SCREEN STAR HELD IN FATAL FIGHT

Floods And Tornadoes Take Heavy Toll Of Life And Property In Midwest

40 Believed Dead, More Than 200 Injured As Tornado Sweeps Illinois

HUGO, Okla., April 19. (AP)—At least 11 persons lost their lives in the tornado that swept southeastern Choctaw county and the northern section of Lamar county, Texas, last night, it was found late today when investigating parties returned to Hugo and compared notes.

Jim Brewer and his entire family of six, living on the east bank of the Kiamichi river, southeast of here, were killed. The 12-year-old daughter of M. E. Williams, who also resided on the Kiamichi river, was killed when their home was wrecked. A five-year-old daughter was blown into the river and drowned. Her body has not been recovered. Bryant Williams, 18, was crushed to death when his brother's home, west of Fort Towson, was demolished.

J. T. Cravens was killed at Arthur City, Texas, ten miles south of Hugo, when the storm demolished that village.

It was said that only one house of any size remained in Arthur City after the storm departed to dip down on Oklahoma.

Relief parties estimate that 50 persons were injured in adjacent areas of North Texas and Southeastern Oklahoma. Effects of the storm farther east in Oklahoma had not been determined early tonight.

Funds have been raised here and relief workers are rushing into the stricken areas. Relief agencies at Paris, Texas, were caring for sufferers at Arthur City.

SIX COUNTIES SUFFER IN ILLINOIS STORM

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 19. (AP) Tearing a straight line through six Central Illinois counties, a series of tornadoes and line squalls this afternoon brought death to upwards of two score persons, injury to 200 others and left scores in a dozen communities homeless.

Reports Uncertain

Uncertainty colored all reports and gave rise to belief that further reports may send the fatality and injury figures higher, or eliminate some names from the list of dead. Where damage was heaviest wires are down, and definite reports are available only from those who are penetrating the territory over tree-strewn and water-soaked roads, by horse and wagon.

Among the communities reporting fatalities were:

Carrollton, eight killed and 12 injured.

Buffalo Hart, eight killed.

Cornland, three killed.

Clinton, 13 injured, two killed.

Hardin, one killed.

Centerville, four killed and eight injured.

Mount Pulaski, one killed and six injured.

Wrights, five killed and two injured.

Laomi, six killed.

Woodville, two killed.

Kafir, one killed.

Children Suffer

The freak storm started at the Mississippi river, and was described by weather bureau officials as a series of line squalls as distinguished from a tornado.

School children were among the chief sufferers in today's storm. Three were reported to have been killed or injured when the storm wrecked rural schools elsewhere, according to fragmentary reports.

The storm, for the most part, struck small towns of 200 or 300 population, then descended again on villages and hamlets further away.

Besides the loss of life, heavy property damage was done, but the damage did not approach the figure of the tornado of two years ago, when upwards of 800 persons were killed in the southern part of the state.

Buildings were wrecked, trees uprooted, and wire communications with the stricken districts virtually were cut off for several hours.

Communications Cut

Within an hour after first reports of loss of life came from the storm swept district, relief measures were under way. First aid was rendered by volunteer assist-

BLIND DRIVERS

40 Per Cent Color Blind Or Can't See, Says Lecturer

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, April 19.—More than 40 per cent of the people driving automobiles in Texas are either color blind or can't see six feet in front of their car, according to statistics released today by the Texas Optometrists association at its annual convention here.

In urging legislation which would compel the state to license motorists and to examine prospective drivers for vision, Dr. Mollie W. Armstrong, chairman of the information committee, said:

"There are many, about 40 per cent, now driving automobiles who can not see six feet ahead of them; color blind persons, who can't distinguish red, green, blue or yellow, get mixed up daily in the traffic signal systems. There are some driving in a perpetual fog."

MOODY WARNS BORGER AGAIN

Governor Asks Sheriff For Aid For Rangers

AUSTIN, April 19 (AP)—From the viewpoint of the administration, the situation Borger, West Texas oil boom city, again is tense and martial law there tonight again appeared possible.

On the heels of another "co-operation" ultimatum issued by Governor Dan Moody yesterday, Assistant Attorney General Galloway Calhoun today was ordered to Borger to make investigations in connection with reports of alleged election fraud and irregularities.

In the meantime additional men to serve as Texas rangers and supplement the force of 15 now in Borger were being held in readiness under the adjutant general here.

In a telegram to the sheriff of Hutcheson county, in which Borger is situated the governor yesterday said that reports reaching him indicated that the sheriff had not been co-operating with rangers after the return of W. B. Gatewood, Moody's private secretary and General Robertson from Borger.

Martial law for Borger was averted some weeks ago only after Governor Moody had wired local officers, demanding more aid to the rangers.

GOOD ASKS CLEMENCY

Convicted Lubbock Man Wants To Visit Sick Brother

AUSTIN, April 19.—An application for clemency was filed this afternoon with Gov. Moody by Milt Good, now serving a life term in the penitentiary of conviction in Lubbock county on murder in connection with the slaying of H. L. Robertson, a West Texas cattle inspector, several years ago. Good is seeking a furlough in order that he may visit a sick brother. Good escaped from Huntsville prison about a year ago and was recaptured in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Lydig Brands As Lie Reports She Received $2,000,000 For Child

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—Branding as a lie reports that she had received $2,000,000 from the late W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy real estate man, for returning her son, W. E. D. Stokes Jr., to him after their divorce, Mrs. Phillip Lydig, society leader, who on April 6 filed a petition in bankruptcy listing liabilities of $93,055, today told her creditors she could meet her debts by selling her furniture, rugs and pictures.

Mrs. Lydig issued a statement saying she had "no hidden assets, no money or securities concealed and no secret investments or property of any kind." Her only possessions, she said, were her furnishings in her home or in storage.

Concerning reports that she had received $2,000,000 from her formerhusband "for giving him back his son," Mrs. Lydig said she "did not receive a penny." She had returned the son, she said, "so that he might inherit his father's estate which he has inherited."

WICHITA WINS LEAGUE CUP IN ATTENDANCE

8727 Paid Admissions At Athletic Park For Opening Game

SPUDS ANNEX SIXTH

Parade Through Business District Leads Record Crowd to Game

With 8727 paid admissions, Wichita Falls captured the Texas league opening day attendance cup Tuesday, award annually made by J. Doak Roberts, president of the league, to the city in the league's second population division that produces the largest paid admission gathering at the first game of the season.

Sixth Straight

And Wichita Falls won its sixth consecutive baseball game, defeating the Shreveport Sports, 10-7, on the home diamond in a slugging melee that retained for the Spudders a 1000 per cent standing and the undisputed league leadership.

Wichita Falls with its 8727 baseball crowd ran third in the league for attendance, both Fort Worth and Dallas excelling this city. Dallas' figure was 15,105 and Fort Worth played to 10,274. But in her own classification, Wichita Falls won with large margin to spare. Not another city in this division which is composed of Shreveport, Beaumont, Waco and Wichita Falls, even flirted with the 7000 figure, according to President Roberts.

The Roberts trophy, a handsome loving cup, will be awarded the Wichita Falls baseball club immediately, said Roberts Tuesday night. The cup will be placed on display upon arrival, according to J. A. Gardner, club president.

Perfect Day

Wichita Falls' day was complete from a baseball angle. Beginning with a mammoth parade through the business district shortly before game time until the last sparkling play, in baseball vernacular, a "triple-killing" in the ninth inning enacted by the Spudders, the day was one huge success.

The parade was staged under direction of Lloyd Weaver. Optimist club members were quite prominent in the line of march, their heads adorned by multi-colored straw hats of the "kelly" variety, painted for the occasion. Police and fire patrols participated. Their was blare of brass aplenty, the municipal band and the Lions club boys band furnishing music galore.

The great horde of baseball fans jammed the grandstands, additional bleachers and swarmed out onto the field of play, making it necessary for the umpires to install ground rules and causing them to halt the game several times while ultra-enthusiastic bugs were ordered back from the foul lines.

"What have I got to say? Well, all I want to do is express the Wichita Falls baseball club's hearty appreciation and thanks to the fans of Wichita Falls and North Texas for the wonderful support they gave the team," exulted J. Alvin Gardner Tuesday night. "And I want to say that no little credit for Wichita Falls' great turn-out goes to Fred Weeks, Horrace Robbins, Pink Hammond and several of their associates who raised the money that sent 1500 school children to the game."

PEACHES PINCHED

Chicago Cop Makes Arrest After Being "Sassed"

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 18.—"Peaches" Heenan Browning, of "Daddy" Browning separation suit fame, sassed a Chicago policeman today and was hauled into a North Side station on charges of disorderly conduct.

Peaches had been driving with Al Mann, brother of Fred Mann, proprietor of the Rainbo Gardens where "Peaches" has been nightly doing her stuff as an entertainer. They were going 41 miles an hour.

"Why, you can't arrest us," she cried indignantly, when Motorcycle Policemen Mercer and Groves drew up alongside. "I'm Peaches Browning."

JILTED

Finance of Vice President Dawes' Cousin Weds Another

CHICAGO, April 19.—Miss Marian Dawes, cousin of Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, and daughter of W. R. Dawes, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, was jilted by her fiance, Gordon Butler Bilderbach, today.

Bilderbach, prominent automobile dealer of Champaign, Ill., eloped with Miss Gertrude Sergeant, piquant instructor of public speaking at the University of Illinois. They were married by Judge Roy C. Freeman at the county courthouse in the university town.

Society here, where Miss Dawes is one of the most popular of the younger social set, was severely shocked. The announcement of the marriage was as severe a blow as when Mary Landon Baker left Allister McCormick at the church.

Announcements of the wedding of Miss Dawes and Bilderbach already had been sent out. The wedding was to have taken place at Christ church, Winnetka, on Saturday, April 30.

REGENTS DODGE ATHLETIC ROW

Confirmation of New U. T. Coaches Delayed

AUSTIN, April 19. (AP)—No definite intimation was available tonight regarding a possible successor for W. M. W. Splawn, who resigned last night as president of the University of Texas, with some criticism of the political system governing appointments and resignations of the university regents and its bearing on the president's tenure of office.

Order Probe.

The board of regents, which accepted Splawn's resignation today decided to pass over the scheduled confirmation of Clyde Littlefield as football coach and George Keegan of Notre Dame as basketball coach, pending outcome of an investigation of the university athletic "situation."

A committee of three headed by R. L. Holliday of El Paso was authorized to investigate athletic affairs and report back to the June regent meeting.

Dr. Splawn today denied intimations that his resignation may have been inspired partly by squabbles over the athletic administration of Director L. T. Bellmont, which precipitated disagreement at the regents meeting.

Howard Protests.

Ed Howard, Wichita Falls member of the board, declared he opposed "examining university professors like criminals," after the regents had called several faculty members and students to "testify" as to circumstances in Bellmont's administration preceding the athletic council's failure to reappoint E. J. Stewart as football coach.

Various factors surrounding the coaching situation entered into reported complaints lodged against Bellmont before the board of regents by a minority faction seeking his resignation.

With his resignation last night Dr. Splawn said he favored teaching and research work more than a university presidency so closely subject to political fluctuations of regency membership. He pointed out that some regents who are appointed for six-year terms invariably resign with the change of gubernatorial administration and that the frequently changing personnel detracts from stability of the university president's tenure.

JIM FERGUSON SEES CHANCE FOR AL SMITH

Depends On His Fight On Prohibition, Says Former Governor

"M'ADOO HOPELESS"

Dry Candidate Would Blight Democratic Party's Possibilities

AUSTIN, April 19. (AP)—If Governor Al Smith "defies the prohibition fanatics with the same fearlessness that he has defied the church fanatics," his chances for the presidency will be greatly increased, as James E. Ferguson, former governor of Texas sees it.

Commends Stand.

In a statement tonight Ferguson warmly commended Smith's announced stand of freedom from church influence in politics and declared the democratic party's "one chance of success" in the next national election is to declare emphatically "against national and state prohibition and nominate a candidate bold and able enough," to back it up.

"If the democrats," Ferguson said, "permits this witch burning prohibiton crowd to write the platform and nominate some candidate of the McAdoo type, then, we had just as well save our time and money and let Mr. Coolidge have the presidency without further anxiety and expense.

