House Sends Bill To Senate...

Re-Districting Bill Passes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Amid anger, tears and a threat of a court challenge by Mexican-Americans, the Texas House today passed a bill drawing new state representative districts to reflect population shifts shown by the 1980 census.

The bill passed, 118-22, at 4:25 a.m., some 7½ hours after the legislators began work on it.

House action sent the measure to the Senate, which passed a senatorial redistricting bill more than a week ago. Each chamber is expected to pass the other's bill before the lawmaking session ends at midnight Monday.

The House bill adds representation to seven areas, mainly suburban areas outside of Houston.

Gaining a House seat were Williamson and Burnet Counties north of Austin; Brazoria and Fort Bend Counties south of Houston; Hidalgo County; Denton and Collin Counties north of Dallas; Grimes County plus parts of Montgomery and Harris County; and two new districts in Harris County.

Sixteen members were forced into situations where lawmaker must campaign against lawmaker if all run for re-election in 1982.

The pairings are:

Speaker Bill Clayton and Pete Laney, D-Hale Center. Clayton says, however, he will not run for the House next year.

David London, D-Bonham, and Smith Gilley, D-Greenville.

Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, and Bill Keese, D-Somerville.

Larry Shaw, D-Big Spring, and W.S. Heatly, D-Paducah.

Joe Hernandez and Tommy Adkisson, both San Antonio Democrats.

Lanell Cofer and Steve Wolens, both Dallas Democrats.

Doyle Willis and Bobby Webber, both Fort Worth Democrats.

Ron Coleman and Paul Moreno, D-El Paso. Coleman said he probably would move to a vacant district.

Most of the long night's floor battles dealt with attempts to change or eliminate the pairings or to create more districts likely to elect Mexican-Americans.

Attempts to carve out additional Mexican-American districts in El Paso and Houston were defeated, and Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, failed wth a series of attempts to unpair Hernandez, his former law partner, from Adkisson.

"This is a sad day for the Chicano. ... I accuse the leadership of this House of the 'insensitivity' it has shown the Mexican-Americans. The Democrats of this House are a disgrace to the Democratic Party," Moreno said as the debate reached its end.

He promised the redistricting bill would be challenged in federal court by Mexican-Americans, particularly because it provided lower percentages of Hispanics than it could have in El Paso districts.

Asked for comment on Moreno's accusation, Clayton said, "I really don't have anything to say. His and my philosophy are 180 degrees apart. I respect him, but I disagree."

Moreno and Rep. Robert Valles, D-El Paso, wanted three El Paso districts with more than 70 percent Hispanic population — one as high as 84 percent. The bill passed by the House provides districts with slightly lower percentages — but low enough, given a high "green card" population and a below-average number of registered voters — to damage chances of Hispanics winning legislative elections, Moreno said.

Garcia angrily denounced the fact that no Republicans were paired for re-election and that the House redistricting committee had no representative from San Antonio.

"How can you justify creating four safe, smug, Republican seats in a community that has always been a Democratic community?" Garcia said of the San Antonio districts.

He warned Democrats they were helping Republicans with the bill and would regret it.

"It's like standing at the altar with your bride and you say, 'I do,' then look at her and wish you had said, 'I don't,'" Garcia said.

Bob Slagle, chairman of the Texas Democratic Party, watched the night-long debate and when it was over told reporters the House had passed "a reasonable bill."

"I think the Democratic Party will come out pretty well under it," Slagle said, adding he thought Democrats would "hold their own or gain seats" in the 1982 elections.

A major fight came when six Dallas Republicans offered an amendment realigning the district of the seventh GOP House member from Dallas, Frank Gaston.

Rep. Bill Ceverha,, R-Dallas, said the amendment amounted to "cosmetic changes" but Gaston — a maverick who has fought Clayton and his fellow Republicans on some major issues — called it a wrecking job on his district.

"We shouldn't ever get in this body where we don't have a few dissenters," said Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, who rushed to Gaston's defense.

Rep. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, told the House that Gaston, "with tears in his eyes," had approached him in a back hallway and asked him to "go out and tell them that if this amendment goes on I am going to get beat in the (Republican) primary."

The amendment revising Gaston's district carried, 73-63.

American Magnesium Head Slain In Tulsa

Roger Wheeler, millionaire chairman of Telex Corp. and president of American Magnesium, was slain Wednesday afternoon in a baffling attack by a gunman as he was leaving Southern Hills Country Club of Tulsa, Okla., in his car.

Police said a gunman wielding a long-barreled, large-caliber handgun, jumped into a car occupied by at least one other person and sped away after shooting Wheeler in the face.

Police and friends were baffled by the shooting, and police said there was no reason to believe robbery was a motive.

Wheeler was alone in the car at the time of the shooting, officers said.

Wheeler was the founder of American Magnesium Co., which built a plant southwest of Snyder in 1968 and he had made frequent business trips here during the intervening years. A brother, Alfred Wheeler, resides at 2706 34th and has been associated with Funeral service has been set for 11 a. m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in Tulsa. The family has suggested that memorials be made to the favorite charity of the donors.

Officers reported that a witness supplied a partial license number on the car in which the assailant escaped. The plates were thought to have originated near Duncan in southern Oklahoma.

"It is unexplainable at this point," said Mrs. Lester Nienhuis, a close family friend. "There was...no reason to feel there was any danger. Mrs. Wheeler was certainly not aware of any. Whether he was, we'll never know."

Wheeler's wife, Patricia, was treated for shock at a Tulsa hospital. The couple's four sons and one daughter no longer live at home.

Mrs. Nienhuis said Wheeler, 55, had played a round of golf with a regular foursome and was leaving the club. He was seated in his luxury car in

The jury took two hours to find the defendent guilty of voluntary manslaughter and 37 minutes to decide on the punishment.

Ms. Woods, represented by Tom Bevill of Breckenridge, has 10 days to file an appeal.

