are arranged one a few feet behind and to the side of the one in front of it, so that at each trip across the farm a strip thirteen feet wide is plowed. There are a good many rocks on the farm, but the disc plows, of course, go over these.

BUYS A HEADLIGHT

Yesterday J. W. Burgess came into the city and bought a big headlight, so that whether the moon is out or not the steam plow will keep up its good work at night. They do not stop it even to take water for the boiler, but have equipped a mule with a water barrel and each time the boiler needs filling this mule plods along beside the engine until the thirsty tank is replenished.

The engine is working twenty-four hours a day and is doing the work at an average cost of less than 50 cents an acre. It is breaking over fifty acres per day, including the night work, and any farmer can tell you how many mules and men are required to perform that much work in a day—because with the men and the mules you can work only during the day, whereas the engine, like the little rill in the poem, "goes on forever."

"And then there is another thing to be considered," said one farmer as she gazed in open admiration at the machine, "look at the conversation a man usually wastes on a mule that is pulling a plow. You don't have to say 'Whoa!' and 'G'lang!' to an engine."

HORDES HUNGRY FOR DOG

United States Wards in Philippines Are Clamoring for Delicacy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Broiled dog, fried dog and sundry other forms of dog are considered delicacies by the Igorrotes of the northern provinces of the Philippines.

According to advices just received here Colonel E. C. Carter, Manila commissioner of public health, has received a gentle hint from Provincial Governor William G. Pack at Bagulo, Benguet, not to waste this "God-given delicacy."

His appeal is couched in the following terms:

"I know that some of the departments under your charge are killing dogs and throwing them away to get rid of them. Now, my people, you know, consider dog a God-given luxury.

"Will it not be possible in one way or another for you to send me 100, 200 or 500 dogs that you want to get rid of to San Fernando, where I will have Igorrotes waiting to bring them over the trail to me here in Baguio?

"The feast subsequent to such an event would make gods and men wonder. Now, see if we cannot make such an arrangement."

It is understood the request will be cheerfully complied with by Colonel Carter. Manila is full of stray dogs and he would give something handsome to get rid of them. The natives and Europeans there don't seem to consider them gastronomic luxuries.

WOULD WHIP WIFE BEATERS

Indiana Judge Favors Post and Cat-o'-Nine-Tails for Offense

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 3.—City Judge George G. Feldman today created a sensation in the police court by publicly declaring himself an unqualified supporter of the whipping post and a cat-o'-nine tails for wife beaters.

The cause for the announcement was Ignatz Bedwarwacz's plea of guilty to whipping his wife. Upon learning the facts of the case Judge Feldman said: "I shall not send you to jail, because your wife and babes are in need of your support and are now waiting for you in their little home, but if I had the power I would instruct an officer to tie you to a post and lash you with a cat-o'-nine tails."

MR. WILSON'S VIEW

Oswald Wilson, statistician for the government for Texas and the Indian Territory, has made an inspection trip through the state. He sizes up the crop situation as follows:

"Wheat, corn and oats are magnificent. The crop will be bountiful. The same may be said of alfalfa and other grass crops. The cotton crop is yet a matter of uncertainty. Two weeks of Texas weather may do almost anything with a crop of this commodity. Cotton is so late that it is impossible to predict with certainty regarding it."

Mr. Wilson states that the government cotton report will be issued at noon tomorrow and will be viewed with much concern by the Texas interests.

CONDITION OF THE CROP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The monthly report of the chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture will show the average condition of cotton on August 25 to have been 81.2 as compared with 79.7 on July 25, 1903; 64.0 in August, 1902; 71.4 on August 24, 1901, and a ten-year average of 72.4.

POLICY IS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—For two days the department has been without advices from Turkey. Pending a report of Minister Leishman on the situation, the state department will not ask the navy department to send additional instructions to Rear Admiral Cotton, commanding the European squadron. Thus the position of the Washington government continues unchanged in regard to the Turkish question.

ALL ARE ACQUITTED

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 3.—The trial of the directors and officials of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, on a charge of manslaughter, growing out of an accident last February, when an engine dashed into a crowded street car at a railroad crossing, in which several school children were killed and maimed, the court today directed a verdict of acquittal of all defendants. The trial has been on several days.

ROOSEVELT IS CONGRATULATED

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 3.—President Roosevelt received today many telegrams, congratulating him upon his escape from the hands of Henry Weilbrenner, an insane farmer. Owing to the large number of these messages he will be unable to answer them, but he appreciates the spirit in which they were sent.

The secret service force has been increased since Weilbrenner's arrest.

Jacob A. Riis was the only caller today at Sagamore Hill.

