Ask Us

Q.—Is it true that the prison being located here is the reason that water and sewer rates have increased so. much?

A.—No, as stated here previously, the increase in sewer rates is the result of a new sewage treatment plant required when the permit for operation of the old one expired. A new waste water treatment plant would have been necessary, with or without the prison. Rates were increased to pay for construction of the new plant. Higher garbage rates are a result of state and federal regulations and are occurring all over the U.S., regardless of what industry may or may not be located there. Also, the water and sewer rates charged to the prison will increase.

Pickup-train crash at Ave. E crossing leaves man critical

An 18-year-old Snyder man is in critical condition at Lubbock Methodist Hospital after the pickup he was driving collided with a train Friday afternoon.

It was the fourth vehicle-train accident in Snyder within the past 11 months and the second this year.

According to police reports, William Duffy Galloway, a 1993 graduate of Snyder High School, was driving a 1988 GMC pickup south on Avenue E at about 2:37 p.m. when he failed to yield right-of-way to a 1979 GM train, owned by Santa Fe.

The train was traveling west and was operated by Wilton Edwin McDonald II of Lubbock.

Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Galloway of 4017 Houston Ave., was transported by Snyder EMS to Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room where he was treated for a skull fracture. He was flown to Lubbock by an Aerocare helicopter at 4 p.m.

The accident was the second at the Avenue E crossing within the past year. On Feb. 5, a 1986 Chevrolet van driven by 67-year-old Juan Garcia was struck by a train at the crossing, which contains flashers, but no crossarm barricades.

On Aug. 30, 1992, 30-year-old Charlie Garcia was killed when a train struck the 1984 Chevrolet he was driving at the Avenue B crossing.

And on Oct. 7, 1992, a 1990 Dodge pickup driven by 69-year-old J.C. Watson crashed through a crossing arm at College Avenue, and hit a train broadside. Watson died three months later.

County hopes to finalize pact with airport operator Monday

Scurry County commissioners court, after a week-long budget session, will return to work at 10 a.m. Monday.

At that session, the court hopes to finalize a contract with an airport operator and take care of some routine items before turning again to the 1994 budget.

Commissioners have proposed a management contract with Gary Dean Halton of Victoria to operate the county airport. The contract calls for 70 hours per week of operation and a regular schedule for airplane maintenance.

The contractor would be responsible for hiring necessary personnel to operate the airport and to maintain county facilities. Commissioners have estimated that the county could save as much as $10,000.

In other business Monday, commissioners court will hear a report from Larry Thompson, juvenile probation officer, concerning a juvenile detention contract for short-term stays.

The court will also consider a budget amendment to pay the state comptroller for arrest fees.

Friday afternoon, commissioners court reviewed three proposed departmental budgets — extension service, justice of the peace, and tax collector.

Peace Justice Wanda Rushing proposed a budget of $77,626, an increase of some $6,000 which reflects payroll costs and insurance increases along with computer expense and capital outlay.

Mrs. Rushing said her court took in about $352,000 in fines during the past year, and added that the fine amount should increase starting Sept. 1 when a fifth Department of Public Safety patrolmen is assigned to Scurry County. She also noted that all fines will increase by $10 on Sept. 1 due to a change in state law for crime victim's assistance. Scurry County will only receive 10 percent of the fee increase.

Rona Sikes, tax collector, proposed a 1994 budget of $203,069, down just slightly from the current year. Mrs. Sikes said she had not replaced one employee and was saving in payroll costs by paying overtime during the peak tax-paying period in the fall.

Kathy Roberts, extension service home economist, presented the department's budget which totaled $82,549. The budget request calls for replacement of a pickup for the county agent, but commissioners said one solution would be to look at putting in a new engine to prolong the vehicle's life.

The court, as it has in consideration of other capital expenditure items, discussed a funded depre-

SISD registration slated Wednesday

Parents of elementary students in the Snyder public school system should plan on registering their children on Wednesday, Aug. 4.

Parents of kindergarten and first grade students will register in their home attendance campus. Otherwise, second graders should register at Stanfield Elementary, third graders at Central, fourth graders at East, fifth graders at Northeast and sixth graders at West.

Registration will be held from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. at all campuses.

All students new to the district will need to bring a current immunization record, last year's report card, a copy of the last achievement test results they have taken, proof of residence and a medicaid number, if they have one. Proof of residence may include a checkbook, utility bill or any document showing a current address.

Parents of pre-K students, those children who will be involved in the district's program for four-year-olds, will register from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday at Stanfield, Central and Northeast elementaries.

Meadows Foundation...

Day care receives key grant

Snyder Child Day Care Center has received a $75,584 grant from the Meadows Foundation of Dallas for the purchase and installation of a heating and cooling system.

"This grant actually benefits all of Scurry County," said Shirley Fritz, center executive director. "It's vital because we could not have operated another winter without it."

The grant will enable the center to replace the boiler heating system and air conditioning system with 19 heat pump units. An earlier grant from the M.S. Doss Foundation of Seminole provided one of the units.

With the 19 units, the entire building will be cooled and heated, and the center can expand its capacity to about 300 students.

There are currently 120 students enrolled in the day care center, staffed by 19 employees. In addition, the Head Start Program will expand in August from 20 three- and four-year-olds to 40.

Algur H. Meadows, and his wife, Virginia, created the Meadows Foundation in 1948 to benefit the people of Texas. Born in a small town in Georgia, Meadows built General American Oil Company of Texas into one of the nation's most successful independent oil and gas production companies. This success enabled him to accumulate significant personal wealth, which he shared with many charitable causes.

Today, the Meadows Foundation benefits programs throughout the state in health, education, arts and culture, social services and civic endeavors. Over 1,300 institutions and their subdivisions had received grants, and cumulative charitable expenditures exceeding $250 million had been made by Jan. 1, 1993.

The Foundation has been the recipient of numerous awards for its support of varied nonprofit activities. In 1986, the Dallas Chapter of the National Society of Fund-Raising Executives presented the Outstanding Philanthropic Organization of the Year Award to the Foundation.

With assets valued at more than $500 million, the Meadows Foundation is one of the largest private foundations in Texas.

Furr's to become Don's Value King

New owners of the Furr's in Snyder have announced Monday, Aug. 9, as the date for management takeover and change of name.

Kent Newsom said that inventory will be taken on Sunday and the store will open Monday morning as Don's Value King. He said the new name reflects a strong price image.

"We're excited to bring Value King to this part of the world," Newsom said. He said Value King is well known in some western states.

Newsom added that customers can expect strong emphasis in the perishable departments such as produce, market, deli and bakery. Private-label brands will also be available. "Also high on our priority list is customer service."

Newsom said there will be no physical changes except for removal of the video department. Scanner checkout will continue to be available.

Randy Reeves, a former Safeway and Furr's manager from Lubbock, has been named store manager. Reeves, 40, will be moving to Snyder along with his wife, Angela, and their two children. Reeves is a native of Abilene and most recently has been manager of an independent grocery in Lubbock.

Newsom said many of the current Furr's employees will remain with Don's Value King.

Furr's announced on July 13 that it had sold stores in Snyder, Big Spring and two in Odessa. Newsom Food Centers, a family business headquartered in Big Spring, purchased the Furr's stores in Snyder and Big Spring.

Furr's has been part of the Snyder business community since December, 1949. On Aug. 28, 1985, Furr's moved into its present location with 34,000 square feet at 30th and College Avenue.

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most people have a lot of good in them, but in some it just never comes out."

It's a lesson we've never learned, and ole what's-her-name is not willing to wager that we'll ever learn it. We're talking about the ability to keep the lower half of our face closed.

We were reading about how to keep the upper hand, and the writer said to always keep the opposition guessing. The specific advice was to never let 'em know what you're thinking.

Good, practical advice, but difficult for most of us to follow. However, you can observe the pros in action if you happen to watch government spokesmen on the TV news. They speak in something called bureaucratese, described as fatty, high-cholesterol talk. In other words, they use words to impress instead of words to communicate.

We once heard about a "non-ecological boundary" and learned that it was only a fence. During the Gulf War, a Pentagon spokesman described troop withdrawal as a "personnel backload."

The Federal Aviation Agency told of a "premature impact of the aircraft with the terrain below." I think the airplane crashed. "Rapid energetic disassembly" is a fancy way to say explosion.

Gen. Alexander Haig, chief of staff during the Reagan Administration, once corrected a reporter during an interview when he said, "No, No. I'm not saying anything of the kind; in fact, I'm very consciously avoiding saying anything."

President Richard Nixon's press secretary, Ron Ziegler, once said, "This is the operative statement. The others are inoperative."

A CIA spokesman may have best summed it all up: "In a general way, we try to anticipate some of your questions so that I can respond 'no comment' with some degree of knowledge."

Boy's apparent slaying angers Garland

GARLAND (AP) — The apparent slaying of 8-year-old Kim Nguyen has stirred the emotions of Garland residents, hundreds of whom volunteered their time to search for the missing autistic boy.

"Whoever did it, they have messed with the wrong city, and they will pay for the crime," Garland Mayor Bob Smith said.

"It hurts to know that it turned out like this," said Eric Pierce, a volunteer who wore a T-shirt with Kim's picture on it. More than 350 similar shirts were made with funds from an unidentified donor.

Police believe a nude, partially decomposed body that was found in a field east of Dallas is Kim. They announced Friday that they consider the case to be a homicide, although the Dallas County Medical Examiner's Office hadn't made a positive identification as of Friday.

Kim is believed to have walked away from his family's Garland home about 7 a.m. July 18 wearing only a blue and brown plaid shirt. The shirt later was found about a mile from his home.

"We do not have a cause of death yet, but we are operating on the assumption that it's a homicide," Garland Police Chief Terry Hensley said. "It's unrealistic to believe that a nude boy would walk 12 miles to that field and collapse. He had to get there some way."

Hensley said police have no suspects and no motives. But they're asking residents for help.

"There's someone out there that has noticed that there is a person they know acting strangely since Kim disappeared," said Hensley. "People don't do this kind of thing without people knowing it."

Residents already have shown that they're eager to help. Kim's disappearance prompted a week-long search led by police and hundreds of volunteers, who scoured creeks, woods and sewer tunnels.

After police wound down the search and concluded that he was not within the two-mile search radius, volunteers continued to mail and post fliers throughout Garland and nearby cities.

Guess Who's 21 HAPPY BIRTHDAY From Mom, Dad & Richard

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Sunday, Aug. 1, 1993

In the year ahead it looks like you might enter into a somewhat secret confidential alliances with two others. This could turn out to be materially beneficial for all concerned.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your greatest asset today is your ability to inspire others and to help enlarge their vision and scope regarding their horizons. In turn, you'll benefit as much as they from your efforts. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lady Luck might take a special interest in your financial affairs today, so be ready to move in unison with her if you get positive signals. This could be a very profitable day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Endeavors or ventures you personally direct have marvelous chances for success at this time. You might be able to make big hits in two different areas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something extremely fortuitous could happen for you today through a situation over which you have no real influence. If it occurs, it will make your day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) New people you meet at this time could play prominent, constructive roles in your affairs, especially persons who are either of foreign birth or born a great distance from you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Favorable attention is being drawn towards you today because of something in which you're presently involved. This endeavor has more potential than you may realize at this moment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your judgment is exceptionally keen today, especially in situations where you're looking out for the interests of others as well as your own. Trust your decisions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you devote your time to the types of things you enjoy doing today this could be an extremely productive and profitable day for you. Labors of love are financial generators.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to try to firm up relationships that are of real significance to you. If the associations are strengthened, good things could happen through these special people.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A matter which has been of concern to you looks like it is going to work out in ways that should make you quite happy. The lesson here is never to worry about things you can't control.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your ego might get a big boost today, because others tend to find you extremely attractive mentally as well as physically. Be yourself and let your personality sparkle.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you handle your financial affairs effectively over the next few days, there are strong probabilities for a surplus. Its size will depend upon your involvements.

Your Birthday

Monday, Aug. 2, 1993

Your most successful endeavors in the year ahead could be those which tend to exclude partners. Think very carefully before inviting others to participate in your ventures.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't let it be said of you today that you're a pussy cat as long as everyone agrees with you, but can turn into a tiger if anyone dares to twist your tail. Major changes are ahead for Leo in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph. c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163 Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The way you're presently handling a critical financial matter is not optimum, but it should produce desirable results. Don't change anything this late in the game.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) If you rely upon yourself to create a lucky environment to make your breaks today, you should do okay. However, if you count on others, it's anybody's guess.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An objective you're presently pursuing is very substantial and meaningful, and can be achieved. Do not let associates or detractors convince you otherwise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your judgment is reliable today, although you personally might not believe this to be true. Don't ponder over things to the state of inactivity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Financial matters could be a trifle tricky for you today, so be careful. To remain in the profit column, you must not let your expenditures overpower your resources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friends you enjoy socially might not be equally as appealing to your mate. You'd better get his/her input if you're putting together a guest list today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Owing to an unusual chain of developments, unearned benefits might come your way today. If you fail to share your good fortune with others, the source could be shut down.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're a bit impulsive today and there is a possibility you may do something that could later arouse feelings of giver's remorse. Be generous, but don't be foolish.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An opportunity might unexpectedly develop for you today, but this situation won't be limited solely to you. You must act before others beat you to the punch.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be fortunate today in developments where you are left to your own devices. In matters where you're directly controlled by others you might not be.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Analyze joint ventures very carefully today, because they might contain more problems than promises. Each component must be examined on its own merits.

Mickey Rourke to box in rng

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Mickey Rourke will be paid $90,000 to step in front of TV cameras — to box.

Rourke is scheduled to fight three rounds with a local amateur Sunday night on the popular Argentine TV variety show "Night Rhythm." Rourke has a 4-0-1 record and won his last fight March 31 on a first-round technical knockout.

On his arrival Thursday in Buenos Aires, Rourke said he would like to meet former World Middleweight Champion Carlos Monzon, who's serving an 11-year prison sentence for murder.

Rourke, 34, has starred in such films as "91/2 Weeks," "Rumble Fish" and "Angel Heart."

President Abraham Lincoln was shot and mortally wounded April 14, 1865, by actor John Wilkes Booth while attending the comedy "Our American Cousin" at Ford's Theater in Washington. The president died the following morning.

A Bright Spot In Our Hometown! Anne von Roeder

An ancient philosopher once defined talent as "a loan from God for the relief of man's estate." This month, Snyder National Bank salutes a lady whose special talent is lighting up her corner of the world.

Anne von Roeder is a tireless worker with a special knack of helping other people who need a friend for advice or just a sympathic ear. And she does it all so quietly.

Born in Dunn on July 11, 1934, Anne was the eldest daughter of Ollie and Maurine Richardson. She has two sisters, Mary Alice Dunn and Judy Gebben, and a brother, John Richardson.

Anne graduated from Snyder High School in 1952. Her senior year, she was selected class favorite and she served as vice president of the student council.

While attending Texas Tech in Lubbock, she married Max von Roeder on Dec. 23, 1952. She attended Texas Tech from 1952-55 where she was selected one of the Top 10 Beauties on campus. She was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and is still an active member of the alumni association.

Anne graduated from Southwest Texas State Teacher's College in San Marcos in 1956 with a degree in home economics. At the time, Max was stationed at Gary Air Force Base in San Marcos.

Anne and Max returned to Snyder in November, 1956 where Max became engaged in farming and operation of the family business, Von Roeder Seed Farms.

Anne became busy as a homemaker and rearing three children, all now grown. Lisa Williams is a teacher at Snyder High School, Jeana Riley is an interior design consultant in Tulsa, and Nolan von Roeder is a petroleum engineer with Patterson Petroleum in Snyder. She has five grandchildren, Adriane and Anna Lou Williams, Lauren Duke and Erin Riley, and Weston von Roeder.

Anne is extremely active in her church, Trinity United Methodist, where she teaches a Sunday school class for four- and five-year-olds. Anne also serves on the Trinity board and is education chairman. She was also a board member for the Rainbow School Day Care.

Anne is an active member of the Atheneum Study Club and served as president in 1990. She also helped organize the Christian Women's Club of Snyder and is a board member. Currently she serves on the Snyder Beautification Committee.

What makes Anne stand out among the rest is her natural response of putting other people's needs first. People who need a friend often seek out Anne von Roeder as someone who is willing to listen. Said daughter Lisa, "She has a big heart and is one who always trys to make a difference."

One youngster in her Sunday school class attempted to describe the teacher to his mother. "You know, that smiling lady."

Anne's natural kindness may be one reason that a nickname, "Fluffy," has evolved. She's called that by her five grandchildren as well as Lions from all over District 2-T2 where she served as First Lady when Max was district governor.

Snyder National Bank is proud to honor Anne von Roeder — a quiet, but effective worker — as a bright spot in our hometown.

