Hope Remains For Flyers; Another B-29 Crashes, Burns

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 18 (UP)—Rough weather and poor visibility closed in today just as search planes believed they were close to finding survivors of an American B-29 Superfortress which ditched in the Atlantic two days ago with 20 crew members aboard.

But scores of rescue planes took off at dawn at bases from Salem, Mass., to San Juan, Puerto Rico, to search the Atlantic. The B-29 crashed off Bermuda after it lost its way in heavy weather and ran out of fuel on a flight from California.

Meanwhile, in Tampa, Fla., five airmen were killed when their B-29 crashed and burst into flames in the mudflats on the edge of Tampa Bay today after taking off for the giant search for the flyers downed in the Atlantic.

Public information officers at MacDill Air Force Base here said four men survived the crash. They said only nine men were aboard the plane.

Lt. Lloyd Strot, base PIO officer, said the B-29 took off from here for the Bermuda search area and was only a few miles out when it informed the base tower that its No. 4 engine—right outboard—was on fire and that it was returning to the field.

The bomber came in from the south but it failed to make the runway and crashed into the muck and slime left by an unusually low tide on the edege of Tampa Bay.

Crash boats were unable to reach the blazing bomber because of the low water level. Heavy crash trucks from the base could not reach its side because of the muck.

Hope that at least some of the missing airmen downed in the Atlantic may be alive soared after a search plane which had reported sighting a red flare last night 340 miles northeast of here landed early today with further details.

It said it also sighted another small light five hours after the flare had burst in the night sky.

The detailed report excited even Capt. George C. Welch, commander of the greatest U. S. Air Force search in peacetime history, who had been inclined to dismiss the purported flare as "just another star." He wasn't worried by the fact that the plane's radar has been unable to record any definite objects in the area.

"I was mighty discouraged before, but the fact that the plane got no radar sighting is good. If it were a fishing vessel, they could have picked it up on their screen."

Newspapermen's Convention Asks Freer Atomic Energy Information

DALLAS, Nov. 18 (UP)—A convention of newspapermen made clear today it favored informing the public on atomic energy matters with due regard for necessary "secrecy" to protect American security.

However, delegates of Sigma Chi, national journalism fraternity, warned government officials not to mistake secrecy for outright censorship beyond the actual needs of security.

Adopting a report of the committee on advancement of freedom of information yesterday, members condemned all attempts by "any group to restrict the free flow of information in the United States by threats of physical violence or boycott." The report described such threats as contrary to basic concepts of the freedom of the press.

Committee members included chairman Dick Fitzpatrick, associate editor of Quill, Sigma Delta Chi publication; Palmer Hoyt, Denver Post publisher; John B. Long, general manager of the California Publisher, Los Angeles; Raymond Lawrence, editorial writer for the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune, and Lyle C. Wilson, manager of the United Press Washington Bureau.

A forum on press ethics drew varied opinions from newsmen attending the 30th annual convention.

Whether Sigma Delta Chi has the right to try to regulate the entire journalistic profession was questioned by John Bills, associate editor of the Miami (Fla.) Herald. He said an ethics code "can have no force on any independent medium of information."

Alvin E. Austin, head of the journalism department at the University of North Dakota, suggested the fraternity's 1926 code of ethics could be enforced within Sigma Delta Chi itself, while Luther Huston of the New York Times expressed the view there is no necessity for a code "because we have it in the ritual of Sigma Delta Chi."

A dinner dance was planned tonight, with meetings tomorrow concluding the national conclave.

14-Year-Old Escape Artist Vows To Leave

TEXARKANA, Tex., Nov. 18 (UP)Billy Wayne Jones, a 14-year old Houdini, was in jail today but he vowed "they won't keep me here another 24 hours."

Texarkana police who collared Jones as he hid in a closet in an apartment next to his home last night said that he would "stay put" in his cell until Nashville, Ark. authorities pick him up on charges of taking $580 from a safe and stealing two cars there.

The young escape artist made good a similar boast November 9 after he was encircled by officers on flat prairie land near the little Harris County town of Addicks.

At that time he was warned to "come out with your hands up." He retorted that he was "long gone from here." Jones broke away from the posse and ran four miles before he was captured, outdistancing an officer on a horse during the chase.

It was then that he told Harris County probation officer J. W. Hill that he would "get away in less than 24 hours."

Although Hill handcuffed him, Jones later slipped through a car door, turned a somersault and escaped in the darkness.

PMA Election Set

Tomorrow, Childress County farmers, who have not already voted by mail, will go to their respective community polls to vote for their County Production and Marketing Administration committee.

Polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., Doyle Thomas, PMA secretary, announced.

Over 700 votes already have been received at the PMA office by mail, Thomas said. The mailing deadline is 5 p. m. tomorrow—to be counted, envelopes must show a postmark before that time, Thomas warned.

A result of the election is expected to be known Monday morning.

The voting date for Community E—Tell, Carey and High Point—has been extended to 5 p. m. Wednesday, Thomas said, due to an error on the former ballot. Supplemental ballots were hailed out yesterday, and will be at the pollinging places tomorrow, he added.

The PMA office in the courthouse will remain open all day tomorrow, Thomas said. Farmers may vote there or bring in their already-marked ballots, which many of them have been doing this past week, he explained.

