BRITISH LION FINALLY ROARS AT FASCISTS

SPAIN'S INTEGRITY TO BE PRESERVED, SAYS EDEN

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—British leaders reminded a tense Europe today that Britain is rearming to compel respect for her rights and interests and that violation of the territorial integrity of Spain or free access to the Mediterranean, included in those interests, would not be tolerated.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden spoke to garden party audiences of their constituents, but their hearers believed they were addressing also the leaders of Italy and Germany.

Chamberlain, at Birmingham, declared one of his chief aims is to make Britain so strong "that nobody dare treat her with anything but respect."

Eden, at Coughton, in Warwickshire, gave warning that Britain is determined "to maintain the territorial integrity of Spain and keep the Mediterranean open as a "main arterial road."

Eden declared Britain has the support of both parties in Spain in her efforts to maintain the integrity of that country.

Declaring the civil war was the outcome "of a prolonged period of weak government," he added: "In those troubled waters foreign elements of various kinds have had their fair share of fishing. . . . Intervention has not been on one side alone, and has not been limited to the period after the war."

Both speeches were interpreted as leaving little doubt Britain would maintain a firm stand against yesterday's Italo-German proposals that the non-intervention patrol around Spain be dropped and belligerent rights be granted the warring parties in Spain.

DEATH GETS READY TO TAKE HOLIDAY TODAY

(By The Associated Press.)

Let's make it safe and sane.

That is the watchword in scores of cities today as officials strove to forestall death and injury in the annual Independence Day celebration.

They sought to keep dangerous fireworks from inexpert hands by law and police vigilance. They supervised display in public parks and stadia.

During the double holiday on July 4 and 5 last year, the nation counted 346 fatalities. Eleven of them were attributed to firew rks, 208 to traffic accidents, 90 to drowning and the remainder to sundry other causes.

Sale of pyrotechnics this year has been prohibited in St. Paul, Seattle, Spokane, Cleveland, Chicago, Des Moines, Central Falls and Providence, R. I., Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville, Tenn., Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Omaha, and the District of Columbia.

Their use has been outlawed in Atlanta, Little Rock, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Oakland, Columbia, S. C., eight Iowa towns, many communities in Arizona, North Carolina, and West Virginia and in the vicinity of Oklahoma City's oil wells.

The size of the 'crackers was proscribed by regulation in Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Texas, Lincoln, Nebr., New Orleans and Jacksonville, Fla.

$9,000 IN PERMITS ISSUED DURING WEEK

Building permits amounting to $9,000 were issued last week by City Inspector Sam Thomas, bringing the total for the year to $173,580.

A permit was issued to Dr. M. C. Overton, jr., for construction of a $6,000 residence in the Cook-Adams addition. The contractor is J. King.

A 30 by 32 addition to the Pampa school district bus garage will be built at a cost of $1,000 with W. Mullinax the contractor.

Barker and Hoover took out a permit for $1,000 for construction of a shooting gallery and cafe in the 200 block on North Cuyler street.

Other permits were for repair jobs.

I Heard . .

Frank Phillips, big boss of the Phillips Petroleum company, declaring that he never had a better time in his life than at the All-Phillips picnic near Stinnett Friday night. He said Panhandle hospitality was head and shoulders above that of other sections of the country. He was giving a rousing ovation at the close of a brief talk.

Ford Defies Authority Of Labor Board

DETROIT, July 3. (AP)—The Ford Motor company challenged tonight the national labor relations board's authority to regulate its relations with employes it described as "engaged in local production."

Answering an NLRB complaint of unfair labor practices on which a hearing is set for Tuesday, the Ford company denied all its allegations and asserted it should be dismissed.

The formal answer signed by Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, said Ford employes who beat and chased union organizers from plant gates May 26 "were at all times acting in self defense" after the unionists had "entered into an unlawful conspiracy to trespass . . . and to cause a riot."

More than a dozen union members were treated for injuries after the fighting which attended distribution of handbills in their campaign to organize the 89,300 employes of the huge Ford factory at suburban Dearborn. The NLRB complaint charged the company with responsibility for what it termed "malicious and brutal assaults."

Leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America, a CIO affiliate, announced a second attempt to distribute literature at the Ford plant will be made Wednesday morning. Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, arranged tonight to confer with Governor Frank Murphy on the union's request for state police protection.

The seven-page document filed with the NLRB today by Louis J. Colombo, Ford company attorney declared there were "lawful reasons" for discharge of numerous employes the board had charged were dismissed because of union activity.

The Ford answer said that in distributing a pamphlet entitled "Ford gives viewpoint on labor" (which the NLRB listed as "propaganda . . . expressing its position to the exercise by its employes of their right to self-organization") the company "merely exercised its right of freedom of speech and freedom of the press."

A labor board charge that the company supported solicitation during working hours of memberships in "The Ford Brotherhood of America, Inc." The Ford statement described as "immaterial and irrelevant," but added the acts complained of were "proper and lawful." The F. B. A. has petitioned the NLRB to intervene in Tuesday's hearing.

SOVIET OPENS DRIVE AGAINST CHURCH SPIES

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP)—The Soviet Union's drive against enemies of the state today turned strongly against the church, Protestant, Catholic and Russian Orthodox alike.

Official newspapers published warnings that churches were in league with Fascism and capitalism preparing imperialist wars and masking spies and wreckers under clerical garb. They declared many persons recently "liquidated"—which usually means executed—had church affiliations and disclosed others had been "condemned."

Churchmen were declared to have figured in spy plots for Germany, Japan, Poland and Estonia, and to have operated in the far east as well as near the union's western frontiers.

The newspaper Pacific Star of Khabarovsk, Siberia, recently disclosed there had been 131 executions of alleged spies and wreckers in the Russian far east in recent months. The "condemned" clergymen, it said, had been spies who "concealed behind priests' robes," actively prepared plots against officials of the state and the communist party.

Leonid Zakovsky, chief of secret police in the Leningrad area, who yesterday disclosed the arrests of at least 120 alleged spies and "liquidation" of at least 70, asserted many of these were priests, former monks or relatives of churchmen.

Pampa Scouts See Baseball Game Between Sox, Sens

Jamboree Scouts from Pampa have seen a baseball game between the Senators and the Red Sox, have toured Washington, and have taken part in several ceremonies at historical points in the national capital, according to Jim Bob Johnson from whom two more interesting letters were received today.

Jim Bob is living up to his promise to The NEWS to send back news of the Scout Jamboree as he saw it. The NEWS not only asked him but other Scouts who made the trip to write their impressions of the America's greatest convention of Boy Scouts.

Read these two entertaining, amusing and instructive letters from Jim Bob:

SCOUT JAMBOREE CAMP, Washington, D. C., June 30.—The Jamboree, opened officially this morning with a flag-raising ceremony in which all Scouts of Section O participated. Last night was the scheduled opening date, but our campfire ceremony was rained out and postponed. It has rained at least a little every day so far.

The Potomac here is affected by the ocean tide and at night the river is about four feet higher than in daytime.

Yesterday afternoon the entire Jamboree went over to Griffith stadium and watched a ball game between the Senators and the Boston Red Sox. It was a pitchers' battle between Lefty Grove and Monte Weaver. Monte Weaver was taken out in the seventh for Wes Ferrell, a pinch hitter, but Grove lasted the full game, twelve innings. Jimmy Foxx knocked a home run in the

19 Intentions To Drill Filed In Panhandle

Another oil test will be drilled a few hundred yards west of the Pampa city limits with announcement of the Sinclair-Prairie Oil & Gas Company that a location had been made for its No. 3 D. W. Cary in section 114, block 3, I&GN survey, west half of plot 132 subdivision of Pampa.

Last week the Smith Brothers Refining Company of McLean made a location on the Castleberry land a mile due north of the Sinclair-Prairie location.

Moore county stepped into the spot light in first intentions with eight of the total of 19. Gray county reported five, Hutchinson four, and Carson two.

The rig on Skelly Oil Company's No. 85 Schafer ranch, section 196, block 3, Carson county, is being skidded 10 feet off its former location and the old hole plugged at 469 feet. The new test will be known as 85-A.

Intentions to drill were filed as follows:

Empire Oil & Refining Company Archer H-6, 330 feet from the east and 990 feet from the south of S½ of section 139, block 3, I&GN survey, Gray county.

Shell-Sinclair O. Phillips A-1, 2,615 feet from the east line and 1,300 feet from the south line of S½ of SW¼ of section 2, block M-16, TB&M survey, Hutchinson county.

YOUNG HURLER OF DYNAMITE STICKS HELD

'SHOW STRENGTH' MASS MEETINGS CALLED BY CIO

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 3. (AP)—Gov. Mrtin L. Davey of Ohio announced tonight that national guard troops would be ordered to Cleveland for the scheduled reopening Tuesday of four Republic Steel Corp. plants while strike leaders in the 7-state steel strike area called four mass meetings for a "show of strength" tomorrow.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 3 (AP)—State police threw a heavy guard around Bethlehem Steel's strike-sieged Cambria works tonight after the arrest of a 21-year-old former steel worker for allegedly hurling dynamite at a freight train coming from the plant.

State Police Capt. William A. Clark said the youth, Ernest Layton, of Johnstown, told him he threw three lighted sticks of dynamite at the freight train but that it "somehow failed to explode."

Two other men were taken into custody for questioning.

Capt. Clark said Layton asserted he had been approached by two men

MRS. KING'S FUNERAL WILL BE AT CLARENDON

Mrs. E. L. King died in a Clarendon hospital yesterday morning following an operation. She had resided in Pampa for more than four years, her husband operating the E. L. King & Co., in the Worley building.

Surviving Mrs. King are her husband, her mother, Mrs. W. R. Bourland, Clarendon, two sisters, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins and Miss Annie Bourland, Clarendon, and four brothers, J. B. Bourland, Pampa, F. H. Bourland, McLean, F. L. Bourland and W. M. Bourland, Clarendon.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bourland. Burial will follow in Clarendon cemetery.

LIBERTY BELL TO BE HEARD OVER RADIO

The liberty bell which 160 years ago tolled the death knell of British rule in the American colonies, will be heard over the air today for the first time in history. The famous bell will be rung in Independence hall in Philadelphia between 2 and 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, Commander Charlie Maisel of the American Legion post announced.

Harry Colmery, national commander of the Legion, will talk during the broadcast from Philadelphia over CBS.

Earhart Plane Lost In Bleak South Pacific

ROUND-WORLD FLIER DOWN IN LONELY OCEAN

OFFICIALS SKEPTICAL OF PERSISTENT SIGNALS

HONOLULU, July 3 (AP)—The Navy tonight reinforced the faltering hunt for Amelia Earhart with the powerful aircraft carrier Lexington and 54 fighting planes in the face of discouraging prospects.

The Lexington was ordered to fuel to capacity and leave San Diego tomorrow for a 4,400-mile run to Howland Island and take up the quest.

During a day of slowly ebbing hope, a long range navy plane left Honolulu for a 1,500-mile dash to the scene but got caught in a snow, sleet and lightning storm high above the earth as it approached the equatorial region and was forced to turn back.

The coast guard cutter Itasca carried on the search alone in the Howland region where Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, presumably came down yesterday a few miles short of their tiny goal.

By mid-afternoon the Itasca reported it had scanned 5,000 square miles of ocean without having sighted the plane and with no word whatever from the missing fliers.

Recurring reports of SOS calls being heard from the helpless Earhart plane buoyed the hopes of relatives and friends but some of the leaders in the search expressed increasing pessimism over the possibilities of success.

Confusion and overlapping reports of distress calls made it difficult to sift them down to definite information but authorities were openly skeptical about some of them.

One of these turned out to be radio signals from the Itasca itself.

Although the weather in the vicinity of Howland island was reported in no wise unusual, word of the high altitude storm caused naval author-

Wheat Harvest To Get Under Way This Week

HEAVY SHOWER FALLS IN CITY

First precipitation in Pampa since June 14 was registered for half an hour beginning at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A heavy, wind-blown downpour brought .35-inch rainfall in the immediate Pampa area, and scattered spots over the Panhandle received anywhere from one-tenth to three-quarters of an inch.

The mercury fell from 93 degrees at 1 o'clock to 78 degrees at the outset of the shower at 2 p. m. However, at 4 o'clock after the sun had reappeared, the mercury had climbed back to 90 degrees.

Saturday's precipitation boosted the year's total to 9.89 inches, or 1.23 inches more than the rainfall figure for the same period last year.

Pampa received 2.88 inches in June of this year, compared to .86 inch in June of 1936.

C. V. TERRELL TALKS AT CLARENDON EVENT

Fifty years ago yesterday records were moved from old to new Clarendon and the occasion was celebrated in typical Clarendon style yesterday when thousands of visitors from over the Panhandle joined with Clarendon citizens in a day of reunion and rejoicing.

The morning program was featured by an address by C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, and others. A massed sing song was an event. Following a dinner for the old timers, a long parade moved between long lanes of citizens and visitors. A rodeo in the afternoon and a minstrel at night closed the day.

A highlight of the gathering was the reunion of four men who were present when Clarendon was "born." They were J. S. Wynne of Pampa, Joe Horn of Clarendon, Fred Patcher of Tulia and Charlie Murphy of Clarendon.

Among Pampans attending the birthday were Mr. Wynne, County Judge Sherman White, Claude Motley, Jack Dunn, Charlie Hughes, Travis Lively, Garnet Reeves.

Nearly two carloads of 1937 wheat have been received at local grain elevators with cutting just getting under way. The rush of the golden grain to market is expected to be light because of the small crop anticipated following dry, hot weather and hail.

The average of the grain already received has been about four bushels to the acre. The test has been between 58 and 61 with the grains small but solid. Closing price on the Pampa market yesterday was off one cent to $1.09 a bushel.

General harvesting over this section of the Panhandle will get under way late this week unless rain falls. Yesterday's rain was scattered, being heaviest in the city of Pampa. A few rural communities reported rain which was expected to delay harvesting a day or two.

A year ago only three loads of wheat had been received at local elevators and in 1935 cutting had not begun. In fact it was July 7, 1935, before the first load of wheat was delivered here.

Prices this year are expected to go beyond those of recent years and it is expected that farmers will hold most of their crop, if they have more than necessary for seeding.

Compared with opening prices

C. L. THOMAS IN WASHINGTON

Charles Thomas, chairman of the Roberts county agriculture conservation committee and Gray and Roberts county wheat farmer residing north of Pampa, is in Washington as a representative of Texas at a conference of wheat growers from 31 wheat producing states.