Lotto Texas signs updated

FORT WORTH (AP) — Updating all those roadside Lotto Texas billboards is a well-orchestrated task. Workers usually get the word on the new jackpot in the wee hours of the morning and make the changes while most people are still asleep.

All told, the update takes about 10 minutes — unless the wind's blowing hard — less time than some people spend picking their numbers.

The process starts immediately after the six winning Lotto Texas numbers pop out, just before 10 p.m. each Wednesday and Saturday.

For the next several hours, a computer in Austin crunches numbers to determine if there were any winners. State lottery officials then fax the new pot size to billboard owners about 4:30 a.m.

Across the state, billboard crews hit the road.

Early Thursday, it was still pitch black in the Fort Worth suburb of Haltom City when crew chief John Hyatt rolled up to an exit off Airport Freeway with Nito Franco, Eddie Chasteen and Adon Contreraz and hustled up ladders to the metal catwalk of one billboard.

They were dwarfed by the string of 8-foot zeros announcing Wednesday night's $20,000,000 prize.

In less than three minutes, Franco had dislodged the "WED." panel, slid it left out of its tracks, flipped it to "SAT." and slipped it back in.

Henry Cisneros' son released

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Surgeons say the son of Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cisneros will be able to do pretty much anything he wants now that he is out of the hospital.

"You can't restrict children," said Dr. John Murphy, cardiologist at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. "He'll handle the restrictions himself."

John Paul Anthony Cisneros, 6, was released Friday, 10 days after surgery to repair a congenital heart defect.

Murphy said the repaired heart is functioning normally and will allow the boy to enjoy common childhood activities. John Paul is expected to start kindergarten in September.

No further surgery is anticipated, Murphy said.

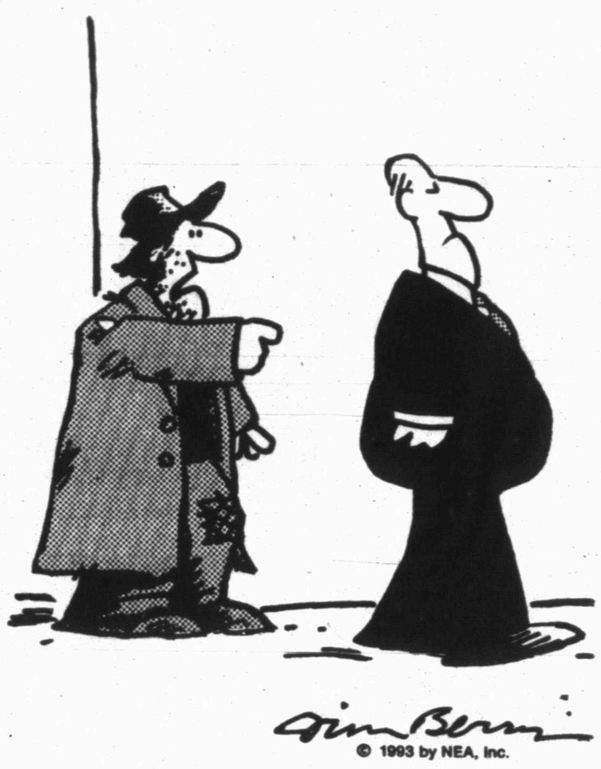

Any parting comments from the 6-year-old?

"He's a man of very few words," Murphy said. "It didn't get much more complicated than 'bye.'"

The child's father is the former mayor of San Antonio.

John Paul was born June 10, 1987, with a missing septum, the muscular wall that separates the right and left sides of the heart. In effect, he had a two-chambered heart with three valves instead of the normal four-chambered heart with four valves.

Conference studies health care issues

LUBBOCK — Officials and community leaders from Scurry County took part Monday in a national satellite television conference to look for realistic solutions for health care in our communities.

The conference, "County Governments and Health System Reform," was conducted by the National Association of Counties and the Extension Service — U.S. Department of Agriculture. Area leaders took part by means of the satellite TV downlink at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center here.

Participants from Scurry County were County Commissioners Ralph Trevey, C.D. Gray Jr, and Roy Idom; Cogdell Memorial Hospital representative Carl Burleson; and County Agricultural Agent Mike Morrow.

The conference included nationally recognized experts on health care policy and practice, a local planning segment, examples of best practices from counties across the nation, and an opportunity for questions and answers on health systems options.

"Reducing health care costs and ensuring acess to care continues to be one of the major issues facing the American public," said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He said the Extension Service is committed to helping concerned officials and citizens build a realistic solution to this problem.

Dr. Kathy Volanty, South Plains Extension Director, director for home economics, said the satellite conference drew participants from all parts of the South Plains. She said the conference goals were:

—To create awareness and focus the attention of county officials, Extension educators, community members and leaders on the issue of county governments and national health system reform.

—To provide a stimulus for initiating new or increased county level action on the increasingly critical local government issues inherent in health care reform.

—To promote greater teamwork and networking between Extension, county elected and appointed officials, and other relevant health care system agencies.

—To mobilize community capacity to provide follow-up strategic planning actions for community and county level health care system.

Garth Brooks has new look

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Garth Brooks has a new look, new songs and a new outlook at the beginning of his world tour.

"I really feel like my wedding day," he said Friday at a news conference.

Brooks opened his 1993 tour Friday with the first of two sold-out concerts at the 97th annual Cheyenne Frontier Days celebration.

Brooks said he lost 40 pounds since his last tour in the fall. After those concerts, he said he might never tour again.

King's Kids' registration set Aug. 4

First Baptist Church will register children aged 1-5 years in its King's Kids program on Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

King's Kids, a parents day-out program, is a ministry open to members and non-members of the church. It is available to children who enjoy playing and learning in a Christian atmosphere with other children their age.

New at King's Kids is Vicki Williams, director, who assumes her new duties this month.

Previously, Williams was a co-owner and director of the Early Education Montessori Pre-School and she also taught two years at the Lollipop House.

Williams has served as a substitute teacher in Snyder for 10 years. She will also continue working at First United Methodist Church's Children's Day Out Program on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

A native of Snyder, Vicki is married to Danny R. Williams. They have two daughters, Vanessa, 15; and Veronica, 12.

Financial Focus

In this day and age of $150 designer purses, $50,000 cars and $1 million homes, bargains can be difficult to find. One bargain that's no secret, however, is registering securities in firm name.

When you register securities in firm name, a bank or brokerage firm takes physical possession of and manages the day-to-day responsibilities associated with your securities. Even though you no longer physically possess your stock or bond certificates, you retain control of the securities and can do with them as you wish.

Registering securities in firm name is truly a bargain when you consider this service typically costs little or nothing and offers so many advatages.

When securities are registered in firm name, the bank or brokerage firm that takes possession of your certificates:

-collects all interest and dividends from the securities for you;
-provides regular updates on the status of your securities;
notifies you whenever your bonds are called or mature;
forwards any pertinent quarterly or annual stock reports; and
-furnishes one simple annual tax-reporting form.

All of these are attractive services; however, the biggest advantage of registering securities in firm name is the safety this service provides. When your securities are registered in firm name, you no longer have to worry about them being lost, stolen or accidentally destroyed.

Consider, for example, this true story of a Washington investor. This self-made millionaire invested regularly in bonds. Although he registered some of his bonds in firm name, he didn't trust his investment firm's computer system with all his bonds.

Unfortunately, this proved to be a costly mistake. When a group of children started a fire while playing with matches, the local fire department couldn't control the inferno. When the last ember had died, an entire apartment complex and 32 homes, including the home of the bond investor, were completely destroyed, even though the fire department was located just two blocks away.

Fortunately, no one was injured in the fire, but he bond investor lost $1.2 million worth of securities in the blaze! Of course, the bonds can be replaced, but the cost of doing so will be about $24,000. That's an expensive lesson.

Many investors find it comforting to keep possession of their stock and bond certificates. If you insist on retaining physical possession of certificates. Record the description, amount and certificate number of each security before placing it in a safety-deposit box,

No one plans to lose a security, to have their property stolen or to lose their possessions in a natural or man-made disaster. Unfortunately, these are everyday occurrences. Why take a chance with your stock and bond certificates when registering securities in firm name is one of the best bargains available today.

Extension Service arranges meeting for chamber board

A two day workshop was provided for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Board this week. The workshop was sponsored by the Extension Program Council Executive Board of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Don Stebbins, economic development specialist at Texas A&M University, College Station, conducted the two day workshop. The workshop focused on long range planning and problem solving techniques.

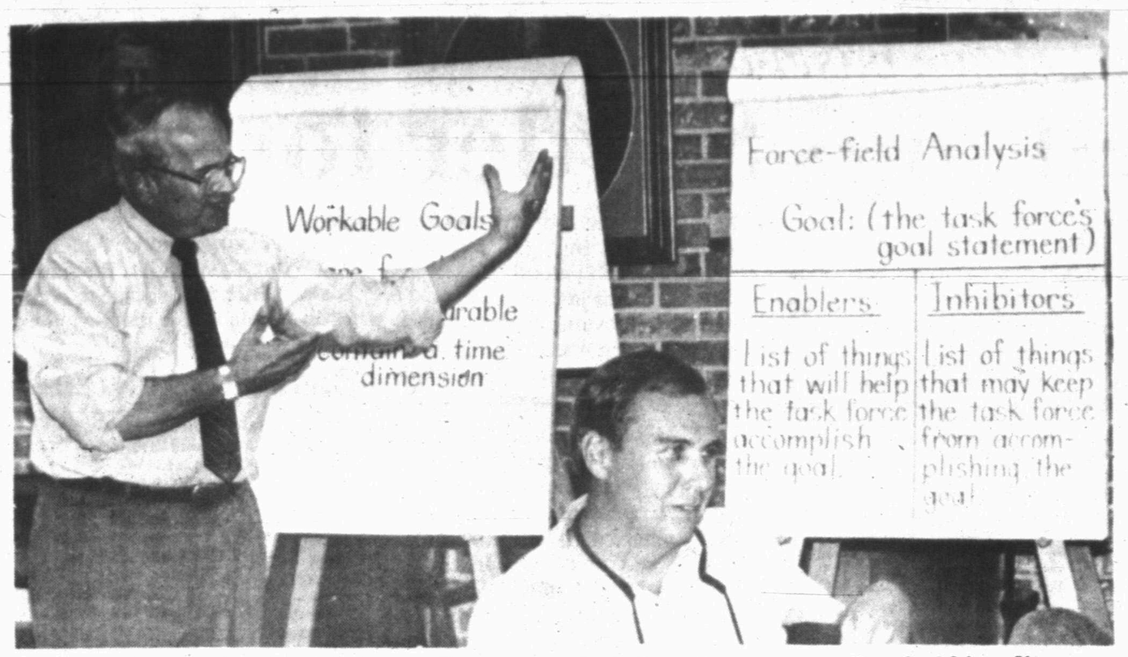

Dr. Stebbins has been with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for the past 16 years and has led workshops in over 50 communities.

Ricky Fritz, chamber manager, said the chamber is "extremely grateful to receive such an excellent training program. This is an example of what can happen when local organizations network and share their expertise to the benefit of the whole community."

Chamber board members who attended include Fritz, Donna Gray, Paula McWilliams, Nelda Huddleston, Pam Browning, Betty House, Pearlene Stewart, Randy Perkins, Joe Kelley, Travis Bunch and Joel Hook.

County extension agents, Mike Morrow and Kathryn Roberts also attended.

'Maverick' set as movie with Garner, Gibson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mel Gibson will take over James Garner's signature role as "Maverick," a cocky Old West gambler, while Garner will portray smooth-talking stranger Zane Cooper in an upcoming film.

Garner starred as Bret Maverick, opposite Jack Kelly as Bart Maverick, on the ABC-TV series from 1957 to 1960. Garner won an Emmy Award in the 1970s for his portrayal of a private investigator on "The Rockford Files."

His big-screen credits include "Murphy's Romance," which earned him an Oscar nomination, "The Great Escape," "Grand Prix," "Support Your Local Sheriff" and "Victor-Victoria."

Madonna, Jackson set concerts

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Madonna and Michael Jackson are dueling for the hearts and ears of music-hungry Mexicans.

Fans snapped up all 50,000 tickets Friday in just six hours for Madonna's Nov. 10 concert at an outdoor speedway. As a result, promoters added a Nov. 12 show.

While fans were making plans to see the Material Girl, Jackson promoters on Friday announced shows Oct. 29-30 also in Mexico City. Those tickets have not yet gone on sale.

Meteors delay shuttle launch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even the heavens seem to be conspiring against the flight of space shuttle Discovery. The space mission, twice delayed because of mechanical problems, now is being postponed because of a meteor shower.

NASA announced Friday that the launch of Discovery's satellite delivery mission will be delayed until Aug. 12 so the shuttle won't be in orbit while the Earth is bombarded by the Perseid meteor shower expected to peak Aug. 11.

Officials said the mission delay was ordered because of the risk the shuttle could be hit and damaged by a falling bit of space rock.

Discovery was originally scheduled for launch July 17. That liftoff was scrubbed less than an hour before launch because of a failed electrical switch.

On July 24, the shuttle was within 19 seconds of liftoff when the countdown was again halted. That time the fault was in the steering system in Discovery's right solid rocket booster.

NASA rescheduled the mission for next Wednesday, but now the agency has decided to wait until after the Earth orbits away from the Perseid meteor storm.

Tom Utsman, NASA's shuttle director, said it's believed Discovery could safely fly during the Perseid event but the agency decided not to take a chance.

"The concern with this year's Perseid event is that it is one of the rare times that the activity is expected to be extremely heavy, thus increasing the chances that a spacecraft in Earth orbit could be damaged by a piece of the debris," NASA said.

ARE INFANTS BORN SINNERS?
By Homer Anderson

The Bible answers this question for us. We are not ushered into life as sinners, "Thou wast perfect in all thy ways, from the day thou wast created until iniquity was found in thy heart" (Ezekiel 28:15). The same prophet of God said, "The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father" (Ezekiel 18:20). "We are the offspring of God" (Acts 17:29). "Except ye be converted and become as little children ye shall in no wise enter the kingdom of God" (Matthew 18:3). In Romans 5:12, it was the consequence, death, and not the guilt, of Adam's sin that passed upon all men, "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

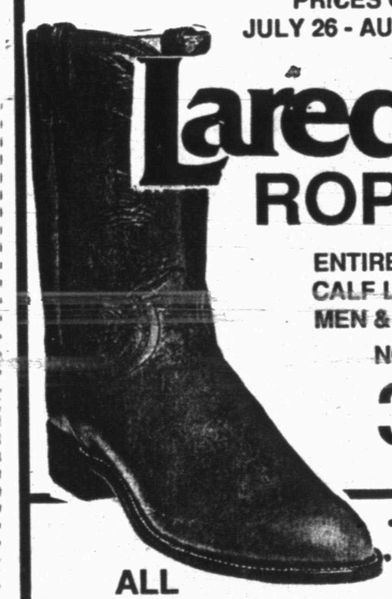

When we sin personally, as all accountable people will, then we have need to believe (Mark 16:16), repent (Acts 2:38), confess Christ (Romans 10:9-10), and be baptized to wash away our sins (Acts 22:16), after the pattern of Christ's death, burial and resurrection (Romans 6:3-5).

Crockett nips Snyder for title

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Snyder had high hopes and hot bats going into Friday's championship game of the Texas State Senior Teenage League Baseball Tournament, but defense proved to be the difference as Crockett capped an undefeated run with a 1-0 victory for the title.

"It was a great game," said Snyder manager Mike Jordan. "We played a good ball game. We made some good plays in the game and they made some great plays."

The only run in the game came in the top of the second inning when Crockett catcher Demond Denman scored on an error.

Denman doubled to open the inning and drew a throw from Snyder catcher Tory Stephens when he tried to steal third.

The throw was mishandled by third baseman Terry Clemmer and Denman scooted to the plate.

Snyder's Reagan Key was tagged with the loss, even though he allowed just four hits and three walks in six innings of work.

Reliever Raymond House got out of a major jam in the Crockett half of the seventh frame, fanning Kelly Guidry, then getting Bruce McKnight to fly out to right field with the bases loaded.

Snyder, which exploded for nine runs in Friday morning's elimination win over Brownwood, mounted a seventh-inning rally which started when Clemmer walked and Stephens singled.

Craig Lang bunted and Clemmer was caught at third, and Brad Hart and Jimmy Henry each struck out to end the game.

Crockett's James Black was the winner, giving up just two hits.

Black was backed up by a defense which went errorless and turned a pair of 5-4-3 double plays.

"We've got a good bunch of guys," Jordan said after the game. "It's certainly no disgrace to come in second place to a team as good as Crockett."

Sweetwater set to host AJRA National Finals

SWEETWATER — After an 18-year run in Snyder, the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals Rodeo will make its Sweetwater debut this week at Nolan County Colseum.

