Shaw says arms deal 'frightening'

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

"Frightening," and "a million-dollar mistake," are adjectives used when local persons responded to their impressions of the arms-to-Iran scandal that has rocked the White House recently.

President Reagan will address the nation at 8 p.m. CST and is expected to respond to the recent Tower commission report.

The report released on Feb. 25 is highly critical of the president's lack of awareness on the arms negotiation with Iran and the authority given to the National Security Council to run what has been described as an amatuerish operation.

"It's very frightening to think the president was not aware of an issue of this magnitude," Rep. Larry Don Shaw said this morning.

The president's lax approach in implementing policy also concerned Shaw.

"It's very frightening to think that people like Lt. Col. Oliver North are running our foreign policy," Shaw added.

North, a former National Security aide, is a key figure in the diversion of weapons sales profits to the Nicaraguan rebels. He recently cited his Fifth Amendment rights during a refusal to answer questions from the House Foreign Affairs Committee involving the Iran arms sale.

Howard County Republican Party Chairman Spencer Wolfe said he had "difficulty commenting" on the controversy.

Wolfe said he would have to read the Tower Commission's report before issuing an opinion.

He does not believe media news accounts summarizing the report.

"I don't believe that stuff. It's biased and twisted. I have difficulty commenting on it," Wolfe said.

Howard County's Democratic Chairman M.H. "Slick" Boatler said he believes President Reagan made a mistake in allowing the arms negotiation.

How's that?
Ash Wednesday

Q. My calendar says today is Ash Wednesday. Is that a religious day?

A. Yes. Ash Wednesday begins the season known as Lent in the Roman Catholic Church, Father Jeremiah McCarthy of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, said. The day is to observe rites mourning the sinful state of mankind, and are based on the Jewish custom of showing grief by pouring ashes over oneself, he said. The ashes of palm leaves are mixed with water and placed on the forehead of believers at a special mass. Mass at Immaculate church and Sacred Heart will be at 7 p.m., and at St. Thomas at 7:30 p.m.

Police seeking information on 15-year-old

Police today were seeking information on the whereabouts of 15-year-old Julie Ann Hallford, whom family members described as having run away Tuesday evening.

She is the daughter of Billy and Sandra Hallford, 3706 Boulder, family members reported.

Lt. Jerry Edwards confirmed that she was reported missing Tuesday.

JULIE HALLFORD

Linda Munoz, the missing girl's aunt, said this morning that the blonde-haired, green-eyed girl was last seen about 7 p.m. at the 7-11 convenience store on Wasson Drive. She is 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighs about 145 pounds, Munoz said, and was seen with another youth.

Julie was wearing jeans, a brown leather jacket and red shirt and shoes, Munoz said.

Anyone with information should contact the Big Spring police department, Edwards said.

House OKs state funds for SWCID

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A bill by Rep. Larry Don Shaw ensuring state funds for dorm and food service maintenance at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf was approved in the Texas House Tuesday, he reported this morning.

He has begun to lobby for passage of the bill, now pending in the state Senate.

"The bill would help attract (students) and give stability to the institution," he said.

Student fees are presently used in maintaining dorm and food servicing, he added.

Shaw said he spoke with Sen. John Montford this morning and requested his support for passage of the bill through the state Senate.

If the bill is approved by Senate, it would become "a permanent part of SWCID law," SWCID's Executive/Dean Ron Brasel said.

Passage would give SWCID's governing body the authority to directly spend funds in these areas rather than requiring state approval every two years, Brasel added.

"The dorms at SWCID are in terrible shape. They have bad roofs and are in major need of plumbing," Shaw said.

He estimated that dorm renovation costs range from $60,000 to $80,000.

Brasel confirmed the figure and said improving SWCID's student living situation would help the school's recruitment program.

He said parents of potential students have often based their decision not to send their child to SWCID

Construction permits fall

The amount of construction in Big Spring during the past month fell 81 percent from that of February 1986, city records show.

The number has fallen 76 percent for the fiscal year to date from that of last year.

Construction costs total $43,000 for February, compared to $230,085.82 for February 1986. For the year to date, they total $397,893, compared to $1,624,122.63 for last year to date.

The records show that 14 permits were issued in February, compared to 19 for February 1986. For the year to date, 42 have been issued, compared to 104 for last year to date.

The most costly construction project filed last month was a $13,000 swimming pool at the residence of C.L. Carillo, 608 W. 15th St.

Second was a $6,700 remodeling project for the Big Spring Mall manager's office.

Coahoma raises $1,600 for fund

SHELE REID
... returns home today

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A Coahoma girl who underwent surgery in Houston to remove a brain tumor is scheduled to return home today, a friend of the girl's family reported this morning.

Beverly Martin, secretary at Coahoma Junior High School, said approximately $1,600 was raised at a pancake supper Tuesday night for a fund to go toward medical expenses of Shele Reid, daughter of Phillip and Shyrlee Reid. More than 400 people were fed at the supper, believed to be the largest number ever to attend a pancake supper at the school, she said.

"We ran out of food. It's the best we've ever done," she said. "It's such a close-knit place out here."

The 15-year-old Coahoma school student underwent surgery Jan. 8 at Houston's M.D. Anderson Hospital for a brain tumor.

Martin said Shele will return to school, although it's not certain when. She is expected to be on a homebound program at first, before returning to school for half-days, and gradually remaining in school for longer periods, Martin said.

A freshman at Coahoma High School, Shele has been active in band and several other organizations, a family member has reported.

Martin said she attended school at the hospital daily during her six-week stay, and added the girl's teacher at the hospital remarked that she was the only child to never miss a day.

"She's a remarkable child," Martin said. "She's got a marvelous attitude."

The Houston surgery is Shele's second operation on the tumor, Martin said. She was treated in Lubbock Dec. 2, but surgeons were unable to remove all of the tumor.

The family then consulted a childrens' brain tumor specialist in Houston, who estimated that 20 percent of the tumor had been removed during the first surgery. Shele's second operation lasted eight hours, Martin said, at which time the remainder of the tumor was removed.

Shele remained at the hospital to undergo radiation treatment, she said.

The tumor's cause is uncertain, she said, adding that Shele may have been born with it. Shyrlee Reid has said her daughter suffered severe headaches as a small child, Martin said.

An account at Security State Bank is available for anyone wishing to donate to help cover her medical expenses.

Belaski was honored for his initiative and efforts with the staff and inmates of the prison working toward development of the amphitheater and Comanche Trail Park as a cultural activity center.

ANTHONY BELASKI

Study: Jobless benefits low in Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Wracked by its slumping oil and agriculture economies, Texas leads the nation in the number of people trying to survive without a job or unemployment benefits, according to a national survey.

Texas had 10 percent of the total number of jobless Americans who exhausted their unemployment benefits in 1986, and more than 500,000 of its residents are without income either from work or federal assistance, the study said.

The findings were contained in a survey released Monday by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities in Washington.

Joe Wallace, office manager of the Texas Employment Commission of Howard County, was unavailable to comment on the report.

"Although we have been free from recession for four years, the unemployment system is providing far less coverage than during previous economic recoveries," said John Bickerman, research director of the non-profit center.

"The safety net for unemployed families, especially those out of work for long periods of time, has eroded substantially," he said.

The study said Labor Department statistics show that an average of 32.9 percent of American jobless received benefits each month last year. But more than 5.5 million were without coverage.

The proportion of jobless who were getting unemployment checks broke 1985's record low of 33.6 percent, the study said.

Labor Department unemployment statistics do not count Americans who have stopped looking for work, so the number of people without jobless benefits is higher than the study indicates.

Texas last year had more than 552,000 unemployed people without benefits, and second-place California had 492,000.

Only 23.4 percent of the jobless in Texas last year were getting benefits, the fifth-worst percentage in the nation.

Texas residents may draw unemployment benefits for 26 weeks — a period that often is not long enough, said Ronald Luna of the Texas Employment Commission. He said oil and farm workers aren't used to looking for work.

"We've got people out of work who have never been out work before," Luna said. "They're not chiselers or cheaters."

Weather

Skies were generally clear over Texas today, with warm, sunny days and clear, cool nights predicted for most of the state.

Winds over the state were generally from the north at 5-10 mph, the National Weather Service said.

Early morning state temperatures were mostly in the 30s over West Texas. The 4 a.m. temperature extremes were a low of 31 degrees at Marfa and a high of 60 degrees at Corpus Christi.

West Texas will see clear skies with lows in the mid-40s and lower 40s and Highs in the 70s except for the lower 80s along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend.

In North Texas it will be sunny and mild through Thursday with highs in the upper 60s and mid-70s and lows in the upper 30s to lower 40s.

The forecast for South Texas is also sunny through Thursday with highs in the 70s and lows mainly in the 40s.

Early morning temperatures included 46 at Longview, 36 at Amarillo, 39 at Wichita Falls, 39 at Abilene, 41 at Waco, and 48 at Houston.

