Gasoline Getting Scarce At Some Area Stations

By Pat Blair

Gasoline is going to be in short supply again at several area service stations and prices are going up at others.

And a nationally-known petroleum marketing expert is urging an immediate return to the odd-even system of gasoline rationing.

A spot check with area Texaco and Exxon service stations reveals that gasoline supplies to these stations have been cut and the station managers are looking at short hours and possible closings on Saturdays and Sundays.

"We got cut 25 percent of the 1977 supply," said Ray Longino of Ray's Texaco, 307 South Austin. What this means, Longino said, is that he will be supplied with only 75 percent of the gasoline that he was receiving in 1977.

He added this holds true for all Texaco stations in the area.

"We'll live through it, I guess," he said. "It's happened before."

He said his station will be closing Saturdays and Sundays.

At Jack's Exxon on East Market Street, Z.T. Washburn, asked if his gas supplies had been cut, replied, "You better believe it! It's going to be rough with me."

Washburn said his supplies will probably be cut "close to 20,000 gallons this

Alvina Sanchez Chosen RF Homecoming Queen

Alvina Sanchez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Sanchez was elected homecoming queen for 1979 during the pre-game ceremony on Friday evening at Pirate Stadium.

Alvina represented the Science and Slide Rule Club and was escorted by Mr. Nelson Domaschk.

The first runner-up for this honor was Rita Martinez representing the Future Teachers. She was escorted by George Solis.

The second runner-up for this honor was Terri Price representing the Band. Her escort was Michael Covarrubias.

Third runner-up was Julie Adams representing the Lady Pirate Athletic Association. She was escorted by Ty Riley.

The fourth runner-up was Sandy Collins representing the Student Council. She was escorted by David Williams.

A red carnation was presented to all 17 candidates by Mr. Edward Lane, President of the Student Council.

The classes of 1919, 1929, 1939, 1949, 1959, 1969 and 1979 were given special recognition during the ceremony.

Pirates Await 'Cats Invasion

Little else can be said about the Gregory-Portland Wildcats that hasn't been said already at one time or another. As the Wildcats come into Pirate Stadium Friday night, they will be trying to claim their 11th straight district title. Rockport has the task of trying to put a roadblock in their way.

The Cats are 8-0 coming into the contest, literally bombing the Corpus Christi AAAA teams before running into tougher play in District 15-AAA. The big Wildcat defense has yielded only 39 points in eight games. Four shutouts have been registered by the defensive squad led by All-Everything Tommy Robinson.

The Wildcat offense, which is not as powerful they say, has run up over 300 total yards on seven of the eight opponents, with Calallen holding the Wildcats to under 200 yards in a 27-6 loss. G-P will pass only if necessary because their ground game is so solid. Kenny Meyers has been the clutch man, although a sophomore named Rocky Collett has suddenly bloomed this year, and he is a huge one. The quarterback position is manned by Glenn Burdine, and the other slot in the backfield will be occupied by Mike Snobeck.

Although falling to Beeville 30-12, the Pirates of Rockport-Fulton collected over 300 yards offense, splitting the running game and the passing game down the middle with 151 yards each way. Jim Eaton stayed around the 50 percent com-

Bradley Is Newest Pilot Staffer

Eddie Bradley became the newest member of the Rockport Pilot staff earlier this month when he joined The Pilot as a reporter.

A resident of Rockport for 16 years, Eddie may be remembered by some of the older Pilot readers for the column, "Ecotalk," he wrote for the newspaper a few years ago.

A native of Hot Springs, Arkansas, Eddie grew up in Corpus Christi and is a graduate of the University of Corpus Christi (now CCSU) with a bachelor of arts degree in biology.

He was employed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for 12 years.

It was this job, he said, that brought him to Rockport. He lived in Corpus Christi but was headquartered in Rockport.

Soon after he and his wife, Linda, were married, he said, they moved here. "And," he added, "the headquarters were moved to

ABC Provides Early Training

By Pat Blair

Note: The Aransas County United Fund provides partial support for 12 agencies serving the county and its residents. This is the second in a series on those agencies.

The letters stand for "All children Beginning learning in a Christian evironment": ABC Learning Center.

Classes — for three through five-year-olds — start in September, continue through May, and are open to youngsters of any race, religion or national origin.

There are even some scholarships available for those whose parents cannot meet the tuition, which varies from $20 to $50 per month depending on how many days the child attends.

The purpose of the Center, says its coordinator, Mary Lou Tiner, is to provide an academic program for preschool-age children in an atmosphere which encourages the child to grow emotionally and physically as an individual.

Teachers work to develop the youngsters' gross motor skills, fine motor skills, expand the child's concepts of space, shape, color and size. . .

In short, says Mrs. Tiner, the Center prepares the youngster for his or her entry into public schools.

Classes are organized into three groups: Class I, taught by Margie Boone, is for three-year-olds; Class II, taught by Frances Naquin, includes those age three and one-half to four years; and Class III, taught by Linda Puster, is for the four and five-year-olds.

Mrs. Tiner added that the five-year-olds in the Center are those who celebrate a birthday during the school year: "We don't accept any children eligible for public kindergarten," she said.

Mrs. Puster has a degree in elementary education, and the other two teachers are experienced in working with preschool children. The Center's staff also includes a teacher's aide, Johnnie Callam, and a custodian, Mary Guerrero.

Classes meet daily from 8:15 a.m. until 11:15 a.m., and parents may enroll their children for five days a week, Mondays through Fridays; three days, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; or two days, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Tuition is based on the number of days the child attends: $20 for two days; $30 for three; $50 for the full five days.

There are now 60 youngsters enrolled in the Center, Mrs. Tiner said, adding that there are still vacancies. The Center could take four more "students" in Class I and five more in Class III.

Two of the youngsters are presently attending on scholarships, she said. Scholarships are provided through donations to the Center — as are much of the expenses.

Dee Dee Richards, president of the Center's board of directors, said it relies on about $3,000 in donations yearly, "because the tuitions barely cover salaries."

The Center also depends in part on funds from the Aransas County United Fund, which this year has allocated $500 — the amount the Center requested.

Code Must Be Enforced

It would be hard to find a person in this community who would not express a view concerning the nearly month-old controversy over movie ratings. The difficulty has arisen over the public's understanding of the local Cinema 35's enforcement of age requirements listed in the Motion Picture Code and Rating Program.

This rather important and simple issue has been unnecessarily batted around in recent weeks with a resulting confusion which may make an intelligent, workable solution impossible.

Perhaps by the time this is read, a final solution will have been reached. However, it seems unlikely.

We submit the following which, in our opinion, must be considered:

First, there are many people in Aransas County and elsewhere in this country, who feel that the "Movie Rating System" is the law of the land.

Every city where a theater is located is faced with the same problem, that of regulating the age of the movie audience as compared to the subject content of the movie being shown.

The management of every other movie theater you can name in the area abides by the "System Of Self-Regulation," including Rockport's Cove Drive In and The Rialto in Aransas Pass.

The constitutional right of parents is not the issue. No parent has the "constitutional right" to allow a juvenile to purchase liquor, to drive a car, to vote or to quit school before the proper age is reached.

Allowing a small child to see an "R" rated movie with as much sexual overtones and nudity as "Animal House" cannot be tolerated by this or any other community.

In 1968, the Motion Picture Association of America formulated a "Code and Rating Program" to "keep in close harmony with the mores, culture, the moral sense and change in our society...To encourage artistic expression by expanding creative freedom:

"...To assure that the freedom which encourages the artist remains responsible and sensitive to the standards of the larger society."

The declaration of principles continues:

"The creators of motion pictures undertake a responsibility to make available pertinent information about their pictures which will assist parents to fulfill their responsibilities.

"But this alone is not enough. In further recognition of our obligation to the public, and most especially to parents, we have extended the code operation to include a nationwide voluntary film rating program which has as its prime objective, a sensitive concern for children.

"With the adoption of the voluntary film rating system described, the distributors and exhibitors of motion pictures fulfill an important responsibility to the parents of this country. Through this system, guidance is now provided as to the suitability of certain films for young audiences.