Approximatley 250 cowboys and cowgirls, including several local entrants, will battle for the national championship in 32 events in age divisions from 12-and-under to 16-19 years.

Rodeo action begins Sunday at 1 p.m. with the annual Corky Ogden Memorial World Championship 8-and-under Junior Barrel Race.

The first of five performances in the 41st AJRA National Finals Rodeo will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, following Monday's team roping finals and racing slack, and roping slack Tuesday morning.

The event winds up with Saturday's final show at 7:30 p.m.

The association's year-end awards ceremony is slated for Saturday, Aug. 8, at 10 a.m.

SHS spikers open drills Aug. 9

The summer workout schedule for the spikers includes drills for the varsity and junior varsity from 8 a.m. to noon and from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Practice will be held from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, then from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

The freshman team's practices are from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Anyone wanting to tryout for the team needs to be at practice on Monday.

Players should already have had a physical examination prior to the start of drills.

Following an Aug. 16 scrimmage at Denver City, the Lady Tigers will open the regular season with an appearance at the Aug. 20 and 21 Monahans Tournament. The District 2-4A season begins Saturday, Oct. 9, when SHS visits Levelland.

Ann and Andy tournament slated

The Women's Golf Association at Snyder Country Club will host its annual Raggedy Ann and Andy Golf Tournament Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 7 and 8.

The tournament, featuring teams made up of one man and one woman, will be played in a point-system format, beginning with 8 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. shotgun starts both days.

Following Saturday's 18-hole round, the WGA will host a "Hawaiian Night" dinner at the clubhouse for tournament players.

For more information or to register for the tournament, call Cynthia Jackson at 573-7549.

Athletes need to schedule exams

Incoming SISD athletes who need a physical examination should have an appointment by Tuesday.

All incoming seventh graders and high school freshmen, all new Snyder students planning to play sports, any student who has not competed in athletics but plans to in the 1993-94 school year, and any student who answered yes to questions 1,4,5,6 or 7 on their medical history form must have an exam.

Also, Snyder Special Olympics athletes needing physicals should have them by Tuesday.

The school district will pay for all athletic physicals scheduled prior to Tuesday's deadline. Doctors scheduling SISD physicals are James Burleson, Bid Cooper, Robert Pierce, Paul Thompson and Gary Nussey.

Bulldog Backers plan meeting

Ira High School's Bulldog Backers will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The organization will elect officers during the meeting.

Couples tourney scheduled at SCC

Snyder Country Club's Monthly Couples Golf Tournament has been set for Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Interested golfers need to register at the pro shop by noon Sunday.

A's down Ryan, Rangers, 4-1

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Nolan Ryan paid his respects to youth in his farewell performance at the Oakland Coliseum.

"You have to give these kids credit," said Ryan, the losing pitcher in the Athletics' 4-1 victory Friday night over the Texas Rangers. "They didn't go out there chasing pitches. They took a lot of pitches. They worked the count up and I think their approach to the game was real good."

Rickey Henderson and Terry Steinbach sat out Friday night's game and Mark McGwire remains on the disabled list for Oakland.

That left Mike Bordick and Scott Hemond to start the decisive seventh-inning rally. They hit consecutive singles off Ryan, who then walked Lance Blankenship and left the game with the bases loaded and none out.

Craig Lefferts came on in relief, but after getting pinch-hitter Dave Henderson to pop out, Ruben Sierra drew a walk to force in a run and rookie Troy Neel followed with a two-run single.

Ron Darling (4-4) held the Rangers to one run over seven innings. He gave up seven hits while striking out five and walking none in picking up the win.

Edwin Nunez and Dennis Eckersley finished up, with Eckersley striking out the side in the ninth for his 23rd save.

Ryan, winless in six starts against the A's since no-hitting them at Oakland on June 11, 1990, allowed five hits in six-plus innings, his third start since coming off the disabled list July 19. He allowed four runs, walked six and struck out six but was greeted by and sent off to cheers from the crowd of 42,325 in recognition of his accomplishments during a spectacular 27-year major league career.

Glavine leads Braves to win

HOUSTON (AP) — Tom Glavine and Doug Drabek, Cy Young Award winners with experience in postseason play, are moving in opposite directions this year.

Glavine led the Atlanta Braves to a 4-1 victory Friday night over Drabek's Houston Atros before 47,413 at the Astrodome.

Glavine (13-4) allowed five hits, struck out five and walked five before Greg McMichael worked the ninth for his second save.

Drabek (7-12), who left Pittsburgh and signed with Houston as a free agent last December, lost his fourth straight decision, giving up four runs on six hits, striking out four and walking three in five innings.

Lady Dusters sign Mart cage standout

The Western Texas College Lady Dusters' most recent basketball signee is Mart standout Leigh Ann Riley.

The 6-1 post player averaged 13 points, 11 rebonds and two blocked shots, while shooting at a 50 percent clip from the floor, in spite of missing a good portion of her senior campaign with a broken ankle.

LEIGH ANN RILEY

Leigh Ann should give us some quality depth," said Western Texas coach Ron Jones. "She possesses very good ball handling and passing skills for the post position."

Riley brings several honors, both athletic and academic, to WTC.

Riley was a three-time All-District 16-2A selection, was twice named all-region and was a two-time pick on the Super Centex Team.

In addition, she competed in the 1993 Academic All-Star Game where she won the Rip McGowan Award for sportsmanship.

Riley was a member of the National Honor Society and was an honor student at Mart High School, where she graduated seventh in her class.

Hall to induct new members

Noll, Walsh, Payton, Fouts and Little to be enshrined

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Chuck Noll, with a steady hand and his eyes locked in a cold glare, guided the Pittsburgh Steelers to four Super Bowl titles. Yet Noll never received the acclaim accorded peers such as San Francisco's Bill Walsh or Miami's Don Shula.

But Noll, who along with Walsh will be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Saturday, doesn't feel he was left out when it came to honors.

"Left out? Not at all. The players do it," Noll said evenly. "If I've learned one thing in football, it's that you never do anything yourself. It takes a lot of people. I was fortunate to be surrounded by outstanding people."

Noll will join Walsh in the 1993 class. Record-setting running back Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears, guard Larry Little of the Miami Dolphins and San Diego Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts round out the inductees.

For some reason, nobody ever called Noll — who did much more than just make sure the Steelers made it to games on time — a genius. But it's not like Noll spends his time lamenting what others think.

There wasn't much talent at the outset. Noll, then a 37-year-old defensive backfield coach for the Baltimore Colts, was hired in 1969 by the Rooney family to take over one of the most dismal franchises in pro football history. For almost 40 years, the team had not won a championship of any kind.

The first year, the Steelers went 1-13 with a rookie defensive lineman named Mean Joe Greene. The losing was painful for Greene and for Noll.

Slowly, the improvement came. The next year, the Steelers were 5-9, then 6-8. A tradition of perceptive drafting was continued, with Noll adding L.C. Greenwood, Terry Bradshaw, Mel Blount, Jack Ham, Dwight White, Mike Wagner, Franco Harris, Lynn Swann, Jack Lambert, John Stallworth and Mike Webster over a six-year span.

By 1975, the Steelers were in the spotlight. The Steel Curtain defense limited Oakland to 29 yards rushing in the AFC title game and then held Minnesota to 17 yards on 21 carries in a 16-6 Super Bowl victory.

The next year, Bradshaw hit Swann on a 64-yard touchdown pass and the Steelers didn't have a penalty in a 21-17 Super Bowl win over Dallas.

A core of 21 players, including six that preceded Noll into the Hall of Fame, played in those two Super Bowls, along with the victories in 1979 and '80.

Noll is sobered by being inducted, but — true to form — doesn't think he is any more than an acquaintance of many of the other inductees.

Walsh won Super Bowls in 1982, '85 and '89 with the 49ers. The current coach at Stanford posted a 102-63-1 record in 10 years as the head coach in San Francisco, where, like Noll, he was known as a canny evaluator of talent.

Payton set NFL records with his 3,838 carries, 16,276 yards and 110 touchdowns during 13 years with the Bears. He gained more than 100 yards in a game 77 times and topped 1,000 yards in a season 10 times.

Little was the building block around which Shula constructed the Dolphins' ground game. Six times an All-Pro, Little paved the way for the Dolphins' Super Bowl victories in 1972 and '73.

Fouts took over the Chargers' quarterback job in 1973 and passed for 43,040 yards and 254 touchdowns before retiring in 1987. He passed for 300 yards or more in a game 51 times and had six seasons in which he threw for more than 3,000 yards.

After the induction ceremony, the Los Angeles Raiders and Green Bay Packers meet in the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game.

Dolphins linebacker suffers torn bicep

by The Associated Press

The last thing John Offerdahl needed was another injury.

The Miami Dolphins linebacker learned Friday that he might need surgery to repair a torn left bicep.

"If it's surgery, it'll probably knock him out for the year," coach Don Shula said. "If it doesn't need surgery, he's probably got a chance to come back and play."

Offerdahl, who turns 29 on Aug. 17, made the Pro Bowl in each of his first five NFL seasons. That streak ended after he suffered a serious knee injury in the sixth game of the 1991 season.

Last year, he suffered a rare abdominal injury in the fourth game at Buffalo and missed most of the rest of the season.

Offerdahl was hurt during the Dolphins' workout Friday against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. He said he'll wait a couple of days until the swelling in his arm goes down before doctors decide whether to operate.

Lions-Bills

Quarterback Rodney Peete directed two first-half scoring drives to lead Detroit to a 14-7 victory over Buffalo Bills in the exhibition season-opener.

Peete strengthened his bid to win the Lions' starting quarterback job as he completed 7-of-13 passes for 76 yards and two touchdowns. He also had three carries for 17 yards.

Bills quarterback Jim Kelly played the first possession of the game and completed 4-of-6 passes for 26 yards.

Giants

Eric Moore, facing up to a year in federal prison on steroid possession charges, was suspended by the NFL for the first four regular-season games for violating league policy on anabolic steroids and related substances. The suspension will cost New York's starting right guard $182,500, a quarter of his $730,000 annual salary.

Moore pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of possession of steroids on June 24 in Atlanta. He is scheduled for sentencing Sept. 9.

Browns

Wide receiver Hassan Jones has changed his mind and decided not to retire.

Jones, 29, had said Tuesday in a statement released by the Browns that he no longer felt capable of handling the day-to-day rigors of the game.

Vikings

Coach Dennis Green said quarterback Sean Salisbury will start Sunday's game in Dallas and play about two series. Jim McMahon will follow, then Rich Gannon, Gino Torretta and Brad Johnson.

McMahon will start the game with the Buffalo Bills next week in Berlin.

Chargers

Running back Eric Bieniemy, entering his third year with San Diego, will be the backup to starter Marion Butts. He'll also continue to back up third-down specialist Ronnie Harmon. Running backs coach Sylvester Croom said the 5-foot-7, 198-pound Bieniemy is the team's most versatile back.

Falcons

Coach Jerry Glanville, worried that his players were hitting each other too hard, cut the full-contact drills out of Friday morning's practice session.

"We're just about to pop something, I can feel it," he said. "I've got to give these guys some time off."

Bears

Chicago's passing game looked crisp Friday when it went up against the Cleveland Browns in the first of three days of joint practices.

"It was a great workout," Bears quarterback Jim Harbaugh said. "It's good to see a little different scheme. They play a similar coverage our people do, but a little different technique."

Eagles

Herschel Walker, who sparked a turnaround in Philadelphia's running game last year, gets a chance to continue that improvement when the Eagles play the New Orleans Saints tonight at the 48,000-seat Tokyo Dome.

Rams

Coach Chuck Knox denied a report that Dallas has contacted the Rams about a possible trade for unsigned running back Cleveland Gary.

SWC officials meet Hatchell

DALLAS (AP) — The Southwest Conference initiated a Hall of Honor and introduced its new commissioner and two new head coaches Friday at its annual football media day and luncheon.

The league's 35th annual kickoff luncheon was an opportunity for Commissioner Steve Hatchell to formally take the helm. Hatchell was named as the SWC's fifth commissioner in January, replacing the retiring Fred Jacoby.

Coaches and players at the luncheon agreed that the new leadership has sparked a renewed camaraderie among SWC teams.

"I've never seen a year where there's been more enthusiasm about the Southwest Conference," said A&M head coach R.C. Slocum.

"There is a general optimism by the schools, and the spirit among the coaches is the best it's been," Slocum said.

Collier slips to fifth place

GILLETTE, Wyo. — Snyder's Bronc Collier slipped to fifth in saddle bronc riding after Friday's session of the National High School Finals Rodeo.

Collier, Texas high school saddle bronc champion, was second in the go-round after a Thursday score of 59. Thursday's leader, Otey McCloy of Licking, Mo., was also shoved down a notch as Lehi, Utah cowboy Rusty Allen scored a 73 Friday for first.

McCloy's 65 is second and a 64 from Dusty Kluesner of Salmon, Idaho is in third.

Defending champion Texas is in first place in the team standings, followed by Oklahoma, Wyoming, Colorado and Arkansas.

County football teams open summer drills on Wednesday

There are two ways to look at the opening of summer football workouts.

There is the way the fans see it, as the beginning of a new season, the start of an annual West Texas ritual.

And there is the way the players view the grueling two and three-a-day workouts in the merciless heat.

However you look at it, the time is here.

Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh grid squads all open workouts Wednesday in preparation for the opening of the regular season on Sept. 3.

Snyder head coach David Baugh has scheduled three workouts a day and a skull session for the Tigers.

Snyder varsity and JV gridders will practice on defensive skills from 8 to 9:30 a.m., starting Wednesday, followed by 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. kicking team drills.

The skull session begins at 4 p.m. and the offense works out from 5 to 6:30 p.m. daily through Aug. 10.

Snyder's freshmen have practices scheduled from 8 to 10 a.m. daily from Wednesday until Aug. 10.

The Tigers' annual intrasquad scrimmage, the Watermelon Bowl, is slated for Saturday Aug. 14. Snyder's other scrimmages include an Aug. 19 meeting with Ft. Stockton in Stanton and an Aug. 27 battle against Ballinger, there.

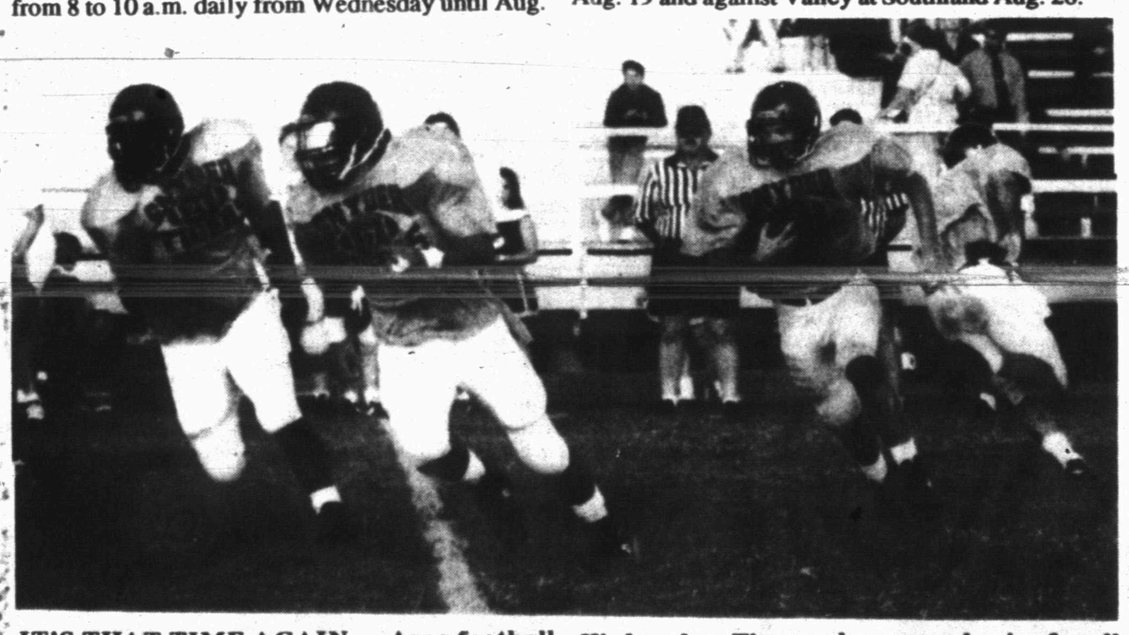

The Tigers, who finished out of the Class 4A playoffs for the first time in three years with a 6-4 record in 1992, will kick-off the campaign with a Sept. 3 battle against long-time rival Sweetwater.

Ira's workout schedule features a single practice daily, starting at 7:30 a.m. Preseason scrimmages are slated against Blackwell on Aug. 20 and Three Way at Southland on Aug. 26.

First-year coach Darrell Janssen will lead the Bulldogs against Aspermont in the season debut.