Landlords not responsible for Big Spring bills

A Big Spring City councilman said Tuesday he is battling the rumor mill when he called to report that landlords here are not being held responsible for tenant utility bills.

Councilman D.W. Overman noted that Midland City Council recently passed an ordinance to hold landlords responsible for city utility bills left unpaid by tenants. That law allows the city to place liens on the properties until the bills are paid.

"If the tenant moves out, leaving delinquent or unpaid bills, the landlord owes those bills. And they have some upset people over there," Overman said.

"Some people here want to know if we've passed a law like that, or if we're going to," Overman said.

"I've researched it, and we don't have such a law. As far as I know, we're not contemplating one, either," Overman added.

Fred Poe, Midland city manager, said today that Midland passed an ordinance in May to allow the city to file liens against homeowners to collect for unpaid or delinquent city utility bills.

An amendment, enacted last November, extended the Midland ordinance to permit liens against landlords as well, Poe said.

"It only applies to our city utilities — water, sewer and garbage," he said.

The dorms do not provide a "home environment," and are in need of air conditioning and heating service repairs, Brasel added.

Transportation Board: Shipment laws needed

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board used a 1985 truck accident in Oklahoma as an example of why it said tighter government surveillance is needed on the thousands of munitions shipments on the nation's highways.

The NTSB said Tuesday there were nearly 48,000 shipments of munitions by truck last year, twice the number six years ago, amid continuing shortcomings in driver training, routing practices, cargo packaging and overall surveillance of trucking companies.

Between 1980 and 1986, trucks carrying high-level Defense Department explosives — ammunition, bombs, rockets, mines and torpedoes — have been involved in 49 highway accidents in 25 states, the board said.

The renewed concern about such shipments came in connection with the NTSB investigation into a nighttime highway accident Aug. 4, 1985, in Checotah, Okla., in which a truck carrying bombs for the Air Force, collided with a car, causing a fire and a series of explosions.

The explosions, the first of which occurred as ambulance crews were still evacuating occupants from the truck and car, injured 49 people, damaged 375 buildings, including a nearby school, and left a crater 27 feet deep and 35 feet wide.

"We're happy with the report that came out today," said U.S. Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla. "The recommendations listed in the report are similar to recommendations that came out at hearings we held on the Checotah accident. We think these recommendations should be heeded by officials."

Most munitions shipments are carried by private contractors for the Defense Department with government regulation shared by the Pentagon and the Transportation Department.

But the NTSB said the Defense Department should assume a stronger role in monitoring the private shippers and establishing safety requirements. The Pentagon too often has relied on an undermanned Federal Highway Administration to determine a truck company's fitness, the safety board said.

The company involved in the Checotah accident had not been subjected to a Transportation Department safety audit since 1973, although it had been assigned a satisfactory safety rating at the time of the accident, the board said. Three weeks after the accident, an audit uncovered numerous safety violations at the carrier, investigators said.

Other safety concerns raised as part of the Oklahoma investigation about munitions shipments in general included:

— Ambiguities in federal requirements for routing trucks carrying explosives that at times result in trucks taking routes that contribute to the safety risk.

Munitions shipments carried by the company involved in the Oklahoma accident "were ... often transported over indirect routes for hundreds of unnecessary miles (and) ... regularly were held at carrier terminals for several days while in-transit," the board said.

— Poor monitoring of driver training. In both the Oklahoma accident and another truck accident near Denver in 1984, involving a shipment of U.S. Navy torpedoes, the drivers were found to be relatively inexperienced.

— Inadequate federal requirements for cargo packaging.

"We all make mistakes, but this one is pretty serious — it's a million-dollar mistake," Boatler said.

It's been reported that the negotiation involved millions of dollars in the transaction, although where the money has been diverted remains unclear.

Attorney Wayne Burns, active with the county's Democratic party, said he is "deeply confused" concerning Reagan's responses to his involvement in the scandal.

He recounted that the president said he first granted authority to the August 1985 arms sales, and then said he didn't. And now, Burns said, he tells the Tower commission he doesn't remember.

"That's the hardest one for me to understand," Burns said about Reagan's response to the Tower commission.

SMU students plan legal action; Clements could be a defendant

By PAUL LONG
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Student Senate at Southern Methodist University will pursue legal action "against all responsible parties and individuals" who mishandled the school's football recruiting scandal, the student body president said today.

During a news conference, Trevor Pearlman said he will consult with attorneys this week. The subject of damages and to whom they might be assessed is not yet known, he said.

Gov. Bill Clements, who said Tuesday that he and other SMU board members knew about and continued improper cash payments to athletes, could possibly be a defendant in the suit, Pearlman said.

"Students feel the worth of their degree is being undermined," Pearlman said. "We will continue to undergo injury until all the facts are brought out."

The Student Senate voted 19-5 Tuesday night to seek legal action. Pearlman said he will obtain legal recommendations from attorneys, and the student senate will vote on them.

Pearlman said attorneys who are SMU graduates already have offered free legal advice.

"They are well-respected attorneys who graduated from SMU and have a love for their school," Pearlman said.

An emergency meeting of the SMU Board of Governors was held today to discuss the Clements' statements about cash payments. Before the meeting began, board member Robert Dedman said that no discussions about illegal cash payments to athletes had ever been made.

"We heard nothing in the Board of Governors," Dedman said. "There's never been a discussion about any of that in my presence. I'm completely surprised."

Clements, who resigned as chairman of the SMU's Board of Governors before being sworn in as governor in January, is the first member of SMU's governing body to acknowledge knowing of payments cited a week ago when the NCAA hit the school with the stiffest penalties ever imposed on a football program.

Ruling 'fights biases'

WASHINGTON — A campaign to help AIDS victims fight discrimination is receiving a major boost from a Supreme Court ruling extending the protection of federal law for the handicapped to those with contagious diseases.

The ruling is "a message to the nation — AIDS cannot be a pretext for prejudice," said Nan D. Hunter of the American Civil Liberties Union. "Employers won't be allowed to invent excuses to fire people with AIDS."

By a 7-2 vote Tuesday, the court said all recipients of federal aid are barred from discriminating against people with contagious diseases. The decision affects government contractors and practically all public schools.

Those with contagious diseases may not be excluded if they are otherwise qualified to work — meaning if their disease is not a threat to others, the court said.

Three injured in fire

TEXAS CITY — A fire at the Texas City Refinery injured three men, including one who suffered burns over most of his body, authorities said.

A petroleum storage tank that had no oil in it blew up about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday while crews were cleaning the tank, spewing dense smoke throughout the area, authorities said.

The fire was put out shortly after 3 p.m. and the cause is under investigation.

Miguel Cerna, 35, was taken by LifeFlight to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, where he was in critical condition, hospital spokeswoman Mary Stark-Lobe said. She said he had burns over 85 to 90 percent of his body.

Two other men working at the plant — Albert Jones, 50, of Texas City, and Don Williams, 41, of Alvin — were treated and released from Danforth Memorial Hospital in Texas City, said hospital spokeswoman Beverly Boas.

Jones was treated for a neck injury and Williams for first- and second-degree burns to his hands and backs, Ms. Boas said.

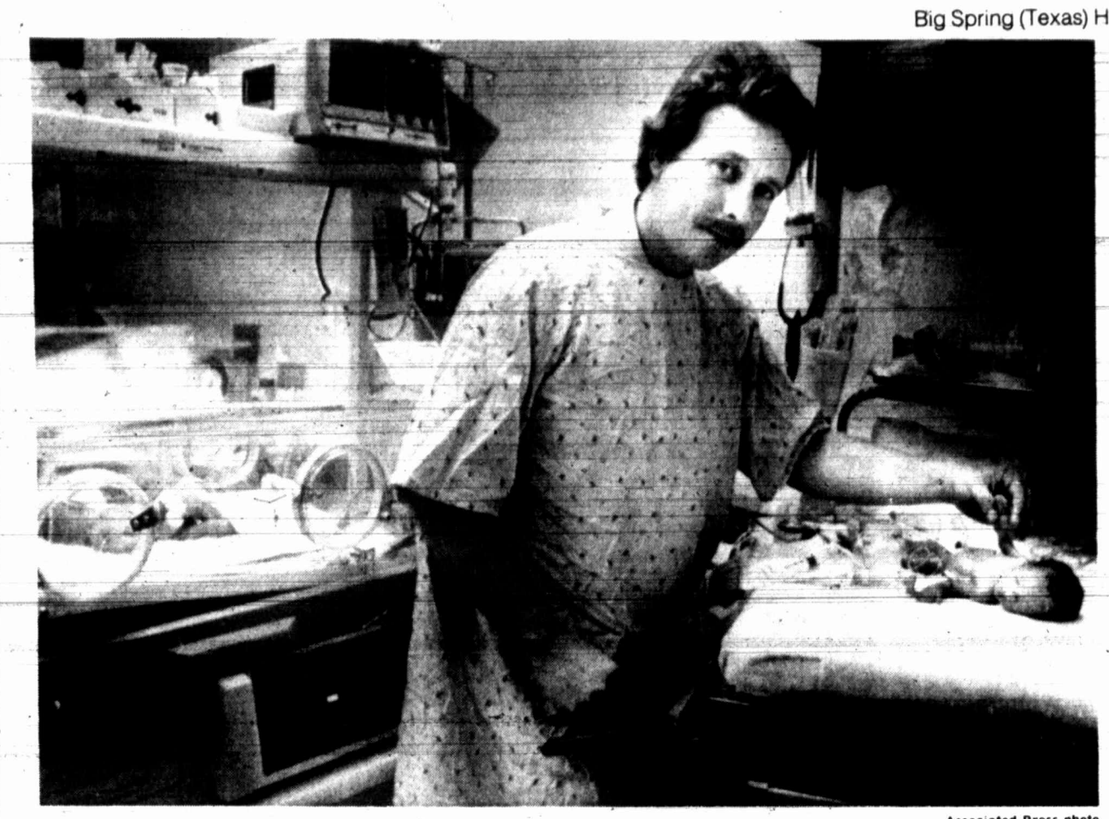

Roberts' plea continues

TULSA, Okla. — Evangelist Oral Roberts, apparently in the final stages of raising the $8 million he says he needs to preserve his life, is stepping up his appeal to followers for donations before the end of March.

