Twinkles
Lighting, snuffing out our electric lights for a few seconds, shows that we're not very far removed from the coal-oil lamp era, after all.

But the plains has always provided fuel, despite the lack of trees. Once we gathered it from the top of the ground; not we dig for it.

The only kind of sound money some persons seem to want is the kind that rattles in your jeans. We like silver, too, but we'd hate to give up printing press money backed by Uncle Sam.

Young Democrats will do well to remain demagogues. The adjective is not important.

Congressmen, facing the guns of militant minorities, probably agree that the world greatly needs more peace.

Musing of the moment: Stand by your town is an old editorial slogan. It is a prop for the future. It is a peculiar fact that Pampa is such a good town that folks wish to stand by it instead of going somewhere else. Pampa needs more coordination of her organizations and, possibly, somewhat fewer organizations.

WHAT A PROGRAM!
The Pre-Centennial committees are overlooking no hits. Elliott Roosevelt, famous son of the President, may attend the Pre-Centennial Friday afternoon, June 7. There is a tie-up with the Young Democratic club's state convention on June 7 and 8. Pampa will be visited by a number of outstanding figures in state politics.

GOVERNOR JAMES V. ALLRED, himself a stellar attraction, will be met here by a motor caravan of notables. The two of them will headline a day of exceptional entertainment—parade, rodeo, ball game, speech by the governor and, finally, the pageant, street dance, and ball.

THOSE WHO have been waiting to know the wrestling principals will be pleased to learn that the Masked Marvel has been matched with Sailor Tex Watkins. Thus mystery, color, dynamite, and technical skill will be combined in the main go, with other matches worth watching. In baseball, Coltex and the Road Runners will have two grudge battles, matching wits and hits in games for which they are mustering the best talent available. Stock worthy of the best rodeo hands will be used in the two-day rodeo—south of the city limits and just east of the LeFors highway. Two afternoon performances will be given.

AND DON'T forget that the Panhandle Oil show and oil men's reunion will be a big event of itself. A parade of intensely interesting floats, oil field contests, and exhibits will complete a great program for this first year of the show. When the oil men start something, they finish it in fine style.

JUNE 6 AND 7 will furnish entertainment for every age. Personalities which draw crowds will be here. The patriotic appeal will be carried out in the parades, the huge pageant at Harvester park, the Panhandle dramas for oldtimers, and in Governor Allred's address. Sports fans, those who like to dance, those who like pioneer pastimes, and those who like the thrill of being in a big crowd or among old friends will wish to come to Pampa on those two big days.

Again: What a program!

NOTES on parliamentary procedure: It is vital that a motion duly made and seconded should be thoroughly understood in the meeting generally. To make this certain, the chairman should "state the question" by quoting the motion or resolution exactly as it is to be passed. He does this prior to debate or discussion, after which he "puts the question." He may ask, "Are you ready for the question?" If no argument is forthcoming, he proceeds to take the vote. By a two-thirds vote of an assembly, debate may be omitted. In calculating the percentage, the vote cast is used, not the number of persons present, assuming that there is a quorum. Usually each person is allowed to speak twice on a subject under discussion, but not a second time ordinarily as long as any person who has not spoken is waiting to be heard. Debate is often limited by agreement, or by the chair with the consent of the body. Remarks should be addressed to the chair, not to an opponent.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Loftus have returned from Garden City, Kan., where they attended the funeral of her brother.

Follett Troop In First Place At Scout Meet

Invited Guests

ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT

GOV. JAMES V. ALLRED

Distinguished guests at the Pre-Centennial celebration here June 6 and 7 are expected to include Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, as well as Governor Allred. Mr. Allred will speak June 7. He will be accompanied to Amarillo by a party of Texas Young Democratic club members including Mr. Roosevelt unless some circumstance requires his presence in Amarillo. Mr. Roosevelt will attend the state convention.

MANY BANDS WILL ATTEND PAMPA EVENT

Amarillo's 60 - Piece Organization Will Be Here

At least nine bands will play martial and patriotic music for the large crowds here during the Pre-Centennial, Pioneers' Roundup, and Panhandle Oil Show.

Amarillo will send a 60-piece band to the celebration on the second day. It will play in the parade and welcome the Governor and his party. The Brigades of the Chamber of Commerce received a letter yesterday stating that the Amarillo band would be here.

This morning Mr. Briggs received a letter from C. W. Beebe, Panhandle band master, stating that the Panhandle band would be here both days of the celebration. The Panhandle band has been known as the "Allred band" since the gubernatorial campaign last summer. It has played at every appearance of Ben Guill outlining his recreational program for the summer months and it is astounding, stupendous, colossal, etc. etc. Ben is going to have to have all kinds of help to put over the gigantic program, which will be a challenge to the citizenship of Pampa. When information is released, there are going to be gasps of disbelief that such a plan can be put over here.

That C. A. Clark found a package of tickets for the Pre-Centennial and Pioneer Roundup last night at Road Runner park. He turned the tickets over to the Board of City Development and the owner can have them. They are slightly water-soaked.

Hopkins No. 18 Is Second With Higgins Third In Contests, Attendance.

Boy Scouts of Follett Troop 59 took first honors in both contests and attendance at the annual camporee held in Pampa Monday and Tuesday. Seventeen boys out of a membership of 21 attended the gathering, accompanied by their scoutmaster, J. G. Schultz.

Because of rain, the Follett boys were unable to sleep at the camp grounds at Road Runner park last night and spent the night at the city hall, returning home this morning. This group is sponsored by the Lions club of Follett.

Second honors went to Troop 18 of Hopkins, which won 62.6 points, as compared with 70 points for Follett. This troop is sponsored by Phillips 66, with J. H. Williams as scoutmaster. The Higgins troop, sponsored by the Lions club with C. S. Carmichael as scoutmaster, took third place with 61.5 points. Fourth place went to Pampa Troop 20, of which Lee Bowyer is scoutmaster and the Rotary club is sponsor. This troop received 53.6 points.

Over 300 Present
Scout activities was well over the 300-mark, although some of this group came only for one evening. A delegation of 40 persons from McLean was here for the second circuit performance, when Robert C. Davidson brought his Scout band from that city. This fine band led a parade yesterday afternoon.

Public interest in the camporee centered about the circus performances of Monday and Tuesday nights at Road Runner park. On both nights the display of Scout activities was interspersed with clown mockery, music by the Morse hobo band, and other laugh-provoking stunts. Ed Damon was circus director, and use of the park was through the courtesy of the Danziger company. Music on the first evening was furnished by the Pampa band directed by Winston Savage. Gilmore N. Nunn explained the pageant as it progressed, and other services in connection with the public address system were given by Tom Sweetman, Bobby Surratt, and John Martin.

Motion pictures of various phases of the camporee were made by Carl Benefield for Universal newsreel, and the boys enjoyed free picture shows and free swimming.

Following are the first place winners in the various contests:

Signaling—Three-way tie between Higgins, sponsored by the Lions club with C. S. Carmichael as scoutmaster; Troop 4 of Pampa, sponsored by the Christian church with Ernest Cobe as scoutmaster; and Troop 1 of Follett, sponsored by C. H. Schultz as scoutmaster.

Camping—Tie between Hopkins, with the Phillips community as sponsor and J. H. Williams as scoutmaster; and Follett.

Archery—Canadian, sponsored by the Rotary club and the American Legion, with the Rev. F. H. Dawson as scoutmaster.

Knot tying—Pampa Troop 3, sponsored by the First Baptist church with Otto Love, scoutmaster.

Fire building—Follett.

Nature study—Hopkins.

First aid—Hopkins.

C. A. Clark, Scout executive for the Adobe Walls council, expressed the appreciation of the 1200 boys and 400 men registered in the council for the aid of the many citizens in making the camporee a success.

Following is the camp attendance according to towns: Spearman (two troops), 15; Morse, 9; Canadian, 13; Borger (four troops), 24; White Deer, 14; Skellytown, 10; Hopkins, 18; troop which is being formed at Grandview, 3; Keys, 11; Higgins, 13; Follett, 17; Pampa (seven troops), 103.

Rain prevented the attendance of several other troops.

The frozen South Polar regions as seen through the eyes of exuberant youth will be described when Joe Hill Jr. speaks in the city auditorium next Friday and Saturday evenings.

Hill was the youngest member of Admiral Byrd's expedition. He was Byrd's personal aide on the trip "down," then was a tractor man in one of the journey's toughest jobs.

How the Canyon youth received appointment to the expedition is a story of much interest. Byrd had been his ideal. To a youth born and reared on the plains, travel into the unknown was the highest form of romantic adventure. When Byrd began to assemble his last expedition, Joe Boy, as his friends called him, "wrote his heart out" in an

SHERIFF SAYS HE SHOT ONLY TO SAVE LIFE

CATO DENIES PART IN DOPE RING AT POST

LUBBOCK, May 29 (AP)—Sheriff W. P. Cato of Garza county testified in his murder trial today that he shot and killed Narcotic Agent Spencer Stafford at Post February 7 in the protection of his own life. Wearing cowboy boots, the middle-aged, slightly bald Cato, who is serving his fifth term as sheriff, looked straight at the jury as he said:

"Stafford whirled and raised his gun to fire—and I shot."

The sheriff testified that he did not know that Stafford was a federal officer until after the shooting. He said he was investigating a report that armed suspicious persons were in town at the time.

Machine Gunned
Stafford was machine-gunned to death while he and a companion agent were investigating purported narcotic irregularities at Post.

Also indicted for murder in connection with the same killing were: Tom Morgan, a farmer deputized by Cato shortly before the shooting; Dr. V. Hartman, a Post physician; and Dr. L. W. Kitchen, a veterinarian in front of whose veterinary hospital the agent was shot.

Federal Judge James C. Wilson announced yesterday that the jury would be instructed, at the close of testimony, to acquit Dr. Hartman. The sheriff kept his small black eyes constantly on the jury as he related his version of the homicide. He denied having knowledge of an alleged drug and theft ring which government witnesses had sought to link him, Dr. Hartman, and Kitchen. "Did you know until it was unearthed by federal agents about purported narcotic transactions at Post?" he was asked by W. P. McLeah, defense counsel.