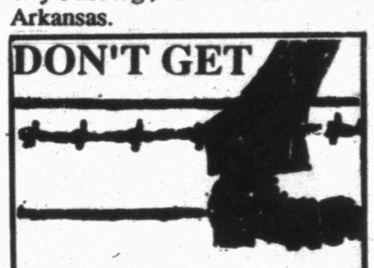

Also led by a new coach, Hermleigh's Cardinals will hold drills from 7:30 to 9 a.m., then from 7 to 9 p.m.

Coach David Rogers and the Cards tangle with Sands in the first game of their season following scrimmages against Dawson at Borden County on Aug. 19 and against Valley at Southland Aug. 26.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN — Area football teams begin gearing up for the 1993 season when two-a-day drills start this week. Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh squads all open summer practices Wednesday. The regular season begins for all three teams with games on Sept. 3. (SDN Staff Photo)

High court denies Tonkawa Indians request

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court has refused an Indian tribe's effort to force Land Commissioner Garry Mauro to designate more than 4,000 acres of land for them, as called for in an 1866 law.

The Tonkawas, currently settled in Oklahoma, said in court documents that the case revolves around "whether the state of Texas will live up to promises it made in the past to ... a tribe of Indians who have sacrificed their lives in defense of the citizens of this state."

Court documents relate that the Legislature in 1866 directed the state to set aside a league of land — 4,428.4 acres — to be used by the Tonkawa tribe as a homeland.

That act came after the Indians had served as scouts and fought alongside Texans in battles, and even forestalled a Union-organized Indian raid on Texas during the Civil War by warning the state of the plan, according to court documents.

The thwarted raid was planned at an Oklahoma reservation that the Tonkawas had been moved to, from Texas. After it was averted, the Tonkawas were attacked by other tribes and sought asylum in Mauro to evaluate their claim.

But the tribe said that Mauro hasn't acted to "close this real estate transaction," and has ignored an offer by private individuals to donate land. So they asked the Supreme Court to force Mauro to either grant them state land or accept the donation on the terms of those offering it.

The court this month refused their motion, as requested by the state, which asked justices to not intrude on a continuing investigation of the tribe's claim.

"The tribe has acted in haste, with no sound basis in law," the state said.

Thomas Graves, a Dallas lawyer representing the Tonkawas, said Friday the tribe has met with Mauro since last summer and will consider other legal avenues "if we don't get some prompt response."

"This tribe is living in impoverished economic conditions now," Graves said. "They don't have the luxury of going months on end while something gets resolved."

He said they believe gaining the Texas land would give them "better economic opportunities."

Ron Calhoun, a spokesman for the General Land Office, said it wouldn't be appropriate to comment at length on the Tonkawas' request because it still is under consideration. He said that the Indians were moved from Texas by the federal government, along with several other tribes, to the Oklahoma reservation.

"This case derives from an unfortunate set of circumstances dating back to the last century," Calhoun said. "The Tonkawas were friends of Texas, frequently serving as scouts during and after the Civil War."

Ag experts: 'Don't panic over bees'

PHOENIX (AP) — Africanized "killer bees" entered Arizona several months earlier than expected, but experts say there's no need for the public to panic.

Six swarms of the hybrid honeybees have been found in the state so far, including four this month near the border town of Sasabe.

Another batch was collected from a trap near Mohawk, about 54 miles east of Yuma and 40 miles north of the Mexican border. Authorities said an isolated swarm killed a dog in Tucson on June 18.

The bees, which have migrated north since they escaped from a Brazilian breeding experiment in 1957, are known as killer bees because of their aggressive behavior.

"To let people think we can eradicate them would be misleading," state Agriculture Director Keith Kelly said at a news conference Friday. "We anticipate they'll be in the Phoenix area in the not-so-distant future."

"There is no reason to panic," said Elba Quintero, Africanized honeybee program manager for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. "We're dealing with another honeybee. But it's a honeybee with a personality problem."

At least 150 deaths linked to killer bee stings have been reported in Mexico in the last five years. An 82-year-old rancher's death July 15 in Texas is the first attributed to the bees in the United States.

Officials previously predicted the killer bees wouldn't reach Arizona until this fall.

"They're maybe two to three months early," Quintero said. "They followed a different route. We expected them to migrate through Nogales and Douglas, but the bees follow waterways and they followed a small river in Sasabe."

Arizona operates more than 300 swarm traps along the border to monitor the movements of the killer bees. The bees are almost identical in size to the European honeybee but are more defensive of their hive and more easily provoked.

Quintero said she was been inspecting the traps for the past three days "and the conclusion is we do have the Africanized bees at the border, and the front will probably arrive (in Arizona in full force) in the next year."

She said trap lines are being moved 30 to 50 miles north after each new swarm is found.

According to Quintero, some of the isolated swarms may have gotten to Arizona through migratory beekeepers or by hitching a ride on a train.

"We have no control over the (wild) population," she said. "But we are hoping that the beekeeper colonies can be controlled."

Quintero said there is no way to kill the bees at this time.

"With the present technology we have, they cannot be eradicated," she said. "If we used a spray system, we'd destroy the European honeybee as well, and we can't do that."

State agricultural officials said nearly one-third of the food produced for consumers benefits from pollination by insects, including honeybees. European honeybees are better producers than their African counterparts, Quintero said.

Because of the temperate climate in Arizona, experts have predicted the killer bees' migration may slow from a normal rate of 200 miles per year to 100 miles a year.

But Quintero said experts cannot tell how far north the killer bees will eventually migrate.

"We're hoping they will stop when they get too cold, but we don't know yet," she said. "They have survived in Mexico City (at 7,500 feet in altitude). They've been detected all over the state in Texas, and we'll know in another year or so how they survive there."

Meanwhile, authorities are warning people to avoid the bees' favorite nesting places — hollow pipes, trees, cacti and saguaros.

Trust fund set up for 2-year-old

A trust fund for two-year-old bone cancer patient Jamie Glover has been established in Dallas.

Jamie is the grandson of Jack and RaVona Glover of Snyder and the son of Loby and Chandra Glover of Irving.

Jamie was diagnosed with neuroblastoma on June 17. The disease has now spread to his bone marrow. He began chemotherapy June 22 and will be in Children's Medical Center in Dallas on and off for the next several month.

After his cancer is in remission, he will require a bone marrow transplant. His insurance will not cover the cost of the procedure because they consider it to be an experimental treatment.

Anyone interested in helping Jamie may send a donation to: Jamie Cass Glover Trust Fund, Attention Cindy Cooper, First Interstate Bank, 3535 Forest Lane, Dallas, TX 75234.

Blood donations on Jamie's behalf are also being accepted at Meeks Blood Bank in Abilene, Carter Blood Bank in Fort Worth and Parkland Blood Bank in Dallas.

Is anti-inflammatory drug safe?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Three years ago I was diagnosed with rheumatoid arthritis and was placed on Carafate and Voltaren. I subsequently changed doctors and the new one took the Carafate away but suggested I continue with the Voltaren. My pharmacist now tells me that long-term effects of this drug can be dangerous. I'm often in extreme pain but am almost afraid to take any medication because of the conflicting opinions.

DEAR READER: Voltaren is a member of a class of medicines known as non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs. It is commonly prescribed to reduce the pain of arthritis, for which it is an effective remedy. In the main, it is safe.

Unfortunately, all NSAIDs have one serious side effect in common: the ability to irritate the stomach and cause ulcers. This can lead to heartburn, indigestion and internal bleeding. Therefore, patients on Voltaren (and similar medicines) must be monitored by their physicians, so that early intestinal irritation can be diagnosed and treated (by withdrawing the drug and/or prescribing anti-ulcer medication, such as Zantac or Carafate). Also, NSAIDs can worsen some kidney disorders.

In my practice, I have many patients taking Voltaren and most are well-satisfied — in large part because the once-a-day pill does the trick. However, in occasional instances, a patient may not tolerate the drug because of intestinal symptoms or kidney damage. In such circumstances, the drug must be stopped and a less-effective (but safer) product, such as acetaminophen, substituted.

Although your pharmacist is technically correct, I believe that he overstated the dangers and frightened you unnecessarily. Return to your physician, who is your best resource to resolve your dilemma. He may choose to have you continue the Voltaren or change to another medication. In any case, you shouldn't have to live in pain.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are there any side effects of Centrum and is it really healthy to take?

DEAR READER: Centrum, one of many similar products, is a multi-vitamin/mineral preparation that is harmless when taken according to the manufacturer's directions. It is an appropriate nutritional supplement.

What disease affects about 20 percent of American adults and children and is the sixth most common ailment in the United States? Allergic rhinitis, otherwise known as hay fever. No one knows the astronomical cost of the affliction, in terms of lost days of productivity and the expense of medicines, but it is undoubtedly in the millions of dollars.

Allergic rhinitis can be either seasonal (during certain times of the year) or perennial (relatively constant): The pattern gives a clue to the cause. Symptoms include fatigue, head congestion, repetitive sneezing, runny nose, itchy eyes and throat, chronic cough and post-nasal drip.

The disorder is usually caused by allergens, specific environmental substances to which the patient has become sensitized (allergic). Such substances include the usual pollens, mold spores and animal dander, as well as a host of unsuspected sources, notably dust mites and cockroaches.

In seasonal rhinitis, symptoms are most prevalent during specific growing seasons: for example, tree pollen in late March through May, grass pollen from May until July and ragweed — which accounts for about 75 percent of patients with allergic rhinitis — from mid-August to the first frost.

In contrast, perennial rhinitis is year-round because it is commonly caused by substances, such as mold and dust mites, that are present in the house and do not appreciably vary from season to season. Most mold spores are present in bedding, carpeting and moist indoor areas; some spores, such as alternaria, are found out of doors during two peaks: early spring and late summer. Allergies to the fecal matter excreted by dust mites can be especially bothersome because these tiny critters, which feed on the shed scales of dead human skin, flourish in dusty, damp environments that are extremely difficult to eradicate.

Regardless of cause, patients must attempt to discover the allergen to which they react; then they can try avoidance, which is the first step in treating allergic rhinitis. I'll describe specific avoidance techniques in a minute.

Patients with severe rhinitis may have to undergo allergic testing to pinpoint the causes of their problems. In most cases, skin testing (using the prick method or injections into the skin) will define the offending allergen. Then, avoidance measures may substantially reduce symptoms. If not, desensitization shots may be necessary. In increasing concentrations, these injections are administered under the supervision of an allergist.

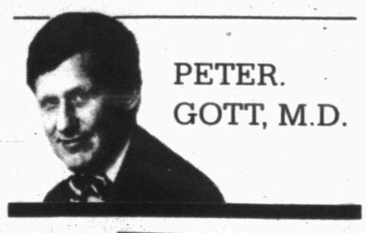

Antihistamines, such as (over-the-counter) Benadryl and Teldrin or (prescription) Hismanal and Seldane usually relieve symptoms. However, avoidance of allergens is the cornerstone of therapy. Dr. Jonathan Bernstein of the Department of Internal Medicine, Cincinnati Medical Sciences Center, suggests the following in a recent issue of Postgraduate Medicine:

- Close windows and run the air conditioners during the height of the pollen season.
- Avoid lawn mowing and leaf raking (which can release mold spores).
- Use dust-proof covers over pillows, mattresses and upholstered furniture.
- Dust frequently with a damp cloth.
- Keep floors clean and especially free of dust balls.
- Use a dehumidifier to reduce indoor humidity below 50 percent; this provides an inhospitable environment for dust mites.
- Keep animals outdoors or, at least, out of the bedroom.
- Wash cats weekly to reduce dander.
- Consider air-filtration devices and electrostatic filters that remove dust, pollen, mold and dander from the air.
- Don't move to another part of the country because you're just as likely to develop new allergies after exposure to allergens in the new environment.

In summary, allergic rhinitis is a common ailment, causing symptoms of congestion and runny nose that can be helped by avoidance of the offending allergens, medication to relieve stuffiness and desensitization injections.

Krenek, WTC honored for safety effort

Dr. Harry Krenek, president of Western Texas College, was recently honored by Hibbs-Hallmark & Company of Tyler. WTC participates in a 20 member Association of Community Colleges that formed a purchasing tool for workers' compensation insurance through Hibbs-Hallmark & Company.

The purpose of the award was to honor the community colleges which had achieved low levels of losses due to strict adherence to safety programs during the 1991-1992 school term. The combined savings to all colleges was in excess of $700,000 over what they would have paid under a fully insured program.

Western Texas College was a platinum award recipient, which resulted from losses being less than 25 percent of the funds set aside by the college to pay claims during the year. This created a savings to the community college of $38,515.

The partially self-funded insurance program designed by Hibbs-Hallmark & Co. places this responsibility for safety with the member community college. HHC has a team of professional loss control engineers who assist with compliance of a strict set of safety standards. The savings generated from these reduced losses remain with the colleges.

Barry Jones, executive vice president of Hibbs-Hallmark & Company stated, "The taxpayers should be pleased to know that the administration of Western Texas College is doing everything possible to insure a safe working environment for the employees, as well as minimizing the cost of workers' compensation.".

Two men enter guilty pleas in 1992 triple murder case

KERRVILLE (AP) — A pretrial hearing has been set for Sept. 3 for two men who are charged with capital murder in the slaying 16 months ago of an 83-year-old man, his 74-year-old wife and her 44-year-old daughter.

James John Steiner, 21, and Samuel Clark Gallamore, 22, pleaded innocent Friday at their arraignment before State District Judge Karl Prohl.

They were ordered held without bond in the Kerr County Jail, where they have been since there arrest on Friday of last week.

Each man is charged with three counts of capital murder in connection with the slayings of Clayton Kenney, 83; his wife, Juliana, 74; and Mrs. Kenney's daughter, Adrienne Arnot, 44.

They were stabbed and beaten to death March 29, 1992, at their home off Texas 16. Authorities said the motive appears to have been robbery. Officials said the assailants stole with the intent of selling items for money to buy drugs.

Officials have said a spoon collection and many other items worth several thousand dollars were taken from the Kenneys' residence.

The items were unearthed in eastern Kerr County shortly after Steiner and Gallamore were taken into custody. They were arrested based on information from two Crimestoppers tips, one in April and another July 18.

The tipsters are to share $6,000 in rewards that were offered for information in the case, officials said.

The judge appointed lawyers for both suspects on Friday, naming Norman Whitlow to represent Steiner and Steve Pickell to represent Gallamore.

Attorneys imposed a voluntary gag order on themselves. Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton said after Friday's brief hearing that he and the defense attorneys agreed to refrain from discussing the substantive matters of the case in order to avoid a gag order by the judge.

"We have voluntarily made the agreement," Sutton said.

He added that he expected the case to be moved out of Kerr County on a change of venue.

Movie planned

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Oh no! Mr. Bill of "Saturday Night Live" fame is part of a double feature with "Ernest" star Jim Varney. YaknowwhatImean?

A short film, "Mr. Bill Goes to Washington," will be shown with "Ernest Rides Again" — the latest in a series of Ernest movies.

"Mr. Bill Goes to Washington" is a spoof in which Mr. Bill pokes fun at officials in the nation's capital.

Israel pushes troops and armor into S. Lebanon; attack feared

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Israel pushed troops and armor into south Lebanon overnight, raising fears of a ground attack against Shiite Muslim guerrillas who have fired rockets into northern Israel.

Tank-led Israeli forces deployed Friday night in combat formation in Israel's self-proclaimed "security zone," facing villages from which the Iranian-backed Hezbollah, or Party of God, is suspected of launching rockets, said security sources, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The reported deployment followed a sixth day of Israeli attacks on southern Lebanon. In all, the offensive has killed at least 117 people, wounded 487 and forced 10 percent of Lebanon's people to flee north to the capital, Beirut, from 80 battered towns and villages in the south.

Radio stations on Friday broadcast appeals for donated blood and medical supplies, and Lebanon's beleaguered government struggled to cope with the 500,000 refugees who have fled their homes.

Israel launched the campaign Sunday to quash attacks by Shiite Muslim and Palestinian guerrillas that killed seven Israeli soldiers in southern Lebanon early this month. Israel has pledged to continue the offensive until rockets stop hitting northern Israel.

Hezbollah guerrillas showing no sign of capitulating.

After nightfall Friday, Israel brought fresh reinforcements of about 50 Merkava tanks into the security zone, said security sources in south Lebanon. That raised the Israeli force deployed in the zone to 3,500 troops backed by tanks, armored personnel carriers and howitzers.

A Lebanese police spokesman, who cannot be named according to regulations, said Israeli gunners shelled key road intersections and mountain trails leading to southern villages in an apparent effort to block guerrilla reinforcements.

The fighting has forced refugees to flee the south for Beirut and east Lebanon's Bekaa Valley. Many have since taken refuge in squalid classrooms in Beirut's schools, mosques, hotels or outdoors.