Roberts' supporters have begun a countdown to March 31, the deadline the 69-year-old evangelist said God had set for completing the drive to fund medical missionary scholarships.

Roberts said in a letter to followers last week that he still needs $1.5 million. In January, Roberts said he needed $4.5 million.

Roberts' son, Richard, told viewers of his daily television program Tuesday: "You can be a part of helping to bring in this final million and a half. Step to your telephone right now. ... We are so close. Will you help us go over the top?"

Two sets hang on for lives

By The Associated Press

The nine surviving members of two sets of quintuplets born within one-half hour of each other remained in satisfactory to critical condition today in hospitals 1,600 miles apart.

Both the Helms quintuplets of Peoria, Ill., four girls and a boy, and the Jenkins quintuplets of Las Vegas, Nev., all girls, were born Monday evening.

One of the Jenkins infants died Tuesday morning, but doctors at Humana Hospital Sunrise said the others were showing signs of improvement. Dr. Bernard Feldman, head of the neo-natal unit treating the surviving babies, said Tuesday that "we're cautiously optimistic" about their chances.

The babies' conditions remained stable early today, with two listed in satisfactory condition, one in guarded condition and one in critical condition, according to Ann Lynch, a spokeswoman for Humana Hospital Sunrise.

At St. Francis Medical Center in Peoria, spokesman Chris Lofgren said doctors would offer no prognosis on the Helms quints' chances of survival until at least 72 hours after their births at about 11:40 p.m. CST Monday. They were all listed in critical condition today.

"There's going to be a lot of ups and downs" over the next few days and weeks as the infants struggle to survive, said their father, Ron Helms, 28, a restaurant manager.

His wife, Rosalind, who had taken a fertility drug, was listed in fair condition today, said spokeswoman Pat White. She saw her children for the first time Tuesday afternoon, said Lofgren. The children were the couple's first.

Unlike the Helms quints, the Jenkins girls were conceived without the aid of a fertility drug, doctors said. The birth of all-girl quintuplets occurs spontaneously only once every 70 million births, doctors said.

"It's still very hard to comprehend," their father, Wayne Jenkins, said at a news conference late Tuesday afternoon. "We're still in so much shock right now."

"We've got four very beautiful reasons to be very happy," he said.

Jenkins, who had been unemployed for a month, was on his first day of a new job selling cars Monday when he found out his wife, Robin, was going into premature labor. They were born by Caesarean section about 9:10 p.m. PST Monday.

The couple have two other children.

Says woman set afire

GENEVA — A Chilean teen-ager today told the U.N. Human Rights Commission she was beaten and set afire by soldiers in her homeland, and appealed to the commission to condemn such abuses by Chile's government.

Carmen Quintana, a 19-year-old university student, said her case shows "that the human rights situation in Chile is very serious" and points to "serious defects" in the legal system.

She called on the commission to condemn the "institutionalized framework of violations" by the government of President Augusto Pinochet.

The 43-country panel, now in its annual session ending March 13, can vote to condemn abuses through resolutions.

Miss Quintana, her face disfigured by burn scars, told delegates that she and a companion, Rodrigo Rojas, 19, were stopped by soldiers while walking to a demonstration during a national strike in Santiago last July 2.

The two were beaten, doused from head to foot with gasoline and set on fire, she said. With burns over most of their bodies, they were thrown into a ditch and brought to a hospital by police only two hours later, she said.

Refugees fast in protest

TORONTO — Authorities struggling to slow an influx of refugees arriving at a rate of about 1,000 a week began immigration hearings for hundreds of Central Americans stopped from entering Canada at the U.S. border.

However, seven hunger strikers in Montreal who want the government to admit their relatives still in Chile stopped drinking water to press their demands.

The hearings in Niagara Falls, Ontario, across the river from New York state, began Tuesday and involve hundreds of Salvadorans, Guatemalans and Chileans who want refugee status in Canada.

The decision to close the border to would-be refugees stranded 106 of the Chileans' relatives in Buenos Aires, Argentina, just before they were to board a flight for Montreal. The Canadian Embassy in Buenos Aires is now reviewing their cases.

Chinese take issue

BEIJING — China today said the reduction of medium-range missiles should be "balanced," and took issue with a Soviet proposal for eliminating all such missiles in Europe while allowing the Soviet Union to retain 100 in Asia.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Yu Zhizhong said at a weekly briefing that U.S.-Soviet negotiations on medium-range missiles "concern the security of both European and Asian countries. The security of Europe and that of Asia are equally important and should be given equal attention."

Yu said that as an Asian nation, China is concerned about Soviet medium-range missiles deployed in Asia.

CIA becoming three monkeys

The Central Intelligence Agency is the eyes and ears of the U.S. government abroad. Its first responsibility is not to overthrow governments, but to collect intelligence. The CIA director is expected to know what's going on around the world, and especially in trouble spots.

But, if we are to believe the testimony of acting CIA Director Robert M. Gates, the CIA had no concrete knowledge of how the Contras were being financed after Congress cut their funds. Not knowing took an effort.

At one point, Gates and then CIA Director William Casey had lunch with Lt. Col. Oliver North. Over the table, Gates recounts, North made a "cryptic" remark about Swiss bank accounts and the Contras. Neither Casey nor Gates asked him to expand.

Later, when Gates privately told Casey he was concerned about the remark, Casey told him not to worry about it, Gates told a Senate committee.

Is the new motto for the CIA: "See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil"?

Does the intelligence-gathering system simply stop listening when there are things it doesn't want to hear?

Either Gates and Casey willfully decided to ignore information that might have been disturbing, or they are lying and covering up.

Casey, the victim of a brain tumor, probably never will report what he knew or didn't know.

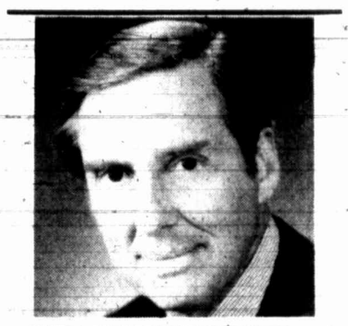

But Gates, in his confirmation hearings, said: "Agency people ... actively shunned information. We didn't want to know how the Contras were being funded, in part because we were concerned it would get us involved in crossing the line imposed by law."

Gates is not going to have an easy time convincing the Senate to confirm him as the director of central intelligence when he failed a prime test — to gather intelligence.

There is no question that Gates is a bright man. There is no question that he is a loyal American and a professional who worked his way up through the ranks of the CIA.

But there is a big question whether a man who has the ability to act deaf and dumb when he is being passed intelligence on a silver spoon should be confirmed by the Senate as top intelligence agent. The proverbial three monkeys don't belong on the desk of the CIA director.

Space offers Texas hope of industries

By LLOYD BENTSEN

In the short quarter-century since people first ventured into space, our explorations already have spawned whole new industries — creating jobs and improving our standard of living.

Satellites launched by the space program, for example, have revolutionized communications, mapmaking and weather forecasting.

The new industries that could grow from space research offer Texas — and the nation — a way to diversify its industrial base and create jobs.

Commercial development of space technology offers a bright ray of hope for the future as we contemplate our country's $170 billion trade deficit. It is one field in which we are far ahead of foreign competition. But we do have serious competitors — in Europe, Japan and elsewhere — so we must redouble our efforts to move forward.

I am again introducing legislation I proposed last year to create a National Space Grant College Program under the direction of the National Aeronautics and Space Adminstration, utilizing existing universities.

The Bentsen bill is modeled after the Land Grant College system, established 124 years ago, which has been so successful in bringing together agricultural research, education and industry.

Land grant colleges, such as Texas A&M University, are no small part of the reason American farmers are the most efficient and productive in the world.