"If the democratic candidate undertakes to temporize or sidestep the prohibition question, we are doomed to defeat before we start.

"But if we demand a change in the Volstead act through a straight platform declaration and a brave candidate, we may win. Through such a course, we carry New York and Massachusetts, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, California and the solid south, all statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

"Gumshoeing" Hurts.

"On the other hand, if we gumshoe like we have done in last three campaigns the majority against the democratic party will get bigger and bigger."

Attacking prohibition, Ferguson said among other things that it "makes a nation of hypocrites and political cowards.

"Will Al Smith of New York lead the way or will it be Senator Reed of Missouri?" he asked.

Smith's disclaimer of sectarian influence in political affairs was seen by Ferguson as a "display of great courage and ability."

Defeat Church Control.

"The security of American liberty," Ferguson said, "lies in the complete defeat of any religious sect which enters into politics to control the government whether it be Catholics, Jews, Baptists, Methodists or any other church organization.

"If the American people permit either one of them to control the government in the name of the cause, they would burn all the others at the stake.

"It cannot be denied that the Catholics are just as much in politics as the Baptists or the Methodists. What the people must beware of is not to let either one of them control."

Letter Misleading.

Referring to the Charles C. Marshall letter asking Smith whether his Catholic affiliations would not interfere with public duty, Ferguson said that "Marshall seems to think that because certain Catholics have expressed the idea that church should come before government that the whole Catholic church favors that idea.

"What a few Catholics might say in devotion to their religion," Ferguson said, "no more represents the church than what a few Methodists or Baptists might say on any given question."

He referred to the fact that even in Texas some Baptists are tolerant of the organic evolution theory and "are trying to bind the whole Baptist church in Texas to that theory."

TAKES OWN LIFE

Man Jumps Out Window When Knife and Dynamite Fail.

JOHNSTON, Pa., April 19. (AP)—A man who attempted suicide by knife and dynamite accomplished his purpose in a leap from the fourth floor of Memorial hospital here.

He was Mike Valentine, 38, of Ralphton, Pa., who leaped from the window last night when, it is thought, he learned that Ralphstone officials were to take him back to that place to answer for the stabbing of Alphonse Zandrie on April 10. Following that affray Valentine slashed his own throat and placed dynamite near a stove in his room so that hot ashes would fall upon the sticks.

Otis Rogers, Husband of Rebecca Bradley, Enters Tubercular Home

AUSTIN, April 19. (AP) A tubercual hospital tomorrow will admit Otis Rogers, young Amarillo attorney, five months after he left a sick bed in Amarillo to come to the defense of his young wife, Rebecca Bradley Rogers of Austin, who is charged with having robbed the Buda National bank and with arson.

Rogers was sent to the tubercular sanitarium at Kerrville tonight, accompanied by his wife to whom he was married here some two years ago, and by Dr. Joe Eckhart, his physician.

The young lawyer's condition was traced directly by physicians to his act in coming to Austin from Amarillo where he was ill, against the advice of his doctors.

While the husband waits in the Kerrville mountains, his 22-year-old wife although she is quoted as saying she will remain as Rogers' nurse, will be facing a possible prison term.

July 17, she is scheduled to go to trial in San Marcos on a charge of robbing, single handed and unmasked, the Buda National bank last December. May 2, she is to appear in Georgetown, Williamson county where an indictment charging her with setting fire to a vacant building in Round Rock a day or two before the bank robbery is scheduled to be called for setting.

President Has Praise For Commerce Secretary

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—The story of a rift between President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover was vetoed unconditionally today at the White House.

The president authorized the statement that he was so well satisfied with Mr. Hoover's administrative record in the commerce department and elsewhere that he rated him as well qualified for any position in the cabinet that he would be willing to accept.

To this was added a complete disavowal that any disparagement was intended by the recent White House pronouncement eliminating Mr. Hoover as a possible successor to Secretary Kellogg, should the latter give up his post at the state department. It was declared this observation had been entirely misinterpreted.

ACTOR DIES OF BEATING, POLICE CLAIM

Battle Follows Admission Of Man's Love For Wife Of Another

BRUTALITY DENIED

Actress and Husband Near Collapse After Tragedy

HOLLYWOOD, April 19. (AP)—Paul Kelley, stage and screen actor, held for investigation in connection with the death this morning of Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor, today told newspaper reporters he and Raymond had engaged in a fist fight after Kelley had admitted he was in love with Raymond's wife, Dorothy Mackaye, film actress.

Kelley denied he had administered a brutal beating which police believe caused the death of Raymond. He said he had "merely punched him several times" but that he had not kicked the actor, and "was very much surprised" that he died.

In Pictures.

A heated argument preceded the battle, according to Kelley's story, in the course of which Kelley told Raymond he was in love with the latter's wife, Dorothy Mackaye, Raymond demanded that the statement be retracted. This Kelly refused to do. The fight ensued, Kelly said, witnessed only by Raymond's four-year-old son.

Kelly, whose last film appearance was in the picture "The Poor Nut" was said to be in such a nervous condition he was able to say little.

Raymond was taken to the hospital about midnight in a state of coma, chief of detectives Herman Cline said he learned. The actor died early today without regaining consciousness. A death certificate assigning natural causes, was signed, and the body to undertaking rooms.

Woman Near Collapse.

Cline ordered its removal to the county morgue for an immediate autopsy. He said the body was covered with bruises and that he had been informed Raymond had been severely beaten while lying unconscious on the floor during the fight.

Miss Mackaye was reported in a state of nervous collapse and under the care of a physician. Kelly had recently appeared in support of Eddie Cantor in the film "Special Delivery" and also in the picture "Slide Kelly Slide."

Questioned by the police, Kelly admitted that Raymond was a smaller man than he and that Raymond told him he was tired out and did not want to fight.

Separation Discussed

"I told him that he wasn't tired out but just yellow clear through and that he was taking that means of avoiding the thrashing I intended giving him," Kelly declared.

Miss Mackaye also told the officers her friendship for Kelly was responsible for the fight between the two men.

She said that their friendship was "clean and noble" but admitted there had been more talk of marrying after separation from her husband, from whom she had decided to part.

She made her statement from her bed, having been under a physician's care for several days. She was in a state of coma most of the day.

Kids Together

"Paul and I were kids together," she said, "and we started out on the stage a long, long time ago. I knew him long before I did Ray.

"I hate to say now, after all this terrible thing has happened, but Ray wasn't very kind to me and hadn't been treating me very nicely. He was always accusing me of terrible things, like being too friendly with Paul and a lot of other people."

Raymond married Miss Mackaye seven years ago when they met while playing together in New York in "Blue Eyes."

BANKERS HOLD QUARTER MEET

Area Prosperous Despite Crude Cut

Old time "fiddlers," crashing out ancient tunes famous in frontier days, proved the feature event at the quarterly meeting of the Wichita County Bankers association Tuesday night. The banquet of the association at the Wichita club was followed by a business meeting in the directors' rooms of the City National bank. The association meets the third Tuesday in the last month of each quarter.

10 Banks Represented.

Pat H. Simmons, president, presided at the meeting, attended by representatives of 10 banks. The various sections of the McFadden bill were discussed by Reuben R. R. Cook, vice-president of the First National bank of Electra. J. C. Penrod, credit manager of the Continental Oil company of Texas, president of the local Wholesale Credit Men's association and director of the state association, spoke briefly on credits.

Wichita Falls and its territory is "faring very well" at present, despite reductions in the price of crude, Mr. Penrod said. Price reductions in oil have not been so severely felt because of the many resources of this area, he said.

During the banquet Joel MacGregor gave several Scotch songs accompanied by J. S. Pitman. Old time music was played by P. H. Leath, W. N. C. Pharis and Mr. Elliot.

Bankers who attended were Pat H. Simmons, C. C. Cabiness, J. L. Randel, C. J. Norton, I. W. Kirkpatrick, R. E. Basham, W. E. McCutcheon, W. S. Abbott, C. E. Basham, Lester Jones, Oral Jones, M. A. Ellis and J. C. Penrod of Wichita Falls; W. D. Utts, R. E. Smith, R. E. Fisher, G. R. Kincaid, A. R. Hill and G. M. Felty of Burkburnett; T. T. Weatherall, Reuben R. R. Cook and C. H. McGann of Electra; Carroll Duke and J. F. Boyd of Iowa Park.

ants who penetrated the damaged area of the large towns from 25 to 75 miles away.

Many of the injured were taken to Jacksonville and other nearby towns. Early reports indicated that the damage would be more than $1,000,000.

Doctors were sent into the stricken area from nearby towns.

One of the school buildings hit was at Centerville, three miles southwest of Carrollton, where Miss Annie Keller, the teacher, was killed. Three pupils also are reported dead and half a dozen or more injured. Two other school children were killed at Chestnut in Logan county when a school building was wrecked.

16 MORE DEATHS IN MIDDLE WEST

KANSAS CITY, April 19. (AP)—Sixteen more deaths were added to the heavy toll of floods, tornadoes and freak storms which have swept the southwest in the last two weeks, as the elements renewed their onslaught in western Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas.

Rivers in southwestern Kansas, fed by rains of cloudburst proportions, tonight neared record heights with hundreds of families in the lowlands driven from or leaving their homes and thousands of acres inundated.

The Verdigris, Neosho, Fall, Cottonwood, Walnut and Arkansas rivers in Kansas were spreading over the lowlands and pouring their waters into Oklahoma.

ONE DEAD, NINE HURT NEAR SAN ANTONIO

SAN ANTONIO, April 19. (AP)—One was killed and nine were injured in two storms near San Antonio late yesterday. Noperta Bueno, 22, was killed in a storm which struck between Moore and Big Foot in Frio county. Young Bueno's mother was seriously injured and the father and three younger children were injured.

H. C. Young, his wife and Joe Cavanda, a visitor were injured in the same storm and a Mexican goat herder was hurt in a storm in Kerr county. Another storm in Gillespie county made a path almost 40 miles long without injuring any humans so far as is known, although several houses were blown down.

SECOND WOMAN DIES IN CENTRAL TEXAS

AUSTIN, April 19 (AP)—The death of a Mrs. Smith at her home near Granger today made the second life lost in a tornado which whipped about in six Central Texas counties Monday night.

Mrs. Mamie McCutcheon, 80, who lived at the residence of Foy Con, four miles west of Granger, was instantly killed when a lash of the tornado completely demolished the house. Mrs. Smith, a sister to Mrs. McCutcheon, was fatally injured in the same crash.

Mrs. Con, and her mother, whose name was not learned, were injured but are expected to recover.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS IN MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19. (AP) Valiant, but now defenseless communities in the Mississippi valley north of here and in Arkansas to the west today saw another of their bulwarks crumble and many additional square miles of bottom lands laid open to the flood.

The St. John's Bayou levee, eight miles north of New Madrid, Mo., followed the medley levee in succumbing to the eddies of the current and tonight the yellow waters swept onward down an area 100 miles long and many miles wide to Helena, Ark., adding hundreds of persons to the long list of homeless.

Southeast Missouri, already prostrate before the flood, faced additional loss, as did unhappy Arkansas, whose three major streams, the Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers already have broken out of bounds in several places, putting much of its farm land under water.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 19. The levee on the White river at Clarendon has gone out, according to dispatches received here by the Missouri Pacific company. Wires are all out into Clarendon and attempts to verify the report failed. Will W. Allen, former night captain and for 16 years a peace officer in Wichita Falls, was appointed police inspector Wednesday by Police Chief Frank Burns. Mr. Allen's duties will comprise the obtaining and recording of evidence in all cases transferred to other courts, Chief Burns stated.

Mr. Allen was the first regular night patrolman employed by the city of Wichita Falls, entering the city's service during the administration of former Mayor T. B. Noble.

Roland M. Hurst will enter his duties as desk sergeant and clerk of the city court Wednesday morning, succeeding C. B. McConnell, resigned.

Although the number of men on the police department is smaller than when Chief Burns was appointed, he stated that no new appointments are likely to be made for several days at least.

LIBEL SUIT HALTED

Ford's Attorneys Hurl Charges At Sapiro's Men

DETROIT, Mich., April 19. (AP)—Chaos took possession of Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford today and shrouded its status after next Thursday in extreme uncertainty.