Other polling places about the county will be open tomorrow at the Carey Gin, Tell Gin, Gilpin Schoolhouse, Arlie Gin, Loco Gin, Olympus Schoolhouse, Kirkland Gin and the Community Center Schoolhouse.

Both the farmer and his wife are eligible to vote, Thomas said, as he urged all eligible voters to cast their ballots.

1952 Presidential Derby Shaping Up With The Same Faces Expected

DALLAS, Nov. 18 (PU) — The 1952 presidential derby was shaping up today in the eyes of Washington correspondents as a re-run of the 1948 race.

United Press Washington Bureau Manager Lyle C. Wilson said today he believed most of the capital's correspondents, "arm chair and otherwise," shared his views that both Republicans and Democrats are "going to look again at the 'old familiar faces.'"

Wilson told the Dallas Advertising League the certainly most of his contemporaries shared his belief that President Truman will seek re-election and that the GOP's "big four" of 1948 had their eyes on the White House.

"He certainly has been acting like a man contented with his job and prepared to keep it for a long time," Wilson told the luncheon group.

The veteran United Press newsman pointed out it would be vir-

County Gins Break '48 Cotton Record With 2800 Bales

Childress gins had turned out over 28,000 bales of cotton through noon today, eclipsing the 1948 record of 26,000 bales and pushing the county toward its biggest cotton crop in history.

All gins were operating at top speed today in an effort to whittle down the huge stockpiles of cotton which are accumulating in their yards.

Farmers Cooperative, one of the state's largest gins, reported its yards "were as filled as they ever have been."

All gins were paying $46.50 a ton for cottonseed, with the last two county gins falling into line with the government price yesterday.

Nowhere in the area did there appear to be a cotton-picker shortage.

Amarillo Man Held In Brother's Death

AMARILLO, Nov. 18 (UP)—A 23-year-old police character was held in jail here today for the murder of his brother.

Billy Max Mann was charged in the fatal shooting of Donald Mann, 33, in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Mann, yesterday.

The divorced wife of the slain man, Mrs. Arliss McKinney, who witnessed the slaying, was held in jail as a material witness. She gave no motive for the slaying, however.

Hiss Trial Has Opening Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (UP)—Government prosecutors Thomas F. Murphy told a federal court jury today that he would produce "immutable evidence of espionage" against former State Department official Alger Hiss.

In his opening statement in the second Hiss perjury trial, the assistant U. S. attorney said the government would prove by documentary exhibits that "Whittaker Chambers is telling the gospel truth from that witness chair."

Chambers, a former courier for a Communist spy ring in pre-war Washington, charges Hiss delivered State Department secrets to him in wholesale fashion in the late 1930's.

Government Heads Become Worried Over Labor's New Pension Demands

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (UP)—Some government officials are frankly worried about labor's demands for bigger and better company-paid pensions.

They see in industrial pension programs a threat to the government's own social security concept. They point to these two reasons for their worry:

1. Industrial pensions increase the retirement benefits of some of the 35 million persons now covered by federal social security. But they do nothing for the millions of farm workers, domestic servants and other wage workers who do not have social security coverage or any other old age security plan.

2. Industrial pensions may offer a false sense of old-age security to workers in some companies. A sound pension plan with a large reputable company is something quite different, they say, from a shaky pension plan established by a company with an uncertain future.

At least one high government official has suggested that President Truman appoint a special commission to study the relationship of industrial pension programs to the federal social security program.

For instance, the so-called "Bethlehem plan" which ended the steel strike provides generally for $100 a month pensions. But the steel companies pay only the difference between social security benefits and the amount guaranteed under the pension contract.

The great danger, as this official sees it, is that the heavy pressure for industrial pensions will retard the growth of the social security system and leave millions of workers with no provision at all for their old age.

No government agency has made a recent estimate of how many workers are covered by the 12,000 to 13,000 company pension and profit sharing programs which have been approved by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. In 1946 the bureau said about 3½ million workers came unde such plans. Current estimates from other sour-

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18 (UP)Vice-President Alben W. Barkley and Mrs Carleton S. Hadley were married today in a brief single-ring ceremony at St. John's Methodist Church.

Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, Methodist bishop of Missouri, officiated at the simple exchange of vows. Only members of the immediate families were present, along with about 50 reporters and secret service men.

The wedding ceremony began at 11:06 a. m. CST and was finished within a few minutes. Barkley's son, David, was the best man. Mrs. Hadley was given away in marriage by her brother, William W. Rucker, West Palm Beach, Fla.

A crowd of about 2000 persons, mostly women, some of who had been standing near the church since early morning, pressed about the Singleton Memorial Chapel as the wedding progressed.

Police said the crowd was one of the hardest to control they had ever encountered. It was a good natured crowd, but determined to catch a glimpse of the nation's most famous lovebirds. One reporter, trying to press through the gathering, had his coat torn off.

The bride wore a wedding suit designed especially for her by Hattie Carnegie. It was in Barkley Blue woolen, the jacket buttoning from a small round collar, hipped in at the waistline and curving at the hipline.

An ice-blue satin blouse, also by Carnegie, had a portrait neckline. Her hat was a chiffon felt cloche with a medium ripling brim in matching Barkley Blue. Slung from her shoulder was a black velvet purse trimmed with rhinestones. She wore white doeskin gloves and black doeskin shell pumps. A fan-shaped $10,000 diamond pin, a wedding present from a friend of Barkley's, was also part of her ensemble. Her flowers were a corsage of pink roses.