MEETING WITH INSURGENTS

MANILA, Sept. 3, 7 p. m.—The Jolo constabulary have come in conflict with a body of insurgents in the province of Cavite, near Laguna de Bay, and killed twenty of them during a sharp engagement. The constabulary had one man killed during the fight. Reinforcements have already left Manila for the scene of the disturbance to subdue the insurgents, who have taken up a strong position in the mountains which flank the Laguna.

ENGINEERING CONFERENCE

A conference will be held on Monday of the municipal engineers of Texas, in Fort Worth. Among the cities which will be represented will be Houston, Beaumont, Galveston, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, Austin, Waco, San Antonio and others.

Drainage and street paving will be among the important questions discussed. In connection with the street paving question, the Thurber Brick Company will give the engineers a free trip to their plant and entertain them otherwise.

COTTON REGION BULLETIN

The only precipitation of any importance in the cotton region yesterday was 1.94 inches, which fell at Savananh, Ga. Clear weather prevails this morning throughout the cotton region. The temperature is slightly below the seasonal normal.

Forecast until 8 p. m. Friday for Fort Worth and vicinity: Tonight and Friday, fair weather; warmer tonight.

For Texas east of the one hundredth meridian: North, tonight and Friday, fair; warmer tonight. South, tonight and Friday, fair; warmer tonight in extreme west portion.

No decided changes occurred in the weather conditions during the past twenty-four hours. There is some cloudiness noted this morning in Colorado, Nebraska and the Dakotas; the precipitation, however, was light and scattered during the night and yesterday.

Clear fine weather continues in the southern states, the middle west and over the entire country east of the Mississippi river.

There was less than 8 degrees change in the temperatures in any locality, continuing cool to pleasant and noticeably uniform except along the California coast, where summer temperatures are the rule.

Fair will continue in Fort Worth vicinity over Friday, with a little higher temperature.

THE NEW LINE MAY COME TO FT. WORTH

"The construction of the Shreveport and Red River Valley road from Shreveport, La., eventually into New Orleans, will mean very much commercially and otherwise, not only to New Orleans, but to Texas as well," said J. P. Douglass, general agent for the Colorado and Southern and Fort Worth and Denver City roads to The Telegram this afternoon in discussing the new road.

Mr. Douglass says this line is being built under the direction of Mr. Edenborn, the well-known trust magnate, who is conceded to be one of the wealthiest men in this country.

It was suggested that possibly the Missouri, Kansas and Texas was behind the new enterprise, but Mr. Douglass said that this was not known, but it is not believed that the Gould interests are backing the new road, as has been suggested. Mr. Douglass suggested that the Goulds would not likely want to build a parallel line with the Texas and Pacific, and for this reason it is not good sense to believe that Goulds are interested in the Shreveport and Red River Valley.

The line is already in active operation from Shreveport south to Alexandria, but from this point south the construction work is being retarded awaiting structural material for the steel bridges necessary for passage over the streams en route to New Orleans.

The city of New Orleans has granted the new road a franchise to enter that city, believing that it will change the railroad situation at New Orleans for the better, and give another outlet to tidewater and afford Shreveport rates now deprived that city by the Texas and Pacific. It is understood to be an independent line, but some believe, as stated above, that the enterprise is backed by the Katy people. Another belief is that the Frisco will get control of the line when it is constructed. The latter road has purchased the finest railroad terminals and on the first of October will begin laying tracks and putting the same in ship shape. The terminals of the new road are located directly on the New Orleans belt line and will be ample for all necessities.

The new line will be about 294 miles long as now contemplated, but Mr. Douglass has it from good authority that the line is to eventually be built to Fort Worth.

TRINITY WATER STILL GOES INTO MAINS

A report was in circulation this morning to the effect that the water in the city mains is not the pure, artesian variety, but that instead it is mixed with Trinity water. The report further said that 500,000 gallons of river water was being pumped into the mains every day and that the city engineer and city water works department had found that the wells would not supply 300,000 gallons of water per day.

The Telegram investigated the report and found that in so far as it refers to the use of a small amount of river water every day it is true. Every afternoon it is necessary to pump for a short while from the river. The explanation given by the city water works department is that only a little over 3,000,000 galons per day is being pumped from the wells at present. This would be sufficient if the wells were connected with the million-gallon reservoir, but until this is done the supply coming from the shaft will not fill the demands of the city. When the reservoir is connected with the Mead shaft it will be filled with water during the night, when the demand from the city is light, and then, during the afternoon, when the demand is heavy, this extra million can be sent into the mains.

The present test for 3,000,000 gallons per day has been on for forty-eight days during every twenty-four hours of which at least 3,000,000 gallons has been pumped from the wells. The city engineer probably will continue the test until sixty days have elapsed, when the pumps will be temporarily stopped in order that connection between the shaft and the reservoir may be made. When this connection is completed the city will have an extra million gallons of water on hand with which to meet the extra demand for water each afternoon. But until the reservoir is brought into use for the purpose which it was designed to serve it will be necessary to pollute the artesian supply to a small extent every afternoon with river water.