Judge Wayland G. Holt presided at the trial and District Attorney Pete Greene prosecuted the case.

Board Studies Budget Plan

Snyder school trustees met Wednesday night in a special session designed for budget process study.

No other items were on the agenda and no action was taken. Purpose of the meeting was to inform the board, especially new members, of the budget making process. The meeting lasted about two hours.

Trustees will take their first look at the 1981-82 budget next Wednesday night. Normally numerous budget sessions are held prior to approval of a budget in late July or early August.

Thursday update

Measles In Harris County

HOUSTON (AP) — Four more children came down with measles Wednesday, bringing the list of victims in Harris County to 48 so far this year. Health officials said called it a "sizeable outbreak."

There were 29 cases in the county in all of 1980. The current outbreak began about two months ago.

Since then, city health officials have opened 40 special measles outbreak control clinics to give inoculations in public schools and day care centers, including nine new clinics opened in the past week.

Amtrak Compromise Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak President Alan S. Boyd says he expects a congressional budget compromise to provide the passenger railroad with enough money to continue operating at least some of its long-distance trains.

He told Amtrak's board of directors Wednesday he is optimistic because of approval by the House Energy and Commerce Committee of a $725 million appropriation for the railroad in fiscal 1982, which begins Oct. 1.

The figure is $112 million more than proposed by the Reagan administration and expected to be authorized by the Senate. The lower amount would limit Amtrak's operations to the Northeast corridor and eliminate all long-distance routes, according to Boyd.

Approves Welfare Proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas senators have stamped their approval on a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the welfare ceiling to rise gradually after 1983 to keep up with inflation and the number of recipients.

The Senate proposal by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, differed from the House version, which wiped out Texas' $80 million-a-year ceiling on state payments to welfare recipients.

The Department of Human Resources had requested a change because Aid to Families With Dependent Children is pushing against the limit now. The average monthly AFDC payment is $33.83 per month per recipient, and a $2.50 a month increase — as recommended by the Legislative Budget Board — would reach the ceiling in two years.

The SDN Column

The last week in May usually is one of the busier months of the year, with schools closing out spring terms and many people preparing for vacations.

Tuesday of this week was especially busy in Snyder. The Chamber of Commerce could not get a quorum for its meeting and the city's zoning board of adjustments had to wait for one member to get out of another meeting before it could transact any business. Joe Sentell, who had been attending the Senior Citizen Center's recognition banquet, finally made the quorum for the city board.

Meanwhile, a junior college board session almost overlapped some other activities.

In addition, there was the second performance of the high school one-act play Tuesday night, and the high school bi-district baseball game was played on Moffett Field. Sometimes, it seems that we have more activities going on than there are people to attend them.

One of life's ironies: We were just reading about the devastation caused by a flash flood in Austin when the mail produced a copy of a new brochure titled "Austin, Summer Fun for Everyone."

It was rough while we waited, but pavement cuts in streets that occurred when water mains were replaced are being repaired, and from what we have seen, it appears to be one of the smoothest jobs of this type we have seen. It is never good to have streets cut, and in most cases, they're never quite the same again, unless they are completely retopped. But the repair work on 26th and 30th Sts. this week may be above average.

We notice that one of the last-minute items taken up by lawmakers in Austin was a bill to ameliorate the effects of the 55 mph speed limit by setting the fine at a maximum of $5 between 55 and 70 mph.

It reminded us of a story about a racing car expert who was extolling the merits of a special vehicle.

"This car has a top speed of 180 miles per hour, but it can stop on a dime," he boasted.

"What happens then?" asked a bystander.

"A little putty knife comes out and scrapes you off the windshield."

some great changes

Those people entering hospitals today should appreciate the treatment they invariably receive. It has not always been thus. This is not to say that the people in medicine have not always been compassionate, but the skills of the professionals have improved enormously.

Too, those licensed to treat human illnesses are working with better tools and under far better conditions than at any time in history.

A hospital 200 years ago would bear little resemblance to what we recognize today as an institution for health care. Two centuries ago, the patient left the hospital in far worse condition than he arrived — if he was fortunate enough to leave at all.

Pennsylvania Hospital, founded by Benjamin Franklin and Dr. Thomas Bond in 1751, established the first surgical amphitheater. The only light available came from a skylight. For that reason, surgery had to be scheduled for high noon and then only on bright, clear days.

The famed Bellevue Hospital in New York City sprang from an infirmary in a public work house in 1736. It was not until 80 years later that Bellevue became a general hospital.

Two centuries ago, doctors and medical students wore street clothes while making the rounds and while performing surgery. Frequently, these same clothes were worn for months at a time with the most obvious spots 'purified' with a little water and vinegar. Often, the doctors' shoes were soiled with horse manure from the streets. Hygiene, as we know it, was non-existent.

The surgical instruments used in the 18th Century often introduced more germs and bacteria into the patient than were present, resulting in a high rate of infection.

Conditions caused the then Surgeon General of the Continental Army, Benjamin Rush, to remark: "Hospitals have robbed the United States of more citizens than the sword."

Surgical patients were drugged with rum or opiates — sometimes both — anything to render him or her unconscious. Once in that state, the patient was tied to the operating table while under the knife.

If several operations were scheduled, the same surgical instruments were used, without having been cleaned. Many infections without our antibiotics were certain killers. Complications from surgery were numerous.

Blood transfusions were unknown. In the 1800s, animal blood was experimented with in human tranfusions, with disastrous results.