Merchants Complained
"I never heard but one thing, although merchants had reported that dope-heads were stealing their stuff."

Cato said an addict he once arrested told him of trading stolen step-ins to Dr. Hartman. The sheriff said he and the manager of a Post store from which the merchandise had been stolen went to Hartman's office. He said the armaments returned to the store by Hartman were not identified by the manager. "Would you have filed charges against either Kitchen or Hartman?" he was asked.

Horses to Have Good Care—Used In Pre-Centennial

Horse-owners who lend their animals for use in the Pre-Centennial parade and pageant were assured this morning that the horse will be given the best possible care and attention.

The Pre-Centennial committee has rented a large barn and several corrals near the city limits, and has obtained John V. Andrews to have complete charge of the horses. The corrals are built of plank, and there is no danger that the animals will be cut by wire. Mr. Andrews and a helper will stay at the barn all the time. The horses will be fed plenty of oats and hay. Mr. Andrews will release none of the horses except to persons directly in charge of the pageant and parade. The feed is already on hand at the barn.

Many horses have been obtained for use in the celebration, but many more are needed. Owners who will lend horses for the event are asked to call Mr. Andrews at the Patherne Drug No. 4 or his house. His residence telephone number is 764.

Byrd was impressed, but not convinced. He had to limit the personnel of his party and could use only men. Joe Boy was barely 20. He was untraveled.

More correspondence followed between Byrd's personnel officer and the Canyon boy. Finally, Joe was thrilled by an invitation to present himself in person. He went to Boston, met Mr. and Mrs. Byrd, and won the appointment.

Mayor Asks New Cleanup For Celebration

Mayor W. A. Bratton today issued the following proclamation:

"On June 6 and 7 there will be thousands of visitors in Pampa from all parts of this and other states, attending our second Pre-Centennial celebration.

"Elaborate preparations are being made by the Pre-Centennial committees to entertain our guests on this occasion.

"For the last two months, the City of Pampa has been hauling truck load after truck load of trash from our streets and alleys, not in preparation for this celebration but from a standpoint of sanitation and civic pride. Now we are making an appeal to the citizenship to clean up their own premises and vacant adjoining lots, for the same purpose, and also that our guests and visitors may be favorably impressed with our progressiveness.

"Thanking you most kindly for your usual cooperation."

W. A. Bratton, Mayor.

OIL WORKER IS BADLY HURT IN BREAK OF LINE

J. C. Hackney of Phillips Crew Injured Late Yesterday

J. C. Hackney, employee of the Phillips Petroleum company, pipeline department, is in a critical condition in Pampa-Jarratt hospital where he was taken yesterday afternoon following a blow-out in a high pressure gas line near Kellers.

The accident happened after a crew of men had set a meter setting on the line, and a leak developed. Mr. Hackney jumped into the hole to fix the leak, but before he could start the repair work, the blow-out occurred.

A Shamrock ambulance was called to take the injured man to Pampa but it broke down 8 miles southeast of Pampa. A Pampa Mortuary ambulance was called and the man was transferred and rushed to the Pampa-Jarratt hospital. He spent a fairly restful night, but today his condition was still considered critical.

Mr. Hackney has a punctured lung and the skin and muscles on his left shoulder, left side of his neck, and the left side of his face are torn and mangled.

The accident happened about 3:30 o'clock.

Court Refuses To Reverse Death Terms of Two

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today refused to rehear appeals of C. B. James of Tyler county and W. R. Hildreth of Howard county, each sentenced to death for murder.

James was convicted of fatally stabbing his common-law wife, Cleo, last Nov. 3. He testified they had made a compact to kill each other if they quit living together. Friends persuaded him, however, not to commit suicide.

Hildreth was convicted of stabbing his wife, Docia, with an ice pick at Big Spring last October 1. He objected to her attending picture shows without his permission.

The court's action left executive clemency as the only hope of the men for escaping electrocution. Judges who presided at the trials may set execution dates 30 days after receipt of the court's mandate.

Children of the city under 15 years of age will have a free swim at the municipal pool Friday morning from 9 a. m. to noon. The water at the pool is being warmed and many persons are enjoying swims.

Pampa stores will be closed from 10 a. m. until 12 o'clock noon. The postoffice and First National bank will be closed all day. Presidents of Pampa's civic clubs have asked all their members to participate in the parade, which will begin promptly at 10 o'clock.

A memorial service, with Bishop R. E. Lucey of Amarillo as the main speaker, will be held at Fairview cemetery immediately following the parade.

The parade will form between 9:30 and 10 a. m., at the American Legion hut on West Foster avenue, leaving

Deadline Nears In Kidnap Case

TACOMA, May 29 (AP)—Two wealthy members of the Weyerhaeuser family arrived here today from Minnesota a few hours before the deadline for payment of the $200,000 ransom demanded in the kidnapping of the nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser.

The arrivals were Frederick and Rudolph Weyerhaeuser, uncles of J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr., father of the curiously-haired boy who was abducted from a Tacoma street last Friday.

The deadline set by the kidnappers for payment of the ransom for safe return of the child is 6:35 o'clock tonight (Pacific standard time).

SELDOM-RIDDEN HORSES TO BE USED IN RODEO JUNE 6-7

Rodeo hands looking for trouble are likely to find it here June 6 and 7, in the rodeo managed by C. N. Brewer and held just south of the city limits, east of the LeFors road.

Twelve mean horses, 15 head of bucking steers, 10 steers for bull-dogging, and 15 Brahma calves have been obtained to test the metal of the men. Three of the horses were not ridden in the Elk City rodeo last Sunday. They are Negro Boy, Strawberry Roan, and Dirty Face. The calves will come from the Aurora Bowers ranch and the rest of the stock from Butler Bros. at Elk City.

POLICE CHIEF SLAIN - PASTOR BEING HUNTED

ORANGE CRIME DRIVE ENDS IN TRAGIC EVENT

ORANGE, May 29 (AP)—Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly was shot to death this afternoon on the main street of Orange and officers sought the Rev. Edgar Eskridge, a Baptist minister.

Chief O'Reilly, about 40, was struck in the head with a charge of buckshot fired from a shotgun. Lake Charles, La., officers joined Texas authorities in the search for the minister, who for the last five years had been pastor of the First Baptist church here. Lake Charles officers carried machine guns.

Officers said Chief O'Reilly took two pistols away from the minister yesterday. The minister said he was a Texas Ranger, officers declared, but they could not find any evidence of this.

Eskridge fled in a coupe (Oldsmobile). In his car were the shotgun and a rifle.

LATE NEWS

HAVANA, May 29 (AP)—John Barrymore, the actor, who has been at sea for nearly a week on his yacht, reached port today and said he was still at sea on the subject of matrimony. Informed that his wife back in the United States had filed suit for divorce, he said: "It's news to me. I'm glad you told me. My lawyers probably know more about what to do than I."

PARIS, May 29 (AP)—The finance committee of the chamber of deputies turned against Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin today in his demand for dictatorial powers over France and voted against his bill 25 to 15. Undeterred, however, by this opposition, the premier said he would carry his appeal direct to the chamber tomorrow.

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Fears that several persons perished today when a powerful blast wrecked a three-story building on Manhattan's east side decreased as firemen dug deeply into the ruins and found no bodies.

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—A house interim committee organized today for an inquiry into alleged monopolistic practices in the milk and dairy products business.

GIRL IS SENTENCED
NEW ORLEANS, May 29 (AP)—Bonnie Hill, also known as Marion King, 23-year-old Arkansas woman, was sentenced today by Judge William F. O'Hara in criminal district court to serve not less than six years nor more than 18 years in the state penitentiary for the fatal night club stabbing of John Irving Pierce, 23, prominent young Jackson, Miss., writer.

VOLUNTARY NEW DEAL CODES IN PROSPECT NOW

BLUSTERY GENERAL NOT TO TAKE POSITION IN PROGRAM

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Hugh S. Johnson, the first administrator of NRA, returned today to the circle of presidential advisors and went to work drafting a tentative plan to continue the regulation of industry under codes of fair practices.

Johnson, the Associated Press learned, was invited to the White House today to talk over the situation caused by the ruling of the supreme court.

This invitation brought back to the White House scene the man who, with United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, drafted the original national industrial recovery act.

The decision to ask Johnson to return, it was learned, was made late yesterday and Johnson at once set to work in preparing new legislation.

In one well-informed quarter, the new legislation was outlined tentatively along this line: congress could be given an insignia—the Blue Eagle or something corresponding to it—to show the public they were operating under voluntary codes.

The voluntary factor would be constantly stressed under this tentative outline and industry would more approximate self-regulation—something big business has been advocating for more than a decade.

It was emphasized that Johnson would engage only in aiding the drafting of new legislation and that he would not accept any administrative position.

Childress Eager To Know Size of New Well, Pool

CHILDRESS, May 29 (AP)—Oil men and others waited with what patience they could muster today for completion of the Alma Oil company's No. 1 well, with some boom already set off by nothing more tangible than the company's preparations for handling a big producer.

Company representatives said work was held up awaiting arrival of a small piece of equipment. Other sources ascribed the delay to perfection of the company's leases on 15,000 acres in the vicinity of the new field believed to have been opened up.

The well, which flowed 40 gravity oil by heads of swabbing May 28, the last day any work was done on it, is three and a half miles east of here. Whether it would be finished today was not known but nothing was expected to be done before the arrival of J. R. Porter, executive vice-president of the owning company, who has been in St. Louis.

Reports that the company was preparing to handle a big producer with heavy gas pressure set off wild activity in the lease and royalty market, with lease prices as high as $2 an acre within a mile of the well.

Business and residential property here was in heavy demand, and tentative plans for building and business expansion had been laid ready for carrying out as soon as a new field is proved.

Pre-Centennial Cast To Practice Tonight

Another rehearsal of the Pre-Centennial will be held tonight at the high school gym, beginning at 8 o'clock. Director Dick Hughes said he had enough characters to complete the cast if all who have attended previous rehearsals will be present tonight. All the scenes were rehearsed last night, and the same procedure will be followed tonight. Only a few more rehearsals will be necessary.