Court was adjourned until then upon the plea of counsel for the automobile manufacturer that their leader, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri would be unable to appear before that time because of illness and with the request was coupled the formal serving of notice that the alleged official misconduct of a woman juror would be the ground for a motion for a mistrial. Sapiro's chief of counsel, William Henry Gallagher, countered with assertions that Ford detectives had meddled with the jurors.

JURY BACK SOON

Facts in the case of Ben F. Everett, alias Ben F. Cox, alleged to have been the highwayman who robbed men and assaulted women over a year ago on roads near Wichita Falls will be placed before the grand jury when it convenes Thursday, Ben Allred, district attorney, said Tuesday.

Everett was identified Monday in Duncan, Okla., where he is held on robbery and assault charges, by three Wichita Falls men, who had been his alleged victims. The men were taken to Duncan by Mr. Allred.

It is unlikely that Everett will ever be brought to trial in Texas, even if indicted by the grand jury because of the fact, Mr. Allred said, that the Oklahoma officers believe they have a strong case against Everett and it is possible he will receive the extreme penalty if convicted.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women and particualrly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tables, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but best of all, it never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Woman's Forum held at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday morning it was voted to take $1500 from the general forum fund to be used in furnishing the club house, and $500 to be added to the building fund from the forum treasury.

A recommendation made by the board of directors of the forum to raise the initiation fee from $3 to $10 was adopted and other business affecting policies and activities of the forum was discussed.

The new rate for initiation fees will become effective Oct. 1, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal. There will be no increase in the annual forum dues, and the initiation fee is is paid by a forum member only once, at the time of joining the organization. The $10 fee will always be applied to the building fund of the club house, it was announced.

The forum is extending to every woman in the city, who is endorsed by two members, the opportunity to join under the $3 fee ruling, before the new rate becomes effective. Blanks have been mailed to all forum members for the nomination of new members, and it is hoped that all women expecting to join the organization will do so before next fall.

Delegates from the various city clubs have reports regarding the decision of other clubs as to the use of the new club house, and the Travel, Junior, Standard, Unity and Coterie clubs voted to furnish rooms in the building. The rooms will bear the names of the clubs furnishing them.

Announcements were also made of the annual forum breakfast to be held May 3, and the Flat-Iron luncheon April 26 at the Kemp hotel, the closing event of the music and dramatic departments.

MODISH MITZI

The Goofer Serves Her Purpose

By JAY V. JAY

In France?
In Italy?
Jay V Jay

"Yes, do come," answers Mitzi, "I want to see you so much." Which leaves the Goofer hopeful, not to say flurried. He might have lost his head entirely if he had seen Mitzi in her draped satin dress with the jabot collar. The skull cap fits tightly and sleekly over the head.

The Goofer is about to tell Mitzi how perfectly stunning she looks in this evening dress. Where should he begin—at the foundation of metal cloth and the side flares of tulle? Should he admire the shoulder flowers extending down the back? "Do you know anyone in France?" asks Mitzi eagerly before he has had time to so much as "oh" or "ah."

Yes, he has hosts of friends in France. And in Italy? Why all the chaps he knew at the club are living in Italy. This conversation does not prevent Mitzi from wrapping around her a collarless metal wrap with the full folds of a cape effect. "Isn't that fine!" she exclaims. "I knew you could be depended upon."

"You see," says Mitzi, "I'm going abroad with some friends of Dad's—I'd like to meet some people more my own age over there." Now he'll just have to write 'em that Mitzi is coming over—poor, poor Goofer. Little did he guess the reason Mitzi wanted to see him. Oh, the irony of fate!

Tomorrow—Luggage.

Woman Usually What Husband Makes Her, Says Dorothy Dix

It's Pretty Discouraging to Work All Day Over Special Preparations for a Birthday Dinner Just To Have it Received With a Disgutsed Grunt—A Woman Is Usually What Her Husband Makes Her.

Men often wonder why their wives get peevish and why they do not make the same effort to make themselves attractive and agreeable after marriage as they did before marriage. Perhaps this little conversation that I recently overheard may throw a little light on the subject.

"When I got married," said one woman, "I was very romantically in love with my husband, and on his birthday, which happened to fall on a particularly hot August day, I worked for hours in a steaming kitchen making him a large and ornate cake. Then I sat down and wrote him a love letter in which I poured out my whole soul to him and told him how I adored him and how happy I was and how I blessed Heaven for bestowing him as a husband upon me.

"I made the dinner table very festive with candles and flowers, and when I brought on the cake with the billet doux on top of it I waited with my heart in my mouth for my husband's exclamation of joy and surprise and for his kiss that would have in it all that he felt for me and that our marriage meant to him.

"But nothing happened. Instead he pushed his chair from the table and said:

"Gosh, but it's too hot to eat a gooey cake tonight!' Then he glanced casually at the beginning of my love letter and remarking, 'Why the gush note?' stuffed it in his pocket without even reading it. So far as I know, he never read it, for he never mentioned it to me again.

"I can laugh at the little fiasco now, but I shed a barrel of tears over it that night. And it was the last time I ever made a burnt offering of myself on the kitchen stove making a birthday cake for my husband and I have never tried since to tell him how much I cared for him."

"Oh, I guess most of us go through the same painful experience when we are cutting our wisdom teeth on matrimony," said another woman. "When I was first married I used to work myself nearly to death trying to keep my husband fascinated. I would doll myself up within an inch of my life in my prettiest frocks and I would buy the colors I thought he admired and I would spend hours grubbing over stock reports so that I could discuss intelligently with him the subjects he was interested in.

"And after a while I found out that when I would ask him how he liked my new dress or hat he would look at it vaguely and say: "Is that another one? What is the matter with the one you have been wearing?' And then I would realize that he hadn't looked at me enough to notice whether I had on a rag or a Paris perfection.

"And when I would hand him out a line of what I supposed was my spell-binder conversation he would just grunt by way of reply, and I would know he wasn't listening to a single word I said.

"So I gave up trying to look like a living picture and keeping him vamped and now I dress to please myself and have developed the evening-paper-and-the-six-best-seller habit myself, and we sit up an evening in the usualy family silence that is so thick you could cut it with a knife."

"I married a poor and ambitious young man," said the third woman, "and determined to be a real helpmate to him. So did all of my housework and kept his books for him at night and squeezed every nickel until got six cents out of it and went shabby and did without everything on earth I wanted, until finally I helped shove my husband over on easy street.

"But did he ever say 'thank you' to me? Or appreciate the sacrifices I made for him? Not much. All I did was to implant the idea in his mind that I was an abnormal woman who liked to work until she made her hands stiff and who didn't care for fine clothes and jewelry and the pretty things that other women love, and now when I spend money for the luxuries we can well afford he thinks I have gone crazy with extravagance."

And there you are gentlemen. Is it any wonder that wives get peeved with their husbands who never try to play up to them in their emotional moments? With husbands who never try to understand them? With husbands who never show any tact in declining with them?

The marvel to me always is that so many women have the courage and the persistence to carry on in the face of the discouragement that they daily have, that they keep on loving men who are just as cold and unresponsive as a graven image would be and who turn the back of their ears instead of their lips for a kiss; that they keep on baking cakes for men who knock them when they are heavy and gobble them down without a word of praise when they are light as a feather; that they keep on trying to make home pleasant for grouches who never give them a pleasant word.

In his heart every mant wants his wife to be sentimental about him. He wants her to adore him. Yet when she shows him some little romantic tenderness he will wet-blanket it by his indifference, and he will even kill her love by his neglect.

Evry man feels that it is his wife's duty to make herself attractive to him and to be thrifty and economical and make him a comfortable home, but what encouragement is there for a woman to make any effort to please a man who never rewards her with a word of prais or by even showing that he thinks that she has turned ou a saisfacory job?

Niney-nine times out of a hundred a woman tries to live up to her husband's ideal of her. She is what he makes her. She will love him so long as he will let her love him and so long as he responds to her affection. So long as her husband pays her compliments she will keep herself looking attractive and she will work her fingers to the bone to help the husband who regards her as a partner instead of a servant.

So, gentlemen, if your wives please you, look for the fault in yourselves.

DOROTHY DIX.

The program for the afternoon included the presentation of two one-act plays, "Where—But in America?" a satire on American family life, by Oscar M. Wolff, and "Columbine," a fantasy, by C. C. Clement. The story of the first play centers around the servant question in American homes, and many comical situations were developed in the presentation. Characters were taken by Miss Ella Merle Mathis, Mrs. Bruce Dickson Ruffner and Baldwin Montgomery. The play was directed by Mrs. Ruffner.

Mrs. Nydia J. Young directed the second play, in which the views on what kind of man makes the best husband were given by two girls, one of the flapper type and the other a home girl. Mrs. J. Truman Stevens and Miss Minnie Lucile Ballard took the parts. Both performances proved exceedingly entertaining. The entire program was directed by Mrs. J. T. Just looks like we're never going to lose one. Can't very well do it this afternoon. Why? Because the great Fussell is billed for box duty!

The Texas league's most effective portsider can't be expected to succumb to a Shreveport advance or any other such club down the ladder like Dugan's boys. Especially not when you figure how tough he makes it for such a club as Dallas was last year, etc. etc. etc.

PLAYBOY PETE.

Pete Lapan says somebody or other, was the whole show in Shreveport's opening day parade. The dapper Spud hindketch dressed up in a large false nose that caused many chirps along line of march such as, "Well, well, didn't know Jake Atz was in town," and with a dollar cigar hooked in one corner of his mouth strutted his dog as the parade's center of attraction. Williams was worried almost goofy for fear the oversize cheroot would make Pete sick and he couldn't catch the game that afternoon, but Lapan came away unharmed.

* * *

WELL, WHAT OF IT?

Now, they're talking about matching up Dutch Mantell with Jack Reynolds and Yaqui Joe with Jack German when the wrestle shows go outdoors May 3. Dutch, no doubt, would be quite willing, but Reynolds—

Well, there isn't any telling right now. Jack, it will be recalled, tangled with Dutch in Amarillo last year and ran out of the ring. Reynolds apparently didn't like Dutch's rough stuff. However, Jack asserted he wasn't being given a square deal or something.

* * *

POP PIPES UP.

One nine's got 'em all talking. The astute Pop Boone over at Fort Worth broke into riotous effusion after that first walloping the Spudders handed the Cats Sunday. I haven't had a chance to see what Pop said when the gang came back Monday and murdered Jake's club, but the Sunday follow-up reads like this:

Well, we seen them Spudders, didn't we! Sure do lam that ball, eh what! But we held 'em. They been makin' nine and twelve and sixteen tallies every day and they couldn't get but seven offen us. Of course, only six innin's was played and chances is they'd made some more—but we didn't KNOW they would, do we!

* * *

Yes, sir; them babbies grit their teeth and haul the old wagon tongue back half way to the grand stand and let fly with all the powder in their keg. Explosions is bound to occur when this happens.

* * *

Of course, things is goin' pretty good for 'em. They got some new men that maybe the ketchers don't know how to pitch to and the pitchers ain't got the old control down yet to where they can get the ball in there where they want it with anything hanging to it. Hubbell was wild yesterday, not only in that all his trouble started with walks but in that he couldn't keep the ball in the prescribed limits of a strike when he cut it loose.

* * *

Carl Williams has got his ball club hustling fine; they look like a pretty good ball club right now. Swenson seems to be a better than average third baseman and Johnny Mann is a nice-looking shortstop.

Naturally, Spudder fans are most enthusiastic. If we had the ball club they got we'd be ditto. If we had any one of two or three of their hitters going now like they are, we'd be joyous not to say gleeful.

But Spudder fans might wait a while before they put up the flag pole.

I've seen a lot of 'em look like that in the spring. Santone has got away to seven straight wins or thereabouts two or three times. But breaks quit 'em or their pitchin' fails or the opposition pitchers get to going a little better, or something happens to slow 'em up and when they start slippin' they ain't got the pitchin' to put the brakes on with.

The Spudders may have the pitchin'. They don't know and we don't know. Only time will tell that. So far they've had only average pitchin', maybe not that good. But they have the makin's.

* * *

DO YOU KNOW WILL?

Will Tucker was in town yesterday. Austin sports writer introduces him in this manner:

Will Tucker is the new game commissioner.

