Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig Conducting Seventh Annual Avalanche-Journal Event Here

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Woman's Editor

LONG before the time of opening yesterday afternoon, a crowd of women filled the Uptown Dance Palace to hear Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig in her initial lecture and demonstration.

This was the opening of the seventh annual free cooking school sponsored by the Avalanche-Journal Publishing company for women of this section. Programs will be held this afternoon, Wednesday and Thursday with Mrs. Ihrig, who is a nationally famous home economist, presiding.

Each lecture will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock and doors of the palace will be open at 2 o'clock for the crowd to gather. Many women were registering at the door yesterday before 2 and by 2:30 no more seats were available. Several hundred additional chairs will be placed in the hall this morning for the lecture this afternoon.

Music On Program

A program of music will start at 2 o'clock each day and will be climaxed by a special feature. Today Elizabeth Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Spencer and pupil Miss Lula Mae Cravens, will read. Yesterday afternoon Little Arvesta Lea Green, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Green and dancing pupil of Miss Mollie B. Hopson, gave a toe dance and reading. She was accompanied at the piano by Glen Oliver, painist for Rajah Kilgore's orchestra.

A box is to be placed at the registration table each afternoon and those who attend may place suggestions in this box or ask questions that they wish to have answered. Questions may be asked from the floor during the school and Mrs. Ihrig will be glad to answer

National Referendum on Pro Law Is Advocated by Raskob

Chairman of Democratic National Committee Tells What Party Would Do If in Power in Radio Broadcast

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. —A national referendum on prohibition was advocated tonight by Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee in a radio address outlining a six-point program for the Democrats "if they were in power."

Speaking over the national broadcasting chain, Raskob also urged a five-day week for workingmen and asserted no country in the world "was ever in as splendid position to go forward and enjoy a period of prosperity as our country is today." He added that "business is now turning upward."

In addition, the Democratic national chairman advocated hearings by the federal trade commission to determine in advance whether proposed combinations were desirable, abolishment of the capital gain and capital loss tax taking the tariff out off politics, and caution by congress in making sure proposed legislation "squares with good economics" in an effort to promote prosperity.

Answers Republicans

"The Republicans ask what would the Democrats do if they were in power," Raskob said. "I gladly suggest some of the things to be done."

Raskob, a director of the association against the prohibition amendment, said there was "no one in this country that can have any misgivings as to where I stand on the prohibition question." He added there "seems to be very little serious attempt to really enforce it."

"It is a sorry plight indeed," he continued, "to see sincere and well informed women in other walks of life whose mission is to teach and develop the best in all of us, unconsciously working hand in hand with bootleggers and racketeers in an effort to deny the people of the United States an opportunity to vote on his great social experiment after a 10-year trial."

Hold-up Theory Is Discredited

Austin Man Making Fight for Life After Being Shot by Unknown Assailants; Fire Member of Sheriff's Dept.

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—While Will Owens, 50 fought a desperate battle for life after being shot through the lungs and left beside a lonely road all night county officers today were investigating their belief that robbery was not the motive for the shooting.

Sheriff Coley White who discharged an employee of his office today after learning of the employee's failure to answer a call telling of the man's body lying alongside the road, said officers found a wallet with money in it which Owens' two assailants did not take. Owens had said he lost a small amount of money.

Cries Are Heard

Owens was held up, he told police, on the road near the state school for the colored deaf, dumb and blind, just outside the city limits. His cries were heard by Mrs. Margaret Walston, but fearing a holdup, she did not stop.

She notified police she had seen the body of a man lying by the roadside, but it was outside police jurisdiction and they notified county officers. A number of similar calls had been made to county officers recently and fruitlessly investigated, and this one was not answered.

Found By Milkman

Owens was found at 4:30 o'clock this morning by a milkman starting on his route, after lying several hours unable to aid himself or to attract the attention of passersby.

Sheriff White said it appeared Owens was forced to turn his back on the automobile in which the two supposed holdup men were riding, and then was shot in the back.

Owens could give only a meager description of the men who shot him, or the automobile.

PAMPA MAN KILLED

Body Found Near Package of Poison at Cisco

CISCO, Oct. 27. (AP)—The body of W. A. Duerr, about 30, manager of the Cabot carbon black plants at Pampa, was found in a hotel room here today. Near the body was a package of powder believed to be poison and a note which requested that the carbon black company be notified.

Indications were Duerr had been dead several hours when a bell boy discovered the body. A coupe belonging to Duerr was stored in a garage last night. The body was taken to a funeral home pending advices from relatives and an inquest.

General Armistice Reigns in Brazil

(By The Associated Press)

A general armistice reigns in Brazil while leaders of the successful revolutionary movement that began October 3 are negotiating with the military and naval junta that recently overthrew President Washington Luis in the capital.

The complexities in the political situation apparently have begun to clear up nationally, but are still threatening locally.

The revolt of a regiment of military police at Rio De Janeiro was one of the signs that tranquility and ordered government have yet to be attained in the biggest of South American republics. For about two hours several districts of the capital were a battlefield for soldiers, sailors, marines and police. The casualties were estimated at more than a hundred, but the consequences were considered to be less serious.

Millionaire Sportsman to Be Buried on Wednesday

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. —(AP)—Funeral services for Harry Payne Whitney, millionaire sportsman who died last night, will be held Wednesday morning at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church in Park avenue. Only members of the family will attend. Burial, at Woodlawn cemetery, also will be private.

Mr. Whitney died of pneumonia, which developed from a cold he contracted last Tuesday. Saturday his condition took a rapid turn for the worse and grew more grave until his death.

Fifteen Cities Combat Unemployment

Programs Held Up as Models By Col. Woods

Chairman of Hoover's Emergency Committee Asks Other Cities to Study Plans for Best Solution to Problem

Will Provide Jobs

Principle of Offering Work Is Favored Instead of Giving Loaf of Bread; Is Not Pessimistic About Outlook

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Programs to combat unemployment already undertaken by 15 large cities were held up today as models for the rest of the country by Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the president's emergency committee.

He urged other cities to study the programs already worked out by New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Toledo, Salt Lake City, and others that they might find in one of them the plan that would best meet local conditions.

Jobs Provided

The principle of the programs was the unemployed man should be given a job instead of merely a loaf of bread.

Until the time that every man competent to work has a job there must be relief, he said, but the real problem is to find the job. He suggested that it ought to be a job that really needs to be done, not one that is artificially created.

Colonel Woods is not pessimistic about the outlook. He believes conditions are better now, taking the country as a whole, than they were in 1921, when he headed President Harding's employment commission. But in spots, conditions are worse, he believes. He considers the middle western lake states, New York and Pennsylvania to be the hardest hit.

He said figures furnished him in Washington showed an estimated 3,500,000 persons out of work.

Rail Meeting To Be Staged

Between 1,000 and 1,500 Are Expected at Amarillo Meet from Towns Along Proposed Route of Texas-Pacific Line

Between 1,000 and 1,500 representatives of towns on the proposed route of the Texas & Pacific railroad from Big Springs to Vega are expected to attend a luncheon Friday noon in the Herring hotel at Amarillo, attaches of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce announced late Monday.

Object of the meeting is to discuss means of expediting start of construction in connection with the proposed rail project and to stimulate interest in it.

Notice of the luncheon assembly was received here from John P. Slaton, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Slaton said that the Amarillo chamber had been notified by the Texas & Pacific railroad of its approval of the gathering and that President Lancaster and other officials of the road will attend.

A committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will meet today or Wednesday, preliminary to beginning a canvass of persons to attend the meeting in Amarillo. All Lubbock residents who can attend, both men and women, were urged to do so, in a statement by chamber of commerce officials late Monday.

BARRIERS LIFTED

Dying Wish of Late Solon to Be Carried Out by Party

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 27. (AP) —Democratic and Republican state organizations, in separate meetings today, threw aside political differences and lifted all barriers in their power to assure the dying wish of the late Otis T. Wingo that his widow succeed him as representative of the fourth Arkansas congressional district.

Mrs. Effie Jean Wingo was chosen unanimously by the Democratic central committee as the party's nominee, both for Mr. Wingo's term expiring March 4, 1931, and for the succeeding two-year term, for which he had been nominated without opposition. Her name will appear on the ballot Nov. 4 for both terms.

Youth Held Here On Forgery Count

An 18-year-old boy whom county officers said had forged nine checks in Lubbock since September 27 was arrested late Monday by Deputy Sheriff O. B. Conley at the home of the youth's parents, two and a half miles east of Girard, Kent county.

Forgery charges will be entered against the youth today, county officers said. Officers claim the youth stole 27 cream checks from the Swift & Company agent at Brownfield and three from the Swift agent at Spur.

All of the checks, ranging from about $6 to $12, were made payable to and signed by names of actual persons, officers said. A total of about $125 was obtained by the forgeries, they said. The boy had been sought since the first forgeries were reported. He confessed to forging the checks, officers said.

Naval Treaty Effective in Three Nations

End of Competition in Navy Construction Foreseen by President Hoover, Ramsey MacDonald and Hamaguchi

(By The Associated Press)

The end of competition between nations in naval construction was foreseen yesterday by President Hoover, Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Premier Hamaguchi of Japan in a world wide broadcast marking the beginning of effectiveness of the London naval treat.

The three spoke from the capitals of the signatory powers shortly after the instruments of ratification had been deposited in London.

Marks Forward Step

Asserting that the treaty, which for the first time binds three major naval powers to limitation of all types of fighting vessels, marked a step forward in international cordiality, the three spokesmen expressed hope that France and Italy which left the London conference after they were unable to agree on a tonnage ratio, soon would join in signing the pact.

"Relinquishment of competitive building among the three great naval powers with its consequent contributions to the security of the world is the greatest significance of this treaty," President Hoover said.

"If the limitations now established can be maintained we may look forward with assurance to the fact that future conferences will find it easier to bring about further steps in reduction. Never again must a race in naval armaments be allowed to develop."

The treaty was described by the president as "fair to all and dangerous to none," and substituting mutual trust, goodwill and confidence for suspicion and competition.

OFFICERS DECOYED

Police Efficiency Impaired Before Gang Slaying

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—The assassins of Joe Aiello decoyed all officers available for emergency duty from the Fillmore street police station before ambushing the gang leader Thursday night, investigators revealed tonight.

Emergency squads from the station which has jurisdiction over the territory where the slaying occurred were kept busy answering faked telephone calls obviously placed by accomplices of the killers, Detectives Rocco Feletti and William Balzano, in charge of the investigation, said.

The accomplices thought by this means, they added, to impair the efficiency of police in searching for the killers.

The two detectives said they learned the killers had been given $10,000 each for their work.

Man Who Hit Boy Disappears After Carrying Victim to His Home; Name, License Number Not Obtained

STRUCK by an automobile, C. W. White, nine-near-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. White, 216 Avenue H, suffered a slight skull fracture immediately back of the left ear and a severely bruised hand late Monday afternoon.

The attending physician at West Texas hospital said the boy's injury would not prove serious, unless there were complications. The accident occurred at Third street and Avenue H.

Driver of the automobile which hit the boy, picked up the victim and carried him into his home. The driver disappeared without his name being learned, however, police reported. License number of the machine, a model-T Ford, was not obtained.

South Plains Man May Lose Eyesight

Facial injuries and possibly loss of sight in one eye were suffered about noon Saturday by J. Griffin, of South Plains, in a delayed explosion of dynamite with which he was blasting rock south of Tatum. Griffin was received at Lubbock sanitarium late Saturday.

An employe of Armstrong and Armstrong, Roswell contractors, Griffin was blasting in connection with highway work. Although ordered to use four sticks of dynamite in loosening rock, Griffin planted only two, believing them to be sufficient, he said Monday.

After lighting fuses on the two sticks Griffin and fellow employes ran to safety. When the dynamite did not explode, Griffin returned to investigate.

As he reached the sticks, they exploded, showering rock particles into his face and neck. Surgeons picked the rock bits from Griffin after he was taken to the hospital.

One eye was badly injured and physicians said chance of saving its sight was remote.