EDITORIAL

MR. MENCKEN NOT IMPRESSED

Although H. L. Mencken, editor and writer, is seldom pleased with any popular movement in this country, it is noted that he is not, as one might suspect, leaning toward the "greener fields" of Russia.

Writing in a national magazine, he expresses the opinion that capitalism is slated for a long and lusty life and that it shows none of the ailing symptoms ascribed to it by social and political "wizards."

Asserting that the prime exponent of Socialism, Russia, in reality conforms precisely to the capitalist pattern, Mr. Mencken writes that "It is unadulterated rubbish, hooey, and blah to say that our system is on the way out."

"Capitalism has wrought enormous improvements in living conditions, providing American workmen with better homes, clothing, food, education and institutions while in Russia, it is a different story."

"The Bolsheviks are mainly scoundrels but not many of them are fools," he states. "They went into office howling against capital, but they saw at once that their first and most important job was to accumulate it. The lack of it almost reduced Russia to starvation."

"The program of the Soviet blows up at least half of the gaudy theory of Marxism and convicts them of gross hypocrisy that borders on the comic. It cannot substitute for a system that has produced such fine institutions as the Library of Congress, the John Hopkins Medical School and the Philadelphia Orchestra," he contends.

It is increasingly obvious that as the communistic theory is developed it will whet the public demand for the liberties and rewards of capitalism. The very success of collectivism stimulates a desire for the right to accumulate money and things. And ownership is capitalism.

The day is likely not far off when at least a limited capitalism will be the ideal of millions of Russians. They may call it by another name, but the good old American system, with reservations which we ourselves are making, still seems the best idea which man has conceived. For many of us, no economic status would be tenable without a large measure of liberty.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The "power trust" and the Roosevelt administration are engaged in a death struggle which has become one of the bitterest, most significant legislative battles in American history.

Passage of the trust-busting "public utility act of 1935" would mean eventual dissolution of the "power trust," as that term is now loosely applied to the system through which 13 large holding groups control three-fourths of the nation's private electric utility industry.

Behind the holding companies stand the Morgan, Chase National Bank, and other huge financial groups which control them, violently opposing Roosevelt's thus far unswerving effort to "break down the concentration of economic and political power now vested in the power trust."

Title I of the bill—as reported by the Wheeler committee to the Senate—provides that within five years holding companies—defined as companies owning, directly or indirectly, 10 per cent voting control of a gas or electric company, or otherwise as exercising controlling influence—must choose between:

1. Turning themselves into investment trusts and relinquishing control of management of operating companies.
2. Reducing holdings so each controls but a single system of operating companies either predominantly intrastate or geographically and economically integrated.
3. Distributing securities and assets equitably among their own security holders.

The Securities Exchange Commission would supervise these operations and could extend the time limit one or two more years if necessary to prevent loss.

Holding company executives insist this would "destroy" the industry and cause huge losses in securities values as securities were dumped on the market.

The Senate committee replies that at least five-sixths of the public's investment in utilities is in operating companies have five years to rearrange their affairs among existing securities holders; that 85 per cent of holding company stock shrinkage preceded the Roosevelt administration; that such stocks have increased since the bill was introduced; and that holding company security holders will emerge from reorganizations with better stocks than they went in with—their dividends undepressed by big fees, high salaries, and bonuses to holding company officers and bankers or purchase of securities from corporate insiders at exorbitant prices.

Title II would still be a major measure even if there were no Title I. It would regulate electricity in interstate commerce, which can't be regulated by the states.

Although not providing for fixing of local rates, it gives the Federal Power Commission jurisdiction over production, transmission, and sale of energy in interstate commerce and power to determine cost of production and transmission as well as valuation for all utilities.

After putting several teeth in the present Federal Water Power Act—and renaming it the "Federal Power Act"—the bill brings the interstate utility business under FPC much as railroads were put under the Interstate Commerce Commission, giving FPC control over new security issues, consolidations, operating company transfers and sale prices for interstate power sold at wholesale.

WTSTC CLOSING BEST YEAR IN HISTORY, DECLARES DR. HILL

CANTON, May 29 (AP).—The West Texas State Teachers college is closing the most successful year of its history, said President J. A. Hill when interviewed about the 1934-35 session. "Our attendance record of 1,031 resident college students and 1,011 extension students has made our Silver Jubilee year most gratifying to me," he continued.

Dr. Hill mentioned that at least 30,000 visitors have been entertained in one way or another on the campus during the last nine months, 20,000 of them from 41 states and five foreign countries, having found the museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society of special interest.

The silver anniversary in October brought 5,000 ex-students and friends to take part in its festivities and hear Ruth Bryan Owen. The second annual Northwest Texas Conference for Education was attended by 2,000 laymen, superintendents, teachers, and school board members.

The regional Interscholastic league meet was attended by 500 school boys and girls from an area as large as many states and 600 members of home demonstration clubs met for a one-day short course under the direction of the Texas A. & M. extension service and the West Texas State Teachers college.

Besides scheduled meetings on campus, there were many social events.

NEW YORK, May 29. (AP)—Joseph L. Steinhilber, 22-year-old, divinity student, was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree early today for the hotel room slaying of his 17-year-old bride, a former Hollywood, Calif., high school girl.

He faces a maximum sentence of 25 years in prison, although the jury "strongly" recommended mercy.

Steinhilber was accused of shooting his bride, the former Ruth Armstrong, and a priest, the Rev. Joseph J. Leonard, when he found the greater each year, the people expect many kinds of service and the college owes them the very best it can offer.

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Hereafter, Macon policemen may say "just one more picture, please," or "hold that pose," when they arrive on the scene of a crime or an accident.

Police officials have ordered 18 miniature cameras for use of patrol car and motorcycle officers.

"By the time some cases are called to trial," said J. C. Smith, head of the bureau of identification and investigation, "officers forget exactly how a situation looked and they cannot explain the scene accurately in court."

Barney Ross Whips McLarnin To Cop Welterweight Crown

SAILOR KNOWN AS NATION'S ROUGHEST GOB

MICHAEL AND GENE LA BELLE TO BE IN SEMI-FINAL

Visitors to Pampa's second Pre-Centennial and Pioneer Roundup will get thrills in abundance at Road Runner park on the night of June 6. The thrills and chills will be supplied by Sailor Tex Watkins, Post, and the Masked Marvel, from everywhere, who will meet in a finish wrestling match, best two falls out of three.

The meeting of the two gladiators of the mat will not be the only main event on the monster card. A second main event, presiding the finish match, will see Red Michael, Pampa boy who has made good with a bang, meeting Gene La Belle, French-Canadian woodchopper, in another match, best two falls out of three, or a one-hour time limit.

One or two good preliminaries will open the card promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Prices will not be increased for the big match. Women and children will be admitted for 20 cents. General admission for men will be 40 cents. Box seats will sell to everyone for 80 cents with ringside seats 60 cents for all.

Never before in the history of wrestling has such a card been arranged for such a small admission price. The committee in charge of arrangements decided to give wrestling fans a chance to see a great match for a price within reach of everyone. The wrestling match will be the major attraction on that night. Tickets will be placed on sale soon.

Tex Watkins is known to every sport fan in the state. He is one of the roughest and toughest grapplers in the game. He honestly believes that Tex Watkins has not a peer in wrestling circles. He has met defeat once at the hands of the Masked Marvel, and he is willing to do anything to get a return match.

When asked if he would meet the Masked Marvel, Watkins declared he would take him any time, any where, and any place, with or without rules and with or without a referee. The Sailor claims he lost the other match by a fluke.

The Masked Marvel is not a "punk" parading through the country. He is recognized as one of the greatest middleweight wrestlers in the world. His mask never is removed in the presence of anyone. Mystery surrounds him. He is well educated, speaks several languages, and is a gentleman until he crawls between the ropes and meets an opponent who refuses to stay within the rules.

He does not deny that he is a graduate of a large eastern college, where he was a champion wrestler. He does not deny that he is the son of a wealthy family which has steadily refused to allow him to become a professional wrestler. But who he is, no one knows.

The Michael-La Belle match is expected to be another battle of the age. It will mark the first time the two have met. Michael has been on the Pacific coast where he became an outstanding performer. He has gained knowledge, is fast, and can give and take.

La Belle will be remembered for his match with Joe Gunther last year. The two gave fans one of the greatest exhibitions of wrestling ever seen in Pampa. La Belle can play according to rules or he can go with the roughest.

The preliminary matches have not been definitely scheduled.

INDIANAPOLIS RACES WILL BE HELD ON SPEEDWAY THURSDAY

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29. (P)—The motor speedway, where the country's finest drivers will risk life and limb tomorrow in the annual automobile races, was almost silent today.

The track was closed as workers worked away through the streets which accumulated from practice spins or poured from crash-punctured crank cases. The only noise came from the garages housing the cars.

Toward sunset, officials planned to let the speed demons make short test spins. The race will begin at 10 a. m. (Central Standard Time) tomorrow unless rain interferes.

Sixteen drivers tried desperately yesterday to win places in the lineup, and six of them succeeded, as a cross-wind threatened every minute to sweep them into the walls. The remainder of the field had qualified their cars during the last two weeks.

Irishman's Manager Blames Dempsey For Opinions

BY ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, May 29 (P)—Barney Ross, the flashing-eyed Chicago fighter who doesn't rest easy without at least one world's finest crown atop his raven thatch, perched himself back on the welterweight throne today with the distinction of not only outslugging the great Jimmy McLarnin but of being probably the Irishman's final conqueror.

McLarnin didn't take his defeat at the Polo Grounds last night as bitterly as did his veteran manager, Pop Foster, who said his protege was through with the fight game after ten spectacular years, but Jimmy was whipped with sufficient thoroughness to discourage much idea of making a successful comeback.

McLarnin contemplated retirement, win, lose or draw, in his third battle with Ross for the welter title, and probably will make his future known definitely in a day or two.