Established as a land grant college 111 years ago, Texas A&M also was designated in 1981 as one of the first four sea grant colleges — another federal-state partnership that furthers marine work through practical research and education.

A&M officials believe it is time to take this research and education concept beyond the bounds of earth — into space exploration and development.

I wholeheartedly agree.

The National Space Grant College Program established by my legislation would award competitive grants to universities, and fellowships to graduates and undergraduates. Total financing would be $10 million in each of the first two years of the program and $15 million in each of the next two years.

Archbishop turns to Shiite Moslem clergyman for help

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — The archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, has been communicating by letter with a prominent Shiite Moslem clergyman since pro-Iranian terrorists kidnapped Terry Waite, the Anglican Church envoy who is negotiating for the release of hostages.

The Moslem cleric, Sheik Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah, admitted in handwritten messages that he has seen Waite since he was "detained" on Jan. 20 in West Beirut, according to our sources. Fadlallah and the archbishop have been writing to each other about the fate of Runcie's envoy, Waite.

Waite was credited with a major role in the release of three American hostages, and had returned to Beirut for his fifth negotiating mission. His objective was to win release of Associated Press correspondent Terry Anderson and Thomas Sutherland, dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut.

Despite his long experience, Waite dropped his guard on the night of Jan. 20. He had met twice with members of the Islamic Jihad, the pro-Iranian kidnappers, and was to meet them again that night.

But at their request, Waite left behind his bodyguards from the Druze militia. And the Lebanese Shiite who was to have accompanied him, former health minister Adnan Mrowe, couldn't make it.

According to our sources, Mrowe was summoned to the hospital for an emergency Caesarean delivery. He begged Waite to stay with him, but Waite was anxious to go to the meeting with the terrorists. As he had done before, Waite left a note stating that if he were taken hostage there should be no negotiations undertaken for his release.

When it became apparent that Waite was indeed a hostage, Runcie began writing officials in Lebanon, Syria and Iran for help in freeing his emissary. He got a written response from Fadlallah, who had met with Waite only four days before the envoy's abduction.

Who is Fadlallah? He is the highest-ranking Shiite religious figure in Lebanon and the spiritual leader of Hezbollah (Party of God). U.S. intelligence reports blame Hezbollah for many bombings that have taken scores of American lives and say the group has been active in American hostage-taking.

Fadlallah's admission to the archbishop that he has seen Waite since the abduction confirms that Waite is being held by pro-Iranian Shiites. Fadlallah could be the key to Waite's release.

Though not Iranian, Fadlallah is considered Tehran's man in Lebanon. He has a large portrait of the Ayatollah Khomeini in hs home and has been a guest in Tehran of the Khomeini regime.

Fadlallah is widely believed to have a significant role in the October 1983 bombing of the U.S. Marine barracks at the Beirut airport, which killed 241 Marines. The night before, he reportedly blessed the two truck drivers who were going to blow up the Marine barracks and the French paratroop headquarters nearby, thus guaranteeing the suicide bombers a place in paradise.

U.S. intelligence also places Fadlallah at a crucial planning session in Damascus three days before the bombings, and concludes that he is close to Hussein Mussavi, Hezbollah's chief terrorist in Lebanon. In fact, some intelligence sources believe that Fadlallah is Mussavi's boss. Fadlallah has consistently denied any part in bombings or kidnappings.

The shadowy sheik has been asked by the United States in the past to intercede for Americans held by Shiites. Now the archbishop of Canterbury has turned to Fadlallah for help.

MISERY'S COMPANY: The State Department's bureaucrats are taking what consolation they can from the realization that they aren't the only ones who had trouble with the Soviets over embassy constructions.

The Swedes let the Soviets move into their new digs in Stockholm long before completion of the Swedish Embassy in Moscow. "The Swedes, lacking any leverage to prevent Soviet construction delays, then faced continued difficulty getting Soviet cooperation on embassy construction," a State Department report notes.

The French, meanwhile, allowed Soviet crews to build their new Moscow embassy. Soon after its completion, a balcony collapsed.

OSTRICHES AT NSA: The nonpartisan Office of Technology Assessment investigated criticism that we reported about the growing encroachment of the Pentagon and the National Security Agency on the nation's commercial communications industry, and confirmed some of the complaints.

But NSA officials don't want to hear it — or let anyone else know about it. In angry letters, the bureaucrats have demanded that OTA's draft report be amended or killed. Interestingly, congressional critics say the draft wasn't tough enough.

Says Hispanic murderer freed, too

To the editor:

Isn't it amazing how little a person's life means to people? And isn't it amazing how people forget, unless you are a friend or member of the family?

On Feb. 15, 1980, I lost a close friend to a murderer. Only he was white and the murderer was Hispanic.

He was gunned down in a bar by the Hispanic male, wielding a sawed-off shotgun — a federal offense in its own. He walked out of the bar, got the gun out of his pickup and came back into the bar to do the killing. Isn't that murder, also?

He not only got a slap on the wrist, too, but he still walks the street today. He has been picked up several times for DWI (driving while intoxicated) and public intoxication, only to be released in a few days each time.

For people who don't know or can't remember, I am referring to the murder of Ronnie Jeter, killed by Abe Gonzales.

Maybe now other people feel as we felt then. No one knows the pain or agony friends and family feel. Especially Mr. Jeter, who lost one son to a shotgun and now his other son is battling cancer. God bless all of them.

One thing Viola was right about in her Feb. 28 letter to the editor: It seems like in Big Spring murderers have a tendency to be released and she is right. We never sleep the same and we don't forget.

Contra aid now avoids conflict later

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN

The Nicaraguan Contras are in disarray, their leaders squabbling, their military forces stymied. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted on Wednesday to cut off their aid.

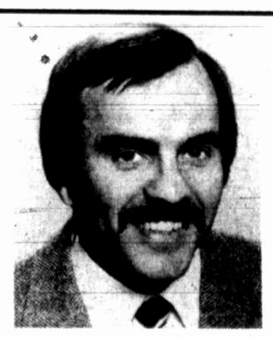

Congress, angry at the diversion of funds from the Iran arms sale, will probably follow suit sooner or later. The Sandinistas at last may be able to cement their hold on power. What should the U.S. do now?

The options illustrate why it was — and is — wise to help the Contras, flawed as they are, slim as their chances may be. The reason is not, as President Reagan claims, that the U.S. has a solemn duty to advance democracy in Central America.

Advances toward democracy abroad are welcome. But they should not be the main goal of American foreign policy, whose crucial task is to ensure the safety of this country, its democratic institutions and its allies.

The Sandinistas are reprehensible in their internal policies, which are aimed at bringing about a Marxist-Leninist state. But lots of governments practice reprehensible policies without warranting U.S. action to dislodge or harass them.

What justifies our help to the Contras is that the Sandinistas are aligned with the Soviet Union, assisted by communist bloc advisers and dedicated to advancing the aims of our enemies. That, not the closing of La Prensa, makes them a danger to our security, and one too well-placed to ignore.

U.S. aid to the Contras has been interpreted by critics as a reckless use of American might. Actually, it reflects not a willingness to use power, but a reluctance. We are obliged to help the rebels in order to forestall by indirect means what we may not be willing to undo by direct ones.

Former diplomat Wayne Smith, a vehement foe of Reagan's policies, wrote recently in The New York Times that aid to the rebels has been a "timorous and ineffective policy" that violates international law and gives Managua a pretext for repression.

Smith, unlike many, is honest enough to acknowledge that important U.S. interests are at stake. "We want all Soviet and Cuban military personnel sent home," he writes. "We do not want the establishment of Soviet or Cuban military bases or the introduction of sophisticated weaponry that might threaten nearby sea lanes or the Panama Canal."

But he says the right tack is the one Harry Truman would have taken, to reach an agreement with the Sandinistas to eliminate these dangers and to back it up by vowing, "If you abide by that agreement, we'll get along. Violate it, and the full might of the United States will fall on you."

That policy has several advantages. It would be simple, prudently limited in scope, fully accountable to the American people and highly effective. Aiding the Contras is none of these.

But Truman could have signed that treaty only because he knew that Congress and the public would fully support military action to punish any violations. Reagan could not reach such an agreement — even assuming he might have wanted to — because he has no such assurance.

That is why the Contadora effort to settle the conflict has not borne fruit. It makes more sense to negotiate a treaty with the Sandinistas to protect our interests than to finance a rebellion against them. Unfortunately, there is no one but the U.S. to make sure that Managua sticks to the bargain.

The danger is that the Sandinistas will accept our terms only to rid themselves of a rebellion. With the Contras no longer in the way, they may then begin to take steps to accommodate the desires of their Soviet patrons, or to subvert their neighbors — following the example of Castro. When that day comes, Congress and the public may lack the stomach to send American troops to stop them.

It has been hard enough, after all, for this administration to get Congress' approval for a piddling amount of money for the Contras. The public is understandably wary of military intervention, except in the most urgent and tractable cases, like Grenada. A treaty's potential dangers to the U.S. are as obvious as the certain benefits to the Sandinistas.