Disappearance Case Unsolved

Second Special Delivery Letter from Missing Banker Strengthens Kidnaping Theory; Woman Silent

(By The Associated Press)

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 27. —The mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance Saturday of Earl Yocum, Galva bank president, was intensified today by receipts of a second special delivery letter mailed to Mrs. Yocum from nearby Kewanee, Illinois.

County authorities, believing the bank president might have been the victim of an extortion ring in Chicago, had conducted an extensive search for Yocum, but suddenly dropped the case after the missing banker's wife declined to take them into her confidence.

Any future moves, they said, were "up to Mrs. Yocum."

Yocum, president of banks at Galva and Aurelia, Iowa, was believed kidnaped by two men who accosted him in front of his home Saturday night. The receipt of two special delivery letters by his wife strengthened the theory that he was being held for ransom.

Spur High School Put on Probation, Criticized for Conduct of Athletics

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—Resolutions severely criticizing and reprimanding school officials of Spur for irregularities in the conduct of the school's athletics, were adopted here tonight by the executive committee of the Texas scholastic league following a lengthy session. The school was placed on probation by the committee but was not expelled.

The executive committee sustained the charges of the district committee in which it was held that undue influence and pressure was brought to bear by officials of the Spur school on officials of the Dickens school to obtain a transfer certificate for Grady Edgar from Dickens to Spur and to obtain an additional credit which would make him eligible for interscholastic

Carter Wanted In Jail Break And Burglary

Fingerprints of Man Held at Crosbyton in Connection with Ralls Shooting Show He Is Former Convict

(Special To The Avalanche)

CROSBYTON, Oct. 27.—Fingerprints of Jimmie Carter, 24, of Tucson, Ariz., arrested at Ralls after he had received a flesh wound in a shooting affray with officers Friday, revealed that he is wanted by Lincoln, Neb., authorities for burglary and jail breaking and had served a term in the Oklahoma penitentiary at McAalister for burglary, Crosby county officers said Monday night.

Two charges of assault to commit murder, one of carrying a concealed weapon and another of driving an automobile with improper license plates were entered against Carter in justice court here. A concealed weapon charge was filed against a woman arrested with Carter.

Freed From Pen

Official report received here was that Carter was sentenced to five years in the Oklahoma penitentiary on a burglary charge in 1922 and was released after serving a year and eight months. Whether he was pardoned or paroled was not learned here.

License plates on an automobile which Carter had when arrested were stolen from another car in San Angelo, and the machine in Carter's possession was stolen at Holliday, Crosby county officers said.

Efforts to identify Carter as the lone bandit who held up a Wichita Falls theatre recently failed Sunday when he was viewed by the cashier from whom the money was obtained.

Carter and the woman arrested with him are in the county jail here.

Dyer Held on Narcotic Law Charges Here

Former Tech Student, School Teacher Makes Confession to Selling Dope; Fails to Make Bond of $2,500

A former school teacher, Milton Collins Dyer, 31, who officers said had confessed that lack of money led him to begin selling narcotics five weeks ago, was in the Lubbock county jail Monday night, unable to post $2,500 bond, fixed at a preliminary hearing on a federal charge of selling narcotics before United States Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey.

The case, which is the first bearing on narcotics here in recent years, will be presented to the federal grand jury which will meet here December 8, Commissioner Lindsey said. There are three cases of narcotics sale and as many of possession against Dyer, according to Sheriff Wade Hardy.

Morphine Found

First hint of Dyer's activities was received by Sheriff Hardy, Friday night, the officer said. Dyer was arrested in a Lubbock hotel at about 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning by members of the sheriff's department and an agent of the United States treasury department. About $300 worth of morphine in capsules was found on Dyer's person and hidden in his room at a rooming house in the 1600 block of Main street, Sheriff Hardy said.

The narcotics suspect has a wife and three children in California, he told officers. A written confession of his activities was made by Dyer to the federal agent, Commissioner Lindsey said.

Insisting that he had not sold the drugs until about five weeks ago, Dyer said that he had been "broke" and turned to the "dope" traffic obtaining narcotics from Oklahoma. He is not a drug addict himself, officers said.

Attended Tech

Colleges which Dyer said he attended several months or more each were Texas Technological college, West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, East Texas State Teachers college at Commerce, North Texas State Teachers college at Denton and Southwest Texas State Teachers college at San Marcos.

Last school year, for about five months, Dyer told officers he was

One Man Blown From Shaft to Instant Death

McAlester, Oklahoma, Relief Squads Dispatched to Scene of Blast After First News of Disaster Received

Appeal to Legion

Explosion Occurs Near Mine Where Sixty-one Persons Met Death Last December in Similar Blast

(By The Associated Press)

MCALESTER, Okla., Oct. 27. —Twenty-nine men were entombed by an explosion in the Samples No. 4 coal mines a mile west of the city limits tonight. One man, blown from the shaft by the force of the blast, was dead.

First news of the explosion came when an emergency call was sent to an American Legion relief committee which was attending a band concert. Relief squads were dispatched to the mine immediately.

The mine is about a mile from the old town coal mine where 61 men were killed in an explosion last December.

The dead man was William Donley.

The mouth of the mine, a slope pit, was blocked by debris from the blast, and rescue crews were baffled in their first attempts to reach the imprisoned men, whose fate was unknown.

The cause of the explosion was a mystery. Its detonation was heard in McAlester, two miles from the scene.

The entombed men were members of a crew that went on duty at 7 o'clock tonight.

Trained rescue crews of miners gathered at the mine soon after the explosion and had not been able to enter the wrecked shaft late tonight.

A group of American Legion members, who were called from a relief committee meeting by news of the explosion, took charge outside the mine and held back the anxious crowd of relatives and friends.

Workers estimated it would be five or six hours before they could clear away the wreckage in the shaft sufficiently to enter the mine.

Social Session Follows Program At Young Matron's Meeting

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

ANOTHER cooking school is in progress and many of Lubbock's housewives are using this opportunity to learn something new about cookery from one who makes her business to offer advice.

These schools will not solve every problem of the household in four short days. No one believes that they will. But they do offer new dishes and new menus and kitchen aids to the housewife who has the monotonous task of preparing three meals a day for the 365 days of the year. There is no woman, I believe who does not at times feel that the task of preparing something new for her family to eat is a hopeless task. Lectures and demonstrations such as Mrs. Ihrig is offering here will have in them something that will help such a woman.

Mrs. Ihrig is going to tell some of us things that we already know. She is going to tell others of us lots of things that we have not known before. But for everyone she has something to offer. She has spent a part of this year in sections of the country where many of us have not been. She has studied cooking and picked up new and unusual recipes, combining the staples that are found in every normal household. She knows short cuts; she has had a wealth of training and experience in the mechanics of managing a home and will have some valuable suggestions to offer.

There are many good cooks in Lubbock and there are many women who excel in the art or science of home making, but there is no one woman in this town, or in any other, who knows all that there is to know on the subject. A cooking school, such as this, offers each one an opportunity to learn new things and to bring her knowledge before other women of the community.

MORE ABOUT CAMP FIRE

MY explanation about the financing of Camp Fire work in Lubbock was not full enough last week. Mrs. George C. Wolffarth, representing the council, came to see me and brought a copy of the constitution and by-laws for the local council which explains what the duties are.

If you will remember, I had said that it was necessary for each Camp Fire group to raise a sum of money during the year to meet running expenses and that all of the money from the Community Chest fund went to the council.

The council spends this money, after all, in promoting the good of the various groups, Mrs. Wolffarth pointed out. The local executive is hired by this group to train leaders or guardians, and to supervise the general work of Camp Fire in the city; and the council is responsible for the summer encampment which is provided annually for the girls.

"Girls in the various groups need the training that they get in financing their organizations; we expect them to do this as a part of their constructive education in Camp Fire works," Mrs. Wolffarth continued.

There is something in that, too. Camp Fire, when it is organized according to the purpose of the national organization, is not merely a social group among girls of the teen age. The aim of the society is to develop leadership and citizenship among the girls and a part of this development comes through allowing the girls to do things themselves under proper supervision.

The purpose of the local council is in accordance with the national program and is stated as "to develop local responsibility for leadership and supervision of groups of Camp Fire Girls; to further the extension of the Camp Fire Girl movement, for the conduct of a Camp Fire Girls' Camp, and for the employment of workers; to promote the general welfare of the Camp Fire Girl movement; and to enlarge Camp Fire Girl activities in this district."

There is one thing that I want the council members to understand and that is that I am in favor of Camp Fire Work. However, I still think that the thing I said the other day was apropos to the thing I was explaining. I am probably not the only person in town who had wondered why it is that with the Camp Fire a Community Chest project, the girls find it necessary to raise additional funds. My explanation at that time was that the Community Chest funds are used by the council and that the various groups must raise money for separate expenses.

Unmarried American Woman Earns More Money Than Her Sisters Who Are Married, According to Research

(By The Associated Press)

ANN ARBOR, Mich. Oct. 27. The more education an advanced American woman gets the more she tends to devote her life to social service instead of making money.

The farther she is from marriage the higher her income—that is, unmarried women earn most, widows and divercees next, and married ones least.

These findings apply to 14,073 business and professional women, classified as "above the wage-earning level," who answered questions of the bureau of business research of the University of Michigan. The answers were compiled by Professor Margaret Elliott and Grace E. Manson. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs cooperated in the questionnaires, and three-fourths of those answering were employed in commercial, educational and manufacturing organizations.

The average income was $1,662 annually and only 6.7 per cent earned $3,000 or more.

"Women who have been graduated from a college or university," says the report, "are earning more in every kind of work than women with less education."

Here's the reason every can of HILLS BROS COFFEE is so fresh

AS FAST as Hills Bros. Coffee comes from the roasters which produce the famous flavor, it is packed in vacuum cans. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. No air-tight can will keep coffee fresh. Hills Bros.' vacuum can is easily opened with the key.

Controlled Roasting gives Hills Bros. Coffee a flavor no other coffee has.

Fall Buying Brings Increase In Business; Panhandle Is Only White Spot East Of California On Conditions Map

(Special To The Avalanche)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — Although the seasonal improvement in trade and industry was not up to expectations, the end of September saw indications that fall buying had got under way, with a consequent livening up of a number of industries says Frank Greene in his monthly review of business in Nation's Business, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The gain in fall buying, Mr. Greene believes, has produced a stimulating effect upon the business morale of the country. "Regardless of whatever future disadvantages and drawbacks may develop," he says, it has been demonstrated that there is a volume of trade to be done, at a price perhaps, but enough done or in prospect to hearten the business world.

August Saw Bottom

"While it is yet too early to speak of September trade and industrial volume," he continues, "it seems as though August saw the bottom for the year. Finally it may be said that conservative opinion seems now as heretofore to be content to labor and wait rather than to rush into print with predictions, setting definite dates for full resumptions of operations in the country's trade and industries."

Mr. Greene finds that "September was a many-sided month in the number and character of its various movements, with results so varied that it would be hard to recall a thirty-day period which was more irregular.

Other Laws Show Up

"For one thing," he says, "it witnessed an outburst of belated liquidation in stocks on which new low levels for the year were touched. This was followed by a smart rally, but early October saw renewed weakness and other lows established.

"September also witnessed even sharper downward movements in the commodity index numbers, especially those of farm products. On these the lowest prices in 15 years were scored, to the accompaniment of almost panicky movements in wheat due to the 'Russian scare' which evaporated almost as quickly as it started.

"Partly because of the sympathetic break with wheat in other farm produce, partly because of renewed weakness in other commodities, some imported and some the products of domestic mines or mills, the month saw the so-called stabilized commodity-price index numbers lowered to levels not touched since October, 1915.

Bands Rising

"One feature in the semi-speculative markets was the continued rise of the market for high-class bonds, a movement noted for months past and having its mainspring in the lowest rates for money registered since the beginning of the World War.

"The returns of September movement available as this is written are not numerous and few are of real importances as trade and industrial indexes. Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange in September exceeded by 5.4 per cent those of September a year ago. This, by the way, was the first gain since April. At the end of September sales for the year were only 2 per cent below the total at the same date a year ago, the one conspicuous effect traceable to low money rates.

