Farm Official Defends AAA At Plainview

Opposition To Present Farm Program Is Cited; Sincerity Of Opponents Is Doubted

(By The Associated Press)

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 21.—M. L. Wilson, under-secretary of agriculture, waved aside the domestic allotment plan and stoutly defended the national farm program today as "the most practical method" to meet the present situatoin.

Some of the chiefest opposition to it, he asserted, comes from interests "which have used governmental powers to saddle southwestern farmers with high freight rates, and to give tariff benefits to industries which sell goods to farmers."

Wonders About Sincerity

Those interests, he said were saying a farmer "has sold his birthright if he takes a government check he has earned."

"Sometimes I wonder about the sincerity of people who get sentimental about farmers' independence, who say that a man is giving his freedom if he works with other farmers in a national program."

Wilson addressed a meeting of Texas farmers called to hear an explanation of the farm program.

Would Mean Lower Prices

The domestic allotment plan, he said, would mean lower prices. He spent many years working with farm leaders for the domestic allotment plan, Wilson reported, and "many features of that plan are now a part of the present farm program. But those of us who had worked for domestic allotment finally were forced to conclude that under present conditions the domestic allotment was not enough.

"In the days when foreign countries were taking more of our farm products it might have worked. But now there seems to be a definite limit on the amounts we can export, no matter what the price is."

Offers Solutions

The farm program, Wilson continued, offers these points in the way of solutions to "the real problem:

1. The Agricultural conservation program—voluntary acreage allotments of the soil depleting crops, and encouragement to farmers in

TOKYO, Nov. 21—The foreign office spokesman touched upon discrimination he said existed against Japanese in the United States in a discussion today of the open door policy in China.

"We do not like the terms open door and equal opportunity," the spokesman asserted, indicating the government was considering a concrete statement of what it considers "inapplicable ideas and principles of the past."

Meanings Between Lines

He stressed the meanings he held could be found between the lines on the Japanese reply last Friday denying American charges of "unwarranted interference" with interests in China.

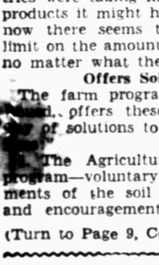

The Japanese note, he said, "does not specifically mention the nine-power pact (acknowledging the principle of the 'open door' nor the principles of the open door and equal opportunity.

Respecting these latter I must say that Japan does not like the terms. They are not applied anywhere else in the world, neither in the United States nor in any other country.

"Therefore, why should it be in-

BRITAIN PLANS REFUGE

Chamberlain Reveals Plan To Commons

At Least 10,000 Square Miles In British Guiana Would Be For Jews

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Prime Minister Chamberlain today told the house of commons of plans to lease at least 10,000 square miles in British Guiana to provide homes for German Jews seeking refuge abroad from the Nazi regime's anti-Jewish campaign.

The prime minister also disclosed favorable progress for the settlement of Jewish refugees in Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa, and other territories in Africa.

Tanganyika now is held by Britain under league mandate. Chamberlain last week declared the British government was not considering its return to Germany to satisfy Chancellor Hitler's colonial demands.

The widespread British action disclosed by the prime minister was understood to be the direct result of his recent consultations with United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy on the urgent problem of finding homes for tens of thousands of victims of the latest wave of Nazi anti-semitism.

Kennedy Worked Close

Kennedy was said to have worked in such close cooperation with the British colonial office that he helped draft Chamberlain's statement to commons.

One high official source said Washington authorities had estimated that the United States could contribute at least $100,000,000 in private and public funds to help settle Jews in new territory.

Chamberlain's disclosures were made prior to the opening of a scheduled general debate on the question of minorities in Europe.

The prime minister said the government would invite volunteer refugee organizations to send their own representatives to British Guiana,

Coalition Group Is To Be Sought Again

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Prominent Republican senators disclosed today they were eager to retain the bi-partisan coalition which shelved the Roosevelt court bill and fought various other administration measures.

These men, although related by their party's congressional gains, said Republicans in the 1939 senate and house should exercise caution in taking a partisan attitude.

In that way, they hope to keep the cooperation of anti-administration Democrats who heretofore have joined them in debate and on roll calls.

Some politicians have predicted that the recent election would tend to weld divergent elements of the Democratic party together for a common-front fight against the Republican minority.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), however, expressed the view that the Republican gains "have not weakened the coalition."

Queen Is Dead

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Norway and Britain today mourned the passing of Norway's English-born Queen Maud, (below) who died in a London nursing home early Sunday of a heart attack four days after an adominal operation. Aunt of King George VI of Great Britain and last surviving child of Edward VII, her death came so suddenly that only a nurse was at her bedside. King Haakon of Norway was at Buckingham palace where he has been staying since the queen's grave illness brought him hurrying from Oslo.

Court May Give Rulings Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Government attorneys expected the supreme court to announce today whether it would review litigation to test the right of an employer to dismiss sit-down strikers.

In addition, final decisions were possible on controversies involving:

1. Whether a state (Kansas and Kentucky specifically) may ratify the proposed constitutional amendment to abolish child labor after rejecting it.

To Decide On Right

2. The right of the National Labor Relations board to regulate the Consolidated Edison company of New York, inc., which operates in only one state but sells its product to other concerns engaging in interstate commerce.

3. Whether the Western Electric company and other owners of talking picture patents may extend their control over the product after it is manufactured and sold.

The sit-down strike controversy was appealed to the court by the Labor Relations board. It objected to a ruling by the federal circuit court at Chicago that the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago could dismiss employes who seized two key buildings in 1937 and held them for nine days.

Fire Said To Have Caused Toll Of 2,000 Deaths In China City

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21 (AP) — A five-day fire which razed Changsha, capital of Hunan province, was reported to have caused 2,000 deaths and brought the execution of three Chinese officials accused of starting the conflagration.

Commencing last Sunday, the fires, started in anticipation of the city's capture by a slowly advancing Japanese column, reduced Changsha to ruins.

Chinese officials at Chungking, the temporary capital, declared the fires started both accidentally and through the "premature zeal" of local authorities anxious to carry out China's "scorched earth" policy of leaving little of value to the invaders.

Jews Deprived Of Virtually All Rights

One-Third Of Stores Will Be Taken Over, Rest Will Be Abandoned; Future Dreary

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 21 — Germany's 11-day anti-semitic drive, which has deprived German Jews of virtually all freedom and reduced tens of thousands to destitution, showed signs today of abatement.

Window-smashing and decrees will have eliminated by the end of the year all retail business owned by German jews. One-third of Jewish-owned stores will be taken over by non-jews and the rest simply abandoned.

Must "Liquidate" Businesses

Present owners will not be permitted to salvage ready cash by sales or auctions. They have been told to "liquidate" and, with few exceptions, have been forbidden to operate their businesses during the time remaining before the decree wiping them out becomes effective January 1.

Jewish relief societies can not care for tens of thousands who apply for help and the doors of many still are closed. No foreign relief societies have been established here.

Many Sent To Jail

Many Jews face the future not knowing where to turn even to live from day to day. They estimate that 60,000 Jewish men have been sent to jail and concentration camps, leaving many families unable to replenish ready cash funds.

But there was at least a temporary end to the wholesale arrests. And a recent sharp decline in German exports may prove a momentary life-saver at least for the Jewish export trade.

The ministry of economics, cooperating closely with Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering as chief of Germany's four-year plan, has been striving to convince Nazi leaders that the sudden ejection of Jews from the export business may prove harmful to Germany's economy.

Goering's newspaper, the National Zeitung of Essen, declared a central bureau had "turned the exodus of Jews from Germany into regulated

Naval Restrictions Cause Nazi Laughs

BERLIN, Nov. 21 (AP)—Nazi Germany, exactly 20 years since surrender of the German World war fleet, today could laugh at naval restrictions imposed by the Treaty of Versailles.

It was Nov. 21, 1918 — ten days after the Armistice — that the German fleet gave up and was interned under British guard at Scapa flow between the Orkney islands and the North sea.

Seven months later the Versailles treaty-makers limited Germany to six 10,000-ton battleships, six light cruisers, 12 destroyers and 12 torpedoboats.

Germany began arming openly in 1935. That same year an Anglo-German naval treaty was signed pledging Germany to limit her naval strength to 35 per cent of Britain's navy.

Today Adolf Hitler could parade nearly 150 war vessels.

British Engineer Under Arrest After Flight Into Soviet Area

MOSCOW, Nov. 21. (AP)—A British engineer who made a madcap airplane flight into Soviet Russia to try to get his Russianborn wife out of the country is under arrest here.

The engineer, Bryan Grover, without entry visa for himself or exit visa for his wife, flew from Stockholm and landed last Monday at Stariza, 100 miles short of Moscow. He was arrested there.

