Sunshine Boosts Area Crop Growth

Reports from farmers in the area last weekend showed that most crops are up and well on their way -- even those which were replanted following hail and washouts which occurred in various parts of the country.

Northwest of Olton about six and a half miles, Jack Gullett said his cotton that was planted the second time was up in a good stand and growing real well. He said his maize crop look good and was being irrigated at the time.

Carl Hooper replanted soybeans following a hail June 9 and said he had a good stand and that it was growing fast.

Hooper left his maize after the hail and he reported that it had begun to grow and looked very well.

About the same report came from Lester O. Kennedy who sai all his cotton planted over for the second time looked good except that it was weedy. He said that his feed needed water right now.

Joe Roberts, who was also hailed out June 9, replanted cotton and said it looked real good -- "it is up and a good stand." He left his maize and it is fairing pretty well also.

Another who was hailed out the same day, James Couch said he replanted to soybeans and that they are doing well. He also left his feed which is "coming out of it and looking good."

About five and a half miles southwest of Olton, Burley Favor said he had a field of wheat which would be ready to harvest within a week. His cotton, which he replanted once is doing fine and he said his maize was looking good.

"Growing faster than it ever has," was what Sonny Adams had to say about his alfalfa. His cotton, which was hailed out May 31 and replanted is really growing and looking good. He said his maize looked fair now.

Jack Allcorn said he had nothing to brag about. Heavy hail on June 9 wiped him out and he didn't choose to replant cotton, instead he turned to soybeans. His feed is coming out of it, he said.

Garland Rose, who received very little hail, said his feed was about knee high and that the cotton was very pretty.

North of town, Denny Barnett said that his crop was growing fair, considering the weather recently.

Some of his cotton is growing from the first planting but about 75 per cent of it is growing from the second planting.

Irrigation will probably get into full swing in the very near future as many reported that their feed needed watering.

FREEDOM

Our Heritage, Our Responsibility

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lieutenant Colonel Robert T. Anderson, Division Chaplain, was one of fifty second-place winners in the annual Freedoms Foundation Letters Awards Program for service personnel. The subject of the 1967 program was "Freedom - My Heritage, My Responsibility." The contest was open to men and women on active duty in the armed services. For his letter, which follows, Chaplain Anderson received $100 and the George Washington Honor Medal Award. Kenneth D. Wells, President of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa., wrote that Chaplain Anderson's letter was an "Outstanding accomplishment in helping to achieve a better understanding of the American Way of Life."

Dear Mr. and Mrs. America:

I am a living witness of heroic deeds accomplished in the name of freedom by America's soldier, your son. I've seen your son in steaming, stifling jungles; in sloppy rice paddies; and in blustering fields of a danger-filled Vietnam. I have been with him in sandbag-covered bunkers, in hastily dug foxholes, and in forward combat areas. I've met him in a quiet, hope-filled hospital ward and in the worshipful silence of a wooden frame chapel. I've been with him on crowded oriental city streets and on lonely country roads. I have journeyed with him by jeep and "chopper" to help at orphanages, schools, clinics, and sanitariums. Everywhere I have chatted with him about his dreams and aspirations, about war and peace, about his fears and frustrations, about his family and the girl-friend back home. I've watched him fight in battle, create and build in peace. And I have seen him gallantly sacrifice his life upon the altar of freedom. Why?

Why? I'll tell you why.

He discovered freedom's heritage as a boy at your knee, in the church or synagogue, from dedicated school teachers, at Boy Scout meetings, from his buddies and the gang. Wherever he went, there he found his heritage alive and real.

He saw America's legacy breathed into every fiber of his home-town. He saw it symbolized by the American flag hung from a neighbor's porch; he saw it at Fourth of July parades; he heard it when a band played "The National Anthem"; he heard great and common people talk about it; and he awefully witnessed it at a National Cemetery as "Taps" sounded over a buddy's grave.

Your son took up his responsibilities for freedom and did what his Country said must be done. He prepared himself to defend his own rights and the rights of others. It was not easy. It was tough, trying, and sometimes painful. He gave of himself. Duty became his responsibility. He became duty-bound for God and Country, family and friends, and for others he would never know.

Somehow your son had a deep insight into the life and death struggle in which all of us are involved. He did not shirk his responsibilities or bring shame upon his heritage. He abided by the law. He did not burn his draft card but he did become a demonstrator. He demonstrated his belief that all men should live freely by answering his Country's call to duty.

Your son has joined the endless line of spendor peopled by those who want freedom to ring throughout every land. For him, freedom was a gift. It had to be shared. Shared it, he did!

"Freedom - My Heritage, My Responsibility"? I march with your son on his glory road to freedom, I can do no less than he. Can you?

Thankful and proud to know your son, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Billy Bryant Family Recalls Days Of Duty On Okinawa

"It was a real good duty assignment," remarked Sp/5 Billy Bryant of his most recent tour of duty - 33 months in Okinawa.

Bryant, his wife, Charlotte, and their two young sons, Scott and Jon Keith, are "back home" after more than two and one-half years on an island 64 miles long and six to eight miles wide.

Their next asignment is Fort Gordon near Augusta, Georgia.

The Olton serviceman likes his work - he's a chief dental NCO. He will probably be in the same field of duty at his new assignment. "I'd prefer it," he says.

Okinawan people primarily speak Japanese. Quite a few speak English and many who do so speak quite fluently. For this reason, the family did not learn much Japanese.

Scott and Jon Keith learned a few little songs in Japanese. Scott had a Japanese teacher on Fridays.

There are dependent's schools for the children of servicemen. The Okinawan schools are so crowded that island children go to school in three shifts - morning, afternoon and night.

"Often I've seen kids piling out of buses at nine o'clock at night." Mrs. Bryant explained.

She also pictured the Oriental children running down the street with upraised arms. In Okinawa, the upraised arm of a pedestrian tells motorists to stop.

"We lived a mile and a half from where I worked," Bryant exclaimed "and it took me up to two hours to get home." He remarked that this was because of heavy traffic and upraised hands demanding that he stop.

Okinawan motorists make U-turns down the main thoroughfares with nonchalant unconcern. The only place U-turns are illegal is on bridges.

Major makes of American cars are available through Okinawan dealers. There are also many foreign cars. All cars, whether owned by military personnel or civilians, must be checked through a station at the military base with strict requirements. This program is an effort to eliminate as many accidents as possible by having only safe vehicles in operation.

Cars rust very quickly on the island. In only a year or two cars begin rusting and, before a car gets very old, it is rusted beyond use.

Mashinato, Okinawa is the base of the original 1st. Logistical Command, now the 2nd., the back-up station for Vietnam. All wrecked vehicles from Vietnam are brought there from Vietnam to be salvaged or junked.

Protest marches in their homeland remind the Bryants of similar demonstrations on Okinawa. Most of the islanders consider themselves Japanese. Demonstrations are held promoting the control of the island back to Japan.

The West Texans found it a little difficult in becoming accustomed to earthquakes. Although there were no really serious quakes while they lived on the island, there were frightening ones.