The veteran manager not only insisted Jimmy will hang up his gloves, in a heated statement after the fight, but delivered an attack on the selection of Jack Dempsey as referee, charging the former heavyweight king had disqualified himself by openly favoring Ross before-hand.

Although a large share of the crowd of 31,000 lustily booed the outcome, the decision of Referee Dempsey and the two judges, Abe Goldberger and George Lorton, was unanimous in favor of Ross, who regained the 147-pound championship after fifteen bruising, bloody rounds.

In this observer's opinion, there was no doubt about Barney's superiority in speed, punching and all-around tactics, although the flashy Chicagoan was so weary after slugging it out with his rival that he was barely able to stand up in the final round.

On the Associated Press score sheet, Ross took ten to McLarnin four, with one even, although at least half a dozen rounds were so close that it was difficult to detect an advantage either way.

There were no knockdowns although McLarnin's knees buckled under Barry's terrific barages to the head and body in both the second and fourth rounds while Ross himself seemed in danger of slipping to the floor in the fifteenth from the combined effect of his own weariness and Jimmy's final, desperate attempt to turn the tide.

Ross, who won and lost two welter title bouts with McLarnin last year and abruptly discarded the world lightweight championship six weeks ago because he did not choose to make weight for that class of competition any longer, beat McLarnin the Irishman's own game.

Instead of simply trying to out-punch and outbox his rival as he did in capturing the crown a year ago, Ross stood his ground, absorbed a stream of left jabs that cut his cheek and nose, then waded in and landed a series of punches that nearly every two-fist exchange.

From the fourth round on, Ross fought with the handicap of a steadily bleeding nose. From the seventh on, he revealed afterward, he was further handicapped by an injury to his left hand but the challenger's remarkable stamina and newfound power in his 141 pounds, heaviest at which he has ever fought, carried him along at a terrific pace until the last round.

Referee Dempsey, whose selection drew Foster's ire to such an extent that he went so far as to protest before the fight to the chairman of the state athletic commission, Brig. Gen. John Phelan, gave McLarnin the benefit of more doubt than any of the three officials. Jack's score-sheet showed five rounds for Ross, three for McLarnin, and seven even.

On the judges' card, Goldberger tallied eight for Ross, six for McLarnin, and one even while Lorton scored nine for Ross, four for McLarnin and two even. This made an aggregate of 22 rounds for the winner, 13 for McLarnin and 10 even.

The crowd fell considerably below expectations. The gross gate receipts were $144,080 and the net $118,894.21 as compared with $138,000 for their first fight, and $197,000 for the second match last year, making an aggregate of nearly a half million for the three bouts.

tors in check, scattering their 12 hits.

Pinky Higgins, Athletics—His homer drove in three runs and helped beat White Sox.

Jimi Weaver, Pirates—Held Phillies to six hits and fanned seven.

DALLAS TAKES DOUBLEHEADER FROM INDIANS

GALVESTON TIGHTENS HOLD BY BEATING SAN ANTONIO

By The Associated Press.

Dallas' uprising that won both ends of a doubleheader from the first-division Oklahoma City Indians last night was the surprise as well as the feature of Texas league activities.

It was the second time this season the cellar-dwelling Steers had managed to win both halves of a double bill. It gave them their fifth and sixth victories in the last seven starts against the Indians.

Fifteen hits did the trick in the opening game which Dallas won, 13 to 2. Stoner did the better part of the hitting, driving in five runs with two doubles, a single and a home run. Stiehl had the Steers fairly well in hand until the sixth inning of the abbreviated nightcap, but the Steers went on a rampage then that wound up with five runs in that frame. The final score was 6 to 1.

Galveston tightened its hold on first place in the standings, widening from the San Antonio Missions, 5 to 2. The Bucs touched Hill for 11 hits and put enough of them together in the fifth and sixth innings to win while Joe Gibbs was holding the Missions to four safeties.

Tulsa and Fort Worth split even in the night double bill played in Tulsa. Fort Worth out-hit the Oilers 10 to 6 in the opener but couldn't space the singles right and lost 4 to 3. The Cats, however, continued their heavy stick work in the closing game, getting 9 while the Oilers were held to 3, and won, 3 to 0.

Houston climbed back into the first division on a 4 to 3 victory over Beaumont. Each team had six hits, but Houston took advantage of two walks in the early innings, converting each of the passes into a run that gave them victory.

CARL STEWART

Apparently back in old-time form this season, Carl Stewart is being looked upon as one of the Road Runners' strongest moundsmen. The only member of the Road Runner team not to taste professional baseball, Stewart won more games than any pitcher on the team in 1933. Early last season he underwent an operation for appendicitis and it was not until the end of the season that he was getting in condition to pitch. He started slowly this year, but developed fast the last few weeks, winning two games, both shutouts, one against the Mexican Charros team, 9 to 0, and the other against Phillips of Borger, 10 to 0. Stewart started playing ball with the Humble Oilers at McCamey in 1929 and was also with that team in 1930. He pitched for Corpus Christi in 1931 and the following year moved to Childress. He spent 1932 pitching for several independent clubs in this section, coming to the Road Runners in 1933.

JACK MUNGER IS MEDALIST IN GOLF MEET

MATCH PLAY BEGINS IN DALLAS INVITATION TOURNAMENT
By BILL PARKER.
DALLAS, May 29. (P)—Texas' outstanding golf talent started match competition today in the annual Dallas Country club invitation over a par 36-72 course.
Jack Munger of Dallas, 1934 National Amateur semi-finalist, is current National Interscholastic champion, yesterday shot 36-85-71 to win medalist honors. He was first off the tee today with Bob Startzell of Dallas as an opponent. Startzell, former Highland Park high school gridiron hero, qualified with a 41-38-79.
Reynolds Smith of Dallas, Texas Amateur champion and defending his title in the invitation, survived the medal test with 35-37-72, and was off the first tee today with Al Barbee of Los Angeles as an opponent.
Gus Moreland, United States Walker cup star who drove here from Peoria, Ill., to see his mother and take another fling at winning the invitation, swept through the medal test with a 36-38-72, and today had Dick Bailey of Dallas as a first round opponent.
David (Spec) Goldman of Dallas, finalist in last year's National and Western Amateur events, was among yesterday's low with 36-36-72, and left the first tee today an overwhelming favorite against L. L. Lookabaugh of Dallas.
Reuben Albaugh of Dallas, Hopp Massingill of Fort Worth, Mel Arnett of Long Island, N. Y., and Norris Russell of Dayton had strong support as the first round started.

COL TEXO WINS OVER HUBER '9' IN 11-5 TILT

GRAY COUNTY TEAM HITS 19 TIMES OFF 3 HURLERS

By hitting the ball hard and often behind the 7-hit pitching of Lefty Ledford, the Coltexos of LeFors last night downed the Huber Black-faces 11 to 5 at Phillips park, Borger. Huber scored only two runs up until the ninth inning when Chody, pinchhitting pitcher, lifted one over the fence with two men on base.

Coltexo got to Blair, Conner, and Ryan for 19 hits, including a home run by Catcher Polvogt. Sullivan and Chody connected for 4-pit wallops for Huber. Sullivan was behind the bat for Huber last night.

Ledford sent 10 of the Blackfaces to the bench via the strikeout route. Blair mowed down six Coltexos and Conner accounted for two more.

Hale and Poindexter did the big hitting of the evening, each getting four hits on six trips to the plate. Mid Purdy, former Texas league hitting sensation, was in a Coltexo uniform but did not get in the game. Chody arrived late yesterday afternoon and will be with Coltexo the rest of the season. Three other players are reported to be en route to LeFors and will be in the lineup against the Road Runners on Sunday afternoon.

AMARILLO SHAMROCKS WILL TRY TO REPEAT VICTORY OVER PAMPANS TONIGHT

A 7 to 3 defeat handed them in Amarillo Sunday afternoon will be remembered by the Pampa Road Runners as they meet the Amarillo Shamrocks tonight at 8 o'clock at Road Runner park.

Determined to wipe out the loss, Manager Freddy Brickell announced this morning that he would send Tiger Joe Berry to the mound with Floyd Lyle behind the bat. The same lineup that swamped Phillips '69' of Borger on Monday night will take the field for the Road Runners.

Manager Johnny McMahon, peppery little pilot of the Shamrocks, believes he had struck a winning lineup and will use the same team that defeated the Pampa nine last Sunday. Lefty Pachak, respected pitcher, will return to the mound in an effort to make it two in a row off the Road Runners. Pachak "thumps" the ball up to the plate in a manner hard to solve, especially to connect with it solidly.

It had been a long time since an Amarillo baseball team downed a Pampa aggregation. The loss was unexpected, but beneficial to the Road Runners, who have decided that they will have to "play ball" against all comers, regardless of their paper strength and former performances.

Unless more rain falls today, the field will be in excellent shape for tonight. Last night's shower helped, rather than hurt, the field.

Pampa fans will have an opportunity to see Al Summers on second base and Don Bailey at shortstop. The switch was made Monday night with satisfactory results. Tank

BRVES DEFEATED BY WIDE MARGIN OF 13 TO 4
By ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds, long accustomed to the dregs, have at last taken a long draught of victory. Yesterday they ran their list of consecutive wins up to six, the longest march of conquest they have known in four years. They fell on the Braves, with Flint Rhem and Ben Cantwell on the hill, for 18 vengeance hits and defeated the Boston team by the wide margin of 13 to 4.

In the only other National league game played yesterday, Brooklyn at Chicago and New York at St. Louis having been rained out, the Pittsburgh Pirates moved a little nearer the first division by defeating the Phillies 3-1.

In the American league, the Detroit Tigers took an 8-3 decision from the Yankees by the simple expedient of knocking home runs. Bill Rogell and Hank Greenberg belted two round-trip blows each of which accounted for all of the Tigers' tallies. They drove in four runs apiece.

Greenberg had a field day at bat, for he registered a double and a single, along with his homers, in five trips to the plate. He now is tied with Bob Johnson of the Athletics for the home run honors, each having 11.

