Goch About Cleared; Third Widens Hold

Seventh Batters Back Into Saar; Flood Is Waning

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Scottish troops and tanks virtually cleared the Siegfried line keystone of Goch tonight, and east of that town of 14,000 other forces battled south a mile and a half in a drive threatening the rear of the wavering enemy defenses of the Ruhr basin.

In the center of the western front, the U. S. Third Army expanded its assault lines in the Eifel mountains to 55 miles, engulfed seven more German towns and hacked clear through the three-mile deep Siegfried line on a seven-mile sector south of the Rhennish Prussian base at Bitburg.

Gain In Moselle Valley

One division went over to the attack farther south in the Moselle valley and gained a mile to a point near Muzingen, five miles inside the Reich.

The U. S. Seventh Army captured 1,000 prisoners as it fought back into Germany's Saar basin six miles southeast of the province's capital of Sarrebruecken in a limited attack.

The Roer river on the U. S. First and Ninth Army fronts in the area of Aachen was dropping slowly. The reservoirs upstream feeding the flood were expected to be drained within several days, and the river above the reservoirs also was receding as the effect of recent thaws waned.

The Canadian First Army was carrying the brunt of the attack for the moment in the corridor between the Maas and Rhine rivers leading to the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Nazis Fire On Goch

Without waiting to withdraw the last of the battered garrison from Goch, German artillery and mortars opened up on the strategic highway center and shells fell among friend and foe alike.

While the final struggle for Goch neared a conclusion, Field Marshal Montgomery struck with tanks and infantry in the same sector where a near breakthrough Saturday outflanked Goch.

His forces slashed across the already-defended Calcar two miles away, a field dispatch said.

On the twelfth day of the offensive, Gen. H. D. G. Crear's offensive was 17 miles beyond the jump-off line and 9,000 prisoners had been taken. More than 1,100 U. S. heavy bombers hammered Ruhr rail centers leading to the flaming northern battlefront, and tactical bombers and fighter-bombers made 1,000 flights in sup-

Nazis Pump Up Lagging Morale

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP)—German broadcasts boasted today of alleged successes for new midget U-boats, and hinted at a new secret air weapon—possibly to distract home attention from military setbacks.

Moscow radio and other continental sources reported disorders in bomb-blackened Dresden and Saxony towns imperilled by the Soviet offensive.

Anti-Nazi Slogans

Public demonstrations occurred in Dresden, Chemnitz and other towns against the dispatch of volkssturm men to fight in Silesia, a Moscow broadcast said, and anti-Nazi slogans have appeared on walls in Dresden calling for "an end of Hitler and this war."

DNB declared midget submarines, penetrating the Thames estuary to attack an Allied convoy bound from Britain to Holland, sank one freighter and probably another. It described the craft as "long bulky iron swimmers," and added these details:

"In the center is a small turret just big enough to give space for one man. On top of this is a glass dome and the periscope. Before entering this novel weapon, a man must train several months and for the last three days live on a light diet."

Talks In Riddles

On the same theme, broadcaster Dr. Rudolph Semmler asserted "recent German U-boat activity is most promising for the development of the west front situation, and indirectly promises relief to our hard pressed east front. Every ship sunk now carrying supplies to the Allies west front armies is worth two or three sunk during the last U-boat offensive."

Semmler also hinted at a new air weapon in declaring that "the destruction of Dresden will not remain unavenged."

HELD AS COUNTERFEITER

DALLAS, Feb. 19. (AP)—Frank E. Garrett, 55, who said he lived in Austin, was held under $2,500 bond today on a charge of causing 100 counterfeit treasury checks to be printed.

Nazis Expect Giant New Red Offensive

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 19. — Russian troops in a four-mile advance today captured Nowe (Neuenburg), on the Vistula river 47 miles south of Danzig, while the Germans reported that other Soviet forces had fought their way into the walled medieval town of Guben, key road hub 51 miles southeast of the Reich capital.

Enemy broadcasts said Nazi counterattacks later expelled the Russians from Guben and also recaptured the strongholds of Sommerfeld, Sorau and Sagan, on a 35-mile front southeast of Guben.

Moscow Is Silent

Moscow's communique did not mention that vital sector, where the First White Russian and First Ukraine armies under Marshals G. K. Zhukov and Ivan Konev were trying to weld their flanks securely in preparation for an all-out blow toward Berlin.

Berlin said that while Konev's troops were fighting their way abreast of Zhukov's men along the Oder bend southeast of the capital, Zhukov was pouring "masses of men" into the Berlin front, getting ready to launch a heavy blow from his bridgeheads across the Oder between Kuestrin and Fuerstenberg.

"The storm will break very soon," one German broadcast said.

Enemy broadcasts also said that Marshal Konev's southern wing had penetrated the area of Lauban, west bank Queis river town 12 miles east of Silesia's second city of Goerlitz, which is on the road to Dresden and 13 miles from the Saxony frontier where it joins the Bohemian border of Czechaslovakia.

Nazi Attacks Smashed

Moscow said Russian troops on the Samland peninsula, northwest of Koenigsberg, had smashed enemy tank and infantry attacks seeking to break out of encircled Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital.

Southwest of Koenigsberg other Soviet forces reduced the pocket held by the remnants of perhaps 20 German divisions to about 510 square miles with the capture of 11 localities on a looping 33-mile front from 22 to 33 miles below the capital.

These localities included Quehnen, seven miles southeast of Zinten road junction; Wangnick, three miles west of Landsberg; Rosenwalde, four miles north of Mehlsack; Gedilgen, seven miles west of Mehlsack, and Gruenenberg, on the Mehlsack-Braunsberg

Midnight Curfew Ordered For U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP) — A midnight curfew was proclaimed today for night clubs, theaters, road houses, saloons and all other "places of entertainment" throughout the nation.

The action, taken by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes becomes effective Feb. 26, and is expected to make New York's Broadway and countless other amusement centers look like deserted villages after the stroke of twelve.

Byrnes' mandate took the form of a "request" to operators of entertainment places, from swank night spot to neighborhood movie, to have their patrons out and the doors locked up by midnight.

Compliance Invoked

But Byrnes invoked manpower controls to make compliance, to all intents, obligatory. He said he would ask the war manpower commission to "deny ceilings to any places violating this request." This would deprive such establishments of employes.

The War Production board, the Office of Denfense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration also were asked to aid the WMC as far as possible in enforcing the "request."

His action will be backed up by the authority of the War Manpower commission to deny employment ceilings to any places violating it.

Byrnes said his purpose "is primarily to save coal consumed in heating and in providing electricity. But it will also be helpful in the fields of transportation, manpower and in other ways."

Places of entertainment were defined as all night clubs, sport arenas, theaters, dance halls, road houses, saloons, bars, "and other similar enterprises, whether public or private, excluding restaur-

Political Party Bill Is Offered

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP) — Survival of a bill creating the office of state budget director, and introduction of a measure to permit political parties to be exclusive judges of their membership and those eligible to vote in their primaries stood out in legislative developments today.

The state budget director bill, whose sponsors argued would promote fiscal efficiency in government, was kept alive when the House refused to kill it by a vote of 77 to 48.

Offered By Moore

Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston offered in the Senate the party membership bill which grew out of last summer's United States Supreme court decision which had the effect of opening party primaries to negro voters. The measure would repeal all laws governing political parties, conventions, primaries, or dealing with qualifications for memebrship, or who may vote in party primaries.

"The Supreme court of the United States has held, in effect, that so long as the state of Texas has statutes or laws governing political parties, such political parties and members thereof are not free to choose their own members and that citizens of Texas are not free to choose with whom they will associate themselves," the preamble to Moore's bill declares.

The Supreme court test was in-

LABOR BILL APPROVED

AUSTIN, Feb. 19 (AP)—The House of Representatives State Affairs committee favorably reported tonight a bill outlawing closed shops in Texas. It was approved by a voice vote.

The motion to table the motion by which the bill was reported was lost by a vote of five to twelve.

By Rep. Marshall O. Bell, of San Antonio, and C. E. Nicholson, of Port Arthur, the bill makes it unlawful for an employer to discriminate against a worker for reason of membership or non-membership in a labor union.

WPB Acts To Provide Inexpensive Clothing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP) — The War Production board today ordered 80 per cent of the civilian supply of woolen goods and 75 per cent of rayons set aside for low and medium-priced clothing.

The agency also designated 37 kinds of rayon garments and 29 of woolen and worsted fabrics for which manufacturers will be given priorities to obtain materials.

These actions were WPB's final steps in its share of the program to replenish store shelves with inexpensive clothing by early summer.

At the same time, the Office of Price administration, co-sponsor of the program, announced a plan for controlling manufacturers' price levels to help achieve a six or seven per cent rollback of current retail prices for clothing.

Nazi V-2 Rises, Then Heads For Germany

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England, Feb. 19. (AP) — A boomerang V-2 rocket bomb startled Eighth Air force airmen over Holland today.

Members of a large formation of Fortresses saw the rocket spiral upward, then head back toward Germany.

"At first we couldn't believe it," said Capt. Frank Emory, Mount Vernon, Wash. "The rocket shot up, then slowly curved in the opposite direction."

TAX HIKE IS ASKED

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—A bill proposing to increase the state tax on gasoline from four to five cents was introduced in the House today by Rep. M. L. Ramsey of Beckville. The proceeds of the increase would be applied to construction of lateral and farm-to-market roads.

Reds Liberate Many Yanks From Nazis

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 19—Numerous American prisoners of the Germans have been liberated by the Russian offensive despite frantic Nazi efforts to march them westward.

Their numbers have not yet been estimated, but the fact of their freedom was reported today by three escaped American officers who hitch-hiked across Poland and part of Russia as the adventurous vanguard of the others heading home by more conventional means.

The three are Capt. Ernest M. Gruenberg, 29, New York, a doctor in the 101st Airborne division; Lt. Frank H. Colley, 29, of Washington, Ga., a member of the 17th Field Artillery; and Lt. John N. Demlinf, jr., 30, Winston-Salem, N. C., a member of the 30th Infantry.

From Camp In Poland

These men along with numerous others are from the German prison camp Oflag 64 at Szubin, Poland, between Poznan and Bydgoszcz.

Gruenberg was captured in Normandy, Colley in Tunisia and Demling on the Anzio beachhead.

On Jan. 21, 1945, the Germans herded the American officers who were able to walk out of the camp and started them west just ahead of the drive by Marshal G. K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army group.

The sick and wounded were left behind, but they now are in safe hands.

"We got out as best we could," said Gruenberg.

"Some of us built little sleds but most of us had to carry our stuff on our backs."

German Roads Clogged

The officers said for several days before they hurried off they saw the road which passes the camp choked full of German civilians fleeing westward. There also were many Poles among them, apparently being forceably taken to Germany.

This strange column of frightened, fat German housewives, perspiring male civilians, minor members of the Nazi party, Polish slaves and several hundred U. S. officers in uniform slowed down near a manor estate on which had recently been living one Baron von Rosen from the Baltic country. The Germans had taken the estate from a Pole and installed the baron in charge.

"Our guards shoved us in the baron's barn," said Demling, "and with lots of other American soldiers we slept there for a night —a night which turned out to be our last in captivity."

While the American prisoners

Stokes Column Is New Addition To Editorial Page

Beginning today, and continuing every day hereafter, the Washington dispatches of Thomas L. Stokes will be a regular feature of the Editorial page of The Lubbock Morning Avalanche.

For many years a crack reporter of United Press, later the UP's Washington Chief of Bureau; and author of several books, Mr. Stokes in recent years has become one of the most widely read of capital columnists. When members of the Washington Press corps balloted on their fellows in December of 1944—that is an annual custom—Mr. Stokes was named as "the fairest and the most accurate" of all commentators on the national scene. Thus he succeeds another former Morning Avalanche columnist, the late Raymond Clapper—who was killed in action while reporting war news from the Pacific—as the Washington correspondents' own choice as their "No. 1 Man."

Readers will find Mr. Stokes intelligently liberal, but no "left-winger," despite the fact that he is committed to most of President Roosevelt's policies and especially to the New Deal's social reforms.

Turn now to Page 8, columns 7 and 8, and read Tom Stokes' article. Then follow him daily in Lubbock Morning Avalanche.

Fanatical Jap Fury Greets Marines Advancing On Iwo

YANKS HACK WAY INLAND ON IWO—Behind a terrific bombardment by battleships, cruisers and destroyers, and a final barrage of a thousand rockets launched from specially equipped smaller craft, American Marines of the Fourth and Fifth divisions, most of the veterans of some of the Pacific's toughest battles, stormed ashore Monday on tiny Iwo Jima, above, almost in Japan's front door. Tough fighting lies ahead on the rugged, volcanic-rock island, threaded with caves and other hidden-gun positions. The island is only about eight square miles in area, but a correspondent who flew over it Monday estimated that the Japs have 15,000 or more troops there.

Tiny Front Door Island Could Be Another Tarawa

By ELMONT WAITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Tuesday, Feb. 20—The 30,000 Marines of Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's Fifth Marine corps "are taking Iwo island," Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said with conviction today, although front line reports made clear the battle is fierce and is costing considerable lives.

Nimitz, whose last communique said the Leathernecks had carved out a beachhead 4,500 yards long and 500 yards deep on the southeast coast in a drive which has reached one airfield, expressed confidence in the success of the operation in a message to the fleet.

Courage And Teamwork

He said in his message that the same skill, courage and teamwork displayed by carrier pilots over Tokyo "are now being displayed by forces which are taking Iwo island only 660 (nautical) miles from Tokyo." The statute mile distance is 750.

Broadcasts today from Guam all agreed a costly and savage battle is raging on the tiny island in the Volcano group.

Nimitz' message to the fleet said display of the same qualities now bearing fruit in the current operations "will bring success when our troops land in Japan itself."

The Marines landed Monday morning.

Broadcast From Flagship

In a broadcast 28 hours later from the bridge of Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner's flagship, Don Pryor, representing the combined networks, said there had been a continuous "vast display of fireworks."

From the flagship, Iwo looked to him "like a garbage scow—serviceable but without charm."

He said the Marines had to drive up straight rocky hillsides to reach a plateau "and the Japs are showing that they won't let go without a bloody fight."

Larry Tighe, Blue network war correspondent, said in a broadcast today there was sound reason for believing "the stiffest fight yet faced by the Fourth Marine division (it includes veterans of every Marine landing since Guadalcanal in August, 1942) is now going on at the south end of Iwo island."

He added:

"This may be officially confirmed at any moment."

In a Tuesday broadcast from Guam, Robert McCormick, NBC war correspondent, said the Ma-

Yanks Capture Manila Fort, Start After Holed-Up Japs

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, Feb. 20 — Manila's Fort William McKinley was seized Sunday as heavy mortars began tearing apart the outer walls of the Intramuros where the cornered Japanese defense garrison is holed up for a bloody final stand.

Some of the 7,000 civilians held as hostages within the ancient Intramuros (walled city) may have reached freedom already. At least a few were reported to have filtered to the water front and escaped in small boats. Japanese fire from the walls is still heavy, however.

Mortars were taken across the Pasig river on pontoon bridges and put to work tearing chunks out of the thick outer wall of the Intramuros so tanks and infantry can move in.

Three days ago the Japanese commander was asked to liberate the civilians within the walled city. No formal answer has yet been received.

Fort McKinley, at the southern outskirts of Manila, was entered by 11th Airborne and First Cavalry spearheads. Other Yanks, swarming over Corregidor, mopped up the Japanese defenders and pursued enemy remnants on Bataan.