This means that the nimrods, the fellows who are really affected by the commission, have one of their kind at the head of hunting affairs. For Will Tucker is a great hunter, himself. His specialty is ducks, though he goes in for quail shooting at times. He also caters to the rod and reel.

In the event one of you two readers are not acquainted with Tucker, we will attempt to introduce him. In the first place he is the son of the Tucker who used to be the champion trap-shooter of these parts, some 15 to 25 years ago. The old man strung up some records in those days that are still standing.

In the next place, Will Tucker is the publisher of a daily newspaper up at Longview, and being as the publisher of a newspaper doesn't have to work like the fellows who actually publish the newspaper do, he has lots of time to hunt and fish.

Then, last but not least, like being the husband of Mrs. Will Tucker, and the son of old man Tucker, etc., he is the brother of Jinx Tucker, the ugliest human on earth, who writes sports for a Waco newspaper. However, it is very probable that Will doesn't lay much importance on this claim to such relationship with the ugly boy. But it seems an iron-clad rule that all great men must have their homely relatives. Will Tucker has his.

Spudders Drop Phelan's In Home Inaugural, 10-7

Lamb, Fitzgerald, LaFayette, Mann, Lapan Bludgeon Three Shreveport Pitchers From Knob; Payne Goes Route

Wichita Falls' ambitious Spudders coasted through to a 10-7 victory over Shreveport Tuesday afternoon in the Texas league inaugural at Spudder park before the largest gathering of sports fans ever registered in this city. More than 8700 baseball enthusiasts clicked the Spudder turnstiles and saw Carl Williams' warriors wham Art Phelan's men for their fourth straight win over the Louisiana entry and their sixth consecutive victory, maintaining a 1000 per cent standing at the top of the Texas league numerical ladder.

It was a terrific driving attack the Spudders fiercely unleashed on the Sports in the fourth and fifth frames after the visiting aggregation had forged three runs to the front that won the game. Tearing into Dugan Phelan's team in a mighty comeback effort the Spudders swept three Sport pitchers from the mound and made matters exceeding unpleasant for a fourth.

Wichita Falls, confronted by a three-run lead in the fourth, knocked Grady Adkins from the hurling eminence and tied the count. Then they swarmed over Clarke and Rainey in the fifth for six more runs, giving George Payne, the Spudder pitcher, such an advantage that he breezed on to victory without extending himself.

Payne went the route for Wichita Falls, winning his second game of the brief season's drive. He captured the opener in Shreveport last week.

Battering Attack.

Not the least in that smashing Spudder advance were the boisterous bludgeons of Howard Fitzgerald and Lyman Lamb, both of whom have been piling the pill at a mean pace. Each figured heavily in the scoring and each combed three base hits from enemy deliveries. The war clubs of George LaFayette, Johnny Mann, Pete Lapan and George Payne himself were not silent by any means. Each one of these stalwart athletes pelted the invading detachment for two safety slams, base blows that reverberated through the densely packed park similar to staccato barks of a machine gun squad rattling away in full force. Carl Williams' Spudders slashed out a total of 16 hits and continued to carry fear into Texas league hearts, fear of the free-swinger, fear of the heavy-hitting juggernaut machine the 1927 edition of Jabez Gardner's battalion has assumed proportions of.

Triple Play.

Defensive play was all that could be desired. There was little of the scintillant, and the barricade was not perfect, but it sufficed. A delayed triple play, so to speak, was knocked off in the ninth round at expense of the gamely fighting but sadly floundering Shreveporters. With the bases loaded, Mann came up on Taylor's drive to short and launched what apparently had been intended as a double killing. Turgeon took the toss to second, cutting down Harris who was charging in from first base. Then Turgeon whipped the sphere to LaFayette for a clean putout of Taylor. Meantime, Barnes, who had started from second for third, headed back to the bag, suddenly switched on a dead run and sprinted for the hot corner sack. LaFayette lined the ball across the diamond to Swenson who caught Barnes on the slide.

Score From Start

Harris opened for Shreveport with a mighty menace in the form of a two-base clout down first base way but he got cool-cocked at second before Taylor, next up, even took a swing. Payne uncorked a lightning throw to Mann that caught Harris off the bag flat-footed. The next two batsmen fizzled.

With two away, the Spudders moved a run to the fore during the last half of the first on a wicked single to right laced by Fitzgerald and a two-base larrup to left by Lamb. Kilduff muffed Jenkins' bounder and put Lambie on third, but Nason got under Turgeon's aviation to left, retiring the side.

Dumovich opened the second with a bingle to right and was advanced a base on sacrifice by Nason. Kilduff drew a pass and was forced by Woehrs, Dumovich going to third. Woehrs essayed to pilfer the keystone and Lapan uncorked a jungle heave into center field. Dumovich scored and Woehrs went on to third. Wilder rolled out to Turgeon.

Adkins blanked the Spudders in the second and third. Payne stood the Sports off in the third, also, but they nudged across for three runs in the fourth on a walk to Dumovich, a bingle by Nason and a home run over the left field fence lofted by Kilduff.

We Can't Be Bothered

The three-run advantage evidently spurred the Spudders, for they balanced accounts in the latter half of the fourth, scoring three and then ploughed over for six markers in the fifth.

Lamb beat a bounder to short as a starter in the Spud fourth. He was forced at second by Jenkins who gained a life by a hair at first on fielder's choice. Turgeon and Swenson waited Adkins out and were repaid with bases on balls. A wild pitch by Grady with Lapan at the plate, sent Jenkins scampering over for a tally. Pete then tagged up with a bristling rap to left that scored both Turgeon and Swenson. Payne expired at the pan and Kilduff made a great catch of LaFayette's Texas leaguer to left center. Should have gone for a base hit.

Cannons Open Up

Lapan's slam rang down the curtain for Adkins, but Clarke, relieving flinger, did no better than struggle through the inning. War broke loose in the next round and Phelan had to call out more reserves. Mann and Fitzgerald started the racket with one-basers. Lamb advanced 'em each a notch with a sacrifice bunt and Jenkins returned to form with a clean-up poke to left for two bases. He went to third on the throw-in. That was only part of it. Turgeon pulled a pass out of Clarke, was forced by Swenson. Jenkins scoring on the play. Lapan tagged up again with another base bruise, sending Swenson to third. Payne shoved a single to right, scoring Swenson and sending Lapan to third. Blows by LaFayette, Mann and Fitzgerald, the latter two getting their second knocks of the inning this time off Rainey who went to the knob after Payne's smash, wound up the run-snagging foray. The Spudders had acquired a six-run advantage.

Ogden fell heir to the chunking chores in the sixth and though threatened seriously in each inning thereafter, came away with the plate spiked no further.

Payne eased down a bit and the Sports paired bumps in the seventh for a run. Harris and Taylor on the biffing end, and nudged over for a brace in the ninth.

Sideline Notes On Big Game

The usual opening day parade preceded the game, only bigger than ever, led by, or rather bossed by Lloyd Weaver, Spud vice-prexy. Lots of ballyhoo downtown and lots of loud music from brass bands. The Optimist club made itself quite prominent in funny colored straw hats. Same crowd led by Joel MacGregor sang battle hymns and whatnot at the ball park. Lions club boys was on hand. Optimists, incidentally, plan staging a large baseball banquet Wednesday night at the Wichita club. Both ball clubs will be guests. Fandom is invited.

The grandstands were packed and an overflow started washing along the left and right field foul lines long before the battle began. Mayor R. E. Shepherd, as per schedule, endeavored to toss the opening ball across the plate. Police Commissioner Roy Carter, the batter, missed. So did Fire Chief J. H. McClure, the "catcher."

Shep pulled some heavy presentation spiel and gave Pete Turgeon a big bouquet of flowers, rigged up by the First National bank. Pete, you know, is a banker in the winter time. Then gave Frank Tobin, who is a plumber, a fine catcher's mitt presented by the plumbers' and steam fitters' local 389; T. J. Coats, plumbers' committee of one, gave the mayor the glove for presentation. Shep followed by handing Pilot Carl Williams a handsome silver service set, given by admiring baseball fans. A second wad of berengaries or something was presented to Club President Gardner, only he hid out about that time, and the Spudders as a whole, the club doing the official receiving.

Umps Daley and Kane breezed out in white flannel trousers all set for a tennis match or a lawn party, but the crowd was exceptionally good-natured and never razzed 'em a chirp. Can't blame the arbiters, anyhow. Doak Roberts himself was on deck to see that they wore 'em. That's going to be a Texas league custom, says Doak, white pants on holidays and Sundays. Ain't we up town, though?

Doak sat in a box and grinned at the hugh gathering while O. L. Beidenharn, Shreveport club prexy, and Business Manager T. S. Hickman reclined beside him scowling for all the world like they would be well-pleased to chew somebody's ear off. Apparently in an ugly mood over the way the Spuds wer walloping the Sports for the fourth straight over Dugan's men.

George Payne uncorked the first home pitch of the season. It was a ball served to Harris.

Harris a moment later connected for the first base hit of the season, a double dashed down the right field foul line. But he was snagged off second a few minutes afterward when Payne sneaked a throw to Johnny Mann.

Fitzgerald drove out the first Spudder base hit of the home season, hooked the slow portion of Adkin's change of pace for a sharp single to right in the first frame.

LaFayette and Payne nicked the bugs for a reverse thrill in the third when it looked like Adkins was going to beat out a slow roller to first. Snappy fielding by LaFayette and a surprising burst of speed and recovery by Payne who charged over and topped the bag, nipped Adkins by a hair. It was a pretty piece of co-operation. Not many pitchers team as well with their first sackers.

George Distel, Sport short and former Spudder, got a glad hand on his first appearance at the plate. Nice boy, George is.

Wichita Falls fans displayed their sportsmanship in the third when they hand-clapped Kilduff as he crossed the plate after knocking a home run that put the Sports temporarily three runs in the lead. The advantage was fragile and unenduring, however, for our nine knotted her up before the inning was over.

BOSTON, April 19. (AP)—The Braves did their best to celebrate patriots' day, Boston's own holiday by trouncing the Giants by scores of 9 to 5 in the morning contest and 5 to 4 in the afternoon game. Feed is scheduled to start at 7:15, according to Will Gray, Solon Featherston or somebody or other. So many enthusiastic Optimists pulling for the Spudders, a fellow never knows just who told him what about the gang because they're all telling something all the time about how good our nine is.

Baseball fans are invited to attend. It's slated to be a gala event.

Houston Wins In Tenth From Bears

HOUSTON, April 19. (AP)—"Pepper" Martin was much too hot Tuesday for the San Antonio Bears and the Buffs won a ball game filled with thrills 6-5, in 10 innings. Martin's single in the tenth scored Watkins from second, and broke up probably as exciting a ball game as will be played in the Texas league this season.

Watkins was running for Hack Miller who had doubled down the first base line with two men down. Miller crossed up Phipps, the Bear right fielder by taking second on the hit and as it turned out, Hack's daring base running won the contest.

MONTANA PUTS LEAHMAN OUT

Kick to Chin Breaks Jaw For Detroiter

Bull Montana, the "screen idol," gave Wichita Falls mat fandom a look-see at his homely mug a la natural Tuesday night at the Palace.

The Bull blew in and bulled Charley Leahman, the Detroit middle-weight down for a victory, two falls in three, and the loss of several molars.

For with the match at a stand-off, one fall each, Montana pulled an aesthetic pose on his shoulders, "sucked" Leahman in and booted him under the chin. The hoof clout sent Charley down for the count with a broken jaw bone. They had wrestled nine minutes on the return.

Leahman grabbed first honors in 15 minutes with a leg split and toe hold after the boys had roughed it merrily most of the way and intimidated a polite and quite gentlemanly referee. Montana got mad or something on the comeback and slapped Leahman for a gool with a headlock attack that scored a fall in three minutes milling.

Tim Healey, advertised as antagonist for Basanta Singh, the Hindu, failed to show. Bert Willoughby of Dallas substituted. Singh copped the first fall in 11 minutes with a series of headlocks. Willoughby grabbed the second in 10 minutes with a crab hold. The Hindu scored the decider in 15 minutes with a reverse leg drop that brought a knee into the stomach and tabbed a knockout.