Home runs also provided the margin of victory for the Athletics who defeated the Chicago White Sox, 6-5, at Philadelphia.

Johnson chalked up his 11th homer and Pinky Higgins and Johnny Marcum also got round trips. Marcum, in his first appearance on the mound in two weeks, also provided his share of the defense, limited the Dykes boys to eight hits. In the game Manager Dykes made his 2,000th hit as a major leaguer.

The last place St. Louis Browns took the rubber game of their series with the Red Sox, pounding the offerings of Lefty Grove and Wes Ferrell for 13 hits that totaled 25 bases. The score was 6 to 5. The once invincible Grove left the box in the eighth inning, after having issued 11 hits.

Cleveland got to the offerings of Buck Newsum in the eighth inning to overcome an early Washington lead and shade the Senators 5-4.

FEDERATED CLUBS CLOSE SEASON WITH SPECIAL MEETINGS

FORUM GIVES 'WONDERLAND' STYLE LUNCH

STORY OF ALICE IS UNIQUE THEME OF PROGRAM

An Alice-in-Wonderland program, menu, and decorations made an especially clever party for the Twentieth Century Forum's last meeting of the season yesterday. Mrs. R. F. Dirksen was hostess for the luncheon.

The table was centered with a rose tree, and gardeners cut from playing cards. The White Rabbit stood nearby. Nut cups were made from tiny playing cards, and programs had covers made of face cards.

Mrs. Edward Damon reviewed the story of Alice in Wonderland to open the program. After a game, Alice-O-Grams, Miss Virginia Faulkner gave a talk, Looking Glass Reflections.

The menu included "Drink me" cocktail, "Eat me" hors d'oeuvre, "I see what I eat" salad, "I eat what I see" main course, "beautiful soup" place, Queen of Hearts tea, and salted nuts.

A new member, Mrs. John Hooper, was formally welcomed. Other members present were Mrs. Clarence Barrett, Roy Bourland, Damon, Dirksen, T. R. Martin, Arthur Holland, M. C. Overton, Frank Perry, Arthur Swanson, A. M. Reed, Dick Walker, and Don Conley. Misses Margaret Buckler and Faulkner.

Club Women Aid In Texas Sales

DALLAS, May 29.—The 60,000 club women of Texas have joined in the campaign to increase the sale of Texas-made products. Although the campaign has just got under way, Texas manufacturers are already feeling the effects of their interest.

According to letters received by Col. W. E. Talbot, president of Progressive Texans, Inc., which is back of the effort.

Mrs. Volney W. Taylor of Brownsville, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, sent every federated club suggested resolutions to be adopted. The resolutions pledged the support of the women first to give preference to Texas products where price and quality were equal and to urge their local merchants, as part of the drive, to stock Texas-made goods to familiarize the buying public with Texas brands.

Leading merchants in every town in which there is a woman's club were advised of the campaign and of the approximately 4,000 so notified more than 800 stores have shown their interest by asking for lists of Texas manufacturers from whom they could secure their wants. Many of them agreed to the further suggestion from the club that they set up separate departments for displaying Texas products. Others agreed to direct attention by placards and advertising to the fact that they were selling goods made in Texas.

Third Tourney for Girl Scout Aid Is Tonight

Pre-Centennial plans and reports on the fund for Girl Scout assistance were of chief interest in the business meeting of Business and Professional Women's club last evening. It was conducted briefly during a social meeting.

Advance ticket sales indicate that a bridge tournament sponsored by the club this evening, the third in a series of four, will be the most successful yet. About 20 tables are planned. Oia Nellis is head of the committee in charge of this tournament.

Proceeds go to the Girl Scout fund, which has almost reached the goal of $50 set two months ago.

To Sponsor Dance Pre-Centennial work of the club includes sale of souvenir badges and sponsoring a gala street dance. Frances Sturgeon was appointed general for the sale of badges, with Gladys Robinson, Louise Whitfield, Anna Mae West, and Mable Gee captains and Clara Lee Shewmaker corporal at Borger.

Social Program Given The finance committee, headed by Miss Shewmaker, was in charge of the social program last evening.

Programs were made of brown paper, cut to imitate a penny. Pencils were placed in a box with names of members, and a drawing gave the box to Hazel Hartman.

Panel discussion of club budget problems brought out the weak points of past years and better plans for next year. Lillian Jordan, finance chairman for next year, stressed the necessity of each committee outlining expenditures at the first of the season.

Current events were reviewed briefly, especially the recent lawsuit court decision invalidating NRA codes. Its effect on club members was discussed, especially its effect on women working on salary.

LOST AMERICAN AVIATOR SAID TO BE JUNGLE 'MEDICINE MAN'

COLON, Panama, May 29 (AP)—An amazing account of finding Paul Redfern, American aviator who disappeared eight years ago, living as a "medicine man" in the jungle of Dutch Guiana was related today by Tom Roche.

The informant, a German-born American citizen, said he lived for three months in 1933 with Redfern, who vanished while on a flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Rio de Janeiro. Roche previously had told his story to James L. Park, U. S. consul here, and Park relayed to the state department at Washington the narrator's offer to lead a rescue expedition to Redfern's hideout in an Indian village far from civilization. Roche said Redfern was critically injured when his plane crashed against a mountain. Indians who found the aviator with both legs and his left arm broken nursed the flier back to health, he said.

He declared he encountered Redfern in the Indian village after hearing natives talk of the "great white medicine man."

The American identified himself as Redfern, Roche asserted, and related the circumstances of the mishap which befell his attempted non-stop hop to Rio de Janeiro. Roche said the flier had his rescuers retrieve the canvas fuselage from the wreckage of his plane and spread it above his hut as a roof covering. The fuselage bore numbers which Roche said he recalled as being 73.

The canvas was green and yellow, he said, the colors of Redfern's plane when he embarked on his aerial adventure in August, 1927. Roche said that when he left the native village, Redfern begged him to take a message to his father, Dr. Carl Redfern of Washington, D. C., and his wife, Gertrude, whose whereabouts he said he did not know.

"Please tell them I am still alive," was the American's message, Roche said.

(Mrs. Paul Redfern, informed of Roche's narrative in Cleveland, O., said she hoped it had "more truth in it than others we have received in the last few years.")

The Sunoco Sluggers will tangle with the Sunoco Sluggers at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon on the Sunoco diamond.

Mrs. C. E. Hall of Baird is here for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Massa, and Mr. Massa.

Train Accident Is Fatal to Two

ASHLAND, Ky., May 29 (AP)—Two men were killed when a Chesapeake and Ohio freight train went through an open switch near here today. Engineer George Nicholas (145 N. Ashland Ave.), 61, of Lexington, Ky., was thrown from his cab to his death against a box car, and Head Brakeman Arthur Holder, 46, of Russell, Ky., was scalded to death.

Fireman Charles E. Barker, 44, Lexington, Ky., jumped from the engine cab and was uninjured.

Special Agent H. P. Lane, who investigated, said that a passenger train had passed over the same switch at 12:45 o'clock this morning. The wreck occurred at 3:40 o'clock, and in the meantime, he said, someone apparently not a railroad man, had opened the switch. Lane said it looked like "grudge work."

Noted Confederate Brigades Not to Meet This Year

BRYAN, May 29 (AP)—With no survivors of Wood's brigade remaining and no three of the few survivors of Green's Texas brigade able to travel, no joint reunion of these two noted Confederate organizations will be held at Bryan next month.

Since 1911, when the annual reunions of these organizations were begun, Bryan had been the meeting place. Each year residents opened their homes to veterans and their families and friends and the chamber of commerce provided entertainment during the 2-day reunion. The last reunion was held in 1934, but only a handful of veterans attended, none from Hood's. Last week Miss Katie Daffan of Ennis, life secretary of Hood's, advised officers of L. S. Ross chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy and of the chamber of commerce that so far as her records showed no member of the brigade survived. Mrs. C. C. Cameron of Dallas, life secretary of Green's, also wrote that although her records showed a number of survivors she was certain no three would be able attend the reunion. The constitution of the reunion organization specifies that at least three members must be present to constitute a reunion.

Both brigades made names in the history of the Confederacy. Hood's brigade served throughout the war, much of the time under Lee, and Green's brigade saw service only in the southwest.

SUNNY SIDE UP

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Magistrate R. Charles Medway and Paul DeWitt, alleged panhandler, met, with the bar of justice between them, about breakfast time. "Judge," said DeWitt, "can you give me 3 months? I'd like to have some ham and eggs for a change." Medway gave him 3 months and a ham and egg breakfast, but told DeWitt he would have to subsist on regular prison fare for the other 89 days.

OFF THE MEAT STANDARD. HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AP)—Three dogs were brought to a dog and cat hospital within an hour of each other and soon they were telling each other about their operations. Between them they had swallowed seven needles, one engagement ring, one wedding ring, three small bolts and a half dollar.

The operating room resembled a hock-shop when we were finished," said Dr. W. A. Jacques.

DIONNES ARE 'FORGOTTEN' PARENTS OF QUINTUPLETS

CALLANDER, Ont., May 29 (AP)—Dr. Allan R. Dafoe was all but smothered under an avalanche of congratulations from all over America today as he observed his 52nd birthday anniversary the day after the Dionne quintuplets passed their first.

To Olivia Dionne and Elzire Dionne, the quintuplets' parents, the world sent few greetings.

Some congratulatory wires were addressed to the quintuplets, but most of the hundreds that continued to pour in were directed to Dr. Dafoe, who delivered the quintuplets before the sunrise of May 28 a year ago.

Broadway stars, members of the Roosevelt cabinet, governors and leaders of industry sent congratulations. The names included former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, Secretaries Ickes and Perkins of the cabinet, Speaker Byrnes of the house of representatives, and scores of newspaper editors. The telegraph messenger boys who made almost a parade to the hotel where Dr. Dafoe was a guest at a dinner given him by newspapermen, had no chores calling them to the Dionne homestead. As one referred to them, Olivia and Elzire Dionne were the "forgotten parents."