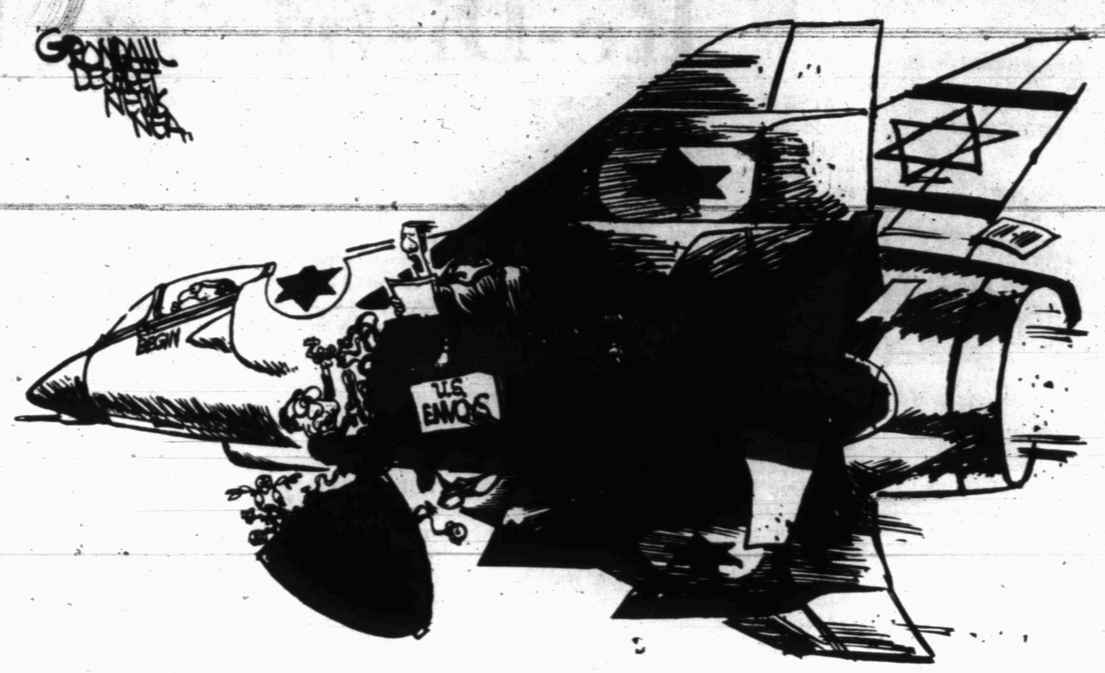

Patients today appreciate their privacy. Two hundred years ago, the beds were 52 inches wide and accomodated up to six patients, ranging from the post surgical to the dying.

The rooms were unventilated and the wards contained numerous odoriferous 'slop jars.' The stench in hot weather was nauseous and accompanied by a multitude of flies and crawling insects.

The food fed the patients was atrocious. Most nurses lived within the hospitals and were expected to work 16 hours a day. Their first duty each day was to scrub the floors.

It was from those humble beginnings, however, that today's modern hospitals came into being. The past 60 years has brought more changes in medical, surgical and health care than all the other years down through time.

Perhaps, in another 200 years, people will be looking at what we today call 'modern medicine' with the same amusement and wonder. Who knows?

to bake a bigger pie

The tedium of the American political system can be frustrating, exasperating.

President Reagan's budget cuts have passed both Houses of Congress—but now each committee of the Congress must implement in detail the cuts which have been approved in principle.

Our representative form of government requires that we keep constant watch on our representatives, alert for any reneging, any sleight-of-hand, any trade-offs which even yet could sidetrack the president's program.

The tedium of the American political system can be frustrating, exasperating—but it's still workable if we pay attention.

There was no dancing in the street—Main Street or Wall Street—when Gram-Latta passed the House.

The reason is that the Reagan budget cuts are still a lot of committee battles and floor fights away from enactment.

There may be any number of congressmen who voted "yea" while you were watching, intending to vote "nay" when you're not.

While Majority Leader Tip O'Neill may be an outdated caricature of a professional politician—he is not less astute (or "devious," depending on your point of view) when it comes to manipulating the legislative procedural machinery.

Also in the Senate...

Despite a GOP majority in the Senate, when Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) tried to scrub the Legal Services Corporation—a laudable way of conserving public money—he was shouted down 72 to 24.

Up to now all the Republican talk about budget cutting has been nothing more than talk.

While the president still has the power to veto appropriations bills, all that does is perpetuate the status-quo, unless eventually his philosophy prevails.

This will help the electorate understand why President Reagan continues ceaselessly to invite members of both Houses to the White House, to convince them and to keep them convinced that the companion cuts in taxes and spending are essential and indivisible.

Eisenhower, his first months in office, accomplished these objectives and the result was to stabilize the price index; the dollar stopped shrinking and economic activity resumed its progress.

Eisenhower, while a political novitiate, was a master getting-alonger. And he had politically pragmatic Tom Dewey at his elbow advising.

President Reagan, similarly, will have to charm the socks off the otherwise pressured politicians on The Hill if he is to keep them in line.

The president has the recipe for "the bigger pie," but Congress will have to supply the essential ingredients.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —Black and Hispanic representatives from inner-city congressional districts are in danger of losing their seats because thousands of their former constituents have migrated to the suburbs.

The situation is especially ironic because racial integration of the nation's housing market long has been a high-priority goal of virtually every responsible political leader who is a member of a minority group.

Blacks and Hispanics able to flee from the blighted cores of many of the country's biggest cities, they have argued, often can benefit from the superior vocational, educational and recreational opportunities in the booming suburbs.

But the departure of those minority-group votes from the cities has endangered the status of approximately a dozen housemembers and scores of state legislators who no longer can rely upon a solid political base of ethnic support.

With state legislatures now constructing new congressional and legislative districts for the coming decade, "it's hard to create a ghetto or barrio district when people are spreading themselves around," notes Michael Barone, a highly regarded political demographer who is editor of "The Almanac of American Politics."

The 1980 census population, whose results provide the basis for that reapportionment, documents the accelerating trend toward minority-group dispersal outside the cities.