Barkley wore a blue sack suit with a white pin stripe, black shoes, grey tie and a carnation in his lapel.

The bride walked with an even step and a smile down the aisle with her brother. Barkley was waiting for her at the foot of the altar with Dr. Albea Godbold, pastor of St. John's, and the ceremony began.

Mrs. Hadley repeated her vows in a soft but firm voice. Her first "I will" was barely audible at the center of the chapel but after that her words could be heard distinctly despite the noise of the crowd outside.

The "Veep" stumbled only once in the exchange of vows. That was on the "till death do us part." He got it mixed up the first time, but pulled himself together and made it, distinctly and firmly, on the second try.

At the end of the ceremony the entire audience, relatives, reporters and secret service men, joined in the Lord's Prayer.

The newlyweds left the church by a rear door but were immediately besieged by the crowd. The couple paused long enough, however, to pose for photographers and to receive the shower of rice from the crowd.

After posing, Barkley's son, David, helped the new Mrs. Barkley put on her coat. David straightened his own tie and said, "I've got to look nice to go out into that mess out there."

The Vice-President replied:

"That's no mess. That's the American people."

One woman, well-intentioned but slightly misinformed, rushed up to Barkley and said:

"Congratulations, governor!"

After leaving the church, Barkley and his bride went to the home of Mrs. T. M. Sayman for an informal lunhceon after which they were scheduled to leave on their honeymoon at an undisclosed place.

The attractive 38-year-old bride and the 71-year-old Barkley promised each other "to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, insickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death do us part . . ."

Overcast skies and a cold breeze had little effect on the spirits of the couple, or on the hundreds of persons who stood near the entrance to the church as the ceremony took place.

Mrs. Hadley was given away in marriage by her brother William W. Rucker, West Palm Beach, Fla. Best man was Barkley's son, David, who brought his wife and two children from Paducah, Ky., to witness the ceremony.

The assemblage that crowded into the tiny chapel was relatively small, considering Barkley's importance. The chapel seats only 180 persons. Thirty-four guests occupied front pews and about 180 persons. Thirty-four guests occupied front pews and about 70 reporters were seated behind them.

Television cameramen were kept outside.

Thus culminated the romance which began last spring when Barkley and Mrs. Hadley happened to be introduced to each other at a party.

The Vice-President apparently fell in love at first sighht for he began paying her court almost immediately.

Mother Persuades Son To Surrender

FORT WORTH, Nov. 18 (UP)—A mother's tearful plea over the telephone today had resulted in the surrender of her 20-year-old son, sought in a four-county crime spree that included holdups of service stations in Dallas and Denton.

Mrs. Edith Palmer of Fort Worth said her son, Lawrence Edward Byrom, called her last night from a downtown theater. A deputy sheriff earlier had notified her that the youth was the object of an intensive manhunt.

"I begged him to come to my house and give himself up," Mrs. Palmer told the Fort Worth Press. "I broke down and began crying quite a bit. He said 'Mother, you know what it means if I give myself up.'"

"Yes, I know what it means," Mrs. Palmer said she told her son, "but you've got to face it. It'll be for the best. They're sure to get you."

Hospital Election Killed In Paducah

Paducah, which just last week approved a hospital bond issue by a mere four votes, faced the problem all over again today after their county commissioners court voided the election.

Seven voters' affidavits claiming they voted in the election but were not qualified to do so, forced the court's decision.

Since it is not authorized to determine which way the seven voted, the court felt, especially in view of other purported illegal voters, to nullify the entire election.

Seed Plan Operates

With the signing last night of the Arlie cotton gin to start paying the $45.50 a ton for cottonseed, all Childress County's gins but one are offering the Production and Marketing Administration price, Doyle Thomas, secretary, said this morning.

Garden Valley, the only gin not included, will be contacted today, Thomas said. The gin had made no previous commitment, he added, and it was not known what their reaction would be. PMA trucks, however, are now hauling Garden Valley cottonseed to Childress Airfield for storage, Thomas added, which is the method in which PMA formerly handled the seed.

The Tindall Gin had not signed the agreement by this morning, Thomas explained, but it is paying the $46.50 and buying for the PMA. Thomas said he considers the gin signed based on a telephone call yesterday afternoon.

"I think the program is working smoother than any of us had expected," Thomas explained.

At present, the seed from the Carey, Loco, Arlie and Farmers Cooperative gins is being taken to the Memphis oil mill for processing, according to Thomas, while the Tell, Whites, Tindall, Shanks, Kirkland and Garden Valley gins' seed is being dumped at Childress Airfield.

Approximately 800 tons of seed are now at Childress Airfield, Thomas estimated.

Miss Roberts received her BA and MA degrees from Texas University, and has completed additional work towards another degree at Southern Methodist University, Dallas. She is the seventh person to get an orchid and recognition by the club's youth committee.

At Childress High School she taught American History, and nearly every year was chosen sponsor of the junior or senior class. She was known in high school as a good counselor for students, always taking an interest in students as individuals. Some of the most outstanding and unusual assembly programs were arranged by Miss Roberts while she taught here, according to other teachers.