Radio stations appealed for donated blood and medical supplies. Mayors of southern Lebanese villages went on air to urge refugees to go to schools and mosques in Beirut Saturday to receive relief. Kuwait, France and Egypt, meanwhile, have promised relief shipments.

In Damascus, Arab foreign ministers were to continue discussions Saturday on the crisis. Arab leaders have warned that the Israeli offensive could kill the peace talks between Israel and its neighbors.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres said Israel didn't want a full-scale border war and hoped for a truce before Secretary of State Warren Christopher arrives in the Mideast next week.

'Star Trek' star has heart surgery

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Walter Koenig, who played Ensign Pavel Chekov in the "Star Trek" television series and movies, was in serious condition Saturday after heart surgery.

Koenig, 56, underwent surgery at St. Francis Hospital in suburban Evanston on Friday night.

He was hospitalized earlier in Chicago after he complained of chest pains while attending a "Star Trek" convention, said St. Francis spokeswoman Jill Newham.

"Star Trek" ran on NBC from 1966 to 1969. Its enduring popularity has since inspired six movies, two television spinoffs and conventions that draw thousands of fans.

Koenig played the role of the Starship Enterprise's Russian navigator.

Obituaries

Sonny Lee

1958-1993

Services are pending at Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home for Carlton "Sonny" Lee, 35, who died Friday in a Pittsburg, Pa. hospital while awaiting a liver transplant.

A 1976 graduate of Snyder High School, he was the son of C.H. and Joy Lee of Snyder.

Lee then attended Western Texas College where he was active in student government and Phi Theta Kappa, national honorary fraternity for junior colleges. He then earned his degree from American University in Washington, D.C.

Lee was active in Democratic politics and worked for U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm. He later joined the Peace Corps and at the time of his death was working for a world health organization and lived in Washington, D.C.

Survivors, in addition to his parents, are three sisters, Annette Truluck of Charleston, S.C., Darlene Kriewald of Austin and Susan Humble of Levelland; his grandmother, Nellie Phillips of Olden; and seven nieces and nephews.

Odell Rains

1927-1993

ROTAN — Services were conducted at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Rotan First Baptist Church for Odell W. Rains, 66, who died Thursday in Fisher County Hospital.

Officiating at the service was the Rev. Keith Berryman and the Rev. T. O. Upshaw. Burial followed in the Rotan Cemetery.

Born in Trent, Mr. Rains was a life-long resident of Fisher County. He was a member of the Cross Roads Baptist Church and had served as a deacon since 1947. He also was a member of the Hobbs School Board for nine years. He was a director of the Farm Bureau and a member of the board of the Hobbs Gin. Mr. Rains was also a member of the Texas and American Polled Hereford associations, and the Texas and American Limousin associations.

Survivors include his wife, Janie Rains of Rotan; a daughter, Debbie Bird of Carrollton; a son, Mac Rains of Rotan; his mother, Ruby Rains of Rotan; a sister, Margaret Arp of Sweetwater; a brother, Joel Rains of Anson; and five grandchildren.

U.S., allies discuss next step on Bosnia's continuing conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an eye on a new Bosnian peace agreement, the Clinton administration is discussing with European allies what the West can do next in the war-ravaged region.

Diplomatic sources indicated Friday the administration was getting a cool response to a plan for a more aggressive use of NATO air power in Bosnia.

French Defense Minister Francois Leotard told a briefing at the French Embassy that his government opposed the use of air power in Bosnia for anything beyond protection of U.N. peacekeeping troops and humanitarian convoys. Of the 9,000 U.N. troops in Bosnia, 5,000 are French.

The Washington Post said today that President Clinton had asked U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali to authorize air strikes to protect U.N. troops in Bosnia. The report quoted unidentified administration officials.

But it appeared likely that Western enthusiasm for a greater military involvement in Bosnia would be tempered by the agreement announced in Geneva by the leaders of the warring factions.

In Geneva, Bosnia's besieged Muslim-led government agreed to a plan, favored by Serbs and Croats, that would divide the former Yugoslav republic into three ethnic states.

The agreement appeared to be one of the most solid chances for a settlement to the war, but many other cease-fires have quickly fallen apart. Battles raged on several fronts across Bosnia on Friday.

Administration spokesmen at the White House and State Department refused to discuss the substance of discussions under way with U.S. allies.

"I just am not going to comment on the content of the discussions," said White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers.

State Department Spokesman Mike McCurry refused even to identify which countries had been approached. However, key allies on Bosnia include Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Spain and the Netherlands.

In May, European allies rebuffed Secretary of State Warren Christopher when he outlined a U.S. plan for air strikes in Bosnia, coupled with a lifting of the arms embargo against the Bosnian Muslims.

When McCurry was asked Friday if the United States and its allies were any closer than they were in May, he said,

Law officers quell local disturbance

Local law officers quelled a potentially dangerous situation involving an individual and made two arrests over the past 24-hour period.

Police were called to the 3500 block of 44th Street at 8:30 p.m. Friday where neighbors said a man was firing a small-caliber weapon in the front and back yard. After sealing off the area, police, sheriff's deputies and Texas Ranger John Billings charged the residence and subdued the 41-year-old without incident. The man was placed under a peace officer's emergency warrant.

Police Lt. Steve Warren said the man had apparently not been firing the weapon "at any particular target."

The subject was admitted later in the evening to Big Spring State Hospital.

Officers arrested a 28-year-old man at 6:15 p.m. Friday in the 400 block of 30th Street on Abilene DPS warrants for speeding and failure to appear and a warrant for theft of services.

At 2:36 a.m. Saturday, officers arrested a 30-year-old man in the 500 block of 30th Street for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated.

Police received a 911 call from the 2300 block of Moncrief at 2:36 a.m. Saturday in reference to a woman having problems with her daughter. The subject was transported to the police department where she met with a MHMR caseworker. She was later transported to the Big Spring State Hospital.

At 11:03 p.m. Friday, police worked an accident in the 3400 block of College Avenue. Involved were a 1992 Ford pickup driven by Calyn Dale Coffee of 3008 Denison and a pedestrian, Joe Waylon Presley of Rt. 1 Hermleigh. Presley refused treatment at the scene.

Psychologist's testimony will be allowed by judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A therapist who said Erik and Lyle Menendez confessed to killing their parents and described themselves as being "turned on" planning the crime will be allowed to testify in front of jurors, a judge ruled.

Psychologist L. Jerome Oziel testified Friday without jurors in the courtroom that the brothers spoke in the present tense while recounting their feelings about killing Jose and Kitty Menendez.

"We just get turned on with planning the murder. Once we start, nothing gets in the way," Oziel quoted the brothers as saying in a 1989 therapy session after the killings. He referred to notes he took at the time.

Jose Menendez, an entertainment executive, and his wife were found shot to death in their $4 million Beverly Hills mansion on Aug. 20, 1989. Erik, 22, and Lyle, 25, were arrested six months later and charged with murder.

The prosecution has alleged that the brothers killed out of greed and hatred. The defense doesn't deny that they shotgunned their parents but claims it was self-defense after years of sexual and psychological abuse.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg, who held the hearing to determine what testimony to allow in the trial, said Oziel could tell jurors about the brothers' statements.

But Weisburg ruled inadmissible Oziel's statement that the brothers described themselves as sociopaths. Weisberg said it would be too prejudicial.

The defense tried unsuccessfully to bar all the therapist's testimony from evidence.

The trial resumes Monday. Oziel might not testify for jurors until Tuesday, said Deputy District Attorney Pamela Bozanich.

Oziel's notes and tape recordings of the sessions would normally be covered by doctor-patient privilege. But Oziel maintains the brothers threatened to kill him, thus justifying his disclosure of their confidences.

Last week, the state Psychology Board filed a complaint seeking to strip Oziel of his license.

Clinton may have hurried too much

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton says his hurry to get started may have been responsible for the sometimes rocky periods in his first six months as president.

And, he says, some Washington experience might have helped because "I would have had a little bit better sense of the interplay of the power centers around town."

"I think there was less of a honeymoon here than I had anticipated," Clinton said in an interview to be published Sunday in The Los Angeles Times Magazine. "I was genuinely surprised when the Republican senators attempted to filibuster — and did successfully filibuster — the emergency jobs bill."

The interview was conducted last month by Times reporters Jack Nelson and Robert Donovan.

Clinton characterized a lot of his early mistakes in office as "mistakes of process," not product.

"You can make an argument that I should have started a little more slowly ... but I was in a hurry to get started."

Clinton said he even enjoyed the battles for his program.

"I like a good fight ... as long as I'm fighting for something I believe in, as long as I believe that in the end the people will be better off," he said.

Students may qualify for this program if they are eligible for free or reduced lunch or do not speak or comprehend English. To register, parents must present the child's official birth certificte, immunization record, proof of income and Social Security number, if available.

Junior high and high school students new to the district shall register Wednesday on their respective campuses.

Parents are urged to cooperate in this early registration so that administrators may have class numbers finalized and make plans for a smooth beginning of the 1993-94 school year.

Parents having questions may call 573-9364 for registration assistance.

Each flooded home said tragic story

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — From high in the air, Gov. Mel Carnahan looked down on the homes poking up through the swirling, muddy floodwaters. His face betrayed no emotion.

"Every one of those represents a human tragedy," Carnahan said grimly into his headset as the helicopter hovered Friday over one scene of devastation after another.

Flooding has made the Democratic governor the leader of a state divided, the swollen Missouri River doing just what the Civil War did: slicing Missouri in two. Only one bridge over the Missouri River is open in the 200-mile stretch between Kansas City and St. Louis.

Jefferson City is so isolated that the governor canceled Saturday's scheduled flood summit with local officials.

Waters to the south are rising, too, with potentially serious consequences.

In St. Louis, flooding dislodged a dozen 30,000-gallon propane tanks and threatened dozens more. Authorities ordered the evacuation of more than 600 homes and businesses in the city's southern part, fearing the tanks would snap and spew flammable propane.

"This is a serious emergency situation," city fire Chief Neil Svetanics said.

Late Friday night, a levee broke along the Missouri River west of St. Louis, closing a highway and flooding hundreds of businesses and Spirit of St. Louis Airport.

Only a few people left in the area had to be evacuated. Nearly 500 prisoners in a jail about a mile from the river were removed earlier in the day. And all flyable planes at the airport had been taken elsewhere.

"It's a flood plain, so if that levee is breached there that water will just spread out over a huge amount of acreage," said Mac Scott, spokesman for County Executive George Westfall.

If not U.S., Demjanjuk's first choice is Ukraine

JERUSALEM (AP) — John Demjanjuk said in an interview broadcast Friday that he longed for his "beautiful country America," but a diplomat said he may seek temporary refuge in his native Ukraine if barred from the United States.

The stateless Demjanjuk is awaiting deportation after the Supreme Court on Thursday overturned his 1988 conviction and death sentence as "Ivan the Terrible," the gas chamber operator at the Nazi's Treblinka death camp.

Demjanjuk's son, John Jr., visited his father in his isolation cell in Ayalon Prison on Friday. He said his father felt "excellent and is looking forward to seeing his family."

Demjanjuk, 73, was stripped of his U.S. citizenship in 1981 for lying about his alleged Nazi past. He was extradited to Israel in 1986. One U.S. official has said Demjanjuk wouldn't be permitted to come back now, but didn't rule out a later return.

John Jr. said the family was hoping for final word from the United States within the next few days. If an immediate return there is denied, Demjanjuk would seek temporary asylum elsewhere until a U.S. court has decided on his appeal against denaturalization.

Alexander Maidammyk, a counselor at the Ukrainian Embassy in Tel Aviv, said John Jr. met with him Friday and asked for temporary asylum for his father.

Maidammyk said once a written request was filed, Demjanjuk could be granted temporary residence in the Ukraine within a day because he was born there.

The counselor said Demjanjuk is eligible for Ukrainian citizenship, but could stay there indefinitely without applying for it.

John Jr. refused comment on that possibility, saying only that the Ukrainian Embassy was "one of many places I've been at today."

Demjanjuk's son-in-law, Ed Nishnic, said the family wanted to avoid naming Demjanjuk's final destination for fear there would be last-minute pressure on the host country to refuse him.

Demjanjuk said in an interview broadcast on Israel television Friday that he was homesick. "I miss my beautiful country America, I miss my beautiful family, children, everybody," Demjanjuk said.

Demjanjuk, a retired auto worker, lived in the Cleveland area before his extradition to Israel.

John Jr. said his father has asked to take some souvenirs with him, including his brown prison uniform. "It's all he's had for quite some time now. He feels he wants to keep it," he said.

The TV interview was taped before Thursday's ruling, in which Demjanjuk was acquitted because of reasonable doubt that he was Ivan, the notorious guard at the Treblinka death camp in Poland.

Demjanjuk has insisted he wasn't Ivan, but was a prisoner of war forced by the Nazis to work at another camp.

PrimeStar adding channels to meet subscriber demand

Responding to its subscribers' growing appetite for more news and entertainment programming, PrimeStar, the nation's premier direct broadcast satellite (DBS) service, announced Saturday that CNN: Cable News Network, TNN: The Nashville Network and The Family Channel joined its channel lineup as of June 1.

"Now Primestar subscribers in West Texas will join millions of other American families who are able to tune to the day's events when they want to simply by tuning to CNN," said Wayne Jamar of TCI Cablevision. "And when it's time to unwind, we think The Nashville Network and The Family Channel deliver the kind of quality television our community is looking for."

Jamar noted that PrimeStar will continue to feature hundreds of movies and sporting events each month plus a full spectrum of other programming by also delivering superstations WTBS-Atlanta, WGN-Chicago, KTVU-San Francisco and WPIX-New York as well as selections from WHYY-Philadelphia/Wilmington.

PrimeStar was launched in 1990. It offers a 24-hour a day entertainment lineup; PrimeCinema, offering pay-per view movies and events; and PrimeAudio, an array of digital quality music and information channels. Subscribers also have access to the PC-based X*Press and X*Change services, as well as TV-Japan.

Individuals seeking more information about PrimeStar's availability should call TCI Cablevision of West Texas at 1-800-725-6375.

Ira Schools announce policy for free meals

Free or reduced prices meals are available at Ira Schools for students who are eligible. (See the income eligibility chart which accompanies this story.) To enroll your child in this program, you must pick up an application at the school office.

Those now getting food stamps or AFDC must include the following information on the application. Child's name and food stamp or AFDC case number and the signature of an adult household member. Applications for foster children must include child's name, personal use income and an adult signature.

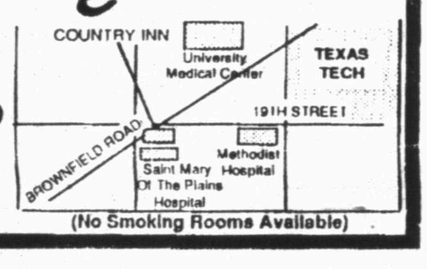

If a food stamp or AFDC case number is not given then the following information must be included on the application: child's name, names of all household numbers, amount of previous month's income and where it came from, the signature of an adult household member and the adult's social security number or the word "none" if the adult does not have a social security number.

Your eligibility may be checked at any time during the school year. All information will be kept confidential. Any changes in the family's size or monthly income must be reported to school officials. You are entitled to a fair hearing if you do not approve of the school's decision regarding your application.

Applications may be filed at any time during the school year.

Scurry County Folks

By Shirley A. Gorman

Among the rank and file of Lions Club members, C.A. "Mac" McCown is known affectionately as "The Little General."

Fellow Lion Jack Denman bestowed that nickname on Mac two years ago when Snyder hosted a Lions convention. It has since become his trademark.

An active member of the Snyder chapter since October of 1975, Mac has held all local offices and assisted with yearly service projects and fund-raisers. He has also received top awards within the organization.

Mac was named Lion of the Year for 1980-81. He was also the recipient of the International President's Certificate Award for 1990-91.

In July, the veteran Lion took over the reigns of district governor of District 2T2 which includes 21 counties besides Scurry. He was sworn in during the international convention held in Minneapolis, Minn. and will relinquish his gavel at the end of June, 1994, at the international convention in Phoenix, Ariz.

As district governor, Mac will have a busy year. As one of 16 governors throughout Texas, he will meet with his 15 counterparts four times during his term in office.

He will also visit each of the 64 clubs within his district at least once a year. Though he could stretch these visits out, Mac said he plans to do his visiting from August to October. He will be accompanied by four local Lions each trip.

Mac said one of their main duties will be to check on each club's membership. Clubs with weak memberships may warrant additional visits, Mac said. He said the Lions Club philosophy is to try and help struggling clubs rather than pick up their charter, unless it's absolutely necessary.

Mac estimates he will probably travel around 12,000 miles this year on Lions Club business.

He is no stranger to these official visits. When Max von Roeder — who joined the Lions Club at the same time as Mac — served as governor, Mac accompanied him on all of the district visits.