"The film industry is doing all in its power to make these ratings easily accessible, but we must rely on the public to become familiar with the symbols and their meanings, and to respect and follow the guidance offered. Parents especially must teach their own children to understand and observe the symbols.

"Theater managers will enforce all those which restrict children's admission."

Hundreds of citizens in this community have voiced the opinion quite clearly: parents want the ratings enforced to the letter. Rockport is no different from any other city; the movie code must be enforced by the theater manager.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

Representative Elizabeth Holtzman (N.Y.)"...The bill (H.J. Res.422) which I am introducing today is designed to encourage the participation of undocumented aliens in the next year's census.

"Because untold thousands of such persons were not counted during the 1970 census, States, and cities with large concentrations of undocumented aliens, have lost substantial Federal revenues over the last 10 years.

"When you consider that $50 billion of Federal funds -- (Involving over 100 different Federal programs) -- are allocated annually on the basis of population, it is apparent why every U.S. resident must be counted in the 1980 census...

"The reason for the failure of the Census Bureau to enumerate this particular population is evident. Most of them are terrified by the constant threat of detection and deportation. As a result, they are suspicious of, and make every effort to avoid all Government officials, including census takers.

"For this reason, I am introducing legislation which will assure undocumented aliens that they will be immune from deportation if the information they give to census takers is used against them.

Specifically, my bill provides that no person can be deported or excluded based on identifiable information provided in the course of the 1980 Decennial Census...

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Rep. Holtzman is careful to use the word "undocumented aliens. When is an undocumented alien not an illegal alien? Undocumented aliens may be wanted for drug smuggling, murder, or other felonies.

It would appear that her subcommittee on Immigration is working at cross-purposes with the Immigration and Naturalization Service, a section of the Justice Department.

H.J. Res. 442 is another good example of an important Bill buried, from the public, in the Congressional Record.

State Of The Region

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend
Council of Governments

New guidelines are making significant changes in CETA programs in the Coastal Bend, carrying out changes that Congress made in the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

The Changes make more apparent the intent of the act, which is to make employable the hard-core or long-time unemployed.

The most noticeable change was putting a time limit on the period of months that a man or woman can remain in public service employment, subsidized by CETA funds. The limit now is 18 months.

This means many people who had worked that long for cities, counties, and non-profit agencies are now excluded from these jobs.

The local governments and agencies have made a concentrated effort to place these people in unsubsidized jobs with the experience they now have, and the efforts have been successful in an estimated 80 percent of the cases.

New limits have been placed on the amount that can be paid CETA workers. In most cases the limit is $2.90 to $3.15 an hour. To qualify, the man or woman must have been unemployed for a long period of time.

This gives assurance that the jobs go to the long-time unemployed as intended. But it makes it difficult to qualify people. To survive during a period of unemployment, they may have done yard work or some odd job and any employment disqualifies them.

There are different programs and titles in CETA. Each one has its own detailed guidelines, so general statements cannot be made about all wage levels or all lengths of unemployment required.

Thus, certification for CETA programs is complex. Up to now, a person has had to go from the headquarters of one program to that of another to find out whether he can qualify and whether there are openings.

In the next few months, field officers are to be opened throughout the region, manned by Texas Employment Commission personnel. There, in one place, information can be obtained about all CETA programs and a person who is qualified for any program can be certified for it.

Such a center is already open in the Texas Employment Commission in Corpus Christi. Field centers are expected to open during November in Sinton and Robstown, and during December and January in Kingsville, Beeville, and Alice.

A new emphasis in the CETA employment program will be Job Search. This is a three to six week period when every effort is made to find employment in private business for the unemployed person without further training or education.

Job Search involves providing constantly updated information on available jobs, counseling to help the unemployed determine what jobs they could do and present themselves in a way that would encourage employers to consider them favorably, and operation of a telephone bank to provide the unemployed with the maximum number of contacts with potential employers.

A tax incentive is provided for the private business which employes those certified in the CETA program.

Skills training will continue where this is needed to make people employable. CETA contracts for this training to be provided by Bee County College, SER, LULAC Educational Service Center, HIALCO, and Metals, Inc. . . .

Bee County College training is being expanded. Training programs include welding, auto mechanics, body work, clerical, heavy equipment maintenance, and nursing. About 85 percent of those who complete training are placed in unsubsidized employment.

CETA has a program for youth as well as for adults. The program will continue to provide part-time work for students so that they can stay in classes and complete their education. But in the youth program, also, there is additional emphasis being placed on Job Search.

This means that young people who have dropped out of school or do not have a driving desire to continue studies will be given strong support in finding jobs in which they can start with the capabilities they now have.

The Work Experience program, one of the CETA contract agencies, ceased to exist as of October 1. This was a program which placed the unemployed in public service jobs, doing work needed by local governments and non-profit agencies. However, early next year, a multi-million dollar demonstration project is to get underway which will fill such jobs.

Then local governments can count on such supplementary employees. This program, part of a welfare reform package, will certify persons eligible for welfare who may or may not be receiving assistance. This will be, in most instances, mothers receiving Aid for Dependent Children. Paths open to them will include Job Search, public service jobs, and training.

The Coastal Bend is one of 15 places in the nation where this program, called the Employment Opportunity Program, is to be tested. The nearest pilot program to our area is Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Austin At Wharf

I WAS NOT PARTY TO THE ROMANCE BETWEEN Karma and Bayou LaFourche which began just over a year ago when the Skipper and his Mate tied up for the night a few yards off the Intracoastal at the quaint little town of LaRose. Lines were scarcely secure when a polite young man happened by.

"This is not a very safe place to tie up, sir," he said. "A tug turned here and crashed into a boat tied here not long ago." A wise skipper always heeds local knowledge and on the advice of the youth, he moved further up the bayou and promptly ran aground.

Curt Boudreaux was embarrassed, but Karma was eased off and quickly tied in a secure berth. The next morning's intended departure was delayed, delayed in fact for three weeks, as things turned out. The Skipper pressed the starter button to the diesel and there was no response. He was busy attempting to analyze the trouble when young Curt appeared again. Responding to a request, he took the Skipper in his pickup to the nearest telephone.

I later heard the Boudreaux side of the story from Curt's mother, Margaret Boudreaux. "Mom," he told her, "there are people down on the bayou in a sailboat with engine trouble and they look starved." Now cruising people are not given to excess weight, and under the best of circumstances Park and Evelyn Gerdine -- well, both are among those fortunates who have never had to join the battle against threatening waistlines.

In any event, Curt was soon back at Karma laden with boiled crab, shrimp and oysters. Then, briefly, Karma was adopted by the Boudreauxs. Their home became home away from home for the crew. The days went by and the Skipper, after telephoning all over the country, became almost resigned to having to wait a predicted six months for a starter part to come from England. And it was about that time that Curt, Sr., came to the rescue. "I know an old man in Thibodeaux who has a machine shop, and that man, he's got everything." And he did.

Months later, preparing for the present voyage, the Skipper realized that he'd never received a bill from Thibodeaux. The old man "hadn't time to figure," when Karma departed.

"Ah, yes, I remember you," the mechanic responded to a telephone call in December. "How you all gettin' along?" The bill? "I'm bad about that sort of thing. But don't you worry. I send it someday soon." The bill came in late March.

FOR MORE THAN A YEAR I'VE REALIZED THAT the Skipper and his Mate have had more to say about Bayou LaFourche and the Boudreauxs than about people and places they saw in a five-month cruise. It must have been late February, '79, when he invited me to join him on the current cruise. In the ensuing months of planning there was never a conversation that did not include mention of Bayou LaFourche.

Needless to write, then, that LaRose became our first major port of call. Secure in her old berth, the Skipper went ashore to telephone the Boudreauxs. He never made it. Curt, Sr., was driving through town and spotted him walking along the road. Shortly both were aboard and minutes later "under orders" from Curt we were enroute to his attractive new home at nearby Lockport.

Margaret, their twin sons, Curt and Burt, both high school seniors, and an older brother, Joey, welcomed the Skipper as if he were a member of the family. I was made equally welcome. We stood around the kitchen as Margaret prepared lunch. Several times I watched her open the most jam-packed frig I've ever seen. For four days the galley stove aboard Karma never saw flame.