TEXAS OIL AND GAS INDUSTRY

SPEAKING of the Texas oil and gas industry the 35th annual report of the state railway commission for the year ending December 31, 1926, contains a vast deal of valuable information. Included in the commission's activities, in addition to its duties with respect to railroad, express and motor truck transportation, it is charged with the administration of the common carrier pipeline law, the oil and gas conservation law and the gas utilities law.

Of these three additional duties, according to the report, by far the largest is that of the conservation of oil and gas resources of Texas. Seventy-six of the 252 counties in Texas are now producing oil and gas. Drilling operations are being carried on in 206 counties. Every well drilled in Texas, either for oil or gas, is drilled under the supervision of the commission, and it is said to be impossible to estimate the value of the constructive work done by this department since the law was enacted in 1919.

The report shows during the year 1926 there were 12,865 notices to drill wells filed in the office of the commission. At the close of the year there were approximately 26,000 wells oil wells producing oil in Texas, and that the average daily production, while fluctuating from time to time runs close to 650,000 barrels per day. There are approximately 9470 miles of trunk pipeline and 6060 miles of gathering pipeline, a total of 15,530 miles of pipeline in the state for the transportation of crude oil.

These are made common carriers by law and their rates and rules and regulations in the transportation of oil for the public are under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission. Again the report shows that production, transportation and sale of natural gas is under the jurisdiction of the gas utilities division of the commission. It involves the dealing with the tremendous gas resources of Texas, which likewise are varied, almost as that of the production of oil and which likewise must be transported long distances by pipelines.

According to the report the potential production of natural gas in Texas from wells already drilled approximates 5,000,000,000 cubic feet per day and the actual consumption of gas in Texas, as disclosed by the reports of the gas compaines to the railroad commission, averages more than 200,000,000 cubic feet per day. This report covers the oil and gas activities for the year 1926.

Since its submission to the legislature many new fields have been brought in and despite the cuts in the price of crude oil there is an army of wildcatters in the new fields and the production of oil and gas promises to be very heavy this year. Now the motor trucks of Texas as well as the passenger busses have been taken over by the commission. One of the important laws enacted by the 40th legislature was the Beck measure, placing the motor lines of Texas, truck and passenger, in the jurisdiction of the commission. This in itself is an imporant industry and no doubt the legislation enacted was one of the reasons why the lawmakers of the state fixed the salary of the commissioners at $6000 a year.

James Stephen Hogg, John H. Reagan and Alexander W. Terrell were responsible for the creation of the state railway commission. This at a salary of $4000 per year. This was before the coming of the billion-dollar oil and gas industry and regulation of freight and passenger rates were the paramount issues in Texas and other American commonwealths. It was before the auto age and the building of highways that made it possible for bus transporation lines to carry passengers from the Gulf coast of Mexico to the Pacific coast.

MOHAIR FOR NEW ENGLAND MILLS

A MILLION pounds of mohair, requiring 25 freight cars to move it, was started from Kerrville to Boston just the other day. This shipment constitutes the entire clip of one big company. It was sold at prices ranging from 52 to 64 cents a pound for yearling hair.

All Texas mohair goes to Boston. All Texas wool goes to Boston. There isn't a woolen mill in Texas. There isn't a mohair mill in Texas. It was a long haul for the railroads to Boston. After the wool and the mohair have been turned into the finished products there will be another long haul from Boston back to the southwest where the textile goods will be sold to the producers of wool and mohair and millions of people in the southwest who are not producers of the products.

All the hides are shipped to the north and east. All the tanneries are in the north and the east. There are millions of people in the southwest who must be show. New England shoe manufacturers are the men who do the shoeing at fancy prices for their finished product.

There must be money in manufacturing, or else New England would not be the richest section per capita of "these United States."

LENROOT HITS THE PROFESSORS

ACCORDING to the Detroit Free Press, former Senator Irving L. Lenroot of Wisconsin speaks well within the facts when he says that the "ill advised propaganda of a small group of Americans, most of them college professors, for debt cencellation, is one of the greatest obstacles to a speedy resumption of a friendship with Europe."

European governments borrowed $11,000,000,000 from the government of the United States. Of course the people are the government and the war bonds issued and sold must be paid by the American people if the war loans are cancelled. Since the signing of the armistice American banks and bankers have loaned $11,000,000,000 to European governments or individuals.

Are college professors ready for the cancellation of the private loans as well as the war loans? If it is a good thing why not go all the way?

STANDING OF THE COLLEGES

NEW ENGLAND college students are the most radical in their religious belief, and those in the south show the conservatism of the south in religious matters.

Rev. Charles Stelle made the survey. His conclusion was based on the study of the religious belief of 36,000 students in 100 widely distributed American colleges and universities with a total enrollment of 76,000. And yet pessimists say that the Chrisian religion is losing its hold upon the students of America.

A STORY OF MYSTERY, SUSPENSE AND LOVE

THE SOB-SISTER

By CLIFFORD WEBB AND ROSE ELO

ILLUSTRATED BY R.J. SCOTT

©JOHNSON FEATURES, INC. 1927

"You Are the Finest Little Woman in the World."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

DIANA BROOKS, beautiful daughter of ROGER BROOKS, owner and publisher of the Catawba City Times and a chain of nine other newspapers, had been kidnaped and then released. Her father is engaged in a persistent fight against the corrupt administration of Catawba City, and through the medium of the Times redoubles his scatching attacks on politicians and the underworld.

Brooks himself is kidnaped, but in five days released. On his return he finds that his newspaper stock is being manipulated and suspects JOHN W. WALDEN, who he determines to fight.

Brooks' closest friend is young DONALD KEENE, his literary editor and the guardian of TEDDY FARRELL, reporter and SOB SISTER. Teddy is in love with Don. He believes himself in love with LOLA MANTELL, Diana's cousin.

Teddy is beginning to suspect that Don and Diana love each other without either of them realizing it.

Don takes Lola for a ride into the hills outside Catawba City. The car is wrecked and Lola escapes with a slight injury, but Don's legs are badly bruised. They secure refuge in a log cabin. The owner of the log cabin goes for the nearest doctor. Lola and Don wait in the cabin all night. NOW READ ON.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

"I am sure in one devil of a predicament," Don ruminated, feeling a strong desire to swear at the pain his legs were giving him, coupled with the anxiety his remorse had stirred up over this third experience.

He was in a position now where he owed allegiance to three—Teddy, Diana and Lola. He had always loved Teddy, he knew. Was it just as a sister? Or—

His mind leaped back and forth between the three girls. Diana had saved his life. In return he had nearly compromised her name. And yet when he chivalrously offered to protect her by marriage she had scornfully refused him.

One thing to him was certain. Despite the fact that Teddy had declined his offer to marry her he felt sure that she loved him. He dwelt often on that night of horror in the sub-cellar, when Teddy, believing him unconscious, had cried out her confession: "Oh, God, do not let him die!" The girl's words had rung in Don's ears many times since. "I love him so—I can not live without him!" And she had covered his face with kisses.

Later, when he was convalescing, he had asked her to marry him. True, he had not asked her of the basis of love. He had not considered her in that light, so of course she had refused him. She did not want his pitying protection.

Don was startled from his reverie by seeing Lola rise suddenly and rush to the door. The woman and the boy with the doctor had finally arrived.

"I got to th' doctor's quick enough," the woman was explaining, "but he had gone away on a case and I had to wait. He was expected back, the said, any minute, and—"

"Ptomaine poisoning," interrupted the doctor brusquely. "It was a case of life and death. I couldn't leave the patient. Well," he added swiftly, turning to Don, "I'm here now. Let's see!"

"Um—the legs are not broken," he announced a minute later, "but they're pretty badly bruised. I believe, though, that we can take the young man back to town today. He'll be all right if we drive carefully. In a couple days he'll be in shape to run a race again."

"In spite of my best intentions I seem to tear down instead of build up," bemoaned Don on their way back. Lola was holding him to keep him from being jolted too much, although the doctor drove carefully.

"Hush, dear, don't worry about things now," she said gently.

"But damn, I might say I've hardly earned that car I've just wrecked and I didn't have any accident insurance on it. Of course it was bound to be wrecked just because I had it insured against theft," added Don with a wry smile.

"All that is done now. You are well, or nearly so. The rest doesn't matter."

There were tender cadences in Lola's voice. Don studied her steadily. Funny, she was more subdued, more softened than he had ever known her to be and still—he didn't exactly feel that same attraction to her that he once felt. He wondered why.

The doctor's voice from the front seat broke into his meditation. "I believe you said your name was Keene?" he asked, eyeing Don closely. "I've seen your picture often in the Times, if I'm not mistaken. That's Brooks' paper, isn't it?"

"Yes, doctor. Miss Mantell here is Mr. Brooks' niece," Don told him.

"Oh, yes," The physician acknowledged Lola with a complimentary nod and turned back to his patient. "Is there any truth," he said bluntly, "in the report that Roger Brooks is up against a crisis? I've heard rumors to that effect."

"Gossip is always embellished, exaggerated," replied Don, evasively. "He'l having a little trouble, but it takes more than a little trouble to down the old man, you know."

The doctor appeared skeptical. "That so? Hmm—the way it was told to me I had an idea Brooks was in pretty serious danger of losing control. But of course, you know more about it than I do," he concluded casually.

"He just had to stir up the bones of contention," whispered Lola to Don, glaring spitefully at the back of the physician's head.

Mrs. Keene had spent the hours since breakfast between calling up the Times and pacing before the front windows of her home. What could have happened to her boy? For although Donald was well in his thirty-sixth year, to his mother he was still very much of a boy.

She ran down the full length of the front walk to the car she had seen pulling up in front of the house. The doctor, a stranger to her, was alighting and opening the door of the tonneau. Then Mrs. Keene saw Lola emerge from the car.

"Don!" The mother's exclamation was at once an interrogation and a cry of apprehension.

Lola quickly reassured her. They must get Don to bed at once. He'd be well again in a day or so, at most.

"And now—you'll drive me back to my home?" she asked the physician sweetly after they had seen Don safely to bed.

"Delighted," the doctor said, revealing frankly his willingness to be vamped by the delectable Lola. "But you must sit up in front with me," he added.

"Absolutely, doctor," she breathed, bending the full electrical power of her black eyes on him. . . ."

"Completing the triple alliance," laughed Diana, when Iola had told her how and where she had spent the night. Lola joined in the laughter, recalling at the same time her own attitude in a similar situation. Diana was a "pretty good fellow," she told herself.

"Let's go down to the Times one of these days," she suggested, pushing her advantage. "You know we've been planning a visit through the plant for a long time."

"We'll try to arrange it for next week," Diana replied, "the rest of this week we'll both be busy at Madame Paulette's, you know, for fittings."

* * *

Teddy and Don sat facing each other in the mellow glow of shaded lamps at a small table in a little French restaurant adjacent to the Rialto of Catawba City. They had been to the theater. Now they were planning a burglary.

"This breaking into an office in the dead of night," observed Don with a ponderous solemnity, "be the motive what it may, for good or for bad, is no casual undertaking."

"Uh, huh," said Teddy, noncommitally, "I guess you're right."

"You bet I'm right," declared Don earnestly. "It smacks of danger. Not just the danger of being detected and having to explain to the law. That's nothing—comparatively. But the danger that attends an act of breaking and entering—that danger is a bullet, swift, sudden and hot!"

"Uh huh," said Teddy again, and went on munching celery. He looked at her quizically.

"Well!" he erupted finally, "doesn't the prospect scare you any?"

She shook her head.

"No," she replied demurely, "not so long as you'll be with me."

Don reached his hand across the short stretch of table and clasped hers resting beside her plate.

"Teddy, dear," he said, smiling at her in the way she so loved, "you are the finest, gamest little woman in the world. Bill Canfield told me just a few days ago that you're the one girl on the Times staff he could always depend upon in an emergency. He never had to worry, he said, when he gave you a hurry up assignment, but what you'd make it on time. Pop thinks a lot of you, too. So does Diana and—"

He was going to include Lola in the count, but a swift remembrance of several little incidents made him hesitate for an instant. Teddy smiled a bit ruefully.

"And what does Mr. Donald Keene think?" she inquired, in a low tone, disengaging the hand he had clasped in plain view of curious observers.

Don's romantic nature called for an answer to her question in keeping with his secret knowledge of her feelings. He knew the answer she would like. But he shaped his answer to fit his conscience, not his desires.