Mother Saves Part Of Family As Home Burns

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 18 (UP)—A father and his two daughters burned to death in an early morning fire today, and only the stark heroism of the mother saved the entire family of seven from being wiped out.

The dead are Bennie Saldana Sr., 25 and his daughters Gloria, 3 and Dora, 7.

The fire started at 2 a. m. in the Saldana's four-room house. Authorities believed that two gas burners were not turned off last night

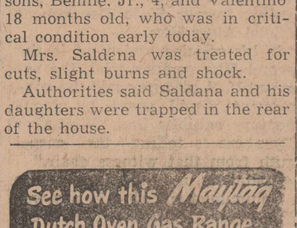

Mrs. Concepcion Saldana remembered that she pushed a chest of drawers in front of a door to keep a draft off her children.

As flames started spreading through the small house, Mrs. Saldana awakened, clutched her 27-day-old son, Andres, and took him outside.

She rushed back into the flaming structure twice to rescue two other sons, Bennie, Jr., 4, and Valentino 18 months old, who was in critical condition early today.

Mrs. Saldana was treated for cuts, slight burns and shock.

Authorities said Saldana and his daughters were trapped in the rear of the house.

Childrens' Wear Market Set For Houston Hotel

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 —Five hundred retail buyers are expected to attend the Southwest's first exclusive infants' and childrens' wear market which will be held in Houston's Rice Hotel, November 20 through 22.

The market is being sponsored by the newly-organized Southwest Chlidren's Wear Association in cooperation with the Houston Chamber of Commerce manufacturers and wholesalers committee.

Ralph Thompson, chamber committee chairman, issued a special invitation to 1500 children's wear retailers throughout the Southwest and predicted excellent representation of stores within a 300-mile radius of Houston. Buyers from as far east as Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama are also expected.

Harold K. Van Buren of Dallas, temporary association chairman, revealed that, to date, more than 100 salesmen showing some 300 lines, have signed for the Houston show. He added that 80 rooms on the 11th through 14th floors of the Rice had been reserved. This involves all the sample rooms and medium-sized bedrooms for display purposes.

Working in close harmony with the association to bring this additional market into reality is the Chamber of Commerce in Houston, which is sponsoring a breakfast for salesmen and buyers in Foley's on November 21. This will be followed by a conducted tour of the store, with special visits to its childrens and infants department.

An added attraction is a dinner party in the Rice Hotel for salesmen and buyers on Monday night.

"With such cooperation as we are receiving in Houston, the Southwest Children's Wear Association hopes to make this market experiment a permanent procedure in Houston," Van Buren said.

in a downtown bar yesterday and confessed killing little Linda Joyce Glucoft.

Rookie patrolman Arnold Carlson, 29, caught Stroble on a tip from an alert towel company driver who recognized him from newspaper photographs.

The public was so aroused over the slaying that Simpson passed up a reenactment of Linda Joyce's death and mutilation.

"We want no public disorders," he said.

The unemployed baker freely confessed to the sex slaying, Simpson reported.

"I have done a terrible thing," he said calmly, as if relieved to share the horrors that haunted his mind since Linda Joyce died Monnight. "I do not deserve to live."

The Austrian-born alien was quoted as saying he was extremely "stirred" by the pretty, brown-haired girl.

"He told us he had molested her several times before," Simpson said, "just as he made advances to other little girls in the past."

But this time, Linda Joyce became frightened. She screamed and tried to go "outside to play," Simpson quoted Stroble as saying.

TU Tri Delts House Jap Student Here To Study English Language

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 —From bamboo shoots to banana splits is the record of the University of Texas' only student from Japan.

Reiko Okada is a tiny, attractive 22-year-old graduate student in the University's English department. She is called "Ray" by the Delta Delta Delta sorority members who are providing her a home at the university. The Rev. John Barclay and members of Austin's Central Christian Church supplied the Japanese girl's transportation to the U. S.

Reiok is more than just a foreign student, and she is not a "DP" for she has a country and a home to return to. What the 19th amendment and bobbed hair meant to American women crusading for their rights, Reiko symbolizes for Japanese women.

"I had rather study American and English literature than flower arranging and tea pouring as Japanese girls used to do," Reiko said.

Before the American occupation, Japanese women were almost slaves with few privileges and no opportunity for advanced education. Now they are forging ahead in every field; several are members of the Japanese parliament, explains J. W. Riddlesperger, university government teacher who was instrumental in arranging Reiko's trip to Texas.

As background for the University of Texas Graduate School, Reiko had five and a half years of college work in Japan, most of it as a result of General Douglas MacArthur's equality proclamation for Japanese women. At Kobe College she was student body president and valedictorian.

"During the war, instead of going to school, all of us had to make airplane parts. Our school buildings were turned into factories," she explained.

"The Americans' habit of saying what they think surprises me," says Reiko. "In Japan we hide our feelings and try to be the same whatever happens. Here the students shout and almost cry at football games and they seem to have a good time always."

But the Japanese girl is looking forward to returning home to Mishinomiya to be he helpful to her people. She hopes to teach English to factory and business girls at YWCA's and summer camps in Japan, as she did before coming to the U. S.

New Cell Block Nears Completion

AUSTIN, Nov. 18 (UP)—Gov. Allan Shivers has announced that a portion of a new cell block in the state penitentiary at Huntsville would be complete and ready for occupancy by early summer.

