Nixon says if president orders it

Burglaries not illegal?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Burglaries and other crimes are not illegal if they are ordered by the president of the United States, Richard M. Nixon says in his latest television interview.

In the interview to be broadcast tonight, the former president tells television personality David Frost that "When the president does it, that means it is not illegal," according to excerpts from the program published in today's New York Times.

Specifically asked about the White House-ordered burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Nixon denied advance knowledge of the break-in. But he said if White House aide John Ehrlichman had told him of the planned burglary: "I would have said 'Go right ahead.'"

The Times quotes Nixon as saying: "If the president, if, for example, the president approves something, approves an action because of the national security or, in this case, because of a threat to internal peace and order of, of significant magnitude, then the president's decision in that instance is one that enables those who carry it out to carry it out without violating a law."

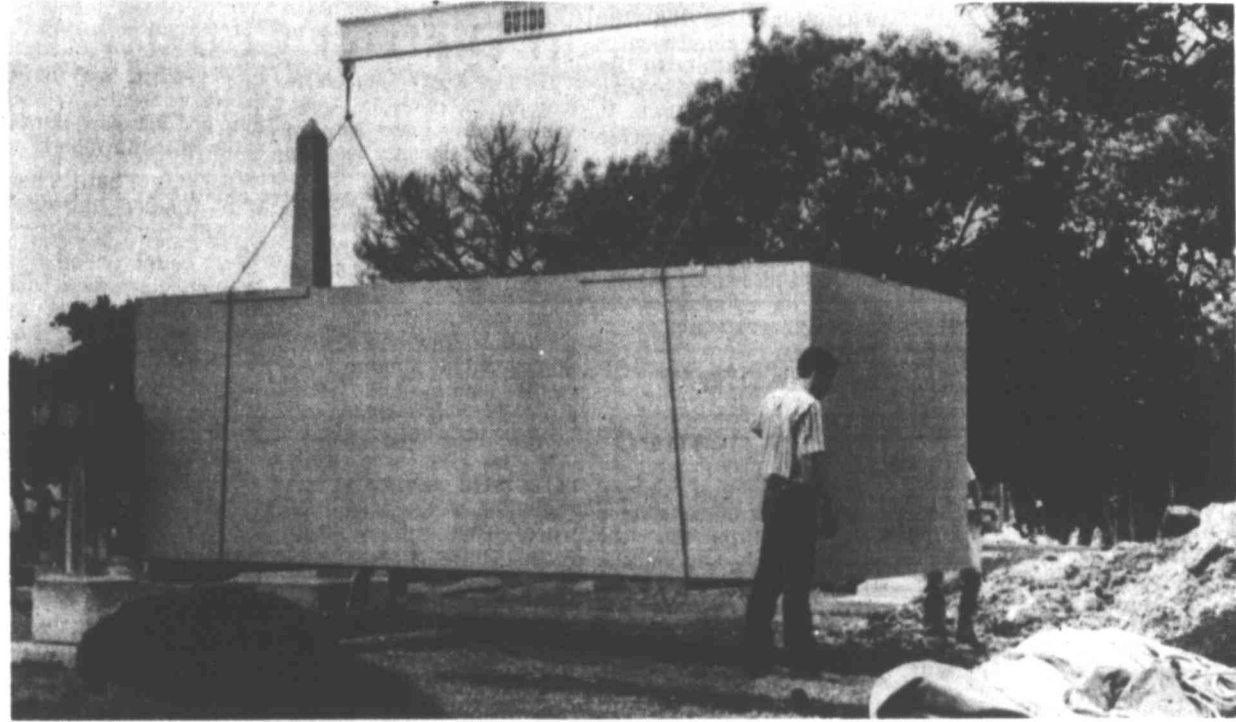

But Nixon stammered and objected when Frost asked the inevitable question — does that mean a president could order a legal murder?

"There are degrees, there are nuances which are difficult to explain," Nixon protested. He agreed that the dividing line would be the president's judgment.

Nixon said his administration got tough with Vietnam dissenters to avoid "a situation where this war would be lost in Washington."

Nixon says he practiced the politics of polarization in the Vietnam years to rally majority support behind his policies.

"I had to make a choice," he says, speaking of protesters.

FERRARI BURIAL — A wooden crate containing a 1964 Ferrari automobile with the body of Sandra Ilene West seated inside is lowered this morning into a grave at the Alamo Masonic Cemetery in San Antonio. Mrs. West, who died in March, requested the unusual burial in a will she left.

She may not know where she's going, but she'll get there in a hurry!!!!!!

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Sandra Ilene West, a wealthy California widow, was buried today just the way she wanted — "in my lace nightgown and in my Ferrari with seat slanted comfortably."

The 37-year-old widow of a Comfort, Tex., oilman was placed in a 1964 baby blue Ferrari, enclosed in a large gray-painted wooden crate. She had died March 10 in her Beverly Hills home in California.

The crate, measuring 6 feet by 8 feet by 17 feet, was brought to the cemetery on a flat-bed truck.

A crowd of several hundred curious onlookers, watched quietly as a large yellow crane lifted the crate from the truck bed, set it next to the truck and then deposited into the grave.

Cement concrete was then poured on top of the box in the grave to protect further.

Los Angeles County officials watched the burial to make sure it was carried out according to a court order. The court had given its official approval to the unusual burial request.

Mrs. West was buried next to her husband, Ike West Jr., of Comfort, Tex., an oilman who died in 1968.

A spokesman for the Public Administrator's office who watched the preparations for the burial Wednesday night said the procedure complied with the court order. They offered no details.

Mrs. West's body had been entombed temporarily in a mausoleum following funeral services last March. Funeral home director Porter Loring said he was not aware of any family or relatives of Mrs. West at the burial.

Authorities in California have yet to say officially what caused Mrs. West's death. California officials say an inquest will be held next month.

The handwritten will left most of her estate, valued at between $3 million and $6 million to her brother-in-law, Sol West III, of Comfort, Tex.

The document contained a clause asking that she be buried "in my lace nightgown and in my Ferrari with the seat slanted comfortably."

A court battle erupted after Mrs. West's death concerning her estate.

Fred Seamaan, a San Antonio attorney, produced a will that he said Mrs. West had executed in his office last year. Seamaan, who claims to have been the West family lawyer for the past 20 years, said the document left most of Mrs. West's estate to him.

Seamaan has also submitted his will to California courts for probate.

Loring said the embalmed body of Mrs. West has been kept at a local mausoleum since arriving in San Antonio in March.

The cost of the burial will be about $9,000, Loring said.

Prizes offered in membership drive

The meeting of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors took on the appearance of a "Let's Make A Deal" show for a short time Wednesday.

Board President Roger Brown informed members that the Chamber Ambassador or board member who brings in the most new members during the membership drive is entitled to an expense-paid trip for two to Acapulco.

Furthermore, runners-up will receive a microwave oven, a color television set, and the use of a new car for a month. These prizes will be donated by local businesses.

"Everybody will win; the community, the chamber, the people. This isn't peanuts. We are shooting for a broad membership," said Bill Albright, chamber executive.

The Chamber's BASIC group has formulated a list of 600 prospects for memberships. These names will be divided among 10 teams of prospect hunters, with 60 names each.

The membership campaign will begin at a kick-off breakfast early in June. Prize winners must recruit at least 25 new members to qualify.

Later in the meeting the board approved a new set of bylaws to govern the actions of the Chamber. One of the most important elements in the system is that dealing with the election of board members and officers, according to Albright.

"This has to be fair and democratic, or frankly I don't want to have anything to do with it," said the Chamber exec, following the meeting. "I think this election method we have devised is fair to all, and I am very pleased with it," he added.

Under the new bylaws, directors will serve a three-year term. Candidates will be nominated by a five-man committee which is appointed by the board president.

"We are aware of the charges that the board is a self-perpetuating group, and we want to make certain that this isn't the case," said Albright.

So, under the new guidelines, the nominating committee will be made up of not more than two present board members. The remaining three committee members will come from the Chamber membership at large.

Candidates chosen by the committee will be listed in the August Chamber bulletin. Additional nominations may be made by any 10 members in good standing who petition a name to be placed in nomination by Sept. 1.

Voting will take place in October. The board president, who will come from the newly elected board, will be notified of his position by the middle of October, according to Albright.

In other business:

—The Chamber will soon mail 40,000 cards to industries asking them to inquire about opportunities in Big Spring. A Watts line will be set up in a special office to receive the incoming calls from industrial prospects.

—Rules and regulations for national accreditation of the Chamber arrived last week, and work will begin soon to achieve the status, according to Albright.

Many displays set for Webb open house

Numerous displays are planned for the Armed Forces Day Open House at Webb AFB Sunday.

The base fire department and hospital will display equipment used by them. It will include the P-4 major crash recovery truck, the P-12 structural fire truck, the P-10 rescue truck and hospital ambulance.

The hospital will also have a first aid station set up.

T-37 and T-38 procedural ejection seat trainers will be displayed by the Physiological Training Branch in Hangar T-1. That branch will also present a slide presentation of their training program and during the afternoon will demonstrate parasailing.

The Big Spring Radio Control Model Aircraft Association will display its model aircraft, with models ranging from old-fashioned bi-planes to radio controlled helicopters.

The civilian auxiliary of the Air Force, the Civil Air Patrol will be on hand with an information booth with literature. CAP cadets will be there to answer any questions. They will also have two CAP aircraft on static display.

The academics learning center of the 78th Student Squadron will provide a display of training equipment, including various multi-media systems used in today's Air Force.

Recruiting displays from the various service branches are also expected to be set up in Hangar T-1.

County opposes airline actions

An answer to the temporary order granting suspension of services to Trans-Regional Aircraft from the Texas Aeronautical Commission (TAC) has been sent from the Howard County Attorney's office to the TAC.

According to County Attorney Harvey Hooser, the answer was intended to express the county's concern with the TAC action. "We were afraid," said Hooser, "that with Trans Regional suspended, we wouldn't be able to get any air service in here at all."

Harry Rogers of the TAC called the document "a timely answer" and said "We are hopeful that this can be worked out by some other means than a formal hearing because of the expense involved."

County Judge Bill Tune, who said that the letter has been sent at his request, indicated he did not want a public hearing.

"The county does not want a public hearing," said Tune, "but the county does want its side heard. We received no information at all about the request. I have not seen the letter sent to Austin by Trans Regional."

"Our problem is that, for some time, the airline has not submitted its requests to the Commissioner's Court, making it difficult for us to do anything with their requests."

"To what did the Trans Regional letter attribute their dropping passenger load?" Tune continued. "If to the county government, we want a chance to answer that."

"Of course, McClure (manager of Trans Regional) intends to gain from publicity in the newspaper," commented Tune.

Both Hooser and Rogers said that, even should the suspension be confirmed by the TAC, that action would not affect another airline trying to get into Howard County.

"If any other carrier provides evidence of public need, this action would not preclude their being granted operations in Howard County. We are interested in seeing air service there," commented Rogers.

The letter reads, in part, "Howard County is at a loss to understand how the best interests of our community could be served by allowing temporary suspension of airline service unless the commission has decided that the service of Trans Regional was a detriment to the community rather than an asset."

"... The County is of the opinion that no useful purpose can be served (by the suspension) and Trans Regional's financial condition cannot and will not be improved by virtue of one year's suspension."

"... Howard County feels that the community should be served by regular airlines and the granting of a temporary suspension of one year may jeopardize the chances of Howard County in securing other airlines operating in this area."

"... Howard County feels that the community would support an economically sound and properly managed airline."

Water hearing session ends

AUSTIN — The Public Utilities Commission hearings ended here Wednesday. The hearings were intended to review an earlier Commission decision to allow the Howard County Water Improvement and Control District No. 1 to sell water to the communities of Midway and Sand Springs. The decision was opposed by Coahoma. Apparently, Coahoma attorney Ben Bancroft conducted extensive examination of water district chairman Oscar Cagle.

No final decision is expected within the next two weeks, and a decision may take as long as 60 days.

Speed limit penalties lessened?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators voted final passage today to a bill prohibiting insurance penalties for speeding between 55 and 70 miles per hour on the state's highways.

A 92-49 House vote sent the bill to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for signature.

Earlier, the House passed 136-0 a "sunset bill" that would automatically wipe out 179 state agencies over the next 12 years unless future legislatures extend their lives.

Senators must approved House changes in the sunset bill before it can reach Briscoe's desk.

Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, made a last-ditch attempt to defeat the speeding bill by reading a telegram that the governor received more than six weeks ago from Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams. The secretary expressed commitment to keeping the 55 mph speed limit both to conserve fuel and save lives.

"Any lessening of the penalties which create a situation where violators are penalized less now for failure to comply with the speed limits than prior to enactment of the 55 mph law will raise substantial questions whether the state is in compliance," the telegram said.

Nugent interpreted this as a warning that passage of the bill could cut off federal highway aid to Texas, which amounts to more than $500 million per year.

Rep. John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa, said that he had been told by the director of Texas state police that Oklahoma passed a similar bill three years ago and "haven't lost a farthing."

Nugent later told reporters that nobody in the governor's office had asked him to either read the Adams telegram or to oppose the bill.

The bill would stop the present practice of increasing car insurance premiums of drivers who get tickets for speeding between 55 and 70 mph on the highway.

Offbeat: 'Rat Patrol'

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Firemen in this Central Arkansas city have formed their own version of the late television series "Rat Patrol" and the traditional dalmation has been replaced by an ill-tempered tom cat.

It seems rats have been spotted around the station in sufficient numbers to prompt the firefighters to start two-hour rat patrol watches at night.

Fire Chief Wayman Schmitt says he hopes the measures will help his firemen feel more comfortable sleeping until something can be done to eliminate the problem.

Since hoseman John Stofan apparently was bitten or scratched on the head by a rat last weekend, some firemen have started sleeping in the trucks instead of their station house bunks.

American Petrofina, Inc. has announced the appointment of W.D. Broughton as Manager of Project Engineer and Robert A. Fuller as Manager of Process Engineering and Development.

Both promotions represent increased responsibilities for Fina's refining and petrochemical facilities in various plants in the U.S. Both men, formerly in similar posts with Cosen Oil & Chemical Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, Inc., will continue to headquarter in Big Spring.

Broughton is now responsible for project engineering and construction in Fina's refineries in Big Spring, Mount Pleasant and Port Arthur, Texas; petrochemical plants in Big Spring, Port Arthur, Carville, La., Calumet City,

BROUGHTON FULLER

Ill., Orange County, Calif., and Windsor, N.J. In addition, he manages project engineering groups in Port Arthur and Big Spring.

Joining Cosen in Big Spring in September 1953, as a junior mechanical engineer, Broughton was promoted to project engineer in the spring of 1956 and maintenance planning engineer in October of that same year. In May, 1958, he was named maintenance superintendent. Following Fina's purchase of the Cosen assets in 1963, he was named Assistant Chief Engineer at the Big Spring refinery and in July, 1966 Chief Engineer. He advanced to manager of maintenance and construction in July 1973 and in January, 1976 was named manager, project engineering.

Broughton received his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from Texas Tech and completed management development courses at the University of Texas in Austin in 1969. He is a member of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers, American Petroleum Institute and the National Petroleum Refiners Association, Maintenance Division. Broughton is married to the former Pew Lehmberg and is the father of two sons; Bruce of Odessa and Bryan, a student at Sul Ross University. Broughton is a member of the First Presbyterian Church and has been active in community affairs.