"Donald Keene thinks the same as they all think, Teddy, dear," he replied, unable to refrain from tacking on the little abverb.

And there was painted again in Teddy's cheeks a reflection of the ember that smouldered deep down within the inner consciousness of her being, that faint spark of "hope that springs eternal in the human heart."

(To Be Continued.)

Danger threatens Donald and Teddy. Read the next installment.

Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me; for my soul trusteth in thee: yea, in the shadow of thy wings will I make my refuge, until the calamities be overpast.

I will cry unto God most high; unto God that performeth all things for me.

He shall send from heaven, and save me from the reproach of him that would swallow me up. Selah. God shall send forth his mercy and his truth.

My soul is among lions; and I lie even among them that are set on fire, even the sons of men whose teeth are spears and arrows, and their tongue is a sharp sword.

JAILER STABBED

Marihuana Fiend Kills Jail Guard at Nuevo Laredo.

LAREDO, April 19. (AP)—Manuel E. Chavarria, jail guard at Nuevo Laredo, Tamaulipas, was reported dying Monday night from eleven stab wounds inflicted by a marihuana fiend in the jail Monday. He was making his rounds when the inmate sprang upon him, stabbing him about the head, breast and shoulders. Several men were required to overpower the man's assailant.

BO BROADWAY .... By Joseph Van Raalte

NEW YORK—Broadway was glistening in the brilliant afternoon sunlight of early spring. The Old Time Theatrrical Man sank back comfortably into the leather depths of his chair, puffing contentedly at his El Ropo, beaming at the Bizarre Bunch drifting past the office house window.

"It looks good to me," he said. "I wouldn't trade this show for any other on earth. I suppose everybody feels that way about his own burg. We've all had our rough days along the little Alley; an' maybe it's thinkin' back of them times that sort' o' gives the place its added attraction.

"I remember 20 years ago," he continued, with a reminiscent drag on the clear-of-all-Havana, "Larry an' Mack an' Joe an' me was sittin' round Leon's office in th' Knickerbocker buildin' plannin a half-million dollar production for the comin' season.

"'Long about 3 o'clock I begin to get reminded in a not very pleasant way that I haven't put anything inside o' me since th' Matutinal Mocha that Meadows served when I awoke.

"I excuse m'self an' drift out on Broadway. It's an afternoon somethin' like this. Everybody breezin' along happy an' well fed an' contented. The wind's blowin' an' the sun's shinin'; but I ain't thinkin' o' the winder th' sun. I got m'mind on grub an' the fact that I o'ny got a lone, round, flat, smooth nickel in m' jeans. Picture that. Comin' out of a half-million dollar pipe dream with a hole in my appetite wide as a winner's smile, an' on'y a nickel to m'name.

"There's a place in those days over on Eighth avenue near 42nd street where you can get a couple o' sinkers an' a cup o' cafe aut lait, with the accent on the lait, for a nickel. The buns they served were big, I remember, with raisins an' a lot o' sugar on top.

"I beat it over, sank down in a seat at one o' the white enamel, cast-iron tables an' a waiter comes up—a big, stoop-shouldered Irishman with a pair o' eyes like a elephant an' a walrus mustache.

"'What's yours?' he says, suspicious-like.

"'Oh, I dunno,' I says, sort o' nonchalant. 'I tell you what you do,' I says, 'bring me a couple o' buns an' a cup o' coffee. Be sure the coffee's hot an' don't put too much milk in it.'

"He went away an' came back presently with the order. Instead o' puttin' it down right away he holds th' stuff six inches off th' table an' gives he the icy eye.

"'Anything else?' he says.

"'No,' I says, hopin' I won't faint before I gets a swallow o' coffee, 'that'll be quite sufficient.'

"'Right-o!' he says, and Bang! He slaps the plate an' the cup an' saucer down on the iron table an' half th' coffee that didn't land on th' floor spattered over my lap.

"I was licked before I went in. I couldn't surmount th' fact that I on'y had a nickel to my name. I knew I was licked, I knew the waiter knew, an' that he knew I knew he knew.

"Well, two years later, on Christmas day, I'm puttin' on a show for th' boys over at th' penitentiary. Comin' out around dusk who do I run into but my old friend th' waiter. He's got into some kind of jam an' is servin' a year. I stopped an' spoke to him, but naturally he didn't remember me.

"I asked him how he likes th' show we put on an' he says he enjoyed it.

"'I'm sorry you enjoyed it.'

"Then I laughs an' walks out.

"I've never seen him since."

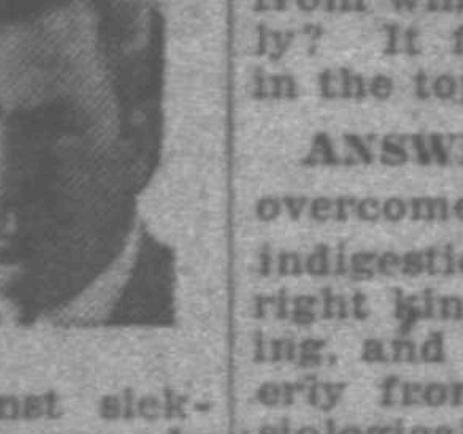
THE ART OF BEING KIND.



Disease thrives on discord, while health is the natural outgrowth of a life based on kindness and living in harmony with Nature laws.

Waste of energy is one of the greatest causes of disease and wherever there is happiness there is less waste of energy. The less energy you waste the more vitality you will possess. An abundance of vitality will insure you against sickness of all kinds. In no way do we waste more energy than through the irritations which come from a critical attitude towards others. If we appoint ourselves judges to condemn the actions of others, we must suffer the consequences to ourselves in enervation and a depletion of our vital forces.

It is so easy to copy the example of others and develop the habit of saying something sarcastic or critical about every subject which comes up for discussion. If you are earnestly seeking health you can not afford to fall into such destructive habits. There is no one so detestable that you can not learn to say something good about them. This may not come naturally to you at first but this good habit can soon be established. It will prove to be an interesting and helpful game. You will be surprised to find your friends becoming more attached to you, while new acquaintances whom you meet will be unconsciously impressed by your cheerful comments. Make your slogan, "A Kind Thought and a Kind Word for Everyone and Everything."

Every night before retiring take a mental inventory and see what you have accomplished that day. Every day try to do better and you will soon be welcomed everywhere, and be hourly thrilled by your achievement in spreading Sunshine. You will soon be delighted to discover that you are not so tired at night and have more vitality for your daily work. Your "nervous" indigestion will quickly disappear, and if you eat good food it will nourish you better than ever before. You will no longer be depressed and weary but will look forward to each day with eagerness.

Train yourself to think of happiness as a mental necessity, just as food is a physical necessity, and you will soon learn to know that being kind to others will create the most lasting happiness. Find fault with no one, condemn no one and antagonize no one. Do not try to be witty or tell a joke at the expence of some one, but study how you can say something which will leave a kindly thought afterwards. If you sow kind thoughts, sweet remembrances will grow from them and you will be happier and healthier through learning the art of being kind.

QUESTION: J. E. P. writes: "Would you kindly tell me something for severe case of indigestion from which I suffer quite frequently? It feels like a knife sticking in the top part of my stomach."

ANSWER: The only way you can overcome these frequent spells of indigestion is to learn to use the right kind of foods. Stop overeating, and combine your foods properly from the standpoint of physiological chemistry. Continue to read these articles daily, and you will soon learn enough to take care of yourself, so that you can entirely overcome the tendency to indigestion.

QUESTION: G. M. writes: "I am a girl of 15, never was strong. I have gone to several physicians, but they do not know what is the cause of my trouble, so I have come to you. My left hand gets numb, my mouth quivers, my tongue gets thick, and my teeth clench together for about five minutes and I can't talk, and have no use of myself. I have spells in the night and when anyone raises me up I just get limber, my eyes set to where I can't move them. During these spells I can hear, but can't speak, but sometimes struggle."

ANSWER: You are no doubt suffering from a form of epilepsy which is especially serious at your age. This is too large a subject to discuss in this Question and Answer department, but if you will write me directly, giving me your name and address, I will be glad to send you complete information, telling you exactly how you can cure yourself. Do this at once, as you are in a very critical preiod of your life, and if not cured soon, it will be a great deal more difficult to effect a cure later on in life.

QUESTION: A Close Follower of Your Plan writes: "Your articles appearing daily are wonderful—in fact, eye openers to many. By all means keep it up. Am anxious to know your stand on the idea of eating three cakes of yeast daily. Also, as you do not approve of drinking milk with sandwiches—what is the proper way to use milk?"

ANSWER: There is no benefit you can receive from using yeast cakes compared to what you can get from using three meals a day of the right kind of food. Never use milk with sandwiches, or with regular meals. Milk should be taken by itself, or combined with one kind of fruit, or with only non-starchy vegetables.

Cross, Upset Achy And Dizzy

Texas Lady Tells How She Found Thedford's Black-Draught an Invaluable Help in Maintaining Good Health

ITALY, Texas.—Mrs. Martha Porter, of this place, recently made the following statement in regard to her experience with Thedford's Black-Draught which she used for over 40 years in her family.

"Raising a family, I found Black-Draught an invaluable help in maintaining the good health among the children. It quickly relieved cause of upset stomach and indigestion. Whenever they would over-eat or begin to get cross from little stomach spells, I would give them Black-Draught and, in a day or so they would be perfectly well again.

"Whenever I had a bad headache or was feeling dizzy, or achy from the results of constipation, I took Black-Draught myself and got straightened out.

"My health has been very good the last few years. I have had to use very little medicine, but I think Black-Draught is always dependable, and I can recommend it highly after years of use as a family medicine."

Thousands of other men and women have found Black-Draught dependable in relieving and warding off common ailments, due to constipation, biliousness and indigestion. For over 85 years Thedford's Black-Draught has been a favorite remedy in thousands of American families.

MAGNOLIA AGAIN SHOVES PETROLEUM PRICES TOWARD CELLAR

PREVIOUS CUT STOOD ALONE

Standard Subsidiary Whacks Off a Nickel

DALLAS, Texas, April 19. (AP)—Magnolia Petroleum company pared the price of crude again today, effective at 7 a. m., tomorrow, for Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas fields where purchasing is on a gravity basis and on Luling crude as well. The former was cut uniformly 10 cents a barrel and the latter five cents, or from $1 a barrel to 95 cents. The new top 52 and above, on graded crude is now $1.35, against $1.45, the price set on April 7, and the lowest price, below 33 gravity, is now 95 cents, against $1.05. The two-cent differential still obtains.

CUT ON APRIL 7 WAS NOT MATCHED

The Magnolia Petroleum company's crude price reduction made on April 7 had not been met by another major purchaser Tuesday. The Magnolia has taken the initiative in each of the last several slashes and it has been rumored that a number of companies were reluctant to meet the third cut.

Local oil men have been encouraged in seeing the Magnolia's April 7 reduction stand alone, believing that an early ascension was in sight. It is not generally believed here that a majority of the other companies will make further reductions.

POLLUTION CHARGED

Complaints Filed On 15 Oil Companies in North Texas Area

AUSTIN, April 19. (AP)—Complaints charging pollution of Texas streams have been filed against about 15 oil companies operating in North Texas, J. R. Smith, director of Anti-Pollution of the state game, fish and oyster department said today.

Smith returned today from an investigation he has been making with Galloway Calhoun, assistant attorney general.

The offense of pollution carries a fine of from $100 to $1000. Smith said complaints may be filed against 80 or more additional oil firms.

GASSER WILD

AUSTIN, April 19. (AP)—Efforts to "lasso and high-tie" a wild gas well near Bruni, in Webb county has taken Deputy Supervisor E. C. Clardy of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission to the assistance of Deputy Supervisor Leslie McKay of Laredo.

The Killam well has been blowing wild continuously since April 10, the gas rearing a column of water 100 feet high. Drillers have been unable to control the well because no surface casing was set while the well was being drilled. Lack of surface casing may cause the hole to "crater."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 19. (AP)—Cotton prices made a good start here today but as the day progressed they began to sag, losing five to seven points in the day's trading. Disappointing Liverpool cables and prospects for better weather in Texas and Oklahoma, were contributing causes to the decline.

Gains of two to four points were shown in the early trading on fears of the flood situation, but when realizing set in prices lost 13 or 14 points from the early highs. Near the close prices advanced four or five points and closed showing net losses of five or seven points for the day.