The west one-third of the cell block is now under construction and should be ready for occupancy by "late spring or early summer," he said.

The cell block will be used primarily to segregate incorrigible inmates, the governor's report said.

The prison improvement program was authorized by the 51st Legislature, which enacted the Ellis plan, named for the prison system's general manager, O. B. Ellis.

Possible Witness Of KKK Beatings Still Held In Jail

WHARTON, Nov. 18 (UP)—A 28-year-old man who may have seen some of the alleged Ku Klux Klan floggings in Alabama last spring was still held by federal authorities today in lieu of $1000 bond.

Irving Leon Key was arrested by FBI agents in a Houston bar Wednesday night, and was charged with fleeing from Birmingham to avoid testifying December 5 in the scheduled trial of three "nightriders."

U. S. Commissioner W. F. Carothers set $1000 bond for the nattily-dressed man and ordered Key to appear at the trial in Birmingham December 5. Later, when he failed to make bond, he was remanded to the federal repository here.

The FBI declined to speculate as to whether or not bond would be made for Key by December 5, but noted that he would not be released without the necessary bond.

When arrested, Key nervously told FBI agents he had been "in hiding" in Houston the last two months. He refused to answer direct questions from reporters, but FBI men quoted him as saying he was "afraid for his life."

Grand Jury Indicts Former GI For Broadcasting On Tokyo Radio

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (UP)—A federal grand jury indicted John David Provoo of San Francisco for treason today for allegedly taking part in Tokyo propaganda broadcasts after he was captured by the Japanese at Corregidor.

Provoo, 33, former sergeant, was arrested at Governor's Island here on Sept. 2 shortly after he received his discharge for a regular term of enlistment in the army.

The grand jury, acting on evidence submitted by U. S. attorney Irving H. Saypol which was based on a four-year investigation of Provoo, charged him with 12 overt acts of treason.

The San Francisco soldier was charged specificially with responsibility for the Japanese execution of Capt. Burton C. Thomson of the U. S. Army.

Provoo allegedly reported Thompson as being "anti-Japanese and uncooperative" while both were prisoners on Corregidor.

The indictment alleged that when the Japanese captured the Philippines stronghold, Provoo "stepped forward and offered his assistance to the enemy."

It said he "shaved his head and dressed in the Japanese manner of a buddhist priest.

The indictmnet said that Capt. Thomson was executed for refusal to arrange a party for the Japanese dignitaries who visited the camp where he and Provoo were imprisoned.

The indictment further stated that Provoo gave "active aid and assistance to the Japanese in various prisoner-of-war camps" and charged him with preparing and broadcasting Japanese propaganda from 1943 to 1945.

Provoo, six-foot two-inch native of San Francisco who was employed by the federal reserve bank there before he entered the army, will be arraigned Tuesday before federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan.

The 26th American to be accused of treason in World War II, he faces a possible death sentence if convicted.

Other counts of the indictment charged him with trying to induce Col. Theodore Teague, chief signal corps officer in the Philippines, to reveal secret codes to the Japanese; helping with other broadcasts from Tokyo and Formosa and with causing an American soldier to be beaten by the Japnaese. A Japanese officer admired the soldier's boots and Provoo gave them to the officer, but the soldier refused to remove them, the indictment said.

Provoo, who gave his last address as Saugalito, Calif., said at a hearing in September that he "believed" he did broadcast for the Japanese, but wasn't sure.

At that time he was accompanied to federal court by WAC Sgt. 1/C Elizabeth McLaughlin of Valley Forge General Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa. She said they were friends but denied that they were engaged.

Provoo was released from a prison camp b ythe American army forces occupying Japan after the war. Other prisoners accused him of collaboration with the Japanese and captured records substantiated their charges, but he was permitted to serve out his army enlistment before he was arrested.

Bobcats, Cyclones Clash At 8 Tonight

BY DAVE LEWIS

Rice and Baylor are neck-and-neck coming down the stretch. Neither can afford to horse around much this Saturday.

Baylor will catch Mustang Doak Walker at his All-American peak, while Rice will invade Fort Worth to play broken-jaw Berry and the enigmatic Frogs.

Texas A&M and Texas rest up for their Thanksgiving-Day brawl, while Arkansas plays host to William & Mary.

Now there is a parley to stupify the most hardened Saturday speculator and sadden the slipping Swami.

One out of ten college grads, for example, know that lightning does not strike twice in the same place, which translated means TCU doesn't have a chance of running Wilde against the mighty Owls.

But the Swami, in a last-minute try for a bowl bid, climbs to the furthermost extremity of the limb and beholds:

TCU-Rice—The Frogs in another upset, 21-13.

SMU-Baylor—The lull before the Irish. Mustangs, 27-13.

ARKANSAS-William & Mary—The Hogs, flexing Muscles, 20-6.

Feeling unusually lucky, the Swami looks into the District 2-AA picture:

WICHITA FALLS-Vernon—After a close game, the Coyotes 19-7.

CHILDRESS-Memphis — The Bobcats in the air, 33-6.

ELECTRA-Quanah — Making their farewell, Electra, 13-6.

Electra did it, and they probably will be glad.