The residential community of Schaumburg, Ill., a suburb 25 miles northwest of Chicago, provides a striking example of the pattern now emerging. Its 1970 population of 18,700 almost tripled to 52,300 in 1980.

In 1970, there were exactly 16 blacks living in Schaumburg — but that number increased more than 40-fold by 1980, when the Census Bureau found 643 blacks in the community.

Hispanics have made similar inroads in a pair of suburbs north of downtown Los Angeles — Pasadena and Glendale, Calif. Both were archtypical middle-class overwhelmingly Anglo communities not many years ago.

The total population of the two communities grew at a very modest rate during the 1970s. But the number of Hispanics soared from 8,300 to 21,600 in Pasadena and from 10,650 to 24,650 in Glendale during the decade from 1970 to 1980.

Where does that phenomenon leave the politicians who long have represented dense concentrations of minority-group voters inside the cities?

The answer: Among the 10 congressional districts that suffered the largest losses of population during the past decade, eight are represented by Hispanics or blacks.

At the top of that list is New York's 21st congressional district, which covers the infamous South Bronx and is represented by Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., a Hispanic.

Exactly half of that district's population fled during the 1970s, and the 1980 census count of 233,800 stands in sharp contrast with the more than 700,000 residents of a dozen fast-growing congressional districts in the South and West.

In second place is Michigan's 13th congressional district, encompassing Detroit's ailing center city. Represented by a black in the house in recent decades, its population declined by 19 percent during the 1960s, another 37 percent during the 1970s and now stands at a mere 291,400.

Similar situations exist in congresional districts represented by blacks in Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other cities.

Some of the endangered legislators insist that their seats must be protected, citing the provision of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 that requires the states to prove to the Justice Department or the federal courts that a proposed reapportionment plan "does not have the purpose and will not have the effect of denying or abridging the right to vote on account of race of color".

But those claims are illogical. If members of a minority group have abandoned an inner-city district for a better life elsewhere, there is no justification for perpetuating the tenure of a politician on the basis of a phantom constituency.

Ford Motor Co. has finally admitted there's something wrong with many of their 1970-80 vehicles. Of course everybody else has known about it for a long time. Companies that use Fords in their fleets have long since sent out warnings concerning the unpredictable Ford transmission.

1970-80 Fords have a bad habit of jumping into reverse when they're left unattended, usually with the engine running but it's been known to occur when the motor is shut down too.

Fords have jumped through plate glass windows and quick-store walls and have run over some unfortunate people.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration finally told Ford they better fix that defect; so Ford had to admit there was a defect.

I discovered the other day how Ford had decided to "fix" that defect and make it okay again.

I got a letter in the mail with an enclosed sticker. The letter instructed me to take the sticker and attach it somewhere in the car where I could see it.

The sticker reads: 1. Make sure the gear selector lever is engaged in park. 2. Set the parking brake fully. 3. Shut off the ignition.

Clever, don't you think? Anyway, with this sticker, I should be able to remember never to leave my car unattended while its running. Most people who are aware of Ford's problem have been remembering without the sticker and have been waiting for a recall when it would be repaired.

So it's time to quit waiting for that recall — it's never going to happen. I guess as long as we have a reminder that the car doesn't work properly, we should just accept the fact, at least that's what Ford's board of directors must think.

They'll get away with it too. Having sent out a simple sticker, they're probably absolved in advance of any blame for the next person who gets killed when a Ford slips out of gear.

If we don't want to be one of those unfortunate accidents underneath a Ford, we can start carrying chock blocks around like trucks. And everytime we go somewhere and someone sees us putting out the blocks, we can just explain, "It's a Ford." That should do a lot for sales.

ALSO ATTENDING AMITIE MEETING—Other ladies also attending the meeting were Jan Johnson, installing officer; Vanna Almond, a visitor from San Angelo and Dian Collier, outgoing president.

Amitie Club Has Banquet

The installation banquet for officers of Amitie Study Club was held at Martha Ann Woman's Club on May 19.

The members were served a buffet dinner which was followed by the installation of officers.

Dian Collier, outgoing president, presided over the last meeting of the 1980-81 year. Future projects were discussed by members.

4-H'ers Make Project Plans

The Snyder Junior High 4-H Club met at the east highway Dairy Queen on May 19 for a planning session. Plans were made for a Coke Party honoring 4-H members who are completing the sixth grade and entering the junior high school in the fall.

Other summer activities discussed included some fund raising projects, such as a bake sale and a lemonade stand. Plans for an outdoor party at Keisha Chapman's were also worked on. Keisha is planning to attend State 4-H Camp at Brownswood.

Two offices left vacant were filled. Teresa Sauceda will be the new secretary and Keisha Chapman will be the new treasurer.

Beta Sigma Phi Revealing Party

Twenty-one Beta Sigma Phi members were present for the annual Revealing Party held May 20 in the home of Laura Greene, 2600 35th Street. The event traditionally culminates the year's sorority activities and identities of secret sisters are finally revealed.

Members enjoyed a salad supper and Wanda Early, president, presided at a short business meeting. The chapter voted to hold a western dance in the fall as a fund-raising activity and summer activities were also discussed. Gifts were then exchanged and identities revealed. At the close of the evening, members were treated to a "Make Your Own Sundae" ice cream buffet and viewed a slide and musical presentation entitled "We Are Family." The program depicted events from the current sorority year in picture and song.

Assisting Mrs. Greene with hostess duties were Gloria Myers, Bette League and Carolyn House. Hostess gifts were won by Gloria Myers and Barbara Hamlett.

AAUW Has Final Meeting

The American Association of University Women met in the home of Mrs. Bernice Parker for a salad supper. This was the final meeting for the year; meetings will be resumed in the fall with an activity to inform others about AAUW's work and activities.

Mrs. Laura Holladay, president, announced that election of officers will be held in September and urged all members not present at the salad supper to be sure to get their dues to Mrs. Eva Flack, 3404 Irving, by June 1.