May at one time traded at 14.41, July 14.61 and Oct. 14.79, which was two to four points above the previous close. When the reaction opened up May dropped to 14.21, and Oct. to 14.65.

Exports totaled 45,410 bales.

CHRISTIE, CHOATE.

Christie et al are preparing to spud in their No. 1 R. H. Choate in section 225, T. E. & L. survey of north Young county. This well, located six miles southeast of Olney, is a rank wildcat, being eight miles south of the Benson pool.

HARDEMAN FAILURE.

Murchison Oil corporation has abandoned as a dry hole at a total depth of 3092 fee its No. 1 Ayers, a Hardeman county wildcat located in section 5, W. & N. W. survey, abstract 491.

GULF, CROWNOVER.

Gulf Production company's No. 1 Crownover in the F. Robertson survey, a wildcat north of the Nocona pool in Montague county, has been plugged and abandoned at 2031 feet.

WEST OF ELECTRA.

McLoughlin Brothers are rigging up and expect to spud in this week on their No. 1 J. C. Guyer, located in section 121, Waggoner colony lands in Wilbarger county.

FAIN-McGAHA.

Fain-McGaha Oil company has abandoned as a duster its No. 1 B. W. Murphy, located in section 19, block 9, H. & T. C. survey of Wilbarger county. This test, which was drilled to a depth of 2225 feet, condemns territory adjacent on the northwest to the Fluhman pool.

BUILDING STORAGE.

C. C. Stovall, the man who has brought in two gusher wells on his own land located in the South Bend field of Young county, is moving two 55,000 barrel capacity storage tanks to his lease to care for the oil being produced in his Nos. 1 and 5 fee. The new well, No. 5, is flowing more than 4000 barrels daily which approaches the total capacity of the Humble's four-inch line through the field. Stovall is quoted as saying that he will sell as much of the oil at $1.45 per barrel as the Humble will take and then store the remainder. His No. 1 is still making more than 800 barrels daily.

LEAVE IN IN GROUND.

West Texas operators are uncovering new oil land constantly in far West Texas but they are leaving their discovery wells as the only holes on the leases in most cases, says H. B. Dudley who has just returned from an extensive tour of the western part of the state with Harry Hines, his employer. Even with the curtailed drilling, the West Texas plains area is the most active in the state, declares Dudley who recently looked over the Panhandle and other major areas of the state.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO April 19. (AP)—Advancing prices on the wheat market today accompanied persistent unfavorable crop developments including a forecast of freezing temperature as far south as Kansas. Furthermore, export buying of North American wheat today totaled about 1,000,000 bushels. Wheat closed firm, ⅝ to ⅞ to ⅝c net higher with corn 1⅛ to 1¼@⅝c up, oats at ¼@⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged 17 cents down.

Wet weather causing delay to field work and curtailing receipts was largely responsible for a lively upturn in the corn market. Corn arrivals in Chicago today amounted to only 12 cars. Oats sympathized with corn and wheat. Provisions were responsive to a decline the values of hogs.

COPPERS LEAD STOCK RAISE

General Issue Firmer After Wave of Selling

BY BROADAN WALL.
Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Stocks firmed up a bit today following professional selling because of the increase in brokers' loans and the heavy production in the oil industry. Short covering developed in the oils, particularly Marland and Phillips. Oil production for the week ended April 11 showed a drop of approximately 26,000 barrels.

Cutting of crude and the extending of the gasoline price war in California from the southern to the northern part of the state has caused uneasiness among holders of this class of securities. About the only strong spot in the list has been Houston Oil, which is expected to show $20 or more this year. Earnings in the first quarter were twice as large as those for the corresponding period last year.

Money held at 4 per cent. Easing in the money market has checked a disposition towards liquidation of stocks. Wall street looks for activity in the specialties. Western buying is reported in Harvester and Baldwin. New York traders are inclined to accumulate Sears, Roebuck, Shattuck and Hudson and Manhattan. Italian lire and Spanish pesetas worked higher. Wheat was strong; cotton steady.

Coppers are coming into the limelight. Good buying is reported in Inspiration and Kennecott. Rumors were current of a deal between the Belgian interests in control of the big Katanga mine in the Congo and American Producers headed by John D. Ryan. The deal, if consumated, calls for the regulation of prices for copper sold in European countries. The plan is understood to be similar to that affected with Italian interests in the Sulphur business by William Boyce Thompson, representing American interests.

Traders are searching for "tops" in the market but aside from the oils and a few specialties have met with little success. The market value of 100 active stocks listed here have enhanced approximately one billion dollars since January 1. Of these 100 issues, 13 motors increased in value 14 per cent, while 12 oils dropped 8 per cent. Thirty railroads rose 7½ per cent and 45 industrials approximately 6 per cent.

The 100 stocks selected in a compilation had a market value on December 31 last of $16,362,527,000 compared with $17,321,592,000 on March 31, last. Thirteen motors increased $295,467,000 from a value of $2,127,469,000 on December 31 to $2,422,936,000 on March 31. Thirty rails rose $333,528,000 from $4,494,643,000 on December 31 to $4,828,171,000 on March 31.

Twelve oils depreciated in the first quarter $159,052,000. On December 31 the oils had a value of $1,937,846,000 and on March 31, $1,778,794,000. The industrial group advanced $488,822,000. They had a value of $7,802,869,000 on December 31 as compared with $7,291,681,000 on March 31.

General Motors continued strong. The Wilmington firm with offices in the Equitable building say that to their idea, General Motors before the dividend period will sell above $200 a share, as the firm is closest to the powers that control the company, it is in a position to speak by the card. On account of the big increase in its refrigerator and outside business, which are rarely spoken of in Wall Street, General Motors is realizing enormous profits. Hudson was strong on estimates that earnings in the first quarter would be in the neighborhood of $3 a share. Hudson has no fixed charges and no preferred stock and an aggressive organization.

White Motors recovered from the recent selling which was based on the new low price truck which General Motors is bringing out. Yellow truck was in demand. Fancy prices are predicted for this issue. Another stock coming to the front is Continental Motors. This company is the logical nucleus of any independent automobile merger. The company now holds contracts for business, it is said, which was never before in reach.

Department store stocks moved forward. Leaders in this group were Macy, Gimbel and Abraham and Straus. Gimbel last year showed the biggest in gross earnings of any department store chain in the country, but on account of extraordinary expenses which had to be charged against earnings did not show as big a percentage as a few other companies. This year, however, Gimble will be able to show one of the biggest percentages of net against gross earnings.

United Drug advanced. This is one of the largest chain stores but does not enter into the calculation of experts. Gross sales are showing a steady increase not alone in this country but in England.

Specialties of the calibre of Air Reduction, Combustion, American Radiator and American Smelting responded to a steady demand from investors. Since the Morgan interests have taken hold of Smelters they have developed the property into one of the most successful corporations in America today.

With General Motors and U. S. Steel the Morgans today are dominant in the industrial field. As they are also going into the public service field and are constructionists and developers. The stocks they will take hold of should show the same success as their other industrials.

American Radiator developed activity on reports that the dividend would be increased because of the increase in earnings. With the big building program throughout the country, the company's aggressive sales plans and research work place them at the front of the steam heating business of this country and Europe. Their export business is increasing steadily and the company is now furnishing 26 countries with its goods.

Steel showed little change. Independents were steady. The Mellon interests are forming a new steel combination. Companies said to figure in the deal are Republic, Youngstown and Trumbull. This combine will not in any way conflict with any of the existing companies as the steel industry does not get any new companies, but merely expansion of the existing concerns. This merger, however, may affect some of the smaller and isolated plants throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Rails held ground. The first National interests, it is rumored, have made a deal with several rich and powerful estates for the acquisition of railroad securities just as George F. Baker did years ago. The Johnson estate built the John building at 20 Broad street on one turn in Jersey Central stock. Higgins, the carpet manufacturer made an immense fortune in Jersey Central stock and Lackawanna. Another was Constable, of Arnold Constable who acquired and built up $25,000,000 of real estate made from profits in railroad stocks under the guidance of Baker many years ago.

DALLAS SPOT COTTON.

DALLAS, April 19. (AP)—Spot cotton closed steady, unchanged, middling 13.40; sales 2182 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—Price movements again lacked uniformity in today's stock market but the general undertone was firm in reflection of easier call money rates. A sharp selling attack soon after the opening met with good resistance, and thereafter major speculative activity was on the upside, with aggressive demonstrations staged in a few specialties in which important developments are believed to be pending.

The reduction in the renewal rate on call money to 4 per cent followed by loans in the "outside" market as low as 3¾, more than offset the increase of over $22,000,000 in brokers' loans last week to a new high level for the year.

The day's business news was rather colorless in character, although reports that flood conditions had curtailed crude oil production in the Seminole field undoubtedly stimulated the recovery in the oil shares.

U. S. Steel common which closed ⅝ lower at 171⅝, was again called upon to absorb a large volume of profit taking, which invariably follows the announcement of constructive news developments such as the intimation of Chairman Gary at yesterday's stockholders' meeting that the $7 dividend rate would be maintained on the new stock. Republic Steel sold down over a point on unofficial reports that first quarter earnings would fall below those of the corresponding period last year. Most of the other steels yielded fractionally.

General Motors responded to reports that first quarter earnings would exceed $5 a share by touching another new high record at 188⅝, closing at 187⅝, for a net gain of one point. Yellow Truck, a subsidiary, crossed 30 to a new peak and Hudson moved up nearly two points, but Hupp duplicated the year's low on the publication of a poor first quarterly report compared with last year. White received better support.

Marland, after touching a new low at 40⅝, closed nearly a point higher at 42. General Asphalt, California Petroleum and Houston Oil also moved up a point or so, and a number of others improved fractionally. Coppers responded to stiffening commodity prices under the leadership of American Smelting, which showed a net gain of over two points.

The official rate for call money held steady at 4 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held fairly firm in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85 3-16 and French francs just above 3.91 cents. Japanese yen, which were heavy yesterday, rallied 12 points to 48.60 cents.

MARKET GOSSIP

J. H. Baldwin and Co., brokers, basement Bob Waggoner building, today received the following from New York, New Orleans and Chicago connections:

COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The strength of the cotton market today was caused by trade and local buying on the belief that far more damage would be caused by the flood condition in the Mississippi valley than was generally expected. The advance, however, brought out a considerable amount of liquidation by those who had previously bought on the unfavorable weather map and a small reaction was brought about.

Some indications of clearing weather conditions in the western belt encouraged some local selling and the market soon developed into two-sided affair.

Trading during the day was a little more active than of late. Trading interests continued to buy on the dips, but the general public is still apparently out of the market and no public participation is expected, for the time being at least, or until a more definite idea of crop condition is obtained. It is not expected, however, that the market will decline very much, and purchases on soft spots are still recommended.

GRAIN LETTER.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Apprehension about the new crop winter wheat in sections southwest where a possibility of freezing temperature was forecast, together with the late seeding in the spring wheat territory and also in Canada, on account of wet weather, made for a strong market. Final prices were ⅛ to ⅝c higher at Chicago and Winnipeg, with flood warnings in eastern Kansas, was the basis of some buying of the new crop futures. According to the Saskatchewan agricultural department, seeding in that providence, the largest in Canada, will not become general until around May first or later. Liverpool re-opened after a four-day holiday and equalled the gains in the North American markets. Buenos Aires was inclined to be easier, being ½c lower at mid-day.

As long as this continues, and there is uncertainty about the new winter and spring wheat crops, buyers on reasonable setbacks would seem to have the advantage.

Corn: Shorts covered freely in the corn market and there was some improvement in the outside buying on account of delay in field work and light receipts at terminal markets. The bad roads are delaying movement from the farm. Receipts of corn were estimated at 19 cars, the smallest in many months. Shipping demand shows little or no signs of improvement and with very heavy stocks in all positions, we doubt if upturns will be long sustained.

Oats: Are very low in price and should seeding be delayed long enough to materially effect the new crop prospects this grain could readily work considerably higher.

Rye: Was dull and acted rather heavy at times. Final prices were about ¼c higher, largely in sympathy with wheat. This grain is low in price relative to wheat and should the former score an advance, rye would benefit sympathetically.

