Notable Notes

Church program

Special program tonight (Wednesday) at the First Presbyterian Church located at Live Oak and Laurel Streets, 6:15 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall. Beginning with a covered dish meal, the Women in the Church will host and furnish the program for this first fellowship supper of the Fall. The program will be a film, "Bottle Babies", about a multinational corporation which continues to promote high-profit infant formula in third world countries and the result is disease, malnutrition, and death of approximately 10 million infants annually. The public is invited to bring a covered dish, a friend, and anticipation of an informative evening.

Republican Women

The Republican Women's committee of Aransas County will hold their regular monthly meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 19 in the board room of Live Oak State Bank. Guest speaker will be John Mitchell who will talk about the future of the Aransas County Medical Services, Inc.

ACTA schedule

The Aransas County Taxpayers Association has changed the date of their program with Senator Buster Brown. The Senator will address the taxpayers group on Thursday, Nov. 19 in the district courtroom of the county courthouse.

Baptist BBQ

The Greater First Baptist Church will be selling barbecue on Saturday, Nov. 21 at the church, located at 213 Gagon. Plates will include all the trimmings and will sell for $3.75. For to-go orders call 729-6912.

Choir benefit dance

The Sandollar will be hosting a dance, with proceeds benefitting the Rockport-Fulton High School Choir, from 8 - 12 p.m., Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20 and 21. Cost of admission is $10 per person, which covers two drinks, and hors d'oeuvres. The entire proceeds from the dance will go to the choir. Bill Christian and Friends of the choir will be providing dance music both nights.

School bake sale

A bake sale benefiting the Sacred Heart Catholic School will be held 9:30 a.m. - 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 22 at the church parish hall. All cakes will be homemade from scratch. Jackie is chairman of the event.

Thanksgiving service

The Aransas County Minister's Association announces the Community Thanksgiving Service for Nov. 24, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Everyone is invited to attend. Rev. Wayne Palk, pastor of Peace Lutheran Church, will be the speaker and the Rockport-Fulton High School Choir, Director Martha Luigi, will offer special music. Pastors and laity from the United Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Episcopal and Catholic churches will take part in the service. The offerings will be shared equally between the RFHS Choir for its Vienna trip and the Aransas County Minister's Association projects.

Free turkey offered

In today's Pilot, readers will have a chance to win a free turkey just by registering with the merchants listed on the page. The annual Pilot Free Turkey Coupons will be found on page 10 of this issue.

There is no purchase necessary and no one need be present at time of the drawing. There are 12 merchants with boxes for your coupons.

Deadline is noon, Monday, Nov. 23. Join in the fun.

Goose Island Lake Estates

By Pat Blair

LAMAR — Residents of Goose Island Lake Estates will face $8 per $100 valuation taxes on their property unless "something" is done to bring additional money into the utility district that serves the area.

That was the unofficial word in Monday night's meeting of the Aransas County Municipal Utility District No. 1 board of directors. Although no action could be taken Monday, Skip Hughes, president of the board, told those present, "If we don't get some outside help, we (the board) will have to set a tax rate of approximately $8.06 per $100 valuation."

Herman Little, attorney for the District that provides water and sanitary sewer service to Goose Island Lake Estates residents, elaborated that the $8 figure is

Pleasure harbor proposed

by Ted Norman

In their last workshop meeting the board members of the Aransas County Navigation District revealed plans to construct a new boat marina at the end of Rockport Beach that would accommodate about 118 boats.

Although the plans are still in the formative stages and are subject to change the plans call for a teardrop shaped marina about 600 feet long and 400 feet wide.

At present the plans call for bulkhead to be placed in the entrance but not around the marina.

Harbor Master Bernie DeForest said that docks will probably be built about 14 feet into the water with walkup ramps leading to the docks.

The harbor will accommodate around 118 boats in the 20 to 30 foot range and have two large T-heads that would accommodate several boats in the 50 to 60 foot range. There would also be side ties just south of the entrance for transient boats.

The entrance to the proposed harbor will be cut from an area where there is no grass and minimum environmental damage would occur. The new marina would be built under the 1964 Rivers and Harbors act and if approved for construction would be funded on a 50-50 basis with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Aransas County Navigation District commissioner Hillis Dominguez said the district has sent a letter to the Corps of Engineers requesting a survey. He said the survey should be completed in four to six months.

Dominguez said the Army Corps of Engineers must study to determine the cost and feasibility of the marina.

Dominguez said he didn't have any idea at this time what the marina would cost to build but he said a fuel dock, restrooms and electrical services would have to be provided.

The commissioner said the marina would be for the use of pleasure craft only and no commercial vessel would use the harbor.

based on a 90 percent collection rate.

"In past years," Little said, "tax collections have not approached 90 percent." He said the district needs to raise some $337,700 in tax revenues to finance its operations. "If you based the (tax) rate on past collections, it could be higher," he added.

Little emphasized that he board could not act on setting a tax rate at Monday's meeting since the tax assessor-collector for the district first has to calculate the effective tax rate and publish it in accordance with state tax laws. This has

Live Oak Bank to merge with Allied

Live Oak State Bank should complete a merger with Allied Bank, a Texas bankholding company, by Dec. 31, according to Live Oak President George Cone.

Live Oak stockholders agreed to the merger in a special stockholders' meeting in September, Cone added.

Citing reasons for the decision to merge, Cone said, "It will give us more muscle. We'll be able to make larger loans than we can at present because of our size."

This in turn will mean Live Oak State Bank can provide better service to the community, Cone continued. "We'll be able to help the community growth-wise better than we ever could as an independent bank."

Other advantages of the merger for Live Oak, he added, include an access to legal and accounting aids not currently available because of Live Oak's size limitations as well as improved benefits for bank employees and higher cash dividends for stockholders.

Cone emphasized, however, that "there will be no change in format" at Live Oak.

"It will still be the same people and the same bank as it always was — but we'll be stronger."

Allied Bank presently holds 30 banks and is planning mergers with 15 more including Live Oak.

Boosters discuss dance

At the Thursday night, Nov. 12 meeting of the Rockport Fulton Choir Boosters, the upcoming dance, sponsored by Joy Carr, manager of the Sandollar Restaurant, was discussed.

Booster club president, Frances Iles, announced that Carr will donate all proceeds from ticket sales from the dance to the Boosters' Vienna Fund, which is still some $40,000 short of their goal.

The Boosters are supporting the Rockport Fulton High School Choir in their efforts to attend the 1982 International Youth and Music Festival held next spring in Vienna.

Tickets to the Sandollar dance, held Nov. 20 and 21, at which liquor will be served, are $10 per couple and may be purchased any time at the restaurant or at the door. Price of a ticket includes two free drinks and hors d'oeuvres.

"A Night in Old New Orleans," the next booster project, is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 12 at the VFW Hall. The cajun feast begins at 7:30 and the menu will include jambalaya, file gumbo, tossed salad, rice, white beans, French bread, dessert, tea and coffee. Tickets will be sold for $7.50 each, according to chairman Earlene Willett.

Two tomb rubbings to be auctioned off by the Boosters were displayed at the meeting by Iles. Suzanne Boatwright volunteered to request the two local banks to display the rubbings.

"A Paper Doll" production set for Nov. 20 and 21

"A Paper Doll", an original play by high school drama coach David Rice, will be presented Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 20 and 21.

The three-act play, written and directed by Rice, is the story of one family's reaction to the second world war. The cast, including a dance company, features some 40 students.

Period music by The Mills Brothers, The Andrews Sisters, Glen Miller, Tommy Dorsey and Harry James is used throughout the play.

According to Rice, "This play was

Chamber seeks area photos

The Rockport area Chamber of Commerce is looking for photographs representative of Aransas County — and Chamber officials are seeking help from area residents.

Local photographers — amateurs as well as professionals — are being asked to submit slides representative of the various historic and scenic points of interest in this area. The slides will be reviewed and duplicates will be made of selected ones for use in a display advertising the Rockport-Fulton area.

The display is to be used by Chamber representatives at boat and travel shows throughout the state.

Slides of the live oak trees, birds and wildlife, hunting, sailing, boating, fishing, historical sites, the commercial fishing industries and area lifestyles are being sought, and credits will be given to those photographers whose works are selected for the display.

Photographers are asked to identify all slides so they may be returned after they have been reviewed and duplicated. Deadline for submission is Dec. 1.

Anyone who wants to submit slides is asked to mail them to the Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 1055, Rockport, Texas 78382.

Jeff Messinger at the Aransas County Courthouse or Steve Franklin at Blue Water Marine may be contacted for additional information.

Public invited to hearing

A public hearing on a proposed $195,000 budget for the Aransas County Appraisal District will begin at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18.

The hearing is expected to be followed by a regular meeting of the Appraisal District board of directors to adopt the 1982 budget.

The hearing was originally scheduled for Nov. 5 but was reset after board members failed to get a quorum for that session.

Health

Texas Department of Health
Robert Bernstein, M.D., Commissioner

Among the things that Texans look forward to each year is the opening of oyster season Nov. 1 along the Texas Gulf Coast.

The versatile oyster, which can be eaten raw in cocktail sauce, fried, baked, made into stew or used to turn a dressing into a happening, is a gourmet delight.

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) also has a strong interest in oysters, but for a different reason. It attempts to make certain that all oysters available to the public through normal channels are fit to eat. The TDH operates an on-going, year-round program which includes the testing of bay waters, certification of processors, and periodic testing of shucking houses and the finished product.

Major oystering activities along the Texas Gulf Coast are in Galveston Bay, Lavaca Bay, Matagorda-Tres Palacios Bay, and San Antonio Bay.

The Shellfish Sanitation Control Division of the TDH is based in Austin, but it has regional sub-offices in La Marque and Corpus Christi. Each sub-office maintains a boat for use in year-round shoreline surveillance and samplings. Six employees are based in La Marque and three in Corpus Christ.

The oyster is an unusual animal which is entirely the victim of its environment. Once the tiny, immature oyster settles to the bottom and attaches itself, its location is fixed for life.