McKinley is one of Manila's two forts. The other is Fort Santiago, inside the old Intramuros (walled city) where the Japanese are making a bloody final stand, jeopardizing thousands of civilian lives.

Has Large Airfield

Fort McKinley before the war was headquarters for the Philippine Scouts and part of the Philippine divisioon of the American Army. It has a large airfield and extensive military facilities.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique today the "steady reduction" of the Japanese holed up in the Intramuros was continuing.

Japanese strongpoints on Corregidor were being eliminated by paratroopers and infantrymen who landed by air and sea on the island fortress Friday. Enemy defenders were being killed as they manned their fixed gun batteries.

Giant B-29 Armada Plasters Tokyo, Destroys 66 Planes

By AL DOPKING
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Tuesday, Feb. 20. — The biggest Superfortress raid of the war Monday on Tokyo resulted in the destruction or damaging of 66 enemy planes, bringing the total since the first B-29 attack on Honshu (Tokyo's island) last Thanksgiving day to 732.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay, heading the 21st Bomber command, disclosed today that in Monday's big strike, delivered in support of the Marine invasion of Iwo Jima, 750 miles south of Tokyo, the big bombers shot down 21 enemy fighters, probably destroyed 20 and damaged 25.

The Superforts, which obtained good bombing results on targets which included the Nakajima Musashina aircraft factory, added their bag of 66 to the more than 650 enemy planes destroyed or damaged by carrier planes which hit the Tokyo area Friday and Saturday.

General Lemay said that since last Thanksgiving the B-29s have destroyed 242 enemy planes, probably destroyed 185 and damaged 300 in air battles over Honshu.

The B-29 force which battered the urban and industrial areas of Japan's war center Monday was the largest ever sent out from Marianas basis.

Close Behind Navy Blow

The much-blasted city was hit by the B-29s in full strength close on the heels of the heavy pounding it underwent Friday and Saturday by waves of America's mighty Fifth Fleet carrier planes.

Indications were that upwards of 150 Superforts roared in on the Tokyo region Monday afternoon from bases on Tinian and Saipan islands. The B-29s bombed by precision instruments through an overcast.

(Good results were obtained in the raid, the War department announced in Washington, with the Nakajima Musashina aircraft factory among the industrial targets attacked.

(Major General Curtis M. Le May, commanding the 21st Bomber command, announced in a communique that fignter opposition was light, but antiaircraft fire heavy).

Other Areas Battered

This eighth B-29 raid on Tokyo came as about 60 other Superforts, flying from India, plastered Japanese installations at Kuala, Malay, almost 3,000 miles southwest of Nippon's capital. The India-based sky giants bombed railroad yards and repair shops with good results. All of the Kuala raiders returned safely.

Radio Tokyo, busy reporting on the American Marine invasion of Iwo Jima, took time out to say that approximately 100 Superforts hit the city. It claimed 10 were shot down and said damage was slight.

Wainwright's Aide Reports He's Safe

PARIS, Tex., Feb. 19. (AP)—Lieut. Col. Edgar Wright, jr., a member of General Jonathan M. Wainwright's staff before the fall of Corregidor, is alive and safe, his mother said she had been informed.

The mother, who lives here, said today she had received word in a telephone call from Mrs. Wright, jr., in San Francisco, that her daughter-in-law had received a message from her husband which read: "Am safe and well, with American troops. Hope you and our youngster are well. Notify my parents."

The colonel's wife and three-year-old son, Edgar, III, live in San Francisco. The colonel has never seen his son.

CHILDREN BACK HOME

LONDON, Feb. 19. (AP)—Approximately 700 children returned to England from America, where they went when England was under attack in 1940.

Three-Year Highway Program Is Planned

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP) — Postwar road plans of the Texas highway department will provide 49,221,060 man hours of labor over a three-year period, the department reported today to the postwar economic planning commission.

There will be 23,438,600 man hours of labor on the site of construction and 25,782,460 man hours of indirect or off-the-site labor.

It was estimated that the man hours would employ 25,620 persons continuously through the three year period, of whom 12,200 would be on-the-site workers.

The estimate is in addition to the normal highway demands for road maintenance.

Argentina Denies Big Nazi Is There

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 19. (AP) — Argentine spokesmen said tonight a Moscow broadcast reporting the arrival in Argentina of Karl Friedrich Bormann, son of Martin Bormann, deputy leader of the Nazi party, belonged in the realm of fairy tales.

Government officials have ridiculed recurrent rumors from abroad that Nazi bigwigs were seeking sanctuary here.

Halsey Says Jap Navy In Bad Way

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19— Shaggy-browed Admiral "Bull" Halsey, freshly back from his stamping ground in the Pacific, declared today that the Japanese Navy has "very little left to fight with and what is left is not in good shape."

For that reason, the commander of western Pacific task forces told a news conference, he doesn't believe the enemy fleet will accept the bold challenge of the American naval-air strike at Tokyo and come out to fight.

Must Dig 'Em Out

"We're going to have to go in and dig 'em out," Halsey said when asked how the Nipponese Navy can be engaged.

The enemy—the admiral referred to them in his more reserved moments as "monkeys"—has made two fundamental mistakes:

"I don't know why those little (here review officers interposed to strike out a word) rats thought they could lick an American. That was the first mistake.

"Their second was when they started fighting dirty."

To a question, Halsey reiterated his views about the possibility of a Japanese attempt at negotiated peace.

"I think the handwriting is pretty thoroughly on the wall about that," Halsey said. "I'm one of the few people, from the very beginning, that believed the Japs would break, eventually.

"The industrialists in Japan undoubtedly see that their empire, which has taken them a 'great

Insanity Seen As Defense In Kidnaping Of Tiny Milly McGill; Baby Temporarily Left With 'Divorcee' Mother

FORT WORTH, Feb. 19. (AP) — Mrs. Melba Branson, 19, will plead temporary insanity in her trial on charges of kidnaping tiny Milly McGill, it was indicated this afternoon.

This was the latest of unusual events of the case which started Jan. 9, when Mrs. Branson admittedly took the three-weeks old Milly from Mrs. C. A. McGill, on the pretext of showing her to a person waiting outside the small, downtown hotel where the McGills lived.

In apparent preparation for the temporary insanity plea for Mrs. Branson, a vivacious and attractive brunet, defense attorney Charles Mays propounded this statement and question to prospective jurors in the case:

"The law prohibits a person from punished for any crime when that crime is committed while a person is in such a state of mind that she does not know right from wrong; do you believe in that law?"

The tangled, swift-moving events swirled around the principal of the case—two-months-old Milly—with no apparent effects.

The trial for Mrs. Branson, an attractive brunet, was in criminal district court. As selection of a jury progressed, Judge Bruce Young of 48th District court, where Mrs. Velma McGill, Milly's mother, had filed suit for divorce, granted temporary custody of Milly to Mrs. McGill during pendency of the divorce suit.

He enjoined her from removing the baby from the county without his permission and from delivering the baby to any one without his permission.

Judge Young also ordered an assistant district attorney to prepare a petition asking that Milly be declared a dependent child, and said the petition also should ask that Mrs. McGill's child by a former marriage, Donald Ray Britton, 18 months, also be declared a dependent.

Milly was taken from the hotel room of her parents here Jan. 9; was left the next day in a San Antonio bus station, and was returned to Fort Worth by the San Antonio travelers aid. Mrs. Branson, wife of a Laredo Army Air field lieutenant, was arrested in Laredo Jan. 19. She has been free on $10,000 bond.

Mrs. McGill filed her divorce suit Saturday. In it she asked that custody of Milly be given Mrs. Branson, who said she wanted to adopt Milly. Mrs. McGill said she would testify for Mrs. Branson at the kidnaping trial. Her husband, C. A. McGill, said: "I don't mind someone, who can take care of her properly, taking her, but not Melba Branson."

McGill took the child from Mrs. Branson when she appeared at her trial today carrying Milly and accompanied by Mrs. McGill who, with her father, C. A. Tatum, visited during the weekend at the home of Mrs. Branson's parents here.

"Let me hold the baby," Mrs. Branson said McGill asked. She handed him the child and he walked rapidly from the courtroom.

Outside he conversed with W. R.

Commission Orders Utilities Firm To Split Up, Dispose Of Inferests

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19. (AP)—The Security and Exchange commission has ordered Central and Southwest Utilities company to dispose of interest in properties serving a large part of Texas.

The order, announced here yesterday, permitted the company to retain four major electric utility subsidiaries as a single integrated system. They are the Public Service company of Oklahoma, Southwestern Gas and Electric company, West Texas Utilities company and Central Power and Light company, operating in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Interests To Be Dropped

Under the order the company must dispose of its interest in:

Central Power's water properties and all of its non-utility operations in the Texas "Big Bend" district.

West Vernon Sewer company.

Water distribution properties of West Texas and its ice properties in Dalhart.

Public Service of Oklahoma's water properties and all of its natural gas properties except those needed for electric generating purposes.

Water and ice properties of Southwestern Gas.

Peoples Ice company.

30-Day Disposal Period

In the case of the Peoples Ice company and the ice properties of Southwestern Gas, the commission withheld the effectiveness of its order for their disposal for a 30-day period.

The opinion further said that "if within that period we are given evidence warranting a modification of the order we will effect such a modification."

At Shreveport, Frank M. Wilkes, president of Southwestern Gas said the company's ice properties were valued at $2,000,000. They consist of plants at Marshall, Longview, Kilgore, Henderson, Carthage, Center, Atlanta, Jefferson, Pittsburgh, Mt. Pleasant, Mineola, Winnsboro and Grand Saline in Texas, and at Ashdown, Aldron, Eureka Springs and Mena in Arkansas. In addition the company operates ice vaults at Hughes Springs and Dangerfield, Tex.

Sale Is Doubtful

Wilkes said he doubted the company could sell its ice properties for the $2,000,000 value he places on them because ice operations are integrated with the company's electric plants in each of the cities involved.

"It probably will cost us more to prepare the ice plants for sale than it will just to junk the plants," Wilkes said, explaining that in many cases the ice and electric operations are carried on in the same building and by the same employes.

In its ruling yesterday on retainable properties, the commission said:

Central Power's Pleasanton (Tex.) properties may be returned as a part of its integrated system and its ice business retained in all but the "Big Bend."

West Texas Properties

West Texas' 13 ice properties may be retained along with its electric properties.

Lon C. Hill, Central Power and Light company president, said yesterday at Corpus Christi electric and ice service customers of the company in South Texas would not be affected by the order.

He said the only affect on Central Power and Light would be to dispose of ice and electric properties in the Big Bend area.

Higginbotham Rites Set Here Wednesday

Funeral services for Grant T. Higginbotham, Lubbock county resident for 25 years and recently of Richmond, Calif., will be conducted at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Apostolic Christian church, Twenty-second and Ave. J, with Rev. Floyd Dawson of Lubbock and Rev. Jack Willis of Littlefield officiating.

The body is expected to arrive from Richmond this afternoon, Rix Funeral home said.

Higginbotham, who has been living in Richmond with his daughter, Mrs. B. R. Woodward, since last May, died there Saturday.

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Higginbotham moved to Lubbock from Runnels county in 1920.

Other survivors are one son, Rev. W. E. Higginbotham of Lubbock; three brothers, George of Comanche, Sam of Highland, Bob of Palestine; seven grandchildren.

Turkey Production To Be Smaller In Texas

AUSTIN, Feb. 19 (AP)—A six per cent reduction in intended production of turkeys in Texas in 1945 has been indicated by producers to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Producers have informed the USDA they expect to raise 3,535,000 turkeys this year. The larger operators indicated increases, but this was more than offset by indications from small farm flock producers that they planned sharp reduction.

Texas is the nation's leading state in turkey production. For the nation as a whole, the USDA said, there is an indicated increase of eight per cent in turkeys.

The sheriff's department Monday held for C. E. Luce, deputy U. S. marshal, William McKinley Nelson, an Indian, on a federal warrant charging he was a fugitive from justice in connection with a selective service. Bond of $1,000 returnable in the Eastern Oklahoma Federal district, at Muskogee, has been set, officials said.

Guest speaker at the luncheon of Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday in Hilton hotel was Maj. T. Bruce Craig, executive officer of the 39th Battalion, Texas State guard, who told of the organization and duties of the guard. He was introduced by J. C. Hughes. Guard equipment was displayed and its uses were explained by 1st Lt. Joseph E. Pattillo and 1st Sgt. Elmon Terrell. Ralph Bumpass was introduced as a new member. President Cliff Cummings presided.

It was announced Monday morning that Walter R. Allen, associated with the legal enforcement division of district Office of Price administration here the last year, has become a member of the law firm of Cunningham, Boling and Allen. He lives at 1420 Ave. M, with two sons, James, 16, and Nelson, 13. Another son, Cpl. Jack H. Allen, is a B-29 engine specialist stationed at Oklahoma City's Tinker field. Allen formerly practiced law at Amarillo and Perryton. Lt. S. P. Boling is trail judge advocate at Randolph field, Texas.

End Of War In Europe To Mark Beginning Of Readjustment Period

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19. (AP) — Ending of the war in Europe will mark the start of a readjustment period that "will finally lead us back into civilian economy," predicts Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland economist.

This will be true, the Cleveland Trust Co. vice president wrote in the bank's monthly business bulletin, "despite the fact that we shall still have another great war to carry through to victory."

Movement of troops from Europe to the Orient probably will be started soon after Germany falls, Ayres said, but stocks of reserve ammunition and supplies likely will not be moved with them.

"This may save time and shipping, . . . have the effect of keeping our munitions industries operating at full capacity . . . (and) it will enable the armed services to retain for an extended time their controls over civilian industry," the retired officer asserted.

Temporary abandonment of military stores in Europe, said Ayres, "is equivalent to a huge increase in our export trade financed with our funds . . . without involving any corresponding expansion in the volume of our imports."

The economist reported industrial production was 29.6 per cent above normal peacetime levels last December, the lowest point of 1944, and lowest since the summer of 1941. Decreases in production were reported for nearly every month of the year.

Work Shop Training Program For School Lunch Groups Slated

A work shop training program for school lunch room personnel will be conducted at the New Deal school on Saturday March 7, beginning at 9:30 a. m. and lasting until 2 p. m.

This program is being sponsored by the Lubbock county board of education, and is a result of requests from school administrators for assistance in training lunch room workers. The State Department of Education and the War Food administration have worked out plans for the work shop training program to be conducted on a county wide basis.

Due to the splendid results already obtained and the interest shown in making the school lunch and integral part of the school plans, Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent, has selected Lubbock county as one of the eight counties in the state in which the programs will be held in the near future.

A meeting was held Feb. 17 in the office of Roy Boyd, county superintendent of schools, for the purpose of planning the training program. Attending the meeting were Miss Helen Edwards, assistant county home demonstration agent; Miss Esther Sorenson, area supervisor of homemaking education; Mrs. Pearle Parramore, homemaking teacher, Roosevelt High school; John L. Hunt, superintendent of Idalou schools; and Miss Rhita Jean Sullivan, district school lunch representative with the War Food administration.

Nicholson Rites Are Set Today

BROWNFIELD, Feb. 19. (Special) — Funeral services for L. Nicholson, 43, prominent civic leader and business man who was fatally injured Sunday afternoon when his plane crashed a mile north of the Brownfield airport, will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist church.

Services will be read by the pastor, Rev. R. N. Huckabee, and burial will be at Terrell, Brownfield Funeral home announced.