"I woke up one night and the pavement was rolling just like waves on the water," Bryant remarked.

Probably the most severe quake the island had during the family's stay registered a "7" on the Japanese scale which registers 12.

The quakes last up to three or four minutes, the couple explained, "but seemed like much longer."

"The temperature is about 90 degrees (summer) and the humidity 98 degrees," Bryant laughed.

"In the winter it gets down to about 50 degrees and that's real cold after being used to such high temperature and humidity," his wife added.

Rainfall is quite heavy in Okinawa. One month while they were there the rainfall measured 30 inches. A short time before they left, a rainstorm dumped seven inches in four hours.

Water doesn't stand after a rain but drains rapidly into the ocean. Serious water shortages have developed at times on the island because the water can not be contained.

Uncle Sam has seen to it that American personnel have nice living quarters and many recreational facilities. The family had available swimming pools, golf courses, croquet courses, movies, bowling alleys - just about everything.

Too, there was ample opportunity for surfing, skin diving, snorkeling and swimming along the coast.

Mrs. Bryant had a maid and sew girl while the family lived in Okinawa.

"Sew girls don't use patterns, they just measure you all over, cut out whatever you want and when it's made it fits perfectly."

Live-in maids are available for $30 per month. Occasional maids are drawing more money than ever before - as much as $2 to $2.50 per day.

"And I never had to mow our grass," Bryant exclaimed, "'Papa sans' did it for us." (Okinawan men are called papa sans.)

Okinawa boasts good medical facilities for service personnel. There is one 500-bed hospital where many air-evac patients are brought from Vietnam.

Bryant remarked that Vietnam has some of the most modern medical facilities that can be found anywhere.

At Itoman, Okinawa, a fishing village, fishermen compete against the villagers in a "rope pulling". Building the rope is a city project. It is no ordinary rope but one that measures approximately three feet in diameter.

On the day of the contest any who wish can join in and pull with one of the teams. After the contest is over, the village joins in a celebration.

Air force carnivals are a big thing to the Okinawan people. Held at the base, but opened to the islanders, they are the fruits of American ingenuity.

Bryant explained that service personnel formed a large bucket contrivance and with a large crane to lift it in the air and swing it in circles, "invented" a popular ride.

"The island people really go in for the carnival." both remarked.

Okinawa also has its equivalent to Disneyland - Yonabrau.

During their stay, the family saw Suicide Cliff, where many Japanese officers committed hari kari during World War II. A shrine has been erected there to mark the site.

Land on the southern end of the island is used to grow sugar cane. Northerners grow pineapple. Pineapples are grown on small terraced patches and are difficult to gather.

Customs are very different at the two ends of the island. Southern Okinawans carry baskets upon their heads while the northern people have packs upon their backs.

The northern end of the island is "very pretty" the southern end is not.

Islanders enjoy bull fights that bear little resemblance to those of Mexico. Two bulls are turned loose to fight until one backs away.

Another sport is habu-mongoose fights. The habu is a poisonous snake that likes to climb. It can crawl up a straight wall. The habu is bad to climb and drop down onto an unsuspecting victim.

The mongoose is almost always the winner in the till-death-contest. The small mammal bites the snake behind the neck, killing it and then tears the snakes fangs away.

Many Okinawans are followers of Budha. Many, though, are ancestral worshippers. On particular days, the oldest daughter goes to the burial site and bathes the bones of her ancestors. (They are not buried underground but placed in mausoleum-like structures.)

All the members of the family join her there, bringing their food. A place is set for the departed one and gifts are brought in his honor.

Okinawa offers restaurants of different nationalities. There are those specializing in Mexican foods, Italian foods, Chinese foods, Korean foods and perhaps others.

Okinawan people like spicy foods and the Mexican and Italian restaurants are popular. The Bryant family did not develop a liking for Oriental foods during their stay on the island.

Islanders have adopted American clothes. The native kimona is still worn on holidays and for weddings. Okinawan weddings are very elaborate and very expensive observances.

Bryant remarked that an islander he worked with was saving for a wedding even though he and his wife-to-be were living together and had one child. The couple planned to be married as soon as they could save enough money for a wedding.

The family accumulated numerous "souvenirs" of their life on Okinawa. Some of their treasures are items of brass - candlesticks, lamps, ash trays, a table and many small items. They also have china, a musical china tea set, wooden fruit and wood carvings, Okinawan dolls and some pieces of "bm bo" ware - thin, laquered wood resembling a plastic material.

Their souvenirs and furniture are enroute by ship - two and one-half tons of it. In reply to the remark "That sounds like a lot of furniture.", Mrs. Bryant answered, "That IS a lot of furniture."

The Bryants will remember their tour of duty on Okinawa for many years to come - Sp/5 Bryant has seen to that. Added to their list of souvenirs are two cameras and many rolls of exposed film.

BAND ATTENDS LIONS CONVENTION--Happy, but tired band members returned home Wednesday June 26 from a trip to Dallas by way of charter busses. The Olton High School band was selected to represent Lions District 2T2 in the parade held at Dallas during the convention.

Nine Accidents Reported, Safe Driving Tips Given

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated nine accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of May, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed, three persons injured and an estimated property damage of $14,155.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first five months of 1968 shows a total of 40 accidents resulting in five persons killed, 16 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $36,-350.00.

During the next three months millions of motorists will be heading for the road on vacations and outings. More vehicles on the road mean congestion and congestions leads to accidents. In order to prevent accident-producing circumstances the Sergeant has listed some summer vacation driving tips:

1. Know and obey traffic laws and rules.

2. Maintain speeds consistent with legal limits and conditions.

3. Signal for turns in ample time and turn only from the proper lane.

4. Have yourself and your car under control at all times.

5. Be alert while passing, turning, pulling out, and backing.

6. Be courteous and considerate to all other drivers and pedestrians.

Mike Smith Soon To Open Dentist Office

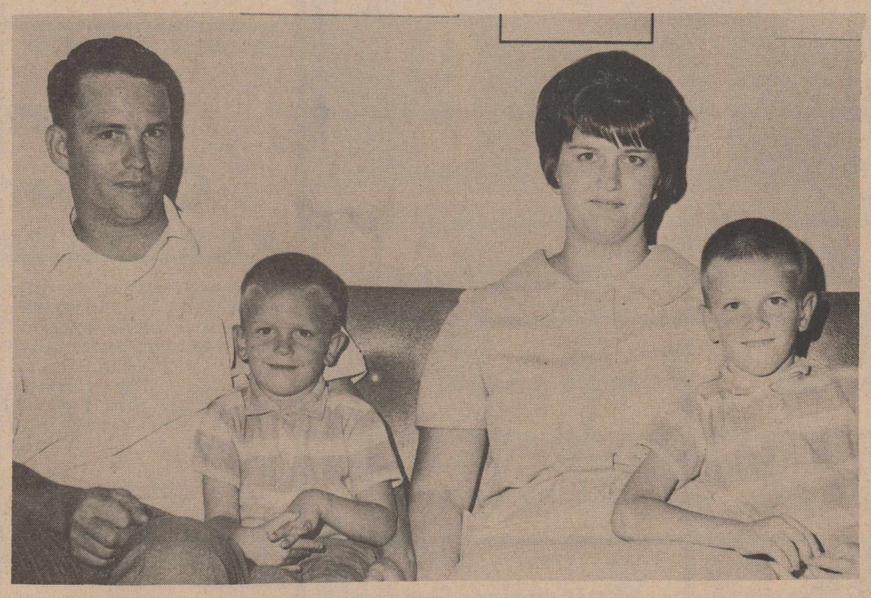

A dentist's office will open its doors in Olton July 15.