After several battering years with the big AA brothers, the Tigers finally dropped into Class A ball, where a 300-enrollment figure testified they belong. Graham went over to 6-AA, but the Steers just wanted to be nearer to home.

Childress and Quanah aren't much better off, from an enrollment standpoint, than Electra. School heads at both institutions have pondered the discretion of tossing in "fodder" against Wichita Falls, Lubbock, and other big AA clubs around the area.

Either could drop into Class A ball any time they wished, for it takes a special vote each year to get them into AA play.

Financially Childress will undoubtedly fare better in faster company. Fortunately they may have the talent during 1950 and 1951 to compete with the bigger schools.

But year in and year out, Childress seems likely to garner few conference crowns playing with schools which can reach into a seemingly bottomless bag of talent and come up with a title contender every year.

Childress is perhaps too big for Class A (although enrollment figures don't show it), and they're certainly too small to do well consistently in Class AA.

There should be a remedy, but no one has offered a satisfactory one yet.

Some District 2-AA followers think maybe Quanah will follow suit and get out, too, at the end of the season. If they do, the district will have to be broken up or restocked with new area teams.

It would be nice if the Texas Texas Interscholaatic alegue would join the Panhandle titans--Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Lubbock, Pampa and the like into one little group and let them commit mayhem on each other.

The lesser area elevens could be united in another district, where they might win a title occasionally and maybe even get rid of their inferiority complexes.

Of course there are geographical limitations, precendent and other factors which would prevent such a move. But it's an idea, anyway.

R. H. Templeton, who moved to God's Country from Sooner-land last week, is a hot prospect for the Childress Cats next year.

The 21-year old ex-gob was on the Amarillo Gold Sox's regular pitching staff last year before a knee injury forced him into the sooner League with Ardmore.

At Ardmore he won five and lost nine (with a jake knee) and had an earned run average of 3.28. He plugged in as an infielder and outfielder when he wasn't on the mound.

An appliance salesman at Montgomery Ward, Templeton is anxious to get back into the baseball scene if he can get a release from the Ardmore Club.

That's about all, except that a UCLA professor has applied for a patent on a radio setup which would allow coaches to send continuous messages to his quarterback. Which is all right if the television companies would allow it.

The Memphis Cyclone Whirls into town tonight to pit their solid District 2-A club against the Childress Bobcats.

Bobcat Stadium is site of the p. m. kickoff, and Coach Don Ezell's gridmen will go into a struggle slight favorite for the second time this season.

But the Cyclones have been inculcated with upset talk, and will be out to "win this one for coach." Cyclone Mentor Chuck York was assistant to Ezell during his two year stint at Memphis.

Handy wins over Canyon, Dumas, Shamrock and McClean, and a 7-to-6 win over District 2-AA's Quanah are included in the Memphis record of five wins, three losses and one tie. They bowed to Clarendon, 6 to 20, in an upset last week, dropped to Wellington, 20 to 35, and suffered a 0-to-35 setback from Lefors, one of the best Class A teams in the state.

Childress, only a two-time winner, has traveled in much faster company. They'll be out to close the season with a bang against Memphis and Quanah.

The Bobcats should enter the fray at near top strength. Halfback Kenneth Buckley, all district candidate, will be ready to spark the Bobcat ground game, and Jogalong Joe Powell has been sharpening his passing eye all week.

Childress may open up with its biggest aerial bombardment since the North Side game. The overhead game clicked well last week against Wichita Falls.

A sizable Memphis line gives the Cyclones a five-pound weight advantage per man for the starting teams. Memphis averages 171 pounds in the line, while Childress hits around 162 pounds a man. The backfields are about equal at 150 pounds.

Professional Gridder Nears Fame As 100th Consecutive Field Goal Nears

—oOo—

By Oscar Fraley

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (PU)—Balding Harvey Johnson may have a chance Sunday to right foot his way into football's all-time hall of fame as the first man to kick 100 consecutive points after touchdown and it is just about enough to make his New York Yankee coaches blush.

The kicking ace from Bridgeton, N. J., at the moment is hooked up in a race with another Jerseyman, San Francisco's Joe Vetrano, in an effort to be the first man to to accomplish this feat. Vetrano has 99 in a row and Johnson has 98—but Vetrano is idle this week end.

So the honors may go to Johnson, if the Yankees score two touchdowns and their big specialist can convert both times. Which will be another bit of satisfaction for the slope-shouldered gent who almost was lopped off the squad last fall when the new All-America Conference player limit was established.

Coach Red Strader and his staff wavered on Johnson for quite a while. They needed men who could take the pounding and it looked like the veteran place kicker might have to go. But Strader stuck with him, influenced by the fact that Johnson hadn'tt missed an extra point since September 12, 1947, and his unbroken skein of 77 straight had broken the rival National League record of 71 set in 1937 by automatic Jack Manders of the Chicago Bears.

The payoff has been handsome, for Johnson's accurate toe has won three games for the club this season. The Yanks beat Buffalo, 17-14, as Johnson kicked a field goal and two extra points. They topped Los Angeles, 10 to 7, on Johnson's field goal and extra point. And they beat Baltimore, 24 to 21, on his field goal and three extra points.

It's old stuff to the modest Harvey. After his high school days he suffered a shoulder injury at Staunton. Va., Military Academy and was out of action a whole season. During that time he "fooled around" kicking extra points and field goals.