"At this point," says Neil B. Travis, Director of the Shellfish Sanitation Control Division, "the animal becomes stationary and depends on what food is brought to it in the water to live and grow. Because it does not move, the oyster is unable to escape from any pollutants or toxic materials present in the water.

Because of the feeding mechanism of the oyster, it is very important that the oysters people eat come from safe waters. "The oyster is a filter feeder, pumping large amounts of water through its system and filtering out food particles," said Travis.

"In addition, the oyster's filtration system also filters out bacteria, chemicals, heavy metals and other contaminants which may be present in the water," said Travis. "These contaminants or pollutants are concentrated in the oyster. For this reason, waters which may be satisfactory for swimming, boating, fishing or other water activities may not be safe for the harvesting of oysters for people to eat. It is absolutely essential that oysters taken for food come from waters approved for this purpose."

In addition to its affinity for collecting harmful substances, the oyster is highly perishable. It must be handled and stored properly from the time it is harvested in safe water until it is shucked, packed and sold to the consumer. Improper storage of shellstock, exposing it to contamination, or poor refrigeration can result in high levels of bacteria, as can the improper shucking or storage of shucked oysters.

Health Department inspectors look for any breakdown in the process.

Based on its sampling techniques, which follow nationally accepted standards, the TDH annually publishes maps of the Texas coast designating which areas are safe for oyster harvesting and areas which are polluted.

The Texas Department of Health certifies oyster processors which meet its critical standard and gives each a number. The certification number, such as Tex-123 or Tex-345 SP, and the name of the plant must be permanently displayed on all containers of oysters they produce. Consumers should look for a certification number to ascertain if the oysters come from a certified processor. This will give the oyster lover a sense of security in making a purchase.

IRS office solves tax problems

Taxpayers who meet delays or red tape in solving their federal tax problems can get help from the Internal Revenue Service

Problem Resolution Program (PRP) office, the IRS said.

Every IRS district has a PRP office to help taxpayers who have already had unsuccessful contacts with the IRS. People in the PRP office have the authority to cut through the red tape and handle problems promptly. The taxpayer deals with one office and is kept informed of the case's progress, according to the IRS.

The most common problems brought to the PRP office are complaints about delayed refunds, mixed up Social Security numbers, incorrect billings by the IRS, or mistakes by the taxpayer. Last year, PRP handled over 210,000 taxpayer complaints, according to the IRS — that's 1.5 percent of over 143 million tax returns filed.

Besides solving taxpayer problems, PRP tries to prevent them by discovering flaws in the system. For example, PRP has helped cut by three-fourths the time needed to trace lost or stolen refunds.

Problem Resolution should not be used as a substitute for normal procedures, the IRS said, because almost all problems can be resolved before they reach PRP. PRP cannot change the decisions in an audit, but taxpayers with a persistent tax problem will find PRP willing and able to help, the IRS stressed.

Accident report

'Stuck throttle' cited as cause

A "stuck throttle" was cited as the cause for an accident in which one man was reported suffering possible injuries Saturday morning in Rockport.

The accident happened about 10:10 a.m. when the throttle stuck on a car driven by Larry Edgar Pruitt, 24, of Ingleside as Pruitt was driving south on Bronte.

Pruitt told police he shut off the engine of his car and at that point the steering wheel locked, causing him to veer into the path of a car being driven by Matthew Joseph Symank, 24, of Pasadena.

Symank allegedly swerved to avoid Pruitt and lost control of his car. He was reported suffering possible injuries after the mishap.

Pruitt was ticketed for driving on the wrong side of the road and not passing.

No brake lights

Walter A. Stubbs, 65, of Wetumka, OK., was ticketed for defective brake lights and no license plate on his trailer after an accident about 4:50 p.m. Friday on Market Street.

Stubbs' vehicle and a car driven by Roy Alan Riojas, 19, of 929 S. Doughty were both westbound on Market when Stubbs attempted a right turn into a service station. Riojas told police he did not see any signal and he clipped Stubbs' vehicle.

The impact caused Stubbs to strike a telephone pole and Riojas' car struck a street sign.

Double tickets

Drivers of both vehicles involved were ticketed following an accident about 1:15 p.m. Sunday on Liberty Street near the Uni Oil station.

Police said the mishap occurred when Kathi Renee Parker, 24, of 1422 S. Church, in attempting to turn into the Uni station was in collision with a car driven by Francisco Z. Serna, 39, of Houston as he was backing onto Liberty.

Serna was ticketed for backing onto a roadway and Parker received a ticket for driving with expired license plates.

Concho accident

Cars driven by S.E. Hodges, 67, of Fulton and Henry Edward Sievers of Star Rt. 1 were in collision at the intersection of Concho and Live Oak about 8:10 a.m. Saturday.

No injuries were reported.

Crop and livestock reports needed

AUSTIN — The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will begin interviewing Texas farmers and ranchers in mid-Nov. on 1981 final acreage, yield, and crop production and end-of-the-year poultry and livestock inventories for Texas and individual counties.

The confidential interviews will be conducted through the mail or phone or in person by field enumerators. Data collection will end in early January.

Doug Murfield, State Statistician, has urged farmers and ranchers to return questionnaires promptly. He said all information reported is kept confidential and is combined with other reported information for state and county estimates. These estimates give Texas farmers and ranchers information on which to plan their production and marketing activity in a way that will be most beneficial to their individual operations.

The reports help in transporting, storing, marketing and processing farm products to maintain an orderly flow from producer to consumer. They also assure competitive markets, Murfield said. Without them, most producers would have to depend on trade sources for information on crop and livestock prospects.

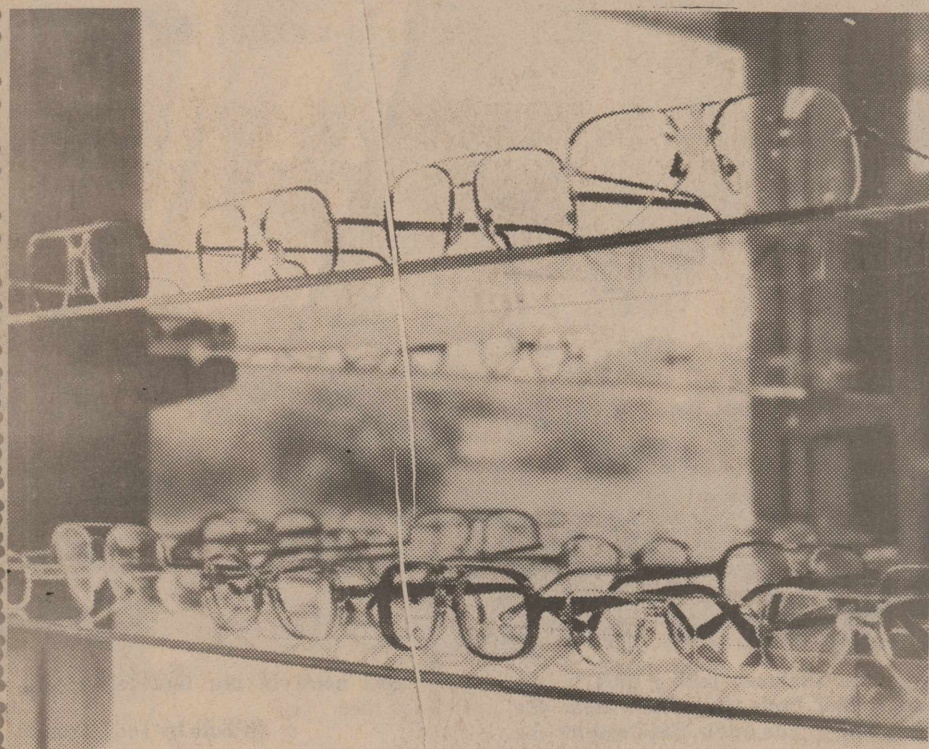

The cooperative effort between the Texas Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture eliminates duplication of effort and saves tax dollars.

County estimates are available for livestock, dairy, poultry, field crops including cotton, small grains, vegetables, fruits and pecans, and cash receipts from the sale of Texas farm commodities.

They can be obtained by writing the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P.O. Box 70, Austin, Texas 78767 or Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

The super-efficient heat pump: an unbeatable comfort system to heat & cool your home.

Q: You mean it cools as well as heats? Just what is a heat pump, anyway?

A: A heat pump is a year-round home heating-and-cooling system that runs entirely on electricity — the most flexible and available form of energy we have. Moreover, it is more energy efficient than any other combination heating/cooling unit currently available. It is called a heat pump because it "pumps", or moves, heat from where it is not needed to where it is needed.

Q: How does a heat pump work?

A: In winter, it absorbs heat that exists naturally outside — even in very cold weather — and moves it inside to warm the house. In hot weather, it works like an air conditioner, moving the heat from indoors to outdoors to keep the house comfortably cool. The heat pump also dehumidifies as it cools.

Q: What accounts for the heat pump's superior efficiency?

A: There's a simple explanation: it's easier and less expensive to move heat than to make it. The heat taken out of the air by the heat pump is free — put there by the sun. Gas and other conventional systems must generate new heat — and consume costly fuels in the process.

Q: Is the heat pump a good choice for homes in our part of the country?

A: Absolutely! Although it works well in colder places, the heat pump performs best in regions with a relatively mild climate like ours.

Q: What are the heat pump's chief advantages?

A: The chief one is that its great efficiency results in more economical operation — and you save money on electricity bills. Electric resistance heat, for example, gives one unit of heat for each unit of energy, so you get a dollar's worth of heat for each dollar's worth of power. But a properly installed heat pump in a South Texas home can produce at least 2½ units of heat for each unit of energy required to run it. That means you get $2.50 worth of heat for every dollar you spend to operate your heat pump. In addition, a heat pump is clean and safe (no fuels burn inside your house); and it is a wise investment because it enhances the value of your home.

Q: Where can I get more information about the heat pump?

A: Just ask at your nearest CPL office. We welcome inquiries about heat pumps and all other devices that help you use energy wisely.

STRETCH YOUR ENERGY DOLLARS

Cove Harbor Machine Tool opens for business

Cove Harbor Machine Tool, one of this area's newest industries, has just opened its doors for business in the industrial area one mile south of Rockport.