Fuller, a native of Big Spring, following graduation from the University of Florida in 1961 with a bachelor of science in chemical engineering joined Cosen at Big Spring as a junior engineer in the petrochemical division. In October, 1965, he became section leader of polystyrene development and was promoted to manager of process development in 1969. He was promoted to manager of process engineering and development for Cosen in January, 1972.

Fuller is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. He serves on the Industrial Team of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and on the board of directors of Family Services and is a former member of the Big Spring School Board. Mr. Fuller is married to the former Jo Ann Ebling and has two daughters; Mishell and Melissa. He is a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

County travel

AUSTIN, TEX., (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill said today that county officials with travel allowances do not have to account for every mile traveled "but the allowance must be reasonably related to expense actually incurred."

Hill added that travel between home and office is not official travel subject to reimbursement.

The opinion was asked by Duval County auditor Walter M. Meek who asked if a section of law "removes all restrictions on the amount a commissioner's car may allot to its members as an automobile allowance."

Hill said the section authorizes a county commissioners court to fix the amount which shall be received by county and precinct officials, including the commissioners themselves, as reimbursement for traveling expenses.

Two Rotary chiefs named

Two new Big Spring Rotary Club officers have been named for the year beginning July 1 to replace two incoming ones that cannot serve.

Barbie Fletcher, assistant manager at Dunlap's, will serve as club treasurer. He will replace accountant Kenneth Boethe.

Bill McCree, retired Boy Scout executive, will be a director, replacing Supt. Emmett McKenzie.

The nominations were made Tuesday by Postmaster Frank Hardesty, who headed the club's nomination committee.

President Jimmy Anderson also announced that the directors have voted that the club will sponsor one needy child to the Salvation Army's summer camp.

Rios posts $15,000 bail

Domingo Rios, charged Tuesday with involuntary manslaughter in the Saturday night accident which killed Maurine Ringener, is free on $15,000 bond. The bond was made by Rios' attorney Wayne Basden after Rios was arrested Wednesday.

Rule and the Rev. Bill Grandon of Ranger. Burial will follow in Lamesa Memorial Park.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Roberts of Welch; two sisters, Gena Roberts and Jodi Roberts; a brother, Ross Roberts, all of the home; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Boles, Lamesa; and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Jewell Roberts, Lamesa.

The child's brother, 15, and a sister, 10, were also treated and released following the accident.

Services for Edward H. Cole, 55, who jumped to his death in an apparent suicide Tuesday in San Angelo will be at 4 p.m. today in the River Welch Funeral Home Chapel.

The Rev. Clayton Hicks, Chaplain at the V.A. Hospital will officiate.

Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of River Welch Funeral Home, and pallbearers will be Jimmy Taylor, Vick Phillips, Foster Shirley, Weldon McClanahan, Dalton Carr, and Lawrence Wisenhunt.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickel Funeral Home for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lee Miller of Big Spring. The two-day-old infant died at 12:55 a.m. today in a local hospital.

FORNAN — Word has been received here of the death in Long Beach, Calif., of Miss Joy Simmons, sister of Mrs. George Bacon, Colorado City.

Services are scheduled for 3 p.m., Friday in the Tahoka Cemetery. Mrs. McCasland's husband (William) preceded her in death in 1930.

A vehicle driven by Kenneth E. McGruder, 1006 W. 6th, collided with a parked car belonging to Arthur Trevino, 608 N.W. 4th, at 600 N.W. 4th, 7:27 p.m.

A vehicle driven by Jesus Rios, 1111 N. Goliad, collided with a parked car belonging to John Griffith, 1800 E. 15th, in the parking lot of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, 8:36 a.m.

A vehicle driven by Mrs. Albert Page, 2705 E. 24th, collided with a parked car belonging to William Harvey, Midland, in the parking lot of Malone-Hogan Hospital.

LEAVING JAIL — Singer-actress Claudine Longet, with an arm around her son Christian, smiles at newsmen after leaving the Pitkin County jail in Aspen, Colo., Wednesday. At right is her former husband, singer Andy Williams. Miss Longet completed her 30-day jail sentence in the shooting death of her lover, Vladimir Sabich, last year.

Case load reduced in District Court

District Court reduced its load by 22 cases in April, while county court saw an increase of 18 cases over the same period.

In the criminal section of district action, a total of 242 cases were pending April 1. No cases were filed during the month by indictment, and only four by information. Few cases were disposed of during the month, nine by guilty pleas and one by dismissal, leaving 236 pending for May.

In the civil area, 1,537 cases were pending at the beginning of the month, 81 were filed during that period, and 96 were disposed of. The dispositions were split into several groups: 21 were default judgments, two were agreed judgments, 54 were final judgments after trial without a jury, three were final judgments on a jury verdict, and 16 were dismissed by the plaintiff. A total of 1,522 cases remained at the end of the month.

One writ of habeas corpus was handled during the month.

In county court, 590 criminal cases were pending at the beginning of April. Forty-two cases were added, 28 of which were appealed from lower courts. Seventeen cases were handled with guilty pleas and five were dismissed, leaving a total of 610 cases pending at the first of May.

In civil cases, 207 cases were pending at the beginning of the month. Only one was filed and three were disposed of two drop the number of cases pending to 205. Of the cases disposed of, two were trials by the judge and one was dismissed.

Storms kick up more tornadoes

By The Associated Press

Savage thunderstorms kicked up still more tornadoes, huge hailstones and freshets of rain across a wide reach of West Texas today.

Some of the most punishing weather centered its fury in areas east of Lubbock around Crosbyton, Dickens and Spur. As much as eight inches of rain sent streams surging out of banks, and flash flooding drove two families from homes in Spur.

A six-inch deluge left the village of Afton, north of Dickens, awash. Hail as big as softball used on the baseball diamond was blamed for heavy damage to homes at Afton, where a dozen families live.

"We've got a bunch of crop damage but most of the water is going down and everybody is accounted for. Some of that water was rushing mightily swift," Police Chief Harold Matteson said at Spur.

At neighboring Dickens, Deputy Sheriff Robert Bybee reported muddy water blocked U.S. 82 for a time between his town and Guthrie.

A tornado wrecked an electric power substation 5 miles north of Spur, authorities said, but there was no word of injuries there or elsewhere. It was one of eight twisters counted in the Panhandle-Plains sector by the National Weather Service. No serious wind damage was reported at other points.

In the wake of the near-cloudbursts, extensive flooding occurred in low areas along tributaries of the Salt Fork of the Brazos River and the South Fork of the Pease River. One to two feet of water covered roadways in several rural areas, officers said.

Student council seniors honored

Graduating seniors on the Big Spring High School student council were guests of honor at the annual spring picnic held at the Barcelona Apartments with Craig Fischer, student council sponsor as host.

The outgoing seniors were presented a certificate and a Big Spring High mug by Fischer. They include Scott Sullivan, Jill Odom, David Trim, Steve Evans, Steve Hughes, Anne Mathews, Gary Howell, Bubba Stripling, Casey Wilder, Cynthia Fierro, Kyle Wheeler, Paul Spence, Donna Carpenter, Phil Barber, and Lisa Fort, who will complete her course the first quarter next year.

New officers of the council include Donny Knight, president; Del Poss, first vice president; Kevin McLaughlin, second vice president; Mariella Wise, recording secretary and Cindy Cowan, corresponding secretary.

The senior representatives next year include Irene Little, Andrea Hohertz, Kenneth Coffey, Joey Vasquez, Ricky Torres, Becky Ragan, Kenneth Perry, Debra Hayworth, Shawna Henry, Connie Jackson and Robin Newsom.

The junior representatives will be Juli Britton, Mike Brooks, Diana Dominguez, Mike Evans, Selena Jones, Barbie Kothmann, Kirk Mancill and Cindy Mullins.

Sophomores are Carrie Little, Craig Drake, Tressa Hohertz, Cindy Knight, Selena Jones, Chris Mancill, Karen Smith, Tammie Tonn, Rocky Torres and Morgan Wise.

Freshmen will include Debbie Fulger, John Little, Charollett Beil, and Dickie Wrightsill. Alternates are Tiffany Whiteside and Sherri Blalock.

Hamburgers were served. The group enjoyed swimming, tennis and pool.

Ables freed on parole

ABILENE — E. Alton Ables, convicted here in 1974 of stealing $61,558 from the Abilene Industrial Foundation while serving as its manager, has been freed from prison on parole.

Ables was serving ten-year prison terms on each of 18 felony theft convictions. He is now under parole supervision in Harris County. Ables' sentences were to run concurrently.

Ables made one $3,500 payment on the amount he admitted stealing after he was put in prison.

Cheerleaders are selected

Big Spring High School selected six cheerleaders for the next school year, instead of the traditional five. The group includes four seniors and two juniors.

They are Irene Little, Connie Jackson, Andrea Hohertz, Debra Hayworth, Diana Dominguez and Selena Jones.

The junior varsity cheerleaders are Tressa Hohertz, Carrie Little, Karen Smith and Melinda Porras.

Freshman cheerleaders will be Debra Abreo, Brenda Trevino, Jackie Rodriguez, Debbie Fulcher, Charollett Beil, and Tracy Snell. Alternates are Tori Knight and Melinda Vassar.

Teachers' pay hikes vote likely

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Senate Education Committee was expected to take a final vote today on an $820 million public school finance bill that includes $335 million for teacher pay raises, according to Chairman Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas.

The committee increased the pay provision Wednesday by $15 million and Car check fees action also voted additional maintenance and operation money.

Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, offered the amendment to add more money to teacher pay raises.

Instead of $8,410 the first year and $8,720 the second year for beginning teachers, Aikin proposed $8,844 and $9,174. Similar raises would be provided in other steps of the teacher pay scale. The committee accepted the amendment, 6-3.

Schools get $95 per average daily attendance (ADA) for maintenance and operation. The Senate bill called for increasing this to $105 in 1978 and $110 in 1979. But the committee accepted an amendment that raised this to $115 and $120. Total additional cost: $50.8 million.

A committee staffer explained this money equals a reduction in a proposed increase in compensatory education funds for poorer school districts. By adding it to maintenance and operation funds, the state gave local school districts greater flexibility in handling state aid, the staffer said.

Aikin tried to kill a section of the bill that would create a state property tax board. "How are you going to go home and explain the creation of a board here to supercede your local board?" he asked.

But the committee rejected Aikin's amendment, 5-3.

Mauzy's amendment to keep the present system of special education failed, 7-2, and the committee accepted, 7-2, an amendment by Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland, to put special education on a straight percentage basis tied to ADA instead of a certain number of full-time equivalent regular teachers for each special education teacher.

Job more complex than it sounds

Changing an air base over to a civilian operation is not as simple as it sounds.

Or so the Big Spring steering committee, which is working out details for having Webb Air Force Base returned to the City of Big Spring, has found out in its numerous meetings.

ONE OF THE most enlightening persons that the committee talked to was Col. Gail Peck, a retired Air Force wing commander at Laredo who became an aviation adviser and later airport manager for Laredo after its base closed.

Col. Peck was in Big Spring May 3, and he talked at length about Laredo's problems, one of which has been the city's inability to close the old airport after it began operating the one at the base.

Peck confirmed what anyone who has been connected with an airport already knows: the fixed base operators always quarrel. (Big Spring's airport has been no exception to this rule).

The colonel emphasized the importance of treating all operators at the local airport just the same — a lesson that Howard County has learned the hard way.

The problems which Peck outlined are not insurmountable ones, but some of them I had never thought about. For example, an air base has supreme fuel systems, right? Laredo had to spend $162,000 converting the systems from jet fuel to fixed base operator fuel requirements.

Another minor sounding problem which is really large: Uncle Sam pays all the utilities, so there is no need for meters on each building of the base. But when the buildings are leased individually, each must have water, gas and electrical meters. Installing these on an entire base is quite an undertaking.

Despite all the air facilities at the base, a large sum of money was required to convert the operations building into a passenger terminal. In Laredo, this cost was $350,000.

Col. Peck said that Laredo received a $1.7 million grant from the federal government, but he warned:

"DON'T THINK YOU get something free. There is always cost involved." He said the paperwork to receive the grant represents cost to the city.

Then he made a promise to the Big Spring steering committee: "You won't have any problems that money couldn't cure."

It won't be easy to operate Webb as an industrial park and municipal airport. With 87 per cent of the buildings at Laredo leased, the industrial park and airport still are not generating the revenues needed to make the operation self-supporting over a long period of time.

But it is a task that Big Spring cannot back away from if the community is to be a moving, progressive one.

Comeback

Around the rim

James Werrell

T-shirts have come a long way since Clark Gable nearly killed them off back in the thirties.

Gable did this by simply not wearing anything under his shirt in one of his movies ("It Happened One Night" I think). Men saw this and just quit wearing undershirts.

BUT THE INDUSTRY didn't die, and T-shirts took a slow road all the way up to high style. They were helped along the way by people like Marlon Brando, who wore a torn one in "A Streetcar Named Desire;" Paul Newman, who wore a sleeveless one in "Hud;" and Sophia Loren, who wore a wet one in "Boy On A Dolphin."

Mickey Mantle probably helped a little too when he wore a T-shirt in the magazine advertisement for Lucky Strikes, when athletes could do that sort of thing.

At any rate T-shirts have come a long way from being just white and hidden under another shirt. With surfing, The Beach Boys, Jan and Dean, etc. in the sixties, came the true surfacing of the colored and striped T-shirts.

Now there are no limits. You can buy T-shirts with virtually anything on them, the name of your favorite tennis shoe, the name of your favorite beer, a computer printout of your girlfriend's face, your favorite illegal drug, your favorite motorcycle, the list is endless.

T-shirts are being sold with decals that can be scratched with the fingernails and made to smell like pizza. Fact!

TWO BOYS WERE suspended for wearing a T-shirt depicting Farrah Fawcett-Majors in a bathing suit. Imagine what would have happened if they had worn T-shirts with Farrah wearing a T-shirt depicting Farrah wearing a T-shirt of Farrah... It boggles the mind.

"Rolling Stone" features a whole section of its want-ads, near the erotic pillowcase section, to the sale of T-shirts. Available tees include foreign language T-shirts, disco duck T-shirts, and of course, Farrah Fawcett Majors T-shirts among others.

Are T-shirts high style? The pinnacle of T-shirtdom was reached by Bloomingdale's, a New York department store. In an advertisement in the New York Times Magazine, it read simply, "Colored T-shirts in all hues. $10 apiece. Or buy the whole set for only $170." Need I say more.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: If you really love a person and ask God to give him to you, will He do it? I really think I am in love with a popular singer. We have never met, but I have all his records and really feel I love him. —S.D.

DEAR S.D.: I'm afraid I can't hold out much hope for you. You see, prayer is not some sort of device that we use just to fulfill our own selfish desires. In prayer we tell God our needs and concerns, but most of all we seek God's will for our lives. "And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us" (1 John 5:14). Do you really want God's will for your life, or is this something that is basically selfish?

~~I know you may feel very~~ emotionally involved with this person right now, but what you feel is not really love. Love is not simply an emotion, in spite of what some of our popular songs and films tell us. True love can only develop when we actually know a person in some depth. You are infatuated with the image this singer projects to the public, but you actually know nothing about the real person behind the image.