Mac also got a first-hand look at the governor's duties last year when he served as the lieutenant governor for the state of Texas. His main job then was to sit behind the governor and observe him for the year.

Mac said his 15 years experience in district work will help him be a more effective district governor.

He has regularly attended Snyder Lions Club meetings since 1975. He has also attended several international conventions, including one in Canada and another in Hawaii.

Mac has a large collection of Lions pins — enough for two vests — which he has traded for at various conventions. His personal pin features "The Little General" emblem.

He is also active throughout the year with various Lions Club fund-raisers, which provide monies for local and state projects.

Locally, the Lions Club provides glasses for needy children. Also, the Lions usually repair one home annually for Snyder Neighbors Sharing, Mac said.

The Lions Club also provides foreign exchange students a home during the summer as part of the Julien C. Hyer Youth Exchange.

Mac's favorite statewide project is the Texas Lions Camp at Kerrville which annually provides some 1,300 handicapped or diabetic children with two weeks of fun and recreation. For several years, Mac and his wife, Mary, have also helped transport qualified Scurry County children to Kerrville.

This summer, seven children in Scurry County were able to attend the camp.

The Lions Clubs also supports the South Plains Lions Eye Bank, Texas Lions Foundation, Girlstown USA, Texas Boys Ranch, and drug awareness and hearing conservation programs.

Annual fund-raisers which help provide needed monies for these and other Lions-sponsored projects include the light bulb sale and the mop and broom sale.

Mac said he accepted Tommy Davis' invitation to join the Lions Club in 1975 because he liked the club's "We Serve" motto.

He has held numerous posts in the organization, including the presidency from 1982-83. Mac was also a director for four years, served as the Guiding Lion from 1980-81, and was a key member.

He achieved perfect attendance for 12 years. Mac also has life membership in the Texas Lions Camp, Lions Eye Bank, Girlstown USA, Texas Boys Ranch and the Lion District 2T2 youth exchange.

He has been a Texas Lions Camp Century Club Member for 10 years.

At the district level, Mac also served two terms as cabinet treasurer. Other positions include zone chairman, deputy district governor, activity chairman, Texas Lions Camp director, deputy district governor at large, extension co-chairman, co-membership chairman, contest chairman, regional chairman at large.

(see SCURRY,Page 7B)

LONG-TIME LION — C.A. "Mac" McCown, a long-time Lions Club member, holds two vests which display the pins he has collected since joining the service organization in 1975. One of the highlights of Lions Club conventions is trading pins. Mac's pin is "The Little General," depicting the nickname he received in 1991. He has collected pins from fellow Lions throughout the U.S. and foreign countries. Mac currently serves as governor of District 2T2. (SDN Staff Photo)

MR. AND MRS. HENRY WALTON

Elna Grant, Walton married in Mesquite

MESQUITE — Elna Grant Smith and Henry Truman Walton were united in marriage on July 10 in the First Baptist Church Chapel in Mesquite.

The bride is the daughter of Dollie Grant and the late W.H. Grant Jr., long-time Snyder residents. The groom is the son of H.L. Walton and Daphene Hughes, both of Abilene.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Wayne Grant. Jayne Clark of Houston served as matron of honor. The groom's brother, Jerry Walton of Abilene, served as best man.

Jaclyn Smith, one of the bride's daughters, lit the unity candles. Her other daughter is Amanda Smith. Ushers were George Stock of Houston and Gary Young of Cedar Park. Photographs were taken by Mike Clark.

The newlyweds honeymooned in San Antonio and Corpus Christi. They will make their home in Dallas.

Commodore George Dewey Gridley" in 1898 as an American gave the famous command, "You naval force destroyed a Spanish may fire when you are ready, fleet in Manila Bay.

Double-ring ceremony unites Tomlinson, Stout

ABILENE — Melissa Tomlinson and Richard Nathan Stout, both students at Abilene Christian University, were married in double-ring rites at 3 p.m. on May 22 in the Chapel on the Hill at ACU.

Fred Selby of Trinidad, Church of Christ minister, officiated before an altar decorated with a 15-tier candelabrum, flanked by two spirals, based with greenery. The couple's white unity candle was encircled with ivy containing white rose accents.

Mike and Mitch Taylor, friends from ACU, were candlelighters.

The bride's parents are Ronnie and Diane Tomlinson of Snyder and the groom's parents are Larry and Karen Stout of Lolita.

Wedding music included "Everything I Do I Do For You," "You're the Inspiration," "I Don't Know Much," " Lost in Your Eyes," "Annie's Song," "Masterpiece," "Maid Marion's Theme," "Will You Still Love Me" and an instrumental, "Unchained Melody,"

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white gown, defined with pearls and sequins that had a semi-catherdral train.

Maid of honor was Terri Morgeson of Lubbock. Bridesmaids were Jeannie Tomlinson of Snyder, the bride's sister-in-law, and Christy Rogers of Abilene. Junior bridesmaid was Christy Tomlinson of Snyder, the bride's sister.

Alissa Brown, five-year-old friend from Hamlin, was flower girl and Aaron Tomlinson of Hamlin, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

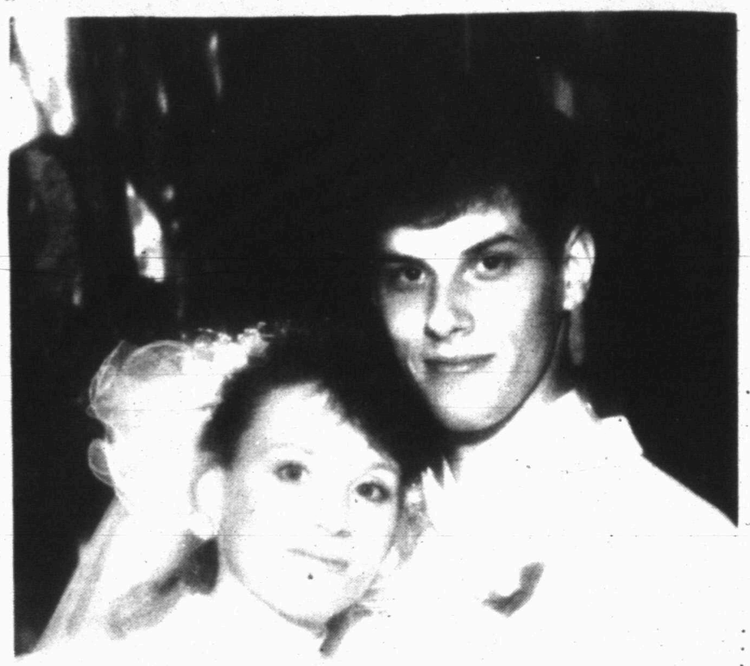

Serving as best man was Robert Stout of Lolita, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were David Klimitchek of Jackson County, Tex., and Brian Hughes of Abilene.

Male attendants wore gray double-vested tuxedoes with tails.

Ronda Johnson of Abilene registered guests.

In the rotunda area of the Bible building, a reception was held following the ceremony. Serving were Jeannie Berry and Becky Buske, both of Hamlin, and Becky Walker of Abilene.

Following the couple's honeymoon to Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Stout are at home in Abilene were the bride is an ACU senior, working on a degree in education. The groom, also a senior, is working on a degree in physical therapy. He is a graduate of Palacios High School and the bride is a graduate of Hamlin High School.

Fly Fishing

It doesn't rain cats and dogs in Oregon. It rains fish!

At least it did one rainy summer morning in Lincoln City, Ore. That's when a bunch of 3-inch-long fish flopped down on someone's front lawn.

Sounds fishy? The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife thought so, too — until they examined the small fry.

Wildlife specialists said the fish were Pacific sand lance. Sand lance swim near the ocean surface and also bury themselves in the sand.

But can they fly over lawns? No, answers wildlife authority Bill Hastie. But birds can — including those with a belly full of sand lance.

What's the verdict? "It was a bird belch," Hastie declares.

The End of Space?

Does space ever end?

Most likely, no. The universe actually seems to be expanding outward — and some scientists think it will do this forever.

Other scientists disagree. They say the universe's own gravity could stop it from growing. The galaxies would pull on each other until they could not move any farther out into space. The universe might even begin to shrink!

But stars and galaxies make up only about 1 percent of the material that forms the universe. This wouldn't be enough matter to create a pull that could stop the universe's growing pains.

So where's the rest of the "stuff?"

Scientists think it's something called "dark" matter — tiny stuff we can't detect easily because it doesn't show enough light. This dark matter might cause enough gravity to hold the universe back from expanding forever.

There may not be an end to space, but there's no end to questions about space!

In First Baptist Church...

McLarty, Pollard say vows

Kelli Lynn McLarty of Snyder became the bride of Joe Todd Pollard in a double-ring ceremony held May 29 in the First Baptist Church of Snyder. Officiating at the 7 p.m. ceremony was the Rev. Don Taylor, pastor of First Baptist Church.

Vows were exchanged before a 29-branch cascading candelabra,. accented with ivy and tied with peach bows. A memory candle was centered on the communion table and matching peach bows adorned the pews.

Parents of the bride are Lynn and Deborah McLarty and Joneil and Judy Smallwood, all of Snyder. Parents of the groom are Bob and Janelle Pollard of Snyder.

Shauna and Laurie Huddleston, nieces of the groom from Snyder, served as candlelighters. They wore peach taffeta dresses that match those of the bridesmaids. Each wore wrist corsages of peach and ivory miniature flowers.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Snyder vocalist Susan Scott who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Song." Pianist was Deborah McLarty, the bride's stepmother. As a special gift to the couple, the bride's stepmother and father played a duet, "Memory," from Cats, on the synthesizer.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she chose an ivory, floor-length gown of satin, overlayed with beaded appliques of lace on tulle with scalloped edges and featuring a cathedral-length double scalloped train.

The sheer sleeves were accented with beaded wrists coming to a point at the hands. Beaded appliques adorned the fitted bodice and the sheer back was accented with buttons all the way up the high-beaded neck. The sheer front was complemented by an applique in the center and beaded shoulders. The bride's full-length sheer tulle veil was trimmed in lace and beads and cascaded from a beaded, fitted cap.

For something old, the bride carried a handkerchief belonging to the groom's great-grandmother. Something new was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. Something borrowed was a bridal gown from the bride's paternal family. Something blue was a garter made by the bride's grandmother, Donna Wilson of Canyon. The bride wore pennies in her shoe minted in the couple's year of birth.

Kima McLarty, sister of the bride from Temple, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sally Drinnon of Colleyville, Deborah Chesney of Granbury, and Susan Knowles of Bozeman, Mont. They wore matching dresses of peach taffeta cascading from tea-length in front to floor-length in back. The full skirt contained a fitted bodice with V-waist with a bow above a key-hole opening in the back. Each dress had a rounded neckline, puffed sleeves that were tapered just above the elbow. Arm bouquets of snapdragons and peach mini carnations and baby's breath were tied with ivory tulle.

Claire Pollard, niece of the groom from Snyder, served as flowergirl and wore a Victorian-style dress made of lace trimmed with satin ribbons, rosettes and roses. It was made by Janelle Pollard, mother of the groom.

Ringbearer was Tyler Pollard, nephew of the groom from Snyder. Wearing a tuxedo matching the groomsmen, he carried a pillow hand-made by the bride's grandmother, Donna Wilson of Canyon.

Alan Pollard of Snyder served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Jimmy Yocum of Fort Worth, Mike McWilliams of Snyder and Thad Springer of Snyder.

Guests entering the church were registered by Terrie McWilliams of Snyder. The bride's book was accented by a throw-away bouquet identical to the bridesmaids' bouquet. The table was centered with a tall topiary of fresh peach miniatures and ivy. Guests used a Waterford pen belonging to the groom's grandmother, Eva Moore of Snyder.

Guests then attended a reception in the First Baptist Garden Room following the reception. Harpist Kim Gorman of Snyder provided background music for the reception.

The bride's table featured a peach double wedding ring quilt made by the groom's mother. The centerpiece, a silver urn belonging to the groom's mother, was filled with greenery and peach carnations and ivory snapdragons. Punch was served from a silver bowl belonging to the groom's mother. Fresh chocolate-dipped strawberries were served from a crystal basket, and a silver shell nut tray contained mixed nuts. A Waterford crystal football completed the table decorations.

The unique three-tiered ivory wedding cake was adorned with hand-crafted gum paste flowers in pale shades of peach, ivory and seafoam green. Both the bride and groom's cakes were created by Becky Hicks.

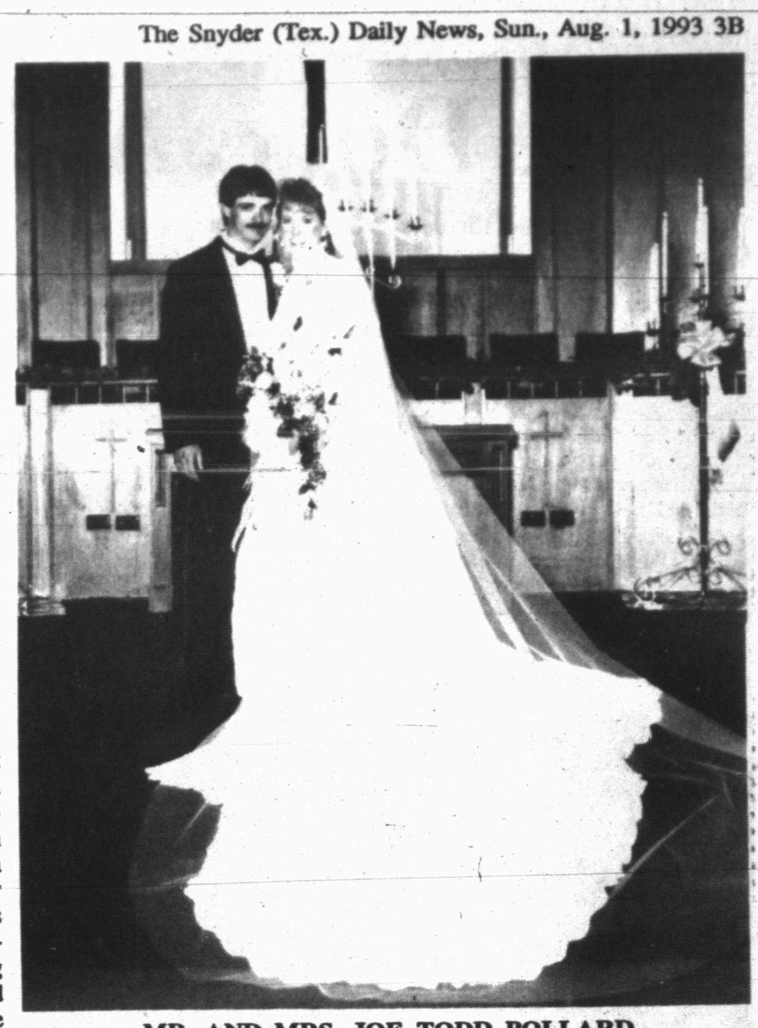

Serving at the bride's table was Melissa Williams and Tara Greene Trevey, both of Snyder.

Terrie Williams of Snyder and Shannon Wood, cousin of the bride from Midland, presided at the groom's table which was covered with ecru Battenburg lace. It contained a carnival glass punch bowl filled with chocolate footballs. The centerpiece was a green marble mortar and pestle of a cherub figurine surrounded by grapes and fresh ivy. The groom's cake was an oval two-layer chocolate cake with basket weave icing and marzipan fruit and topped with a monogram "P." A separate round table, covered with a peach floral cloth, held a brass coffee service and a smaller fresh flower topiery.

Following a wedding trip to Montreal, Canada, the couple will make their home in Levelland. The bride is a 1988 graduate of Snyder High School and attended Howard Payne University from 1988-90. She graduated from the Southwestern Oklahoma State University with a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy in May, 1993. She is a pharmacist for Eckerd Drug.

The groom is a 1986 graduate of Snyder High School and graduated from Howard Payne in 1990 with a bachelor of science degree in education. He is a math teacher and coach in the Levelland Public Schools.

Out of town guests attended from Canyon, Dallas, Seymour, Odessa, Megargel, Weatherford, Granbury and Weatherford, Okla.

Julie Doty, Alfonso Munzo say vows

ABILENE — Julie Charlene Doty of Snyder and Alfonso Michail Munoz of Abilene were united in holy matrimony at 3 p.m. on June 19 at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Father Mark Woodruff officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Charles and Judy Doty of Snyder are parents of the bride, and Alex and Alice Munoz of Anson are the groom's parents.

Providing music were organist Charles Dickey, trumpeter was Phillip Mooney, and vocalist was Terry Cheetham.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a Victorian-style dress featuring the open heart in back, accented with pearls. The long train featured lace and pearls with a bow at the back. She carried a bouquet of royal blue and mauve roses made by her aunt, Ellaoise Grubbs.