He has been trying for over a year to get a permit for his wife to leave. Russian law does not recognize marriage to a foreigner as an acceptable reason for leaving the country.

The two were married while he worked in the Soviet oil industry several years ago. He later went to Iran (Uersia), intending to return for his wife, but was unable to obtain a reentry visa.

He hoped by the flight to attract attention of some high Soviet official who would aid his cause.

Author Of 'Dry Guillotine' Is Fearful Of Being Sent Back

BY JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—Rene Belbenoit, author of "Dry Guillotine," which describes his 15 years in the steaming jungles of the penal colony in French Guiana, said today he is fearful of being sent back there even though a petition bearing 6,000 names has been presented to President Roosevelt in his behalf.

"If I go back, I go back," he remarked quietly. "Then I will escape again, unless I am killed. And it is easy to die in the colony. Easy to die with no one to take the blame."

He's a dark little man, weighing hardly more than 100 pounds, with black curly hair. His eyes are filled with a profound sadness; his face deeply lined, and he smiles only rarely.

Those who have read his book know his story—a veteran of the World war at 19, with additional service in Morocco, he was sentenced to the South American colony for theft for eight years. He made four frus-

Tech And TCU May Both Play At Dallas

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 21.—J. Curtis Sanford of the Cotton Bowl Athletic association began his ticket sale drive for the event today and announced pressure has been brought to bear on the association to extend invitations to both Texas Christian university and Texas Tech to participate in two games instead of the one originally planned.

He said Elliott Roosevelt of Fort Worth would invite his father, the president, to attend the games. The plan is discussed by Sanford and Roosevelt would include one game Saturday, Dec. 31, and the other as scheduled Monday, Jan. 2.

Tech would headline the Dec. 31 game as the Southwest's representative, and T. C. U. the Jan. 2 game.

At Fort Worth, Athletic Director Howard Grubbs of T. C. U. said the Christians have not committed themselves to any post-season game. "Reports that we will play in the Cotton bowl are pure fiction," he added.

Sanford said Roosevelt had no official connection with the Cotton Bowl.

School's Expansion To Be Pushed; New Enrollment Is Set

Members of the city board of school trustees are just as much "in the air" as anyone as to when the building program can be started for which provision was made by $150,000 bond issue last September.

This was the statement this morning by school officials who gave assurance that the delay will be no longer than necessity compels.

Congestion A Problem

This information followed the disclosure that crowding within the schools is becoming a problem of increasing seriousness.

Enrollment at the end of the second month of the new term was announced as being 6,085, an all-time record, and an increase of 808 children over the same time last year.

The increase is more than 15 per cent within a single year. Cities are relatively few, officials asserted, which can show any such percentage of gain within 10 years.

The gain, according to W. B. Irvin, city superintendent, would dictate an addition of 20 members to the faculties of city schools if educational standards are to be maintained on level with those of the past in Lubbock. Only seven additions have been made to the faculty, he said, there being no place to put the 13 others who are needed.

Delay in starting the building program, officials explained, is due to an application now pending in national offices of the Public Works administration in Washington, D. C. The district has sought a grant of approximately $127,000. There still is a possibility, the explanation continued, that the grant will be approved. However, the door will be closed to any such assistance if work is started on a building before final action is taken on the applica-

NO FURTHER ALLOCATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP) — The Public Works administration took stock of its 1938 spending program today and announced informally no further allocations would be made to new projects.

Officials said the $26,104,526 remaining of the original $750,000,000 provided by congress for non-federal projects, would be "held in reserve" to meet deficiencies on projects already under way. They said actual costs often ran higher than estimates.

Air Force May Be Major Unit

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. — Government military experts said today the administration's prospective armament program promises to upset the established relationship of air forces to the army and navy.

At present, air forces are ranked officially as auxiliaries to both ground troops and the fleet's battleships and cruisers.

Might Total 100,000

Officers and men of the army air corps compose only about 21,000 of the army's aggregate of 1,000 for all units. Quadrupling the corps, officially suggested Friday as a possibility by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, would call for an air force of upwards of 100,000.

Johnson, a key figure in the administration's resurvey of defense needs, hinted that Mr. Roosevelt might ask congress to authorize an army air force of 9,280 first line planes. By official estimates, these would require 95,000 or more pilots and mechanics.

Dubbed "Fantastic" At First

When the first suggestion of multiplying American forces was advanced after the Munich conference, some high ranking officers privately dubbed it "fantastic."

Mr. Roosevelt indicated its purpose when he announced last week

FDR En Route To Warm Springs And Annual Thanksgiving Feto

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN, En route to Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 21. (AP)—President Roosevelt headed toward Chattanooga, Tenn., today to inspect briefly a unit of one of the New Deal's earliest social and economic experiments—the Tennessee Valley authority.

Bound for a two weeks' stay at his "other home" on pine mountain at Warm Springs, Ga., he detoured for a first-hand peek at Chickamauga dam. It is one of seven power-navagation projects built or under construction in the Tennessee valley for development of cheap electric power.

The president also arranged to visit the scenes of the Civil war battles of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, where 75 years ago blue and gray forces from 29 states struggled for possession of Chattanooga.

He planned to leave the city early in the afternoon, have lunch and dinner on his special train, and arrive in Warm Springs about 8 p. m. (c. s. t.)

It's Time To Plan Thanksgiving Feast So Let's Talk Turkey Right Now

List Of Musts Is Big Aid

BY LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
Associated Press Feature Writer

It's time to talk turkey—and trimmings.

Early preparations make for an unflustered hostess and that means more fun for her family as well as their guests.

So start your planning now. Make lists for shopping, marketing, menu hints and decorations. Jot down the table layout, china and silver requirements, the order of work, serving ideas and other helpful suggestions. Plan something to serve friends who drop in to call or for evening refreshments.

Heading The List

The turkey probably will head the market list. Select a bird large enough to provide plenty of leftovers. One that is plump, a good clear yellow color on the flesh and with fat evenly distributed. Move the wings and legs back and forth to determine the tenderness. It is usually best to let a dependable food dealer help you pick your turkey.

Brown the fowl well and then allow thirty minutes to a pound for the roasting. A little extra cooking, however, will do no harm.

For stuffing, use the family favorite. You might give it a special flavor by adding a cup of small oysters, sliced nut meats, mushrooms or sausage.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce

1 1-2 cups granulated sugar
1 pound (4 cups) cranberries
2 cups water

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open. (Five minutes usually is enough). Remove from fire and allow the sauce to remain in the vessel until cool. One pound of cranberries makes about two and one-half pounds of sauce.

For a thinner sauce, just bring sugar and water to a boil, then add cranberries and cook until they stop popping.

To launch the feast you might serve tomato juice, pepped up with minced dill pickles and sliced stuffed olives. Or try avocado rings filled with crushed pineapple and grapefruit cubes.

If you serve soup, either cream of corn, topped with popped corn kernels, or mushroom broth, steaming hot with a sprinkling of minced parsley and a dash of chili sauce are good suggestions.

Instead Of Salad

A relish tray, supplanting the salad course adds color and simplifies preparation and serving. Heap it with icy, crisp carrot strings, celery, olives, pickled beets and spiced pears.

Glazed red apples or pears, tinted red, dotted with mint jelly help carry out the harvest theme. Use them for salad or to garnish the fowl or a dish of vegetables.

Stuffing The Vegetables

Turnips and onions are traditional Thanksgiving vegetables. Why not try stuffing them with piquant corn or relish? Beets, in a spicy sauce, give needed tartness to fowl. Instead of potatoes you might serve plain or wild boiled rice. It's delicious with giblet gravy.

A vegetable platter allows for choice. Set a large steamed cauliflower in center and surround it with brussels sprouts, buttered green beans and diced carrots. Pour melted butter and seasonings over all the vegetables just before putting it on the table.

For variety, serve cranberries in gelatin combinations, as a relish or as sherbet.

For dessert, you might try tarts, for a change. There are a variety of possible fillings—cocoanut cream, chocolate ice cream, orange sherbet, preserved fruits or a gelatin blend. Make the tarts the day before but put them together just before serving time.

You might dress up the proverbial pumpkin pie with a meringue topping or pass with it whipped cream flavored with candied ginger and orange peel, spicy hard sauce or vanilla ice cream.

Rich, heavy desserts for a Thanksgiving feast are giving away these days to assorted fresh fruits, cheeses, raisins, nuts and dates.

The Thanksgiving bird almost has to have cranberries or cranberry sauce in its retinue.

Duke, agronomy instructor, left last week. Saves Him A Year—Frankness in admitting he "shot craps," saved J. P. Robertson, a negro charged with forgery, a year in the state penitentiary this morning. Standing before Judge Daniel A. Blair in 72nd district court, he admitted that he played with galloping dominoes, while being questioned by the court. "For your frankness, I'll take off a year," said Judge Blair. "You're the first one to admit it in a long time."

