Allies Plan Attack On Red Laos Veto

GENEVA (AP) — American, British and French delegates today decided on a concerted attack against veto provisions in Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's plan for a neutral Laos.

The Western Big Three held a strategy session at French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's villa attended by Britain's Foreign Secretary Lord Home and U.S. Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman.

Harriman sat in for Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who traveled to Bern to pay his respects to President Fritz Wahlen and Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre.

Gromyko submitted two documents Wednesday to the three-day-old conference.

One was a general declaration that would bind all the conferring powers to respect Laotian neutrality. Western authorities feel this Soviet draft can be reconciled with their own ideas if certain amendments can be made.

The second was a 13-point draft agreement setting up international peace-making machinery inside Laos. This plan was laden with veto provisions that would allow the Soviet bloc to thwart the peace-making process.

The general impressions of delegates seemed to be that little real headway is likely to be made pending the outcome of President Kennedy's expected talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev June 3 and 4.

Rusk, Lord Home, Couve de Murville and Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon plan to leave for home Friday. Deputies will be left in charge. The Communists are expected to stay awhile as a public demonstration of their readiness to go on talking here indefinitely.

A French spokesman said: "All delegations are so much in agreement on the general objectives of the conference we could go home tomorrow if it weren't for the means of reaching these objectives. There are considerable differences of opinion on them."

Gromyko outlined his package plan after Rusk proposed a three-point program designed to take Laos out of the cold war: (1) a definition of neutrality for the country which all participants in the conference can accept; (2) an effective control machinery to supervise Laotian neutrality; (3) an economic aid program for the Buddhist kingdom that would be administered by neutral Southeast Asian countries.

Gromyko went along with the general objectives but Western diplomats objected to several features of the Soviet plan.

The India-Canada-Poland truce commission would investigate neutrality violations only when ordered to do so by the co-chairmen of the current conference—the Soviet Union and Britain. Unless the Soviets agreed, there could be no investigation.

The commission would "conduct its work under the general guidance and supervision of the two co-chairmen." Again the Soviets would have to agree.

All decisions of the commission would be by unanimous vote. Poland thus could veto any decision the Communists did not approve. The American proposal called for majority decisions.

And the control commission, according to the Soviet plan, would "conduct its entire work on supervision and control in cooperation with the government of Laos." Western delegates saw this working against effective supervision if Communist or pro-Communist elements gained the upper hand in the Laotian government.

Months of haggling appeared in prospect for the conference.

Oil Flow Stays On 8-Day Plan

AUSTIN (AP)—An increase in the Texas allowable by 48,013 barrels a day was ordered by the Railroad Commission today at the statewide oil proration hearing.

The new flow rate amounts to 2,702,699 barrels per day and represents a continuation of the current 8-day producing pattern.

The Bureau of Mines forecast of market demand for Texas crude during June was for 2,540,000 barrels per day, up 15,000 over its May estimate.

Purchaser nominations totaled 2,479,545 barrels, an increase of 16,547 barrels a day over their indicated needs during May.

Nominating for the 8-day pattern set by the oil regulatory commission were Atlantic, Mobil, Sun, Indiana Oil Purchasing, Texas, Humble, Sinclair, Shell, Gulf, Cities Service and Standard of Texas. Phillips and Continental asked for seven producing days.

J. C. Edwards, spokesman for Texas, told the commission: "We operate four refineries in the state having a combined rated capacity of 355,000 barrels a day, which is nearly half of our company's entire domestic refining capacity."

"A substantial quantity of products manufactured in our four Texas refineries is shipped to markets in other states and to many countries of the free world. That volume, together with the Texas-origin crude we ship out of the state, far exceeds the volume of crude we bring into Texas from other states."

The next statewide proration hearing was scheduled for June 16 in Austin.

No Agreement On Bracero Pact

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Foreign Minister Manuel Tello said Wednesday that no agreement has been reached between Mexico and the United States to extend the bracero pact which expires in a few months.

Tello, who had conferred with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos, said negotiations are continuing. He said Mexico is insisting on some new benefits for Mexican farm workers, and strong guarantees they will be observed.

Psychiatrist Says Incurable Should Be Allowed To Die

DALLAS (AP)—A psychiatrist says there is no moral or medical justification for prolonging the life of an incurably ill person.

Dr. John R. Cavanagh, past president of the Guild of Catholic Psychiatrists, said such persons "should be allowed to die in dignity, unencumbered by useless apparatus. Restorative measures should be discontinued because they are unavailing."

Dr. Cavanagh also said in an interview that "The family and friends should be in attendance at his bedside, not seated in some hospital alcove. His care should not be left to attendants."

The psychiatrist was in Dallas for a speech at the convention of the Association of Catholic Chaplains of Texas hospitals.

Money Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate Wednesday a bill to appropriate $4,327,457,000 for the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and several minor agencies for the coming fiscal year. This was $45,399,919 more than President Kennedy requested, with extra money for medical research and to help find jobs for the unemployed.

Railroad Merger Studies Confirmed

CHICAGO (AP)—Merger studies by the Illinois Central Railroad have been confirmed by the line's president.

Wayne Johnston said Wednesday his firm and another railroad have nearly completed studies on a major merger, but he declined to name the other carrier.

Johnston parried further questions but, when asked if the other line serves Chicago directly, he replied, "not necessarily."

There has been some speculation concerning the Missouri Pacific which has a nine-state network in Texas and the Midwest. Missouri Pacific Lines connect with those of the I.C. at St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans.

Boats Collide In Channel

PORT ARTHUR (AP)—An inbound tanker struck a group of barges, a tug and a refueler in the Sabine-Neches ship channel today at Missouri Bend, one half mile south of Texas Island. The collision turned over one barge and tore a hole in another.

No injuries or fire resulted. The ship, Texas South Carolina, apparently was unable to avoid striking the cluster of vessels in mid-channel. The Gulf Refueler with its barge, Misto, was refueling the tug, Coastwise No. 3, which had four barges in tow.

The impact turned over the Misto, which was filled with diesel fuel, holed the barge CC210, and cut the other three barges loose. The tug rounded up the three loose barges and moored them at the canal bank.

The badly leaking barge almost sank but the tug was able to beach it on the west bank of the channel.

The Misto partially sank but a tug was able to beach it on the east side of the canal.

The Misto was loaded with diesel fuel, much of which leaked into the water. The CC210 carried ethylhexanol, described as "highly toxic" but only mildly flammable.

LT. Cmdr. R. H. Scarborough, Coast Guard port captain who investigated, closed the channel until 3:30 a.m. due to the danger of fire from leaking barges. He said although a great deal leaked, the situation became safe. The collision occurred at 12:50 a.m.

U. S., Canadian Leaders Agree Castro Is A Threat

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker agreed today that the Castro dictatorship in Cuba threatens both "the peaceful and democratic evolution" of Latin America.

In a communique issued before Kennedy headed back to Washington, the U.S. and Canadian leaders also said effective control machinery will be essential to achieve peace and stability in Laos and the rest of Southeast Asia.

Kennedy and Diefenbaker concluded the survey of their two-day conversations with this broad statement of common aims: "To banish the scourge of war, to improve the human lot, to defend and to enlarge the area of freedom, to assist peoples less privileged than our own—these are aims that bind together Canada and the United States and which, with other allies and friends, our two countries will jointly and steadfastly pursue."

Kennedy ended his first state visit on a note of warning for Red aggressors and of challenge to the North Atlantic allies to strengthen the security of the free world. He had held out those objectives in a speech to Parliament Wednesday.

In that same address he called for Canada to step up its contributions to the welfare of underdeveloped Latin-American nations and join the Organization of American States.

The communique made no direct reference to this appeal. It said Kennedy and Diefenbaker discussed the need for accelerating economic progress and social reform as well as strengthening the Western Hemisphere trend away from dictatorship and toward democracy. These objectives are closely related, it added.

"They were in accord that the alignment of a regime in the Western Hemisphere with Communist leadership abroad was a matter for serious concern, threatening as it did the peaceful and democratic evolution of the Latin American peoples," it said.

Diefenbaker assured Kennedy of Canada's "continued and increasing interest in inter-American affairs."

The statement referring to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro was something Kennedy had sought in his trip to Ottawa—his first outside the United States since his inauguration. Canada previously had exhibited less concern than the United States over the potential menace, of Castro's link with the Soviet Union, to the entire Western Hemisphere.

As to the call to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's conventional and nuclear power, the two leaders said: "It is more than ever necessary that the strength and unity of NATO be reinforced."

They omitted any mention of specific increases by Canada or other NATO governments to the alliance's defense forces, but did assert that a strong defense must be maintained until "effective disarmament measures can be secured under proper safeguards."

Kennedy and Diefenbaker reaffirmed their desire for negotiating

More Space Tries Added To Timetable

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States will attempt to orbit an unmanned Project Mercury space capsule about June 12 and to hurl a second astronaut on a brief suborbital flight on June 20, it was learned reliably today.

The orbital mission, in which the instrumented capsule is to swing once around the globe and parachute back to earth, will be a key test in this nation's plan to orbit a man before the end of the year, a feat accomplished last month by Yuri A. Gagarin of the Soviet Union.

The initial attempt to orbit an unmanned capsule failed on April 25 when the Atlas booster veered off course and was destroyed. A rocket escape system pulled the capsule free and it parachuted safely into the Atlantic off Cape Canaveral.

Source said the date of the orbit try is uncertain but that it will be about June 12.

Kennedy Is Back Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy landed back in Washington today after an "extremely worthwhile" visit to Canada—his first outside the country since becoming chief executive.

The "worthwhile" description was the President's own as he looked back on two days in Ottawa.

He and Mrs. Kennedy, aboard an Air Force presidential jet, touched down at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland at 11:12 a.m., after a 485-mile, one-hour flight from the Royal Canadian Air Force base at Uplands, near Ottawa.

They hopped from Andrews to the White House by helicopter. Kennedy went immediately to his office and Mrs. Kennedy to the living quarters of the mansion.

The President's afternoon schedule included conferences with James S. Gavin, U.S. ambassador to France, and Dean Acheson, former secretary of state who is a special consultant to Kennedy on matters concerning the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

At Geneva "a truly independent and neutral Laos." Both Canada and the United States are participating in the Laos conference at Geneva, and Canada is a member of the three-nation commission assigned to supervise a cease-fire between Communists and pro-Western royalists in Laos itself.

Diefenbaker and Kennedy agreed that effective control machinery represents "a key element in a settlement of the Laos situation and an essential ingredient in achieving peace and stability in southeast Asia."

On other points the two leaders: Re-stated their confidence in the United Nations, declared the negotiation of a nuclear test ban treaty with effective measures for inspection was a basic step toward disarmament, agreed that such projects as the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the Development Assistance Group would enable the two countries to coordinate their policies of aid to underdeveloped nations and emphasized their interest in promoting employment and expanding world trade.

Senate Approves State Revenue Bill

Beeman Fisher New TESCO President

FORT WORTH—J. B. Thomas, president and general manager of Texas Electric Service Co. since 1941, today was elected chairman of the board of directors of the company.

Beeman Fisher, who since 1938 has been successively assistant to the president and vice president and executive vice president, was elected to succeed Thomas as president and general manager of the company and its chief executive officer.

Company directors were re-elected at the meeting of stockholders. They are W. K. Stripling, W. P. Bomar, J. P. King Jr., R. K. Hanger, J. A. Gooch, Fort Worth; Joe S. Bridwell, Wichita Falls; J. L. Rhoades, Odessa; Charles C. Thompson, Colorado City; John P. Butler, Midland; G. L. MacGregor, Dallas, Thomas and Fisher.

Other company officers are Hanger, W. P. Portwood and Perry Davis, vice presidents; F. W. Rogers, vice president and treasurer; R. M. Heister, secretary; H. L. Battle, assistant treasurer, and T. W. Cook, assistant secretary, all of Fort Worth.

Measure Now Goes To House

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate today passed the sales tax-loaded $326 million general revenue bill 19 to 12, returning it to the House for rejection or approval.

It was a major step toward a solution of the state's critical deficit and budget problems that loom larger by the hour as the 57th Legislature nears its deadline May 29.

The House may accept the Senate rewrite of its original bill (HB334) and send it to the governor, or refuse to take it and force it into a conference committee.

Earlier the senators voted 22-9 to suspend the rules to permit immediate final consideration, with no filibuster in prospect.

The senators then by agreement decided to take the decisive vote before noon. Joining in this was Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio, who had threatened to kill the sales tax-loaded measure with a filibuster.