Nicholson died about 1:30 o'clock Monday morning in a Brownfield hospital.

Three 15-year-old boys, Richard McDuffie, Robert Bowers and Jack Worsham, who were also in the plane, were not seriously injured.

A pilot at the airport, who saw the accident, said the plane, a Piper cub, went into a spin and nosed into a field. Nicholson's body was pinned in the wreckage. The plane, which was owned by Nicholson, did not burn but was twisted and torn up badly.

Taking Boys For Ride

Nicholson, who was owner of the Nicholson Insurance agency here, has had a private license for several months, friends said. He was taking the boys for a ride when the accident occurred.

Jack Worsham only received emergency treatment at the hospital and was released. The other two boys, who are in the hospital, suffered cuts and bruises and Bowers received a broken ankle.

Nicholson was a lieutenant in the State Guard and a past president of the Rotary club. He lived here about nine years.

Survivors are his wife and one son, David.

Lamesa Lions Club Holds An Informal Session In Italy

15TH AAF IN ITALY—There wasn't a quorum present, but the Lions Club of Lamesa, Texas, recently held an informal meeting on Italian soil when S/Sgt. Vernon D. Adcock of 512 South Third St., Lamesa, played host to Cpl. Donald (Bud) Speck, also of Lamesa, at his Liberator base.

Sgt. Adcock, who has served for more than a year in Italy with his heavy bomber group, contacted his old friend and brother Lion by mail and it wasn't long before a meeting was arranged.

Swapped News Of Home

"Speck was the first Lamesa man I've seen since coming overseas, so we had plenty to talk about," said Sgt. Adcock. "It was swell to see Adcock and swap news from home," said Cpl. Speck, who has served in Africa and Italy for the past 21 months.

Sgt. Adcock is a member of a veteran Liberator bombardment group which has flown more than 175 bombings against strategic enemy oil, rail and industrial centers throughout Europe, and at present is serving as assistant to the group investigating officer. Cpl. Speck's B-17 group holds a number of firsts for heavy groups one of which was the first shuttle-bombing mission to Russia, and is one of the oldest organizations in this theatre.

Former County Judge

A former county judge of Dawson county, Sgt. Adcock resigned his judgeship to enlist in the Army nearly three years ago. Cpl. Speck was employed by the Bryant-Link Co., of Lamesa prior to his entrance into the service.

Sgt. Adcock's wife and daughter reside at 512 South 3rd St., Lamesa, and Cpl. Speck's brother, Cecil Speck, is also a resident of Lamesa.

Mrs. Wright Fills In At Information Desk

Mrs. Neil Wright of 1634 Main will give information to families of men who are prisoners of war in the European theater during the absence of Mrs. George Young, prisoner of war committee chairman, it was announced by Mrs. J. H. Stiles, executive secretary of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. L. E. Boren of 1922 Twenty-fourth is serving in the same capacity to families of men interned in the Pacific theater camps. She may be contacted by calling 2-3255 and Mrs. Wright's telephone number is 9846.

Mrs. Wright's son, Lt. Neil Wright, jr., is a prisoner of war in Germany, and Mrs. Boren's son, Lt. Lemuel M. Boren, is interned in Burma.

She knows about wartime telephones

She's the service representative in the telephone office. She knows the wartime telephone situation—knows the government order covering telephone service—and knows it is fair.

Most important, she knows she is the personal representative of everyone who has a question about telephone service. In these days of equipment shortages, her biggest job is to give service where it can be given, and to explain to others why their service will have to wait its turn. Right now 200,000 people in the Southwest are waiting for service.

De Gaulle Turns Down Invitation From FDR, Complicates Situation

PARIS, Feb. 19 (U.P.)—Responsible quarters said today that Gen. Charles de Gaulle's rejection of an invitation to meet President Roosevelt made it doubtful that the President would visit France soon.

In November de Gaulle invited Mr. Roosevelt to pay a state visit to France.

Mr. Roosevelt invited de Gaulle to meet him somewhere outside France in the return trip from the Crimea conference to discuss French participation in the San Francisco conference and the military occupation of Germany.

Handled By Caffrey

The invitation was conveyed to Geaulle by Ambassador Jefferson Caffrey Tuesday. It was discussed at two stormy cabinet sessions Tuesday and Wednesday, and the refusal was transmitted through Caffrey.

It was understood that particular reason was given for declining beyond the assertion that the present juncture is not considered suitable for a meeting."

The U. S. embassy here all along maintained complete secrecy on the Roosevelt message and de Gaulle's refusal, which diplomats felt could be regarded only as a snub to the President, not calculated to benefit relations between France and the United States.

Caffrey visited de Gaulle twice Monday. The first time he handed de Gaulle the official statement from the Big Three. Later he handed de Gaulle an invitation to attend the San Francisco conference.

Third Trip Is Made

Tuesdary morning he paid a third visit to de Gaulle, carrying the message which had arrived overnight regarding the meeting. It was worded cordially, and was understood to have expressed regret that the President so far had been unable to accept the invitation to France. De Gaulle told Caffrey he would have to consult the cabinet.

The cabinet was reported divided, and de Gaulle was described by his associates as in one of his "difficult" moods. Finally the negative faction of the cabinet won.

The news finally leaked out from French sources.

Another Mexican Treaty Test Set

CORPUS CHRISTI, Feb. 19. (AP)—Twenty-six oil companies, among them some of the largest operators in Texas, were named defendants today in federal court here in a suit seeking to dispossess them of their present title to 108,000 acres of land in Nueces county.

The plaintiffs, all Mexican nationals, claim to be descendants and heirs at law of Pedro Ignacio Garcia, who obtained title to these tracts in 1811 as an absentee owner under terms of the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, which ended the Mexican war on Feb. 2, 1848.

Plaintiffs claim the rights of Mexicans who were not established in the ceded lands east of the Nueces river were inviolably protected despite the treaty.

Ask For Judgment

They assert that the tracts are in illegal possession of the present title holders, and ask for judgment for an undivided one-eighth of all the mineral estate in El Rancho Dietzmero and an accounting of all minerals taken by the defendants from these tracts.

The defendants include the Pure Oil company, Gulf Oil Corp., Sun Oil Co., Humble Oil and Refining Co., Shell Oil Co., the Texas Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co., Sinclair Prairie Oil Co., Cities Services Oil o.; Tide Water Associated Oil Co., Wellington Oil Co. of Delaware; Sew Oil Corp.; Mid Continental Oil Co., Arkansas Fuel Oil Co., Trinity Petroleum Co., Stanolind Oil and Gas Co., Transwestern Oil Co., Blanco Oil Co., Seaboard Oil Co., Atlantic Refinery Co., Renwar Oil Corp., Texas Conservative Oil Co., and Clark Wood Oil Co.

The action was the ninth and largest of a series of actions to test the provisions of the Guadalupe Hidalgo treaty against the statute of limitations.

Chinese Agree To Chiang As Roosevelt But Not As Hitler

CHUNGKING, Feb. 19. (AP) — China's Communists are ready to accept the supreme leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, but they "want him to be a Roosevelt, not a Hitler," Gen. Chou En-Lai, chief negotiator for the Communists, declared today.

He was explaining the Communist rejection of Chungking government proposals for a settlement of their long-standing differences.

Gen. Chou issued a written statement as he departed for Yenan with new government proposals after two weeks of negotiating here under the good offices of U. S. Ambassador Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley. He told newsmen he doubted whether his party would accept the new proposals any more readily than those rejected.

The Communist spokesman made clear that his people wanted a coalition government and a unified high command, and that they would not accept a compromise in the form of representation on any consultative body, as offered by Chungking.

"The one-party dictatorship must go," he said.

The commander of the American force in China, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedeweyer, said he hoped the government and the Communists would resolve their differences before the war was over.

Gen. Wedemeyer disclosed that every officer in the China theater was required to sign a statement that he understood the American command's policy of not giving assistance to anyone but the central government. "I am ordered to support the central government, which is recognized by my government," he explained.

The parents were notified the men were presumed to be dead.

The Gallup Poll Shows:

Americans Need To Learn More About Eating, Diets

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — Nutrition experts apparently have a long way to go in educating the American public about healthful daily diets.

This is shown by comparing the diets of a cross-section sample of the adult population during a 24-hour period with a list of essential foods recommanded by the Bureau of Home Economics, of the Department of Agriculture, and other nutrition experts.

GALLUP

What the comparison brings out is that a good many Americans every day are failing to meet the basic requirements of a healthful diet, as laid down by the food experts.

While during wartime it is particularly important to maintain a high level of national health, war food shortages, plus increased costs for certain foods, undoubtedly contribute considerably to individual diet deficiencies as revealed in this survey.

The comparison of what people in the survey said they had eaten during the preceding 24 hours with the essential health food list is as follows. The precentages indicate the proportion among the adult population who said they had none at all of the foods listed as necessary daily in each catagory during the period.

	How Adult Americans Live up to them
Recommended Daily Diets
Milk or milk Products	32% had none
Citrus Fruits, Tomatoes, or raw greens	46% had none
Green or Yellow Vegetables	23% had none
Other Vegetables or Fruits	9% had none
Meat, Fish, or Poultry	9% had none
Eggs	40% had none
Cereal or Bread	4% had none
Butter or other Fats	22% had none

A comparison of the present survey results with those obtained in a similar survey conducted during a comparable period in 1943 indicates that while over-all the picture is not encouraging, still there has been some improvement in individual daily diets.

Fewer people are going without milk or milk products considerably fewer without eggs, even fewer without meats, fish, or poultry than was the case in 1943. This may, of course, be due to the fact that rationing is working fairly well in spreading available products.

Moreover, the facts of rationing and shortages have probably induced housewives to be more carefully selective and to aim more consciously at balance in diets.

Income Differences

Some marked differences are apparent among persons in the different income groups. Those in the lower income groups are more inclined to go without citrus fruits, tomatoes, or raw greens, without yellow or green vegetables, without milk or milk products, without eggs and butter or other fats than are those in the higher income levels.

Percentage Lacking Food Requirements	Upper Income	Middle Income	Lower Income
Milk or Milk Products	26%	26%	36%
Citrus Fruits, Tomatoes, or raw greens	24	36	57
Green or Yellow Vegetables	15	17	28
Other Vegetables or Fruits	9	8	11
Meat, Fish or Poultry	6	7	11
Eggs	34	38	44
Cereal or Bread	3	4	4
Butter or Other Fats	13	17	27

WRIGLEY'S

CHEWING GUM MANUFACTURERS

We want to thank all the people here at home for the fine spirit of understanding shown us since we told you that, for as long as possible, all the very best gum we could make would go only to our Armed Forces and Merchant Sailors overseas and at sea.

With this in mind, and so that there can be no misunderstanding, we want you to know that we have now used up all our pre-war ingredients and that we have stopped making the well known trade-marked brands of Wrigley's Spearmint, Doublemint and "Juicy Fruit" even for the Armed Forces overseas.

There will be no more chewing gum of these three famous brands and flavors for anyone - until we can again make gum worthy of these three trade-marked labels, which have always been your guarantee of uniform, finest quality and flavor.

Until we can bring back Wrigley standard brands we are making a plain but honest Wartime chewing gum to help take care of both military and civilian needs. We are offering this gum to the public only on its own merit and for that reason it is not associated with any Wrigley standard brand but has its own brand name and flavors.

A NEW WORLD

A NUMBER of war correspondents and radio commentators who had escaped from the Philippines just before the Japs gained control, or, who were not so fortunate and served in internment camps before being repatriated, asked to be allowed to go in with MacArthur's troops when they liberated Manila. Their eye witness accounts of the freeing of prisoners of war and civilian internees were doubly interesting because they could compare today's picture with those heart breaking days of 1942.

Clark Lee was one of the writers who interviewed soldiers on Bataan before he hurriedly left just ahead of the invading Japs. Included in the ones he talked with was one Sgt. Joe Smith of Carlsbad, N. M., a member of the famous 200th Coast guardsmen who were to fight so gallantly and later to figure in news headlines again and again. When Joe was four and one-half years old he used to live across the street from us and played cops and robbers in our back yard and came through the house once in a while looking for his prey and grinning his crooked little smile.

Later the family moved to the sleepy New Mexico town and Joe grew up and when he got to be an old man of 18 he joined the National Guard and two years later was on his way to a venture that was to be more horrible than any fancy of the imagination. Joe was stationed near Clark field when the Nips came over that memorable day in December and he grabbed a gun and fired as long as he could find shells. First sergeant, he took the responsibility of his men very seriously and conducted himself with such valor Clark Lee interviewed him months later when Joe and his fighting comrades had moved to Bataan. Later he wrote about the Smith lad in his book, "They Call It Pacific."

When Lee and Joe said goobye, the older man told the younger one, "I'll be back." And so it was early this month when the Americans returned that Lee went looking for Joe Smith and sure enough he found him, at Bilibid prison, that ancient, filthy Spanish prison where the Japs had thrown so many soldiers and civilians. He didn't look like the bronzed, soldierly youth Lee had left almost three years ago but recognizition was instantaneous and according to a dispatch from Lee they almost kissed one another and Joe's first words were "Hey, where have you been. I've been waiting for you for three years?"

LEE said he looked at the gaunt young man who is now almost 24 years old. He was eating a bowl of rice and washing it down with mango tea; his weight is 130 pounds which is 30 less than it was during those dark May days of 1942 but he said that after the March of Death he contracted malaria and beri beri and finally wasted to 90 pounds and was placed in a cell of death by the Japs, but Joe told Lee he said to himself "I'm not going to die." And so today Joe is free once more and when he gains strength he'll come home to his happy parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Smith, and his little son, Ronnie, to whom Daddy is only a picture on the library table.

Joe Smith means a great deal to our family because his folks and ours have been friends for 15 years. And in temperament we think he is the typical American youth. What his thoughts were during those mireable months of confinement will likely never be told because he'll want to forget about it and besides he never was one to talk about himself. But think of the changes he will see since he left the United States!

Letters such as OWI, OPA and WMC will mean nothing to Sgt. Joe Smith.

He'll have to learn about rationing but that won't be necessary at first because we happen to know his parents and friends have been "saving" for his homecoming.

Why he won't know that FDR was elected again. The name "Dewey" may cause him to think of Manila. He won't know how the late Wendell Willkie endeared himself to so many by his clear thinking and broad visions.

He'll have to be told about "dim outs" and "brown outs" and war workers and production lines. And the war in Europe for a while may seem to be something in a history book, although he'll soon find it real because his brother, William, is fighting in Belgium.

And already he has learned that his brother-in-law, who had a job considered essential, came home from the potash mines the day Bataan fell and enlisted, vowing he'd not be happy until he went with the push that freed Joe. Today that brother-in-law is in Saipan.

SONGS like "Don't Fence Me In" may cause him to cringe as he notes the pallor which shows through his sun-burned face and we imagine he'll like the score from "Oklahoma" as he hears it the first time as much as we did.

He'll be surprised to see that women are in the service we imagine but he'll not be surprised to see that women civilians still are wearing those zany hats.

And just think, he won't even know who Frank Sinatra is!

Jane A. Brownfield Marries At Church

A single ring wedding ceremony was read for Miss Jane Alice Brownfield of Albuquerque, N. M., daughter of Alva Dee Brownfield of Deming, N. M., and Wickliffe Skinner, jr., of Albuquerque, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wickliffe Skinner of Abilene, Friday evening at 6 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal church in Albuquerque. The Very Rev. Douglas Mathews officiated.