I challenge you, as a young person with your life ahead of you, to give your heart to Christ. God loves you, and He wants to forgive you for your sins and make you His child. He wants you to live for Him in all you do, and to seek His will above all else. "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matthew 6:33). God has the right person for you to marry some day, and He wants you to have the spiritual maturity to wait for that person.

'Not enough'

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The hopes by energy czar James Schlesinger of winning the environmental lobby's full support for President Carter's energy package were crushed when consumer crusader Ralph Nader reiterated the controlling doctrine of his political life: if you are not 100 per cent with me, you are against me.

Nader burned some bridges to the Carter White House in a Washington press conference April 8 which, while ignored outside energy circles, stunned Dr. Schlesinger and his closest aides. In his distinctively sneering, ad hominem language, Nader asserted that Mr. Carter's radical limitations on nuclear power — far too radical, say many experts — were not radical enough. For Nader, nothing else would do except banning "all" nuclear power.

THAT ADDS THE nation's most prestigious consumerist to the legion sniping at the Carter package. A week before the President unveils the first truly serious energy program, he is opposed by auto makers and auto unions, big oil and oil company-haters, utilities and manufacturers, Wall Street and caravans of auto-lovers. Now, Nader brings in the militant environmentalists.

While running for President, Mr. Carter called nuclear power only "a last resort" to supply energy needs. "Well, the last resort is here," one of the President's energy advisers told us, "and Nader is opposing the last resort." Nader thereby leads his supporters into opposition against any practical new source of energy. The alternative: a Spartan decline in lifestyle which American simply will not accept.

Noting that President Gerald Ford's energy proposals foundered on hard environmentalist opposition, Mr. Carter had hoped to ameliorate them. Considering that efforts at nuclear appeasement by Schlesinger won Nader's contempt, the inevitable question arises: did Schlesinger give away too much?

YES, SAY A substantial body of industrialists, scientists and energy experts who oppose the President's shutdown of plutonium development and fast breeder reactors — the most controversial aspects of nuclear power. Their arguments: without plutonium, there may not be sufficient uranium in the years ahead; when uranium reserves are depleted, the technology of plutonium production may have atrophied in this country.

The Carter program relies on what has come to be called "conventional" nuclear power — light-water reactors using natural uranium and producing no plutonium. The only other practical sources would be coal and offshore oil; accelerated production of either would carry hideous environmental consequences for Naderites.

Schlesinger and his closest aides had awaited reaction to his limited nuclear power proposals to show whether the Naderites wanted realistic conservation and environmental control, or, instead, insisted on a zero-growth society with an austere lifestyle patterned to Ralph Nader's own.

The answer came from Nader April 8: no more than 5 per cent of opponents of nuclear power will be satisfied by merely banning plutonium reprocessing and the fast breeder. Warning to his task, he declared Schlesinger "is grossly out of touch with what's going on" and "would be well advised to break through the cocoon of advisers that he has around him."

NADER SWITCHED TO the ad hominem, charging that two of Schlesinger's most liberal advisers — aide David Freeman and federal energy administrator John O'Leary — were withholding from him their real opposition to nuclear power. Nader ascribed a personal motive to Freeman, an old friend and sometime colleague: "He wants to be head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and you don't become head of the Tennessee Authority by being critical of nuclear power."

That left the Carter energy team shaking with the same sputtering frustration familiar to big businessmen after a Nader raid. True, both Freeman and O'Leary have criticized nuclear power; in a Jan. 20 interview in the Wall Street Journal, O'Leary issued an ill-advised warning about nuclear "meltdowns" (releases of radiation from power plants). But neither has ever ruled out all nuclear power.

Besides, all this was a condescending put-down of Schlesinger as an unlettered nobody at the mercy of designing aides. In fact, the former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission is probably better versed in the nuclear field than either Freeman or O'Leary.

NADER MAY NOT be quite the heroic figure of a decade ago but is still potent enough to frighten nervous liberals in Congress and even the White House. Yet, his blanket opposition to all nuclear power could expose Nader as demanding an austerity that is neither acceptable to his countrymen nor necessary.

Help!!!

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — What happened was that a few years ago people started giving us houseplants instead of cut flowers. The children gave their mother a palm tree for Mother's Day; they gave me a philodendron for Father's Day and three dieffenbachias for Christmas.

My wife put them in the living room. Then relatives brought a snake plant a few months later, and a friend presented us with a fatsia plant which my wife put in the library to help "cheer" it up.

SHE DUTIFULLY watered them and talked to them and they started to grow... and grow... and grow. Then she decided the living room looked bare and bought some grape ivy which she wrapped around the fake balcony and some aspidistras which she placed in the corner near the television set.

Someone sent us a schefflera for an anniversary, and friends who have a farm in the Shenandoah trucked in two spider plants which were put in the dining room. A future son-in-law presented us with three rubber plants, and on my birthday I was given a potted elephant's-ears all of my own. My daughter, who was going away to college, asked us if we would keep her weeping fig plants while she was away, and someone, I can't remember who, sent us a box of screw pines.

The house looked green and lovely for a short while. But then a strange thing happened. The plants kept getting larger and larger. First they took over the living room. We realized this when the man who came to fix the TV set got lost and was never heard from again. My wife wanted me to search for him, but I said to her, "Are you kidding? That living room's a jungle."

ONE SATURDAY I bought a machete and tried to chop a trail through the living room to my library. But after four hours I realized it was hopeless. The more I hacked away the faster the houseplants grew. We closed off the living room.

We were sitting in the dining room one evening when I noticed I couldn't see anyone at the table. It was an eerie feeling as I shouted through the palm leaves: "Is anybody there?" I thought I heard a voice coming from the end of the table saying, "You Tarzan, me Jane," but it could have been the wind. I looked up and saw one of my children sitting in a branch of the palm tree. "What are you doing up there? Sit down and eat your dinner."

"Where can I sit?" she wanted to know.

"In your chair," I said.

"I can't find my chair," she said. "Do you think they'll ever send a rescue ship to find us?"

That night I said to my wife, "We've got to move out of the dining room. It's not safe to eat there any more."

"They're only plants," she said.

"What about scorpions and snakes? you can't have that much foliage without scorpions."

WE PUT some defoliant down between the dining room and kitchen and started to eat all our meals in the kitchen. Occasionally, a kangaroo vine or the grape ivy tried to sneak in, but I kept an ax by my side and every once in a while I chopped off a length of it before it crawled to our food.

My doctor warned me to stay out of the library unless I wanted to take a gamble on catching malaria or yellow fever.

Spring can be cluster headache season

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is Horton's syndrome? It has to do with the headaches I've been having. Are they special kinds of headaches that can be treated specially? —W.J.

There are several names for this kind of headache — "histamine headache," "cluster headache," etc. The former gives an idea of the cause, the latter describes how they occur — in clusters, often leading up to a real dinger.

There can be as many as a dozen in a day, and for some reason spring is one of the prime seasons for them.

The cause is believed to be overproduction of histamine by the body. Histamine is a substance which, among other things, dilates (expands) blood vessels. In cluster headache the vessels can be seen throbbing along the temple during an attack. The attacks are usually one-sided and can be accompanied by a number of symptoms — eyeball pain and redness, copious tear production, runny nose.

Men, especially the rugged, highly aggressive types, are more prone to them than others. Persons subject to these kinds of headaches should avoid drugs or other substances that can cause the blood vessel dilation, adding to the histamine problem. That includes alcohol. A drinking bout can be an invitation to a severe attack.

Drugs of the ergotamine family may ease an attack. For others desensitization with histamine over long periods may help the body overcome its sensitivity.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Years ago you mentioned that there are special camps available for diabetic children. Now I find I have a youngster with the problem. I can't recall what you said about them or how to find them. Where does one go? Please send me your booklet on diabetes, "The Sneaky Disease." I have enclosed 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. —Mr. J.D.

There are camps where special medical supervision is available for diabetic youngsters. I highly recommend them. Unfortunately, they aren't available everywhere. Check with a local chapter of the American Diabetes Association, or write to the national office, 1 East 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. The outlook for young diabetics is good these days. And the outdoor life can be a part of any child's experience, diabetic or not.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can estrogen cause ankles to swell up? —F.L.

It can be increasing salt retention and hence liquid retention. However, swelling would not necessarily be limited to the ankles. That could be a matter of blood vessel inadequacy. If varicose veins are involved you shouldn't take estrogen.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went in for my Pap test and the doctor reported that I have fibroids of the uterus. I am 35 years old. Just what is the next step? My doctor does not seem overly concerned, and hasn't suggested cutting them out. What do you advise a woman my age to do? —Mrs. W.K.

At this distance it is impossible to advise. Fibroids (myomas) are quite common, although perhaps not quite so common at your age. About one in three women over 40 develop them. Why this happens is not clear. They usually pose no problem, so are more often left alone, especially during childbearing years.

You should continue having your regular Pap tests. Twice a year would be a reasonable schedule. Such growths can change in character and become cancerous, in which case they are removed, of course. In some women menopause brings a shrinkage of the fibroids.

You don't mention having any of the menstruation problems that might prompt removal. Your own doctor is the one to answer your main question about removal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My bladder leaks. I have complete control at night, but it happens mostly when I walk. Sometimes it's worse than at others. I had surgery for it seven years ago. Do you think bladder repair again would correct it? Why does it flare up? —Mrs. P.S.

The pelvic tissue may have relaxed again after seven years. If the muscles involved had this tendency once the chances are they still do.

Likewise, if the previous surgery helped then, a second operation probably would be effective. Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

WASHINGTON — The grim Korean phrase "up se burida," an assassination order, has been transmitted from Seoul to the Korean Central Intelligence Agency in this country.

Its operatives have been instructed to eliminate one of the South Korean regime's most outspoken critics, radio commentator Dr. Younghye Kang. By exposing the plot in advance, hopefully we may save his life.

We cannot reveal how the death message was intercepted, without endangering sources. But U.S. authorities are aware that the terse words "up se burida" have been received by the KCIA in America.

THE PHRASE, according to Korean linguists, means "to be eliminated by force" or "to be disposed of by force" or "to be made to disappear." Apparently, this is what the KCIA has in mind for the forthright Dr. Kang.

The broadcaster got wind of his danger a few days ago and complained at once to the Washington field office of the FBI. For several months, the FBI has been investigating KCIA intimidation of Korean exiles in the United States.

This isn't the first time that Kang has been menaced by the KCIA. On Aug. 17, 1973, the New York Times reported that he had received a less explicit threat. He was then editing a monthly political sheet, "Free Republic," which was highly critical of South Korean President Park Chung Hee.

Kang's mother had written from Korea, warning that she and his brothers would be in jeopardy if he continued his attacks on President Park. This was followed by a similar but softer letter to his publisher, Sun Nam Chung, from a relative. Kang is convinced that both letters were dictated by the KCIA.

Kang is an associate of Kim Dae Jung, who challenged Park for the presidency in 1971. Kim came to Washington in 1973 to complain to us about Park. Not long afterward, the exile leader was abducted in broad daylight from a Tokyo hotel.

On Dec. 6, 1974, we published his account of how he had been dragged aboard a ship, lashed to a wooden board and weighted down with huge stones. The appearance of an American helicopter in the area probably saved him from being cast overboard.

Americans are lazy?

ANTHONY, Tex. (AP) — Domingo Manriquez thinks workers from Mexico are fulfilling a need in the United States by accepting jobs that most Americans spurn.

"I can outwork just about any man and I know for sure some of the jobs I've had no one here (in the U.S.) would want," the 38-year-old Mexican national said.

Manriquez has been arrested four times for violation of U.S. immigration laws. He is serving a six-month term in La Tuna Federal Prison in Far West Texas, he says, "just because I came looking for a job."

Adams' duties include placing vets in jobs

Ellis Britton, Big Spring Texas Employment Commission Office Manager, announced today the appointment of Don Adams as the Veterans Outreach Aide for Howard and Glasscock Counties.

Adams' job duties will include placing veterans in jobs; performing outreach work to locate disabled veterans, primarily Viet-Veterans; contacting area employer to develop jobs and training opportunities; providing vocational counseling; and serving as a liaison between the T.E.C. and area service, civic, and veterans groups.

Adams comes well qualified for this position, having served as Assistant Director of the Office of Veterans Affairs at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls. He also served as sergeant at arms for the American Legion Department of Texas, and President of both American Veterans on Campus and Wichitans Care POW-MIA Concern Group.

All veterans who need any of the services provided by T.E.C. are urged to call Adams at 267-7437, or stop by the T.E.C. office at 406 Runnels.

Manriquez believes Americans are lazy. "They don't want to work. So they get people like us to do the dirty jobs. And since most of the people who are coming across are hungry, desperate and scared, all an American boss has to do is scream orders and we'll work harder," he said.

Some prison officials say illegal aliens are not thought of as criminals. Jerry Edwards, La Tuna's case management chief, said they are repeat offenders of immigration laws, "not hardened criminals like one would think."

U.S. Bureau of Prisons figures show that about 860 illegal aliens are now in prison. Ninety per cent are being held on immigration violations.

The prisoners earn wages while at La Tuna working in a furniture refinishing factory, a brush factory and a dairy operation. A supervisor agreed that the illegal aliens work harder than Americans.

"There is one man here who makes anywhere between 220 to as many as 250 brushes in one day. At three cents per brush, he stands to make pretty good money every month," he said.

But the inmates know they could be making more money outside the walls of the medium-security prison.

Hilario Martinez, 27, said: "If Americans didn't want us here, then they wouldn't hire us."

"I'd rather be suffering on some terrible job than to be here," Martinez said.

For those of you who enjoy the Thunderbirds, Sunday is probably the last chance to see them in Big Spring.

Through the years, this precision group of pilots has pleased audiences in West Texas at special demonstrations at Webb Air Force Base.

I remember well the first time I saw them. I was living in Andrews in the fall of 1971 and was enroute to an Andrews-Lakeview football game. I was with friends and we had left Andrews early enough to "stop in Big Spring and eat some of that good Mexican food."

Just outside Big Spring, we saw the Thunderbirds and we pulled off the highway, got out and stood there and watched their performance.

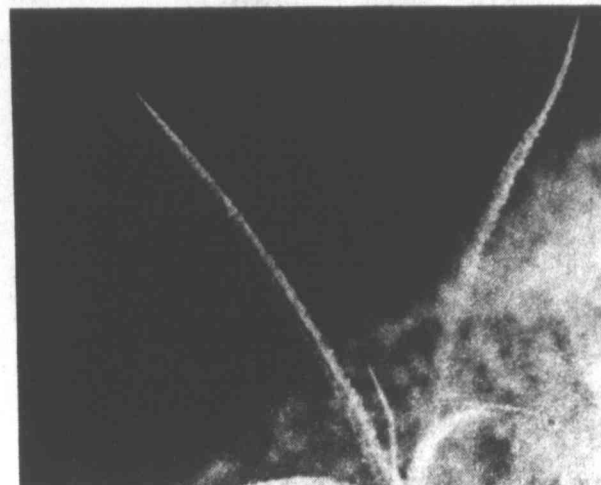

I've been a Thunderbird fan ever since. I was really sad in 1972 when we had a special picture of Col. Bolt greeted by his Mother when he performed here — and then that December he was killed in a practice session of the team near Las Vegas.

The show window of the Air Force, their performance is expert and so smooth that we begin to think of it as easy when we watch. But it isn't easy.

This week there has been quite a bit being said about the name of Webb being completely obliterated from the Big Spring scene.