Gonzalez began talking against the measure which the Senate advanced to final reading Wednesday. Supporters called for quick action so the revenue bill could get to the House for acceptance or rejection, and possible referral to a joint House-Senate conference committee.

HOT ISSUE

The Senate State Affairs Committee pushed another controversial bill another notch toward enactment, approving a bill written to regulate loan shark practices. It was a committee rewrite of a small loan regulation bill that passed the House several weeks ago.

The tax bill is a rewrite of a House revenue measure offered as a possible solution to the general revenue fund deficit.

Gov. Price Daniel remained silent on whether he would veto the bill, which is based mainly on a retail sales tax.

Senators were held in session late last night by a filibuster by Sen. J. P. Fuller of Port Arthur against the Senate redistricting plan.

Fuller said the Senate would violate the constitutional requirement of an equitable division of the state into senatorial districts if it left Orange and Jefferson counties in the same district. He proposed that Orange County be taken from his district and given to Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin. Dies was against the proposal.

"Orange feels from the bottom of its heart it belongs in your district and no longer with us," Fuller told Dies.

After Fuller closed his 9-hour talking spree at 11 p.m., senators jumped the plan in with the House redistricting bill as an amendment, then passed the entire bill on voice vote. They rejected an amendment by Fuller to take Orange County out of his district.

The Senate tax bill was drafted by a special subcommittee headed by State Affairs Committee Chairman Sen. Wardlaw Lane of Center.

It would raise an estimated $28 million in the next two years from its 2 per cent sales tax including a levy on domestic and commercial use of electricity and gas; $21.5 million by continuing an increase in state franchise taxes; $7.2 million from a 50 per cent increase in drivers' license fees, and $12 million from a 1 per cent increase in the gas production

MIDLAND ISSUE

The legislative redistricting portion of the bill sent back to the House for final approval would give Midland County with a population of 77,717 a representative of its own Dist. 77.

Previously Midland County was in Dist. 102 with Crane, Upton and Pecos Counties. Under the pending bill, Crane, Upton, Ward, Pecos and Brewster would be in Dist. 72 with a total population of 44,246.

The proposed redistricting gives each House member an average of 33,354 constituents.

Nehru Meets Vice President

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Prime Minister Nehru today discussed India's multibillion-dollar five-year plan, already heavily underwritten by the United States.

The touring U.S. vice president brought a personal letter to Nehru from President Kennedy. Nehru told reporters it was a "warm, friendly letter about our planning."

Nehru swept protocol aside and went to the airport to welcome Johnson on his arrival from Thailand instead of at his downtown office.

After a meeting that lasted an hour, they emerged from Nehru's office and talked with reporters. The vice president asked Nehru's advice on the common effort to eliminate poverty and disease and improve education throughout the world.

Asked if Laos specifically was mentioned, Nehru said Johnson told him India could sometimes be of help in developing such countries.

India has received $3.54 billion in aid from the United States. It runs small aid programs of its own and as Nehru reminded reporters, has provided hundreds of technicians and teachers to less-developed nations.

5 Top Red Soldiers Die In Air Disaster

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet news agency said today five high ranking officers of the Soviet armed forces have died in an "aviation catastrophe."

Tass said the officers included the army's full Gen. Vladimir Y. Kolpakchi.

The others were identified as Col. Gen. S. N. Perevertkin, Lt. Gen. V. I. Goffe, Maj. Gen. A. P. Morozov and Col. V. V. Khikhlovsky.

Kolpakchi, 62, was a veteran of the Bolshevik forces in the revolutionary fighting of 1918-20. He held various commands during World War II, during which he won many decorations, and led the Soviet army in the final attack on Berlin. He was appointed to the defense staff in 1956.

Available reference books give no clues to the identity of the other four crash victims named. Tass provided no details of the accident, but it seemed likely a number of other persons must have been killed. In addition to the flight crew, an aircraft with so many high-ranking officers aboard would almost certainly have carried a number of their aides.

The announcement as reported by Tass gave no clues to the point of origin or destination of the fatal flight.

The secrecy roused speculation that the accident might have had some connection with Soviet space exploits.

Stagecoach Station Is Still Standing

PASO REAL (AP)—On the banks of the Arroyo Colorado about 15 miles below Harlingen stands the old Stage Coach Inn—once a way station on the highly traveled Brownsville-San Antonio Road.

Oldtimers around Paso Real and Rio Hondo claim it was built more than 100 years ago for the Armendariz family by a man named Cavazos.

Soldiers, politicians, elegantly dressed ladies, plain housewives with children, international businessmen, bandits, horse thieves and fugitives all breathed a sigh of relief as they reached the bluffs above the arroyo and waited for the ferry.

Gaunt and grim as it looks today, the stage station must have been a welcome sight after the dust of the trail.

In those days, Paso Real, now a remote ranch in the chaparral along the arroyo, was the third stop out of Brownsville and a place of some importance, following Omilte and Los Fresnos.

S. P. Rodriguez, Harlingen school teacher whose father operated the ferry as late as 1900, says the station was built to house a ticket office, general store, post-office, and living quarters for the agent and his family.

The ferry operated by his father was 55 feet long and 13 feet broad, and operated, like all of them at the crossing, by being pulled across by hand.

In its later years it was used almost entirely for transporting cattle.

Unoccupied today, the station is littered with the bills and papers of a farm organization that used it for a headquarters in comparatively recent years.

SAME RESULTS

By E. H. Farhat, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 80
P. O. Box 1281

The same message that the apostles preached, will get the same results today, when it falls on honest and good hearts (Luke 8:15). There may not be as many honest and good hearts today; but when the message is received wholeheartedly today, the results will be the same as when the message was received wholeheartedly in New Testament times. If not, why not? According to Acts of Apostles, all who received the message, not only believed and repented; they also were baptized. Neither did they rejoice in salvation before their baptism. Furthermore, they were baptized the same hour of the day or night. They did not wait until the end of the year, or even the end of the week, to be baptized in a group. Read the book of Acts. On Pentecost day the only ones who went away unbaptized, were those who did not gladly receive Peter's message. (Acts 2:41). The Acts of Apostles gives no exception to this in the cases of conversion. Why the difference between the results then and today? Echo: Why? Welcome to our mid-week service tonight, 7:30. Roy Chapman, will preach.

Many Services

The display of Air Base Group, being prepared by Don Bryson, features the multiple services offered to base personnel at Webb. This display appears in the window at C. R. Anthony's store. It follows the pattern of emphasis on Armed Forces Week, which will be climaxed with open house at the base Saturday.

Educational Needs In New Age Told

The dizzying pace into the aerospace age has placed staggering demands upon education, Lt. Col. Leonard Einstein declared in an address to the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

It was Armed Forces Day for the club and Lions had more than a score of officers and airmen from Webb as their guests. Lions were urged to visit Webb AFB Saturday, on Armed Forces Day. Col. Einstein, who is executive officer for the M&S group, cited records of increased speeds and range as a predicate for the need of trained minds as well as dedicated hands and hearts.

In 1911 the fledgling forerunner of the Air Force had a fighter plane that made 82 m.p.h. The Air Force's F106, now operational, lunged up a record of 1,525 m.p.h. a couple of years ago. In the past two years the speed of our bombers has jumped from 639 m.p.h. to 1,302 m.p.h. The ceiling has vaulted from 13,776 feet in 1911 to 100,195.

The events of the past fortnight, he said, have added another example. Comdr. Alan Sheppard's trip into the fringe of space, changed the unit of measurement from feet into miles.

Back of each of these herculean strides has been a great effort in research and ingenuity. For all the miracles in automation and instrumentation, there is still the fundamental demand for gifted and devoted minds, Col. Einstein said.

The problem of security and survival has become a highly complex one, said Col. Einstein. The answers to these and the

Senators Cautious On Summit Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators struck a cautionary note today on the kind of personal diplomacy that apparently is leading to a meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., calls the proposed meeting "premature and ill-advised" under present world conditions.

Gore, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview that he seriously questions whether Kennedy should "resort to personalized diplomacy."

"Coming in the wake of the Cuban and Laotian affairs and before the President has had the necessary time to consolidate his own positive foreign policy program, I think great risks are involved in a meeting of contending heads of states," he said.

Gore told the Senate Wednesday that it should be kept in mind that Khrushchev "has no scruples." He said that if Kennedy meets with the Soviet premier it should be only after careful planning and an agreement on the agenda to be discussed.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that while he did not share Gore's fears, he agreed that if a personal meeting with Khrushchev is considered "we ought to go into it with our eyes wide open."

Mansfield emphasized that an informal talk between Kennedy and Khrushchev did not constitute a summit meeting "but an opportunity for the two heads to size up each other and size up world problems."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a statement that Kennedy should approach a meeting with Khrushchev "with the utmost caution."

"There must be every expectation that a summit meeting will produce a desirable result or the decision to hold the meeting cannot be justified," Dirksen said.

"If, after the most searching study, the President does decide to meet with Premier Khrushchev, then I hope that the caution which must be used in reaching the decision is transformed into a sure-handed boldness that will make the meeting a success for the free world."

Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., said he thought it was "all wrong" for the President to engage in the kind of personal diplomacy Kennedy criticized in last year's presidential campaign.

As for a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting, Capehart said, "nothing will come of it."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a statement that Kennedy should approach a meeting with Khrushchev "with the utmost caution."

"There must be every expectation that a summit meeting will

DEAR ABBY

Stay With This Rule

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with a daughter in high school. The two of us live together. I have to work so I am not at home when she comes home from school. My daughter is well liked, and has many friends. I have no objection to her girl friends coming over after school, but lately, boys have been coming over. I trust my daughter, but I laid the law down and told her I did not want boys at the house when I am not there. She says that she won't be popular if she can't have the kids over after school. Was I wrong to forbid her to have boys over when I am not home? Or am I old-fashioned?

WORKING MOTHER: Your original decision was sound. Don't weaken.

DEAR ABBY: We have a lady in our neighborhood who is making it tough for all the other wives. She didn't get married until she was 28, so she really appreciates having a man, but she is going overboard! She went to Barber College to learn how to cut a man's hair and shave him, so she could do it for her husband. She doesn't pack him a lunch, she drives over to his plant every noon with a HOT lunch for him. She calls him "Baby," "Sweetheart," and "Darling"—laughs at all his old jokes like she's never heard them before, and she never argues or disagrees with him. Is she an "ideal" wife or are we just stobs?

DEAR ABBY: Your neighbor is "mothering" her husband and he is lapping it up. He may remain contented forever, but if he ever grows up and decides he wants a real "wife" I hope your neighbor is convertible enough to fill the bill. If she isn't, hubby will pocket the haircut money and do a little cutting up on his own.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of an only son. His father is dead. I have a very lovely diamond ring which belonged to my mother, who is now deceased. I promised my son I would give him this ring when he found the girl of his choice.

He is now 26 and is going to marry a girl of whom I know my mother would not approve. I do not care for this girl either. She is not of our faith and has been married before. I KNOW my mother would not want this girl to have her ring. Would I be wrong to tell my son I cannot find it in my heart to keep my promise?

TWO CARATS: You promised your son the ring when he found the girl of his choice. He has found her.

DEAR ABBY: When you advised "Wants a Pet to get a hamster, I suppose you didn't know that hamsters bite, smell bad and live only two years. I would suggest a guinea pig. They don't bite, have no odor, enjoy cuddling and live up to eight years. GOT FOUR

Not Much Fun When The Old Man Must Pay

DETROIT (AP)—A Saturday night on the town seemed like a good idea to James Gibson. But it wasn't much fun the following Monday morning when Gibson, 41, went to court where his wife was charged with turning in a false felony report. Margaret Mae Gibson, 35, told the court she didn't want James to go out without her. So she shouted for a cop and told him "that man"—meaning James—had stolen her purse.

She was fined $10. James paid it.

No Green Thumb

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II is not interested in gardening—a fact that may upset many thousands of her gardening subjects. Planting a tulip tree in a ceremony at a British public school, she stood back with a smile and told onlookers: "I am not particularly renowned for my green fingers."

The point of view was confirmed by professional gardener Harry Ekphik, who for years has supplied flowers for Queen Mother Elizabeth. "I'm afraid," he said, "that Queen Elizabeth is not very interested in gardening."