When he reached William and Mary, where he was a crackerjack fullback, Johnson keynoted his future by kicking field goals which gave William and Mary two major upsets, both by 3 to 0 scores, over Navy and Dartmouth.

Apparently cool under fire, he still gets nervous when those records pop up. Take that 73rd kick in a row, the one which shattered Manders' mark. It struck the crossbar and just fell over. Now the 100th is coming up, the one he'd like to make before Vetrano does, if the Yanks score twice against the powerful Cleveland Browns on Sunday.

To make it worse, fans from his home town are giving him a "day" at Sunday's game. And it is an ironical note that most athletes usually are complete busts whenever they are lauded in such a manner. Johnson is keeping his fingers crossed and his legs limber.

National League Votes Robinson Most Valuable Player For 1949

—oOo—

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (PU)—Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the National League's batting and base stealing champion, today was named the most valuable player in the league for 1949, the first member of his race ever to win the honor.

A committee of 24 members of the Baseball Writers Association of Amercia—three from each league city—gave the star Negro second baseman 265 out of a possible 336 points in its annual poll, 38 points more than runner-up Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' brilliant outfielder who won the award last year. Each writer voted for 10 players in order of their value.

Robinson, one of the major factors in the Dodgers' drive to the National League pennant, received 12 first place votes, five for second place, three for third, three for fourth and one for fifth, figuring in the ballot of every one of the writers.

For Robinson, 30-year-old former U. C. L. A. football star and an army captain in the service, the most valuable player award came as a high point in one of the most highly publicized careers in baseball history.

Musial, who was runnerup for the 1949 National League batting crown with a mark of .338, received five first place votes and a total of 220 points, also figuring in every ballot cast.

Four other players were the first place choice of at least one writer. Outfielder Enos (Country) Slaughter of the Cards and shortstop Pee Wee Reese and outfielder Carl Furillo of the Dodgers received two each, and pitcher Ken Heintzelman of the Philadelphia Phillies one.

Slaughter, with a total of 181 points, was third in the poll, Reese was fifth with 118 points, Furillo sixth with 68 and Heintzelman ninth with 48.

Completing the top 10 were outfielder Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the major league home run champion, who was fourth with 133 points; pitcher Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves, seventh with 60 points; pitcher Don Newcombe of Brooklyn, eighth with 55, and second baseman Al (Red) Schoendiest of the Cards, 10th with 30.

Playoff Berths At Stake In AA Football Chase

By Unitedn Press

It's payoff time again tonight in the state Class AA schoolboy football race with three district titles sure to be decided and seven more at the stage where the favorites can at least clinch a tie and a championship playoff berth by winning.

Two games were played in the City Conference last night, but neither of them had any immediate bearing on title races. Dallas Crozier Tech romped over North Dallas 38-7 and Houston Lamar beat Houston S. F. Austin 20-7.

Top game on tonight's program sends Temple to Corsicana with the 13-AA title probably in the balance.

Sure to be decided tonight were the titles in 2-AA, where unbeaten, untied Wichita Falls plays Vernon; 12-AA, where undefeated, but tied Baytown, plays Galveston, and 14-AA, where Austin and Corpus Christi meet for the crown.

In addition, Lubbock could clinch 3-AA by defeating Midland, Abilene could take 5-AA by downing Big Spring, Breckenridge could win 6-AA with a victory over Mineral Wells, Conroe could grab 10-AA by downing Palestine, Harlingen could be the 16-AA winner by defeating Brownsville and San Jacinto could sack up the Houston title by edging Reagan.

GRATITUDE is one of the most beautiful of virtues, and ingratitude one of the most baneful of vices. If children are under obligation to give thanks to human parents . . . how much more are ALL under obligation to give thanks to GOD! We owe it to HIM; we owe it to our fellows; we owe it to ourselves.

WE owe GOD thanks for all things . . . for the beautiful season called THANKSGIVING. Moreover, "HE GIVETH US ALL THINGS RICHLY TO ENJOY." Each moment, hour, day adds to our obligation. It is still true that His mercies "are new every morning." Gratitude to Him should find expression in THANKS-GIVING and THANKS-LIVING.

WE owe thankfulness to our fellows. Gratitude is contagious and bears gladness, strength, enrichment. Unconsciously each gives blessing or bane to others. Decency demands that each avoid giving hurt and strive diligently to give help.

WE owe it to ourselves to give thanks. Gratitude may find expression in attitude, utterance, and activity. We are ourselves beneficiaries of habitual thankfulness, or victims of thanklessness. We have abundant occasion for thanksgiving. We should join the chorus and, "PRAISE GOD FROM WHOM ALL BLESSINGS FLOW." Go to your church on Sunday.

Marriage Counselor Sees Success For The Vice-President's Marriage

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (UP)—A 33-year difference in age can keep many men and women from finding real happiness in a December-June marriage, but the problem should be several times easier to solve when the man is Vice-President of the United States, one of the nation's noted marriage counselors said today.

Dr. Abraham Stone, president of the American Association of Marriage Counselors and winner of the 1947 Lasker award for his distinguished leadership in that field, said that 38-year-old Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley and 71-year-old Vice President Alben Barkley should be able to look forward to "15 years or more of a good, happy life together."

"Maybe he will live even longer than that," Dr. Stone said. "We are fortunate in having a Vice-President who is so vigorous."