I am one of the people who thinks we will make it fine without the air base if we work hard and keep trying. But I am also one of the people who had many good friends at the air base.

I think 35 years of Webb is a part of Big Spring's history. I hope that a few buildings or businesses at the location will keep the name of Webb. There are a land there several miles wide, and completely wiped out everything. It knocked every leaf off the trees, killed all the grass and killed birds and jackrabbits.

To hear Buddy tell it, "It was eerie to look around at that completely desolate strip."

I hope that was "it" for the year for this area. We can do without it. And I hope I don't run into any like that — when I'm out ridin' fence.

But anyway, Sunday, is a good day to see the Thunderbirds — one more time.

Let's hope for good weather. We've had an unusually good spring. I heard one tale about hail out around Sparenburg, out near Garden City way that really curled my hair, however. It happened two weeks back.

Jury weighs verdict in Baytown deaths case

HOUSTON (AP) — A state district court jury resumed deliberations today in the capital murder trial of Vernon McManus, accused in the last July slaying of a wealthy Baytown couple.

The state accused McManus, a former college football coach, of arranging the deaths of Paul and Mary Cantrell. Their bodies were found in their Baytown home July 25. Both had been strangled and their throats slashed.

Paula Cantrell Derese, 27, a daughter of the slain couple, was originally charged with capital murder in the case but prosecutors agreed to accept a guilty plea to a lesser count of murder in return for her testimony. She spent three days on the stand as a prosecution witness. She is awaiting sentencing.

The prosecution claimed the Cantrells were killed in a scheme to collect estate and insurance money.

The jury received the case about mid-afternoon Wednesday, deliberated for about an hour and then requested trial exhibits. The panel deliberated for about 90 minutes more and then retired for the night.

The jury received the case after the defense rested without calling a witness.

The prosecution called several witnesses during eight days of testimony.

State District Court Judge I.D. McMaster denied two defense motions. One asked that the jury be instructed to return a verdict of innocent to capital murder and to reduce the charge to murder.

Eve Duran gets degree

WESTBROOK (SC) — Eve Duran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Duran of Westbrook, received her Associate of Applied Science degree as a legal secretarial major from Western Texas College, Snyder, in spring commencement exercises held recently.

Miss Duran is a 1975 graduate of Westbrook High School.

In keeping with May's theme as being Older Texan's month, the Senior Citizens of Howard County Council on Aging Wednesday awarded three well-known and longtime residents of the community certificates of recognition.

The council chose to pick one member each of three different ethnic groups in the community for the awards. Gus Ochotorena Sr., 73, was awarded the Latin American recognition certificate by the council. Ochotorena is active in church work in the community.

Frank Robinson, 77, was awarded the certificate for being the most outstanding black member of the community. Robinson is active in church work and has worked for the First National Bank in Big Spring for many years.

Archie E. (Preach) True, 82, was recognized for the most outstanding Anglo in the community. True and his wife are active in volunteer work at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Preservation is topic

Food preservation was the topic of discussion at the Fairview Home Demonstration Club Tuesday. Miss Janet Sargent, home demonstration agent, told the club members the incidences of botulism has increased considerably in the past few years and has caused several deaths. She attributed such actions to improper canning methods.

In other action, officers were elected for the next year. They are Mrs. Marvin Louise Williams, president; Mrs. Minnie Skalicky, vice president; Mrs. I'neil Smauley, secretary; Mrs. Bernice Micallef, treasurer; and Mrs. Edith Gregory, council delegate.

The member chosen to be a delegate to the state convention, which will be in Galveston Sept. 20-22 is Mrs. Sarah Griffith.

At the next meeting on June 7 a 4-H program will be given. Mrs. Dorothy Earhart will be hostess.

Woman of the year chosen by local chapter

Ms. Lucille Brown has been named Woman of the Year of the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA). The announcement came at the monthly meeting of the chapter, May 16 at Furr's Cafeteria. Ms. Brown is a buyer of china and jewelry for Blum's.

Annually, each ABWA chapter selects one of its members for this award. Selection is based on the member's achievement in her field of business, education and participation in the association and in the community activities.

Other actions at May's meeting included a talk given by Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent of the Big Spring school district on possible problems the schools might face because of the closing of Webb Air Force Base.

Officer election for the chapter will be in June. Among the members elected for the nominating committee include Ms. Maurine Hanks, Ms. Lahoma Clark and Ms. Helen McDonald.

Ms. Brown appointed Ms. Clark and Ms. Hanks to the auditing committee.

The invitational talk was given by Ms. Joan Bradbury, the owner, bookkeeper and Mrs. Virginia Chappell's first grade class, under the direction of Mrs. Susan Dawes, presented a musical program for the Marcy Elementary PTA Tuesday evening.

The group included songs from Sesame Street and Winnie the Pooh. They performed on the xylophone, bells and drums.

Robert Dawes accompanied the group on the recorder and Mrs. Linda Mason accompanied on the piano.

The children in the class presented Mrs. Dawes and Mrs. Chappell with corsages following the program.

Ms. Velma Graham gave the benediction.

The next meeting will be June 20. The place will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Thixton is recognized

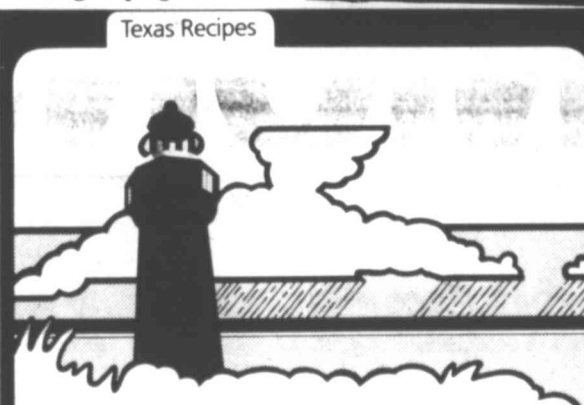

FORSAN (SC) — The Forsan Study Club, which met May 14, presented member Mrs. Eunice Thixton the award as club woman of the year. The presentation was made by Mrs. Ann Fairchild.

During the luncheon meeting in Big Spring, yearbooks for the coming year were handed out.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Thetis Dunagan and Mrs. Loreta Yarbrough served as toastmistress for the meeting.

Mrs. Sharon Cregar won the door prize. Two guests of the club, Mrs. Frances Stockton, Sand Springs and Mrs. Bernice Galloway, Big Spring, were present.

Gulf Coast Chicken and Rice

1 (2 1/2 #) chicken fryer
1/2 cup cooking oil
1/2 stick butter or margarine
Salt and pepper

Split fryer in half, then cut into quarters. In heavy skillet over medium high heat brown chicken in oil and butter until golden brown on all sides. Season with salt and pepper. Place chicken in baking pan; cover with lid or foil and bake in 350°F oven until chicken is tender and golden brown, about one hour. Serve with freshly cooked, hot rice. Serves 4.

Rice and Pecans

4 1/2 cups cooked rice (1 1/2 cups uncooked)
3/4 cups water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine (for toasting pecans)
1 cup pecan halves, toasted
1/4 cup minced parsley
1/4 cup onions, diced and sauteed
1/4 cup celery, diced and sauteed

Cook 1 1/2 cups rice in 3/4 cups water and 1 1/2 teaspoons salt by your favorite method. When rice is fluffy and water is all absorbed, stir in toasted pecan halves, parsley and sauteed onions and celery using fork to keep rice fluffy.

*To toast pecans, melt butter or margarine in skillet over medium heat. Stir pecans until they are crisp and beginning to brown. Watch and stir to avoid burning.

Shower given

Miss Jana Lynn Porter, bride-elect of Randal Harley Childs, was given a miscellaneous bridal shower Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Edgar Ray, 1404 Johnson.

Yellow and apricot corsages were worn by Miss Porter and the mothers of the future bride and groom, Mrs. Bennie L. Porter and Mrs. Ronald E. Garner. Mrs. Modehn Wyatt, grandmother of the bride also wore one, which was presented to her and the others.

The serving table at the shower was set with a white linen tablecloth with silver and crystal appointments. The centerpiece was an inkling on glass of the wedding announcement in the bride-elect's chosen colors of yellow and apricot.

Hostesses included Mrs. Ray, Mrs. E.M. Newton, Mrs. John Jones, Mrs. Bobby Nobles and Mrs. George Franklin.

Others were Mrs. Millard Saunders, Mrs. J.C. Ringener, Mrs. Gaylon Harding, Ms. Wanda Anderson and Mrs. U.S. Beechly.

The couple will be married June 4 in the Baptist Temple Church in Big Spring.

Hirt home shower site

Miss Denise Plagens, bride-elect of Mike Batla, was the honoree at a miscellaneous/bridal shower Sunday in the home of Mrs. Sidney Hirt, St. Lawrence.

Hostesses were Miss Brenda Schwartz, Miss Jan Hirt, Miss Becky Hirt, Miss Jacquelyn Frerich, Miss Karla Halfmann, Miss Alana Schniers, Miss Donna Plagens and Miss Linda Batla.

Others included Mrs. Steve Livingston, Mrs. Rick Gully, Mrs. James Ripple, Mrs. David Wilde and Mrs. Ernie Schwartz.

The table decorations at the shower were set in the bride-elect's chosen colors of apricot and white, with crystal and silver appointments used.

Corsages were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Ed Plagens and Batla's mother, Mrs. Delmer Batla, all of St. Lawrence.

The couple will be married June 18 in the St. Lawrence Catholic Church.

Webb Air Force Base Exchange employees trade favorites

The Webb Air Force Base Exchange, located in the Webb complex, is a place where military employees and their dependents can come to do much of their shopping as well as take advantage of other services. The Base Exchange houses a store like that of a civilian department store, as well as a beauty shop, barber shop, laundry and dry cleaners.

Exchange manager is Safford. Mrs. Mary Cheney is personnel supervisor.

Several of the employees of the Base Exchange recently got together and swapped their favorite recipes. Employees that gave recipes were Mrs. Jo Gonzales, cashier; Mrs. Claudia Polyniak, services-vending supervisor; Mrs. Betty Loyd, department supervisor; Mrs. Karen Doble, customer service clerk; Mrs. Mary Hartley, sales clerk; and Mrs. Inge Bennett, sales clerk.

Others were Mrs. Bea McCray, beautician; Mrs. Mary Garner, sales clerk;

Mrs. Bertie Landrum, cashier; Miss Jennie Ament, sales clerk; Miss Linda Cook, customer service; and Mrs. Tony L. Burks, sales clerk.

Mrs. Cheney pointed out that the Base Exchange employees represent a cross-section of nationalities. Mrs. Burks is from Denmark, and Mrs. Gonzales is from the Philippines. Mrs. Bennett is from Germany, and Syed is from Pakistan.

There are approximately 30 employees of the BX.

The group's favorite recipes are included here.

SWEET POTATO BALLS

By MARY GARNER
2 1/2 c. mashed sweet potatoes
1/4 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
2 tbsps. melted butter
1/4 c. tiny marshmallows
Mix ingredients and chill.
Shape into balls, using 1/4 cup mixture for each. Heat one tbsps. butter and 1-3rd c. of honey. When hot, add balls one at a time. With two forks, carefully and quickly roll in glaze. Roll in one c. of chopped nuts. Place balls (apart) in greased, shallow pan. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake at 350 degrees 15 to 20 minutes.

"PANSIT" — A FILIPINO DISH

By JO GONZALES
1 13 3/4 oz. pkg. rice stick noodles
3 to 4 cloves minced garlic
About 1 1/2 c. diced celery
1 c. cut lengthwise carrots
1/2 c. chopped green onions
1/2 c. sliced onions
1 c. diced cabbage
1 8-oz. bag frozen ready to eat shrimp
1 can bean sprouts, drained
2 c. each kind of meat, cut lengthwise: ham, chicken, pork and beef.
Soak the noodles in water while preparing the ingredients. Fry with garlic all the different kinds of meat. Add shrimp, sliced onions and the rest of the vegetables. Simmer, then add the drained noodles and bean sprouts. Add salt, pepper and about 1 tsp. monosodium glutamate, and soy sauce to taste. Squeeze some lemon and simmer, but don't let noodles dry out. Garnish with chopped green onions and chopped scrambled egg.

STUFFED CABBAGE

By CLAUDIA POLYNIK
1 head of cabbage
1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
1 onion
Salt and pepper
1/2 c. rice (cooked)
1 egg
1 can tomato soup
1 tsp. oil or shortening
Cut core from cabbage, wash and put in large pot of boiling water. Cook 10 minutes. Remove from heat and let cabbage stand for 15 minutes to soften leaves.
Drain, saving 2 cups liquid from the boiled cabbage. Mix meat, rice, egg, salt and pepper well. Brown onion in oil, adding the above mixture, browning all.
Separate cabbage leaves, keeping them whole. If leaves are large, they can be cut into two parts. Place a few outer leaves in bottom of pot. Put sufficient meat mixture in each leaf and roll. Place rolls in pot layer upon layer. Pour in two cups cabbage liquid (saved earlier) and tomato soup. Cover and simmer over low heat about 1 1/2 hours. Serve.

By BEATRICE MCCRAY
1-1/4 lb. ground beef
1/4 c. chopped green chilies or green pepper
1/2 c. chopped onions
1 c. (8-oz.) tomato sauce
2 tsp. chili powder
1 can (large) flaky biscuits
1 1/2 c. shredded cheese
1/2-1 c. sour cream
1 egg slightly beaten
3/4 tsp. garlic salt
Brown meat, onions, and chilies, drain. Stir in 1/2 tomato sauce, chili powder, and garlic salt. Simmer while preparing dough. Divide each biscuits in half and line the bottom of 8- or 9-square pan with 1/2 of biscuits. To meat mixture add sour cream, tomato sauce, and 1/2 of cheese. Mix well and spoon over biscuit lined pan. Arrange the remaining biscuits or top of meat mixture and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until biscuits are golden brown. Tip: To reheat, cover loosely with foil and bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes until thoroughly heated.

Mrs. Virginia Sweeney was a guest at the luncheon.

Mrs. Venora Williams was the hostess. The August meeting will be at Howard College.

Chicken cooking contest names Texas winner

AUSTIN — A San Antonio cook, a first-time entry in the Texas Chicken Cooking Contest, was named state winner here Saturday and will advance to the national finals to be held in Jackson, Miss., July 27.

Mrs. Kay Grizzard of 5111 Slayden Dr. derived her prize-winning recipe "Chicken Yucatan," after asking a Mexican chef his secret to a dish enjoyed during a vacation. "When I came home, I worked out the ingredients and it has been a family favorite ever since," she said.

The five state finalists competing for the top prize in the event sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture and the Texas Broiler Council, included Lynn Castro of 3206 Iola St., Houston, second place; Diane Stallings of 1521 Rosemont, Amarillo, third place; Helen Longmire of 1721 East 38 1/2 St., Austin, fourth place; and Mrs. Olga Jacks of 2204 Harrison Ave., Fort Worth, fifth place.

"The participation of all of the 1,500 cooks throughout the state who submitted recipes for consideration is certainly evidence of the popularity of Texas Chicken," commented Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown. "We would certainly like to see Mrs. Grizzard return from the national contest with the $10,000 first place prize."

The winning cook, wife of a retired Army officer, commented to her husband after the results were announced, "And I forgot to even taste it before it went back to the judges!"