Song Theme

BALTIMORE (AP)—The grand jury's liquor license committee, after touring the burlesque and strip-tease belt of downtown Baltimore, issued what might be called a two-part report. First, the 10-member committee told criminal court judges the shows apparently are in conformance with the law. Then the group added:

"A goodly number of the performers carry out the words of 'The AVERAGE SLOBS' song, 'Every Little Movement Has a Meaning All Its Own.'"

Ready For Trial

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Albert Kotal concealed hacksaw blades in one of his shoes as he went to trial for murder. Four 6-inch blades were found during a routine check of his wearing apparel, Sheriff Art Wermuth said.

Too Late To Retire

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—An ex-convict who can write little more than his own name has admitted 131 burglaries over a two-year period and has showed officers 127 of his crime sites, authorities report. Officers said Albert M. De Ponte, 29, had taken $35,000. The San Francisco man now is in San Mateo County jail.

Steel Teeth

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Dr. Gerard L. Courtaud of New York related to the Maryland Dental Association that stainless steel bolting rods are being cemented into what remains of seriously broken-down teeth. He said the dentist then puts a form around the tooth, pours a filling around the pins, and the filling is ready for a crown or porcelain jacket.

Pair Wins Fight To Educate Own

DUTCH NECK, N. J. (AP)—A Princeton University professor and his wife have won court approval to educate their three talented children at home instead of sending them to public school.

Dr. Daniel S. Trifan, 43, and his 34-year-old wife were cleared of disorderly conduct charges Wednesday by Magistrate A. C. Reeves Hicks, who ruled that the three children in question "are receiving an equivalent education in the academic sense."

The three, who have shown musical talent, have been educated at home through correspondence courses. The youngsters are Maria, 11; Daniel, 9; and Richard, 7.

Said Hicks: "There is absence of any evidence that the children are being exploited or being dragged into the abyss of maladjustment or abnormality, which would certainly give the state sufficient cause to exercise control. Therefore, the defendants are not deemed to be disorderly persons."

Hicks noted further that the legislature had not established a framework to appeal in a case such as this.

The Trifans had argued that if they were forced to send their children to West Windsor Township School, the children would have sufficient time to develop musically. The three all play the violin and piano.

The School Board declared that the children needed formal school and the relationships with other children that such a routine offers.

Castro Offers Trade: Prisoners For 'Dozers

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro has offered to trade more than 1,000 prisoners of the April 17 invasion for 500 American bulldozers.

The startling sword-for-plowshares offer Wednesday night evoked wild cheers from several thousand peasants assembled at the rancho boyeros agricultural fair near Havana.

If the prisoners are not ransomed, Castro said, "they will work hard, building trenches and fortifications so that they will have to earn the bread they eat."

Referring to President Kennedy—whom the Cubans have charged with direct responsibility for the invasion—Castro said: "If they are his friends and he loves them so much, let him send 500 bulldozers and we will send them back." He added that captives charged with committing crimes during the Fulgencio Batista regime would not be returned under any circumstances.

Earlier, Castro told his audience that "agricultural production must be increased at all costs." Derrailing all length on Cuba's shortage of pork and pork prod-

SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP)—William F. "Buster" Fleming of Monahans has been named city manager of Sweetwater, succeeding Garland Franks, who resigned May 5.

Star Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—A resolution to authorize a $100,000 payment to astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr., for his historic space flight earlier this month has been introduced by Rep. Victor L. Antonio, D-N.Y.

Castro then added that "Napoleon tried to exchange prisoners for swine, but we want to be more polite to the Yankee imperialists."

Castro said the work of his revolution is just beginning and his task is "to provide food, clothing, shoes, medicine, education and recreation for the whole people."

"There is much to be done," he said, "and you must respond to this new situation and feel enthusiasm for production and work."

The Cuban Prime Minister addressed members of the National Association of Small Farmers. His televised appearance was monitored in this city, 90 miles from Havana.

Discussing Cuba's economic situation, he said shortages of luxury goods do not disturb the peasants. "What do you care," he said, "if it is not possible to buy a $5,000 Cadillac or that there is no way to go to Monte Carlo to gamble away $20,000?"

Wonder Drugs In Antarctic?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The antarctic may hold a treasure of wonder drugs, waiting to be tapped.

This is the view of Dr. Albert Cray of the National Science Foundation. Cray, one of the nation's foremost polar scientists, has just returned from long-term service in the cold lands.

In a talk Wednesday to the foundation's headquarters staff, he said: "We have found that animals in the antarctic are relatively free of bacteria, and it has been suggested that this may be due to the possible presence of antibiotics in algal plants there. This should be followed up."

Algae are tiny fungus-like plants that grow in the sea or on moist ground, and often occur as scum atop ponds.

Cray, chief scientist of the U.S. antarctic program, threw cold water on theories that the antarctic might hold rich and economically mineable mineral treasures.

"Unless something startling comes to light which is not now evident," he said, "I don't think any commercial uses will develop from the geology of the antarctic."

Bersek Patient Kills 2, Stabs 4

HOUSTON (AP)—A berserk mental patient, quoting from the Bible and singing hymns, stabbed to death a nurse and an elderly orderly in a locked hospital ward Wednesday night and then stabbed four more persons before police shot and captured him.

Ted Bowen, administrator of Methodist Hospital, identified the patient as Charles E. White, 36, a machine operator.

Dead were Mrs. Gladys Lucille Foreman, 49, whose throat was cut, and James Newton, 72, who was stabbed in the chest and stomach.

Injured were Mrs. Anne Porter, 21, a student nurse, cut on the throat; Mrs. Ruth Gordon, 62, nurse, stabbed in the chest and stomach; Mrs. Edna Fuller, 45, medical supervisor, stabbed in the stomach; and Otto Voigt, 54, a patient, stabbed in the lower back. Mrs. Gordon was in critical condition after surgery. The others were in fair condition.

Bowen said that members of White's family said he suddenly started praying and singing hymns at work Wednesday. He was admitted to the hospital in the evening and placed in the locked ward on the hospital's seventh floor, which is reserved for mental patients.

The administrator gave this account: About an hour and a half after White was admitted Mrs. Foreman staggered from the ward, bleeding profusely and calling for help.

Mrs. Fuller, the supervisor, went into the ward, found Newton on the floor and White, who had changed from pajamas to street clothes, brandishing a pocket knife with a blade five inches long. Hospital authorities did not know where he got the knife.

White stabbed Mrs. Fuller and bolted through the door.

He ran into the occupational therapy room, where he stabbed Mrs. Gordon and Voigt, and then into the south wing where he grabbed Mrs. Porter at a nursing station and cut her on the throat. Mrs. Catherine Newman, a private nurse, tried to take the knife away from White and pleaded with him to surrender. She was not hurt.

Several male patients then jumped White and wrestled him into a glassed-in sun room. Two patients in the room escaped unhurt.

Patrolman John Toups said that when he and other officers arrived White was holding the knife in one hand and drinking water from a pitcher he held in the other.

"He slashed upholstery and curtains and threatened to kill himself and anybody who came in the room after him," Toups said. "He sang hymns and quoted from Proverbs where Solomon was talking to his son about moral virtue."

The officers fired a tear gas shell into the room.

When White refused to surrender, a policeman fired two pistol shots, wounding White in the hand that held the knife.

White changed the knife to the other hand and kept on slashing the upholstery.

An officer then fired a shotgun blast, wounding White in the arm. He dropped the knife and the officers rushed in and grabbed him.

Bickley Takes Marfa Position

STANTON (AP)—After seven years in the Stanton school system, Jimmy Bickley has resigned to accept a position as a school principal at Marfa.

He said he regretted leaving Stanton, his home town, but the new offer represented a professional advancement.

Reared in Martin County, Bickley was graduated from Courtney High School. He took both his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees at Sul Ross College in Alpine.

All of his teaching career has been spent in the Stanton system, first as a classroom teacher, then as elementary and finally as high school principal. The Marfa post, which he will assume around July 15, offers a substantial increase in salary.

Milburn Wright Jr. also submitted his resignation as vocational agriculture instructor to join his family in farming and ranching interests at San Angelo. L. M. Hays Sr., superintendent, said that applications were being received for the two places.

'Human Bomb' Gets Life Term

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Jack Friday, 32, dubbed the human bomb, was found guilty by a jury Wednesday of illegal possession of explosives and of being an habitual criminal. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The charges grew out of Friday's actions last Sept. 27 when he abducted his ex-wife from her parents' motel and threatened to detonate dynamite he claimed he had strapped around his waist if an officer who was seeking to arrest him didn't let him go free.

By agreement, Friday fled after freeing his former wife, but was picked up the same day in neighboring Odessa.

Carry Back Bucking Odds

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Carry Back will be bucking bigger odds Saturday than the Preakness betting board shows because of winning the Kentucky Derby.

He's figured today to be around a 6-5 favorite against the seven other 3-year-olds listed as probable entries. His Derby victory May 6 goes a long way in shaping the calculation.

But in the background lurks the records showing Derby winners of the recent past aren't such good bets in the Preakness.

Since 1945, 11 have tried, and only three succeeded in taking the first two legs of the triple crown. On the other hand, seven colts who finished second in the Derby during the same 15 years came to Baltimore and copped the Preakness.

Crozier's backers should take heart from this. He lost the Derby by less than a length to Carry Back. That was a mile and quarter race. The Preakness distance is a sixteenth shorter.

Besides Crozier, Dr. Miller, Sherlock and Globemaster will be trying to do in the Preakness what they couldn't in the Derby against Carry Back. The new corners to the triple crown circuit which ends June 3 at Belmont, are Hitting Away, Crimson Fury and Orleans Doge.

Jack Price, trainer and breeder of Carry Back, is especially anxious to win the Preakness. If he doesn't, he won't have even a chance at the Belmont.

He promised a long time ago to run Carry Back in the Jersey Derby which is only four days before the Belmont's grueling mile and a half. Price's New Jersey commitment will be forgotten if Carry Back can take the Preakness, so he may have a shot at becoming the first triple crown winner since Citation in 1948.

The only colt since then to win the first two legs was Tim Tam, who finished second in the Belmont in 1950.

The talkative Price simply exudes confidence over the ability of his "little horse with the big tail" to handle all odds and jinxes.

"He's perfect and ready," Price proclaims, for the 85th running of the Preakness. With eight starters, the pot will total $177,200, the winner taking $124,700.

Comets Decision Rockets, 21-6, In International

The Comets spotted the Rockets four runs in the first inning and then went on to register a 21-6 International Little League victory here Wednesday night.

Mike Wilson and Louis Crosby each smashed four hits in the victory while Mike Smith, who relieved Henry Rosier in the second, received credit for the mound victory.

The Comets, sparked by Bobby Bahn's two doubles, scored 12 runs in a big four inning. Wilson, Clyde Huff and Crosby of the Comets also had doubles during the game.

Gary Kappas was charged with the mound loss.

On Tuesday night, the Sabres had won their fifth game without a defeat by mauling the Daggers, 14-3.

Jack Ellis recorded the mound success in that inning. He surrendered only three hits to the losers.

Ellis, who fanned nine and walked four, helped his own cause with three hits.

In tonight's game, the T-Birds go against the Daggers.

Bob Kennedy Cites Beaumont In Crime Fight

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas News said today that Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy cited evidence of vice in Jefferson County turned up by a Texas legislative committee as an argument for new legislation to aid in combating organized crime.

Kennedy testified before a House Judiciary subcommittee in Washington. He said major criminal activities were not a problem for big cities alone.

He said the report of the Texas House General Investigating Committee "details what I can describe only as the rape of the City of Beaumont by organized crime," the News story said.

The state investigation proved, he told congressmen, that houses of prostitution, gambling clubs, punchboards, pinball machines, slot machines, numbers and book-making were widely distributed through Beaumont.

"The crime rate of the city rose 22 per cent in 1960," Kennedy said. "Desirable citizens left town. The city is in the red by $1,125,833. A total of $350,000 in current checks were issued with no covering funds in the bank."

"Within three years two water improvement projects ran out of money."

"The city is deficient in neighborhood parks and supervised recreation facilities. Municipal bonds are difficult to sell. The efforts to attract industry to the city were sabotaged by the corruption."

Kennedy added that "This appalling story has not had its ending recorded yet." Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont, a member of the Judiciary Committee, told the News:

"I hope to add a statement in the House Judiciary subcommittee record emphasizing that Beaumont is a fast-growing industrial city with an abundance of natural resources and good working conditions providing excellent opportunities for further growth, improvements and prosperity."

Kennedy said that the crime disclosed in Beaumont was an interstate problem.