The groom wore a gray Christian Dior tuxedo with tails, accented with a white rose boutonniere.

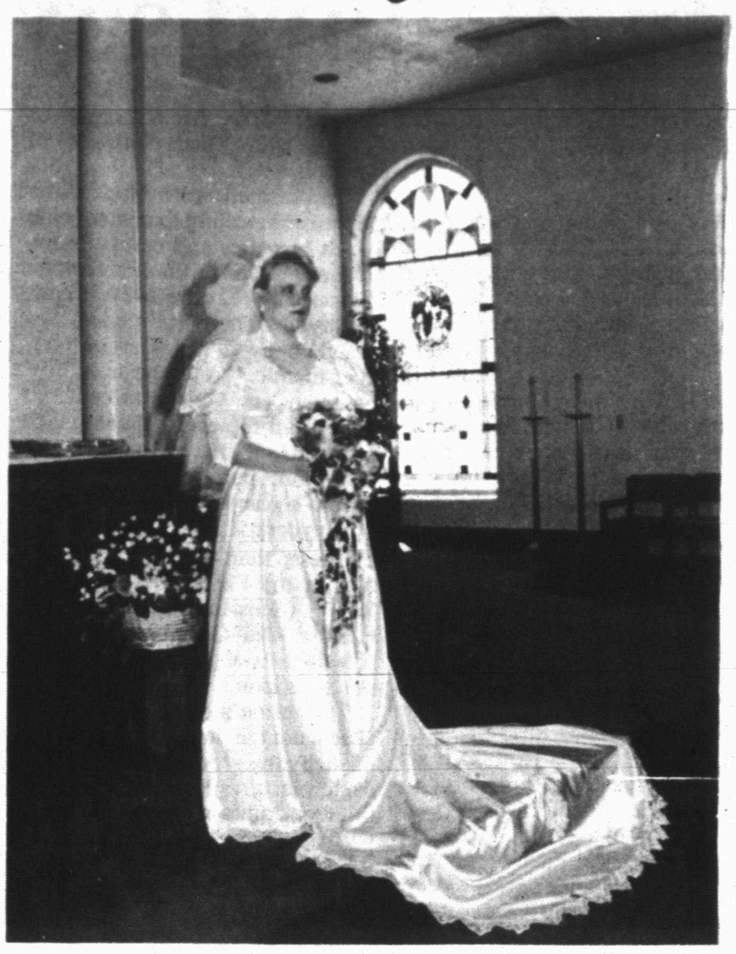

Matron of honor was Annette Valladarez of Dallas. Bridesmaids were Josephena Mims of Abilene and Angela Long of Killeen. They wore tea-length gowns of mauve and each carried a bouquet of mauve and royal blue roses.

Best man was Sal Ramos of Anson. Groomsmen were Joe Munoz of Austin and Pete Munoz of Anson, both brothers of the groom. Each wore a black tuxedo with royal blue accents and a white rose boutonniere.

The flower girl dressed in a white tea-length, accented with lace and pearls was Jessica Hines of Snyder. The ring bearer was Jonathan Munoz, the groom's nephew from Abilene. He wore a black tuxedo with royal blue accents.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Abilene church. A dance was held at St. Michael's Catholic Church Parish Hall in Anson.

The couple resides in Abilene where the bride attends McMurry University as a pre-law major. The groom is a graduate of McMurry University and is employed at Woods Psychiatric Institute. He is a 1986 graduate of Anson High School, and the bride is a 1990 graduate of Snyder High School.

MR. AND MRS. ALFONSO MUNOZ

MARRIED — Mr. and Mrs. Billy W. Robbins announce the marriage of their daughter, Kellie Michelle, to Terry Wayne Miller, son of Mr. Bill Miller of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Edwards of Merkel. The couple were married July 23 in Fort Bend County in a ceremony hosted by the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Harris. The couple are at home in Snyder following a brief honeymoon in Houston.

Wortham, Blackwell are married in Church of God

Delinda Kay Wortham of Snyder became the bride of Kenneth Doyle Blackwell, also of Snyder, in a 2 p.m. ceremony July 17 in the Snyder Church of God.

Vernon Groce, Church of God minister, officiated the ceremony in the church that was adorned with blue and pink floral arrangements.

The bride's parents are Johnny and Belenda Wortham of Snyder, and parents of the groom are Russell and Bonnie Carroll of Snyder.

A vocal selection, "I Cross My Heart," was performed by Kenneth Blackwell.

The bride wore a short, formal white dress. A matching white hat came with a veil and the bride carried a bouquet of blue, pink and white flowers. Her father, Johnny Wortham, gave the bride in marriage.

The bridesmaids were Gina Luna of Ira, Delora Porter of Snyder and Euline Wortham of Snyder. Daughters Bonita and Melissa served as flower girls and sons Casey and Joshua were the ring bearers.

Marcus Carroll of Snyder, brother of the groom, Kalvin Wortham of Snyder, the groom's brother-in-law, and Russell Carroll, father of the groom, served as groomsmen. They wore black and blue jeans, white shirts with black boots while the bride's party were adorned in pink and blue dresses.

A reception was held in the Church of God and guests were invited to sign a guest register as they entered. Colors of the bride's table were blue, white and pink. It contained a lovely cake designed by Bonnie Carroll, the bride's mother-in-law, who also presided at bride's table.

Bonnie Carroll also designed the groom's cake, assisted by Sandy Groce. Jackie Carroll of Snyder, the groom's sister-in-law, served at the groom's table.

Following a wedding trip to Lubbock, the couple will make their new home in Snyder.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School School. The groom also attended Snyder High School and works for Patterson Petroleum. He is also attending school, training to become an LVN.

The trump trick that disappears

By Phillip Alder

There is something magical about a bridge deal in which an apparently certain trump trick is made to disappear.

Today's deal was reported by Guy Dupont in the French newspaper Le Figaro. It was played brilliantly by Roger Benabou.

After his partner made a three-spade overcall, North spent some time trying to get to seven, but eventually he gave up the fight. (Usually it pays to be cautious after a pre-emptive bid.)

West led the heart six. Benabou won with dummy's ace and made the far-sighted play of ruffing the heart five in hand. He unblocked the club ace before leading a spade to dummy. When East discarded, it looked as though declarer had two unavoidable losers: one spade and one diamond. But Benabou cashed dummy's K-Q of clubs, discarding diamonds from hand. He ruffed the club 10 in hand, cashed the A-K of diamonds and played a spade to dummy.

Finally, Benabou led dummy's heart jack. After East covered with the queen, South discarded his last diamond, as did West. Dummy remained with the spade ace and diamond eight. East had two hearts. South held the 10-9 of spades, and West the J-7 of spades.

When East led a heart, South ruffed with the spade nine. What could West do? If he overruffed with the jack, dummy would overruff with the ace and South's spade 10 would win the last trick. If he underruffed, dummy's diamond loser would be discarded.

This is known as a Smother Coup. It is a rare bird in the aviary of bridge.

A root beer float is a classic summertime treat that can be stirred up in minutes. And in this recipe, the float is flavored with the taste of chocolate! Older kids can measure the cocoa, sugar and hot water. Younger kids can spoon in the vanilla ice cream.

CHOCOLATE ROOT BEER FLOAT

1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons cocoa
1 tablespoon hot water
1 scoop vanilla ice cream
Chilled root beer

In a 12-ounce glass, stir together sugar and cocoa; stir in hot water. Add ice cream; fill glass with root beer. Stir. Serve immediately. Makes 1 serving.

Deep Creek ABWA elects new officers

The Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association meet for their regular meeting July 1 in the Golden Corral Steakhouse. Dorothy Dortch, president, presided.

Lonnie Johnson, father of member Bonnie Carroll, gave an interesting program on "Foreign Wars." Mr. Johnson served in the South Pacific on the islands of Guam and Okinawa. He was also stationed in Japan.

A new member, Sherry Spells, was installed. Also, new officers for the 1993-94 year were elected. They are Dorothy Dortch, president; Pauline Withers, vice president; Irene Canales, secretary; and Bonnie Carroll, treasurer.

It was also reported that the chapter received a letter from National headquarters congratulating the chamber on receiving the Awards of Awards.

The chapter is compiling a new cookbook, and it was suggested that the cookbooks will make a nice gift for brides, friends and at Christmas.

The Deep Creek Chapter will also have a booth at the Scurry County Fair in September. New committees were appointed. Stella Bailey was hostess for the July meeting which was attended by eight members and five visitors.

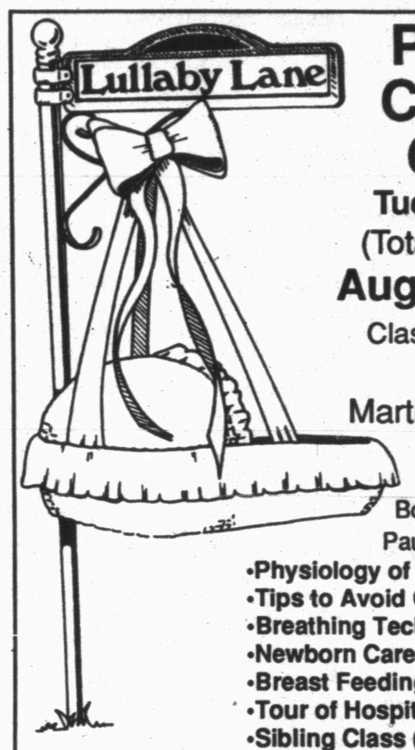

ABWA PROGRAM — Lonnie Johnson, who served in the South Pacific during World War II, gave the program at the July meeting of the Deep Creek Chapter of ABWA. Shown with Johnson is his daughter, Bonnie Carroll, who served as program chairman.

Ask Anne & Nan

By Anne B. Adams and Nancy Nash-Cummings

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: My family loves garlic sauce, but I cannot find a recipe. Would you be so kind as to print one in your column? — ANITA RICEWICK, Green Spring, W.Va.

DEAR ANITA: There are all kinds of garlic sauces, but the only one we know of that isn't a sauce made specifically with and for the dish you are cooking is aioli, or garlic mayonnaise. This is a delicious addition to hot or cold soups, vegetables, beef and fish.

4 garlic clove sections, peeled and chopped very fine.

Beat into the garlic 2 egg yolks, 1/8 tsp. salt and 1 slice stale, French-type bread, soaked in milk and wrung out.

Add very slowly, as for mayonnaise, 1 cup olive oil, beating constantly. As the sauce thickens, beat in 1/2 tsp. cold water and 1 tsp. lemon juice.

A few words of caution: Have all ingredients at room temperature before you start. Don't try to make this in a blender or a food processor; it will not have the desired consistency. Use a whisk or an eggbeater.

And finally, don't attempt this if a thunderstorm is threatening (really!). The sauce will refuse to bind.

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: I have an old tool that is called a "sawset." Could you tell me if it has any value and what it was used for? Also, could you tell me what a large tap and die set, made by Wiley Russell Mfg. Co., Greenfield, Mass., might be worth? It is in the original wooden box and is probably over 100 years old. I have a few other things that are old but do not know who to get in touch with to get rid of them. —M. WINTERS, Lockport, N.Y.

DEAR M.: Although it sounds very obvious, things increase in value in proportion to two factors: rarity and demand.

According to our "tool expert," there is no demand in the antiques/collectibles market for either your sawset or tap and die set, and so their only value is a "utilitarian" one; i.e. if someone wanted to buy them not because they are rare or valuable but because they want to use them!

A sawset, by the way, is an instrument that sets, or bends slightly outward, the teeth of a saw.

As to the few other things you would like to sell, we suggest you look in your Yellow Pages under "Auctioneer" and call one or more of them. Describe to them what you would like to sell. Most auctioneers will occasionally hold "odd lot" sales; if they think the items you have for sale are worth their time, they'll include them in an "odd lot" auction.

Be sure to get an idea from them what your things might bring, but keep in mind that they may sell for less. Auctions are strange beasts: A successful one depends as much on the mood of the crowd as it does on the skill of the auctioneer.

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: Please tell me where I can purchase your book, "Two Prize Problem-Solvers Share Their Secrets." My bookstore isn't able to find anybody who has your book. — M.J. BERT, Coos Bay, Ore.

DEAR M.J.: We think the problem your bookstore is having is that the title of the book is actually "Dear Anne and Nan: Two Prize Problem-Solvers, etc." (May, 1992). They can order the book for you from the publishers: Bantam, Doubleday, Dell, New York City, N.Y.

STUMPED: Sylvia Newton of Prewitt, N.M., writes: "When my children were little, my mother-in-law would sing to them as she rocked them to sleep. One song she sang was about two little boys and began: 'Two little boys/Had two little toys/Each was a wooden horse.' This is all I remember, but the gist of the song was of their friendship into adulthood and being in a war where one was unhorsed and the other took him up on his own horse. I have asked many people if they know of this song but no one does. Have you heard of it?"

We haven't, but maybe one of our Dear Readers has. Let us know, and we'll pass the info on to Sylvia.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

When old dog Fibber left this world last week, he did it as gracefully as he had entered it, with dignity and courage.

We first brought home the Border Collie/German Shepherd mix puppy when Dustin was a baby. They grew up together, bonding as surely as Timmy ever did with Lassie, exploring every nook and cranny of the countryside. The stages of Fibber's decline could almost be measured by the stages in Dustin's growth; when Dustin started school and was gone all day, Fibber took to sleeping a lot more. When Dustin hit junior high and had less and less time with the dog, Fibber took on a sad look, but a vigilant one — ever watchful for his Boy.

In fact, it was about the time Dustin reached puberty that Fibber began to lose weight and sicken. The vet told us then — three years ago — to take him home and let him die with us. We cried all summer.

But he didn't die. He had a job to do — protect us, and by God he intended to do it. Time and again, he forced himself to his feet. In wintertime, he'd shiver on the hard front porch, his bony old body quaking, stubbornly refusing to go around to the warm barn until all of us had gone to bed. We finally gave in to him and put a wool blanket out there. (Dustin even built him a sturdy dog house and placed it right by the front porch, but he refused it and the cats took it over instead.)

He even insisted on accompanying the kids or myself on our country walks, limping along at a snail's pace, following us by scent when we got too far ahead. We took to waiting for him and resting now and then so he could maintain his dignity.

But no matter where we went in the car, no matter when we drove up to the house, Fibber would be waiting, head up, tail ablur. In his younger days, he's race with the wind all the way down to the crook in the road, and lead us proudly up to the house. When he got too old for such shenanigans, he's wait at the top of the hill. Even after he went stone deaf and nearly blind, he's still be standing there, watching and grinning as we drove up. To this day I do not know how he knew we were coming.

Last year the vet said he wouldn't last another week. But he did. We got a mixed-breed puppy, Bart, and Fibber took his Top Dog responsibilities seriously, teaching the young upstart when to bark and when not, whooping his butt when he got cocky, and showing him how to meet us at the top of the hill. He was rewarded with a certain kind of young devotion; wherever Fibber slept, you could find Bart right beside him.

Fibber turned sixteen this summer. We went away for the Fourth of July weekend, and when we got back, we could see that he was not doing well at all. One morning he couldn't get up. When we patted him, he didn't thump his tail in response, and we knew we were losing him.

We didn't bother to take him to the vet; it wasn't worth upsetting him.

Dustin set up a lawn chair next to the fence where Fibber was curled up, and sat vigil with him just as you do any loved one whose clock has run down. After a few hours, he came to tell me that our old friend was gone.

I wrapped him in some soft old towels, then put my arms around him and wept like a child, thanking him for taking such good care of us through all the years. But I knew, as any mother knows, that I was not just weeping for a dear old dog. I was weeping for a boy who was growing up, who would soon be driving and dating and leaving home altogether. Fibber's death marked a very symbolic ending to my son's boyhood.

We buried him by the barn closest to the house, so he would never be very far away from us.

The next morning, we found young Bart, curled up in the grass right next to the spot where Fibber had last lain.

It's been a couple of weeks now, and the young dog does his best. He barks when he thinks he should. But when we drive up to the house now, there's nobody there. Bart waits until we start piling out of the car before coming up for a pat. Maybe he feels like meeting us was Fibber's place. He seems bewildered and lost, overwhelmed by his new responsibilities. He needs lots of reassurance and encouragement.

As for us humans, we just need something to fill up that big ol' hole that gapes wide, whenever we drive up the the top of the hill and around the corner to the rear of the house, our eyes scanning back and forth, looking for the blur of a wagging tail and the happy grin that says, Welcome home.

Flood-insurance critics: recede

By Joseph Spear

You would think the carpers and critics would give the poor people who live along the Mississippi River time to dry out before they begin wailing about the evils of living near water and about what a terrible drain on the treasury it is every time the government has to pay off a flood-insurance claim, but they just can't seem to contain themselves.