Mike Smith, who holds a DDS degree from the University of Texas, Dental Branch, has chosen Olton as the town in which he will establish his practice.

A graduate of Paducah High School, Mike attended Texas Wesleyan College at Fort Worth as did his wife, Jane, a graduate of Hillsboro High School.

The Smiths, who attend the First Christian Church moved to Olton from Houston last month.

The dentist's office will be located in the office formerly occupied by Dr. Lynn Fite at 712 Main. Office hours will be from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.

HOME FROM OKINAWA after serving there for two and a half years is Billy Bryant and family. They are here visiting with his parents before retur ing to duty, this time in Georgia. Billy and his wife Charlotte are pictured here with their sons, Jon Keith and Scott.

Farmers Home Administration Helps Lamb County Families

Credit programs of the Farmers Home Administration helped more than 165 families in Lamb County improve their homes, family farms and communities during the fiscal year 1968, Supervisor Truman J. Jones of the agency's county office in Littlefield said today.

Farmers Home Administration loans in the county totaled $1,399,330 in 1968.

Truman J. Jones, County Supervisor reported that the Farmers Home Administration, which supplements all other credit available to rural people has added $2.5 million to the county's resources with loans the past two years through a range of programs.

With the turnover of funds invested by borrower families, associations and communities, the agency's work is estimated to have had a $17,500,000 impace on the county's economy during 1967 and 1968.

Truman J. Jones, Co. Supervisor said that $123,360 of the 1968 fiscal year lending total through his office was accounted for by Farmers Home Administration insurance of loans funded by private lenders.

An estimated 50 people benefited from loans for construction or improvements of 6 family homes in the county during the year. Housing credit has more than doubled since 1960.

Family farmers who lacked other sources of credit turned to Farmers Home Administration for $73,560 in loans to secure farm ownership and improve their farms, and $490,240 in loans for operating purposes during 1968.

The agency also loaned $635,200 to 108 farmers in the county to overcome losses suffered in natural disasters.

Loans totaling $37,800 were insured to develop jointly-owned grazing ranges shared by two family farms and ranches.

Economic opportunity loans, which enable low-income families to equip themselves for income-producing small enterprises - either farming, or non-farm production or services they can perform in their rural communities - resulted in small loans totaling $3500. to one family last year.

Jones reported that community improvement in Lamb County the past year has been spurred by $85,000.00 in Farmers Home Administration loan financing of a modern water system that reaches the homes of 1104 people.

Special Offer By Wayland

A special offer is being made to boys from cities near Plainview wishing to attend the 12th annual Wayland Basketball Camp, but who do not want to stay on campus during the one-week session.

Boys who would prefer to commute to the camp each day, rather than stay in the dorm, may attend for $39, a saving of $40 over the regular fee.

Barbecue Slated At ORC July 4

An annual 4th of July barbecue is slated to begin at 7 p.m. at ORC.

A Partnership Am-Am tournament has been scheduled with tee-off at 8 a.m.

The swimming pool will be opened all day.

Tickets for the barbeque are on sale at business firms in town and at ORC. Tickets sell for $1.00.

Senator Tower Reports

For the information of the Press: The following is the text of Senator Tower's weekly report to Texans:

* * * * * *

I think we ought to remind ourselves this week about the real forgotten American-- the lawabiding citizen.

Let's take a look at that forgotten man, in the form of a small merchant operating in any city of our nation.

Let's draw a typical picture of a citizen who has saved enough money, or borrowed enough money to set up a small shop where he can display his wares. This is apt to be a grocery store, or a service station or something similar.

From the very beginning this citizen of our Republic is circumscribed and directed by various levels of his government. He must conform to government-imposed ordinances about fire hazards and sanitation.

He, himself, can work as long and hard as his physical stamina will allow. But if his business gets large enough to employ a helper he must pay that helper no less than the government dictates, and the hours must be no longer than the government dictates.

He must not defraud his customers. He must not falsely advertise his products. He must not discriminate in his hiring practices, or in selling his wares. He must, in short, operate the way government tells him to operate or he must not operate at all.

The citizen of whom we speak accepts all these rules and regulations, Perhaps not happily, perhaps grudgingly, but nevertheless legally. In return he is allowed to pay a heavy tax burden to practically all levels of government.

He pays a tax for schools even though he may not have children in school. He pays taxes for parks and recreational areas even though his own business may demand so much of his time that he seldom uses a public park. He pays taxes that sometimes go to subsidize his competitors.

All this he does because it is required of him by the laws, and he is a law abiding citizen.

And, he also pays taxes for the financial upkeep of a system of law and order that is an absolute necessity if freedom is to prevail over anarchy, if the individual is to have any rights as opposed to the whims of the temporary mob.

Then, our citizen finds out too late that the policeman who walks his beat has been ordered not to be too harsh on those who would rob him, or burn his store and thereby endanger his life as well as destroy his property. He finds the Attorney General of the United States taking issue with, and undermining the authority of, local officials who have voiced their determination to see that law and order is upheld.

It has been said time and time again in the field of foreign affairs it does this nation little good to possess massive military power if we lack the will to use that power in the defense of the Republic and for the security of our citizens.

By the same token it does us little good to have the means to protect the lives and property of our citizens if we lack the will to use those means. We might as well, under those circumstances, disarm and disband our police and turn our streets over to the tender mercy of arsonists and looters.

Much has been said about some kind of sickness abroad in our land that causes this unbelievable rioting and looting. And, the villan somehow turns out to be the decent, hardworking, law-abiding American citizen.

Despite the fact that he gives up more than 30-Billion-dollars annually in programs to aid the poor and underprivileged, the decent citizen is castigated as the creator of the ghettos, the cause of riots, the oppressor of the poor. The law-abiding citizen is expected, because of his manifold sins, and because of his "sickness", to suffer in silence and to pay still more, as ransom for his there is a sickness in our land. But the patient should not be identified as the law-abiding citizen.

The patient should properly be identified as the fuzzy-brained, foggy-thinking, opinion-makers who blame everyone but the arsonist for burned buildings; who attempt to blame every citizen of our Republic, except the murderer of course, for murders.

Yes, there are sicknesses in our land.

There is that sickness of heart that is present in all law-abiding citizens when they see their cities, their homes, their businesses go up in smoke while looters and arsonists cavort for the benefit of television.