"The opium seized in Beaumont was not grown locally in Texas. The pinball machines and other gambling devices were not manufactured there. The profits from the activities did not remain in Texas," he said.

"All the information and implements flowed into Beaumont through the medium of interstate commerce."

Kennedy's legislative proposals would prohibit interstate travel in the aid of racketeering enterprises, prohibit the use of wire facilities for gambling data and expand the coverage of the fugitive felon act.

Standardization Control Boards

The ADC Standardization Control Boards, now in operation at the maintenance control section of the 331st FIS, are designed to continually show the present and complete status of each airplane assigned to the squadron. Among the men of the section who maintain the status are, from left, T.Sgt. Francis E. Roth, C.M.Sgt. William J. Peterson, the non-commissioned officer in charge, and M.Sgt. Del S. Deighton.

New Control Boards In Use To Help 331st Operations

The Maintenance Control Section of the 331st FIS at Webb AFB has received the new ADC Standardization Control Boards and they are in full operation.

The boards are designed to continually show the present status of each airplane assigned to the squadron. They also show the number of flights scheduled for each aircraft, the number of flights made that were unscheduled and also the flights that were aborted because of any malfunction that occurred.

When an aircraft goes out of commission for maintenance, the board will show the estimated time until it will be operational again and the number of discrepancies of each aircraft. If any aircraft is out of commission for parts, the board also shows its status.

The total time flown by each aircraft is recorded and since the engines are interchangeable, their time flown is recorded separately. By checking the time shown on the boards it can be determined when the required inspections fall due.

Two of the boards show if a specialist is available on a work shift and if one is assigned to the job. They reflect at all times where each specialist is, when he will be available for another assignment where he is needed and to which job he is going to be dispatched.

The officer in charge of the MCS is CWO Lyndon R. Lewis, and C.M. Sgt. William Peterson is the non-commissioned officer in charge.

T. Sgt. Donald W. Fenwick and T. Sgt. Robert J. Crooks with T. Sgt. Francis E. Roth keep the board current during the day shift and T. Sgt. Donald R. Goss, T. Sgt. Arthur W. Smith and S. Sgt. Bernard P. McCormick maintain the status during the night shift.

Sidewalk Law Being Explained

Some 50 business houses were asked last week to move merchandise and other items from the sidewalk areas in Big Spring. This week a few were given the second "warning" after they failed to comply with the request of the police department.

Many of the 50 complied immediately, after they were called upon and the city ordinance was explained to them.

Police were acting on orders of the city commission to stop violations of the ordinance which prohibits the display of merchandise between the curbs and inside sidewalk area whether a sidewalk exists or not. Signs are included in the order.

Police officials say the hope all will meet the requirements of the ordinance and will not make it necessary to file complaints, or charges against them for violations.

"We will have no alternative but to file charges where owners or operators fail to comply," Chief Jay Banks said this week.

The city commission order included all furniture, appliances, signs, cars, and anything else which would obstruct pedestrian passage in the sidewalk areas.

Sir Winston Ails

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill is suffering "a mild indisposition," the Foreign Office said today.

CAPT. H. D. AUSTIN

Capt Austin To Perform Saturday

Jockeying the T-33 jet trainer through its maneuvers on Armed Forces Day Saturday will be Capt. Howard D. Austin, Falcon Flight commander in 3560th Pilot Training Squadron.

He will start the 600 m.p.h. jet through a series of loops, rolls, Cuban 8, knife edge, double Immelman, and inverted flight at 2:27 p.m.

While serving as a fighter and tactical pilot in Korea, he logged 100 combat hours during 61 missions. He wears the Air Medal and Distinguished Flying Cross.

With over 3,000 hours in the air, Capt. Austin is a senior pilot and has flown acrobatics all over the nation in the T-33, P-51 and F-86.

Missile Officer

L.L. Richard E. Coll has been assigned as Missile Maintenance Officer for the 331st FIS at Webb AFB. Lt. Coll transferred here from Lowry AFB, Colo., where he had been attending missile maintenance school. Previous to that time he was stationed in Prestwick, Scotland, where he flew with the Air Rescue Service. He has participated in the search in the Arctic Ocean for the Discoverer I Capsule. Lt. Coll entered the service in 1954 and studied aeronautical engineering at Texas A&M College.

Eichmann Ordered Death For Smuggling Of Letters

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann personally ordered the execution of 16 Jews for trying to smuggle letters out of Theresienstadt concentration camp, testimony introduced by the prosecution at Eichmann's trial disclosed today.

Eichmann's order was reported by one of his colleagues in the Nazi campaign to liquidate the Jews, Capt. Siegfried Seidl, first commander of Theresienstadt.

African Raids

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police staged nationwide raids Wednesday to arrest "criminal elements, subversives and looters," the government radio reported. Hundreds of nonwhites were reported detained in the Cape Peninsula but many were quickly released.

Cuban Airlift

HAVANA (AP) — An airlift of Americans from Cuba is ready to start Friday, with at least 91 approved for the first flight to Miami, Fla.

when it was established in 1941, later commander of the Belsen camp and finally a staff officer with Eichmann during the purge of Hungary's 600,000 Jews.

Seidl was hanged after the war in Vienna.

The Israeli prosecution introduced an affidavit he gave Allied officers that told this story:

Eichmann, then in Prague, heard rumors that Jews were trying to get word out on the true conditions in Theresienstadt. He instructed Seidl to impose the death penalty on the 16 suspects.

"A Jew named Fisher was drafted as the hangman," Dep. Atty. Gen. Ya'akov Bar'or said, reading from Seidl's affidavit.

"Once the rope broke, that Jew was hanged a second time."

Theresienstadt itself, established in Czechoslovakia under the camouflage of being a ghetto for the aged, actually was used more as an assembly point for transports to the Auschwitz gas chambers, the evidence showed.

For lack of proper hygiene or medical care, 18,000 Jews died in Theresienstadt from late 1941 to 1943, Seidl's affidavit related. During that time at least 50,000 Jews passed through the camp "to the east"—the road to death.

Honor Students

Claudia Self and Ronnie Hamby seem to be quite happy about representing BSHS at Armed Forces Day celebrations Saturday. Here they admire the new 50-star flag which the United States Air Force helps defend.

Students Named For Webb Honor

By KAY LOVELAND

On Armed Forces Day, Saturday, Claudia Self and Ronnie Hamby will represent Big Spring High School in ceremonies at Webb Air Force Base.

Ronnie, son of Raymond Hamby, 610 George, and Claudia, daughter of Mrs. Dean Self, Gail Route, are both seniors.

The two were nominated for the honor by the faculty, and they will be guests at the base that day, sitting with Col. Donald W. Eisenhart for the Wing review in addition to attending a luncheon.

Both students have been active in various school organizations. Volleyball has been Miss Self's chief interest during her three years of high school; she served as a spike on the team. Other clubs of which she is or has been a member include the Spanish Club, Shorthand Club, Future Homemakers of America, Pep Squad, Majors Club—reporter.

In 1959 she was chosen Harvest Queen. Being chosen School Beauty this year by the John Robert Powers School in Dallas was a special honor for her. She resembles recording artist Connie Francis. In the fall, she plans to enroll in Howard County Junior College to study for a business career.

Hamby has served this year as senior representative to the Student Council. He is also president of the National Honor Society and a member of Hi-Y. The faculty named him to Who's Who, and he has demonstrated his ability in basketball by receiving the Most Valuable Player Award this year.

More than likely he will be spending some time this summer at his favorite sport of water skiing before entering HCJC in September. As his plans stand now, he will enroll in Southern Methodist University upon completion of two years of study here, where he will work for a degree in law.

AIRMAN EVANS

Evans Selected Honor Airman By 331st For April

Airman 2.C. Charles E. Evans was named the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron Airman of the Month for April.

He is assigned to the Automatic Flight Control Section where it is his job to bench check and repair Automatic Flight Control System components for the squadron's AFSC MockUp. According to his NCOIC, M. Sgt. Ralph Bearup, Evans' good judgment coupled with his high technical knowledge make him an outstanding asset in accomplishing the mission of the section.

Evans called Krotz Springs, La., his home until he entered the USAF in 1958.

Gunman Kills Himself As Cops Close In

BOSTON (AP) — A desperate gunman hunted widely for two slayings of law officers put a bullet into his brain Wednesday night as police stormed his hideout in a fashionable Back Bay apartment house.

Edgar W. Cook, 48, less than two years out of Alcatraz, where he served a 14-year sentence for a post office robbery, died in a hospital 2½ hours later.

Police said he killed himself with the same tiny .25-caliber pistol with which he killed David S. Robinson, 53, warden of the Middlesex County jail, in escaping from that Cambridge institution Sunday noon.

Norman A. Porter Jr., 21, his companion in escape, remained at large.

Both Cook and Porter were held on murder charges. Cook was to have gone on trial Monday for killing a Cambridge policeman last September. The officer had surprised him attempting to break into a restaurant.

Porter was awaiting trial for killing a clothing store clerk in an attempted holdup at Saugus.

An informant frankly eager for a $5,000 reward posted by Middlesex County Sheriff Howard W. Fitzgerald telephoned the sheriff shortly after 6 o'clock and told him Cook was hiding in a third-floor apartment close to Kenmore Square.

Police closed off the area to pedestrians and cars. Officers in plain clothes surrounded the building.

They were sure when they saw Cook come out on a balcony at 9 p.m., look into the street, then hurry inside.

A Massachusetts state police woman detective, Mary E. Connelly, 25, entered the building just ahead of the raiders and with a crisp command—"Get your coat and come with me"—led a young airline hostess to safety from her apartment near Cook's.

At 9:20 a five-man squad led by Deputy Police Supt. Joseph J. Cummings and Cambridge Police Chief Daniel J. Brennan slipped out of an unmarked car a block away.

As they approached they saw a shade go up in the apartment and the window open. A head appeared and then withdrew.

The officers heard a shot when they reached the apartment door. When they crashed through the door they found Cook sprawled on the floor, bleeding heavily, the tiny pistol beside him.

Graham Calls JFK 'Baptist, In Some Ways'

NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says he regards President Kennedy as a Baptist President in some ways.

Graham made the remark to newsmen in discussing federal aid to education just before he sailed aboard the British liner Queen Mary for a five-week crusade in the British Isles.

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, has held that federal grants to parochial schools would be unconstitutional.

Graham said that he himself, generally speaking, opposed federal aid to education.

"I admire the President very much," he added. "I think in some ways he's a Baptist president."

Pressed on this characterization, Graham said: "Why, he's taken the Baptist stand on aid against that of his own church."

Stretch Drive For Candidates

By The Associated Press

Both U.S. Sen. William A. Blakley and his Republican opponent, John Tower, campaign in Texas today in a stretch drive for votes in the May 27 run-off Senate election.

It was the second day of campaigning in the Texas Panhandle for Tower. He spent most of Wednesday on a handshaking tour of downtown Amarillo and in giving radio and television interviews. He planned stops in Borger, Pampa and other towns Thursday.

Blakley returned late Thursday from Washington. He was to attend a private luncheon in Fort Worth and then go on a handshaking tour and attend a reception.

In Washington Wednesday the Senate defeated Blakley's "home rule" education bill. It provided remission of 5 per cent of all income taxes collected to the states for educational purposes.

Blakley offered his plan as a substitute to the administration bill, he said, "because it maintains funds and controls in the states without any question."

Womacks Complete Pit After Three Years Of Construction

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Womack, 1601 Tucson, have good reason to be proud of their new barbecue pit: It took three years to build.

All the construction of the new pit was done by Womack and it seems that he had to take time off for an occasional golf game. During the construction period, all barbecuing was done indoors in the fireplace.

Weather permitting, the Womacks soon will go outdoors to barbecue chicken, steaks or hamburgers for their friends. The pit, equipped with two electric rotisseries, will cook enough food for 30 people at one time, according to Womack. Womack built a grill at one side of the pit for frying meat or cooking coffee, and a wash basin, complete with running water, on the other side.

Two ornate lamps from Mexico are placed at the sides of the pit on the fence. The Womacks have owned the lamps six years, waiting on completion of the barbecue pit before using them.

"We're trying to make an outdoor living room," jokes Mrs. Womack, "and all we need now is a roof."

A hunter and fisher, Womack has barbecued quail, dove, deer and bear. All were well accepted except for the bear meat. When they first started barbecuing, the Womacks used a rich barbecue sauce. Now they prefer basting the meat with lemon juice, butter and garlic, getting most of the flavor from the hickory wood used for a fire.