Two candelabra lighted the altar which was decked with spring blossoms and flanked with palms.

Miss Thelma Mock played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Guy L. Rogers of Hobbs, N. M., aunt of the bride, who sang "Because" and "At Dawning."

Wanton Slayings Charged To Japs

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Feb. 18. (Delayed)—The wanton slaying of at least 60 priests and women and children refugees in De LaSalle college in Manila's Malate district by Japanese soldiers was revealed today with recovery of the mutilated remains.

Of 70 persons caught in the college only eight survived, said one of them, the Rev. Francis J. Cosgrave, 47, a Redemptorist father of Sydney, Australia.

Fills In Details

Father Cosgrave, recovering from two bayonet wounds in Santo Tomas hospital, filled in details of the terrible afternoon last Monday.

One Japanese officer and 50 enlisted men shot and bayoneted the American, Filipino, German, Irish and Spanish religious brothers and Filipino refugees.

The bodies, serving as mute and ghastly evidence, were discovered today when the United States 148th Infantry regiment captured the college area.

Father Cosgrave said the Japanese garrison had remained in one wing of the college, while permitting the priests and refugees to occupy another.

Storm Priests' Room

Monday, another tense day on the fringe of the battle area, the Japanese stormed into the priests' room, Father Cosgrave reported. He said the religious group and refugees were just finishing a simple lunch.

The officer screamed something, then fired pointblank with a pistol. Then the Japanese soldiers charged into the sobbing terrified throng of victims, firing guns and slashing right and left with their bayonets.

Postal Revenues Exceed Expenses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP) — Postal revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30 will exceed expenditures by $117,643,897, the House appropriations committee reported today.

The surplus revenue, the committee said in recommending 1946 appropriations for the Postoffice and Treasury departments, was "brought about by the abnormal amount of mail incident to wartime civilian activity as well as mailing to members of the armed forces."

Overtime Not Included

Postal revenues for 1944 exceeded expenditures by $37,768,028 estimates for 1946 indicate a possible revenue surplus of as much as $265,214,280, the committee said.

The 1946 estimate, however, does not take into consideration overtime pay for postal employes which amounts to approximately $110,000,000 annually. The overtime pay act expires June 30, and is expected to be reenacted.

Smaller Fund Recommended

For operation of the Postoffice department for the year beginning July 1, the committee recommends $1,342,813,090, which is $59,873,729 less than the current year's appropriation.

Direct appropriations recommended for the treasury department totaled $285763,800, which is $4,688,479 less than that authorized for the current year.

In addition, the Treasury bill carries "indefinite appropriations" totaling $1,656,925,000 more than was set aside for that purpose this year.

Also in the 1946 appropriation recommendation is $6,1653,333,073 for permanent appropriations, including $4,500,000,000 for interest on the public debt.

For fiscal 1945 the amount appropriated for interest on the national debt was $3,750,000,000. Explaining its recommended increase of $750,000,000, the committee report said that on June 30, 1944, the debt was $201,000,000,000, and that President Roosevelt predicted it would rise to $292,000,000,000 by June 30, 1946. This was based on predictions that the government would borrow $51,000,000,000 in 1945 and approximately $40,000,000,000 in 1946.

Fourth Surplus In Row

The Postoffice's 1946, the fourth in succession, may vary for $55,600,000 to approximately $265,000,000. Its size will depend on whether Congress reenacts overtime pay legislation and whether people keep increasing their use of the mails at the present rate.

The larger surplus figure would be more than the entire departmental appropriation of 1912, which was $248,525,450. Estimated total revenue for 1946 is $1,330,750,000 against estimated expenses of $1,065,535,720 to $1,275,150,000.

In the Johnstown flood of 1889 about 2300 persons lost their lives.

Stalin Does About-Face On Some Of His Post-War Germany Views

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Crimea conference report shows that Marshal Josef V. Stalin has changed his mind considerably about postwar treatment of Germany.

This about-face and its causes raised a dust of dispute among some of President Roosevelt's left wing supporters.

On Nov. 6, 1942 in an order of the day, Stalin said this:

"It is not our aim to destroy all military force in Germany, for every literate person will understand that this is not only impossible in regard to Germany, but it is also inadvisable from the point of view of the future."

Latest Decision

Last week in the Crimea conference report, Stalin joined with Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to say this:

"We are determined to disarm all German armed forces; break up for all time the German general staff; remove and destroy all German military equipment."

During the interval between the 1942 order of the day and the 1945 conference report, two Moscow developments caused some uneasiness here. One was the creation in July, 1943, of a national committee of Free Germany. The other was the affiliation of the Russian-sponsored Union of German Officers with that committee.

The free Germany committee issued a manifesto. It was addressed to peasants, craftsmen and "to those forces in the army that are loyal to the country." Industrialists, Junkers, landowners, financiers, and collaborationists were excluded from the manifesto invitation to overthrow Hitler and obtain easier terms from Russia.

Appeals To Surrender

Meantime, the Union of German Officers composed of war prisoners and headed by Field Marshal Friederich von Paulus was broadcasting appeals to the German Army to give up. They were based largely upon Stalin's 1942 assurance that Russia did not intend to destroy all military force in Germany.

The foregoing conditions caused considerable apprehension in Allied capitals. Officials did not know just what they meant nor how far the Soviet Union might go in seeking to make the Free Germany committee the nucleus of a Communist-inclined government for defeated Germany.

Somewhat Relieved

These fears were substantially relieved by the Moscow conference of foreign ministers which preceded the Stalin-Churchill-Roosevelt conference at Tehran. But it was not until the Crimean conference report was published that Stalin publicly withdrew any grounds the German Army might have for hope of survival.

The New Deal newspaper PM cited the foregoing facts and said the reversal of position by Stalin was "one of the great accomplishments of the Crimea conference." PM concluded that the officers union and the Free Germany committee now were dead ducks.

The Communist newspaper, Daily Worker, equally committed to support Mr. Roosevelt, promptly denounced PM for implying that Moscow's sponsorship of the union and the committee had any significance at all.

Dispatch From Moscow

While this dispute among the President's left wing supporters was bubbling up, the Moscow censor passed a United Press dispatch saying there was no prospect that the Free Germany committee would be given any responsibility in forming a postwar Germany government.

The Crimea conference report already had settled that question. It provided that representatives of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union would take over control of Germany when she is licked and that her future administration would be worked out from then on.

It was announced Monday by his physician that A. B. Davis, manager of Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, was admitted to West Texas hospital at mid-afternoon Sunday, after a slight heart disturbance induced by a respiratory infection and coupled with low blood pressure. Davis will be in the hospital "about four or five days," during which time his physician has ordered complete rest, no disturbance and no company. Improvement in Davis' condition was noted Monday morning and the doctor says his illness can be corrected with proper rest. In recent months, heavy duties of his office have not benefitted his health. Davis and his family reside at 1724 Main. He has been chamber of commerce manager her since March 10, 1924.

A story on George F. Peterson's toy "assembly line" on Ave. H, which was carried in the Avalanche-Journal publications last December, was published recently in "Statewide," published in Assam, India. Peterson received a clipping from Capt. John Foltik. The story recounted that Peterson, shunted out of the hotel business in the Sundown section when gasoline rationing cut his business drastically, worked in the shipyards and finally obtained a franchise from a friend to manufacture "walking duck" toys and came here to set up a toy factory that almost instantly became a success.

Mahon To Make Survey For House On Army Fund Needs

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. — It has fallen the lot of West Texas Congressman George Mahon of Colorado City to help check up on how much money the army needs to keep the war going.

Of course tens of thousands of civilian clerks, non-coms and lower ranking officers will add all the little figures into big figures and pass them on to the generals. The generals in turn will personally come to Capitol Hill and lay them before Congress.

That's where the tall and slender, unassuming Texas representative enters the picture. He is on the House Appropriations subcommittee which passes on all bills raising money for the War department. What the subcommittee decides is seldom questioned by the full committee, and the recommendation of the full committee, which accompanies introduction of legislation, is almost invariably accepted by the House.

Some time in May, General George Marshall and several subordinate generals will appear before the House Military Appropriations subcommittee asking for the biggest appropriation of the year, about 40 billions of dollars.

There will be a breakdown, showing the cost of various types of planes and the number of each needed. The committee meet in closed session and some of the data is highly secret. Officers in charge of munitions will show how much money is needed to turn out so many shells. Air transport command officers may ask for so many cargo sersions of B-29s, the medical corps needs supplies, uniforms and foods have to be bought, and so on.

"It is our duty to look into the jurisdiction for the requests for funds," commented Mahon. "If we were to blindly rubber stamp everything there would be no reason for our passing on legislation."

In order that he can better visualize how the money is being spent and better estimate how much will be needed to carry on the varied activities and operations of the Army, Mahon plans to make a series of inspection trips between now and May. He probably will go to numerous places in this country and possibly to the battle-fronts.

Because he is the youngest of the top-ranking members of the subcommittee—he is 44—Mahon has been requested by Chairman Snyder (D-Pa) to make the inspections on behalf of the group.

One of the most serious and conscientious members of the House, Mahon won't agree that the proposed trips come under the heading of junkets, if you're inclined to think that. The committee feels that it, as the only group which can question the every desire of the War department for taxpayers' dollars, should have some first-hand knowledge of the way the money is being spent, he says.

When the huge appropriation bill comes on the floor, and members of the House rise to question the lump-sum items, it will be Mahon's responsibility largely to supply the answers. Many members feel that unless some watch is made over all government agencies, including the Army, there may be a reckless waste of funds, or more spending than there otherwise would be.

Entire Family Killed In Crossing Accident

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 19 (AP) — Services will be held tomorrow afternoon near their former home in Wilson county for the six members of the Jesus Gonzales family, killed here Saturday when the car in which they were riding was struck by a train at a railroad crossing.

The entire family met death in the crash, including Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Gonzales and their four children, Maria, 8; Santos, 5; Isabel, 8, and Anita, 11 months.

FORMER MINISTER DIES

DALLAS, Feb. 19. (AP)—Arthur H. Geissler, 67, of Oklahoma City, U. S. minister to Guatemala from 1922 to 1930, died in a hospital here Saturday following an illness of several weeks. His wife, the former Mrs. Julia Henderson Adams, who relatives said was a granddaughter of J. Pinchkney, former Texas governor, died in Guatemala in 1925.

Jackie Driver Is Beaten In Finals

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Before a crowd of 1,200 Gilbert Areche, 111, of San Antonio won the flyweight championship of the Texas Golden Gloves as the big fight show entered its final rounds.

Areche decisioned Jackie Driver, 112, of Tahoka, who had taken out the defending champion, Shirley Gaudet of Beaumont, in the semi-finals. The first two rounds were fairly even but Areche won the final by a wide margin. He had Driver's nose bleeding at the finish.

Hector Marquez, 116, of El Paso, knocked out Pvt. Jack Shumake, 119, of Camp Hood, in the second round to win the bantamweight championship.

Marquez had Shumake on the floor for a count of nine before he sent a right to the body that kept the Camp Hood fighter down for good. Marquez had started off by taking the first round without trouble.

Frye Wins Title

Donald Frye, 127, of Houston, won the featherweight championship by taking a three-round decision from Alec Gonzales, 123, of Dallas.

Frye had Gonzales down for a count of four in the first round but lost the second to Gonzales' long-range hitting. In the third Frye staggered Gonzales with a hard right to the head and consistently outboxed him.

Frye is only 16 years old and is a student at Milby (Houston) High school.

Blankenship Wins

J. W. Blankenship, 136, of Beaumont, knocked out Cpl. Leroy Carlson, 134, of Fort Bliss, in a minute and forty seconds of the first round to win the lightweight championship.

Blankenship had Carlson on the floor for a count of three then put him down for good with a terrific left to the head.

Gilbert Barcia, 148, of Houston, clearly outboxed and outslugged Pfc. Albert Bodish, 145, of Amarillo Army Air field, to win the welterweight championship.

Garcia had the hard-hitting Bodish down for a nine count and otherwise in trouble throughout the third round.

Fight Results

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 19 (AP)—Semi-final results in the Texas Golden Gloves tournament:

Flyweights

Jackie Driver, 112, Tahoka, decisioned the defending champion, Shirley Gaudet, 112, Beaumont, in three rounds; Gilbert Areche, 111, San Antonio, won the unanimous decision over Buddy Barrett, 109, Dallas, in three rounds.

Bantamweights

Pvt. Jack Shumake, 119, Camp Hood, decisioned Joe Garcia, 120, Houston, in three rounds; Hector Marquez, 116, El Paso, won over Sgt. Al Gebron, 119, Amarillo Army Air field, in three rounds.

Featherweights

Alec Gonzales, 123, Dallas, decisioned Pfc. Jack Osteen, 121, Amarillo Army Air field, in three rounds; Donald Frye, 127, Houston, defeated Lloyd Dedman, 125, Marlin in three rounds.

Lightweights

Cpl. Leroy Carlson, 134, Fort Bliss, widely decisioned Pfc. Charles William Arnett, 132, Camp Barkeley, in three rounds; J. W. Blankenship, 136, Beaumont, won a three-round decision over Guy Davis, 133, Houston.

Welterweights

Pfc. Albert Bodish, 145, Amarillo Army Air field, decisioned Pvt. Colbert Bassett, 147, Camp Wolters, in three rounds; Gilbert Garcia, 148, Houston, took a three-round decision over Pfc. Tony Larocca, 144, Alamosorda, N. M., Army Air field.

Middleweights

Pfc. Billy Grombacher, 151, Camp Swift, decisioned Stanley Reitzner, 157, Corpus Christi Naval Air station, in three rounds; Pvt. Jim McGrath, 152, Bryan Army Air field, won a three-round decision over Pfc. John Imbrenda, 150, Camp Howze.

Lightheavyweights

Cpl. Tom Altra, 173, Brooks Field, knocked out Bill McCoy, 168, Freeport, in the first round; Cpl. Billy Heikkila, 172, won by a technical knockout over Pvt. Junior Prowell, 172, Biggs Field, in the third round.

Heavyweights

Pvt. Darrell Burmeister, 200, Camp Howze, won a three-round decision over Pfc. Fred Kaczynski, 183, Laredo Army Air field; Cpl. Gene Gosney, 195, Camp Hood, won over Luther Haak by a technical knockout in the third round.

Frick In Washington For Important Talks

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National League, arrived in Washington today to get a definite commitment from War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes on baseball's status, it was learned from a highly authoritative baseball source tonight.

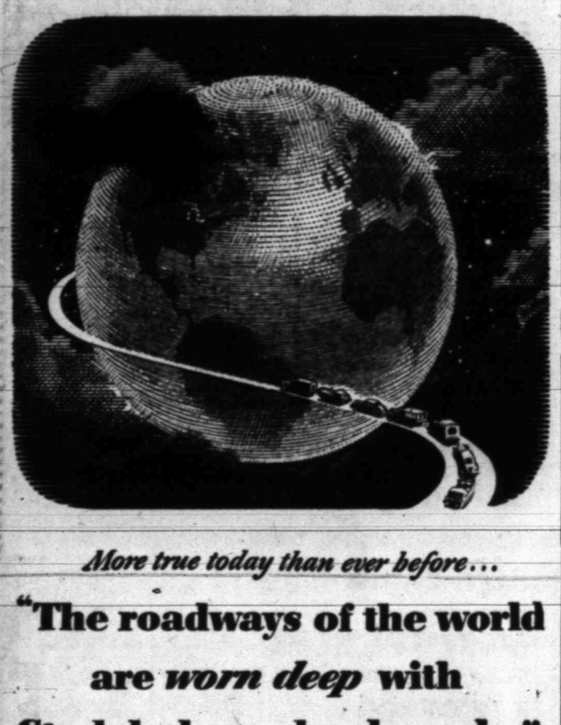

"Frick has gone to Washington armed with a list of the majors' personnel, consisting mostly of 4-F's, dischargees, overage and underage players," said the informant who asked that his name not be mentioned.