There is a sickness of dismay among us all when we see smoke obscure our nation's capitol.

And there is, of course, that terrible sickness which comes when we see our chief federal law enforcement officer vacillate in the face of mobs in the streets.

Yes, there is a sickness abroad in the land---it is an illness of the lawless.

And the best medicine to cure that illness is a good, stiff dose of law and order.

COW POKES

By Ace Reid

"Sometime I'd like to see what my ranch house looks like in the daylight!"

Dear Turnrow Junkel

O. C. McBRIDE

Don't you think one of Richard Nixon's disadvantages in politics is his lack of a sense of humor?

That shouldn't be held against him. You'd probably lost your sense of humor too, if you had to shave twice a day.

* * * *

President and Mrs. Johnson are expecting another grandchild. Do you think he will continue to give each one a whiteface calf?

Lyndon may be sorry he started that. If a drouth hits the LBJ ranch, he'll be in the position of parents whose kids feed out calves for stock shows. The first cost is not so bad, but the feed bill gets pretty expensive.

* * * *

You frequently refer to "ketchup" in your column, but aren't you misspelling the word? The labels on the bottles spell it "catsup".

Webster says either way is correct, and to me "ketchup" comes nearer spelling ketchup that "catsup" does.

* * * *

Don't you think the North Vietnamese have escaleted the war since the Paris talks began?

Yes. Apparently our leaders still don't understand Communists. Any Korean veteran could have told them that fighting an ordinary war with the Reds is bad enough, but those "peace negotiations" are murder.

* * * *

Why were so many of the demonstrations of the Poor People's Campaign in Washington directed at the Dept. of Agriculture?

It makes sense. Many of those people used to work on farms. and when a Federal farm program plows under a farmer, it also uproots his hired hands.

* * * *

Have you seen the latest fashions in women's swim suits with cut outs on the sides?

I don't think so, although it's possible I may have seen them and wasn't paying any attention -- to the sides, that is.

Sue's Views

Danger Lurking

BY SUE CANNON

For a change, I want to be serious this week.

A dreadful thing has been brought to my attention by an Olton resident and I think it needs to be aired.

This person's small children found evidence which led him to believe that Olton teenagers have been experimenting with glue-sniffing.

I sincerely hope and pray that this is not true and I can hardly believe that any of our fine youngsters could be so down-right stupid to try such a dangerous thing.

As a mother of several teenagers, I know how temperamental they can be and how at times they think parents don't know a thing about modern times.

But -- I can remember thinking the same thing about my folks.

However, I believe there are so many more temptations now and far too much freedom given most young people.

I have always accredited Olton youth with having lots of talent, good common sense and surely they will have the ability to withstand a temptation such as this which was reported to have been introduced by a person from a neighboring town.

Parents, it could be your child or it could be mine who would suffer permanent brain damage from this terrible thing.

This is something that needs to be looked into and stopped if it is going on, before someone is hurt -- for life.

I wouldn't know the first thing about how to detect whether my children were engaged in this so-called "in" thing. But I am aware of the fact that it could be going on here and I felt that it needed to be told, so that something might be done about it.

In this troubled world our teenagers live in, they are looking for an "out" by getting involved in all sorts of dangerous things, but let's try and keep our youngsters here at Olton safe from these things.

I think too much of all of them --they are a part of my every day life during the school term as I come in contact with them each day and I know for a fact that the majority of these kids are decent, law-abiding citizens.

I just wish they all were.

GRANDCHILDREN VISIT

Twyla and Drew Stockham of Tucson, Ariz., are visiting in the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Elkins.

WEED CONTROL -- Post-emergence weed control in cotton is more positive than pre-emerging. It is used from the time cotton emerges until layby time, says Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist. Timely application of post-emergence herbicides and mechanical methods can drastically reduce or eliminate hand hoeing, he adds. Most post-emergence treatments work best when weeds and grass are less than 2 inches tall and will usually do a better job when the weather is warm. Always use a surfactant at the recommended rate to control emerged weeds and grass, he says. Local county agents can supply details on herbicides and their use.

Push 'em to market fast the PURINA HOG CHOW way..

If you're looking for big daily gains at low cost . . . if you'd like to ship hogs in less than five months, farrowing to market, the Purina Hog Program can help you do it.

Purina Hog Chow, the famous finishing Chow, has what it takes to help hogs pile on economical pounds

One of the important ingredients in Hog Chow is Terramycin*. This broad-range antibiotic inhibits the growth of many disease organisms in the intestinal tract. This results in promoting fast growth and efficient use of feed.

Try Purina Hog Chow with Terramycin the next time you feed out a bunch of hogs. See for yourself how quickly and economically your own grain and Purina Hog Chow can produce pork

PURINA CHOWS

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Vacation time! Wonderful time of the year. That's the time when you go more, do more, see more, and eat more than any other time of the year.

Then when you're due to go back to work, you need a vacation more than ever before!

If I'm fortunate enough to have you reading this, I want you to know that that's what I'm doing right now!

(This is sort of like those pre-taped television programs. How else could I be writing this last week?)

Funny, but almost every Thursday morning I get the feeling that I NEED a vacation. After having machine troubles last night when we were trying to do two issues of the Enterprise and two issues of the Hart Beat, I KNOW I need a vacation.

Yet despite Wednesday nights and Thursday mornings, I've discovered that in less than one year I've become "hooked" on this job.

What other occupation would give you the opportunity to get an order from the boss that goes like this:

"Mozie, there's a man going from Arizona to West Virginia on horseback who just passed through town. See if you can find him and get an interview."

So, off I go, via Pontiac, to catch a man riding a horse across the nation.

And, if you read last week's paper, you know that I did catch him, got the interview, and made a very interesting acquaintance.

Then I had another session with the press camera this week. I believe that thing knows when I get hold of it!

Tuesday night, after the Babe Ruth baseball games, the 1968 All-Stars were named. Well, I go running out on the field, camera in hand, calling, "Hold it guys, let me get your pictures."

Sure enough, there before all that audience, with 15 boys and their coach all ready to say "Cheese", the camera refuses to flash.

It's lots of fun, though. Something interesting happens every day. And the girls here at the "Ladies Gazette" are a wonderful group to work with.

We're already enjoying having Margaret Burrus as one of us - and we're already missing Leah Cross, who's Leah Muller, as you read this.

But I still need a vacation!

Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra To Appear In Lubbock

Mellow "big band" music, and a blending of a slow and lazy Latin sound against hard Dixieland will bring toe-tapping rhythm to the 51st annual Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock Sept. 23-28.

Scheduled to perform on stage in Fair Park Coliseum throughout the weeklong engagement are Lee Castle and his fabulous Jimmy Dorsey orchestra, plus the Baja Marimba band.

The Baja aggregation, a cheerful musical vehicle whose engine is sparked gently by the humor shown to America by Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, is a cigar-chomping, mustachioed lot formed in Hollywood only three years ago by Julius Wechter and Herb Alpert of the Tijuana Brass.