The business, managed by P.J. Ashton will specialize in building a new strata drilling bit — the DiaLargo tool bit. The bit differs from the standard rotary cone type. It was recently developed by DOE and made available to manufacturers like Cove Harbor Machine Tool.

The new business will also offer all types of job shop service to the oilfield industry and to other local concerns. Services offered include custom machining, machine repair and the rebuilding of industrial equipment. The shop will also be available for industrial contracts.

Another aspect of Cove Harbor Machine Tool is the work of engineers Michael Jihan and J. Mike Daylong who are available to work with clients needing their services.

Hal McKinstry is shop foreman, assisted by Bill Key. According to manager Ashton, he, McKinstry and Key have nearly 100 years of machine job shop experience between them.

Ashton was instrumental in the building of the Kemlon plant here in Rockport four years ago. He decided to open Cove Harbor Machine Tool because he wanted "a little variety, where I wasn't putting out the same thing all the time."

Of the new business, Ashton says, "We expect to be here, not just today, or six weeks, it's going to be here, solid. We'll provide extra payrolls for the Rockport area."

A future hope Ashton has for Cove Harbor Machine Tool is the installation of an apprentice program for local youth. "We hopefully will offer local young people the chance to work here at home, not in Corpus Christi or Houston. They could come on as apprentices, and draw a good salary when they're trained."

In order to do general machine shop work of all description, the company has gathered an impressive list of equipment including lathes, drills, shapers, drill presses, grinders and welding equipment.

Some equipment is still on the way and Ashton and McKinstry expect to be adding to the list all the time. "If a job justifies it," says McKinstry, "we'll buy it. We'll be adding equipment on as work warrants it."

P.J. Ashton sums up the work of Cove Harbor Machine Tool this way, "Our service is to the people — offshore, onshore, all of them."

Armadillo to lead ranks of nonsmokers in Texas

AUSTIN — That's not an armadillo — that's the Great American Smokeout chairman.

In a move sure to break tradition, the American Cancer Society has announced that a real, live 100-pound armadillo will serve as honorary chairman of the 1981 Great American Smokeout in Texas.

A native of South America recently acquired by the San Antonio Zoo, the armadillo will lead Texas' participation in the Smokeout, an event sponsored by the ACS nationwide to encourage smokers to give up their cigarettes for just one day — Thursday, November 19.

The animal's sudden claim to fame was brought about by ACS volunteers wanting to emphasize the Texas identity of the Smokeout.

"Not only does he not smoke, with his size he's a real attention grabber, believe me," said Penny Reeves, Austin radio personality and volunteer coordinator of Smokeout activities in Texas.

"In the past we've had some terrific Texans like Lee Trevino and Larry Gatlin as honorary chairmen — but this armadillo, though not a native, represents Texas perhaps more than anyone — or anything," she added.

A survey conducted by the Gallup organization last year indicated nearly 16.5 million Americans attempted to give up cigarettes on Smokeout day. Just under five million made it the full 24 hours.

One to 10 days later, 2.2 million were still not smoking.

Activities to help further celebrate the smokeless day are planned in most cities and towns throughout the state. Rallies with local celebrities are planned in Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, Dallas and San Antonio.

Other cities and towns are planning similar rallies and events with involvement of Youth Against Cancer (YAC) groups; pledge booths at shopping centers and malls; anti-smoking educational programs and a range of publicity events designed to draw attention to November 19.

All Texas smokers are invited to join in the fun. They may contact their local ACS volunteers or office for a pledge card, tips on quitting or information on locally planned Smokeout events.

Government pushes metric system

Representative Eldon Rudd (Ariz.) "... After spending at least $8 million in tax dollars over its three years of existence to travel around our nation and promote an unpopular and unreasonable international system of metric measurement, it appears that the U.S. Metric Board has finally neared its last mile.

"There are presently metric coordination offices or departments within most of our major Federal agencies. The Commerce Department has a senseless plan to convert all of its department activities to the French-devised metric system by 1985. The Defense Department has stated that it is continuing to follow a timetable conversion by 1990. Other Federal agencies have already instituted metric requirements in their contracts issued to the private sector.

"Of course, Congress never approved a mandate for metrics.

"It explicitly stated that any conversion be voluntary and that it be initiated by the private sector. Unfortunately, the 1975 Metric Conversion Act contained loose and presumptuous language that failed to establish a definitive and plain national policy on weights and measures.

"It should be made clear to the unresponsive bureaucrats in Washington that the U.S. policy is to continue a successful system of customary — inches, pounds, gallons, et cetera — and metric measurement only if metric is desired.

"It should be clear that the American people and private sector can dictate their own needs or desires on the question of metric or customary measurement usage.

"The Government should not promote costly, unnecessary concepts like metric conversion, which can result in tremendous costs in convenience and expense to the American people, and in overwhelming opposition by the people.

"For these reasons, I urge my colleagues to enlist as cosponsors on my bill, H.R. 1660, to repeal the Metric Conversion Act...."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

It's doubtful that Rep. Rudd will succeed in getting the 1975 Metric Conversion Act repealed. The United States is the only leading country that has not completely converted to the metric system. The International Bureau of Weights and Measures was formed in France in the 1880's at which time the metric system was made official.

The French people took years to accept the system. Inasmuch as conversion to the metric system is voluntary in this country it will no doubt be years before it is fully accepted here.

For example, if your taxable income was $30,000 (37% bracket), you'd have to make $3,174 in a Money Market fund just to keep that same $2,000 after taxes!

A GUARANTEE INSTEAD OF A GAMBLE. FDIC INSURED.

Until now, you had to take the highest risks to reap the highest return. Either gamble on a Money Market fund to go up. And stay up. Or, live day-to-day on Dow Jones.

But with our Tax-Free Income account, your interest rate is guaranteed for a full year. And your money's insured safe up to $100,000. No more sleepless nights trying to outguess the economy.

THE SECRET ISN'T MAKING MONEY. IT'S KEEPING IT.

Have you ever stopped to figure out how much your investments really pay?

For instance, how much would you make on a 17% Money Market fund?

Well, if you're in the 37% tax bracket, after taxes that 17% would net you only 10.71%.

But with Olympic's Tax-Free Income account, you keep exactly what we pay. (Up to $2,000 jointly: $1,000 individually.)

And every month we pay a new rate. Once you invest at that rate, it's yours for an entire year, regardless of what the economy does.

The yield is determined by the auction of one year Treasury Bills and is currently 10.77% *Tax-Free. (That's equal to a 17.06% Money Market fund, if you're in the 37% bracket!)

So close out your Money Market fund. Cash in your bonds. And unload your stocks. Tax-Free Income is here.

GET INSURED INCOME AT A TAX-FREE RATE OF 10.77% *

Alloway and Heasley wed

Miss Melody Ann Alloway and Gary Duane Heasley were married Saturday, November 7, at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Don Delaplain officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Alloway. The groom is the son of Ruth and Duane Heasley of Rockport.

The bride's sister Coral Alloway was maid of honor and Charles Gillingham of Rockport was best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Harry F. Alloway.

The bride wore a traditional white chantilly lace dress with a long train. The neck was high with sheer illusion bordered with a lace ruffle. The overskirt was scooped in the front and was bordered with a lace ruffle that continued around the full length of the train. The sleeves were long and fully puffed and came to a point at the wrist.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade in traditional white, styled with silk cattelaya orchids and gardenias defined with white stephanotis and gardenia buds and accented with caladium leaves and philo ivy.

The other bridesmaids were Denise Johnson, daughter of Sandra and Billy Johnson of Rockport and also granddaughter of the bride's parents. Miss Beth Covington, daughter of Nancy Covington of Rockport, Anne Stovall, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Phil Stovall, Sandra Boatman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Boatman of Corpus Christi. The bridesmaids wore dresses of cranberry satin with a white chantilly lace overlay with long sleeves ending with a scalloped ruffle at the wrist. The dresses were trimmed with silver and pearls. They wore white picture hats trimmed with cranberry satin ribbon with white roses and tiny cranberry flowers. They carried a gentle crescent styled with white silk rose buds, gardenias and centered with a single cattelaya orchid with an accent of philo ivy and caladium leaves.

The flower girls were Julia Boatman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Boatman, Terra Tedder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tedder of Rockport and granddaughter of the bride's parents, and Brandi Barrier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Barrier of Houston. The flower girls' dresses were identical to the bridesmaids'. They carried white baskets filled with white rose petals. They wore a spray of white baby's breath in their hair.

The groom wore a silver grey tuxedo with tails. The groomsmen were Jimmy Fowler of Refugio, George Miller Jr., Billy Howland and Mitch Elsie of Rockport. The ushers were Shawn Johnson, and Doug Brunning of Rockport, and Karl Tyson of Ingleside. The ring bearer was Derrick Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Rockport. He wore a silver grey tuxedo with tails identical to the grooms.

The couple were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony with a candlelight setting. The candlelighters were: Miss Troy Hollinhead, and Miss Patsy Woods.

The bride's mother wore a floor length cranberry satin dress with full chiffon sleeves with silver trim at the waist. The groom's mother wore a floor length cranberry dress of crepe with long sleeves.

The other members of the house party all wore cranberry satin dresses that were floor length and styled alike. Melissa Welch registered the guests, Molly Davis and Katy Goodrich cut the bride's cake. Virginia Covington poured the bride's punch. Tina Powell and Gail Satsky presided at the groom's table. Laura Gunn and Kathy Hale distributed the rice bags.

Margaret Stovall and Jackie Hollinhead supervised the tables. Alma Kinkade and Jeanne Rutledge assisted Sandra Johnson with the flowers.

Gary Jennings of Ingleside sang and played appropriate songs, and Harriett Hovey played the traditional wedding march.

The reception was held in the church activity building. The bride's table was laid with white satin with an overlay of lace with a lace ruffle around the table with wedding bells at each corner. The center flower arrangement was of white orchids, stock, and carnations. The bride's cake was in two sections. A cake fountain was on the lower part and a stairway extended from one section to the other. On the stairs were tiny groomsmen with bridesmaids dressed in the same materials of the bridesmaids' dresses.