Mr. Thomas was called to Washington last week by H. R. Tolley, national administrator of government benefit programs, to discuss the 1938 program.

At their sessions over the weekend the government farm experts said

CIVIL WAR VETERANS INVITED TO CHURCH

Is there a Civil war veteran left in Pampa or in the Top O' Texas area?

If there is, he is wanted at the First Methodist church this morning beginning at 9:30 o'clock when men who wore the blue or the gray, Spanish war veterans and ex-service men of the World war will be honored in a special service in the church auditorium. Seats will be reserved for veterans.

On the program will be members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars. A patriotic talk will be given by Ralph Randal of Panhandle.

Fireworks And 2 Dances Here Will Be Lavish

The Fourth is today, but tomorrow the town will be closed up "tighter" than ever before when the American Legion here will sponsor a gay and colorful celebration of America's No. 1 holiday.

Business places generally will be closed, including several of the largest grocery stores in town, and all official life will cease in federal, state, county and city offices.

The Legion will open their gayety at midnight tonight at the Southern club with a "sunrise dance." Tomorrow night at 9:30 o'clock after a brilliant fireworks display which will be free to children, the Legion-sponsored "Firecracked" dance will begin at the Southern club. Howard Brown and his 12 Brownies, popular WBAP broadcasting station, Fort Worth orchestra, will furnish the music for both dances.

The fireworks display will be the most lavish ever seen here on July 4, according to the Legion. Parking along the highway to the Southern club positively will not be permitted, and a detail of traffic officers will permit no cars to stop on that thoroughfare.

The Brownies have an impressive "pedigree," and have been for years favorite broadcasters. Several hundred tickets to the dances have already been sold.

PRIZES TO BE GIVEN SWIMMERS AND DIVERS

Five latest style bathing suits and a stack of free swim tickets will be given winners of the swimming and diving contests at the local swimming pool tomorrow. Suits have been donated by Hill's, Anthony's, Penney's and Levine's.

The contests will begin at 4:30 o'clock and will be in charge of Madge Keyeser. They are expected to be the closest in the history of the pool. More than a dozen local aquatic stars are entered in each of the swimming and diving events.

A battle for the championship swimmer in the junior division is in prospect. Leading contenders are Half-Pint Buckingham, Nevin Johnston and Jimmy Hammil. The Buckingham boy was champion junior diver last year and is entered again this year. The boy he nosed out last year, Doug Keyser, is out to win the title.

A huge crowd is expected at the pool this afternoon, and another large crowd tomorrow. Water was changed Friday night, but due to the cool weather and rain yesterday was scarcely used.

The swimming races in both divisions will be over distances of 20 and 40 yards. The diving contests will feature required and optional dives.

STOLEN SHOTWELL CAR FOUND IN PANHANDLE

F. W. Shotwell, of Pampa, has his automobile again after it had been missing for two days during which joy riders drove it 200 miles and then abandoned it in front of the Carson county courthouse at Panhandle.

The car was stolen Wednesday night from its parking place in front of the Schneider Hotel Garage, where Shotwell is employed.

The Carson county sheriff's department recovered the abandoned car.

I Saw . . .

James (Admiral) Dewey, 1937 Harvester basketball star, and he said that he, being ineligible because of too many semesters to play for Pampa again, would play next year for Maude, Okla., his old home town . . . and that brings to mind that at least ten Harvester football prospects have gained 10 pounds each this summer in preparation for the slaughter of the Sandies here Armistice day.

Chapter IX

Carolee hung out a sheet at 9 o'clock the next morning.

She was hard put to find an excuse for it. It simply wouldn't do to have her family know she was signaling Stuart Blake. She felt guilty, like a mischievous child, when she stole out of the camp shack and hurriedly attached the sheet to the clothesline. And soon after she stole out again and took it down. At 10 o'clock she was at the trysting place on Chief tain.

Stuart came soon after she arrived.

"I wasn't sure you'd be able to make it," she said. "But I wanted to know how you were. I would have ridden on to the Lodge."

"I'm perfect. Almost. Thanks again for helping me. I just needed water. Another day without it and I'd have been tied up plenty, I imagine."

"You don't look very happy."

"But I feel happy today. Especially now."

"Why? What's happened?" She thought she knew what he meant, but she wanted to hear him say it.

"I'm with you." He leaned on his saddle horn and looked appealingly at her. "Carolee, you told me once I'd never understand your kind of people, as you call them. Tell me, why do you think that? Aren't we all Americans?"

"Yes. But—you're northern, and city reared. Papa and the boys have been poor farmers all their lives. They mean well. They are good to me. But they are—narrow, I guess; and hard."

"But yourself, Carolee. You aren't that way. You're alert and smart. You don't have to stick with your family and all, do you? I mean, not always?"

She wasn't sure she understood him.

"I guess not. But I'm one of them, anyway. I think you are nice, though; I don't ever hold a grudge, and I'll admit again that we were very rude in the saddle store that day."

"Oh, forget that. That's history, and more funny than anything. Look, milady, I've brought you a gift. It's little enough for the favor you did me yesterday."

He gave her a small parcel. She dimpled at him, and the vision she made sent thrills through him. Carolee Colter was pretty, sweet, refreshingly so. She wore rouge often but it was superfluous. And her curls were natural. She was slightly short, weighed, perhaps, 115. There was ever-so-delicate a snub to her nose. Stuart studied her closely as she unwrapped her gift.

"O-o-oh! Stuart!"

She lifted it from its tissue—a bracelet of silver set with the most perfect of turquoise. One large stone was shaped like an arrow head, barbs and all. Tiny round ones followed the open circle of the bracelet—beautiful blue-green gems which Carolee knew were native to the Arizona hills. The silver was heavy and richly adorned with tiny sun symbols, a swastika, a running horse, a wiggly snake. Indian signs all.

"Old Hosteen made it for me," said Stuart. "Or rather for you. He comes to the Lodge sometimes. He's not Apache, like the squaws you saw. He's Navajo."

She slipped it on her lovely arm. She held it out, up.

"The stones match the sky," she almost whispered, so keen was her admiration. "It's beautiful, Stuart. Thank you, very, very much."

"I'm happy if you like it, Carolee."

"Then you're happy, very happy."

"I hoped it would please you. I have never seen you wear a bracelet before."

She looked wistfully at him and smiled more sweetly than he had ever before seen her, he thought.

"I don't have one. Boys in school gave me candy, and sometimes flowers. Nobody ever gave me jewelry before. Not even my parents." She was speaking very gently. It was obvious he had touched her; a hint of tears even glistened, and to save her possible embarrassment he turned to the scenery again.

"It's a fur piece across there, as the cowboys say, isn't it? I wonder how the Tribune Tower would look sitting out there. Or the Merchandise Mart?"

"The — what?" She looked up at him.

"Ha ha! That's Chicago, Carolee. Two of our big skyscrapers. They'd look tiny besides any little mountain out here, though."

"What is Chicago like, Stuart?"

"Like—like a nightmare sometimes there. You'd love it for a while. But any city is a little synthetic, I think."

"You mean you think it isn't real? The people? The fun? Everything?"

They talked for an hour about Chicago. She asked many questions. Dallas was the biggest city she had ever seen, and that only to pass through. She had gone to school at a junior college in Jacksonville, Texas. Acquaintance with a man from the bustling, energetic, urban north was stimulating to her. She liked Stuart Blake. She told herself she could love him even, if things ever went that way. He seemed—well, clean. He had never tried to kiss her. (Sometimes, she confessed to herself, she even wished he had!) And his gift, this beautiful bracelet of Indian silver, was something she'd never forget. She'd rather had it than a thing of diamonds. It was a part of Arizona, actually and sentimentally.

When it was time to go she thanked him again, and agreed to meet him often on signal. She discouraged any thought of his calling at her shack home, even to take her riding.

'It has been lovely to see you and talk," she told him. "I have even forgotten to worry."

She regretted the admission instantly. She bit her lip and frowned. He was looking at her, kindly but intently.

"Something's wrong," he said. "I have butted in on your family affairs too much already, but—"

"It's probably nothing alarming," she forced a smile. "I—I think your experience in the mountain upset me a little, is all. I'm so happy you didn't suffer more. I may not signal tomorrow, but I will let you know if ever I need you, Stuart."

To both of them it seemed a very natural thing for her to say.

INDEPENDENCE

IT is one of the characteristics of a free people that they should seek for themselves as individuals the independence that they have achieved collectively as a nation. There is no more clearer reason, then, why America is a country in which thrift and financial fore sight have been the twin keystones of progress.

THROUGH this united progress today, the one foundation institution, the home, has progressed. The burdens of yesterday are but a dream. . . . today the housewife has her independence from drudgery, worry and time in the kitchen, with an all-electric unit. She has many servants at her command for only a few cents a day.

PASSING OF TYRANTS IS LIBERTY'S GAIN

If the ghost of old King George III could come back to earth right now, he might wonder what in the world had got into the descendants of the American colonists of 1776.

Those colonists gave George III an everlastingly rough ride of it, before they finally dumped him off their backs for good.

They blasted him before all the world as a cruel and conscienceless tyrant. They led his red-coated, white-gaitered troops into swamps and wildernesses and took pot-shots at them until the proudest troops in all Europe had to admit that they had been licked by a ragged bunch of backwoodsmen. They stirred up trouble abroad for him, sent rowdy sailors like John Paul Jones over to burn English ships in the English channel, got the French on his neck and wound up by depriving him of the fairest jewel in all his empire.

And yet, this year, when another George took the throne of England, and was crowned in Westminister Abbey with all the medieval pomp and circumstance that a great empire could provide, it was these same Americans who provided the most enthusiastic audience.

They lapped up every detail about the coronation as if the British king still ruled in Boston and New York. They sent some thousands of people over to have a look at it. They listened in while the new George spoke to his empire, and got just about a big an emotional kick out of it as if the things that happened in 1776 had all been a bad dream.

Verily, old George III might be pardoned for wondering if he had not blundered back into the wrong world entirely.

What has all this to do with our Independence Day? Just this: the contrast between our attitude toward George III and our attitude toward George VI is no greater than the contrast between the kind of king George III was and the kind George VI is.

George III was a tyrant, just as the signers of the Declaration of Independence said; not because he was bad or unprincipled, but simply because every king was a tyrant in those days. That was part of the picture. Every nation had to have a boss! no one—except for the American colonists—supposed you could get along without one.

George VI is not a tyrant; not only because he doesn't want to be one, but because his nation has no use for one. For the boss idea has gone out of style—gone out, despite its temporary revival in some of the war-shocked nations on the continent. Injustice, oppression and enthroned greed have been on the defensive ever since 1776—in England and elsewhere, as well as in America.

That is one reason why our Independence is so much worth celebrating.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The impending filibuster against the President's court bill, or any compromise, promises to treat the country to a picture of democracy in delirium tremens.

Only from one angle does a filibuster seem to make sense. It is a brake which minorities may apply against majorities. A filibuster can not normally bring about passage of any particular legislation. But it can stop passage of legislation when a minority feels strong enough that the majority has lost its head.

And the senate, although it has endured several prolonged filibusters in his history, never has seen fit to adopt rules which would prevent them.

The filibuster may start at any one of several places along the course toward a final vote on the court bill. The opponents may refuse to let it come up for consideration, or may refuse to let a substitute be put before the senate. But the usual procedure is to let the bill come in the usual order, with debate beginning there. And what debate!

Former Senator Smoot of Utah once conducted a filibuster. He mumbled columns of tariff figures into the record, sent lengthy items to the desk to be read by the clerk, and called often for quorum.

Similar tactics were adopted by the late Senator La Follette. Quorum calls ate up about half of the time of his 18 hour filibuster. It takes about eight minutes to call the roll when a quorum call is made. Smooth and La Follette used such intervals to rest, to leave the floor, or to eat. Those were one-man filibusters.

The late Huey P. Long's one-man filibuster was conducted under far different circumstances. The chair ruled that no quorum call could be allowed unless new business came before the senate. One man's continuous talk did not constitute new business. So for nearly 16 hours Huey stood on his feet and talked.

During the first part he drank milk and orange juice freely, but when, after several hours of talking, he was told he could not leave the floor, he drank little. During the last hours of his filibuster he was in evident physical agony. He swung in the aisle by his arms, money fashion, to lift his aching legs from the floor. Rules prohibited him sitting down to talk.

But the filibuster being organized by Senator Burke of Nebraska won't find that difficulty. As one man quits talking, another will take his place. Each new speaker can ask a quorum, so that makes the party nearly as hard on the rest of the senate as on the opposion. Enough have to stay on duty to form a quorum.

If Burke has the support for a filibuster he says he has, he can filibuster for months. Vandenberg, for instance, while not openly joining the filibuster, says he has a 16 hour speech prepared to "outline what I will have to say later."

Those of you who have been out around Alanreed way no doubt are familiar with the orchard spots and swellish picnic grounds available there at this season of the year . . . Under the cottonwoods you are welcome to make yourself at home, spread your picnic lunch and make a holiday of it. . . Peaches, cherries, plums and apples are coming into their own. . . Particularly in mind are the orchards and nurseries about seven miles north of Alanreed. . . These picnic spots are made available by the Bruce nurseries, and orchard owners of the vicinity including T. T. Griffin, John Hill, the Palmer brothers and others. . . . They are beauty spots if that's what you are seeking.

This is the Fourth of July, the day on which we celebrate the signing of the declaration of American independence. . . And in the celebration of this event in the year between 1900 and 1936, more than 5,000 persons have lost their lives celebrating a victory which cost only the lives of 4,044 in the Revolutionary war. . . Possibly 200 more will die today and tomorrow in traffic and fireworks accidents over the nation. . Aside from the annual loss of life due to fireworks, statistics show an annual property loss ranging near a million dollars.

A sure and sensible way to stop this life and property toll is to prohibit or drastically regulate the use of fireworks. . . Fireworks manufacturers, of course, do not like the idea. . . R. S. McConnell, six miles west of Pampa, literally "threshed his cats" the other day. . . He had spent two days going over his combine in preparation for the harvest. . . After it had been oiled and placed in A-1 condition, Mr. McConnell started the machinery to moving. . . He had not reckoned with a cat that had fallen asleep somewhere on the inside. . . Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

First paving program in Pampa was completed. A total of nine and a half blocks in the downtown district were paved.