"Stock sales declined 46 per cent in September from those of September a year ago, and for the year to date were 30 per cent lower.

"Bank clearings fell 30.5 per cent below September a year ago, as against a decline of 34 per cent in August. They were 19.7 per cent, or about one-fifth, below the first nine months of 1929. Debits, for only four weeks of September, fell 40.9 per cent below the like weeks of last year and the decrease for the year to date was 24.7 per cent.

MUST BE FUMIGATED

All Cotton Moving Out Of The Pecos Valley Under Rule

ROSWELL, Oct. 27. —(Special)— Effective October 20 all cotton moving out of the Pecos valley, including Chaves and Eddy counties, must be fumigated, R. W. Rogers, representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cotton quarantine, at Carlsbad, has been advised. Orders came from the department at Washington through the branch offices at San Antonio, Texas.

Bale cotton and samples must be fumigated, Mr. Rogers was advised. More than 5,000 bales has already been shipped.

The measure is being enforced to prevent the spread of the pink boll worm, which has been discovered in Eddy county fields, it is reported here.

A LESSON FROM 'LEGS.'

JACK 'LEGS' DIAMOND is a long way removed from Lubbock and the South Plains. Folks out this way are little interested in his racketeering activities, his delving into the mysteries of illict love. But behind the incident which sent the gangster to the hospital, bleeding from bullets from enemy guns, there is a lesson if one but recognizes it.

After Diamond, king pin of Gotham's hoodlum bosses, had been held in a New York hospital several days, hovering between life and death, there came a rumor that the hospital was to be bombed by 'competitors' in the booze business. It was decided to move the redoubtable Mr. Diamond, in the interest of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness for all concerned.

But Mr. Diamond demurred. Maybe he feared his being moved was just a part of a sinister gangland plot to finish what the gunman had failed to do. At any rate, he opposed the moving scheme until he could confer with his wife.

Now little has been said of Mrs. Diamond since leaden pellets laid low her spouse. To be sure, New York papers ran her pictures, there was some mention of Mr. Diamond's having a wife—but most of the feminine touch in the story has been supplied by a red-haired young chorus girl who has told the world that "Jack is my only love!"

This tawny-thatched young woman occupied a room in the hotel where Diamond was shot. The room was next to that occupied by the gangster and an investigation of the sordid affair has brought out that Diamond had been paying her hotel bills.

She was his 'girl friend', his play-fellow, if you please. His wife, it appears, must be content to sit at home while the Great One played. The chorus lady supplied his feminine thrill.

But what did Diamond do when confronted with being moved from his hospital in the face of danger; upon whom did he call? Was it the young lady with whom he breakfasted on the morning he was shot? Was it the 'Girl Friend?'

No, it was not. It was the wife, to whom he has been married these many years, whom he delegated to a back seat in favor of the theatrical lady. She held his confidence, if not his more riotous affections. It was to her that the gunman turned in time of dire need.

And 'Legs' Diamond, underworld chief, acted just as many other men would and do act in time of need. The "light 'o love" is forgotten in distress. They flee to the patient woman to whom they have been linked through the ordinances of God and man. The 'Girl Friend' is a 'good time Charlie.' She doesn't count in a pinch.

Whether it be the darning of a sock, the sewing on of a button, the administering hand in time of illness—that's when the wife comes in for too many men who would forget her when the sun is shining and all is well. There's a lesson in 'Legs' Diamond's case, and it's application in every city, town and hamlet in our country.

Isn't it too bad that the friend in need is so often forgotten when the need isn't so urgent?

HIGHWAYS OF PROGRESS

No more appropriate place than the national capital of the United States could have chosen for the sixth international road congress, for was it not the United States that motorized the world and led the way in modern highway construction?

Highway experts from 60 nations gathered for this congress to learn and counsel in highway construction, maintenance, supervision and financing. It is increditable that nothing notable will come from such a conference.

What is the most important thing the visitors will take back with them from America? It will be the fact that a quarter of a century ago the American people were relatively immobile because they had few improved highways and today are extremely mobile with 600,000 miles of hard-surface roads and 26,000,000 motor vehicles. They will return home dreaming of the social and economic revolution such a vast highway program would work in their own countries.

Fundamentally, these highway engineers are the vanguard of modern life, for to a large extent the economic progress of the world for the next few centuries will depend largely upon highway extension. New roads will open new markets, extend the frontiers of western civilization and restore world trade.

Adoption of canned foods wasn't really a social revolution. It only sounded like one in newlyweds' dining rooms.

The Republican administration blamed the low price of wheat on the communists because it couldn't find any Democrats to pin it on.

The Ohio newspaper that complains of "rural Republican apathy" is finding its alibis early.

TEN CONTESTS OUT OF THIRTY-FIVE IN 1930 BATTLE FOR SENATE SEATS ARE OVER WET-AND-DRY ISSUE

By Charles P. Stewart
(Central Press Staff Writer)

ASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Out of this fall's 35 senate contests—

There are two in Kansas, Kentucky, New Jersey and Tennessee also have, each, a little additional squabble for very short term honors, but these three are not included in the total; they are only for December, January and Febuary, which does not amount to much.

Anyway, out of this fall's 35 senate contests, 10 are, more or less noticably, wet-and-dry fights.

States in which the senate candidates on both sides are dry, such as West Virginia and most of the southern group; states in which both major parties have made wet nominations; states in which the wet-and dry issue seems entirely submerged for the present—these do not count, of course.

Net results of the jousting for seats in the house of representatives means as much, in connection with the prohibition question, as the out-come of the senatorial campaign, to be sure—but representatives are too numerous to be reckoned except in job lots.

As for governorships—they have plenty of wet-and-dry significance, too. However, it is a significance which cannot be estimated so readily as conclusions can be drawn from the record of votes cast for members of the two branches of congress.

In 10 states, then, the wet-and-dry issue is more or less clearly defined, senatorially.

It is defined with crystal clarity.

In Illinois, where ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis (D.) is unqualifiedly wet, while Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick (R.), whatever she may be now, indisputably was nominated as a dry—in Ohio and Massachusetts, where two out-and-out drys, respectively Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch (R.) and ex-Senator William M. Butler (R.) are opposing Robert J. Bulkley (D.) and Marcus A. Coolidge (D.), equally out-and-out wets—in Delaware, where ex-Senator Thomas F. Baynard (D.), emphatically wet, is arrayed against Senator Daniel O. Hastings (R.), a dry, if silence, when he is referred to as one, gives consent.

These states are generally regarded as doubtful in November. Iowa is not; it goes G. O. P. nine times in ten. Nevertheless, prohibition is an issue there, as far as Senator Daniel F. Steck (D.) can make it so, in his wet fight for re-election, versus Representative L. J. Dickinson (R.), a dry.

In Minnesota the wets are making the most of Einar Hoidale (D.). He is not an ardent wet candidate, but at least he agrees to be wet if his state is wet. His opponents are Senator Thomas D. Schall (R.) and Ernest Lundeen (Farmer-Labor), both drys, besides C. A. Lund, independent dry.

Nebraska, in addition to being politically mighty lop-sided, like Iowa, appears wet-and-dryly rather indifferent. Still, it reveals a line-up—ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock (D.), a wet, against Senator Geo. W. Norris (R., if Uncle George may be so initiated), a dry, though he supported Al Smith.

Wandering politicians, just back from the west, describe Colorado as peculiar. Edward P. Costigan (D.) is a bone-dry and George H. Shaw (R.) was referred to during the primaries as a "wet." Yet their affiliations are such that now the Costigan candidacy is mentioned as slightly the wetter and the Shaw candidacy as a trifle the dryer of the two, in so far as the question figures in the silver state campaign—which, it is said, is not much.

So much for eight of the ten states referred to.

The ninth on the list is a little different from the rest; it is not a norhern state.

Oklahoma! Ever since its admission it has been considered very dry. Senator W. B. Pine (R.), seeking re-election, is a dry now—not vociferously so, but entirely dry.

Ex-Senator Thomas P. Gore (D.), attempting a come-back into public life after a long interval, is anything but a dry. He is extremely wet.

And it is anybody's election, from all accounts.

The tenth state is the scene of a regular knock-down and drag-out wet and dry fight.

Montana!—a turbulent state anyway.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D.), striving desperately to retain his seat, has long been known as one of the dryest solons in Washington—one of the ablest, too—recognized as a great credit to the bonanza commonwealth. But Montana has given many indications of ultra-wetness. In fact, like Mrs. McCormick, in Illinois, Senator Walsh has sought to crawfish a little in his dryness—offers to cast his senatorial vote as his constituents dictate.

It remains to be seen whether or not this will save him. The G. O. P. hopes not. Its candidate is Justice Albert J. Galen (R., of course), an unequivocal wet.

Montana advices say it's nip-and-tuck.

SLEEPLESSNESS IN CHILDREN IS OFTEN MOTHER'S OWN FAULT

By Dr. Morris Fishbein Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

According to Dr. Hector Cameron of London, there are four types of disordered sleep in childhood—sleeplessness and continued crying in young infants, sleeplessness in older children, night terrors, and bed wetting at night.

For sleeplessness and continued crying in young infants, Dr. Cameron considers three factors responsible—pain, inherited nervous state, and bad management of the child. Among the causes of pain is the swallowing of air in feeding which dilates the intestines.

The infant who has an inherited excitable nervous system is easily stimulated and difficult to control. The overanxious mother makes the situation worse by her contsant attention. For such a mother it is well to point out that the Indian squaw puts her baby on her back and pays no attention to it for hours. If the child is too greatly encouraged to sleep, it becomes fixed on the subject.

It is much better to put a child to bed and to take it for granted that it will at once fall asleep without further attention. It is understood that the ventilation will be sufficient; the child will be warm but not perspiring; that it will not be too tired, but that it will have had sufficient exercise during the day to want some rest.

The child who regularly wets the bed long after the period when it should have learned to control its bladder functions must be given special attention in order to find out the cause. In this study the mind is just as important, if not more so, than the physical condition.

It is not well to surround the sleepless child with too many safeguards from noise and ordinary activities of the household. If the child sees this elaborate formula for its benefit, it will soon come to insist on these things which are, of course, unnecessary in the ordinary case.

Obstruction of the nose by adenoids, by infection, or by a cold may be an important factor in failure to sleep. Such conditions are curable by simple care.

Jim Davis, of Illinois, and Gifford Pinchot, of Washington, D. C., Republican candidates without a platform for senator and governor, respectively, of Pennsylvania, think Pennsylvania is or should be dry.

DID NOT KNOW THE WAR WAS OVER UNTIL 1929

Twelve years after the end of the World War, two German war prisoners, Rudolph Kutz and Johann Mischalski, returned to their home in Beuthen, Silesia, August 27th, 1930, after a long and painful pilgrimage of fifteen months on foot from Siberia. Only last year did they learn for the first time that the war had come to an end. These two soldiers reported that other Germans confined in the Siberian prison do not know to this day that peace has been signed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CELIA MITCHELL, 17, faces a new life when she lived with her widowed mother, MARGARET ROGERS, to join her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her grandmother in a stately New York dwelling.

The girl did not even know her father was living until the day he came to the Baltimore apartment. Celia had supposed BOB ROGERS, her mother's second husband, to be her father. Mitchell offers the girl a life of wealth and immediately every thing changes. She leaves her mother, unaware that Mrs. Rogers is seriously ill and she leaves BARNEY SHIELDS, ambitious young newspaper photographer, who swears that some day he and Celia will be married.

The girl is lonely and ill at ease in her new home. Mitchell finds her in tears and is worried. He appeals to MRS. EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow whose husband has been Mitchell's close friend. Mrs. Parsons agrees to introduce Celia to the right set of young people though it is obvious she regards the girl as a means to gain Mitchell's affections.

To this end she invited Celia to spend a week-end at her Long Island home. Among the other guests is TOD JORDAN, a handsome young man who devotes himself to Celia. Jordan fascinates the girl but she is loyal to Barney and treats him cooly. Next morning Evelyn Parsons announces she has news for Celia.