"Drive Slowly"—If you want to get there on time, there's a paradoxical rule that will see you through: Drive slowly. A federal organizer, after conducting a meeting in Lubbock Saturday night, was in a hurry to get to San Augustine. He was halted a mile or so out of the city limits by a highway patrolman. He returned to the court of S. E. McMillan, justice of peace, and paid a fine and costs, amounting to $13.15.

Reservations may be made at the speech department at the college. Price, including roundtrip fare and ticket to the Putlitzer prize play, will be $3.25.

Tax Deadline Nears—Nov. 30 is deadline for those who propose paying their taxes in "split payments," said H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector. June 30 will be the last half deadline. For those who plan paying taxes in a lump sum, Jan. 31 is deadline, said the tax official.

Four Permits Issued—Four building permits for residences to cost $300 each were issued this morning, increasing the total for the month to $201, 408 and for the year to $2,946,212, according to records in the city building inspections department.

Return With Deer—City Commissioner W. G. McMillan, W. T. Gaston, business manager of Texas Technological college, and R. F. Madera, Tech student, returned Saturday night from a deer hunt on the ranch of Madera's father in Culberson county. Gaston brought down the largest buck, a ten-pointer; McMillan got one with eight points and Madera's had six. The party left Tuesday.

Class Hour Changed—A class of teachers of the First Presbyterian church school, which has been meeting Wednesday night, is to meet Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock instead. Rev. J. M. Lewis, pastor, will teach "Jesus and His Teaching," Tuesday night.

Bids To Be Opened—Bids for construction of a grade school building in Seagraves were to be opened there this afternoon. With a PWA allotment, total available for the structure will be about $54,000 said S. B. Haynes, of Haynes & Strange, architect.

New Nickels Here — Seen a new "Jefferson" nickel? Lubbock National bank received a shipment of $50 worth of them this morning. Lorenz Ellis, teller, said he had ordered $100 worth through the Denver mint, but had received only half that amount through the Dallas Federal Reserve bank—"since, they said, the supply at the moment is limited." A check of several downtown establishments showed only one place, a drug store, had "taken in" one of the new coins, "from some fellow downstate."

Camera Club Meets—South Plains Camera club will elect officers; hear a discussion of prize-winning prints in a recent exhibit, by R. I. Lockard of the architectural and allied arts department of Texas Technological college; and will discuss plans for the coming year at a meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at 1719 Broadway, according to notices mailed by Ray F. Red, secretary-treasurer.

Canada, Latin-Americas Could Aid Mutual Defense

Materials For War Available

BY EDWARD E. BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Canada and the 20 Latin-American republics could contribute more than a million trained men, along with warplanes and naval craft, to the mutual defense of the western hemisphere which President Roosevelt has envisioned.

Probably even more important, military experts said today, is the fact that their cooperation would assure availability of vast stores of strategic materials which the United States lacks, and provide additional bases for the American navy.

Speaking privately, informed officials said that in the event of aggression from Europe or Asia, the United States would welcome access to their nickel, manganese, rubber, wool, tin and coffee as much as military cooperation of a direct nature.

The United States fleet, rivaled in might only by Great Britain's overshadows the naval craft of Canada and the Latin-American nations.

Weaknesses Are Cited

The army air armada of upwards of 9,000 planes which Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have decided to recommend to congress, coupled with a naval air force of 3,000 or more planes, would expect slight reinforcement from the few hundred military planes credited to the other American governments.

In strategic and critical minerals and other materials, however, the United States has numerous weaknesses.

Mutual defense of the hemisphere, if developed to the fullest possible extent, would provide for the fleet important Canadian and South American bases which would be vital in the defence of the Panama Canal. Negatively, it would lessen the possibility that a hostile nation might find lodgment for its warplanes within striking distance of the canal, or of the United States border.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles due to common colds hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

One To Be Remembered

By Collier Parris

IT IS DOUBTFUL if any of the Albuquerque trippers have recovered sufficiently from their trials, tribulations and nervous twitchings to give the folks who stayed at home a coherent recital of last Saturday's happenings.

Nor do we propose to be the first to admit recovery. We have seen several football games in our day, and some of them have been thrilling indeed, but we never saw one that brought on the big jitters like Texas Tech's game with New Mexico in Albuquerque Saturday. We don't think we could survive another one like it.

The bare facts, of course, are simple enough; all that happened was the turning of a 7-7 tie into a 17-7 victory by the mere procedure of scoring ten large points in the last 31 seconds of play.

Except to continue pouring congratulations and honor upon Jodie Marek, who did not wait until the last half minute to start starring, and to commend Elmer Tarbox and others for certain dashes of good football, we can not give the Red Raiders very much for the first hour and 59 minutes of the ball game. They looked quite ill and decrepit, to say the least, although we would take none of the honor away from an inspired bunch of New Mexico football players.

The statistics you might have read in Sunday's paper showed Tech to be superior in all of the more important details of play. The Raiders ran up and down the field, piling up yardage and first downs to a one-sided advantage. Getting over that last stripe, however, was something else again.

The terrific "breaks" that went against the Raiders were enough to discourage and wear out anybody's ball club, and considering those breaks, we should not be too harsh with the team.

Most talked-of incident, outside of Marek's field goal and touchdown runback of a pass interception, was the case of Elmer "The Great" Tarbox and The Mistaken Identity.

As you have heard, Tarbox, satchelled a splendid pass from Gene Barnett, good for a 42-yard gain, Tarbox being brought down from behind on the Lobo 2-yard line. As he fell, Elmer lateralled—the boys had been doing a lot of lateral passing—and it was a nice little lateral, too; well executed, well timed and well caught. Nobody was between the catcher of the lateral and the Lobo goal line, and under ordinary circumstances, it would have counted six points. Only trouble was that the guy catching the lateral belonged to the other side.

Later in the day, your reporter ran into Tarbox in the hotel lobby. He started turning red and scuffling his feet as we approached, giggled a spell, turned redder, and said: "Yeah, I know what you want; it was this way: When I was tackled, I looked out of the corner of my eye to see if any of the boys were handy. I barely caught a glimpse of a red jersey, and the guy wearing it said, 'Give it to me, Tarbox!' so I let him have it. Yeah, it was a little embarrassing."

● ● ●

No less brutal, although more excusable, was the break that followed Tarbox's ill-advised lateral (just why Elmer wanted to lateral to anybody, when he had first down on the 2 yard line, he hasn't explained yet) by a few plays. Tech worked the ball down to the same 2-yard spot, that is, Jodie Marek had worked it down there with three runs of 17, 8 and 9 yards respectively—and as he started over for six points, a Lobo lineman jabbed the ball from his arms. Before it had time to hit the earth, another New Mexico man had caught it and started the other way.

Such carryings on as that is enough to kill the spirit of any team, and from then until the last minute, Tech was no better than Chillicothe Institute at its worst.

● ● ●

JODIE MAREK, man of the hour—in that case, man of the minute—goes down as THE hero of that ball game. In the heat of describing his 25-yard field goal—it would have been good from the 40-yard line because "I just knew I could do it"—Marek's earlier work was all but forgotten. But he was the main spring of Tech's offense from start to finish. First three plays of the game saw Marek carry the ball 14 yards, and he kept up that sort of thing all day, averaging better than 6 yards per try.

● ● ●

His runback of the pass interception, although the most colorful run of the day, was, of course, an anti-climax. But it counted for seven points, and made the score look better.

In that runback, however, most of the credit must go to a couple of guys about whom you read little.

We speak of big Elbert "Hipockets" Overton and George Philbrick. Overton is officially listed as a tackle, Philbrick as an end. They are two of the most conscientious, hard working, steady playing boys who ever played a down of football for Texas Tech or anybody else. What they lack in natural ability, they do their darndest to make up in spirit, enthusiasm and the old college try. Philbrick has played quite considerable at end, and Overton gets in practically every game—not as a tackle, but as a kicker-off. And he can really kick off!

Overton had dashed in to kick off for Tech after Marek's field goal, and Philbrick was playing end. Everybody else was just about tuckered. Old Hipockets, however, didn't kick off that time. The Techs called a meetin' and decided to let J. B. Gilbert kick off. There was time for but three plays, everybody knew, and there was no sense in kicking off into the arms of a Lobo receiver who might accidentally get loose and spoil the works. So Gilbert kicked out of bounds. The New Mexico crowd booed this play, but all's fair in football, etc. Overton stayed in, playing the other tackle, and his part came in when Marek intercepted the last desperate Lobo pass, final play of the game.