Womack believes that a slow burning fire with a good smoke comes from slightly green wood. In his new pit, Womack has built a gas burner over which the wood is placed. Starting a slow burning fire is now a simple matter. To clean the grill he uses a torch connected to a hose and burns away the excess meat.

Favorite barbecue dish of Mrs. Womack and 10-year-old son, Brent, is chicken. Womack prefers hamburger steak, cooked rare. For side dishes the family likes potatoes, onions and corn on the cob, wrapped in foil and cooked with the meat: French bread, baked beans and fruit salad.

BAKED BEANS

For a sweet and hot taste, the Womacks like baked beans cooked with maple syrup.

- 1 No. 2 can pork and beans
- 2 tbsps. vinegar
- 2 tbsps. mustard
- 2 tbsps. brown sugar
- Dash cayenne pepper
- Salt and pepper
- 1 tsp. maple syrup

Place strips of bacon on top and cook 20 to 25 minutes in hot oven.

GREEN BEANS AND MUSHROOM SAUCE

This is another side dish that Mrs. Womack prepares to go with her husband's barbecuing.

- 1 or 2 cans green beans
- 1 can mushroom soup

Drain juice off beans, add mushroom soup and grate cheese on top. Cook in oven 15 to 20 minutes.

FRUIT SALAD

None of the Womacks care for anything real sweet after barbecue, so Mrs. Womack usually prepares a fruit salad for dessert.

- 2 11 oz. cans mandarin oranges
- 1 No. 2 can pineapple chunks
- 1/4 pkg. tiny mushrooms
- 3 can coconut

Add 1/4 pint sour cream, mix

Worth The Wait

Odell Womack tries out his new barbecue pit while Mrs. Womack takes a peek at her baked beans. The Womacks, who live at 1601 Tucson, plan to do a lot of entertaining now that the pit is fired up and "raring to go."

Salad Is Good With Chicken

Besides tasting delicious with pork chops, this salad is fine to serve with ham or chicken.

FRUIT SLAW

- 2 cups shredded green cabbage, packed down
- 2 tbsps. mayonnaise
- 1 medium-sized ripe banana
- 1/4 tps. lemon juice
- 1 orange, pared and diced
- Salt and lettuce

Mix the cabbage and mayonnaise. With a fork mash the banana, but not too fine; mix in lemon juice. Toss cabbage and banana mixtures together adding orange and salt to taste. Serve in lettuce cups. Makes 3 servings.

Ham, Pineapple Make Good Sauce

This sauce will please diners who are convinced that ham and pineapple were meant for each other.

PINEAPPLE SAUCE

- 1/4 cup firmly-packed light brown sugar
- 1 1/4 tps. corn starch
- 1/4 cups pineapple juice
- 1 cup drained pineapple chunks

In a 1-quart saucepan mix together thoroughly the brown sugar and corn starch. Add pineapple juice gradually, stirring until smooth after each addition. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and clear. Add pineapple chunks; reheat.

He is a co-owner of Bettie and Womack Construction Company, member of the ABC Club, board of directors for the YMCA and on the school board. He also takes time out to help his son in Little League.

Mrs. Womack is a member of Xi Mu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, the Rosebud Garden Club, head the Charm Class at the state hospital and a member of P.T.A. The family attends the First Baptist Church where both are members of a Sunday School class.

Convenient Way To Keep Cream

Do you know this wonderfully convenient way of keeping whipped cream on hand for desserts?

FROZEN CREAM

- 1 cup heavy cream
- 3 tbsps. confectioners sugar
- 1/4 to 1 tsp. vanilla

Beat the cream until almost stiff. Add sugar and vanilla; beat until stiff. Place fluted paper baking cups in a muffin pan with 12 wells; the wells can be either very small or medium size, and paper cups should correspond. Spoon whipped cream into paper cups; freeze.

Remove cream-filled paper cups from muffin pan and package for freezer storage. Cream may be served frozen or thawed.

If desired, remove paper cups and cream will retain pretty fluted shape around sides. Makes 12 servings.

Shish-Kabobs Are Interesting Change

Grill flavorful, tender shish-kabobs over the coals for an interesting change from the usual outdoor-cooked fare. They'll be moist and flavorful with all the delicious juices sealed in the foil. A succulent delight!

All you do is thread cubes of any tender meat and vegetables on skewers, brush with a flavorful marinade, wrap in foil and refrigerate overnight. To cook, brown over the fire, return to foil and cook until done. Have lots of French bread ready to dunk in the zesty sauce that forms in the foil.

MARINATED LAMB KABOBS

(Serves 4)

- 1 lb. lean lamb from shoulder or leg
- 1 large onion
- 1 small eggplant
- 1 green pepper
- 4 very small, firm tomatoes
- Aluminum foil
- 1/4 cup butter
- Small clove of garlic
- 2 tps. lemon juice

To prepare: Cut lamb in 1 1/2 inch cubes; onions in quarters; eggplant and pepper in large pieces. Thread alternately on skewer with one whole tomato. Place filled skewers on long 5 to 6-inch-wide strips of aluminum foil.

Brush liberally with marinade (to prepare marinade, saute garlic in butter 3 minutes; add lemon juice and tomato puree, sugar and seasonings. Heat 3 minutes). Close foil and refrigerate 6 hours or longer.

To cook: Remove kabobs from foil, but save each piece of foil. Place on grill over medium hot fire and brown quickly, turning once or twice. Return each kabob to foil and spoon over any remaining marinade. Seal foil and return kabobs to grill. Cook 30 minutes longer without turning. Delicious right from the foil!

High Style In Chickens

It's not many years ago that homemakers demanded improved chicken products. The industry went into action. Breeders developed new, strictly-for-eating chickens. Growers and feed dealers found better methods of raising chickens. Processors aimed at improved packaging and a better product at retail.

All of this effort resulted in today's modern, fast-growing, tender broiler - fryers - protein rich birds with a large amount of meat in proportion to bone. Important, too: Costs have been held down.

Homemakers want to know they are getting the very best. U. S. Grade A birds, identified by U. S. Department of Agriculture's grading emblem, the familiar shield, are high in quality. And USDA's inspection circle tells that each bird has been inspected for wholesomeness.

All this at today's low, low retail prices makes this a great day for folks who love spring chicken the year around.

Take Roast Chicken, for example. All eyes are on the bird as the first beautifully browned outside piece is sliced away to reveal the tender, moist-white meat inside.

Here are a few USDA hints to make your Roast Chicken even better than before: Roast broiler-fryers slowly, allowing about 50 minutes per pound if the bird is stuffed, and 40 minutes per pound if unstuffed. A low temperature (325 degrees) assures even browning, and a minimum loss of natural juices. Use the giblets in your favorite gravy or dressing recipe.

Remember, all poultry should be stuffed just before roasting. And bird and stuffing should be stored separately in the refrigerator before and after cooking.

If you have leftover chicken, Chicken Divan is easy and delicious. Line bottom of oven-to-table baking dish with generous slices of cooked chicken. Cover liberally with hot, cooked, drained, fresh or frozen broccoli or asparagus. Dot with butter. Combine a can of condensed cream of chicken soup and 1/4 cup grated cheddar cheese, and pour over broccoli. Brown lightly under broiler.

For an unusual Fried Chicken treat, dip the chicken into subtly tangy, fresh buttermilk instead of the usual egg-water mixture. Add crunchy sesame seeds to the flour-salt-pepper coating mixture. Use smooth corn oil rather than a pure vegetable shortening for quick and easy frying. You'll be proud to serve this.

Outdoor Eating-A Family Favorite

Outdoor eating, whether in the backyard, at the beach or in a country setting, has become as traditionally American as the grilled cheeseburgers that are served. Who can resist the rich aromas from the outdoor grill or the carefree spirit of a picnic?

And who would want to-for family and friends can have the happiest of times together. Getting down to the very basic question of what to serve-you just can't go wrong with juicy grilled cheeseburgers - done just the way each "picnic gourmet" likes. Before grilling, brush the meat with Barbecue Spread, a nippy blend of butter, herbs and spices, to create a really new taste sensation.

UNBEATABLE COMBINATION

Slices of Cheddar cheese, as mild or sharp as preferred, are placed over the "burger" just before it is done and adds an unbeatable flavor and nourishment. Buttered hamburger buns placed in a homemade foil pan can sit on the back of the grill to heat while the meat is cooked for these favorite-of-all picnic sandwiches. A cheeseburger is never complete without lots of relishes such as sliced tomatoes, onion rings, pickles, olives and lettuce.

You can take it from here in completing the picnic menu according to your family's taste. Other tasty items for summer eating are a nippy Barbecue Spread and tasty Cheese and Bean Skillet. The Barbecue Spread is

Cooled Carrots

Do you remember when most fresh - from - the - garden carrots were sold with their fernlike leaves still attached?

That's not long ago.

But just as stylish ladies of early-day England quit using feathery carrot leaves to adorn their hair, fresh vegetable market managers also have done away with the green frills.

Modern packaging methods have forced the carrot leaves out of the picture. Now, you buy most of your carrots, crisp and nutritious, in convenient, transparent, ventilated bags of one or two pounds each.

Elisabeth Seal, star of the Broadway musical hit, "Irma La Duce," tells her impressions of New York and how she stays relaxed.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Posture Important To Being Attractive

By LYDIA LANE
NEW YORK—"Irma La Duce," the little French musical, hit the box-office jackpot first in Paris, then London and now its success, repeated in New York, has made its star, Elisabeth Seal, the toast of Broadway.

On my quick trip East, Miss Seal lunched with me at Sardi's and reminisced about her early dreams of being a ballerina.

"The Royal Ballet is competitive, but I won five scholarships," she revealed. "You can't imagine the blow it was to me to discover after an accident to my foot that I could never stand on my toes again."

"But I discovered new talents," Elisabeth said with a smile. "And if it hadn't been for my accident, I would never be here having a delightful fuss made over me."

"I was greatly influenced by my classes at the Sadler's Wells," she continued. "Most of the girls were from rich and prominent families and they arrived in their Rolls Royces. When you are young and everyone has much more, materially, than you, it seems very important. I was a long time overcoming a feeling of insecurity and shyness."

"I am glad that I had ballet training," she explained. "If you once have a free-moving body, you are uncomfortable unless you keep it that way. I do bar work of some sort every day. I need it for my posture. The first thing you are taught in ballet class is how to walk and move without slumping. You are told to feel as tall as you can, to pull your head up from your neck, your neck up from your shoulders and your ribs from your waist."

"Slumping is not pretty and it's not beautiful," Miss Seal remarked. "The Elizabethans wore such heavy headpieces that they were forced to have an erect posture, and to move with a kind of grace. If I had a little girl who slumped, I would tie something heavy on her head and then she would have to stand up straight."

First impressions are often significant, and knowing that this was Miss Seal's first visit to the United States, I asked her impression of New York and New Yorkers.

With a twinkle in her eyes she said, "You can't get a proper cup of tea anywhere. The water is not boiled and the tea is in a bag."

Wives Tour Webb, Looking Like Mice

By CAROL BARNES

Looking like members of the Mickey Mouse fan club, wives of student pilots roamed Webb base Wednesday inspecting the planes flown by their husbands and getting acquainted with various phases of flight training.

For the women, the most exciting part of the trip was visiting the flight line where they donned "Mickey Mouse" ear muffs and saw their husbands execute touch-and-go landings and solo.

Lt. Col. Clifford Bray began the Red Carpet Tour for the wives of officers in undergraduate pilot training with a lecture at the Officers' Club. He explained to the 23 wives participating the objectives of the training period and gave a summary of a student's typical day. He also explained that some of the students will be sent to Randolph Base in San Antonio in September, while the rest will remain at Webb until March.

Following the lecture, the wives eagerly piled into an Air Force bus, where they spent most of the day, and began the tour with Capt. R. W. Molinaro and Lt. Robert Stein serving as guides.

FIRST STOP
First stop was at the Physiological Training Unit, where Lt. W. E. Overacker discussed the problems of high altitude such as dizziness and unconsciousness, toured the women through the pressure chamber and explained the ejection seat used in training pilots to leave their plane in case of trouble.

Upon entering the pressure chamber, one wife exclaimed, "It looks more like a torture chamber." All fears were abolished when it was explained that an instructor sits with the students in the chamber, noting their reactions to decreasing oxygen; and that two instructors watch proceedings through windows from the outside of the tank; one controlling decrease and increase of oxygen. Lt. Overacker also explained that if a student shows signs of illness he immediately is taken out of the pressure chamber, put in a smaller ante-chamber where he slowly is depressurized and then is released from the chamber.