NO GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

"Your father's going to be here for luncheon," Mrs. Parsons said briskly. "He telephoned. I should think he'd be here almost any time now."

Celia said she was glad he could come early. Privately she wondered how John Mitchell would fit into this crowd of curious, careless young people. Her father was still as distant an acquaintance as he had been the day she arrived in New York.

It was hot and Lisi Duncan, who had won the last set of tennis, declared she was "simply wrecked". She tumbled into a porch chair, calling for ice water. Kate her sister appeared in a French window and eyed Lisi disapprovingly. Kate wore lounging pajamas of orchid silk printed in beige and green. She looked habitually as though she had just turned from a mirror.

Eve Brooks was wearing pajamas, too, an orange and black outfit. For a wonder she was sitting beside her husband, who was reading the newspaper sports section.

No one mentioned attendance at church. Celia wondered what might be next on the day's program.

They heard the sound of a car coming up the drive, and Evelyn Parsons hurried out to meet her guest. Celia would have come, too, but Mrs. Parsons waved her aside. A few minutes later she heard Mitchell's voice in the living room. Celia went inside.

"Good morning, father," she said.

"Morning, Celia. Look as though Long Island agreed with you."

"Oh, it does, indeed!" Evelyn Parsons spoke up quickly. "Really, I hope you'll let this daughter of yours consider Larchwood her second home. She's been the belle of the party!"

It wasn't sure, of course. Kate Duncan would be the belle of any group in which she appeared but Mitchell seemed pleased. It occurred to Celia she had not realized before how good looking her father was. In white flannels and blue coat he appeared younger.

Celia inquired politely about her grandmother. Then Evelyn Parsons said gaily:

"Run along back to your young men, Celia. I'm going to take your father to see the new lily pool. We've just time before luncheon."

Slightly resenting this dismissal, Celia went back to the porch. She did not see her father again until the meal was announced. Then he sat at Mrs. Parsons' right at the head of the table, and Celia was at the opposite side with several others between them.

She saw very little of Tod Jordan that afternoon. There was some discussion whether the afternoon should be spent watching tennis matches at the club (the third ranking national player was to play an exhibition match) or whether they should all drive to the big flying field, where elaborate maneuvers were to be staged. In the end it was decided to do both. Young Carr, who had a pilot's license, Eve Brooks and Jordan set off for the aviation field. The others went to see the tennis.

Celia, Lisi Duncan and Jimmie Webster departed in Webster's roadster, Kate Duncan and Brooks drove with Mitchell and Mrs. Parsons in the latter's closed car.

Though the third ranking tennis champion was in excellent form, Celia Mitchell did not enjoy herself. Everyone about her was chatting and visiting. Lisi Duncan was constantly being hailed by young and old. She seemed to know everyone, to have a swift comeback for every word of raillery. Celia felt lonesome.

Her father and Mrs. Parsons remained on the clubhouse veranda. She and Webster joined them when tea was served. Lisi had a blond youth in tow and did not reappear until Jimmie Webster went to hunt for her to drive home.

It was 5:30 when they reached Larchwood. Tod Jordan and his companions were not yet back from the aviation field. Celia went to her room to dress for dinner.

So far the day had been disappointing. Celia bathed leisurely.

Letters to the Editor

"Horace Greeley" Writes on Carelessness of Motorists

Editor Avalanche, Lubbock.

Dear Sir:—

In re: your editorial relative to deaths and injuries from automobile accidents. Is there anything surprising in the number? If you think so just drive along a few of the streets of our town and keep your eyes open, what will you see. Not one driver in 20 pays the slightest attention to stop signs; not one in 50 ever gives a signal for a turn, many will run around a car and then make a turn immediately in front of it; others will pull out from the curb without ever looking to see if there is an approaching car, that possibly is right on them. Twice lately I have had to jam my brakes on suddenly to keep from hitting one of the last mentioned. As for parking, they park like a lot of cattle, any and everywhere and in every manner, on the same side of the street some are headed west, some east, some north and some south; sometimes they are parked double on both sides, so there is only a small, very narrow space, hardly room for one car to pass between; sometimes they will park in the middle of the street and go into the store to make their purchases or hold an extended conversation. Whow? The only surprising thing about the entire matter is that there are not more killed. As for pedestrians, they jay walk in all directions; one of the most aggravating and dangerous things being the habit some women have of apparently stopping when they see an approaching car, then step by step they edge forward, forcing the car further and further to the left and at imminent danger of striking one from the opposite direction. Then some of the kids have very little sense, or their parents are very negligent; they will be entirely out of the line of the car, run back and stand in front of it when it is almost on them and then jump aside.

Keep up the good work, write more on the subject, it will be far better than a continual repitition of the harrowing details of some disgusting murder. Haven't you any police regulations? Or someone to see they are enforced? Try to educate the ignorant, and punish the reckless fools and you will do some good. Thanks.

"I'm A Glad Man Today Because Of Argotane, It Has Made Me A New Man" Says Amarillo Machinist

"I would like to speak personally with everybody in the world and tell them about Argotane," said Mr J. C. Rickman, of 1506 E. 14th. Ave., Amarillo, Texas, a machinist at the Santa Fe Shops while talking with the Argotane representative.

"My health gave way about ten years ago," he continued, "and I had long since despaired of ever getting any better. I was very weak and worn out, suffering from my general condition, and I had a chronic case of stomach and liver trouble. I was extremely nervous. My appetite went back on me and my stomach got in such a bad fix that nothing I ate seemed to do me any good. My food would sour soon after meals and kept me belching up sour gas afterwards. I suffered terrible pains at times. I had to get up three or four times during the night and couldn't get any rest at all. I had a chronic case of constipation and was forced to take strong laxatives most all the time. I had dull, draggy, headaches.

"I read about Argotane, and now I want the world to know the good I have received from it, my kidney trouble is a thing of the past now, my appetite is better and my stomach doesn't bother me any more. All of my dull headaches are gone, and I have more energy and am stronger than I have been for a long time. My constipation is entirely relieved, and gas does not form in my stomach any more. I wish I could do more for this wonderful Argotane than only recommend it, for I tell you, I am a glad man and I have been relieved of many years of suffering. I am certainly grateful for what it did for me."

Genuine Argotane may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug store. Adv.

Shortage Expected Of Cotton Pickers

A slight shortage in cotton pickers in the Lubbock vicinity is seen by F. N. Gooding, representative of the United States Employment service here.

Picking has been delayed by rain the last two weeks and many pickers have left because of the condition, Mr. Gooding said. The shortage will be slight, however, the government representative believes, as picking has been completed in the southern and eastern parts of the state and pickers there will move to Lubbock and surrounding counties.

Cotton picking in this section probably will continue through November if fair weather prevails most of the time, according to Mr. Gooding. Offices of the United States Employment service attache are at the chamber of commerce in city hall. He is here as a mutual aid to farmers and pickers.

Approximately 2,000 extra pickers have been attracted to this territory this season by the service, according to Mr. Gooding.

High School 10 Semester Rule Declared Inoperative

Lubbock-Amarillo Game Here Saturday To Draw Interest Of State

New Ruling Is Held Up Until Season of '31

Several Schools Protest 10 Semester Rule Because of Materiality; Likely that Spur High Is Eligible

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 27.—Clouds surrounding the eligibility of several Texas high school football players were dispelled here today when the executive committee of the Texas Interscholastic league held the recently enacted 10-semester ruling inoperative for the remainder of the 1930-31 season.

No report of any special action in regard to the protests registered against the Spur High school football team had been received here late last night. It is to be supposed that the protests were made on the grounds of Spur having violated the 10-semester rule, which was declared null at the special executive committee meeting in Austin yesterday, and that Spur will automatically become subject to no charges.

Although representatives of only three schools were present to register personal protests against enforcement of the ruling, several other schools had expressed dissatisfaction with the action of the executive committee.

Materiality Is Argued

The main argument hinged on the materiality of the ruling, the league constitution providing that year's notice must be given before "material" changes can be made effective. Prior to the hearing today, the committee had adopted the attitude the change was not material and that they were within their rights in promulgating the revision.

May Use Older Players

Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league, said that at the time the ruleing was placed into effect it was not believed it would affect more than a few athletes and that it would inconvenience, temporal of the schools have been observing the rule rigidly, he reported, and these schools now will be free to use athletes formerly held ineligible under the ruling.

The committee held its previous action in adopting the change in the ruling was premature and that a provision of the league constitution had been violated. The rule was contested by Galveston, Marshall, Abilene and other schools.

Old Rule Reinstated

The old rule, which provided that an athlete might attend high school ten semesters and be eligible for eight, was ordered reinstated and will govern for the remainder of the scholastic year.

Under the ruling declared inoperative today, an athlete was given only the opportunity of participating in league games for a period of five years following his graduation from grade school. The semesters were counted even though the athlete was not in school.

Affected Many Teams

In ordering the change, the committee held the revision was material in that it affected numerous players and required a year's notice before it would be effective. The committee did not make known its attitude toward adoption of the rule for the 1931 football season.

Arguments against the rule were presented by R. D. Green of Abilene; C. M. Smith of Galveston and E. C. Deering of Marshall.

Records of Club Work are Studied

Records of work by Lubbock county 4-H boys are being checked by D. F. Eaton, county agent, for entrance in the annual Santa Fe railroad contest for trips to the International Livestock Show at Chicago, late in November.

"The Santa Fe picks nineteen boys out of the 52 counties it operates in Texas," Mr. Eaton said. "It sends these boys to Chicago with all expenses paid.

"The International Livestock Show begins November 29 and closes December 6. Last year I had one boy from this county win the trip and also another boy win another trip to the show."

Eight classes of competition are scheduled, as follows, two for corn projects; two grain sorghums; three cotton; one baby beef, two dairy production, four swine; four poultry and one miscellaneous.

VOTING STARTS HERE

First Absentee Ballot Cast in Lubbock Monday

First absentee vote in the election of November 4 was received at the county clerk's office Monday morning, Amos Howard, county clerk, said.

Persons who will be out of the city the Tuesday of election and desiring to vote must do so at the county clerk's office before Friday night. Absentee voting here is expected to be light.

"It is too late for us to mail ballots," Mr. Howard said. "People will have to come to the office in order to vote. Friday is the last day for absentee voting."

Rockne Stands Up for Shifts In Back Field

Knute Says He Can Win without Shift but Can't Fill Stadiums; Shift Adds Color to Grid Game

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Knute Rockne can win football games without his famous shift just as he has done so often in the past, but if the rule-makers ever should outlaw this movement entirely he will quit guaranteeing to fill stadiums from one end of the country to the other.

Riding the high tide with another superlative Notre Dame team, perhaps the greatest he or any other coach ever has developed, the Norwegian master of the ready wit is in a happy mood these days. He feels rather deeply about regulations that have brought the shift to a full stop with at least a second's halt but the last laugh is not on him.

Can Do Without It

"Notre Dame can get along without the shift," he declared in a round-table discussion before the game at Pittsburgh. "We can stop ten minutes on every play if necessary—as a referee warned us we'd have to do once—but there won't be much color in that kind of a game. We can win without the shift, but we won't draw the crowds. The color will be gone.

"Sure I could eliminate the shift. I could pass and pray from a punt formation for one thing, or I could use great big fellows and bruise a way through. But I don't choose to do so.

"There's nothing unsportsmanlike about the shift. It merely gives little men of ability and speed the chance to handle big men. It adds speed and grace to football. It brings out pass development."

Rebellion Is Believed Over

Nationalists Drive Chinese Rebels Out of Honan Province as Seven-Months War Appears Crushed

NANKING, Oct. 27. —(AP)—The seven-month rebellion of northern war lords appeared crushed tonight. Nationalist armies, the government announced, drove rebel troops of General Feng Yu-Hsiang out of Honan province, pursuing them into mountains of Shansi and Shensi.

Worn by continual battering in Honan and Shantung provinces and weakened by heavy casualties, the insurgents who threatened overthrow of the government, began to give way when Governor Chang Hsueh Liang of Manchuria intervened for the government.