The goal for the local chapter for the 1981-82 year is to attract more new members. AAUW has been working through the years at keeping members growing intellectually. Continuing education in the home and community is a nationwide aim. Programs are planned with this aim in mind.

BRIDAL SHOWER—A bridal shower honoring Patricia Halford, bride-elect of Tracy Dennis, was held May 16 in the Garden Room of First Baptist Church by fourteen hostesses. Pictured are Tori Lyons, sister of the prospective groom; Terra and Nicole Lyons, nieces of the groom; Mrs. Bill Dennis, mother of the prospective groom; the honoree; Mrs. Shorty Halford, mother of the bride; Mrs. Lillie Phillips, grandmother of the bride; Sharon Fritz, sister of the bride, and Donna Halford, sister of the bride. The couple will marry on June 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

Art Guild Has Picnic

The Art Guild Study Club met May 21 in the home of Mrs. Myron Roe.

A family picnic was enjoyed by husbands and other invited guests. There were thirty-six members and guests present.

Food was served buffet-style after which a sing-a-long was enjoyed by all. Verbal Bartlett and Myron Roe led the songs and were accompanied by Mrs. M.W. Pilcher at the piano.

Mrs. Roe was assisted in hostess duties by Mrs. Don Adams, Mrs. Wirt Holsinger, Mrs. Paris McPherson, Mrs. D.V. Merritt, Jr., Miss Virinia Grove and Mrs. Dan Martin.

$22.5 Million In Refunds Expected...

Court Rejects Bell Appeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — More than four million Texans will be divvying up $22.5 million in refunds and paying less for talking on the phone after the Texas Supreme Court rejected Southwestern Bell's rate appeal.

Jon Dee Lawrence, Bell general attorney for Texas, says the phone company will begin charging lower rates today and that the lower rates "will be reflected on bills dated within the next several days."

"We also will immediately begin preparations to refund about $22.5 million in higher rates charged under bond," he said. "The first refunds will appear on customer bills probably in mid-July. ... The refunds primarily will be in the form of credits on customer bills. The refunds will include 10 percent interest for the time the higher rates have been charged."

The Supreme Court rejected the Southwestern Bell rate appeal Wednesday. Bell had asked the court May 20 to block a Public Utility Commission rate order lower than the increase Bell already had started charging.

The PUC order would allow Bell to raise rates by $114.3 million, about $38 million less than the rates Bell put into effect in November.

Bell had asked for a hike of $326 million in its original application in July 1980.

On Feb. 28 the PUC ordered the company to implement the commission's lower rates and start making refunds. The trial court refused to issue an injunction, and on May 6 the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals here upheld the trial court.

Bell asked the Supreme Court to reverse the appeals court and to let the company continue charging the higher rates under bond until the trial court has decided the company's case against the PUC.

"We're disappointed that the Supreme Court did not see fit to allow us to continue rates under bond," said Lawrence.

Lawrence also said Bell would pursue with the Supreme Court "our efforts to overturn the Court of Civil Appeals decision which says that we could collect in the future rates which should be collected now from today's ratepayers. In our opinion, this is clearly not in the public interest."

Texas Senate Sets Up Higher Education Fund

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State senators have voted to funnel money from the Permanent School Fund to a special higher education fund, but the measure's senate sponsor says if the House adopts his proposal unchanged, he will "probably faint."

Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson, D-Midland, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said his committee altered the House proposal as much as possible "to leave everything to a conference committee" to decide.

The House voted May 15 for a constitutional amendment dedicating half of future state surpluses to creation of a Higher Education Assistance Fund.

Snelson's proposed constitutional amendment would spread income from the Permanent University Fund among institutions in the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems and would divert 25 percent of the annual income from state lands — which goes to the Permanent School Fund — to the new higher education fund.

The fund would be available to schools outside the UT and A&M systems.

Snelson's proposal also would repeal the state property tax.

The Legislature would appropriate money from general revenue "to recoup" the money that would have gone into the public school fund, which is distributed to school districts on a per-student basis, he said.

Discussion Continues In Washington...

Agreement May Be Near For Tax Cut Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairmen of the congressional tax committees discussed tax cuts with Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan today and indicated agreement may be near on a substitute for the president's proposed three-year, 30 percent reduction in personal tax rates.

"We had a good give-and-take session," Regan told reporters after his breakfast meeting at the Treasury Department with Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee,, and Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who heads the House Ways and Means Committee. "We think the ball was advanced."

The three officials refused to discuss any agreements that might have been reached, but they indicated there still is dispute over the timing of the tax reduction.

Asked if the Reagan administration is prepared to back away from its insistence on a three-year tax cut, Regan replied, "I'm not in a position to say. I haven't talked to the president — that's for him to say."

"I prefer to think we are in agreement much more than in disagreement," said Rostenkowski, who planned to meet later in the day with Democratic members of his tax-writing committee.

Dole, too, said he must discuss the negotiations with members of his committee. "I feel we are quite close but again we could be a long way off," he said.

Rostenkowski and Dole and met privately on Wednesday and Dole said at that time, "We felt we were close enough that we ought to discuss it with the administration."

Even so, Dole and Rostenkowski said, they have not agreed on two major points in President Reagan's program: enactment this year of tax cuts for three straight years and giving the same percentage rate reduction to rich and poor alike.

Dole's endorsement earlier Wednesday of a 25 percent rate cut over three years as a substitute for Reagan's plan apparently did not sway Rostenkowski, who does not want a cut that is locked in for that long a time.

"That is an area of some difference of opinion," Dole said.

"There is no sentiment (in the House) for a 36-month tax cut," Rostenkowski said.

But in a statement that could signal he is softening his position against anything beyond a one-year tax cut, Rostenkowski added, "That doesn't mean there isn't sentiment for a 30-month tax cut."