● ● ●

Running ahead of Marek down the sideline, Overton screened a defensive halfback from Marek, while Philbrick batted down the end. After Marek had passed the "screened out" man, Overton neatly and quite forcefully blocked out the defensive tailback, and there was nobody in Jodie's way. All he had to do was keep running, and he had the rest of the afternoon to do it. Credit for the run, therefore, belongs mostly to Overton, then to Philbrick, finally to Marek, who had picked up enough credit already.

But PLEASE, Messrs. Red Raiders, don't ever do that way again. After all, we spectators are human, and can stand just so much.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—So Harvard starts the campaign by getting kicked around four times, and winds up with the Big Three title . . . well, if you didn't know what kind of a season it was, you do now . . . this corner has been asked to recommend a player manager (catcher) for an up-and-coming club in a fast class "D" league . . . Those interested, please write in a hurry . . . That Davey O'Brien didn't hurt his All-America chances even a little bit against Rice . . . The big little TCU-er only tossed three touchdown passes, scored once himself, gained 108 yards on the ground and 117 in the air . . . Outside of that, he wasn't busy at all . . .

Tim Nara's New York pro Giants' franchise cost him just $2,500 . . . And yesterday's game against the Packers drew only 48,000 fans . . . Incidentally, it looks like the biggest year ever for the national pro league . . . Even Bert Bell's Philly Eagles have plenty of black ink on the books . . . Is it true Wallace Wade is thinking of making his Duke backs stick their hands in the molasses barrel before Pitt comes to town, to cure old fumble-itis? . . .

Iowa State managed only 87 yards through the line against Oklahoma, and some of the folks think that didn't make those Sooners look so good . . . What do they expect—bingo? . . . Arkansas has a bunch of midgets on its basketball squad this year . . . Nine of 'em are only six feet, and Tiny Freiberger is a mere six-eight . . . Wonder if even Elmer Layden knew Will Hofer was on that Notre Dame "army" before last Saturday . . . All he did was go 65 yards for a touchdown and then boot a field goal to personally manhandle Northwestern.

Leroy Fry Within 13 Points Of Nation's Grid Scoring Lead

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Leroy Fry, Texas A. and I. halfback, rose to within four points of the nation's scoring leadership by tallying 13 points Saturday on two touchdowns and a conversion. He now is only four points in back of Gaylon Smith of Southwestern (Tenn.) who leads with 97.

Fry has 14 touchdowns and nine conversions for a total of 93. Smith who didn't score Saturday, has 16 touchdowns and a single point after.

W. B. Rushing To Pay Tribute To Playing Ability Of Tech Netter

Tribute to Sidney Moore's tennis playing ability will be paid this week by W. B. Rushing of the varsity book store in the form of a $12 tennis racket.

If Moore, Texas Tech ace, hadn't defeated Kendall Jones in a match last Monday at Abilene Christian college, he would be paying Rushing 50 cents.

Jones has been champion of the Texas conference two years and when Moore offered to bet 50 cents against a $12 racket he would defeat the Abilene netter, Rushing confidently accepted.

Four Sectional Champions Sporting Brand New Crowns

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Four sectional football champions are sporting brand new crowns that can't be knocked off until next season; the 1938 campaign is practically over in some regions; but the big question of which teams are to be rated the best in the nation, which two will meet New Year's day in the Rose Bowl and in other post-season games, still is to be decided.

Most of these problems probably will be ironed out this week when the Thanksgiving day classics and next Saturday's climax games bring the season almost to its end.

Minnesota On Top

Last Saturday saw the Big Ten campaign close with Minnesota on top again; Oklahoma complete its sweep of Big Six honors; Duke walk off with the Southern conference crown; Utah take the title in the Rocky Mountain Big Seven and California clinch at least a tie for Pacific coast conference honors.

Each of these new champions has a claim of some sort to high national ranking, but there are other claims which must be considered. The "major" unbeaten and untied teams are Georgetown in the East; Notre Dame and Oklahoma in the Mid West; Texas Christian in the Southwest and Tennessee and Duke in the South. Texas Tech and Western Reserve may be as good as some of these but they haven't been able to prove it yet.

Army-Navy Game Standout

From the sectional and "bowl" standpoint, the major events on this week's program are Thursday's Southern California-U. C. L. A. game, the probably decisive Tennessee-Kentucky and Texas Christian-Southern Methodist contests and the intersectional battle between Duke and Pittsburgh.

In the East the Army-Navy classic heads this week's slate; Pittsburgh goes for a decisive test against Duke.

In Thanksgiving games, Penn and Cornell clash; Columbia meets Brown, and George Washington plays West Virginia. Fordham winds up against New York university Saturday.

By conquering a stubborn Iowa State team, Oklahoma's Sooners took the Big Six Crown and only a pair of games with Oklahoma Aggies and Washington State stands between them and an unbeaten season. Nebraska winds up against Kansas State; while Missouri plays Kansas Thursday.

Tech Meets Marquette

In the Southwest Texas Christian still has to beat Southern Methodist Saturday before they can claim the title and look toward a post-season bowl. In "consolation" games, Texas plays Texas A. and M. Thursday while Arkansas tackles Tulsa. Baylor and Rice come together Saturday.

Texas Tech, which kept its perfect record only because Jodie Marek managed to score 10 points in the last 40 seconds to beat New Mexico, 17-7, meets Marquette, Saturday.

Unbeaten Tennessee can clinch the Southeastern conference crown by beating Kentucky Thursday although the Vols have to meet Mississippi State Thursday while Tulane Tulane and Ole Miss, with one defeat each, are in range if Tennessee should slip up. Alabama plays Vanderbilt and Mississippi meets Mississippi State Saturday while Tulane meets Louisiana State Saturday.

How Oklahoma Paved Way For Big Six Title

This diagram-proto, shows how McCullough's pass in the first period to Jennings was good for a 30-yard gain and put the Oklahoma University ball on the Iowa State 3-yard line. Seymour went over for the touchdown on the next play. Oklahoma annexed the Big Six conference championship by defeating the Cyclones 10 to 0.

District Titles At Stake During Week

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff Writer

A "turnover" of more than 50 per cent in district champions loomed today as the Texas schoolboy football campaign entered the final week prior to start of the state play-off.

Six 1937 champions are already out of the race, Abilene falling in the Oil Belt, North Side in the Fort Worth district, Woodrow Wilson in the Dallas district, Longview in district 9, Thomas Jefferson in the San Antonio district and Mission in the Rio Grande valley district.

Waco Is Favored

Austin (El Paso) has only an outside chance to repeat in district 4, odds are heavily against Sherman coming back in district 5, Lufkin is expected to again win in district 10 and Waco is favored to replace Temple in district 11.

Amarillo faces a hard battle with Lubbock in the fight to again wear the crown in the Panhandle. Wichita Falls goes up against a strong Vernon team in an effort to repeat in district 2 and Conroe is likely to be tied for the district 13 pennant.

No Champion Last Year

Corpus Christi does not appear in danger in district 15. District 14 last year had no champion due to a controversy over use of twelfth graders. Port Arthur has virtually clinched the title this season.

Highland Park (Dallas) needs only to defeat a comparatively weak Sulphur Springs team to win the district 6 championship again. Should the Highlanders lose it would be the year's outstanding upset.

Prospects are good that the four undefeated, untied teams left in the state will retain that ranking this week. Waco probably faces the strongest challenge in the Temple team but most critics think the Tigers will come through and many predict they will reach the finals of the state race. Gainesville plays Sherman, Tyler meets Marshall and Lufkin engages Livingston.

Tyler's Record Is Best

Tyler boasts the best record with 304 points to 19 for the opposition in nine games. Waco is next with 284 to 19 in eight games while Lufkin has run up 284 against 20 in nine games. Gainesville shows 260 against 41 in nine games.

Wichita Falls, Corpus Christi, Brownsville and Sunset (Dallas) are undefeated but have been tied.

The picture by districts at the present time

1—Amarillo and Lubbock undefeated play Thursday for championship.

2—Wichita Falls and Vernon undefeated play Thursday for championship.

Sweetwater Vs. Breckenridge

3—Sweetwater, western division winner, plays Breckenridge, eastern division titlists, for championship Thursday.

4—Bowie (El Paso) undefeated, plays Odessa Thursday. Can tie for title with Odessa and Austin (El Paso) even with a loss.

5—Gainesville undefeated. Can win title by tying or defeating Sherman Thursday.

6—Highland Park undefeated. Can get no less than a tie for championship with McKinney-Greenville winner even with a loss to Sulphur Springs Thursday.

Titles Already Won

7—Masonic Home (Fort Worth) has already won title.

8—Sunset (Dallas) has already won championship.

9—Tyler undefeated. Can win title with tie or victory over Marshall Thursday. Gladewater has only one loss.