Pouring down from Mukden, the Manchurian armies late in September ousted Hsi-Shan from Peiping, where he had set up a rebel government, and thrust out his troops.

One million men fought in the civil war, the government estimated. Of these 600,000 were nationalists and 400,000 insurgents. The government estimated 200,000 died in battle or afterward because of poor facilities for wounded. The nationalist loss was placed at 150,000 being greater due to operating offensively on a long line.

An active campaign has been promised by the government against bandits and communists, with 200,000 nationalist troops released from fighting rebels.

Red and communist armies, who for many months ravaged Kiangsi, Hupeh, Hunan, Honan and other provinces, recently have intensified their depredations.

The Sacramento ball park, where the Detroit Tigers will train next spring, is built on a bed of old tin cans. It should be soft on the squad, as Pacific coast players say the field is like a "cushion."

Advance Sales Indicate Many Here Saturday

Westerners Ready to Go After Week of Rest; District 1 Title May Be at Stake in Game This Week

Judging from reports of ticket sales on the first day, a record-smashing crowd will be in Lubbock next Saturday when the local high school Westerners grapple with the Amarillo High Sandies, champions of the district, in one of the most important games of the season in District 1. The contest here, upon which hangs a possible championship, will draw the attention of football fandom all over the state as well as in this district, for the competing teams are considered the leaders of the district and potential candidates for bi-district and state honors.

The Lubbock and Hilton drug stores announced last night that upwards of 1,000 tickets had already been sold, and that lines were forming constantly for reserved seat tickets. All of the seats in the west stands are reserved, and selling for $1. Section C has been reserved for Amarillo fans as a result of the courtesy extended Lubbock fans at the Lubbock-Amarillo game there last year. Fifteen hundred tickets have been sent to Amarillo, and are reported to be selling fast.

Westerners Working Hard

And while fans stood in line to make reservations, the principals of the coming gridiron drama practiced serenely on, on their respective fields. The Westerners took things easy last week with a three-day rest to start the week, and light workouts each day thereafter. They did not play a game last week after three out-of-town games in a row and five games altogether of the season. Yesterday they got down to the serious business of preparing for their hardest game of the season. The Pioneers, high school huskies of second and third string rating, were on hand to deal out a stiff scrimmage, and their backfield was reinforced by Coaches W. H. Keeling of the Westerner backfield and Swede McMurry of the Pioneers.

Coach Henry Frnka is not exactly optimistic over the prospects of meeting Amarillo nor is he pessimistic as he would like to be, but he believes that his team will give the Sandies a fight they will not soon forget. Coach Frnka sees a District 1 championship within his grasp, but he realizes that Coach Blair Cherry also sees one and that it will be practically settled on the Texas Tech gridiron next Saturday. The Westerner mentor sees the Sandies as the greatest impediment and handicap between him and his goal, and frankly admits that if his boys beat Amarillo, they will pour it on Pampa if the draw goes that way.

Scrimmage In Store.

Scrimmage of the toughest sort will be the menu for the Westerners this week. All of the regulars are in tip-top shape after an earned rest, and barring injuries on the practice field this week, they will be in the best condition of the season when they clash with the Panhandlers Saturday. Only one regular will be out of the lineup. That is Bert Williams, husky lineman, who has been knocked out since the Childress game and may not be able to play any more this season.

The Sandies did not engage in a conference setto last week, but trounced the Central High Panthers of Fort Worth, 28 to 0, in a practice game at Amarillo Saturday. They emerged from the game in good shape and will be ready to go at their best next Saturday.

The Vernon High school Lions advanced to second place tie with Lubbock Saturday when they trounced the Wichita Falls Coyotes, 6 to 0, and Electra's 12 to 6 victory over Childress placed the Tigers in a deadlock with Pampa for third place in the standings column. Vernon, by winning three and losing one so far, appears to be in the running for honors, but the Lions have not met the stronger teams of the conference yet. Pampa is still considered to be in a virtual tie with Lubbock for second place rating, each having lost one game.

The 77 to 0 victory of the Harvesters over the Plainview Bulldogs last Saturday may mean something or other, and contrasts slightly with the 33 to 0 drubbing handed the Bulldogs by Amarillo the previous week.

Matadors, with 3 Regulars Out with Injuries Prepare To Meet Canyon Buffaloes

George Langford, Vinzant in Practice Again After Long Vacation; Game to Feature Buffalo Homecoming Day

With three of his regulars out of the lineup due to injuries and the major part of the others more or less bruised and weary after the tussle in Fort Worth with the Southwest conference football champions, Coach Pete Cawthon was handicapped on the initial day of practice in preparation for the game this week at Canyon with the West Texas Teachers Buffaloes. After more than an hour of individual drill and passing practice, for the backfield aspirants, and regular line drill with the forwards, Coaches Cawthon and Morgan assembled their forces and spent the rest of the afternoon running against the supposed Canyon defense.

Today, if the varsity candidates are physically fit, otherwise, tomorrow, Coach Cawthon will send his men against the freshman Picadors in scrimmage. The Picadors spent yesterday learning the Canyon form of play from notes gained by Coach Golightly, and as the afternoon waned they were running them with veteran ability. Quick to learn and grasp new ideas and plays, the Picadors are proving almost indespensable to the Tech cause.

Although visibly weak and footsore after a trying week-end, the Matadors displayed a world of pep and enthusiasm in their workout yesterday, looking forward to a good game next Saturday. The contest at Canyon will be the feature attraction of the Teachers' annual Homecoming Day, when thousands of alumni and ex-students are expected to be on hand. Last year the Buffaloes triumphed over the local collegians 20 to 0 in a game here. The teams have played each season since Texas Tech has been organized, and the count stands 3 to 2 in favor of the Matadors, Canyon winning in 1927 and again last year.

C. A. Doose, the plunging sophomore fullback on Cawthon's regular lineup, was confined to the hospital yesterday with minor injuries sustained in the Frog frolic last Saturday. Lawrence Franz, starting halfback, sustained a nasty cut on his mouth in the T. C. U. game and was ordered by doctors not to practice for a few days. He was injured early in the game and after half a dozen stitches were taken in his lip was back to play the rest of the game. Cliff Yeager is also on the hospital list with an injured knee. It is not likely that he will be able to practice this week. He is a backfield man of considerable promise, though not as yet numbered as a starter.

Two veterans were back in their uniforms yesterday after a two weeks' forced vacation. Rip Vinzant, regular end, who was knocked out with a broken collar bone and shoulder blade in a recent game was back on the field yesterday. Big George Langford, the heaviest tackle on the team, and probably the most valuable man in the line, was on the practice field for the first time in nearly a month. Declared ineligible by a special faculty ruling early in the season, Langford has been sorely missed in the lineup, and efforts to reinstate him appeared futile until Saturday morning, a few hours prior to the T. C. U. game when faculty members and coaches got together at Fort Worth. Langord was declared eligible and played the greater part of the game, though lack of practice handicapped him considerably. His presence in the lineup again will undoubtedly strengthen the forward wall. Considerable importance is attached to his reinstatement.

Pictures Show Cadet Scoring Was Not Legal

Interlocked Interference Is Seen to Have Resulted in Army's Touchdown Over Eli in Saturday's Game

(By The Associated Press)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27.—Motion pictures of Saturday's Yale-Army football game which resulted in a 7-7 tie, today revealed that the touchdown scored for the Cadets by Tom Kilday was not strictly in accordance with the rules and regulations of the game, Yale officials, however, said they would accept the official decision ruling it a touchdown.

Show Booth's Play

The pictures, which were viewed by Head Coach Mal Stevens, Coach Adam Walsh, Tad Jones, Dean Clarence Mendell and Harold F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale athletic association, also showed the details of the one and only play in which Albie Booth, star Eli quarterback, participated during the game before he was carried off the field on a stretcher and later to the university infirmary.

Violation Interference Rule

Violation of rule 10, section one, article one, which sets forth what aid a player may and may not receive while running with the ball was disclosed by the pictures. With fourth down and one yard to go for a touchdown, Kilday was given the ball and hurled himself against the Blue Line. The pictures show he was thrown back before he reached the double stripe, but as he fell Stecker charged, hit him squarely in the back and lifted him over the goal line for the touchdown which put the Army on even terms with the Elis.

The rule in question provides that "no player of the team in possession of the ball may help the runner except by interference for him, and there shall be no inter-locked interference." A supplementary note reads that "pushing the runner or lifting runner from the ground by a team mate is infraction of the rule." Infraction of the rule carries a penalty loss of 15 yards.

Backfield Ace

Joe Hancock, one of Coach Blair Cherry's leading backfield aces, who has been saved for the game here next Saturday between the Lubbock Westerners and Amarillo Sandies meet here. Hancock, though a regular starter, has not carried the ball but one time this season, but is due to get plenty of chances next Saturday.

Papers Blamed In Failure of Steers to Win

Longhorns Depressed After Loss to Owls; Littlefield Tells Why; Blames Huge Bonfire and Reports

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 27.—Unceremoniously ejected from their place in the spotlight as contenders for the Southwest conference championship by Rice Institute Saturday, the University of Texas Longhorns started preparations today for their annual tilt with S. M. U. at Memorial Stadium this weekend.