In his three years of training, Lt. Overacker explained, he has seen only two cases of claustrophobia where the students had to be removed from the chamber. Some of the wives showed concern for their husbands' safety in the simulated ejection seat. The seat, exactly like those in jets, shoots the men approximately 15 feet up a rail.

"Where do they land, out in that field?" asked one wife. She apparently was relieved to learn that the students never leave the platform on which the seat is situated. Lt. Overacker emphasized the importance of pilots wearing proper clothing, especially gloves, and explained that temperature at 35,000 feet altitude is 67 degrees below zero if the temperature at sea level is 50 degrees above zero.

After learning how their husbands used ejection seats, the wives went to the parachute loft and received instructions concerning the operation and safety of the chutes. One of the instructors demonstrated how the chutes open with a timed, automatic release a few seconds after the pilot is ejected.

Interested, excited and tired, the wives were returned to the Officers' Club for a lunch break. Following lunch, it was back to the bus and out to the mobile control building where the women were taken for rides in T-37 jets. Actually, the mobiles are simulated jets made exactly like the T-37. From a panel placed on the right side of the mobile, the instructor can control weather conditions and operations of the plane. He watches the student's reactions and alertness in controlling the mobile under the most extreme conditions.

FLIGHT LINE
Highlighting the day's events was the trip to the flight line where wives donned comical looking ear muffs and watched their husbands execute touch and go landings. There was added excitement when a wife recognized her husband's flight number, especially if he happened to be soloing that day. The women also were allowed into the mobile tower used by the instructors and there they heard their husbands call in for instructions.

The tour ended at the trainer building where student pilots chatted with their wives before being briefed by the instructors.

"Twenty minute briefings precede each student's flight. During student training, perhaps the most exciting event for the pilot and wife is his first solo flight. When the touring group arrived at the trainer building, one wife learned that her husband had completed such a flight."

Tired, but feeling as though they had spent a worthwhile day, the wives returned to the club in the afternoon where they were served punch.

"This was a wonderful chance for the wives to see the base and what the husbands do," explained one wife. "I had no idea what the training was like or what my husband was talking about before making the trip."

Hyperions Hear Mrs. Bristow
"Understanding the Language of Flowers" was the subject of Mrs. Obie Bristow, when she spoke for members of the 1905 Hyperion Club. The group met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Imogene Lloyd for the final meeting of the club year.

Following the theme, "Understanding Is Peace," Mrs. Bristow displayed flower arrangements to develop her topic; she reminded the members that the idea behind planting flowers is of how they can be used when they are cut.

Selecting the right colors and kinds for individual homes is of utmost importance, the speaker said, as she discussed the various principles of flower arranging.

Balance and contrast were explained by Mrs. Bristow, who stressed the importance of proportion in groupings. Rhythm is obtained in arrangements by the use of one point of interest, she stated, and the scale of an arrangement must be gauged to the place it is to be used as well as to the items in the display.

Necessities for arranging were shown by the speaker, who is a national flower show judge; she initiated the Junior Garden Club and supervises meetings of the youngsters, who gather in her home for regular sessions.

Refreshments were served to 20 members and a former member, Mrs. Charles Long of Dallas.

Spring Vegetables Star On Grocers' Produce Counters

By The Associated Press
An increased flow of fresh vegetables from spring gardens accents the joy of being alive these days.

Onions, potatoes and tomatoes hold the spotlight among best buys in Texas markets this week. And there's an abundance of green beans, celery, yellow clipped sweet corn, cucumbers, greens and green onions. Texas black-eyed and purple-hill peas.

Cabbage, carrots, lettuce and radishes, while slightly higher than a week ago, also are in good supply at reasonable prices. Okra, snap beans and celery are priced slightly lower than a week ago.

Increased volume of black-eyed and purple-hill peas, new potatoes and tomatoes also has resulted in lower prices, the fruit and vegetable market news branch of the Agricultural Marketing Service reports.

Fruit buys of the week include cantaloupes, bananas, lemons and Texas grapefruit and oranges. Strawberries continue in season at reasonable prices. Watermelons and apples, especially Delicious, rate higher price tags in many markets.

Milk and dairy foods are plentiful as prospects point to record output this year. Live lamb prices rose a bit this week but still are low. Marketings are heavy. Other red meats remain in good supply. Broilers and turkeys are priced to encourage wide use.

MAJ. F. C. SNYDER

Maj. F. C. Snyder To Display New Aircraft Saturday

A pilot who has performed solo acrobatics in Spain, Germany, and throughout the United States will take Webb's newest jet trainer, the T-37, through its paces for the Armed Forces Day crowd Saturday. At the controls will be Maj. Franklin C. Snyder, operations officer of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron.

In addition to his solo acrobatics in the T-6, Maj. Snyder went through maneuvers in the C-47 during 1944-45 while logging 115 aerial combat hours on 62 missions. He will start aerial demonstrations in the twin-engine T-37 Saturday at 2:05 p.m. The major will send the sleek 440 m.p.h. jet through a series of loops, Cuban 8, Immelmann, inverted flight (maximum of 10 seconds) and do loops, barrel, half, 8 point, and full rolls.

Rated a command pilot, Maj. Snyder has spent over 4,100 hours strapped in the cockpit since completing Aviation Cadet training in 1944. He has served as a pilot instructor, flight commander and fighter pilot. His aerial activities has won him the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with seven oak leaf clusters.

Rascal Steals Mother's Gift

There is a rascal somewhere. He swiped a Mother's Day gift.

Mrs. Dulah Graham, 711 Abrams, reported the theft. Her son, a five year Navy veteran, is currently stationed on the U.S.S. Rochester at Bremington, Wash.

Last week he bought his mother a jewelry box, mighty pretty for servicemen's pay. He put it in his locker, intent on mailing it in time for Mother's Day.

But before he could get it mailed, someone took it from his Navy locker. He got a chance to talk with his mother on her day anyway.

Farm Awards

RENNER, Tex. (AP)—Johnny Stefa of Caldwell and Frank Gray of Lubbock won Wednesday the Hoblitzelle Awards for the advancement of Texas rural life.

331st Names Honor Pilot

Lt. Gus Van Steenberg has won the honor of 331st FIS "Pilot of the Month" for April.

The award represents the peak of the squadron's incentive program, which is designed to maintain combat readiness and to build pride in the squadron.

Lt. Van Steenberg was chosen because of his high rate of kill potential on missions flown during the month, scoring against simulated hostile target aircraft. It means he would have had more kills to his credit than any of his fellow fliers, if, instead of harmless T-33's, enemy bombers had penetrated the skies over West Texas.

Lt. Van Steenberg joined the 331st FIS in February. He had previously been assigned to the 76th FIS at McCoy AFB, Florida where he flew over 400 hours in the G-89 Scorpion all-weather interceptor.

He entered the Air Force in March 1957, after graduating from South Dakota State College where he earned his BS degree in electrical engineering. He won his wings at Laredo AFB in July 1958 and now has 1,200 hours of flying time.

He holds the Air Defense Command's rating of skilled which is just one step from the highest ADC rating of expert.

A Devotional For Today

At midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them. (Acts 16:25.)

PRAYER: Almighty God, we are grateful to Thee because Thou art always ready to comfort and strengthen us if we will turn to Thee in times of need. Increase our faith as we come to Thee this day in prayer. In Jesus' name we call upon Thee for Thy divine help. Amen.

GOP Putting Party Above Texas

Texas who cherish their voting independence will want to be sure that they're not being made "patsies" by the bigwigs of the Republican party, in the current U.S. senatorial contest.

We mean to say that the upper echelon of the Republican organization, in its burning desire to register a party victory in Texas, has no concern whatever with the welfare of the state.

We do not fault the GOP leaders for this. This is part of their job. And we have great respect for men like Barry Goldwater and Thurston Morton. But, to repeat, they're concerned with party and not with Texas.

So, Texans shouldn't fall for a lot of the campaign propaganda that is being fed out to them.

Let's face the facts. John Tower was plucked from obscurity a year ago by Republican powers, and tossed into the race against Lyndon Johnson. This was an opportune time, because Johnson had built up resentment in Texas, in one area or another; and there was considerable feeling about his name being on the ticket. So Mr. Tower ran very well and made his name known.

Now he runs because he is the only Republican in the state ranks whose name is well known. He has no background in public service, none in business enterprise. This is not to discredit him, but it is to point out Tower happens to be the man with whom the Republicans are practicing great opportunism.

There is too much out-of-state party control in the Tower campaign to set well with most Texans.

What Texans want is to make their own free choice. They have available a competent man who does have Texas interests at heart. That's Sen. William A. Blakely, who should be given a rousing vote on May 27.

Teen-Age Driver In The Family?

Do you have a teen-age driver in the family, or will you have in a year or so?

Good manners and good sense are qualities which every boy and girl should cultivate before he or she gets a driving license, according to a booklet which Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has published. It is entitled "How to Be a Better Teen-Age Driver," and we think it might be worth writing to the company at 1 Madison Ave., New York 10, N. Y., for a free copy.

It is a small but impressive booklet written in good solid English especially for the teen-age audience. It points out that speeding, cutting in and out, racing other cars, rude or haphazardous behavior of any sort are not the signs of a good driver; neither do they earn respect of other drivers. Rather, they are signs of immaturity and a likely way to lose a driver's license.

The material stresses the importance of an approved driver-training course; of being a driver who rightly uses his power at his disposal and who uses his head, his eyes and his wits to save lives and to avoid trouble; a driver who allows no horsing around on the part of his passengers which might distract from the serious job of driving safely.

Driving the family car may be a new experience and new assertion of freedom for the teen-ager in your family, and some down-to-earth talk about the responsibility that goes with it might possibly help.

David Lawrence Kowtowing To Khrushchev

WASHINGTON — If President Kennedy holds a "summit" meeting with Nikita Khrushchev—now reliably reported to be planned—this will be construed throughout the Communist world as a sign of America's weakness rather than strength, especially in the wake of the administration's retreats in Laos and Cuba.

IT WOULD BE JUST as logical, for Mr. Kennedy to meet with Fidel Castro. Both dictators have insulted a President of the United States. Both are guilty of mass murders and other international crimes.

It was just a year ago that Nikita Khrushchev after having invited the American President to visit Russia—deliberately refused to meet with him when the heads of government assembled at Paris. The Soviet premier then attempted the invitation in an outburst of vituperative propaganda. He hurled such epithets as "thief" and "coward" at President Eisenhower.

THE EXCUSE GIVEN for all this was the oversight of a U.S. plane which the Soviet government knew was but one of a series of such flights for the previous four years. Also, though it was proper to lodge a diplomatic protest to the United States government, it was highly improper to make a personal attack on the man who happened to be President of the United States. This was an act of ingratitude which put the Soviet people in an unfortunate light. For it was an insult to the very man who, as commander in chief of the Allied Forces in Europe during World War II, had helped to save the Russian people from being overrun by Hitler's armies. If there had not been the successful invasion of North Africa and then of Southern Europe led by General Eisenhower, the Nazi forces would have been free to pursue their invasion of Soviet territory on the Eastern front.

THE U-2 EPISODE was a pertinent subject for debate in diplomatic channels. There is, for instance, no clear-cut understanding among international lawyers as to how high planes or "spies" may fly over a country without permission. Nor is there any persuasive argument in international law against the privilege of a government to protect itself against "surprise attack," especially when an adversary is conducting espionage and a "cold war" throughout the world.

But, it will be said, President Eisenhower did go to Geneva in 1955 to participate in a "summit" conference and was ready to go into another such meeting in 1960 in Paris. The truth is that the failure of such conferences has been pointed out repeatedly by many observers, including this one, ever since such meetings were first suggested.

IT IS TO BE NOTED that former Vice President Nixon a few days ago, in a public comment, urged President Kennedy to meet with Nikita Khrushchev. But this by no means takes away from the present occupant of the White House the responsibility for participating in such a meeting. It will be recalled that again and again President Kennedy has intimated—and his Secretary of State Dean Rusk has spelled it out—that there ought to be no "summit" meetings unless some agreement has been previously achieved through diplomatic channels on important topics. The argument has been that "summit" meetings are all right to ratify agreements or understandings already reached at a lower level of diplomacy.