Judges for the event were Carolyn Bengtson, food editor of the Austin Citizen; Linda Farrell, Agricultural Extension Agent, Austin; and Jane Ulbrich, food editor of the San Antonio Express.

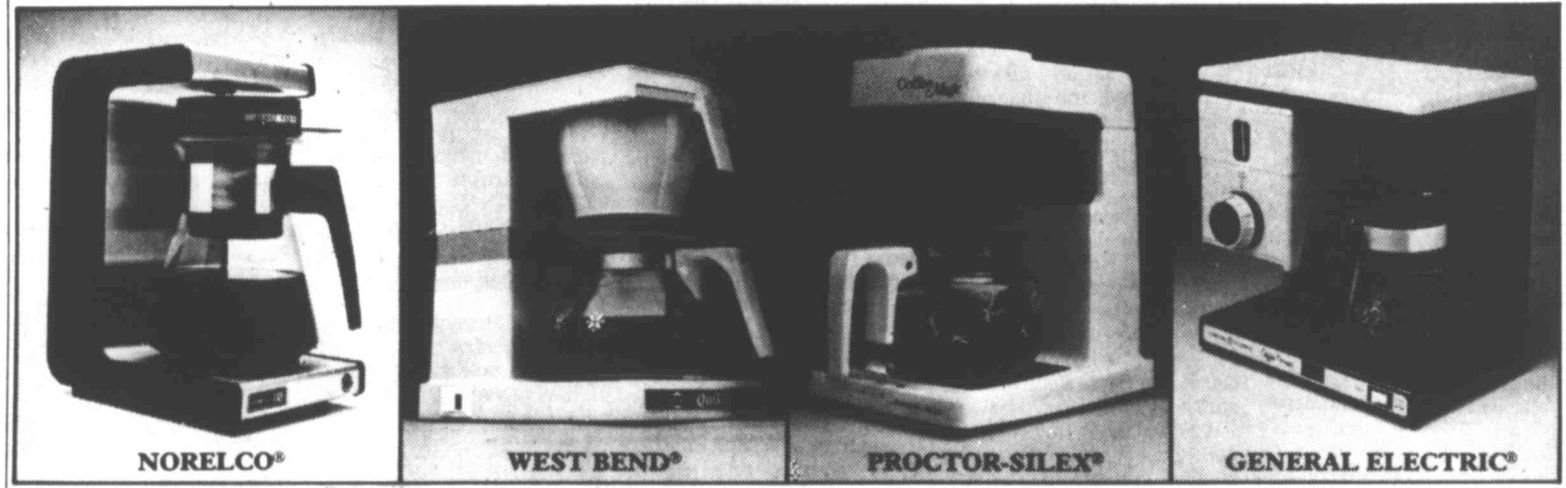

The winning recipe is as follows:

CHICKEN YUCATAN

1 c. orange juice
1 c. dry sherry wine
2 tbsps. minced parsley
1 tsp. flavor enhancer
1 tsp. salt
2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned
1/2 c. golden raisins
1/4 c. corn oil
1/4 c. slivered almonds
1 large clove garlic,

minced
2 tbsps. cornstarch
In a bowl, mix together orange juice, wine, parsley, flavor enhancer and salt. Add chicken and raisins. Marinate 2 hours. Heat corn oil in fry pan over medium heat. Add almonds and saute over low heat until lightly browned. Remove with slotted spoon. Dry chicken on paper towels. Increase heat to moderate and add chicken. Brown on all sides, adding garlic last few minutes. Add raisins and all but 1/2 cup of the marinade; simmer 10 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Mix cornstarch with reserved marinade. Remove chicken to serving dish. Pour the corn starch mixture into the liquid, stirring constantly, cooking until liquid is thickened. Simmer about 2 minutes. Spoon liquid over chicken and raisins; sprinkle almonds on top. Serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

'Exceptional' Can Mean 'Beautiful'

DEAR ABBY: I was saddened by the recent letter concerning the birth of an abnormal child. The parents were depressed, and friends wondered if they should acknowledge the birth or "ignore the tragedy."

I am the biological mother of six children, and I, too, dreamed of the "perfect" infant during my pregnancies. I can understand the trauma associated with the birth of an "imperfect" child. But if only these parents can see their way through this initial period of shock, guilt, and dismay, these emotions will subside, and they might learn to recognize the magnificent human spirit that lives within each and every one of these children. Each child has something unique to give. To see the child who is "slow" achieving his level of accomplishment, no matter how small, is so gratifying!

As parents of 19 children—13 of whom are adopted and eight of whom are severely handicapped—we, too, have learned a beautiful lesson. The child who is handicapped, be it physically or mentally, is possessed of a certain spark, perhaps a compensating factor put there by God.

Whatever it may be, if we, the so-called "normal" people will nourish that spark, we will discover that not only the lives of these children but also ours will be immeasurably enriched.

GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Thank you for a beautiful letter, which gives me the opportunity to publicize AASK (Aid to Adoption of Special Kids), a non-profit, publicly supported, tax-exempt organization. AASK serves as an adoption agency, exclusively for handicapped children with special needs. For information write to Box No. 11212, Oakland, Calif. 94611.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old daughter has graduated from high school and has a steady job, so now she says she can do as she pleases. She is living at home, but pays no room or board.

Her "old-fashioned" parents want to know if we have the right to set some rules for her. We have asked her to be home by 1 a.m. when she goes out on a date. (She's been coming home anywhere from 2 a.m. until 4:30.) When we object to her going to her boyfriend's bachelor apartment to watch TV for an evening, she says we have "dirty minds."

She tells us if we don't "get off her back" she will move out and rent with girlfriends. We want her to live at home. She wants to be independent. Please give us some guidelines.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Tell your daughter to sit down with a pencil and paper, and figure out exactly how "independent" she is. Tell her that when she is able to support herself entirely—which means paying for room, board, clothes, transportation, entertainment, travel, doctor, dentist, and insurance—then she may live where she chooses and by her own rules. But as long as she lives with you, she will have to live by yours.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you print this. I'm sick and tired of people telling me to smile. If I'm not smiling and they don't like it, they can always look the other way.

I've had people come up to me and ask who I'm mad at just because I'm not smiling. That really bugs me.

Friends and relatives keep telling me I should smile more. Abby, if a person doesn't smile, there could be a reason for it. They could have a serious problem or some kind of illness, and they don't appreciate having some stupid idiot tell them to smile.

If someone is ugly or sick, you wouldn't go up to them and say, "Boy, are you ever ugly," or, "Gee, you look sick." To me it's the same thing.

NO GEISHA GIRL

DEAR NO: I understand your irritation, but I don't agree with you. Facial expressions are habit-forming. A smile is a universal, unspoken bid for friendship. A gloomy countenance, for whatever reason, turns people off. Think about it.

Lt. Wilson wins AF competition

SAN ANGELO — Second Lieutenant Joe D. Wilson, son of retired Air Force Chief Master Sergeant Truman L. Wilson of Rt. 3, Snyder, has been named second place winner in two categories during the recent U.S. Air Force Worldwide Talent Competition held at

Patrick AFB, Fla. Lieutenant Wilson is deputy chief of the training services division at the USAF School of Applied Cryptologic Sciences, Goodfellow AFB, Tex. He was the only individual to make the finals in two events, dramatics and self-accompanied vocal.

The lieutenant's performance in dramatics was an adaptation of a Will Rogers piece, "Charly." The singing award came for two of his original country compositions, "The Moon Don't Shine," and "I'll Still Sing at Your Wedding."

A 1970 graduate of Snyder

High School, Lieutenant Wilson received an A.A. degree in 1972 from Western Texas College. He earned a B.S. degree in criminology in 1974 at Southwest Texas State University where he was commissioned through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Disposition plans for Webb's aircraft

Tentative disposition plans for Webb AFB's aircraft inventory were announced at a recent staff meeting. Assuming the base proceeds toward closure as now planned, T-37 aircraft will be distributed as follows:

Columbus AFB, Miss., 6; Luaglin AFB, Tex., 3; Mather AFB, Calif., 2; Randolph AFB, Tex., 5; Reese AFB, Tex., 12; Vance AFB, Okla., 18 and Williams AFB, Ariz., 12 for a total of 58 now on inventory.

T-38 aircraft will be distributed to: Columbus 7; Laughlin 8; Randolph 16; Reese 10; Sheppard 6; Vance 4; Williams 12 and Tactical Air Command 7, for a total of 70.

The last aircraft will fly away not later than Sept. 15 if the tentative planning is carried out. A class of students that was scheduled to graduate in September, will be accelerated to complete training the last week of August.

Tentative disposition instructions have been received by Col. Paul Brown, base closure officer for aircraft training devices including Link trainers and simulators.

Commemoration ceremony to honor Lt. Webb Sunday

At the open house at Webb AFB Sunday there will be a commemoration ceremony honoring 1st Lt. James L. Webb Jr., for whom the base was named.

Lt. Webb was killed in an airplane crash off the Japanese coast in 1949. On May 18, 1952, the base was formally dedicated as Webb Air Force Base.

The commemoration ceremony will be held at the flagpole north of the wing headquarters building at 1 p.m. Webb's sister, Mrs.

William L. Walker of Plano, Tex., and his son, Taylor Webb of McKinney, Tex., will attend.

At the ceremony, a painting and a portrait of Webb will be presented to his son by Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander. The Big Spring High School Steer band will play at the ceremony.

There will be bus transportation from the flight line to the flagpole for all those who would like to attend.

OUT OF CHUTE 3 — Joe Millaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Millaway, is shown mounting the back of a bull he rode in the recent Abilene Christian University rodeo. Joe, an ASU freshman, experienced one of the longest rides in the rodeo, although he got a "no ride." He thus filled a lifelong ambition and says this "may be the start of something big" because rodeoing is something that appeals to him.

Divorce settlement

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A divorce court cannot give one spouse's separate property to the other, the Texas Supreme Court ruled today in a 5-4 decision.

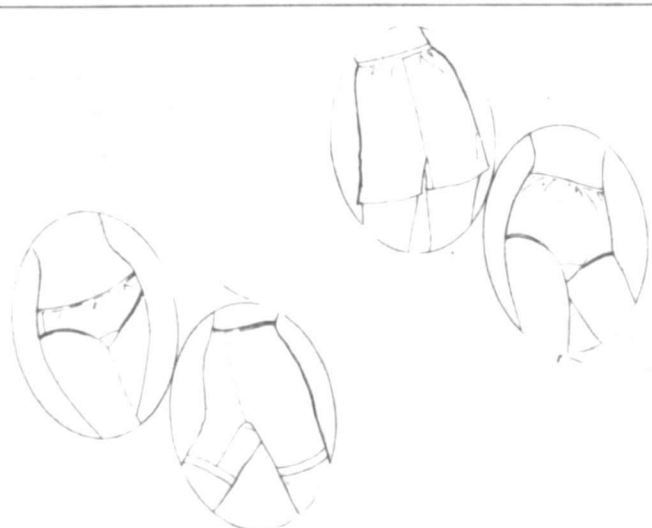

It was the first time the issue had arisen, the court said.

A district court in Runnels County had awarded Virginia Eggemeyer her husband's separate one-third interest in the small family farm after granting her a divorce and custody of the couple's four children.

The supreme court ruled that the trial judge not only had violated state law but also the Texas Constitution when it divested Homer Eggemeyer of his share of the farm.

A court can set aside property to be administered for the support of children but cannot take it away, the court said.

It cited a Texas constitutional provision that has been interpreted as meaning: "One person's property may not be taken for the benefit of another private person without a justifying public purpose."

The next Heisman Trophy winner

Sometimes an article of mail flops on this desk that is very interesting to yours truly. More times than not, that piece of mail has a big red double T on it. Today's mail has a big double T surprise, a promo on next season's Red Raider football squad.

Pictured on the cover was an action shot of quarterback Rodney Allison, the "Heisman Trophy Candidate" from Texas Tech, or so says the caption. Wishful thinking? Maybe, maybe not.

Allison was All-Southwest Conference, a member of the Associated Press first team selection and Most Valuable Player in last year's Bluebonnet Bowl, not to mention leading his team to a share of the SWC crown, posting a 7-1 record equal to the Houston Cougars, the only SWC team that beat them.

Sports quiz: When was the last time someone from Texas won the coveted Heisman Trophy? If you said John David Crow from A&M in 1957, you were just about correct. Crow wasn't a native Texan, but he was the last winner from this state for 20 years.

The only two other Texas winners were Davey O'Brien from TCU in 1938, and Doak Walker from SMU in 1948.

Allison will have just as good a shot at the award as anyone else. He has established himself a name, received a tremendous amount of publicity for someone from Texas Tech (where? in Lubbock?), and considering his competition next year he just might have an outside chance.

The 5-11, 190-pound Odessa High product was one of the top field generals in college football last season. After taking over as the starter in the third game of the 1976 season, Allison amassed more than 1,900 yards total offense and more than 1,400 yards passing.

His execution of the veer offense, an offense that the Steers will try to run next season, was exciting to see, even for the non-Tech fanatic. He displayed an uncanny knack for coming up with the big play at the opportune time.

Steve Sloan, Tech head coach, has called Allison one of the finest college quarterbacks he's ever been around.

For those of you who are itching for the pigskin to start flying, here's the Red Raiders' schedule for next season. Just cut along the dotted line, press some clear plastic over it, put it in your billfold and be months ahead of everyone else.

1977 TEXAS TECH FOOTBALL

The 1977 season should be a good one. The Scarlet and Black only hold an overall edge in three match-ups . . . New Mexico, Arizona and SMU.

SPRING TRAINING — The 1977 edition of the Big Spring Steer football team has been working out furiously for this Saturday's annual Black and Gold game which signals the end of spring training. The contest, which is open to the public (tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students), will begin promptly at 8 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

Spring training culminates Saturday

By DANNY REAGAN

Sports Editor

For almost three weeks now, many of the male athletes of Big Spring High School have been preparing themselves for Saturday night, the annual Black and Gold inter-squad football scrimmage that signals the end of Spring training.

The game, which will give local fans a preview of next year's Steers, will start at 8 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, with the proceeds going to the sponsoring Quarterback Club.

Head football coach Don Robbins indicated that the scrimmage will be a controlled type, with no kick-off or punt returns, a situation which should control injuries.

"We haven't had that much time to work on our kicking game," Robbins said, "and we want to try to avoid knee injuries. We will set up the kick-off and punt returns, but we'll fair-catch the ball."

Robbins stated that the Steers will be going with a different philosophy offensively, one that will concentrate more on the run.

"We're still going to be throwing the ball quite a bit," Robbins said, "but we're going to be putting more emphasis on the option or veer run." This type of offense is used primarily by Texas Tech and Houston and involves a quarterback, full-back or diveback and a halfback.

A triple running threat is created with this type of alignment, and a fourth weapon can be utilized off the same formation . . . the pass. Five players are working the quarterback position as of now, senior Mike Abreo, juniors Ricky Myers, Billy Ray Johnson and Jimmy Brown and sophomore Jimmy Marquez.

Robbie Wegner is making the switch to fullback, to be joined in that position by tough senior Brent Overman. The halfback slot will be filled by speedy Eddie Puga, Mike Blalack and tight-end convert Ricky Cluck.

Kenneth Coffey, Del Poss, Ricky Torres and Mark Poss will be the Steer wide receivers, while Robbie Wrinkle, Tony Mann, Dee Nanny, George Archer, Lance Perry, Matt Harris, Ernie Nichols, Bennie Bradbury, Doyle Rice and Barry Rosson will work in the offensive line.