Castle, known as the third son of the Dorsey family that included brothers Tommy and Jimmy, is conductor and "Mr. Trumpet" of the orchestra.

Definite signing of the two attractions rounds out the greatest stage show ever carded for the exposition in its long history. Also due to appear here are Pat Boone, television, motion picture and recording personality; humorist Don Rice, the master of ceremonies; and Diane Shelton, twirler-juggler.

When Wechter and Alpert hit upon the Baja Marimba idea, the two men knew exactly what they wanted for the sound and who they would need to produce it. From the leading free lance studio musicians in Los Angeles they selected eight men to comprise the band.

After many weeks of rehearsal and costuming they recorded "Comin' in the Back Door," which was a nationwide hit. The witty, lilting music caught on rapidly and the band made its television debut on the Roger Miller Show. Later, it was on the Johnny Carson Show, the Jerry Lewis Kraft special, Smothers Brothers and Hollywood Palace shows.

Wechter originated the idea of having the band members perform while smoking cigars and sporting enormous mustaches. He also credits Alpert as having contributed much to the success of today's instrumental music.

Wechter has been good for Alpert too. He composed "Spanish Flea" for Alpert and the Tijuana Brass and it was a resounding hit. Wechter has written many other songs for Alpert.

Their colorful costumes are a take-off on a manner of dress non-existant in Mexico for 100 years --- if ever.

Wechter, the leader who started playing the piano at the age of 5, plays the marimba. other members include Curry Tjader, percussionist; Charles Chiarenza and Frank DeCaro, guitars; Bernie Fleischer, flute; Lee Katzman, trumpet; Dave Wells, trombone; Mel Pollen, bass; and Frank Devito, drums.

Castle launched his musical career playing at Italian street carnivals. Professionally he started with the Joy Hyams band and from there went to the better known aggregations of the century, such as Artie Shaw, Glenn Miller and Tommy Dorsey.

Castle and the Dorsey Brothers had their own orchestras, but Tommy and Lee disbanded their organizations and joined Jimmy to create the new group known as "The Fabulous Dorsey Orchestra." Lee became musical conductor and featured trumpeter from the start.

Although the fair is presenting its biggest coliseum show in history, there will be no advance in ticket prices which remain unchanged at $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50. Performances will be at 3 p. m. on Monday, Friday and Saturday and 7:30 p. m. daily, Children 12 years and under will be admitted to matinees for one-half price and all tickets purchased prior to the fair opening will be accompanied by free gate admission passes.

Many other new attractions--plus expanded standard exhibits and displays --- are being secured for the 51st annual fair. More than a quarter-million patrons are expected to click the turnstiles in the six-day engagement.

Happiness Depends On Many Things

For centuries - poets and philosphers have probed the mysteries of happiness. Now, according to Washington Report, publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Federal Government is taking a whack at it.

As part of a $249,000 package of projects in Puerto Rico, the U. S. Public Health Service decided to find out what made those island people happy. Out of a survey of 1,500 Puerto Ricans came a study, "The Demography of Happiness," which made these remarkable discoveries:

-- People who are in good health are happier than people who are ill.

-- People who think positively are happier than people who think negatively.

-- People who make lots of money are happier than people who make little money.

-- Young people are happier than old people.

To which the National Chamber says could be added: People would be a lot happier -- even ecstatic -- if the federal agencies would stop spending taxpayers' money so ridiculously.

HART CAMP HAPPENINGS

MRS. EDWIN OLIVER
Ph. 262-4242 Fieldton

DELAYED

Nolan Hukill was dismissed from the Methodist Hospital last Tuesday and is now at home. He had surgery three weeks ago.

Edwin Oliver, Elma Burleson and Rev. J. D. Nelson attended a Baptist Men's Rally and Fish Fry at Plains Baptist Assembly near Floydada Monday night. Following the supper an inspirational message was brought by Rev. W. Robert Harris of Killeen. The theme of the program was "Baptist Men and the Word". These three men from Hart Camp went early enough so they could clean the church cabin at the camp grounds. The girls and boys will be attending the different camps in July.

A Bible Study on "The Trials and Trails of the Early Missionary" from the Book of Acts in the Bible, was brought by the women of the Women's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church Monday morning in their regular weekly meeting. Mrs. L. W. Sullivan, Bible study chairman, was in charge of the study. Mrs. Dewey Parkey, Mrs. J. D. Nelson and Mrs. Blanton Martin had parts on the program. Others present were Mrs. H. V. Lynch, Mrs. Edwin Oliver and Mrs. L. W. Sullivan.

Jimmy Lain, Former Resident Hospitalized

Jimmy Lain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Lain, former residents of Olton, is a patient at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

Mrs. Lain and daughters, Susan and Christy, will be in Galveston for a month to be with Jimmy.

GRANDDAUGHTER VISITS

Vicki Ogletree of Lubbock recently spent a week visiting in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Locke and Helen.

Visiting in the L. E. Ball home last week were Mrs. Ball's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. Hall of Pinole, Calif., and her mother, Mrs. H. L. Hall of Tulare, Calif. Mrs. Ball's sister, Mrs. John Moretti of Lawton, Okla. came for Mrs. Hall and she spent some time there before returning to Calif.

Scott Ball of Amherst and Cody Pierce of El Paso is visiting this week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ball.

The Girl Scout Camp that was held last week on the Dick Hopping farm east of Fieldton ended Friday night with a swimming party at the Olton Country Club. Following the swim, home made ice cream was served by the mothers of the scouts. The scout group spent Thursday night on the camp site. There were approximately 54 leaders and girl scouts who attended the camp.

Gary Parkey, Lajuana Burleson, Brenda Leonard, Sharon Hendrick, Kay Johnson and Helen Smith left early Tuesday morning with the Olton High School Band for Dallas. While there they will go to Six Flags, spend the night on the SMU Campus and Wednesday morning they will march in a Lions Convention parade. They will return home Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Savage and children, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Savage and Joe Bob Smith and Mary Bess Smith attended a barbecue supper Wednesday night at the James Overman home at North Spade.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Lynch spent the Father's Day weekend in Baird with Mrs. Lynch's father and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Parkey.

BROTHER VISITS

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Bartlett of Austin came recently to visit Bartlett's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gibson, and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Thomas.

Susan Britton To Play With Wayland Flying Queens

Five outstanding basketball players -- four from Texas-- will attend Wayland College this year and play for the Hutcherson Flying Queens, Coach Harley Redin said.

Two of the girls are from state champion Springlake-Earth High School, one from Class AA state champion Rivercrest-Bogota, one from Victoria and the fifth from Altus, Okla.

Susan Britton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Britton and granddaughter of Mrs. Lois Hollingsworth, a three-time all-stater at Springlake, heads the list of signees. Redin rates the 5-8 sharpshooting forward as "probably the best girl cager in the state".

A former teammate of Miss Britton at Springlake, Anita O'Hair attended West Texas State as a freshman but is transferring to Wayland. The 5-9 forward made the all-state team twice for the Wolverettes.