Pampa observed a quiet Fourth of July holiday with no accidents reported.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Pat Murphy, war ace, and members of his California bonus army marchers, en route to Washington, stopped over night in Pampa.

County Agent Ralph Thomas advised Pampans how to get rid of grasshoppers which have been devastating city lawns.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — In a damply-diffused state and with the Manhattan heat sweltering on all sides, this limpid correspondent pauses to announce that the first few weeks of summer have been made less endurable by a brand new epidemic of practical-joking.

For months it had been fondly imagined that the breed was dying out, but past moaning saxophones, stuffy court rooms and jangling intersections come reports that the pests have only begun to make life a pittery experience for the trusting and the unwary.

A classic example of what these numb lads call fun occurred in the pleasantly exoitic setting of Ben Mardin's Riviera club the other night. As the crowd surrendered itself to the enjoyment of Mickey Alpert's music, some dizzy hypochodndiac engaged Mickey in conversation while his pal slipped a match into the wedge of the orchestra leader's dress shoes. He lit the match. Then the pair faded so that they could watch the fun from a safe distance This is called giving a man the hotfoot, and the results are sometimes startling to behold. The match usually sets the cuffs of the trousers on fire, and finally burns down to the shoe where, after a long pause, it sends a stab of pain into the victim's foot. Men who have been hotfooted invariably are badly blistered.

Suddenly came the inevitable start, and Mickey quickly put out the flame, stamping his feet. But he didn't threaten to knock anybody's block off. Realizing no doubt, that there are oafs in every crowd, and remember that he was paid to render dance music, not fisticuffs, he grinned good-naturedly and went on about his business.

Later, it was revealed that this little practical joke had ruined the trousers of a $150 dress suit and a $21 pair of slippers.

It would be pleasant to report that Mickey later collared the pair and tossed them into the Hudson from the lofty tower upon which the Riviera rests, but that, unhappily, isn't the case. One of these days they'll run up against somebody who isn't in a genial frame of mind, somebody who'll forget that in such cases the source should always be considered. I'd like to be on hand, just to witness the mayhem when they do.

Incidentally, Marden announced several months ago that he was spending half a million on his new club. Most of us put that down as just a publicity story, but this is where one skeptic at least will have to bend the knee. High on the rim of the Palisades, with the blue Hudson in the foreground and the stars overhead, it is a dream palace of soft lights and exotic music.

County Receives School Land Funds

Checks, covering Pampa's per capita share of income from Gray county school lands in Gaines and Andrews counties, was received here last week and distributed to common and independent school districts.

The total is $5,613, according to W. B. Weatherred, county school superintendent. The income is comprised of interest from sale of the lands.

County Attorney Joe Gordon for the past several weeks has been investigating the posibility of Gray county recovering several hundred acres of school lands which were sold 20 years ago and on which payments have not been made.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

There was at least one person who was slightly concerned last fall when J. G. McConnell, husky and personable son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger McConnell, announced that he was going to one of those military schools which, in popular parlance, have long been referred to as "reform schools."

J. G. who went calmly through Pampa high school collecting speaking and scholastic honors, seemed to be the type who would attend a university ranking high in scholarship. But he came back this summer exuding evidence that the intelligent man would fit in in any place. Just as J. G. mastered the mental angle of high school, he displayed another part of himself down at the New Mexico Military Institute, and the Colonel, the Major and the Captain say that J. G., in his first year, was one of their outstanding cadets. He won honors as one of the best-drilled men at the school, one of the best scholars, and one of the few who did not get a single demerit all year, and he won honors in marksmanship and horsemanship . . . Then he came back to Pampa—not like many college freshmen who would give the impression that they became miraculously educated in one year, but J. G. was still quiet, sane, but sincere, serious—an intelligent man with a sense of humor. And he came back on Thursday nights to his Scout troop, and the boys listened and watched, enthralled, as he showed them new things, and with their straightforward candor they summed him up thus:

"It's funny how J. G. knows all those things (things all boys would like to do) and doesn't think he's smart or has the bighead." So if J. G. is a good advertisement for the school, one might say that it would have been the same if he had gone to Harvard.

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Leo the Lion is going to get a letter from me. About Virginia Bruce.

Called on her the other day and found her still occupying, although happly enough, one of those dressing rooms in Metro's old ramshackle wooden building that stretches from here to there like the longest distance between two points.

Not bad at all, except that there are really colossal dressing rooms in those new buildings where the Misses Loy, Crawford, Garbo, et al., are quartered. A jewel needs the perfect setting, and what Leo's going to hear from me is that Bruce—the most beautiful girl in pictures and the one who first loved Robert Taylor, long before Garbo thought of it—ought to have that setting.

She Can't Have Him

It was in "Society Doctor," Taylor's first feature, and again in "Times Square Lady," his second, that Bruce loved Taylor. You might say she set a movie style for all the Taylor-struck girls of fandom. But she hasn't been allowed to love him since. No, they toss him to Garbo and Crawford and Stanwyck.

Now, if Virginia had brought this up herself, Leo would have no letter from me. I doubt if she's even thought of it. She thinks a great deal about her career, however, and she's one of the girls who believes in letting the bosses direct it. "The Great Ziegfeld" and "Born to Dance" convinced her she wasn't too good a picker.

She protested about that part in "Ziegfeld" because it was on the heavy side, and she didn't like the villianness in "Born to Dance," either. The two roles were the first to show the girl had a great deal more than beauty. If she hadn't, there'd be no point in all this. She's got humor, and swing, and that certain twinkle.

A Gamor Girl

"I decided to let the producers decide what's best for me," she says. "After all, they know the business, and know what they're doing. And five years from now," she adds with just the proper cynicism, "I may be out of the business because of it!"

But there's a director, George Seitz, who insists that all she needs to put her over is one, just one, "glamor role." So I'm going to tell Leo he ought to give her a chance.

How's Your Health?

Civilization and Rhinitis

Poor civilization! A multitude of sins are charge against it, and many an ailment.

Rousseau believed that all the evils of his age arose from 'civilized" society," and he urged the return to Arcadian simplicity.

Now Dr. C. Stewart Nash of Rochester, N. Y., declares that "rhinitis is fundamentally a disease of civilization." He urges, not a return to the primitive, but studies in diets and in "experimental adjustments in social stabilization" in an effort to restore nature's immunity against rhinitis (inflammation of the mucous membranes of the nose).

There is much to be said in validation of these indictments against civilization, and there is much appeal ing good sense in Dr. Nash's hypothesis. To begin with, rhinitis is a common affliction of civilized man, and is rather rare among primitive and uncontaminated races. Concerning the latter we have the common testimony of many explorers.

What is there about civilization which renders those affected by it more susceptible to inflamation of the mucous membranes of the nose, we are not in a position to state with any degree of certainty. However, Dr. Nash suggests these points:

"The primitive man eats meat raw and cooked; he prefers the non-muscular portion, particularly the liver, adrenals and kidneys; he recognizes the blood as an essential part of his diet. Milk, preferably from animals grazing in green pastures, green vegetables, particularly sea weeds, and an abundance of fish are considered essential constituents of the tribesman's diet, and he thrives on it. He also leads a simple social existence. Something protects him against rhinitis.

"Civilization, on the other hand, gives us polished rice, branless wheat flour, refined sugar, highly specialized cereals, an appetite for muscular meat, rather than the endocrine bodies (gland tissues). Civilized man leads a complex social existence. Something makes him susceptible to rhinitis."

More specifically, Dr. Nash reports that candy eaters often have a vasodilator (not caused by infection) rhinitis. Large quantities of white bread eaten over an extended period sometimes produce the same condition. Irish puotatoes, macaroni and citrus fruits will occasionally cause vasodilator rhiritis. Nasal catarrhs are sometimes traceable to these causes.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Pampa Daily NEWS Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. How long has May 1 been a labor holiday in Europe? E. C.

A. It was first designated as a day for labor demonstrations in 1889 by the Second Socialist International.

Q. When is the Virginia Bicentennial? H. J.

A. The Virginia Capital Bicentennial will be celebrated at Richmond from September 12 to 25.

Q. What active volcano has the largest crater? J. M.

A. Kilauea in Hawaii has the largest crater. It is about eight miles in circumference and is surrounded by a wall of volcanic rock from 200 to 500 feet high.

Q. With what kind of a pistol was President Lincoln shot? W. J. P.

A. He was shot by a Henry Derringer muzzle-loading vest pocket pistol made in Philadelphia. This pistol is now in the office of the Judge Advocate General of the War Department.

Q. How is soybean milk made? W. W.

A. Several methods could be used. A simple one follows: wash the soybeans. Dry thoroughly, crack, and grind them fine. To each pound of soybeans add three quarts of water, soak for two hours, then boil 20 minutes, stirring constantly, then strain through cheesecloth. Add sugar and salt to taste. Keep in a cold place. While not of equal food value with milk, it is a good substitute.

Q. Are first children apt to be twins? H. N.

A. The age of the mother is an important factor. The frequency increases threefold from the age of 18 to 38, and is also probably influenced by inherited tendencies.

Q. How is the air in the Carlsbad caverns kept fresh? S. W.

A. No artificial means is necessary. Some undiscovered natural process keeps the air fresh and pure. The temperature remains about 56 degrees F. at all times.

Q. When did the dirigible balloon R-101 crash? L. F. G.

A. On October 5, 1930, the British dirigible R-101 hit a wooded hill near Allone, France, and crashed, exploded, and burned. Forty-seven were killed.

Q. How much water is carried to the ocean by river systems? M .F.

A. The river systems of the earth are estimated to carry to the ocean each year about 6,500 cubic miles of water.

BOOK A DAY

By BRUCE CATTON

The most complete and dispassionate study of the real meaning of Fascism that I have yet seen is contained in "The Spirit and Structure of German Fascism," by Robert A. Brady (Viking Press: $3).

Unlike most writers on the subject, Mr. Brady keeps his emotions under control. He is out to show what Fascism is, how it comes and why it comes, and he does it with complete and scolarly thoroughness.

Fascism, he makes clear, is a political revolution but not a social revolution. It is nothing more or less than the imposition of monopoly capitalism's will upon the struggling masses; it is the coercion by which monopoly capitalism makes sure that the means of production will remain in private hands.

It replaces democracy, the continues, when and if monopoly capitalism is unable to keep the masses "disciplined" under a democratic form of government. For when the conflict of interests between monopoly capitalism and the workers grows acute, the freedom of a democracy means that capitalism's privileges will be sharply challenged; capitalism, accordingly, throws freedom overboard and finds safety in a dictatorship.

Professor Brady's examination of the way it happened in Germany is clear and complete. And then, drawing his analogies, he comes to the question—"Can it happen here?"

His answer is: it can, very easily, and probably will, unless believers in democracy awake and bestir themselves. The setup favors it. The trend is in that direction. If we continue to drift, without realizing how close Fascism is, we may drift straight into it.

So They Say:

Modern Judiasm takes the stand that the worker has an inviolable right in the industry in which he works . . . We recognize labor's right to strike, but we strongly prefer arbitration to open conflict.
—RABBI BARNETT BRICKNER.

President Roosevelt may not be a dictator, but he is paving the way for someone who may be hard where he has been soft, brutal where he has been benevolent.
—DR. HARLEY L. LUTZ, Princeton University.

America has fewer strikes now than in the past, but the people seem to make more of them.
—LADY NANCY ASTOR.

I'm just a family man at heart.
—JOHN BARRYMORE, four times divorced.

If we can all exercise caution, patience and self-restraint, we may yet be able to save the peace of the world.
—BRITAIN'S PRIME MINISTER NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN.

Garner Fishes and His Wife Travels

UVALDE, July 3 (AP)—Somewhere along the creek bank "Bachelor" John Nance Garner was getting in his fishing tonight.

And for the first time in 25 years, with the exception of the Orient trip in 1935, the vice president's wife was taking a "real" vacation. She was en route to Amarillo with her granddaughter, Genevieve, to pick up Mrs. Tully Garner, her daughter-in-law, and start a leisurely trip through New Mexico.

The vice president, who came home from Washington recently to take a quiet vacation, gathered up his worm bait, cane fishing pole and rations and struck out for the fishing holes with Ross Brumfield, his old cronie. They planned to make it a week-end trip.

Mrs. Garner said she had no set itinerary for her New Mexico trip but would "just travel around seeing the country."

Heat above the 100-degree mark has kept Mr. Garner puttering around the shade of their rambling home for several days.

SHEIK DRINKS GOAT'S MILK TO KEEP FIT

WILL WRESTLE SAILOR WATKINS MONDAY NIGHT

Living outdoors and drinking goat milk is the secret of Sheik Ben Ali Mar Allah's strength which he will exhibit against Sailor Tex Watkins tomorrow night at the Pampa Athletic arena four blocks east and one south of the postoffice when Cliff Chambers brings wrestling back to Pampa.

Reserve seat tickets are now on sale at Pampa Drug for 77 cents. General admission will be 40 cents with children admitted for 25 cents. The arena will seat 1,500 comfortably.

Promoter Chambers is not a newcomer to Pampa wrestling fans. He appeared here as a grappler in 1935 before going to the Pacific coast where he won the middleweight championship of the coast. He had to give up the title when thrown from the ring and permanently injured.

Third man in the ring will be Alfred "Dutch" Mantel of Amarillo who is a show himself.

The main eventers need no ballyhoo to wrestling fans of this section. Watkins is known as the villian of the mat. He would rather kayo his opponent than pin him legitimately. Although getting up in years, Watkins is still one of the toughest in the game today.

Mar Allah is the class of middleweight grapplers in this section. Two years ago in Amarillo he wrestled champion Jack Reynolds, winning the first fall but dropping the last two after some great wrestling. The Persian can get rough along with his science and the sailor is scheduled to have a busy evening.

Vic Webber, a roughster from Brooklyn, N. Y., has been selected to introduce a newcomer to the Panhandle into the ways of wrestling at the Top O' Texas. The new man will be Gust Johnson of Seattle. Johnson has a headliner in Tulsa, Okla., and other large cities.

A deaf mute, with a body that matches his name, Tarzan Krause will appear in the preliminary. His opponent has not been selected. Krause is a finished grappler.

POP BOTTLE SHOWER.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—To the accompaniment of a barrage of pop bottles thrown from the left field bleachers at Jake Powell, the New York Yankees nosed out the Washington Senators today, 5 to 4, to even the current series.