The Dionnes had no part in yesterday's celebration for the quintuplets. Although the minister of public welfare, David Croll, came up from Toronto especially to participate, and although Judge J. A. Valin and Dr. Dafoe, members of the board of guardians, joined the minister in speech-making, there was no voice in the entire proceedings from the other side of the road—the parents.

"We don't consider it an honor to be invited by pure strangers to visit our own children," said Olivia Dionne in one of his few formal statements.

DIXIE HOWELL TO BE COACH MEXICO CITY

Famous Alabama Gridder In Announcement of New Football Assignment.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 29 (AP)—Millard (Dixie) Howell, star passing halfback of the University of Alabama, said here today he had signed a two-year contract to coach the University of Mexico football team.

Howell, now playing second base for the Birmingham Bears of the Southern association, said he would report for duty at Mexico, D. F., at the close of the baseball season.

"I think I'm mighty lucky to get a job like that my first year out of school," beamed Howell. "It's a great opportunity and you can bet I'll do my best to develop the game among the students there."

Howell said he "supposed" the University of Mexico would schedule additional football games in this country in future years.

"They played a couple of games in the United States last season, you know," Howell added, "and I suppose we will get some more games."

Howell was considered one of the greatest Southern passing backs in recent years, and his accurate tossing to Don Hutson, Alabama end, in the Rose Bowl game was credited with bringing victory to his team over Stanford university last year's day.

Howell signed last spring with the Detroit Tigers of the American league, but during spring training was struck on the head with a pitched ball. He recovered and was sent to Birmingham for seasoning.

New French Liner Will Carry Gold On Maiden Trip

LE HAVRE, France, May 29 (AP)—The giant new French liner Normandie, world's largest ship, sails today on her maiden voyage to New York in the hope of proving herself the fastest vessel afloat.

Financial circles said she would carry a heavy shipment of gold, a cash drain on the vaults of the Bank of France as the government pushed its battle to save the franc from devaluation.

Honor passengers for the trip aboard the 79,000-ton "floating city" are Mme. Albert Lebrun, wife of the president; her daughter, Mme. Marie Frayssinard; her daughter-in-law, Mme. Jean Lebrun, and William Bertrand, French minister of merchant marine. They will watch the 1,029 feet of steel-encased power and luxury try to beat the speed records of Germany's Europa and Bremen and Italy's Rex.

The $63,000,000 ship is expected to show a speed of more than 30 knots. The Europa holds the present record for the westward crossing of the North Atlantic—3,199 sea miles from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose Lightship—four days, 17 hours and six minutes, an average of 27.92 knots. Built to transport 2,170 passengers in the utmost comfort and luxury, the great ship is staffed by a crew of 1,320 men.

WINGED BAIT

WARSAW, Mo. (AP)—George H. Holloway ran out of bait just as the fish were beginning to bite good. He was winding up his lines in disgust when a kingfisher dropped a minnow at his feet. The bait was good for a three-pound fish.

BLUE EAGLE'S SPIRIT STILL RULES NATION

MANY INDUSTRIES WILL UPHOLD STANDARDS OF CODES

BY J. A. RAWLINGS
Associated Press Staff Writer
(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP)—The spirit of the Blue Eagle still lives in many sections of America's far-flung industrial front.

Legally the blue eagle may be as dead as the dodo bird because of the supreme court's decision, but reports which poured into this crossroads of America today indicated that many large industries were standing by their present standards of hours and wages, despite the high court's ruling.

The reports that the blue eagle's spirit is still fluttering came from widely separated industrial centers. They included statements to this effect from Philip K. Wrigley, president of the William Wrigley Jr. company, gum manufacturers; John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Company; the International Association of Blue Print and allied industries; Mark Cressup, president of Hart Schaffner and Marks clothing manufacturers; F. W. A. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers association; the General Foods Corporation; the National Association of Manufacturers; the Aluminum Company of America; D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, Chicago department store operators; the Chrysler Motor Car company; the Retail Merchants Association of San Francisco; and many others.

Speaking as chairman of the men's clothing code authority, Cressup said that about "40,000 people have been put back to work in the industry and to do anything to disturb that situation at present would create a most chaotic condition."

From Clarel B. Mapes, secretary of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association came the opinion that he "imagined the entire code setup will hold together, awaiting further legislation for the time being."

While industrial and business leaders were attempting to reassure their employees that the NRA standards of hours and wages would be maintained, movements were started in various sections to perpetuate the spirit of the blue eagle. They included the introduction of a resolution in the Massachusetts legislature calling upon President Roosevelt to endorse a movement begun in the state two years ago by which minimum wages and other related matters would be established by law, instead of codes.

The Chicago board of trade announced it would continue to enforce uniform trade practices and margin requirements, and Arthur Besse, president of the woolen manufacturers telegraphed from New York to woolen mills and sales agents a recommendation for continuance of the NRA code standards on a "voluntary agreement" basis.

Less definite attitude was reflected, however, in some other quarters along the industrial front. Edward G. Seibert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said that "we are studying the effect of the court's decision at the present time" adding, however, that "there is no change contemplated immediately." Officials of Armour & Company, Chicago packers reported they were "awaiting developments" but planned no immediate change in wages or working hours.

In some quarters danger of fresh labor troubles was seen should some employers seek to slash wages, especially in the highly competitive lines such as the textile industry. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor called members of his executive council into special session yesterday, and talk of strikes was heard if labor's gains are not preserved.

Meanwhile some good news came to the employees of two large oil companies in the form of wage increase announcements, made or contemplated. The Tidewater Oil company approved a general wage increase of five per cent effective June 1, while the Standard Oil company of New Jersey said a similar increase had been proposed to operating subsidiaries.

Only Grunow Guards You With CARRENE, the Safety Refrigerator That Can't Burn, Explode or Give Off Dangerous Fumes... And That Actually Saves You Money, Too!

Every wife and mother should know! Wise selection of a refrigerator goes far beyond mere conveniences. The Grunow—like most modern refrigerators—gives you all these—plus many other big advantages. But more vital than all these is the one feature Grunow alone can offer you—the complete protection of safe CARRENE!

Electricity does nothing in a refrigerator but pump the cooling agent through the pipes and coils. And the Grunow is safe because what's inside these coils is safe. It's the only refrigerator made that guards your home with safe CARRENE! A simple liquid, not a gas—CARRENE simply can't burn, explode or give off dangerous fumes. And you can prove this yourself in two minutes by handling and smelling CARRENE and even trying to burn it.

CARRENE actually saves you money, too. It permits the use of a greatly simplified unit—the elimination of 25 wearing parts. As a result, it operates with less current—runs fewer minutes per day—greatly reduces wear and repair costs.

See and test this amazing, patented safety refrigerant and inspect the Grunow yourself today. See the beauty that has made the Grunow so widely imitated. Inspect the wonderful conveniences listed at the right—and many, many others, above all, prove the safety of CARRENE by actual test, and then... buy no refrigerator until you make sure that what's inside the coils is safe—safe as Grunow's magic fluid, CARRENE.

5 YEAR'S PROTECTION

In addition to the standard 1-year warranty on the complete Grunow refrigerator, every buyer of a Grunow can now enjoy four more years' protection on the famous Grunow-Carrene sealed-in mechanism for the small sum of $5.00 additional—five years' protection for only $1.00 per year. This added protection is due to the amazing safety and dependability made possible by the Grunow-Carrene-Vacuum Safety System, which is exclusive with Grunow.

You Can Now Own a Grunow For as Little as $129.50

A JOINT RESOLUTION PROPOSING an Amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of Texas by striking out Section 20a to Section 20e, both inclusive; prohibiting the open saloon and vesting in the Legislature the power to define and enact laws against such saloons; and vesting in the Legislature the power to regulate the manufacture, sale, transportation and possession of intoxicating liquors, including the power to provide for a State monopoly in the sale of distilled liquors, providing that intoxicating liquors shall be manufactured, sold, bartered or exchanged in any county, justice's precinct or incorporated city or town wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local ordinance, under the authority of the Legislature, shall have the authority to accept from the Government of the United States financial aid for old-age assistance; providing for the necessary proclamation and making an appropriation to defray the expenses of proclamation, publication and election.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a section to be known as Section 51-b, which shall read as follows:

"Section 51-b. The Legislature shall have the power by general laws to provide, under such limitations and restrictions as may be deemed by the Legislature expedient, for old-age assistance and for the payment of bona fide citizens of Texas who are over the age of sixty-five (65) years; provided that no habitual criminal, and no habitual drunkard, and no inmate of any State supported institution, while such inmate, shall be eligible for such old-age assistance; provided further that the requirements for length of time of actual residence in Texas shall never be less than five (5) years during the nine (9) years immediately preceding the application for old-age assistance and continuously for one (1) year immediately preceding such application.

"(a) The open saloon shall be and is hereby prohibited. The Legislature shall have the power, and it shall be its duty to define the term 'open saloon' and enact laws against such saloons.

Subject to the foregoing, the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the manufacture, sale, possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors, including the power to establish a State monopoly on the sale of distilled liquors.

"(b) The Legislature shall enact a law or laws whereby the qualified voters of any county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, may, by a majority vote of those voting, determine from time to time whether the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be prohibited or legalized within the prescribed limits; and such laws shall contain provisions for voting on the sale of intoxicating liquors of various types and various alcoholic content.

"(c) In all counties, justice's precincts or incorporated towns or cities wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws of the State of Texas, and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas, it shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicants whatsoever, for beverage purposes, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters of such county or justice's precinct, by voting in an election held for such purpose shall determine such to be lawful; provided that this subsection shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 32 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions thereof in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature."

Section 2. Such proposed Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at a special election to be held throughout the State of Texas, on the fourth Saturday in August, 1935, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment, shall write, or have printed on their ballots the words:

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT ON LABOR REGULATION SOUGHT

STATE LINES IMPEDIMENT IN LAW MAKING

HUGE COAL STRIKE IS LOOMING — WAGES IN DOUBT

By NATHAN ROBERTSON, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—An attempt to pass a constitutional amendment ending the federal government with power to regulate labor conditions in industry, regardless of state lines, was seriously considered today in high new deal circles as a result of the supreme court decision smashing NRA.