Linda White is a 6-0 guard from Victoria and is tabbed as a great jumper and rebounder. Glenna Grayson, a 5-6 forward and playmaker, starred for Rivercrest-Bogota. Debra Martin is also a 5-6 forward and playmaker who was a standout for three seasons at Altus, Okla.

Miss Britton will play on the North team in the Texas All-Star Game in Duncanville, July 20, while Miss White will play on the South squad in that game.

The Queens have eight returnees from last season's 26-6 team. At least 10 more girls with outstanding high school records have indicated they will attend Wayland next year and will play for the Queen Bees, Wayland's freshman team.

Smoking — A Slow Way To Committ Suicide

A teenager in Mexico City this April asked a passerby for a cigarette. He will never make that mistake again.

"God gave men noses to breathe with and not to use as chimneys," the passerby shouted. Then he pulled out a pistol and shot the teenager three times. At last report, the boy was in serious condition.

The craving for a cigarette can have disastrous consequences, but attempted homicide is not usually one of them. The damage is self-inflicted instead. Smoking, for too many people, is suicide in slow motion.

"The hazards of smoking are now known to be so great that it is the duty of every physician to advise each of his patients from teenager to oldster to stay away from cigarettes," Dr. Alton Ochsner, chairman of the group, said.

The anti-smoking campaign is picking up steam. That campaign is one of the activities of your local TB-RD association.

The evidence of self-damage is no longer controversial. The medical facts are in--and doctors know it. Surveys show that 95 per cent of physicians accept the incriminating evidence against cigarette smoking. That is why 100,000 doctors have quit smoking.

In the same month as the shooting episode, a new attack against smoking was begun by a nation-wide group of health experts in this country. The National Forum on Office Management of Smoking Problems called on every doctor to warn his patients about cigarettes. It seems that although almost all physicians agree that smoking is injurious, only 40 per cent are actively advising non-symptomatic patients to quit.

MRS. IVIN WOZENCRAFT

Recipe Of The Week

Our recipes this week are favorites of Mrs. Ivin Wozencraft, a teacher in Olton Junior High School.

Mrs. Wozencraft has lived at Olton since she was a young girl.

Essie Lee and Ivin Wozencraft have two children. Their son, Ivin L. Jr., lives in Lubbock. He has four children, Dee, Dena, Darrell and Danny.

Their daughter, Patsy Bearfield, lives in Washington, D.C.

The Wozencrafts attend the Baptist Church at Mayfield where he is music director.

Sewing, cookie making and reading are her hobbies.

RHUBARB PIE

Into raw pie crust put one cup diced raw or frozen rhubarb. Add 1 cup sugar. Sprinkle with 1 T. cornstarch. Dot generously with butter. Cover with perforated pie crust. Bake 10 minutes in 400 degree oven, sprinkle with sugar, continue baking about 45 minutes, or until golden brown.

SUNDAY ROLLS

Immediately on rising Sunday morning, melt 1 cup shortening. Add 3 cups tap water, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 T. salt. Add 1/2 cup water in which 1 pkg. dry yeast has been dissolved.

Add enough flour to make a stiff dough - 8 or 9 cups. The last thing before going to Sunday school, roll on floured board, cut with biscuit cutter. Turn in melted grease, set in warm place to rise.

When church is over, cook in pre-heated oven at 450 degrees. (These may be partially cooked, frozen, and treated as brown and serve rolls.)

JELLY ROLL

4 eggs,
1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 tsp. baking powder
Combine and beat.
Add and beat 3/4 c. sugar,
1 tsp. vanilla
Fold in 3/4 c. flour
Put in greased and floured 10"x15" shallow pan.
Bake 12 minutes in 400 degree oven. Turn out on paper dusted with powdered sugar. Roll. Unroll, spread with jelly, and roll again.

Home Demonstration Club Meets With Mrs. Gallimore

The Northwest Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday with Mrs. J. C. Gallimore for a luncheon. The program was on foreign foods, so a luncheon of Italian foods was prepared.

The menu consisted of two meat dishes: (1) Pasta Rings stuffed with chicken in North Italian sauce and (2) Pata tubes filled with ground beef baked in tomato and cream sauce; the vegetables were a tuna salad with tomatoes, tomatoes marinated in herbs and olive oil; bread, Semolina cakes, similar to fried mush; the two desserts were cheese pie and Sicilian chocolate covered cake and with this tea and coffee were served. For Americans the meal was quite unusual. It was prepared by Mrs. Jack Witten, Mrs. J. C. Gallimore, Mrs. Wayne Painter and Mrs. Andy Wieber.

Each person present wore costumes representing foreign countries such as France, Peru, India and Mexico. Mrs. Bill Pinkerton and Mrs. Winston Barry came as a pair of French hippies.

After lunch a business meeting was held. In the council report it was reported that Mrs. Tom Witten had been named Hale County T.H.D.A. representative and she will be the county delegate to the State Convention at McAllen in September.

Club women brought stamp books and money to help a tornado victim.

Mrs. Wayne Painter showed handcrafts, demonstrating making straw flowers, and showing how to decorate waste baskets with burlap and prints of various kinds.

Those members present were Mmes. Andy Wieber, Lester White, Jack Witten, Clyde Witten, Tom Witten, Terry Hardy, Bill Pinkerton, Winston Barry, Herbert Garrett, W. B. Thompson, R. O. Mousser, Homer Pirkle, Dwight Lewis, John Stephenson, Wayne Painter, J. C. Gallimore and Dan Kimball. There were three guests, Mrs. Ralph Wheeler, Miss Debra Hardy and Mrs. Marie Harris of the Plainview Herald.

The next meeting will be July 2 at the Community Building. This will be a 4-H program.

MRS. DARWIN COX

Miss Connie Ruth Darter Is Bride Of Darwin Cox

Wedding vows for Miss Connie Ruth Darter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Franklin Darter of Bertram, and Darwin Lester Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cox, were read at 4 p. m. Saturday, June 29, in the First Baptist Church of Bertram, with the Rev. D. N. Davis, pastor, officiating the double ring ceremony.

Before a setting of white tapers and greenery the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride wore a formal length gown of white organza with bell sleeves and empire waistline. Accenting the sleeves and bodice were lace appliques. A chapel train was gathered and fastened at the waistline in the back. Her head piece was of pearls and flowers with a shoulder-length veil of illusion. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white orchids, miniature mums and English ivy.

The bride was attended by Miss Jane Altom, maid of honor, and Mrs. Gary Autry and Miss Nancy Kester, bridesmaids, all of Abilene. They wore floor-length gowns of yellow silk organza, empire-styled with bell sleeves. Each attendant carried a white basket of multi-colored flowers and English ivy.

Phillip Don Cox, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Gary Autry of Abilene and Kenneth Wells of Seguin. G. L. Hamilton of Jayton, David Barnes of Kansas City, Missouri and Morgan Darter, brother of the bride, served as ushers.

Ring bearer was Kelly Joe Cox, brother of the groom.

Organist, Mrs. Kenneth Wells of Seguin, sister of the groom presented wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Kenneth Yancy of Canton.