Out of town guests were: Gladys Ingleside, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Boatman of Corpus Christi, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Allred, Mr. and Mrs. John Woerner, and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Anderson of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Don Barrier of Uvalde, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lanning, Roger Barrier of Houston. There were approximately 200 in attendance. After a brief wedding trip to Galveston the couple will make their home in Rockport.

C.C. Christian Women to meet

The Christian Women's Club of Corpus Christi will be holding a luncheon and country fair bazaar, 11:30-1:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 24 at the Hilton Inn on Highway 37.

Guest speaker will be Coyleen Wicks, who will give a talk on "Miracles from Heaven." Special music will be furnished by Wayne Miller.

A special nursery will be furnished free by the Oak Park United Methodist Church.

Price of the luncheon is set at $6.25. For more information and to make reservations, call 853-4034 or 855-0566.

Mrs. Jesse Lopez, Jr.

Duggan marries Lopez

Laura Duggan of Rockport became the bride of Jessie Lopez, Jr. of Aransas Pass on Saturday, Nov. 7 in a ceremony at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Rockport, with Father Gregory Deane officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Duggan of Rockport and is a student at Del Mar College in Corpus Christi. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Lopez, Sr. of Aransas Pass. He is attending Corpus Christi State University and is employed at H.E.B. Food Stores.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a semi-empire traditional wedding gown of white poly-organza over taffeta adorned with silk venice lace on the bodice and edging the neckline. The bishop sleeves were applied with lace. The full A-line skirt ended in a cathedral train edged in venice lace and pearls. The veil was also edged in lace and pearls and was held with a Juliet cap.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white orchids, lavender carnations, English ivy and baby's breath. The bride carried her grandmother's handkerchief and wore her mother's pearls.

Maid of honor was Nancy Duggan, sister of the bride, from Houston. Bridesmaids were Kara Duggan, Cynthia Lopez, and Teresa Lopez.

Erin Williams and Mary Lopez were junior bridesmaids. Flower girl was Jennifer Jones.

The bridesmaids wore orchid empire line gowns with draped bodices and chiffon overlays. The skirts were knife pleated and floor length. Each bridesmaid wore white flowers in their hair and carried nosegays of orchid carnations, white mums, purple statice and baby's breath.

The maid of honor wore the same dress, and a hair piece of stephanotis and ivy. She carried a cascade bouquet of white spider mums, orchid carnations, and baby's breath with orchid streamers.

The junior bridesmaids wore orchid dresses with orchid and lace trim, in a gunny sack design. Their nosegays were of mums, orchid carnations, and baby's breath. They wore white flowers in their hair. The flower girl wore a long ruffled orchid dress with a purple sash. She wore a wreath of stephanotis and ivy and carried a basket of silk flowers.

The groom's best man was Luis Lopez, his brother. Groomsmen were Ramon Sota, Lynn Sharp and Gilbert Vela.

The church was decorated with arrangements of greenery with silk flowers and fern pew markers.

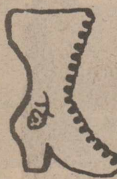

Soloist Louis Lopez sang "Words", "Theme from Ice Castles" and "Talking to My Lord", accompanied by guitarist Roland Garza and organist Marianne Gould.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at The Allegro House with some 135 guests attending. Members of the house party were Teresa Williams, sister of the bride, from Houston, Theresa Gause, Mrs. A. L. McCraw, JoNell Wright, Mrs. Kenneth Lake and Peggy Gilley, all of Rockport.

Following their wedding trip to San Antonio and Houston, the couple will make their home in Corpus Christi.

The business meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 11, was well attended. Officers for 1982 were elected and they will be installed at the meeting Dec. 9.

Mrs. Patti Fishwick, program chairperson, presented Donna Kay Hill, manager and head designer of the "Crazy Daisy". Mrs. Hill, along with her assistant, Sandy Johnson, gave interesting and productive ideas for making Christmas arrangements using holiday material that you have on hand. This is done inexpensively and some beautiful holiday arrangements were assembled.

The winners of game afternoon on Thursday, Nov. 12, were Jim Hays and Mrs. Dottie West in bridge. The finale was won by Mrs. Clo Cougar.

Refreshments were served during the afternoon. The host and hostess were Frank and Nell Skrobarcek.

Methodist bazaar termed "success"

The annual Christmas bazaar sponsored by the United Methodist Women on Wednesday, Nov. 11, was a "big success", according to bazaar spokesmen.

The bazaar, which featured gifts, handcrafts, plants and food, netted in excess of $3,300. Funds collected from the bazaar will go toward Methodist mission work throughout the states and overseas.

Lois DeVoe, member of the United Methodist Women said that 90 percent of the items made for the bazaar were sold. The handcraft items, including

The next game afternoon is Thursday, Nov. 19, at 1 p.m., Paws and Taws Building. There will not be a game afternoon on Thanksgiving, Nov. 26.

The AARP Christmas Party is Wednesday, Dec. 9, beginning at 11 a.m. with the formal installation of officers for 1982. Robert Albritton, assistant district director, will conduct the installation. Mr. Albritton is bringing several persons with him and they will have a short program.

Each member attending the party is asked to bring a gift and these gifts will be exchanged after the installation. Also, each member is asked to bring several items of canned goods for the Christmas Baskets for the needy.

Between noon and 12:30 p.m., a buffet dinner will be served. The turkey and dressing will be furnished by Chapter 1536 and each member is asked to bring a covered dish, either a vegetable, salad, or dessert.

During the buffet dinner, the Rockport-Fulton High School Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Martha Luigi, will present a program of Christmas music. This is always a delightful experience and puts everyone in a holiday mood.

Learning Center plans revealed

To meet growing demands for more classroom space, the ABC Learning Center is planning a limited campaign for funds to add one, and possibly two, more classrooms to the school building at 409 N. Magnolia.

Plans were announced at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club at Sandollar Restaurant last Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Four representatives of the Learning Center reviewed history of the institution, its present status and plans for the future while Dee Dee Richards, president of the board of directors of the Rockport Christian Association which operates the center, gave a slide film presentation of the school's activities.

Although no date nor goal has been set for the fund campaign, it is estimated approximately $7,000 will be needed to remodel and furnish the second floor to provide classroom space for 20 additional children.

At present 63 children are attending half-day sessions with an additional 30 children on the waiting list. The first year there was an enrollment of 44.

The Rockport Christian Association, which operates the center, represents six local churches — St. Peter's Episcopal, Sacred Heart Catholic, Peace Lutheran, First Baptist, First Presbyterian and First Methodist.

Opened in 1976, the Center was operated in the Catholic nunnery building for four years, moving to the N. Magnolia Street address in September, 1980. The first floor of this building, a former residence, was remodeled at a cost of $11,000 to provide three classrooms and two bathrooms.

Mary Lou Tiner, coordinator and manager of the school, explained that attendance is limited to pre-school children age three to five who attend half-day sessions. Some attend five days a week, some three and others two days, with tuition set at $60, $36 or $20 a month.

In addition to Mrs. Tiner, there are three paid teachers, Kay Barneby, Margie Jonatu and Margie Boone.

Twenty percent of the pupils are from minority groups and 10 different religious groups are represented, Mrs. Tiner added.

There is also one volunteer teacher's aide, Clara Nelson, a winter visitor from Minnesota. More aides are needed, according to Mrs. Richards who asked that winter Texans as well as local residents who would be interested in volunteering to telephone Ms. Tiner at 729-1512.

Nancy Norrell, another volunteer who is in charge of expansion plans reported there are three rooms and a bathroom on the second floor which can be converted into one, and possibly two, classrooms to provide for increased enrollment. An additional bathroom to meet state standards will be required if enrollment is enlarged, she added.

Laurie Silchenstedt, another volunteer who is in charge of financial matters, said tuition and registration fees were not enough to pay school operating costs. Many individuals and organizations make contributions and several fund raising events are staged throughout the school year. One of the most productive is a sales booth at the annual SeaFair, she said.

Silchenstedt reported approximately $4,000 is needed from contributions this year for operating expenses, including $1,000 for three scholarships.

The Rotary Club was recognized for its contributions in money and volunteer labor to the Learning Center over the years, and Arlo Hansen, club president presented a club contribution of $300 to the Center.

Says county agent

'Continual treatment' necessary to control ants

The fire ant problem in Arkansas County is "not as bad as it could be" — and in some cases it's better to learn to live with the critters, according to area Agricultural Agent Mike Rothrock. Fire ants are actually beneficial in some instances, says Rothrock who elaborates: "They protect cotton crops because they feed on boll weevils and other insects that eat cotton. And they're beneficial after a rain because they eat ticks. They feed on just about any protein source," he added. Primarily, the fire ants' diet consists of other insects. "You hear about them feeding on calves," Rothrock said, "but usually the calf was weak to begin with. It's only when you come into contact with them (fire ants) that they're a problem," Rothrock said. "We've had different types of fire ants in this area always," he continued. Ant this time, the variety that's causing the most problems is one that was brought in from Brazil. "It's a more aggressive ant," Rothrock explained. As for control of the critters when they do cause trouble — such as when they begin taking over lawns or parks — Rothrock said continuous mound treatment is still the only method.

Dishes that are quick and easy to prepare are popular for camp cooking during the hunt. A favorite is backstrap and tenderloin (tenders) pan fried in an iron skillet or a stew cooked in a Dutch oven while campers are on the hunt. The liver and heart may be eaten first by the hungry hunters if they wish to take time to dress them out.

Roasts, steaks, ground and chopped meat are popular for at-home preparation of recipes that require more utensils, ingredients or temperature control.

Pet talks

by Dr. Hap Lutz

Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the college of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

(2nd Part of Series)

In the first article, I stated the function of the kidneys;

such as excretion, regulation of the chemical make-up of the blood, blood pressure, as well as manufacturing red blood cells by the blood marrow.

This article will concern kidney failure and the consequences. When the kidneys fail, they can no longer remove the waste materials from the body, nor can they pass back the water and electrolytes needed by the body. At least two-thirds of the kidney tissues are damaged before signs of kidney failure occurs.

There are two types of kidney failures.