Wear out a welcome? Let me only say that Margaret is a pleasant lady, animated, sincere and -- authoritative. Stay on the bayou and dine anywhere but the Boudreaux home? Never. "On the bayou we work hard and we play hard." She went on to describe the almost never-ending festivals that are held virtually every week.

She did not exaggerate. I found a copy of a handsome slick back magazine, "Arcadia Profile."

Festivals in the parish include - Galliano Oyster Festival, Cajun Festival, Bouilabaisse Festival, La Via LaFourche Festival, Sauce Piquanti Festival, Golden Meadow Tarpon Rodeo, Grand Isle Fish Rodeo -- but the list is too long. Bayou people work, and they know how to play, enjoy life.

There is scarcely space to describe LaFourche, one of the oldest and most historic parishes in Louisiana. Happily, but with a due measure of trepidation, I am obliged to acknowledge that while the old ways of life (delightful Cajun accents) remain, times are changing.

The parish is rich in sugar cane, but the industry is in jeopardy because of the energy shortage. Sugar mills are for sale, although we visited one which makes bagasse paper from pulp. Fishing is a major industry and one sees well-kept shrimp boats secured on the bayou in front of very nice homes.

Shipbuilding is another factor in the economy, and then there is oil and oil exploration which is affecting the most evident change, disheartening to the sentimental traditionalist. It is change that will beyond question eventually affect much of the good life of Arcadia.

Of this all doubt is dispelled by the Louisiana Superport, now under construction 17 miles out in the gulf. I prefer not to dwell on the subject, disliking change as I do, yet, at the same time, recognizing that our modern world economy cannot be sacrificed for sentiment.

At least the superport is miles off shore and thereby offers less threat to fish and wildlife, not to mention the way of life of some of the nations' happiest and most charming people.

THE BOUDREAUXS HAD INSISTED THAT KARMA be brought to Lockport so as to be close to their front door and when we departed we prevailed upon them to sail with us from their home to LaRose.

It was a pleasant afternoon and we gave them dinner aboard. Scarcely magnificent Creole cooking, but at least the Skipper produced one of his rather famous Key Lime Pie.--ahab

Pirates Fall To First Half Rush By Beeville Trojans, 30-12

By Bob Crawford

From the opening kickoff on, the Pirates of Rockport-Fulton were chasing orange and white blurs all evening as the Beeville Trojans sunk the Pirates 30-12.

Beeville collected their fourth district win against only one loss, and that was to Gregory-Portland. On the opening kickoff, Juan Cano took the Pirates' kick back in his endzone, and 13 seconds and 102 yards later, he had crossed the goal line on the other end. The Pirates were quickly behind 7-0.

An interception of a Jim Eaton pass by linebacker Reggie Elder gave the Trojans super position at midfield. Four plays later, Jim Antoine hoisted a pass for the endzone, and Larry Leach ran under the ball, and with about three minutes gone in the game, the Pirates were down 14-0.

An error on the Trojans' part opened the door for the Pirates to get back in the game. Leach tried a field goal from the Pirates' 23-yard line, but it was off to the side, and the Pirates took over on the 20-yard line. Putting together what might be their best scoring drive of the season, the Pirates moved steadily down the field. At the Beeville seven, Jim Eaton put the ball on his hip and rolled into the endzone for six points. A high snap on the point-after try caused the extra point attempt to never be tried, but the Pirates had fought back.

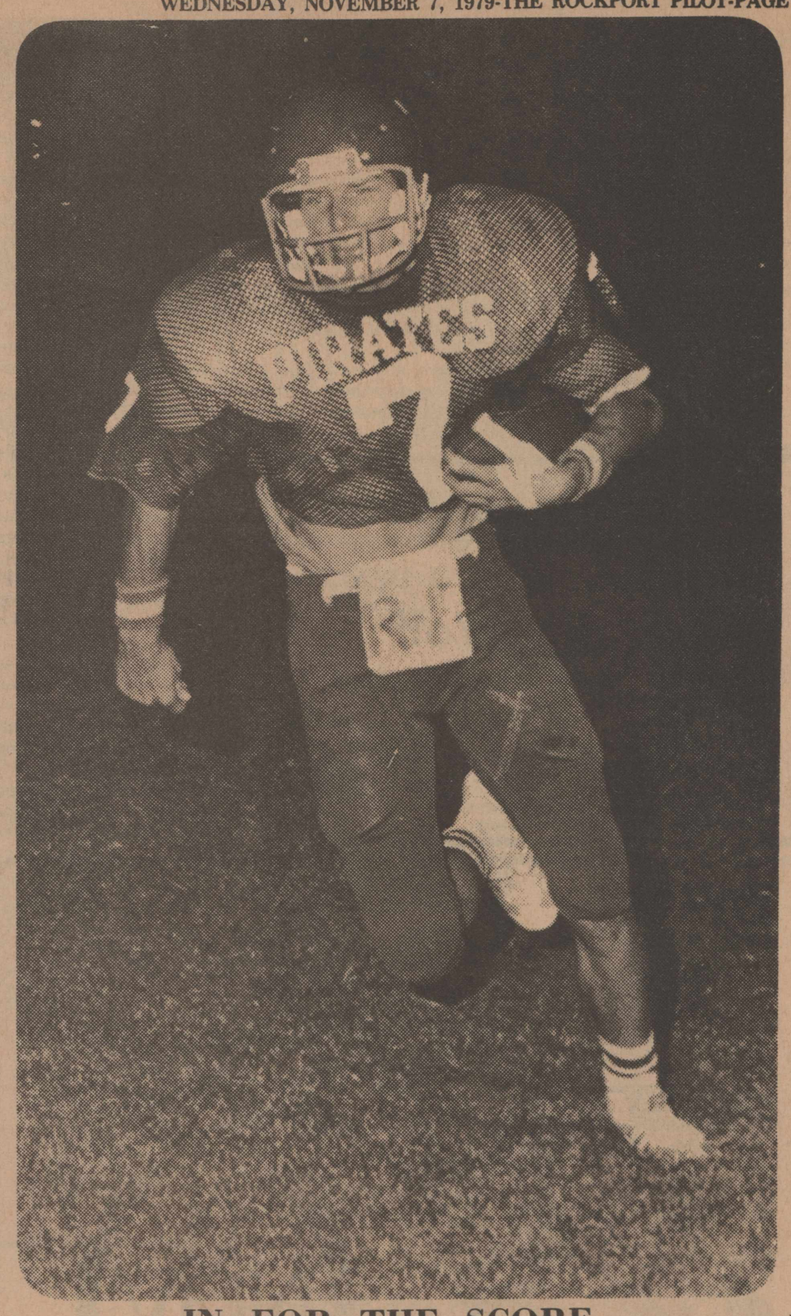

Beeville did not let the Pirates get on track again, as they roared back on the next possession, going 68 yards on the march, with power back R.A. Medina going in. A penalty on the point after attempt put the ball closer to the goal for the Trojans, so they went for two points and made it. Suddenly, the score was 22-6. To really rip-off the Pirates, the Trojans turned Robin Bright loose on the last play of the first half. At least five Pirates hit him as he twisted and turned, and one Pirate said that he missed him twice, before Bright cut back all the way across the field to the opposite sideline and ran 62 yards for a score. A similar penalty happenend on the point-after try, and again the Trojans took advantage and went for the two points, and got them. The score at halftime was 30-6.

In the second half, the Pirates put together a long drive 59 yards before it died at the Beeville four-yard line. Rockport's defense tightened up and really bottled up the Trojan offensive machinery. "This is something that I can't explain," said Coach Brian Conolly after the game. "Earlier in the seaon we would keep the other team from scoring early, and it would be late in the game before any damage was done. Now it seems to have reversed itself. We don't play well early, get behind, and then we come back, but fall short."

In the fourth period the Pirates moved the ball again down to the Beeville 26, but the drive faltered. Only on the last drive of the game did the Pirates crack the scoring barrier in the second half. Dennis Hull fought off a defender in the endzone to gain a little more glory for the Pirates as he snared a pass from Eaton from 28 yards out.