This proposal was studied as a long-range program, with indications pointing to an effort to set up a voluntary code structure to replace the wreckage of NRA temporarily.

Cropping for a path amid a tangle of lopped plans and new suggestions, the new deal advisers were believed to be looking to a pronouncement by President Roosevelt to give a clue to the new deal's course. Though there were no indications that the president has made up his mind, it was said that decisions to be made later in the week would be followed by public announcements.

Parley Collapses. A new worry, hovering in the background for some weeks, came to the fore to test the administration as the United Mine Workers predicted that the national bituminous coal strike the union is planning for June 17 would affect 450,000 workers. Negotiations for a new wage contract are expected to begin. Observers believed the White House might step into the situation before the deadline.

With the new deal legislative program still virtually halted by the impact of the supreme court blow, officials were warning of new patches reporting that many business and industrial leaders were calling for a voluntary maintenance of NRA wages, hours and fair trade practices.

Though there was an outbreak of price-cutting in some New York and Boston stores, the National Association of Manufacturers announced that 200 of the nation's largest manufacturers had pledged themselves to make no immediate changes in hours, wages or working conditions. Earlier Harper Sibley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, had expressed confidence that "this will be the policy of American business."

Patronage Menaced. With the new deal's proposed AAA amendments back in a senate committee for overhauling, some officials expressed anxiety that the supreme court's attitude as expressed in the NRA decision may bode ill for the gigantic farm agency which has yet to take its turn before the high tribunal.

Meanwhile there were some indications that the treasury may seek full control over the liquor traffic in the aftermath of the decision which demolished the federal alcohol control administration's code structure.

President Roosevelt conferred yesterday with congressional advisers and with President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers. Green said he felt "there was hope."

Labor for Amendment. The word was passed, though unconfirmed, that the labor unions might swing their strength behind a drive to the new constitutional amendment.

Such a campaign, observers believed, would be virtually certain to mean a titanic struggle between forces opposed to central regulation and those who would give the federal government more power over intra-state industry which they contend affects interstate commerce.

The idea of an amendment was gaining headway among new dealers on Capitol Hill as members of congress became more firmly convinced, as they re-read the court's historic decision, that they were blocked from enacting legislation on hours and wages.

A flat prediction came from Senator Byrnes (D., S. C.), close friend of President Roosevelt, that congress would submit a constitutional amendment at this session of congress if it found no other way to regulate conditions of employment.

Refineries Near Gladewater Are To Be Enlarged

GLADEWATER, May 29 (AP)—Operators of refineries here are making plans to remodel and enlarge the capacity of their plants. Three plants have installed modern cracking units to go with their skimmers and are able to get the maximum gasoline content from each barrel of crude oil processed. Another that is a pioneer in this action, is expected soon to award contracts involving expenditure of around $50,000 for a cracking unit. The Gladewater district leads all sections of the great East Texas oil field in the number of refineries with a total of 36 but only eight operated during May on a legal basis. Local oil operators are of the opinion, however, that within another 30 days 12 of the plants will be operating on a legal basis. Of the 36 plants in the district, 25 are in the city of Gladewater.

4,500 Employees Of NRA Tremble For Their Jobs

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—NRA's 4,500 employees forced themselves to smile today but inside their heads this question thudded:

"How about my job?" No one in authority seemed to know whether there would be a general demobilization. Everyone was talking about it.

The exuberance that shot the blue eagle on its flight almost two years ago was gone—dead as NRA's codes, or that dog General Johnson mentioned.

For weeks there had been uncertainty about NRA's future, but certainly largely over congressional action. The supreme court's blast was as startling as an exploding shell in this government bureau.

Up to yesterday, one couldn't get a dyed-in-the-wool NRA worker to admit even the possibility that the high court ruling might be adverse. The blue eagle's wings might be clipped, its enthusiasts said, but it could not be killed.

But there were "wakes" last night. And headaches today.

Pretty girl stenographers found excuses to leave their desks, to assemble at water coolers in pairs or foursomes to "talk it over."

Like small boys whistling their way past a graveyard, some tried to wisecrack. Some expressed a belief born of hope that new legislation would repair the damage.

Governor Signs Bill to Remove Pardons Board

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—Governor Allred signed a bill here removing the board of pardons and paroles from Austin to Huntsville, site of the penitentiary. It will be effective August 9.

"I am signing this bill in the hope that the constitutional amendment providing for removing the power of clemency from the hands of the governor will be adopted," the governor said.

"Until that amendment is voted, arguments can be made on either side as to whether the board of pardons should be located in Huntsville or in Austin."

"So long as the responsibility for exercise of the power of clemency is in the governor's hands, it would, of course, be more convenient to him to have the board close at hand in Austin. They have been of great assistance to me thus far."

"Dealing with the humanitarian problem, however, it is not a question of convenience or that of the board. I am constrained to sign this bill as an experiment, with the hope that the presence of the board members at Huntsville will give every convict an opportunity to present his case without the intervention of an attorney or outside friends."

"I shall continue to largely abide by the recommendations of the board."

Summer Sweethearts

Chapter IV. Zoe glanced at the riders—Michael and Sally Moon—and said carelessly, "So she's got her hooks into him!"

Katharine felt the hot color burn her cheeks. She pretended not to hear. Her heart had plunged—now righted itself. She steadied her hand against the door of the car so that Zoe should not see how it was trembling.

Ahead of them, under the high arch of trees, Michael and Sally rode on. The round of horses' feet was strangely loud in the stillness. Katharine could see a flash of sunlight on the red crest of Michael's head. Sally drooped toward him and his attitude toward her, even at this distance, seemed protective, solicitous.

It was all absurd; it was not Katharine's affair, certainly. If Michael rode with Sally Moon.

"... so I'll count on you, then. Kay," she heard Zoe say, in the silence.

"What? I didn't hear you?" Katharine's tone was confused, her cheeks flaming.

"Be a darling and think over what I said about taking a trip to Mexico," Zoe coaxed. "Mother wouldn't mind a bit if you suggested it. She wouldn't even suspect."

"Oh, really!" Katharine was unaccountably nettled by the suggestion that she, at 20, was so staid and reliable that a willful, pretty child like Zoe might be trusted with her anywhere. What did people think she was made of, anyhow? She had feelings like the rest of them. Anger swept her, swift and unreasoning. She wanted, recklessly, to strike out, to hurt someone. She felt savage—she who was usually so cool and judicious.

Zoe was in no hurry to get on. She lit a cigarette now, from the little silver case she always carried, and offered Katharine one. The other girl refused.

Zoe nodded in the direction of Sally Moon's departing figure. The absurd yellow cap could be seen, bobbing in tune with mare's second trotting movement. "Hear she's refused Howe Mackenzie?"

"Oh, I don't believe it," Katharine said sharply.

Zoe giggled. "Why, Kay, I believe you don't like that."

Katharine shrugged her shapely shoulders. She hated the subject, but was fascinated by it. Howe Mackenzie, fat and rather stupid, a bore at 30, was in the nature of a town joke. Yet Sally had been caught in marriage to him. That was something. Howe was rich. Some day he would be important in local politics; that was the way the straws pointed. Sally Moon, foolish and deceitful and cheaply pretty, had had a chance to become his wife.

Not that Katharine wanted marriage. But from her chilly and rather bewildered heights, she wondered how it was done. Sally knew how. She had a system, involving the use of eyes, of furtive, fleeting carresses, of murmured words on dance floor and veranda. Katharine had always held herself aloof from what she called "that sort of thing."

Now, suddenly, she was curious. "Sally has her points," Zoe said carelessly, as if she read her companion's thoughts.

"Don't be a goose," Katharine said good-naturedly. "I don't know how we got on the subject. Of course I like men. Don't I dine and dance and swim with them?"

"Oh, it isn't that. I know you have heaps of beaux," Zoe hastened to amend contritely. "It's just that—well you're so sort of casual with them. I don't believe you've ever even felt a flutter. Have you?"

Katharine shrugged. "All this talk of flutters," she said with distaste. "It makes me—well, just a bit sick."

"There, you see," cried Zoe. "I knew it! You're on the heights most of the time. And," she added mysteriously, "they don't like it!"

"Who doesn't?" Katharine, comprehending perfectly, was purposely lofty.

"Men," said Zoe softly. "They're afraid of you."

"Let them be!" said Katharine. "Oh, don't be cross," coaxed the little girl at the wheel of the roadster. "I only wanted—well, it does seem such a waste—your being so gorgeous and all that—"

"You think," began Katharine with superb scorn, "that being in love's such fun—'is that it?'"

Zoe, remembering her tears and furies and imprecations, when dragged away from the adored Gibbs, had the grace to color.

"Not—not fun, exactly. Oh, but it's what makes life worth living. Haven't you ever, not one single time, waked up in the morning to find the sky blue and the sun brighter and everything—oh, marvelous—just because you were going to see someone?"

"No, I haven't."

"I don't," murmured Zoe, "quite believe it."

Any moment now, Katharine's errant thoughts ran, any moment Michael and Sally Moon would be fording the low river. Sally's dark hair would bob deliciously on her shoulders—if you liked that sort of things, it was all right—and Michael would be speaking in a low tone to Fury, urging her up the bank.

Suddenly everything was hateful; Zoe with her babble of puppy love and sunrises and blue skies—everything!

"I've simply got to see Gibbs," Zoe cried abruptly, reverting to her original theme.

"I won't have a thing to do with it," Katharine declared.

"Oh, how mean of you!"

Katharine strode up the lane without a single backward look as Zoe, after one or two reproachful mutterings, slid the car into gear. Oh, it was altogether a horrid day! Now Zoe would be angry and Katharine felt within herself the murmurings of a deep discontent. She longed, suddenly, to be doing something important—going to Paris to study art, taking a school in the southern mountains as Harriet Greene had done, making something real and important of her life.