1. Compensated kidney failure.
2. Uremia, which is uncompensated.
Compensated kidney failure: If the kidney failure is not severe, the pet can compensate by drinking extra amounts of water and producing more urine. There will be an increase in hunger, irregular vomiting, minor digestive upsets and dry skin. In this way, the waste materials are literally flushed out of the system. If this is not corrected in a short period of time, it will cause uncompensated kidney failure — referred to as uremia and has signs of its own. The signs of uremia are increased thirst, reddened eyes, dehydration, anemia, bad breath, and listlessness. A poor appetite, emaciation, mouth ulcers, skin eruptions, muscle twitching and coma are other symptoms.

In a later article, I will discuss the cause of kidney disease, diagnosis, treatment, and prevention.

If you have any questions concerning the health and care of your pet, send them to the Rockport Pilot, Rockport, Tex. Dr. Lutz will answer your questions in the weekend edition.

Rockport Sail Club holds annual cup race

By Ted Norman
With the largest turnout ever, and sunny skies and fair winds the Rockport Sailing Club held what was billed by many as the best race the club has ever held. Saturday at 1 p.m. 18 boats reported to the starting line near Nine Mile

Point to answer the starting gun for the Rockport Cup Race. The single masted boats were given the starter's gun first, followed by the ketch rigged craft five minutes later in what was a fine start for such a large fleet.

All 18 skippers cleared their boats of the starting line in fine fashion and began the beat to the windward marker.

Everyone cleared each marker in the five-legged race without problems and the three hour and thirty minute race went off without a hitch.

Jerry Shaw captured first place in the single mast class with his Cal 25 slop, Alibi, followed close behind in second place by John Parsons on his Ranger 23, Elusive.

Shaw and Parsons battled for a piece of the small finish line as the race committee boat had trouble with the anchor holding. Some very creative sailing on Parsons part prevented the two large sailboats from having to share the same water at the same time.

The ketch rig class was won by Elmer Hartley in his H-28, Wakarelu. Hartley was followed across the finish line by the 37 foot Tanay, Final Freedom, owned by Ruth and Lloyd Umfleet.

Third position in the ketch class went to Carl Boss on Interlude, a Down-easter 38.

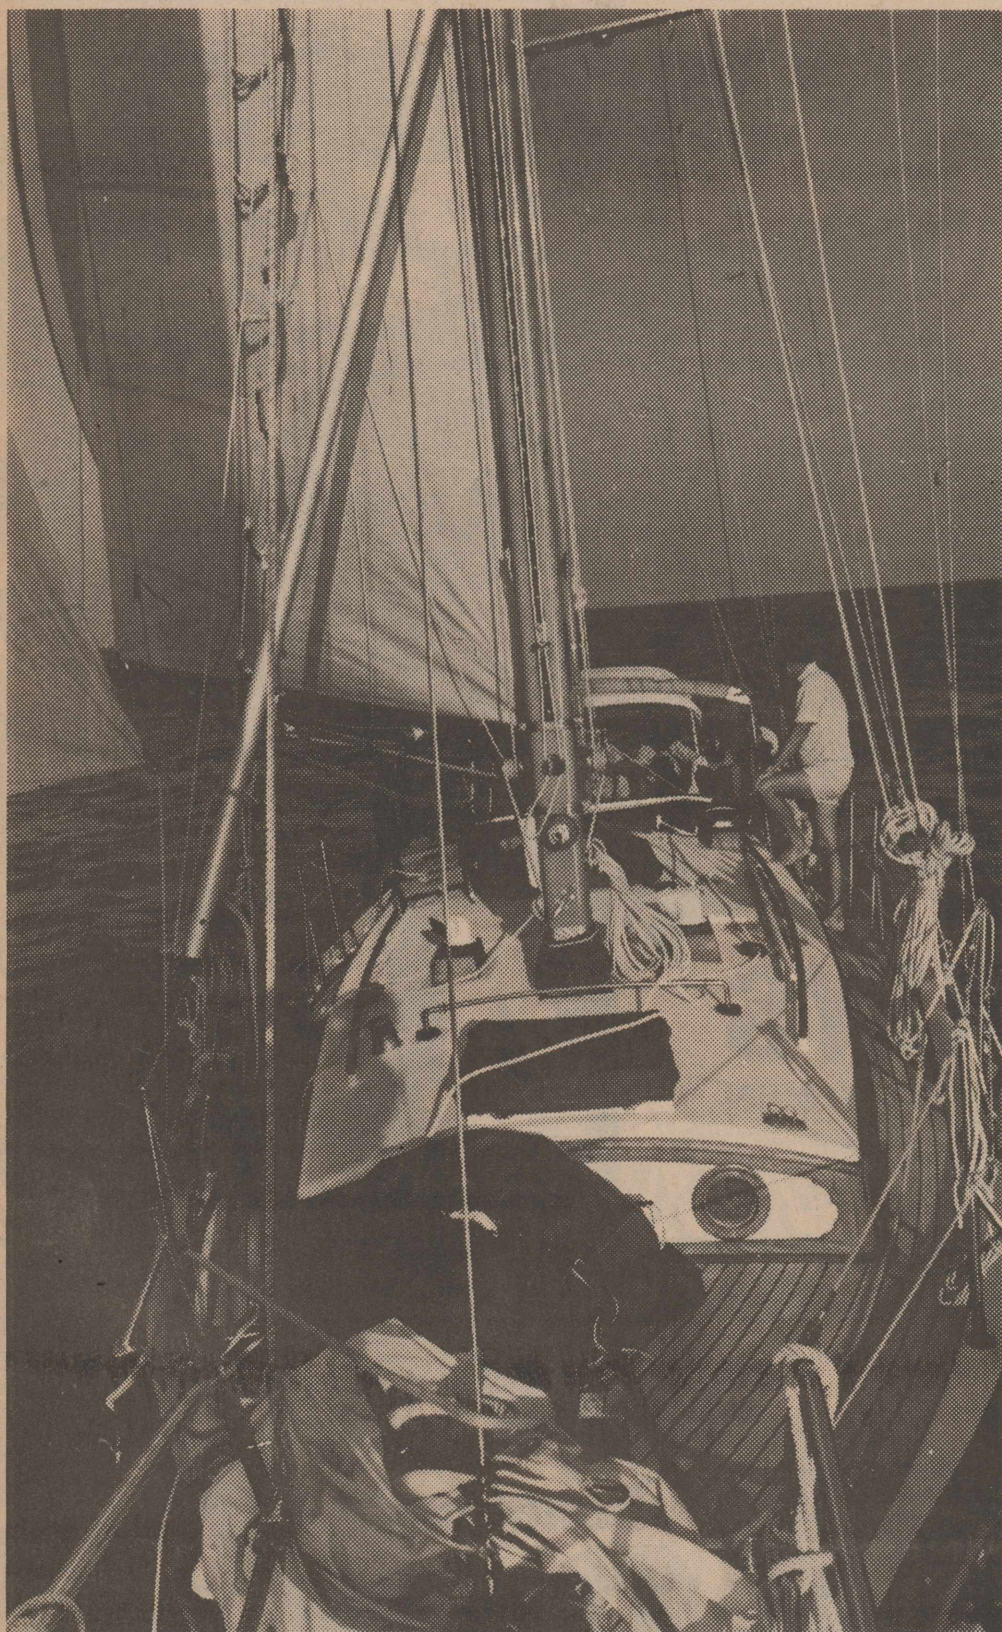

The Rockport Cup Race was started in 1973 but changed later to a four series race with races in the spring, summer and fall. Each race now counts a fourth of the Cup Race.

The fleet enjoyed calm seas and ideal winds of 12 to 18 knots. Because the prevailing winds were from the east the five-legged course was reversed just before the start.

A trophy presentation and pot lunch dinner was held Saturday night after the race.

Outdoors

Yes, it was a good day

DENVER, Colo. — The last time Bill and I had fished together there had been four in the group. Since that time a few years ago both the oldest and the youngest of us had died. We had enjoyed ourselves and one another; now, as Bill drove south from this city which currently seems to be symbolized by building cranes, mention of them recalled happy days and, I think, by pointing out our own brief mortality, reinforce our determination to have a GOOD day fishing.

Bill admitted to a few reservation concerning our destination near the Decker area of the Sout South Platte River. The day was a Saturday; chances were good that there might be a fair number of tube floaters going downstream. There was the added potential for crowding of the fishing water by there having been an enthusiastic newspaper column on the stream — complete with fly patten and size data — just a few days before. (Somehow such spreading of the news usually seems to bring out the crowds.)

We wound down the dirt mountain road and picked up the route along the riverside. A few fishermen were in evidence in the open stretches (some of the river is posted) but it did not seem too populated. Bill's relief in finding that his favorite spot showed no traffic of any kind was visible on his face and clear in his voice.

After gearing up Bill gave me his recommendations; fine and small were the words defining the advice. My boxes had the patterns and sizes that had been mentioned in the paper, but Bill also recommended and gave me a size 22 wetfly he ties which he called the String Thing. (This is the kind of fly, if not the size, I like. It's simple to tie and I think I'm going to experiment with it in other places after making some up.)

At any rate, within about 10 minutes of getting our feet into the river Bill proved his expertise by first-fishing me.

(He not only was first, but most and biggest and just generally outdid me. My only record for the day was the most problems with that seven X tippet material!)

It's days like this, when it seems I can do nothing well, that I'm glad fishing, to me, is non-competitive, at least between humans. While I can get very annoyed at a fish, I simply enjoy another's abilities. Yes, it WAS a good day.

Fish filleting regulation defined by commission

AUSTIN — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has a defined a portion of the regulation requiring that the head and tail remain intact on finfish caught from Texas' coastal waters until the fish reach their "final destination."

In a public hearing in Austin Thursday (Nov. 5) the Commission defined "final destination" to mean "a place either on the mainland, a peninsula or a barrier island where a fisherman finally lands his catch and does not further transport his fish by boat. Final destination does not include jetties or piers."

The previous interpretation of the law would require fishermen to refrain from removing the heads or tails of finfish they caught "unless the fish has been finally processed and delivered to the final destination or to a certified wholesale or retail dealer." This in effect would prevent anglers from filleting fish at docksides or fishing camps.