Alvin Miller and Gary Ondrej led a Pirate defense which arched its back and held the Trojans to zero points in the second half, although the Trojans did not remove their top personnel until the last two minutes of the game. Ondrej and Miller had 13 and 11 tackles, respectively. Kyle Dietze added 10 more.

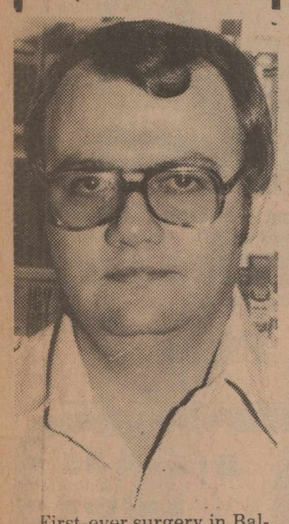

Offensively, when the line gave Eaton time to throw, he nailed his receiver seven of 14 times, although two other passes were caught by the opponents.

Rollers Do Well

The Low Rollers captured both the high series and high single-game honors in Sundown League bowling action last week.

The league is composed of men and women and bowls each week at Coastal Bend Lanes in Aransas Pass. Their high team series score was 3,290 and their high team game was 1,159.

For the high series, the best men's score was 552 by Joe Allen; Frankie Slaughter also had a 552 and led the women.

A.D. Hanke had the best score for the high game, with a 214; Frankie Slaughter again led the women with a 223.

R-FHS Will Be 4-A School

Beginning in 1980, Rockport-Fulton High School will be a member of District 15-4A. This is part of the latest University Interscholastic League (UIL) realignment of Texas high schools.

Basically, the Pirates will be in with the very same competition they had this year, except that Robstown will become an additional district member.

What the UIL did was simply move everyone up a notch by creating a new classification, 5A. This year's 4-A schools will be next year's 5-A; 3-A schools will go to 4-A and so on down the line. This year's B schools will be next year's A schools. There will be no more B classification after this school year.

The Robstown Cotton Pickers will enter our district, apparently as a result of routine UIL realignment by school attendance figures and not due to the change from 3A to 4A.

Speaking Of Sports

A star on the rise

By HANK WESCH
Copley News Service

He's well on his way to a million in winnings but dresses in jeans, T-shirt and cowboy boots.

Bushy-haired, blue-eyed, baby-faced. Only a few months past his 20th birthday.

Beat Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg back-to-back to pick up $100,000 in the World Championship Tennis finals in Dallas.

In many minds John McEnroe is the best tennis player in the world right now. And if he felt that way, McEnroe, who has been described with every adjective except shy, would be saying so.

But he isn't. Not now, anyway.

"I'm not No. 1 yet, I still think of Borg as No. 1," McEnroe said in an interview.

"It helped my confidence, beating Borg and Connors in the same tournament. It was the first time anyone's done that.

"But he (Borg) has won Wimbledon three times in a row. You look at his results and they speak for themselves. Dallas is a big tournament, one of the top six or so in the world, but it's not like Wimbledon or Flushing Meadow."

Wimbledon or Flushing Meadow. The All-England championships and the U.S. Open. In less than a year since turning professional, McEnroe has reached the point where only victories in those events would add much to his considerable stature.

He has money — $445,000 in earnings in five months on the professional tour in 1978, a pair of $100,000 payoffs this season.

He's gained prestige under pressure. He spearheaded the U.S. Davis Cup Final victory over England last December, winning two matches while surrendering fewer games in a final than any previous American player. And that was in his first Davis Cup singles experience.

But even though he's been to the semifinals in both of tennis' premier events, McEnroe hasn't been a winner. Though he may remedy that this year.

"I'll be more prepared for them both this year," McEnroe says. "I lost the first round at Wimbledon last year, but I'm not playing the week before so I'll be ready this time. I can't say I will win one of them, but I'm going in with the frame of mind that I can.

"I usually play better on the faster surface (U.S. Open). No one plays at Wimbledon that much. So it's a matter of who adjusts to the surface the quickest."

McEnroe, it should be pointed out, possesses one of the most adjustable games of tennis' upper-echelon players. He can hit with power, yet has remarkable touch on finesse shots. And his court sense seems well beyond his years.

Watching McEnroe carve up an opponent is a spectator treat lessened only when he stages one of the outbursts of temper which used to characterize his play.

Lady Pirates Over Beeville

Last Saturday, the Lady Pirate volleyball team won every game in sweeping past Beeville. This match was played in Rockport to make up for one that had been postponed because of rain.

The Varsity girls set-up and spiked very well as they won 15-10 and 15-7.

JV scores of 15-0 and 15-13 show the results of the home girls' all-around good play.

Diana Herman led her team in scoring as the Freshman girls won by identical scores of 15-5.

Cross Country Team Gains Trophies In Corpus Christi Run

Last Saturday, the Rockport-Fulton High School cross country team competed against schools from as far away as Roma to the south and Austin to the north, and did very well.

The two-mile run was held in Cole Park on the Corpus Christi beach front. Of the 92 runners entered in the boys' Varsity Division, Pirates finished 7th-Miguel Contreras, 15th-Raul Castro, 44th-Peter Booth, 85th- Damaso Galvan and 88th-Joe Barlass. Contreras and Castro received trophies for their efforts. The winning time was 10 minutes, 16 seconds.

In girls' action, Belinda Cross finished 9th in a field of 52. Lory Broadhurst was 26th, Donna Garcia, 45th, and Tammy Barlass, 46th. Cross brought home a trophy for her run. The winning time was 11 minutes, 54 seconds.

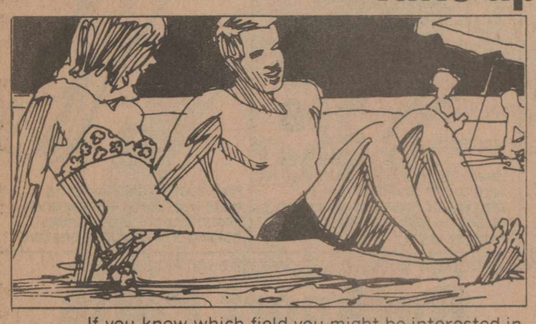

The JV boys' division had 90 entrants. The finishers for Rockport-Fulton were David Ramirez-4th, Tom Walker-63rd, Robert Garcia-69th, Chuck Shedden-72nd and Marty Israel-83rd. Ramirez was given a trophy for his work. The winning time was 10 minutes, 28 seconds.

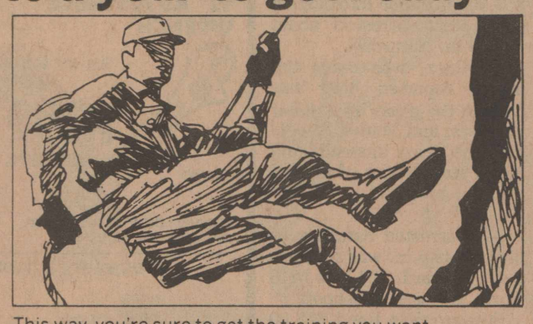

The district cross country meet will be held in Tuloso-Midway this Saturday. Starting times are: JV girls-9 am, JV boys-9:30 am, Varsity girls-10 am. Varsity boys 10:30 am. Awards will be presented at 11 am. The top five Varsity runners and top two overall teams will advance to regionals.

has been holding steady at about 75 members, but Mrs. McLester said that the group is in the process of paying dues, so an exact count won't be available for a while yet. Membership dues are $5 for the first member of a family, and $3 for each additional member from a family.

What do the membership dues provide? Well, according to Mrs. McLester "this year we've had four horse shows, a play day, and a couple of trail rides." The group's latest outing was a Moonlight Trail Ride, held November 3, with about fifteen riders cantering about the area before settling down for a wiener roast.

Members are now getting in gear for their next project, this one for the delight of their elders. An "Old Folks Rodeo" with the kids doing the work, and their parents doing the enjoying, is in the planning stages right now.