"As we have said many times before, we don't want to use a single man who is needed by the armed forces or by essential industry. However, we'd like to keep the men who are not needed. All we ask is no discrimination."

"I believe Frick's principal point will be 'either leave us enough men to play baseball or tell us to stop. You can't expect us to play without players.'"

FOR MEN ONLY

Scientists have now found that men who are run down, and no longer have the ability to enjoy life as they once did, may be suffering from a deficiency of certain essential vitamins and hormones. Middle-aged men especially may be the victims of this embarrassing condition. "The roadways of the world are worn deep with Studebaker wheel marks"

ON the war fronts from France to Russia, and from Italy to India and the Pacific islands, over 165,000 military vehicles built by Studebaker have been writing new pages of transport history.

Scores upon scores of thousands of heavy-duty Studebaker military trucks have recently been supplemented by steadily increasing quantities of Weasel personnel and cargo carriers, designed by Studebaker engineers and powered by the famous Studebaker Champion engine.

Studebaker is now one of the largest truck manufacturers in the world—and over 55,000 Wright Cyclone engines for the Boeing Flying Fortress have also been built by Studebaker.

In addition to all this war production activity, Studebaker cars and trucks in civilian service continue to impress the world with their remarkable stamina and exceptional operating economy.

Pampa Evens Up Series, 38-29

PAMPA, Feb. 19 (Special)—Pampa's hustling Harvesters evened up the playoff series for the north half championship in District 1-AA by taking the second game here tonight, whipping Amarillo's towering Sandies, 38-29.

Amarillo won the opener at Amarillo last Saturday night. The north half title will be determined here Tuesday night in the third game of the series. The winner will then tangle with Plainview's mighty Bulldogs for the district flag.

Johnny Campbell, fireball performer for the Harvesters, played one of his greatest games of the season here tonight, and played a game that Pampa fans will long remember. Campbell will report for duty in the Navy on Thursday, and will likely see no action in the Plainview series, should Pampa get into that round of play.

Campbell scored 15 points for the winners, but was nosed out by one point by Leroy Foster of Amarillo for scoring honors, and played a great floor game. Many times his masterful ball handling broke up plays for the Sandies and turned them into Pampa points.

Amarillo gained the lead in the ball game for a brief moment in the second period, leading 12-9, but Pampa gained the lead again, and reached the halftime with only an 18-16 advantage over the hustling Amarillo five.

But Campbell got hot in the third period, and the Pampa club moved out to a 31-22 lead in the third period, and coasted in with the victory that evened the series.

Playoff Starts For District 2AA Title

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 19—(Special)—The Burkburnett Bulldogs and Childress Bobcats open the playoff for the District 2-AA cage championship Tuesday night at Burkburnett. The playoff for the District 2-AA cage championship Tuesday night at Burkburnett. The playoff will be for the best two out of three game series.

Burkburnett won the eastern half, and Childress the western half of the district in a six game round-robin, each winning five and losing one.

The second game will be played at Childress Thursday night, and if a fourth is necessary, it will be at Childress Friday night. Childress is defending district champion.

The winner of the playoff will meet the winner of District 1-AA in the bi-district round, with the winner of bi-district play entering the state tournament at Austin March 8, 9 and 10.

Southwest Cage Race To Close This Week

Basketball competition winds up in the Southwest Conference this week with games Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights involving Arkansas, Texas Christian, Texas A. and M. and Baylor.

It promised to be a lackadaisical round of play, since the conference crown is firmly in the hands of Rice Institute and Arkansas has almost-sure possession of the runnerup slot.

The towering Razorbacks of Arkansas university meet with sixth-place Texas A. and M. in a two-game series at Fayetteville Friday and Saturday night. One victory will clinch second place for Arkansas.

Baylor university, at the bottom of the conference standings, entertains Texas Christian at Waco Wednesday night. The cage Frogs rank fourth behind Southern Methodist.

Levelland Five Nips Cooper Club, 50-29

LEVELLAND, Feb. 19. (Special)—The Levelland Lobos tuned up their high scoring cage machine for this week's district playoff tournament, and romped to a 50-29 victory over Cooper, Class B champions from Lubbock county.

The Cooper five showed the effects of a long, hard season last Saturday night, and were never able to get started. Henderson and Johnson paced the visitors with nine and eight points, respectively.

Clairdy poured in 14 points and Garrison hit the hoop for ten to lead Levelland. The Lobos led 32-14 at the halftime intermission.

Levelland made it a clean sweep by winning the B game, 37-20. The Lobos led 21-14 at the half. Royce Peterson scored 14 points to lead the winners while Pierce paced the losers with eight points.

Red Raiders Cop 52-40 Win Over Hardin-Simmons Five

ABILENE, Feb. 19. (Special).—Texas Tech's Red Raiders handed the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, a 52-40 defeat at the HSU corral here last night in the first of the two game series.

Paced by Don Grove, rangy center, who hit the hoops for 14 points the taller Raiders grabbed an early lead and held on to it. Tech had piled up a 29-18 lead at the halftime intermission.

Accuracy at the free pitch line paid off for the Lubbock boys as the tempo picked up. But the Raiders rimmed only one more field goal than the Cowboys, 19-18, but they dropped in 14 of their 18 free throw attempts. The Cowboys made only four of their gratis baskets.

Jiggs Jackson and Gene Hardey backed up the sharpshooting Grove, and tied for runnerup scoring honors, each poking in 11 points, to tie with Sorrell, who paced the Cowboys. Wright and Baker followed Sorrell for the home club, with nine and eight points, respectively.

T Club Honors Star Athletes Of Tahoka

TAHOKA, Feb. 19. (Special)—The Tahoka T club honored the athletes of Tahoka High school here tonight with a banquet attended by 100 persons at the Tahoka High school gym. Supt. W. T. Hanes gave the principal address.

The team members elected football captains for the past season, basketball captains for the present season, and a captain of the boxing team.

Cecil Dorman, lineman, and LaVaughn Caraway, back, were named leaders of the football team. A three-way tie resulted in the voting for a basketball captain, and named Cecil Dorman, Nolan Jones and W. T. Hines. Jackie Driver, who went to the finals in the state Golden Glove meet in Fort Worth today, was named captain of the boxing team.

Two special awards were made at the banquet, presenting a T blanket to W. T. Hanes, who will leave the school at the end of this term to move to Cameron, and Dr. Jim Sinclair, team physician.

Seventeen lettermen were named for the football team, and were: Buddy Bragg, Nolan Jones, Jerry Edwards, Lowell Busby, Irvin Lehman, A. L. Hodge, H. L. McMillan, Bill Ramsey, Cecil Dorman, W. T. Hines, Layne Jones, James Tippett, Jim Ed Poer, Charles Dollins, Leslie McNeely, LaVaughn Caraway and Wayne Miller.

The awards will be sent to Caraway and Miller, both of whom have gone into the service since the close of football season.

Cage Independents To Clash At Idalou Gym

Two of the fastest independent basketball teams on the South Plains clash Wednesday night on the Idalou gym when the Groce Furniture five from Lubbock move into Idalou for their second meeting with the Idalou Outsiders.

The Furnituremen hold a one point victory over the Idalou, and will be favored when play starts at 8 o'clock.

The starting lineup for the Lubbock club will find Lonnie Balch and Bobby Downey at forwards, Pat Fulton at center, and Doug Galey and Bob Galey at Guards.

Junior Trackmen At Work Under Barrett

Junior High school track hopefuls, with their aim set on the annual junior track and field carnival in Lubbock, have been busy at work under the guiding hand of Coach Curtis Barrett, and many have been showing lots of promise.

Barrett reported that 47 boys have been working out daily, and with the close of the junior basketball tournament this weekend at the Lubbock High school gym, about 75 more are expected to turn out next week.

After the juniors are out in full force, the squad will be divided into two units with a coach over each unit. Coach Russell Wimberley will very likely take over the second squad.

The track squads in Junior High have three divisions, made up of the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. The seventh grade group runs only the 50, 100, 440 yard relay, broad jump, high jump and chinning.

The two upper grades run the 50, 100, 160, 440 and 880 yard dashes, 440 and 880 yard relays, shot put, discus, broad jump, high jump, pole valut and 110 yard low hurdles.

Among the boys showing up well in the early workouts are a pair of ninth grade pole vaulters, Lester York and Charles Maynard. Clayton Ross, Bruce Patton and Charley Williams have been heaving the discus around 100 feet. In the high jump, the best prospects to date have been Ray Chappelle, Armstead Smith, Alivs and Lester York. Charley Williams, with jumps of 17 feet, has been setting the pace in the broad jump.

In the races, the fastest man to show up to date has been Charley Williams, a seventh grader, and with a little improvement on his start, he should be able to hold his own with any of the older boys.

Peter Quinlan and Charles Maynard have been setting the pace in the hurdles, with Quinlan turning in the best time in the half mile with a time of 2 minutes, 31.3 seconds.

The annual junior high track carnival will probably be held sometime in April.

Regional Cage Meet Awarded Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 19. (Special)—Class A basketball will move into the Plainview High school gym on the week-end of March 2-3 for the Region One playoff, it was announced today by Supt. H. P. Clemons of Lockney, chairman of the regional committee.

The tournament will bring together winners of Districts 1-A, 2-A, 3-A and 4-A.

Friona High school has won the district title in District 1-A, and thus far is the only team named to the regional meet here. The race in District 2-A ended in a three-way tie, and the playoff started with Phillips and White Deer meeting tonight, and the winner to play Canadian Tuesday night for the crown.

The playoff started tonight in District 3-A, with Lockney Longhorns winning the opening game over the Matador Bullfighters. Lockney won the round-robin playoff, and Matador won the district tournament. The winner of the playoff will play here.

The champion in District 4-A will be determined this week in a tournament at Levelland, where Levelland and Sudan, winners in the north half round-robin, and O'Donnell and Slaton, winners in the south half tournament, meet in a double elimination playoff.

Drawings Made For Levelland Tourney

LEVELLAND, Feb. 19. (Special)—Pairings were announced here today for the opening round of the double elimination tournament scheduled for the Levelland High school gym to determine the District 4-A representative in the regional meet at Plainview March 2-3.

Levelland will open with Slaton, followed by O'Donnell and Sudan, starting Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Play will be resumed Friday morning at 11 o'clock for two more games, and an afternoon session will start at 3:30 o'clock, with the finals scheduled for 8:30 o'clock Friday night.

LEVEY TO MANAGE

DALLAS, Feb. 19. (AP)—Jimmy Levey, former Texas league shortstop, will manage the Jamestown, N. Y., club in the Class D Pony League next season, it was announced here today. He will be a playing-manager.

Sam Snead Cops Gulfport Title

GULFPORT, Miss., Feb. 19. (AP)—Samuel Jackson Snead of Hot Springs, Va., won the Gulfport $5,000 Open golf championship today by one stroke after a 19-hole gruelling playoff against Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio.

Snead's victory here pulled him even with Nelson in the PGA winter series, each having four championships, although Snead has played in two tournaments less than Nelson.

Sammy appeared determined to outlast his rival today after Snead missed a short putt yesterday on the 18th hole that would have given him the Gulfport championship at the end of the 72-hole tournament.

The Virginian also barely missed ending the play at the end of today's scheduled 18-hole playoff when his five-foot putt parked on the lip of the cup. He bogeyed on the par-4 hole while Nelson was getting even par to deadlock the score at 71-71. The competition then went into an extra stanza.

Nelson drove off first on the 19th hole. His ball stopped in the soggy grass at the edge of a ditch. His second try hit the opposite bank of the ditch and he dropped out of the ditch to lose one stroke. He was on the green on his fourth shot, and sank a 30-foot putt for a bagey 5.

Snead was within 15 feet of the cup on his second shot and when he putted to within one-foot of the pin, Nelson walked over and clasped the hand of the stocky Virginian, conceding the championship.

Lockney Longhorns Win Series Opener

LOCKNEY, Feb. 19. (Special)—The Lockney Longhorns won the opening game of the playoff for the District 3-A title here tonight, winning a 57-37 victory over the Matador Bullfighters.

The playoff will move to Matador Wednesday night for the second game. The winner will enter the regional meet at Plainview March 2-3 to determine who will represent Northwest Texas at the state tournament in Austin.

Willette, great Matador star, staged a great battle here tonight, and poured 21 points into the basket to try to keep the Matador club in the race, but was unable to match the high scoring Lockney machine. Don Meyers paced the Longhorn stampede with 17 points.

Pep Wins Over Phil Terranova In Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—Using his longer reach to good advantage Willie Pep, of Hartford, Conn., retained his featherweight boxing championship tonight by easily outpointing Challenger Phil Terranova, of New York, in a 15-round bout at Midson Square Garden.

Not Austin's Business!

Let Parents Rear Own Children

REP. ARTHUR CATO, of Weatherford is chief proponent of a so-called "child labor bill" soon to be considered by the Texas legislature. Like others of its kind, the bill is supposed to protect young workers from sweatshops and kindred mistreatment. Actually, if passed, it will serve to set up the state, rather than the parent, as the judge of whether or not a boy under 16 or a girl under 18 may do full time, or part time, work.

The Cato bill lumps all boys and girls together, taking no cognizance of the difference in individuals, or in possible differences in family status. In effect, it tells the mothers and fathers of Texas — who, after all, are responsible for their children and who largely prefer to meet those responsibilities — just what their youngsters can and cannot do in the way of accepting employment.

Furthermore, the eminent statesman from Weatherford overlooks the fact that there still are left around and about some Texans who believe decent work to a reasonable extent is good for growing boys and for some growing girls. Some parents—and we hope they are in the majority—cling to the oldfashioned idea that a boy or girl who learns the value of a dollar while still young in years will find that knowledge beneficial throughout adult life. More intelligent parents, at any rate, will prefer to have some sort of say themselves about whether or not their nearly grown children may work and, if so, how, when and where. We do not know of a single parent who wants Representative Cato, or all the legislators in Austin, to decide the matter for them.

Mr. Cato admits, in his own arguments, that now is no time for such a bill to become a law. He realizes it has no chance of passage — should have no chance of passage—these days when there is more work of all kinds to be done than there are people to do it. So he proposes that his law — if it becomes such — shall not take effect until six months after the war is won, or, if the governor so decides, at a sooner date.

Apparently Mr. Cato is under the apprehension that there won't be any legislature, or legislators, after the war is won. It doesn't occur to him that neither he nor anyone else knows what sort of conditions will be prevailing six months after victory and that to try to solve future problems now — with no knowledge of what those problems may be — doesn't make sense. Instead, he wants to build a house today for occupancy next month, or next year—or even five years from now — without knowing what size he's going to need, or what sort of foundation will be most desirable.

Texans who have a desire to look after the individual needs of their own children will do well to pass along hints to their legislators in this regard. They will be safeguarding their own interests, and those of their children, as well, by letting the gentlemen in Austin know, right now, that they need no extracurricular help from Mr. Cato and those who may support his idea for reasons best known to themselves.