MR. KENNEDY started out rightly with an emphasis on "quiet diplomacy" in the hope of achieving a better relationship with the Soviet government. If, as is claimed, some progress has been made by that method, then it is logical to continue that course rather than indulge in spectacles like the "summit" conferences. For Khrushchev's main purpose in such a meeting is to afford him a big opportunity for Soviet propaganda. Doubtless it will be broadcast through the Soviet Union that President Kennedy made good his offer of an "apology" publicized during the 1960 pre-convention campaign.

There are two major forces in the world today that can affect the issue of peace or war. One is military—but this is being more and more decreed as a form of suicide. The other is moral force.

THE THEORY BEHIND moral force is that, while it should never be the sole reliance of a nation, it should be used to the maximum before there is any resort to military power.

Primary in the use of moral force is the need for a repeated emphasis on the principles of human freedom. The United States is desirous of helping in every way to emancipate the Russian people and the other peoples behind the Iron Curtain so that some day they may rise up and establish a free government. The moment automatic force of major proportions is eliminated, it becomes safe for arms to be reduced, and democracy can thrive in the world.

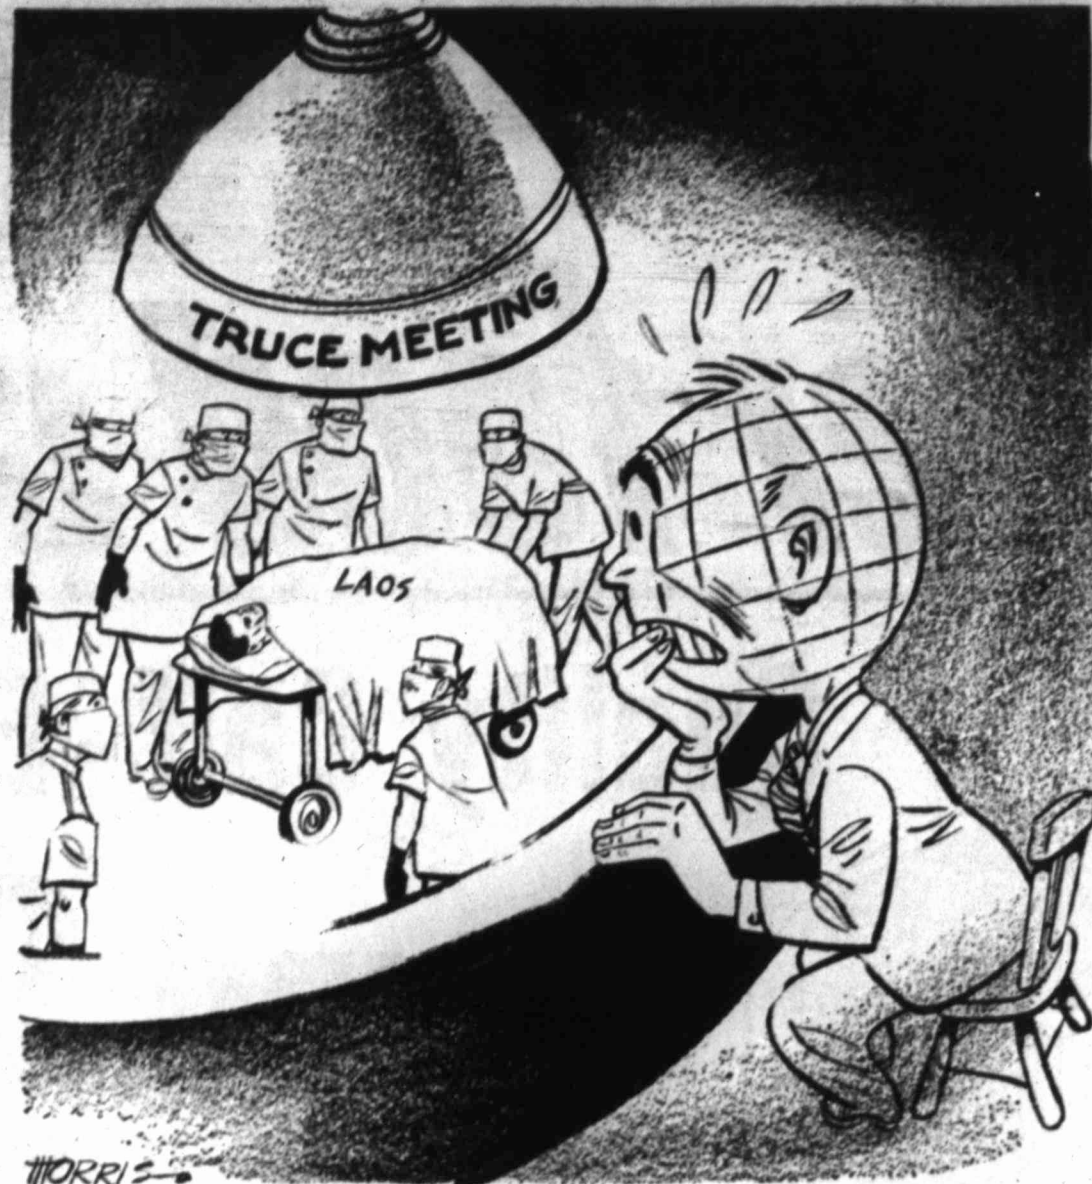

TO KOWTOW NOW to Nikita Khrushchev, however, only serves to dishearten the peoples behind the Iron Curtain, especially in the enslaved states bordering the Soviet Union where some day the revolt will inevitably begin. Whether the fateful day of liberation is many years away or nearer at hand is a matter of speculation, but for President Kennedy to ignore the insulting behavior of Nikita Khrushchev and to meet with him in Austria or elsewhere cannot but set back and weaken the moral position of the democracies of the world.

Nearsighted Assailant

TORRINGTON, Conn. — The man who attacked 18-year-old Frances Weingart may have been nearsighted.

Miss Weingart told police her assailant struck her just as she was closing the door of the dairy store where she works. Then, she said, he squinted and exclaimed "Oh! I'm sorry—you're the wrong person" and fled.

DID YOU EVER GET THAT SINKING FEELING?

James Marlow
New Custom: Send The Top Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is now doing for President Kennedy what former Vice President Richard M. Nixon used to do for President Eisenhower.

He's traveling abroad, meeting with the heads of foreign governments, giving them the word from Kennedy, and then coming home to report to the President.

These goodwill missions may have some psychological benefit in boosting the ego and self-confidence of people in smaller countries by showing the United States is sufficiently concerned about them to send the No. 2 man over.

But any practical effect from either the Johnson or Nixon journeys — with one notable exception in Nixon's case — is hard to see.

THE MISTREATMENT heaped on Nixon in South America shocked the United States into painful realization that not all Latin Americans loved us and that this country was going to have to go some to keep them on the side of the United States.

Nor is it clear why anything Nixon or Johnson may have had to say to the head of a foreign government couldn't have been said just as well by the local American ambassador who could have delivered a message from Kennedy too.

The policy toward every other country is made here in Washington — not on the scene by a visitor, even one as important as Johnson — on information from the American ambassador there, his aide, other advisers, and the Central Intelligence Agency.

JOHNSON MIGHT have been of more practical value to Kennedy if he had remained in Washington and helped get the administration's programs through Congress, where he is an expert. He is an amateur in foreign dealings.

Nevertheless, more and more since World War II it has become a kind of stylish habit to send presidential representatives overseas, to single countries on special missions, or just abroad generally on so-called goodwill trips.

From the very beginning of Johnson's trip the main question has not been what Johnson might say, since he's only the President's special messenger, but what Kennedy might say through him.

IF KENNEDY has really said anything new, it hasn't been made public. For instance, it seems generally accepted the United States, no matter what happens, will not send U.S. forces directly into Laos.

That country, already more than half lost to Communism, probably will be swallowed up by it eventually, even though Laos is the key to other Southeast Asian nations which are either neutral or tied to the United States.

But the next critical area is South Viet Nam, which has received both military and economic aid from this country. Communist guerrillas are tormenting the government there.

These guerrilla pushes appear to be only preliminaries, a feeling-out foray before larger pressure is applied.

To Your Good Health About Those Numerous '900 Calorie Diets'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
After all these months, questions keep coming in concerning the ready-made "900 calorie diets." They seem to have caught on even more strongly than in the beginning—and the fad was popular enough at the outset. I'm told that there are now about 250 different brands of these 900-calorie diets!

People ask whether these diets are "safe," or if they "work," or what I think of them. Oddly—or maybe it isn't so odd—nobody ever form of dieting, such as just cutting down on what you usually eat, will work as well.

The fact is that you can shed just as many pounds if you eat your regular foods, but keep the portions down to a corresponding calorie total, meanwhile getting variety and something to chew. However, if you want to be lazy about things, and have somebody else do your calorie counting for you, okay. I find it more to my taste to eat the foods that I happen to like, and eat them to my heart's content, and let the pounds take care of themselves.

As to whether these diets are "safe," that can't be answered yes or no. Used properly, they are safe. But any reducing diet has its perils unless used properly. Since the 900-calorie diets include vitamins and minerals and such,

I would have to say that they are safer than some wild "trick diets" that have been foisted on us.

Also regarding safety, the 900-calorie diets do not include "reducing drugs," and in that regard are superior to systems that do use drugs.

They contain a basic amount of protein in general. They are low in carbohydrate and fat. But they are devoid of bulk. Hence it is important that a vegetable or salad or fruit be taken to supply this. (These diets can be taken as three or four liquid feedings a day, or can be used as a substitute for one or two meals a day.)

I'm aware that people aren't going to give up belief in such things as get-rich-quick schemes, the easy way to become authors or movie stars, chain letters or the Irish sweepstakes, so I have no reason to think they will suddenly stop using the 900-calorie diets.

At least the odds are much better with these diets. They'll work—as will any valid diet—if you follow the rules. But keep in mind that it is as easy to cheat with these diets as with any others if you decide to sneak a few candy bars.

There's one thing I DO ask my readers to do, and that's to read and obey the rules laid down in the fine print. If, for example, the fine print happens to say (and in good ones I've read, it does) that you should get your doctor's approval before embarking on one of these diets, do so.

If the fine print suggests getting some noisily chewable roughage every day, like celery, cabbage, endive, raw carrots, etc., do it—and chew it!

It's been my observation that these diets are abandoned after a time because of their monotony. The idea was originally devised as a convalescent diet, for use in cases where eating was an effort, and the idea was to get the minimum necessary food values into the patient with the least effort. Then somebody promoted it as a reducing diet. Well, it's a smart conversation piece, and it works if you can tolerate it and if you follow the rules.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald requesting his booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 29 cents in coin to cover the cost of handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Another Kind Of Master Plan

Our four local taxing agencies often have need of calling upon one another for assistance of one kind and another. These include the commissioners of the City of Big Spring, commissioners of the County of Howard, trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District, and trustees of Howard County Junior College.

By calling upon one another for mutual aid and assistance, the taxpayer is the better for it. What one agency can give to another is one more thing an agency does not have to ask from the taxpayer.

SOMETIME AGO it was pointed out that the city and county had benefited from a joint meeting to work out several problems. It was also said at the time that regular meetings of this sort would be of benefit to the various agencies, and indirectly, to the people.

The area is literally dotted with examples of various helps which one or the other has made to another. Examples might include the crippled children's center site, the Memorial Stadium, the parking lots at the high school, the road through the HCJC campus, the improved intersection at 10th and State, the intersection at Marcy and Wason Rd. These are but a few of the many problems that have been solved because these agencies worked together.

Misunderstandings too have had a part among our agencies. These, I believe, could have been averted if the various governing bodies would meet together more frequently and gain a better grasp of the other's problems. The air is clouded with personal feelings when infrequent gatherings are held to wrestle with particular problems. Little time is, or can be, devoted to general understanding and co-operation. The meetings are charged with the urgency of the immediate problem.

I BELIEVE THESE various agencies owe it to the electorate to seek better understanding among themselves. It can make for better government at a better price.

Which brings up another aspect of the problem. In the various meetings of our public taxing institutions, considerable time and effort is spent in determining costs and setting tax rates. In every instance, when I have attended, the individual holders of office spend considerable time studying the current tax rate, the costs of doing business, the evaluation, etc. And any increase in taxes is called for on the basis of this information, in the light of the particular agency.

But never have I heard any one board also consider the tax problems of the other taxing institutions. In the city of Big Spring, a taxpayer must pay to four different institutions. It stands to reason that if all four agencies increase taxes at the same time, the increase to the individual taxpayer is a big jump, regardless how small the individual take would be to the various governing bodies.