Meetings are held at the Baptist Church in Fulton on the third Monday of each month, and all events take place at the Fulton Arena. Presiding over the meetings is Allen McLester, with Jennie Mundine second in command. Alene Mundine and Mrs. McLester split the secretary/treasurer duties. Ottie Mundine is the arena director, and he takes care of details such as the dates of events, which ones to attend and when to put on the shows.

The Board of Directors are Bill Parr, Kenny Keller, Roy Adams, D.M. Meador, Jackie Mundine, David Mundine and Benny McLester.

The shows are all open so a rider can enter any breed of horse, and all the shows are based on the high point system of one horse-one rider.

Mrs. McLester explained that this way each rider has an equal chance, because the rider with a single steed is on the same basis as the rider with a whole stable of mounts. They face the same advantages and disadvantages in riding the same horse for the many different events.

In addition to the shows, the group has two or three pit fairs each year, with no horses allowed.

"They're a lot of fun," said Mrs. McLester. "The first one was in 1973, and by the next year about 200 kids showed up."

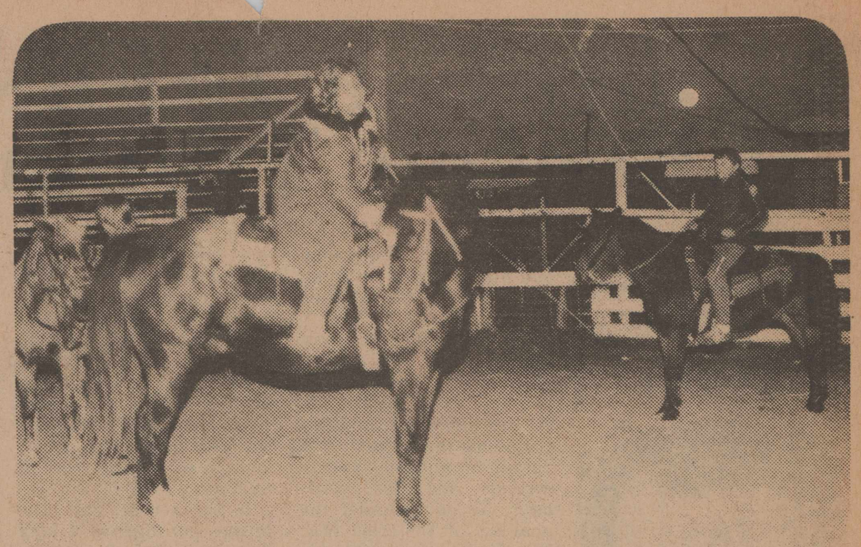

Fancy stepping in the arena has also been seen by members of the club. At one time the club had some square dancing members who danced via their mounts. They were called the "Mounted Squares," and still do-si-do through the memories of the members.

"There was also an attempt to form a drill team, but we just didn't have the time to practice."

The group's mascot is Yosemite Sam, that stocky little cartoon character of the brilliant red handlebar mustache always dashing off atop a magnificent mount. Anyone who has ever seen his quite unscary displays of affection for his steed will know how members of the Aransas County Riding Association feel about their steeds.

So if you're interested in riding, or just horsin' around, take Sam's advice and ride on over to the next ACRA meeting.

Mount up!

91 September Calls To Paramedics

Ninety-one accidents were accounted for in the September report by the Aransas County Medical Services, Inc., with 23 miscellaneous accidents heading the list.

Auto accidents, numbering 19, followed in second, and 11 heart attacks were the third most frequent reason for calling paramedics.

Additional calls, and the reasons for them, included 10 falls, seven strokes, five industrial accidents, four recreational accidents, three each of assaults and drug overdoses, two drunks, and one each of motorcycle accidents, water rescues, emergency childbirths and drownings.

Paramedics totalled 3,155 miles during the month, and transported 51 patients to area hospitals. They answered 53 calls within the city, 35 within the county, and three outside of the county.

The Life Pak Heart machine was used 19 times. Five patients were given drugs, seven were given Iv's, and one patient was defibrillated.

Of the 51 patients transported to hospitals, 17 were taken to Lyman-Roberts, 11 went to Memorial Medical Center, eight were taken to each Spohn and Enterprise Medcial Center, two apiece were taken to Aransas Hospital, Driscoll Children's and other hospitals, and one was taken to the Medical Arts Clinic.

The unit was cancelled enroute six times, and patients refusing service happened 12 times, with three paitents being gone upon the unit's arrival.

Robert Crossman Services In Portland

Robert Burns Crossman, 85, died November 4 in a Corpus Christi hospital. He had been a resident of Rockport for 35 years.

Crossman was born in Dallas, and lived in Portland the past year, before which he lived in Rockport. He was a member of the Christian Church, a member of Scottish Rite for 50 years, a Shriner for 55 years, a life member in both the Patterson Lodge No. 1177 in San Antonio and the Masonic Lodge, and a member of the Alzafar Temple.

He is survived by his wife, Ellen Dean Crossman, Portland; one son Thomas F. Crossman, Redondo Beach, California; three daughters, Alice Jane Ince, Eureka, Montana, Ellen Roberta Crossman, and Ida M. Crossman, both of Portland.

Masonic graveside services were conducted Wednesday morning at the San Patricio Memorial Gardens in Portland, Texas.

The police officer reported that Lopez was "very unsteady," had the odor of alcohol on his breath and was drinking a beer when stopped.

Fleming, Dinkler Exchange Wedding Vows In Alabama

Lieutenant and Mrs. Dinkler

Karen Lynn Fleming and First Lieutenant Fred Dinkler III, U.S. Marine Corps, were united in marriage on September 29, during an afternoon ceremony at the Evergreen Baptist Church in Evergreen, Alabama. Officiating at the double ring wedding was Reverend Jack Williamson.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Fleming, Pensacola, Florida, and the groom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Fred Dinkler, Fulton, Texas.

Given away by her father, the bride wore an empire gown she had fashioned with the help of her mother. The white windsong was edged in silk braid and her veil, which fell below her waist, was edged with pearls. She carried a bouquet of silk flowers, with ribbons and lace in colors of bronze, gold and yellow.

Maid of Honor was the bride's sister, Cynthia Ann Fleming, and her bridesmaids were Margie Binkhead of Evergreen, Alabama, and Teresa Miller, Wetumpka, Alabama.

Best man was the groom's brother, First Lieutenant William Dinkler, U.S. Army. Groomsmen included First Lieutenant John Sharp, U.S. Marine Corps and Ensign Russell Byer, U.S. Navy. Rusty Brantly, Evergreen, ushered guests.

Miss Sue Griffin, the bride's aunt, provided organ music for the occasion, and Lieutenant Earl Crisp, U.S. Navy, sang. Crisp who is the former director of the Training Command Choir of which the groom is a member, sang "Whither Thou Goest" "With These Hands," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of blue crepe du jour, complemented by a coursage of pink sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother wore a two piece floor length gown of green silk polyester, accented with a coursage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Griffin, Evergreen, and the grooms' maternal grandmother Mrs. William B. Allison, Carrollton, Ohio.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Griffin.

The bride's table was covered with an Army-Navy table cloth, and the wedding cake was cut with the groom's sword. The groom's table was covered with a white cut-work tablecloth, and his cake was a chocolate pound cake with chocolate icing and gold grapes.

Assisting at the house party were Mrs. Robert Quarles, Mrs. J.B. Harper, Mrs. Henry Sessions, Mrs. Joe Hyde, Mrs. Louise Kendall, Miss Cindy Still, Miss Cindy Wall, Miss Rebecca Wiggins and Miss Paulette Tatum.

Hayden Rossell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rossell III, of Montgomery, Alabama, provided the guests with rice contained in long stemmed red silk roses.

For her going away ensembel, the bride chose to wear a brown suit with a cream colored silk blouse and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Out of town guests included the groom's aunts, Mrs. Charles Peach, Steubenville, Ohio, and Mrs. William Wagner, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania. Also attending the wedding were Mrs. Charles Bergner and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Miller, all of Houston, Texas.

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

By Jean Glowka

Q. I am hypoglycemic and am in the process of changing my eating habits. I've been trying (for instance) to switch from white flour to soy flour, but my breads, pancakes, cakes, etc., come out just terrible this way. Maybe, if I mixed soy flour with some good whole wheat flour, it would help. Any suggestions?