Those risks can be overcome, though not cheaply. If the cause of the rebels proves hopeless, the U.S. may have little choice but to try and achieve its goals through diplomacy instead of war.

But Congress should not commit itself to cutting off the Contras and reaching an accommodation with Managua unless it is also willing to enforce the deal, by supporting whatever measures are required to guarantee our security. The easy decision now may carry a painful obligation later.

Teen-ager's original poem has much-recorded past

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: In reference to that charming poem you published titled "A Kiss Goodnight": As a dedicated record collector from way back, may I set the record straight? That poem supposedly authored by a 16-year-old girl is not original. It's an obvious steal from the song titled, "I Said My Pajamas and Put on My Pray'rs," written by Eddie Pola and George Wyle. It was popular in the late '40s and early '50s, and was recorded by Margaret Whiting and Frank De Vol. I have it on a 78 rpm Capitol record.

Since record companies stopped making 78s long before that 16-year-old girl was born, it's safe to assume that his ditty predates the young poet by several years.

I trust that this will be the vinyl word on the subject.

GLEN BANKS, LONG BEACH

DEAR GLEN: Not quite. Other old-timers wrote to tell me that the hit song "I Said My Pajamas and Put on My Pray'rs" was recorded 40 years ago by the following vocalists: Tony Martin, Fran Warren, Ethel Merman, Ray Bolger, Doris Day and Buddy Clark. And the mail is still coming in.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received a Christmas card on which the sender wrote a full page of past incidents, as we had not heard from her for more than 20 years. "George" and I have been married for 37 years, and he was engaged to this party before he met me.

Well, George wrote about the same amount on our Christmas card and sent it to her. I didn't see what he wrote because he didn't invite me to, which would have been OK had it ended right there. It didn't. The next week a letter from this woman came addressed to the both of us, but it was never shown to me, so I didn't know what was in it. As a rule, George and I share all the mail, and when one of us writes, the other adds a few lines, so all of this sudden secrecy on George's part is very disturbing.

Every time I bring it up, he becomes hostile and defensive and says he doesn't want to discuss it, then a heated argument follows. Am I being stupid to let this bother me? He insists that he loves me, and says I'm overreacting and paranoid. How shall I handle this? We are about to separate over this.

HEAVYHEARTED

DEAR HEAVYHEARTED: Since George refuses to discuss this problem with you, discuss it with your clergyperson, if you have one, or talk it over with a marriage counselor. (It would be better if George and you had counseling together, but a person who denies there's a problem is not about to spend time and money to solve a problem that doesn't exist.)

I seriously doubt that your marriage is threatened, but your husband's unkind and uncaring behaviour is less than loving. You need someone who will listen to you unload your anger and reassure you. Hie thee to a therapist.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying to "Don in Eugene, Ore.": "It's my business, your business, and the business of every person to do whatever is necessary to prevent a drunk from driving."

How I wish someone had intervened when a 17-year-old drunk driver killed my 29-year-old son who left a wife and two precious babies.

Then, just 2½ years later, another 17-year-old drunk driver killed my 22-year-old daughter. Her husband of less than 10 months was seriously injured in the accident. Grief and heartache beyond description have been ours and our family's. I hope Don never has to experience such heartbreaking tragedy. Our grief cannot be measured. Our lives have been altered forever.

International cup to be displayed at show

An international cup and faceted stones will be on display at the 18th Annual Gem and Mineral Show March 7 and 8 at the Howard County Fair Barns.

In 1984, Austrailia challenged the United States to competition in an international faceting meet — the skill of cutting stones, according to a release from the Big Spring Prospectors Club.

The U.S. gem cutters accepted the challenge and guilds throughout the country urged their best faceters to cut the designated designs. Expert and mature cutters responded, the release stated.

Glenn Vargus, renowned cutter and author of serveral books on the subject, was chosen to help coordinate the U.S. competition and the United States won by a narrow margin.

The coveted cup and winning stones were sent to the U.S. where they will remain until another competition is conducted in 1988. This will be the first time the Australian-American Faceting competition cup has been shown in West Texas.

The show also will have working demonstrations in faceting, cabbing, copper bead enameling and silver chains, as well as displays, hourly door prizes and a grand prize of $100.

The Gem and Mineral Show times are March 7 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and March 8 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Senior citizens will be admitted to the show free on Saturday morning. Children under 12 accompanied by an adult will be admitted free throughout the show. Adul admission is $2.

The show is being sponsored by the Big Spring Prospector's Club, winner of the national AFMS All American Club Award in 1984. The club is a non-profit organization.

Costochondritis is rib problem

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I wish you would comment on costochondritis and what can be done for it. It settles in my right side (of the rib cage). — M.J.C.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I got a real scare recently when I experienced sharp pain in my upper chest. Thank heavens it wasn't heart-related. I am told it is the Tietze syndrome. Now I need an explanation of that. My doctor said just to take aspirin if it happens again. Is that sufficient? — Mrs. J.A.

Costochondritis combines three medical terms — costo, Latin for rib; chondro, Greek for cartilage, and itis, which means inflammation. Costochondritis, then, is inflammation of the cartilage that attaches the rib bone to the breastbone. The condition has another name, Tietze's syndrome.

Judging from the amount of mail I get on this subject, Tietze's syndrome must rank up there among the more common causes of chest pain. And, in fact, the pain from this inflammation can be disturbingly like that from the heart (angina). But be assured, the heart has nothing to do with it.

Why this particular bit of cartilage should suddenly begin acting is not clear. We might drag out that seemingly all-purpoe explanation of auto-immunity once more, where the body attacks some of its own tissue as being alien.

Fortunately, time and anti-inflammation drugs, like aspirin, bring relief. For some, stronger medicine, like cortisone injection in the area, is needed. For most, a realization that it is only a rib and not a heart problem is relief enough.

To learn about the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — read the booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

A hoop treat

If you didn't get a chance to view the Region I-AA Girls Basketball Tournament at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum last weekend, then you missed a treat.

Again, it was crowd-pleasing basketball played with all the intensity of the state finals. Unlike last year, when the two top teams in the state played in the finals, this tourney had everyone wondering just who would meet in the finals.

Last year Abernathy and Bovina came out of District 3-2A and everyone knew they would be in the finals. The final matched two veteran-laden teams and two of the best players in the state of Texas. Post player Marie Pesch of Bovina and and Phoebe Dunn played like the blue-chippers they were.

Abernathy edged Bovina 43-41 and went on to win the state championship.

But this year's region tourney didn't have the experienced state favorites, big names or senior-laden squads. Instead, it was dark horses, unknown stars and underclasswomen.

Star players emerged, like Panhandle's forward combo of Michelle Wilkinson and Julie Pipes and Morton's "J&J" attack of Valery Jackson and Nedra Johnson.

The teams were evenly matched, as indicated by Panhandle's 74-67 win over Wall and Morton's 55-45 win over Reagan County. The championship game was a doozy, with Morton holding on to a 55-50 win over Panhandle.

It seemed only fitting that Morton should earn the trip to Austin this time. They were the lone team back from last year's tournament. Coach Bob Shield's Maidens were outscored 24-12 in the final quarter and lost 67-57 to Bovina in the first round.

But it wasn't to be in this tournament. Aided by some generous officiating, Panhandle battled back from a 34-16 halftime defict to make the game close, but it wasn't enough to keep the Maidens from the state tournament.

Perhaps the most enjoyable aspect of the tournament was the youth on the teams. Panhandle had the most experienced squad, starting three seniors, including Pipes and Wilkinson, who will make some college coaches happy. The other two Panhandle starters were juniors.

Wall fielded a very young team itself, with three seniors and two sophomores. Reagan County coach Ron Taylor started three sophomores, one junior and one senior.

But Shields' Morton team had the youngest starters of all, with two freshmen, two juniors and one senior. Check this out for having confidence in your younger players — in the final two minutes of a two-point game, Shields had three freshmen on the court, and they scored five of the last six Morton points of the game.

I must say the all-tournament selection committee made great selections. The frontcourt consisted of 5-9 Wall sophomore Lori Smithwich, who scored 14 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in Wall's loss to Panhandle.

The other post player was 5-10 senior Julie Pipes of Panhandle. She averaged 25 points, seven rebounds and three steals.

The outside people were 5-4 sophomore Stacie Beam of Reagan County. She could be another Leslie Gooch in the making. The point guard scored 12 points, dealt out six assists and got two steals in the loss to Morton.

Rounding out the squad was Johnson and Jackson of Morton. The pair of 5-7 juniors were the leaders of the Morton attack. Jackson averaged averaged 21 points, 13 rebounds, five assists and four steals.

Johnson averaged 12 points, five rebounds and five steals. That's what you would call a couple of complete performers.

It was a tournament well worth spending your weekend viewing. It was good basketball and it's a shame if you didn't get to watch some of it.

But don't let it bother you too much. We've still got the boys Region I-AA tournament this weekend.