As for his demand that lower- and middle-income families receive a greater share of the tax benefits than Reagan proposed, Rostenkowski said, "Those are areas we are discussing."

Rostenkowski and Dole decline to talk publicly about points on which they agreed. "We want to relate our discussions directly to the membership of our committees rather than have them read about them," Rostenkowski said.

He called a meeting of fellow Democrats on Ways and Means this afternoon to discuss the tax cut. That session could produce an indication of what kind of bill the committee will write.

The Reagan administration has been looking to Rostenkowski and the leadership of the Democratic-controlled House to propose an alternative to the president's tax plan. Thus far, Rostenkowski and other members of the leadership have not gone beyond the bare outlines of a one-year tax plan with a greater tilt toward lower-income levels than the one offered by Reagan.

In several ways, the president and his advisers have passed the word that if Rostenkowski doesn't move quickly, they will try to re-create the coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats that produced a major victory for Reagan on his spending plans.

Bill Broadens CRMWD Limit

A bill broadening the powers and territory of the Colorado River Municipal Water District has cleared the Texas Legislature. Sen. E. L. Short of Tahoka reported that HB1801, which he substituted for his SB 618 previously approved in committee, was adopted by the senate 28-3. Only three senators in the Lower Colorado River Authority territory opposed it. The measure now goes to the governor for signature into law.

Under its terms, the primary territory of the district will be expanded to the corporate limits of the member cities of Snyder, Big Spring and Odessa as of Jan. 31, 1981, instead of the original March 1, 1949. There also is a provision for the district to annex territory subsequently annexed by member cities.

Another portion of the measure also enables the district to serve as the agency for assisting in the planning, building or financing of anti-pollution works mandated by state and federal laws. For these projects, the district could issue tax exempt bonds. Until passage of the bill, there was not an agency which could have provided this service, under a voluntary contractural arrangement, in nearly a score of West Texas cities.

In the senate, Sen. Short had the help of Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls, and in the House, Rep. Jay Gibson of Odessa carried the ball, with support by Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, Rep. Walter Grubbs of Abilene, Rep. Dick Burnett of San Angelo, Rep. Jerry Cockerham of Monahans and Rep. Mary Polk of El Paso as co-signers.

Wyszynski Dies Of Cancer At 79

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski, who guided Poland's Roman Catholic Church through more than 30 years of Communist rule and was a mentor of Polish-born Pope John Paul II, died here today of cancer. He was 79 and had been ill for about six weeks.

The pope, in a Rome hospital recovering from a May 13 assassination attempt, was told of the death of Wyszynski by Vatican officials and asked to be left alone to pray, the Vatican said. He later sent a telegram to Poland saying he shared in the "agony and prayer" of all Poles.

In death, Wyszynski was hailed as a "patriot" by the Communist regime that once confined him to house arrest.

Death occurred at 4:40 a.m. — 10:40 p.m. EDT Wednesday — the bulletin said.

In Game Two Of Playoff Series...

Hicks To Mount Mound Saturday

Coach Albert Lewis has tentatively named Gerald Don Hicks, 4-2 with one save, as Snyder's starting pitcher for Game Two when the best-of-three bi-district playoff series resumes at 1 p.m. Saturday in Lubbock.

The Matadors, who took Game One with a 9-3 victory, are expected to start Wayne Dotson, 10-2, who went two innings on Tuesday before giving way to Joe Benevidez, 9-3.

Lewis had planned to go with Hicks, a lefthander, if Snyder won the first game and Degrate, 11-2, if the Tigers lost. He changed his mind almost immediately after Tuesday's game, however.

"Estacado was hitting the fastball better than I thought they would," he allowed. "We'll go with the lefty (Hicks) who has more off-speed stuff for the first game Saturday. If we win, will come back with Tony," he added.

Lewis was optimistic about Snyder's chances of bouncing back to win the series.

"We were in this same situation last year (against Weatherford). They beat us the first game but we beat them twice at their place. It's not going to be easy, especially at their field, but we're certainly not giving up."

Only once in Lewis' five-year history of making the bi-district playoffs have the Tigers lost the first and second games of series. That was three years ago when Pecos eliminated Snyder in two games at regionals. On all other occoccasions, Snyder has always come back to win the second game after losing the first.

"We know it's possible, because we've done it before," Lewis said. "I don't know, we just weren't hitting the ball when we needed it (on Tuesday). I noticed that several of our powerful hitters were doing little things different. Their stance was different or they way they held the bat, or something. Most of the time I don't think they were conscious of it, but it's something we need to work out this week. This isn't the time to be making changes like that."

Saturday's game or games will be held at Estacado Field in Lubbock. Tickets will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Steinbrenner Hot, ThreatensChanges After 3 Defeats

BALTIMORE (AP) - Owner George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees threatened changes, hinting that Manager Gene Michael's job may be in jeopardy, after the Baltimore Orioles completed a three-game sweep Wednesday night.

The fiery Steinbrenner, who watched the series finale in the private box of Baltimore owner Edward Bennett Williams, erupted soon after Terry Crowley's ninth-inning single gave the Orioles a 6-5 decision.

"I'm worried that we're falling so far behind Baltimore in the loss column," Steinbrenner said after the Yanks dropped 4½ games behind the leaders of the American League East with 120 games remaining.

"I'm not going to allow it to happen much longer," Steinbrenner said. "If change is what is necessary, that's what we're going to decide. We just can't keep going like this. There will be some things happening, very shortly."

Asked if the changes could involve non-playing personnel, Steinbrenner said, "they could be."

Swingers Will Play Friday

Strike Delay Seems Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) - A delay in the threatened baseball strike grew more likely as the National Labor Relations Board decided to go to court in attempt to postpone it.

The three-member board announced that it would seek an injunction in U.S. District Court in New York today to put off baseball's third walkout in nine years. In the meantime, the board would continue to study a unfair labor practice charge lodged against the club owners by the players.