A. Yes, here is a recipe for a good, all-purpose "mix" that you can use for pancakes, waffles, biscuits, muffins, cookies, cakes, etc.

Measure without sifting; stir and then sift into large canister, bowl, or plastic bag:

- 6 cups stone-ground whole-wheat pastry flour
- 2 cups soy flour
- 2 scant tablespoons salt
- 1 cup non-instant powdered milk [NOT instant]
- 1/3 cup double-acting baking powder

Add and mix thoroughly:

- 2 1/2 cups raw wheat gern

Keep part of this mix in a canister for immediate use and the remainder in a cool place, preferably the refrigerator or freezer.

This mix may be used in your favorite recipe merely by substituting it for the amount of flour called for and omitting the salt and baking powder or soda. Since flours vary considerably in moisture content, you may at times, find a batter too thin and will need to add a little more mix; other times, a little more liquid may be required. Happy baking!

Q. Can you tell us a little bit about copper?

A. Copper is a trace mineral found in all body tissues. It is neccessary for the proper absorption of iron, and is, therefore, helpful in preventing anemia. The graying of hair has been produced experimentally by a deficiency of copper. It aids in the promotion of healing processes. Research has shown that increasing copper intake significantly retarded development of cancer in animals.

Copper is also necessary for proper bone formation and maintenance, and it is necessary for the production of RNA.

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and health! It's a beautiful world!

Please send questions to: Jean Glowka, Rt. 1, Box 437, Rockport, Tx. 78382.

Wholistic Lifestyle Course At Presbyterian Church

Adults at the First Presbyterian Church - Live Oak at Laurel Streets - Rockport, have began a new elective course entitled "Wholistic Lifestyle for Future Living" each Sunday at 9:45 a.m. in the church fellowship hall. The purpose of such a course of study is to face up to the fact that in our kind of world, in this day and time "we must all learn to live more simply in order that all may simply live."

For the next three months there will be visiting speakers and open discussion designed to help participants cope; to turn that which is threatening into opportunity and promise; to change bad news to good news.

Richard B. Lear, pastoral counselor and former clergyman from Corpus Christi, will head the lecture/discussion Sunday, at 9:45 a.m., November 11. His topic will be "Types A and B Stress", which will deal with the personal internal attitudes that create stress and how to relieve such stress.

Millie Nielson, sociologist and adult couselor with Mental Health/Mental Retardation in Corpus Christi, introduced the course October 28 and November 4.

Other persons already committed to serve as speaker-discussion leaders during the next three months are: William F. Bauman, psychotherapist from Corpus Christi; Jim Doty, local psychologist; Ralph Underwood, professor of Pastoral Clinical Education at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Austin; and John Bradshaw, local Presbyterian Pastor.

Other topics for future lecture - discussions are: Crises of Adult Life; The Simplified Life; Depression and Loneliness; Plugging Into God; Who Am I?; Personal Goal Setting; Wholistic Health; and All of Life - A Sacrament.

The public is cordially invited to attend the discussions.

Halloween Party Sponsors Thanked

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank the businesses, clubs and individuals who gave of their time, money or merchandise for the Halloween Party," said Bea Shelton, one of the sponsors of the annual event at the Fulton Fire Station.

"The Young Life group did a fantastic job on the spook house. There were children of all ages lined up for three blocks waiting their turn to get in. Thanks to each one of you who worked so hard to make the spook house so successful.

"The Trick or Treat center at the Fulton Fire Station was a complete success. We had approximately 800 children of all ages come by for treats. Thanks to the firemen for helping with traffic control.

"The Junior-Senior High School Dance was wonderful. Thanks to the V.F.W. and the V.F.W. Auxiliary for all the hard work in getting the building ready. Thanks also to the chaperones for a job well done. I would like to thank the students who attended the dance, for proving once again that you're okay.

"Last, but not least, I would like to thank Annie Cox and Cindy Spriegel for all their support and help. Thanks also to the many ladies and men who helped to sack candy and make popcorn balls. God bless all of you," said Mrs. Shelton.

CRUNCH

month" and his allocation for December will be in the neighborhood of 13,000 gallons.

"I can sell that in 13 days," he added.

Although he hasn't made any decisions yet about his hours, he anticipates shutting down Saturdays and Sundays and "not working over six or seven hours a day" during the rest of the week.

Washburn said his prices are still holding at 95 cents a gallon for unleaded and 91 cents for regular, but there "probably will be" a price increase in the future.

"The independents now are higher than we are," he explained, "and any time they go higher, they'll stay higher about a week, then we'll go past them."

At J&B Gulf Station, 1009 Liberty, the gasoline is in good supply right now, but the price is going up. "I'm gettin all the gas I need," was the comment from the spokesman there. "Just the price is going up, is all."

He said unleaded, which is now selling for $1.01 a gallon, may go up to around $1.10, and he expects a comparable hike in the price of regular gasoline—which is now selling for 98 cents a gallon.

He added he hasn't heard anything "official" concerning rationing of gasoline supplies, commenting, "I'm in the dark right now."

At Conrad's Phillips 66, 1101 Liberty Street, a spokesman said he hasn't heard about any plans for rationing the gasoline but he has "just got notice of a price increase on the unleaded."

Unleaded gasoline is going up this month to $1.02 per gallon, he said. The regular gasoline at his station is selling for 98.9 cents a gallon.

At the Billups Service Station on Highway 35 North, Ray Osborn said he "hasn't heard anything about it (the gas crunch) except what I've heard on the news."

However, he added, Billups has not been rationed yet "and I don't expect we will be. I haven't heard from our home office, but we're still getting plenty of gas when we need it."

Nationwide, deliveries of gasoline will be 10.9 percent lower than during November, 1978, and petroleum marketing expert Dan Lundberg—publisher of a weekly petroleum marketing advisory—is predicting shortages if motorists don't conserve.

Lundberg has urged immediate return to the odd-even gas rationing system and says shortages would have appeared by now, but industrial and agricultural interests legally built up stockpiles last winter. This gasoline from excess inventories is now being sold on the spot market.

Last month, on October 23, Congress approved legislation which gives President Carter authority to draft and impose a standby gasoline rationing plan if one becomes necessary.

The President has said he is hopeful gasoline rationing will never have to be used, but this legislation will provide a safety measure.

CENTER

Other contributions come from churches, civic organizations and individuals. In addition, the Center also raises money through projects at Rockport's annual Art Festival and Seafair.

The Center is licensed by the State of Texas, and as part of its licensing requirements, teachers must receive a minimum of 12 clock-hours of instruction per year in the latest educational techniques. As it works out, said Mrs. Tiner, they receive more than just the minimum instruction.

The Learning Center is governed by the Rockport Christian Services Association, Inc., a non-profit corporation formed for the purpose of providing educational programs for young children.

In addition to Mrs. Richards, other officers of the board are the Rev. Wayne Pafk, vice president and fund-raising chairman; Nancy Norrell, secretary and personnel chairman; Sally Clark, scholarship chairman; Jeannie White, treasurer and financial chairman; and Jerry Brundrett, building and grounds chairman.

Other members are Connie Garcia, Sandra Wolf, Ronnie Tynes, Linda Rogers, Christy Ogle and Debora Irwin.

Board members are representatives chosen from several area churches.

Governor Proclaims Diabetes Month

AUSTIN -- Governor William P. Clements has proclaimed November as National Diabetes Month in Texas and urges all Texans to support the 1979-80 campaign of the South Texas Affiliate, American Diabetes Association.

The Proclamation, issued from the state capital, stressed that diabetes afflicts 630,600 citizens in Texas, and approximately 10 million people nationally.

The Proclamation further noted that diabetes is increasing at a rate of 100 percent every 12 years.

Clements pointed out that funds raised during the current campaign will aid in research to find a cure or prevention of diabetes, as well as assisting the educational and detection programs conducted in South Texas.

Cooking

By MARJORIE RICE
Copley News Service

About 52,000 years ago, give or take a millennium, man discovered that a hunk of the hunt was vastly improved when it was wrapped in some leaves before it was stuck into the fire.