Defensively, Robbins and his staff are switching from the 4-3 alignment to the 5-2 monster Arkansas philosophy, which is basically the Oklahoma 5-2, but with a lot more slanting, stunting and stacking.

"We're thin at the linebacker and defensive end slots," said Robbins, "and the 5-2 fits our personnel better. It complements our talent and lack of depth."

Tony Mann will fill the vital spot in the defensive wall for the Bovines. He'll be the noseguard, a position similar to the middle linebacker in a 4-3.

Sammy Ortega, Matt Harris, Robbie Wrinkle and Steve Tipton will be in the defensive tackle positions, while Joey Vasquez, Kent Rice, Mike Blalack and Bobby Huff will make up the secondary. The secondary should be the strongest returners for the Steers, as they logged a considerable amount of playing time last season.

Robbins feels that the squad will be improved from last year, but still admits that there is a tremendous depth and size problem. The squad should be a little faster, however, and Robbins is hoping that summer evaluations will make the picture even brighter.

Last season, not a single player on the team went both ways. Next season, it will be a different story.

"We'll have some players going both ways," said Robbins. "It'll be like the Big Spring of old when the kids had to play 48 minutes against two or three units from the other schools. I just hope we can develop an iron man philosophy and get out there and play."

Friday night at 7 o'clock in Blankenship Field, the junior varsity will hold its Spring training finale, a scrimmage that is open to the public at no charge.

Small Tool win BIG

The halfway mark in the men's slow pitch league is near, and Small Tool continues to lead the league. Small Tool added to its perfect record of 12-0 by beating Westside Center 16-6 Wednesday night.

In other action, Cabot upset Webb 11-9, Cosden number one blasted the Sweathogs 16-12, and the Chickens took it on the chin once again, as G.I. Forum beat them 24-11.

Berkley managed to slip past Cosden number two, 13-11, and in the final game of the night, Gray's Jewelers beat RBC 22-17 in a well-contested game.

Teams have been set for this weekend's Spring City David and Goliath Slow Pitch tournament at Johnny Stone Memorial Park. There will be 41 teams in the tourney from Midland, San Angelo, Abilene, Snyder, Colorado City, Odessa and Big Spring.

Play begins Friday night at 8 p.m. and rocks around the clock until Sunday at approximately 5 p.m. A total of 88 ball games will be played on the two fields.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend the first annual event.

Johnny 'Lam' top contender

DALLAS (AP) — Olympic gold medalist Johnny "Lam" Jones will be a top contender when at least 46 individuals and ten relay teams from the Southwest Conference travel to Champaign, Ill., for the NCAA Championships June 2-4.

More SWC contenders may qualify this weekend at the Longhorn Invitational in Austin and the following weekend at the USTFF Championships in Wichita, Kan.

Gaylord Perry wins 100th career game

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Gaylord Perry admitted he was just one line drive away from getting the hook.

But the 38-year-old veteran outlasted adversity to notch one of the biggest thrills in his 16 years in the big leagues Wednesday night.

Perry scattered six hits and retired the last 18 batters in a row in Texas' 6-3 defeat of Detroit to join Jhm Bunning and Cy Young as the only pitchers who have won 100 games in both the National and American leagues.

"I'm flattered to be joining their company," said a tired Perry, who yielded three runs and three hits in the first inning. "It's something very few pitchers get an opportunity to accomplish."

Perry got his 2,700th career strikeout as a bonus but he almost wasn't around for the second inning much less the ninth frame.

"I knew I was just one hit away from being in the showers," said Perry, the bill of his cap soaked through with sweat. "But I was man enough to hang in there."

"I felt good when I was warming up before the game and there no reason for them to be hitting the pitches I was throwing."

Detroit scored on a walk, a single, a two-run double by Steve Kemp and Jason Thompson's RBI single.

Texas chased Detroit starter with a five-run fourth inning highlighted by catcher John Ellis' two-run single. Hiller, primarily a reliever, was making only his second start in five years. He's now 1-4.

Slow Tyson is faster than Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — After a slow start, St. Louis second baseman Mike Tyson is just trying to prepare himself for the rest of the season.

Tyson, batting a meager .175 at the start of the game, stroked three singles and drove in two runs as the Cardinals defeated the Houston Astros 8-4 Wednesday night.

"I feel awfully good now," said Tyson. "I sprained my ankle in spring training and I've been trying to get my game together since then. Right now I'm just trying to get ready for the rest of the season both physically and mentally."

A two-run double by Ken Reitz and Lou Brock's RBI single in the second inning pushed St. Louis into a 3-0 lead against Houston starter and loser Mark Lemongello, 1-5.

COLORADO CITY — John Barry Hughey has been named coach of girls' basketball and track at Colorado High School.

Hughey has coached at Gorman, Whiteface and Canyon.

Carol Dakan, former Colorado basketball coach, will henceforth coach the volleyball team.

Hughey, born in Abilene, graduated from Roby High School. He will also teach math at Colorado City.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Finish errands and shopping chores before considering social activities. Take a good look at home and family interests and make plans to put them in better shape for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take a little time to check utilities, car early and be safe. Expedite routine matters efficiently and have more spare time for new ideas you have in mind. Postpone socializing until another time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle monetary affairs first, then contact good friends for good purposes. Find a better way to produce more.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care of personal duties early. See where you can improve your appearance, either through an updated wardrobe or beauty treatments. Try to please friends more.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get an early start on all the work piled up about you before you consider recreation of any sort. Come to a better understanding with mate, loved one, via intelligent discussions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be firm in a decision you make, and then contact good friends for backing you need. Future looks brighter.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Business first, pleasure later. There's a chance of a happy meeting with an old friend, flame.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Find novel ways of self-expression. Confer with an expert in such order to gain the know-how. Make right new partners before taking care of credit matters. Think more kindly of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you keep any promises you have made early and then you can get out to new interests, attractions. Do something practical for a loved one that will be appreciated.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find out what kin wish of you early and then try to help them. A new partner you are considering should be well screened first. Think along more optimistic lines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Financial actions are favored now. Sign papers, especially where money is concerned. Try to develop a new source of income.

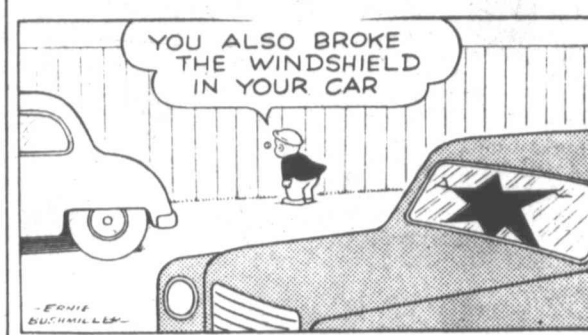

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan recreation with good friends early. Improve wardrobe and improve appearance. Use discretion in private matters.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your unsolicited advice may not be appreciated. Handle some fundamental need early before you consider going out.

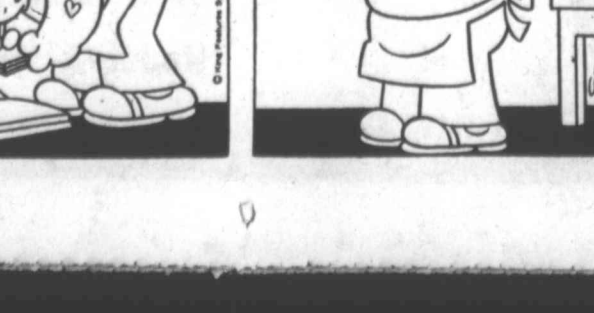

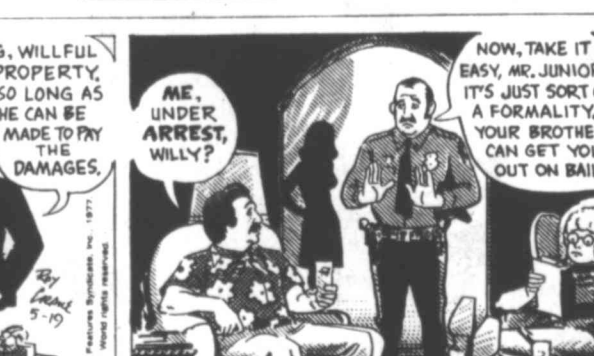

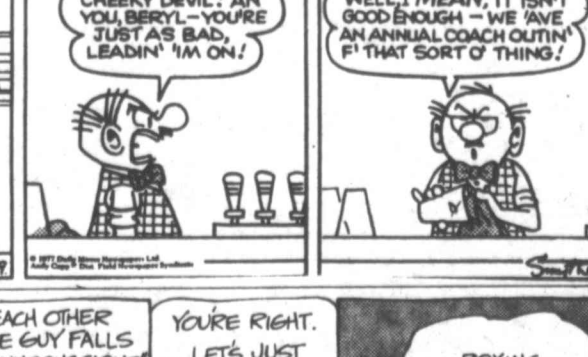

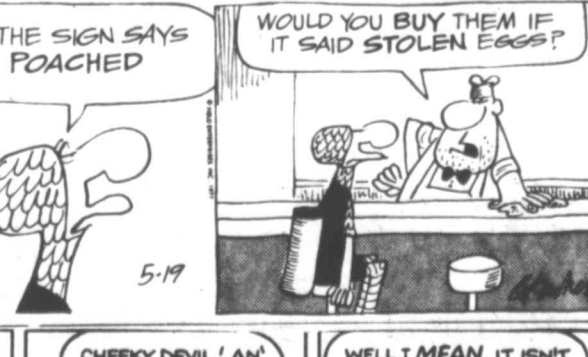

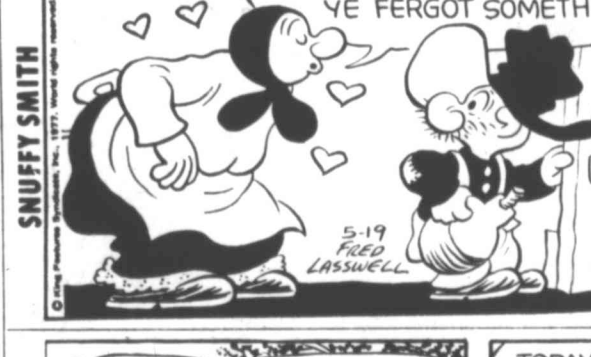

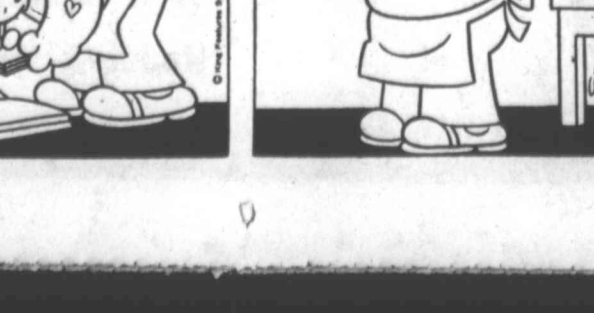

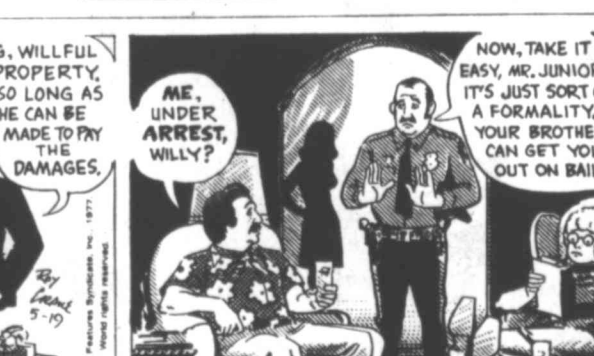

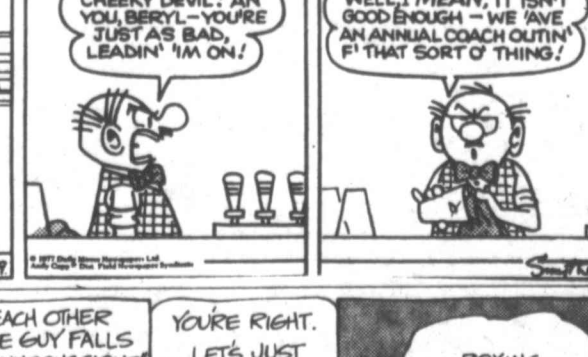

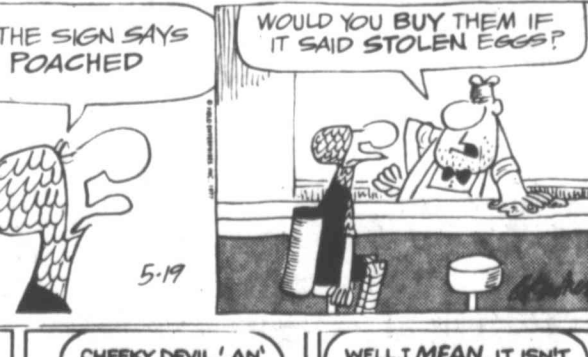

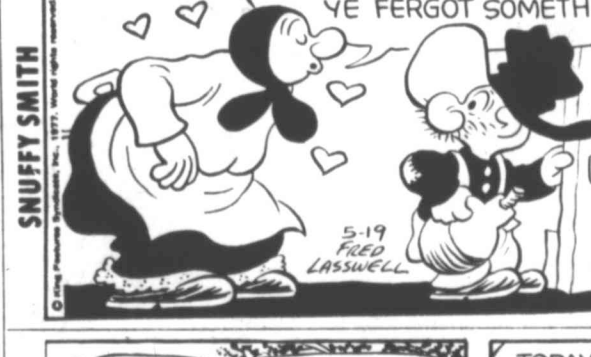

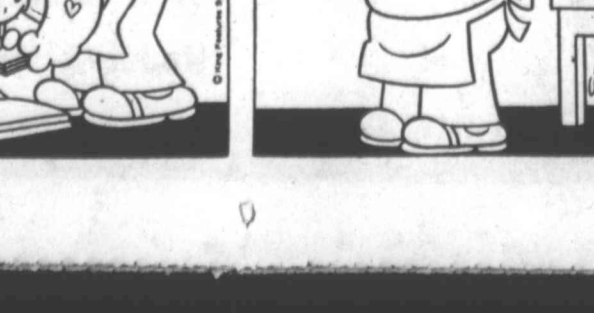

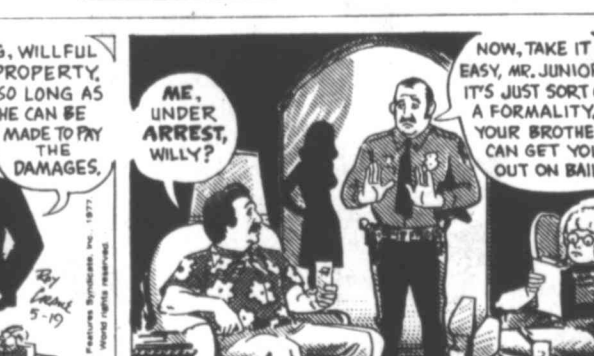

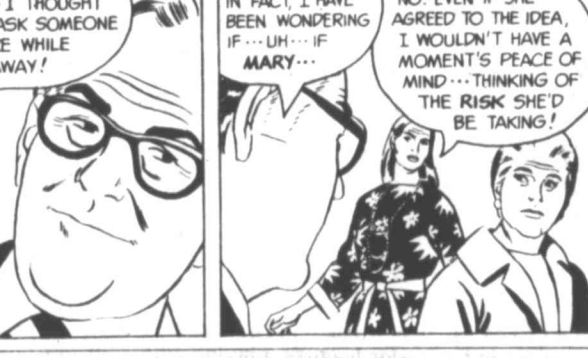

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will require a fine college education in order to become truly successful during the lifetime. Teach early to complete projects or the fine promise here will be lost.