Face Western Texas tonight

Queens win opener

WACO — Stefanie Massie scored a basket inside the lane and the Howard College Hawk-Queens defeated McLennan Community College 77-76 in the opening round of the Region V tournament in Waco Tuesday night.

The wins propels the Queens 20-9, into tonight's second round against Western Texas College, a 79-43 winner over Weatherford Tuesday night.

Msssie's heroics came just after MCC had taken a 76-75 lead with 20 second left in the game. Howard coach Don Stevens called timeout and instructed his troops to work the ball inside. Massie scored the game-winner with six seconds left.

After the score, Howard fullcourt pressed and MCC was forced to take a 30-foot shot. The attempt was a airball that fell right into a MCC player's hands, but the player missed the uncontested shot and Howard escaped with a win.

"It was a unbelievable offensive game," said a happy Stevens after the win. "Both teams were making some good shots. I'd have to go back a number of years to find one as pulsating as this one.

"After they scored we went to our 1-4 offense to make them go to the corners with us so we could spread out the defense to get the ball inside. They couldn't matchup with us inside, just like we couldn't stop their outside people."

STEFANIE MASSIE

Howard guards Pam Franklin and Terri Powell did a good job of getting the ball inside to Massie and fellow post player Carolyn Willandt. Massie scored 26 points and pulled down 10 rebounds. Willandt scored 12 points.

Franklin, who started instead of Trena Jackson, and Powell each had nine assists. In her reserve role, Jackson charged up the Queens by gunning in 19 points.

"I started Franklin instead of Jackson because of the assist viewpoint. We wanted to get the ball inside and Pam did an excellent job. Jackson came off the bench in the first half and hit about five jumpers. She had eveyone asking, 'Where is she from'?

Jackson scored 12 of her 19 points in the first half.

Howard jumped out to a 10-0 lead and MCC rallied to cut the margin to 12-10. From then on the two teams traded leads the rest of the half and MCC led 37-36 at the half.

MCC threatened to turn it into a blowout as they built a 57-50 lead eight minutes left in the game. "Everything they were shooting was falling and we got too impatient. We stopped going inside," said Stevens.

But Howard got back on track and quickly got back into the game, setting the stage for an exciting ending. "I prayed four times and the other coach prayed three times," joked a relieved Stevens.

This sets up the third meeting for Western Texas and Howard College. In the previous two meetings, WTC won 78-61 in Big Spring and 65-61 in Snyder.

Cooper drops Steers

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

A three-run triple by Abilene Cooper's Chris Ferris helped turn a one-run game into a five-run game, and the Cougars beat the Big Spring Steers 12-4 in a game shortened by nightfall.

The Cougars, now the state's second ranked 5A team, scored three runs in the first inning on two Steer errors and two hits, one a homer.

Steers' starter Timmie Gutierrez settled down, as did his infield, and the Steers rallied over the next three innings. Gutierrez, who had been ineligible up until last Friday, was playing with his team for the first time this year.

In the second inning, Marcos Ramos led off with a bunt single, and advanced to second when the Cooper pitcher hit Eric Thompson. Charlie Ogle flied out, and Matt Garrett advanced the runners on an infield sacrifice. Byron McElreath walked to load the bases with two outs.

Ramos came home when a patient Raymond Ontiveros drew a walk. John Olson whalloped the ball deep with the bases still loaded, but it stayed in the park and the inning was over.

In the top of the third the Cougars scored two runs on two hits, though the Steers had two chances at infield foul pops that could have salvaged the inning. Both, however, were difficult plays.

Big Spring Steers shortstop Eric Thompson gets ready from a grounder in the second inning in Tuesday's Big Spring-Abilene Cooper game at Steer Field. Cooper won the game 12-4.

Scott Malone, who hit both the flies, connected on a double to get the inning going. Malone scored, as did Robert McAdams, who came in while the Steers were hot-boxing Danny Whitford between first and second.

The Steers trailed 5-1 going into their half of the third, when they played their best offensive baseball of the day.

First baseman Aaron Allen led off with a towering homer. Chad Wash flied out, and Ramos walked. Thompson blasted a double that bounced between the right and center fielders for a double, scoring Ramos.

Ogle followed with an almost identical hit for a single, and Ramos scored from second to tighten the game to 5-4.

Allen, who pitched Friday against Permian, started the fourth inning in relief of Gutierrez. Allen walked the first batter, but picked him off at first. He walked two more batters in the inning to load the bases, but escaped the inning with no runs.

In the bottom of the fourth, Ontiveros singled and stole second. Olsen and Allen grounded out, but Ontiveros advanced to third. Chad Wash came to bat, and slapped the ball to the shortstop. The throw to first just beat Wash as Ontiveros' run didn't count. From then on the Steers would have just one more baserunner.

Allen struck out the first batter in the fifth, but walked the next three to load the bases. Feris slammed his triple to deep leftfield, scoring all three runners. The Cougars scored twice more in the inning, and added two more in the sixth.

Steers' coach John Velasquez praised Cooper, which appeared to deserve its lofty state ranking. He also thought his team played much better than in Friday's loss to Permian.

"Early on we could have helped ourselves out (with better fielding), but we played a lot better

JV's tie Lee, 8-8

MIDLAND — In their season opener the Big Spring Steers junior varsity battled to a 8-8 tie with Midland Lee Tuesday in Midland.

The game was called in the sixth inning due to darkness. Big Spring jumped out to a 5-0 lead but had to hold on for the tie.

Danny Gamble led the Big Spring hitting with a single, home run and two RBI's. Freshman Mike Hilario started and pitched three innings. He allowed four runs. He was relieved by Chris Crownover and Lance Newell.

The Steers next game will be Saturday versus San Angelo Central in San Angelo at 2 p.m.

Queens honored; Hawks shunned

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

The Western Junior College Athletic Conference coaches have cast their votes, and one of the omissions from the men's all-conference team stands out like a puss infected thumb.

Dennis Rhodes, who led the conference in assists with 8.9 a game and scored 11.5 points and made four steals a contest, was not deamed to be one of the top 13 players in the conference.

The Hawk-Queens, however, were better represented. Stefanie Massie made the six-women first team, and Terri Powell made the five-women second team. Freshman Leslie Gooch was honorable mention.

Massie averaged 14 points and 9.2 rebounds per game, and she was very improtant to the Queens inside game. She showed she deserved the honor last night, when she scored 25 points, including the winning basket, as the Queens defeated McLennan in the first round of the playoffs.

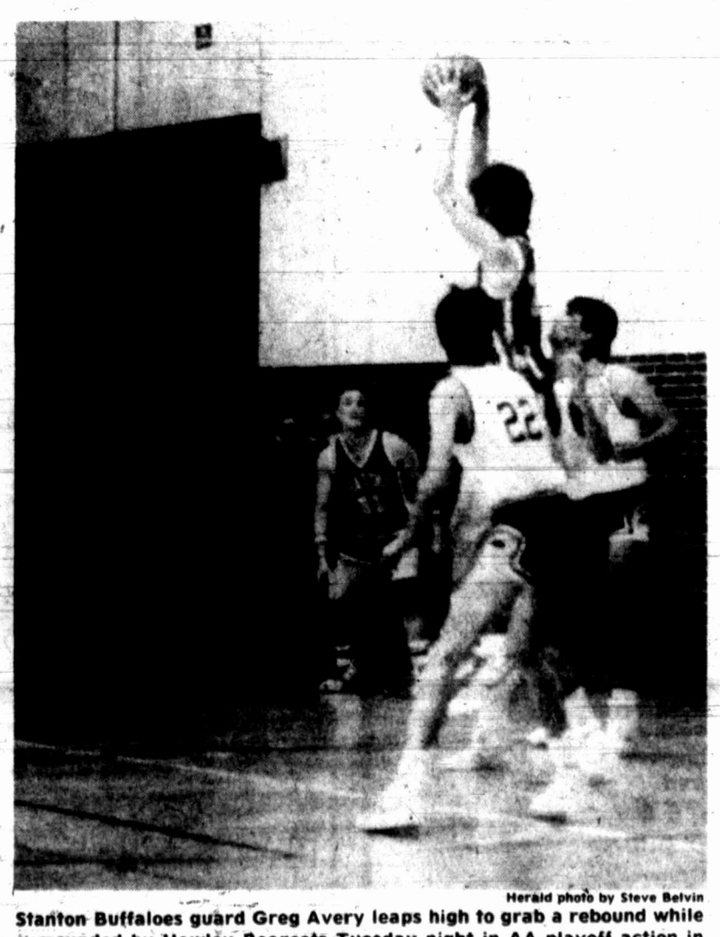

Powell averaged 14.4 points per game, and was the Queens zone breaker. This is her second yar to be named to the team. Gooch, a hustler and clutch player, scored 8.4 points and dished out 4.8 assists per game.

Western Texas' Brenda Welch, the leading scorer in the conference, was named the Most Valuable Player. Welch made 68 percent of her shots from the field and scored at a 25.6 points per game clip. She also averaged 8.9 rebounds per game. Odessa's Linda Banks, who also made the first team, led the conference in rebounding with 12.1 grabs a game.