The incident finally was halted by the decision of the umpires to continue play, and automatically to call a putout on any Washington batter if the fans interfered with Powell's duties.

The incident that aroused the fans started when Powell hit a grounder to Buddy Lewis in the ninth. First Baseman Joe Kuhel, waiting to take Lewis' throw, got in the way of the fast-moving Powell as he rounded first, and they collided, Kuhel dropping the ball. Powell went to second and scored the winning run on Don Heffner's single to center.

STANOLIND WINS 8-4 TILT FROM DANCIGER

With Chisum on the mound, Stanolind won an 8 to 4 decision from Danciger in an Industrial league attraction Friday evening. Patrick started on the mound for Danciger but was relieved by F. Riley with Snyder behind the plate. Worley caught Chisum.

The Sooners and Champlin have withdrawn from the league leaving only six teams to finish the season. Shamrock east of LeFors has organized a strong team and wants to join the league. The team is open for games and interested team managers may call Henry Wade at 9000F2, LeFors.

Cities Service had to go two extra innings to nose out the new Shamrock refinery team from east of LeFors 3 to 2 Friday evening. Catcher Lew Becker won the game for the gasmen with a homer in the ninth inning.

5,000 SEE NEW BULLDOGGING RECORD SET AT ANVIL PARK

CANADIAN, July 3 — Mean Panhandle rodeo stock handicapped top rodeo hands at Canadian's fifteenth annual Anvil Park rodeo Friday afternoon but the story was different yesterday when the cowhands took the situation in hand, especially in the bulldogging when Gene Hamilton dropped his steer in the record time of six seconds.

The feat approached the world record time of 4 1-2 seconds and is declared to be the swiftest time ever made at this celebration.

Another feature of phenomenal entertainment on today's card was the bloodless bull fighting of Sam Stuart of Fort Worth. Stuart put on this exhibition in the last event of the program in the Brahma steer riding performances.

Decisions of most importance will be made in Monday's show which will wind up the three day celebration. Nightly Avil Schneider and his band of Clinton, Okla., and Carlton Scales and his orchestra of Amarillo furnish music for dances. The old timers, those coming to the Panhandle forty years ago, were the honor guests at the festivities today.

Finals will be tomorrow afternoon when an overflow crowd is expected to see man and beast battle in the ever popular rodeo game. Yesterday's 5,000 fans witnessed a thrilling battle in most events.

Canadian's own cowgirl, pretty Synda Yokley, 14-year old high school girl, rode a bucking steer like a veteran and roped a calf and tied it in 61 seconds after missing her first loop.

"The Law of the Range," exhibition of Cecil Cornish, Waukomis, Okla., electrified the spectators for a space of three minutes. His trained horse, "Smoky," offered the needed assistance to rescue his injured master. Also, Cornish rode two Palamino horses in Roman style across a low barrier.

Entertainment was also furnished by the featured stunts of Jack Ellzey and his educated horse, Pony Gray; Virgil Stapp, word famous clown from Houston; Mart Stacy of Oklahoma City, and Marlene Harding of Beaumont, rope artists.

Results yesterday:

Calf roping: Eddie Smith, 31 1-5 sec. Kenneth Montgomery, 32 sec. Jack Bingham, 34 sec.

Bronc riding: Junior Caldwell, Buster Brown, Bruce Ross, John Burnett, Vernon McLanahan.

Bulldogging: Gene Hamilton, 6 sec. Roy Mayes and Bruce Ross, tied, 15 sec. Ted Yocum, 16 3-5 sec.

Steer riding: Wiley McCray, E. H. Wynn, Dal Morris and Whitey Stewart, tied.

Wild cow milking: Lindy Montgomery, 33 4-5 sec. Roy Mayes, 49 sec.

Results of Friday's competition: Calf roping: Jack Bingham, 24 2-5 sec. Bill Van Vactor, 29 sec. Homer Pettigrew, 30 sec.

Bronc riding: Junior Caldwell, Bruce Ross, Buster Brown, John Burnett.

Bulldogging: Homer Pettigrew, 11 4-5 sec. Ted Yochum, 14 sec. Heavy Henson, 21 3-5 sec. Roy Mayes, 28 4-5 sec.

Steer riding: Elmo Walls, Wiley McCray, Sam Stuart, Dal Morris.

Wild Cow milking: Jack Bingham, 37 sec. Eddie Smith, 46 sec.

Tolmich Wins Over Towns In High Hurdles

MILWAUKEE, July 3 (AP) — Black-thatched, wiry Allan Tolmich, versatile youngster from Detroit's Wayne University, whipped a world champion, and came right back to set a meet record today to outshine a field of brilliant stars in the golden jubilee renewal of the Amateur Athletic Union's senior track and field championship meet.

The grand old man of the middle distances, Glenn Cunningham, retained his 1,500 meters title with the help of a heart-breaking accident to little Archie San Romani; four far westerners surpassed the accepted world pole vault record, and six great negro high jumpers dominated their field—but it was Tolmich who out-sparkled them all today in Marquette University's stadium.

Tolmich it was who whipped Georgia's famous Forest (Spec) Towns, world record-holder, Olympic champion, defending titleholder and regarded as unbeatable in the high hurdles, over the 110-meter route. And it was Tolmich who came back an hour later to skim over 200 meters of low hurdles in the meet record time of 23.3 seconds.

The Detroit youth's triumph over Towns, who conquered him in the national collegiate A. A. championship meet at Berkeley, Calif., two weeks ago, was wholly earned. And Towns' defeat was so thorough that he was forced to accept third place behind the flying Tolmich and Ray Staley of Southern California.

Tolmich's time, 14.5 seconds, was good considering the field ran directly into an eight-mile wind.

Finish Is Dazzling

Showing signs of weariness from his two-day campaign, Tolmich came up with another dazzling finish in the low hurdles. His reward was victory by about a yard over Jack Donovan of Dartmouth, and the New York A. C., and a mark that supplanted the 23.4 seconds set by Heye Lambertus of Nebraska, in 1933, as the meet record.

Cunningham's title-retaining achievement in the 1,500 meters lacked considerable of satisfying the great Kansan and the crowd of 12,000 enthusiasts who watched the meet under almost perfect weather conditions. That it did not satisfy Cunningham was no fault of his own.

The race, heralded as another great struggle between Cunningham and his little Kansas rival, was right in the middle of being just that when San Romani stepped on the track curbing and sprawled on the cinders about 200 meters from home. The two Kansans, with San Romani a step in front, had shaken off the rest of the field, and the issue was still wide open when Archie went down.

As he fell, San Romani's spikes raked Cunningham's left leg, but the veteran kept right on going to whip Jimmy Smith of Indiana, about 22 yards in 3 minutes, 51.8 seconds. Wisconsin's Charles Fenske finished third, and San Romani, as game as he is fleet, got back on his feet and finished with a brilliant sprint to salvage fourth place ahead of Gene Venzke.

Bill Sefton of Southern California's "heavenly twin" combination, hoisted himself over the bar in the pole vault at 14 feet, 7 5-8 inches tied the meet record set by Johnson and Walter Marty, of the Olympic club, in 1934.

John Woodruff of Pittsburg, winner of the 1936 Olympic 800 meters title, gained his first A. A. U. title by winning the event in meet record time of 1 minute, 50 seconds. His performance clipped three-tenths of a second off the mark Charles Beetham of Ohio State set last year.

Amarillo and Pampa Net Matches Delayed

The scheduled tennis match between Amarillo and Pampa players set for this afternoon in Amarillo has been postponed because of absence from the city of many of the Amarillo players. Eleven Pampans had planned to make the trip.

It is planned to nave the match next Sunday in Amarillo with a return engagement here later in the month.

In order to find out tennis strength in Pampa, it has been suggested that a Pampa tennis club be organized and at the request of numerous players The NEWS has called a meeting of all tennis players in and around Pampa for Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the city commission room in the city hall.

At that time it is planned to elect officers, regulate the area to be considered open for Pampa players, decide on the match with Amarillo and discuss local and open tournaments.

The meeting will be open to any tennis player or person interested in tennis residing in the Pampa territory which includes all oilfield camps in this vicinity.

GARNERS AT WICHITA

WICHITA FALLS, July 3. (AP)—Mrs. John N. Garner and her granddaughter, Genevieve Garner, were in Wichita Falls Saturday night after making the long drive from Uvalde during the day. They will go to Amarillo Sunday and be joined by Mrs. Tully Garner of that city for an automobile tour of New Mexico. Mrs. Garner expressed particular interest in seeing Taos and Santa Fe.

HALE CANCELS PHILLIPS 66 GAME IN CITY

Failure to get a team together forced Manager Sam Hale of the Phillips 66 club of Borger to cancel his game with the Pampa Oilers here Friday night. Hale called Business Manager Harold Miller of the Oilers about 5:45 p. m. with the news that he could only get six players together for the trip to Pampa, which looks as if the 66 crew is about washed up for the season.

Many fans, who failed to hear the announcement over the KPDN sportscast, went to the park where they were told Phillips would not be here for the game.

This afternoon in Borger the Oilers will take another crack at their old rivals, the Huber Blackfaces. Game time will be 3 o'clock at Huber park.

As the count now stands, Huber has a four to one advantage in the standing. The Oilers are determined to make it four to two this afternoon with Manager Fred Brickell scheduled to start either Dale Mills or Harvey Hutton against the Blackfaces.

A return game will be played at Road Runner park here on Tuesday night.

The Oilers will take another road trip over the week-end, playing the Halliburton Cementers in Duncan, Okla., on Friday night and the Seminole Redbirds in Seminole on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. With Seminole this year is Dallas Patton, former Pampa star.

CHAMPION JOHN AUSTIN.

A city golf champion at the age of 18 is John Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Austin, pictured above as he completed a terrific drive from a tee box at the Pampa Country club course after he had won the city golf championship by defeating the veteran Jim Richesin last Sunday.

Young Austin, runner-up last year when he lost to his brother, Grover Austin Jr., was seven strokes under par for 30 holes in his championship round. To prove his claim to the title of city golf champion, young Austin tied the course record held by his brother when he carded a 65 on Thursday afternoon. He was playing with his brother and Haskell Maguire when he shot the 65. Austin registered nine birdies on the 18 holes. He made the first nine holes in 34 and carded a 31 on the back nine.

NET DOUBLES TITLE ANNEXED BY AMERICANS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 3 (AP)—Don Budge completed the greatest personal triumph in Wimbledon's long history today when, with some lively assistance from his fellow-Californians, Gene Mako and Alice Marble, he added the men's doubles and mixed doubles championships to the singles crown he won yesterday.

The Oakland, Calif., red-head's dominance of the closing day's play overshadowed Dorothy Round's somewhat lack-lustre victory over Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, in the women's singles final.

Teamed with Mako, the new king of tennis smashed England's Davis Cup pair, George Patrick Hughes and Clifford Raymond Davys Tuckey, completely out of shape to win the mens' doubles crown at 6-0, 6-4, 6-8, 6-1. A little later, Budge partnered Miss Marble, United States women's titleholder to win an easy 6-4, 6-1, triumph over Yvon Petra and Mme. Simone Mathieu of France for the mixed doubles championship.

Budge scaled heights of brilliance rarely seen on the doubles court as he and Mako won the first set of their match against Tuckey and Hughes at Love with the loss of only seven points.

Returning to the courts an hour later with Miss Marble, he was in slightly more benevolent mood. He seemed content to let the San Francisco blond earn her share of glory which she did. But whenever the French team looked like it might be tough it was "Ole Masa" Budge who stepped up and calmed them down.

Budge's conquests wrote a new chapter in Wimbledon history for no player ever before has won the three championships open to him. Not since the French automaton, Rene Lacoste, turned the trick in 1925 has any player won both the men's singles and men's doubles crowns in the same year.

Although their match proved close enough—when the score was tied at 4-4 in the third set they each had scored exactly the same number of points—Miss Round and Mlle. Jedrzejowska somehow failed to supply the brand of tennis one associates with Wimbledon finals.

The loser hit a grand total of 47 points out of the court. The winner scored only 13 placements in all.

Disappointed in her play, Miss Round, who dethroned Helen Jacobs in the quarter-finals of the tournament just ended, decided finally not to play in the Wightman Cup matches at Forest Hills, August 20-21, despite all the pleas of the British cup committee. She is to be married to Dr. Douglas L. Little in September and decided after today's match to stick by her original plan to pass up the Wightman Cup matches in favor of wedding preparations.

The fifth of Wimbledon's championships, the women's doubles, went to Mlle. Mathieu and Billie Yorke of England who trounced Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King and Joan Pittman of Eugland, 6-3, 6-3.

General Electric Radios Showing To Be Thursday

A preview showing for dealers of the new line of 1938 General Electric radios will be given next Thursday in the Schneider Hotel here.

In addition to presentation of the new line, merchandising plans also will be discussed. Highlights of the new, radios are touch tuning, tone monitor, Louver dial and new aluminum-core speakers.

An advertising and sales plan will be explained at the preview showing.

MEADOR CAFE BOYS DEFEAT SMITH OFFICE

By MRS. JIM BACK.

McLEAN, July 3.—Thursday night's softball fans witnessed the final upset of the season when boys from the Meador cafe succeeded in knocking members of the Smith Office force from the top rung of the league ladder, by a score of 1 to 0.

Randy Mantooth, high school boy, pitched a marvelous game and allowed the heretofore sure-hitters of the office force no runs. Several Smith men did get on and two succeeded in getting to third but died there as Randy tightened his grip on the ball and threw out the batter.

The game was really a pitcher's battle between Mantooth and Morse Ivey, another high school boy, who did a great job of pitching himself. The one score for Meador was made in the sixth inning by Randy himself on a sacrafice hit by Clint Doolin Jr. Norman Trimble made himself the hero of the evening when he caught a high fly on a long run and a longer stretch just before it hit the ground and ended the game. Jesse Dean Cobb, acclaimed the most consistent hitter of the evening, did his part to win.

Lineup of the Meador cafe team, which is composed of high school boys, is: Clint Doolin, c; Randy Mantooth, p; Joe Hefner, 1b; R. L. Floyd, 2b; Albert Overton, 3b; Norman Trimble, rs; Ed Ledbetter, ss; Jack Bogan, rf; Cobb, cf; Junior Windom, lf.

McLean's Softball league, sponsored by the Board of City Development and under the direction of Martin Murdock, will finish its first half on the night of July 4. On Monday, July 19, the second half will begin, which goes to prove that softball has come to town to stay.