From then and throughout history, the story of spices and aromatic seasonings is one filled with discovery, pirates, even wars, as people fought for the flavorings that would make their food palatable.

(It wasn't just finicky taste buds. Poor storage, and a lack of refrigeration made it imperative to find a way to cover up the stench of near-rotting food.)

We're still interested in spices and herbs, not now as cosmetics for bad food, but as enhancers, teasers of the palate.

Last year Americans consumed 457 million pounds of spices, according to the American Spice Trade Association.

Their products include spices, herbs, spice seeds and dehydrated vegetable seasonings (dried onion, parsley flakes, green pepper flakes, etc.).

The group also sponsors research into the chemical makeup of spices, ways to better clean and process them, and nutrient analysis of spices.

The group's research efforts got some seasonings off the banned list for some special diets (bland isn't always better, doctors have found, for patients with some stomach disorders).

The association has a variety of booklets on spices, most of them free, available to consumers. Two of particular interest to persons on special diets are "Low Sodium Spice Tips" and "Low Calorie Spice Tips."

Order both by writing the association at P.O. Box 1267, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632. Send a self-addressed, stamped legal size envelope, and while you're at it, ask them for a list of other publications for consumers.

Experiment, and get to know how a spice or herb tastes. Then imagine it in various food blends.

For instance:

— Sprinkle ground cardamom on honeydew melon, whole cardamom seed in demitasse coffee.

— Add celery seeds to cole slaw, sprinkle celery salt over creamed vegetable soups just before serving.

— Crush dill seeds into a potato salad, sprinkle dill weed over thinly sliced cucumbers

dressing.

cumbers then add French dressing.

— Use ground coriander to brighten canned mushrooms, chop coriander leaves (cilantro) over chilled soups and Indian and Mexican recipes.

— Crush a few fennel seeds into pie fillings, slice a whole fennel root thinly and try it raw with a vinaigrette dressing.

— Add a dash of mace to whipped cream to cake topping, grate fresh nutmeg (the nut from the same plant that produces mace) into freshly steamed green vegetables such as spinach.

— Add ground mustard to cheese sauce for macaroni (careful, it's not), add a few mustard seeds to pot roast cooking liquid.

— Crush green peppercorns, then press them into a steak before broiling.

There are some herb and spice combinations that are classics.

Allspice goes into baked foods, fruit desserts, pickles, relishes and marinades.

Basil is the perfect mate for tomatoes (and it's very easy to grow both). Use it in spaghetti sauce, and with cooked vegetables, seafood, poultry and salads.

Bay leaves flavor soups and stews, marinades, and meat, fish and fowl.

Caraway, particularly good on sauerkraut and pork, goes on breads, and in cheese dips and spreads.

Cinnamon is the ubiquitous baking spice, going into puddings, sweet sauces, chocolate and fruit desserts.

Cloves go pressed into ham, in fruit desserts, pickles, stews, gravies and cooked with root vegetables. Ground, cloves go into drinks and baked foods.

Cumin is the spice that goes in chili and curry. Try it in deviled eggs, soups and cheese dishes.

Mace is the pie spice. It's also a common spice for pound cake, sweet vegetables, chowders and creamed spinach or chicken.

Mustard seed gives pungent taste to pickles and salads.

Nutmeg is another popular baking spice, going into cakes, cookies, pies, pudding, over eggnog, custards, lemon desserts and vegetables.

Paprika, the "garnish spice," flavors Welsh rarebit, Hungarian dishes, sour cream dips and cream soups.

Turmeric is similar to saffron, adding the same golden yellow color.

DID YOU KNOW?

High rise cactus

By PHYLLIS WEAVER
Copley News Service

Did you know that the giant saguaro cactus, which is native to the desert Southwest, also serves as a high-rise apartment?

The saguaro, a giant in the cactus family, grows tall and erect with a column-like trunk sometimes branching with many ribs and strong spines. These angular branches provide living quarters for the many desert birds.

White winged doves may nest on the tip of the cactus arm, where the nectar and fruit provide food. Red tailed hawks and horned owls build nests in the forks, and gila woodpeckers homestead in the holes which they drill in the stalks, then abandon the apartment next season for other tenants such as elf owls.

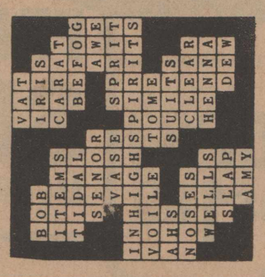

The showy blossoms of the saguaro cactus serve as the state flower for Arizona. When you have a chance to see the stately saguaro cactus, you can appreciate its utility as well as its beauty.

Now you know.

EPA To Hold Hearing On Permit For Island

Permit Request

The Environmental Protection Agency will hold a public hearing in Galveston November 15, on a proposed air pollution control permit for the Pelican Island deepport facility and associated storage tank farm.

Adlene Harrison, EPA Regional Administrator for Region 6, said the EPA proposes to issue the Prevention of Significant Deterioration (PSD) permit to the Pelican Terminal Corporation.

The firm plans to construct a 1.2 million barrel-per-day crude oil unloading facility in the Gulf of Mexico capable of unloading oil supertankers. The oil would be pumped through pipelines to the storage tank farm on Pelican Island.

The Clean Air Act requires such emission sources to obtain PSD permits from EPA.

"The hearing provides an opportunity for the public to let us know their views about the proposed terminal," Mrs. Harrison said.

"Comments are welcome on air quality effects and other related environmental impacts of the proposed project," she said.

Written or oral comments may be presented at the hearing which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Texas A&M University Auditorium in the Classroom and Laboratory Building on Pelican Island.

Written comments may also be mailed to Mrs. Adlene Harrison, Regional Administrator, Attention: Administrative Support Branch (6AEP), Environmental Protection Agency, First International Building, Dallas, Texas 75270.

Application has been made to the Army Corps of Engineers by Lowell Leberman of Austin for an extension on time to complete construction of a slip and bulkhead in Jewel Fulton Canal at the mouth of Kinney Bayou approximately two miles southwest of Ingleside. Comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P. O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553 on or before December 5.

Application has been made to the Army Corps of Engineers by Gulf Oil Corporation of Houston for an extension on time to erect and maintain gas and oil drilling structures in Copano Bay approximately eight miles northwest of Rockport. Your Handwriting Tells

Have faith in yourself

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy: I have so many dreams about life's accomplishments. But that's about all I have. I can't seem to get going on anything. Where do I start? — A.G.

Dear A.G.: You have to start from where you are if you want to get where you want to go. You can't look back, move back or live in your past, as indicated in the many strokes swinging back to the left.

When those t crossings pull back to the left, your purpose is diverted, and you are more apt to stand on the edge of nothing, than if you would move forward on your way to something.

You are a prudent person, wary of risk, and not willing to take a chance, seen in the extension stroke at the end of the line, supported by the same straight extension stroke on other word endings.

You are unusually intelligent, seen in the development of the points and wedges of your m's and n's. Your mind craves challenge, but your "brake" of caution can jolt you to a stop.

Understand that I do not advocate impetuousness or rashness, and I say that you must "look before you leap." But, your vertical writing says that you are basically a person of judgment, and your v formations along the line show your ability to analyze situations and to solve problems. These two qualities, in themselves keep you on guard. You don't need more.

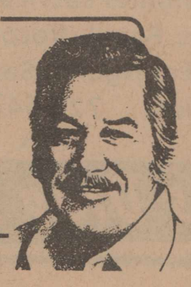

What you do need, though, is faith in yourself, seen lacking in the low t crossings, to move ahead, to take a chance, and to give a "piece of yourself" to reach for a hoped for goal.

This you have to do to taste the sweetness of success, and to unravel the realness of your dreams.

To obtain your personal handwriting chart, send $5 (Canada, $7), a full page of your writing, and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dorothy St. John Jackson, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Allow 60 days.

John Sinor Column

In a pruning mood

By JOHN SINOR
Copley News Service

In the smoky twilight we sit on the high deck, sheltered from the cool evening breeze by an occasional dry martini, and watch the end of the year come rolling up our canyon.

As soon as autumn gets here, I start pruning the shrubs and plants in the yard. I go a little mad when I get pruning shears in my hands. Something like a Marine boot camp barber.