Certainly, the gentlemen of the legislature haven't finished all the jobs which properly come under their supervision, hence needn't be taking on more burdens not properly theirs to bear.

A Good Choice Of Words

READING a tract from the Congress of Industrial Organizations outlining the CIO's opposition to a national labor draft, we were struck by a quotation quite unusual in its wording. The quotation was from a statement by Philip Murray, CIO president, and began :

"We urge the Congress to . . ."

Note the use of that word, "urge." It's u-r-g-e, urge—not "demand," which too frequently of late has been bobbing up in statements directed at government officials by labor and other pressure groups.

For our part, we think Mr. Murray made a good choice of words in his statement. We think "urge" will strike the individual members of Congress much better than "demand." We believe it will "set better" with the public. After all, only the majority of the citizens in any political division or sub-division have the right to "demand" action on the part of public officials. All individuals or minority groups con do is "urge," or "ask" — and that's the way it must always be in a democracy.

Perhaps Mr. Murray, like many another American, has noticed the over-working of "demand," and personally took care to avoid its repitition, Perhaps, too, he remembered there is much truth in the old adage that "you can catch more flies with molasses than you can with vinegar."

Anyhow, he furthered his cause with both Congress and the public in his selection of the proper word .

A GEORGIA TOWN IN 1807

II

THE name of Major Earle's wife was Katherine, but no one ever used it in addressing her or in talking about her. To her friends and relatives she was Kitty, and those who did not know her so well called her Mrs. Earle in a most respectful tone.

If she were living now, in our time, there is no doubt that she would be looked upon by her acquaintances as a mild, colorless person, without ideas or outstanding traits. Moreover, she would be considered almost incredibly ignorant. But in 1807 women were not judged by the standards of today. A lady was not expected to have a flock of notions fluttering around inside her head, or to be able to discuss the differences between the Federalists and the Republicans, or the iniquities of Aaron Burr or the doings of the upstart Napoleon. Nor was she supposed to know the distance of the earth from the sun, or who Lord Bacon was, or who invented the art of printing. The women of that day, if they were well-bred, did not have an interest in anything except husband, household, a small circle of friends, and their social activities.

There were no women's clubs. The ladies took no part in politics, nor in any public movement, even if it had a charitable object. This applies not only to Georgia, but to the country as a whole. One never encountered a woman in an office unless she were a vistor. Businessmen and statesmen had secretaries, but they were invariably male.

Women were on the stage in that era, and some of them were celebrated for their talents, but no actress, however distinguished she might be, was ever received by the ladies of society. To the men and women of that time there seemed to be something profoundly vulgar in any woman's exhibiting herself before a crowd in a theater; not only exhibiting herself, but even pretending to be somebody else, according to the role she was playing. The ladies and gentlemen might enjoy the performance, as they frequently did, but even the best performance did not raise the social status of the actors who took part in it.

A FEW women in every community were in business despite the rigid verdict of custom and public opinion that woman's proper place was the home. There were women tavern keepers, for instance, and some of these hostesses of jaded travelers attained a wide and favorable renown. And, of course, all the dressmaking establishments were carried on by women. Women owned small shops of various kinds, ranging from bakeries to shoe stores.

But all places of power and distinction in commercial life were occupied by men.

Marriage was the first objective of all womankind. It was generally believed that something was wrong with a girl if she never married, something wrong morally, or mentally or physically. But a young woman could do very little about it. Conduct that is considered only mildly firtatious today would have have been characterized as indecent in the early 1800's, and such practices as "necking" would have served to exclude the lady in the case from good society. All a girl could do in getting a husband was to look her best, be shy and modest in company, and meek in manner.

Every young lady was expected to play the piano and the guitar and much time was devoted to this form of education. Dancing was also one of the necessary items on the list of things that a well-bred girl has to learn. Every city and town of importance contained numerous music teachers and dancing masters.

THE prevailing conviction among our forefathers that women should be kept out of commercial pursuits and the professions did not emanate from a desire to dominate the fair sex, or to turn them all into household drudges, or to make them dependent on their husbands and parents. No; far from it. The real reason was altogether different. This attitude grew out of a profound respect, approaching reverence, for women in general. They lived on a loftier plane than men — so the average man believed — and women who were well-bred were believed to have neither passions nor hates. Ladies were supposed to be without sexual desire, and in their intimate relations with their husbands they consented graciously, but with inner repugnance. Gracious beings they were, without a sordid thought, according to the chivalrous notions of the time. Their purity of mind and soul was constantly extolled in public speeches and private discourse. But this purity could be easily sullied or "soiled" (which was the current expression) by contact with any form of coarseness. Even a single obscene word, heard by chance, could soil a woman. Duels were fought now and then because some careless gentleman inflamed by liquor had, in the presence of a lady, used a vulgar expression.

When a woman was once soiled there seemed to be no known way of unsoiling her. She bore the speck of stain as long as she lived. None of this applied to the women of the poor, to the wives and daughters of laborers and small farmers. They were apparently immune, or better say, it did not make any difference if they were soiled. As for the gentlemen, they were also immune. They could rub shoulders for days, months or years, with immoral people, and listen to obscene language, and have street fights, and meet their fellow men in duels, and get dead drunk, without being soiled at all.

Scouts Get Set For Area Council Here

Opening activities for annual South Plains Area Boy Scout council meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Lubbock hotel, members of Pack 9 will hold their annual blue and gold party at 8 o'clock tonight at the American Legion hall.

Election of officers for the council in 1945 is the main business scheduled for the meeting, at which scouters from 20 South Plains counties are expected. Members of the nominating committee include James M. Wilson, Floydada; Sam Henry, Lubbock; Henry Teubel, Tulia; and Owen Taylor, Lamesa.

Awards will be made to scout units which have met the requirements for the silver jubilee program conducted during 1944, and the Silver Badger will be given to the man who has made the greatest contribution to scouting and to youth in the council.

Pack 10 will give their annual party at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the Junior High school.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

IT was Sunday evening and we took our weekend guests from New York to the railroad station in Danbury.

"How lovely it is out here," said one of them, "so quiet, so peaceful. Nothing ever happens out here. Everything goes on year after year. You get such a feeling of permanency in the country."

We had waved our last goodbyes and the train was off to New York.

As we approached our village on our way back home, we saw a tremendous pillar of flame away up in the hills. It had just gotten dark and the deep orange of the flames against the blue-gray sky was a wonderful sight.

BRANDEIS

Suddenly my wife clutched my arm.

"Good havens," she cried, "I think it is our house and there is Deuce all alone up there."

I tried to comfort her, but I, myself, was gripped by fear.

I stepped on the gas and raced up the hill, always thinking of the little dog alone in the burning house.

My wife was panic-stricken and I was, too, although I did not let her know.

At last we reached the bend of the road and saw that it was not our house but that of a neighboring farmer only about a thousand feet away.

We had left less than an hour ago and when we left that house was standing. A poor house it was —somewhat of an eyesore—but it was the home of a widow, her old mother, and six or seven children.

We got out of our car and walked over. Nothing was left of the house except the foundation. Everything else was burned to the ground.

A hundred cars were parked all around the place, and every neighbor from miles around was there. But they were helpless. Our brand new fire truck was idly standing by—there was no water to put out the fire.

When we arrived they had already taken the family to nearby relatives. One of the children, a 10 year old, was the last one to go, and she was crying as if her heart would break.

"I lost my doll," she sobbed, "I ll never see her again."

We went home, thinking of those poor people, robbed of everything they had, dependent on relatives and friends, a hundred years of living burned up in ashes.

NEXT morning the sun shone brightly and I walked over to the ruins.

And there was the same little girl, with a broad grin on her face. In her arms she held her badly-scorched doll whom she had found in the rubble.

Beside her stood her mother. I extended my sympathy and offered my help.

She smiled and thanked me.

"Maybe it's all for the best," she said. "The house was pretty old and we had accumulated so much junk. You never throw anything away and always hold on to a lot of useless things.

"Now it's gone and we can start all over again.

"You know I think it's going to be a lot of fun. Just like when I first started housekeeping.

"Yes, I think it's all for the best."

I went home and did a lot of thinking. And I went up in the attic and looked at a lot of our junk that we never had the courage to throw away.

But in the afternoon I went to town and bought a fire extinguisher.

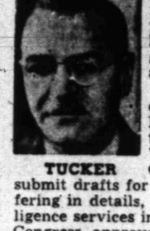

The National Whirligig

U. S. Seeks Better Intelligence

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON'S naive ignorance of rival powers' military plans and strength in the 1930-1940 decade accounts for current consideration of establishment of a National Intelligence authority that will combine the facilities and personnel formerly scattered among the War, Navy and State departments. It represents an admission of our weaknesses in this important field and a determination never to be caught short again.

The United States, as a democratic form of government, has always frowned on professional and trained sleuths in foreign capitals. We had, of course, military and naval attaches and diplomatic observers in every country during normal times. They forwarded fragmentary information which they picked up from their opposites in foreign capitals, from friends and from correspondents who got around. But they never had sufficient funds, personnel or governmental support to keep any administration well informed.

TUCKER

Nobody recognizes our inadequacies in this respect more than President Roosevelt. So he asked the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Col. William J. Donevan, head of the Office of Strategic Services, to submit drafts for a proposed system. Although differing in details, they urge the pooling of all intelligence services in an NIA. If the White House and Congress approve the plan, it will result in the first really effective international spy unit in our history.

Administration critics have tried to depict the proposed organization as a domestic Gestapo. It could become such if mismanaged. But a careful reading of the tentative blueprints, as well as talks with the authors, shows that NIA will confine itself to problems "affecting the national security." Naturally, checkups on foreign agents in our midst and potential sabotage in time of crisis would fall under the unit's jurisdiction.

DERIDED: The global conflict which has slaughtered so many millions and bankrupted the world might have been prevented had Washington, London and Paris had even the slightest conception of the state of mind and affairs in the nations which started the war. The official agents in Axis capitals—diplomatic, naval and military—were caught off guard completely.

Neither President Roosevelt nor the late Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain had any idea of the power Hitler had quietly amassed. British statesmen dreaded a recrudescence of French rather than Nazi might, and until it was too late they indulged in the old divide-and-rule politics by aiding Berlin.

When a few individuals, including newspaper correspondents, gave warning, they were derided or ignored. By the same token the British and Americans never dreamed that Paris would be forced to capitulate in a few weeks.

IGNORANT: Washington and London were equally unaware of the newborn vitality of Stalin's armies and industrial system. Had the British suspected the Soviet's strength, they could and would have formed an alliance with Moscow in 1937 or earlier. In that event Hitler might not have dared to plunge the world into war.

So ignorant was Washington of Russia's staying ability that, a few days after Hitler attacked in the east, an Army officer here, supposed to be our best expert on the Soviet military establishment, forecast a German victory within a few weeks. That same view prevailed in the highest quarters.

Although Tokyo Ambassador Joe Grew repeatedly warned of Japan's preparations and aggressive intentions, he had no facts to substantiate his memos. They were pigeonholed, and Pearl Harbor was the result.

Had we known of Italy's inherent weakness, the strutting Mussolini could have been frightened out of signing a pact with Berlin that made Hitler more defiant and willing for a trial at arms with the democracies.

These are the it-might-have-been considerations which lie behind the plan to form a world spy organization.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

SIXTEEN hundred scientists, educators, actors, writers and artists—many of them famous in their particular lines—quietly organized a non-partisan group in New York this week to inform the public on political matters and put the heat under elected officials.

The body is named the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions, headed by Jo Davidson, distinguished sculptor. It is an outgrowth of a bevy of stars in the theatrical, educational and literary worlds which staged mass meetings and spectacular radio programs in the November election.

It plans to take an active role in obtaining legislation to carry out the Crimea pact, to promote maximum employment and to eliminate racial discrimination.

LEMAN

A popular impression is that Sidney Hillman's PAC is running what is called the liberal movement in the USA. As a result of the ballyhoo, enemies of the progressive cause charge that it is dominated by labor chieftains—and even by Communists.

This new association of noted professional men and women refutes this narrow definition of liberalism. Although in full agreement with unions on many controversial questions, it is a group much more varied in its membership and objectives.

Among the committee's leaders are Dr. John Peters, Fellow of the Russell Sage Institute, authority on clinical surgery and Professor of Medicine at Yale; Dr. Albert Einstein, discoverer of the theory of relativity; Dr. Walter B. Cannon, Harverd physiologist and former president of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

EMPLOYMENT: "In brief, our objectives are these," declares Dr. Frank Kingdon, radio commentator and another founder of the society. "We will not quibble over the technicalities involved in winning the war and the peace but we will make sure that our government is heading in the right direction.

"The war proved that production can provide for all who want work. We will study and support practical measures to bring this to pass in time of peace. This means championing full employment, the basic principle implied in Wallace's 60 million jobs. We will demand positions for all Americans regardless of color, race or nationality and the right of everyone to vote. Hence we are against the poll tax."

Other top figures in the committee with Republican, Democratic and Liberal affiliations are Dr. John Dewey, philosopher, Dr. Harlow Shapley, astronomer, Van Wyck Brooks, historian, Dr. Alonzo Myers, educator, Olin Downes, musical critic and composer, Paul Robeson, negro singer, bartley Crum, attorney.

Organizers include: Authors—Thomas Mann, Edna Ferber, William Rose Benet, Louis Adamic, Marcia Davenport. Actors—Fredric March, Eddie Cantor, Edward G. Robinson, Louis Calhern. Theatrical producers—Herman Shumlin, Marc Connelly, Moss Hart, Lillian Hellman, Russel Crouse. Newspapermen—Franklin P. Adams, John T. McManus. Artists—John Sloan, Rockwell Kent. Radio—Ben Grauer, Norman Corwin.

A radio comedian's ghost-writer, re-working an old gag constitutes the lowest form of literary activity.

"If it weren't for romance, there wouldn't be any fiction," says a book publisher. Uh, huh. And vice versa.

World Facing New Era Of Diplomatic Amity

Allied Relations Are Improving

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—There are encouraging signs that henceforth our diplomacy is to be more open and, as regards relations with our major allies—Great Britain and Russia—better co-ordinated.

It is none too early.

Although Woodrow Wilson's ideal of "open covenants, openly arrived at," which he never achieved, is perhaps still beyond realization, a number of developments connected with the Crimea conference indicate progress in that direction.

STOKES

President Roosevelt and his advisors seem finally to have been impressed with the ceaseless campaign in the newspapers and in Congress for more information on important international matters, for bringing congress into closer touch with diplomatic negotiations, and for more consultation with our Allies about the necessarily swift and unpredictable sequence of events in liberated countries.

Credit Given Too Early

The communique issued by the Crimea conference was full, detailed and as explicit perhaps as was possible on most issues treated there. For this helpful departure from the three previous Big Three conferences, which might almost as well have been held on the moon, newspapermen here are giving credit to Steve Early, the President's press secretary, himself a veteran newspaperman, who was on hand to advise in its preparation.

Outside of having American newspapermen, themselves, on the spot, which Mr. Roosevelt vetoed, this was the next best alternative. Also it can be said that there will be further direct reporting, by American correspondents, in relation to the Crimea conference and its aftermath.

* * *

FOR another thing, James F. Byrnes, War Mobilization director who sat in the conference, held a lengthy press conference promptly upon his return to Washington to enlarge on the formal announcement. This helped to satisfy the desire of American newspapermen to get such additional information from American officials without having to wait, as previously, for a report to the House of Commons by Winston Churchill. Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly is getting a little sensitive about the Washington gag that Mr. Churchill "scoops" him, which is all to the good.