STOCKS.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The volume of trading remains about the same and was generally firm. There has been a slight recovery in the oils and a number of specialties, like Cumbustion Engineering, International Tel and Tel., Colorado Fuel and Industrial Alcohol have been strong. In the latter stock there is a contest for proxies fo rthe coming election. At one time during the day the market grew dull and there was considerable selling but little headway was made toward a reaction and most of the traders were inclined in the late afternoon to buy again.

Money is easy and this is the main influence on prices. It is a trading market with the usual effort of professionals to pick out promising specialties.

Out of Your Tires, Whatever Make They May Be, If Intelligent Attention Is Given to Them Regularly

Cut which go to the cotton carcass of the tire should be plugged or vulcanized as the case requires—this prevents early failure of the casing through the deterioration caused by the action of moisture and dirt on the fabric.

Breaks, bruises or serious cuts in the fabric should be repaired with an inside sectional repair, done by a competent tire repair shop. Don't let anybody put a "boot" in a good tire to cover a break and call it a "repair." An honest tire repair man will guarantee his job to outlast the rest of the tire.

In these days of 15,000 mile performances on tires he must do a real job in a workmanlike manner and to do it he must be trained; he must be careful; he must have a proper modern equipment and methods. Our men are factory trained in every detail of tire repair work.

CANNING CENTER

East Texas Called Center of Canning Industry.

TYLER, April 19. (AP)—East Texas as the nation's canning factory will be pictured here tomorrow at the first annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

This is but one of the high aims of the section which in the last year has demonstrated an extensive co-operative effort through the guiding hand of the territory's first regional chamber of commerce.

Readjustment of freight rates to place this area on a parity with other sections which compete with it in the country's markets, an interlacing system of hard roads to carry the products of the farm to the cities and give a more cohesive citizenship, and intensive support for all institutions of higher education especially those teaching agriculture, will be discussed during the two-day convention.

Real Estate Values Are Increasing

One hundred years ago, Fifth Avenue, New York City, was a cow path; today it is the greatest and most valuable street in the world. There is no use telling the average American how real estate values grow. Mothers bringing children into the world, give real estate its value.

Some property in Denver, Colo., which is now worth many millions of dollars, was traded with $25.00 in return for a Horse, Saddle and Bridle. The territory which comprises the State of Pennsylvania was granted to Wm. Penn in payment of a personal debt of $16,000.

Real Estate values are increasing and will always increase. Buy Real Estate now from one of the Realtors listed on this page.

Today { At the Theaters

Majestic: "Evening Clothes," with Adolphe Menjou; Topics of the Day, Pathe News and comedy.

Olympic: "The Mysterious Rider," a Zane Grey story, starring Jack Holt; comedy, news and special vaudeville act.

Strand: "The Sewing Machine Girl," with Madge Bellamy, and comedy.

Mission: "Bardleys the Magnificent," with John Gilbert, and chapter 4 of "Scotty of the Scouts."

Gem: "The Code of the Northwest," with Sandow, the wonder dog; also comedy.

Garden: "Brand of Cowardice," all-star western picture; and comedy.

In his newest Paramount starring vehicle "Evening Clothes" coming to the Majestic Theater today, Adolphe Menjou adopts a beard and plays the country gentleman, in the French manner.

The story adapted from the French play "The Man in Evening Clothes," by Andre Picard and Yves Mirande, two of France's popular playwrights, is concerned with the adventures of Lucien, a wealthy member of the landed French nobility and his adventures following his acquisition of a wife who is a Parisian. Their incompatibility, which is the result of her marrying him not because of love but in respect for the wishes of her parents, forms the motive of the action. Germaine, the bride (Virginia Valli), scorns Lucien because of his uncouth country ways. She can not understand his preference for a life on a farm to life in the gay drawing rooms of the capital. He permits her to leave him on their wedding day, after forcing on her half his fortune.

The scene of the picture moves to Paris, where Menjou is spending his time, money and energy acquiring the city polish that he considers would make him pleasing in the eyes of his lost bride. How the first fails because of her own unbelief in him, and how he is reduced to poverty through his subsequent attitude of recklessness, is unfolded in a series of dramatic and humorous episodes that add more laurels to the already heavy wreath that Menjou wears. The complications of the plot are finally untwisted to make a strong dramatic climax in which Menjou with Germaine as the object of his emotion exhibits all the finer subleties of the acting that has made him famous.

Noah Beery plays the part of Lazarre, a comic, whose girl Fox Trot (Louise Brooks) leaves him for Lucien. Luther Reed directed.

Advertising in Best and Worst Forms Discussed at Luncheon

"The Best Form of Advertising I Have Seen This Week," and "The Worst Form of Advertising I Have Seen This Week," were the subjects for three interesting talks by C. A. Bolton, T. A. Bradley, and George Thomas at the Advertising club luncheon Tuesday at the Kemp hotel.

In discussing the worst form of advertising, Mr. Thomas showed the members an ad that he had taken from a small town newspaper. The ad did not have illustrations and the type in the name of the firm was the same size as that of the body of the ad, which, Mr. Thomas pointed out, was a bad form of advertising.

C. A. Bolton took the Hub Clothing store as the best form of advertising he had seen, and stated that the Hub ads were immediate, constructive, personal, which was what it took to make an attractive ad.

"Misrepresentative ads are the worst form that we have," T. A. Bradley said, "and any form of advertising that the Wichita Falls Advertising club does not endorse is bad."

Alva Willgus asked various members of the club to tell of unusual ads they had seen. Miss Josephine Fisk, Miss Roberta Clay, Paul Colvert and J. L. Eggleston spoke briefly on different forms of advertising they had particularly noticed.

W. S. Brown, Ben Williams, and J. G. Kilgore were appointed a committee to co-operate with the chamber of commerce in getting a transport boat on the Philadelphia to Houston line named "Wichita Falls."

A. F. Edwards made an announcement regarding the interscholastic track meet which takes place at the Junior college Friday and Saturday. P. B. Roberts won the prize this week which was donataed by Paul Colvert.

Painters and Employers Maintain Position in Wage Dispute Here

"It's their move."

This was the statement forthcoming Tuesday from the camps of the striking Wichita Falls painters and the employers.

The painters held a meeting Tuesday night in the union hall and declined to make public what occurred.

Bob Newman, business manager of the local painters' union, said Tuesday night:

"The situation is the same as Monday when the painters went on a strike—we will not do anything until the employers agree to meet with our union committee to discuss our demand that painters' wages in Wichita Falls be increased from $8 to $9 a day."

Members of the Master painters, the employers, asserted Monday night, after a meeting, that there was nothing to meet with the committee about as the painters had informed the employers that if they did not receive $9 a day they were going to quit.

The employers took the attitude that as the painters had refused to work that it was about all there was to the situation.

Sixty painters went on a strike Monday morning. There are 125 union painters in the city, Newman said.

$12,000 Annual Saving in View For City On New Power Contract

A decrease of approximately $12,000 in the amount paid by the city each year for electric power became likely Tuesday night during a special session of the city council when representatives of the city and the Wichita Electric company conferred with the councilmen.

As a result of the conference, Mayor R. E. Shepherd called a special meeting of the council for Wednesday when the terms of a contract between the city and the company will be discussed.

Heavy Saving On Light

The decrease is based on the present equipment owned by the city and using electric power. The new rate would affect street lighting mainly where a saving of $6800 a year would be made.

For the pumping of water and sewerage disposal the city would receive a maximum rate of one and one-fourth cents per kilowatt hour. The present rate is one and one-half cents. With this rate it is figured the city will save $2000 for pumping water and $2800 for pumping sewerage disposal.

The company offered the new rates to the city with the provision that a five-year contract be entered into, incorporating the new rates in the contract.

Contract Offered

N. T. Veach of Black and Veach, Kansas City, municipal engineers, represented the city in the conference and P. A. Rogers, general manager of the Wichita Electric company, represented the company.

The council authorized the appointment of Dr. L. I. Lucey as chief sanitary officer and R. M. Hurst as clerk of the corporation court. A. W. King, park and sanitary commissioner, recommended the appointment of Lucey and Roy Carter, police and fire commissioner, recommended Hurst.

During the special meeting Wednesday the council will discuss the purchase of a water tower for erection in Indian Heights. At that time Veach will outline the various structures offered to the city by tower manufacturers.

REALTORS HIT TALK OF BOOM

Minnesota Bulletin Denied At Luncheon

Condemnation of a bulletin issued by Oscar B. Smith, immigration commissioner of Minnesota, in which he warned the citizens of his state that efforts were being made to "float a land boom" in Texas, was voiced Tuesday by all members of the real estate board attending the weekly luncheon in the Kemp hotel.

A. L. Huey, president of the board, was instructed to appoint a committee to draw up a resolution condemning Smith's bulletin, which will be acted upon at the next meeting of the board.

The housing situation for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention was discussed during the meeting. The members of the board were appointed as a committee to obtain rooms for the delegates and visitors to the convention. The committee was instructed to find 10,000 rooms. According to information received at the meeting Tuesday there have been only 200 rooms obtained so far for the convention. The board has sent postcards to all the homes in Wichita Falls requesting information as to the availability of rooms for the convention.

P. S. Richardson withdrew as a candidate for president of the board, leaving William Baldridge as the sole candidate for the office. The election will be held at the meeting of the board on May 3.

CYCLISTS WARNED

Police to Take Steps to Curb Open Mufflers

Motorcycle riders in Wichita Falls are keeping citizens awake at night by running their motors without using mufflers and the police department may take drastic steps to end this practice, declared Police Chief Frank Burns Tuesday.

In issuing a final warning to motorcycle riders, Chief Burns stated that a previous warning has been heeded in the daytime but he has learned that the practice is being kept up at night.

"Two motorcycle officers will be placed on night duty for the sole purpose of apprehending such law violators unless the situation is remedied at once," Chief Burns declared.

"When a person is arrested for running a motor with an open muffler I most assuredly will not recommend leniency," he stated

Leader of Alleged Texas-Oklahoma Theft Ring Believed Captured Here

First results in a hunt extending over the past four months in an effort to break up an organized band of thieves operating from Amarillo to Wichita Falls and from points in Oklahoma to the Eastland county oil fields were known to have been obtained Tuesday when Sheriff John S. Hart of Eastland county came here to return two men captured by deputy sheriffs Monday.

One of the men, with a companion, was arrested after Sheriff W. G. Bralley was notified that he had escaped from the Eastland county jail. When captured Monday the man was found hidden under the door steps of a local residence.

When notified of the jail break at Eastland Sheriff Bralley immediately set to work on the case and by Monday morning had pieced together bits of information obtained at several places resulting in the search of the residence.

The escaped prisoner, who is suffering from a sprained ankle supposedly obtained when he dropped from a blanket rope in gaining his freedom, had steadfastly maintained a silence regarding his escape or any of the thefts in which he is alleged to have participated.

Officers, however, are reasonably sure that he is one of four or five who have been operating in the north half of Texas and the south half of Oklahoma for the past six months.

Since Sheriff Bralley went into office January 1 he has received calls from Cisco, Eastland, Graham and cities in the Panhandle asking him to watch for the man and his companions.

Sheriff Hart, who left Tuesday afternoon for Eastland declared that he had enough evidence, according to Sheriff Bralley, who was elated that the mask the band had finally been penetrated.

THREE FINED.

Accused of displaying a pistol, H. B. Donegan entered a plea of guilty Tuesday before Judge C. M. McFarland in the county court at law and was sentenced to serve one day in the county jail and to pay a fine of $1 and the costs of trial.

Fred Gant and Jack January pleaded guilty to charges of theft. Gant was sentenced to 25 days in jail and January to pay a fine of $10 and costs of troal.

The cases were prosecuted by John Humphrey, assistant county attorney.

COUNTY SUED FOR $10,575

Sand and Gravel Contract Broken, Claim

Claiming that officials of Wichita county failed to complete a contract relative to the purchase of washed sand and gravel, Oran Speer filed Tuesday a suit for $10,575 damages against the county.

The plaintiff alleges that in May 17, 1920, he entered into a contract with the county whereby he was to deliver 45,000 tons of sand and gravel at a price of $1 a ton.

The petition sets out that the county only bought 30,900 tons and has refused to purchase the balance of the sand and gravel to fulfill the contract. The plaintiff sets his loss at $10,575.