William Lubbers, the NLRB's general counsel, said that the agency would seek a temporary restraining order postponing the strike deadline until 48 hours after court proceedings on the full injunction request were completed.

Shoemaker Tops 8,000 Career Victory Mark

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Amid the floodlights of television cameras, soft-spoken Bill Shoemaker told his feelings on winning the 8,000th race of his illustrious career in thoroughbred racing.

Then, just as calmly, he took over for two sick fellow jockeys and won three more races at Hollywood Park Wednesday.

His 8,003 career triumphs may never be equaled, but the 49-year-old Shoemaker said, "I think someone will do it again."

He looked at the audience gathered for the interview session and quipped, "You'd think I was the president of the United States or something."

That session came two races after he won the first race on War Allied, placed third on Our Red Axe and ran out of the money on Pettrax.

He didn't have a mount in the fourth race, so they scheduled the news conference at that time for the veteran reinsman.

"It took me 32 years to get 7,999 and I knew I would get 8,000," he said. "But originally, I didn't think I would get 5,000 or 6,000 or 7,000.

Shoemaker broke John Longden's world record of 6,032 lifetime winners on Dares J. on Sept 7, 1970, and the retired Longden remains No. 2 on the list of winning jockeys.

Eddie Arcaro is third nearly 2,000 behind and Arcaro has also retired.

"I'm not entertaining any thoughts of retiring," said Shoemaker, whose mounts have won $81,930,976 for the owners of horses he has ridden. Long ago, he became a millionaire on his own and he admits that on the three occasions when he was injured, he thought of quitting.

"When I healed and didn't hurt, I wanted to be riding again," he told the media. "I'd like to go on forever, but I know that can't happen."

His aim, he said, was to win the Triple Crown. He has won Triple Crown races 10 times but never the three in the same year.

Outfielder Hack Wilson hit 56 home runs for the Chicago Cubs in 1930 to become the alltime National League recordholder in that specialty.

College Golf Rodeo To Compete At Nationals

School may be out for some, but Western Texas College golf and rodeo teams are working relentlessly, preparing for respective appearances in national competition next month.

Coach Bob O'Day's Westerners golf team, which placed first at regionals recently, will head for Henry Horton State Park near Chapel Hill, Tenn. to compete in the NJCAA National Golf Tournament on June 2-5.

The team qualified for the national tournament for the fifth time in six years in 1980-81.

Making up the team will be sophomores Gary Hodge, from Clovis, N.M.; Jeff Wagner, from Norman, Okla.; Chris Johnson, from Seminole; Richard White, from Pecos; and freshman Jeff Seger, of Fort Worth. Johnson, White and Seger were all-Region players, while Johnson was medalist in the tournament.

Last year, WTC finished eighth out of 42 teams and White was selected second team All-American in the NJCAA.

In contrast, rodeo coach Bob Doty will be leading a Western Texas team to the College National Finals Rodeo for the first time since 1973. Under NIRA rules, the top two regional teams and individuals in each event may enter the finals.

Among these will be WTC's Chris Welch, of Midland, who enters the bull riding as an individual. Welch was champion bull rider in the Southwest Region of the NIRA, taking first in one rodeo, second in two others, fourth in another and fifth in another.

WTC team finished second in the region with 1,154 points and will also compete at the finals, to be held June 16-20 at Montana State University in Bozeman.

Representing Western Texas will be James Garlic of Van Horn, bareback, bull riding and team roping; Tim Gradous of Hepihzbah, Ga., saddle bronc riding; Troy Reynolds of Hudson Falls, N.Y., calf roping, bulldogging and team roping; Dave Appleton, originally from Australia, saddle bronc, bareback and bull riding; and Jay Cochrane of Granbury, bull riding.

Hurricane Awareness Week Set

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has designated June 7-13 as Hurricane Awareness Week in Texas.

Clements signed the proclamation Tuesday, and reminded Texans of the damage done last year by Hurricane Allen.

"Compared to other hurricanes, Hurricane Allen was one of the largest to enter the Gulf of Mexico, yet the loss of life in Texas was low," said Clements. "This was due to awareness preparedness efforts."

the country club parking lot. A car pulled up to block his car and then the gunmen truck, authorities said.

Club members who saw the shooting — most of them youngsters at the swimming pool about 60 yards away — either refused comment or were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Jack Bailey, vice president and general counsel of Telex, described Wheeler as a "very mild-mannered guy. He just didn't like to talk to the press. He didn't like to have his affairs in the press."

Bailey said he had no clue to the motive, but "we don't think it has anything to do with Telex."

Wheeler was a former electro-chemical engineer who started his first business when he was 14. Telex, which makes computer terminals, tape decks and other electronic items, had 1980 sales of $186.49 million.

Wheeler also owned seven companies dealing in resources ranging from oil to magnesium.

In 1979, he paid $50 million for Miami-based World Jai-Alai Inc., which has Florida frontons in Miami, Tampa, Ocala and Fort Pierce and another fronton in Hartford, Conn.

Dear Abby

Fear of Witches Needs Psychiatrist's Clean Sweep

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I don't know which appalls me more — your patronizing tone, or your completely incorrect answer to E. IN PHILADELPHIA, who complained of being under the control of "some kind of witch." You give me the impression you've already decided that "they ain't no sich animal" as hexes and spiritual oppression. The danger with such an attitude is that if just possibly there is such a thing, you'll completely ignore the only right answer.

Your advice to E. should have been to find a good Bible-believing minister and tell him or her the problem. If it really is only in E.'s mind, the minister could send him to a good psychiatrist. But if it's a spiritual problem instead, there isn't a pyschiatrist in the whole world who can do a thing.

Sorry, Abby. You blew it.