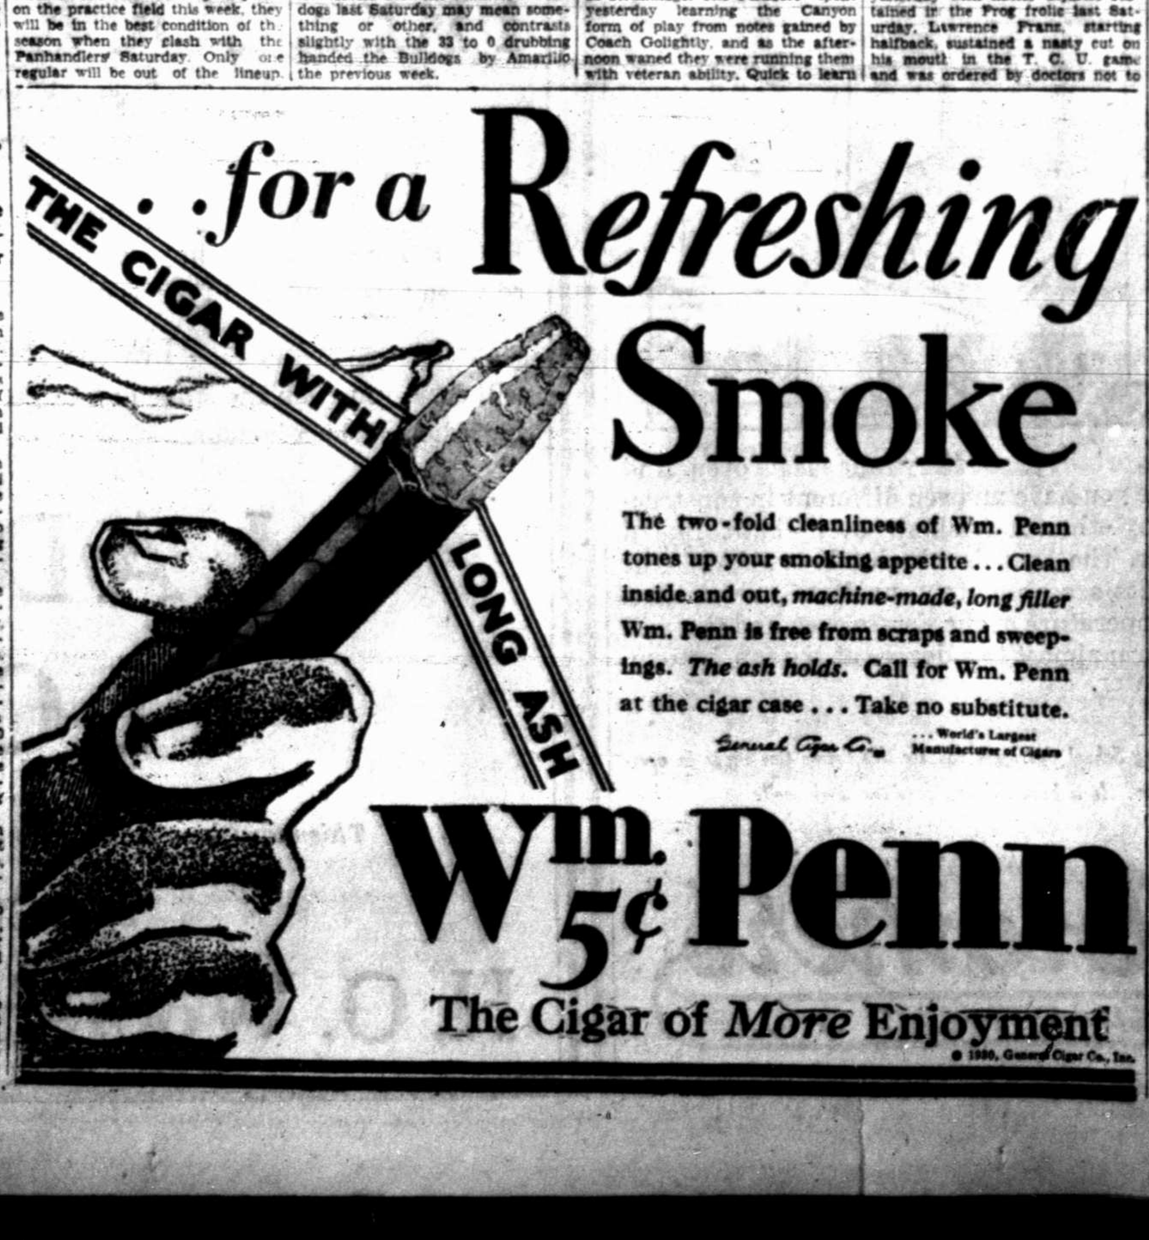

The defeat was all the more depressing since the Longhorns feel they clearly outplayed their rivals throughout th game. Coach Clyde Littlefield had no alibis for the failure of the Steers to trample the Owls. Three things, in the opinion of Littlefield, caused the Owls to play inspired football.

One was newspaper headlines reporting the Steers to be pointing toward the S. M. U. game and not paying much attention to the Rice encounter. Another was reports to the effect that Rice was the "dour mat" of the conference and the third was a bonfire built an hour before the game.

Terry County Expected To Gin Crop Of Between 20,000 And 25,000 Bales

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 27.—Terry county this year will harvest between 20,000 and 25,000 bales of cotton, depending upon the weather for the next two months and the damage done to the crop by the recent rains.

Last year the county produced 22,995 bales, J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce, reported. The compress in Brownfield handled around 18,000 bales.

6,000 Bales Ginned

This year the last report showed slightly under 6,000 bales had been ginned, Mr. Shelton said. A week ago the ginnings were; Brownfield, 2,899 bales; Meadow, 2,500 bales; Tokio, 257 bales and Wellman, 160 bales, a total of 5,804 bales for the county.

Of this amount, according to B. K. McWilliams, local receiver for the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, the cooperative office here has handled over 1,800 bales.

Yields Exceed Expectations

Farmers are reporting that they are getting more cotton than they at first expected. Some farmers, R. M. Kendrick of the First National bank said, have found they will almost double their expected yield.

"My opinion is that fully seventy five percent of the farmers will get more cotton than they at first thought they would," Mr. Kendrick said. "I have talked with a good many and they all tell me that so far the rain has not hurt the cotton very much."

Cotton picking often extends into the late winter, depending on the weather conditions. Just how long the season will last is uncertain.

The estimated retail value of liquor consumed annually in the United States prior to 1918 was from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

To Aid The Poor

Day's Pay To Go To Unemployed

CHICAGO, October 27. (AP)—Dollars from pay checks of officers and employes of the Insull Utility companies promised today a potent fund to fight distress during the winter months.

Samuel Insull, head of the group, announced that one day's pay a month for six months would be given in voluntary contributions by the entire personnel of his organization.

"The appeal has been made to employees and officers alike," said the Insull announcement, "and they have indicated that the responses will be practically universal. Girls and boys, men and women will come in."

It was estimated by one company official that the gift would amount to more than $100,000 per month. It will be distributed through relief organizations to be selected later.

Seminole's Need For Hotel Cited

SEMINOLE, Oct. 27.—Rooms are still scarce in Seminole and the oil boom at Hobbs is helping business conditions here.

Seminole has three hotels, the old Gaines hotel, one of the famous places in this section, and two smaller hotels, one located opposite the court house and in the oldest building in town.

There is a rooming house and two tourist camps and all of these places are full every night. Many residents of the town take in roomers and a few take in boarders. Several families have had groups of special workers for several weeks at a time, to relieve the housing situation.

"We need a hotel here," is heard on every hand. A score of new homes built since spring and several now building have not relieved the situation to any appreciable extent.

General Pershing Sounds Warning On U. S.'s Failure To Prepare For War; Nation Likely To Be Caught Unaware

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, October 27.—A warning to the United States that it will be caught unprepared in event of another war is sounded by General John J. Pershing in an interview published in the Country Home.

"People say we should disarm," the leader of the American armies in the World war is quoted as saying. "America already is disarmed. Good men and good women tell us that we should throw away our armaments. We have very little to throw away."

Declaring no one hates war more than he does, he says:

"I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. I have seen it in all its horrors. The great war was called a war to end war. Yet, in these dozen years, think how many disastrous wars have ben fought and how many others seem to be in the process of making.

"We know that we will not provoke war. But what is there in history which authorizes us to conclude that someone else will not provoke one some of these days? It is not a question of whether or not we believe in war. It is a question whether we shall defend this wonderful country of ours if some other nation, which does believe in war, should atack us."

Held in Ohio "Snyder-Gray" Pact

A plot strikingly similar to the notorious Snyder-Gray murder is ascribed by police of Akron, O., to Mrs. Lula Esther Barnes, 37, and Marshal W. Cornell, 48, who are under arrest on charges of first degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Barnes' husband, Clarence R. Barnes. Barnes was killed when a bomb blew up an automobile which he borrowed from Cornell. His wife and Cornell are accused of plotting the deed because of their infatuation for each other. The two prisoners are shown at the top; below is the wrecked auto.

"I Raise Them— You Eat Them"

"Just think how immense this town would suddenly become if all the people who eat Brookfield Butter, Brookfield Eggs and Premium Milkfed Chickens were to crowd in every day for their supplies.

"But that's not how it works. Nobody has to go outside his town for Swift & Company goods. I'm one of the 200,000 producers who deliver supplies to the Swift & Company produce plants and receive cash for my products. There are more than 80 of these plants. 400 branch houses and 600 car routes carry the Swift products to every community in the country and prevent local gluts or shortages. That's the marvelous organization of nation-wide distribution. It's like the arteries that carry the life stream all through your body. It's a mighty fine thing to have contact with an organization which can thrive on an average margin of less than 2 cents on every dollar of sales.

"Of course I've more than ordinary interest in Swift & Company. I'm one of the 45,000 shareholders, besides being a producer, and in addition to having a ready cash market for all I can raise.

"I receive a return on my investment. Thousands of Swift & Company employes are shareholders. Many of the 58,000 employes who receive just wages live right in this town. They spend their money with our merchants, build their homes here pay taxes like you and me. I can tell you, there's something more to being in the Swift family besides delivering butter and eggs."

Heart Hungry

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN, AUTHOR OF "DRAW ROMANCE" © 1930 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

slipped into a negligee and went to the dressing table to experiment with her hair. There was a great deal of time to waste. Dinner would not be served until seven o'clock.

She combed out her brown hair, which the hot weather had curled up rather tightly about her face. Then she tried pulling the hair severely back from the forehead as Eve Brooks did. The effect was nothing at all like Mrs. Brooks' sleek blonde coiffure. It wouldn't do at all!

Celia tried again. She had decided that her own way of twisting her hair into a little knot at the base of her neck looked childlish.

When the experiment was ended Celia had achieved a becoming compromise. There were curls before each ear. The rest of the hair was brought back in a dignified effect.

She used powder, a touch of rouge, and then drew on her blue chiffon frock. The dress slipped down quaintly off the shoulders. It had a slimly fitting waist, then bouffant skirt. Wearing it Celia could almost have passed for a girl of 40 years ago.

She inspected herself doubtfully in the mirror. Celia had no idea the old-fashioned effect was becoming. She thought of Kate Duncan's glittering necklaces. After a minute Celia opened her traveling bag and drew out a small black box. Inside was the little gold locket her mother had given her.

Celia fastened the chain about her neck, decided the locket was an improvement. Then she went downstairs.

No one was in sight in the living room. Then she saw her father standing before the window of a small room beyond.

As she entered the doorway he turned. It was the hour before sunset. There were long shadows on the lawn outside and fading light within. For an instant the girl seemed almost an apparition.

"Celia!" the man said, "you startle me."

"I didn't mean to."

She came over beside Mitchell. There was something strange in his eyes, almost as though he had never seen her before.

"Do you like it?" she asked smiling.

"Like what?"

"The new dress. It's one of those Mrs. Parsons helped me buy. I think it makes me look older. That's why I wanted it."

John Mitchell gazed down at his daughter.

"The dress is very pretty," he said. "Blue, isn't it?" He paused and then added: "Your mother used to wear blue."

Celia nodded. "I used to try to get her to have a blue dress. Only, of course, now she always wears black. She has to wear that at the store, and she says it's more practical."

Mitchell was looking out the window again. For several moments they did not speak.

"Been having a good time down here?" he asked.

"Yes."

"You see mdoubtful. What's the trouble?"

Celia hesitated. "Everyone's been awfully nice to me," she said. "It's—oh, I guess it's my own fault, but you see I'm not used to doing the things these people do. I hardly know how to talk to them. I guess it's because I've always just been at home."

The girl's eyes were appealing. Her father put an arm about her shoulder—the first sign of fatherly affection Mitchell had ever shown.

"I guess we're alike," he said slowly. "I've never taken time enough for play, either. That's all over now. Over for both of us."

The little gold locket caught his eye.

"Celia—where did you get that?" Mitchell spoke sharply.

"You mean the locket? Oh, mother gave it to me. It's an old one she's had ever since I can remember. You see, I don't have her picture. It—well, it sort of makes me feel as though she weren't so far away."

The man did not seem to be listening. He had opened the tiny gold case and was looking at the picture of Celia as a baby. The other side of the locket was bare.

"Father! Is anything the matter?"

"Nothing," he said. "Nothing."

Then John Mitchell really startled his daughter. He slipped both arms around her and held her close. They were standing thus when Evelyn Parsons saw them.

Evelyn's sharp exclamation was stifled. She turned away. The tight line of her lips distorted her face and her eyes were like flames. To be thwarted by such a little chit! Hatred for Celia Mitchell— hatred that was blind and unreasoning—overcame the woman.

She hurried from the room. At dinner half an hour later Mrs. Parsons smiled and presided at her table as graciously and sweetly as usual. She looked stunning in another of her Paris gowns, a filmy, floating creation of white chiffon and black lace. Mitchell praised the frock.

The smile with which she favored him was lingering, faintly provocative. She listened sympathetically to his tale of a troublesome law case. Evelyn could always be interested in any man's business affairs. She formed an audience which seemed to say, "I don't quite understand, but I do think you're marvelous."

There was music again in the evening. For a time they all gathered on the veranda, but soon Mrs. Parsons slipped away. No one noticed she had gone. No one saw her go upstairs, enter her bedroom, reappear and hurry down the hall to the room Celia occupied.

Mrs. Parsons entered, closing the door softly behind her. She looked about. There in the corner she saw what she sought. She lifted Celia's traveling bag to the bed and opened it. The fingers of her left hand unfolded, revealing a strand of pearls. For an instant their opalescent beauty held her. Then she dropped the necklace into the traveling bag, fastened the lock and went out of the room.

It was still early in the evening that John Mitchell met his hostess in the hallway.

"I've been looking for you," he said, then added quickly, "Evellyn, what's the matter?"

She tried to simle, but her brooding look deepened.