10—Lufkin undefeated. Can win title with tie or victory over Livingston Thursday. Palestine and Livingston retain mathematical chance at title.

11—Waco plays Temple Thursday for championship.

12—Austin plays Kerrville Friday for championship.

13—San Jacinto and Reagan of Houston and Conroe tied for lead. San Jacinto plays Reagan Saturday. Conroe engages Lamar (Houston) Friday. Championship tie looms with district committee untangling it.

Port Arthur Undefeated

14—Port Arthur undefeated. Can win title with tie or victory over Galveston Saturday.

15—Corpus Christi undefeated. Can win title with victory over Robstown Thursday. Can tie for title, should Robstown win, with winner of Laredo-Kingsville game Wednesday.

16—Brownsville plays Pharr-San Juan-Alamo Thursday for championship.

Games will be played every day this week except today. Austin (Houston) engages Sam Houston (Houston) Tomorrow in a district 13 conference tilt. Several games are scheduled Wednesday and a scattering of contests is to be found on Friday and Saturday's schedules. Most of the games are set for Thursday.

Westerners To Drill Hard

Stretch preparations for their prime test of the season will begin this afternoon for the Lubbock Westerners.

Two hard days of practice and a Wednesday afternoon limbering up exercise are scheduled for the high school lads as they prepare again to attempt to crash the domination of Amarillo's gridiron teams over District 1 clubs.

The teams will get together in their annual traditional game Thanksgiving day at Texas Tech field.

All Hands In Shape

Westerner workouts last week were light, but Coach Weldon Chapman promises nothing easy during the last days before the game. All hands are in good physical condition and appeared last week to be mentally right.

E. J. (Pinky) Lowrey, business manager of high school athletics, said Sunday that reserved seat tickets spoken for but not taken up should be called for by noon Tuesday. That is deadline for claiming tickets.

To Go On Sale Again

Those not called for at three ticket agencies — Hub Clothiers, Lubbock Hotel drug, and Mark Halsey's No. 2 drug — will be re-placed on sale Wednesday if unclaimed Tuesday, he said.

Seating facilities for between 16,000 and 17,000 spectators will be provided by game time. Some temporary stands already have been erected and others will be placed on the field.

Amarillo officials have asked for 500 additional general admission tickets.

TCU Facing Test At Dallas On Saturday

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 21.—Terrific Texas Christian, a football team that honestly doesn't know how good it could be, may get around to finding out next Saturday.

Nine consecutive walkaway victories are theirs but all of them bundled together couldn't look as big as Southern Methodist's Mustangs—their hosts here Saturday.

Incident Of 1936 Recalled

Victims, coaches, sports writers and fans agreed Texas Christian was the finest team in Southwest history after it romped on Rice, 29-17 Saturday. But the same group opined the Southern Methodist matter was still another thing. They recalled the 1936 incident when the two neighboring schools scrapped it out for the Rose bowl invitation—and TCU lost.

The Christians, certainly the most versatile team in the sector's football life, can strike either way—by ground or air. Through nine triumphs it had piled up 1607 yards on passes, most of them from little Davey O'Brien, a grand Irish lad who has chunked 18 touchdown passes. But the running game was even better. O'Brien, quite a ball lugger also, Connie Sparks, Earl Clark, Johnny Hall et al, have powered through enemy lines for 1690 yards.

More Than Helmet Rack

All of which proves that O'Brien, from his quarterbacking post, uses his head for more than a helmet rack. His generalship, the mixing of passes and runs, has been the guiding force in TCU's amazing run.

Southern Methodist has sophomore backs—Ray Mallouf, Johnny Clement, Will Mullenweg and Roy Holbrook—who quickly forgot the meaning of pressure and started playing genuine football after a rocky start. Mallouf and Clement can pass in a big way, and the aerial play Saturday should be the best of the year.

Three Top Scorers

In Sparks, O'Brien and Clark, the Christians have the conference's three top scorers—in that order.

ONLY a little time and a victory over the Amarillo Sandies on Thanksgiving Day now stand between the Lubbock Westerners and gold footballs! "Don't be afraid of this fellow," the superintendent told the farmer. "He's not dangerous."

So the farmer took the corn down to the barns, the inmate hopped up into the wagon and started to unload.

"Did you ever work on a farm?" the farmer asked the inmate.

"Yeah," said the inmate. "I was raised on a farm. By the way," he went on to the farmer, "were you ever in an insane asylum?"

"Nope," admitted the farmer, "I never was."

"Well, I'll tell you this much," the inmate declared, "it's got farming beat to death!"

The Plainsman knew Rodney Dutcher well.

Upon occasions the writer has talked shop with him in Washington; has prowled around behind the scenes in the capital with him; has been at his side in the press sections of Democratic National conventions.

But long before The Plainsman ever met "Dutch" in person; long before he learned to personally know him, he liked Rodney Dutcher. For as he edited "Dutch's" column day after day, over the years, he grew to appreciate the man for his sterling worth as a Washington correspondent and learned to read between the lines and to understand how fair, how honest and how utterly wed to his job that Rodney Dutcher was.

FOR more than 11 years, Rodney Dutcher has served The Journal as one of its Washington correspondents and as the one Washington correspondent whose column has been used, without exception, every day.

Over that stretch of time, The Plainsman, like many another editor who used Dutcher's column as a daily "must", realized that here was "a newspaperman's newspaperman." For Dutcher was "the McCoy."

He didn't have to stoop to idle gossip and chatter to whip out a readable column.

He was not of the "key-hole school" of Washington writers, now so popular with editors and readers, alike.

Instead, he was a reporter who gathered and wrote facts—and wrote them well and interestingly.

There was nothing "flashy" about "Dutch's" columns, or, in fact, about "Dutch," himself.

He was plain, wholesome and honest. So was his work. And when Dutcher said Congress, or the President, or some other high official, would do thus and so in the future, that's what happened as time turned the pattern.

As a prognosticator, he was supreme. He simply knew what he was talking about, and didn't get "out on a limb."

But now "Dutch" is gone.

Of course, we'll get another good man to take his place and Washington will be "covered" by another column.

But "Dutch," who by this time has pulled on an eye-shade, found him a typewriter and gone to work Up There, will be missed.

He was a swell guy, and a great reporter—which, after all, is the best compliment that can be paid any newspaperman.

CHAPTER III

Reaching the entrance of the Golden Bowl, Bob Tait found the big doors closed tight. A persistent knocking conjured up the red face of Detective Officer Michael Dunphy.

"Hello, Mike," Tait greeted him. "Hows chances to get in?"

"In is it? You're the first one that's been wanting to get in. The rest have been wanting to get out." Reluctantly, Dunphy shifted his huge bulk to admit Tait.

The great Bowl was empty now save a comparatively small knot of people down near the orchestra platform. Tait recognized the back of Detective Officer Dannie Feeley, the most persistent of the force from down at headquarters.

"Where're all the rest of the mob, Mike?"

"Don't worry," said Michael Dunphy. "Dannie has watched that. They're upstairs, the women in one room and the men in another, and they're being frisked for suspicious belongings. The worst of it is, about 50 or 75 got out of here right after it happened." The detective sighed wearily. "We don't know where they went — an' we don't know furthermore, who they are. A fine kettle of fish."

"Well," Tait answered goodhumoredly, "there's nothing like getting in a lot of probable suspects if you're going to commit a murder."

"Yeah. I saw a movie once where a murder was committed at a football game."

"That was worse than this, anyhow."

• • •

"Was it now?" denied Mike Dunphy. "Say, that was pie compared with this! At least guys at football games talk sense. I can't understand a word those band players say. That little guy there with the clarinet." The detective raised his voice to mimic the clarinet player. "'I nver saw the tomcat feelin' better,' this little guy tells Dannie. 'He was in the groove tonight. He was sending it out of the agony pipe like nobody's business.' That's the way they talk!"

Tait laughed. "That's the language of swing music, Mike. Know what they call the dancers?"

"No, I do not."

"Jitterbugs — and whackies. Sometimes they call them ickies."

Michael Dunphy's blue eyes widened. "Well, I hope the saints preserve us! Where they talk like that, anything could happen! Jitterbugs is right!"

"Don't let it get you down," Tait advised. "Remember you lived through the jazz age."

"Not only that. I lived through it 'way back to when they were Turkey Trotting. But I wasn't no jitterbug." Dunphy looked over at his cohort, questioning the band. "Funny thing, the dame he married just before it happened—she skipped out. That looks mighty queer."

Tait pretended not be hear. He sauntered toward the group, began listening to the questions that Dannie Feeley was barking out. The boys in the band seemed obviously broken. If their expressions and voices could be depended up, they had worshipped Ludden Dombey. And Bob Tait had reason to believe this was a fact.