The President, himself, is expected to make a report either to Congress or to congressional leaders.

Perhaps nothing has been so satisfying to Congress, and probably in the long run more helpful to the President, than the announcement that Republican Senate and House leaders on foreign affairs are to be included in the American delegation to the United Nations conference in San Francisco, April 25, to complete the plan for an international organization.

More Co-Operation Expected

The President obviously is trying to avoid the mistake of Woodrow Wilson in refusing to take Republican Senate leaders with him to the Paris Peace conference. Some have gone so far as to say that might have saved the League of Nations.

Important in co-ordinating policy of the Big Three and in avoiding misunderstanding was the decision of the Crimea conference providing for quarterly meetings of the foreign secretaries of Great Britain, Russia and the United States.

These meetings of Messrs. Eden, Molotov and Stettinius should fill the lack hitherto of machinery for interim consultation among the Big Three, graphically demonstrated a few weeks back when the Allies got all crossed up over flare-ups in liberated countries — Italy, Greece, Belgium and Poland. Congress got stirred up over here, and so did the newspapers in England and the United States, and unkind epithets were hurled back and forth across the Atlantic.

THERE was a danger for a time to the projected international organization, all now fortunately averted by the outcome of the Crimea conference. There was a sound, basic issue there involving Democratic processes in liberated nations, which it was just as well to have exposed and discussed, but the trouble undoubtedly was magnified by the lack of co-ordination.

Hereafter, the three foreign secretaries will try to reach a common decision on policy in such cases—and there will be more of them certainly. It is reported here that a sort of permanent secretariat probably will be set up to function between the regular quarterly meetings.

Californian Criticizes Rates On Texas Oil

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19. (U.P.)—Shipment of Texas oil to California at a transportation cost of more than $2 a barrel was under fire today from Edwin W. Pauley, oilman and Democratic leader.

Pauley, Democratic National committee treasurer and president of the Petrol Corp. of Los Angeles, said 100,000 barrels of oil was shipped here daily for war use because of California's "inability" to produce enough oil for the Pacific war.

He suggested that subsidies to producers in new oil areas would save money, manpower and rail facilities.

Churches Here Offer Two Training Schools

Attendance at two cooperative leadership training schools being conducted here by Lubbock churches was described as "large and gratifying" by officials Monday night.

Approximately 300 persons attended the annual school being held at the First Christian church as the second day of classes was completed, Miss Ruth Towne, registrar and secretary reported.

Churches cooperating in the school, of which Rev. H. G. Gantz, pastor of the First Christian church, is director, are the St. Paul's Episcopal; First Christian; Asbury Methodist; First Methodist; First Presbyterian; Four Square; St. John's Methodist; Cumberland Presbyterian; and Nazarene.

Classes will continue from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock each night through Friday.

Meanwhile a training school for Sunday scohol teachers opened at the First Baptist church under the supervision of Rev. L. L. Richardson, pastor of the College Avenue Baptist church.

Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the First Baptist church, estimated attendance at the opening Monday night at approximately 122, with a large group expected tonight. Represetnatives were present from the Abernathy, Idalou, Lorenzo, Slide, Slaton, Shallowater and Smyer communities, in addition to the local members.

It was announced that Dr. Baker James Cauthen, who recently returned from southern China, will speak at the program beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Yanks Liberated

and German guards were resting at the manor, Marshal Zhukov's tanks were rolling westward rapidly.

"We heard all kinds of stories that the Russians were anywhere from a day to three days away," said Gruenberg.

Anyway, they were too close for the German guards and as the tanks rumbled nearer, the guards disappeared.

Red Tanks Rumble Up

The Americans made contact with the Poles during the morning and were sitting in the estate's banquet hall, bolting down food and drink brought them by Poles.

"Off in the distance, we heard a lot of yelling," said Gruenberg. "This was followed by the unmistakable sound of tanks. We rushed to the window and looked out and there they were—the Red Army rolling up in Sherman tanks."

The officers described this as the most beautiful sight they had ever seen in their lives.

NAZIS SHIFT TROOPS

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 19. (AP) — Norwegian informants reported tonight the Germans had withdrawn 100,000 first class troops from Norway since last September and estimated the remaining force at around 12 divisions.

PRICES AT 7-YEAR PEAK

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP)—New highs for more than seven years were widely distributed in today's stock market as idle investment funds continued to seek employment in actual or potential dividend payers.

Rails, steels and motors took the lead after a steady opening and bidding was fast at intervals. A little selling cropped up in the final hour. While extreme gains running to 2 points or so were reduced in the majority of cases, and scattered minus signs were in evidence, the plus column was crowded at the close. Transfers totalled 1,880,000 shares compared with 1,900,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .4 of a point at 61.8, another peak since Sept. 4, 1937. The market was broad, 999 issues registering. Of these, 603 were advanced, 185 lower and 221 unchanged.

Conspicuous on the rise were Santa Fe, K. C. Southern, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward and Kennecott. In the minus ranks were General Electric, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Boeing and Union Carbide.

Bonds were up selectively.

Better curb performers included American Cyanamid.

NEW YORK FUAURES

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP)—Cotton futures converted earlier losses of 35 cents a bale into net gains of 25 to 55 cents on buying by mills in near months and commission house demand in the new crop positions.

The advance was aided by a scarcity of offerings, reflecting the growing tightness in spot cotton under the Commodity Credit corporation purchase program.

The New York exchange service estimated that approximately 48 per cent of cotton in all hands on Jan. 31 was owned or controlled by the government with free stocks at 8,719,000 bales.

Spot cotton markets were quiet.

Futures closed 25 to 55 cents a bale higher.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19 (AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was 25 cents a bale higher at 21.71 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 21.63; middling ⅞ths-inch average 20.43.

At A Glance..

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP) —

STOCKS—Higher; rails lead further advance.

BONDS — Steady; modest advance in rails.

COTTON—Quiet; mill and commission house buying.

CHICAGO:

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (AP) — Wheat and rye were up a cent and more and other grains were firm in quiet futures markets today. Short covering and commercial buying developed after an irregular opening and new highs for the session were established during the final hour.

Rather urgent covering followed disclosure that last week the domestic visible supply of wheat had decreased 3,730,000 bushels to a total of 108,595,000 bushels. There also was buying by brokers who frequently act for flour millers.

At the finish wheat was ¾ to 1⅛ higher than Saturday's close, May $1.63½-⅜. Corn was up ⅛ to ½, May $1.12⅜. Oats were ⅛ to ½ higher, May 67. Rye was up 1⅛ to 1⅜, May $1.14⅞-¾. Barley was ¼ to ½ higher, May $1.10¼.

Eight-Mile Gain

Braunsberg is on the coastal Elbing-Koenigsberg railway 32 miles southwest of Koenigsberg, and the push through Gruenenberg represented an eight-mile gain from previous Soviet positions.

The only mention of Silesia in the Russian communique was of the area around Breslau, Silesian capital of 630,000 which the Russians last Friday announced they had encircled.

Red Army troops captured a few more Breslau suburbs, including Treschen and Brockau on the southeastern and southern edge of the Silesian capital, gaining up to three miles as they tightened their siege ring.

Simultaneously striking toward the Czechoslovak frontier on a 20-mile front beyond Breslau, the Russians deepened this ring by capturing seven localities, including Ocklitz, 15 miles southwest of Breslau and 13 miles northwest of the road junction town of Schweidnitz; Moerschelwitz, four miles northeast of Zobten; Dankwitz, six miles southeast of Zöbten; and Groegersdorf, five miles northwest of the 16-way junction town of Strehlen, which is 20 miles south of Breslau.

Red Reversal Admitted

Moscow acknofledged a reverse for Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army troops in the sector east of Komarom (Komarno), Danube river town 40 miles northwest of fallen Budapest and 84 miles east of Vienna.

The Russians withdrew from several loaclities after repulsing strong enemy infantry and tank attacks, the Soviet bulletin said.

Malinovsky's units last December had pushed along the north bank of the Danube west of Tyhron river to within several miles of Komarom, which is 53 miles southeast of Bratislava, Slovak capital.

Captured Nowe, in the Polish corridor, is 10 miles north of encircled Crudziadz, east-bank Vistula stronghold, and Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army troops were fighting in the outskirts of Grudziadz.

Kidnaping Trial

Parker, assistant district-attorney, who persuaded him to leave Milly temporarily at the adjoining Tarrant county health center. McGill said he had planned to turn the child over to his sister, Mrs. Annie Mae Milliken of Bradley, Okla., who was standing nearby.

The action in Judge Young's court came later. The judge ordered R. E. Neely, chief county probation officer, to place Milly in the Fort Worth Children's hospital, and to arrange with the city-county hospital to accept the older child, who was ill with whooping cough.

As Mrs. Branson's trial began District Judge Willis McGregor denied a motion of her attorneys asking the kidnaping indictment against her be quashed. The defense signed an application for a suspended sentence in event of conviction.

Japs Fight Back Madly On Iwo

rines already are so strongly established that the enemy has no hope of driving them off the island but "we will lose a fairly high percentage of men."

McCormick said the Nipponese are holed up in thousands of natural hideouts such as caves from which they are resisting fiercely, emerging at times into the open.

American commanders said initial progress was "satisfactory." The Marines speedily reached Iwo's important bomber airfield and penetrated its defenses.

Within two hours after the first barges had grated ashore Monday morning, the Marines had pushed halfway up the dark sandy beaches of this rocky island that may prove tougher than Tarawa. First official reports said American casualties were "moderate."

Terrific Barrage

The Marines struck in the wake of a terrific naval and air barrage, the most merciless and concentrated bombardment of the Pacific war.

The Japanese fought back with fanatical fury from strong inland positions. They used artillery, mortar, machinegun and rifle fire in their efforts to hold back the Leathernecks.

Japanese positions apparently were located in the northern sector of Iwo and in the steep sides and crater of the extinct Suribachi volcano at the southwestern tip of the sulphur-producing island which has an area of only eight square miles.

Suribachi, 546 feet high, commands the beachhead and the lowlands which afforded only the scantiest cover to the Americans facing enemy defenses pouring forth mortar and artillery fire.

Veteran Fourth Marines

This closest ground approach to Japan was made by the veteran Fourth Marine division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Clifton Cates, and the new Fifth Marine division. The latter, comprised of veterans of Guadalcanal, Tulagi and Bougainville and new men, is commanded by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey.

In the pre-invasion softening-up, Iwo had been hit daily by heavy bombers, including B-29s on some raids, for 72 days. It also had been shelled by U. S. warships on ten separate missions.

The Iwo invasion was quickly followed by a smashing American Superfortress attack in great strength against the Tokyo district. The B-29s from Marianas bases lashed the heart of Japan Monday afternoon (Tokyo time). It was the heaviest Superfort attack on Japan-proper and came on the heels of mighty aerial strikes against Tokyo by waves of carrier planes from the Fifth Fleet that moved in close to Japanese shores to throw blistering naval sky power against Nippon's airfields and aircraft industries.

Casualties "Moderate"

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said Sunday in his first communique on Iwo ground fighting that "the operation is proceeding satisfactorily." He added casualties were "moderate."

Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of the Pacific Marines, said "our men are spread all over hell's acre out there. And they are going after those hidden Jap guns which are mighty hard to located" He declared "overall progress is satisfactory."

Initial casualties were described as "considerable" by eye witnesses aboard Vice Adm. Richmond Kelley Turner's flagship. The admiral is the top amphibious commander.

Describing the landing, Morrie Landsberg, Associated Press war correspondent aboard the flagship, said the Japanese on Iwo "abandoned their beach positions under the devastating American bombardment before the Marines swarmed ashore."

Use Abandoned Trenches

The Marines, he said, tumbled into long stretches of abandoned Japanese trenches to escape concentrated artillery and mortar fire.

Joseph Rosenthal, Associated Press photographer, who was ashore with the Leathernecks, said they were advancing from shell hole to shell hole.

There was no doubt about it—the American beachhead was secure. It extends almost two and a half miles northward from the Suribachi volcano.

More than 800 ships were in the invasion armada. Admiral Nimitz said only two "light units" were damaged. The invasion fleet included battleships of the most modern type and heaviest tonnage as well as resurrected survivors of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor.

Forts May Be Hospitals

In the Senate, R. C. Lanning of Jacksboro introduced a resolution asking the United States government to transfer properties of Fort Ringgold and Fort Clark to the state to be used as tuberculosis hospitals.

Fort Ringgold is in the lower Rio Grande valley, and Fort Clark near Brackettville. The resolution said that such property acquisition would make possible treatment for many additional cases of the disease, for whom no treatment space is now available.

News Briefs

W. R. Fulcher, arrested by police Saturday night, Monday night posted bonds of $1,000 set in two cases, one for drunk driving and the other for liquor law violation, according to Arthur Perkins, county night jailer. Fulcher pleaded innocent to the charges. Robert Lee Jackson, 23-year-old negro, was released from jail after payment of a fine of $100 and costs for liquor law violation. R. A. Holt, 55, and C. R. Barber, 43, also posted bonds after pleas of innocent in Judge Walter Davies' county court. Holt is charged with drunk driving, and Barber with liquor law violation. Other judgments filed by Judge Davies were: C. M. McCain, $600 fine and costs in three charges of liquor law violation; Inez Walker, 31, a negro, $100 fine and costs, liquor law violation; Henry Cleveland, $300 fine and costs on two charges of liquor law violation.

Police investigated Monday the burglary of the residence of H. L. Jones of 2403 Thirty-first. Jones, operator of a cafe, reported the loss as two boxes of steak knives, four boxes of teaspoons, four boxes of forks, two boxes of butter knives and—a carton of cigarettes.

Judge Dan Blair of 72nd district court Monday approved a compromise settlement totaling $695 in the case of Morris Lynn Givens, by and through his next friend, his father, C. R. Givens, against Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Tanner, for damages. Morris Lynn, 4, was hit by an automobile Oct. 30, after he had alighted in front of his home at 1916 Twenty-fourth, pleadings said.

Two boys and their "girl friends" were sought by police Monday night for allegedly raising "a roughhouse" at a Lubbock theater afternoon. Police were told that they grabbed the ticket box, threw it across the lobby and hollered to theater patrons that "the show is over!" The cashier, a girl, said that when she attempted to call police the telephone was jerked from her hand. The youngsters made a getaway when the manager appeared on the scene.

A 75-year-old Clovis man, described as a "mental patient," was discovered Monday afternoon wandering in a field in the Woodrow community. Lubbock county officers had been notified at noon of his disappearance. Andy Brownfield, a resident of the Woodrow community, brought the man to the sheriff's office, where he was under care last night pending the arrival of a relative from Clovis.

A 27-year-old man, who left a note for his wife Monday intimating that he was going to kill himself, was returned to his home by police last night. Despondent because of ill health, the man wrote his wife that he didn't "see much use in going on like this," put the note along with $30 in currency in an envelope and placed it in his mail box. Police found him on a downtown street.

A barrel of gasoline burst into flame Monday morning at Thirteenth and Ave. G but caused only slight damage, firemen said. Firemen answered two alarms early Monday night, when a car and trash caught fire.

port of ground troops.

The Scotch struck with such suddenness at Goch that they surprised the German commander and his staff in bed.

With fixed bayonets and supported by tanks, the infantry charged on through the rubble of Goch's ruined streets, clearing the enemy from the north side of the Niers river, and driving the beaten garrison from half of the southern part of the city.