"Oh, it doesn't really matter," she said. "I—well I've just had a shock. Of course the others mustn't know. It's my pearls—"

"Are they missing?"

Evelyn nodded. "I've looked everywhere," she said, "and I can't understand it. I know I had them yesterday because I showed them to Celia. She saw me put the case away."

Mitchell's voice cut in:

"You don't mean—!"

Famed Konjola Won For Former Prize Fighter

"This Splendid Medicine, Gave Relief From Rheumatism And Other Ailments," He Declares

WILLIAM DAVENPORT

"The drear ailment of rheumatism attacked my shoulders, arms and hands" said Mr. William Davenport, 912 Monroe street, Fort Worth, former feather-weight champion of the Middle West. "The pains were often very severe. I suffered, too, from disorders of the stomach and kidneys. Neuralgia was present in my head and face. Dieting failed to help my stomach and my irregular bladder actions caused a loss of sleep and rest.

"This splendid medicine, Konjola brought relief from rheumatism and other ailments. In less than a month the rheumatic pains vanished from my shoulders and arms and I do not have a trace of this ailment. I have a good appetite, my food digests as it should, and I feel better in every way. My kidneys have been strengthened and I am no longer troubled with nervousness. I feel so well that I believe I could go back to the prize ring."

Designed to afford prompt and lasting relief from ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism neuritis and nervousness, Konjola has made a record that would challenge belief were the actual facts not known and verified.

Konjola is sold in Lubbock, Texas at Bowen's Drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

Cotton — Market Rallies in Late Monday Trade; Livestock — Cattle Trading Is Little Slow; Grain — Demand Is Slow o Cash Grain Market

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27. —(AP)—The cotton market, after ruling quiet with prices tending downward most of the day, rallied sharply in the late trading with considerable activity and advanced to levels 27 to 29 points above the lows of the morning.

After an opening gain on good cables the market turned reactionary on profit taking, a weaker technical position and easier stocks, declining 13 to 19 points from the opening highs. The late rally near the end was attributed to active buying on a rumor of an extra dividend by U. S. Steel. The close was a shade under the top showing net gains for the day of 15 to 19 points.

Liverpool came in 7 to 8 points better than due and private cables reported fair buying by the continent. First trades here showed gains of 6 to 9 points. Prices soon eased off. December trading from 11.09 to 11.00, January from 11.22 to 11.17 and March from 11.43 to 11.36 or 5 to 9 points from the opening highs.

Prices Ease Off

Later in the morning prices continued to ease off in narrow trading on selling for a reaction and easiness in stocks until December dropped to 10.91, January to 11.04 and March to 11.36 or 14 to 18 points under the early highs and 7 to 9 points under Saturday's close.

The market rallied 5 to 6 points from the lows in early afternoon on some short covering late trading the market became quite active and advanced sharply on the heavy Wall Street buying. December advanced to 11.18, January to 11.27 and March to 11.57, up to 27 to 29 points from the lows and representing new highs. The close was a shade under the best at net gains for the day of 15 to 19 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions under some southern selling and realizing, but prices firmed up again later when offerings became comparatively light and there was a revival of trade buying which brought in covering or fresh buying by some of the early sellers. March contracts after selling off from 11.47 to 11.38 advanced to 11.57 and closed at 11.55. The general market closed steady at net advances of 6 to 14 points.

There may have been a little buying early on reports of heavy frosts in the Carolinas and Georgia as well as on the cables but the demand was less active than recently and there appeared to be some reactionary sentiment following the advance of last week.

A belief that the buying of last week had eased the technical position of the market and that the advance might have gone far enough under prevailing conditions was considered largely responsible for the reactions from the opening advance. There also appeared to be a little more southern selling here during the early trading, but it was very little in evidence early in the day and the afternoon advance may have found some encouragement in reports of increased sales of cotton goods last week.

Cause of Stabilization Is Aided by Action of Financial Marts Monday

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—The action of the financial markets today lent encouragement to the cause of stabilization.

Stocks disregarded the failure of a brokerage firm, shaking off early heaviness and closing higher. Bonds firmed. Cotton added to last week's gains and although wheat declined, the movement was far from violent. Corn improved slightly.

Today's case of insolvency involved a comparatively small house but the market's serenity in the face of the news was in striking contrast to the bad epidemic of nerves that prevailed a week or two ago.

Dullness Featured

The feature of the trading was its dullness. Sales totaled only 1,812,000 shares, the smallest turnover in some time and below the volume of some recent Saturdays.

Railroad earnings statements were prominent in the day's news and showed up rather well. Fifty-one carriers, reporting for September, had net operating income 16.2 per cent in excess of August's and although the decline from September, 1929, was 17.8 per cent, the comparison was considerably more favorable than in recent months. Some roads, notably Atchison, gained.

Brokerage circles revived the old game of guessing the U. S. Steel corporation's earnings to be made public after tomorrow's close although forecasts of between $1.75 and $2 a share had been fairly unanimous. The company nearly covered its dividend in the first six months so that the third quarter statement will show something to spare above that $7 requirement.

Today's program is to be devoted to the preparation of a luncheon and all of the dishes prepared will be appropriate for this occasion. Yesterday's lecture was on the preparation of a breakfast and Mrs. Ihrig gave a number of palatable and new recipes preparing them in her model kitchen which is arranged on the stage of the auditorium.

To Display Foods

Tomorrow's program will be on the party and Thursday's lecture and demonstration will be on the dinner. Each day the lecturer will dictate recipes and prepare practical dishes. She will introduce her lecture daily with a short talk on food in its relation to health, discussing the balanced menu and the preparation of practical combinations.

Mrs. Ihrig is to stress the practical side of food preparation in her school, she announced, and yesterday's program was in keeping with this theme. Her slogan is "Better food with less work for less money."

"I learned several years ago that women are not as much interested in fancy dishes and decorated cakes and salads as they are in ways of preparing ordinary foods to meet the demands of their household and to stay within the family budget," Mrs. Ihrig said yesterday upon her arrival here. Her program this year was prepared from questions that have been asked in previous schools.

Expect Larger Crowd

Due to the fact that many church women attended regular meetings yesterday afternoon, today's crowd is expected to be larger. Those who arrive first will be given the choice of seats in the auditorium and several hundred additional chairs will be placed in the palace this morning.

Many brides were noticed in the group of those attending yesterday and many of those who were at the school have been there during previous demonstrations.

assistant county superintendent of schools in Bailey county. He came to Lubbock last spring and has been since that time, Dyer said. Members of his immediate family live in Lubbock and vicinity, according to officers.

Voices Belief

After his arrest for alleged violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act, Dyer expressed something akin to relief that he had been taken into custody, officers said.

The former school teacher said that addicts had driven him almost frantic, hunting him in the day and arousing him at night, and threatening to "snitch" on him when he was unable to supply their demands.

PATRICIA BABY DIES

Wayne Brown Succumbs After Short Illness

Wayne Brown, 17-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown, of Patricia, died Sunday night in a Lubbock hospital following an illness of several days.

Funeral services were held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of G. W. Watkins, 1947 Avenue M, Rev. R. C. Campell, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Lubbock cemetery.

Survivors are: The parents; two brothers, Weaver, 14, and Victor, 7, and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ida Weaver of Stanton.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27. (AP)—Slow demand was reported for all grains as the week started on the Fort Worth market. Mills were bidding 86 1-2 and 87 1-2c basis delivered Texas common points for available number 1 hard wheat but offerings of that commodity were light. Estimated receipts for the two day period were: Wheat 5 cars, corn 16, oats 5, barley 2, and sorghum 1.

The trade was awaiting the South Texas movement due to start soon, when lower prices are expected. Meantime the sorghums seem to mark time.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carlloads delivered Texas common points freight paid:

Corn: No. 2 mixed 88 1-2 and 89 1-2; No. 2 white or yellow 91 and 92.

Oats: No. 2red according to seed quality 90 and 93; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 45 1-2 and 46.

Barley: No. 3 nominally 65 and 66.

Sorghums: No. 2 ... per 100 pounds 1.65 and 1.67; No. 2 kaffir 1.38 and 1.40, both prices being nominal.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Relief from anxiety about Argentine rust damage, together with suggestions that the Argentine wheat surplus would be hugely increased, pulled wheat prices down late today. Clearing weather reported in Argentina led to late selling of wheat here, and so too did a forecast that the surplus of new and old wheat in Argentina this season would aggregate 239,000,000 bushels compared with only 190,000,000 bushels last season. Under such circumstances 2,161,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total was virtually ignored.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 3-8-1c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 3-8-3-4c advance, oats 1-8 off to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to 12c down.

At first, the wheat market in Chicago had displayed a general upward trend owing to reports that rains and higher temperatures in Argentina were threatening to increase danger of damage by rust.

competition.

The charges of the district committee that the transfer certificate which was filed in the Austin office of the league did not contain the true signatures of the principal or superintendent of the Dickens school, was sustained.

The committee likewise sustained a third charge that Edgar had been played in games prior to the time of filing his transfer certificate from Dickens to Spur.

In announcing the decision of the committee, Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league, stated Edgar was not used in any conference games and the executive committee was inclined to be lenient on this account.

The resolution placing the Spur school on probation severely criticized the tactics of school officials and warned against a repetition of the violation under penalty of expulsion for the league.

Henderson said the district committee had dropped charges against a second Spur athlete, following a hearing several days ago and that the only complaint lodged with the executive committee was against the use of Edgar.

Banker Faces More Charges

State Rangers Leave Conroe After Suspended County Judge Freed Under Bond on Embezzlement Charges

(By The Associated Press)

CONROE, Oct. 27. — State rangers left here today after filing three more felony charges against A. W. Morris, suspended county judge in connection with their investigation into the records of the First State Bank of Conroe.

Hearing on an ouster case against Morris, scheduled to open in district court today, was continued until next Monday.

The three new complaints against Morris charged him with making false statements to Bank Examiner F. C. Branson on September 16, 1929.

Fourth Charge Filed

A fourth felony charge was lodged against J. M. Griffith, cahier of the Farmers and Merchants State bank, which failed to open ten days after its records were discovered mysteriously burned. He was charged with making a false entry in the bank's books August 30. The specific complaint alleges that he raised a $320.51 item and made it read. $2,321.51.

Griffith who faced two charges of embezzlement, and a charge of the theft of records of the Farmers and Merchants State bank, filed Saturday, was released again today after supplying a $500 bond on the false entry charge.

Mussolini in Call for Aid Of "Fascism"

Italian Premier Extolls Fascist Doctrine in Speech; Says "Indirect War" Being Planned Against Italy

ROME, Oct. 27. (AP)—Premier Mussolini sounded a vigorous call for all Italy to fight for fascism in a speech today extolling the fascist doctrine before his federal directors.

The duce said that throughout the world a "war of calumnies and infamies" had been launched against fascism, but facism had become a universal idea and Italy would stand as the only nation of young men while the rest of Europe would be "decrepit."

Says War Planned

The premier said "indirect war" was being made constantly "on the kingdom, in preparation for military war." He declared his speeches last summer in Tuscany were intended to unmash "this hypocritical Europe which talks about peace at Geneva and prepares for war nevertheless."

Some of his other statements were:

"The moral war now waging is but preparatory to a military war. Calumninous inventions are an arm of war, acting to increase hatred against fascist Italy."

"We are fighting against a world on the decline, but still powerful because it represents an enormous crystalization of interests."

"Yesterday the terrain was Italy. Today it is the whole world. Everywhere fights are on, for or against fascism."

"We must reconquer the victory day by day."

"Those from whom the mask was torn will attempt to represent Italy as the sole peril of European peace, a sole nation of wolves and peaceful lambs."

In Self Defense

"Fascism Italy is arming because all are arming; she will disarm if all disarm."

"We are arming ourselves spiritually and materially for defense—not for attack. Fascism never will take the initiative of war."

"Who is violating the covenant of the League of Nations? Those who at Geneva have created and wish perpetually to maintain two categories of states, the armed and unarmed."

"By 1950 Europe will be on its last legs."

"Fascism is the topic of the day in all countries, here feared, there hated, elsewhere ardently invoked."