"All right," said Feeley, then. "You boys can go on home now. But I'll be wanting you. Don't forget that."

Tait heard the smooth, well-modulated voice of Harris Rogers. "I'll be glad to stay, Officer Feeley. As manager of the band and Mr. Dombey's personal affairs I can probably answer any questions the boys could."

"That's enough for now," Feeley said. "The question I want answered right now is why Dombey's brand-new wife isn't here."

Tait saw Rogers smiling toward him. "Perhaps Bob Tait can answer that one. I believe I saw them together just after it happened."

Feeley whirled. "Hello, Bob. Is that a fact? Did you see Mrs. Dombey?"

"Yes. I was at the table with her and her friend—and Rogers here."

"What happened to her afterward?" Feeley wanted to know.

"I took her to the ladies' lounge. She was pretty well hit, naturally. Then I asked her friend, Anne Lester, to look after her. I imagine they went on to the apartment they shared."

Feeley studied Tait a moment. He seemed annoyed, and attempting to hide that annoyance. "You know the address?"

Tait gave it to him, and Feeley yelled toward the doleful Mike Dunphy. "Did you hear that, Mike? Get up there and see if the two women are there. If they are, just hang around until I come along later."

"You bet, Dannie." Dunphy disappeared into the hallway.

As casually as his trembling fingers would permit, Bob Tait lit a cigaret. "I'll drift along, Dannie. If you need me for anything, I'll be around."

Feeley looked scornful. "If I need you I'll be in a bad fix, Mr. Tait." But there was the hint of a lilt in Feeley's voice. He had always liked Bob Tait, and they had naturally encountered each other often.

"Good night, Rogers."

The manager of The Swingateers nodded. "So long, Tait. Thanks for taking care of Mrs. Dombey."

The reamrk nettled Tait. He wondered, a little angrily, if Harris Rogers felt that his job of managing The Swingateers went on to managing Lud Dombey's widow. He didn't care for the proprietary air Rogers had shown; and, above all, he didn't like the way Rogers had set Feeley on him.

But there was little time to think about that now. The moment Tait was out of sight of Feeley and Rogers he took to his heels in earnest. A half minute later he was at the curb, his hand on the handle of a taxi door.

"Claremont Apartments," he ordered. "And I'm in a real rush."

He hoped that Mike Dunphy was still at the cigar stand, choosing a favorite smoke before starting for the Claremont Apartments. And if Mike ran true to form, that was where he was.

He hoped something else, too—and fervently. It was that he'd find Myrna at the apartment. There'd be plenty to explain to Feeley if she hadn't shown up there. And if she was there Tait wanted to talk to her—talk to her before Dunphy and Feeley arrived to badger her into saying things she didn't mean.

"I supopse I'm nuts," he told himself. "I ought to keep out of this."

But he knew that he wasn't going to keep out of it.

THEY MUST BE TUNE-TESTED

So involved are the ramifications of a trade treaty between nations that only the test of time can prove what the results of any such agreement may be. In the negotiations for such treaties, each participating nation attempts to get as much in exchange for as little as the ingenuity of skilled diplomats can procure.

Thus we may be wise in holding our enthusiasm within reasonable limits until time has tested the newly signed treaty between the United States, Great Britain and Canada. We have obtained trade concessions in those countries. But we have had to grant some in return.

Fundamentally, there is nothing to make impossible a trade agreement between nations under which all benefit with none suffering. In actual practice, however, that rarely occurs. The benefit for all concerned may more than offset any possible harm—but still an element of harm remains. That probably will prove true of the newly signed pacts.

We have reason to expect that they may improve economic conditions in our country to an extent which remains to be determined by test. Unless they do accomplish a measure of improvement, there is no justification for them. But to expect that they may prove a panacea for all our economic ills—or for any considerable portion of them—is to be illusionary to an absurd degree.

Loss At Polls In General Election To Cause New Deal To Drop Reform Program--Dutcher

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—President Roosevelt has at least partially digested election returns and it is safe to predict that the administration won't even try to achieve any new major reforms at the next session of Congress.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of Rodney Dutcher's last few columns written prior to his sudden death Saturday. The Journal will continue to run Mr. Dutcher's remaining comments until all are exhausted. Meanwhile, arrangements are being made for a successor in his Washington field).

Attention and ballyhoo will be concentrated on proposals conceded to be generally popular and unlikely to be blocked by coalitions of Republicans and conservative Democrats.

Dutcher

This strategy, arising from realization that the heyday of New Deal power is over, aims simultaneously at rebuilding administration popularity and prestige and at an aggressive program of activity calculated to offset attacks on existing New Deal laws.

Government reorganization, for which the President had intended to press before the new Congress in January, almost certainly will be dropped from the Roosevelt program in 1939.

Rearmament and national defense measures will be the chief measures on which Roosevelt will go to bat. Loud cheers are expected. No large number of congressmen and senators, regardless of party affiliation, is expected to vote against any agenda calling for billions of dollars for "national defense." Washington's most efective lobbyists will be whooping it up.

Everybody Favors Health

Watch out also for a big "national health program," with appropriations extending social security into the field of medical care. Like national defense, health is popular.

New Dealers appear to feel that if they can't pass any new pet legislation they at least can keep laws already on the books from being repealed. The election backwash left 262 Democrats in the House and 170 Republicans, which suggests that any time the Republicans can get 48 Democratic votes there will be an anti-administration majority. But it will take 120 Democratic votes, added to the full Republican strength, to override a presidential veto.

Anti-administration attacks will be directed mainly at the Wagner Labor act, the Social Security act with its reserve provisions and the WPA.

Aside from reorganization, national defense and health, the administration before Nov. 8 was aiming at a new tax program and anti-monopoly legislation. Plans as to the latter are up in the air, but it's now certain that anything proposed will be advanced in cahoots with Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the joint legislative-executive anti-monopoly committee.

The election results appear to have killed the undistributed profits tax at least for the time being. The long range outlook now is for a hot battle over new taxes, probably resolving itself into a conservative demand for federal sales taxes as against new graduated taxes on incomes.

Nothing is sure as to social security except hubbub. Half the new Republican congressmen and six new Republican senators, as well as two other Republican and five Democratic senators, were elected with Townsendite support. Roosevelt will counter "funny money" pension plans with proposals to extend the present federal act and establish a federal health program, although recommendations to extend old age insurance to agricultural workers probably will be killed by Southern Democratic and farm state Republican congressmen.

Predictions of Republican-Democratic coalitions which will lick the administration on all liberal-conservative issues are met by assertions of administration leaders that

The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(Letters from readers are invited and welcomed. They will be published gladly whenever they do not violate the laws of libel, or the rules of decency and when they do not exceed 400 words in length. Letters criticising individuals, firms or organizations, must be signed by the true name of their writers.

ROSES HIS HOBBY

Dear Plainsman: Your recent news stories concerning the great Northwest were especially interesting to me.

Twenty-five years ago I rode on exhibition at most of the fairs at Cody, Basin, Grey Bull, and attended the Cheyenne frontier celebration. But of course everything seems to have changed, unless it is the location of the mountain peaks, and the course of the rivers.

I have read the column under the caption, The Plainsman, since it began. We have never met. I have no acquaintance in Lubbock except two or three. However, I have resided here for 23 years.

My hobby (since you are on the outlook for it) is the growing of roses. Imagine that! During the past 15 ar 20 years I have rooted most every known rose bush, securing the brand or limb at this time of year. They are very beautiful in the summer months, particularly in the late summer months. Most roses do well here in this climate if properly protected and given care. Suppose I write you an article some day on growing them?

Finis Robertson,
Abernathy.

(Dear Mr. Robertson: Thanks for your letter. I don't believe you'd find a great deal of change in the Wyoming country, aside from more automobiles and tourists and occasional modernistic store fronts. It's still a frontier country, quite pleasing and very interesting to visit. First time you are in Lubbock, drop in and see me. I'd like to make your acquaintance and talk to you about your roses. Very truly yours, The Plainsman.)

trated attempts to escape, witnessed nine beheadings. The final try for freedom successful, he landed seventeen months ago in California after two years of fighting his way by sea and jungle, carrying 30 pounds of manuscript.

"I wanted to be a free man in an honest way, understand?" he said. "I could run away now, but I won't. I love this country. I take no man's job away from him. I just write of things I know."

His deportation, ordered shortly after he reached the United States, has been fixed finally for December 15, and he sees little hope that he will be granted another extension and ultimate liberty.

Delay In Collection Of City's Taxes May Be Further Extended

It will be two or three weeks longer before collections of current city taxes can begin, according to information given this morning by E. C. Young, city assessor-collector.

Collections are supposed to begin Oct. 1, but delay has been due to the fact that the city budget was approved and the next tax rate of $1.05 adopted less than two weeks ago. Tax rolls cannot be completed, Young explained, until the tax rate is set.