Reception followed in the fellowship hall.

The bride is a graduate of the Bertram High School and a spring graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and for the summer is employed at the Hendrick Hospital in Abilene.

Cox graduated from Olton High School and will graduate from Hardin-Simmons University in August.

The newlyweds will live in Abilene this summer and will make their home in Arlington this fall. Both will be employed as teachers in the Arlington School system.

A pre-nuptial dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cox at the German-American Restaurant in Burnet Friday night.

Food Freezing Tips Given Homemakers

Freezing is one of the simplest, most popular methods of preserving foods at home. It retains the natural color, flavor, texture and food value of most fruits, vegetables, meats and baked goods.

The quality of the food frozen can vary with freshness of product used, methods of preparation, packaging and conditions of freezing says Lady Clare Phillips, Co. Home Demonstration Agent.

For successful freezing, Mrs. Phillips suggests selecting good quality products. Freezing will not improve low grade food. Fruits and vegetables should be ready for table use.

Retaining the value of fruits and vegetables depends largely on the treatment before freezing, storage temperature and method of cooking and serving. Handling the food promptly also retains quality.

All materials should be moisture-vapor proof to prevent evaporation and retain the highest quality in frozen foods.

Mrs. Phillips recommends rigid containers of glass, aluminum or plastic; and sheet wrappings of moisture-vapor resistant plastic films, freezer aluminum foil, heavily waxed freezer paper and laminated papers. Do not use ordinary waxed papers, household aluminum foil and cottage cheese or ice cream cartons. All packages should be air tight. Freezer burn, a surface discoloration on meat and poultry, often results when meat or poultry dry inside the packaging.

Freeze fruits and vegetable at 0 degrees F. or below. Meat should be frozen in a commercial plant at -5 to -20 degrees F. for best results, according to Mrs. Phillips.

As a general rule, the quicker a product is frozen --0 deg. F. or lower -- the better its quality. For quickest freezing, place packages against freezing plates or coils, she says.

Frozen foods undergo slow changes in storage and will not retain quality indefinitely. Store them at 0 degrees F. or below.

Freezing does not sterilize the product, but the low temperature prevents the growth and development of harmful yeasts, molds and bacteria. Many micro-organisms are killed by freezing storage but some survive.

NEWS AND FEATURES — HEMISFAIR'68

WORLD EXPOSITION APRIL 6-OCT. 6—SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Two problems that have plagued all world's fairs--parking and accomodations--have failed to materialize at HemisFair'68.

Although three-fourths of a million people have visited the World's Fair thus far, ample parking and hotel accomodations have been available.

"We have been pleasantly surprised in the first month's operation with the ease of parking and obtaining accomodations in the city," Marshall Steves, HemisFair President, said.

Visitors have found even on heavier days they can drive right up to the HemisFair gates, parking in the 4,500 car lot on the ease side of the exposition. Cost is a maximum of $1.50 per day.

The city of San Antonio has also opened numerous lots near the Fair, within a block of the Alamo, accommodating thousands of cars daily at a maximum of 75 cents.

In addition, privately operated lots have popped up like spring flowers in the downtown World's Fair area.

Despite some reports to the contrary, many visitors have been pleased to find rooms available upon arrival in San Antonio without advance reservations, especially at midweek.

"This is an excellent, magnificent fair ...a bigger fair than the Seattle fair--and better."

Those words of praise for HemisFair came from the man who should know--J. E. Gandy, president of the 1962 Seattle World's Fair.

Gandy, on tour with other members of the Washington State Stadium Commission, made the remarks at a news conference after touring the 92.6-acre World's Fair grounds at San Antonio.

Gandy said the San Antonio World's Fair has "great charm" that he had never encountered at any world's fair.

"You have built well, dreamed well, planned well," he said. "The City of San Antonio will be rewarded for years to come."

Attendance at the popular Alive Pavilion has topped the 50,000 mark and resulted in a dinner for two for a Fort Worth couple.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Reeves were awarded the dinner for two in the beautiful revolving restaurant atop the 622-foot Tower of the Americas after they viewed the highly acclaimed "Sermons from Science" films at the pavilion. The pavilion, sponsored by a group of San Antonio businessmen, has a program of 13 different scientifically accurate, yet entertaining, movies produced by the Moody Institute of Science in California. The films are presented 16 times daily in both English and Spanish.

The program was selected by Time Magazine as one of the top ten exhibits at the New York World's Fair. At Expo '67 the waiting lines for "Sermons From Science" were as much as five hours long.

A monkey tips his hat in thanks for a penny while his organ-grinder master turns the musicbox. Three clowns attract a crowd while posing for pictures with passersby. A group of actors perform fractured Shakespeare.

All are part of the unexpected entertainment greeting visitors to HemisFair'68. Each performs when and where there is a willing audience.

The organ-grinders with their playful monkeys, laughing clowns with Keystone Kop props, and strolling Shakespearean Players are only part of the unannounced free entertainment on the 92.6-acre grounds.

Visitors walking towards pavilions for visits to interesting exhibits often stop and watch a shootout by a pair of Western gunslingers or a fast draw exhibition.

There are also impromptu performances by the Rainbo Puppet Theater, dances by Spanish Flamenco dancers and the music of Mexican mariachis on a floating bandstand on the lagoon.

All of this is in addition to the regularly scheduled free entertainment such as the popular Flying Indians at the Frito-Lay/Pepsi-Cola Pavilion, the fabulous marionettes at the Coca Cola Exhibit, water ski shows, and numerous bands and choirs scheduled daily at the various open air theatres around the grounds.

Veteran World's Fair visitors who made HemisFair one of their stops in April are singing its praises, not only for its beauty and interesting exhibits, but the reasonable prices.

The per capita spending of fairgoers during April was $5.18, including gate admission of $2 for adults and $1 for children, parking, food, rides and games, and admissions to various entertainment features.

The only existing portrait of Amerigo Vespucci is drawing huge crowds of visitors to the Italian Pavilion at Hemis Fair '68.

The priceless work of art of the Vespucci family, and more significantly, of the man America was named after, was painted in 1472 by Domenico Ghirlandaio.

If not for the great flood in Florence, Italy, two years ago, the fresco would not be at the San Antonio World's Fair and Italian officials say it will not leave the country again.

The painting, the only portrait of any of the four discoverers of the Americas, was attached to the wall of the Ognissanti church in Florence for almost 500 years.

The great flood, however, submerged the lower part of the fresco, and left the wall so damp the entire painted back of the chapel had to be detached and placed on a hard movable surface.

Italy sent the portrait to Texas as a token of appreciation for the help Americans gave to Florence after the flood.

Only the top half of the fresco is on display. The bottom portion is in Italy still in the precess of restoration.