Fish excepted from the rule are broadbill swordfish, king mackerel and shark.

Tag first, then tarry

Tag a deer or turkey carcass immediately after the kill.

Tags can be attached to any part of the carcass so that it won't become detached or defaced during handling or transporting.

A deer or turkey tag should have both sides properly completed, showing the hunter's name on the front, and the name of the ranch and county where the animal was killed, with the month and date of kill cut out on the reverse side.

Tags must remain on the carcass until it reaches the final destination, which is the permanent residence of the hunter or a commercial processing facility.

Steel shot regulation stands up in court

AUSTIN — The regulation banning the use of toxic lead shot shells for waterfowl hunting in all or portions of six counties in Southeast Texas has withstood a courtroom challenge and will be enforced during the waterfowl hunting season starting in that region Nov. 7.

State District Judge Peter Lowry of Austin ruled in favor of the regulation which is designed to reduce the incidence of lead poisoning of waterfowl. Hunters within the nontoxic shot zone will be required to possess and use only nontoxic steel loads in all gauges of shotguns when waterfowl hunting.

The suit, brought by the Muldoon Hunting and Fishing Club of Clute, charged that the nontoxic shot rule discriminated against hunters in one section of the state by requiring the use of steel loads, while hunters in the remainder of the state could continue to use lead shot.

Department biologists testified at court hearings that several thousand gizards from waterfowl ducks from the taken area have been examined and were found to have a relatively high ingestion rate of lead shot ingestion.

The nontoxic shot zone for the 1981-82 waterfowl seasons in Texas is bounded by the Texas-Louisiana state line from Sabine Pass to Orange, then west along Interstate Highway 10 to Houston, then south on State Highway 35 to the Brazos River, and south along the east bank of the Brazos to its mouth. The zone extends into the Gulf of Mexico to the three marine league limit from the mouth of the Brazos to the Louisiana state boundary at Sabine Pass.

Pipelines... make good neighbors

America has over 220,000 miles of petroleum pipelines carrying crude oil and products to refineries and storage terminals across the United States. Each day, more than 1.5 billion ton/miles of crude oil and products move through this network. These pipelines have a safety record second to none in the transportation industry . . . and we want you to help us keep it that way.

liquids on or a mist above the ground in the area of a pipeline.

- Flames originating from an opening in the ground. If you become aware of a pipeline leak . . .
- LEAVE THE LEAK AREA IMMEDIATELY.
- Avoid driving into vapor clouds.
- Avoid direct contact with the escaping liquids.

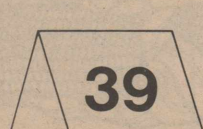

GROUND MARKER

CASING VENT

AERIAL MARKER

When you see signs like those shown above, they tell you that there's a pipeline nearby. If it's underground, you can't see it, of course. But it's there, working quietly to provide energy for you and other consumers throughout this nation.

Some of these signs list the commodity transported in the pipeline, the name of the operator, and a telephone number where the operator's representative can be reached at all times.

Although pipelines have an exceptionally good safety record, once in a while a leak can occur. Indications of a leak might include:

- A strange or unusual odor in the vicinity of a pipeline.
- A hissing or roaring sound (caused by petroleum or product escaping from a pipeline).
- A dense white cloud or fog.
- A spot of dead or discolored vegetation.
- An accumulation of petroleum

- Avoid creating sparks or sources of heat which could cause the liquids or vapor to ignite and burn. If you find yourself in a suspected vapor area, do not light a match, start an engine or even switch on an electric light.

• Notify the pipeline operator as soon as you reach a safe area. Call collect. Give your name, a description of the leak and its location. If you do not know who the pipeline operator is, call your local fire, police or sheriff's department, or the state police. Advise them of the nature and location of the emergency.

If you see someone digging near a pipeline or doing other construction work . . . or if you plan to do such work near a pipeline yourself . . . please call the telephone number shown on the sign and let the pipeline company know so damage can be avoided. It's in your interest . . . and the nation's.

America's Petroleum Pipelines

Police report

68-year-old arrested for possession

A 68-year-old Oregon man, Juan Rios Hernandez, was arrested on charges of felony possession of marijuana and unlawfully carrying a weapon Thursday evening in Rockport.

Hernandez, a resident of Forest Grove, was stopped by police after he was allegedly observed driving on the wrong side of the road on Market Street.

Police stopped him at the Market/Mathis Street intersection about 8:15 p.m.

Hernandez was placed under $10,000 bond on the possessions charge, $1,000 on the weapons charge and was fined $50 on a traffic citation for driving on the wrong side.

Police allegedly found two bags of marijuana — totalling three pounds in weight — a machete and a knife in Hernandez' car after he was stopped.

Tools stolen

A tool box and tools valued at $1,000 were reported stolen from a pickup truck belonging to Jesse A. Perkins of Houston while he was staying at a Rockport motel this weekend.

Theft is believed to have occurred sometime between 3 a.m. and 9 a.m. Saturday.

Shotgun taken

A 20-gauge shotgun valued at $140 was reported taken during the burglary of the residence of Manuel Flores Jr., 102 2nd St.

The incident occurred between 6:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Police said there were no signs of forced entry.

Skiff theft

An aluminum skiff belonging to Dr. R. O. Best of Corpus Christi was taken from a boat stall on S. Church Street sometime between Nov. 1 and Saturday, Nov. 14.

Intoxication

Rockport police made one arrest on a charge of public intoxication and one on a charge of driving while intoxicated this past weekend. In both instances, the subjects were also ticketed for driving without a license.

Police also made two arrests on warrants during a busy weekend.

Brown announces candidacy for second term

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown announced his candidacy for a second term in ceremonies at the State Capitol Nov. 17. He stressed his record in office and his 32 years of service to farmers, ranchers, and consumers of Texas.

"I do not offer pie-in-the-sky promises; I'm working to keep meat and potatoes on the table," Brown said in presenting the accomplishments of his first term. "Today's economic conditions call for sensible answers from leaders who know agriculture."

"By acting decisively, we have kept the Mediterranean fruit fly out of Texas. California has spent $100 million because of delayed action, but we won the battle with common sense," he said. "As president of the southern commissioners of agriculture, I could unify the 15 states for a successful effort."

"We've been able to provide superior service in administering 60 laws for consumer protection, marketing, and agricultural support programs for about $1 per capita," Brown said. "With frugal management in my term we have returned to the State $1.4 million in contingency funds that could not be spent wisely, in addition to the $2 million in fees collected annually."

"Farmers and ranchers need a state leader who can serve as their spokesman. I have worked for such legislation as the right to farm, gasohol programs, and tax changes for farmland and livestock in Texas. I have testified in Washington on all of the important agricultural issues," Brown said. "I have spoken out for farmers and ranchers in hundreds of urban meetings outlining the role of agriculture in our economy."

"My goal is to improve agricultural profits so that producers can stay in business and provide a steady supply of wholesome food for consumers."

"I am placing my record of service before the people. I am confident of their judgement and a successful endorsement of my candidacy."

Brown has chosen Walter Todd of Dallas as his state campaign chairman and has established a network of coordinators throughout the state.

Texas Tu steppin'

It was time for some "tu-stepping" at the new western wear shop, The Texas Tu-Step Saturday, Nov. 14. The shop had its official grand opening and Chamber of Commerce ribbon cutting. A live western band, barbecue, cold beer and lots of guests turned the event into a real party. Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline (l) donned a cowboy hat for the occasion and helped owner George C. Miller, Jr. and manager Andrea Martinez cut the red ribbon, opening the store. On hand were chamber official Judy Guilett, owner, George C. Miller, Sr. and wife Charlene Miller, Don Lee from radio station KOUL with daughter Lisa, and Chamber official Loyce Ogle.

Conservation group calls for end to subsidy

The National Wildlife Federation has called for an end to federal subsidies which encourage "destructive and often foolhardy" development of the nation's fragile barrier islands.

Dr. Jay D. Hair, executive vice president of the NWF, made the appeal in testimony at a Senate Environmental Pollution Subcommittee hearing. He spoke in support of S. 1018, a bill which would eliminate federal assistance for beach stabilization and construction of waste water treatment plants, roads, and bridges on the sandy, shifting offshore islands.

"Coastal barriers begin to disintegrate when we try to put permanent structures on them, destroying themselves and their dependent fish and wildlife resources," Hair explained. "With its subsides, grants, and insurance programs, the federal government not only allows this destructive and often foolhardy development, but actually underwrites, encourages, and perpetuates it."

Barrier islands must be in constant flux in order to remain in equilibrium with the immense power of the ocean, he said. When the islands are "stabilized" and developed with resort homes and other man-made works, the ecosystem — which depends on the island's ability to shift and change — is destroyed.

Dependent on a healthy barrier island ecosystem are such threatened and endangered species as loggerhead turtles, bald eagles, brown pelicans, and sea oats, as well as the millions of migrating birds and waterfowl that use the islands' bays and marshes as resting and feeding areas.

Barrier islands are also an important recreational resource for all Americans and they are vital as storm buffers, the NWF official said. In addition, up to 80 percent of the most important sport and commercial fish and shellfish species depend for their existence on the estuaries and wetlands provided by the islands and barrier beaches.

Hair estimated that between 1975 and 1980 the federal government spent nearly $750 million on barrier island development. "By subsidizing the higher costs and greater risks associated with barrier island development, the federal government has interfered with the normal working of the market place," he said. "S. 1018 recognizes that we must redirect federal investments away from the shifting sands of coastal barrier islands. In times of fiscal austerity, there are better ways to spend federal funds than on subsidized destruction of these fragile outposts."

Mixed drink tax adds $11,000 to Aransas County economy

Tax on mixed drink sales in Aransas County added slightly more than $11,000 to county economy during the third quarter of 1981, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The tax is the county's and cities' 15 percent shares of the 10 percent gross receipts tax collected on sale of mixed drinks in the State of Texas.

The largest amount of money goes to Aransas County itself where total tax revenues of $41,201.40 meant a remittance of $6,180.21 to the county.