For the men, New Mexico Junior College's Richard Hollis was the MVP. Hollis, who will play for the Houston Cougars next year, made 55 percent of his shots and scored 27.4 points per game. The NMJC dunk artist also led the conference in rebounding, with 15.9 per contest.

Four corners ends Stanton's season

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

COLORADO CITY — The Hawley Bearcats relied on a skilled four-corners offense and ousted the Stanton Buffaloes from the state basketball playoffs 60-47 Tuesday night in Colorado City.

The Bearcats winners of District 7-AA, switched to its four-corners offense at three different times in the game, each time it worked to perfection.

The first time came at the end of the second quarter. Leading 34-23, the Bearcats went into their version of the stall game with a minute remaining. With the likes of Hunter Cooley, Terry Allen and Allen Hallmark handling the ball, the half ended with a tip-in by Tony Elliot, giving Hawley a 36-23 halftime lead.

After the first quarter ended with Hawley leading 14-12, the Bearcats came out smoking in the second quarter, hitting their first nine shots from the floor. The Bearcats' first miss came with 3:15 left in the half, and by that time they had built a 33-19 lead.

Stanton answered with a couple of baskets, but Hawley ended the half on a good note with Elliot's tip-in.

Stanton tuned the game around in the third quarter. Playing a agressive zone defense, the Buffaloes narrowed the lead to 39-33 with 4:15 left in the quarter.

Greg Avery and Derek Sorley keyed the charge. Avery, a 6-4 junior guard, cleaned up on the boards and scored from the outside. The high flying Avery did it all by scoring 22 points, grabbing 13 rebounds, blocking four shots and getting two steals. Sorley, a 6-1 senior was the inforcer inside, indicated by his 10 rebounds and three blocked shots.

But Hawley went to its delay game for the second time to stifle the Buffaloes' attack. Leading 43-37 with 1:46 left in the quarter coach Joey Light's Bearcats' worked for the last shot.

Forward Hunter Cooley shot's attempt was blocked by Sorley. But teammate Allen grabbed the loose ball and came away with an easy layup. This gave Hawley a 45-37 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Guard Skip Hopkins got the hot hand for Stanton in the fourth quarter and the Buffaloes edged closer. Hopkins' two long range

Hawks split double-header

HILLSBORO — The Howard College Hawks split a double-header with Hill Junior College, and ended the two-day trip with a 2-1 advantage in games and, less importantly, a 37-10 advantage in runs.

Perhaps most importantly, the Hawks may have lost pitcher Thad Webber, who left game two when his elbow popped. Coach Bill Griffin said Webber's status for the rest of the season is uncertain. Last season, as a freshman, Webber was 8-3.

Monday, Howard destroyed Hill 21-1 in the Hawks' conference opener. Hill rebounded, winning Tuesday's first game 7-2. Howard won the second game 14-2. The winner of each game got good pitching and a two-homer performance from one of its big hitters.

The Hawks' Jeff Shultz led off the first inning of game one with a single, and advanced to third on a double by Joel Chimelis. Shultz scored on a single by Juan Rodriguez, and Chimelis was thrown out at the plate.

Hill's Bubba Walters slammed a two-run shot in the bottom of the first to give the Rebels the lead for good. They scored two more runs in the third on two hits, two walks and an error.

In the top of the fourth, the Hawks' Randy Deal hit a solo homer, his first of the year. In the bottom of the fourth, Walters slammed another homer, this time scoring three runs.

"The gist of the story is that that Walter's kid just beat us, and this pitcher for Hill handled us pretty thouroughly. He's probably one of the best pitchers we've faced all year," said Hawks' coach Bill Griffin.

Ernesto Castro took the loss for Howard, and Eddie Deoracer got the win for Hill.

In game two, Chimelis did to Hill what Walters had done to Howard in game one. Chimelis knocked two out of the park, the first a solo shot and the second a grand slam.

Howard scored first in game two when Rodriguez came home on a balk. In the bottom of the third, Webber's elbow popped and he had to leave the mound. Mark Hutchison came on in relief.

In the top of the fourth, the Hill pitcher walked five Hawks and Howard scored four runs on two hits. Chad Baker hit a three-run homer in the top of the fifth inning, his first of the year.

Chimelis hit his solo shot in the sixth, and his grand slam in the seventh. They were his third and fourth homers of the season. Hill hit back to back homers in the sixth for their only runs.

In the three game series, Chimelis had eight rbi's, and Randy Deal had seven. The Hawks hit nine homers in the three game series to boost their season total to 20.

The Hawks host Northwood for a three-game series this weekend in Big Spring. The first game is 2 p.m. Friday.

The Hawks are now 2-1 in district and 7-2 on the year.

finished as the conference scoring leader with 34.3 points a game.

Hawks' coach Larry Brown said he was disappointed in Rhodes abscence from the team. He said the coaches nominate players from their team, and can't vote on their own players.

Brown said he did not nominate Kevin Bradsher, who was released from the team late in the season for disciplinary reason. Bradsher, with a 25 points per game average, would have surely made the first team had he remained with the Hawks.

Brown said Rhodes was the only Hawk nominated, which he thought would give his 5-6 point guard a better chance. Brown said he considered two other Hawks for nomination. He said Walter Walker played well enough, but he only played the second semester after being ineligible the first semester.

Myron Wright, a freshman, was the other Hawk Brown considered. In addition to Howard, Odessa College and New Mexico Military were not represented on the men's first team.

Region tourney on tap

The Region I-AA boys basketball tournament will be Friday and Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The opening game at 6 p.m. Friday will pit District 4-2A runnerup Shallowater against 7-2A champ Hawley. Shallowater has a 27-4 record and Hawley sports a 26-7 mark.

The second game Friday at 8 will be 4-2A winner Morton against 8-2A winner Coleman. Morton brings a 29-5 record into the game while Coleman enters the contest with a 23-9 record.

The winners will play at 1 p.m. in the championship game.

Tournament cancelled

The flag football tournament, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, has been cancelled. It is not known if the tournament will be rescheduled.

Player selected to Hall

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Dandridge, who starred in the Negro Leagues in the 1930s and 1940s, was selected for entry to the Baseball Hall of Fame by the Veterans Committee, which again bypassed Phil Rizzuto, Leo Durocher and Joe Gordon.

The infielder, now 73 and a resident of Palm Bay, Fla., also played in the American Association and finished his career in 1953 in the Pacific Coast League.

Gov. knew of payments

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said he and other members of the Southern Methodist Board of Governors were aware of contracts made to SMU football players and they discussed whether to honor those payments.

The Dallas Times Herald reported that sources close to the athletic department said a meeting of Clements, the former board chairman, and other SMU board members took place after the program was on a three-year probation.

The decision to honor commitments was made then, the sources said.

Clements, who resigned as chairman of the board before being sworn in as governor in January, said the decision was made in August 1985 with the understanding SMU football would "return to a program of absolute integrity."

jumpers cut the Hawley lead to 52-45 with 4:50 left in the contest.

That's when Hawley went to its third and final version of the four-corners, it would seal Stanton's doom.

Following Hopkin's basket, the Bearcats milked two-and-a-half minutes off the clock. Hallmark was fouled and made one. Stanton hurried down and missed. Hawley rebounded and ate up another minute off the clock.

The stall ended with Cooley making a layup. This gave Hawley a 55-45 lead with less than two minutes remaining. Cooley, a 6-4 senior forward, turned in a banner performance. He scored a game-high 28 points, two below his average, to go along with 14 rebounds. From that point on, the Buffaloes were forced to foul and the Bearcats converted their foul attempts.

Stanton coach Eric Looney said Hawley had a good game plan. "Hawley did the right thing, they had a lead and they had the ballhandlers to protect it. We would have done the same thing if we had been in that position," said Looney. They had that little run in the second quarter but we got the momentun going our way in the second half, so they had to protect that lead.

This was a good season, I'm proud of the boys. It's not every year you get to play 34 games."

Stanton, runner-up in District 5-AA, ends the season with a 27-7 record. Hawley advances to regional play with a 26-7 mark.

against a much better ballclub.

"But we played a decent game today. We left a lot of guys on base, but we played good and made things happen," he said.

Velasquez said the Steers have a difficult pre-district schedule, which he said would help his team in district play and give him a good opportunity to evaluate his players.

Gutierrez took the loss, and David Tollison, pitching three innings, got the win.