At the end of the first half all players will be released and teams reorganized. New teams that have filed their intentions of entering are Shamrock Oil & Gas (LeFors), Columbian Carbon (Magic City), a Webb team, and a team from Alanreed.

The league standing:

Club—	GP	W	L	Pct.
Skelly	6	5	1	.833
Smith Office	6	5	1	.833
Magnolia	6	5	1	.833
Smith Lease	6	4	2	.666
City Drug	6	3	3	.500
Meador Cafe	6	3	3	.500
Canton	6	2	4	.333
Mid-Continent	6	2	4	.333
Texaco	6	1	5	.166

Schedule this week:

Monday—Smith Lease vs. Magnolia.

Tuesday—Smith Office vs. City Drug.

Wednesday—Smith Office vs. Skelly.

Thursday—Canton vs. Skelly.

Friday—Mid-Continent vs. Magnolia, and Canton vs. Meador Cafe.

Guldahl, Cotton Favorites to Win British Open Meet

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 3 (AP)—The American open champion, Ralph Guldahl, revelling in another miraculous putting streak, and Henry Cotton tonight were established joint favorites for the British open golf tournament starting Monday.

Canny Scotchmen, watching the big, care-free Texan's play, hastened to cuts his odds from 10 to 1 to 7 to 1 alongside "Hilarious Henry," whom they concede is good "even if he is an Englishman."

Back of Guldahl and Cotton in the betting odds at 8 to 1 was Denny Shute who was the last American to win the title—in 1933. If dour Denny were hitting his woods he'd be at least even with the other two.

Alf Padgham, the defending champion and just about the most forlorn player in the field, is quoted at 12 to 1 along with most of the other Ryder Cup players including Dave Rees, Gene Sarazen, Henry Picard, Johnny Revolta, Tony Manero, Ed Dudley, Byron Nelson, Richard Burton, King, and Charles Whitcombe.

ALLISON IN FINAL

CHICAGO, July 3. (AP)—Wilmer Allison Jr., of Austin, Texas, and Walter Senior of San Francisco will meet tomorrow for the singles championship of the Illinois state open tennis tournament. Allison qualified for the final match today by defeating Norman Bickel of Chicago, 7-5, 6-0, 6-2, while Senior previously had won his semi-final match from Samuel Hayes Jr., of South Hadley, Mass.

13 PLAINS OIL WELLS HAVE POTENTIAL OF 5,960 BARRELS

7 NEW WELLS REPORTED IN HUTCHINSON

The Panhandle oilfield continued its parade of completions and new locations last week with the local office of the Texas Railroad commission giving 13 oil wells a total potential of 5,960 barrels, and eight gas wells an open flow of 257,620,000 cubic feet, and registering nineteen first intentions to drill.

Hutchinson county reported seven completions to add 3,797 barrels of oil to the output. Gray county's four wells were capable of producing 1,687 barrels. The other two tests were in Carson county.

The Starnes land in Hutchinson county again registered a large producer when the Danube Oil company's No. 2 Starnes, section 22, block M-23, TCRR survey, was given a potential of 1,017 barrels. A few weeks ago the same lease gave Hutchinson county a producer in excess of 1,000 barrels.

Moore county's prolific gas field reported eight completions with an open flow potential of nearly 200,000,000 cubic feet.

Moore county also jumped to the front in new locations with eight. Gray county registered five, Hutchinson four and Carson two. The west Pampa city limits had another drilling well on its boundary when Sinclair-Prairie Oil & Gas company staked a location for its No. 3 D. W. Carey in plot No. 132, sub-division of Pampa, section 114, block 3, I&GN survey.

Oilwell completions by counties:

HUTCHINSON COUNTY

Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 1 Kay, section 27, block M-23, TCRR survey, gauged 431 barrels with pay found in lime between 3,212 and 3,250 feet.

Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 3 Staples, section 25, block M-23, TCRR survey, tested 330 barrels. Pay was from 3,175 to 3,205 in lime and followed a shot of 300 quarts placed from top of pay to 3,217 feet.

Alma Oil Co., No. 1 Thompson, section 15, block M-3, TCRR survey, was good for 490 barrels with lime pay from 3,045 to 3,103 feet.

Texlivania Oil Co., No. 4 Harvey Sisters, section 14, block M-21, TCRR survey, tested 616 barrels with lime pay from 2,995 to 3,053 feet.

J. H. S. Bonner No. 4 Moore, section 21, block M-21, TCRR survey, was given a potential of 409 barrels. Pay was from 3,090 to 3,184 feet.

The Texas Co., No. 9 Pond, section 1, block M-21, TCRR survey, gauged 504 barrels with pay in the lime between 2,930 and 2,986 feet. The hole was bottomed at 2,996 feet.

GRAY COUNTY

Gulf Oil Corp., No. 5 Catlin, section 57, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 373 barrels with the pay from 3,095 to 3,129 feet in lime.

Humble Oil & Refining Co., No. 7 Merten, section 87, block 3, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 335 barrels. Pay was between 3,173 and 3,232 feet with the hole bottomed at 3,269 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 7 Sailor, section 138, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 833 barrels with lime pay from 3,190 to 3,220 feet. The hole was drilled to a depth of 3,255 feet.

Mordyan Oil Co., No. 6 M. B. Davis, section 8, block 1, ACH&B survey, was a granite wash well with a potential of 146 barrels. Pay was from 2,807 to 2,834 feet with the hole bottomed at 2,854 feet.

CARSON COUNTY

Empire Oil & Refining Co., No. 12 Magnolia D, section 109, block 4, I&GN survey, gauged 73 barrels. The hole was drilled to 3,209 feet but plugged back to 3,075 feet. Lime pay was from 3,000 to 3,075 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 23 Fee 244, section 108, block 4, I&GN survey, tested 403 barrels with pay from 2,993 to 3,080 feet.

Gas wells tested, by counties:

IN MOORE COUNTY

Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 1 Mary Beth, section 17, block M-16, AB&M survey, tested 49,360,000 cubic feet.

Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 1 Nelson, section 232, block 3-T, T&NO survey, was good for 38,698,000 cubic feet.

Continental Oil Co., No. 1 Burnett, section 316, blocvk 44, H&TC survey, gauged 46,354,000 cubic feet.

Panhandle Eastern Power & Light Co., No. 1-43, Sneed Ranch, section 28, block 6-T, T&NO survey, was given a potential of 18,491,000 cubic feet.

Stamrock Oil & Gas Co., No. 1 C. R. Jones, section 166, block 3-T, T&NO survey, gauged 13,604,000 cubic feet.

Canadian River Gas Co., No. A-2 Kilgore, section 20, PMC survey, gauged 23,367,000 cubic feet.

IN WHEELER COUNTY

Dumar Oil & Gas Co., No. 1 Finley, section 75, block 17, H&GN survey tested 39,083,000 cubic feet.

IN CARSON COUNTY

Panhandle Eastern Power & Light Co., No. 1-119 Burnett, section 81, block 5, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 28,663,000 cubic feet.

second with Joe Cronin on, and the Senators scored two runs in the last of the ninth, so the game went on and was called a 2-2 draw in the twelfth inning.

Griffith stadium is a mammoth plant, double-decked, and about 75 feet in height. The stands extend around three sides of the playing field, and the 25,000 Scouts did not fill one wing completely yesterday.

There is a palatial yacht now anchored in the river opposite our camp, and it has been a subject for many Scout photographers, including Ikey Cumberledge in our camp with his movie camera.

The official band of region X played at the ball game yesterday, and they and their drum major got a big hand. Several news photographers, including Paramount, took pictures of the band. When Lefty Grove came to bat in the twelfth inning he got a deafening cheer from the Scouts and all the other fans. He is really popular, seeming to be more so than Jimmy Foxx.

The blimp we saw yesterday is now flying over camp trailing a sign reading, "Welcome Boy Scouts." Victor Wilshusen and Billy Stockstill are now taking pictures of it.

Jack Hessey and Gene Caperton rented some bikes last night and rode around the city and over into Virginia. Joe Pete Lyle has bought a yo-yo and intends to enter the Jamboree yo-yo contest when he becomes more adept in the use of the instrument. Earl Manning and Alva Frye have just returned from a tour of the entire camp, where they have been taking pictures. L. B. Nichols, Jr. is becoming expert in the art of whip-cracking.

The Scoutmaster issues us a pass when we leave camp, to show that we have been given permission to leave, and we are required to wear our blue neckerchief to show that we have been dulychecked out.

JIM BOB JOHNSON.

SCOUT JAMBOREE CAMP, Washington, D. C., July 1.—Yesterday morning every Scout in camp stood a physical examination to prove that he was still fit to take part in Jamboree activities. All in our troop, No. 6, passed with flying colors.

Right after dinner yesterday we boarded a bus here at camp and went to town. The business district of Washington has been divided into districts for our convenience in sight-seeing. Yesterday we left our bus near the Lincoln Memorial, and two local Scouts, acting as guides, escorted us through sight-seeing district one.

We saw the Lincoln Memorial, Georgetown university, Army and Navy building, considered the ugliest building in Washington, Corcoran art gallery, American Red Cross building, went through the Department of Interior building and rode on an escalator, saw the Constitution Hall, went through the Pan-American Union building which is owned by 21 western countries, and has many South American plants, birds and animals in it and went through the War Department building, a mammoth temporary structure erected in 1927 in 90 days. This building has a straight hall in it four blocks long. The War Department building houses a collection of scale models of ships, and equipment used by the United navy.

The old Department of Interior building is the home of WPA headquarters.

Constitution Avenue was built over an old canal which once connected southeast Washington with Georgetown.

Our party saw the Public Health Service building and the War Department munitions building. The Federal Reserve building, under construction, is perhaps the most beautiful building in the city with the exception of the home of the Supreme Court.

The National Academy of Sciences was the most interesting place we visited and we stayed there about an hour. This building is filled with electrical apparatus and experimental equipment which visitors are allowed to operate. Outside the academy building, our guides left us, and we walked the three miles back to camp to save the ten cents bus fare.

Last night the entire Jamboree delegation, 25,000 of us, went up to the Washington Monument and took part in a ceremony, welcoming Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive, to the Jamboree. Dr. West spoke briefly, and the program was broadcast by both the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System. The program was held in a seady downpour of rain and the sun is shining again this morning.

SCHOOL CENSUS SHOWS DROP OF 158 PUPILS

Gray county's 1937 school census shows a drop of 158 pupils over the combined common and independent school district enrolment for 1936, according to figures released Saturday by W. B. Weatherred, county school superintendent.

The 1937 school census shows 5,455 pupils in all city, town and rural schools in the county, contrasted with 5,613 last year.

In Pampa proper the school enrolment this year is three less than a year ago. The city figure for 1937 is 3,676 and last year it was 3,679.

Mr. Weatherred said the biggest drop in school population was in the McLean, Alanreed and LeFors districts where he attributed the fact to the advent of modern farm machinery which makes it possible to farm large areas with fewer men, which caused farm families to move out of the districts.

who asked him to do them "a favor," instructing him where to find dynamite to throw at the train.

C. W. Jones, vice president of the brotherhood of railway trainmen, recently asked railroad officials to declare "unsafe" the area traveled by trains in the strike zone.

Mass Meeting Called

CIO strike leaders, faced by back-to-work movements throughout the seven-state steel strike area, tonight called four "show strength" mass meetings for tomorrow.

The rallies were announced for Johnstown, scene of Bethlehem's strike bound Cambria works, and at Johnstown, Warren and Canton, O., where national guardsmen have enforced peace during the last week.

James Mark, S. W. O. C. strike lieutenant, continued to assert 40,000 miners from the coal fields of western Pennsylvania would come to Johnstown to hear an address by Philip Murray, S. W. O. C. chairman.

State police said a check-up showed only scattered handfuls of pickets on the 7-mile front of the Cambria works.

Mark said: "The picket lines will be re-established at a time we do not wish to divulge now. The strike most positively is coming on."

23,200 Still Idle

Although exact figures on the total number of men still on strike in the 38-day-old labor controversy remained a topic of dispute, a survey tonight showed that 23,200 men are idle at steel mills and mines not yet reopened. Several thousand others have stayed away from mills reopened under troop protection.

More than 100,000 men were idle at the peak of the walkout a week ago.

Clinton C. Golden, S. W. O. C. regional director, said he had "authentic information indicating the recruiting and shipment of professional strike-breakers to Johnstown by the Burns detective agency of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh."

Golden also said he had evidence that other agencies "were recruiting and shipping strike-breakers from points in southern Ohio and West Virginia, in violation of the Byrnes act prohibiting the interstate shipments of strike-breakers."

Bethlehem officials declined comment on Golden's statement.

the last two years, this year's postings are away up. First load of wheat last year brought 89 cents a bushel while the price in 1935 was 70 cents.

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor

KANSAS CITY, July 3 (AP)—Millions of bushels of wheat, representing welcome dollars for farmers and food for city dwellers in the face of dwindling supplies since 1933, due to four successive small crops, is pouring into storage bins as the harvest moves northward across the plains states.

Day by day yawning bins are filling, supplementing 90,000,000 bushels of old wheat, the smallest carryover since 1919 and a sharp decline from the all-time carryover record of 378,000,000 bushels in 1933.

To this 90,000,000, it now appears some 650,000,000 bushels of winter wheat and 200,000,000 of spring wheat will be added this year.

Ordinarily wheat farmers are glad to get $1 a bushel, but not this year. There is no rush to sell new wheat at wagon prices ranging from $1 to $1.10 a bushel.

They hope and most of them firmly believe wheat will go to $1.35 and possibly $1.50. They regard this as an opportunity to balance the low price of 18 to 25 cents a bushel paid for the bumber crop of 1931. Most farmers are storing their wheat.

Kansas, ranking wheat producing state of the country, today was well on its way toward harvesting an estimated 142,000,000 bushel crop.

Texas and Oklahoma harvests have been completed and while final figures are not yet available, both states probably exceeded yields estimated by government agencies.

The Texas crop was indicated at 39,330,000 bushels in the June 1, government crop report. Oklahoma, with an estimated yield of 48,939,000 bushels, may have produced 6,000,000 bushels over the estimate.

Right now, Nebraska, with an estimated yield of 42,620,000 bushels is the question mark state. A. E. Anderson, federal crop statisician, said the crop would be "fairly satisfactory," but he would not hazard a guess as to the volume.

the long-time outlook for world wheat prices is uncertain, and urged wheat farmers to consider restricting planting this fall and next spring.