Terrible to be a girl—even in this day of much vaunted freedom for women. Poor girls, Katharine mused, had all the luck. They could strike out for themselves. They could have the infinite satisfaction of doing work that was fascinating or important or both. She hated her "c"t, easy, uninteresting life. To go back home, to listen to her stepmother talk prettily of bridge and new slipcovers for the morning room, seemed unendurable.

The house was dim and shaded when Katharine reached it. Wisteria and ivy swung before the drawing room windows. Strips of white awning shut out the sun from the long veranda facing the water. The Parker place was some few hundred yards away, separated from the Strykhursts' only by the grounds of a convent. Through the wooden lattice work, Katharine could see a few novices moving gently up and down the paths. An old nun was reading from her daily office book. In the grape arbor, two or three lay sisters worked busily, talking softly together. How happy and busy they all seemed, thought the girl, with envy. Here there was literally nothing to do. In the garden a garbled Italian worked as Mrs. Strykhurst, moving capably from bush to bush, gave orders in her concise voice. Maids were busy above stairs, shaking off fresh linen for the beds. The cook sang over her piddling sauce in the kitchen.

Katharine clenched her hands. "I've got to do something," she said. "I can't just drift around here. It seems to me that everyone else in the whole world has a place —a meaning." Her eyes filled, to her dismay and anger, with tears. Ellen, the pleasant Irish parlormaid, came out upon the veranda at the moment.

"There's a gentleman to see you, Miss. I left him in the library."

Katharine took the card from the little silver tray and read, "John Glider Kaye."

Instantly she was on her feet, running along the hall to the dark, cool vault that was lined with her father's books.

"Why, Johnny Kaye! Wherever do you drop from?"

The people in Innisoke who thought Katharine Strykhurst cool and self-contained would have been amazed at this transformation in her. The man of 30 who rose from the deep leather chair evidently was not surprised at the warmth of her welcome.

Her two hands were clasped in his. There was a duet of voices as Mrs. Strykhurst passed the window and glanced curiously within.

"So John Kaye's back," observed Bertine Strykhurst, with satisfaction. "Well, perhaps we can't have Katharine moping any more."

CATO CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE IN HIS TRIAL

DEFENSE WITNESSES TELL SAME STORY AT LUBBOCK

LUBBOCK, May 29 (AP)—A plea of duty to protect the town of Post, Texas, from "armed suspicious strangers" was set up today by Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county as a defense against a murder charge for the machine gun slaying Feb. 7 of a federal narcotic agent.

Tom Morgan, a co-defendant, denied yesterday that the federal agent, Spenser Stafford, or his companion, V. C. McCullough, identified themselves as officers before the shooting, and two other defense witnesses said the sheriff had been warned of the presence of "suspicious strangers" in town.

The killing occurred in front of the veterinary office of Dr. L. W. Ketchen, a third defendant. The fourth man indicted, Dr. V. A. Hartman, Post physician, won acquittal yesterday when Federal Judge James C. Wilson granted a motion for an instructed verdict. The court denied similar motions in behalf of Morgan, a farmer whom the sheriff had deputized just before the shooting, and Dr. Ketchen.

Morgan testified that Cato yelled "throw that gun down" at least twice before he fired after Stafford emerged from the veterinary office. He denied the testimony of government witnesses that Cato had been told Stafford and McCullough were federal men.

"It didn't happen," he said of McCullough's testimony that the latter had shouted, "we're federal officers."

He said after Stafford emerged from the office, gun in hand, he and the sheriff grabbed each other's weapons, then broke loose, and Stafford ran. He said Cato fired as Stafford whirled back toward him.

John Putnam and Clyde Martin, both of Post, said they went to Cato shortly before the shooting and told him they had seen suspicious looking men in town, giving him the number of their automobile and telling him one of them appeared to be armed.

"Didn't you go crazy during the grand jury investigation in Dallas, jump in the bailiff's lap, call him 'grandpa' and shout 'my God, they're after me'?" asked Clyde O. Eastus, district attorney.

"I don't remember," answered Martin.

Putnam said he also had a brief breakdown in Dallas.

Numerous character witnesses appeared for the sheriff, and it was testified both Kitchen and Hartman had opposed him in his campaigns. Judge Wilson, ruling on the directed verdict motion, commented that a narcotic traffic without parallel as far as I know had been established beyond any kind of a doubt. Government witnesses had testified the physician and the veterinarian traded them narcotics for some grade under the sheriff's protection.

"Somebody to see you!"

If everybody with something to interest you should come and ring your bell, what a nuisance it would be! Think of the swarming, jostling crowd, the stamping of feet on your porch and carpets!

Every day we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up your whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in a way that is most considerate of your privacy and your convenience. They advertise in your newspaper!

In this way you have only to listen to those you know at a glance have something that interests you. They make it short, too, so you can gather quickly just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all without noise or confusion in a very few minutes.

In fairness to yourself look over all the advertisements. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.

Thomas Bill On Oil Control May Be Re-Written

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—Congressional oil leaders agreed today that the proposed Thomas petroleum bill might have to be revised materially to meet supreme court standards.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), who introduced the legislation, regarded the legal situation with pessimism and suggested his measure might be stripped down to a close parallel with the Connally "hot oil" law, the only petroleum legislation left on the statute books.

"It looks like the states are going to have to control production within their boundaries," he said. "The supreme court decision re-establishes state lines and, in effect, says that certain things can be done only by a state. It may be found that the government can regulate only strictly interstate commerce."

He expressed some doubt whether the government could supervise orderly production from a new oil pool, as provided for in his bill, and said further study of the problem would have to be made. He suggested also that the government might not have the right to prescribe production quotas from a well or pool reaching interstate commerce.

GRAIN DROP LOWER

CHICAGO, May 29. (AP)—Influenced by a break of 5 cents a bushel in the Minneapolis wheat market, the maximum limit allowed, grain values here suffered sharp setbacks today.

On the tumble in prices, Chicago May and July wheat and all deliveries of oats and rye reached a new low record for the season. There was a general dearth of aggressive buying support during the descent of the markets.

Wheat in Chicago closed weak, 2 1/2-2 3/4 cents under yesterday's finish, July 84 1/2-78 1/2, oats 1 1/2-1 1/4 cent down, July 78-78 1/2, oats 1 1/2-1 1/4 off, and provisions unchanged to 25 cents lower.

SHERIFF CATO

If you had had sufficient evidence?" the sheriff was asked.

"I certainly would."

"Have you ever protected either?"

"I never did."

"Have you ever received any compensation, whether goods or other-wise, from either one?"

"No, sir."

Cato denied he had ever seen Charley Fowler before the trial.

Fowler testified for the government that the sheriff had helped him arrange a deal with Dr. Hartman under which stolen merchandise was traded for narcotics. Fowler further stated that Cato kept part of the garments.

Investigated Car.

Cato, a former blacksmith and the father of five children, said he got his bullet-proof vest and machine gun after being warned about a "strange car."

Accompanied by Morgan, he said he approached the car and asked the occupants, earlier determined to have been Eva Michelle and D. L. Lowery, government informers, what they were hauling.

The sheriff said he ordered Lowery out of the car when the informant refused to answer questions. He said Stafford was three or four feet away when he first saw him.

"He had his hand on his hip," the witness testified. "I said 'get your hand away; don't pull that gun.' He grabbed my machine gun with his left hand, and I grabbed his right hand and yelled 'shoot him, Tom, before he shoots me.' I broke loose and he ran around the car."

Cato said he shouted "drop that gun" three times before he pulled the trigger of the machine gun. He said he aimed at the gun in Stafford's hand.

The sheriff testified that he did not see either Hartman or Kitchen and had received phone calls on the morning of the shooting.

He said he did not see V. C. McCullough, Stafford's fellow agent, until after the homicide. McCullough had testified that he identified Stafford as an agent immediately before the sheriff fired.

Cato said he picked up Stafford's gun 12 or 15 inches from the slain man's right foot after preventing McCullough from getting it.

The defense brought out from Cato and seven other witnesses that both Hartman and Kitchen had expressed opposition to the sheriff in his political campaigns.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS TO OKLAHOMA AND KANSAS SHOW BIG DECLINE

AUSTIN, May 29.—Although shipments of Texas cattle and calves to Kansas and Oklahoma during April declined moderately, aggregate shipments for the month were 7,096 carloads, against 8,293 cars a year ago, a decline of 15 per cent. Practically all of this decrease occurred in restricted shipments of cattle since the total number of calves and sheep actually increased.

"During the first four months of this year a total of 17,501 carloads of livestock were shipped to Fort Worth and out-of-state points, against 18,873 cars during the corresponding period last year. The decrease in the total was entirely due to smaller forwardings of cattle and sheep."

"The only section of the state to report larger shipments of cattle during April in comparison with last year was South Texas. Reports from the high and low plains areas of northwest Texas indicate sharp curtailment of shipments. As range conditions improve and new feed crops become available the disparity between shipments during the current year and a year ago will widen for the next several months. With the sharp rise in price, however, and the improvement in quality resulting from more abundant feed, the financial returns to cattlemen promise to improve substantially by next fall and winter."

Forwardings of cattle to the Kansas Flint Hills totaled only 58,627 head and of calves 2,134 head, against 102,245 head of cattle and 9,012 head of calves during April, 1934. Shipments of cattle to the Osage country of Oklahoma totaled 35,337 and calves 4,429 head, against 45,837 head of cattle and 5,908 head of calves during April a year ago.

"This sharp decline in numbers of cattle and calves shipped to the grass lands of Kansas and Oklahoma is partly due to the depletion of herds as a result of the drought and excessive commercial marketings in 1934 and to improvement in range conditions which has occurred in recent weeks. It is probable that farmers and ranchmen are retaining a larger proportion of cows and heifers on the farms and ranches than in former years for restocking, especially in the areas which suffered most severely from the drought."

"As a result of the partial compensation of the drastically reduced shipments of cattle and calves to the other points mentioned, total out-of-state shipments plus those to Fort Worth stockyards during April declined only moderately. Aggregate shipments for the month were 7,096 carloads, against 8,293 cars a year ago, a decline of 15 per cent. Practically all of this decrease occurred in restricted shipments of cattle since the total number of calves and sheep actually increased.