Also receiving rebates from mixed drink sales were Rockport, $1,166.55; Fulton, $2,503.94; and the portion of Aransas Pass inside Aransas County which received a rebate of $1,189.77 from mixed drink sales.

As a comparison, sales of mixed drinks in neighboring San Patricio County resulted in tax remittance to the county and the cities of Ingleside, Aransas and Portland of $5,213.33.

Statewide, Bullock said mixed drink taxes collected during the third-quarter period — July, August and September — brought $22.5 million into the state's general revenue fund.

Correction

In a recent article on the Rockport-Fulton High school Choir Boosters, the choir's recent sale of knives was incorrectly referred to as a fund-raising project for the group's Vienna trip.

The sale of knives was a project to benefit the junior high and senior high choirs during the school year. The money from the sale is expected to cover the cost of trips to various out of town competitions or for the purchase of uniforms or other needed classroom items. It was not a choir booster project.

All the money raised by the knives sale must be spent prior to the end of the school year, and the boosters will not receive any of this money.

Orthopedic services limited

Memorial Medical Center will not be able to accept known or suspected orthopedic (bone) cases in the Emergency Room on seven days in November and seven days in December. Wheeler B. Lipes, President of Memorial Medical Center announced this limitation on emergency services is necessary because the orthopedic surgeons have agreed to give coverage every 15 days and there are only 11 of them on the schedule. This is a temporary measure until Memorial Medical Center can recruit specialists in orthopedic surgery to join the hospital. Ambulance services in the region and the other hospitals in the city have been advised of the limitations. All other emergency room services continue to be available.

Veterans Administration News

Q — I am a World War II veteran who had Veterans Administration insurance at one time. I recently received a pamphlet saying I can receive a special insurance dividend on this cancelled insurance if I send $10.00. Is this legitimate?

A — No. This is just another version of an old insurance hoax that has been circulating for years. The only dividends being paid by VA are to veterans who were issued participating policies and who have maintained the policies in a premium paying status.

Q — I am an honorably discharged veteran of World War II and have never applied for any benefits from the Veterans Administration. Will the VA pay any benefit for burial expenses when I die?

A — Yes. VA will pay $150 for the purchase of a burial plot for any eligible wartime veteran not buried in a national cemetery. As of Oct. 1, 1981, an allowance of $300 is available to all veterans who at time of death were receiving, or entitled to receive disability compensation, and to all veterans receiving, or entitled to receive pension.

Q — Is it possible for me to pay my Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan before it becomes due?

A — Yes. A VA guaranteed loan may be partially or fully paid at any time without penalty.

As of June 1981, over 2 million veterans were receiving service service connected disability compensation from the Veterans Administration.

Rockport-Fulton drama students capture the forties in 'A Paper Doll'

"A Paper Doll", an original three-act play written and directed by high school drama coach David Rice, will be presented at the high school Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20 and 21. (See page 1) The story centers around World War II and its effects on one family. The play contains moments of quiet drama as well as high spirited 40's fun. The student cast numbers 40 members and includes a dance troupe. Throughout the play, the music of 40's greats like The Andrews Sisters, Glenn Miller, The Mills Brothers and Tommy Dorsey is featured. At right, members of the dance company are caught in the middle of a jitterbug and below, a group of school girls enjoy their first "rum n' Coca-Cola" party.

Museum to display Christmas tree forest

The Auxiliary to the Art Museum of South Texas announces the opening of the 22nd Annual Christmas Tree Forest, "Fairytale Fantasy". The Forest opens on Dec. 9th and will be on display in the museum foyer through noon Dec. 24th.

The hours for the Christmas Tree Forest are Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Wednesdays, Dec. 16 and 23 until 8 p.m. In order to avoid a delay, large groups should contact the museum at 884-3844 to schedule a time for viewing the forest. Voluntary contributions of twenty-five cents for adults and ten cents for children are accepted.

The display of approximately 50 trees has been decorated by area clubs, organizations, schools and individuals and depicts the Fairytale theme.

As the theme this year will make a return for all of us to our childhood fantasies as we re-create old favorites as Jack and the Beanstalk, Cinderella, the Gingerbread Man and many others. Fairies floating from the ceiling and wooden soldiers will help to set the mood for children of all ages.

In addition to the above there will be a re-creation of Pinocchio, Sleeping Beauty, The Three Little Pigs and Winnie the Pooh.

Most Social Security tax paid in benefits

If you pay into Social Security, how much of each tax dollar do you think goes for administrative costs rather than for paying benefits? A fourth? A half? Or even more?

A recent public opinion poll suggests that a majority of people believe it takes over half of each tax dollar to run the program. In fact, only 6 percent of those questioned said administrative costs are less than 20 percent. These responses indicate that many Americans feel there is inefficiency in this basic program that now pays retirement, disability, and survivors' checks to some 36 million people.

The facts, however, prove otherwise: Last year, the Social Security Administration's total administrative costs were only 1.3 percent of the benefit payments — an all-time low.

This means that for every dollar you pay into Social Security about 98.7 cents goes toward paying benefits for those who are now eligible.

Although operating costs have increased in actual dollars over the years as Social Security has grown in scope, the ratio of costs to benefits has steadily decreased. For example, costs were about 2 percent of benefits in 1970, and even higher in earlier years.

This increased efficiency (with a slight reduction in staff) is due to such factors as: use of the computer as a major working tool; simplification of many administrative procedures; and reduction of recordkeeping requirements. Costs for operating Social Security per unit of work has increased more slowly than for service industries in general.

Administrative expenses include such items as salaries, rental of property and equipment, building operating expenses, and supplies. They also include payments to the U.S.

Treasury Department for collecting Social Security taxes and issuing checks as well as costs incurred by States in making disability determinations.

The Social Security Administration is always looking for further streamlining which may result in additional administrative savings. However, overall the program is operated in a cost-efficient manner.

Bake sale preview

Keri Richard [1] and Amy Bailey prove that you can have your cake and eat it too — all you have to do is drop by the Sacred Heart School's bake sale on Sunday, Nov. 22, between 9:30 a.m. - 2 p.m. The sale will be held in front of the church, weather permitting, but in case of rain will be moved to the parish hall. All items — cakes, cookies, bread, pies, etc. — will be homemade, from scratch. All proceeds will benefit the Sacred Heart Catholic School.

not yet been done for the District. "We need outside help," Hughes repeated of the board's financial position. "There's no doubt about it."

A possibility of help was raised later in the meeting when Little reported on a meeting recently with representatives of Southmost Savings and Loan, a firm that has assumed ownership of some property in Goose Island Lake Estates.

Little told board members Southmost "is willing to consider extending some financial assistance to the District in terms of getting the existing water plant completed" and said he had drawn up a proposed contract between the District and Southmost setting up terms of such assistance.

A copy of the contract has been presented to Southmost, Little said, and he was awaiting word from the company on whether Southmost was willing to accept the terms.

In other action Monday, Hughes reported on a visit last week by Carl Hickman, a representative from Water Systems of California, who came to tour the District's problem-plagued water plant.

Hughes said he was told the plant should be back in operation by Feb. 1 and that the work needed to get the facility operating again "is supposed to be done" at the expense of either Envirogenics which designed the system or of the contractor who built it.

Board members accepted the resignation of Pat Hill who has served as the District's tax assessor-collector and voted to retain the service of Alma Johnson in Mrs. Hill's stead.

Mrs. Johnson has 22 years' experience as a school assessor-collector.

Board members also voted to retain a computer service, Ad Valorem Records of Houston, to provide clerical assistance for the tax assessor-collector. The cost will be approximately $500 for 1981, according to Little who recommended the action.

Hughes at one point asked, "Being as there's another company in Houston that does the same thing for the schools, can we check the rates before we decide?"

"I'm sure you could shop around," Little replied, "but my recommendation would be to authorize this company to proceed."

Little also reminded the board members that the District's audit report must be filed in Austin with the Texas Department of Water Resources by Dec. 15.

Deer management pamphlet available

AUSTIN — Roughly half of Texas' three million white-tailed deer within a 24-million-acre region known as the Texas Hill Country, or Edwards Plateau.

Wildlife biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department believe the future of the Hill Country deer herd depends on the land management practices of landowners and hunters.

To help landowners manage this valuable natural resource, the department has produced a pamphlet called "Deer Management in the Edwards Plateau of Texas."

The free pamphlet was written by Donnie Harmel, manager of Kerr Wildlife Management Area west of Kerrville, and George Litton, wildlife regional manager stationed in Waco. The publication analyzes data from research at the 6,500-acre Kerr Area and offers guidelines to assist landowners in applying deer management programs.

Copies are available by writing to the department at 4200 Smith School Road, Austin 78744 or by calling the toll-free information line, 1-800-792-1112.

Area Deaths

Gussie Blaschke Gass

CORPUS CHRISTI — Funeral services for Mrs. Walter F. (Gussie) Gass, member of a pioneer Ingleside family, were conducted at 2 p.m. Monday, Nov. 16 at the Wesley United Methodist Church with the Reverend Carl Rohlf, pastor of the Asbury United Methodist Church, officiating. Graveside services and burial were conducted at 3:30 p.m. in the Prairie View Cemetery in Aransas Pass.

Mrs. Gass, 69, died Saturday, Nov. 14, in a Corpus Christi hospital following a sudden illness.

She had been a resident of Corpus Christi since 1939. She was born Gussie Bennita Blaschke, the daughter of the late Gustave W. and Annie G. Stindt Blaschke of Ingleside on Jan. 30, 1912. Her father was a pioneer settler, farmer, merchant and land owner in Ingleside at the turn of the century. Gussie Street in Ingleside is named after Mrs. Gass. She was office manager for Joe D. Hughes, Inc. for 28 years until her retirement in 1968. She was named a member of the Wesley United Methodist Church. Surviving are her husband, Walter Gass; two sisters, Mrs. Elda Naylor of Aransas Pass and Mrs. M. Verban of Ingleside; two brothers, Cleve Blaschke of Granbury and Lester E. Blaschke of Austin; numerous nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers were William M. Armstrong, Jr., Travis B. Phelps, M.D., Edgar Blaschke Jr., Frank Hametner, Grady Phelps, Jerry Blaschke, Ronnie Walter Gass and Keith W. Trant.