OKINAWA

DEAR OKINAWA: A "good Bible-believing minister" may be an authority on spiritual matters, but he isn't qualified to evaluate one's mental condition. That's a psychiatrist's job, and that's why I sent E. to a psychiatrist.

If the psychiatrist finds E. to be mentally sound, then E. should find a person of deep religious faith and conviction who will call upon God to deliver him (or her) from the clutches of evil.

DEAR ABBY: Today a young man in his 20s came into our office and applied for a job. We always hire a few extra people for the summer season. He won't get a job. His application went into the wastebasket as soon as he left.

He misspelled the town he lives in, the school he attended and the month he was born, plus several other words. His penmanship was so bad the manager couldn't figure out his last name or telephone number.

Considering the unemployment in this area, we're sure he needs a job. He is married and the father of one. I hope the young people who read this letter will make a special effort in school or on their own to improve the skills that will get them jobs. We don't have time to teach a high school graduate how to spell and write. Even starting at the bottom is better than no job at all.

CONCERNED IN IDAHO

DEAR CONCERNED: Well said. Students?

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a devout cheapskate? There are several people in our office, and we all take turns bringing in doughnuts or other pastries for breakfast. One person always helps himself without being invited, but he never brings in a thing. Also, when there's an office party and everyone either brings a dish or contributes toward the purchase of an item, he never has "change," or he has some other excuse, but he always shows up to eat.

It's embarrassing to have to ask him for the money, so most of the time he gets by without paying at all. By the way, he is in a higher position than the rest of us and makes at least twice the salary we do.

This must be a problem in many offices. What is the solution?

IN THE HOLE IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR IN THE HOLE: The solution is for somebody to ask old freeloader for his fair share of the doughnuts, pastries or whatever. If nobody has the courage to corner him, don't blame El Cheapo for getting away Scotch-free.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GEORGE IN ST. LOUIS: Work is the yeast that raises the kind of dough you're looking for.

Rooster Gets Court Date

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Because a neighbor cried fowl, a Chattanooga man has been ordered to appear in court on a charge that his rooster is interrupting the neighbor's sleep.

Police officer Bob Martin said Friday he served a warrant Thursday on Jeff Petty, charging him with violating a city ordinance that forbids residents to let fowl run loose.

"This is the first time in my 20 years that I've had to do something like that," Martin said. "It called for arresting him, but I just ordered him to court instead of arresting him on something like that."

Police said the irate neighbor swore out a warrant in City Court alleging that Petty's rooster was disrupting his sleep.

Petty vowed to bring his rooster along for his June 8 appearance in court.

"He made a statement to an officer that he'd be in court and he'd bring the rooster with him," Martin said.

In Spite Of Proposed Cuts...

SS Tax Increase Needed Anyway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security payroll tax will have to be increased to 10 percent or more during the next century even if all of President Reagan's proposed benefit cuts are approved, says a former chief actuary for the system.

A. Haeworth Robertson said the Reagan administration ignored the rising costs of Medicare in its long-term projections for keeping Social Security solvent.

"Even with the Reagan administration proposals, we're still talking about a doubling and maybe even a tripling of the present tax rate," Robertson told reporters Wednesday. "People are going to have to retire later and work longer in the next century."

The Social Security payroll tax is now 6.65 percent and is scheduled to increase to 7.65 percent by 1990. A little more than 1 percent of the current rate pays for Medicare, the federal medical program for the elderly.

Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker, who revealed the administration's Social Security package May 12, and Budget Director David A. Stockman were called to testify today before the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security.

The administration ignited a firestorm in Congress with its proposal to cut benefits for early retirees by up to 40 percent starting next Jan. 1 and eventually lower all future retirees' benefits by an average 10 percent. On the other side, the plan also envisions limiting future increases in the payroll tax.

President Reagan, in a letter to congressional leaders last week, emphasized, however, that he is willing to compromise on all aspects of the plan. Schweiker has suggested phasing in the stiffened penalties for those who elect to retire at 62 instead of making them effective next January.

Administration officials said the Reagan plan would wipe out both a short-term deficit threatening Social Security and a potentially worse long-range shortfall that could imperil the program when the baby-boom generation reaches retirement age.

The projected long-range, 75-year deficit in Social Security's retirement, survivors and disability cash benefits is 1.52 percent of the taxable payroll, or approximately $18 billion a year in 1981 dollars. The Reagan cuts would trim Social Security's cash benefits by 3.06 percent of the taxable payroll, or double the projected deficit.

But Robertson, the program's chief actuary from 1975 to 1978, said those figures ignore a growing problem in the Medicare program.

By his projection, taking Medicare into account, "the tax rates would still have to rise to at least 10 percent early in the next century," assuming economic conditions are average. Under pessimistic assumptions, the payroll tax might have to be as high as 15 percent to 20 percent, he said.

Boat Person Graduates With Academic Honors

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Tu Anh Ngoc Tran remembers her first classes at Austin Lanier High School as confusing sessions during which she copied everything written on the blackboard and hoped to have it translated for her later.

That was two years ago when she was a 16-year-old refugee who fled Saigon by boat. Now she has graduated from Lanier as its top senior — a scholar in a strange land who worked hard and became valedictorian of her class.

"When we went, chances were 50-50 whether you would make the trip alive or die on the way," she said of the week-long boat trip that took her, two older sisters and a younger brother to Malaysia.

Her parents, both pharmacists, stayed in Vietnam with two younger children.

Miss Tran knew little English and less about American life when she arrived here. She and her sisters worked to support themselves and their brother.

But she managed to get top marks in three subjects American students traditionally have considered difficult — calculus, chemistry and advanced French.

In her graduation address Tuesday, she thanked the 375 classmates she said helped her "to take my destiny into my own hands."

She said her biggest regret was that her parents could not be in Austin to see her graduate.

Lanier Principal Rodger Wiley said Miss Tran racked up a grade point average of 97.2.