They expressed pessimism regarding the United States' wheat export markets. It was agreed that the world wheat acreage now is as large as ever, and that trade barriers of importing nations and a reluctance of the public here to accept foreign imports in exchange for agricultural exports dimmed the prospects of large wheat exports by the United States.

County Farm Agent Raiph Thomas stated Saturday night that Mr. Thomas probably will attend conferences over the 1938 program for the remainder of this week.

ities here to dispatch four surface vessels along the route of the returning rescue plane to guide it to a safe landing.

Naval authorities considered dispatching a second long-distance plane to the Earhart hunt pending the sailing of the battleship Colorado and an aircraft tender to Howland Island to help the Itasca.

The unsuccessful searching plane reported encountering the snow and sleet at high altitude. Snow is unknown at Howland island, only 50 miles from the equator.

Rescue workers said the sun there would be a great hazard to survival of anyone exposed to its merciless equatorial rays. Reports indicated clear skies and a calm sea in the region of the hunt.

Searchers put little faith in the numerous reports of supposed messages from the Earhart "flying laboratory" and asserted there was no convincing proof that they remained alive.

But the radio messages purporting to come from the lost plane continued to flash about despite official skepticism.

Paul Mantz, Miss Earhart's technical advisor, expressed the conviction that two Los Angeles amateur wireless operators had really picked up a message from the plane and that Miss Earhart and her navigator had reached an atoll in the Southern Pacific.

Searchers said they had reason to believe the last message from the plane came at 1:45 a. m. today (6:15 a. m. CST) as a series of dashes.

But amateur listeners insisted they had heard reports at 8:42 a. m, 8:55 a. m. and 9 a. m., CST, indicating they were from the plane. The Los Angeles amateures said they picked up signals at 8:42 and 9 a. m.

One reported he recognized Miss Earhart's voice saying "KHAQQ SOS, KHAQQ SOS. KHAQQ SOS."

These are the call letters given Miss Earhart for the "just for fun" world flight that came to grief during an attempted 2,570-mile flight yesterday from New Guinea to Howland island.

After a 21-hour search of the waters about Howland, the Itasca returned to the island intending to remain there as a base ship for other searching craft. Failure of the flying boat to get through from Hawaii caused it to resume the hunt.

Miss Earhart's husband, George Palmer Putnam, waited stoically in Oakland for reports of the hunt but Mrs. Noonan, wife of the navigator, cracked under the strain and was put under care of an Oakland physician.

All last night the Itasca shuttled about Howland island, America's tiny navigation frontier in the equatorial Pacific near which the Earhart plane supposedly came down out of fuel.

The Itasca's searchlights raked the black tropic sky without obtaining any sign that their beams had been sighted by the distressed fliers.

Position Unknown

Failure of Miss Earhart to give a complete position report complicated the search. The coast guard had one meager figure—a report indicating Miss Earhart might have been somewhere to the northwest of Howland as her gasoline gave out.

Lacking a definite point toward which to turn, the coast guard fell back upon the last three messages definitely known to have come from the trail-blazing fliers.

The first of these was at 7:46 a. m. yesterday (1:16 p. m. CST) saying Miss Earhart was about 100 miles from the Itasca at Howland island and was "coming up."

The next, at 8:42 a. m. (1:12 p. m. CST) said the plane had only a 30-minute gasoline supply and its position was doubtful, having sighted no land.

The third and supposedly last authentic report came from the plane at 1:45 a. m. today (6:15 a. m. CST) but was only a series of dashes.

Coast guardsmen theorized the rescue prospects were largely dependent upon weather. Government reports from sources nearest Howland Island showed cloudiness, a 8-mile wind, temperature 72 degrees.

In Burbank, Calif., Paul Mantz, technical adviser to Miss Earhart, advised Putnam there was a possibility the aviatrix had landed at some coral formation which might offer indefinite refuge from the sea.

There are many such formations in the Howland area. Some reach above the ocean's surface to form lagoon-like spots in the Pacific.

Experts agreed that Miss Earhart's plane, with its huge empty gasoline tanks to add potential buoyancy, would float for some time but emphasized that the length of its endurance would depend upon its condition when it came down, the character of the ocean surface and the seamanship of the fliers in emergency.

As a last report, the plane carried a pneumatic lifeboat capable of supporting both fliers. The extent of their food and water supply was not known here.

$54,960 Lent to Pampans in Home Building Program

The First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Pampa reported to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock, Ark., a prosperous six-month period closing June 30, 1937.

It has made 25 loans since Jan. 1, amounting to $54,960.10, seven of the loans being for new home construction.

It paid dividends on the basis of four per cent per annum for the six-month period, total dividends paid amounting to $7,113.40.

That it is being received favorably by investors is evidenced by the $66,139 which came into the association during the period through the sale of its shares.

All mortgage loans of the association are first liens upon real estate and its shares, up to $5,000 per investor, are fully insured against loss by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The association, one of 286 members of the Little Rock Bank, fills an economic need in the community in that it provides a place for safe and profitable investment of local money and a source of funds to aid in the purchase and construction of homes.

DINNER BRIDGE FOR HUSBANDS GIVEN BY CLUB

Nepenthe Bridge Club entertained their husbands and guests with a dinner-bridge in the home of Mrs. R. S. Walker Wednesday evening, with Mmes. W. A. Spoonemore and Roy Sullivan as co-hostesses.

Table favors and tallies were designed to carry out the theme of Independence Day.

Honors of the evening play were given to Mrs. Walter Anderson as first and Mrs. Irene Kline second. Mr. Walter Anderson won high score for the men with Mr. Bruce Head as second high.

Those enjoying the evening's entertainment were: Messrs. and Mmes. Hub Burrows, H. A. Peables, Bruce Head, Walter Anderson, F. H. Paronto, D. Reed, Mrs. Irene Kline, and Messrs. R. S. Walker, W. A. Spoonemore and Don Blair.

Skellytown News

By Mrs. W. W. Hughes

SKELLYTOWN, July 3—Although there will be no Fourth of July celebration in Skellytown, Monday will be a holiday. Practically every business firm in town will close for the day.

The Sunshine Home Demonstration club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. W. Hughes July 6, for a demonstration on scoring quick breads by Miss Bernice Westbrook, county home demonstration agent of Panhandle.

The Rev. Herman Cole of White Deer has just concluded a three weeks revival at the First Baptist church of Skellytown.

Interest in the revival was evidenced each morning and evening when the house was filled. Rev. John J. Johnson, pastor, led the spirited song service.

Forty-one were added to the church, 14 by baptism and 27 by letter.

Miss Frances Delong is visiting relatives in Sunray this week.

Ray Griffin, of Dumas, spent the week-end visiting in the home of his sister and family and Mrs. I. P. Long of Skellytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wedge had as guests this week Mrs. Wedge's aunt, and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Cheek, and children, Vivian and Wayne, of Eunice, N. M.

Mrs. Jackard Hostess

Mrs. C. R. Jackard was hostess to the "What-Not club Thursday afternoon at her home.

Mrs. Joe Wedge and Miss Vanice Wedge received prizes in two contests. Bridge also furnished entertainment for the afternoon.

Refreshments of ice cream, wafers and grape juice were served to the following members: Mmes. W. Farmer of Whittenburg, Joe Wedge, Pat Norris, C. G. Wereth and daughter, Misses Anna Laura Pike, Vanice Wedge and the hostess.

Mrs. Wedge will be hostess to the club next week at her home.

Three visitors, Mmes. W. H. Robertson, Stone and Bonner, were welcomed as new members when the Women's Missionary society of the First Baptist church met Thursday afternoon at the church for a Royal Service program.

At a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. C. H. Tiffany, plans were made to send a box of handkerchiefs and socks to the Old Age Ministers' home.

Others present to enjoy the program were: Mmes. Geo. L. Stanley, I. P. Delong, A. C. Carroll, Bill Studabaker, L. D. Wall, Check Guerry and McDonald.

Bible study will be conducted next Thursday afternoon at the church at 2:30 o'clock.

Ice Cream Served

An out-door ice cream supper for the benefit of the Community church and sponsored by the Ladies Aid and Sunday school of the church, was held last night in Skellytown.

Horseshoe pitching was one of the features of entertainment. Twenty-five dollars was added to the church fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Stanley and daughter, Gloria, spent the week end visiting relatives, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crump of Wheeler. Gloria remained for a week's visit with her aunt and uncle.

Miss Dorothy Baker of Whittenburg spent the week end visiting Miss Anna Laura Pike.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Faris visited Mrs. Faris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Biscoe of Carter, Okla., last week.

L. D. Parker of Albany was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clements last week.

Wesley Dial is visiting in the home of Junior Farmer of Whittenburg this week.

Miss Vanice Wedge and Miss Anna Laura Pike attended a slumber party Wednesday evening at the home of Misses Dorothy and Evelyn Baker of Whittenburg.

Mrs. E. C. Delaune left Friday for Elk City, Okla., where she will visit her parents over the Fourth.

Ike Hughes was a visitor in Amarillo this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson are vacationing in Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Sorenson left Sunday on a two week vacation.

Smartly Dressed In British Manner

A good match has more than matrimonial significance in England, as you can see below. The beruffled parasol and the full-skirted, dirndl type frock came off the same cloth. As the young lady joins a fashionable gathering she wears a veiled hat, open-toe shoes and crosheted gloves.

You may think this is a snapshot from an old family album, but the costume was worn by an English society woman to the Ascot races. Of black bengaline with frilly lace jabot, it derives its inspiration from the costumes of the nineties.

A far cry from the sleek tailored clothes American society women wear is the lace frock and hat reminescent of musical comedy creations seen at a fashionable race meeting near London. The toe-length skirt defies the upward trend.

For a day at the races in England's uncertain weather, a London dowager (above) turns out in a Chinese robe over an ankle-length dress. The feather boa about her neck carries out the white note of her gloves and the ostrich plumed hat.

A low decollette is a bit too formal for daytime wear, but it is comfortable on a hot afternoon. Hence the dark chiffon blouse, below. It leaves the back cool, even if arms swelter in long gloves. The hat carries out the strached lace peplum theme of the collar and cuffs of the blouse.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. What sort of clothes may a woman wear to a garden party?
2. How does a garden party differ from an outdoor tea?
3. Is there always dancing at garden parties?
4. Socially is a widow "Mrs. Alice Brown" or "Mrs. David Brown?"
5. How does a married woman sign her name on a social note?

What would you do if—

Someone whom you cannot place walks up to you at a social function and says, "Don't you remember me?"

(a) Say, "Why, no, I don't know you."

(b) Pretend to recognize the person and continue the conversation.

(c) Say, "I am sorry, but for the moment I cannot think of your name."

Answers

1. An afternoon dress or a long informal with hat and gloves.
2. Usually the garden party is more elaborate and the guests "dress up" more.
3. No, only if the majority of guests are young and the hostess so desires.
4. "Mrs. David Brown."
5. Her maiden name followed by her husband's name, as, "Lucy Ward Franklin."

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(c) is safer than (b). You might be called upon to make an introduction.

Priscilla Club Meets With Mrs. Ira Spearman

The Priscilla Home Demonstration club met Friday with Mrs. Ira Spearman to discuss the making of kitchen improvements. Reports by the cooperators to the kitchen demonstrator, Mrs. C. A. Tignor, were the main activity of the club.

Plans for Achievement Day, July 26, were completed.

The dramatic contestants, Mmes. Albert Lockhart, Roy Tinsley, Norman Walberg and E. A. Shackleton, reported the selection of their play, and the club made plans to attend the county contest and picnic at Gething ranch, July 29.

Mrs. Walberg club president, was chosen as club delegates to the A. and M. Short Course.

The club voted to sponsor 4-H club work by helping send a girl from the County Wide club to the Short Course. Girls from five Women's Home Demonstration club communities are members of this club.

Refreshments of cookies and iced tea were served to a guest, Mrs. Alfred Taylor of Skellytown, and 11 club members.

White Deer Bride Is Given Shower

Mrs. M. L. Bender recent bride of White Deer, was given a shower in the home of Mrs. H. L. Reese, Friday evening, with Mesdames Sidney Harris, Risley Richardson and Miss Jorene Richardson as joint hostesses.

The couple were married at Canyon June 20, and are to make their home in Panhandle.

Mrs. Bender was the former Miss Juanita Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Welch of White Deer.

Myrtle Faye Gilbert Given Bridal Shower By Friends

Miss Myrtle Faye Gilbert, bride-elect, was honored at a shower given Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. John Hodge, 1304 Christine street. Misses Marjorie Tucker, Minnie Olive Montgomery, and Johnnie Hodge were joint hostesses entertaining the honoree with members and friends of her sorority, Sigma Beta Phi.

Mrs. John Hodge presided at the punch bowl while dainty sandwiches and cakes were served. The color scheme of white, green and orchid was carried out, with carnations in these three colors attractively arranged. Games suitable to the occasion were played, and rhymes tied with ribbons led to an array of assorted gifts.

Those enjoying the affair were: Mmes. Hunkapillar, Raymond Harrah, J. Gilbert, Jno. Hodge, Sibil Weston, Pearl Ward, Misses Edwina Gilbert, Blondina Black, Frances Stark, Clotille McCallister, Josephine Lane, Lois Hinton, Lois Martin, Ann Johnson, and honoree, Myrtle Faye Gilbert, and the hostesses.

Nepenthe Club Enjoys Picnic

The Nepenthe Bridge club marked its season's close with a picnic on the Guy Saunders ranch near LeFors last Friday evening.

Mrs. Otis Brinkman of Sunray was given a handkerchief shower honoring her birthday.

After the basket supper the Range Ramblers of KGNC furnished special music and accompanied the group while they sang.

Members and husbands were: Mmes. and Messrs H. A. Publes, Otis Brinkman, R. S. Walker, W. A. Spoonmore, Bruce Head, and Mrs. Irene Kline and Roy Sullivan. Guests were Mrs. Helen Mare Tilcock and Misses Jessye Mae Duke, Juanita Spoonemore, Mr. Rufus Walker, Erwin Short and Joe Short.

Girl Scout News

TROOP 1

Girl Scouts of Troop 1 met Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Little House. Thirteen members were present with Mrs. R. R. Thomas, captain, and Mrs. C. A. Ray, lieutenant, supervising.