Here is Rep. Doug Bereuter, R-Neb., a harsh critic of the National Flood Insurance Program, writing in the Baltimore Sun:

"Some homeowners along the lower reaches of the Mississippi River system refer to (the program) as the 'carpet renewal' policy, since they are hit with river flooding every six or seven years and use the government payments to replace their water-damaged carpet."

Here is a Sun editorial writer on the same subject: "For some Americans watching and reading about the unprecedented floodwater damage in the Middle West, sympathy and generosity are going to be tempered when they get the bill. ...Hurricane activity is (also) expected ... to be greater than usual this year, and hurricanes can generate enormous flood damage."

I'm beginning to believe they love disasters, these critics. Every time one comes along, they're ready and waiting, armed with propaganda and sky-is-falling pronouncements.

Here is Beth Millemann, executive director of an activist group called Coast Alliance, writing in the Baltimore Sun (do they have an eco-freak on that editorial staff, or what?) just days after Hurricane Andrew leveled south Florida last August:

"The grand-daddy (of) federal subsidies is the National Flood Insurance Program. With $220 billion worth of policies, it is one of the largest domestic liabilities after the Social Security system. But because of its financial instability, (it) may shortly become the 'savings-and-loan' of the seas."

Are the critics really concerned that the taxpayers are going to be inundated with flood claims? Conservatives like Bereuter, perhaps. But the loudest mouths, I believe, have a secret agenda. They think seacoasts and river banks are communal lands, like Stalin's farms, and that property owners and business interests should just leave. All their arguments and their "facts and figures" seem to be directed toward this overriding goal.

Trouble is, their arguments and "facts and figures" are sophistic and spurious, and some are pure hogwash. To wit:

—The taxpayers might take a $220 billion bath.

This could happen only if every policyholder was flooded at once. Imagine a Pacific tidal wave stretching from Seattle to San Diego that washes across the continent into the Atlantic. If that happens, you've got your S&L of the seas.

—The flood insurance program is a winner for rich property owners and a loser for everyone else.

Let a former federal insurance administrator answer this one. Wrote C.M. Schauerte in a letter to the Washington Post: "The NFIP has not cost taxpayers a penny since 1985. All claims ... are underwritten by the ... policyholders. What is more, all new policies and those written on improved homes are actuarily rated, which means that the premiums paid for coverages equal the risks... With an average coverage of only $80,000 per home, the NFIP can hardly be called a program for the 'rich.'" —People who risk living on shorelines should not be "subsidized" by other taxpayers.

Really, now. Then why should I, co-owner of a minuscule piece of Delaware coastal property, have to fund disaster relief for Nebraskans who risk tornadoes, or Californians who risk earthquakes, mudslides and wildfires?

Why should I have to underwrite social programs for urban dwellers — hear this, Baltimore Sun — who choose to live in crime-infested cities?

I thought we were all in this together, but the social contract seems to be coming apart at the seams. And maybe that's one of the big things that's wrong with America lately.

Editorial Roundup

Waco Tribune Herald on Kay Bailey Hutchison:

Whether it is done in a big way or a small way, elected public servants are abusing their offices — if not also breaking the law — by using public equipment, public employees or public office time to run personal political operations out of their government offices.

U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison has described as partisan politics the investigation into allegations that more than 5,000 personal and political long-distance calls were made from a ... telephone in her state treasurer's office during her 20-month tenure.

Last year it was reported that Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who was chairman of Bill Clinton's Texas campaign, made more than 200 telephone calls from his state office to the presidential campaign headquarters for Clinton. Mauro described the calls as inadvertent.

But whether it is a few calls or a lot of calls, there should never be an acceptable excuse for public officials to use their public offices and taxpayers funds to pursue their personal political ambitions.

El Paso Herald-Post on the new FBI director:

Purists may deduct a tenth of a point from President Clinton for hyperbole. Judging from Clinton's description of his nominee for FBI director as "a law-enforcement legend," one might have thought the job had gone to Batman.

But let it pass. Clinton excelled in what matters: he made his selection quickly and, in federal Judge Louis Freeh, he appears to have chosen a quality individual. ...

At his Rose Garden introduction, Freeh struck just the right note. He said that the FBI must be free of any political influence, which presumably means that he would say "no" to White House entreaties to put agents after, say, politically unreliable government travel agents.

And Freeh added, "Our country must be made safe again, in cities, towns, villages and the countryside."

A platitude, perhaps, but one that from time to time needs to be spoken. ...

El Paso Times on the FBI:

With his nomination of U.S. District Judge Louis Freeh to head the Federal Bureau of Investigation, President Clinton chose a well-qualified law and criminal justice professional. The former FBI agent is no stranger to the agency's needs.

After years of controversy, scandalous disclosures and misuse of power by its top leaders, the country's primary law-enforcement agency needs a strong hand at the helm.

If his past record is any indication, Freeh has the experience to help the agency regain its prestige. ...

Houston Post on Bustmante's conviction:

His was a Cinderella story, a rags-to-riches tale that inspired many in his poor and largely Mexican-American congressional district. Albert Bustamante milked the rags to his advantage. He gained power, fame and, yes, riches.

Unfortunately, a federal jury in San Antonio found that the former Democratic congressman paid a bit too much attention to the riches part.

The jury found Bustamante, a former migrant worker, guilty of selling his office for money, using his wife's legal practice to accept the bribes. The same jury found his wife not guilty of helping Bustamante get the bribes.

This is indeed a classic tragic tale for it involved a person from humble roots with so much potential, throwing it all away for money he really did not need. It is difficult to feel sorry for Bustamante, though, because when he shrugged off his duty to play within the rules, he also shrugged off the lives of the many young people, especially the Hispanics in his district, who had looked to him for inspiration.

SA Express-News on second-hand smoke:

The Environmental Protection Agency, or EPA, acting on its declaration that second-hand smoke is a serious health threat, has issued guidelines for public protection.

Concluding that as many as 300,000 lower respiratory tract infections in children result from second-hand smoke, the EPA wants parents not to smoke in their homes and for all people to avoid exposing children to smoke.

Adults who choose to smoke may have that right, although the public health and insurance costs resulting from those private decisions are high. They should not, however, have the right to impose health risks on others, particularly children.

The tobacco industry, of course, is fighting the EPA findings. One tobacco-state representative claims the EPA is politically motivated.

That's hard to believe. The findings were reached under the Bush administration, and the guidelines based on the findings are issued by Clinton administration appointees. ...

The EPA can offer recommendations; others must put them into effect.

Webber now faces more allegations

DALLAS (AP) — More accusations have arisen against Fort Worth Mayor Pro Tem Virginia Nell Webber and her family for their business practices.

A nursing home once run by Ms. Webber's family is being investigated for missing money and a possible insurance scam, Dallas television station KXAS reported Thursday.

That news comes two days after the station reported irregularities while Ms. Webber ran a family funeral home. She has denied those allegations.

KXAS reported Thursday that the Webber family allegedly used patient's money to pay for insurance policies that listed the Webbers as beneficiaries. The money reportedly came from a patient's trust fund, which the home's new owners say has come up short.

Ms. Webber, currently the longest-serving member of the Fort Worth City Council, did not immediately return a telephone call late Thursday from The Associated Press.

Mac enjoys being a Lion because it gives him the opportunity to "serve humanity," he said. He also likes "all the people I meet and the friendships I form."

Semi-retired since 1988, Mac said he will donate about 90 percent of his time to Lions Club work while serving as district governor. He also sells insurance part time for Hugh Boren and Son.

Mac has held many jobs in Snyder since Line Oil Company transferred him here in 1951 as a production clerk for the Diamond M Gas Plant. In 1956, he worked for Sunray Gas' Middle Plant. He was the office manager and chose to leave the company rather than be transferred to Dallas a few years later.

Instead, Mac opened his first Food Basket here in 1973. He later bought the old Day and Night grocery store and built two new grocery stores to make four Food Baskets in all.

Mac said he liked being in the grocery business because he met a variety of people. However, the grocery business was no easy job.

He often worked 12 hours a day, seven days a week. His goal was to have 10 Food Baskets, but that proved impossible because with state unemployment then at 3 percent Mac said he could not find people to manage them.

He ended up selling the stores at a profit, but said he missed them once they were gone.

After selling out, Mac retired and concentrated on Lions Club business for three years and pursued other activtities. Eventually, he missed working and after obtaining his license went to work for Hugh Boren.

The McCown's have two grown sons living in Dallas and the first grandchild is due this month. Mary is a retired teacher who taught at the high school and junior high levels in Snyder for 25 years. She had also taught for five years before they moved to Snyder. She is a Scurry County native.

Mac is originally from Texarkana, Ark. He received his undergraduate degree from Northwestern State University (formerly College) at Natchitoches, La.

They are members of the First Baptist Church.

For recreation, Mac said he likes to golf.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

Female Friends of Husbands Don't Stay Friends for Long

DEAR ABBY: You were right the first time. This concerns the married man whose wife didn't care much for basketball, so with her permission, he took a female coworker to the games because he had a pair of season tickets and she loved basketball.

A few years ago, my husband had to go overseas to set up a sports show. He asked me if I wanted to go with him, and I decided that since it would be only a week's vacation, it wouldn't pay to go. Well, he took one of his female wrestlers with him. (He said they were "just friends.")

Instead of being gone for a week, he was gone for three months, and when he finally came home, he said maybe we should have a "trial separation." He moved out of our home and into an apartment with this lady — who was "just a friend."

I filed for divorce, and they are still living together. But of course, they're "just friends." So, the moral of this story is, "If your husband asks you to take a trip with him — go!" Sign me ...

TOO TRUSTING

DEAR TOO TRUSTING: Read on for another response to that letter:

DEAR ABBY: You were right the first time. A female co-worker who attends basketball games with a married man is no longer just a "co-worker." She is a date.

EXPERIENCED IN CINCINNATI

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend I met at work. I'll call her Sandra. She is half my age. (I am 60.) We would take lunch breaks together with several other girls and talk about our families, movies and what's good on TV. Sandra would take over the conversation and talk about the other employees and gossip she heard about the office manager.

Now she has started calling me at home after work and on weekends. Sometimes she'll call twice a day. She keeps me on the phone for an hour, sometimes longer, telling me the same stories over and over.

My husband tells me it's time to tell her that three calls a week is all I can handle. Basically, she's a nice person, and I hate to hurt her feelings because she has no friends. She does have family, but says they just want to use her.

How do I tell her I have family I want to spend my time with, and can't keep talking to her on the phone that much? I feel sorry for her and don't want to hurt her feelings. When I tell her, "You just called me," she says, "But guess what?" Then she goes on for another half-hour.

Help!

TELEPHONE HOSTAGE

DEAR HOSTAGE: If you continue to allow this woman to waste your time, you are encouraging more of the same. When she calls, simply tell her you are busy and have no time to visit. Then hang up. Unkind? Perhaps, but in some situations, it's simply a matter of self-preservation.

What teens need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, and getting along with peers and parents is in "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: With all due respect, I think you should reconsider your advice to "No Name or Town," whose husband insisted on knowing how he compared with his wife's former lovers.

You said, "Tell him that he's the greatest — he'll believe you and God will forgive you." In other words, tell a lie in order to keep the peace. (She said she had no intention of telling him the truth — indicating that her husband wasn't the greatest.)

What should she do next? Fake orgasms? Deception is injurious to any state of health — be it mental, emotional, or the health of a marriage.

Abby, consider a different scenario. She turns the tables and starts asking hubby about his past lovers. (She had said that neither of them was a virgin when they married.) She should let him know how it feels to be quizzed. Perhaps the worst that could happen is that they would both open up, and together they would enrich their marriage by knowing what truly pleases the other.

QUESTIONING

DEAR QUESTIONING: A couple, in order to "open up" and learn what truly pleases the other, would be better served if they consulted a sex therapist and/or a marriage counselor.

Hubby's ego needs constant reassuring or he would not keep nagging his wife to tell him how his lovemaking compares with her former lovers. (To tell him the truth would emasculate him.)

There are times when a kind lie is better than a cruel truth.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: That letter from "No Name or Town" really hit home with me. While dating my second — and definitely last — husband, I made what could have been a horrible mistake by telling him in vague terms about some premarital experiences I had. He seemed amused and intrigued.

After we were married, he would occasionally "tease" me about my former lovers, but I noticed a bitter edge creeping into his tone. After a number of these little zingers, I realized that he was concerned about his own performance. Then I told him with absolute honesty, "I wish I'd been a virgin for you, but no one has ever satisfied me as often or fully as you do; you must not realize how much it hurts me to be reminded of my past mistakes."

But I believe what really clinched it was the baldest truth (I swear) of all: "Darling," I said, "don't you understand that all the time I was looking for you?"

Once I said that, with tears in his eyes, he smothered me with kisses — and the subject never came up again.

ALSO NAMELESS IN SOME OTHER TOWN

P.S. My husband is a minister; please do not reveal my identity.

DEAR NAMELESS: Your letter is in the shredder. Trust me.

* * *

DEAR READERS: I recently published a lovely poem about surviving the loss of a spouse. It was titled "One or the Other." The person who submitted it did not know the name of the author.

I just received a letter from Philip Guest advising me that the author is his uncle, Edgar A. Guest, who wrote the poem in 1945 shortly after the death of his beloved wife, Nellie.

Elton Johns' collection sold

LONDON (AP) — Elton John's huge record collection and a handwritten copy of John Lennon's lyrics to "I Am the Walrus" were snapped up at auction by an anonymous collector from St.Louis.

Sotheby's said the collector, who asked not to be identified, bid $273,000 for the record collection, which was sold to benefit AIDS charities.

The collector got "Walrus" for $60,000. That sale was not for charity.

The record collection, including 25,000 albums and 23,000 singles, attracted dozens of sealed bids.

Walter Matthau was born in New York on October 1, 1920. By the age of seven, Matthau was reciting Shakespeare and poetry in school assemblies, appearing in amateur dramatic productions and entertaining friends with impressions of movie stars. His acting ambitions were further fueled when he found part-time work as an ice cream seller in the Yiddish theaters along Second Avenue. Following his World War II service, he studied at the Dramatic Workshop of the New School for Social Research, before making his Broadway debut in 1948.

1) In which movie does Matthau play the character: a) Oscar Madison b) George Wilson
2) For which 1966 movie did Matthau win his Best Supporting Actor Oscar?
3) Which 1976 movie teamed Matthau with Tatum O'Neal?

Five lawsuits filed

DALLAS (AP) — A non-profit organization designed to protect the rights of disabled people filed five lawsuits Thursday as part of a summer campaign to demand compliance of the Americans With Disabilities Act.

Advocacy Inc. filed the lawsuits against the Robstown Post Office; Comerica Bank in Arlington; Denny's restaurants in Dallas; Travis County Mental Health-Mental Retardation authority; and Fort Worth's municipal courts building.

The lawsuits concern complaints about accessibility, according to Advocacy Inc.

Officials with the post office, bank, restaurants and MHMR did not answer calls from The Associated Press Thursday night.

Libby Lanzara, Fort Worth's assistant personnel director, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that the city is two years into its three-year plan of providing accessibility for the disabled and is continuing to make improvements.

Recently, Gene Chase, who was summoned for jury duty, found that the building's disabled access entrance was in the back near garbage bins. A chairlift wasn't working and the jury box had no ramp and was too narrow for his wheelchair, Chase said.

Snyder ISD announces policy for free, reduced price meals

Snyder Independent School District has announced its policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay for meals served on the National School Lunch Program.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown in the chart below are eligible for free and reduced price meals. A foster child may get free or reduced price meals regardless of income.

Application forms have been mailed to all returning students and will also be available for all children when they or their parents register for school. Additional copies are available in the office of the principal at each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the year.

Again this year, school staff will be available to assist in completing applications starting at registration Wednesday, Aug. 4. Assistance will be available through the beginning of school. Applications may be returned to the Central Elementary Cafeteria from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. each weekdays from Aug. 4-Aug. 20 and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. (Aug. 5, 10, 12, 17, and 19.)

In operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age, handicap, religion or political beliefs.

After the application is reviewed, if a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he/she may make a request either orally or in writing to Dalton Moseley, superintendent, School Administration Building, 2901 37th St., telephone 573-5401 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Each school and the central office has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by an interested party.

Local school officials have adopted the family size and income criteria for determining eligibility as shown in the chart. Your eligibility may be checked at any time during the school year. School officials may ask you to send papers showing that your child should get free or reduced price meals.

TCRA Rodeo

We have received numerous calls about the date of the Texas Cowboy Rodeo Association finals (TCRA). The TCRA will hold its finals on September 15-18 at the Scurry County Coliseum. This three day show, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will feature the top 15 contestants in each event. Each night will be considered a go-around with the top 15 contestants competing. Winners and the all around champion will be announced Saturday night.

Booth spaces are now available for vendors. For more information about the TCRA Finals and Booth Spaces Call the Chamber at 573-3558.