Dr. Stone said the fact that Mrs. Hadley had been married before and presumably replaced the romantic illusions of youth with an understanding of "the need to make compromises and cooperate" should also make the difference in age between her and her bridegroom less of a problem.

The fact that Barkley is Vice-President of the United States has two advantages, Dr. Stone said. First of all, it should prove that he's a good deal younger in both body and spirit than most men his age.

"Age can no longer be counted chronologically," Dr. Stone said.

Secondly, he said, the Vice-President's social and political position offer an excitement for both his bride and his new step-daughters which could, if necessary, make up for any limitations imposed by his age.

The burden of making any "December and May" marriage a success is largely on the woman, if she is the younger, Dr. Stone said.

"She must adjust the tempo of her life to his," he said. "If she finds he is unable to keep up with her more youthful energies, she must find an outlet for them by participating actively in work or cultural pursuits outside her home.

"Like Eleanor Roosevelt," said Dr. Stone, "she had an active life of her own and participated in the events of the day without calling upon the energies of her husband."

Dr. Stone said there were three major reasons why people married and the most important of them is "companionship and the sharing of life together."

Physical gratification, he said, is second in importance. The begetting of children he placed third. And lots of couples, Dr. Stone said, have eminently happy marriages through gratification of only two of those three essential desires.

The probability that the young bride must look forward to years of widowhood is of minor importance in even an age and youth marriage, Dr. Stone said:

"After all, most women outlive their husbands these days."

Marriage Seems In The Air, One Way Or Another

By United Press

While the nation concentrated on the headline wedding of Vice President Alben Barkley today and the rumored altar plans of New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer, a few footnotes to marriage were being written across the nation.

Andrew McAffrey, of Miami, Okla., a 75-year-old groom of six months, advised the 71-year-old Barkley in a congratulatory letter, that he "could make a go" of his marriage if he gave 38-year-old Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley "a whipping every morning, if she needs it, and a kiss every night."

McAffrey is 35 years older than his wife and 50 pounds lighter. He said he did not consider his marriage a June-December match and he "saw no reason why the Barkley's should either."

While 59-year-old Mayor O'Dwyer and lovely Sloan Simpson, 33-year-old model, have not set a date, it was rumored that they may wed at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., this week end.

A 65-year-old bride of last February was equally reluctant to reveal any news about her marriage. Mrs. Barkeley Burris at Bristow, Okla., confirmed that she is seeking a divorce from her 72-year-old husbnad, but said "that's all I'll tell."

The Burrises were first married in 1904. They were separated a few months later when Burris went to Texas to hunt a job and never returned. When Mrs. Burris was advised that her husband was dead, she remarried.

Four years ago Mrs. Burris' second husband died and Burris reappeared to woo her. They were married. Then Burris discovered that he had lost his old age pension when he left Texas to live in Oklahoma. Mrs. Burris is charging him with non-support, cruelty, and desertion.

In Chicago Joan Schettler, 19, planned to marry a second time. She had fallen in love with the man her first husband impersonated.

Joan married Thomas Henry, 17, last July. Thomas was too young to get a marriage license, so he passed himself off to Joan as his elder brother, Neil, and used Neil's birth certificate to satisfy the legal requirements.

When 21-year-old Neil came home from the merchant marine, Joan discovered the deception and won an annulment. Yesterday Joan's lawyer came back to court and asked Judge Rudolph Desert that Joan wants to marry Neil.

"It was love at first sight," said the lawyer.

JUST THINKING

BY FRANK HATT

Quite a discussion took place in the bus that went through the county inspecting farms Tuesday.

It happened when the bus was stopped and the group was looking at some low land which a farmer had planted in feed with good results. Someone remarked that next year many more would be planting feed because of cotton restrictions.

Then a man from Texas A. and M. Extension Service spoke up and said he was impelled to point out that it would not work without building fences. He said farmers in this section should build many more fences and keep a lot more livestock.

A little way down the road there was a fence and it was nearly covered with sand that had drifted against it and weeds. Another person said that fences would all go that way if they were not carefully looked after.

And some argued for livestock and some against it. Personally, I don't know enough about it to take a stand either way but hope to learn.

The important point is that our agricultural leaders are enough concerned to investigate and discover the best crops and methods for farming this area. Farmers would do well to heed their advice.

Rubinoff has come and gone and his stay in Childress I think was a huge success.

At four school appearances and the afternoon concert the kids loved him. And he talked to them and gave them something to think about.

People are still talking about the night performance which attracted over 500 persons. Most of those who heard him were inspired by his beautiful interpretations.

I have heard several say it was the finest performance they ever listened to. Others said it was too short, although it lasted two hours.

Rubinoff was well pleased with Childress. He said the students were above the average in their behavior, and the cooperation from Superintendent Joe Gibson and the school leaders was wonderful.

They installed a spot light for him in the auditorium and he remarked that someone suggested it be called the "Rubinoff spotlight."

I think it was fine for him to come to Childress without a guarantee. He did well financially and I think that when everything is accounted for the Lions Club will realize some for their sight conservation fund.

These concert tours are hard work physically, as he plays at so many school assemblies. Probably after a couple more years, during which he will visit Europe he will go back to radio. And methinks several Childress friends will be listening to him regularly.