AT SOME POINT on the dollar scale, there is a limit to how much the taxpayer can afford to pay, regardless how valuable the services rendered may be. Frankly, there may be times it would be nice to have the taxpayer just plain can't afford.

Pinpointing this maximum point on the dollar scale would be difficult, and is far too complex for this column. But it is within the realm of the various taxing agencies.

It is no longer a question of how much the city should tax, or the county or the schools, or the junior college. It is maybe a matter of how much the combined taxes of all four should be and what share of the total should go to each institution.

Normally, this matter is left to trial and error. When the people get enough taxation, they begin defeating bond issues, turning out public officials, and voting down tax hikes. But this hit-or-miss method can be disastrous. We have a master plan for our city.

Why not a master plan for our tax rate? —V. GLENN COOTES

Revenge For The Mother Hubbard

Until six months ago, if an inquiring reporter had asked the average American for the definition of muu muu, the citizenry would have divided pretty evenly into two segments.

Half would have said that muu muu was French for moo moo, as in cow. And the other half would have thoughtfully opined that muu muu is the feminine of Mau Mau.

NOW ALL OF us alwet voters know that the muu muu has come into the Union along with Hawaii and that it is a shapeless, feminine garment enveloping its wearer like a tent or a wayward sheet. Beside it, the Arab djellaba is a classy, form-fitting garment, and old-fashioned flannel bathrobe a sleek, sexy and revealing teaser. A barrel will do as much for even B. B.

Most of the time I think as well of my sex as I do of any other sex. But there are other occasions, and the muu muu craze is one of them, when I think less girls have rocks under their locks. Any woman over the age of 10 should instantly realize that the muu muu is the native's revenge. It has taken the inhabitants of the Pacific Islands a hundred years and more to arrange it for "the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small."

FOR IT SHOULD be as plain as a white convertible that the Hawaiians, probably acting in cahoots with all the Polynesian peoples, are finally, via the muu muu, paying us back for the missionary Mother Hubbard.

The muu muu is no longer, no less than the old and hated Mother Hubbard, under native sponsorship. The shapeless, sexless Mother Hubbard arrived in the islands simultaneously with American missionaries.

CONVERSION and clothing went hand in hand in islands where a flower in the hair constituted everyday wear, with the addition of a palm leaf or so for more formal occasions. Only the Balinese belles appear to have escaped the Mother Hubbard blight. Other island cookies suddenly found themselves swathed in a ballroom made with a narrow wail terminating just north of the front balcony and from which was suspended—to the heels—a whole bolt of material.

Overnight, nature's children discovered themselves wrapped in a cocoon of calico. Undoubtedly, the only women who were happy about it were those who, any place a tape measure hit, were either a perfect 28 or 32. Could Kipling have had this situation in mind when he wrote "somewhere east of Suez, where the best is like the worst?"

CONFUSION must have reigned, so to speak. All of a sudden a century ago in the islands you couldn't tell Diana Dors from Skinny Ennis, and right now you can't do much better on the mainland. As far as the girls are concerned today, the muu muu is the great leveler. Who can guess, under all that yardage, what the reducing pills have done? The coming summer may pass into history as the one in which it was impossible to tell the girl who had eaten herself out of shape from the one who couldn't eat herself into one.

OR, JUST POSSIBLY, this summer will be immortal as that in which Pacific Islanders, descendants of the Mother Hubbard Brigade, laughed themselves sick that they have avenged their maternal ancestors' humiliation by sending the muu muu back to the mainland as high fashion.

Tina Leser, the fashion designer who once lived in Hawaii, tried to launch the muu muu 10 years ago. But it sank like a wet pudding. Apparently, it took statehood for Hawaii to turn the trick. Now the women on the mainland, who can't see the joke, are stuck with it including, heaven help us, the bare feet that are de rigueur with the muu muu. Buy Iodine, Daddy. It's going to be BIG this season. (Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Holmes Alexander How Foreign Policy Experts Are Made

WASHINGTON — On May 10, 1961, Stephen Edward Smith, 33, became "an expert on Asian affairs," according to news stories in the Washington Post and presumably elsewhere.

This item is worth a column because of what it represents in our time and place of history. This isn't exactly the Big Lie technique. It isn't that vicious. But it's equally false, equally insulting to the intelligence, equally presumptuous on the part of its promoters.

CALL IT THE Minuscule Misstatement, or the Miniaturized Prevarication. They all work the same way. An idea is implanted by government propagandists, reiterated by an accommodating or intimidated press, repeated so many times by word of mouth and in print that it becomes accepted as truth. It is a process that should be exposed early, and trumped upon heavily.

Well, then, there was this story out of Hawaii about Vice President Johnson's trip to Southeast Asia on the serious business of the civil war in Laos. A picture caption listed Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith, Smith being tagged "an expert on Asian affairs."

THE YARN LEAPED at me out of the page because a short while ago we seldom saw the name of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the former President's brother, without the similar identification: "expert on Latin American affairs." We all know now, or we should know, that this build-up of Brother Milton was a vainglorious fraud, a hoax on the public, accomplished by dishonest methods of popular brainwash, contributory to a massive disaster in Western hemisphere affairs.

STEPHEN SMITH, of course, is husband to the former Joan Kennedy, the President's sister. This Presidential bro-er-in-law is not to be confused with Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps, married to the former Eunice Kennedy. Nor with Brother Robert Kennedy, Attorney General of the United States, or Edward (Ted) Kennedy, an assistant Federal District Attorney, and being boomed or groomed to run soon for a big elective job.

Stephen Smith, for 60 days a special "consultant" to the Development Loan Fund, was recently appointed to a bigger but still vaguer post in the State Department. This must be why he is accompanied to the Far East by Carl Roman, the State Department's Deputy Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs. It is logical to suppose that Secretary Roman went along to look after Smith's publicity and is responsible for the world's first intimation that Smith is "an expert" on the world's largest continent.

But material on Stephen Smith is very sparse. He graduated from Georgetown University in 1948 as a social science major. He did two years (military duties not specified) with the Air Force, 1951-52. He was in an unnamed capacity at the family firm of Cleary Bros., 1948-57, serving as the company's vice president and secretary, 1957-61.

WHEN SMITH returns to Washington he reports on May 24th to work with the veteran State Department counsel, Theodore Achilles, 55, in one of the fast-breeding "intelligence units" which inform the President on world affairs.

Well, if things get worse around the world, and the American people wonder how such bungling is possible, I hope somebody will remember this little essay on how foreign policy "experts" are made.

Negro Puts 11 Thru College

PORT ARTHUR (AP)—A. O. Branch, a Negro former teacher, printer, editor and insurance man, has reared a family of 13 children and put 11 of them through college.

And while plugging away at educating his youngsters, he had managed to pick up a piece of property or two along the way. He operates the Branch News Stand, owns his own home and is willing to talk over a business deal any time.

He also is distributor for the Port Arthur News for West Port Arthur, a job he has held since 1924.

Branch, 67, also had plenty of help in putting the children through college from his wife, who died last year.

Several of the children have master's degrees and most of them are teachers.

Said Branch in an interview, "I feel that the greatest gift parents can pass on to their children is an education, or an opportunity for an education. I'm happy that through the years my health and business connections have enabled me to do this for my family."

Rosemary O'Reilly will take a leading role in "Fiorello!" when the award-winning musical comedy plays May 23-24 at Labbock Auditorium. The story is based on the breezy life history of Fiorello H. LaGuardia, former mayor of New York City.

Police At Work On Three Thefts

Police have investigated the theft of a billfold from a parked car, a house burglary at 624 NW 3rd, and a stolen bicycle.

Vandal Wilson Ray, Andrews, told police that her car was parked at the Malone & Hogan Hospital Tuesday about two hours. When she came out her billfold was missing.

Luciano Original, a Texas & Pacific employee, called for police to investigate theft of a suitcase and clothing from his home at 624 NW 3rd some time Tuesday night. Police said a screen on a west window was torn, where a subject could have entered the house. Missing were a suitcase and some clothing valued at $51. Mrs. Bill Unger, 2411 Morrison Dr., reported the theft of a bicycle from the YMCA building. It was later recovered near the school bus barn.

Redstone Launch Is Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army successfully launched a Redstone missile on a 200-mile flight down the Atlantic Missile Range.

Officials reported all test objectives were met on the brief flight Wednesday night. The Redstone has been operational with NATO troops in Europe for three years, but the Army fires one of the rockets here every few months to check reliability and engineering refinements.

A modified Redstone launched Alan B. Shepard Jr., on his pioneer space flight May 5.

Docket Call Set

The civil docket will be called May 23 in Justice of the Peace Court, Precinct 1, Place 1, according to Judge Walter Grice. Litigants who do not appear for hearing will be dismissed, he said.

IT SURE LOOKED REAL

She wasn't just seeing things either. Clara Bentley, 406 Aylford, thought she saw a snake crawl into her car Wednesday morning and called the fire department. Firemen came to the scene and finally pulled out a four and a half-foot coach whip.

Stamps In The News

By CHARLOTTE N. DOWNS
Managing Editor, Stamps Magazine
The collecting of postage stamps began shortly after Great Britain issued the world's first adhesive in 1840. The impulse to collect this new device was apparently spontaneous, each individual having been prompted by his own attraction to them. Until these collectors began to discover one another, each of them collected haphazardly according to his own fancy. There were, in fact, few stamps to collect in the earliest days, but by 1860 many countries had followed Britain's lead, and stamps from a number of lands became available.

In the meantime a few of the early collectors in several countries had become dealers, and stamp journals too had come into existence. Knowledge of the hobby was spreading. More people were joining the ranks.

The writings of the pioneers were helpful to their fellow-collectors, but there was still a great lack of the kind of literature needed to bring order and system to the hobby. The advent of catalogs and albums improved this situation. It became possible to do more than just accumulate stamps; a logical arrangement of them was now enabled. But once arranged in a printed album, the stamps had little to challenge the mature mind. Something further was needed to induce continued interest.

Collectors who had taken note of the differences in paper and printing methods used to produce stamps, as well as variations in color and perforations, began making studies along these lines. As they wrote of these findings, and their works were translated into other languages, the basis of international standards in philately was initiated.

The study by collectors of production methods led to many new avenues of interest, such as printing and plate varieties, errors of color and a study of shades; and of course those well-publicized errors, the inverts. Further possibilities in collecting continued to develop, and today the serious collector has a wide choice of specialized activity.

The collector who specializes necessarily must confine himself to some extent, and the more specialized, the more limited must be his choice. He may collect a certain area, for instance, Latin America or Scandinavia; he may further limit himself to one country, or even to one stamp. His collection in the latter case should include everything pertaining to the stamp from a copy of the decree authorizing it to its final issuance, and beyond. He will want to know the names and try to get the photographs of the designer and engraver of the stamp, the artist's original drawings, rejected designs, printing contract, notices to the press, etc. His collection will have unused and used copies of the stamp, often in profusion and with various cancellations. Other items, too numerous to mention in a short article, will be sought after and secured.

This is called serious collecting, and it is what distinguishes a philatelist from a stamp collector. All philatelists are stamp collectors, to be sure, but not all stamp collectors are philatelists.

Rotarians See Honor Course Skit

Rotarians got a touch of schooling Tuesday when a group of students from Howard County Junior College put on a panel discussion of Thomas Wolfe's novel, "You Can't Go Home Again." The program was in the nature of a demonstration of a new honor course in English taught by Rudolph Brewster. Ben Johnson was program chairman.

Next week the club will meet at the Salvation Army Citadel at 308 Aylford. The meeting for May 30th has been cancelled because it falls on Memorial Day.

CLINT WALKER

and the seven hells they went through for the GOLD OF THE SEVEN SAINTS

This is Edge Falls near Kendall in Kendall County, Texas. These spring-fed falls are on the Edwards Plateau in "The Country of 1100 Springs"... source of Pearl Brewing Company's own artesian water.

Artesian water...down from the country of 1100 springs—filtered underground through 100 miles of limestone... one of America's great natural brewing waters makes Pearl one of America's finest beers

You climb high up on the Edwards Plateau to find The Country of 1100 Springs. For centuries these springs have fed an underground waterway of honeycombed limestone that filters the water for 100 hidden miles. This stream is tapped a quarter of a mile beneath the brewery by Pearl's own artesian wells. Up comes a pure, clear water — one of America's great natural brewing waters. It brings out the best in the fine grains and hops that Pearl selects and balances according to its proud brewing formula. Taste the light, lively difference this great water makes!