Ali: From ring master to dance master

LANDOVER, Md. — Ali was right. This one, as he had predicted, did last longer than Norton's blitz of Bobick the other night. Longer, but not better.

Ali can't fight much anymore. He knows that, so he doesn't try. He dances. He dances. He dances remarkably. He went the full 15 with a pudgy, busty partner named Alfredo Evangelista, and they were the best couple on the floor. They won the cup easily.

"You saw a miracle," Ali later bragged to newsmen. "You saw a 35-year-old man dance for 15 rounds."

Not quite. For about half that time, he lay with his back against the ropes, his hands up, arms tightly together, covering himself from head to waist, making him impervious to the punches of the 22-year-old challenger, the Kid from Spain, by way of Uruguay.

CAN'T PUNCH MUCH ANY MORE
I said the other day I wouldn't be surprised if Evangelista went 15. For two reasons. One, he is young and strong and hungry. Two, Ali can't punch much any more. He misses an awful lot, and although it is remarkable that he can get up on his toes in the late rounds, he misses an awful lot, rests an awful lot, fakes in an awful lot.

"We would have knocked him out if we fought him tonight," said the short black man as Ali left the interview.

That was Ray Kelly, manager of Jimmy Young. A year ago, in this very ring, Jimmy Young had made Ali look bad. They gave the decision to the overstuffed, sluggish champ that night, and it was booed. Booed and bad.

"The steam was gone out of Ali tonight," said Ray Kelly, who wants a rematch for Jimmy Young. "We'd have stopped him tonight, and we will if he fights like that against us next time."

The message from Young's manager was delivered to Ali in his dressing room.

"He's crazy," the champ said softly. "I was in much better shape tonight than I was that night."

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

True. He took this Spanish kid much more serious than he had taken Young. He was 221 for this one; 230 against Young. He can dance, and he can jab, and that's just about it. He is a shadow of the great fighter he once was, and that's no knock. How can anyone knock what Ali does at age 35 — nine defenses in his second reign as heavyweight champ. Nobody approaches that for longevity.

Another thing he does so beautifully: he takes from the rich to give to the poor. He took from $150 ringside to $20 gallery from about 10,000 people, for this fancy little Fred Astaire imitation, and he made them like it. Most of them. Some booed when things got too dull, but most of them seemed to enjoy it.

They enjoyed the music, too. The theme from Ali's upcoming movie soared through the arena as he entered the ring, and was played several times between rounds. It is Mike Masser's music, and it is good, very good.

Mike Masser was there at ringside, his right hand wrapped in bandages bulkier than Ali's. Mike had almost lost his finger in a freak poolside accident the day before. He won't be able to play the piano for two months now, and that is too bad, because he writes beautiful music.

His first composition was "Touch Me In The Morning," the haunting Diana Ross ballad. From there he did Mahogany, and now the music for "The Greatest," Ali's life story, which opens in New York and Los Angeles next Friday.

"The Greatest Love of Ali," is the hit ballad from John Marshall's film, crooned by George Benson. The opening line is: "Learning to love yourself is the greatest love of all," and if that isn't pure Ali realism, what is?

'WE'LL OUTSELL ROCKY'

"It's a better movie than 'Rocky,'" Ali says. "We'll outsell 'Rocky.'"

Somebody ran quickly through Ali's future fight program. Earnie Shavers or Larry Holmes next, maybe both, quickies, and then one last biggie, the winner of Norton-Young. "That should round out the year," he said. "Maybe I'll quit sooner if my movie does 80 million."

"What would that mean for you? How much do you get?"

"Thirty-three per cent," he said, and he hardly blinked. That's more than Sylvester Stallone gets.

BIG THREE — Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer (l-r), the Big Three of professional golf in years past, get together during a practice round Wednesday prior to today's start of the $225,000 Memorial Golf Tournament on the Muirfield Village course.

SWC diamond men ready for action

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — With a .306 team batting average and a 2.73 team earned run average, the Texas Aggies appear to have just about everything heading into the first Southwest Conference postseason baseball tournament.

But the SWC's regular-season champions don't have a solid invitation to the NCAA playoffs. And they don't have an Astroturf field.

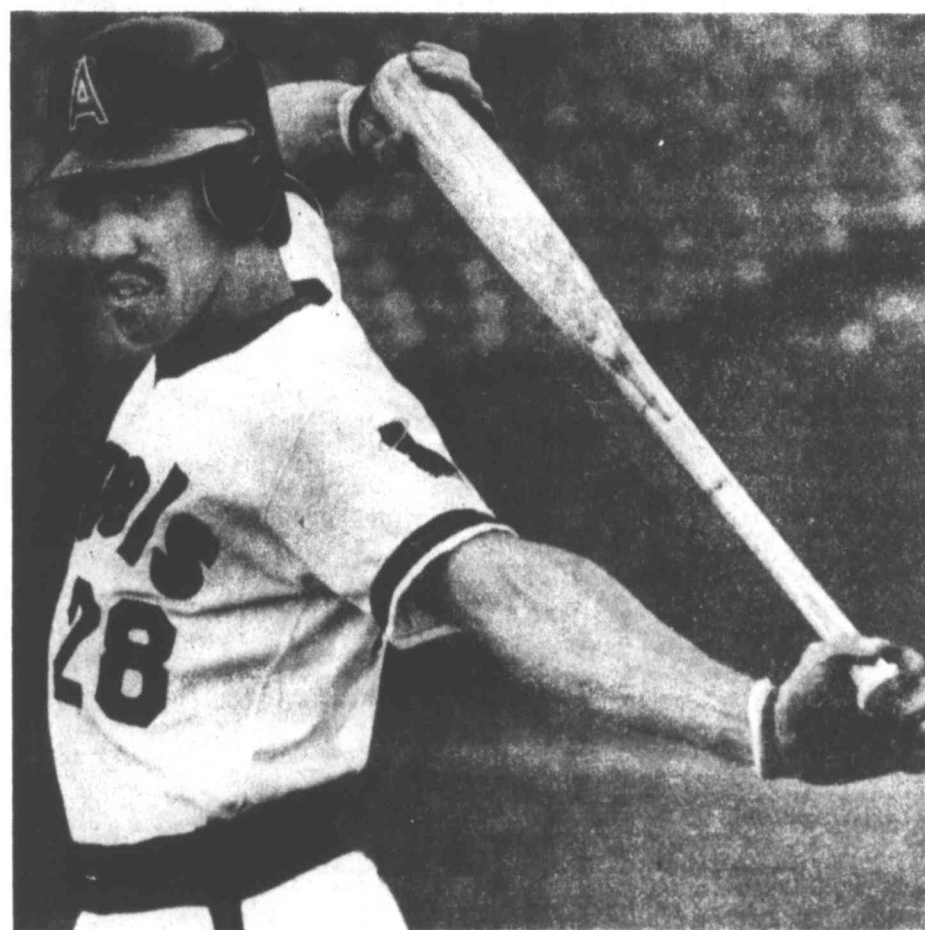

"Playing here (at Texas) is going to be a great factor," said A&M Coach Tom Chandler. "The major disadvantage we have is playing on Astroturf. We do not have an Astroturf team. We don't have much speed. We're dependent on the long ball."

The Aggies, who won their first outright SWC title since 1964, meet fourth-place Arkansas tonight in the double-elimination tournament's first game in Texas' spacious Astroturf-covered Dish-Falk Field.

Second-place Texas takes on third-place Baylor tonight in the second contest of the four-day tourney. There will be no games Saturday.

ONE DREAM COMES TRUE — Gil Flores, centerfielder for the California Angels, limbers up at batting practice prior to a game. Flores, a 24-year-old Angels rookie, had a dream of becoming a boxing champion, but because of an automobile accident eight years ago which took him out of boxing, his dreams reverted to baseball. "Being a starter in the major leagues, playing with guys like Joe Rudi and Bobby Bonds — players I used to watch on television — really is a dream come true for me," said Flores who is hitting .364 in his 10 games in the majors.

Wait 'til he's healthy

By The Associated Press

Reggie Smith almost didn't start because of a pregame chat with Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda.

But he certainly finished things for the Philadelphia Phillies.

At first given a "night off" by Lasorda because he wasn't feeling well, Smith eventually played and provided the Dodgers with their winning runs in Wednesday night's 6-4 victory over Philadelphia.

Prior to the game at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia, Lasorda had inquired about Smith's health, since he did not look well.

"I'm not feeling well," the right fielder said.

"Well, then," said Lasorda, "take the night off."

Later, Smith took batting practice and felt better. Then after a session with the Dodgers' trainer, he felt even better and decided he wanted to start after all.

Smith's two-run homer in the seventh inning gave the Dodgers a 6-3 lead and supplied reliever Charlie Hough with enough of a cushion to withstand a

Trail blazed quickly

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When Larry Weinberg became principal owner of the Portland Trail Blazers 17 months ago, he set about creating a hustling, unselfish team that someday might challenge for the National Basketball Association title.

But he didn't expect it to happen this quickly. "We felt if we got a ball club that played good team ball, that hustled and never gave up, we would be successful," Weinberg said. "We were hoping that our team would evolve into this kind of team. In all honesty, we didn't expect it to happen so soon."

Weinberg, 51, had owned a share of the Blazers since the team's inception seven years ago. He had spent most of the time as the team's treasurer. During their first six seasons, the Blazers had managed to evade success. They never had a winning season, never made the playoffs and seldom displayed the unselfish attributes Weinberg sought.

Weinberg got the chance to become principal owner when his friend, Herman Sarkowsky, had to give up his controlling interest in the team to purchase the new Seattle Seahawks of the National Football League.

After Weinberg became president of the Blazers, he and the team's front office — primarily executive vice president Harry Glickman and vice president Stu Inman — began looking for ways to build the kind of team he wanted.

As Weinberg said, "A number of things happened that accelerated the time frame" for success.

First, he said, veteran Coach Jack Ramsay became available. Ramsay, dismissed by the Buffalo Braves, coached the kind of running, pressing game Weinberg and his cohorts desired.

Then came the dispersal draft of players from the defunct American Basketball Association.

Portland sent streak-shooting guard Geoff Petrie, an original Trail Blazer, to Atlanta for the draft's No. 2 pick. The Blazers used it to select Maurice Lucas, a 6-foot-8 muscular forward. Lucas cost the Blazers $300,000 in the draft but he responded by leading the team in scoring at 20.3 points per game. He also averaged 13 rebounds.

"We went way out to get Luke, but we haven't been disappointed," Weinberg said.

BOXING
MONTE CARLO — The World Boxing Council stripped John Conteh of his light heavyweight title after he said he would not report for a championship bout against Miguel Cuello Saturday.

Little League results

Teams kiss sisters

The Giants and the Sparks of the National League Pee Wee's fought to a 7-7 tie Wednesday night. Pitcher for the Sparks was John Moore, while Robert Rodriguez was on the mound for the Giants.

Phil Turner had the only hit for the Sparks, while Matt Hunter, Todd Daniel, Robert Rodriguez, Scott Supak and Verrick Watts hit for the Giants. The Sparks tied the ballgame up in the bottom of the sixth on three stolen bases by Tommy Wilkins.

T-Birds cleanse Comets

The T-Birds of the International League relied on two RBI's by winning pitcher Doug Cowling in the bottom of the last inning to decision the Comets 7-6.

Winston Johnson was the losing pitcher, while John Recke and James Stroud both pitched six innings for the T-Birds and Comets, respectively.

Jimmy Johnson for the Comets had a two-run homer, and John Recke captured two hits. The T-Birds now sport a 5-3 record, while the Comets fell to 3-4-1.

Devils fork Rangers

The Devils of the National Little League remained tied for the league lead by beating the Rangers 6-2 Wednesday night.

Tommy Gutierrez, 4-0, was the winning hurler, while Robert Eggleston, 1-1, suffered the loss. Gutierrez struck out 15 batters and held the Rangers to only three hits.

Hitting for the Devils were Vince Coats, Tommy Gutierrez, Roy White, Dee Cagle, Rick Daniels, Loy White and Casey Weaver. Eggleston, Jr. Valenzuela and Scott Underwood had the hits for the Rangers.

Imprisoned Yanks call Senators

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A group of Americans imprisoned here began a telephone campaign Wednesday seeking support for a prisoner exchange treaty by making a long distance call to the office of Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.

The inmates said they would talk with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., this afternoon.

Wednesday's call was placed by James Ridley Douglas, 26, of Austin, Tex., to Bob Barton, Sparkman's administrative assistant.

"The conversation certainly wasn't encouraging," Douglas said after hanging up from outside the warden's office in the Santa Marta Prison on the southeast edge of Mexico City. "I didn't pick up any information we didn't already have."

Douglas, who has served 44 months of a seven-year sentence for importing cocaine into Mexico from South America, asked Barton whether Sparkman could be expected to vote in favor of ratifying the treaty.

"He said he didn't know but was inclined to think he (Sparkman) would vote favorably," Douglas told a reporter. "He said most senators agreed it should be passed and we should be brought home."

The treaty, signed last Thanksgiving Day by Mexico and the United States, would allow Americans in Mexican jails and Mexicans imprisoned in the United States to serve the remainder of their sentences in their homelands.

There are 62 American men in Santa Marta Prison. An estimated 600 Americans are jailed in Mexico, most of them on drug-related charges.

Mexico has completed action on the treaty, which must be ratified by the U.S. Senate before taking effect. In addition, the U.S. Justice Department is preparing enabling legislation for presentation to Congress.

Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo has said several times that Mexico is prepared to release the Americans as soon as the United States ratifies the treaty. President Carter said in Los Angeles Tuesday that he believed the best solution was to bring the Americans home.

Douglas' call was placed with permission of the warden in the presence of eight other members of an inmate committee which organized the campaign. U.S. television and news service reporters also witnessed the call.

Douglas told the reporters Barton indicated U.S. congressmen did not want to approve anything which would result in a series of lawsuits being filed when the Americans returned home.

"He was worried about us seeking release on writs of habeas corpus for being held in jail without due process or trial," Douglas said.

"I don't think any of us here is thinking of contesting the treaty. We believe we will be eligible for parole as soon as we are transferred to a U.S. prison."