"We can foresee a fascist Europe that solves in the fascist sense the problem of the modern state, the twentieth century state."

"Today, even as yesterday, the prestige of nations is determined absolutely by their military glories and armed power."

U. S. Navy Day Is Observed by Fleets Monday

Open House Held in Warships Riding at Anchor in Seaports Along Coasts of the Country Yesterday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. (AP) — Navy day was observed by the United States fleet today while a limitation of armaments was going into effect.

Warships rode at anchor in seaports along the coasts of the country, thronged by visitors throughout the day who enjoyed open house in a sailor's home. Far inland, where thousands of citizens have never seen a warship, the navy sent its ambassadors — admirals, captains, commanders—to tell the landlocked of guns and men protecting their homes.

The navy day ceremony centered at Washington, where Secretary Adams tonight spoke to a nation-wide radio audience on glories by the sea forces of the United States. Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, spoke on the same program.

Far above the broad avenues of the capital, the Los Angeles, navy giant dirigible, cruised majestically in a courtesy visit to the navy department the big air liner glided to dip its nose in reverence over the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington National cemetery.

Rear Admiral William L. Rodgers, former chairman of the navy general broad, delivered a radio address on "our navy". A concert was rendered by the United States navy band orchestra.

Speaking programs were carried out in several cities, including Atlanta, San Francisco, New Orleans, Akron, Richmond, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Columbus, and Des Moines.

TEACHING FARM CLASSES

Wilson Agricultural Man Is Teaching Poultry Raising

SLATON, Oct. 27. (Special)—H. M. Kopecky, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Wilson public schools, ten miles south, of here, is conducting a short course in poultry-raising for farmers living in that section. The main phases of the industry will be dealt with in the twelve weeks the school is to continue. Meetings are held each Tuesday night. Fourteen farmers attended the first class, and the number is expected to increase, Mr. Kopecky said.

Republican Head Will Stump Area

Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls, vice-chairman of the state Republican executive committee, will speak in four towns on the South Plains Tuesday, John L. Vaughan, post master, announced late yesterday.

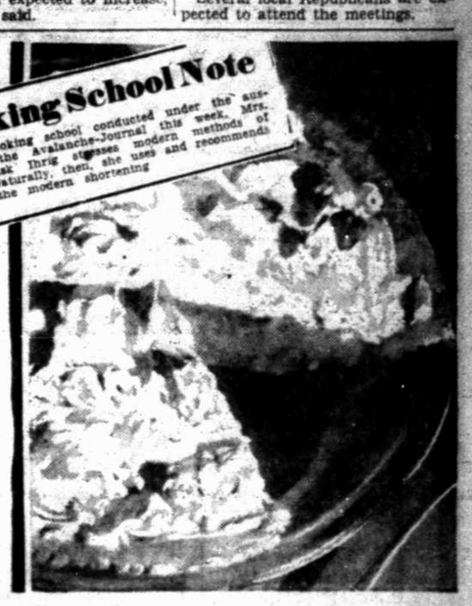

"The executive committee advised me that beginning Monday they would have a worker in every county in Texas," Mr. Vaughn added. The worker will spend most of the work campaigning for the G. O. P. ticket.

Mr. Bullington's Tuesday speaking engagements are announced as follows: Levelland, 10 a. m.; Brownfield, 2 p. m.; Tahoka, 4 p. m.; Post 7:30 p. m.

Several local Republicans are expected to attend the meetings.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of the Avalanche-Journal this week, Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig stresses modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening

He rode 10 miles and crossed a river to get Lemon Pie like this

I CALL this "Matty's Lemon Pie" because a man from Missouri told me it was as good as that made by an old colored cook named Matty—and he once rode 10 miles on horseback and rowed a mile across the Missouri River just to eat her lemon pie.

"Matty's Pie" is just sweet enough—with an overtone of fresh, piquant fruit, crowned with a pert meringue, browned to a golden glow and served in a Crisco pastry shell, as crisp on the bottom as it is around the edge—as only Crisco pastry can be.

MATTY'S LEMON PIE

1 lemon, juice and grated rind	1 cup granulated sugar
1 orange, juice and pulp	½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten light	2 tablespoons Crisco
3 tablespoons cornstarch	1½ cups water

Beat egg yolks light and stir in mixed dry ingredients. Add liquids, lemon rind and Crisco. Cook in double boiler until thick. Cool. Pour into baked shell. Cover with meringue (2 egg whites beaten stiff blended with 4 tablespoons granulated sugar and 1 teaspoon lemon juice). Brown in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes.

FLAKIER PIE-CRUST
(and a short cut)

If you haven't made pie-crust with Crisco, you've yet to discover how really tender and flaky pie-crust can be! Sweet-tasting, too, because Crisco tastes sweet and pure all by itself—and comes to you fresh in an air-tight can.

To save time in pie baking you can keep this pastry dough, already mixed, in the ice-box and bake a crust just when you need it. It will stay sweet, because Crisco itself stays sweet. And the thorough chilling will make the crust even flakier than usual.

2 cups flour	¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Crisco	6 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Sift flour and salt together. Cut Crisco in well with two knives until consistency of small peas. Add only enough water to hold mixture together. Roll ⅛ inch thick on floured board.

For baked shell, use half of recipe and cover inverted pie plate with pastry. Leave enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes.

For two-crust pie, bake 10 minutes at 450° F., then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.); bake until filling is done.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

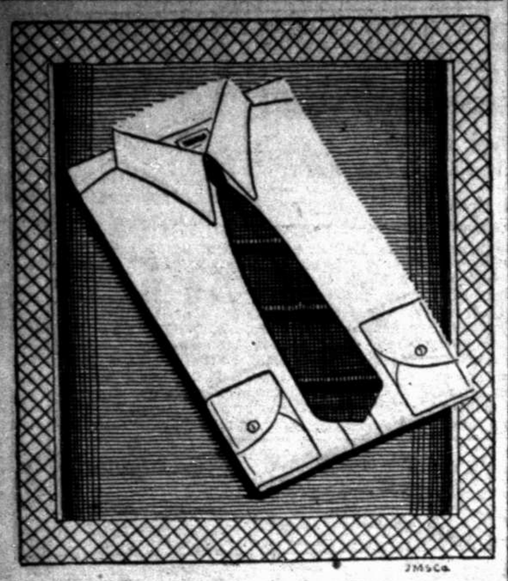

Copr. P. & G. Co.

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.

TO ELECT QUEEN TODAY

Election of "La Reina del Rodeo", queen of the rodeo, will be held at the college today. Ballot boxes will be placed in the east rotunda of the administration building and all college students are eligible to vote. Three students, Misses Ola Reeder, Voncile Gilkerson and Kathleen Harmon are candidates. The one receiving the highest number of votes will be crowned queen, while the other two will be named, "Ladies in Waiting."

The queen will preside at the Tech rodeo which will be staged on the college campus November 7 and 8 by students in the agriculture school. Purpose of the event is to raise funds to defray expenses of the Tech senior livestock judging team. The team will compete in contests at Chicago and Kansas City this fall. Jim Williams and E. B. Snyder are managers of the affair.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is aiding in advertising the attraction, which is hoped to be an annual one. Announcements have been sent to more than one hundred and fifty towns in Texas and adjoining states. Admission will be fifty cents.

HOLIDAY GRANTED

A three day holiday has been granted for Thanksgiving. School will be dismissed for Thanksgiving day, Thursday November 27, and also for the following two days.

No holiday has been granted for Armistice, November 11.

MOVED TO SHREVEPORT

E. K. Hester, graduate of 1930 in civil engineering at Tech college, and who is working with the Austin Bridge Co., has been transferred to Shreveport, Louisiana, where he is in charge of the erection of a bridge.

Headquarters of the company are at Dallas.

DANCE DATE SET

November 21 is the date set for the annual engineer's ball which is being sponsored by members of the Tech engineering society. The affair will be staged in the Up-town dance palace.

Each member of the engineering society is allowed one extra bid. This bid may be given to any other student. No students outside the society will be allowed bids. A majority of the engineering students are members of this organization, however.

TO JUDGE AT FARWELL

Professor H. J. Bower, Dr. Fred G. Harbaugh and Lonnie Starr have been selected to judge in a contest to be sponsored at Farewell by vocational agriculture schools in Texas and New Mexico. The contest probably will take place November 22, although the definite date has not been set. Professor Bower is head of the agronomy department, while Starr is a graduate student in the agricultural school.

A similar contest was conducted in Farewell last year, members of the Tech agriculture school doing the judging.

Part of the contests probably will be conducted in the Texico, N. M., school, across the state line from Farewell.

BERGFELD HEADS

Julius L. Bergfeld has been selected to head the Tech chamber of commerce, an organization on the campus for the purpose of promoting civic activities. Other officers of the club probably will be elected at a meeting Thursday night in the auditorium of the engineering building.

The C. of C. was a very active organization on the campus last year and promoted many activities, chief of these being the selection of the Matador song, and taking over the finances of intramural sports. The funds received from the intramural sports were used to buy a trophy for the intramural winner. The trophy is now on display in the "T" room in the Tech gym.

Professor B. F. Condray, head of the department of economics, is sponsor of the organization.

THOMPSON WRITES

A letter recently was received from Gordon Thompson, 1930 graduate of the engineering school, whose home is at Ballinger. Thompson is now in the University of Minnesota in the Experimental engineering building doing research work.

Thompson is at present working on the designing of an instrument to determine volumetric expanison of saturated aggregate due to freezing.

ORGANIZE WRESTLING TEAM

Spartan Duke, freshman student from Dawson, is to be coach of the freshman wrestling team being organized by members of the freshman Y. M. C. A. organization. Similar teams have been organized in colleges and university in Texas and other states. Oklahoma A. and M. probably boasts of the best wrestling team of the schools in the south.

Plans are to issue challenges to nearby schools having wrestling teams.

Warren Poole is chairman of the Freshman Y. M. C. A. athletic committee which is sponsoring the organization of the team.

DEBATE TONIGHT

"Resolved," that the present practice of using the radio for advertising should be condemned" is the question to be debated tonight at a meeting of the Tech Debate club which meets in room 202 of the administration building at 7:30.

Carl Crutchfield and Carrol Thompson will present the affrmation of the question, while Garland Smith and Charles O'Neal will defend the negative.

Speeches by H. Y. Price and Mary Beth Sheely also will be featured at the gathering tonight. All students of the college are invited to attend.

MEET WITH CABINET

Several members of the Tech Y. M. C. A. organization met with the cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the tea room of the Home Economics building. Following a round table discussion refreshments were served to students and others attending.

Home demonstration work over the South plains is better organized now than ever before, with greater progress being made all the time, Miss Ruth Stockton, home demonstration agent, said in discussing her trip to Sweetwater where she attended a district agents meeting and also the turkey grading school at San Angelo last week.

"District No. 2 has 20 agents and all of them were at the conference," Miss Stockton said. "Miss Myrtle Murray, our agent leader, was there and the meetings were very successful."

At Sweetwater the agents held a luncheon, with a program and reports from several of the agents. Mrs. Julia Kelly, home demonstration agent of Hale county, at Plainview, presided.

Miss Marie Strange, Floyda is, agent of Floyd county, spoke and Miss Pauline Lokie, Swisher county agent at Tulia, also spoke. These three were with Miss Stockton on the return trip.

SHOWER FALLS HERE

A light shower fell in Lubbock Sunday night, lasting more than an hour and dwindling to a heavy mist. The fall was not believed sufficient to delay cotton pickling materially. Other points in this section reported light rains.

PROSPECTS BETTER

Good Feed Crop for County Is Predicted by Eaton

Vegetation in Lubbock county is advancing and the county as a whole has a chance to make a better feed crop than has been expected, in the opinion of D. F. Eaton, county agent.

"If frost holds off for ten or fifteen days longer," he said, "we will make a lot more feed in this county than the farmers had expected to make."

Some of the native pasture is in good shape, Mr. Eaton added. There is a chance for some of the grass to make better feed by the time winter comes, while other pastures were so far gone that there will not be enough warm weather possible to make the stand.