It is reported that the city water dealers have determined to charge double rates to all present customers who stop taking water from them in favor of the city supply, providing the said consumers should ever again evince a desire to abandon the city water for drinking purposes and go back to the water peddlers for a supply.

THE PROGRAM FOR LABOR DAY AFFAIR

The indications are that Labor day will be observed in this city on a scale much greater than ever before witnessed here. The plans of the committee have been laid on a large scale, and every success has been met. F. C. Southers, financial secretary of the Trades' Assembly, who has been one of the active members of the committee, together with T. E. Moore, chairman of the committee, expresses himself as highly pleased with the indications for the day.

The parade is to be formed at the Labor Temple. It will start promptly at 11 o'clock, being formed by Grand Marshal J. W. Stephens, assisted by his aids, Lee Stephens, J. C. Aldredge and U. M. Lee. All unions not ready at the hour appointed will not be given a place.

The parade marches up Throckmorton street to Weatherford, thence to Main street, and then down Main street on the west side to the Al Haine triangle, which will be circled, and thence back to Main street and up the east side to the courthouse, where the parade will disperse and go to Hermann's park, where the rest of the program will be carried out.

TWO LOADS OF BIRD SHOT IN HIS HIDE

About 10 o'clock last night an East Front street car running west was hailed by a man at Missouri avenue.

The conductor was unusually polite.

"Won't you step inside and have a seat?" he asked.

"No, thank you," was the reply from the man. "I don't think I'll sit down for several weeks," he added with a pessimistic chuckle.

"What's the matter?" asked the street car man.

"Oh, nothing much, except that I just stopped two loads of birdshot."

Thereupon the man turned around for inspection by his questioner. There were blood spots from his neck to his heels.

"The bartender at the Dallas house turned loose on me," explained the man. When Rusk street was reached the man stepped off. In spite of the excess baggage in the shape of lead which he was carrying, he turned up at police headquarters half an hour later.

He gave his name as James Scott and said he was 23 years old.

"Send for a doctor; I want somebody to help me pick these shot out of my hide," he said.

Dr. Mullenix was called. He found that Scott's body was fairly riddled with shot from his neck down to the calves of his legs, while a few stray pellets peppered him above and below those marks. The doctor put in a busy hour and a half picking shot out of the man. When the job was done Scott put on his blood-soaked clothes and left, saying he was going home.

The police today questioned the bartender at the Dallas house, who told them that he was compelled to shoot in self defense. He was not arrested, inasmuch as the wounded man made no complaint against him.

TRACEY IS TO HAVE HEARING

Secretary of Houston School Board Is to Answer Many Charges Tomorrow

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 3.—With the filing of sixty-seven additional charges of forgery against S. E. Tracy, former secretary of the Houston school board, it is believed every spurious warrant received by the city in payment of taxes is included.

At the time of the investigation by the certified accountants of the secretary's books it was found that the city had apparently lost $15,026.66 by receiving "apparently forged" school warrants in that amount in payment of taxes. Forged school warrants in amount $6,365.95 were still in the hands of private parties, making a total of bad warrants $21,612.61.

So far as the records show no complaints have been made against Tracy involving any of the warrants which remained in the hands of private purchasers. There are quite a large number of these, and if the purchasers who have been out their money follow the lead that has been set by the city it will probably result in swelling the grand total of charges against the former school board secretary.

The sixty-seven additional warrants were sworn out before Justice of the Peace Matthews. These with the six affidavits already sworn out make a total of seventy-three complaints in justice court with four grand jury indictments already handed down. The total involved amounts to $15,026.66.

The last sixty-seven warrants were sworn out by Deputy Constable R. R. Glass on information. When Tracy appears in the court of Justice Matthews tomorrow afternoon the warrants will be served. Bond will be fixed in a lump sum, taking into consideration the fact security of $9,500 has already been demanded. Preliminary hearing was originally set for Tuesday of this week, but continued.

Mayor Holt will appoint an attorney to assist in the prosecution of the accused. The initial steps have been taken looking forward to a vigorous prosecution.

The list of school vouchers contained in the additional complaints was made out by Haskins & Sells in their report and by them declared "apparently fraudulent."

It is stated that Tracy will make no defense at preliminary hearing, but will do his share leading toward a waiver. The state will present a sufficient amount of evidence to comply with the requirements of the higher court that has put an end to the indorsement of "examination waived."

From the list it appears that the first alleged fraudulent vouchers were issued on September 24, 1900. On that day almost $1,000 may have been secured. It was not until January that another contested warrant was dated. Over $400 was then involved. From that time on the alleged forgeries came at frequent intervals up until the time immediately before Tracy left the city for Washington on his momentous trip. On March 26, 1902, a voucher was made out for $32.50 to S. Griffin & Son and duly cashed.