In lieu of the usual remembrances, the family requests that contributions be made to the Wesley United Methodist Church in memory of Mrs. Gass.

Fage-Mills Downtown Funeral Chapel in Corpus Christi was in charge of the arrangements.

E. Hugh Moore

SAN ANTONIO — Mr. E. Hugh Moore, 54, former resident of Annapolis, Maryland and Austin died Friday, Nov. 13 Mr. Moore served in the United States Navy during WW II. attended the University of Texas at Austin and Anne Arundel College in Maryland, was a teacher in Annapolis, Maryland, and member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors included his mother, Mrs. E.J. Moore, Rockport, a sister, Delarene (Denny) Graham, San Antonio, niece, Laura Graham, San Antonio, a nephew, Ed Graham, San Antonio.

Interment was at Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery.

Little House of Baskets

offers lots of quality at a low price

The Little House of Baskets has just opened its door for business and if you're looking for quality baskets and other wicker items, it's the place to go.

Located at 211 1/2 Austin, the basket shop is owned and run by Linda Seawright. Available at the new store are live plants in baskets, silk flowers in baskets, candles in baskets and of course, just baskets. Wall hangings, floor mats and a wide selection of straw Christmas wreaths are also offered, all for low prices, says Seawright. "We feel that this is a shop designed for the people in Rockport, not just the tourist trade. We offer something the people in Rockport can afford.

Many other handmade gift items in the store were made by Linda and her assistant Rhonda Nixon.

Linda and Rhonda will be doing special orders for gift customers and the "little house" hopes to be expanding its line of merchandise all the time says Linda's husband Jim.

Jim has an oilfield sales company, and working out of Houston and San Antonio, is able to pick up a lot of merchandise for the basket shop, thus saving money on freight charges. The saving is passed on to the shop's customers. "We're super competitive, and very reasonably priced," says Jim.

If someone is looking for a gift, starting in the $3 range, they can get something here," says Linda.

Food Mart robbed

Aransas County officials were working on "a couple of leads" this past week in their search for a man who held up a Jr. Food Mart clerk at gunpoint and got away with an estimated $2,500 in cash.

The robbery occurred shortly after 10 p.m. Nov. 7 when an "unknown white male" entered the Jr. Food Mart on Highway 35 south of Rockport, pulled a revolver on sales clerk Sharon Fears of Rockport and took a money bag containing the cash.

Chief Investigator Ricky McLeister said some items believed to have been used by the holdup man were subsequently recovered in the Windswept Oaks subdivision.

He added no additional information could be released at this time.

Cub Scouts hold court of honor

Cub scout troop #49 held their court of honor on Tuesday, Nov. 8, with many scouts receiving honors during the ceremony.

Phil Rinaldo, Jimmy Wilson, Sean Miller, John Simmons, Joey Ewenson, Ricky Zamudio and Chris Maka all received the order of Scout.

Tenderfoot honors went to Larry Randall, Dwain Williams, Heath Mock and Tony Kendrick.

Steve Clark, Joey Trimyer, Matt Kovacs and Mike Kovacs received second class awards and First Aid Merit Badges went to Mike Kovacs, Matt Kovacs and Steve Clark.

Juan Sandoval and Joey Trimyer received basketry merit badges and Sandoval also received an environmental science merit badge.

Hiking skill awards went to Mike Kovacs, Matt Kovacs, Heath Mock, Adrian Rios, Steven Clark, Joey Trimyer, Juan Sandoval and Paul Kendrick.

Heath Mock, Dwain Williams and Sean Miller earned citizenship skill awards.

City handles 87 animal calls

Rockport's animal control officer Dick MacMurchy responded to 87 calls during October, issuing six warnings but no citations to people in violation of the city animal control ordinance.

MacMurchy added that no dog bites were reported during the month.

A total of 34 animals — 18 dogs and 16 cats — were impounded at the city pound during the month, with 11 of the dogs either returned to their owners or adopted.

Another 13 dogs were taken to the Gulf Coast Humane Society shelter in Corpus Christi during the month. Two dogs and 10 of the cats had to be destroyed due to injury or illness, MacMurchy said.

Bentsen seeks outstanding Texas student

Washington, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen has announced that he is conducting a search for an outstanding high school junior from Texas to participate in a U.S.-Japan exchange program.

"On May 7, Prime Minister Suzuki of Japan announced the establishment of the Special U.S.-Japan Exchange Program of Youth for Understanding. This exciting bilateral project funded by the Japanese government, will make it possible for me to nominate an outstanding junior from Texas to go to live with a specially selected volunteer family in Japan for two months each summer," Bentsen said in a letter to high school principals across Texas.

"Your involvement in the selection process for this scholarship will be an important factor in the success of the program. Your knowledge of your students' merits and, particularly, their capacity to adapt to new environments should be a strong consideration in the selection of the nominee from your school," Bentsen said.

The deadline for submission of nominees must be postmarked by Nov. 27, 1981.

"As you may know, Youth for Understanding exchanges more than 7,000 high school students per year, making it the largest teenage student exchange program in the United States in terms of numbers of students. Since its establishment thirty years ago, YFU has made it possible for more than 84,000 students to have an overseas family living experience," Bentsen said.

"The scholarship winners will be brought to Washington next June for an orientation session on Japanese culture and to meet with me as well as to attend a reception hosted by the Ambassador of Japan," Senator Bentsen said.

State of the regionGuerrero enthusiastic over trade with Mexico

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

"Tremendous opportunities are present for all of us in this area."

Felix Guerrero expressed this enthusiasm, commenting about rapidly increasing trade with Mexico. Guerrero is director of the Houston district of the International Trade Administration, which is one arm of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The purpose of the International Trade Administration is to motivate business men and women to export products and services, to help them find markets, then to arrange means of distribution and collection.

In his Houston office, Guerrero stands ready to assist any individual or business in the Coastal Bend in what he calls the profit opportunities available in international trade. He says trade with Mexico has escalated sharply in the last four years, since the beginning of the oil boom there. The proximity to Mexico puts the Coastal Bend in an ideal position.

There are a wide variety of products in demand there. Guerrero suggests as some of the best sellers oil field supplies, medical equipment, agricultural equipment, steel products, construction equipment, spare parts for all types of equipment which is not manufactured in Mexico, and food packing. This is not by any means all inclusive.

It is not the large, wealthy company which Guerrero finds most apt to succeed. A small company can be more flexible if it has leadership with the necessary qualities. These qualities can be found in men and women, young or old. They should be adventurous, with the spirit of entrepreneurship, with a lot of perseverance, and willing to deal with people who may or may not have any understanding of what he or she is accustomed to.

Guerrero and his family have been in business in Mexico, Spain, Venezuela, Colombia, Nicaragua, and Salvador and found it as exciting as it was profitable. He finds doing business in each country unique, so it is important to find out the customs, what the people appreciate there and what they resent.

It is not necessary to be associated with a resident of that country to trade in Mexico, but Guerrero suggests that eventually anyone who establishes trade there will want to have a local representative who will assist in sales, distribution and collection.

One of the ways the International Trade Administration can assist is by putting business representatives in contact with such individuals in Mexico. They have their own trade center in Mexico and can take prospects there with their products to get some first hand response. A service may be sold as well as a product. Primarily, this would be in servicing products that are being sold there but are not made there.

Financing and credit must be understood. Guerrero suggests that anyone seriously interested in trade with Mexico go to the nearest large bank which deals in international trade and discuss specific needs with a knowledgeable banker.

The opportunities are not theoretical. Substantial trade is being carried out by companies in the Coastal Bend at this time. Some of these successful business men have been appointed by the Secretary of Commerce to serve without pay

Cash taken in country club burglary

Approximately $200 in cash was reported missing after Live Oak Country Club was burglarized this past week.

The incident occurred sometime between 6 p.m. Friday and 7:05 a.m. Saturday after someone apparently broke out the window of the building to gain entry.

Texas installations to get part of funds

WASHINGTON — The Senate approved a military construction bill Thursday which would mean more than $135 million for Texas military installations.

"Texas installations play a significant role in our national defense capability, and I am most pleased that the Senate has approved these improvements," said Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

There were three changes in the bill originally approved by the Armed Services Committee. "A $4.7 million training facility for the Roland Missile at Fort Bliss was cancelled because that missile program is not scheduled to be built under the budget-mandated cuts in defense spending increases," explained Tower. Additionally, $430,000 was added for the Navy to acquire the McMullen County bombing range which is currently leased by the Navy from private owners and is used to train jet pilots from Corpus Christi Naval Air Station and Chase Field. Also included was Senate Tower's amendment authorizing the City of San Antonio to acquire the current Naval and Marine Corps Center in downtown San Antonio in exchange for a replacement facility.

The Texas projects include the Corpus Christi Army Depot — $840,000 for an Energy Monitor and Control System.

Oil discoveries up

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 5 — Railroad Commissioner Chairman Jim Nugent announced that Texas operators reported 103 gas and 48 oil discoveries in Oct. 1981.

In the year-earlier month, 99 gas and 58 oil discoveries were filed with the state's energy regulatory agency.

Gas discoveries in the tenth month of the year include 37 in deep South Texas, 24 in the Refugio area, 17 in Southeast Texas, seven in the San Antonio area, five in West Central Texas, four in the Lubbock area, three in the Midland area, two each in the San Angelo and Panhandle areas, and one each in East Central Texas and East Texas.

Oil discoveries included 13 in deep South Texas, ten in West Central Texas, six in North Texas, three each in Southeast Texas and the San Angelo and Midland areas and two each in East Central Texas, East Texas and the San Antonio, Lubbock and Panhandle areas.

In Oct., operators reported 427 exploratory and reported 427 exploratory and field tests wound up as dry holes. New applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests totaled 3,146 in Oct. compared with 2,988 in the same period in 1980.

Applications to drill, deepen, plug back and for service wells in Oct. amounted to 3,442 against 3,216 a year earlier.

Operators filed 869 amended applications to drill. A year earlier they submitted 655 amended requests.