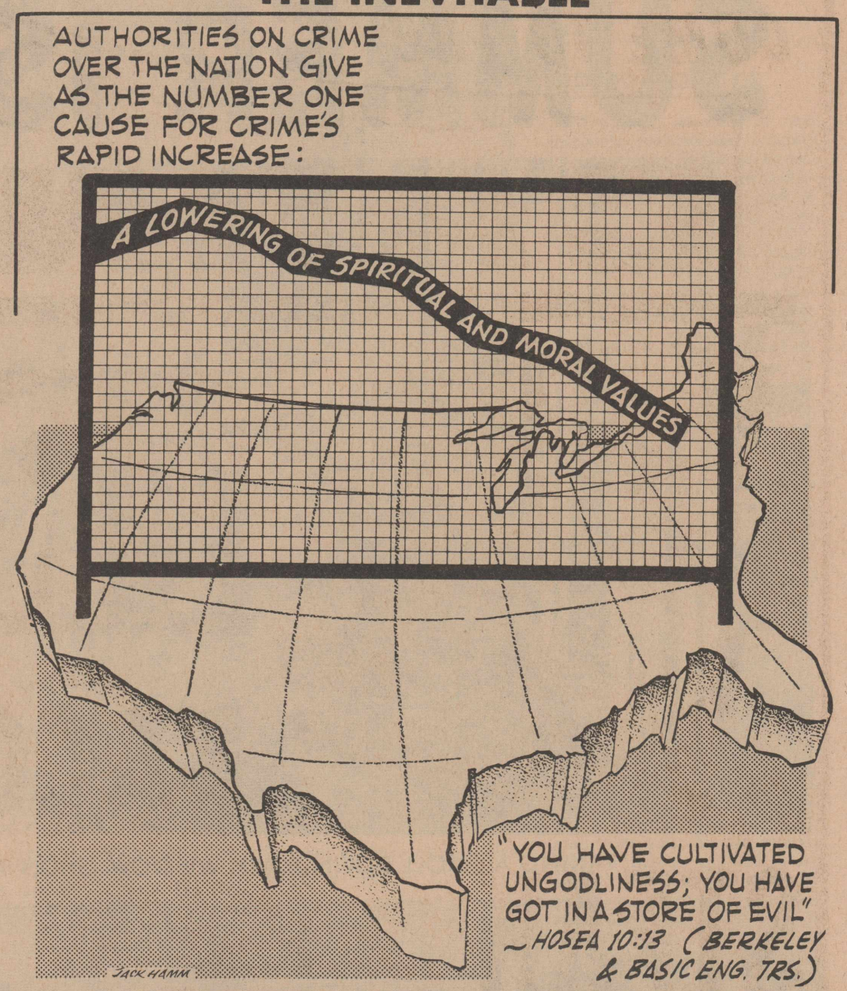

"Superb...exciting... colorful... beautiful..." are only four of the adjectives used recently to describe the San Antonio World's Fair by visiting celebrities.

HemisFair has drawn the praise of a multitude of personalities, ranging from comedian Bob Hope on several national television programs to

PAINT POT COLORS

Do you need, somewhere in your garden, a mass of color — not of a single hue but of nine bright ones that blend with one another yet can be used separately for indoor decoration?

If so, there's a zinnia called Paintbrush for its paint pot colors, new for this year, that fits the description. It has medium-size, double blooms; grows easily from seeds.

Cotton tents, awnings, and canopies were used by the Romans in 70 B.C.

A pound of cotton can be spun into 70 yards of fabric.

Green Thumb Tips

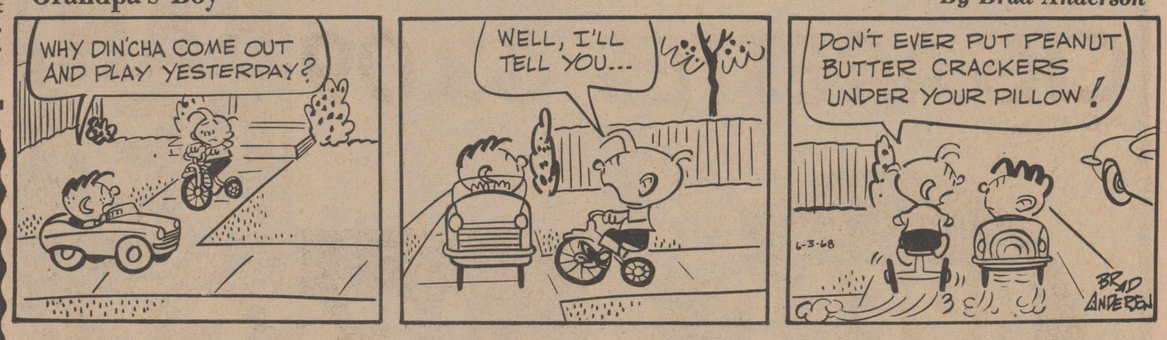

It's easier to cultivate between rows of vegetables than it is to weed. What's the difference?

When weeding you remove an offending plant, roots and all. When cultivating you just cut off the tops with the hoe or cultivator and the roots are left in the soil.

When weeds are tiny, cultivation is sufficient to kill them. If they're large, it's best to weed

THE PRICE THEY PAID

On July 4, 1776, Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.

This coming Thursday, July 4, 1968, most citizens are aware of the meaning of the day.

But have you ever wondered what happened to those men who signed the Declaration of Independence?

Five signers were captured by the British as traitors and tortured before they died. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the Revolutionary Army, another had two sons captured. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or hardships of the Revolutionary War.

What kind of men were they?

Twenty-four were lawyers and jurists. Eleven were merchants, nine were farmers and large plantation owners, men of means, well educated.

But they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well that the penalty would be death if they were captured.

They signed and they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor.

Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He sold his home and properties to pay his debts and died in rags.

Thomas McKeam was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family almost constantly. He served in the Congress without pay and his family was kept in hiding. His possessions were taken from him and poverty was his reward.

Vandals or soldiers or both looted the properties of Ellery, Clymer, Hall, Walton, Gwinnett, Heyward, Ruttledge and Middleton.

At the Battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson Jr. noted that the British General Cornwallis has taken over the Nelson home for his headquarters. The owner quietly urged General George Washington to open fire, which was done. The home was destroyed and Nelson died bankrupt.

Francis Lewis had his home and properties destroyed. The enemy jailed his wife and she died within a few months.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and his grist mill were laid waste. For more than a year he lived in forests and caves, returning home after the war to find his wife dead, his children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion and a broken heart.

Norris and Livingston suffered similar fates.

Such were the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution.

These were not wild-eyed, rabble-rousing ruffians. They were soft-spoken men of means and education. They had security, but they valued liberty more. Standing tall, straight and unwavering, they pledged:

"For the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of the Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

They gave us an independent America.

Can we keep it?

MAYBE IT'S TIME WE ALL DID A LITTLE FLAG-WAVING!

Too often we tend to leave the patriotic displays to just a few civic-minded Americans. Are we leaving the decisions to just a few, too? Maybe it's time we remembered that we all have a stake in this country's destiny. Displaying the flag is more than just an expression of love of country . . . it's a sign that we believe in the principles upon which that country was founded. Let's proclaim our Americanism by flying the Stars and Stripes and let's live our Americanism by participating in America's democracy.