The Germans had to be rooted from wrecked houses and mountains of debris, the product of intense artillery and aerial bombardment, which they turned into miniature forts.

The Scotch applied a pincers to Goch, one column driving down from the northeast, head-on into the city, bisected by the Niers river.

Move In From Rear

The second column, already across the Niers, knifed in at the back door, and this was the force that seized Col. Paul Matussek, the garrison commander, and his staff of a major and two lieutenants, in their nightshirts.

The final capture of Goch seemed near just one week after the Canadian First Army captured Kleve, a city of 20,000 seven miles to the north, which was the first sizeable German city to fall into British-Canadian hands.

There was no indication that the Germans were trying to push up reinforcements to restore a situation already apparently hopelessly lost, but instead they were hammering hard at both flanks.

Bloody Near Calcar

The bloodiest fighting raged within a mile or two of Calcar, a second communication center seven miles northeast of Goch.

Oddly enough, floods from the Rhine lapping over most of Calcar's highways had robbed the town of most of its tactical importance, making it comparable to some of the villages along the Rhine which the enemy ceded without a struggle.

But the Germans apparently were ordered to defend it to the death, and the forest of Moyland was strewn with the bodies of Allied and German infantry.

"When they can get the upper hand of these beats in charge of the Army, they will take over, and they will begin to put out very attractive peace feelers.

"To my mind, that is the most dangerous period we are facing until peace is actually declared...

"If we let them negotiate a peace now and don't demand absolute and unconditional surrender, we will be committing the greatest crime in the history of our country."

Manila And Luzon

large Laguna De Bay, southeast of Manila, also were taken.

Farther North On Luzon

Frequent patrol clashes were reported near Novaliches and Norzagaray, northeast of Manila, while in the Zambales mountain sector along Luzon's west-central coast the 40th division was clearing Japanese remnants.

Light naval craft operating in Manila bay, now open to U. S. fleet units with the invasion of Corregidor, sank four barges.

"On Corregidor our troops continued the reduction of enemy strong points and mopping up in the rear of batteries," MacArthur announced. "On Bataan we are combing the peninsula for enemy remnants. In south Manila the steady reduction of the final enemy position continues."

An example of what fate might overtake the men, women and children held behind the aged but stout walls of the old Intramuros district of the city was disclosed at De La Salle college.

Bodies Of 60 Found

The bodies of 60 Catholic priests and civilians, who had been given refuge, were found in the ruins of the college in the Malate district. They had been shot and bayoneted by Japanese.

Paratroops and doughboys, who invaded Corregidor Friday, opened the entrance of Manila bay to American ships by taking control of the rocky fortress.

Warships of the Seventh Fleet promptly moved in to bombard enemy positions on the Cavite shore, on the south side of the bay's entrance.

Associated Press correspondent James Hutcheson, on Corregidor with the invading 11th corps, reported it was "amazing" how Japanese resumed firing from caves after apparently being wiped out.

Malinta hill, which Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported captured in his Monday communique, was shrouded in smoke.

Flame Throwers Used

Flame from a deadly American thrower spurted into the mouth of famed Maltina tunnel, making it hot for the Japanese, Hutcheson reported.

He described one of the Japanese "banzai" charges, in which more than 100 of the enemy ran screaming to death against American doughboy fire.

Troops of the 148th Infantry regiment, who recovered the bodies from the De La Salle college Saturday, also released some 7,000 patients, doctors, nurses and refugees from the nearby Philippines General hospital. These included about 100 Americans.

Other troops of Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold's 14th corps waited the order to storm the walls of the Intramuros. Griswold, who has appealed to the trapped enemy to free the thousands of Civilians, said his military judgment was "to raze that Japanese stronghold."

Formosa Drome Pounded

A concentrated 175-ton bombing of Takao airdrome on Formosa by Army Liberators caused extensive damage to an aluminum plant and rail yards, MacArthur reported.

Air patrols damaged three small freighters off the Formosa coast and sank another in the Sakashima islands nearby.

Other patrol bombers bombed and strafed a 3,000-ton freighter-transport off the French Indo-China coast. The vessel was left aground and blazing.

Northwest Borneo took a 64-ton bombing concentrated on the runway and dispersal area of Miri airdrome as well as two other airfields off the coast.

ants engaged exclusively in serving food."

Closing at midnight means that patrons shall leave in time to permit full closing by that time, the Byrnes announcement said.

"The War Manpower commission will be requested to deny ceilings to these violating this request," the statement said.

It added:

"Moreover, the War Production board, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price administration are being requested to use their powers to the full extent consistent with the law in assisting the War Manpower commission."

Other Plans Failed

In announcing the broad step, Byrnes said:

"Conservation measures previously taken by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, including reduction of travel, the elimination of the use of electricity in outdoor advertising, the lowering of temperatures in government buildings and an appeal to the public to lower temperatures in homes do not appear to suffice in view of the coal shortage.

"I am advised by the War Production board that the industrial coal stocks on hand are inadequate.

Coal Situation Serious

"Unfavorable weather conditions and possible spring floods render the coal situation even more serious than a few weeks ago.

"The closing of places of entertainment at midnight should impose no real hardships, and I am convinced our people at home will glady comply with this request in view of the fact that in the period just ahead of us those in the armed services will be making greater sacrifices than ever before."

The Byrnes statement said he felt sure "that state and local officials would cooperate wholeheartedly with the federal government in carrying out this objective and in bringing any violations to the attention of the proper authorities."

Five thousand pieces of jewelry were recovered by dredging a ceremonial well of the Maya Indians.

History Rolled Back Nearly Full Century By Yank Pacific Strides

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

With seizure of pin-point Iwo Jima off the south coast of Japan under way by American naval forces, a beginning has been made on rolling history back almost a century.

Just 92 years ago next July Commodore Matthew C. Perry began the negotiations for the treaty of "peace and amity" that opened Japan to the world. By the time that anniversary rolls around it is a fair conclusion that another Amrican naval officer, Admiral Nimitz, will have sealed Japan in again, blockading her by sea and air against any effective contact through the East and South China seas with the Chinese mainland.

SIMPSON

Can Range Widely

That is the implication of the massive naval power blow that exposed Iwo Jima to landing operations destined to make it a plane base for American use a meager 750 miles from Tokyo. It means that land-based medium bombers taking off from Iwo Jima's air strips can range over all the ports of southern Japan and blast at sea communications of the enemy Army in northern China as well as at Japanese war industries.

It means, too, that Nimitz' mighty fleet can carry its bold sweep into Japanese home waters farther west and north at will under shelter of Luzon and Iwo Jima based heavy air power to supplement its own carrier plane strength. Iwo is a potential step toward American naval penetration of the Yellow Sea to cut Japan off completely from huge Nipponese armies deployed in China.

It seems doubtful that invasion of Japan can be in very close prospect in Allied planning. Until the war in Europe ends so far as organized German resistance is concerned it is unlikely that either the forces or the shipping for pushing on into Japan or into China to come to grips with the Japanese Army can be available.

That does not mean, nevertheless, that naval preparations for such seaborne invasions in both directions cannot be carried through in advance. Seizure of Iwo Jima brings the war by air terribly close to Japan right now even though months might elapse before it could be followed by landings on the Japanese home islands themselves.

Counterfeiters Have Turned to Food Stamp Coupons, OWI Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Office of War Information said today that ration coupon counterfeiters, now "almost stopped" in the gasoline field, have "shifted their business to food."

"Government controls in gasoline rationing have been forced so rigidly that recently-arrested peddlers (of bonus or stolen stamps) complained that the profits did not equal the risk," the agency said in a report on black market dealings in a number of commodities.

With the tightening up on gasoline, organized black markets in meat and sugar "are reappearing in dangerous proportions" and are largely dependent on counterfeit ration currency, the report stated.

Based on information from the Office of Price Administration, the secret service and the alcohol tax unit of the Treasury department, the study also makes these points:

There is no organized black market in cigarets, according to OPA officials, who "claim that petty chislers are the chief supporters of this illicit market."

Black market activities in liquor, on an organized scale, have been "virtually eliminated."

Disappearance of nylon hosiery from the market has eliminated them as an enforcement problem, but "bogus nylon has been used by racketeers to obtain high prices for hosiery."

99th Anniversary Of Texas Statehood Is Observed Monday

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—Texas today observed its 99th anniversary of statehood, with a proclamation by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson making Feb. 18-24 Texas Statehood week and today Texas Statehood day.

In the Texas Senate, Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith read the message delivered by President Anson Jones on Feb. 19, 1846, when the Lone Star flag was lowered and the Stars and Stripes unfurled over the capitol at Austin.

"The first act in the great drama is now performed. The republic of Texas is no more," Jones' message read. On the same date, J. Pinkney Henderson was inducted into office as the first governor of Texas.

Gov. Stevenson's proclamation urged Texans to demonstrate that "they are doubly proud of their dual heritage, and are every ready and willing to make the sacrifices necessary to safeguard and preserve their freedom and happiness."

Jones' message was ordered printed in the Senate Journal.

In the Texas House members heard statehood addresses by Rep. M. A. Bundy, Wichita Falls, and S. J. Isaacks, El Paso. Isaacks also praised the 36th (Texas) division's fighting and courage.

Rep. Robin Henderson, Groesbeck, was introduced as a descendent of Governor Henderson. The representative said the first governor was "a cousin of my grandfather."

Remarks of the three representatives were ordered printed in the House Journal.

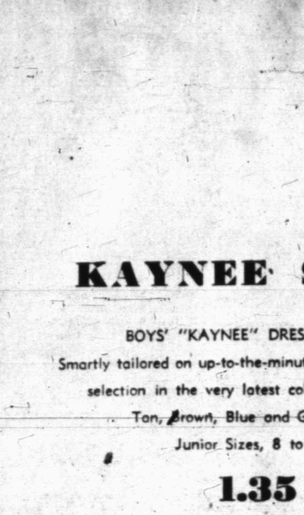

BERRY CEILING RAISED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today raised producer ceiling prices for fresh strawberries. OPA said the move would boost retail prices by about four cents a pint. The new ceilings will apply from Feb. 21 to March 15 and will affect only producing areas known as zone 1, which includes Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and all states east of these.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Wheless Is Back In Pacific Area

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

B-29 BASE IN MARIANAS — Somehow, no one has since mentioned the incident that the President told the nation about three years ago.

Remember? A fellow named Wheless wouldn't give up when his B-17 was shattered and crippled and its crew all but knocked out. That happened before the United States lost the Philippines.

For Colonel Hewitt T. Wheless, is belongs in the past. Today Wheless is concentrating on his job as deputy commander of a new combat unit of the 21st Bomber command which runs the B-29 raids against Japan from the Marianas.

Glad to Be Back

"I'm very glad to be back," he said. This is the first time the short, trim Texan (the family ranch is near Menard) has been assigned overseas since his return from the Southwest Pacific in 1942. "I've tried to come back for a long time."

Hewitt T. Wheless, a 1931 graduate of Gulf Coast Military academy, Gulfport, Miss., and for 3½ years a University of Texas engineering student, was 28 and an air corps lieutenant when he participated in the first mass ferry flight of B-17s from Hamilton field, Calif., to the Philippines in May, 1941.

Was At Clark Field

The next time he delivered a Flying Fortress to the Philippines, he remained. He was stationed at Clark field during the Japanese attack.

On one mission, Wheless started out with four other bombers to attack the Japanese transport fleet closing in on the Philippines. But his plane, due to engine trouble, arrived over the target after the others had stirred up enemy interceptors.

Wheless, however, dropped all his bombs on six enemy transports. Then, for the next 25 minutes, he fought off 18 Jap pursuit planes that clung to the B-17 for 75 miles. Several Japs attacked simultaneously on each side and were shot down with side guns.

The bomber's radio operator was killed. The engineer's right hand was shot off. One gunner was crippled. Only one man was left to operate both side guns, and wounded though he was, he shot down three more Nips.

Wheless made an emergency landing on two engines. In the midst of daily reversals in the Philippines, the story of this mission as recounted by President Roosevelt in a fireside chat thrilled the country. Wheless was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

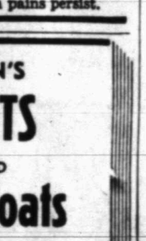

Returned To U. S. In 1942

After further duty at Darwin, Australia, and Malang, Java, Wheless returned to the United States March 17, 1942, and to his wife, Raymonda, who now lives in Merced, Calif., with their 3½ year old daughter, Raymonda Jean.

Wheless was assigned duty with a bombardment squadron at Boise, Idaho, and from then on he applied his combat experience to the training of other men. He became a major in August, 1942; and lieutenant colonel in March, 1943. His full colonelcy came only recently.

Wheless says the quality of training bomber crews is far superior to what it was at the start of the war. In fact, he believes the men are 100 per cent better trained.

Communists No Longer Barred For Officer Training, Other Assignments By The Army

CHICAGO, Feb. 19. (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said today in a Washington dispatch that the War department has issued a directive countermanding "previous confidential instructions barring Communists from officer training and some 19 various assignments involving military secrecy."

"The directive states," the Tribune said, "that no prejudicial action shall be taken on the basis of membership in the Communist party or allegiance to the Communist party unless it can be proved such loyalty supersedes loyalty to the United States.

Dated Dec. 30, 1944

"It also states that no individual shall suffer because his views on social questions are the same as the views the Communist party has advanced."

The newspaper said the directive was dated Dec. 30, 1944. "It was signed," the Tribune said, "at the direction of the Secretary of War by Brig. Gen. Robert H. Dunlop, on that date acting adjutant general of the Army."

Loyalty Basic Consideration

The Tribune quoted the directive as saying "the basic consideration is not the propriety of the individuals' opinions, but his loyalty to the United States. Membership in, or strict adherence to the doctrines of, the Communist party organization is subject to influences that may tend to divide his loyalty.

"However, many good soldiers are subject to conflicting influences that may tend to divide his loyalty. Such influences must be appraised in the light of the individual's entire record.

Must Not Override Loyalty

"No action will be taken under the reference letter that is predicated on membership in or adherence to the doctrines of the Communist party unless there is a specific finding that the individual involved has a loyalty to the Communist party as an organization which overrides his loyalty to the United States."

The Tribune said "The letter referred to is a confidential communication sent to the same officers under date of Jan. 31, 1944, outlining procedure for 'the disposition of subversive and disaffected military personnel.' This letter is set aside by the latest directive."

The dispatch reported that the directive was sent to commanding generals of the air, ground and service forces; the commanding officers of ports on embarkation, base commands and all posts, camps and stations and commanding officers at the battlefronts.

Slaton Man Freed In Bilibid's Liberation

Pvt. J. W. Hough, who has been a prisoner of the Japanese since May 7, 1942, was among those rescued from Bilibid prison, Manila, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Hough of route 2, Slaton, were informed by telegram from the War department Monday morning.

Pvt. Hough entered the service at Matador Feb. 13, 1941 and six weeks later sailed for the Philippines where he served with the coast artillery. He was captured when Corregidor fell to the Japs. Mr. and Mrs. Hough had not heard from him in 14 months.

Texas Reservoirs Are 57 Per Cent Capacity

AUSTIN, Feb. 19 (AP)—Six representative Texas reservoirs stood at 57 per cent of capacity with surface supplies more than ample throughout the state at the beginning of the year, the United States department of interior reported today in its water reserves review.

Storage increased in all reservoirs except that of Possum Kingdom in the upper Brazos river basin, where releases for power generation coupled with low run offs accounted for the decrease.