Work has progressed far enough, he added, to permit the ordering of tax receipts. The placing of that order, he explained, had to wait the setting of a tax rate.

H. N. Tonner said his overcoat, gloves and pipe had been taken from his automobile at Broadway and Avenue J.

An employe of Dalby Motor Freight lines reported two men whose descriptions he furnished were believed to have stolen from him a pair of trousers, a watch, a quarter dated 1854 and a billfold containing $31.

Police and other South Plains authorities were asked to watch for a black (Ford) coach, license 180-000, believed stolen at San Angelo Sunday.

Mrs. Clara Abney of 2113 Main street reported two lengths of garden hose stolen.

A different air was infused when a property owner protested a "cow lot is in bad shape."

A 52-year-old Lubbock man was being held for Lamb county authorities in connection with investigation into a bad check, said police.

Authorities said a 24-year-old Lubbock man had been found in possession of a coat identified by initials and a Masonic badge as belonging to Roger Ashcraft.

Daily Market Reports

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Aircrafts proved popular in today's stock market but most other groups had difficulty in attracting even mild support.
Business news, on the whole, continued moderately cheerful, and some comfort was found in the apparent easing of foreign tension, but speculative forces generally exhibited little appetite for the buying side pending more conclusive evidence the market has completed the "corrective" movement following the lengthy upturn.
Gains ran to 2 points or so among scattered favorites, but numerous stocks were unchanged and minor losses were plentiful at the close.
Encouragement was derived from the fact selling was exceptionally light throughout. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Markets At A Glance:

NEW YORK:
STOCKS—Mixed; aircrafts improve.
BONDS — Irregular; aviations lively.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21 (AP) — Cotton futures opened 1 to 2 points net higher here today on steady foreign markets and bullish ginning figures.
The census bureau announced that 10,751,758 bales were ginned to Nov. 14, against 14,947,111 bales for the corresponding period last year.
Trade circles had expected somewhat larger figures.
Dec. opened at 8.74, Jan. at 8.62, March at 8.56, May at 8.37, July at 8.17, Oct. at 7.88, Dec. (new) at 7.91, and March (1940) at 7.93 bid.

NEW YORK REPORT
NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 1 lower to 2 higher. Improved Liverpool cables were partly offset by December liquidation and hedge selling. Dec. 8.59; Jan. 8.48, March 8.42, May 8.25, July 8.04, Oct. 7.75.
Trading centered in December liquidation, which was well taken by trade and spot houses, and prices turned steadier.
March advanced from 8.42 to 8.47 shortly after the first half hour, when the list showed net gains of 2 to 5 points.
Ginnings of 10,751,758 bales prior to November 14, as reported by the census bureau today, were estimated as a little more than 90 per cent of the indicated crop.

Schools' Expansion

tion for the grant. Grants are issued, officials said, on condition that architectural plans and contracts are subject to the approval of the PWA.

To Learn Definitely Soon

Officials will know definitely concerning the grant, they said, not later than the latter part of December and perhaps sooner than that, because conditions of the appropriation require that work must be started before Jan. 1.

Indicated plan of the school board was explained as being to wait as long as possible in the hope of obtaining the federal money. If the grant does not become available, officials said further, there will be a minimum of delay in getting buildings under way and in going as far as possible with the money from the bonds. That sum, according to officials, will be enough to relieve over-crowding for a while, but not for very long if population continues to grow during the next few years at any thing like the pace of the past few.

Three Buildings Planned

The building program calls for the erection of three new buildings and for enlargement of several others. While no policy has been announced, indications are that the new buildings will be favored if only the $150,000 from bond sales is available.

Officials assured that ample notice will be given when bids are called for any construtcion program. An incorrect report that the bids had been called and were to be opened last week, they added, caused calls from many prospective bidders for the work.

New Members Are Reported In Legion's Membership Drive

W. B. Richards, regular army sergeant on duty with the R. O. T. C. unit at Texas Technological college, is the first to report results in the annual membership drive of Allen Bros. post of the American Legion here, according to information this morning by H. D. Stanley, adjutant.

Richards turned in four memberships, increasing the number of 1939 paid up members to 119, the adjutant said.

Richards is one of a committee of 30 members appointed by Dr. C. B. Qualia, chairman, to conduct the campaign. To each committeeman a number of prospects have been assigned. Dr. Qualia has requested that committee members make their reports direct to Stanley, who is chief deputy assessor-collector of Lubbock independent school district. The business office is at 1007 Texas avenue.

From Rep. Thomason (D-Tex), senior member of the house military committee, came an indication today that efforts may be made in congress to augment other military branches, so that they would not be overshadowed.

Thomason said he believed an immediate increase of 15,000 or 20,000 army enlisted men was a possibility, to be followed by successive annual additions.

Miss Alice Worley Of Crosbyton Is Treated Here For Injuries

Miss Alice Worley 22, of near Crosbyton entered Lubbock sanitarium about 11:45 o'clock Sunday night for treatment of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Crosbyton earlier that night.

The car in which Miss Worley and three friends were riding ran into a ditch when turning from the "old highway" westward onto the "new highway" leading to Crosbyton, said Miss Worley's sister, Mrs. J. C. Jones of Ralls.

Miss Worley suffered a neck laceration an da laceration over an eye. X-ray examination was being made this morning to determine whether she suffered further injuries.

Otis Jackson of Ralls and one other young man suffered slight injuries but did not require hospitalization.

Miss Worley is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Worley.

TCU Faces Test

Southern Methodist passes its scoring laurels around.

The Christians could win up the conference race Saturday with a triumph. But a Southern Methodist victory would put them in the driver's seat—with only Rice on Dec. 3 as their barrier to the title.

An invitation to one of three bowl games—Rose, Sugar or Cotton—would be about as big a cinch as Seabiscuit in a harness race if TCU comes through Saturday. Notable is the fact that the Pacific coast conference set its meeting date on Rose Bowl matters for the day after the TCU-SMU game. The Sugar Bowl has unofficially voiced its like for a TCU appearance there.

Austin To Draw 40,000

The Thanksgiving day game between the battered forces of Texas, losers of eight straight, and Texas A. and M., a powerhouse that has exploded on occasions, will draw some 40,000 at Austin, but most of the fans will be thinking two days ahead. The Aggies, 27-0 conquerors of Rice their last time out, were favorites—tradition notwithstanding.

Arkansas plays its annual Thanksgiving day game against Tulsa university at Tulsa. The Porkers took a 20-14 beating from Ole Miss last week.

Cites U. S. Discrimination

He added that discrimination "does exist" against Japanese residing in America.

"It exists in the lands and laws of the various states and in the national policy of exclusion.

"Whether Japan will specifically point out these facts in later communications to America is not yet decided."

The spokesman said he did not know why the Japanese reply last Friday did not touch upon censorship of mail and telegrams in China, a point raised by the United States government, "but the reason obviously was one of military necessity."

Of the United States allegation Japanese boats were carrying Japanese merchandise in Chinese waters and refusing American orders, he asserted:

"It is not true that our boats are carrying commercial cargoes. They are being used exclusively for military purposes and transportation of military supplies."

2. Crop loans to cooperators—to put a bottom under prices and create an ever-normal granary.

3. Use of marketing quotas—to control the marketing of surpluses in emergency years when supplies are very large.

"With such a program, I believe that farmers are in a position to gradually overcome the difficulties that surround them now."

Emergencies Are Cited

The undersecretary said the present emergencies in cotton and wheat sprang largely from the surpluses of 1936 and 1937, "the two years in which there were no effective control programs for farmers to use."

The supreme court ruled out the old production adjustment program early in January, 1936, and by 1937 cotton farmers were planting 7,000,000 more acres than had been growing under those programs, he asserted.

Can't Find Markets

The United States is troubled in finding foreign markets for wheat because the other countries which export the grain also had large crops this year, Wilson said. "Last summer farmers harvested about 940 million bushels of wheat—one of the largest crops of the past 20 years, and almost 250 million bushels more than all the people of this country use in a whole year.

"... The tariff doesn't help American wheat farmers now, for we are back on an export basis. Prices here are affected by the drop in the world price. . . . About every third bushel the farmer harvested this year represented wheat nobody wanted to buy. Therefore, the price that he got for his wheat was low."

Cotton Situation No Better

The cotton situation, Wilson said, is no better. The 1937 crop set a record—19 million bales. The new surplus was dumped atop a carryover which already was large. The present carryover is more than 13 million bales.

"That's enough cotton to take care of all our exports and home consumption for a year, even if farmers went for a year without growing a single bale."