An hour was spent on a lesson in table setting with the following Scouts passing the requirements: Francis Deering, Ruth Slocum, Anna Bell Southworth, Mary Spellman, Molita Kennedy, Betty Johnson, Ruth Matheny, and Robby Lee Russell. Molita Kennedy also passed the sewing and cooking tests while Robby Lee Russell took cooking and the compass requirements.

Jo Ann Hawkins, a new member, passed the tenderfoot requirements.

TEXAS AUTHOR TO GIVE SERIES OF GARDEN PROGRAMS OVER CBS

To amateur gardeners and to all others who seriously desire a more beautiful America, the Columbia Broadcasting System has dedicated a series of programs, titled "Your Garden and Mine," to be given by Ruth Cross, eminent expert and authority on gardening and homemaking.

The program is heard over the WABC-Columbia network every Saturday, 10 to 10:15 a. m., EST.

Miss Cross, whose stories are well known to readers of "Country Gentleman," "Country Home," "Better Homes and Gardens," "American Home," and other similar publications, is interested not only in individual efforts to achieve beautiful gardens, but also in the widespread need for preserving the natural beauty of the countryside as a whole.

During her broadcasts over CBS, in addition to giving "tips" to gardeners and to answering their questions, Miss Cross will encourage "bigger and better" garden festivals throughout the country, as well as the execution of constructive tree-planting plans. She will discuss "Edendale," her home, located four miles from Winsted, widely publicized and considered one of the most beautiful "small places" in Connecticut. Built by herself and by her husband, with their own efforts and with little money, Edendale has become so great a point of interest to tourists that the number of sightseers threatens to become embarrassing.

Born near Paris, Tex., Miss Cross first wrote of the Texas cotton fields. Later she became a successful contributor to the "Saturday Evening Post," the "Pictorial Review," the "American Magazine," "Liberty" and "College Humor." Her latest work, "Soldier of Good Fortune,' a historical novel dealing with the Franco-Spanish conflict for the ownership of Texas, was published recently.

WALLY FOR WALLIS

RALEIGH, N. C.—When the state board of health made out a birth certificate for "Wally Simpson," nurses nodded their heads: "We were bound, sooner or later, to have someone named for Mrs. Simpson."

Then came a letter from the grandmother of North Carolina's Wally Simpson.

"It is really funny," she wrote the board of health. "He (Wally) was born on June 19, the same as Mrs. Wallis Simpson, and at that time, in 1935, no one in the family knew her."

Mrs. Oad Gatlin Is Hostess to Laketon Club

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Grady Bailey July 15.

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Fish swims into favor when the days are warm. Chilled in aspic, it can be prepared hours in advance and left in the refrigerator. With a lettuce garnish, it makes a meal in itself.

Molded Sardine Salad
(6 servings)

Six boneless and skinless sardines, 1 package salad gelatin (aspic), 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 whole stuffed olives cut in half, 1-3 cup mayonnaise, 3 hard cooked eggs, chopped, 2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1-4 teaspoon paprika.

Dissolve salad gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water, lemon juice and salt. Pour 1 cup into ring mold and chill until it begins to thicken, then arrange whole sardines in gelatin with olives cut side down, between. Chill until firm. Meanwhile chill remaining gelatin until it begins to thicken, then add remaining ingredients and pour on top of first layer. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with parsley and lemon halves.

Cucumbers get along swimmingly with cold shrimp or crab. Try this molded cucumber salad when you ask a few shrimp in to supper.

Cucumber Salad
(6 to 8 servings)

Two envelopes clear gelatin, 3 medium cucumbers, peeled and chopped, 1 cup cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons onion juice, salt and pepper to taste.

Peel and chop cucumbers. Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Then add boiling water, tomato juice, onion juice, lemon juice, salt and pepper and sugar. Mix well and cool. Add cucumbers and mix well.

Dip individual molds in cold water, drain. Then fill with cucumber gelatin mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold and decorate with fresh or canned shrimp or crab. Serve with a bowl of chilled mayonnaise brightened with a little cayenne pepper.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Blueberries, brown sugar, cream, creamed dry beef on toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Beef broth, molded sardine salad, hard rolls, cinnamon coffee cake, tea, milk.

DINNER: Lamb's tongue, tomato sauce, boiled potatoes, spinach, grated carrot salad, black walnut cake, stewed fruit, coffee, milk.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

People with inferiority complexes like to sleep late in the mornings.

I have lived long enough and obsreved sufficiently to know that this is true. The day, you see, instead of promising more victories, merely threatens defeat. If there is no actual threat, the dread is there just the same.

In brief, fear or dread IS inferiority.

It cannot be cured and this is the worst part of it. But if understood and acknowleged by the parent, early in a child's life, certain compensations can be given that answer quite well for courage.

One is to help the child to look forward to the sunrise.

He goes to bed living over the mistakes of his day. He lost the place in reading and they all laughed. He forgot to get butter, brought home the wrong kind of coffee, and was told that he hadn't any wits at all. He let slip to Aunt Mary about our going away, when it was to be a dead secret. He couldn't catch the ball his father threw, and was jeered down.

Tomorrow's Repetitions

Every day is like this. Tomorrow will be just the same. He'll be last in the race, or miss more words than anybody else. He doesn't think very clearly about all these things, but a certain vague pall hangs over the future. Fear. Fear of what people will say, what they will think, how they will laugh. The responsibility of waking hours is just too much.

The last thing at night, it is an excellent idea for a mother to have an intimate little talk with her unsure child. At first he won't respond, because such secrets are agony to communicate. But by and by, he may be willing to unburden part of it, if his troubles are understood and taken seriously.

To talk them over is half the cure.

Now may the mother apply her healing remedies. She can relate mistakes she has made, for example, that were far more serious than his; and explain how miserable little mistakes are part of everybody's life. Here is a grand opportunity also, to tell him about the hundred things he does right and more than right.

Gives New Outlook

But most important of all, is a plan for the next day. It is going to be a grand time for him, explain, because he is not going to pay the least attention to what people say or think.

In time it will instill a new outlook. The boy (or the girl) won't feel so alone either. "What do I care what they think?" he says to himself bravely. "Mother and Dad understand that you can't be right all the time."

The slate cleared for one day, makes the next day more possible. There should be no hangovers to cause dread. The new day should be full of wholesome promise, rather than vague apprehension. The more the inferior child unburdens his secret worries, the happier he will be. And he may, in time, through habit alone, learn assurance and content.

Mrs. Hunkapillar Gives P-TA Talk To Fisher's Class

CANYON, July 3.—Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar of Pampa, president of the eighth district Congress of Parents and Teachers, declared in an address here Friday that when a Parent-Teacher Association fails to render services to the community, it is due to a lack of leadership on the part of the school and its teachers.

Mrs. Hunkapillar believes that communities look to teachers for ideas and methods to be used in making the community a better place to live, and that when these are lacking, the Parent-Teacher Association is unable to function.

The address which Mrs. Hunkapillar gave here was before a class in personnel problems in education which is being taught by Supt. R. B. Fisher of Pampa. He is a visiting member of the faculty of the West Texas State Teachers college.

Shamrock News

My Mary L. Smith

SHAMROCK, July 3 — Completion of pouring concrete on state highway No. 4 between Shamrock and Wellington is expected during the early part of next week, those in charge of construction announce. Only about two miles of surfacing remained to be poured early this week and work has gone forward at a good rate. The paving will be opened for traffic about August 1.

Twelve carloads of wheat have been shipped from Shamrock to date, with an estimated 15 cars having been shipped from the Samnorwood station. It is estimated that approximately 25,000 bushels have been harvested in the entire Shamrock trade territory, embracing north Collingsworth county and south-central Wheeler county, this being about one-third of the estimated yield for the area.

MEETING DELAYED

The American Legion Auxiliary's regular meeting which was scheduled for July 5 has been postponed until July 19.

EX-SOLDIERS TO BE GUESTS AT M. E. CHURCH

All ex-soldiers are asked to be special guests at a special Fourth of July program at the First Methodist church Sunday morning at 9:40 o'clock.

D. A. Bartlett head of the Pampa Legions, will be in charge of the program. H. P. Lusby, head of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Charlie Maisel, commander of the American Legion, will make short talks, and Judge Sherman White will speak on "The Significance of the Fourth." Special music of patriotic melodies will be rendered. The men who are ex-soldiers are asked to sit together in the center of the auditorium.

Young people and high school departments are invited to attend the adult assembly for the special Fourth program.

Ralph Randal of Panhandle will be guest speaker Sunday morning at the laymen's service. Mr. Randal is well known to many Pampans who count it a special privilege to have him bring the address on this occasion.

Mrs. Kelly Meets With Kingsmill Women Tuesday

Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, home demonstration agent, met with the Kingsmill Home Demonstration club at a called meeting in the home of Mrs. Chester Williams, Tuesday, June 29.

Balanced meals were discussed, and Mrs. Kelley defined a balanced diet. Since deformations occur as a result of bad diet, it was pointed out the necessity of a well rounded meal, also the possibility of having a garden to keep the year's table.

Refreshments were served to 12 members including a new member, Mrs. F. A. Turner. The three visitors present were: Mmes. A. M. Walker, Nat Lunsford and Norman Walberg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams and family left Friday for various parts of Arkansas, where they will visit friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rugg and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cobb and daughter, Helen, accompanied by Mrs. Clyde O'Quinn, are spending their vacations in parts of central and northern Louisiana.

Ice Cream Supper.

Thursday evening the members of the Senior B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church and their sponsor, Rev W. R. Lawrence, met in the basement of the church for an ice cream supper.

After many games were played, dainty refreshments were served to Dorothy Whitsell, Alma Lee Holley, Loerine Wilson, Delma Barrett, Geo. Duncan, Herbert Moore, Hugh Wilson, E. Frost, Bud Cumberledge, and Rev. W. R. Lawrence.

Complimenting their husbands, and several guests, members of the Thimblette club entertined Wednesday night with a chicken dinner on the Mel Davis ranch.

Members present for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Scruggs, Mr. and Mrs. R. Swafford, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tiffany, Mr and Mrs. Frank Waggoner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carpenter, and Mrs. Mamie Hoover and children. Guests were Harold Dinkle, Miss Mollie Dinkle of Pampa, and Miss Estha Mable Cox of Longview, Texas.

Officers elected for the Thimblette club were Mmes. Audell Swafford, president; Ted Scruggs, social chairman; Ben Hoover and Rufus Dinkle as social committee, and Mrs. W. A. Waggoner as reporter for the club.

Rev. C. C. Warford, who is pastor of the First Baptist church of Lela, visited in LeFors Friday.

Davies' Sent From Post To Post And Dingy U. S. Embassies Disappear

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily NEWS
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 4—The question of what to do with dingy, unprepossessing American embassies abroad would seem to be practically solved.

The idea around the State Department, at least, is that you just keep transferring Ambbassador Joe Davies from post to post, or to be more specific, you transfer the wealthy former Marjorie Post—whom Joe recently married—from post to post.

Perhaps the way the boys at the department feel about the problem is best indicated by recalling the time when Davies, just appointed to his present ambassadorship at Moscow, asked Roosevelt what ought to be done about the Russian debt, and the President wise-cracked back the suggestion that Mr. and Mrs. Davies assume it.

The old embassy at Moscow was treated to new bathtubs, plumbing, air-cooling and various other renovations when Ambassador and Mrs. Davies moved into it. The simple Russians were aghast at the display, according to cablegrams.

It was understood at the time that those twain would not stay in Russia long, but would be transferred to a livelier European capital. Right now the gossip about Mr. and Mrs. Davies emphasizes Berlin.

The American embassy at Berlin, it is pointed out, is or should be the old Bluecher palace. It has one of the best locations in the city and this government paid $1 700,000 for it. Unfortunately, fire destroyed the entire interior about the time of the purchase Ambassador Dodd lives in a rented house. But, as they point out in whispers at the State Department, that interior offers a splendid opportunity for Ambassador and Mrs. Davies.

They Can Thank Garner

The wealthy men recently named as tax avoiders can thank Vice President Jack Garner that they haven't been paraded down here before the joint tax evasion committee which has been hearing the Treasury officials tell how it's done and who does it.

Certain forces within the administration — including perhaps, Roosevelt himself—had fondled the idea that the 'culprits" should be subpoenaed and asked to explain their tax returns. This would have been in line with the adminstration's vague general policy of soaking the rich and sharing the wealth.

But one of the last things Garner did before leaving town was to appoint the senatorial wing of the committee from among the oldest members, in point of service of the Finance Committee, which mean the most conservative members such as King of Utah, Glass of Virginia, Harrison of Mississippi and George of Georgia. LaFollette of Wisconsin went on because he happened to be the Finance Committee's highest ranking minority member. Most House appointees also were conservative.

The result was that the committee decided it wouldn't call witnesses, except for the Treasury officials and the hearings have been quite tame.

"Garner's last act of sabotage," say some of the disgusted New Dealers.

Short Weight at Chains

The House of Representatives recently refused to pass a committee bill which would have imposed an income tax on residents of the District of Columbia—obviously because the lawmakers didn't want to tax their own incomes. One of its substitutes was a tax on chain stores, expected to yield $750.000 and proposed by Congressman Martin Dies of Texas. This was another victory for Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, who is forever warring on the chains.

Of great aid to Patman and Dies in their propaganda for the bill was a report of local weights and measures officials, who secretly checked the weight of 81 purchases—dressed poultry being selected for the experiment—from the stores of one large chain.

Of the 81 purchases, 68 were found to be short weight, 13 full weight and not one overweight.

"There must be some system there" declared Patman—and the House voted for the chain store tax.

HUMAN SANDWICH

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—A wagonload of lumber got the teeters and sent Stephen Carrico to the hospital in unique fashion.

As he drove under a trestle the lumber shifted backward on the wagon, tipping the front of the vehicle upward and pinning Carrico between the wagon and the trestle.

His back was sprained.

FORMER PAMPAN DIES AT LAWTON RESIDENCE

Fred Eldridge Percival, 73, well known Lawton citizen, died at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday at the family home in Lawton following an illness of three months.

Percival of Oklahoma City; four grandchildren, Freddie and Rhoda Percival of Oklahoma City, Helen and Aileen Dowd of Lawton; a brother, B. C. Percival of Anadarko; two sisters, Mrs. Dollie Huitt, also of Anadarko, and Mrs. Sula Colliver of Oklahoma City, and other relatives.

Transfers Must Be Made by August 1

School pupils wishing to transfer from one school district to another in Gray county next fall must make applications for the transfers before Aug. 1, W. B. Weatherred, county school superintendent, announced today.