Last year I ended up with a pickup truck full of cuttings.

However, I will not tell you what plants I prune. Or how. If I did, the next day's mail would be full of notes from gardening experts telling me I did it all wrong and at the wrong time, anyway.

I do not prune according to the almanac. I prune when I get in the mood to prune. So far everything has grown back.

It's probably some uncanny natural gift I have.

In long-ago days, when the world was cleaner, we burned the leaves we raked right in the yard. And the flavor of autumn drifted in the air.

If you try burning autumn leaves in your yard these polluted days, you will find yourself smelling autumn through iron bars.

"Smoke follows beauty," we would say as we stood around the pile of burning leaves, our eyes stinging with tears as the smoke shifted toward us every time we moved.

The burning of the fall leaves was a loose ritual — a sign of the time of the year.

A lot of the signs of the times have been torn down over the years.

After I went on my last pruning rampage, my wife looked at the truck loaded with leaves and branches and said: "Didn't you cut an awful LOT of it away?"

I said: "What are you talking about? The front yard still looks like a rain forest."

It did and still does. Three trees. Ivy winding everywhere. A fourth tree hanging over from the city side of the sidewalk. Even a little grass. (We'd have more if we had less shade.)

She said: "I don't know. I just hate to see any plants cut. And I don't want a sculptured, trimmed look, either."

I said: "Neither do I. I just want to sculpture some of these things away from the power lines and the telephone. Also, I'm tired of sitting in front of the television set and having a branch of ivy slip through the window and start to curl around my neck."

So we cut and trimmed, sawed and pruned, and then we neatly packed the cuttings in bundles or plastic bags and hauled them off to the city dump.

Rotary Hears Of Medina Children's Home

History and progress of the Medina Children's Home, started by the Medina Rotary Club but operated under direction of a 15-man board of directors, were described by Irvan Shaw, a member of the organization's development board, at a luncheon meeting of Rockport Rotary Club at Cattleman's Bayhouse Restaurant, October 31.

The Medina Rotary Club raised money to purchase a ranch on which the school was founded in 1958. According to Shaw, purpose of the institution is to provide Christian care in a home-like atmosphere for boys and girls from 8 to 18 who are in need, giving them an opportunity to develop physically, mentally and spiritually.

About 70 per cent of the children are referred to the home by courts. Others are referred by families or individuals who recognize the needs of troubled children, Shaw said.

There are 123 children in the Medina home this year and it is planned to raise the total to 145 by the end of 1980. The children live in cottages with a house mother in charge. There are 12 boys or girls in each cottage. They attend school in nearby Medina and remain in the home until they graduate from high school. After high school they have an opportunity to attend college or trade school with expenses paid by the home, Shaw explained.

The home is supported by gifts from individuals and organizations, including memorial gifts, with much of the support coming from Church of Christ churches. Approximately 30 percent of the boys and girls in the Medina Children's Home are from the Coastal Area, he said. Shaw invited local Rotarians to contribute to the Medina home or remember it in their wills.

Methodist Women Will Hold Bazaar November 14 At Church

The public is invited to come, look, eat and have a good time at the "Christmas Treasures Bazaar" set for 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. Wednesday, November 14, at Rockport's First United Methodist Church.

Sponsored by the Methodist women's organization, the bazaar in the church's Fellowship Hall will feature booths of handcrafted items, "white elephant" donations, plants and plenty of candies, jellies, pickles, cakes and other goodies.

Another feature of the bazaar will be the Sidewalk Cafe. Those attending the bazaar will be able to buy sweets and coffee at the cafe starting at 9 a.m., and from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Lunch will be served at noon at the cafe, and a chili or stew supper will be available from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Members of the Methodist Women's organization invite working people to come and browse -- and enjoy the good food -- during their lunch and coffee breaks.

Mrs. B.F. Street is general chairman and Mrs. John Knoche is workshop chairman for the event.

DID YOU KNOW?

Love, squid style

By PHYLLIS WEAVER
Copley News Service

Did you know that the squid has an extraordinary mating procedure?

Squid or cuttle fish is a delicacy for Koreans and is highly prized among Mediterranean Europeans.

The Italians and Yugoslavs call it calimari, and the Spanish call squid chiparones. The Germans call it tinten fisch, or ink fish. Squid tentacles are delicacies among those countries who prize the squid as an inexpensive form of shellfish.

Sometimes the male squid gets the same idea. The male squid may court the female and even fight other males for her favor. Then he'll seize his prize in a many-armed embrace. Or if he's exhausted and hungry from battle, he may get carried away and as a result, the romance may end up as a dinner engagement.

You see the male squid is also a cannibal who sometimes would rather have dinner than make love.

Now you know.

LOUISE ALDRIDGE SCALING

Louise Aldridge Scaling Named Artist Of Month

Mrs. Louise Aldridge Scaling, of Rockport, has been selected as the First National Bank Artist of the Month, it was announced today by Mrs. Gladys Gibson, chairman of the bank's art committee. Paintings by Mrs. Scaling will be shown in the bank lobby through the month of November.

A native of Plano in North Texas, Mrs. Scaling and her husband, Dennis, moved to Rockport from Winslow, Arkansas in 1976. "I think it's great to be in a town with so many good artists," she said in an interview at the bank.

A painter for many years, Mrs. Scaling received her formal education in art at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, where she earned a Fine Arts degree. She has also studied under such artists as Frank Klepper, Perry Nichols, Otis Dozier, Emil Bisstram at the University of New Mexico at Taos, and Fredric Taubes.

Her work reflects the images of her travels. "I married later in life than most; before that I traveled to many places, among them Eastern and Western Canada, Mexico and the United States; also Japan, India, Lebanon, Greece, Iran, Italy, France and England."

Mrs. Scaling has exhibited her work in many places also. She's had one-woman showings in Jonesboro and Fort Smith, Arkansas, Dallas and Monterrey, Mexico. She has had numerous juried shows in three states and paintings in private collections in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Washington and Mexico.

"I asked about the Seafair show and Esther Lonquist had told me that I should have at least twenty or so paintings to show. I said, 'My goodness, I don't think I could round up twenty of my paintings if I took every one off the walls at home!'"

There is, though, another place in town where Mrs. Scaling's paintings can be seen -- the Estelle Stair Art Gallery in downtown Rockport.

"One thing about my paintings, I sign them with my maiden name, Aldridge, so most people aren't sure if a man or a woman painted them. This seems to help sell them, because most people, it seems, would rather buy a painting done by a man. I never could figure that out, but I started selling more paintings than ever before when I signed with my maiden name," she said.

Judging by her paintings in the bank, only one of which hasn't already been sold, it's a good guess that she could sell her work signed by either name.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Most people happy with SS services

Copley News Service

Q. What kind of record does the Social Security Administration have in serving the public? — Anon.

A. The Social Security Administration pays monthly benefits to over 33 million people. It dispenses over 86 million dollars per month and gets this money in the correct amount to the proper person at the right time in almost every instance.

The overwhelming majority of people dealing with Social Security offices are happy with the services rendered.

Q. My husband and I retired at age 62 and we receive benefits under our own individual accounts. He receives $20 per month more than I do. If he precedes me in death, do I receive his benefits since his check is larger? — R.F.

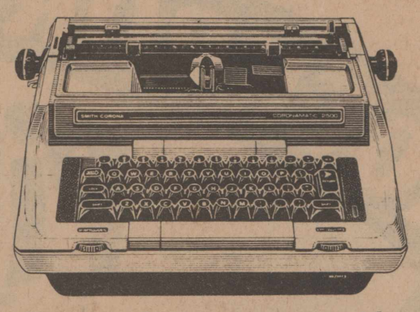

A. No.

Chances are your benefits amount will not change. Since you receive benefits on your own account from age 62 your benefit as a widow cannot be greater than 82 and one-half percent of your deceased husband's amount.

Q. Why does a disabled person have to wait five months before he can get a Social Security payment? — S.P.L.

A. The waiting period requirement was included in the law, when Social Security disability benefits were first provided, to limit the cost of the program. There were other factors considered also.