Loans Provide Floor

Wilson said the wheat loans, averaging between 50 and 55 cents a bushel in Texas, did not represent "anything like a fair price for wheat," but added "I think most of us realize that the loans are not purchases or attempts to fix prices at a good market price. The loans are for the purpose of putting a floor under prices so that farmers may market their large crop in as orderly a way as possible."

Without the 1938 program and the cotton loan, the price of cotton, Wilson said, "would have been lower, somewhere around 4 or 5 cents a pound, probably. That is the situation in terms of market price without figuring in payments to farmers under the program."

Numerous Social Security Changes To Be Asked

Pension Clamor Still Is Loud

BY W. B. RAGSDALE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 — When it comes to the question of bigger pensions for younger persons, President Roosevelt and the conservatives are likely to speak the same language in the next congress — at least far enough to say a common "no."

Nevertheless, numerous changes in the present social security act will be presented to the new congress on behalf of the administration. They will not be broad enough to still the rising clamor for larger pensions.

Milder Than Townsend Plan

Evidence is accumulating, that the California "$30-Every-Thursday" group and the Colorado pensionites are considering supporting the pension bill drafted by the General Welfare federation. It is milder in several respects than the $200-a-month idea of the Townsendites, who have poured blistering words upon the general welfare group.

The administration proposals, however, are not prompted entirely by the voting strength shown by high pension adherents in the last election. They are a part of the broad general program for social welfare envisioned when the original social security bill was worked out.

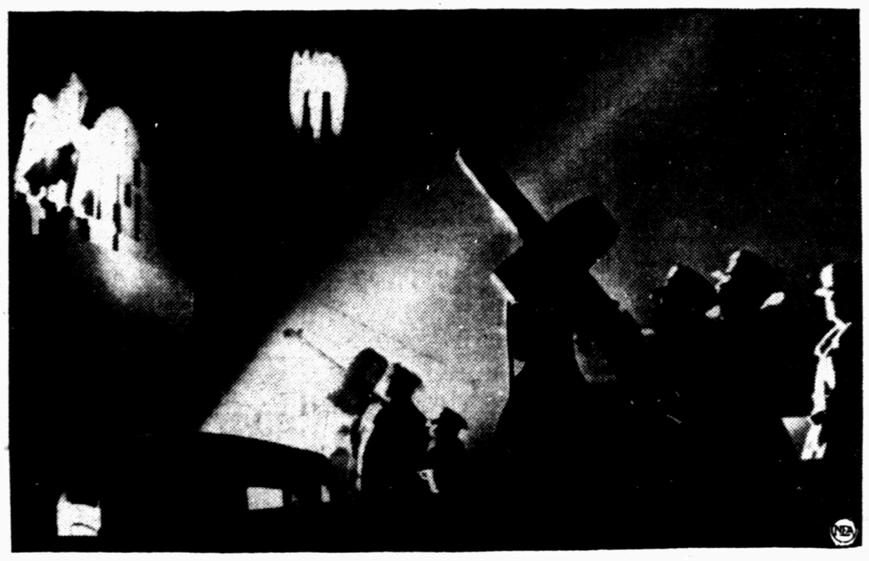

May Add Benefits

Since the chief phases of that program dealt with insurance, the new thoughts that appear likely to find their way into any administration bill are simply added benefits which might be figured into an ordinary insurance policy.

Looking at it from that angle, the next things to be added would be a provision to take care of those who become permanently and totally disabled and to provide for their widows and orphans if the insured worker dies before reaching 65.

Collateral phases of the proposed changes would be to boost the amount that may be paid to those who reach 65 during the next five or ten years. This would cover persons who have not paid the tax premiums long enough to build up a reserve that will yield an annuity big enough to count.

Coke County Farm Youth Boasts Of Excellent Hereford Herd

BRONTE, Nov. 21. (AP)—Five years ago, after a tiring cotton picking season, a 10-year-old Coke county farmer boy took his savings and invested them in a registered Hereford calf. Today this youth, Edward Cumbie, 15, an outstanding Future Farmer of America, has one of the best registered Hereford herds in the county.

Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cumbie, Bronte farm people, is a senior in high school this year and last August attended the training course and leadership school at Shelby, Mich., where around 600 boys from all sections of the United States gathered for the annual meeting. Edward is state secretary of the vocational agriculture group.

Cumbie has been interested in Herefords since a small boy and his herd today includes animals purchased from the Stribling herd at Rotan, the Lewis and Wimberly herds at Sweetwater, the McDonald herd at Amarillo and other herds well known in West Texas.

The young breeder recently was awarded the FFA Lone Star farmer degree, the presentation being based on a complete record of all projects, approved both by the area and state committee, and on his bank account which is reflected in his Hereford investment.

EMPLOYE IS INJURED

SPUR — Edward Jackson, Spur Creamery Co. employe, was seriously injured in a fall at the company's warehouse when he was thrown by the bull wheel of an amonia pump. His skull was fractured, but his condition is not serious, doctors said.

Approximately 6,000 Head Of Sheep On Feed At Levelland

(By Staff Correspondent)

LEVELLAND, Nov. 21.—Reed and Snyder and W. H. Climp of Menard have on feed here in the Reed Snyder pens approximately 6,000 head of sheep.

Trench silos here have been filled and will be opened as soon as the ensilage is ready. All of the silos have been filled.

It is planned to feed the animals for about 100 days before shipping to market. Present plans are to ship late in January or early February.

Bundles and ensilage will be fed. Glimp is one of the well known sheep feeders of West Texas and has been associated with Fred Snyder as a feeder for several years.

CLUB BOY SELLS CALF

SPUR, Nov. 21—Jesse Joe Powell, son of J. T. Powell of Afton, who had a baby beef as a 4-H club project, sold the animal at a recent auction sale here.

W. R. Lewis, meat market manager, offered $9 a hundred pounds for the animal and after the sale, paid the owner $9.50 a hundred. Lewis announced 10 per cent of the proceeds of the meat sale would go to Boy Scout work here.

Farmer Living Near Ralls Says Terracing Of Farm Land Pays

RALLS, Nov. 21—C. O. Southward, who lives a few miles east of here, says terracing pays.

On terraced cotton land the 1938 crop produced 301 pounds of lint cotton, on land Southward owns, while on rented land adjoining, farmed on the contour, the yield was 244 pounds.

Southward estimates the increase at 8 cents a pound, netted him an additional $4.56 an acre.

Two neighboring farms had yields of 127 and 131 pounds of lint per acre, on straight rowed land.

WHITEFACE — The Whiteface schools resumed Monday after being closed for four weeks. Closing was for cotton picking.

Plains Man Expects To Profit From Flock Of 125 Turkeys

PLAINS, Nov. 21 — Sherman Henard, who lives on a ranch northwest of town, has 125 turkeys that he expects to net him a good sum. The birds weigh over 15 pounds, average.

Henard employs a man to herd the flock. The birds kept the place fairly free from grasshoppers and insects. Grain is being used to fatten the flock.

Total Of 19,318 Acres Of Wheat Allotted Lamb County Farmers

AMHERST, Nov. 21.—Lamb county wheat growers have been allocated 19,318 acres of wheat for planting for the 1939 crop, Don F. Turner, county agent, announced.

This acreage represents 59.1 per cent of the 5-year average acreage.

PULLET REAL MOTHER

MORTON—Mrs. Boyd Willis, living in the western part of town, has a buff Wyandotte pullet that had a brood of its own at a little over eight months. Last February a hen hatched out some chicks including the Wyandotte. She began to lay eggs a little early and kept it up until in October, when she suddenly stopped. Mrs. Willis supplied the pullet with eggs and a nest and in due time she hatched her brood.

Take Calotabs to Help Nature Throw off Colds

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of any virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which may be needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical: only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

N. Y. Tests Prove Women Can Lose FAT

Ask Your Doctor If It Isn't Good Way. Read EVERY Word —

NEW YORK, N. Y.: A test conducted by a prominent N. Y. physician and a nationally known newspaper woman proved there is a harmless, effective way to lose fat, if you'll only STICK TO IT and give it a fair trial.

In 40 days, 25 women lost a total of 286 lbs. EVERY woman lost fat—the average loss per woman being 11½ lbs. The women first of all ate sensibly. And for proper functioning they took a little daily dose of Kruschen Salts. If you have the slightest doubt about this Plan just ask your own doctor about its safety and merit.

And this is important to know:

Kruschen is not just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active mineral salts (see on box) which, when dissolved in water, make a healthful mineral drink similar to the waters of famous European Spas where wealthy fat women have gone for years.

Here's the Kruschen Plan: Just take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning for better functioning. Go light on fatty foods and sweets—eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and green vegetables. Plan to do this faithfully for 28 days and see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. A jar costs but a few cents and makes 5 gallons of a most highly efficient mineral health water.