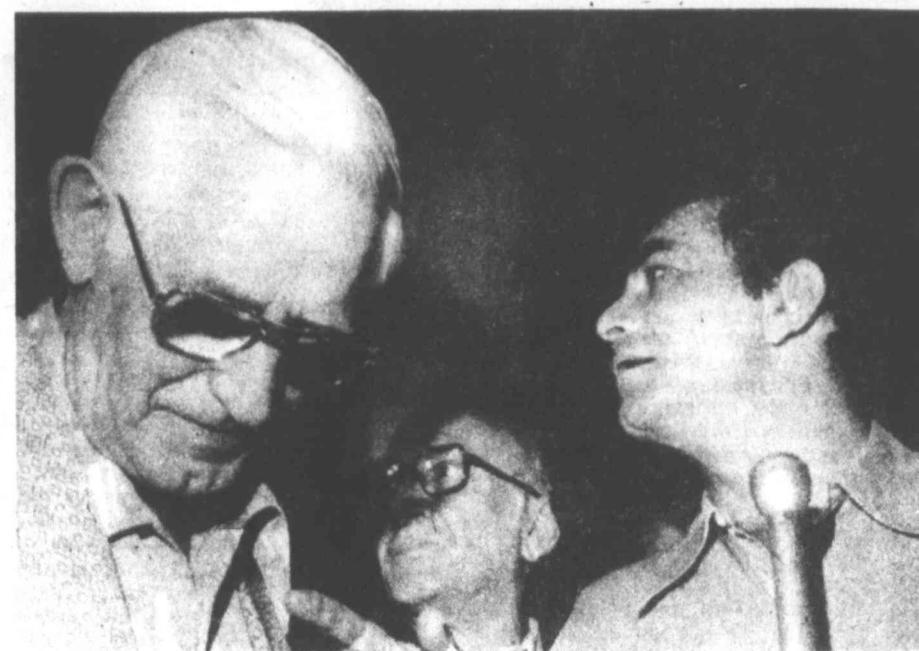

Two to gain college degrees

STEPHENVILLE — Stevie Don Fryar and Jackie Craig Rudd, both of Big Spring, and Billy Garrett Reed, Ackerly, are among spring graduates at Tarleton State University.

All three have qualified for

B.S. degrees in agriculture.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe addressed the graduates Sunday afternoon. The class of undergraduate and graduate students totaled 255.

RETURN TO THE SCENE OF THE CRIME — Francis "Sandy" Richardson, left, and Vincent Costa, center, chat with actor Peter Falk at the scene of their $2.7 million Brinks robbery that took place 27 years ago for a news conference Wednesday in Boston. They admitted their role in the robbery of the first time. Falk was also there to publicize a movie of their crime, in which he will star.

Illegal aliens flooding America

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The new U.S. immigration chief is being told the flow of illegal aliens into the United States from south of the border is reaching flood stage.

Leonel Castillo, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, arrived in San Diego Wednesday as the Border Patrol announced apprehension of more than 3,500 undocumented aliens in three days this week along 12 miles of the U.S.-Mexican border.

Thousands more foreign nationals made it into the United States without getting nabbed, Border Patrol supervisors said in estimating that up to two aliens cross successfully for every one that is caught.

There is no way to handle the paperwork involved in processing everyone in the tide. Most taken into custody by agents simply are turned back into Mexico, according to Robert McCord, assistant chief of the district.

Castillo, a Mexican-American, planned to spend 48 hours looking at conditions and huddling with officials on both sides of the boundary before returning to Washington Friday.

He canceled a tour of Border Patrol, Immigration and Customs Service facilities Wednesday because he was late in arriving from Los Angeles, but aides said the inspection would be a must for the commissioner before departure.

Officials estimate that more than half the illegal aliens entering the United States from Mexico and other nations to the south breach the border along the narrow corridor in the Tijuana-San Diego sector of the 2,000-mile demarcation.

The piece of geography forms a natural funnel bounded on the east by high mountains and on the west by the Pacific Ocean.

Castillo's visit coincides with a conference by the Hispanic Advisory Committee, a group formed by the Immigration and Naturalization Service to give Latin communities a voice in U.S. immigration policies. Castillo served on the organization prior to his nomination by President Carter for the commissioner's job.

Raul Yzaguirre, committee chairman, said the prime issue the group will consider is proposed amnesty for foreign nationals who have resided in the United States for long periods.

Castillo crossed into Tijuana, Mexico, briefly Wednesday and met with Mayor Fernando Marquez Arce and Mexican customs and immigration chiefs in the city. His call was mostly considered ceremonial.

Earlier in the day, Castillo told a Los Angeles news conference a task force is being established to function in six major cities in an attempt to clear a backlog of an estimated 236,000 applications by foreign nationals for residence.

He said the expanded work force would tackle the problem starting June 5 in Los Angeles, New York City, Newark, Chicago, Miami and San Francisco.

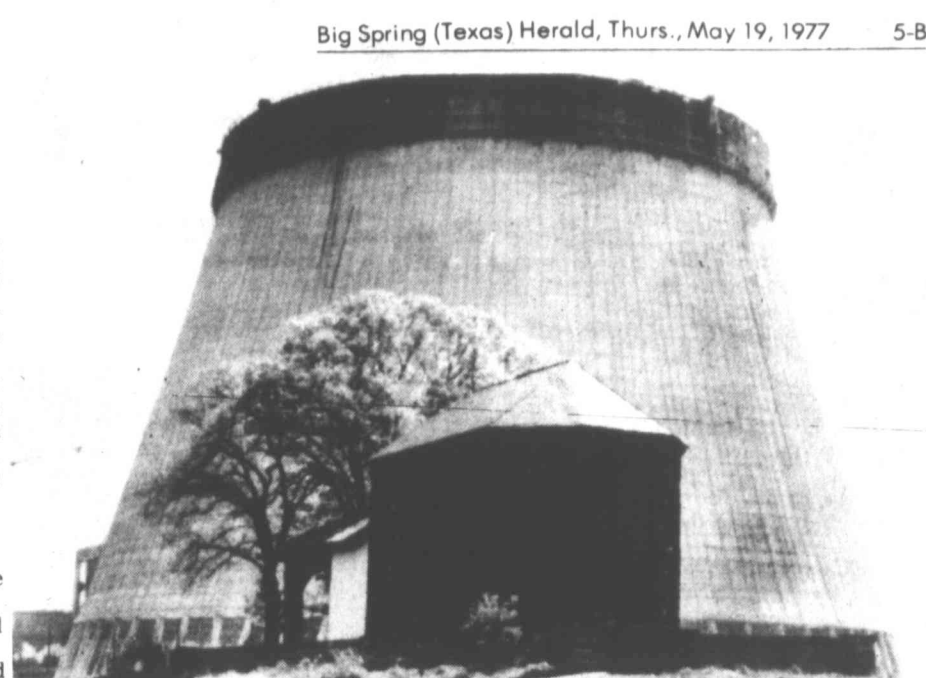

Pearl sings for 'sister'

NEW YORK (AP) — Pearl Bailey sang her mother's favorite song at a memorial service for her "sister," movie star Joan Crawford.

"I considered Joan Crawford my sister, and since we're sisters I can sing only one song, my mother's favorite tune," Miss Bailey said before singing the spiritual, "He'll Understand," Tuesday at All Souls' Unitarian Church.

About 550 people attended the 30-minute service, which opened with the 23rd Psalm and included eulogies by actress Geraldine Brooks and screen writer Anita Loos.

Formulas costing Texans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas is "losing" more than a hundred million dollars in federal funds each year because of formulas written by congressmen from other parts of the country.

The federal government disbursed $72.4 billion this fiscal year to state and local governments for various social programs. Some governments get more than others.

—The public service jobs part of the Carter administration's economic stimulus program is sending $6.8 billion from Washington. $203 million is going to Texas. Michigan gets $347 million and California gets $785 million.

—The emergency public works part of Carter's package sends $4 billion in this fiscal year for local projects that are supposed to stimulate lagging economies.

Texas will receive $88 million, or $279 for every unemployed person in the state. New Jersey will get $217 million, or $636 for each of its unemployed.

—The House has recently passed a three-year community development program that channels aid to cities. By 1980, the program will be sending $65 million annually to Detroit and $26 million annually to Houston, although they have nearly equal populations.

Behind the statistics lie the federal formulas. They are the means Congress uses to determine who gets the big slices of each federal pie.

The community development legislation, for example, has a new formula that channels more money to cities with large amounts of pre-World War II housing and declining populations. Detroit has both. Houston has neither.

The public jobs and public works bills both pump extra money into states and cities with unemployment rates of 6.5 per cent or more. Texas, with unemployment running just under 6 per cent, loses out.

The formulas are written by committees which the Texas congressional delegation has long ignored.

The Texas congressmen are following a pattern that exists throughout the South and Southwest and is a holdover from those days when there were no urban interests in the region, explained Rep. Jim Mattox, a freshman Democrat from Dallas.

When today's veteran and powerful Texas congressmen came to Washington, they gravitated toward the committees that dealt with oil and gas, agriculture, public works and the military. That was where the state's interests could be protected. There were no federal programs for such things as urban renewal or public jobs then, anyway.

—The Texas delegation still is in transition from being rural-oriented," Mattox said. "It still hasn't adapted to the New South emerging from the Sun Belt's industrial complex."

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, a San Antonio Democrat, says he has had little luck persuading his colleagues to get together with other southern and western delegations and consider a regional approach to urban legislation.

"Some of the members are very conservative. They have not been kindly disposed to things like housing and urban renewal. They haven't taken an interest in it," said Gonzalez, the lone Texan on the housing subcommittee.

A few Texans say the formulas don't bother them, even though their own districts get less. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, a Houston Democrat, voted against a floor amendment that would have made the community development appropriations for Houston and Detroit more nearly similar.

"I didn't think of it as a regional issue. I thought the money should go where the need is greatest," Eckhardt said.

Mattox is less inclined to feel charitable to the cities of the Northeast and Midwest.

"Some of the problems New York City has been caused by irresponsible acts by some politicians and the unreasonable demands of its people. The rest of the country shouldn't pay for New York's extravagances," he said.

Queen gets big welcome

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II got a tumultuous welcome on the first day of her Scottish jubilee tour as a crowd, estimated by police at 100,000, stood in deep in places along her coach route.

The welcome Tuesday was hearty despite predictions of political protest over the tour marking the 25th anniversary of her reign. One of the few signs of protest was a banner reading "Independence," hung conspicuously from a balcony along the queen's coach route.

Heavy snow warning issued in Wyoming

By the Associated Press

The severe weather that raked the Great Plains from northwest Texas to North Dakota Wednesday ended by midnight, but heavy thunderstorms continued today.

Just before midnight, the most active thunderstorms were in a line from northeast Nebraska into south central South Dakota. At the same time, some areas of the Texas panhandle also had large hail.

At least 30 tornadoes were reported Wednesday. For the second consecutive day the greatest number occurred over the Texas panhandle, where eight were spotted. Nebraska was second with seven while Kansas and North Dakota each had four. Six of the twisters caused property damage but no injuries or deaths were reported.

A heavy snow warning Wednesday night in northwestern Wyoming warned travelers of four or more inches of snow at lower elevations and six inches or more at higher elevations.

Malpractice bill tussle

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — "The ball's in their court," State Rep. Tom Uher says of the Senate conferees on medical malpractice insurance.

The Senate conferees scheduled a meeting today to consider the ultimatum set out by Uher, chairman of the House conferees. He apparently had the support of the other House conferees and most of the 150-member House.

Uher, D-Bay City, vowed Wednesday that if senators insist on retaining a $100,000 limit on "pain and suffering," the legislature will not pass a malpractice bill.

He said the proposal — part of the Senate bill — is "totally unacceptable."

The House-Senate conference committee met for the second time Wednesday, and Uher talked with reporters after the meeting.

Uher said he had advised senators, as well as lobbyists for the Texas Medical Association, that there will be "no medical malpractice bill" if they insist on the $100,000 cap — or any other cap, except the overall $500,000 limit on awards that was part of both bills.

Also unacceptable, Uher said, is the Senate bill's definition of "standard of care" and a provision allowing the court to reduce an award for damages by the amount of health insurance the victim is able to collect.

"That's just not right," Uher said.

House and Senate conferees plan to meet Friday.

The legislature must adjourn by midnight May 30.

Senior Citizens honor three local men

By MARJ CARPENTER
Three Big Spring men were honored by local senior citizens Wednesday when named Big Spring's outstanding Older Texan nominees.
The three were presented certificates by Charles Weeg, head of the board of directors for Howard County Council on Aging.
They included Frank Robinson, Gus Ochotorena Sr., and A.E. (Preacher) True.

The presentation was made at the monthly senior citizen luncheon held at the First Presbyterian Church. Robinson was born June 19, 1900 in Garland and served in the Navy during World War I. He moved to Big Spring Jan. 2, 1923 and worked for many years for Dr. G.T. Hall, later working for the First National Bank as custodian. When he reached 65, he retired but continued to work, working for Mrs. Hall. He married Lucille Miller July 3, 1936 and they have one daughter and four grandchildren. He has been a deacon in the Baptist Church 28 years and is active at Mt. Bethel Baptist Church.

Ochotorena, 73, was born in Marfa in 1922 and moved to Big Spring Nov. 5, 1952. He has two sons and three daughters. He is a civil service retiree and still works some at the commissary. He is active in St. Thomas Catholic Church.
True was born in Bell County in 1895, claiming to be the best-looking son in the family of eight, he had seven sisters. His father was a medical doctor who moved to Big Spring in 1909 when Preach was 13 years old.
He obtained his nickname during a marble game on the school grounds and had several fights over it, but the name held. He has grown to like it.
He played football and baseball at Big Spring High where he graduated. He played some professional baseball in Texas and Arizona. In 1917, he joined the famed 36th Division and fought overseas in World War I.
He returned to work for the City of Big Spring, and was working in the parks department at the time the municipal golf course was put in. He married Myrtle Piper June 25, 1927 in Sand Springs. They have five children, 18 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.
He is still active. They raise a garden and he walks two to three miles a day. He has been active in the First United Methodist Church 68 years.
He and his wife have over 6,000 volunteer hours at the Veterans Administration Hospital, having done extensive volunteer work in the old psychiatric ward.
He is a member of the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and the National Association of Retired Federal Employees.

DENE SHEPPARD

District trainer

Dene Sheppard, Chief of Voluntary Service at the Veterans Administration Hospital, was one of 23 chiefs of voluntary service in the nation selected as a district trainer for the V.A.'s new Automated Data Reporting System.

Mrs. Sheppard was recommended for her position as district trainer by the V.A. Central Office because of her fine record and experience in voluntary services.

She has been active with the hospital since 1967, and started working in volunteer services in November 1971. She has been Chief of Voluntary Services since September 1973.

The Automated Data Reporting System will convert all Voluntary Service Records to a computer, and among other things, reduce the man hours required for maintaining records, reduce errors in recording of their hours by volunteers, provide statistical data for the preparation of reports, and simplify the process of certifying data.

Mrs. Sheppard went to St. Louis, Mo. April 26 through April 28 to get training in the Automated Data Reporting System (VAVS).

She in turn will train all other Chiefs of Voluntary Service within this district on the VAVS system.

She goes to Phoenix, Ariz. June 6, for the first training session, and will eventually go to El Paso, Amarillo, Prescott, Ariz., Albuquerque, N.M., and Tucson, Ariz., to complete the training of other Chiefs of Voluntary Service.

They plan long honeymoon on opposite ends of cell block

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — David Barker, 32, and Helen Rainwater, 24, who married Monday in a Grayson County Courthouse ceremony, plan a long honeymoon — on opposite ends of a cell block.

The groom, serving a five-year term for robbery, and the bride, awaiting trial on a felony theft indictment, were married by Justice of the Peace Robert Sale. Eighteen guests, including five members of the sheriff's department, looked on.

The bride wore a simple light beige dress and Barker was clad in a brown suit. The two had met in the jail and conducted a through-the-bars courtship.