The Steers dropped to 0-2. This weekend the Steers will play in a tournament in Kerrville. Their next home game is March 24 against Lubbock Monterey. The Cougars improved to 3-0.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today you need to be sure not to get involved in some committment of a material nature that could strip you of some of your assets and make things difficult.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study a practical affair well before involving yourself in it, especially from the financial standpoint.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to make some radical changes. Don't, however, change your appearance at the whim of a newcomer.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You feel that by doing something unusual you can get out of some liability, but this is not so.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't tackle a problem that a friend poses for you during the daytime and then you get the right solution.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Outside affairs can bring you trouble during the daytime. Take any health treatments you may need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) New projects may appear to be fine, but make sure you look for defects. Enjoy personal activities tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure that you keep any promises you have made. After a difficult day, be happy with your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't permit a stubborn individual to join you in a project that is very important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have a lot of work to do, but it may go slowly. Take a health treatment and restore your energy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your plans for recreation may not turn out well. Don't argue with your mate, thus creating a pleasant evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't argue at home or make any changes there. Invite guests in that cheer up your abode.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be very careful while in motion today. The evening is fine for visiting with friends who spread their happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he, or she, will be a bit stubborn and should be taught that it is fine to have a strong will, but that it should be tempered with kindness and a sense of cooperation with others. Upon reaching adulthood your progeny will be quite mellow and gain success.

Once upon a cheeseburger

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Before the cheeseburger, there was a hamburger. And before that... the Middle Ages.

Hamburgers were originated in Europe and reached America in the 1800s. White Castle, the first hamburger chain began in 1920 in Wichita, Kansas.

So many claim credit for adding the first slice of cheese that food historians avoid naming names. But with that one perfect stroke of genius, the hamburger became the cheeseburger and achieved an even greater popularity.

In this week's recipe exchange, I have included nutritious, delicious, econmical and easy to prepare cheeseburgers are presented here in many guises along with a few surprises.

If you need a recipe or have one to share, write to the Herald Recipe Exchange, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

BIG SPRING (TEXAS) HERALD, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1987

Provisions of the tax bill affect agriculture

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

I failed to attend last week's tax information meeting for agricultural producers. What were some of the major provisions of the reform bill that was discussed?

The tax reform bill would provide tax rates of 15 and 28 percent beginning in 1988. In 1987, there would be 5 tax rates of 11, 15, 28, 35, and 38.5 percent.

Standard deduction for a joint return would be increased to $5,000 in 1988 and the personal exemption would be raised to $1,900 in 1987, $1,950 in 1988, and $2,000 in 1989. Income averaging and the deduction for a two-earner married couple would be repealed. State and local sales taxes would no longer be deductible as itemized deductions.

Deductions for IRA contributions would be repealed for joint filers with adjusted gross income in excess of $50,000 plans. Under the tax reform bill, about 80 percent of all farmers would be in the 15 percent bracket.

For farm corporations, tax reform retains a graduated tax rate structure with a top rate of 34 percent. The tax rate on the first $50,000 of taxable income would be 15 percent. For taxable income between $50,000 and $75,000, tax rate would be 25 percent, and for taxable income above $75,000 the rate would be 34 percent.

Investment tax credit would be repealed. Only 65 percent (82.5 percent in 1987) of unused investment tax credits could be carried forward. Farmers earning 50 percent or more of their gross income from farming would be allowed a 15-year carryback of existing investment tax credits.

The amount available for refund would be limited to the lower of: (1) 50 percent of carryovers, (2) the taxpayer's net tax liability for the past 15 years, or (3) $750.

The Accelerated Capital Cost Recovery System depreciation would be retained with modifications. Autos, light trucks and most livestock would be depreciable over a five-year period.

Single-purpose agricultural structures would also be written off over a seven-year period. Deductions for most farm assets would be computed using a 200 percent declining balance method.

Multi-purpose farm structures would be written off over a 31.5-year period at a straight-line rate. The option to expense up to $5,000 would be increased to $10,000 for businesses which invest less than $200,000 per year. Depreciation deductions would not be adjusted for inflation.

The exclusive for long-term capital gains would be eliminated. Capital gains would be taxed at rates of 15 or 28 percent. Farmers can continue to utilize the cash method of accounting with some limits. A restriction is taxpayers could not deduct amounts paid for feed, seed, fertilizer, or other supplies prior to the year consumed if they exceed more than 50 percent of expenses for which economic performance has occurred.

The tax reform bill would permit self-employed individuals to deduct 50 percent (25 percent for tax years beginning before 1990) of the cost of health insurance.

The tax reform bill permits solvent taxpayers to exclude from income the discharge of any qualified farm debt. Basis in farmland is added to the list of tax attributes which may be reduced by the discharge of indebtedness income.

BIG SPRING TRAVEL TALK
by Mary Valli

PARADISE FOUND

For the traveler who wants to see the tropical paradise of Hawaii largely unspoiled by development, the island of Kauai fits the bill. Kauai is the oldest of the Hawaiian island chain. Its long-extinct and deeply eroded volcanoes, including the 5,148-foot Mt. Waialeale at Kauai's center, impart great drama to the landscape. Kauai is reputed to be the "wettest spot on earth", receiving approximately 500 inches of rainfall each year. Yet, parts of the island receive abundant sunshine, enough to grace the island with many verdant shades of green and numerous spectacular flowers. Local conservatism and rugged canyons have conspired to keep developers at bay. The real winner in this effort is the visitor who is treated to a natural show unequaled on any of Hawaii's other islands. Kauai is truly a garden paradise.

Hawaii is an exciting vacation spot to dream about. The exotic scenery, the excitement, the nightlife and more...all the activities that memories are made of. Let BIG SPRING TRAVEL, 606 Scurry, turn your dreams into realities. Come in today and let our professional staff create the itinerary that will place you in such sun-filled vacation spots where pleasure and enjoyment are your only commitments. Tel. 263-0225. Open 8:30-5:30 Mon.-Fri.

Kauai's Honoapu valley was the "South American" jungle in "Raiders of the Lost Ark."

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Robert Williams and Carol Cone are ready to make a service call in Hester & Robertson's fully equipped vehicle.

Keep cool with Hester & Robertson

Here's a tip from Hester & Robertson Mechanical Contractors, Inc., on how to "keep your cool" this summer: have your cooling unit serviced early in the season to be certain it is in prime working order. Now is not too soon!

The firm has two radio-dispatched service vehicles ready to give fast and efficient service, and all calls are usually worked the same day they are taken.

Hester & Robertson features a complete stock of filters and parts. Parts are usually on the service truck, saving time and money for the customer.

Hester & Robertson offers a free cooling survey and price estimates. "We measure the square footage of the home, check ductwork and insulation in order to give an estimate of the equipment, cost and improvements needed to improve your present unit's efficiency," says Carol Hollingsworth.

If your cooling equipment needs replacement, the firm offers sales and service on new energy-saving central air conditioning units by Lennox, Carrier and General Electric (Trane). As an added incentive to use these systems, Carol reminds consumers of the rebate program now being offered by Texas Electric Service Co. for both residential and commercial installations of high efficiency units, including room air conditioners.

Hester & Robertson also does residential and commercial plumbing, including lawn sprinkler systems, whirlpool baths, septic and drain fields.

"Our work is guaranteed," says Carol. "We invite all our customers to compare our service and prices."

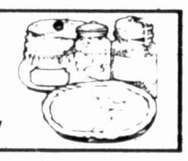

Phone Hester & Robertson at 263-8342 or stop by North Birdwell Lane.

Host Steers shine in tourney

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Abilene Wylie had all five medalists and easily outdistanced second place Amarillo High to win the boys' division of the Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament for the second year in a row.

Plainview, led by top medalist Sally McMullan, beat second place Snyder by 21 strokes in the two day tournament.

Don Cook, coach of the host Steers, said the tournament "turned out real well," despite brisk winds that hurt Saturday's scores. The boys were able to fit in 36 holes as scheduled, but the girls played just 27 holes because of rain on Friday.

The Big Spring girls, led by Michelle Cox'x fourth place total of 133, finished fifth, one stroke behind fourth place Andrews. There were 20 girls teams entered.

Chris Sims' 165 topped the Steer boys, who finished seventh in a field of 17. Though ninth after Friday's round, the Steers closed strongly on Saturday with the fourth best total.

"They played much better today. I was real happy with Wesley Fields on the first day, and James Averette on the second day," Cook said. Fields, playing on the "B" team, shot an 80 on Friday, the best one day score for the Steers. Averette, also on the second team, shot an 83 Saturday.

"By them shooting fourth best today it shows that they have some potential, and they should be competitive in the district with Andrews and Sweetwater. They've got a long ways to go, but they played pretty well today.

"I told them before the tournament that if we could finish in the top five we'd be doing good because of the quality of the teams. And we finished fifth in the girls and seventh in the boys, and that's pretty good," Cook said.

Cox shot an 89 on Saturday, and it was the first time for her to break 90 in a tournament. Cook also praised the play of Samantha Subia and Tammi Burnsed.

"Tammi is probably our most improved player. She's really doing well this year. I'm really pleased with her progress.

"What makes me sick, is that we could walk away with that 5A district," Cook said, and pointed out that 2-4A foes Snyder and Andrews are ranked one and two in the state.

The girls "B" team finished 14th, beating out several 5A varsity squads.

"The thing about Big Spring Two is that those girls are all freshman and one sophomore," he said.

Next weekend, the number one teams from Big Spring travel to Andrews to play in their invitational.