Applications should be made at the county superintendent's office in the Gray county courthouse.

The rule does not apply to pupils making transfers from one ward to another ward within the city limits nor to pupils transferring from another county district into Gray county. However, pupils wishing to transfer from Gray county a district in another county must make application for the transfer.

LEA, WALLACE PARDONED.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 2 (AP)—Col. Luke Lea, former publisher and former United States Senator from Tennessee, who served two years in North Carolina's penitentiary for conspiracy to violate the state banking laws, held a pardon from Gov. Hoey today. Also enjoying complete freedom was Wallace B. Davis of Asheville, president of the defunct Central Bank & Trust Company, sentenced to serve five to seven years for the $17,000,000 bank failure.

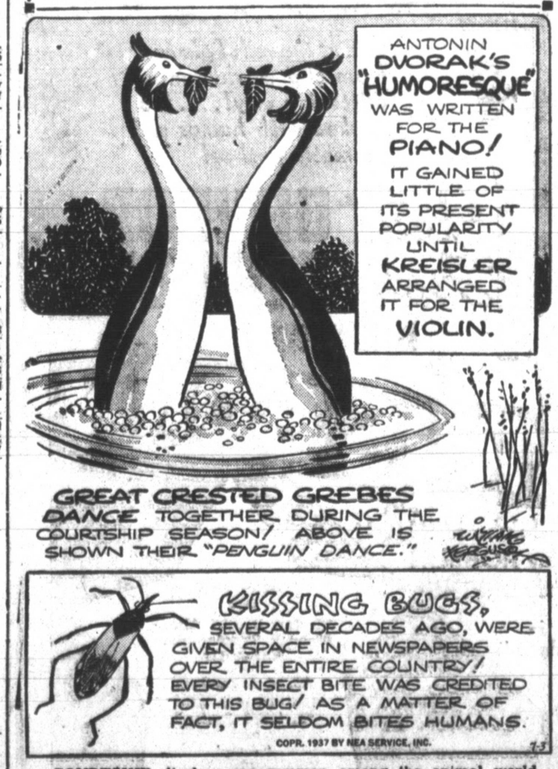
THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson



COURTSHIP displays are common among the animal world. Great crested grebes have various rituals, among them the seldom seen penguin dance shown above, during which the participants present one another with leaves and weeds. Other ceremonies include feather preening and head shaking activities.

WHEELER BAND MEMBERS PLAY AT ANVIL PARK

WHEELER, July 3 — There were 18 members of the Wheeler municipal band which played at the 15th Anvil Park rodeo at Canadian Saturday.

The band left their regular practice room at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. They played a street concert at 10:30 that morning and played until the afternoon performances were over.

The rodeo proceeds were used in the uniform fund.

Those making the trip were F. B. Craig, Otis Hooker, Ethel Claire Raney, Jakie Trout, Anna Mae Green, Walter Flynt, Silva Louise Ficke, Eugene Smith, Johnny Faye Templeton, Doris Hooker, Harry Garrison, W. E. Pennington, Bessie Maye Ficke, Orveta Uuett, Wiletta Templeton, Everette Cole, Taft Holloway, Robert Smith, and Willie Dee Lawrence.

Band concert was not held Friday night because of the Saturday trip. Those making the trip held reheasals Thursday and Friday night.

Junior Girl Scouts met Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the steps of the Methodist church to discuss plans for a trip to Palo Duro canyon for the Fourth of July.

They decided to leave the courthouse at 5 a. m. Sunday, planning to spend the day swimming and hiking at the canyons.

Scouts present for the meeting were Johnnie Faye Templeton, Joyce Faust, Lucile Balch, Emily Lou Ahler, Verta Warren, Caroline Warren, Dorothy Lee Watson, Verna Brewer, Marcille Farmer, Arlie Red, and Winona Red.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pennington and son, W. E., left Sunday for Electra where they will visit Mrs. Pennington's father and friends. They will return home Monday except W. E. who will make an extended visit.

GAYNOR AND MARCH WILL STAR IN LANORA FEATURE TODAY

'CRIME AND PUNISHMENT' SHOWING HERE

Janet Gaynor and Frederic March will draw their fans to the LaNora theater today where they will open in "A Star Is Born." At the Crown, "Crime and Punishment," with Edward Arnold, Peter Lorre, Marian Marsh and Tal Birell, will be the feature picture.

Stark terror in the form of Boris Karloff will be at the Crown Wednesday and Thursday in "Juggernaut." The favorite actor of many people, Lionel Barrymore, will return to Pampa today when "A Family Affair" opens at the Rex with Cecillia Parker and Eric Linden in the supporting cast.

Dick Powell and Alice Faye will show at the State in "On the Avenue."

LA NORA

GAYNOR AND MARCH.

All the thrills of a trip to Hollywood will be provided local film fans today at the LaNora theater in "A Star is Born," David O. Selznick's glorious technicolor production starring Janet Gaynor and Frederic March.

For this first really modern story to come to the screen in color is so vividly told, so convincingly played and so brilliantly directed by William A. Wellman that you leave the theater feeling as if you'd actually paid a visit to filmland.

Janet Gaynor and Frederic March have written-to-order roles and have never turned in performances to match these

Janet emerges a lovely, new sophisticated personality—with a rare flair for wearing clothes—as Esther Blodgett, the little country girl who comes to Hollywood in search of stardom, faces the 100,000 to one odds as an extra, and soars overnight to fame.

Comedy For March.

And March, as Norman Maine, the hard-drinking screen idol of the moment, who helps Janet get her first break, falls in love with her and marries her, has a grand role which offers him plenty of opportunities for the kind of comedy at which he excels.

The story, which depicts all the thrills and gaiety and heartbreak of a climb to fame in Hollywood was adapted by Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell and Robert Carson from a story written by Carson in collaboration with Director Wellman.

Adolphe Menjou is at his splendid best as Oliver Niles, the producer, and May Robson is grand as the fiery old grandmother who urges Esther to go to Hollywood and realize her dream of movie fame.

OIL PICTURE.

One by one the great industries that carried America to a position of power in the world have been dramatized on the screen. Among them, gold has been the basis of many stirring outstanding pictures. Somehow, the screen has rarely if ever presented a feature film of one of the most exciting of all of man's battle to wrest wealth from the earth—or from his fellowmen—the struggle for oil!

In "The Wildcatter," opening at the LaNora theater on Thursday, Universial has developed the intense drama, excitement, danger, romance, and lust for "black gold," that has taken place in the oil fields of America.

"Oil!" That word, shouted like "Gold!" was shouted in 1849, electrifies men. The same wild yell unleashes a horde of humanity for the oil rush filmed for "The Wildcatter." The picture tells the story of an oil strike and the adventures of Scott Colton, playing the leading role. One of the spectacular scenes shows an oil gusher coming in, spouting one hundred feet in the air.

JANE WITHERS AGAIN.

Warning! It's "Angel's" day off, which means Trouble in the offing!

Whizzing headlong into the Offing looking for Trouble is "Ginger" Jane Withers, harum-scarum half-pint of dynamite off on her rip-roaringest rampage in "Angel's Holiday," Twentieth Century-Fox picture opening Friday at the LaNora theater.

Mischievous Jane, little sweetie-pie that she is, put the "holler" into "holiday" when she routs the riot squad with its own tear gas and makes trouble as fast as she makes headlines when she turns detective.

Aided and abetted in her topsy-turvy laugh spree by Robert Kent, Joan Davis, and Sally Blane, Jane, turned sleuth, tracks down and plagues the very lives of a murderous band of gangster-kidnappers, who welcome the refuge of jail promised with the final arrival of the police.

Disrupting the disappearance faked for publicity purposes, of movie star Sally Blane, Sleuth Jane finds that not a small part of the mischief she has done is to re-unite Robert Kent and Sally, two former sweethearts.

CROWN

RUSSIAN NOVEL FILMED.

Hollywood put on its thinking cap, girded its loins, and proceeded to make a boldly intelligent production of one of the most intense stories of modern literature. Columbia, in making a film out of Dostoivsky's novel, "Crime and Punishment," has done the public a service.

The picture opens today at the Crown theater.

Rare judgment was shown in casting the film. Those who are familiar with the classic will know that Edward Arnold is a perfect choice as the canny, subtle yet domineering Police Inspector, and that Peter Lorre cannot be surpassed as the murderer, Raskolnikov.

These two men enact this soul-searing tale for all its worth, and it's worth plenty.

It is the story of a brilliant young man, a student of the criminal mind; who, out of pure desperation, attempts to commit the perfect crime. Possessed of an extraordinary mentality, he believes that he can outwit the blundering police. How he goes about perpetrating the homicide, why he does it, and how he finally defeats himself, makes for one of the most stirring dramas the screen has yet shown.

Marian Marsh, Tala Birell, Robert Allen, Elisabeth Risdon, Douglass Dumbrille, Gene Lockhart and Mrs. Patrick Campbell are all uniformly fine in their supporting roles. It is an exceptionally able cast; but Arnold and Lorre stand out vividly.

Karloff Returns

Boris Karloff, regarded by many as the greatest character actor on the screen since the passing of Lon Chaney, does not depend on make-up to produce in his audience the chills and thrills of vicarious terror and suspense, for which he is famous. Most of his acting has been done behind disguises, which have taxed the abilities of studio make-up departments and often his own endurance as well, but in "Juggernaut," the powerful film mystery drama released by Grand National, which will open at the Crown Theater, next Wednesday, Karloff uses hardly any make-up at all.

In the role of Dr. Sartorius, a fanatical scientist, who stops at nothing to discover a cure for paralysis, which he has made his life work, Karloff's closely cropped head, trimly barbered mustache and modern, tailored clothes, bear not the remotest resemblance to the monstrous disguises, which previously have formed an important part in his characterization.

In "Frankenstein," for example, the picture which brought Karloff first to stardom, the entire contour of his face and head were altered and he became a monster, indeed, with his height increased to seven feet. In the "Bride of Frankenstein," which followed the original picture three years afterward, the mutiliation of his features was even heightened by the appearance of the terrible burns, which "Frankenstein" was supposed to have suffered. In "The Mummy" he was just a crinkled, grotesque creature resurrected from the tomb, while in "The Old Dark House," his features were misshapen and partially covered by a bushy, unkempt beard.

In Juggernaut," his latest picture, however he uses no disguise whatever, only his piercing, staring eyes, which are unforgettable, giving a hint of the horrors which are to come. He portrays in masterly fashion, the cool, keen-minded, but entirely ruthless medico, who rewards a life or two as of no account if it stands in the way of his overpowering ambition, which he believes will bring incalculable benefits to generations unborn.

REX

WILD HORSES FILMED.

A use has been found at last for the huge herds of wild horses which have been over-running the ranges of Idaho and New Mexico and who have become something of a problem to cattlemen in the region.

They have been made into movie actors!

Two thousand of the "outlaws," descendants of mounts who have escaped from Indian camps and cowboy corrals, have been rounded up, rehearsed and then made to perform before the motion picture cameras in "Forlorn River," the Zane Grey outdoor romance which opens Friday at the Rex theater—and what a job it was!

Taught by experience that man is never to be trusted, their instincts sharpened by the wild life they have been leading for over fifty years, and developed into the fleetest animals on the North American Continent by the grim battle for survival against man and beast, they have been waging, America's wild range horses have developed a system for self-protection which is without an equal in the Animal Kingdom—all of which mitigated strongly against their becoming movie actors. But it was done, largely through the skill of Harry Hallenberger, ace cameraman, whose achievement in getting pictures of the horses is regarded as one of the cinema's major accomplishments.

LOAN SHARK EXPOSED.

Colubimia's timely drama, "I Promise To Pay," the smashing story of one man's fearless war against the loan shark racketeers, will be the new screen attraction at the Rex theater starting Friday. Featured in the cast are Chester Morris, Helen Mack, Leo Carillo, and Thomas Mitchell.

Eddie Lang, carefee young clerk, played by Morris, expects a bonus from his employers shortly and wanting to take his wife, Mary, played by Miss Mack, and their youngsters on a vacation, he borrows money from an agent of the loan shark racket boss. Upon their return, the bonus is not forthcoming and Eddie plans to pay off his debt in small weekly amounts from his salary. The racketeers, however, do not agree with this plan and Eddie is waylaid and stripped of most of his weekly earnings.

In an effort to avoid repetition of the incident, he mails most of his salary to his wife the following week. His reward is a terrific beating from the thugs. In desperation, Eddie appropriates office funds. Although he returns the money of his own volition and is not prosecuted, he loses his job. Even this misfortune does not free him from the loan sharks. Another beating lands him in the hospital where he finally tells his story to the authorities. A grand jury indictment is planned for the racket king, played by Leo Carillo, who issues orders to get Eddie before he can testify.

BARRYMORE STARRED.

Lionel Barrymore becomes an Idaho judge, a politician, and the father of two grown daughters and a son all at the same time.

It is this composite of three different characterizations that the veteran actor makes his latest screen appearance in the new M-G-M drama of family life, "A Family Affair," which will be shown at the Rex theater for the next two days.

The play is a comedy of marital mix-ups from the viewpoint of the father of the romance-busters rather than the young people themselves.

Barrymore plays an Idaho judge who, on the evening of learning that crooked politicians are trying to kill his chances of re-election, finds that his daughters have moved in on "dad and mother."

One daughter rushes into the mix-ups by entering the campaign for her father, to the disgust of her engineer fiancee who hates women politicians. From that point the comedy moves rapidly to a happy ending, but not until all lives in the family have been juggled considerably.

HORTON IS STARRED.

With perfect peace of mind, a record of never having given a poor performance and a sizeable bank account, Edward Everett Horton, Holywood film star, recently celebrated his 1,000th theatrical performance. Culminating 27 years before the footlights and kleiglights, the star gave the 1,000th performance at Universal studios in Harry Leon Wilson's "Oh, Doctor!" which opens at the Rex theater Thursday.

Horton rolled up the major portion of the impressive figure during his years with stock companies. He made his theatrical debut in "The Mikado" in 1910, and then launched into an intensive stage career which included three years in Philadelphia, 64 weeks in Portland, Ore.; 35 weeks in Pittsburgh; 40 weeks in Elmira, N. Y.; 16 weeks in Albany, N. Y.; eight weeks in Brooklyn; seven years of stock in Los Angeles.

Kentucky's poultry industry is valued at $20,000,000.
